15,000 JAM TOWN

1,000 "Old Timers" Register on First Day of Celebration

The Record News Staff

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Nov. 11.—Rugged cowboys of three generations made old time "whoopee," pioneers returned from all over the Southwest jovially swamped yarns of 50 years ago, and hand-shaking throngs milled about the square of this little city from early morning until midnight Monday, when more than 15,000 persons gathered for the Archer county two-day golden jubilee celebration, and homecoming.

Most of the celebrants took time to witness the impressive parade with which the day's program was inaugurated at 10 o'clock Monday morning; thousands journeyed to the nearby rodeo grounds in the afternoon for Red Lyons' bronc-riding show; multitudes crowded about the football field in late afternoon to witness the Iowa Park-Archer City High school tussle; but the vast body of old-timers which lent significance to Monday's unusual assemblage remained close to the courthouse, apparently intent on taking full advantage of the opportunity offered by renewing old friendships and recalling scenes of Archer county's earliest history.

Badges of Honor

From early morning until well past noon, the corridors of the Archer county courthouse were crowded with those whose long residence in the county, or early settlement of that area, qualifies them for the "old-timer" class, whose members are being decorated with badges which were marks of honor Monday, and will be credentials of admission to an old time cowboy "chuck-wagon" dinner to be served Tuesday. More than 1,000 names were entered on the old-timers' register Monday, a survey of which shows visitors from California, Oklahoma, New Mexico and from practically all parts of Texas.

Throughout the day clusters of closely grouped men and women occupying every square inch of sidewalk and street space on the square, and every portion of the courthouse lawn, marked the site of reunions of friends and relatives and the quick, eager exchange of reminiscences. Gray-haired men, many still in 10-gallon hats and

CHARLIE BABE DIES OF BURNS

Mother's Efforts to Save Tot of No Avail

Special to The Record News.

CHARLIE, Texas, Nov. 11.—A mother's efforts to save her year-old child from death in the flames of their burning tent home near here proved of no avail today.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Chambers, tenant farmers on the J. E. Wolf place six miles west of here, died at 4 p. m. Monday of burns received in the fire Monday morning.

The tent in which the people lived was discovered burning by Finis Morrow, a cotton picker. Mrs. Chambers, when she heard Morrow's cries, ran into the burning structure and brought out her child. The fire, however, proved to have been discovered too late, the child succumbing to its injuries after a little over six hours.

The fire is thought to have originated from sparks from a fire underneath a washpot nearby.

Funeral services for the Chambers infant will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday from the Methodist church here, with the Rev. E. A. Coburn, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in the local cemetery.

The child is survived by its parents, one brother, Fivan, 7, and two sisters, Virginia, 4, and Frances, 3.

Girl, 20, Ends Worldly Troubles By Leaping 2,000 Feet From Airplane

Maid Appears at Airport and Asks for Short Ride; Note Gives Reasons for Act

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Nov. 11. (AP)—Ruth Rockwell, 20, of Crestwood, N. Y., committed suicide today by leaping from a passenger airplane shortly after taking off from Curtiss field. A bulky envelope, apparently a farewell message, was found on the girl's body.

The paine was piloted by E. F. Booth, of Curtiss field.

The girl appeared at the field about 15 minutes before she leaped to her death and asked to charter a plane for a short ride. Booth said he had gained an elevation of about 1,500 feet when his passenger tapped him on his shoulder and asked him to "go up a little higher."

He went up to about 2,000 feet and then felt a sudden jar and the ship swerved to the right. He glanced back and saw that the left door of the cabin was open and the girl was on her knees before it.

She apparently was saying a prayer for a moment later she arose and leaped, the pilot said.

Her body was found 200 feet from the edge of the flying field.

In the cabin of the plane was the note which told the story of a disillusioned girl. It had been placed in a stamped, unaddressed envelope and at the top of the first page was the following name and address:

"Ruth Rockwell, 31 Avondale Road, Brooks Farm, Crestwood, N. Y."

There was no salutation. It read as follows:

"Most people end their lives because something sad has happened to them. I end mine because it seems not only futile, but wrong to go on existing. I blame no one and feel that I have no enemies. Will probably be considered insane, as anyone taking his life is supposed to be slightly insane.

"I would like to send my regards to Miss Sheers in Drew seminary at Cornell, N. Y. My check for

Prosecutors See 'Death Penalty Case' In Murder Charge Against Jurist

Veteran Austin Lawyer Nervously Awaits Examining Trial After State Wins Continuance

AUSTIN, Nov. 11. (AP)—John W. Brady, former judge of the third court of civil appeals and leader in the civic, religious and official affairs, sat in a Travis county jail cell today shaking convulsively at intervals as he awaited processes of the law he so often expounded. Against him is a murder charge—an accusation that he stabbed a slip of a girl to death.

Prosecutors said it looked like a "death penalty" case.

Relatives and friends bore to the grave in a simple funeral procession, Miss Lehlia Highsmith, 28, and laid her away beside the grave of her mother who died several years ago.

The blade of a knife officers described as an "East Dallas Special" about 12 inches long when opened, had penetrated to her heart. There were two other wounds—on her arms.

While attorneys from many parts of the state sent telegrams of sympathy and offers of assistance to the gray-haired lawyer, it seemed likely he would not get a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace F. R. Tannehill, in whose

No marks of identification were found on either the box or the tiny body, officers said. Judge Gwinn saied he believed the body to have been thrown from an automobile Sunday night. An undertaker was called and the body was removed for interment. Officers will begin an investigation of the case, it was said.

Hunter Goes to Sleep at Wheel And Suffers Hurts When Car Overturns

S. D. Harper, 2130½ Avenue G, was seriously injured about 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon when he went to sleep at the wheel of his car which overturned several miles out of Iowa Park on the Kemp City road.

Mr. Harper was returning from a hunting trip at Lake Kemp at the time of the accident. He became sleepy, he said, and before he realized it had run into the ditch and overturned. Passing motorists stopped and extricated Mr. Harper from the wreckage, working hastily to prevent his being burned by flames which enveloped the car almost immediately. They put out the flames and rushed the injured man to Wichita Falls.

He was taken to his home and a physician was called. Later a Merkle ambulance was called and he was taken to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital. His injuries consisted of a broken leg, several cuts and bruises and severe shock, attendants said. He was reported resting well at a late hour Monday night.

SAFETY OF U. S. TO GUIDE ARMS MEET ENVOYS

President Stresses Need of Protection in Address To Legionnaires

PEACE IS FIRST AIM

But Caution Must Temper Efforts for Warless World, He Says

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (US)—President Hoover tonight declared in an address before the American Legion that in every move for peace the United States would remain prepared for defensive war.

He pledged absolute parity of the American and British navies in the forthcoming London conference and promised that there would be no sacrifice of American independence to attain this end.

"I am for adequate preparedness as a guaranty that no foreign soldiers shall ever step on the soil of our country," he declared.

This declaration was greeted with prolonged applause by the audience that packed the Washington auditorium where the president spoke.

"We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other," he added. "Having said that it only remains for the others to say how low they will go. It can not be too low for us."

There was another spontaneous and prolonged demonstration later on when he said:

"To build the spirit of good will and friendliness, to create respect and confidence, to stimulate esteem between peoples—this is the far greatest guaranty of peace."

The president departed from the prepared text of his address in only one instance, when, in emphasizing this country's need for preparedness, he added this sentence:

"We must have preparedness for peace."

It was the president's Armistice day address. In the auditorium here and over the radio he talked to the veterans of the world war in some 12,000 posts. He reviewed the efforts of this country to bring about peace among the nations of the world.

The president's address was a hopeful appeal for world tranquility tempered with practical evidence that this Utopia may not be created overnight. While marking many changes and a general trend toward peace the president warned against the abandonment of armaments until treaties made and making had stood the test of many years.

Offers Suggestions

He offered many suggestions which he said would prove helpful, but made it plain that they would play no part in the London conference next January where only reductions in naval armaments are to be discussed.

He discarded the league of nations as an instrumentality, to end wars so far as this country is concerned, but advocated American support of the world court, under "proper reservations."

The president spoke hopefully of the peaceful aims of the world at this time, but pointed out with skepticism that there is nothing to warrant the assumption that war will not occur again.

He was particularly emphatic in declaring that the United States would make no sacrifice of independence in seeking a warless world.

"Such a sacrifice of freedom and justice is the one calamity greater than war," he continued. "The task of statesmen is to build a road to cowboys' booths, looked smilingly over their glasses at grandchildren of former mates on the range, and tried to recognize in husky cowboys, oil operators, and business men the little boys whom they boosted to the backs of ponies a generation ago. For thousands who were in Archer City Monday, it was a carnival, a rodeo day, a football game, but for many of the men who participated in the development of Archer county from a mesquite-covered wilderness, Monday was a day for chatting with old friends whose faces had not been seen for many years.

Not only cowboys, but cow ponies, were present in abundance to bring back the atmosphere of pioneer days. More saddled horses than have been seen in Archer City during the past 15 years clattered noisily over the pavement Monday on streets which used to echo, through swirling dust, the muted staccato thudding of ponies' hoofs when those who watched Monday's parade rode to town for Saturday night.

Ancient Vehicles Parade

With the Lions Club boys' band and Paul Seeds band, both of Wichita Falls, in the line of march, the parade was headed by uniformed veterans of the world war, a small scattering of ex-gobs appearing with the ex-doughboys. Conspicuous among the relics of early times were the two-mule buckboard driven by W. M. Coleman, rancher; a once stylish surrey carrying Mayor Frank Power and Jeff Hays, banker, both costumed as of the 'nineties; and an old carriage, elegant as a Sunday conveyance in 1910, carrying "Uncle" Ben Hodge, who drove the first mail hack from Wichita Falls to Archer City about 40 years ago. The vehicle in which Mr. Hodge rode belongs to Mrs. Jacob Martini, of this community.

Notable among the out-of-town visitors active in enthusiastic celebration of Archer county's 50th birthday was "Wild Charley" Richardson, mayor of Olney, costumed in full cowboy regalia, including long-shanked spurs. R. S. Hilburn, a Confederate veteran, now living at Antelope on the same farm on which he settled in 1876, bade fare to outrank any other present from the standpoint of early arrival and continuous residence. Mike J. Baughman, who arrived in Archer county in 1878, and became the first postmaster, returned from Stanley, N. M., for the jubilee celebration.

Large numbers of Wichita Falls citizens were present, the representation growing constantly as the day wore on. Junior chamber of commerce members to the number of almost 100 were reported on hand during the afternoon, headed by Walter Nelson Jr., president of the organization, and A. D. Lightsey. Among the Wichita Falls visitors who were listed as old timers were Mrs. Lillian Kerr, Judge R. E. Huff, J. S. T. Gant, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Downing, Mrs. Maud Fonville, Jim Marlow and Lester Jones.

J. S. Scott, who served as the first county clerk of Archer county, and is still living here, and Frank M. Power, mayor, were prominent among local citizens who also represent the pioneer period.

Barbecue for Crowd

For more than two hours during the middle of the day, thousands crowded around the stands where a regiment of women dispensed barbecue from pits where 20 beeves had been placed over the fires. The barbecue feast was prepared by Tom Rowlett, himself one of the ranch-time veterans. As manpower diminished with the approach of rodeo-hour, Messrs. Lightsey and Nelson of the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce delegation were drafted for white apron service at the barbecue stand, and put in a good 30 minutes in the closing rush.

Approximately 3,500 persons surrounded the field prepared for the rodeo performance, a half mile east of the city. Attention in the cowboys was arrested for a moment when a complete section of bleacher seats gave way, collapsing completely with several scores of persons. None was injured, it was reported.

Contests in bronc riding, calf roping, wild cow milking, and steer riding were followed by a brief exhibition of trick roping, bulldogging and fancy riding. Between contest events, six-year-old Lloyd Hefner of Byers, Texas, thrilled the crowd with a masterful bit of steer riding. Failing on his first effort to get squarely seated on the husky yearling selected for his mount, the youngster was dislodged and suffered slight injuries. Asking for a second trial, he successfully rode the plunging steer from here to there.

Contest Results

Competition resulted as follows:

Bronco riding: First, Zeke Harris, Vernon; second, Lonnie Rooney, Ardmore, Okla.; third, Johnnie Miller, Archer City.

Calf roping: First, Perry Hefner, Byers; second, Lonney Rooney, Ardmore, Okla.; third, Bernice Straughan, Marietta, Okla.; time, 29 seconds.

Wild cow milking: First, Orville Shellenberger, Marietta, Okla.; second, Robert Price, Ardmore, Okla.; third, Bert Scott, Archer City.

Steer riding: (Contest not completed Monday).

Following the rodeo contest, Archer City high school continued to make it a good day for that city by trouncing the Iowa Park high school Hawks by a one-point margin, 8 to 7, at the high school field before about 3000 persons.

Late in the afternoon, Junior chamber of commerce members from Wichita Falls developed an informal parade around the square, headed by R. E. Shepherd, who had been pushed into the saddle of a cow pony. A crowd of several hundred gathered on the corner of the courthouse lawn and were entertained with a one-man vocal concert delivered by Mr. Shepherd from his mount.

Other well-known names appearing on the oldtimers' register included the following: Bert Thompson and Ben Wells, Quanah; Mr. and Mrs. Morton Hudson, Hale Center; J. C. Hazlewood, Mineral Wells; Tom Hart, Lockney; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Lea, Spur; Mrs. N. D. Dycus, Dallas; J. J. Morehead, Hale county; R. C. Hardy, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. John Chatham, Plainview; R. E. Taylor, Henrietta; N. J. McMurtry, Antelope; Bob Hardy, Santa Monica, Calif., Miss Ella Power, Archer City; and W. T. Suddath, Henrietta.

Program Tuesday

Between 7:30 and 8 o'clock Monday night an old fiddlers' contest was conducted on the public square as part of a varied musical program. The day's activities wound up with a street dance from 8:30 p. m. to midnight, with hundreds of persons of all ages participating. The concluding number was a square dance, with John H. Turbeville in charge of the time callers.

Tuesday's program will be similar to that followed Monday, but will include a specially prepared chuck-wagon dinner at noon for the old-timer registrants, and a period of speaking from 12:30 p. m. to 3 o'clock in which reminiscences of pioneer days will be uppermost.

An old-timer will be toastmaster and he will call upon the guests to give short talks. Among those expected to speak will be Dayton Moses, of Fort Worth; R. E. Taylor, of Wichita Falls; Judge A. H. Carrigan, P. A. Martin, John C. Kay, J. W. Akin and Robert E. Huff, also of Wichita Falls; W. S. Ikard, W. H. Meyers and A. B. Edwards, of Henrietta; S. R. Crawford, Fred Arnold, of Graham; Seth Stiles, of Ysleta, Texas; Ruben Elderd, of Plainview, Texas; Mort Hudson, Sam Scaling and Mark Routzahn, of Hale Center, and others from the outside of the county, as well as many of the older boys of Archer county.

This will be a good old time after dinner meeting of the boys and girls of long ago.

KILLING CALLED CAPITAL CRIME

court the charge was filed, until the latter part of the week.

County Attorney Roy Archer said he did not believe Brady's case was "a bailable one."

"From the facts that have been presented to me so far, it looks like a case in which a jury probably would inflict the death penalty," he said.

Originally set for today, the examining trial was postponed on application of the county attorney, who said he wanted the attendance of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Williams, living at the apartment house where Miss Highsmith had rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Williams had gone to San Antonio for the Armistice day holiday.

Miss Highsmith, stenographer for the supreme court commission of appeals, died early Sunday morning an hour after she had been stabbed. She never spoke after the attack and died without regaining consciousness.

Private Funeral

Funeral services for the girl were held in a local funeral home by Dr. K. P. Barton, pastor of the First Methodist church, this afternoon and interment was in Oakwood cemetery. The funeral was private.

The girl's father, A. G. B. Highsmith, head of the accounting department of the Humble Oil company refinery at Baytown, near Houston, arrived here early today, after traveling in an automobile through the night over rain-soaked and muddy roads. He was away on a week-end outing when an effort was made to break news of the tragedy to him.

As he reached a friend's home here, at the end of his anxious journey and at the foot of his only daughter's bier, he was in a state of near-collapse. A doctor ministered to him before he could attend the funeral.

Light-Hearted Girl

Miss Highsmith was known as a friendly, light-hearted girl around the capitol, where she had worked in other departments before she went to the commission of appeals, and where Brady had known her while he was a part of the state's official life. She weighed hardly more than 100 pounds. She had pretty blonde hair. She had a light-hearted salutation for everyone as she visited with other employes through the corridors of the big building.

Brady was a frequent visitor at the capitol where he had business with the departments in his capacity as a well-known practitioner. In later years, however, his hair had become whiter. His friends said he was a "mere shell" of his former self.

They pictured him a few years back as a fine specimen of manhood. Big, robust, clear-eyed student of the law. He had an eloquence as an orator that few were talented with. He was an influence in civic and religious affairs. He had taken a leading part in the work of the Knights of Columbus, but in late years had permitted his interest to lapse, according to officers in the local council.

Prominent Ex-Student

Graduated from the University of Texas in 1896, he was thereafter active in its affairs and interested in its welfare. He was prominent in the Ex-Students association.

Before he was appointed to the court of civil appeals he had been county attorney of Travis county and an assistant attorney general. During the administration of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson he was attorney for the banking department.

Mrs. Brady, who was married to Brady in 1900, visited him in his cell again today, where she spent a few minutes giving comfort to the man with whom she had shared the "ups and down" of life over a span of three decades. They had no children.

Sheriff Coley White said Brady was fairly comfortable in his cell. He said he was still highly nervous, apparently suffering from shock, and gradually awakening to realization of the enormity of the crime charged against him.

Although refusing to state what defense would be offered, Sam Dickens, attorney-friend of Brady, indicated an effort would be made to show that the accused man was crazed with drink and did not know what he was doing when he slashed Miss Highsmith. Doctors Joe Wooten and Goodall Wooten visited Brady in jail several times.

Evidence Is Secret

County Attorney Archer would not divulge the nature of the evidence he had gathered. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Williams, other witnesses are F. R. McNaughton, who lived at the apartment where the stabbing occurred, and Frank Graham Jr., part-time student at the University of Texas and music store salesman, who arrived at the house almost simultaneously with Miss Highsmith the night of the tragedy.

McNaughton said he was talking over the telephone when he heard screams and rushed out of the house to find Miss Highsmith cut and bleeding. He took a knife from Brady, he said.

Two police officers arrived shortly and found Brady standing by apparently in a "daze," they stated.

It was stated that Williams will testify to a visit to his apartment by Brady a few minutes before the homicide. Officers said Williams and Brady had a difficulty.

Brady told officers that all he could remember of the events of the night was attending a drinking party after the Baylor-Texas game and "having a difficulty with several persons."

Graham refused to be interviewed. He referred questioners to county Attorney Archer, who would not divulge Graham's testimony.

From his cell, Brady looked down upon his former buddies the Spanish American war today as they marched by to the blare of bugles and the rumble of drums in the Armistice day parade.

Occupies Leahy's Cell

He occupied the same cell that had been allotted to Harry J. Leahy electrocuted for the slaying of Dr. J. A. Ramsay of Mathis, during Leahy's sanity trial at Georgetown.

Meals prepared by his wife took the place of the usual jail fare.

While Miss Highsmith's body was being borne to its final resting place, her automobile was standing beside her rooming house with its door open—exactly as she had left it just before the stabbing.

The frail blonde stenographer was born in Bastrop and was graduated with honors from the Bastrop High school. She came to Austin alone and studied in a business college here. The business college training served to gain her a position with the state industrial accident board, where she served about five years. Then she was given the place which she occupied until her death.

The young woman's aunts, Mrs. J. E. Perkins of Bastrop, and Mrs. B. L. Grimes of San Angelo, and her cousin, Mrs. L. J. Nachtrab of Houston, attended the simple funeral.

H. H. Brooks, who as district attorney will direct the prosecution of Brady, once sat at an adjacent desk in the same office with the veteran jurist.

Brooks indicated today that Brady's case would not go before the grand jury until January. Brooks said that he could not be tried until after the January term and no time would be gained by asking the present grand jury, now recessed, to be reconvened to hear the case.

After Brady had been told that his examining trial had been postponed, he resigned himself to at least three days longer in jail, although he declared he had hoped to be out on bond today to receive needed medical attention.

The examining trial was not expected to reveal the details of the tragedy further than necessary for the determination of whether bail should be granted.

Houston Cop Charged With Taking Bribe

HOUSTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—T. G. Nolen, 32, police officer, was charged in justice court today with accepting a bribe and Police Chief C. W. McPhail ordered him suspended indefinitely. The arrest resulted from a trap laid by James L. Bailey, attorney, who marked five $1 bills, he said, and gave them to Dora Kelly, negro woman, who had complained to Bailey Nolen had been taking protection money from her.

Minnesota's investment in new schools this year will exceed $4,000,000.

Rail Head Withholds Comment on 'Party'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, after appearing before the grand jury today in connection with the "Wall street booze party" three years ago, said he had nothing to discuss for the public, adding "you will have to rely upon the laboratory experience and smelling propensities of Senator Brookhart."

SOUR STOMACHS MADE SWEET

Antiseptic Remedy Corrects Fermented Condition

If you can not eat what you like, if you have to avoid certain foods because they disagree with you, your trouble is no doubt due to fermantation (souring of food)—a condition that can be quickly corrected if proper methods are used.

The use of soda, magnesia, dyspepsia tablets, laxatives and common patent medicines, require continual dosing and, at best, can furnish only temporary relief.

GORDON'S, a stomach and bowel antiseptic, gives lasting benefit. It stops fermentation promptly, sweetens the stomach, drives out the acids and poisons, soothes and heals the membrane lining. The very first dose will relieve sour stomach, indigestion, gas, bloating, heartburn, dissolve the excess acid.

If you have stomach trouble now, or when food disagrees, don't take chances with temporary measures. Get GORDON'S from druggist at once. It costs no more than ordinary remedies—a large 8-ounce bottle for $1.50—less than three cents a dose.—Adv.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, and channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Constipation Relieved by Help of Black-Draught, Without Bad After-Effects

Lake View, S. C.—"I always keep Thedford's Black-Draught in my home to take when I feel a sick headache coming on, for, after taking a dose of Black-Draught I quickly recover," writes Mrs. Fannie Rogers, of this place.

"Every so often when I get dull and feel lifeless, my eyes hurt and I have a sick, nauseated feeling, my color gets yellow and I don't sleep well, then I believe I am full of poison and my system needs a thorough cleansing. I start taking a course of Black-Draught, and in a few days I feel like a different person. My energy comes back and I am able to do my work without much effort.

"Black-Draught is a fine medicine for constipation. It gives quick relief and I prefer it to others because it is a vegetable compound and there are no bad after-effects. It sets me up right off."

Constipation dams up poisons in the bowels, where they are absorbed into the general system, causing many serious symptoms.

At the first sign of constipation, take Thedford's Black-Draught.

Women Have Something to Say!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has ridiculed into oblivion that ancient prejudice which excluded women from a voice in council. Today, in millions of homes, the delicious flavor of LUCKY STRIKE fills the room as the family group respects the opinion of its women folk.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

HOOVER URGES SAFETY ROUTE

Peace First, but Nation Should Prepare

peace which avoids both of these calamities. The road requires preparedness for defense; it equally requires preparedness for peace."

Reviews Negotiations

President Hoover reviewed briefly his negotiations here with Premier Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, and expressed a hope that the London conference next January would be marked with success and that there would be serious reductions in navies "as a relief to the economic burdens of all peoples."

However, he added:

"We must reduce and limit warships by agreement only. I have no faith in the reduction of armaments by example alone."

The president made it plain, though, that even with the reduction of naval armaments, the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war, the league of nations and other agreements and covenants the millenium is still far afield. All of them, he declared, must stand the acid test of many years before nations may safely abandon defense against war.

"Until such time as nations can build the agencies of pacific settlement on stronger foundations; until fear, the most dangerous of all national emotions has proved groundless by long proof of international honesty, until the power of world opinion as a restraint of aggression has had many years of test, there will not have been established that confidence which warrants the abandonment of preparedness for defense among nations. To do so may invite war."

Reduction Plan

The president startled his audience by putting forward a daring suggestion which he said, would result in material reduction of armaments.

This is that all food ships should enjoy the same immunity as hospital ships in time of war. He asserted that such immunity would relieve navies of a large part of their duty, the protection of such ships, and at the same time prevent starvation among innocent woman and children. He made it plain, however, that this, which is a matter concerning the freedom of the seas, would not be brought up at the London conference.

"For many years, and born of poignant personal experience I have held that food ships should be made free of any interference in times of war," the president declared. "I would place all vessels laden solely with food supplies on the same footing as hospital ships.

"The time has come when we should remove starvation of women and children from the weapons of warfare."

The rapid growth of industrial civilization during the last half century, the president continued, has created in many countries populations in excess of their domestic food supplies. Other countries have produced an excess of foods. The fear of the interruption of this seaborne food has been a large contributing factor to the development of navies and efforts to cut it off have former a large element in the strategy of war, he pointed out.

Cites Facts

Throughout his address the president tempered his altruistic ambitions with the practical world situation.

"The world today is comparatively at peace," he said. "The outlook for a peaceable future is more bright than for half a century past. Yet after all it is an armed peace. The men under arms including reserves in the world are almost 30,000,000 in number, or nearly 10,000,000 more than before the great war.

"Due to the Washington conference and the destruction of the German navy the combatant ships in the world show some decrease since the war. But aircraft and other instruments of destruction are far more potent than they were even in the great war. There are fears, distrusts and smouldering injuries among nations which are the tinder of war. Nor does a single quarter of a century during all the ages of human experience warrant the assumption that war shall not occur again.

"Gloomy as this picture may be, yet we can say with truth that the world is becoming more genuinely inclined to peace," he said.

Little Theater Opens New Home With Two Well-Acted Plays Here

By ELEANOR FLEMING

Another forward step was taken by the Little Theater of Wichita Falls Monday night when two well-chosen plays were presented as a first offering in the new playhouse recently leased by the organization. Austin Strong's "Drums of Oude" and "The Unseen" by Alice Gerstenberg, both one-act plays, constituted the two-hour program for the evening.

Paul Barnett and Jimmie Campbell as Captain McGregor and Lieutenant Hartley in "Drums of Oude" were outstanding in their distinct portrayal of a veteran officer and enthusiastic young lieutenant. An unfaltering smoothness of action, good stage presence and a natural ease of manner and enunciation helped them to carry the burden of the most of the lines in the play. Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., playing a difficult role as the only woman in a play of military nature, effected a graceful depiction of the beautiful Mrs. Clayton.

Raymond Strong and Louis Bond as other army officers and Lee Erwin and Frederick Sehmann as Hindustani servants aided in making a weird background, their few lines contributing to the mystery. No little part of the success was due to the muffled drumming by Fred Newth and the skilful manipulation of a complicated light arrangement by J. W. Thorne.

In the comedy-drama, "The Unseen," Mrs. Freida Van Emden was easily outstanding, subordinating whatever serious thought which may have been intended in her ludicrous role as Hulda, the maid. Mrs. Paul Harrell as Lois Baldwin and Ernest Robertson as Jeffrey Baldwin were forced to undergo the trials of an untrained servant in a short farce which was made more hilarious by the utter indifference and clever clumsiness of their maid, Hulda.

Emil Hermann, president of the Little Theater, made a short talk prior to the presentation of the plays. The new playhouse, remodeled and furnished within the past three weks, was formally opened for inspection.

"Drums of Oude" proved an interesting test for the new light system recently installed in the playhouse. The three sets for lighting are said to be among the best in Texas.

"The Unseen" and "Drums of Oude" will be presented Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. The next production, as announced by Director F. C. McClung, will be presented on Dec. 11, 12, 13 and 14.

Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey was in charge of a musical program given before the plays and during a short intermission, with a number of the members of the Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra assisting.

Last Rites Held For Mrs. Almond

Funeral services for Mrs. W. S. Almond, 80, pioneer Texan and a resident of Wichita Falls for many years, who died in a local hospital about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, were held from the Church of the Good Shepherd at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon with Rev. W. D. Bratton, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Riverside under the direction of the Hines mortuary.

Mrs. Almond died as a result of injuries sustained last week when she stumbled and fell at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred M. Gates, 2024 Avondale street. Mrs. Almond came to Texas from Ohio more than 50 years ago. She had lived in Gainesville before moving to this city several years ago.

Besides the daughter, Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Almond is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Herbert M. Jones of Los Angeles, Calif., and a son, Max D. Almond of Corsicana, Texas.

State Society to Reconvene In Mineral Wells

A large group of the outstanding mental experts in the state Monday afternoon concluded the annual fall meeting of the Texas Neurological society held at the Wichita Falls State hospital. Papers dealing with several unusual cases of mental diseases were read by five of the doctors present.

The outstanding paper of the meeting, "A Report on Cortical Blindness by Lesion of Both Calcarine Areas," was read by Dr. William Keiller of the Texas University School of Medicine at Galveston. The paper was based in part on the experiences of Doctor Keiller during research work in France, according to Dr. Charles W. Castner, superintendent of the local state hospital.

Two other interesting papers were read by Dr. Marvin G. Pearce of Houston and Dr. Guy S. Witt of Dallas. Dr. Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth also read an interesting treatise. Lengthy discussions and comparison of experiences followed the reading of each paper, Doctor Castner said.

At a nervous and mental clinic held during the forenoon, four patients presenting unusual cases were examined by the neurologists. The subject of brain tumors, brought on by the case of one of the patients, produced a discussion and was dealt with in the treatises read.

The next meting of the society will be held in conjunction with the meeting of the Texas State Medical association in Mineral Wells in May, 1930. The list of prominent neurologists present included also Drs. J. T. Greenwood of Houston, C. H. Standifer of Austin, G. R. Howard of Austin, A. J. Schwenkenberg of Dallas, G. S. Powell of Terrill, W. M. Thomas of Rusk, J. D. Bozeman of Fort Worth, Frank S. White of this city and the medical staff of the local hospital.

Borrowing Anna Struck by Taxi Dies in Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 11. (UP)—"Borrowing Anna" is dead.

Anna Sharpley, who was such a master of the "touch system" that in the few years immediately preceding 1916 she borrowed $81,000 from wealthy Chicagoans without collateral, died of injuries received when she was struck by a taxi.

For a number of years she worked as a scrub woman and waitress, then as a department store clerk. She met Mrs. T. B. Blackstone, one of the city's wealthiest women. From Mrs. Blackstone she borrowed a total of $47,000, started a poultry farm and apparently prospered.

In 1916 she went bankrupt and it was revealed that she had borrowed $34,000 from other wealthy persons with whom she had come in contact through her business and her acquaintance with Mrs. Blackstone.

"Borrowing Anna" said she had given most of the money to a blackmailer.

The government-general spent approximately $2,000,000 on the Chosen exposition at Keijo, Japan, which opened recently.

Restless Children

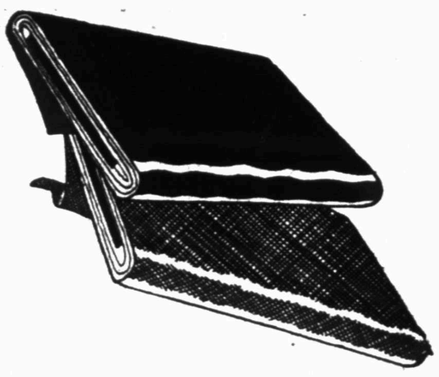

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Floral Heights W. M. S. Has Armistice Program

Observing the 10th birthday anniversary of the society and Armistice day, members of the Floral Heights Methodist W. M. S. met at the church Monday afternoon for an inspiring program. Mrs. Milton Johnson opened the meeting with devotionals in which she showed how Nov. 11 was not only a national holiday but a holy day as well. She also told how all holidays should be holy days because they commemorate some great event, hence the element of holiness. Mrs. Johnson emphasized the day as a joyous birthday not forgetting to bring to the minds of those attending, the sacrifices and loyalty wrought by those of the members who made possible the 10th birthday. She concluded her devotional with a prayer.

The church parlors were elaborately decorated for the occasion with bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and patriotic emblems.

Mrs. Homer Jasper, program chairman, introduced Mrs. W. M. Priddy who sang the beautiful poem, "Trees" by Joyce Kilmer. For an encore she gave "Moonlight and Roses," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. G. Wayne Barker and violin obbligato by Miss Viola Grace Doern. Mrs. John B. Rhea read "After While," by Riley and "Recessional."

Mary Frances Bingham sang "Not Going to Grieve My Lord," playing her own accompaniment. She was dressed in costume and portrayed domestic educational features in poor, medium and upper classes of women, which pictures America's task in taking Christian education to Korea. A Korean playlet presenting family life in a Korean home was given by the following: Mesdames F. F. Thompson, W. J. Stuckler, H. W. Barton, C. D. Malone, Henry Milliken, Joe Richker, W. H. Baker and H. C. Jasper.

Mrs. M. T. Clements announced the week of prayer program for Nov. 25. Mrs. A. B. Gough, assistant treasurer, announced that a member of the society has given a check for $100 as a birthday present, this was presented in honor of the president, Mrs. Clements.

Mrs. W. J. Stuckler and Mrs. Homer Jasper presented a lovely birthday cake embossed with roses holding 10 lighted candles. Mrs. Clements cut the cake, making wishes for every department of the society. Birthday greetings were read from Mrs. Miles Hines and Mrs. Paul Powell, district officers. Honor guests were Mrs. C. A. Spragins, Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Simpson and Mrs. W. A. Miller. Doctor Simpson offered a special prayer for the sick members of the society.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Nov. 11.—Just outside of Wichita, on the Henrietta road, we noticed Sunday, a yard that was beautiful from the utilitarian as well as the artistic viewpoint. A circle of roses and other flowers surrounded a splendid green patch of turnips.

We heard Mrs. Carrigan talk last Thursday about the "cross timbers" and wanted to ask what they were. Patches of them have been pointed out to us. From the Red river south, this scrubby thick wood and underbrush lies diagonally in varying widths across the state.

The farther east one rides from Wichita Falls, the nearer he hides to autumn colors. But it is on the road from Fort Worth to Mineral Wells, that we saw real glory. Roads wind up and down the hills (they call them the Palo Pinto mountains), and we were startled with sudden plunges into scarlet and russet and crimson and gold.

Once we rounded a curve and met a whole field of scarlet sumac and once we saw all the reds and russets and yellows mixed and beyond them lay a field of green wheat.

And always, in the distance, lay deep blue hills.

We have heard it said that every county in Texas is the best in the state for some particular thing. If we hadn't seen pictures of the "turkey drives," we would be tempted to believe that Mineral Wells lay in the midst of the best turkey country.

We were troubled when we met truck after truck loaded with them; but we have discovered there are many left. Every little farmhouse along the road has its full allotment. And we saw also, white guineas—a strange sight to us.

Then, with the blue hills still in the distance, ever luring, we came into Mineral Wells where the magnificent Baker hotel has just opened to house the delegates to the 22nd annual conference of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

"On one of the mountains standing over the hotel, the city has erected a mammoth "Welcome" in electric lights.

Women and other women and still more women. But we are talking about a trip today and we heard Mrs. Guy Rogers quote, "stick to where you're stuck and stay stuck till you get to where you're going," and we've reached the end of the scenery—at least the natural scenery. We will tell you tomorrow about the women.

Alamo Pupils Have Armistice Program

Beginning "Education Week," pupils of the Alamo school enjoyed a special Armistice day program at the school assembly Monday morning.

The main address was given by Dr. C. M. Simpson, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church. E. F. Bohmfalk gave several special musical numbers, after which he led in a patriotic singsong.

Other special numbers on the program included "History of the American Flag," by Herbert Gray; "The American's Creed," by W. R. Little, and a reading, "In Flander's Field," by Francis Stringer.

Men Should Spend More Improving Looks, Says Dix

"Certainly the World Will Be a More Attractive Place in Which to Live When Every Man Counts His Calories and Covers His Shining Dome With a Toupee and Generally Makes of Himself a Thing of Beauty and a Joy Forever," Says Dorothy Dix.

One of those statisticians, who is always taking the joy out of life by pinning a price-tag on all of our little indulgences, has just been figuring out how much money it costs the men in this country every year to beautify themselves.

So many millions for keeping a razor edge on their coat sleeves and trousers. So many millions for shaves and haircuts. So many more millions for facials and manicures. So many additional millions for hair tonics and lotions and perfumes and sweet-scented powders, and so on, and on.

It comes to a truly staggering sum in the aggregate, but what of it? Who begrudges it? Every dollar of it is money well spent, and when one looks about and sees the number of sloppy, slouchy men who are in crying need of the barber and the presser, one feels that a few additional billions could be expended with profit to the individuals and pleasure to the beholders in sprucing up the masculine sex.

And pray why shouldn't men prettify themselves? Heaven knows they need it, for not every man is born a John Barrymore any more than every woman is born a Billie Dove. Most of us need to circumvent nature and supply through art the deficiencies that the stingy jade left out of our makeup. But while women have always painstakingly, and with suffering and prayer and fasting, striven to make themselves easy upon the yes of the public, men have been content to remain as homely as God made them.

Women endure the agony of starvation in order to retain a girlish figure. They undergo the tortures of being scalped to have a permanent wave put in their hair. They spend far more thought on the lines and colors they can wear than they do on the salvation of their immortal souls. But men cheerfully let themselves get bay-windowed and with rolls of fat overflowing their collars. They make no effort to camouflage their bald pates, and if they are getting gray nothing on earth could keep them from wearing pepper-and-salt suits, nor could an act of the legislature prevent them from dressing in tans and browns if they have sandy complexions and hair.

Why men devote so little intelligent personal consideration to their appearance, nobody knows. Sometimes one thinks it is because they have so little vanity that they never look in a mirror. Sometimes one thinks it is because they are so superhumanly conceited that they don't need any adventitious aids to their beauty, and that any further adornment would be as superfluous as gilding the lily or painting the rose.

At any rate, whichever one of these hypotheses may have been true in the past, it is comforting to learn that men are discarding them and have taken to frequenting the beauty shops and are spending millions a year on having themselves furbished up. Certainly the world will be a more attractive place in which to live when every man counts his calories and covers his shining dome with a toupee and generally makes of himself a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

And, without doubt, when men take up improving their appearance in a serious way, it will do much toward preventing the disillusionment of wives and keep them from going on a stillhunt for affinities. For one of the main things that makes wives tired and causes them to wonder whatever made them marry the ones they did, is because they get weary at looking at a husband who looks like something that the cat brought in.

No other one piece of advice is rubbed more insistently into the consciousness of the bride than the fact that to keep her husband looking at her she must keep herself looking good. She is told over and over again that she must look tidy and neat and sweet and fresh and clean and all dolled up, and that no love will survive dirty kimonos and run-down-at-the-heel slippers and curl papers and cold cream.

It is all true enough. A frowsy woman, who looks as if she needed to be run through a steam laundry, is a repulsive object, and no one can blame the man who turns his eyes away from her to some little cutie who looks as if she had just stepped out of a bandbox. But it doesn't seem to have occurred to the man who is so critical of his wife's looks that she is equally sensitive to his and that she doesn't any more enjoy spending an evening looking at a fat man in a soiled collar and in his stocking feet and with a two-day stubble of beard on his face than he would in contemplating a fat woman in a dirty wrapper.

So when men begin to keep themselves fixed up for wife and come home all shaven and shorn and powdered and perfumed, as they used to do in their courting days, why, it is going to usher in a glad new day in domesticity and stop a lot of divorce. For the reason that many a wife doesn't take the trouble to keep her husband is because he has got to look like such a moth-eaten, damaged article that she doesn't feel that he is worth houseroom any more.

And certainly it is going to brace men up and put fresh energy and more pep into them to devote more time and money and thought to fixing themselves up, for there is more moral support in knowing that we are looking our best than there is in the strongest moral principles. Every woman knows that when she comes out of a session at a beauty shop she feels ten years younger and as if she had just inherited a million dollars.

And it will be the same way with men.

WICHITA WOMAN TELLS OF DURANT TALK

By JONNIE MORGAN

I heard Will Durant in Dallas at the Open Forum last year. I drove over to this lecture on "Woman's Emancipation" with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kruger. We were impressed with the ease in which he presented his subject. He appeared on the stage in a most natural manner, giving the audience the impression that he was quite comfortable, dressed in a neat street suit and soft-collared shirt. He is rather small, and wears a small pointed beard. His laughing eyes and sympathetic manner won his audience at once. In fact he throws out a cordial warmth at once. He bears the eye-marks of a distinguished scholar. His very presence suggested the words, "Yes, yes, I believe I have a message for you. My knowledge is your knowledge—that's why I take such great joy in giving you something of what I have learned. If if I am wrong in my views, do not hesitate to say so."

He sprinkled his lecture with bits of humor that were quite Gallic in nature. His simple language and style bear a dignity that bespeaks refinement and culture. He is a philosopher, so we must bear in mind that a philosopher's place in the world is that of provoking thought. In this capacity, he qualifies.

One remark, showing thought and humor, stayed with me and that was:

"I pity women for the disillusionment that will come to them in politics. The bolder woman will dominate the more refined one, just as in the case of men. The only remedy for this dilemma is the mental emancipation of women, their intellectual education. There is too much hostility between women and men to enable men to help woman with their problems.

"The only problem with the education of women is that after you educate them you cannot marry them. Every women wants to marry, especially if she says she does not. The problem with the educated women is that her superiority is insufferable to man."

Mineral Wells has thrown its doors wide to the visitors. Charlton Brown, in his words of welcome, said the city was so glad to welcome the women of the federation, they had planted the word "Welcome" in the hillside in box car letters 32 feet long.

LEGION HERE OBSERVES DAY

But Traffic Lights Burn Through Interval

While traffic and downtown clamor in most cities were halted at 11 a. m. Monday in solemn tribute to fallen doughboys, Wichita Falls' business district roared noisily on.

Members of the American legion post here who arranged the most elaborate of the city's Armistice day programs said it had been intended to have the traffic signals flash a halt to all traffic at the 11 o'clock hour, so pedestrians and others would be reminded of its significance. At the same time the legion program proper was to be carried out at the Majestic theater, where a proper pause and ritual was to be made. The traffic lights, however, went on busily changing from red to green, as usual, as the crowd in the theater paused.

Chief of Police Frank Burns said Monday night that he gladly would have instructed his traffic department to flash the halt signal at that hour, but that he was not requested to do so.

Other phases of the day's observances went of fwithout omissions. The program came to an end Monday night with a turkey dinner at the Kemp hotel followed by a dance, at which all legion members, their wives and friends were guests.

The principal speaker at the banquet was Joe B. Hatchitt. Mr. Hatchitt was introduced by R. M. Wilhite, who was in charge of the legion's Armistice day program. J. F. Friberg, in an address, made a report on membership, bringing out that 75 new members have signed up.

Besides the legion program at the Majestic theater Monday morning other observances were held in the city schools and at the Kiwanis club meeting.

Pottery Lobbyist's Activities Are Described as 'Approximate Contempt'

Caraway's Report to Senate on Investigation of William F. Burgess Bristles With Denunciation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (UP)—Activities of William F. Burgess, agent of the United States Pottery association, and former member on the tariff commission amounted "approximately to contempt of the senate, if they do not constitute such," the special lobby investigating committee reported to the senate today.

In presenting the committee report, Chairman Caraway said, "This paid lobbyist had no regard for his own reputation, no hesitation in committing perjury and was also willing to slander members of the senate to obtain what he wanted."

Accepts Money

"The evil of the thing was," Caraway continued, "that Burgess was not only willing to accept money as a lobbyist and deny it under oath, but was willing to go out and try to frame this man by saying that members of the senate finance committee had condemned him."

Attempts said to have been made by Burgess to have Frederick L. Koch, chief of the pottery division of the tariff commission, dismissed because of information he is purported to have given congressional committees, were the actions complained of by the lobby committee.

This report was the second made by the committee since it opened its investigation. The first concerned the employment of Charles L. Eyanson, employe of the Connecticut Manufacturers association, by Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, as his secretary and tariff advisor, and resulted in the official censure of Bingham by the senate.

Sought Dismissal

"There is no doubt that Burgess appealed to Marvin (chairman of the tariff commission) to dismiss Koch or otherwise discipline him to constrain him and other members of the force of the tariff commission to refrain from giving information that might militate against the enactment of the highest possible rates of duty, or from aiding members of the committees of congress or senators and representatives who might be believed to be desirous to reducing the duties, his acts amounting approximately to contempt of the senate, if they do not constitute such," the report states.

The report pointed out also that Chairman Marvin of the tariff commission, to whom Burgess submitted his complaint against Koch, "was, for many years prior to his appointment, secretary of the home market club, an organization interested in the promotion of a policy of a protective tariff, publishing a magazine annually, The Protectionist, receiving from it a salary of $8,000 a year."

"He had served as such," the report continued, "since about 1908, and was present in Washington while the Payne-Aldrich bill and the Underwood-Simmons bill were under consideration."

SUICIDE LEAPS FROM PLANE

Girl, 20, Says Prayer Then Drops 2,000 Feet

$175 in the suitcase in the closet at home may help to pay my funeral expenses. I am very happy now.

"I am wondering if the newspapers will decide to devote any space to me? I am wondering if I will find time to think of the past as I whirl through space, as it is said a drowning man does when struggling in the water. I am wondering if I will find anything in death. If so, what?

"Everything has always been discord when I long so for harmony. Maybe yet I will find it, maybe sweet music.

"If I find any sort of life or corresponding time after death, I will try to communicate with my immediate relatives at 9 o'clock some evening for a while.

"During my lifetime I think my one fault was deception. I have lied repeatedly about small things, but unfortunately I forgot what these small things were.

"I have no guilty conscience whatsoever, I feel."

The note, unsigned, ended on this last, self-justifying sentence.

Police said that a second message had been found on the back of an envelope left in the plane which said:

"Communicate by phone with Mrs. Rockwell, West Home bureau, Tuckahoe, N. Y. Ask a Mr. Hornsley for my money."

The body struck a tree and landed on a dirt path alongside Remsen street in Malley Strem, L. I.

Officials at the field and Pilot Booth described the girl as being about 18 years of age, pretty and refined, and well dressed in a black coat trimmed in brown fur, small hat and brown dress.

Before taking off, Booth said, the girl had asked him how the cabin door opened and if he would "lose his head" if anything unusual occurred.

BURK HONORS FALLEN HEROES

Graves of 13 Veterans Decorated in Program

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Nov. 11.—The annual Armistice day ball tonight brought to a close what members of the Burkburnett post of the American legion consider one of the most elaborate observances of this occasion ever staged in this section of the state.

Monday's events began with the decoration of the graves of 13 veterans. The services at the local cemetery were conducted by Past Commanders B. J. Carey and C. E. Dace. A firing squad in charge of S. B. Crissey fired a volley in salute to the fallen ones, and Bugler J. G. Allison sounded taps over the graves.

The legionnaires then went to the American legion home and formed for a parade, which wound through the city's streets to a central point designated by a speaker's platform. Services there were in charge of Post Commander J. J. Jordan. W. D. Bent led a singsong and Past Commander Dr. W. P. Martin introduced E. F. Fruechte, Wichita Falls attorney, who delivered the principal address of the day. Mr. Fruechte spoke on "Our Duty Toward the Disabled Veteran." At noon veterans and their families were served a turkey dinner at the legion home by the ladies auxiliary.

At 1 p. m. members of the post went to the Fairview school at Thrift, where Doctor Martin made an address. At 3 p. m. the crowd attended the Burkburnett-Seymour football game. Then followed tonight's dance.

The day's program was in charge of J. J. Jordan, W. D. Bent, C. E. Dace, D. J. Carey and S. B. Crissey.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 11. (AP)—The steamship Escambia, which went aground five miles off port light was floated at 3 a. m., today and was proceeding to its destination, Mobile, according to a message received by the tropical radio station here. The vessel went aground yesterday.

"Let's get up a Newspaper ad"
This is the first of a series of ads depicting the various processes of advertising production—watch for No. 2 in an early issue.

"first we must decide on a subject—"

Clip and save the ads in this series—when completed they will form a complete story of the preparation of newspaper advertising.

Let us therefore devote our advertising efforts to the preparation of a Fall Opening Announcement for an imaginary store—The "Roseanne Dress Shoppe" for example, whose slogan we will assume is—"A Touch of Youth in Every Garment." The nature of our store and the subject of our advertising being established, the next step will be to prepare a preliminary layout suggestion.

Wichita Daily Times and Record News advertisers, of course, need not rack their brains for ideas because our exclusive franchise for the Meyer Both Company's General Newspaper Service provides scores of advertising ideas on every subject—Use of this splendid service entails no additional expenditure. Our representative will gladly call and explain the service in detail.

"It Sure Surprised Me," Says Waco Farmer

Orgatone Overcomes Troubles, and He Is Gaining Back Weight And Strength

"It's the honest truth, before I had taken a full bottle of Orgatone, I was beginning to get better," said J. L. Hartgrove, of rural route 3, Waco, Texas. Mr. Hartgrove is a well known farmer, having lived in this section for several years.

"I had a bad case of stomach and kidney trouble," he continued. "For the past four years I have been going down hill, and nothing I would take seemed to do me any good. At night, I was very restless, and hardly ever got a good night's rest, and had to get up several times with my kidneys. I felt tired and worn out all the time, and didn't have the ambition and energy to do my work.

"I had to eat light foods, and even then indigestion would bother me, and gas formed on my stomach something terrible. I was constipated, too, and had to take strong laxatives. I was just in a general run down condition, and needed a good reconstructive tonic like Orgatone.

"After taking a few doses of Orgatone I began improving and am still getting better. I am getting wonderful results. All of those dreadful gas pains have left me, and I eat well, and sleep fine every night. My kidneys don't bother me at all, and in fact, I am just better in every way. Orgatone has been a wonderful remedy in my case, and I am glad to recommend it."

Genuine Orgatone is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison Drug store, 716 Indiana Ave.—Adv.

HE HAS HIS reverses. The frosts of ill-fortune repeatedly nip his expectorations.

He has found that every joy must be bought with two tears—that dreams seldom match wakenings—but he keeps on while you weep on, bravely questing for another fair sky and a rose by the wayside.

Tomorrows are unknown quantities. When in doubt he plays optimism—selects a lever instead of a drag.

Laughing at the Clubs

THE AMERICAN LUNCHEON CLUB has come in for a good deal of kidding in the last half dozen years. Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and the rest—the intellectual sharpshooters have been sniping at them with steady persistence, making fun of their members, their speeches, their songs and their objects.

But once in a while something happens that makes these jibes and jeers sound just a little bit flat.

Here's an example.

On the desk at which this article is being written there lies a copy of the October issue of the Exchangite, the national organ of the Exchange clubs. It contains a story—telling how each Exchange club in the country devoted one day this last summer to putting on a picnic for the under-privileged children of its community.

There are upwards of a dozen photographs with the story; photographs of kids, eating ice cream, exploring bags of candy, sliding down chute-the-chutes, riding on roller coasters, plunging in swimming pools, scampering on the grass, eating lunch under trees, playing on sandy beaches, tooting horns, playing ball, admiring new toys and having, in general, a swell time.

These children were orphans. Cripples, some of them—kids who didn't get out to play much, who didn't see an amusement park or an ice cream cone or a decent bathing beach from one summer's end to the other. But in these photographs every one of them is grinning.

The story that goes with the pictures gives the details. Ten thousand children entertained at Detroit . . . three thousand at Nashville . . . six hundred at Merchantville, N. J. . . . four hundred at Providence . . . five hundred at Macon . . . two hundred and fifty at Dallas . . . and so on, through paragraph after paragraph, all over the nation.

That's the Exchange clubs' story. The other luncheon clubs do the same thing. Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and the rest—they all go in for it.

Now maybe that isn't very important. And maybe some of the luncheon club speakers do say foolish things once in a while. Maybe some of the songs the members sing are a bit mawkish now and then.

Maybe so. But—well, there aren't any too many happy children in this world. Some of them are too darned unhappy, year in and year out, to let a man who thinks about 'em much sleep well at night.

And it's hard to poke fun at the sight of busy business men devoting their time to giving a bunch of orphans and cripples a good time. Somehow this stunt of the Exchange clubs makes the sneers of the "intellectuals" sound a bit flat.

Why should the club members mind the laughter, anyway? They've made some thousands of kids laugh, too—and that's more important.

The Red Man Gets Wise

THE NOBLE RED MAN, who once sold Manhattan island for $24 worth of glass beads, seems to be getting wise to himself—or, perhaps, wise to his white brother.

A western museum curator recently toured the Southwest to collect Indian pottery for his museum. He found, he says, that the Indian nowadays is cooking his meals in nice steel and aluminum pots and pans made by modern mills. He uses them because they are more serviceable and convenient than his own pots.

But he still makes pots, just the same. And why? To sell to the white tourist, who buys them without the slightest hesitation. With the money thus obtained the Indian outfits his own kitchen, and has enough change left to buy food and clothing as well.

The red man, it seems, is making up for that episode of the glass beads.

A Case for Clemency

IN GEORGIA a 71-year-old woman is under sentence of electrocution, having been convicted of plotting with a young man the murder of a printer in order to get $14,000 insurance which the victim carried.

There aren't any mitigating circumstances. The crime was revolting and callous—murder for gain, pure and simple.

And yet, despite that fact, we have a feeling that the ends of justice will be served better if the state of Georgia spares this woman's life than if it executes her. Surely, the community will not be any better off if a gray-haired old woman—no matter what her crime—is strapped in an electric chair and put to death.

A commutation of sentence to life imprisonment seems in order—to our point of view, at any rate.

Legal Nonsense

SOME of the quirks of our legal system are grotesque beyond words. In Elyria, Ohio, one Harry Welch was robbed of $20. He had the robber arrested, as any man in his situation would—and then found himself tossed into jail.

The court had ordered him held as a material witness, and put him under $300 bond. Unable to furnish the bond, he was locked up.

For four months Welch remained in jail. Finally the trial was held, Welch's brother was convicted, and Welch was freed—with $123 which his stay in jail had earned him as witness fees.

A situation of that kind is simply idiotic. An innocent man is locked up like a criminal for four months simply because he is trying to get justice for a wrong that has been done him! The laws that permit such an outrageous bit of idiocy should be amended at once.

Last Word

I see you there
And I know I do not love you
Any more.

And no repentance!
As quiet as a dead heart ever is,
So mine, to you—
That did adore.

This is your sentence:
That in some still, inevtiable
dawn
You will awake
And know that I am gone.

That could not, could not break—
That did not dare!)

Just for the Records

The N. Y. Times of Nov. 3 printed an article on slang which appeared word for word in a newspaper months before. It was compiled by a local Park Rowgue, who certainly has a squawk, not only with the Times, but with the following, who thefted it in turn. Its history follows: In the N. Y. Sunday World of May 5 first. "Transition," the intellectual magazine of Paris, lifted it, sans credit. A few months later the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian burgled it without saying where it got it, and then the Times took it and called it: "American Slang as Paris Sees It." The Times adds that it has a "rather British tinge," heheheh.

In fewer words it is not American slang "as Paris sees it," at all, but slang as a New York newspaperman named Theodore D. Irwin sees it, and Mr. Irwin misinterprets much of the current Broadwayese.

There Ought to Be a Law!

As If You Didn't Know

Izzy Elinson has just discovered that when two actors get into a fierce quarrel it's an I for an I.

Nonsense

George S. Kaufman, this bureau's pet jester and playwright, and Harry Rosenthal, of the "June Moon" troupe, were discussing their favorite types of plays.

"Well," said Rosenthal, "I prefer a play within a play."

"And I," chirped Kaufman, "prefer a play within a theater."

Incidentally

The same Kaufman has a pash for puns, good and bad. Before the asbestos lifted on his comedy hit recently he saw Norman Foster, one of the cast, looking for something on the curtain. "What are you looking for?" asked Kaufman.

"For the peep-hole," said Foster, "I want to see the audience."

"Did you know," said George, "that Abraham Lincoln was the first to use the peep-hole in his Gettysburg Address?"

"How come?"

"Of the peep-hole, for the peep-hole and by the—"

They haven't talked since.

Sleep

Last year I thought that I was sad.
Little I knew of sorrow!
Always there was the burning
hope
That he would come tomorrow.

Wide-eyed then, I would welcome
dawn;
Dreaming wild dreams, I would weep.
Now he is gone forever—So
Bereft of dreams, I sleep.
—ESTELLE HAGEDORN.

Drama

Among other sad scenes from life is the one that unfolded during the recent Wall street massacre. It concerns the husband who breathlessly said to his wife: "Darling, I hate to ask you to do it, but please give me your savings account and your jewelry. It might save us, I need cash at once."

"Please don't ask me to do that, dear," she begged, "we must have something, after all." He dashed out of the house and tried to promote some coin from friends but returned in an hour dejected.

"I am desperate," he cried, "I've never asked you to help me before and now you, too, turn me down. If that's how much I mean to you and you won't help me, I swear I will leave you and never return!" The woman wept furiously, but said she couldn't help him. He left.

The wife couldn't help because, her lover also dabbled in the market and only the day before, in an effort to recoup severe losses (and the coin withdrawn from the bank) she had pawned her stones for the "heart."

Puzzle

The subject has been discussed before, one supposes. At any rate, it happened again the other evening at the Hollywood restaurant, where N. T. G.'s first-rate floor show reveals several swell ideas, but they don't wear any clothes.

While one number was on—a number in which three lassies appear absolutely peeled—many of the males in the audience snubbed it to ogle a pretty girl sitting at a ringside table, who was so interested in the nudes herself, she forgot to pull her own skirts over her knees.

Shop-Talk

Groucho Marx and Ring Lardner were following the current events in the newspaper while waiting for their dinner the other evening.

"It says here," observed Lardner, "that another chump is planning to shoot himself in a rocket to Mars. Ridiculous!"

"Oh, I don't know," said Groucho, "they laughed at Edison."

"But not at a matinee," was the retort.

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXVI

They stood there, facing each other without a word, for a minute that seemed like a hundred years.

Neal's mouth was curved in a sarcastic smile and his gray eyes had the glint of ice in them.

"I thought this was where I'd find you," he said, "and I was right."

Ann Marie couldn't say a word. She couldn't even think clearly . . . The only thing she was sure of was that there must not be a scene here in this quiet pleasant place. Somehow or other, she would have to talk Neal into behaving himself before Jim and Janet came back into the room—

"Neal, dear, these people are only trying to be kind to me. Friendly to me—" she was beginning when he stopped her.

"Get your coat!" he ordered her. "Don't talk to me!—Just get your coat!"

Ann Marie did not move. How should she leave now when she had just come? . . . What would the Goodwins thing of her?

"Neal, I can't—" she began again. And again he stopped her.

"Suit yourself!" he said. "Only if you don't come with me now, I'm through with you, and through with you for good—These people were my friends long before they were yours. But they're no friends of mine now . . . Stay with 'em if you want to!"

He turned sharply as if he were going.

That settled Ann Marie. "Wait! Don't go!" she cried. "I'm going with you . . . You know I'm going with you!"

He nodded. "I'll be outside. I've a cab out there," he said. "I'm not going to wait very long for you. So you'd better make it snappy."

She made it snappy.

She fairly flew back to the bright luxurious bedroom where Janet was hooking herself into the blue velvet dress.

"Janet," she said with a catch in her voice, "I don't know how to tell you this—Neal has come for me and I've got to go."

Janet stared at her blankly.

"Aren't you going to stay for dinner?" she asked. "Jim will be so disappointed, and so shall I."

Ann Marie shook her head, looking at her with troubled eyes.

"I can't stay," she said.

She could not stand here talking either . . . She knew that if she didn't hurry Neal would drive away in his cab without her.

"You don't know how sorry I am about this, Janet," she added. "How embarrassed I am—Please tell Jim that Neal came for me. He'll understand. He knows Neal even better than I do."

Neal was waiting out in the street, beside his cab.

He jumped into it ahead of Ann Marie.

"Drive around the park until I tell you to stop!" he said to the driver, and with a jerk the cab started away from the curb.

The park was dark and cool and mysterious under a blue-black sky. All around it twinkled the lights of the city, thick and bright as stars. The night wind blew in through the open windows of the cab, lifting Ann Marie's hair and cooling her hot cheeks.

She leaned back, closed her eyes and sighed . . . "Neal's jealous," she thought. "He's jealous because Jim's so nice to me."

The thought cheered her up enormously. For if he were jealous it was proof that he loved her and didn't want other men to pay any attention to her, wasn't it?

She opened her eyes, and saw that his face was close to hers in the darkness. Suddenly his arms went around her, holding her like bands of steel. His lips found hers and he kissed her as he never had kissed her before.

"Don't—you're hurting me," she tried to say. But he did not stop. He was holding her so that she couldn't move, and he went on kissing her just as if he hadn't heard her.

Then all at once he let go of her.

"My girl!" he said thickly. For the first time since she had come to town, Ann Marie felt that he really cared for her. For the time being all her doubt of him—every bit of it—was swept out of her mind and out of her heart. He belonged to her. She was sure of it at last!

"I wouldn't have gone to the Goodwin's tonight," she murmured presently, her lips against his smooth-lean face, "only I was jealous of you and Alice—"

"Oh, Alice!" He spoke of her as if she were less than nothing. "Forget other women. Ann Marie! There's no one for me but you."

"And no one for me but you," Ann Marie echoed. "I love you, Neal, more than I can tell you."

He nodded.

"And you don't care if I haven't any money, do you?" he asked her. "You won't regret later on that you didn't marry Jim Goodwin, will you? He has all the money this side of Kingdom-Come, you know."

Ann Marie would not even talk about Jim Goodwin and all the money this side of Kingdom-Come.

"I can't give you anything but love, Baby," said Neal, and he sounded very melancholy, quoting the words of his favorite popular song. "That's the only thing I've plenty of, Baby."

"A telegram came for you while you were out," Alice told her sleepily when she came into the flat that night. "I opened it."

"You would!" said Ann Marie. "Where is it?—Whom is it from? The folks?"

Alice nodded, sitting up in the day-bed and clasping her hands around her knees.

"I'll say it's from the folks!" she replied, yawning. "Diggety dog, wait 'till you see it!—There it is."

The telegram in its yellow envelope lay on the seat of one of the chairs.

Ann Marie read it:

"DAD AND MRS. LEEZY MARRIED HERE YESTERDAY STOP FAMILY DISGRACE TOO MUCH FOR LITTLE JEANIE STOP WILL BE YOUR HOUSE EARLY TOMORROW MORNING UNLESS I HEAR FROM YOU STOP BEST LOVE.

—JEAN MACY."

Ann Marie read it three times before she laid it down.

"Well, what will we do?" she asked. "What will we do about it?"

Alice giggled. "Do?" she repeated. "Everything has been done, Sister Ann! — I went out and sent her a wire and told her she simply could not come up here. I told her we had no room for her here, and no money for her and that the best thing she could do was to elope with Brooke Walters!"

"Hmm —" Ann Marie thought that over.

"It seems hard-hearted not to let her come up here for a while, doesn't it?" she asked slowly. "Just until all the gossip is over down home?—You know how the whole town must be talking about Dad marrying Mrs. Leezy! And naturally Jeanie hates it—I think we ought to let her come up here for a little while."

Alice's face turned dark as a thunder-cloud.

"Now, don't be a fool!" she cried, scowling. "The whole thing is settled, and Jeanie's not coming!—You know you don't make enough money to feed three of us! You just let Jeanie stay at home and swallow her pride. It won't choke her to death, I guess!"

She flung herself down upon the pillow.

"Where would she sleep?" she asked. "You and I just about fill this narrow little bed, even after we pull up the side at night."

A half hour later her voice came out of the darkness.

"Maybe we ought to let her come, after all," she said thoughtfully. "We could rent an electric sewing-machine and she could make all my wedding clothes, if she were here. Couldn't she?"

Ann Marie was too drowsy to answer her . . . She dropped off to sleep and dreamed that she was running a boarding house and that her father and Mrs. Leezy had come there as bride and groom.

When Ann Marie came home from work the next night, Jeanie had arrived.

"I got Alice's wire, telling me not to come," she told Ann Marie, kissing her warmly. "But I came, anyway. There's always room for one more, so they say!"

The little flat seemed to be full of trunks and hat-boxes and suitcases. Alice's baggage stood against the wall in one corner and Jeanie's two wardrobe trunks filled another corner, Ann Marie's things were in the dressing closet.

"I don't know where I'm going to sleep," Jeanie said cheerfully, "unless we go out and buy an army cot somewhere."

"The janitor can probably scare up another day-bed," Alice answered. "We can give him a couple of dollars, and I'll bet he'll break his neck finding us one! . . . Money always talks."

It melted away, too, thought Ann Marie and the thought worried her. The janitor found a day-bed and was given a $2 bill for his trouble.

"But there ain't no sheets for this here bed," he said to Ann Marie, shaking his head firmly. "And there ain't no pillows, neither. You'll have to buy 'em—and, listen you got to pay more for this flat if more than one person lives in it. That's the rules."

Ann Marie actually felt herself growing pale as she listened to him.

"But my sisters are just visiting me," she protested weakly.

He wagged his head.

"If they're still here after the first of the month, I got to raise your rent," he said. "Sorry, but that's the rules, Miss."

He pocketed his $2 bill and went away.

An hour later he came back.

"There's somebody wants you on my telephone downstairs," he said in his glum way to Ann Marie. "And, listen here, it's all right for them to call you up here. But if I come 'way up to the top floor after you, I've got to charge you a little something for my trouble."

Ann Marie happened to have a quarter in the pocket of the housedress she had on. She gave it to him, and then ran downstairs ahead of him to answer the telephone.

Condemned Men Seek Comfort in Religion

PUEBLO, Colo., Nov. 11. (UP)—With hope of escaping the noose gradually fading, Howard Royston and George Abshier, condemned members of the Lamar bank bandit gang, today turned to religion for comfort.

Both men asked permission to sit with the other prisoners at chapel services in the county jail here, and the request was granted.

They listened with keen interest to the sermon of Rev. I. A. Lennon in which he pleaded with the prisoners to lead better lives.

To Royston and Abshier the message was only a glimpse of what might have been. They are under sentence of death for the murders committed when they helped rob the Lamar State bank in 1928.

They are scheduled to go to the gallows at Canon City next February.

"Well, here we are at the big football game, folks. . . . The cadets are marching on the field now. . . . Yes, this is the 53rd time you have seen cadets marching on a field this month alone.

"The cadets are massed on the field now....Presto!....They've disappeared....There goes the whistle....The game has begun.... It has begun with a 32-yard run around left end in the third period.

Relative Values

It happened at one of the exclusive mid-town clubs. Several prominent men, all of whom had been hurt somewhat in the market crash, were discussing the probable drop in brokers' loans.

"I'll bet you there will be a drop of a half billion," said one man.

"What'll you bet?" asked another.

"I'll bet you $2," was the reply.

"No," said the other fellow, after some hesitation. "Last week $2 wasn't much, but this week it's a lot of money."

Health and Diet Advice

An Inflamed Stomach

When your doctor tells you that you have gastritis, he does not mean that you have gas, but he means that you have an inflammation of your stomach. An acute attack of gastritis may be very disturbing, often being accompanied by vomiting and a knowledge that the food is remaining in the stomach for a much longer time than it should. There may also be a severe headache, usually in the front part of the head, or the whole back and base of the skull may feel ready to burst. This is accompanied by a feverish feeling and very unpleasant breath with profound muscular fatigue, with a repugnance toward any food whatever. Following the severe pains of the stomach there may be something like an attack of colic followed by diarrhea which may remain for a few hours or a few days and upon pressing the stomach it will be found tender and sensitive and the muscles often as hard as a washboard.

An attack of this nature frequently follows the eating of foods which the patient knows he is intolerant to, such as pickles, beans or strawberries; or it may come on after eating an unusual dish or foreign mixture, such as rich Oriental, Chinese or Spanish dishes. Those with delicate stomachs are especially predisposed toward attacks of acute gastritis.

Because of the inflammation of the stomach, it is advisable to fast for a few days, using no solid food whatever, but drinking large quantities of water and using an enema until the poisonous substances have been entirely eliminated.

Chronic gastritis is usually the result of many years of dietetic indiscretions, and is much harder to cure than acute gastritis. Continually overeating or swallowing food hastily and in large chunks, or the continual use of strong condiments, or using foods containing large amounts of grease, or drinking gulps of cold water, or eating irregularly and in between meals will all tend to be factors in producing chronic gastritis.

Sometimes large quantities of mucus may be present in the stomach, although this is not always the case. The consumption of strong alcoholic beverages upon an empty stomach may often result in chronic gastritis. One affected with this disease will seem to have a heavy lump in the stomach after eating any food, and these patients usually believe that their stomachs will never behave as a normal stomach should as long as they live.

Sometimes when there is a pronounced pain in the stomach, the patient may find that the pain is relieved after eating, and he is constantly tempted to take in more food, which actually prevents recovery.

In many cases, patients suffering from chronic gastritis will be under the impression they are continually hungry. This is because the pain from the inflamed lining of the stomach is registered in the same portion of the brain as hunger, and the two sensations are confused.

Chronic gastritis should be cleared up as soon as possible, because if it is allowed to continue it frequently results in ulcers or a destruction of the glands producing the stomach digestive juices. Cancer may even result when this condition continued for a long period of time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Bath Salts

Question; J. O. asks—"Will you please let me know if it is injurious to use epsom salts for bathing purposes and what benefit is derived from the use of same. I thank you very much for some information on this subject.

Answer—Epsom salts are not injurious to use for bathing. The addition of the salts to the bath causes a slight increase of perspiration.

No Starch in Melba Toast

Question: J. J. G. asks—"Will you kindly state whether or not Melba toast contains starch and how does the starch content compare with ordinary wholewheat toast? Is Melba toast all right to use in combination with eggs and milk dishes, cheese, cottage cheese, junket, etc?"

Answer—Melba toast is made from white bread toasted so thoroughly that all of the starch is converted into pure dextrin and therefore combines perfectly with any other kind of food.

Optic Atrophy

Question: Mrs. H. E. writes—"My husband has atrophy of the optic nerve. His left eye is useless and the right eye has been rapidly losing ground. The doctors say that there is no hope, and that blindness is inevitable. It is proven that the nerve has been poisoned by wood alcohol which is contained in a glue he uses in his work. Now, if this is a nerve condition, is there any diet that would build up or nourish the injured nerve?"

Answer—Correct fasting and dieting seem to be about the best treatment to eradicate the poisonous effects of wood alcohol from the system and I would suggest that your husband employ this regime. After the fasting period, when he has begun to use the diet, I would suggest he use the exercises outlined in an article on eye exercises which I will be glad to send you if you will forward a self-addressed stamped envelope to this office.

The Tiger's Last Stand

Princeton's Tiger, at bay in the jungle with a body replete with hostile spears, is now in the most desperate situation of his career. With only one victory since the first game of the season, the Bengal entry now faces the job of retrieving an almost hopeless season by beating a Yale team that has looked to be at least two touchdowns stronger, and that is putting it as gently as one can.

Princeton could bound back upon the map again—not to any high rating, but at least to a respectable spot—by smashing a Yale team that has whipped Brown, Army and Dartmouth.

Everything in this game is on the side of the Blue—except psychology. And all the psychology of contest is on the side of the Tiger. He has everything to gain, and nothing whatever to lose. He could even lose by a fairly close score and look better than he is today. Yale now has a good record to protect—Princeton hasn't. If Princeton loses—well, who expects her to win?

Yale against Dartmouth was at least three or four touchdowns better than Princeton. But football situations can change rapidly—and a state of mind can mean a lot. Harvard now looks to be the main obstacle in Yale's path, and it is difficult for any coach to key a team up that is bound to look for a rather easy path. If Princeton, after tieing the Navy in a last-minute rally, had come along to beat Chicago, the situation would be different. But after this Navy rally the Tiger flopped back without a claw to show.

Yale can now pick up no credit at all for beating a team that Brown, Cornell and Chicago have already whipped. Princeton can amass almost enough credit to call it a fair season for beating Yale. Princeton is bound to have all the better of mental attitude when the two teams meet—and mental attitudes have won and lost a flock of football games.

As the two teams have played this season, Yale has far the better line, the better ends and the better backfields, with Booth outstanding. Yet an aroused, desperate team, able to get the breaks, can beat a better team—a much better team—that isn't lifted to the same pitch.

No one knows this better than the Yale coaches—better than Bill Roper, who can be counted on to marshall every resource he has on the psychological side to put over what would be the season's largest upset.

Cornell and Columbia

These two rivals who fought a duel to a hair's-breadth are face to face with hard going on Saturday. Cornell must step out against Dartmouth, one of the best teams in the country when Marsters is working, and Columbia has a first-class Pennsylvania team to meet. Columbia can also retrieve more than a small bit by beating the Penn team that held California to the margin of a winning touchdown—a Penn team that beat the Navy.

This game will bring two fine backs together in Masters and Hewitt. Columbia will find Masters one of the best all-round backs any team has faced this season, a football player who isn't as flashy as Booth or Marsters, but a football player who can do everything well, extremely well.

If Marsters is in shape Cornell is in for a hard afternoon. If Dartmouth ever gets the jump on a rival at any stage it can turn the game into a massacre. When it finally got the jump on Harvard the Green had the Crimson disorganized in 15 minutes. It came near wrecking Yale in less than six minutes, but the departure of Marsters stopped any outside chance of a Green tidal wave getting to work.

Both Cornell and Columbia have proved themselves to be hustling, hard-scrapping outfits, but they have two great backs to handle in Marsters and Masters, who belong to the top five or six in football.

Leading Backs

Picking the best three or four backs this season will be no simple undertaking. Not with Booth, Marsters, Cagle, Lom, Masters, Carrideo, Uansa, Brazil, McEver, Parkinson, and several others all scrambling along the turf.

There are big games yet to be played that will help to unravel the tangle. The quality and quantity of the schedule to be faced must play a big part in any final decision—for any star back who has to face the fire in four or five tough games in a row, with no chance to rest and nurse his bruises is working against heavy odds.

There are certain types of smashing teams that can take the starch out of any rival for a week or so, even though beaten.

They are all shooting at the stars—and they don't always treat them any too gently when they get the chance to land.

Olney Cubs and Megargel Bluebirds Battle 7-7 Tie

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Nov. 11.—The Olney Cubs and Megargel Bluebirds game at Megargel ended in a tie, 7 to 7. Megargel surprised the overconfident Cubs and completely swept them off their feet for the first half. Megargel took the lead with a touchdown the first quarter. The half ended with the ball in Olney's possession, third down and the ball within a foot of the goal. In the third period Wix took a 40-yard pass from Goode and crossed the goal line. The game ended with the ball on Megargel's one-yard line and third down.

The Cubs made seven first downs to Megargel's three; Olney completed six passes out of 20 attempts for a gain of 137 yards, while Megargel failed to complete a pass out of nine attempts. The Cubs gained 85 yards from the line to Megargel's 57 yards.

Aboussie, Megargel quarter, C. Colgan and Tower starred for Megargel.

Redskins Flash Brilliant Aerial Attack

By R. O. JONAS

Record News Special Correspondent

ARLINGTON, Texas, Nov. 11.—Flashing sensational football, Wichita Falls Junior college and the North Texas Agricultural college gave a large Arlington crowd the treat of the season for Armistice day, the Aggies finally coming out on top of a 12 to 7 score. The Indians were superior during most of the game, only to lose on a few slips and an off-side penalty. One Indian touchdown was ruled out by the off-side penalty after a brilliant pass from Cox to Davis.

Again an Indian forward blocked an Aggie punt in Aggie territory, only to be called back on an off-side penalty. The major thing that saved the Aggies from a bad defeat was their ability to intercept Indian passes at crucial moments. All put together eight interceptions served to stop the threatening Indian marches.

Indians Gain Most Ground

Wichita Falls made 12 first downs to eight for the Aggies. Wichita gained a total of 164 yards from nine passes. Not counting a 50-yard pass ruled out, North Texas gained 88 yards from seven passes. Seven Indian passes were incomplete and six for the Aggies. On scrimmage the Indians gained 130 yards to 126 for the Aggies. Perkins of Wichita Falls punted brilliantly, averaging 43 yards on eight kicks, while Faith of North Texas punted 13 times for an average of 30 yards. The game as a whole was a hard fought, cleanly played affair, with penalties mainly for off-sides. On general play, Wichita Falls should have won the game.

Cox and Perkins Brilliant

Cox for Wichita Falls was the outstanding player on the field, with Perkins in his punting and terrific line plunging looking sensational. Allred and Davis were good for many gains especially on passes. Luttrell called a heady game and shone on defense. In the line, Habern, Hutto, Parker, Ramee and Waggoner led a type of play that was the best of the season for every man on the team. For the Aggies, in the backfield, Faith, Harvey and B. Parker shone on offense and Gravely was a star on backing up the line.

Aggie Captain Stars

In the Aggie line, Captain Weller, Snyder, and Gray time after time featured the two end starring at snaring passes. The Aggies won the toss and chose to receive. After the Aggies made a first down on a pass, the Indians fought them to a standstill. The slippery ground caused a number of fumbles and slips on both teams, but both teams flew into battle from the first. Twice the Indians were endangered when the Aggies intercepted passes, but the Indian defense held like a stone wall. In the first quarter play was mainly in midfield, with the Indians leading the attack as they made three first downs to one for the Aggies.

First Marker on Pass

Early in the second quarter came the first turn of the game when the Aggies in midfield slipped a long pass over the Indian secondary defense Harvey to Gray for an easy score. Up to this time the Indians had the best of the battle, a 61-yard punt by Perkins helping much. Immediately following the score a 57-yard punt by Perkins, a 28-yard pass gain Cox to Allred straight through to the Aggie 17-yard mark, and powerful charging by the Indian line looked like a sure score, but Snyder intercepted Cox's pass near his own goal. Stands got another thrill as Luttrell took an Aggie punt back 53 yards, shaking tacklers on all sides and reaching the Aggie 17-yard line again.

Perkins Plunges Line

In the third quarter, Perkins now shifted in the backfield, gave the greatest plunging exhibition seen on the Aggie field this year, ripping the Aggie line wide. Allred also was going strong. Repeatedly the Indian offense was stopped as the Aggies made almost impossible interceptions. Once Cox got loose for 25 yards on tackle cutback, almost free to the goal. In the fourth quarter Wichita Falls threatened repeatedly. A series of brilliantly executed passes, featuring Cox to Allred brought the ball to the goal, only to be stopped again by a blocked pass. Soon afterward the Aggies, taking advantage of a tired Indian team shot to pieces by injuries to three main cogs, scored on a series of plunges. An Indian pass Cox to Smith gained 21 yards and another pass Cox to Davis gained 50 yards and a score as Davis shook three tacklers, only to be called back for off-sides. Immediately afterward Cox passed to Waggoner, who twisted his way through for 55 yards and a touchdown. Cox kicked goal.

Abilene Christians Complete Pass To Beat Tech Matadors by 7 to 3

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, Nov. 11.—One little pass well received by the dimunitive Abilene Christian college quarter, Keyes, beat the Tech Matadors out of another football game when the Wildcats won 7 to 3 before a big crowd.

The defense of both squads stopped practically every attempt at an offense to click.

After more than a half of nonsensation playing the Matadors blocked two kicks and took the ball on the Wildcats' 20-yard line. Wooldridge went 10 yards and Captain Dewitt bunted a pretty field goal which looked like it would sew up the game for Tech since neither team could gain.

Timely Pass Wins

After an afternoon of passes, all being grounded for the lack of a passer, the Wildcat back did flip one right which turned the trick in the final quarter. Standing on the 25-yard line, the passer flung the ball to Keyes on the 50 who dodged a safety man and raced half the distance of the field for the lone touchdown of the day.

Moyers kicked the goal and the two teams settled down to a battle until the final shot that left the visitors with the large end of a 7 to 3 score.

Keyes, 135 pound quarter with the Wildcats, brought the spectators to their feet more than once with returns of punts and a pass or two besides the run that decided the game.

Woolridge, Tech back, showed ability at times to buck the line for five and seven yards but no consistent gains were made by either team.

Stamford Battles Anson Tigers In Scoreless Game

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Nov. 11.—Although the Anson Tigers made seven first downs against six that the Stamford Bulldogs put across, neither team was able to score here this afternoon in the annual Armistice day football game between the high school teams of the two Jones county towns. Pre-game dope favored the locals to win, but the visitors showed a defensive form that they had not displayed this season and held the Bulldogs out of dangerous territory with one or two exceptions. In fact the Stamford team was outplayed in practically every point of the game. A crowd of over 2,000 people witnessed the contest. Several hundred Anson citizens were here.

As a result of this tie game and of the scoreless tie played at Hamlin this morning between the Hamlin and Merkel teams, the championship race in the eastern half of district 9, class B is still muddled. At this time Haskell with three wins and one loss stands at the head of the list. While Stamford and Merkel are tied for second place with two wins, one loss and one tie game credited to each. Stamford and Haskell play here Nov. 18 and that game will likely settle the situation, as at least one of the teams in that game will be eliminated from further consideration in the sectional championship list.

Tackling Dummy Hurts Nebraskans

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 11. (AP)—Ardean Peterson, reserve tackle, and Marion Broadstone, tackle, on the University of Nebraska football team, were hurt today when the tackling dummy frame, made from 8 by 10 posts fell.

Peterson took the full force of the terrific impact as the heavy structure snapped and fell as he was on top of the canvas-covered dummy. Broadstone apparently rolled to one side and was not seriously hurt.

Felber Maasdam, center, was the first of the linesmen to hit one of the two dummies which hang from the heavy frame. Then came Peterson and Broadstone and they hit almost simultaneously. There was a sharp crack and the one remaining post snapped. The structure fell, pinning the boys beneath it. They were extricated and taken to a hospital, where it was said Peterson's injuries were serious.

Baylor Preps For S. M. U. Embroglio

WACO, Texas, Nov. 11. (AP)—The Baylor Bruins, in the tip of physical condition after their scoreless battle with the Longhorns Saturday, were put through a light workout on Carroll field today. Bochey Koch suffered a slight injury but he will be ready to meet the Ponies this week.

The Bears began their practice in earnest, satisfied they will meet their strongest opponents of the year at Dallas so far as line play is concerned.

Louis Paradeaux, Baylor's center, who was injured in the Arkansas game, but who was back in top form against the Steers, will be in still better physical condition this week.

Passes Win for Hobart Team Over Mangum 13-7

MANGUM, Okla., Nov. 11.—Two beautifully executed forward passes by Hobart's star backfielders, McFall and Spraw, led to the downfall of Mangum and the 13 to 7 victory for the Hobart football machine.

The first touchdown came in the first quarter when Spraw took a 35-yard pass from McFall and raced for the goal line and crossed it. The second marker came likewise—on a forward pass but this time from McFall to McMilligan who dashed 25 yards to score the winning touchdown.

Stock, Mangum's star fullback, swept around left end on a long run to score Mangum's only tally. Mangum then passed the ball for extra point. Thompson for Mangum was painfully hurt by being knocked out in the contest.

DISTRICT 1 IS STILL MUDDLED

Coyotes Runners-Up to Amarillo

The week-end just passed and the Armistice day program which brought together four teams in two conference tilts, served but little to clear the somewhat muddled state of football affairs in district one of the interscholastic high school competition. Amarillo has tacitly held the leadership since the early season when they started off by rolling up preponderant scores on their opponents; but Wichita Falls and Lubbock still count themselves in the running.

Lubbock sustained a 13 to 7 reverse at the hands of the Golden Standstorm two weeks ago but Amarillo was extended to the limit to edge them out. Wichita Falls lost a 2 to 0 game to Electra on one Saturday and then came back and humbled the Vernon Lions 14 to 0 and looked like world beaters into the bargain. Saturday against the Plainview Bulldogs, one of the weaker elevens in the circuit, the Wichita Falls Coyotes looked bad for three quarters of the game only to open up and flash something of the form with which they roundly outplayed the Vernonites.

Sandies Have Lead

Coach Dutch Smith's Amarillo Golden Sandies continued their winning ways at Vernon by nosing out the Lions before a record crowd of 5,000 by the score of 20 to 0. After scoring in the first quarter, the Sandies were never in danger and added two more touchdowns in the last period. The showing of the Sandies was disappointing to some, but the Smithites seemed to be holding back their best.

This week may bring some relief to the scribes of the state, as either Wichita Falls or Lubbock will be definitely eliminated. Cach Barry Holton's Coyotes are working overtime to perfect themselves for the Westerner game and a real battle is in prospect. The Wichita student body will board a special train and many will go by auto to the hardest game of the year for the Pack. Electra and Vernon will fight out an old feud when those two teams meet at Electra. Both teams are rated about equal and a hard battle is expected. The Sandies will take a much needed rest and start training for the Electra game. Quanah and Plainview are also on the idle list this week.

Much at Stake

Much depends on the Lubbock and Coyote game at Lubbock. If the Westerners win, they will stand by in the hope that the Pack will defeat Amarillo Thanksgiving. Lubbock and Amarillo would then be tied for first place, providing both teams win the remainder of their games. If the Coyotes should win, they would then have to beat the Sandies to earn as much as a tie. The Golden Sandies are the only undefeated team in the district thus far and are heavy favorites to win the district rag. This week's results should clear the muddled situation in district one.

Trinity-Simmons Tilt Ends in Scoreless Tie

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Nov. 11. (AP)—Trinity held the Simmons Cowboys to a scoreless tie and outplayed the visitors most of the game before a large Armistice day crowd here today.

The interference of Autrey, defensive work of Captain Hollinshead, the punting of Flourney and running of Shick made Trinity dangerous at all times during the game. Stafford, Ribble and Marshall starred for Simmons.

VERNON FIGHTS GAME BATTLE

Sandy Aerial Attack Is Powerful Weapon

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Nov. 11.—Amarillo's Golden Sandstorm celebrated Armistice day today with a 20 to 0 victory over the Vernon Lions on the city park gridiron. Led by Gibson, Bufkin, Lockhart and Blair, the Sandies bruised through for 12 first downs to four for the Lions. The primed Vernon eleven held the Sandies consistently for most of the game but Gibson plowed through in the first quarter to score and Bufkin and Blair repeated in the last quarter.

Passing Attack Effective

The Sandies passed five times, one toss was incomplete and four were completed for a total of 104 yards. Vernon passed seven times, completing one for a gain of 25 yards, two were intercepted and four were knocked down. The Sandies gained 225 yards in scrimmage to 90 yards gained by the Lions.

Brothers Lead Defense

The Parker brothers, Ray and Sam, led the Lion defense with the entire line breaking through consistently. The powerful running attack of the big Gibson and Bufkin, largely without interference during the first half was the feature of the game. This pair of hard running backs repeatedly broke through for good gains in a broken field brushing would-be tacklers aside. Lockhart aided with good gains and Blair on the receiving end of the Sandies' passes made a heavy bid for all district end honors. Gibson plunged eight yards late in the first quarter for the initial score. Early in the fourth frame the Sandies broke through to block Crawford's kick and on the next play Bufkin circled left end for 28 yards and the second score, Hudgins converted the try for point and made the score, 13 to 0.

A few minutes later with the ball in mid-field Gibson tossed a 15-yard pass to Blair who raced 20 yards for the final score. Hudkins kicked goal and the final score was 20 to 0.

Lockney Longhorns Snow Floydada Team by 34 to 0

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Nov. 11.—Backed by 500 loyal fans the Lockney Longhorns ran true to prediction and defeated the Floydada Whirlwinds 34 to 0 in an Armistice day game played before 2,000 people. Clearly outclassing the local eleven the Longhorns only permitted the Whirlwinds three first downs, these coming in the last quarter on trick plays. With Duncan, Brotherton and Cook carrying the ball behind almost perfect interference, the Lockney backfield gained through the line and around ends practically at will. The only bright light in the Floydada team was the punting of Welborn which averaged 35 yards and was the only thing that prevented the Lockney boys from running up a higher score. Although they were doped to beat the locals the one sided score was a decided upset and was the worst defeat ever suffered by the Whirlwinds at the hands of their old time rivals and the first victory for Lockney since 1920. Lockney remains one of the teams in this district that is undefeated for the season and has one of the classiest elevens seen in action on the Floydada gridiron.

Paducah Dragons Pile Up 20-0 Tally on Quitaque

Special to The Record News.

PADUCAH, Texas, Nov. 11.—With Beason's punting and passing Tippens receiving, and Burkett, Bourland and Crittenden running ends, through center and off tackle, backed by splendid defensive playing in which McKnight was probably the leader, Paducah Dragons came out with the long end of a 20-0 score with Quitaque here today.

Burkett made a 40-yard run through left tackle for a touchdown. Bourland and Crittenden made the other two touchdowns, one on a 25-yard pass by Beason and the other by straight football.

Quitaque fought hard and twice were within striking distance of goal but were held for downs. Twin brothers Coe and Howe Hinds were their most consistent ground gainers.

Two-Year-Old Takes Arlington Event

Line Rider Wins Peace Day Feature

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Nov. 11. (AP)—Before a crowd of 15,000 that packed both stands and all the available standing room along the stretch rail, Line Rider, 2-year-old brown colt from the Three D's stable and favorite in the race, won the Armistice day feature race this afternoon, a five and one-half furlong dash for 2-year-olds.

The close finish with Excess Baggage and Tonto Rock, gave the crowd—by far the largest that ever saw a horse race in Texas—a great thrill. From the start the three flashy colts raced in a bunch and one at a time or another over the short course, each of them was in the lead.

Hoss Challenges Late

Excess Baggage got away first, fell back to third and then challenged in the last drive. Tonto Rock led from the quarter to the stretch but got into bad going and fell back. Line Rider came in just a neck ahead of Excess Baggage, who in turn was only a half length better than Tonto Rock.

San Antonio, a 4-year-old brown gelding owned by P. C. Ramage, was given only an outside chance in the handicapping, raced home an easy winner in the first. He was five lengths ahead of Chard.

The favorite, Hesitation, came in third, a nose ahead of Uncle Hay.

Another favorite came under the wire, a winner in the third race when Parole 11 galloped home five lengths ahead of Martyr. Point Loma was a poor third. The race was a $1,000 claiming affair over a mile and one sixteenth course, and was opened to 3-year-olds and up.

Fourth Race

Simon Kenton won the fourth race in a walk, finishing 12 lengths ahead of Red Leather and 17 ahead of Bocratone. It was a one-mile $1,000 claiming race.

Go Goin gave the dopesters a rap by winning the fifth race, a six furlong $1,000 claiming event for 3-year-olds and up. The gelding beat out Kukui by a half length. Short Price, the favorite, was third.

Jasonette hit her stride in the sixth race, and won it as she pleased. Alloy and Sylvanus, both outsiders, came in second and third respectively. The race was over a mile and a sixteenth, and was a $1,000 claiming event.

Graham Steers Win Game With Bowie Eleven, 26-25

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Nov. 11.—The Graham Steers, playing their sixth game of the season with the Bowie eleven, celebrated by capturing the big end of a 26 to 25 score.

Huntley and Murphey played a brilliant game for the Bowie eleven while Harley, Price, Q. Street and Lisle were outstanding performers for the home boys. The game was attended by a large Armistice day crowd which seemed to get a huge kick out of the game.

OKLAHOMA AGS TIE ST. LOUIS

Sooners and Billikens Draw At 0-0 Score

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 11. (AP)—Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college ran into a rock-ribbed line of St. Louis university here today, the game ending in a scoreless tie.

The Aggies, who once were within striking distance of the Billiken goal line, lacked the punch to score.

At the start of the fourth period, the Aggies had the ball on the St. Louis four-yard line, thanks to a 17-yard pass, Hayden Trigg to Raymond Ellis. The two teams had battled on even terms during the three previous periods. "Blackie" Blackburn charged through the line for one of the needed yards and Baker heaved his 200 pound bulk against the line for another yard. Trigg failed to gain on the next play. On the fourth down his pass was knocked down and the ball went to St. Louis.

The Aggies were on the defensive for most of the game due to the star kicking of Capt. Joe Lintzenich. He punted eight times for an average of 51 yards.

The Aggies made 10 first downs, compared to six for the Billikins, and gained 163 yards from scrimmage as compared with St. Louis' 125.

The visitors tried 10 passes, completing only two.

JACKSBORO DEFEATS NOCONA 20 TO 7 TO WIN GRID TITLE

NOCONA SCORES FIRST MARKER

Jacksboro Scores Twice in Final Round

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Nov. 11.—In a spectacular duel which tested the toughness of both teams' lines and called for agility of runners, the Jacksboro high school football team, champions of the south tier of district 4, defeated the Nocona team, champions of the northern tier, here today, to win the district championship. The score was 20 to 7.

By a series of hefty line plunges, Nocona scored early in the first quarter, and kicked goal. Jacksboro had warmed up by the second quarter, and their scoring began when Martin, alert halfback, by a series of plunges and end runs, got the ball over the goal line. Black, fullback, kicked goal.

In the third quarter Myers got away with a long forward pass and made a spectacular run to the three-yard line, where Martin took over the responsibilities and dove through the line to score. This time Black weakened and failed to send the oval through the goal posts.

The last touchdown for the championship winners came in the last three minutes of play. Myers intercepted a pass and crashed 35 yards down the field, evading a host of tacklers, and scored. Black by this time had got back to his old traces, and the kicked goal boosted the final score to 20.

Silverton Owls and Tulia Battle to Scoreless Tie

SILVERTON, Texas, Nov. 11.—Silverton Owls and Tulia Hornets battled to a scoreless tie here this afternoon, before Armistice crowd largest in season. This was postponed game from Friday on account of muddy grounds. The Owls outplayed Hornets making 12 first downs to visitors' seven and outpointed in scoring threats.

Owls blocked kick in third quarter and reached the Hornets' five-yard line, but couldn't go over. The field was slippery causing many fumbles, both teams used the air route frequently in the last quarter with Hornets getting the best of the duel but never close enough for real threats.

Texas Aggie Linemen

Despite their poor conference showing to date, the Texas Aggies boast one of the strongest lines in the conference that may yet upset some of the contenders. Brown, Richter, Van Zandt and Tracy—this quartet of veteran players is likely to prove a knotty problem to almost all backfield performers who try to pierce or circle the Maroon and White line.

Roscoe Van Zandt, 200-pound guard of Fort Worth, was a sensational player as a sophomore last year, and is a tower of strength to the Aggies this year. Rube Tracy, Houston, is one of the fastest wingmen in the Southwest. Joe Brown, veteran pivot man from Alvord, and Chuck Richter, three-year guard, are both able players.

Notre Dame's Fighting Micks Have Visions of Championship

By BERT DEMBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The fighting Irish of Iotre Dame, bringing with them visions of a national title, come into Chicago to play Southern California this week-end. Before Saturday's sun settles down behind the huge west stand on Soldiers field, they hope they will have hurled the hardest obstacle now in their path.

The Irish are convinced they can beat any team in the country and because of the extremely difficult schedule Coach Knute Rockne has arranged, believe that if they go through the season undefeated, they will annex the mythical title beyond all doubt.

Until the Trojans met California the game here Saturday was looked upon as a pivot point for the championship. Southern California went along in great style, even knocking over an exceptionally good Stanford team and Notre Dame really hasn't been extended yet.

But California snuffed out the Trojan hopes for an undefeated season. Notre Dame has beaten Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech and Drake.

The Californians have pointed harder for this game than for any previous one of the season. Today the team was scheduled for scrimmage, further hard practice was planned for tomorrow. The start East will be made Tuesday night with approximately 40 players making the trip.

Coach Howard Jones' squad is in good shape. Young Kemp, a reserve quarterback received a broken leg against Nevada last week but Marsh Duffield the regular can carry the signal calling burden throughout the game.

Notre Dame may or may not be without the services of Knute Rockne, its coach, again Saturday. Already laid up for several weeks, Knute still is at home.

His secretary said tonight that physicians are still undecided as to whether he will be allowed to make the Chicago trip.

Meanwhile the team is being handled by Coach Tom Lieb.

Brownwood Eleven Takes Game 21-7

BROWNWOOD, Nov. 11. (AP)—St. Edward's last hopes for a 1929 Texas conference championship went glimmering today when Howard Payne defeated the Austin eleven 21 to 7, in the annual Armistice day football game.

Howard Payne took the lead in the second quarter after an 80-yard march down the field, Gibbs making the final dash to the goal line. Baker placed-kicked the extra point. This drive was marked by a 43-yard run around right end by Nig McCarver, fleet halfback. The second touchdown followed a 70-yard march consisting chiefly of bone crushing off-tackle slashes. Captain Fields made the second touchdown. The third Howard Payne touchdown was made by Ray Glasscock, center, who intercepted a Saint pass and raced 30 yards to the goal line.

St. Edward's scored late in the fourth period when a blocked punt gave the Saints the ball on Howard Payne's 22-yard line.

THE New Series
PACKARD EIGHTS

the finest cars the world affords

IN DEVELOPING the new series Standard, Custom and De Luxe Eights, Packard had one definite object—to make the cars in each line the most luxurious in the world at their prices.

Now that the new Packard Eights are on display the public agrees that nothing which could add to the comfort, convenience and enjoyment of owners has been overlooked. It is literally true that Packard designers and engineers can think of no way in which the new series cars could be made either better or more beautiful. And record-breaking sales reflect unusual public appreciation.

Design and colors are more distinguished—appointments, fittings and upholstery more luxurious than ever before. Performance—always an outstanding Packard luxury—has been enhanced by many mechanical improvements and refinements.

Advanced Engineering Features

The famous Packard straight-eight motor has been provided with new carburetion which effects greater flexibility with surprising quietness. The new Packard-designed-and-built four-speed transmission permits easier, quieter gear shifting—increases riding comfort by maintaining a better relationship between motor speed and car momentum, and by eliminating power jerks.

Springs of new specifications combine with the advanced Packard Shock Absorbing System—with its mechanism to eliminate front wheel shimmy and steering wheel whip—to achieve new driving and riding ease. The "instant" chassis lubricating system now oils 43 points at the pull of a plunger.

Other refinements include improved-vision body pillars, adjustable sun visors, newly perfected shatter-proof glass, adjustable steering gear and driver's seat, dashboard lockers and many incidental conveniences.

Packard cars today, built in three complete lines and at three distinct ranges of price, cover the fine car field—and dominate it! There is a Packard Eight available at the lowest price for which a truly fine car can be sold. And there are Packard Eights on up to the most luxurious custom creations attainable anywhere.

Prices at the factory range from $2375 to $2775 for the Standard Eight; from $3190 to $3885 for the Custom Eight; and from $4585 to $5350 for the De Luxe Eight. Individual custom cars are also available to order up to $10,000.

Why Not Own a Packard?

We cordially invite you to come in and see the new series Packard cars. We will gladly place the model of your choice in your hands for any sort of a demonstration drive you may desire.

We are confident that you will find the luxury of Packard transportation greater than you ever thought possible—and that you will be pleasantly surprised when we point out in actual figures how you can enjoy it at no greater expense than your present motoring involves.

VET'S ILLUSION BRINGS DEATH

Man Shoots Self Thinking 'They' Got Him

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11. (AP)—While guns were booming out a salute in observance of the signing of the armistice at the close of the world war 11 years ago, Edward Bannon, 34, a world war veteran who had barricaded himself in his home today shot himself in the head. He died later.

Bannon's home was surrounded by police who had hurled tear bombs in an effort to dislodge the apparently crazed man from the attic of the dwelling. The former soldier fired on the officers when they tried to enter the house during a 13-hour siege that began late last night.

In answer to questions shouted at him as he lay behind his barricade, Bannon replied: "They are going to get me yet." Further questions brought the explanation that "they" were "bootleggers from Detroit." He said they were to come last night and "take me for a ride."

Bannon died late today in a hospital.

Police were investigating reports companions of the man had harassed him with stories that a Detroit gang was pursuing him with the intention of taking his life. Detectives learned Bannon had been in a hospital until a month ago suffering from a nervous trouble.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (AP)—Cotton was heavy throughout the day, declining to new low levels for the season under moderate liquidation and local and southern selling, but more particularly as a result of general absence of confidence on the buying side. Lower Liverpool cables and weakness in the stock market were the outstanding depressing factors.

January contracts declined to 17.19 and rallied 2 points from the lowest while the general market closed steady with net losses of 17 to 20 points.

The opening was steady at 12 to 14 points below the final quotations of Saturday influenced by the weakness in Liverpool where prices were 5 to 6 points lower than anticipated based on the action of our market on Saturday. This, combined with an unfavorable view of the textile situation including predictions of further mill curtailment, brought about more or less liquidation and selling for southern account, where many of the markets, including New Orleans were closed in observance of Armistice day.

The steadily declining values in the securities market throughout the day and the feeling of uncertainty regarding the future both in the commodity and stock markets seem to have undermined confidence and discouraged general buying.

The market continued to sag, and at one time was 21 to 22 points net lower with the January position selling at 17.19. There was a slight reaction at the close on a little local covering and further trade buying but the market displayed slight rallying power.

The monthly report by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, gave sales of standard cotton cloths during October at 78.5 per cent of production while stocks increased 9.9 per cent. Liverpool cables explained the decline there as due to hedging, local, London and continental liquidation with a poor offtake.

Port receipts today were 54,951; U. S. port stocks, 2,455,803; exports, 13,190, making 2,548,849 so far this season.

City Tax Statements Bring in Funds Early

City tax collections for the first nine days of November show a substantial gain over collections for that period a year ago, W. R. Hyer, city tax collector, said Monday.

Collections through Nov. 9 this year, Mr. Hyer said, total $10,464.96. This sudden spurt of quick payments on the part of taxpayers followed mailing of statements the latter part of last week.

Figures for collections during this period last year were not available at Mr. Hyer's office Monday, but he said the increase in this month's collections was substantial.

Cook county, Georgia, decreased its schools from 30 to 11 in less than a decade, replacing old buildings with consolidated schools.

In 18 years the government's seal herd in the Pribilof islands has increased 265 per cent, to approximately 800,000 animals.

Last Hour Selling Wave Sinks Prices of Many Stock Issues

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (US)—Stocks sold off in the last hour again, today. Steel and a few others made new lows as liquidating wave swept over the market with the tape a half hour late. Banking pool apparently stepped aside momentarily although close watch was kept on dealings. Anaconda was off 4¾ at the close, Steel 11½, Can 13¼, American Telephone 13, Montgomery Ward 3⅝, Radio 4⅜, Foreign Power 6¼, Consolidated Gas 5⅞ and Johns Manville 20 points. There was no special news of importance during the session and trading had been extremely quiet up to the last hour. Call money remained in good supply at 6 per cent throughout. Volume totaled 3,357,800 shares for the three hours with more than half the turnover accomplished in the final hour.

Selling of the last hour was carried on by the brokers who usually act for professionals. The most powerful individuals of this group are known to have reversed themselves from a bear to a bull position immediately after the first two days of drastic decline three weeks ago. It is quite possible they now are trying a short position in certain stocks again under the influence of trade rumors that are coming to hand. Leading bankers and industrialists could explain the last hour drop only as "professional" as they claimed they knew of nothing "hanging over." In other words they thought all the sore spots had been cleaned up. The final wave of offerings caught the speculative community in rather a nervous mood due to the character of news over the week-end concerning part of the aftermath of the break in the market.

The sad part of the declines of recent sessions has been that those who purchased on the Rockefeller announcements suffered loss they could not afford. In fact the episode has recalled to many in the street the policy of Oliver C. Cromwell, formerly president of the stock exchange, courageously adhered to although it caused considerable criticism. It was his contention that the small monied man has no right in speculation and that life savings could be better used in such investments as high grade bonds. Practically all the policies that have carried the exchange along were originated during President Cromwell's regime.

There are reports on individual stocks that are influencing a few traders but they are of small importance at the moment. A few weeks ago there was a "market in stocks" in which individual influences were of importance. When the bankers withdrew support and lost control, however, they definitely ended that era. Just as the whole list went down under the hysteria so the entire market is likely to act as a unit while stabilization is being effected and until the full effect on trade is known. Railroads and oils, it is true, show somewhat better absorption than do other groups but if there is to be reason for them in advance then there must be equal reason why some of the stocks in other groups that have suffered bad breaks will recover sharply.

The apparent policy of the "Big Six" banking leaders is causing mixed feeling. They apparently are letting the market stand on its own legs as much as possible. Thus far this policy has not had such good results, especially in so far as the small monied speculator is concerned. Those bankers who are looking months ahead, however, have nothing but praise for the conduct of the "Big Six." They maintain it will wipe out all chance of any resumption of public interest in stock speculation for quite a while. Then a further cut in the rediscount rate, continued ease in money and other developments expected will find reflection entirely in a good bond market.

CURTIS SPEAKS AT CHICAGO

Vice President Addresses Elks' Gathering

CHICAGO, Nov. 11. (UP)—Preparedness as a peace-time policy was advocated by Vice President Charles Curtis in an Armistice day address before members of the benevolent and protective order of Elks here.

"Much of the cost of the last war was caused by the fact that we were unprepared for it, and this was the second such occasion in 20 years," he said. "I hope the lesson taught by unpreparedness may not be forgotten. With our wonderful prosperity and great resources our country should always be prepared for national defense. Such a course will save many lives, millions of dollars, and untold suffering; it will greatly lesson the possibility of war.

"In this country we do not believe in a large standing army, nor do we believe in having an overlarge navy, but our people want both army and navy to be ample for national defense.

"People of the United States are, and always have been, peace-loving as a whole. They are industrious, generous and not quarrelsome as a nation. They concern themselves with their own affairs and do not meddle in the affairs of other people. They are sympathetic with the woes and distress of the people of the world. They ask nothing more than to be permitted to work out their own destiny without interference, and they freely concede this right to others."

Curtis spoke of the nation's hope on the anniversary of the settlement of its last war—that future wars might be avoided.

Speaking of the recent visits of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, and the plans he, with President Hoover, laid down for a naval arms limitation conference of leading world naval powers, the vice president said:

"Our people are praying their efforts may result in a fair, just and satisfactory agreement among the leading nations of the world. Both the president and Mr. MacDonald put all their cards on the table and we hope their efforts may be rewarded."

CLUB TO FORM TROPICAL TRIBE

Civilized Noises Cause New Movement

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. (UP)—Years of spending his working hours in the Bloomingdale hospital, which specializes in mental cases, and his hours of play among crowds and the seekers from the mad pleasures of Manhattan, have convinced Ernest W. Shaw, 36, that it's all wrong.

He did not sit inactive after reaching his decision, but worked out a plan. The plan he announced today—a colony of 50 serious souls, like himself tired of civilization, who will sail within the next few months for Africa, penetrate to the remote interior and, shedding clothes and irksome customs, lead their own lives.

Tropical Utopia

"A club is being formed to bring together those who are tired of exisiting conditions and are anxious to migrate to some tropical Utopia where the advantages of a crazy civilization will be conspicuous by their absence, and where radios and noises, brass bands and auto horns, will be unknown.

"An outstanding feature of the colony will be the absence of rules and regulations and the complete freedom the members will enjoy.

"If you are fed up with the blessings of a civilized age and wish to return to a happy primitive state of existence, you are invited to attend a meeting at labor temple, Nov. 29."

Shaw amplified his letter to the United Press tonight.

"Fifty men and fifty women will comprise the colony to start," he said. "They can be married or unmarried. I've picked Central Africa as the site of our new world. We won't take any food or clothes, for when we get there we're going to grow our food and make what clothes we want. We are going to start all over again.

No Government

"As for marriage and laws, and such things, we'll adopt tribal customs. There will be no government. Every man will be his own king; every woman a queen. Our only laws will be an informal code to discourage crime against each other—a tribal one. We will raise our children and educate them in our own way. Genius will be directed to proper channels. We don't want any Edisons, for invention means noise. All we want is to be ourselves."

Shaw said that there would be no contact with the outside world. The colonists, he said, would be a complete tribe, and marry among themselves. Any man of religious inclinations, he said, could be his own preacher. His idea was to lose the tribe completely; so if nothing goes awry with his plans, an explorer of a future day may find one of the races of "white Indians," happily isolated from what Shaw regards as a mad world, and never know that it was Shaw who started it.

Cotton Price Probe Deferred for Heflin

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (AP)—Action on a resolution by Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, proposing an investigation of speculative activities on the New York, Chicago and New Orleans cotton exchanges was deferred temporarily today to permit the Alabaman to prepare an amendment suggested by Senator Jones of Washington, the acting Republican leader.

After explaining he believed the senate alone could not authorize the federal farm board to make the proposed inquiry, Jones proposed the investigation be made by the senate agriculture committee. Heflin assented.

Officers Probe Lynching Staged In Florida City

QUINCY, Fla., Nov. 11. (AP)—Establishment of the identity of between 35 and 40 masked men who seized Will Larkins, negro, accused of attacking a 12-year-old girl, from Sheriff G. S. Gregory and three deputies Saturday night and lynched him today was the object of an investigation by authorities.

Larkins was seized by the band of armed men less than 12 hours after he had been indicted by a special grand jury and a special term of court had been called for his trial. His bullet riddled body, two hours later, was dragged through the streets of Quincy, tied to the rear of an automobile.

Later it was burned at the scene of the attack upon the girl.

The girl was attacked last Thursday as she was going home from school. Larkins was arrested and later said to have been identified by the child.

The sheriff was taking the negro to Jacksonville for safe keeping under orders of Gov. Doyle E. Carlton at the time he was seized.

LOWER CORN CROP IS SEEN

Agriculture Department Issues Forecast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. (UP)—A 1929 corn crop of 2,621,451,000 bushels was forecast today by the agriculture department. The 1929 crop totaled 2,836,000,000 bushels.

Corn yield per acre this year was estimated at 26.7 bushels, while quality was given as 80.2 per cent of normal as of Nov. 1. Old corn on farms Nov. 1 was 2.71 per cent of the 1928 crop or 76,863,000 bushels.

Estimates of other crops were: Buckwheat 11,900,000 bushels, flax seed 16,100,000 bushels; rye 39,200,000 bushels; peanuts 902,000,000 pounds; apples 140,000,000 bushels; grapes 2,003,000 tons; potatoes 354,000,000 bushels; sweet potatoes 82,900,000 bushels; tobacco 1,481,000,000 pounds; sugar beets 8,470,000 tons.

Yields of corn, potatoes, sweet potatoes, rice, grain sorghums, beans, peanuts, sugar beets and grapes were said to be all running substantially above earlier expectations, chiefly because October weather was much more favorable than usual for late crops.

Combing all crops, prospects average about 1⅛ per cent better than they were a month ago, but chiefly on account of the summer drought. Crop yields average 5.8 per cent below those of last year and 2.6 per cent below the average yield of the previous 10 years.

The preliminary corn estimate of 2,621,000,000 bushels represents an increase of 93,000,000 bushels, or 3.7 per cent over the Oct. 1 forecast. Practically all important producing states showed an increase during October. The 1929 crop was said, however, to be a relatively short crop. It is 7.7 per cent below the 1928 crop and 4.6 per cent below the five-year average.

AKERS DENIES HE'S INSANE

Testimony Closed in Robbery Trial Here

The defense rested as court was adjourned Monday afternoon in the trial of Otis Akers before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court on one of four indictments charging robbery with firearms.

The indictment on which Akers went to trial Monday afternoon charges robbery of Mrs. Maple Groves, from whom a diamond ring was taken on July 17, 1928. An indictment charging robbery of the Park Street Drug store here more than a year ago was scheduled to be heard Monday, but it was decided to postpone the trial on that account.

Confined to Asylum

Four witnesses were placed on the stand by defense attorneys C. C. Fillmore and Davis Covington. The first was Akers himself and the other three were prisoners who had associated with him during his stay in the county jail here. Prosecution placed five witnesses on the stand. They were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Roszelle, operators of the lunch room and filling station on the Iowa Park road where the robbery was alleged to have occurred, R. H. Ray, who was in the station at the time, Mrs. Maple Groves and W. A. Bockem, supervisor of the bureau of identification of the Texas penitentiary system.

Akers admitted on the stand that he had been confined in the Oklahoma State Insane Asylum at Norman and had been removed from that institution last August, when he was brought here. He strongly denied, however, that he was insane, declaring that he was "being framed." He said he had tried to tell them at the asylum he was normal.

The three prisoners brought from the jail testified for the defense that in their opinion Akers was not normal. They told of how he would awake at night talking to himself. He talked continually to himself, they said, and spoke mostly of being "framed" and would mumble about "a jury trial." He spoke also of the Ku Klux Klan, one of the witnesses said, and would say "something about it being all right."

Akers was positively identified by each of the five prosecution witnesses, those who were said to have been in the filling station declaring he was the man who held them up and Mr. Bockem identifying him as having served a term between 1923 and 1928 in the Texas state penitentiary for a robbery at Dallas. Akers told the jury he did not know any of the persons who identified him and said he was in an Oklahoma town at the time the robbery was supposed to have occurred.

Mental Expert Called

In the robbery with which Akers is charged, a diamond ring was taken from Mrs. Groves, about 85 cents in small change from the pockets of Mr. Ray and about $26 from the cash register of the Roszelle station.

Sam B. Spence, district attorney, and Mike Anglin and George W. Anderson, assistants, prosecutors, are demanding the maximum of a life term for Akers while defense attorneys are attempting to convince the jury of Akers' insanity. A doctor from the insane asylum at Norman, where Akers was confined, has been asked to appear for the prosecution Tuesday morning in their effort to prove Akers sane. The mental expert will probably come by airplane in order to be present when court opens at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Bank's Funds Go on Stocks

Shortage of $3,592,000 Is Reported

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 11. (INS)—Defalcations amounting to $3,592,000 gross from the Union Industrial bank here were revealed today in a statement issued by Charles S. Mott, vice president of the General Motors corporation and president of the bank.

The shortages have been known for some time but it was at first thought they would total less than $1,000,000. They result from the alleged use of bank's funds by several employes in speculating on the stock market, adding that he had added more than $1,500,000 to the actual cash he deposited in the bank in order to guarantee investors against any possible loss.

"The gross amount is now $3,592,000," Mott said, referring to the shortage, "which is not likely to grow."

CITY FINANCES IN GOOD SHAPE

Six Months' Collections Total $283,982

With the taxpaying season just open, the financial condition of the city of Wichita Falls is unusually sound, figures in the monthly report of City Clerk W. E. McBroom, released Monday, indicated.

The report has been turned over to City Manager George D. Fairtrace.

The city's revenue for the month of October, the report showed, totaled $43,621.98, while the total revenue for the first six months of the fiscal year beginning last April amounted to $283,982.89.

Total expense incurred by the city during the first six months of the fiscal year amounted to $469,181.30, as compared to expenses of $430,306.89 incurred during the same period a year ago.

Comparative figures to show the revenues of the city for October a year ago and the first six months of the last fiscal year were not available, as the system of monthly reports, introduced by Mr. Fairtrace on his assumption of office, was not in use then.

The past month's revenue of $43,621.98, considered excellent in that payment of taxes has only started, came principally from two sources, the report said. Of the amount, $27,378.77 was collected by the water department, and $8,396.56 came from property tax collections.

Modernistic Painting Wins Prize When Hung 'Sidewise, Upside Down'

Lowbrows of New York Given Chance to Razz Sedate Academy of Design Over Art's Catastrophe

By SAM LOVE
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A great big, hearty laugh was enjoyed by the lowbrows of New York today as a result of the discovery that, after prayerful study by five tremendous dignitaries of the National Academy of Design, Edwin W. Dickinson's modernistic painting, "The Fossil Hunters," had been awarded the second Altman prize of $500.

The guffaws were not directed at Mr. Dickinson's picture, however. They rang about the ears of the august jury of award, because it leaked out that these authorities voted for "the fossil hunters" while innocently viewing the canvas hung sidewise instead of perpendicularly and right side up.

Art's Greatest Catastrophe

This is probably the greatest single catastrophe ever suffered either by modern art of the national academy of design, and the delight of the populace is correspondingly great.

The Dickinson painting rose to eminence from a humble beginning as one of 2,000 submitted for the national academy's winter show. Mr. Dickinson just sent it along to the academy and remained in Provincetown, where his business is painting. The canvas measured five by eight feet and Mr. Dickinson, through some whimsy, had signed it on the side instead of at the bottom. It was therefore hung sidewise by a literal and orthodox employe, and, so hung, it successfully passed the elimination tests which reduced the number of entries to 463.

These latter the jury deigned to view, and they paused before Mr. Dickinson's opus entranced. The national academy is the antithesis of the radical in art. Nevertheless, here was something that struck the learned judges as very beautiful. A trifle advanced, perhaps—yes, a trifle advanced, but after all quite understandable.

Affair Silenced

It was impossible to learn today just what the jury of award decided the picture represented. A sort of a cloak of silence had descended about the whole affair. But it is not impossible to hazard that henceforth most pictures which enter the finals before the national academy will be viewed from the rear by juries of awards as well as from the front.

For on the left end (rear) of "The Fossil Hunters," was a scrawl in Mr. Dickinson's own hand that might have made the jury of award break out into a cold perspiration. And on the right end (rear) was another scrawl. The scrawls read "bottom" and "top."

A photographer who unhung the picture for the usual purposes of his craft made the artistic discovery which escaped the jury of award. The latter were stricken—as one observer neatly phrased it—"with mirth and consternation." Here was a tale so dreadful that it was bound to leak out. It did.

THREE DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Controls 'Freeze' as Kansas City Trio Takes Off

MARSHALL, Mo., Nov. 11. (UP) Three Kansas City men were killed here today when the airplane in which they were riding crashed at the municipal airport.

The dead were Hack Arnold, E. H. Ellis and R. T. McGhee, thought to have been piloting the plane when the controls froze and plunged it into a nose dive as it circled for a landing.

Arnold and Ellis were killed instantly. McGhee, murmuring "turn loose, turn loose," was pulled from the wreckage and taken to Fitzgibbon hospital here, where he died.

The three Kansas City men were en route here to purchase an airplane from the Nicholas-Beazley Airplane company, makers of the Barling plane.

It was believed by airport officials that the dual controls of the ill-fated plane were jammed. The plane went into a sudden dive as it circled the field in preparation to land. The craft did not burn.
