Hamilton Weeps During Murder Defense Testimony

Scuffle Of Young Walton, Attorney Related On Stand

Defendant Sits Dry-Eyed As Witnesses Tell About Fatal Shooting Of His Youthful Son-In-Law

Tears Roll Down Cheeks Of Amarillo Jurist As His Former Professor Takes Stand For Defense

(By Associated Press)

WEATHERFORD, Oct. 31.—The man who wept once today when his former teacher at Baylor university was testifying later sat dry-eyed as two defense witnesses told of the scuffle in which he allegedly shot his son-in-law Tom Walton jr. to death.

Walton, 21, who had married Theresa Hamilton, then 17, had gone to R. H. Hamilton's office to tell of his marriage to Theresa Hamilton's daughter. The stenographer in the office, Miss Florence Hendricks, daughter of Hamilton's partner Harry Hendricks and J. W. Burks, Amarillo real estate dealer, were the persons who described the scuffle and shooting.

Gun In Hand

Miss Hendricks declared she was at her desk when Walton entered. A few seconds later, she declared, Hamilton stepped into the reception room from his adjoining office with the gun in his hand. There was a struggle, several shots and Walton fell to the floor. Miss Hendricks, somewhat confused on the stand, said she did not remember everything that happened because she was nervous and excited.

Burks, however, had a clearer memory. He described the position in which the men were standing

Stock Securities Increase Sharply

Bullish Developments Are Created By Speculative And Investment Demand In Market Thursday

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
Associated Press Financil Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Prices of securities in all of the leading exchanges of the country rallied sharply today in response to a tremendous investment and speculative demand created by a long succession of bullish financial developments.

When the New York stock exchange opened at noon, two hours later than usual, there was such a huge accumulation of buying orders that prices of active issues were whirled up $5 to $30 a share as blocks of 5,000 to 50,000 shares changed hands.

These gains were cut down due to the subsequent waves of selling, representing profit taking by traders who had bought stocks in Tuesday's reaction, and the liquidation of stocks bought for supporting purposes, but final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains of $2 to $20 in the leading stocks.

Total sales were 7,149,300 shares or well above the average five hour session.

Long before the New York markets opened, London cables carried the report that the Bank of England had reduced its discount rate from 6 1-2 to 5 per cent, signalizing the passing of the world credit stringency created by the wild securities speculation earlier in the year.

Hoover Pleads For Action On Tariff

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—A public appeal by President Hoover that senate republican leaders agree to pass the tariff bill in two weeks blew up another storm in the senate today as factional leaders denied delay and characterized the executive proposal as "preposterous" and "improbable" of execution.

The White House statement was issued shortly after Senator Watson of Indiana, republican leader, made a final stand in the senate for conciliation of differences and a speeding up of action. He leaves for Florida tomorrow to rest.

This plea alone brought quick and emphatic replies from democrats and republican independents that there would be no compromise, that the coalition was in control of the situation and intended to write the type of bill it wanted.

Commander Sneed Rejects Plan To Give Up Confederate Flag

(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31.—Declaring that Edwin J. Foster, commander-in-chief of the grand army of the Republic had "completely blown himself out of water" by a proposal that the Confederate veterans march with the Union veterans without displaying the confederate flag, General R. A. Sneed, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, said here today he would reject the invitation.

The invitation was contained in a letter from the Bostonian to Sneed.

Condition Made

"So far as I know," it said, "there can be but one condition which stands in the way of our coming together, and that is for you as head of your organization to pledge to us that the stars and bars, your Confederate flag, shall have no place in the parade, but that you will march under the stars and stripes."

The tall, white haired Confederate commander, who also is State treasurer, asserted he would take his time in replying, and would tell the G. A. R. chief that the south did not propose to be dictated to.

Burton Holmes On Artist Course At Tech College Gym

Travelogue Lecturer Talks On "Glories Of Paris;" Pictures Of French City Shown To Audience

"Many years ago Oliver Wendell Holmes said that when good Americans die they go to Paris," stated Burton Holmes, famous travelogue lecturer, in his appearance at the Tech gymnasium last night as the first offering of the artist course for the season 1929-30. "But I say that all Americans who can possibly do so go to Paris and they do not wait until they die, either. They see the Paris of the guide-book and they see that which is also Paris but not of the guide-book."

The subject of the speaker's address was "Glories of Paris" and for two hours a large audience sat in appreciative silence and viewed pictures which were not ordinary scenes but representative of all of Paris. Beginning with a scene of the largest avenue in the city, Rue de la Pais, the lecturer interspersed his pictures with witty remarks of the traffic which is regulated by the drivers themselves.

Views were shown of world-famous landmarks of that famous city, including the Eiffel tower, tallest structure in the universe towering over 1,000 feet; the Arc de Triumph built by Napoleon to commemorate his victories, and where sleeps today the Unknown Soldier of France

Another Blast Of Winter Felt Here

Following a day of sunshine and rising temperatures, another breath of winter was felt in Lubbock and vicinity last night as a cold wind blew down from the north at 9 o'clock.

The mercury, which hovered around 60 degrees throughout most of Thursday, began a steady falling well past the half century mark at a late hour.

No moisture accompanied the sudden blast such as was recorded on Wednesday when flurries of snow visited practically the whole South Plains section. Rain also fell almost continuously Wednesday for a total of .65 of an inch.

Reports say that the moisture has greatly damaged cotton, particularly that portion on the ground, and has delayed harvesting.

ALSBROOK CONVICTED

Murder Sentence Is First Under Hutchison Regime

STINNETT, Tex., Oct. 31. (AP)—The first murder conviction in Hutchinson county's new regime was returned by a jury here late today which sentenced W. C. Alsbrook to 15 years imprisonment for the murder of Melvin T. Hotchkiss in Borger last September 15.

The jury returned the verdict for Hutchinson's militant new district attorney, Clem Calhoun, a leading figure in the sensational cleanup of Borger, oil boom town, and Hutchinson county, in the past few weeks.

Alsbrook's conviction was the second murder conviction secured in the three and one-half years the Borger oil fields have been opened. During that period, more than two score murders were committed.

Seven Lives Lost When Freighters Collide On Lake

Heroic Rescues Save More Than Score During Third Major Lake Tragedy In Past Ten Days

(By Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE, Wis. Oct. 31.—Plouging through a heavy fog, two big lake freighters collided 20 miles off Port Washington today, sending one of them, the Senator, down with the probable loss of seven lives. It was the third major lake tragedy near here within the last ten days and only heroic rescues kept the casualty list from including the entire list of 28 on the Senator.

The ore carrier, Marquette, headed for Indiana Harbor, Ind., rammed broadside into the Senator, crushing open its port side, laden with 241 automobiles. The Senator rolled quickly over and sank before its crew could man the lifeboats.

Fifteen Picked Up

Fifteen of them managed to cling to life rafts and were picked up 45 minutes later by the fishing tug Delos H. Smith, of Port Washington. Three others were saved by the Marquette which stood by for a time, although badly damaged itself and in grave danger. Three more were saved by the Thomas Walters, another freighter. One body was recovered, but the six others on board have not been accounted for.

With its prow split, the Marquette quickly began drawing water but was able to keep afloat until tugs, answering SOS calls, came to its rescue and towed it into port at Milwaukee.

Prisoner Held In Jail For Alleged Part In Shooting

Admitted Lover Of Victim Claims Innocence After Viewing Girl's Body At Morgue For First Time

Grand Jury Probes

No Indictment Is Returned During Investigation Of Midnight Slaying; Youth Taken To Beaumont

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 31.—Luther Berwick, 23, today was charged with the fatal shooting of Miss Belle Crow, 18, and William Byrd, 21, in front of the girl's home last night.

Steadfastly maintaining his innocence, Berwick was taken to Beaumont and lodged in the county jail.

The murder charge was filed after a justice of the peace inquest returned a verdict of "death caused by gunshot inflicted by an unknown party."

The grand jury adjourned late today without making a report, and it is considered likely that the report will be made to Criminal District Judge Raymond L. Murray at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Miss Crow and Byrd were shot to death as they alighted from a car, just before midnight Wednesday, in front of the girl's home. Berwick wept when he first viewed the girl's body at the morgue. Admitting he loved her, the youth denied that he had a part in her slaying.

Spooks Come Out

Excitement Marks Hallowe'en Here

SPOOKS passed in the night, witches rode the air, the mournful howl of cats drifted into being as once again Hallowe'en with its legends of mystery and thrills, broke the stillness of morning hours.

Lubbock streets last night were a playground of youth, hundreds of kiddies of the city rushed madly about, going nowhere and with the one thought in mind, the celebration of the ancients. The air was rent with weird sounds, sirens broke forth in screeching wails to die away in mournful gurgles, unrestrained laughter as a timid pedestrian jumped from the leering face of a grotesquely carved pumpkin, white robed figures flitted from corner to corner while on every hand the masquerade of "make believe" held sway.

Police officials reported only slight disturbances throughout the city with the arrest of the more or less expected "inebriates" at a minimum. No accidents were reported as a result of the night's festivities.

Singletary Is Enjoined From Action In Marshall Ratliff Sanity Hearing

Proper Respect Not Shown His Court Judge Declares

(By Associated Press)

HUNTSVILLE, Oct. 31.—Enjoined temporarily from having any further connection with the sanity hearing of Marshall Ratliff, condemned Cisco "Santa Claus" bank robber, County Judge P. H. Singletary this afternoon charged that Eastland county authorities had not shown his court "the proper respect."

"The defendant, Ratliff," Judge Singletary added, "was literally kidnaped from this court." Ratliff was taken from his Huntsville death cell to Eastland county on a bench warrant from the 91st district court for trial on a robbery charge.

Hearing Set

Judge Singletary issued an order that the Ratliff hearing should remain pending on his docket until the prisoner was brought back here. He declared he would not attempt to pass on the question of jurisdiction as between Walker county and Eastland county until Ratliff had been returned and the matter of the injunction settled. A hearing to determine whether the writ should be made permanent had been set for tomorrow in Eastland.

Special Prosecutor W. W. Hair of Abilene, County Attorney Joe H. Jones of Eastland and County Attorney R. T. Burns of Huntsville obtained the injunction from District Judge George L. Davenport of the Eastland court—the 91st. Since yesterday morning they had been here attempting to get the sanity hearing transferred to Eastland county on the contention that it should be held in the county of the offense.

Ratliff's mother filed the insanity plea for him, claiming his long months in the death cell had unbalanced him.

The robbery occurred on December 23, 1927. A band of men, their leader dressed as "Santa Claus" held up the bank and fled. In a resultant gunfight one of their number was killed as were two police officers. Robert Hill, Henry Helms and Ratliff were those convicted. Hill, sentenced to life imprisonment, escaped recently and has not been recaptured. Helms was electrocuted.

(By Associated Press)

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 31.—Charles S. Mott, vice-president of the General Motors Corporation and chairman of the board of directors of the Union Industrial Bank of Flint, and Grant J. Brown, president of the bank, announced this afternoon that $800,000 of the bank's money had been misappropriated by several employes.

They said the amount of money misused was "small," in comparison with the resources of the bank and its affiliations, and that Mott and the board of directors had guaranteed the amount taken. The Union Industrial bank is part of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, inc., with capital of $75,000,000, and total resources of over $500,000,000.

Names of employes who misappropriated the bank's money were not disclosed.

While the directors as individuals have paid more than the sum involved, I personally have guaranteed the entire amount."

Fall Seeking New Trial In Hearing

Attorneys For Convicted Man Will Argue Motion Today In Supreme Court; Ask Verdict Set Aside

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Efforts to secure a new trial for Albert B. Fall, convicted last week of accepting while secretary of the interior a bribe of $100,000 from Edward L. Doheny for the Elk Hills oil lease, will be made in the District of Columbia supreme court tomorrow when his counsel argue their motion setting forth 30 reasons why the jury's verdict should be set aside.

Government counsel have not filed reply to the defense motion, but will oppose granting the former cabinet officer a new trial on the grounds that he had a fair and impartial hearing. If their effort is successful, it is probable Justice William Hitz will sentence Fall as soon as he disposes of the motion.

While the jury which found Fall guilty recommended that the court grant him mercy, Justice Hitz in his charge told the jurors before they deliberated that they could make such a recommendation but it would carry no weight except that of being the personal feeling of each juror. The statues provide that Fall may be sentenced to as much as three years in prison and to pay a fine of $300,000.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

It is so very true, that sometimes insignificant, unimportant matters can bring about great phenomena. Even world history is affected by comparatively insignificant things.

I wonder how many of you realize that Columbus' voyage of discovery was probably motivated, at least in part, by a shortage of drugs to propound beauty aids as well as cosmetics? Of course there was a need for other drugs, spices and various other commodities obtainable in India and important to the trade, but it is reasonable to suppose, knowing women, that when a shortage threatened for the 15th century dressing table there was much feminine lamenting and much pressure brought to bear. Isabelle undoubtedly had visions of great conquests for Spain, but I think we are justified in suspecting that this question of personal beautification may have made her more than ever willing to aid this brave adventurer.

For beauty was in its early heyday then. Hours and hours were spent gazing into the mirror, the while milady applied the most authentic beauty methods of the day. Perfume, because of the great demand for it, became one of the greatest industries of Italy.

France shortly carried this honor away from Italian shores and has maintained this leadership up until the near present.

Every woman in those times kept herself supplied with hair dyes, lip tints, special soaps for her hair and body, and some very elegant ladies even indulged in milk and champagne baths. Those were luxurious days.

Perhaps the whole spirit of the time is best reflected in the many adventurers, even before the famous Ponce de Leon, who, inspired by their womenfolk, sought in the new world, a mysterious magic which would bring eternal life — eternal youth. How little humanity has changed, despite our great discoveries and developments.

Even in this age of skepticism I firmly believe that one could get up a pilgrimage to any spot which boasted a youth-giving, life-elongating fountain!

Lubbock Kiwanis Club Listens To Good Roads Talk

Speeches By Chas. O'Neall, J. H. Hankins, And Dean A. H. Leidigh Feature Of Thursday Luncheon

The Thursday meeting of the Lubbock Kiwanis club was featured by a program which included three speakers who told of plans for a bond issue for good roads in this county.

Chas. F. O'Neall, chairman of the Lubbock County Good Roads association, explained the plans for the issue, stating that 414 people out of 416 approached signed the petition calling for the election. He again called attention to the fact that the election will have nothing to do with designation of any of the roads, that the $1,025,000 issue will provide adequate funds to pave with a concrete road, all the state and federal designated highways in road district No. 2, and that it is important that every person interested in good roads go to the polls and vote when the election is held.

Hankins On Program

J. H. Hankins talked on the value of good roads, stating that he is of the opinion that a state bond issue will be passed in the next few years, which will relieve tax payers here of the necessity of paying the bonds out. He declared that it is likely that ten years would be required to get one road through the county, however, should Lubbock county people wait for the state to build the roads.

Dean A. H. Leidigh, president of the club, also said a few words favoring the issue. He announced the appointment of ten Kiwanians to serve with ten members of the Rotary club, ten members of the Lions club and twenty citizens appointed by the Lubbock County Good Roads association on a general committee to encourage the passage of the issue.

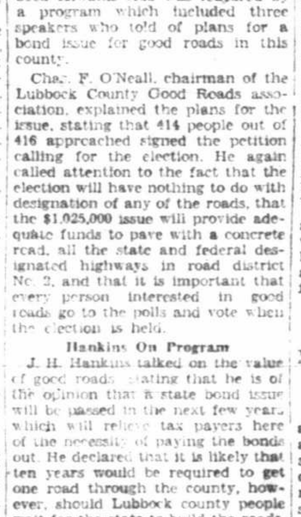

Members appointed on the committee include Sam C. Arnett, Dean A. H. Leidigh, J. D. Garnett, J. B. Maxey, M. F. Swart, L. C. Ellis, J. H. Goodman, R. B. Hutchinson, W. C. Rylander and Ross Edwards.

Denver To Extend Lubbock Trackage

City's Growing Industries Will Be Served By Proposed Extensions Here; Will Increase Revenue

The Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company is making surveys for two additional trackage lines in Lubbock, planning to extend the rail lines from the location of its depot at Avenue G, for the express purpose of serving the city's growing industries and to provide a substantial revenue increase.

W. D. McKoy, of Fort Worth, tax and right-of-way agent for the company, was in the city yesterday in the interest of the surveys.

One of the lines would extend between Avenues G and H to Thirteenth street and the other would run between Avenues G and H to Broadway.

The additional lines would serve approximately sixteen industries within that district," said Mr. McKoy. "The company is flooded with applications from industries seeking freight connections at their doors.

Railroad officials expressed the opinion early Thursday morning that pullman reservations for the special train to Waco would be gone before the closing of the ticket window. Indications from the sale of tickets were that the Tech special would have 500 people on it.

Mrs. Mary W. Doak, dean of women, spoke to all girls who are making the trip yesterday afternoon and explained final plans. Members of Arena Ritas held their final drill practice with the band for their performance at the game.

A pep rally was held in front of the Tech Drug last night at 7 o'clock.

The train will have 12 cars and will consist of seven pullmans, three chair cars, a dining car and a baggage coach. It will leave here at 7 o'clock tonight and arrive in Waco at 8 o'clock. The return trip will be made leaving Waco at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night. Several deans of the college will chaperon.

"What Our College is Doing to Promote General Culture" will be the topic for the regular meeting of the faculty club at the meeting for November, Tuesday.

SECOND LECTURE

The retreat with the Y. W. C. A. council of W. T. S. T. C., Canyon, has been called off on account of the recent rains. A reception is planned for the first of the week at which time Miss Babcock and members of the freshman council will be presented to the girls of the student body.

ANOTHER FOREIGN STUDENT

"A Petition for Approval of Schools for Immigrant Students" has been sent to the department of labor by Dr. P. W. Horn, president of the college.

A recent request from a student in France who wishes to enter the Tech school of engineering was the immediate cause of the petition being sent. Foreign students are allowed to enter the United States after the immigration quota has been filled for the year if they attend a school that has been approved by the department of labor.

"It is possible that the young man may enter in January if the college is approved," said Dr. Horn.

Garner Should Be Defeated, Houston Tariff Head Says

John Henry Kirby On Stand Before Senate Lobby Investigating Committee; Attitude Attacked

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP) — John Henry Kirby of Houston, president of the Southern Tariff association, testified before the senate lobby committee today he thought Representative Garner of Texas, house democratic leader, should be defeated for congress because of his attitude toward fiscal legislation.

Chairman Caraway asked the witness if he knew that J. A. Arnold, secretary of the association, and R. B. Creager, republican national committeeman from Texas, sought to have C. C. Belcher, who was not identified further, run against Garner.

"No, I don't believe that," replied Kirby.

Written Arnold.

The chairman then said Creager had written Arnold he believed Belcher could make things "hot" for Garner and was "sorry we could not get Belcher into this district."

Kirby said he knew nothing about this.

"Does it come as a surprise to you to know that Arnold has attempted to join an alliance with the republicans to defeat democrats?" Caraway asked.

"I think some of them ought to be defeated," he said, "on account of their tariff views."

Garner Named.

Kirby then named Garner as one he thought should be beaten.

Caraway asked if Arnold's duty in Washington was to see members of congress and try to "fix up legislation."

"I think some one ought to present our views," he answered. Adding that he approved Senator Bingham's action in employing Charles L. Eyanson to aid him in tariff matters.

"I thought Bingham's explanation was honorable and fine and I approved his action in getting help from a trade association," Kirby said.

"Yes."

"Do you approve of his activities?"

"I'd have to know what they were before I answered."

Membership of 95.

Kirby then said the membership of his association was about 95 per cent democratic and had members all over the South. "Even in Arkansas."

Kirby added one conference of the association was addressed by Calvin Coolidge when he was president.

"We had the happiness in seeing the democratic platform last time take our position in tariff matters," he went on.

Favor Competitive Tariff.

He said the association stood for a "competitive tariff" which would enable producers to retain the home market.

Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana, asked if he approved hiring a man from an association who continued to receive his salary to help a senator.

"I approve of members of congress getting technical information from those who know," replied Kirby.

"If it's a good thing, it's a good thing to stand for it openly, isn't it?" Robinson asked.

"Yes, sir," he said, but added he had heard Bingham's explanation and approved it.

Purpose Asked.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, asked if the primary purpose of the association was to aid agriculture and Kirby replied it was.

"What is your investment in lumber?" Walsh asked.

"About $30,000,000."

"Have you advocated a lower tariff on lumber?"

"No, and neither has the association."

Kirby said his home was in Houston; that he was a manufacturer of lumber and also a farmer; that he contributed about $2,000 a year to the association, since its organization 10 years ago; and that the association's total resources amounted to between $40,000 and $80,000 annually.

The work of the association, he added, was to try and educate the public in promoting the interest of the farmer and stock raiser.

In reply to Caraway he said he had contributed "about a thousand dollars a year" to the Texas Taxpayers league.

Westerners Leave Early Today For Amarillo Battle

Lubbock High Eleven Pronounced Ready For Clash With Vaunted Crew Of Sandstorm Gridsters In Amarillo

Rousing Sendoff To Be Given Squad At Station This Morning At 7:30 As Westerners Leave For Scene Of Crucial Engagement; Captains Named

"Stop the Sandies' Dust" and the reverberating answer, "For the Westerners, I Will."

These war-cries and many others will ring out from the Santa Fe railway station this morning as approximately 1,000 Lubbock High school students and local football fans gather to give members of the Lubbock grid aggregation a rousing send-off as they board the train at 7:30 to Amarillo where Saturday afternoon the Gold and Black warriors will make their supreme bid to stop the onrushing Golden Sandstorm crew of Amarillo High.

Led by the high school band and pep squad, the Westerner fans will make their final plea for the Frnka-Morgan forces to "Fight! Fight! Fight!" as the 25 squadmembers take off the the scene of the scrap figured to settle the championship of the district.

The Westerners will arrive in Amarillo this morning at 10:30, going immediately to their headquarters at the Herring Hotel. At 2:30 this afternoon the Lubbock crew will take a secret workout on Butler field where the game will be played tomorrow.

Pep Rally Tonight

A city-wide pep rally will be held at the high school auditorium tonight, beginning at 7:30, with the high school pep squad in charge. This will be the final gathering of Westerner boosters before the special train leaves here Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. Latest indications point to a delegation of at least 1,000 fans on the train.

Following a long signal drill at Merrill Park Thursday afternoon, the Westerners were pronounced in the best of physical and mental condition for the crucial battle tomorrow. Every member of the squad who can possibly be used against the Sandies will be taken on the trip. The 32 to 6 defeat suffered at the hands of the 1928 Amarillo eleven has been forcibly impressed on the minds of the Lubbock gridders this week with the result that the squadmembers are keyed up to their highest pitch for their invasion of the Panhandle metropolis.

Guards Uncertain

Thursday's practice session indicated that Welch and James will be the starting guards Saturday although Coach Frnka insisted that he is yet undecided on the forward wall that will be sent out to stop the Sandy onslaught. Griggs and McGeehee are also likely to see service. Frizzell and Brawley are practically certain to get the first call at the tackle positions. The question of the center post remained unsettled last night with Leaverton and Crawford both fighting for recognition.

Following are the squadmembers making the trip: Smith, Frizzell, Lawson, Teal, Watkins, Martin, Leaverton, Crawford, Brawley, Hardberger, McCaslin, Williams, Foster, Rich, Watson, Price, McGeehee, Griggs, Green, James, Welch, Abbott and Blagg.

Moody Smith and Greer Frizzell were named yesterday to serve as captains in the clash Saturday with the Sandies. The last named will be playing his last game against Amarillo.

Officials for the game are: Head, (Austin College) referee; Fullingim (Baylor) umpire; St. Clair (S. M. U.) head linesman; Ingerton (Centre) field judge.

'Wandering Wop' Is New Ace For Rockne Ramblers

Joe Savoldi Rises From Obscurity To Position Of Hero On Notre Dame Eleven; Was Bricklayer.

Truth is stranger than fiction, 'tis said, and to prove it here's the case of Joe Savoldi, stumpy Italian lad who a few days ago was nothing more than the champion brick-carrier of Three Oaks, Mich., but today finds himself acclaimed by thousands of football worshipers as the hero of Notre Dame's 19 to 0 victory over the University of Wisconsin eleven.

Whereas Red Grange was said to have been Wheaton's favorite ice man, Notre Dame's new sensation has the distinction of being the fastest brick-carrier in Three Oaks, according to Uncle John Savoldi, who seems to know what he's talking about for the claims the bricklaying championship of Michigan.

"He carries 'em so fast I can't stay with him," Uncle John proudly declares. "He loads 32 bricks in the hod, six more than other men carry, and then piles on a bucket of mortar. And when he mixes mortar he breaks all the hoe handles."

Another startling revelation made by the uncle of the "Wandering Wop" was that "Joe seldom touched water but drank wine instead."

Joe encased his stumpy frame in regulation moleskins of the Notre Dame frosh in 1927. Last fall he took a fling at varsity football. He was of mediocre ability and completed the season, a poor one for Notre Dame, as a member of the B team.

Still hopeful, he was given a chance in the Indiana game this season. Coach Knute Rockne and his staff were impressed with the "Wandering Wop's amazing speed. A week later he got into the lineup against the Navy, but his performance was not impressive. Rockne wondered if his play in the Hoosier game had been a flash in the pan.

But Joe proved against Wisconsin and Carnegie Tech that he was "in there to stay."

Sooners To Meet Iowa State Crew

(Special To The Avalanche)

NORMAN, Oct. 31.—When the University of Oklahoma and the Iowa State elevens face each other on Owen Field, Saturday, Coach Ad Lindsey's Sooners will have the advantage on the line by an average of four pounds per man. In the backfield, however the Oklahomans will be up against a handicap of twelve greater average.

Providing Lindsey uses the same backs that he did in the Kansas Aggie game, and Coach Noel Workman starts the same quartette against Oklahoma that he did at Kansas, the average of the Oklahoma team will be 159 pounds to the 171 average for Iowa State. The Oklahoma line averages 185 pounds as compared to 181 for the Ames forward wall.

In the event of substitutions, Lindsey's proteges should have the advantage in weight again, for the Sooners squad averages 182 pounds while Iowa State reaches only 172, an advantage of ten pounds per man.

Porkers Off On Shreveport Trip

FAYETTEVILE, Ark., Oct. 31. (AP)—Coaches Fred Thomsen and Chuck Bassett, with 23 Razorbacks left tonight for Shreveport where the University of Arkansas football eleven will engage the Louisiana State University team Saturday.

Victory over the strong Southern Conference team would give Arkansas a .500 percentage standing in the Southwest Conference, as the game, by special dispensation, is counted on the official Southwest schedule. Thomsen indicated the same lineup that started against the Texas Aggies would take the field against the Louisiana Tigers.

Irun, Spain, will have an airport custom house.

Eight of London's churches contain work of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries.

Bingham's Friends Rally To His Aid

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Friends of Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, intervened today with Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, in an effort to bring about an understanding which would make unnecessary the presentation of a proposed resolution of censure for Bingham.

Senator Norris entered the chamber today prepared to offer a resolution condemning the employment of Bingham of an office of the Connecticut Manufacturers association to assist him in tariff legislation.

Before he could act Senator Reed, republican, was seen to confer with the Nebraskan. Later it was understood friends of Bingham were carrying to him a proposal that some manner of apology be made for his severe attack upon the senate lobby committee which inquired into his activities.

Senator Norris, meanwhile, withheld the resolution.

Canyon Buffaloes Meet Billies Of Daniel Baker College Saturday In Home-Coming Event For Canyon Exes

Real Battle Anticipated In T. I. A. A. Clash On Buffalo Field; Miller Vs. Miller Is Feature

(Special To The Avalanche)

CANYON, Oct. 30.—There are some 15,000 odd ex-students of West Texas State Teachers college scattered throughout the Panhandle and adjoining territory. And the biggest day of the year for these exes will be next Saturday which is the 1929 home coming. Of course, one of the most important things of the day's varied program will be the conference football game between the Daniel Baker Hill Billies and the West Texas Buffaloes. Due to the splendid showing the Buffaloes made against the Simmons University Cowboys in Amarillo last week, a spirit of enthusiasm has engulfed the campus of the college.

Billies Have Strength

R. E. Blair the Daniel Baker coach is bringing with him this week eleven letter men besides eight men who were reserves last year, and he has a wealth of freshman material. His letter men are Cobb, MacMiller, Snodgrass, Reddy, McKeaves, Johnson, Tusk Miller, who is captain, Hohany LeSage and Fannin. Most of these men were regulars and some of them were rated among the outstanding players of the southwest. They were champions of the T. I. A. A. last year and have shown in earlier games this fall, that they are at least the equal of last year's team.

Miller vs. Miller

MacMiller is rated as one of the best guards ever produced in the conference. It will be interesting to watch his work against Miller of the Buffs. It will be a Miller vs. Miller or Greek vs. Greek, whichever you care to call it. Both men are among the top notchers and will doubtless wage a bitter struggle. The Billies have always been known as a hard charging outfit and a team always sure to flash and offense that is full of drive and deception. Their lines have been almost impregnable.

Fans and ex-students are well pleased that the Billies were scheduled as the annual home-coming game, as they are always assured of a real thriller when these two teams meet. Many reservations are being made for this game and a record crowd is expected.

Doolan Signed To Coach Cincinnati

Former Chicago Cub Coach Signed By Manager Dan Howley; Another To Be Obtained Soon

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31. (AP)—Mike Doolan, former Philadelphia National League shortstop was signed today by Dan Howley, Cincinnati Reds' manager, to coach the Redlanders next season.

Doolan coached the Chicago Cubs during 1928, but passed up baseball last year. He is a Philadelphia dentist.

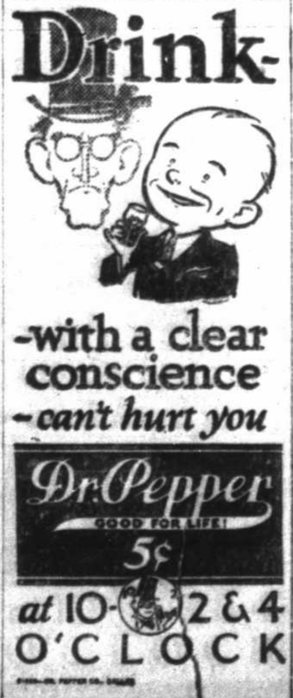

Howley said he soon would obtain another coach on a parity with Doolan.

Doolan succeeds Ivy Wingo, former Red catcher and later manager of the Columbus American Association club.

Sidney Weil, president of the Cincinnati club indicated there is a possibility that the Peoria club of the Three Eye League will cease to be a Red farm. Weil believes farm arrangements can be made with some other team. The president and manager of the Fort Worth, Texas League club, will visit Weil here Monday.

Smith Leads In Oregon Open Title

PORTLAND, Ore., 31. (AP)—Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., pro' dazzled the gallery in the first day's play of the annual Oregon open golf tournament here today by shooting the 18 holes on the Columbia Country club course in 67, five under par, to lead the field of nationally famous players.

Coach Morrison Puts Finishing Touches On Club

S. M. U. Eleven Equipped With 60 Plays To Throw Against Vaunted Texas University Eleven

DALLAS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Equipped with at least 60 plays, drilled to the minute and in top physical condition, Southern Methodist university's grid machine was pronounced ready tonight for Saturday's epochal fray here against the undefeated, untied Texas University Longhorns.

A final brisk scrimmage against the reserves today put the finishing touches on Coach Ray Morrison's 1929 gridiron edition. Very little work is on tomorrow's program. After a brief limbering up, the Mustangs probably will be permitted to watch the clash between their freshman eleven and John Tarleton college from Stephenville. The team is primed to the last notch for the Orange.

Change Announced

Morrison has announced another radical change in his plans for the important battle. In order further to take the burden off his outstanding star, Weldon Mason, he has decided to let Joe Davidson, another halfback, do the punting. Davidson was booting 60-yard spirals in practice today. Morrison previously had announced that Louie Long, an end, would call signals against the Longhorns.

From these two changes it was evident to camp followers that Morrison wants Mason free to devote his time to carrying the mail. In other games "Speedy" has been doing a little of everything except trundle the Methodists' rubber-tired "tea cart" about the field. Kaltman and Mason likely will divide passing duties Saturday.

Have 60 Plays

Those who watched the final rehearsal of the Ponies' vast repertoire of plays yesterday estimated conservatively that the men of Morrison had 60 different ways of going places with the pigskin, most of them deceptive. Some placed the figure as high as 75. The Longhorns are due to see a dazzling attack, everything from double and triple passes to simple thrusts at the tackles.

The Mustangs are confident they will put a damper on the running proclivities of Dexter Shelley, Noma Rees, Eddie Beular, Pap Perkins and the other Texas backs, thus forcing the Longhorns to go into the air for their gains. The Pony line featuring Captain Choc Sanders and Marion Hammon, will outweigh the Steer forwards several pounds to the man. It is the same line that held the Nebraska Cornhuskers scoreless.

Twenty-four thousand spectators are expected for the clash, which will have no real rival as a gate attraction in this section. Unless rain falls the day of the game a fairly fast playing field is assured. Owned by Stadium gridiron is "turtle-backed" and heavily sodded and drains rapidly.

Longhorns Leave Today For Battle

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—Coach Clyde Littlefield announced today he would take 30 men with him to Dallas in an effort to wrest victory from the Mustangs Saturday for the first time since 1926.

Esterling, reserve end, is the only man who will be left at home because of injuries. He turned his knee while going down after a punt last week.

Members of the squad who will leave at noon tomorrow are: Rose, Vining, Peterson, Cheatham, and Buckspan, ends; Captain Gordy Brown, Emerson, Hargrove, Doell, Ixon and Mills, tackles; Beaty, Baumgarten, Nemir, Gatoura, Hawn and Hodges, guards; Burnett and Howle, centers; and Rees, Shelley, Elkins, Beular, Perkins, Meadows, Weaver, Beard, Craig, Laughlin and Andy Brown, backs.

Matadors Wind Up Training For Tilt With Bears

Long Signal Drill Thursday Afternoon Finds Tech Squad Ready For Conference Opponent

Matador gridders of Tech went through their final signal drill Thursday afternoon to put the finishing touches on the offense that will be sent out against the Baylor Bears on the Cotton Palace gridiron at Waco Saturday afternoon in the second successive tussle for the Crimson against a Southwestern Conference foe.

Two elevens ran through the entire category of plays on the Tech list as a warm sun beat down from the first clear sky seen in several days. The entire squad appeared in the best of condition with all cripples back in their regular positions.

Dick Green, first string quarterback, who was out of the T. C. U. game with an injured ankle, ran plays with one of the teams and is likely to get first call at the field general's post. Calvin Swift, center, who has been out for some time with a badly injured leg, is also back in condition and ready for action.

Green, Crites, Brothers and Wooldridge composed the first string backfield combination in yesterday's signal drill while Cappleman, Waller, Hodges and Bergfelt made up the other.

The Matadors leave tonight for Waco on the special train with the Tech delegation. Two hundred seventy-five tickets for the special had been sold last night and college authorities estimated that at least 100 more would be on hand when the Fort Worth & Denver pulls out at 7 o'clock tonight. The train will be adorned with huge electric signs with the inscription, "Tech Football Special"; on the cow-catcher of the engine will be a mammoth football, lighted up for the night trip.

REPORT ON DISASTER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The department of commerce reported to the senate today there was no evidence that the TAT plane, City of San Francisco, which crashed in New Mexico with the loss of eight lives, "failed to function properly at any time preceding the accident."

Captains of 1929

Mooney

A POWERFUL, smooth-running machine is the Georgetown University eleven of Washington, D. C., captained by James Mooney of Chicago and coached by Lou Little. The line is powerful and experienced and the backs are light but speedy. Coach Little has perfected a shift that is expected to cause as much consternation in the ranks of the Georgetown opponents as the famous Minnesota shift of several years ago. Mooney performs at tackle and is rated one of the best punters in the east. The Georgetown schedule includes games with New York University, the Navy, West Virginia and the University of Detroit.

The Carnegie Foundation report exonerated two schools in the Big Ten—Illinois and Chicago—of subsidizing athletes. That ought to give one great big hearty laugh to Iowa.

ALL THE SCHOOLS POINTED THE FINGER OF SCORN AT IOWA AS THE BLACK SHEEP OF THE CONFERENCE. IT BEGINS TO APPEAR A COUPLE OF THE OTHERS WEREN'T EXACTLY BLONDS.

* Among the headlines you *
* haven't seen since the report *
* came out is: IT'S TRUE, *
* COACHES ECHO TO CAR- *
* NEGIE CHARGES

The report showed that athletes are better students than non-athletes. Maybe the other students should be subsidized, too.

Athletes are subsidized, but they still have to rustle baggage and wash dishes for the honor of being thus commercialized.

The Carnegie Foundation finds Carnegie Tech guilty of subsidizing. It begins to appear that Mr. Carnegie's money is being used in slightly different ways.

Stubbornness Of Army Mule Gets Blame From Navy

Secretary Good To Continue Efforts To Bring Academies Together In Annual Grid Battle

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Hope may be dim but attempts will be continued to bring about a resumption of the annual Army-Navy football clash.

Discussing the failure of the conference between the superintendents of the Military and Naval academies to effect an athletic reconciliation, Secretary Good said today he would continue his efforts in that direction, he did not know whether they would take the form of conferences with Secretary Adams.

Cadet School Censored

Meanwhile on Capitol Hill, Chairman Britten of the house naval affairs committee censured the position taken by the West Point authorities of not changing their rules of athletic eligibility of not adhering to the three year rule of participation, and expressed hope that the government officials would direct West Point to get together with Annapolis and reach a compromise on the regulations for the participation of athletes."

He added that under the present rules the Naval academy was "handicapped" in its athletic contests with West Point.

The position of Major General William R. Smith, superintendent of the Military academy, in maintaining the previous conditions of eligibility was characterized by the house naval committee head as "showing that West Point is afraid to meet Annapolis unless given a favorable handicap." Britten said that, if West Point maintained its present position, it would mean there would be no winter or spring sports competition between the two academies.

Army Mule Stubborn

Secretary Good supported the position of the Military academy on eligibility. He said that one avenue remained open, in the decision of the Naval academy on the last proposal of West Point for a resumption of contests under the same rules of eligibility as existed two years ago, at the time athletic relations between the two academies were severed.

Representative Britten epitomized the situation as showing "the stubbornness of the Army Mule."

GOODYEAR

THE GREATEST NAME IN RUBBER

Tread and carcass: these are the two main parts of a tire. There is greater traction in the Goodyear All-Weather Tread. There is greater vitality in the Goodyear Supertwist carcass. Evidence? Any Goodyear Dealer will demonstrate. Proof? "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!"

PREFERRED--TWO TO ONE!

EVERY year, through independent sources of information, we interview thousands of users of tires.

Every year, the reports which flood back to us clearly show an outstanding preference for Goodyear Tires.

The latest inquiry of this kind, conducted nation-wide, reveals a preference for Goodyears over any other tire exceeding two to one!

It verifies the impressive fact that one tire-buyer out of every three in America would rather have Goodyear Tires than any other kind!

This is a tremendous tribute to the superior quality and serviceability of Goodyear Tires. It is founded on the fact that there are definite reasons why Goodyear Tires are superior in both tread and carcass—the two main parts of a tire.

These reasons can be demonstrated and proved:

1 Press your hand down on the Goodyear All-Weather Tread. Feel the grip of the deep cut sharp-edged blocks, placed in the center of the tread, where they belong.

That shows why the Goodyear Thead imprints its safe and slipless pattern on the road, and why it has superior traction.

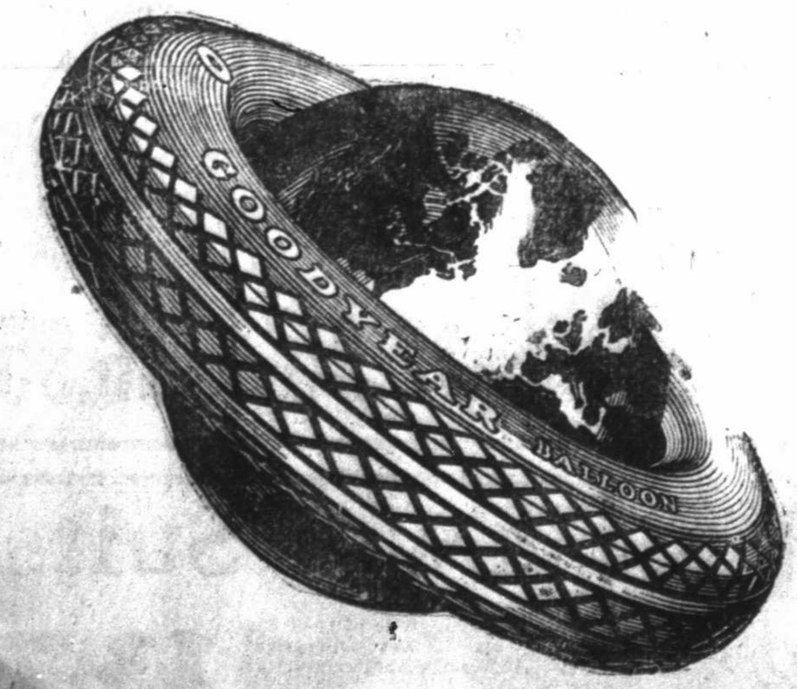

2 Ask any Goodyear Dealer to show you on his cord-testing machine the greater stretch—up to 60 per cent—in Goodyear Supertwist Cord over standard cord.

This extra stretch gives the Goodyear Supertwist Carcass its unmatched vitality, enabling it to withstand road-shocks and continuous flexing without premature failure.

Can you afford to deny yourself the advantages in Goodyear Tires, especially in view of the fact that Goodyears cost no more?

The proof of their excellence, as of their unchallenged leadership, is that

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without significance.—I Corinthians 14:10.

For one word a man is often deemed to be wise, and for one word he is often deemed to be foolish. We ought to be careful indeed what we say.—Confucius.

OUR FIRE INSURANCE RATE

WHILE the new five-cent reduction in Lubbock's fire insurance rate—bringing it from 30 to 25 cents per each $100 valuation insured—is welcomed there is still plenty of room for improvement. Despite the fact that this city has been the recipient of two rate cuts, totaling seven cents, in the past several months it is hardly unfair to insist that Lubbock deserves still a better consideration.

Abilene, for instance, pays 21 cents per $100 valuation; Amarillo pays only 16 cents. Amarillo has a call-box system to improve the efficiency of its fire department, which accounts for most of the difference between its rate and Abilene's, but, according to Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, an analysis of fire hazards of Lubbock and Abilene shows little, if any, difference in protection offered property owners in case of fire.

One of the stumbling blocks in Lubbock's charge toward a lower rate is the fact that we have, in our wholesale and retail sections, a number of frame buildings. However, local people acquainted with Dallas and Fort Worth, for instance, will remember that both those cities still have some frame structures within their centers and both pay considerably less for fire insurance units than we do here.

It is the opinion of The Morning Avalanche that a decided campaign upon the part of the city administration, the Board of City Development and the fire insurance men of Lubbock would work wonders in getting further decreases in the rate. If, as Chief Twitty estimates, each cent's reduction means a saving of $7,000 annually to the property owners of Lubbock, such a campaign, successfully waged, would prove profitable.

AVIATION STOCKS

An unexpected demand for Seaboard Air Line stock puzzled the owners of that railroad and Wall Street observers until it was discovered that many players on a bull market in aviation stocks had acquired the railroad's stock thinking it to be an airways corporation as the name suggests.

The incident is interesting as explaining, partially, the losses of the "sheep" and the winnings of the "wolves" on the stock market. It also points to a new and widespread enthusiasm over aviation companies as a form of speculation and investment.

Within recent years hundreds of companies have been organized in all parts of the country to carry forward the industry of aviation. Some of them are operating on a "shoestring," some of them are backed by local enterprise, others are being formed as holding companies with nation-wide affiliations.

Aviation has not gone begging for capital. In spite of the hazards involved capital is plentiful. If it is certain that the majority of the companies will fail and disappear, it is equally certain that the survivors will represent property values far in excess of what they represent today. The air industry today is passing through a formative period which will demand large sacrifices of capital before stabilization is eventually reached.

It is upon the adventurous pioneer spirit, the will to take the risks, that the progress of aviation depends.

AN OLD SUPERSTITION

The purblindness of observers of American affairs of a century ago is paralleled by the blurred vision of present-day critics who can see only one aspect of America and that a distorted one.

Two great developments were going on side by side in the United States a hundred years ago. Americans were felling forests, creating a merchant marine, building factories and extending commerce. But they were also making great and important social changes which affrighted the right of every man to vote, irrespective of whether he had a fortune or was penniless. They were proclaiming by the establishment of the public school system that education should no longer be a vested class privilege. They were abolishing the old class terrorism of imprisoning poor debtors. In various other ways they were eradicating an ancient transplanted social order and building a new one.

But this phase was not what most European critics of the time cared to relate or even see. To describe, much less give it credit, would have made them unpopular among the ruling classes of their own country. And so they concentrated attention upon what they termed the unbridled materialism and vulgar ostentation of Americans. They and their successors have kept the superstition alive to this day.

CRIME IS EVERYWHERE

One after another states have created organizations of state police until now nearly one-half have them in one form or another.

There is a specific reason for this development, practically all of which has come in the last 15 or 20 years. It is that conditions which demanded police protection in the cities also have grown up in rural sections. Improved highways and the motor car, which have populated extensive rural sections, have brought about the change. They have helped more than any other factor to wipe out the line between city and country.

There could be no argument about the need for police protection in the cities. When the question is viewed in its proper light, there is equally no ground for argument about the need in the areas penetrated by main highways and more sparcely settled.

Complaints that state police organizations are used improperly are not always without foundation, but the mere fact that a useful instrument for protection of life and property is sometimes abused does not argue for the destruction of the instrument. It is up to the voters to see that they place their state police under the control of men who will direct their operations into the proper channels.

Nothing is more exasperating than to find that the pessimism of the coach of one's favorite foot ball team is well founded.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

CAPITAL REVIEWS RECENT CRIMES, AS RESULT OF SENATE'S INQUIRY SEEKING TO READ BETWEEN LINES

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—"Cherchez la femme," is the French sleuth's motto whenever a crime puzzles him. "Hunt for the woman."

"Look for the official connection," is the rule in Washington.

It is a rule which makes detective work particularly thrilling in the District of Columbia. The capital hawkshaw never knows into how extraordinary a sensation his investigation of the most ordinary-loking case may lead him.

For example, who would have supposed that the recent death, under rather mysterious circumstances, of 22 or 23-year-old Virginia McPherson, a little trained nurse of not the slightest social consequence, would have set the whole machinery of the justice department in motion, caused an upheaval in the police department and started a senatorial inquiry which promises an indefinite number of ramifications and may extend half a dozen years into past history?

It did—with questions of murder, suicide, liquor, narcotics, oil, heaven knows what all, to be probed—

With Senator Frederick M. Sackett of Kentucky as chairman of a committee of high powered inquisitors; with Senator Coleman L. Blease of South Carolina, known of yore as the ablest criminal lawyer in Dixie, as chief prosecutor.

Virginia McPherson was the wife of Robert A. McPherson, jr., a young bank clerk.

The couple had separated and decided to part forever—not on violently bad terms; mere incompatability. Young McPherson visited his wife's apartment one evening in mid-September to discuss a final settlement between them; left rather late, with their conversation not quite completed; called in the morning to finish it, and found Virginia dead on the floor, strangled with her own pajama cord.

"Evidently a suicide," was the police verdict.

Maybe it was a suicide, to be sure. Nevertheless many folk were suspicious. Among them was Senator Lee S. Overman, representing Virginia's home state of North Carolina.

Perhaps of its own initiative, perhaps spurred to unusual activity by Senator Overman's protests, the grand jury went deeply into the case. The police stood by their suicide theory. The district attorney's office upheld them.

For all that, the grand jury indicted Robert McPherson, with a savage denunciation of the police investigators' attitude.

Just about this time Senator Robert B. Howell of Nebraska had been excoriating the District of Columbia authorities for lax prohibition enforcement—another thrust at the police department.

While this subject was still a throbbingly live one, Dexter Dayton, a young insurance agent, maddened by drink, strangled Marjorie O'Donnell, a girl he was courting in a room at a fashionable Washington hotel, and promptly surrendered, pleading only that whisky, rather than he, should be blamed for one of the most atrocious murders in the capital's history.

The sesuence of the senator's charges with the alcohol-inspired crime which followed it was at least striking.

Meanwhile further inquiry into the McPherson tragedy had been taken out of the hands of the district attorney's office, inasmuch as it was committed to the suicide hypothesis, and turned over to the justice department.

On the heels of this development came a demand from Virginia relatives of the late Detective Arthur Scrivener of the Washington police, killed by a pistol shot in 1926, and virtually set down as a suicide, though nominally carried on the records as an assassination.

Two doubtful suicide cases instantly recalled to mind a third—that of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty's pal, Jess Smith, found shot to death and accounted for as self-slain in 1923, on the eve of the oil scandals which so soon afterward were to shock the entire country.

Press references to Jess Smith and the petroleum scandals automatically revived memories of the case of Barney A. McBride, Oklahoman, who arrived in the capital in 1923, to confer with government officials concerning certain never fully explained oil questions and subsequently was found dead in a Maryland ditch just beyond the District of Columbia line.

He had been shot and no one ever disputed that he was murdered, but the crime's motive never was satisfactorily explained.

The police version was that petty thieves were responsible for the killing; popular opinion quite generally associated the affair, in some way, with oil transactions.

While all this ancient history was being resurrected, Senator Blease had added his contribution to the accumulation of complaints relative to the Washington authorities' administration.

The narcotic trade is rampant in the city, he asserted on the senate floor—and responsible, he surmised, for several unpunished murders.

Naturally his accusation instantly raised the query:

"Could the McPherson case have had a drug angle?"

A nurse! Possibly brought into professional contact with narcotic addicts or peddlers! Had she learned enough, by any chance, to be dangerous?

The guess, anyhow, is being taken into account in the investigation.

POPULAR "CURES" FOR TOOTHACHE ARE NEARLY ALL WORTHLESS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

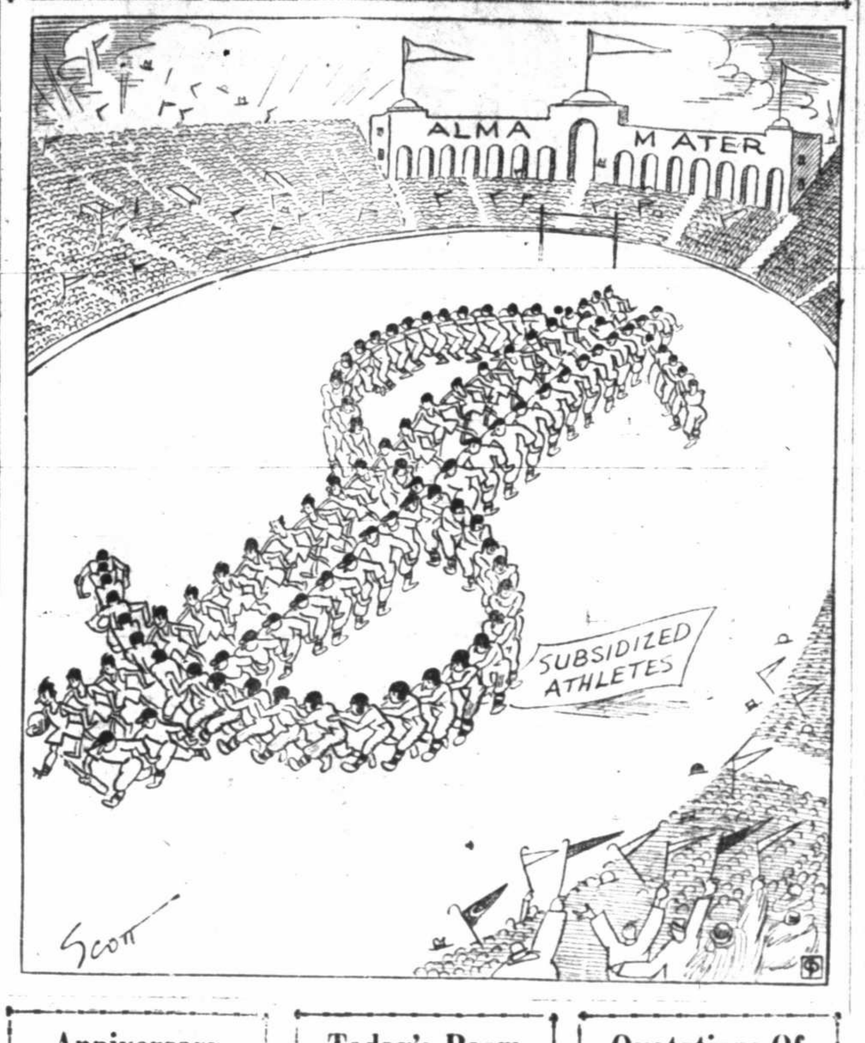

In his consideration of popular superstitions associated with the teeth, Dr. Leo Kanner points out that almost everyone is convinced of his own ability to cure a toothache.

He says that a man who made this statement was challenged as to its truth and proved it in the following manner: He tied a handkerchief around his face and sat down at the entrance of a well-frequented church on a great holiday sighing and moaning and pretending to have a terrible toothache. Everybody who entered the church stopped at the sight of the alleged sufferer and gave him advice as to what he should do to be freed from his pain.

There are thousands of remedies for a toothache, as for a headache, and most of them depend on the belief that the spirits of some kind must be pacified.

Up to the end of the eighteenth century all sorts of amulets and talismans were sold and worn as remedies against toothache. Many of them were invocations addressed to the moon, to running water, to St. Peter, or to St. Apoloniа, the patroness of toothache.

'QAKE DESTROYS LISBON

On Nov. 1, 1755, an earthquake destroyed the city of Lisbon, the capital of Portugal, killed between 30,000 and 40,000 persons and damaged property to the value of $100,000,000.

For many centuries the city had suffered from earthquakes but without serious consequence until the one in 1755 reduced the greater part of it almost in an instant to a heap of ruins.

A tidal wave at the same time broke over the quays and wrecked shipping in the Tagus river. Fire completed the work of destruction. The district surrounding an old Moorish castle in the center of the city was the only part not destroyed.

The shock was felt from Scotland to Asia Minor.

The rapid recovery of the city from the disaster was due largely to the energetic work of the prime minister, the Marquis of Pombal.

The city soon became prosperous again, but at the beginning of the 19th century the French invasion, the Peninsular war, the loss of Brazil and dynastic troubles resulted in the decadence of Lisbon, from which it did not recover until after 1850.

RECEIVES ULTIMATUM

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31. —(AP)— Chief of Detectives Edward J. Smith today was in receipt of an ultimatum from Superintendent Theodore A. Ray calling upon him to put an end to street car bombings or retire on the first of the month. The ultimatum followed the blowing up of two more cars last night in a renewal of blastings which have marked conflict between striking carmen and the New Orleans Public Service, Inc., since last July 2.

REQUIEM

Under the wide and starry sky
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will.
This be the verse you grave for me:
Here he lies where he longed to be.
Home is the sailor, home from sea,
And the hunter home from the hill.

Madame Curie To Continue Cancer Research

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—In the presence of a distinguished company of American officials and scientists Madame Curie was presented today with a bank draft for $50,000 by President Hoover to carry on her researches in the Curie-Polish cancer hospital and laboratory in Warsaw.

Recalling the important discoveries made by the French scientist with radium, the President said the gift was an expression on the part of the American people of their gratitude for the "beneficient service Madame Curie has given to all mankind."

Accepting the silver-encased draft, Madame Curie thanked Mr. Hoover in a voice scarcely audible. She promised to carry it back with her as "a symbol of enduring friendship binding your country to France and to Poland."

Strike Agreement To Labor Leaders

Acceptance Or Rejection Expected Soon Of Third Tentative Plan Between Public Service, Carmen

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Acceptance or rejection of the tentative agreement arrived at September 5 between labor leaders and New Orleans carmen today for the third time.

Decision to vote again on the agreement, which a month ago was withdrawn by the company, was reached by the carmen at a meeting last night. J. D. Lawson, member of the executive board of the International Carmen's union, urged acceptance without reservations.

Pact Rejected

The first vote resulted in an overwhelming rejection of the pact. The second ballot was for acceptance with a proviso insuring reemployment of the men. During the second balloting, the company announced it could not consider the proviso and declared negotiations with the carmen were ended.

In view of the company's attitude there was little expectation the outcome of today's voting would affect the strike situation.

ANSWER AMENDED

Tunney Sued For $405,000 By Fight Promoter

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, filed an application in supreme court today to amend his answer to the suit of Tom Mara, New York sports promoter. Mara seeks $405,000 of the fighter's ring earnings under an agreement signed prior to Tunney's first bout with Jack Dempsey in Philadelphia in 1926.

The amended answer, signed by Tunney's attorneys, admitted that he entered into a contract whereby Mara was to receive 10 per cent of the purse for the Dempsey match and 25 per cent of his subsequent earnings provided that Tunney won the championship. Mara, in return, was to obtain the title bout for Tunney in New York.

Although Tunney won the title in the Philadelphia bout, Mara alleges that Tunney failed, along with his manager, Bill Gibson, co-defendant in the suit, to honor that agreement. Tunney now is in Europe.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Helen Page thinks she is in love with her guardian, Leonard Brent who changes his plans for her future after meeting a dying man named Nellin. Brent presents the girl to a millionaire, Cyril Cunningham, as his heiress and offers proof which the lonely old man accepts without much question.

Among Helen's new friends are Eva Ennis and her brother Robert. Brent finds another locket like the one he had taken from Nellin to prove Helen the heiress and plots to get Cunningham out of the way quickly. He slyly administers a shock which proves fatal and the servants find the old man dead in bed. Then he wins Helen's promise to marry him. Later she and Bob realize they love each other, but she tells him she is engaged. She tries to get Brent to release her, but he refuses and makes dire threats if she dares to marry Bob.

Eva resents Helen's treatment of her brother, which has driven him to flirting with Shallimar Morris. She scolds Bob and he tells her Helen is engaged to Brent. She collapses after admitting that Brent has been making love to her and then in a fit of hysteria tries to take poison, but they prevent it. Helen and Bob try to tell her what a cad Brent is.

Helen denounces Brent and he sneeringly tells her she is at his mercy for she is not the real Cunningham heiress but the daughter of one of his crook pals, and if she refuses to marry him and keep the money he will expose her as an imposter. Tortured with worry, the girl refuses food and wanders around the estate alone. Bob tries to see her but she dares not face him yet. She decides to go to Brent and demand his proof, and when she arrives she finds Eva in his apartment, too. Helen persuades Eva to go home, but while writing a note at the desk, Eva spies the locket which she had lost. Helen thinks it is hers until they open it and find Neilin's picture instead of Evangeline Cunningham's. Just then Brent came in and snatched at the locket. Helen ran out wildly with it and just made a descending elevator while Brent crashed through the half-closed door to his death.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII

Helen said nothing about the locket to Eva, nor to Bob when he came. Before his arrival she had seen clearly that it was a clue to the real heiress. And she was frightened.

Suppose she told them the truth—that she was an imposter, a cheat, the daughter of a criminal?

The thought aroused all the horror she had lived through since Brent had told her that she was not the granddaughter of Cyril Cunningham. The blessed relief she had experienced when it flashed upon her that he could not carry out his threat to prevent her from marrying Bob, left her now.

She felt herself caught again in an agony of indecision. To keep silent to go on—without fear, happily, with Bob: this was her temptation. She could do so much good with the money, as much good as anyone.

But the real heiress? What about her? Did she exist? Could she be found? Would Mrs. Ennis know where she was? But then, why hadn't she revealed the girl's identity. Why had she remained silent?

These questions were millstones that weighed Helen down to earth.

Before her lay a golden future—could she only destroy the one thing that stood between it and her—her conscience; could she only believe that somewhere there might be a girl she had robbed, a girl living in poverty perhaps.

When Bob came she was trembling with mental agony. He came straight across the room to her and took her in his arms. She rested there without offering any resistance, sobbing brokenly.

He could not get the story of what had happened from her. Someone else in the apartment told him of Brent's tragic death.

Helen clung to him while he listened. To lose him now! Suddenly she went limp in his arms. He thought she was tortured with hearing the accident gone over.

He carried her to the divan and put her gently down. She opened her eyes and waved away those who gathered round to help her.

"Eva needs you," she said to Bob. "She is in . . . ." She could not say Brent's name, but Bob followed her glance to the bedroom door and understood.

Still he hesitated and Helen told him he must go to his sister.

Presently he came back, with Eva leaning against him, dragging herself along with halting steps.

He found Helen waiting, with her hat and coat on. The superintendent went down with them, helping Helen to her car.

She got in first, and held out her arms for Eva, who was in a state bordering on complete collapse.

Nothing touching on the accident was said during the drive to Yonkers. For the most part Eva lay quiet against Helen. Now and then she shuddered, or moaned pitifully.

Helen could do nothing to com-

"I am so happy"

—that the last pimple is gone

EVERY evening thousands enjoy themselves at dinner-parties, dances, theatres, games, clubs. Many thousands more are denied the joy of such merriment and happiness.

Maybe this denial is due to a skin trouble. First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

Take S.S.S. at meal-time. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effect.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is most economical.

fort her beyond drawing her closer. Her own heart was breaking.

Mrs. Ennis ran out when they stopped before the house, and rained questions upon them. She had been wild since discovering that Eva had slipped out of the house and disappeared.

"When you've given that to her," she said, "I have something to tell you."

Mrs. Ennis nodded in an abstracted fashion. Her mind was on her girl upstairs and her boy who was acting so strangely. She would have understood Bob's behavior had she witnessed a scene that took place between him and Helen while she was with Eva.

"Oh don't, please don't!" Helen had cried sharply when he sought to embrace her.

Bob had drawn back, astonished. This, in contrast to the way she had shown her need for him in Brent's apartment! It staggered him.

Helen dared not try to explain. She had sealed her fate in her own mind. In a little while Bob would know that she was a fraud—that she had come by crooked paths into his life. Until then she would not let herself accept his love.

His pleadings proving unavailing, Bob had flung himself out of the room in desperate discouragement. His mother heard him come upstairs and slam his door behind him.

"I'm sorry we left you alone," she apologized, and sat wearily down in a chair.

"It gave me time to think," Helen smiled wanly. "What I want to say is so important, Mrs. Ennis, that I don't want to muddle it. And I've been too confused to know how to put it—until just now."

"Well, my dear, what is it?" Mrs. Ennis asked, thinking that, of course, it concerned Bob.

"It's about . . . a locket," Helen answered.

Mrs. Ennis started and looked at her more searchingly.

"The locket Eva lost." Helen went on, constraining herself to speak calmly. "We found it—in Mr. Brent's possession."

"Mr. Brent?"

"Yes. Undoubtedly he found it at Brambleswood. I do not know if he learned that Eva lost it."

Mrs. Ennis had grown highly excited. "Where is it?" she cried.

"I have it." Eva said quietly, "here." She reached for her bag, opened it and brought out the locket.

Mrs. Ennis took it with a cry of relief.

"I would like to ask you," Helen began, "where you got it and—"

Mrs. Ennis closed her hand over the locket, hiding it from sight.

"I don't want to talk about it," she said uneasily.

"But I am not asking through idle curiosity." Helen hastened to assure her. "You see, I know it is something you treasure highly and I have good reason to believe that it is an important clue to—to a secret," she added, putting off her confession a bit longer.

Mrs. Ennis gasped in dismay. "What secret?" she asked tensely.

"The . . . Cunningham secret," Helen answered.

Mrs. Ennis leaned nearer. "But there could be two lockets, just alike," she said quaveringly, almost fearfully, it seemed to Helen.

"Yes, there could be," the girl agreed; "but the locket Eva lost contains a picture of Charles Nellin."

"Oh no; you're mistaken," Mrs. Ennis declared. "It's a picture of a man named Owens."

"It is Charles Nellin," Helen insisted. "I found a likeness of him among my . . . among the effects of the girl who ran away with him and became his wife. You knew, didn't you, that Evangeline Cunningham married a man named Charles Nellin?"

"Yes, yes, of course. Everyone in Yonkers knew that."

"Didn't you ever see him?"

"No. Very few people here knew him. He came up from New York, I think, to give Miss Cunningham music lessons."

"Then you wouldn't have known him if he came back as Mr. Owens? What was the man's first name? Do you remember? You see, I'm sure you haven't seen him for a long time, have you?"

"No, I haven't," Mrs. Ennis reluctantly acknowledged.

"What was his first name?" Helen asked again.

"Why I . . . . I think it was Charles?"

Helen was breathing rapidly. Her hands flew out excitedly.

"Did he," she said jerkily, "have a little girl with him?"

Mrs. Ennis paled under her eager gaze. "Why do you ask me that?" she evaded.

But Helen was not to be put off. "Did he? Did he?" she demanded.

"Why . . . why yes, he did," Mrs. Ennis admitted; "but really, Helen, I'd rather not talk about him. It was a long time ago and I didn't know him very well."

Helen brushed her aversion to talk aside with a gesture. "We must discuss him," she said simply. "This is far more important than you realize, I think, Mrs. Ennis."

"But I'm afraid I don't see . . ." She was about to tell Helen, as tactfully as she could, that she considered the girl was interfering in something that did not concern her. Helen stopped her.

"What became of the child?" she cut in.

Mrs. Ennis drew back in alarm. "How should I know?" she countered after a slight hesitation.

"Did he take her away with him?" Helen pressed on. "Oh, won't you tell me what you know about him, Mrs. Ennis, please?"

"Well, his name was Owens, so it couldn't have been Nellin," Mrs. Ennis stubbornly insisted. "He came to us when we had a small hotel here in Yonkers years ago. He had a little girl . . . ."

"What was her name?"

Mrs. Ennis regarded her blankly. She had recovered her composure, outwardly, at least, and now she was prepared to meet Helen's question.

"Was it—" Helen could scarcely restrain her excitement as she put the rest of her question—"was it," she repeated, "Evangeline?"

Association Asks Adequate Tariffs On Farm Products

National Association Of State Agriculture Commissioners Deplores Failure Of Senate Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—Advocating adequate tariffs on competitive farm products, the National Association of State Agriculture commissioners today deplored the "apparent impending failure" of congress to enact tariff regulations on agricultural commodities at the special session.

"The products of the American farm are in such urgent need of additional tariff protection that delay is intolerable," a resolution adopted said.

Branded Intolerable

Another resolution described as "utterly intolerable" further delay in the solution of the Muscle Shoals problem and urged that congress establish a national policy toward the project at the December session.

More funds for eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly were asked in a resolution which approved a policy of "reasonable indemnification or reimbursement of persons" whose crops were or may be destroyed by the eradication campaign carried on by the agriculture department.

Resolution Made

After an informal discussion with members of the federal farm board, the 34 members of the association present approved a resolution supporting the board program for orderly marketing and pledging their continued cooperation "in building a sound and durable policy for American agriculture."

The association went on record in urging closer affiliation between the agriculture department and the agriculture departments of the states, and asked that congress make available funds for research into the wireworm problem, which, it said, "is rapidly assuming the proportions of a serious menace to field and vegetable crops."

Murder Warrant Sought In Death

Body Of Rich Real Estate Operator's Son Found By Officers; Suspect Now Serving Sentence

DETROIT, Oct. 31. (AP)—A first degree murder warrant against Joseph A. (Legs) Laman will be asked in connection with the death of David Cass, son of a Detroit real estate operator. Young Cass' bullet-torn body was identified last night at Lapeer, Mich. Laman already is serving a two year sentence in the Michigan state prison at Jackson for extortion.

After an autopsy last night, Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the crime and bomb squad of the Detroit police department announced he would ask a murder warrant against Laman.

Brutally Beaten

The autopsy revealed Cass was brutally beaten before four bullets were fired into his chest. The youth's jaw bone had been fractured, and the body was cut and bruised. Apparently he was slain soon after he was kidnapped last July. Four bullets were found in the body.

Laman, who was wounded and captured a few minutes after he collected $4,000 ransom from Gerson C. Cass, wealthy father of the murdered man, at his trial in the extortion charge disclaimed all knowledge of the kidnaping, explaining he merely acted as a go-between for the kidnapers.

BANK CLOSED

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31. (AP)—The Peoples State bank of McKees Rocks, a suburb, was closed today by the state banking department following discovery of an alleged shortage of $60,000 in the accounts of Stephen Sembrot, 32, cashier. Sembrot, a patient in a hospital where he was said to be suffering from poisoning, was ordered arrested.

Dry Raider Tells Shooting Details

CHANDLER, Okla., Oct. 31. (AP)—Jeff Harris, dry raider, today prepared to continue his story in his trial on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Oscar Lowery, farmer.

Admitting he fired the shot which ended Lowery's life, Harris declared half a dozen times during his testimony yesterday:

"I shot to save my life."

Harris challenged stories of prosecution witnesses that Lowery was killed as he walked unarmed from the house into which the raider had pursued James Harris, brother-in-law of Lowery, who also was slain during the raid. He also attacked the death bed statement of Lowery.

The raider told jurors he had fired at Lowery only after his face had been raked by a charge of buckshot from a shotgun, while blood filled his eyes and he was deafened, temporarily, by the shot.

The Avenging Parrot

The Avenging Parrot

MURDER had been committed. Behind the slayer lay a tangled trail of evidence that only confused the investigators and caused suspicion to rest at various times on all the boarders in the Rhodes House.

But there had been a witness to the crime—a feathered nemesis whose seemingly inconsequential utterances set a sharp-thinking young detective on the right path and ran a devilishly clever criminal to earth.

He was indeed an avenging parrot, this pet of the lonely woman who was murdered in the Rhodes House, and from him the most fascinating mystery serial of the year takes its title.

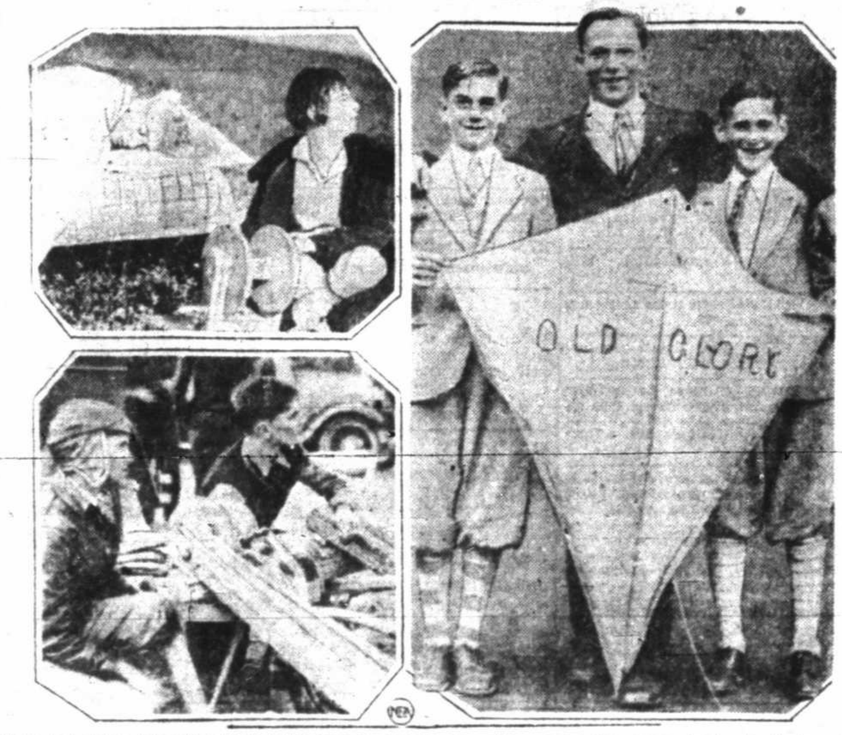

Read "The Avenging Parrot." Meet Bonnie Dundee, a detective character new to fiction and destined to be the central figure in more mystery stories by the same author—the talented and popular Anne Austin.

School-Boy Pilots Excused From School While Setting Record Endurange Flight With Kite; Story Thrilling

Here are scenes from the flying field near Lancaster, Pa., where young kite flyers laid patient siege to the world endurance record. At the upper left you see a boy catching a few winks while his sister manuvers their kite. Below are the champions, Truman Diehm, left, and John Garman at their posts. They're pictured again at the right, with their kite, "Old Glory," and Lewis Stoner, center, who came to their aid when disaster threatened.

By NEA Service

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 31.—Lindbergh may be a great guy, but in the words of the juvenile folk of Penn Holland borough, near here, "he ain't got nothin' on Johnny Garman and Truman Diehm."

For Johnny and Truman, 13, have become famous as the champion endurance kite flyers of the world. Which honor, if you ask any of the young aviators who have been competing for it, is something to write home about.

Endurance flying has been a weekly affair in the town for more than a month. So a few days ago Garman and Diehm worked long and diligently on a kite for the contest, which started every Friday evening.

Aeronautical Technique

"It was a pretty good kite," Johnny admitted, "although the design wasn't much different from the ordinary. We made it out of strips of wood and plain old cloth. But then we got an idea, and coated it with regular airplane waterproofing finish. That way it wouldn't get too damp and heavy."

As dusk fell, they joined a score of other New Holland boys and girls on a hill near the town. By next evening, only one kite remained, dipping and swaying in triumph. It was "Old Glory," the entry of Garman and Diehm. The other craft had been beaten down by high winds, and a few of the pilots had been taken home by their dads and mothers to catch up on their sleep so they might repect for school Monday.

But "Old Glory" was still up, and its sponsors still were hanging grimly to the end of a 2000-foot kite string. They were officially excused from school, and lots of people came out to the field to watch the establishment of a new world record.

Finally the weather man interfered, and "Old Glory" crashed in a forced landing, a "wing" having been broken by a gust of wind. But it had been up more than 70 hours—8 hours better than the previous mark—and congratulations were in order.

In addition to loving cups, there were other gifts. In the approved manner of all great endurance flights, the champions were given a dollar each, in cold cash, for each hour of the record-breaking margin.

Between nut sundaes, which they still are easily able to afford, John and Truman told their story.

"It was simple the first day," said Garman, or maybe it was Diehm, "and the wind was good. The night wasn't so bad, either and the second day didn't give us any serious trouble. We took turns sleeping.

"About 10 o'clock Sunday night the wind started to die down. Boy! It looked bad for us. It seemed like everybody in town knew about it. We got a lot of advice—"

"But," interrupted Diehm, or maybe it was Garman, "hot air doesn't keep kites up." Triumphantly he gulped some more ice cream.

"You see," resumed the aeronautical technician, "there were three distinct currents of air. As long as we could keep 'Old Glory' in the top layer, we were all right. But there was a dead space below that was full of air pockets. We had to keep her out of that, and for a while it looked like we were sunk, and just when the record was almost broken.

"Well, we had to do something, and there was a higher hill on the other side of town. If we could reach that we could keep her up."

They had plenty of cooperation. Traffic on the main street was halted while John and Truman taking turns running, charged through lines of threatening electric light wires and steeples, finally to reach the crest of Mount Tabor. There "Old Glory" soared again to majestic heights, and stayed until late the next afternoon.

A Friendly Enemy

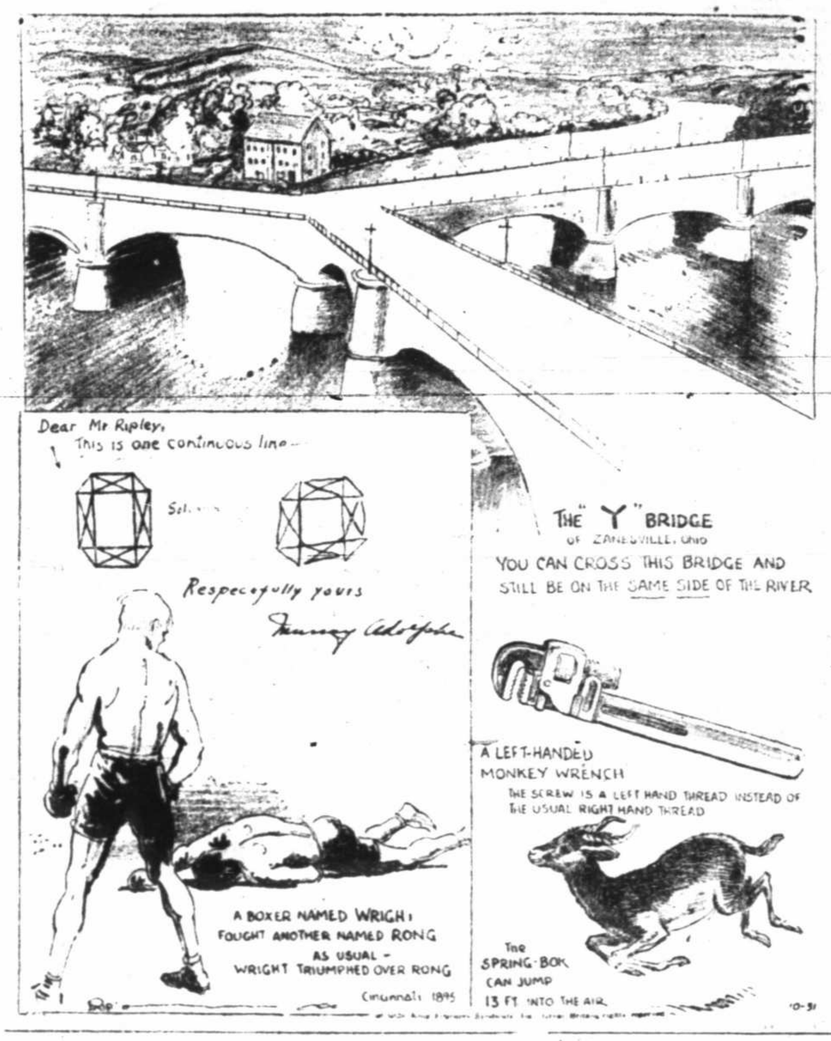

"But I want to say," declared Garman, "that the guy who saved the day is Lewis Stoner. He was in the race at the start, but his 'Spirit of New Holland' was forced down when the string got damp and broke. When that happened he came over and joined us. He helped us when we had to run through the town and over to Mount Tabor, three miles away.

"He's bigger than we are, and he carried me on his shoulders when we crossed streams and went through corn fields where Truman and I couldn't have made it alone.

"Yes, they let us out of school to break the record. We're working on a kite now that ought to stay up a week."

Rifleman Sought For Shooting Of Three Dry Agents

Officers Are Shot Down By Unknown Assailant In Forrested Fastness Of Unaka Range

ERWIN, Tenn., Oct. 31. (AP)—Somewhere in the forested fastnesses of the Unaka Range, a hidden rifleman who wounded three officers was believed concealed today from posses prepared to "shoot him or arrest him," while one of his victims lay near death at a hospital here.

On a raid for whiskey yesterday, Deputy Sheriff W. M. Barnett of Erwin was shot through the abdomen. Doctors said he had little chance of recovery. Seeking Barnett's assailant, Sheriff Sam Coin of Unicoi county and Sheriff J. B. Worley of Washington county were shot down near the same spot. Neither was believed seriously hurt.

Carter county officers joined Washington and Unicoi deputies. Their only guide was Sheriff Coin's statement he saw Cass Atkins, escaped state convict, run through the woods just after the second shooting.

North Carolina officers were asked to guard against escape across the nearby state line.

Release Counties From Quarantine

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP)—Four Eastern and South Texas counties will be released from state and federal tick quarantine December 1, virtually having completed eradication, Carroll S. Drew, director of tick eradication for the Livestock Sanitary commission has announced.

Th counties scheduled for release are Red River, Upshur, Wood and Bell. Tick eradication in them was progressed to such a point that with the exception of small premises still held under local quarantine herds are tick-free. The quarantined herds will be kept under inspection until they are free.

The commission is going forward with plans to begin eradication work in 10 other counties March 1. Work will start on that date in Panola, Rusk, Cherokee, Anderson, a section of Fort Bend west of the Brazos, Atascosa, the northern part of Live Oak, Hidalgo, Willacy, Duvall and Cameron counties.

PARIS MARKET NORMAL

PARIS, Oct. 31. (AP)—The situation in the Paris bourse and financial markets today was perfectly normal and safe, representatives of banks, brokers and technical experts informed high officials of the finance ministry who called on them to determine the effect of the New York depression on the French market.

The city of London still contains 32 churches designed by Sir Christopher Wren, the architect of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Russia's regular Red Army is estimated to be 562,000 strong; there are also 12,000,000 Territorials.

Government Sale Of Liquor Upheld

TORONTO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Retained in power by the biggest plurality ever given a government in Ontario, conservatives today regarded the election as vindication of their policy of government sale of liquor.

Inaugurated three years ago by the government of Premier G. Howard Ferguson, the government control act was the principal issue in yesterday's general election. The progressives demanded none-dry legislation and the liberals a plebiscite.

The conservatives, holding 75 of the 112 seats at the dissolution of the last legislature, increased this number by 15 with four seats doubtful. Premier Ferguson was elected with a majority of more than 2,000 over his prohibitionist opponent, the Rev. T. H. Bradley.

DECREASE ACCEPTED

Rediscount Rate Changed From 6 1-2 To 6

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—The decrease of one-half of one per cent in the Bank of England discount rate today was accepted at the Treasury as an indication a decrease in the New York Federal Reserve bank discount rate was imminent.

Officials looked upon the decrease of the Bank of England rate as a move to help business in that country and also as an indication the flow of gold from England to America had diminished.

Also double garage, let us show you the home everyone is raving about. It's a little dream palace. Think of it, all for $4,500. If this home was down close in you could not buy it for less than $6,000. But why not buy it now, located in Maddox addition, one of Lubbock's largest and choicest suburbs, where homes are sensibly restricted to brick, stucco, and stone construction. and river scenes of bridges which span the Seine. Each picture was tinted.

Speaking in a personal vein, Mr. Holmes carried his hearers to sidewalk cafes, explaining customs and showing pictures taken by himself 20 years ago presenting a strange contrast to the costumes of the present day.

Natural Coloring

Water fountains which run only once a month were viewed in their natural coloring.

Mr. Holmes has the knack of finding his way in the most unusual retreats as observed in the pictures and the audience was enabled to see places which probably could not be found with or without the guide-book by the ordinary traveller.

Continuing with his travel around the city, Mr. Holmes took his hearers to view the markets of Paris which are known as the "flea" markets where they saw the purchase of vegetables, clothes and the exchange of stamps. The art exchange was also visited.

Buildings Pictured

One of the loveliest of the groups of pictures was a selection of views of buildings and parks at dusk, and after night had fallen the theatres were visited.

Fontainebelau castle, Napoleon's favorite residence was presented and a short history given of the emperor who signed his abdication in this palace in 1814.

The reading stalls where a Frenchman may receive a liberal education as he pauses day after day to peruse a few pages as he goes to his work were an unusual sight, as were the hundreds of pictures which were explained by this master of modern travelogue.

GIVEN 20 YEARS

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP)—Ollie F. Flatt drew a 20 year penitentiary term today on conviction of robbery with firearms and a five year term for automobile theft after he pleaded not guilty in criminal district court. He was charged with being one of two white men who trussed up a negro porter while he was sweeping out a drug store early on the morning of June 23 and took $4.50 from the safe.

Cotton Active; Stock Prices Rally

Prices Ease Off Rapidly Because Of Heavy Buying

Pre-Holiday Liquidations Follow Fluctuations In Session Of Cotton Mart As Closing Feature

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31. (AP)—After fluctuating narrowly for most of today's session due to the holiday here tomorrow and the closing of the principal financial markets after today until Monday, cotton trading became quite active towards close due to some pre-holiday liquidation.

Prices which had advanced moderately, eased rapidly. December contracts sold off from 18.12 to 17.86 and closed at 17.87 the general market closed easy at net declines of 1 to 22 points.

Cables Easier

Liverpool cables were relatively easier but the local market opened irregular. Initial trades were unchanged to 3 points net down and prices receded after the start until active positions showed losses of 2 to 3 points compared with the previous close.

Offerings were absorbed at the decline by a demand stimulated by the unfavorable weather in the belt. January reached 18.23 and March 18.50, or 6 to 7 points above the previous close.

Turns Weak

After mid-session the market turned decidedly weak due to pre-holiday and the usual week-end liquidation and evening up. All active months made new lows for the day in late trading with January at 17.97 and March 18.23, or 26 to 27 points below the highs. Final prices were at about the lowest.

Receipts, 80,351; for week, 438,715; for year, 4,189,962; last year, 4,149,709. Exports, 61 015; for week, 229,105; for year, 2,038,145; last year, 2,196,009. Stocks, 2,257,086; last year, 2,183,299. Stock on shipboard, 206,771; last year, 297,550. Spot sales 41,173; last year, holiday.

Cotton Rallies From Irregular Opening

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Rallies from an irregular opening were promoted by unfavorable weather reports in cotton here today, but prices later weakened under a renewal of liquidation and southern selling. January contracts sold off from 18.29 to 18.02 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 20 to 22 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of two points to an advance of one point but light initial offerings were absorbed readily and the market soon steadied. Selling on relatively easy Liverpool cables seemed to be just about offset by covering on reports of further rains in the south with low temperatures in the west and for a time the market showed a pretty steady undertone.

Wheat Values Are Thrust Downward

Over Enthusiastic Profit Taking On Part Of Recent Speculative Buyers Is Cause Of Decline

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. (AP)—Over enthusiastic profit taking on the part of recent speculative buyers, thrust wheat values downward today after a lively fresh upturn. Extra energy of efforts to realize gains was tempted by the fact that at one stage today's wheat prices had mounted to 16 cents a bushel higher than last week's bottom level.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1-2 to 1 1-8 cents lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-4 to 5-8 cent down, with oats unchanged to 1-8 up and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 12 cents.

Market Dominated.

To a great degree, wheat trade here was dominated early by knowledge that foreign markets had reflected in full the sharp advance of wheat values which had taken place yesterday on this side of the Atlantic. Fresh, speculative purchasing, largely for houses with connections east, was stimulated also by indications of continued big export business again today, signs pointing to heavy additional amounts of breadstuffs being taken for trans-Atlantic shipment both from the United States and Canada, whereas Argentine wheat exports for the week were figured as totaling only 1,470,000 bushels compared with 4,612,000 bushels the week previous.

Further Weakness Develops Around Market Circuit On Long Yearlings

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31. (AP)—Further weakness developed around the eleven market circuit on the lighter weight of beef steers and long yearlings. Chicago, however, reported an upturn of 25 cents on weighty fed steers. Eastern dressed beef market reported a poor demand with trade at Boston especially dull. Chicago had a top of 15.35 on yearlings and 14.75 on best weighty steers. Adverse weather conditions this week have had a tendency to slow up demand for replacement stock and some price concessions have been necessary in order to effect a clearing. High quality offerings, however, continued to meet a good demand. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 30,200, a decrease of 2,000 from last Thursday and 5,000 short of a year ago.

Opening hog trade unevenly steady to 25 cents lower. On the close packers at most points enforced a big 25c decline. The day's extreme top of 9.50 was paid in St. Louis. Total offerings 72,700 against 79,639 a week ago and 63,919 the corresponding day last year.

Lester Hearing

Avalanche-Journal, and editors of publications at Idalou and Slaton.

"Should any outside paper endeavor to circulate the direct testimony in this district, they also will be prohibited," said Judge Mullican last night.

It is understood that this action by the court was taken in an effort to prevent the necessity of a change of venue for the case.

"While our first action in refusing to suppress the testimony was taken through a strict adherence of policy in this organization, that no news shall be withheld from our readers, we will willingly co-operate with the court," Charles A. Guy, editor of the Avalanch-Journal publications, said last night.

To Abide By Order

"We intend to abide by Judge Mullican's order, inasmuch as we feel that it is our duty to the entire area to co-operate with the courts and with the public in the furtherance of justice."

Order Sworn Out

The order, as served by county officers, follows:

"THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF LUBBOCK
IN CHAMBERS 99th JUDICIAL COURT, THIS THE 31st DAY OF OCTOBER A. D. 1929.

WHEREAS, there is now pending in the 99th district court of Lubbock Co., Texas on the Criminal docket of said court, a cause numbered 1319, entitled "The State of Texas Versus Clay Lester" in which the said Clay Lester is charged by indictment with having killed one Virgie Lester in Lubbock County, Texas, on or about October 24th, A. D. 1929:

And, whereas, after the presenting of said indictment, by proper order of this court, a special venire of 125 men has been summoned to appear in this court November Fourth, 1929, at which time this cause is set down for trial;

And, whereas, there is now pending in said cause an application by the said Clay Lester for a writ of Habeas Corpus which application is set for hearing November 1st, 1929

And, whereas, it is contemplated that the sworn testimony of witnesses purporting to know the facts in connection with the aforesaid charge will be introduced at said hering.

And, whereas, the publication of such testimony prior to the examination of the venire summoned in said cause would have a tendency to embarass, impede, and obstruct the administration of justice, and would probably bring in issue the qualifications of ventiremen who should come into knowledge of such testimony:

WHEREFORE it is the order of this Court that no person, firm, corporation, or association shall hereafter print, publish, distribute, or circulate in any manner, in the County of Lubbock, State of Texas, any of the testimony adduced at said Habeas Corpus hearing until after a jury has been selected in the above entitled and numbered cause in a trial on its merits.
(Signed) CLARK M. MULLICAN,
Judge of the District Court, 99th Judicial District of Texas.
THE STATE OF TEXAS
LUBBOCK COUNTY

I, Flora Atchison, Clerk of the District Courts in and for Lubbock County, Texas, hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of order of the court prohibiting publication of the sworn testimony taken at the habeas corpus hearing on the application of Clay Lester in cause No. 1320, styled Ex Parte Application, Clay Lester vs. State of Texas, as the same appears of record on page 1, of volume 2 of the minutes of the 99th district court.

Witness my hand and seal of said courts at office in Lubbock, Texas, this October 31, 1929.
FLORA ATCHISON,
Clerk, District Courts, Lubbock County, Texas.

Results To Be Given.

A number of witnesses are expected to testify this morning, all of them having made signed statements regarding the case. Though no direct testimony can be published, following Judge Mullican's edict, results and procedure of the hearing will be given.

All witnesses to appear today probably will be called to the stand when the case goes to trial next Monday. At that time a full account will be carried by the Avalanche and Journal.

Defendant Asks Question.

Lester, during his week in the county jail, has given newspapermen two interviews. The first was a declaration in which he described the shooting as "purely accidental." His second statement, made yesterday, was one in which he expressed resentment of prosecutors' statement on his case. "Is it for the benefit of society that Bradley has become so harsh in discussion of my case, or is it for his own personal benefit?" he asked.

"Why wouldn't the district attorney allow me to appear before the grand jury which investigated my case? I would like for him to answer me."

Attorneys who will engage in legal battle today are District Attorney Durwood Bradley, representing the state, and W. F. Schenck and Charles Tripletl, counsel for the defendant.

Uneven Values In Livestock Market

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Extremely uneven values prevailed in practically all divisions of the cattle and calf market here today, with pronounced dullness attended by a lower trend. Slaughter steers low cutter cows, bulls and grassy slaughter yearlings 15 cents to 25 cents lower.

Low cutter cows sold 4.65. Other low cutters at 4.00 and less.

Slaughter calves had a further decline of 25-50 cents. Choice heavy fat calves 9.00 and other at 8.75 and less.

Declines Occur

Declines of about ten cents occurred in carlots of butcher hogs as truckers cleared at levels steady to ten cents lower. Best truck hog top 9.40 and medium to choice light rail butchers sold at 9.25. The rail run confined to one carlot.

Sheep and lamb trade poorly tested on account of short receipts and most sales appeared steady. Some fat yearlings sold at 9.00; 2-year-old fat wethers sold at 8.00 and a few aged wethers sold at 6.75.

LUBBOCK LIVESTOCK

The following report furnished by McDonald Packing company:

RATES REDUCED

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (AP)—The state railroad commission today reduced the rate on casing-head gasoline from South Bend, Eliasville, Breckenridge, South Hanlon, Frankell and Desdemona to El Paso from 41 to 36 1-2 cents a hundred pounds.

Reduction Of New Rediscount Rate Causes Increases

World Wide Stringency Of Credit Is Thought Passed As Bankers' Loans Take Unprecedented Drop

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31. (AP)—Reduction of the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate from 6 to 5 per cent and an unprecedented drop of $1,096,000,000 in brokers' loans, announced after the close of another session of swiftly rallying prices on the stock market today, were immediately hailed in leading financial centers as marking the passing of the world-wide credit stringency. The lower rediscount rate had been foreshadowed by a reduction in the Bank of England's discount rate, announced this morning.

This far-reaching pinch in credit had been ascribed by most leading bankers abroad and many in America to the enormous absorption of credit by the bull marget in Wall street, which culminated in the disastrous crash of the past week.

Wild Scramble.

There was almost as wild a scramble to buy stocks today, however, as there was to sell them earlier in the week. John D. Rockefeller's statement that he was buying stocks, and several favorable dividend actions attracting the public back into the market.

Bankers generally believed prices of premier stocks had been carried to ridiculously low levels in the frenzy of selling, and felt that a substantial rally was justified. Bear markets are even more inclined to get out of hand than bull market.

DETROIT, Oct. 31. (AP)—Edsel B. Ford, president of the Ford Motor company tonight announced substantial reductions in the prices of Ford cars and trucks. While Ford's announcement did not state the amounts of reduction, it is understood prices will be lowered $5 to $200. His statement follows:

"We are announcing today a substantial reduction in the prices of Ford cars and trucks.

"It is our belief that basically the industry and business of the country are sound. Every indication is that general conditions will remain prosperous.

"We are reducing prices now, because we feel that such a step is the best contribution that can be made to assure a continuation of good business throughout the country."

Hamilton

when each of the five shots was fired. He clapped his hands to indicate the rapidity with which they were fired. It took him 12 seconds. Burks said Hamilton had his back to a book case when a bullet plunged into it, breaking the glass.

At no time Burks declared, did he see the .44 calibre revolver with which Walton was killed. The state was balked in every effort to get him to say Hamilton had the gun.

Weeps At Testimony

Tears rolled down Hamilton's face while Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor University, Baptist institution, was on the stand. Dr. Brooks declared Hamilton's reputation while he was a student at Baylor, and later while a professor, was good. Hamilton covered his eyes with his hand and E. A. Simpson leaned forward and put his hand on Hamilton's shoulder, asking a question.

"Oh, I'm all right," Hamilton replied.

As Dr. Brooks left the stand Hamilton wiped the tears from his eyes.

Defendant Restless

When Miss Hendricks was testifying Hamilton seemed restless, but listened attentively.

Miss Hendricks declared that after Walton entered the office and asked for Hamilton the lawyer came out of his office, the gun in his hand, there was a scuffle, several shots.

"Did you see Walton make a move of any sort before the first shot was fired?" she was asked.

"No, sir, I didn't."

"Who fired that shot?"

"I don't know."

"Well, who had the gun?

"Judge Hamilton."

"Did you ever see Walton with the gun?"

"I don't believe I did."

Description Complete

Burks' description of the shooting was more complete. He said he was in Hamilton's office when Hendricks entered, saying:

"Judge, there is a young man to see you."

Hamilton walked toward the reception room and the witness said he heard a voice but could not distinguish the word or words.

Then he declared, he heard scuffling and a shot, almost simultaneously. He jumped up and went toward the door in time to see the men scuffle and hear the second shot. Burks insisted that after Walton fell to the floor no more shots were fired. Hamilton, he declared, walked back into his office with a pistol in his hand, put it into a desk drawer and said: "Mr. Burks I hated to have to do that but I had to save my own life."

Denies Statements

Burks denied he heard any one say, after the first shot was fired: "Oh, oh, don't do that," as Mrs. Loraine Hill, elevator operator and state witness, had testified.

The state attempted to establish that Hamilton had the pistol in his hand as he walked into the reception room, but Burks insisted he did not see the pistol in Hamilton's hands before or during the scuffle. He did not see the weapon, he declared, until Hamilton walked back into his own office after the shooting.

Credibility Attacked

State counsel also attacked Burks' credibility, using a statement he made to the grand jury as a basis for that attack. Burks contended that he did not write or read that statement but that it was written and read to him by District Attorney Edward Thomerson.

Burks was on the stand nearly two hours.

The Bank of Japan's new building in Tokyo will cost $12,000,000.

Two Convicted Of Liquor Conspiracy

George Musey And Edgar Cantrell Found Guilty On Smuggling Charges By Federal Jury

HOUSTON, Oct. 31. (AP)—George Musey and Edgar Cantrell were convicted of conspiracy to smuggle liquor in a verdict returned by a federal court jury here today. Judge William I. Grubb, will pass sentence at 9 a. m. Friday.

Musey, already under conviction in a smuggling case, and Cantrell were found guilty of participating in the operation of the rum runner, Cheri which was beached and burned on Galveston Island last fall.

J. L. (Johnny Jack) Nounes and George Etie, on trial jointly with the two men, were granted instructed verdicts of not guilty yesterday. The government failed to produce evidence of complicity.

Etie Re-Arrested

After Etie had been acquitted, he was re-arrested by Deputy Marshal Oswald Gerrard on charges of intimidation of a government witness, Charlie Mushmack. The warrant charged that on May 15, 1929 Etie, with his wife, Mrs. Bessie Etie, and his brother, Douglas, had conspired to intimidate Mushmack to prevent his testifying at the Lena and Imperator trial. Etie was released on a $5,000 bond.

Marino Vidovitch and Asia Stien, two other defendants in the Cheri case, were granted severances. A seventh man has not been arrested.

Witnesses On Stand

Seven government witnesses were placed on the stand to testify to the rum running activities of Musey and Cantrell. Nounes and Etie were not mentioned.

The defense called two prohibition agents to give expert testimony regarding the possibility of imitating bonded liquors. Cantrell denied on the stand participation in liquor traffic. Three witnesses testified the Cheri was used as a fishing boat.

Half Hour's Job Like Day's Work

Amarillo Smelter Worker Declares Orgatone Put Him In Fine Shape

"Orgatone has simply given me a new lease on life," said A. C. Koonce, who resides at 303 N. Rusk St., Amarillo, Texas, and is a well known smelter worker, while in the City Drug Store, Amarillo.

"Before I commenced taking it," he continued, "I was so run-down and miserable a half-hour job would tire me as much as a whole day's work does now. My nerves were so unstrung that I was irritable and out of sorts all the time. I would get up in the mornings feeling as tired and worn out as if I hadn't gone to bed and my work was an actual punishment to me.

"I had reached the point where it was necessary for me to do something for myself and I bought Orgatone because I know how it has been helping others right here in our town. I now sleep sound, eat hearty and can do a day's hard work without feeling it. My liver don't bother me any more and constipation is a thing of the past, and everything I have to do is a pleasure instead of a burden as it was before. I recommend Orgatone to every one with liver trouble, nerves, kidneys, blood disorders, etc. I take pride in telling my friends what it has done for me and I feel that I cannot say too much for it certainly has straightened me out in fine shape."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Lubbock at Bowens Drug Store. Adv.

Attention Methodists

Sunday, November 3rd has been designated by the pastor of the First Methodist church, Lubbock, as

'Every Member Sunday'

—which means nothing more than that each and every member of this great church is EXPECTED to be at the 11:00 o'clock service.

Are YOU willing to make the small sacrifice that it might require?

Are YOU willing to grant this request on the part of your pastor and the other officials of the church?

Are YOU willing to fill just ONE pew for this ONE HOUR, and by so doing, HELP somebody else?

Come and enjoy the fellowship—
Come and hear the sermon—
Come and take part in the singing.

The call is made—The opportunity is yours—WILL YOU ACCEPT?

H. L. Munger, Pastor.
C. E. Maedgen, Chairman Board.

Day—Nov. 3rd, Time—11:00 O'Clock,
Place—First Methodist Church

Folks who are desirous of saving from 20 per cent to 35 per cent on complete fall and winter purchases had better take heed to the clarion call of VALUE.

It has been the most successful sale of our entire history, because Lubbock and South Plains buyers are learning more every day of the enormous advantages of shopping at this big store. And, with the end near it has been added too to keep it fresh and complete. The assortments are just as good now as they were the first day of the Sale.

Plan to be here the remaining days. Come anticipating the greatest values and largest selections that you have ever seen.
