Texas Flood And Storm Toll Mounts

(By The Associated Press)

TWENTY-THREE persons were snatched from the grasp of vicious floodwaters yesterday but five others already were counted victims as dying March's weather spread its fury over scattered areas of the state.

New storms sprang up in the gulf coast area, fresh rains blocked seven Texas and Pacific trains in the Grand Saline area and weather bureau officials at Dallas and Shreveport warned of rising Trinity, Sulphur, Little and Cypress rivers.

Soldiers Rushed To Area

Soldiers from Camp Maxey at Paris rushed to the Talco area late yesterday to rescue flood-bound families caught in the lowlands of rampaging White Oak creek. Four members of one family were taken to a Paris hospital for treatment of extreme exposure after clinging to trees and fences near their inundated home for six hours.

Five Talco men were thrown into the swirling waters when their three motor boats capsized as they attempted to reach stranded families. They were among those rescued by the Camp Maxey squad.

The soldiers, in three heavy pneumatic boats, brought all of the flood victims to safety.

Girl's Body Found

The body of Gwen Kline, of Fort Worth was found late yesterday, ending a near 24-hour search which began when the car in which she was riding was swept into the Clear Fork of the Trinity river in Fort Worth.

A heavy wind struck the Wooster community, east of the Harris county tri-city area, leveling numerous small structures, tearing at trees and unroofing one home.

At Beaumont, a wind estimated at 40 miles an hour damaged trees and roofs and ripped a Cub J-43 plane from its moorings at the city airport. Damage was estimated at $7,000.

Five passenger trains, en route to Shreveport and Texarkana, and a troop train were forced to return to Fort Worth from Grand Saline yesterday after renewed rainfall impeded repair of 1500 feet of track washed out by a six-inch rain Wednesday.

Trinity Continues Rise

The Dallas weather bureau said the flood-swollen Trinity, registered at 39.45 feet at 6 p. m. last night, continued its slow rise. The river was expected to crest at 42 feet Sunday, the bureau said. The Trinity flood stage is 28 feet.

The Shreveport bureau in an emergency flood warning said

DESIGN FOR UNITED NATIONS FLAG—Mrs. Rhoda Crawford Twyman of Galveston, is shown here with the United Nations flag she designed. It is flying beneath the Stars and Stripes. She sent sketches of the flag to representatives of the 44 United Nations asking that it be presented to the San Francisco conference opening April 25. She said Arthur Sweetser, chairman of the United Nations information board, wrote her that the flag was "very attractive and of ingenious design for a United Nations."

Beef Subsidy Proposal May Be Suspended

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 30. — There were indications today the government may suspend a scheduled cut in beef subsidies as a result of a court decision ruling OPA price ceilings for non-processor packers invalid.

The subsidy reduction, due to go into effect Sunday, trims a special premium for these fresh-beef-only slaughterers from 80 cents a hundred pounds to 30 cents.

Follows Court Findings

The OPA, it was understood, may ask Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis to suspend the cut in view of a finding by the emergency court of appeals yesterday that even the 80-cent subsidy does not allow the non-processors to break even financially.

Non - processor slaughterers, while by far the most numerous in the industry, account for only about 15 per cent of the national beef kill.

The prevailing ceilings of processor packers—those who deal in cattle by-products as well as fresh beef—were held by the court to be generally fair and equitable.

OPA attorneys, still undecided whether to accept or appeal the ruling with respect to non-processors, put off until tomorrow at the earliest a statement of the agency's views on the court's decision.

No Immediate Effect

The judgment calling for a greater return to those packers is not effective for 30 days, and therefore has no immediate effect on retail ceilings. In fact, it may have none even if OPA accepts the ruling, since officials of the agency reportedly feel that any additional allowance should be in the form of an increased subsidy.

A boost of price ceilings for non-processors, it was pointed out, would result in one set of wholesale and retail ceilings for beef handled by those packers, and another set for the beef of processor firms.

Pending action on the court's ruling all enforcement cases involving non-processor packers will be suspended. While there were no figures available on such cases throughout the country, an OPA spokesman said the number is substantial.

WFA Changes Orders

The War Food administration announced changes today in pork and beef requisitioning orders to effectuate the previously announced cut in civilian supplies. The new allocation is designed to provide civilian meat at an annual per capita ratio of 115 pounds during the April-June quarter and to meet military, lend-lease and foreign relief allocations.

Civilians obtained meats at the rate of about 130 pounds per year during the current quarter, the WFA said.

The government will take about seven per cent less of the pork output of federally inspected slaughterers, but will increase its take of utility grade beef from 70 to 80 per cent.

The government has been taking about 45 per cent of the federally inspected pork.

Yanks Surge On Unopposed In West; Reds Free Danzig

Two New Russian Drives Flare Up To Menace Berlin

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, March 31. Russian troops invaded Austria yesterday as two new Soviet drives flamed along a 235-mile front on the roads to Vienna and Italy and Red Army forces on the Baltic coast captured the great naval base of Danzig, hoisting the flag of the "Polish state" over the former free city.

In southern Europe, Red Army offensives erupted in southern Slovakia east of the Slovak capital of Bratislava and along the Drava river frontier of Hungary and Yugoslavia where Russian forces drove within 134 miles of Italy for a possible linkup with Anglo-American armies.

Moscow announced that Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army had entered Austria seven years after that country was annexed to Hitler's Greater Reich, by crossing the frontier north of fallen Koszeg, 52 miles south of Vienna.

49,000 Killed Or Captured

In Danzig, more than 49,000 German troops were killed or captured in the collapse of the great port where the first shots of this world war were fired. The raising of the Polish banner over the port, formerly internationalized by the League of Nations, indicated recognition by the Russians of Polish claims to the European political tinderbox.

It was the first time the Polish flag had flown over the city, the first German prize of the present war, since 1772, and its capture released 50 German-reported Russian divisions for the coming battle of Berlin. Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army, mopping up the last enemy units in the Vistula delta east of the city, seized 45 Nazi U-boats and 151 other ships in the burning port.

Threat To Vienna

The powerful new Red Army threat to Vienna from the east was launched by the northern wing of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian Army along the north bank of the Danube river, Marshal Stalin announced.

Racing over the Batislava plains, the Russians crossed Vienna's Nitra river defense line at several points along a 27-mile front, capturing at the southern end the Czechoslovak fortress of Komarno at the junction of the Nitra and Danube rivers 75 miles southeast of Vienna.

Along and across the Nitra, tanks and infantry captured the key rail junction of Nove Zamky, and the towns of Komjatice and Surany, the latter only 48 miles east of Bratislava. Vrable, another enemy stronghold 34 miles north of Komarno and 11 miles southeast of the big rail junction of Nitra, fell to the advancing Soviets.

Guard Eastern Approaches

All these towns guard the eastern approaches to the narrow Bratislava gap before Vienna, but south of Europe's greatest river the gap already was outflanked by Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's swift drive to Austria under cover of Red Air force planes which yesterday flew 3,000 sorties.

Vienna shuddered under new daylight attacks by heavy bombers of the Italy-based U. S. 15th Air force, which also bombed the Austrian city of Graz, 55 miles west of advancing Soviet spearheads. Reports of panic and hasty Nazi defense preparations in the Austrian capital flooded neutral and Allied Europe.

Tolbukhin's Austrian onslaught represented a gigantic left hook curling past the prepared defenses of the Bratislava gap and landing with paralyzing impact against the traffic network and defense fortresses due south of the Austrian capital.

One Big Strongpoint Remains

The only remaining major Hungarian strongpoint in enemy hands was Sopron on the southwestern shore of Neusiedler see. The city was threatened by frontal attack and assaults from the south.

The German high command said that Tolbukhin's fast - driving spearheads had thrust beyond the Austrian border town of Koszeg and were plunging into the lower

Mighty Yank Air Blows Lash Nazis

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, March 31.— Strong forces of RAF Mosquitos attacked Berlin again last night after the mightiest American aerial force sent aloft this year—more than 2,300 bombers and fighters—showered 4,000 tons of bombs in daylight attacks on five U-boat yards in Germany's largest North sea ports of Bremen, Hamburg and Wilhelmshaven.

German radio alarms logged bombers over most parts of northwestern Germany last night but the only definite target announced by the British Air Ministry was Berlin which was attacked for the 38th night in the last 39 nights.

The greatest U. S. attack of the war on enemy naval installations yesterday strangled chances of the crumbling German Army of getting seaborne supplies and reinforcements. It also dealt a massive blow against the Nazis' spring submarine plan.

There was an indication—but no confirmation—that the attack by more than 1,400 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and a screening cloud of 900 fighters of the U. S. Eighth Air force was timed to catch large units of the German Navy anchoring at Wilhelmshaven last attacked by the Eighth on February 3, 1944.

The official target listed in the communique said only "naval vessels in the inner harbor."

The armada aimed the explosives on the U-boat yards and other targets, including warships, and what was believed to be a flotilla of subs sheltering in Wilhelmshaven's inner harbor, near the government naval dockyard where the Nazi battleship Von Tirpitz was built.

Some groups of Fortresses in yesterday's attacks were jumped by a dozen enemy jet planes, attacking singly or in pairs, or as many as five abreast. Mustang escorts shot down at least six and destroyed five other enemy planes on the ground.

Sub-building yards struck included the Blohm and Voss and the Deutsche Werft yards at Hamburg, both working on 250-ton prefabricated plastic U-boats; the Deschimag works at Bremen; a cast new concrete structure near Farge, 16 miles downstream from Bremen, believed to be for the construction of prefabricated U-boats, and the naval dockyard at

Captive Asserts Germany Has No Government Left

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Saturday, March 31. — U. S. tanks thundered unopposed across the formidable Eder river 182 miles southwest of Berlin in a 21-mile sweep yesterday and American breakthrough forces to the north threatened at any hour to trap 40,000 crack German troops in the toppling Ruhr.

Five Allied armies, powered by at least 18 armored divisions beyond the Rhine, drove almost at will through the broken German front, weakened to an almost fatal point by 60,000 captives swept up by Gen. Eisenhower's forces in the last two days.

No Organized Defense

"There is not any organized line of defense between you and Berlin," a high-ranking German officer told his U. S. Third Army captors. "There is not any organized system of government left in Germany. When you reach Berlin the whole situation will quickly dissolve."

At least two U. S. First Army tank divisions and three U. S. Third Army armored divisions were on the high road to Berlin, brushing past the scant resistance in gains of 20 and 21 miles respectively.

The U. S. First Army scored one of the biggest tactical victories of another sensational day by capturing the great Eder dam near Hemfurt. It was taken so swiftly it was not even prepared for the demolitions that would have flooded the route to Berlin.

Near Edge Of Plain

At the same time, the First Army sent its northbound tank columns slashing through Paderborn, almost at the edge of the north German plain, 43 miles east of the eastern limits of the Ruhr.

The U. S. Ninth Army, breaking German resistance in the northern Ruhr after a blazing tank battle, now was possibly 40 miles beyond the Rhine. It had forged across one big but unnamed river in the basin to within 60 miles or so of a junction with the First at Paderborn, which would sever the Ruhr from the rest of Germany.

Another relentless tide of men and armor was rolling over the Westphalian plains north of the Ninth Army.

The British Second Army, with at least three armored divisions leading the pack, advanced 10 miles overnight, was 40 miles or more beyond the Rhine and was reported unofficially to be striking for the north German ports of Hamburg, Bremen and Wilhelmshaven, all pounded during the day by over 2,300 U. S. bombers and fighters.

Negros Falls, Jap Defenses Collapse

By CLYDE BARTEL
Associated Press War Editor

American liberation troops island-hopping in the central Philippines invaded Negros island Thursday, further shattering the Japanese Visayan area defense which "is rapidly collapsing," Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

U. S. Fifth fleet battleships and carrier planes continued pounding the Ryukyu islands southwest of Japan yesterday, the eighth straight day, and smashed a Nipponese attack Wednesday night, shooting down 17 enemy planes and destroying four torpedo boats, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported.

Nips See "Grand Chance"

Tokyo radio quoted Rear Adm. Tanetsugu Sosa's optimistic opinion that with the United States fleet in Nippon's home waters the Japanese have a "grand chance" to defeat the American naval force and launch a "counteroffensive for the recapture of Iwo Jima, Saipan" and other lost bases.

With the presence of a strong British task force in the Ryukyu operation, the Japanese radio estimated that "one-fourth to one-third" of Allied naval strength was operating in that archipelago, and predicted that the invasion of Okinawa, principal island in the chain, was "but a matter of time."

The 40th U. S. division, which previously had invaded Panay island, surged ashore on Negros, one of the last of the important Philippine islands held by the Japanese.

The Americans landed near Bago on Negros' west coast and brushed aside enemy resistance in racing 14 miles inland to capture Bacolo airfield and approach the outskirts of the city of that name.

Plot To Destroy Canal Reported

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 30. (AP) —The influential newspaper La Nacion declared today that an attempt to destroy the Panama Canal had been uncovered with the detention of a German saboteur named von Appen, and linked the purported attempt with the destruction of several Chilean ships which the paper laid to sabotage.

The newspaper made the assertion in a story headlined "shipwrecks of the sailing vessel Lautaro and the steamship Mapocho and others were the work of sabotage." It also named Ludwig von Bohlem, former air attache of the German embassy in Chile, as "the master mind of the sabotage organization."

Chilean Asked For Ship

La Nacion said that von Bohlem introduced to von Appen a man known by the alias of Avenson, a Chilean Merchant Marine captain who asked that:

"He be given a ship because he believed he could get as far as the Panama Canal with his ship loaded with explosives and blow it up to harm that vital route of the United Nations."

The paper did not explain why the plan failed nor what had become of von Bohlem and Avenson.

The paper charged that the loss of the naval training ship Lautaro, a former German vessel, and the nitrate ship Mapocho, burned recently with a death toll of about 101, was caused by the same band of saboteurs of which von Appen was the chief.

RECORD THEFT REPORTED

CHICAGO, March 30. (AP) — A federal grand jury today indicted eight negroes in connection with the theft of gas ration coupons redeemable for 8,750,000 gallons of gasoline from an OPA warehouse March 15. The OPA said the theft was the biggest of its kind on record.

Higher Fees Sought For Texas Counties

AUSTIN, March 30. (AP) — Legislation increasing court costs on 60 specific fees for an overall average of approximately 76 per cent and designed to eliminate a drain on county finances, particularly the general fund, according to sponsors, has been placed on House and Senate calendars for early consideration.

The measures are being sponsored in the Senate by Buster Brown of Temple and James Stanford of Austin and in the House by Harry Pruett and George Calhoun of Austin.

The rate of fees prescibed will assist finances of every county and particularly those operating under the officers salary law, Brown asserted.

The expenses of conducting the counties' business has increased materially during the past several years while no change in the general fee statutes have been made in most cases in many years, he said.

Yalta Secret Sets Off New Barrage

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)— Turning aside a barrage of questions, Secretary Stettinius insisted today the hot "multiple vote" issue has not dimmed his confidence in the success of the San Francisco conference.

Reporters fired 48 questions at him, most of them dealing with a secret agreement made at Yalta and disclosed yesterday. Under this the United States will back Russia's demand for three votes in the assembly of the world organization to be set up at San Francisco, and in turn will seek three votes for itself. The British commonwealth will have six.

Grins At Questioners

The Secretary of State licked his lips and grinned repeatedly as the questions rolled off at a news conference attended by 65 reporters. To most of them, he said he couldn't answer now, come back next week.

The questions centered on why the agreement was kept secret until it was smoked out by press reports, and what is the status of the "sovereign equality" principle stressed in the Dumbarton Oaks were reached at the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting at Yalta.

Nice Day Anyway

During the day, Stettinius conferred with some of the American delegates to San Francisco. One of them, Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) said yesterday he would deeply disagree with any voting proposal which would destroy the sovereign equality of nations.

To reporters who approached him after today's conference he had no further comment.

"It's a nice day," he said.

Another delegate, Rep. Bloom (D-NY) said:

"No speak the English."

Bloom was already on record with a demand that the United

Throneberry Boasts Lead To His Undoing

EUGENE, Ore., March 30. (AP) —A long-sought prison escapee, whose belief that Oregon was a wilderness-like haven helped cause his capture, was being questioned today by the FBI on the death of a Colorado sheepherder.

Randel O. Thorneberry, listed by the FBI as one of the nation's 15 most-wanted criminals, was arrested yesterday in the orchard of a ranch where he had worked since February 6.

Thorneberry's boast that "nobody could ever find me in Oregon," FBI agents said, placed him in the hands of the law for the first time since his escape from a Colorado prison October 8, 1943.

He had been arrested after the death of Ethelbert Purdy, who was robbed, bound to his wagon, and left to die of slow strangulation at Steamboat Springs, Colo., in August, 1943.

Joseph Thornton, special agent in charge of the FBI's Portland office, said Thorneberry's trail was spotted after acquaintances said he had boasted of being able to disappear forever in a remote Oregon town.

New Jap Leader Cites Disunity

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30 (AP) The leader of Japan's new war emergency political party, Gen. Jiro Minami, charged today that the Japanese government failed to make "full preparations for all eventualities" in the face of the "foreign enemy."

He attributed the failure to the fears of government leaders that the home front wouldn't stand for drastic measures, which might stir up "internal friction."

He said the new party should be prepared "to discard all past encumberances and cooperate with all persons, regardless of their past, for the attainment of victory."

Others Plead For Unity

Although Japanese officialdom has been calling for unity between the people and the Army with increasing emphasis since the advance of American forces into the inner spheres of the empire, Minami's remarks perhaps went farther than those of any other leader to disclose home front apathy or disunity.

His statement, quoted by Domei news agency and recorded by the Federal Communications commission, was made at the inauguration of the new party, the Political Association of Great Japan (Dai Nippon Seijaki). Coincident with its launching, the previously established totalitarian war party, the Imperial Rule Assistance Political society (IRAPS), was dissolved.

Patton Lauds Men, Cites Their Gains

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY, March 30. (AP) — Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., issued a general order a week ago to the Third Army and the 19th Tactical Air command, it was disclosed today, asserting that between Jan. 29 and March 22 the Third Army had taken 6,484 square miles of territory from the enemy and had captured 3,072 cities, towns and villages.

"You captured 140,112 enemy soldiers, and killed or wounded an additional 99,000, thereby eliminating practically all of the German Seventh and First armies. History records no greater achievement in so limited a time," Patton's order said.

"This great campaign was made possible by your disciplined valor and unswerving devotion to duty, coupled with an unparalleled audacity of the speed of your advance on the ground; while from the air peerless fighter-bombers kept up a relentless round-the-clock attack upon the disorganized enemy.

"The world rings with your praises: better still, Gen. Marshall, Gen. Eisenhower and Gen. Bradley all personally have commended you. The highest honor I ever attained was that of having my name coupled with yours in these great events."

Defeat Seen For Manpower Bill

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)— Enemies of the manpower control bill measured it for a legislative coffin today in Senate debate.

Its friends, however, still held a lingering hope of swinging a majority of the membership behind it when the deciding vote comes next week.

The compromise bill, which provides authority for a labor freeze, employment ceilings and hiring restrictions, all backed by stiff penalties, is in a parliamentary stage where it must be voted up or down by the Senate, without amendment.

May Ask Conference

If the senators "reject the conference report"—in other words, turn down the House-approved bill as it stands—its advocates are prepared to ask the House for a new legislative conference. If granted, there they would try to win approval for at least the voluntary measure originally passed by the Senate.

The administration is on the spot. This legislation, in the mill for two full months, bears the outright endorsement of President Roosevelt. The general staff has declared repeatedly that positive manpower controls are needed to insure victory.

Both Seek Absentees

With even administration forces conceding that the bill would be beaten rather badly if the vote came today, both sides were attempting to rally absent members. Meanwhile, the debate went on and on. . . .

Senator Brooks (R-Ill) opened today with a charge the measure is "another unwarranted grab for power."

He said he did not question the strategy of the military and naval leaders, but added "they are not trained professional men as experts in the art of labor and management cooperation."

350 Former Santo Tomas Internees Dock Amid Gay Homecoming On Pacific Coast

By RICHARD O'MALLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.— A capacious Navy transport which burned the width of the Pacific docked here with some 350 former internees of the Santo Tomas camp at Manila.

With an exurberance matched only by an Army band which thumped away as the ship moved into the pierside, men, women and children who had survived three years of malnutrition, privation and indignity came home again.

It was a made-to-order day for them.

Dressed in Army-issue khaki for the most part, the passengers lined the rails, cheering and waving. But evidence of their stay in the internment camp was prominent. Older men, whose lined faces showed an added age, and young men with lean jaws stood among the women and talked of their experience.

"Food was the main thing," a tall man said. "Why, from Jan. 1 until June, 1942, we had to feed ourselves. When they did feed us it was never enough and never good."

Below them on the pier were lined Red Cross personnel with clothing and food.

"It doesn't look like what we've been used to," a boy remarked bitterly. "Do you remember that poor guy who was caught trying to smuggle food into camp. Didn't they work him over, though!"

There was a bitterness evident, but much of it was lost in the arrival of the ship and excitement of an American skyline after shacks and Japanese guards.

"Isn't it wonderful," cried a white-haired woman.

"It sure is," said a young survivor of the Bataan Death march. He hitched his belt. "I hope they send me back though. I've got some debts to pay."

A big negro, Pendleton "Bumblebee" Thompson of San Francisco, who was credited with helping to save many lives at the camp by smuggling food, pointed to the band.

"I told these people there'd be a band out," he exclaimed, "and look at that! San Francisco, the city that knows how!" "Bumblebee" was cook for the Japanese camp commandant and through his "little secret ways," managed to slip many parcels of food to the internees. He was a merchant seaman when interned. As he talked other passengers laughed:

"You ask 'Bumblebee,' he's the man who knew the answers!"

DEAR——

Three promotions among coaches in Lubbock Public schools were announced recently. Dixie White takes over as head coach of the Lubbock High school Westerners for the duration, succeeding J. Mule Davis who took the reins when J. G. "Goober" Keyes went into service. Mr. Davis asked to be relieved of his duties because of obligations of the summer camp he manages in New Mexico each year.

George Philbrick was moved up to the post of assistant coach to Dixie and Marlin "Shorty" Hayhurst was named as head basketball coach, to take the post held the last two years by Dixie White. He will continue as head track coach.

Trustees of Lubbock Independent School district, in their regular monthly business meeting Tuesday night, elected a 269-person faculty for the 1945-46 session and approved a new salary schedule calling for a $200-annual increase "all along the line," plus a 10 per cent bonus for faculty members satisfactorially completing their contracts.

George N. Atkinson, who has been affiliated with the Lubbock Public school system for 36 years and has seen its enrollment grow from 400 pupils to 8,593, has announced he will retire at the end of the school year. During that time he served as teacher, principal, superintendent and book custodian. Mr. Atkinson says he has no plans for the future. Giving up his work is the hardest thing he has ever done, he told a reporter, but added we all have to retire some time.

Two Republican Congressmen from Oregon and a group of U. S. Army Air corps officers and a Royal Air Force commodore stopped overnight in Lubbock this week on an undisclosed mission. Cong. Lowell Stockman paid a tribute to Congressman George H. Mahon as "one of the best liked and hardest working men in Congress." "More like him are needed."

They had nothing to say about prosecution of the war effort except that Capitol Hill is surcharged with expectancy and said they had no inside information.

Lubbock merchants sent telegrams to Austin this week urging defeat of the bill introduced in the Texas Legislature which would abolish parking meters. The protests were on basis that parking meters have been a benefit in Lubbock.

Reactivation of South Plains Army Air field as a reserve storage base for the Army Air forces was officially announced Tuesday. The base, formerly an advanced glider pilot training school, will serve as a storage depot for new airplanes until they are needed on the fighting fronts.

Lt. Col. William N. Reagan, commanding officer with four stars on his campaign ribbons, and Mrs. Reagan are at home temporarily at the Hilton hotel. He served in World War I and his battle stars in the current conflict mark engagements in Africa, Sicily and Italy. He has been on domestic duty since October of 1943.

Shortages are making themselves felt in Lubbock for the first time since the war. We mean by that that essential items are growing hard to find unless you are a preferred customer. Some amusing incidents have taken place recently. For instance a number of Lubbock men and women followed a cigaret truck all the way to Ropesville one day last week and bought practically the entire stock.

As a result, Ropes citizens, for whom the cigarets were meant, did without their quota of fags. They didn't like it and neither did the merchants who say from now on they will not sell smokes to strangers.

Special Good Friday programs of Lubbock churches began Thursday night and are continuing through today. Five churches, First, Asbury and St. John's Methodist, First Presbyterian and First Christian, cooperated in a service that began at noon today and commemorated the crucifixion of Christ. The thoughts of most of us are with you this Eastertide and our hope is that this may be the last season you will spend away from us.

Goodbye.

Brief Bits Of Local News

Lt. (jg) Thomas I. Brown, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas I. Brown, sr., of 2311 Thirteenth, has been awarded two gold stars in lieu of the second and third air medals, the Eighth Naval district public relations office announced Friday. The citations said Lt. Brown, pilot of a carrier-based fighter plane, personally shot down an enemy fighter aircraft during a strike against enemy shipping over the Visayas Sept. 10. 1944. He was awarded the Gold Star for shooting down an enemy dive bomber in a strike over Formosa and the Nansei Shoto islands.

Yarbrough of 2428 Twenty-fourth. Capt. Yarbrough, who was formerly employed by Hemphill-Wells company, is a pilot stationed in France. The baby was named Thomas Edgar, jr.

Mrs. Floyd R. Friend of 2430 Twenty-ninth is in Lubbock General hospital for treatment of a fractured left hip suffered Thursday when she fell while moving from her old address, 2005 Broadway, to her new home on Twenty-ninth.

Decoration Given To Stone's Unit

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTING STATION, England—Pvt. Richard E. Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Stone of Seminole, Tex., is a member of a military police company which has been awarded the Meritorious Unit Plaque for "superior performance of duty for the year 1944."

The 23-year-old soldier is a military policeman with the company which is responsible for maintaining discipline among American personnel in civilian districts and escorting convoys in an area of 3,000 square miles. The company has escorted numerous convoys destined for the Western Front over English highways.

Pvt. Stone, who wears the Good Conduct medal and the blue ribbon of the Presidential citation, entered the Army in January, 1943. He has served in England since March, 1944.

According to Federal court interpretations an airplane is not a "self-propelled vehicle."

Comfort Station Plan Advanced

Chamber of commerce directors decided to present a proposal to city and county commissioners for erection of a comfort station, voted funds to help in destroying Johnson grass in Lubbock county, and discussed efforts to secure a veterans hospital and early operation of an airline through Lubbock, when they met in the directors' room of the chamber Friday morning.

Directors empowered Jack Randal, chamber president, to appoint a committee to meet with city and county commissions to present the proposal for a comfort station.

The action was taken after they heard a report that several merchants had endorsed the idea of erection of a building with ample rest room facilities either on the park site west of the courthouse "or some other suitable location for convenience of the public and especially for rural shoppers." The lack of public rest room facilities in the shopping district causes considerable inconvenience to persons coming into town "and it is the belief of persons contacted that such a station would meet with extremely favorable reaction for Lubbock," the report said. The report was based on study by chamber of commerce personnel.

Report On Hospital

The directors heard a report of efforts made thus far to obtain location of a veterans hospital here and discussed methods of furthering Lubbock's chances of selection as site for the hospital, which is to be erected in West Texas. A delegation recently went to Washington to present data seeking to have the hospital located here.

It was brought out that decision has not yet been given on application of Essair, Inc., to the Army Air forces in Washington for landing rights at South Plains Army Air field. The latest communication from Essair officials was optimistic that a decision would be given in the next few days and that service could be started about April 15.

It was voted the chamber of commerce would set aside $200 to support the program for eradication of Johnson grass in the county, to cover expenditures not provided for in the appropriations and budget of the county agent's office.

Former POW On Way To Home At Slaton

Message that T-5 Joseph Hough, jr., Slaton route 2, who was among prisoners of war liberated by the Americans in Manila, was en route home from San Francisco by airplane was received by Lubbock county Red Cross chapter Friday.

Hough has been a patient in Letterman hospital at San Francisco and is receiving a 10-day delay en route before reporting to McKinney for further treatment, a Red Cross field director at San Francisco notified Mrs. J. H. Stiles, executive secretary of the Lubbock county chapter.

Hough enlisted in the Army in 1941 and went overseas after six weeks' training. He was captured March 7, 1942 and it was not until his liberation that his parents learned where he was. His name was listed in press reports and the family later received a wire from him through the office of Adj. Gen. J. A. Ulio. The father sent a 25-word cable to him, the first cable to a liberated prisoner of war in the Philippines handled through the Red Cross office here.

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Chronic bronchitis may develop if our cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

New "Sit-Down Strike"

But Tax-Supported Pay Goes On!

SOMETHING must be wrong somewhere when an employe of the Farm Credit Administration can do nothing at all for a half year and still keep on drawing his tax-raised salary of $702 a month.

That conclusion can be justifiable drawn from the case of A. C. Utterback, one of the FCA's three supervising examiners, who sat at his Kansas City desk for six months in "enforced idleness" while his pay checks have continued to arrive on schedule. It is a sound conclusion, no matter who is right in the dispute between Mr. Utterback and Ivy W. Duggan, FCA governor.

There is no need to pronounce judgment in this controversy. Mr. Utterback may have good warrant for standing on his report charging irregulariities and violations of the law against the Houston Bank for Cooperatives. Mr. Duggan may have good warrant for insisting on substantiating evidence and for bringing suit aimed at Mr. Utterback's dismissal for failure to provide it. Either way, the matter should have been settled long ago.

That is to say that it took Mr. Utterback's superior an unconscionable long time to take action. There is no apparent reason why this tug of war should have been allowed to drag on six months at no inconsiderable cost to the taxpayers.

Breakfast By "Directive"

LITERATURE is rich in tributes to the felicities of eating, and many of them were written by authors capable of piquing the appetite. Lord Bulwer-Lytton, who was an enlightened person, committed himself to the philosophy that civilized man may live without books but not without cooks and he doubted the existence of a man who can live without dining.

But M'Lord was an aristocrat and probably didn't concern himself greatly with miserable and hungry folk of his time. And Sydney Smith, the wit, who was almost his contemporary, seemed also to enjoy what a former generation of Americans characterized as a good meal's victuals.

Breakfast has been neglected. But a campaign has been inaugurated in Bridgeport, Conn., by Miss Rheta Hyatt, community nutritionist of that flourishing city, for better breakfasts. Her ideas are supported by the council on foods and nutrition of the American Medical Association.

The matutinal meal has been brought to a scientific basis, illuminated with vitamins and calories and deals a blow at the eat-and-run breakfast to which millions of Americans have long been accustomed.

A general survey would doubtless show a greater variety of opinions and tastes about any other meal. Most Americans, even under the instruction of expert dieticians are likely to cling stubbornly to old breakfast habits.

A development of this kaleidoscopic century be a reordering of the common life with diets, prescribed in laboratories suited to the needs of various types and employments.

With all respect to the Bridgeport experiment, it is hardly possible — or is it? —that America's millions would yield themselves meekly to regimens scientifically laid down for them. Breakfast would be sure to present obstacles. It is the experience of many generations that children, finding their food unattractive, are frequently not impressed by the parental plea that it will be "good for them."

Adults, even those cowed by a mounting list of Washington "directives," might still have left in them enough spunk to refuse to eat meals ordered by law simply because the items were scientifically suited to their necessities.

Since scientists smashed our faith in the indestructibility of the atom (along with the atom), we have become cynical. Sometimes we even doubt if all Democrats are pure and undefiled.

"A theory now is that a dice game brought on the great Chicago fire." This theory won't hold water. We've engaged in the hottest kinds of dice games on barracks bunks and never once saw a blanket set on fire.

An optmist is a dumb person who allows the Siren Song of Hope to drown out the Voice of Experience.

It is probably only in the natural order of things that it is usually the case that a girl with a streamlined figure is rather fast.

If you're in love, you're like the victim of any other disease: You think no one else ever had so severe a case.

Red is the universal signal for "stop," except when heavily applied on a girl's lips.

The One Minute Sermon

I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the merciés of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service.

And be not fashioned according to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove that is the good and acceptable and perfect will of God.—Romans 12; 1 through 2.

A Song To Remember

By Willard Wiener

(Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.)

The story: After Frederic Chopin has refused to play before the new Czarist governor of Poland at Count Wodzinski's dinner party his friends warn him to leave the country. He and Jozef Elsner leave Poland in the dead of night, and arrive in Paris several days later.

LOUIS PLEYEL

The name imprinted in flowering letters on the window in the Rue de Rochechouard, said Pleyel et Cie.

Frederic looked anything but his best and Jozef Elsner looked even worse, if that were possible. Their clothes were travel worn, and besides, they were burdened with carpetbags and bundles. They had not stopped to arrange for lodgings. They had not even washed. Jozef Elsner said there would be time for that. The dust and dirt of the road could wait. That was nothing. Louis Pleyel was everything. They were in Paris and first they must pay respects to Louis Pleyel.

Frederic held back. He put his hand to his mouth to smother a cough. Jozef Elsner took his arm, then pushed on the door and together they went in.

A center aisle divided the room, on either side of which were pianos, if not the finest in the world, certainly among the best known. Each carried the name Pleyel.

A middle-aged clerk met them midway up the aisle. "Yes, Messieurs?"

"Monsieur Pleyel, please."

The clerk raised his eyebrows. "Monsieur Pleyel?"

"Yes. Monsieur Pleyel. You will say to him, Monsieur, that Professor—"

"—Humph. He doesn't even listen."

"Professor, don't you think—"

"—Tch, tch. Your music—where is it?"

Frederic had his manuscripts rolled in a bundle. The bundle was under his arm. Elsner took it hastily. He unwrapped it.

"—Fine—excellent." He spread the sheets out on one of the pianos. He inspected them, one at a time. "—What music! Patience, my boy—patience—that's what I always say—patience. We'll pick out the best—the very best—for immediate publication, and we should have, let me see, at least a half a dozen—"

"What is it you wish to see Monsieur Pleyel about?"

Jozef Elsner looked up from the manuscripts into the face of a pompous man with very red cheeks.

"Did you ask for Monsieur Pleyel?"

"—I asked for no one else!" Jozef Elsner adjusted his spectacles to his nose. "You are not Monsieur Pleyel!"

"No."

Jozef Elsner grinned. "I know Monsieur Pleyel."

"Thank you, Monsieur. All Paris knows Monsieur Pleyel."

"—Tch, tch. It wasn't yesterday I shook his hand. Nevertheless I can tell you, Monsieur, he is still my good warm friend. Who are you?"

"Dupont—Henri Dupont."

"—Dupont!" Jozef Elsner threw out his arms. "Ah! Dupont!" Dupont only drew back. "My good friend—Henri Dupont! I am Elsner—Jozef Elsner. Frederic, think of it—we are in Paris—and this is Henri Dupont! Monsieur Dupont—Frederic. Frederic — Monsieur Dupont!"

Jozef Elsner pulled out his kerchief. He dabbed his face with it.

"Well, is Monsieur Pleyel in?"

"He is in, but—"

"—Enough! You will tell him—no—not a word. It will be a surprise! Forgive me, Monsieur; forgive me."

The Professor returned the kerchief to his pocket. He grabbed Frederic's hand and together they were already bustling toward the rear of the room.

"—Wait! Will you please wait!"

It was too late. Jozef Elsner had caught the name Louis Pleyel on a silver nameplate on a polished mahogany door that gave off the main salon.

"Pleyel! How are you!"

The finery, the elegance of the private office went unnoticed. Jozef Elsner had no eyes nor mind for anything but the person of Louis Pleyel—squat, tight-lipped, narrow-eyed Louis Pleyel.

"—My dear friend!" Elsner reached across the desk to pump at a spanking rate the limp hand of a startled Louis Pleyel. "Yes—the same Louis—you look wonderful—you do, Louis. How glad—how happy I am to see you!"

Jozef Elsner dropped Pleyel's hand. "—Louis, I brought him!"

"You brought—who?"

Jozef Elsner's jaw shot out. He turned to present Frederic. But there was no one in the room but himself and Louis Pleyel.

"—Frederic!"

Jozef Elsner's jaw dropped. He stretched his neck. He looked about, then he went to the door and looked outside. "Tch, tch. What's the matter with you?" Come in!"

Frederic came in, his carpetbag in one hand, his hat in the other, with bundles under both arms.

"—Monsieur Pleyel wants to look at you." Jozef Elsner pulled Frederic close to Pleyel's desk. "Here he is, Louis. What did I tell you? As good as my word. Frederic said: "Monsieur."

"—Tch, tch. Shake his hand, Frederic. This is Monsieur Pleyel. Shake his hand!"

Frederic put down his carpetbag. He held out his hand. Pleyel reached across the desk to take it but from his puzzled expression it seemed a surprising thing, even to himself, that he should do it.

"Chopin," Frederic said, when it was plain Monsieur Pleyel could not place the name.

Louis Pleyel looked blankly first at one, then the other.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

OUT in New York's Bronx, that thickly-populated section of the metropolis where the Bronx cheer originated and where there are many, many thousands of law-abiding citizens, the proprietor of a music shop has been fined $2.

Apparently he had a run-in with the OPA or some other kind of a gauge. At any rate, on meatless Friday—meatless by order of his Highness Mayor Fiorello La Guardia—he played a phonograph record hour after hour, until it drove the neighbors crazy.

They called in the police and had him arrested.

BRANDEIS

The name of the song which he played was "One Meat Ball."

When the magistrate — whose name, by the way of coincidence, was Ambrose J. Haddock — imposed the fine, he remarked: "The least you could have done for your neighbors was to have played 'Three Little Fishes'."

I think the music shop proprietor's procedure would come under the general classification of "rubbing it in," and rubbing it in never pays.

It is a perfectly natural human tendency to rub it in and both you and I have indulged in it.

One of the most common forms of rubbing it in is the common "I told you so."

You have practiced it on your wife or your husband and I have done it, too.

It gives you such a glow of personal satisfaction, such as a feeling of strength and power to feel stronger than the next person and yet, in most cases, it is really an expression of your inferiority complex.

The other day I was sitting in the Danbury railroad station waiting for my train.

On the bench opposite me sat a very ordinary looking woman, age about thirty five, weight about a hundred and seventy. With her was a little boy about four.

As kids will do he climbed all over the bench. She told him several times to stop but he didn't pay the slightest attention to her.

Finally he fell off the bench on the station floor and set up an awful howl.

She yanked him up and saying "I told you so," gave him a resounding whack on his bottom.

He stuck out his tongue at her and sat down. Proudly she smiled and then the train came in.

THERE you are. First she rubbed it in and then he rubbed it in by sticking out his tongue at her.

Both were satisfied and yet—Inferiority complex!

If a mother can't bring up a child without slapping it and gloating over its misfortune she isn't much of a mother.

And if he then sticks out his tongue at her that is simply the result of the bad example set by her.

One of the worst forms of rubbing it in is to take out your orneriness on your family and your friends and neighbors.

That's what the music-shop man did and that's why he got fined.

Only, as a rule it's more than $2. It's being disliked and shunned by everybody who knows you.

Gestapo Tactics Seen

Stay In Line Or Get The Works!

WASHINGTON.
By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON'S new and vicarious use of the income tax law as a weapon against contrary citizens and corporations has aroused grave concern on Capitol Hill and among some of the administration's own legalites.

Most flagrant instance of this strange application has been the quiet crackdown on owners of night clubs and their habitues who show a distaste for James F. Byrne's curfew request.

It is this apparent perversion of the statute which has angered Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York so grievously that he may denounce these operations in detail and even break with his friends in the New Deal.

TUCKER

Although Byrnes and Manpower Commissioner Paul McNutt hesitate to apply heat, light and food sanctions against noncomplying places, doubting whether the courts would uphold such enforcement of a mere request, they are prosecuting cabaret operators by devious and indirect methods.

Fear of such reprisals explains why New York City's entertainment association, although grateful to La Guardia, voted to close when the bells toll 12, and informed him of the official pressure that has been applied.

As soon as some "hot spots" took advantage of the La Guardia modification, which he made after consulting high officials in Washington, Henry Morgenthau's Internal Revenue agents scurried through the theatrical district with statutory clubs in their hands.

The federal gendarmerie warned proprietors that their excise and income tax returns would be subjected to especially severe scrutiny if they did not abide by the midnight lockup order. Even though an owner pays every cent he owes to Uncle Sam, the Treasury's lawyers can always hand down an interpretation of the basic law or regulations that would make him liable to an excessive and punitive levy.

In many cases the victims could probably win out if they took the matter into court. But the cost of the litigation would probably equal the additional amount demanded. Moreover, a non-cooperative fellow would leave himself open to further harassment by Federal investigators.

Morgenthau's men have also tried a new wrinkle. They are taking the names of liberal spenders at the nation's best known amusement resorts, checking up on the source of their cash and on the question of whether or not they have fudged on their March 15th payments.

PENALTIES: The concern shown regarding this application of a law enacted solely for the purpose of collecting revenue has no connection with the merits of Byrnes' curfew program or La Guardia's reaction.

Many who disagree completely with the mayor's stand resent this indirect pressure on the individual's pocketbook, fearing the extent to which such tactics may be carried.

The average citizen rarely stops to think how much power the Sixteenth Constitutional amendment conveys, or how it has been utilized for good and bad. The first time the income tax club assumed the form of political punishment was in the Coolidge-Hoover administrations.

In retaliation for the late Sen. James Couzens' opposition to the Mellon tax reduction program, Internal Revenue ordered him to pay extra millions of dollars on the profit he made when he sold his stock in the Ford Motor company to Henry Ford. The wealthy Michigan senator could afford to fight the levy, and he won easily. But few have the means he had to contest extra-legal penalties of this sort.

SLEUTHS: Treasury Detective Elmer Irey invoked the statute to jail Al Capone. When the city, state and federal governments could not get a conviction for more serious and antisocial crimes, Irey's top probers made books on the Chicago mobsters' free spending — his hotel suites, his Florida villas and his general lavishness.

They quickly discovered that he was dishing out more money than the amount on which he had paid taxes to Uncle Sam. The same checkup is now being made by investigators on Uncle John and Aunt Jessica if they flash a bank roll in Manhattan, Miami or Palm Springs. On their return home, they may find an agent on the stoop, asking them to prove that their March 15 return justifies their making whoopee.

Paul McNutt became a victim of the income inquisition even after he signed up as a crewman on the Ship of State. When it appeared that he might be a formidable presidential candidate in the third-term year of 1940, Treasury sleuths peeked into the receipts of the Two Per Cent club he founded when he was governor of Indiana.

The government never prosecuted him, and it is not yet known whether he was innocent or whether he was allowed to square accounts with Uncle Sam. But certain insiders saw to it that word of the "investigation" leaked out, and the handsome Hoosier had no more chance for the nomination than Joe Doakes.

But the most recent invocation of this statute constitutes an ultramodern refinement.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

AMERICANS of Norwegian stock are greatly worried about their relatives in the old country.

They fear that the Nazi madmen, fighting in their last-ditch stand in Scandinavia, will apply a ruthless scorched earth policy, as they have already done in Finnmark, the Arctic Circle province.

The little kingdom has endured privation and torture for five long years. It would be tragic if its brave people should be subjected to the worst hardship of all — just as liberation dawns. If the Huns, in their final hours, pillage and destroy on a gigantic scale, Allied relief expeditions may not arrive in time to stop them.

LEMAN

Important Swedish figures in New York declare that rather than permit such a catastrophe, Stockholm will declare war on Berlin. One of the nation's most influential religious leaders has warned his government that neutrality no longer is justifiable. Breaking off diplomatic relations is not enough; the Germans must be driven out.

King Gustav has a large, well-trained army, fully equipped with all types of modern weapons. It can save its neighboring state from being turned into a charnel house.

The writer has listened to many stories of Nazi malevolence told by underground agents from Poland, Greece, Italy and other ill-fated lands. But none are more shocking than those related by refugees from Finnmark.

They not only ruined objects of possible military value; they applied the torch to every dwelling in sight. As all houses are of wood, they were burned flat. In this bitterly cold district, agricultural products are scarce and the inhabitants subsist chiefly on fish. The Vandals wrecked the fishing boats. Broken pictures, baby carriages and pianos were found in the path of the retreating marauders.

FURY: The nomadic Laplanders raise reindeer as their source of food. Just before the Nazis pulled up stakes, their fliers machine-gunned the herds. Logs are the only fuel in the bleak wilderness. But the Germans smashed the sawmills and carried off the axes.

One Norwegian family was burned out five times in three months. Survivors from many villages lived throughout the winter under boulders. A 90-year-old grandmother was buried in the snow so that the Gestapo could not find her and was dug out after the bloodhounds had left. Babies were born in wind-swept caves along the coast.

They Keep Armies Rolling And Fight, Too

"Engineers Can Do Anything!"

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

LUXEMBOURG, Belgium.—The Engineers think they can do anything, and as a matter of fact they can and they have. You get the flavor and the danger of engineering and railroading in war when you listen to Col. Harry Hulen in command of B Group in the forward area. He sits with one long leg thrown over the other and talks about the Engineers who landed on the beaches and trailed General Patton across France—building roads, throwing bridges across rivers, and opening up railroad lines.

STOKES

His office is a French baggage car. There are other such cars for his staff headed by Capt. Charles L. Bradley of Berkeley, Calif., and Lt. Arthur F. Tebbe of Fort Wayne, Ind.

As the colonel talks, now and again exploding against red tape which he detests, he draws diagrams on a pencil tablet on his plain table. He points to his maps with notations in his own handwriting about latest projects to supply General Paton's fast maneuvering Third Army.

Lives In Private Car

The whole atmosphere about his crude headquarters is informal. He receives reports from reconnaissance groups which are here and there in the forward area and he makes his plans accordingly.

Any day he picks up and moves. He has moved a long way and his train with him, including the passenger car which serves as his home. It has sleeping quarters and a diningroom. It was furnished him by the French government for repairing and opening up the bridge across the Seine in Paris. He named it "Betsy" for his daughter. The name is printed on its side.

COLONEL HULEN is a genial gentleman to sit and talk with. And from what you hear he is a very plain-talking fellow when he wants to get something done. His superiors have found this out and seem to like it. He comes from Hattiesburg, Miss. He's an old Army man. When he grins, it's as if the sun had streamed across a heavily furrowed field, for his face is creased and leathery.

The parent regiment of his command, the 347th Engineer Special Service regiment, is known about France as "The Hitch Hikers," with the insignia of the upraised thumb. This started from the colonel's exploit in walking on a ship in New York and demanding quarters for his men and getting them at the expense of another outfit. The orders for his outfit to move came two months later, long after they were in France. That's typical of the colonel and the way he operates.

He laughed slyly as he told of a bridge he had built and how he'd submitted plans to headquarters. They had returned them a long time later with suggestions, and he drew some more and sent them back, and on and on.

"When they came back approved the last time, the bridge was already built," he said.

Move With Battle Line

Group B which the colonel commands is composed of the 347th, the 389th General Service regiment, a negro outfit, and 333rd Engineers, a Special Service regiment. The 333rd gained fame many months ago by moving into Cherbourg to clean out the mess left by the Germans and open that port. It recently has joined B group.

The jump from Cherbourg to the forward area dramatizes the long advance of the American armies in nine months. Group B includes men of all sorts of talents and duties, and all sorts of equipment. Up in the forward area you get the feel of the part supply plays in the advance of the armies. They move into the battle line together.

ONE of Colonel Hulen's pet stories is a counterpart of a highly imaginative children's story recently published about a train which decided one day to leave its tracks and go exploring. The real story is about a Diesel engine captured from the Germans. The colonel wanted to use it on another line some miles away. First they ran it down a road with a bulldozer guiding it, then they came to some street car tracks and they ran it on them a while until they reached the railroad line and moved it on there.

His favorite job perhaps was the bridge across the Seine. His men moved in two days before the city was liberated. While the shooting still was going on it took them six days to cut away the steel debris left by German sabotage, and four days to build the bridge. The colonel used an old tug, built in 1850, which he found along the river, as a base to swing the new links in place. French engineers who were observing said it couldn't be done.

"My men captured 26 Germans and killed a number of them," he said. "They'd tell me in the morning that they'd killed some Germans the night before. I told them they were lying. I asked them to save me one the next time. When I came down there he was."

There are lots of angles to engineering.

POLICEMEN SUSPENDED

FORT WORTH, March 30 (U.P.)—Two Fort Worth city policemen were under suspension from duty today on charges of having "drunk whisky in a city patrol car."

A flying meteorological station is being used by the Royal Air Forces which flies into the heart of an impending storm, and through the use of its instruments can inform the Air Forces more correctly than any ground station ever could of the conditions of the storm, where it is moving and how it will strike.

Pacific Advances

sion units extended their invasion hold with the capture of the towns of Mandaue and Mana. Both on Cebu and Negros the Americans made contact with Filipino guerrilla forces.

American troops scored further successes against Japanese defenses on Luzon and reached into Manila bay to secure Caballo island just south of Corregidor.

Philippine-based American bombers hit Formosa with 200 tons of explosives; other planes on the South sea blockade patrol sank a 10,000-ton Japanese tanker and three coastal ships off Phanrang, French Indo-China.

Jap Destroyer Sunk

Allied bombers off Dutch Celebes sank a Nipponese destroyer.

United States submarines prowling Pacific waters have sunk 11 more Japanese vessels, including a large aircraft carrier, two destroyers and two escort vessels, the Navy department announced at Washington. These made a total of 1,083 Nipponese ships destroyed by American undersea boats to date, including 122 combat ships and 961 noncombants.

Marianas-based Superforts hit Nagoya, Japan's greater aircraft production center, early Friday morning in the 11th B-29 attack on the city, Washington announced. A small force of the big bombers hit Nagoya a few hours after India-based Superforts set Japanese oil storage areas afire at Singapore, former key British naval base.

Berlin radio said a Tokyo broadcast reported a 150-plane Superfortress incendiary assault on the Japanese capital Friday morning, but there was no American confirmation.

Japanese troops driving southward from Honan province in central China have entered Laohokow, American air base city in northwestern Hupeh province, Chungking announced yesterday. The 14th U. S. Air force evacuated the base March 26.

British Empire troops in central Burma drew the strings tighter on Japanese caught in the Irrawaddy river pocket with victories north and northwest of Meiktila, British-held road junction south of recently captured Mandalay.

Estranged Hubby All Set For 'Shadowing'

KANSAS CITY, March 30. (AP)—Sooner or later the police hear almost everything. Today they confronted the automobile owner on whose car a garageman had found a device to dump several pounds of nails from behind the rear wheels.

"My wife and I have been just a little estranged," said the man. "She's been following me at night and I even suspect she has some private detectives on my trail.

"I figured if they got too close I'd pull the wires on my little invention and dump those sharp nails. I've never had a chance to use it yet," he added, "but I'm all ready in case."

The cops dismounted the nail dumper and lectured the husband.

Yanks Thunder On Unopposed

miles southwest of Muenster, and charged up the Muenster highway against dug-in resistance, but elsewhere their armored spearheads were reported fanning out almost unopposed in an almost solid front under a security blackout. British and Canadian forces battling westward from the Rhine bridgehead against savagely-resisting parachute troops, cut back into Holland, possibly to seal off the V-bomb coast.

Seventh Slashes On

On the south end of the front, the U. S. Seventh Army captured the old university city of Heidelberg and fought at least three miles beyond along the Neckar river valley, cutting in behind the Black forest toward the Bavarian Alps, where the last Nazis may be brought to bay.

It was disclosed that Eisenhower had 11 armored divisions in action east of the Rhine.

(The radios of liberated European capitals filled the air with reports, which frequently either were under security censorship or were lagging far behind the fast march of events.

Highway Said Cut

(The Paris radio said the Dortmund-Hannover highway had been severed, which would to all intents cut off the Ruhr, with only winding side roads still open for escape. The Luxembourg radio said "one of the greatest mass surrenders of all times is taking place, with tens of thousands of German soldiers giving up.")

The U. S. First and Third armies, by joining forces in the shoulder-to-shoulder dash toward Berlin, had trapped thousands of other Germans in the Frankfurt pocket.

It appeared that the hard-riding tankmen of the First and Third armies were taking the captured high-ranking officer at his word and so far they had found it true. Front dispatches said neither had struck any serious resistance in the drive toward imperiled Berlin.

The U. S. First and Third armies in mile-eating strides toward the capital were 16 miles or less from the big locomotive-manufacturing center of Kassel by admittedly belated accounts.

Armor Reels Off 20 Miles

The First Army's Seventh Armored division, jumping off from positions north of Frankfurt on the Main, reeled off 20 miles, forged across the Eder and entered Fritzlar, 182 miles southwest of Berlin and 16 miles from Kassel.

Simultaneously, the Sixth Armored division of the Third Army roared 21 miles along the same general route to the vicinity of Treysa, 15 miles to the south which the First Army's Ninth Armored division already had reached. It was the Ninth which captured the Rhine bridge at Remagen.

The German radio said the Third Army's Fourth Armored division, which earlier in the day captured Lauterbach, had pushed on nearly 13 miles to near Fulda within 192 miles of Berlin in a drive that was severing Germany at the waist.

By this account the Third Army would be 242 miles from the Russian lines, and Gen. Omar N. Bradley's headquarters earlier had placed them but 245 miles apart.

First Pushes Northward

North-bound forces of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army dashed another 10 miles north during the day through Paderborn, big railway and highway center and air base, where German parachutists took off in the enemy's winter offensive in the Ardennes.

A front dispatch said Paderborn had been reached during the morning and that the massive armored cavalcade was rolling on toward the north German plain with nothing to stop it but the problem of supply.

Paderborn virtually sealed the fate of the German defenders of the outflanked Ruhr, the best Hitler has left in the west, since through it funnels the best roads and railways for escape.

Fifty-seven miles to the northeast lies Hannover, 43 miles to the west is Hamm—the eastern exit of the Ruhr—and 185 miles to the east are the ruins of Berlin.

Nazis Without Weapons

The German high command was trying desperately to reform the shattered armies for a new line, and so hard-pressed was the enemy that some troops were thrown into the battle without weapons.

The First Army was overrunning vast stores of ammunition and had captured two German trains and a plane factory in its slashing drive 85 miles east of the Rhine.

Infantry moved up swiftly behind the miles-long columns of tanks, taking 11,266 prisoners or the full equivalent of a German division on the First Army front Thursday.

The tank columns were moving so fast communications could not keep pace, and the troops were moving off the maps of command headquarters, just as the Americans were doing on the Ninth Army front.

Censorship permitted disclosure for the first time that the plunging armored columns are being led by the famed Third Armored division of Maj. Gen. Maurice Rose, which broke the Roer river line in the drive to the Rhine.

Allen's Infantry Follows

Following close behind the Third was Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's 104th Infantry division, and the Seventh Armored division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Robert W. Hasbrouck.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., had three armored divisions of his Third Army hammering eastward.

The Fourth Armored division, in the van of this push, captured Lauterbach, 198 miles southwest of Berlin, and brought up a supporting column to Herbstein, six miles to the southwest. Then it too swung toward Berlin, driving eight miles northeast to near Grebenau.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's U. S. Ninth Army broke loose along the northern rim of the Ruhr valley after beating the Germans in one of their best defensive positions—the streets and factories of the Ruhr itself.

The decisive battle that shook Simpson's powerful columns loose was fought at Sweckel, eight miles north of Essen, where the Eighth Armored "Show Horse" division—author of the Roer breakthrough—was summoned to meet the 116th Panzer division.

The battle broke Wednesday, and in the end the German panzers were forced to turn and withdraw.

Lubbock Boys Get Doctor's Degrees

Two Lubbock boys, Luther M. Keith, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Keith, sr., of 1003 College, and Harold N. Cogburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Cogburn of 3203 Ave. H, and a former resident now of Roaring Springs, Ennis Moss, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Moss, sr., received degrees of doctor of medicine from the University of Tennessee this week.

Keith and Cogburn, who were ensigns in the Navy, were commissioned lieutenants (jg) upon presentations of their degrees, and Moss was commissioned a first lieutenant in the medical reserve of the Army. Lieutenants Cogburn and Keith are to intern at the naval base in Seattle, Wash., and Lt. Moss will serve his internship in St. Joseph's hospital, Memphis, Tenn.

Lt. Keith attended Texas Tech for four years and while attending school served as technician in Lubbock General hospital. His average grade for three years' work in the University of Tennessee was 90. He is a member of the Phi-Chi fraternity.

Lt. Cogburn attended Tech two years and graduated from Lubbock High school in 1938.

Lt. Moss attended Tech three years prior to entering the medical school of the University of Tennessee. His wife is the former Miss Elizabeth Hunter of Mississippi.

Lubbock relatives attending the graduation exercises in Memphis were Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Kith, sr., Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Cogburn and daughter, Betty, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Goodwin of 2204 Tenth, who are grandparents of Lt. Moss.

Mr. and Mrs. Ennis Moss, sr., of Roaring Springs also attended.

Russian Drives

hills toward Weiner Neustadt, aircraft-manufacturing city 22 miles south of Vienna. They were striking west to cut another main railroad artery linking Vienna with Italy. One vital supply line to the Italian front already had been cut.

Meanwhile, Danzig, the city which Adolf Hitler made a pretext for attacking Poland on Sept. 1, 1939, fell after four days of street fighting. Terrific artillery and aerial bombardments apparently smashed German hopes of making another Budapest out of the former free city. Its medieval gabled houses and cobbled streets were blasted for days by Russian shells and bombs and, destroying the great harbor facilities themselves, the Germans limited their own ability to make a sea evacuation.

37 Transports Sunk

Moscow announced that Red naval and air units, scourging German attempts to escape, had sunk 37 Nazi transports totaling more than 200,000 tons in the last 10 days. In addition, the Germans lost a dozen escape vessels and several auxiliaries.

The capture of Danzig followed by two days the Russian occupation of Gdynia — model port developed by the Poles after the treaty of Versailles had set up the Polish corridor and created the free city of Danzig, which with its surrounding territory had a pre-war population of 400,000 persons.

Still Holding Out

The Germans claimed that some German units still were holding out in the Westerplatte, a sandy spit forming Danzig harbor where a heroic Polish garrison made a stand for 18 days at the start of the war against air, land and naval attacks until their ammunition was exhausted.

In capturing Danzig, the Russians avenged the 202 gallant Poles who stirred the world with their epic stand and now the Polish flag flies over the city for the first time since 1772.

Aerial Assaults

Wilhelmshaven, an important sub base.

"At Hamburg where most of the bombing was done through clouds, columns of heavy oil and smoke boiled up," said an 8th Air force statement. "At Bremen and the other objectives, where the weather permitted visual bombing, generally good results were reported."

Thick weather restricted continent-based planes but the Ninth Air force's medium and light bombers were able to operate after a 24-hour lull. More than 200 planes pounded a German tank assembly plant at Bad Oyenhuesen, midway between Osnabrueck and Hannover and the Hannmunden ordnance depot northwest of Kassel.

About 75 other mediums blasted 13 oil storage tanks at Ebenhausen, 25 miles northeast of Wurzburg.

(The Paris radio quoted Swiss reports as saying that German sailors had revolted in Hamburg and erected barricades in the dock area).

An Eighth Air force officer stressed the significance of the huge attack with the statement that it was "designed to put the three big ports out of business simultaneously."

BRETTON WOODS HIT

BALTIMORE, March 29. (AP) — Voicing disapproval of the Bretton Woods monetary proposals, Dr. Matthew Page Andrews announced today his resignation from the executive committee of the Associated Organizations for International cooperation, which endorsed the plan.

Floods, Storm Damage Mount

"record or near record" flood stages are expected on the Little, Cypress and Sulphur rivers in the Arkansas-Lousiana-Texas corner.

The Dallas weather bureau defined the area of heaviest rainfall as being from Austin to the Red river and from Mineral Wells to Texarkana, but a thunderstorm rolled over the South Texas area near San Antonio yesterday.

One Woman Drowns

One of those dead was Mrs. Madeline Lovett, 50, of Helotes, who drowned when an auto washed off the Bandera road in a flash flood near San Antonio Thursday night.

Cattlemen were swimming stock out of the Trinity bottoms in Hendersoon county. The hillside levee of the Henderson county Levee District No. 3 broke in several places, and two-thirds of the Trinity bottom lands protected by levees were filled with water. The river had reached cross ties of railroad tracks south of the highway at Trinidad.

Dead Identified

The dead included Jesse Ernest Carroll, 41, of Everman, a war plant worker, killed when a car plunged into a washout at a bridge approach south of Fort Worth; Marvelle Parks, 14, drowned Thursday in a swollen creek at Dallas, and a man identified from papers on his person as M. O. Bennett of Hillsboro, Ore., who was killed in a traffic accident in the rain at Fort Worth.

Rains Total 8.15 Inches

The Shreveport forecasters, saying that rains totaling 8.15 inches had been recorded at Whitecliffs, Ark., and additional heavy rains in southeastern Oklahoma, issued a flood warning for the Little river also.

A report from Shreveport said that because of washouts on the line no trains from Dallas had reached there since Thursday morning.

Since Wednesday night windstorms have struck between Oletha and Seale, farm communities southeast of Mexia; at Frost, near Corsicana; at Marshall, between Wills Point and Terrell, and in the south and east portions of Hopkins county.

Yalta's Secret

States have the same number of votes as the British—six.

On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, Senator Revercomb (R-WVa) said of the multiple voting agreement:

"No such plan can be accepted. It is degrading."

He told the Senate that the United States ought not to be expected to accept "an inferior voting place" in the organization. The British Empires moves as an entity, trades for its mutual benefit and acts in unison in war, he said, and it should be given no more voting strength than the United States.

Senator Johnston (D-SC) arose to express the hope that Americans would not "pick out small things that will keep us from entering a world organization."

"Regardless of the number of votes we get, I intend to vote for the United States to go into some kind of cooperation with other nations to prevent us from going into another war," he declared.

Sees No Great Danger

Senator Wiley (R-Wis) said he "could not see any great danger in the extra vote formula itself. The mechanism is not the thing; the thing that counts is whether the minds of the nations have got to the point where they can see the light."

The questions put to Stettinius and which he said he hoped to answer satisfactorily next week, included:

"Were there any other secret agreements on the Dumbarton Oaks plan at Yalta?"

"How does this policy of secrecy fit into the State department's prophesied new policy of taking the people into their confidence and of building a people's foreign policy?"

"Why does the United States consider it necessary for the U. S. and the USSR to have more than one vote in the assembly?"

"Does the President's commitment bind all the members of the U. S. delegation?"

Nullify Equality?

"Doesn't the secret Yalta agreement nullify the principle of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals which says that the basis of the organization shall be the sovereign equality of all nations?"

"To what length is the United State prepared to go to fulfill the President's commitment to support the Russian proposal at San Francisco?"

"Would one man cast all three U. S. votes or would there be separate representatives for such territories as Alaska and Hawaii?"

"Does the United States consider the White Russian and Ukrainian Socialist republics to have reached the stage where we can exchange ambassadors as we do with Moscow?"

(These republics would have separate votes under the Yalta plan).

FRANCE NAMES GROUP AND PLAYS YALTA PLAN

PARIS, March 30 (AP)— France named her delegation to the San Francisco conference today as opposition rose in governmental circles to the Yalta agreement giving three votes each to the United States and Russia in the proposed world security organization as an offset to the British empire's six votes.

Officials said France probably would oppose the granting of extra votes in the assembly to any power and, failing that, would demand additional votes for the French empire. There was an obvious determination to attempt to maintain the equality of all nations in the assembly and to prevent a "dictatorship" by the Big Three.

"We had thought we knew all about the Yalta decisions," said one official, "but now, obviously, we do not and we do not know what else may be forthcoming."

Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, who will head the five-man French delegation to San Francisco in April, was said to have learned of the vote proposal through his morning newspaper.

The other chief delegates will be Rene Pleven, Conservative minister of finance; Francois Billoux, Communist minister of public health; Joseph Paul-Boncour, one-time premier and before the war France's permanent delegate to the League of Nations; and Henry Bonnet, present ambassador to the United States. Paul-Boncour now is a member of the Independent Socialist party and holds a seat in the consultative assembly.

Beef Subsidy

ments for federally inspected production of other grades of beef remain unchanged at 60 per cent for the better grades and 80 per cent for the canner and cutter grades.

While civilians will get a larger percentage of the pork, the increase will be largely in the form of lower cuts, such as frozen salt sides and fat cuts, greatly in demand in the south. The civilian percentage of better cuts such as loins and hams, will be reduced slightly.

Illegal Penicillin Seized At Laredo

LAREDO, March 30. (AP) — Twenty-six million units of penicillin hidden beneath groceries in several large boxes were seized at the international bridge here today.

Suspicions of customs officials had been aroused when owners of the boxes did not declare them.

This is believed to be the first attempt to export the valuable drug without a license.

The boxes first had been noticed in a bus station. They were labeled "groceries," and were loaded on a Mexico-bound bus. However, when the bus reached the customs quarters on the bridge owners of the boxes did not declare them.

Customs officials made a thorough search and found the penicillin secreted under assorted groceries.

Two separate seizures were made, customs officials said. The first resulted in the seizure of 22,000,000 units, the second 4,000,000. No arrests were made.

V-E Day May Bring More Civilian Gas

LOS ANGELES, March 30. (AP)—Within 30 days after the war ends in Europe there may possibly be an increase of 50 per cent in the amount of gasoline available for civilian use, Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator for war, said today.

Davies, during a press conference, explained that the Petroleum Administration for War allocates gasoline on the basis of estimated military requirements and that "it is reasonable to hold out the distinct hope" for such an increase for civilians.

He said the PAW "earnestly hopes to go out of business as soon as possible," and added that the government agency may be able to wind up its affairs within 90 days after the war ends on all fronts.

Foxholes On Iwo Are Steam-Heated

TULSA, March 30. (AP)—Marine Cpl. Estol Roley wrote home from Iwo Jima describing "the only modern thing about this rock"—the steam-heated foxholes.

Mariner digging in on the northern end of the island found the sandy silt hot from sulphur springs just below the surface.

"The deeper you dug, the hotter it got, and the longer you stayed, the deeper you dug," Roley said. "We slept on blankets instead of under them, to keep the heat away."

VETERAN PRINTER DIES

HOUSTON, March 30. (AP) — James Bell Stephenson, veteran printer, and one time president of ITU unions in Austin and Galveston as well as Houston, died in a hospital yesterday after a long illness. He was 69.

Mine Contract Extension Seen

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—Extension of the expiring contract between soft coal operators and the United Mine Workers, making government seizure of the mines unnecessary, was expected tonight by producers.

The operators previously had rejected requests of Solid Fuels Administrator Harold L. Ickes and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins to continue the agreement for another 30 days and make any wage adjustments retroactive to April 1.

Hearing Set Today

They seemed ready, however, to accept the retroactive feautre in any War Labor board extension order.

The board will conduct a hearing tomorrow morning (10:30) at which time it probably will direct that the contract, expiring Saturday at midnight, be extended another 30 days to permit hearings into the deadlocked contract controversy.

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, received a sudden and unexpected pat on the back tonight from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. Lewis and Green have discussed return of the miners to the AFL, but the federation's executive council met and adjourned at Miami without any reunion materializing.

Green's Message

"If a rule of simple justice had been followed in the wage negotiations which have been placed between representatives of the coal operators and the mine workers, practically all of the demands of the miners would have been granted," said Green in a statement.

"The AFL stands with the mine workers in support of the justifiable fight which they are making to secure decent wages and humane conditions of employment for the mine workers of the nation."

Secretary Perkins certified the case to the board for settlement late Thursday night, after a fruitless attempt to get agreement on a contract propesed by her. John L. Lewis, UMW chief, accepd her terms at once, but the operators said it would cost $180,000,000 a year, a prohibitive figure in their opinion.

Governor Signs Two School Fund Bills

AUSTIN, March 30. (AP)—Governor Coke Stevenson today signed companion measures setting up new proceedings in allocation of public school funds.

One of the measures provides a formula to be used by the state board of education in estimating the amounts necessary to operate the schools for a period of not less than six months. It requires annual distribution of all money coming into the available fund.

The second bill sets up a formula to be used in calculating the ad valorem rate of taxes to be collected for operation of the schools, by providing that the automatic tax board set the rate at 35 cents on the $100 property valuation.

Legislators have estimated that it will provide a per capita scholastic apportionment ranging between $31 to $35.

All important highways were closed into Tyler today, but were expected to be reopened tomorrow.

Durocher Must Devote Time To Managing Club---Or Else

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N. Y., March 30 (AP)—Leo Durocher must be a full time manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Dixie Walker, last year's National League batting champion, has signed a contract, President Branch Rickey said today.

After a two-minute conference with Durocher, Rickey told reporters that "Leo's baseball job must come first. Other interests must be incidental or else . . ."

The ultimatum came after Durocher left camp last night to rehearse a radio program, slated for the air Sunday night. Rickey became irked when he called for the manager to participate in what he termed an important conference.

"The whole thing is a tempest in a teapot," Durocher said. "I just happened to be away when Mr. Rickey wanted me."

Walker and Rickey agreed to terms in a telephone conversation but the salary was not revealed. It was believed, however, that Walker will receive $4,000 above the $14,000 he got in 1944. His signing left rookie pitcher Ernie Rudolph as the only club holdout.

Mickey Owen, first string catcher, reached camp today. He expects to be inducted on April 28.

Schultz To Remain In School This Year

ST. PAUL, March 30 (AP)—Howard Schultz, Brooklyn Dodgers first baseman, probably will be absent from the Dodger lineup this season.

"I have been given permission by my draft board to stay in school until I get my degree in June," he said today. "I expect to be included in the first draft call after that."

Schultz, a senior at Hamline university here, was accepted for military service earlier this spring after being rejected several times because of his height, six feet, seven inches.

Jurges, Berres Sign New York Contracts

LAKEWOOD, N. J., March 30 (AP)—Veteran infielder Billy Jurges and Catcher Ray Berres have agreed to terms with the New York Giants. Jurges, who arrived last night, signed today, while Berres sent word to Manager Mel Ott he would start from Kenosha, Wis., as soon as transportation is available.

Jurges had to take a salary cut but no terms were announced. Berres had to straighten out affairs with his draft board. He has been working in a war plant. Ace Adams, top relief pitcher, is due in camp Sunday. Rookie pitcher Walter Ockey has been released unconditionally.

Frisch Reported As Getting First Rest

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 30 (AP) — A member of Frankie Frisch's household told newsmen that the manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates was getting his first sleep in 60 hours today under the influence of an opiate.

Frisch missed the start of spring conditioning by his club, regarded as a top contender for the 1945 pennant, because of an old knee injury which became painful shortly after Frisch returned from a USO tour of the European war theater. That was followed by arthritis.

The Pirates are training at Muncie, Ind., with Coaches Spud Davis and Jake Flowers subbing for Frisch.

Hopes Are High As Coast League Opens

LOS ANGELES, March 30. (AP)—Bolstered by the recent war manpower commission's ruling releasing players from essential jobs, the Pacific Coast League swings into action tomorrow in its 43rd season, its fourth under war time conditions and with the prospects of playing before the largest total attendance in its history.

With no competition from horse racing, chief rival for the Saturday crowds, the coast Class AA baseball loop expects the fans to come trooping through the turnstiles throughout the season. Last year's tremendous overall turnout, 2,243,266, only the 1924 attendance exceeded it, surprised even the most optimistic directors of the league. With a government nod of approval this year to back them up, they look for bigger and better gate receipts.

Concededly not up to the peace time variety, and even less strong than a year ago, the brand of ball to be dished up this season, nevertheless, should be not too far away from Double "A" class. Some of the big league clubs have fulfilled commitments by shipping out players from the International League and others will be on the way before long.

Senators Card Seven Service Team Games

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) The Washington Senators will play a single game at Fort Monroe, Va., tomorrow, followed by six games at the Norfolk, Va., Naval Training Station.

After more than three weeks of spring training, Manager Ossie Bluege was more concerned over his outfield's batting punch than anything else, as the team left today.

The veteran George Case has been hitting well but two newcomers, George Binks, from Milwaukee, and Walter Chippell, from Montreal, have not found their strides. Stan Spence, the team's leading hitter last year at .313, has been inducted into the Navy at Bainbridge, Md.

Penna In Lead In Durham Open

DURHAM, N. C., March 30. (AP)—Toney Penna, diminutive professional from Dayton, Ohio, took the lead in the first round of the $6,666 (war bond) Durham Open golf tournament today, firing a 68 over the sun-baked Hope Valley Country club course.

The gay little man in the yellow beret recorded 34-34, one under par for each nine of the 6,670-yard layout. He had three birdies, with putts of six and 10 feet on No. 6 and 11, and by chipping close on the par-five 15th, and only one bogey, on No. 10, where he overshot the green. He had a ball out of bounds on the third hole but still got his par four.

One shot back of the wise-cracking Penna came another of golf's lesser-known shotmakers, Leonard Dodson of San Francisco. Dodson fired a 35-34.

Bracketed at even par 70 were defending champion Craig Wood, Sam Byrd of Detroit, Wee Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va., and Gene Kunes of Hollywood, Fla.

Wood, the duration National Open champion, had steady nines of 35-35.

Hope Valley's par defied the rest of the field, including all the big name players.

Six players were deadlocked at 71, including the two pre-tournament favorites, Byron Nelson and Sammy Snead.

Nelson, going after his third straight title in the Carolina swing and seventh of the winter tour, bogied the first hole when his ball bounced off the green and rolled out of bounds. He then carded 17 straight pars in what he called the most unsatisfactory round he had played in years. It was the first time this winter he had played 18 holes without a single bird.

Others with 71s, were Harold (Jug) McSpadden of Sanford, Me., Mike Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., Ed Furgol, the ace amateur who now is registering from Utica, N. Y., and Joe Zarhardt, of Norristown, Pa.

Konetchy To Manage Semi-Pro Baseballers

FORT WORTH, March 30 (AP)—Big Ed Konetchy, who once led the Texas League with 41 home runs, came out of his athletic retirement today as non-playing manager of Consolidated Vultee's Bomber baseball team in the Panther City league.

Colorful 58-year-old Konetchy set his home run record in 1925 while playing first base for the Fort Worth Panthers. For 15 years he played with four National League clubs—St. Louis, Pittsburgh, Boston and Brooklyn. During that time he played in 1,993 games and posted 1,169 hits for 2,799 bases.

Norfolk Sailors Nose Out Philadelphia A's

NORFOLK, Va., March 30 (AP)—The Norfolk Naval Training Station set the Philadelphia Athletics down 2-1 in an exhibition game here, limiting the American Leaguers to three hits.

Russ Meers, property of the Chicago Cubs, pitched two-hit ball for the Sailors in six innings while Joseph Rustick held the A's to one hit in his three innings.

Boys Club Ringmen Stage Fast Battles

There was only one technical knockout on the card, but action was not rationed as the Lubbock Boys club ringmen staged a fast show Friday night at the club gym with better than 200 fans attending the show. It was the second fight night of the year.

D. C. Brannon was awarded a TKO victory by Referee Bo Sexton in the third round of his fight with Bobby Jackson for the nearest approach to a knockout. The other nine fights on the card were decisions.

Keith Newman won the nod over Burrell McGee; Johnny Carpenter won over Robert Allen; Bobby Sexton was the winner over Don Stewart; James Hawkins decisioned Jimmy Camp; Jimmy Sexton won from Harold Littrell; Floyd Stevenson won the nod over Edward Scott; Dwaine Peters won over M. D. Stevens; James Ferguson upset Bobby Griffin and Norman Lindsey won over Glen Denny in the other nine bouts on the card.

STEERS BEAT SOLDIERS

AUSTIN, Tex., March 30 (AP)—A big sixth inning gave the University of Texas baseball team a 5-1 triumph over the San Marcos Army Air Field Navigators here today.

The difficult first-to-short-to-first double play was completed 32 times during the 1944 American League season.

During the past three wartime baseball seasons the American and National Leagues have raised a total of $2,630,460 for war relief.
