CITY BUYS NEW ENGINE FOR POWER PLANT, MAYOR OBJECTING

PARRISH VAINLY FIGHTS PURCHASE OF EQUIPMENT

COMMISSION AUTHORIZES TRADE AND $44,000 FOR LIGHT IMPROVEMENT DISCUSS STANDPIPE NO DEFINITE ACTION AS TO PROPOSED RESERVOIR

Carrying out their improvement program announced several weeks ago, the city commissioners yesterday purchased an additional Fairbanks-Morse engine for the municipal light and power plant and made a survey of means of increasing the fire protection of the city. A 1,200,000 gallon capacity water stand pipe was considered by the commissioners also and bids were offered by two firms but no definite action was taken regarding the construction of the stand pipe. Mayor Pink Parrish said last night that the matter would be taken up at a later meeting. The new engine is to cost approximately $44,000 above the price of one of the old engines which will be traded in on it. The Fairbanks-Morse people received the contract as the majority of the machinery in the plant now is of their make. Mayor Parrish, however, strongly opposed the Fairbanks-Morse engine but was voted down by the remainder of the commission. Plans and specifications on the proposed new fire station in the southwest part of town were discussed but action was postponed until a later date.

"CAMEL DRIVER" DIES

Amasa Clark Tried to Get Humped Animals As Beasts of Burden

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Amasa Clark, veteran member of the Texas freighters association, who died at Bandera, near here early today at the age of 101, was probably the last survivor of the group of men that tried to introduce camels into Texas as beasts of burden. Clark, while in the army, followed his trade of freighting and was put in charge of the government camel yards when the United States introduced a number of the beasts in Texas. The camel caravan departed from San Antonio part of the line. The venture evidently was not a success, because no purchases were made to increase the original herd.

Fights Plan to Tax University Lands

AUSTIN, Jan. 28 (AP)—President W. M. W. Splawn of Texas university Friday issued a statement protesting the proposed passage of a bill by Representative Boggs of San Angelo designed to levy a county tax on 2,320,000 acres of university lands in West Texas. The land under Boggs' measure would be taxed by the 17 West Texas counties where it is situated. The proposal to amend the constitution so as to enable the 17 counties in which university lands are located to tax these lands would have the effect if carried, of greatly lessening the income from the university endowment. Such result would be particularly serious because this income is the only source of revenue available for the construction of buildings on the campus.

PLACES CLOSED BY PRO AGENTS WHO RAID 100 MILES OF NEW YORK

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The shadow of a great prohibition padlock fell across a hundred mile strip of land today, from fashionable Park Avenue in Manhattan to two thirds of the way up the Hudson valley to Albany. During the day summons and complaints were served on 49 places between New York and Kingston, 75 men and 12 women being named as defendants. The name of John Doe also appeared 41 times in the papers. The first thunder of today's enforcement storm reverberated this morning about a Park Avenue night club, just below the Grand Central terminal, known as La Basque. Prohibition agents, who raided the place, which they said paid an annual rental of $220,000, seized $3,000 worth of choice liquors and made three arrests. Photograph Patrons There were 100 fashionably dressed couples in the place, who were allowed to go home after they had been had their pictures taken. A list of patrons found on the premises was said to include many socially prominent names. The next place raided was in Greenwich village where axes were used to break down iron doors in a six-story left building. Here a big alcohol denaturing plant was discovered. A warehouse across the street was broken into and 175 fifty gallon drums of alcohol seized. Two men were arrested.

Eight Are Dead, 100 Injured in Glasgow Alone, as Hurricane Sweeps From End to End of Great Britain; Stops Trains

(By The Associated Press) GLASGOW, Scotland, Jan. 28.—Eight persons were killed and one hundred injured in Glasgow alone today in a southerly hurricane which swept Great Britain from the tip of Scotland to the northern tip of Scotland. The storm was especially severe in Scotland and the districts north of Edinburgh as well as in Ireland and the City of London, where complete cut off from telegraphic and telephone communication with London. The weather observatory at Reading registered a wind gust of 102 miles an hour. Several old houses collapsed in Glasgow and pedestrians and vehicles were tossed about. Street cars were overturned and a section of the roof of the central railroad station was lifted. Firemen were busy all day extinguishing victims from the debris and ambulances were busy handling street casualties caused by the showers of wreckage. Police had to barricade the most dangerous points. An express train running from Berwick to Newcastle was stopped for forty minutes here. Another by violent winds. Great was driven through the windows, pelting the passengers. The passenger later said that the cars rocked like ships and that they had seen hay ricks from neighboring farms whirling through the air.

(By The Associated Press) LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 28.—Three hundred persons were homeless and approximately 40,000 acres of White county land were inundated tonight as the result of three breaks in the Little Red River levees today. The breaks occurred between Cunningham and Enright. Tracks of the Missouri and North Arkansas railway were two feet under water and one end of the trestle at Georgetown was reported to be afloat. Loss of livestock was heavy but all inhabitants of the cotton lands had ample warning. The first refugees from the section reached Kensett by train tonight. The breaks came after untiring efforts to strengthen the levees with sand bags.

MOODY ASKS TWO CENTS TAX ON GAS

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT NEEDS THE MONEY, GOVERNOR DECLARES

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Heavy obligations imposed upon the highway department by the preceding administration and the necessity of raising funds to match federal aid justify the immediate increasing of the gasoline-salvage tax from one to two cents, Governor Dan Moody Friday told the house of the fortieth legislature. Moody's message will be read Monday to the senate, which was not in session Friday. Looks Favorable All indications are that Moody's suggestions will be adopted, with the strongest opposition developing in the senate. The house committee on revenue and taxation reported favorably a bill by Dale of Bonham and Wallace of Freestone increasing the gasoline salvage tax to three cents, and there will be a house fight to get the tax up to three cents. Moody estimated the two cent tax would slightly "approximately four million dollars additional revenue to the highway fund," and declared "the bill should provide by its own terms that it be operative for a period of two years, unless sooner repealed." The governor also recommended that after June 1, 1927, a portion of the tax now collected on the registration of motor vehicles be retained by the counties for use upon the county roads.

MONTAGUE AND WISE CONTRACTS ARE QUESTIONED

ROAD WORK LET AFTER MOODY WRIT DISSOLVED IS ATTACKED WARRANTS HELD UP NO CASH ON HIGHWAY JOBS TILL INVESTIGATION, SAYS TERRELL

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Jan. 28.—Searching legislative investigation of road contracts in Montague and Wise counties let by the state highway commission January 10, is provided in a house concurrent resolution submitted Friday by four representatives. Tiltonson of Sealy, Williamson of San Antonio, Young of Wellington and Stevenson of Victoria signed the resolution which was read almost simultaneously with the issuance of a statement by comptroller S. H. Terrell that payment of all highway warrants, many of them weeks old and issued by the retired Ferguson commission, is being held up pending an investigation by the attorney general's department. The contracts in question involved the allotment of about $248,000 part of which was to be expended on work by state forces. Contracts involving about $100,000 in the same counties previously had been let. The attorney general's department shortly after the letting of the contracts on January 10, started an investigation in the discrepancy in the figures of contracts let and the amount which a court order quoted former Highway Commissioner George F. Robertson as saying the commission would let. Robertson was asserted to have promised in court when the injunction suit against the department was dropped that the commission would let contracts totalling only about $147,000. The resolution would provide for a committee of seven, four from the house and three from the senate, to make an investigation into the facts surrounding the letting of the contracts. An accountant from the comptroller's department would be at the disposal of the committee. It has been widely reported and alleged that the resolution was drafted by Montague and Wise county attorneys who have been entered into by the state highway department of a character and in a total amount and involving so far into the future that the action taken is subversive of the public interest and opposed to a judicial administrative policy of the department.

MOONLIGHT IN VENICE

Why, because it is snowing today and even goshes cannot quite keep out the dirty slush of our city streets, you will let me talk about a moonlit evening in Venice one night in June. And a moon in Venice is not just a moon. Early in the evening it is almost a sun. It is a huge apricot riding lush in the sapphire-jade sky and scattering a path of peach color on the canals. It is a soft peach riding low over the minarets of the Doge's palace. And as the evening grows older, it is a moon like white-gardenias—waxy white and cold like milk.

Evenings in Venice are like nothing else in the world. There is a something at the door, and just riding in a gondola is nothing like canoeing or row-boat riding or even limousine-riding. One sits like a duchess against a cushioned dais that really fits the back. The gondolier pilots his craft out over the Grand Canal to the "music" ruffs abed with their festoons of festoons of jewel-colored lights.

Her "Mike" Is Haven for Bard

Strangers Judge Community by Hotels; Good Facilities Paying Proposition

BY VIRGINIA SWAIN
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Katherine Emmet may save Shakespeare for the P. G. Wodehouse generation.

She is undertaking the role of King Canute, in bidding the tide of modernism to advance no farther over the territory belonging to the classics of the stage.

Through her efforts, the jolly Stratford bard may find a refuge in the radio, even though Maugham and Howard and Dreiser strut their little time upon the stage, leaving no room for him.

Miss Emmet directs and sometimes plays in the Shakespearean performance broadcast every Sunday evening by station WEAF.

Radio drama is deemed feasible, blind one sense—that of hearing—must supply all that the other give or vibrate performance.

And for this purpose, Shakespeare is the ideal dramatist, says Miss Emmet.

"Consider the Elizabethan stage," she says. "There were no properties, no scenery, only a slight attempt at authentic costume."

"When a player had a soliloquy or long oration, he stepped out of the action of the scene, advanced to the raptures of the pit, and said his piece."

"When Shakespeare said, 'The play's the thing,' he meant the lines, the voice, the diction. Nowadays too many producers distract the audience with spectacular settings and over-elaborate stage business."

"Just Like Old Glads Days"

"The radio gives you Shakespeare pure and undistorted, as in his own time. There are no costumes ago."

Radio drama has the other advantage of a cast whose voices and diction may be chosen without regard to looks or age. Here is a refuge for all the aged Juliuses who have kept their voices and the crippled Hamlets who still feel the old time burning.

Thus far, however, the WEAF company has consisted of popular Broadway stars.

"I think Shakespeare actually benefits by radio," Miss Emmet declares. "We cut it to eliminate the cumbersome changes of scene and the unimportant episodes. Audiences today have tabloid minds, and whether we like it or not, we must cut the classics to a length that they will tolerate. If we want the radio to be interested at all."

"Shakespeare belongs to life—not to the schoolroom. And by talking of him in hushed voices, we have killed him as a living dramatist."

"The most touching letters we get are not from the scholars and students but from older men and women who

Jack Lockwill at Rocklake Academy By Patten

Jack's first hour in a classroom was an adventure. Rocklake Academy was a co-educational school, and the presence of so many girls in his class disturbed Jack, who had always skinned girls. One of them, a slender, attractive, dark-eyed miss, caught his eye and smiled faintly.

Later, going toward Hampton House, Jack came upon his roommate, who was talking with the same dark-eyed girl who had smiled at Jack in the classroom. "This is my sister, Betty," said Willie with evident reluctance. "She's a frosh like yourself, and she wanted to meet you." Jack flushed. Before he could speak, Betty exclaimed: "Oh, here comes Tom McNally!" Jack looked around and saw the Bad Egg approaching.

Vividly Jack remembered the day, ten years ago, when Tom McNally had made the same threat. And then, looking forward to the time when the bully should attack him again, he smiled. "Thank you," he said to Crossfire. "I won't forget your kind warning." "Well, that won't do you a bit of good," returned Crossfire. "If he ever catches you alone, you'd better try to keep out of his way till he forgets it."

Darling took Jack to see Dr. Jamison, the head master, whom the boys called "Old Nemesis." The doctor received Jack in his study. "I have letters from your mother and your guardian, John," said the head master. "I'm led to regard you as a fine lad. You should have little trouble here."

LOCKNEY C. OF C. SUBSCRIBES BUDGET OF $5,000 AT BIG BANQUET AND GET-TOGETHER MEET HELD TUESDAY

Special to The Avalanche
LOCKNEY, Jan. 28.—A budget of more than $5,000 was subscribed by members of the Lockney chamber of commerce at banquet and get-together meeting held here this week. Approximately 150 people, a number of them farmers, were present at the meeting.

In the past the chamber of commerce here has been financed in a more or less haphazard manner. As a rule the necessary funds were subscribed, but it took a secretary half his time collecting. This year the directors decided that a change was needed, and the budget plan appeared to be the most satisfactory. A committee of three was appointed to name the amount of individual assessments, and when members were asked to sign up for the allotments not one refused.

Payments are to be made as follows: One fourth cash with pledge and a series of notes dates three, six and nine months from date for the balance. There are quite a few new members to be taken in and it is thought the budget will pass the $5,000 mark before the close of the present month.

Lockney boasts the liveliest and best financed chamber of commerce of any town or city of similar size in the approximately 40 memberships in the state. Local business men also own West Texas chamber of commerce.

SLATON MAN WILL PLANT TWO HUNDRED SHADE TREES ON HIS PROPERTY, AS HIS CONTRIBUTION TO BEAUTIFICATION

Special to The Avalanche
SLATON, Jan. 28.—J. T. Overby, local business man, has announced that he will plant two hundred shade trees on his properties in the west part of the city, the trees already having been purchased. They will be put out about March 1, he says.

Last year, Mr. Overby planted three hundred trees and ninety-five per cent of them lived and are thriving. He is enthusiastic in the matter of home beautification, and partly because of the personal interest he takes in such work on places he owns he is the chairman of a committee from the Slaton chamber of commerce which will wage another intensive campaign in the interest of tree-planting and the planting of shrubbery and flowers throughout the city this spring.

The interest shown in the past by citizens in this program of making Slaton more attractive will proceed with increased vigor this year. It is thought, and the chamber of commerce will continue as before in aiding the progress of the improvements.

MIKE McTIGUE WINS FROM PAUL BERLINBACH

TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT IN FOURTH IS BIGGEST UPSET OF SEASON, IN FIGHT AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Drawing power from some little fountain of youth, 35 year old Mike McTigue, hat the scarred veteran of many years campaigning, knocked out Paul Berlinbach tonight in one of the most dramatic upsets the ring has seen in many years.

While a crowd of 18,000 fans in Madison Square Garden roared encouragement McTigue stopped his rival in the fourth round of a 12 round bout with a savage two-fisted attack that swept all before it. It was a technical knockout, for Referee Kid McPartland stepped in to save Berlinbach from further punishment as he sagged to the floor for the third time in the round, but to all intents and purposes, Paul was "out" coughing on merely through his gameness.

McTigue outfought and outpunched Berlinbach from the start, flooring Paul just before the bell in the third round and lashing his way to victory in two minutes and 42 seconds of fighting in the next session.

It was an amazing comeback for McTigue and an astonishing exhibition of punching power by a man known for years chiefly as a cautious defensive boxer.

The fight by rounds:

Round One
They got no time going into action, McTigue's first jab to the body while Mike retaliated with a right to the jaw. Mike landed a hard right to the jaw, but the two sharp lefts to the head. Paul rebounded with his left, and took a hard right hand to the head. Mike received a terrific ovation when the bell separated them.

Round Two
Mike showed a habitual respect for

Round Three
They sparred and clinched without much damage being done until Berlinbach hooked his left to the jaw. At close range McTigue worked both hands to the chin. Mike missed two heads to the head, but connected with a hard right. The Irishman rapped Paul with two solid smashes to the head. Paul stumbled and almost fell. At close range McTigue hooked as the bell rang. Berlinbach was bleeding profusely from the mouth and groggy from his battering.

Round Four
McTigue met Berlinbach with two smashing rights and hammered him viciously along the ropes. Paul fought back gamely and hung on desperately in a clinch. Mike sent Paul down with a hard right, but he was up at the count of nine. Paul gaped and in, but he was punched back under a shower of vicious rights. He went down again for a count of nine. Berlinbach met a shower of right and lefts as he struggled to his feet again. He swung back to the ropes under the impact of a smashing uppercut that sank toward the floor, gasping. McTigue around the waist to keep from going down. Referee McPartland stepped in to stop the bout and Mike Berlinbach from further punishment. The bout came after two minutes and 42 seconds of the round and elapsed

Murray Wants to Widen Main Street

Maintaining that Main street is too narrow to care for the present traffic, R. J. Murray yesterday proposed the widening of the street to its original width and announced his intention of placing the matter before the city commission. Mr. Murray said yesterday that now is the time to begin on the project as the traffic is increasing daily on the street and the danger of accidents is growing greater.

The present property lines will allow from six to 12 feet more on the width of the street, Murray said. The street was narrowed several years ago by the property owners in an effort to save money on the paving bill. It is likely that some civic action will be taken on the matter, Mr. Murray said yesterday.

HAGEN MISSES 20-FOOT PUT BY TWO INCHES, LOSES TO WILD BILL MELHORN IN TEXAS OPEN; NEW RECORD IS SET

(By Associated Press)
SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 28.—Bill Melhorn of Los Angeles and Joseph Leauge of San Antonio won the sixth annual Texas amateur-professional title here today with a 59 which lowered by one stroke the Willow Springs record course.

Walter Hagen of New York and Florida and Jack Speer of Houston were second when Hagen's 29 foot putt on the 18th green stopped two inches short of the cup for a seventy-two.

Two teams, Leonard R. Schmitte of the Shawnee club, Lima, Ohio, paired with Frank Brady of Falls, Tex., and Anthony Munero, Elmendorf, N. Y., paired with R. A. Shaw of San Antonio tied for third place.

Melhorn won a prize of $100 by his record breaking performance and Leauge a gold medal. Hagen took $75 in prize money and Speer a silver medal. Broke and Shaw will flip for the bronze medal which goes to the amateur on the team placing third.

Melhorn shot five birdies in piling up his total, playing the best ball of the partnership or halving his partner on every hole. He was three under par at the turn and four under after the tenth hole but he required five strokes at the par fourth 11th and made fives on the 14th and 15th, each of which are par fours. He recovered a stroke at the thirteenth, however, by shooting a birdie two.

Melhorn's card:

Hagen and Speer were only one under par at the turn but they birdied the tenth and twelfth to go three under. They suffered the same trouble that beset Melhorn, however, on the 14th and 15th, taking fives. Only one card was kept for each team, but Speer won three holes for the par.

SICK HEADACHE

No Pleasure, Says Ohio Lady, to Go Places, Till She Took Black-Draught Which Brought Relief.

Lansville, Ohio.—"For years and years I suffered with severe headaches," says Mrs. Jane Campbell, of this place. "It wasn't any pleasure for me to go places, for I came home with sick headaches. If I went to church or to any social gathering or to town to shop, when I got there I would have these headaches and have to go to bed for a day or more, till I would just get out of heart and would not try to go."

"About 15 years ago I discovered that Black-Draught was good for these headaches. I began using it. I would take it two or three nights in succession if I felt the least headache, and I can go places and really enjoy life. It surely is splendid."

Headache often is a symptom of constipation. The best relief is secured by treating the cause of the trouble, and in such a case many people have been greatly helped by the use of Theford's Black-Draught.

Has not Christ saved us from our sins? Is he not ever at hand to guide us? What can overthrow us, and why should we fear a fall? We have a right to be confident in Christ, but it is empty presumption to forget our constant and entire dependence upon Christ. "Take heed lest he fall." How can we obey Christ's command and constantly watch against the assaults of temptation? By cultivating humility, by fervent and frequent prayer, by acquaintance with the word of God by surrounding ourselves with all the safeguards of private and social religion.

How to Overcome Temptation
1. "Pray" is not enough. "Watch" is not enough. The two must be coupled. The eyes must be joined with the knees, and keen-trained eyes they must be, too. The "watch" is for the enemy, the "pray" for God. We must look out as well as look up.

2. "If a man chooses to make his fight alone, he is at the liberty to do so. In that event, however, he is not at liberty to complain if the issue is against him. But blest is the man who, going into the fiery furnace to be tried as gold is tried, like the three youths in Babylon, has the personal presence and support of 'One like unto the Son of God.'"

An Old Epitaph
"Here lies a soldier whom all men applaud: He fought many battles, at home and abroad. But the hottest engagement he ever was in Was the Conquest of Self, in the Battle of Sin."

IMPORTANT BILLS INTRODUCED IN STATE LEGISLATION FOR SHOP-KEEPERS

Several important bills have been introduced in the state legislature of particular interest to retail merchants of Texas according to retail merchants association from Adolf Grasso, secretary of the retail merchants association of Texas. The state association supported by the local association of Texas is always on the job working for the interest of the various local associations. Paul Sherrod, president of the local association stated yesterday.

Two bills have been introduced which should be given support by local retailers are house bill number 51 by Wells and house bill number 29, according to the State Retail Merchants association.

House bill number 51 by Wells is intended to regulate and properly tax the itinerant merchant who moves from place to place with his stock of goods.

House bill number 29 will regulate the endless chain selling system. The endless chain system as described by the state association is a practice of firms that open up with a stock of goods, invite the housewife to buy $3 worth of tickets and deposit an extra dollar then sell the three tickets to someone else who in turn will deposit a dollar and buy three more tickets and so on in an endless chain which is supposed to give the buyer a $10 article for $1 provided he succeeds in selling sufficient tickets or coupons.

Introduction

The temptations to which our Lord was subjected are the most instructive in the Bible, since he was typical man, giving us a perfect example of how evil is to be met and conquered. What he did we can do, but only in his strength which is freely supplied as we ask for it. The story is doubly instructive because it must have come from Christ himself, since he was alone in the wilderness with Satan.

He was going from the Jordan valley, where he had been baptized by John the Baptist up the steep road toward Jerusalem. He was full of the Holy Spirit, because at his baptism the third person of the Trinity had descended upon him in the form of a dove. He was strengthened by the indwelling Spirit for the struggle with the devil which he was to undergo, and his blessed experience points the way of strengthening for us in all our conflicts with evil.

"Tempted of the Devil" v. 2
Christ, the God-man, knew no sin, but he was tempted to sin just as we are, and needed to contend against it. In many places, but perhaps nowhere more clearly than here, the Bible recognizes the existence of spirits of evil, and of one dominating spirit, the devil, Satan, Beelzebub the Adversary. Our Lord felt his baneful influence, contended with him, and showed us the way to master him. Every thoughtful Christian perceives, in his life, suggestions and urgings of wickedness which he knows do not come from himself but from some exterior force. In a sense, it is comforting to realize that much of the wrong doing in the hearts of men but in the machinations of Satan and his host. This does not absolve men from blame, however, for we must not yield to the devil, but fight him and overcome him, and in the struggle, aided by Christ make our finest gains of strength and purity.

"It Is Written" v. 4
"And Jesus answered unto him. It is written." Our Lord met his three temptations with words of Scripture, thus showing his reverence for Holy Writ and his reliance upon it, and giving us the best examples for our conflicts with the evil one. But we can not resist Satan with the sword of the Spirit unless it is ready to our use, many appropriate Bible passages being stored away in our memories, Christ's mind was a glorious armory of such weapons, and his recorded quotations from the Old Testament are numerous, extending over most of the books of the Old Testament, and proving complete familiarity with the Word of God.

False Promises of the Devil v. 6
"And the devil said unto him, To thee will I give all this authority." The devil is always pretending to be able to give what is not his to give. Our Lord well knew that his Father had all authority in heaven and on earth, and that all devils trembled before him. Most of our temptations come from the belief that Satan can give us power and pleasure and fame, though in fact he can give us only the empty semblance of these things. These essence of devilishness is selfishness and we may be sure that if Satan possessed any good thing he would keep it for himself he would not even use it as a bribe. But he does not possess any good thing.

The Devil Defeated by Christ, v. 13
"And when the devil had completed every temptation, he departed from him for a season." The resources of the adversary are not unlimited, as are the resources of God, and if we resist him, though he ply us with the fiercest and most insidious temptations, he will flee from us in the end. (Jas. 4:7). But Satan never gives up. Doubtless he returned to the attack often while Christ was in the flesh, and many of our Lord's retreats to prayer were similar to this retirement in the wilderness, that he might again have it out with the enemy of souls. It was for himself as well as for his followers that our Lord reiterated his injunction, "Watch and pray." Matthew tells us that after this period of severe temptation angels came to Jesus and ministered to his worn body and exhausted spirit.

Spiritual Pride, 1 Cor. 10:12
"Let him that thinketh he standeth." No spiritual peril is greater than pride and self-conceit. These are sadly likely to attack Christians. Are we not members of the church? Are we not the heirs of the promises?

Loving two women at the same time—That is THE POPULAR SIN! Marriage—divorce—re-marriage. Comic complications are bound to arise from such a situation—and arise they do. The title intrigues. The story pleases.

"The best script I ever had," says Malcolm St. Clair. And when one remembers his "Grand Duchess and the Waiter"—Lady! Lady!

SCOUTS MAIL OUT CAMPAIGN LETTER

3300 PERSONS TO RECEIVE INFORMATION RELATIVE TO SCOUTING

Copies of the following letter, containing information considered of value in the campaign now under way for the boy scout budget for the coming year in the South Plains area, were yesterday mailed out to 3300 persons on the South Plains, boy scouts performing the necessary clerical work.

"About two years ago a movement was started on the South Plains of Texas that is doing, and will do, more for the training and making of real citizens for the future than any other one agency.

"This movement was scouting, and it has already trained some 800 boys and made them better, finer, cleaner, more patriotic and more reverent than they would have been otherwise.

"There are approximately 10,000 more boys on the South Plains who need this training—who will be made better boys, finer, cleaner, braver, more patriotic, more reverent by this training—if ways and means are provided for giving it to them.

"Read some of the startling statements on the enclosed leaflet.

"One Boy Gone Wrong Costs in Dollars and Cents, $3,500.00

"To Train the Above 800 Boys the Past Year Cost, $3,500.00

"No First Class Boy Scout Has Ever Gone to a Reform School or a Penitentiary."

"Scouting is the wonder program of the century for training boys. It does not take the place of the home, the church or the school, but it does supplement the work of each. It does provide leisure activities for the 1,000 hours of leisure time the average boy has to fill some way each year.

"Scouting is not a military organization and the three and a half million boys who have been trained by the Boy Scouts of America in the past seventeen years attest to the value of its training. It is endorsed by the leading school and church men of the state and nation. It has been tried out and found not wanting.

"The South Plains Area council, consisting of representative citizens from all the counties listed in the above right hand corner, wants to make scouting available to just as many of these other 10,000 boys as possible.

"This is the formal announcement of this expansion program. We trust you will give careful thought and study to this movement, read the enclosed leaflet, read the other announcements that will be sent you and give your heartiest cooperation in our work for the boys of today—the Men of Tomorrow.

Broken Threads

CHAPTER XLVIII

"I began to realize for the first time," Jim Elwell continued, "that I had acted the part of a selfish, thoughtless cad in marrying you the way I did, Betty, and asking you to keep it secret. It wasn't fair to you, even if you hadn't come into a fortune, for neither of you girls had ever come around with any fellows—except Dick Casfield and me—and I had no right to tie you up the way I did. Dick did the honorable thing. Dick naturally would."

"The upshot of the matter was that I told Mollie and Prof the whole truth—that is, all except which girl it was I had married. That they didn't know until just a few minutes ago when Betty told them."

"We talked the thing over and decided it was only right and fair to give you your chance, Betty—you know, a chance to get near. Knowing you pretty well, we felt reasonably sure that you wouldn't take the chance if it was offered to you in the ordinary way—that is, to give you a divorce."

"He paused a moment while he patted Betty's arm. "So we decided to let you go on believing me burlesque for a while—six months at least. You were to have your fling—to go to Europe and mix with other men and if you found one—the right one—then I would have made it easy for you to get your freedom. And that's why Mollie wrote you to tell you to go ahead with your European trip and forget about me. But—"

"But—foolish you, didn't I, Mister Elwell? Now you've got to go to Europe with your little wife and if she catches you flirting with any pretty nurses—or nurses, I mean—well, she won't be very healthy for you."

"Jim leaned back and smiled contentedly, blissfully unaware of the fact that during a certain period of his "living death" his actions had really given his mother cause for great anxiety and would have worried his wife considerably if she had known more about them."

"Just the same, Jim," Martha Dalton spoke reprovingly, "I think it was a mean trick to play on the girls. If you had seen these girls tonight when they were waiting for you to get home—honestly, I thought they would be nervous wrecks, both of them."

"And then, too," she added, "keeping this good news away from them for all these weeks, when they just as well could have known and been happy instead of heartbroken. Jim, I think you've been cruel."

"Martha Dalton spoke as if she was mad. Jim "took it" smilingly. When she had finished he said, "Can't help it, old dear, but that's just the way I felt about it. I had no business telling Betty up with a marriage and then going away to war and expecting her to shut her eyes every time she saw another man. And now since she's become an heiress she must have to use a guard to keep the men away."

"All I need," remarked Betty humorously, "is Rusty's slipper. Eh, Margaret?"

"I didn't get that," said Jim, "but I'll find out later. I hope you girls forgive me for playing this little trick. Do you?"

"They did."

"Well, just this once, Jim. But please don't ever—honestly, you almost broke my poor old heart."

"That wasn't the only stubborn thing he did," remarked Mollie Elwell. "Imagine going away to war and asking me not to try to find out which of the girls he was in love with! He was afraid, mind you, that if I knew which one it was I would favor her at the expense of the other in case he died overseas. Now, can you imagine any boy of mine being as misguided as all that?"

"And can you imagine him being as misguided as to think that I would desert him?" demanded Betty.

"Let the boy alone," said Prof. "I won't have you women picking on him like that. There are a few things about us men they'll never understand—eh, Jim?"

"That was true, Jim smiled.

"You mustn't blame Mollie," he said to Martha, "for what she said in her letter. If you'll remember, what she said was this: that there wasn't one chance in a thousand that I'd ever be any better mentally. Well, the chances are I won't. So there weren't any lies in the letter. I thought I could play possum until the twins had gone to Europe, and then if Betty hadn't found a man by the time she came back I could try all over again with her myself."

"And so, said Jim, there they were. Nothing more to tell, and might as well let the matter rest. "But all's well that ends well, you know, and he alone it wasn't as if you'd gone out of our way to make you suffer. You never really expected to see me come home well again."

"They were interrupted by the ringing of the phone. Prof jumped up to answer it. He came back after a long while to tell them that John Clayton had called up.

"He got Mike's telegram, and he said the only thing that keeps him from getting drunk to celebrate the event is that he has made it a life-long rule to limit his drinking to one cocktail before dinner."

"He says he'll be over here tomorrow forenoon and that Mike is to stay here as a companion to Jim until Jim is strong again, when he's got a job all picked out for Mike, running a cigar store he just bought out. How's that strike you, Mike?"

"O. K."

Betty suddenly lifted her head to look at Martha Dalton. "Why," she asked, "you've forgotten the peach pie, Betty!"

"Peach pie!" Jim exclaimed, "Betty's peach pie! Boy, bring her on!"

Martha Dalton waddled off to the kitchen to fetch it, and Betty confided to Jim that she had decided to allow the operative steps to retain their laurels.

"And Rusty," she added, "will be willing to pass up her chances of being another Patsy—well, um, Rusty, about Dick Casfield."

"Betty blushed and admitted that Dick was coming all the way from California, where he had a good job, on the strength of some answers she had given to his questions in a letter."

"And while you folks are so joyous let me remark that I know of a nurse and a newspaperman up in New York who are not so glib," spoke up Prof Elwell. "The last word was that Jack Nevin and Nellie Downing were considering a certain matter very seriously."

Betty giggled Martha Dalton's name. "Hear that, Dalty? Your romance with the capitalist it was all right, but it got its characters mixed."

"The evening before, in New York, Jack Nevin met Nellie Downing and, true to her word, she gave him a story that was good for two columns and a four-column "art layout" in the front page of the Planet the next morning."

"There was pictures of Jim, the twins, Prof, Mollie and, after considerable persuasion on Jack's part, of Nellie Downing."

Nellie had to go down town with him and wait in a hotel lobby while he wrote the story.

"To his city editor he said, "Boss, remember the night I threw you down on this Jim Elwell story and you wouldn't fire me?"

"The boss did."

"Well, if I came to you, with the same story, only twice as good, and wrote it on my night off, would that square things with you?"

"It certainly would," the city editor admitted. "If it's real hot, Jack, I might be induced to put through a memorandum for a raise for you. I've been thinking of it for some time, but I wanted something to hang it on—make it look good to the front office, you know."

"That was how Jack Nevin came to write the story of his life for the Planet—the best "human interest" story the editor remarked the next day, and a scoop, too."

"Whoever wrote it, send him in to me. I have something to tell him."

"You see," Jack told Nellie Downing when he had turned in his story to the city desk and the city editor, "and leaped nearly two feet in the air and squealed madly to the night editor to make a big front page "hole."

"The darn seems to have made a hit, it's all your fault, too, and I'm beginning to think that if I stick pretty close to you I'll get along in the newspaper game yet."

Nellie Downing gazed pensively at her hands.

"I hate," Nevin told her, "to ask you to take a man who's only got one leg, but how could a cripple like me do better than to get a nurse for a wife?"

"Well Nellie admitted, there certainly was something in that."

8 Fine Bulls for Hereford Farmers

Special to The Avalanche

HEREFORD, Jan. 28.—The dairy industry in Deaf Smith county will be greatly stimulated by the bringing in of eight pure bred Jersey bulls to compose two bull circles which have just been formed in Deaf Smith county. County Agent R. O. Dunkle, J. J. Lockingbill and A. B. Schulte left Thursday for Dallas, where they will visit the Flowerdale Farm near that city, with a view to selecting eight from that herd. An option is held on ten choice bulls at the Flowerdale farm for the selection of eight, and dairy specialists say they are among the best in the state.

Bounties of a dollar each were paid by the territorial treasurer on 41,812 eagles killed in Alaska since 1917.

REINKEN ELECTED HEAD OF PLAINVIEW BOARD OF CITY DEVELOPMENT WHEN MEMBERS HOLD THEIR ANNUAL VOTE

Special to The Avalanche

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 28.—Chas. Reinken, clothing merchant of Plainview, was elected president of the Plainview board of city development for 1927, at the annual election of officers and directors of the organization.

The Plainview board of city development is comprised of eight members appointed by the city council of Plainview to perform duties of commerce work, and it gets its funds from a two mill tax levied by the city. The appropriation this year for the board's work is $9,000.

Other officers elected and named at the meeting are: D. H. Collier, vice-president; Carl G. Goodman, second vice-president and treasurer; Harry Hopkins, secretary; Mack Boswell, assistant secretary. The directors are: R. H. Knott, highways; T. J. Shelton, railroads and transportation; Frank Hassell, industries; Carl G. Goodman, immigration and publicity; D. H. Collier, civic affairs; D. D. Rowman, agriculture and stock raising and J. C. Anderson, Jr., reception, convention and entertainment.

The securing of new industries for Plainview that will be practicable with the additional rail facilities that the city will have with the building of the new lines of railroad on the South Plains will be the chief objective of the 1927 board according to President Reinken.

Philadelphia is to have anti-noise squads of police to reduce noise of motor vehicles in the center of the city and near hospitals.

The shaving mug social register still exists in a Moberly, Mo., barber shop. The proprietor has rows of hand-drawn cards the largest collection, he contends in a Missouri barber shop.

DAILY MARKET

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 28 (AP)-The cotton market was only moderately active today although trading was rather more brisk in the afternoon. Prices were on the upgrade most of the day, the main stimulating influence being the prospect of a settlement of the trouble between Great Britain and China. Following a slight advance at the opening of 2 to 3 points the market gradually became firmer under the influence of covering and trade buying which soon absorbed the offerings. By early afternoon prices showed gains over the previous close of 18 to 20 points, the improvement having been continuous except for a slight reaction at noon. The market continued advance in the final hour on trade buying and covering, making new highs near the end. 24 to 25 points above the previous close. The close was very steady, showing net gains of 23 to 24 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)-A firmer tone developed in the cotton market today owing to continued advance of any aggressive selling pressure from the south, a more cheerful view of the situation in China, and relatively firm Liverpool cables. May contracts sold up to 13 1/2 in late trading and closed at 13 1/2, the general market closing steady at net advances of 23 to 25 points.

DUN'S

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)-Dun's tomorrow will have more definite evidence of expanding operations appeared in the closing week of January, though the general level of commodity prices was lowered. During the month, however, there was practically an equal division of advances and declines in Dun's list of wholesale quantities and prices and leather have been permanent by reason of their increasing firmness. Transactions in those commodities have been increasing, except where a paucity of supplies has restricted dealings and sales of some kinds of cotton goods have exceeded supply.

TRAVELING POULTRY SHOW PLANNED TO INCREASE INTEREST OF CENTRAL WEST TEXAN IN CHICKEN-RAISING BUSINESS

Special to The Avalanche
STAMFORD, Jan. 28—Precedents for both the state and nation have been set by the Central West Texas Poultry association, composed of representatives from Hamlin, Haskell, Rule, Anson, Leuders and Stamford, in their program for the promotion of more and better poultry for the section included in Jones, Haskell, Stone-wall, Fisher and Schackelford counties. Their unique plan for increasing poultry production of the West includes marketing interested farmers with pedigree stock of chickens and turkeys to raise on the shares and the holding of a circuit poultry show during a week set aside as "Chicken Week."

All the glamor and picturesque-ness of a traveling show has been incorporated in the unique idea evolved by the Central West Texas Poultry association to arouse enthusiasm in the six towns included in its organization. The plan comprehends a poultry show circuit to be held during "Chicken Week" which opens the last day of this month. The revolving poultry show will begin at Haskell, Texas, on January 31 and will close at Stamford, Texas, February 5.

First at Haskell
 After exhibition at Haskell, the first town of the group, from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., the show will be spirited away in the night to the new location at Rule, Texas, where it will open its doors at 10 a. m. on February 1. Closing at Rule that night at 10 p. m., the exhibition will be transported through the midnight hours to Hamlin, Texas, where doors will be opened the morning of February 2. The poultry show will next display at Anson, Texas, February 3, to which place it will be moved from Hamlin. From Anson, the revolving show will be carried through the night to Leuders, Texas, where it will exhibit on February 4, and after exhibition there will be transported to Stamford, Texas, where its display will complete the circuit.

Judge Walter Burton, of Wellington, well-known Texas poultry expert, will do the judging of exhibitions at each place where birds are shown. Exhibitors can contest at each town in the circuit, or may drop out of the competition at any point; however, all birds used to enter birds for the entire event. Cash prizes and ribbons are to be awarded in each town, being furnished by local committees in each place. Poultry experts will make talks at each show and special inducements will be offered to farmers attending. No entrance or visitors fee will be charged, the shows will be absolutely free for all exhibitors of full blood strains of fowls. Pens will be transported at each town's expense, and feed for birds will be furnished through courtesy of milling establishments of the state. Thus exhibitors have nothing to do but enter their turkeys or chickens at the first town of the circuit.

Penick's Plan
 The plan for the unique circuit poultry show to be held by the Central West Texas Poultry association was evolved by its president, Col. R. L. Penick, of Stamford, outstanding figure in the development of the poultry industry in the West. It was Col. Penick who awoke the West to poultry raising possibilities, when, during the too-well remembered "lean years" of the section, he roused discouraged farmers with long-grown whiskers and unkempt hair—by flinging money in his pockets and explaining to their eager ears that it was "egg money." Farmers, once ashamed to acknowledge any connection with the "old woman's" chicken pen, under Penick's advice, began to enlarge poultry facilities on the farm and at once commenced to realize profits from fowls. Some of the same men who listened to Col. Penick's counsel ten or fifteen years ago are now backing the poultry show of the west as members of the newly organized Central West Texas Poultry association.

The Central West Texas Poultry association was organized at Stamford during the first weeks of January for the purpose of promoting more and better chickens in its territory. It proposes to accomplish this purpose through stocking interested farmers with quality baby chicks, eggs, and feeding pens to be cared for on the halves or shares. Business men of each town will save a number of parties with pedigree poultry, both chickens and turkeys, to be put out on the shares. Co-operating in marketing of products will also be a phase of the scheme, also. Liberal prizes are to be awarded at each point in the association for the largest per cent. of stock raised, the best quality produced and individual records of "time" raising poultry on the shares. The share-raising plan of the Central West Texas Poultry association and its co-operative marketing plan set precedents in the general movement for more and better poultry.

The Central West Texas Poultry association is governed by a board of directors formed from representatives of each town in its membership. Officers of the association are: Col. R. L. Penick, Stamford, president; R. C. Montgomery, Haskell, vice-president; F. M. Locke, Stamford, secretary; E. W. Harrell, Anson, treasurer; N. J. Toeb, Leuders; W. T. Winter, Anson; John P. Payne, Haskell; J. O. Jackson, Rule and J. J. Waggoner, Hamlin, all directors.

Promote Diversity
 "The object of the Central West Texas Poultry association," according to Col. Penick, "is to promote more diversification and a campaign of educating farmers, as well as poultry enthusiasts, business men and others as to the possibilities of the industry. Its main object is to cause raising of more poultry, production of more eggs, baby chicks, and breeding stock on the shares within its territory."

"We hope to interest at least 300 poultry raisers by being furnished eggs, baby chicks, or breeding stock on this basis," Col. Penick stated. Continuing he said, "This territory embraces a 150,000 egg capacity incubator at present, and we expect to double this capacity through our organization within the next 12 months. We hope to get started off with members representing twenty-five to forty thousand full strain hens."

Bankers, merchants, county and home demonstration agents, local clubs and chambers of commerce are all showing willing disposition to cooperate in the movement of the Central West Texas Poultry association. The co-operative marketing of products planned by the organization is receiving favorable comment from all points. A series of articles on poultry and poultry raising by Col. R. L. Penick is now appearing in western weekly papers and is being widely read due to precedents set by the organization and due to the authority of the writer.

The program of the Central West Texas Poultry association is in line with the West Texas chamber of commerce movement for diversification and more living at home, and is receiving full endorsement and co-operation of the big regional organization.

Rain Halts Work of Slaton Farmers

Special to The Avalanche
SLATON, Jan. 28—Continued cold, cloudy weather has prevailed here since the severe drop in temperature recorded as the cold wave of Friday, January 21, struck here. Rain has hindered farmers in finishing their cotton gathering, but the benefits of the moisture to wheat crops and to the soil in preparing it for early plowing are greater than the losses on cotton, even if no more cotton were saved.

Oil Can't Stop Farm Work at Hereford

Special to The Avalanche
HEREFORD, Jan. 28—Regardless of the fact that four or five tons for all will probably be made in Dear Smith county during 1927, the major activities of local farmers and business men of Hereford will be to develop the agricultural resources of the county. This was clearly outlined at the annual chamber of commerce banquet here Tuesday evening by President E. B. Clark, when he said that efforts would be made to bring in at least 500 actual dirt farmers during the next twelve months, and that diversified farming, poultry and dairying would be pushed to the limit.

Because of the big oil play in the Panhandle, many counties are thinking in terms of an industrial development, but Dear Smith county people take the attitude that agriculture is the foundation for all lines of business and a big agricultural program will be pursued throughout 1927.
