FATAL ACCIDENT — This 18-wheel gravel truck (above) overturned, 1:20 p.m. Thursday, crushing its driver Rollo M. Casey Jr., 42, 1906 Owens. Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin pronounced the victim dead at the scene (below).

Trucker crushed in mishap

Rollo M. Casey Jr., 42, 1906 Owens, was killed, 1:20 p.m. Thursday, in a one-vehicle accident on the Snyder Field Road, 10 miles southeast of Coahoma.

Casey, a driver for Price Construction Company, was driving an empty, 18-wheeler tractor trailer when he failed to negotiate a curve in the road. Both truck and trailer flipped completely over, pinning Casey inside the cab.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

Services are set for 10 a.m. Saturday in the Sheppard Funeral Home Chapel of Memories with the Rev. Pat Githens, pastor of the Faith Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in Pearsall Cemetery in Pearsall.

Born Dec. 25, 1936 in Pearsall, Mr. Casey married Audra Ferris Sept. 16, 1972 in Big Spring.

He was a veteran of World War II. Survivors include his wife, Audra, Big Spring, and a son, Justin Casey, Snyder.

Judicial conduct investigation continues in Howard County Court

An investigator, James Jard, from the State Commission on Judicial Conduct was slated to take a deposition from County Judge Bill Tune this morning and confer with Tune and County Attorney Harvey Hooser.

Jard arrived in Big Spring Tuesday to begin investigation into complaints of alleged judicial misconduct on the part of Tune. Several complaints have been filed against Tune with the Commission of Judicial Conduct alleging violation of a Dec. 19 Attorney General's opinion. The opinion states that a judge "is not authorized to dismiss a moving violation in return for a plea of guilty to an unrelated, non-moving violation."

According to recent county court records, the majority of recent DWI charges are dismissed altogether or dismissed with the defendant pleading guilty to a lesser charge.

Jard declined to comment on the investigation to newsmen.

Tune began his second four year term in November. He said in his first four years of office there were eight jury trials for DWI and no convictions by jury. Richard Glass became the first, Tuesday, to be convicted by jury of DWI since Tune was in office.

Belgian bank official slain

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Two men shot and killed a Belgian national bank official — apparently the wrong man — and police speculated the Thursday night slaying was connected with the assassination of the British ambassador in neighboring Holland only hours earlier.

The Amsterdam daily newspaper De Telegraaf said today it received an anonymous call claiming the Irish Republican Army was responsible for the killing of the British ambassador, Sir Richard Sykes, in the Dutch capital of The Hague.

"This is only the beginning. It's war. Tomorrow we will kill either the (British) ambassador in Belgium, France or Germany," the caller said.

The newspaper reported he spoke with an Irish accent, but there was no reference to the later shooting here of bank official Andre Michaux.

Food, housing, gas costs soar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher prices for food, housing and gasoline pushed consumer prices up 1.2 percent in February, the biggest monthly increase in inflation in 4½ years, the government said today.

Food prices rose 1.6 percent during the month, and were up 12.7 percent for the 12-month period ended in February. The government said meat prices rose another 4.9 percent and were up 26.4 percent for the February-to-February period.

Overall consumer prices for the 12 months ended in February were up by 9.9 percent.

The sharp one-month rise in the Consumer Price Index was more disappointing news for the Carter administration's already badly battered anti-inflation program. President Carter is known to be considering additional measures to try to hold down the surge in prices which is now about double what he has predicted for the year.

The 1.2 percent rise in the price index in February compared with a 0.9 percent rise in January and was the highest since a 1.2 percent in September 1974, a year in which inflation was at a postwar high of 12.2 percent.

If continued for a full year, the February rise in prices would mean a total inflation of 15 percent, double the administration's 1979 target of a 7.4 percent inflation rate.

Prices of new automobiles rose 1.2 percent, while used-car prices jumped 0.8 percent.

The only positive news in the February price report was the slowdown in the rise of medical care prices. The Labor Department said the improvement was primarily due to smaller increases in physicians' and dentists' fees during the month.

But overall medical costs still were 9 percent higher in February than in the same month a year ago.

Alfred E. Kahn, the president's anti-inflation chief, has said the rate of inflation probably will be disappointingly high for the rest of the spring, but should show some signs of abating by early summer.

Science Fair begins today

The Permian Basin Regional Science Fair at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum got underway at 8 a.m. today with registration and setting up projects.

Judging, consisting of interviews with students at exhibits, began at 1 p.m. and continues until 6 p.m.

The awards assembly, which is open to the public, is at 8:30 a.m. Saturday. The exhibit will then be open to the public for viewing.

A planetarium show at Big Spring High School for students accompanied by parents will take place at 10:30 a.m. The seating capacity of the planetarium is 50 persons. This show will be repeated at 2 p.m.

The science fair will close to the public at 4 p.m. Saturday when students remove their exhibits.

Big Spring is honored to host the Regional Science Fair this year. Many local students are participating in it and are expected to do well.

The junior division, grade level 7th and 8th includes chemistry, physical science, botany, zoology, earth and space sciences and mathematics.

The senior division, grades 9 through 12 includes behavioral and social sciences, biochemistry, chemistry, physics, medicine and health, botany, zoology, earth and space sciences, mathematics and computers, engineering and microbiology.

There is also an elementary division for grade levels 1 through 6.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Drugs, semantics

Q. What is the difference between a generic drug and one with a nationally known brand name? I understand that doctors prescribe both.

A. The Food and Drug Administration says there is very little difference. The differences are largely semantic. All drugs have a generic name. A generic name is assigned to a drug when it appears that it has some therapeutic usefulness. It is the generic name that is used to advertise a drug to the medical profession.

Generic drugs are usually less expensive than brand name equivalents. Tetracycline is a widely used prescription antibiotic. A physician may write a prescription for this drug by its generic name or may prescribe it under the brand names Achromycin, Sumycin or Tetracycline. No matter what name is used, each drug must meet the same standards for tetracycline under FDA standards.

Annual fang fever ssssstrikes

Weigh-in for snake hunters in the Jaycees Rattlesnake Roundup began today at 1 p.m. at the Howard County Fairbarns. This opening activity for the annual affair will last until 6 p.m., with snakes brought in today bringing $2.75 per pound.

The Roundup opens to the Public at 10 a.m. Saturday, and will remain open until 6 p.m. with handling demonstrations every hour. The showing continues Sunday from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. General admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children under 12.

Hunters bringing in snakes Saturday will receive $1 per pound, and the price on Sunday will be 50 cents per pound.

In addition to the handling demonstrations, given by Donnie Anderson and Robby Robertson, there will be a milking pit, under the direction of Connie Edgemon, and an environmental display of the habitat of the reptile. A film, "Poisonous Reptiles in Texas," produced by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, will also be shown once each hour.

An arts and crafts fair in the Dora Roberts Exhibition Building will be an extra attraction for the roundup, with over 50 well-known artists and craftsmen from Big Spring and the state.

The finalists for the title of Miss Diamondback will be judged at the roundup at 2 p.m. Saturday. All the finalists will be presented at the rattlesnake dance, set for 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Elks Lodge on FM 700. Music will be provided by the KBST disco.

The winner of the beauty contest will be announced at the awards ceremony Sunday at 5 p.m. at the site of the Roundup. At that time, trophies for the longest snake, shortest snake, most pounds and most rattlers will be given.

Dozen alleged tax fraud suspects change pleas

All but two defendants indicted on Jan. 16 in U.S. District Court for a number of income tax violations have pleaded guilty to charges, officials announced Thursday.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Lubbock said that 12 more persons changed their pleas to guilty this week in connection with an alleged scheme to bilk the federal government by filing false claims for income tax refunds.

All of those indicted are residents or former residents of Big Spring. Initially, all but one of the defendants had pleaded innocent at their arraignments.

A total of 26 individuals was indicted Jan. 16 for conspiracy, filing false claims for income tax refunds and perjury. Twelve of the accused had earlier changed their pleas to guilty on one or more counts of the indictment.

U.S. Attorney Roger McRoberts said that only Eugene Shipman and James Garrett remain to be tried. He said Garrett is a fugitive and is sought for arrest.

Shipman was arrested in Alaska this week and returned to Lubbock for arraignment on Thursday, McRoberts said.

Trials in the case were scheduled to begin next Monday, but McRoberts said they would be delayed, since Shipman could not be ready in time and Garrett remained at-large.

Sentencing for those who pleaded guilty before U.S. District Judge Halbert O. Woodward will be at an undetermined date.

TALEGHANI DELIVERS SPEECH — Ayatollah Mahmoud Taleghani, center, the Shiite Moslem religious leader in Tehran, delivers speech to the Kurds in Sanandaj, Iran, Thursday as militiamen in background raises arms to ask for silence. Taleghani was shouted down when he called on the Kurds to submit to let the army take over on behalf of Ayatollah Khomeini's revolution.

Trying to nip rebellion

SANANDAJ, Iran (AP) — Representatives of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini continued negotiations today to try to check the Kurdish rebellion in western Iran as army troops and the guerrillas besieging them observed an uneasy cease-fire and shops and restaurants reopened.

People urged to pray

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin flew to the United States today to sign the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty and urged his people to pray for peace to spread all over the Middle East. "I pray from the bottom of my heart that this should be and will be the first step toward a comprehensive settlement in the Middle East, for which we yearn," said Begin.

Catfish to cut costs?

ATLANTA (AP) — DeKalb County Commissioner Bill Williams wants to use pools stocked with catfish to cut the cost of a state-ordered $60 million sewage treatment plant. Algae in the pools would clean phosphates out of the water. The fish would eat the algae, but would get the worst end of the deal. They would be harvested and sold as chicken feed to get some of the county's money back.

Space shuttle snagged

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Violent spring weather trapped the space shuttle Columbia and its mothership, in the state of Texas for a third day.

NASA officials said they hope the turbulent weather between East Texas and Florida would subside long enough for the problem-plagued shuttle to make its scheduled 1 p.m. departure from Kelly Air Force Base Friday.

"We'll just sit tight," former astronaut Deke Slayton, commander of the journey, said Thursday of the weather. "We're at the mercy of the weather. Nobody can control that."

"It's lousy."

The hump-backed craft was supposed to complete its trip to Cape Canaveral, Florida on March 10. But mechanical problems and bad weather in California delayed departure until Tuesday. The piggy-back creature was hung up in El Paso for two days because of severe thunderstorms and high winds whipping through West and Central Texas.

Wiretap three enter pleas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former Burnet County Sheriff Raymond Hullum and two former deputies have pleaded innocent to federal wiretap charges.

The pleadings for Hullum, 53, of Burnet; Charles Johnston, 44, of Lampasas and William Lentz, 45, of Bertram were entered Thursday before U.S. District Judge Jack Roberts. None of the defendants was present.

FBI agents arrested the three men March 14 on charges of conspiracy to wiretap the telephone of a woman Hullum said he suspected of being a drug dealer.

Lentz, now in the antiques business, was not employed by the sheriff's department at the time of his arrest. Johnston was fired after his arrest, and Hullum resigned.

$10,000 fund to fight arsonists recommended

The establishment of a permanent "reward" fund to aid in investigating and prosecuting arson incidents, and an idea for a city ordinance requiring registration of itinerant vendors were two matters discussed at Wednesday's meeting of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Tom Watson, Big Spring Herald publisher, recommended the board establish a $10,000 fund to be used as reward money for informants aiding police in the investigation and subsequent conviction of arsonists. Rewards would be determined on an individual case basis.

According to Watson, there have been approximately a quarter-million dollars in losses due to arson fires in Big Spring since Jan. 1 and a 30 percent of the major Big Spring fires in recent years were deliberately set.

Arson is a rapidly increasing crime, and the reward fund would serve as a deterrent, as well as an aid to law enforcement investigators, Watson contended.

The fund would be built up by private donations, and would require supervision from a committee and trustee of the Chamber. Arrangements would have to be made in the cases to protect the identity of the informants, yet still allow the proper persons to collect the reward should a conviction result from investigation stemming from such information.

Watson said $2,000 has already been pledged for such a reward in the fire at the construction site of Jerry Worthy's condominiums, and a number of people have expressed interest in contributing to and helping maintain a general arson reward fund.

"Arson affects every business, not just one that burns," said Watson. "Fire insurance rates on homes and businesses rise with the frequency of arson incidents; as a deterrent to discourage the crime of arson — as well as to encourage citizen cooperation with law enforcement officials — the arson fund would be beneficial."

The board expressed enthusiasm for the project, and referred it to the health and safety committee for study. The committee will work with Watson and return to the next board meeting with a suggestion for action.

Another matter, brought up in the report of Chamber executive vice president Bill Albright, was the increasing frequency of complaints about itinerant vendors who take business from local merchants without paying city taxes.

Albright noted several area cities including Monahan and Odessa which require that the vendors register with the city and pay a fee to sell their wares within the city limits. In some cases, the fees are high enough to discourage the vendors, while in others they simply insure that the city receives revenue in a fair manner from the vendors, as it does the local merchants.

The matter was referred to the business committee, with the hopes that the group could study the ordinances of area cities and come up with a suggested ordinance that the Chamber could present to the city council.

In other business, Walter Wheat reported that the Chamber was "holding its own" in relation to recent budget problems, and was indeed doing better than anticipated.

April 16-20 was approved as the dates for the Ambassadors membership drive, and a recent suggestion for a dues increase has still not been decided upon. Should dues be increased, the rise would not take affect until next year when the members renew their memberships.

A report on the Fun Breakfasts indicated that sponsorships for all the 1979 breakfasts have already been obtained, and the office staff is now working on sponsorship for 1980.

The next breakfast will be April 10, at the Howard College Cafeteria. Sponsored by First Federal Savings and Loan, the 7 a.m. breakfast will have an Easter Theme.

Plans are finalizing for the Open Forum Tuesday in the Cactus Room at Howard College. Questions will be submitted in writing, either before the forum, or in writing to Moderator Jim Baum, during the forum.

"Definitely antagonistic questions, or those which seem to be a personal vendetta directed toward a candidate for the city or school board elections," said Carol Hunter, one of the planners of the forum. "We want to protect the candidates from unprovoked or unreasonable harassment, yet still allow controversial questions which have merit and application to the election."

Police beat Vandals take batting practice

Vandals went on a windshield smashing spree, Thursday night and early this morning.

Police believe that in some instances baseball bats or planks of wood were used to smash the glass on six vehicles in the city.

The front windshield of a 1975 Oldsmobile Starfire belonging to Elaine Brown, 3 Highland, was demolished. Damage was estimated at $160.

A rock was thrown through the windshield of a pickup belonging to Billy Alexander, 2714, Thursday night. Damage was estimated at $160.

The windshield of a 1978 Ford pickup belonging to David Hodnett, 2718 Lynn, was fractured early this morning. Damage was estimated at $150.

Another rock was tossed by someone known to through the windshield of a 1974 Chevrolet belonging to Bob Hecker, 2701 Central, sometime Thursday night. Damage was estimated at $150.

The vandals also hit a truck belonging to the City Utility Department, Thursday night, while it was parked on the 800 block of East 15th. Damage was estimated at $125.

The rear windshield of a 1963 Ford Falcon belonging to Sherrill Carroll, 1307 Baylor, was shattered Thursday night. Damage was estimated at $100.

An argument resulted in $1,200 worth of damage to a pickup belonging to Leonsa L. Jimenez, 207 S. Benton, 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

According to reports, the pickup was rammed repeatedly by a car driven by someone known to

For the record

In the Newcomers Guide published Thursday by the Big Spring Herald several real estate offices were mistakenly cut from the list because of space problems.

The list also should have included:

More Real Estate, 1705 Scurry, 263-7631.

Marie Rowland, Realtor, 2102 Scurry, 263-2591.

Shaffer Real Estate, 2000 Birdwell Lane, 263-8251.

Spring City Realty, 300 West 9th, 263-8402.

Warren Real Estate, 1207 Douglas St. 263-2061.

In addition, the Rodar Real Estate office listed at 1110 Gregg St. has been closed, and Jeff Brown, a real estate appraiser, has moved his office from the Permian Building to Coronado Plaza.

Theatre group sets tryouts

The Big Spring Community Theatre will meet Tuesday for tryouts for a radio play they are planning to present soon.

The tryouts and a general meeting of the group will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Howard College auditorium, and anyone interested in becoming involved in or supporting the effort are invited to attend.

CONCERNED AND CONFIDENT — Mrs. Jihan Sadat, wife of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, speaks during an interview with the Associated Press at the presidential residence in Giza, Egypt today. Mrs. Sadat said that the onset of peace makes her concerned about her husband's safety and confident that other Arab countries will eventually join the peace process.

Sperm testimony offered at trial

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — A state chemist testified today she detected "what appeared to be" sperm from swabs taken from the bodies of three slain Girl Scouts although earlier tests had been negative.

The testimony appeared to prepare the way for the prosecution to call a New York expert in the murder trial of Gene Leroy Hart.

Hart, 35, is charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the 1977 sex slayings of the three young girls at a northeastern Oklahoma summer camp.

Janice Davis, Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation chemist, said she analyzed swabs from the victims. She said a test at a Dallas laboratory more sophisticated than tests conducted by the OSBI allowed her to detect sperm.

Earlier tests by the OSBI had detected an indication of seminal fluid, the carrier of sperm, but failed to detect sperm.

Mrs. Davis testified she also took swabs from the victims and underwear obtained from Hart to Dr. John MacLeod, a New York expert, for testing in July and October of 1978.

MacLeod was expected to testify this afternoon as the state neared the end of its presentation of evidence against Hart.

Chief Prosecutor S.M. Fallis Jr. had produced 29 witnesses by the close of the fourth day of testimony Thursday. Hart attorney Garvin Isaacs had indicated he might not call any defense witnesses if he feels the state fails to prove its case.

The six-man, six-woman jury traveled to Camp Scott Thursday to acquaint themselves with the densely wooded surroundings at the camp unit where the girls were killed.

Tents were erected on platforms for the visit for the first time since a massive manhunt for a killer failed in the days after the murders. The isolated summer camp has been closed ever since.

Ann Reed, a state chemist, was cross-examined by defense attorney Garvin Isaacs Thursday about what appeared to be the state's strongest evidence. She said her opinion was that Hart's hair and hair submitted to her from the death scene were "exactly the same."

"As far as I know, in my comparison of hair, I have never been in error," she said.

'WAR' IN PARIS — A helmeted policeman raises his arms in a gesture of self-defense, as two young demonstrators are ready to beat him up with a stick, during the first clashes between uncontrolled demonstrators and police at Place de la Republique. Meapwhile, tens of thousands of steelworkers and supporters march through the Eastern half of Paris to protest the French government's policy over steel industry problems.

Clements feeling agony of defeat

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The question marks turned into exclamation points against W.B. "Monk" Edwards on Thursday as the Senate rejected his appointment as a Houston district judge.

Edwards, a former Gulf Oil lawyer who once characterized himself as a "whipping boy" for the huge corporation, was the first appointee of Gov. Bill Clements to fall in the Senate.

Needing 21 votes for confirmation, Edwards was two short, 19-12.

Another major Clements appointee, Dallas bank executive William Daves Jr., was confirmed as a member of the State Insurance Board, 29-0.

"I thought that we might win it," Clements said of Edwards. "We counted noses, and there were some question marks, and it turned out they fell out on the wrong side, and I am disappointed."

"It was awfully close," Clements told reporters. "It was unfortunate."

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, said the govern-

nor's office had placed "unbelievable pressure" on senators to confirm Edwards, 58. "Please help me defeat this sorry appointment," Brooks said.

Clements was asked about implied political and financial threats, and he responded, "I think that is nothing more than political baloney. I know of no such threats, and I think that is nothing more than political rhetoric."

Clements said he had talked with a few senators, but the conversations were "friendly. There was an honest difference of opinion."

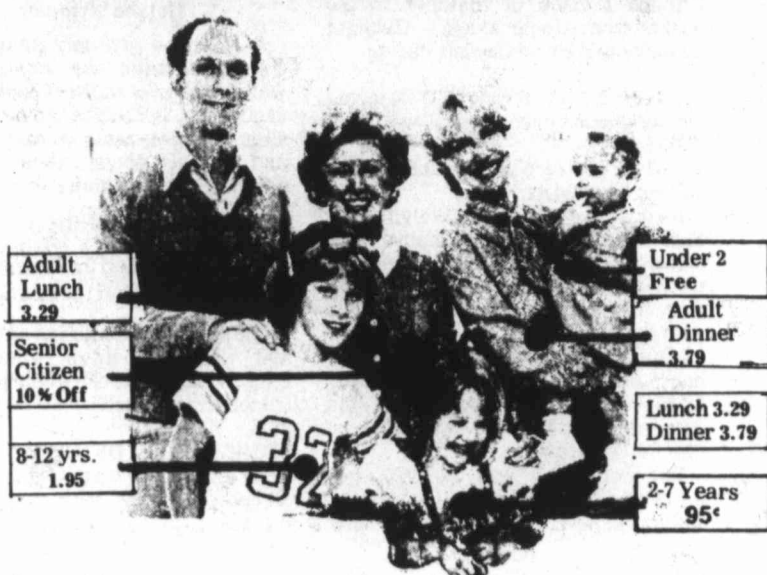

We were in every instance agreeable. I didn't have any bad conversations with anybody."

Clements said the senators felt it was "not good" that Edwards had no court experience, that he was not a trial lawyer.

"No pressure was applied," Clements said, but he added, "We were letting everybody know we were standing behind our nominee."

Edwards took early retirement from Gulf in 1976, after the fund had been widely publicized.

POW returns to U.S., faces desertion charge

TOKYO (AP) — A U.S. Marine going home after 14 years in Vietnam was held by the Navy on Okinawa today for a medical checkup as the Marine Corps began an investigation to determine whether to bring him to trial on charges of collaborating with the enemy.

Pfc. Robert R. Garwood, 33, of Greensburg, Ind., arrived in Bangkok Thursday aboard a commercial flight from Ho Chi Minh City, formerly Saigon. A U.S. military transport flew him to Okinawa, and a Marine Corps spokesman said he would spend "a few days" at a Navy hospital on the southern Japanese island.

"He is being accompanied by Marine Corps officers, and his stay is estimated to be a few days," a Marine spokesman said. "We don't know exactly when he will be leaving for the United

In New York, a lawyer who said he was hired by Garwood's family objected to the delay.

"I don't believe it's necessary to keep anybody three to five days to give him a physical examination," said attorney Dermot G. Foley. He claimed the delay was "part of the pressure-cooker atmosphere that they're building to get Garwood as deeply in trouble as they can."

The State Department said Garwood was captured by the Viet Cong in 1965 and other prisoners of war reported he remained with the Communists voluntarily.

A Marine Corps spokesman in Washington said preliminary charges had been drawn up against the man alleging unlawful dealings with the enemy, misbehavior while a prisoner of war, suspicion of desertion in time of war, soliciting American combat forces to throw down their weapons and refuse to fight, and attempting to cause insubordination, disloyalty and refusal of duty among fellow prisoners of war.

The spokesman explained that the charges were the basis of an investigation to determine if Garwood would be tried by a court-martial. Garwood refused to talk to reporters at the Bangkok airport. But Vietnam's official news agency said Thursday that he "crossed over to the liberation armed forces in 1965 after seeing that the then-U.S. war of aggression against Vietnam was an unjust war." It said he asked to stay in Vietnam after the Communist victory in 1975 and was allowed to leave four years later "in keeping with his request to return to the United States to rejoin his family."

In an interview Wednesday in Hanoi with NBC News, Garwood said he chose to return home "because I am American, not a Vietnamese." "I did not betray the United States," he said, "but I betrayed the involvement of the U.S. government in Vietnam. I was in collaboration with the people of the United States against the involvement of the United States government in Vietnam."

He approached an unidentified foreign visitor to Hanoi several months ago and said he wanted to go home. The U.S. government then began negotiations for his release.

Garwood, who joined the Marines at 19, is still listed as a prisoner of war and reportedly has more than $146,000 in back pay coming.

We're not about to run out of oil

One doesn't have to wonder if there wouldn't be enough petroleum to meet America's needs, if the price structure wasn't strictly (if erratically) controlled by the government. Spokesmen for the oil industry have said as much so many times it has ceased to be news.

The oil people say the so-called shortages is a matter of economics. If they are allowed to move about in an open market, much more oil can be produced.

WE HAVE JUST about discovered and put into production all the so-called 'cheap' oil available. No one, however, has said we are about to run out of oil. There are still vast reserves in this country that obviously will go untapped until the industry can, with government sanction, deregulate. The problem is that current regulated prices are not enough to make recovery of this oil feasible, at least in the eyes of the people who control such reserves.

We have painted ourselves into a corner because we have put ourselves in the hands of the foreign oil producers, thereby jeopardizing our security, allowing matters of national interest to be decided in foreign capitals, and sending money out of the country at such a rate that our currency has fallen into low estate in other parts of the world.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas has proposed legislation which could help free us of dependence on foreign petroleum. Granted, we would pay dearly for oil but, weighing the benefits against the cost, it may be the solution to our problems.

Bentsen's legislation would remove price controls on oil produced by tertiary, or enhanced oil recovery, techniques. That is a high-risk and high-cost proposition. Consequently, tertiary recovery of oil is not widely employed, although the technology exists.

ENACTMENT OF Bentsen's bill would, the senator believes provide the economic incentive to make tertiary recovery feasible on a wide scale. This is not a peanuts operation we are talking about, but one of major consequence.

According to Department of Energy testimony before the Senate Energy Committee, we could recover from 25 to 40 billion additional barrels of oil using tertiary recovery methods. That means it may be possible to double our current proven reserves.

"Given the proper incentives," Sen.

Bentsen says, "by 1990 we could increase our domestic oil production by more than two million barrels of oil a day — four times the amount we were importing from Iran before the loss of production from that country."

The senator's bill, then, offers us a way out of dependency on foreign oil. It means more expensive oil, certainly, but who hasn't faced up to the fact that the days of cheap energy are over. It makes sense, both for the economy and the national interest, to free ourselves from self-imposed restraints on the production of sufficient petroleum to supply all our needs ourselves.

Sooner or later the oil industry is going to be deregulated. It may come after the 1980 elections, when Jimmy Carter bows to a mandate, but it's coming. The country might as well get ready for it.

Cool cat's bluuues

Around the rim

James Werrell

Our big mistake was playing Bessie Smith and John Lee Hooker on the stereo the other night.

I am convinced that this is what gave our cat Bart the idea that he had the blues.

We got pretty suspicious when he started coming home worn out at two and three o'clock in the morning. He smelled like cigarettes and cheap wine, and his sharkskin suit was covered with chalk dust.

When I sent the suit to the cleaners, I found a pack of matches in the pocket from Uncle Moon's All-Night Billiards and Fried Catfish Parlor.

THEN BART STARTED wearing his sunglasses even when it was dark outside.

"When you're cool, the sun always shines," he told us.

He also began to lose weight, and took to lying around the house until noon in a sleeveless T-shirt. Whenever we tried to find out what the problem was, all he would say was, "trouble with the boss-man."

Finally, one day last week, he came home dragging a beat-up old Melody Maker guitar. He told us he had pawed all the kitty toys we had given him for Christmas to buy it.

The worst of it was, he no longer wanted to be called Bart. He insisted that his new name was T-Bone Jefferson.

I HAVE TO ADMIT, after a few days of practice he got to where he could knock off some pretty clean riffs on that old guitar. But night after night, it was the same song over and over again.

I'm clean out of catnip,
Tender Vittles too,
I feel like I wasted
All nine of my lives
And I ain't got a clue,
Tell me why, sister, why have I
Got the bluuues

A dog just ate my best friend
I swear that it is true
And now my tears are falling, Lord,
Just tell me the morning dew
Can you tell me why, baby, why have I
Got the bluuues

MY HEAD is feelin' dizzy
Just sittin' round this old house
I think I'll go down to the corner
And get myself a mouse,
Oh, mama, please tell me why,
Why have I
Got the bluuues

As you can probably imagine, this started to jangle the nerves after a while. To make matters worse, Bart, excuse me, T-Bone began hanging out with younger cats, smoking catnip, and telling them about his experiences on the chain gang.

Now, the truth of the matter is, he has never been on a chain gang! He was once punished for knocking over a Christmas tree, but that's about it.

The situation had gotten out of hand, and we didn't know what to do. Luckily, however, the whole mess sort of took care of itself.

THE THREE OF US, my wife, T-Bone and I were watching Julia Child on television the other night, and I noticed T-Bone's ears perk up when Julia was midway into her Beef Wellington demonstration.

Sure enough, the next day I came home from work, and he was standing on the stove in a white chef's hat, putting the final touches on some escargot in garlic and white wine sauce, fresh artichokes and Coquilles St. Jacques.

"Well, Bart, I guess you found a cure for the blues," I commented.
"Pardonnez-moi, monsieur, mon nom est Pierre," he replied.

Congress conned

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Congress has been hornswoggled by the oil and gas industry again, and as usual, it's the American consumer who pays.

Natural gas prices, which have already soared out of orbit, are expected to go even higher as a result of the partial deregulation passed by Congress late last year.

And the supposed "benefit" of deregulation — increased supplies by encouraging producers to drill more wells — has failed to materialize. On the contrary, gas producers cashing in on the higher prices are stashing their profits away and showing little inclination to re-invest their money in exploration for new supplies.

FOR YEARS WE have been warning that deregulation would help neither prices nor supply, that the rosy promises of the industry were largely propaganda. We were roundly denounced by the oil and gas moguls, who convinced Congress that deregulation was the key to plentiful supplies of fuel and eventual price stability.

Well, their promises have now been shown to be as hollow as we said they were: The number of wells drilled has actually declined since passage of the gas act.

There are many reasons for the iron grip the oil and gas industry has on the consumer's throat. One of the least understood is the cozy relationship between the industry and government employees who are responsible for regulating it.

Government experts are recruited from industry ranks. Conversely, officials leaving government service get rich by selling the expertise and inside knowledge they gained at public expense. To close this "revolving door," Congress passed strict rules governing employment of former government employees by the industries they once regulated.

UNFORTUNATELY, Congress neglected to include its own employees in the restrictions. The result is that scores of former congressional staffers have landed cushy jobs in private industry where they can use the inside information they got while working for the taxpayers.

A case in point is Bill Demarest, who as counsel for the House energy and power subcommittee, was a key

Recently, Demarest decided to leave government service and join the Houston-based law firm of Foreman and Dyess, which represents many big oil and gas clients.

About 10 days before he left the energy subcommittee, Demarest appeared before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and gave what most experts regarded as pro-industry testimony on complex price-escalator issues relating to deregulation. The official record shows that Demarest testified on behalf of the entire House energy subcommittee, though few members even knew he was testifying.

"The members of the subcommittee didn't realize that he's prostituted himself," one disgusted source told our associate Jack Mitchell. Demarest cleared his appearance only with subcommittee chairman Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich.

The energy agency's acceptance of the escalator clauses Demarest spoke in favor of could cost consumers tens of millions of dollars, one informed congressional source estimated. The agency's position, said our sources, was heavily influenced by Demarest's testimony.

Footnote: Demarest said the regulatory commission staff invited him to testify to "amplify" a written statement he had prepared earlier. He and Dingell discussed the potential conflict of interest, he said, but decided it was essential that Demarest explain the escalator issue to the commission.

Dingell didn't return our calls.

WATCH ON WASTE: Pilferage at military bases is a continuing problem, and no amount of inspections and investigations seems able to stop the theft of equipment and supplies by crooked personnel.

It's not petty thievery, either, when the cost is added up. We have obtained an internal Army memo, for example, that cites $400,000 worth of stolen or lost material in 1978 alone at Fort Bliss, Texas. The document, signed by Mr. Gen. John J. Koehler Jr., base commander, says the amount is "excessive and totally unnecessary."

Moscow lobbies U.S. allies

Evans, Novak

BRUSSELS — Hints of extra oil supplies are bait in the Soviet Union's intensified lobbying against the U.S. in Western Europe, particularly in the receptive left wing of West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's ruling Social Democratic party — a development spreading alarm among the realists within the North Atlantic alliance.

Claiming that under President Carter the U.S. is no longer a dependable ally, and that strategic nuclear superiority is shifting toward Moscow, the Soviets are making progress toward their basic political goal. That goal is to weaken U.S. influence over its European allies and gradually isolate them from the Washington Moscow struggle. That would free the Russians to deal with the dreaded masses of communist China at their back door, without worry about the European front door.

INDICATIONS of the Soviet game are not hard to find. Schmidt's government — particularly its active, neutralist left wing — very recently received this three-point message from highly placed Soviet diplomats: Carter has become too weak to win Senate approval of the forthcoming strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT II); it is time now for Moscow and Bonn to work out a central European "disarmament" scheme, obviously wholly apart from SALT; and Moscow will help take care of Bonn's requirements for oil when, as seems certain, the West's energy supplies become unbearably tight.

How the Russians mean to pay off on the oil bait was ambiguous. It points to a Soviet belief that Persian Gulf oil — most particularly Iranian oil, now under control of the new, anti-U.S. revolutionary regime — will soon become available to Moscow in megabarrels.

The seeming paradox of this Soviet effort with Schmidt's Germany is that it is gaining political headway at the very time Schmidt is beefing up his contributions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), a conspicuous success story of President Carter's foreign policy. The paradox is explained by other political factors. These include Carter's inexcusable treatment of Schmidt in the neutron warhead affair and the persuasive European belief that, in the larger U.S.-Soviet struggle, Carter's policy is solidly based on indecision and vacillation.

LATE LAST YEAR, for example, the Europeans were treated to mind-boggling advice from Washington on the matter of selling defensive arms to communist China. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, while claiming that Carter did not wish to influence the decision, made unmistakably clear to the British that Carter opposed the sales. At almost the same time national security advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski strongly promoted the sale to Prime Minister James Callaghan.

Private talks between Schmidt and the Russians now look toward major decisions in Bonn that are opposed by Washington. Schmidt has privately told the Kremlin that Bonn is not going to deploy any nuclear ballistic weapon capable of striking Soviet territory. That undercuts an American plan for beefed-up Pershing missile, the Pershing II-X, with an extended range of 1,800 miles.

Far more significant in terms of U.S. global strategy is the pressure that the continental powers, mainly West Germany and France, are exerting on Carter not to depart a millimeter from the policy of U.S.-Soviet detente.

Everything you wanted to know about charcoal

Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have started taking two charcoal tablets after each main meal for stomach gas. They seem to be helping get rid of the gas, but I am concerned about any other effects. Will this affect absorption of things like vitamins or minerals from my food? — J.S.

Charcoal is an interesting medical substance and has been used for at least 150 years in one form or another. In its "activated" form it has great absorption powers, especially of poisonous substances. A famous use during World War I was in gas masks (to absorb poison gas). Its chief use today is to absorb poison accidentally taken or in overdoses of certain medicines. The poison molecules are "bound" to the charcoal and removed from the body. It is used for overdoses of drugs such as tranquilizers, sedatives, antidepressants, antibiotics and aspirin, and for insecticide poisoning. It is particularly effective if given 30 minutes after the overdose or poisoning.

So what about charcoal and your gaseousness? I doubt it helps, although it cannot hurt you in the amount you are using. Used medically (as in poisonings) the dosage has to be many times the amount of the poisonous substance taken in.

It is used in combination with other medicines (relaxers, for example) to combat excessive gaseousness, but the effectiveness has not really been proven. The charcoal won't bind mineral acids or drugs that can't be dissolved in water and acid. It might be best to take it about an hour after your meals to allow normal absorption of nutrients to get a start.

I hesitate to tell you to discontinue a practice that seems effective and which cannot do any harm. I see no harm in your charcoal use. If it seems to help, continue it.

The old remedy of using burnt toast as a form of charcoal to treat poisoning is discredited. That kind of charcoal is not activated. Hope I haven't told you more about charcoal than you "cared to know."

Dear Dr. Ruble: Please explain how a spinal tap is done. I have heard it is very painful. If this is so, why aren't anesthetics given? Is there much risk involved in this procedure? I know it is used to diagnose spinal meningitis. Can this be spread from person to person? — A.J.

The spinal tap is also known as a "lumbar puncture." The doctor inserts a special needle into the spinal canal in the lower (lumbar) area to obtain some of the canal fluid. This is examined for a number of substances, including the organism causing inflammation of the meninges, which is the membrane covering the brain or spinal cord — meningitis. It is necessary and essential so that the right medicine can be selected to combat whatever organism is causing inflammation. Some types of meningitis are contagious and are spread by droplet infection (from the nose or mouth areas). In such cases close contacts are also treated with antibiotics.

The test is done with the patient lying on one side. A local anesthetic eliminates most of the pain, although the patient may have a headache for a short period afterward.

Although it sounds scary, the risks in lumbar puncture are quite small. Perfection of this technique and in laboratory methods to examine the minute fluid removed has resulted in saving thousands of lives.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am 57 and stopped having periods about three years ago. Last month I had one, much to my surprise. What would cause this? — J.A.

I doubt this was a "period" and suggest you be examined promptly.

Any bleeding after menopause should be investigated.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is it possible that a person could be fed rectally? — H.

Yes. In rare situations nutrients (glucose, for example) can be introduced into the system rectally. It is practically never required and would be done only if other methods are impossible, as when intravenous feeding equipment is not available. The intravenous method is preferred because of better control of the fluids given and better absorption of them.

Do you often have a "stomach ache"? If so, your stomach may not be the real trouble spot. The booklet, "Stomach and Other Abdominal Pains: A Checklist," tells you why. For a copy, write to Dr. Ruble in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents.

Dear Dr. Ruble: How many tonsillectomies are done in a year? — Mrs. P.E.

About half as many as were done a decade ago. The figure for 1965 was 1,215,000. For 1976 it was 629,000, and dropping annually as doctors take second and third looks before routinely recommending removal. Most are done, of course, on children.

To learn of the many factors involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia (which concerns the esophagus), write to Dr. Ruble, in care of this newspaper, for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Several months ago some people came to my door to talk about their religion. I showed interest, and now they are returning weekly and pressuring me to join their group. How do I know if I should do this or not? — D.S.

DEAR D.S.: First, realize that your salvation does not depend merely on joining a group or denomination, or even accepting a certain set of ideas and doctrines. Salvation comes to us only as we accept Jesus Christ as our Lord and Savior.

You do not mention the group that has been pressuring you. Generally, however, such groups tend to be sects or cults which do not really accept Jesus Christ as the Son of God who died for our sins on the Cross and saves us by faith alone in Him. You need to be very careful about being led astray. If you have never studied the Bible for yourself, they may take advantage of your ignorance to distort it's true teachings. Their arguments may sound very persuasive when you have nothing with which to compare them.

Your letter indicates you have had very little religious background and are searching for God. But I want to tell you something very important — God loves you, and wants you to come to know Him in a personal way. He wants you to be forgiven of your sins and restored to a right relationship with Him. He wants you to know beyond doubt that you are saved and will some day go to be with Him in Heaven. You need nothing other than Christ, and you need nothing in addition to Christ.

Growth of small towns in Texas dramatic, census data reveals COLLEGE STATION — Once depicted as an endangered species, the small Texas town is now very much alive and well.

That's the latest finding of Dr. Robert Skrabanek, a demographer with the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A&M University.

"Only a short time ago the demise of the small towns of America was receiving much publicity," explains Skrabanek. "Terms such as declining, losing, decaying and dying were common attributes of small towns. It appeared the small town was losing its place in the American scene, an important way of American life was fast disappearing."

But Skrabanek says new census reports reveal a dramatic turn of events in the growth of small towns.

Two-thirds of all Texas towns with populations of 100 to 500 people lost residents between 1950 and 1960. This situation has now reversed, with the turnaround beginning sometime in the late 1960s.

Between 1970 and 1975, three-fourths of all Texas towns with 100 to 500 inhabitants recorded population increases. Of the 268 of this size, 194 had population gains. Only 74 had losses.

"Although the population growth was not as spectacular for places bigger than 500, but still small enough to be in the small-town category, impressive growth patterns were still recorded," noted the real estate researcher.

For example, 60 percent of the towns of 500 to 1,000 had gains in the 1950s. Between 1970 and 1975, 67 percent of towns in this category recorded gains. Also more towns of 1,000 to 3,000 increased in the first half of the 1970s than in the 1950s.

"Demographers in the 1950s used to say, as a rule of thumb, the smaller the place the more likely it would be to lose population. The larger the place, the greater the likelihood of population gains. This no longer holds true," explained Skrabanek.

In the first half of the 1970s, 72 percent of all towns with 100 to 500 had population increases, but only 69 percent of cities with 20,000 and 50,000 had population gains. Nine of Texas' 29 cities between 20,000 and 50,000 lost population between 1970 and 1975.

Akrabane attributes the repopulation of the small Texas town to several interrelated happenings.

"Given a choice, Americans always have had a clear preference for rural and small town living," he said. "The situation finally has swung to where more people can exercise their choice and have more control over where they live. For the first time in this century — perhaps the first time in the history of the republic — both rural areas and small towns are attracting more than just a few people from the cities."

Texas had 64 rural counties in 1970, counties not having a town as large as 2,500. Of these rural counties, 38 recorded population gains between 1970 and 1975, taking in 24,482 new residents. Although 26 rural counties recorded population losses during the same period, the total number they lost was only 4,130. This added up to a net increase in rural counties of over 20,000 in the five-year period.

Other reasons cited by Skrabanek for the growth of small towns and rural population are the spread of manufacturing to more remote areas and the migration of retirees to areas once inhabited mostly by farmers.

Not only is growth occurring in established towns, but more new towns are being created. The 1950 census listed 509 Texas towns with populations of 100 to 3,000. By 1960, this number had increased to 567 and stood at 727 by 1970. Some 130 areas became newly incorporated places between 1970 and 1975. All but three of these had populations of less than 3,000.

Additional air transportation

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Additional air transportation for West Texans is on the way if the Texas Aeronautics Commission approves a Permian Airways request.

The airlines asked the commission for permission to carry passengers and cargo between Midland, Odessa, Lubbock and Amarillo.

Hearings on Permian's request are scheduled for 8:30 a.m. April 11 in Austin.

Joint imprint deal disclosed

NEW YORK (AP) — William Morrow & Co., Inc., and Bantam Books, Inc., say they have established a joint imprint, Perigord Press.

They say it is for the purpose of acquiring simultaneously hardcover and paperback rights to works of fiction and non-fiction.

SUPERSTAR ARRIVES — Christopher Reeve, whose acting career went up, up, and away in his role as "Superman," escorts Gae Exton Thursday evening as the two arrive at Wembley Conference Center, in London, to attend the awards ceremony of the British Academy of Film and Television Arts. The awards were presented by the academy's patron, Britain's Princess Anne.

Names in the news

'Doonesbury' to speak out

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two Pulitzer Prize winners — playwright Tennessee Williams and cartoonist Garry Trudeau — have been given the stamp of approval as graduation speakers by seniors at Pennsylvania University.

Trudeau, who created the comic strip "Doonesbury," will address the baccalaureate ceremony May 20, while Williams will speak at commencement exercises May 21.

Williams was given Pulitzer prizes for "A Streetcar Named Desire" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," while Trudeau won his Pulitzer in the editorial category in 1975.

'Old' movies win awards

LONDON (AP) — Several movies made in the United States, some of which might already be slightly forgotten stateside, have won a new round of awards — these from the British Film and Television Academy.

Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, presented makers of "Julia" with the best film, best screenplay and best cinematography awards in ceremonies Thursday. Jane Fonda won the best actress title for her role as an anti-Nazi activist in a story based on author Lillian Hellman's life in pre-war Germany.

Geraldine Page was named best supporting actress for her performance in "Interiors."

Richard Dreyfuss was declared best actor for his performance in "The Goodbye Girl."

Actress pleads innocent

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Actress Linda Blair got a kiss from her former boyfriend before the couple entered federal court and entered pleas of innocent to charges of conspiracy to distribute cocaine.

The 20-year-old Miss Blair and Ted Hartlett, 21, of Stamford, Conn., met outside the courtroom before their arraignment Thursday. They were released in lieu of $5,000 bond each, pending trial tentatively set for May 21.

Jerusalem bomb blast injures at least 15

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A bomb exploded today near a downtown Jerusalem taxi stand, shooting sharpnel through the line of waiting passengers and wounding 15 persons, one seriously, authorities said.

Israel Radio said the bomb was hidden in a trash can near the corner of Jaffa Road and Luntz Street, in the heart of Jewish Jerusalem and close to Zion Square, scene of terrorist bombings in the past, the radio reported.

The victims were standing in line for inter-city taxis to Tel Aviv, the radio said.

"We heard an explosion ... suddenly everything was very black," one witness told the state radio. "It was a very powerful explosion ... everything was full of dust. The police came right away."

Police reported a clothing store and a pizza stand were damaged.

Talk Time

Communication . . . that's the name of the game. As long as you keep the channels open, you are in business. People don't get divorces when they can sit across a breakfast table and smile at each other, sharing coffee and conversation. People seldom get fired when they can express themselves, make their ideas known, say what they think.

And there's another kind of communication. The kind you find in church . . . with your pastor . . . with the other people in the congregation . . . but, most of all, with God.

Don't miss out.

DAZZLING MISS DIAMOND BACK HOPEFULS — These 12 young ladies were selected by the Snyder Jaycee officers out of 26 contestants as finalists in the Miss Diamondback contest. They are, left to right, Tammy Burgess, Kim Deel, Lisa Griffice, Julie Poyner, Ronna Tyler, Valeri Meeks, Tracy Dykes, Juli Britton, Susan McMurray, Cay Luedecke, Leanna Tolle and Carol Morehead. One of these finalists will be crowned at the close of the Rattlesnake Roundup on March 25.

Miss Diamondback contestants narrowed down to 12 finalists

By ROBBIE CROW

Twelve young ladies were extremely happy March 23 when Maria Faulkner, Miss Diamondback contest coordinator, notified them that they had been chosen to represent the Rattlesnake Roundup as finalists for the annual pageant.

Selected by officers of the Snyder Jaycees included Tammy Burgess, Kim Deel, Lisa Griffice, Julie Poyner, Ronna Tyler, Valeri Meeks, Tracy Dykes, Juli Britton, Susan McMurray, Cay Luedecke, Leanna Tolle and Carol Morehead.

Although all finalists have that important touch of beauty, each is equally equipped with various talents and interests.

Tammy Burgess, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerald Burgess is a 16-year-old junior at Big Spring High School. As an active member of the Office Education Association, Miss Burgess was an area finalist in OEA competition. She enjoys horseback riding, baseball, volleyball and track.

Sixteen-year-old Kim Mrs. Roy Deel is included in the Key Club and Office Education Association at Big Spring High School. Her specialties include Aerobic dancing and twirling.

Finalist Lisa Griffice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.W. Griffice. As a 16-year-old junior at Big Spring High, she is active in Tri-Hi-Y and enjoys playing the piano, dancing (tap, ballet and disco), as well as tennis.

Another finalist chosen by the Snyder Jaycee officers was Julie Poyner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Poyner. Miss Poyner is a 17-year-old junior at Forsan High School, head cheerleader, basketball forward and student council member. Horseback riding, church, and fashion merchandising are included in her list of hobbies.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tyler, is in the 11th grade at Coahoma High School. Involved in basketball, track and cheerleading, this contest finalist races motorcycles, jogs and plays the guitar.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Meeks, Valeri is a 17-year-old junior at Big Spring High. Actively involved in the French Club, FHA and the Goldiggers, she enjoys dancing, reading and all outdoor sports.

Finalist Tracy Dykes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dykes is a sophomore at Coahoma High School. This 16-year-old finalist is a member of the basketball team, Flag Corp, FHA, and track. Her hobbies include basketball, motorcycles, sewing, and running.

Juli Britton, Big Spring High School senior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Britton. She is actively involved in DECA, student council and FHA. She enjoys all outdoor sports, dancing, working with children and meeting new friends.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. McMurray, Susan is a senior at Big Spring High School. This 17-year-old is active on the tennis team and involved in the French Club. Her other interests include Tri-Hi-Y, motorcycles, water skiing, surfing and observing people.

A member of the Big Spring High School Meistersingers, Tri-Hi-Y and French Club, Miss Diamondback finalist Cay Luedecke is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.L. Luedecke. In addition to being a 16-year-old high school junior, she is a member of her church choir, a Big Spring State Hospital volunteer and she enjoys all athletic sports.

Leanna Tolle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Tolle, is presently the photographer for the Big Spring High School newspaper and yearbook. This junior enjoys swimming photography, and meeting people.

Carol Morehead, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Morehead, is in her final year at Big Spring High School. Involved in HECE, student council and the honor society, this 17-year-old senior enjoys sewing and swimming.

As each of these contestants vie for the Miss Diamondback title, they will be on hand at the Rattlesnake Roundup to greet the public.

A dance will be held in their honor Saturday night and the public is invited to attend.

Anxiety now fills each contestant, but only one will be chosen at the close of the roundup March 25 to reign as 1979 Miss Diamondback.

Worthy Matron presides

Big Spring Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, met at the Masonic Temple, Tuesday evening, with the Worthy Matron Candy Andrews presiding.

Members voted to be 100 percent in welfare to grand Chapter.

Disinterested guy should be dropped

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Dr. Wallace: Last year I met a guy and we got to know each other real well. I really thought we had something going. Suddenly one day he packed up and left for Pueblo, Colo. Naturally, I was terribly hurt and upset.

About a week ago he came back to New Hampshire and I still have that "feeling" for him but now he doesn't want anything to do with me. Help! — Millie, Nashua, N.H.

Millie: Actually, I think you are fortunate that you know how you stand with this guy. He could have strung you along.

The worst thing that you can do is to chase this guy the best thing would be to find another guy.

Dr. Wallace: A couple of my girlfriends and I went to a pizza parlor after a basketball game. When we sat down a group of guys came over to our table and started talking to us.

When we were leaving, one of the cutest boys (Bill) said he would call me. I told him that I can't date until I'm 16 (I'm 15 years and 11 months old). With that, he said "Well maybe I'll see you around."

Several guys have been waiting until I turn 16 to take me out. My question is, should I go back to the pizza parlor in a month and if I see this boy again, tell him I'm available? — Genell, Galesburg, Ill.

Genell: Why not! But when you start dating these "other guys" enjoy yourself and don't be thinking of Bill. Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TwEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What Every Boy Shouldn't Know

DEAR ABBY: I've been divorced three years and have a 15-year-old son who lives with me. For the last eight months I have been dating a man I care a great deal for, but we are not engaged. (I'll call him Bob.)

When my son visits his father, which is nearly every weekend, Bob sleeps over, but I never let him sleep with me when my son is home.

This has caused some serious arguments between us. Bob insists that it wouldn't make any difference to my son if we slept together while he was home. I think it would, and I'm not about to ask him.

Do you think I'm being "deceitful and phony" to stick to my decision? My friend says I am.

How do other women in my position handle this?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: I think your behavior can be more appropriately described as "discreet" than deceitful and phony. Stick to your decision.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you've heard of Peeping Toms, but I'll bet you've never heard of Peeping Tina.

Tina is my wife, and she's got this thing about looking at naked men. We have a view of a large apartment building from our bedroom window, and Tina gets a kick out of looking at men in various stages of undress. While I'm watching TV she stands in the dark bedroom hoping to get a glimpse of a naked guy. She knows what time certain neighbors undress for bed and who pulls down the shades and who doesn't, and that's her entertainment.

Now I'm not a prude, and I've never denied Tina a good look at me in my birthday suit, so I can't understand why she's so fascinated with naked men. Is something wrong with her? She's 35 and I'm 37.

PUZZLED IN MANHATTAN

DEAR PUZZLED: If Tina's preoccupation with naked men is sudden, maybe something is wrong with her. Such curiosity is considered normal in adolescent children, but at 35 your wife should have outgrown it. She's too young to be considered a dirty old lady, but don't laugh it off. Talk it out. It's obviously sexual. Maybe Tina's missing something.

DEAR ABBY: I know a widow in her 70s who is quite remarkable. (I'll call her Aunt Libby.) Circumstances are such that this lady has had to make her home with her daughter for the last 12 years. Aunt Libby is active, cheerful and a joy to be with. Best of all, she knows how to keep from being in the way.

Aunt Libby makes herself available to stay in the homes of parents who want a responsible adult there for a weekend or longer.

She does this not so much for the money (which she can use, of course) but she likes to get out of her daughter's home for a while. I have even known her to spend her own money to go to a motel for a few days—saying she needs HER privacy, when it is really her wish to give her daughter's family THEIR privacy.

What do you think of a woman like that?

IDAHO READER

DEAR READER: I think she deserves to be nominated for mother of the year.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (25 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Founder's Day

plans discussed

The home of Susan Joslin was the site of the Tuesday evening meeting and salad supper of Alpha Beta Omicron.

Members discussed plans for Founder's Day and new officers were elected including Debra Wilson, president; Mrs. Joslin, vice president; Theronne Baker, secretary; Betty Kelley, treasurer; and Charissa Meyers, corresponding secretary.

Nominated to represent the sorority on the City Council were Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Meyers and Mrs. Baker.

Plans were made for the upcoming rush brunch. Fifteen rushes are expected to attend.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Meyers.

Sunday at East Fourth Baptist

Film features Corrie ten Boom

A new color motion picture honoring the life of Corrie ten Boom will be presented at East Fourth St. Baptist Church, 401 E. 4th St. Entitled "Corrie: The Lives She's Touched," the film produced by World Wide Pictures, will be shown Sunday beginning at 6 p.m.

Filmed in Denver before a live audience of more than 2,000 persons gathered to pay tribute to Corrie's ministry of love and compassion, the motion picture shares in greater detail the events that have taken place in her life. During World II, Corrie and her family, residents of Haarlem, Holland, became involved in the Dutch Underground following the invasion of their homeland by Hitler's Nazi forces. They are credited with saving the lives of scores of Jews, by hiding them in a secret room in their home, and by arranging safe passage out of the country.

For their effort the ten Boom Family was arrested in a surprise raid, and sent to prison. Corrie was sent to Ravensbrück Concentration Camp, and is the lone survivor of the immediate family.

Corrie's story has been shared with millions around the world through the book and motion picture, "The Hiding Place." A 1975 World Wide Pictures release, "The Hiding Place" has been dubbed into several foreign languages, and has been well received in England, Holland, and West Germany, as well as throughout the Far East. "Corrie: The Lives She's Touched," is hosted by Cliff Barrows of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Team, and features a number of surprise guests from Corrie's past, including her nephew, Peter van Woerden, who, as a youth, was also involved in the work of the Underground, and Diet Ehrlich, who was in the concentration camp with Corrie.

Other guests on the program included Jeannette Clift, the actress who portrayed Corrie in "The Hiding Place," and Tom Claus, an American Indian Chief who inducted Corrie into his tribe as an honorary member.

Music is featured throughout the one-hour program by Evie Tornquist, George Beverly Shea, the Bill Gaither Trio, and by Tedd Smith, pianist and composer of the film score for "The Hiding Place."

According to the Reverend Guy A. White, pastor of East Fourth St. Baptist Church, the showing is free and open to the public.

Attendance due to invitations

TOKYO (AP) — A study by four Japanese Lutheran bodies and the Lutheran World Federation finds that by far the most often cited immediate cause of a person's attending a church is a "personal invitation."

About 52 percent of the newcomers to church services cited that reason, with the next most important reasons in this order:

Baptists set track meet

The Big Spring Baptist Association's Annual Track and Field Meet gets underway again this year March 31 at 10 a.m. at Memorial Stadium. Field events begin at 10 a.m. with track events at 12:30 p.m.

Competition includes both boys and girls in grades four through 12. Winners are eligible for the state meet April 13 and 14 in Waco.

Medals and ribbons for the first three places will be awarded. The ribbons will go only to relay winners.

Thirty churches are in the association but not all of them will participate in the meet. Those interested may call Byron Smith, meet director, at 263-6472.

As part of the Lenten Season, a Catholic Mission (revival) will be conducted at Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church, 1009 Hearn by Rev. Joseph Cain of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Odessa.

The services will begin Saturday at 5:30 p.m. Mass, and continue at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday through Thursday night.

Father Cain was born in Montana in 1918. He received his early education in Minnesota, then entered the seminary in Hastings, Neb. In 1938, he joined the Canons Regular of the Order of the Holy Cross (Crosier Fathers) doing his postgraduate work at National University of Mexico and at the University of Notre Dame.

Since earning his masters in Spanish literature, Father Cain has had experience as a teacher, director of spiritual training for new members of his community and also as a pastor. He has conducted retreats and parish missions in the U.S. and Canada.

Sermon topics for the mission will include God's love, renewal of baptismal vows, sacraments of reconciliation, Confirmation and Eucharist.

A Farthing's Worth
NON-DENOMINATIONAL

When one reads of the "church" in the New Testament, it is very apparent that it was not made up of many denominations. The church of the New Testament was simply "the saved." Each individual Christian had his own personality, and so did each congregation of Christians. Not every Christian understood all the teachings of Christ and His Apostles perfectly, so there were, of course, differences, even in doctrinal matters. These differences were not ignored, because they were potential church-splitters, but neither were they allowed to set one Christian against another to the extent that neither considered the other a "true Christian." Regardless of our efforts to emphasize the "brotherhood of all Christians," one denomination tends to look upon another as somewhat "less genuine." I ashamedly speak from experience.

In spite of numerous differences, in both methodology and doctrine, the Christians we read about in the New Testament shared two common denominations: (1) Their belief that Jesus of Nazareth was the only begotten Son of God and their Lord and Savior; (2) Their new birth into Christ through faith expressed in obeying the gospel.

We are not the only "true Christians" in Big Spring. In fact, we are far from perfect. But we desire to be Christians only, not "Christian Church" Christians, nor any other "brand." If this is what you're looking for, give me a call or visit us this Sunday.

Minister to Japan speaks to Presbyterians Sunday

A Presbyterian minister who has spent the last 25 years in Japan and Taiwan will speak at First Presbyterian Church Sunday night.

R. Donnell McCall, a missionary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States since 1952, will speak following a covered-dish supper at the church.

The public is invited to join members of the church in the chapel, located at the corner of Seventh and Runnels Streets, at 7:00.

The visiting missionary is on furlough from Taiwan where he serves as an itinerating pastor to mountain people and churches on the east coast of that island nation. He has

Methodist evangelistic services scheduled

Dr. Dan Solomon will conduct evangelistic services at First United Methodist Church, 4th & Scurry, Sunday through Wednesday. Services will be at 7 p.m. Sunday evening and at 7:30 p.m. on weekday evenings. Noon services will also be held each weekday with a snack lunch available at the church before and after the service.

Solomon is the pastor of Travis Park First United Methodist Church in San Antonio, Texas. Dr. Solomon is a native of West Texas, having been born in Matador and reared on a farm near Tulsa. He is a graduate of Tulsa High School, and holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree from McMurry College in Abilene. He received his Masters of Theology Degree from Perkins School of Theology, S.M.U., and the Doctor of Ministry Degree at United Theological Seminary, Dayton, Ohio.

Dr. Solomon has pastored at St. Stephens United Methodist Church in Amarillo, St. Johns United Methodist in Corpus Christi and others.

Award-winning film set for Sunday at Crestview

"Though I Walk Through the Valley," an award winning motion picture, will be shown at Crestview Baptist Church, Gatesville St., at 6 p.m. Sunday.

The film is the winner of the Cine Golden Eagle, a Silver Medal at the Atlanta International Film Festival and first place in The National Council on Family Relations Film Festival. It portrays the last six months of the life of college professor Tony Brouwer. Brouwer and his family face issues and questions in the film that are new to them as death confronts life and is the loser. It was filmed to show the warm tenderness a Christian father has for the family he must leave behind and the strength of character of his wife and daughters. The title is taken from a verse of Psalms 23, "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death."

The film was produced by Mel White and released through Gospel Films, Inc. of Muskegon, Mich.

On-again-off-again Davis divorce trial on again

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The on-again-off-again divorce trial of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis appears to be on again, but the presiding judge is still not sure where.

State District Judge John Barron said the trial will resume "whenever I get ready. But I'm going to be reasonable about it. I'm not going to play cry baby. I'll listen to reason. I feel like even if I'm embarrassed by going back to Fort Worth, I'll just have to do it."

Barron, a visiting judge from Bryan, threatened Wednesday to withdraw from the case and declare a mistrial after assistant District Attorney Jack Strickland presented him with a subpoena and seized the divorce trial records for presentation to a grand jury.

However, the judge reconsidered Thursday after reflecting in the comfort of his home in Bryan.

"They (the attorneys for both sides) have asked me to come back," Barron told the Associated Press Thursday. "I think I will. We will resume Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. I've got to go rabbit hunting you know."

"I'd rather have it here in Bryan. I wouldn't want to subject myself to that district attorney again."

Tarrant County District Attorney Tim Curry said Thursday he would seek a review by the Judicial Conduct Commission of what he termed "inappropriate conduct" by Barron, who accused one of Curry's assistants of disrupting the lengthy Cullen Davis divorce trial.

"Why Judge Barron chose to make those allegations is beyond me," Curry told KRLD radio in Dallas. "I don't propose to let it rest at this point. I intend to take the matter up with the Judicial Conduct Commission in Austin."

Curry's statement drew another double-barreled response from the fiery, rabbit-hunting jurist, still fuming over the actions of what he called a "worn-out fool prosecutor."

"I'd be glad for him to do that," Barron retorted. "He hasn't got an ounce of a leg to stand on. You let him try that and I'll show you how to tear down a DA."

"Who do you think will win, a district judge or a district attorney?" Barron quipped. Barron did not appear in court Thursday at 9 a.m., when the divorce trial was to resume. He left his Fort Worth hotel Thursday morning and returned to Bryan.

"I looked at my watch at 9 a.m. and I said 'ooh, someone is cussin' at me now.' I knew they were wondering where I was in that courtroom," Barron said.

Prosecutors Strickland

and John Bankston appeared in Barron's chambers about 1 p.m. Wednesday with a grand jury subpoena for all the records of the divorce trial.

Congressional comment

Up in the air about FAA

By CHARLES W. STENHOLM

17th District, Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Political observers have often commented on how government bureaucracies over-react to a crisis. The pendulum swings from one side to the other without stopping at the more moderate middle course. Such was the case when the FAA reacted to the tragic San Diego airplane crash involving a 727 jet and a Skyhawk private aircraft.

After years of complacency regarding air traffic safety, the FAA on Jan. 4 proposed some very restrictive "Controlled Visual Flight" rules. These provisions will put a great burden on people who use general aviation. The program is supposedly designed to reduce the likelihood of a midair collision. These rules will reduce the area (PCA) from 18,000 feet to 10,000 feet east of the Mississippi River and over a portion of the state of California, and 12,500 feet west of the Mississippi River and over the remaining portion of California.

These proposals include lowering the "floor" of the continental positive control

In additionn the FAA proposes to raise the "ceilings" of 21 terminal control areas (TCAs) to the lowered PCA "floor." Further, the FAA intends to establish 44 new Group II TCAs and 80 new Terminal Radar Service Areas (TRSAs).

Certainly I am greatly concerned about air safety, but it is doubtful whether these rules will reduce the possibility of midair collisions. The FAA purposes to extend new control over an enormous amount of air space, but the control will only reach the area in which fewer than 11.3 percent of the reported near midair collisions occurred. Safety might even be adversely affected at the outer and lower boundaries of new "controlled" air space because of a forced concentration of traffic there.

The personnel costs associated with providing the upgraded terminal services are estimated at about $11 million for the first year with equipment costs estimated at $43 million.

Projections of the number of crew employees necessary to implement the plan have run as high as 3,000.

Activity directors' course offered at HC

Recently adopted regulations of the Texas Department of Human Resources require that nursing home activity directors who do not possess specified professional credentials and work experience must complete a "state-approved and certified course of instruction in place of activities."

The Adult and Continuing Education Department of Howard College in Big Spring will offer the state-approved Nursing Home Activity Directors Course in the San Angelo area.

The course will begin April 2 and conclude June 11. There will not be a class meeting on Monday, May 28, in observance of Memorial Day. The class will be held on Monday and Thursday nights from 6-10 p.m. It will be held in one of the conference rooms located in the Cactus Hotel of San Angelo which has been graciously offered as a meeting facility by Baptist Memorial Hospital. The cost of the course will be $80.

James L. Gonterman, A.C.S.W., will be the coordinator of the 10-week course. Mr. Gonterman lives in San Angelo where he is presently serving as the Director of the Mental Health Services, Mental Health Mental Retardation Center for Greater West Texas. Gonterman has a private practice and also consults for a local nursing home.

Gonterman will have assistance from Mrs. Marguerite Gailey who is employed as the personnel director of the Baptist Memorial Nursing Home. Mrs. Gailey has numerous job experiences that will help in the delivery of the course objectives.

Interested students will register the first night of class and the registration fee will be required at that time. Persons interested in this course may obtain further information by calling the Adult and Continuing Education office of Howard College at area code 915-267-6311, ext. 70.

On the light side

The job was waiting

MOUNT VERNON, Ind. (AP) — Roy Nation Jr. walked into the Posey County Jail this week to apply for work. He got it, although the pay may be a little lower and the working conditions slightly more restrictive than he had in mind.

"He came in to apply for a job as ambulance driver," Sheriff Carl Dick said Thursday. "And we just invited him right in the door and arrested him."

Dick said Nation, 20, was wanted on a May 1978 warrant for burglary.

Don't fight city hall here

SPRINGLAKE PARK, Okla. (AP) — Nobody opposed city hall, so there wasn't a need for an election in this township this year.

The buildings in the 100-acre incorporated area consist of such things as a merry-go-round, roller coaster and similar trappings of an amusement park because that is what the town is.

Although owned by Dale T. Thomas and his son, it is incorporated and therefore must have a municipal board of trustees. Thomas and his two sons filed for re-election to the board, and none of the 28 employees or their families who live in the park chose to oppose them.

Buried in the ad blitz

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — City officials are launching a half-million dollar advertising blitz to get people interested in visiting here, but they forgot one thing — taking care of the flood of mail asking for more information.

"I think we'll need three additional people just to handle the mail," said marketing director Edward N. Gilbert. "But the money is only supposed to go for advertising and brochures."

"We're going to need more people and more money for postage, and I don't know where we're going to get it," Gilbert said.

The ads, in Better Homes and Gardens, Woman's Day and Newsweek magazines and the New York Times, will extol the pleasures of Philadelphia and invite readers to write the Convention and Visitors Bureau for more information.

The campaign is expected to cost $525,000 — an elevenfold increase over last year's tourist recruitment effort. Gilbert has estimated the bureau will receive between 65,000 and 80,000 inquiries this year, up from the 20,000 inquiries last year.

HIGH DRAMA — One window washer hangs from his safety rope at the fifth floor of a Washington building Thursday while his partner rests on top of their scaffolding at the ninth floor, upper right. After one of the cables holding the scaffolding broke loose. The men were both rescued moments later with minor injuries.

PULLED TO SAFETY — Rescue workers pull a window washer to safety atop a Washington building Thursday after one of the cables on his window washing scaffold broke leaving the man stuck from the end of his safety rope at the ninth floor. The man's partner was rescued by long ladder after his safety rope caught him at the fifth floor level of the building.

Health insurance battle heats up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his coalition of labor and interest groups pushing for national health insurance have rejected President Carter's limited approach and are proceeding with plans to introduce their own comprehensive bill next month.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, who Wednesday had begged off a White House invitation to discuss the plan with Carter, said the proposal announced Thursday "for all practical purposes abandons the president's commitment" to a comprehensive health plan.

And two senior citizens' groups active in the coalition had similarly sharp words for the "phase one" plan unveiled by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.

The National Council of Senior Citizens called Califano "a cheap huckster of piecemeal health insurance," and the American Association of Retired Persons said the secretary's "sketchy outline of the administration's unformulated national health plan leaves much to the imagination and little hope for prompt action."

Kennedy, who has battled unsuccessfully for national health insurance for nearly a decade, expressed "serious disappointment" with the president's decision to seek only limited expansion of existing programs this year. "I couldn't support this program," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

While "phase one" would cost $10 billion to $15 billion beginning in fiscal 1983, Kennedy said it fails to deal adequately with rising health care costs and therefore would be more wasteful than the present system.

The Carter administration's first-step proposal is geared to protecting all Americans against catastrophic health costs and expanding some benefits for the aged and the poor.

Asked in an interview with CBS News today to comment on the strong negative reaction from traditional proponents of national health insurance, Califano said: "It's not fair to the American people to promise more than the Congress will act on."

White House officials said many details of the plan still have to be worked out and Califano said implementation of even the limited plan is contingent on enactment of effective hospital cost control legislation.

Califano insisted that "the president remains committed to the goal of providing every American with coverage for basic health services" and said he would outline a comprehensive national health plan in a message to Congress in a few months.

But he said specific legislation will be limited to a first phase which he said was all Congress would accept now and the most the country can afford now.

Free at last from Peking prison

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — His mother's tears and kisses showered down on the balding head of Roman Ebbel, sick and confined to a wheelchair after 26 years in a Peking prison.

"At least I am free, I can speak, I can breathe," the exhausted Ebbel said Thursday on his arrival at San Francisco International Airport. He had not seen his mother in 40 years.

"Of 26 years, 19 years was in a single cell," he said, insisting that it is still a mystery to him why he was jailed.

A nurse wheeled him from the plane after a 12-hour flight that began in Hong Kong. As his sister bowed her head a few feet away, Ebbel's 86-year-old mother, Lydia Sokoloff, put her hands behind his neck and kissed him in the crowded airport corridor.

"He says he feels all right, but he is very weak," said his sister, Valerie Duffy. "He hadn't slept for three days."

Ebbel, 65, was a businessman in the Chinese port city of Shanghai when he was arrested without warning in 1952. He says he never learned his crime.

"They thought he was an American spy or something like that," said Mrs. Duffy, who received one censored letter from him each month thereafter.

American Red Cross officials worked on his case for more than a decade, learning nothing of Ebbel's arrest or the conditions of his imprisonment in Peking.

The State Department and Red Cross organizations in Hong Kong and China became involved. On Jan. 22, Chinese authorities telegraphed Mrs. Duffy that her brother could cross the border into Hong Kong.

"They brought me the telegram at my (San Francisco) office," she recalled. "I couldn't believe it."

Four days later, Ebbel was freed. For two months, he was hospitalized in Hong Kong for an undiagnosed ailment — possibly pneumonia — that has left him weak and unable to walk.

The Red Cross does not think the thaw in U.S.-Chinese relations played a role in Ebbel's release. But they aren't sure.

"It just took time to establish the contacts," said Bob Vainowski, a local Red Cross official.

Ebbel was born in Manchuria in northeast China of a Polish father and his Russian-born mother. Later, his sister said, he founded a profitable import-export business in Shanghai and did business with U.S. shippers.

The family was last together in 1939. His sister and mother were in Japan when World War II broke out, and Ebbel and his father were never reunited with them. Ebbel's father died in 1942, Mrs. Duffy said.

Withey sentenced on burglary rap

Bruce Withey, 22, Big Spring Courts Apt. 17, entered a guilty plea in 118th District Court Thursday to a charge of burglary of a habitation. He received a six-year sentence in state prison.

The burglary occurred Aug. 26 at the residence of Gennie Clark. Items valued at $206 were stolen including a TV, camera, cassette players and assorted foods.

Withey was arrested the same day of the plea, according to Howard County Sheriff's Office records.

Norton a 2-1 pick over Shavers

Holmes heavily favored to defeat upstart Ocasio

LAS VEGAS (AP) — "Good luck," said Ocasio. "You need it," replied Larry Holmes. "Me no Jimmy Young."

Most people agree with Holmes, who is an overwhelming favorite to successfully defend his World Boxing Council heavyweight championship tonight against Ocasio, who will be trying for the big prize in only his 14th fight.

His last two fights, decision victories over the highly regarded Young, earned Ocasio the WBC's No. 3 ranking and his title shot.

The Puerto Rican's big chance will take place at the Las Vegas Hilton Pavilion, the site of Leon Spinks' stunning upset of Muhammad Ali Feb. 15, 1978. Spinks won the title in only his eighth pro fight, but he had many amateur bouts and won an Olympic gold medal. The 23-year-old Ocasio had only three or four amateur fights.

Before Holmes makes his second defense of the title he won on a split decision from Ken Norton here last June 9, Norton will meet Earnie Shavers in a 12-round bout, with the winner to fight Holmes in September should Holmes "break jaws" as he promises. Ocasio's nickname is "Jaws."

Both fights will be televised live by ABC, with the Norton-Shavers bout to begin at approximately 5:45 p.m. PST.

Holmes has a big physical advantage over Ocasio. He weighed in Thursday at 214 pounds, giving him a seven-pound advantage over the challenger, and at 6-foot-3 he has a 3 1/2-inch height advantage and an important four-inch edge in reach.

But the biggest advantage the 29-year-old Holmes enjoys is in experience.

Ocasio is getting $250,000 while Holmes is earning $1.2 million.

Norton, 33, is getting $750,000 and the 34-year-old Shavers $250,000 for what could be their last shot at getting another title chance.

Norton is rated a 2-1 favorite to win the fight, which most observers felt would not go the distance.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, MARCH 23, 1979

DePaul's Meyer emphasizes talent before coaching

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — There's very little new in basketball as far as strategy and tactics are concerned.

"It all runs in cycles," insists a man who has been coaching it effectively for 37 years. But the men who play it — that's something else.

"Twenty and 30 years ago games were won with coaching," says DePaul's venerable Ray Meyer. "Now it's won with the talent."

The change is phenomenal. When I started you could win a game with mediocre material. Not any more. Now you win with talent. You have to meet bigness with bigness and quickness with quickness.

"Just as you can't have a circus without animals, so you can't have a winning team without not just good but superb athletes. Sometimes I take out some old films and show them to my kids. They go into hysterics. It's like watching an 'Our Gang' comedy."

Meyer, a pleasant, fatherly man whose career overlapped that of such coaching immortals as Phog Allen, Adolph Rupp and Clair Bee, has added a comfortable, home-spun touch to the NCAA basketball showdown scheduled here, starting Saturday.

His DePaul team from Chicago will play top-ranked Indiana State, with the formidable Larry Bird, in one semifinal match Saturday, with Michigan State and Pennsylvania clashing in the other. The title game is slated Monday night.

The very presence of Meyer has made DePaul the sentimental favorite. He is a fresh, wholesome personality who has captivated fans and the press with his infectious friendliness and enthusiasm.

His endurance and patience have been amazing. "Basketball is my life," he told one interviewer. "As soon as the season ends, I will start my recruiting program, then I have a camp and, after that, it will be time to start up again. I love it."

Does Meyer have a hobby? "I gave my golf clubs to my son-in-law and threw away my fishing gear," he said. "No, just basketball — that's it."

Meyer gets involved on the sidelines during an intense game — but with his players, not the officials.

"I have had three technicals in 37 years," he said proudly.

The coach said he realized his problem Saturday is devising an antidote for Bird, rated the best college player in years.

"Bird has great vision and great hands," he added. "He has instincts like a caged animal. It's impossible to stop him. So we'll let him get his points and try to stop everybody else."

DEPAUL COACH RAY MEYER — One of the most respected men in the college ranks during his 37-year stay at DePaul, Meyer and the Blue Demons will try to upset the unbeaten Indiana State Sycamores tomorrow in the semifinals of the NCAA Tournament.

ABC Relays boasts top area competition

The annual ABC Relays Track and Field Meet will get underway tomorrow morning at 10:00 in Memorial Stadium. There will be a boys and a girls division in the one-day event.

There will be six teams in the boy's competition. Besides host BSHS, there will also be Sweetwater, Lubbock, Lubbock Monterey, Amarillo and Amarillo Palo Duro.

The girl's competition will consist of 12 teams. Besides Big Spring, there will also be Odessa Ector, Abilene Cooper, San Angelo, Sweetwater, El Paso Austin, El Paso Coronado, Lubbock High, Lubbock Dunbar, Lubbock Monterey, Midland and Abilene.

The running preliminaries will begin at 10:00, with the running finals slated to begin at 1:45.

The field events will be coordinated in two time slots. The first group will start at 10:00, with other field events marked to begin at 12:00.

Big Spring, Odessa Ector and San Angelo are expected to battle for the crown in the girl's competition. Of the 14 events, nine boast at least the best time in West Texas.

If there is a favorite, it has to be Ector. Ector has best effort in West Texas in seven events. More importantly, the Eagle feds have the best times of any school in West Texas in the relay races, which are scored double. Big Spring, however, is second in the West Texas region in two of the relays and could very easily win. The two schools have not met this year.

Ector also has a definite advantage in the weight events. The duo of Connie Burditt and Woodie Wilson have considerably better throws than any others in the meet. The Eagles will also have the top two triple jumpers with leaps so far in Natalie Carter and Linda Hayes.

Big Spring and San Angelo have produced the outstanding times in District 5-AAAA so far. They have previously battled in Lamesa, with the Steer feds taking a slight victory.

Big Spring's Carla Jackson in the 100 and the long jump, and Doris Mitchell in the 220 have the best times of anyone this year in the meet. BSHS's Lynn Ivey also has one of the best heaves in the shot put competition.

San Angelo can boast the top two people in the 80-yard high hurdles competition in Terri Hess and Kathy Hensley. The Bobcats should also be strong in the discus and triple jump.

If there is a favorite in the men's division, it will probably be the host Steers.

Big Spring boasts Robert

Evans in the 100, Joe Willie Jones in the 440, and Dirk Davis in both the 880 and mile run.

Evans has a 10.1 in the 100, while Jones has a 50.9 in the 440. Davis has run times of 2:00.1 in the 880 and 4:32 in the mile. The Steers mile relay team of Robert Evans, John McCloud, Eugene Boadle and Jones, and 440 relay quarter of same people should give the Bovines an outstanding chance at the crown.

San Angelo's Jack Fannon, son of Bobcat head track coach Ken Fannon, is expected to battle Jones in the 440, while teammate Scott Leverette is the favorite in the high jump and the 330 intermediate hurdles.

Both Amarillo High and Amarillo Palo Duro should also contend for the crown.

Palo Duro has two outstanding individuals in Earl Oates and Scott Loftis. Oates has run a 39.7 and Loftis has shot the put 58'1" and thrown the discus 157'3."

Sweetwater's Lowell Williams is the favorite in the discus, however, with the versatile Leverette also boasting the best time in the 120 hurdles.

The meets final event will be the mile relay, beginning at 4:25, followed by presentation of awards. In all, there will be 160 trophies presented throughout the day.

Steers host Midland tomorrow

The Big Spring Steers will be searching for their first district win of the 1979 campaign tomorrow in Steer Park at 2:00 when they play host to the Midland Bulldogs.

Midland opened with a win over Odessa Permian to take a four-way lead with Abilene, Cooper and Midland Lee for the district lead. Big Spring dropped a 5-1 decision to Abilene in the loop opener.

Big Spring, which sports a season record of 6-5, will probably start Larry Smith on the mound. Others likely to draw starting assignments include Ysa Rubio at first, Tony Rubio at second, Kevin McLaughlin at shortstop, Rusty Hayworth at third, Mark Warren in left, Mike Evans in center, and David Manley in right.

Downplays pressure

Cunningham resigns at UCLA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gary Cunningham said pressure to win didn't cause him to resign as UCLA's basketball coach and Chancellor Charles Young claimed stories of undue pressure were "complete distortions."

In a surprise move, Cunningham quit after two years and a 50-8 record because he "wanted a different lifestyle" including more time with his family.

Cunningham and his wife have two young daughters and the 39-year-old coach said he had only five weekends free for his family the past year.

Cunningham succeeded Gene Bartow, who in turn had succeeded the legendary John Wooden — whose clubs brought 10 national championships to UCLA. After two years, Bartow said the pressures were too great.

"Pressure? It depends on the individual," commented Cunningham, who had been Wooden's chief assistant for four years prior to the latter's retirement in 1975.

At that time, Cunningham did not seek the job but later, said he missed coaching and applied when Bartow quit.

"I have not felt pressure on winning at UCLA," said Cunningham, whose clubs went to the NCAA playoffs each year after winning conference titles. "I never felt this was a high pressure job. I had the support of the people that count."

As Cunningham looked forward to an undisclosed administrative position with the school and UCLA sought a new coach, Chancellor Young told newsmen:

"I think our UCLA athletic program is the finest in the United States. You don't have a program like that without concern for winning, in perspective."

"I think recent comments on pressures at UCLA are a complete distortion of the facts. Fans, alumni, sports writers and others don't run the department. We do."

BEST WIN SHE EVER HAD — Tracy Austin wears a smile for the crowd and photographers after defeating Chris Evert, 6-3, 6-1 in second round Avon tennis tournament action at Madison Square Garden Thursday night. The 16-year-old Miss Austin said, "It probably was the best win I've ever had," after her victory over the most dominant female player of the last five years.

Nicklaus shows old form

Zarley takes TPC lead

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — It was with a definite sense of relief that Jack Nicklaus said:

"That's got to help. I don't know what I'll do tomorrow,

but that's got to help a lot."

Golf's greatest performer, off to probably the slowest start of his unmatched career, had just fired a 5-under-par 67 — his best round of the year and his first under-par effort in three weeks.

"I knew it would happen. I just didn't know when. I was getting sick and tired of explaining why I was playing poorly," said the obviously pleased Nicklaus, the defending champion in the $440,000 Tournament Players Championship. "I'm delighted to be back."

He was tied for second behind Kermit Zarley, who took advantage of ideal playing conditions to rip tough Sawgrass with a course-record matching 66 and establish the first-round lead Thursday.

Sharing second with Nicklaus at 67 were U.S. Open champ Andy North and Lanny Wadkins, winner of the Los Angeles Open earlier this year.

Gil Morgan, Ron Streck, Canadian Jim Nelford and veteran Don January were at 68. And there were a dozen players at 69 — in sharp contrast to the scores usually yielded by the Sawgrass links, which often are raked by gale-force winds.

Umpires back in court

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The ballgame is back in the courtroom for major league umpires, whose ongoing battle to improve salaries has again been challenged by the National and American leagues.

League lawyers called on U.S. District Court Judge Joseph L. McGlynn Thursday to find the umpires in contempt of a preliminary injunction he issued last Sept. 25 preventing a work stoppage. They also want McGlynn to fine the umpires $10,000 for each day they stay off the job.

After six hours of testimony, the hearing was continued. "This season the 51 umpires in our opinion have collectively refused to honor their contracts and have refused to work," said Theodore Martineau, an attorney representing both leagues.

The umpires say they are not striking. Rather, they claim Philadelphia lawyer Richie Phillips, representing them individually, whatever, talks are at a standstill and substitute umpires from the minor leagues and college ranks have been officiating exhibition games this spring. The umpires contend their salaries are well below those of other officials in pro sports like basketball and football.

Major league baseball contends the umpires violated last September's injunction for failing to sign their contracts and report to spring training. Lawyers the umpires argue the injunction should be dissolved because it no longer is applicable.

Little League signup

District Little League baseball commissioner Jack Barber has announced that signups for the upcoming season will continue at all four parks tomorrow, March 24 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Barber has stated that thus far there is a shortage of Little Leaguers that have signed up, and encourages anyone interested to go to their respective parks tomorrow.

Youngsters wishing to sign up should bring a parent or guardian and a birth certificate.

Firemen to face Police Department

The Big Spring Fire Department will be trying to cool the fire of the Police Department tomorrow afternoon at 5:00 when the two forces meet in a slow-pitch softball game.

The game will be played at Stink Creek with no charge for admission.

McCormick sets Tech record

LUBBOCK — Former Big Spring Steer track star Ricky McCormick recently set a school record at Texas Tech in the 1500-meter run, sizzling the cinders in a time of 3:49.0.

McCormick ran the time last weekend in winning a triangular meet in Austin between Tech, UT, and Kansas State. Tech coach Corky Oglesby responded by commenting: "I don't know if that was it or not, but when McCormick won that it seemed to make all the other guys run better."

The time also enabled McCormick to climb to the top of the Southwest Conference list in the event at this time.

Young Frazier wins again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Marvis Frazier, son of former heavyweight champion Joe Frazier, stopped Ed Bednarick of the Swissvale Eagles in the first round with an overhead right to successfully defend his state amateur heavyweight title at the Pennsylvania Golden Gloves championship Thursday.

Frazier, 18, the No. 2-ranked amateur heavyweight in the country, is now 26-0. He will likely face No. 1-ranked Tony Tubbs of Cincinnati when he and the 10 other winners of open bouts compete in the National Golden Gloves championship in Indianapolis March 28-31.

Frazier decided Bednarick for the state title last year but did not compete in the nationals because of an injury.

Frazier bore in on the Pittsburgh-area fighter and floored him early with a stiff left jab. Bednarick, who had not lost since last year's state title bout, was dropped by the right at the end of the round. With Bednarick flat on his back, the referee stopped the fight.

Dolphins acquire Colzie

MIAMI (AP) — The Miami Dolphins are planning to try cornerback and punt returner Neil Colzie on their inconsistent special teams and at weak safety, according to Coach Don Shula.

The National Football League team swapped a third-round draft choice to the Oakland Raiders on Thursday for Colzie, who in 1976 set an NFL record for return yards.

Colzie, a Miami native, was the Raiders' first-round draft choice in 1975 out of Ohio State. The Dolphins surrendered one of five third-round choices they had accumulated for this year's draft.

Staubach: 'This tears my guts out'

Hayes receives prison term

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Hayes, once at the top of amateur and professional sports in America, is a financially and spiritually broken man today at 36 with his imprisonment just days away because he trafficked in narcotics.

"The Bullet" and "The World's Fastest Human" — as sportswriters dubbed Hayes after he won two gold medals in the 1964 Olympics — was sentenced to five years in prison Thursday by State District Judge Richard Mays on a guilty plea of selling drugs to an undercover agent.

Hayes received two 5-year terms, to be served concurrently, on charges of selling cocaine to an undercover agent in March, 1978. Hayes was assessed seven years deferred probation for selling methamphetamine. He could get out in less than a year on good behavior.

The former wide receiver for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League was free on $30,000 bond until formal sentencing, expected next week.

Taking the stand in a desperate defense effort for probation, Hayes said, "I'm guilty. I was wrong. I've paid the price in image and my respect. People see me as Bob Hayes — the dope dealer — not Bob Hayes — the citizen. It hurts."

"I have hit rock bottom financially. I'm broke," Hayes added.

He said the narcotics trafficking cost him lucrative commercials with a beer company and a credit card company. His wife now works to help support the family.

Such character witnesses as Cowboy Coach Tom Landry, Club President Tex Schramm and quarterback Roger Staubach were called before Judge Mays.

"I only saw the sunny side of Bob Hayes," Staubach said.

After hearing a tape conversation between Hayes and the undercover narcotics agent, Staubach said, "That's not the man I know. If this was a trial I wouldn't have anything to do with it, but I see the potential in Bob as a human being. This tears my guts out."

Assistant District Attorney Richard Zidina tore into Hayes in the final arguments after admitting: "To be candid, I haven't enjoyed prosecuting a former Cowboy. I watched him on the football field and saw films of the Olympics. I was a fan of Bob Hayes."

"After hearing all the testimony about him, maybe I should apologize for being here to prosecute the man. But what would Mr. Average think if Hayes got probation?"

Hayes could have received a maximum sentence of life on the cocaine charges.

He still is the all-time Cowboy leader in touchdowns scored, receiving and punt returns.

Psychiatrist Dr. John T. Holbrook testified that nothing would be served by sending Hayes to prison.

"He has punished himself in his own mind," Holbrook said.

Carner takes Sahara lead

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — JoAnne Carner didn't let the slow play bother her, but she did get a little worried about running out of cigarettes during the opening round of the $100,000 Sahara National Pro-Am.

"The shotgun format of play is always slow, as are most pro-am tournaments," she said Thursday after shooting a course record 64 to take a 2-stroke lead over Donna Young.

"I went through two packs of cigarettes and my amateur partners were ready to send to the clubhouse for more if I thought it would help," said Carner.

The winner of last week's Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament in San Diego, Carner carded seven birdies and no bogeys in recording a 32-32 on the 6,108-yard, par 36-35-71 Sahara layout.

The round, in which the LPGA players were teamed with three amateur partners, took nearly six hours to complete.

Home and Garden

TREE INSPECTION — Gene Miller, department manager of the lawn and garden division of Montgomery Wards, and Wanda Petty, the commission sales person, look over their selection of trees.

Green is good reason to plant

Over the last thirty years America has enjoyed enormous growth. Often that growth has been at such a rapid pace that some aspects of life which give us solace and a feeling of peace and beauty seem to have been lost in the shuffle.

How many times have we seen hillsides cleared for development and houses spring up in long rows separated by streets and sidewalks? How often have we seen downtown neighborhoods ripped apart and replaced by steel and concrete? How often have we seen trees knocked down to make room for highrise apartments?

While much of this destruction was deemed economically necessary, most Americans now regret it and many have turned to activity to add growing plants to their surroundings. They have found that their emotional well-being and their general health and happiness is stimulated and aided by the green growing gifts of nature.

Among all of the desirable aspects of our green gifts such as adding value to our property, cutting down noise by creating sound barriers and helping to purify our air, perhaps adding beauty to our surroundings and lives is the most appreciated.

What a relief in the midst of a hectic day at the office to stroll through a well-planted courtyard or sit for a few minutes under a nearby tree. How relaxing to spend a summer evening on the patio amidst cooling shrubs and plants and to hear the rustle of the leaves. How reassuring to sit in an office on the thirty-ninth floor of an office building that has a good selection of indoor plants and small trees.

The American Association of Nurserymen, the "Green Survival" people, are dedicated through their members across the country to helping beautify America. They urge all of us to think about ways in which proper planting can help make our cities, towns, and suburbs better places to live and enjoy the fruits of our labor.

The national nursery association suggests a few ways to start. Look over your own home and see where a few shrubs and some well placed plants would enhance the look of your home from the outside as well as your view from the inside. Consider how some well-chosen, easy-maintenance plants might cheer up your office or work space. Remember, there is room for nature's green growing gifts in the work area of a factory as well as in the office space.

Ivy geraniums good for summer

Hanging plants striking

Few plants are more striking than a cascading ivy geranium loaded with blossoms. If you kept yours over from last summer, chances are it is pretty leggy and straggly looking by now. Ivy geraniums do not do well indoors, and it is better to just keep them growing in an out of the way place until it's time to rejuvenate them for another summer's show. Stems can be cut back to 4 to 6 inches in length so that new growth will be stimulated. Then it should be repotted. If there are fairly decent green tips which you have cut off, you can root them in water, perlite or vermiculite. Main plant should be removed from the pot and the roots should be loosened up a bit. Then it should be potted up in a loose, well-drained mixture, using half the "artificial" soil mixes to which you have added some perlite and perhaps some sand for extra drainage and weight, or a homemade mix which you can make by using

1 part each of sand, peat-moss, perlite garden soil, and vermiculite. Give the plant a liquid feeding once every 3 or 4 weeks using half the strength recommended. Or you may prefer to mix a slow release fertilizer in the soil, but be careful to follow the directions as too much of it will burn roots. Sometimes mites or aphids will bother ivy geraniums. Atomizing the leaves with a weak soap solution (1 teaspoon to 2 quarts of water) and nicotine sulphate (Black Leaf 40), used according to directions, will keep these pests under control; just as it has for the nearly 100 years it has been on the market. Like all geraniums, the ivy geranium often develops a condition known as Oedema Zalspelled Edemaz. This is a physiological disease that causes pimples or corky lesions on the underside of leaves. Bad cases will cause leaves to yellow and drop. For some reason the condition is usually worse in very early spring and is aggravated by poor drainage and lack of sufficient light. When light is improved and any drainage problems are rectified, the plants usually outgrow the condition. A fairly common complaint about ivy geraniums is chlorotic (klor-rot-tick) leaves. New growth, especially, appears bleached or light green. It can be associated with high temperatures or insufficient light, although sometimes it is due to too high light intensity. Hot, sunny days in summer often cause bleaching. Moving the plants to a semi-sunny area will help the situation. Another factor causing pale foliage can be shortage of nitrogen. A liquid feeding will bring back the color quickly, if this is the case. Keep in mind that ivy geraniums and all other hanging baskets need more water during the heat of the summer, and especially during windy weather. Then, too, the plants need more water because of their increased size. Don't run the risk of plant dehydration and loss of beautiful specimens because you forget to water often enough.

Natural pesticides

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new fat-eating natural pesticide has been given special clearance by the Environmental Protection Agency for use against grasshoppers in a trial project this year.

The large-scale trial will be conducted by the Agriculture Department in hopes that it will be successful enough to attract commercial production of the "biological" pesticide.

Lawngrasses like shade

Most of familiar lawn-grasses, including perennial ryegrasses and bluegrasses, withstand moderate shade well. Certain cultivars resist diseases likely to crop up in shade a bit better than do others. Glade and Nugget bluegrasses, for example, seldom are afflicted with mildew. Fine fescues are noted for doing well on drier ground under trees. Modern Chewings varieties include Banner, Highlight, Jamestown and Koket; Pennlawn and Ruby are spreading fescues that are widely employed. A new rough bluegrass, Sabre, is excellent for damp shade. In most instances a mixture of grasses should be chosen for shaded lawns, to better handle all ecological situations. The fine fescue and rough bluegrass content might run a bit higher for consistently shady lawns than for sunnier, open ground, where bluegrasses and perennial ryegrasses would predominate.

First aid for your lawn should begin in the spring

First-aid attention to your lawn this spring can help make up for the punishment which turf grass received during the past severe winter weather. A little extra care now can mean a healthier, more attractive and enjoyable lawn the rest of the year, according to the Fertilizer Institute. Start with a thorough raking to remove heavy, wet, grass-smothering tree leaves and other debris. Do not rake so vigorously, however, that you destroy young fall-planted seedlings. Then mow the lawn to remove brown tips of grass leaves, even though no growth signs are evident yet. Benefits of lawn rolling are questionable in most heavy-winter areas. The practice may improve the surface evenness of winter-heaved soil. Heavy rolling, however, tends to compact soil in the root zone of the dense, clay soils — and has little effect on sandy soils. Worried about crabgrass? It does no good in the spring to pull out or rake crabgrass patches in the lawn. Crabgrass grows back from seeds, not by last year's growth. So, just let last year's crabgrass deteriorate in place. But do spread a recommended crabgrass preemergence material. Applied prior to dandelion-bloom time, these products can set up an effective germination barrier to stop crabgrass before it can get started. Last, but likely the most important spring first-aid measure for your lawn, is adequate fertilization. There are many specially-formulated lawn fertilizers on the market, says the Institute, which can be used to give that first spring feeding to lawn grasses. Many of today's lawn fertilizers for spring have incorporated weed control products in the mixture, so you can conveniently do two jobs at once. Follow the instructions on the bag or container. For many areas, a lighter application will be recommended for early spring so that grass plants don't become too lush and "over grow" their built-in protection to disease and fungi that attack during cool, wet seasons. Then, additional fertilizer applications can be made in June or July to strengthen grass through the summer. Remember, first aid attention to your lawn this spring can mean a better, healthier lawn all summer.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 24, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This day and evening have two powerful influences in effect. The first demands that you do nothing of a drastic or dramatic nature. But secondly, you are under excellent aspects for relying upon your intuitive perceptions and gain much.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look into some new outlet that will give you added income so that you need not worry so much about bills. Don't argue with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not a good day to confer with associates, since there could be big arguments arising. Be busy at work at hand and accomplish much.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study a new project that will help you to advance. Forget dull duties that yield you nothing. Listen to what one of character has to suggest so you have greater happiness in the future.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep focused on your work and do an efficient and exact job so that your benefits increase. Improve your diet if you want your health to be better.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be more optimistic where your partners are concerned and cement better relations with them, become more successful. Use a more up-to-date system that will improve the quality of your work.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use care in driving and avoid possible accidents. Handle problems at home as wisely as you can. Entertain friends at home, but make arrangements early.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact those who can assist you to do a better job at your work, but don't spend money foolishly. Be cheerful and impress them favorably. Make sure you pay bills on time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you listen to what home ties have to suggest, you can add much to present abundance now. Your own ideas are too advanced to use now. Make a favorable impression on newcomers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go ahead with ideas you have since your thinking is clear and so is your vision. Go after the information you need at right sources. Don't permit a personal worry to deter your progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Seek out an expert who can assist you where practical affairs mean much to you. Don't listen to a well-meaning friend who has little know-how. Try to control your temper or you get into big trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Pay attention to what an honest friend has to suggest and forget that bigwig who is too busy to help you. Follow rules that apply to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Stop concentrating on troublesome affairs and get busy on the constructive, show you are a conscientious citizen. A higher-up can be helpful to you in the future but avoid a new contact.

LISTING SPECIAL!!!!!! THIS WEEK ONLY!!!!!!
For any home listed with us valued over $25,000. Area One Realty will pay for a Vanguard Home Warranty on your home. A one year guarantee to your buyer on all built in appliances, heating & air conditioning, plumbing system, electrical system and duct work. This may be the determining factor in whether the buyer purchases YOUR HOME! Ask yourself, "If I were comparing two homes which were equal in all other respects, would I choose a home with a full 1 yr. warranty on all major systems, or a home which I had to purchase on good faith alone?" THIS ASSURANCE COULD MEAN A FASTER SALE OF YOUR HOME!

Connally honored as Texan of the year in New Braunfels

NEW BRAUNFELS, Texas (AP) — John Connally, described as a "once in a lifetime man who stands above all others," has been honored as Texan of the year by the 13th annual Texas Legislative Conference.

In presenting the award Thursday night before a crowd of 500 persons, Joe Kilgore, chairman of the New Braunfels Chamber of Commerce advisory committee, said Connally has brought credit to Texas in every position he has served. After receiving a standing ovation, Connally said, "There are two things Texans are noted for — modesty and humility. I accept this award with both."

'I know I'm the underdog of all time'

Hispanic millionaire presidential candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ben Fernandez didn't get to be a millionaire by being coy about Ben Fernandez. "There is not the slightest doubt in my mind," he says. "I truly believe in 1980 I will be elected president of the United States. And I will be superb."

That's what they all say; a nobody named Jimmy Carter was saying that just about this time in 1975.

"My name will become a household word by the end of this year," says Fernandez. "I think I'm going to surprise a lot of people."

Surprise may be too mild a word. Astound perhaps. Or dumbfound.

So far, Fernandez is one of 10 Republicans whose campaign is registered with the Federal Election Commission. He is proceeding methodically to be the first American president of Spanish heritage.

Fernandez is one of the Johnny-come-lateries of the new political season and he's already made three forays into New Hampshire, where the first-in-the-nation primary still is more than 11 months distant.

"I'm a realist, a very pragmatic man," Fernandez says. "I know I'm the underdog of all time. But I think my chances of capturing the nomination are superb."

His campaign manager, Daniel James, says Fernandez hopes to get at least seven or eight percent of the vote in Yankee New Hampshire — enough to establish him as a candidate to be reckoned with.

"People seem impressed with the depth of my knowledge," he says. "This campaign will change politics forever. It will be healthy for the Hispanic-American, ergo good for America as a whole."

The 54-year-old Fernandez views Hispanic support as the seedbed of his campaign. His own career is his favorite anecdote. He was born in a boxcar in the Kansas City, Kan., railroad yards to illiterate Mexicans who were in this country illegally. In his youth, he and his seven brothers and sisters did stoop labor in Michigan sugar beet fields. Now, an economic consultant, he is worth a million dollars or so.

"I think the Fernandez story must be the most inspiring story to every poor kid, regardless of background," he says. "It has to be inspiring to him as to what an American citizen can do in the United States if he takes full advantage of the opportunity in this country."

And he is dead certain that "the Horatio Alger story of P. Fernandez, the story of a poor boy working like the Dickens now fighting for the Republican nomination, is a story that will sweep this country like brushfire."

Fernandez began preaching the gospel of the possible in November (after announcing his candidacy at the National Press Club, no less) and he sometimes travels 5,000 miles a week to line up backers.

To qualify for federal matching funds, a candidate must attract at least $5,000 in contributions from each of 20 states with no single donation exceeding $250.

Putnam slates homecoming

Putnam Homecoming will be held at the Putnam High School on Saturday, April 14, 1979. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. The morning will be spent in fellowship with friends and relatives.

The Putnam Homecoming will be a memorial to J.G. Overton. At the afternoon program there will be a dedication of a memorial stone for Mr. Overton.

At 2 p.m. there will be a business meeting and program in the Auditorium with Calvin King of Dallas, Texas as Master of Ceremonies.

For reservations please send a check or money order and a self addressed stamped envelope to Mrs. Ray Green, Putnam, Texas 76469 or see LaVerne Rutherford at the Post Office by April 10th, for luncheon tickets which are $4.05.

The Homecoming committee requests that any ex-student or ex-teacher not receiving an invitation to the Homecoming or who has changed addresses in the past year please send their name and address to Laverne Rutherford, Putnam, Texas 76469 so the files can be updated.

Homecomings are held every two years. Please mark your calendar and make plans now to join your old friends and classmates at this years activities.

The program planned will be 9:30 a.m. — registration and coffee in the study hall; noon to 2 p.m. — lunch; 2 p.m. — general session with Calvin King as master of ceremonies.

The regular monthly musical will be held in the Auditorium on Saturday night, April 14th and everyone is invited to attend and visit with friends.

Darden freed on $5,000 bail

Larry Don Darden, 19, 1218 Lloyd, was released from Howard County Jail Wednesday on $5,000 bond. Justice of the Peace Bobby West reduced the bond from $15,000 on the possession of a controlled substance charge.

Peanut probe rules spelled out by Bell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Griffin B. Bell is laying down rules today giving "a good deal of independence, fairly broad power" to the investigator he appointed to look into finances of President Carter's family peanut business, a spokesman says.

Release of a charter spelling out powers and job protection of the new "special counsel" comes amid continuing complaints about Bell's refusal to appoint a "special prosecutor" instead.

Department spokesman Robert Havel said Thursday night the charter will give the investigator, former U.S. attorney Paul J. Curran of New York, "pretty free rein" in checking allegations concerning 1975-76 Carter Warehouse loans of more than $6.5 million from the National Bank of Georgia — then headed by Bert Lance who later was Carter's federal budget director.
