Governor reluctantly takes convention role

New York prepares $38 million welcome party

By Kaye Northcott and Karen Potter
N.Y. Times News Service

AUSTIN — Gov. Ann Richards, who upstaged Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton at the 1988 Democratic National Convention, has reluctantly accepted a starring role as chairwoman of the upcoming New York confab where Clinton is expected to win the party's presidential nomination.

Richards said her goals are to instill efficiency and humor into the proceedings.

"Will Rogers said you have to be an optimist to be a Democrat, and you have to be a humorist to stay one," Richards said. "So perhaps the invitation is as a consequence that Democrats would like to have a good time and I hope I'm gonna' help them do that."

Democratic consultant George Christain said that's just what the

NEW YORK — "Yo, y'all."

That's the Big Apple's official greeting call to the hundreds of Texans who will attend the Democratic National Convention next month.

But more than words will help Texans ward off homesickness during their dizzying week here. Delegates and guests will be treated to Texas-size soirees and shopping trips and even be told where they can get their "big hair" coiffed.

It's a classic New York red-carpet treatment that will cost the image-conscious city and private donors $38 million, all for the sake of present and future goodwill.

Once they hit the area's three airports beginning July 11, the 232 Texas delegates will travel on chartered buses to their home base

Navy official quits in wake of Tailhook abuse case

■ Secretary says he accepts responsibility for leadership failure leading to conduct at convention.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett III resigned Friday, accepting responsibility for a "leadership failure" demonstrated by the reported sexual assault of 26 women at an aviators' convention.

In a letter to President Bush, Garrett insisted that he "neither saw nor engaged in any offensive conduct" at the 1991 Tailhook Association convention in Las Vegas.

Nevertheless, he wrote: "I hereby tender my resignation as Secretary of the Navy, effective immediately. In doing so, I accept full responsibility for the post-Tailhook management of my department."

Garrett, 53 and the Navy's top civilian, said he also took responsibility "for the leadership failure which allowed the egregious conduct at Tailhook to occur in the first instance."

President Bush accepted the resignation in a statement emphasizing that "sexual harassment will not be tolerated." The usual expression of regret was absent in the statement, which was issued at the White House by press secretary Marlin Fitzwater.

Fitzwater described Bush as "very upset" by the Tailhook incident and concerned "both for the integrity and con-

Engine trouble grounds CAF's B-29

By Ed Todd
Staff writer

Murphy's Law and gremlins overtook the Confederate Air Force's four-engine Boeing B-29 Superfortress, the "Queen of the Fleet," on mid-morning Friday.

The aircraft, fresh off a six-month stint in the maintenance shop, sustained an engine failure on takeoff at Midland International Airport.

"If it's made by man, it'll break," lamented CAF Col. Billy Barnhill.

The aircraft, the world's only surviving flying example of World War II's biggest and most powerful bomber, had just lifted off for what was to be its flight to California to launch its 1992 tour — already three weeks and three stops behind schedule.

Tom Cloyd, the B-29's pilot, circled the field and returned the 47-year-old warbird to the runway after the No. 3 engine started losing oil pressure and power and was shut down.

Day camp program targets Chaparral Apartments youth

Staff report

Some 40 youngsters from the Chaparral Apartments on North Garfield Street boarded a bus Friday morning and began their trip to the Northeast YMCA for their first day of a summer camp.

The day camp includes youth sports, arts and crafts, swimming and field trips. It makes up one component in Project Self-Sufficiency's summer program designed to get youngsters involved in "positive-type activities," according to Jerrie Westmoreland. As executive director of Midland County Housing Authority, she has been one of the forces involved in designing this program to relieve problems involving youngsters at the apartments.

The program is being funded through the United Way of Midland, Midland Introspective and Abell-Hanger Foundation.

Reporter-Telegram earns 'general excellence' award

AUSTIN — The Reporter-Telegram and staff earned seven awards, with two first places, including the top prize for general excellence, in the 1992 Texas Better Newspaper Contest, sponsored by the Texas Press Association.

The newspaper also was awarded the top prize in the "best use of photos" category for Division 1 — which comprises all newspapers with daily circulation between 8,000 and 150,000.

In the critique of entries in the general excellence category, the judge wrote, "Great graphics, photos, headlines, leads and opinion. This is a real newspaper."

Transfer, promotion fill two principals' posts in MISD

By Debbie Lincecum
Staff writer

With a transfer and a promotion, the Midland Independent School District got two new principals Friday.

Maria Mata, formerly principal at Jane Long Elementary, was transferred to head DeZavala Elementary. Former administrative intern Adelita Lopez Corrasco was named to replace Mrs. Mata at Long.

School board trustees, meeting in special session, did not vote on the transfer, which was made administratively. They approved Ms. Corrasco's promotion 4-2.

Mrs. Mata, on vacation, was unavailable for comment. Ms. Corrasco said she is pleased with the chance to work at Long but has no specific plans yet.

"I guess I'm going to go into the building, see what's there and go on from that," she said. "Both of my children went through school there, so it is a special place for me. I'm really looking forward to working with the staff."

Mrs. Mata will replace Delores Medrano, who resigned to take an assistant superintendent position in Del Rio.

Trustees James Fuller and Adela Marmolejo both voted against Ms. Corrasco's promotion. Ms. Marmolejo said she did so because the transfer that precipitated it was not handled correctly.

"I don't think it's fair," Ms. Marmolejo said. "We had no chance to let the community know the transfer has been made. It's been discussed behind closed doors for a while, but I think the community should have the opportunity to give input.

"DeZavala is in my district. I just have the feeling I'm going to hear about this — how this was handled," Ms. Marmolejo said.

Fuller said he will vote against any new appointments until the process of screening applicants is changed.

He cited as an example the recent controversy when a black woman with a doctorate degree was passed over for a promotion because officials said she did not have the required experience. That move, which screened Delilah Diggs out of the chance for a principalship, drew protest from the Federation of Citizens United to Serve (FOCUS).

"I think it's important we take a very careful look at appointments," Fuller said. "We need to do away with the good old boy, good old girl process."

The "paper" process for screening applicants is a check of applications to be sure each person has the required experience and education before he or she is

NEWS WATCH

McDuff indicted

WACO — Paroled killer Kenneth Allen McDuff, a former Texas death row inmate, was indicted Friday by a McLennan County grand jury on charges he killed two women. McDuff is a suspect in the slayings or abductions of seven women in Texas since his first parole in 1989. A spokesman for the McLennan County district attorney's office said prosecutors will seek the death penalty for McDuff, 46, who is accused of killing Melissa Ann Northrup and Valencia Kay Joshua. Northrup, 22, disappeared in March from a Waco convenience store. Her body was found floating in a Dallas County gravel pit in April. Joshua, also 22, was found buried in a shallow gravel in March near the campus of Texas State Technical College.

Soliciting ban

WASHINGTON — Airports may prohibit political and religious groups from soliciting donations in terminals, but must allow distribution of free literature, the Supreme Court ruled Friday. The mixed ruling, just in time for the summer's peak travel season, was mainly a defeat for the International Society of Krishna Consciousness. It had challenged restrictions on Hare Krishnas at New York City's three major airports./8C

Report slams LAPD

LOS ANGELES — Amnesty International said Friday that Los Angeles police officers and sheriff's deputies regularly use excessive force, including shootings and beatings that sometimes amount to nothing less than torture. Both agencies have taken steps to curb such force since the videotaped beating of black motorist Rodney King in March 1991, but more work is needed, the London-based human rights group said./9C

U.S. casts doubts

MOSCOW — A U.S. investigator cast further doubt Friday on finding American POWs alive in the former Soviet Union, saying President Boris Yeltsin was sincere but mistaken in his remarks on the issue last week in Washington. The investigator, former U.S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon, also said the Russians have agreed to tell him definitively within two weeks if any living American prisoner of war is in a Russian labor camp or psychiatric hospital. "It is clear to me that he misspoke because we have found nobody here that will tell us that Mr. Yeltsin's information was correct, based on solid information," Toon told reporters. "I think he was acting genuinely, but I think he misspoke."/7A

Police say Rodney King won't be charged in dispute with wife

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Videotaped beating victim Rodney King was arrested Friday after his wife said he injured her during a fight, but police said they wouldn't pursue charges against him.

King, 27, was arrested at his apartment in the city's Studio City area, said Deputy Police Chief Mark Kroeker. King's wife, Crystal Waters, suffered minor cuts, Kroeker said.

King was taken into custody for investigation of spousal abuse. But after interviewing him, police decided not to ask the district attorney to file charges, and he was released Friday evening.

"We have concluded there is insufficient evidence to record a booking," Kroeker said, adding that King's wife didn't wish to prosecute.

He said King initially was "a little bit upset" but cooperated as officers handcuffed him and took him to the North Hollywood station for questioning.

"He settled down and he's smiling and talking to officers now," Kroeker said.

The arrest was the second for King, who is black, since a bystander videotaped his beating by white police officers in March 1991.

The highly publicized videotape of King's beating, following a traffic stop, led to Chief Daryl Gates' retirement and the arrest of four officers on brutality charges. The officers' subsequent acquittal on most charges sparked this year's deadly Los Angeles riots.

He was arrested in May 1991 after police said he tried to run down a vice officer with his truck after officers in Hollywood saw him pick up a transvestite prostitute. No charges were filed.

King's lawyer has said King has been plagued by nightmares since the beating.

He has lived in seclusion, with his last public appearance coming on May 4, when he attended a news conference to call for an end to the rioting.

Friday's arrest comes while the City Council is considering a settlement of King's $83 million lawsuit. The Los Angeles Times has reported that the council is considering settling for as much as $8 million.

The videotape of King's beating led to a crisis within the city's Police Department as well as investigations of charges of brutality and racism within the department.

After months of wrangling with city officials, Gates agreed to step down, and his retirement is effective on Sunday.

Gates left the Police Department's Parker Center headquarters earlier Friday after saying goodbye to friends and colleagues.

NAVY: Official resigns in wake of Tailhook convention sexual-abuse scandal

(From 1A)

duct of the Navy, as well as by sexual harassment in the Navy."

In reply to a reporter's question, however, Fitzwater said as far as he knew the resignation was voluntary.

The statement said Bush was briefed by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney on the status of investigations into the Las Vegas incident and "seeks a full, thorough, and expedited investigation that will result in actions to ensure the highest standards of equality and conduct among all members of the Navy."

Cheney, in a separate statement, praised Garrett's "courage and loyalty to the U.S. Navy" but also declared, "There can be no tolerance of sexual harassment in the armed forces."

The resignation stems from a meeting of the Tailhook Association in Las Vegas in 1991 where 26 women — half of them military officers — say they were sexually assaulted while being pushed down a gantlet of drunken naval aviators in a hotel hallway.

Pressure had been building on Garrett, who acknowledged only last week that he had been present in one of the suites near where the abuse reportedly occurred, but he insisted that he'd only entered the room to pluck a beer from a cooler.

Following that disclosure, Garrett announced that he was seeking the independent probe by the Pentagon's inspector general.

Adding to the pressure on Garrett, the Pentagon on Wednesday confirmed that the Navy had disciplined his son, Seaman Yeoman H.L. Garrett IV, earlier this year in connection with the misuse and theft of credit cards.

Charges of foot-dragging and cover-up in the Tailhook incident emerged after the Navy's own investigator reported in April that senior Navy officials had known for years of the convention goings-on, but had done nothing to prevent it.

The Navy inspector general also reported that some senior officers refused to allow their men to be photographed, or otherwise impeded the Navy's initial investigation.

Garrett, who was not named personally in that report, asked the Pentagon inspector general to conduct an independent investigation of the incident and the Navy's handling of it.

In his resignation letter, Garrett wrote, "While I believe that the sea services will ultimately succeed in eradicating sexual harassment from their ranks, our progress to date has disappointed me." He added that he hoped his successor would be able to "'return the Navy and Marine Corps to the forefront of fairness, civility, and equality to all their members."

Earlier Friday, members of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the panel would not act on top Navy and Marine Corps promotions until junior officers are cleared of any involvement in the Tailhook incident.

The committee chairman, Sen. Sam Nunn, also called on the Navy to overhaul its investigation of improper activity by officers involved in the matter.

"They have to take a close look at their own procedures," the Georgia Democrat told reporters. "They have to untangle this."

Nunn and the committee's ranking Republican, Virginia Sen. John Warner, himself a former Navy secretary, spoke with reporters after Pentagon personnel chief Christopher Jehn said the Pentagon's inspector general has told the Navy to suspend its criminal probes.

That was done because some of the officers conducting investigations at local bases might themselves be under suspicion for possibly improper conduct, Jehn told the armed services panel.

"We want to make sure that's cleared up before we proceed," Jehn said.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Be prepared for cloudy skies

Staff report

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with temperatures in the mid-90s, according to the National Weather Service of Midland.

Winds should be from the southeast today at 10-20 mph. Tonight, skies should be partly cloudy with a less than 20 percent chance of evening thundershowers and a low temperature near 70.

Sunday, the forecast calls for mostly fair skies with a high in the mid-90s.

Friday's high temperature was 90, compared with the record high for that date of 105, set in 1990. The low was 71, compared with the record of 61, set in 1968.

STATE

A front that brought golf-ball size hail to North Texas Thursday night left the state Friday, leaving only scattered thunderstorms across the state.

Skies were mostly sunny over North and West Texas Friday afternoon, with partly cloudy skies in South Texas and along the coast.

Only a few thunderstorms hit West Texas and along the coast Friday. Lows Friday were in the 60s and 70s with highs ranging from the low 80s in North Texas to the low 100s in South Texas.

Widely scattered thunderstorms will continue to move across the state through Sunday. Heavier storms are expected in North Texas over the weekend.

Lows today will be in the upper 60s to lower 70s. Highs today and Sunday will be in the upper 80s to lower 90s, with temperatures reaching the 100s across the inland south and the Big Bend area.

NATION

Thunderstorms developed Friday over the western Plains and from the Gulf of Mexico through the Ohio Valley, with locally heavy rain in the Southeast.

At midday, showers and thunderstorms were scattered from the central and eastern Gulf Coast to the lower Great Lakes, with strong thunderstorms developing over parts of the Southeast.

Thunderstorms produced hail an inch in diameter outside Winnsboro, S.C., and high wind downed trees and power lines near Tuskegee, Ala., the National Weather Service said.

Heavier rainfall totals for the six hours up to 1 p.m. CDT included 1.35 inches at Lake Charles, La.; .99 of an inch at Rocky Mount, N.C.; and .77 of an inch at London, Ky., the weather service said.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

RICHARDS: Governor accepts chairwoman role

(From 1A)

doctor ordered: "To make it a light, humorous, fun-filled deal is the best thing they can do. They'd better not get all hung up and look like a bunch of beaten dogs."

Richards' role this year is the same that former U.S. House Speaker Jim Wright of Fort Worth performed four years ago when the convention was held in Atlanta. She originally turned down a request from Democratic Party Chairman Ron Brown to take on the convention task.

After working so hard on the 1988 keynote speech — at which she made famous the line, "Poor George, he can't help it, he was born with a silver foot in his mouth," — Richards said she had hoped to just have fun at this year's four-day convention. However, she said, Brown persuaded her to change her mind.

Clinton's convention address four years ago was so long and boring that delegates began to clap and cheer when he uttered the words, "in closing." To bolster himself and his image after that episode, he went on "The Tonight Show" and played the saxophone.

Richards also upstaged Clinton when she endorsed him May 1 in Port Arthur. She warmly praised him but some out-of-state reporters at the event were more impresssed with her eloquent remarks about the rioting in Los Angeles than about Clinton.

Former U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan of Texas will give one of three mini-keynote speeches at the July 13-16 convention in New York City. New Jersey Sen. Bill Bradley and Georgia Gov. Zell Miller also will deliver the major speeches.

Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party, said Richards' role at the convention will be good for the Texas campaign. In addition, he said, "It sends a message that Texas is important to Democrats in this national campaign. We are a key part of the campaign." No Democrat has ever won the presidency without carrying Texas.

Richards said she hopes her role as chairwoman will squelch rumors that she is being considered as Clinton's running mate.

"I hope by chairing this convention that will reduce any speculation about any other role that I might play," Richards said. "This is a big deal. This is real important, and I've agreed to do that. That should rule out my playing any other role."

Former National Democratic Chairman John White said it would break tradition to designate either the convention chair or a keynote speaker as the vice presidential nominee, but he added, "They could substitute a chair easily" if Richards were nominated.

Richards made it clear at a Capitol news conference that she accepted the chairwoman's position as a favor to Brown rather than Clinton, whose responsibility she said it is to energize the party faithful.

Clinton and his Texas supporters tried but failed to get an early endorsement from Richards. Some Democrats have said privately that she waited too long to endorse Clinton.

Sources said Richards believed for some time that the Democrats would have a brokered convention. She also wanted to wait to endorse Clinton until Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen made it absolutely clear he had no intention of running or accepting a draft.

In addition, some of her strong supporters hoped she might be chosen as the Democratic standard bearer this year if Clinton faltered, Democratic sources said.

Richards provided private encouragement to Clinton during the weeks of incessant questions about marital infidelity, one source close to Richards said. Richards told Clinton he should hang in the race and rise above the personal smears as she did when questions of drug use dogged her gubernatorial campaign. She reportedly told Clinton that the experience had made her a better public official.

On the day she endorsed Clinton, Richards said she had grown tired of the questions about Clinton's character and decided it was time to speak out about his "bravery and stick-to-itiveness."

Yesterday she said Clinton is her choice for president because he has experience and because he has a concrete plan for what he's going to do.

The governor declined to criticize Ross Perot, who is expected to officially declare his independent candidacy sometime soon.

"My personal choice is always going to be someone who's got some experience," Richards said. "If you're going to have surgery you don't go ask a bank president to perform it."

CAF: Engine trouble delays B-29's tour liftoff

(From 1A)

Wright R-3350 Cyclone radial engine was feathered — turned to cut into the wind — to reduce drag.

The pre-flight excitement was overshadowed by the dismal "what-went-wrong?" post-flight blues.

"When you lose help from an engine, then you have got the opposite — drag," said Cloyd. "And we were pretty heavy on takeoff, and we needed all the performance we could get."

After touchdown, aircraft mechanics found traces of metal, suggesting that bearings may have come apart, in the engine's oil screens, said power-plant mechanic John Utsman.

The No. 3 engine was due for replacement, but there was no spare engine readied to mount on the wing, Cloyd said. Two engines, which were being overhauled as spares, "seized up" in a San Antonio engine shop after technicians applied a ceramic-like substance on the pistons to prolong engine life.

Engines on aircraft are numbered from the left outboard engine to the right.

Earlier in the year, the No. 2 engine was rebuilt as a "zero-time" engine.

Power-plant mechanics take the engine completely down and start rebuilding from scratch, Cloyd said.

The B-29's radial engine is "very technical and very complicated," Cloyd said.

Extensive work was done on the No. 3 and No. 4 engines.

Cloyd and his aircrew were obviously disheartened by the aborted flight and another postponement — of possibly weeks or months.

The tour, which still may include a flight to the Boeing Aircraft Co. plant near Seattle, Wash., to commemorate the 50th anniversary flight of the B-29 prototype on Sept. 21, 1942, was to take in four months and 19 cities before the B-29 was to return to Midland in October for the CAF's AirSho'92 and, once again, for annual maintenance.

The annual tour, which raises hundreds of thousands of dollars to finance maintenance, overhaul, and operation of the aircraft, also brings the restored aircraft to the American people as part of the American Airpower Heritage and CAF "Flying Museum."

"Financially, it puts us in a bind," Cloyd said of the failed engine. "We've had a heck of a year this year."

"It has been an expensive project to get the airplane back into the air," CAF Col. Randy Wilson said of the big bomber.

John Utsman, the mechanic on the B-29, noted that Wright Cyclone engines for the B-29 are available by the dozens, and some are in storage at the Midland CAF Headquarters, but none have been overhauled and readied to mount on the aircraft.

Of the high-tech work applied to the two now-ruined engines, Utsman said, "It just didn't work. They should have just used tried-and-true methods — just the same old-fashioned way of putting the engine together."

Moments before Cloyd and crew — co-pilot, flight engineer, auxiliary power-plant operator and scanners — boarded the B-29 named "Fifi," and cranked up one engine at a time, Cloyd recounted the "excitement" of flying the last B-29 still airworthy and flying.

"The airplane, we hope," Cloyd said before takeoff, "is in good condition now. We've done a lot of work on it. We're real proud of it."

Flying the world's only airworthy B-29 is "quite an honor," Cloyd said.

Of the 3,940 B-29s built between 1942 and 1946, most were either destroyed in the war or in accidents, chopped up and cast into smelters in the post-war years, or set out in "graveyards" to waste away.

The 1957-founded CAF salvaged "Fifi" from an aircraft graveyard in the desert near China Lake, Calif., in 1971.

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., is restoring the B-29 "Enola Gay," whose crew on Aug. 6, 1945, dropped the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima, Japan.

As the B-29 was departing Midland just moments before the aborted flight, Wilson said that "It is wonderful to have it back in the air. That's what we are all about" — a "flying museum" of World War II-era warbirds.

CAMP: Program targets Chaparral Apartments youth

(From 1A)

"This is the first time that a neighborhood has been targeted for a program and has brought together a coalition to provide comprehensive services," Ms. Westmoreland said.

Among the organizations involved are the Midland Police Department, American Red Cross, Northeast YMCA, Volunteer Center, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Midland County Extension Service, Chaparral Residents Group, Permian Basin Child Abuse Prevention Program, Job Training Partnership Act and Midland Community Theatre.

Also contacted to assist with programs are Palmer Drug Abuse Program and Glenwood.

Last summer, the apartment complex reported numerous problems involving youngsters, Ms. Westmoreland said, such as vandalism and theft. "We started working with the Police Department and with Dale Andrews at the Northeast YMCA and started thinking about a youth sports program."

The police department opened a storefront, headed by officers Charlotte Heinz and Paula Bynum, at the apartments and that marked the first step toward change. Project Self-Sufficiency then built on those efforts.

"We want to teach these kids how to reach out and access the community, how to spend their leisure time in an effective manner," Ms. Westmoreland said. "They don't have the transportation to get across town to the activities that are available."

The Boy Scouts are trying to recruit parents in the complex to become troop leaders, according to Jody Sneed with the Boy Scouts. And PBCAPP already has conducted a parenting session using the EPIC program.

Project Self-Sufficiency will continue this program through the first six weeks of school and tutors will be provided to help youngsters with homework.

Project Self-Sufficiency "is training the small kids how to develop positive relationships with their community, their peers and their families," Ms. Westmoreland said.

shows "great editorial leadership, a great staff and has a good mix of state, local and Associated Press national news," the judge said.

The newspaper also received three seconds and two fourth-place awards.

Recognized by the judges was the paper's "Differing Directions for Aging Americans," series examining choices for long-term care, which earned second place in the community service category and "War on the Homefront," a photo by former staffer Beverly Shilling, which earned second prize in the "best photo" competition.

Staff writer Ed Todd was honored for column writing, with second place in that category. Managing editor Gary Ott won fourth place in the same division.

The paper also earned a fourth place in the feature writing category.

granted an interview. Minority leaders said the screening unfairly discriminates against some qualified people.

But board president Jack Hightower said the process works as it should.

"If you have a process with a double standard, that is wrong. I don't think we have that," Hightower said.

Other board action Friday included accepting the appointment of Cody E. Myers as Midland High band director. Another applicant had been offered the contract but declined it.

Myers has been serving as band director at Dumas High School.

Trustees also confirmed the appointment of David Miller as math chairman at Midland Freshman School. Miller has most recently been employed as math department chair and dean of students at Pecos High School.

Man turns himself in to FBI agents

Staff report

A 47-year-old man wanted by federal authorities in Alabama for transporting money in interstate commerce in a scheme to defraud turned himself in to the Midland FBI on Friday, federal officials said.

Eugene Donald Bianchetti made an initial appearance before U.S. Magistrate Robert Sykes Friday afternoon. A detention hearing is scheduled for Tuesday.

Bianchetti is alleged to have defrauded a Dothan, Ala., man of $52,500 by claiming to use the money to finance a new business.

Doctor shows interest in pathologist position

Staff report

An Amarillo doctor confirmed his interest in coming to Midland/Odessa as a regional forensic pathologist, revealed a Friday morning conference call between Midland and Ector County Judges and hospital representatives.

"Dr. (Sparks) Veasey let us know he had a strong interest in returning to the Midland/Odessa area," said Michael Stephans, administrator of Odessa Medical Center.

But whether the two counties and two hospital districts will be able to come up with the $200,000 to support a regional pathologist has yet to be determined.

The next step will be for the counties and hospitals to determine if their share of the cost can be budgeted, Stephans said.

That should be known by the middle to end of July, Stephans said.

CITY: Guide shows where to get 'big hair'

(From 1A)

— the dreary Days Inn in midtown Manhattan. From then on, the main challenge will be choosing from an overwhelming list of entertainment options that includes formal banquets, beer bashes, private parties, museum visits and even a tour of the landmarks of liberalism.

These are, after all, Democrats.

And not all the activity is officially sanctioned. The sex industry has special deals ready for delegates, including a "make-your-own XXX movie" offer for those with video cameras.

The standard choices will be described in a 25-pound information packet compiled by the city, pointing delegates to free meals, discount services and scores of events. But the Texans' packets will be topped by a lapel button with the "Yo, y'all" slogan and a special "Texan Insider's Guide to New York City," complete with locations of beauty shops that would make even Gov. Ann Richards feel at home.

"It's going to highlight places to go, places to shop, shows to see. We're not trying to be comprehensive. It's just the opposite," said Katherine DeFoyd, a Texan working for Mayor David Dinkins who is chairwoman of the city's hospitality committee for the Texas delegation.

"One thing that will be especially useful to Texans is the part on where to get 'big hair,'" she said.

"We have a team of dedicated Texans doing the research," DeFoyd added.

Another passage will offer tips on shopping for electronics — part of a plan to coax the out-of-towners into spending their money at a variety of businesses.

Average daily spending is expected to be $353. Compared to Republicans, Democrats are notoriously tightfisted during conventions, but city officials expect the visitors to leave behind about $72 million.

For a city reeling from a recession and blemished by neglect of its infrastructure, the convention provides a boost to the economy and already has resulted in the city improving certain streets and facilities. In all, the city will spend more than $200 million on improvements, most of it for renovations to Madison Square Garden where the convention will be held July 13-16.

Additionally the city is expected to spend $6 million on security. About 3,000 police officers will be assigned to the convention, which is guaranteed to attract a plethora of protesters vying for attention from the 15,000 media representatives.

In all, about 40,000 out-of-towners are expected, but only 20,000 will fit in "The Garden." leaving half the crowd to find entertainment elsewhere.

The Texas contingent will be one of but 56 delegations being specially handled. The 40-member Texas welcoming committee has arranged an opening-night event at Lincoln Center with a western swing band. Helping to pay for the hospitality will be one of Texas' biggest schoolbook suppliers — Barnes & Noble, which also operates the Book Stop chain — and other corporate giants such as AT&T, American Express, Times-Warner and NYTel.

The options begin well before the convention start on July 13. First comes a July 11 bash for the media. The next day brings a series of parties — some of them exclusive — which will both segregate Texans and mix them with other delegates.

The Texas delegation will be headquartered in the Days Inn on West 57th Street, a stodgy tourist-class hotel on the seedy outskirts of the Midtown theater district and the fringes of the fashionable Upper West Side residential district.

Dianne McGee, the hotel's arts and entertainment sales manager, said 325 rooms are set aside for the Texas delegation, and 90 for a contingent from Oregon.

DEATHS

Kenneth Stout

BIG LAKE — Services for Kenneth Ben Stout, 36, of Big Lake, nephew of Joyce and Roy Johnson of Midland, are set for 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Don Duvall officiating. Burial will follow in Glen Rest Cemetery under the direction of Johnson's Funeral Home of San Angelo.

Stout died Wednesday in an airplane crash near Alamogordo, N.M.

He was born April 3, 1956. He graduated from Reagan County High School and Angelo State University. He was a member of the Professional Golf Association and had worked as a golf pro at Sugar Creek Country Club in Houston and Carmel Valley Ranch Resort in Carmel, Calif. He returned to Big Lake in January to manage the family business. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church in Big Lake.

He was preceded in death by his father, Seth Stout III.

Survivors include his mother, Jo Ann Stout of Big Lake; one brother, Bob Stout of San Angelo; one sister, Kathye Webb of Irving; grandmothers Emma Stout and Frances Featherston, both of Big Lake; three nieces, one nephew and several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Pallbearers will be Boyce Smithson, Larry Nunnally, Roger McCoy, Ricky Thompson, Dan Schneemann, Pat Jackson, Johnny Frank Hickman, David Ward, Tommy Hayes, Monty Barnes and Harry Turner. Honorary pallbearers will be Ted Goin, Al Norris, Brett Langley, Dan Bohen, Lance Guitler, Jerry Owens, Lance Gutteridge, Steve Wadkins, August Escabar and Craig Howell.

Les Clary

PLAINVIEW — Services for Les Clary, 78, father of a Midland woman, will be at 10:30 a.m. today at the First Baptist Church chapel in Plainview with Dr. Travis Hart, pastor, officiating. Burial will follow at Plainview Memorial Park with Lemons Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Clary died Wednesday.

He was born Dec. 12, 1913, in Paducah, where he grew up and graduated from high school. He attended Amarillo College and in 1938 he received a degree from Hardin-Simmons University. He played football there and was a member of the Hardin-Simmons Ex-Letterman's Association.

He married Flo Caldwell on March 13, 1937.

They moved to Plainview on July 1, 1941, and he was in the life insurance business, retiring in 1986.

Clary was an assistant football coach at Plainview High School from 1943-'45.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church in Plainview, where he was a charter member of the Pastor's Class.

Survivors include his wife; four daughters, Mrs. Harry (Sue) Hart of Idaho, Mrs. Bill (Kay) Peterson of Mesa, Ariz., Mrs. Bob (Ann) Page of Midland, and Mrs. Eddie (Jane) Lewellen of Plainview; one son, Les Clary of Amarillo; one brother, Pat Clary of Arlington; one sister, Mrs. J.O. (Anita) Van Horn of Belin, N.M.; 14 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The family requests memorials be directed to the building fund at the First Baptist Church of Plainview.

Eliseo Alvarez

STANTON — Services for Eliseo L. Alvarez, 80, of Stanton will be at 10 a.m. today at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Stanton. Burial will follow at St. Joseph Cemetery in Stanton with Gilbreath Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

He died Friday at a Midland hospital following a lengthy illness.

He was born Nov. 6, 1911, in Austin and moved to Stanton in the 1940s. He was a retired farm worker.

Survivors include a nephew, Jose M. Villa of Stanton; one niece, Mary Ann Marquez of Big Spring and one cousin, Mary L. Villa of Earth.

Lisa Smith

Services for Lisa Loveless Smith, formerly of Midland, will be at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Ann's Catholic Church with Father Fred Nawarskas, pastor, officiating. Public visitation will occur Sunday until 9 p.m. Ellis Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Smith died Tuesday.

Dudley Anderson

Services for Dudley Anderson of Midland are pending with Ellis Funeral Home.

He died Friday at a local hospital.

POW investigator: Yeltsin 'misspoke' at summit

MOSCOW (AP) — A U.S. investigator cast further doubt Friday on finding American POWs alive in the former Soviet Union, saying President Boris Yeltsin was sincere but mistaken in his remarks on the issue last week in Washington.

The investigator, former U.S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon, also said the Russians have agreed to tell him definitively within two weeks if any living American prisoner of war is in a Russian labor camp or psychiatric hospital.

"It is clear to me that he misspoke because we have found nobody here that will tell us that Mr. Yeltsin's information was correct, based on solid information," Toon told reporters. "I think he was acting genuinely, but I think he misspoke."

Yeltsin caused a sensation during the summit when he said some American soldiers had been kept in Soviet prisons after World War II, the Korean War and perhaps even the Vietnam War. "Maybe some of them are still alive and still in Russia," he had said.

President Bush dispatched Toon, who has been co-chairing a panel searching for American POWs in Russia, to investigate.

In March, the panel, also headed by Gen. Dmitri Volkogonov, a military historian, said it found no evidence of American servicemen from the Korean or Vietnam wars in the former Soviet Union.

It said at that time that four Americans who had deserted the aircraft carrier Intrepid during the Vietnam war were brought to the Soviet Union, used for propaganda purposes by the KGB, then returned to the United States.

"These were not POWs, they were deserters. ... Apparently he (Yeltsin) may have ... misunderstood that, and came up with this statement that he made," Toon said Friday.

Toon met this week with the heads of Russia's domestic, foreign and military intelligence services and Vice President Alexander Rutskoi. A search of former KGB secret police files turned up no new evidence.

"My gut feeling is that there's nobody alive under Russian control," Toon said.

Toon said he believed the Soviets had held "quite a few" American POWs from World War II, the Cold War and probably the Korean War, who were dead or quietly traded back to the United States. But he said he doubted prisoners from Vietnam War were ever taken to the former Soviet Union.

But for all his doubts, Toon videotaped an appeal requesting information on any living American POWs, for broadcast Sunday across the former Soviet Union.

Toon said he put "great pressure" on Volkogonov for a speedy reply on whether Americans are held in labor camps or psychiatric hospitals.

"Everybody back home assumes that all labor camps and all psychiatric facilities are under central control, and therefore they should be able very easily — and certainly within a two-week period — to get an answer on this question," Toon said.

Farmers block Euro Disneyland, strand tourists

MARNE-LA-VALLEE, France (AP) — Thousands of tourists with children were stranded outside Euro Disneyland Friday when French farmers blockaded roads to protest cuts in European Community farm subsidies demanded by the United States.

The farmers parked about 300 tractors across the main auto entrance and highways to the amusement park, 20 miles west of Paris, just before sunrise and kept the roads closed until seeing that their action had made the top item of the 1 p.m. television news.

"Disney is a symbol of the American presence on French territory; at the same time they want to eject the Europeans from world markets," said Daniel Deswarde, the local secretary-general of the National Federation of Agriculture Syndicates.

Since Euro Disneyland opened on April 12, trade unions protesting its work code have struck a train line leading to the park, and intellectuals have deplored a perceived attack on French culture.

"I understand that the farmers have differences with the government, but I can't understand why they want to punish European children," Euro Disneyland president Robert Fitzpatrick said on French radio.

"This morning there were children who had traveled all night to visit the park, handicapped children, young people in buses from England, Germany, everywhere, and all were forced to turn back," he said.

Squads of riot police took up positions outside the amusement park but did not intervene in the farmers' blockade.

About 70 buses parked alongside the road, letting out about 2,000 children to play on the asphalt.

The farmers allowed them and tourists arriving by train to enter. Late-arriving cars and buses were diverted toward Paris by traffic officers. No clashes were reported.

The protest was aimed at drawing the attention of the EC heads of state opening a two-day summit in Portugal. The subsidy cuts, approved by farm ministers last month, are to receive final approval Tuesday in Brussels.

The farmers blame the United States for pressuring the 12-nation EC to adopt the reductions in order to break a deadlock in international trade talks.

South African police were involved in massacre, security guard says

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — A security guard told a government commission Friday that police who once served in a counter-insurgency unit accused of atrocities participated in last week's massacre of 42 blacks.

The testimony by the guard, Mandla Mngomezulu, supported claims by the African National Congress that police have instigated some of the township warfare that has claimed 8,000 black lives in three years.

But the black policeman Mngomezulu cited as his source later told the same government commission that the guard had fabricated the story to help the ANC.

The ANC broke off black-white negotiations with President F.W. de Klerk's government this week to protest the June 17 slaughter in the Boipatong township south of Johannesburg.

ANC leader Nelson Mandela sent a harsh letter to de Klerk on Friday that listed more than a dozen demands for resuming talks and accused the president of relying on "white supremacist mechanisms."

"The continuing direct and indirect involvement of the government, the state security forces and the police in the violence ... has created an untenable and explosive situation," the letter said.

De Klerk repeatedly has denied government complicity in the violence, saying it only slows his reforms and hampers attempts to attract foreign investment needed to revive a stalled economy.

Some critics, without providing proof, allege that right-wing, renegade elements in the security forces may act on their own to undermine de Klerk's reforms.

The violence continues to escalate and police have little credibility in black townships, making it unlikely they can halt the carnage.

Previous reports by government-appointed commissions have criticized police or other departments but resulted in little substantive action by the government. This time, however, the government could face more intense questions about its credibility.

In stunning testimony Friday, Mngomezulu told the judicial commission that policemen based at the Greenside coal mine were transported to Boipatong and participated in the slaughter.

Mngomezulu, a security guard at the mine and member of the ANC-allied National Union of Mineworkers, said one of the policemen, Jeremiah Shikongo, told him he went to Boipatong the night of the attack but was not involved in the killing.

Shikongo, a former member of the controversial Koevoet counter-insurgency unit during South Africa's rule of neighboring Namibia, told the commission that Mngomezulu was lying. He said the unit never went to any areas of violence.

"No, that story of Boipatong is untrue," Shikongo said. "I see on TV the fighting, but I was never there."

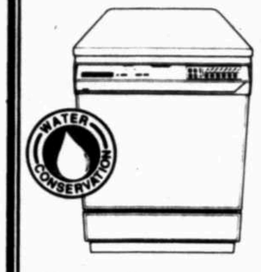

Koevoet members were frequently accused of atrocities in Namibia, where they waged a bush war against guerrillas of the South-West Africa People's Organization, the group that led Namibia to independence two years ago.

Some members of Koevoet, the Afrikaans word for "crowbar," were reassigned to the South African police.

Rabin election casts doubt over settlers' dreams

By Marcus Eliason
Associated Press writer

ARIEL, Occupied West Bank — Yossi Levy put the final touches to his new supermarket in Shaarei Tikva, and phone lines were being laid in Revava. Another humdrum day among the Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank.

But an undercurrent of dismay was evident. The defeat of the Likud party in Tuesday's election has cost the settlers their biggest benefactor, and they will soon be dealing with a government full of people who don't particularly like them.

There also were the first signs of a crisis of faith among some Likud leaders over the party's failure to sweep up the nation in its dream of a Greater Land of Israel, teeming with Jews from the Jordan River to the Mediterranean.

"Part of the public does not see in the slogan of Greater Israel a suitable or sufficient answer to the complex problems concerning the large Palestinian population in the territories," Defense Minister Moshe Arens said Thursday when he announced his retirement from politics.

"On the morning after the election, people here said they hadn't slept all night. It was a feeling of standing before the unknown, not knowing what will happen," said Yoella Kirschenboim, a 26-year-old mother of three who lives at Revava.

"Of course we're worried," said Noam Slomianski, mayor of the 3,500 settlers of Elkana, a few miles down the Israeli-built cross-West Bank highway.

"We expected a change from these elections, but we didn't imagine it would be so sweeping."

Revava, a hillside cluster of 15 mobile homes, went up last year in a hasty overnight snub to Secretary of State James A. Baker III, who was arriving in Jerusalem to coax the Likud government into peace talks with the Arabs.

Now the 115,000 settlers have to deal with Yitzhak Rabin.

Rabin won the election partly because he promised to cut back on settlement construction and divert the money to job creation and absorbing immigrants.

Unlike Shamir, Rabin doesn't believe Jews should settle wherever they like in the Promised Land. As prime minister in the 1970s, he often uprooted "wildcat" settlements like Revava.

Rabin isn't against settlements in principle. But he wants to limit them to areas he regards as strategically important — around Jerusalem and in the Jordan Valley.

The rest, he says, are "political settlements," set up simply to establish a Jewish presence.

Most of the settlers are Israelis who came less out of ideology than for a tax break and a bigger house. Thus simply by removing these benefits, Rabin can put a big damper on the settlement movement.

Ariel, a town of 10,500 Jews in the heart of the West Bank, was expecting 800 families to move in this summer, and hoping to achieve city status. Those plans are now in doubt.

In the first decade after Israel captured the territories in the 1967 war, when Labor was in power, fewer than 3,200 Jews settled in the occupied lands. Likud's election in 1977 gave the settlements their big push.

Rabin has refused to draw a map of the "political settlements." His more urgent task is forming a coalition. His most eager ally is the left-wing Meretz bloc.

But Meretz alone won't give Rabin a majority, and the settlers hope Rabin will also take in hard-line parties like Tzomet and the National Religious Party, which back the settlements.

Settlement leaders sound less worried about a building freeze than about Rabin's other goal, autonomy for the 1.7 million Palestinians under occupation, which they see as the prelude to a Palestinian state in which Jews will be rendered foreigners.

U.N. chief gives Serbs 48 hours to halt Sarajevo push

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali on Friday gave Serbian forces 48 hours to halt their military offensive in the Bosnian capital of Sarajevo or face unspecified consequences.

In a message to the council, Boutros-Ghali hinted strongly that U.N. peacekeepers would have to be withdrawn if fighting continued and said the Security Council would be forced to decide on "other means" to deliver humanitarian relief to the besieged capital.

U.N. diplomats said the 15-member council might have to authorize a military operation to get food, medicine and emergency relief to the people of Sarajevo or escalate its punishment of Serbia.

The council scheduled closed consultations on the issue Monday.

Bosnian Ambassador Muhamed Sacribey urged the council to authorize "relatively limited air action" against Serbian positions, artillery and supply lines. He wrote that such action "would allow for both the effective delivery of emergency relief and the cessation of barbaric shelling."

Bosnia had asked earlier for military intervention and air strikes.

Council President Paul Noterdaeme read a statement from the secretary-general, now in Nigeria, about the fighting in Sarajevo:

"Unless the present military offensive by the Serb side ceases and there is evidence over the next 48 hours of active relocation of heavy weaponry into areas of concentraiton to be supervised by UNPROFOR (U.N. peacekeepers), I will have no choice but to reassess the feasibility of UNPROFOR implementing the agreement.

"It would then be up to the Security Council to determine what other means would be required to bring relief to the suffering people of Sarajevo."

Serb troops have blockaded the Sarajevo airport for nearly two months as part of an attempt to crush Bosnia's majority Muslims and Croats who voted to secede from Yugoslavia in February.

On Friday, Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic condemned the bombardment of Sarajevo by Bosnian Serbs, and said international observers should test his assertion that his republic is not involved.

State Department officials dismissed Milosevic's comments as misleading.

One official noted Milosevic had appointed the commander of Bosnia's Serb forces.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler reaffirmed on Friday that the U.S. military stood ready to assist in relief operations in Bosnia if asked by the United Nations and if a cease-fire had been in effect for 48 hours.

The U.N. protection force, originally sent to Croatia, has been charged with reopening Sarajevo airport and taking control of heavy weapons in the immediate area.

U.N. officials said Friday the situation was grave because of continuing Serbian efforts to capture the Muslim suburb of Dobrinja, next to the airport. It would be impossible to reopen the airport if Dobrinja falls because Serbs would be solidly in control, they said.

Noterdaeme said the Security Council is "very, very much preoccupied by this development ...

"I make a strong appeal mostly to the Serbian side in Bosnia-Herzegovina to immediately stop all fighting and let UNPROFOR perform its mandate," he told reporters after closed consultations.

"I think this is a very strong warning," Venezuelan Ambassador Diego Arria said later. "Military action is a real possibility."

He said it could begin with a military blockade.

Diplomatic and economic sanctions have already been in place since last month against Yugoslavia.

French Ambassador Jean-Bernard Merimee told reporters if the situation around the airport did not improve in 48 hours and if shelling continued, U.N. peacekeepers may have to be withdrawn.

Mac's tantrum

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — John McEnroe threw one of his famous tantrums at Wimbledon on Friday.

The day after his stirring five-set singles triumph over Pat Cash, McEnroe blew up at referee Alan Mills during a doubles match.

McEnroe and Michael Stich had just taken a two set lead over defending champions Anders Jarryd and John Fitzgerald when the match was halted early because of bad light.

Watched by thousands of Centre Court fans, the three-time singles champion exchanged angry words with Mills while their opponents walked off court.

McEnroe and Stich clearly wanted to continue the second-round match at 6-3, 7-6 (7-3) some 45 minutes before the end of scheduled play.

Stich sat down but McEnroe approached Mills as the referee walked on to court.

For three minutes, the 33-year-old player talked angrily with Mills while the fans booed the fact the match had been halted.

Morenz' decision

DALLAS (AP) — The wealthy Toronto Blue Jays will have their say about whether two-sport star Shea Morenz plays quarterback for the Texas Longhorns or the outfield in Canada.

The Longhorns beat UCLA and Stanford in the recruiting battle for Morenz, one of the top quarterback prospects in the nation, but Texas can't even play on the Blue Jays' field when it comes to the bottom line.

Toronto, one of baseball's richest teams, is known for its zeal in luring multi-sport prospects, including Florida State quarterback Chris Weinke and Stanford outfielder Shawn Green, away from college campuses.

Now the Blue Jays have sights set on the hard-hitting Morenz, their sixth-round draft pick.

Toronto can try to sign Morenz right up until he attends his first class on Aug. 26, according to major league rules.

Wimbledon turns ugly

Ivan Lendl hits a backhand during his third-round singles match on Friday against Australia's Sandon Stolle.

Players hurl sizable insults

By Steve Wilstein
AP Tennis Writer

WIMBLEDON, England — Oink!

Once the citadel of civility, Wimbledon turned into a trough of abuse Friday. Grunts yielded to insults and thoughtfulness gave way to threats, starting with one man's opinion that "80 percent of the top 100 women are lazy, fat pigs" who shouldn't be allowed on Centre Court.

That indiscreet fellow, 11th-seeded Richard Krajicek, later apologized, sort of, for his self-described "stupid statement."

"What I meant to say, actually, is only 75 percent," he said. "A lot of women are overweight."

Responded Martina Navratilova, perhaps only partly in jest: "I'm going to beat him up."

Tennis anyone?

There really were some marvelous moments amid all the mud-slinging.

Navratilova made the shot of the tournament, a round-the-back volley winner at break point and 5-5 in the first set that sapped the spirit from Barbara Ritter and led to a 7-5, 6-1, third-round win.

"I've hit those before, but I don't think I've ever hit one at a better time," said Navratilova, seeking her 10th Wimbledon title. "I was on the skids at that point."

Rittner, stunned by the trick shot after blasting a forehand straight at Navratilova from about 15 feet away, called the volley simply "unbelievable."

"The whole match just turned around," Rittner said.

Ivan Lendl, frustrated in a dozen Wimbledons and falling fast in the rankings this year, served 21 aces to win a five-setter against Sandon Stolle, son of three-time Wimbledon finalist Fred Stolle.

Defending champions Michael Stich, two-time champion Stefan Edberg, Pete Sampras and Goran Ivanisevic all swept into the round of 16 with straight-set victories, as did women's top seed Monica Seles.

All looked like potential champions, especially Sampras, the 1990 U.S. Open winner.

"I was more or less in the zone, so to speak, for just about all of the match," he said after beating Scott Davis 6-1, 6-0, 6-2.

Five seeded players lost, including No. 7 Mary Joe Fernandez, who injured her right hip against Amy Frazier, and No. 10 Anke Huber. Among the men's seeds who lost was No. 13 Brad Gilbert.

Tennis aside — and it seemed to be for much of the day — Navratilova led the chorus of women's protests about Krajicek's comments.

Seles, the butt of broadsides in the British tabloids about her widening bottom and incessant grunts, declined to talk about anything except her 6-4, 6-1 victory over Laura Gildemeister.

Navratilova knew Krajicek couldn't be talking about her — "My body fat is lower than his" — but she acknowledged that some of her colleagues really are fat "as are some of the men's players."

"I see some pot bellies out there, but that doesn't make you a great player or a lazy player. You get some baseball players who look like they drink beer all day long, but they hit home runs."

Ritter, one of the more full-figured women on the tour, took particular exception to Krajicek's remarks.

"I can only answer that with a question: Have you ever seen women in the last two years defaulting in a semifinal?" she said, recalling Krajicek's pullout from the Australian Open because of a shoulder injury before his semifinal against Jim Courier.

"It's really stupid of him. I can't accept it."

Frenchwoman Nathalie Tauziat, taking delight in Krajicek's five-set defeat against France's Arnaud Boetsch, called

Hathaway hurls gem

Staff report

WICHITA, Kan. — Midland's Hilly Hathaway and Wichita's Pedro Martinez threw gems Friday night in the opener of a six-game series in Wichita. One of those games where both pitched so well, both deserved some sort of credit.

But it was Hathaway who was the only one with a 'W' etched by his name in the line score as Midland scored a 1-0 victory over the Wranglers at Lawrence Dumont Stadium in a briskly played pitchers' duel. The win gave the Angels (4-3) a share of first place with San Antonio.

Hathaway (1-0) threw eight innings of shutout ball, giving up four hits and striking out five. In a brief crisis, Hathaway walked two batters in the

Reynolds bumped at Olympic trials

Butch Reynolds finished fifth at the U.S. Olympic trials Friday and will not be a member of the 400-meter team.

By Bert Rosenthal

NEW ORLEANS — Butch Reynolds might be going to the Olympic Games. It just won't be as a member of the U.S. 400-meter team.

Reynolds' long and courageous bid to make the team in the 400 came to a halt Friday night, when he finished fifth at the U.S. Olympic trials. Race winner Danny Everett ran the second-fastest 400 ever.

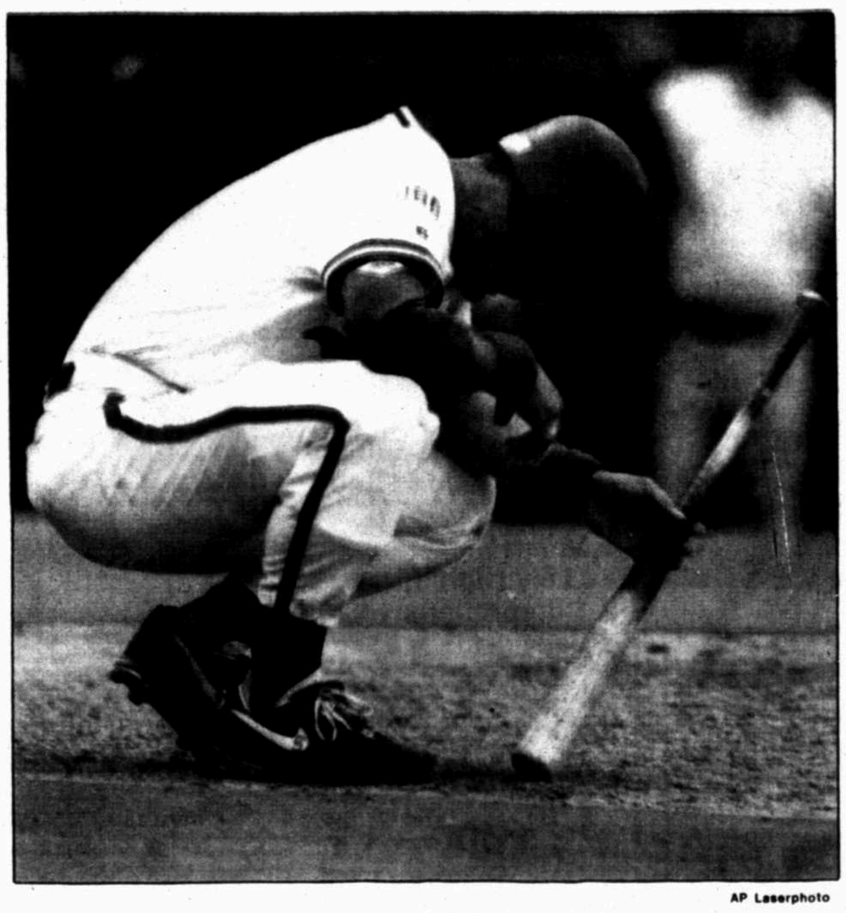

While the tired and emotionally drained Reynolds did not qualify for the team in the open 400, he did qualify as an alternate on the 1,600-meter relay team. It will be up to coach Mel Rosen whether to use Reynolds in the relay in any of the rounds at Barcelona.

It is unlikely, however, that Reynolds, still under suspension, will compete at the Games.

The Athletics Congress, the national governing body, plans to submit the names of all qualifiers to the U.S. Olympic Committtee by July 10. The USOC will enter the names of all American ath-

Tribulations take toll on Brett's season

AP Laserphoto

George Brett has had a roller coaster year trying to boost his average while recovering from the recent death of his father.

■ The hitting star of the Kansas City Royals has seen his worst slump followed by the death of his father in 1992.

By Craig Horst
AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Trying to hit a 90 mph fastball pales in comparison to what has happened off the field for George Brett this season.

Of course, hitting has been a big enough problem in itself for Brett. He endured the worst slump of his career — 1 for 40 — as the Kansas City Royals lurched to a 1-16 start.

Brett's mood swung from the happiness of a first marriage at age 39 — he and the former Leslie Davenport married in February — to a vow that he would quit at the All-Star break if he could not buy a hit.

"I think I was hitting about .130 and I had to ask myself 'How much fun am I having?'" said Brett, a career .308 hitter and a three-time batting champion. "I just was not helping the team. I had to ask myself, 'How am I helping the team?'"

Then the real bomb dropped.

Brett's father called one night to say he was dying of brain cancer. He had waited a month to tell Brett because he knew how badly his son felt about how he and the team were playing and did not want to burden him further.

This was a tough relationship between father and son.

Brett was the youngest of four brothers. He and his brother John were the bad boys. Father Jack was a disciplinarian who pushed his boys hard.

"When I was a kid it was very rough," Brett said this week, pausing occasionally to spit a stream of tobacco juice as he dressed for a game at the clubhouse space he occupies as the Royals' franchise player.

"By the time I came along, he had a very low tolerance level. The tolerance level wasn't the same as it was for the others. When I was late and made some excuse, he'd already heard every excuse.

"John and I were kind of the ones who didn't bring home the good report cards. We were the ones who didn't do our chores on time. We were the ones who didn't do our homework.

"I couldn't understand why I was the one he got on. But my brothers have been successful. I've been successful in my career."

Brett remembers 1980 when he hit .390. He went home figuring he had a pretty good year.

"Most people's dads would have put their arms around you and said you had a good year," he said. "My dad said if you would have got five more hits you would have hit .400. Don't be content. That's the message he gave me. That's one of the reasons I've been successful."

Brett left the team on a Friday. His dad died the following Sunday night last month.

"He'd always check the box score,"

Gilbert rings up record at Bell Classic

Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Gibby Gilbert shot a tournament-record 8-under-par 62 Friday in the opening round of the Southwestern Bell Classic, matching the lowest round on the PGA Seniors Tour this year

Gilbert, seeking his first Seniors Tour victory after four second-place finishes, had eight birdies and 10 pars on the 6,496 Loch Lloyd Course, which the players feel is playing better than last year in the inaugural Southwestern Bell Classic.

Gilbert tied the course record set in Wednesday's pro-am by Dick Hendrickson, who was one of three golfers at 66 on Friday. It matched the 62 shot by Chi Chi Rodriguez in the GTE West Classic.

Gilbert struggled to a 219 in last year's Southwestern Bell Classic, 18 strokes behind Jim Colbert's winning total.

"I almost didn't come back this year because last year the course was just sort of mediocre," Gilbert said. "But this year the course is great. The fairways are 100 percent improved from last year.

"I'm glad I came back."

Joining Hendrickson at 66 were Charles Coody and Dale Douglass. At 67 were Larry Laoretti, who finished second last year, Al Kelly, Mike Hill, Bobby Nichols, Jim Ferree and Colbert. Bunched at 68 were Dan Morgan, Kermit Zarley, George Archer, Tom Shaw and Bob Charles.

Lee Trevino, the winningest player this year on the Seniors Tour, fought a balky putter all day and was one of 10 golfers at 69.

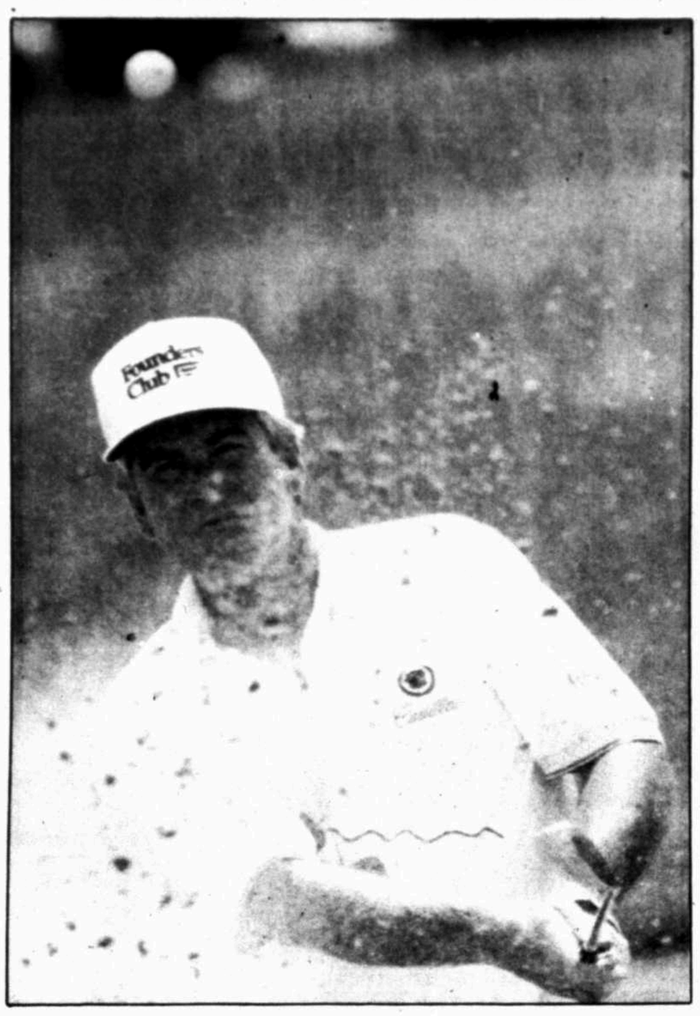

"The greens seemed hard to read today," Trevino said. "But Gibby Gilbert didn't seem to have much trouble reading them."

Gilbert credited an old friend and unlikely caddie, Grier Jones, with helping him to the record-breaking round. Jones, who once roomed with Gilbert on the regular PGA Tour, is now club pro at the Terradyne Country Club near Wichita.

"I called Grier and said ... how about coming up and coaching me," Gilbert said. "I told him I'd been playing better than I was scoring. I'm sure this is the first time he ever caddied for anybody."

Jones proved more valuable than Gilbert had envisioned.

"I felt like a kid with a security blanket out there with Grier at my side," Gilbert said. "He helped a lot. Just basically working with what I have."

Dave Stockton fired a one-under-par 69 Friday in the first round of the Southwestern Bell Classic, but he trails Gibby Gilbert by seven strokes.

Frost inches out in front at Buick Classic

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — David Frost was in the lead at the halfway point of the $1 million Buick Classic, but was hearing footsteps from the four feet of Fred.

"There was nothing heroic about it. Not very exciting," the South African Frost said after a 68 broke a five-way tie for the top and staked him to sole control of the 36-hole lead.

Frost, who completed two trips over the rolling hills of the Westchester Country Club in 7-under-par 135, was one shot ahead of Fred Funk and three in front of Fred Couples.

"We're only two Freds out here," said Funk, a 36-year-old former coach at the University of Maryland who scored the first victory of his PGA tour career in Houston earlier this season.

"They call him Boom Boom," Funk said, referring to the nickname given the Masters champion by his fellow touring pros in recognition of his vast length off the tee. "They call me Poof Poof."

But that's not the only handle he carries, Funk said.

"Some of the guys think I look a little like Greg Norman; you know, the blue eyes. They call him The Shark. Me, they call The Guppy," said Funk, who ranks 135th in driving distance.

Funk, however, missed only one of the tiny greens and one fairway in a round of 67 that put him in a tie for second with Duffy Waldorf at 136, a single stroke back.

And Funk's effort could have been better. "I feel like I left a few out there," said Funk, who missed four putts of five feet or less.

Sheehan leads charge at Rochester with 65

PITTSFORD, N.Y. (AP) — Playing as well as she has "in quite a long time," Patty Sheehan put on a late charge to take a two-stroke lead over Nancy Lopez and Michelle McGann in the $400,000 Rochester International on Friday.

Sheehan, whose last win on the tour came in February 1991, picked up six birdies on her back nine to finish at 7-under-par 65 for the day and 9-under 135 for the tournament.

A three-putt bogey on the 18th hole dropped Lopez, the first-round leader, to 1-under 71 for the day and 137 for two rounds. McGann, in second after the opening round, also was at 7 under after a round of 72.

The recovery from a hand injury suffered after last year's McDonald's Championship has slowed Sheehan, who said she is only now beginning to correct swing woes caused by the injury.

"I was compensating in my swing to take pressure off the finger and my alignment got out of whack," Sheehan said. "I think a lot of things stemmed from the injury.

"Plus, you start playing bad and you're not making any birdies, and you lose a little bit of confidence."

Birdie putts from 15 and 8 feet on the front nine helped bolster Sheehan's spirits and set up a birdie-filled back nine.

An 18-foot birdie putt on No. 2 (her 11th hole), a 10-foot putt on No. 3 and a 1-inch tap-in on the par-5 No. 4 moved Sheehan to 7 under.

A three-putt from 10 feet on the par-3 No. 5 slowed the momentum.

ANGELS: Wranglers threaten

(From 1B)

eighth inning, but came out unscathed. Brett Merriman came on to pitch the ninth inning, earning his fifth save of the season.

Martinez (7-3) allowed four hits and one earned run in 8⅓ innings. Martinez, who struck out nine Angels and walked just one, did not allow a Midland base runner until the sixth. Only twice in the game did the Angels have as many as two runners on base.

Had manager Don Long not called for the hit-and-run, Midland might not have gotten its one run in the ninth.

After a Rod Correia walk, Edgar Alfonzo's hit-and-run single to rightfield sent Correia to third. A couple of pitches later, designated hitter Pete Coachman singled to left to score Correia. Had Correia been forced to try and score from second, the play at the plate would've been a close one.

Wichita threatened on occasion, including in the fourth when J.D. Noland led off with a single and stole his league-leading 29th base. Noland later went to third, but clean-up batter Mark Gieseke popped out to end the inning.

In the fifth, Brian Johnson, one of the recipients of a Hathaway-allowed single, led off third, drawing a throw by Correia. Johnson got back o the bag in time, but then stepped off momentarily and Eduardo Perez made the tag for the final out of the inning.

Barcelona Olympics could be last hurrah for Larry Bird

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO — Even if he returns for one more season with the Boston Celtics, Larry Bird's last hurrah could come with the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

The Celtics may be too old to win a fourth NBA championship during the Bird era, however much longer it may last.

The Olympics are another story. The U.S. team, made up of NBA players, is expected to win the gold medal at Barcelona.

"It's pretty exciting," Bird said. "My career's winding down and I'm getting to play with some of the great players in the world. It's been a great opportunity."

Recurring back problems forced Bird to miss 37 games last season and another five in the playoffs.

After the Celtics were eliminated by the Cleveland Cavaliers in the Eastern Conference semifinals, Bird said he would announce in September whether he'll be back for a 14th season. He keeps saying he's in the twilight of his NBA career, but hasn't said that it's over.

When asked if the Olympics would be his last competition, he replied, "Nope."

Olympic coach Chuck Daly said Bird is in good shape.

"He's playing well. He's gotten a little sharper every day. He's learned how to take good care of himself," Daly said.

Bird's back held up through five days of practice and scrimmages at UC San Diego. He'll test it in competition on Sunday when the Americans play Cuba in the 10-team Tournament of the Americas at Portland. The top four teams will advance to Barcelona.

At 35, Bird is the oldest member of an Olympic team that also includes Magic Johnson, Michael Jordan, Patrick Ewing, Charles Barkley and Clyde Drexler.

He and the other NBA players got their chance when the International Basketball Federation voted in April 1989 to allow professionals to play in international competition, including the Olympics.

Still, "I'd rather be in an NBA Finals and win the championships for the Boston Celtics because I've been there for so long," Bird said. "The USA team comes once every four years. We've got a great team here and it'll mean a lot, but it's not the most important that will ever happen to me if we win.

"But it's a very special moment because of Magic and being able to play with these younger guys while I'm the older man on the team."

Bird said he didn't want to play on the Olympic team if it meant taking a spot away from a college player.

"But after talking to some people, I was told that if I didn't play, my spot would just go to someone my age or a little younger. So with that, and the chance to play with these guys for a gold medal, I told them I'd love to play."

That decision, of course, made him a teammate of Johnson's.

"We've played against each other for 13 years and this is really the first time we've got to practice with each other and play in a game situation, and now we get to play all summer together," Bird said.

"It's very important to us to win a gold medal together because we've had success without each other, and now we'd like to win something together."

Johnson, who retired from the Los Angeles Lakers last November after testing HIV-positive, said the Olympics "could be the last hurrah for both of us. You never know.

"So this one isn't just for the Laker fans, or just for the Celtics fans, this time it's going to be for all the basketball fans everywhere."

The Olympians are ready for the tournament, Daly said on Friday. The Olympic team again easily handled a team of college stars during two 15-minute scrimmages.

"I think we've kind of worn down the developmental team physically," Daly said. "They only have eight guys. We are playing a lot better. I'm seeing very good sparks."

Daly said the coaching staff will name a starting five on Saturday.

Ewing, who dislocated his right thumb on Thursday, said he did some running and participated in drills that didn't require him to catch the ball. He's expected to miss the United States' first three games at Portland.

letes with the Barcelona Organizing Committee.

TAC president Frank Greenberg said Friday he would submit Reynolds' name to the USOC, as ordered by the Supreme Court. The USOC will consider the situation at a regularly scheduled executive committee meeting Sunday at Indianapolis.

"My expectation is that we'll probably forward the name," USOC executive director Harvey Schiller said.

"He's an Olympic team member unless the USOC says he isn't," Rosen said.

Off his previous performances at the trials, Reynolds appeared to have a strong shot at the top three. But he couldn't keep up the sizzling pace, as Everett, the 1988 Olympic bronze medalist, won in 43.81 seconds, the fastest ever in the United States. Only Reynolds' world record of 43.29 at Zurich, Switzerland, in 1988 is quicker.

Steve Lewis, the 1988 Olympic gold medalist, finished second in 44.08 and was followed by NCAA champion Quincy Watts in 44.22, and Andrew Valmon in 44.52.

Reynolds, after a fast start, faded to fifth in 44.65.

"It's taken a lot out of me," Reynolds said of the controversy surrounding his participation in the trials. "There was too much pressure.

"Right now, I guess I'm going to Barcelona. If I'm not chosen to run on the relay team, I won't run. I'm tired."

Everett said of his brilliant race, "This is the culmination of many years of learning. I'm a person who for the past few years was always coming in around third and making mistakes. Now, I've matured and put everything together."

WIMBLEDON: Krajicek apologizes

(From 1B)

the Dutchman's comments simply "ridiculous."

Krajicek, a skinny, 6-foot-4, 20-year-old with a touch of baby fat in his face, said he was sorry.

He had no regrets, though, about the point of his remark, that women should not get equal pay for unequal play, because they compete in best-of-three matches instead of best-of-fives as the men do. He also insisted that fans want to see the men's matches more and that most women's matches should be taken off the show courts.

"I'm just trying to make the point that they are complaining all the time that they are not getting equal prize money, and they keep pressing it," he said. "I think that they should just be happy with what they are making. We are not asking for more and more at this time."

It's an old and sensitive argument — Wimbledon allocates about $3.7 million to the men's singles and doubles pools, and about $3 million to the women's. The men's singles champion here makes about $500,000, while the women's champion gets about $50,000 less.

The pay also is unequal at the French Open, but at both the U.S. and the Australian Opens the men and women earn the same amounts.

Many of the men's players, including John McEnroe, Jimmy Connors and Pat Cash, have long agreed with Krajicek that the men are a bigger draw for the Grand Slams and should be compensated with larger purses.

■ More Sports/8B

Wimbledon is conducting a survey that includes questions about the relative popularity of men's and women's tennis, and that could have an effect on pay parity.

Gerard Smith, executive director of the Women's Tennis Association, said he didn't want to dignify Krajicek's remarks by commenting on them.

But Navratilova, former WTA president, didn't hesitate to respond.

"It's insulting to the women players," Navratilova said. "There is no reason to be making statements like that."

BRETT: Slugger closes in on 3,000th hit

(From 1B)

Brett said. "If I did bad, he would have a bad day. If I did good, he had a good day. No child wants to do something to spoil his dad's day.

"He was coherent in the hospital, but he was heavily drugged because there wasn't anything they could do for him. He would fade in and out. The first thing he asked me was how'd we do today and how many hits did you get."

The journey through 19 years of baseball has taught Brett a lot about the highs and lows of life. A pure hitter like lockermate Wally Joyner, Brett cannot say why he goes bad or why he goes good.

"I'm facing a real tough right-hander in Minnesota who throws a good curveball and I get three hits," he said. "Then I go 0-for-9. I'm 1-for 21 and then what happens? I get three hits, then I don't get one. It doesn't make sense. I don't understand it."

The average is up to about .250 now, not close to acceptable by Brett standards. The left-handed hitter has accepted his fulltime designated hitter role and his drop in the batting order from third to fifth.

He is now getting about a hit a game and at midweek had 56, leaving him 108 short of 3,000 with 94 games to play. Going into Thursday's game he was in the midst of another slump, with only three hits in his last 31 times at bat.

For the first time in as long as anyone can remember, Brett was left off the All-Star ballot this year.

But Brett is always one of the first to arrive at the park, and one of the first on the field. He's in on a pre-batting practice game with his teammates, most of whom are much younger than himself.

"We dug ourself into a deep hole," he said. "It's a long haul.

"I've never been a clubhouse rah-rah type of guy. I've always been taught to go out and play hard and keep my mouth shut."

Midland Blue loses

Staff report

Midland Blue got off to a rough start in opening day action at the first Mid-Summer Invitational baseball tournament held Friday at Hogan Park's Simon Field.

San Angelo defeated Midland Blue 14-1 in a game shortened to four innings due to the 10-run rule.

David Tower of San Angelo pitched a one hitter. Alex Hale, of Midland Blue, received the loss.

San Angelo's big inning was the second when nine runs crossed the plate. San Angelo also had three runs in the first and two in the third to complete the scoring.

Midland's only hit and only run came when David Romero singled to drive in Jimmy Patton in the fourth.

The Midland Blue team, which will play today at 12:15 p.m. in losers bracket action at Simon Field, is comprised of Midland Lee juniors and sophomores. San Angelo's team is made up of mostly juniors and seniors.

Friday's late game had Lee's No. 1 team playing host to Abilene. Friday's stormy weather delayed the completion of the game.

The tournament continues through Sunday, when championship game action begins at 3 p.m.

Parks 22-0 with first-round KO

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Top-ranked middleweight Lamar Parks maintained his undefeated record with a first-round knockout of Jose Luis Lopez on Friday night.

Parks, from Greenville, S.C., raised his record to 22-0 with 18 knockouts. The victory set the stage for a mandatory title bout with WBA champion Reggie Johnson later this year.

Parks, 164½, took control swiftly and ended the fight at 2:29 when a barrage of punches sent Lopez to the canvas. He got up but was in no shape to continue and referee Harry Hitopoulus stopped the bout.

Lopez, 163, from Mexico, dropped to 15-3.

In another 10-rounder, veteran heavyweight Renaldo Snipes ended a two-year layoff with a split decision win against Garing Lane. Snipes, of Yonkers, N.Y., upped his record to 38-71 despite suffering a cut over the left eye. He also took a standing-8 count.

Snipes weighed 226, while Lane, of Plantation, Fla., weighed 270. Lane's record fell to 9-7-1.

Clay demo set

Staff report

Winchester Arms will put on a demonstration of a new type of five stand sporting clays June 27-28 at the Midland Shooters Trap and Skeet Club, on F.M. 1788, 1½ miles south of Interstate 20. The public is invited and welcomed to bring their shotguns and take part.

Admission is free. For more information, call Phil Barry, 694-6250.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

WHAT IS STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE?

Stockquote Hotline gives you the latest stock prices direct from the wires of the Associated Press. Over 9,000 stocks are listed from NYSE, AmEx, and OTC sources; all available 24 hours a day. You can receive up to 10 quotes with one easy phone call.

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE:

1) Call the Stockquote Hotline at 560-2400; enter the category number which is 9988.

2) You will be asked to enter your stock ticker symbol. These are based on industry-standard symbols, which can be found in a Standard & Poor's Ticker guide, or by calling your local stock broker.

3) Once you've entered the numerical code for the ticker symbol, press the Star Key (*) and you will hear the current price and net change from the last Associated Press update; which is a few minutes behind market activity.

4) After the stock is quoted, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options:
• You may request a quote for another stock by repeating steps 2 & 3.
• You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more pressing the Star Key (*).
Now the volume, high and low will be given, and then you will be asked to enter another ticker code.
• You may enter up to 10 ticker symbols per call.

5) To exit Stockquote Hotline, simply hang up the phone.

Phillips hammers Detroit past Rangers, 4-2

Associated Press

AL

DETROIT — Tony Phillips had three hits, including a homer, and Bill Gullickson got his ninth victory as Detroit defeated Texas 4-2 Friday night.

Gullickson (9-4), showing no ill effects from being hit on the right shin last Sunday at Chicago, gave up six hits, walked one and struck out three in seven innings.

Kurt Knudsen pitched the eighth and Mike Henneman finished for his 12th save despite giving up a homer to Juan Gonzalez. It was Gonzalez's 18th homer of the season and 11th in June, breaking the Rangers' record for most homers in a month held by Dave Hostetler and Mike Hargrove.

Texas starter Todd Burns (2-1) gave up four runs on six hits in four-plus innings. He walked four and struck out three.

The Rangers took a 1-0 lead in the first when Rafael Palmeiro hit a two-out double and scored on Ruben Sierra's triple. Detroit tied it in the second when Dan Gladden doubled and scored on Scott Livingstone's grounder.

Following a 36-minute rain-delay, Phillips led off the Detroit third with his seventh homer to put Detroit ahead 2-1.

Red Sox 8, Brewers 4

BOSTON — Jody Reed snapped a 1-for-23 slump with a two-run double and John Dopson continued his Fenway Park success as Boston snapped a seven-game losing streak.

Reed's hit was part of a five-run, fifth-inning outburst that featured four consecutive doubles by the Red Sox. It was Boston's biggest inning of the season.

Dopson (4-3), who missed the entire 1991 season following elbow surgery, scattered seven hits over six innings before leaving with a stiff back. He entered the game with 15 straight scoreless innings at Fenway and extended the streak to 20 before giving up a run in the sixth.

Orioles 6, Royals 5

BALTIMORE — Baltimore used clutch hitting by Mike Devereaux to rally from a four-run deficit and beat Kansas City.

Devereaux had three hits, including a two-run single in the sixth inning that snapped a 4-4 tie. His fourth-inning single ignited a three-run outburst that got the Orioles back in the game.

Jeff Tackett homered for Baltimore and reliever Todd Frohwirth (2-0) faced the minimum 11 batters in relief of starter Ben McDonald, who was tagged for four runs and seven hits in 3⅓ innings.

Gregg Olson gave up a run in the ninth when Mike Macfarlane tripled and scored on a double-play grounder by Brent Mayne, but he got the final out for his 20th save. Rusty Meacham (4-1), who entered with a 0.60 ERA, took the loss.

Blue Jays 6, Indians 1

CLEVELAND — Juan Guzman gave up two infield hits in eight scoreless innings and John Olerud homered twice for Toronto.

Dave Winfield also homered for the Blue Jays, winners of three straight. Cleveland, has lost six in a row, matching its worst streak of the season.

Guzman (10-1) won his fourth straight start and improved his lifetime record to 20-4 by limiting the Indians to a bunt single and an infield single, both by Alex Cole.

Guzman struck out six, walked none and lowered his ERA to 2.13. In two career starts in Cleveland, he has pitched 15 scoreless innings and yielded four hits. Bob MacDonald gave up an RBI single to Glenallen Hill in the ninth.

White Sox 2, Yankees 1

NEW YORK — Robin Ventura hit a solo home run with one out in the ninth inning, lifting Kirk McCaskill and Chicago over New York.

It was the fifth homer of the season for Ventura, who became the first left-handed batter to connect off right-handed John Habyan (3-2) since July 3, 1988, when Texas' Geno Petralli did it.

Tim Leary, making his first start since the Baltimore Orioles accused him of scuffing baseballs in his last start, held Chicago to one run on three hits in seven innings. He worked around a career-high eight walks, struck out four and at no time did anything suspicious to cause the White Sox or the umpires to investigate him.

McCaskill (5-6) pitched even better, limiting the Yankees to one run on three hits in eight innings. He walked none and struck out six in improving to 3-9 lifetime against the Yankees.

Cubs blank Phillies behind Mike Morgan

Associated Press

NL

CHICAGO — Mike Morgan pitched six-hit ball for 7⅔ innings and Luis Salazar drove in two runs with a homer and a single Friday, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 3-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Morgan (7-2) won his seventh straight decision and improved to 7-0 lifetime at Wrigley Field, including 3-0 since he joined the Cubs this season. He struck out six and walked two.

Paul Assenmacher rescued Morgan with two runners on in the eighth, getting Darren Daulton on a long fly ball, and Jim Bullinger saved Assenmacher in the ninth, getting Ricky Jordan to hit into a game-ending double play with two runner on. Bullinger earned his seventh save.

Salazar singled home a run in Chicago's two-run fourth inning and hit his second home run in the sixth against Kyle Abbott (0-9), who is now within three losses of the Phillies' record for consecutive setbacks to start the season.

Expos 6, Pirates 2

MONTREAL — Dennis Martinez beat Pittsburgh for the first time in four decisions this season and laid down a perfect suicide squeeze bunt along the way.

Martinez (8-6) gave up two runs, five hits, struck out three and walked four before being lifted after six-plus innings. The right-hander is 10-7 lifetime against the Pirates despite losing three games to them earlier this season.

Since opening day 1989, when the Expos score four or more runs Martinez is 37-3 with 20 no-decisions.

Zane Smith (5-7) lasted only 1⅔ innings and is winless in nine starts. He gave up five runs on five hits.

Padres 6, Giants 2

SAN DIEGO — Craig Lefferts carried a no-hitter into the seventh inning against his former team and Darrin Jackson drove in two runs as the San Diego Padres sent the giants to their fourth straight loss.

The Giants ended a streak of 33 consecutive scoreless innings when Cory Snyder hit a solo homer into the second deck with two outs in the seventh for the first hit off Lefferts (9-5).

It was the ninth time at Jack Murphy Stadium that a home run reached the second deck. Gary Sheffield also did so for the Padres on May 25 off Pittsburgh's Zane Smith.

The Giants had been shut out in their previous three games to tie a club record.

Reds 7, Braves 4

CINCINNATI — Glenn Braggs opened a weekend showdown for first place in the NL West with a first-inning grand slam, sending Cincinnati over Atlanta.

The torrid Braves lost for just the fourth time in 25 games, slipping two games behind the division-leading Reds. Cincinnati has been atop the NL West every day in June.

The Braves took three of four from the Reds in Atlanta last weekend and chopped the Reds' lead from 4½ games to just one in the last week. But Braggs blunted the charge with his first career grand slam off Steve Avery (6-6), one of his favorite pitchers.

Cardinals 4, Mets 3

ST. LOUIS — Felix Jose's bases-loaded single with one out in the ninth inning snapped a tie as the St. Louis Cardinals rallied from an early three-run deficit.

Geronimo Pena singled with one out in the ninth off Jeff Innis (4-4) and stole second. Todd Zeile and Ray Lankford then walked, Lankford on four pitches, before Jose singled to center through a drawn-in infield.

Lee Smith (2-2), the fourth St. Louis pitcher, worked a scoreless ninth for the victory.

3 officers suspended after alleged overtime scam, official confirms

HOUSTON (AP) — Three police officers have been suspended with pay after allegedly double-dipping for city overtime while working private jobs, police officials confirmed Friday.

"They have been alleged to have been working on the city payroll and then at the same time for a private firm," Houston Police Department Spokesman Rick Hartley said.

The officers, assigned to the Northeast Patrol Division, have been relieved of duty pending the outcome of an internal affairs investigation, Hartley said.

The officers' names will not be released until the probe is completed, he said.

The officers, two men and a woman, were on a five-member team assigned on overtime to serve warrants. While two of the team members apparently used the overtime hours to serve warrants, sources in the Internal Affairs Division said the other three reported to security jobs at a housing project. The three then are accused of copying time cards of their fellow team members.

Investigators reportedly also are checking allegations that at least one officer was turning in overtime pay requests for time spent attending college classes.

The suspensions come less than a year after a massive report recommended changes to stop blatant abuses of overtime by officers in the Northeast substation.

The allegations also come only months after Mayor Bob Lanier promised to put more officers on the patrol by using overtime money to stop a growing crime problem in the city. The issue has been credited with helping Lanier, a former Texas Highway commissioner, to oust five-term incumbent Mayor Kathy Whitmire.

The Northeast station, which includes about 350 officers, also was subject to an internal audit on overtime ordered by former Police Chief Elizabeth Watson in November 1990. That audit came in the middle of the city's fiscal year after it was learned the station already had used its entire overtime budget and was requesting an additional $600,000 to finish the year.

That audit, completed in February 1991, found routine padding of timecards and thousands of dollars in overtime paid to officers for fraudulent or questionable assignments. It concluded there was no system in place to stop officers from abusing the overtime system.

Those findings spurred a more extensive overtime audit which led to recommendations for changes in August 1991.

City rally counters Klan gathering in town

BROWNWOOD (AP) — Residents and city leaders in this peaceful Central Texas community held their own rally Friday to draw attention away from a Ku Klux Klan gathering held across town.

"This unity rally shows the character of our community and makes a statement of love and not a statement of hate," said the Rev. Aaron Blake, one of the rally's organizers. "This is not an anti-Klan rally. It is a pro-love rally, and we will do it next year, too."

Local bands, singers and dancers kicked off a three-hour program called "Fun Night" at the local high school football field at the same time white supremacists held their rally.

Across town at the Brown County Courthouse, several hundred residents, mostly opposing the Klan's gathering, chanted "Go away, KKK!" and "Black Pride!" as the white supremacists donned banners and flags.

KKK Grand Wizard Thom Robb, who replaced David Duke, said he paid no attention to the unity rally.

"They can do whatever they want," Robb said. "We came here to express ourselves and we will. The Supreme Court backed us up on that issue this week."

Brownwood officials initially opposed the Klan rally, but legal ramifications prompted the city to have second thoughts.

The U.S. Supreme Court this week ruled that states and cities may not outlaw cross burning and similar "hate crimes."

The justices unanimously struck down a St. Paul, Minn., ordinance banning cross burning, swastika displays and other expressions of racial supremacy and bias. The court said the local law violated free-speech rights.

Protestors rushed a fenced-in area in front of the courthouse steps where the KKK rally was being held, and shouted: "Bring it on. Let's here what you have to say!" Others held signs reading, "It's time to come together."

The Rev. Blake acknowledged that many residents would bypass the unity rally to express anger at the white supremacists across town.

"Many will stand in opposition verbally and physically against the Klan," Blake said. "I respect that feeling, but it is not the answer and could cause serious problems."

Nearly 100 law officers were brought into this town of about 19,000 to keep the peace as Klan members and skinheads arrival from across the state.

But police reported no arrests. Two youths were separated after a heated argument.

After the Klan's two-hour rally, guards with riot gear moved in to escort the white supremacists as they packed up their loud speakers, and protestors sang hymns.

City officials financed the unity rally with donations.

City leaders began a unity scholarship fund for underprivileged Brown County students in response to the Klan rally.

"I see the scholarship idea as a show of unity," said the Rev. Rick McClatchy, who proposed the scholarship fund.

Neighbors describe gunman as menacing

AUSTIN (AP) — A man killed his brother and wounded his son before dying in an explosion and fire inside his house, police said.

The gunman was identified as David Fritz, who was described by neighbors as a loner with a history of firing weapons at people.

His brother, Kermit Fritz, 39, a florist, was shot in the chest and died Thursday at Brackenridge Hospital.

The 13-year-old boy, David Fritz Jr. of Abilene, was in serious condition at the hospital with a wounds to the chest and right leg. He had not lived with his father since his parents divorced about 11 years ago, neighbors said.

Police said the victims had gotten out of a car and were walking toward the front door when the gunman stepped on the porch and fired at Kermit Fritz.

The teen-ager then started running and was shot, Gail Phillips, a police spokeswoman said.

George Hernandez, 22, an employee at a nearby shoe store heard the shots and ran to the house. He said he and others tried to help the victims, and then he heard more gunfire inside the home.

Smoke, and then fire appeared, he said.

Ms. Phillips said weapons and ammunition were found in the three-bedroom house in northwest Austin.

Officer Sheldon Salisbury said authorities believe the homeowner doused the house with gasoline. Police said they did not know if the man died before the fire erupted, or in the fire.

Neighbors described David Fritz as a temperamental man who drove a Harley-Davidson motorcycle.

"He was the kind you'd want to stay away from," said Esther Schroeder, who lives across the street. She said after his divorce another woman lived with him, but left after he fired a gun at her.

Fritz's next-door neighbor, Gloria Hicks, 61, said the shooting didn't surprise her. "I've been expecting this. He was a mean man. People knew not to mess with him."

Police tell of battle against gangs at TPA conference

AUSTIN (AP) — Community education is an important part of fighting the gang problem, and the media have a role to play in the battle, police officers told a Texas Press Association convention Friday.

Print and broadcast public-service messages can help build a negative image for gangs, said Senior Officer Mark Gil, a member of the Austin Police Department's Gang Liaison Unit.

And leaving some information out of stories — such as gang names or colors —can prevent an escalation of violence from publicity-seeking gang members, said Gil and Senior Officer Robert Martinez.

"You can put together a very informative story without taking the risk of causing further bloodshed by naming a gang, or by revealing through a video news story the colors ... or the hand signs of these gangs," Gil said.

When police and media met to discuss gang concerns, said Austin American-Statesman Editor Maggie Balough, "I can't tell you what a chill it sent through all of us when we found that inadvertently we had been passing on the gang hand signs ... or their colors, or many of the other things that transmitted a message that we had no idea was there.

"We certainly didn't want to be doing anything to further aggravate this situation, so we realized we had a lot of learning to do," she said. "We are still learning."

Ms. Balough said the newspaper does not print gang names, but has made an exception, after a youth died as a result of a gang initiation.

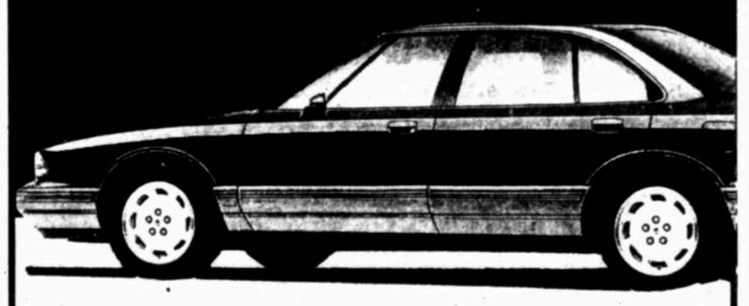

She said the matter was discussed with police officers, and the gang name was used, once, in the middle of the story.

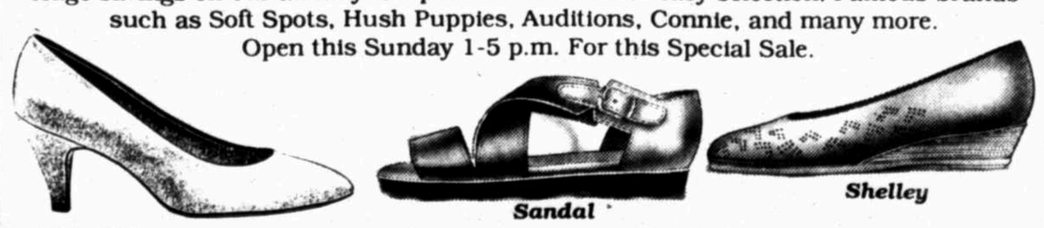

Ms. Balough also said the newspaper also has printed stories meant to inform parents about danger signals that their child might be joining a gang, and how they should respond.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Interpreted mass, workshop set

An "Interpreted Mass and Religious Interpreting Workshop" is planned for 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at St. Ann Church, Illinois Avenue at Avenue M.

Activities begin with a 1 p.m. picnic. The Mass is for all deaf and their families and friends. The workshop is for those who know some sign language, but would like to learn religious signs for interpreting the Mass or Bible readings.

Registration is needed for the workshop only. The workshop is sponsored by the Knights of Columbus and is free. Sister Conchetta LoPresti, OSF from the KC Deaf Community Program, will give the presentation. Books and materials will be offered for sale during the workshop.

To register, call Marge Hellinghausen at St. Ann, 687-0941.

■ Church hosts documentary

ODESSA — The documentary, "The Discovery of Noah's Ark," concerning the archaeological finds of Ron Wyatt, will be presented at the Odessa Seventh-day Adventist Church, 201 E. 91st St., at 7 p.m. today.

The location where Wyatt made his discovery is recognized by the Turkish government as being Noah's ark, and has been featured on ABC's "20/20" and NBC's "Unsolved Mysteries," said a release from the church.

Also discussed are the searches for Sodom and Gomorrah, Moses and the Red Sea crossing site and the Ark of the Covenant.

All interested parties are invited to attend.

■ University hosts 3-day meeting

DENTON — Texas Women's University will be the site of a three-day summer meeting July 17-19 co-sponsored by area Christian Scientists and The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston.

Based on the theme "The World Needs You," the program includes speakers, panels and small group workshops on subjects such as relationships, sports, school, healing family conflict, sexuality, self esteem and the environment. The meeting is open to those 12 through 30 years old.

Those interested in attending are asked to call 1-800-827-6408, or 682-8476.

■ Young women attend camp

"Echoes from the Prairie" was the theme of this year's Girls' Camp held at Cloudcroft, N.M., this month.

Around 100 young women ages 12 to 18 attended the camp, sponsored by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, from Midland, Odessa, Monahans, Big Spring, Seminole and Big Lake.

Organized by Peggy Bowden, Stake camp director, and Renita Fisher, both of Midland, "Echoes from the Prairie" was a primitive camp situation in which campers slept in tents and cooked meals outdoors on fires. They learned camping skills designed to help them appreciate their pioneer heritage.

The camp included a Hoe Down, featuring a live fiddler, Midlander Debbie Rowland.

■ YWA celebrates Day Program

The YWA of Greater Mt. Rose Baptist Church is celebrating its first annual Day Program at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Special guest will be Sue Roseberry. Music will be provided by Laura Butler of Higher Dimension, Tulsa, Okla.

The public is invited to attend.

■ 'Freshman Survival' event set

ODESSA — "Freshman Survival Saturday" is from 2 to 5 p.m. today at First Baptist Church's Family Life Center.

The event includes an encounter with Texas Tech students designed for all Permian basin students planning to attend college. A question and answer time will be included. Issues to be discussed include dorm life, life after high school, clubs, life without parents, experiencing college life while living at home, homesickness, and starting at the bottom of the social ladder as a freshman.

For more information call 1-335-6671. The get together is sponsored by Texas Tech University and the Permian Basin Baptist Student Unions.

■ Church to host ensemble

The Westside Free Will Baptist Church will be hosting the Sounds of Praise Ensemble from Southeastern Free Will Baptist College at 7 p.m. today and Sunday.

Southeastern Free Will Baptist College offers a four-year program training workers for the ministry, mission field and Christian schools. The school also offers a two-year business degree.

The choir at Southeastern has released two cassette tapes, "In the Midst of It All" and "Sing My Soul."

For more information call 697-1521.

■ 'Early bird' mind forum set

An "early bird" Science of Mind Forum is offered by the Permian Church of Religious Science at 9 a.m. Sundays.

Science of Mind, as originated by its founder, Ernest Holmes, ties ancient mysteries to modern scientific concepts, with Christ as the focal point.

The Forum will present different speakers leading discussions on topics concerned with the New Thought movement and its relationship to the mystery religions of ancient Egypt, Chaldea, Persia, India and Greece as precursors of Christianity.

The series is open to the public.

■ Church hosts video series

"Loving, Lasting Relationships," a video by Gary Smalley and John Trent, is being shown at 10 a.m. Sundays through Aug. 9 at Kelview Heights Baptist Church.

In this new video series, Smalley and Trent, offer practical advice based on Biblical principles.

The public is invited to attend.

■ Pre-registration continues

Pre-registration continues through Monday for the West Texas Extension Program of Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary's class "The Church as a Worshiping Community." The class will meet July 5 through 16 here.

This course is a six-hour required course for the master of divinity program at Austin Seminary.

The classes will meet at Trinity Presbyterian Church, 2800 W. Louisiana Ave., Sunday through Thursday evening beginning July 5 and concluding July 16 for 30 class hours.

Robert M. Shelton, academic dean and the Jean Brown Professor of Homiletics and Liturgics at Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary, will teach the course. Shelton is a graduate of the Cumberland Presbyterian Theological Seminary and Princeton Theological Seminary.

For more information call the Rev. A.J. Moreau, director of the Presbytery of Tres Rios, at 682-2514.

■ Appreciation service slated

The New Jerusalem Baptist Church, 1801 N. Carver St., is celebrating the 21st appreciation service for the church's pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. John F. Campbell, this month.

A service is planned at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The public is invited to attend.

■ Church presents videotape

The Unitarian-Universalist Church, Neely Avenue at Midkiff Road, will present a videotape program entitled "Ring of Fire: East of Krakatoa" at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

This program is the account of Lorne and Lawrance Blair's exploration of the islands of exotic Indonesia.

"They discovered followers of the pre-Islamic gods of Java as well as followers of the gods of the Toraja people, who believe themselves to be the descendants of the ancestors from the stars, said a release from the church.

Child care will be provided.

The public is invited to attend.

Marriage ranks as reason Americans switch faiths

N.Y. Times News Service

Americans are a changeable people. They switch homes, cars and spouses with alacrity. A new national poll shows that religion is no exception.

One out of four Americans has switched faiths or denominations at least once from the religion in which they were born, according to the Princeton Religious Research Center, an affiliate of the Gallup Organization.

Of those who switch, 81 percent end up in Protestant denominations and 9 percent in the Roman Catholic church. Fewer than 1 percent become either Eastern Orthodox Christians, Mormons, or Jews.

Before anyone jumps to the conclusion that all this switching comes from a deep spiritual search, one should consider the reasons that the respondents cited for the switch. The most often cited explanation, at 24 percent, was marriage to a person of another faith or denomination. Fourteen percent said they were motivated by a positive religious feeling toward their new church and 7 percent said that they were motivated by a negative feeling about their old church. And 11 percent changed for convenience, as in a move to a new neighborhood. The remaining explanations varied greatly.

El Paso grandmother makes life in convent

EL PASO (AP) — Ana Cortinas finally had it all.

The single mother was a well-paid legal secretary for the Texas Attorney General's Office. She had just made final payments on her Lower Valley home and 1988 Chevy Corsica. And her four children — ages 23 to 31 — were all self-supporting adults with budding careers.

Cortinas' life was exactly where she wanted it. So the day before her 54th birthday, she gave it all up.

She became a cloistered nun.

"People don't expect me to make it in here," Cortinas said from behind a thin metal grille in the small, stark visitor's room in El Paso's Corpus Christi Monastery.

"They say I'm trying to run away from the world. They say it'll be good for a few months. Then I'm going to get sick of it and find out I really belonged out there ... that I'm going to find the children really do need me and that being a mother is my vocation.

"And they say other personal things — that I won't be able to stand it in here having been married and having had relationships with men."

To the doubters she simply replies: "God has brought me in here. He either will see that I stay in here or he will show me what to do if I leave."

Cortinas is one of 20 Sisters of Perpetual Adoration in the Lower Valley monastery. She has been in the convent for six months. She has five and a half more years before she takes her solemn vows and becomes a permanent member of the order. This has been her dream since she was 18. Now that her life is in order and her children raised, it could become reality.

The 54-year-old nun is the first mother/grandmother/two-time divorcee to be allowed into the convent. Her acceptance, while a progressive historical footnote for the order, is an emotional strain on those she left behind.

By definition, cloistered nuns are kept away from the public. They sacrifice contact with the secular world in exchange for a closer relationship with God.

While she is a member of the convent, the most Cortinas will see her family is once a month. The least is four times a year. Physical contacts are limited to quick kisses and touches through openings in the grille. Writing letters is allowed, but phone calls are discouraged.

In addition, the sisters are not allowed to leave the convent except for medical treatment or crucial errands.

For Cortinas' youngest daughter, Teri, those restrictions mean that when the time comes, her mother may not be able to attend her wedding or be with her when she gives birth.

"When there's something exciting that happens or when I need to talk to somebody or when there's nobody around — that's when I wish she was around," said Teri, a 23-year-old bank research clerk.

For Cortinas' other three children — Sam and David Mata and Margo Cortinas, who are all parents themselves — it means their children have lost the grandma who would take them on outings.

"Before she went in, she told us that she wasn't that far away and that she was going to be closer to God," said Sam's wife, Susana. "And Eric (their son) hasn't forgotten her. When I say, 'Let's go to grandma's," he still says, 'Which one?"

"Yeah," echoes Eric, 10, a student at Cedar Grove Elementary school.

"I miss her and I love her," he said. "But she went away because she wanted to be with God all the time. Now she's happy."

Cortinas' children credit their mother for waiting until they were came and kneeled in front of us and asked us for a blessing. Then she walked away into the small nuns' chapel. All of us were crying. It was saying goodbye to the freedom of seeing her and talking to her every day."

Cortinas is grateful she waited to enter the order.

"God has his own timetable and that is not according to our timetable," she said. "At 18, it wasn't time for me to go. Because when I think of my life in this span of time — between high school and my coming in here — there's so much I did."

Cortinas was married at 21 to an Air Force recruit she met at a friend's wedding.

"At the time it was final. I was not going to be a sister," Cortinas said. "I was going to be a mother and a housewife. At the time it was done, I didn't have any misgivings. I thought, 'This is my vocation.' The fact that there was a divorce, of course, is something I didn't foresee."

She also didn't foresee her second marriage, this time a non-church union spurred by an unplanned pregnancy — and two years later, another divorce.

It is difficult for Cortinas to talk about her life as a single mother in the secular world.

"But," she said, nervously tugging on the white band of her black veil. "These are the facts of life, and it's important for people to know them. It is real. This is reality."

Eleven years ago, church authorities granted Cortinas an annulment for her first marriage and a dispensation for her second.

"At that time, I thought I would be free to enter a convent because they couldn't say I was married," Cortinas said. "So the idea did come to my mind. I could meet someone and get married in the Catholic church again, or if I'm able to bring the kids up to a certain age and they could take care of themselves, there might be a new opportunity for a religious vocation."

Through work with her church's Divorced and Separated Group, Cortinas became more involved with her religion.

Storefront churches grow in urban areas

HOUSTON (AP) — Crammed into the space of a large living room, 20 excited worshippers clap to upbeat Pentecostal songs that precede the preaching of evangelist Ben Guerrero.

Outside, some church members stop traffic to allow cars to park on the esplanade in front of Rock of Salvation Pentecostal Church, 7207 Irvington on Houston's north side. There is room for only 10 or so cars in front of the florist-shop-turned-worship-center.

Rock of Salvation, in its first month at this location, has joined an uncalculated number of "storefront churches" dotting older neighborhoods and inner cites of the nation's large urban centers. Their futures look assured, if only because the high cost of church construction dictates more non-traditional worship centers.

"There are thousands and thousands of them in all major cities," said Willie McPhearson, director of black church extension for the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Several years ago, as a minister in Los Angeles, McPhearson noticed the phenomenon of storefront churches. One Sunday morning he and his wife counted storefront churches in a 10-block stretch: they tallied 62.

Oscar Romo, director of language church extension for the Home Mission Board, describes the storefronts as "mom and pop" churches. Such congregations are ubiquitous because of their low costs, their ability to minister to people uneasy in traditional sanctuaries, and their proximity to worshippers who lack convenient transportation.

"It is attractive to a congregation that is not only small but poor," Romo said. Folding chairs and a simple pulpit are all that's needed.

Rock of Salvation illustrates many characteristics of storefront churches. It is operated by the Rev. Juan Diaz, 76, and his wife of 52 years, Helen Diaz.

Many who come are family members, including all eight surviving sons and daughters of the 10 Diaz children. As part of the opening festivitjes last month, Guerrero was leading a week of revival services.

The Irvington site is Diaz's 15th church in a ministry that dates from the 1940's. He has been a full-time minister since 1973.

Rock of Salvation found its new home when one of Diaz's sons spotted the florist shop for rent several weeks ago. At the time, Diaz was pastoring his Rock of Salvation in the Heights. The church was not growing.

The new site was closer to his home and offered growth potential.

"So here we are," Diaz said, sitting in his simply furnished office.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A recurring dream could prove prophetic. Take a chance on someone in August. A bright new beginning is possible for a personal alliance. Love and marriage become more fulfilling as winter approaches. Recent retirees find a rewarding new way of life. Reach out to people whose background may be different from your own. Encourage family members to strike out in a different direction in 1993. A presentation you make next spring brings you special prestige.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: billionaire H. Ross Perot, actress Julia Duffy, fashion designer Norma Kamali, "Captain Kangaroo" Bob Keeshan.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A good friend may persuade you to steer a new course in life you will never regret! Reduce household clutter. Selling unused items could bring a handsome price.

TAURUS (April 20 20): Many things seem to be out of your control today. Guard all money, checks and valuables. The idea of staying home tonight is particularly comforting. Curl up with a best seller or watch movies.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A good day for making plans. You have a strong sense of what is basic to your happiness. Do not rely solely on your instincts when making decisions. Consult those who are more experienced.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Speak up if someone tries to sow discord in an alliance. There is no room for backbiting or idle gossip. Companionship and amusing pastimes can be yours this afternoon and evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The emphasis now is on anticipating trends. Be prepared for calls on your financial reserves and take the advice of old allies. Behave in a conservative manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Follow your doctor's recommendations to the letter so as not to interfere with their beneficial effect. A clever display of your business savvy will silence the opposition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Those of you who have salted away sufficient savings will not be overly concerned by present difficulties. Be very discreet about your personal affairs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your home is in the spotlight. You may decide to change residences or undertake a renovation job. Mate wants to know just how much everything is apt to cost. Postpone a final decision.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Forget the more serious side of life today and concentrate on having fun with your favorite companion. The bonds of affection tighten. A marriage proposal could follow.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your creative imagination could land you in hot water temporarily, but it will ultimately earn you a big victory. Someone gives you a hint that should be followed up on quickly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Go ahead with your plans, but expect some delays. Be subtle with someone you have tried to coerce. Long-term projects are favored even if the immediate profits look slim.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Domestic demands may keep you anchored while your heart yearns for distant shores. Support for a new idea comes from a most unlikely source. A quiet evening with mate enhances your rapport.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are caring, outgoing and always ready to help those in need. They have a memory like an elephant and make gifted students. Politically oriented, these Cancerians are interested in both influencing public opinion and motivating their peers. When it comes to marrying and settling down, they will take their time. Independent and energetic, these Cancerians believe they will travel the farthest if they travel alone.

Nude Drew Barrymore on cover sends magazine under wraps

NEW YORK — Interview magazine is going under wraps for its July issue — to conceal the cover showing actress Drew Barrymore stretched out nude on a lawn.

"Our newstand consultants said we could have problems with it in certain parts of the country," said magazine spokeswoman Paige Powell.

Vanity Fair used a similar wrapper last year when its cover displayed a pregnant Demi Moore in the nude.

Barrymore debuted in 1982 as the little girl who befriends an alien in "E.T. — The Extra-Terrestrial."

BANGOR, Maine — Horror author Stephen King is having a horrifically tough time keeping a low profile in this quiet central Maine city.

Last year, a Texas man broke into his home claiming King had plagiarized a character for his book "Misery."

Now, a California man is parked downtown — a court order keeps him away from King's house and office — claiming King killed Beatle John Lennon.

Steven Lightfoot, 28, of San Francisco, has a statement across the rear of his van: "Photos prove it's Stephen King, not Mark David Chapman, getting John Lennon's autograph. No joke, folks."

Bystanders weren't impressed.

"After all the things (King) has done for this community, come on," said Chris Ruhlin of Bangor. "He should know that no one appreciates what this guy's saying."

Police were expecting Lightfoot after he made a nuisance of himself in Kennebunkport, where Secret Service agents warned him to stay away from President Bush's vacation home.

• • •

NEW YORK — After three years playing opposite Donald Trump in a romance that might have been called "Will He or Won't He?" Marla Maples is moving to Broadway and a role in "The Will Rogers Follies."

Maples

Maples is making an Aug. 3 debut playing the role of Ziegfield's Favorite in the Tony Award-winning musical, said her publicist, Chuck Jones. The show currently stars Mac Davis.

"She's been working her tail off, and did a series of auditions," Jones said. "It's a grueling process, and they decided they wanted her in the show. The work paid off. She's excited."

Maples has appeared on the sit-com "Designing Women" and in the movie "Maximum Overdrive."

PORT HURON, Mich. — Terry McMillan is trying to catch her breath after a 20-city publicity tour in just 24 days for her best-selling book "Waiting to Exhale."

"I don't think I can keep this pace," said the Port Huron native, whose novel was No. 5 this week on The New York Times best-seller list. "I'm really not used to being so celebrated.

"At first it was fun, but now I'm just getting very, very tired."

Her novel, about four black women in their mid- to late-30s, has sold 220,000 copies.

"The women in this book are really fabrications," said Ms. McMillan, 40, who now lives in San Francisco. "If all the things happened to me that have happened to those women I would be in a nut house."

• • •

EMPORIA, Kan. — Glenn Close will be back in Kansas this summer to film a sequel to the highly rated TV movie "Sarah, Plain and Tall," the movie's producer says.

Close

The actress will reprise the role that earned her an Emmy nomination in 1991, said Bill Self of William Self Productions in Los Angeles. Close played a Maine woman who helped raise the children of a widower, played in the original Hallmark Hall of Fame presentation by Christopher Walken.

"Sarah, Plain and Tall" was the most-viewed TV movie of the 1990-91 season.

Self was in eastern Kansas' Osage County this week to lock in contracts on locations for the shooting.

NEW YORK — What will the Duchess of York do if she and Prince Andrew, who are presently separated, are divorced? Not to worry. The duchess, the former Sarah Ferguson, has signed a deal with a British production company, Sleepy Kids PLC, to turn the "Budgie the Little Helicopter" books that she writes into animated cartoons, initially for television and ultimately for videos and movies.

Vivien Schrager-Powell, a managing director of Sleepy Kids, said that the duchess' friend John Bryan had set up the deal. She would not divulge any financial details. Bryan, a Pittsburgh millionaire, is said to be a friend of both the Duke and the Duchess of York and has acted as an intermediary in efforts to reconcile them.

Supreme Court lets airports prohibit political, religious soliciting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Airports may prohibit political and religious groups from soliciting donations in terminals, but must allow distribution of free literature, the Supreme Court ruled Friday.

The mixed ruling, just in time for the summer's peak travel season, was mainly a defeat for the International Society of Krishna Consciousness. It had challenged restrictions on Hare Krishnas at New York City's three major airports.

The voting, fragmented and stretched over two separate decisions, went like this:

■ By a 5-4 vote, the court said an airport terminal, unlike a city street or park, is not a traditional "public forum" where free-speech rights enjoy enhanced protection.

■ The court, 6-3, said soliciting can be banned in airport terminals.

■ But a 5-4 split of the justices said distribution of free literature may not be banned.

The court is due to close out its 1991-'92 term Monday, and still pending is a decision over a Pennsylvania abortion law. Legal experts expect the court to use that case to undermine, if not overturn, its landmark 1973 decision legalizing abortion nationwide.

In other decisions Friday, the court:

■ Said Mississippi must do more to desegregate its state-run colleges and universities than let whites and blacks attend the school of their choice.

The first-ever high court ruling on desegregation of higher education in the South may mean the state will have to spend more taxpayer money to upgrade predominantly black schools.

■ Upheld the 1990 census result that cost Massachusetts one of its 11 seats in the House of Representatives and gave Washington one more, from eight to nine.

■ Ruled that a business place with a distinctive appearance may be protected by federal trademark law even if the public doesn't automatically identify the decor with any particular business or owner. The decision resolved a dispute between competing Texas-based Mexican fast-food restaurant chains.

Writing for the court in the airport soliciting case, Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist said, "The tradition of airport activity does not demonstrate that airports have historically been made available for speech activity."

Rehnquist said solicitation can be disruptive for airline passengers, who must slow down to avoid or respond to a solicitor.

"Delays may be particularly costly in this setting, as a flight missed by only a few minutes can result in hours worth of subsequent inconvenience," he said.

Rehnquist was joined by Justices Byron R. White, Sandra Day O'Connor, Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas.

5th kidnapping in six months ends safely; 2 missing

WEST PITTSBURG, Calif. (AP) — A mother rejoiced at her daughter's return Friday when the youngster was left in front of the home she had been taken from 24 hours earlier, the latest victim in a string of five kidnappings.

Two of the children taken since Christmas, including a newborn abducted from a hospital, are still missing. All of the abductions occurred in the suburbs east of San Francisco.

In the latest abduction, a 6-year-old girl was taken from her bed around 3 a.m. Thursday while other family members were asleep at their West Pittsburg home, 30 miles east of San Francisco.

After more than 24 grueling hours, during which her mother tearfully pleaded, "I want my princess back," the child was let out of a vehicle near her home, said Contra Costa County Sheriff's Lt. Richard Weckel.

Her mother ran out, crying "thank you," before the vehicle sped away, according to a news photographer who was there.

It marked the third case in which a young girl was taken from her home late at night while others in the house were asleep, was then molested and deposited on the street within a day, authorities said.

An officer watching the house had left just 20 minutes before the girl was returned.

"We never expected the child to be dropped off there," Pitkin said. "Twenty-twenty hindsight is absolutely perfect, I wish we'd have been there. However, if we'd have kept the car there, maybe she wouldn't have been dropped off."

Jurors acquit political figure, co-defendents

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A jury on Friday acquitted Louisiana political figure Edmund Reggie and two of his former associates of federal charges of defrauding a savings and loan.

There was applause in the courtroom after the verdicts were returned in favor of Reggie, prospective father-in-law to Sen. Edward Kennedy; Oscar Boswell, Reggie's former law partner; and Kenneth Comeaux, former president of Acadia Savings and Loan of Crowley, which Reggie founded in 1957.

Prosecutors said Reggie headed schemes to defraud Acadia Savings and Loan of Crowley and tried to force two investors to buy stock in a failing bank, Louisiana Bank & Trust, in order to get loans from the thrift. Both institutions were closed in 1987.

Each charge carried a possible sentence of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Defense attorneys said Reggie was the victim of an overzealous prosecutor, U.S. Attorney Joe Cage, and lying government witnesses. The month-long trial came after years of investigations and charges that Cage was motivated by politics, rather than evidence.

Reggie, who faces four more trials on bank fraud-related charges, said he hoped Cage would drop the remaining charges.

"I hope all of this is behind us, this confrontation between and the U.S. attorney, Mr. Cage. I know it must be a tough moment for him," Reggie said. "I am an attorney and I have been on the losing side. I just hope he will decide that this is the end. I ask him with all respect I have, let's end this,"

But Cage said he intended to continue pursuing the case.

"That's the system. That's the way it's supposed to work," Cage said. "In this case, the jury just did not believe our evidence."

Ex-teacher gets 25 years in 'Fatal Attraction' killing

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A former teacher convicted of killing her lover's wife in a crime compared to the movie "Fatal Attraction" was sentenced Friday to the maximum term of 25 years to life.

Carolyn Warmus, pale and disheveled, stared straight ahead as the judge imposed the sentence. Minutes earlier, she had sobbed while telling the judge in a barely audible voice: "I'm innocent."

She also was sentenced to five to 15 years on a weapons possession charge, but that term will run concurrently. She will not be eligible for parole until 2017.

The 28-year-old former teacher has been jailed since her May 27 conviction. Her first trial ended with a hung jury in April 1991.

"Those who are teachers, who are role models, must not escape the consequences of their wrongdoing," Westchester County Judge John Carey said in sentencing her.

Warmus, daughter of a Michigan millionaire, was convicted of shooting Betty Jeanne Solomon nine times at the victim's Greenburgh apartment on Jan. 15, 1989, before going to meet the victim's husband, Paul Solomon, for drinks and sex.

The prosecutor called Warmus an obsessed "bad side" of a love triangle," saying she shot Solomon to eliminate her rival for her lover's attention.

The defense argued she was framed.

The mimimum possible jail term Warmus faced was 15 years to life.

NOW unveils election strategy based on public mood of discontent

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Organization for Women said Friday it hopes to tap into a popular campaign theme — disgust with incumbents — while pushing mainstream women candidates and opposing President Bush.

"We are about to make a dramatic breakthrough at the federal level," NOW President Patricia Ireland said. "Certainly the public disgust with scandal, greed and corruption feeds into this in a major way."

High-profile U.S. Senate primary victories by Carol Moseley Braun in Illinois, Lynn Yeakel in Pennsylvania, and Barbara Boxer and Dianne Feinstein in California have prompted some to declare 1992 a breakthrough year for women in politics.

The Center for the American Woman and Politics at Rutgers University said seven women Senate candidates and 55 women House candidates have been nominated by major parties. The records are 10 women Senate candidates in 1984 and 70 women House candidates in 1990, the center said.

In primaries not yet held, 12 women are seeking Senate nominations and 69 women are running for House nominations, and 13 potential House candidates have not yet filed, it said.

The Senate currently has two women members; the House 28.

"Women are lined up and ready to break through that glass ceiling," Ireland said. "Our focus is changing the balance of power in Congress."

Ireland credited the Clarence Thomas-Anita Hill hearings with galvanizing support for women candidates. She also said women were aided by the creation of new districts through reapportionment and voters' search for a perceived outsider.

"Women are seen as outsiders, even if they're incumbents," Ireland said. "It's not to say there aren't some very good men in Congress. Women just have a different experience. It's not abstract to us to talk about battery and rape."

NOW, whose 280,000 members make it the nation's largest women's group, has not endorsed a presidential candidate. NOW says it is against Bush because of his anti-abortion positions and stances on many women- and family-related issues.

Ireland expressed personal support for Democrat Bill Clinton, and said the group might endorse him if he chooses a woman as his vice presidential candidate.

The 26-year-old organization has endorsed only one presidential candidate — Walter Mondale, who chose Geraldine Ferraro as his running mate in 1984.

"Frankly, we are not going to be involved at all in party politics," Ireland said. "We're looking at (candidates') stands on the issues and how strong they are as leaders."

Ireland said NOW is unsure about Ross Perot, whom she said "we may need to figure out."

NOW may decide this weekend to start its own political party, called the 21st century party. The party would slate candidates in races where no major-party candidate supports NOW's aims, Ireland said.

The party will not be active during the 1992 election, Ireland said.

NOW's two political action committees have raised about $500,000 for the November election, Ireland said. The money is not restricted to women candidates. NOW also will not support every woman candidate, though the group did not say how many women will not receive its support.

Amnesty International issues scathing report of LAPD

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As Police Chief Daryl Gates left his office for the last time Friday, Amnesty International released a report accusing police officers and sheriff's deputies of using excessive force that sometimes amounts to torture.

Gates, who retired under pressure following the March 1991 taped beating of black motorist Rodney King, dismissed the criticism as coming from "knucklehead liberals."

Both agencies have taken steps to curb such force since the King beating, but more work is needed, the London-based human rights group said.

Former Philadelphia Police Commissioner Willie L. Williams was privately sworn in as Los Angeles' new police chief Friday, and Amnesty International Secretary General Ian Martin said he hoped Williams would reform the department.

Williams will take over when Gates' retirement becomes official at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

In a scathing report, Amnesty International said people who pose little or no threat to officers or deputies have been shot, beaten, shocked with electric stun guns and bitten by police dogs.

"At times it has even amounted to torture or cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment," the group said. "More often than not, officers and deputies have acted with impunity, receiving little or no disciplinary action even in serious cases."

The 62-page report, based on a yearlong study of the Police Department and county Sheriff's Department, said blacks and Hispanics bear the brunt of the violence.

"The record on police brutality is appalling," Martin said. "It is one of a number of current human rights scandals in the U.S. that undermine its credibility in promoting rights internationally."

Gates called members of Amnesty International "a bunch of knucklehead liberals"

"We treated them with great dignity when they were here, and this is the way we are treated," he said.

In a written statement, Sheriff Sherman Block said the report "has little or no significance."

The report, prompted by the King beating, was released as Amnesty International USA opened its annual general meeting. The report is a key part of the organization's broader condemnation of human rights abuses in the United States.

Martin chastised the federal government for turning back thousands of Haitian refugees and permitting the accelerated use of the death penalty.

"The U.S. government holds itself up to the rest of the world as an advocate of human rights, yet fails to protect some of those very rights itself," he said.

During a news conference after his remarks, Martin said police and sheriff's officials cooperated in explaining use-of-force policies, but refused to provide information on internal disciplinary actions in specific cases, citing rules of confidentiality.

Martin said he hoped Williams would take steps to curb brutality.

"I'm very hopeful the new chief of the Los Angeles Police Department will take our recommendations to heart," he said.

The report did not deal with police conduct during riots that broke out after the acquittal of four white officers charged in the King case. Earlier this week, the American Civil Liberties Union and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People issued reports accusing police of misconduct during the riots.

The Amnesty International report was based on an examination of more than 60 lawsuits that the city or county agreed to settle out of court.

Unions, railroads try to resolve contract dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unions and railroads began Friday a new effort to resolve their 4-year-old wage-and-work rule disputes under the pressure of binding arbitration imposed as the government ended a two-day rail shutdown.

But some union officials branded the new and untried approach "a crime" that will destroy collective bargaining by effectively ending the right of labor to strike.

Railroad officials said the new procedure, in which an arbitrator is authorized to choose a winner from the best offers made by railroads and unions, is uncharted territory, at least for the railroads.

Congress modeled the winner-take-all process on the arbitration system adopted in the Major Leagues to settle pay disputes between owners and baseball stars.

Congress, meanwhile, seem relieved to shed, at least for the moment, the onerous responsibility of intervening in railroad labor disputes.

But labor said it was enraged.

"Two crimes were committed this week," said Mac A. Fleming, president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes. "The railroads blackmailed Congress and the nation by holding the economy hostage. And Congress murdered collective bargaining in the rail industry."
