Architect's Concept Of New Colorado High Wolves Show Signs Of Growing Power

The Colorado City Wolves, although they are a young, inexperienced team, showed a large band of followers who braved the rain Friday night, that they are a steadily improving team.

The Wolves played the Ballinger Bearcats a relatively even game with mistakes by the young Wolves making the difference in the outcome of the game. The final score was Ballinger 20, Wolves 0.

Once again the Wolves were unable to score, although there were a number of possible scoring drives that were shut down by mistakes.

Two possible scoring drives ended when the Wolves fumbled, two were stopped by penalties and one on a pass interception.

Ballinger scored with 2:16 left in the first quarter on a 16-yard pass play from Quarterback Tommy Parrish to Fred Snell, capping a 73-yard drive, a drive kept alive by a roughing the kicker penalty.

The try for extra point failed. With 3:56 left in the second quarter, the Bearcats made it 12-0 on a 45 yard drive that started after Ballinger recovered a Wolves fumble. The touchdown came on a 7-yard pass from Parrish to Randy Hutchins. The try for extra point failed.

In the third quarter, Parrish passed to Frank Mata from 15 yards out for the final touchdown. Parrish then passed to Robert Buskemper for two extra points.

The Wolves' Bill Griffin was in action for the first time Friday night, coming back after a back injury. His debut was a sparkling one and on his first run from scrimmage, he picked up almost 30 yards.

The Wolves were hampered by injuries as two starters, Ar-

Kiwanis Kid Day Saturday

Kids will have their day--next Saturday. Kiwanis Kid Day will feature a number of activities for kids all during the day.

Palace Theatre will feature a special showing of a movie, beginning at 10 a.m. All that is needed for admission is a canned good--a can of beans, peas, corn, meat, or any other extra can of food that a kid could bring.

The parade will begin at 2 p.m. Cash money will be awarded to winners in these divisions; bicycles, tricycles, pets, cos-nold Parker and Vicente Garcia, both standouts on offense and defense, were injured and did not suit up.

Quarterback Gene Banks was injured late in the game and several other players were suffering from nagging injuries. Athletic Director Weldon Brevard has been attempting in the last three games to give game experience to a number of freshmen and sophomores in order to provide depth for the Wolves. He has been impressed by the quick improvements shown by the young players and with each game, their performance continues to improve.

Next week, the Wolves travel to Hamlin in the last non-district game of the year.

tumes and horses. Prizes awarded will be $3 for first; $2 for second and $1 for third in each division.

After the parade, a watermelon feast will be held at the courthouse, watermelons furnished by Travis Turner.

Any kid who would like to be in the parade but does not wish to enter any of the divisions may ride in a truck furnished by Mac Morris.

Meeting-place for kids who want to be in the parade is in front of the Chamber of Commerce office before 2 p.m.

Polls Open 8 a.m. To 7 p.m.

$1.75 Million School Bond Election Tuesday

Voters residing in the Colorado Independent School District will go to the polls Tuesday to vote on a $1.75 million bond issue that, if passed, will finance extensive renovations to existing school facilities and build a new high school.

The election will be conducted at the school tax office, 250 Walnut. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday.

When absentee voting ended Friday, 34 persons had cast ballots.

The bond program has gained wide support and has been endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce, the Industrial Team, Inc., the Noon Lions Club, the Business & Professional Women's Club.

If passed, the bond issue would require a 22¢ tax hike per $100 valuation based on 55 per cent of the taxable value.

The cost to more than 70 per cent of school district taxpayers would be $1 or less per month to finance the bond program.

Seventy-three per cent of the taxes paid to the school district is paid by 25 taxpayers, only two of which are individual. Texas Electric Service Co. pays 49 per cent of the total school tax.

Here is what the bond program would pay for:

--Renovate and air condition Hutchinson Elementary and add a cafeteria at a cost of $175,155.

--Renovate and air condition Kelley Elementary School and add a physical education facility, $89,000.

--Renovate and air condition present junior high school for education service administrative center, and early childhood program for four-year-olds plus use the auditorium for a warehouse, at a cost of $25,000.

--Renovate the present three story high school and air condition for middle school unit at a cost of $200,000 for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

--Build a new high school on the city's east side between East 17th and East 18th Streets, at a cost of $1,269,845.

None of the above programs have priority over the other and all will be put out for bids in one package which should lure many

School Bond Endorsed

Colorado Independent School District's top individual taxpayer Friday publicly endorsed the $1.75 million bond issue that will be voted on Tuesday to build a new high school and do extensive renovation to existing school facilities.

Attorney Dell Barber told the Record that he believes the planned improvements on the school facilities are severely needed.

When asked where he ranked among taxpayers in total dollars paid in taxes, Barber revealed that he pays the 17th highest amount of taxes in the school district. The other 16 that pay more than he does are companies and corporations.

Barber said that although passage of the school bonds will cost him more than any other individual in the school district, he is wholeheartedly in support of the school bond issue.

Colorado City must either go forward or backward, and passage of the school bonds proposal would be a big step forward, Barber said.

givers and should result in a low bid.

Under the plan, Wallace Elementary on the San Angelo Highway, will be abandoned and hopefully sold for commercial purposes. Wallace is considered to be in a bad location to serve proper education standards and it is very expensive to operate. School officials believe $50,000 a year can be saved by the closing of Wallace.

The purpose of making the high school into a middle school for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades is because of the rapid changes in education. Only a few years ago, vocational education was considered as nice to have but not necessary and it was offered only in high school and only on a limited basis.

Now, vocational education is given top priority as many youngsters never go beyond high school and educators want to give those youngsters a skill with which to make a living and make a contribution to society.

The practice of offering vocational courses is no longer something just for high school but is now being offered down through the sixth grades in many schools. However, the local school system does not have room nor facilities to offer vocational classes at the existing junior high.

By moving the junior high into the existing high school, there would be ample room for vocational instruction, plus there are laboratories for sciences, according to local school officials.

By building a new high school, larger and more extensive vocational instruction facilities will be available plus the new high school will be equipped to give youngsters an education up to the latest standards.

The school board, whose members are highly respected and successful in their particular fields of endeavor, has been working toward the bond issue for a number of years. Local school officials have made studies on the future needs of the local school system as well as receiving the recommendations of a number of firms, including the state accreditation team.

The recommendations have been analyzed by the school board and trimmed to fit the needs of the local school district and to make sure that there is absolutely nothing in the plan that is not essential.

Unless the bond issue is passed, school officials fear that the state will come in within a few years and say what has to be done, things that could possibly result in a higher tax increase than that proposed under the bond issue.

Schools Superintendent Lloyd McKee has outlined a number of reasons why the bond issue is needed:

--This program will avoid inferior, obsolete buildings and facilities.

--It will provide adequately for a top notch, fully accredited school system in future years.

--It will accommodate a first class environment for learning and teaching and will attract the best teachers to the school system.

--It will provide for instructional program development and improvement in keeping with modern educational standards.

--It will provide opportunities for educators, citizens and students to work together in the years ahead to achieve even greater excellence in education for the school community.

An Editorial

PASSAGE OF SCHOOL BOND ISSUE IS A MUST

Tuesday, residents of the Colorado Independent School District will go to the polls with the opportunity of making a good school system into the best.

In addition, voters will have the chance of making the school system truly independent, as it is called in the title of the school district.

Our school system can remain independent by voting for what the school's board of trustees, elected by residents of the district, have been working and planning on for several years.

If the voters do not choose to do what our local school leaders have worked out in good faith, then we are faced with the possibility of having the state coming into our community within the next few years and telling us what we have to do in order to remain accredited.

The school's board of trustees, all of whom are well respected and highly successful in their chosen professions, have worked out a plan for the schools that is the least expensive route possible and at the same time, it is a complete revamping program of the school's facilities with nothing left out.

Briefly, the plan is to build a new high school, make the present high school into a middle school for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades through extensive renovation plus air conditioning; renovation and air conditioning of Kelley Elementary and adding a physical education facility at Kelley; renovation and air conditioning and construction of a new cafeteria at Hutchinson Elementary; a small amount of renovation to the existing junior high to make it into an office complex for the schools, a warehouse which is severely needed and a pre-school for 4-year-olds. Wallace Elementary, which is extremely expensive to operate, too small and ill-located, will be abandoned and hopefully sold for commercial purposes.

This is a complete package with no one item of the package having priority over the others. Contractors will bid on all the work as one package.

This plan was arrived at through considerable research by the school staff and outside experts. The School board analyzed the advice of all those making studies and trimmed the recommendations to fit the most pressing needs.

This plan presents a great opportunity for the local school district. And it won't cost us much, either.

Consider the fact that one firm, Texas Electric Service Company, pays 49 per cent of school taxes in the district, that 10 companies pay 63 per cent of all school taxes and the top 25 taxpayers pay 73 per cent of all school taxes in the district.

That leaves only 27 per cent of the taxes to be paid by local individuals. Out of that 27 per cent, about 25 per cent is paid by the average taxpayer. For the average resident, the maximum cost will be less than $1 per month.

We are fortunate in this school district to have a number of large taxpayers who can assume the lion's share of the taxpaying load. We must consider the fact that most school districts in the state do not have this situation.

Consider, too, that the local school budget has been scrutinized by some of the best tax attorneys in the country, representing companies who want their taxes cut. These attorneys cannot find any waste in the school budget and have commended the local school district for their economy.

Our schools have continually been lauded as being among the best in the country. However, this status cannot be maintained without making improvements. We must either go forward or drop back.

A number of studies have concluded that the local school district will maintain its present enrollment for the next 10 to 15 years with possible increases projected for the 1980's.

The plan which the bond issue would finance would increase vocational education for our young people, many of whom cannot or do not want to go on to college. Increased vocational education will give these young people an opportunity to enter a profession and make a good living when they graduate from high school.

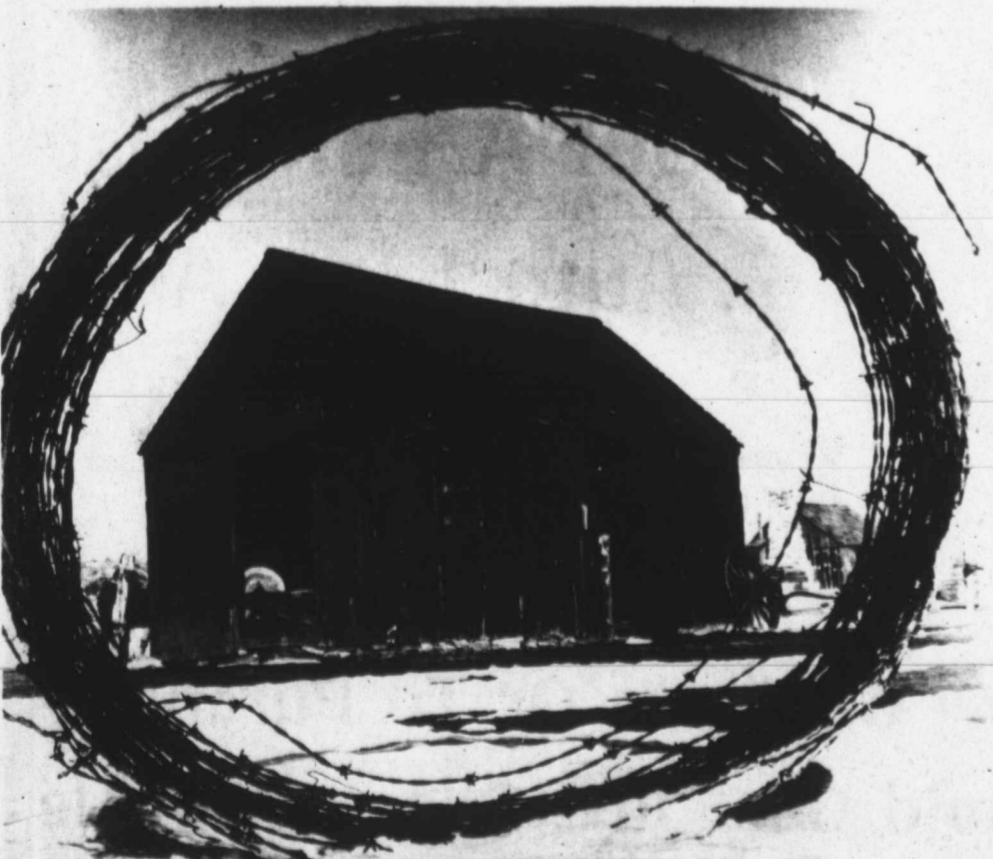

The young people of today are our future community, state and national leaders of tomorrow. Let's give these young people a chance by providing them with the best facilities possible to get a good education.

Our young people are the most valuable asset we have by far and we can help insure that they get a good education. And the cost to more than 70 percent of the local taxpayers will amount to less than the amount to buy three loaves of bread a month.

Vote for our young people and their future. Vote FOR the bond issue.

CONVERSATION CORNER

WELCOME to this first day of autumn, so-called by fine print on the official kitchen calendar, though most of us call this season fall. Fall is easier to say, though far less poetic. Even the dictionary gives as one definition for fall "The season when leaves fall from the trees".

In West Texas autumn usually dilly-dallies before making its grand appearance in red and gold and brown, shedding leaves during the dance of the winds. This year autumn has been practicing for days and days but the green leaves of summer are still "hangin' in there".

Don't know whether or not "I Love Paris in the Spring Time." Have never been there. Do know I love C-City when it's autumn.

WONDER why poet William Cullen Bryant in his "Death of the Flowers" wrote of autumn "The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year... Of wailing winds, and naked woods, and meadows brown and sere."

Oh well. He wasn't a West Texan! Had he been he might have written "The marvel of fall days are near... the gladdest of the year... Of playful ways, and cotton crops, and prairies green and clear."

AUTUMN is not melancholy in our part of the world. It's delightful. It is the time for trying on new sweaters, car coats, rain caps and wraps, heavier breakfast robes, choosing bright new blankets. It is pure joy for people born with shopping in the soul--or window shopping in eager eyes.

Autumn is football...pep squads... marching bands... school days...pyracantha berries... chrysanthemums... and Thanksgiving holidays.

Autumn is music. Heard, in person, Roger Williams play "AUTUMN LEAVES" once while visiting Tulsa, Oklahoma. Autumn is Roger Williams smiling at his piano.

AUTUMN is for cooler days and even cooler nights, most of the time...Autumn is for lighting the oven without mumbling under your breath about oven dinners. Autumn is for revival of the appetite.

Autumn is for deep-dish apple pie...berry cobbler...vegetable soup...baked yams...blueberry muffins...pot roast. H'mm. You can dream, can't you?

Autumn is for feeling frisky--and away with the blahs!

It is by tradition time for maturity or decline. But you, yourself, can decline to decline and just enjoy yourself!

ODE TO AUTUMN

HAIL and hello there autumn season

Loved and admired for many a reason!

Your temperament's artistic, rain

Drizzle, then sun on the plain.

The breath of you is sweet and fine--

Harvest time is in the air

Clouds and beauty everywhere.

Bless you for the change and fun

Of new TV and no re-run!

"9 ¢ For A Pound Of Bacon?," Granny Stubblefield Remembers

By Mary Stubblefield

She whisks about her yard, raking leaves, pulling weeds, picking blackberries to make preserves for a friend—and observers who watch her go about her chores find it unbelievable that she is almost a century old.

The tiny, near-centenarian is Mrs. C. N. Stubblefield of 405 E. 6th, one of Colorado City's most popular citizens. Friends and family delight in her quick wit, gracious manner and Southern hospitality, displayed by the home-cooked meals, pies and cakes which she serves her guests, for "Granny" as she is affectionately nicknamed, loves to cook.

Frankie Brown Stubblefield was born September 18, 1879, in Mills County, Texas, the fourth child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson Brown.

She married Cleba N. Stubblefield in a buggy, under a post oak tree, at a camp meeting near Georgetown on June 25, 1899. And the young couple set up housekeeping and took to farming.

The Stubblefields farmed in Williamson County, Texas, until 1906, when they moved to the Colorado City area. It was in November that Cleba chartered a Santa Fe boxcar at Georgetown, into which he put all the family's belongings—horses, equipment, household furniture—He put his family into a passenger coach and brought them to San Angelo.

They were met by Gail Brown (Frankie's brother) and Roy Connor, who brought with them two wagons and a Spaulding hack to bring the travelers on the last part of their journey, 20 miles north, near Robert Lee, to "Brother Gail's" place.

Cleba had bought an acreage southwest of Silver. He rented a house for his family until a residence could be built on their land; then when spring came, he planted cotton on his 160 acres.

Supplies were bought by the Stubblefields in Colorado City and Robert Lee. Groceries the family purchased from a store owned by "Old Man McGill." Clothing, household articles, and material for sewing were bought at Burns and Bell, a store which was a landmark of earlier Colorado City days.

Mrs. Stubblefield recalls three favorite materials for sewing were percale and gingham for nicer wear, and calico, a cheaper fabric. Burns and Bell also carried dress patterns, sized, packaged, and made of tissue paper much like today's popular patterns.

The current jump in food prices is not a new experience for "Granny Stubbs". She recalls that in 1905 she bought a 50-lb. sack of flour for 50 cents. By the time the 50 lbs. had been used, however, flour had jumped to one dollar for the same fifty pounds.

Mrs. Stubblefield was brought up near Georgetown by her young widowed mother, who, upon losing her husband, moved her family of seven children from Liberty Hill to be near her parents at Georgetown, rented a farm, and began supporting her youngsters.

She raised all the beef and pork her family ate and provided for them well. But in the winter of 1898, Frankie remembers that for some reason the home-grown supply of pork was not sufficient and meat was purchased. One morning her mother jokingly told her flock "we'll have to quit eating bacon—it has gone to 9 cents a pound!"

Mr. and Mrs. Stubblefield had six children born to them—D. C. Stubblefield of Colorado City; the late Mrs. Hobart Kelley; the late Mrs. Lucy Mae Wilks; Mrs. Jack Terry of Abilene; Fred Stubblefield of Winslow, Arizona, and Mrs. John Walker of Hobbs, New Mexico.

The Stubblefields, after coming to the Colorado City area in 1906, moved later to Coleman, Maryneal and Merkel before settling in Mackenzie, south of Colorado City, in 1924, which place remained the homestead until Cleba retired in 1952 and bought the home at 405 E. 6th.

"Granny" has many fond memories of farm life with her husband and children. She talks of David (D. C.) who began working with his father at the early age of six years, when he, with his dad, drove a team of horses to bring cotton to the gin in Colorado City. Father and son made the journey in three days—the first day would be spent on the road, camping at Champion Creek, eight miles south of town. The second day, after ginning, they started homeward, again camping at Champion Creek. The third day their trip would be ended when they again reached home.

There were trips made to the big city of Colorado for pleasure, also. On one occasion, when the circus came to town, Mr. Stubblefield brought his wife and young family of three children to the circus. Leaving home after chores were done, the group drove all night.

They stopped in the early morning to feed the horses, and the young Frankie cooked breakfast over a campfire. The campsite was located at the corner of Clyde Hart's and Bill Cook's farms, southeast of Colorado City.

"Granny" looks back on a long life, and a good life. She has enjoyed good health and feels blessed by the many visits and attentions which are hers from her friends and family. She sees much of her four surviving children, her 15 grandchildren and her great-grandchildren.

She is from a long-lived family. She has an older sister, Mrs. Cora Beal of Abilene, who will be 96 in December, and a brother, Grover Brown of Snyder, who is 85. The mother of this family died at the age of 96-1/2.

There have been many callers to the white house on the corner as friends and relatives come to observe this 94th birthday of this unusual woman. Visits are to her an especial delight.

But the thing that gives her most joy is to be at the 22nd and Austin Street Church of Christ, where she is a member, for services. The music there, she says, is "like the music we will hear when we get to heaven." She is an inspiration of strength, integrity, Christianity and love to all who know her.

Two Caught In Burglary Act

A burglary attempt at Corner Drug was thwarted early Friday morning, about 12:30 a.m., by quick-action on the part of a neighbor in the trailer court across the street and fast action by Colorado City policeman Joe Stockton.

The neighbor heard suspicious hammering going on in the alley between Dr. Terry's office and Corner Drug and called city police. Police dispatcher Emma Bracy informed patrolman Joe Stockton of the disturbance and he immediately investigated, catching two men in the act of trying to chisel a hole in the wall of Corner Drug, near the narcotics vault.

The man had broken a hand hatchet in the attempt and an electric drill was found in their car, apparently never used.

Rick Parkin, owner of Corner Drug, was also called by dispatcher Bracy that something was going on at his store, and by the time he arrived, Patrolman Stockton had the men in custody.

Stockton said that he heard the hammering noise when he arrived and watched the action for a minute before he made the arrests.

Charged in connection with the case were Noel Tomb, 20, of Colorado City, and Gillis Ellis, 19, Tomb's cousin of Houston. Each was released from jail on $1,000 bond.

SEPT. 25, 1973

AT THE
SCHOOL TAX OFFICE
256 Walnut Street

SUPPORT OUR SCHOOLS!

WHAT OF THE FUTURE OF YOUR CHILD?

There is no magic way to finance a school program; so to provide the educational opportunity you want for your child, it will be necessary to vote bonds which will increase the tax rate. (About 22¢ per $100 valuation at 55% ratio of assessment.)

The cost is small however, compared to the rich harvest of benefits which will come to the students of Colorado City Schools.

HERE IS WHAT THE COST WILL BE TO LANDOWNERS:

	LAND VALUE	ASSESSED VALUE FOR TAXING	PER ACRE YEARLY INCREASE FOR BOND VOTE	YEARLY INCREASE ON 80 ACRES
BEST FARM LAND	$60	$33	7¢	$5 <sup>00</sup>
OTHER FARM LAND	$45	$25	6¢	$4 <sup>00</sup>
BEST RANCH LAND	$25	$14	3¢	$2 <sup>00</sup>
OTHER RANCH LAND	$20	$11	2¢	$1 <sup>00</sup>

PAID FOR BY THE COMMITTEE FOR THE SCHOOL BOND ELECTION --- G. D. FOSTER, CHAIRMAN.

CARD of THANKS

With full hearts, we want to thank everyone who helped in our time of grief. We want to thank the nurses and staff of Rox Memorial Hospital, Dr. Chian and Dr. Rhodes.

We want to thank everyone for the food and gifts brought in and for the floral offerings.

We especially want to thank all of the members of Colorado Country Club for their help.

Thanks also go to the Rev. John Mikow, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

GOD'S FIVE MINUTES

HOW TO HANDLE TIME

During World War II a popular radio show was called "The March of Time." Historical events and news items were woven skillfully together to form gripping and exciting episodes. One night after the show had gone off the air, my father took a moment to teach me an unforgettable lesson. "Time doesn't always march," he said. "Usually it races at break-neck speed or drags its feet agonizingly slow." I knew what he meant. I had experienced both.

But in later years I found another fact about time. It can stand still, or seem so. It is as if the hands were removed from the clock and the shadow of the sun refused to move. And that's the way it was when I, as a youth, was confronted by the reality of God. All life around me ceased and eternity was looking me square in the face. The clock of my soul was turned ahead and I stood breathless with amazement. Time was no longer merely the stuff of which life was made. My life moved into a new Kingdom—a new and more exciting reality came into my being. "In the beginning, God..." the first words of the Bible, took me from "here" to "there"—and I lost my fear of passing time forever. Now we believers claim the victory in the shout of the angel in Revelation, "Time shall be no more."

Your Plaintiffs are resident citizens of Mitchell County, Texas; the Defendant, David Thomas Keating, is a resident of 8451 Southwestern Boulevard, Dallas, Texas and the Defendant, Kay D. Butler is a resident of Las Cruces, New Mexico, and upon whom citation of service may be had in this cause.

II
Your Plaintiffs would show that on the evening of September 22, 1971, Anita Brooks Molina, then known as Anita Brooks, was riding as a passenger in a 1969 Chevrolet automobile which was lawfully parked at 742 Elm Street, adjacent to the curb, headed in a northerly direction in the City of Colorado City, Mitchell County, Texas. Such Chevrolet automobile owned by Richard Raymond Sage, was legally parked, and Richard Raymond Sage was sitting in said car on the driver's side. Thereupon, suddenly and without warning a 1969 Chevrolet Caprice Station Wagon, owned by Defendant Kay D. Butler and driven by Defendant David Thomas Keating collided with great force with the vehicle in which the Plaintiff, Anita Brooks Molina, was riding. As a result thereof, Anita Brooks Molina was caused to suffer serious bodily injuries, which will be described hereinafter with particularity.

III
The collision of September 22, 1971, out of which this suit arises, resulted from the negligence of the Defendant, David Thomas Keating, in one or more of the following particulars, to wit:

1. In failing to maintain a proper lookout.
2. In failing to make proper application of brakes on the 1969 Chevrolet Caprice Station Wagon.

3. In failing to make timely application of brakes on the 1969 Chevrolet Station Wagon.

4. In failing to bring the 1969 Chevrolet Station Wagon to a stop before it struck the rear of the 1969 Chevrolet Corvette automobile in which Anita Brooks Molina was riding as a passenger.

5. In failing to turn the 1969 Chevrolet Station Wagon to the left to avoid striking the rear of the 1969 Chevrolet Corvette automobile.

6. In operating the 1969 Chevrolet Station Wagon at a rate of speed in excess of that at which it would have been operated by a person of ordinary prudence and in the exercise of ordinary care and control under the same or similar circumstances.

In the alternative, that Anita Brooks Molina and the vehicle in which she was riding as a passenger were in a position of peril by David Thomas Keating, who realized that neither Anita Brooks Molina nor the driver of the car in which she was riding as a passenger could or in reasonable probability would be able to extricate Anita Brooks Molina and the vehicle in which she was riding from such position of peril, at such time and distance as by the exercise of ordinary care in the use of all of the means at his command, consistent with his own safety and that of his vehicle and its contents, said David Thomas Keating could have avoided the collision and that after making such discovery and realization, he negligently failed to exercise ordinary care in the use of all the means at his command to do so.

Each and all of the above and foregoing acts, both of omission and commission, were negligent and constituted negligence and were each and all a proximate cause of the collision made the basis of this suit, of the injuries suffered by Anita Brooks Molina and of the damages sustained by your Plaintiff as the result thereof.

IV
In said collision, which is made the basis of this suit, Anita Brooks Molina suffered severe injury to her neck and cervical spine. Her shoulders and upper back were injured and damaged. She has been caused to experience frequent severe headaches, spells of dizziness. She suffered a severe traumatic nervous shock, which has produced great nervousness. It was necessary for her to attend a physician to apply therapy to her neck and head and to use diathermy treatments. Her injuries and the effects thereof, has caused Anita Brooks Molina to suffer from great and excruciating physical pain and mental anguish, and she will, in all reasonable probability, continue to suffer from such physical pain and mental anguish, as well as from great nervousness, for a long time in the future, if not for the balance of her natural life.

On September 22, 1971, Anita Brooks Molina was a woman of the age of sixteen (16) years, who had a life expectancy of 60.1 years, according to the standard ordinary table of mortality. She is now a housewife, who customarily maintains her home for her husband and family. She has been handicapped in the discharge of her household duties and has required the assistance of many others. It is reasonable and probable that she will continue to be disabled and handicapped in the discharge of her household duties in the future and that she will continue to require assistance from many others. Her activities since September 22, 1971 have been, and it is reasonably probable that her future activities will be, engaged in under the hardship of pain and suffering.

Anita Brooks Molina has required medical care and will, in all reasonable probability, require additional medical care in the future. Your Plaintiff has been required to pay and incur liability to pay, and will in the future, in reasonable probability, be required to pay and incur liability to pay, the medical charges which have been made and which will be made for the services rendered and to be rendered unto Anita Brooks Molina. The medical charges which have been made and which will be made, have represented, and will represent, the usual, reasonable and customary charges for like and similar services in the vicinity where they have been and will be rendered. All of such services, both past and future, have been and will be made necessary in connection with the proper treatment of the injuries suffered by Anita Brooks Molina in the collision of September 22, 1971, which is made the basis of this suit.

By reason of all of the above and foregoing, your Plaintiffs have been caused to suffer damages in the reasonable and just sum of $50,000.00, for which sum they here now seek recovery from Defendants.

WHEREFORE, premises considered, your Plaintiffs pray that Defendants be served with citation to appear and answer herein and that upon final trial of this cause, your Plaintiffs have judgment against the Defendants for damages for the reasonable and just sum of $50,000.00; that they recover their costs of court in this behalf incurred; and that they have such other and further relief, general and special, at law and in equity to which they may show themselves justly entitled and in duty bound will ever pray.
