Food Shortage Faces Stormbound Section

(By The United Press)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 26—New York state and lower Canada was stormbound today by the worst blizzard in 52 years.

At least seven persons were dead, thousands were marooned and populous districts were threatened with fuel and food shortage as snow, driven about by a 50-mile-an-hour gale, piled up in towns and countryside from a depth of five inches to drifts 30 feet high.

County Is Isolated

Wyoming county was isolated and snowplows were having difficulty opening roads leading into it.

"If they don't get through soon, we face a milk shortage," Police-Chief Clifford Coefield reported by telephone. "At least 100 cans of milk are tied up in a garage. It is even impossible to reach some sections with horse and sleigh."

Sheriff Louis N. Spring of Wyoming county said the storm was the worst he could remember; worse than the blizzard of 1888 which has been regarded as the east's worst snow storm.

Cities Are Snowbound

Syracuse, Utica and Rochester, with a combined population of 640,000, were snowbound. Horse-drawn sleighs were used to haul milk into the cities. Police were stationed at their outskirts to prevent anyone trying to leave by automobile. Radio stations, at the request of police, repeatedly warned against travel.

On the highways, hundreds of automobiles were buried in snow, their occupants having taken shelter in

Billion-Dollar Order Likely To Be Placed

Six Hundred Ships Will Be Released In Near Future

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26—The army and navy stood aside today to give France and Britain virtually unhindered access to the latest models of American warplanes.

The two services formally agreed late yesterday on the new export policy, acting on the belief that national defense would best be served by the consequent expansion of the nation's aircraft industry and by the rigorous testing which American-developed ships will receive in Europe's aerial war.

Orders To Be Speeded

Barring congressional interference, officials said that the new policy forecast these immediate results:

1. Release to the Allies of some 600 planes now under construction for the army or navy.

2. Acceleration in the placing of an expected $1,000,000,000 in Franco-British aircraft orders.

Secretary of War Woodring is expected to submit a detailed exposition of the new army-navy stand when he appears tomorrow before the House military committee which is investigating foreign plane purchases here. The previous policy had been not to release any military craft for sale until a better type had been perfected.

The Allies, on their part, would be required to furnish complete data on the performance of the planes in active service in order that subsequent models may be improved for the benefit of American air forces.

Another stipulation requires a guarantee that the Allies will not manufacture planes of American design in Europe. This is to safeguard the domestic aviation industry and the employment of aircraft workers.

Wallace Says Quick Relief Is Necessary

One-Fourth Of Farm Mortgages Said To Be In Arrears

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 26—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today asked Congress to make it easier for farmers to obtain credit because a serious condition exists with one-fourth of the farm mortgages in arrears.

He said that the period of liquidation made necessary by erroneous policies in the 1920's still was in progress and that additional credit relief is imperative.

Defends Easier Policies

In this connection Wallace, appearing before the House agriculture committee, defended the easier lending policies of the Farm Credit administration, which has undergone an extensive shakeup of administrative personnel since it was placed under agriculture department supervision. He told the committee that provisions of the Jones bill for modification of the federal land bank system were sound. He believed an immediate refinancing program to reduce interest rates on farm mortgages and give farmers longer periods in which to pay the principal on their loan is a "sound credit policy." The Jones bill would spread mortgage payments over a longer period and reduce the liability of farm borrowers on stock in federal land banks.

"The Farm Credit administration should be guided by considerations much broader than those of an ordinary private banking institution, operated solely for profit," Wallace said.

Have Ducked The Facts

"We need more hard-headedness in approaching the federal land bank problem. Ever since 1921 we have been troubled with too much soft-headedness, too much ducking of facts.

"It is high time that the people knew that about 25 per cent of the

"Never Trust Woman" Elmer Learns Baby Talk Is Full Of Peril

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This story is taken from a dossier just incorporated into records of the U. S. marine corps. Only the names are fictitious.)

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, March 26 — Elmer Dowdy was 19. Everything looked rosy. He had a job on a huckster's wagon on the north side.

He loved Bella Ann, who was 17. He thought of her as a sweet little thing despite her 140 Pounds. Sometimes she lapsed into baby talk. Elmer thought that meant innocence. They were married.

But Things Got Tough

But things got tough. Elmer lost his job.

Bella Ann dropped her baby talk. "What the hell? I'm hungry."

Elmer talked to his ma, who had divorced pa and married a cook. Ma was no help so Elmer went to pa.

"Join the marines," pa suggested. "They feed you well. I will certify that you are single."

Bella Ann heartily approved after Elmer promised he'd send her his pay every month.

"Don't Forget The Check"

Bella Ann wrote punctiliously — just before every pay day: "Oor itty bitsy pie misses oo. Don't forget the check."

Elmer didn't. But one day, missing Bella Ann more than usual, he stuck the check in his pocket, hopped a freight and came home.

Bella Ann was surprised and so was ma. Then in walked the marines. They dropped a remark about it being worth $50 to anyone who informed on a deserter.

A strange gleam came into Bella Ann's eyes. Into ma's, too.

Elmer spent some time in the brig but he'd no more than got out until he got a letter from Bella Ann:

More Baby Talk

"Oor itty bitsy pie is knitting oo know what wif her own itty hands. Why don't you desert, Elmer? You ought to be by my side in this emergency."

One from ma, too:

"I sure wouldn't stay with them ole marines. Come home and get a new flat and they won't find you."

Elmer replied "nuts to the marines. If it's a boy we will call him Elmer, junior" and hopped another freight.

Bella Ann locked him in a back room.

And Youth Triumphs

Ma and Bella Ann lived in the same block. Out they popped at almost the same minute early next morning. Bella Ann was fatter, but she was younger. She led for several blocks. Then her ma-in-law caught her on a

New Clue Revealed In Frome Slayings

(By The United Press)

EL PASO, March 26. — A night-watchman at an El Paso automobile agency believed today that he had found the first "tangible" clues to the torture-murder of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter, Nancy, on the desert near Van Horn, Texas, almost two years ago.

Almost on the eve of the killings of the Berkeley, Calif., socialites—March 30, 1938—W. S. Bennett, who said he had used his spare moments "studying the case," revealed he had sent a piece of black satin cloth to the Texas department of safety for tests to see if the cloth had been stained by human blood.

Might Be Connected

"I can't say where I got the black satin," Bennett said, "but I have reason to believe it might be connected with the Frome murders."

Bennett said he also was interested in learning whether or not a laundry number, 8194, issued in Berkeley, might have a bearing on the case. He did not identify the laundry, nor did he say where he had gotten the figures.

I believe this laundry number is also a tangible clue," Bennett said, "although I had rather not tell right now my reasons. Also I'd like to have a sample of Mrs. Frome's hair to check up on another angle."

Hundreds Of Leads

Sheriff Chris P. Fox, apprised of Bennett's statements by the United Press, said he was "interested" and would interview the nightwatchman today, although "I've had hundreds of such leads and they all led to nothing."

"But," he added, "we don't want to leave any stone unturned to try to crack this case, which, in my opinion, is the most baffling in the history of the southwest."

Sheriff Fox admitted that peace

Labor Loses Court Fight

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Justice Gordon of the federal district court ruled today that labor unions were subject to criminal conspiracy prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust act.

Dismissing a demurrer by which AFL teamster union officials sought to be excluded from prosecution on an indictment charging restraint of trade in a jurisdictional dispute, Justice Gordon said:

Restraint Of Trade

"The (justice department) allegation as to the prevention, by threat of force and by force, or delivery of concrete in 'mixer trucks' not operated by members of the defendant union, to various construction projects within this district shows a direct, unreasonable and unlawful restraint of trade and commerce in this district."

Justice Gordon's ruling was taken by government attorneys as an important victory in their anti-trust campaign in the building industry.

Rio Grande Swells Near Flood Stage

HARLINGEN, March 26 (AP)—The Rio Grande is expected to reach flood stage at San Benito some time today as the result of another heavy rain throughout the valley.

The river, which had been reduced to a trickle because of a severe drouth, became a torrent yesterday after an eight-inch downpour in Starr county.

Other sections of the valley received up to three inches of precipitation.

Hail came with the rain, damaging citrus crops and the soaked fields present a threat to the valley cotton crop since the AAA deadline is April 11. It will require a week or more of fair weather to dry the land so farmers can plant seed.

...oters Will Learn ...ruth About Jobs

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 26.—American voters, who will hear a lot about the unemployment problem during the 1940 political campaign, may know by election day in November just how many men and women are idle.

The census bureau said today that a five per cent sample of its job enumeration would be published during the summer and that the total count of unemployed might be completed before the election.

Somebody Is Wrong

Unofficial and private estimates of unemployment recently have ranged from 2,000,000 to 12,000,000. Obviously, somebody is wrong, and the census-takers setting out next Tuesday are going to find out who it is.

They not only will count the employed and unemployed, but they also will determine several degrees of employment.

Here are some of the disputed points about unemployment and how the census will attempt to settle them:

Count Those At Work

1. The census will count the persons actually at work on private or non-emergency government work. That number will show what percentage of the population is employed. In 1930, before work relief was started on a large scale, 48,800,000 or 39.8 per cent were listed as gainful workers.

2. Also to be counted are those at work or assigned to public emergency jobs, federal and local. Whether these should be considered as employed has been argued, but at least their status will be determined and they may be counted in the total labor supply.

In Three Groups

3. All persons of 14 or over who are jobless will be asked whether they are seeking work. They will be divided into three groups: new workers, experienced workers, and non-workers.

Some guessers, assuming that the

Canadians Are Voting Today

(By The United Press)

OTTAWA, Ontario, March 26.—Canada held a national election today, providing a "mandate from the people" on war policy.

The liberal government of Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King was at stake but the betting odds were 7-5 that it would stay in power. The election was ordered Jan. 25, after Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario province had charged the government with "bungling the war effort," and got the provincial legislature to say that in a resolution.

Storm To Cut Votes

Most of the 6,500,000 voters were going to the polls through one of the worst blizzards of the year. The liberal government, opposed by conservatives headed by Dr. Robert J. Manion, was expected to lose votes on account of the storm. Traditionally liberal Quebec and northern New Brunswick were snowed under, with most country roads blocked. The urban population there, with easier access to the polls, was largely conservative.

It was the 17th general election since confederation in 1867. When parliament was dissolved Jan. 25 in a speech from the throne by Gov.-Gen. Lord Tweedsmuir, the liberals held 169 seats, the conservatives 28, and independents and others the remainder of the 245 seats.

Soldier voting, which in the World war changed the result in 14 constituencies (districts) was a factor again. It will not be announced until April 2.

All soldiers were eligible to vote, regardless of whether they were qualified voters in civil life.

In the voting, Wright won over his opponents for each post.

The check was taken to the sheriff by Capt. Dave F. Simmons of the state trooper detail which returned Gallogly to Georgia Sunday to resume his life sentence for the 1928 "thrill" slaying of an Atlanta drug clerk.

Hard Luck Comes In Bunches After Young Man Loses Job

(By The Associated Press)

SHREVEPORT, La., March 26.—The January cold wave in Texas' citrus section not only cut down the fruit supply but reduced demand for packing crates.

So 26-year-old Dee Thompson lost his job in a Shreveport crate plant.

Two weeks ago a windstorm struck this section. It knocked down the house where Thompson lived with his 52-year-old jobless father.

The Thompsons, salvaged some furniture, moved into a Red Cross-provided tent.

Last week the elder Mrs. Thompson took influenza. Then the Easter cold wave dipped into the deep south.

Yesterday the younger Mrs. Thompson sought to make things more comfortable, lit a fire.

Came a gust of wind. A loose canvas flapped into the fire. Up in flames went the tent.

Dee Thompson rushed in to try to save a few pieces of furniture—all the worldly possessions of the family. But those pieces he managed to drag out were burned.

So was Dee's right hand.

Woman Faces Slaying Count

PHILADELPHIA, March 26 (AP)—A Washington Sunday school teacher's wife, who fought extradition but then changed her mind, was brought to Philadelphia last night to answer charges that she gave information that led to the torture slaying of an elderly housekeeper here.

Mrs. Effie Hattie Smith, 59-year-old operator of a cafeteria near the White House, was placed in a city hall cell on charges of suspicion of homicide and being a fugitive from justice.

Simultaneously with her arrival here, Detective Captain William C. Engle announced that Santo Ruggerio, 31, one of five others held in a two-city roundup, had made a statement in the Long Island, N. Y., jail connecting Mrs. Smith with the slaying.

Denies Any Part

The woman denied knowledge of the strangling of 61-year-old Miss Winifred Flannery five years ago.

Two men and two other women, Joseph Guida, 48, his wife, Helen 37, John Iagana, 37, and his wife, Angela, 35, previously were seized in Washington and brought to Philadelphia. All were charged with homicide.

Engle declared he had information that all six were linked with the 1935 slaying in which, he said, Miss Flannery was tortured to make her tell where her employer's savings were hidden.

Stock Show

is in the show barns; 492 animals having been tagged as entries Monday, but the number was 'sifted' for competition, leaving 205 animals to be sold outside the auction ring of the show.

A total of 87 cattle, 92 hogs and 108 sheep remained in the barns after the sifting Monday.

Box Supper Scheduled

Besides selection of grand champions, the main entertainment feature of the day was the exhibitors' box supper scheduled for 6 o'clock tonight.

Besides judging today, entertainment includes a showing of films at the Lindsey theater at 11 o'clock by A. C. Williams, president of the Houston Land bank and a box supper at 6 o'clock to exhibitors.

Night Meeting Set

Show officials will probably attend a night meeting at Texas Technological college at which Washington and College Station officials will be present. Many county agents and vocational agriculture teachers are to attend.

Difference between the more than 600 entries and the 493 animals actually listed and tagged was due to the fact that many county agents and vocational teachers had listed animals that later were sold in their respective county shows.

Quality Is Best

General consensus was that the livestock remaining in the barns after sifting exceeded in quality that of previous shows. Some even went so far as to comment that champions of the earlier shows would hardly get into the money, so great has been the advance in quality.

Sifting was done by a secret group, with the greatest checking and rechecking of preliminary decisions. Cutting out was the deepest known; particularly in the calf division.

Explanation was given that "this is a show" rather than a sale and that the animals that will parade before judges represent the best show animals brought here. Selection was made for approved types of show animals.

County agents and vocational agriculture teachers brought many 4-H club and F.F.A. chapter boys with them aside from exhibitors. This was done to give the boys a chance to study types wanted, so that future exhibitors might know better what types of animals to feed.

C. C. Jobson, county farm agent and general show superintendent, was enthusiastic over the quality of show stock. "Best I have ever seen here," he commented. "This is an outstanding show and is far ahead of anything we have ever had here."

Cool weather Monday morning put a slight damper on attendance, but with a warm sun coming out, attendance in the afternoon was good.

Inspection Is Made

During the afternoon exhibitors kept the wash rack crowded as they washed down their animals and groomed them for the judging. After washing the calves, pigs and sheep had their hair primped in the most approved fashion.

First inspection of exhibits for neatness was made by a committee representing the Lubbock Kiwanis club Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All exhibits were visited. Other inspections will be made by the group Tuesday and Wednesday. Later inspections will be at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Neatest and most attractive exhibit in each of the three divisions will be awarded $5 and second, $3. Orderliness and cleanliness, promptness, systematic and neat arrangements, cleanliness of alleys, personal appearance of caretakers and observance of rules and regulations are points to be considered in selection of winners.

Price Of Gasoline In East Texas Slashed

LONGVIEW, March 26. (AP)—Gasoline prices tumbled in East Texas today with major and independent concerns involved in price cuts that ranged from one to four cents per gallon.

Price reductions started several days ago when several independents slashed the retail price on third grade gasoline to 11 cents per gallon. The cut allowed a profit of only one and a half cents from refinery dock to consumer.

Other independent gasolines were retailing at 13 to 14 cents on regular grade and 15 to 16 cents on premium grades, one cent reductions.

Burns Denies That He Is "Love Thief"

(By The United Press)

HOLLYWOOD, March 26 — Bob Burns, gangling Arkansas movie and radio comedian, was accused of love theft today in a $70,000 damage suit charging intimidation and false imprisonment.

Bob Burns

The suit was filed by Daniel W. Hoge, middle-aged former Texas oil man, who said Burns and others "kidnaped" him and forced him to agree not to press a suit for alienation of affections.

Hoge, heavy-set civil engineer, asserted that Burns and representatives of Paramount studio entered his home Dec. 29, 1938, carried him to a downtown office and forced him to sign two documents. One, his suit alleged, freed Burns from love theft charges, and the other absolved the studio.

Ransacked His Home

While he was held captive, Hoge said, Burns and his alleged confederates ransacked his Wilmington home for papers they believed had bearing on proposed action accusing Burns of alienating the affections of Mrs. Millie Bernice Hoge.

Burns described the suit as the "most ridiculous and far-fetched thing" he had ever known. He said he supposed Hoge's action was based on an investigation of his threat to sue him and the studio.

Paramount lawyers went to the district attorney's office when Hoge came around threatening to sue, Burns said. "The district attorney sent some men down to find out what it was all about. I wasn't there myself, but the investigators told me he broke down and cried and said there was nothing to it."

Asked His Forgiveness

"After it was all over, Hoge called on me and asked me to forgive him."

Burns said he had known Hoge a "long time ago in Chicago."

"But I only met his wife once and now I suppose he wants to get some of the money I'm supposed to be earning now."

Burns has earned as much as $400,000 in a single year.

"When Hoge bothered me before this thing, I just laughed about it. Maybe that's what I should do now. I might be able to crowd Jessel (George Jessel) off the front page."

Burns married his former secretary, Harriet Madella Foster, at Las Vegas, Nev., on May 31, 1937, a year after his first wife died. He has two children, one by his former wife and one by the present Mrs. Burns.

Hoge said he first met the 48-year-old sage of Van Buren, Ark., in 1915. He said they renewed their acquaintance in 1932 in Hollywood.

For three years, he said, Burns visited them, and in 1935 Mrs. Hoge left him. He said he planned in 1938 to sue for divorce naming the comedian as co-respondent, but denied he ever threatened Burns or asked him for money.

Frome Murders

Don't Even Have Motive

"Everything we have is intangible, and the case still is as much unsolved as ever," he said. "We don't even have a motive."

The bodies of Mrs. Frome, 46, and her daughter, Nancy, 23, were found in a mesquite thicket Sunday, April 3, 1938, off the main but desolate highway on which they had been traveling from Berkeley to Parris Island, S. C., where they had planned to visit another daughter, Mrs. Mada McMakin. Both bodies were nearly nude, and the two women apparently had been tortured before they were slain. Their automobile had been "picked clean," of all the women's belongings.

Two Children Burned To Death In Home

CLEBURNE, March 26 (AP)—Two small children of Lloyd Matthews, a broom factory worker, were burned to death today when a stove, burning corn cobs, exploded at their home.

A third child, three years old, escaped serious injury. The mother of the children was at a neighbor's house when the blast went off.

The fatally burned children were five and two years old.

Refugee Army Crosses Seas

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) — A great army of German political refugees — officials estimate the number at between 120,000 and 140,000 — has crossed the seas since President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull inaugurated the international movement for their succor two years ago on March 24, 1938.

The war has seriously impeded the work of the international organization set up as a result of the Roosevelt-Hull initiative, but it has completed arrangements for the first large-scale permanent settlement — in the Dominican republic where 500 families will be settled immediately and where arrangements are being made to receive a total of 100,000 individuals.

Another Is Planned

In addition, arrangements are nearing completion for another settlement, probably on a smaller scale in the Philippines.

For the time being, the principal aim of the refugee movement is transferring from Europe the German exiles only temporarily resident there. It is estimated that since the nazis came into power in 1933, 400,000 refugees have emigrated from greater Germany. Of these, 250,000 went overseas and 150,000 were left in European countries. About 50,000 of the latter number can be considered as permanently settled, which means that 100,000 still remain to be transported to permanent settlement.

Mistakes Of The 20's

"The truth is that the present necessity of further strengthening the land bank system is the result of the mistakes of the 20's. The emergency measures taken by the Roosevelt administration in 1933 and succeeding years kept the financial system of the country, and also the majority of farmers, from going through the ringer. Instead, we have had a difficult period of gradual readjustment. This period is not over and the readjustment is not complete."

Wallace said at least 200,000 farmers have had their land foreclosed in the last 10 years. Many of these, he said, had reached a time of life which made it impossible for them to get a fresh foothold and they were added to the relief rolls.

Bella Ann went south with the $50 and a taxi driver.

Stock Market

SPECIALTIES STAND UP

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP) — Specialties again stood up in today's stock market while the general run of leaders continued to display rising reluctance.

A relapse on the British "free" pound sterling to the lowest level on record in terms of the old gold dollar was a bearish influence on the list. In addition, scant inspiration could be found in business news or European war developments. Consequently what speculative nibbling appeared was highly selective.

There were scattered gainers of a point or so and some encouragement was found in the fact that declines, for the most part, were in small fractions at the close.

Flurries of activity cropped up now and then, but sizeable were plentiful. Transfers approximated 650,000 shares.

A handful of aircraft manufacturing stocks edged forward. Among these were Douglas, Lockheed and Curtiss-Wright A.

Beverage issues stepped into the limelight with new 1940 tops being posted for Loft, Crown Cork, White Rock and National Distillers. Resistant were Canada Dry, Brunswick-Balke, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of N. J. and American Can.

Behind the greater part of the day were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, N. Y. Central, American Air Lines, United Air Lines, Pan American Airways, Anaconda, South Porto Rico Sugar, Allied Chemical and Union Carbide.

Bonds were spotty, as were commodities.

Five Jurors Chosen For Murder Trial

POST, March 26. (Special)—Two more jurors had been selected in 10th district court of Judge Louis B. Reed this morning, making only five accepted for service in the Drew Enloe murder case.

Enloe is charged with murder of Clen Browning.

New jurors were Clay Johnston, farmer of near Southland, and A. R. Robinson, who lives nine miles northwest of Post, also a farmer.

Twenty-nine persons of a special venire narrowed from 108 to 73 by excuses and other causes had been examined by Truett Smith, district attorney, and G. H. Nelson and Franklin D. Brown, counsel for defense, said Ray N. Smith, district clerk.

Enloe's case was moved here on a change of venue from Lynn county. The case was called at Tahoka March 4, and after a special venire had been exhausted in an unsuccessful attempt to select a jury, the change of venue was granted.

Selected Monday were Elton Nance, a farmer living southeast of Post; J. B. King, farmer of north Post; and Harold Voss, a tailor here.

Smith said that trial of Nora Hogue, negro man, billed on an assault to murder charge as an outgrowth of an alleged attack on Hogue's wife Feb. 21, had been set for Monday, April 1.

Movie Censorship Is Rapped By Hays

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Attempts at movie censorship were assailed today by Will H. Hays as "a scheme destructive of the very basis of free speech, a free press, the freedom of the air or a free screen."

In his annual report as head of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., Hays contended that "the progressive social improvement of the screen is the result of self-regulation."

"It is ironic," he added, "that notwithstanding this record there should be any insistence on a subterfuge potentially more vicious than any form of outright censorship.

"The new censorship movement parades under the name of 'community selection' — except that self-appointed censors, not the community, are to do the selecting."

He contended that what is now urged "through misleading propaganda is really selection without the consent of the community."

Conviction Of Negro Voided

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) — Vacating previous action, the supreme court today set aside the conviction of Bob White, Polk county, Texas, negro, sentenced to death after being found guilty of criminally attacking a white woman.

This action was taken, without a formal opinion, upon the authority of a decision February 12 which reversed the conviction of Florida negroes on the ground that confessions had been obtained improperly.

Review Refused

The high tribunal refused last November 13 to review White's conviction. That was before the decision in the Florida case.

Under the supreme court action, Texas officials can institute new proceedings against White if they so desire.

White also contended the trial court erred in admitting a "purported confession" which he said was made under duress "after at least one week of mental and physical coercion."

Another contention by White was that members of his race were excluded from the juries which indicted and tried him. He was found guilty in the Montgomery county district court at Conroe, Tex., after being indicted in Polk county in August, 1937.

John Wesley was one of the greatest hymn writers of all time, composing more than 6,000 hymns.

An annual banquet and other entertainment features will be arranged for the exes which are expected from over all of West Texas.

The reunion will include ex-students of East Texas Normal and Mayo colleges, former names of ETSTC, situated in Commerce. The institution became a state school in 1917, said Pharr

Anton And Hereford To Stage Banquets

One came from Ed Hart to attend the dinner of the Anton Chamber the night of April 2 and the other from E. B. Posey, secretary, to be present at the banquet of the Hereford Chamber the night of April 3.

Expectation is, officials of the local chamber said, that both invitations will be accepted.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and "cure" it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran. Eat it often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Dairy Ordinance Of City Is Completed

Lubbock's revised milk and dairy ordinance has been completed and is scheduled for submission to the city commission at its semi-monthly meeting Thursday afternoon, according to information given at the city hall this morning.

The revision required several weeks of work on the part of Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer; Durwood H. Bradley, city attorney; Miss Dora Snyder, city bacteriologist; and G. G. Hunter, dairy sanitarian. The proposed ordinance then was referred to the state department of health, by which it has been approved.

Planning A Garden?

Plants, Like Human Beings, Are Benefitted By Vitamins

BY ROBERT E. GEIGER
Associated Press Feature Service Writer

Techniques in plant culture and feeding developed in the last two years or so are making gardening an exciting adventure.

Chemical agriculture, the growing of plants without soil, still is in an experimental stage, but the amateur with only a limited space can find pleasure in it.

SEVENTH IN A SERIES

Another recent development is the use of vitamin B1, which followed upon the discovery a few years ago that plants, like human beings, manufacture a hormone secretion that speeds up growth. Only since last fall has vitamin B1 been on the market.

There now seems to be no doubt of its nutritional value for many plants that do not themselves produce enough B1. Most flowers and shrubs are in this group. The economic plants—peas, corn, tomatoes, beans and other intensively cultivated crops—are not improved by it.

Experiments indicate the vitamin will aid delicate plants suffering from nutritional deficiencies. But its greatest promise is in the field of transplantation, repotting and propagation and in producing plants and blooms of extraordinary size.

Plants, even trees, have been dug up; the soil washed from their roots and a bath of B1 solution applied. They have thrived, whereas other plants transplanted in the same root-shocking manner, but without the bath, have died or were crippled.

The cost of the vitamin is well within the budget of most gardeners; $1 buys a season's supply for a small plot.

Use of B1 is so new that amateur gardeners may play an experimenter's role in the use of it. Undoubtedly they will discover advantages not yet noted by the experts.

Joe Says Watch The Sox

By Collier Parris

LOOKING VERY CHIPPER, if not a year older, Joe L. Brown barged into town yesterday and from the opposite side of our desk announced that Chicago would have a baseball club in the top division this year — but it wouldn't be in the National league.

• • •

"The White Sox look pretty good," quoth Brown, who has been watching them work out and play exhibitions in California this spring. "But those Cubs . . . they'll do well to finish even in the second division, although I haven't seen the Phillies yet."

• • •

And Brown probably wasn't speaking from the depths of White Sox loyalty, either; although he's an employe of the White Sox, as business manager of the Lubbock Hubbers, his reports from the western camps coincide with those of disinterested scribes and critics who have been writing pieces for the papers from the big league training camps.

• • •

Joe doesn't know a heckuvalot about the Lubbock situation so far as player personnel goes for the coming season, but he is all wrapped up in his new job and pretty sure that Skipper Charlie Engle will bring a good ball club to Lubbock from the Jonesboro camp. He's going to Greensboro shortly after the White Sox-Pirate exhibition here April 4 and get acquainted with the boys who'll make up the Hubber roster this summer, but just now Brown is more interested in making a success of that exhibition game.

• • •

"I think the fans will get a kick out of watching the Sox play. The team is made up largely of young fellows, brought up from the farms of the Sox system, and they are hustling fools. Manager Jimmy Dykes has a good pitching staff, five or six regulars who batted over .300 last year, a fine young catcher, and a lot of life and pep. Oldtimers around the Sox say that it's one of the best looking young clubs they ever saw in the majors."

• • •

One of the liveliest of them all, Brown says, is Monte Stratton, the hard luck Texan who was well on the road to major league pitching fame when a firearm accident necessitated amputation of a leg. Monte got a new leg, and was getting about on it so cleverly that he thought he'd keep on pitching, and there were stories to that effect early this year.

"But Monte'll never do much, if any, pitching," said Brown. "He's doing a swell job of coaching and advising the young pitchers, and he has more fire and pepper than anybody in camp, nearly. He can throw pretty good, and you don't notice his artificial leg much, but it's too much to hope that he could take his regular turn, or even do much relieving on such a shaky foundation."

• • •

Which means that two very colorful coaches will be at the third base coaching lines when the Sox and Pirates play here. Honus "Hans" Wagner, the bow-legged grizzly bear who did a stint of shortstopping a few decades ago, is still whistlin' 'em around the hot corner for the Pirates. He'll be the most ogled man on the field that day.

• • •

Young Brown steps into a responsible job here this summer; he takes the place vacated by Harry Faulkner, and Harry was just about tops in his line. Brown won't be entirely lost, and by no means a stranger, however, because he "understudied" Faulkner all of last summer, and no doubt picked up a lot of valuable pointers. So far as actual maneuvering of the ball club's business is concerned, Brown probably is capable of getting a good job well done. It is not expected of him to do as much extra-curricula work, civic club and sewing circle lecturing, and other downtown backslapping. Faulkner is a master politician, a finished after-dinner speaker, radio talker, and all that goes with a man of his particular makeup. But he is one in several thousand at that sort of business, and, it must be remembered, he has the benefit of about 20 years experience at the game.

• • •

Brown, practically a freshman, certainly no more than a sophomore, in this baseball racket, showed a lot of guts and determination when he accepted the job. At the same time, he is grateful for the chance to do the job, and especially happy that Lubbock is to be the scene of his operations. Lubbock fandom should not expect too much of him, should help him all they can by being patient and agreeable and encouraging. He may make mistakes, but he shouldn't be censored too vigorously; he's a young feller trying to get along in a business he picked out for himself, and he is to be commended for his quick promotion and his willingness to bow his neck and try.

• • •

Speaking of Faulkner, he isn't out of baseball this summer, not by a long shot. Somehow, he wangled that freshman baseball coaching job at Texas A. & M., although he "hired out" to assist with varsity football, and the other day he issued the first call for fish baseballers, with amazing results.

Whereas only a couple dozen or so had ever turned out before for yearling baseball at Aggieland, nearly a couple hundred turned out this spring. Faulkner's job now is to weed the bunch down to about 20. That's what comes of making a big success in a game. Last time we saw Faulkner he was wondering how he

PGA Officials Drafting Idea To Pay Honor

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 26.—Baseball was played first at Cooperstown, N. Y., and Cooperstown is the site of baseball's hall of fame. Golf in the United States was played first at St. Andrew's in Yonkers, N. Y., and that would seem the logical spot for a golf "hall of fame."

Golf could use such an institution and it will have one if present plans of Professional Golf association officials go through.

Heroes Live Forever

In Britain there'd be no need for a hall of fame. Over there, memories are long and heroes live forever.

In this country memories are short and heroes supplant each other at a dizzy pace. Already Frances Ouimet and Chick Evans are little more than names in the record books. Yet Ouimet was the man who brought golf out of the social register into the tabloids. Evans was the first man to win the amateur and the open in the same year (1916).

If the 3,000,000 American golfers were to vote today for the first contingent to enter the hall of fame, Ouimet and Evans would have to be among them.

Others Would Be Included

With them, one would say, should go Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Bobby Jones.

From there on it's every man for himself.

It would be deserved recognition for every one.

Starting with a foundation of oldtimers, the next step would be to elect a new member each year. Offhand, we'd say that of the present crop you might elect Ralph Guldahl, because he won the open two years in a row, and Lawson Little, who may not have done so well as a pro but still stands in the books as the man who won the U. S. and British amateurs in 1934 and 1935. If you want to argue, so much the better. It's arguments that will help keep the ball rolling.

Registration For Junior Baseball School To Start On Thursday; All-Star Game Will Be Feature Climax For Affair

First junior baseball school ever conducted in Lubbock will be given preliminary impetus beginning Thursday with registration for the Friday course getting under way for a one-week run.

Sponsored by the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce, the school will offer young diamond hopefuls between the ages of 10 and 17 in the city a chance to study rudimentary and advanced baseball fundamentals under experienced and capable instructors.

Registration Urged

Any boy interested in gaining more knowledge of the national pastime is urged to register either with Lofton Burnett or his associates in the sporting department of Sherrod Hardware company, 1014 Broadway, or with Clarence Fox, manager of the Fox Recreation park where the school is to be conducted, at his office on College avenue and Third street, said Hugh Dunlap, head of the sponsoring body.

Each boy, when registering, will be required to post a "tuition fee" of 25 cents, which officially enrolls him in the baseball school. He will receive an identification card which will admit him to all classes of the school, and at the end of the school he will receive a "merit award," or some form of "diploma."

At the end of the school, two teams will be selected from the group of outstanding "students," who will play an "all-star" game on the closing day of the school, or approximately that date.

The game will be played at Fox Park, which has been enlarged from softball park size to a full baseball field size.

In addition to regular instructors, who will be veteran baseball men here in town, including Sled Allen, John King, Vernon Brown, Sylvan Sanders and Clarence Fox, it is hoped to have special talks by members of the Chicago White Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates teams who will be in Lubbock April 4.

Lamb County Stars Tune Up For Meet

LITTLEFIELD, March 26 (Special) —Shadows of new District records were cast here Friday night when several sterling performances were reeled off in Littlefield's invitation track and field meet, conducted as a "warm-up" to the Lamb county Interscholastic league meet here Friday and Saturday.

Most outstanding feat, and certainly the best from a spectator standpoint, was the 10.1 second "dead heat" turned in by the Hedges twins, Willard and Willis, in the century. The "touchdown twins," who sparked Olton's Mustangs to the bi-district championship last fall, accounted for a majority of their schools total, sending the Olton colors to the front.

Littlefield, paced by an "iron man" performance by crimson thatched Maxie McKnight, was a very close second, having been edged out, 25 to 24. McKnight scored 18 points of that total with triumphs in the high jump, broad jump and 120-yard high hurdles and a second in the 220-yard dash.

The summary:

120-yard high hurdles—McKnight, Littlefield, first; Jackson, Olton, second. Time, 15.9.

100-yard dash — Willard and Willis Hedges Olton, tied for first; Blanchard, Sudan, third; Elliot, Amherst, fourth. Time, 10.1.

880-yard run—Price, Springlake, first; Kempson, Levelland, second; W. Price, Springlake, third; and Kernsville, Sudan, fourth. Time, 2:19.

440-yard dash — Hedges, Olton, first; Hober, Springlake, second; Black, Littlefield, third; Simmons, Levelland, fourth. Time, 55.6.

220-yard dash — Hedges, Olton, first; McKnight, Littlefield, second; Jackson, Olton, third; Simmons, Levelland, fourth. Time, 23.6.

Broad jump—McKnight, Littlefield, first; Blanchard, Sudan, second; Holder, Littlefield, third; Hedges, Olton, fourth. Distance 18 feet 11 inches.

Mile relay—Levelland, first; Springlake, second; Littlefield, third; Olton, fourth. Time, 3:48.

High jump—McKnight, Littlefield, first; Jackson, Olton, second; Lyle, Sudan, third; Trull, Springlake, fourth. Height, 5 feet 10 inches.

Fine Infield But Outfield Is Doubtful

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 26.—Somewhat earlier than usual, it becomes necessary to tell the ever-hopeful Brooklyn fans to "wait until next year."

This is a painful duty, because the Dodgers got their following even more excited than usual by climbing into third place in last year's National league chase, and the Flatbush fans are going to be loud in their disappointment if the team doesn't do at least as well this time.

Sound In The Infield

But that's the point. They might have difficulty staying that high. With all the new players, including Outfielders Joe Vosmik and Roy Cullenbine and the little squirrel of a shortstop, "Peewee" Reese, the Dodgers still are really sound in only one department, their infield.

Manager Leo Durocher, who imported and exported outfielders like a commission merchant all last season, still hasn't found a combination that suits him. All he knows for sure at this point is that the slowing Vosmik, purchased from Boston for $25,000, will hold down left field.

Despairing of finding an established slugger to patrol the center garden, Durocher, is thinking seriously of starting the race with 20-year-old Charlie Gilbert from Nashville in that important spot. If he does, it can be taken as an admission that the Dodgers don't hope to win this year but are building seriously for the long haul.

Cullenbine Must Hit

If Cullenbine can hit better than he did with Detroit, he is a cinch for the third outer post, for he is a real ball hawk and owns a fine throwing arm. Otherwise, Durocher must fall back on men like Ernie Koy and Jim Ripple. Both are good, run-of-the-mine outfielders, but not the kind of men that Brooklyn needs to make it a pennant contender.

Young Gilbert, incidentally, will make a colorful addition to baseball, even though they might be rushing him a trifle. He is a son of Larry Gilbert of the famous Boston Braves of 1914, and he attended his first ball game at the ripe age of 12 days, in a basket. His father now is manager and part-owner of the Nashville club.

Everybody around here seems to think that Reese, the $50,000 kid from Louisville, is on his way toward shortstop immortality. He looks like a natural.

Other Cogs In Machine

The other cogs in a slick infield are Dolf Camilli at first, Pete Coscarart (who drove across the winning run in the all-star game) at second, and Cookie Lavagetto at third.

Whether the Dodgers will have good pitching, or only ordinary, appears to depend upon Whitlow Wyatt's ability to field bunts and cover first base with his gimpy knee. Whit proved himself one of the game's great pitchers before he was hurt last season and it became necessary to remove a chip of bone from his knee.

The big fellow limps now when he runs, but he's working like a horse and is cheerfully confident he'll be a winner.

Hugh Casey and Luke Hamlin can be depended on to pitch winning ball, and every spring the hope revives that Van Mungo will come back.

Hubber General Manager In City To Make Arrangements For White Sox-Pirate Tilt

Plans for the Chicago White Sox-Pittsburgh Pirates big exhibition tussle here one week from Thursday afternoon were accelerated considerably Monday with the appearance of Joe L. Brown, business manager-elect of the Lubbock Hubbers, on the local baseball scene.

Acting as an "advance publicity agent" for the contest at the Hubbers' park April 4, first appearance of major league baseball nines in Lubbock and South Plains history, Brown started beating the drums for what appears will be a throng of some 5,000 diamond enthusiasts to view the Chisox and Corsairs in action.

Is "Sugar" Battle

As things now stand, the game here will be a "sugar" battle to the extent that it will snap a one-one tie the two clubs have in games won and lost with each other, the two games in question having been played when the exhibition first got under way last week in California following the breaking of training camp activities.

Brown, son of the famous Hollywood cinema comedian, Joe E., came here direct from the West Coast where he spent much time watching both the Pirates and White Sox prepare for their respective exhibition as well as season campaigns.

Chisox Looking Good

"The White Sox look mighty good in training; they're very apt to finish well in the first division (of this year's American league chase) because the club is made up largely of young fellows who have plenty of ambition, guts and ability," said young Brown. "They've been doing fine in exhibition games, making the Chicago Cubs look very silly, and holding their own against the Pirates, and the toughest teams of the Pacific coast league."

It will be remembered that Brown was assistant business manager to Harry Faulkner last year, and he will assume Faulkner's duties this year, the latter having entrenched himself firmly as coach and scout

Hubber Lineup Unknown

Of the Hubbers and their personnel Brown knows very little at present. He understands that Mel Kramer, pitcher; Andy Sandretto, pitcher; Ray Sparr, outfielder, and Doc O'Neil, outfielder, will be back. Of these, only Kramer was a full-season regular last year. Sparr came here from Longview to replace O'Neil, who had been sent here to replace Malcolm Stevens. O'Neil had an illness, and Sparr looked better than fair during the last week or so of the regular season and through the playoff. Sandretto started the season with Lubbock as the only lefthanded pitcher on the crew, but soon went to Jonesboro, Ark.

Most of the others who played for Lubbock last season have signed contracts to play for Waterloo, Ia., this year.

Brown will remain in Lubbock until after the April 4 big league game, then join the Hubbers at Jonesboro, where spring training starts April 3. Charlie Engle, former big leaguer and Texas leaguer, mostly at Fort Worth and San Antonio, has been named playing manager of the Hubbers for this season. Brown will work with Engle in the training camp at Jonesboro, where four or five other White Sox farm clubs will be working out, and return with the Hubber club to Lubbock about April 20.

Recognition Is Given Studes

IDALOU, March 26 (Special) — A special chapel service was conducted and recognition given to ex-students of Idalou High school Monday afternoon. The program was given by Slaton High school students.

The former students were honor guests at a tea given in the home economics department preceding the assembly program.

The Slaton High school entertainers, headed by Roy Boyd, principal, came here as part of a new plan of such exchanges between high schools of the area to better feeling. R. L. Hooten, superintendent of Idalou schools, instituted the movement, which he hopes will do away with much of the uncalled-for hard feelings among the schools.

Will Return Favors

Other schools of the area will participate in the exchange of programs, Idalou returning the favors, Hooten said.

Following is the program presented by the Slaton visitors:

Cornet solo, Junior Jones; extemporaneous talk, "Our School Facilities at Slaton," by Mina Garland; reading, Mary Louise Landreth; quartet, J. D. Rankin, Kenneth Tudor, M. G. Davis, Charles Reese, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Lillian Butler; violin solo, Hope Hennington, accompanied at the piano by Miss Donna Sanner; trio, Johnson sisters: Helen, Betty and Katy Jo; reading, Mary Anne Schmidt; bassoon solo, James Thornton; reading, Viola Martin; saxophone soloo, Donald Cherry, accompanied aby Miss Sanner; and a quartet, Billy Lokey, James Thornton, Frank Todd, and Dick Ragsdale.

Buddy Myer May Be Traded To Detroit

ORLANDO, Fla., March 26. (AP)—Officials of the Washington Senators were reported today to be considering a trade whereby Buddy Myer, veteran second baseman, would go to the Detroit Tigers.

The Senators have tried unsuccessfully several times since last fall to make a deal with Detroit which would bring them either Hank Greenberg, or Rudy York. The Senators young infielder, Cecil Travis, was offered by Washington.

With Charley Gehringer ailing, Detroit is reported to be interested in Myer for reserve duty.

GO TO almost any town in Mexico and the citizens pridefully will show you the "old church," a cathedral built by the Spaniards and topped by a bell cast in Spain.

Go to New York, and your host will insist upon your seeing the Empire State building.

Go to Washington and you must see the monument and in Detroit, Ford's River Rouge plant is the big noise.

But go to Matador, located in the middle of "the best cow country in the world," and the cowmen over there will show you their bulls.

The Plainsman was over at Matador last week-end, eating off his wife's kinfolks, and spent almost all the time he wasn't at the table looking at bulls. And he never saw a better looking bunch outside a show ring.

W. M. Graham has a $1,000, registered Hereford which was three years old last Saturday and which tips the beam in the neighborhood of 1,700 pounds. Well marked and well nigh perfectly made — he's built as close to the ground as the modern automobile — Mr. Graham's bull is something to see.

And southwest of Matador about eight miles, at the Dutchman camp of the Matador ranch, Hawley Plemons and his helper, Jordan Rogers, have charge of 23 other jim-dandy Hereford sires, ranging from three to five years and worth, in the aggregate, a lot of money.

Good bulls in a cow country are like good diamonds in a jewelry manufacturing house and good guns in an army.

You just can't get along without 'em.

BUT while The Plainsman got a big kick out of seeing the four-footed prides of the Matador country, he got even more of a wallop out of talking with Mesars. Graham and Plemons. For they're two men typical of those who laid the foundation stones of the New West when the Old West was the Old West. They are two fine gentlemen.

Mr. Graham, now a little past 80 but still spry as a fox, rode into Dickens county in 1877, hunting buffaloes for fun and looking for a place to light. Although he has lived in Motley county "only" 37 years, he has been in that general area for right at 63 years.

Mr. Plemons has been boss at the Matador's Dutchman camp only since 1923, but before that he saw 13 years service on the Alamacitas ranch of the Matador company northwest of Dalhart, and three years before that on the ranges of the same company in South Dakota and Montana. In charge of the Matador's show cattle since 1908, he has made scores of the big shows and has the lineal history of the Hereford breed at his very fingertips.

Mr. Graham, who has several farms and a well stocked ranch in Motley county but who now lives in town, knows practically all the oldtimers of the West Texas country.

He settled first near Running Water draw, in Hale county, back about 1880 and was the first man to urge an outside immigrant to settle in Hale county. It was through Mr. Graham's sales talk on the Hale county section that brought there, in the early 80's, a New York preacher named Horatio Graves. Hale Center stems from Preacher Graves.

WHEN Mr. Graham was ranching near Running Water draw, residents were few and far between and mail service was even less available than neighbors.

To keep in touch with the outside world via the postal service, Mr. Graham rode a cowpony a total of from 55 to 60 miles every time he went to and from his camp for his mail. His postoffice was at the now long gone Quaker colony of Estacado, in northeast Crosby county.

While Mr. Graham never exchanged shots with Indians, he came into the country right after the redskins were generally subjugated. Among other things he recalls — and which The Plainsman had never heard of in his digging around in Lubbock — is that one of the last fights between buffalo hunters and Indians in the West was either in eastern Lubbock county or western Crosby county, in what then was called "Thompson canyon."

When Mr. Graham first set foot in Dickens county in '77, not more than a half dozen wagons had preceded him up the hill from the east, he believes. Dockum's store, famous early day supply house and meeting place, was as yet unheard of, although it was there in 1883, when Mr. Graham returned to Dickens county.

He saw old Fort Griffin in its prime and talked with buffalo hunters who were with Lieutenant Nolan when that officer, and a company of negro cavalrymen from Fort Conchon, near San Angelo, followed a wily band of Indian horse thieves into a waterless country. It was on this ill-fated maneuver that the negro troopers died in droves and their skeletons were later found in the areas northwest of Tahoka and, further over, near Portales, N. M.

Although Mr. Graham killed many buffaloes, saw thousands of others and personally talked to many other hunters about the beasts, he never saw a white buffalo and, with the exception of J. Wright Mooar, of Scurry county, has never seen a buffalo hunter who claims to have seen a white buffalo.

Mr. Mooar saw one, killed it—and can prove it.

He has the hide!

MR. PLEMONS, whose sons, Elmore and Bill, and a daughter, Mrs. William Lowrimore, jr., live in Lubbock, took a "temporary job" with the million-acre Matador Land and Cattle Co. back in 1907. As he puts it, "if I don't get fired between now and June, I'll have been with the Matadors 33 years and figure I'll have a steady job."

Typical of the "salt-of-the-earth" West Texas cowmen, Mr. Plemons, about 60, has lived and breathed Matador show cattle. They have been his life and he loves them. A practical cowpuncher who can "tell the favor between a two-year old steer and its mother," Mr. Plemons has the prize job of all those who work under Superintendent M. J. Reilly on the 650,000-acre Matador ranch in the Motley-Dickens area. His Dutchman camp, a large, 40-year old stone house and sprawling corrals on the banks of Dutchman creek, is a challenge to any artist.

★ ★ ★

In earlier years, the Matadors used to show their fine cattle in Chicago, Kansas City, Denver and Fort Worth and it was Hawley Plemons who worked with the stock, conditioned them, went with them to the big shows and who showed them there. In recent years, however, the ranch's show cattle have made their bows only in Denver. That city is the headquarters of the company—a syndicate owned by Scotchmen and now bossed by John Mackenzie whose late father, Murdo, ran the show for the syndicate from 1901 until his death about three years ago.

THERE may be others who can say the same thing, but whether or not Hawley Plemons truthfully can say that he handled the bull from which stemmed the famous Prince Domino Hereford line.

Back in 1910, or thereabouts, the boss of the Matador's Alamacitas ranch in northwest Texas decided that somewhere on the ranch's Motley county holdings was a bull he wanted to use in improving the line. The bull was a medium dark Hereford, big in front and little behind and, as Mr. Plemons recalls, "nothing much to look at." He weighed around 1,700 pounds.

So Mr. Plemons and "Big John" Southworth, who later lived between Post and Ralls, were sent to find that bull, ranging somewhere in a sea of 650,000 acres.

"It was some job," says the Matador's veteran, "and I'll bet we passed him up many times during our three-weeks search, because we were expecting to see a better looking bull. But we finally found him, over on Salt Creek, and took him back.

"That bull was Publican, the forerunner of the Domino line."

IT'S a great country, that Motley county cattle empire, and its little capital, Matador, is, along with Gail and Claremont, about the last of the typical West Texas cow towns.

Living over there are still a few of the men who remember vividly the days of the open range, together with a younger generation pretty well following the trails cut by the old.

And they are well worth knowing.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

JANET DWIGHT, heroine. She was engaged to handsome young architect.

LANCE BARSTOW, hero. Lance had great dreams for the future. So did.

CYNTHIA CANTRELL, orphaned granddaughter of great-aunt Mary Cantrell. Still another dreamer was BARNEY McKNIGHT, newspaperman. But Barney was more than a dreamer.

• • •

Yesterday: Slipping back into the apartment early in the morning, Cynthia tells Janet that she is married. She dares Janet to guess who is the man.

CHAPTER VIII

Janet said, after a moment of bewilderment, "Why, Barney, of course. I supposed naturally it was Barney you meant."

"Oh, did you, indeed," Cynthia demanded drearily. "Janet, was there any more reason why I should marry Barney tonight than there yas yesterday or a week ago—or a month?"

"Why—I don't know . . . Then, in Heaven's name, Cyn, who is it?"

"Why, Timothy Benton, of course. I thought you knew I was going out to dinner with him tonight."

"Timothy Benton!" Janet echoed slowly after what seemed to her so long and empty a silence that her own voice startled her. "But, Cyn, you couldn't! . . . You—couldn't! Why, you hardly know him! You can't possibly be in love with him."

"In love with him?" Cynthia's voice was harsh. "Who said I was in love with him? I said I had married him . . . People can't always have everything, you know, Jan—like you. Well, I decided—some time ago—that if I couldn't have—what I wanted most—I wasn't going to be fool enough to let that keep me from taking the next best thing that offered . . . You see, Tim has his points . . .And at least I shan't have to charge my frocks to your accoun. any more, Jan."

Janet made a helpless inarticulate sound in her throat before she could speak again.

"But, Cynthia," she said. "Why do you say you couldn't have what you wanted most? You could have had Barney. He—"

"Barney!" Cynthia stormed to her feet, her eyes suddenly blazing. "I'm sick of hearing about Barney . . . Why, you little fool, you don't imagine it was Barney I wanted, do you?"

• • •

Then abruptly she crumpled into a sobbing heap upon the bed. Janet sat quietly by her, warming her icy hands in her own warm ones, until the paroxysm had worn itself out. Finally Cynthia sat up abruptly.

"Forget it!" she said with a ghost of her old mocking smile. "It's amazing how it helps to let your hair down once in awhile, isn't it? . . . Well, I guess I'd better be running along."

"You're not going back to him, Cynthia."

"Nonsense!" her cousin said, and got abruptly to her feet. "I made my bargain and I'll stick to it . . . And not so bad a bargain at that, Jan. Don't get the idea that I'm sorry for myself. Besides, I've been living on Grams entirely too long already . . . Call me a taxicab, will you—while I revise my facial scheme? I wish to Heaven I were one of these women who can cry without making their faces look like futuristic landscapes."

Nevertheless, she clung like a frightened child to Janet's hand before she let herself carefully out at the apartment door.

"Don't tell Grams till she's had her coffee, Jan," she repeated before she went.

Janet spent her next few hours wondering how she was ever to tell Aunt Mary—even after Aunt Mary had had her morning coffee.

• • •

Janet was just coming from her own room when, to her complete consternation, she heard the telephone ring clearly and loudly in the hall, and Aunt Mary's crisp tones answering the call.

"Oh, good morning, Lance!" Aunt Mary said. "I'm glad to hear you sounding so fresh after the hours you kept last night. It must have been almost four when you called Janet, wasn't it? . . . I wonder if I'm not hearing very well this morning. You say you did not call Janet? . . . But I understood from her—Oh, well, never mind . . . Then you would like to speak to her now, of course. Hold the line, please."

When Janet had talked with Lance briefly—and somewhat dispointedly, because her mind was racing ahead to the ordeal before her—she went slowly into the dining room. Margy was just bringing hot rolls from the kitchen.

"I found your chiffon scarf all tangled up with the telephone bell when I wa. dustin' the hall this mornin', Miss Janet." Margy said on a cheerful, congratulatory note which Janet found definitely discordant. "I' sure was lucky, else Mr Lance never would have been able to ring you. I wonder how on earth that scarf ever came to get in there."

"I wonder," Janet said, her eyes on her plate.

Mrs. Cantrell waited until Margy had gone back to the kitchen before she observed dryly, "I'm wondering, too—and also just why you told me it was Lance who called you

SOME LITTLE KNOWN FACTS ABOUT OIL

Ask the average well-informed American which among the nations is the most abundantly blessed with possessions of crude oil and he will reply with instant self-assurance that Uncle Sam is far ahead of them all.

Thus, some recently published petroleum facts become all the more shocking by their disclosure that the United States is more precariously situated than any nation of the world so far as its assured future supply of crude oil is concerned.

It is true that the United States now produces approximately 70 per cent of the world's petroleum. Furthermore, it is true that very sharp limitations are placed on the oil production in this country. For the present and for a good many years, there seems no probability that we will have to worry about enough oil.

But here is something to worry about: Of the world's known reserves of crude oil, approximately 75 per cent belong to or are under the control of the British Empire. The United States has around 15 per cent. Our reserves are being exploited to the limit of the law, and sometimes beyond that limit. Britain's remain in storage with exception of relatively limited development.

Thus it appears the time may come when our reserves will approach exhaustion. If that time comes and if the British Empire remains intact, then we may be forced to buy from them practically all of our petroleum, just as we buy most of our rubber today. And if that happens, we may be sure we will pay plenty.

The figures are a somewhat startling reminder that any efforts to conserve our petroleum resources demand our most careful consideration.

Girding For Battle?

Critical Period Of War Is Expected In Next 90 Days; London, Paris Are Question Marks

BY BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The next 90 days will be the critical period in the European war, in the opinion of qualified observers here.

Within that time, it is believed, there is likely to be a final decision whether the war is to end in a negotiated peace or is to flare up in one form or another of the "total war" that has so long been expected.

Catton

Surprisingly enough, there is reason to believe that this decision will be made in London and Paris rather than in Berlin

• • •

Hitler Feels Safe

Here, for instance, is an analysis of the German situation as made by an American military authority who returned to this country recently after spending several years in Germany. This man is convinced that Germany's war plans today shape up roughly as follows:

1. No extension of the war in west if it can be avoided—hance no "spring offensive" of the kind so often predicted. Hitler feels secure behind the Westwall; the only frontier open to attack is the short coastal stretch between Denmark and Holland. Continued threats to invade France via Holland and Switzerland may be made in order to induce those neutral countries to work for peace.

2. No war in the Balkans. Hitler looks in this direction for important supplies, and thinks he can best get them if peace prevails. Also, his "lebensraum" plan envisages economic dominance rather than actual conquest and political possession.

3. No trouble with Russia. Hitler is convinced he can bargain for needed supplies; also, the German general staff is said to have told him that he need not fear Russia's military strength, estimating that the German army could if necessary smash all the way across the Ukraine in three months.

4. No "blitzkrieg" by air against England. Hitler wants to conserve his airplane superiority and his oil reserves.

• • •

Allies' Stand Important

Meanwhile, in the opinion of a number of insiders here, the crux of the situation is principally the question whether the British and French governments are actually in earnest when they say they won't quit fighting until Hitler and the other Nazi extremists are removed from power.

If that stand could be modified, it is believed, peace might be made. There are grounds for believing that Hitler would agree to reconstitute Poland and Czechoslovakia to an extent sufficient to satisfy Chamberlain and Daladier.

But if the allies really meant their "Hitler must go" slogan, the war is likely to go on; and since Hitler can better afford to have it go on in its present condition of costly stalemate than the allies can, the next move is up to London and Paris.

This "next move," it is expected, would take one of two forms: extension of the war to the Near East, or full-dress air raids against Germany. Either would take the war out of its present inactive status with a bang.

Evergreen Nurseries say everything they sell will grow here. It backs that up with a gilt edge guarantee. How to find out? Try it. So anything you buy, whatever the price, 30-40 or 50 cents, must live if it takes five years replacements, so the 30-40 or 50 cents is all you will have to pay. That makes us the most economical nursery in Texas to buy from. Our secret is to plant young. Of course you have to wait a little longer but most of us have more time than money. FOILED HIJACKER WITH TRUSTY PISTOL—Amos Neal, liquor store proprietor, is shown as he demonstrated how he aimed his pistol at a hole in the partition of his establishment at Dallas through which he shot a 21-year-old hijacker, when the latter attempted to hold up Mrs. Neal, cashier in the store. A man who gave his name as Pierce Bobineaux, Houston, was charged with assault and attempted robbery.

Further Publicity To Be Given City

Further evidence that Lubbock is gaining increased recognition as news in a national sense was given by the presence here today of Charles Curtis Munz, novelist and special writer residing in Castroville, near San Antonio.

He is here, he told officials of the chamber of commerce, by the assignment of the Christian Science Monitor, widely circulated denominational daily newspaper published in Boston, to prepare a special article dealing with Lubbock for publication in an early week-end issue of the newspaper.

Munz's most recent book is "Land Without Moses," which according to the book critic of the New York Herald Tribune, "makes 'Tobacco Road' look like a glad book."

Meanwhile, the editor of Avalanche-Journal newspapers received further reports concerning the publicity that has resulted to Lubbock from an editorial printed in the Monitor recently under the caption, "What's the Fare to Lubbock," dealing with the city's cleanup record.

I. C. Enochs, former Lubbock resident who now makes his home in Jackson, Miss., mailed an editorial page from the Chattanooga, Tenn., Times of March 21 on which the Monitor's editorial was reproduced.

TWA Seeking Another Line

KANSAS CITY, March 26 (AP) — Another new link in the nation's airline network, extending from St. Louis into the extreme southwest, was planned today by Transcontinental and Western Air Inc., as it prepared to ask Civil Aeronautics authority approval of the proposal.

The new route would branch from the coast-to-coast TWA route at St. Louis, connect again at Amarillo, then branch off again at Winslow, Ariz., through Phoenix and San Diego and terminate Los Angeles.

Forms Important Link

Jack Frye, airline president, said "the route forms an important link in rounding out our transcontinental system, bringing several areas not heretofore served by any direct connection to the east into our cross-country network."

Frye said stops would be made at Joplin, Mo., Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Amarillo, Winslow, Phoenix, El Centro, San Diego and Los Angeles. The new route is designed to supplement TWA's main line service.

The St. Louis-Amarillo link would add 746 miles to TWA's system and the proposed new western link would add 755 more miles.

LIGHTNING HITS PLANE

BILLINGS, Mont., March 26 (AP)—A bolt of lightning struck the right wing of a 21-passenger Northwest Airlines Douglas plane west of Helena today, but the damage was difficulty and that the passengers slight and the plane continued flying to Billings, where it landed 21 passengers and a crew of three unharmed. Officials said there was no showed no alarm.

Terms Assessed In Court At Levelland

LEVELLAND, March 26 (Special)—Judge Daniel A. Blair pronounced sentence Monday after hearings in 72nd district court.

Term of three years in the state penitentiary was given Lawrence Bartek on a forgery charge. The defendant waived a jury.

Harrell Sentenced

H. E. Harvell, charged with driving while intoxicated, also waived jury and was given a sentence which included $50 fine, five days in jail and six months suspension of his driver's license.

Attorneys for Oscar Rawlins, charged with murder when driving while intoxicated, filed motion for continuance of trial because of absence of witnesses. The court sustained the motion.

Trial Set Wednesday

Similar action was granted in the case of Mark Jordan, charged with theft over $50. He was charged on a joint indictment with Tom Braziel, thus automatically continuing the latter's case.

Trial of a forgery indictment has been set for Wednesday morning.

Burton S. Burks, district attorney, and Victor Lindsey, assistant district attorney, are prosecuting the cases for the state.

Evans Denies He Will Be School Candidate

Rumors that his name would be filed as a candidate for member of the Lubbock city school board at the election April 6 before the deadline Wednesday were declared without foundation this morning by W. H. Evans, local attorney.

He said, however, that he had been approached on the subject and for a time had considered the possibility of becoming a candidate.

"However, I am very well pleased with the way the schools are being run and as soon as I found out that all the present members whose terms expire are seeking reelection, I declined to let my name be filed," Evans said.

The members whose terms expire are E. J. Parsons, Walter Alderson and R. F. Bayless. There has been no indication of opposition to them, school officials said.

Millions Sent From America To Warring Nations

New Demands Are Expected

WASHINGTON, March 26. (AP)—The wars of Europe and Asia already have called forth American donations of $10,000,000 or more for the relief of distressed civilian populations.

A state department summary of contributions under the neutrality act showed today that more than $5,000,000 in money and goods has been collected privately in the first half year of the European struggle.

Other Funds To China

As much or more has gone to China since the outbreak of hostilities with Japan.

The department reported that cash aid to European belligerents totaled $4,842,358. Other gifts were valued at $754,890.

The tabulation, however, omits the American Red Cross—the organization which leads in funds raised. The Red Cross was unable to present its figures in time for inclusion.

This aid was solely for the belligerent countries mentioned in the neutrality proclamation—Germany, France, Poland and the British Empire.

Millions To Finland

In addition, several millions of dollars were collected for Finland by various associations.

Experts here believe the post war demands on American charity, particularly from Europe, may be even more severe than during hostilities.

Christmas Late For Wyoming Ranchers

ALPINE, Wyo., March 26 (AP) — Christmas arrived three months late for a Wyoming family on a mountain ranch 30 miles southeast of here when it opened Yule mail on Easter Sunday.

Snowbound since winter set in last fall, Rex Young made his "regular trip" by skis to the Alpine postoffice Saturday so that "the folks could read their Christmas cards on Easter."

"If the weather stays good, we should get our Easter mail by Memorial day," he commented. "We never worry about early answers."

Soldiers Wear Tags Telling What Type Of Blood They Have

CHICAGO, March 26 (AP)—The identification disc worn by soldiers in the European war has become also a "blood tag."

Inscribed on the disc along with the soldier's name is his blood group, so that doctors can tell at a glance what kind of blood to give him, in case of injury, or whether his blood can be used for a transfusion to aid another.

Reports to the American Medical association show that both English and German troops, and probably French also, wear around their neck identity tags with blood groups designated on them.

War Purchases Aid Economy

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) — Foreign purchases of warplanes are helping the faltering congressional drive for economy by enabling the army to cut down on the acquisition of spare aircraft and engines.

This was disclosed today by members of the House military appropriations subcommittee at the same time that army officials announced the big job of storing up piles of "strategic materials"—ores, rubber, fibers—as "war insurance" was nearing completion.

The House committeemen said the army itself had recommended that the major proportion of 496 planes requested for reserve purposes be eliminated from a pending bill.

Capacity Tripled

They explained that this country's aircraft productive capacity is almost triple what it was six months ago, when the army prepared its budget estimates for the year starting July 1. Thus, the air corps could replace its first line planes in one-third the time originally required, even if it had to start from scratch.

Actually, initial replacements could be made almost immediately, they said, by commandeering whatever military planes the manufacturers had on hand for foreign governments.

Economy avdocates counted heavily on the foreign buying to help them lop $50,000,000 off the army supply bill. In addition to savings on the reserve planes, they hoped to cut out most, if not all, of the $16,250,000 for so-called "educational orders" to familiarize private industry with munitions making. Other members expressed doubt, however, that those items alone would account for a $50,000,000 saving.

Woman Wants Law To Stop Running Around

LAKE CHARLES, La., March 26 (AP) — Among many self-appointed advisers to Governor-Designate Sam Jones is a woman who wants a law providing a fine and jail sentence for any married man seen on the streets "with a woman not his wife without due cause."

"That," she wrote succinctly, "would stop a lot of running around."

Uncle Sam To Learn If His Farms Paid

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Uncle Sam will take stock this week to determine whether he has made or lost any money during the last year on a billion dollars' worth of crops he owns and loans he has made to farmers on farm surpluses.

An inventory taken a year ago showed a deficit of $119,000,000 due largely to a shrinkage in values and storage costs.

Farm officials estimated that on the basis of current prices, the Commodity Credit corporation would show a surplus of upwards of $75,000,000 as of March 31. The surplus, officials said, would be represented by increased values of cotton and corn owned outright by the corporation as a result of foreclosures on past-due loans.

Teachers Meet Will Go To Big Spring

PLAINVIEW, March 26 (Special) —The West Texas Teachers association's executive board awarded the 1941 convention to Big Spring Monday night in a meeting in Plainview.

Invitations to hold the meeting, conducted in Lubbock last year, were extended by Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Dr. W. B. Irvin, superintendent of Lubbock public schools, and immediate past president of the association, for the Hub City and from similar agencies in Big Spring.

Seemingly deadlocked for the night over the selection of a convention site, Lubbock finally capitulated in order that the event might be rotated among members cities.

Members of the executive board are O. J. Laas, Plainview superintendent, president; Floyd Hemphill of Littlefield, W. T. Hanes, of Tahoka and Mrs. J. T. Baisden of Lubbock.

Woman Speaker On Lamesa Program

LAMESA, March 26 (Special) — Towns over the entire South Plains were represented in the audience of 300 persons which heard Mrs. Margaret H. Kaiser, formerly of Berlin, discuss "The Nazi Rise to Power" Monday night.

The program, presented at Lamesa High school auditorium, was the second in a series of lectures on international understanding. Under auspices of the Lamesa Rotary club, the Institute of International Understanding, as it is called, has been directed through Rotary district 127, of which Hiram R. Arrant of Abilene is governor, by Rotary International headquarters in Chicago.

Mrs. Kaiser drew commendable comment and applause from her attentive audience, the discussion being described by W. B. Collins, president of the local organization, as "one of the best ever presented in Lamesa."

At conclusion of her talk, Mrs. Kaiser answered approximately 30 pertinent and timely questions directed to her from the audience.

Among cities represented here tonight were Lubbock, Brownfield, Big Spring, Seminole, Post, Slaton, O'Donnell, and Tahoka.

Two More Programs Set

Next Monday night, April 1, Dr. Nicholas R. Doman of Budapest, Hungary, will speak on "Central Europe — Battlefield of Imperialism." Final series in the institute will be offered April 8, Dr. Allen D. Albert of Chicago and Paris, speaking on "The Struggle For Raw Materials."

Initiating the series last Monday, Dr. John A. Morrison of Chicago discussed "Conditions In Soviet Russia," that gathering also attracting many out-of-town enthusiasts.
