PLANE RUSHES PATIENT TO NEW CANCER 'MECCA'

Prohibition Forces Hold War Council To Answer Testimony Given By Wets

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

There are 210,874 unprotected grade crossings in the United States, says a bulletin of the American Automobile association and during 1928 there were 5,046 grade crossing accidents, with a death toll of 2,165 and 6,128 persons injured.

Illinois is first among the states in the number of grade crossings and of unprotected crossings, with a total of 16,408 crossings and 13,231 unprotected. Texas is second with 13,265 grade crossing of which 12,553 are unprotected.

Wichita county has its full share of unprotected crossings, some of which are about as bad as such crossings can be, and we have had our full share of fatal accidents. Throughout the country slow progress is being made in the elimination of the more dangerous crossings, by the buildings of under or overpasses and by the relocation of highways. Here in Wichita county there has been some study of the problem which we hope will soon result in steps for the actual elimination of the more menacing of our crossings. We hope the day will soon come when there will not be an unprotected grade crossing on any inportant highway in Wichita county.

The year 1970 will see the United States with a virtually stationary population of 150,000 with imigration its only source of increase, according to a forecast by Drs. Dublin and Lotka, statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. If 1970 seems some distance ahead, these statisticians make another statement which is more imminent when they tell us that the rate of increase will have descended to zero during the current year. We are still profiting in the way of population increase, they tell us, from the effects of past high birth rates and immigration, both of which give to our population, as constituted today, a relatively large contingent of persons in the reproductive period of life.

Talker has no comment, conclusions or recommendations to offer.

The country will be on a normal employment basis again within one to three months, according to the employment service bureau of the United States department of labor That is good news—the best that Talker finds in the paper. If workers find employment they will buy food and clothing—they will consume our wheat and cotton and burn our gasoline and eat our chickens and turkeys and thus revive the demand for these commodities. That will put men to work drilling oil wells and refining gasoline and raising wheat and cotton around Wichita Falls.

One billion dollars has been loaned to 62,000 Texas farmers at an average rate of interest of five and one-half per cent by the Federal Farm Loan bank at Houston, according to H. M. Gossett, president of that institution. He estimated the net saving in interest alone of more than $5,000,000 a year. Mr. Gossett was a speaker recently on a farmers short course program at Texas Technological college.

What the farmers now want is prices for their products that will bring them a profit so that they can pay interest and principle on their loans. And, of course, they would like to borrow more money at a low rate of interest.

Three traffic lights have been installed on Brook avenue at the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh street intersections. These new lights are at points through which much of the traffic of the city passes. The jogs in the Eleventh and the Ninth street intersections have added to the hazards of the traffic. We believe there are few who will dissent from the opinion that these lights are needed and will serve to

DRY BATTALION FORCED TO ACT BY ONSLAUGHT

Stories Told Before House Judiciary Committee Brings Call

'BRAINS' SELECTED

'Antis' Have Two More Days to Air Views, Then Prohis Open

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (US)—Driven to action by the steady onslaught against prohibition in recent weeks, leaders of dry organizations having headquarters here held a council of war today to map a campaign in defense of Volsteadism.

Immediately before them was the problem of lining up witnesses to testify before the house judiciary committee in reply to the telling assaults made upon prohibition by foes of the present system.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, representing the national conference of organizations supporting the 18th amendment, called the meeting. Present were representatives of the Anti-Saloon league, the W. C. T. U., and other prohibition groups.

First Forced Rally

The first time the prohibitionists have had to rally their forces for a fight in congress in the decade of prohibition, it was indicated a "board of strategy" had been selected to marshal their forces for the judiciary committee hearing.

Anti-prohibitionists will testify before the committee next Wednesday and Thursday. The following Wednesday and Thursday will be given to the drys to present their answer to the growing demand for modification of the 18th amendment.

Meanwhile rumors reached the house committee that Gov. Fred W. Green of Michigan will submit a written reply tomorrow to charges by Walter W. Liggett, a magazine writer, that Green and other officials of Michigan and Detroit attended a "drinking orgy" at a roadhouse near Detroit last Nov. 6. Governor Green will be in Washington to attend a meeting of Spanish war veterans. The report that he would reply to Liggett's charges at that time were without confirmation here.

Wild Party Described

Liggett told the committee that Governor Green, an ex-chief of police in Detroit, and four state circuit court judges attended a wild party, where they "rubbed elbows with gangsters and bootleggers" all night.

Announcement was made by Representative Lambertson, Republican of Kansas, that he had obtained permission from Chairman Graham, Pennsylvania, of the judiciary committee, for Attorney General W. A. Smith of Kansas, to cross-examine Liggett on his charges that graft in this state was "wide open."

Liggett said a personal investigation of prohibition conditions by him in Kansas revealed liquor readily obtainable at hotels and that graft and corruption were rampant.

The magazine writer also said that the governor of Kansas caused the state legislature to appropriate $40,000 for him to employ a force of "snoopers" whom Liggett charged were chiefly ex-convicts.

In his telegram to Lambertson, asking the right to cross-examine Liggett and also inquiring whether he would testify before a grand jury in Kansas to substantiate his charges, Attorney General Smith said:

"Liggett's testimony is false, libelous and untrue and not based upon any real investigation."

Merchants Minute Men Name Allred to Join "Hello World" War

First Meeting of Wichita Falls Group Votes to Send Speaker To "Shreveport" Station

The Wichita Falls branch of the Merchants Minute Men, organized under the leadership of W. K. Henderson of "Hello World" broadcasting fame to combat chain store organization all over the United States, held their first meeting in the 78th district court room at the courthouse Friday night. The group included around 100 owners and managers of local independent mercantile establishments who have pledged their support to Henderson in his fight on the chain store system.

The first official action of the group, not yet completely organized, was the delegation of James V. Allred, local attorney and candidate for attorney general, to speak from the "Hello World" station in Shreveport, La., next Monday evening. The Minute Men present subscribed to the expenses of the trip on the spot, appointing Bert Bean temporary treasurer to handle the money.

John A. Hays, of the Sanitary Meat market, was named chairman of the meeting at the opening of the session, the permanent organization to be effected later. Claude Miller, leader in the movement for the organization of the independent merchants; J. F. Riggs, representing Mr. Henderson, and Mr. Bean acted with him in conducting the meeting.

Campaign Planned

Mr. Miller invited the Minute Men to attend a meeting of independent merchants from all over the section called for organization at the courthouse next Tuesday evening. He explained that the merchants planned to incorporate under the laws of the state and to sign articles of agreement. A widespread advertising and educational campaign through newspapers and on the air is to be one of the first activities of the corporation, he declared. Arrangements have already

LOVE TO BEGIN BATTLE SOON

Contested Candidate To Start Action

AUSTIN, Feb. 14. (AP)—Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, who boited the 1928 Democratic presidential nominee and now seeks the party nomination for governor, will begin immediately a court test of the state executive committee's right to omit his name from the 1930 primary ballots because he voted for Hoover for president.

He will start action in the supreme court within 30 days, he announced, under the law written by him. Passed by both houses of the legislature and signed by Governor Moody today, giving courts of civil appeals or the supreme court jurisdiction in passing on mandamuses affecting state or county political party executive committees.

Senator Love stated that his chief attorney in the case would be senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, assisted by "a number of well-known lawyers who have kindly volunteered their aid."

Senator Love stated that he could base his suit on action of the state committee in directing itself recently to bar as candidates in the July 26 primary all those who did not support the Democratic presidential nominees in the last election. He said it would not be necessary to wait until the committee met, as directed by law, on June 9 to take formal action.

During cosideration his bill in the senate he had sent up an amend-

SUPREME COURT SEEN AS ISSUE BEFORE NATION

Debate Over Policies Of Highest Tribunal Is Resumed

DECISIONS FLAYED

Senator Dill Warns Jurists That People Won't Stand For 'Slavery'

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (US)—After years of political immunity, the supreme court was on the verge of becoming an issue before the nation, as an aftermath of the almost unprecedented battle over the confirmation of Chief Justice Hughes.

This was proclaimed in no uncertain terms in another flaming debate in the senate on the economic and social policy of the high tribunal and the personalities upon its bench.

A solemn warning that a political revolution to curb the powers of the court, unless it modifies its policies, is not far distant, by Senator Clarence C. Dill, Democrat, of Washington, started the discussion anew.

Would Curb Powers

At the same time Senator Brookhart, Republican, of Iowa, served notice that he will introduce a constitutional amendment stripping the supreme court of its power to set aside legislative enactments. This power, he insisted, is not

U. S. Aviator Wins Suit Against Mexican Rebs

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Feb. 14. (AP)—E. C. Koehler, San Diego aviator, today was awarded $4,500, the full amount he had asked for in his suit against Francisco Manzo, former Mexican revolutionary general, and former Governor Fausto Topete of Sonora, for loss of his airplane in the recent embroglio below the border.

In his opinion, Superior Judge Spencer M. Marsh commented that he did not believe the plane was worth $4,500, its value "no doubt being padded" by Koehler, but that the defense had offered no contradiction to the estimate.

Evidence presented showed that the defendants had seized and wrecked Koehler's plane, the judge continued. He stated further that he did not approve of the American aviator's action in running the chance of jeopardizing this country's neutrality.

Boy of 14 Tells Jury Of Relations With Woman On Trial for Slaying Mate

KINGSVILLE, Texas, Feb. 14. (AP)—Pat Smith, a stocky freckled face boy of 14, testified today of a long intimacy with Mrs. Maud Long, on trial here for the murder of her husband.

The prosecution contends that the woman poisoned her husband, Jim Long, so that she might continue her affair with the youth, unhampered and aided by insurance money.

Coming to the witness chair without a coat and his shirt collar unbuttoned, the boy told of his affair unreservedly.

He said he first went to the Long home at the invitation of Long to "drink a bottle of home brew." Later, he said, he began going there while Long was away working, and during this period the illicit relationship began. His visits, he said, continued from April, last year, until Long's death, Sept. 7.

The woman, he said, was the aggressor in the affair. Mrs. Long sat in court apparently unmoved by the testimony. He, too, was expressionless.

For hours the red-headed youth was kept on the stand, telling his story of the affair, which, he said, he could not terminate because Mrs. Long had threatened to kill him "if I ever jilted her."

"No, I didn't love her," he answered a question. "I liked her, yes."

His position in the Long home was characterized by a defense lawyer: "He called on the wife in the daytime, and drank beer with Jim Long at night."

Several times on cross-examination he was asked whether he had not told Bobby Hodge, sister of Mrs. Long, that he believed his mother killed Long. Each time he answered shortly, "No, sir!"

Three other witnesses preceded Smith. Mrs. A. A. McAllister of Brownwood, H. R. Goode and Clar-

Samaritan in Auto Loses $110 to Pair

TEXARKANA, Texas, Feb. 14. (AP)—The good samaritan principles of W. H. Stroud, Austin trunk salesman, cost him $110 here today when a man, whose arm was bound in a sling, waved appealingly at him on a highway, asked him to assist changing a tire and then levelled a revolver at his head, relieving Stroud of his money.

After the first man had covered Stroud with a revolver, another bandit stepped from behind their car and assisted in the holdup.

Stroud noticed as they left that none of the tires on their car was punctured and the man's arm in the sling had been used nimbly in searching the victim. The bandits threatened to kill Stroud if he followed them and sped away in a large sedan.

Alleged 'Love Pirate' Given 10-Year Term

FORT WORTH, Feb. 14. (UP)—Before he allowed his anger to sway his sense of justice, Federal Judge James C. Wilson today imposed a 10-year penitentiary sentence on A. C. Killian, found guilty of a $35,000 love mail fraud scheme.

"You've framed the worst case I've ever seen," Judge Wilson told the defendant. "Society must be protected from men like you. Before I allow my passion to sway me, I sentence you to 10 years in the penitentiary."

Killian was convicted of defrauding Mrs. Maggie Hopkins, Pampa, Texas widow, of $35,000 after threatening her with an alienation of affection suit.

Four Held in Theft Of $3,000 in Cigarets

AMARILLO, Texas, Feb. 14. (UP)—Four men arrested here on charges of stealing $3,000 in cigarets from a Fort Worth and Denver boxcar, were arraigned before a United States commissioner and bond set at $10,000 each late today.

Tom Triplett, a druggist here, made bond. The others, Dick Fitzgerald, Louis Blackwell and F. E. Foster, were held in jail. A special investigator handled the case for the government as the car was an interstate shipment.

SQUIRTLESS

Carload of Grapefruit Condemned by U. S. Inspector

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Feb. 14. (AP)—Squirtless grapefruit was on the market here today. But instead of being hailed as a boon to mankind and another evidence of the advance of modern science it only got its owner into trouble.

Federal food inspectors announced condemnation proceedings would be started against a shipment of 50,000 grapefruit from Mission, Texas, which apparently had been frozen in transit. There wasn't a squirt in a carload, they said.

MISTRIAL FREES ALLEN JURORS

Group Unable to Agree On Man's Sanity

EASTLAND, Texas, Feb. 14. (AP)—A mistrial in the sanity hearing for E. V. Allen, condemned bank robber, was declared by District Judge Been late today when the jury, after more than 24 hours' deliberation, reported its inability to agree.

The jury reported that nine members were for finding him insane and three for finding him sane, and had stood that way since the first ballot was taken, shortly after noon yesterday.

Judge Been did not indicate when he would set the date for a new trial, or whether it would be here.

Allen was sentenced to death for his part in the holdup of a bank at Carbon. Because no shots were fired in the holdup, his conviction drew sympathy from several organizations including the American civil liberties union which organized his defense.

His plea of insanity was predicated upon an illness when he was a boy and upon the admission of his mother that several members of her family, herself included, suffered from mental disorders. Every other means to save him from the chair had been resorted to before the insanity hearing was asked.

Students Killed When Mistaken by Peons

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14. (US)—Four University of Mexico students were shot to death and seven wounded when their party, studying agricultural conditions in the interior, was mistaken by peons for a group of proselyters.

Winter Resumes Fury In Large Territory

CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (UP)—Old man winter sent a valentine greeting to friend and enemy alike in the Midwest tonight, a greeting of bitter cold, festooned in ice and decorated liberally with snow. Appropriately enough, winter's valentine was heart-shaped. It spread from the Rocky mountains almost to the Alleghenies and then tapered to a point in the Mississippi river valley.

House Bill Limits Fees For Delinquent Taxes

AUSTIN, Feb. 14. (AP)—The bill sponsored by Senator Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock, limiting the amount to be paid by a county for the collection of delinquent taxes to 15 per cent, was passed in the senate today. Under existing statutes the county may contract for the collection of delinquent taxes for any per cent it sees fit and in many instances, Parrish pointed out, 50 per cent is being paid.

NEWLY TESTED CURE ATTRACTS MANY VICTIMS

WOMAN RACES DEATH

New Treatment Already Has Shown Remarkable Curative Powers

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14. (AP)—Death raced today against an airplane bringing Mrs. Irving Edwins, wife of an orchardist of Chelan county, Washington, from Wenatchee to join the many cancer victims flocking to the clinic established in the Southern Pacific hospital here by Dr. Walter B. Coffeey and Dr. John D. Humber.

Told that his wife, who underwent an operation last August for cancer of the stomach, could not survive the train journey to San Francisco to receive the adrenal treatment Drs. Coffeey and Humber are testing, in line with their previous laboratory experiments, Edwins chartered a special plane which left Wenatchee this morning and was due here tonight.

The plane's cabin was refitted as an aerial ambulance, chairs being removed to accommodate Mrs. Edwin's cot. Her husband accompanied her. Pilot Charles A. Rector was at the controls.

President Paul Shoup of the Southern Pacific company, announced the company would underwrite the research workers' further experiments.

The treatment, which has been made available at the clinic here to cases considered beyond surgical aid, takes the form of injections of a serum taken from the cortex of the adrenal gland of sheep. The discoverers, although greatly encouraged by results obtained, still regard the treatment as experimental, and Dr. Coffeey announced today the serum would be sent to the Stanford university and the University of California hospitals here and to universities in southern California, that it might be given rigid scientific tests.

Girl Pays Fake Notes She Gave Employers

AMARILLO, Texas, Feb. 14. (UP)—Arlene Donnell, pretty 18-year-old former manager of the Industrial Loan office here who is free on $2,500 bond on charges of embezzling $1,500 of her company's funds, had paid back $324 on 13 notes she is said to have forged, it was announced by officials of the organization tonight.

The girl said she signed the notes and used the money to pay expenses incurred at home. The notes ranged from $15 to $49. She said she planned to keep up weekly payments on them but the interest and weekly payments kept piling up until she was unable to meet them. Her invalid mother does not yet know of Arlene's financial difficulties. The girl has supported her parents for three years.

The grand jury has not preferred charges.

Death Toll Four In Mineral Wells Crash

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Feb. 14. (AP)—Automobile accidents near here during the past 24 hours resulted in the deaths of four people and the serious injury of three others.

The deaths resulted when a car driven by Sam Butler of Eastland swerved across a highway in a fruitless effort to avoid striking a little girl and crashed into another car.

Horace Butler of Eastland, brother of Brigadier General Smedley Butler, and the little girl, Carrie Lee May, 4 years old, were killed almost instantly, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bertino, occupants of the other car, died in a hospital here several hours after the accident.

Poisoned Baby's Father Takes Dose Seeking Antidote to Relieve Child

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 14. (AP)—A mother who made the mistake and a father who risked his life to rectify it today arranged the funeral of their child.

Mabel Jeldy, five months old, died at midnight, despite the efforts of a physician and three nurses, the victim of poison given to her through error by Mrs. Clarence Jeldy.

Finding the child ill, the mother prepared what she believed was a dose of a common remedy and gave it to the baby. Later she found she had administered poison.

When frantic efforts to get a doctor failed, Clarence Jeldy, the father, reasoned that he might find an antidote for the poison by observing the effect of the acid on himself. While the mother tried to ease her baby's pain, the father swallowed a dose of the poison.

Soon he noticed a burning sensation. Waiting, while the burning grew more intense, he then drank a quantity of soda water. When relief came, he hastily prepared another portion of the simple remedy and gave it to the infant.

Soon the child's suffering seemed to diminish, and when a doctor came, he said the proper antidote had been administered. The child probably would have recovered, hospital attendants believed, if a lung congestion had not developed.

California Oil Men Say Majors Drill Ahead After Stopping Minors

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14. (AP)—Charges that the major oil producers continue to drill oil wells and increase production and, at the same time, demand that the independent producers cut down their production under the state natural gas and oil conservation program, were made at a meeting of Los Angeles business men today.

"The crux of the situation," asserted Henry S. Woolner, independent operator in the Signal Hill field, "is that the big companies want to drill and drill and drill and tell us little ones to quit. We cut production 50 per cent and then they want us to cut more to force us out. And they keep on drilling."

M. P. Simonn, another independent, said the major companies supported the state gas conservation law because the "eight majors produce 85 to 90 per cent of the oil in California." He expressed the opinion the conservation law would work to the advantage of the majors and the disadvantage of the independents.

L. P. St. Clair, official of one of the major companies, proclaimed that unless conservation is enforced the "oil industry is going into an economic chaos."

"If oil production is regulated," he continued, "the price of gasoline to the public could be reduced."

One Los Angeles business man asserting the enforcement of the state's curtailment plan was throwing thousands of oil workers out of jobs, charged that it was seriously cutting into other businesses.

SUPREME COURT SEEN AS ISSUE

Senators Renew Debate On Tribunal

vested in the court by the constitution, but has been set up by itself.

Dill, who imbibed his political philosophy from the late Tom Johnson of Cleveland, was in deadly earnest and measured his words as he flayed the high court for decisions which are "bringing economic slavery in this country."

Norris Warns

A similar warning was uttered by the silver-haired Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, veteran progressive leader, who launched the fight against the confirmation of Hughes. He declared:

"This issue of the supreme court, like Banquo's ghost, will come back to plague until the American people get absolute justice."

Taking issue with Dill and Norris, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, who supported the Hughes confirmation, declared that "the maintenance of constitutional guarantees" was far more important to the masses.

Dill named names of supreme court justices in his warning. After asserting that the Hughes fight had centered the attention of the country on the court as nothing had done since the Dred Scott decision, he added:

"The reason it has caught the attention of the country is because of the building up of a judiciary system that is fast bringing economic slavery in this country.

Up to Jurists

"It is for Chief Justice Hughes and Justices Sutherland, Butler, Van Deventer, Sanford and McReynolds by their decisions in the future to say whether or not the supreme court will be in politics.

"If the system of law that is being written in defiance of state legislation and of congressional legislation is continued by their decision, there is no human power that can keep the court from becoming a political issue, nationwide, in the not far distant future."

Dill warned "the beneficiaries of this system" not to "smile in smug contentment" in the belief that the constitution is too difficult to amend. He said that once the rank and file become convinced that the court was their "oppressor" and that the men on the bench could not be removed, they will "find means to change this situation." He said the younger generation will use the ballot box.

"I speak in warning, not in threat," continued Dill. "I speak in warning words when I say that the supreme court will be in politics or will not be in politics, depending entirely upon whether this system of writing valuations of the great public utilities that provide the necessities of life continues or not.

"This thing is started and nobody can stop it except the judges. Sooner or later the people will insist upon justice and they will get it. When they find they cannot remedy the situation by the election of legislative officials they will be made to understand that it can be done by other means, peacefully, legally, at the ballot box."

ence Mayo of Kingsville. Mrs. McAllister and Goode told of having seen Long "writhing on his death bed," and Goode testified he heard the stricken man say, "tell my darling wife goodbye."

Mayo said on a visit to the painter's home a month before Long's death, Mrs. Long had told him of the relationship, and had threatened to "do something desperate" if she were unable to get the boy "for myself." Mayo said she told him she had "mixed up a batch of poison" but had thrown it away when someone unexpectedly came into the house. "She said she needed Jim's car and the $800 insurance from the painters' local," Mayo testified. The woman planned, he testified, to get Pat a job in Austin, and Pat, in his testimony, said he had gone to Austin and worked with Mrs. Long's brother for a time.

With Smith's testimony, the prosecution neared completion of its case. One other witness testified before adjournment, and two or three more will be offered tomorrow.

The last witness was W. B. Wardlow of Austin. Wardlow said in the viscera sent him for examination he found one forty-fifth of a grain of poison, and that he also isolated the same poison in a bottle sent him by Dr. A. C. Jones, city health officer. He testified presence of the poison did not necessarily mean that death was caused by it.

AUSTIN, Feb. 14. (AP)—The senate today passed the house bill which provided for an increase in the pension of married Confederate veterans from $25 to $50 per month. The bill left the amount to be paid single veterans and widows at $25 per month but directed that it be paid monthly and not quarterly.

ment stating specifically that it would not be necessary to await for action, but when there was objection withdrew it, declaring he was sure that the provision was unnecessary and that the bill as originally drafted permitted this.

He said he would ask the appellate court to direct the state committee to certify his name as a candidate to the county committees, the county committees to print his name on the ballots and the election officials in each county to count the ballots cast for him.

The bill simplified court action in appeals from political party rulings, in that heretofore it had been necessary to bring suit first in a district court, appeal from there to a court of civil appeals and finally to the supreme court. Under the new law the matter may be taken directly to either a court of civil appeals or the supreme court.

Senator Love pointed out that two years ago, the state executive committee certified his name as a candidate for Lieutenant governor but that a number of counties left his name off the ballot in disregard of the state committee's certification and also that in a number of counties election officials refused to count votes for him.

At that time, Love had declared publicly that he would not support former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York for president if he were the party nominee.

Accused Cop Talks Queerly

DALLAS, Feb. 14. (AP)—Investigating officers questioning Jasper Pope Pilliod, 23, police recruit who was charged today with assault to murder following an altercation last night in which Traffic Officer Roy F. Hannah, 32, was shot twice and seriously wounded, said today Pilliod answered them incoherently.

When brought before District Attorney William McCraw today, Pilliod was said by McCraw to have discussed the shooting in such an incoherent manner that he was placed in the county jail insanity ward. Dr. William Hale, county health officer, was instructed to make a mental examination.

Though Hannah was seriously wounded, hospital attendants expressed belief he would recover.

The shooting occurred when Hannah, after getting off duty shortly before midnight, last night, went to meet his wife who was waiting in their car for him in front of the city hall.

Mrs. Hannah cried out to him, "This man has insulted me." A fight ensued, during which three shots were fired, one of them striking Hannah in the abdomen and the other in an arm.

"What happened when you walked up to that car last night?" District Attorney McCraw asked Pilliod today.

"I tapped on the window and asked the lady to take me home—told her I was tired and my head was cloudy. I thought I recognized her as the bandit queen. I was still in the second vision," McCraw said Pilliod told him.

LOWER TARIFF ON ALUMINUM

Demos Seek Reduction In Import Duty

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—Notice that a drive would be started tomorrow by the Democrats to lower the existing aluminum tariffs was served in the senate today by Senator Walsh of Montana, acting minority leader.

The announcement came at the end of a session devoted only incidentally to the tariff, which was returned to its preferred status today after several days of debate on the Hughes' nomination to be chief justice. Walsh said he would propose an amendment tomorrow to reduce present duties of nine cents a pound on sheet, bar and coil aluminum and five cents a pound on the crude product to three and a half and two cents, respectively. The latter were the rates in the Underwood act of 1913.

The senate completed action today on amendments to the earths, earthenware, and glassware schedule and individual amendments to the metals section will be in order tomorrow.

Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, lost an attempt to restore the present rate of 1½ cents a pound on crystalline graphite, used in the manufacture of steel crucibles and pencils.

YOUTHFULNESS and BEAUTY are dependent upon a strong body— firm flesh— a clear skin

Loss of strength, flabby flesh and skin eruptions are but a few of the symptoms of a deeper and more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

NOTHING is more beautiful, more inspiring, more glorified than the supreme manifestation of Nature in the human body. Those sparkling eyes, that clear skin, that firm flesh, and that vigor of action denoting vitality, bespeak loveliness and internal healthfulness.

And so, is it not our birthright to be masters over our own bodies? To be sure not much is said openly about personal handicaps—skin blemishes — sallow complexion — poor health — but secretly they influence many important affairs.

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of skin blemishes, lack of appetite, flabby flesh and loss of energy as an indication that the body's power of resistance is low—that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

When you build back your red-cells to the correct number you will have followed Nature's own way of regaining Health. Your skin should clear up and you should have the body strength to fight against disease and infection. You should get hungry again and sleep soundly. Firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong; your nerves become steady.

This is why so many thousands, seeking youthfulness and beauty, have taken a course of S.S.S. It helps Nature restore the blood to its normal state.

The why of a clear skin

A clear, smooth, lovely skin speaks of rich, red blood within. It is Nature's outward reflection of internal healthfulness.

First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. They cannot be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

If you are unfortunate in this respect you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

More important still, strong healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

SPANISH WAR VETS BANQUET

New Officers Installed At Annual Meet

Spanish war veterans of Wichita Falls recalled the "Days of '98" at the annual banquet and installation of officers of the David C. McCaleb camp held in the basement of the First Christian church Friday night.

Old comrades met once again and discussed across the banquet table their experiences in fighting Spaniards and tropical insects in Cuba. The 32 years which have gone by appear to have dimmed memories of the suffering which these veterans underwent and the pleasant comradeships they formed and the amusing incidents of camp life are now predominant.

W. R. Duke, national patriotic instructor and past departmental commander, served as toastmaster and installing officer. Short talks were made by W. S. Langford, former departmental commander; L. H. Gould, retiring camp commander; J. H. Terrell, new commander; Joe B. Hatchitt, Dr. J. B. Fletcher, Mike Newman, W. L. Dalton, Dr. H. D. Fillmore, J. O. Bradshaw and Mr. Duke.

Dr. A. F. Luzzi, new member of the local camp who recently moved to Wichita Falls from Abilene, was introduced and announced that he served during the Spanish-American war under Lieut. David C. McCaleb for whom the local camp was named. Lieutenant McCaleb lived in Wichita Falls for several years after the war and died shortly before the local camp was organized.

A musical program was presented by artists from station KGKO with George H. Hodgins as master of ceremonies. The program included numbers by the Royal Trio, stringed instruments; Ernest Reeves, yodeling tenor, and Jack Ernest, accordion.

Wichitan Fractures Spine When He Faints After Watching Operation

E. B. Crawford, 1307 Thirty-fourth street, is in the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital suffering from a fracture of the spine sustained when he became faint in the operating room of the hospital late Thursday and collapsed, striking his head and back against the wall.

Mr. Crawford was watching an operation on the hand of his sister-in-law when the sight of the wound and the odor of anasthetics in the operating room caused him to become faint, physicians said. He walked from the room apparently seeking fresh air in the corridor outside but collapsed within a few moments.

Attendants rushed to his side and he was taken immediately to the X-ray room for an examination. It was found he had sustained a fracture of the vertebra just below the head. Physicians said Friday no paralysis was apparent and the injured man was reported resting well.

been made for three weekly programs over KGKO, he announced. Officers and directors of the proposed corporation will be named in the Tuesday evening meeting.

Marantz Makes Talk

Mr. Bean was the principal speaker at the meeting Friday night after the business of the session had been completed. The Wichita Falls merchant told of 25 years in business here and asserted that no young man now has a chance to succeed in any branch of the mercantile business in Wichita Falls under the present chain store system of competition. He asserted that the situation is the most serious "any people ever faced" and called upon the Minute Men to give their support to any man who "has the courage to lead the fight."

Impromptu addresses came from Nathan Marantz of the Busy Bee Fruit store and other merchants present attacked the chain system as exemplified in the motion picture industry, oil interests, groceries, furniture, and department store organizations.

The meeting adjourned after two hours discussion to meet again at the call of the chairman.

BILL PLACES TAX ON THEATERS

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 14.—The Publix theaters and others operating on the chain plan were put under the proposed gross receipts tax in an amendment Friday to house bill 73, sponsored by the legislative committee of the Texas Anti-Chain association and introduced Wednesday by Representative Polk Hornaday of Harlingen. The amendment affixes a two per cent gross tax on the Publix chains and reaches every film exchange that leases the use of its films to as many as five theaters in Texas at any one time.

Leaders estimate that the bill will add more than $3,000,000 annually to the revenues of the state and assert that it comes in the purview of Governor Moody's tax program. The amendment is approved by leaders in the independent theater organization in the state. Col. H. A. Cole, president of the Allied Theaters of Texas, is a member of the advisory board of the Texas Anti-Chain association.

BILL MUST AWAIT FUTURE LEGISLATION

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—Because of the approaching end of the session, 14 chain store tax bills were laid on the shelf today by Representative Polk Hornaday of Harlingen, sponsor of the movement. Mr. Hornaday conceded that the bills were dead so far as the present session is concerned. Committee hearings on his own two bills were abandoned at his suggestion Friday night.

Honeymoon Prescribed For Aged Disputants

CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (AP)—A honeymoon was prescribed by Judge Joseph Sabath today as the salve to mend the happiness of an elderly couple, broken after 40 years of marriage.

Mrs. Amalia Enslin, 65, told Judge Sabath her husband had become "tired of her" and sent her to an infirmary three years ago. She escaped she said, by obtaining a pass to see her dentist. The court tried reconciliation and asked whether Enslin could take his wife to Florida.

"He has between $50,000 and $60,000 saved up that we are going to take our honeymoon on," Mrs. Enslin said. Enslin preferred California so they compromised on Hot Springs, Ark.

'Jackasses' Pick Moses For Honors

New Organization Plans To 'Bray' for Fair Treatment

WHITE BEAR, Minn., Feb. 14—The first "Sons of Wild Jackasses club," the purpose of which is to "bray for fair treatment for the farmer," was organized today with a list of 200 charter members.

Robert Freeman of St. Paul, is the founder of the organization which adopted its name from the characterization which Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire recently applied to insurgent senate Republicans—"sons of wild jackasses." Senator Moses would be honorary chief bull-whacker of the order.

A white badge, the size of a half dollar and bearing the silhouette of a jackass with his hind feet in the air, presumably in the act of delivering a kick at Senator Moses, is the emblem of the club.

Freeman said the name and the button of the order would be copyrighted.

McNary Bill Seeks Changes in Air Mail

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (AP)—Reorganization of air mail contracts, placing them on a mileage instead of the present poundage basis, and allowing the postmaster general to enter them without preliminary advertisement for bids, was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon.

McNary said the measure was designed "to effect a wider use of the airplane in mail transportation and to simplify the service."

1,500 ATTEND SCOUT PARTY

Troops of Three Counties Join Jamboree

Fifteen hundred Boy Scouts and their parents and firends attended the quarterly tri-county jamboree at the Memorial auditorium Friday night to close the week's celebration of the 20th anniversary of the Boy Scout movement with one of the most enthusiastic scout gatherings ever held in Wichita Falls.

In addition to the hundreds of scouts from Wichita Falls troops, large delegations from Henrietta, Archer City, Burkburnett, Iowa Park, Megargel, and several other towns near here were present with their scoutmasters. The Burkburnett delegation brought its boys band and the gathering was entertained by several concert numbers.

Program for Meet

Events on the program included an eight-man relay race, rope making and knot tying, fire building, compass and pyramid building. Other items counting on the jamboree were advancement during the past three months, percentage of scouts in uniform in each troop and number of visitors brought by each troop. Scores in each competitive event were marked on a board. The winning troops will not be announced until 10 o'clock Saturday morning when all percentages and figures have been worked out, according to Frank B. Creighton, scout executive, who was in charge of the jamboree.

As entertainment features interspersed among the contests, Mr. Creighton matched boys from the various troops in cracker eating contests, whistling contests, tractor pulls, rope snatch, clear the ring, and other hilarious games which brought excitement and shouting from the audience. A beautifully made Indian totem pole, made by a Boy Scout, was presented to George D. Fairtrace as a token of the appreciation of the organization for his aid to the movement.

Leadership Awards

Eagle Scout badges and certificates were awarded to Vernon McDaniels of troop 2, Leland Richards of troop 1, and Paul Barnett and Maynard Creighton, both of troop 15. The presentation was made by C. C. McDonald. Bryant Creighton Jr., was awarded the gold palm, as a reward for having earned 31 merit badges, entitling him to this distinction.

The following were awarded certificates from the national office for completion of leadership training classes during the past year: James A. Johnson, Steve Marchand, Leon Vines, Owen Brown, O. B. Duggin, Luther Hamner, Durwood Redman, Carl Willis, Gordon Thomas, Durwood South, Marvin Kendall, Winstead Kendall, Harry Gibbs, Kenneth Erwin, Bill Mowry, Stanley Ferguson, George Pierce, Harmon Darby, Russell Cunningham, Oliver Moore, Paul Shire, W. HIS LINE

Potential Millionaire Inventor Stays In Car Shops

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 14. (UP)—Although potentially a millionaire, Joe H. Lecompte, carpenter shop foreman for the Oklahoma Railway company, stays on the job. His prospective millions are not coming from oil wells.

Lecompte and his father have invented an air steam single automatic car coupler. If accepted by the government, it will eliminate many perils of railroad switchmen, Lecompte said.

A company has been organized and merged with other firms. The company has manufactured 3,200 couplers which have been placed on trains for practical tests.

"If the government accepts the invention I may retire," Lecompte said. "Meanwhile, I'm sticking here. It's my line."

NORWOOD GIVEN YEAR IN PEN

Wichitan Found Guilty On Liquor Charge

Dan Norwood was sentenced to one year's imprisonment on each of the two counts Friday night when a jury in the 89th district court found him guilty of the manufacture and possession of whisky for sale. Judge P. A. Martin announced that the verdict would involve only a one-year term, under the terms of the law. The verdict was returned about 8:30 Friday evening after four hours' deliberation.

Norwood was arrested by Sheriff W. G. Bralley and Archer county officers at the time of the capture of a big still near Electra on Oct. 17, 1929. At the time of the raid, Taz Locke, arrested with Norwood, was shot in the hand by a bullet from the gun of one of the raiders. Officers testified Friday that the shot was fired when the two men started running from the still.

Testimony in the case described the circumstances surrounding the raid. Norwood, who took the stand in his own defense, said that the still was not his property. He was represented in the case by the firm of Davenport & Crain, attorneys. George W. Anderson and Mike Anglin, assistants to the district attorney, conducted the case for the state. The defendant gave notice of appeal after the verdict was returned Friday night.

Charges against Locke, indicted at the same time, were dismissed on the motion of the state when the cases were called to trial Friday morning. Locke's hand, badly shattered by the bullet, was amputated after his capture.

HOLDUP COSTS THREE LIVES

Two Guards and Bandit Killed in Detroit

DETROIT, Feb. 14. (AP)—Three men, two of them special guards and the third a member of a four-man holdup gang who prefered death to capture, lost their lives last night in a gun battle during a holdup of the main office of the Western Union Telegraph company at Congress and Shelby streets.

A patrolman who sought to halt the fleeing men was wounded twice and one of the three robbers who escaped also was believed to have been shot.

The men escaped with about $250. Police said they were the same ones who held up the office 10 days ago.

The dead are Jess L. Catlin, 38, an operative of the American Still Alarm company; John E. Scott, 46, another operative of the company, and the unidentified robber who police say took his own life with the gun he had used to shoot Scott and Catlin a moment before. The man had been wounded seriously by the guards. His clothing bore the mark of a Chicago tailor.

The wounded patrolman is Joseph H. Ralls, 26, of central station.

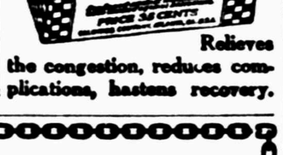

Scott, Catlin and Arthur Neron, another special guard, answered a call to the Western Union office after Ash Blues, a money clerk, touched an alarm button when the robbers appeared. Neron fired at the robber rifling the cash drawer. Scott and Catlin were shot by a robber guarding one of the doors to the office. The robber, wounded in the chest, in turn took his own life. Ralls was wounded as he fired at the others of the gang as they fled after commandeering an automobile.

BLAME ASPHYXIATION OF PILOT FOR CRASH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (INS)—The accidental asphyxiation of the pilot caused the airplane crash here last Christmas week, in which Representative William K. Kaynor and three others were killed, Senator Bingham, Republican, of Connecticut, told the senate today in a voluntary explanation of the disaster.

Kaynor, Stanley Lowe, his secretary and two army men were killed when their giant Fokker transport dove into the ground at Billing field just after the take-off. Thus far, army authorities have made no definite explanation of the cause of the crash.

Soviet Attitude To Church Scored

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 14. (UP)—A declaration that the nations of the world should unite to protest the outlawing of Christianity in Soviet Russia "even though it lead to bloody conflict," was made today by Bishop H. S. Longley of the Iowa diocese of the Episcopal church.

Bishop Longley in an exclusive interview with the United Press endorsed the stand of the archbishop of Canterbury in England and of Pope Pius in Rome in opposing persecution of Christians in the Soviet.

Attacking the Soviet's "avowedly atheistic" attitude, Bishop Longley said that a government "founded solely on idealism does not supply the individual citizen with the stamina necessary to meet the moral crises of life."

Catholic Church Opens Drive on Scant Dress

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 14. (UP)—The Catholic church began a world-wide campaign today against immodesty in women's dress.

The congregation council, one of the high administrative bodies of the church, addressed a circular to bishops all over the world in which bishops, parish priests, fathers, mothers and heads of schools and educational institutions are reminded of their duty to promote decent fashions.

The circular contains 12 clauses. One provides that women indecently dressed cannot receive holy communion, nor act as godmothers in baptisms or confirmations and must be expelled from churches if necessary.

BAD SYMPTOMS LEAVE QUICKLY

Constipation Troubles Soon Go Away Following Use Of Black-Draught

Burke, Texas.—Mrs. Orea Crawford, of this place, tells of her use of Thedford's Black-Draught which she says covers a period of "a good many years."

"We use Black-Draught as a regular family medicine for constipation, and I try always to keep it in the house.

"I have found it a reliable medicine to give the children when they get upset from over-eating, or have colds, for after taking Black-Draught they get all right in a little while.

"I use Black-Draught for bilious, sick headache. I have found that a dose or two, taken at night, will give quick relief for constipation and the complications which follow when that condition runs on.

"A bad taste in the mouth in the morning, dizziness and a dull headache, all leave quickly after a few doses of Black-Draught. I find it is not safe to let such things run on. I try to head off the danger by taking Black-Draught in time. It is a dependable medicine."

Mrs. Dawson Gives Recipes For Making Famous Denver Biscuit

By Keeping Dough in Refrigerator, Housewife May Have Fresh Home Made Rolls Daily With Little Trouble

By MRS. ARCH DAWSON, B. S., M. A.
(Written especially for The Record News food page.)

Home made rolls seldom appear on the table today as most housewives feel that they require too much time for preparation. If the recipe for Denver biscuit is followed, brown miniature loaves may be served often, as enough dough may be made at one time to last a whole week.

When the dough is mixed it is placed in the refrigerator; then, when rolls are needed the desired amount is pinched off, shaped, placed in buttered pans, allowed to rise, and baked, as are all quick breads, in a hot oven. If rolls are desired for two meals in one day, they may be shaped at the same time. The ones for lunch should be put in a warm place and the ones for dinner in the refrigerator until baking time.

The rolls baked the sixth day after they are mixed, for example, are as delicious as those made the second day.

No mystery lurks within this so-called ever-ready dough. Breads rise when the yeast or baking powder in them generates gas. This takes place when the flour mixture contains moisture and is set in a warm room or oven. If this dough, with its proper proportions of yeast, baking powder and soda, is kept in the refrigerator the temperature is too low for the leavening agents to act until more heat is applied to it.

It takes little time and effort to make the dough if an extra cup of potatoes is cooked at lunch and the milk, shortening and sugar are scalded. While the meal is being served the yeast should be soaking in the lukewarm water.

Rolls made in this way are a cross between those started by yeast and baking powder biscuits. They retain the best qualities of both and offer unlimited opportunities to the cook who wishes to make various kinds of quick bread for luncheon, tea or dinner. Ever-ready dough is a joy when the unexpected guest arrives.

In warm weather, a slightly sour taste may develop after the dough has been in the refrigerator several days. When this occurs, dissolve one-fourth teaspoon of soda in one teaspoon of cold water and work this into the dough. This sweetens it without impairing the quality or digestibility of the bread.

SUNDAY RECIPES

French Toast

One or two eggs.
One cup milk.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
Six or eight slices of bread.

Beat the eggs slightly, add the salt and milk, and dip the bread in the mixture. Heat a griddle or "frying" pan and place a little butter or a combination of butter and some other fat, in the pan. Brown the bread on one side in the hot fat. Place a bit of fat on the top of each slice, turn and brown the other side. Serve hot after sprinkling with a mixture of sugar and cinnamon. May be served with syrup, jelly or marmalade.

Fricassee of Chicken

One fowl.
One and one-fourth teaspoons salt.
Few grains pepper.
Two bread crumbs.
Two cups chicken stock or two cups boiling water and two bouillon cubes.
One-half cup flour.
One-third cup milk.
One egg.
One-third cup butter, chicken fat or bacon fat.

Dress a plump young chicken and cut it into pieces at the joints. Sift together flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt and pepper; add milk and egg well beaten and when smooth, dip each piece of fowl in this batter and then in dry bread crumbs. Place in pan with butter or other fat and cook on the stove or under gas flame until fowl is brown on both sides. Remove to casserole or fireless cooker kettle. Add chicken stock to fat and crumbs in pan and stir over fire until sauce boils, add remaining salt and pepper and pour over the fowl. Bake two or three hours (until tender) in a slow oven or fireless cooker. An oven with a heat regulator can be set at 275 degrees and left without fear that the chicken will be burned.

Maitre d' Hotel Potatoes

Wash, pare and shape potatoes in balls, using a French vegetable cutter, or cut potatoes in one-half inch cubes. There should be two cups. Soak 15 minutes in cold water, and cook in boiling, salted water to cover until soft. Drain and add Maitre d' Hotel butter.

Maitre d' Hotel Butter

Cream three tablespoons butter, add one teaspoon lemon juice, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and one-half tablespoon finely chopped parsley. May be served over potatoes or broiled steak.

Note—Duchess potato nests may be used instead of the maitre d' hotel potatoes and the peas served in them instead of the Swedish timbale.

Cranberry Salad

Cook one quart cranberries in one cup water 20 minutes; stir in one cup sugar. When cool add two tablespoons gelatine which has previously been dissolved in one-half cup cold water. Stir well and as soon as mixture begins to thicken add one-third cup nuts broken in pieces and one cup celery chopped. Pour in molds which have been rinsed with cold water. Makes about 10 small molds. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Icebox Cookies

One and one-fourth cups Crisco or butter.
One cup white sugar.
One cup brown sugar.
Three eggs.
One teaspoon vanilla.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
Two teaspoons soda.
One teaspoon nutmeg.
One-half teaspoon cloves.
One-half teaspoon allspice.
Four and one-half cups flour (about).
One cup nuts.

Melt fat, add sugar. Break whole eggs in mixture one at a time and beat well. Add vanilla, spices, and soda and enough flour to hold shape. Then stir in nuts. Make into rolls and place in ice box. Cut in thin slices and bake about 10 minutes in moderate oven.

FRENCH ROLLS

Shape the dough in long tapering rolls and with a knife make three slits on the top of each. When light bake in a hot oven.

Guave Omelet

A guave jelly omelet either pleases the family tremendously or they do not like it at all, but it is well worth trying. The jelly can be bought at any store. Make according to any jelly omelet recipe.

Fruit Tartlets

When making pies, save some of the crust and bake it over the backs of muffin tins. Fill these moulds with stewed fresh plums, apricots or other fruit, top with whipped cream and serve chilled.

Caraway Flavor

Use a little caraway seed in vegetable salads to give an unexpected and pleasant tang. In breakfast rolls, caraway seeds are good, too.

CINNAMON ROLLS

Roll a portion of the dough three-eighths inch thick. Spread with melted butter and sprinkle liberally with a mixture of five parts of sugar to one part of ground cinnamon. Raisins may be used if desired. Roll as a jelly roll. Cut in there-fourths inch slices, put in a buttered pan, cut side up; let rise in a warm place, and bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes.

SWEDISH ROLLS

Follow the directions for making cinnamon rolls, only instead of using cinnamon use chopped raisins, citron and sugar. After baking brush tops with confectioners' frosting.

CONFECTIONERS' FROSTING

Two tablespons hot water or hot fruit juice, powdered sugar, flavoring. To liquid add enough sifted sugar to make of right consistency to spread; then add flavoring to taste.

CLOVER-LEAF ROLLS

Oil muffin tins. Take small bits of the dough, knead until smooth, shape in balls, and fit three into each tin. Brush over top with butter. Let rise and bake.

CRESCENTS

Roll the dough in a sheet one-eighth inch thick, spread with melted butter and cut in strips about four inches wide; cut these in rectangles and then into triangles. Then, beginning at the base roll them up, bringing the ends toward each other, keeping the point in the middle of the roll to give the shape of the crescent. Place on greased baking sheets and brush with butter. When light bake 15 minutes in a hot oven.

FRUIT PUFFE

Roll the dough one-half inch thick. Spread with a fruit paste made by mixing four tablespoonfuls of sugar and the same amount of chopped nuts and raisins, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter and one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon. Roll as a jelly roll, cut in three-quarter inch thick slices and place in a buttered pan, cut side up, to rise. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

DENVER BISCUITS

Put one quart sweet milk, one cup sugar and one cup shortening on stove and scald. Let cool. Then add one cup cool mashed potatoes and one yeast cake dissolved in lukewarm water, two level teaspoons baking powder, and one level teaspoon soda. Add enough flour to make consistency of pancake batter, about five cups. Put in a warm place and let rise until about double in bulk. Then add one and one-half teaspoons salt and enough flour to make like a soft biscuit dough. Keep in refrigerator. Pinch off pieces as needed; place on a slightly floured board and roll one-half of an inch thick. Brush with melted butter; cut with a round or oval cutter; crease in the middle with a knife and fold over. Place at least an inch apart in an oiled pan; brush tops with butter or shortening; let rise until double in size, about one and one-half hours. Bake in a hot oven 12 minutes.

CHEESE ROLLS

Follow directions for Denver biscuits. Before folding insert one teaspoonful of grated cheese in every roll.

Since the president of the college is elected one year in advance of his taking office, Miller automatically took over the post vacated by Dr. John H. Musser, New Orleans. Dr. H. ROADS OPPOSE FREIGHT CUTS

Neff Hears Additional Witnesses on Plan

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 14. (AP)—Reduction in present freight rates would prove ruinous to railroads serving West and South Texas territory, witnesses testifying before the differential rate hearing of the Interstate Commerce commission and the Texas Railroad commission declared here today. Some of the roads, witnesses declared, were receiving barely enough revenue to give the freight and passenger service demanded by the public.

J. J. Lane, general freight agent of the Santa Fe at Amarillo, testified the Old Orient line from Alpine to Chillicothe now operated by the Santa Fe, could not exist without suffering heavy losses of rates were reduced.

His company, Lane testified, made heavy expenditures to take care of oil development in West Texas. Subsequently, pipe lines were built, he said, and 90 per cent of the equipment was now standing idle.

H. H. Nye, of Galveston, freight representative of the Santa Fe, declared his road was entitled to higher rates in West Texas because of losses suffered years ago when the road was built into sparsely settled territory.

The hearing was before Pat M. Neff, chairman of the Texas Railroad commisison, and William A. Disque, examiner for the I. C. C.

Real Estate Man Shot In Big Office Building

He was head of the company which erected the office structure, the city's first skyscraper. Surgeons say he has faint chance for life. His only son, Angus W. Ralston, was killed during the war. A daughter, Mrs. Harry D. Howard, lives here.

Ralston is very prominent in Kansas Masonic circles.

PRISON INMATES STAGE SHOW

Leavenworth Men Witness Jazz Minstrel

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Feb. 14. (UP)—Imprisoned men in the federal penitentiary here returned languidly today by their usual routines after a night of exceptional pleasure in which they lived again, for a time, the joys of their days as free men.

Assembled in a large room, the prisoners of Leavenworth presented for an audience of 1,000 persons "from outside" their annual minstrel show.

Looming large in the festivities was Paul Jackson, one-time band man in a road company of "The Vagabond King," and latterly host of a St. Louis night club. Jackson again was standing amidst a group of small tables, elevating his brilliant trumpet and ordering an orchestra to "throw hot notes." Jackson's career led down the gray path to prison doors by way of the liquor laws, violation of which cost him 14 months of his liberty.

The genial Jackson, like the rest, seemed to forget the sorrier part of his story. Jackson waved his horn at a band of negroes, shouted "let's go" and the prison awakened to the wail, the measured "boom, boom" of jazz. All of the men tapped their feet and appeared lost in reveries containing strange memories of ante-prison days, night club experiences, bar-rooms, gay friends. It was a clear throwback to times before the forgery convictions, before the mail robberies, the narcotic sales, the crimes that were found out.

PARLEY DELAYED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 14. (UP)—The proposed conference between Gov. W. J. Holloway and Atty. Gen. J. Berry King on the Texas boundary case was delayed today as King is confined to his home with a severe cold.

Henry Ford Will Finance Schools

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 14. (UP)—Henry Ford, convinced that a need of technical education is one of the greatest necessities of American youth, stands ready to devote $100,000,000 and as much of his own time and energy as required to education, according to an interview published today in the Fort Myers Tropical News.

He proposes to make the Edison Institute of Technology at Dearborn, Mich., the nucleus around which his educational work will center. He did not give details.

Punishment Demanded For Children's Deaths

GRANADA, Spain, Feb. 14. (INS)—Newspapers throughout Spain today demanded severe punishment for those responsible for the deaths of eight children in an orphanage here as the result of a serum injected to cure a scalp disease.

Thirteen other children are in a critical condition and it is feared some of them will die. The tragedy has aroused the country.

The authorities conducting an investigation are of the belief that attaches of the orphanage inadvertently used the wrong serum in attempting to curb a scalp disease which had spread through the institution.

Fannin P.-T.A. Observes Founder's Day At School

Observing Founder's Day, members of the Fannin P.-T. A. met at the school Thursday evening when Mrs. Frank Creighton gave the devotional.

The primary grades sang several songs after which Dr. Austin F. Leach talked on "Preventive Diseases." In his talk Dr. Leach stressed the fact that "Health Is Wealth" and urged all mothers to begin in the child's earliest infancy to protect it from disease, as it is far better to prevent than to try to cure.

Thrift posters, with two minute talks were presented by Virginia Vinson, Evelyn Pratt, Walter Robinson and Louise Givens. The outstanding number on the program was a talk by Mrs. Frank Creighton, 13th district president, on "The Significance and History of the P.-T. A. Organization." Mrs. Creighton paid tribute to the pioneers "whose vision made possible an organization which has for its sole purpose child welfare." A birthday offering was then made.

Miss Pearl Rorabaugh announced that the study circle for the mothers would begin next week, under her direction. Mrs. J. E. Fenix gave the national president's message from the Child Welfare magazine after which a short business meeting was held. Plans were made for a play to be given at an early date. An art exhibit will be sponsored at the school on the night of Feb. 25. Committees were appointed to arrange for a spring carnival to be given in April.

Delegates elected to attend the county council P-T. A. meeting to be held at Fowlkes Station, Feb. 22 include Mesdames T. A. Pratt, J. F. Swain, R. A. York, E. E. Ray and Mrs. S. L. Butler.

The organization voted to buy new aluminum trays and silver for the cafeteria and a committee for the nomination of officers for the next year was appointed with Miss Annie Spencer as chairman. Other members of the committee include Mesdames S. L. Butler, J. F. Price, E. E. Ray, and J. N. Hays.

Those registering were Mesdames V. L. Coombs, B. L. Corbett, H. S. Denny, C. W. Atkins, S. J. Adams, M. B. Stroope, Helen Hays, L. E. Broome, A. P. McBride, R. A. York, E. E. Ray, H. I. Calahan, Edna Medford, J. H. Green, T. A. Pratt, J. F. Price, J. C. McCormick, C. E. Roberts, Seth Weehunt, J. B. Kelley, S. L. Butler, John Hays, J. E. Fenix, H. N. Leach, and Misses Rosalie Thompson, Dell Crider, Mabel Cowan, Cleo Stinnette, Ina Carruth, Annie Spencer, Dorothy Rollins, Pearl Hines, Ola Smith and Pearl Rorabaugh.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Cannibal flies, we hear, will be imported in large quantities from the South Sea Islands if scientists' plans go right, to devour United States mosquitoes.

Dr. Cyril Pemberton, an entomologist of note, has been seeking a means to fight mosquitoes for many years and finally discovered this dragon fly whose main purpose in life, he announces, is to devour the insect that so often tries to devour us.

Furthermore Doctor Pemberton says that the mosquitoes are so afraid of the dragon fly that if the dead bodies of two or three are hung around native huts in the South Sea Islands mosquitoes won't come near.

We approve of that; they say this dragon fly usually feels hungry if it has not swallowed 10,000 or more mosquitoes during the day.

At that rate, we fear when the mosquitoes are gone and the dragon flies are still hungry, they might begin on us.

We do not know but that we'd just as soon be devoured by mosquitoes as flies, and if the dragon flies are anything like house flies, we'd prefer the bite of the mosquito to the song of his arch enemy.

We have said we would have liked to be alive through all the ages. There would have been one drawback, and that is flies.

We have seen a picture of a reconstructed Neanderthal man and we have also seen one of the reconstructed prehistoric man discovered in the clay banks of the Brazos river, who lived 25,000 years ago, according to Dr. Cyrus M. Ray of Abilene.

Both are dawn men, not far from the ape period—and with insects what they must have been before sanitation was known, how they must have suffered from mosquitoes and flies. Clothes were not in style.

We think the peacock feathers her maids always waved over Cleopatra were not for beauty, but to keep off flies, and we rather suspect there were a great many flies in the land of Egypt.

Which reminds us of that feeling so many people have about the bad luck that peacock feathers bring. We know a family not long ago who, with peacock feathers in their car, had quite an accident and when a member of the family saw the gorgeous colored feathers she threw up her hands in horror, exclaiming "No wonder! It's a miracle you weren't killed."

And we have just heard another naive superstition—a new one to us. We were asked, "Did you know watches won't run on some people" and were assured, on our negative response, that it is a fact.

Dix Tells Why Few Women Win Great Success

The Great Majority of Women Will Never Achieve Outstanding Success in Business, Despite the Fact That They Are Just as Capable as Men, for Nature Has Decreed That to a Woman Home Must Always Come First, Says Dorothy Dix.

A correspondent asks: "What, in your opinion, is the greatest bar to women's success in business and the professions?"

To which I unhesitatingly answer: Sex. Being women. And the trouble about it is that there is nothing they can do about it. No way in which they can overcome this fatal handicap. Having been born women, they are doomed to remain women, with all of women's disabilities, physical, mental, and social, upon their heads to the end of the chapter.

There will always be women in the business and professional world. Doubtless an increasing number as the years go by and as customs and conditions change. Many of them will achieve a moderate success and be able to earn comfortable incomes. A very few will be brilliantly successful, but for the great majority of women business and the professions will simply be a bridge of sighs over which they pass from the school room to the altar.

When women look around and see how many of their sex are employed in gainful occupations and how few of them ever attain any executive positions in the firm for which they work, how few even ever get to the place where they can demand real money for their services, they are likely to blame men for it, and cry out against the discrimination that is made against women.

But the fault is Nature's rather than man's, for Nature is ever a step-mother to women. She may give one as good a brain as a man, and endow her with just as much energy and ambition and start her out with every prospect of leaping to the top of the ladder, then she throws a monkey wrench into the works by saddling the poor woman with a nervous system that goes blooey just when the goal is in sight, or with an ingrowing conscience that makes her give up her career to take care of an old mother or father, or with a heart that makes her sacrifice everything to love.

Probably the average girl and boy have about the same amount of intelligence. In schools and colleges the girls rate quite as well, if not better, than the boys, but as soon as they go to work the boy soon outstrips the girl, and this is because the boy knows that he has begun his life work. What he is doing he expects to do to the end of his days, and so if he has any sense at all he sets about learning to do it well. He tries to become an expert. He looks forward to achieving fame and fortune at the end of a lifetime of faithful service to his occupation.

Not so the girl. She knows her real job in the world is being a wife and mother and she looks upon whatever other work she does as a mere makeshift that is not worth taking seriously. She doesn't expect to stay in a store or an office long. In fact, she regards the commercial world as just a sort of hunting ground for a husband, and that is why she spends more time powdering her nose and making up her lips than she does in trying to perfect herself in the work she is supposed to do.

Comparatively few girls take any real heart interest in their jobs, because they regard them as so temporary. They don't strive for perfection. They merely try to get by. They haven't gone into an occupation for the long pull, as a man does. They haven't even considered whether they have any aptitude for the work they have taken up. They have taken the first thing that was handy in order to make a little money to buy some finery with which to snare the masculine eye.

So when you come down to brass tacks the real reason that girls are paid less than boys is because they are worth less. Furthermore, the reason that so few women ever achieve executive positions is because every employer knows that just about the time he has spent three or four years training a clever and snappy girl up to fill some special position, she goes off and gets married.

Now when a man marries he simply annexes the comforts of a home and the joy of having wife and children to his occupation. He becomes of more value to his firm because he is better taken care of. He becomes more ambitious and efficient because his wife is behind him, encouraging him and urging him on.

But when a woman gets married she nearly always has to choose between love and her career. She cannot have them both as a man can. If she tries to keep on with her work, it imposes an intolerable burden upon her because she has to do the work of both a man and a woman.

Her home is not a place of rest for her. It is a place of added toil. Her husband doesn't encourage her in her ambitions. He grouches because she doesn't do all for him that the purely domestic woman does for her husband.

If she has children, they take her away from her occupation before they are born, and after they are born she gives one lobe of her brain to what she is doing, and the balance of her thoughts and interest to wondering if some hireling has remembered to give the baby its bottle, and see that little Johnny isn't getting his feet wet, and that Susie ate her spinach for lunch.

It is folly to deny all of these drawbacks to a woman's success in business or the professions. She is not to blame for them. But there they are, and there they will remain, because no matter how far women progress they can never get beyond the limitations of their sex. And that is why women's greatest success will always be in just being women. —DOROTHY DIX.

TWO BIG BILLS IN CONFERENCE

Prison and Fee Legislation Still Unfinished

AUSTIN, Feb. 14. (AP)—Legislation on both of the subjects submitted by Governor Moody to the special session when he convened it—penitentiary centralization and fee system changes—were in free conference tonight.

The house refused to concur in the senate amendment to its fee bill and a conference committee was appointed as follows: For the house, Representatives R. M. Hubbard of New Boston, Cecil Storey of Vernon, George Purl and Jack Keller of Dallas and Carl Routree of Lamesa, and for the senate, Senators Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock, Tom Deberry of Bogota, W. A. Williamson of San Antonio, Walter Woodul of Houston and Carl Hardin of Stephenville.

The house bill had been drafted by Representative Hubbard, who would have all officers account for their fees of office and fix maximums on their earnings, according to population of the counties, up to $12,500 for officers in counties of 180,000 and over. The senate measure proposed by Senator Pink L. Parrish simply provided for officers to keep a record of their fees and set a flat maximum of $12,500 without regard to population.

The conference committee trying to compromise divergent views on penitentiary centralization was scheduled to resume its deliberations tomorrow. The senate conferees were holding out for a central plant near Austin and the house group stood for rehabilitation of existing properties without changing location of the headquarters walls at Huntsville.

make travel through these intersections safer.

A report prepared for the insurance committee of the chamber of commerce of the United States shows that 10 states—California, Colorado, Kentucky, Maryland, Nevada, Montana, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Minnesota and Utah—have old age pensions. Seven of the state laws grant to counties the option of establishing old age pension plans which may be discontinued after a year's trial. Many of the counties, however, have not adopted the system.

In Wichita county year by year the care of the indigent—and the larger number of the indigent are aged—is becoming a greater problem. The old age pension, however small, would be a boon to many.

A friend asks Talker to urge readers to provide not only food but water for the birds that are coming back after the winter's blizzard. The birds are back before insects and plant life, their natural food, has returned and they need the assistance of their human friends. And all year through they need water. If you want birds about your home provide a drinking and bathing fountain for them. They may be compelled to seek elsewhere for their food but they will flock in a yard or garden where there is water.

FIRE CREDIT SIX PER CENT

City's Rating Reduced On 1929 Record

Because of the large property loss by fires in Wichita Falls during the past year, the city's present 12 per cent credit insurance on premiums will be decreased to 6 per cent effective March 1, according to a telegram received by fire officials Friday from J. W. DeWeese, head of the state fire commission.

The former good fire record of the city was marred by several huge fires during the past year, resulting in the loss of half the reduction formerly granted on insurance premiums. City and fire officials Friday joined in urging the exercise of every precaution to prevent fires in buildings already in use and in demanding the construction of future buildings along safety lines by use of fire-resisting materials at effective points and installation of fire extinguishing apparatus.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

(Copyright 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

DO YOU KNOW WHEN YOU ARE HUNGRY?

If you have seen a bunch of farm hands or lumber jacks rush into a dining room and consume all of the available food, you may smile when you see the difficulties some of the fashionables have in selecting food that is tempting enough to eat, even in a first class restaurant where the chef considers himself a culinary artist. City people, as a class, have selective appetites. They do not know the raw, crude hunger that their forefathers felt after the out-of-door vigorous work necessary in fosaging a community out of the wilderness.

Nothing makes food taste so good as being downright hungry. The Germans have a saying—"Der hunger is der beste koch"—meaning roughly that hunger is the best sauce. Those who work up a healthy hunger not only enjoy their food more but digest it better. "Healthy hunger" is a good name, because only a really healthy person knows what real hunger is. The loss of hunger is one of the first signs that ill health approaches and it is also a good sign that the body is wise in realizing that doing without food for a time is one of the best remedies for ill health.

When you have a poor appetite you should not attempt to stuff yourself with the appetizing foods which are usually the least healthful, but you should make your appetite come back by taking an orange or grapefruit fast for a few days. To a person who starts out again after such a fast, food not only tastes as good as mother used to make, but in many cases it tastes a wee bit better.

Many people would enjoy food more if they would only give their stomachs a chance to register hunger by not nibbling between meals. If you think you are hungry between meal times, it is better just to take a large drink of water or fruit juice.

False hunger is largely a matter of habit. If one is accustomed to eating regular meals, the habit of beign hungry occurs at that certain hour just before meal-time. Many people have their eating habits trained by wrong methods, and even though they know, they are eating the wrong things, they like them because they have spent years in learning to like them. They cease to be hungry for simple and wholesome foods. For example, our meals are so built on habit that many people think they could not eat vegetables for breakfast, although there is no real reason why breakfast and dinner could not be reversed.

Hunger is usually a hurry call for those foods called fuel foods. Unfortunately, we rarely know when we are hungry for the vitamins or for the minerals. Usually, however, one feels unsatisfied, and the feeling arises that there is some deficiency in the diet. We do not realize just what this deficiency is and may transfer the call into a yearning for candy, pickles, soda or weenies, and children generally fall back on cruder substances such as lead pencils, dirt or plaster from the wall, in fact, almost anything.

Insatiable appetite is not usually true hunger, but generally a sign of stomach irritation, or it may be that the organs are not assimilating enough of the food that is being eaten, or that some one class of food is being neglected.

Most people limit their intake in such a way that they get too much starch and not enough protein. This method gives rise to a feeling of being a little hungry all the time, but the sensation is gone if a meal of meat, eggs or other proteins is taken.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Red Hair

Question—K. W. asks: "How can red hair be darkened gradually? And what can be done for dry, coarse hair?"

Answer—I do not know of any way that red hair can be gradually darkened. This color of hair will often become lighter through the year, but seldom becomes dark. Many important men and women in the world have had light red hair all their lives without worrying about it. Coarse hair always means strong hair, but this kind of hair can also become too dry, especially in certain climates. A good treatment for dry hair is to rub a little cocoanut oil into the hair and scalp each time after the hair is washed.

Osteomyelitis

Question—M. B. M. writes: "I have a brother who five years ago lost both legs, having suffered with osteomyelitis. He has been back in the hospital many times and operated on a dosen times. Is there a cure, and what is the cause? In his helpless condition he drinks terribly at times, his lodge friends being the accommodating souls. Do you not think this aggravates his condition?"

Answer—This disorder is an inflammation of the bone which must always come from some toxic condition of the system. Your brother will certainly not improve himself any through drinking unless he changes to plain water and drinks several quarts of that daily. If your brother is serious about getting well and is willing to live on a correct dietetic regime, I would be glad to have him write to me and I will send him the best advice I can for him to follow to overcome his trouble.

New Orleans Dock Charges Altered

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 14. (AP)—The dock board in regular meeting here today decided to lower the charges on passenger vessels entering port with small cargoes of freight and to intervene in injunction proceedings brought by the Texas and Pacific railroad to prevent the Interstate Commerce commission from carrying out a decree abolishing the equalization between New Orleans and Texas ports affecting points on the Texas and Pacific and Louisiana and Arkansas railroads.

U. S. Foreign Trade Balance Favorable

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. (UP)—United States trade with the world showed a favorable balance of $106,000,000 of exports over imports in January, the commerce department reported today.

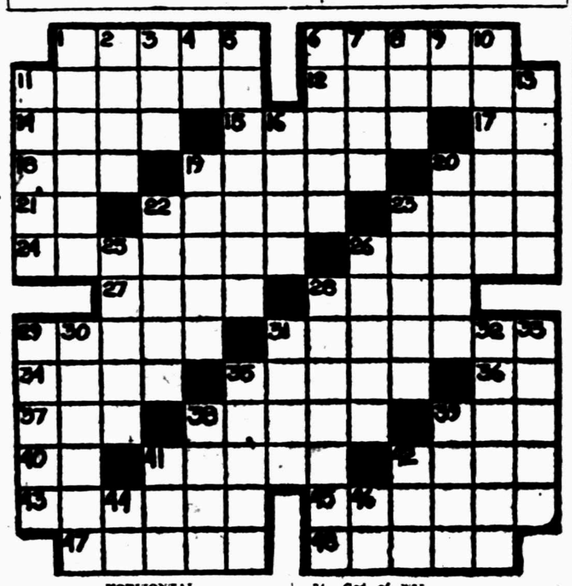

Shipments abroad, however, fell $9,646,000 below the December level, the $417,000,000 in exports comparing with $426,646,000 in the month preceding and $488,023,000 in January, 1929.

Department experts attribute the falling off to decreased shipments of raw cotton.

Herbert Kaufman's
HOCUS-POCUS
Daily Editorial

DEAN POUND, of Harvard Law School and the Wickersham commission, denies that any of our Constitutional rights are jeopardized by the proposition to dispense with jury trials for minor prohibition violations.

He tells congress the supreme court long ago decided that the jury is an instrument solely reserved for the determination of shameful crimes.

Which raises the pretty question as to what constitutes a shameful crime.

If we proceed on the premise that severity of penalty is the interpreting factor, then the slightest infraction of the Volstead act must be so construed.

The Jones law, which derives its authority from the Volstead act requires penitentiary sentences ranging from five to 10 years for the least fall from 18th amendment grace.

Such penalties are only equaled in severity by the penalties established for arson, forgery, felonious assault, mayhem, seduction, manslaughter and burglary.

In other words, the Jones law places all prohibition violations in the felony area, and all felonious acts are legally shameful.

Professor Pound wishes it clearly understood that he expresses no derogatory opinion of the Jones law, when he admits that it must be modified sufficiently to remove certain prohibition offenses into the misdemeanor class, in order that they may be brought to trial before U. S. commissioners instead of state and federal courts.

But United States commissioners, who may be appointed without previous legal experience, cannot under present statutes pass upon felonies.

AND since all prohibition violations, as has just been shown, are subject to felonious indictment under the terms of the Jones act, it is manifest that the Jones act must be changed before any form of prohibition violation can be transferred to this new jurisdiction.

So here we are back again where we started.

And if all this is confusing to your lay perception, don't suffer from an inferiority complex—it doesn't seem to be any clearer to the professor himself, who further tweedle-dums and tweedle-dees over the situation, by explaining that the Wickersham commission's recommendation doesn't purpose to deprive anybody of recourse to a later jury hearing after a United States commissioner has rendered his decision.

"Oh, what a tangled web we weave, "When first we practice to deceive" basic facts.

Small wonder that Mr. Taft concluded that time had arrived to retire to his "Sabine farm."

Straightening the kinks out of tangles of this sort is enough to frazzle the most robust sagacity, much less an over-toiled mind.

Preserving the integrity of the constitution from the monkey wrenches which prohibition enforcement increasingly throws into the works, is no responsibility for a debilitated jurist.

We congratulate the returning high magistrate upon the honors about to be conferred on him, but we must warn him that he's inherited the world's champion headache along with the job.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

The first essential in successful selling is to honestly sell yourself. You must believe in your house, the product of the house and in your own ability to make good. The rest is a matter of time and effort.

MINERS ENTOMBED

ST. ETIENNE, France, Feb. 14 (INS)—Fifteen men were entombed in a mine cave-in here today, since the air lines were undamaged authorities were hopeful of rescuing the men.

We just saw a picture of Nick Longworth, speaker of the house, engaging in pistol practice. Good work, Nick.

We know a confirmed crank who says that the ladies nowadays have too many irons in the fire and not enough on the ironing board.

The Thrill Is Missing

AS THE London naval conference drags its somewhat weary way through succeeding days, the average American is apt to find himself harboring a sort of disappointment.

Beyond doubt, the delegates are doing their best. Premier MacDonald and Secretary Stimson, the two leading spirits in the conference, are quite obviously sincere. A genuine desire for peace is evident in all quarters.

But somehow the whole business is very unexciting. It lacks the spectacular thrill of the Washington conference of 1921. There has been no grand gesture, no startling, chance-taking action or suggestion of action.

In 1921 the thing was handled better.

The conference then was hardly begun when Secretary Hughes got to his feet and took the world's breath away by announcing that the United States would toss half a dozen great battleships onto the scrapheap if other nations would do the same.

His announcement instantly put opponents of naval reduction on the defensive. The Washington conference was a real step away from war, and it owed most of its success to Hughes' dramatic opening gesture.

But the London conference—well, to date most of the delegates' time has been spent in quibbling about the agenda. Diplomatic sparring has been the order of the day. Statesmen duck from one private confab to another. There has not been a grand, inspiring gesture to rivet the world's attention.

Why not? We were led to expect one. Last fall President Hoover announced that the United States was ready to cut its navy as low as any other nation would go. Any reduction that might be proposed, he said, "cannot be too low for us."

Yet when the British, at London, proposed the abolition of all battleships, did the American delegation instantly accept the proposition and back it to the limit? It did not. Instead it cautiously submitted a counter proposal, which seems to leave the United States under the necessity of building a good many more ships than it now possesses. Indeed, the latest report is that the American proposal includes the construction by this country of a brand new super-dreadnaught!

The average newspaper reader, by this time, has doubtless passed his verdict on the proceedings at London by simply ignoring the lengthy news articles about them. These daily stories are too hard to wade through. They are, to put it bluntly, dull and boresome. A diplomatic chess game is in progress; and it might be remembered that this is a game at which European diplomats are ordinarily far more skillful than Americans.

Whatever the upshot of the London conference may be, the stage-managing, to date, has been poor. There has been nothing to fire people's imaginations, as the American proposal of 1921 fired them. And that is precisely the thing that is necessary if any enthusiasm for naval reduction is to be generated.

Jacob's Ladder

ANNOUNCEMENT by the city health department that more than 50 modern dairy barns and milk rooms have been completed in and near Wichita Falls during the past 40 days serves as a poignant reminder of the never-ending campaign being waged all over the world, as in this city, to minimize human ailments and to prolong human life.

Strict regulation of the conditions under which milk for public consumption is produced is part of the preventive phase of the constant battle against disease. Another phase lies within the realm of medical and surgical science, devoting itself also to prevention, but from the standpoint of public recognition, more especially to curative processes. A third element in the movement for better health and longer life might be described as including multiple psychological and educational aids which are being given the public.

Application of human intelligence to the vigorous survival of the human body has been no more rapid nor remarkable in the miraculous achievements of medicine and surgery than in the gradual but systematic growth of health-laws of and for society. The average child of today may find his generation little concerned with practices which to his forefathers would have been cardinal sins; but despite that possibility, he is surrounded from the day of his birth with protection and guidance toward physical well-being which represent one of civilization's greatest accomplishments.

Entitled to the Facts

SENATOR BRATTON wants the secretary of commerce to furnish the senate with complete information about every fatal aircraft accident since May, 1926, together with the department's complete findings as to the causes; and the senate will vote on his proposal sometime this winter.

It is hard to see any valid objection to this proposal. The general public will never be converted to this air-mindedness we hear so much about by a policy of covering up. The commerce department, it seems to us, owes it to the rest of the country to give out this information. As potential airplane passengers we all, surely, have a right to know how accidents happen.

Steamship and railroad train wrecks are always given full publicity, and every contributory cause is made public. Aviation has no right to expect more favored treatment.

The Kick-of-the-Month

With today's offering the column inaugurates its new feature, "The Kick-of-the-Month," to salute—in the only manner it knows—such delightful prose as this simply swelegant piece, by Patricia Collinge, the actress, who between roles jots down articles for the New Yorker, from which this one is borrowed with permission.

"Yes," said the actress into the telephone, "I'm free. . . . Yes, I can be there at four o'clock. . . . I understand. . . . Naturally they would want to see me before engaging me. And, of course, I must read the play before accepting the part. . . . Yes. . . . Yes. At four, then."

She hung up. So they wanted to see her first. A new firm. The older managers knew her, knew what she could do, and what she looked like. What she could look like, because, of course, she looked better on the stage. Younger. And it was for a young part that they wanted her. Twenty-eight, the agent had said. Well, she could look twenty-eight. Even off the stage. Oh, not now. But dressed, with a becoming hat, or in the evening. And twenty-eight wasn't so awfully young. It was really almost thirty, and she wasn't much older herself. Thirty-seven. Practically thirty-six. And she looked thirty? Thirty-two? Thirty-seven. But she could look twenty-eight on the stage. If only these people knew that. For she wanted the job.

She had to have it. It had been how many months since the last? Well, never mind that now. They wanted her at last. But she didn't like them wanting to see her first, as though she were a beginner. After all, everyone knew she was a good actress. Everyone? Well, these were new people, and they had to protect themselves. Just as she did. "And, of course, I must read the play." She had had to say that; it was part of the game. In the old days they just sent her the play, and if she liked it she took it and that was all. Well, it was different now—better be thankful for anything. Still, she wished it was a firm that knew her. These people had never seen her act, perhaps they had never even heard of her. Nonsense. They wouldn't be sending for her if they hadn't. But were they? Or was it just that the agent had urged her name on them. "Just see her, anyway." No, no, she mustn't think about it that way. They wanted her, of course they did.

She wished she knew more about the play. It helped. She would know what to wear, how to talk. The agent said it was a comedy—high comedy. It would be a nice part, then. A young wife, perhaps, or a young widow. Gay, sophisticated. Nice clothes. She would go to that new place, she would insist on that, have it in her contract. They might refuse, but they would agree to anything if they wanted you. Clothes, salary, anything. Salary. How much should she ask? It had been so long since she had done anything important. And this was an important part. But if you asked too little they thought less of you. But if you asked too much? And she couldn't lose this chance. She couldn't. Well, wait and see how they feel. If they wanted her cheap she could seem to come down. "You see, I like the part so much, and that means a lot, doesn't it?" She could do it gracefully.

It was nice to look forward to the appointment. They would be pleasantly friendly—they always were when they sent for you. They probably wouldn't talk business today anyway—just give her the play to read. "It's a great part—you'll like it; but better read it first." "Thank you. I'll read it tonight, and let you know tomorrow." "Fine, but could you read it this afternoon, and let us know tonight? We want to get this settled right away."

But she ought to be getting ready. What ought she to wear? She hadn't much choice. The gray? She hated gray; it made her feel dead. The black? Black was always right, and it was a good dress. Three years old, but good. She knew what she ought to wear. Beige. A soft pinky beige, with a lot of fox. Fox was flattering, young. The black would have to do. What about that white frill? Not smart, but—no, it looked a makeshift. The pearl beads looked nice, and her hat, thank God, was new. Was it really so becoming? They had exclaimed over it in the shop: "That is your hat, Madame." But they always did that. Makeup? It made you look older. Or did it? She never could be sure. The mouth, of course, and maybe a little on the eyes. Careful. It made you look tired, too. And a little, a very little rouge. There. Twenty-eight, even in the daylight. A charming young wife of twenty-eight.

Four o'clock. The actress sat in the office. From a window behind the desk a north light struck at her sharply. The producer was not there; the young man in his place was the author of the play. If only she knew something about it. This light bothered her, it was so gray. She mustn't think about it, though; she must look bright—interested.

The author was speaking.

"It was for the part of the girl you were to see me?"

"I—the agent said the lead."

"Yes, that's it. The girl."

"The agent didn't say, but it's the part of a young wife, is it not?"

"No. No, she isn't married, she's just a girl."

"About twenty-eight, I understand."

"Twenty-two."

Twenty-two. It was a mistake then. The agent had made a mistake. But had he? It was high comedy; they would need an experienced actress for that. That was it, of course. And she could look twenty-two. Why not? With the proper lighting. And her hair. She could cut her hair again. She smiled. "Twenty-two?"

"Yes," said the author. "And she is a young twenty-two. I mean that she is immature, untouched. Just—well—just young."

Young. All the little lines were standing out under her eyes. She could see them before her, quite clearly.

"She sounds charming," she said. He didn't answer that. Well—try again. She must try again.

"The agent said it was a high-comedy part." . . . "Yes."

"High comedy is difficult; it takes a lot of experience, doesn't it?"

The author stirred uneasily. "I suppose it does," he said.

"Yes," she said. "I haven't read the part, but I imagine it needs someone who can look young, but who has the necessary technique."

"As a matter of fact, I—we feel for the sake of the play we will have to make some sacrifice in that line to the physical requirements. You see she must be—she must be—" He made a vague gesture.

"I see," she said. There was a pause.

"I'd like so much to read the play," she said.

He hesitated. "I'd be glad to have you, but I haven't a script in the office just now." Then he brightened and got up. "I'll tell you what. I'll send you a copy, as soon as one comes from the typist. We have your address." . . . "Thank you," she said.

"Yes, we'll do that. We'll do that."

"Then—good afternoon," said the actress.

"Good-bye," he said, and opened the door.

So that was it. A girl of twenty-two. "And a young twenty-two." Oh, why hadn't she got up then and left? But she couldn't have. How could she? There might have been a chance for her, and she had had to be sure. Twenty-two. It had been cruel to send her.

Still, the part would need experience and he hadn't really said she wouldn't do, had he? He might have been very much interested; you couldn't always tell. Maybe he would send her the play after all. Maybe he would telephone her: "I'm sending the play over. Could you give us an answer in the morning?"

Twenty-two wasn't so young. She could look 10 years younger. With the right clothes and the right makeup. Of course she could. Twenty-eight, thirty-two—three, four, five, six, seven. Thirty-seven. Thirty-eight, thirty-nine, forty. Forty. Forty. Twenty-two from forty. "O God, O dear God! Don't let me cry. Don't let my cry in the street."

"LOVEJOY" : By : Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER XXXVII

Parties at the Aldersons' house were always very gay.

The one tonight was wildly hilarious. As usual Al Alderson served too many drinks. And by the end of the meal everybody was what he called "pleasantly jingled."

One of his favorite remarks was "Nobody in my house stays sober."

He insisted that Lovejoy drink a high-ball with her dinner and another one after her coffee.

"It's too hot to play cards or to dance," Aline decided when the group was in the living room with its wide-open French windows and its softly-shaded lamps. "I'll tell you what we'll do—We'll play 'Dates'!"

"That sounds exciting!" Elsie Lambert giggled. "How do we play it?"

"Every man gets a partner for himself," said Aline, "and he goes with her and a couple of drinks and cigarets to some nice cozy spot and stays there chatting and smoking and drinking for half an hour . . . Then we all come back to this room and change partners. The young kids are doing it everywhere, so they say."

"It sounds like a wonderful way to get acquainted with everybody," chirped Elsie, casting flirtatious eyes at Steve.

"No use rolling your eyes out of your head at Steve!" Lovejoy said to her. "I know he's going to pick me."

She crossed the room to him and perched on the broad arms of his chair. "Come on, Stevuns!" she said to him, "Let's go and find a cozy corner all by our own little selves."

"That leaves me without a partner. I'll go out on the front steps and wait for Tom," she heard Aline say as she and Steve left the room by way of the side porch.

At the end of the porch was a deep, softly-cushioned hammock couch. They bumped against it in the darkness.

"Let's stay here," Steve whispered. "We can talk here without the whole crew listening in. . . . Lovejoy—"

She felt his arms go around her. He drew her close to him. His eyes were very large and strange, so close to hers in the darkness. Then her lids slowly closed as his mouth met her mouth in a long, hard kiss. She could feel his whole body temble against hers.

"Lovejoy, you're going to get your divorce, aren't you?" he asked her after a minute or two. "You aren't going to change your mind again, are you, dear?"

She shook her head, her face close to his in the sweet, warm darkness.

"No, Steve, I'll do anything you want me to do," she whispered. "You just plan the whole thing for me—and I'll do it—"

"I beg your pardon!" said a voice at her ear . . . Tom's voice! Tom's voice, thick and husky as it always was when he had been drinking.

"I don't like to interrupt this way," he said. "But your Uncle James is very sick, Lovejoy, and your aunt wants you."

In spite of the thickness and the huskiness in his voice there was something in it as cold and sharp as a steel knife.

He saw me! Lovejoy said to herself. He couldn't have helped seeing me and Steve! . . . Oh, well, what difference did it make? He wasn't her husband any more, except by law, she told herself.

And all the way to Bullard street in his rickety jiggety little car she kept remembering things she had read in the newspapers about "unkissed wives" who had asked for divorces.

That's what I'll have to tell the judge when I ask for mine, she thought, and she giggled hysterically. I'll tell him that I'm another "unkissed bride."

Then another thought of an altogether different sort struck her.

"How did you find out that Uncle James is sick?" she asked Tom sharply and suddenly.

"Aunt Em called up the house," he answered shortly.

"But I thought that you were going to stay downtown for dinner," she said. "You said you were going to."

Tom nodded.

"Yes, I did tell you that," he replied, turning the corner of Bullard street on two wheels. "But I didn't stay downtown. I waited until it was time for you to go over to Aldersons' and then I came home. Norrie got me something to eat, and I had a drink and a smoke in peace and quiet for a change."

Lovejoy's jaw stiffened. "You sneaked home to spend an evening alone with her!" she cried. "You let me go all alone to that party just because you wanted Norrie Shane to yourself, you beastly double-crosser, you!—Well, let me tell you something—"

"Let me tell you something for a change!" Tom broke in upon her roughly. "I'll tell you why I didn't go to that party tonight!—I didn't go because I'm sick of that whole putrid crowd!—What were they doing when I go there? Just what I knew they'd be doing!—Necking each other in dark corners and calling it a game! Playing 'postoffice' like a lot of half-baked kids!—I'm through with them!"

The car drew up before Aunt Em's apartment house with its customary jerk. But Lovejoy did not move from her seat.

"They're all the friends we have . . ." she was beginning when he stopped her a second time.

"We won't have them much longer though," he said, and then he added fervently, "Thank the Lord!"

Puzzled, Lovejoy stared at him as he leaned forward to shut off the engine and turn on the curb lights of the car . . . Now, what on earth did he mean by that remark, she wondered.

"I quit my job today," he told her. "They bawled me out for coming down late in the mornings—and they said I was drinking too much. I told them that my private life was none of their business, and they they could take their one-horse job and give it to some choir-boy—"

"Oh, Tom!" Lovejoy's voice was a little wailing cry in the darkness. She knew how much that job really meant to him. She knew how hard he had worked to build up a clientlist during the last two years.

She put her arms out and tried to draw him into them.

But he thrust her away and got out of the car, slamming the door of it violently as he got out.

"I don't want that!" he said brutally. "I don't want your love or your pity either, thanks. I'm through with a lot of things besides my job, my girl!"

He means he's through with me, she said to herself.

They went into the house.

At midnight Uncle James died.

Lovejoy stayed at the flat all night with Aunt Em, and the next morning she took her home with her in a taxicab.

"It's more cheerful at my house, Aunt Em," she told her, "We won't go back to the house until the funeral."

Dazed and meek like a confused little girl, Aunt Em did as she was told. She was utterly unlike her brisk, strong-minded self.

On the first of August she went back to Bullard street.

Tom and Lovejoy took her home, and Tom brought her a great armful of yellow roses from a flower shop that they passed on their way there.

"Tom," she scolded him when he came back to the car with them. "That's a terrible thing for you to do when you're so poor."

Tom grinned at her as he took the wheel once more. His teeth flashed in his tanned face, but there was no smile on his eyes. Lovejoy had noticed how unhappy he had been looking for days . . . Unhappy and beaten, too, somehow.

"I got those for you to soften your heart, Aunt Em," he said to her with a laugh. "I want to ask you to do me a favor."

And then, briskly and harshly, he told her that he and Lovejoy had come to the parting of the ways. Only he did not call it the parting fo the ways. There was nothing of the poet about Tom Nicholson.

"We've decided to split up," was the way he put it.

"It's just as well, I suppose," he said, his eyes on the road ahead of him. "I can't support her the way I ought to—I can't give her the things that her friends' husbands can give them."

"And you're in love with Norrie Shane, besides! Please mention that!" Lovejoy said fiercely. "Please don't put the blame of all this on me, Tom Nicholson!—Aunt Em knows how things have been going for ages! I've told her everything about you and Norrie!"

Tom did not say a word to her. "I want you to take Norrie and the baby for a while," he said quietly to Aunt Em. "I'll give Lovejoy enough money to pay their board. It won't be much for a while, but it will be something. And then later on—"

Lovejoy stopped listening to him. . . . Why, this was the answer to the whole problem, she was thinking:—Aunt Em could take care of the baby, and she, herself, could go to Minden, Nevada, for her divorce!

The Once Over
By H. I. PHILLIPS

Is There No Justice?

Take a deep breath, girls, and be as composed as possible while you hear the latest news? Don't get excited! Listen: Paris has come out for skirts with bathing suits!

PHILLIPS

Just when the daughters of our very best people had become accustomed to parading up and down the beaches looking just about the way they looked getting in and out of a bathtub, Patou will be the smart thing this summer.

The situation calls for a revolution.

Up, bathing girls, and at 'em!

Are you going to yield meekly and walk up and down a beach so attired that nobody will turn around and lose a couple of eyes? Are you going to consent to go bathing in a costume that won't agitate a single censor? Will you be satisfied to be seen at a shore resort in attire that even your best friend will agree is modest and decent?

No, then thousand times no!

You know what will happen if you yield. Once those French dressmakers get a skirt on a bathing-girl again they will come out for stockings. Then there will be an edict that bathing shoes are the smart caper.

After that—heaven forbid!—Mons. Patou will come out for the old-fashioned blouse that mother used to wear.

It will be but a step from that to bathing-corsets, a high collar and one of those big straw beach hats you see in the family album when you turn to the picture of Aunt Arabella and Uncle Jim snapped with Cousin Minnie and the pug dog at Glen Island the summer before they blew up the Maine.

It will mean a return to the days when it took weeks for a nice girl to recover from the humiliation she suffered when a male person saw her on the bathing beach with a run in her stocking.

Or when young Otis Presbury noticed as she came out of the water that a half-inch of bare flesh showed between the tops of her stockings and her bloomers.

Oops, my dears!

Call the protest meetings now before it is too late. There are limits to what American womanhood will endure.

The $10,000 Hunch

The greatest "hunch player" in golf is Gene Sarazen. When Sarazen becomes enmeshed in a hunch he is harder to stop than a simoon Especially if he can justify the hunch from some past experience. Here is just one example. Back in 1922 at Skokie in his third round of the open championship Sarazen went out in 43 and took a 4 on the tenth hole. This totaled 47 strokes for 10 holes and practically chucked him out of the championship. He figured he was out until he rammed in a 50-foot putt for a 3 early in the final round and then finished with a 68.

In the recent Agua Caliente $25,000 tournament, first prize $10,000, Sarazen again seemed to be out of the money. In his third round he was out in 41 and he started home with a 6. Once again he had taken 47 strokes for the first 10 holes. And then he suddenly recalled the Skokie incident of eight years ago. "The situation is just the same," he said to Johnny Farrell. "I had taken 47 then—and won. I've taken 47 to here—and I'll win again." And once more in the last round Sarazen finished with a 63. When Sarazen hits his strides he isn't worried about any big names who may be leading him. He was four strokes back of Bobby Jones, with 18 holes to play, at Skokie. He was well back of Horton Smith at Agua Caliente. But not even the shadow of a Bobby Jones or a Horton Smith meant anything across his path, once he decided fate had picked him to win.

The stocky Italian can ride fast and hard, once he makes up his mind to shoot the works. But here and there he has also thrown away chances to win after apparently deciding that it wasn't his time to arrive in front. One bad hole may turn him into a careless entry. Or one bad hole may send him spinning along under par. It all depends upon what his hunch is at some particular point.

Johnny Farrell Returns

The open champion who beat Bobby Jones a stroke in the famous play off at Olympia fields in 1928 is all set to go again through 1930.

That championship brought Johnny Farrell to a badly over-golfed condition in 1929, but on his last western tour he struck his old pace again and he will bear watching this season. He came near winning three big tournaments out West—one of them the P. G. A.—but in each case his over-eagerness to land in front cost him his chance. After an off year it meant a lot to the Quaker Ridge pro to bag another big money. In fact, it meant too much at the time, for each case he found himself trying just a little too hard to hurry his come-back. As it is Farrell found that both his game and his health had returned and this will mean new confidence for the campaign ahead. Farrell expects to start in the main run of southern tournaments, featuring all Florida shows where the Le Gorse open a $15,000 party, will be the big shot. Farrell and Sarazen will again play together in the four-ball championship and they will be a hard pair to take.

A Unique Challenger

Max Schmeling is a unique contribution to pugilism. Picked to face the winner of the Sharkey-Scott meeting at Miami, the German heavyweight still remains in the mystery class without having taken a hostile swing in more than six months. One German paper says he has become "too fat and too effeminate." Another says he has a bad ankle, injured in a motor accident, that will cost him his speed. Bad ankles don't bound back in a week or two. Whether or not he is fat, effeminate and crippled, no challenger in ring history on his way to a final test has kept so far away from his profession. One or two hard fights after the Paulino battle would have made Schmeling a big favorite against any heavyweight now fighting.

As it is he has undoubtedly gone back a lap or so and no one seems to know anything about him beyond a guess.

If Scott should out-stab Sharkey a Scott-Schmeling battle for the heavyweight championship would be enough to show just where the heavyweight situation is for 1930. Under the circumstances even a Carnera or a Campolo can't be laughed out of the picture.

The Real Competitor

The golf professional is still the leading competitor of the lot when it comes to taking a chance. He isn't guaranteed any fancy prize money for which he may offer about 20 cents' worth of effort in return. He collects only what he earns against the hardest brand of competition. He pays his own way and he has to beat a big number of stars to finish inside the money. If his work flops, so does his bank account.

Some day the fight game, for one, may come to the same principal of paying off. When this happens you will see some fighting worth a bird's-eye view at least.

Indoor Track Season Develops Two Stars

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (UP)—The 1930 indoor track season now has developed a pair of stellar performers and will move into its third important phase Saturday in the Metropolitan association A. A. U. games.

The one spectacular hero of the current season is, of course, Stella Walsh, Amazonian speedster of Cleveland who runs under the New York Central A. A. C. colors.

Miss Walsh captivated a New York audience at the Millrose A. A. games Saturday when she broke the girls' world record for 50 yards indoors. The old mark was 6 1-5 seconds. Miss Walsh made the distance in 6 seconds flat in a heat and turned in a 6 1-10 seconds performance in the final.

After a few days' rest Miss Walsh last night set a new record of 26 4-5 seconds for 220 yards indoors. The old indoor record was 28 4-5 seconds. The new time was made in the Meadowbrook games at Philadelphia.

A second hero is Dr. Paul Martin, Swiss surgeon. Doctor Martin surprised fans at the Newark A. C. games by running away from Phil Edwardson, N. Y. C. negro ace, and Ray Conger, Illinois A. C. flyer, to win the 1,000 yards run in the highly creditable time of 2 minutes, 15 2-5 seconds. The U. S. indoor mark for 1,000 yards is 2 minutes, 12 4-5 seconds.

Frederick Bearcats Win Place in Finals

Basket ball champions of a half dozen counties were in the making Friday as tournaments in Wichita, Wilbarger, Montague, Archer, Clay counties in Texas and Tillman county in Oklahoma were opened.

At Burkburnett, Cashion furnished one of the major upsets of this section by eliminating the Electra Tigers by a count of 21 to 10. In Tillman county Frederick managed to down the battling Loveland five, assuring the Bearcat a place in the finals at Frederick Saturday. Megargel and Holliday came out of the Archer tourney as leaders, while the Montague, Nocona, Forestburg and Bowie teams were left in the Montague competition.

By PAT WILEY
Record News Correspondent

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Feb. 14.—Basket ball teams of Clara, Cashion, Iowa Park and Valley View came through today and tonight in the Wichita county interscholastic league tournament here, and will fight it out Saturday for the county championship.

Clara defeated Fairview easily in the opening battle, winning by a score of 40 to 8.

The Electra Tigers began to think about their track prospects when they finished playing Cashion, which team won handily, 21 to 10.

Iowa Park and Burkburnett were more evenly matched, the Hawks staying in the running by winning 16 to 11.

Semi-finals will be played only in the senior division Saturday. The day's schedule: 10 a. m., Clara vs. Cashion; 2 p. m., Iowa Park vs. Valley View. The final game will be played in the evening.

Results in the junior divisions: Allendale 14, Clara 9; Thompson Ward of Electra 8, Fairview 24; Iowa Park 48, Fairview 1; Iowa Park 2, Electra 20.

MONTAGUE TEAMS PLAY GOOD GAMES

Excellent playing was exhibited throughout the day.

VERNON, HARROLD LEAD IN WILBARGER

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Feb. 14.—Two overwhelming victories were chalked up in the opening game of class A, interscholastic league basket ball, here tonight when Vernon downed Oklaunion by a count of 40 to 9 and Harrold defeated the Five-in-One consolidated team, 49 to 13.

Both games were well fought, but the Vernon and Harrold quintets proved entirely too much for their opponents. The victorious teams ran in many of their second-string men in the closing quarters and still maintained the advantage.

The semi-finals will open at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning with Vernon against Fargo and Harrold against Lockett. Championship games will be played Saturday night in the Vernon High school gymnasium.

BELLEVUE AND BYERS DIVIDE HONORS

Special to The Record News.

BYERS, Texas, Feb. 14.—Byers high school lost a basket ball game to Bellevue tonight but for the third time won the Clay county volley ball championship. Bellevue won the cage contest 15 to 13. Byers took the first two games in volley ball.

MEGARGEL-HOLLIDAY BOUT TO DECIDE TITLE

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIDAY, Texas, Feb. 15.—Megargel and Holliday emerged from preliminaries in the senior division of the Archer county interscholastic league basket ball tournament here late today, and Saturday night the championship of the county will be decided in a match between these two teams.

The deciding game was to have been played tonight, but a decision of A. D. Bradfute, county athletic chairman, delayed the bout until Saturday night. Megargel had already played two games during the afternoon and Coach Belcher refused to allow his team to go once again into the battle.

Megargel swept into the semi-finals by defeating Geraldine, 21 to 14, and by trouncing Archer City, 30 to 14. Mankins beat Dundee, 35 to 18, and Holliday in turn defeated Mankins, 34 to 6.

BATTLING LOVELAND FIVE DEFEATED

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Feb. 14.—In one of the most thrilling cage contests played on the local court for some time the Frederick Bearcats defeated the Loveland High school team Friday afternoon 41 to 32 in the Tillman county basket ball tournament now in progress in this city, and this victory practically assures Coach Paul Allen's men will play Hollister in the finals Saturday night. Loveland's team, coached by Glenn Dallingham, is the only one in the county that has taken Hollister's measure so far this season.

At the end of the first quarter the score was 10 to 9 in favor of Frederick. At the end of the half it was 17 to 15 in Frederick's favor. At the end of the third quarter it was 26 to 23 in favor of the locals. The final quarter saw hard playing by both aggregations in which Emmick, Nelly, Pritchard, Steinbock and Addison shared in the scoring.

Good Fighters Go Hungry as Ring Clowns Reap Harvest of Gold

By DIXON STEWART

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (UP)—Fistic styles have changed and pugilism's freaks are drawing down the rich purses formerly reserved for fighters of championship ability.

Primo Carnera, the Italian giant, has earned (or been paid) approximately $60,000 for four fights against men of little or no comparative ability.

Real Fighters Broke

Meanwhile, real fighters find it difficult to make money. Last Saturday Al Brown, the Panama negro who holds the world's bantamweight championship, defended his title against Johnny Erickson in a New York arena for $800. Carnera gets that for a gym workout. Brown is a really great fighter, but the public is more concerned with freaks than it is with fistic class.

Carnera has received more for four fights than Jack Dempsey earned until after he won the world's championship — including the $27,500 purse he received for beating Jess Willard. With every city which boasts a boxing arena clamoring for the vast Venetian and his tremendous feet it is likely Carnera will exhaust the supply of "stumble bums" and accumulate a fortune before he meets a real fighter.

Madison Square garden is trying to arrange a bout between Carnera and George Godfrey, considered by many the greatest of modern big men. Garden officials believe the bout would establish a new record for indoor attractions but even the prospect of a $100,000 purse is not expected to intrigue Carnera so long as he can earn $8,000 per minute for fighting set-ups.

Big Drawing Card

Carnera is boxing's greatest drawing card since Jack Dempsey was in his prime. Vittorio Campolo, the 6 foot, 6 inch 235-pound Argentine, might have been ballyhooed to equal prominence but his managers have made the mistake of attempting to guide him to a championship instead of exploiting him as a freak.

As yet neither of the giants has displayed any real ability and it is hard to believe either ever will acquire the championship. There have been many big men in prize ring history, but only one—Jess Willard—was able to attain top ranking.

WILL THEY ACCEPT?

BALTIMORE, Feb. 14. (INS)—An offer of $10,000 for a one-round bout to be staged in Baltimore was telegraphed today to John Gilbert, movie star, and Jim Tully, writer, by Benny Franklin, local promoter.

Gilbert and Tully recently engaged in fisticuffs in a Hollywood cafe.

PRIMO BUMPS FIFTH VICTIM

Navy Fighter Lasts Less Than One Round

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 14. (UP)—Primo Carnera, gigantic Italian heavyweight, won his fifth fight in this country tonight, knocking out Big Jim Sigman of Boston in 1 minute 35 seconds of the first round.

Outweighing his opponent by more than 50 pounds, the Venitian showman lost no time in ending the encounter.

Sigman, claimant of the heavyweight championship of the American navy, failed to land a telling blow, and succumbed to the punches of the Italian as soon as Carnera settled down to his work.

Primo's fifth fight was as farcical as his previous appearances in the United States, consisting mainly of a pursuit race in which "Big Jim" proved unable to keep out of range.

From the opening bell, Carnera belted the Bostonian about, the final blow driving Sigman through the ropes.

MICKEY WALKER COPS DECISION

ARENA, DETROIT, Feb. 14. (UP)—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight champion, invaded the light heavyweight division here tonight and easily won a second decision over Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen, Wash., contender, in a 10-round battle before an overflow crowd of 17,000 spectators.

Walker won the decision of Referee Elmer (Slim) McClelland after he had given the heavier Lomski a good lacing, winning seven rounds, and having the Washington boxer weary and holding on persistently in the last two.

ROSENBLOOM WINS

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP)—Maxey Rosenbloom, cuffing New York light heavyweight, easily won a 10-round decision tonight over Ace Hudkins, Nebraska wildcat, in a slambang struggle that thrilled a capacity crowd of 17,000 at Madison Square garden. Rosenbloom weighed 172. Hudkins 165. There were no knockdowns.

Porkers Knock Mustangs Over

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 14. (AP)—Southern Methodist university's fighting Mustangs, in a last half rally, fought desperately to upset the University of Arkansas cagers' Southwest conference hopes tonight but failed by the slim margin of one point, the game ending Arkansas 28, S. M. U. 27.

The Mustangs who last week knocked Texas university out of the Southwest title race, were lagging at the end of the half six points behind the Razorbacks; but more than doubling their first half score, they gave the Porkers their first scare of the season in the final period.

TEXAS DEFEATS AGGIE QUINT

AUSTIN, Feb. 14. (AP)—The University of Texas maintained its hold on second place in the Southwest conference basket ball race here tonight by defeating the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college five in a dull and listless game 33 to 25.

Inability of the visiting aggregation to score on free throws cost them the game. The Aggies also were unable to fathom the fast passing offensive of the Longhorn five. Both teams were weak on close shots, missing many tries.

The Longhorns were leading 21 to 15 at the half.

Rose of the Texas quintet was the outstanding performer, scoring 11 of his team's points. Koneeny of the Aggies was next in line with seven.

Bag Limit on Ducks Cut by Senate Bill

AUSTIN, Feb. 14. (AP)—The senate today passed a bill by Senator Thomas J. Holbrook of Galveston, limiting the killing of wild ducks to 15 in one day. The present state law places the limit at 25. It also limits the killing of wild geese to four in one day and not more than eight in one week. Another bill by Holbrook, permitting the trawling of shrimp for bait purposes also was passed.

Conoco Pinmen Take 3 Straight

Conoco bowlers submerged Staley's of the B. & A. league team in three straight games at Spudder alleys Friday night. In the same loop, Security National bank took two out of three from Handy's. Sternberg of the Conocos had high three games with 582 and also high singles with 222.

In the Major league Ansley's cafe caterers took two out of three from Wolff Bros.'s Y-B's and Kruger Jewelers did the same with Wages Clothiers. Richards of Kruger's had high three games with 595 and also high single with 237.

DISPUTE MARS TEXAS RACE

Southwestern and Simmons Both Claim Lead

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Feb. 14. (AP)—Both Simmons university of Abilene and Southwestern university of Georgetown still were claiming the leadership of the Texas conference as they prepared to continue the basket ball race this week-end. Their disputed battle of last Saturday has not yet been officially settled.

Southwestern has two bouts scheduled, meeting Austin college Saturday night and Trinity university Monday night, both games at Georgetown. Simmons tackles the Howard Payne five Monday night at Brownwood.

Two other conference tilts make up the week-end card, Trinity and St. Edward's clashing Saturday at Austin, and Austin college playing St. Edward's Monday, also at Austin.

President Thomas B. Simms of the conference has announced he will make no ruling on the Simmons-Southwestern dispute unless asked by the schools to do so. Neither school so far has asked for a decision.

The rumpus arose after Simmons had nosed out Southwestern, 36 to 34, in a thrilling finish. J. C. Godbey, secretary of the Texas conference and one of the timekeepers, said that time was up when Matthews of Simmons scored the winning goal, but that he had failed to blow his whistle. Southwestern, consequently, claimed the victory, 34 to 33. The referee sided with Simmons, however, and it probably will stand as a Cowboy win unless the teams agree to replay the game.

Matthews of Simmons was leading the scoring race with 63 points in five games. Whittle of Southwestern had 50.

National Tennis Open May Be Sponsored

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 14. (UP)—A national open tennis championship may be an outgrowth of the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis association here tomorrow, and at least the proposal will be discussed at length, it was learned today.

Under the plan the open championship would be conducted similarly to the golf open.

The Missouri Valley Tennis association met today and the executive board of the national organization held a closed session this afternoon.

The association awarded division tennis tournaments for 1930 to the Des Moines, Iowa, district; Fort Independence, Kan., Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Okla.; Fort Smith, Ark., and St. Louis, Mo.

Efforts to have the United States Lawn Tennis association approve selection of Kansas City, Mo., for the 1930 clay courts championship will be made before the national body tomorrow.

Coyotes Make It Two on Bearcats

For the second time in a week the Wichita Falls Coyotes defeated the Sherman High school Bearcat quintet on the local court Friday night to the tune of 19 to 12. The scrap was a return game as the Pack defeated the Sherman five on the latter's court last Tuesday.

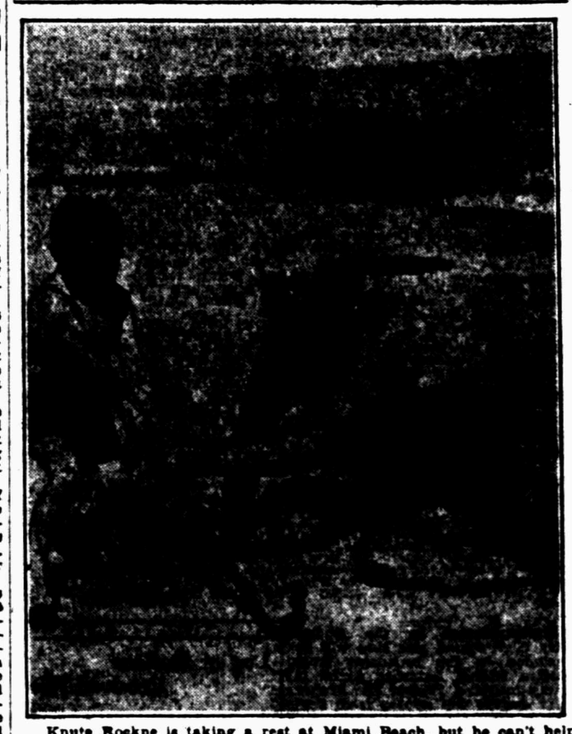

Coach Barry Holton's charges battled nip and tuck with the Bearcats during the first half but forged ahead after the second half had begun. Both teams displayed a super brand of basket ball and the score was in doubt until the final gun. The score at half time stood at 9 to 8 in favor of Sherman but the Red and Black hoopers spurted and piled up a 14 to 10 advantage at the expiration of the third period. The final whistle found the pack keeping up its great defensive work and scoring points occasionally.

Brandon was the chief offensive threat for the victors with three buckets from the floor for a total of six points. Malone and Dickey were close behind with four points each. Beaty played a sensational game at guard. Sollis looked like the best on the visiting aggregation. Score:

England's Foremost Cartoonist Embarks to Attend Miami Fight

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright 1930 by Universal Service, Inc.)

MIAMI, Feb. 14.—Mr. Tommy Webster, England's foremost sports cartoonist, advises me by cable that he is embarking for these shores to view the battle between his fellow countryman, Phil Suffling Scott, and the Terrible Sharkey man.

This would indicate that England is taking rather more than a tepid interest in her fistic son, for only a strong sense of duty to his parishioners would induce Mr. Tommy Webster to take a sea voyage to see Phil Suffling Scott under any circumstances.

A Real Patriot

As a matter of fact, if Mr. Tommy Webster were asked offhand the name of the individual he would care less to see than any other human being in all this world, he would probably answer, "Phil Suffling Scott—in spades." But Mr. Tommy Webster is at all times a patriot to the cause of his vast clientele, and his approach undoubtedly means that the readers of the London Dyly Myle, which Mr. Webster represents, are desirous of getting their news of Phil Suffling Scott through one of their own.

And then on the other hand, perhaps Mrs. Tommy Webster has a yearning for her homeland again, and Mr. Tommy Webster, with husbandly devotion, is satisfying that yearn. Mrs. Tommy Webster is the former May Flynn, of New York, who was joined in wedlock to Mr. Tommy Webster by Mayor Jimmy Walker only a comparatively few honeymoons ago.

Coolness Between 'Em

There has long been something of a coolness between Mr. Tommy Webster and Phil Suffling Scott. In fact, on one occasion Phil Suffling Scott, usually mild and uncomplaining, rose in wrath and mumbled about having Mr. Tommy Webster before a court of law because Mr. Tommy Webster composed a cartoon which Phil Suffling Scott took as a reflection on his (Scott's) courage.

Nothing came of the threat, but Phil Suffling Scott sent no wreaths of roses to Mr. Tommy Webster on the occasion of the latter's marriage. Possibly Phil Suffling Scott wouldn't have sent any wreaths of roses to Mr. Tommy Webster, even if they had been on good terms, for Phil Suffling is an economical soul. But he might have compromised on a note of hand.

From what I have heard Mr. Tommy Webster say of Phil Suffling Scott, it is his opinion that Phil Suffling can't fight very much, and Mr. Tommy Webster is constantly in a state of great surprise over the progress Phil Suffling makes in the world of fistic events. I am not certain that Mr. Tommy Webster would survive the shock of Phil Suffling out-fumbling Terrible Sharkey man on the night of Feb 27.

Besides Mr. Tommy Webster, I am informed that "Yank" Wignall, the fistic expert of the London Dyly Myle, and Freddie Dartnell, another English boxing writer, are also headed this way.

International Show

The card as it is now framed up may strike the average ring worm as something of a conglomeration, but it carries out the idea of the Madison Square garden corporation of an international show.

The preliminaries probably stand the promoters all of $50,000, and perhaps more, which isn't so bad, at that, with the main bouters on a percentage.

Campolo is getting at least $1,000 and Risko fully as much. Maloney and Loughran are both getting around $10,000, but Charles, Beaquillon, and George Cook and Raoul Bianci, are undoubtedly much cheaper, Cook, representing Australia, and Bianci, the Argentine, are booked for a six rounder.

Phil Suffling Scott and the Terrible Sharkey man are scheduled for 15 rounds under a special dispensation of the Florida boxing authorities. The other bouts are 10 rounders with the exception of the Cook-Bianci thing.

GIANTS START FOR SANTONE

Spring Training to Start Monday

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP)—The New York Giants sponsored the first baseball movement of the season today when a small expedition, which will grow as it goes along, started for San Antonio, Texas. Pitchers and catchers in bulk, with a few scattered infielders and outfielders, will start spring training Monday morning in the shadow of the Alamo.

Only three players, all catchers, were in the group leaving New York today, but 16 athletes will be added at St. Louis tomorrow night. The early birds among the Giants will reach San Antonio Sunday night.

The Yankees will follow the National leaguers within a week, going to Florida, however, instead of Texas. At the same time Brooklyn's first squad will assemble also in Florida.

Major League Clubs in Far West Are Predicted

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 14. (UP)—Air travel will soon make possible major league baseball clubs in California and Mexico, Ban Johnson, former president of the American league, predicted here today.

Johnson, who is here for treatment by an eye specialist, said interest in baseball on the West coast and in Mexico is such "that it is only a matter of time and good air transportation" before major league clubs will be located in those sections.

DEATH CLAIMS PETE KILDUFF

Alexandria Manager Dies After Operation

PITTSBURG, Kan., Feb. 14. (AP)—Pete Kilduff, a member of Wilbert Robinson's pennant-winning Brooklyn National league club of 1920, died here today. Kilduff was second baseman of the team Uncle Wilbert led in an unsuccessful world's series assault on Tris Speaker's Cleveland Indians of that year. He died after an operation for appendicitis.

It was Kilduff who paved the way for the unassisted triple play of William Wambeganss, second baseman for Cleveland in the 1920 series, the only three-ply killing ever made in a world's series and one of the few ever made in the major leagues. Kilduff had bed off with a single in the fifth inning of the game Sunday, Oct. 10. He moved to second on another single by Catcher Miller, but was out when Wambeganss, making a remarkable one-hand catch of Pitcher Mitchell's line drive, stepped on second before Kilduff could get back to the bag, then ran to meet and tag Miller who was running toward second.

Kilduff, who was born at Weir, Kan., April 4, 1894, got his professional start with Oklahoma City of the Western association in 1914. He went to the Giants from Omaha in 1917, was traded to the Cubs that year and in 1919 was transferred to Brooklyn, where he remained several years.

He had a successful season last year as manager of the Alexandria club of the Cotton States league, and had been signed again for the same team, a farm of the Shreveport club of the Texas league, next season. He played at second base for Shreveport before managing Alexandria.

Whole Milk Deliveries Increase Rapidly

Material and rapid increase in the amount of whole milk deliveries to Wichita Falls plants during the past two weeks were reported Friday by local buyers, the improvement being accredited not only to prevalence of favorable weather, but to generally increased attention to proper housing and feeding of dairy cattle. Price of No. 1 cream advanced one cent to 33 cents.

Evidence of a practical application of information supplied to dairymen and farmers in this community by short course dairy schools conducted in January is seen in better care of cattle with reference to feed and shelter, it was said. Numerous new barns and sheds have been built recently throughout the rural district, and more care has been given to regulation of feeding.

Plans for resuming the dairying community schools within the next two weeks are now being formed, according to P. R. Freeman, manager of the Southwest Dairy Products company, and a member of the agricultural committee of the Junior chamber of commerce. Marked limitation on the scope of work undertaken by the schools held in January was imposed by the unusually severe weather, it was said, and much more extensive programs are being prepared for the coming series of schools.

Naval Delegates Remember Dry Law

LONDON, Feb. 14. (US)—"Soda for me, please."

That should be the answer of every American navy man when asked "what'll it be, sir?" The American delegates, it is said, are strictly observing their country's laws in London, but an amusing incident drew blushes to the faces of American correspondents today.

Prime Minister MacDonald, while explaining conference problems in the Savoy today, innocently took a whisky bottle and said "now, here's the British navy" and across the table placed a soda bottle, with "and here's the American navy."

Following the laughter, he explained he was not referring to contents of the bottles.

Mail Courtship

LONDON.—A long-distance courtship by mail has finally joined Ethel Whitehead to Louis Gillett, a Canadian farmer. She started corresponding with him on the advice of a friend and the regard for each other grew until he proposed to her by mail. She has gone to Canada to help him on his farm.

New Anesthetic

ROCHESTER, Minn.—A new anesthetic, experimented with by the Mayo brothers, is said to be successful and less dangerous than that inhaled. It is injected into the veins hypodermically and has proven successful in several major operations conducted by the famous brothers.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP)—Early advances were followed by reactions in cotton today. After selling off from 16.18 to 15.95 for May, prices steadied on renewed trade buying and covering. May closed at 16.00. The general market closing steady at net advances of 4 to 11 points.

The market opened steady to an advance of 10 to 14 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables. The advance met considerable realizing but it was readily absorbed with the market working up to 15.91 for March, 16.33 for July and 16.53 for October. This advance carried near months to the highest prices they have reached since May sold at 15.26 last Saturday and met increased offerings under which the market soon turned easier.

The report of the census bureau showed domestic consumption of 577,235 bales for January against 453,892 for December and 668,286 for January last year. March declined to 15.69 and October to 15.30 or back to just about the closing quotation of yesterday. The offerings then tapered off and closing prices showed rallies of 7 to 9 points from the lowest on renewed covering.

The report by the bureau of agricultural economics showed 76 per cent of the cotton ginned prior to Jan. 16 this year was tenderable compared with 83.14 per cent to the same date last year.

Liverpool cables reported covering and trade calling in that market and said there was a broadening demand for cotton cloths with an improved turnover in yarns.

Port receipts today 8,260 bales. U. S. port stocks 2,271,840. Exports 18,491 making 5,217,733 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 14. (AP)—Cotton was erratic today. An early advance was followed by a rather sharp reaction which in turn gave way before covering induced by an unfavorable grade and measure report. About half the decline was recovered. Final prices showed net gains of about 50c a bale. May advanced to 15.92, reacted, and closed at 15.80, or 8 points net up. The general market closed steady at net advances of 7 to 10 points.

Liverpool cables were considerably better than due and influenced an opening advance here of 9 to 13 points. Prices continued on the upgrade after the start on buying stimulated by a satisfactory consumption report of 577,235 bales. March traded up to 15.66 and July to 16.13. Close on the break March sold to 15.43, and July 15.92, or 21 to 24 points under the early highs.

In late trading prices rallied 12 to 15 points from the lows on covering and March closed at 15.58, July 16.04, or 7 to 9 points net higher.

Advance in Call Money Rate Has Bearish Influence on Stocks

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (US)—Steel common, with advance of 4⅜ points, featured an otherwise irregular market today. Railroad shares were taken quietly throughout and closed higher but increasing professional pressure on vulnerable industrials influenced declining tendency on other parts of the list. Tightening in call money rate from renewal of 4 to 4½ per cent was an added bearish influence. Republic Steel gained 5. Westinghouse advanced 1⅜, Consolidated Gas 3⅜, Eastman Kodak 12½, Central 3, Pennsylvania 1⅝, Canadian Pacific 3⅝ and American Tobacco B 3½. General Electric dropped 1⅛, American Can 1⅝, Simmons 1⅛, Gillette 1¾ and Fox 1¼. Turnover held at the 3,500,000-share level.

Advance in the call rate was rather a surprise in view of the good showing in the reserve statements. It was explained as due to clearing up of holiday turnover of funds and also to the withdrawal of some out-of-town money. The best indication that brokers generally believe money will be easy for an extended period is the comparatively small amount of time loans being made. There are sufficient number of brokers who get accurate information from their bankers to effect a substantial increase in time borrowing if there were any chances of any definite tightening in the money market for the next several months. Easy money and the favorable reviews of steel conditions have been the two sustaining influences to the market in recent weeks and before long it is likely that the money condition alone will be the outstanding bullish factor.

There was further tipping of some of the railroad stocks with Alleghany corporation the subject of most of the bullish advices broadcast by brokers. In fact there is such energetic boosting of Alleghany that suspicion has been aroused. There was further talk of recapitalization being planned by several roads but no such action is looked for while the merger question hangs fire. Republic Iron and Steel reflected quiet absorption that has been going on for some weeks. Attempt was made to whirl Radio also and there was some talk of foreign buying of the stock but trade reports were none too favorable.

Professional operating from Florida continued to pick away at the weak spots. They were the biggest sellers of Gillette, Simmons as well as of the Copper stocks. Gillette insiders continued to talk of the bears "selling into a bag" but showed no evidence of aggressive support. Weakness in the Copper shares followed reports of further increase in Copper metal stocks and decline in rate of operations of most producing companies. It was felt that the producers were trying to maintain the price of the metal by steady reduction in rate of output. Belief still exists that price revisions are likely within the next two months. A somewhat lower price for the metal and more active operation would mean better earnings for most producers than they now enjoy.

There was some selling of Sinclair influenced by brokerage report that first quarter earnings were very disapointing. Sinclair is not the only oil company in that position, however. With crude selling in most fields at or below production cost and the gasoline market practically disrupted, particularly in so far as wholesale business is concerned, all of the oil companies are showing declining earnings. Sinclair has just declared its dividend so there is nothing to worry about for another quarter. However, unless drastic action is taken to check the prevailing price tendencies dividend question will give several oil directorates serious thought over the next several months.

Sterling and other exchanges remained irregular and closed fractionally lower. Cotton continued to benefit from covering influenced by Washington advices. Wheat and other gains remained under professional pressure, however.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 14. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Lighter weights of hogs at several points around the 11-market circuit ruled strong to 10 higher to shippers today but otherwise trade was slow at steady to 15c lower rates, strong weight butchers generally showing the most decline. The top of $11.45 was paid at St. Louis. Offerings 111,800, an increase of 12,000 over last Friday but 14,000 short of the corresponding day a year ago.

Choice light weight lambs in Chicago upward to $11.90. Trade interests expect the movement of fed lambs to continue but do not anticipate any radical price reduction. The supply approximated 43,000 against 44,722 a week ago and 37,940 the same day last year.

Cattle receipts 9,900 or 2,000 heavier than a week ago but slightly under a year ago. Grade was the usual Friday clean-up affair with fed steers and yearlings strong to 25c higher but otherwise no material changes were registered. Although demand for beeves continue slow moderate live receipts the past two weeks have done much to relieve the congestion at eastern dressed beef centers.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 14. (AP)—Cattle—Receipts 1,000. Calves—Receipts 300; steers higher; new top since last fall established on heavy steers; two loads around 1,300 pounds up to $13; handyweight steers $11.05; light yearlings $11.50.

Hogs—Receipts 1,500, steady to 10c higher, prospective top $10.40.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 14. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Hogs—Receipts 5,000; steady to 10c higher on 240 pounds down; weightier kinds slow; top $11.05 on choice 170 to 210 pounds.

Cattle—Receipts 600. Calves—Receipts 200. fed steers fully steady, other classes little changed; slaughter steers, good and choice 950 to 1,500 pounds $12@15.25; fed yearlings $12.50@15.50; heifers $11@14.00; cows $7.75@10.00; vealers $7.50@14.00; stocker and feeder steers $10.50@12.75.

Sheep—Receipts 2,500; fully steady; lambs $10@11.00; ewes $3.75@5.50.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Feb. 14. (AP)—Wheat was lower on the cash grain market today, exporters were reported doing a little business with grain already at Galveston on a basis of $1.21 for ordinary grain delivered on track at that port; but with millers bidding $1.23 for ordinary hard wheat no export bids being put out. Offerings of sorghums very light and more could be handled at this market. Oats slow sale, red oats slightly lower.

Bids and offers, basis carload delivered, freight paid to Texas common points:

Wheat—No. 1 ordinary hard milling $1.23@1.24; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein $1.24@1.25; 14 per cent $1.26@1.27.

Corn—No. 2 mixed 98@99c; No. 2 white or yellow $1.00@1.01.

Oats—No. 3 red nominal, 59½@60½c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 55½@56c.

Barley—No. 2 barley nominal, 71@71½c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per hundred pounds $1.65@1.70; No. 2 kaffir $1.45@1.50.

Cane Seed—Bulk country run red top per hundred pounds according to type and germination $3.05@3.15.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (AP)—With no adequate export outlet in sight and with United States 1930 wheat production threatening to show another surplus, wheat values underwent sharp setbacks today. North American wheat export clearances for the week were announced as only 5,203,000 bushels, an amount below either the week previous or a year ago. Export purchases today from the United States and Canada together were but 400,000 bushels, mostly Canadian.

Under heavy selling from commission houses wheat collapsed in some cases nearly 3c a bushel here and closed nervous 1⅝c to 2⅛c lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅝c to ⅞c down, with oats ⅛c to 1c off, but provisions showing 5c to 10c advance.

Corn and oats went lower with wheat and as a result of continued favorable weather for movement of corn.

Provisions responded to estimates that western stocks of lard total only 90,000,000 pounds compared with 140,000,000 pounds a year ago.

Desperate Search for Melvin Horst's Body Follows Confessions of Two Men

WOOSTER, Ohio, Feb. 14. (AP)—Four-year-old Melvin Horst, hunted since he disappeared nearly 14 months ago, was slain the day he disappeared by one of two men during a drinking party, according to signed statements attributed to them by Special Assistant Prosecutor Walter J. Mougey.

Mougey announced today that Earl Conald, 42-year-old former railroad brakeman, and Charles Hanan of Wooster, had made sworn statements in which each declared the other killed the child.

Their alleged revelations came after they had been questioned almost continuously since Wednesday morning. They were arrested as the result of a story told by Junior, 10-year-old son of Charles Hanna.

Hanna signed a statement in which he said Conald coaxed the Horst boy into an automobile in a garage near the Conald home and slew him, Mougey said.

Body Unfound

Conald declared it was Hanna who put the boy in the car and then cried:

"My God! I believe I've killed him."

Neither told what became of the boy, Mougey said, Conald confessing he had been "drinking too much" to remember.

A desperate search for the body was under way today in order that murder charges might be filed against both men, the assistant prosecutor announced.

In the event the body was not found, Mougey prepared to file either manslaughter or child stealing charges.

Mougey said he had not established a motive. At first a bootlegging feud had been considered as the possible background, but the assistant prosecutor pointed out that Conald's liquor activities were on too small a scale.

Each Accuses Other

Conald and Hanna agreed for the most part on the details of their stories except when it came to naming the child slayer. Their statements purported to show they had driven around, had a "few drinks" and finally came to the garage back of the home of Frank Frey.

They took some more drinks in the garage, during which Melvin appeared. Both agreed Melvin was whisked into the automobile and either choked or beaten to death, but each laid the blame on the other.

Their accounts were equally vague as to what happened to the boy's body, although they told of driving around and went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horst, parents of the missing child, to throw suspicion elsewhere, according to Mougey.

By their accounts, they visited the Horst home at about the time the entire village, aroused by the pealing of bells, was turning out to begin the search that lasted until the next morning.

Boy Gives Clue

Rumor after rumor as to the disappearance of the child was checked to no avail. It was the continued questioning of Junior that led to the arrest of Hanna and Conald. The playmate of Melvin finally asserted he had seen the missing boy in the garage named in the statements of his father and Conald. He had been forced to keep his knowledge secret by his father, according to Mougey.

The 4-year-old boy disappeared from near his home in Orrville late in the afternoon of Dec. 27, 1928. Search began at once. Hundreds of false clews were traced down.

Once, Wayne county officials thought they had solved the mystery, when Junior Hanna told a story he had witnessed the kidnaping of Melvin by Elias and Arthur Arnold, neighbors.

The officials charged the Arnolds with kidnaping Melvin to gain revenge against his uncle, Roy Horst, then marshal, who had arrested them several times. The Arnold were put on trial and were convicted, chiefly on the testimony of the Hanna boy. They spent several months in Ohio penitentiary, but won a new trial and acquittal.

ANCIENT LAW

Jury Convicts Woman As 'Common Scold' By Old Statute

BELVIDERE, N. J., Feb. 14. (UP)—A jury of her peers has adjudicated Mrs. Sarah Grainer, 50-year-old mother of five children, a common scold, an offense punishable under an ancient statute by a fine of $1,000, or three years in jail or both.

Judge Harry Runyon deferred sentence on the conviction, the first in the memory of residents on this charge.

Mrs. Grainer is accused of scolding, finding fault and calling names.

TWO CHICAGO THUGS KILLED

Policeman and Shopkeeper Use Guns

CHICAGO, Feb. 14. (AP)—Two robbers were killed last night, attesting the earnestness of the drive to clean out criminals.

Police killed one man as he was in the act of holding up a cab driver. A tradesman slew another who had entered the store with a gun in his hand.

It was a satisfactory ending, from the police standpoint, of the first five days of their city-wide foray against criminals. During the day 572 persons were arrested, bringing the total for the five days to well over 3,000.

Charles E. Sutton, operating a motorcycle sales agency, shot and killed one man who attempted to hold up the store, and wounded another, who escaped. The dead man was believed to be Manford Allen Blunt of El Paso, Texas.

Police Sergeant Charles Reynold observed a negro in a cab holding a pistol against the driver. In an exchange of shots the negro was killed.

Victor Miler Boomed For U. S. Senate Post

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 14. (INS)—Mayor Victor Miller of St. Louis is being boomed for the United States senate by a powerful Republican political coalition, the St. Louis Star states in an article printed here today.

The Republican coalition has been formed between the recently united Henry Kiel and Miller factions in St. Louis and the outstate machine controlled by Secretary of State Becker, the Star states.

The coalition has as its purpose the election of Mayor Miller to the United States senate in 1932 and the election of Becker to the governorship, according to the article.

CAL CONCEDES

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 14. (AP)—As a fisherman Calvin Coolidge readily concedes that Herbert Hoover is his superior. "Mr. Hoover has had 40 years more experience at fishing than I have," remarked the former president. "I have never been deep sea fishing. I prefer creek trout."

RAY GUARDS BILL

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. (AP)—Anybody may have a certain $50 bill who can pick it up without causing an invisible ray to set off an alarm. The bill is in an unlocked safe. Let a shadow cross the ray and a photo electric eye rings a gong. A demonstration was given by illuminating engineers.

Berliners are getting the telephone habit. There are about 472,000 telephones in that city, and 1,300,000 calls are sent every day of the year.

HARVARD BEQUEST

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 14. (AP)—William Amory Gardner, who was worth millions and taught Greek at Groton for 45 years because he loved it, has left $100,000 to Harvard to help increase the salaries of those who teach the classics he loved.

Woman Surrenders After Mate Dies

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14. (US)—Walking into police headquarters today with faltering steps, Mrs. Alger J. Reynolds, 40-year-old semi-invalid, calmly told astonished detectives:

"I have killed my husband . . . cut his throat with a bread knife as he slept . . . He was going to divorce me for another woman."

After questioning Mrs. Helen Wesben, who, although happily married and the mother of four children was named as "the other woman" by Mrs. Reynolds, police said the latter's fears were unfounded. Reynolds and Mrs. Wesben were just acquaintances.

Once before Mrs. Reynolds attempted to kill her husband, police stated. In 1920 while living in Seattle, where Mrs. Reynolds was a school teacher, she shot and wounded him. As Reynolds refused to prosecute, the case was dropped.

Mrs. Reynolds was held for murder, detectives in charge of the case explaining there was no justification for her crime.

The cost of repairs totaled $831.52, the petition asserts.

MAJESTIC: Bebe Daniels in "Love Comes Along." She sings. Christine comedy. "Booklovers," talking short. Movietone news.

STRAND: "Sally," with Marilyn Miller's voice, beauty and dancing toes. Sound news.

STATE: William Boyd in "His First Command." Shorts. Sound news.

GEM: Bob Steele in "The Texas Cowboy." Chapter 11 of "Tarzan the Tiger." Comedy.

In the first place, there's Marilyn Miller. And for any who don't remember just why Marilyn has had the New York show world at her feet, beginning way back in 1920, the present showing at the Strand will reveal how perfectly alluring she is. Marilyn is the reason why "Sally" is generally considered the 10 year champion of stage musical comedies, and why its talking-screen version is first among the techni-colored sound films thus far produced. We limit the classification carefully to techni-colored musical shows adapted to the screen; for with only the original black-and-white combination, "The Love Parade" has more of the elements of well-constructed comedy, musically and dramatically, than "Sally." But it didn't have Marilyn, and how Marilyn does blend with color.

The plot is negligible; some of the dialogs have the subtlety of the left-hand balloons in the Ella Cinders comic strip; the narrative, must be brought up to explain the situation. Alexander Gray has a nice voice, but one's imagination is dangerously taxed to picture "Sally" falling for this kind of a "Blair Farrell." However, as long as Marilyn can be induced to trot into each scene, whether her arms are full of dishes or flowers, the show is a success. Aside from her smile, the singing and dancing which she contributes have been approached only by that of Mary Eaton.

Bebe Daniels seems to be reversing the usual schedule by revealing a thoroughly charming musical comedy star for the stage through the medium of talking pictures—following the example of Lily Damita. But Lily went over by way of flying heels and toes; Bebe is singing her way through "When Love Comes Along," presenting the popular Texas brunet in another singing role with a South Sea island setting, opens at the Majestic Saturday.

Wichita Engineer Draws First County Map Made Here Since 1913

The first official county map to be plotted since 1913 is nearing completion in the office of J. M. Isbell, county engineer, and will be presented to the commissioners court within the near future. The map, drawn on a scale of 2,000 feet to the inch, measures 7 by 8 feet.

The drawing shows every subdivision and survey in the county, all rivers, creeks and main irrigation canals, roads, schools, and precinct lines. All towns and cities are plotted by blocks, and every steel or concrete bridge measuring 20 feet or more is indicated. The oil field locations of the county are almost the only landmarks which fail to appear, the engineer explained.

Mr. Isbell was instructed to prepare the map for use in all county operations by members of the commissioners court several months ago. He has done all the work at "odd" times when weather prohibited outside activity.

REAL CRASH

Motorcycle Overturns Car in Collision Here Friday

One of the most unusual accidents ever seen in Wichita Falls occurred about 10:30 o'clock Friday morning when a motorcycle struck an automobile with such a force as to turn the car over on its side, wrecking both machines but leaving both drivers unhurt.

Immediately after the crash, the rider of the motorcycle, Clarence McKnight of Newcastle, was thrown from his machine and the cycle burst into flames. It was destroyed.

W. E. Conrad, of Decatur, driver of the automobile, climbed from the overturned car unhurt but badly shaken up. The top, three fenders, both running boards and the sides of the car were demolished. The crash occurred at Lamar avenue and Twelfth street, according to the police report.

Solons Repeal Statute Dealing With Fee Suits

A bill repealing a special 1929 statute affecting county tax commission suits already pending has been passed by both the senate and the house and was to have been presented to the governor for signing Friday afternoon, according to information received here by Wayne Somerville, county attorney, one of the backers of the repeal. The repeal originated in the house and was endorsed in the senate Friday, the attorney was informed.

By the terms of the new law, the 1929 statute forbidding counties to plead the statute of limitations against deliquent tax commission suits, is nullified. The law has a direct bearing on two suits brought by Guy C. Raley and M. L. Tittle against Wichita county for commissions on the collection of back taxes.

J. W. Akin, a resident of this district for 40 years and of Wichita Falls since 1914, Friday announced his candidacy for election as judge of the 30th district court, subject to the July Democratic primary.

Mr. Akin, who has been mayor of Wichita Falls during the past two years, began his career as an attorney and a public servant in Young county, a part of the 30th district. He served there as both county attorney and county judge, before entering the practice of law in Wichita Falls.

He was elected district judge here in 1914, resigning in 1915 to re-enter private practice here. His activity in public affairs has continued through his connection with the city government and other civic bodies.

The candidate based his bid for the support of Wichita, Graham and Young counties on his long residence, his record in office, and his prolonged experience in legal practice. He announced that he expects to conduct an active campaign and hopes to meet personally many voters within the district.

The motion was prepared by Temple Shell, local attorney, at the request of Judge P. A. Martin. It set out the technical and general grounds always included in formal motions, with no specific causes named.

Rogers handled his own case alone, standing before the jury in his shirt sleeves to make his final argument. The five-year sentence was returned within a few minutes after the case went to the jury.

Courthouse Workers Get Thrill As Firemen Extinguish Awaning Blaze

Fire engines from three different directions roared to a screaming stop and windows in all parts of the courthouse raised to admit inquisitive heads as a squad of firemen ran across the lawn toward the office of the county attorney Thursday afternoon about 5 o'clock.

Smoke filled the corridors as employes left their offices at the 5. Flames licked at the side of the edifice, curling upward from the north window of the attorney's office.

Books, records and important documents came first into the minds of persons who came running down the halls. But the would-be conflagration proved to be nothing more than the awning outside the window and firemen had extinguished the blaze within a few minutes.

It was thought the fire resulted from a cigaret tossed out of an upstairs window.

Candidate

J. W. Akin, mayor of Wichita Falls for the past two years and for many years a practicing attorney and public official in Young and and Wichita counties, Friday announced his candidacy for the district judgeship of the 30th judicial district, comprising Archer, Young and Wichita counties.

Striking Taximen In Guerilla War

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 14. (UP)—A band of marauders terrorized the east end section today roaming the streets upsetting and burning taxi cabs, beating drivers and deputies and defying police in the 34th day of Pittsburgh's cab drivers strike.

Guerilla warfare, which police were unable to control, resulted in injuries to at least 16 persons in disorders which were not quieted until the Parmalee company called its cabs off the street just before dark.

The battle front drifted from the East Liberty district, scene of yesterday's riots, to the vicinity of Oakland, in the east end and nearer the central section of the city.

Negroes Draw Heavy Fines for Shoplifting

Charged with taking shoes and hose from the L. Coats store in Burkburnett, four negroes, two men and two women, Friday afternoon pleaded guilty to shoplifting before Judge Irwin J. Vogel in the county court-at-law.

Because the men had faced him on similar charges before, Judge Vogel fined them $25 and costs, involving a jail sentence of around 50 days in default of the payment. The women, first offenders, drew $1 and costs. The four were arrested in Burkburnett by Bill Garland and Dick Morris, deputy sheriff.

VACUUM SUIT GOES TO JURY

Nine Issues Given Jury In $97,000 Claim

A $97,000 damage suit brought by the Grayce Oil company against J. A. McCarty Jr., Ed Peterson, and F. B. Jackson Jr., local oil operators, in connection with the alleged illegal use of a vacuum pump, rested with a jury in 78th district court Friday afternoon at the close of arguments which had lasted most of the day.

Judge W. W. Cook submitted nine separate issues in his charge to the jury, among them instructions in connection with exemplary damages sought by the plaintiffs. The case has been on trial throughout the week.

The defendants are charged in the petition with using a vacuum pump in violation of railroad commission rules on a K. M. A. lease adjoining property owned by the complaining company.

Another suit, brought by the district attorney's office at the instance of the railroad commission, is pending against the same defendants.

New Foot Disease Attacks Millions

ATHLETE'S FOOT

Vegetable Parasite Responsible—Symptoms Are Itching Between and Under Toes—The Skin Cracks and Blisters

STOP INFECTION BEFORE IT SPREADS

Look at your feet tonight and especially under and between toes—they may be infected with the vegetable parasite known to science as Tinea Trichophyton—let us hope they are not.

The United States Public Health Service assert in a recent bulletin that at least one half of all adults suffer from it at times—men, more than women.

And bear in mind it is no disease to trifle with for many of its victims have been disabled for weeks.

They call this modern disease Athlete's Foot because the germ Tinea Trichophyton breeds on the floors of the dressing rooms of gymnasiums and athletic clubs—also on shower boards and mats and near swimming pools.

When this parasite first attacks, there is an eruption followed by itching (often intense) the skin cracks—it blisters—when the blister breaks there is an oozing of liquid.

If not caught in time the disease usually spreads along the sole and sides of the foot—the skin reddens and may peel off.

CAUTION: The disease is infectious—someone in your own home may have it—(find out tonight). Beware of bathmats, either at home or in hotels—use a newspaper—it's safer. Wear your own slippers and walk as little as possible in your bare feet.

TREATMENT: After bathing the feet apply Moone's Emerald Oil generously, not only under and between the toes but over the bottom and sides of foot. This powerful oil soothes and penetrates—stops the itching and checks the growth of the germs of this vegetable parasite.
