Farmers Fail To Earn Fair Rate From 1924 Crops

Gross Return on Their Investment More, Net Is Less.

A TWO PER CENT DROP

Tillers of Soil Have Less Remuneration Than Others.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Farmers failed to earn a fair return on the capital invested and a fair wage last year, although they fared better financially than in the preceding year the department of agriculture declared today in an analysis of the agricultural balance sheet.

On the total capital invested in agriculture the return for the year was estimated at 4.6 per cent compared with 3.3 the year before. In round figures the net income for the 1924-25 season, the department said, was $2,712,000,000 compared with $1,902,000,000 for 1923-24.

Not All to Farmers.

The sum, however, did not go entirely to farmers as they owned only 79 per cent of the total capital and pay interest on the balance.

The returns on the farmers' unencumbered balance for the year was estimated at 4.1 per cent compared with 2.5 per cent the preceding year, although he had to pay an interest rate on borrowed capital of 6.4 last year, compared with 6.6 per cent the year before.

Two Per Cent Less.

"Thus," the department concluded, "as a combined use of their capital and for their own managerial services, farmers received around two per cent less than was paid solely for the use of other capital under conditions not requiring the leaders to take any active part in production."

The department estimated the current value of the total capital invested in agriculture last year $59,154,000,000 compared with $59,548,000,000 for the preceding year and the farmers' unencumbered capital at $46,904,000,000 compared with $47,298,000,000.

THE WEATHER

"I can pray lots easier at night if I ain't tryin' to forget to wash my feet."

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch.

Who Could Crush a Flower?
Who could crush a flow'r?
Surely not you nor I—
A bloom to wither for an hour,
And then to die.
Who could kill a bird?
Surely not I nor you —
To have some song of joy we heard
Forever through.

Who could hurt a friend?
Surely not you nor I—
To have some fellowship to end.
Some friendship die.
Who could wound a heart?
Surely not I nor you—
Perhaps to anger and to part.
As some folks do.

Surely birds and flow'rs,
Friends, and the hearts that love,
Can make this earthly home or ours
Like heaven above,
If we grow unkind.
Letting the old love die.
Then who again that love shall find?
Not you nor I.

CO-OPERATION TO SAVE, CLAIM

Enormous Good to Be Derived in Cotton Industry.

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—Enormous savings soon will be effected in the cotton industry as a result of co-operation among the growers, C. O. Moser, general manager of the American Cotton Growers' exchange told the American Institute of Co-operation today.

These savings, he said, will be accomplished by a reduction in the price of cotton products and will mean an increased profit for the cotton growers. Elimination of the preventable waste in the present system of packing, which he said amounts to about $4 a bale, better organization and elimination of unnecessary fire damage and excessive marketing costs will result in huge savings to the growes and ultimately to the consumer.

SCOTT RENIGS ON CLAIM HE'S ENTIRELY SANE

Successful Gallows Dodger Says His Experiences Have Effect.

IS MOVED IN JAIL

He Gets Less Comfortable Bed Than Death Cell Provided.

BULLETIN.

DETROIT, July 24.—(AP)—John R. Hewer, chairman of the Windsor, Ont., committee that worked to save Russell Scott from the gallows, in a statement tonight charged Scott with being "railroaded" to the gallows by Chicago politicians to prevent exposure of their liquor operations.

Hewer maintains that the politicians feared their illicit acts would be disclosed if the shooting of Joseph Maurer, Chicago drug clerk, was investigated further and have opposed every effort to reopen the case.

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—Russell Scott, saved from the gallows twice in eight days almost at the hour set for his execution, today lost his comfortable death cell and mattress after a stay had been granted for a hearing on his sanity.

Late today the former Canadian financier who has spent ten days in the death cell, twice coming within half a dozen hours of the death march was moved from the cell into regular quarters with less comfortable accommodations and a hardwood bed in the Cook county jail.

Willing to Move.

The condemned man, saved from hanging this morning less than four hours before time for the trap to be sprung by a stay of execution to test his sanity, gave up his cell willingly enough, however.

Scott, sentenced to hang for shooting a drug clerk during a holdup, received a weeks' reprieve six hours before hanging when Governor Small received a telegram purporting to be from Scott's brother, Robert, indicted with him and later proven a hoax.

This reprieve expired last night and Governor Small refused further clemency. Four hours before the execution, however, Judge Joseph B. David this morning entered a stay until a test of his sanity is made.

Those who have worked desperately to save Scott's life, including Thomas Scott, his aged and crippled father, Mrs. Catherine Scott, his wife, who was racing here from Springfield to bid him farewell when he was snatched from the gallows this morning, and Detroit and Windsor, Ont., club women and his attorneys today took a much needed rest while planning moves of the newest plan to prevent his execution.

Confident Now.

Scott was visited during the day by William Scott Stewart, retained by Detroit club women to help him and who saved him from the gallows today; and by his wife and father. Scott said he now felt confident his life would be spared.

He amended a statement he made at the time he was told of the stay to the effect that he was not insane by stating that no one could have spent the many months laboring under the strain he has been under and still remain normal. Judge Davis fixed Monday, August 3, as the time for the sanity hearing. He said that he had no recourse but to grant the request for a sanity test as the law is mandatory.

"Let Denver Build"

FRANK KELL

Wichita Falls railroad builder and capitalist who made an urgent plea Friday at the Plainview hearing in behalf of the proposed South Plains extension of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway.

EXTENSION IS LOGICAL THING FOR COUNTRY, WICHITAN SAYS

Testifies at Length In The Plainview Rail Hearing.

NEED COMPETITION

Merger Clause Is Not Designed to Kill It, He Says.

PLAINVIEW, July 24.—Frank Kell, Wichita Falls, pioneer Texas cattleman, railroad builder, grain mill operator and capitalist, declared today at the interstate commerce commission rail hearing that if he were a member of the interstate commerce commission he would grant the Fort Worth and Denver railroad a certificate of public necessity and convenience to build the proposed line.

"When the federal transportation act was being considered by congress I was called into conference by committees of the house and senate," he said. "I know it was never the purpose of congress to tie to a single railroad an empire as rich as the South Plains."

Opposed It Once.

He declared he had formerly opposed clothing the interstate commerce commission with power to decide whether extensions could be made because he knew that every time a railroad would propose an extension all other railroads likely to be affected would oppose. He had recently changed his mind, however, because if the commission had power to govern rates, it should also regulate to a large degree extensions.

An attentive audience listened to every word of the recital of accomplishment and enterprises of the gray-haired and tanned man, credited as a leader in the development of Northwest Texas.

Mr. Kell said he believed it was not the intention of congress in a federal transportation act to stop postpone for long the building of roads where the need was so apparent as in the South Plains, while Jule Smith, Fort Worth grain shipper, declared he believed it almost impossible to have too many railroads. He said he was even inclined to favor conditions existing before the enactment of the transportation law when roads were built on "wind and nerve."

Mr. Kell declared the railroad merger clause of the transportation act was not intended to kill competition in any sense. The act, he held, emanated from the business men of the country and not the railroads.

Tells of Operators.

Prefacing his testimony, Mr. Kell, in reply to questions, unfolded a story of extensive operations in which he had been interested covering a period of 45 years.

He said that after making reconaisance 10 or 12 years ago preparatory to building his own road from Wichita Falls through the plains to Plainview, he was prevented from carrying out his plans because of the unwillingness of W. T. Waggoner to allow the road to run through his 800,000-acre ranch in Wichita and other counties, he said. This refusal would have necessitated the building of much additional trackage.

He told of building the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railroad, 40½ miles in length, in 1906 and selling it to the Missouri, Kansas and Texas in 1911 and of building the Wichita Falls and Southern and of his interest in th. San Antonio, Uvalde and Gulf. He said he was granted one of the first certificates of public necessity and convenience to extend the Wichita Falls and Southern 1321 from Newcastle to Breckenridge.

Mr. Kell described the use of the most modern processes on his thousands of acres of land. He said he was "carrying" 10,000 head of cattle.

He said he advanced money for preliminary work on the $4,500,000 irrigation project near Wichita Falls, which is now irrigating 50,000 acres of land at a cost of $3.50 for each acre and which is designed to irrigate 200,000 acres of land.

Is Greatest Road.

Santa Fe attorneys devoted little time in cross examining Kell, who declared he regarded the Santa Fe "the greatest railroad in world," but did not believe even the greatest railroad should be allowed to retain a monopoly.

Asked if he agreed with earlier witnesses that the Santa Fe discriminated against the plains in routing grain shipments, Kell replied that considerable hardship was incurred by insistance of the Santa Fe in making

Big Meeting Friday Is Given Report On Financing.

PADUCAH, July 24.—Between 300 and 350 business men, ranchers and farmers met at Paducah this afternoon to hear plans of the proposed T. P. and G. railroad, particularly as regards financing of the organization. The meeting was addressed by J. M. Van Zandt, W. M. Bidicker and L. C. Abbott, all members of the T. P. and G. finance corporation of Fort Worth which has the matter of financing the proposed trunk line in hand.

Judge Is Speaker.

An address was also heard from County Judge J. M. Whatley, who pointed out the financial advantages which would accrue to Paducah and Cottle county in construction of the proposed line.

Calculation will show that from the standpoint of freight saving this new line will operate a saving to us of $100,000 a year," declared Judge Whatley, "by reason of eliminating present costly differentials and two or three line hauls."

A talk also was made by former District Attorney J. Ross Bell, who pleaded for the co-operation of all concerned as necessary to meet requirements of the railroad.

Ready to Sign.

It was the sense of the meeting that practically every man present was ready to sign his subscription to the road's financial quota here which is $300,00. in 7 per cent preferred stock of the road, and to get others to sign to make Cottle county the first to go over the top with its quota.

A steering committee of 15 was named, which later will appoint a subcommittees to engineer the financing in this territory.

Injunction Against Olney School Bonds Dissolved By Court

OLNEY, Texas, July 24.—A temporary writ of injunction against the issuance of $75,000 worth of school bonds of the Olney independent school district was today dissolved in hearing before Judge Vincent Stine of the 97th district court, sitting by exchange with Judge H. R. Wilson as judge of the 30th district court at Wichita Falls.

Population Gains.

Because of the great increase in the population of Olney the board of trustees was petitioned to order an election to determine whether or not the bonds should be issued to purchase a site and build additional school facilities to relieve the crowded conditions of the schools. The election carried in favor of the bond issue. Following this a contest of the election was filed by J. C. Bloodsworth, W. L. Meadows, G. W. Vernon, A. E. Cathey Sidney Hunt and C. F. Kunkel against John B. Rhea, county attorney, A. C. Cooper, president and M. B. Wolverton secretary and treasurer together with other members of the board of trustees and as an incident thereto a petition was filed for a writ of injunction against the board to prevent the issuance of the bonds.

Order Granted.

On June 27 a temporary restraining order was granted enjoining further proceedings until a final hearing of the contested election in September. The board filed a motion to dissolve the injunction which was heard yesterday with the above results.

TULSA, Okla., July 24.—(AP)—Negotiations have been halted on the big oil merger which has been under way in New York through which the Independent Oil and Gas company sought to purchase the Waite Phillips company and the Texhoma Oil and Refining company, the Tulsa Tribune said it had learned today. Farmers Fail To Earn Fair Rate From 1924 Crops

Gross Return on Their Investment More, Net Is Less.

A TWO PER CENT DROP

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Farmers failed to earn a fair return on the capital invested and a fair wage last year, although they fared better financially than in the preceding year the department of agriculture declared today in an analysis of the agricultural balance sheet.

On the total capital invested in agriculture the return for the year was estimated at 4.6 per cent compared with 3.3 the year before. In round figures the net income for the 1924-25 season, the department said, was $2,712,600,000 compared with $1,902,000,000 for 1923-24.

Not All to Farmers.

The sum, however, did not go entirely to farmers as they owned only 79 per cent of the total capital and pay interest on the balance.

The returns on the farmers' unencumbered balance for the year was estimated at 4.1 per cent compared with 2.5 per cent the preceding year, although he had to pay an interest rate on borrowed capital of 6.4 last year, compared with 6.6 per cent the year before.

Two Per Cent Less.

"Thus," the department concluded, "as a combined use of their capital and for their own managerial services, farmers received around two per cent less than was paid solely for the use of other capital under conditions not requiring the leaders to take any active part in production."

The department estimated the current value of the total capital invested in agriculture last year $59,154,000,000 compared with $59,548,000,000 for the preceding year and the farmers' unencumbered capital at $46,904,000,000 compared with $47,208,000,000.

THE WEATHER

"I can pray lots easier at night if I ain't tryin' to forget to wash my feet."

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch.

Who Could Crush a Flower?

Who could crush a flow'r?
Surely not you nor I—
A bloom to wither for an hour,
And then to die.
Who could kill a bird?
Surely not I nor you —
To have some song of joy we heard
Forever through.

Who could hurt a friend?
Surely not you nor I—
To have some fellowship to end.
Some friendship die.
Who could wound a heart?
Surely not I nor you—
Perhaps to anger and to part.
As some folks do.

Surely birds and flow'rs,
Friends, and the hearts that love,
Can make this earthly home or ours
Like heaven above,
If we grow unkind,
Letting the old love die,
Then who again that love shall find?
Not you nor I.

CO-OPERATION TO SAVE, CLAIM

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—Enormous savings soon will be effected in the cotton industry as a result of co-operation among the growers, C. O. Moser, general manager of the American Cotton Growers' exchange told the American Institute of Co-operation today.

These savings, he said, will be accomplished by a reduction in the price of cotton products and will mean an increased profit for the cotton growers. Elimination of the preventable waste in the present system of packing, which he said amounts to about $4 a bale, better organization and elimination of unnecessary fire damage and excessive marketing costs will result in huge savings to the grower and ultimately to the consumer.

SCOTT RENIGS ON CLAIM HE'S ENTIRELY SANE

Successful Gallows Dodger Says His Experiences Have Effect.

IS MOVED IN JAIL

He Gets Less Comfortable Bed Than Death Cell Provided.

BULLETIN.

DETROIT, July 24.—(AP)—John R. Hewer, chairman of the Windsor, Ont., committee that worked to save Russell Scott from the gallows, in a statement tonight charged Scott with being "railroaded" to the gallows by Chicago politicians to prevent exposure of their liquor operations.

Hewer maintains that the politicians feared their illicit acts would be disclosed if the shooting of Joseph Maurer, Chicago drug clerk, was investigated further and have opposed every effort to reopen the case.

CHICAGO, July 24.—(AP)—Russell Scott, saved from the gallows twice in eight days almost at the hour set for his execution, today lost his comfortable death cell and mattress after a stay had been granted for a hearing on his sanity.

Late today the former Canadian financier who has spent ten days in the death cell, twice coming within half a dozen hours of the death march was moved from the cell into regular quarters with less comfortable accommodations and a hardwood bed in the Cook county jail.

Willing to Move.

The condemned man, saved from hanging this morning less than four hours before time for the trap to be sprung by a stay of execution to test his sanity, gave up his cell willingly enough, however.

Scott, sentenced to hang for shooting a drug clerk during a holdup, received a weeks' reprieve six hours before hanging when Governor Small received a telegram purporting to be from Scott's brother, Robert, indicted with him and later proven a hoax.

This reprieve expired last night and Governor Small refused further clemency. Four hours before the execution, however, Judge Joseph B. David this morning entered a stay until a test of his sanity is made.

Those who have worked desperately to save Scott's life, including Thomas Scott, his aged and crippled father, Mrs. Catherine Scott, his wife, who was racing here from Springfield to bid him farewell when he was snatched from the gallows this morning, and Detroit and Windsor, Ont., club women and his attorneys today took a much needed rest while planning moves of the newest plan to prevent his execution.

Confident Now.

Scott was visited during the day by William Scott Stewart, retained by Detroit club women to help him and who saved him from the gallows today; and by his wife and father. Scott said he now felt confident his life would be spared.

He amended a statement he made at the time he was told of the stay to the effect that he was not insane by stating that no one could have spent the many months laboring under the strain he has been under and still remain normal. Judge Davis fixed Monday, August 3, as the time for the sanity hearing. He said that he had no recourse but to grant the request for a sanity test as the law is mandatory.

"Let Denver Build"

FRANK KELL

Wichita Falls railroad builder and capitalist who made an urgent plea Friday at the Plainview hearing in behalf of the proposed South Plains extension of the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway.

PADUCAH MEN HEAR PROPOSAL OF T. P. AND G.

Big Meeting Friday Is Given Report On Financing.

PADUCAH, July 24.—Between 300 and 350 business men, ranchers and farmers met at Paducah this afternoon to hear plans of the proposed T. P. and G. railroad, particularly as regards financing of the organization. The meeting was addressed by J. M. Van Zandt, W. M. Bidicker and L. C. Abbott, all members of the T. P. and G. finance corporation of Fort Worth which has the matter of financing the proposed trunk line in hand.

Judge Is Speaker.

An address was also heard from County Judge J. M. Whatley, who pointed out the financial advantages which would accrue to Paducah and Cottle county in construction of the proposed line.

Calculation will show that from the standpoint of freight saving this new line will operate a saving to us of $100,000 a year," declared Judge Whatley, "by reason of eliminating present costly differentials and two or three line hauls."

A talk also was made by former District Attorney J. Ross Bell, who pleaded for the co-operation of all concerned as necessary to meet requirements of the railroad.

Ready to Sign.

It was the sense of the meeting that practically every man present was ready to sign his subscription to the road's financial quota here which is $300,000, in 7 per cent preferred stock of the road, and to get others to sign to make Cottle county the first to go over the top with its quota.

A steering committee of 15 was named, which later will appoint a subcommittees to engineer the financing in this territory.

EXTENSION IS LOGICAL THING FOR COUNTRY, WICHITAN SAYS

Testifies at Length In The Plainview Rail Hearing.

NEED COMPETITION

Merger Clause Is Not Designed to Kill It, He Says.

PLAINVIEW, July 24.—Frank Kell, Wichita Falls, pioneer Texas cattleman, railroad builder, grain mill operator and capitalist, declared today at the interstate commerce commission rail hearing that if he were a member of the interstate commerce commission he would grant the Fort Worth and Denver railroad a certificate of public necessity and convenience to build the proposed line.

"When the federal transportation act was being considered by congress I was called into conference by committees of the house and senate," he said. "I know it was never the purpose of congress to tie to a single railroad an empire as rich as the South Plains."

Opposed It Once.

He declared he had formerly opposed clothing the interstate commerce commission with power to decide whether extensions could be made because he knew that every time a railroad would propose an extension all other railroads likely to be affected would oppose. He had recently changed his mind, however, because if the commission had power to govern rates, it should also regulate to a large degree extensions.

An attentive audience listened to every word of the recital of accomplishment and enterprises of the gray-haired and tanned man, credited as a leader in the development of Northwest Texas.

Mr. Kell said he believed it was not the intention of congress in a federal transportation act to even postpone for long the building of roads where the need was so apparent as in the South Plains, while Jule Smith, Fort Worth grain shipper, declared he believed it almost impossible to have too many railroads. He said he was even inclined to favor conditions existing before the enactment of the transportation law when roads were built on "wind and nerve."

Mr. Kell declared the railroad merger clause of the transportation act was not intended to kill competition in any sense. The act, he held, emanated from the business men of the country and not the railroads.

Tells of Operators.

Prefacing his testimony, Mr. Kell, in reply to questions, unfolded a story of extensive operations in which he had been interested covering a period of 45 years.

He said that after making reconnaisance 10 or 12 years ago preparatory to building his own road from Wichita Falls through the plains to Plainview, he was prevented from carrying out his plans because of the unwillingness of W. T. Waggoner to allow the road to run through his 600,000-acre ranch in Wichita and other counties, he said. This refusal would have necessitated the building of much additional trackage.

He told of building the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railroad, 406 miles in length, in 1906 and selling it to the Missouri, Kansas and Texas in 1914 and of building the Wichita Falls and Southern and of his interest in ti. San Antonio, Uvalde and Gulf. He said he was granted one of the first certificates of public necessity and convenience to extend the Wichita Falls and Southern 1921 from Newcastle to Breckenridge.

Mr. Kell described the use of the most modern processes on his thousands of acres of land. He said he was "carrying" 16,000 head of cattle.

He said he advanced money for preliminary work on the $4,500,000 irrigation project near Wichita Falls, which is now irrigating 50,000 acres of land at a cost of $3.50 for each acre and which is designed to irrigate 200,000 acres of land.

Is Greatest Road.

Santa Fe attorneys devoted little time in cross examining Kell, who declared he regarded the Santa Fe "the greatest railroad in world," but did not believe even the greatest railroad should be allowed to retain a monopoly.

Asked if he agreed with earlier witnesses that the Santa Fe discriminated against the plains in routing grain shipments, Kell replied that considerable hardship was incurred by insistance of the Santa Fe in making

Injunction Against Olney School Bonds Dissolved By Court

OLNEY, Texas, July 24.—A temporary writ of injunction against the issuance of $75,000 worth of school bonds of the Olney independent school district was today dissolved in hearing before Judge Vincent Stine of the 97th district court, sitting by exchange with Judge H. R. Wilson as judge of the 30th district court at Wichita Falls.

Population Gains.

Because of the great increase in the population of Olney the board of trustees was petitioned to order an election to determine whether or not the bonds should be issued to purchase a site and build additional school facilities to relieve the crowded conditions of the schools. The election carried in favor of the bond issue. Following this a contest of the election was filed by J. C. Bloodsworth, W. L. Meadows, G. W. Vernon, A. E. Cathey Sidney Hunt and C. F. Kunkel against John B. Rhea, county attorney, A. C. Cooper, president and M. B. Wolverton secretary and treasurer together with other members of the board of trustees and as an incident thereto a petition was filed for a writ of injunction against the board to prevent the issuance of the bonds.

Order Granted.

On June 27 a temporary restraining order was granted enjoining further proceedings until a final hearing of the contested election in September. The board filed a motion to dissolve the injunction which was heard yesterday with the above results.

CURZON WILL SAID TO TELL STATE TALES

Part of Testament Is Suppressed so as to "Prevent Shock."

LONDON, July 24.—(AP)—Today's morning post launched a sensational story that part of the will of Marquis Curzon was suppressed in the interest of the reputations of some of his political colleagues, upon whom the famous statesman is said to have commented with great freedom.

Meanwhile the public was still expressing gratitude for the bequests of Marquis Curzon to the nation and the newspapers were printing details of the will with pictures of the two famous castles saved for posterity through his action in bequeathing them to the country.

The portion alleged by the Post to have been suppressed is said to be a "literary testament" mentioned in a supplementary will, distinct from the one in which Lord Curzon distributed his gifts and its animadversions are stated by the paper to refer particularly to a former premier whose name is withheld. Suppression of the testament will, it is declared, avert a "rude shock to public faith in a man who rendered conspicuous service to the state."

Lord Curzon, who died in March of this year, is represented as not intending that the literary testament should be published, although the document seems to have come near being published through the phraseology the testator used in referring to it in a supplementary will.

The Post tells how Lord Curzon wrote the supplementary will on March 8 at a time when he realized the end might be very near. He summoned a lawyer by telephone, but he was unable to come at such short notice. Accordingly, Lord Curzon asked the butler and nurse to witness the signature of the original will which had been amended and reamended during the two previous years. Then with a pencil he wrote on sheets of note paper a supplementary will in which he referred to the literary testament, declaring it was "for guidance, not publication."

When informed that the market for vaqueros here was glutted, the youngsters resigned themselves to the ignominy of being returned to their parents.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—The last stage of a race with death began in New York harbor when the customs cutter Raritan met the incoming liner Aquitania at quarantine and took off Mr. and Mrs. Rody B. Marshall of Pittsburgh, who are hastening to the side of their 15-year-old son, Roby, in a dying condition in the South County hospital, Wakefield, R. I.

Young Marshall in a dive from the sea wall at Narragansett pier into five feet of water last week broke his spinal cord. Specialists said he could not recover.

GAS WAR INTO COURTS.

Action in South Dakota Promised Soon.

SST. PAUL, Minn., July 24.—(AP)—Court action will be started within three days to restrain the state of South Dakota from selling gasoline to the public in competition with private enterprise.

Preparation of papers to bring the suit in the federal courts of South Dakota were underway today by representatives of the White Eagle Oil and Refining company which operates 65 filling and tank stations in that state.

DAWES DIRECTS PICTURE FILM

Vice President Seems to Enjoy Experience Hugely.

Aided by an occasional word from James Cruze and Betty Compton, Mr. Dawes appeared to enjoy the experience, shouting "camera" like a veteran when the actual "shooting" of the scenes began.

"I'll Meet You In Heaven," They Find Him Dead Later On

HOUSTON, July 24.—"I'll meet you in heaven the next time," Will Rival, living at Port Houston, told Albert Molen as he left Molen's house about 9 p. m. Thursday. Friday morning Rival's lifeless body was found by the side of the road, a half block from Molen's home.

A bottle of poison, partly emptied, was found beside the body.

According to members of the Molen family Rivel visited them early Thursday evening but seemed moody, and as he left advised them that the next time they met it would be in heaven.

Justice J. M. Matthews of Harrisburg returned a verdict of suicide, following the inquest.

BOOTLEGGERS FILL ORDERS-- COPS SHOW UP

Picture Actors Supposed To Have Ordered Vintages.

TILLAMOOKK, Ore., July 24.—(AP)—A romantic looking fisherman's cottage, especially built on the edge of this seaport town as the purported scene of a motion picture, an order at a hotel for 40 rooms and announced arrangements to build a light house at Maxwell's Point, where a "storm" was to be enacted, duped seven alleged bootleggers into making deliveries of liquor last night for 40 moving picture actors who were to have arrived today.

District Attorney Claude Barrick and Sheriff John Aschim took into custody the alleged bootleggers when they made deliveries half an hour apart by pre-arrangement.

The officers were assisted in their arrangements by a man who called himself W. R. Francis, technical director for the Lee Film corporation of Hollywood, here to film the "Daughters of the Sea."

POLICE LIE IN WAIT FOR BANK THIEVES, GET 4

One Is Wounded in Quick Getaway After Cops Open Fire.

VENICE, Ill., July 24.—(AP)—Fifteen policemen, deputy sheriffs and railroad watchmen in wait near the Chicago & Alton depot here in anticipation of an attempt pay roll holdup captured four robbers today, wounding one of them after the robbers had taken a package containing no money from Hunter Riley, cashier of the Venice State bank.

Riley had just received a $5,000 pay roll shipment from St. Louis across the Mississippi river, but had left the money at the depot and taken the "dummy" package for the expected encounter with the robbers.

The officers had been "planted" by Joe Schrader, special representative of the Illinois Bankers' association, who had received information 30 days ago of the intended robbery. They had lain in wait two previous Friday mornings.

Sargent Paintings Draw Big Prices At Auction in London

LONDON, July 24.—(AP)—High prices were bid today at the opening of an auction of 240 paintings by John Singer Sargent, the celebrated American artist, who died in April in London where he had lived many years.

Speculators and collectors besieged the auction rooms. Within the first half hour the bids averaged the approximate equivalent of $1,000 per minute.

A small drawing of a scene in Carrera, Italy, went for 1,000 guineas or about $5,000. A Venetian scene sold for twice that sum. As the sale progressed the bidding became higher and higher and within the first hour a diminutive painting of a canal scene in Venice brought 4,600 guineas or about $23,000.

Seventy-eight Sargent drawings sold for 53,000 pounds sterling or roughly $257,000.

Sargent's "Portrait of Madame Gauteau" was withdrawn from the auction and it was announced Sir Joseph Duveen had purchased it for presentation to the Tate gallery in London.

FLEET ANCHORS IN HARBOR OF FRIENDLY CITY

War Dogs Lie at Rest While Natives Bid Sailors Welcome.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—(AP)—The United States fleet in Australian waters rode on waves of friendship today. While the war dogs were berthed off shore at Melbourne and Sydney, officials of the government at the two cities vied with each other in extending a warm welcome to officers and men of the fleet.

Cables received here today of Admiral Robert E. Coontz at Melbourne expressing himself as greatly delighted "with the generous and kindly welcome" of Australia, but added that he was not surprised.

Today the fleet forces lined up for a dress parade through the gals decorated streets of Melbourne. The parade is programed as a brilliant spectacle.

Last night the visiting officers and men were received everywhere in the homes of citizens while the returned soldiers league joined in the reception at an entertainment for 500 men of the fleet.

Secretary of State Is a Grandma Now

AUSTIN, July 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Emma Grigsby Meharg, secretary of the state of Texas, returned to Austin today from Plainview, in a new role—a grandmother.

Several weeks ago the first woman secretary of state in Texas quietly left Austin and inconspicuously returned to her home on the Texas plains, to be with her daughter, Mrs. Ann Keith Meharg Gamble, when she brought her first-born, Keith Ann into the world. Mrs. Meharg had just recovered from a serious illness when she learned of the approach of her first grandchild. After nursing her daughter and granddaughter, putting both on the highway to health and happiness, she returned to the capital and resumed her important duties of state, thus showing the versatility of the woman in politics, who tends the sick and rocks the baby's crib one day and the next sits behind her business-crowded oak desk, carving the destiny of her state.

About 150 operatives are employed.

At Lawrence, Mass., two more mills and one machine shop have announced wage cuts effective July 27.

Texhoma-Portwood

Texhoma has a good looking oil sand on their Portwood lease located in the northwest cornar of section 1587, T. E. and L. survey, Baylor county, and is setting casing to test. Sand was topped at 1,404 feet and drilled one foot.

Texhoma-Burnett

After testing sand in their No. E-4 on the Burnett land in the T. and N. O. survey, section 1, Wichita county, Texhoma is pulling pipe to deepen. Sand drilled from 1798-1808 feet showed a good deal of salt water with but a show of oil.

Murchison & Fain-Campbell

Murchison and Fain are setting casing to test sand on their No. 10-D Campbell located in section 236, T. E. and L. survey, Young county. The test, which is located in the new northwest extension to the Litchfield, topped sand at 977 feet.

Perkons-Cullum-Anderson

Perkins and Cullum are drilling below 1,30 feet on their No. 2 Anderson, located to the south of their No. 1 producer and will be looking for sand within the next 50 feet. Hoosier-Wilson

To the east of Archer City on the Sanfor Wilson land, John Hoosier and associates are drilling at 980 feet and will be looking for the sand expected around 1,080 feet today. This well is drilling below 800 feet.

Texhoma-Jackson

Texhoma is rigging up preparatory to drilling in their No. 1 Jackson, located in section 11, block 4, H. and G. N. survey, Wheeler county. The well is at present shut in on a granite wash at 2,243 feet, which is showing 75 million gas and 250 barrels of oil by actual gauge. Because they were unable to get a satisfactory casing seat they well has been shut in pending the completion of their No. 1-A, which was abandoned the other day as a dry at 2,405 feet.

Won't Pay Alimony; Jailed; Likes It; So Officers Free Him

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 24.—(AP)—Jonathan T. Meeker, 72-year-old alimony dodger, is free today after three years imprisonment for failure to pay his wife $12 a week.

Meeker emerged from the Middlesex county jail with a broad smile. Thirty-three years of divorce litigation, featuring his wife, several judges and many lawyers lay behind him.

Meeker had stated consistently he would not pay the alimony. Finally the county solicitor declared the taxpayers no longer cared to support Meeker and had him released. Now he won't have to pay and the litigation is ended.

Said Meeker of jail life:

"It was great in there. I had a fine time; had soft jobs; they treated me like a star boarder. I had all the freedom I wanted—more freedom, I should say, than I would have as a married man. I could go any place I wanted to."

He likes the jail so well that he's going to work there for pay.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE
Health Department

I am prepared to say that in Chicago, pasteurization of milk has helped to bring about a great improvement in the public health. This improvement is shown particularly as to the following death rates:

All diseases, children under 1.
Diarrhea in children under 2.
Typhoid fever, all ages.
Scarlet fever, all ages.
All tuberculosis, all ages.
Tuberculosis, other than pulmonary.

It has operated to stabilize the milk industry; to bring prosperity for those engaged in that industry; to increase the number of licenses issued and to reduce somewhat the number of those to whom licenses were issued.

These statements are based upon a study of the Chicago situation in period of 1908 to 1921, inclusive.

FOR GREATER SOLIDARITY

Many hopeful suggestions were put forward for the greater solidarity of the legal profession at the Texas Bar association's convention in Austin. One of the most practical and least ambitious was that young law students take part of their courses in the form of actual experience under the direction of prominent and able members of the profession. This innovation, simple as it is, should prove highly effective in giving unity to the various stages of progress in the science of the law, binding in close bonds the young graduate with the seasoned veteran and joining the wisdom of age to the enthusiasm of youth.

Other suggestions, more important but not so correct in their form, dealt with the maintenance of a high standard of ethics for the legal profession, and with the problem of selecting candidates for judicial office from the ranks of the ablest lawyers. On the question of ethics the state bar was inclined to be severe. It went on record for actual ostracism for members who should offend ag inst established standards. It would even go to the length of having formal trials of offenders and would have assistant attorney generals conduct the prosecution, total disbarment being the penalty for guilt.

If this method of dealing with these bar association members who have a poor conception of their responsibility seems extreme, the proposed means of guaranteeing and able judiciary will appear to be extraordinary. Nothing less has been suggested than a bar association primary to endorse candidates for judicial offices. Voters would be supposed to wait upon the action of the association and to accept its decisions as authoritative. In practice, of course, they would do nothing of the kind. Many candidates would be found bold enough to flout the association's judgment and the people would be inclined to assert their independence.

Perhaps nothing will come of this specific proposal, nor will it be found practical to empower assistant attorneys general to put members of the bar out of their profession. But the underlying idea, that the bar association should discipline its members, is sound and should be adhered to. Because lawyers are professional men in the best sense for that term, they lack that cohesion among themselves which is to be found in almost every other group. They assert a degree of individuality and independence which has reduced the influence of their profession. If their association were really coherent they would immeasurably gain prestige and power. If they stood together as they should, the mere fact that a candidate for judicial office and the endorsement of a majority of lawyers would carry decided weight with the electorate.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE
Widely Circulating Libraries.

The librarian of a library in a large town in America has just been talking about public education, meaning that part of it which comes under his observation.

This is what we may call voluntary education—the kind that people who have had no chance to go to college get for themselves.

He says that in the last twelve years he has noticed a distinct falling off in the demand for cheap fiction, but a growing demand for history and science.

Also he says that people have more intelligence in making selections. They know what kind of books they want. They know the names and authors of most of them. They are better educated.

Examining carefully into the cause of this change he says it is entirely due to the newspapers.

The newspapers today awaken the public interest in what is going on in the world.

They give the public such excellent outlines of developments in history and science and politics, that they whet an appetite for supplementary readings.

This librarian says that he is surprised that more libraries do not keep more newspapers on file.

He could keep his reading room filled if his directors would let him have five or six copies of all the leading papers of the immediate vicinity, and the better papers printed in English and French from other countries.

In other words, he maintains after careful study that the newspapers are educators and that an intelligent man who reads them carefully day by day will in that way gain an excellent education.

To know what is going on in the world today awakens a desire to know what was going on yesterday.

That means study of history.

To read of marvelous developments in electricity, chemistry, radium and the like means a thirst to know more. That means scientific reading.

Reading always leads to reading.

Most people of brains who have never had the reading habit feel after perusing a great book, as Keats felt when he first looked into Chapman's Homer, "like stout Cortes when with eager eyes he stared at the Pacific."

There is less and less excuse for ignorance as the years go by.

Even if newspapers aroused no eagerness for supplementary reading, which they always do, their readers cannot fail to have a good general knowledge of the world and its affairs.

They are a record of the doings and saying of people, and people constitute the world.

No regular and thorough newspaper reader ever fails to be an interesting conversationalist, or to have some understanding of what life is all about.

We talk of circulating libraries and their value, which is great, but the libraries with the greatest circulation, and the most useful promoters of general education are well edited and independent newspapers.

And they are to be had for almost nothing a day. It is not surprising that they constitute the most popular form of literature.

British Are Spinners in Glee at Short Crop in U. S. Cotton Field —J a pan Competing —Jim and Tax Slices —Thomas Jefferson and Religious Creeds.

LONDON newspapers say that the forecast of a total production of more than 14,300,000 bales of American cotton is the best news the British spinning industry has had in a long time. According to the British spinners, the report dispelled the deep gloom which has settled on the industry for it means that more cotton probably will be available at cheaper prices than for many years.

If the warehouses of the foreign world are bare, how will it be possible for an American crop of more than fourteen million bales to bring an era of low prices for the raw material and high prices for the finished product? John Bull is in a bad way. He is feeding two million men and women wage earners who have been idle for a long time. There are millions of spindles idle in England. Great Britain's foreign trade is not what it was in the years gone by.

Japan is underselling the British spinners in the Orient and in India. Chinese spinners are busy. They are breaking into the trade of the Orient. And the American spinners are doing their best to place the finished products of their mills on the bargain countries of the world. There was a greater demand for cotton goods before the coming of the World war than there is today. There is a reason for this.

Men and women are wearing silk garments, goods made by the manufacturers of artificial silk. There was a time when the silk worms of the Orient and Italy and other nations furnished the supply of silk for the world. Now the manufacturers of artificial silk are flooding the markets with their products and the silk worm industry appears to be doomed.

FORMER GOVERNOR JAMES E. FERGUSON says Texas may either get a reduction or be saved from an increase. The maximum state rate this year would be 77 cents compared to 75 cents in previous years. It is made up of 35 cents for general purposes, 35 cents for the schools and 7 cents for pensions for Confederate veterans. Heretofore the pension maximum has been five cents, making the grand total 75 cents.

President Coolidge is a strict economist. He favors cutting the cost of government all along the line. It is said that the 48 states have a combined debt of more than a billion dollars. State taxes as well as county and municipal taxes are growing all the time and the bonded debt of the 48 states continues to pile up.

Texas is more fortunate in this respect than many of its sister states which are classed as the major states in population and wealth.

BISHOP WILLIAM LAWRENCE of Massachusetts says that the first note struck in the anniversary of American independence "Is that of thanksgiving and prayer to God for this country was settled and this nation's liberties were won by men and women of religious faith." Thomas Paine, Benjamin Frankiin and Thomas Jefferson were not creedists. They believed in Almight God and let it go at that

A THOROUGHLY DISILLUSIONED MAN

After having stayed at his post in spite of everything, with the bulldog tenacity characteristic of an officer of marine, Brigadier General Smedley Butler is at last compelled to admit defeat. He would not be a soldier if he could escape the bitterness at such a fate, nor a man if he could refrain from attempting to justify himself. Accordingly, he speaks with a voice of weary hopelessness, of sharp protest and even reproach in announcing his intention of quitting the public service for good at the same time that he will relinquish the exalted title of "Director of Public Safety" for Philadelphia.

"I may have failed," stated the general at an old home celebration at Phoenixville, Pa., "but I was not bluffed, and if I did not accomplish the purpose for which I was brought to Philadelphia, it was not my fault. I have not been fighting crime and vice so much as I have been fighting political influence that opposed me at every turn." In conclusion, General Butler declared with more heat than was justified in an announcement of his future intentions; "I do not want any more public jobs. I've had enough of serving the people."

In these words there is a double intimation that political influence prevented what otherwise might have proven a splendid success and that because of the supposed impeding power of politics the people are not worth saving. But General Butler must not be taken too seriously in his implications. Due allowance should be made for the fact that he is a thoroughly disillusioned man who speaks out of the great hurt inflicted by the knowledge of failure. Sympathy is certainly due any man who thinks that it is quite as easy to be political dictator and moral regulator of city of millions as to be commander of a brigade.

All the complex relations established under a self-governing community and all the intricate business of living preclude the kind of regulation which can be made effective over a select group of men who have temporarily surrendered their citizenship privileges to act in a given manner under strict orders. The principles of the parade drill, the forced march, the dismal rout of the bloody assault cannot be applied to the finer and less definite details of community conduct.

We admire the grimness of military men because of the stark realities they must face. The sternness of their training and their iron control symbolize the sacrifices they have made to fit them to serve greatly in their chosen field. We honor them for these sacrifices, but at the same time we cannot fail to be conscious of the value of the non-military life which they have renounced. It was upon that life that General Butler sought to lay strong hands. In our sympathy for the bewildered regulator there must mingle genuine relief at the result.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.
Leo.

Today's planetary aspects ar variable and perplexing. In the early morning they are favorable, but later on they become adverse and continue so until noon. Thereafter, and until sundown, they are benign, while in the evening they revert t othe adverse. Under such complex conditions it is useless to attempt anything out of the ordinary, although in the afternoon great enjoyment and pleasure can be derived from outdoor sports or recreations. At night the vibrations are sluggish and there will be experienced a trend to moobidness and moroseness which will be only successfully overcome by great self-restraint and will power.

Children born today will, regardless of sex, be very much alike in disposition and temperament, although physically they will be very different. A girl promises to be healthy, full of spirit and almost a complete stranger to sickness. A boy, on the other hand, will be during infancy, weak and ailing, and assiduous care and regulated nutrition will be required to carry him successfully through to manhood. Their dispositions will be submissive and kind. They will derive at all times more gratification from the happiness of others than from their own individual pleasures. They will be generous to fault and ever ready to make sacrifices.

If today is your birthday, you are temperamental, and a large majority of those who celebrate their natal anniversaries on this date are artistically inclined and musical. You, if you were born on July 25, possess a personality at once compelling and magnetic, thereby enabling you to make friends readily, among whom you are very popular. In spite ot the artistic side of your character, you are not lacking in practical ideas and are an excellent manager either at home or in business. Your commercial instinct is quite keen, and you very rarely are left with the worse side o fany rtade or bargain you may make.

Your disposition is a generous and forgiving one, and you are invariably animated by noble ideas and kindly thoughts. Your love is strong, faithful and devoted, and you are never too tired or too preoccupied to show it.

Successful people born on this date are: Carroll D. Wright, statistician; Frank J. Sprague, electrician and inventor; Maxfield Parish, artist; Amadeo Bassi, operatic tenor; David Belasco, dramatic author.

IRRIGATION

Land For Camp Sites Granted By Mr. Waggoner.

Large numbers of men were employed in the building of the two dams. These men were housed and fed in camps immediately adjacent to the two structures.

At the lower or diversion dam the camp was not located on Mr. Waggoner's land as this dam is at the extreme eastern edge of his pasture at that point.

At the upper, or Lake Kemp dam, everything was located on his land, so a provision had to be made, in the contract covering the occupancy of a tract by the contractors' construction crews.

"In addition to the easement—hereinafter granted—party of the first part (Mr. Waggoner) grants—the use of eighty acres of land substantially as shown at the south end of the upper dam—to be used by the party of the second part (the irrigation district) and its contractors as a camp site in the construction of the said storage dam, until the completion of said dam, together with the right to construct a tank thereon for the storage of surface water, which shall, upon the completion of said dam, become the property of the party of the first part."

The granting of this eighty acre tract was an easement limited in time to the construction period.

The right to construct a tank or small reservoir was granted because the low water flow of the Wichita River is not suitable for drinking by either animals or man.

The rain water caught in this earthern tank was used largely for watering stock. The water used by the men for drinking was for a long time hauled from Seymour about eighteen miles distant.

FIVE DIE IN HOME FIRE.

Wife Is Badly Burned in Section House Blaze.

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 24.—(AP)—E. T. Wettmack, a "Soo" line section foreman at Harlis, Minn., about 26 miles from Superior, and his four children lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the section house there this morning.

Mrs. Wettmack, badly burned, was rushed to a Twin City hospital. Her recovery is doubtful.

The fire was caused by the explosion of a kerosene lamp. The fire occurred at 1:30 a. m. today.

BROOKHART STILL GAINING.

Iowa Election Being Checked by Senate Counters.

Saws For The Goose

HOW IT STARTED

"IT'S A CINCH."

Two popular members of our slang lexicons are "cinch" and "soft snap." The latter is an obvious metaphor referring to the ease of snapping softly as a snap of the fingers, which, except for the click, requires no effort.

But "cinch" is not synonymous with "soft snap." Upon investigation of its origin it develops a different shade of meaning.

Before railroads had penetrated our great Southwest, or even the old stage made its bow, pack mules carried into regions unsurveyed the household goods of the traveling homestender or pioneer, as well as the family itself, or the goods and person of the itinerant merchant.

Along the untrodden trails, which it was often necessary to traverse traveling was not always smooth and steady. Mules were prone to leave their burdens by the wayside and to insure that all one's belongings come in at the finish it was necessary in loading the mule carefully to tighten the girth to get a good cinch, which gave a sure, safe hold. From this we have "cinch" as a certainty, a sure thing.

TWO GENERALS TO MEET.

French and Spanish Officers to Hold Conference.

RABAT, French Morocco, July 24.—(AP)—Marshal Petain of France and General Primo de Rivera, head of the Spanish military directorate, will meet Monday at Ceuta or Tetuan to confer regarding joint Franco-Spanish military operations against Abdel-Krim's warring Riffians in Morocco.

Ronald Corley jilts Enid Austin two days before their wedding and elopes with Coralie Brainerd. Three years later Enid marries Lucien Grant without loving him because she feels that she has a right to be married. Of course, the situation is impossible and later Enid separates from Lucien without telling him that she is to become a mother. In the meantime Ronald begins to find flaws in Coralie and once more becomes interested in Enid. Coralie learns of this and is miserable, but decides not to let Ronald know. Enid leaves town and her little girl, Zell, is born in a private sanitarium. Mr. Austin goes to Lucien and advises him to assert his rights, which Lucien refuses to do. Later Enid returns and takes up her old life.

"I'm very eager to see you, Enid."

"I want to see you, too. And Coralie, how is she?"

It struck Ronald as strange that she should mention Coralie, so deliberately. In the past when they had been together, Coralie's name as if by tacit agreement had been left out of the conversation. Enid had never mentioned her and certainly Ronald had avoided doing so. Even thinking of Coralie made him feel like a cad. She was such a darling, he hated to hurt her.

"Coralie is well," he said briefly. "And the children? You know I am interested in children now, Ronald. You should see Zell. She's the most wonderful child in the world, and I'm not a fatuous mother because I say that either, she's simply georgeous."

There was a lyric note in her voice that he had never heard there before. It was almost as if she sang the words. Did the child mean so much to her then? Lucien's child? But, of course, it wasn't that. Young mothers were always fatuous about their children, and of course Enid's child would be one in a million, there was no doubt of that.

They exchanged a few more sentences and then Ronald said eagerly, "I'll call you again next week. Is that too soon?"

"That will be fine," Enid returned sweetly.

At the other end of the wire she sat with a smile curling her lips, a smile that would have puzzled Ronald could he have seen it. She always wore that smile after he had been with her. Perhaps it was because she was amused. After all, in view of what had happened in the past, it did seem strange that now Ronald could hardly wait to see her. Four years ago he had wanted Coralie more than anything in the world, but now that Coralie was his wife he had lost interest.

CHAPTER XXXVII
Tea for Several.

IN CORALIE'S simple mind there was no rancour against Enid. She did not hate her because of Ronald's infatuation, she accepted it as a natural thing knowing Enid's rare charm and aware, too, of the fact that she herself did not possess that charm. If she had not been self-conscious and afraid that in some way she would betray herself, she would have gone to Enid, welcomed her back to town. She would have enjoyed a cozy, intimate chat with her and she longed to see the baby. But she was afraid to go; she was afraid that Enid might see into her heart. She could not risk Enid's bright, pentrating eyes, her sharp tongue. She could not bear the thought that Enid might be laughing up her sleeve, secure in the knowledge that Ronald loved her and that Coralie was too stupid to recognize the fact. And so she did nothing, it seemed to her that there was nothing to do but wait. She felt somehow that before long things would reach a climax and something definite would happen. Certainly the situation could not remain indefinite forever.

The days passed, and a week after Ronald had first called Enid on the telephone he rang her up again.

"Are you settled enough to see me now?" he asked eagerly. "I'd like to run in for a little while this afternoon, if you'll let me."

Enid's reply made his heart leap.

"That will be very nice, Ronald. Shall we say four-thirty? We'll have tea and some of our famous conversation."

Ronald spent the rest of the day with his head in the clouds. He found it impossible to think of anything but the fact that he was to see Enid again. He visualized her charming room, the shaded lights, the restfulness that pervaded the atmosphere. He pictured Enid, slim and lovely, beautifully gowned, her lovely, slender hands busy with the tea things, her low voice saying things that he hardly heard, so entranced was he by the way she said them.

Ronald was no villain, cold-bloodedly planning something wrong. It did not occur to him that he had no right to be thinking this way about Enid Grant, nor did he have any definite plan in mind as to his procedure. Coralie represented one thing to him, Enid another. Coralie was reality, Enid romance, that was all.

At four o'clock he locked his desk and left the office. A little before four-thirty he was ringing the bell of Enid's apartment, and a moment later Norah was opening the door for him.

As he entered the foyer hall he realized with a sense of keen disappointment that Enid was not alone. Voices drifted out from the room beyond; there was much gay laughter, and the clink of silver spoons against delicate china.

He entered the living room and from behind the tea table Enid held a slim cool hand to greet him.

"Hello, Ronald," she said lightly. "I'm so glad you could drop in this afternoon. Of course you know Alicia Conway, and Mrs. Arnold, may I present Mr. Corley?"

Ronald found himself shaking hands with Alicia, Mrs. Arnold and a tall distinguished looking man named Allenby, who seemed very attentive to Enid. Jealously leaped up in him and his feeling was not helped very much by the knowledge that Alicia Conway was present. He felt that Alicia was looking at him with mocking eyes, and knowing that she and Coralie were very intimate, it made him feel uncomfortable. Besides he felt that Enid had not been fair with him. She had not told him that she expected other people to tea, she had let him think that she would be alone when he called. it was as if she had deliberately thought to put him at a disadvantage.

Enid had turned from Mr. Allenby who sat close beside her. She was looking at Ronald with laughing eyes.

"Tea, Ronald, and rum, as usual?" she asked lightly. The words implied a knowledge of his preferences. It established a bond between them and instantly his spirits soared.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.
Despondency.

Ronald stayed late, determined to wait until the others had left. He wanted a few moments alone with Enid, but although Mrs. Arnold left shortly after his arrival and Alicia took herself off at about 5:30, Mr. Allenby made no move to depart.

Ronald was almost sullen with jealousy. Who was this fellow, and what was he to Enid? Was she interested in him beyond the point of friendship, and if not, why did he sit there in his chair as though he had a perfect right to be there? The more he thought about it the more furious he became, and when at 6 o'clock he rose to go, his mood was not the best in the world.

Enid was, as usual, beautifully poised. Her manner expressed just the right shade of regret at his departure.

"Must you go, Ronald? It was so nice to have you drop in; I hope you'll remember to come again soon."

Ronald's thoughts were chaotic.

Remember! As though he ever thought of anything else. How could she treat him so casually just as though she had no idea how much she meant to him? How could she be so cruel?

As though to soften her casual attitude, she trailed after him to the door. "You haven't seen Zell," she said, her violet eyes soft. "So you really must come again soon."

"Any time you say," Ronald said eagerly. "Perhaps you'll have lunch with me Thursday?"

"Thursday? Why I'd love to Ronald. I'll meet you downtown somewhere, shall I? It would be foolish for you to come 'way up here."

"I thought you wanted me to see Zell."

Enid's laugh rang out.

"Zell is out in the park during the middle of the day. But there will be other times; she's going to be with me a long time, you know."

She gave him her hand and in the dimness of the hall he stooped and touched his lips to it. He left as usual with his head in a whirl, thrilled because she had promised to lunch with him, thrilled because she had said there would be other times when he might see the baby, implying, of course, that she expected to see a great deal of him.

He was exhilarated until he had reached the station, rushed through the gates and was seated in the train, then once more he was carried away by his imagination.

Had she said she would meet him downtown because she did not want to be alone with him? And this afternoon—had she purposely invited other people for the same reason?

His thoughts turned to the man named Allenby. Who was he, and how much did Enid like him? It struck Ronald suddenly that he had probably stayed late because he and Enid had an engagement for the evening. He was undoubtedly taking her to dinner somewhere, or perhaps she had invited him to stay at the apartment, which was worse. The intimacy of a dinner served for two under candlelight was something Enid had never asked him to share. He wondered why. Often he had stayed late ,hoping that she might, but she never had. Then why was Allenby accorded this privilege?

His thoughts were growing more and more serious and he tried to shake himself out of his despondency.

Perhaps Enid was afraid to be alone with him, perhaps she was afraid of her own emotions. That thought was consoling and once more his spirits began to rise. Why hadn't he thought of that before? She certainly liked him or she wouldn't have given him so much time in the past. And if she were afraid to be alone with him, she had discovered that she cared more for him than she felt she should. If he could only be certain of that, and yet Enid was so mysterious, he could not be sure.

CHAPTER XXXIX
An Uncomfortable Evening.

ENID lunched with Ronald and was charming and gay, but entirely impersonal. Whenever Ronald introduced anything of a personal nature, she parried it delicately until she was able to change the subject of the conversation, nor could he discover anything about Mr. Allenby.

To his direct question, she had answered lightly. "He's a lawyer, Isn't he charming, Ronald, and such a good friend?"

Ronald wondered what she meant by good friend, and was seeking about in his mind for some question that would not make him seem too eager when Enid switched the conversation

"I have the longest shopping list," she said gayly. "It will take me all afternoon to get everything I need."

"When may I call on you?" Ronald pressed.

"Any time," Enid responded vaguely "I must have you and Coralie to dinner soon. Give her my love, won't you?"

Ronald was cross and irritable when he returned to the office. He was still cross and irritable when he reached home that night. Coralie had accepted an invitation to go over to the Martin's for bridge, and when she reminded him of this, he growled out an objection.

"Why on earth did you say we'd go over there? I can't stand that woman with her everlasting prattle. I hate brainless females."

"But you and Tom are such good friends, Ronald," Coralie expostulated. "I thought you would enjoy going over for a while. We needn't stay late, but if you'd rather, dear, I'll call up and say you have a headache."

Coralie's very sweetness antagonized him still more.

"Never mind," he said crossly, "I'll go."

...TONIO ...OL BOARD ...MBERS QUIT

...riction Inside Is Cause Given by Two Retiring Trustees.

SAN ANTONIO, July 24.—Perry S. Robertson, member, and J. H. Cunningham, attorney for the San Antonio school board, tendered their resignations to the school board Thursday. Both Mr. Robertson and Mr. Cunningham stated in their letters of resignation that "friction and lack of harmony within the board" were the causes of their leaving.

Mr. Robertson had only served two weeks on the board having been elected to succeed Hal Browne, resigned. Mr. Cunningham was elected at the last regular session of the board. Both resignations came as a surprise to board members.

Police Baffled In Death of Sisters

HUDSON, N. H., July 24.—(AP)—Investigation of the murder of Miss H. Georgiana Gillis, 77, and her 80-year-old sister, Helen, in the house they occupied alone here, seemed balked today by the complete absence of any motive for the crime.

The bodies of the aged women were found lying on the floor by Mrs. J. A. Locke and Mrs. Eugene Center, neighbors, who had called and received no answer to their knocks at the unlatched door. The skulls of both women had been crushed with some blunt instrument. No trace of any such weapon was found in the house.

The county and state authorities investigating the case, headed by County Solicitor George L. Haselton of Manchester, were pressing a search last night for Demetrios Papponikrios, who escaped last Monday from the state asylum at Concord, 40 miles away, where he had been confined for five years for homicidal assault on a man.

Electric Co. Safety Meeting Held Friday

Ninety-five employes of the Wichita Falls Electric plant were present yesterday evening at the regular monthly safety meeting of that organization on the lawn at the power plant.

C. J. Rutland, safety engineer of the Texas Power and Light company, was present and made a short talk to the employes in which he stressed the need for safety at all times. In connection with his talk he told of several ways in which safety could be insured in handling dangerous machinery.

Following a picnic supper served on the lawn a general discussion of safety was held among those present. Stress was laid upon the importance of using safety devices at all times.

The meeting was adjourned following the routine business, in which the accidents of the past month were brought up for discussion.

"THE MARRIAGE WHIRL"

Corrine Griffith Takes Leading Role At Olympic Today

Corinne Griffith's new First National picture, "The Marriage Whirl," which will be the attraction at the Olympic theatre today, is full of life and jazz.

It moves quickly from a novel masquerade party to a dance of the Sixty club, showing the acme of New York's night life, and from that to the all-night restaurants of Paris.

That the present generation is under the influence of jazz goes without a doubt. Jazz has become its national anthem. The path that this leads to is full of danger and pitfalls to those who are not aware of them. To call this to the attention of the American public, J. Hartley Manners wrote that successful New York play, "The National Anthem." It was from this play that "The Marriage Whirl" was adapted.

In support of Miss Griffith is an imposing array of names familiar to theatre goers. Harrison Ford and Kenneth Harlan play the leading roles. Nita Naldi lends her personality to the role of a French dancer. Others in the cast include Charles Lane, E. J. Ratcliffe and Edgar Norton.

The picture was directed by All Santell.

Ches Davis Is Back At Palace Theatre

Ches Davis, premier blackface comedian of the south, who has been absent from the Palace theatre stage for several days due to a bad cold, will reappear again today and plenty of fun and comedy is assured.

His blackface skit entitled "What Do You Know About That" offers more than the usual run of fun and is filled with plenty of good, clean comedy that keeps his listeners in a continuous uproar throughout. The actor's impersonations of the southern darkey are becoming well known over the city for their accuracy and the return of the star will be welcomed with delight.

The Renaud sisters are another feature act that will offer something new today. This act is by far the most popular that has ever come on the Palace theatre in a singing and dancing skit. The two actors are fast becoming favorites here.

The regular three-act comedy of the revue will also be shown. Other specialty acts are also promised, together with an unusually good film offered.

Man Is Arrested In Ft. Worth for Theft Of Hubbard Car Here

A man alleged to have been responsible for the heft here of a Ford coupe from Mrs. W. E. Hubbard on Feb. 22 was arrested Friday in Fort Worth and is being held there pending arrival of a deputy sheriff who will bring him back to Wichita Falls.

The car was stolen from the streets here and driven to Fort Worth where it was placed in a garage. It was located there through the efforts of the city police department and returned to this city by the owner after identification had been established.

Friday, a man turned up at the garage, asking for the machine and was detained until police could arrive. Notice was sent here to the city police department; a warrant charging him with the theft was sworn out and he will be brought back to face charges.

Teacher Examination Dates Announced

An announcement has been received by County Superintendent of Schools Burl Bryant from S. M. N Marrs, state superintendent, that examinations will be held in all counties in Texas Aug. 17 and 18 for teachers building to permanent teaching certificates under the old law.

A recent revision of the examination laws stipulates that after Sept 1 of this year, second class certificates are the highest to be granted under the former examination schedule. For this reason, opportunity is being offered teachers prior to the September enforcement to take their examinations as formerly.

P. B. Curd to Protest Holliday Creek Dams

Public Utilities Commissioner P. B. Curd will leave Sunday for Austin to appear before the state board of engineers to protest, on behalf of Wichita Falls, the construction of a series of dams across Holliday creek near Holliday and Mankins. The dams are to be built to provide small lakes for supplying water to drillers in the Archer county oil fields.

The public hearing for protests has been set for Monday and the city council here has taken steps to lodge a vigorous complaint against damming the creek, which is a feeder to the city's water supply at Lake Wichita.

The laying of the stone was under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of the Masons of Texas.

Visits in City.

Mr. Whaling while overday in Wichita Falls told much of the progress going on at the university. He stated that starting with the coming year the co-operative plan of engineering school that has been insuccessful practice in Cincinnati and Georgia Technical colleges for many years will be installed. This plan is that each man will hold a position and attend school at the same time. This is made possible by two men holding the same position, and each going to school for a month and then working a month and about turn. This gives the man experience that will be invaluable to him.

Many Offers.

Mr. Whaling in relating of the prospects for positions said that offers had already been made by many Dallas firms who desire men workers, and heartily approve and are willing to work in with the new plans.

The authorities, it was stated, plan to accommodate 120 students. These students were desired to be of good standing in their reports from their high school work, the authorities feeling that this would insure their sincerity and ability to make good in the new department.

W. W. Silk Arms Self And Cook; Waits For Thieves to Return

Mary, the cook for the W. W. Silk family, discovered two burglars in the back yard of the Silk home Thursday night, trying to break into the house. She awoke every one in the neighborhood and got hold of the police. The burglars were described as two tall men in black suits with slouch hats. Mr. Silk advises the members of the community to get out their shotguns and lay in a supply of buck shot. He stated that he had his all ready and waiting and had supplied his negro help also. He further remarked that the police would not be notified next time until after the arrival of the ambulance.

NO MOTIVE IS YET FOUND IN SISTER DEATH

Police Are Baffled by Few Clews in Slaying of Two Women.

BOSTON, July 24.—(AP)—Augustus G. Gill, for 38 years professor of technical chemical analysis at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, testified in Suffolk probate court today that an entry in the family Bible upon which Mrs. Ida Manning Blankerburg of Tulsa, Okla., bases her claim to the $3,000,000 estate of Lotta Crabtree, Boston actress, was of recent date.

The hearing is on a motion by the special administrator of the Crabtree estate to strike out appearance of Mrs. Blankenburg, who claims to be Lotta Crabtree's daughter. An entry on the fly leaf of the family Bible said by the claimant to be in the handwriting of the actress, told of the latter's marriage in England to George Manning, who later disappeared, and of the birth of a daughter, Ida.

Professor Gill said that in his opinion the entry on the fly leaf was of recent date and made in "iron ink." He also said that he believed the writing had been treated with a chemical to make it appear old. Judge Prest said he would allow the witness to make a test in court to determine whether a chemical had been used to give the ink the appearance of age.

Lady Cops, Who Get Men to Flirt Then Pinch Them, Fired

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP)—Women police officers, who have been walking the streets of Washington all dolled up for the express purpose of arresting men who flirt with them, will be assigned hereafter to some other job.

Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning, in charge of the capital police force, said today that he was "against encouraging any one to violate the law in any way for the purpose of making an arrest."

He announced the change in policy after several cases brought against mashers by the cruising squadron of policewomen had been thrown out of police court.

VAIN REGRETS

I never to the woodshed went,
When I was but a lad,
And there a bad half hour spent
With an indignant dad.
My parents never broke my pride;
The hair brush on the shelf
Remained inert, it was not plied
On my protesting self.

Though other people thought it odd
That we pursued this plan,
And said the sparing of the rod,
Would wreck the coming man't
I quite approve this kindly course
And I was most sincere,
When I maintained the use of force
Might ruin my career.

But now I find a billionaire,
When but a little chap,
Was often turned across a chair
Aand walloped with a strap,
And pulled unkindly by the ear
And very soundly shaken.
I have a sort of haunting fear
That I was much mistaken.

Too late it is for me to wish
That back along the path
Of childhood I had heard the swish
Of a descending lath,
Had I been turned across a chair,
And given stroke on stroke—
I might have been a millionaire,
But now, alas! I'm broke!

THE FARMER, HIS SON AND THEIR DONKEY. IIII

by W.J. ENRIGHT.

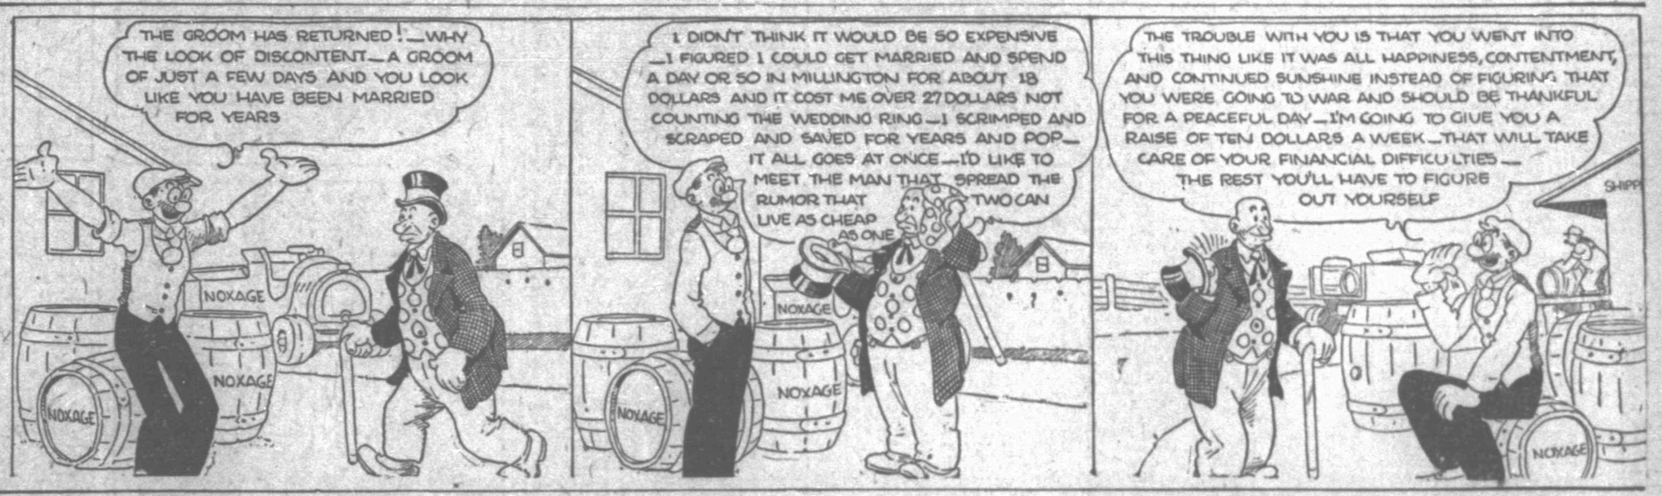

AS THEY ENTERED TOWN THE PEOPLE THOUGHT THIS SUCH A STRANGE AND FUNNY SIGHT THAT THEY CROWDED AROUND LAUGHING AND MAKING A GREAT NOISE.

THIS FRIGHTENED THE DONKEY SO THAT AS THEY WERE CROSSING A BRIDGE HE MANAGED TO FREE HIS HIND LEGS AND IN HIS STRUGGLES WENT OVER THE EDGE INTO THE WATER AND WAS DROWNED.

THE FARMER WAS MOST UNHAPPY AND ASHAMED AND LOOKING DOWN INTO THE WATER SAID TO HIS SON, "YOU SEE, IN TRYING TO PLEASE EVERYONE YOU ARE BOUND TO PLEASE NO ONE." AND THEY SORROWFULLY JOURNEYED BACK OVER THE ROAD POORER BUT WISER.

SPUDDERS AND WACOANS HOOK IN SERIES FINAL THIS AFTERNOON. NO NINTH-INNING RALLY IN ORDER TODAY, BEING SATURDAY, THE BOYS WANT TO WIN EARLY AND THEN GET TO THEIR WEEK-END SHOPPING.

Our selections, if we were running the two teams, our selections for mound duty would be Rip Wheeler and Red Bird. Probably will.

DUKE WANTS THOMAS.

Since Thursday a week back when Duke Trammel caught pokes to the portico, map, ear and eyebrow at the rate of about one million a minute at behest of the highly elusive and artfully weaving infighter, Mr. Thomas White, Wichita Falls' smashing fistic favorite, has been aching for another fling at the midget from Texas City. Duke seriously believes he can swat Eagle Eye (that's nickname Mexicans gave Tommy) clear out of the roped arena.

* * *

Duke hit White in that fight of theirs. He poked him once in the seventh round. Which is more than Sid Young accomplished the other night. And in landing that solitary blow, a clip to the head, Trammel came near to beating Tommy out. The clout shook him to his heels, and he dived into a death-like clinch, shook his head half clear and then came up fighting. Trammel apparently did not realize he had hurt White. Two such wallops coming but a few seconds apart probably would sing the resin song for Tommy.

* * *

QUESTIONS.

Trammel gets his second chance at White next Thursday, according to Promoter Wofford. Duke was a bit stale in that other White set-to, avers Don, and he'll probably put Tommy away this time. Surprising thought.

Trammel, on physical comparison, is too strong and rugged for White, and if, yeah if, he ever does connect a few times it'll be horizontal exercise for Tommy. But and several other kinds of ifs, Trammel won't connect again, so one local boxing "expert" informs. Trammel in putting over that one blow came closer to beating White than he ever will again, the "expert" opines. And we're inclined to agree with him.

* * *

Duke may make a hard fight of it, but he's too slow to catch White and beat him down in a thousand rounds. It's just a matter of how many times and how long they fight. If they meet often enough Duke may get over with a couple of socks. In that event he'll win.

Murdock Should Learn to Sock.

Young Murdock, the Sulphur kid who took Snelson to a lacing Thursday, will be put on again this week. There's a boy with a fighter's heart, but he doesn't know how to hit. If he can learn to hook that right of his and connect with his fist instead of slapping as he does Murdock may go pretty far in his division.

TWO PESTS GONE.

If you have a friend who is a pest and you don't know how to get rid of him without hurting his feelings it's going to cost you, but the system we have in mind has never failed yet to our knowledge. The writer used to be quite popular with a pair of young men of the specie mentioned. They draped themselves around the desk every night and watched the scores as they came in over the wire. Mutilated the old Underwood when it happened to be sitting idle. Asked foolish questions about this and that, and were forever getting in the way.

* * *

One of 'em came up short on cash one night and touched us for a fiver. The other one borrowed five the next morning. It cost ten iron men in all, but since the time we shelled out we haven't been able to get within 100 yards of either. I can be walking down the street and happen to see one of 'em coming up the same sidewalk. Then I'll glance over across the way a moment, and when I turn around to look at him again there'll be nothing there but atmosphere.

* * *

Walked into a road house the other night. Saw one of 'em sitting in chair over in a corner apparently on the verge of inebriation. Made out like I didn't see him, and then watched his reflection in a window pane. He gave yours truly a sort of furtive glance, bid his friend adieu, and skipped from view. Drunk as he was, he was still letting that five spot loan worry him. There's human nature, of a kind, for you.

WILD HEAVE GIVES BUD'S MEN VICTORY

Golvin, Dorman, Query And Sutherland Single In Succession.

The Spudders tagged along behind Waco Friday through eight frames, coming up in the ninth on the under end of a 9-3 score, and then broke lose on one of these oft mentioned but seldom witnessed ninth inning batting rallies. They came within one run of the leading Waco club and had the tying and winning counters on base when Red Bird uncorked a jungle heave at the plate, letting in one run. Morrow retrieved the ball and threw wildly back to Bird who come in to cover the pan, and the winning marker was chalked up. The score was 10-9.

Golvin opened the rally with a single to center. Dorman followed with a bad hop single between first and second. Query singled to right, filling the sacks. Sutherland poled a one-baser to the same territory, scoring Golvin. Distel walked, forcing in Dorman, and Manager Pratt jerked Pitcher Lyle. Oscar Tuero went to the hill, and Callaghan doubled to left, scoring Query, Sutherland and Distel. Tuero got to hook and Bird took the mound. Bodie drew a four-ball donation. Fitzgerald laid down a sacrifice bunt, advancing both runners. Turgeon was purposely passed. Jonnard batted for Golvin and struck out. With Dorman at bat, Bird pulled his wild pitch and Callaghan and Bodie scored.

Waco Two in Fifth

After pecking Morgan for a hit an inning the Cubists scored in the fifth. Lyle led off with a home run over the left field palings. Perrin doubled to left, Cohen went out third to first, Perrin taking third. Brown hit to Distel who held Perrin at third before tossing Brown out at first. Pratt doubled to the left field foul line, scoring Perrin.

Foss scored the Cubs marker in the sixth with a home run over the left field fence.

Two home runs in succession by Don Brown and Skipper Pratt netted two in the seventh. This gave Morgan the showers, and Suds Sutherland took up the duties on the hill.

Wichita Falls scored its first tally in the sixth inning off Lyle. Distel doubled to the right field fence. Callaghan singled to center scoring Distel.

Another Spud tally was shoved over in the seventh. Brown dropped the long fly off Fitzgerald's bat, and Fitzgerald reached second. Turgeon walked. Golvin singled through the box filling the bases. Dorman hit into a double play, Fitzgerald scored on the play.

Cubs Three in Eighth

Waco scored three more in the eighth inning. Meuze and Morrow were both retired. Lyle dropped a single in left. Perrin doubled against the green batting screen, Lyle pulled up at third. Cohen singled to center, scoring Lyle and Perrin, and taking second on Callaghan's peg to the plate. Brown walked Pratt singled to left, scoring Cohen. Sutherland trapped Pratt off first and while Golvin and Distel were running him down Brown made a break off third. Distel cut the ball loose to Dorman and Brown was out.

The Cublets scored one more in the ninth. Galloway sent a long double to the right field fence. He took second on an infield out, and romped home on a single by Morrow.

Kinseys Forced To Default Net Match

SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB, GLENCOE, Ill., July 24.—Leading two sets to one, three games to two and 30-0 in the fourth set, Robert and Howard Kinsey of San Francisco, had to default their semi-final match in the Illinois state doubles tournament today to W. T. Tilden, II, and A. L. Wierner, Philadelphia, when Robert Kinsey's led went bad and failed to respond to treatment. Tilden offered to default to the Kinseys instead, stating that he and Wierner were practically beaten, but the officials gave the match to Tilden and Wierner.

AMERICANS BEAT OUTLAWS

Bill Andree Holds Losers Down For 5-3 Win.

American Refinery defeated the Texhoma Outlaws on the American Refinery diamond Friday afternoon by the score of 5 to 3. Bill Andree pitched nice ball until the fifth when errors let in two runs. The only score off Andree in the early part of the game was Charley Hefner's home run in the first inning.

Windham led the hitters with three hits in three times at the bat. Hefner hit two out of two. Medford hit a home run in the fifth inning with Bill Andree on the paths.

DETROIT 6; CHICAGO 4.

DETROIT, July 24.—(AP)—Detroit defeated Chicago today, 6 to 4, and went into a tie with St. Louis for fourth place in the American league. Chicago still is in third place although their lead was cut to five points today by the Tigers. Good fielding in the pinches, aided by excellent pitching from W. Collins and Doyle, caused Chicagos defeat. Lyons, pitching for the White Sox was hit often and effectively by the victors and though he had perfect support, he was unable to stop the hard hitting Cobbmen. Score:

YOU KNOW ME AL —By Ring Lardner

Friend Al:

Well Al it is getting so as when we win 1 ball game in succession the newspaper boys calls it a winning shriek and I suppose if we was to win 3 in a row they would say we was like the Boston braves in 1914. To me it looks like the hole trouble was on acct. of Huggins cant remember no names that is hard to pronounce and when he picks a pitcher he calls on Jones or Pennock and cant remember mine. Some day Al he will pay some tension to me and then I will make a sucker out of some of these ball clubs especially Detroit because Cobb laughs every time he sees me.

The Passing Hour

THE OUTCAST

THE batting king whose murderous swings, the plaudits of the press command,
Hears fandom clamor for his blood the day that in a pinch he's fanned—
But when tomorrow he connects and wins a heated game thereby,
Once more he hears his name sung out and lauded tothe well-known sky!
The pitching star whose wayward arm draws from the bleachers frenzied fire
Is cheered when, on some other day, he makes the foemen's best expire:
The shortstop who may boob a play or some prossic pop may drop—
Tomorrow sets the bugs ablaze by some game-saving fielding stop.

But out there on the base-path's end
Or at the platter, calling play,
Is one who never has a friend
On any day!

JACK can whip anybody in ring, says Mrs. Estelle Dempsey, Reserving the usual wifely knowledge there is somebody out of it he can't.

A LOT of folks thought that Carpentier would have fared better in the debacle at Boyle's many acres with a rolling pin.

The Label

HERE is a little prediction that Mark Koenig will flivver with the Yanks next year. Yes, we have Bob Connery's own word for it that his shortstop is a wonder—and Connery knows ball yarders as few do. Yet even the gigantic Robert in his scouting days made mistakes.

But they are pinning the million dollar label on Koenig—and that is fatal.

From the time when Marty O'Toole went up as a $10,000 beauty—and that was a million then—to the present, the label has always covered a lad that quit trying. Maybe they are like the negro's chameleon that just naturally busted trying to match calico. But O'Toole, O'Conn

Texas Cotton Is 56 Per Cent Of Normal, Is Report

Drouth Blamed for Low Standard at This Time Of Year.

HOUSTON, July 24.—Due to the drouth, Texas cotton condition is 56 per cent of normal, which is 13 points below what it was a year ago and eight points below the condition figures of June 25 last, according to the first mid-monthly cotton report of H. S. Schutz, government statistician here.

Decline Doubles.

The report as of July 16 asserts that last year the average yields of lint cotton was 138 pounds per acre as compared with indication of 122 pounds on June 25, 1925, and 101 pounds on the date of this report.

"It is usual," says the report, "for the crop in decline in condition on an average of four points from June 25 to July 25, but evidently double this decline had already taken place on July 16.

"Not alone was there a lack of relief from the drouth, but high temperatures and hot winds caused severe deterioration in many parts of the state," the report said in discussing the causes for the drop in cotton condition. "Much of the crop remains small, is blooming in the top and is opening prematurely. Generally stands are irregular and conditions are very spotted in every district. Conditions remain fair to good in most of the north and south and there are good areas scattered through other districts; however little headway has been made by the crop during the past few weeks except in a few favored localities."

Insect Damage.

Insect damage, it adds, is at least no worse than last year.

Reverting to condition of the crop by districts, Mr. Schutz' figures that in 28 central and south Texas counties, the condition was below 30 per cent of normal and in 64 counties in the same area it was downward from fifty per cent. These 64 counties, the report asserts, produce approximately 1,900,000 bales of cotton last year and the 28 worst ones accounted for 861,000 bales. The remainder of the state produced 2,952,000 bales.

In Northwest Texas, which produced 989,000 bales last year, the report continues, the condition on July 16 was 72 per cent of normal as compared with 75 per cent on the same date last year. A part of the crop promises well but some is feeling the effects of hig temperatures.

In North Texas, where the 1924 yield was 00,000 bales, the condition is one per cent better than 71 per cent of normal indicated on July 16, 1924. Conditions, however, are very irregular and hot winds are doing much damage.

Northeast Texas, which accounts for 410,000 bales last year, reports to Mr. Schutz indicates a 79 per cent condition as compared with 65 per cent a year ago. The crop needs rain badly in places. In other places it needs but one more good rain.

West Texas 63 Per Cent.

In West and West Central Texas, which grew 457,000 bales last year, the July 16 condition is placed at 63 per cent, which is ten per cent less than it was on the same date in 1924. Rains are needed over much of the territory.

Central Texas, the report shows, is hit hardest. It produced 1,257,000 bales last year and its July 16 condition is fixed at 34 per cent or half what it was on the same date a year ago. Parts of this area have had only showers in 14 months.

Lowland cotton is holding up fairly well in East Texas but the upland crop needs rain badly except in favored areas. The condition is 57 per cent of normal as against 62 per cent on the same date last season. Last season's yield was 254,000 bales.

Condition figures in South Texas largely parallel those in the central part of the state. Over a large area moisture has been insufficient to germinate the seed. The condition of the crop is 38 per cent, a considerable decrease from the 66 per cent estimate of July 16, 1924. Last season's crop amounted to 617,000 bales.

In Southeast Texas a large percentage of the crop remains small because of insufficient moisture. Nevertheless there is some very good cotton in this district, notwithstanding some insect damage. The condition is 68 per cent as against 70 per cent on July 16, 1924. Last season's crop was 186,000 bales.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—Development of the usual week end profit taking retarded the upward movement of stock prices today and gave the market an uneven appearance after a remarkably strong showing in the early trading. Under the leadership of the high priced specialties advancing tendencies were maintained in any stocks, however, and more than a score new high records for the year were marked up before realizing sales overtook the market.

The spirit of buoyancy which was evident most of the day, was adequately supported by optimistic statements from leading bankers and the cheerful tenor of weekly trade reviews which reported that a solid basis existed for future expansion. Easier money rates at the same time encouraged an extension of constructive operations in popular industrial favorites. Numerous gains of two to six points were scattered throughout the list at the day's high levels but most of them were reduced or cancelled before the close.

Crossing the 200 mark for the first time in its history, Mack Trucks was one of the outstanding strong spots. Under the impetus of heavy speculative buying the stock established a new peak price at 203 before it encountered profit taking which carried it back to 200¾, representing a net gain of almost two points. American Can matched its previous high price of 210¼, but later sagged off in sympathy with the rest of the market and closed 1½ points below yesterday's final figure.

Striking changes took place in some of the issues. General Railway Signal, which was said to be due for a probable split-up of shares, was run up almost 10 points to a new top at 219, maintaining a large portion of gain until the close.

Motor shares as a group made the best showing in several days. Announcement that the Pierce Arrow company had completely liquidated its bank loans, freeing it from debt for the first time since 1920 was followed by a lively run up in its shares, the common advancing 1¾ and the preferred 5¼. White Motor spurted up 3¼ points.

In line with the rest of the market railroad issues failed to maintain their full gains until the close, although southwestern issues led an advance in the early dealings.

The growing belief was Frisco common will be established on a higher dividend basis before the end of the year, was reflected in its rise to anew high at 87¾. Wabash and "Katy" shares also were in demand.

Indications of a more stable money situation were seen in the maintainance of a four per cent call money rate throughout the day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Considerable irregularity marked trading in the foreign exchange market. Danish kroner rose to a new high near 22¼, but later lost these gain. Demand sterling for the first time in several weeks sold below $4.85¼, while French francs and Italian lire were virtually unchanged.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, July 24.—(AP)—The cotton market started out today with a show of dullness and there was a decline in the early trading of 23 points owing to lower cables and to the report that a strike of 135,000 Lancashier mill operatives was impending. Later the continued absence of rain in the drouth sections of the western belt and the official forecast for fair weather in the west started covering by shorts and prices rallied and toward mid-season trading became active and prices advanced sharply on reports of good buying by Wall Street interests. This caused a further upturn until at the highest October traded at 24.64, or 52 points above the low of the morning and 20 points above the previous close as well as 9 points above the high point reached after publication of the government report. Prices lost the net gain in the late trading or reports of sprinkling at Marshall, Texas, and on profit taking and on easier spot basis.

The close showed no change on October, but 1 to 3 points down on later months. At the start first trades showed loses of five to 15 points, the decline gathering strength as the call proceeded. Prices continued to ease off after the call until October traded at 24.12 and December at 24.27.

The advance in the middle of the day was probably helped by the considerable decrease for the week in the visible supply of 100,000 bales against a decrease of only 53,000 for the corresponding week last year.

Exports today, 3,386 and for the week 39,083.

DUN'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)— Dun's tomorrow will say:

More firmness in commodity prices relatively large demands in various trades, and an improvement in sentiment are distinctive phases of the current business situation. A contraction of activity usually occurs in mid-summer, more than of it appears at present than wa the case a year ago. Fundamental ends are sound and there is a solid basis for future expansion. Even now, despite seasonal restraints operations in certain lines, as in steel, textiles, footwear and hides, are broadening, while the position of different sellers is strengthened as markets become steadier or tend upward. Narrow profit margins continue to occasion complaint in some industries but for eight consecutive weeks advances in wholesale quotations have predominated and more than one-half of this week's increases in Dun's list are to other articles than foodstuffs. Among the commodities which have recently reached higher levels are copper, lead, zinc, tin and hides.

Weekly bank clearings $8,277,974,000.

WOOL.

BOSTON, July 24.—The Commercial bulletin tomorrow will say:

Activity in the wool markets has been more restricted this past week and a waiting disposition is manifest pending the opening of staple goods Monday by the American Woolen company. Prices, however, are maintained except that extreme asking prices are not now in evidence.

Conditions in the goods market generally are regarded as healthy, although seasonally slow. Western growers continue to maintain a strong front for the wools still left in the country.

Mohair is quiet and unchanged.

EXTENSION

a long haul through Kansas City and Chicago.

"But I would do the same thing," he added, "if I ran the Santa Fe."

T. J. Norton, counsel for the Santa Fe, thanked Kell profusely for saying the road was the greatest.

Mr. Kell said he believed that if Plainview had three trunk lines as Amarillo has, Plainview would develop into possibly a greater grain center, declaring more wheat was grown in its vicinity.

He would approve the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf's project if he was convinced of the financial success of the undertaking, but that the T. P. and G. proposal was not as good as the Denver's.

More Competition.

The Denver would bring more competition for grains of the plains thus increasing the price the products would bring the producer and would greatly broaden the field of consumption, lowering the cost for consumers, Mr. Kell said.

Insisting on the soundness of his argument, he cited statistics showing the growth of Wichita Falls. He said there were 104 manufacturing enterprises in Wichita Falls with a 1924 output of $128,000,000. Bank deposits were $27,000,000.

In 1924, he said, 6,500,000 bushels of grain of which 671,000 bushels came from the South Plains, were shipped from that city.

Fort Worth Man Testifies.

F. W. Axtell, Fort Worth manufacturer and president of the Fort Worth Finance corporation of the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf, said that road had priority over others in filing its application and would serve far more people than the Denver. The T. P. and G., he said, would serve an area 120 miles long and 65 miles wide, not now served. Taking over the Gulf, Texas and Western now in receivership would vitalize "a sick road," he said.

Axtell points out the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf would supply cheap fuel for the plains from vast lignite deposits near Tucumcarri, N. M.

"If the Denver wants to build to the plains, it should extend the Stamford and Northwestern from Spur to Plainview," he said.

Construction of both the proposed Forth Worth and Denver and Santa Fe rail extensions in the South Plains region of the state are justified by the freight tonnage, A. G. Hinn, miller of Plainview, testified at the interstate commerce commission hearnig today. Hinn was the first witness to declare the extensions planned by both roads are justified. He made his assertion knowing they would be parallel, he said.

Mr. Hinn also testified that in his opinion a line directly west from Fort Worth to Tucumcari, N. M., such as planned by the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf, would pay returns.

Under cross-examination by J. W. H. Barwise, the witness said that if he had to choose between the Denver and Santa Fe he would prefer the Denver road's proposal, because it would give direct connection with Fort Worth and Dallas.

Sees no Strangle Hold.

Mr. Hinn said that he did not agree with contentions of the Santa Fe that building of the Denver's extension would permit Dallas and Fort Worth jobbers to get a strangle hold on budding wholesale enterprises in the plains.

He said that if the Denver was permitted to make its extension he expected an increase in his own milling business.

Asked if he did not know the Denver probably would take some business from the Santa Fe, the witness said:

"I meant I would not support the Denver if I thought the Denver would bring any serious injury to the Santa Fe. The Denver might take a quarter of a million dollars worth of business from the Santa Fe the first year and lose half a million dollars itself, but both roads are so powerful they would not feel the loss."

H. C. Pipkin, Santa Fe counsel, over objections of counsel for the Denver, developed that Hinn in 1924 had opposed another flour mill coming to Plainview.

"It would seem you are not as firm believer in the future of the plains as you claim," Mr. Pipkin remarked to the witness.

Raise Heated Argument.

Assertion by Jule E. Smith that the Santa Fe is not giving the grain producers of the South Plains a "square deal" in causing grain to take a long haul over the road to Kansas City and Chicago instead of routing grain over the Santa Fe to Fort Worth and shipping over some line through St. Louis and Cairo to vast northeastern markets such as Indianapolis and Cincinnati resulted in heated argument at the hearing today. Mr. Smith is a Fort Worth grain shipper.

T. J. Norton, Santa Fe counsel, declared that Smith wanted the Santa Fe to surrender the long haul guaranteed to it by law in order to make profit by having grain handled through Fort Worth. Smith replied he was interested only in the development of the plains country, development which, he said, was "now seriously retarded by the Santa Fe."

Smith said the grain congestion at Galveston was "fearful" because of the failure of the Santa Fe to provide ample storage facilities. When Santa Fe attorneys protested, Smith frequently declared, "You are getting in deep water now."

Smith said he would like to see the Burlington system "cob-web' the plains with lines because the Denver was treating Texas fairly.

"You have in the Orient a fine example of a railroad built as recklessly as you would have them built," rejoined Norton.

"Why have so much on the Orient?" asked Smith, "My uncle, J. P. Douglas, built one of the best paying lines in the state on wind and nerve. I grew up in a time when any man could build a railroad if he could put it over."

Shows Comparison.

He read a telegraph message which indicated that freight on a hundred weight of wheat over the Santa Fe from Plainview to St. Louis was 49 cents, while from Claude to St. Ly the same distance, the rate was Louis, over the Denver, approximate-Plains railroad committee again 4 1-2 cents. Aims of the South day. The committee is composed of were a factor in the proceedings to-representatives from nearly every town in the South Plains. Junking of the Santa Fe system in the South Plains is preferred by the people of the plains to failure to obtain direct east and west rail connections such as the proposed Denver extension would provide, A. B. Martin, committee attorney, told Examiner Boles.

The statement of Martin came during discussion of differences between Denver and Santa Fe attorneys a sto what agreement should be made relative to reading into the record stipulations regarding the adequacy of Santa Fe service. No agreement was reached on the question.

WALES REFUSES DIAMOND.

Prnice Smilingly Shakes Hih Head at 65-Carat Stone.

KIMBERLEY, Union of South Africa, July 24.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales refused to accept a diamond of 65 carats which was offered to him as a cauvenir when he visited the famous De Beer's diamond works yesterday. He examined the great diamond with keen interest, but smilingly shook his head when it was presented to him. He did accept, however, a stone of 12 carats.

AND HE TOOK IT TOO.

DALLAS, July 24.—The cashier of a negro restaurant last night, busy counting the receipts absently asked without looking up at a man who came in:

"What'll you have?"

"Everything in the house," was the reply. The cashier saw a shining revolver pointed at him when he looked up and let the supposed customer have "everything," about $20.

90 PER CENT OF ACCIDENTS ARE AVOIDABLE

National Accidents Man Says Many Are Nothing But Carelessness.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 24.—Ninety per cent of motor car accidents are due to recklessness and carelessness or incompetency of drivers, and the remainder can be blamed on mechcanical defects, was the opinion of Dr. Walter E. Bingham, chairman of the committee on the causes of accidents of the national conference here today.

Dr. Bingham's committee is framing recommendations to be submitted to the national conference in Washington late in the fall.

"Dishonesty in highway signs," said Dr. Bingham, "is one cause of recklessness. Posting of danger signs at mild curves and similar points on highways where there is really no special danger has bred in many drivers the habit of ignoring or paying little heed to danger signs in general. About four per cent of automobile drivers are color blind. Few of them are completely color blind. To most of them a large portion of the spectrum appears such as it does to the normal eye. But red and green—colors most used for signals—are easily confused by color blind drivers. This should make highway engineers more skeptical of the usefulness of signs and signals that rely on color alone to tell their message."

Dr. Bingham said that while congested highways played a large part in the number of accidents it was not the only one. He mentioned the following:

The spirit of disrespect for law and regulations due to lack of prompt, uniform and certain enforcement; joy riding, speeding and similar forms of recklessness; inexperience and incompetence of drivers; jay-walking on busy streets.

Intoxication he said added its quota of disaster.

JAIL ADDITION TO BE OPENED UP THIS WEEK

Open House to Be Held For All Wichitans Next Monday.

Deputies will be stationed in the structure all afternoon and the public is invited to come for an inspection tour of the new bastille. The principle of the jail construction will be explained while the curious will be given an opportunity to look through all the steel-walled rooms where the criminally inclined of the county are restrained.

Danger Signals Of Indigestion

The Disease That Strikes Like Lightning.

Beware of indigestion—the disease that kills more people and kills them quicker than any other. This warning, by physicians, is particularly applicable this season of the year, when your system "let-down" in tone and vigor on account of warm weather.

What are the warnings that nature gives you of the approach of indigestion? The medical books tells us: 1. Gas, which means that your food is fermenting instead of digesting. 2. A feeling of fullness or oppression in the region of the stomach after eating. This means that the gas has ballooned your stomach and is pressing up against your heart and lungs. 3. A dull lazy feeling, which means that you are not getting nourishment from what you ar eating. 4. Restlessness, unrefreshing sleep, which means that the poisons of indigestion are disturbing your brain and nerves. 5. Sometimes, pain and fluttering round the heart, though this symptom may come later.

Don't take chances with indigestion—you are too apt to lose. If you have had any of the symptoms mentioned above, get your digestive organs to work at once with Ferraline, Nature's great stomach treatment that has given relief to thousands. Ferraline immediately aids and assists every one of your digestive organs, including your stomach, liver and bowels. Ferraline makes your digestion "perfect and complete." You feel its helpful effect from the very first dose. Get a bottle of Ferraline today at any drug store. Ferraline is so much superior to any other remedy for indigestion that the owners have instructed every druggist to refund the purchase price. One Dollar, if you do not get relief, so it costs you nothing if you are not delighted with results. Delay might be dangerous. Get Ferraline today from your druggist. The Ferraline Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

90 PER CENT OF ACCIDENTS ARE AVOIDABLE

National Accidents Man Says Many Are Nothing But Carelessness.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 24.—Ninety per cent of motor car accidents are due to recklessness and carelessness or incompetency of drivers, and the remainder can be blamed on mechanical defects, was the opinion of Dr. Walter E. Bingham, chairman of the committee on the causes of accidents of the national conference here today.

Dr. Bingham's committee is framing recommendations to be submitted to the national conference in Washington late in the fall.

"Dishonesty in highway signs," said Dr. Bingham, "is one cause of recklessness. Posting of danger signs at mild curves and similar points on highways where there is really no special danger has bred in many drivers the habit of ignoring or paying little heed to danger signs in general. About four per cent of automobile drivers are color blind. Few of them are completely color blind. To most of them a large portion of the spectrum appears such as it does to the normal eye. But red and green—colors most used for signals—are easily confused by color blind drivers. This should make highway engineers more skeptical of the usefulness of signs and signals that rely on color alone to tell their message."

Dr. Bingham said that while congested highways played a large part in the number of accidents it was not the only one. He mentioned the following:

The spirit of disrespect for law and regulations due to lack of prompt, uniform and certain enforcement; joy riding, speeding and similar forms of recklessness; inexperience and incompetence of drivers; jay-walking on busy streets.

Intoxication he said added its quota of disaster.
