LISTEN TO LUKE

FAITH — Now don't throw this aside with the idea that this column is heading for a theological discourse on a religious subject.

In a sense that is what we will attempt for religion is a belief. Some religions differ from others, though. Ordinarily when we refer to religion we apply the term to a belief in a Supreme Being or the lack of one. In this column today I want to emphasize the power of faith in the civic life of a community.

Tomorrow the town of Sanderson and the citizens of the county will help to celebrate the opening of a remodeled business here. This improvement has been made on the faith that it was a good investment. All of the businesses in Sanderson and the county have faith in the future of their investment or their employment or they would not mark improvements and the like in their vocation or business.

Recently I read an ad in a national magazine which was one of a series of full-page "Public Interest Advertisements." The one to which I refer was written by W. T. Faricy, president of the Association of American Railroads, entitled "The Advancing Rails."

Mr. Faricy noted the many developments in the performance and efficiency in railroading, listing many major achievements, and pointed out that the industry has been investing more than $1,000,000,000 a year for better physical equipment. Then he wrote:

"This tremendous program of improvement has been, on the part of the railroads, an act of faith — faith that the public and the government will come to recognize the railroads for the highly competitive industry they are rather than the monopoly they are supposed once to have been: faith that railroad mangement will be granted greater latitude to adjust fares, rates and service to changing and flexible conditions; faith that railroads wil be treated as a business, created by private investment, and subject to the same economic necessities as any other business, and entitled to the same chance to operate on a business basis, without the added pressures of unnecessarily rigid restrictions or of government-aided competition."

The Southern Pacific system has been active in one of the biggest spending programs of its operation. This is being done on the faith in the future manner of handling free enterprise. The railroads, like any other business, were hesitant about investing in the needed equipment until there was a sign of hope and a star upon which they could place their faith in the democracy of America and the continuance of the free enterprise system.

We, too, have faith in Sanderson. There are more people here now looking for a place to live than there has ever been in the six years we have been here. More will come. If you plan to expand your business you can find no better time than right now.

We got a letter this week that is worthy of comment, we think. Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, using franking privileges, sends a news letter every two weeks to all the newspapers in Texas. This ranked letter was just a little bit to "frank" to suit us.

In sum and substance he is urging all of Texas to get in back of, and "pushing" that is, in favor of the tidelands bill scheduled to come up for legislative action soon. One thing I can be "frank" about with Mr. Johnson is that I have a better memory than he does. And if my memory serves me right, Texans have been in favor, wholeheartedly, of retaining the Tide-

The photo above shows the interior of Cooke's Food Market following extensive remodeling. The meat department, shown in the right background was moved from the left side of the store proper, adding approximately one-third more floor space for other merchandise and shopping convenience. Island displays and shelves replaced the space occupied by the market. Polaroid 1-minute photo

Cooke's To Have Formal Opening Of Remodelled Store

Cooke's Food Market is having the formal opening of their newly-remodeled store this week end. Baskets of groceries will be given away on both Friday and Saturday and a set of pottery will also be given away. Prizes will be given to the kiddies on Friday and favors on Saturday, Coffee and cake will be served all day both days.

The work, which meant the addition of about one-third more floor space to their store and which was commenced several months ago, was completed this week. The meat market was moved to the northeast corner of the building, and a new walk-in box was installed along with a new display counter for packaged meats and dairy products.

More shelving has been added in the grocery section which was completely rearranged to give more space in the center section of the store and around the checking counter. The interior of the store was redecorated and some changes made in the warehouse section of the store, with added warehouse space being built.

Greene Cooke, the owner of Cooke's Food Market, came to Sanderson in 1930 from Ozona where he had been employed with his father, R. J. Cooke, in his market. He bought the market in the building owned by Mrs. A. D. Brown and next to the fire house, from Earl Stirman and soon added a small stock of groceries. He sold the business to Ruel Adams and Walter Grigsby in 1940 and moved to Rocksprings where he was in the grocery business for one year. Returning to Sanderson, he bought the business which he had sold to Adams and Grigsby, in the same location, and began construction of the present building soon afterwards. The building was completed in 1942. Besides the store space, a three bedroom modern home for the Cookes is on the second floor of the building.

Mr. Cooke stated this week that he wanted full credit given to Mrs. Cooke who has worked beside him in the business all of these years to build the business to the point where expansion was necesary. Their son, Marshall Cooke, has been employed in the business for several years. The Cookes have another son, Bobby, Texas Tech junion, and three daughters, Betty and Peggy, who are at home, and Mrs. Dudley Harrison, who resides in Sanderson.

SENIOR PLAY TO GIVE FULL ROUND OF 3-ACT COMEDY

The senior play, "Old Crusty Takes the Air," has been scheduled for Thursday, March 19, in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. Mrs. W. H. Savage is directing the play.

A comedy in three acts, the entire action takes place in the Davis Transit Co. in New York City, owned and operated by Adam Davis, commonly called "Old Crusty." A large, blustering, harsh-voiced man, he runs his business with an iron hand and stubbornly refuses to ever admit that he is in the wrong. But underneath the harsh exterior, there is a heart of gold which comes to the surface on rare occasions.

Dan Thomas, riding on one of the Davis buses, learns that the driver is inefficient, takes charge of the bus and brings it back to New York. "Old Crusty" offers him a job which he refuses because he plans to begin the operation of an air line in competition with the Davis Co. But he lacks the capital! Confiding his difficulty to Clarice, "Old Crusty's" 20-year-old secretary, she volunteers to furnish him with $10,000 to begin operation of the air line just for the fun of showing her father, "Old Crusty", that she can invest her money wisely. Dan knows her only as the stenographer and is not aware that she is the daughter of his competitor.

The real struggle begins, and the turning events will offer plenty of real entertainment for the entire family.

World Day Of Prayer Services Last Friday

"Woman, don't work in your garden today; brother, lay down your bow and arrow. Seek rest and strength in the words of God, the beautiful words of God."

This African call to worship sounded strange in Sanderson Friday afternoon but it was part of the World Day of Prayer Service here that afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church with the women of the Baptist and Methodist Church cooperating in the joint service at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. W. E. Grigsby was leader of the program patterned after methods of worship followed by African Christians and titled "Walk As Children of the Light." Mrs. R. S. Wilkinson was organist for the service and, in addition to singing of hymns by the audience, a trio composed of Mary Lou Cargile, Carolyn Spears and Sarah Pat Grigsby, sang two numbers.

Mrs. L. H. Gilbreath gave the introduction to the program. There were responsive readings and prayers by Rev. Claude Bridges, pastor of the Baptist Church, and Rev. John W. Byrd, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, as well as the reading of prayers composed by a woman of the Belgian Congo, a South African student and a teacher from Africa.

Similar services were held the same day in 114 countries and in 1,000 languages. The offering locally amounted to approximately $30 and will be used for missionary work at home and abroad.

Austin, Texas — Abolishing gasoline tax refunds would provide for a perpetual farm-to-market highway fund and give $4-million a year more for schools.

Chairman E. H. Thornton, Jr., of the Texas Highway Commission made that assertion as he prepared an analysis of the state's road situation for presentation to the Legislature.

Gasoline tax refunds go to those using the fuel for non-highway purposes, and also to schools who operate buses. Last year refunds amounted to $515,367,000 of $120,244,000 collected. Most of the refunds go to farmers who use gasoline for farm vehicles and machines.

Thornton is asking for an additional $100-million per year to bring Texas highways up to the highest standard and maintain them for the next 10 years.

—tpa—

The highway commission has a new member, former Senator Marshall Formby of Hereford, who succeeds Fred Wemple of Midland. The third member is R. J. Potts of Harlingen.

—tpa—

The highway problem is a foremost one in the Legislature, and many proposals have been made to solve it. Governor Allan Shivers has asked the Legislature to add at least one cent a gallon to the gasoline tax to furnish the money.

One cent per gallon would bring the state $25-million per year.

Another plan was put forward by Representative Charles Murphy of Houston, sponsor of a constitutional amendment requiring all highway user taxes to go for road building, maintenance and policing.

Should the amendment be passed by the Legislature and ratified by the voters, the schools would lose their share of the gasoline tax revenue. They now get one-fourth of it.

Both houses of the Legislature struggled with the highly controversial auto inspection law — the one that requires you to have that little yellow sticker on the windshield of your car.

Senator Carlos Ashley of Llano typified opponents of the law who want it repealed. Ashley thinks the law is discriminatory in that it works a hardship on lower income bracket people who cannot afford extensive repairs on their cars.

Accidents, Ashley contends, are caused, not by defective automobiles primarily, but by drunk drivers and speeders.

The senator argued that poor people in his native hill country make a living hauling cedar posts in slow-moving trucks that would not pass inspection in a junk yard.

"Why should they have to pass a windshield wiper inspection when they don't have windshields?" Ashley wanted to know.

Senator John Bell of Cuero, on the other hand, worked to retain the bill and modify it so that the safety sticker would not be a requisite to purchase of an automobile license.

Bell also would specifiy what particular parts of the car would have to be examined to get the inspection tag. Bell and others believe that the law, if retained, will cut down on highway deaths.

—tpa—

The chances that horse racing will return to Texas seems slight.

Representative Ed Sheridan of San Antonio introduced a bill to legalize pari-mutual betting, but when the time came for a committee hearing on the measure, Sheridan said he was willing to postpone the whole thing.

Stout opposition to the bill had been gathering, and Sheridan said he wanted to "let it cool". Observers here doubted it would cool enough to let the bill pass.

—tpa—

Quick action was needed, Governor Shivers said, to provide for 900 tuberculosis patients who are now being treated at Weaver H. Baker hospital at Mission.

The Air Force will take over the hospital on July 1.

Bills to provide for the patients passed the Senate, but moved slowly in the House.

—tpa—

The Senate made up its mind about the five-day banking bill — and killed it. The bill, which had the support of some big city banks, would have permitted the financial institutions to operate on a five-day week basis.

Opponents were banks in smaller cities where rural people come to do their banking and shopping mostly on Saturdays.

—tpa—

What regulation should there be about home rule cities annexing adjacent cities?

In the legislative process is a bill by Senator Johnnie B. Rogers of Austin to restrict annexation. Such a law is needed, say its supporters, to prevent cities from taking in farms, pastures, and dairy lands.

Opponents of the bill from Houston and other cities, say it would practically stop annexation and force cities to retain their present boundaries.

—tpa—

Senators considered the question of whether we should have a preferential presidential primary in Texas — whether we should select delegates to national nominating conventions by vote of the people rather than at state party conventions.

We should, said Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton, because "I have never seen anything go wrong with a secret election and a free ballot."

We should not, argued former Senator Joe Hill, because if delegates are elected only the very rich or the stooges of some pressure groups could ever go to a convention.

In the Senate is a bill, already passed by the House, that is intended to give stronger control over Communists. The bill would make it easier for officers to enter and search the homes of persons suspected by being subversive.

Opponents of the bill contend that it was a threat to civil rights.

Careless Use Of Drugs Blamed As Cause of Many Serious Illnesses

Austin, Feb. 25 — The careless use and uninformed use of medicines causes much serious illness and even many deaths in Texas every year, Dr. George W. Cox, state health officers, said today in a statement urging the public to use caution in self-medication.

"It is never safe to take medicine in the dark," Dr. Cox warned. "Always read the label carefully to make sure the aspirin you expect to take is not a bichloride of mercury tablet or some other poison. As a matter of fact, poisons and medicines containing poison should be kept together, well out of reach of children and marked in some distinctive manner. Another thing to remember is that medicines should always be taken exactly as directed by a doctor because beneficial medicines can do harm if taken too frequently or too large quantities. It is well to stop and think that you may be taking your own life in your hands when you take medicine casually.

The state health officer warned of the danger in the declination of many persons unto ed to diagnose and treat their ills. Such persons are apt to go wrong, he asserted, and while may not take medicine that is tually harmful, they are never less postponing accurate diagnosis and the resulting proper treatment that could help their illness.

The safest rule to follow is: er to use medicine, internally externally, that has not been scribed by your doctor and for particular illness with which are suffering.

Spot Checks Insure Meat Up To Standard

AUSTIN, TEXAS, Feb. 17—Spot checks of meat markets by the State Health Department meat inspectors insure Texas housewives that when they buy a pound of hamburger they're getting a product whose contents have been carefully defined by state law, declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

In revealing that more than one thousand meat samples were collected last year for laboratory analysis from all sections of the state, Dr. Cox says that the food and drug inspectors have been ordered to increase the frequency of their inspections of community butcher shops in an effort to curb the sale of horsemeat as hamburger.

By state law, hamburger is defined as "chopped or ground fresh beef, with or without the addition of beef fat as such, and with or without seasoning, and shall contain not more than 30 per cent fat."

That definition, health officials say, makes it unlawful to add chemical preservatives or fillers such as cereals or skim milk.

It prevents unsuspecting housewives from paying ground beef prices for a high-fat content product, or one which has been doctored with inexpensive cereals. It protects the consuming public against a spoiled or adulterated product which could be hazardous to health.

More than 95 per cent of the meat products analyzed in state laboratories last year were hamburger. State law makes no distinction between hamburger and ground beef.

The 30 per cent maximum fat content of hamburger is a standard set by the Bureau of Animal Industry, and except for one or two exceptions is adhered to by all states. A similar maximum has been established for moisture content.

Twenty-six meat inspectors work the jurisdictio of the Texas Health Department's bureau of food and drugs. More than one errant meat dealer can testify to their diligence.

Mis Rosannah Green spent the week end in Gonzales with her mother, returning home Monday.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Wrong "Train" of Thought

Most of us knew the streamliner stopped about four miles from town last Thursday — but we didn't know why . . .

Seems the train was hurrying along, then came the screeching of brakes — some fellow had pulled the Emergency Stop cord.

When the conductor asked him why he did it, he said, "The train was just going too fast—I wanted to get you to slow down."

From where I sit, that streamliner has been going at that speed for the past seven years with a perfect safety record and the passengers have always been pleased. Now—along comes a fellow who wants the train to go at his speed. Some people are like that. Some still would begrudge another person's right to a temperate glass of beer even though that person wouldn't dream of flashing a "Stop" sign on their preference for, say, milk, coffee or tea. Respecting the rights of others is the only way we can keep "on the right track."

Sweet Potato Volcanoes—Novel Way to Serve a Favorite Vegetable

As every woman knows, it's a day-in, day-out problem to present the same familiar foods in new ways that look appetizing, taste good—and to do it all with a minimum of fussing. That's why you'll enjoy Volcanoes. The very sight of the dish as it comes hot and browned from the oven stirs a quiver of anticipation.

The base is sweet potatoes whipped up with canned apple sauce, thus mingling two familiar and favorite foods for a new taste. Then beaten egg and cracker crumbs are blended in, and melted butter, nutmeg and salt. The mixture is sectioned, each part swirled and patted into a firm-standing little mound, topped blithely with a marshmallow, and then all are slid into the oven to brown. Quick and easy to fix, as you can see. Yet the result is a fine, fair dish to serve with meat, particularly pork chops or baked ham—since anything with apple sauce has natural affinity to pork.

Canned apple sauce goes a long way to make this the simple dish it is to prepare. Ready-to-use apple sauce is of a smooth consistency that mixes readily. Extra special in taste, too, since the apple sauce you buy in cans or jars is a combination of two or more varieties of tart, juicy apples, skillfully blended for flavor.

SWEET POTATO VOLCANOES

1 egg
2 cups mashed sweet potato
1 cup canned apple sauce
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cracker crumbs
¼ cup melted butter
10 marshmallows

Beat egg; add sweet potato, apple sauce, nutmeg, salt, cracker crumbs and butter; mix well. Shape in 10 mounds on greased baking sheet. Place marshmallow on each. Bake in hot oven, 400 F., 10-15 minutes. Yields 10.

. . . Not to be measured alone by the gross or net income of a business . . . not by the quality of merchandise or the size of the store . . . but by the increase in good will, good business relations, and satisfaction on the part of the business and the customer.

We can't help but wonder if he's not swapping shoes to try to put off that long trek back to Texas come 1954?

We appreciate the fact that the title of his office permits him to send "frank" letters back home, to let the people know what he's doing now. We also appreciate the fact that he's now on our side in support of the Tidelands question.

On a radio program Monday night we were fortunate to be tuned in to a station that was giving a re-broadcast of the Freedom Foundation's annual presentation of awards to men and organizations who had contributed much toward the furthering of the basic idea of American freedom.

It was most invigorating and refreshing to hear what these great men had to say concerning their ideas of basic American freedom.

THIS UNION BLOCKED THE REDS

The vast majority of men and women working in American industry are opposed to Communism. The slowness of some groups of industrial employees in breaking up Red domination of their union can be attributed to two things: an attitude of "Let George do it," and a lack of understanding of the real menace of Communism. Industrial employees are no different from the general public in this. Apathy and ignorance of Communism throughout our population are great assets to the Reds seeking to gain control of our nation through subversion.

Keith Claxton, president of Local 821 IUE-CIO, a machinist at the A. B. Chance Company plant in Centralia, Mo., told our Harding College Freedom Forum XIII how his group broke away from a union cited by Congress as Communist-led. "Several years ago," he said, "our Local 821 was affiliated with the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (CIO). A number of us were disturbed about this because we knew the top officers in the international had Communist affiliations.

Many Not Aware

"We felt the money we paid to the international for dues was going to support Communist work. We didn't like this one bit — but many of our members weren't aware of the threat of Communism. Those who were knew that our company's president, F. Gano Chance, was well informed on the menace of Communism; so we asked him to speak on Communism at our union's annual dinner. I think a lot of us had our eyes opened to what was going on by hearing Mr. Chance. Some of the boys wanted to get out of UEW right then.

"But we didn't have any place to go. We didn't know what other union would be a good one to affiliate with, and probably we—and the company—would have found ourselves right in the middle of a representation fight with three or four competing unions seeking bargaining rights."

Sought Advice

A year or so later the national convention of the CIO expelled the UEW. "We knew the score then," Claxton said. "We were ready to switch right over to the IUE, but we didn't know how to go about it. We had about $1,200 in our Local treasury at the time and we didn't want UEW to get that and perhaps help spread Communism with it—and we didn't want a court fight over it, either.

"We finally went to a St. Louis attorney specializing in labor law. Following his advice, given without fee, we got out of UEW, circulated membership cards for the new union, and by that evening we had more members in our new union than we had ever been able to get in the Communist-led UEW."

Mutual Good Will

Keith Claxton added a very important comment. "The poin' here, I think," he said, "is that our membership might not have been ready for this move out of the Communist-led union had not Gano Chance talked to us about Communism at our request. He certainly did not interfere with our union's affairs, but he had the awareness of our problem and the sense of responsibility to give us some guidance when we needed it. If our union had not been on good terms with the company previously, we would have hesitated to ask management for help with our problem."

Mutual understanding and trust between union and company, this labor leader said, are the indispensable elements needed for industrial peace and progress. His company president agrees. "I sincerely believe," Keith Claxton said, in concluding his Freedom Forum talk, "that if management and unions give one another serious and sincere consideration of each other's immediate problems, agreements could be reached without the need of either side trying to stir up public opinion or of a government agency or committee being brought into the picture."
