Cotton Off 1000 Points

According to figures given out at the beginning of the cotton picking season the parity price for cotton ranges from 17 to 18 cents, whereas the farmers are selling for 7 to 8 cents which means that they are losing around $50 per bale on the cotton thus sold. Membership in the Agricultural Association costs $2.00, or 40 points on one bale of cotton or an average of 4 points on a ten bale crop. Can the farmers of Coke county through organization raise the price of cotton 4 points? Judging from what has already been done by cotton farmers in other states and what has been by other types of farmers in all parts of the United States, the answer is most emphatically, yes. And not only 4 points. Alone and without outside cooperation they can raise it 100 points through cooperative planting and marketing. But they are going to get the cooperation of tens of thousands of farmers in all parts of the south. When you join Coke County Agriculture Association you are lining up with a southwide movement to resist the price crushing movement that is on us now.

Coke county now leads Dist. 6 of the Texas Agriculture Association in membership. Boys, won't you help me keep it ahead and set the pace of the district by piling up membership of at least 500 before our Congressman, Mr. South, makes us a visit about two weeks hence to help us take a stand that will ultimately put the farmers on a parity with other classes of people. Hand your membership fee to R. B. Allen, of Silver, Allen Butner of Bronte, Henry Williams of Wildcat, or to me at Robert Lee now and help us put old Coke county on the map and get our neighbors and ourselves a square deal.

J. C. Jordan,
Secretary, Coke County Agricultural Association.

Friendship Quilting Club

The Friendship quilting club met with Mrs. Howard Eaton Wednesday morning, quilted a quilt, elected officers, and set a day for the next quilting.

The club has ten members and meets every two weeks on Tuesday at 9 o'clock.

The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. Sam Fowler; vice-president, Mrs. Henry Varnadore; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Howard Eaton; reporter, Mrs. Tom King, Jr.

The club will meet with Mrs. E. Smith Tuesday 19.

Delaine bucks for sale or trade. See Delmar Sheppard.

For Sale. Good heavy work horses. See Mrs. J. B. B. Overall.

Good Rains

Wednesday the cotton gins were idle and the streets of Robert Lee were muddy and are the farmers and stockmen happy!

Around Hayrick the creeks were bank-full at daylight and those who have been running pumps day and night are resting easy on tanks full of stock water. Reports from Silver of a two-inch precipitation; then from Sanco through Edith rain fell slowly but steadily throughout the night. Divide reported about a half-inch fall and in the canyons, about one-fourth. Rain fell in the Divide country last week that ran some of the draws.

New Pastor Pounded

As a welcome to Rev. and Mrs. Fred DeLashaw, members of the Baptist Church met at the pastor's home last Thursday night for a surprise party and "pounding." Mrs. Roy Brey conducted a "spelling class" and Mr. Brey directed several musical numbers played with chimes.

Following the brief entertainment, the pastor and his wife were asked to open the gifts and donors were introduced as the names were called.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Fikes, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brey, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Landers, Mrs. W. J. Cumbie, Mrs. W. M. Simpson, Mrs. Curtis Walker, Mrs. Joe Dodson, Joe Dodson, Jr., Bobbie Walker, Mrs. Lamont Scott, Mrs. B. M. Gramling, Mrs. G. C. Allen, Mrs. Delbert Harmon, Misses Ollie Green and Hattie Cobb.

Rev. DeLashaw was recently called to the pastorate of the Robert Lee Baptist Church. He and Mrs. DeLashaw moved to Robert Lee last Monday.

Happy-Go-Lucky Club

Bryce and Louise Stewart followed the Halloween theme in decorations and game appointments when the Happy-Go-Lucky Club met at their home Thursday afternoon.

During the business session some discussion was held relative to the purchase of club rings or pins.

At the refreshment hour, guests entered a darkened room where a "witch" served cookies and punch.

Members present were Maxine Craddock, Doris Snead, Katie Sue Good, Nina Gramling, Alta Bell Bulbo, Prudie Anne Creech, Geraldine Sparks.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Stroud are planning to move back to town from their farm. They will move to their home here which they expect to repair and modernize. Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Stroud are also moving from his father's place to their own farm.

County Committee On Farm Purchase to Be Named Soon

A county committee for loans under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act will be named in November, it was reported by T. R. Andrus, county supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, who has been receiving numerous inquiries from farmers wanting to buy under this new act.

"As only ten million dollars was appropriated for such loans during the remainder of 1937 and the first half of 1938, less than one farm to the county, on the average, will be financed during this period," the supervisor said. "However, the appropriation authorized for the second year is two and one-half times as great, and five times as great for the third year."

A state committee will be named within the next week or two, and county committees will be named soon thereafter. It is expected that the first applications can be acted upon by November 30, the supervisor said.

The county committee will be composed of three farmers. Their duty will be to receive and pass upon applications, and also to pass upon the value of the farms which the applications, and also to pass upon the value of the farms which the applicants propose to purchase. No land owned by a committee member or a relative of his may be approved. Those eligible for loans include only tenants and farm laborers who are now receiving, or have until recently received, their chief income from farming.

The FSA supervisor said that as soon as the committee for this county is named, it will be published, and further details given as to making application. Until that time, no action can be taken by would-be applicants.

"Because of the small number of loans that can be made for purchase of land, chief work of FSA will continue to be making and supervising farm and home plans for low-income farmers, and loans with which to buy livestock and equipment," the supervisor said. "Such loans, however, can be made only to farmers who are unable to obtain financing from any other source. There are now 330 families in Coke county receiving this form of loan and supervision."

Several members of the local Chapter of the Eastern Star went to San Angelo Monday night to attend an initiation ceremony of the San Angelo Chapter No. 10. Those going from here were Mrs. S. E. Adams, worthy matron of the Robert Lee chapter, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cumbie, Mrs. G. C. Allen, Mrs. John Adams, Mrs. Marvin Stewart, and Miss Ollie Green. Miss Naomi Brown, now visiting in San Angelo, also attended.

Church Building to Start

Final plans for the erection of the Robert Lee Baptist church were completed Monday and work of rebuilding will begin the first of next week.

W. E. Noah of Sweetwater has the contract for the job. Mr. Noah also helped build the old church when it was erected in 1905.

The new church, to face the south as did the old one, will include an auditorium 40x50 and a two story Sunday school annex 25x53 composed of thirteen classrooms and pastor's study. There will also be a kitchen and three classrooms with removable partitions can be used for a dining room or Sunday school assembly room. There will also be modern plumbing and heating facilities.

Ben Smith, Sweetwater architect, drew the plans.

HUGO BLACK CONFESSES

New Justice Says He Was Kluxer But Resigned . . .

Justice Black Delivering His Notable Address by Radio.

Black Joined Klan; Quit

"I DID join the Ku Klux Klan. I later resigned. I never re-joined."

Thus Hugo L. Black, now Associate Justice Black of the Supreme court, admitted to an immense radio audience that the charges against him were true.

Black asserted that since he quit the Klan he has had nothing whatever to do with it.

He cited his record in the senate and in private life to back up his assertion that he was entirely free from religious or race prejudices. While he apparently repudiated the principles of the Klan, he did not explain why, on receiving a life pass card after his election to the senate, he said to a gathering of Klansmen:

"I realize that I was elected by men who believe in the principles that I have sought to advocate and which are the principles of this organization."

Black emphatically declared his devotion to the principles of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, and said that he was of "that group of liberal senators who have consistently fought for the civil, economic and religious rights of all Americans, without regard to race or creed." Some of his best friends, he added, were Catholics and Jews, and members of the colored race.

At the outset of his address Black undertook to turn the tables on his accusers by asserting that the "campaign" to discredit him "fans the flames of prejudice and is calculated to create racial and religious prejudice."

"When this statement is ended," he concluded, "my discussion of the question is closed."

There was a definite note of defiance in Black's address, but it is fair to assume that the American public was not satisfied with his explanation. From all parts of the country came renewed protests against his presence on the Supreme court bench, and various large associations "resolved" about it. Many of the senators who voted to confirm his appointment because they accepted the assertion of his friends that he was not a Kluxer are resentful at the deception practiced on them—but what can they do about it now?

President Roosevelt, up to the time of writing, had maintained silence. One of his aides explained that the President decided some time ago that there was no course of action open to him in the Black case.

When Justice Black took his seat, the chamber of the Supreme court was crowded to capacity. Albert Levitt, an attorney, was on hand to ask permission to file a suit seeking to force Justice Black to show cause why he should not be declared ineligible to sit. The court deferred action on the request. Another motion to the same effect was filed by Patrick H. Kelly, a Boston lawyer.

President in Chicago

CHICAGO put on its best dress to receive President Roosevelt, who spent two and a half hours there. The main purpose of the visit was the dedication of the new outer drive across the mouth of the Chicago river, a project that was partly paid for with federal money. Mr. Roosevelt first reviewed a long and colorful parade and led the way across the structure. Then from the south end of the bridge he delivered an address that was broadcast by radio.

The President was entertained at luncheon by Cardinal Mundelein, a friend of long standing, and soon after proceeded on his way to his home in Hyde Park, N. Y.

Special Session

ON HIS way from the West President Roosevelt made a speech at Grand Forks, N. D., in which he declared his intention of continuing his fight to "reform" the Supreme court. He also announced attempts to pass crop control and labor legislation would be made at a special session of congress which probably will be called about November 15.

Rail Strike Averted

THERE will not be a nationwide strike of railway workers. Such a disaster was averted when the five operating railroad brotherhoods accepted an offer of the companies of a flat raise of 44 cents a day. They and the fifteen "non-operating" unions had demanded a 20 per cent wage increase.

For five weeks Dr. William M. Leiserson, member of the national mediation board, had been holding daily conferences with representatives of both sides.

A. F. of L. May Expel C. I. O.

WHEN President William Green opened the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in Denver, he was not able to present an optimistic picture of the future of unified labor. The battle with John L. Lewis and his C. I. O. continues unabated, and there are "dogfights" among the unions all over the country, generally concerning jurisdiction disputes or shifting of affiliation.

If the report of the federation's executive council is adopted, the C. I. O. unions will be finally ousted. The council said in part:

"For two years we have pursued a policy of toleration . . . All of this has failed . . . Now the executive council feels that the time has arrived when the American Federation of Labor must meet the issue in a clear-cut and positive way . . . The issue which created the division in the ranks of labor must be made clear."

"In order to accomplish this purpose the executive council recommends that the convention confer upon the executive council authority and power to revoke the charters of the international unions holding membership in the Committee for Industrial Organization."

Windsor Coming to U. S.

HIS honeymoon being ended, the duke of Windsor intends to take up the really serious things of life, and before long he will come to the United States for the purpose of studying housing and working conditions in this country. This was announced in Paris by the duke's secretary, who said Edward and his duchess would first go to Germany for a similar survey there.

The duke's interest in such matters is no new development, for as Prince of Wales and during his brief reign as king-emperor Edward was notably concerned with the social welfare of his subjects.

Hands Off, Says Japan

JAPAN doesn't like the British plan for an international conference to mediate the Chinese-Japanese war, so Tokyo issued a stern warning to the rest of the world not to interfere with her doings in China.

Japanese government circles were visibly perturbed by the turning of world sympathy to China, and without exception attribute this to successful Chinese propaganda.

The United States government recently told Japan it would be held strictly accountable for injury to Americans or their property in China. Tokyo responded with a firm refusal to accept such liability, and our Department of State didn't know just what to do next.

Member nations of the League of Nations had a plan to raise a large fund to fight the cholera and bubonic epidemics in China. But the Japanese told the British that this would be interpreted by Tokyo as foreign intervention in the war, so the British delegates backed down and persuaded the league council to content itself with a resolution recommending to the assembly an increase in the allotment of money for health work in China.

The League of Nations adopted a resolution severely condemning Japan for the aerial bombardment of defenseless Chinese cities, and Tokyo, indignant, charged the league of acting without verifying the facts.

The British public is becoming increasingly aroused against Japan and there is a general demand for a boycott of Japanese goods.

Ed Howe Dies

WITH the passing of Ed Howe of Atchison, Kan., the country loses one of its best-known and best-liked philosophical commentators on current events. He was eighty-four years old and died as he had wished, in his sleep after a day's work. The "Sage of Potato Hill" founded the Atchison Globe in 1887 and retired 37 years later. Thereafter he busied himself with the publication of "Howe's Monthly," which he called a "Journal of Indignation and Education."

Red Officials Executed

EXECUTION of the president, vice president and six other high officials of the Adjarian Republic of the U. S. S. R. for treasonable plotting was reported to Moscow from Tiflis.

At the same time, reports from Leningrad province told of eight employees of the grain trust there being sentenced to death for allegedly treasonable damaging of grain supplies.

Bar for Free Courts

CONVINCED that the independence of the federal judiciary is still threatened, despite the defeat of the plan to enlarge the Supreme court, the American Bar association, in session in Kansas City, voted unanimously to authorize a committee to keep up the fight to preserve the freedom of the courts.

The lawyers listened to many speeches, both attacking and defending President Roosevelt's court program and his appointment of Hugo Black to the Supreme court. The climax to all this came when Hutton W. Summers of Texas, chairman of the house judiciary committee, arose to talk. He had a prepared address, but shifted to an extemporaneous talk in which he declared the people have lost control of the government of the United States and it has passed into the hands of a million people in its executive department, to which only one man was elected, and which the people could not control.

"What are we going to do about it?" Summers cried. "Are you willing to join a battalion of death to save the Constitution and the government?"

"As we look to the future, we are rapidly approaching a crisis when it will be decided whether our economic system and our government will stand or fall."

"I mean actually. A very serious situation is before the people. It means we have got to do something soon. We have got to balance the budget. We have got to decentralize government responsibility."

Auto Union Shake-Up

SEVERAL times Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, has intimated that there were too many radicals among the leaders of that union. Now, allegedly for reasons of economy, he has got rid of some of them. These organizers have been left out: Victor Reuther, one of the leaders in the General Motors strike at Flint, Mich., last winter; Robert Kanter, Stanley Novak, Melvin Bishop and William Tonn of Detroit, R. D. Richter of Saginaw; Charles Rigby, Ohio; Frank McMillan, Kansas City; Eugene Stauder, Frank Bartee and Frank Schutz, Indiana.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building
Washington, D. C.

Washington.—It may be, as I have frequently been told, that the average person—Mr. John Q. Public—has very little interest in the doings of the federal reserve system.

It may be true that the average citizen accepts the federal reserve banks as a thing apart and of little or no concern to him because they are so far removed and, further, because they indulge in what the demagogues used to call "high finance."

Whether my information is correct and regardless of the public concept of the federal reserve system, I am devoting some space this week to a discussion of certain developments in the federal reserve banking structure in an attempt to show the trend of money conditions in this country at the moment.

Lately, the federal reserve board of governors announced a revision of its regulations governing discounts and advances by federal reserve banks. Now, it may be said that these regulations affect only the banks that are members of the reserve system. That is true but it is not the whole truth because everything that the federal reserve board of governors and the federal reserve banks do affects you and me and everyone else whether we are little fellows and, therefore, unimportant individually, or whether we are trustees of great sums of money such as is the case with corporation presidents.

The board of governors, in the revision of its regulations, has made it possible—if not obligatory—for the reserve banks to take almost any kind of paper that is an evidence of debt. That is, the reserve banks are now empowered to receive from the member banks that paper upon which you and I borrow, any paper that shows that a citizen owes the bank money, and to give that bank money in exchange for the evidence of that debt.

Everyone, of course, is familiar with a note or a mortgage on a piece of real estate. Most people understand about installment paper which is simply a note providing for payment of the amount due over a period of months. But there are many other kinds of evidence of debt that is in frequent use among business men from the smallest storekeeper in a rural village to the greatest banker in the world. Under the regulations now operative in the federal reserve system there seems to be almost no paper which the local banker cannot send to the federal reserve bank and receive cash in exchange. Of course, that obligation must be paid off some time and the arrangement simply permits the federal reserve banks to carry the debt until its maturity.

All of this obviously sounds as though the federal reserve system is at last to be helpful to us little fellows. That is true. It is going to be helpful in increasing the number of us little fellows who get ourselves in debt. It is going to do that because it makes getting into debt easier.

I think no one should object to the reserve board regulations in all details. There must be credit given where credit is needed; that is to say when you prohibit borrowing money you choke off eighty-five per cent of all of the business done in the United States. Yet, credit is dangerous, a double-edged sword and must be handled with extreme caution by the borrowers as well as by the lenders. As we have seen from the inglorious debacle of 1929, there can be too much credit extended, and when I say that, I refer not only to loans by banks but the sale of goods, wares and merchandise that enter into everyday life. And, going a bit further on that line, there can be too much credit extended by the manufacturer and jobber to retail merchandising establishments just as easily as there can be too much credit extended by the retail merchants to you or to me.

So, a discussion of what the board of governors of the federal reserve system has done can lead in this instance only to a conclusion that danger flags are waving.

I do not want to exaggerate present conditions or signs as I see them.

Don't Get Excited
This is no time to become excited. There are, however, boundaries beyond which we cannot go in the matter of credit without facing another tailspin of the type of 1929. That is the thing I fear may result from an accumulation of federal policies of which the late action by the federal reserve board is only one.

It is perfectly human and natural for each one of us to aspire to better things, to have more of this world's goods for our enjoyment and to equip ourselves by way of greater resources for the future. We will do those things sometimes when we ought not to do them simply because the instruments are available and we do not stop to count the ultimate cost. To the extent, then, that the federal reserve board probably has made borrowing easier it has tempted a certain percentage of citizens, or will tempt them in the future.

The condition of easier debt that is now presented is, as I have said, only one of many temptations and inducements for getting into debt that has been offered by the Roosevelt policies. It is unnecessary to recount here how many pieces of legislation, how many executive and administrative rules have been made to permit citizens to use money that is not their own. They are almost numberless. The result has been, is, and will continue to be the creation of a lot of debt that will hang over us all for years to come.

I do not know when, if ever, this gigantic national debt will be paid off. I think probably the American people with traditional tenacity will stick by the job and get it done some time, but I must refer to the job as a very slow process. It required twelve years after the World war debt reached its peak of twenty-six billion to reduce it by ten millions. That reduction was more rapid than had ever been known before in any nation and it was made possible because of the prosperity which we enjoyed during those twelve years.

It would seem, therefore, that we must consider not only a slowing down of individual debt making, but a sharp curtailment of national debt making as well. If we do not, a yawning cavern of unsounded depths awaits us.

Some weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt sent instructions to the various agencies of the government to save ten per cent out of the operations for the current fiscal year to help in balancing the budget. There were no ifs, nor ands, nor buts about President Roosevelt's instructions. The spending agencies were told simply to lay aside that ten per cent which, in the aggregate, would amount to around four hundred million dollars. The President said during a speech at the great Columbia river dam the other day that he hoped to balance the budget in the next fiscal year.

But Mr. Roosevelt must be commended and criticized at the same time for his budget balancing ideas.

Budget Balancing

Mind you, no criticism can possibly be attached to the objective—a balanced budget. But commendation must give way to criticism on some of the things that are happening under the flat order for a reduction in spending.

Take this case for example: The National Park service, like other agencies, laid away ten per cent of its operations. This impounding of money happened to coincide with the greatest flock of visitors ever to enter the gates of the country's national playgrounds. It costs money to police and protect the parks; it requires funds to provide for the comfort of the throngs of visitors to national parks. The result, in the case of several parks, was that they were forced to close their gates to visitors from a week to a month earlier than they usually do in the fall. Their money had run out.

Well, say you, what harm does that do? Simply this: Visitors to national parks, such as Yellowstone, for example, pay much more for entrance fees and the things they must buy while in the parks than it costs the government to maintain the parks.

But that is the crux in this situation. The National Park service does not keep the money that is paid in by park visitors. Those funds are turned directly into the treasury as general revenue. The books of the National Park service, therefore, show only outgo.

The condition is one, therefore, it seems to me, that almost warrants a statement that the policy is "penny wise and pound foolish."

"No fooling, I certainly am."
"Very well, when? Couldn't we—"
he looked at his watch—"no, it's too late to go to City hall today. How about tomorrow morning? Then we'd take an airplane and along about teatime we could walk in on my mother and say: 'Here we are. Now go your wanton way, we'll take over the house and the paper and—'"

"Nothing doing with this mad rush stuff. You're forgetting about my mother. I wouldn't be married without her, I couldn't, Curt."

"No, I suppose not." He drooped pathetically.

"And I ought to finish up a lot more work for Vinco. And I certainly want some new clothes."

"I'll tell you—in ten years or so, when you're quite ready, send me a telegram, I'd like to know about it. But honestly, darling, do I have to wait very long? I've already marked time for nearly six months, remember."

"Oh tush, it hasn't been six months since you dashed down to Rockboro to snatch me from Bob Eddis."

"But I've known you six months and been in love with you all the time."

"Have you really, Curt?"

"The first day you came into Vinco's with that strange fellow—who was he, by the way? You've never told me."

"Oh, he's named Oliver Land and I met him at the Steeles' and he told me about Vinco's and took me there." Even now while she was so happy, there was a little sharp spot when she remembered Oliver, not of regret but of anger.

Curt seemed to find Oliver sufficiently explained. He returned to more important matters. "But when are we going to get married, that's what I want to know? D'you think your mother will object to me?"

"No, I don't believe she will. Darling Anne, she's the most wonderful, the grandest—she didn't want me to marry Bob Eddis, Curt."

"That rates her a million per cent with me. But I haven't got much to offer you, Rachel. I'll never be rich or distinguished or even notorious. How about sending your mother a nice long cable, sort of breaking the subject gently?"

"I might do that. I wonder—what's your mother going to say?"

"That woman's been abusing me something shameful for being so slow. She said that you sounded exactly like the kind of girl she always wanted me to marry and if I didn't propose to you pretty soon she'd come and do it for me. By the way, what kind of an engagement ring would you like best? I can get that on you ever if you won't be married for an eon or two. Would you like an emerald, or a sapphire?"

"Anything but a sapphire," said Rachel.

"No, sapphires don't suit you. You ought to have something tawny and brilliant, an orange-colored diamond or a beautiful bronzy pearl. I saw one once."

"And, Curt," said Rachel, "Let's be very honest with each other, don't let's have any secrets or evasions or hidden feelings. They're bad—for any kind of love. There are some things I must tell you about myself—and Anne—nothing that matters specially. I want you to know. And after that—no more. While you were telling me about your mother I wanted to tell you about mine."

It was a long time before the story of Anne Vincent and Elinor Cayne was done. Curt asked many questions. Rachel must tell all that had happened and what it had done to her. At the end she asked him, with terrible earnestness: "Was it wrong not to tell Elinor? Hadn't I the right to choose, then, who was my mother? Because I knew it was Anne, it must be Anne, everything turned me back to Anne, even not letting Elinor know what Anne would have wanted, I'm sure of that. And yet, it troubles me, to have been so near Elinor and not said a word."

"Darling, look at the facts. No earthly good could have come from telling her you were her child—even if she'd have believed it, which I greatly doubt. It would only have stirred everything up into a far worse mess than it was—and it was sad enough. And you ought to forget the whole thing. I don't think you ought to tell Anne that you ever went near Elinor."

"You don't?"

"No, I certainly don't. It'll only be painful for both of you and then, when she gets to thinking it over, she might feel that she could never count on you again, that there was some want, some deficiency in your love for her. It might trouble her beyond anything you can imagine."

Rachel slipped her arm through Curt's arm as they walked along. "There's a Postal Telegraph on Fifty-second street," she said, "and that's only two blocks down."

Curt hung over her shoulder as she wrote:

To Madame Henry Vincent, care La Comtesse Helene de Besnard, Castillon-sur-Dordogne, Gironde, France.

Darling mother please take the next boat and come home stop Curt Elton and I are by way of getting engaged and I must know whether he suits you for a son-in-law too besides you have been away too long and I have missed you too much stop I want to see you, I need you and I love you as much as you deserve which is entirely, completely all stop hurry, hurry home to Rachel Vincent. The precise little clerk read the message twice and counted the words.

"You could cut this down a lot. It's going to cost a lot of money," he said.

"It's worth it," said Curt and Rachel in chorus.

The little man glanced at the two of them and back again at the cable. "I guess so," he said shyly. "One mother's all we ever got."

"Leap for Life"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Well, sir, we all know that firemen run into lots of adventures. That's all part of a fireman's job. When the gong starts tapping out a signal—well—there's darned well likely to be an adventure at the end of the trip—for somebody. And ten chances to one that adventure falls to the lot of some smoke-eater who goes in with a hose and stays there long after everyone else is out. But today I'm telling you a fireman's story of an adventure that didn't happen at a fire.

William McQueen, of Valley Stream, Long Island, is the lad this adventure happened to. Up to a certain point, this story is just like any other fireman's adventure yarn. It started in with the usual alarm, and the truck rolling out to respond to it. But as a rule the truck gets to the fire before the adventure starts. In Bill McQueen's case, Old Lady Adventure swung her haymaker a few minutes earlier than is her custom, and Bill had his adventure on the way to the blaze.

Bill is a member of the volunteer fire department out in Valley Stream. His dad is also a member of the same outfit—and the way things turned out, that is a lucky break for Bill. They are both attached to the Engine Company Number 2, and the date of Bill's adventure is one he doesn't think he'll ever forget. It was December 29, 1931.

The alarm came from somewhere out on the north side of the town. The men of Company 2 began a scramble for the fire house. In no time at all, twenty men had gathered, and the truck rolled out of the engine house with all of them aboard.

It Happened on a Busy Highway.

The truck ran down the street and made a turn. It was necessary for them to go through a side street in order to reach the neighborhood of the fire. And half way down the side street, they had to cross Merrick road, a main traffic artery that ran through the town, and one of the busiest highways on Long Island.

The truck plunged on down that street, with its siren screaming. The driver was trying to beat the whole doggone world to that fire. But no matter how hard a fellow tries, there always comes a time when he has to fail, and this was one of those times. Truck Number 2 didn't beat anybody to that fire on that December day. As a matter of fact, it didn't get there at all.

The truck was approaching Merrick road and the driver began slowing down. He had to make a left hand turn on Merrick and he began throttling down his motor so he could make it on all four wheels. The engine came to the intersection. "And it was at this point," says Bill McQueen, "that I got my first glimpse of the thing that was likely to be the cause of my death!"

Down Merrick road, about a hundred feet to the left, was a railroad crossing, and beyond that was a speeding car, hurtling along toward the fire truck at a speed of forty or fifty miles an hour.

Bill got a quick glance at that car, and it didn't take him any time at all to figure out that that car couldn't possibly stop in time to avoid hitting the truck. It was just a question of where it hit the truck—and Bill had his qualms about that, too.

How Bill Figured His Jump.

Bill was standing on the running board, on the left side of the truck. Next to him was a large battery box, and behind him, between the battery box and the large rubber suction hose that is carried on all fire engines, stood Bill's dad. Bill gauged the speed with which the two vehicles were going with another lightning glance, and as he did, he came to another terrifying conclusion. As near as he could figure out, that oncoming car was going to hit the truck just about at the spot where he was standing!

The human mind works with the speed of lightning, and it didn't take Bill more than a couple of seconds at most to come to that conclusion, but that speeding car was moving almost as fast as a man's mind can think, and a hundred feet or so is no great distance. The car was almost on top of him now, and there was neither the time nor the opportunity to get off that running board and out of the way. And it was then that Bill's mind did some more fast and furious thinking.

"There I was," he says, "directly in the path of certain death. I could jump off the truck and take my chances on being able to dodge that car, or stay where I was and trust to luck that I might come out alive. Either way, I couldn't see myself having much of a chance. But there was a third course of action I could take. It was more daring than the other two, but I decided to try it.

Dad's Shove Helped a Lot.

"As the car roared onward, I braced myself on the running board and began timing the speed of its approach. When it was about three feet away, I leaped for my life!"

Straight ahead, Bill jumped—right over the top of the car. As he took off into the air he felt a violent shove. His dad had reached out with his hand to give him a little extra impetus. Head first over the top of that car he went, and Bill had reason then to thank his lucky star that cars, in this day, are built low and close to the ground. For he just did clear it.

Behind him he heard the crash, as he tumbled over the car and landed in the road on the other side. He picked himself up dazed, and with a bruised knee, but otherwise unhurt, and looked back at the ruins of the fire truck. The part where he had been standing was smashed to bits!

"When I looked at that mass of twisted and bent metal," Bill says, "I couldn't help thinking what would have happened to me if I'd remained there."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter—the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are the most famous of all kidney pills.

It Won't Work

Motorists around Coke County will learn with more than the usual interest that after a trial in several states of "no speed limit" on the highways, the experiment has proved a failure. Michigan, one of the first of the few states that let down the bars and permitted drivers to use their own judgement on the open road, raises her hands in horror at a 15 percent increase in fatalities over last year, and is planning to return to former speed limits. The motorists, it seems, cannot be relied upon to stick to a safe and speed; it requires a law, strictly enforced, to make him do so.

With the death toll in America so far this year the highest in history, it is obvious that something must be done, and done quickly, to make highways safer. With almost 1,000 killed on Labor Day alone the necessity for laws fixing a lower rate for speed is apparent. However, at the same time that new speed laws, and laws with teeth in them, are being enacted, some attention should also be given those drivers who idle along a main highway at a rate of 15 to 20 miles an hour. Hundreds of accidents occur when drivers turn out to pass these slow-moving machines, for as a rule they are not hugging their side of the road. The need for regulating the slow-poke is as great as the need for regulating the speeder, this year's death toll is going to be a gastely one when the figures are made public. Maybe it will speed the enactment of some sort of legislation that will make human life a little bit safer in America.

The Old Folks

The pension plans Texas adopted for the old folks didn't relieve them of the uncertainties of existence. Now these are enhanced by the uncertainties of the pension. This month, for instance, the pensions were delayed until after the middle of October. The pension of last month had to cover several more days than the oldsters once were led to expect.

Now the Texas Board of Control forecasts discontinuance of old age assistance after October, or a prororation resulting in a sharp reduction of grants, in an official communication addressed to Rep. Harry N. Graves. The official indicated the possibility that payments to the needy might not be made in November, December, January and maybe February. This is the time when the money will be needed most. Cause of crisis, as explained by members of the board, is that all, or nearly all, of the present available state assistance funds will have to be used to take care of the $1,627,000 owed a Dallas bank and due not later than Jan. 1.

The statement is timed effectively with the legislative revenue raising session. And nothing as dire as predicted will be permitted to happen. However, something should be done to remove the uncertainties of the pension plan. Texans voted it, and uncertainties of payment ought not be allowed to creep in to harass those who need it. Restrictions should apply to those receiving it but that's another issue entirely.

Worth Teaching

The fact that there is no regular course in the public schools covering the conservation of wild life and natural resources does not mean that it is not worth teaching. No better instruction can be given by any teacher than the simple methods of protecting the trees, birds and the small animals of the neighborhood in which his or her school is located. A few moments now and then devoted to the value of planting trees, and protecting those now growing, will serve to impress the youthful mind with the value and importance of conservation. The same is true regarding our outdoor life. Children may be destructive by nature, but leading them into new paths is an easy matter. Tell them so their childish minds can understand why this country must conserve its natural resources, such as timber and fish and game, and they will grasp the meaning and carry it with them on through to maturity. The teacher who realizes the value of such instruction is worth more to the community he serves than the one that never mentions the subject simply because it doesn't happen to be a part of the regular school course.

Desire of Athletes for Higher Learning Will Surprise Profs

A FAMOUS college basketball coach shortly will be visited by a committee representing his team. They will demand assurances that their scholarships will not be discontinued as soon as their playing days are ended. Seems that some athletes do go to college with the hope of getting diplomas after all. . . . Folks (bellboys, waiters and such) who provide service for tennis stars say that the court luminaries are the world's worst tipsters. . . . John Pesek, the wrestler, breeds greyhounds between bouts. . . . Patty-cake your pinkies for Charley Berry. The veteran catcher has done a swell job with Connie Mack's pitching rookies.

Iowa is due to come up with a back who will make the customers forget Oze Simmons. His name is Bush Lamb, and Temple players, who tried to stop him last year, insist that he'll be the hottest thing in football before the season's half over. . . . Also, down in the bull-rushes of Mississippi, there's Frank Bruiser Kinard, a giant tackle. Unless he has horrible luck he is sure of top rating this fall. . . . Dom Fonte and Bernie Pearlman, who played baseball at L. I. U., are scheduled to report to Elmira (N. Y.-Pa. league) next spring. . . . Although most colleges are clamoring for a crack at the big gates to be obtained there, Syracuse will not exhibit its very good basketball team at the Garden this winter. The reason? An alumnus checks in with the explanation that Syracuse wants to act dignified in front of Columbia, Penn., etc., in the hope of being invited to join the Ivy league elect some day.

Les Canadiens hockey team, having had good results from a similar experiment last year, Coach Cecil Hart again is sending a group of players to Emile Manpas' camp in the Laurentian mountains. After six weeks of such preliminary exercises, the veterans will join the rest of the squad at the Forum for the usual pre-season hockey drill. . . . Albert Battleship Leduc, former Les Canadiens defense man, and for the past three years managing coach of the Providence Reds, has resigned. His appointment as sales manager for a Montreal distillery keeps him too busy for hockey. . . . Lionel Conacher, having announced his retirement from active hockey to take over a Toronto political job, the Maroons are seeking a replacement. Sylvio Mantha, former Canadiens' defense star and manager, probably will be signed.

Temple Boys Tell One on Coach Pop Warner

Temple students insist that Pop Warner is wearing the same suit, hat and shoes that he has worn every day since taking up football coaching at the institution in 1933. . . . Eulace Peacock, the tan tornado from Temple, now runs an apartment house in Newark. . . . New York racing associations are not making any elaborate plans for the World's fair. And why should they? The Chicago fair didn't do Illinois courses any good. . . . Millionaire owners still are trying to sign Hirsch Jacobs but he spurns their offers, preferring to train a band of battered platers for his frau. Many millionaire stables are in real need of a Jacobs, too.

Frank Makosky, Yankee rookie pitcher, recommends every detective story he reads to Lefty Gomez, his roomie, during the playing season. But spoils the reading by telling Lefty who committed the murder. . . . Harry Gumbert lives only thirty miles from Pittsburgh but never saw Forbes field until he became a member of the Giants' pitching staff.

Pop Warner

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

RUMORMONGERS insist Dartmouth now is doing an even more intensive job than Cornell in the matter of luring high-class football players to the campus. Give a hand to little Albany academy. It's not as well press-agented as some of the other prep schools but it will be represented on college gridirons this fall by such stars as the Stearns twins at Williams, Al Hessberg, Yale's flashy halfback, and Johnny Vruwink, who may excel as a Princeton end. Vruwink, incidentally, is the Tiger basketball captain and the best courtman to have worn the Orange and Black since Ken Fairman.

Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, who owned Cavalcade and still is rated as one of the leading ladies of the turf, does not ride and is scared of horses. . . . Charles Dexter, sports expert of the New York Daily Worker, provides the information that there are 70 racetracks in the Soviet Union with proper betting facilities on all of them. He also says that rugby and soccer are the favorite sports over there. . . . Chubby Dean and several of his young Athletic mates got so little money that they lived in a suburban trailer camp all season. At least that's the story sworn to by various reputable Philadelphians. . . . Ed Kringle, hard-hitting Manhattan back, shoots in the low golf seventies and was undefeated in 12 varsity matches.

Earl Coombs uses up three fungo bats a year while hitting practice flies to Yankee outfielders. . . . One of the most impressive things about the American league is that the players did far less futile bickering with umpires than their National league contemporaries this year. . . . He won't get many raves but George Belby, who performs for little Hamilton, may prove to be one of the best football players in the East.

Guldahl Says Success Due to Light Driver

Ralph Guldahl, national and western open champion, uses a driver that measures 43 inches and weighs 13 3/4 ounces. Guldahl, who formerly used heavy irons, last year began to play with irons of medium weight and attributes much of his recent success to the change. . . . There's at least one athlete to whom money isn't everything. . . . Charley Rebolli, six-day bicycle rider, was signed to ride one of last season's races for $150, a day. . . . At the end of the first night he decided he didn't like his partner and withdrew from the event. . . . Mike Kreevich, White Sox outfielder, drew only $90 a month on his first professional baseball job, which was with the McCook, Neb., club in 1930. . . . When the season ended he went home broke.

Ralph Guldahl

Sixty-eight of the one hundred and thirty freshmen at Wabash college turned out for football. . . . George Halas has converted two tackles into guards on his Chicago Bears' football club. George Musso, a regular at guard, has played tackle since joining the team several years ago. . . . Tay Bell, called Jingle Bells by his mates, was a tackle at Washington State. . . . Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, becomes promoter and matchmaker of boxing at the Chicago stadium, succeeding Jim Mullen. . . . Kearns, who has enjoyed unusual success as a promoter in Detroit, will present his first show late in November. . . . Burleigh Grimes, boss of the Dodgers, will be a popular fellow at the winter baseball meetings. He has three pitchers, Mungo, Hamlin, and Butcher, on whom other National league clubs have their eyes. The Cardinals are reported to have the inside track on Mungo.

Sam Parks, Jr., of Pittsburgh, 1935 national open champion, is one young man who does not intend to rely on professional golf as a lifetime career. Parks, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, plans to enter Carnegie Tech for a special course in the building trades, one of which will be masonry. Bob Herwig, center on the University of California eleven, married last summer and an Oakland newspaper has hired his bride to write the low-down on the school's football squad. . . . California players have kidded Herwig no end, but thus far Coach Stub Allison has failed to dissuade Mrs. Herwig from performing her job.

Dorothy Bundy, who eliminated Alice Marble from the national tennis tournament, is not the only athlete in her family. Her brother, Bill, Santa Monica high school guard, is rated one of the best prep football players in Southern California.

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

WHILE all the important motion-picture producers were trying to interest Ronald Colman in big, serious dramas, he slipped over to the Hal Roach studio and agreed to star in a goofy comedy called "Fancy Free." No one else even suspected that Ronnie wanted to join the parade of serious players who have scored in light offerings.

His best friend, Bill Powell, is suspected of selling him the idea. Bill has such fun making comedies, and so do Myrna Loy and Carole Lombard, and the newest recruit, Constance Bennett. I would not be at all surprised if Constance were to play the lead opposite Colman.

Now that Bill Powell is wandering around Europe, Myrna Loy is going to stray over to the Twentieth Century-Fox studio to make a picture with Warner Baxter, her second-best leading man. The story is "Career in C Major," and is all about a woman with a not-so-good voice who is absolutely determined to get into grand opera. Her husband views the whole project with distaste, until he finds that his barber-shop chord baritone is just what the opera scouts have been looking for.

Warner Baxter

Just as soon as a radio performer makes an outstanding hit, the motion picture scouts grab him, so now it is Professor Quiz who is going to step before the camera. He and James Wallington, the ever-popular announcer, are going to be in Columbia Pictures' "Freshman Follies."

The tremendous popularity of "The Prisoner of Zenda" has revived interest in swashbuckling mythical kingdom romances, so Sam Goldwyn has decided it is high time to film "Graustark" again. It has been made twice before, but not in the gorgeous way that Sam will make it. He plans to have Merle Oberon play the beautiful princess and Gary Cooper the American newspaper man who rescues and marries her.

Phil Spitalny is being ribbed by his friends, and all because he ran into difficulties while filming a Paramount short film featuring his Hour of Charm All-Girl orchestra. They all worked hard, finished the film on schedule and went home satisfied that they had done their best. But the studio called up next day to protest that a man's voice could be heard in the midst of the all-feminine chorus. Spitalny went to hear the sound-track played, pretty indignant that their work had been spoiled. Only to find that it was his own voice on the film.

Motion-picture fans who have been lamenting because so many of their Hollywood favorites have abandoned the screen for a fling on the stage can just stop worrying. So far the plays have not been good enough to hold the players for long.

Sylvia Sydney

Sylvia Sydney, Henry Fonda, and Elissa Landi will probably be back at Hollywood at work in pictures before very long. But Frederic March, undismayed by their so-so success, is headed for New York.

ODDS AND ENDS—Walt Disney has finally vetoed the plan to put Mickey and Minnie Mouse on a weekly radio program. Can't spare the time to see that it is done right, and won't let his little darling Minnie and Mickey be directed by anyone else. . . . Alice Faye did not like the dressing room Universal studio provided for her, so she got a moving van to bring her own dressing room bungalow over from the 20th Century-Fox lot. . . . Olivia de Havilland has eliminated all the other candidates for the lead in "Robin Hood" opposite Errol Flynn. Each figure that the other brings luck to a picture. . . . Paul Muni and his wife are on a six months' world cruise to the deep regret of all the companies who wanted him to make another picture right away.

Household Questions

For That Nutty Flavor.—Try dropping a teaspoonful of peanut butter into each muffin pan before pouring in the batter. This gives the muffins a delicious nutty flavor.

Storing Linens.—In storing linens for a long period, it is better to roll them, as the material may be weakened by continued creasing.

Cleaning Woolen Clothes.—Dark woolen clothes which pick up lint easily are quickly cleaned by wetting a rubber sponge, then wringing it dry and sponging the garment.

To Freshen Salt Meat.—Put it into cold water, quickly bring to a boil, then let simmer.

Constipated?

It's Nerves Not Poisons That Make You DIZZY and DOPEY

Modern doctors now say that constipation swells up digestive organs causing pressure on nerves in this region. This nerve pressure causes frequent bilious spells, dizziness, headache, sour stomach, dull, tired-out feeling, sleepless nights, coated tongue, bad taste and loss of appetite. Don't fool with laxatives that give slow action, overnight relief, or are timed to act in 12 to 24 hours. What you want is QUICK results. GET THAT PRESSURE OFF THE NERVES. Flush the intestinal system. When offending wastes are gone, the bowels return to normal size and nerve pressure stops. At most at once you feel marvelously refreshed, blues vanish, and life looks bright again. That is why so many doctors are now insisting on gentle but QUICK ACTION. That is why YOU should insist on Adierka. This efficient intestinal evacuant contains SEVEN carminative and cathartic ingredients. Adierka acts on the stomach as well as the entire intestinal tract. Adierka relieves stomach distress at once and often cures bowel congestion in half an hour. No violent action, no after effects, just QUICK results. Recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife; take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

Lesson for October 17

CHRISTIAN SPEECH AND CONDUCT

LESSON TEXT—James, Chapter 3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth.—Ephesians 4:29.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Words I Say.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Bridge on the Tongue.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christian Speech.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Words and Works.

Christian speech and conduct may well be studied in the book of James, for he stresses the importance of works as demonstrating faith. There are two common errors—one is to attempt to be justified by good works apart from faith in the Lord Jesus Christ—the other is to talk about believing in him and then fail to live in accordance with one's profession. Some have assumed that James fell into the former error, urging works as a substitute for faith, but an intelligent reading of his epistle clearly indicates that he is in no sense contradicting the Scripture doctrine of justification by faith, but is showing that professed faith which does not result in Christian living is in reality a dead and useless thing.

I. Christian Talk (vv. 1-12).

As he enters upon his searching and convicting discussion of the tongue and its misuse the writer distinguishes between

1. Two kinds of talkers (vv. 1, 2).

a. "Teachers" (v. 1.) who have a peculiar responsibility because they stand as the representatives of God at the sacred desk. It is not a place to be sought after, and the man who fills it at God's call needs divine grace and direction that he may speak the truth.

b. "We all" (v. 2). The speech of every one of us counts either for or against God, even though we may not fill the teacher's chair or stand in the pulpit.

2. A single danger (vv. 3-12). All of us have the one danger—lack of "tongue-control." Developing that thought the text first points out that a. Powerful things need control (vv. 3-5). The horse is a wild and useless animal without the directing and restraining bit. A ship without a rudder will be lost. A tongue needs direction and control, for while a little thing, it is tremendously powerful.

b. An uncontrolled tongue is dangerous (vv. 6-8). How vivid is the imagery of the words before us. A fire spreading and destroying, an untamed animal running wild in all its fury, a deadly poison eating away the life—such is the uncontrolled tongue.

We recognize the truth of these things. We see how vile and careless speech debases man, how words chosen for their power to destroy pour forth from the press, over the footlights, from man to man and literally "set on fire the course of nature" (v. 6).

c. An uncontrolled tongue is inconsistent (vv. 9-12). Again the figure is striking. The fountain which pours forth fresh pure water to sustain life does not at the same time bring forth the bitter brackish water. Fig trees do not bear olives, vines do not bear figs. Nature is consistent and dependable.

But the tongue—ah, that is another matter! How sadly do we confess our failure, for here do we "offend all" (v. 2). We bless God, and defile and destroy man, with the same lips. "These things ought not so to be" (v. 10).

II. Christian Walk (vv. 13-18).

The word "conversation" in v. 13 is an English word which now means "talk" but which formerly meant "manner of living."

1. Words and works must agree (vv. 13, 14). It is only right that those who speak of following Christ should prove it in their manner of living. Talk may be smooth and broad in its claims, but the demonstration of its reality and honesty is in the daily walk. This calls for wisdom which is divine—earthly wisdom will not suffice.

2. Earthly wisdom is false (vv. 15, 16). There is a wisdom apart from God. Men of the world are brilliant and able, but scrutinize their wisdom and you will find that it is "sensual"—that is, of the senses—or natural as distinguished from spiritual. All too often it is downright "devilish" (v. 16).

3. True wisdom is from above (vv. 17, 18). Undefined, unselfish, unpromising, ~~unselfish, unpromising, unselfish, unpromising~~ stubborn, impartial and sincere—and "full of mercy and good fruits"—such is God's wisdom for the Christian's life.

CARRY YOUR ALKALIZER WITH YOU ALWAYS

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkalizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle.
