One killed, three buildings destroyed in Rotan fire

By Wade Warren
Staff Writer

ROTAN — An early morning fire roared through the downtown area here today, taking the life of an on-looker and destroying three businesses.

At least two Rotan volunteer firemen were injured fighting the blaze, which consumed the H.L. Davis Department Store, Hometown Cleaners and Casa Morales Restaurant, all on Sammy Baugh Avenue.

Sandra Underhill, Rotan city clerk, said the fire call went out at 1:40 this morning. Units from Roby, Hamlin and Anson responded.

Underhill said a fire investigator was on the scene, but as of noon the cause of the fire had not been determined.

An apparent bystander, 51-year-old Louis Eaton of Rotan, was killed by flying debris from an explosion apparently triggered by the fire. Witnesses said the explosion sent cinder blocks and bricks hurling from the burning buildings.

Two Rotan volunteer firemen suffered minor injuries. Charles Cleveland was also struck by flying debris and Jeff Anderly was trapped behind a wide expanse of awning that fell following the explosion.

Both volunteers were treated at Fisher County Hospital and released.

Underhill said the community is pulling together in the wake of the fire. Donations were already coming in to the 30-man volunteer fire department to replace equipment lost in the blaze. Churches, individuals and employees of Glen's Thriftway were providing food and drinks for the fireman who fought the blaze.

Darlene Cleveland, wife of one of the injured firemen, said the town still had an errie look to it at mid-morning due to the smoke.

"It is a real tragedy for our community," said Cleveland.

Eaton's body has been sent to Lubbock for an autopsy which was ordered by Fisher County Justice of the Peace Merle Crowley.

Prison site selection team will visit here Wednesday

Economy of construction and efficiency of operations will be the primary factors considered Wednesday when a Texas Department of Criminal Justice Site Selection team visits Snyder.

A seven-member delegation will arrive at Winston Field at 7:30 a.m.

The fact-finding team will gather data to be used to determine eight existing prison locations for expansion.

The team will be headed by Bill Barry, site planning and special projects director. Other team members are Bruce Swope and Randy Cates with design and construction; Tom Merka, utilities; Troy Jones, wastewater facilities; Ronnie Ray, environmental issues; and Andy Walker, security and operations.

Snyder's application for expansion of the Price Daniel Unit arrived in Huntsville last Tuesday, the deadline for some 18 communities to submit proposals for eight 660 cells to be built at existing locations.

The informal request for proposals from communities put heavy emphasis on availability of utilities and ease of construction.

Following site visits, TDCJ staff will make recommendations to the full board during the Nov. 16-17 meeting to be held in Dallas.

Alan B. Polunsky of San Antonio, chairman of the criminal justice board, said that "economy of construction and efficiency of operations dictates the new units to be co-located with existing units."

The new high-security cells will be designed for use either as single cells or can potentially be double-bunked for a possible capacity of 1,320. Some of the ancillary facilities, such as laundry and food service, will not be duplicated.

TDCJ has said estimated cost of a proposed site is $25 million. The facility will require 200 additional employees with an estimated annual payroll of $25 million.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "What the world needs is more people with warm hearts and fewer with hot heads."

Some people celebrate their second childhood with a new sports car, but a Dunn area farmer instead has a "new" tractor.

You may have seen him driving it in the White Buffalo Festival parade. It was freshly painted, all shined up and the driver was sitting tall.

W.J. "Put" Fuller has a new toy. His wife, Gerry, just smiles and makes some reference to men and their toys.

Actually, the refurbished "Popping Johnny" is really neat, a labor of love for Mr. Fuller who found the rusty work-horse in a nearby field. The two-cylinder tractor had been used years ago by Mark Johnson.

Fuller had asked if it were for sale, and was told he could have it if he hauled it off. The restoration project took a long time, working in Put's spare time. It took several dollars and many more hours to bring the 1936-model tractor back to life. It is now his pride and joy, but Fuller is glad he doesn't have to use it to make a crop.

Fuller noted that any piece of machinery was a welcome change to plows powered by teams of horses or mules, but farm equipment has improved dramatically in recent over the years.

Seeing Fuller's tractor in the parade reminded several in the coffee shop of a cultivator owned by the late Dewey Denson. His son, Harold, said it took three days just to get it hooked up.

Mr. Fuller, a native of Scurry County, is one of our quiet, but productive citizens. He and Gerry show up to boost and support almost any activity going on. He's been an election judge longer than anybody can remember, and he's a regular at the Scurry County Fair and ranch breakfasts.

And it won't be long before one of Fuller's favorite activities starts up again — WTC basketball. Don't be surprised if he rides his new "toy" up to the coliseum.

Izzard plans trip to Snyder

San Angelo resident and two-term member of its city council, Rudy Izzard, will be in Snyder at 7 a.m. Wednesday to announce his candidacy for U.S. Congress in the 17th District.

Izzard will be at the Spanish Inn for a breakfast meeting on the first stop of a whirlwind tour that will take him to Abilene, San Angelo, Big Spring and back to San Angelo Wednesday.

Izzard will be seeking the Republican nomination to face incumbent Charles Stenholm of Stamford.

Chamber nominees are named

Chamber of commerce board of directors, meeting Monday, heard four nominations to serve on next year's board, welcomed eight new members and named a business of the month.

Nominated to serve on the 1996 board were Jack Greene Sr., Ann McCabe, C.R. Perez and Rod Waller. Letters will be sent to chamber members for acceptance, or to submit a name to the nominating committee within 10 days. Going off the board are Pearline Nolan, Paula McWilliams, Joel Hook and Joe Kelley.

Quentin Contreras, Golden Terrace Village, Nolan Electric, Jack and Jack Realtors, Z-TV, CAM Wireline, Two Sisters and Initial Ideas were announced as new members and Midwest Electric was named the business of the month.

Although the income from the recent state trailer rally totaled $9,882, expenses of readying the coliseum and grounds for the event and future rallies would not show much profit, chamber manager Donna Fowler said. She said the coliseum will be the site for the elementary schools' Halloween Festival on Oct. 28.

Other upcoming chamber activities include prospective playoff games and a lighted Christmas parade which will include downtown carroling, plus other events.

Attending the session were Nolan, Hook, McWilliams, Daryl Thomas, Julie Sentell, Keith Hackfeld, Howard Limmer, Ronnie Shields, Gary Luft, Jeffrey Martin and staff members Fowler and Sandra Barbosa, secretary.

Early voting polls ready to open

Early voting in the Nov. 7 constitutional amendments election begins Wednesday at Scurry County Courthouse.

The early voting period runs weekdays from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. through Nov. 3 on the third floor of the courthouse.

On the ballot are 14 proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. State officials are encouraging citizens to exercise their right to vote. Traditionally, only about 20 percent of the state's registered voters turn out for constitutional amendment elections.

Six of the proposals deal with property tax exemptions for individuals or groups and four with state bond debt. Veterans would benefit from one of the property-tax proposals and one of the debt proposals.

Proposition 10 would eliminate the office of state treasurer. Proposition 4 would amend constitutional protections of homesteads from forced sale. Proposition 8 would affect three small-

Kmart bid deadline is Wednesday

Wednesday is the bid deadline for Kmart's sealed auction of closed store properties, including the Snyder location.

Some of the 188 stores involved have been withdrawn from the offering, due to the successful completion of pending negotiations for lease terminations with the landlords.

Of the stores, only seven were offered for sale out-right. Kmart holds long-term leases on most of the properties and is offering to sublease them.

Kmart has announced that the "asking" price of the Snyder store is $2 annually per square foot. The Kmart building, which operated for 14 years here, is approximately 40,000 square feet.

The Snyder store closed March 13.

The building is owned by the Ohio State Teachers Retirement Syustem, which apparently has 11 years remaining on the lease.

Lease of the properties is being conducted by LaSalle Partners of Chicago, in conjunction with National Real Estate Clearing house. For information about the sale, call 1-800 474-3342, ext. 562.

An informational update on the sale noted that "Kmart is highly motivated to reduce its expenses under leases for closed stores and encourages all interested parties to submit reasonable bids to sublease the properties included in this offering. Kmart will review and consider all offers considered reasonable, even those below the published asking or absolute minimum prices." No absolute minimum price has been established for the Snyder store.

Area Kmart stores involved in the sale and their asking prices per square foot include the Big Spring store, $1.50 and the Sweetwater store, $1.75.

Christopher Reeve presents special award to comedian

NEW YORK (AP) — Christopher Reeve, his blue eyes sparkling and chiseled features as handsome as ever, put everyone at ease — joking about his misfortune and thanking those who helped him while he said it was worth it.

Christopher Reeve

Reeve, unable to move from the shoulders down after a horseback-riding accident, presented an award Monday to Robin Williams at a benefit dinner for the Creative Coalition, an actors' advocacy group.

In a voice that was strong but not as booming as in his "Superman" days, Reeve recalled that Williams visited his hospital room five days after the May 27 accident and did a "Russian doctor act."

"I saw Robin Williams and I knew my life was going to be OK," the tuxedo-clad Reeve told about 500 celebrities in his first public appearance since the accident.

"When the chips were down and my life was hanging in the balance ... there was Robin Williams, leaping to my assistance," he said.

Breathing with the aid of a ventilator, the 6-foot-4 actor activates his electric wheelchair by blowing through a tube. He stayed in a separate room at the Pierre Hotel until his presentation.

Reeve, 42, joked about his misfortune, saying he decided to attend the gala after recalling the advice of a former English teacher to discuss suicide before applying to school.

"She said, 'The only excuse you could have is a quadruple amputation, and even then you could come in a basket,'" Reeve said. "So I thought I'd better show up."

Williams, who was being honored for work he has done with the Creative Coalition, received an award shaped like a theatrical spotlight.

He looked at the award, then at Reeve, and said: "Before we mount this new headlight on Chris' wheelchair ... ." Interrupted by laughter, Williams then kissed Reeve's forehead.

Last month, Reeve told Barbara Walters on ABC-TV's "20-20" that he had considered suicide just after the accident.

"Maybe I should just check out," Reeve said he told his wife, Dana Morosini. He decided to hang on because of his children. "I could see how much they needed me and wanted me," he told Walters.

Reeve broke his neck and several vertebrae when he was thrown from a horse and landed on his head during a riding competition in Culpeper, Va. Doctors later fused several vertebrae to stabilize damage to his spinal cord.

He smiled and laughed during his brief appearance at the end of the evening, and thanked those attending the $1,000-a-plate event for their support.

"I thank you from the bottom of my heart," he said, "because you've turned my life around."

After the gala, talk show host Phil Donahue commented on Reeve's spirit, CBS radio reported today.

"He reminds all of us how fragile we are and that we still have a strong, passionate, creative, humor-filled Chris Reeve," Donahue said.

Clinton orders six gallons of ice cream

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Fill this order and make it snappy — Air Force One will be waiting: 6 gallons of mango ice cream for President Clinton.

The president placed the special take-out order before coming to town today to speak to workers at Kelly Air Force Base and meet with the executive committee of the initial Base Adjustment Strategy Committee.

The dessert, which has been on the menu of the Menger Hotel's Colonial Room for more than a century, is made from mangoes from the hotel garden, hotel spokesman Arthur Cavazos said.

The 6 gallons would cost the average consumer $128.98, tax included, but the hotel is picking up the tab.

On the ballot

The following information is condensed from a special House Research Organization publication provided to better inform voters about the 14 amendments on the Nov. 5 ballot. It is the first in a series.

Proposition 1

READS: "The constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of $300 million in general obligation bonds to finance educational loans to students."

INFORMATION: Since 1965, Texas voters have authorized issuance of a total of $660 million in general obligation bonds to finance loans to college and university students. Student borrowers must be Texas residents or eligible to pay in-state tuition and must demonstrate financial need. About 20,000 students receive loans each year and in fiscal 1994 loans totaled about $94 million.

The maximum interest rate on the bonds would be set by law. The Legislature could provide for the investment of bond proceeds and the establishment of an interest and sinking fund to pay the principal and interest due on the bonds.

SUPPORTERS SAY: Proposition 1 would allow the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to meet student loan demand for the remainder of the decade. Providing an opportunity for Texas students to receive a higher education is one of the primary responsibilities of the state government. Although the bonds authorized by the proposition would be state debt, they would be repaid by the students — not the taxpayers.

Repayment is guaranteed by the federal government, a co-signer or the loan fund, if a student defaults, although very few do. In the almost 20 years that the program has been making loans, Texas taxpayers have never had to fund any type of bailout.

OPPONENTS SAY: The state should not add to its considerable debt by issuing bonds to continue a student loan program that competes with lenders in the private sector. These loans could and should be made through the private lending market. As of May 31, 1995, state bond debt totaled $10.6 billion, of which $5 billion were from general obligation bonds.

The $300 million in new bond authority that the proposition would grant is excessive. An additional $200 million or less should be more than sufficient to meet loan demand for the next two years. Then the Legislature and voters can determine if additional bond authority is justified.

Is hypoglycemia linked to diabetes?

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with hypoglycemia and have questions. Is this life-threatening and how did I get it in the first place? How does it differ from diabetes (a condition my husband has), and how should our diets differ? When my husband and I saw different nutritionists, we were given the exact same diet. Are there any specific foods I should add or eliminate from my meals?

DEAR READER: Hypoglycemia (low blood sugar), which causes faintness, weakness and hunger an hour or two after meals, is not life threatening. The condition is diagnosed by a blood test. To have hypoglycemia, your blood sugar has to be below 45 milligrams per deciliter (normal: 100) in conjunction with the symptoms I mentioned.

Although some patients with this affliction have pancreatic tumors or other glandular abnormalities (which can be diagnosed by special X-rays and blood tests), most people with strable cause. The basis for such cases is unknown and no one knows why they develop the disorder.

In a minority of instances, hypoglycemia may be a prelude to diabetes (too much blood sugar). Once present, the condition does not disappear.

To treat hypoglycemia, most authorities recommend avoidance of sugar and alcohol, coupled with frequent small-portion meals high in protein and low in carbohydrates. Surgery may be necessary to remove a pancreatic tumor. In many ways, this restricted diet resembles that prescribed for diabetics.

Your doctor should probably refer you to an endocrinologist, to make sure that you don't have a treatable cause for your hypoglycemia.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Hypoglycemia." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, [illegible] Station, New York, NY 10150. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Recently I had a proctoscopic exam. When the doctor finished, he lightly sprayed the instrument and hung it up for future use. This seems to be a perfect means for fluids to be exchanged between patients. I am seriously considering not having this procedure done again, even though I know I should.

DEAR READER: In my opinion, your doctor failed to follow acceptable medical protocol. The device he used should have been thoroughly washed and sterilized between patients. Perhaps, after you left the office, the necessary cleaning was carried out. If not, I suggest that you change to another doctor before having the procedure (an examination of the lower colon) performed again — as it should be every three to five years, to identify early colon cancer.

Nickelodeon to buy kids programs

NEW YORK (AP) — Nickelodeon wants children to watch more TV.

Citing a decline in the number of young viewers, cable TV's Nickelodeon is buying $30 million in original children's programming for next fall, Herb Scannell, Nick's executive vice president, said Monday.

The basic cable network will expand its children's early prime time programming 30 minutes, until 8:30 p.m., Sunday through Friday, he said.

The broadcast networks, in stepping up their quest for the young adult viewers favored by advertisers, have all but abandoned family-oriented programs in the early evening hours for racier sitcoms like "Friends" and "Cybill."

"The broadcast networks have abandoned kids at 8 p.m.," Scannell said. "Their obsession with reaching 18- to 49-year-old audiences translates into a tremendous programming vacuum for kids."

The new shows will include "The Wubbulous World of Dr. Seuss" by Jim Henson Productions, and the animated comedies "Hey Arnold," and "Nickelodeon Declares BLAM!" Currently, the channel's evening hours are given over to Nick at Nite, a campy repackaging of old TV sitcoms.

Scannell said weeknight children's audiences have declined nearly 25 percent during the first two weeks of the new season, as compared with the last quarter of 1994, he said.

Nickelodeon, a division of Viacom's MTV networks, is available in 59 million homes nationwide.

Look in back of our North Lake power plant, and you'll find, you guessed it, a lake. Two years ago, a small patch of a Southeast Asian aquatic plant called hydrilla was discovered there, causing us some concern.

You see, hydrilla grows two inches a day. That's pretty fast, if you think about it. It can grow to the surface and get in the way of skiing, fishing, swimming, virtually anything you can do in a lake. Hydrilla can also clog the power plant's intake pipes, lowering efficiency. So, as you can see, it's a real problem for everyone.

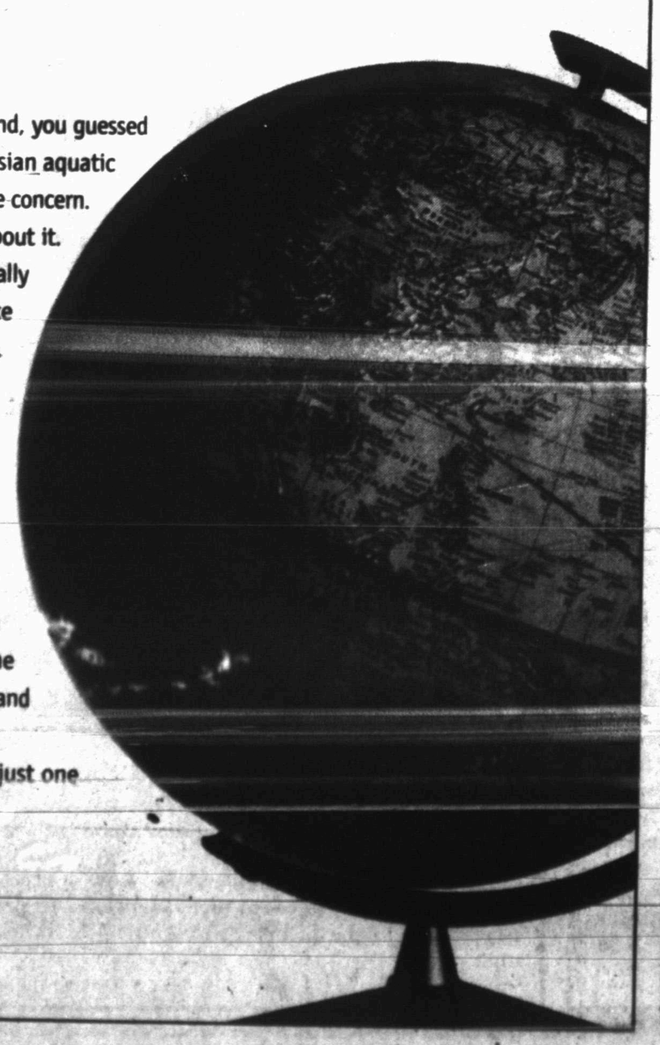

The Solution To The Problem In Our Back Yard Was Found Twelve Thousand Miles Away.

Now, there are several ways that have been used to control hydrilla. Some lakes have been completely drained while others have been bombarded with expensive chemicals. But, none of these treatments was right for us. So, we continued looking. And we found a solution that had been discovered at the source of our problem, where hydrilla came from, Southeast Asia. It's a grass-eating fish that prefers to eat hydrilla and will help to keep it in check, naturally.

Finding creative solutions like this one from halfway around the world is just one more way we're working to build a better electric company.

More than one way

By Phillip Alder

There's more than one way to stroke a cat. Moving your hand down the side of its face scent-marks your hand. Rubbing the top of a cat's head is a friendly gesture too. As that's the only part of his body that a cat cannot wash, he relies on a fraternal cat to clean it for him.

In bridge, usually there is only one chance for the contract. But sometimes there is a reserve option waiting in the wings.

South's opening bid isn't perfect, but most players would make it. The advantages of the favorable vulnerability and singleton heart outweigh the drawback of the poor spade suit.

Against four spades, West started with the king and another heart. South ruffed, played a club to the king and called for the spade jack. East fell for this, covering with the queen. South put up the ace and West's king completed the highest "100 honors" trick. Declarer continued with another spade, having no trouble in holding his losers to three: one spade, one heart and one diamond.

At another table, East knew not to cover with the spade queen. He had seen this situation before. Yet it didn't help. After winning with the spade king, West continued with a third heart. South ruffed, cashed the spade ace, led a diamond to dummy's king, played off the club ace and ruffed the club two in hand. Then South exited with a trump.

After winning with the queen, East was endplayed. He had only diamonds left in his hand, so he had to lead away from his queen into dummy's king-jack tenace.

Noises enhance storytelling

EULESS (AP) — A bestselling author of children's books used a variety of comic noises and his storytelling techniques to captivate students at an elementary school.

Robert Munsch inserted names of students at Lakewood Elementary into his stories Monday and emitted the comic noises to enhance his tales. The children responded with enthusiastic bursts of applause.

"He makes up good stories, and he's really funny," third-grader Jonathan Barry, 8, said. "I like him telling the stories because he makes lots of funny noises."

Munsch, 50, sells about 3 million copies of his books a year in North America. Recently, his "Love You Forever" knocked "Goodnight Moon" off The New York Times bestseller list for children's books.

Many Lakewood students know his books well. For four years, third-grade teacher Kathy Bonds and her classes have communicated by mail with Munsch.

That's how his Lakewood visit, only his second at a Texas school, came about.

The children's author, who receives about 10,000 letters a year from young readers, lives near Toronto in Ontario, Canada, and doesn't often visit the United States. But he was in town for a convention and contacted Ms. Bonds on Friday.

Munsch, who has a master's degree in early childhood education from Tufts University in Massachusetts, said he started telling stories as a way to get his charges to "shut up during day care."

He published his first book, Mud Puddle, in 1979. Now, after 28 children's books, he is Canada's bestselling author.

Helpful tips from tots on successful parenting

By David S. Liederman

The Child Welfare League of America and children's clothing manufacturer OshKosh B'Gosh teamed up to launch a national positive parenting campaign aimed at increasing awareness of children's needs and strengthening parenting skills. Following is the result: a list of 10 ideas to help parents do their job better from a child's perspective.

1. When I spill my milk or juice, don't yell or hit me . Help me clean it up and show me how to hold my cup.

2. When it's time to go to sleep, don't rush me. Give me a little time to play or read me a story so I feel cozy and safe when I close my eyes.

3. When you take me shopping, don't let me get lost. Teach me to stay in your sight and right by your side.

4. When you see me hitting my sister or brother, don't hit me too. Ask what made me mad and help me talk it out.

5. When it's time for me to give up my diapers, don't get mad if I have an accident. By the time I'm 3 or 4, I'll do much better.

6. When you have an errand, don't leave me alone in the car, even for a few minutes. I get scared and I could get hurt.

7. When it's time to eat and I don't want to, don't shout or try to force me. My stomach is small, so I like small helpings of healthy foods at mealtime and as snacks.

8. When I want to watch cartoons on TV for hours, don't just let me sit there. Suggest something for me to do. I need to learn by doing, not just by watching.

9. When I do something that makes you angry, don't ever shake me or tell me I'm no good. Take time to cool down and then come and talk to me.

10. When I feel mean and call people nasty names, don't yell at me. Explain how names hurt people's feelings and show me how to make myself feel better without hurting other people.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) – A new drug has been approved that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain. This material has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis™" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis™ relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis™ is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work. Use only as directed.

District volleyball title on the line

Tonight's the night. The Lady Tigers will host the Lamesa Golden Tors in volleyball action at Tiger gym in a match that could very well decide the district championship.

Snyder, 5-1 in district play, was defeated by Lamesa, 6-0 in district play, the first time the two met in Lamesa, 15-7, 5-15, 11-15.

"We want the gym packed," said Snyder Coach Patty Grimmett. "Lamesa will bring over a crowd so you need to get to the gym early."

In the first meeting, Snyder came out and played great according to Grimmett. "They had their best server going in the second game and we could not get any offense. The third game, we were neck and neck until we made five costly errors and that was the difference," said Grimmett after the first meeting.

The freshmen will start tonight's action at 5:30. The junior varsity will follow with the varsity taking the court around 7:30.

No new teams in high school football polls

DALLAS (AP) — For the first time this season, there are no new teams in The Associated Press high school football poll.

In the ranking released Monday, all previously ranked schools remained among the top 10 in their classes except Hico, which was tied for 10th in Class 1A and fell to 11th following a tie with higher-ranked Crawford.

Other than that tie, there were only three losses by ranked teams: 5A's Converse Judson 35-21 to San Antonio Roosevelt, 4A's Sulphur Springs 24-3 to Mount Pleasant, and 2A's Riesel 14-7 to Mart.

Because each had been highly ranked, their fall wasn't too bad.

Judson went from fourth to ninth, Sulphur Springs landed at No. 10 from No. 4 and Riesel dropped from No. 3 to No. 10.

In another first of the season, the top two teams in each class didn't move.

All five No. 1s have been in place since the preseason (except for Stephenville falling out of a tie for the top spot in 4A), but their closest pursuers have varied.

The most dominant team in any class is Thorndale, which took all first-place votes in 1A for the third straight week. Some say the defending champions are playing even better than during their 16-0 season last year.

The biggest move in 1A was Crawford falling from seventh to No. 10 following its tie with Hico.

The 3A poll would've looked the same as last week had Cuero and Commerce not swapped spots. Cuero moved up to No. 5 and Commerce slipped to No. 6. Don't put it in stone, though, as Cuero holds only a one-point advantage.

In 2A, Celina and Alto remain 1-2 and all others moved up a notch to make room for Riesel's fall.

The 4A poll absorbed Sulphur Springs' loss the same way, with the teams that previously were fifth through 10 becoming fourth through ninth.

Other than Judson's loss to shake up 5A, the only surprise was Dallas Carter jumping back to fourth from sixth, leaving Plano at No. 5.

DALLAS (AP) — The Associated Press high school football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses. Total points are based on 10 points for a first-place vote through one point for a 10th-place vote, and previous week's ranking. Voting is by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Shanahan leds Denver over Oakland Raiders

DENVER (AP) — It took six years for Mike Shanahan to get even.

Fired as head coach of the Los Angeles Raiders in 1989, Shanahan led his new team, the Denver Broncos, to a 27-0 romp over the Oakland Raiders on Monday night.

The game had all the appearances of a no-hoper for the Broncos, who had lost to the Raiders 11 of the previous 12 meetings, including six straight. Besides, the Raiders were the NFL's highest-scoring team, their 129 points in their previous three games setting a league record.

The last time the Raiders visited Mile High Stadium, most fans left by halftime. Those that remained threw trash at coach Wade Phillips following the dismal 48-16 drubbing.

Not this time. All they threw were accolades as the Broncos (4-3) stayed alive in the AFC West behind Oakland (5-2).

John Elway threw touchdown passes of 33 and 36 yards to Anthony Miller, and the Denver defense held the Raiders to 169 total yards — more than 200 yards below their average.

"To hold them to zero points and less than 200 yards, boy, is that great," defensive end Simon Fletcher said.

"To be honest with you," Shanahan said, "this was a little special considering my situation there. But this was not me against (Raider owner) Al Davis. This was our team against theirs, and this is one of my best wins because of the great effort.

Westbrook defeates Ira

Raymond Perez scored three times in a losing cause Thursday as Westbrook defeated Ira Junior High, 49-19.

Perez scored on runs of three, 35 and one yard. Ira will play Highland Thursday.

40 ain't so bad, huh Shell

Three persons killed in refinery fire

ROUSEVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The heat of the blast 150 feet away almost knocked Donnie Piszczek off the 50-foot structure he was helping to build. His first thought was to climb down, but there were five or six men and only one ladder.

Piszczek jumped, hit the ground and ran for his life.

He survived Monday's explosion at Pennzoil Products Co. without injury. Three other workers were killed and four were hurt.

Tanks of naphtha solvent and fuel oil ignited in the main part of the Pennzoil refinery at 10:15 a.m., according to Steve Hickman, a company spokesman. The blaze was extinguished about two hours later.

The sequence of events leading to the fire had not been established, he said.

"We're trying to get it together," Hickman said.

The names of the dead men were not immediately released. One was a Pennzoil employee and two worked for a company called NPS, which was working on a special project to enable the refinery to extract more high-grade wax from oil. Two of the injured were listed in critical condition today.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have seven grandchildren. The oldest, "Jennifer," graduated from high school last spring. She is a beautiful young lady, and we had hoped she would choose a career that would make us proud of her.

To our dismay, she is working as a dancer in a strip club. She says the money is fantastic and now she is able to buy herself a car and make a down payment on a condo. She has always kept in touch with us even though she lives in another state.

We love her dearly, but abhor what she is doing with her life. She wants to come and visit soon, and she will probably bring her boyfriend. We have always looked forward to Jennifer's visits, but we are having trouble accepting her new lifestyle. We aren't sure how to handle this, and would appreciate any advice you can give us.

FROM THE OLD SCHOOL IN FLORIDA

DEAR OLD SCHOOL: Jennifer is an adult now and has the right to make her own decisions and choose her own lifestyle, even though it may not meet with your approval.

I am from the same "old school" from which you graduated, but why not give Jennifer the benefit of the doubt? Jobs these days are very hard to find, especially for 18-year-olds fresh out of high school — so don't come down too hard on her.

DEAR ABBY: I am sick and tired of telephone solicitors. Some time ago, I started receiving telephone calls asking for my husband. Each time I told the caller my husband was not at home, adding, "If you'll give me the number, I'll have him return your call," he would hang up on me! After numerous calls from this man (I recognized his voice), he finally quit calling, and I thought I was rid of him.

Now the calls have started again. He won't identify himself, and he keeps asking for my husband. (My husband has been dead for 12 years.) For safety reasons, I keep my telephone listed under my husband's name rather than my own.

Have you any suggestions, Abby? I have many friends who are also widows and some of them have also experienced this.

CAUTIOUS IN FAIRFAX, VA.

DEAR CAUTIOUS: Never tell a stranger on the phone that your husband isn't home; instead say, "He isn't able to come to the phone right now. If you leave your name and number, I will see that he gets the message."

Consider listing your name with only an initial instead of your husband's name. Then strangers will not know if the listing is for a male or female.

Also consider buying an answering machine so you can "screen" your calls before picking up the receiver.

If, however, you feel threatened or harassed, notify your telephone company and your local police.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Please do not bother us Texans with advice from Californians about how to deal with the heat.

My experience as a lifelong Texan who has visited California tells me that its reputation as warm and sunny is all marketing. (I was the only one around with a tan in May.)

"Cool Lady in Fort Worth" was absolutely right; it takes all night to cool off enough to mow here. And as for the grass needing all night to recover — tough!

A man once wrote that if he owned Hell and Texas, he would rent out Texas and live in Hell.

ANOTHER TEXAN

15 barge survivors rescued

CIUDAD DEL CARMEN, Mexico (AP) — Rescue boats pulled 15 survivors out of the Gulf of Mexico today after a barge sank in a hurricane, and the U.S. Coast Guard raised the death toll from the sinking to five.

Roxanne, downgraded from a hurricane to a tropical storm with winds of 65 mph today, continued to torment tens of thousands of coastal residents by pushing the sea far above its normal level. Homes and belongings alike were destroyed by the worst flooding here since 1927.

High seas and blustery winds complicated efforts to rescue the survivors of the barge, which sank Sunday night with at least 244 aboard as Roxanne spun through the area. The barge was working for the Mexican oil monopoly Pemex.

Octavio Best, chief of navigation for this ravaged port, said 15 survivors were picked off floating wreckage by small boats early today and were being taken to another barge converted into a makeshift hospital.

"They are not well, but I have had no report of anything serious," Best told The Associated Press.

At least five people were dead, including an American, said U.S. Coast Guard officer Rene Gordon in New Orleans. She said two U.S. C-130 spotter planes rejoined the search today, and a Coast Guard cutter en route from Key West, Fla.

Best said the survivors were brought to the floating hospital because the wind and waves made docking at shore impossible. Army troops and city workers were searching for other possible survivors reported on islands of the flooded beaches northeast of the city.

The new report brings to 234 the number of those rescued from the barge sinking. Varying reports said 19 to 30 U.S. citizens and one Canadian had been aboard the ship.

Wind gusts, recorded at up to 50 mph on offshore oil platforms, hampered helicopters as they searched for the missing, but 30-foot seas were reported to be subsiding.

All crew members had put on life jackets with strobe lights or boarded life rafts before the vessel went down, said James Stewart, a spokesman for barge owner CCC Fabricaciones y Construcciones.

Outside Best's office Monday night, wind-whipped seawater poured down the streets of Ciudad del Carmen like fast-moving rivers. Hundreds of houses were flooded and more than 7,000 people were housed in emergency shelters set up in schools and other buildings.

People stood in water up to their knees to make calls from a phone system that somehow still worked. There was also electrical power, though some loose cables sizzled as they whipped about in the rain.

Across the state of Campeche, tens of thousands were driven from their homes by a sea surge the like of which few could recall. Ernesto Ongay, an amateur local historian, said the floods were the worst since 1927.

At 11 a.m. EDT, the meandering storm was about 300 miles east-southeast of Tampico, Mexico, today, according to the U.S. National Hurricane Center.

Selena murder suspect says she didn't mean to kill singer

HOUSTON (AP) — Yolanda Saldivar told a police hostage negotiator she didn't intend to kill Selena, tape recordings showed when played in court today at Ms. Saldivar's murder trial.

"I pulled it out to show her the gun," a hysterical Ms. Saldivar said on tapes made March 31 in the aftermath of the Tejano singing star's shooting and during a standoff with police that lasted 9½ hours.

"It just went off. I didn't mean to do it. I didn't mean to kill anybody."

"I didn't mean to do anything to her," she said later.

"That's what you've got to say," police negotiator Isaac Valencia told her. "It could have gone off by accident."

Defense attorneys at Ms. Saldivar's trial are contending the fatal shooting was an accident. Prosecutors insist it was intentional and she should be convicted of murder.

From the tapes, it appears the suggestion of an accidental shooting came initially from police about six hours into the standoff as they attempted to convince her to surrender.

Jurors today heard the remaining hours of tape recordings made of telephone conversations between police and Ms. Saldivar, who held them at bay in the parking lot of the Corpus Christ Days Inn motel while seated in her red pickup truck with a gun to her head.

Ms. Saldivar on the tape said she told Selena as they talked in a motel room that she bought the five-shot .38-caliber revolver to kill herself.

"She told me: 'Yolanda, I don't want you to kill yourself,' She opened the door. When I told her to close it, the gun went off."

At another point on the tape, while threatening to kill herself, she wailed: "I don't know how to pull the trigger."

A police officer at the standoff testified Monday he watched as she was able to switch the gun at least twice from single action to double action. Single action, with the hammer pulled back, would make the gun easier to fire.

Ms. Saldivar, who sobbed quietly Monday as the tapes were played, told negotiators early in the conversations that she had "done some things that were wrong, and I'll never be forgiven in my life. I need to die. I need to die."

Naval academy midshipmen accused of LSD possession

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Two midshipmen at the U.S. Naval Academy are accused of LSD possession, and the entire student body — 4,000 people — was obliged to submit to urine tests as a consequence.

An investigation by college and Navy officials "identified a small number of midshipmen who were potentially involved in illicit drug use," said Capt. Tom Jurkowsky, an academy spokesman.

The two midshipmen, who have not been identified, were confined to the academy grounds Sunday. Academy officials were expected to charge them with the purchase and possession of illicit drugs.

As part of the investigation, half of the student body underwent urinalysis on Sunday and the other half Monday.

Jurkowsky said two other midshipmen were expelled this year for possession of illegal drugs.

Million Man March ends; participants return home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of black men returned home today from a spirited rally for unity and brotherhood, pledging to clean up their lives and rebuild a country portrayed as poisoned by racism.

"I think what happened yesterday was an explosion of self-confidence," Rep. Charles Rangel, a New York Democrat who represents Harlem, said today.

"This was the biggest revival that I've ever attended and I hope it reverberates around the country in energizing people right where they are," Joseph Lowery, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said as he, Rangel and other black leaders recalled the rally today on the morning television shows.

Many of the estimated 400,000 people drawn here Monday by Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan's Million Man March were optimistic that one of the outcomes of the peaceful day of praying, singing and speechmaking would be more understanding between blacks and whites.

"I hope it acts as a catalyst for better relationships with everybody," said Robert Martin, who grabbed a subway ride to Virginia during Farrakhan's speech on the first leg of his trip back to Ohio.
