NEW YORK, April 29.—On accusation of fellow lodgers that he beat and kicked an old man to death in a drunken frenzy Good Friday morning, James Matthew Maxon Jr., 21-year-old son of a southern bishop, was held without bail tonight, charged with first-degree murder.

In homicide court today Chief Medical Examiner Charles Norris described the dead David Paynter as "an old man, past 70, very thin and frail." He told of the crushed chest, battered face, bruises and broken bones that his autopsy revealed.

Two roomers in the rooming house testified they had seen Maxon knock Paynter down with a chair and after he was down, strike him two or three times more with the chair and then kick him. Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan ordered young Maxon held for the grand jury. Doing so over the protest of Martin W. Littleton, the young man's lawyer, who declared that there was "absolutely nothing to show that the boy could possibly have a motive for killing Paynter."

As Machine Guns Back Up Ohio Prison Warden

With machine gun squads of national guardsmen stationed at strategic points about Ohio State Penitentiary, Gov. Myers Y. Cooper placed the full authority of the state behind Warden Preston E. Thomas, above, in his effort to restore discipline out of the chaos that followed the disastrous fire in which 321 convicts burned to death. Convicts gradually quieted down despite refusal of their demands for the warden's removal, but refused to do any tasks except those necessary to keep the prison running. They roamed about the yard, as pictured below, when the situation was being discussed with Col. Robert Haubrich, in charge of the guardsmen.

Blood Spilled As Convicts And Guards Clash In Break Attempt

COLUMBUS, O., April 29.—Blood was spilled today in Ohio penitentiary, scene of disorders since Easter Monday night when a tragic fire took the lives of 320 convicts, as revolting prisoners made a mass attack on barred doors leading from the White City side house. Guns in the hands of prison guards sent bullets into the ranks of the mutineers, wounding two convicts, one seriously.

The revolting prisoners quieted immediately, and tonight the situation was in control of the Ohio National Guard.

The "passive resistance convicts" today decided suddenly to mutiny. Their decision came just as Governor Myers Y. Cooper had ordered that the revolt be suppressed at once, and prison officials and Ohio National guardsmen were planning to enter the cell block and force the convicts into submission.

The quiet of the penitentiary was broken when scores of the revolt leaders massed on the ground floor range, made a concerted rush for the guard room door, through which they would have to pass to gain the outside. Warned to get back, the infuriated convicts refused. Instantly automatic rifles and shotguns were pointed at them. He presented the case of the "poor whites," who were "of as good extraction," he said, "as the slave-owning classes," yet who fought for perpetuation of slavery realising it to be a detriment to their condition.

Up rose Mrs. Lennie Wright Barrett of Dallas, Texas, and said that her state fought for state rights, not "perpetuate slavery."

A ripple of applause, a laugh from Dr. Mitchell, and the momentary flare was over.

ROCK ISLAND, GULF RAILWAY CLAIMS LINES IN SECTION WILL BE IMPAIRED DUE TO NEW RAIL CONNECTIONS

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Opening a new rail route between Amarillo, Texas, and Las Animas, Colo., by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway to provide a shorter outlet to Texas points and gulf ports was approved today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The commission's sanction was contingent, however, upon the agreement of the line to be constructed by Dodge City and Cimarron Valley railway being routed through the town of Springfield instead of Pritchett, as proposed by the carrier.

Involves 238 Miles The new route, opposed by the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf railway on the grounds that its lines in the area would be impaired, involves construction of 238 miles of new track, including 220 miles of main line between Amarillo and Las Animas and a 110 mile branch from Fort, Okla., to Colmar, New Mexico.

Action upon another branch between Spearman and a connection with the new route at Dumas, was held in abeyance to permit negotiations between the Santa Fe and the Rock Island for track rights between Morse and a connection with the new line at Amarillo.

Under the plans the Panhandle and Santa Fe railway would construct 95 miles from a connection

Moody Silent on Political Plans

AUSTIN, April 29. (AP)—Still reticent in the face of insistent reports that he plans to announce his candidacy for a third term, Governor Moody today strengthened belief he soon will launch his campaign when he revealed he is compiling data to support his contention Texas needs an industrialized penitentiary plant in Central Texas.

He said he did not intend to give the information he had collected to some candidate who would espouse his plan to move the penitentiary to Central Texas and equip it for industrial activities, but would "let the proper time" himself impart it to the "5,000,000 people of Texas."

Stage Director For Freiburg Passion Play In Lubbock To Arrange Presentation Here

Large Stage To Be Erected In Tech College Gymnasium; Seating Capacity Will Be Cut Down By Arrangement

Pritz Schoeller, first stage director assistant of the Freiburg Passion Play, arrived here last evening to oversee arrangements for the building of a stage and furnishing of electrical equipment for the presentation of the play at Texas Tech gymnasium May 2 and 3.

A stage three and a half feet high and 23 feet deep is to be erected across the entire arena floor of the gymnasium to accommodate the play. The erection of so large a stage necessarily cuts down the seating capacity of the house considerably but Mr. Adolf Fassnacht, the "Christus" and producer of the play on the American tour, declines to play without adequate stage room, preferring to sacrifice seating capacity when necessary.

Has Own Equipment

The company brings its own electrical equipment including switchboard. An additional high power line is being run to the building to connect with the switchboard and provide the power necessary for the lighting effects for which the play is famous.

Thursday morning workmen will begin building the stage and rigging an overhead stage left, which, though improvised, will be adequate because of the 50 feet of space between floor and roof in the gymnasium.

Chorus Organized

A local chorus has been organized by Mrs. Carl Scoggins and met for its first rehearsal last night at the First Christian church. Many of those in the chorus have recently assisted in the production of Handel's "Messiah," probably the greatest of oratorios, from which some of the Passion Play accompaniment music is selected.

Fear was expressed by Major Joe H. White, business representative for Mr. Fassnacht, last night that the reduced seating capacity of the house would be insufficient to accommodate the people who would desire to attend the play here. "Already many of the choice seats are gone for every presentation," said Major White. "Mail orders are coming in in large quantities from surrounding towns and are being filled in the order received. The coming of the Passion Play to Lubbock is an unusual opportunity for people to see a play of this kind, and they are taking early advantage of it."

Seats On Sale

Seats for the presentation of the Passion Play are on sale in the case lobby of the Hotel Lubbock. All seats will be reserved for every presentation. There will be no general admission as there is no place in the house provided for it.

ARRESTED BY ROBBERY

DALLAS, April 29. (AP)—A man who had been arrested here for "waco" officers in connection with the hijacking of the Orpheum theatre at Waco Sunday night when Maurice Rosenfield, manager, was held up and robbed of $1,100, was released today after the McClellan county officers and J. C. Gunning, chief of detectives at Dallas, talked with him for several hours.

NEED NEW ASYLUM

AUSTIN, April 29. (AP)—Governor Moody today said the next legislature should provide for the construction of a new insane asylum to be placed at some central point in West Texas. He said the institutions at Austin, San Antonio, Terrell, Wichita Falls and Rust will have reached the "saturation" point of 2,000 inmates by the end of 1931 or the middle of 1932.

PREPARES STATISTICS

AUSTIN, April 29. (AP)—Governor Moody revealed today that he was preparing statistics in support of his advocacy of an industrialized penitentiary system in preference to one devoted to agricultural farming activities. He would not divulge the use he intended to make of the information he was compiling.

In England a millionaire is one who has an income of not less than $100,000 a year, and the number of those who are so rich in the last six years has sunk from 598 to 497.

Brownfield To Ask Paving Of Two Highways

Terry County Residents Will Present Petition To Commissioners Seeking Road Bond Election

(By Staff Correspondent) BROWNFIELD, April 29.—Residents of Terry county are planning to present to the county commissioners a petition asking for election to decide on the issue of bonds for paving the two main highways in the county as well as several roads.

All told the paving could include miles of state road and probably as much of lateral highways as would be improved.

Has Two Highways
The county has two highways, one 84, known as the Fort Worth and Roswell highway, stretching east and west across the county for a distance of 39 miles.

Running across the corner of the county is No. 53, 17 miles long, known as the Carlsbad Cavern highway. It connects Lubbock with Brownfield.

One of the other proposed highways is to connect Seagraves on the north in Gaines county and also Seminole. Another is southeast to Lamesa in Dawson county. A third is north into Hockley county to connect with Leveland.

Short Route Offered
The highway into Seminole would be a short route into Hobbs, the new town in New Mexico.

Reports here are that Garnett Abbott, owner of the Pioneer Motor cars in Lubbock is planning an extension of his line from Brownfield to Seagraves and thence into Hobbs. There is a big demand for this service, it is said, and the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce has given considerable assistance to the project.

BAD SPELLS OF BACKACHE

This Lady's Husband Urged Her To Take Cardui.—Soon Benefited.

Troy, Ala.—"Cardui has done me good, and it has done my 15-year-old daughter so much good," says Mrs. J. W. Jirright, of this place. "What I felt I wanted other women to know the facts about it, so I wrote to The Chastanooga Medicine Co., telling them about my helpful experience with this medicine, Cardui."

"I have used it at intervals for sixteen years, when I suffered from weakness, and it always helped me. Mostly I was afflicted with bad spells of backache. At times I felt as if my back would break. I would drag one foot after the other, in a helpless sort of way, and once I got down in bed."

"My husband urged me to take Cardui, and I soon found what a fine medicine it really was. When my second child was nine, I was in very bad health. I did not pick up as I should have. I was weak and sickly. I do not believe that I would have come through, but for Cardui."

The paving extends from the north county line into Hale Center on the south and work is progressing on the road into Abernathy to the south county line. This is a part of the paving program for which bonds were voted by Hale county three years ago.

No contract has been let for the road west to the county line, for which bonds were voted at the same time, as efforts of Plainview citizens to get the commission to let this contract proved unsuccessful.

Local School Exhibit Will Be On Friday

Each School In City To Show Work Under Direction Of Teachers; Public Invited By Superintendent Duncan

M. H. Duncan, superintendent of city schools, announced yesterday that the annual exhibit of the Lubbock schools will be held on Friday afternoon, between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock in every school of the city.

He stated that everyone is cordially invited to attend the exhibits at all buildings.

Mr. Duncan pointed out that this year's method of handling the exhibits differs from that of other years. Heretofore it has been the practice to centralize all the exhibits from the various schools and departments in the Senior high building but this year each school will present its own work under the direction of its own teachers.

Faculty members are of the opinion that more people will attend the showings at the various schools than would go to a central point for the entire affair. Mr. Duncan said, so the new plan will be tried out this year.

Exhibits of all kinds and grades of work will be shown, the practical side of present day education being stressed for the benefit of grown-ups.

It is constructed so that an annex may be added if needed. One hundred fifty pupils attend the Fairview school, Webb states.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

TRAINING FOR THE DERBY
You read that horses trained for the Kentucky Derby are not great horses after the Derby has been run. Why? Because of the terrific grind they are put through, day after day, to bring them to the perfection of physical fitness for the mile and a quarter battle at Churchill Downs.

You are not really a follower of the ponies until you have watched horses take their workouts in the gray dawn of the chilly Kentucky mornings. The doleful day after day between the shafts of a bakery wagon is no worse than this training for the Derby.

NOT A MERRY LIFE

Take, for example, the horses trained at Lexington for the big event. Among others there is Tannery, a chestnut colt out of Ballot-Blemished, with blood lines going back to famous old Olambala. Morning after morning, at the same hour, dashing around the same old track, the life of a career of a merry-go-round pony, Tannery has been in it daily since the first of February, rain or shine.

Jack Baker, who is training the horse for E. F. Fritchard, says Tannery has traveled a good long way as the distance from New York City to St. Louis since starting the toll in the early dawn. Some days four miles around the track at Lexington; some days three; some days five. The same old track. The life of a track athlete or a race horse is not a merry one.

Tannery won five races out of eight starts as a two-year-old. He won all his races before last July, which indicates he is one of those which "come to hand" early. A horse "comes to hand" when he reaches the best of condition. A horse must come to this condition early in the spring to win a Derby. Many horsemen prefer to ease their horses along gradually and campaign for rich stakes offered in the east later in the season. Sometimes it is hard to bring a horse to tip-top condition early in the spring.

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 29. (AP)—Battling along with the same steady brand of golf that marked her drive to the championship last year, Mrs. F. E. Pharr of Texarkana, swamped Mrs. F. C. Rochon, Wichita Falls star, 6 and 3, in the first round of the fourteenth annual Texas Women's Golf association tourney today.

In the second round tomorrow Mrs. Pharr will square off with Mrs. C. O. Collins, Fort Worth, who eliminated Mrs. J. N. Garrity of Corsicana, 4 and 3.

Numerous upsets marked the opening bouts, such favorites as Mrs. Sam Hopkins, Texarkana; Mrs. J. A. Burborrow, Houston; Mrs. A. M. Rhodes, Dallas, and Miss Emily Wadley, Texarkana, the tournament medalist, falling by the wayside.

Anna E. Thompson, a 16 year old lass from Port Worth, won the day's most spectacular victory when she noosed out Mrs. Durborrow, who carries the lowest handicap of any woman in the state, 1 up in 19 holes.

The fix that seems to follow a medalist overlook Emily Wadley of Texarkana in the opening round when she lost to Hilda Urbantke, brilliant Austin municipal links player, 4 and 2.

Off for Austin

Coach E. J. Lowrey and three members of the Lubbock High school track squad left early today for Austin where the trio of cinder artists will compete in the annual state meet, which opens tomorrow at the capital city and lasts through Saturday.

The four will make the trip overland.

O'Hair will run both the 120 and 220 hurdles and Ritchie will compete in the high jump. All have been training regularly since the district meet here April 18 and 19.

With their departure on the Mauretania set for tomorrow, Bob Jones, captain of the invading expedition, Francis O'Connell, Don MacKenzie and Dr. O. F. Williams arrived yesterday to join three other members of the team, Harrison K. (Jimmy) Johnston, national amateur champion, George Von Elm and George Voight. Whatever other members of the team may decide to do, Jones will play no golf here.

"I have been playing much more golf this winter than usual," said, "and do not feel the need of additional play until we get out there. We will have no team practice or anything of that sort here."

SHALLOWATER'S LEAD It is encouraging to note that on last Saturday while the county as a whole was downing one proposed public improvement bond issue, the people of Shallowater, in no certain terms, balloted to assure the construction of a new school building.

For several years the school at Shallowater has been crowded. Further than that, its safety has been questioned. The proposal for a new building found quick popularity in Shallowater. A vote of 58 to 17, insurance of $35,000 in bonds was placed by citizens. That sounds like business and a preference for progress to us.

The very backbone of Lubbock county's growth and advancement is its fine rural schools, well equipped and modern in every respect. Shallowater's decision to keep the pace is symbolic of the people of this section, who realize that educational facilities must be provided in an unstinted measure.

The balance of Lubbock county may do well to note Shallowater's reaction to a bond issue which means broader and better learning for its children. The same principle may well be applied to the forthcoming second bond election for funds with which to erect a badly needed jail and courthouse building. The Morning Avalanche congratulates Shallowater upon its forward step and hopes the rest of the county will observe through that community's action that the best way to solve public problems is by determined co-operation.

WRONG CONCLUSIONS "Servants of tyranny" as one of the epithets hurled by agitators at the first English police when they were brought into existence almost a century ago by Robert of Bellmeis, the Englishmen of Liberty was one of the least of the evil intentions with which the framers of the police act were charged and opposition was formidable among that part of the citizenry which is ever suspicious of new evidence of authority or force.

When a rumor that the police were to be armed gained circulation, all London was plastered with such placards as "Liberty or Death! Englishmen! Bravos! Honest Men! 6,000 cutlasses have been removed from the Tower for the use of Peel's Blood Gang. These damned police are now to be armed! Englishmen, will you put up with this?"

They did, and finding all the instructions against the new force quite without foundation, quickly dubbed the policemen Robert, after their political creator, and the "Bobbies" of London have been held in respect and even affection ever since.

Apparently, the Londoners, or at least a portion of them, lacked confidence in the Peel government. Had Peel enjoyed the full confidence of the public his policemen would have been welcomed as protectors of the public and not feared as "servants of tyranny." And the fact that the "Bobbies" turned out to be protectors instead of oppressors showed the Peel government to be deserving of more public confidence than was granted it.

Even the benevolent acts of the untrustworthy government are looked upon with suspicion.

RHYME BUT NO REASON The girl who today treads the aisle to the tune of the wedding march observes certain marriage rites so old that the original reasons for their existence are forgotten.

Her wedding veil, for instance, is a relic of the canopy that was formerly held over the bride to exclude her from profane gaze. The ancient Romans attached great importance to the custom of veiling the bride, the principal object being to protect her from the evil eye, a superstitious current among many tribes and races. Among other early peoples the glance of a bride spelled misfortune for the one meeting it, unless it happened to be the bridegroom, so the bridal veil was required.

The custom of wearing a previously worn bridal veil is believed to have originated with Roman brides who supposed good luck to attend those wed in a veil previously worn by the bride.

That the wedding ring was originally a mark of ownership, evidence that the wearer was the property of her husband, is a fact well known in this day of equal suffrage and the new freedom for women. Today the ring is but a symbol of marriage.

One might enumerate ad infinitum the instances where once significant customs survive today as meaningless ceremonies or are observed for reasons having no relation to the cause of their origin in antiquity.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

POLITICIANS BEGIN TO WORRY AS SENATOR NYE SEIZES TASK OF PROBING CAMPAIGN FUNDS

By CHARLES F. STEWART Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, is the type of public man whose idea of an ample amount of money to be spent by a candidate on a statewide campaign is the cost of touring his state in a limousine with a tin Lizzie — with no additional charge for meals, because he has to eat anyway, whether running for office or not.

And Nye is chairman of the committee recently appointed to keep a sharp eye on the contents of expense accounts in this year's senate fights.

Now there are states where a couple of millions is considered reasonable for a seat in the upper house of congress. The aspirant who tries to economize is extremely unlikely to win. With Nye on the job, is it any wonder that politicians from such areas look mighty worried just now?

The North Dakotan is a terrible investigator, too. Until Nye came to Washington about five years ago, Senator Tom J. Walsh, of Montana, held the reputation for being the most ferocious "prober" on Capitol Hill.

Walsh, however, knows certain restraints. He is a lawyer—an extremely able one and, within legal limits, a merciless cross-examiner; nevertheless, he pines his victims according to the forensic professional's well-recognized rules.

Nye is a newspaper man. He does not care a hoot for rules.

As much as Senator Walsh wants the truth, when on the quiz, he would rather do without it than extract it from a witness in anything but the orthodox lawyer-like way. Let a witness outmaneuver him; Walsh gives him an admiring glance and lets him go.

Senator Nye's more practical view is that it is immaterial how he extorts the facts from an individual who he believes possesses them—provided he succeeds in extorting them and they evidently are the real thing. If the rack and thumb-screws are necessary, the North Dakotan never hesitates to employ them.

As a journalist, he seeks information for itself alone and never stops to inquire what some court of appeals will say later, concerning the means by which he acquired it.

As fellow members of the senate public lands committee, Nye and Walsh shared in the oil inquiry a few years ago—and fought all the time. Nye's rough-and-ready methods simply scandalized Walsh, Walsh's finesse made Nye so fretful he could hardly sit still.

Nye is young for a senator—only 38—and he has the ebullience of youth, not to mention a great deal of natural ebullience, which leads him to linger with him if he lives to be 100 years old.

That is, he is not afraid to take a chance. Sometimes he makes a mistake and sometimes he realizes it, but when he does he corrects it promptly and pays no attention whatever if other senators laugh at him—which is a lot better than sticking to a wrong policy for fear of being considered inconsistent.

When, as an investigator, he has put some witness to horrible mental tortures in an effort to make him confess, only to discover that it was an error, because that particular witness really has nothing to confess—why, of course, it is too bad; however, such things are bound to happen occasionally; it simply is the witness' hard luck.

Anyway, Senator Nye is a hard hitter, and any hard hitter has got to run risks with his percentage, but when he does sock one right on the nose, he knocks her clear off the lot.

This makes him the infant terror of such committees as this thing on campaign expenditures.

Campaign matters are not half so anxious concerning his associate committee men, Senators Dill, Goldborough, Patterson and Wagner, all put together, as they are over Gerald P. Nye all alone.

STUDY OF SPRINTERS SHOWS MAN IS NOT "EFFICIENT MACHINE"

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygieia, the Health Magazine

Apparently the speed that a runner may make depends on his ability to consume oxygen and to turn it into energy and to manipulate the muscles which make the conversion.

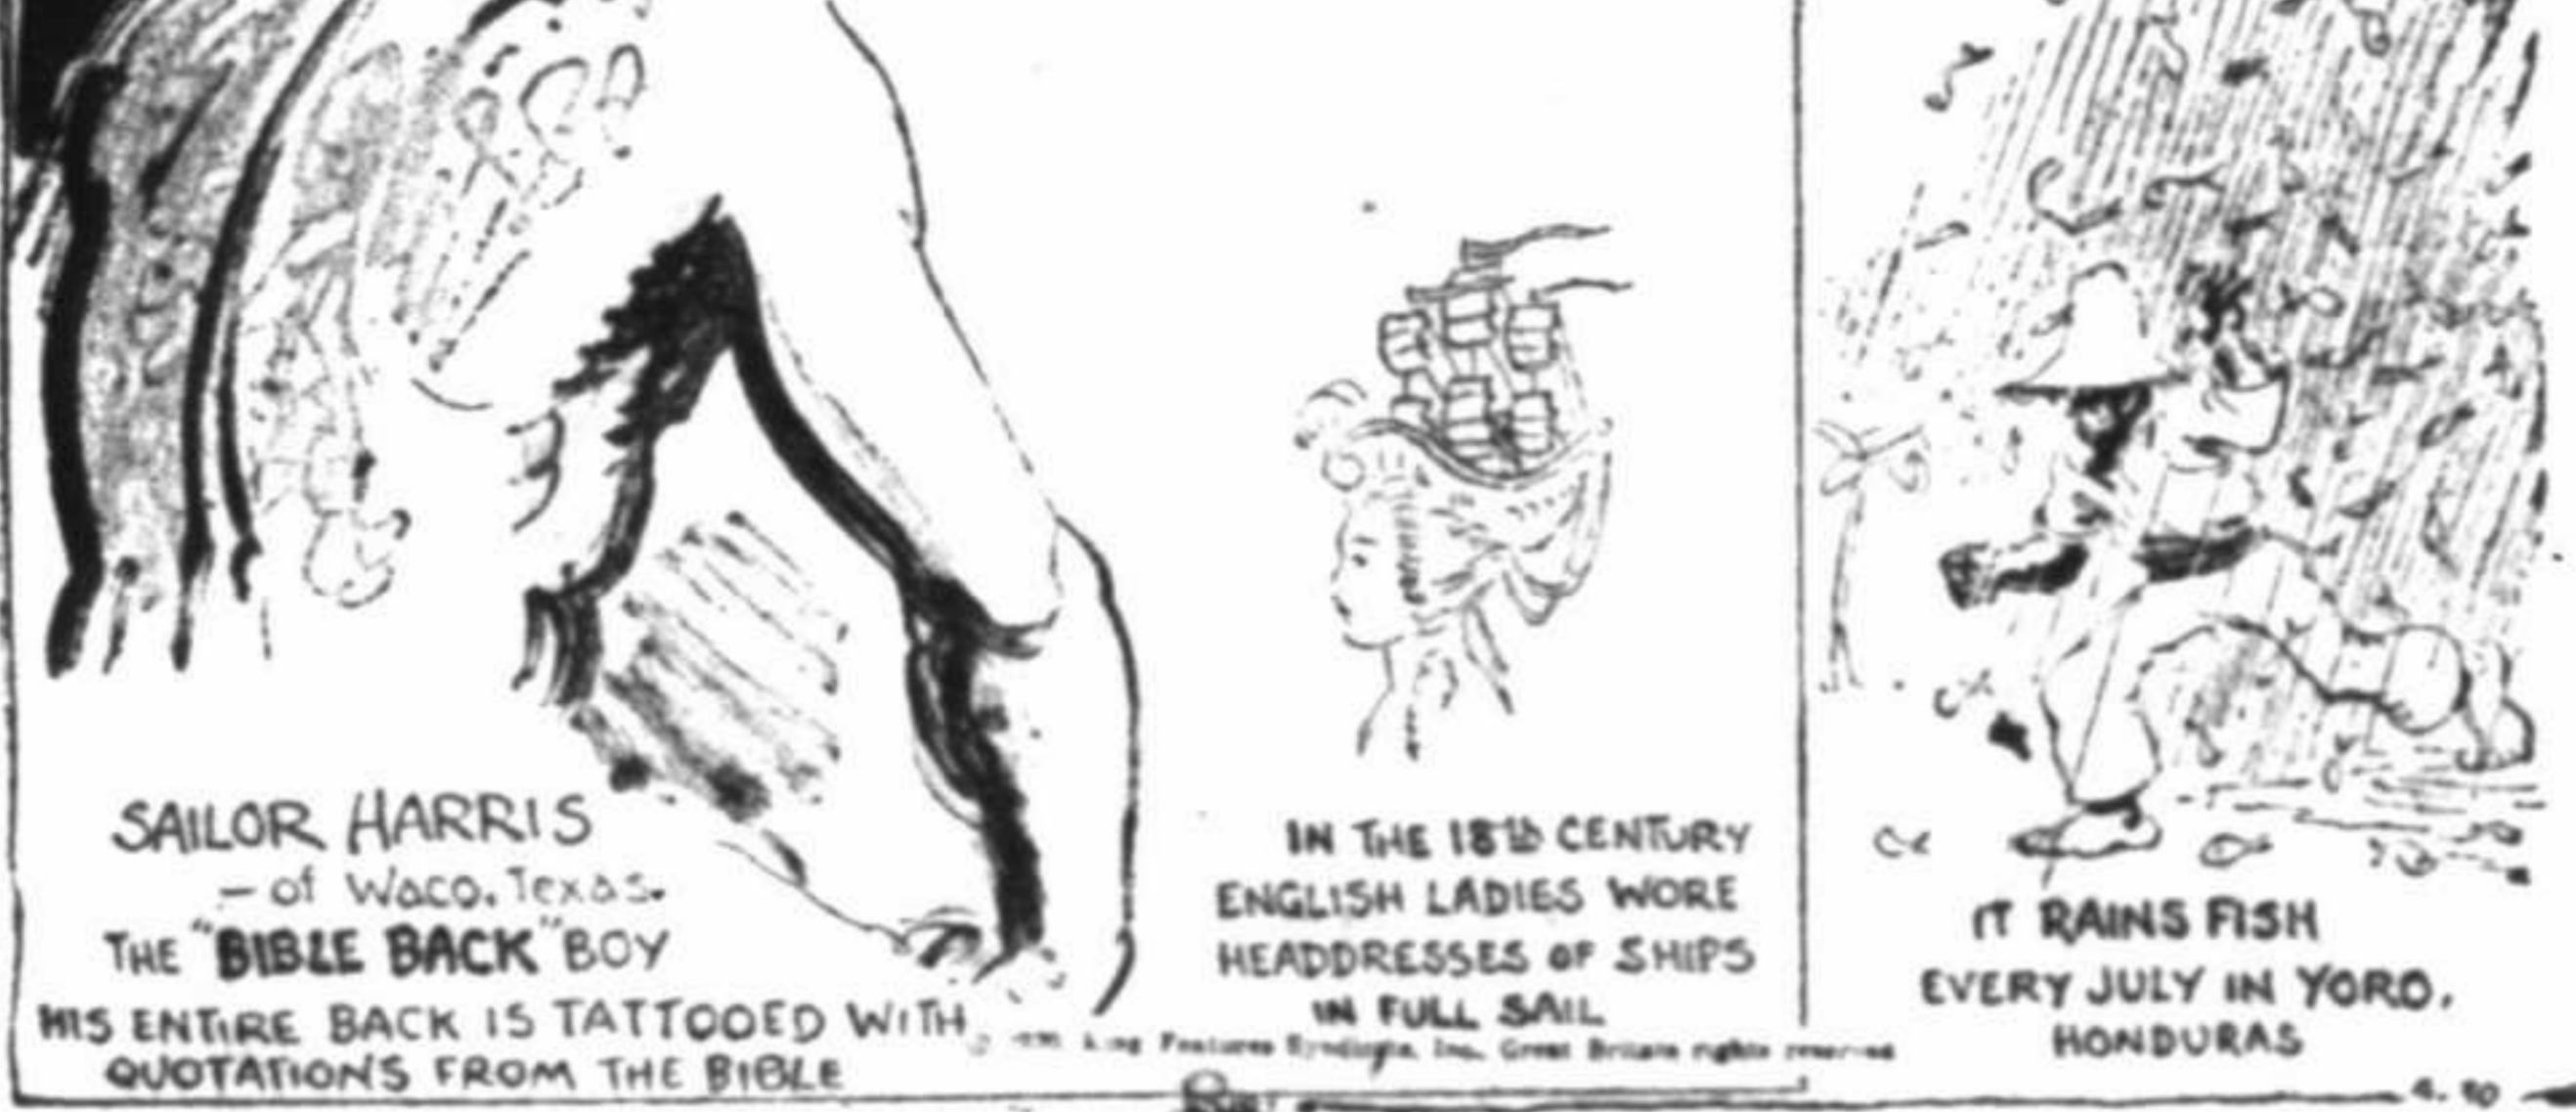

It was estimated in 1926 that the energy expenditure where running is at maximum speed is about 13 horsepower. About 40 per cent of the energy is expended in the starting phase of muscular contraction and the rest is carried on through the work.

Sanford's "Chemin des Dames" unseated two jockeys, and was withdrawn from the race. As it had been in the hands of the starter the bets stood, and developed upon the other field horse of the Sanford entry, Miss Dinwiddie, which won the race and paid better than 27 to 1 to the backers of Chemin des Dames.

TOMORROW—Old Tommies Was Wood.

BEGIN HERE TODAY NATALIE CONVERSE tries to conquer the jealousy which consumes her when the women admire her handsome husband, ALAN. When he receives a phone call to the home of BERNADINE LAMONT, a popular night club hostess who has outraged the best respectability of Westchester aristocrats by purchasing a home among them, Natalie demands that Alan refuse to go and that he give up the brokerage business of "That Lament woman."

Alan tells her that Bernadine is the widow of a war buddy who had saved his life, and that she is doing the only work she was able to secure in order to support herself and her fatherless boy, BOBBY.

Alan leaves, after a bitter quarrel in which he taunted her for her refusal to bear him the children he had hoped for, and Natalie spends a miserable evening trying to fight down her suspicions—never dreaming that Alan was listening to a grave-faced doctor who had just told him that Bernadine's recovery is in doubt. She answers the question in his eyes by telling him that she has no relative or dear friend to leave Bobby with, and asks if Alan will take him in the event of her death.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III NATALIE! She, who wouldn't have children of her own. To have another's child forced upon her! Alan plainly foresaw a lot of trouble. But he hadn't long to dwell upon the unhappy prospect.

Something vaguely resembling an animated snowman of small stature tumbled into the room all of a sudden and threw itself upon the figure on the daybed.

"Mummy, why wouldn't Nellie let me come in here before?" it cried in a very real child's voice. "What are you staying in here for, anyway, Mummy? Aren't you going downtown?"

The young voice was high with distrust of the situation, the strangeness of it. Why wasn't his Mummy in her room, putting on her pretty dresses and the shiny things that sparkled so brightly in the light? Why was she so quiet in here?

The questions did not really formulate themselves into words in the boy's mind, but they were there, nevertheless, to perplex his young intelligence.

"But, Bobby dear, you were put to bed," his mother reproached him. "Yes, but I waked up," Bobby explained, with evident pride in what he appeared to consider quite an achievement. "You didn't say a very nice good night to me, Mummy," he complained suddenly. "You were too busy with Dr. Wagmull. I knowed you were here. I heard Nellie say so, and I wanted to say good night to you again, so here I is."

With his warm little face pressed close to hers, and his chubby little hands clinging tightly clasped at the back of her neck, Bernadine could not summon the sternness necessary to discipline him.

"Mother's tired, darling," she said tenderly. "That's why Nellie would not allow you to come in."

Bobby drew off and observed her with an air of doubt. "I don't want to 'sturb you, Mummy," he told her. "Nellie said I mustn't, but it's got a special prayer for you to hear tonight."

puzzled. Then, very seriously, he asked: "Mummy, does Dad ever hear prayers when a feller's just practicin' sayin' 'em'?"

Bernadine smiled with her eyes. "Why, dear?" she countered gravely.

Again Bobby looked solemnly at Alan, but now his eyes were beginning to shine with the eagerness of his spirit.

"Because," he burst out rapturously, "I think Dad's answered me 'fore I dot all ready to ask Him so."

He passed expectantly, but Bernadine waited for him to explain in his own way.

"I was goin' to pray Him to send me a daddy," he went on excitedly, "so I could grow up to be just like Him."

Here he stood up and thrust out his chest as though he wanted to let everybody see what a man he'd be if only he had a daddy to emulate.

Alan choked on the laughter that forced itself into his throat, and left the answer to Bernadine. She lay very still and white-faced, until Bobby broke the silence with a peremptory "Well?"

"Do you," she said slowly, "think you would like Mr. Converse for a daddy, Bobby?"

Bobby surveyed Alan intently. Then: "I think us would be very good friends," he said gravely.

Alan felt a warm glow around his heart. "Thanks, old man," he said. "I think so, too."

Suddenly Bernadine reached out her arms to him. "You may be sure your prayer was heard, dear," she said softly, snugging his firm body close. "But God may take a little time to answer it while He considers the best daddy for you. Now run along, darling, and ask Him to let you grow up to be like your own daddy, who loved you very much."

She kissed him and held him away from her. He was surprised by her manner. It wasn't like her to be so unamiable.

Alan stood up and bent over him when he came and offered his hand. "Good night, Bobby," he said gently. "May I come to see you again?"

Bobby's face brightened instantly. "Do you know any games?" he cried delightedly.

"I'll learn some," Alan promised, "and I'll be back soon."

Bobby went to bed that night happy in the thought that a real grownup man was coming to visit him in the near future. His mother's friends weren't much interested in small boys, he'd learned with infinite disappointment. Surely this must be a daddy.

"Maybe he'd play horses?" he exclaimed breathlessly to Nellie when she tucked him in.

At first that was about the year ago, I began losing my appetite and noticed gas forming in my stomach. From that time I have suffered terribly from chronic case of stomach trouble what little I did eat soured my stomach and the gas formed caused me to be in pain for several hours afterwards. I was very nervous and restless and could not sleep at night. I had headaches and my general condition kept getting worse and I was something to build me up.

"Orgatone (Argotone) was highly advertised I decided to try it and it has helped me more than anything else I have ever taken. I have a splendid appetite and anything I eat now and am no longer bothered with gas or indigestion troubles. Gas does not form in my stomach any longer and, in fact, I get feel a lot better. I am glad to recommend Orgatone to anyone who has a lot of suffering and money."

Genuine Orgatone may be purchased in Lubbock at Bowers Drug Store.

with slaying Paul Hunter, 33, in an undertaking parlor here last night, where both were employed.

After the charges were filed, he was removed to the county jail at Boston, where he probably will be given a preliminary hearing Wednesday, according to L. C. Boswell, county attorney.

Questioning of Cooper and two youths in the establishment at the time of the shooting failed to reveal a cause for an argument and fist fight between Hunter and Cooper which preceded the fatal shot.

The two men were said to have been close friends.

breakfast he was grumpy and had a second cup of coffee, although Natalie was down to pour him. Her appearance should have induced a better mood in him. She was a lovely woman. Alan had been wont to think of the world in connection with her. Her hair was the color of honeycomb, her eyes seemed to be the lustre of dress she wore. If it were brown, green, yellow or gray, people who knew her were always talking about the color of her hair. Seen in brown, she was called "Brown Eyes." Those who saw her in white, they called her "White Snow." All agreed that they were rare beauties.

Alan, glancing at her now, thought of tiger's eyes, smiling, perhaps, the same remark that was on the tip of his tongue.

Great Demand for All Grain Tuesday

PORT WORTH, April 29. (AP)—Demand continued for all grain on the cash market with the exception of barley, which was dull. Corn and oats sold a little today but sorghums were under the light offerings.

Keats Would Have Men Nowadays

Beauty Shop Owners Report Large Patronage From Male Sex; Usually Embarrassed But Come Just The Same

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," wrote John Keats, the poet. But Keats, the beauty poet, then only had nature about which to write. Were he now living he could, no doubt, get good material by loitering in the vicinity of the beauty parlors here.

"Lady, can I get my eyebrows and lashes hennaed," asked a boy to an employe at Miss Nealye Jackson, owner and manager.

"Of course, we didn't henna them, for they are so hard to dye and I couldn't imagine a man with red eyebrows and lashes," said Miss Jackson.

A Word Of Warning
Girls, a word of warning, when you are raving over some boy's wavy hair, just imagine him at a beauty parlor getting a marcel. Wives, the next time hubby objects to your going to the beauty parlor, show him what some of the beauty parlor operators say about men going to have themselves beautified, if any.

"We frequently give permanents to men and boys, as well as marrels, finger waves and other waves," says Miss Jackson.

Men seem to have a horror of getting old because the minute they discover that they are getting bald they rush to the beauty parlors for scalp treatments, is the opinion of Miss Jackson.

Usually when a boy wants a permanent he acts as if he is doing it to win a bet and not because he really wants one.

a rather interesting experiment because you never know how it is going to look after it is curled. It is different with a girl because you have some idea how they are going to look. You don't even know if the curl is going to stay in or not," says Miss Jackson.

Mrs. Desmond Cox, of the Hotel Lubbock Beauty shop, says that a large number of men come for all kinds of work.

Usually Embarrassed
"They are usually embarrassed and look around before getting the work done. They are always particular to see that the curtains are drawn in the booths," says Mrs. Cox.

"A large number of men get manucures every day, in fact they seem to be more particular of their nails than the women. They also get facials and are very particular as to their finger waves and manucures," continued Mrs. Cox.

"The other day a young man, dressed very much like a cow boy came into the shop and wanted a finger wave. He was very particular that it was set perfectly. As his hair was perfectly straight it would not stay in so the ne he came back and got a This was better and he went way rejoicing," related Mrs. Men absolutely refuse to hair hat put on their hair e has been set as it looks "also cording to Mrs. Cox.

Ice in 80 minutes

World's Fastest Freezing —proved in nation-wide test—

In a country-wide test on March 18, Kelvinator dealers in 48 states and the District of Columbia, reported that Kelvinator's wonderful Super-Fast Freezing froze water to solid ice in from 45 to 155 minutes.

The average of all freezing tests was 80 minutes. Even the outside figure—155 minutes—is far faster than any other automatic freezing known to domestic electric refrigeration.

Only Kelvinator domestic models have the famous Iso-Thermic Tubes, without which automatic super-fast freezing is impossible.

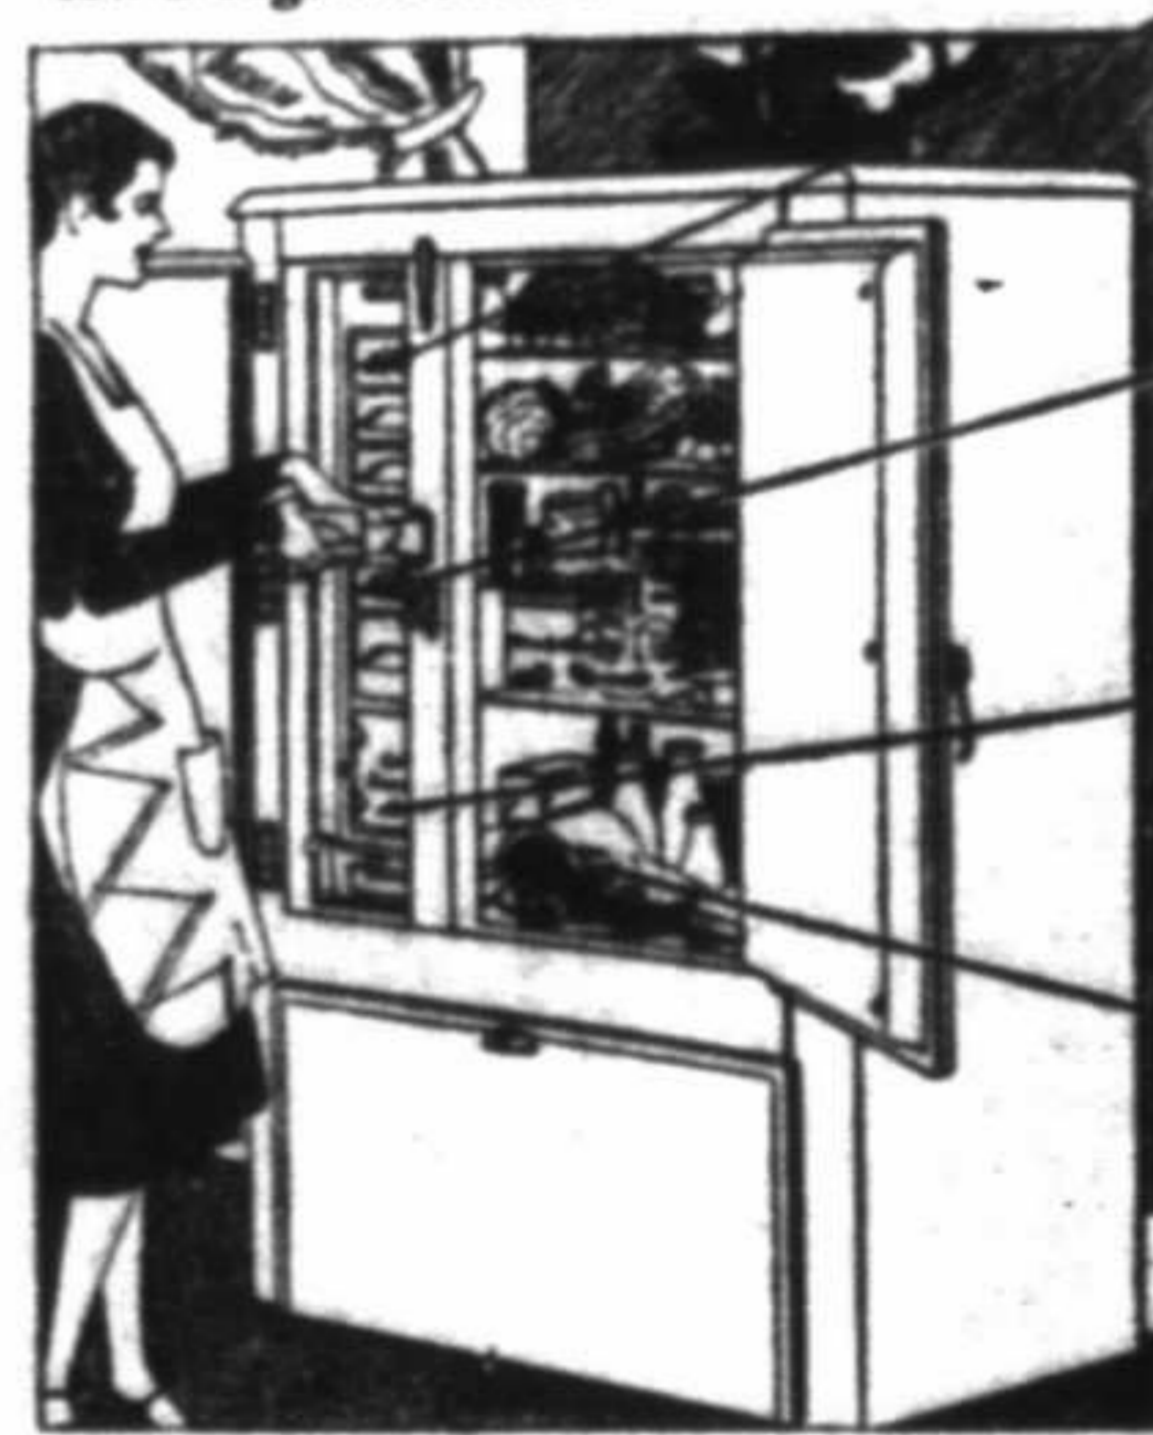

These tubes, acting as a cold plate, give amazingly fast freezing, automatically. No regulation is needed. Nothing to tax the memory.

Only with Kelvinator can you freeze ice rapidly without lowering the temperature in main food compartment. Foods can never be spoiled through too low a degree of cold.

4-WAY COLD

- 1 Automatic Fast Freezing—Remarkably fast freezing in all ice and dessert trays. The de luxe Kelvinator gives you far more ice, size for size, than any other domestic refrigerator.
- 2 Super-Fast Automatic Freezing—automatically speeds the freezing of ice cubes and desserts in a special compartment—without attention or regulation.
- 3 Cold Storage—A large compartment with below-freezing cold, for storage of extra ice cubes, frozen salads, desserts, or those new frozen meats, fish and fruits you now find at many stores.
- 4 Automatically Controlled Cold—Constant, scientific refrigeration in all food compartments—always below 50 degrees.

The model Kelvinator you require may be purchased on easy terms through Kelvinator's attractive RadioCo monthly budget plan.

One of the prisoners had removed a section of heavy two-inch pipe used as a waste pipe, from the lavatory and had prepared to use it in breaking through the ceiling.

"They would have been out of there in an hour or less," Sheriff Tilford said.

The attempt occurred shortly before midnight. One of the guards heard the prisoners making an unusual noise and investigated. His presence was discovered by the prisoners in time for them to get away from the bar and to cover it with soap to hide the cut.

Sheriff Tilford discovered the place where the bar, made of soft iron, had been cut almost in two. He notified it had been pried back out of shape and in attempting to push it back into its usual place, found the soap.
