President Carter takes oath

WASHINGTON (AP) — In soft Georgia accent, uttering the simple oath set out in the Constitution, Jimmy Carter came to power today and promised a government "both competent and compassionate."

Carter's first words as President were words of thanks to Gerald R. Ford for all he has done to heal the nation.

Amid applause that swelled to cheers, Carter paused to shake hands with the man he had just succeeded. Then he spoke of the future:

"You have given me a great responsibility — to stay close to you, to be worthy of you, and to exemplify what you are," said the President who leads America into its third century.

"Let us create together a new national spirit of unity and trust ... let us learn together and laugh together and work together and pray together, confident that in the end we will triumph together in the right."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger administered the oath to the former governor of Georgia at two minutes past the appointed hour of noon.

"Congratulations," he said, as the transfer of power was concluded in the oath as old as the Republic, and a 21-gun salute boomed from Army cannon on the Capitol grounds. Carter stood, first solemn, then with a momentary smile on his lips, as the strains of "Hail to the Chief" sounded in salute.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale was sworn in first, his oath administered by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts.

A crowd estimated by Capitol police at 150,000 stretched across the plaza before the inaugural stand.

Carter's inaugural address was a brief one — 12 minutes.

It was the moment that Carter had campaigned for through 31 primaries and a bruising election campaign against Ford. But past political differences melted away in the grandeur of inauguration day.

Along the route, people gathered to cheer both the old and the new president. Inauguration day is a holiday for government employes and many were out in the 26-degree sunshine.

TAKES THE OATH — Jimmy Carter takes the oath of office as the 39th President of the United States at the Capitol today as his wife Rosalynn holds the Bible. Chief Justice of the United States Warren Burger administers the oath while Sen. Howard Cannon of Nevada stands behind the Carters.

A possibility of snow was forecast for late in the day when the seven grand inaugural balls were to start. But no clouds marked this day.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford, Carter and his wife, and the incoming and outgoing vice presidents and their wives, had chatted for 40 minutes over coffee in the White House before proceeding down the street nicknamed "The Avenue of the Presidents."

The Carters began their day by watching on television a prayer service at the Lincoln Memorial, then going to church themselves. On returning, they walked hand-in-hand to the White House where the Fords met them at the door with smiles and handshakes.

"I feel great, looking forward to it," Carter said of the coming ceremony and parade as he left for the service at the First Baptist Church. He returned from church to Blair House, then walked across the street for the traditional meeting with the outgoing first family.

Earlier, Ford said goodbye to 75 members of the staff that served him in his presidency of 29 months and 11 days.

"I've enjoyed the White House mainly because of the fine people," he said. "You all contributed to an administration I think was good and which history will treat kindly."

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, who had spent the night at the White House, told Ford: "Mr. President, this is the proudest moment of our lives."

Carter was beaming as he made his first public appearance of a day that will not end until he has visited the last of seven parties — sometime after 2 a.m. Friday.

He was joined at the private church service by many members of his Cabinet and by Vice President-elect Walter F. Mondale and his wife. Mrs. Mondale's father, a retired Presbyterian minister from Minnesota, helped conduct the half-hour service.

Carter's sister, Ruth Stapleton, an evangelist, and the Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., father of the slain civil rights leader, led 5,000 persons in prayer in front of the Lincoln Memorial. Also taking part was Carter's pastor from Plains, Ga., the Rev. Bruce Edwards.

The new president watched the service on television and heard Edwards say:

"It is fitting that we gather for prayer because the man for whom we pray is himself a man of prayer, a man who seeks God's direction."

Carter describes himself as a reborn Christian.

The Rev. Mr. King, who also gave the benediction at the Democratic National Convention which nominated Carter, called attention to the poignancy of preaching at the spot where his son, 14 years ago, made his famed "I have a dream" speech.

"I stand here with a bit of reluctancy and timidity upon these hallowed grounds," he said.

Later, the miracle of democracy — the peaceful transfer of government from one party and one president to another — was to be celebrated once again with prayer and proud pageantry. The day was bright and cold.

Ford would share the pillared platform in front of the Capitol as Carter swore to "preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

For Carter, it was — as he told his neighbors in Plains, Ga. — "A new day, a new beginning, a new spirit for our country."

For Ford, it was a leave-taking from the government he had served nearly half his 63 years, the last 2½ as a president elected by no one. He had sought today's swearing-in ceremony for himself, but, failing to win election, directed full cooperation to smooth the new administration's way.

In that spirit, the departing 38th president and the incoming 39th paused for coffee in the White House before riding together to the Capitol in a display of unity and continuity.

With them were their wives, each a partner in her husband's success: Rosalynn Carter, who campaigned day after day in Carter's dogged rise from obscurity, and Betty Ford, a first lady of dignity and grace whose popularity rating in polls often rivaled or surpassed her husband's.

And there was another transition as the vice presidency passed from Nelson A. Rockefeller to Walter F. Mondale.

Hardesty sees 'good four years'

(Special to the Herald)

WASHINGTON, D.C. —Big Spring Postmasters Frank Hardesty said that everyone he talked to at the inauguration of President Jimmy Carter feel that the country will have a good next four years.

Hardesty, in Washington for a meeting of chapter officers of the U.S. Postal Services of each state, stayed an extra day in order to witness the inauguration of the 39th President.

"It was very impressive. I've been with some people from Texas and they all were impressed by this historic moment and the smooth transition from one administration to another.

Only in this country would the outgoing president stand on the same platform with the new president," he said.

"All of us thought Carter's speech was good," he added.

Hardesty said that the 25-degree weather was chilly, but "we got a break in the weather, it was supposed to be much colder."

Tonight Hardesty will attend the Inaugural Ball at Union Station and will try to meet President Carter and his wife, Rosalyn, personally when they make their appearance.

The ball is one of seven slated for tonight, and the new president and first lady are to attend each of them.

"They'll have to get an early start to make all the balls," Hardesty said.

He said that originally only six balls were scheduled, but high interest caused the additon of one more bash.

This inauguration was the first for Hardesty, although he was invited to the inaugurations of Presidents John Kennedy in 1961 and Lyndon Johnson in 1965.

"Witnessing an event like this gives you a tremendous feel of how your government works — how a common man can become the commander-in-chief. I wouldn't take anyting for this experience," he said.

Hardesty was one of three or four thousand persons present Wednesday night at a reception for the Texas Congressional delegation hosted by newly elected House Majority Leader, Rep. Jim Wright, Fort Worth.

The reception included a pictorial history program.

Most of the state's congressmen and Gov. Dolph Briscoe and his wife were present at that meeting.

Don Womack, former Big Spring manager of Texas Electric Service Company was also present at the reception.

Hardesty and some of the postmasters met the "Peanut Express" train from Georgia at Union Station at 7:05 a.m. EST today.

Hardesty, president of the Texas chapter was one of 200 postmasters attending the meeting from 50 states.

He plans to board a flight in Washington at 10 a.m. Friday and will probably arrive in Midland at 4:55 p.m. He expects to be home around 5:30 p.m.

Cold spell still grips two-thirds of nation

By the Associated Press

Despite a letup in subzero temperatures, the current cold spell is putting mounting strain on generating plants, gas pipelines and water traffic in the eastern two-thirds of the nation.

Hundreds of thousands of workers and school children were staying home as factories and schools remained closed to conserve fuel.

Oranges froze on trees in Florida and fishermen were kept off the frozen Chesapeake Bay. A 160-mile stretch of the frozen northern Mississippi River was officially closed, stranding hundreds of barges and towboats — many of them carrying fuel supplies.

Temperatures were still cold throughout the region, with little change expected today.

In Miami, snow flurries fell Wednesday for the first time since the National Weather Service began keeping records in the 1880s. The afternoon high was a chilly 47 degrees — the lowest recorded high temperature ever there.

In North Dakota, they were calling the 20-and 30-degree readings a January thaw after the extreme cold earlier in the week. The higher readings, however, posed a new problem.

"A marked increase in the cases of the common cold and other illnesses have been noted to correspond with warm periods during the cold season," weathermen at Bismarck warned.

The common cold was not worrying officials in at least 21 states. They were concerned with "energy emergencies" — shortages, near-shortages, or severe strain on power plants or pipelines that carry natural gas to residences, businesses and industrial plants.

Warnings were phrased variously, but the message was the same: Conserve.

—Officials of the Dayton (Ohio) Power & Light Co. said Wednesday they would tell business and industrial customers that when they exceeded their winter natural gas allotments, service would be terminated.

—Electric power customers in Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and parts of Missouri were told Wednesday to conserve or face "periodic interruption of electric service" during peak demand daytime hours.

LADY REPUBLICAN GOVERNOR OF TEXAS — State Senator Betty Andujar, of Fort Worth became the first lady Republican to serve as governor of Texas. She occupied the chair in Gov. Briscoe's office today and was actually on the payroll as governor while Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby were in Washington, D.C., attending the inaugural of President Jimmy Carter.

Decision explanation offered

After revealing its plans to keep the Boca Chica Naval Air Station at Key West, Fla., open the remainder of the year, the Navy Department was contacted by a member of Cong. Omar Burleson's office in Washington, who asked the Navy to elaborate on reasons for the decision.

The Navy Department focused attention on the fact that it had been studying a number of alternatives for possible reduction in the operation of the Naval Air Station at Key West, then issued the following terse statement:

"The study announced in March 1976 has been completed and it has been determined that no closure action or change to the Naval Air facility status will be made at the NAS Key West at this time."

In short, the Navy's statement said a lot, yet said nothing.

The Navy's decision generated some interest in this area, since Webb was included on a Department of Defense list of military facilities for possible closures last March.

There was speculation here that the Key West decision might, in effect, be a straw in the wind, that the Department of Defense might be reassessing its position on base closures and reduction in strength at other facilities. The Navy Department, after announcing that the Florida base would remain open the remainder of the year, added that the situation would be reassessed again in 1978 and regularly thereafter.

There was also speculation here that the Department of Defense has decided against no action until the new president has had a chance to assess the situation as regards to the nation's defensive posture and make known his wishes.

Texas citrus undamaged

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) —Texas is having better luck with its multi-million dollar citrus crop than the Florida growers, Agriculture Commissioner John White said today.

The Texas crop so far has escaped weather damage, he said.

"Experts in the Valley region do predict higher prices for citrus both in Florida and at home," White said, "due to the freeze damage in Florida. We can't say at this point how much prices will increase."

Year's fourth robbery nets only $47.98

A black man wearing a black T-shirt, a black sports cap, and brandishing a black steel revolver stuck up the Seven-Eleven Store, 1701 Marcy, 11:25 p.m. Wednesday.

The robbery was cut and dry. The six-foot, 180-pound man, between 18 and 20 years of age, entered the store at 11:25 p.m. He pointed a pistol at the clerk, Iris Crawford, and demanded that she fill a paper bag with all the money in the cash register.

She placed $47.98 in the bag and the robber fled north on foot.

This was the fourth armed robbery of the year, but only the second successful one. On Jan. 12 a robber got away with $268 and a CB stereo unit from the Holiday Inn.

Two other armed attempts have been spoiled by police during the month. On Jan. 9 Gearry Thornton was robbed by a rifle toting bandit, but a suspect was picked up within the week.

The other attempt never got off the ground. On Jan. 12 two men attempted to rip off the Town and Country Store, 3104 Parkway. Patrolling officers happened onto the scene, the men fled, but were picked up the next day after an informant revealed their identitites.

Large grass fire blackens Sterling Ranch

What sheriff's deputies called the biggest grass fire of the year burned for several hours last night on the J.M. Sterling ranch. The fire was reported at 3 p.m. to the sheriff's department, and involved five fire departments. Apparently, it burned over several sections of land, but was under control by 6 p.m.

At 4 p.m. the sheriff's department called for a road grader to cut a fire line. Despite fears that the gusty wind would pose a threat to nearby buildings, several dry creekbeds delayed the progress of the fire long enough to get it under control.

Speaker plans to play catch up

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Speaker Bill Clayton planned to play catch up today with the more than 600 bills filed in the House.

While senators remained in adjournment for Jimmy Carter's presidential inauguration, the House met at 9 a.m., mainly so Clayton could refer bills to the committees that will kill them or keep them alive for floor action.

"We hope to catch up," he said before Wednesday's adjournment.

Two bills of more than passing interest were introduced Wednesday.

Rep. Sam Hudson, a black Dallas lawyer who has a client on death row, introduced legislation to repeal the death penalty.

"I don't think anyone should kill anyone, including the state. It makes this a hypocritical situation. The better remedy would be to send a person to the pen for the rest of his life without parole," Hudson said.

Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, chairman of the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, said he opposes repeal and voted for the death penalty law four years ago.

"I haven't had a lot of groundswell support (for repeal) and I don't believe the members of the committee have had a lot of groundswell support for it," Nabers said.

Hudson defended Ronald Chambers of Dallas, who was sentenced to death in the slaying of a Texas Tech student on a Trinity River levee.

"My client is not guilty as far as I am concerned," Hudson said. "The chance you take of frying an innocent man argues against the state killing anyone."

Three House members introduced a bill to repeal the "blue law" that prohibits merchants from selling more than 40 categories of items on both Saturdays and Sundays.

Reps. Craig Washington, D-Houston; John Hoestenbach, D-Odessa; and Henry Allee, D-Houston, said it is "ridiculous that a person can buy beer on Sunday but not a baby bottle."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe submitted his $16.2 billion recommended budget Wednesday. It deleted funds for the welfare department, youth council and Governor's Committee on Aging, merging them into a $2.4 billion Texas Department of Human Resource.

The chairman of the House Appropriations Committee said he had not found a great deal of enthusiasm for the proposal.

"It sounds like it's going to be too big an agency to me," said Rep. Bill Presnal, D-Bryan.

Egyptian riots toll mounts

CAIRO (AP) — Army paratroopers with machine guns guarded key squares and bridges and patrolled Cairo's slum districts today after two days of riots over price increases.

Police sources said today 40 persons were killed and 250 injured in Cairo during the riots. The semi-official newspaper Al Ahram reported 34 persons were killed and 409 injured in Cairo and Alexandria and 439 arrested in the capital.

A 14-hour curfew, Cairo's first since King Farouk was overthrown in 1952, brought calm back to the metropolis. People were moving about the streets normally. Buses were running. Workers began clearing away the rubble and broken glass left by the rioting. Many shops reopened.

The curfew was shortened three hours today. Cairo Radio announced it would begin at 7 p.m. instead of 4 p.m.

Police reported calm also in Alexandria, the port city on the Mediterranean; Suez, at the southern end of the Suez Canal, and towns in the Nile Delta and Upper Egypt where disturbances occurred Wednesday.

The violence was the worst in Egypt since the revolution nearly 25 years ago. Al Ahram said 29 were killed, 267 were injured and 439 were arrested in Cairo. In Alexandria, five persons were reported killed and 132 injured Tuesday.

The rioting was touched off by the reduction Monday of government subsidies that were keeping down the prices of staple foods, bottled gas, gasoline, cigarettes and other items in general use. The subsidies were reduced in an attempt to cut the $3.2 billion deficit in the government's budget.

The intensity of the public reaction forced President Anwar Sadat to suspend the price increases. The president, who was assailed personally in slogans shouted by the demonstrators, returned to Cairo Wednesday night from Aswan, the winter resort 600 miles to the south where he was waiting to entertain Yugoslav President Tito. Tito canceled his visit because of the death in a plane crash of his prime minister.

The finance committee of the People's Assembly was to meet today to seek other ways of reducing the deficit. Prime Minister Mamdouh Salem's Center Party called for higher income taxes, particularly for the wealthy.

It also asked the Arab oil states to show more understanding "for Egypt's hardships and the four wars it fought with Israel in the name of Arab honor."

PBRPC successes listed

By MARJ CARPENTER

"Big government cannot take care of all of our problems. We just continue to solve our problems at a local and regional level," Ernie Crawford, executive director of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council told members of the 17-county group in Odessa Wednesday.

Crawford outlined the successes of the PBRPC during their five years as an organization and then told of possible future developments for regional planning groups. He pointed out that the new president of the United States had put regional planning councils in action in Georgia during his administration as governor.

"We will have to wait and see which programs are cut and which are augmented in the new administration," Crawford pointed out. The Permian Basin council, which has the national president in Judge Barbara Culver, has been one of the most successful councils in the United States.

It was selected as Health Systems Agency group when others were denied; and has had tremendous success with programs of mental health, alcoholism, drug abuse, crime prevention, and others.

It has also been more successful than the average COG group in obtaining grants for member counties and cities in their region.

When the group began in 1971, the membership included nine counties and eight cities and now includes 15 counties, 22 cities and 15 special purpose districts.

In the Big Spring area, the membership includes Howard County, Big Spring, Forsan, Coahoma, Klondike, Lamesa, Dawson County, Stanton, Martin County, Glasscock County, Borden County, Martin County Hospital District, Glasscock Independent School District and others.

Harold Hall, Big Spring city councilman, bowed out as chairman of the board but was re-elected unanimously as a board member by small cities in the council.

The smaller cities are allowed three representatives on the board of directors, along with the county judges from the membership counties. They named Harold Hall, Norbon Sikes of Monahans and Gene Day of Fort Stockton. Regan Legg of the Midland college Board of Regents was elected as the school representative on next year's board.

New officers elected include Judge Darrell Glover of Reeves County, chairman; Norboy Sikes, vice-chairman and Judge Peggy Garner of Upton County as secretary.

The Big Spring delegation to the membership meeting included Hall and Ralph McLaughlin, city councilmen; Harry Nagel, city manager; Bill Brown, Don Ferguson, Jimmy Foresyth, Paul Feazelle, Alvie Harrison Howard Dodd and Nabar Martinez.

Judge Jimmy Mathis and City Manager Mike Rhea of Stanton were present as well as Judge Leslie Pratt, Police chief Lee Bartlett and City Manager Carroll Taylor of Lamesa.

Lions attend CR preview

Downtown Lions got a preview of the best of a decade of Campus Revues as members of the CR-77 cast presented excerpts at the Wednesday meeting at the Settles Hotel.

CR-77, the widely heralded extravaganza presented annually by the Big Spring High School band, goes on tonight, Friday and Saturday evenings this week, and the same evenings next week. Bill Bradley, director and father of the unique production, said that there still are tickets available for all nights. The ticket office is open at the high school auditorium or at the band room.

Kim Andrews, production assistant, presented the bobtail program for the Lions. Included were Angie Fulgham, as Edith Anne; Terri Burroughs singing "Be Kind to Your Parents," accompanied by Larry Wheat; and David Trim in the parody, "It's in the Book."

Gary Bradbury, president, announced that Bert Andries will be chairman of the committee to obtain applications for youngsters to attend the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children. Everything, including transportation, is financed by the local club.

Ladies Day will be observed at 11:45 a.m. at the high school cafeteria and then the planetarium Feb. 2, and Dan Conely, program chairman, urged a large attendance.

Habeas corpus hearing begins

Testimony began this morning in the habeas corpus hearing of Manuel Castro. Castro pleaded guilty in 1969 to three charges; two or murder and one of carrying a handgun on licensed premises.

Castro requested the habeas corpus to show cause for keeping him in prison on the grounds that he could not speak English well enough to understand the consequences of his guilty plea. Castro received life sentence for each count.

Testimony began when defense attorney Jack Thompson called former Castro defense attorneys Richard Milstead and Ben Bancroft. Both men testified concerning their discussions with Castro that an interpreter was available to clear up any confusions.

J.P. Gus Ochotorena was sworn in by Judge Ralph Caton to serve as interpreter at the hearing.

Sheriff votes on losing side

STANTON — Sheriff Dan Saunders of Martin County was a lone voter in the state organized crime prevention council Monday in Austin.

The seven-member board was asked to approve a bill which is going to the legislature this year requesting statewide grand juries.

"I think we can still handle indictments at a local level," Sheriff Saunders stated here today. "It almost smacks of a police state to turn everything over to the state.

"I also firmly believe that every single right and responsibility that we lose at a local level will never be regained," the sheriff added.

The bill has not yet become law but is expected to have a lot of backing when it goes to the state legislature this session.

Minister raps MC trustees

MIDLAND — A former Big Spring minister, the Rev. Caleb Hildebrand of Midland St. Mark's United Methodist Church, has criticized the board of trustees of Midland College for their treatment of a case involving the separation from service of three coaches of the school.

Athletic director-head basketball coach Chester Storey, tennis coach Neill McClung and golf coach J.D. Menasco resigned their position under pressure after it was disclosed the three were involved in falsifying grades for a student who transferred to Oklahoma State University.

Hildebrand told the board it made the three "seem like common criminals."

Hildebrand, who was pastor of Wesley United Methodist Church in Big Spring before moving to Midland, said he was acting alone but believed himself "an unofficial spokesman for many people."

Delnor Poss, Big Spring, was named interim basketball coach at Midland College after dismissal of the trio.

In other action, MC President Al Langford's five-year contract was extended for another year and the board raised his housing allowance from $300 to $500 a month. His salary, $34,667 annually, will remain the same.

Sniper dies in gun battle

CANTON, Tex. (AP) — Law enforcement officials here say they can't explain what caused a 27-year-old Brownsboro man to embark on a shooting spree that ended when state troopers killed him near Myrtle Springs in Northeast Texas.

A Department of Public Safety spokesman said the body of James Milton Roberson was identified by his driver's license minutes after the father of two children was killed in a running gun battle with seven troopers Wednesday.

DPS Sgt. Bill Dean said Roberson was shooting at passing cars from his pickup truck on Texas 64 near this Northeast Texas town.

"He was shooting at cars all over this county," said Dean. "We have no idea how many cars he fired at."

State police were called to the scene by the Van Zandt County sheriff's office. Sheriff Travis Schaeffer said, "an individual came running in here (his office in Canton) saying somebody in a two-tone green pickup was shooting at him. I also had a call from the Henderson County sheriff's office to put out a warrant on that same pickup because the driver had shot at somebody and pointed a gun at another person down there somewhere."

State police intercepted Roberson at 64 and Interstate 20 and a high speed chase ensued with Roberson firing several shots at the pursuing officers.

Dean said Roberson wrecked his pickup on the outskirts of Myrtle Springs, got out and continued to fire on police as he attempted to flee into a nearby tree line.

Dean said at that point the officers returned the fire and killed Roberson. He said two small caliber pistols and a .22-caliber rifle were found on the seat of the pickup.

"We're still investigating this," said Schaeffer. "But I talked to his parents and they said they just couldn't understand it. To my knowledge, nobody was hit but that individual that came running in here...I know his car was hit at least once."

Schaeffer said Roberson was married and had two children.

Trying to get Beatles back

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali says he's trying to get the Beatles back together for a benefit that would pay for "feeding and clothing the poor children of the world," the New York Daily News says.

The newspaper quoted the world heavyweight boxing champ in an exclusive interview as saying he is trying to raise $200 million to establish a permanent international help agency.

"I hope to impress them with the idea that this is money to help people all over the world. All races love the Beatles. I love the music. I used to train to their music."

Swim pool grant nixed

GARDEN CITY — Glasscock County citizens are used to being stymied by regulations made by larger counties.

So it probably was not too much of a surprise when the Glasscock County commissioners received a letter from the state parks and wildlife department turning down their application for a grant for a swimming pool.

The law which was made in May 1973 keeps counties with less than 80,000 population, that own and maintain county parks, from sinking more than $15,000 in matching funds to a grant.

This law was approved mainly by legislators from larger counties and it helps keep the parks funds available for the larger municipalities.

There is a current bill to be presented this year in the legislature which may do away with the law.

Coahoma can apply for funds as a city but a small county with no municipality, such as Glasscock County, is out of luck.

Ernie Crawford, executive director of the Regional Planning Council in the Permian Basin said, "I's one of those laws that is really unfair to a small area."

The Garden City School district was planning to help with the funding but on the grant application, they are not eligible to apply.

Garden City's hopes for a swimming pool are thereby bogged down in state red tape.

Skid Row Slasher sentenced to life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The drifter known as the Skid Row Slasher has been sentenced to life imprisonment by a judge who says he "should never be released again."

In sentencing Vaughn Orrin Greenwood on Wednesday, Superior Court Judge Earl C. Broady said he believed the convicted killer of nine men is driven by a compulsion to kill.

Broady said he did not have the power to sentence Greenwood to life without the possibility of parole, but urged future parole authorities to take a "long and close look" at Greenwood's record before ever releasing him from prison.

Greenwood was already serving a 32-years-to-life term for a knife and hatchet assault on two Hollywood Hills men when he was convicted last week of nine slashing murders in December 1974 and January 1975. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Being sentenced as a "habitual offender" will have an adverse effect on chances for parole, court officials said. The life sentence was the harshest Broady could deal to Greenwood, since the state's death penalty law was overturned last month.

Greenwood's victims, mostly Skid Row transients like him, had been attacked with a knife, their throats slit from ear to ear.

Grand champ nets $1,750

Diann Armstrong, Knott 4-Her who showed the grand champion steer at the Abilene Livestock Show this week, received $1,750 in the auction.

Abilene Clearing House purchased the crossbred animal at the show. At the Abilene Livestock Show, the champions must sell after the show and cannot be taken on to another show.

Kim Hager of Weinert got $1,300 for her reserve grand champion. The girls had both top winners in Abilene.

Travis Pate Jr. of Garden City showed the fine wool champion. KRBC purchased that lamb for $225 in the arena.

'Emergency' lifted

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government, relaxing the 19-month-old state of emergency to prepare for parliamentary elections, lifted press censorship today and ordered the mass release of political prisoners.

Four non-Communist opposition parties, meanwhile, buried their political differences to form a united front against Mrs. Gandhi's Congress party in the elections, to be held in March.

"We hope to win a thumping majority, not just a small majority," former Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai said as he announced the formation of the new Janta — People's — party.

Billy dons tux

WASHINGTON (AP) — Billy Carter, a beer can in hand and a wide grin on his face, is getting acquainted with the city his older brother will dominate for the next four years. He brought a tuxedo to wear to the inaugural parties tonight, but he wore a blue denim leisure suit when he arrived aboard a chartered jet from Georgia on Wednesday for five days of partying.

Carter to take tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter will promote his domestic programs with a two-week national tour in March and open a drive to reach a new strategic arms agreement by October if he follows a six-month plan his aides hope will give him the image of a "cando" president. In a proposed White House agenda, the aides also have suggested: An economic State of the Union address to Congress week after next; meetings next month in Washington with the president of Mexico and the prime minister of Canada; sessions between Feb. 15 and March 5 with officials from Israel and the Arab nations, and a meeting after April 1 with a representative of mainland China.

'Lame ducks' eye deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were no crises to defuse and no last-minute decisions to make. In the end, for President Ford's Cabinet, there was only one final deadline: They had to leave office by noon.

Immediately after Jimmy Carter's inauguration as president, the Senate planned to confirm their Democratic successors.

From Henry Kissinger's tearful farewell to Edward Levi's security debriefing and David Mathews' packing his household effects, the Ford administration winded down Wednesday for today's finale.

Most of the 11 members of Ford's Cabinet were to join Ford and his staff at a farewell breakfast today in the White House. Some planned to join the crowds on Capitol Hill to witness Carter's swearing in.

But not Carla Hills, the secretary of Housing and Urban Development, or Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson.

The 43-year-old attorney plans to spend the rest of her day at home with her children, parents and husband, Roderick, the chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Richardson, 56, who held four Cabinet posts and was ambassador to Great Britain during the past seven years, said he was going home to clean out his basement.

David Mathews, 41, the outgoing secretary of health, education and welfare, didn't wait. He stayed home Wednesday to pack for his move back to the University of Alabama, where he reassumes the presidency.

Treasury Secretary William Simon stole a march on everyone. He began a month-long vacation in Hawaii five days ago.

Simon, 49, reportedly is considering returning to the Wall Street bond brokerage firm he left in 1972 when he joined the government.

Atty. Gen. Edward Levi took almost no notice that Wednesday was his final full day in office. Levi, 65, who is taking a trip down Egypt's Nile River and expects to return to the University of Chicago next fall, had several routine appointments and received a 30-minute security debriefing, which is routine for all departing government workers who had access to classified documents.

But most of his peers set aside Wednesday for their farewells.

Henry Kissinger overslept following a party at the White House. The secretary of state, who is expected to make a fortune by selling his memoirs, spent the afternoon shaking hands with hundreds of State Department employes who filed through his office.

At day's end, he delivered a tearful farewell to several hundred persons who crowded the department's flag-bedecked lobby.

"I want to tell you how much it has meant to me," said Kissinger. "I'll never forget you." One employe watched Kissinger's limousine pull away and commented, "It's like touching a piece of history."

Like several other Cabinet members and President Ford himself, Kissinger plans to spend some time in the groves of academia. He will lecture at Georgetown University in the spring.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld received a full-dress farewell salute at the Pentagon on Wednesday, then received the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian award, from Ford at a ceremony in the Oval Office.

Rumsfeld, 44, a former congressman, said he plans to vacation for 10 days and afterwards "very likely will have a part-time affiliation with a univeristy."

Transportation Secretary William Coleman Jr., said Wednesday he will spend the next month or two at the Smithsonian Institution's Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars here.

Coleman, 56, "intends to do some thinking and writing" about government decisionmaking, a spokesman said. He formerly practiced law in Philadelphia.

W. J. Usery Jr., 53, who was the government's crack labor negotiator before he became labor secretary 11 months ago, went to the dentist Wednesday and then spent much of the day making farewells and packing dozens of plaques and momentoes from eight years in government.

Interior Secretary Thomas Kleppe cleared up some paperwork Wednesday and had a farewell reception in his office. The 57-year-old wealthy former businessman from North Dakota plans to stay in the capital, but has no immediate career plans.

Acting Agriculture Secretary John Knebel, 40, who succeeded Earl Butz last fall, named four members of a child nutrition advisory council Wednesday and announced that research on predatory control will be stepped up to aid sheepmen complaining of coyotes.

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and his wife and their nine- and 12-year-old boys spent Wednesday night as President Ford's guests in the White House.

DOROTHY HANEY

Mrs. Haney wins contest

LAMESA — The Chamber of Commerce of the United States announced this past week that Mrs. Dorothy Haney of the Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce has won the nationally sponsored volunteer membership sales contest for 1976.

The contest, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, covered the period from January 1 - December 31, 1976. During this period, Dorothy sold 250 memberships winning the numbers category handsdown.

Her closest competitor was Bill Miller from Atlanta, Georgia with 127 memberships to his credit. She also broke the standing record of number of sales with no time limit previously held by Chic Wyckoff of Hartford, Connecticut with 370 memberships within an eight-year period. Because of her success and that of the Lamesa Round Up Club, the Chamber now has 745 members, the largest per capita Chamber in the nation.

Dorothy Haney is also active in other Chamber roles including chairmanship of the Area Relations Committee and the chamber's banquet committee. She is currently senior vice president of the board of directors for the chamber.

Cities entered in the contest were: Macon, Georgia; Orlando, Florida; Pawtucket, Rhode Island; Kansas City, Kansas; Oak Cliff, (Dallas), Texas; Lamesa; Hartford, Connecticut; and Wichita, Kansas; and five others.

BILL READ

Coahoman is first

Bill Read, president of Coahoma State Bank is the first civic leader in the area to be named a director of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Read was elected by the board members here Tuesday to be the first representative of the new concept of an area Chamber of Commerce.

The banker is already well-known in the entire county and is outgoing president of the Heritage Museum Board in Big Spring.

He has been active in many facets of life in both Coahoma and Big Spring.

Roger Brown, president of the chamber, said "It is great to get an area man of Bill's caliber on the board of directors. The entire concept of bringing in the entire area to the chamber activities is one that should have been done a long time ago.

"We consider Coahoma and Forsan people and the people out in our rural area as a part of our community and that's the way it ought to be."

Stamford area gets water

STAMFORD — Water restrictions were removed from several West Texas communities here Wednesday afternoon after a blown-off valve had been replaced at Lake Stamford.

Residents of Stamford, Hamlin, Leuders, Avoca, Ericksdahl, Sagerton and Paint Creek had been asked to use water for domestic purposes only.

Cold weather reportedly caused the problem. Officials said they were lucky to find the problem valve so fast.

Legionnaires' disease discovery

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Discovery of the agent responsible for Legionnaires' disease poses "an exciting new set of problems and possibilities" for scientists, an official at the national Center for Disease Control says.

Dr. William Foege, assistant CDC director, said Wednesday that investigation of Legionnaires' disease may solve other mysterious deaths or illnesses. "Nothing of great magnitude was unsolved before, but we might clear up numerous individual cases," he said.

The CDC announced Tuesday that researchers had isolated a single-cell, unnamed, bacteria-like organism believed responsible for the upper respiratory infections which killed 29 persons and attacked 151 others in Philadelphia last summer.

"We obviously have a lot of work to do on the mechanics of what happened" to the victims, many of whom were participating in a state American Legion convention, Foege said.

Among unanswered questions, Foege said, are: "How did it get to people; why didn't it spread among individuals; were other factors needed for it to spread?"

Researchers are sorting through cases trying to determine how many of the 180 persons stricken in Philadelphia were suffering from infection by the agent.

All were treated with a variety of medicines, Foege said, "and I imagine we will discover that some of them worked better than others. Much of our lab work will be geared to discovering what counteracts this agent best."

Tests on the organism indicate it was responsible for eight unsolved deaths at a Washington hospital in 1966, the center said.

"We have an indication that it's happened twice, so why couldn't it happen again? That will be an intriguing problem to approach," said Foege.

"I used to wonder what it was like when Pasteur came up with a new organism; I used to think it must have been exciting. It is exciting, not only that we have been able to do this, but tha we have been able to share it with so many via mass communications."

The discovery of the organism, Foege said, "makes you wonder about the current state of our knowledge. How much do we really know?"

Researchers said a new round of work on the organism may take months, but the discovery of the agent was clearly a breakthrough.

Winds subside in West Texas

By The Associated Press

Dust-churning winds subsided in West Texas during the night and a sharp norther was dying down along the Texas coast today.

Aside from some high clouds in the extreme west, skies were generally clear and further warming was promised across the state.

Lack of cloud cover permitted temperatures to drop to freezing or below again at many points, but the early morning marks were noticeably more comfortable than 24 hours earlier.

Near dawn the range was from 21 degrees at Lubbock and 23 at Houston up to 44 at Brownsville. Wednesday's top marks went as high as 70 at Alice and Wink.

Air Force should have 2nd thoughts

If the Navy is not going to reduce the Boca Chica Naval Air Station in Key West, Fla., because it would seriously damage the economy, then the Air Force should be having second thoughts about its proposal to close Webb Air Force Base.

The reduction of about 3,200 jobs in Key West would be roughly the same number proposed for Big Spring.

The two communities are about the same size, and from what I can tell, the economic impact would be similar.

THE KEY WEST verdict came as a surprise to many in Washington who were not expecting any announcements during the transition period to the Carter Administration, but Cong. Dante Fascell (D-Fla.) apparently found out that the Navy had decided that the base would not be closed as proposed in 1977, and he announced it.

The Navy confirmed the truth of his statement to Cong. Omar Burleson's aide, Judy Curtis.

This is the first sign that the Department of Defense is really considering the environmental impact statements in its decision-making process on bases, and I think it can only be viewed as a good omen for Webb.

Now the question is: Will the Air Force follow the Navy's lead in this matter?

Both the proposed Webb and Boca Chica reductions were part of the sweeping base closures and cutbacks announced by the military branches in March of last year. Both have gone through the environmental impact process.

The final version of the environmental impact statement on Webb and other Air Training Command bases is now in Washington awaiting a decision. The Air Training Command at Randolph AFB in San Antonio has finished with its portion of the work.

The final statement is still scheduled to be filed on Feb. 8, which would allow a decision to be made after that date.

THE PROBLEM IS that there is still no new secretary of the Air Force, and the old one, Thomas C. Reed, has indicated that he does not want to make the decision. Any decision that he made would be subject to review by the new secretary anyway.

So the final environmental impact statement on Webb will be sitting two feet high in the Office of the Secretary of the Air Force waiting for the new man, whomever he may be.

That doesn't mean that a decision might not be reached before that time. The Air Force badly needs this matter resolved, as do the towns involved. The Navy's decision did not wait for its new secretary.

The decision on bases will be one of the highest priority problems that the new secretary of the Air Force will face. He will be briefed on what has been going on right away, but even if he is named and confirmed quickly, it is likely that 60 or 90 days will be required for leaving the old job and settling into the new one.

When it comes to who may be secretary of the Air Force, there do not even seem to be any names being kicked around. Nobody knows anything about two incoming Defense Secretary Harold Brown may prefer. Brown is himself a former secretary of the Air Force.

So it appears Webb may be facing another delay — perhaps of two or three months before knowing the fate of the base.

But since the Navy has decided against closing the Key West base in 1977 for economic impact reasons, the Air Force should be reassessing its proposal to shut down Webb.

How well?

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Everyone these days seems to ask me the same question, "How well do you know Jimmy Carter?" I'd be stretching the truth if I said I knew him real well. It's true our family lived a few miles down the road from Jimmy in Plains, Ga., and we both went to the same grammar and high schools. But he sat a couple of rows away from me and I never saw much of him except after school when we used to go fishing together.

ONE DAY I SAID to Jimmy, "What do you want to do when you grow up?" and he said, "I want to go to Annapolis and become a naval officer." I said, "What a coincidence, so do I!" So we both applied. I got the appointment, but I told them I wouldn't accept it unless they took Jimmy as well. Since they wanted me for the football team they relented and allowed as Jimmy could go too.

Jimmy and I were roommates at the naval academy and one day I introduced him to a lovely girl named Rosalyn Smith. They fell in love and were later to marry, which pleased me no end.

After leaving the academy Jimmy and I went our separate ways until we both found ourselves in the nuclear submarine program. Jimmy was given command of a sub, and I was his executive officer. One stormy night he was on the bridge and a big wave came along and washed him overboard. I jumped over the side, without a life jacket, and grabbed him. "Hold on, Jimmy," I told him. "Have faith and we will be saved." I held his chin with one hand and swam back to the sub with the other.

AFTER WE WERE back in the wardroom Jimmy said to me, "I don't know how to thank you. You saved my life."

I remember replying, "Forget it. You would have done the same for me. Besides, us Georgia boys have to stick together."

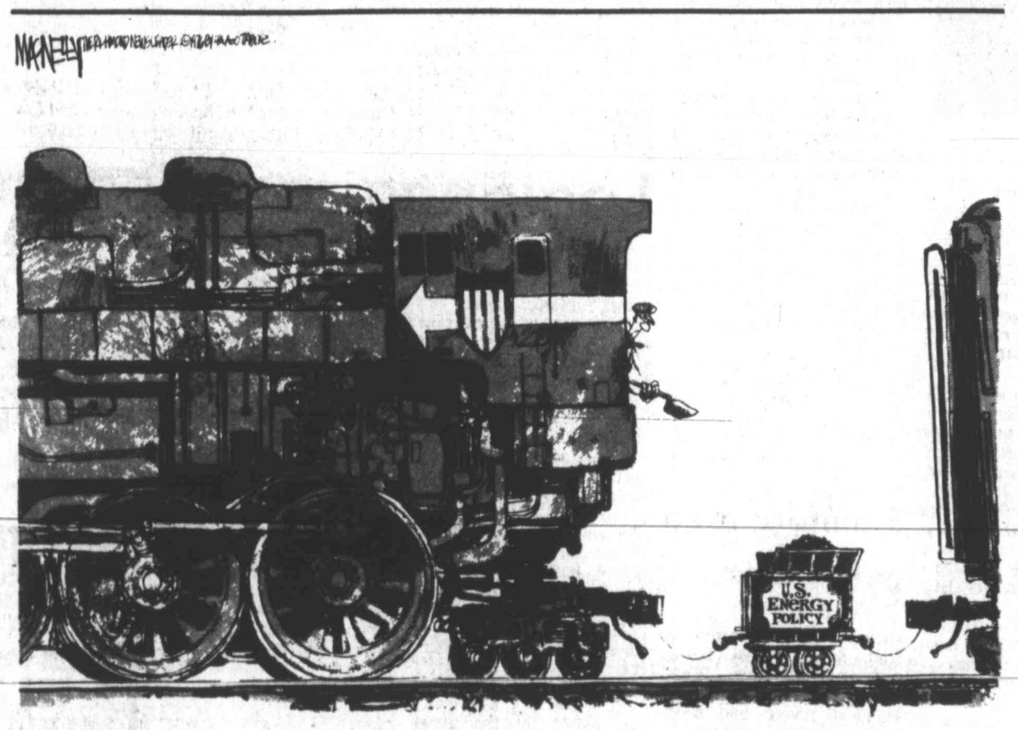

Jimmy decided to leave the Navy about the same time I did. He wanted to go back to his peanut farm and build it up from scratch. I had a little money I had saved in the Navy and I lent it to him interest-free. "Someday you can pay me back," I told him.

Then after making a success of the peanut business he had the urge to go into politics. One day after Sunday school he told me he wanted to run for governor of Georgia. Jimmy was bitter about Georgia's backward stand on race, and he had no use for the political machine that had been running things down there for centuries.

I GOT TOGETHER a group of far sighted Southern businessmen and labor leaders and persuaded them that Carter could turn Georgia and the South around. We worked hard but we got Jimmy into the governor's mansion — something none of us ever regretted.

I lost touch for a few years, but one day I ran into Jimmy in a supermarket in New Hampshire. "Whatcha doing up here?" I asked him.

"Running for President of the United States. Nobody believes I can do it," Jimmy said. "I'm thinking of giving up."

Did Bligh, sailors have tenesmus?

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In a book of mine about Captain Bligh (of the Bounty mutiny fame) it tells of an open sea voyage following the mutiny. The writer says, "The disease of the people (the officers and men with Bligh) were dizziness, a weakness of joints, and violent tenesmus" — few of the men "having had an evaculation of stool since they had left the ship 28 days previous."

What is tenesmus, and is it possible to go 28 days without an evaculation? — D.U.

Tenesmus (the word means "straining") is the gripping abdominal pain that can occur with an unsuccessful bowel movement attempt, or with the inability to urinate. I have not seen any record of a 28-day stool retention. A rectal impaction would be the only explanation of that. Fluid intake was probably low, and bulky or laxative foods unavailable. Dizziness and weakness would accompany tenesmus.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I take Butazolidin Alka, prescribed by my doctor. He says I must take a blood test periodically when I take them. What are the bad effects. I had a blood test last week, which was okay. I take one a day for arthritis pain. — Mrs. A.F.C.

Careful monitoring is important while using this drug, so you can congratulate yourself that your doctor is conscientious about that. Blood tests are important, because aplastic anemia (one involving the bone marrow) can result in some. In fact, you should have the tests for a while after being taken off the medicine. Butazolidin is a brand name of phenylbutazone.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me the names of hospitals or clinics where one can go for treatment of hypoglycemia in the Boston area? I just discovered I have it. — Mr. M.F.

You don't have to go to a hospital. Any physician familiar with the disorder can prescribe treatment for it when it is diagnosed. My booklet on how blood sugar (hypoglycemia) should interest you. If you'd like a copy, mail 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that if a woman starts taking the birth control pill she'll have to take it the rest of her life. Is this true? — H.P.

You'll hear a lot of medical "facts" that just aren't true. That's one of them. Millions of women have used the birth control pill for years, and discontinued it without a bit of trouble.

Your question is evidence of a growing problem of medical misinformation. Whenever a disease, or treatment, becomes a subject of controversy my mail reveals a bewildering amount of wild tales. They usually begin "I've heard" or "I've read." I usually don't respond to them unless the same question pops up with frequency, as does yours.

When you're on the receiving end of one of those "I've heards," you should keep in mind the old test that proves the unreliability of passed-on gossip. Several people are lined up and a simple message is given to the first to pass on to the second, and so on. At the end of the line the message is usually unrecognizable.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you advise tampons or napkins for young girls just beginning to menstruate? Will the tampons affect her virginity? — Mrs. R.T.

I don't recommend one over the other. Either is acceptable, the tampon-type protection getting the nod in the matter of convenience. She must be sure to buy the appropriate size, which can be adjusted if there is a problem of insertion.

The tampon has no bearing whatever on whether she is a virgin or not.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis," write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: It puzzles me when you seem to say that God will forgive any sin a person commits, even when it is strictly forbidden by the Bible. Doesn't this mean we can do anything we please, since God will forgive us anyway? — S.J.T.

DEAR S.J.T.: Let's make no mistake — the Bible clearly teaches that certain things are wrong in the eyes of God. One of the most alarming things about our society is the way we have forgotten this and think that we can live any way we choose without fear of consequences. But the Bible says, "Behold, ye have sinned against the Lord: and be sure your sin will find you out" (Numbers 32:23). Or again the Bible declares, "Do not be deceived: God cannot be mocked. A man reaps what he sows. The one who sows to please his sinful nature, from that nature will reap destruction; the one who sows to please the Spirit, from the Spirit will reap eternal life" (Galatians 6:7, 8, New International Version).

However, the Bible also proclaims the wonderful good news that God forgives. "As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us" (Psalm 103:12). This does not mean that God simply overlooks our sins. God has done everything possible to give us forgiveness, but we are not forgiven until we do our part. How are we forgiven?

First, we must understand and believe what God has done to give us forgiveness. He sent His only Son into the world to die in our place. We deserved to die for our sins, but Christ took our sin and punishment.

Second, we must confess our sins. The Bible says, "There is none righteous, no, not one" (Romans 3:10). We not only confess our sins, but confess that we are sinners and have no claim on God's love and mercy in our own right.

Third, we must repent of our sins. This means we renounce them, and determine to live for Christ. That is why we don't just go on living any way we please. "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy" (Proverbs 28:13).

Logic behind stories

Around the rim

James Werrell

To read about Gary Gilmore's execution in the newspaper was revolting, as it should have been.

The apparent motive behind shooting Gilmore was to revolt those who may someday have the same inclinations he did when he killed two people. Those future murderers are meant to squirm, and feel the bullets along with Gilmore. Thus, the more revolting the report, the better.

ALONG THIS LINE, the Texan idea of telecasting the execution of Jerry Jurek, the convicted child-killer, would seem the best plan. Turn stomachs across the state and hope that tomorrow's criminals tune in.

My revulsion with the killing of Gary Gilmore was the same as my revulsion with the worst of murders. It was a cold-blooded, premeditated act, calculated and paid for.

By all measurements of just revenge, Gilmore deserved to die. And those, including me, who did nothing to see that Gilmore didn't die are just as responsible for his death as those who pulled the trigger.

I can live with that. I just wish that Gilmore had been given the means to kill himself, taking the responsibility away from the state and, thus, out of my hands.

The question of whether capitol punishment is right or wrong was muddled by Gilmore, himself. He was allowed to act out his petty, macho drama, saying, "I want to die, so why don't you kill me?"

The question was not whether or not he wanted to die, but whether we, each one of us, were going to do it for him. Frankly, I would have preferred not to have had to decide. I was satisfied that he was rotting in prison.

The major question, and for me the only question, is whether Gilmore's execution will prevent further slaughter in any way. If it prevents one more murder, then it is justified.

But will it, and have executions in the past been deterrents? Nobody seems to have a definitive answer.

THE ADMINISTRATION of capitaol punishment was lopsided from 1930 to 1967 when the practice was discontinued, as shown by figures in the Almanac. For 23 of the 37 years, more blacks were executed than whites. Of the total number of executions, 54.6 were non-whites.

This means that well over half the people executed were culled from a group representing about 12 and a half per cent of the population.

Nonetheless, I have no real moral scruples about executing murderers if the punishment is administered with equal justice under the law.

I'll admit that it is scary to think that we will learn some day that by executing people we have broken a universal moral law, and have burnt all our bridges behind us. It would be difficult to revive Gary Gilmore.

He's dead, and there's nothing we can do about it, and we have to ask ourselves if we have accomplished anything.

Arguments in the future may run something like: "The state has to pay a small fortune to keep this creep alive; with food, laundry and all things considered. Why not fry him and be done with it."

And that is about as logical an argument as any.

'Credible witness'

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency asked one of its Cuban operatives to help fabricate a story about Lee Harvey Oswald during the investigation of the John F. Kennedy assassination, the Cuban has told congressional investigators.

In an earlier column, we reported that the same witness claimed he had met the accused assassin in Dallas in the company of a CIA agent three months before Kennedy was killed.

WE IDENTIFIED THE witness only as Mr. X because of attempts on his life. But we have studied his detailed, confidential statements to congressional investigators. They interviewed him three times, cross-examining him closely. He gave them such specific information that they concluded he was a "credible" witness.

..He told of meeting his CIA contact in the lobby of a Dallas office building in August, 1973. "This time he brought another guy," recounted Mr. X. "The guy never talked."

..Mr. X explained that he had trained himself, as an underground leader, to memorize the characteristics of people he met. He immediately recognized the CIA agent's companion after seeing Oswald on television following the Kennedy assassination.

..Not long afterward, the CIA contact made a strange request of Mr. X. There had been a report that Oswald had met a Cuban couple in Mexico. "You have a cousin working for Cuban intelligence in Mexico," the CIA agent said. "Why don't you just ask him, saying we'll bribe him, if he said it was really him that Oswald met."

..It isn't clear from the confidential transcripts why the CIA would want to fabricate this evidence. Perhaps the CIA could have sought to tie Kennedy's killer to the Castro government.

..In any event, the CIA agent called off the scheme, and Mr. X "never did talk to his cousin," according to a summary of the interview. It should be stressed that the interview in no way implicates the CIA in the Kennedy killing.

..The mystery witness first met his CIA contact in Havana before the United States broke off relations with Cuba. Mr. X had helped to organize a group of bank accountants, who embezzled funds from the Castro regime to finance anti-Castro causes.

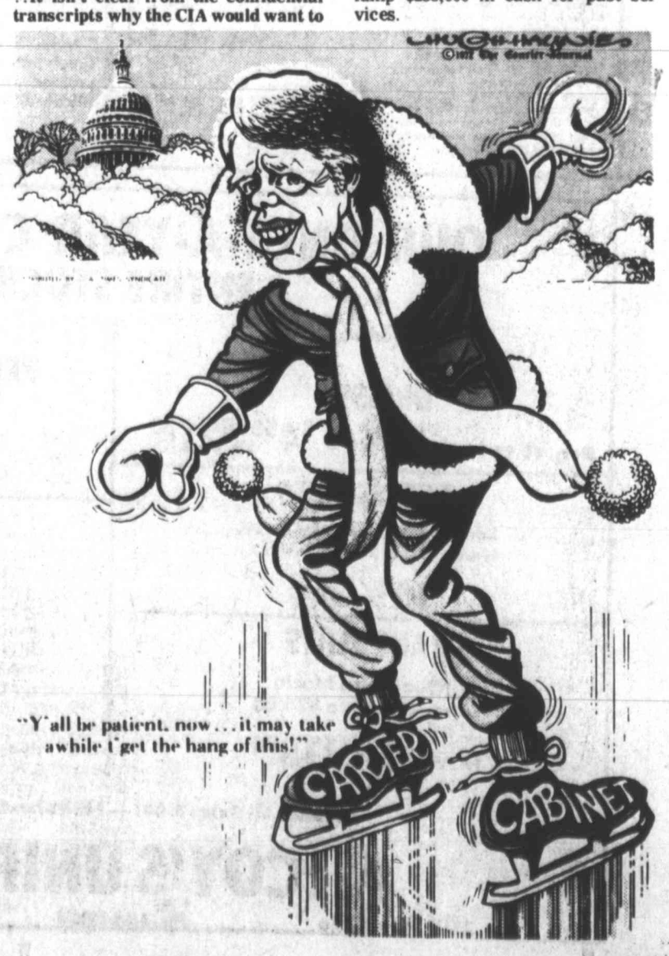

..The agent, who used the name Morris Bishop, recruited Mr. X to plan an attempt on Castro's life. The plotters planned to fire a bazooka from a nearby apartment while Castro was delivering one of his marathon speeches.

..The plot was discovered by Castro's police, and Mr. X escaped to Miami. He continued for a dozen more years to work with Bishop in the anti-Castro underground.

DURING CASTRO'S 1971 visit to Chile, Mr. X tried again to knock him off. The plotters included a Venezuelan security agent, named Louis Posada Carriles, who was supposed to provide forged documents laying the blame on the Soviets. This plot, too, fell through.

Only a few weeks ago, the same Posada was indicted in Venezuela on murder charges in connection with the crash of a Cuban jetliner.

Mr. X said he worked for the CIA until 1973 for expenses. When the relationship was terminated in 1973, he said, Morris Bishop paid him a lump $253,000 in cash for past services.

"Y'all be patient, now . . . it may take awhile t'get the hang of this!"

GOP tops other minorities

By SCOTT CARPENTER
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Democratic leadership in the heavily Democratic state House and Senate gave Republicans better committee leadership positions than it did blacks, Mexican-Americans or women.

In sheer numbers, there are more Mexican-Americans than any of the three other minority groups in the Legislature. The Mexica-American caucus had been the most open in its demands for its fair share of top-level appointments, sending letters to Speaker Clayton demanding that the 1975 situation be improved.

Clayton said he took special care to give Mexican-Americans and blacks top level appointments. He said he was unaware that the conservative Republicans, much more in line with Clayton's own political views, fared better than the others.

Republicans were given the chairmanships of two powerful committees — Insurance and Natural Resources, which has jurisdiction over matters such as water legislation. Republicans also got two vice chairmanships, although that is mainly a ceremonial title — Energy Resources and Local and Consent Calendars, a committee with the chore of deciding what bills get on the uncontested docket of the House.

They also landed three posts titled "vice chairman, appropriative matters," which is probably the second most powerful committee position. A member with that title is chairman of the sub-committee that works on financing of state agencies under the committee's jurisdiction.

Financing of the state's agencies regulating the financial industry, the judiciary and associated judicial branch agencies will all be under review by three subcommittee's headed by Republicans.

The 16 Mexican-Americans make up more than 10 per cent of the House, but were only given one of the 28 possible committee chairmanships, and that was of the Rules Committee which doesn't consider substantive matters. That was a repeat appointment — in 1975 the one Mexican-American committee chairman headed the same committee — Rep. Ben Reyes of Houston.

But in 1975 Mexican-Americans had only one vice chairmanship. Clayton increased that to five — Liquor; Financial Institutions, Health & Welfare, Administration and the new Regions, Compacts & Districts Committee.

That brought the Mexican-Americans up to their share of the top 56 spots, if the House were under a quota system. However, thcre is no Mexican-American "vice chairman appropriative matters," which really has more responsibility than the higher title "vice chairman."

Blacks got two chairmanships — Labor and Social Services, committees which rank right below the most powerful committees. They also got th evice chairmanship of Public Education and of Judicial Affairs. Blacks will be "vice chairman appropriative matters" of Ways and Means and of Criminal Jurisprudence.

It was almost predictable that Republicans would fare better from the conservative Democratic leadership than would other minorities, since their views on issues are much more in line with the views of the conservative power structure.

20 JAN 20

MRS. DWAYNE BRUCE BLALACK

Couple married in Austin rites

Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Bruce Blalack are residing in Houston following their wedding Jan. 8 in Saint Luke's on the Lake Episocpal Church, Austin, with the Rev. Malcolm P. Riker officiating.

Blalack, a microbiologist at the Houston City-County Health Department, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blalack, 1527 E. 17th, Big Spring. He attended Howard College and graduated from Texas Tech University with a BS degree in microbiology. He was on the Dean's List and a member of Phi Eta Sigma fraternity.

The bride is the former Miss Kelly Ann Covert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Covert Jr., Houston. A graduate of McCallum High School, Houston, she also attended Texas Tech and was on the Deans's List. She is now a student of nursing at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston.

The bride's honor attendants were her sisters, Mrs. Randall B. Stevens, and Miss Vicki K. Covert, both of Austin. Attendants for the bridegroom were his father, as best man, and Dan D. Smith III, the bride's brother, as groomsman.

Future bride introduced at Sunday afternoon tea

Miss Pam Adams of Midland bride-elect of Ricky Mitchell, was honored at an introductory tea Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Mitchell who were joined by Mrs. Elvin Bearden in welcoming guests.

Ricky Mitchell introduced Miss Adams and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Adams, also of Midland, to the guests.

The refreshment table was covered with an ecru lace cloth centered with an arrangement of garden flowers accented with blue field flowers and white daisies. Mrs. Don Mitchell and Miss Chris Mitchell of Lamesa presided at the tea and coffee services.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Mike Adams and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Layton, all of Midland; and Mrs. Fred Mitchell, Lamesa.

Mrs. Adams and her fiance will graduate from Texas Tech University in May and are planning a June wedding.

Club views America at turn of century

"America: The Way We Were," is the year's study theme which brought another informative program to the 1930 Hyperion Club which met in the home of Mrs. Ralph Gossett, 545 Hillside.

Mrs. J. R. Farmer discussed the politics and economics of the years from 1900 through 1910, describing the decade and some of the notable accomplishments of President Theodore Roosevelt — the passing of the Pure Food and Drug Act in 1906 and the setting aside of almost 150,000,000 acres of government timberland as national forest reserves.

Mrs. Hubert Stipp sketched the home life of that decade; the changes that were taking place due to the freer role women had begun to seek. She told of numerous inventions that came into being around 1900, making life easier and more interesting. During this time, the development of sports and the legitimate stage achieved an all-time high in activity.

Mrs. Stipp mentioned song hits of the era, several of which were played on the piano by Mrs. C. H. Rainwater. The tunes included "In My Merry Oldsmobile," "Bird in a Gilded Cage," "Meet Me in St. Louis," "Sweet Adeline., "Shine on Harvest Moon," "Grand Old Flag," and "In the Good Old Summer Time."

Mrs. R. V. Middleton, president, welcomed Mrs. Rainwater, a former member who has returned to the club, and other guests, Mrs. B. L. Tarleton and Mrs. Olan Key.

The program series will continue Feb. 12 when Mrs. Charles Weeg will present the years from 1910-1920. The meeting will be held at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Malcolm Patterson with Mrs. J. M. Woodall as co-hostess.

Glickman tells patients' rights

Duties of the Public Responsibility Committee at Big Spring State Hospital were detailed by Jake Glickman of the hospital staff when he was guest speaker Monday for the American Association of University Women.

The group met in the Allred Building where Glickman showed a film made at the hospital by KMID-TV and featuring interviews with staff, volunteers and patients at the hospital.

The PRC is composed of citizens from the community who volunteer their time to serve as ombudsmen for the hospital, visiting the units on a regular basis and sparking investigations of legitimate complaints. Glickman also described how patients' rights are protected under the law.

Hostesses were Mrs. Mabel Beene and Ms. Rue Ann Cox.

Publisher to address ABWA at banquet

J. Tom Graham, publisher of the Big Spring Herald, will be guest speaker for the annual Bosses Night banquet sponsored by Cactus Chapter, American Business Women's Association, according to an announcement at the chapter's Monday dinner meeting in Furr's Cafeteria.

Mrs. Cecil McDonald, banquet chairman, said the affair will be held Feb. 22 at Big Spring Country Club beginning at 7 p.m. She reminded members that nominations for Boss of the Year are to be in this week.

In other business, the chapter presented a $150 scholarship at Howard College to Kim Burchell, daughter of Mrs. LaVelle Burchell, a guest at the meeting. Other guests were Mrs. Helen Dorais and Mrs. Robert Penner, the latter being initiated into the chapter.

Mrs. W. W. Jackson, the vocational speaker, discussed her responsibilities as a teller at First National Bank where she has been employed for 12 years.

Guest speaker for the evening was Miss Janet Sargent, assistant county extension agent, whose slide presentation was about home decorating. Ideas presented were innovative use of mirrors and pictures, as well as the use of bright colors in fabrics, wall coverings and floors.

Mrs. Lucille Brown presided, and prayers were by Mrs. Louise Blewett.

Grandma Tired of Entertaining

DEAR ABBY: Approximately a year ago you ran an article about a mother who never made her own Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner. Instead, she went to her mother's or mother-in-law's. She wrote to say that she wishes now that she had developed her own holiday celebrations.

That letter was terrific. If you could publish it again, it would be a great help to a lot of people.

Believe it or not, I am a grandmother who wishes my married children would make their own holiday dinner and invite me as a guest.

PAID MY DUES

DEAR PAID: It wasn't hard to find, and here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading your column for years, and around holiday time someone always asks, "Should we go to HIS mother's or to MY mother's for Thanksgiving and Christmas dinner?" Your answer has always been: "Why not alternate?"

Abby, my husband and I struggled with that problem for years, and we resolved it according to your suggestion. Both sets of parents lived nearby, and it seemed the only fair thing to do. So for 22 years, we spent Thanksgiving and Christmas in parents' homes instead of our own.

It never dawned on us until this year—as our children are ready to strike out on their own—that we never developed our own holiday traditions. We always went to Grandma's for the holidays. She insisted on doing all the cooking herself, and then she complained for months about how much work it was and how tired she got. When we, her daughters and daughters-in-law, asked if we could bring something for the dinner, she wouldn't hear of it. When we brought food without asking her, she refused to serve it, so we finally gave up.

I realize now what a high price I've paid over the years for peace in the family. I wish I hadn't.

Abby, please urge young married to dare to have their own holiday celebrations in their own homes. Suggest that they invite their parents and grandparents, who might even be relieved to be finally free of the burden of entertaining three generations.

DOING MY OWN THING

DEAR DOING: Thank you for an excellent letter. Perhaps it will inspire others to "Do their own thing," too. It makes a lot of sense.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FOR CENSORSHIP": I agree, there is an excess of garbage passing for "literature" these days, but this is what one great American champion of human rights had to say about "censorship" 175 years ago:

"I am mortified to be told that, in the United States of America, a question about the sale of a book can be carried before the civil magistrate. Are we to have a censor whose imprimatur shall say what book may be sold and what we may buy?

"Shall a layman, simple as ourselves, set up his reason as the rule for what we are to read? It is an insult to our citizens to question whether they are rational beings or not."

Art group preparing for sale

Big Spring Art Association reviewed plans for the Jan. 29-30 Struggling Artist Sale when it met Tuesday with Ms. Bernice Cason, Mrs. Hugh Merworth and Ms. Lola Myers as hostesses.

The sale will be held in the building across the street from Gibson's Discount Store, under the sponsorship of the Spring City Chapter, American Business Women's Association, with booths available to all local artists. Deadline for reserving space is Jan. 20, and reservations may be made at Gayoso Gallery. The booth fee is $5. Artists displaying do not have to be members of the association.

"Tip of the Brush" honors were shared in a tie vote for the paintings of Mrs. Merworth and Mrs. Al Scott. "The Forest Scene" and "The Bouquet of Flowers" will be on display at State National Bank during February. The two paintings currently being shown at the bank are by Ms. Pauline Long and Mrs. Scott. These are Decembers' winners and will be displayed until Feb. 1.

Plans are underway for the annual membership competition show Feb. 12-13, with Mrs. Roberta Ross as chairman. She announced that Boyd Graham will judge the show, and a new trophy has been purchased by the association as the top award at the show. The old trophy will remain with Mrs. J. H. Holloway who won it three times to earn permanent custody.

Beginning in February, Big Spring Art Association will publish a monthly newsletter to be mailed to all members and other interested persons.

Members were invited to bring prospective members to the Feb. 15 meeting at Kentwood Center, beginning at 7 p.m. All local artists are eligible to join the association.

Local nurses discuss UT, TNA controversy

Controversy concerning the University of Texas System of Schools of Nursing was clarified by Mrs. Betty Condray, R.N. when she spoke to members of District 24, Texas Nurses Association, recently in the home of Mrs. R.S. Griffin.

The TNA filed suit in Austin against the university's board of regents following the board's announced intention of discontinuing the established nursing program. The suit is still pending.

In relation to the suit, Mrs. Condray also discussed a "Self Determination Task Force" which is expected to be a main topic of discussion at the TNA convention April 1-3 in Fort Worth.

It was announced that the TNA advisory Council will meet today in Austin with local participants being Mrs. Molly Butler, R.N., a board member; and Mrs. Lettie Lee, R.N., a member of District 24. Mrs. Lee is currently conducting a course at Howard College on "Trends and Issues in Allied Health," for which three college credits and 45 CERP points have been issued. At Austin, the women will attend a legislative workshop and an advisory council business session.

Members were reminded that the Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Council would hold its awards luncheon today.

Ms. Elizabeth Pounds, R.N., Texas Tech Medical School, will be the guest speaker for the March meeting, tentatively slated for Howard College. The meeting will be open to all registered nurses and licensed vocational nurses in this area.

The next district meeting will be Feb. 8.

MRS. OLTON JAMISON
The mouth-watering aroma of baking fills her kitchen

By CAROL HART

Mrs. Olton Jamison cannot remember when she first learned to cook, but recalls that her mother loved cooking and passed down that feeling to her daughter.

"When I am lonesome or bored, I go to the kitchen and start to work," said Mrs. Jamison.

Mrs. Jamison resides with her husband in the Coronado Aparments. She stressed the fact that she enjoys the time she spends in the kitchen preparing food for family and friends.

A bulletin board located on a wall in her kitchen testifies to the fact that she is a collector of recipes. The board is filled with recipes that are her favorites.

"I love to try out new recipes," she added. When she finds one she likes, it takes its place on the board.

Spending time in the kitchen is only one of several activities that Mrs. Jamison enjoys. She and her husband enjoy playing "88" with friends, and she likes "crocheting afghans and watching soap operas." The couples are long-time residents of Big Spring and once even owners of the Circle J Drive-in. The J in the title came from their last name. The couple also owned the State Drug Store for several years. Jamison is now employed by Cosden Oil and Chemical Co.

SUB MANAGER

Mrs. Jamison added that she was manager of the Student Union Building at Howard College several years ago.

She and her husband are fans of the Howard College Hawk basketball team. Working at the SUB, she had an opportunity to get to know the basketball players.

The Jamisons have a daughter, Mrs. Bill Seals, whom her mother describes as "a wonderful cook." Mrs. Seals, her husband and daughters, Lisa, Stephanie and Jennifer, make their home in Waco.

The Seals were in Big Spring last summer when Mrs. Jamison had a bad experience in the kitchen. While preparing French fries in a deep-fryer filled with greese, she turned the hot grease over onto her legs. The result was painful second and third degree burns that kept her activities limited for several months. During this time, Mrs. Jamison "missed going in the kitchen and cooking."

The ordeal didn't damper her love for cooking; she began preparing food again in October. "But, I put away my deep-fryer," she added.

CONTESTANT

Mrs. Jamison had trouble naming her favorite recipe, because she has many that she likes. One of the recipes included here, the Mexican Casserole, was a prize-winner in a contest sponsored by the Herald in 1965. Mrs. Jamison shares that and several other favorites below.

Tight supplies, rising prices loom

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Administration is greeting incoming President Carter with a grim forecast of tight energy supplies and rising prices for years to come.

In a report issued Wednesday, the energy agency predicted a near doubling of residential fuel costs by 1985 as a result of inflation and real energy cost increases.

The outlook beyond that may be even worse, the report warned.

The FEA says the world's demand for oil will bump up against the limits of its production capacity in the mid or late 1980s. That supply-demand collision is likely to spark even steeper price increases.

The report's relatively good news was that U.S. energy demand was expected to increase more slowly than previously predicted, a trend that will make it easier to reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil.

Compared with a historic growth rate of about 3.3 per cent a year before the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo, U.S. energy consumption was predicted to rise at about 2.5 per cent a year, slightly lower than last year's 2.8 per cent forecast.

The FEA said the slower growth is due to the combination of energy conservation measures and fuel price increases.

John Christie, assistant administrator for energy information and analysis, said in an interview that the FEA is assuming continued inflation ranging from last year's 5.6 per cent down to 4 per cent by 1985, forcing energy prices up a total of 58.4 per cent by then.

Regardless of inflation, the FEA estimated, residential energy prices will reflect annual real cost increases of about 3 per cent if imported oil prices rise by 2 per cent. That alone would cause the 1976 residential energy bill to grow more than 30 per cent by 1985.

Taken together, inflation and real cost increases may add nearly 89 per cent by 1985 to the size of the residential energy bill — including purchase of natural gas, fuel oil, electricity and motor gasoline.

If Congress ends regulation of interstate natural gas prices, the FEA said, the cost of residential gas may reach some 37.5 per cent higher by 1985 than if regulation at present rates continued.

More realistically, even regulated rates would probably increase. The Federal Power Commission has a policy of reviewing them every two years and adopted substantial increases just last year.

Either way, said Christie, householders using natural gas for heating, hot water, cooking, or air conditioning will take the brunt of natural gas price hikes.

Looking further into the future, the FEA said that "by the mid-to-late-1980's projected world demand for oil could approximately equal the world's production capacity, and produce pressures for increases in world oil prices."

OPEC weakness cited

DALLAS (AP) — Internal and external pressures eventually will reduce the power the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries currently wields over consumers, says a Federal Reserve Bank economist.

Writing in a publication of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, D.K. Osborne said an indication that even OPEC members are aware of a possible breakup in the cartel is the fact that they are pressing for an international agreement. The agreement would set a price range within which oil prices can move. Osborne suggested that it would be in the consuming countries' interest to ignore OPEC's requests for the agreement. He said such a pact would only ease the organization's internal pressures and self-interest which, if maintained, can bring prices down.

Osborne noted that OPEC's power comes from the unity shown by the countries in posting oil prices at a fixed level and staying with them.

"Additional sales at or slightly below the posted price will add more to a member's revenue," he said, if it is done secretly. "But suppose that, contrary to his own interest, a member continues to honor the agreement; if he is ignorant of the other members' sales or prices, then he must fear their breaches ... whether out of greed or fear, members ignorant of each other's actions are tempted to breach; it is in their interest to do so. These temptations create a strain."

Osborne said the diversity and large number of shipping ports and the large number of international companies involved in the production and handling of oil make it easy for OPEC members to cheat on the cartel.

He said external pressures will come eventually from modern technology.

Farm

Cows to die unless Uncle Sam buys hay

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana cattlemen are making another pitch for federal money to help them buy hay. They say if they don't get it soon, many of their cows will die.

"Unless we get something done in the next 10 days, we're going to be in a critical situation," said Bob Felknor, executive secretary of the Louisiana Cattlemen's Association.

"We are running out of hay," he said. "If we wait until the situation gets really critical, we're going to have our cattle dying in large numbers."

The reason for the shortage is that cold weather has stunted winter pastures, forcing farmers to fall back on hay supplies that are shorter than usual because of dry weather last summer.

Gov. Edwin Edwards and Commissioner of Agriculture Gil Dozier asked the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration for help, but the government said the state hadn't proved that it really had an emergency.

Felknor asked cattlemen who are short of hay to call their parish agents and local offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

He said state officials then will try to get the federal government to pay up to 80 per cent of the cost of shipping hay from other states, such as Oklahoma and Texas.

Felknor said he didn't know how much the aid would cost the government. He said it would depend on how many parishes are declared eligible and how many cattlemen seek help.

Beef promo remarks asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has tentatively approved a program for carrying out a Beef Research and Information Act passed by Congress last May.

Officials said Wednesday, comments on the "recommended decision" will be accepted until Feb. 24 and that those will be considered before issuing a final notice.

The program will cost beef cattle producers fees equal to three-tenths of 1 per cent of their sales. Officials estimate this could raise $40 million to $60 million a year.

Under the plan, a Beef Board of producers will have the power to collect assessments and use the money "for research, producer and consumer information, and promotion to improve, maintain and develop markets for cattle, beef and beef products," the department's Agricultural Marketing Service said.

However, producers not wishing to participate can have their assessments refunded by the board.

FORT WORTH (AP) — Livestock prices Thursday.

Baseball outlawed

DETROIT (AP) — Renaissance Center, the $330-million privately-financed project to help revitalize the city's downtown area, will have many attractions indoors and out when it opens in the spring — but one it will not have is a baseball field.

With 11,536 specially tinted glass windows in its 72-story hotel and four 39-story office towers, officials say there's little likelihood that the 33-acre riverfront site will provide a diamond for the Little Leaguers or any other baseball teams — and for good reason.

Hawks, Queens in Snyder tonite

The two teams from Howard College will be on the road tonight to do battle with a couple of very powerful teams from Western Texas College.

The Howard College Hawk Queens, with a record of 10-6, will participate in a preliminary contest with the fems from WTC, who are currently undefeated, beginning at 6 p.m.

Coach Don Stevens indicated that his bunch is in the best shape they've been all year.

"We had a real good workout Wednesday and are just hoping we can pull off the upset," Stevens said.

The Queens also picked up an extra game this season against West Texas State University. That contest is slated for this Friday night Jan. 21 in Hawk Gym at 6 o'clock.

Head Coach Harold Wilder said his Hawk team was "healthy, rested and in good spirits" going into the Snyder game. The Hawks were slated to play the number three-ranked Juco team in the nation three times this season. Tonight's battle will be the second meeting of those two teams. The first encounter, during the ABC Olympic Classic, saw the Westerners take the victory from the Hawks in the last minute of play.

Wilder is realistic about tonight's game:

"Everyone on the team recognizes that in that first game we really played well. Cathey hit 11 of 15 shots, and we out-rebounded them 42-37. We know we're not going to hit like that every night, but we expect to play well. Also, their leading scorer Butler went three for 18 during one stretch. He's liable to be better than that Thursday."

The Preybirds will start with the effective combination of Mike Little and Reggie Leffall at guards, Eugene Williams and Lowell Walker at forwards, and Paul Cathey at center. Wilder expects to use Joe Cooper and Russel Sublet early, and no doubt all the Hawks will see action in the game due to the recent splendid team efforts of the locals.

Howard College is currently 3-4 in WJCC action, while Western Texas shares the top of the hill with Amarillo College at 5-2.

The men's game will follow the women's contest, approximately 7:30, and a large crowd is expected in the Coliseum.

Banks named to Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — "The wonderful thing about being a baseball player," said Ernie Banks, "is that years after you're through hitting home runs and playing in All-Star games, people still remember you."

The Baseball Writers Association of America remembered Banks Wednesday, naming him to the Hall of Fame as the only candidate to receive mention on 75 per cent of the ballots in the annual election.

"This is the greatest moment in my life," said Banks, who earned election in his first year of eligibility.

Banks received 321 votes of the 383 cast by veteran members of the BBWAA, easily passing the required three-quarters figure of 288. Eddie Mathews was second in the vote with 239, missing election by 49 votes. The late Gil Hodges was third with 224 followed by Enos Slaughter with 222 and Duke Snider with 212.

In winning election on his first chance, Banks joins an elite set of Hall of Famers. Only seven others, Sandy Koufax, Mickey Mantle, Ted Williams, Jackie Robinson, Bob Feller, Stan Musial and Warren Spahn, gained immediate acceptance to Cooperstown.

Banks knew that his 512 career home runs gave him a good shot at the Hall of Fame on his first go-round. "I was getting jittery about it," he said. "I talked to people who've been elected before like Lou Boudreau and Bob Lemon and they told me what it's like. They said it's the most excitement you can experience in your life, and they were right."

Banks joined the Chicago Cubs in 1953 and spent 19 years playing shortstop and first base with the club. He was the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1958 and 1959 and five times hit 40 or more home runs in a single season.

After retiring in 1971, he remained with the organization in various front office posts and now works in the group ticket sales department for owner P.K. Wrigley.

Banks insists that his relationship with management was so close that even if the free agent uproar had occurred during his playing days, it would not have affected him.

Broyles denies Atlanta rumors

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — University of Arkansas Athletic Director Frank Broyles Wednesday denied that he would accept a position as general manager of the Atlanta Falcons.

He confirmed that he had talked with Rankin Smith, chairman of the board of the Falcons, a couple of weeks ago but that Smith wanted his opinion of prospective coaches.

The Atlanta Journal, citing unnamed sources, reported Wednesday that Broyles was expected to be named general manager of the Falcons.

"Everybody knows Atlanta is a great town and I know that Rankin Smith wants to give Atlanta fans a Super Bowl contender," Broyles said at a news conference in Charleston S.C. "It seems premature and ridiculous for me to be commenting about a position I've not seeking and haven't been offered.

"I'm very happy in Arkansas in my position as athletic director," Broyles said. "As everyone in Arkansas knows, Barbara (his wife) and I are building a dream home. At the request of a mutual friend, I met with Rankin Smith a couple of weeks ago and the thrust of the conversation centered on my opinion of prospective coaches around the country."

Broyles was in Charleston for a speaking engagement.

Earlier Wednesday, Broyles called his secretary in Fayetteville and said the story was "completely untrue." He apparently learned of the report when he picked up a newspaper in the Atlanta airport. He was in Atlanta making plane connections for Charleston.

Broyles told his secretary that he would try to contact the news media in Atlanta to deny the story.

Broyles' wife was contacted in Fayetteville shortly after the story broke. "I am as surprised as anybody else," said Mrs. Broyles when asked about the report.

Mrs. Broyles said she had received several phone calls about the report. "Betsy laughed and said, 'Maybe, he's going to run away from home."

Betsy is one of Broyles' twin daughters.

Broyles, 52, coached the Arkansas football team for 19 years, retiring after the Razorbacks compiled a 5-5-1 record in 1976. Broyles' record at Arkansas was 149-62-6, including two undefeated seasons, 10 bowl appearances and seven Southwest Conference championships.

NTSU seeking SWC admittance

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — The North Texas University athletic council has passed a resolution to seek admission to the nine-member Southwest Conference, a process that took such schools as Texas Tech and Houston years to complete.

The motion was made by Dr. John Carrell, chairman of the council. The resolution must first go to Dr. Roy Busby, vice president for university affairs and then to university President Dr. C.C. Nolen for action before it can be submitted to the university's board of regents. The next regents meeting is to be held in mid-April.

"We can do it. We feel the action is appropriate in its timeliness and in line with the charge from the board of regents four years ago to improve the athletic program," Dr. Carrell said.

Hayden Fry, head football coach and athletic director, said North Texas "will have a very fine, well balanced sports program" by the time the school's entry in the SWC is acceptable to its members. He added, "I'm not really concerned about the time involved."

Astros biting at bit

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros, one of the most improved teams in baseball last season, have a new catcher, longer fences, and a president-general manager who is straining at the starting gate.

"I wish we didn't have to wait these 79 days to kick this thing off (regular season)," Astros President-General Manager Tal Smith said Wednesday. "We're really looking forward to this season."

Astros' Manager Bill Virdon, who had a closer in-the-flesh look at the world champion Cincinnati Reds last season, disagreed with his boss: "I think we need the 79 days," Virdon said.

The Astros should be eager to get started this season after they rallied from the worst record in baseball in 1975 to a third place finish last season in the National League West behind the Reds and Los Angeles.

Virdon sayd it'll be tough to make the same advancement in 1977.

"I don't know if we can make the same advancement again because if we do we'll be in first place," Virdon said. "I'm not conceding anything to Cincinnati but they have the finest team that I've seen in all my days in baseball."

Virdon said the Astros' defensive lineup is equal to any in the league and the addition of catcher Joe Ferguson from St. Louis should make it stronger.

Aside from trading pitcher Larry Dierker to St. Louis for Ferguson, Smith also decided in the off-season to lengthen the Astrodome fences, hopefully to aid Houston's speedy outfielders.

The Astrodome fences have been moved back 10 feet to 340 down the left and rightfield lines and 12 feet back to 390 in the power alleys and from 400 to 406 feet in centerfield.

"I don't think there's anything sinister about moving your fences if it can help your ball club," Smith said. "We have some fleet-flooted outfielders and it will give them more running room.

"We feel if we can give (centerfielder Cesar) Cedeno enough room, he'll run under anything."

Astros first baseman Bob Watson said the longer fences won't affect Houston's hitting that much because they aren't a power hitting group anyway.

"We didn't capitalize on our fences last year anyway, and our pitchers were hurting because of it," Watson said. "I'm for helping our pitchers any way we can."

Cedeno had an even better idea: "Can we move the fences in when we hit only?"

Rozelle choking?

Women's basketball

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rozelle would choke on his football if he knew that a fellow commissioner approved and supported sports gambling.

"I think it will make our sport more interesting," said Lois Geraci Ernst, commissioner of the new Women's Basketball Association. "With off-track betting and the like, we know that gambling happens.

"I have no problems with it. If it brings people into our arenas, that's fine. A lot of men will bet on anything they can make money on."

A lot of people are betting that women's basketball will bounce as high as an airless ball. Mrs. Ernst is not one of them.

"I think it will work because we're going to attract a new kind of fan," she said. "We won't be in competition with the (New York) Knicks. We're going to get the young woman, and she's going to bring her husband."

The 12-team league, which announced Wednesday that it will begin play in October, is in the process of selling its franchises. League officials said New York and Dallas have found buyers, with sales close in Los Angeles, Phoenix, Des Moines, Iowa, and Milwaukee. The other league cities will be Philadelphia; Greensboro, N.C.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Indianapolis; Salt Lake City, and Portland, Ore.

"The WBA," said Mrs. Ernst, "is a chance for women basketball players to play out their dreams."

Whether the WBA will survive and prosper — and league officials expect start-up attendance figures to average 3,500 — there will be those who think professional basketball is out of the female element.

"Some men say women should be kept barefoot, pregnant and praying," said Mrs. Ernst. "Well, the WBA is saying women should be well-shod, well-paid and playing."

ON THE BALL COMMISSIONER — Lois Geraci Ernst, Commissioner of the Women's Basketball Association, poses for photographers at a news conference in New York City Wednesday. The new organization, which has 12 teams divided into three divisions, announced plans to begin play in October.

Kinder gym at YMCA

A gym program for 3-5-year-old boys and girls will be conducted at the Big Spring YMCA on Monday and Wednesdays from 1:30-2:15 p.m.

The program will consist of basic tumbling skills, eye-hand coordination, trampoline, games, and general gymnastic movements. Ron Anuzewski, one of the coaches for the Y Gymnastic class, will teach the program.

The class will run for 5 weeks (10 lessons) beginning January 24, 1977. Cost for Y members is $2.50 and Non-Y members $6.50.

WTGT site set for 77

The site and date for the 49th Annual Men's West Texas Golf Tournament for this year were announced today by Bobby Crues, president.

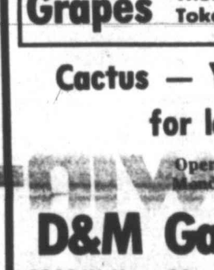

The 1977 Championship will be held in Wichita Falls, Texas at the Wichita Falls Country Club beginning Wednesday, June 15th and ending Saturday, June 18th.

This event which began in 1925 in San Angelo is one of Texas' oldest and largest amateur golf tournaments. Winners of the Men's West Texas Championships read like a "Who's Who in Texas Golf History:" Iverson Martin, Billy Maxwell, Dan Cherry, Bob French, Ernie Vossler, Charles Coody, Robert McKinney, John Farquhar — among many other top golfers, hold the distinction of being former champions of this prestigious event.

The 1976 event was held at the Odessa Country Club and the title was successfully defended by Jeff Mitchell, former Texas Tech golfer from Llano, Texas. Mitchell will not defend his championship due to his turning professional and qualifying for the 1977 PGA tour at the recent qualifying school in Brownsville, Texas.

They're winners!

"You had to be there to believe it," said Steer coach James Griffin of Tuesday night's game with Cooper. He also had a few choice words about officials that best remain between the lines, but the bulk of his conversation centered around the courage and attitude of his charges.

For those of you who haven't been following the locals very closely, (unlucky you), they are currently 1-4 in first half action of District 5-4A action. They could very well be 4-1 and leading the pack. Only once have they been "beaten", and that was a 90-56 pounding at the hands of a Permian team that played over its head while the Steer team stayed flat.

The other three games, the Steers lost by five points, two points and three points. Those games could have gone the other way just as easily. A height and weight advantage by the opposition just finally prevailed.

"We're gonna be alright," said Griffin, "we're playing basically good basketball, and it's just a few little things that are hurting us. We're looking forward to these next two games, though, and will be ready for the second half."

Howard College coach Harold Wilder, who has two sons on the Steer varsity, attended the Cooper game and had these observations:

"When the team came back from Permian, they were at their all time low . . . their feelings had hit rock bottom. But they got together and decided to do their best. They had two tough games in a row, but showed a lot of character and never gave up. That's quite a tribute to those guys," Wilder said.

Coach Griffin also praised the efforts of leading scorer Casey Wilder, who played despite being sick with the flu.

"You have to go to school the same day to be able to play basketball that night," said Griffin, "and he showed a lot of courage by getting up and going to school, much less getting out their and giving his all for the team."

The consensus is that Casey made some good plays, but father Harold indicated that his son told him he just couldn't drive into the openings as quick. Little wonder. After playing a great game Friday with the first stages of the flu, he had to be considerably weakened by the devastating middle stage.

Cooper coach Mark Case, and Athletic director Shorty Lawson told Griffin after the game that the Steers had the "greatest attitude in the district." That fact was also recognized by McMurry College basketball coach Hershel Kimbrell. He went into the Steer dressing room after the game and told them the same thing. Even without this writer's natural prejudice, I would have to concur 100 per cent. And it's going to pay off in second half action.

Why did they lose then?

"We were a victim of the free-throw line," said Griff, "If you can't make the free throws you're going to wind up on the short end of the score. This goes back to junior high. What my kids don't have, they didn't get in junior high. That's where you need to learn the fundamentals of the game."

"It takes a lot to come back after a game like Permian," Griffin reflected, "people are down on you, and parents accuse you of not coaching right, but the sign of a winner is that they can come back. And our kids did."

'Bing's Clambake'

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — This is the confused Crosby.

It started back in the dark days of the Great Depression, the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am, as a social event in Los Angeles and a way for the touring pros to pick up a wintertime check.

It's changed locations and grown into one of golf's great extravaganzas, one of the premier tournaments in the game. It draws the best players in the world and the biggest field of celebrities and is played before one of television's largest audiences.

But it's still very much a social thing. There are as many celebrity-watchers as golf fans in the gallery. The old timers still call it "Bing's Clambake."

The social whirl that surrounds the tournament, with its lines of hospitality rooms and scores of open-house condominiums and hotel suites, always has made it a confused weekend.

But this one, which got

underway today on three courses — and not the usual three — at the Monterey Peninsula, is the most confused of them all.

First, there're the scores of Secret Service agents scurrying around, setting up their restrictions and precautions and procedures for the arrival of President Ford. He's due to come in Friday as an ex-President to play as the 18-handicap partner of Arnold Palmer.

Then, too, there's a couple of girls playing. That's a first for this tournament. One of them is University of Tulsa coed Nancy Lopez, probably the best female amateur in the country.

And there's the fact that it's entirely possible that no one will know who's leading the tournament until after Saturday's third round.

The courses add to the confusion. The 168 teams of a pro and an amateur will play one round each over Pebble Beach, Cypress Point and the Shore course at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

Spyglass Hill, usually in the rotation, is being rebuilt due to damage from the Northern California drought. The Shore course substitutes. It's a par 71. The others are par 72.

So Jack Nicklaus shoots 68 at Pebble Beach and Johnny Miller shoots 67 at the Shore course. Each is four under par. Are they tied? Or does Miller lead?

Actually, Pebble Beach is about two shots harder than the Shore. So does Nicklaus lead? It won't be possible to determine precisely until all players have played all three courses.

President Ford, who attended the inauguration of Jimmy Carter today, will compete Friday and Saturday. If he and Palmer survive the cut, they'll also play Sunday in the final round at Pebble Beach.

Jack Nicklaus, starting his season, was the pretournament favorite for the individual title despite the horrid, career-high 82 final round he shot here last year.

ABC-TV will provide national coverage of portions of the final two rounds.

YOUNG IDEAS

By DICK YOUNG

Dave Cowens is lucky. He found out, while there still is much time, what most professional athletes don't learn until it is all over for them. He found out how fortunate he is.

And so, after two months of being a bum, he went back to his job, which consists of playing basketball in Boston for $280,000 a year. He wasn't a bum for the complete two months. He tried another job. He went to work for a trotting track near Boston, with a nice desk and a 9-to-5 type of job.

It took Dave Cowens one day at that job to realize what a mistake he had made, to realize what a pipe he has playing basketball for a living, and making maybe five or six times more money.

This proves how much brighter is Dave Cowens than most basketball players, or baseball or football players. They would have to spend at least a week behind a desk, or with a money wrench in hand, to realize they really have so little to gripe about, compared to the average Joe on the job.

One thing I admire greatly about Dave Cowens, for a mixed-up head, is that he admitted his walkout had been a selfish act. It takes a man to say that. When he decided on his early-season walkout, so many of our thin thinkers admired him, said it was wonderful the way he walked away from $280,000 salary, and that he was being his own man, whatever that is.

They didn't stop to realize he was walking out on his teammates, on his employers who had been pretty good to him, on his fans. He had been thinking only of himself. He didn't feel like going to work one day, so he just walked out. God, if the rest of us didn't go to work whenever we didn't feel quite up to it, the world would stop on its axis.

Dave Cowens is an outstanding athlete, and basically a fine young man. What happened to him is, in one way or another, happening to many young men in sports these days. He simply made too much money too soon, and didn't know how to handle it.

Boob tube fritzes Bearcats ranking

By The Association Press

Gale Catlett is among the first to admit that television has helped college basketball.

But Wednesday night, he says, it hurt his Cincinnati Bearcats.

The nation's second-ranked team was short-circuited by a TV timeout, according to Catlett, and thus lost an 83-77 decision to No. 12 Louisville.

"I wish they'd eliminate the timeouts for TV or call them at a set time," said Catlett. "We were making a run at them and had them on the ropes, so to speak."

It was Catlett's contention that the critical timeout slowed the Bearcats after they had picked up momentum and forged a 31-31 tie in the first half. The Cincinnati coach also accused Louisville Coach Denny Crum of conspiracy in the incident.

"What bothered me," said Catlett, "was that Coach Crum called for that timeout from the bench."

Crum's alleged directorial talent was not the only thing within Catlett's range of fire.

"It was the poorest officiated game since I've been head coach," said Catlett, pointing among other things to a 2-1 ratio in fouls called against his team. Cincinnati was charged with 32 personal fouls, compared to 16 for Louisville.

The Bearcats were one of three Top 20 teams upset Wednesday night. North Carolina State edged No. 4 North Carolina 75-73 and Clemson stunned No. 13 Maryland 93-71 in Atlantic Coast Conference games.

Spurs pin Bulls

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)— The Chicago Bulls don't like to run but they had to against San Antionio and they lost the race.

The Spurs dashed to their second straight win, pinning a 115-107 setback on the Bulls in a National Baksetball Association game in the arena here Wendnesday night.

The Spurs league-leading, racehorse offense was pitted against the Bulls' league-leading defense and the Spurs left the slow-down Bulls at the gate after the second quarter.

San Antonio outscored Chicago 28-20 in that period and possessed a 52-42 halftime advantage.

Nets fray at the end

By The Associated Press

New York Nets Coach Kevin Loughery already has started looking to the future. Considering the way the present looks, he can't be blamed.

Loughery watched his club keep pace with Portland for better than three periods Wednesday night, only to fade in the stretch and lose 109-94. It was the Nets' 11th consecutive National Basketball Association defeat, a club record, and Loughery has just about run out of answers.

"We may go back to playing a running game," Loughery suggested, even though he realizes he does not have the big center to get the rebounds to start a running game, and that Tiny Archibald, the guard who could make such an attack go, is on the injured list for at least another month.

But a running game is the kind Loughery likes best, and obviously the Nets have not done well with the pattern play they have been using this season — their 12-29 record attesting to that. The Nets might not win many games by running, but at least it will give Loughery a line on next season.

"I want to try and determine what players I want back for next year," he said.

Elsewhere in the NBA Wednesday night, the Philadelphia 76ers whipped the Atlanta Hawks 114-94, the Washington Bullets edged the Buffalo Braves 91-87, the San Antonio Spurs beat the Chicago Bulls 115-107, the Boston Celtics defeated the Houston Rockets 112-102, the Phoenix Suns stopped the New York Knicks 97-90 and the Seattle Super-Sonics beat the Indiana Pacers 109-102.

Maurice Lucas scored 21 points and grabbed 13 rebounds for Portland, while center Bill Walton played a solid 44 minutes — 11 points, 15 rebounds, six assists.

76ers 114, Hawks 94

Reserve forward Steve Mix, getting more playing time than usual because Julius Erving got in early foul trouble, scored 27 points, helping Philadelphia to its fifth consecutive win and eighth in the last nine games. George McGinnis added 11 points and 23 rebounds.

Ford pardons 'Tokyo Rose'

CHICAGO (AP) — "Now I have a government to protect me," said Iva Toguri D'Aquino, who was cleared by President Ford of treason for her "Tokyo Rose" broadcasts after living for nearly three decades as a woman without a country.

"After all these years, it's hard for me to believe that it's all over and the pardon is really true," said Mrs. D'Aquino, a slight, 60-year-old Japanese-American woman whose voice was known to millions of World War II servicemen.

Mrs. D'Aquino, who spent more than six years in prison but consistently maintained her broadcasts did no harm to the Allied cause, had lost two previous bids for a presidential pardon. The pardon restores all her forfeited rights, including citizenship.

BACK ON THE AIR, WITH PARDON — Iva Toguri D'Aquino, above, known to millions of World War II servicemen as "Tokyo Rose," holds news conference in Chicago, Wednesday, reacting to President Ford's pardon. The President pardoned Mrs. D'Aquino, convicted of treason in San Francisco in 1949. She served 6½ years in prison for the charge.

Now working as a shopkeeper in her family's gift store on Chicago's North Side, she spoke at a hastily called news conference Wednesday after announcement of the pardon, one of Ford's last acts in office.

As Iva Toguri, a native of Los Angeles and a UCLA graduate, she had just passed her 25th birthday in July 1941 when she sailed for Japan to care for a sick aunt. Because of her hurried departure, she failed to obtain a U.S. passport and was stranded in Tokyo when the war began after the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

She described those years as "living hell." Because she refused to give up her U.S. citizenship, she was considered an "enemy alien" and, without a food ration card, found it difficult to live even at subsistence levels.

In August 1943, she took a part-time joy as typist at Radio Tokyo. Three months later, Japanese officials ordered her to take part in the English-language program aimed at demoralizing U.S. troops.

She agreed, she contends, only after imprisoned officers convinced her she could actually help the Allies, by voicing subtle absurdities which the Japanese wouldn't understand. Those officers testified on her behalf at her 1949 San Francisco trial for treason.

The only one of 14 women who were on Radio Tokyo's "Zero Hour" program accused of treason, she was held without trial for two years, convicted on one of nine counts, sent to jail and fined $10,000.

"I only mouthed the things that were written by the Allied prisoners of war ...," she said Wednesday. "If you can find any propaganda material in that, I will give up the citizenship I gained back today."

In Washington, California Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, one of many who felt Mrs. D'Aquino was victimized by postwar anti-Japanese sentiment, said she had "remained loyal to the United States despite the fact that the United States treated her unjustly."

Checkless society has arrived

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Checking account customers of a Baton Rouge bank will be able to telephone the bank computer next month and instruct it to pay their bills.

Louisiana National Bank unveiled the system Wednesday and said it will be the only commercial bank in the nation offering the service.

"The cashless society is not a child of the future," said a bank statement. "With this new product, LNB propels it into the present."

Although about 50 savings and loan associations have something similar, LNB President Charles McCoy emphasized that the LNB system was designed solely by the bank's own computer experts and will later be made available for sale to other commercial banks.

LNB is only the 226th largest among the 14,500 banks in the nation, but is considered a leader in innovate computer techniques.

For example, McCoy said half of the nation's top 100 banks are now using a computerized accounting system developed by LNB.

A Seattle, Wash., bank tried a pay-by-telephone system in 1973, but dropped it because of low customer acceptance.

The Seattle system required customers to call from a touch tone telephone and was priced at $6.50 a month.

McCoy said the Seattle system also went beyond a bill-paying service and as a result was spread too thin.

By contrast, the LNB system will enable customers to call from any type telephone, even a pay phone, and the charge will be either a flat $1.50 a month or 15 cents per bill, whichever the customer chooses.

The bank hopes to have a third of its checking account customers participating in what it is calling "the bill system" within 18 months.

It operates within the framework of conventional checking accounts and users retain the option of writing checks.

The bank computer pays no bills unless notified by telephone by the customer, who must follow a carefully prepared step-by-step procedure designed to keep an unauthorized person from using another's account.

Those with touch tone telephone will "talk" directly to the bank computer. Those with dial telephones give verbal instructions to a recording device, from which bank employes relay the information to the computer.

At a demonstration Wednesday, the bank computer displayed its ability to "talk" to the customer to verify the correctness of instructions punched into it by touch tone customers.

For example, if the customer designated that $25.50 be paid to merchant number 1034 — each creditor has a code number — the voice of the computer verifies that in a pleasant female voice by saying: "Payment code one-zero-three-four, twenty-five dollars and fifty cents."

If the customer has punched in erroneous information, there is a pause during which a special sequence can be punched into the computer to erase the error.

The customer receives a statement each month of bills paid, which the bank says it will stand behind as proof that those bills have been paid.

Cryptologists charging fraud

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Craig Johnson is the recipient of an award as the outstanding Chinese language student in his class as the Army's Defense Language Institute.

However, Spec. 5 Johnson can neither read, write nor speak Chinese.

Johnson, from Branford, Conn., is one of 26 recruits who filed a class action suit against the U.S. Army charging fraud in the recruiting of cryptologists.

The recruits, who are continuing their training while an appeal of the suit's dismissal is pending in the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in California, said their enlistment contracts assured them of training as interpreter-translators.

Johnson and 18 more of the plaintiffs in the suit are stationed at Goodfellow Air Force Base at San Angelo, location of the armed services' School of Applied Cryptologic Sciences.

Their training as "electronic warfare cryptologic interceptors" does not include a requirement to speak, read or write the foreign language, Johnson says.

A Pentagon spokesman said Wednesday the Army had no comment on the suit.

The 26 men and women recruits said in the suit they were encouraged to enlist because of the opportunity to become an "interpreter-translator."

What they learned in class was not what they were promised, they allege.

"We were forbidden to speak the foreign language in class," said Andrew Toler of Richmond, Va., who completed the Defense Language Institute course in Russian with honors.

Toler could not reply to the question "How are you?" in Russian, although he said he could construct a sentence "with the aid of a dictionary."

Toler said he still likes the Army, despite the misunderstanding.

"I love the Army — the Spartan life appeals to me," he said. "I like serving my country."

The suit, filed July 1 in San Francisco, alleges the Army allowed recruiters to sign people up for a specialty that is non-existent.

Johnson described his Defense Language Institute training as being "taught like stenographers, to record sounds."

Member of KKK to be tried

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Marine Corps says a Marine member of the Ku Klux Klan will be tried before a special court martial for printing KKK literature at government expense.

The Corps ordered the action Wednesday against Pfc. Dennis L. Campbell, who was among a group of Marines admitting KKK membership after a racial brawl Nov. 13 brought presence of a Klan cell on base to light. The KKK members were targets of an attack by a group of black Marines who mistakenly assaulted another group of Marines living in the same barracks as the Klan members.

The Marine Corps said Campbell will be tried for using a government photocopier to produce racist literature and for illegal distribution of the material on base.

If found guilty, he could be reduced to private or given a bad conduct discharge, or could face six months at hard labor and forfeiture of two-thirds of his pay for six months.

Following the fight that sent six whites to the hospital, the Marine Corps uncovered the names of 17 alleged KKK members. At least 12 were transferred to other bases to ease racial tension at Pendleton.

Campbell, who had been sent to Cherry Point, N.C., was returned to Pendleton earlier this month to testify in pre-trial hearings to determine what charges will be brought against black leathernecks, 14 of whom were arrested in the Nov. 13 incident.

Campbell and the other two KKK members called to testify were punished, with Campbell being fined $70, for taking a long weekend in San Diego and failing to appear at a hearing as ordered.

That happened earlier this month.

A base spokesman said no date has been set for Campbell's trial. The pre-trial hearings for the black Marines have been underway for some weeks.

Navy victims names withheld

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Five of the 46 sailors and Marines killed this week when a Navy launch collided with a Spanish freighter arrived here early today.

The remains were flown from Spain to Dover Air Force Base here for casketing before being escorted to relatives, a spokesman for the base said. Six Air Force pallbearers and the base honor guard met the plane.

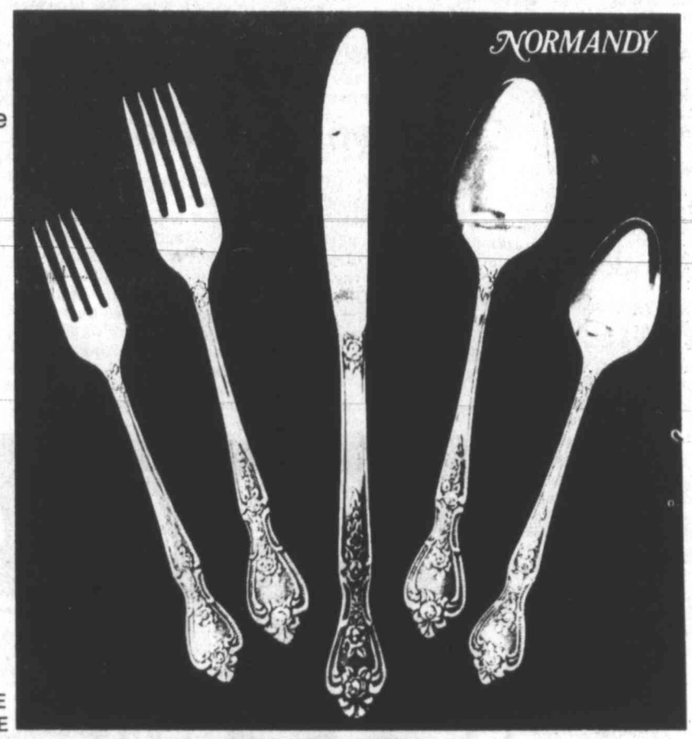

The Navy announced Wednesday that 46 were known dead and three were missing after a 56-foot launch collided with a 380-ton freighter and overturned in the harbor at Barcelona early Monday morning.

The launch was ferrying more than 100 servicemen returning from weekend passes to the helicopter carrier Guam and the amphibious transport ship Trenton which were anchored in the outer harbor.

The Navy did not release the names of the first victims returned to the United States.

Mexican guerrillas plan munitions raid in U.S.?

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Teletypes buzzed with alarm a week ago in every Arizona law enforcement agency.

The state was about to be invaded by a group of Mexican terrorists armed with machine guns and on the march to several military installations.

The alert went out from the Yuma Border Patrol through sheriff's offices and police departments in southern Arizona.

Some officials are still waiting for the munitions raid, but most have filed it away as an "unverified rumor."

The report Jan. 7 that a band of about 25 Mexican guerrillas armed with M16 rifles, rocket and grenade launchers left Tijuana, Baja California, for Arizona originated witht the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS).

The report quoted a usually reliable source as saying the terrorists had crossed the border at Yuma and planned munitions raids on military posts. The Army's Yuma Proving Grounds, Ft. Huachuca, the Marine's Yuma Air Station, Davis-Monthan Air Force Base and other installations issued alerts.

Two or three days later, most officials had relaxed and looked at the incident as just another rumor.

"I have no doubt of the authenticity of the report," said Tom Mataya, assistant chief of the INS Border Patrol in Tucson. "The information came from a law enforcement agency in Arizona and it still may happen. I can't hang my hat on anything definite, but you can't ignore it. Because of the publicity, they may be lying low for a while."

Mataya said border agents remain on alert for any sign of guerrillas, but that no extra manpower has been added.

He declined to name the source of the report.

However, a spokesman in the Border Patrol office in Yuma said the alert there had been cancelled and all was "back to normal."

"We were never notified, so we didn't do anything," said Maj. Raul Parada of the Nogales sheriff's office. "We read about it in the newspapers, so we're keeping our eyes open. We had a similar rumor and alert last summer."

The military installations apparently were notified to tighten security by headquarters in Washington, D.C., and most officials said the word came through "channels."

"The only thing I know is that the alert is off," said Maj. Terry Breen, Staff Judge Advocate at the Marine Corps Air Station in Yuma. "My only connection with it was in one of those hugh-hush meetings when they asked me what the rules of law were for using deadly force if it came to that.

"Of course, my initial reaction was that if they shoot at you, you shoot back. But we basically would have followed state law."

Yuma County Sheriff Travis Yancey said his office continued the alert for four days "but I never really did buy it."

"The federal government started the whole mess," he said. "INS put out a teletype on it, but I don't know why it got so blown out of proportion. I'd suspect something like this would come more from U.S. militant groups, not Mexicans. But the information was given to us in good faith, it's unusual as far as assaulting one of our bases, and we couldn't ignore it."

The "alert" was not a true one in military language, said Paul Stoll, public information officer at Ft. Huachuca.

"It wasn't like we had all sorts of troops standing by and recalled personnel to the post. We just beefed up security for a while."

Stoll also said it was the second such report in four months. The military coordinated plans with local law enforcement agencies, Stoll said, but it would "remain a civilian problem until they reached the military installation."

"The last I heard was that the powers that be decided it was a rumor from an unreliable source. The kind of a thing I heard from a friend of a friend of a friend," he said.

The Department of Public Safety and FBI also were notified, but participated in no investigations, officials said. A spokesman for the Border County Narcotics Strike Force said his agency was not involved.

However, Gene Wood of the INS the Tucson Border Patrol also said the information was checked out and came from a reliable source.

"And when we disseminated the report, we received other reports from various agencies that coincided with our information," Wood said.

He wouldn't elaborate on the reports or sources.

"It's just one of those things that can't be proven or disproven," said FBI agent Roger Young. "We weren't told where the report came from, but basically it's now thought to be spurious. Still, it was unusual that so many guerrillas were said to be coming to hit specific targets. Sometimes it's better to spread the word with that king of rumor than ignore it."

Meanwhile, military officials reported no weapons missing or any unusual disruptions at Arizona bases.

Children and art

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — "Parents should not apply adult standards to children's art," says Dr. Harlan Hoffa, professor of art education at the Pennsylvania State University. Young children don't draw to make a accurate picture of an object or a person, but to make symbolic representations, he says.

"From a kid's point of view, it is a sign or symbol which stands for something else but is not necessarily a picture of it," Dr. Hoffa explains. "Adults need to recognize this and not discourage the child by asking what the drawing is supposed to be."

Directory lists diesel outlets

MAPLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — With the growing number of diesel engine automobiles on the road, a publisher of maps and travel books has issued a motorists' guide which pinpoints the service stations that sell diesel fuel.

"Diesel Stop Directory and Road Atlas," by Hammond, offers 8,400 listings of diesel fuel dispensers in the United States and Canada. The publication lists the brand name of fuel carried, the street and town addresses, and the location of diesel stations on each road map for the 50 states and Canada.

Watts police unit abandoned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The aging brick police station on 103rd Street, used as a command post in the Watts riots 11½ years ago, has been abandoned because crime has all but dried up in the area.

Action at the old station was rarely frantic. For most of its 50 years, only five to six crime reports were taken each day. But in recent years, police said, the number of reports handled at the station dropped to as few as one a day.

Its busiest time came during the August 1965 turmoil, when the commercial strip nearby became known as "Charcoal Alley" after its buildings were burned and looted. In six days of riots, 34 persons died, 1,000 were injured and property damage totaled $40 million.

The six men in blue who operated out of the substation now patrol the 2.5-square-mile area in squad cars.

The old building still houses municipal offices which serve Watts, annexed to the city in 1926. But since the police station was closed last month, those who want to report a crime must call headquarters for the 7th Street Division.

"The unique thing about the substation was that the community didn't look upon it merely as a police station," said Capt. Ed Henry, 56, who worked there from 1947 to 1954.

He explained that local residents took their everyday problems there. It was a place to discuss financial matters, truant children and other family affairs.

"I hate to see it closed down. I believe the community will miss it," said Henry, now a harbor department port warden.

Charles Lloyd, patrolman-turned-attorney, said: "Very seldom did we have to go out and pick up a juvenile suspect. We would call his mother on the phone, tell her what her son had done and she would bring him to the station."

'Whisky' cremated

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP) — The body of a 22-year-old woman who died with her boy friend after a 10-hour siege in a bank at Yarnell has been cremated here.

Butch Hampton, owner of the Hampton Funeral Home, said the cremation was at the request of Johnna Marie Jessee's mother, Helen Jessee of Spokane, Wash.

Miss Jessee, known in Yarnell as "Whisky," lived in Spokane with her parents before coming to Yarnell last summer. She left Yarnell about two months ago but returned about 10 days before she and William Buffington, 31, attempted to rob the bank.

The robbery attempt turned the tiny community into an armed camp as law enforcement officers sealed off Buffington and Miss Jessee inside the bank where at times four hostages were held.

"Two hours after the last hostage was released, Buffington shot Miss Jessee behind the right ear and then took his own life by shooting himself in the head, authorities said.

Hampton said Buffington's body was sent to Amarillo, Tex., on Monday for burial. Buffington's mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wall, live there.

Method creating jobs debated

By OMAR BURLESON,
M.C. 17th District,
Texas

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Both the incoming Carter administration and the Leadership of Congress have programs to reduce unemployment at the top of priorities.

If the rate of 7.9 per cent unemployment is correct, then it certainly is deserving of remedies. There is, however, reason to question this figure. More people are working in this Country than ever before in history. Pockets of unemployed are severe in some of our cities, particularly, among black youths and other minorities. Some estimate that this may account for as much as 3 per cent. It has always been assumed that another 3 to 4 per cent are unemployable. This has been the case in the past and there is no reason to believe it is not the case now and will not be in the future. Also included in the estimate of the unemployed are those in between jobs. Women in the work force are at an unprecedented number, some with jobs with an above average turnover rate.

These are but a few of the reasons to question the accuracy of the unemployment rate. Skills and special qualifications for many jobs have a way of further distorting the picture. Pages of "Help Wanted" ads are run every day in big daily newspapers with no takers. An unemployed person may draw compensation if his particular line of work is not available. In other words, he need not take a job if it is not "suitable."

Regardless of what a thorough analysis might reveal on the rate of unemployment little notice will likely be given it when the Congress considers legislation on this matter. The idea that conditions call for action is set in concrete.

This being the case, the debate will be on the method of creating jobs. Most talk now is about a tax reduction in the range of $10 to $15 billion, mostly for individuals. Coupled with this reduction, some organizations such as the A.F.L.-C.I.O. want a stimulative program of $30 billion in direct job-creating programs. Broken down, they recommend $10 billion in accelerated public works, $8 billion in public service employment, $8 billion in some form of subsidized public housing and as much as $2 billion to State and Local Governments to hire people or to pay those whom they might have to lay off without these funds. This money would go to those cities with the greatest needs. They would also create a $2 billion program for youth training to qualify for employment.

Other proposals would give incentives to businesses to increase employment. This would be in the form of some sort of special tax break for plant and factory expansion and to utilize idle capacity for the production of goods.

There is basic conflict in these two approaches. This latter method has less support than the huge layouts which inevitably will run up the deficit and could again kindle the fires of inflation. The supporters of this approach seem to ignore that there was fuller employment before the Government undertook massive spending programs of this nature. It was inflation, indebtedness and the drying up of available capital for economic expansion that created much of the unemployment in the first place. A larger dose of the elixir that poisoned us is not likely to cure our ills. We should know that there can be no long-range cures just by having Government spending money since it has no money and must first take it from us before it can give it back.

There is good argument that the American who is really unemployed and can not find work, though he earnestly seeks it, deserves all the help he can get. Those who are simply not qualified for gainful employment and who have no opportunity to be trained should be given a chance because, gainfully employed, they contribute to society as a whole and do not become a drain on it.

WANTS HER SON EXECUTED — Mrs. Verna Smith tells newsmen at her Los Angeles home Wednesday she wants her son executed. The son, Jimmie Lee Gray, 28, is facing the gas chamber in Mississippi for the murder of a 3-year-old girl. She's told the Mississippi governor of her feelings.

Doctors learning to control changes in heartbeat rhythm

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Disorders that cause a person's heart to slow, speed dangerously or otherwise lose its steady rhythm are being treated in laboratories where doctors can turn the rhythm changes on and off at will.

As a result, the sometimes long process of finding a suitable drug or other solution to the problem is often dramatically shortened.

News from the research front in the field of cardiac arrhythmias, as the disorders are collectively known was reported at the American Heart Association Science Writers Forum that ended Wednesday.

Described by Dr. Kenneth M. Rosen of the medical school at the University of Illinois, the new methods of diagnosis and treatment involve the natural electrical network that controls the sequential beating of different chambers of the heart.

In principal, it is like the electrical system of a car, which uses a distributor to send electrical impulses to the spark plugs in a certain order. But like a car, the heart can have timing problems that throw the firing sequence out of whack.

Persons who suffer from these conditions, which include tachycardia (excessively fast heartbeat), palpitation (attacks of a pounding heart beat), heart block (interference with the transmission of the electrical impulse), may have symptoms off and on for years. Ordinary examinations such as electrocardiograms often don't detect the problem because they are made at a time when the heartbeat is normal.

In such cases, said Rosen, the arrhythmia can now be brought on with the patient in a laboratory. Wire-like catheters passed through a vein into the heart are used to spark the abnormal rhythm in the heart, so physicians can see just when and where it occurs.

"If we can reproduce the rhythm, we can control it," said Rosen. Though it might seem likely to scare a patient, Rosen said the technique generally reassures people who have intermittently suffered from an arrhythmia that has never occurred when doctors were looking for it.

One frequent cause of these conditions is that the impulse traveling through the heart reaches an area where instead of passing through the tissue, the impulse is trapped in a circling pattern that halts its progress.

If the arrhythmia can be reproduced in the lab, said Rosen, "then we can on sequential days test a number of different drugs singly and in combination. It is frequently possible to delineate a drug regimen which totally controls rhythm disturbances" that had previously gone uncontrolled.

Other new techniques include opening the chest and passing a probe over the heart surface that measures the electrical network at many points. Then a "map" of the network can be drawn and any abnormal parts of it can be corrected surgically, Rosen said.

Next move up to Ma Bell

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has lost its attempt to void a rate increase smaller than it requested and now must decide whether to ask for a stay, and risk the temporary loss even of the smaller hike, or follow the slower normal appeal procedure.

State District Judge Jim Meyer said Wednesday, "I have decided that the (public utility) commission position with respect to the matter is correct. Contrary to what Bell argued, I do not believe the appeal automatically voided the order."

The next move will be up to Bell, Meyer said.

The commission granted a $57.8 million rate increase for Bell. But Bell had requested $296.8 million, and it sought a temporary injunction, contending the commission's order was so low it amounted to confiscation of Bell's property.

The law creating the commission provides for injunctions in confiscation cases.

Bell lawyers said the company was entitled to charge any rate it wanted to during the appeal so long as it posted a bond large enough to handle refunds in the event it lost the appeal.

Meyer said Bell may decide now to ask for a stay, pending appeal, but this may mean the old rate will remain in effect, thus denying Bell even the $57.8 million while the appeal is being pressed.

Gen. John Hill said last week was the only one open to the company.

Envelope clue in death case?

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Police technicians were examining an envelope with a man's name and his Tulsa address today to determine if it is a new lead to whoever might have killed Bernice Kuhlman, 20.

The envelope was found by Police Det. Jerry Griggs Wednesday night after he returned to where Miss Kuhlman's car was discovered, abandoned and empty, in the parking lot of an East Tulsa apartment complex. She did not live at the complex.

Detectives also said other evidence linked to the case was found at the parking lot Wednesday night but they refused to disclose what it was. Neither would they divulge the man's name and address until it could be learned what connection it might have to the case.

Miss Kuhlman's nude body was found Saturday morning in a creek along the Tulsa-Creek County line in West Tulsa. She had been beaten and raped.

Miss Kuhlman, who moved here from Canyon, Tex., six months ago, was last seen at 11 p. m. Friday with some employes at an East Tulsa restaurant.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JAN. 21, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES. The morning is the time to wind up matters which were started yesterday. The afternoon and evening gives you a chance to get rid of secret annoyances. Quietly gather the data you need.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning is best time to meet with good friends and reach important decisions. The evening is best spent at home with family.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A vocational matter should be handled intelligently in the morning and then you have more time for being with friends later.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A new contact could be most helpful to you in the future. Your intuition is extremely good now, so be sure to use it.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Begin day properly by doing whatever will please your mate. Be to rely on your intuition more now and get fine results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find a common point on which to agree with associates in a project that is important to you. Think constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) First tackle all that work ahead of you and then you can look into a new interest that fascinates you. Take no chances with your reputation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make those appointments early for the recreation you want later in the day. Be more alert to opportunities around you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Consult a business expert for advice you need. Later engage in favorite hobby with congenials and relieve tensions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle important correspondence early in the day and then later you can attend to home matters.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) First attend to a monetary matter that is vital to your welfare. Later get in touch with an expert who can be of service to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Organize your plans in a most confidential manner in the morning, then work out financial problems later in the day.

Big Spring Detox Center gains funds

The Big Spring Detox Center for area treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics has received additional funds from the Texas Commission on Alcoholism, and is in full operation with a qualified and trained staff.

The center provides services not only for detoxification, but also for referral and other help for the alcoholic. The program is extensive, according to center officials, and has a doctor on call at all times.

Each patient admitted receives a complete physical examination, and if a doctor feels it necessary, the center will transfer patients who are too ill to the Big Spring State Hospital, or the Veterans Administration Hospital for those who are eligible.

Group therapy is available for the alcoholic twice a day at the center, as well as a study of the procedures of Alcoholics Anonymous Monday and Friday nights at 8 o'clock. These meetings are limited to persons with drinking problems, but one need not be a patient to attend.

At 8 p.m. every Wednesday, an open meeting of the Hub AA group is held at the Detox Center, and the public is invited. Speakers helpful to the alcoholic and anyone who is interested in the disease often attend.

Speakers supplied with tapes and films are available through the center. For service at any time for anyone who may need help, call 263-4021.

Several new rules have been implemented at the center. The new guidelines are:

1. All patients must remain in pajamas three days.
2. Visiting hours, other than AA or Alanon members, are 2:00 to 5:00 p.m. only.
3. All money, keys and personal property to be locked up by staff members until patient is discharged.
4. Any sacks, suit cases or clothing brought to patients must be checked by staff members.
5. There will be no smoking in bed. Patients caught smoking in bed will be discharged immediately.
6. All patients must attend all groups and the Wednesday night AA meetings if physically able.
7. If unable to sleep, patients must stay in the day room and not disturb anyone sleeping in the dormitory.
8. Patients committed from city municipal court or county courts who fail to remain five or fifteen days as instructed by judges will be reported immediately to the law enforcement offices and picked up and returned to jail.
9. Patients admitted on a voluntary basis who do not remain a minimum of five days will be discharged against medical advice, and cannot return to the Detox Center for a period of 30 days on a voluntary basis.
10. Upon entering the Detox Center, patients will be searched for medications, etc.
11. There will be no drinking on the premises and no use of medication unless prescribed by the physician.
12. Patients who are unwilling to comply with the rules and regulations of the center will be dismissed at the decision of the director.
13. Vocational rehabilitation services will be available at the center.
14. Patients attending outside meetings must do so with an employe assigned by the director.

Texas' traffic death rate dips

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas' traffic death rate is down but the speeding arrest record is up, says Col. Wilson Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety.

Speir, who has recommended raising the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit to 60-mph on interstate and major highways, made the report Wednesday to the Public Safety Commission, which sets policy for the DPS.

Speir said there were about one million arrests by DPS troopers in 1976, of which about 800,000 were for speeding.

Temple superintendent offered Abilene job?

ABILENE — Gordon Harmon, 43, superintendent of schools in Temple, reportedly has been offered a similar position in the Abilene school system.

Upon his return home from a visit in Abilene, Harmon said a decision in the matter "is pending."

Harmon's present contract with the Temple school district extends through June, 1980. Harmon formerly was superintendent of schools in San Marcos, where he served four years.

He is a 1955 graduate of Texas Tech University and earned his master's degree at Sul Ross University.

For the record

The name of Mrs. Betty Rains was twice misspelled in the story concerning the promotion of officers at the First National Bank, which appeared in Wednesday's edition of the Herald.

The Herald identified Mrs. Rains as "Mrs. Raino."

Mrs. Rains was promoted to the position of vice president of accounting within the bank.

Smokers short on vitamin C

NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — Clinical research shows that cigarette smokers may need more vitamin C per day than non-smokers. The Canadian Nutrition Survey, completed in 1975, showed that smokers of 20 or more cigarettes daily experience a reduction in blood serum vitamin C levels of as much as 40 per cent.

Other studies conducted over the last 10 years also show that smoking lowers blood levels of vitamin C, as well as lowering the percentage of vitamin C in mothers' milk.

For the birds

with Marj Carpenter

MISSED ME — This Big Spring Roadrunner said that he wasn't out the day of the Christmas Count, but that he and a lot of other birds are around in addition to the 99 varieties counted. Over 200 species of birds have been counted at different times around Big Spring.

We have some fantastic bird watchers around Big Spring. And each year, they help with what they call the Christmas Count of birds in West Texas.

The count this year showed that Big Spring had 24,366 birds of 99 different species on that particular Christmas Count day.

Big Spring had a larger variety than any of the other towns taking part in the count. This included Robert Lee, Colorado City, Midland, Stanton, Balmorhea and Fort Davis.

Some of the ones helping with the local count were Sue, Ed and Charlie Corson, Mike and Billy Paul and the Rev. Louis Moeller, to name a few.

The second largest sighting were 2,158 sandhill cranes. The count over in Stanton alledgedly showed 67,100 Sandhill cranes. That's an awful lot of cranes.

In Howard County, the count showed more robins than anything else that day with 2,554.

Another big count was the Cedar Waxwing with 670, the Brewer's Blackbird with 591, the Coot with 510, and the Grey-wing Teal with 450. Is there really a Coat?

Others with over 100 spotted that day included a Scaup with 225, Shoveler with 536, American Piegeon with 116, Mallard with 127, Mockingbird (that good old state bird) with 151, Junco with 172, Cowbird with 113, Meadowlark with 255, House Sparrow with 180 and the Mountain Bluebird with 166.

Between 20 and 100 of many varieties were sighted here including Cardinal, 23; Bob white, 67; Pyrrhuloxia, 42; House Finch, 71; American Goldfinch, 55; Brown Towhee, 67; Lark Bunting, 29; Dowitcher, 20; Ring-bill Gull, 21; (I couldn't believe we had gulls); Rock Dove, 26; Mourning Dove (that weren't killed during the hunting season) 46; Flicker, 34; Bewick's Wren, 27; wild turkeys, 30; Killdeer, 28; Redhead, 34 and Pintail, 85.

Less than 20 were Solitaire, Gnatcatcher, Gold Kinglet, Ruby Kinglet, Shrike, Warb, Yellow-rump Warb, Pine Siskin, Svannah Sparrow, Lark Sparrow, Rufous Sparrow, Black-throated Sparrow, Gray-headed Junc; Chipping sparrow, Pied Grebe, Blue Heron, Gadwall, Ring-neck, Canvasback, Bufflehead, Cooper's Hawk, Rough-legged hawk, Ferrubgionous Hawk (sounds terrible), Harris Hawk, Golden Eagle, Marsh Hawk, Kestrel, Field Sparrow, White-throat Sparrow, Lincoln's Sparrow, Song Sparrow and Chestnut.

I'm sure I've made a bunch of mistakes in even listing them all. I can't even count the count right.

But I really got kind of excited while typing them every time I came across a bird that I knew what was.

For instance, I was thrilled to know we had one golden Eagle, many turkeys and as many Bobwhites as we have. I love to hear a Bobwhite.

I was surprised at the number of different kinds of hawks and sparrows, since I always just called them hawks and sparrows.

I was surprised that any mourning doves dared to show their heads. And I notice they counted 41 scaled quail. If I was a quail in December, I'd be durn sure it was one of those nice Corsons or Pauls or Father Moeller looking at me. I'd never stick my head out unless I knew in advance.

I am impressed. Both at the number of birds and the counters. And I still don't know about those sandhill cranes in Martin county. Over 67,000. Mercy. I won't even be able to see the fences, when I'm out ridin'.

Champion fine wool lamb fielded by Pate

GARDEN CITY — Travis Pate Jr., a member of the Glasscock County 4-H Club, fielded the champion fine wool lamb in the Taylor County Livestock Show Tuesday. He was to sell the animal today.

The Glasscock County agricultural agent, Oliver Werst, said Glasscock County was preparing for its own livestock show Jan. 30-31.

Other Glasscock County residents who placed at Abilene included Susan Pate, fifth in the light finewool class; Travis Pate Jr., seventh in the same class; Lonnie Pruitt, tenth in the heavy finewool class; Susan Pate, seventh in the light crossbred class; and Keitha Coffman, 21st in the same class.

The Glasscock delegation took 11 animals to Abilene. Four Glasscock youths were present, as were Werst, Harvey Coffman and Travis Pate Sr.

Water plan hearing set

LUBBOCK — A public hearing on the revised Texas Water Plan will be conducted by the Texas Water Development Board Feb. 18 in Lubbock on conjunction with the 10th Annual Membership Meeting of Water, Inc.

The hearing will provide the public an opportunity to comment on the TWDB's water plan revision which is expected to be released shortly. The hearing will be conducted at the Lubbock Hilton Inn. Water, Incorporated's Annual Membership Meeting has been set for Feb. 19 in the Hilton Inn.

Water, Inc., President J.W. Buchanan said the public hearing should provide an extra incentive for Water, Inc., members to attend the Annual Meeting.

"The hearing will give residents of the High Plains a chance to review the proposed revisions and to make sure they meet the needs of this area and of other sections of the state," Buchanan said.

"Good attendance and participation at the hearings will show the Water Development Board we are committed to finding additional water resources for the High Plains," Buchanan said. "A good turnout at the Annual Meeting the next day will help reinforce that commitment."

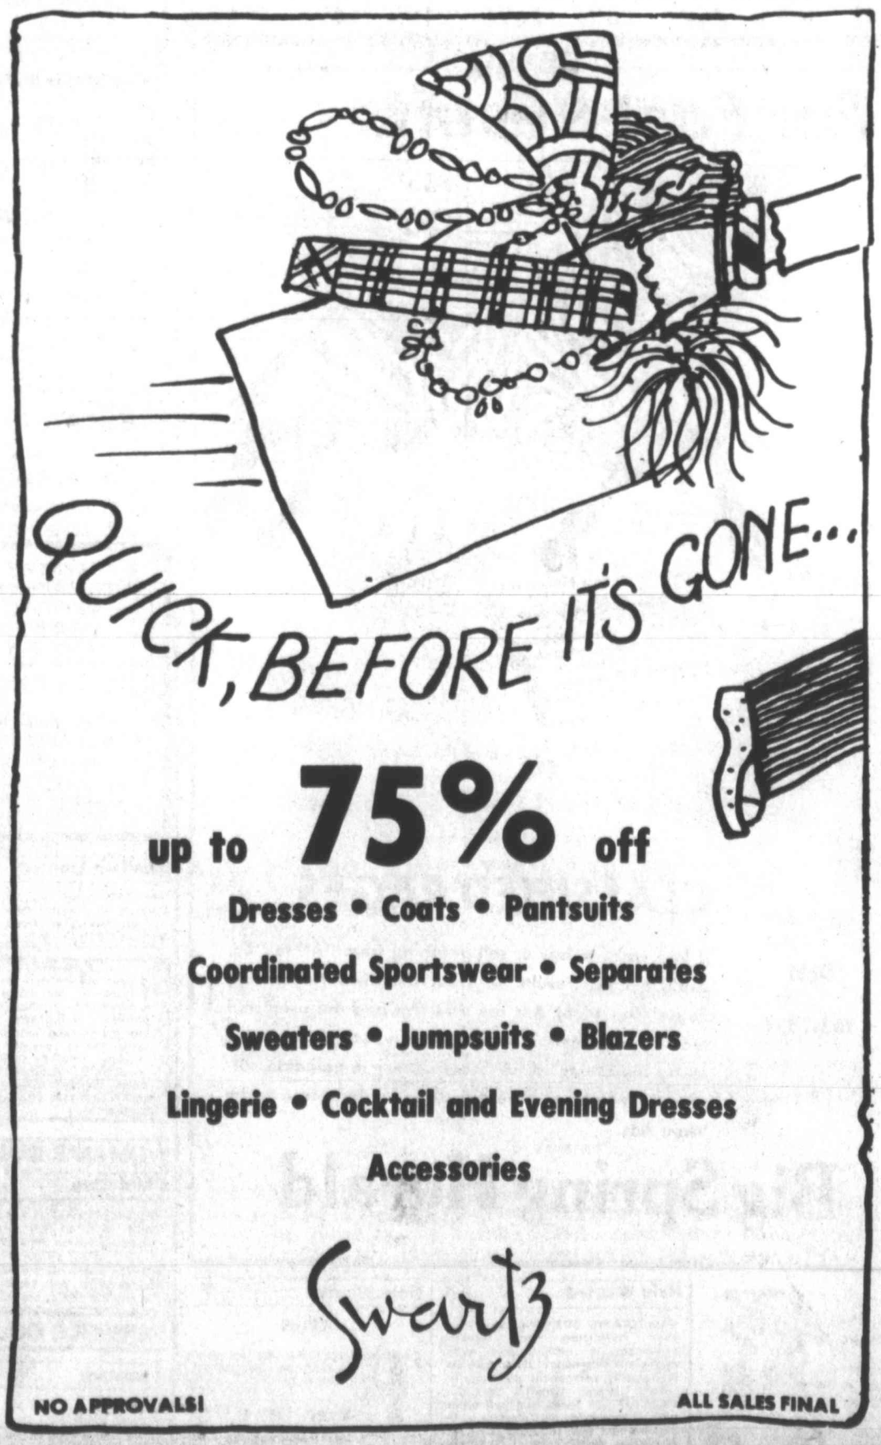

U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower will be one of the featured speakers at the Annual Membership Meeting. Water, Inc., is a non-profit organization which seeks alternative water resources for the High Plains of Texas and New Mexico.
