Inflation swells poverty in America

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — More Americans slid into poverty last year than any time in the 17 years the government has been keeping track, the Census Bureau said Saturday.

The bureau blamed the 2.5-million increase in poverty-stricken people on the whipsaw effect of high inflation in the midst of recession, together with widespread exhaustion of unemployment benefits last year.

Despite an $818 increase in median family income last year, to $13,720 a year, inflation dragged the buying power of that income down to the lowest level in five years in 1975, the Census Bureau said.

The drop worked out to 2.6 per cent and followed a 3.5 per cent drop in 1974. Buying power by that measure has now shrunk four of the last six years.

For the number of people in poverty, it was the second increase in a row and only the third since the bureau began keeping such statistics in 1959. The increases in 1974 and in 1970 were both about 1.3 million.

The Census Bureau said 25.9 million persons lived in families that were below the government-defined poverty level of $5,500 for a nonfarm family of four. The poverty level was up, due to inflation, from $5,038 in 1974.

The number of people in poverty was the largest since the 27.8 million in 1967, when the poverty level was $3,410.

The 1975 figure represented 12 per cent, or nearly one out of every eight persons. That was up from 11.6 per cent the year before and was the highest since the 12.6 per cent in 1970.

The poverty income is set by computing the cost of a basic nutritionally adequate diet and multiplying that by three, based on the government finding that poor people spend onethird of their income on food. The 1975 level works out to $106 per week.

By comparison, the average wage of factory workers in mid-1975 was $163 per week. The minimum federal wage of $2.30 an hour represents $92 for a 40-hour week, and the average payment to retired workers on Social Security last year was $206 per month.

The new figures appeared destined to provide more fuel for the presidential election contest. Democrat Jimmy Carter has made President Ford's handling of the economy a key issue for attack.

And both candidates have offered tax reforms that would provide relief to lower and moderate income taxpayers at the expense of upper bracket families. Ford has drawn the upper limit of "moderate" at $35,000.

Carter has avoided setting a firm limit, although his mention of the median or mean family income as the dividing line between higher and lower income families prompted the Republicans to accuse him of mapping a tax increase for half of all families.

After mentioning mean or median income, Carter then said he did not know what breakpoint he would use for shifting the tax burden.

Median income is the level at which half of the nation's 56.2 million families had smaller incomes and the other half had larger incomes. The mean is total family income divided by the number of families. Mean income was $15,546 last year.

Fashionable weekend

Man-tailored blazers, strapless evening dresses, tunics, hoods and soft blouses were among the fashion highlights of Autumncade of Fashion presented Saturday in M.K. Brown Auditorium Heritage Room by the 20th Century Club as a benefit for its scholarship fund. Behrman's and Gilberts provided outfits for about 25 models; hair was by "a cut above." The fashions, modeled here by Barbra Trammell, top; Olivia Greenhouse, left, and Marion Stroup, right, included velvet, ultrasuede, taffetas and wool fabrics.

Kissinger-Vorster squeeze forced Rhodesia pact

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A closely coordinated squeeze play by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and South Africa's John Vorster has emerged among the chief factors that forced Rhodesia's white leaders to yield power to the black majority.

An AP news analysis

The secretary of state and the South African prime minister also made deliberate use of several facts of life in a skillful exercise to bring about the surrender of the independence Premier Ian Smith's regime defiantly claimed 11 years ago.

These conditions, according to U.S. officials who traveled with Kissinger on his 12-day peace safari through sub-Saharan Africa, included:

—The ever-escalating guerrilla campaign mounted by black Rhodesian nationalists who have been armed by the Russians and are being trained by Cuban instructors in neighboring Mozambique.

—The ever-present likelihood that 10,000 Cuban fighting troops still in Angola could intervene if any white Rhodesian counter-offensive made things too hot for the Zimbabwe (Rhodesian) People's Army known as ZIPA.

—The unanimous intelligence assessment by American, British, South African, French, and moderate black African authorities that Smith, without outside help, could not break through the tightening ring of forces closing in on his landlocked country. This assessment was passed on to him by Vorster in the weeks and months preceding Kissinger's shuttle.

—The promise of a big international trust fund, of up to $2 billion, to reconcile black ambitions with white fears for the future of Rhodesia. Essentially it aims to avert a white exodus.

A State Department official stressed Saturday that in setting out to work with Vorster for a Rhodesian settlement Kissinger made it amply clear this in no way would prejudice the American right to disavow and assail South Africa's racial policies. Kissinger has said publicly several times these policies are unjust and unfair and should be changed.

Nevertheless he has, for the time being, set aside any serious attempt to press Vorster to make major changes. One possible explanation is that Vorster may be planning this anyway so is using the time he has bought for himself by helping to stabilize the Rhodesian situation.

The Kissinger-Vorster squeeze play on Smith, the secretary himself indicated to reporters in London Friday, could not have worked without British help. He stressed it also required the closest possible coordination with the presidents of those four nearby African states which have concerned themselves most with Rhodesia.

The four are Zambia, Tanzania, Mozambique and Botswana. A fifth, Angola, has been displaying hardly any interest in Rhodesia but has focused mainly on the Namibian (South West African) problem.

Kissinger, through Vorster and backed by the South African, since he visited the subcontinent last March, has conveyed a number of truths to Smith. Essentially they amounted to a simple but stark message: "The game is up."

Vorster, according to South African and U.S. informants, augmented Kissinger's messages with arguments of his own. With his own country gripped by rising racial tensions internally, the South African wanted to keep his northern salient as free as possible from turning into a scene of turmoil.

It still is not clear if Rhodesia's sharply divided black nationalists can unite long enough to accept the power being offered them.

While Joshua Nkomo, leader of a moderate faction of the African National Council, is considered a likely candidate to lead a black Rhodesia, he has several rivals.

Kissinger promised Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith that the guerrilla war would end, and Smith set that as one of the conditions for a capitulation by the whites. But it is not known if the guerrillas, alienated from the black political leaders, will stop their attacks while a transition government is formed.

Tax cut may be 'needed'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional Joint Economic Committee says another tax cut may be in order next year to pump up the economy.

While Republicans and Democrats on the panel agreed, in a midyear economic report issued Saturday, that further tax reduction may be needed, they disagreed sharply on the role that federal spending should play in economic recovery.

The Democrats, headed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, chairman of the committee, said that holding spending at current levels would restrict economic growth.

But the Republicans, echoing President Ford, said spending above current levels "would be destructive of the private sector's ability to continue creating new jobs at the high rate experienced in the past year."

The Democratic proposals on taxes were not specific, and mentioned a further tax cut only as one possible course of action next year.

On the other hand, the Republicans, in a summary prepared by Rep. Clarence Brow of Ohio, urged enactment of Ford's proposed increase in personal exemptions, from the present $750 to $1,000 per person.

The GOP went a step further in calling for tying tax rates to the cost of living. This "indexing" plan would keep a person's taxes level even though inflation pushed him into a higher tax bracket.

The economic prescriptions offered by the Republican and Democratic members of the committee sounded like a replay of last week's debate between Ford and Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter.

Carter tries to placate Texans

DALLAS (AP) — Jimmy Carter spent much of his brief trip to Texas trying to smooth feathers ruffled by his magazine remarks on Lyndon Johnson, but the Democratic presidential candidate did manage to hit hard on those themes that carried him through the primaries.

Carter repeatedly extolled the greatness of the late President Johnson when he spoke Friday in downtown Houston and then later at a Dallas hotel.

It was his remarks about Johnson in Playboy Magazine that caused an uproar among some Texas Democrats.

Carter, on his arrival at the Houston airport in the heart of LBJ territory, said his critical remarks of the late president were "misinterpreted."

He said he never intended to place Johnson and former President Richard Nixon in the same category and that the reference to the Texan was to indicate that Johnson "misled" Americans into additional involvement in the Vietnam War.

Carter was warmly welcomed at Dallas' Fairmont Hotel, by a crowd estimated by police and Secret Service at 5,000. Carter told about 2,000 Democrats who managed to cram into one hotel ballroom that except for Abraham Lincoln, no president in American history "did more for basic human rights" than Johnson.

He said that, during his speech at the national convention, when he got to Johnson's name the applause was the greatest. He said this caused him to recognize "the unbelieveable contributions of Lyndon Johnson to our country, to the downtrodden and poor."

Carter was interrupted several times by applause.

He later attended a private fundraiser of from 80 to 90 Democrats. Campaign officials said it grossed $75,000.

There were anti-abortion pickets in Houston and Dallas.

Earlier in Houston, National Democratic Party Chairman Robert Strauss, a Texan, acknowledged that Carter's comments in Playboy Magazine were amistake and quipped:

"Giving John Connally an issue like that is like giving a Stradivarius to Jascha Heifetz."

Carter's reception in Houston was more low keyed. The candidate spoke on a busy downtown street about noon, where thousands of office workers gathered to get a glimpse of the former Georgia governor.

There were boos and jeers when Carter described the late President Lyndon B. Johnson as a "greater leader".

Many spectators stood unsmiling, hands thrust into their pockets, as Carter climbed atop a makeshift platform between a hotel and a department store.

Police officials said an estimated of the crowd was impossible at the time of the rally, with scores coming and going, stopping to listen to a paragraph or two and then hustling back to work.

This was the first outdoor downtown rally in Houston since one by President Dwight D. Eisenhower more than two decades ago.

There was one large red-andwhite display that read, "Carter for Playmate, Ford for President."

The presidential candidate was introduced by Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who was interrupted by boos and chants in his brief speech, as those standing in the hot, humid weather called, "Let's hear Carter, let's hear Carter."

Briscoe was forced to begin his introduction over again.

Carter referred several times to Johnson as one who cut inflation, who reduced unemployment and "brought us a better way of life."

Each time Carter praised Johnson, there were boos.

In the magazine article Carter described Johnson, along with President Nixon, as "lying, cheating, and distorting the truth."

Carter later apologized to Johnson's widow, Lady Bird Johnson, but she declined Thursday to say whether she accepted the apology. Mrs. Johnson said, "It was nice of him to call me." She earlier said she was "distressed, hurt and perplexed" over Carter's statements.

Carter hit hard on the economic theme during his 20-minute speech in Houston. He promised a reduction in inflation and an increase in job opportunities.

He said, "For a president to sit in the White House and do nothing about climbing unemployment is a disgrace to this nation. This will be over if I am elected the next president."

Carter also said the present tax laws "cheat the average American and are nothing more than a welfare program for the rich."

This brought his loudest applause.

He promised, "If elected president, I will never increase taxes for those who work for a living and those who declare all of their income on their tax returns."

New jobs, he said, must depend on the private sector of the nation, and not on the governmental agencies.

Presidential nominee Jimmy Carter has decided to change his campaign tactics a bit. One of his moves will be to shorten his long days on the road.

Public is entitled to know

In his recent go-around with President Ford over the question of whether FBI director Clarence Kelley should have been fired because he accepted gifts from subordinates and let bureau agents perform certain interior decorating services in his apartment, Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter made a good point.

People have a right to ask, he said, "if the big shots in Washington get by with it, why can't I? ... What sort of inducement is that, to young people not to break the law?"

Now it may be impossible to prove that misconduct by public officials encourages the same on the part of the ordinary citizen, and in Kelley's case ther were, at least in the President's estimation, a number of extenuating circumstances.

But certainly, the belief that elected and appointed officials are "getting by with it" on a grand scale is one cause of Americans' widespread disgust with government and politics.

The fact is, however, that since 1970 something like 1,000 federal, state and local government officials have been convicted on federal corruption charges involving extortion, bribery, kickback and other abuses.

This was revealed last month by Assistant Attorney General Richard L. Thornburgh. In light of the Kelley affair, and Mr. Carter's attempt to make a little political hay out it, what Thornburgh said before bears repeating.

The cases he cited were not minor ones by any means.

At the federal level, for example, and excluding the Watergate offenders, convictions were obtained during this period against a sitting vice president, a half-dozen members of Congress, a number of congressional aides and a judge of the court of appeals. Also on the federal list were high-ranking officials of such agencies as the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Small Business Administration.

At the local level, scores of mayors, councilmen, county executives, law enforcement officials and political leaders were convicted of crimes involving the betrayal of their public trust.

All of which presents something of a dilemma. Should this startling number of convictions be publicized, or should it not.

On the one hand, it makes it appear as it corruption truly is rampant in government — although Thornburgh took pains to emphasize that this was not necessarily so, but rather was the result of more energetic presecution by the Justice Department.

On the other hand, to ignore it or downplay it would be to permit the public to go on believing that everybody in government is "getting by with it."

We just hope that the Justice Department continues its vigorous activities, regardless of which presidential candidate wins the election.

Carter's campaign in trouble

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 — The Carter campaign is in serious trouble.

Not only is it patently floundering, but there is no evidence anything of consequence is being done about it.

Unless measures are taken soon, the Georgian seems headed for disaster.

Democratic National Committee and congressional leaders make no bones of their grave alarm and concern. One veteran party official told this column:

"Carter is running like a dry creek. Worst part of it is he and his people don't seem to be aware he's getting nowhere; in fact, if anything, that he has been losing ground. Unless this trend is reversed in the next few weeks, it could be too late. They may never rev up the momentum necessary to win."

Particularly held against Carter by these sources is "diffuseness" and "aimlessness." Pressed for details, they cite:

"Helter-skelter electioneering; constantly flitting about the country; not concentrating on a section or region with a thorough stumping; hit-and-run discussions of issues and problems that have little or no impact on voters; becoming involved in needless and adverse controversies."

Paradoxically, against this array of glum complaints is Carter's record of tireless non-stop campaigning.

Since formally launching his presidential drive on Labor Day, he has been unsparingly on the go from early morning until late at night every day except Sunday. He has touched base in a score of states and every part of the country.

It could be Carter is counting on the cumulative effect of this incessant stumping.

That was the strategy he tenaciously pursued in winning the Georgia governorship — on the second try. "Covering Dixie like the dew" was his underlying concept — and it worked in his home state.

Whether it will in the country at large as a presidential hopeful is a moot question.

The Reasons

Veteran Democratic leaders and analysts have their doubts.

As they skeptically see it, Carter's lagging take-off is primarily due to a series of factors — some his fault, others he can't help.

Foremost in the latter category is that he is running against an incumbent President who has numerous advantages — the exalted office and White House as the stage for newsmaking and publicizing; avoiding costly and exhausting day-to-day trooping the hustings; engineering dramatic policy decisions, such as an international agreement or a momentous domestic economic move.

Also decidedly favoring Ford is the blandness of general public attitude toward him.

There is no pronounced liking of him or, far more important, dislike of him.

People aren't stirred either way about him. In a political campaign, that's of particular significance against an opponent about whom the voters also have no strong feelings either way.

By and large voters are no more het up about Carter personally than Ford.

This ambiguity about Carter unquestionably is one of his liabilities.

Four years ago at this stage of the campaign there already was pronounced feeling for and against Sen. McGovern. The South Dakota radical had evoked rabid backing and raging hostility — which turned out to be overwhelming.

So far, about all Carter has elicited is uncertainty, vagueness — and apathy.

The last could prove fatal.

That's what's profoundly worrying Democratic leaders.

Said one of them gropingly, "If voters aren't turned on soon, Jimmy's lost. We'll carry Congress hands-down, but the national ticket is another story — and not a very promising one at this point. The debates could make a difference, but I wouldn't bet on it.

WELFARE

How much of it can we afford?

By RICHARD L. LESHER

WASHINGTON — How much money can our society afford to devote to welfare, or "income transfer" programs? In an election year, that's a subject sure to be debated with much more heat than light.

It's unfortunate that emotion clouds the issue, because the issue is important — perhaps crucial — to the future of our economy, and there are scientific ways of looking at it.

One of the best income-transfer primers I've seen appeared in the Spring, 1976, edition of THE PUBLIC INTEREST quarterly. It was an article written by an economist, Edgar K. Browning, and entitled: "How much more equality can we afford?" In spots it's heavy going, but any reasonably intelligent person should be able to understand it, and any citizen who wants to be well-informed ought to make the effort.

Mr. Browning makes two points that will startle some casual students of the subject:

1. Income statistics based on money income alone tend to exaggerate the extent of poverty, since many low-income families now receive substantial amounts of aid in the form of "in-kind" subsidies (such as food stamps, medicaid and housing allowances). While in-kind transfers per person rose from $42 to $657 between 1964 and 1973 — or 1,464 per cent — cash transfers rose only 172 per cent.

A tendency to look only at money income causes some welfare theorists to state that the distribution of income in the U.S. has not changed significantly since World War II. But, says Browning, "When in-kind transfers ... are counted as income, the average poor family in 1973 had an income that was approximately 30 per cent above the poverty line. In terms of the average income of officially poor families, there is practically no poverty — statistically speaking — in the United States today, and indeed, there has not been for several years."

(Remember, Browning is speaking of averages. I have no doubt that there are individual cases of hardship resulting from the way the welfare rules are drawn and for various other reasons.)

2. We may be nearing the point where the costs — in productive incentives — of transferring additional income will cripple the economic growth rate, resulting in less total wealth to be divided by anyone's formula.

In support of this point, Browning states that "marginal tax rates" are already between 35 and 50 per cent for middle-income and upper-income families, if local, state and federal taxes are counted. ("Marginal tax rate" refers to the rate that applies to the next dollar you earn.)

He demonstrates that a practical formula for redistributing as little as 1 per cent of the national income to the poor could easily raise marginal tax rates by something like 10 percentage points "for most, and possibly all," while raising the net income of the poor by only about 12 per cent.

In short, we are in danger of worrying too much about how to divide up the golden eggs, and not enough about how much to feed the goose.

AFTER discussing taxes and drinking water for the last couple of weeks, let's change the subject and turn to oil for a starter today.

Max W. Mitchell, 1929 N. Dwight, gave us the idea when he dropped by the office and suggested that the average reader is not too familiar with what is meant by "divestiture."

Mitchell, a retired production supervisor for Continental Oil Co. says you see the word in the news almost every day and he thinks it is important that it should be explained to the average person who needs to be aware of what it would do to the oil industry and to the public in general. It certainly is important to the Pampa and Texas Panhandle areas.

First, it probably should be stated that in this election year there is a bunch of bills in Congress calling for the break-up of major integrated oil companies through what is called divestiture.

So, what is divestiture?

Mitchell brought along one of his company's house organs which does an excellent job of explaining divestiture in layman's language.

Proponents of the legislation aimed at breaking up the oil companies say such action is the only way to protect the public from an industry that has become too big, too powerful and too monopolistic.

Opponents declare it would mean higher retail prices for the consumer, adding that if all the companies were required to operate as a single function, they would be less efficient and therefore less valuable. Company earnings would decline along with stock value. That decline in value, it is contended, would mean that some 14 million Americans who own, directly or indirectly, just the six largest companies, would be adversely effected.

★ ★ ★

MITCHELL pointed to one statement which reads:

"At a time when the physical and mental resources of the petroleum industry should be focused on increasing the domestic supply of oil and natural gas, divestiture would involve the time, attention and cost of dismembering virtually the entire industry — and the effect for the nation most probably would be:

"A catastrophic step backward in our efforts to gain energy sufficiency." (which now is held in a tight grip by the Arabs who virtually have us at their mercy.)

Opponents of divestiture say it would cancel out the kind of efficiency that it took 50 years to build in the oil industry.

★ ★ ★

DIVESTITURE proposals generally would require a company to select just one phase of the oil business ... crude oil production, transportation, refining or marketing ... and divest itself of interest in other phases.

In other words, if the company decided to produce crude oil, it could not transport it, refine it into products and market those products.

The retired oil man believes with the oil industry that it is time for the public to become alerted as to the meaning of divestiture and let the lawmakers in Washington know how people around the nation, and especially here in the oil country, feel about it.

LET'S KEEP on playing it straight. We intended to devote some space today to School House Kitty who dropped by the other afternoon with some startling (if true) figures that would rattle the rafters of the little old red school house.

But, on second thought (and kitty isn't going to like this) it was decided to hold off on that for a spell and maybe spring it at a time when it would not only rattle the rafters of the little old red school house — but jerk the rug out from under some folks who convene every now and then down school house way.

Instead, we will use some space today to say a word about one of our favorite annual events — the 45th annual Texas Prison Rodeo down at Huntsville on each Sunday in October.

All the contestants are prisoners. Pampa usually has a bull or bronc rider — or maybe a calf roper in the events each year.

Hoot Crawford, arena director, writes to tell us that 75 would-be convict contestants tried out last Sunday for a spot on the program. The final tryout for the 1976 prison rodeo will be in progress this afternoon.

Crawford says Ernest Robinson, serving a 50-year term for murder from Harris County, reports he's ready again this year for the "rough and tough" stock.

Hoot didn't say whether any Pampa or Gray County contestants have entered this year's competition. There are some Pampa and Gray County residents in the Huntsville penal home, but maybe they just aren't rodeo-oriented.

The prison rodeo is a big state wide event. It attracts thousands of spectators.

Sharing honors with the convict performers this year will be five topflight country and western stars. Faron Young will appear at the first performance next Sunday. Red Steagall will be there Oct. 10, Freddy Fender, Oct. 17, Tanya Tucker, Oct. 24 and Tom T. Hall on Oct. 31.

Tickets are $4 and $5 and the net proceeds go for treatment services for more than 21,000 inmates of the Texas Department of Corrections.

If you are down Huntsville way on any of the five Sundays in October — the prison rodeo is worth a visit.

"The first debate was quite informative. Based on it, my vote would HAVE to go to Ford — I like his suit better!"

Letter to the editor

Editor:

You may know that the Chamber of Commerce started the first United Way campaign in Pampa. Over the years the Chamber has continued to support the United Way, because most Chamber members sincerely believe that the alternative to united community giving is more government programs, more government bureaucracy, more government spending and wasteful and inefficient care of the needy.

As president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, I ask you to please support the United Way and encourage your friends, associates and employees to do so also. It deserves and needs your support. Pampa has a history of looking after its own. Let's do so again this year.

Wants to be able to grab crooks across Mexico border

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Organized crime and the narcotics trade cut across county lines and so should the state's power to probe and indict organized crooks, Atty. Gen. John Hill says.

He testified Friday before a House select committee on the judiciary.

The attorney general also suggested higher spending for the Judicial Qualifications Commission, which he called the best means of eliminating dishonest judges.

Hill's spoke in urgent tones as he recommended a law allowing the governor and the chief justice of the Texas supreme court to convene grand juries with statewide jurisdiction.

"You've got a tremendous narcotics problem in Texas. . . . Haul these people in and put them under oath. We need some method to investigate a problem of statewide dimensions," Hill said.

Texas has grand juries only at the county level, and they can return indictments only for crimes committed within their counties.

Hill suggested legislation permitting the governor and chief justice to appoint commissioners who in turn would name a 12-person grand jury to investigate a specific statewide criminal activity and return indictments if necessary.

He said he recognized that people were uneasy, because of the potential for political abuse, over earlier recommendations that would allow the attorney general to impanel a statewide grand jury.

Prosecutors of district courts that would try such cases would participate with the attorney general in presenting evidence to such a grand jury, he said.

"Look what we could do with the narcotics problem in Texas if we could have this tomorrow!" Hill said.

Hill has devoted much time to Duval County and told the committee that investigators are in no physical danger there.

"That may not be the case in this narcotics thing. Don't underestimate how ugly and mean that situation is," he said.

It often is difficult for local prosecutors and grand juries to tell if a crime is part of an organized operation, he said.

"Organized crime takes advantage of this, for example, a car theft ring. . . . It doesn't do the job to deal with a narcotics ring in San Antonio if it reaches into other cities," Hill said.

One reason why a statewide grand jury is needed, he said, is that there occasionally are situations where a local grand jury is stacked politically.

He told of taking a case to the Duval County grand jury selected by commissioners named by Judge O. P. Carrillo, who later was removed from office by impeachment.

"I brought in a confession . . and they wouldn't take any action because it was on the wrong side of the political spectrum," Hill said.

Ben Franklin said, "No gains without pains."

Tower marriage 'died'

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Tower's wife, who filed for divorce, said the decision was not "a spur of the moment thing" and that there were no other parties involved.

Joza Lou Bullinton Tower, who comes from a prominet Wichita Falls family, was contacted in her Washington apartment Friday and verified that her husband had moved to another address.

They separated Sept. 19 this year.

Mrs. Tower answered few questions and said all statements will have to come from the senator's office.

In the divorce petition filed Friday, Mrs. Tower stated, "The marriage has become insupportable because of discord or conflict of personalities."

Mrs. Tower said the couple's 24-year-old marriage had "died." Tower's Washington office said the divorce was filed by "mutual consent" of Mrs. Tower and the senator.

Tower was not available for comment Friday, and his staff was ordered not to comment.

Mrs. Tower said their Wichita Falls home belongs to the three children: Penny, 22, Marian, 21 and Jeanne 20.

Jeanne and Marian are students at Southern Methodist University, where Tower is a trustee. Penny is an SMU graduate.

Dallas lawyer Paul Eggers said the divorce petition was filed in Wichita Falls, where the Towers maintain official residence.

The Towers met before World War II when Tower's father, Dr. Joe Tower, a Methodist clergyman, was minister of the Wichita Falls First Methodist Church.

Tower, 51, was a political science professor at Midwestern University in Wichita Falls for nine years before winning a Senate seat in 1961.

No serious injuries

A car-bicycle collision Saturday afternoon at Carr and Short streets resulted in minor injuries. Jinny Rich, 7, and Misty Smith, 6, were taken to Highland General Hospital by Metropolitan Ambulance Service. Both were treated and released. The car was driven by Bill Gregory, 100 E. Jordan, who said the girls made a wide curve while rounding the corner. No citations were issued, according to police.

Patty to be witness Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, sentenced to seven years in prison for bank robbery, is destined to spend much of her immediate future in courtrooms — as witness and defendant.

Her complicated legal path will unavoidably be tied to her sworn enemies, William and Emily Harris.

Miss Hearst's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, says she will make her first appearance as a witness against the Harrises on Monday, testifying in secret before an Alameda County grand jury about the event that changed her life — her kidnaping by the Symbionese Liberation Army on Feb. 4, 1974.

She has publicly accused the Harrises, self-avowed members of the SLA, of her abduction and denied that she was their true comrade during months on the run with them a fellow fugitives.

The Harrises pleaded not guilty earlier this week to a criminal complaint in the case, but the district attorney is seeking a formal indictment based on Miss Hearst's testimony.

The 22-year-old heiress would be the key witness at the Harrises' kidnaping trial.

But first, she is scheduled to stand trial next Jan. 10 in Los Angeles on charges of kidnaping, assault and robbery that grew out of a shoplifting foray at a sporting goods store that ended up as a night and day of violence with the Harrises.

The Harrises, who were tried separately on the same charges, were convicted Aug. 9 of kidnaping and robbery but were acquitted of six assaults. Jurors indicated they felt Miss Hearst was responsible for the assaults.

Bailey and his law partner, Al Johnson, insisted after Miss Hearst's sentencing Friday that they would not engage in plea bargaining in Los Angeles.

"You can't ethically plead a client guilty unless you believe she is guilty and are willing to say so in court," Bailey said.

Johnson has said he will seek a dismissal of the charges. The attorney said he will begin filing motions in Miss Hearst's behalf in about two weeks.

Both lawyers stressed that Miss Hearst will cooperate with law enforcement officials and testify against others when asked. Bailey said she had already provided information, "and she was willing to give it with no price tag attached."

U.S. District Judge William H. Orrick said he considered Miss Hearst's cooperation in setting her sentence.

She will be eligible for parole in 16 months. Bailey had urged Judge Orrick to immediately release the young woman.

Miss Hearst stood silently as Orrick read her sentence Friday. The judge said he had "the deepest compassion" for her, but noted that a jury last March had found that she "freely and voluntarily participated in an armed bank robbery."

Miss Hearst was convicted in connection with the SLA robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch in San Francisco on April 15, 1974. Orrick ordered her to serve seven years for bank robbery and two years for using a weapon in the holdup, but said the sentences could be served concurrently.

Ford invades the South

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

ABOARD THE NATCHEZ (AP) — President Ford campaigned aboard a Mississippi River stern-wheeler Saturday, declaring from the deck of this political showboat that he means to contest Jimmy Carter all across the South.

He told a crowd that lined the levee in tiny Lutcher, La., about 35 miles upstream from New Orleans, that he's conceding nothing, "from the snowy banks of Minnesota to the sandy plains of Georgia." That covered the home states of both Carter and Democratic vice presidential nominee Walter F. Mondale.

Ford called Mondale "the biggest spender in the Senate."

Then, with a rasp from it's hoarse horn, the riverboat Natchez embarked on the President's excursion into Carter's native Southland. Along the way, the President promised flatly that if he is elected he will ask for another tax reduction next January.

He also pledged to curb federal spending and, in terms of national defense, "keep America No. 1, period."

Amid the political celebration, a man collapsed of a heart attack in the boat's dining room. Dr. William Lukash, Ford's physician, revived him, and he was taken on a stretcher aboard a Coast Guard boat that pulled alongside the Natchez.

The man was identified as Percy Green, publisher of the Jackson Advocate, a weekly newspaper in Jackson, Miss. Lukash said Green had suffered cardiac arrest but was responding to treatment. "He's apparently responding nicely," Lukash said.

While Green was being taken from the Natchez, Ford was on the upper deck, touring the riverboat with its captain, Clark (Doc) Hawley.

With Mrs. Ford at his side, Ford covered the boat from the boiler room to the pilot's wheelhouse. He shook hands with the invited passengers, and many of them offered congratulations on his showing in Thursday night's debate against Democrat Carter.

"I don't concede a single vote," Ford told several thousand people crowding a levee at Reserve, La. "...I'm in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida to prove that we can win on Nov. 2."

Ford said that if he does "we will recommend another tax reduction" next year. He did not say what kind of additional tax cut he had in mind.

Congress this year ignored his proposal that personal exemptions be increased from $750 to $1,000.

"I believe that the federal government spends too much of your tax dollars," Ford said.

He said "the kind of tax reform that makes sense" is a reduction in spending to put more money in the hands of the taxpayers.

Ford's speeches in Lutcher and Reserve were brief and to the conservative point, the President promising to cut federal spending and to maintain national defense second to none.

He said he has tried with his vetoes to curb the growth of the federal budget. "We made a little headway, but in the next four years we will do even better so you can have more money in your pocket," the President declared.

Ford said that every time he tried to cut spending with a veto, Mondale voted to override him, "which proves without any doubt that he is the biggest spender in the United States Senate."

At Reserve, Ford went after Mondale again: "He is the big spender and way left, and we don't want him as vice president."

"Have faith in the character and the strength of the American people and if we work together then we can have the brightest one hundred years ahead of us this country has ever had," Ford said in Lutcher.

"We need your help in the next four years so that we can have a better America when we celebrate our 300th birthday" Ford said in Reserve.

It was a sweltering, humid day on the river and the President's blue shirt was wet with perspiration as he spoke from the upper deck of the riverboat, then shook hands on the levees.

A Dixieland band played "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans," local high school bands added numbers like "Rolling on the River," and the ship's steam calliope chimed in with "Dixie Lullaby."

As he cruised, the President talked and shook hands among Southern editors and publishers, businessmen, civic leaders and Repubican party figures from across the South who accompanied him on the boat.

One of them was the wife of Democratic Gov. Edwin Edwards of Louisiana, who has announced she is voting for Ford. The governor has endorsed Carter.

"I thank Elaine very, very much for her personal endorsement," Ford told the crowds. "We won't let her and the state of Louisiana down."

The Natchez is a cruise ship that usually plys the river from New Orleans, carrying tourists at $7-a-head. William Greener, a Ford spokesman, said the three-day weekend of campaigning in four southern states was budgeted for $100,000.

It was Ford's second overtly political outing since Labor Day, and his most intensive campaign trip of the season, with the four-stop cruise Saturday on the Natchez; a motorcade Sunday along the Gulf Coast to Mobile, Ala.; and appearances Monday in Florida.

Ford did not mention Democrat Carter by name in Lutcher or Reserve, saving his most direct criticism for Mondale instead of the former Georgia governor who is challenging him for the White House.

Ford said anew his goals include a job for every American who wants to work, a house for everyone willing to work and save for it, and the best health care in the world. He did not spell out specific programs.

Ray Price talks about narcotics

DALLAS (AP) — Defense attorneys are to begin calling witnesses Monday in the narcotics trial of Joe Dee Hicks, his wife, Janet, and Charles Lidge Bolts.

The prosecution rested its case Friday after hearing testimony from country and western singer Ray Price and his 17-year-old son, Clifton.

Young Price said he helped Hicks and his wife search for cocaine on the Price's East Texas ranch about two years ago. Clifton Price said he had been a narcotics user at the time and that he had stashed the drugs on the ranch.

He said government prosecutors told him he and his father might be indicted in the matter. However, Asst. U.S. Atty. Jay Ethington told newsmen Friday that he never told young Price "that he or his father would be indicted."

Hicks and the others are on trial in U.S. District Court in connection with an international drug smuggling case. They are charged with conspiracy to import and distribute cocaine and heroin.

Price testified that Hicks asked him to take money, make it appear that it came from Price's sale of horses in Mexico, pay taxes on it and return the balance to Hicks.

"I took it to mean to wash some money," Price said. "I told him I just couldn't do it because all my recording procedures are accounted for."

The elder Price said he met Hicks, a used car dealer, about five years ago while purchasing some vehicles from him.

Price also testified that he refused to loan Hicks $10,000, even though Hicks promised to repay him with $25,000 in three to six months.

More than 12 pounds of narcotics, valued at $2.1 million, have been placed in evidence before U.S. District Judge Eldon Mahon.

Several U.S. Customs inspectors and Drug Enforcement Administration agents have testified that the illegal drugs were seized at airports in Miami, Honolulu and Dallas-Fort Worth.

Three of the five men arrested at the time have testified they were transporting the drugs for Hicks.

Charged in oil theft

BALLINGER, Tex. (AP) — Two men charged with the theft of crude oil from West Texas tanks are scheduled to go on trial here Monday.

Richard White of Houston and Boyce Cox of Abilene are charged with felony theft in connection with the missing oil.

White waived a jury trial and his case is to be heard Monday. Cox is scheduled for a jury trial the same day.

A 41-year-old Houston truck driver, Clinton Wilkerson, pleaded no contest and received a three-year probated sentence in the same case.

The state dropped two felony theft charges against Wilkerson in exchange for his testimony at the trials of others.

An investigation by state, local and federal authorities last August led to the indictments. The investigation was aimed at oil theft in Texas and neighboring states.

Wilkerson was charged with stealing 127 barrels of crude oil from the James K. Anderson-Jacobs lease Aug. 6, 1975. He admitted he was a truck driver in the scheme and an employe of White.

Two others charged in the case, H.K. Elrod and Leroy Long, are from Houston and each faces two counts of felony theft. Their pretrial hearings are also set for Monday.

Carter switches tactics: compassion not figures

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

Jimmy Carter is shifting away from statistics and litanies of Democratic names from the past and is recasting his speeches with the themes he credits with making him a winner in the primaries: leadership, compassion and the need for a Washington outsider in the White House.

In two other changes, the Democratic presidential nominee is shortening his long, hectic days on the road to give him and his staff more rest, and aides are advising Carter to be less candid with reporters. Carter himself has said: "I think my free expression of views probably causes my problems."

The first presidential debate has forced an end to the "road testing of themes," said one Carter adviser as the Democraic presidential nominee took his campaign to the West Coast at week's end. "It caused all of us to spend quite a bit of time deciding what the candidacy was all about."

A national Associated Press poll of voter preferences showed the debate, last Thursday night in Philadelphia, to have been a virtual draw — but that President Ford had inched a bit closer to the Democratic presidential nominee by the time the encounter was over and the nation's television sets were off.

The debate was useful for spelling out Carter's positions on specific issues, the aides said, adding that the two debates still to come will be used the same way. But the aides said that while he is on the campaign trail Carter will concentrate on the broader themes of his primary election campaign.

Citing lackluster crowd reactions and news stories that the campaign lacked focus as still other reasons for the changes, Carter aides said the candidate has decided to re-emphasize a need for trust in government and for competent, strong leadership which can identify with the people.

They said he will paint Ford as an incapable leader with little compassion and with no understanding of the problems which economic adversity causes for the average American.

Carter's re-emphasis on his outsider role, described by one adviser as "always a source of strength," was evident in a Carter speech Friday to an outdoor rally in Houston, Tex.

"We need a farmer, a businessman, a state legislator and governor to go into Washington from the outside to straighten out the mess and give us a government we can understand," Carter declared.

Carter is now concentrating more on explaining economic problems in human terms.

"Think about a father — proud like you are, competent like you are, self-reliant like you are, who has a household like you," he told his Dallas audience.

"He's eager to work, but can't find a job. He faces his children, his authority, responsibility and respect that goes with a breadwinner sripped away. Put yourself in that position, to go down and draw your first welfare check when you've worked all your life."

Unemployment "tears a family apart, destroys self-respect, eliminates basic human dignity," Carter declared. He drew loud applause.

Carter also resurrected his old line about a need for "government as good as the American people."

Aides said he was ready during the debate to defend such generalities. Had he been asked, the aides said, he would have replied that "regardless of what the media said, the things that people care about are lack of trust and lack of confidence in the government."

Although the aides describe Carter as much more relaxed now that the first debate is behind him, they say he and his staff are troubled by being put on the defensive because of his remarks in recent interviews with Playboy and with The AP.

In the Playboy interview, he talked about lust and adultery and linked Democrat Lyndon Johnson and Republican Richard Nixon in comments about presidents who have lied, cheated and distorted the truth.

In his interview with The AP, Carter said he wanted to shift the tax burden away from low and middle-income taxpayers to those with high incomes.

He did not set a firm breaking point for the shift, but his initial mention of median or mean family income as a possible dividing line prompted Republicans to accuse him of planning a hike for half of all the families in the country.

Black leader meets with Smith on takeover

By JOHN EDLIN
Associated Press Writer

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Black leader Joshua Nkomo, considered a possible prime minister after Rhodesia's white rulers turn power over to the black majority, returned home Saturday to take part in talks on an interim, biracial government.

Nkomo is head of a main faction of the divided African National Council. He arrived in Salisbury just hours after Prime Minister Ian Smith announced Rhodesia's 278,000 whites would yield to international pressure and turn the country over to its 6.4 million blacks.

Although U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's diplomatic campaign is credited for Smith's capitulation, Nkomo told a news conference on his arrival that further American involvement in Rhodesia should be limited.

"I made it perfectly clear that they (American efforts) have a function" during recent talks with Kissinger in Zambia, Nkomo said. "That function starts somewhere and ends somewhere. From there on, it is the people of this country who must through their leaders work out the future shape of things."

The African National Council is a coalition of black nationalist Rhodesian groups formed in 1974 with the help of the presidents of the neighboring "front-line" black African states — Kenneth Kuanda of Zambia, Samora Machel of Mozambique, Julius Nyerere of Tanzania and Sir Seretse Khama of Botswana.

The four black leaders were meeting Saturday in Lusaka, Zambia, to discuss the plan and Nkomo said he would be meeting with them "sooner than you expect."

Their attitude will be crucial to the success of the move toward black rule. Nyerere is highly influential with southern African black nationalists and Kaunda is a main supporter of Nkomo's ANC faction.

Nkomo, thought to have both Soviet and American approval, is considered a moderate, and his faction has operated within Rhodesia. His main rival, American-educated Methodist Bishop Abel Muzorewa, leads the "external" faction of the ANC. Muzorewa has operated outside Rhodesia, directing guerrilla warfare from Zambia, Mozambique and Tanzania.

Nkomo said at his news conference that he represents the only nationalist political movement of Rhodesia's blacks.

Asked if had ambitions to become first prime minister of an independent black Rhodesia, the former cattle herder, social worker and lay preacher said, "I am just one of the strugglers in Zimbabwe."

Rhodesia is referred to as Zimbabwe by the black nationalists.

Nkomo said he has visited several Communist and Western nations, including the Soviet Union, during his five months out of the country.

Texas weather

By The Associated Press

Skies were clear to partly cloudy Saturday and temperatures mild across Texas Saturday.

Scattered rains in the Panhandle and the Red River Valley dissipated by midafternoon, and foggy, hazy conditions in the Coastal Plains gave in to the sun about the same time.

Forecasters called for isolated thundershowers in the western half of the state Sunday and partly cloudy and warm weather the rule elsewhere.

Texas Tech researchers study waste

LUBBOCK — As a cure might be worse than the disease, so regulations governing animal waste disposal in the 50 states could be costly, confusing and ineffectual because of rapidly changing attitudes and activities in environmental control.

To discover existing problems and to help improve effectiveness of legislation regulating animal waste management, Texas Tech University researchers are undertaking a year - long analysis of laws and regulations in this area.

The study will cover all 50 states.

Rep. George Mahon, D.-Tex., has announced that the research will be supported by a $74,954 grant from the Environmental Protection Agency.

Dr. George A. Whetstone of the civil engineering faculty, who is an engineering bibliographer, is principal investigator. Project manager is Dr. Dan M. Wells, Horn Professor civil engineering and director of the university's Water Resources Center.

Legal adviser is Bruce M. Kramer of Tech's law faculty. Technical advisers, representing three fields, are Dr. William J. Huffman, chemical engineer, Prof. Walter Grub, agricultural engineer, and Dr. Ralph H. Ramsey, civil engineer.

"The last few years have seen quickly changing attitudes and activities in all aspects of environmental control," Wells said. "The rapid development of laws and regulations to cope with these new attitudes is prone to leave gaps and to create inconsistencies.

"Our final report will include analysis of pertinent statutes, administrative codes and court decisions in every state, with particular emphasis on the impact of current practices in animal waste management on the economics of animal production."

Gaps and inconsistencies will be pointed out.

"While uniformity is not necessarily desirable, even within a single state," Wells said, "it is evident that a study of results, obtained by different approaches to a problem, help provide insight i possibilities of modify legislation or administratio public advantage."

The researchers will revi the laws and regulation of e state and then attempt determine their effect on anir waste management, t economic impact, and whet the legislation is reasonable enforceable.

Before completing the stu they will try also to determ future research needs, need change statutes to make th more effective and t possibility of new statutes better animal was management on the local, st or national level.

County agent comments

Farmers need break in weather to sow fields of winter wheat

By JOE VanZANDT
County Extension Agent

Rain has helped replenish some moisture to our very dry, parched land and farmers generally have enough moisture sow wheat now. Planting will be very active as fields dry out a little more.

With this moisture for wheat planting, farmers may want to consider getting some stocker calves for wheat pasture. If this is your situation, don't forget the Stocker Cattle Short Course Sept. 28 and 30 at 7:30 p.m., in the Courthouse Annex Meeting room.

Our livestock committee has planned this meeting to help producers learn a little more about running stocker cattle. On Tuesday the program will cover buying and marketing of stocker cattle, and market outlook by Dayton Barkley, a Vann - Roach order buyer from Gruver. Dr. Ernest Davis, Extension livestock marketing specialist, Texas A&M University, will also speak on Tuesday.

On Thursday night the program will cover management of stocker cattle during transit and upon arrival to reduce health problems, implanting wheat pasture cattle, feasibility of feeding grain to cattle on wheat and projected budgets for wheat pasture operations this coming season. Dr. Gene Cope, area Extension veterinarian, and Dr. John McNeill, area beef cattle specialist, will lead the discussion.

The latest U.S. Department of Agriculture Cattle on Feed report for the seven major feeding states estimated 6,432,000 head on feed Sept. 1 — up eight per cent from last year's record low number, but still six per cent less than the same date in 1974 and four per cent below last month's number.

August placements of cattle on feed totaled 1,404,000 head, 10 per cent more than last year and 22 per cent above last month. Marketing totaled 1,586,000 head, 31 per cent more than 1975 and six per cent above July.

According to USDA's Foreign Agriculture Circular issued Sept. 9, the 1976 USSR total grain crop is currently forecast at 205 million metric tons. This is an increase of 10 million tons above the Aug. 11 forecast and approximates the official plan level for the year.

The main reason for the 10 million ton increase is improved outlook for the harvest of spring wheat and barley in the eastern regions of the USSR.

Information available as of Sept. 1 indicates that the U.S.S.R. may purchase 80 - 90 million tons of grain from the 1976 crop. Such an amount would be close to the record of 90.5 million tons purchased in 1973.

Anyone interested in planting a wheat variety demonstration should call me at 669-7429. I have some wheat seed of 15 different variaties. Some of these varieties are still experimental and not yet commercially available.

However many are new commercial wheat varieties. I will be glad to assist you in sowing some of these varieties if you are interested. I would like to put these in fields that border well - traveled roads where farmers can observe their progress throughout the growing season. It will only take about two hours to plant six or seven different varieties.

Lubbock hosting state agriculturists Oct. 5-7

A corn symposium Wednesday morning of the three - day conference will touch on weeds, fertilizer, insects, diseases and water, featuring five speakers.

Hightower cast vote against tax reform

WASHINGTON — A number of Texas congressmen, citing large budget deficits and anti-oil and gas provisions, are upset with the recently passed tax reform act.

"There is no accompanying reduction in spending," laments Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin. "I think the bill will increase inflation."

Wilson and a dozen other Texans recently voted against the tax bill, approved by an overwhelming 383-26 margin. Based on interviews with several lawmakers, the 13 Texans opposed the measure, approved also by the Senate, because of its inflationary impact and its ending of certain oil and gas tax preferences.

Under the bill, investors in oil and gas would no longer be able to claim as tax deductions certain costs associated with start-up drilling operations. The effect of the measure, according to Wilson, would be "very destructive" to the state's independent oil and gas industry.

Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon voted against the final bill. In the Senate, both Sens. John Tower, R-Wichita Falls and Lloyd Bentsen, D-Houston, endorsed the final tax package.

A House-Senate conference, which rewrote different versions of the tax bill previously passed by two bodies, dropped the intangible drilling cost provision included in the Senate bill. Tower particularly had argued to include the measure in the final package.

Texas oil and gas investors throughout the state heatedly opposed deleting the intangible drilling allowances. An aide to Rep. Jack Hightower, for example, said the Vernon Democrat received considerable mail from Panhandle oil and gas producers urging him to vote against the tax bill.

Reflecting many of his Texas colleague's views, Wilson said he was disappointed that the tax bill failed to reduce more of the estimated $50 billion gap between U.S. receipts and expenditures. The measure would produce a net increase in revenues of about $1.6 billion for Fiscal Year 1977 and $2.4 billion by FY 1981.

For the average American taxpayer, the bill extends through 1977 the anti-recession tax reduction enacted first in 1975.

More American soldiers in World War I died of influenza than from battle action.

Carter, Ford look at jobs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jimmy Carter says President Ford is running "a welfare administration" by being insensitive toward the unemployed, while Ford says proposals embraced by Carter would only create "make-work ... dead-end" jobs.

How to solve the unemployment problem is one issue that clearly illustrates differences between the two candidates over the role of government in the economy.

It occupied a major portion of Thursday night's historic debate between the two men and prompted some of Carter's harshest criticism of the President.

Citing the highest unemployment rates since the Great Depression, the Democratic challenger called it a "terrible tragedy."

"This affects human beings, and his (Ford's) insensitivity in providing those people a chance to work has made this a welfare administration and not a work administration," he asserted.

Carter commented after the President criticized a $3.7-billion bill approved by Congress that is intended to create 350,000 jobs in public works projects.

"These make-work, temporary jobs, dead-end as they are, are not the kind of jobs that we want for our people," Ford declared.

In the 17 months since the low point of the recession, Labor Department figures show total employment has increased by 3.9 million to a record 88 million. But that hasn't been fast enough to absorb the increase of 2.9 million people in the work force, which now totals 95.5 million. As a result, 7.5 million workers were still unemployed last month, and the jobless rate had fallen from its 8.9 per cent recession peak only to 7.9 per cent.

The rates are the highest since the Depression years of the 1930s. Unemployment reached a record 25 per cent in 1933 when 12.8 million Americans were without jobs in a work force of 51.8 million.

Australian program opens Rotary Travel films

A series of five travel programs sponsored by the Pampa rotary club will begin Oct. 18 in the M.K. Brown Auditorium.

The Wonderful World of Travel 1976-77 consists of film programs with proceeds being donated to eight community organizations.

Jack Reeve, president of the Pampa Rotary Club, said organizations receiving the funds include Genesis House, the Senior Citizens Center, the Quivira Girl Scout Council, the Gray County Bicentennial Committee, the Satellite School, the Pampa Fine Arts Association, the Pampa Youth and Communicy Center and American Field Service.

Season tickets for the five programs are $7.50 for adults, $5 for students and $20 for families. They are available from any Rotary Club member or from the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, Reeve said.

The first program, "Remarkable Australia," features Ken Armstrong. The film shows "a thriving, vibrant country much like the United States yet quite different."

Included in the film is footage of Australia's cities and a million-acre cattle station.

On Nov. 23 a film with Dennis Cooper will take the audience "Inside Passage and Aleutian Islands."

The film chronicles Don and Dennis Cooper as they buy an 18-foot cruiser and embark on a trip up the famed Inside Passage to Alaska and on to the Pribilof Islands in the Aleutian Chain.

"Spain" is the travel story of Eric Pavel which will be screened Jan. 31. The film traces the history of that country through seven centuries of Roman rule.

Contrasts in this travel film are castles like Alhambra of Granada and cave dwellings.

Ralph J. Franklin will take the audience to Egypt in "The Gift of the Nile" Feb. 15.

A brochure describes the program as a "magnificent study of Egypt." Franklin tours 3,000 years into Egypt's past aboard a river boat and visits the Great Pyramid of Chelops, the Temple of Abu Simbel, the Tomb of King Tut and Hypostyle Hall.

He traces the path of Moses through the wilderness and up Mt. Sinai and includes Luxor's Temple of Karmak, the Valley of the Dead and the Thebian City of the Dead in his program.

Fifth and final program in the series will be "Romance of Romania," March 17 with Jonathan Hagar.

The film will highlight differences between Romania of the past as represented by a traditional peasant wedding and Romania of today, a country on the road to industrialization.

Hagar said, "Romania, anxious to modernize yet fearful of losing its cherished traditions, is an exciting country filled with the romance of the ages."

All films will be shown at 7:30 p.m.

Coal topic for DD club

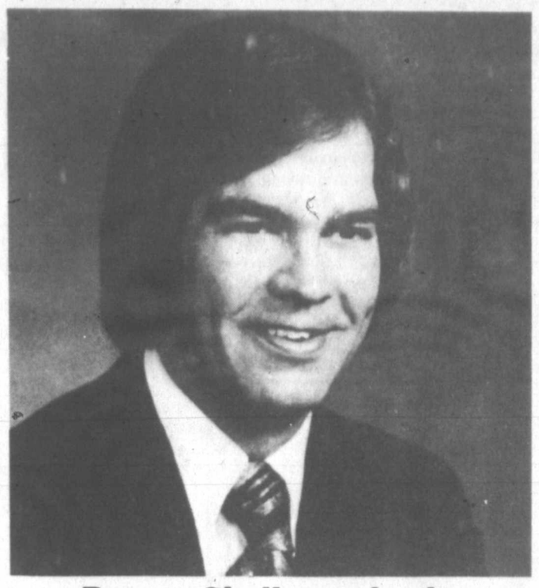

Henry H. Hamilton, plant manager of the Harrington Station for Southwestern Public Service in Amarillo, will speak on "Use of Coal to Generate Electric Power at Harrington Station" to members of the Pampa Desk and Derrick Club at 7 p.m. Monday.

The program will include a slide presentation on the Harrington Station.

Hamilton has a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from New Mexico State University and has managed power plants in New Mexico and Texas.

The program is the club's regular monthly meeting and it will be in the Crown and Shield Room at the Coronado Inn.

Reservations must be received by Selma Heard, 665-3192, before 10 a.m. Monday.

Brown Challenge leader

John S. Curry of 804B N. Nelson has been named the Panhandle Regional chairman of the Brown Challenge fund - raising effort for Southwestern University in Georgetown. Under the challenge the Brown Foundation, Inc., of Houston will give the university nearly $11 million over the next 10 years if trustees, alumni, parents and other supporters can raise $8.4 million. Curry is purchasing manager for Four R Industrial Supply, Inc., in Pampa.

Accident locations released

The city's top 10 accident locations for August have been released by Pampa Police Cheif Richard Mills.

Ten accidents during August in the 900 to 1500 blocks of Hobart made that the most dangerous stretch of road in Pampa. Accidents there were caused by speeding and following to close.

In second place was the 200 block of East Brown to the 700 block of West Brown with seven accidents reported during August. Violations resulting in accidents there were speeding and failure to yield right of way.

Six accidents were reported from each of two locations. Failure to yield right of way was cited for causing the mishaps in the 200-300 blocks of N. Cuyler while speeding and red light violations were blamed for the accidents at 800 W. Francis to Ballard.

The 1400 block of Frederic to Henry was the site of five accidents caused by speeding and failure to yield right of way. Five accidents reported in the 100 block of Ballard to Browning were caused by red light violations and failure to yield right of way.

Starkweather between the 400 and 600 blocks was another trouble spot pegged by Mills, who said four accidents there resulted from speeding and failure to yield right of way. Those violations also resulted in four accidents on Decatur Street between Hobart and Duncan.

Unsafe backing was blamed in three accidents reported in the 200-400 blocks of W. Kingsmill and two accidents on Foster in front of the post office were caused by unsafe backing and double parking.

Accidents were worse on Saturdays with 18 fender benders, Tuesdays with 15 accidents, and Monday and Fridays with 14 accidents each.

The majority of Auaust's 102 accidents occurred between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

History happens in Buckler home

C.P. Buckler bought the bricks left after the Pampa railroad station was finished to build his house here. He added onto his home five times.

Pampa News photos by Michal Thompson

By JANE P. MARSHALL
Pampa News Staff

In the years of Pampa's youth, the Buckler home witnessed history in the making.

There were home brew in the basement during Prohibition, plans made for a rock throwing when the Ku Klux Klan tried to organize in Pampa, the first Episcopal church meeting in the living room, poker games with the shades drawn, famous chess matches among town notables.

Today the house, now home for the Ben Guills, is still a gathering place. Now the subject turns to politics more often than not.

The Guills recently returned to the home place which was built by her father, C.P. Buckler. They moved from Washington D.C. where they had spent 24 years when Guill was a US Congressman, Commissioner of Maritime and Assistant Post Master General.

The room where Marjorie Buckler was born is now a picture gallery ... an elegant celebrity - filled room with polished wood cabinets along one wall and autographed photographs of Presidents and other politicians covering the other three.

Buckler, who came to Pampa from England as a secretary for White Deer Lands Company (he later managed the company), built the brick and wood house in 1915. Bricks were from the same shipment which built the depot.

Buckler added onto his house at 410 Buckler five times. "Dad would call it his folly," his daughter said.

Buckler was an ardent chess fan, Mrs. Guill recalled, pointing to the living room where tables would be set up.

He would gather the town's chess players together and get Godfrey L. Cabot, when he was in town, to play all of them at one time.

Buckler often would be the only one to beat him ... but only under those circumstances, Mrs. Guill added.

She remembers her father shooting coyotes from the north upstairs window of the house. There was nothing north of the house then, she said.

The Bucklers were married in 1908. She was the daughter of Lefors hotel owner and settler Henry Thut.

The lived in a home where Worley Hospital is now located while their home on Buckler Street was being built. Two of their three daughters, Mrs. Guill and Mrs. A.C. Green of Borger, were born on Buckler Street. Their third daughter is Mrs. Russell Allen who lives in Austin.

Although the Buckler girls attended private schools away from home, their father was an avid supporter of Pampa schools. Two high school coaches lived in his basement when housing was short in Pampa. He served on the school board for 16 years.

During one of those years, in 1933, the board hired a young speech and dramatics teacher named Ben Guill.

Guill had moved to Texas from Tennessee in 1918.

The Guills were married in 1939. Mr. and Mrs. M.K. Brown traveled to Pampa from England to attend the ceremony. "The Browns had no children but they had the Tignor girls and the Buckler girls," Mrs. Guill recalled how much she thought of Pampa's popular patron. "They were like second parents to us."

The Guills spent their honeymoon at the Brown's Aurora Hotel apartment in San Antonio.

After World War II the Guills returned to Pampa where they lived near the Buckler home in a converted chicken house.

When his son - in - law decided to enter politics, Buckler was delighted. For a long time he had been one of the few Republicans in town.

And when Guill won a seat in the US House of Representatives as a Republican, Buckler threw a victory celebration. "There was food and the wire services were there. I can't believe how many people!" Mrs. Guill said.

Buckler died in 1967; 10 years his wife's death. Then the house stood empty.

When Guill decided to retire from Washington, he said, "Lets go home."

So with the help of Mickey Ledrick to organize the work, the Buckler house was remodeled. Today the home of the Guills is filled with mementos and comfort, just like Mrs. Guill remembers it as a child.

"This house has an awfully lot of memories," Mrs. Guill said, looking at photographs of her parents. "I still find a letter or something now and then and think it ought to be someplace for people to see." She's donated many Buckler possessions to the White Deer Land Museum.

The Guills admit they miss the busy exciting life in Washington D.C. They miss hearing the political news first hand and they miss the friends they established during their long stay there.

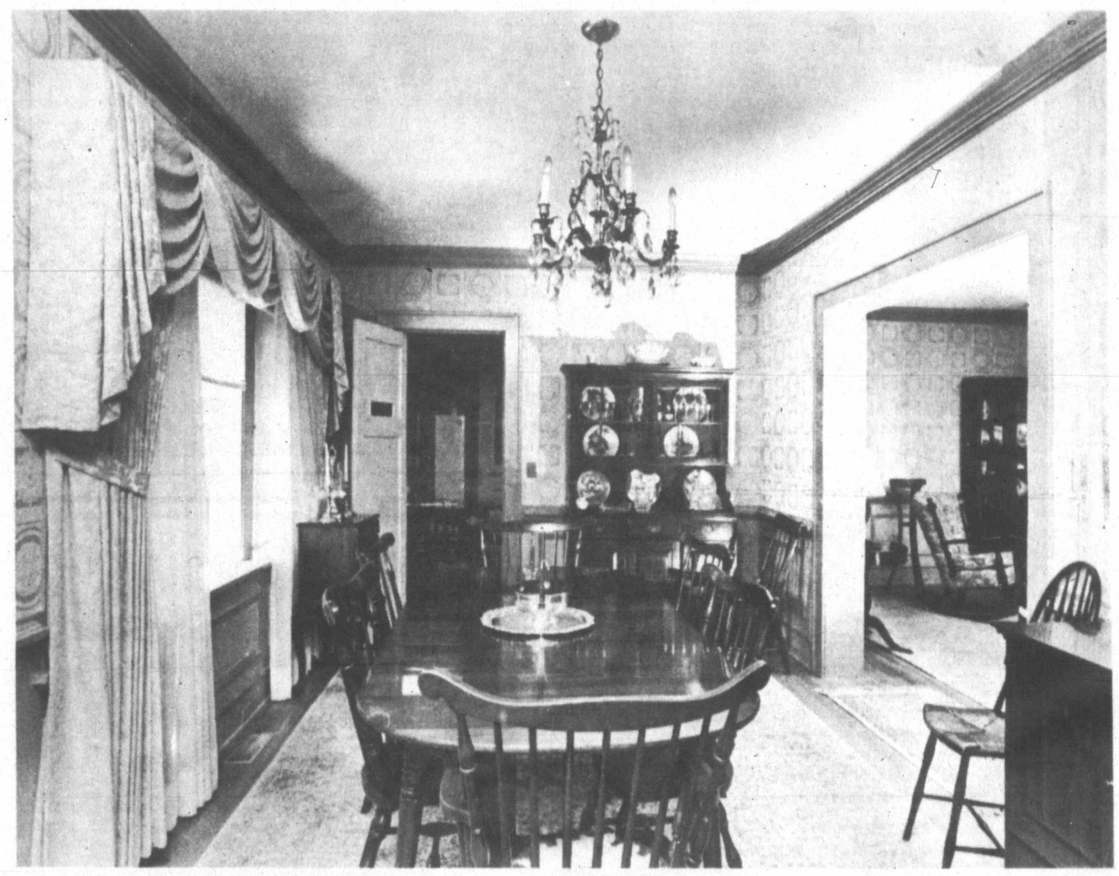

"We all went to Congress together and our kids grew up together," she said about such people as the Jerry Fords.

But friends often stop by 410 Buckler where Mrs. Guill needlepoints and Guill raises giant okra and cucumbers.

They are home now.

Likenesses of the home's builders, Mr. and Mrs. C.P. Buckler and the Guill sons, Hugh and Alan, set on the bookcase with part of the Guill's elephant collection.

The Guill dining room was redecorated in simple yet elegant style when they moved back from Washington D.C. nearly three years ago. The same room for dining was used by Mrs. Guill's parents, the C.P. Bucklers. Guill remembers that the Buckler home was always open to children, grandchildren and friends. And now that the Guills live there, it still is.

The Guill picture gallery contains a review of their years in Washington D.C. and their friendships with fellow Republicans. Among the hangings are autographed pictures of three presidents: Eisenhower, Nixon and Ford.

Community profile—Paul N. Brown

By TEX DeWEESE
Pampa News Staff

If Charlie Rich, the nationally - known country and western singing star, ever needs a stand-in so he can get away from it all — he can find his look - alike double right here in Pampa.

He is Paul N. Brown, a computer type fellow who deals in figures as his profession has been besieged by autograph buffs seeking Charlie Rich's signature on restaurant menus, napkins or whatever happened to be handy.

Brown's physical build, facial features and full head of snow - white hair make him so much like Rich in appearance that it's uncanny.

If he happens to be visiting in a town where Rich is making a night club appearance, Brown usually is spotted by some of the singer's fans and becomes a sought - after celebrity.

A couple of years ago Brown was in Trinidad, Colo., with his wife, Nan. They had gone there to attend the races. The night before they decided to dine at one of Trinidad's top supper clubs where an out - of - town dance band was playing.

Charlie Rich, incidentally, was appearing in Pueblo, Colo., that week. When the Browns walked into the Trinidad entertainment spot, the band ended the number it was playing and broke into "Behind Closed Doors," Rich's theme song.

It was the band's way of paying tribute to the famous country and western singer.

Brown says he signed autographs that night just to keep the Rich fans happy. He did let the band members know later that he was not Charlie Rich.

When he goes to conventions or meetings out of town, Brown often becomes involved in the Rich double role. Sometimes he "goes along with the gag." At other times he explains he is not the real Charlie Rich, just his look-alike.

Brown never has met Rich personally. He says there is just one handicap in connection with being the star's double. Brown says he can in no way emulate Rich's voice and singing style.

In addition to his Charlie Rich look-alike, Brown also carries the identical name of Paul Brown, coach of the Cincinnati Bengals in the National Football League.

However, he bears no resemblance to the Bengals' coach, and is a Dallas Cowboy fan. He and his wife have long been dedicated followers of the pigskin sport. The Browns had two sons who played on Harvester teams in the late 1950s and a daughter who was a member of the Harvester band right after her brothers graduated from Pampa High School. Mrs. Brown had four brothers who also played football.

One played four years at the University of Texas and four years at West Point where he became an All - American. The other three brothers played for Southern Methodist University. One, Mrs. Brown's twin brother, was on the SMU team that went to the Rose Bowl back in the late 1930s.

Brown will be recalled as probably the most vociferous Pampa High fan in the stands for the 12 years he had sons on the team and a daughter who was a member of the band that played during half - time.

Not only was he vocal, but the cheers of Brown and his wife were amplified by a boat horn he always carried with him to the games.

That boat horn, incidentally, got him into trouble at one of the games when Pampa High played in Lubbock. The loud fog - hornish blasts disturbed Lubbock fans to the point they asked for police protection. A police lieutenant appeared at Brown's seat in the grandstand and told him if he didn't "quit blowing that thing, you can take a trip downtown to jail and face a charge of disturbing the peace." The warning ended the horn - blowing for that game.

The Browns' two sons, Paul Jr. and John, were graduated from high school in 1958 and 1962, respectively, and their daughter, Barbara Lynne, finished in 1969.

John, who went to Baylor and got his masters degree from Tulane, resides in New York City where he is an assistant vice president of the Irving Trust Co.

Paul Jr. was graduated from Hardin Simmons University and now lives in Odessa where he is district superintendent for B.J. Hughes Inc., a subsidiary of the Hughes Tool Co.

Barbara is a school teacher in Fort Worth and plans to be married in January.

Brown is a grandfather three times over. Son Paul Jr., has two sons and John is the father of one son. When he first became a grandfather in 1970, Brown let the world know about it. His automobile still carries a bumper sticker imploring people to ask him about his grandchildren.

Ask Brown when he was born and he'll tell you "a long time ago." He believes age is a mental condition and, like the late Jack Benny — he is "39 and holding."

A native Texan, he was born in Sherman where his father also was born. He attended grade school and was graduated from Sherman High School and Austin College in Sherman. After his 1935 graduation from college, Brown's early occupations included store manager for Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., and accountant with Convair (then known as Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp.) in Fort Worth. He was married in 1937 to Nan Sprague of Dallas. They had met in college.

In 1945 he joined the Internal Revenue Service as an agent and that's how he happened to come to Pampa.

Brown says he never had heard of Pampa, but the IRS gave him an assignment to come here. His stay with IRS was short - lived for he took a liking to the town and met some people he also liked.

In 1947 he decided to apply for a job in Pampa. His application was accepted and he came here as manager of the Culberson Chevrolet Co.

He stayed on the job there for six years and in 1953 formed a partnership with Malcolm Hinkle. They bought the Bert A. Howell Inc., mechanical contracting firm. In 1957 Brown sold his interest in the firm to Hinkle and decided to enter business for himself — a business he has conducted for nearly 20 years.

Brown, a past president of the Pampa Noon Lions Club, has been a member of the civic organization for nearly 33 years and has had 23 years of perfect attendance at the club's weekly meetings. He also has held every office in the local Lions club with the exception of secretary.

He is a member of the United Methodist Church and the Panther City Masonic Lodge, Fort Worth.

Calling attention to Pampa's current United Way campaign, Brown remembers that he was co-chairman of Pampa's very first United Fund campaign back in the 1950s.

Brown likes to describe his occupation as "a fisherman and procrastinator" and derives a bit of philosophy from the procrastination angle.

"I find that sometimes problems solve themselves if you put off trying to handle them," he explains.

The Browns reside at 1606 Fir St. in Pampa.

Advice

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I just can't believe that you took the time to write me a personal letter. I know it wasn't a form letter because you addressed me by my name several times and even referred to people I told you about in my letter. And when you said, "Please write again. I care," I cried.

Abby, why would anyone want to help me straighten out my rotten mixed-up life? I don't deserve it. Five times people saved me from suicide. Sometimes I wish they'd have let me die—it's so hard to keep saying "thank you."

I am a registered nurse and should be helping people, but instead people are helping me, which makes me feel so guilty.

I have a fantastic new psychiatrist who acts as though he really cares about me. I don't know why anyone would care if I lived or died. I'm not pretty or smart or productive. I'm a burden and a problem to everyone who knows me. But this doctor makes me feel so great.

Is life worth living to feel great for only one hour a week? Help me.

FINISHED AT 24

DEAR "24": You're far from finished. You're just beginning to realize how precious life is. Every human being who reaches out for help wants it—and deserves it. It's always darkest just before the dawn. Hang in there, and don't let your doctor (or yourself) down. You can make it if you try. I'm counting on you.

DEAR ABBY: My father is a minister and has been associated with Alcoholics Anonymous, so I am familiar with the effects of drinking. Consequently, I have developed a bias against alcohol in any form. I will not drink it or pay for it at any time. Since I am a male college student who enjoys dating and patronizing good restaurants, this presents a problem.

As soon as I enter a restaurant with a date, the waiter asks if we want a cocktail. When we order dinner, the waiter asks if we want wine. After dinner, an afterdinner drink is suggested. I don't want any, but what about my date?

Do I tell her that if she wants to drink she will have to pay for it herself? Or must I compromise my principles for her "benefit"?

TEXAS TEETOTALER

DEAR TEET: Refusing to pay for alcoholic beverages as a matter of principle is your right, but you should explain this to your date in advance. You may lose a few girls who don't share your bias, but I guarantee you'll wind up with another teetotaler in the end.

DEAR ABBY: How does a married woman tell her parents that something is none of their business?

When my husband and I visit them, they ask a lot of questions that we don't care to answer. Most of these concern the private lives of our friends. To make matters worse, my parents repeat everything they hear. And my mother exaggerates until she stretches the truth.

I can't come out and say, "It's none of your business." There must be a nicer way of getting this across. I hate to lie and say I don't know.

DIXIE

DEAR DIXIE: You could say, "Talking about people and their personal affairs is dull and boring. Can't we talk about something else?" Then change the subject.

Ask Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — In your column you stated that a strict diet is necessary in treating diabetics. My mother is 80 years old and has been taking oral medication for more than two years for diabetes. She is overweight and has tried to diet, but she can't lose weight because she has no willpower.

Her daughter-in-law tells her to eat bread and sweets because "a body needs these things." My mother lives in a different state and I am concerned about her health. Can you tell me why a doctor would prescribe an oral medication for diabetes and not give her a diet to follow?

DEAR READER — The most likely reason the doctor gave your mother a pill rather than a diet is that he knew what you have already stated — that your mother would not follow a diet. Many doctors try to get patients to follow programs that would work if the patient did his or her part, in this instance lose weight. When it becomes clear the patient will not cooperate the doctor does the next best thing and tries to help the patient as much as possible by using what medications are available.

If you have read my column often you know that I am not strong on the use of oral medicines for diabetes but I usually point out that if a person is to be treated by diet in place of pills that he will have to follow exactly what the doctor recommends for a diet. You can't have it both ways — no medicine and no diet — and hope to accomplish anything.

You have misstated my comments about diet and diabetes. The diet itself need not always be so restrictive but the patient must strictly adhere to whatever diet plan is developed. I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-11, Diabetes: Diagnosis, Prevention, and Management. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 34-year-old businessman, 6 feet 3, and have been extremely overweight all my life. Recently I dieted and lost 90 pounds and exercised myself into top shape. My problem is the excess weight I carried resulted in approximately 25 scar marks due to the stretching of the skin around the stomach area. This is very embarrassing to me and I have repeatedly turned down invitations by friends and business associates to go sailing, swimming or anything that would expose these scars. Is there any cosmetic surgery or skin grafting techniques that can help me?

DEAR READER — Congratulations! I would guess that many overweight people wish they had your problem. You have proved that a person can do it if he wants to exert the effort.

When you improve your appearance as you no doubt have done it is only natural that you want to have the full benefits of your efforts. Plastic surgeons specializing in cosmetic surgery do remove excess skin after the paunch is gone. I cannot say what can be done for you since I don't really know the extent of your problem. It does merit a consultation with a plastic surgeon and I would encourage you to do this. The surgeon can tell by examining you just what needs to be done and what can be done. There are very few cases in which some improvement is not possible. At the least, the larger more unsightly scars or stretch marks may be excised to leave a clean, less obvious scar if that is what you want.

Polly's pointers

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — To keep scarves from becoming wrinkled in a drawer, hang them on a skirt rack that will hold many scarves and gloves, too. When I have used all the spring holders on the rack, I use spring type clothespins as extras. I hang this at the end of the rack in my clothes closet. These small items are thus kept together. — M.H.

DEAR POLLY — My husband and I are both retired, so it is important that we save every penny we can. One way I am saving is by only using my washer and dryer every other week. We get by very nicely. This saves water, electricity, soap and wear and tear on the machines. — MRS. F.T.

Combine Summer Favorites-Okra-Tomatoes

Many Texas gardens are brimming with okra and tomatoes, and combining these compatibles will brighten fall and winter meals.

Wash okra and cut into one-inch lengths, removing the stem end. Skin tomatoes by putting in boiling water for 30 seconds and plunging immediately into cold water. Remove the core. The skin will peel off easily using this method. Cut tomatoes in quarters and mix with okra.

Fill standard home canning jars with the tomatoes and okra, pressing enough juice from the tomatoes to cover solid pieces.

Carefully wipe the mouth of the jar to remove seeds and vegetable fibers which can prevent the jar from sealing. Cap with a standard jar lid and ring.

Process at 10 pounds pressure — 25 minutes for pints and 40 minutes for quarts. Tomatoes canned alone can be processed in a waterbath canner, but with the addition of okra, which is a low-acid vegetable, they must be processed in a pressure canner.

With okra and tomatoes on the pantry shelf, it's easy to prepare the following recipe for a hearty side dish.

Tangy Okra and Tomato Gumbo

1 pint jar (or can) okra and tomatoes
1 medium onion, chopped
2 slices bacon, sauteed and crumbled
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
salt and pepper to taste

Saute chopped onion in melted butter or margarine. Add remaining ingredients and cook on medium heat for 10 minutes. Serve hot. Serves four.

Good Humor man favorite of kids

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Good Humor man Jack Libes had already started to say goodbye to the children along the route where he sold ice cream for 23 years.

He was going to retire Saturday. But last week three men held him up and shot him twice, fatally.

"He loved the children deeply and the children saw that," said Joan Reidy, a nurse at School 41 on Libes' route. "They knew he was real. He never had much to say about himself, except he was very excited about retiring."

She said he had begun saying goodbye to the children because they were back in school and "he thought he might not see them again."

Besides ice cream, Libes dispensed daily lessons in kindness and always cautioned children about being careful crossing the street.

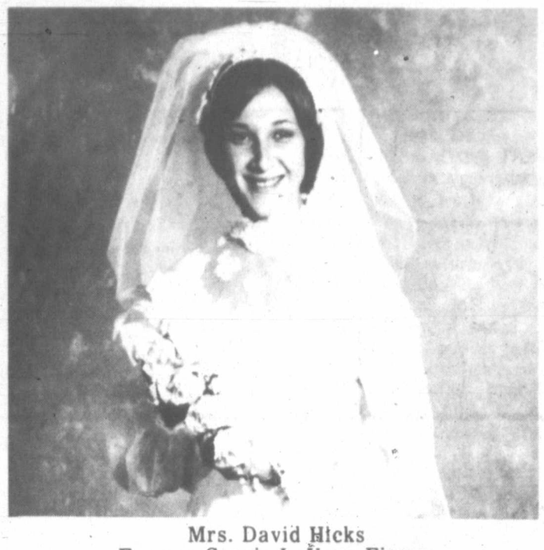

"Jack was always talking about his Jersey City children," his widow said. "He loved them."

Residents have begun a fund for Libes' widow and two children and have called and written sympathy messages.

Police said they have been "making some progress" on the case, but have no suspects.

Pampa balance rocks Bulldogs, 28-8

100-yard gainer

David Caldwell, dragging Borger's Tommy Casida (75) for yardage on this run, Friday night became Pampa's first 100-yard rusher in a game this season. He carried 15 times for 100 yards, with most of them coming on second and third efforts, as Pampa crushed Borger, 28-8.

David Caldwell became Pampa's first 100-yard rusher in a game this season and was part of his team's awesome offensive balance, which was responsible for a 28-8 win over outclassed Borger Friday night before 4,800 fans in Harvester Stadium.

Pampa, ahead 28-0 in the fourth quarter, used several second teamers in the third and final periods en route to its third win of the season against one loss. Borger, reclassified from Pampa's district (3-AAAA) to 1-AAA, fell to 1-3 after upsetting Hereford, 28-21, the week before.

The Harvesters rushed for 180 yards, passed for another 64 and got touchdowns from four different players. A defensive charge, led by end Chris Skaggs, linebacker Pat Bailey and back Levi Bailey, held Borger to 83 yards on the ground and 43 in the air.

Ricky Moore gave Pampa a 6-0 lead at 4:41 in the second period with a one - yard dive. Little Juan Vargas booted the first of four extra points for the Harvesters, notorious over the years for not having a consistent conversion kicker.

Three plays after Steve Spencer recovered a Borger fumble, Dean Smith, a seldom - used - for - running halfback, burst up the middle and scored on a 19-yard run for the Harvesters with 3:24 left in the half.

Steve Hancock returned a Johnny Plumley punt 79 yards down the left sideline for another Pampa touchdown at 9:51 in the third quarter. The Harvesters then held Borger, forcing another punt, and marched 56 yards in seven plays for their final touchdown.

The payoff was a nine - yard pass from Mike Lancaster to David Green. Caldwell had runs of 14 and 20 yards in the drive.

Borger's touchdown drive, which consumed nearly 10 minutes of the fourth period, began on the 50 and took 16 plays against a combination of first and second teamers on Pampa's defense.

Mike Ennis scored on a one - yard run with 2:33 left in the game to avert a shutout. A Robin McCarty pass to Kurt Smith resulted in two extra points.

The score could have been worse. Pampa drove to the Borger five - and eight - yard lines in the first period but coughed up the ball both times on fumbles.

Caldwell's yardage came mostly on bulldozing and twisting runs up the middle. The 212-pound full back carried 15 times for 100 yards, with most of them coming on second effort. Halfback Ricky Moore, Pampa's top ground gainer going into the game, added 40 yards, all in the first half, on 11 carries. He carried the ball only twice in the second half, while Caldwell ran three times.

Quarterback Mike Lancaster picked up 38 yards on 10 carries.

Borger's top rusher was Ennis with 10 rushes for 33 yards. Smith added nine carries for 29 yards.

The two schools were playing in non - conference for the first time since 1929. The rivalry is one of the area's oldest.

Either Thursday night or early Friday morning, a rash of vandalism involved students from both schools. It did not carry over to the football field, however, as only two yards in penalty yardage were marked off in the entire game, those coming on an offsides penalty against Pampa. The penalty moved the ball half the distance to the goal in the Bulldogs' touchdown drive.

Two other penalties were declined and offsetting penalties erased one play.

The Harvesters are open this week and visit Lubbock Monterey Oct. 7. Borger hosts Amarillo Caprock Friday.

Nebraska bombs Texas Christian

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Quarterback Vince Ferragamo tossed four touchdown passes, matching a school record, and led No. 6 Nebraska to a 64-10 football victory over Texas Christian University in a steady rain Saturday.

Ferragamo's four first-half touch-down passes tied a 1973 game record set by Dave Humm against Wisconsin.

TCU kept pace with Nebraska in the first quarter, scoring first on a 27-yard field goal by Ruben Ray. The Horned Frogs recovered a Nebraska fumble on the Husker eight-yard line to set up the score.

The Huskers bounced back on Ferragamo's first scoring pass, a 10-yard aerial to Dave Shamblin that capped a 31-yard drive.

TCU's last hurrah came on the next drive as fullback Gerry Modzelewski scored from the one, climaxing an eight-play drive covering 29 yards. After that, the Husker offensive line and Ferragamo's passing were too much for the TCU defense.

Defensive back Dave Butterfield scored on an 87-yard punt return to break the game open.

Ferragamo crushed TCU in the second quarter with scoring passes of 31 and 10 yards to Bobby Thomas and a 10-yard TD pass to Dodie Donnell.

Al Eveland drilled field goals of 30, 25 and 34 yards, and in the third period reserves took over.

Gilbert overtakes Miller

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Gibby Gilbert dropped six putts in the 10-to 12-foot range on the way to a 65, barged past erratic Johnny Miller and took a one-stroke lead after Saturday's third round of the $175,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

"Now Johnny Miller has to catch me," Gilbert said after posting a 54-hole total of 205, 11 strokes under par on the 6,849-yard north course at the Silverado Country Club.

Miller, who owns a home on this course, has won this title the last two years and led or shared the lead through the first two rounds. But he blew to a another par 72 Saturday in the mild, sunny weather that graced the California wine country.

That's nine strokes higher than the course-record 63 which Miller shot in Thursday's first round and sent him reeling back to fourth at 207, two strokes off the pace going into Sunday's final round of this chase for a $35,000 first prize.

Veteran Miller Barber, a former winner of this event, and J.C. Snead moved into a tie for second at 206, just one shot back. Barber had a five-under-par 67 and Snead a 70.

Lyn Lott, a third-year touring pro still looking for his first victory, had a share of second place until he bogeyed the 18th hole and dropped back into a tie with Miller at 207. He had a 70.

Miller now has matched par two days in a row.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tony Dorsett, hobbled early in the game by a leg bruise, rushed for 112 yards and a touchdown to help No. 3 Pittsburgh overcome a 7-6 halftime deficit and beat Temple 21-7 in college football Saturday.

Yanks, Phillies clinch at least division ties

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees, without a pennant since 1964, clinched at least a tie for the American League East Saturday, while the Philadelphia Phillies, trying for their first title since 1950, assured themselves of at least a tie for the National League East crown.

The Yankees stretched their AL East lead to 7½ games over Baltimore by outslugging the Detroit Tigers 10-6 with a six-run first-inning and homers by Thurman Munson and Chris Chambliss.

One more Baltimore loss—the Orioles played Boston Saturday night—or one more New York victory would give the Yankees the championship.

Philadelphia had to wait at least until Sunday to clinch its third pennant in history. The Phils beat Montreal 6-5 while second-place Pittsburgh lost to the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0, giving Philadelphia a seven-game lead over the Pirates.

In other NL afternoon games, the New York Mets downed the Chicago Cubs 5-2, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 4-3 and San Francisco walloped Houston 10-0 with the help of Gary Matthews' three home runs.

In the AL, Minnesota blanked California 6-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Dave Goltz, overshadowing a record performance by Nolan Ryan, who reached the 300-strikeout mark for the fourth time in his career.

In the Yanks' big first-inning, Fred Stanley and Willie Randolph each singled in two runs. Chuck Scrivener hit a three-run homer for Detroit in the sixth.

Jerry Martin's two-run single in the fifth broke a 4-4 tie and lifted the Phillies past Montreal. Martin's hit followed a double by pitcher Wayne Twitchell and a single by Dave Cash. Cash also singled in the first inning and scored on Mike Schmidt's 37th homer of the season.

St. Louis' Lynn McGlothen put Pittsburgh on the brink of elimination, shackling the Pirates on four hits, three by Richie Zisk.

Salukis nip WTSU, 21-17

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Quarterback Bob Collins passed for one score and ran for another as Southern Illinois University defeated West Texas State 21-17 in a nonconference football game Saturday.

The Saukis, who led at halftime 7-0 on a touchdown by Andre Herrera, trailed the Buffalos 17-7 with less than four minutes left. But Collins hit tight end Greg Warren with a 33-yard pass for one score.

With 3:12 remaining, Collins snuck it over from the one for the winning score.

West Texas gained 16 first downs on rushing and only passed for nine yards. Fullback Bo Robinson ran for 96 yards on 18 carries.

OU downs FSU, 24-9

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Halfback Horace Ivory blazed for two long-range touchdowns and safety Zack Henderson came up with a couple of crucial defensive plays Saturday as fourth-ranked Oklahoma huffed and puffed to a 24-9 college football victory over inspired Florida State.

The Seminoles, embarrassed a week ago by Miami, Fla., 47-0, played nearly flawless football for a surprising 6-3 lead in the first quarter on Larry Key's five-yard run.

But the Sooners' superior speed took its toll in the second quarter as Ivory, a 198-pound speedster from Fort Worth, Tex., zipped into the end zone on 37-and 23-yard runs after taking pitchouts from quarterback Dean Blevins.

Freshman kicks Tulsa past 'Hogs

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Freshman Steve Cox, who played high school football 70 miles from the University of Arkansas, kicked three field goals Saturday to give Tulsa a 9-3 upset of 12th-ranked Arkansas.

Cox, of Charleston, Ark., connected on field goals of 39, 28 and 40 yards.

Arkansas' only score came on a record-breaking 61-yard field goal by Steve Little. The Southwest Conference record of 60 yards was held by Bill McClard of Arkansas and Bubba Hicks of Baylor.

Arkansas, off to a 2-0 start for the first time since 1971, was favored by more than two touchdowns. Ironically, Tulsa ended that winning streak in 1971 with a 21-20 upset.

Tulsa was 2-1, but had lost 15 fumbles and nine interceptions in its first three games. Against Arkansas, Tulsa had only three turnovers.

Arkansas had one last chance after Dale White recovered a Tulsa fumble at the 50. The Razorbacks reached the 30 and quarterback Ron Calcagni narrowly missed connections with wide receiver Ron Farrell in the endzone with eight seconds left.

Tulsa's defense put the clamps on Arkansas running backs Ben Cowins and Jerry Eckwood despite playing much of the way without three of its top linebackers. Ray Meadows was hurt in the first quarter and Roderick Lee went down n the second period. Julius Tennon didn't make the trip because of an injury.

Cowins, who rushed for 289 yards in Arkansas first two games, managed 61 yards on 14 carries, and 41 yards of that came on one play.

Eckwood had 63 yards on 11 carries, including 48 yards on two plays.

Calcagni had 81 yards rushing, but made a couple of bad pitches and missed open receivers on several occasions.

Calcagni, under a heavy rush much of the game, completed four of 23 passes for 98 yards. A dying quail pass by Calcagni was intercepted by Keith Tilman early in the third quarter and returned 16 yards to the Arkansas 31. Four plays later Cox kicked a 40-yard field goal with 10:21 left in the game that made it 9-3.

Tulsa's most impressive move offensively came when the Hurricane took the second half kickoff and marched from its 20 to the Arkansas seven, while facing a 10-12 mile and hour breeze.

Tulsa quarterback Ronnie Hickerson, a senior from Texarkana, Ark., and tight end Marcus Hatley teamed up on passes of 21 and 22 in the drive. The drive ended with Cox's 28-yard field goal.

The Razorbacks came right back and, on big runs by Cowins and Eckwood, gained a first down at the Tulsa 10.

Italy romps in Davis Cup doubles

ROME (AP) — Italians Adriano Panatta and Paolo Bertolucci crushed Australian veterans John Newcombe and Tony Roche 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 Saturday and gave Italy a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five Davis Cup tennis semifinal series.

Bertolucci, a short, chubby 25-year-old, practically won the match single-handed with his performance at the net, with lightning shots which caught the Australians looking.

It took the Italians less than two hours to beat the Australians, a pale image of the duo that has won five Wimbledon titles. Newcombe played poorly, and Roche's generally good showing was spoiled by his weakness in serving.

The Italians took command of the match from the very start, crowding the net and forcing their opponents to a defensive game. Their performance thrilled the crowd of 8,000 that jammed the Foro Italico center court in a day of beautiful sunshine.

"I was very impressed by the Italians," said Australian team captain Neale Fraser. "It was the best European doubles I have ever seen played."

Roche dropped his service three times in the match, once each set. Newcombe lost his twice and Bertolucci once, while Panatta was perfect.

Fraser tried vainly to shift around the starting order of his team after each set to have Newcombe serve more often, but with no luck.

In the first set, after the 3-1 lead, the Italians broke newcombe's service in the ninth game and won 6-3 in just a half hour. The winning shot was cross court forehand by Bertolucci.

In the second set the Australians rallied to break Bertolucci's service in the fifth game and then tied the score 3-3. Newcombe, however, dropped his service in the 10th game.

In the third set, which also lasted a half hour, the Italians broke Roche's service in the fourth game on three successive net shots by Bertolucci, who intercepted the ball with incredible speed for his size.

The Australians survived two match points in the eighth game when Newcombe managed to return a backhand by Panatta which appeared to be a winner and then Bertolucci netted a backhand from the baseline.

In the 10th game, however, two more striking volleys by Bertolucci at the net ruined the Australians. Time of play was one hour and 45 minutes.

The key of the match was that the Italians managed to concentrate their game on Newcombe, but the Australians failed to center their shots on Panatta, clearly the weak spot of the Italian pair.

Bears crush Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Baylor tailback Cleveland Franklin staged a frenzied one-man football exhibition Saturday, scoring all four Bear touchdowns and humiliating No. 14 Illinois, 34-19, in a regionally-televised, non-conference game.

It was a bizarre turn of events for the Illini, who on the previous Saturday upset Missouri, ranked sixth at the time, 31-6.

Franklin's four touchdowns tied the Baylor single-game scoring record. Last year, he broke the school's single-season rushing record.

Illinois opened the game in apparent command, holding Franklin to seven first-quarter yards and allowing quarterback Mark Jackson just one pass completion in 11 attempts.

Illinois opened the scoring when Kurt Steger raced to the right side and heaved the ball 26 yards to tailback James Coleman, who streaked untouched into the end zone.

But when the teams changed end zones, the momentum carried over to Baylor. Franklin began running over the much-touted Illinois defensive line.

The big Baylor tailback smashed for 60 yards and two touchdowns in the second period and set up a 37-yard field goal by Lester Belrose as the half ended. Belrose added a 38-yard field goal in the final quarter.

He opened the second half the same way, scoring from three yards out after Tony Green intercepted a Steger pass and returned it 23 yards to the Illinois 13. His fourth touchdown came with 7:50 remaining in the third quarter on a five-yard plunge.

Franklin, who rushed for 1,112 yards last season, sat out Baylor's first game with a leg injury and was not at full strength last week against Auburn.

Tigers stun Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Substitute quarterback Pete Woods, a junior making his first college football start, ran across the deciding two points with 10 seconds to play Saturday, providing Missouri with a 22-21 upset of second-ranked Ohio State.

Woods, starting in place of injured Steve Pisarkiewicz, failed on his first try for the two points when he overthrew a pass. However, Ohio State was called for defensive holding and Woods made good on his second try.

The Tigers, bouncing back from a 31-6 loss to Illinois last week, ended the Buckeyes' 25-game home winning streak and handed Ohio State its first loss in three starts this college football season.

Tailback Curt Brown ran the final two yards to move the Big Eight team within one point. The Tigers drove 80 yards in the last five minutes for the crucial third touchdown.

Missouri's dramatic rally omershadowed a three-touchdown performance by Pete Johnson. Ohio State's 239-pound fullback. Johnson's touchdowns all came from two yards.

No. 8 Maryland trips Syracuse

SYRACUSE N.Y. (AP) — Tailback Steve Atkins ran for 215 yards and scored three touchdowns as No. 8 Maryland beat winless Syracuse 42-28 in college football Saturday.

Atkins clinched Maryland's third straight victory with three minutes left in the game when he broke off tackle for a 76-yard TD run. Earlier, he scored on runs of one and 11 yards.

Quarterback Mark Manges directed five Maryland scoring drives, completing five of nine passes for 85 yards, including a 29-yard touchdown pass to Vince Kinney. Manges also ran for 80 yards.

Harvesters earn tournament crown

Pampa edged pesky Borger, 16-14, 14-9, in the final match of the tournament to win the Pampa Invitational Volleyball Tournament, a round - robin event, Saturday in Harvester Fieldhouse.

The Harvesters won all three matches in the four - team tournament, downing Perryton, 14-12, 15-3, Hereford, 15-1, 15-13, and Borger. Hereford was second and Borger third, while Perryton lost all three matches.

Borger ripped Perryton, 15-3, 15-5, but lost to Hereford, 11-9, 15-4. Hereford whipped Perryton, 15-8, 15-11.

The time limit expired in both sets when Pampa met Borger. "They always play us tough," Pampa Coach Lynn Wolfe said. "They (the Bulldogs) played well.

"I was pleased. We looked better today. I changed my lineup and went back to a standard 4-2. We had been using a 6-0 with everybody spiking and setting.

"They work harder when they're playing this way. They feel more secure because that's how they played last year."

Ms. Wolfe praised the play of spikers Jewannah Laycock and Susanne Walsh and setter Sherri Free.

The Harvesters, 13-1 for the season and off to their fastest start since 1973, hosts Borger Tuesday and Hereford Thursday.

Michigan rips Navy

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Rick Leach ran for two touchdowns and passed for two others Saturday to lead No. 1 Michigan to a 70-14 rout of Navy in college football.

The point total was the largest by Michigan since the Wolverines overwhelmed Chicago 85-0 in 1939. The Wolverines seemed to have all they could handle in the first half, but it was a different story in the second half. Michigan scored four touchdowns in the third quarter for their third victory without a loss. Navy is 1-2.

The Midshipmen had taken a 14-12 lead late in the second quarter before the Wolverines scored 58 unanswered points. Leach hit wingback Jim Smith with a 31-yard TD pass 27 seconds before intermission, scored on runs of six and seven yards in the third quarter and hit tight end Gene Johnson with a five-yard scoring pass in the period.

Johnson's score was set up when Leach, who doesn't usually pass much, hit Smith with a 45-yard pass. Leach's seven-yard score was set up by his 44-yard toss to Smith.

Contributing to the romp was linebacker Ed O'Neal with a 29-yard interception return.

Miami shells Texline behind Bean, Flowers

MIAMI — Kirk Flowers and David Bean combined for nearly 300 yards rushing and scored four touchdowns to lead Miami to a 31-6 District 1-B football win over Texline Saturday.

Flowers scored on a one - yard run in the first period, and Bean scored the conversion on a dive. Bean plunged over from the one in the second quarter, and Phillip McCullough ran over the conversion.

Flowers scored on a one - yard run in the third period. DeWayne Childress ran for two extra points.

Texline's only touchdown came on a 53-yard pass from Richard Chapman to Brent Bannister in the fourth quarter. Bean scored on a two - yard run for Miami after that. Childress kicked the conversion.

Flowers carried 30 times for 172 yards to lead all rushers, while Bean ran 24 times for 107 yards.

Texline's John Bleiker managed 42 yards on 12 attempts, while all - district candidate Terry McNabb was held to 28 yards on six carries.

Miami is 2-1 for the season and in 1-B, while Texline is 0-4 and 0-3. Miami visits Follett Friday, and Texline hosts McLean Saturday.

TEXAS TALK

"It's a small, small world" was one of the themes espoused during July 4th bicentennial celebrations. Realities of a shrinking world are most clearly evidenced by OPEC and American agricultural dominance in the field of foreign trade. Development and maintenance of this export market becomes continually more important to the prosperity of American producers. Two factors influence this much needed growth. One . . . the hunger of developing countries, faced with problems of over population. Secondly . . . the affluence of the developed countries, their demand for higher quality and greater variety. Both these demands are being met successfully by the American farmer . . . met because of his abilities to produce an unparalleled abundance of food and fiber.

Wheeler routs Lefors

WHEELER — Marvin Grimes, only a sophomore, scored two touchdowns while rushing for 169 yards on 26 carries to lead Wheeler to a surprisingly easy 35-10 District 1-B football victory over Lefors Friday.

Both teams were unbeaten before the game. Wheeler now is 3-0 for the year and 2-0 in 1-B. Lefors is 3-1 and 2-1.

Playing without bruising tailback Don Brown, who was out with an illness, the Mustangs rolled up 351 rushing yards in the game and held Lefors to 102 yards, 55 by Phil White.

White, who carried 23 times, is 1-B's leading rusher this season with 562 yards on 90 attempts. Also one of the area's most consistent kickers, White booted a 30-yard field goal with only 49 seconds gone in the first period.

Wheeler came back on an 80-yard drive to score at 5:09 in the first quarter on a nine - yard run by Dell Ford. Jim Verden booted the extra point.

Kent Vise intercepted a Pirate pass and ran it back 36 yards for a touchdown at 8:38 in the second period. Grimes ran over the conversion for a 15-3 advantage, which stood until intermission.

Grimes circled left end and ran five yards for a touchdown, capping a seven - play, 49-yard drive, with 3:15 left in the third quarter. Verden added the conversion for a 22-3 lead.

Grimes scored on a nine - yard jaunt off right tackle with 10:30 remaining in the contest, and Verden kicked the extra point. Wheeler had run four plays, going 31 yards, after Lefors gave up the ball on a fourth - down effort.

Lefors drove 75 yards against the Mustang reserves and scored on a six - yard run by White off right tackle. White tacked on the conversion. The big play in the drive was a 33-yard pass to Randy Cady.

The Pirates failed to recover an onside kick. On Wheeler's first play from scrimmage, freshman Brett Mosley shot off right tackle and rambled 52 yards for the final touchdown. The same play failed to add two extra points.

Ford added 128 yards on 17 rushes for Wheeler.

Lefors had 192 total yards after completing four of 17 passes for 90 yards. Wheeler connected on one of two passes for minus one yard.

Wheeler visits Groom in another key District 1-B contest Friday, while Lefors hosts Booker.

Groom upped its district mark to 3-0 with a 51-0 rout of McLean Friday.

Wildcats claw White Deer, 13-7

CANADIAN — Canadian used a pair of Ken Adcock field goals to slip past White Deer, 13-7, in a non - conference football battle Friday night.

The Wildcats of District 1-AA now are 3-1 for the season, while White Deer, a District 1-A team, is 2-2. The Bucks open district play Friday by hosting Sunray.

Canadian capped its first offensive series of the game with a 26-yard field goal by Adcock at 4:51 in the first quarter.

After White Deer lost a fumbled punt on the Canadian 45, the hosts marched in for a touchdown, with Gary Thompson going the final 15 yards off left tackle. Adcock's extra point made it 10-0 with 8:42 left in the first half.

White Deer then took advantage of a Canadian error — a bad punt by Gary Fitzgerald which lost five yards. The Bucks caused the poor kick with a heavy rush and took over on the Wildcat 37.

Two plays later, quarterback Donnie Webb scampered around left end and scored from 14 yards out. Bobby Ensor booted the extra point at 9:28 in the third stanza.

The Bucks early in the fourth quarter drove to Canadian's 10. On a fourth - down - and - one play, White Deer failed to pick up the first down by a foot.

Canadian added another three points late in the fourth quarter after the Wildcats drove 70 yards. Adcock kicked a 29-yard field goal with 1:16 remaining.

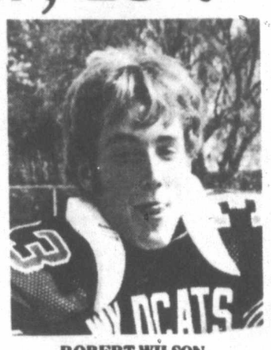

"We did a good job. We did a better job running this week and played better defense," Wildcat Coach Jack Hawthorne said.

"I think the difference was we were probably a little bit bigger and more experienced."

Canadian "was the best ball club we've played," White Deer Coach Mike Purcell said. "We played pretty good ball. The physical effort was great but we made too many mental mistakes."

Canadian's Gary Thompson was the game's leading rusher with 95 yards on 20 carries. Marty Carr added 81 yards on 15 totes and Robert Wilson 58 on 14 tries.

Steve Williams placed the Bucks with 12 carries for 76 yards.

Canadian hosts Class A power Wellington Friday. White Deer's game against Sunray will mark the Bucks' homecoming.

Groom--tougher Tiger

McLEAN — "We had help," said Groom Coach Russell Roberts after his Tigers demolished the McLean Tigers, 51-0, in a District 1-B football clash Friday night.

The "help" came in the form of five lost McLean fumbles, with three resulting in Groom touchdowns.

Groom led 25-0 after the first quarter and 44-0 at halftime before going with its second string for most of the second half and not scoring until 4:33 in the fourth period.

McLean moved the ball to inside the Groom 15 three times but was unable to score.

"They didn't put up a real good effort against us," Roberts said. "I really thought they would. I feared they might put it all together against us.

"They had some boys hurt."

McLean went with a freshmen quarterback, Mike Smith, who "did a good job for a freshman," according to Coach Jesse Smelley. The regular quarterback, Sammy Don Haynes, was moved to running back.

Groom, which played without injured fullback Chris Britten in the backfield, scored on an 11-yard run by John Krizan at 7:15 in the first period. Britten missed the extra point.

After a Richard Weller fumble recovery, Groom scored on a four - yard run by Thomas Reed at 5:54 in the period. Britten again failed to convert.

Mitch Bralley fell on a McLean fumble, and Groom scored on a 19-yard run by Reed with 3:54 left in the first quarter. Britten's kick made it 19-0.

A fumble recovery by Vince Britten set up another Groom touchdown, with Krizan going over from three yards out. Britten failed on the extra point.

Reed scored on a 16-yard run at 9:12 in the second quarter following a Chris Black fumble recovery. The extra point attempt again was wide.

Reed scored on a 15-yard run and Britten kicked for a 38-0 advantage with 7:05 left in the second period. The final TD of the half came on a 34-yard run by Roger Baggerman. Britten missed the extra point.

Nathan Wieburg lofted a bomb to Baggerman for a 73-yard touchdown at 4:33 in the final quarter. Britten added the conversion.

Reed was the game's leading rusher with 67 yards on eight carries. Krizan added 58 yards on eight tries.

"We're so inconsistent," Smelley said. "We'd look good running the ball sometimes then we fumbled or just quit. Our defense was real poor.

"You just can't stop a losing attitude overnight. These kids have gotten so used to losing it's hard for them to win."

McLean, 1-3, visits Texline Saturday. Groom, 3-1, hosts Wheeler in a crucial district contest Friday.

"The winner of that game (Groom vs. Wheeler) will be in the driver's seat," Roberts said.

No. 7 Georgia trims South Carolina, 20-12

ATLANTA (AP) — Split end Steve Davis set up the go-ahead touchdown with a brilliant catch of a 50-yard pass Saturday as No. 7 Georgia trimmed South Carolina 20-12 in a battle of undefeated college football teams.

Davis reached high in the air while streaking down the right sideline to pull in the long pass from Matt Robinson at the South Carolina nine-yard line, and three plays later Robinson fired a six-yard touchdown pass to Al Pollard that gave Georgia a 13-12 lead.

The Bulldogs, now 3-0, built their lead to 20-12 with only four minutes left.
