Storms Prowl Plains

Winds Flail Panhandle

By The Associated Press

Storms loaded with riddling hail loosed flood-triggering deluges in South Texas, while hurricane force winds and at least one tornado assailed the Panhandle late Sunday.

Violent weather continued into today in some areas, spreading into the South Plains and across parts of North and Central Texas in dwindling showers. There also were light showers over the plains along the lower and middle Texas coast.

Water Lapping Stores

Up to 5 inches of rain by unofficial measurement filled streets in Del Rio near the Mexican border and sent water lapping into stores. Hail the size of a man's fist smashed windows in a number of homes.

From Ciudad Acuna, in Mexico across the Rio Grande from Del Rio came word from individual sources of at least three deaths and major damage to 100 homes in the same mighty storm. Authorities were unable to confirm these reports at once.

Ranch Lands Drenched

Deep water overflowed US 277 from Del Rio to Ciudad Acuna as the Weather Bureau gauged 3.76 inches of rain officially. Peace officers manned wreckers to rescue about 40 stranded cars.

Similarly heavy rains drenched thirsty ranch ranch lands from Corpus Christi past Carrizo Springs and into the Southwest Texas hill country.

In the Panhandle state police reported winds up to 100 miles per hour ripped through the Amarillo and Borger areas, inflicting widespread property damage with help from hail as big as baseballs.

Lines Knocked Down

One of the hardest hit areas was around the government's Pantex Ordnance Plant 10 miles northeast of Amarillo, where power lines were snapped. Hail pounded viciously also at buildings near Lake Tangelwood southeast of Amarillo.

Losses from the ripping winds and somewhat lighter hail at Borger were estimated by police at a minimum of $10,000. Several roofs were ripped off and a number of power lines were knocked down. A small plane was knocked over at the airport.

Picnickers Marooned

In Palo Duro Canyon southeast of Amarillo, a sudden rise flashed downstream and the high water temporarily marooned holiday picnickers and others in 380 cars. Many of the motorists drove there to see an outdoor pageant.

Winds twisting like a tornado levelled several barns about 20 miles northeast of Amarillo and knocked down five of Amarillo station KGNC's radio and television broadcast towers.

Thunderstorm Warnings

As the turbulence moved on toward the east into Oklahoma and North Texas, severe thunderstorm warnings went up for the Childress, Vernon, Wichita Falls and several other areas but no major damage was reported.

Winds up to 54 m.p.h. flailed Wichita Falls and .90 inch of rain fell before midnight.

About the same time the boiling turbulence was believed to have caused a private plane crash which killed three persons east of Electra, which is 27 miles northwest of Wichita Falls.

Fund Surges Ahead

The High School Bible Class Fund took a healthy surge forward over the weekend, reaching $884. Now if Labor Day doldrums don't set in, the fund may experience a good week.

One Sunday school class—the Philathea of First Methodist—reported in, as in former years, and others are expected to follow. Other long-time supporters were included in the list of donors. You are urged to send or bring your gift to The Herald as soon as possible, for time is short.

Egypt's Army Chief, Fifty Others Jailed

CAIRO (AP) — Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer, Egypt's former vice president and army commander, is under arrest and headed for court-martial along with 50 other army officers accused of plotting against President Gamal Abdel Nasser, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram confirmed today.

Amer, 47, helped overthrow King Farouk in 1952 and had been Nasser's closest associate for years.

Former Defense Minister Shams Badran was among those arrested, the newspaper said in confirming rumors that the arrests were made Aug. 25. No date for the military trials was given.

FORCES ROUTED

Al Ahram indicated all those arrested had been fired from the army after Egyptian forces were routed by Israeli troops in the Sinai Desert in the June 5-10 war. It added that Amer was deprived of both the vice presidency and the army command, although at the time it was officially stated that he resigned.

Amer insisted that he should be reinstated to both posts, Al Ahram said, whereas Nasser was prepared to reinstate him only to the vice presidency. Amer was replaced as army commander by Lt. Gen. Mohamed Fawzi on June 11.

TITO REBUFFED

Al Ahram reported that Amer had sheltered wanted senior officers at his villa and was plotting to force Nasser to reinstate his top followers and release all army and air force officers under arrest since the Egyptian defeat. Amer is confined to his villa in the Cairo suburb of Giza.

Meanwhile, in Jerusalem Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban rejected the Middle East peace plan proposed by Yugoslavia's President Tito. The plan, submitted to President Johnson and other Western leaders, is said to propose that Israeli troops withdraw from occupied Arab soil and that the major powers guarantee the borders Israel had before the June war.

WAR RELIEF

Eban complained that Tito did not consult Israel before completing the plan and said it was aimed "at saving the Arab states from disaster."

Israel's Cabinet decided that 6,500 Jordanian refugees who registered for repatriation to their homeland on the west bank of the Jordan River but missed the deadline for crossing will be allowed to return home. New crossings might begin in mid-September, reliable Israeli sources said. Only 14,056 of an estimated 170,000-200,000 refugees were repatriated by the Aug. 31 deadline.

In Amman, the Jordanian capital, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said the United States has contributed more than $8 million to relief of war victims and plans to provide nearly $5 million a year from now on.

Holiday Toll Due To Jump

CHICAGO (AP) — The Labor Day weekend death toll was lower than expected as the four-day holiday entered its final day today. But National Safety Council officials feared that homeward-bound traffic on the final day would cause the death tabulation to skyrocket.

Some 431 persons were dead at 11 a.m. today as the result of auto accidents.

The National Safety Council had predicted that 560 to 600 persons would die in traffic accidents over the holiday.

The record for long holiday traffic deaths was set last Fourth of July when 732 persons died. For comparison, The Associated Press found that 533 highway deaths occurred during a nonholiday four-day weekend period from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 18, to midnight Monday, Aug. 21.

The safety council advised motorists Sunday to begin their homeward journeys early to prevent the last-minute traffic jams and rushes that the council fears would cause the traffic death toll to rise.

Sunday the death toll jumped from 327 persons at 6 p.m. to 372 at midnight. But the council hoped even with this increase the final figure would still be below par for a four-day weekend.

As the weekend went into its fourth day, 18 persons were killed by drowning and 9 persons died in boating accidents since the holiday began.

10 Civilian Slates Slice Vote Margin

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's military ticket won the presidential election Sunday as expected, but 10 civilian slates were holding Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky to only a third of the vote as the count neared completion.

Thieu, the soft - spoken, 44-year-old lieutenant general who has shared power for the past two years with Air Marshal Ky, had said he would be satisfied with 40 per cent of the vote.

Thieu's flamboyant vice presidential running mate, who will be 37 next Saturday, had expressed confidence that the military ticket would get more votes than all the civilians combined.

PAUSE PROPOSED

Thieu and all the civilians except one campaigned for new peace overtures toward Hanoi. Thieu proposed a bombing pause of a week or perhaps longer, after consultation with the United States, but any such moves were not expected until at least several weeks after Thieu is formally installed, probably in October.

Thieu's strongest opponent proved to be the most outspoken pleader for peace and critic of the military regime, Truong Dinh Dzu, a dynamic 50-year-old lawyer who had been expected to do no better than fourth or fifth.

FRAUD CHARGES

Dzu charged the election of Thieu and Ky was a fraud. He said he would present his allegations to the Constituent Assembly Friday and demand that it declare the voting invalid.

The two elder statesmen in the race—ex-Premier Tran Van Huong, 64, and the speaker of the Constitutional Assembly, Phan Khac Suu, 62—also collected strong support and were running third and fourth.

Despite Communist assaults and terrorism throughout the nation, about 4.8 million of the 5.8 million registered voters cast ballots. About 2 million others of voting age could not vote because they live in areas dominated by the Viet Cong.

TERROR TOLL

The grim toll of Red terror was still being added up, but at least 38 persons were killed on election weekend, another 300 were kidnaped and at least 135 were wounded.

While the government's organization of the elections was generally commended by international observers from 24 nations, including a blue-ribbon delegation of 22 Americans sent by President Johnson, the vote counting lagged badly and caused raised eyebrows.

Plane Crash Kills Three

ELECTRA, Tex. (AP) — A student pilot from Jerusalem, a young woman and a small boy died when their private plane crashed and burned late Sunday night.

Killed were Jawdat Saloh Dajani, 28, a Jordanian citizen; Mrs. Saundra Steinhilder, 22, employed by Melody Homes Manufacturing Co., Fort Worth; and her son, Steve, 17 months.

They were en route from Amarillo back to Fort Worth in a Piper Cherokee owned by the Southwest School of Aviation where the flier was in training.

Associates said Dajani came to this country a year ago, obtained his private pilot's license and was in training to become a commercial pilot.

The plane cracked up 3 miles east of Electra in North Central Texas about 11 p.m. during a thunderstorm which packed winds up to 55 miles an hour.

Residents of the crash area reported the craft appeared to circle twice before going down at a spot near an amusement park called Cowpoke City. More than an inch of rain fell within the hour after the crash.

Dzu Claims Election Was A Fraud

Truong Dinh Dzu, 50-year-old lawyer who garnered the second largest presidential total in yesterday's South Vietnam election, holds an impromptu news conference on steps of the National Assembly building in Saigon today. Texas Solons Face Giant Tax Measure

AUSTIN (AP) — The special legislative session will be looking at a $470 million general appropriation bill and $192.9 million tax bill, the Legislative Budget Board staff estimated today.

The tax bill is close to the $200 million guesses circulated around the Capitol since the legislature adjourned without passing a revenue measure.

Speaker Ben Barnes earlier had voiced hope that the legislature could get by with a tax bill of between $100 million and $150 million for the fiscal year starting Sept. 1, 1969.

Tom Keel, director of the board's staff, said the appropriation estimate was "hazardous with a lot of guess work involved."

'RED' ACCOUNT

The figures, prepared in cooperation with the state comptroller, indicate the present fiscal year, which began Friday, will end with a $23.3 million cash deficit in the general revenue fund.

This would be the first time in several years that the fund —Texas' chief government checking account—has fallen in the red.

The fund's unencumbered cash balance Sept. 1 was $94.1 million.

Texas' Constitution requires that all appropriations balance with expected revenue, and the comptroller is charged with certifying that budgets are balanced.

SPENDING SPIRALS

The legislature this year authorized the comptroller to consider the cash balance with the available school fund in certifying the appropriation bill. Jim Wilson, head of the comptroller's research division, said also that spending out of appropriations for last year "was greater than anticipated by $9 or $10 million."

"I think it might be pretty safe to assume that if this revenue figure is correct, we would hope the special session would not spend $470 million and need $192 million in taxes," said Barnes, vice chairman of the board.

SPECIAL SESSION

The board, headed by Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, prepares a state budget which is introduced as the general appropriation bill.

"The staff should be looking for ways to cut the $470 million if this is still the revenue picture when the governor calls the special session," Barnes said.

At Gov. John Connally's urging, the legislature this year dropped its historic pattern of budgeting for two years at a time and appropriated funds for only the present fiscal year. Connally said he would call a special session to vote funds — and taxes — for state government operations in the year beginning Sept. 1, 1968. Connally says he has not decided when to call the session, but most indications are it will be either in January or next summer.

$452 MILLION

Keel said the $470 million appropriation figure was based partly on the fiscal 1969 funds provided in the two-year bill the board wrote earlier this year.

"We have estimated that you would meet at mid-1968 and that you would want to update the enrollment estimates at the colleges, universities and junior colleges," he said.

The current one-year appropriation bill totals $452.8 million from general revenue.

The governor usually recommends more spending than the Budget Board.

The staff estimate of next year's appropriation bill includes a $6 million rise in funds for public health, hospitals, special schools and youth council institutions; a $5.6 million drop in funds for administrative departments; a $15.8 million increase in education and a $1 million increase for the legislature.

Milwaukee Demonstrators Schedule More Marching

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — About 1,000 persons, mostly young Negroes, continued the longest and largest civil rights demonstration in Milwaukee history today.

They were led by a white Roman Catholic priest, the Rev. James E. Groppi, on a seven-mile march through 81 blocks in a demonstration in support of open housing.

The rallies and marches, which began a week ago, drew 1,500 persons Sunday. They were recessed after today's long march but were scheduled to resume later in the day.

'BLACK POWER'

Police did not interfere with the marchers despite noisy shouts of "Black Power" and isolated instances of rock throwing.

A procession of cars, their horns honking, accompanied the marchers just as they had Sunday on a 10-mile trek that took the demonstrators from the predominantly Negro Inner Core to downtown and back.

"Burn, baby, burn," some of the marchers yelled as a fire-truck pulled out of a fire house along the route today. More than 50 fires were reported in the Inner Core during the weekend.

JEERING WHITES

Two major rallies were held Sunday, one in an Inner Core park and the other inside St. Boniface church which was filled to capacity for two hours of songs, "Black Power" chants and speeches with a strong anti-white flavor. Negro comedian Dick Gregory and officials of the Congress of Racial Equality spoke at the rallies as did Father Groppi.

The demonstrations began last Monday when the youth council marched on the predominantly Polish-American South Side. On both Monday and Tuesday night the council met opposition from thousands of jeering, rock-throwing whites.

Body Of Florida Farmer Recovered From Sinkhole

TRENTON, Fla. (AP) — The body of a young farmer was found today in a foul-smelling lime sinkhole by 25 searchers who had dug, dredged and blasted in the hole for two weeks.

The weary workers caught a glimpse of the body of Cecil Davis, 20, Sunday night buried in sand.

But a flash thunderstorm flooded an underground creek which runs through the hole and the men watched helplessly as the body was covered again by the torrent.

It was finally recovered from three feet of water 67 feet below ground level.

Searchers had worked 24-hours a day at the hole since Aug. 19, five days after Davis disappeared with his horse. Hoofprints led to the edge.

Lime sinks, common in north and central Florida, are caused by the collapse of underground limestone formations. A number of homes are damaged or destroyed each year when sinkholes open under them.

U.S. Officials Privately Hail Giant Turnout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials privately acclaimed the size of the Vietnam election turnout today as a victory over the Communists and as a base for broad support of a constitutional government in Saigon.

While Capitol Hill was providing some election comment—mostly favorable—President Johnson and his top aides kept a public silence as returns rolled in with winning margins for the military slate headed by Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

COMMIE DEFEAT

Johnson spent his Labor Day weekend at the White House where he had fast access to the results from Saigon. Aides said they did not know if or when the President would issue a statement on the outcome.

From the administration's standpoint, however, the 83 per cent turnout of registered voters exceeded Washington expectations and signified a resounding popular defeat for the Communist campaign to torpedo the election.

FEWER PROBLEMS

U.S. officials had figured the severe wave of Viet Cong terrorism, plus shorter voting hours this year than last, would cut voter turnout to less than the 80.8 per cent who cast ballots in last September's constituent assembly elections. In the last American presidential election in 1964, about 61 per cent of the registered voters turned out.

The Thieu-Ky victory, which was expected here, raises fewer problems of U.S. relationships with the next government than if a brand new civilian leadership were to take over in Saigon.

At the same time Washington authorities hope that Thieu-Ky, apparent winners by a wide margin over any single civilian ticket but still garnering less than half the vote, will bring into the government civilians representing a wide segment of the population.

POPULAR SUPPORT

Saigon maneuvering over who will stand where with respect to the new government and a carry-over of election-rigging and other campaign charges are among the sore spots expected by U.S. officials in the coming weeks. They think it may be a month before the new government is formed.

But what is rated as the biggest plus of all here is the fact that the elections took place, thus (1) giving a foundation of legitimacy to the Saigon regime which the Reds have said does not represent the South Vietnamese people and (2) laying grounds for "greater popular support of the government.

Guns Booming Across Suez

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Heavy firing broke out at the southern end of the uneasy Suez Canal cease-fire line today.

An artillery duel between Israeli and Egyptian guns boomed across the waterway, an Israeli army spokesman announced.

Egyptian guns opened up five times on Israeli forces before U.N. observers arranged a ceas fire, he reported.

It was the first reported incident since Aug. 26 when cross-canal shooting took place near Ismailia and sharpshooting Israeli gunners downed an Egyptian Sukhoi-7 at Bir Gafgafa in central Sinai.

No Israeli casualties were reported.

The first clash came at 10:30 a.m. when Egyptian guns opposite Israeli positions at Port Taufiq, the southernmost town on the canal, fired on two Israeli patrol boats in the Bay of Suez, the spokesman said. Neither was reported hit.

An hour-long small arms fight broke out at 12:45 p.m. The spokesman said Egyptian artillery opened up again in the Port Taufiq area and were silenced by Israeli fire.

UAW, Ford Deadlocked; Strike Looms

DETROIT (AP) — The federal government's No. 1 mediator joined Ford Motor Co. and United Auto Workers negotiators at the bargaining table today as the deadline for a strike drew near.

With less than three days to go until the Wednesday midnight strike deadline, the two sides remained deadlocked in negotiations over a new contract for some 160,000 UAW members on Ford's payroll.

After seven hours of apparently fruitless bargaining Sunday, UAW President Walter Reuther announced that William Simkin, director of the U.S. Mediation and Conciliation Service, would sit in on the talks as an observer.

STRIKE STRATEGY

Reuther said Ford joined the union in extending the invitation to Simkin.

Just what Simkin's role will be was not made clear but Reuther said he did not regard the step as government intervention in the negotiations.

Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president for labor relations, said he "found nothing to nourish my inherent optimism" in Sunday's talks, and Reuther declared that there was still time to avert a strike but it will require "a high measure of will which at present is not there."

The UAW strike strategy would be to continue on the job at Ford's chief competitors among the automotive big three — General Motors and Chrysler—while shutting down Ford assembly lines just as 1968 models are scheduled to appear in showrooms.

ANNUAL INCOME

James Rooney, financial secretary of UAW Local 600, representing some 33,000 workers, said both the union and the company have drawn up plans for an expected strike Thursday at Ford's giant River Rouge plant.

Rooney said union planning for the walkout was completed Sunday at a meeting of staff members of the local. It is presumed that the shutdown would last six to 10 weeks, he said.

Sunday's negotiations touched on the union's demands for a guaranteed annual income, plant working conditions, pensions, and wage increases tied to the increase in worker productivity or company profitability.

No One Leaves Show Jobless

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "What's My Line," after more than 17 years on CBS, departed Sunday night with style and class. It was sad to see it go.

Mark Goodson, one of the producers appeared briefly at the show's end and summed up the average Sunday night viewer's feelings.

"We've been around so long we're a sort of institution," he said. "People may not have watched us every week, but they knew we were there."

We did, too, and many a night when other fare palled, we flipped the dial to the show, certain of a few laughs, a celebrity trying to disguise his voice, some fashion pointers from the women panelists and — above all — a lot of wisecracks. There were, too, the good manners and good humor of the host, John Daly and regular panelists Arlene Francis and Bennett Cerf.

SLIM CLUES

Over the years and through all the summers when other programs were repeating shows, "What's My Line" stayed live most of the time and brought us with unflagging enthusiasm a mixed bag of occupations, from worm farmers to lady bronco busters. The skill of the panel at guessing lines was evident in the last show when the four veterans — Miss Francis, Cerf, actor Martin Gabel and Steve Allen — managed to nail down, on the basis of slim clues, the occupations of two of the three returning guests who were on the premiere program in February, 1950. They were a diaper manufacturer and a veterinarian. The show really didn't change much over the years.

GAG MISFIRES

A gag that misfired mildly — no one came close to guessing his line — was the appearance of a man from the state employment office. No one leaves the show in need of a job — Miss Francis goes to London for some television drama, Daly becomes head of the Voice of America and Cerf remains head of a major book publishing company. On the Sunday nights to come we will probably miss them more than they miss us. After all, from now on, they won't be there if we need them.

Army Joins Offensive Against Forest Flames

By The Associated Press

The U.S. Army and Forest Service workers are laying a 429-foot pontoon bridge across the Kootenai River in north Idaho in an effort to head off a roaring forest fire in the northwest.

Sunday a blaze, some 38 miles long and covering 78,000 acres stopped about 10 miles south of the Canadian border as winds shifted and turned it back into already burned areas.

TIMBER DESTROYED

Pockets of missed timber were quickly destroyed.

The fire had come within three miles of Bonners Ferry, Idaho, a community of 2,000 persons, when the strong winds changed its direction.

The bridge will be used to aid mobilization in the fire fighting work, supplementing cross-river traffic which now is handled by a sidewheel ferry boat.

Airplanes from Ft. Collins, Colo., began landing Sunday afternoon at Coeur D'Alene, Idaho with sections of the bridge. More sections will then be trucked north to near Porthill, Idaho.

HOT DAYS FORECAST

The Forest Service has ordered 1,900 experienced fire fighters from around the country into the Idaho Panhandle to bolster a force of 1,500 men already on fire lines.

The weather forecast throughout the Northwest called for continued dry, hot days with gusty winds. Twenty miles west of the north Idaho fire in Sundance Mountain area is the 15,400-acre Grapper Peak fire, which is burning uncontrolled between Priest Lake and the Idaho-Canada border. Some 2,200 men were assigned to battle it.

NEW LIFE

Several fires broke out again in the northwest after being brought under control last week. Two fires roared into new life in Montana. An additional 1,000 acres were destroyed in Glacier National Park before crews arrived. And in the Selway-Bitterroot wilderness area west of Darby, Mont. a fire has covered 2,900 acres.

In Oregon, two fires in the Willamette Forest east of Salem—the Eagle Rock fire and the Devils Ridge fire—had covered a total of 1,175 acres in hard-to-get-to terrain. They were being trailed by hand and were still burning out of control Sunday night.

Poland, N. Viet Complete Pact

Plane Crackups Swelling Count

By The Associated Press

Texas' violent death toll kept right on mounting today as the extended Labor Day weekend drew toward a close.

The latest in a series of airplane crashes and an outbreak of homicides helped to swell the grim count, and rain storms multiplied traffic hazards in many sections.

At a late hour the figure tabulated by The Associated Press stood at 53 fatalities, including 24 on the state's streets and highways. The count began at 6 p.m. Friday and continues through today until midnight.

THREE DIE

A thunderstorm packing winds up to 55 miles per hour apparently contributed to the crackup of a private plane 3 miles east of Electra in Northwest Texas about 11 p.m. Sunday.

Three persons died as the Piper Cherokee from the Southwest School of Aviation at Fort Worth's Meacham Field plowed into a brushy pasture and burned. It was en route from Amarillo back to Fort Worth.

JORDANIAN PILOT

The Federal Aviation Agency identified the dead pilot as Jawdat Saleh Dajani, a Jordanian citizen who had been living in this country. Names of a woman and small child killed with him were not determined at once.

Three more deaths occurred late Sunday night when a Southern Pacific freight train locomotive hit a car 1.8 miles west of Austin on FM 969. The crash killed Shirley Meyer, 24, Rt. 1, Austin; her son Randall, 3, and daughter Susan, 5. Jimmy Meyer, 25, the husband and father, suffered a broken jaw and 18-month-old daughter Michelle compound fractures of both legs.

COPTER CRASHES

Rainy weather was blamed in part for two other aircraft crashes early Saturday — another Piper Cherokee near Yoakum and an Army helicopter outside San Antonio. Four persons died in each of those crashes.

The helicopter went down as it started back to Ft. Hood in Central Texas after taking an injured man to a military hospital. Those aboard were WO James G. Warren, 24, of Gadsden, Ala., an Army pilot stationed at Ft. Hood; WO Conny C. Cook, 28, of Killeen; Spec. 4 Robert E. Murphy of Shreveport, La., and a man whose name was withheld.

STABBED TO DEATH

Victims killed in the private plane four miles north of Yoakum in South Texas, all from Ft. Wolters in North Texas, were 2nd Lt. Simpson Ray, 23, and his wife Susan, 19, both of Houston; 2nd Lt. Michael J. Radulovich and 2nd Lt. John G. Popovich, 25.

Kathryn Wheless, 8, of Houston, was killed Sunday when she fell from a trailer being pulled by a pickup truck. The accident happened 3.2 miles east of Calvert in Robertson County.

Cherry Caldwell King, 22, of Palestine, was killed Sunday in a one-car smashup 5.5 miles north of Palestine on Farm 321.

Chester Lee Morris, 28, of Houston, died Sunday of head injuries received Saturday night at the hands of an unknown attacker.

Fidencio Lizcano Jr., 54, of Houston, was stabbed to death early Sunday at his daughter's engagement party.

Speedy Signing Of Panama Canal Pacts Ruled Out

PANAMA (AP) — Early signing of new Panama Canal treaties seems to be ruled out by President Marco A. Robles' announcement that Panamanian negotiators will meet again with U.S. officials to rework the three drafts.

Panama and the United States announced agreement on English-language drafts in June, but before Panama's National Council of Foreign Relations could review the drafts, Robles' political opponents secured copies and attacked them.

Put on the defensive, the governmental advisory body raised enough objections to the drafts to make new negotiations necessary. Robles did not say when these would begin.

The council has objected to the 5-4 U.S. majority on the joint board to control the canal, the scope of military base rights granted to the United States and a 20-year option granted to the United States for building a sea-level canal with no compensation to Panama for the option.

Officers Wound Accused Burglar

TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — Central Texas officers Sunday wounded and captured Pvt. Wade M. Gambill, of Freeport, a 19-year-old accused burglar who escaped from the Bell County jail Friday.

Texas Highway Patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and officers from three nearby communities caught Gambill after he was wounded by a shotgun blast. Bambill ran out of jail Friday. He had geen held on charges of burglary, assault with intent to murder and driving a car without the owner's consent.

The Atom In Space

—By DR. LEONARD REIFFEL

One of the obvious facts to come out of recent hearings before Congressional committees is the growing importance of atomic energy to our space program. The atom is, or can be, used for a number of purposes in space. Among the most important is the use of atomic power to push a payload further into space or boost heavier payloads into Earth-orbit. Another important use of the atom in space is in electric power production.

Through fiscal 1967, over $1 billion has been put into nuclear rocket propulsion. It's been estimated by NASA and the Atomic Energy Commission that another $1 billion will be spent in developing a flight-ready nuclear rocket engine. This engine will produce about a quarter million pounds of thrust and would really soup up our Saturn rockets, as far as payload carrying capacity is concerned. Beyond the additional billion dollars needed to get a flight-ready engine, we'll also have to invest about $500 million for the development of the flight stage — the tankage, structure, pumps, and other paraphernalia that work with the engine in flight.

We can have a nuclear stage ready for missions around 1977 of 1978, in time for heavy trucking jobs to the moon or for sending heavy payloads out to Mars and beyond.

Since nuclear propulsion is a big, relatively new undertaking, the question of cooperation between the Russians and Americans arises. There is at least the possibility that both countries are not so committed to hardware (as they are with chemical boosters) that there might not be a chance of getting them together before they set the standards and all of the design criteria for their nuclear stages.

NASA officials, queried by Congress on such a possibility, can best be described as open-minded but not optimistic. The reason is simply that nuclear space technology has too many other uses—not all of them peaceful.

The second great use for nuclear energy in space will be as a supplier of electricity. There are no electric wall plugs in orbit, but we have been able to get a few hundred watts or so rather conveniently by means of solar cells, batteries or fuel cells. However, when we start talking about putting a television transmitter suitable for direct transmission to home receivers into orbit, the power requirements go up considerably. For such applications, we need power plants in space able to deliver, say, 25 to 50 kilowatts of electrical power.

To fill this need, the United States is well into the development of the so-called SNAP-8 — a power reactor for orbital use. SNAP-8 is going to cost something like $500 million to $1 billion and will be ready some time in the 1970's. The big hooker that makes the SNAP-8 so expensive is that it must operate for about 10,000 hours without any breakdown or repair.

Federal Provisions For Texas Lakes Protested

AUSTIN (AP)— The Texas Water Development Board has approved a contract for construction of the Sulphur River Cooper Dam and Reservoir in Northeast Texas by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

But the contract, approved Friday, does not contain the provision the Engineers have said must be in it: allocation of 63,000 acre-feet of water each year from Lake Texarkana to help control water pollution in the Red River. The Sulphur, is a tributary of the Red. An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons.

The contract was recommended by the board's staff, which also advised the board it may want to seek Congressional withdrawal of authority for the federal project and go it alone in order to avoid "federal domination" in the disposition of Texas water.

The staff said the "water quality" requirement is a "misapplication" of federal statutes.

Also on staff recommendation, the board voted to immediately inform President Johnson, all Texas Congressmen and appropriate state officials that the state faces "the potential permanent loss of 192,000 acre-feet" from the lower Red River below Lake Texoma and "the potential ultimate loss of from 1.5 million to 2 million acre-feet" from all Texas waters to federal jurisdiction if the federal interpretation is not changed.

"Faced with an obvious shortage of Texas water for state allocation and appropriation, the loss from state jurisdiction of this volume of water would invalidate any planned major redistribution of the state's surface water supply," the staff report said.

Baltic Diplomats Still Operating In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A handful of Baltic diplomats whose homelands were swallowed behind the Iron Curtain more than a quarter century ago still are doing business in the United States.

They are the envoys from Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia—states over-run by the Soviet Union in 1940 while Nazi Germany was marching against the West.

To this day the U.S. government refuses to recognize the Soviet annexation of the Baltic lands, and both the executive branch and Congress periodically encourage the Baltic missions here to keep their flags flying.

As a result, the Baltic diplomatic establishments carry on with the full protocol rights accorded other foreign government representatives in the United States—even though they have in fact no foreign government to represent.

Headquartered in Washington are the Lativan legation, run by Dr. Arnolds Spekke, accredited as minister plenipotentiary and charge d'affairs since 1954, and the Lithuanian legation headed by Joseph Kajeckas, charge d'affairs since 1957.

Estonia's combination legation-consulate in New York City is operated by acting Consul General Ernst Jaakson.

A legation is a foreign mission with a diplomatic rank just below that of an embassy. Lithuania also has consulates in Chicago and New York.

The Baltic missions can keep going indefinitely—at a modest level— on income from funds which their home governments had in the United States at the time of the Soviet takeover. The State Department supervises their expenditures to guard against extravagencies.

And with sizable constituencies of Baltic minorities scattered about the United States, the envoys report they have considerable work to do even though their duties no longer include normal diplomatic traffic with home foreign ministries.

"We're doing all the obligations of legations except trade," said Dr. Spekke in an interview.

Spekke listed translation of documents for his countrymen here, estate matters and publication and information work among his legation's principal activities.

Spekke—courtly, white-haired and goateed—and his colleagues often are called on for speechmaking or attendance at ceremonies involving Baltic groups.

Kajeckas, who has been in the Lithuanian diplomatic service since 1929, lists Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Boston as main centers of Lithuanian settlement in the United States.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the 1960 count showed 6,972 foreign-born Latvians in this country, along with 2,378 Estonians and 6,594 Lithuanians.

The Census Bureau estimates at 892,000 the total Baltic-derivitive population in the United States.

On the question of whether their nations ever will regain independence, the envoys keep a chins-up attitude, claiming the tide of history is on their side.

Europe Still Has Problem Of Crude Oil

WASHINTON (AP) A U. S. official says the decision by Arab nations to lift their embargo on the shipment of oil to the West will ease but not solve European oil problems growing out of the Middle East crisis.

So long as the Suez Canal is closed, said Cordell Moore, assistant secretary of the Interior, much Arab oil still must make the long haul around South Africa's Cape of Good Hope.

"But it's a favorable development," said Moore, who is in charge of U.S. efforts to make sure that Western allies get oil.

"It's a ray of sunshine, let's say. It doesn't eliminate all the problems. But it eases the transportation problem considerably.

TRANSPORTATION

"The oil is moving now. But all of it for Great Britain has to come from Venezuela, Indonesia and Iran. Now Britain can go to the Arab nations. That will eliminate some of the cross hauls.

"But over-all, I'd say the transportation problem is still with us. They still have to go around the Cape of Good Hope."

Another source said the Arab action at the Khartoum meeting was a recognition that the embargoes simply haven't worked.

The Arab countries in the Middle East and North Africa have been shipping oil to Europe except for the first two weeks after the Arab-Israeli war broke out June 5.

They embargoed shipments to Britain, West Germany and the United States.

INCREASE IN U.S.

The United States took care of its needs by increasing domestic production. Less than three per cent of its imported oil ordinarily comes from Arab producers.

Non-Arab producers have been supplying Britain and West Germany. The United States has been shipping close to 200,000 barrels a day to Europe, mostly Britain.

The Middle East nation of Iran ignored the boycott and expanded its production for the embargo-created market.

PRODUCING MORE

In fact, despite the Suez Canal closure, the Arab countries of the Middle East and North Africa have been producing more oil in recent weeks than they did before the canal was closed.

Oil tankers have been able to handle the increased shipments so well that the emergency petroleum supply committee which Moore administers decided it needed no emergency shipment schedules set up for the time being.

Globe-Democrat Publisher Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard H. Amberg, publisher of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and a member of the board of directors of The Associated Press, died Sunday in a hospital here, apparently of a heart attack.

Amberg, 55, was with his family at the Drake Hotel when he complained of feeling ill. Taken to Madison Avenue Hospital, he died while undergoing examination. At his side were his wife, Janet, and their three children, Richard, Katharine and Thomas.

The Globe-Democrat, in its Monday editions, said under Amberg's "dynamic leadership the Globe became a vital force in community life on the local, state and national level.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Central Presbyterian Church in Clayton, Mo., a St. Louis suburb.

Amberg came to the East Coast last week to accept the Fourth Estate award at the American Legion Convention in Boston. He and his family remained in the East to enroll his youngest son, Thomas, at Colgate University.

What Was Election Day Like In Viet Hamlets?

VINH KIM, Vietnam (AP) — Ho Thi Tai was hobbling toward the Vinh Kim polling place to vote for the first time in her 72 years when a Communist mortar round, spinning in from the paddyfields outside the town, killed her Sunday morning.

The violent death of the gray-haired grandmother, a refugee and a political innocent, was a bloody reminder to the 900 voters of Vinh Kim that a candidate not represented on their bulky sheaf of ballots would continue to play a dominant role in their lives regardless of the election results.

FEAR, HEAT

His shadow lay all over the northern Mekong delta this weekend. He was the Communist Viet Cong.

Fear blended with the stagnant monsoon heat suffocating the canals, the macadam highways and the dusty clay roads that led to the dozens of polling places in the northern delta where half a million people voted.

The talk was either of what the Viet Cong had done or what they might do. With nearly 300,000 men under arms and possibly one third of the Vietnamese population under their control, they could do plenty.

WAR DRAINED

Grandmother Tai "probably knew as little about what killed her as she did about why she was going to vote," said a Vietnamese official who saw her die when Viet Cong mortarmen opened up on the delta district town 90 minutes after the polls opened Sunday.

Like most victims of Viet Cong terrorism election weekend, she was from the middle ground in the Vietnam war, the great pool of humanity drained by both the Viet Cong and the Saigon government to feed their war and propaganda machines.

REWARDS

Judging by weekend interviews, the act of placing ballots in a box with a slit in its top seemed just as incomprehensible to most of them as being forced to dig up a road for the Communists at night and repairing it for the government in the morning.

Just-controlled hysteria was evident in dozens of polling places. The people of Vinh Kim ducked away from the mortar rounds that hammered them, then mechanically went back to vote.

As in many areas, they were voting more for the prestige of their village chief, delivering him a binful of votes that he could pass on to the district chief, making merit all the way to Saigon where the military presidential candidates were waiting to reap the rewards of the most pervasive election machinery ever seen in Vietnam.

New Control System Keeps 'Em Rolling

The Missouri Pacific Railroad has completed installation of railroading's first fully transistorized Centralized Traffic Control system on an 80-mile segment of railroad between Palestine and Longview.

CTC permits a dispatcher to set switches and signals by electronic remote control to guide trains to and from sidings and yards and over the main line through his territory. This guidance system enables the railroad to schedule trains more efficiently and fosters safer operating conditions, said company spokesmen.

Built - in safeguards in the signal system make it impossible for a dispatcher to set up conflicting train movements. An illuminated signal board at his position enables the dispatcher also to maintain a constant visual check on the trains by flashing their movements on a miniature track diagram.

MoPac's newest CTC installation performs the same basic functions as older installations on other parts of the Missouri Pacific and on other railroads.

Unique to the new installation, however, is the fully transistorized control center at Fort Worth, 156 railroad miles from Longview. This control center includes a small computer, electronic circuits and a control console. The new unit has far greater speed in recovering information from the computer's memory unit for governing switch and signal conditions. The new system also is readily adaptable to possible computerized train operations of the future.

The Missouri Pacific, which pioneered direction of train movements without written orders as early as 1925, now has 2,271 miles of its line under protection by CTC. The segment opened between Palestine and Longview enables trains to run the entire 662 miles from Palestine to St. Louis under control by CTC. Nationally, the 72 Class I railroads have about 38,000 miles of CTC.

Warrants Issued For Four Matadors

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A matador who took part in bloodless bull fights in Wyandotte County was arrested Sunday, and warrants were issued for four other matadors. They are charged with cruelty to animals.

Salvadore Galvin, 40, of Monterrey, Mexico, was released on $250 bond.

The warrants were issued at the request of two Humane Society officers who watched the first bullfights at the county fairgrounds Saturday night.

Lyman Ray of Wichita, president of the Kansas Humane Society, said the matadors used poles with sharp spikes on the ends to prod the bulls.

Ray said he entered the corral before the fight and found the bulls were docile.

About 2,000 persons saw Saturday's fights. Sunday's performances were rained out. The promoters said fights would be staged tonight and Tuesday if weather permits.

Deaths In Germany

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — West Germany had more than a half million traffic accidents and 7,742 highway deaths in the first six months this year, the federal statistics office reported.

Four Close Pals Die In Collision Of Private Planes

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Four close friends died in a collision of two private planes near here Sunday.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sellers of Cassville, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Land of Purdy, Mo. Two others, occupants of the second plane, survived a crash landing.

Mr. and Mrs H. O. Williamson of Shell Knob, Mo., went through a fence in making a landing on the Circle K dude ranch near Quinton.

Both planes had left McAlester shortly before the crash. The couples attended Saturday night's performance of the prison rodeo and were returning home.

"They were close friends," Williamson said.

Williamson, 51, said the other plane had been flying to the right and rear of his plane until it suddenly "came up under me."

"I don't know what happened, it was all so fast," he said.

A witness, Omer Roberts of Quinton, said the planes "just hit each other—that was all."

Protest Tax Gift To Viet Cong

BORLANGE, Sweden (AP) — The Taxpayers Association rose in anger after the Borlange town council voted 21 to 13 to give $1,000 to the Communist Viet Cong in Vietnam. The taxpayers have brought suit to stop the gift on the basis of a poll showing 87 per cent of the 13,900 town households disapproved.

Teacher Shortage Worse Than Ever In Many Places

NEW YORK (AP) — The approach of the new school year found the chronic shortage of qualified teachers worse than ever in many parts of the United States, an Associated Press survey shows.

In some states the situation was worsened by mass resignations or threats of resignations to enforce demands for higher wages.

As in the past, school officials cited better salaries in business and industry, and the military draft, as prime reasons for the shortage. But a summer of urban rioting introduced another factor: Widespread refusal by teachers to work in slum schools.

The Chicago public school system, for example, had 700 teaching vacancies near the end of August.

"We don't have a teacher shortage — only a shortage of teachers willing to work full time where they are needed," said Dr. Louise Dieterle, director of teaching recruitment for the Chicago Board of Education.

"By that I mean the inner city schools, particularly in the heavily Negro areas on the West Side."

Forrest E. Orebaugh, personnel director of the Cincinnati school system, reported a similar situation.

"The riots are a problem," Orebaugh said. "It's the same in all the large cities. Teachers tend to go to the smaller cities and suburbs where there are fewer disadvantaged children and more stable conditions."

Dr. Franklyn S. Berry, superintendent of schools in Syracuse, N.Y., said "the recruiting problem is the toughest in the so-called inner city schools and I suspect the recent disturbances haven't helped."

At the beginning of the last week of August, Detroit was still looking for 530 teachers, compared with a shortage of 500 at the same stage of 1966.

"Teachers aren't being trained fast enough," said a Detroit School Board official. "Business and industry still can pay more than beginning teacher salaries." Detroit's beginning salary is $6,400.

Of Michigan's 500-odd school districts, 158 had failed to reach contracts with teachers seeking higher wages. "It is largely a financial problem," said Dr. Dane P. Whitmer, school superintendent of Pontiac. "Both sides want to do what's right but the money is not available."

New York City, where schools are to open Sept. 11, faces a threat of mass resignations by 56,724 teachers who demand more money and better working conditions.

Mayor John Lindsay appointed a mediation panel on Aug. 12 and set Sept. 1 as the target date for a settlement.

Dr. Frederick C. McLaughlin, director of the New York City Public Education Association, accused the United Federation of an AFL-CIO union, of "using cliff-hanging techniques in reaching contract agreements."

Some school officials predicted the teachers would hold out for at least as big a pay raise as New York firemen and policemen recently won. This worked out at $1,375 a man, plus fringe benefits, over 27 months.

The city's beginning teacher salary is $5,400. The board of education has offered to raise this to $6,200.

Mighty Tosser

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mrs. Dee Wilden of Mount Lebanon hurled a rolling pin 111-feet-1 inch, an Allegheny County Fair record, during a local contest. Mrs. Wilden's husband said that if she starts practice around their house, "maybe I better leave home."

Farmers Can Get Back Assessment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Farm Bureau Federation is telling cotton farmers how to get back the $1 a bale assessment which will be made against cotton sales this year under a government-sponsored promotion and research program.

The program was approved by growers voting in a referendum. But the law authorizing it carries provisions for returning the assessments if growers request.

In the September issue of its magazine, the Nation's Agriculture, the big farm organization devotes a page giving detailed instructions on how to get the assessment refunded.

NON-IRRIGATED CROPS SUFFER

It's Dry As Usual In Far West Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Drouth reports dominated the statewide crop situation last week. Only the Rio Grande Valley, the Gulf Coast and a small Hill Country area have had significant rains.

John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said at midweek that soaker rains are needed over most of the state.

District agents reported these conditions to Hutchison:

Panhandle moisture is generally short. Carrots, cucumbers and melons are being harvested. Irrigated grain sorghum and cotton are progressing. Dryland sorghum needs moisture. Range and cattle are generally in good shape.

ACHING FOR RAIN

The entire South Plains (Lubbock) is aching for a general rain, especially for dryland crops. The onion harvest is near completion, cucumber harvesting is on, and sugar beets, soybeans and castor beans are "making excellent progress." Floyd and Hale county elevators report first purchases of the bountiful 1967 sorghum crops. Irrigated sorghum production is bumper, but dryland sorghum is thirsty. Ranges and cattle are in good condition, but grass needs rain for fall growth.

The Rolling Plains (Vernon) need moisture. Cotton boll weevil damage is increasing. The first bale has been ginned in Wilbarger County. Good sorghum yields are reported. Hay cutting is under way, and wheat land plowing continues.

COTTON OPENINGS

Dry weather continues over most of North Central Texas. Cotton harvesting is on in all blackland counties. A small sorghum harvest is almost completed. Pastures are dry, and several grass fires have been reported. Livestock are in fair condition.

Northeast Texas has been helped by scattered showers, but more would be welcome. Sweet potato harvesting is in progress, soybean prospects are good, and pastures and livestock are holding up.

In far West Texas it's dry as usual, and non-irrigated crops are suffering. Irrigated crops are fine. Ranges are poor to excellent. Sorghum is being harvested. Cotton is opening and the first bale has been ginned in Martin County.

SHEEP SHEARING STARTS

The San Angelo area needs a general rain, although Kendall County had a 6-inch downpour. Cotton boll weevil infestations are up. Sorghum is ripening. Ranges need rain to make grass for winter. Livestock are fair to good. Sheep and goat shearing is starting.

Light rains brought some relief to Central Texas but more is needed. Corn and sorghum harvesting is almost finished. Half or more of the cotton is open. Early peanuts are being harvested. Stock water is low in many counties. Ranges are short and livestock conditions are fair.

East Texas moisture is short to very short. Corn harvesting is in full swing. Cotton is only fair. Melon harvesting is about over. Pastures are average to below, cattle are in generally good shape, and marketing is steady.

CABBAGE PLANTED

In South Texas, 1 to 6 inch rains have helped the region, and grass is greening. Livestock has slowed as a result. Fall crop land preparation is active. Pecan trees are shedding due to dry weather. Cabbage and onions are being planted.

Most counties reported adequate rain in the upper Gulf Coast. Cotton harvesting is nearing completion, and a second rice crop looks promising. Pastures are improving. Scab is affecting pecans in Matagorda County. Livestock is in fair condition.

Moisture runs the gamut from short to surplus in the big Rio Grande Valley area. The corn and sorghum harvests are complete, and heavy rains have benefitted crops now up and ranges. Livestock conditions are expected to improve. Stock marketing has slowed.

LABOR UNREST SOARS

Calcutta Could Trigger Chaos

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Calcutta, one of the world's largest cities, appears to be sinking under a creeping tide of poverty, unrest, crime and human degradation. It could drag all of eastern India into chaos.

Labor unrest has soared. Unemployment is reaching critical levels, industries are leaving and prospective foreign investors are being frightened off.

COMMIE COALITION

A Communist-leftist coalition came to power in West Bengal State last February largely on the strength of years of mounting discontent over problems existing under Congress party rule.

Now the Communists have found they cannot cope with the enormity of difficulties here. They are victims of some of the problems they themselves created.

One Western diplomat observed: "The Communists taught the young people to demonstrate. Now the Communists are in power and they are not answering any of the problems. They may not be able to turn off the agitation they created."

'SURROUND' EXECS

Communists engineered the spreading practice of "gherao," which brought much vital industry to a standstill throughout the state. Gherao, which literally means "surround," is a form of lock-in.

Labor groups for some months have gheraoed company executives, keeping them confined to their offices for days at a time.

One example of this took place near Dhanbad, in the heart of the eastern India coal belt 150 miles northwest of Calcutta.

THREE KILLED

Communist union leaders instigated a gherao against a firebrick factory. Violence resulted and three persons were killed. Finally the management retaliated with a lockout, shut down operations and 800 persons were thrown out of work.

The newspaper Statesman reports that hard-line Communists have strengthened their positions in unions throughout this coal and industrial belt.

Calcutta is the hub of a four-state area which has one-fourth of India's population. Calcutta itself accounts for 15 per cent of all the country's manufactures, and 30 per cent of bank clearances. It is a city of about 7.5 million people, full of tension, frustration and despair.

CRIME JUMPS

A prominent Indian journalist, Chanchal Sarkar, wrote recently: "Only a gigantic human effort to sustain Calcutta and make it grow can prevent the whole of eastern India from being plunged into trouble."

Reported cases of crime have doubled from last year.

One year ago, Calcutta was enjoying a housing boom. The Western idea of condominium ownership had caught on and such apartments were sold before construction started.

Today, at least six buildings in an upper-class residential area are complete and empty. New building has stopped and rent is dropping in the upper—and middle—class levels. Lower—class rent is moving upward, however, because of the increased demand in this area.

BEGGARS BATTLE RATS

Food prices are reaching new highs and in many cases food is in short supply.

Calcutta shocks the uninitiated visitor, stepping off a plane fresh from London, Paris or New York.

Beggars fill the downtown streets. Women in rags, occasionally without any clothing at all, thrust newborn infants at passers-by, pleading for coins.

Old men and women poke through heaps of garbage in cutters, competing with rats, cows and crows in the struggle for survival.

City Seeks To Make Burglar Bite Legal

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The City Council wants to make it legal for a watchdog to bite a burglar.

Under the present law all dogs who bite people must be banished from the city.

A new law being considered would let a dog bite a trespasser or anyone who was assaulting the dog's owner. The dog also could be excused for biting someone in self-defense or accidentally. And if he was a very small dog there would be no penalty.

TV Series Draws Indian Protest

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Principal officers of the five Indian tribes said today they are opposed to the television series on Gen. George Custer which will be carried this season by the ABC television network.

"By making a series where Custer will be the hero, the image of the American Indian would definitely be damaged," said Overton James, principal chief of the Chickasaws and president of the intertribal council.

To Visit Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The Dalai Lama, 32-year-old god-king of Tibet who was driven into exile in India by the Chinese Communists in 1959, will visit Japan Sept. 25 and attend an exhibit of Tibetan art treasures here, Tibetan sources reported.

PRICES GOOD SEPT. 4-6 IN BIG SPRING. WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES.

County Gets Hard Showers

Heavily overcast skies Sunday were stingy with moisture, as no measureable amount of rain was reported. However, heavy showers dotted parts of the county this morning, but most reporting points did not have an exact reading to report.

In Big Spring, police reported 13 minor mishaps during the weekend, some of them attributable to slippery streets.

Most of the east part of the county had as much as an inch of rain this morning. There was no city reading reported. Ikie Rupard, at Moss Creek Lake, had a reading of an inch in two showers. The first one, before 6 a.m., dumped about .7 inch, he said, and another .3 inch fell after 8 a.m.

Members of the West Texas Trail Riders camped at the lake overnight, he said, and they pulled out this morning during the rain. The 125 people, he said, decided to put their horses in trailers for the trip out, however.

The lake had .6 inch during the weekend, as did most of the east part of the county.

There were no rain reports received Sunday. West of town, the Wilkinson Ranch reported showers this morning, and Elbow had .1 inch today.

North portions of the county had reports of from a quarter to a half inch this morning.

The official reading for the city Saturday was .3 inch, according to Grady Randel, at the U.S. Experiment station. Texas Electric's switching station reported .35 inch, however the Morgan Creek station had .48 inch, and .84 inch Sunday.

At Lake J. B. Thomas, a brisk shower measured .20 of an inch and barely changed the elevation of the lake. The level was elevation 2245.01, an increase of .02 of a foot, which is about 100 acre-feet of water, slightly less than the normal withdrawal and loss per day.

Atomic Energy Program Slated

An atomic energy exhibit is planned for students of Big Spring High School and Coahoma High School in November.

Congressman Omar Burleson has announced the special exhibit will be staged Nov. 27 in Big Spring and Nov. 28 in Coahoma. It is sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission and is designed to acquaint secondary school students and their teachers with the basic principles and the peaceful applications of nuclear energy.

Trained lecturers will provide the introduction to the subject material, using demonstration equipment. Science classes will see expanded treatment of the material.

Westmoreland is Ellsworth Bunker, glasses, U.S. envoy to South Vietnam. Others unidentified. (AP WIREPHOTO by radio from Saigon)

Skipper Improved

Skipper Driver, who was severely burned last week in an explosion at his ranch south of here, is reported much improved at Midland Memorial Hospital.

His doctors report he is eating well and making as rapid improvement as possible, under the circumstances.

Depending upon flying weather, a specialist was to come for a look at him from the John Sealey Hospital in Galveston. Also, there was a chance that he might be taken to the Galveston center Tuesday at 11 a.m. These plans had not been firmed this morning.

The young rancher has recovered well from the initial shock, attendants said. He was welding at his ranch at the time of the mishap, and was taken to the Midland hospital by a man who was with him at the time.

Cub Pack 236 Makes Awards

COAHOMA (SC) — Cub Pack 236 had its monthly meeting last weekend at the Midway gym with several awards being made.

Thomas Marvin got the Wolf badge, Johnny Johnson the Bear, and Ricky Westbrook the Lion. Arrow points went to Jimmy McCain, Bobby Lepard and James Huber. Den 1 captured the attendance award and Den 2 the Cubby award. Donald Huber, cubmaster, said that the regular meetings would be resumed the fourth Thursday of each month.

Crash Kills Teen

HOUSTON (AP)— Eric Settegast, 15, was killed Sunday night when the car in which he was riding struck a dirt embankment at a curve near Seabrook.

Warren Evans Settegast, 17, a brother, suffered a broken leg. They were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Warren E. Settegast of Houston.

Roy Phillip Bowman, 15, the driver, suffered possible head injuries and was in fair condition.

Viet Observers Winging Home

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. observers sent to South Vietnam by President Johnson five days ago to view the presidential elections flew out today on their way back home.

The Americans wound up their visit with military briefings, lunch with enlisted men and touring U.S. troops installations on their final day.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who visited troops of the U.S. Army 1st Division at Ben Cat, reported hearing a sniper's rifle shot as he was about to depart the area in a helicopter.

SNIPER SHOT

"I heard a sniper shot but I don't know what significance to make of it," Hughes said. "I don't think they were firing at me."

Hughes, who suffered an injured finger in a mishap earlier in his visit, had told a reporter Saturday that Saigon appeared safer than Newark, N.J., during its recent race riots.

"We had sniping in Newark," he said, "I don't see any of that here."

Gov. Thomas McCall of Oregon, newspaper Publisher John S. Knight and Edward Munro, president of the National Association of Counties, helicoptered to a field artillery installation 20 miles north of Saigon.

McCall, wearing shirt and tie, waded through mud to talk with troops and to inspect weapon emplacements. The governor described the whirlwind tour as "kaleidoscopic. So many new places and new impressions in such a short time. A week ago I didn't even know I'd be here."

Knight said he was favorably impressed by the election procedures but he added it was difficult to assess what the Vietnamese people were really thinking. He said, however, he had tried to reach a cross section of the populace.

Another newspaperman, Eugene Patterson, publisher of the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution, said the elections had "not been perfect. To be considered are the problems that any country having its first election would encounter. Here this is complicated by war and illiteracy."

CONG CONTROL

Patterson toured the headquarters of the 5th Battalion, 60th Infantry, of the U.S. 9th Division, in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon.

The outfit is under the command of a fellow Georgian, Lt. Col. William B. Steele of Vienna, Ga., who led the editor around the camp and through the neighboring hamlets.

Capt. Robert Orendas of Barberton, Ohio, told Patterson that these two communities and the hamlet of Binh Cong were the only three in the district to have voted in Sunday's elections. "All the rest—more than 100—are under Viet Cong control," he said.

Gov. McCall, speaking to newsmen at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport before leaving, summed up his feeling toward the U.S. troops he saw: "If we had as much composure back home as they have out there we could wind this thing up in 20 months."

GOOD TURNOUT

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said he had observed "a good turnout" in the presidential and senatorial elections. "The people I saw seemed relaxed. I think they voted thoughtfully and the procedure was orderly."

Sen. George L. Murphy, R-Calif., who complained of feeling ill and remained in Saigon Monday, said, "In the five days we've had a pretty comprehensive tour of the country. I think that this election is a great credit to the people, the way it was put together, the way it was publicized, the determination toward democracy.

"I think it's very healthy. I've got an entirely different impression of the situation, of the people, of the conditions and the problems."

Mrs. Perryman Given Husband's War Decorations

COAHOMA — Mrs. Judy Perryman, widow of 2nd Lt. Ronald G. Perryman, Saturday received medals given by the Vietnamese government to her husband who died in battle Oct. 25, 1966.

Lt. Perryman, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perryman, Wichita, Kan., was killed in action two months after his marriage to Judy Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Grant, Coahoma. He had been overseas about a month when he was hit by a metal fragment while on a combat mission.

Mrs. Perryman was given Lt. Perryman's National Order medal and Gallantry Cross with palms under a citation signed by Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu. Maj. Walter Nevil, Odessa, representing the United States Army, came here to make the presentation.

Previously, she had received the Purple Heart, the National Defense and Good Conduct medals, along with the Vietnam and Vietnam campaign ribbons, the Combat Infantryman's badge, and the French Fourragere Infantry cord.

Symphony Delays Season Opener

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Time for contract negotiations with individual musicians has caused a one-week delay in the opening of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra season. The opening date has been set for Sept. 18.

General Manager Rex Johnson said the delay will not cause any reduction in the scheduled number of performances.

Dividend

DALLAS (AP) — LTV Electrosystems, Inc., a Greenville-based subsidiary of Ling-Temco-Vought, Inc., of Dallas, has announced a quarterly cash dividend of 12½ cents per share of its common stock, payable Sept. 27.

Furniture Rushed In For Opening Of School

The signal was "go" for Big Spring schools today on the eve of the annual opening at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Supt. Sam Anderson said that the situation generally was ready, although some furniture is still to be received for the high school.

With the exception of five spot occasioned by late resignations and new sections created by overloads in some classes, the faculty was complete.

Maintenance crews were working feverishly to get furniture in place, and the end was not in sight.

Within the past three days, three trailer loads of furniture and equipment arrived, and Sunday a carload was on a siding. Crews pitched in at 7 a.m. to unload the 650 cafeteria chairs and put them in place. The tables are due today, but Anderson said several had been borrowed from other points to fill the gap in event there is any delay. Another carload of furniture is due Wednesday, and this may include typewriter tables which have not yet come in.

Buses will operate on regular schedules Tuesday, and the cafeterias are open.

Parents bringing first graders to school for the first time should also bring birth and immunization certificates for the child.

Students who have not yet enrolled at high school should report to the principal's office to be entered.

Prospects are that more than 7,000 children will be in school on the first day. Last week Coahoma and Forsan started, and together they have over 1,400 enrolled.

Officers Named

WESTBROOK (SC)—The National Honor Society of the Westbrook High School has elected officers for the school term. Doyce Edwards, son of the Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Edwards, will be president; Robert Chambers, vice president; Patricia Bell, secretary - treasurer; Sue Bell, reporter; Elaine Matlock, historian, and Junior Oden, parliamentarian. Preston C. Lightfoot is sponsor-counselor.

Dies In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has reported that Navy fireman apprentice James E. Young of Houston was killed by non-hostile causes in Vietnam. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Young, 2001 Bringhurst, Houston.

DETROIT PAPER CLAIMS:

Most Riot Victims Need Not Have Died

DETROIT (AP) — The deaths of a majority of the 43 persons killed during Detroit's July riot could have been prevented, an investigation by the Detroit Free Press concludes.

The Free Press investigation said that the National Guard "did not obey" orders to unload weapons and fire only at the command of an officer, and, "as a result, the guard was involved in a total of 11 deaths in which 9 innocent people died."

A 24,000-word copyright story was published in the paper Sunday. It appears to be the most exhaustive study yet made public of the riot deaths.

300 QUIZZED

The Free Press said three reporters interviewed more than 300 people and pored over hundreds of documents before coming to the "inescapable" conclusion that, "a majority of the riot victims need not have died. Their deaths could have been — and should have been — prevented.

"Eighteen of the 43 riot victims were shot and killed by Detroit police, and of that number, 14 have been confirmed as looters in the Free Press investigation. The other four are a sniper, a possible but unconfirmed arsonist and two of the three men shot and killed in the Algiers Motel.

TRAGIC MISHAPS

"At least six of the victims were killed by the National Guard, five of them innocent, the victims of what now seem to be tragic accidents.

"In five more cases, both police and National Guardsmen were involved and it is impossible to say definitely whose bullets were fatal. Four of these victims were innocent of any wrongdoing.

"Two more persons, both looters, were shot and killed by storeowners. Three more were killed by private citizens; murder warrants have been issued in two of those cases and a warrant decision is pending in the third. And two looters died when fire swept the store from which they were stealing.

STRAY BULLET

Two victims, one a fireman, the other a civilian, were killed by electric power lines.

"Five deaths remain. They are a 19-year-old boy killed accidentally by an Army paratrooper; a 23-year-old white woman shot by an unknown gunman; a Detroit fireman killed by either a hidden sniper or a stray National Guard bullet; a policeman shot as a fellow officer struggled with a prisoner; and the third victim of the Algiers Motel slayings, whose assailant is not known."

CONCLUSIONS

The Free Press said it came to the following conclusions.

"Both the number of snipers active in the riot area and the danger that snipers presented were vastly overstated. Only one sniper is among the riot victims and only three of the victims may possibly have been killed by snipers, two of them doubtful. In all some 31 persons were arrested and charged with sniping; none of those cases has gone to trial."

"In the 43 deaths, criminal intent may possibly have been an element in only seven—the three Algiers Motel deaths, three killings by civilians and one case, that of William Dalton, still unresolved. Free Press investigators found no evidence of deliberate or preconceived killing in the cases remaining.

"In retrospect, the performance of the Michigan state and city police seems generally restrained and impressive. The fact that 4,400 city policemen worked for at least five days in the midst of chaos without more bloodshed is significant. There are individual incidents of poor judgment, it is true, and several regrettable instances where officers may have fired too soon though they acted legally."

Mom Of Film Star Jack Lemmon Dies

WEST LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — Mildred N. Lemmon, mother of movie star Jack Lemmon, died in her apartment Sunday apparently of a heart attack. She was 70.

Marchers Hoping For More Support

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Demonstrators hoped for better weather and more support today for their walk through downtown Austin to a Labor Day rally at the capitol. They would not predict how many might turn out.

By car, truck, foot and horse, about 50 marchers arrived in Austin Sunday afternoon, dripping wet from the humid weather which followed a soaking rain that caught them on the open highway.

The 47-mile march set out from New Braunfels Friday morning to commemorate the 400-mile hike last summer by Rio Grande Valley farm workers, who wanted to draw attention to their demands for a $1.25 an hour state minimum wage.

'VIVA LA MARCHA'

Fourteen marchers started out, were soon joined by three others, and their ranks tripled Sunday as the group neared the capitol. "Viva La Marcha," "Viva La Huelga (strike)," the marchers shouted as they walked US 81 into south Austin.

Cars and two trucks accompanied the group, and two small boys, waving farm worker flags, rode ponies at the rear of the block-long procession. One girl, carrying her shoes in her hand, stepped gingerly on the rocks near the paved highway.

OBSTACLES

Erasmo Andrade, head of the San Antonio Valley Farm Workers Committee, was at the front of the line, a poncho slung around his neck. Father Sherrill Smith of San Antonio drove a truck, and Rep. Lauro Cruz of Houston, ill with a cold, was in a car.

Andrade said he wanted Gov. John Connally to include a minimum wage proposal in the special session the governor plans to take care of state spending for the fiscal year beginning next September. Andrade said the group had not had any support from organized labor or Roman Catholic church, the main supporters of the 1966 march from the Valley.

"There have been nothing but obstacles," he said, citing as an example St. Edwards University's refusal to let the marchers sleep on the campus Sunday night.

Negroes Draft Ultimatum In New Political Parley

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Conference for New Politics accepted Saturday a 13-point ultimatum by its Negro delegates demanding equal representation on every convention committee but there was no immediate indication that the action healed an apparent breach between Negroes and whites.

The revolutionary resolution, which representatives of the 500 or so Negro delegates insisted must be accepted word for word, also called for an "immediate reparation for the historic, physical, sexual, mental and economic exploitation of black people."

The so-called Black Caucus resolution was approved, 17,928 to 6,834, with 2,028 abstentions.

Under the convention rules, each participating organization is allotted a number of votes equal to the number of members it has working actively on the local level.

A convention spokesman, asked if the vote meant there will be harmony between the Negro and white delegates, said that depends on the reaction of the Negroes to the adoption of the resolution.

Point 11 of the resolution said: "We strongly suggest that white civilizing committees be established immediately in all-white communities to civilize and humanize the savage and beast-like character that runs rampant throughout America, as exemplified by the George Lincoln Rockwells and the Lyndon Baines Johnsons."

POINTS

Some points in the resolution were:

—Giving 50 per cent representation to black persons on every convention committee.

—Give total support to "national people's liberation wars in Africa, Asia and Latin America, particularly Vietnam, Mozambique, Angola, South Africa and Venezuela."

—Condemn the imperialistic Zionist war: this condemnation does not imply anti-semitism.

—Immediate reseating of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y.

—Support "black control" of the political, economic, religious and social institutions in black communities.

—Support all resolutions from the recent black power conference in Newark.

GETS OVATION

The convention was called as a forum for left wing, peace and civil rights views.

Floyd McKissick, fiery head of the Congress of Racial Equality whose convention speech Friday commanded a standing ovation, held a news conference Saturday.

McKissick was asked about the Black Caucus' stand on Zionism. He said he could speak only for CORE and not the Black Caucus, and "our position is that Zionism itself is nationalism. I think nationalism is healthy."

He was also asked to clarify the comment he made Friday saying there are concentration camps set up to receive U.S. Negroes.

"There have been two or three articles written on that," he said.

He suggested that there was provision in the McCarron Act for such concentration campus, and said that the camps had been inspected by a writer named Charles Allen, and that they were the same camps set up for Japanese-Americans during World War II.

Sees Threat Of Laws To Curb Strikes

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Elmer Brown told the 109th convention of the International Typographical Union Saturday that legislation may be passed to curtail strikes.

Delivering an 18-page report on union affairs, Brown said:

"I would like to sound a warning that the American labor movement is closer than it realizes to legislation to rob the working man of his right to strike against private industry except with permission of a government bureaucracy.

"It is my hope that before it is too late, the workman man and woman will learn that their political fortunes and trade union rights are twin members of a single body and that they shall not permit mutilation by politicians who pose as labor leaders or labor leaders who pose as politicians."

Brown said the ITU has never been tied to any political party and that he would recommend it not do so now.

He reported that the executive councils of the ITU and the International Printing Pressman and Assistants Union had held discussions leading to a possible economic merger of the two groups totaling, he said, about 250,000 graphic arts craftsmen.

About 1,500 delegates are attending the convention here where the ITU has its headquarters.

A convention highlight will be an address Sept. 8 by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Johnson Takes Lunch Outdoors

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has found a new place to have lunch on cool, sunny days—out of doors behind the White House.

Johnson in effect has created his own sidewalk cafe, in the Jacqueline Kennedy flower garden on the opposite end of the executive mansion from the more familar rose garden.

The President mixed dining with business there Saturday, with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman as his guests.

A few days ago Johnson had lunch in the flower garden with Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

So far as anyone could remember, no previous president took up the habit of eating outdoors at the White House.

Will Of General's Mother Probated

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The estate of Mrs. James R. Westmoreland, mother of the U.S. military commander in Vietnam, has been probated at a value of more than $250,000.

Court records show Gen. William C. Westmoreland's mother, who died at the age of 81 in July, willed her estate to him and to her daughter, Mrs. Heyward Clarkson of Columbia. The general's father, who was in the textile business, died in 1964 leaving an estate probated at $1.2 million.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Dr. J. Herbert Hollomon, changing hats for acting undersecretary of commerce to president - designate of the University of Oklahoma, spoke out Saturday against isolationist tendencies in state education.

"The best way to get Oklahomans to have a first-class education is to attract people from all over the world," Hollomon said at a news conference marking his first day on the job. "I'm convinced much of the learning on campus comes from the students, not just the library and lectures.

There's A Profit For You In Those Old Dollar Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a speculative furor, many Americans apparently are missing or ignoring a chance to turn a profit on old dollar bills.

Treasury officials said almost $8 million worth of silver certificates— bills backed by silver—have been retired since July 1 but only $4.7 million were redeemed for silver, which can be sold on the open market at a higher price.

The rest were retired through the normal money circulation process and sent to the Treasury by Federal Reserve Banks.

Some speculators are offering 20 and 30 cents on the dollar to buy silver certificates—paper money issued from 1929 to the early 1960s. They then redeem the certificates for Treasury silver at the rate of $1.29 an ounce and sell the silver at the higher market price—now above $1.60.

During July, officials said $2.24 million worth of certificates were retired but only $1.16 million worth actually were redeemed for silver.

For August, $5.67 million worth of silver certificates were retired through Aug. 29—the last date for which figures are available— but only $3.56 million worth were turned in for silver.

Because of this process, the Treasury's stock of free silver—the amount not backing silver certificates—actually increased by about 3 million ounces on Aug. 29 when the latest batch of retirements showed up in the figures.

This raised the stock of free silver to 103.9 million ounces.

The government is selling 2 million ounces weekly and bids accepted Friday ranged up to about $1.64 an ounce that compared with more than $1.80 an ounce brought on the open market in July after the Treasury abandoned its policy of holding the price at $1.29 an ounce to protect the coinage.

The Treasury still redeems silver certificates at $1.29 an ounce and plans to do so until next June 24.

As of last Tuesday, the government estimated there was $389.7 million worth of silver certificates in circulation.

Increased Supply Of Farm Products

WASHINGTON (AP) — The surplus commodity sales counter maintained by the Agriculture Department under its farm price support program is a little larger than a year ago—reflecting increased farm product supplies this year.

Commodities the department is offering for sale now include cotton, wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, rice, grain sorghums, peanuts, flaxseed, dry beans, tung oil, butter cheese, and non-fat dry milk.

But department sales, except in the case of cotton, have been running light largely because most of these commodities can be bought more cheaply in commercial markets.

Government To Help Recover Riot Losses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government indirectly will help insurance companies cover some of their riot losses this year because of the mechanics of income tax laws.

The Internal Revenue Service says payments made by insurance companies to cover claims are part of the cost of doing business and can be deducted for income tax purposes.

This has the effect of reducing the income subject to taxes and thus the total amount of tax to be paid.

"There's nothing unusual or extraordinary about it," a spokesman said.

The corporate tax rate is now 48 per cent, but like individuals, corporations don't pay taxes on everything they take in.

An individual, IRS noted, can deduct for federal income tax purposes the amount paid in state income taxes. An IRS spokesman compared an individual's state tax payments—and deductions—to the payments by insurance companies of claims by policy-holders in riot-hit areas.

But he emphasized there's no provision in the Internal Revenue Code for it to pay money directly to insurance companies to cover riot damage.

James L. Bentley, Georgia insurance commissioner and president of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, said in Atlanta earlier this week that in some cases the federal government will pay as much as 8 per cent of recent riot losses through income tax refunds to insurance companies.

IRS said Bentley apparently referred to the 48 per cent corporate tax rate and the fact that payments made by companies to cover insurance claims are deductible.

The service said, however, that corporations can obtain refunds only if they have overpaid their taxes.

She Stopped In The Wrong Lane

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — State highway patrol officers say a woman motorist stopped in the left lane of Interstate 494 to fasten the hood of her car during morning rush hour and the result was three cars piled up in one accident, four in another and two in a third. A motorist said the woman drove off with the hood still up and her head out the car window.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q4 2 ♡Q5 ◇AJ5 ♣KJ10 9 3
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. We do not recommend proceeding to three no trump. You have already announced your diamond protection and you should seize this opportunity to inform partner of your moderate spade support.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK10 9 6 4 ♡5 ◇J3 ♣KJ6 2
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Dble.	Redble.	Pass
Pass	2 ♡	2 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. On the surface this hand is worth only 14 points. But after spades have been supported, the value of your hand is increased by three points—one for the fifth spade and two for the sixth. You therefore have a value of 17 points. Partner's redouble, combined with a raise, shows a minimum of 10.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ5 3 ♡A7 5 ◇A6 4 2 ♣9 7
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — Nothing. Your jump to three spades promised a hand valued at 13 to 16 points. You haven't any more than that. If partner had sufficient assets to warrant interest in a slam, he would have made some move other than the routine bid of four spades.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ4 ♡AKJ9 ◇AKQJ10 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
2 ◇	Pass	2 ♡	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four no trump, a clear-cut Blackwood call. Partner has indicated a heart suit that is probably six to the queen, and the only pertinent question is the number of aces. If he has two, a grand slam will be there. If he has only one, you will, of course, contract for six.

Q. 5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A7 4 ♡J5 ◇K8 6 2 ♣Q9 4 3
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Dble.	Pass	1 NT
Pass	2 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — Your ten points dictates that you make another move. You have an average hand in high cards which will surely produce a game opposite a sound take-out double. The recommended procedure is to bid two no trump.

Q. 6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K3 ◇K8 7 4 3 2 ♣A K 9 7 3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Dble.	2 ♣	2 ♡

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. It is true that partner has not advertised a strong hand, since he failed to redouble, and there is some doubt as to whether you can make it; but it looks very much as the the enemy is about to bid four hearts, which, apparently, you have no hope of defeating. Since you will feel constrained to make a sacrifice bid in that event, you might as well do it first as last and put the pressure of guessing squarely up to West.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠8 6 5 ♡10 8 5 4 3 ◇6 4 ♣9 4 3
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	1 NT	Dble.	?

What do you bid?

A.—Nothing. It would be presumptuous of you to attempt to rescue with this hand. Furthermore, partner may wish to rescue himself to two clubs or two diamonds, and a two heart bid by you would jack him up one stage higher.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠10 9 4 ♡A10 3 ◇K9 7 5 ♣J8 6
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 NT	Dble.	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—With this hand you have a clear-cut "leave-in." Partner's hand is presumably as good as an opening one no trump bid; that is to say, at least 16 points. You have eight, which gives your side a preponderance of the high cards—to wit, at least 24 to 16.

Steel Price Hike Likely To Stand

NEW YORK (AP) — A price increase in steel bars appeared all but certain to stand with most of the major producers having joined in the hike despite a Johnson administration plea for restraint.

President Johnson told a Washington news conference Friday that he regretted very much the companies' decision to raise prices but he did not indicate that he planned to do anything about it.

At almost the same time, Bethlehem Steel Corp., No. 2 producer, and Inland Steel Co., No. 4, announced they were raising prices on bars. Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., No. 5, and Armco Steel Corp. and Kaiser Steel Corp. followed suit shortly thereafter.

The price ball was started rolling by Republic Steel Corp., No. 3, on Wednesday. United States Steel Corp., No. 1, joined in the hike Thursday despite criticism of the raise by Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors.

"Steel is our single most important industrial material," Ackley said Thursday. "General stability of industrial prices is difficult to achieve if steel prices are rising."

At his news conference Friday the President was asked his reaction to the price increases in the face of Ackley's urging Johnson replied: "Mr. Ackley expressed the viewpoint of the administration on that. We regret very much that the companies felt it necessary to take the action they did. We expressed our view as strongly as we could in our recommendations."

The steel firms all blamed rising costs for the increase of $3 a ton or 1.8 per cent. Steel bars are used in a variety of end products from industrial fasteners to railroad car axles.

Dear Abby

A Dad's Sound Advice

DEAR ABBY: I am scheduled to leave Vietnam in three weeks, after 13 months duty. I wrote my girl and asked her to meet me in Hawaii for the weekend, and we'd come home together. (We plan to marry soon after I get home.)

When I wrote my parents about Sue's meeting me, here's the letter I got from my father:

"Dear Son. Mother and I have no objections to Sue's meeting you in Hawaii if her parents approve. She's a sweet girl and we know how you two kids feel about each other. But if you decide to meet in Hawaii, get a chaplain or a Justice of the Peace to marry you right after you kiss her kello. Keep it a secret if you want to, but put that ring on her finger, son. You've waited a long time. Do not spoil it now. Love, dad."

Well, Abby, there it is. What is your advice? MARINE

DEAR MARINE: With a Dad as smart as yours, you don't need any advice from Dear Abby.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a father who refuses to go to his own son's wedding because he doesn't want to get dressed up?

I feel just terrible for my son's sake, and I'm so embarrassed for the girl's people. My husband has always had some pretty weird ideas, but this is one of the worst. He says he won't get dressed up for anybody. I have begged him and begged him, but it hasn't helped.

His attitude is turning a time of joy into a time of tension for all of us. The wedding is a month off. Any suggestions?

NERVOUS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. Quit begging him. He's either stubborn or sick. If he's stubborn, you won't persuade him in a year. If he's sick you won't cure him in a month. Let him stay home. With his attitude he might embarrass you more if he did you a favor and went to the wedding.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a dime store. This morning I sold 10 tubes of plastic model glue to one boy who looked to be about 16 or 17 years old. I'm sure he wasn't gluing a "Boeing 707" together.

This isn't the first young kid who has bought an unusual quantity of glue lately.

I understand "sniffing glue" is "in" with the teenagers now. It is supposed to give the sniffer a "cool sensation" — a pleasant light - headedness, and in some cases, hallucinations.

I have also heard that it could have some very serious after effects. If you know anything about this, please put it in your column. I am sure some youngsters don't realize the seriousness of what they're getting into.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

DEAR BIRMINGHAM: Glue sniffing has been known to cause serious brain damage. And some fatalities have been reported.

46 Years' Work, Missed Two Days

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ludwig Mischlich retired at age 70 after 46 years, 8 months and 21 days with the U.S. Post Office, and in that time he was never late to work and missed only two days on the job. Mischlich said he wanted to take vacation for those two days—used to have two teeth pulled—but his supervisor made him use sick leave.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Use Roaster For Cooking Outdoors

Dear Heloise:

Since this is the time of year when we are all fighting the summer heat in our homes, I thought you might like to know how I eliminate heating my house every time I prepare a meal.

I decided that it was foolish to use my electric roaster only during holidays, so had my husband put an extension cord to reach out our back door to a little table in our yard.

HELOISE

Now I cook all my meat and frequently the entire dinner outside. Casseroles are especially easy this way.

I have even baked cakes and biscuits in the roaster and they did beautifully.

All the heat that USED TO fill my kitchen is outside, and is blown away!

I do turn the control knob on the roaster 25 to 50 degrees higher than when cooking in the house as the outside breezes waft some of the heat away and foods cook slower.

My, it is wonderful to sit in a cool kitchen and drink a glass of iced tea knowing that my dinner is cooking outside! . . Marjorie Hurd

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away that white shoe polish bottle.

When it is empty, add a little water to the residue at the bottom. After washing your white shoe laces, put them in the bottle and shake.

Then squeeze them out by running them through your fingers and let 'em dry.

Just see how nice they look! . . Maude McIntosh

* * *

Dear Heloise:

Our folding cots have rounded wooden legs that left deep indentations in the canvas floor of our tent whenever we pitched it on soft ground.

By placing metal lids from mayonnaise jars under each leg, we no longer worry about making holes in our tent floor. . . Beverly

Right, Bev! Or you can use clean tuna or small sliced pineapple cans. Tent floors are expensive, but I guess you know that by now! . . Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When company comes for a few days and there are more children than beds, put twin beds together, then turn the mattresses the other way and you have a king-size bed.

For very small children, turn a double Hollywood bed sideways and you have a king size that holds more.

You'd be surprised at how many more children get to sleep on a bed than on the floor. . . J. H.

Dear Heloise:

This morning I had quite a bit of mending to do that would have required seven colors of thread . . . and you can imagine what a job it would have been changing all those spools and bobbins.

I happened to have some of the new transparent nylon thread and decided to try it out. I filled a bobbin and threaded my machine with this nylon and guess what? My mending was done in a fraction of the usual time.

The nylon is not only stronger than the standard cotton threads, but it blends with the color of each garment so that it can be used for all of your mending without ever changing from one color to the next.

What a time-saver! . . Mrs. J. Tobias

* * *

It's the truth! I've been using it, too, and I do believe it's the greatest invention since the sewing machine itself!

So, gals, it's worth a few cents to try it. Anything to save time and energy. . . Heloise

* * *

Dear Heloise:

Don't throw away those old rubber bathmats. Keep them to use on the basement stairs.

They make wonderful treads and the suction cups on the back will help hold them in place after they are tacked down securely.

And since they come in different colors, they will brighten up that dark stairway and perhaps help to prevent an accident. . . Barbara Castorina

* * *

Dear Heloise:

I have found a great new way of serving canned fruit cocktail.

I place a can of it in the freezer for several hours before I need it. When partially frozen, I open both ends of the can, push out the contents and slice.

It's wonderful this way as a salad and, as it's so sweet, it makes a delicious and inexpensive dessert for hot summer nights. Beautiful when served on a lettuce leaf and topped with a dab of mayonnaise. . . Mrs. C. Slaton

Dear Heloise:

This is the way I solved my problem of putting suntan lotion on my back:

I taped a small sponge on the end of a twelve-inch ruler with masking tape, then poured a bit of lotion on the sponge.

With just a few flips of the wrist my back was covered and I was prepared for Mr. Sun. . . Gladys Matlack

DESPITE HAIR AND CLOTHES FADS

American Male Wins Virility Vote

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

Oh happy day for mankind. The American male has somebody else who thinks he is as manly and virile as he does: the American woman.

In spite of male fads in hair and clothes that might raise a doubt, the nationwide sampling of feminine opinion shows that, to more than half the women in this country, contemporary man is just as lusty and masculine as he ever was.

"At least in Texas," amended a Dallas housewife.

A Chicago widow of 59 elaborated: "I think most American women would be glad to accept most American men as a sweetheart, husband and father."

"I don't think men are getting any less verile—not from the passes I get I don't!" said a young Detroit receptionist.

The disloyal opposition, though, was vocal.

"When men start dyeing their hair, having permanents and calling for weekly manicure appointments—something is amiss," scoffed a young Buffalo, N.Y., mother of three.

A Louisville burlesque stripper, 28 and divorced: "Some men learn to depend upon the women for everything, including paying the bills and working. This is bound to show up in how a man walks, talks and acts."

Asked whether they think men feel threatened by women's emancipation, divided rather evenly into two camps:

"Men think women are trying to emasculate them. They resent the competition of a competent woman"—Los Angeles mother of three and a part-time worker.

"I don't think any guy who is confident of his ability or masculinity ever feels threatened by a woman"—A young Texas management consultant.

Most women thought men in general were as good husbands and fathers as those of the last generation—and better breadwinners. They weren't so sure that today's men were as moral. They objected to long hair and beards on the opposite sex.

What they liked least about men made up a far longer list than what they did like about them. But the women, who had been called spoiled, pampered and domineering by a majority of men in a similar sampling a few weeks ago, for the most part remembered they were ladies and rarely hit below the belt.

The women find some nice things to say about American men:

—They're attractive, sexy, fun

—They have a nice, wry sense of humor

—They're broadminded, chivalrous, intelligent, patriotic.

—They're ambitious and they make good money.

—They don't let small things bother them as women do.

"They idolize their women and are anxious to please them. They still keep us on a pedestal."

Most American men are so loyal," said a 39-year-old Denver wife. "A good, sound marriage can't be shattered easily."

On the debit side:

—"Too many are spoiled brats," one woman contended.

—"They tend to boast a lot," said another.

—"They put too much emphasis on money or what it brings them. Money and position are first to them, family second. They take more interest in business than their wives."

"They say a woman is nagging if she says what she thinks or gives an opinion, while if a man complains about his work, children or money he's only duscussing it or getting off his chest."

A LOVELIER YOU

Relieve Tedium With 'Prop' Psychology

By MARY SUE MILLER

Reducing exercises sometimes call for the use of a flexible strap or some rigid object, such as a broomhandle or yardstick. On using those props, reducers report that they obtain extra good results.

Explanations are several. First off, working with a prop has psychological value. It seem to give more point to routines. It's like having a companion, come to relieve the tedium of solitary workouts.

Too, a prop forces you to greater effort. For it resists your actions in much the same way as would a sparring partner. You automatically put more fight into your movements.

Not every routine can be performed with a prop; some should not be. Whether you wish to get in trim for fall or simply make sure of staying trim, these strap exercises should be part of your repertoire:

1. With hands 24 inches apart hold strap high overhead. Alternately pull it taut and let it fall limp. Work for full minute. (Routine is fine for firming arms and upper back.)

2. Stretch out back down on floor and cradle arches in strap. Pull legs up to perpendicular position; slowly lower to floor, pushing hard against strap. Repeat 10 to 20 times. (Smooths legs, abdomen and upper hip.)

3. From starting position of Exercise 2, pull up to erect sitting position then slowly lower back to floor; tug hard on strap — really grapple with it — both coming up and going down. (Controls midriff.)

And that just about adds up to a figure under control.

LAZY EXERCISES

Here's an effortless way to trim off heavy spots. All you do is lie down or sit down, and flex your muscles. If that's for you, send for Lazy Girl's Exercises. Based on the isometric principle of exercise, routines trim head-to-toe figure. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents in coin.

A Devotional For The Day

The labour of the righteous tendeth to life: the fruit of the wicked to sin. (Proverbs 10:16)

PRAYER: Teach us to love our work, O Lord, and to dedicate whatever we do to Thy glory and honor. Grant us Thy blessing as we labor for that which gives life to us and to others. In the Savior's name we ask. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

China Threat To Hong Kong

The sun now sets every day on the British Empire, but nowhere more uneasily than in Hong Kong and the New Territories, one of the final outposts of imperial greatness.

Nominally, at least, the island of Victoria, and the Kowloon Peninsula belong to the British crown, ceded to it in perpetuity by a former Chinese government. Nominally, too, the British have a 99-year lease to the New Territories, streching 32 miles to the Chinese border, running until 1996. But no one pretends that the Chinese cannot take over the Crown Colony almost anytime they choose. For the Chinese Communists do not recognize either the lease to the New Territories or the cession of Hong Kong and Kowloon as binding.

It has been generally assumed that the Chinese permitted the British enclave to exist because it provides a needed window to the West, a source of approximately $800 million in foreign exchange yearly. That assumption is being brought into question by recent Chinese border incidents, rioting and bombing in Hong Kong and Kowloon, and the sacking of the British embassy in Peking in retaliation for the arrest of riot leaders in Hong Kong.

The Chinese have turned the screw gradually. Food shipments from the mainland, upon which the colony is dependent, have been interrupted. There have been a number of ugly incidents at the border crossing point. There have been riots and assassinations in Kowloon and Hong Kong.

Outside of an invasion, the chief threat to the colony is a massive movement of refugees, escaping from the fighting in the Chinese Province of Kwangtung, into the already overcrowded colony. Such a movement, coupled with denial of food and water supplies from the mainland, would prove catastrophic.

No one can pretend to know how for the Chinese are prepared to go in their campaign against the colony — perhaps even the Chinese are are uncertain. The British have no choice save to remain firm in the hope that the pressure will be relaxed in due course. It is frightening nonetheless to be faced with a threat which cannot be measured accurately nor predicted in the face of the irrational behavior of mainland China in recent months.

Psychology Of Special Elections

Republicans seem to have a good chance of imcreasing their membership from four to nine in the 181-seat 60th Texas Legislature. Though that would be a long way still from a real two-party-system showing, Democrats do have cause to be concerned for the psychological effect such a special - election sweep might have on the 1968 general elections in this state.

There will be one state Senate and four House vacancies to be filled in the special constitutional amendments election scheduled Nov. 11. State GOP headquarters in Dallas is pointing out that Republican Sen. John Tower carried all those districts (the Dallas state Senate district 2 to 1) over Democratic challenger Waggoner Carr last year.

The Republicans claim strong local organization in all the vacancy - contested districts and think they have winning candidates lined up. Aware of the psychological setback possible, despite the Republican complexion of the districts involved in the special elections, the state Democratic organization can be expected to go all-out to prevent a GOP sweep. However, too much state-level party intervention in local elections could easily backfire.

Consequently, there will be an unusual statewide, and even national, interest in the five vacancy-filling special legislative elections this fall. However they may go, the results are unlikely to be as significant (or insignificant) as partisan analysts may claim, but they could have appreciable impact on 1968 state politics.

David Lawrence

The Elections In Vietnam

WASHINGTON — The United States government is entitled to a vote of approbation throughout the world for having insisted upon the holding of free elections in South Vietnam. It is an example which will have an effect even inside the Soviet Union and the Communist-bloc countries of East Europe, where some word at least will penetrate that the right has been granted to a people to express themselves at the ballot box as between opposing candidates.

NOBODY CAN claim that the election in South Vietnam could have been without irregularities. Indeed, a record of 100-per-cent cleanliness is hardly to be found in any country, including the United States. The chicanery of politicians and their method of misrepresenting to the voters the attitudes of various candidates are well-known techniques.

An election such as was held in South Vietnam is better than no election at all. It is a great improvement over anything in which the people of the Soviet Union can participate. For in the Communist countries there is no opposition ticket. The ruling power gives to the voters a single slate of candidates, with no alternatives.

THE SIGNIFICANT thing about the election is South Vietnam is that it was held at all. It was promised as far back as 1954, when an international conference agreed upon the terms for peace following the withdrawal by France from the area which had previously been its colony of Indochina.

President Johnson's decision to name a 22-man commission to go to South Vietnam to observe the election was a wise one. It shows the entire world that the United States was not indifferent to the possibility of a "rigged" election, and that it wants to be able to testify as to the facts.

THE SENDING OF prominent Americans to take a look at the election process in Vietnam is unprecedented. Never in history has the United States government undertaken to do so in any other country. This might be viewed, in a technical sense, as an invasion of a nation's sovereignty. But, in this instance, the existing regime — a de facto authority — which asked for American help in fighting the aggression of the North Vietnamese has publicly welcomed the presence of the unofficial groups from this and other countries to see at first hand the election process in actual operation.

UNDOUBTEDLY there will be criticisms of the election, particularly on how the 60-member Senate is chosen. For obviously, in a country with inadequate means of communication, slates of candidates for the Senate are not likely to get very far without organized support on the part of the more powerful interests — either business or military or religious. There are, for instance, in Vietnam deep feelings as to having clergymen or spokesmen for certain religions—particularly the Buddhist and Catholic — prominent in the government itself.

On the whole, the election in South Vietnam is a step in the direction of freedom by the people to choose their own government.

Billy Graham

I have read the Bible and other religious books, but it hasn't changed me. Do you think there is any hope for me? R.T.

No one can be healed by reading a medical book, and there is no magic about reading good religious books, unless the truths therein are appropriated. Even in the Bible there is no magic. "The law," says the Bible, is a schoolmaster to lead us to Christ. In Him there is life, forgiveness, and strength.

Yes, there is hope for you, but not if you place your faith in the wrong thing. Jesus said, "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you." You ARE one of the chosen, if you make a choice to respond to the invitation He has extended to you.

You have read good books; you have read the Bible; now, rest your case on Christ. The books, and especially the Bible, point to Him. He is the One of Whom Moses and the prophets wrote. He is the same, yesterday and today and forever. He brought hope to the hopeless centuries ago, and He is doing the same today.

Bear Gets Ride

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A 200-pound bear that wandered into the Albuquerque south valley got a tramway ride into the mountains recently after a two-night stayover in the Albuquerque zoo.

The bear was tranquilized and roped when found in a residential area of the valley.

Strapped into a box under the tramway used by tourists for the ride up the west side of the Sandias, the bear was carried to about the 8,500-foot level and released in a canyon.

Forest Service and Game Department employes were in charge of the operation.

How Will Thieu And Ky Get Along?

By BARRY KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Nguyen Van Thieu and Nguyen Cao Ky, the newly elected president and vice president of South Vietnam, have no love for each other. Their forced political marriage is sure to have repercussions during their four-year term of office.

There already are rumbles and rumors of possible dissension between the two men. Thieu is chief of state and Ky is premier in the military government which has run South Vietnam for the last two years.

DESPITE POSSIBLE dissension it appears that one of the first things the new regime will do is make peace overtures to North Vietnam. President-elect Thieu made a major plank of his platform a promise to seek a pause of one week or longer in bombing of the Communist North, if Hanoi gives some sign that it will respond, as a prelude to some type of negotiations. But hopes of success are slim.

IF WIDESPREAD CHARGES of election irregulaities arise, the legality of the new government could be questioned not only by Hanoi but the rest of the world as well, including the people of the United States on whom support of the war depends.

Political observers agree that the previous Thieu-Ky government had little popular mandate from South Vietnam's people since it was a military junta that ruled by decree.

ONE ADVANTAGE of the Thieu-Ky victory is that they will best be able to push a reorganization of the South Vietnamese armed forces and to weed out corruption and inefficiency within its ranks. Thieu promised to do this before the election and already has announced that 50 officers, including five generals, are being investigated.

The overriding question of the new government will be how Thieu and Ky get along.

ORIGINALLY BOTH were running for president and a dangerous split was developing in the armed forces. Thieu finally won the other generals' support but had to make several concessions to the Ky camp, among them a promise that Ky's power would be much greater than the constitution gives to the vice president.

As far as the conduct of the war, economic and social policies, not many changes are expected.

Work Is For The Birds?

NEW YORK (AP) — If there is any subject more mystifying to man than woman, it is the subject of work.

Man has had to labor for a living ever since Adam got himself and Eve heaved out of the Garden of Eden.

"In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread," says the Old Testament.

Over the centuries man has kept up a running debate with himself as to whether this fate is a curse or a blessing.

SOME MEN HATE their jobs, but would be lost without them. Some men love their jobs so much they take the jobs home with them.

Some men are afraid of work. Others, as the follow said, can lie right down beside it and go to sleep. They don't fear it at all.

Would you be glad if automation, as some scientists predict, cut the average work week to 20 hours: Or would you find the extra leisure boring?

HERE ARE WHAT some of the great minds of the past have had to say about both the virtues and disadvantages of work:

"When a great many people are unable to find work, unemployment results."—Calvin Coolidge.

"The more one works, the more willing one is to work."—Lord Chesterfield.

"The more one works, the more one is willing to work."—Lord Chesterfield.

"Wanting to work is so rare a merit that it should be encouraged."—Abraham Lincoln.

"I LIKE WORK; it fascinates me. I can sit and look at it for hours."—Jerome K. Jerome.

"It is the first of all problems for a man to find out what kind of work he is to do in this universe."—Thomas Carlyle.

"There is no trade or employment but the young man following it may become a hero."—Walt Whitman.

"But till we are built like angels—with hammer and chisel and pen, we will work for ourself and a woman, for ever and over, Amen."—Rudyard Kipling.

"WORK IS SOMETHING you want to get done; play is something you just like to be doing."—Harry Leon Wilson.

"Work is the inevitable condition of human life, the true sources of human welfare."—Leo Tolstoy.

"The workers are the saviors of society, the redeemers of the race."—Eugene V. Debs.

"Laboring men count the clock oftenest."—John Webster.

"MY DESTINY is solitude, and my life is work."—Richard Wagner.

"He who labors as he prays lifts his heart to God with his hands."—St. Bernard.

"The labor's forgotten when the sweat dries."—Japanese proverb.

"There is no real wealth but the labor of man."—Percy Shelley.

"It is only by the labor of workingmen that states grow rich."—Pope Leo XIII.

"All work, even cotton-spinning, is noble; work is alone noble."—Carlyle.

"Work is for the birds."—popular saying.

How Many Calories For An Active Youth?

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: How many calories should a teenager (about 14) get? I'd say I'm moderately active. From my mother's nutrition book for nurses's training it says 2,300 calories. A book I got says 2,000 and in a magazine it said 1,200. Which one? — L. M.

Since the average teenager, or adult, wouldn't know a calorie if one came up and said "hello," there isn't much point in trying to specify the exact calories per day.

I see it happen every day — stout ladies "counting their calories," and eating salad and crackers, and then, after this weight - watching meal, topping it off with 400 calories of dessert! Sometimes they have a couple hundred more calories first, in the form of a teensy-weensy cocktail or two.

I've seen people "count calories" on the basis of so many calories for "one portion of string beans," but they ladle out a portion that a restaurant would charge double for. And then throw the whole counting process completely out of balance by serving the beans in cream, with chopped bacon cooked in it, or almond slices added.

A hot dog or hamburger and some soda pop can, depending on the size, add 300 to 500 calories. Any bright teenager can grab 300 calories from the ice-box faster than you can count one-two.

So trying to set down a rigid figure for the number of calories a teenager should eat is a pretty futile endeavor.

Besides that, the figure would have to vary according to how much physical energy the girl expends, how big she is, how fast she is growing, and whether her metabolism is of a type with burns up a lot of energy or doesn't.

Actually, a total somewhere from 1,800 to 2,400 is probably right for most growing girls, but it's an academic number.

The real question is whether the girl is getting pudgy. If she is, she's getting too many calories and had better cut down. The main value of knowing about calories amounts primarily to her knowing which foods are extremely high in calories, so she can avoid them. The actual total per day isn't likely to be known unless she is put under constant supervision and eats or drinks nothing unless it is weighed in advance.

I haven't said anything about getting too few calories, because teenagers usually see to it automatically that they get enough (except for the occasional misguided girls who go on goofy crash diets because they think it will make 'em glamorous). Mostly, they soon get hungry enough to quit that nonsense.

Unless you are starting to get fat, or are a bit tubby already. I wouldn't pay much attention to how many calories you need per day.

Around The Rim

The Disappearing Profession

This and that:

I see by the papers that, despite recent pay increases, there is still going to be a shortage of school teachers within the state.

Let it be said that there is also a deficit in budding journalists. Such a problem has long existed and it has to do with economics — young men and women simply are turning to trades that pay more and offer more security and perhaps more encouragement.

LET IT ALSO be said that the school marms and school masters can feel concerned about this because without the newspapermen lobbying for them the teachers may be up against it.

News writers, sad to relate, are in a position to lobby for all things and all people whose causes are brought to their attention — but themselves.

Perhaps, in time, they will become as rare as the dodo bird — which failed to survive because he did not know how to take care of himself.

I LIKED that story about the ill-mannered bank bandit who shoved a note through the teller's window to the attendant beyond, demanding:

"Put the bills in the bag, stupid, keep calm — and don't push that panic button."

The teller took pen in hand to scribble something across the back of the bag and pushed it back in the direction of the caller. It read:

"Straighten your tie, stupid, and smile. There are two guns trained on you and you're having your picture taken."

What Price To Abolish Poverty?

WASHINGTON — Robert A. Levine, a robust and personable intellectual from Brooklyn, is research chief for the war on poverty. He came to the Office of Economic Opportunity by the side door — which is the best way for more reasons than one.

BOB LEVINE got his job without knowing Sargent Shriver, without ever having met a Kennedy, without knowing much about poverty either by personal experience or by dunking himself in the sentimentalities of slum-crawling. He is a Harvard-bred economist, but not a sociologist; a problem - solver, but not a do-gooder. If I understand him, he believes that sweet charity will never remove the festering mass of poverty, but that ruthless logic can be made to crumble the lump. Yes, but how ruthless is the country willing to be in order to accomplish a stated national purpose?

LEVINE'S FIRST principle, more philosophic than mathematical, is that man and man's administration of human affairs are not perfectible. The way to approach the reduction of poverty, he says, is to design some plans which will work out pretty well despite bungling and waste, inefficiency and dishonesty. We are sure to have abuses, but some of these are more acceptable than others under the hard code of ruthless logic.

For example, the pre-McNamara Defense Department often bought more shoes than the Armed Forces could wear, and frequently contracted for lame horses and inaccurate rifles. But there never was a time, unless it's now, when we didn't have the military strength to carry out our military mission.

THAT KIND of saturation treatment — waste, boondoggles, skulduggery and all — is the way to reduce poverty. But nobody would expect the OEO to be quite that forthright about it. Incentives, says Levine, are politically necessary to implement a get-rid-of-poverty policy. Business will have to be subsidized if it's to build housing for the poor. Industry will have to be insured against poor workmanship and dropouts, if it's to undertake job-training in any meaningful way. If workers are to seek new jobs, they must have a mobility allowance. If plants are to be located in outlandish places, there must be compensation in cash. For workers who can't learn, sinecures must be provided in public institutions, such as schools and hospitals, and the total unteachables must be given make-work at subsistence wages.

ADMITTEDLY, there would be profiteering by crooked entrepreneurs, and there would be wholesale loafing by the deadbeats, but the national purpose would be accomplished. By being ruthless and profligate, logical and socialistic, we can abolish poverty, QED.

Well, at least a problem-solver like Levine is better than the sob-sisters we've had to endure, and he lays the options on the line for us to think about. Do we want to abolish poverty at any price?

Helping Small Businesses Grow

NEW YORK (AP) — Eugene M. Lang has created what he calls an international family of small businesses.

He is president of Resources & Facilities Corp., of New York, which he founded 15 years ago.

The company specializes in creating overseas manufacturing ventures for small businesses through licensing and joint venture arrangements.

WHEN IT GRANTS a license for manufacture of a product of an American company to an existing firm or one being formed abroad, it receives a share in ownership of the concern in addition to royalty fees on sales.

Lang feels that the opportunity for small U.S. manufacturers to enter foreign markets through licensing arrangements has hardly been tapped.

HE SAYS that more than 250,000 U.S. small manufacturers who make products with overseas sales potential have no export plans or programs for developing overseas markets.

He adds that most of them lack the know-how, personnel and financing to attempt the overseas voyage or feel their product cannnot make the grade.

He points out that if only 10,000 of these small manufacturers were to develop enough foreign markets to average a net inflow of $200,000 each, the U.S. balance of payments deficit would be wiped out.

WHEN LANG'S firm began operation its major assets were a new idea in international cooperation and a general franchise from Heli-Coil Corp. of Danbury, Conn., to license the manufacture of its screw thread inserts abroad.

Today Heli-Coil products are being manufactured under Lang company licenses in nine countries with a 10th —Argentina—due to be added this year.

LANG SAYS his firm represents about 40 American companies and administers more than 300 license and joint venture relationships in 23 countries.

He says these relationships have created a composite turnover of more than $100 million annually.

Resources & Facilities Corp., and the American companies it represents split the profits down the middle. Lang says his company's share in 1966 was $7 million.

Bad Drivers

PORT ELIZABETH, So. Africa (AP) —Drivers of expensive "prestige" automobiles are prone to dangerous driving, said South African sociologist Dr. Colin Rip.

Dr. Rip, president of the Pretoria Mental Health Society and a university lecturer, said here that some people conscious of their social status imagine they enjoy preference on the roads.

Such drivers, he said, are often in the 45 to 65 age group.

"These are usually the people who can afford the more expensive cars (autos) and are also the people who enjoy a lot of status in society due to their achievements."

In the 25 to 45 age group there is a tendency for frustration, possibly resulting from stresses in personal relationships such as marriage, to cause dangerous driving, he said.

Drivers under 25 are inclined to be rebellious in their driving attitude, he considers.

Road safety, said Dr. Rip, is dependent on positive mental health following from mentally healthy citizens.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bill Worthington of Yonkers, N.Y., who is 91, was introduced at a lunch in Baltimore for retired persons.

He said he spent much of his time reading and traveling around the country to meetings of the American Association of Retired Persons.

The master of ceremonies asked him what he reads, Worthington said he reads the Bible quite a bit, and the master of ceremonies expressed surprise that a man 91 had not read the Bible.

"Oh, I've read it before," said Worthington, "but now I'm cramming for the finals."

Victors And Vanquished

The two linksters pictured at the left survived tests in the 36th annual Big Spring Invitational tournament at the expense of the two men at the right. From left to right, they are Bobby Wright, Mike Hall, Rick Terry and Harold Hall, all of Big Spring. Wright defeated Terry in championship consolations, 2-1; the same margin by which Mike Hall beat his father, Harold, in championship semi-finals. The four-day meet winds up today. Smith And Mike Hall In Semifinal Round

Veteran Robb Smith and youthful Mike Hall carried Big Spring's colors into this morning's semifinal matches of the 36th annual Big Spring Invitational Golf tournament.

Finals in the meet, which is being held at the Country Club, are scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m.

Defending champion Mike Cleckler of Odessa and young John Shepperson of San Angelo joined Smith and Hall in the semifinal bracket.

Cleckler was to oppose Smith over 18 holes this morning. The other part of the foursome was to be Shepperson and Hall.

Smith is the reigning Country Club titlist while Hall is a former Club champion. Young Mike will be a senior in Big Spring High School this fall.

Cleckler showed good form on the green to fan out Don Lovelady, Big Spring, Sunday afternoon, 3 and 2.

Smith sidelined Ronnie Broadrick, Big Spring, 3 and 2. Robb invariably plays the Country Club course well and Sunday was no exception.

Shepperson, who entered the meet as one of the favorites, lived up to expectations in manhandling Marvin Williams, Big Spring, by a 5 and 4 score.

Mike Hall defeated his father, Harold Hall, in the other afternoon semifinal, 2 and 1.

Semifinals in the championship consolations are Bobby Bluhm, Odessa; George Powell, Colorado City; Ron Hill, Webb AFB; and Bobby Wright, Big Spring.

Some of the finest linksters can be found in the semifinal bracket of the First Flight, where Bernard Rains, Ken Chadd, Jack Wallace and Ted Gross, all of Big Spring, remain in contention.

Ronnie Hill

The prizes will be given away immediately following the last match in the clubhouse this evening. Four players in each flight share in the awards.

No Choke For Geiberger, Sanders Gets The Boot

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (AP)—Al Geiberger is not about to choke—either on the golf course or on sandwiches.

The lanky Californian fired a one-under-par 70 Sunday to take the third-round lead in the $200,000 Carling World Golf Championship.

"I had a peanut-butter sandwich on the 10th fairway to keep me going, but I mixed it with jam because I didn't want to choke. There's enough choking out there."

The 30-year-old Carleton Oaks, Calif., golfer took a one-stroke lead into today's final 18 holes, with the fast-stepping Doug Ford of West Haven, Conn., on his heels.

Ford also shot a 70 Sunday over the tough 7,024-yard par-35-36-71 Toronto Board of Trade layout and brought his 54-hole score to 210.

The tenacious battle between the two leaders late in the third round was almost overshadowed by the collapse of Gary Player's putting game and the ejection of Doug Sanders from the tournament.

Player, the gritty South African, ballooned to a four-over-par 75 in the third round after cutting two strokes from par Friday and three Saturday.

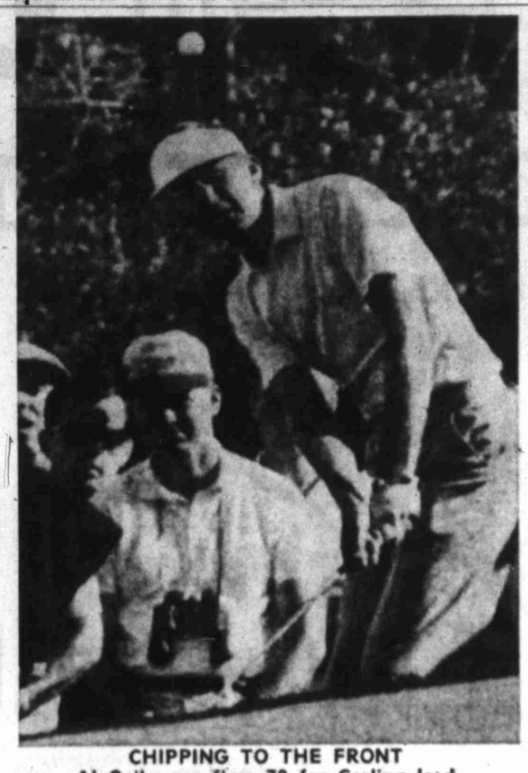

Sanders was ousted after the third round ended when he became embroiled with PGA officials about a free-drop ruling on the 16th hole.

Steve Shabala of the PGA agreed that Sanders could have a free drop when his drive landed in television cables along the edge of the fairway.

The dispute involved which side of the cable the drop should be made. So outspoken was Sanders about the ruling which he followed at the end of the round, that George Walsh, PGA tournament director, said he had "rejected" Sanders' application to play in the tourney.

Sanders had a 69 Sunday and a 54-hole score of 216.

McManus Is Pessimistic Over Davidson Match

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Jim McManus looks a lot like Rod Laver, which, he says, is as far as the resemblance goes.

"A lot of people have told me that," said this 26-year-old sandy-haired left-handed tennis player from Berkeley, Calif. "I wish I could play like him."

McManus is like most of the good tennis players who stock the U.S. Championships now in progress. He has never gone past the round of 16, and if he can beat Australia's Owen Davidson Tuesday, that's where he'll be again. "Trouble is" he said, "I've never beaten Davidson."

He got the chance to meet Davidson by pulling Sunday's upset in this tournament of surprises. He beat Roger Taylor, England's best player, who was seeded sixth, 7-5, 7-5, 2-6, 6-2.

While today's matches feature ex-champ Roy Emerson of Australia against Roy Barth of San Diego, Calif., who beat Mexico's Joaquin Loyo-Mayo, 7-5, 7-5, 5-7, 4-6, 6-3, in a holdover finish from Saturday, Sunday's results set up interesting pairings for Tuesday.

Newcombe, who beat Chuck Darley of Rochester, Minn., 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, will play Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., who defeated Tom Karp of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. Newcombe said he no longer is bothered by the pinched nerve in his leg.

Eighth-seeded Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, who beat Australia's Ray Ruffels, 6-1, 7-5, 8-6, will play South Africa's No. 1, Bob Hewitt, who eliminated Bailey Brown of Bronxville, N.Y., 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

Davidson, a left-hander, advanced Sunday by beating Frank Tutvin of Canada, 6-3, 6-4, 9-7.

Kathy Wins Series Playoff

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Kathy Whitworth, the tall Texan who has won just about every major women's golf tournament, got her birthday present two weeks early.

The nine-year professional from San Antonio will be 28 Sept. 17 and a check for $10,000 should help her celebrate.

The 5-foot-9 Miss Whitworth earned the five-figure check Sunday with a dramatic sudden-death playoff victory over Carol Mann in the second annual Ladies World Series of Golf.

She and Miss Mann, the giant 6-foot-5 golfer from Towson, Md., came to the No. 1 par 3 172-yard hole all even with 36-hole scores of 137.

That was five-under for the distance on the par 71, 5,950-yard Snyder Park golf course and four strokes better than the 141 turned in by third-place finisher Mickey Wright, last year's Wold winner.

On the playoff hole, both used four-irons but Miss Whitworth put her shot on the green 25 feet from the hole. Miss Mann drove to the right of the green, chipped 12 feet past the cup and needed two putts to get down for a bogey.

Miss Whitworth, the Ladies Professional Golf Association's leading money winner, played out in regulation three for her triumph.

Undefeated List Pared

By The Associated Press

Only two undefeated teams are left in the Texas Professional Football League after just three weeks of play. One of them is the defensive terror of the circuit while the other shines on offense.

San Antonio tops the Eastern Division with a 3-0 record and the Toros have given up only 31 points while scoring 95.

Tulsa paces the Western Division and is the highest scoring team in the league with 104 points in three games while allowing the opposition 48.

San Antonio shut out Dallas 45-0 last week while Tulsa was downing Odessa-Midland 38-21.

Fort Worth finally won a game, beating Wichita Falls 31-27 and Sherman-Denison did the same, whamming Pasadena 58-21.

The leaders don't meet each other until next week. Saturday night San Antonio is at Wichita Falls, while Tulsa goes to Sherman-Denison. In another game Pasadena will be at Odessa-Midland. Fort Worth and Dallas are idle this week.

Cowboys Preparing For Baltimore

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys start preparations today for their final preseason game—against Baltimore here Saturday night—but first they have to figure out which six players to cut to meet the National Football League player limit of 43 that goes on Tuesday.

The Cowboys won their second exhibition game last week when they beat Houston 30-17 "for the pro championship of Texas," as some sports writers billed it. Houston is in the American Football League.

Baltimore has won three out of four, including a 23-17 decision over Washington, which is considered Dallas' top rival for a divisional championship.

Coach Tom Landry said one of the things to be decided was which of his place-kickers, between Harold Deters and Mac Percival, is to be retained and then whether Danny Villaneuva, the regular kicker who has been recovering from an operation, will do both the punting and place-kicking.

Landry said Villaneuva would do his first kicking against Baltimore. He was to have been used against Houston but Dallas never had to punt.

Another spot where at least one will have to be released is one cornerback where veteran Warren Livingston is being contested by rookie Phil Clark and Mike Johnson. Landry said he felt sure Clark "would come around."

Landry said his strongest points thus far had been his offensive backs. "We never before have had this many good running backs — Don Perkins, Walt Garrison, Dan Reeves, Les Shy, rookie Craig Baynham and J. D. Smith—but one of them will have to go," Landry declared.

WHO WILL GET 1,000th DUCAT?

Who will be No. 1,000?

Whoever it is will have to hurry, for Monday morning the business office of the Big Spring school district had sold 994 season football tickets.

Tuesday is being reserved for season sales, and after that the single tickets will go on sale Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. for the opening game here Friday against Lamesa.

Lamesa has asked for 200 tickets in section G and all of section H—1,134 tickets.

Lamesa Grabs Pair Of Wins

LAMESA — Big blows and superb pitching propelled the Lamesa Red Sox past the Kennedy-Karnes City All Stars in two baseball games here Sunday.

Lupe Lopez held the All-Stars hitless in the second game, but that was only slightly better than Louis Jenkins did in allowing only one hit in the first.

Lamesa captured the opener 7-1 when Willie Tijerina hit a grand slam homer in the fourth. His brother, Amador Tijerina got a three-run homer in the bottom of the sixth to salt the second game away 5-0.

Sunday's double victory made it 26 straight for the Lamesa Red Sox, who have not lost a game in two years.

John Ready For Run For Money

By The Associated Press

Tommy John's stomach ache is over and the real run for the money in the American League is just getting started.

John, who missed one month in midsummer because of gastritis, looked healthy enough to Boston Sunday as he fired a five-hitter and keyed Chicago's 4-0 victory.

Meanwhile, rookie reliever Fred Lasher baffled first-place Minnesota and saved Earl Wilson's 19th victory as Detroit blanked the Twins 5-0.

That left Minnesota still on top in the four-team American League pennant chase by a bare one-half game over the Red Sox. The White Sox, who took three of four in their must series with Boston, are third, one game back and Detroit is fourth, 1½ games behind.

In other American League action Sunday, Washington dropped New York 6-3, Baltimore stopped Kansas City 5-0 in a game ended by rain after six innings, and California trimmed Cleveland 6-2.

The five-hitter was John's sixth shutout and evened his record at 9-9. It was the first complete game for the left-hander since he left the disabled list Aug. 20.

Pete Ward ripped his 17th homer for the White Sox and Ken Berry tagged a two-run triple in the ninth inning, giving John insurance he didn't need.

Wilson had allowed just two hits, but was wild, walking four batters and hitting another.

The Tigers ganged up on Dean Chance, 17-11, for three runs on four hits in the second inning. Willie Horton singled and Ed Mathews doubled to start the rally.

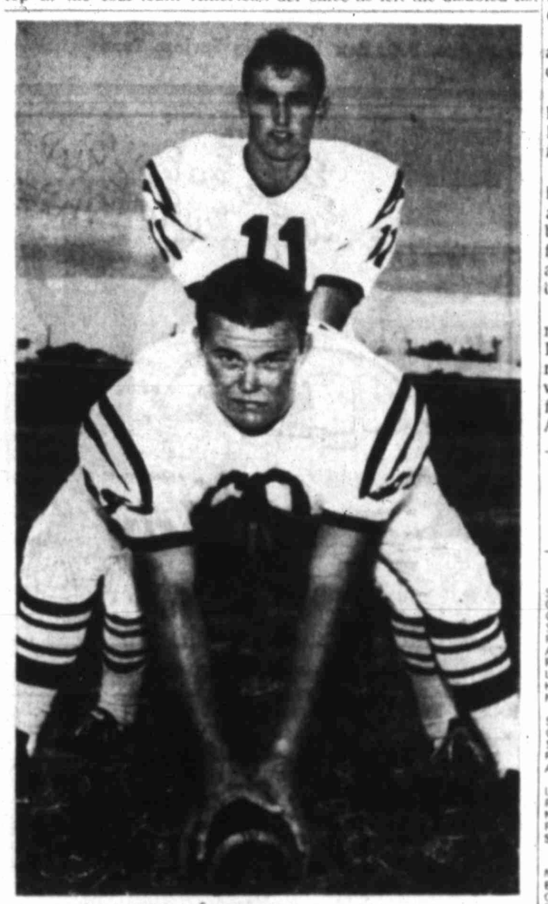

Ted Uhlaender missed a diving catch and Jim Northrup's drive went for a triple, scoring two runs. Then Jerry Lumpe doubled Northrup across.

The Twins loaded the bases against Wison in the sixth but didn't score.

Jim Hardin pitched a four-hitter and drove in two runs as Baltimore blanked Kansas City in a rain-shortened game.

Frank Howard and Dick Nen hit consecutive pitch homers against New York's Bill Monbouquette as the Senators defeated the Yankees. Tom Tresh and Mickey Mantle homered for the Yankees.

Jimmie Hall drove in three runs with a pair of singles and Don Mincher slammed a two-run homer as California whipped Cleveland. It was the fourth straight victory for the Angels against the Indians.

Broncos Got Big Plays As Needed

DENVER (AP) — Take it from new coach Lou Saban, everything about Denver's 26-21 opening American Football Sunday was big, including the team's record six interceptions.

The biggest home crowd ever, 35,488, watched the resurgent Broncos come up with the big play—even though they lost the statistical edge.

Saban, pulling the Broncos up from the depths of the AFL, said, "We got the big play when we needed it. The big passes from Steve Tensi. The big catches by Al Denson. The big interceptions when we needed them. The big pass rush that forced Babe Parilli to throw interceptions."

Denver's six pass thefts were the most ever by an AFL team against Parilli. Those steals along with some marvelous catches by grief-stricken flanker Al Denson wrote the story of Denver's first league victory after a surprising 3-1 record in preseason play, including conquests of Minnesota and Detroit of the National Football League.

Denson, whose 3-year-old son died over the weekend, was credited by Boston Coach Mike Holovak with coming up with the decisive play after Denson had caught 55- and 12-yard scoring passes from Tensi.

Holovak said Denson's reception of a 58-yard third-down pass from Tensi that moved Denver to Boston's nine in the third period was the turning point.

However, Boston stiffened and Denver collected only a three-point field goal but the revived Broncos, who had been trailing 21-16 before the kick, found new life.

Less than a minute later, cornerback Goldie Sellers speared a Parilli pass and raced 29 yards for the winning touchdown. He later intercepted another Patriot pass.

While the Broncos and the Patriots were starting the regular season, the San Francisco 49ers and the Oakland Raiders were concluding the interleague exhibition series.

The 49ers wrapped up the 16-game schedule by edging Oakland 13-10 and giving the National League a 13-3 margin over the American. The only games won by the AFL were Denver over Detroit and Minnesota and Kansas City over the Chicago Bears.

Fastest Field Lines Up For Southern Stock Race

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Forty-four finely tuned stock cars made up the fastest field ever today for the 18th running of the Southern 500 race, oldest and most prestigious of the sport's big events.

Leading the pack start were Richard Petty, seeking his 21st Grand National victory of the year, and Buddy Baker, never a winner but considered a future star in the multimillion-dollar sport.

Petty was in his familiar blue Plymouth, Baker in a Dodge.

These two won the front row spots during a week of qualifying leading up to the $101,800 classic over Darlington's mile and three-eighths raceway.

The winner will be paid $18,100 plus lap money.

In the turbulent 17 years of the Southern 500, 12 drivers have entered victory lane. Only two of the still active drivers have started each of the Labor Day classics. One of them, Jim Paschal, was among today's starters, in 13th position. He has never won a Darlington race, but 46-year-old Buck Baker has won three Southern 500's. Baker has a broken ankle and a relief driver was to start his car today.

Aaron Blasts 476th Homer

By The Associated Press

When Hank Aaron's number went up on the board, Stan Musial got caught in the countdown.

But Musial isn't complaining. The St. Louis slugger-turned-general manager is having too much fun keeping his own countdown in the National League pennant derby.

Aaron blasted the 476th homer of his 14-year career Sunday, leading the Atlanta Braves to a 7-1 victory over Los Angeles and moving past Musial into ninth place on the all-time home run list.

Musial's Cardinals, meanwhile, continued to run rampant in their drive for the NL flag by trouncing Houston 13-1 behind the four-hit pitching of rookie ace Dick Hughes.

The Cards' fifth straight triumph gave them an 11½-game bulge over the Chicago Cubs, who climbed into second place with a 4-0, 6-3 doubleheader sweep over the New York Mets. Elsewhere, San Francisco blanked Cincinnati 4-0 and Philadelphia whipped Pittsburgh, 7-2.

Aaron's 34th homer of the season, a two-run shot in the seventh inning, left the Braves' superstar 17 behind the No. 8 man on the all-time list . . . former Yankee great Lou Gehrig.

Cards Bomb Astros 13-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "We've been getting good pitching since the all-star game," St. Louis pitching coach Billy Muffett said Sunday after Dick Hughes tossed a four-hitter and the Cardinals bats boomed for 14 hits and a 13-1 victory over Houston. It was their fifth straight victory.

Manager Red Schoendienst and Muffett have nursed all-season a young, inexperienced pitching staff that matured to allow Houston only four runs in four games. Cardinal pitchers tossed three shutouts in the current home stand.

Terrorism Dips After Election

SAIGON (AP) — American and South Vietnamese soldiers deployed back to battle areas today, resuming military operations slowed by several days spent guarding South Vietnam's presidential election Sunday.

U.S. Command reported only scattered light military contacts during the election weekend and some scattered fighting today in the northern part of the country, where U.S. Marines ran into a small force of North Vietnamese regulars.

127 MISSIONS

The air war over North Vietnam was unaffected by the elections with 127 missions flown Saturday, 139 on Sunday and one more U.S. F105 Thunderchief shot down by Communist ground fire each day. The two losses raised the total of U.S. combat planes reported lost over the north to 672 and both pilots were missing.

Terrorism fell off sharply after the election, in which the military ticket of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky defeated 10 civilian slates but won only about 33 per cent of the vote.

38 KILLED

Casualties reported from terrorist attacks on the election eve and election day came to 38 killed, 135 wounded and 300 abducted by guerrillas. But authorities said it might be some days before final figures were available since some reports overlapped and additional reports were expected from isolated areas.

U.S. headquarters reported broken clouds and thunderstorms covered the upper portion of North Vietnam Sunday and only a handful of attacks were made above Hanoi.

SHIPS MISSED

The navy reported that the destroyers Brush and Damato twice engaged Red shore batteries in duels near Dong Hoi. Neither ship was hit although shrapnel rained across the decks without causing casualties.

Just below the demilitarized zone, U.S. Marine posts at Dong Ha and Con Thien took another battering Sunday from enemy gunners. Forty-two Leathernecks were wounded in a barrage of 50 rockets and artillery shells at Dong Ha. Casualties were not reported from 137 rounds of artillery and mortar fire fired at Con Thien.

Oscar Winner Dunn, 61, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A winsom, boozy grin was the trademark actor James Dunn rode to an Academy Award in a film career as "a well-meaning type of fellow whom women marry to mother."

Dunn, who won his Oscar in 1946 for his portrayal of a drunken man in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," died Friday after a long illness. His death, at age 61, was announced Sunday.

His performance in the hit film was referred to by one critic as "the most powerful argument for prohibition and abstinence ever seen on the screen."

Dunn entered acting after trying his hand at almost every trade possible—including marking stock quotations on the board in his father's New York brokerage firm.

LIKED PAY

He toured an eastern theatrical circuit as a bit player until he wandered into the Paramount studio—then in New Jersey— where he won several small parts. He liked the pay, so he stuck with the movies.

Dunn graduated from bit parts in 1931 and was signed to feature roles by 20th Century-Fox studios, appearing in 30 pictures in the next five years. Between roles he worked as a vaudeville song and dance man.

He played opposite Shirley Temple in her first film, "Stand Up And Cheer," and also appeared with her in "Bright Eyes," and "Baby Take a Bow." His other films included "The Very Young Man," "The Payoff," "Welcome Home" and "Hold That Woman."

BOOZY FATHER

As his career began to wane in the 1940s, Dunn achieved a reputation as an irresponsible performer—partly earned by his drinking—and was considered unemployable by the studios.

But on a gamble, Darryl Zanuck brought him back to 20th Century-Fox to play the boozy father of Peggy Ann Garner in the film version of Betty Smith's "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn."

Dunn's portrayal—friends said some of it came from his own life—was a sensation and won him the Oscar as best supporting actor.

After several more attempts at films, however, and a short stint in television his career was mostly disappointing.

Dunn leaves his widow, Edna, a former Philadelphia radio singer. They were married in 1945, and Dunn adopted her 3½-year-old son, Billy.

Funeral services were planned for Wednesday afternoon in Santa Monica. The nature of his illness or the cause of death were not disclosed.

Tower Rips McNamara

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., Sunday attacked Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, charging that McNamara's advice to the President has "reaped an Edsel" in specified instances.

Tower, speaking to a convention of Young Americans for Freedom, a conservative youth group, said McNamara is blocking installation of an antiballistic missile defense system. Tower said the Soviet Union already is building such a missile complex.

McNamara "apparently has convinced the President and he and the President have asked the Russians to let us talk to them about it before we decide to do anything about it," Tower said.

"I'm not sure why the President takes Mr. McNamara's advice," Tower said. "After all, McNamara is the one who advised the President that American boys would be coming home from Vietnam by Christmas 1964.

"He is the one who advised the President to send the Carrier JFK to sea without nuclear power.

"In each instance the President has taken Mr. McNamara's advice and reaped an Edsel," Tower said.

Tower said the antiballistic missile system is needed in this country for insurance "against a limited irrational missile attack from some such nation as Red China or protection against a mistakenly launched Russian missile.

"If we start now it will take five to seven years to get a limited Nike-X system in place quite aside from Russia, an unpredicable Red China may not give us that long."

Police Checking Various Incidents

Police detectives today were checking several thefts during the weekend.

Joe Valenzuela, 502 W. 8th, told officers he was robbed of $3 Sunday, in the 200 block of South Gregg. Capt. Stanley Bogard reported Valenzuela said he could not identify the men.

Harry Edward Musick, 1321 Mulberry, reported a tachometer and a clock were taken from his car, while it was parked at the Skateland Roller Rink. He valued the items at $30.

Bogard said officers are investigating a report of a woman being attacked in her home. She told officers she was cut on the body with a sharp instrument by her assailant.

Deaths Of Texan, Sailor Due Probe

PASCAGOULA, Miss. (A) — Autopsies were ordered Sunday to determine what caused the deaths of a Texan and a boat crewmen whose bodies were found in a Pascagoula hotel room Sunday.

The dead were identified as Cecil E. Bellamy, 53, of Mesquite, Tex., and Jim McCurary, about 35, a sailor. Police said the bodies were found sprawled on beds in a room. There were no signs of a struggle.

Hotel Fire Sparks Ammunition Blasts

GALVESTON (AP) — A fire in the two-story downtown Union Hotel caused a general alarm today but there were no casualties among residents. Blazes apparently destroyed several automobiles.

The fire centered in an automobile paint shop on the ground floor of the half-block building.

Ammunition stored on the ground floor by a nearby gun shop exploded from time to time.

Two firemen were overcome by smoke.

Pope Paul Cancels Private Audiences

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Pope Paul VI canceled private audiences today and Tuesday after suffering a mild stomach upset at his summer palace.

Vatican sources said the 69-year-old pontiff had an attack of nausea and his doctors recommended that he cancel all appointments until his regular general audience on Wednesday.

Young Wife Knew Her GI Was Dead

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A young wife was on her way to Hawaii to meet her Marine husband ending a hitch in Vietnam. She got as far as the airport.

A voice over the airport public address system called Mary Link, 21, to the information desk. A Marine captain approached her.

"As soon as I saw his face I knew that Ray was dead," Mrs. Link said.

Capt. Edward Conte broke the news. Her husband, Raymond, 22, a sergeant, was killed Monday in a Viet Cong raid on his helicopter base near Da Nang.

There's Parking (Little) For Tourists At Capitol

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tourists finally are going to get places to park near the Capitol, but not in the House's new $13.5 million underground garages or on convenient Capitol Plaza.

Instead, Capitol visitors—who number in the millions each year— will have set aside for their parking needs a tiny 95-place lot in the shadow of the massive Rayburn House Office Building.

If they can find the lot, visitors will be able to park there up to two hours while they observe Congress at work.

Additional spaces could have been provided by moving some congressional staff members' cars off the Plaza into the new garages. But no one wanted to do that.

Another possibility, tourist parking atop the two new garages, was rejected several years ago in favor of a $1,425,000 beautification project.

Congressmen — and visitors themselves—long have complained that the Capitol was the nation's only major tourist attraction without a tourist parking place.

"It is probably the one place in all America that they want to see that they cannot find a parking place," Rep. Mark Andrews, R-N.D. complained to Capitol Architect J. George Stewart during appropriations hearings earlier this year.

But Stewart said he didn't know what could be done because of the demand for places by congressional staff workers.

However, Chairman B. F. Sisk, D-Calif., of the House's new parking committee, says the group definitely agrees there should be tourist parking, and has pretty much agreed which lot should be used.

"The general feeling has been that for congressional visitors that probably a surface place would be more convenient," Sisk said in an interview. "It's just a matter of working out the mechanics." The lot to be used for tourists has not been in use and recently was resurfaced.

Sisk said the two new House garages, which originally were scheduled to open by April, 1966, finally will be ready for occupancy about Sept. 15.

Their 1,276 places will bring to 4,015 the total available on the House side of the Capitol. The over-all total, counting 1,888 on the Senate side, will be 5,903.

All of these except the 95 for tourists are assigned to congressmen, senators, staff members, newsmen and Capitol employes.

U.S.-Canada Air Forces In Exercises

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — A massive training exercise by United States and Canadian Air Forces over 23 states and four Canadian provinces is scheduled this week.

Col. John Barley, at headquarters of the U.S. 2nd Air Force at Barksdale AFB near here, has announced air defense forces of the North American Air Defense Command NORAD) would participate with the U.S. Strategic Air Command SAC) in the joint training exercise Friday.

"Subsonic B52 global range bombers will fly toward simulated targets at high and low altitudes in the United States an Canada," said Col. Barley. "In addition, several B58 Hustler bombers will fly high altitude supersonic missions."

NORAD fighters from the USAF and Canada will practice aircraft interception missions as they rise to meet bombers of the exercise attack force, said the SAC official.

The SAC bombers will overfly Texas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, among other places.

Proof Of Birth Date Required

AUSTIN — Col. Homer Garrison, director of the Department of Public Safety, reminded Texans today that any person, regardless of age, must have a birth certificate or other legal document showing birthdate in possession at the time they first make application for a driver license.

Garrison outlined the procedure to be followed to obtain a license in order to clear up any misconceptions brought about by changes in the driver license law.

A person 16 years old may obtain a license provided he has completed an approved course of driver education or has a certificate showing that such a course is not taught at the school regularly attended by the applicant. Persons 18 years of age or older may qualify for an Operator's License without taking driver education. Persons 15 years of age or older may be licensed to operate a 5-brake horsepower motor scooter.

The applicant, with the necessary birth certificate, goes to any examining office of the DPS. If he wishes to take the driving portion of the examination, he must provide a vehicle in which to be tested. After Jan. 1, 1968, applicants for the motorcycle license must provide, in addition to the motorcycle, a car and a licensed driver to convey the License Examiner during the road test.

At the examining office, the applicant will fill in necessary forms and be given a vision test and a written test. If he completes both of these satisfactorily, he will be given the road test.
