The University Interscholastic League of Texas is observing its 60th anniversary this year.

The UIL got its start in 1910 when University of Texas President, Dr. S. E. Mezes, asked Dr. E. D. Shurter, then professor of public speaking at UT, to find areas in which the university could help people throughout the state through its Extension Bureau.

And so it was that Texas became the 10th state in the union to form a contest organization for secondary schools. It was called the Debating League first, and then in 1911 its name was changed to Debating and Declamation League. In 1912 it merged with the Texas Interscholastic Athletic Association to form the Texas Interscholastic League. Today, it coordinates competition in some 27 events which come from the classrooms and playing fields of public schools.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White is urging Texans to be cautious in buying nursery stock during the upcoming season. A lot of nursery stock is purchased during the winter months and White pointed out that one of the favorite modes of travel for some harmful insects and diseases is on the roots and barks of nursery stock. Many insects and diseases of foreign origin which have not yet reached Texas can be found on the Northern, Eastern and Pacific coastal areas, White said.

"The Texas Department of Agriculture has always advocated buying nursery stock, as well as other commodities, at home," the commissioner reminded. "There already are too many insect pests and diseases in the state without shipping in recruits."

Nixon Meets With Gromyko

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon meets the Soviet foreign minister today to sound out Kremlin attitude toward Nixon's "era of negotiations" approach to major East-West issues.

Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko lashed out at the United States Wednesday, accusing Washington of trumping up charges against Moscow on Mideast truce violations and Cuban missile submarine bases.

But U.S. officials tended to rate Gromyko's speech, to the U.N. General Assembly, as a relatively routine replay of current Kremlin themes.

What Washington is still interested in, officials said, is the extent to which the Soviets will be willing to forego cold war skirmishing and negotiate seriously on items where there are possibilities for agreement.

Administration worry over Kremlin intent soared last month after U.S. intelligence reported evidence of Soviet-Egyptian Mideast truce violations and possible construction of a Russian submarine base in Cuba.

But after meeting with Gromyko last Friday and again Monday, Secretary of State William P. Rogers found the atmosphere good enough for a one-hour White House appointment for the Soviet leader.

Rogers said Gromyko asked for the date with Nixon, without specifying any particular subject matter, and that he did not know whether Gromyko was bringing a message from Kremlin chiefs to the President.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon would discuss U.S.-Soviet issues, the Mideast and his Indochina peace plan with Gromyko.

A UNITED FUND AGENCY

Red Cross Has Relief Mandate

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles on service agencies supported by the Scurry County United Fund. The articles were prepared by Mrs. Bootsie Coleman of the United Fund Campaign publicity committee, which is headed by Mrs. Joe Pitts. Today's article deals with the American Red Cross.

• • •

The American Red Cross is the instrument chosen by Congress to help carry out the obligations assumed by the United States under certain international treaties known as the Geneva or Red Cross convention. The Charter imposes on the American Red Cross these duties: 1. To act as the medium of voluntary relief and communication between the American people and their armed forces. 2. To carry on a system of National and International relief to prevent and mitigate suffering caused by disaster.

The Red Cross was built for helping others. Caring for others and caring about others are the ideals that lie behind Red Cross aid given to members of the armed forces, to victims of disaster, to patients who need blood, and to many other people with many other needs.

"If you want to help, volunteer through the Red Cross." Millions of people have responded to this advice by serving others as Red Cross volunteers in their communities.

The service programs of the American National Red Cross have developed naturally out of the Red Cross mission. They are conducted jointly by the national organization and some 3,300 chapters and provide a wide variety of services to people throughout the U.S. and in other parts of the world. All these services are given free of charge. Disaster grants are an outright gift — with no strings attached. No charges are ever made for Red Cross disaster services or assistance.

All Red Cross programs owe their support to money voluntarily contributed by the American people. Support of the programs arises in turn from faith in the idea phrased by the founder of the World Red Cross movement, Henri Dunant: "All Men Are Brothers." That faith is the most durable force in the history of the American Red Cross.

Scurry County United Fund will contribute 11.47 per cent of the total collected. The goal set for the 1971 campaign is $42,442.44.

BOOST DRIVE — The Scurry County United Fund reached the $17,000 mark this morning as area captains and chairmen turned in additional money. From left, are Jack McGlaun, commercial captain; Bill Gilliland, utilities chairman; Mrs. Marvin Dozier, secretary; Stanley Noah, special division chairman; and, R. C. Patton, drive co-chairman. The United Fund has reached 40 per cent of its goal for 1970.

1,800 Guerrillas Invade Jordan

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer

MOGHAYER, Jordan (AP) — About 1,800 Palestinian guerrillas have crossed into Jordan from Syria and taken up positions near the frontier village of Moghayer, the Jordanian army said today.

Brig. Atta Gasib, who commands Jordanian forces in the north, said the advance was backed by 44 tanks from the Palestine Liberation Army which moved on Torra, a town three miles west of Ramtha. Ramtha is the main border crossing point on the Damascus-Amman highway.

Gasib said the commandos are members of the Syrian-backed Saika group and entered Jordan because of pressure put on them after Gen. Hafez Assad, the Syrian defense minister, seized control of the government in Damascus and began cracking down on Saika.

Jordanian officers estimate there are 20,000 Saika guerrillas in Syria who are trying to flee to northern Jordan and southern Lebanon.

There was more fighting in this area of northern Jordan Wednesday and Wednesday night. Two rockets fell on Moghayer, where the Jordanians have set up a headquarters in a battered school to watch guerrilla movements across the valley in Torra, Shajara and two other villages close to the Syrian border.

Residents are jittery because of the repeated clashes and want the guerrillas to leave the area. The army blasted its way into the village last Saturday, driving the guerrillas across the valley to Shajara.

Fighting began in the area Saturday, the day after the government shakeup in Syria was reported. The clashes, usually exchanges of artillery and rocket fire, have continued this week.

The commandos charge that the Jordanian army is trying to cut off their supply routes from Syria and prevent their free movement on the country's roads in violation of the peace agreement guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat and King Hussein signed nine days ago.

Senior members of the international Arab peace mission supervising the agreement went north to Ramtha Wednesday to investigate several shooting incidents in the town. One officer said there was intense movement of Jordanian tanks outside Ramtha.

Gasib said he is convinced the guerrillas have a master plan, backed by the governments in Syria and Iraq, to split north Jordan from the rest of the country to make it the Middle East equivalent of Vietnam or Korea. Arafat has said he wants Amman to be the Hanoi of the Arab world."

Meanwhile, in the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip an Israeli army patrol shot and killed an Arab woman when she failed to halt for an identity check during the nightly curfew, the Israeli military command said.

Snyderites Named To Council

AUSTIN — Two Snyder residents have been named to a 15-member Advisory Council for the Compensatory Education Project of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System.

Dr. Bevington Reed, Commissioner of Higher Education, said that Joe Carrasco and Mrs. Alice Mijares, both of Snyder, have been named to the council.

The council will guide the project's efforts to develop a comprehensive state plan for the development of educational programs for the disadvantaged through community colleges in Texas. The state plan will be designed to deal with all aspects of educational opportunity for the disadvantaged — identification and recruitment of students, financial aid, counseling, and development of programs more relevant to the needs of the disadvantaged, according to Dr. Reed. Plans also call for pilot programs to be implemented in selected community colleges.

Others on the advisory council are State Senator Barbara Jordan of Houston, Dr. Hector Garcia of Corpus Christi, Eliseo Sandoval of Edinburg, Homer Roberson of Crosbyton, Volma Overton of Austin, the Rev. Dan Zan Holmes Jr. of Dallas, Charles S. Cuellar of San Antonio, William Perry of Texas City, David Lozano of Brownsville, Dr. George Stafford of Prairie View A&M, Charles Johnson of Fort Worth, Sally Jones of San Antonio and James Courtney of Burnet.

The council will meet for the first time at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Capital Room of the Commodore Perry Hotel. Officers of the council will be elected and the general plans for the project will be discussed.

BEARD NAMED LAMAR PRINCIPAL

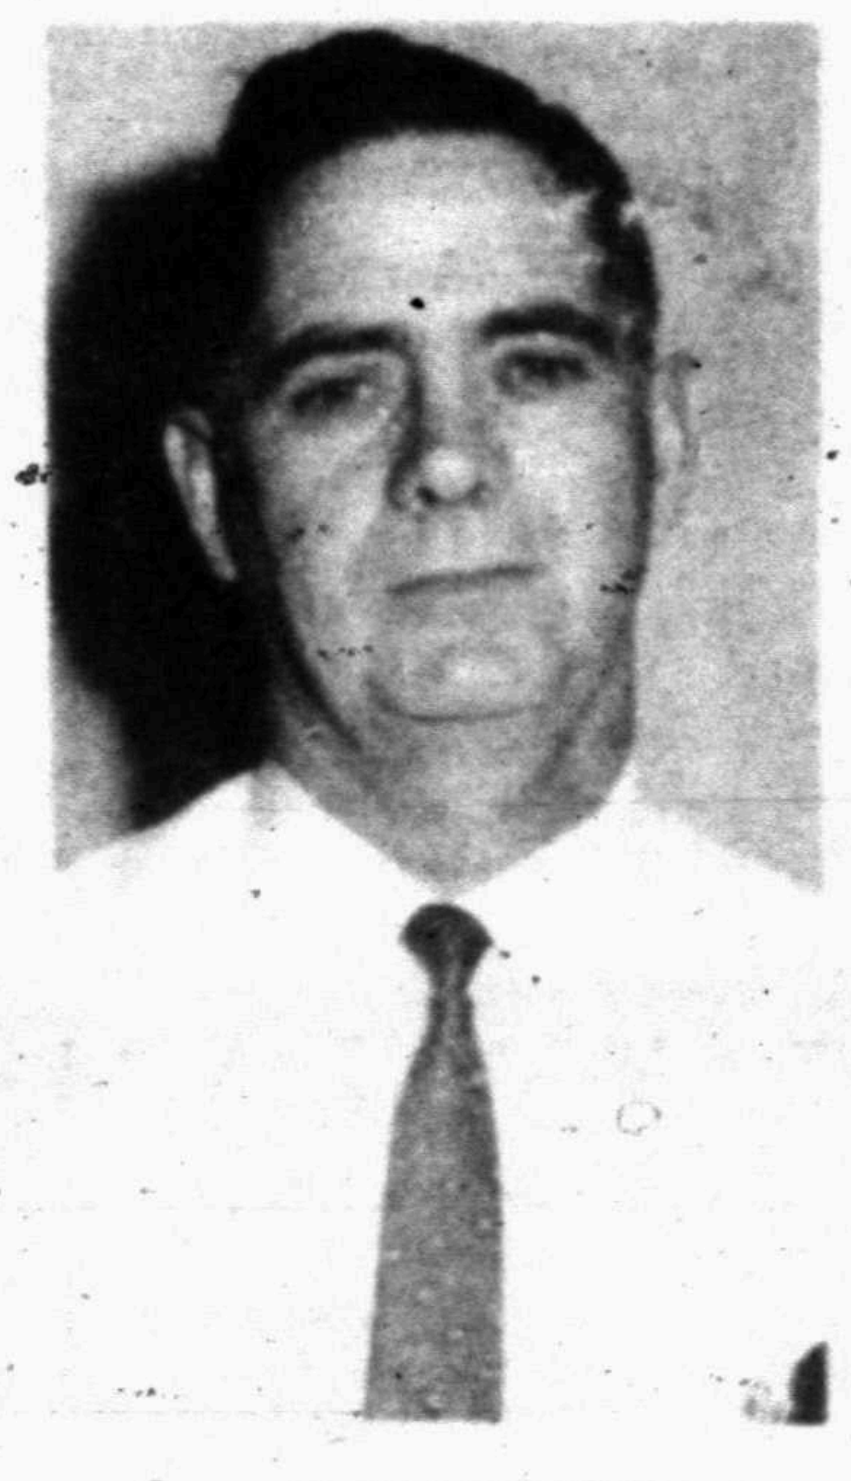
Board Orders Studies Of School Facilities

Fred Beard, who has served as assistant principal at Lamar Junior High School here since the school first opened 10 years ago, was elevated to the principal's post Wednesday by the board of trustees.

At a special meeting, which was held at noon at the Northeast Elementary School, the school board also voted to set in motion studies to determine how much it would cost to air condition school buildings here. Moreover the board expressed interest in bringing some other capital improvement proposals up for a decision.

Beard will fill the post left vacant Oct. 12 when Rondall E. Cooper was killed in a traffic accident near Merkel.

The new Lamar principal holds both bachelors and masters degrees from Texas Tech. He has been associated with Snyder Public Schools for nearly 15 years, having served as a classroom teacher and as assistant principal at West Elementary School before becoming assistant principal at Lamar when that school was opened in 1960.



FRED BEARD

The board took no action on naming a new assistant principal, but indicated that it would do so at its regular meeting on Nov. 10.

Formally approved on a unanimous vote was a motion instructing the superintendent to confer with J. D. Hinton, local architect, on the possibility of conducting new studies of school facilities, especially at the high school and junior high levels, and on air conditioning of all schools.

Some four years ago a study was made on air conditioning, and some proposals for improvements and expansion of high school facilities and the possibility of returning to a single junior high school were pondered. No major projects materialized from these studies, however.

The board indicated that the entire picture would be included in the new studies and that it is possible that several issues will be submitted to voters in a bond election.

The new studies were prompted by receipt of a petition at the Oct. 13 board meeting urging that the board look into the possibility of air conditioning school buildings. The petitions were circulated through P-TA units. Also submitted at the same meeting was a recommendation by local doctors that an air conditioning project be considered.

War Note Found In Ohta Home

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — A bizarre declaration of war note left at a home where five persons were slain threatens death to anyone who "misuses the natural environment."

The typewritten note, signed with the name of the four knights on fortune-telling tarot cards, said future killings would be carried out by the "People of the Free Universe."

Disclosing the note Wednesday two days after the slaying of wealthy eye surgeon Dr. Victor M. Ohta and four others, Undersheriff Paul W. Tara urged the community—100 miles south of San Francisco—to remain calm.

"We have to keep our cool. We are fighting a war and we might as well face it," Tara said.

The undersheriff said the nature of the killings and the note indicated the five were slain by cultists.

The note was found under the windshield wiper of Ohta's red Rolls Royce after the bodies of Ohta, his wife, two sons and secretary were discovered in a swimming pool at the family's $250,000 hilltop home Monday night, Tara said.

Until the note was made public, police had said they knew no motive for the slayings. They were trying to find two young men and a girl reported seen near another of the Ohtas' cars — a station wagon — before it was found abandoned on a railroad track.

"Today World War III will begin as brought to you by the People of the Free Universe. From this day forward anyone and-or company who misuses the natural environment or destroys same will suffer the penalty of death by the People of

Keep up home and country too

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe millions of people are going to sit still and let you call them dullards because their only interests are their children, homes and jobs. Many young couples are on small budgets and they don't have the time to get involved in civic and political things as you suggested. Instead they are planting lawns, refinishing furniture, and trying to make ends meet.

They are just as proud of their accomplishments as the man who changes a zoning law or a woman who campaigns for low-cost housing. Don't knock the little guy, O. K.?

BELITTLED IN BARSTOW

DEAR BELITTLED: In a democracy, the "little guy" is more important than the "big guy" because the little guys comprise the majority, which rules. The people [mostly little guys] vote their candidates into office, and in many communities they vote for tax reforms, bond issues, and other vital matters concerning their communities.

The most important thing a man [or woman] can do for his family is to study the issues and the candidates and to make intelligent use of his voting privilege. What does it profit a man to have his furniture refinished if somebody is building a bomb in his basement? Edmund Burke said, "All that is necessary for evil to succeed is that good men do nothing."

DEAR ABBY: I am so mad at you I could crown you for giving all that valuable space to those dirty housekeepers. One would think you had to be a dirty housekeeper in order to be a Good Samaritan!

One woman bragged that she keeps open house for runaways, alcoholics, hippies and drug addicts. Big deal!

I know a little 98-lb. woman whose house is so clean you could eat off her floor. She even bakes her own bread! She has one child of her own and recently adopted an orphaned infant and a 14-year-old girl whose own mother didn't want her. Come clean, Abby, whose side are you on anyway?

NOT MAD ANYMORE

DEAR NOT: There is "clean" dirt and "dirty" dirt, and I am offended by "dirty" dirt. But if one's home is in less than apple pie order because her time is spent in charity, I would not criticize her.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this. It may help some other stupid kid who can't wait to leave home:

My sister and I had a good home but we thought our parents were too strict. My sister ran away at 18 and married a guy who turned out to be a bum just like we figured he would.

I left home when I turned 18 because I wanted to be free to come and go as I pleased. It was fun for about six months, then I started to get lonesome and things got really tough, but I didn't have the nerve to ask my folks to let me come home because I hadn't kept in touch with them to let them know I was safe. The longer I stayed away, the more ashamed I got, so I just sort of faded out of the picture for two years.

Then I heard my mother was sick, so I went home. She had had a nervous breakdown about a year after I left, and she will never get out of the sick home she's in. She doesn't know me or any of the family anymore. Now I'll never be able to tell her I love her and I'm sorry for what I did. My father has aged 20 years and he stays drunk all the time.

I have nothing now. No home, no sister, no parents. What a mess I've made out of my life and I'm only 20. Those friends I left home to be with don't mean a thing to me now. I hate them all. But most of all, I hate myself. Sign me

Cosmonauts Hold News Conference

By PAUL RECER
AP Aerospace Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two Soviet cosnonauts revealed at a news conference today that they had practiced a space maneuver with American colleagues during their stop earlier this week at the Marshall Spaceflight Center in Huntsville, Ala.

The cosmonauts, Maj. Gen. Adrian Nikolayev and Vitali Sevastyanov, the world's space endurance record-holders, cracked jokes and poked fun at themselves and the American spacemen during a free-wheeling and relaxed news conference here.

Sevastyanov revealed that he had donned a space suit and worked in a bouyancy simulator at Marshall with American astronaut Russell Schweikart.

"I was in a space suit and he was too," said the cosmonaut. "We worked together on a Skylab hardware practice,"

Sevastyanov said that astronaut Edwin Aldrin was in the bouyancy simulator, a huge tank of water, in scuba equipment.

He said Aldrin was supervising the maneuver while Maj. Gen. Nikolayev was in the control center "giving me orders."

"So we had a mixed crew and two commanders," Sevastyanov joked.

Speaking through an interpreter, the cosmonauts described the serious adjustment problems they encountered after returning to earth from an 18-day space voyage aboard Soyuz 9 last June.

"The difficulty started as soon as we experienced the earth's gravity after landing," said Nikolayev. "The heads and limbs felt motion when we experienced about two Gs (twice the pull of gravity)."

He said the sensations ceased progressively so that "in five or six days we felt quite normal."

"After experiencing that heavy weight on us, Vitali and I realized how hard is the life for man on earth," said Nikolayev. "We realized that man experiences enormous stress every second."

Lufkin To Celebrate Birthday

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — What is billed as the biggest birthday party in the history of East Texas comes off tonight but it isn't just one individual being honored.

In a celebration that has been proclaimed statewide, this city among the pines today marks its 80th anniversary with a sell-out banquet fete to climax the occasion.

It was 80 years ago today, Oct. 22, 1890, that Lufkin becane an incorporated city by a vote of 51-26, thus beginning a history that has seen it become the largest city in Central East Texas.

Lufkin has become noted for the many outstanding pioneering events which have taken place here since 1890.

Included have been the invention of the balance-type oil field pumping unit that has become an integral part of the Texas oil industry; and the production of the finest newsprint made from southern pine trees, an event that marked a new era of development in the South's paper industry.

Also, the location of the first malleable iron foundry south of St. Louis; the location of one of the first plants to produce plywood from southern pine trees; and the development of other forest products.

Lufkin also has gained statewide attention as the western gateway to Sam Rayburn Reservoir, the largest man-made reservoir within Texas.

In recognition of Lufkin's anniversary celebration, Gov. Preston Smith has proclaimed this week as Lufkin Week throughout the state.

Blonde Spy In Hiding

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A 26-year-old South African blonde was in hiding today following reports that she spied for Cuba while working at the South African Embassy in Washington.

Johannesburg newspapers said the girl, Jennifer Miles, had connections with the two Cuban diplomats at the United Nations who were recently kicked out of the United States for spying. The London Daily Express said she is also suspected of having connections with the Canadian terrorists who kidnaped and murdered Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte and are holding British diplomat James Cross.

"It is understood," said a Daily Express story from Washington, "that the FBI has the names of more than 100 men dated by Miss Miles while she worked for the Cuban spy organization. The names include those of many junior U.S. officials and diplomats at several embassies in Washington."

Miss Miles worked at the South African Embassy from April 1969 until last month, when she came to Johannesburg and went to work as a secretary at a carpet concern. She quit her job Tuesday and moved out of her Johannesburg apartment Wednesday. Her last enployer said he had "no idea" what had happened to her.

The newspaper Die Transvaler said it had traced her but that she was noncommittal about the reports and asked: "Why don't you speak to Gen. Hendrik van den Bergh?"

Van den Bergh, head of the state security bureau, would say only that "Miss Miles is known to the bureau."

Local newspapers said the young woman, who was born in Kimberley, the diamond center, spent more than a year in Canada studying an underground network that ferries Canadian extremists and members of the Black Power movement to Cuba for training.

While vacationing in Cuba in December 1967, they said, she was recruited to spy for the Cuban directorate of intelligence.

The note was signed:

"Knight of Wands
"Knight of Cups
"Knight of Pentacles
"Knight of Swords."

The pentacle is a five-sided figure associated with witchcraft as a magical or talisman device, in fiction often used to summon up the devil.

The Knights are the four suits of the 78-card tarot deck, used to tell one's fortune depending on which direction the large cards fall.

Tara said the note was withheld initially so as not to alarm citizens.

"The note itself is in the hands of some of the most competent analysts in the state," he said.

Panties Are Booby Trapped

LONDON (AP) — Elaine Williams and her neighbors got so fed up with having their underwear stolen from their wash lines that they have booby trapped some of their scanties.

A pair of panties and a pair of tights were stitched together on the line, and a jam jar was put inside.

"As soon as the thief grabbed them, the jar fell to the ground," Mrs. Williams told the judge Wednesday. "Another neighbor heard the noise, and her husband grabbed him."

Jack Emerson, a 20-year-old salesman, was fined $28.

"I don't know how I came to have the tights," he told a court. "They came at me through the air."

Job Dangerous

BOSTON (AP) — Twenty-six policemen have been killed in the line of duty in the past three months and 650 injured, an official of the International Association of Chiefs of Police says.

Quinn Tamm, the organization's executive director, reported the figures to an international conference of the Public Personnel Association Wednesday.

"Police are killed not because they are individuals, but because they are policemen and represent law enforcement in this country," Tamm said.

Candidates Talk Oil, Business

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ailments of business in general and the oil industry in particular figured in the campaign utterances of Texas' rival candidates for U.S. senator Wednesday.

Democratic nominee Lloyd Bentsen counselled voters to turn thumbs down on the Republican administration in the Nov. 3 general election, declaring, "We'll get more of the same unless we show at the ballot box that we are tired of rising unemployment, high prices and business failures."

Rep. George Bush, the Republican opposing Bentsen, told West Texans he proposes to elininate what he described as unfair artificial pricing of natural gas and bring about changes in policies which "have been restrictive in terms of oil exploration."

Bentsen mentioned at a Fort Worth reception that President Nixon is coming to Texas in behalf of Bush next week and said, "I hope he will explain why he has refused to use standby credit controls and why he has refused even to talk with business and labor leaders about holding down price increases and wage demands ....

"This is no time to give the Republicans a vote of confidence on policies which have put nearly two million Americans out of work without stppping inflation."

Bush, at Midland for a $25-a-plate appreciation dinner and in neighboring Odessa earlier to visit the Permian Basin Oil Show, said, "It's been popular in some quarters to use oil as a whipping boy. The truth is, reserves in Texas aren't what people think ... We simply don't have an adequate supply immediately available .... Imports should continue under a quota system ...."

At another point Bush said he feels the nation is at a crossroads and it is vital that the GOP score gains in the Senate.

"I want to see Sen. (John) Tower (R-Tex.) become chairman of the Banking Committee and see Sen. (William) Fullbright (D-Ark.) become non-chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee," Bush went on.

Gov. Preston Smith, also paying Odessa and Midland visits in his bid for re-election on the Democratic ticket, said he did not intend to return to the University of Houston, where shouting student militants kept him from speaking. He said such a step in effect would "recognize these militants have a voice, which I don't wish to do."

Commenting on remarks by Republican Gubernatorial candidate Paul Eggers that Smith has used state aircraft wrongfully in political campaigning, the governor told questioners, "If he had checked before he talked, he would have found that I discontinued use of the state plane Aug. 1."

Smith picked up an editorial endorsement of his candidacy from the San Antonio Light, which said it was backing him for a second term in view of his record and the fact that "it takes two terms for even the ablest governor to complete an important program."

Eggers, stumping through the Lower Rio Grande Valley, observed at Mercedes that Gov. Smith didn't like his television advertisements and added; "They're the same one I used in 1968 (when Eggers made an unsuccessful race for governor). He didn't pay much attention in 1968, but now he's watching my TV spots."

Reds Scorn Peace Plan

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnamese Communists scorned President Nixon's peace plan today as a "swindle" and a "plot." U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce accused them of "resorting to threadbare propaganda slogans."

"They show clearly the contrast between our respective approaches to these talks," Bruce said at the Paris peace conference, "and which of the two sides at this table truly desires an early and honorable end to the war."

Bruce said the President's proposal to establish a standstill cease-fire "is designed to stop the killing now." The Communists have rejected this and the other four points of the Nixon program.

Texas Food Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Apples, onions and potatoes highlighted offerings at Texas produce markets this week.

A wide variety of apples arrived from most of major growing areas, the Agriculture Department says.

You'll like the tart apples for cooking. Sweeter varieites are usually preferred for eating out of hand.

Grapefruit, Texas oranges and pomegranates were priced lower along with pole beans and green onions. Avocados, pears, carrots, celery, cucumbers, head lettuce and bell peppers cost more.

Texas ruby red grapefruit, Mexican tangerines and Florida cucumbers and eggplant showed up at several markets.

Prices paid Texas farmers for eggs generally were 1 to 3 cents per dozen lower. Current farm prices are 10 to 13 cents per dozen lower than a year ago.

Protein foods on the plentiful foods list include eggs, broilers, pork and dry beans.

Spark Novel Offers Horrible Fascination

THE DRIVER'S SEAT. By Muriel Spark. Knopf. $4.95.

You start feeling uncomfortable on the first page of this brief, 117-page novel by Muriel Spark. You read on, feeling more uncomfortable, but with the same kind of fascination that repeatedly draws your eye to a large blemish on the face of one person in a group waiting on a street corner for a light to change.

At one moment, the woman in the book, Lise, reminds you horribly of yourself in one of your smallest moments. You think you're alone but actually, in some miraculous way you are being televised to the world. You have on something torn and faded, you're picking your nose and thinking nasty little thoughts.

Lise's description, the way no woman wants to look, is first a description only of her mouth. "Her lips are normally pressed together like the ruled line of a balance sheet, a fine and a judging mouth, a detail-warden of a mouth."

Then you think, this isn't meant to be one person. It's meant to be a country of the world, doing things as insane for its own protection as Lise's stuffing her passport down behind the seat of a taxi when she's in a foreign city. She's on a frantic search, bright-colored coattails flying, all the way through the book, for someone to destroy her and in so doing destroy himself.

Who ever knows what a Muriel Spark novel means? There are shadows in the shadows. We only know we never read one we didn't like. We like this one, don't feel uncomfortable any more, after finishing it. Miss Spark was writing about someone else, someone fictional, after all.

Scientists Studying Photosynthesis Process

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — Scientists may be on the road to shattering the belief that light is essential to the origins of new life.

Dr. R. J. Conover of the marine ecology laboratory at the Bedford Institute of Oceanography says there is a physical-chemical process that presumably produces life by enabling existing life to multiply in the absence of light.

"There is a process in the sea that can produce apparently organic particles, strictly chemically and without living organisms being present," he added in an interview.

"It's not supposed to happen but apparently it does," said Dr. L. M. Dickie, director of the laboratory.

The hypothesis is based on evidence gathered from a series of experiments on thousands of analyses collected during an 11-month voyage of the oceanographic vessel Hudson, based at the laboratory.

The experiments consisted of the comparison of the total particle matter in a sample to the specific measurements for living organic matter. These latter measurements are based on an ATP enzyme system.

More than 10,000 ocean samples were collected for chemical analysis and study. Until now it has been thought that light and green plants were essential to produce new life by the process known as photosynthesis.

Scientists at Bedford have questioned this because one of the commonest methods of measuring the rate of photosynthesis at times produce results difficult to explain.

The problen is that photosynthesis seems to occur at times in darkness, something that by all the accepted explanations of the origins of life should not happen.

A possible explanation being considered is that some organisms can produce organic matter in either light or darkness.

Another is that a process called dark fixation takes place by bacterial action in the absence of light.

Whatever the explanation, the Hudson scientists found that in warmer waters photosynthesis is lower than in cold waters but "dark fixation" is greatly increased.

Dickie said the study indicates the total productivity of the seas may be much greater than has been believed.

Up to about five years ago, it had been estimated that the sea was half as productive as the land. Since 70 per cent of the earth's surface is seas, that meant about equal amounts of organic material from land and sea.

Two Sergeants Are Charged

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two Air Force sergeants at Lackland Military Training Center were relieved of duty after they were ordered Wednesday to stand trial on charges of maltreatment of trainees.

Officials said the sergeants charged are S. Sgt. Rolando Sada, 27, of San Antonio and T. Sgt. Jack H. Wilson, 34, of Kenova, W. Va.

An Air Force spokesman said Sada, a nine-year veteran, would face a special court-martial Oct. 28. He is charged with maltreatment of seven airmen.

Wilson, a 15-year veteran, is charged with maltreating 11 airmen. It has not yet been decided if Wilson will face a special court-martial or the more serious general court-martial.

Guard Jake Kupp captains the New Orleans Saints.

Cowboys In Dire Straits

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Things are going so bad for the Dallas Cowboys they may not even have to worry about their annual championship playoff collapse.

"Right now it's just a matter of holding our head above water," said coach Tom Landry of his crippled and confused club which took a 54-13 licking from Minnesota last Sunday.

The crumbling of Dallas' once high-octane passing game has Landry worried.

"Our passing hasn't shown any spark," Landry said Wednesday. "We need to shake things up."

And Landry is doing that before the Cowboys take on Kansas City Sunday. He has installed Bob Hayes as first string wide receiver. Hayes, a former All-pro, was demoted to second-string status at the start of the season in favor of second-year man, Dennis Homan.

Hayes is playing out his option and this has not set well with Cowboy management. But Landry has decided Hayes gives a defensive secondary more problems than Homan.

"I don't think any of our wide receivers are playing exceptionally well," Landry said.

The Cowboy quarterback problem is something else. Craig Morton, the No. 1 signal caller, has a sore knee and has yet to prove effective. Roger Staubach, the No. 2 quarterback, has a staph infection caused by an Astroturf burn on his right arm and may not be available Sunday. This means Dallas will more than likely activate third-stringer Bob Belden from the taxi squad.

Landry is worried that St. Louis, which holds a one-game lead over the Cowboys in the Eastern Division of the National Football Conference, may be out of sight before Dallas can get rolling.

"The way St. Louis is going it might take around a 10-4 to get into the playoffs," Landry said. "St. Louis has a lot of momentum."

Momentum. That's something the Cowboys used to take for granted.

Pistons Take Fifth Straight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pistons are really firing in Detroit—those basketball Pistons.

Sparked by Dave Bing's 35 points and Jimmy Walker's 25, unbeaten Detroit rolled to its fifth straight National Basketball Association victory Wednesday night by edging Boston 121-118.

The Pistons broke a 112-112 tie on baskets by Bing and Walker and held the lead.

In other NBA games, Los Angeles trounced Philadelphia 141-117, Atlanta edged San Francisco 102-100, Baltimore topped Cincinnati 117-105 and Seattle trimmed Phoenix 110-106.

In the American Basketball Association, Utah walloped Pittsburgh 140-108, Virginia downed Kentucky 112-97, Indiana took Carolina 125-113 and Denver trounced Texas 133-115.

Los Angeles sent Philadelphia to its first defeat in five games as Jerry West scored 37 points and Wilt Chamberlain poured in 26 and grabbed 22 rebounds. Billy Cunningham led Philadelphia with 22 points, one more than Jim Washington.

Jim Davis came up with two steals and a rebound in the closing seconds to help Atlanta past San Francisco. Davis finished with 12 points, 13 rebounds, four steals and four blocked shots. Walt Hazzard led Atlanta scoring with 29 points, while Jeff Mullins topped San Francisco with 19.

Baltimore sent winless Cincinnati to its third straight loss with a 35-point fourth quarter. Gus Johnson finished with 27 points and Jack Marin 26 points for Baltimore. Norm Van Lier led Cincinnati with 17.

Seattle's Bob Rule scored 25 points including the two free throws that broke a 104-104 tie and paved the way to the Supersonics' triumph. Greg Howard of Phoenix topped all scorers with 26 points.

Center Len Hauss Captains the Washington Redskins.

Lou Piniella, Kansas City outfielder from Tampa, hit .279 in his first 145 American League games. Last season in 144 games he batted .301.

Royal Respects Rice Owls

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) —Texas coach Darrell Royal gave his second-ranked Longhorns a little lecture Wednesday on what can happen to teams who go to Houston expecting an easy time from the Rice Owls.

Royal-coached teams have gone to Houston six times and are 3-2-1 against the Owls.

In fact, only once during Royal's tenure has Texas been ahead at halftime.

Rice tied Texas 14-14 in 1962 and knocked the 'Horns out of a No. 1 national ranking. Texas has won the last three in Houston—but the only time the Longhorns were ahead at half was in 1966 when they led 14-0 and eventually won 14-6.

Texas won 38-14 in 1968 but faced a 7-7 halftime deadlock. In 1964, Texas won 6-3 and the score was 3-3 at halftime. In 1958, Texas trailed 13-0 at halftime and lost 34-7.

Royal gave this little history lesson to his squad and said "It's happened far too often not to be concerned about."

Cotton Bowl Courting Begins

DALLAS (AP) — Cotton Bowl officials will be out courting potential guest teams this weekend at the LSU-Auburn, Nebraska-Oklahoma State, Air Force-Boston College and Tennessee-Florida games.

Undefeated Notre Dame, beaten 21-17 by Texas last year in the Cotton Bowl, also is on the Cotton Bowl list. The Fighting Irish are idle Saturday.

Notre Dame athletic director Edward "Moose" Krause is on record as saying "I'm certain our board of trustees and our faculty athletic board will entertain the idea of a bowl game."

Lamesa Still No. 7

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pflugerville is back. Or should it be, Pflugerville is still there.

The powerful Panthers appeared as the No. 10 team in the Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll this week in Class A.

They finally won the approval of the AP panel after winning six straight games and scoring 227 points and holding the opposition to 36.

The mighty Panthers drew national attention in the early 1960s when they set a national record of 55 straight football victories when they were playing a Class B schedule.

The tiny Central Texas school, enrollment 180, has since moved up into Class A but they're still winning football games. They were 8-2 last season.

The top ranked teams in the AP poll continued to roll up overwhelming leads after easy victories last week.

Wichita Falls again poll 19 of 20 first place votes for a near-perfect 199 points in Class AAAA. Ennis retained its Class AAA lead, Iowa Park was No. 1 in Class AA and Poth rolled on as the Class A leader.

Corpus Christi Miller, which may have trouble getting out of its district, broke into the top 10 in Class AAAA for the first time this year. The Bucs replaced San Antonio Lee as the No. 10 team.

Plano was the newcomer in Class AAA, replacing Fort Worth Brewer, a 15-0 loser to Azle last week.

In Class AA, Tomball dropped from the top 10 despite a whopping 60-14 victory over Waller and was replaced by Friendswood as No. 9.

Quarry, Clay Exchange Words

ATLANTA (AP) — "I'm the best, that's all, I'm the champ," said Muhammad Ali.

"Until I hit you on the chin," said Jerry Quarry.

"I've beaten them all — Liston, Patterson," said Ali.

"You're fighting me now, baby," said Quarry.

"All I want to say is ... I'll see you fight night. When you beat me, you'll be the greatest fighter in the world," said Ali.

"That's what I'm trying to say," said Quarry.

"Bring a slab," said Ali. "You'll need it."

That was the way it went Wednesday as Ali, former world heavyweight champion formerly known as Cassius Clay, and Quarry, current No. 1 contender in the heavyweight division, underwent simultaneous physical examinations for the 15-round meeting Monday night.

Two Negro doctors administered the physical, prompting Ali to shout, "Soul doctors for a change."

"You'll need more help than that," said Quarry.

Ali, undefeated champion who was stripped of his title because of a conviction on charges of refusing to report for the draft, weighed 210 for his physical exam.

He expectes to be 208 for the fight, his first in three and a half years. He weighed 212 in March, 1967, when he knocked out Zora Folley in his last ring appearance.

Quarry, a 26-year-old body puncher, weighed 198 Wednesday. Quarry has 37 victories, four losses and four draws in his professional career. He has scored 23 knockouts.

Gatewood Good End

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Gatewood is bringing back memories of Leon Hart and challenging national records as the ace catcher for Notre Dame.

The 6-foot-2, 205-pound junior, favorite target of quarterback Joe Theismann, has caught 44 passes in the first five games and is averaging 8.8 catches per game.

Only three players in major college history have finished the season with a better average—and one of these did it twice.

Howard Twilley of Tulsa led the country in 1964 with a 9.5 average and in 1965 with 13.4. Glenn Neltzer of Wichita State averaged 9.1 catches a game in 1966 and Jerry Jendren of Idaho 9.5 in 1969.

The latest figures released by the National Collegiate Sports Services show that Gatewood has accounted for 679 yards and five touchdowns in his team's five winning games.

In 1949, Hart, a 6-5, 260-pound giant, won the Heisman Trophy as a Notre Dame end. However, he caught only 19 passes all season in ten games.

Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian has labeled Gatewood "Tom the Swinging Gate." Gatewood has been used as split end, tight end, slot back, and flanker.

Ernie Jennings, ace receiver of the Air Force, plays split end, slot back, tailback and flanker. He leads the nation in yards per catch—21.9 yards. He also leads in touchdown catches, nine.

Dick Adams of Miami, Ohio, is the new kickoff-return leader with a 30.8 average. Bob Wicks of Utah State tops the list in punt returns, averaging 20.5 yards.

Justine Lanne of Arizona leads in interception returns. Ed Marinaro of Cornell is the all-purpose running leader with 180.3 yards per game in all running categories.

Fire Burns Racetrack

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Fire raged through a barn at Garden State racetrack early today and a track official said 21 thoroughbreds were known killed. He said more bodies might be found in the rubble of the large building.

Terrified horses raced through the area interfering with efforts to fight the blaze which started shortly before midnight.

The official, John Medala, chief security officer, said he did not know which horses were lost.

Other track personnel said about 30 horses were rescued from the stable, known as Barn D. Firemen said rain reduced the toll of horses.

Mike Gonnella, a hot walker responsible for handling the horses after races and workouts, said the fire started in the middle of the barn and spread to the sides very quickly.

"They (the horses) didn't burn, they suffocated. The heat was so bad," Gonnella said. "We tried to get in there and all we were inhaling was ashes and tar."

A man who identified himself as Jim Bowdren, an assistant trainer, said he had to break down a door to save himself. He said he lost six horses.

Bernie Perkens, who said he was a trainer for Indian Mills Stables, Indian Mills, N.J., said all nine of the stable's horses died.

Housing Permit Rises Indicate Building Boom

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Judging by a sharp rise in the number of housing permits being issued, the long forecast boom in residential construction may already have begun.

Early this year the rate at which permits were issued dropped to only 90 per cent of the annual rates of more than a decade earlier. By August, this rate had rebounded all the way to 112 per cent of the 1957-1959 average, still low but rising vigorously.

The number of units on which work already has begun also is rising, and although still near or below 1.5 million a year, a reliable study just issued projects a rise to a 1.7 million annual rate in 1971.

This study, by the F. W. Dodge firm, bases its estimate on a growing availability of mortgage money, plus a huge backlog of demand that has built up over the past few years of tight money and high interest rates.

The turnabout was bound to come. Many thousands of young couples—products of the marriage boom that followed World War II—have moved into the housing market.

At the same time, a considerable amount of housing was deteriorating. Estimates by the National Association of Home Builders indicate that one-half of one per cent of existing housing is demolished each year.

Combine just these two factors with a deep recession in housing construction, the result primarily of a diversion of capital to areas of the economy where higher rates could be earned; and you realize how critical is the shortage.

Another way of measuring the demand is the startling increase in sales of mobile homes. In just one year, from 1968 to 1969, this industry expanded from sales of 318,000 units to nearly 413,000.

There was a clearly understandable reason for this. Mobile homes are inexpensive. With housing prices rising through the roof, they represented the only affordable housing for many people.

Moreover, such homes could be purchased without many of the financial blocks encountered in obtaining conventional home mortgages. Banks were much more favorably inclined to grant short-term loans at high interest rates on mobile homes than long-term mortgages and low rates for conventional homes.

In short, the demand for housing is there, as can be demonstrated in many ways. And now that the construction industry is beginning to attack the problem, many people are inclined to think the worst will be over in a decade.

Demonstration Interrupted

BOSTON (AP) — Eileen Gibbons showed up in front of Police Station 10 Tuesday carrying a sign reading, "God Bless Our Police and Firefighters."

Mrs. Gibbons was there only a few minutes before policemen interrupted her demonstration —to shake her hand.

She said she represented 20 neighborhood women who decided several weeks ago that something should be done to show support for public servants.

Museum Official Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — The FBI says the vice president of the Denver Art Museum Board of Trustees wore a wig and false mustache when he came here and attempted to sell two paintings that someone had stolen from the art collection of a friend.

William Van Voast Warren Jr., the museum official, was not charged with the theft of the paintings but with interstate transportation of stolen property, the FBI said Tuesday.

Agents said Warren, 38, attempted to sell "Les Colletes," a Renoir oil, and "Tahitian Lady," a charcoal drawing by Gauguin, to an unidentified art gallery. The two works were valued at $50,000 by the FBI.

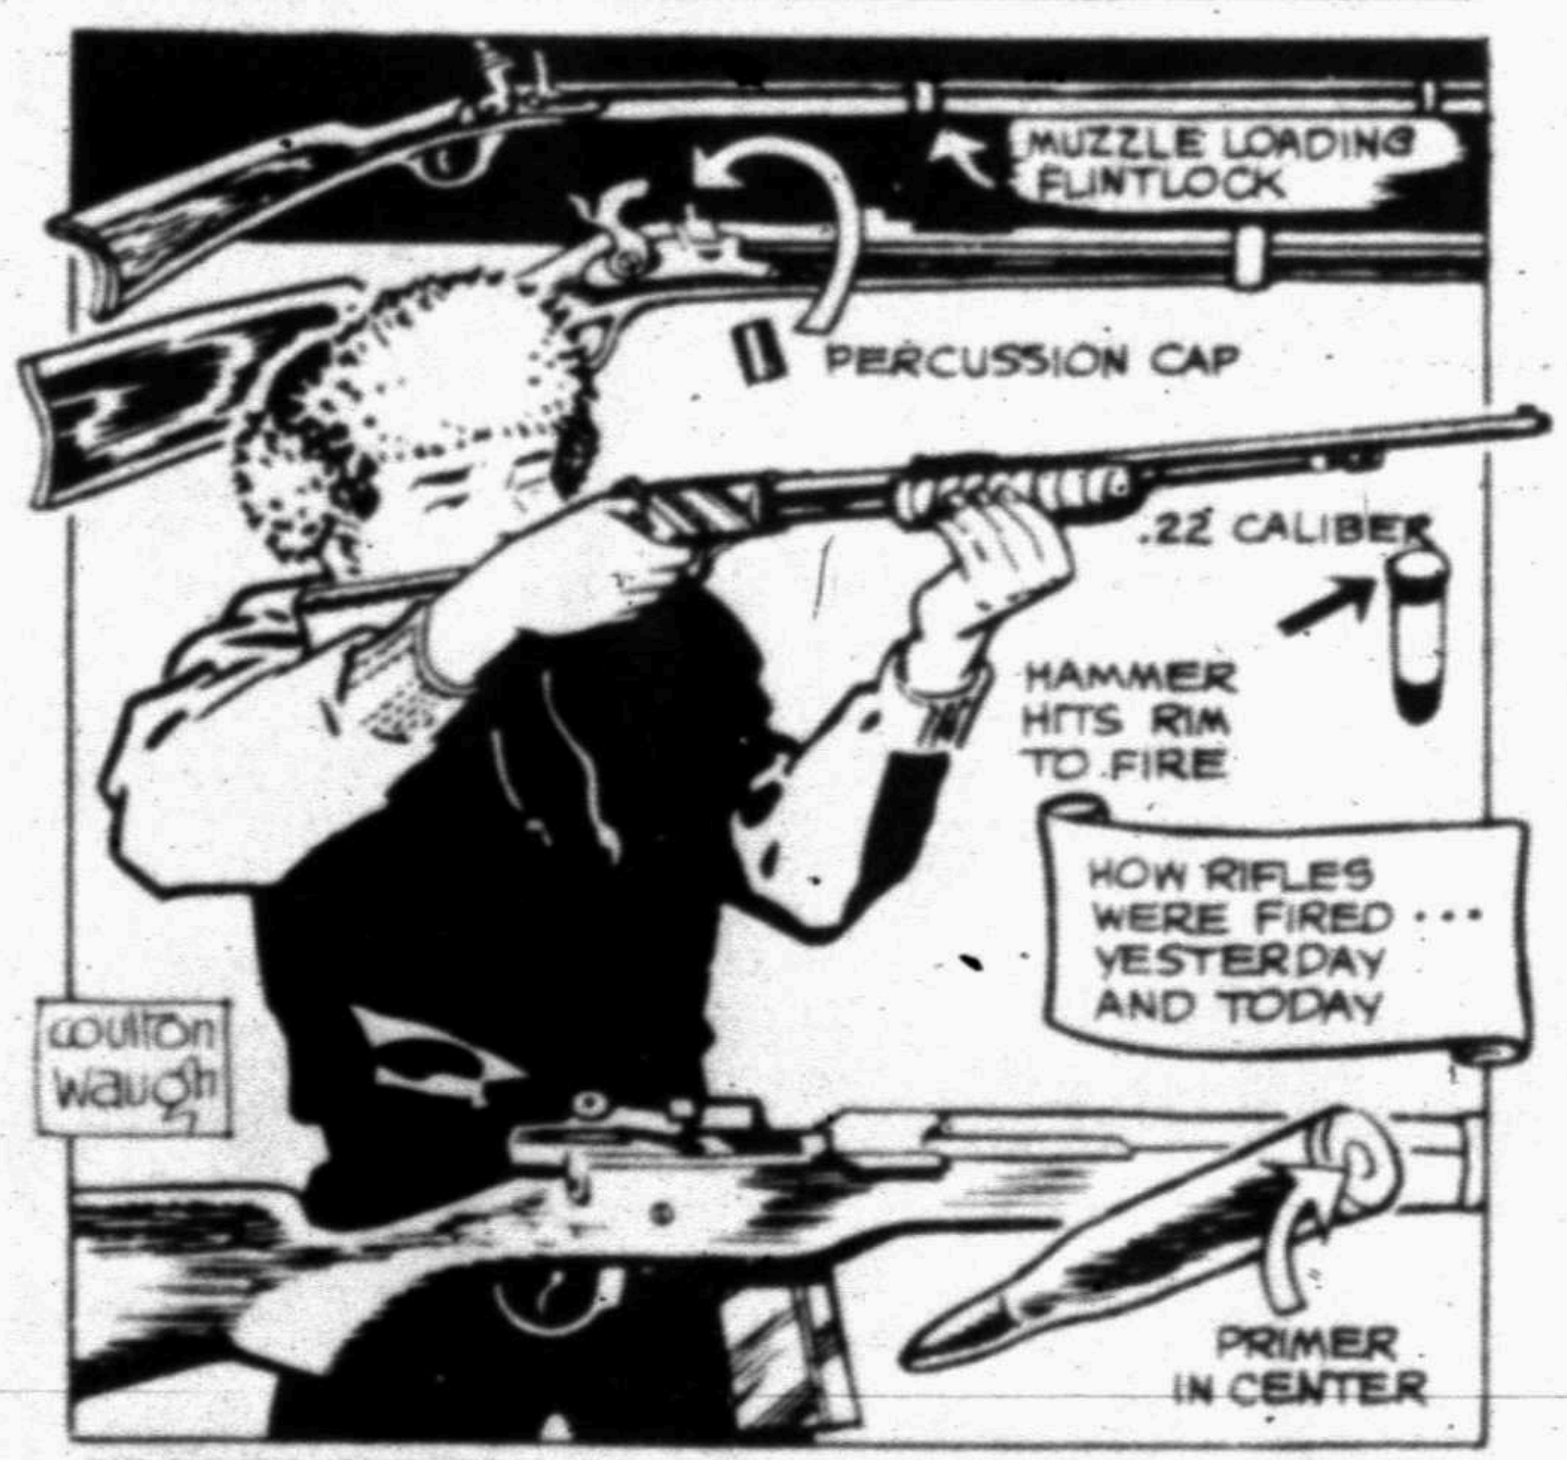
But the gallery owner recognized the works as among those taken in a $500,000 art theft from collector Montgomery Ritchie of Larkspur, Colo. The other works were recovered in Denver Monday night.

The FBI said Warren, graduated from Harvard in 1951, now heads a Denver feed brokerage firm. He lives with his wife and three children in Denver where he has served as a museum trustee since 1961.

Warren, wearing the wig and mustache, was arrested Monday night at the Woodbury Hotel where he had registered under the name, George E. Parker, the FBI said.

Arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp, Warren was released in his own custody Tuesday after he waived a hearing and agreed to return to Denver voluntarily.

Junior Editors Quiz on GUNPOWDER



MUZZLE LOADING FLINTLOCK
PERCUSSION CAP
.22 CALIBER
HAMMER HITS RIM TO FIRE
HOW RIFLES WERE FIRED ... YESTERDAY AND TODAY
PRIMER IN CENTER
Coulton Waugh

QUESTION: How is gunpowder exploded in a rifle?

* * *

ANSWER: With old fashioned guns (top of picture) you put the powder in from the muzzle end of the barrel and rammed a round bullet down on top of this. In the flintlock (top) a flint strikes steel, making a spark. This ignites powder in the flash pan, the flash passing through a small hole and setting off the main powder charge. In 1805, the Scotchman Forsyth discovered a compound, mostly potassium chlorate, which could be made to explode when struck by a hammer. This was soon used for rifles in the percussion cap, a small metal cap containing the compound which was slipped over a tube in a gun's lock connecting with the main charge. A falling hammer exploded the compound and fired the gun. Later, as cartridges were developed, they were also exploded by using this compound. Jerry is aiming his .22 rifle. In the cartridges for this, the explosive compound is in the rim, and the firing pin of his gun will strike against the rim and fire the rifle. With larger guns, such as the M-14 U.S. Army rifle, the gun's firing pin hits a primer in the center of the cartridge, which contains the compound.

Conclusion Jumping With Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Absent-minded husbands usually have nagging wives. The faraway look they get in their eyes is an attempt to escape from incessant marital scolding.

If I were going to hide out from the police, I think I'd go and watch a weight lifting contest. They'd never think of looking there. The only fans at such affairs are close relatives of the contestants or former weight lifters recovering from hernias.

Half the temper outbursts that occur in the forenoon between office workers are caused by the fact their stomachs are empty of anything except coffee. If they all ate an egg, some bacon and toast for breakfast, they wouldn't feud so much. Nobody feels like starting a war when his stomach is full.

Never marry a girl who, when she goes to the zoo, spends the longest time staring at the reptile cage.

You can usually tell whether a man lives in or out of town by opening the bottom of his desk. If it contains a pair of overshoes or boots, you can bet he's a suburbanite.

After losing a quarrel with your wife, you can always get even with her by bragging in public about what a good cook your mother was.

What an intelligent world we'd have tomorrow if only the teen-agers of today would spend as many hours studying as they now spend admiring their hair in the mirror!

Women are always good for a laugh, and about the best one you can get from them now is watching them struggle in and out of a taxicab while wearing a tight maxidress.

Everybody in a studio audience breaks into a chuckle if a member of it tells the program emcee that he hails from Brooklyn. Professional comedians call this phenomenon "the law of K," which holds that all towns with the letter "K" in them are automatically funny for reasons unknown. Examples: Hoboken, Keokuk, Kalamazoo, and Kokomo.

What about Peoria, often jested at in the days when vaudeville was in flower? Well, according to the rule, its mention would have been an even bigger giggle getter if it were spelled "Peorkia."

An optimist is a guy who looks at life through rose-colored glasses; a realist is one who refuses to wear more than a rose-colored monocle.

Capote In Jail

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Author Truman Capote is in jail today, serving a three-day sentence for contempt of court. He also has been fined $500.

Wearing jail denims, he had entered a one-man cell at the Orange County jail Wednesday evening.

"He didn't seem very happy," said one jailer. "He looked as disinterested as possible," said another.

The 46-year-old author of "In Cold Blood" and "Breakfast at Tiffany's" is to be released about 10 a.m. Friday.

He was sentenced Monday to five days in jail for failing to appear in Superior Court June 28 to testify in the penalty phase of Joseph B. Morse's murder trial. Two of the days were suspended on payment of the fine.

Capote had been subpoenaed to testify about an interview he once had with Morse, who subsequently was twice sentenced to death for killing his mother and sister and—while in jail—a fellow inmate.

Texan Says Panel's Smut Report Sound

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas member of the Congressional Commission on Obscenity and Pornography believes that once the initial hue-and-cry dies down the American people will find the commission's report a sound basis for dealing with the problem of obscene movies and publications.

And Dr. G. William Jones, assistant professor of broadcast-film art at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, says that once lawmakers have digested and understand the 879-page report they will have a different attitude toward.

Referring to the overwhelming vote by which senators this past week censured the report, Dr. Jones said, "The report is based on research and facts for understanding and possible action. It was not a collection of opinions for their acceptance or rejection."

Dr. Jones was the only Texan on the 18-member commission of lawyers, judges, psychiatrists, clergymen and communications media representatives made the two-year 2 million study. Only three members dissented in the final report.

In creating the commission, Congress directed it to study present laws and regulations, ascertain methods of distribution of obscene and pornographic material, ascertain its effects on society and also on crime and other anti-social behavior, and to make recommendations for legislation and other action "without in any way interfering with constitutional rights."

The commission has made principal recommendations: a massive sex education program for all age groups; strictly-enforced regulations forbidding the distribution or display of lewd material to minors; and the repeal of all laws prohibiting distribution of materials on sex to adults.

Jones says that research conducted under the direction of the commission revealed that sex criminals and people with sexual maladjustments were those who had less and late exposure to "good and true sex information." The commission urges sex education at the local level in home, church and school that presents "sex as a normal part of life" and prepares youths for marriage and family. The commission found that those who had received factual information about sex early found less attraction in pornography than those who had not.

"Pornography lives on ignorance and repression," Dr. Jones said.

Admitting that the most difficult task of the commission was to draw the line between pornography and "erotic realism" which has educational, literary or artistic value, Dr. Jones says he believes the commission succeeded in doing so in what he calls the "air tight" model statutes for local and state governments in prohibiting the distribution of pornographic materials to minors.

The controversial recommendation is the one that would abolish all laws regulating distribution of sex materials to adults. Dr. Jones said this recommendation was based on research which showed there was no evidence that pornography caused crime or anti-social behavior.

Louisiana Is Losing Ground

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Louisiana will be almost 500 square miles smaller by the year 2000 unless measures are taken to end the erosion of its Mississippi river delta land, a scientist said Wednesday.

Dr. Sherwood M. Gagliano of the Coastal Studies Institute at Louisiana State University said that erosion by the Gulf of Mexico is chewing away at the delta lands at the rate of 16.5 square miles a year. And the rate may be accelerating.

Unless measures are taken to halt it, he said, the shore of the Gulf will continue to creep northward. In 30 years, he said, about 495 square miles of land, and perhaps more, could be erroded away.

The scientist said the cause of the errosion are levees built to prevent flooding and to keep the Mississippi river in a central channel. This, he said, cut down on the flow of water through side channels. The delta of these side channels, built up over thousands of years, is being washed away because the flow of water in the channels has been altered.

"Furthermore," he said, "the modern delta is nearing the edge of the continental shelf and most transported sediments (which create deltas) are now disappearing" off the continental shelf.

Louisiana has already lost huge chunks of land, he said, and for at least the last 25 to 30 years the coastline has been creeping northward at several points.

Dr. Gagliano said the land loss could be halted through carefully planned rerouting of part of the river.

"We believe that controlled diversions, which will create new subdeltas, are part of the solution to the environmental problem of the Louisiana coast," he said.

Studies of natural subdeltas show that the growth rate was [illegible] square miles per year, using five percent of the river's flow.

"Seven potential sites for the creation of new subdeltas have been identified and evaluated," he said. "Three are east of the Mississippi and four to the west."

"Our data show that the river is capable of building 12.3 square miles of new land per year if diversions were to be initiated along the lower reaches," he said. "This is about 75 per cent of the current net annual land loss of 16.5 square miles per year."

Dr. Gagliano said the subdeltas would also create more estuaries which would benefit fish and wildlife.

Chenoweth Wins Fight By Errors

FORT WORTH (AP) — An unintentional flick of the wrist Wednesday and, for a change, Edwin J. Chenoweth won a fight with the law.

Chenoweth, 47, stood trial before Dist. Judge) Byron Matthews on a charge of felony theft by false pretext. He offered only token defense—but the record from now on will show he is not guilty.

Jurors returned about 4:30 p.m. with a signed verdict form, which the foreman handed to Matthews.

Matthews said he looked at the verdict while bailiffs brought the defendant back in the courtroom from a hold-over cell. It read: "not guilty."

"I was hot. I just got upset that the jury had returned that kind of verdict with that kind of evidence," Matthews said.

Matthews informed the jury that Chenoweth had an extensive police record, including several prior felony convictions, and also stands accused for more felonies in Tarrant County. "I just was about to eat them out good," Matthews said.

The jury protested to Matthews that they all believed Chenoweth was guilty and the foreman then realized he signed the wrong place on the verdict form.

"I committed an error by telling them about his record," said Matthews, adding that the verdict will stand "as it was entered."

Testimony showed that Chenoweth bought an automobile here June 30 with a $750 check. The account against which Chenoweth drew the check had been closed earlier in the year because of continious overdrafts, further testimony revealed.

Even though Chenoweth won Wednesday's round, local prosecutors say they are not through with him.

Chenoweth remained in county jail Wednesday night in lieu of $2,500 bond on yet another theft charge.

An assistant district attorney said police will file more theft charges against the man within a few days and pointed out that he can be indicted for being a habitual criminal because of his prior record, which dates back to 1943.

'Miracle Baby' Proves A Hoax

By FRANK N. HAWKINS JR.
Associated Press Writer

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A woman who claimed to be 18 months pregnant with a fetus that could recite the Koran aloud perpetrated a hoax on President Suharto, his wife and other Indonesian leaders, informed sources said today.

A team of medical experts examined Mrs. Tjut Zahara, 22, at Jakarta's central hospital Wednesday and found she had been feigning pregnancy by distending her stomach muscles, the informants said. However, the doctors found indications she may have given birth sometime recently.

After the examination, Mrs. Zahara was taken to a secret location for psychiatric examination, the sources said.

Antara, the official news agency, reported only that "parents of the miracle baby will be investigated by the attorney general's office as a step in clearing up the sensational fuss." The report did not mention the doctors' findings.

Mrs. Zahara, daughter of a Jakarta businessman, began claiming a year and a half ago that she was pregnant and that her unborn baby talked to her, reciting passages of the Koran and speaking its own thoughts.

Several times, including once in Parkistan, doctors examined her and declared she was pregnant.

Hundreds of persons said they heard the baby talk. One Indonesian newsman made a tape recording of quotations from the Koran apparently coming from the woman's body. But a foreign newsman who interviewed Mrs. Zahara reported that she left the room between the baby's speeches, and he speculated she was changing the reel on a tape recorder strapped between her legs.

President and Mrs. Suharto had the woman to the presidential palace three times and were photographed with her. Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, president of the People's Provisional Consultative Council and one of the nation's most respected men, prayed alongside the "baby." Foreign Minister Adam Malik, after a visit with the woman, said: "I believe in miracles because I believe in God."

Recently Mrs. Zahara said she was going to West Germany to be examined by doctors there and then to Mecca, where she said her baby had asked to be born. Malik gave her a letter saying she was "touring the world at the request of her unborn baby" and asking foreigners to extend their hospitality to her.

Kidnaped Baby Is Recovered

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 3-month-old boy has been recovered unharmed in a Philadelphia apartment four days after he was taken from a Richmond, Va., hospital by a woman who posed as his mother.

A 20-year-old woman, Anne Delores Taylor of Philadelphia, was arrested and charged with kidnaping, the FBI said.

The FBI said the unnamed baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Robinson of Richmond, was taken to a hospital here.

The woman, who the FBI said is also known as Andrena Taylor, was held in lieu of $20,000 bail pending a preliminary hearing before a U.S. commissioner.

The FBI did not say what the motive for the kidnaping was.

Richmond police disclosed the abduction from the Medical College of Virginia Hospital earlier Wednesday night, saying the incident had been kept secret to assist the investigation.

Police said a woman signed the mother's name to a release form Saturday and took the child from the hospital.

The abduction was discovered Sunday when the real mother came to pick up her son. The baby was born prematurely July 27 and had been kept at the hospital until he weighed 5 pounds.

Sailors Gripe To "CAPT"

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Sailors with gripes dial "CAPT" to reach the captain at Miramar Naval Air Station and talk it over.

By Wednesday, the end of one week's operation, 50 calls had been made to Capt. Alfred W. Chandler's office.

A young man's voice told Chandler that a one-way sign put up by a civilian construction company after a road-resurfacing job pointed the wrong way. Chandler got it turned.

The complaints of others have prompted Chandler to order street lights installed in family housing areas and to set up a center where married men can change from civilian clothes to uniforms.

A recording device allows two hours of gripes every day.

"It's working beautifully," says Chandler. "We've already squashed some rumors and solved a dozen problems."

Borlaug: Overpopulation Our Biggest Problem

By KEVIN M. KELLEGHAN
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The American agronomist awarded the 1970 Nobel Peace Prize says the "green revolution" for which he is being honored can buy only 20 more years for a world faced with overpopulation.

"The unrealistic attitudes of the world toward unreasonable population growth is the biggest problem we face now," Dr. Norman E. Borlaug told a news conference Wednesday night. "We should multiply in relation to the increase in the world's production of food."

The 57-year-old Iowan said, "Governments in developing countries must stimulate agriculture while at the same time balancing industrial growth. If agriculture is given its fair share, there may still be hope in this century."

Borlaug, named for the $80,000 prize Wednesday, has made harvests more bountiful in hungry countries through development of a dwarf wheat strain that gives very high yields. The term "green revolution" refers to the use of improved grains and farming techniques to produce larger crops.

He said that before he introduced his wheat improvement program in Pakistan, a rumor circulated there that his variety would make the women of the country sterile.

"Oh, if that were only true!" said Borlaug. "Then we would really merit the Nobel Peace Prize. The green revolution cannot cure all the ills, but it is a step forward. The problem is simply that too many people are coming on the scene too fast."

Borlaug came to Mexico 26 years ago to work on improved wheat strains with the Mexican Ministry of Agriculture and the Rockefeller Foundation, of which he is a director. He heads a team of scientists from 17 nations experimenting with new types of grains at the Rockefeller Agricultural Institute.

"You can solve the pollution problems, you can reduce the smog by one-fourth," he continued. "But if you don't solve the population explosion, none of the other solutions are going to be very rosy."

Borlaug is the 15th American to win or share the peace prize since it was first given in 1901 by the foundation established by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite.
