Greater Man-Power Of Frog Forces Is Deciding Factor In Third Annual Contest Between Two Teams

Second Stringers No Match For Fighting Matadors So Regulars Are Rushed Into Fray In Early Minutes

FROG STADIUM, Fort Worth, Oct. 27.—Led by their brilliant captain, "Handsome Ransome" Walker who time after time threw scares into the vaunted Purple eleven by his elusive broken field running, the Texas Technological College Matadors fought valiantly for 60 minutes here this afternoon but the fight was to little avail and the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs won the third annual grid clash between the two elevens by a score of 28 to 6.

A play-by-play report of the Tech-T. C. U. game will be found on page four, section 1 Line-up and summary will be found on page five of this section.

The Matadors, however, were not to be deprived of their share of the day's glory for they crossed the goal line of the Southwest conference "dark horse" entry—the first time the trick has been turned in the six games the crack Christians have played this season. Tech's lone marker came in the first quarter and it was Captain Walker who crashed over the Frog left tackle, shook off enemies who sought to stop him and galloped 52 yards over the final chalk line.

Captain Walker's great run came a second after his little brother, Levi, playing the opposite half, had returned the Toad kick from his own 10 yard line almost to mid field.

Subs Can't Hold Tech

As was the case at Austin several weeks ago, the Matadors faced a so-called second string of conference players and in the same manner as

Cornerstone Will Be Placed Today For Church Annex

Service To Start At 2:30 O'Clock Today; Formal Dedication Of Building Is Set For November 11

Laying of the cornerstone of the new $75,000 Educational Building of the First Methodist Church will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The Rev. D. B. Doak, presiding elder of the Lubbock district, will be in charge of the ceremonies. The regular Methodist service used in connection with cornerstone laying will be employed this afternoon.

Mayor Harley D. Woods, R. J. Murray, chairman of the building committee of the church, and Jas. L. Dow, superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school, will make talks at the service. The Rev. W. P. Jennings, president of the local pastors' association, will lead in prayer.

Dedication November 11

Formal dedication of the new annex to the church will be held November 11, the Rev. E. E. White, pastor of the First Methodist church here, said yesterday. It is now planned to hold the initial open house in the new annex on the preceding Friday to the 11th.

Today has been designated at "Loyalty Day" at the Methodist church and each member is asked to make a cash offering to the building fund. The final financial wind-up campaign of the buildipg

Wynn Produce Plant At Big Spring Raided

BIG SPRING, Oct. 27.—The Wynn Produce company's plant at the corner of East First and Goliad street was burglarized and $200 in cash and checks taken. The burglar secured $80 in currency from the register, ten dollars in silver and the balance in checks. Entry was gained in to the building by forcing a door on the north side of the building.

One suspect was arrested early this morning and is being detained for questioning and finger printing.

Republican Era Of Graft, Inefficiency And Corruption Reviewed At Length By Moody

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Oct. 27. —Accusing the Republican party of corruption, misgovernment and discrimination, against the South since the Civil War, Gov. Dan Moody declared here tonight, in his first speech supporting the national Democratic ticket, his confidence that the normal Democratic majority will be in evidence in the November elections.

Governor Moody admitted, amidst cheers, that he did not agree with Governor Smith on prohibition, reaffirmed his own devotion to the Eighteenth Amendment, flayed Senator Borah of Idaho and declared that Borah was indirectly responsible for the death of President Wilson.

Speaking without notes, the governor laid emphasis on his assertion that the present political campaign is not a battle of individuals, but a battle of parties, and that a vote for either candidate is a vote for the party he represents.

Governor Moody charged that "the record of Republican administrations contains some of the blackest pages in the history of the nation, especially the record of Republican government after the Civil War." He charged that the Republicans had sent negroes to legislatures and legal benches and that they had continued a policy of discrimination against the South "up until tonight."

"The Republicans have exacted tribute fro mthe South for the benefit of favored classes in the North and East, who prosper under their rule," Governor Moody said. "They have held this section virtually in economic bondage to the North and East."

In contrast to this record, the governor declared the Democratic party had always stood for an equal division of privileges.

Highway Session Is Slated Monday

Delegates From Over State Route, Number Nine, To Gather In Lubbock For Annual Meeting

Two score and more members of the Highway Number Nine association will gather in Lubbock Monday for its annual meeting, beginning with a luncheon in the banquet room of the Lubbock Hotel at noon, it was announced Saturday.

Representatives of the many towns and cities along the route of this highway, which runs across the state from Amarillo to San Antonio, several from such cities in this part of the state as Amarillo Canyon, Tulia, Plainview, Tahoka, Lamesa and Big Spring, have already notified local members of the association that they will be present and it is possible that Judge W. R. Ely, of Austin, a member of the state highway commission, will be present.

Last year's meeting of the association was held at Big Spring on September 14. Since that time a great deal of improvement has been achieved along the line of the highway's route, and the association is ever working toward the day when it will be paved or hard-surfaced throughout its entire length.

Lubbock Housewives Eagerly Awaiting First Session Of Free Cooking School

She Will Conduct Cooking School

MRS. MYRA OLIVER DOUGAN

Avalanche - Journal Again Offering Course Here

The sixth annual free cooking school and better homes exposition conducted by the Avalanche-Journal for its women readers, is to open at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to continue through Friday. Lectures will be in the Up Town Dance Palace.

With the arrival of Mrs. Myra Oliver Dougan, culinary expert to conduct this school, new ideas for home making and new food combinations for cooking will be brought to the women of Lubbock and the South Plains as this is Mrs. Lougan's first school in the city.

A feature of the school will be the awarding of attendance prizes each day during the school.

Mrs. Dougan has been recommended as one of the most expert teachers, whose lectures will appeal to the housewife in her daily preparation of meals as well as on occasions when she wishes to prepare extraordinary dishes. This expert is described as having an abundance of Irish wit which adds to the appeal of her lectures.

No Charge For School

No charges will be made for attendance at this school and ample seating space is provided in the recently erected palace where the school is to be conducted. Women will find it convient to attend daily although each lecture is complete and pencils and notebooks may be brought to record recipes and other help given by this expert.

With the cooperation of businesses in this city, equipment has been secured for the school. The Meier Music company is furnishing Victrola music which will be played while the women gather each afternoon. Other firms which have contributed to the school include the following with their products:

Davis Brothers, Frigidaire; Mistletoe Creameries, butter; M System, groceries and flour; Martin Baking company, Butternut bread; Maytag Shop, washing machine; Moore Brothers, cooking utensils; Sherrod Brothers, Detroit gas range and G. E. Vacuum sweeper; McDonald Packing company, meats; Bowen's Drug Store, toiletries; Bumpass Steam Laundry, laundry; Barrier Brothers, house frocks; Bell Ice Cream, ice cream; A. United States To Build Dirigibles Of Gigantic Size

Two Craft Will Dwarf Even Graf Zeppelin; German Ship Ready For Return Starting Today

(By Associated Press)

AKRON, O., Oct. 27.—The world's two largest dirigibles, to be constructed for the United States navy at a cost of $8,000,000, will be built in this city, it was announced today by Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation.

Construction of the hangar for the pair of air Leviathans, which will almost dwarf both the Los Angeles, now the pride of the navy, and the Graf Zeppelin, the world's largest dirigible, which made the first commercial crossing of the Atlantic, will be started as soon as the city provides an airport, the announcement said.

The new ships will have a cruising range of 9,500 miles. It is expected five years will be required for their construction, once actual

County Ginnings Take Spurt With 8200 Up To Date

City Of Lubbock Leads, Slaton Next And Idalou Close Third In Week's Report On Harvest

Cotton opened rapidly in Lubbock county during the past week, and with the steady influx of cotton labor from other parts of the state the harvest got into full swing.

Reports from Avalanche-Journal correspondents throughout the county showed that more than 8,200 bales had been ginned up through Saturday.

Maturity is advanced over the same date for last year, ginnings to this time in 1927 being approximately 5000 bales.

Pickers are still badly needed.

Estimates now place the probable yield here at more than 40,000 bales, some ranging up to an optimistic 50,000 bales. County Agent D. F. Eaton has estimated the crop at 35,000 bales.

The city of Lubbock led in gin-

Wheelock, Avowed Opponent Of Smith, Gets Vote Of Allegiance; Two Present Oppose Action

Passing resolutions of "allegiance to Frank E. Wheelock as its duly elected chairman," and placing the committee on record as "opposed to the nomination of Gov. Alfred E. Smith as the presidential candidate of the party," and "absolving the voters of Lubbock county from any allegiance to the said Alfred E. Smith as the presidential candidate of the Democratic party," members of the Lubbock County Democratic Executive Committee, in a called session here yesterday afternoon, reopened the local political war on a brand new front.

The committee meeting, said to have been called by James H. Goodman, one of its members, was held in the District courtroom on the third floor of the courthouse. Ten members of the committee were present and one of those had proxies for 11 of the other members. There are 32 precincts in the county, and a member of the committee for each precinct.

Two Oppose Resolutions.

Two members of the committee present voted against both resolutions. These were J. H. Snyder and F. W. Day. The others present were, F. E. Wheelock, L. C. Ellis, J. H. Teague, J. P. Vance, L. W. Wilkie, A. R. Shipp, N. C. Dixon and John L. Ratliff. Proxies were held by Mr. Ratliff for 11 other members, as follows: W. A. Fincher, J. M. Sherrod, J. L. Brabham, S. C. Marrs, F. B. Tudor, D. B. Williamson, W. J. Baker, E. R. Davis, J. B. Reid and W. E. Ballew.

In opening the gathering, Chairman Wheelock stated that the meeting had been called at the request of James H. Goodman, another member, who was not present,

'High Flight' Is Starting Today

"High Flight," a smashing romance of modern times with all the thrills of present day aviation in it, begins today on Page 12, Section 2, of your Avalanche-Journal. Other chapters will follow daily in the Lubbock Morning Avalanche.

An NEA serial—which newspaper fiction readers of the South Plains know is a mark of distinction, "High Flight" was written by Ruth Dewey Groves, author of "When A Girl Loves," "Love For Two," and other successes. It is appearing in newspaper form for the first time.

Read the opening chapters today and you'll never miss one throughout the run of this high class serial.

Artillery Shoot Set November 25

The artillery shoot of Battery C of the 131st Field Artillery at the Bud Johnston ranch which has been scheduled for today has been postponed until November 25, the Sunday previous to Thanksgiving, Captain Harold H. Griffith announced yesterday.

Orders from headquarters necessitated the change, officials of the war department postponing the date.

An elaborate affair is planned of the annual shoot and many rounds of bullets will be fired both from the big guns and the machine guns. The public is invited to attend the shooting. Targets are to be placed below the rim of a canyon so that a good sight of the shooting will be given.

Drug Store's Prize Collection Of 'Cold Checks' Representing $500 Uncollected, Purloined Here

Between $400 and $600 worth of "cold" checks were stolen from the City Drug Store No. 1 at an early hour Saturday night according to E. L. Robertson, owner of the City drug Stores, and the party, or parties, who stole them were busy passing them before the night was over.

Mr. Robertson stated that his first knowledge of the theft was about 9:30 when a filling station operator, on Avenue H, called him to ask if he had given any checks as change, naming the man to whom one was made out. In looking for a cigar box, in which he was keeping his assortment of "cold" checks, Mr. Robertson then discovered that the box and all had been taken.

The man mentioned, whose name was on this particular check, is in the state penitentiary, serving a sentence for having passed similar checks, Mr. Robertson stated.

The checks are all made out to the City Drug Stores, on Lubbock National Bank blanks Robertson having endorsed them on the back in making his deposits there.

A warning has been sent to business concerns in this city by they sheriff's department, and all are asked to be on the lookout for possible attempts to pass these checks off by the ones who stole them. It is hoped that one or more of the culprits will be caught in the act of trying to pass one of the checks.

Bad Luck Stalks; Car Next Stolen

Bad luck stalks Mr. Robertson it seems. Within half an hour after he had told the Avalanche-Journal of the "cold" check episode, he returned to the editorial offices with the information that when he went to get in his car to go home it had been stolen.

The car is a Chevrolet coupe, 1928 model, license number 666-632. One means of identification is that the spare tire is off.

Building Permits $51,500 For Week

During the week closing Saturday, Lubbock's building permits showed a total of $51,500. Saturday's record was $10,250 for four permits, bringing the month's entire record to $162,550 and the year's to $2,925,169. There have been 42 permits issued this month and 609 for the year. Saturday's permits were to the following:

Dick Lindly, 2320 Eight Street, six room brick veneer residence, $4,000. E. H. Dye, 1812 Avenue J, five room brick veneer residence, $5,000. G. H. Watkins, 2405 Main street, three room brick veneer residence, $1,000. W. H. Meador, 603 Avenue F, two room frame dwelling, $250.

Bledsoe, Texas' Largest Shipping Point For Sheep And Cattle Takes Step Into Future By Forming C. C.

Better Highways and More People Cited As Paramount Need Of Section In Talks At Meeting

Citizens of Bledsoe, the largest cattle and sheep shipping point in Texas today, took a look both into the past and the future Friday night at a meeting of the Bledsoe Chamber of Commerce and regenerated their community power machine to accomplish, to a greater extent, the things the organization is doing to develop Bledsoe and the Bledsoe trade area.

Gathered around heavily laden tables in the new $100,000 school building, the members of the Bledsoe Chamber of Commerce heard Toastmaster C. L. Vaughn, superintendent of the Bledsoe school, state that 4,000 head of cattle had been shipped out of Bledsoe during October, that 12,000 head of sheep were shipped out this week, that over $500,000 has been paid the people in the Bledsoe trade territory in the past six months for oil leases and royalties, and other facts about the country.

Need Better Highways

W. L. Wade, president of the Bledsoe Chamber of Commerce, stated that Bledsoe's biggest need are better highways and more people. He stated that the Chamber of Commerce had on its program for the coming year the securing of better roads out of Bledsoe in each direction, the securing of a mail route to a neighbor community, and of getting as much publicity as possible to attract new settlers. He stated that cotton will yield from one-third to one-half bale per acre and that the location of a gin at Bledsoe next year is expected. Efforts will be made to secure a grain elevator and better loading facilities for the thousands of head of livestock that are shipped out of Bledsoe. Wade explained that cattle and sheep were brought in to Bledsoe for a radius of 50 miles and that the little city now holds the position of the biggest stock shipping point in Texas.

J. L. Westman, and A. G. Guy, vocational agricultural teacher, also made talks.

S. A. Dobman, Hockley county agent, and Judge J. R. Cope, of Levelland extended greetings from the city of Levelland and the Levelland Chamber of Commerce.

Davis, Reeves Attend

A. B. Davis and Garnet Reeves attended the meeting, representing Lubbock. Details of the South Plains advertising campaign which will bring in thousands of people to this section were explained. Davis expressed Lubbock's desire to work with Bledsoe and every other town on the South Plains in the upbuilding of the Plains.

"It is the friendly, cooperative spirit that exists between the towns on the Plains that is building this section," Davis said.

With good crops and with interest in oil drilling increasing, Bledsoe is going into the winter optimistic. Land owners are getting from one to three dollars and a half per acre for leases and five dollars per acre for royalties that has brought in thousands of dollars to the people of the Bledsoe trade territory.

The Bledsoe High School is one of the most modern in the South Plains section.

During the program Miss Meredith Knox gave a reading and a chorus of girls sang several songs. Miss Wilma Robbins, teacher at the Bledsoe school directed the chorus and accompanied at the piano. Members of the chorus were: Misses Louise King, Katy Chunn, Blondiana Tupman, Artie Gandy, Ruth Lewis, Marcellee Bowers and Agnes Passmore.

Merchandise Booths

There will be several booths of merchandise displayed by local men at the school.

Inquiries which have been received by the Avalanche-Journal relative to this school indicate that this exposition will be the greatest that has been conducted. Women who have attended in the past five years are preparing to come this year to learn of late methods of food preparation and of new dishes that may make the daily preparation of meals in their home less of a burden.

Palatable combinations of food which will be an addition to meals and yet will utilize the same foods will be demonstrated by Mrs. Dougan, who is said to be an expert at using left-overs and building savory dishes out of the common foods. Her lectures will deal with the making of better homes as well as the preparation of foods.

Announcement of Mrs. Dougan's daily programs will be made upon her arrival here tomorrow. Classes are open promptly at 2:30 o'clock each afternoon to continue for two hours, closing with the awarding of attendance prizes.

campus and shortly afterward police said, confessed to the holdups and slayings and implicated James R. (Dick) Gologly, 18, of Atlanta, freshman, who was arrested at Athens, Ga, where he was watching the Georgia-Tulane football game.

The seires of holdups, during which E. H. Meek, a grocrey clerk, and Willard Smith, a druggist, were slain, and L. V. Ellis, manager of a chain store, wounded, began early this month.

Detectives found the blood stained trousers and traced them to Harsh, who says his mother is a widow of Milwaukee, Wis., and his arrest followed.

Harsh, when under questioning, detailed to officers how he and Gologly made almost nightly excursions to rob neighborhood groceries and drug stores, "for a thrill."

Taking all blame for the two slayings, police said, Harsh told them he opened fire on the men because he wanted a "greater thrill."

Harsh is the brother of Mrs. J. S. Disosway, wife of a young Atlanta broker, while Gologly is the son of Mrs. Worth E. Yankey, wife of a prominent Atlanta physician.

which he supposed was for the purpose of "trying to oust him as chairman." Mr. Ratliff was appointed temporary secretary, and in calling the roll, eight committeemen answered present, with Mr. Ratliff calling out the names of 11 proxies which he held.

Letter Is Read.

Mr. Wheelock read a portion of the letter which Mr. Goodman was said to have sent to every precinct committeeman. In this letter as quoted the following statements were said to have been made: "I am with them to the gallows if they come and vote on election day."

"I, a member of the Democratic Executive Committee of Lubbock county, believe it to be my duty to help endorse the national platform of the Democratic party, to help endorse the party and all its candidates, and call upon all Democrats to support the party and vote for the entire Democratic ticket in the coming November election."

Loyalty Pledge Requested.

The letter also stated that, "as the county chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, as nominated in the July primary, is not in sympathy with this resolution, I, as a member of the said committee, and chairman of the national campaign in this county, hereby request that each of you sign the above pledge as an act of loyalty to the party and return to my office, or bring with you."

Mr. Wheelock declared that this was the third attempt of Mr. Goodman and C. B. Powell, in trying to "kick him out of office." He then read the following prepared resolution:

"Be it resolved by the Democratic Executive Committee of Lubbock county, assembled at a called meeting, called by James H. Goodman, a member of said committee, to assemble at the courthouse of said county on Oct. 27, 1928:

"That it is the deliberate sense and conviction of this committee that the Hon. F. E. Wheelock is now, and has been since July the 28th, 1928, at which date he was elected by over 5,000 Democrats, the regular, bona fide county chairman of the Democratic party in Lubbock county, and as such chairman this committee pledges to him its full support in the discharge of all the duties incumbent upon him as such chairman."

Ratliff Makes Motion.

Upon motion of John L. Ratliff, the resolution was adopted, only Messrs. Snyder and Day voting against it.

At this point Charles F. O'Neall, chairman of this senatorial district's anti-Smith organization, who is not a member of the executive committee, offered and read the following resolution:

"Be it resolved by the Democratic Executive Committee of Lubbock county, Texas, assembled at a called meeting, called by James H. Goodman, a member of said committee, to assemble at the courthouse of said county on Oct. 27, 1928:

"That the committee go on record as opposed to the nomination of Alfred E. Smith as the presidential candidate of the Democratic party on the grounds that the said Alfred E. Smith has "bolted" the national Democratic platform in many respects, but more particularly in that he has bolted the prohibition plank of the national Democratic platform; and that the voters of Lubbock county, Texas, be hereby absolved from any allegiance to the said Alfred E. Smith, as the presidential candidate of the Democratic party."

On motion this resolution was passed, with the same two voting against it, as named above in the action on the other resolution.

Motion to adjourn was made and passed, as Mr. Goodman came into the courtroom. The only comment Mr. Goodman would make after the meeting was that he wanted to find out just how the committee members stood on supporting the party ticket.

Is Part of Old Battle.

The meeting marked a new and unexpected flare-up of a battle which has been waged here for more than two months between Mr. Wheelock and his co-operators in the "bolting" wing of the party in Lubbock county, and by Mr. Goodman and other members of the "regular" faction. Mr. Wheelock, elected executive committee chairman in 1926, and re-elected to the office in the party's first primary this year, has taken an active part in the anti-Smith organization of the 30th Senatorial District of Texas, composed of 24 Plains counties. He is vice-chairman of that organization at the present time.

Staunch Smith supporters on the committee made an effort to oust him several weeks ago by declaring his office vacant and appointing C. B. Powell, a Smith adherent, in the place. Mr. Wheelock, however, has refused to vacate the office.

H. B. O'Neall, principal of the Center school, while in Lubbock Saturday, stated that at a Hallowe'en masquerade and box supper Friday night, a total of $2 was raised, which will be put into new playground equipment for the school.

Gas Tank

courtrooms, striking down fleeing office workers and visitors as they struggled for the open air and prisoners' screams for rescue rose above the din.

Firemen Make Rescues

Firemen equipped with makeshift gas masks went through the lower floors bringing out persons trapped in their offices, while other squads reached the upper floors by extension ladders from fire trucks. Several dozen persons climbed to safety down the ladders and others were brought down on firemens' backs.

All of those taken to hospitals were discharged within a few hours. Beyond rasping coughs and temporarily effected eyesights, physicians said they would suffer no harm.

Within a few minutes after the valve was blown from the tank when P. M. Wallace, a negro porter, picked it up in the office of L. H. Salter sanitary engineer, the poisonous gas had climbed the elevator shafts and stairways and invaded the civil district courtrooms.

Judge Russell McElroy of Civil District Court, and Judge I. G. Brooks of the court of misdemeanors, together with several attaches of their respective courts were among those brought to safety by the firemen and revived at hospitals.

Coroner Trapped

Coroner J. D. Russum was trapped in his office on the fourth floor of the courthouse annex, accessible by a narrow stairway which quickly filled with a fighting scrambling mass seeking to gain the fresh air and reach the elevator, which stopped when J. W. Moore, the operator, was overcome by the fumes.

Both Russum's legs have been amputated and it was necessary for firemen to bring him out. He was revived at a hospital.

A crowd quickly gathered about the court house building and lines of police were thrown about the building to prevent the spectators from entering.

Mike Milligan, jailer, whose office is near where the tank exploded, was among the first to be overcome. He revived on reaching the open air and led rescue parties back into the jail to administer to the prisoners, switching on electric fans as he progressed.

Among other hero sufferers from the gas was Moore, the elevator operator. He brought down several loads of passengers in his car before slumping over the controls, unconscious. He was found by firemen and sent to a hospital.

Jorman Faces Charge Of Criminal Assault

SHERMAN, Oct. 27. (AP)—Silas Jorman, accused of having attacked a white woman in Cook county, will go to trial here Monday. The case was docketed today after it had been transferred from Gainesville because of the possibility of violence there.

SHOTGUNS BARK

And Another Chicago 'Boss' Is Laid Low

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (AP)—Shotguns today eliminated one of the candidates for the post held by Tony Lombardo, head of the powerful Italian Society, Unione Siciliana, who was assassinated on a loop corner a few weeks ago.

The man removed from further consideration for Tony's job today was Peter Rizzoto, 43, merchant in malt, hops and brewery accessories. He stepped out of his office near "death corner" in Little Italy with his six-year-old son to be met by a hail of leaden pellets from two sawed off shotguns in the hands of two assassins who fired from a distance of ten feet.

BAGGETT TRIAL ENDS

Case Rests In Hands Of Cameron Jury

CAMERON, Oct. 27. (AP)—The case of Neal Baggott, on trial here for the slaying of A. A. Beatty, his step-son-in-law, last August, went to the jury late today after the defendant had taken the stand.

Baggett testified he had his knife oin his hand by accident and that he was attacked by Beatty. He said he defended himself, but that he had no memory of having cut his son-in-law. He denied that he ever had threatened his step-daughter or her husband.

Political Bombing Fares in Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (AP)—Dynamite exploded tonight in a garage at the rear of the apartment building where Judge William J. Lindsay, Democratic candidate for state's attorney of Cook county, resides, gave rise to fears that the November 6 election might be preceded by disorders such as preceded the April primaries.

The explosive wrecked the frame garage, and shook the neighborhood. It did not damage the apartment building, however.

Judge Lindsay and his family for the last few weeks have been living in a hotel and were not in their apartment when the explosion occurred. He is opposing Judge John A. Swanson, Republican, whose home was bombed two weeks before the April primaries.

Water Power And Farm Relief Are Cited As Issues

Monopoly Of Natural Resources Is Characterized As Most Vital Question To American People

(By Associated Press)

OMAHA, Oct. 27.—U. S. Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, progressive republican, tonight declared his support for Alfred E. Smith for president because of the democratic candidate's stand on water-power and farm relief.

Senator Norris, speaker at a meeting under the auspices of the Progressive League for Alfred E. Smith, scored Herbert Hoover for his opposition to the McNary-Haugen and other bills for relief of agriculture and to public ownership of water power facilities, and for his silence on the oil scandals and corruption.

Norris said he did not agree with Smith's views on prohibition, but that he was confident he would enforce the law, which, he said, has not yet been attempted.

"The most important question for solution now before the American people is the preservation of our God-given natural resources, and this brings us at once to the consideration of the power question," he said. "I myself cannot understand how any man who loves human liberty, who loves his country, can stand idly by and remain silent while this attempt to overthrow our government and destroy our liberty is going on.

Power Trust Greatest

"Recent developments have clearly shown that the power trust is the greatest monopolist organization that has ever been put together by human ingenuity. The property controlled by this great combination is greater than the total value of all the railroads in the United States.

"With its slimy fingers it reaches into every community and levies its tribute on every fireside. It has secretly controlled college professors and high school teachers and has systematically undertaken to build up a sentiment in its favor by control of the press.

"These disclosures were all public and were known when the recent republican national convention met, and yet that platform contains not a single word in condemnation. The democratic convention was, in its platform, likewise as silent as the grave on this subject. When Mr. Hoover made his speech of acceptance he likewise was silent. It remained for Governor Smith to denounce the activities of this great monopoly. For his courageous stand on this, the most important issue now confronting the American people, he is entitled to the warmest praise and commendation regardless of politics or of party.

Transcends Other Issues

"The importance of the question transcends any party consideration. Never before in the history of our country has there been such a startling disclosure of a mammoth attack at the very foundation cornerstone that supports our government fabric never in history has there been anything that will compare with it, and regardless of politics, regardless of everything else involved in this campaign, it seems to me the people of the country must rise in defense of our liberties, in defense of our common country and they must do it soon before we are helpless within the clutches and the control of this giant monopoly.

"Governor Smth's attitude on on this question places him side by side with that great father of national conservation, Theodore Roosevelt. Have we so soon forgotton Roosevelt, the doctrine which he advocated and the policies for which he stood? He many times called attention to the dangers which beset us if we permitted monopoly to control the water powers of this nation."

Senator Norris said that the plan for state development submitted by Governor Smith was similar to the plan for Muscle Shoals vetoed by President Coolidge.

Norris said that Hoover, after seven years of inaction, has come forward with three remedies for the agricultural problem. The first —tariff—, he said was non-effective. The St. Lawrence canal or an all-American canal he termed impractical, since "neither offers relief within the life of the present generation." The third—assistance to cooperative organization—he said could not achieve the desired result.

He said that one of the greatest influences which twice defeated the bill reported by the senate committee on agriculture was Herbert Hoover and reviewed his opposition to the McNary-Haugen bill, twice vetoed by President Coolidge "In his Omaha speech," Senator Norris said, "Governor Smith came out courageously and frankly in endorsement of the principle involved in the McNary-Haugen bill.

Band Wagon Will Be Kept Rolling Until November 6

Thorough Campaign, To Cover All Precincts, Is Planned By County "Regular" Demo Forces

Looking toward turning down the home-stretch of the race for the prize of ballots on November 6, the South Plains Democratic club announce many appearances of their Band Wagon at different points over this area, with a thorough campaign of speeches to be made at practically every voting precinct in Lubbock county.

In the special drive in Lubbock county, the Democratic campaigners are going to lay particular stress on reaching the farmers and women. Starting Monday night, the following rallies will be held, each to be in the school house of the district named:

Monday night: Monroe. Speakers H. T. Kimbro, Senator Pink L. Parrish, Robert Bean.

Wolffarth—James H. Goodman, J. O. Jones and C. B. Powell.

Hardy—Judge E. L. Klett, Wade Hardy and J. H. Hankins.

Tuesday night: Acuff—J. E. Vickers, Vaughn Wilson and Bob Murray.

Woodrow—Hill Stewart, Frank Brown and Joe Hess.

New Hope—W. W. Campbell, Judge Dennis Kemp and J. H Brewer.

Grovesville—L. A. Howard, J. A Humphries.

The Band Wagon will be at Lorenzo on Tuesday night, also.

Wednesday night: Foster—W. W Campbell, Vaughn Ilson.

Carlisle—Senator Pink L. Parrish, H. T. Kimbro.

Canyon—C. B. Powell, J. H. Goodman.

Caldwell—E. L. Klett, L. A. Howard.

Center—Robert Bean, W. S. Posey.

On Thursday night a special meeting will be held at Southland, with the following members of the Band Wagon scheduled for speeches: Dennis Kemp, Durwood Bradley, Owen W. McWhorter, W. L. Metcalf.

Saturday afternoon and Saturday night, yesterday, the Band Wagon went to Hale Center and Abernathy, respectively, with another rally held at Seagraves.

At Hale Center and Abernathy speakers were Judge Clark M. Mullican, Judge L. S. Kinder, of Plainview; Owen McWhorter, Vaughn Wilson. At the Seagraves rally, speakers were J. K. Wester, L. A. Howard, J. H. Hankins.

Another rally was held Saturday afternoon at Littlefield, at which W. W. Campbell and Charles Triplett spoke.

Shoes Prove Tracer For Sherman Thief

SHERMAN, Oct. 27. (AP)—H. J. Hopper bought a pair of new boots and threw his old shoes away.

But his old shoes continued to bother him, with the result that he pleaded guilty to theft of about $2,500 from Steve Wilson, a farmer who lives near Denison, and all but $31 of the money has been recovered.

Hopper purchased a pair of boots at a Denison store. His old footgear was thrown into a trash box.

When an officer arrested him at Van Alstyne for passing worthless checks, he asked about the new boots. Hopper told where he had bought them. The officer recovered the old shoes and fitted them into tracks on the Wilson farm where humidors had been found containing the money stolen from Wilson.

O'Neall Answers Alleged Charges

In an interview Saturday afternoon, Charles F. O'Neall, chairman of the Anti-Smith or Hoover, organization for the South Plains district, stated that "one of the methods the democrats have used to try to discredit and hurt," the anti-Smith campaign, has been told at several towns over this section. He said that they have been telling people in these towns that his, O'Neall's reason for taking part in this campaign is that he is a republican.

"At Littlefield," he declared, "I was designated as a California republican. I just want to say that my personal politics should not count for or against Herbert Hoover, but that I want to correct the statements made and to inform the opposition that I was born and raised in Texas, cast my first presidential vote for William Jennings Bryan, and have voted for every democratic nominee since that time including John. W. Davis.

Cites Democratic Record

"I was chairman of the democratic county central committee in San Diego, Cal., in 1912-13, when Wilson was first elected, and was chairman of the national democratic congressional committee for the seven southern counties of California, in 1916, and that we carried San Diego and this district for Woodrow Wilson.

"In 1918 I received the democratic nomination in San Diego county for state senator and also received the prohibition nomination for the same office. I ran 5,000 ahead of the democratic ticket, but was defeated by the republican party nominee.

"I was mayor of San Diego at the time of the Panama-California International exposition, this office being a non-partisan one. This is my political record and for the information of those who question my right to vote for Hoover, I want to say that Vance McCormick, who was chairman of the party in 1916, and thousands of other Wilson democrats, are going to vote for Hoover."

Regulation of Gas Prices Is Boosted

DALLAS, Oct. 27. (AP)—Investigation of gasoline prices in Texas already has convinced him that state regulation is imperative, Attorney General Claude Pollard said here today.

"We have discovered that the people of Dallas are paying $60,000 per month more for their gasoline than the people of San Antonio pay for the same quantity," he said. "The price in Dallas is three cents per gallon higher than in San Antonio, without any apparent reason for the difference."

Pollard said he will urge regulatory laws before the next session of the Texas Legislature.

PASTOR IN POLITICS

Rev. S. H. Erwin Makes Talk In Defense

Declaring that "all Protestant preachers should do their utmost to help in 'this crisis where prohibition and home ideals are at stake'," Rev. S. H. Erwin, pastor of the Nazarene church here, spoke to a gathering of 72 persons at the Hoover-for-president headquarters yesterday afternoon.

The speaker contrasted the views of Governor Smith and Mr. Hoover on prohibition and told his hearers that the wet and dry issue was a predominant one.

W. R. Campbell will address a similar gathering tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock.

Hoover Will Call Farm Congress If Necessary, Pledge

Republican Nominee In A Statement Characterizes Farm Aid as Most Prominent of Campaign Issues

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Herbert Hoover will call an extra session of Congress, if necessary, to deal with agricultural relief legislation in the event the republican party retains control of the government.

The presidential candidate in a formal statement today said agricultural aid is the most urgent economic problem before the country and that its solution should not be delayed for a whole year. This delay would be inevitable, he believes, is such legislation should not be enacted at the coming session and the new Congress did not meet until a year from next December.

"The question of a special session of Congress after March 4, in event of the return of the republican party, has been under discussion for some time," Mr. Hoover's statement said. "There are a number of questions, particularly agricultural relief, which urgently require solution and should not be delayed for a whole year. It is our most urgent economic problem.

"I should hope it can be dealt with at the regular session this fall, and thus a special session be avoided. If, however, that cannot be accomplished, I would, if elected, not allow the matter to drift and would of necessity call an extra session so as to secure early constructive action."

Hoover's statement followed one by Senator Borah, Idaho, issued after a luncheon conference with the nominee yesterday, in which the Senator declared strongly in favor of an extra session of Congress at the coming session did not satisfactorily conclude relief legislation.

Levelland Man On Road Committee

John H. Doyle of Levelland, former county judge of Hockley county, ranchman and president of one of the Levelland banks, has been appointed as a representative of the Thirtieth Senatorial District on the state-wide committee, which will work for highway legislation at the next session of the State Legislature.

This committee is being organized at the suggestion of Gov. Dan Moody, he having written to all state representatives and state senators, asking them to select a man from each senatorial district to serve on the committee.

Before the next session of the Legislature convenes, which will be early in January, this committee will meet and work out several recommendations for highway legislation. Mr. Doyle was selected following conferences between Pink L. Parrish and all the state representatives of this senatorial district, of 24 counties.

AGED WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Amanda Jackson Aged 87, Dead

Mrs. Amanda Jackson, 87, years and 1 month and 22 days, of age, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Wayland at 8:47 Saturday night, of posterior pneumonia.

The deceased was born at Rome, Ga., in 1841, her parents being Seth and Eliza Ward. She lived at Honest Ridge, near Mexia, from the age of 12 and until her marriage to John B. Fogarty. To this union 10 children were born, only three surviving her. These are W. J. Fogarty, of Waco; J. A. Fogarty, of Post; and Mrs. Wayland of this city.

Hooverites Plan Rallies In Home Stretch Campaign

District Will Be Covered With Pamphlets, Sample Ballots, Local Leaders In Move Say

Hooverites, hoping to carry this district for the Republican candidate on November 6, have several rallies scheduled and are planning to distribute sample ballots with literature, throughout the entire South Plains section, between now and election day, Charles F. O'Neall, chairman, announced Saturday.

Dr. J. W. Hunt of Abilene, president of McMurry College, will speak to a rally of Lubbock Hoover supporters, in the District courtroom at the courthouse, on Wednesday night, beginning at 7:30.

Beginning Monday, every day at 12:40, noon, speaking will be had at Hoover headquarters, 913 Broadway. All speakers will be local men and women. Meetings at various places throughout the district, will be held at night.

Mr. O'Neall stated that the Hoover organization has made arrangements for complete telegraphic returns of the election on the night of November 6. An operator will be stationed at their headquarters to receive and send messages, and the same election service to be had at any place will be available there. Results will be announced as they come in.

Three Meetings Are Staged Saturday

The Hoover-for-president speakers held three meetings yesterday out of Lubbock.

E. B. Speck and W. R. Blake spoke at Muleshoe at 4 o'clock and at Ropesville at 8 o'clock.

O. W. Shilling and Chas F. O'Neall, spoke to the voters at County Line at 8 o'clock. A good attendance was reported at these meetings and a strong sentiment for Hoover was noted.

Trinity Battles Gamely But To No Avail; Hume Star

Mustang Ace Gallops Over Goal Line Four Times As Scoring Total Mounts To New High Level

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 27.—A staunch Trinity university defense which limited S. M. U. to a pair of touchdowns during the first half of the contest late in the game, and led by the always-elusive Redman Hume, the Mustangs steamrollered their weary and battered opponents into submission, 60 to 7, here today.

"The Galloping Gazzelle" was responsible for four of the Ponies' touchdowns to further brand himself as the Southwest conference's leading scorer, and when not dashing through a broken field for substantial gains, Hume was hurling long passes that baffled the Tiger backfield.

Makes Long Run.

Late in the fourth quarter he took Hill's punt on his own 36-yard line and sped, sidestepping and squirming through a mass of Trinity tacklers for a touchdown. Less than five minutes later the Mustang ace started from midfield and again raced across the goal line.

Captain Allen was a bulwark of defense in the Trinity line before it cracked from constant battering and Hill and Hale, backs, gave a second-string Pony lineup many anxious moments early in the contest as they swept past the ends behind perfect interference.

S. M. U. counted in the first three minutes of play, when Ellington went around right end and the Texas conference eleven tied the count on Hill's long pass which placed the oval on the Mustang 27-yard line. Hill and Hale punched away as the big Red and Blue line and although Captain Baccus of the Mustangs was sent in to stop the breach, Hill slipped through for a touchdown.

Fumbles and bad passes cost the Tigers heavily. They missed a possible touchdown when Hill dropped the ball on the Mustang 20-yare line and the ball went over. Other miscues proved similarly disastrous.

Idalou Trounces Lorenzo, 19 to 0

IDALOU, Oct. 27.—Executing their plays with accuracy and precision, the Idalou high school Wildcat eleven trounced the Lorenzo high team here yesterday by the score of 19 to 0.

During the first half the teams battled to a scoreless draw, apparently evenly matched. The Idalou lads, however, struck their scoring stride in the second half, with Captain Yarbrough, Earl Yarbrough and Shepherd, backs, gaining consistently. Captain Yarbrough counted first with a ten yard line smash and Wheeler took the next one with a 50 yard gallop through a broken field. Weaver's catch of a 20 yard pass scored the third and final tally.

Idalou has an open date on November 2 and is ready to match a game with any high school in this section. The Wildcats are willing to play the game either at home or abroad, Coach L. F. Swinney said today.

PURDUE WINS, 40-0

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (AP)—Purdue's Boiler Makers today rubbed Chicago in the dirt of Stagg Field as Chicago had never been rubbed before. The final score was Purdue 40; Chicago 0.

It was Purdue's fifth victory over the Maroons in more than three decades of rivalry between the two schools, but today's carnage repulsed those defeats.

Catholic Defense Crumbles Before Baylor's Assault

Baylor Backs Run Wild And Pile Up Decisive Margin Of Points In Annual Tilt With Austin Eleven

WACO, Oct. 27.—The Baylor Bears went wild here today and whipped St. Edwards University all over Carroll Field. The score was 48 to 7, and 27 of Baylor's counters came in the final period.

It was the fiery Gilliland, Baylor's plunging and side-stepping halfback, who led the Bruins to their overwhelming victory. He climaxed his day of glory with an 80-yard run for a touchdown in the closing moments of the game, after intercepting a St. Edwards' pass. He ran through and around the entire Saint team without being touched.

The Saints, playing good football held the Bears scoreless during the first period, but early in the second, Wilson, Baylor quarterback tossed a 38-yard pass into Potter's arms to the Saint ten yard line and a few minutes later carried the ball over. Potter kicked the extra point.

The second touchdown came when Wilson threw another pass to Lucas which placed the ball in scoring distance. McElreath plunging it over across guard. McElreath also added point.

Saints Score in Second

St. Edwards' only score came in the opening period of the second half, with a second string Baylor team in. Kiersky, Baylor safety man fumbled a punt which the Saints recovered and rammed over in a series of line plunges. Dyer made the touchdown and Sarafiny added the point with a place kick.

Baylor also scored one in this period, when Lewter, Bruin end intercepted a pass back of the Saint line of scrimmage deep in St. Edward's territory. McElreath placed kicked.

Makes 65 Yard Run

In the hectic fourth quarter, Gilliland, one of the regulars Coach Jennings sent back in for Baylor, returned the kick off 65 yards, and Washam carried the ball across the goal line for Baylor, and a few minutes later, received a pass from Nobile to score again. Lewter added the point both times. Baylor's next score came when Douglas recovered a fumble deep in St. Edward's territory and Nobile bucked the ball across, Lewter's place kick failing. Gilliland's 80-yard dash and Lewter's added point closed the game.

The lineup:

Baylor	Pos.	St. Edwards
Lucas	L E	Brotherman
Griffin	L T	Krause
Winton	L G	Jewell

Final Spurt Wins For Sul Ross Team

Teachers Take Thrilling Battle From A. C. C. Cats 21 To 14; Wicker's Run Saves The Game

ALPINE, Oct. 27. (AP)—The Sul Ross Teachers won their hair-raising football game from Abilene Christian college here today when Wicker, Lobo fullback barged across the line in the final seconds of play to break a tie and win 21 to 14.

Abilene ran wild in the first period, Stevens making long gains through the Sul Ross team and chalking up a touchdown. When the ball came into Sul Ross' possession, however the tide shifted and Withers and Cowan crashed across the Abilene line to give Sul Ross a 14 to 7 lead.

In the third quarter Abilene tied the score and from that point on the game was a deadlock until the final seconds of play when Wicker got away for his touchdown.

Hagen Wins Open Golf Championship

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 27. (AP)—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, defeated Johnny Farrell, American titleholder, 5 and 4 in the fifth and final 36-hole match between the pair to decide the unofficial world's golf championship at the St. Louis country club today.

Longhorns Win Sparkling Victory Over Rice Owls In Saturday Game, 13 To 6

How They Catch 'Em for Rockne!

For the first time in the series of annual games between the two, Georgia Tech licked Notre Dame when the Irish came down to Atlanta, Ga., and received a 13 to 0 passing. Colerick, Irish left end, is shown snagging a pass which netted a 20-yard gain for Notre Dame.

Houston Owls Lose But Only After A Tough Battle

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Oct. 27.—In as sparkling gridiron battle as Southwest conference fans will witness this season, Coach Littlefield's Texas Longhorns defeated Rothgeb's fighting Rice Owls, 13 to 6, today.

The sight of that fiercely charging Blue and Gray line thrusting back the heavier Longhorn forwards will linger long in the memory of the 9,000 fans who saw the battle.

The proteges of Rothgeb outplayed the Longhorns the first half and recovery of a Rice fumble made it possible for the Steers to score their first half touchdown and lead Rice, 7 to 6, at the half.

Play Contested.

Rice coaches, players and as many of its supporters contend Tommy Hughes, big Texas back, "stole" the ball from Payne, who had fumbled, and that Payne in reality had recovered his own fumble. Up to that unfortunate break, the Owls had outplayed Texas to run up 6 to 0 lead. Recovery of that fumble gave the mighty Baldwin a chance to supply the punch that drove over Texas' first counter.

Rice's touchdown in the second quarter was the reward of a sustained drive.

Steers Get Break.

Another break gave the Longhorns a touchdown a few minutes before the first half ended. With the ball on his own 40-yard line, Payne got the ball on a triple pass. He fumbled. Several players leaped for the ball. Hughes finally came up with the leather and carried it to the Owl 25-yard line. There was a commotion on the Rice bench. The Owl coaches apparently figured Hughes had taken the ball away from a Rice player, after a Rice man had covered the pigskin.

The lineup:

Texas (13)	Position	Rice (6)
Rhodes	LE	Power
Brown	LT	Hyde
Tigner	LG	Blackstone
Burnett	C	Morgan
Sewell	RG	Jones
Mills	RT	Knippel (c)
Vining	RE	Scoenfield

Hornsby Trade Is Again in Spotlight

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (AP)—Reports that Rogers Hornsby, baseball's man without a country, had been traded by the Boston Braves to the Chicago Cubs for a sum approximating $250,000 gave diamond followers something to get excited about today. The story, printed in the New York Sun, met prompt denial from officials of both clubs. The Sun continued to run its story through all its editions.

According to that newspaper Hornsby has been traded for $200,000 in cash and three Chicago players, outfielders Earl Webb, and Cliff Heathcote and second baseman, Freddy Maguire.

RADIO WARNS OF FLOODS

Broadcasting of the daily flood warnings in Australia is proving of great value to grazers whose flocks pasture along river banks. It has been found that it takes about three days for flood waters to travel 70 miles by air line, and when warnings are sent by radio, the shepherds have ample time to move their flocks to safety.

Arkansans Take To Air To Triumph Over Texas Farmers As Homecoming Throng Packs Fayetteville Field

Aggies Are Badly Outplayed In All But Few Spots With Hogs Seizing Early Lead And Holding It Stubbornly Throughout; Alsabrook Is Star For Texas Team

(By The Associated Press)

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 27.—Depending almost entirely on an overhead attack, the University of Arkansas Razorbacks defeated Texas A. & M. 27 to 12 in a football game here today, to celebrate the school's annual homecoming day.

The first half found the Texans badly outplayed, and with the exception of two brilliant A. & M. rallies the Razorbacks had things well in hand through most of the game. Before the first quarter was five minutes old Beavers, Arkansas fullback, ripped his way across the Aggie goal line and Dale kicked goal.

Alsabrook, who scored twice for A. & M. on passes, matched this touchdown a moment later by Snagging a 20 yard pass and crossing the Arkansas goal, but Zarafonetis failed at the extra point try.

Beavers again crossed the Aggie goal line in the second quarter after Milleran Dale and Geis had helped him bring the ball to the Aggie end of the field, Dale's kick again was good for the extra point.

Passes Bewilder Farmers

Beavers was injured in the second period and Arkansas came back with a passing attack that bewildered the Farmer defense Holmes, a substitute back whose fumble earlier in the game had robbed his team of a possible touchdown, atoned for his bobble by pulling down a 15-yard pass and crossing the goal line. Dale who has failed only once this season to coin the extra point place kicked to make the score 21 to 6.

In the final quarter Geis, regular Porker quarterback gave the Aggie ends his personal athtention and scored his teams final touchdown after a series of end runs.

Spectacular Run

A. & M.s final touchdown was perhaps the most spectacular of the day. Alsabrook collected a 45-yard forward pass from Dorsey with but sixty left to play and crossed the line. Zasafonetis again failed to kick goal.

Today's victory restored Arkansas to a plane among the near leaders of the conference while any chances A. & M. might have had to repeat their championship campaign of last year were erased.

Princeton Ekes Out 3 to 0 Win

PALMER STADIUM, PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 27. (AP)—Princeton had just enough punch to defeat Cornell 3 to 0 today, the lone count of the game coming in the third period when Dave Lowry booted a placement from the 17-yard line. The Tigers had driven the ball to the nine-yard line, but did not have the offense to advance it farther by rushing. Both teams showed lack of consistent ground gaining ability, and threats to score were few and far between.

Fighting Navy Wins Over Penn

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27. (AP)—A fighting Navy eleven whipped the powerful Pennsylvania team, 6 to 0, today before 60,000 persons and scored one of the greatest upsets of the inter-collegiate football season. Navy scored on a 36-yard pass, Ganpon to Meret, in the second period, and held off Penn's furious challenge by downs on the seven-yard line in the third quarter.

BASKETBALL STARTS

County Line and Shallowwater Play

The County Line and Shallowater schools' basketball teams, both boys and girls, evened up a couple of games Thursday afternoon, it was learned from County Superintendent Pevehouse Saturday.

The senior boys of County Line took the Shallowater team to a cleaning to the tune of 22 to 10, while the Shallowater senior girls reversed the case and defeated County Line by a score of 10 to 6. The junior boys played half a game but had to quit because of darkness, the score being 2 and 2.

Personnel of the County Line boys' team is Turner and Eason, forwards; Pettit and Daniel, guards, and Durrett, center.

Four Teams Lead In Junior Chase

Games This Week Leaves Four Junior College Team At Top Of Ladder In The Race For State Honors

PARIS, Oct. 27. (AP)—Four teams with unblemished records stand at the top of the Texas Junior College Athletic Association football race as the result of games this week.

Texarkana Junior College, North Texas Agricultural College, John Tarelton and Paris Junior College have yet to be defeated. Games with Wesley of Greenville will count in the conference standing as the Greenville team was a member of the circuit when the schedule was made. Ranger Junior College has been dropped at its own request, a scarcity of material making it impossible for the Ranger eleven to continue its schedule.

The standing of the teams to date follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Texkana Jr. Col.	2	0	1.000
North Tex. Aggies	2	0	1.000
John Tarleton	2	0	1.000

Wisconsin Defeats Michigan, 7 to 0

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 27. (AP) Wisconsin defeated Michigan, 7 to 0, for their first victory over the Wolverines since 1899 in a hard-fought game here today. Michigan made a gallant stand to prevent a touchdown at the end of the first half, but its defense lapsed for a moment as the closing moment of the battle neared.

Syracuse Battles Penn State to Tie

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 27.—Syracuse and Penn State battled to a 6-6 tie here today before a home-coming crowd of 20,000. A furious attack led by French in the final quarter gave the Nittany Lions the touchdowns to march the Syracuse score in the third period.

MARSHALL WINS

Defeats Burleson 6 to 0 In Final Drive

GREENVILLE, Texas, Oct. 27. (AP)—Marshall college defeated Burleson here today 6 to 0 in a 60 second offensive near the close of the game in which only four plays, a long pass and three line smashes were necessary for a touchdown. George carried the ball 10-yards through the line for the only touchdown. Campbell and Byrd played well for the locals while George was the outstanding visiting star.

GAME ENDS IN TIE

Marquette And Holy Cross Play 6-6 Deadlock

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 27. (AP)—Holy Cross and Marquette went to a 6 to 6 deadlock before a big crowd today, the Marquette eleven coming from behind in the final period to tie the score.

Simmons Scores On Long Pass And Daniel Baker Crashes Line for Tally After Recovering Fumble

(By Associated Press)

ABILENE, Oct. 27.—In a battle of line bucks and punts the Simmons University eleven played the Daniel Baker Hill Billies to a 6 to 6 tie here today.

Daniel Baker led eight to five in first downs made and gained more ground from scrimmage, but did not average as much yardage per play as did the Cowboys. Simmons completed only one of its four attempted passes, but that pass scored a touchdown. It was a 39-yard heave, Waller to Simms, in the second quarter. Daniel Baker's touchdown came as the result of a punt which Sellers of Simmons fumbled and Mac Miller, all conference guard recovered on Simmon's 15-yard line in the third period. Horany and Dillard plunged once each for the touchdown.

Simmons made a strong bid at the opening of the game but got no closer than the nine-yard line where a pass across the goal line was grounded. At the opening of the second quarter Daniel Baker made a similar bid which the Cowboys stopped on their own one-yard line. Mead and Sellers were about even in the punting battle, each averaging approximately 39 yards.

The line-up:

Simmons	Pos.	Daniel Baker

LEAP YEAR, MAYBE

Widows Figuring In Marriages Here

Not only has "Uncle Billy" Clark justice of the peace, performed a total of 203 weddings, in the little more than two years that he has been a justice here, but the last four marriage ceremonies, so he stated Saturday, were those in which widows were the gentler sex involved.

"Uncle Billy" would not declare himself as whether or not Leap Year has had anything to do with the past month's record.

A total of 38 licenses have been issued here during October four of Saturday being the following:

TELLEGEN SUED

Cruel And Inhuman Treatment Is Charged

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27. (AP)—Lou Telegen, stage and screen actor, was sued for divorce today by Isabel Craven tellegen, who filed a complaint in superior court charging her husband with cruel and inhuman treatment. Tellegen, formerly the husband of Geraldine Farrar, former noted grand opera star married the present Mrs. Tellegen, at Rutherford, N. J., December 17, 1923. The latter's complaint stated that the couple have one four year old child, Rex Tellegen.

$53 IN CITY COURT

Five Violators Pay Coffers Yesterday

Five violators paid $53 in city court Saturday, according to the records of J. T. Inmon, desk sergeant. One motorist didn't pay attention to a red traffic light and paid $3 for it, another driver making a U turn that cost him $3. Two other fines were, one for gambling, $20, one for disturbing the peace $15, and one for drunkenness $15.

Thevenow Traded

TOMMY THEVENOW

Tommy Thevenow, St. Louis Nationals' shortstop, has been traded to the Phillies for Heinie Sand and $50,000. The price is astounding to the baseball world because Thevenow, though the star of the 1926 world series, was not used in the closing days of the present season and the 1928 series, Rabbit Maranville holding down the short position for the Cards.

Beavers Lost To Porkers By Injury

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 27.(AP)—"Beno" Beavers, star Arkansas fullback, will be unable to play against Louisiana State University at Shreveport, but will not be lost to the team for the remainder of the season, athletic officials announced today.

Beavers bruised a leg in the Arkansas-Texas A. & M. game here today.

For a time it was feared that the bone was broken and that the back was out for the season. He is expected to be ready to play again in two weeks when Arkansas meets the Missouri Miners Nov. 17.

Louisiana Cadet Is Worthy Of All-America Berth Is Belief Of Gould; Old Eli Falters Badly

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

YALE BOWL, NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 27. —A sorrel-thatched will-o'-the-wisp in an Army uniform, Christian Keener Cagle of Merryville, La., flitted through the whole Blue brigade today, leading Army to a sensational victory over Yale by a score of 18 to 6.

While 76,000 spectators sat thrilled in the big bowl, Christian Keener, otherwise known as Red, galloped up and down the field, shaking off tackles and outsprinting others as he scored two touchdowns with one of the greatest exhibitionn of open field running anywhere this season. Cagle, on separate dashes of 52 and 73 yards, personally accounted for 12 points that exactly spelled the margin of the Army's clean cut triumph over the hitherto undefeated Blue eleven.

Cagle Eludes Tacklers.

The red-headed flash from Louisiana, who bears the all-American stamp if any ball-carrier does in the East thus far, was a marked man from the start. The ballyhoo gave the Blue plenty of advance warning. Every man on the Yale team had a chance to bring down Cagle at some time in his two spectacular dashes, but they all failed as he twisted, straight-armed and sidestepped in bewildering fashion.

Score by periods:

Horned Frogs Defeat Fighting Tech Eleven But See Their Goal Crossed For First Time By Ransome Walker

they did Littlefield's Texas Longhorns, forced Matty Bell to send in his regulars before the first period had ended. The first score, however, came from the starting eleven who completed two passes to catch the Tech defense unawares.

No sooner had the first score been chalked up for the Frogs when the stands were brought to their fest Captain Walker's beautiful 52 yard run from scrimmage for the Tech's lone tally. The play was the third on which the Tech had carried the ball and Walker, sneaking through a hole at left tackle, was soon in the open and completely outran three of the Christian's secondary defenders.

Eddleman is Star

It was a tall red headed gent by the name of Eddlema nwho was responsible for the majority of the Frogs' markers. His work through the guards and tackles coupled, with the ability to place passes in his mates' arms, was considered the outstanding work of the game. It was equalled only by Walker's run and the smashing defensive work of Vaughn Corley, Chubby DeWitt, Dennis Vinzani and Buddy Brothers for the Tech squad.

The defense of the entire Matador team was still more impressive as four out of the six times, the ball was placed inside the Tech's ten yard line, it went over on downs, the stone wall line of the Plainsmen staving off a larger score. On the final score of the fight, had the distance required for downs been two inches more, the ball would have gone over, Eddleman barely bending the forward wall enough to make the desired two inches.

Tech Fights to the End

It was a fighting crew of Bull-fighters who went down in defeat and in the final moments of the game. Tech was apparently on a second march for the goal only to have the timer's gun snatch it from their grasp. Taking the ball on their own twenty-five yard line, the Plainsmen advanced it to the T. C. U. fifteen yard point through a series of off tackle brushes by Doug Smythe and Walker and another long run of 35 yards by Captain Walker, who broke away from scrimmage in a neatly executed fake play. Two of the opposing secondary defense managed to catch him near the sideline.

Time and time again throughout the contest, Chubby DeWitt and Vaughn Corley broke through the Frog forward wall to throw their backs for losses and it was only after Bell had used approximately 30 substitutes that their aggressiveness seemed to tire.

Girls Draw Praise

The girls' pep squad drew a large ovation from the stands with its drills. Praise also came from the Fort Worth fans for the work of the Matador supporters consisting of approximately 350 students and 100 or more exes, who stood for their team 'till the last.

The line-up and summary follows:

Score by periods:

T. C. U.	6	14	8	0	—Total 28

Doctor Granbery spoke on the Kellogg-Bryan Peace Pact.

VISIT FROM ENGINEER

T. S. Conner, head of the Annual department of the Southwestern Engraving company, will be in the city a day or two early this week where he will confer with members of the Tech yearbook staff regarding La Ventana.

A call has been made for students to have their pictures made as soon as possible as the effort desire to submit the pages by November 15th to receive a discount.

LEAVES FOR CONVENTION

Miss Elizabeth West, librarian, is leaving tomorrow night for Baton Rouge, La., where she is to read a paper before the Southwestern Library association which convenes in that city October 31 and ends November 3.

Following the convention Miss West will go to Pensacola, Fla., and visit a sister, Mrs. R. P. Reese, going from there the latter part of the wee kto the Southeastern Librarian association at Binouxi, Miss.

Before returning to Texas she is to visit a few days in New Orleans as the guest of her friend, Miss Ethel Hutson, secretary-treasurer of the Southern States Art league. Miss West will talk over details regarding an exhibition of paintings which is to be in Lubbock the first two weeks in January.

After returning to Texas a two weeks visit is to be made in Austin to the libraries there and then Miss West will go to San Antonio to attend the State Teacher's Meeting where she is to preside at the library section and read a paper on Friday. Immediately after the close of the meeting Miss West will return to Lubbock.

W. T. Stangel has received an all-wool pair of blankets of beautiful colors, the gift of L. E. Allen, of Marlin.

The blankets are made from wool sheared from a Hampshire ram which was raised at Tech and entered at the Fat Stock show where it won first honors.

Mr. Allen bought the ram at the Fair and promised Mr. Stangel that he was going to have blankets made from the first shearing. The ram's wool weighed twelve pounds.

MANY VIEW ETCHING

Many students are taking advantage of viewing the exhibit of black and white and color etchings which is being held in room 207 of the Engineering building. Quaint homes, towering cathedrals, bridges, and land scapes are etched by some of the master etchers of Belgium.

Additional copies of the etchings and stone lithographs may be secured from Brussels Belgium by ordering through F. A. Kleinschmidt, department of Engineering, room 207.

The course will be open for advanced credit. Those who do not desire credit will be permitted to take the course for its intrinsic worth. The class will meet once a week. The fee will be $10.00.

Harvard Eleven Rises To Supreme Heights To Crush Dartmouth's Hopes For Another National Championship

Crimson Tide Amaze Spectators With Smashing Line Attack Which Tares The Green Line At Will

HARVARD STADIUM, CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 27. (AP)—Dartmouth's hopes for another national football title were dashed here today when an under-rated Harvard eleven, beaten a week ago by the Army, rose to supreme heights and won a 19 to 7 victory.

The Crimson scores resulted from the amazing line smashing of Capt. Arther French, Crimson leader, and Dave Granaccia, the other halfback. This pair tore the Green line at will, aided by Ben Tichonor, center, who repeatedly opened holes for his backs.

Fort Worth's Air Trippers To Make Stop At Lubbock

Fifteen Planes Carrying A Delegation Of Business Men Will Be In This City On November Ninth

Fifteen airplanes from Fort Worth will land at Lubbock's temporary airport at 10:30 on the morning of November 9, when the Aerocade of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce will swoop down on the South Plains hub on the first tour to be made by air from "The City Where the West Begins."

The personnel on this Aerocade good will trippers will be about 40 representative business men of Fort Worth. They will leave that city at 8 o'clock on th morning of November 8 and fly to points northwest of there, as far as Amarillo then come, south to this city, where they will remain long enough to permit citizens of Lubbock to thoroughly inspect the planes and to listen to and give several short talks on the subjects referring to the relations of Lubbock-to-Fort Worth aviation.

Proves Airport Need

George Benson, chairman, and Joe Dick Slaughter, member of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce airport committee, stated Saturday that the coming of this aerocade proves the need of ample airport facilities for the city. They inspected the temporary field north of town and report it in very inadequate condition at the present time to receive the 15 planes, but they are at work in cleaning and clearing it and otherwise putting it in shape for the Fort Worth airmen's arrival.

It was said Saturday that since Midland's airport has been in operation there have been almost 400 planes landed there among them being Charles A. Lindbergh. "Lindy" flew to Midland landed and loaded up with gasoline and oil and was gone before they hardly knew he was there. It was said just the other day, when he was on his way to the Mexican border.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is working on plans for the entertainment of the Fort Worth air-visitors during their short stay here, and, in expectation of the vast crowd who will be present to welcome them, are planning to have sufficient police on hand to direct traffic and keep folks from getting in the way of the planes as they light and depart.

Moody Talks

the Civil War to show you evidences of corruption in Republican party administrations," he continued. "When after one of the most brilliant administrations in history, a Democratic administration, the Republicans took the reign and left a slimy trail of graft upon the record of government."

He referred specifically to Sinclair, Fall and Doheny and declared that although the courts had acquitted Sinclair, many guilty men were acquitted and that "Sinclair stands convicted at the bar of public opinion."

"A vote for Hoover in the present campaign," he said, "is a vote approving Republican administrations of the past, the Republican record and the Republican platform. A vote for Smith approves the past record of the Democratic party and platform. This is not a campaign of individuals, it is a struggle between parties and your vote, when cast, must approve one party, or the other, not one candidate or the other."

Thomas Assails Borah.

Cullen F. Thomas of Dallas, in introducing Governor Moody, declared that the governor had come to Dallas to protest against any move to "loco, buffalo or Idaho the Democracy of Texas."

He referred to Senator Borah of Idaho, who spoke here this week, as an "itinerant" political missionary come to Republicanize Texas."

In defense of prohibitionists who support Governor Smith, Thomas declared that he, himself, had opposed Smith's nomination, but that he believed the majority of the party should rule it, that he believed in the Democratic party as opposed to the Republican party, and that if the Democratic party was wrong it was worth saving.

Religion No Issue.

"Religious affiliations have no proper place in this campaign," he said, "and I decline to vote against Smith on the ground that he is a Catholic.

"I yield to no man on Texas soil in devotion to the cause of prohibition. I am still a Democrat, but I am not a still Democrat. I was a Democrat before I was a prohibitionist. A Democrat may be a prohibitionist. He should be more. The Democratic party never was a one-plank party. The Democratic party never has been a prohibition party. The Republican party never has has been a prohibition party. Should we now bolt our party because of the Democratic platform on prohibition?

Upset By Smith Wire.

"I confess I was upset by Governor Smith's belated telegram to the convention. I was shell shocked by his bold proposal in his acceptance address. I will not go one step with him in his proposal to amend the Eighteenth Amendment. I am irretreviably opposed to putting sovereign states into the whiskey business. Alfred E. Smith, in the presidency, will be impotent to make a dent in the Eighteenth Amendment. His plan is an irridescent dream. He could as easily whittle Washington's Monument to the ground with a barlow knife. I shall remain loyal to the Democratic party."

Thomas denied that Hoover is a prohibitionist and asserted that the Republican candidate's attitude was vacillating.

bright, 20, and T. L. Williams, 21, both of this city, today were in a hospital with lacerations and bruises. They were in the car in which Hill was killed. Williams told officials today that the rival car careened in front of his during the fight up and down the city's outlying streets, and forced it into the curb, where it overturned against a telephone pole. A physician reported that Hill was killed instantly in the crash.

Nearly 300 youths, many of whom were declared to have been from neither school, engaged in the affray, which was confined mostly to the hurling of tomatoes and occasional physical encounters. The fields of one large tomato grower, on the edge of the city, were completely stripped of fruit.

Principals of the two schools condemned the affair, declaring that only a small percentage of the participants were enrolled students.

An inquest will be held Monday into the death of Hill.

Smith Sends

Charges "Broken Promises"

"It is for the American electorate on the sixth of November to decide" he said, "how much longer they are ready to stand for broken promises and misstatements."

The nominee assailed utterances made by Mr. Hoover in Boston earlier in the campaign and quoted his rival for the presidency as having referred to the tariff commission as "most valuable arm of the government," and as having said it could "be strengthened and made more useful in several ways." Later making these statements the governor said Mr. Hoover had spoken as follows:

"'But the American people will never consent to delegating authority over the tariff to any commission, whether non-partisan or bipartisan.'"

Issue Beclouded

The governor declared that Hoover could "only have used these words for the purpose of beclouding the issue" and said he had made no suggestion that a tariff commission would take the place of congress in the handling of the tariff question.

"I definitely referred to the tariff commission as a fact-finding body," he said, "to lay before the congress of the United States the facts in detail so that congress may intelligently exercise its power to make tariff bills."

Again referring to Hughes, the nominee said the former secretary of state had commented upon his tariff declarations as follows:

"If history is clear about anything it is that you can't take the tariff out of politics."

He asked if Mr. Hughes wanted "to continue to have the tariff treated as the football of politics" and then said the American people themselves would take the tariff out of politics when they got the facts.

Attacks Hughes "Stand"

The governor said Mr. Hughes had declared in Chicago that the democrats would have to "eat crow to modify its tariff policy to meet changed conditions of today."

"Why, even the republican party sometimes changes its position," he declared, "it changed its position on the federal reserve law."

"The democratic party all during its history has been able to meet the popular need and the popular will.

"Mr. Hughes attempts to make the point that the members of congress will hold to tariff ideas that prevailed before the war and would be unwilling to follow my leadership in the declaration that I made at Louisville."

States Tariff Policy

The governor said he could set this question at rest as a telegram had been sent to every democratic member of congress and that eighty percent of the democrats had replied and each one heard from had signed a declaration as follows:

"We undersigned democratic candidates for the house and senate reaffirm the allegiance of our party to a non-partisan tariff commission as enunciated in the democratic platform adopted at Houston and declare our approval of the constructive interpretation placed on the tariff plank by our standard bearer, Governor Smith, in his Louisville speech when he said 'I definitely pledge that the only change I will consider in the tariff will be specific revisions in specific schedules, each considered on its own merits on the basis of investigation by an impartial tariff commission and a careful hearing before congress of all concerned; that no revision of any specific schedule will have approval of the democratic party which in any way interferes with American standard of living and level wages.

"In other words, I say to the American working man that the democratic party will not do a single thing that will take from its weekly pay envelope a five cent piece. To the American farmer I say that the democratic party will do everything in its power to put back into his pocket all that belongs there. And we further say that nothing will be done that will embarrass or interfere in any way with the legitimate progress of business big or small.

"With this prescription honestly put forth with a clear-cut and definite promise to make it effective, I assert with confidence that neither labor nor industry nor agriculture nor business has anything to fear from democratic success at the polls in November, and we do hereby pledge our cooperation in carrying out the principals and policies therein set forth."

The governor said this put an end to an effort by Mr. Hughes and his republican colleagues "to disturb the business of this country by predictions of business upheaval in the event of my election because of the democratic attitude to the tariff."

From the tariff, the governor shifted to finance and jumped on Secretary Mellon, who, he said, had accused him of distorting figures. He declared Mr. Mellon had "admitted that there was an increase in the cost in the cost of government in the Coolidge administration" and the governor then added that here, as he had in Sedalia, Missouri, he again made the statement that the "cost of the government between 1924 and 1927 increased two hundred million dollars."

Gives Credit for Economy

The democratic nominee reiterated that he "gave the federal government full credit," for every economy effected and that what he critized was the attempt to use a few petty economies to lead the American people to believe that there had been a reduction in the cost of government under Mr. Coolidge."

Turning to prohibtion, the nominee reiterated a promise that, if elected, he proposed to carry his fight on prohibition in its existing form "straight to the American people and lay it before them frankly and clearly."

Talks On Prohibition

He quoted Mr. Hughes as having said that "we have a sham battle over prohibition," and asked if Hughes took the position that the American people were not concerned about this.

"Does he mean to indicate that they are satisfied with conditions as they exist today?" he inquired.

He added Hughes also said that Smith's election would "greatly intensify the demand for a change," and demanded to know by what process of reasoning the former secretary of state, "believed it to be a sham battle."

Smith argued that the question was a "real one and comes very close to the heart and conscience" of the people. He said President Hadley of Yale university had voiced the feeling of millions of right-thinking men and women when he declared that the object of the Eighteenth amendment was to stop drunkenness and promote public order, and that this object "has not been attained."

He also quoted William Howard Taft as declaring in 1918 that he was opposed to national prohibition because he thought it was a mixing of the national government in a matter that should be one of local settlement."

Further, the governor said Woodrow Wilson in referring to prohibition, said.

"You cannot regulate the morals and habits of a great cosmopolitan people by placing unreasonable restrictions upon their liberty and freedom."

Woodrow Man Is Hurt In Smash

Sol Aubrey Suffers Lacerated Left Hand And Loss Of Ring Finger In Auto Accident

Sol Aubrey of Woodrow, is in Elwood Sanitarium, suffering with a badly lacerated left hand and the loss of the ring finger, which had to be amputated, following an automobile accident which occurred about two and a half miles south of Lubbock, near the John Vaught place.

With Aubrey in his car was Mrs. Aubrey and a man, whose name was not learned. Mrs. Aubrey received several minor scratches and was badly shaken up, but not injured sufficiently to require hospital treatment.

The accident occurred while the Aubreys were returning to their home at Woodrow from Lubbock. When they attempted to pass another car, a Ford touring, no top on it and wit hseven or eight people in it, on the road, the car ran into them and turned their car over. The driver of the Ford did not stop. Val Tudor of Lubbock, picked them up and brought them to the sanitarium where the amputation was necessary and where it was stated at a late hour last night that the injury was very serious.

The wreck occurred about 7:30 Saturday night.

Abernathy reported nearly 300 bales, and Shallowater had an approximate 400 bales. Hurlwood, where the crop is light, had only 75 bales ginned. The gin at Canyon however, reported about 275 up to yesterday. At Monroe, the harvest is in full sway, 443 bales being reported there.

Wolffarth, where picking has been going good for several weeks reported 360 bales. Estacado had 297 bales, and Woodrow 330. Becton reported 95 bales. Acuff, County Line and New Hope gins, unable to be reached by telephone, were estimated at 200 bales each.

Dirigibles

work gets under way.

Return May Be Started Today

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 27. (AP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin will be ready to begin its return flight to Germany tomorrow, but a combination of favorable circumstances will be necessary to accomplish an actual takeoff before Monday or even Tuesday.

Zero hour for the ground crew was set for five o'clock tomorrow afternoon, but that merely is a stand ready order and means that the ship will not leave until then. It may not, on the other hand, leave until a day or more after that.

Once the ship is fully fueled and gassed it is necessary to have a favorable ocean weather map and also good local conditions which permit taking the ship out of the hangar. It is quite likely that crosshangar winds may delay the departure one day or more, just as those winds delayed and at last caused abandonment of a projected inland flight.

Passengers were told today to stand by at their homes and hotels tomorrow "on the possibility" that the Zeppelin might leave in late afternoon. They were told to limit their baggage to 50 pounds each and to provide themselves with flying coats and other warm clothing.

Unless weather causes a change in plans the dirigible will follow the northern great circle route home rather than the longer southern course coming over to avoid storms.

Goodwin Body Is Being Held Here

Funeral Services Delayed Pending Arrival Of Son From California; Rites To Be In Memphis

Body of J. F. Goodwin, 52, of Yuma, Arizona, who Friday afternoon took his own life near here is being held in state at Bynum Brothers' Funeral Chaptel here pending the arrival of his son, Marshall Goodwin, of Westwood, Calif.

Mr. Goodwin met death at his own hands about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon by shooting into his mouth. He died almost instantly as his son, Jodie Goodwin, stood by, helpless. The son was fixing a flat tire at the time the shot was fired by his father. The son had been watching his father all day in an effort to prevent his attempt at suicide, throwing away a carbolic acid bottle Friday morning. Mr. Goodwin had told his son that he was going to kill himself because he was tired of living and because he had rather be dead than to rear up a big family and all of the children move away and leave him.

With the arrival of all the relatives the body will be shipped to Memphis for burial.

Mr. Goodwin's fourteen year old daughter left her father about three weeks ago to live with another of his daughters in Levelland. He is said to have worried considerably over his daughter's departure. Mr. Goodwin is father of eight children. He only recently sold his ranch at Yuma, Arizona.

Other than Marshal Goodwin, Mr. Goodwin is survived by: Three daughters, Mrs. C. E. Pagett, Mrs. Dora Coleman, and Miss Jewel Goodwin, all of Levelland; and three sons; M. R. Goodwin, of Lockney; M. J. Goodwin, of Yuma, Ariz.; Jessie Goodwin, of Memphis, and Jodie Goodwin, of Las Cruces.

Coroner G. R. Scott yesterday returned a verdict of suicide in an inquest of Mr. Goodwin's death.

Daily Markets

NEW YORK COTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (AP)—The cotton market today was steadier with a very noticeable falling off in the volume of selling pressure compared with that of Thursday and Friday. Spinners continued to fix prices and there was a fairly active demand from speculative shorts which sent the December position up to 19.37, an advance of 25 points from the previous close. The general market closed steady at net advances of 19 to 25 points.

The market opened steady at 3 to 7 points advance and continued to work slowly but steadily upward throughout the day. It was the prevailing impression that the technical position of the market had been materially strengthened by the heavy liquidation which had taken place in the past few days and shorts were nervous over the smaller offerings and inclined to cover for over the week-end.

Evidences of a very substantial trade demand under the market or around the 19-cent level were believed to have contributed materially to the better feeling which prevailed in the market, especially as mill buying seemed to increase as the market advanced and there was said to be some good orders executed on a scale up.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. (AP)—The stock market took a good dose of the tonic of favorable trade reviews today and recovered rapidly from effects of the violent bear raid of yesterday afternoon.

More than a score of issues were lifted 5 to 12 points in brisk buying resulting from a substantial accumulation of overnight orders.

The week's trade reviews pointed to continued steady progress in basic industries, and bankers comments were reassuring as to money prospects and a return to 6 percent call money was widely predicted after the month-end settlements. A factor in the buying was a statement by a prominent bull operator that prices of good stocks had been too low rather than too high.

Commission house advice to buy good stocks on all recessions probably had an influence in this morning's upturn. Throughout the general list gains were moderate and there was a sprinkling of declines caused by week-end liquidation, the Associated Press average of 20 leading industrials was carried up more than 4 points to 227.25, a new high record. Total sales for the day's short session exceeded 1,700,000 shares, and the ticker again was unable to keep abreast on transactions.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 27. (AP)—The hog market here today generally was steady. The top was $9.05 with the bulk selling from $8.90 to $9.00. Sows brought from $7.00 to $8.00, and pigs from $6.50 to $7.00.

Light receipts caused the cattle and sheep trades to be nominal affairs.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 27. (AP)—Jumping up nearly 5c a bushel, the wheat market today responded excitedly to a sudden tremendous rush of buying. Drought complaints that came without previous warning from the Argentine wheat belt aroused traders, and besides talk spread that a call for a special session of Congress would be probably called to consider farm relief.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous 3 1-4 to 3 3-8c to 4 1-8c net higher, with corn 3-8c to 7-8c up, oats at 1-2c advance, and provisions varying from 45c decline to a rise of 17c.

By far the heaviest buying orders in the wheat pit came from eastern sources. The most of these orders reached Chicago in the final hour of trading, but from the outset, the market had shown a decided upward trend.

When the stampede to buy had reached a climax, Chicago wheat prices were up more than 7c a bushel above quotations here at the beginning of this week. Lively profit-taking brought about a reaction, but most of the gains were held at the finish.

Leases In Demand Near Brownfield

Large Oil Companies Are Out For Blocks Of Land In Terry County Section; Test Well Is Located

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 27.—Several oil companies are becoming very active in their efforts to secure leases in Terry county and it is reported that the same interests are undertaking to secure blocks of land in Yoakum county. The Midwest Exploration company and Ballwood Exploration company have secured blocks of several thousand acres northeast of Brownfield and the Gulf Production company and Elco Oil company are undertaking to block in the northwestern portion of Terry county, with J. D. Collett undertaking to secure a block in the southern part.

The test well, located 11 miles southeast of Brownfield and which has changed ownership three times, is still drilling with an estimated depth of 4,500 feet, using five and three-quarter casing with drillers underreaming to reset casing. Formation is said to alternate between shale and redbed with lime expected to be reached within the next hundred feet. Hotels are crowded with oil men and prospectors and it is the general opinion that other tests will be commenced within a short time.

Value Of Market Knowledge Told At U. S. Cotton Shows

Farmers attending the national cotton show at Memphis this week are hearing experts outline the need for adequate knowledge of crops and markets. Above is the government laboratory in which practical forms of cotton standards are being prepared. J. C. Gilbert, federal marketing specialist (inset), will be in charge of federal exhibits at the show.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 27. (AP)—The value of adequate market knowledge and a crop adjusted to factory demands will be broadcast to farmers at the national cotton show in Memphis this week.

Promoted by the Tri-State Fair, to which Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi subscribe, the show started this year is expected to become an annual affair.

Federal investigations, promoted for the most part in Georgia, show that state produces an abundance of short staple cotton whereas many of the Georgia mills require long staple, a commodity they must go out of the state to find. Similar circumstances of farmers failing to gauge production to the staple, grade and quality of cotton demanded by local manufacturers is held up as a depressing influence. To the end that producers obtain better prices, an effort will be made at the show to demonstrate the value of growing the kind of cotton for which there is the most advantageous market.

Both the United States department of agriculture and the department of commerce will have exhibits. The bureau of plant industry will have a display on cotton improvement; the bureau of entomology, on the boll weevil, and the bureau of home economics, on household and personal uses of cotton fabric. The bureau of agricultural economics exhibit, designed and constructed by J. C. Gilbert, marketing specialist, will deal with grade and staple estimates, standards, market news, co-operative marketing, the warehouse act, and industrial utilization.

An important display will be made by the "new uses" committee to which the cotton textile institute is a prominent contributor.

Considerable attention will be given an exhibit by the seventieth congress showing grade and staple reports for the entire cotton belt, beginning next month and ending April, 1929. Each report will give the grade, staple and tenderability of the cotton reported ginned, according to the bureau of the census. A similar report is to be made of carry-over stocks. The work is described as a national effort to make an inventory of the quality of cotton with a view to improving the quality of the crop in keeping with consumer demand.

It is a well-known fact, the department of agriculture says, that the quality of the cotton sold has an important bearing on consumption, and therefore, on its price. With a given supply, the lower the quality the lower the price, and conversely, the higher the quality, within limits, the higher the price. Buyers and sellers of cotton pay as much attention to quality as to quantity.

Plainview Total In Building Far Beyond Million

Issuance Of Permit For The Work On Hilton Hotel To Bring Construction Total To High Point

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

PLAINVIEW, Oct. 27.—With the issuance of a building permit for the construction work on the Hilton Hotel at Plainview to the Shaw Construction company, building permit totals jumped to well over the million two hundred thousand dollar mark for the ten months of 1928, and sets a new high record for building activities at Plainview in so far as business house construction is concerned.

With construction well under way on the Hilton Hotel, and the excavation complete for the other new hotel at Plainview, within a few weeks, over one million dollars worth of building will actually be under way at one time. A contract for construction of the other hotel will be let very soon, according to those in touch with the proposition, bids being received on October 29, for the construction work. The building of these two modern hotels of total room capacity of two hundred and fifty rooms, all modern and with baths will give Plainview the best hotel facilities of any city its size in the southwest.

Not only are two hotels being built at Plainview, but at the present time numerous other large buildings are being erected. The Plainview public schools have under construction a new ward school the contract price of which was $90,000. The new building will be ready for occupancy by January first.

L. S. Kinder, pioneer Plainview lawyer and banker, and J. N. Jordan is building a large warehouse and storage house which has been long needed in Plainview. The new building will cost over twenty thousand dollars, and will serve to enhance Plainview's advantages as a wholesale distribution center for the South Plains section, since a number of wholesalers have expressed a desire for storage facilities such as this will afford.

C. G. Goodman is building a large brick building especially designed for the Ford automobile agency at Plainview, Locke Motor company. It is a twenty-five thousand dollar building and covers a space one hundred by one hundred and forty feet.

A. G. Hinn has begun the construction of a building eighty by one hundred forty feet with full basement, part of which has been already leased to the J. C. Penney Chain Store company.

O. M. Unger has a new seventy foot front brick part of which has been leased, and all of which is practically ready for tenants.

The Hale County Dairy association will let a contract soon for the construction of a large building in which it will install an up-to-date cooperative creamery to manufacture butter from the cream produced by the four hundred and fifty members of the association.

The Fort Worth and Denver railway company is putting the finishing touches on its new passenger depot at Plainview costing twenty-five thousand dollars and construction has begun on the freight depot. P. A. Monte has the contracts.

Several large residences, and any number of smaller ones are under construction as has been the case for the past three years.

In prospect for Plainview are several other large buildings, including a theatre and several business houses and large residences.

DIRECT ACTION
GAS RANGES

NOW IN TRANSIT

This is welcome news to those who are ready now to purchase Gas Ranges, for the high character of satisfaction that the DIRECT ACTION has given to those who are now using them, has caused many inquiries to be made as to when we would be able to exhibit an ample assortment on our floors.

The name "DIRECT ACTION" is not a coined expression with us but comes from an especially designed gas burner built into a gas range specifically designed, patented and perfected by the American Stove Company. It is "DIRECT ACTION" in operation and the only one made that requires no pre-heating, the oven being ready for baking the moment it is lighted—and bakes perfectly in the broiling oven. In just a few more days they will be shown on our display floor, and we invite you to investigate their many features—those that give it a marked superiority.

Probe Corruption In Indiana Town

Charge Democrats Secure Campaign Funds From Bootleggers And Other Underworld Characters

(By Associated Press)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 26.—Investigation of political corruption charges made against democrats of St. Joseph county in a story printed in both the South Bend Tribune, and the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel, was deferred until November 8, after a brief hearing today by Judge Arlo R. Deahl, of St. Joseph superior court. Five representatives of the two newspapers had been summoned by Prosecutor Schwartz but were not examined.

The story that prompted the investigation charged that democrats were collecting campaign funds from liquor law violators and underworld residents of South Bend.

After the publication of the assertions in the Tribune and the News-Sentinel, Prosecutor Schwartz, said the article would be made the basis for an inquiry into political conditions and subpoenaes were issued for F. A. Miller, editor of Tribune; R. H. Horst, managing editor and L. L. Morehouse, city editor, respectively, of the same paper, and Oscar Foellinger, publisher, and William Gross, political writer, of the News-Sentinel. The three members of the Tribune staff attended the hearing today but were asked no questions.

Judge Deahl declared he would not want the public to thing the court was being used for political purposes and expressed belief that the allegations could be gone into thoroughly after the election.

The prosecutor and other officials indicated the county grand jury might consider the case after the election when partisan feeling had subdided.

Baylor Drive To Be Centered Here

Chairman E. W. Provence To Lead Intensive Campaign In Section Starting Nov. 25th; 'Baylor Day' Set

WACO, Oct. 27.—Lubbock and the territory embraced in district 16 of the Greater Baylor University statewide campaign under the leadership of E. W. Provence, district chairman of Lubbock, will hear much of the oldest educational institution in Texas beginning Sunday, November 4th, according to announcement by D. K. Martin, state chairman.

The primary step of a state-wide speaking program will be conducted on that date when more than 100 pastors will devote their services to the campaign for $2,000,000 or introduce visiting speakers in their pulpits.

Rev. C. J. McCarty and Dr. W. R. White, both Lubbock pastors, will address their own congregations on November 4th in the interest of the campaign.

"Baylor Sunday" will be observed Sunday, November 25th by every organized Baptist church in Texas. A general shift of pastors will be conducted and every full-time pastor will speak on Baylor University at 11 a. m.

Chairman Provence addressed the Staked Plains Baptist association recently at Cotton Center instead of Rev. White who was scheduled to speak. All speaking prepares for the Popular Campaign, November 23rd to December 4th when a simultaneous drive will be conducted over the state.

LOVELY PARTY WITH MRS. HUDGENS

One of the loevliest of the season's social affairs, was given Friday afternoon with the members of the Friday Forty-Two club guests. The charming hostess on this occasion was Mrs. Claude Hudgens. The guests were asked at three o'clock and the playing began at once. The entertaining rooms were beautifully decorated with baskets of gorgeous chrysanthemums and other autumn flowers. Large floor vases contained bunches of these russetty blossoms. Using artificial light, the scene was pretty indeed. In the high cut following the games Mrs. C. R. Baldwin received a pair of pink and silver candles, while Mrs. Pat Brothers was given a hand-painted tray and bread knife for low cut. The hostess and assisting ladies served delicious refreshments in keeping with the yellow of the decorations, using covers in Hallowe'en designs. The plate served consisted of the following menu: sandwiches, cheese and pineapple salad, chips, iced tea and parfait. Guests were Mesdames Ike Bailey, H. W. McSpadden, W. C. Smith, S. H. Holgate, R. M. Kendrick, W. B. Downing, C. R. Baldwin, Townsend, W. H. Collins, Mrs. B. W. Nobles, house guest of Mrs. Collins, Pat B. Brothers, C. Hamilton, Chester Gore, G. S. Webber and Dallas.

LITTLEFIELD SQUAD DEFEATS LOCAL TEAM

A battle between the Brownfield Cubs and the Littlefield football team on Friday afternoon resulted in the following score: Littlefield 34, Brownfield 6. The pep squad has named and chosen little Lucille McSpadden their mascot. She has a vital part in the yells and songs of the girls and is costumed as the pep squad.

Reuchs, of Odessa; and brother, Horace Burdett, of French Glenn, Oregon. The four sisters and brother have not had a reunion for some time and this occasion was most heartily enjoyed. The brother, returning from the A. E. F. convention held at San Antonio, made it possible for this family event. Miss Burdett, and Mrs. Allen are moving to Lubbock, where Miss Burdett is connected with the Lubbock Sanitarium as trained nurse.

The Louise Willis Circle of young matrons met with Mrs. E. V. May Thursday afternoon in study and business.

They Spend Their Time—And How!

*** *** *** ***

Tech Studes Have Many Ways in Which to Work and Play, Records Show

Tech students manage to occupy their spare time—and how.

In answer to "what do college students do with their time?" professors of the college and a number of the students report the widest variety of activities imaginable.

From early morning classes until late at night students are doing something, even if it is nothing more than loafing. When the day begins for a student depends upon the time of his first class. In most of the boarding houses or dormitories, freshmen are delegated as the "alarm clocks" for the upper classmen. This service is usually under the penalty of a paddling if they fail—or if they do.

Many Miss Breakfast.

Breakfast is usually eaten at some time between 7 and 8 o'clock, although some students get up just in time for class, prolonging breakfast time until after the class is completed. The first hour in the classroom is spent either trying to go back to sleep or to wake up.

Classes are stretched throughout the day from early morning until about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. And, although the classes may not consume the whole day, they at least ruin it, as far as other activities are concerned. Occasionally, there can be found time for afternoon bridge party of bull session, but the most popular bull session time seems to be late at night when the college groups gather in some small room to settle all of the important problems of the world.

Some Studying Done.

Football practice, study and more or less study all come in for their share of the Tech students' time. An occasional date may slip in to brighten the week's existence, but on week-ends it is different. Almost everybody that is anybody has a date. A date means a dance, a picture show, sitting in the parlor, attendance at some college function, or, perhaps, a mysterious auto ride on some lonely road.

Freshmen are supposed to stay at home and study on week nights. They do—sometimes. One Tech professor said he feared that students would sometime get together and play "card games" until the wee small hours of the morning. Perhaps, he said, money would change hands.

"Although Lubbock is smaller than some college towns, don't think there isn't plenty of things for a student to do," one college official said. "There are too many for some students."

NEW PROCESS GAS RANGES

Beauty--Quality--Price

Makes this the most popular stove in Lubbock. Our fifth car of these famous gas ranges evidence their further popularity.

FREE!

Beginning Monday, Oct. 29th, until November 7th, we will give one New Process Golden Glow Gas Heater to every person buying a Lorain Equiped New Process Gas Range. This timely offer adds great value to the already low prices of this quality stove and should be of great interest to every thrifty housewife in Lubbock.

FACTS About This Remarkable Stove

The New Process Gas Range is unexcelled for low gas consumption. The baking qualities are no better in any other stove.

The New Process is equiped with the Famous Lorain Oven Regulator —unless the regulator has a RED wheel it is not a Lorain.

The Lorain is made and unconditionally guaranteed by the American Stove Company.

The New Process is endorsed by the leading culinary experts of the nation.

Lorain equipped ovens are used in Domestic Science laboratories of over 2,100 schools and universities.

The Lorain is approved by Good Housekeeping Institute, Priscilla Proving Plant, Forecast Experimental Laboratory and The New York Tribune Institute.

We will take your old stove in trade on a New Process Range or gas heater. We have easy terms for those who desire them.

Pecan Institute For Brown County

Large Crowd Of Farmers, Bankers and Land Owners Expected For Course At Brownwood Nov. 15-16

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 27.—Brownwood is expecting a large crowd of farmers, business men, landowners and bankers at the pecan institute to be held here November 15 and 16. This great number of people is expected because of the wide interest in the question of the loan value of pecan land. The question will be discussed by M. H. Gossett, president of the Federal Loan bank of Houston, and by Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Wade has for the last two years, been gathering data tending to show the value and earning power of land on which pecan trees grow. This value has in the past been based on cotton with no increase allowed for pecan production.

It is believed that the open discussion of the subject at the November meeting will be the first step in establishing the fact that pecan trees on any given tract constitute a tangible and definite asset.

Judge Gossett has requested secretary-treasurers and presidents of National Farm Loan associations within a radius of 75 miles of Brownwood to attend the meeting and 50 or more of these officials are expecting to be present. Invitations have been sent out to bankers and landowners within the same radius and several hundred are expected to be on hand.

Tahoka News

BY MRS. FRANK HILL

FOOTBALL TEAM KIWANIS GUEST

The Tahoka Bulldogs were entertained at Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday. Mr. Nicklaus, the coach, and 19 of the boys were present to enjoy the meal. Mr. Nicklaus introduced the members of the team and Clarence Barnes spoke briefly in behalf of the team.

The Bulldogs play Big Spring team in that city Friday afternoon and will meet the Wilson team on the local gridiron on Friday afternoon of next week.

The Tahoka team is doing some splendid work this year.

ASSOCIATIONAL S. S. MEETING HELD HERE

The first meeting of the Associational Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. organization, comprising the territory of the Brownfield Baptist church was held here last Sunday afternoon. Although the day was a very disagreeable one, a number of the churches were represented and many visitors were here.

Rev. A. A. Brian of Ropesville, representing the Sunday school division, and Rev. Philip McGahey, representing the B. Y. P. U. division, are joint presidents of the newly formed body.

At the meeting Sunday afternoon, Rev. F. N. Allen of Meadow spoke on the benefits to be derived by the churches from such an organization of the B. Y. P. U. forces, and Mrs. J. B. Walker of Tahoka spoke on the same line from the standpoint of the Sunday school.

Dr. R. C. Pender, veteran Baptist leader in Texas and now the field representative of Buckner Orphans' Home, was also present and spoke interestly.

ABILENE MAN OPENS NEW TAILOR SHOP

S. N. Weathers of Abilene, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Weathers, has opened a tailor shop and gent's furnishing business in the building recently vacated by the Cooper-Noble company.

Mr. Weathers is engaged in the same business in Abilene and he had many years' experience in this work. A. P. Fakes, recently of Abilene, is associated with Mr. Weathers in the business here.

COUNTY COURT IS IN SESSION THIS WEEK

County court has been in session this week but no contested cases have been tried. There have been a few pleas of guilty. There were also a number of pleas of guilty entered last week, for such offenses as worthless checks, aggravated assault and other minor offenses.

HOME DEMONSTRATION COUNCIL MEETS HERE

The county home demonstration council met in a regular meeting at the American Legion home, Saturday afternoon.

Meeting was called to order by Mrs. L. Lumsden, minutes were read and approved.

As unfinished business, Mrs. Lumsden gave report of money on hand.

As new business, the box supper was postponed for an indefinite time, to be decided later.

A nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Nowlin, Miss Ina Floyd, Mrs. Ben Moore, Mrs. R. A. Metcalfe and Mrs. J. B. Vickery, was appointed to nominate officers for the county home demonstration council for next year.

Each club was asked to send in a number of suggestions for the year book for 1929.

MISS DUNN GIVES MUSICAL PROGRAM HERE

A musical program was given in the high school Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock by the pupils of Miss Mary Dunn of Lubbock and music pupils of Post and Tahoka.

This program is one of the number to be given by the South Plains Music Teachers' association in different towns of the plains.

PERSONALS

Judge and Mrs. F. P. Works and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gibson of Amarillo visited Prof. and Mrs. W. W. Nicklaus here and Mrs. Nicklaus accompanied them home Sunday to visit a few days. Mrs. Nicklaus is a daughter of Judge and Mrs. Works and a sister of Mrs. Gibson. Judge Works and Mr. Gibson are prominent attorneys of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Wampler of Lorenzo was the guest the first of the week of Mr. and Mrs. Pfluger Wampler. She was called late Tuesday afternoon by a phone message to the effect that her mother was seriously ill in Oklahoma and not expected to recover. Mrs. Wampler is the mother of Pfluger.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hill and baby left for their home in Borger Tuesday after a few days with relatives and friends here. Mr. Hill was formerly an employe in the postoffice here and now holds a position in the postoffice at Borger.

Bill Burleson, Frank Larkin and M. O. Bridges went out on a duck hunting expedition Saturday, visiting one of the big lakes over in Gaines county.

Billie Brandon says that the cotton pickers are coming in rapidly now. He says that his tourist camp was full and running over Monday night, and that he sent a hundred cotton pickers from the camp Tuesday morning. They are coming in every day.

Mrs. N. A. Duncan, better known as Mrs. N. A. Jones, is here this week to dispose of her home and household goods, preparatory to making her home in Cleburne. She is accompanied by her husband, W. L. Duncan.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Sears of Whitewright and Miss Fern Davis of Lubbock were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Larkin. Mrs. Sears and Mrs. Larkin are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Pfluger Wampler visited their parents in Lorenzo and Estacado Saturday night and Sunday.

Frank Larkin is constructing a new residence in northwest Tahoka. It is to consist of five rooms and bath, with stucco finish, and will be an attractive home.

Judge B. P. Maddox and Rev. R. T. Breedlove spoke at Draw to a fair-sized crowd last Saturday night in behalf of Hoover for president.

Mark Keith sustained a fracture of a rib and several bad cuts and bruises on the face and parts of the body when a car in which he was riding struck another car stopped on the highway a short distance north of Tahoka Saturday night. The lights on Keith's car were bad, it is said, and he failed to see the other car in time to avoid a collision. Mr. Keith resides on the Henry Reed place southeast of town.

Fourteen hundred bales of cotton had been ginned at Tahoka Thursday at noon.

A magnet, a new machine put in operation by the state highway department, has been picking up nails on highway No. 9 through here for the last few days.

Jess Allen, 56, employed at the W. W. Brandon service station and auto camp the last three years, died suddenly in the camp last Friday afternoon at about 5:30 o'clock. He was in conversation with Mr. Brandon and others when he suddenly sank down and died almost immediately.

Mr. Allen had no known relatives. He was exceedingly attentive to his duties and could be found almost any time right at his place of service.

The remains were buried at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning in the City cemetery. Rev. B. N. Shepherd conducted the funeral services.

Those who knew Mr. Allen best speak of him in the most complimentary terms and he will be missed by many at his accustomed post of duty.

SLAYER FREED

Circumstantial Evidence Wins For Youth

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (AP)—A chain of circumstances was forged in the county building yesterday down which young John Dempsey, who "killed a cop," slid to freedom from a 50 year prison sentence.

The first link was the key to the bull-pen in which Dempsey waited to testify in a case of two men for a robbery Dempsey said he himself perpetrated. "What's a robbery, 'rap' when you're doing 50 years for killing a cop?" he said.

Somehow, the key was left in the bull pen door. Dempsey reached a hand between the bars, turned the lock, and stepped from the pen.

The second link was the freight elevator—the only unguarded exit from the sixth floor, where Dempsey had been locked up. The elevator operator had gotten off at the fourth floor to listen to testimony in another courtroom. The elevator it was explained, was a "creeper", moving slowly upward of its own accord. It had "crept" to the sixth floor just at the time Dempsey was seeking a way to escape. He rode to the basement and then walked from the building unmolested.

Dempsey four months ago began serving a 50 year sentence for the slaying of Policeman William O'Connor. He pleaded guilty.

Detroit JEWEL Gas Ranges

"One of the Best I Have Ever Used"
---Mrs. Myra Oliver Dougan

From her keynote address to the final detail of the current Cooking School, Mrs. Dougan will stress the importance of a good stove in the preparation of good foods. She really does believe that for a biscuit to be good it must be cooked in a good stove. In the selection of the Detroit Jewel Gas Range to be used for her demonstration, she declares a happy satisfaction in the arrangement. It is not her first experience with this wonderful stove and further states her hopes that it is not the last.

Every woman and child of cookable age should come to hear these educational culinary lectures every day. Matters of vital importance pertaining to the proper preparation of foods will be gone in to and many new dishes will be shown in the making. The cost is absolutely free and the location of the beautiful new UP Town Dance Palace is so accessable and convenient that it will be easy to spend three happy hours each day.

ATTEND THIS SCHOOL AND SEE THESE REMARKABLE STOVES ON DISPLAY!

UP-TOWN DANCE PALACE

Starting Tomorrow and Lasting Through Friday

Free!

A $10 credit each day on one of these beautiful new model stoves will be given some woman attending the Cooking School. Information as to how to receive this gift can be obtained at the school or by coming to our store on Broadway.

Each of the five women will be permitted to deduct this amount from the regular price of the stove. Our installment plan enables you to pay the balance after the first payment is made in suitable monthly payments. No woman is allowed two or more credit allowances during this week.

The Most Beautiful DETROIT JEWEL Ever Made!

New Improvements

Beauty that is supreme in this new and better Detroit Jewel Stove is complimented by the very latest mechanical improvements that tends to make this the "Gas Range Perfect".

For example, the new air circulation system has done more to equalize and evenly distribute the heat than any other improvement in the past decade of stove making. Air chambers and passages causes the heat that originates at the bottom of these cabinet ranges to rise evenly to the top hence, a uniformly cooked morsel.

Construction and size is also carefully analyzed. A sturdy range is the finished product because of this forethought in engineering. Room sizes are taken into consideration and stoves are made to fit any particular need. All in all its just the best in stoves, as you will readily see after a close inspection and the demonstrations at the cooking schools.

There is a stove in our most complete department that will fit your particular need and our budget system will permit the purchase on easy suitable payments. Enjoy better food and greater cooking happiness. Come in any day and let us council with you about your stove requirements.

LEGAL NOTICES

THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff of any Constable of Lubbock County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon J. H. Patrick and R. G. Patrick by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, to appear at the next regular term of the 72nd Judicial District Court of Lubbock County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Lubbock, Texas, on the 1st Monday in November, the same being the 5th day of November, A. D. 1928, then and there to answer Plaintiff's Second Amended petition filed in said Court on the 13th day of September A. D. 1928, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 3164, wherein the Citizens National Bank of Lubbock, Texas, a corporation, is Plaintiff, and J. H. Patrick, R. G. Patrick and Mrs. Mattie L. Patrick, J. W. Teague, W. C. Cook and wife, Mrs. W. C. Cook, Mary E. Spurlock, are Defendants. Said petition alleging.

This being a suit on a $2,000.00 note given to plaintiff by defendant, J. H. Patrick, to plaintiff, wherein plaintiff seeks foreclosure on its collaterial lien on four vendor's lien notes on Lot 12, Block 102, Overton Addition to the Town of Lubbock, Lubbock County, Texas, given by defendant, Mary E. Spurlock, to J. H. Patrick, and seeking foreclosure of such vendor's lien; plaintiff alleging that the other defendants are claiming some interest in said property, which is inferior to plaintiff's liens. In the alternative, plaintiff says if it has lost its lien on said Lot 12, Block 102, it seeks foreclosure of its lien on a part of Sec. 40, and Sec. 39, ETRR Co., land and part of Josefa Diaz league, all in Clay and Montague counties, Texas, plaintiff alleging that defendant, W. J. Teague attempted to convey same to R. G. Patrick, and Myrtle M. Spurlock, to pay the aforesaid four vendor's lien notes, by reason whereof plaintiff acquired a lien on said land.

Herein Fail Not, and have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given Under My Hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Lubbock, Texas, this the 6th day of October A. D. 1928.

STUDY CLUB MEETING

Mesdames C. R. Westerman and W. M. Blakemore were very gracious hostesses to the director, three guests and twenty-five members of the Woman's Study club on Friday Oct. 19, at three o'clock in the home of Mrs. Blakemore on Van Buren.

The lesson was on "Economic Life", the third of a series of lectures on "Social Problems" by Dr. John C. Granbery of the faculty of the Texas Tech college at Lubbock. The highly illuminating lecture covered the topics of property, money, socialism, communism and the democratization of industry. At the opening of the lecture Dr. Granbery announced that arrangements had been made with the extension department for all who desired to receive college credits on the course.

Mrs. Irl Robertson, president of the club, was elected the club delegate to the state convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs at Denton, November 12 to 16. An invitation to attend the Lubbock County Federation of Women's clubs on Saturday, Oct. 27, at Lubbock, was read by the secretary, and accepted by the club.

The hostesses passed a tempting plate of molded chicken garnished with pepper hash, vegetable salad, nut bread sandwiches, coffee and cake to Mrs. J. Gex Williams of Carrollton, Kentucky, Mrs. E. F. Westerman of Fort Worth, Dr. and Mrs. Granbery and Mrs. J. T. Howell of Lubbock, Mesdames R. R. Abell, R. L. Bowman, Joe F. Catching, R. L. Durham, T. T. Easter, O. W. Fagala, W. P. Fifteen ladies were in attendance and lunch was served at the church at noon. Mrs. Joe Wilson of Idalou was a visitor at the meeting.

UNKNOWN MAN HURT NEAR LORENZO

Tuesday about noon a truck, loaded with hogs, was going toward Lubbock and overtook a man walking on the highway. In passing this man a scantling sticking out at the side of the truck struck him on the head, knocking him unconscious for several hours. The driver of the truck stopped, picked the man up, and brought him to Lorenzo, where he received medical treatment at the office of Dr. Laird, and at this time is resting better at the local hotel.

The man has refused to tell his name, where he lives or where he was going. Nothing was found on his person to identify him by, however, he stated that he was no "pauper" and still "no rich man" and that he was "just traveling", and so far that is all that has been learned about him. The driver of the truck was on his way from Vernon to Levelland.

Borah Appeal For Special Congress Brings Argument

Speculation Rife Over Probable Effect of Assertion From Prominent Republican Leader

BY JAMES L. WEST
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—A question running the rounds of political circles here today was to what extent, if any, the views of Herbert Hoover were reflected in the announcement by Senator Borah of Idaho, that he was "thoroughly in favor" of an extra session of congress unless satisfactory farm relief legislation was concluded at the forthcoming short session.

Several elements entered into the speculation, the foremost one being that the statement was issued late yesterday after the Idahoan and the republican presidential candidate had held a long conference over the luncheon table at the Hoover home.

Coupled with this was the fact that Borah has been the principal speaker relied upon by the directors of the republican campaign to reply to the democratic presidential candidate's pronouncements on farm relief, the senator having followed the New York governor through the agricultural west for that purpose.

Then, too, the legislative formula put forward by the senator in his statement, and one which he long has advocated, coincided in major essentials with the three-fold plan advanced by Hoover in his acceptance speech and subsequently elaborated in his West Branch, Iowa, and Elizabethton, Tenn., address.

It is known that there has been some pressure at Hoover headquarters here for a statement from the candidate on the subject of calling an extra session in the event of his election, but thus far this has been resisted. Two days ago a statement was issued saying that the subject had been discussed on various occasions, but that "obviously" no conclusion had been reached.

This statement was issued after Governor Adam McMullen had published a statement that Hoover had told him that if elected he would call an extra session. After the pronouncement from Hoover headquarters McMullen reiterated his statement and there the matter was permitted to rest.

Hoover, himself, in his acceptance speech said the most urgent economic problem in the nation was in agriculture and that the working out of relief constituted "the most urgent obligation of the next administration."

Senator Borah, in his statement yesterday, said the campaign had developed the farm relief issues "so that there need not be any unnecessary delay, and agriculture would get the benefit of it for the coming year."

"There is every reason for a special session," Borah concluded, "and to my mind no sound reason against it."

At the head of Borah's farm relief plan stood a revision of the tariff schedules increasing the duties on agricultural imports. He called moreover, for the passage of a measure, such as he himself has introduced, intended to establish, he said, a "More satisfactory farm marketing system so as to enable the farmers to market their products without being put to enormous expense which is now necessarily incurred." Finally, he asked for the creation of a federal farm board equipped with a revolving fund to assist the farmer in getting his surplus crops to the consumer.

PLAY SAFE!

Play safe. Put Shoulderbilts by LEE of Conshohocken on all wheels, including your spares. By so doing you reduce your hazard to the minimum.

Always put your best tires on the front wheels of your car. A blow-out or a quick puncture of a rear tire is bad enough, but on the front it is positively dangerous.

Watch your tires constantly. At the first sign of weakening, take them to a reliable repair man. If the injury can't be adequately remedied, for the safety of yourself and your passengers, get new tires.

You perhaps know that the law holds you liable for any injury to the passengers in your car.

The price of Shoulderbilts is lower than it ever has been. You will be delightfully surprised to find how little more they cost than the usual 4 ply tire.

Leaders In Political Camps Here Air Their Opinions

Whether State And County Will Go For Smith Or Hoover Is Basis For Disagreement; Everyone Interested

Proponents Of Both Major Candidates Believe Vote Will Show Victory For Their Favorites

By AL HILL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

All interest turns to one week from next Tuesday—November 6.

Who will win? The republicans or the democrats? Governor Alfred E. Smith or Herbert Hoover?

How will Texas go? How will Lubbock county vote?

Perhaps every individual voter has already made up his, or her, mind as to how he, or she, will vote. But everybody is asking everybody else, if not telling them, how the election will go on November 6.

Opinions now are being expressed as to the outcome. The multitudinous questions of this most hectic of campaigns hinge, more or less, on the final outcome at the battle of the ballots.

Look at the Past

To determine a basis of conjecture as to what will happen one week from Tuesday it is necessary to refer to past elections and their that the United States are normally republican, and base their claim on the fact that Coolidge received 382 electoral votes in 1924, to Davis' 136. The total vote was 29,091,417. Then they call your attention to the fact that Coolidge's popular vote was 15,725,003, while that cast for John W. Davis, the democratic nominee of 1924 was only 8,385,586, just a little more than half, Coolidge's lead having been 7,339,417.

The democrats in 1924 carried only the twelve states of the solid South, namely, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia.

Demos See It Differently

To offset this claim the democrats tell us that in 1924 there were 26 states in the union in which the combined democratic and progressive party popular votes exceeded those of the republican party. These states, in addition to the solid south already named, are West Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, Montana, Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Wisconsin. And they tell us that Wisconsin was carried by the progressive candidate for president, Robert M. LaFollette.

Not only this, but the democrats, right are stating that in the states of Indiana, Minnesota, Wyoming, Orgeon and Washington, a change of 100,908 popular votes, which is three-tenths of one per cent of the total cast, would throw these five states into the democratic-progressive side, and added 42 electoral votes to those of the 26 states named, giving a total of 277 electoral votes in these 31 states in which the combined democratic and progressive party vote exceeded, in 1924, the republican votes.

Now we perhaps have things down to a competitive basis for our November 6 battle, by listening to the claims of both parties.

Survey is Made

As to the chances of the democratic party winning this election we read the following from the democratic national committee:

"An election survey in the New York Herald-Tribune, (a republican newspaper) of Sunday, October 14 1928, shows the following states as surely democratic or leaning democratic: South Carolina, 9 electoral votes; Mississippi, 10; Georgia, 14 Louisiana, 10; Arkansas, 9; Alabama, 12; Texas, 20; Florida, 6; Virginia, 12; North Carolina 12; Maryland, 8; Missouri, 18, and New Mexico, 3. Total, 143. If we add the four states of New York, 45; Massachusetts, 18; Connecticut, 7, and Illinois, 29, we have a total electoral vote of 242.

The Herald-Tribune survey indicates the following doubtful states, which are not included in the foregoing table: Rhode Island, 6; New Jersey, 14; Delaware, 3; Kentucky 13; Tennessee, 12; Oklahoma, 10; Wisconsin, 13; Minnesota, 12; North Dakota, 5; South Dokota, 5; Nebraska, 8; Montana, 4; Colorado 6; Nevada, 3; Arizona, 3; a total of 116 electoral votes, out of which Governor Smith has to secure but 24 votes to attain the necessary votes for victory, leaving a margin of 92 electoral votes still in fighting ground.

"The above figures account for the great nervousness around republican headquarters about the outcome of this important election. The outlook for victory was never more certain."

Humphries Figures Some

J. A. Humphries figures that the democrats will carry the following states, with the electoral votes as given: Alabama, 12; Arizona, 3; Arkansas, 9; Florida, 6; Texas, 20; Utah, 4; Virginia, 12; Wisconsin, 13, or a total of 301.

So much for the democratic hopes.

How about some of the republican expectations?

O'Neall Takes Stage

Charles F. O'Neall, chairman of the thirtieth senatorial district anti-Smith organization, enumerates some figures. He claims Texas as to be in the republican column on November 6, and gives the states which he feels will vote for Herbert Hoover and the republican party ticket as follows:

"After a careful check-up of the sentiment in Lubbock county, I am of the opinion that Lubbock county will cast 7,225 votes and that Herbert Hoover will receive 4,102 and Smith 3,123, or the county going for Hoover by a majority of 979. This, I think, will be the minimum.

"As to Texas I have had reports from this northwest section and am well advised on the other parts of the state. It may sound strange to some, but I predict that Hoover will carry Texas by 18,789 majority. West Texas is safe for Hoover. It will be close around Dallas. East Texas is for Hoover, as are the Gulf counties and the Rio Grande valley. The Ferguson counties around Temple are Smith. Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, Abilene, Amarillo, Texarkana, Lubbock, will all go for Hoover. I feel safe in saying that Hoover will carry Texas, therefore, by 18,789 majority.

"In the United States my guess is that a total of 30,000,000 votes will be cast; that Hoover will receive approximately 16,200,000 and Smith will get 11,900,000. The remainder will go to the socialists, etc., or a majority in the United States of 4,300,000 for Hoover.

He lists States

"Of the states that I think will go for Hoover, there are Arizona, California, Colardo, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming. This is a total of 42 states and a total electoral vote of 459.

"Smith will carry Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina. A total of 6 states, and a total electoral vote of 72.

"Paste this in your hat and see how badly it misses. The general result will be the same—Hoover will be our next president."

Keep These Guesses

We will not ask you to paste all of this article in your hat, like Mr. O'Neall suggests as to his predictions, but we do suggest that you clip this out of today's Avalanche-Journal and save it for reference after it's all over. You may paste it in some scrap book, of on a wall, or what-not, if you want.

But, we are not yet through with the subject. There remains a little bit of asking as to Lubbock county, and the states of Texas, from the side of the democrats.

State Senator-elect Pink L. Parrish says that he figures this county will see a total vote of about 5,500, with a majority for Smith of not under 700. Texas, he thinks, will give the democratic party a majority of between 150,000 and 200,000, not under the former figure. In this state he says there will be between 800,000 and 900,000 ballots cast.

In 1924 Lubbock county gave Mrs. Miriam Ferguson a total of 1,584 votes, making a majority for her of 54 votes over those cast for George C. Butte, republican party candidate for governor, who received a total of 1,530. In that election there was only a total of 3,114 votes cast.

The Local Situation

This year Lubbock county has a total of 7,571 paid poll taxes and exemptions. In addition to this figure there are perhaps a few hundred more possible voters, as any one who became 60 years of age before January 1, 1927, are entitled to vote without having secured an exemption certificate. Also, anyone becoming 21 years of age since January 1, 1927, and up the coming election, may vote without securing an exemption certificate. Just how many there are of these two classes, no one can fortell.

Voting precincts in Lubbock county this year have the following qualified voters:

Precinct 1, Lubbock—2,207.
Precinct 2, Lubbock—355.
Precinct 3, Lubbock—299.
Precinct 5, Slaton, northwest—613.
Precinct 6, Caldwell—36.
Precinct 7, Canyon—122.
Precinct 8, Acuff—118.
Precinct 9, Becton—122.
Precinct 10, Center—57.
Precinct 11, Shallowater—246.
Precinct 12, Carlisle—111.
Precinct 13, Wolffarth—75.
Precinct 14, Foster—30.
Precinct 15, Slide—31.
Precinct 16, New Hope—84.
Precinct 17, Hardy—98.
Precinct 18, Idalou—563.
Precinct 19, Monroe—110.
Precinct 19, Grovesville—70.
Precinct 21, Woodrow—84.
Precinct 22, McClung—99.
Precinct 23, Estacada—19.
Precinct 24, Slaton, southwest—284.
Precinct 25, Slaton, Southeast—202.
Precinct 26, Slaton, northeast—293.
Precinct 29, Abernathy—8.
Precinct 30, Union—13.

Precincts 27, 28, 31 and 32 figures could not be had accurately from the records available. Liberty box is a given 6 votes, and the four precincts mentioned are: 27, Nineteenth street, Lubbock; 28, Tony Dyess's store; 31, Posey, and 32, Hurlwood. The figures for these boxes are presumed to have been included in some of the other boxes by county officials making the list as above given. The ones given are accurate enough for you to compare the results of the election on November 6.

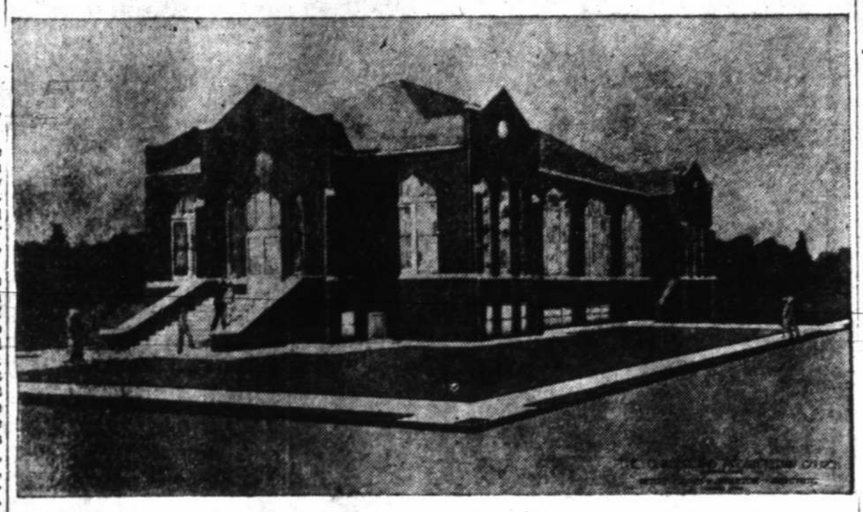
Look At Texas

In watching the votes cast in Texas, it is well to remember that in 1924 the plurality given the democratic party candidate, John W. Davis, was 353,563 votes. For Texas to be won by Hoover this lead must be overcome. The Texas vote in 1924 was, Davis 484,805; Coolidge 130,023; LaFollette, 42,881.

For either Hoover or Smith to win, it will require enough of the 84 states to vote republican or democratic to give them a majority of the 531 electoral votes. States and their votes in the electoral college are listed below for your convenience:

Alabama 12, Arizona 3, Arkansas 9, California 13, Colorado 6, Connecticut 7, Delaware 3, Florida 6, Georgia 14, Idaho 4, Illinois 29, Indiana 15, Iowa 13, Kansas 10, Kentucky 13, Louisiana 10, Maine 6, Maryland 8, Massachusetts 18, Michigan 15, Minnesota 12, Mississippi 10, Missouri 18, Montana 4, Nebraska 8, Nevada 3, New Hampshire 4, New Jersey 14, New Mexico 3, New York 45, North Carolina 12, North Dakota 6, Ohio 24, Oklahoma 10, Oregon 5, Pennsylvania 38, Rhode Island 5, South Carolina 9, South Dakota, Tennessee 12, Texas 20, Utah 4, Vermont 4, Virginia 12, Washington 7, West Virginia 8, Wisconsin 13, Wyoming 3.

New Cumberland Presbyterian Church to Be Dedicated



With Rev. D. W. Fooks, of Paducah, Ky., traveling secretary of the denomination, preaching the sermon, members of the Cumberland Presbyterian church expect to dedicate their new building on Sunday, November 4, at the morning worship hour.

The handsome edifice, shown above, is located at the corner of Tenth street and Avenue O. Rev. O. N. Baucom is pastor.

The Rev. M. Fooks will conduct a 15-day revival service at the church following the dedication of the new building. He has had broad preaching and evangelistic experience and spent a year in China looking after the church's work there.

Works His Way
German Student Now in Canyon

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CANYON, Oct. 26.—Ernest Heyer, of Braunschweig, Germany is the first student to come from his native land to take work at the West Texas State Teachers College.

Heyer, who is 24 years old, landed at Houston on October 7, and entered college on October 17, in the interval he had learned to drive an automobile.

Although he is classified as a senior, and speaks French, Greek, Latin, and Spanish fluently, Heyer has much trouble with English as it is spoken by Texans. His English is very precise and current slang is very hard for him to understand.

Heyer plays the piano well, and his familiarity with the standard operas is a source of wonder to his fellow students.

Heyer is a specialist in radiology.

He expects to take out his naturalization papers soon as he can do so.

Greatest Campaign Of Recent Years Thunders Onto Home Stretch; Count Of Ballots Alone To Decide Choice

Heavy Vote Forecast, With Record-Breaker Likely As Crowds Swarm Leaders Of Both Parties

By BYRON PRICE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP).—Under the stimulus of an ever-increasing popular interest, the presidential campaign is nearing its end amid a bounteous autumnal outpouring of old-time political emotion.

Those who predicted that the unseasonable activity of earlier weeks would satiate the public appetite for politics long before election day find their prophecy unfulfilled. Launched from the doorsteps of the national conventions, the campaign was far ahead of time in starting; but ten days from the finish it still absorbs the active attention of more millions than ever took their politics seriously in any previous presidential year.

Crowds Are Immense.

Unwieldy and unruly crowds troop about the trains and hang on the words of candidates, ex-candidates, and near-candidates. Thousands flock out to cheer at party rallies and march in torchlight parades. Registration lists have skyrocketed. Political headquarters have become mad-houses.

The few remaining days of the campaign will see these activities further intensified. Hoover and Curtis, Smith and Robinson, seconded by as brilliant a galaxy of platform orators as ever answered the call of the parties in modern times, are swinging into the last supreme effort of the battle. It seems certain that the voter is to witness, and be a part of, a final week of political excitement unmatched in a life-time.

East In Spot Light

A generous portion of this activity will find its focus in the east, which during the present week has seen both of the presidential nominees in action. Among them New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Delaware, and Maryland control an even 100 of the 226 electoral votes needed to elect. Every one of these states isstoutly debated.

Governor Smith is concluding his campaign in this seetor, while Mr. Hoover prepares to leave the eastern battle to lesser political figures and start for California to vote. Smith has spoken during the week in Boston, where Hoover preceded him by several days. Hoover spoke Monday in New York, where Smith will make the last speech of his campaign. This whole group of states will see an impressive concentration of political effort in the final week, for each side has given the electoral votes a major place in its hopes of victory.

Other Sections Important.

But the east has no monopoly on the activities of these concluding weeks. Two other important localities on the political map continue to receive painstaking attention. One is the border group of states, containing Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Oklahoma, with a total of 53 electoral votes. The other is the farm group, containing the 43 votes of Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas and Nebraska.

The present week has seen such drawing cards as Charles E. Hughes, William E. Borah, Carter Glass, John W. Davis and James M. Cox exhibited by their respective parties in the border country. Next week the border is to hear Mr. Hoover, who will speak at Louisville and St. Louis on his way west. He likewise will pass through the farm state of Nebraska, where Senator George Norris, newly enlisted as an outspoken supporter of the Democratic national candidates, resides.

Little Change In Issues.

Music Association Will Meet In Spur Friday, Saturday

Three Musicians To Appear In Program On Friday And Lecture Saturday; Local Teachers To Attend

Programs for the sixth annual meeting of the South Plains Music Teachers association in Spur next Friday and Saturday have been announced by Mrs. Mamie I. Neal, program chairman, and three musicians have been secured to participate in a program on Friday evening and give lectures on Saturday morning.

Miss Lena Bell Scudder of Spur is to be hostess to this meeting, which opens at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon to continue through Saturday noon when lunch will be served at the Spur Inn through the courtesy of the Spur P. T. A.

The three musicians are E. Clyde Whitlock, head of the violin department of the Fort Worth Conservatory; Wallace R. Clark, tenor and director of music at the West Texas State Teachers college; Miss Pauline Bigham, accompanist, who is at the head of the W. T. S. T. C. piano department.

Teachers to Attend

The number of local teachers who will attend the Spur meeting has not been determined although it is known that several will attend. Among these will be Miss Mary Dunn, Mrs. John L. Ratliff, Miss Margaret Huff, Mrs. Neal and Mrs. Carl Scoggin.

Following the registration on Friday afternoon there is to be a round table discussion led Mrs. Lillian Butler of Slaton, and Miss Pauline Buck of Crosbyton is to talk on "Psychology in the Teaching Music."

Miss Mary Dunn will give the report of Dr. Whitacre on music festivals in England and Miss Jeanette Ramsey of Slaton will talk on "Music in the Wonder City."

To Name Officers

An annual business meeting will start at 4:30 o'clock and officers will be elected after committees have made reports. This meeting will continue from 9 until 9:30 o'clock the following morning, after which there will be a lecture on the sonata form, by Mr. Whitlock.

Mr. Clark is to talk on "The Story of the Elements of Music" and Miss Bigham is to discuss the selection of a teaching list. Sessions are to be conducted in the first Methodist church and the Friday evening program will be given at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. It is as follows:

Welcome address, George S. Link, Spur; response, Jeanette Ramsey, Slaton; Pastorale Gentile (Frescobaldi-Gaines), Nocturne in D Major (Chopin-Wilhelmj), Ave Maria (Schubert-Wilhelmj)—Mr. Whitlock; To the Distant Beloved (Beethoven)—Mr. Clark; Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen (Clarence Cameron White), Barcarolle, (Macmillen), Hejre Kati (Hubay)—Mr. Whitlock; Who is Sylvia, Hark, Hark the Lark, Faith in Spring, Her Portrait, Serenade, The Erl King (Schubert)—Mr. Clark; Polonaise in A Major (Wieniawski)—Mr. Whitlock.

First Program In Series Sponsored

Local Musicians Appear In Programs Yesterday Given In Tahoka and Lamesa School Auditoriums

The first programs to be sponsored in South Plains towns this fall by the South Plains Music Teachers association were given yesterday afternoon and evening in Lamesa and Tahoka.

Piano and violin numbers were given by pupils of Misses Mary and Beulah Dunn of this city, assisted by Mrs. I. F. Holland, soprano.

Other programs are to be given throughout the year in the various towns. This plan was decided upon recently when sponsors from the various towns in the association met in Lubbock. Musicians in the towns are to give programs i nother places throughout the year.

The program was given in Tahoka yesterday afternoon at the high school auditorium and repeated at the Lamesa high school in the evening.

A violin quartet composed of Clarice Adcock, Roger Eaton, Lucille McCrummen and Norma Smith, played and piano numbers were given by Alice Clarie Teague, Sue Brown, Mrs. Johleria Clem Beard and Carroll Hale Thompson.

HOSTS TO CLUB

Town and Gown Members Play Bridge Friday Eve

Bridge was played Friday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Wallace W. Rix were hosts to members of the Town and Gown club at their home, 2402 21st street. In games of bridge Miss Frances Hoyt Ford and W. J. Miller scored high. Club members and visitors playing were Messrs and Mesdames E. L. Dohoney, F. R. Friend, W. O. Stevens, Miss Jonnie McCrery, Mr. Miller, R. W. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Waghorne, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Tuve, Miss Ford.

Yellow flowers were used throughout the house and pumpkin pie was served with whipped cream and coffee.

Slim Silhouette Still Important in Parisian Modes

Youthful and charming on the young figure is this delicate pink tulle frock from Jean Patou, with two pink satin ribbons girdling it.

Dolores del Rio wears an all red velvet ensemble from Jean Patou, with slightly moulded silhouette and sumptuous badger trim.

By ROSETTE
NEA Fashion Expert

PARIS, Oct. 27.—While the new collections of winter fashions offer women a wider range of feminine touches, such as longer skirts and form fitting bodices, the latest ideas do not promise her an easier life. She still must be mindful of her silhouette.

Whatever might be said of new fashions, the woman herself, who must wear them, is always important. She will have to keep a close watch on her figure, for these beautifully feminine frocks call for slim, suave lines. The slightest hint of "roundness" will necessitate even more discrimination than before, when deciding upon winter clothes.

Take the princess dress, a them all couturiers have worked on. In many instances it clings to the figure down to where the old waistline used to be—somewhere above the knees—and then flares out either to the right, left, or all the way around. Many women will want to have such a dress, but it must be just the right kind of "princess," of the result will be disastrous.

An Adaptable Style

The robe de style, or period dress, is another Lorelei to enamare many women. Contrary to what many may believe, this is a style becoming to almost any type of woman, provided, of course, that it is adjusted to the right proportions of her figure. There are some robes de style in Jeanne Lanvin's collection suitable to the debutante and the young matron, to the very slim and to the fuller figure, to the tall woman and her shorter sister.

It seems this season that Lanvin has achieved a triumph so far as her evening gowns are concerned, and her collection is both sumptuous and varied. An outstanding model was made of thick red moire with a huge pouf effect bodice cut in a deep V at the back. A huge bow in strass above the pouf gave a glittering touch to the frock.

Lanvin uses the most diverse fabrics for her evening dresses, and while she confines taffetas, tulles, moires to her period gowns, many others figure quite extensively.

Velvet, mostly in solid shades, mousseline de soie combined with fine lace or alone, makes up most of the other models, a good part of which are built on the princess dress theme. She has one or two scintillating, strass embroided sheath gowns that are given necessary width by the insertion of tulle godets and panels. Lanvin favors the empire decollete, too, although the rounded neck in front and deep decollete at the back is also featured.

Follows Skirt Lines

Another problem that Lanvin has solved is that of the evening coat to wear with these dipping skirts. While a great many couturiers frankly ignore this question and are showing coats for the evening rather shorter than last season, Jeanne Lanvin gives the same lines to the evening coat. Perhaps it is a question of habit, but there is nothing particularly graceful in seeing long wisps of mouseline or a panel floating round a woman's ankles when she slips her wrap on.

Phillipe and Gaston is another house where wraps are to be found to harmonize with the new dipping skirts, and Monsieur Gaston seems to favor the cape effect in this respect. Beautiful shades of red and blue with elaborate fur collars and cuffs vie with colorful lames and black velvet in the models they show. This house has a reputation for beautiful fur trimmings and this is apparent throughout the whole collection.

There is an afternoon coat which Philippe and Gaston have created suitable for very formal afternoon wear as well as for the evening. Black velvet is naturally the material used, but the ermine trimming fits any occasion. Every detail has been studied with great care and the idea seems an excellent one.

Hallowe'en Parties Given During Week-End Provide Gay Diversions; City Children Attend In Costume

Popular Hallowe'en Season Games Played; Large Party Is Given In Hurd Jones Home

With Hallowe'en as one season of the year when children may have their most delightful times, the ghosts are walking of afternoons and evenings.

Masquerading in tall caps and rhost-flecked suits of orange and black cloth, little folk of Lubbock are attending a series of gay affairs.

Mrs. H. Hawkins Hosts For Two Children

Mrs. Horace Hawkins, assisted by Mrs. R. S. Williams, entertained last evening in the Hawkins home, 1902 17th street, for Rita Louise and Wallace Hawkins.

As children arrived they were adjured to be very quiet as the witches were squabbling over who should tell fortunes. Weird noises and were heard and ghost stories were told during this time. The children received favors from a large grab box to which they were guided by streamers, they bobbed for apples and competed in many other favorite games of this season.

Refreshments were served from the dining room table which was centered with a pumpkin. Orange streamers ran from the chandelier to places at the table. Orange caps uncovered individual pumpkin pies and black witches and owls supported by small glases of punch, were lollypop favors.

Afternoon Party Is Given By Mrs. C. C. Lindsey

Loyette Lindsey was given a party yesterday afternoon by her mother, Mrs. C. C. Lindsey, at their home, 2015 Main street. The little guests came in costume to the house, which was dimly lighted for the occasion. Hallowe'en games were played and refreshments of popcorn balls, peanuts and Hallowe'en candies were passed.

The guest list included Betty Jean Jones, Nannie Margaret Overton, Anseth and Buddy Jones, Jane Sears, Mollie Davis, Madge Johnston, Jack Bates Lloyd, Betty Smith, Gladys Hall, Lois Marie Daniels, Betty Lee Lindsey, Etoile McLeod, Donald Lee Benson, John Morrison, Norma Bradshaw, Bobbie Robertson, Etheiston Provence, Inez Williams, Julia Carroll, James and Virginia Lee Nislar, Elizabeth Barrier, Frances Wilson, Dolene Taylor, Joyce Cravens, Pauline Barrier, Mary Ann Niblack, Janet Barnett, Ophelia Beall, Granville Johnston, jr., and little sister, Mable Jackson, Elizabeth Ann Price, Margaret Cosby and Johnnie Davis.

Large Party Is Given In Home Of Hurd Jones

Hallowe'en lanterns, witches and ghosts formed an eerie scene in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hurd Jones, 1516 Avenue M, last evening when Mr. and Mrs. Jones entertained for their children, Anseth and Buddy, inviting about fifty guests for the occasion.

The entire house was elaborately decorated for the occasion, fortunes were told, games of the season were played, cats were matched in choosing partners before popcorn, balls, apples, sandwiches and hot hot chocolate were served.

T. R. Prideaux Home Scene Of Two Parties Saturday

Two parties were given yesterday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Prideaux, 2408 13th street. Vondelle Prideaux and Louise Jarrott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jarrott, entertained a group of their friends in the evening and Tom Prideaux was host to some five friends in the afternoon.

Both affairs were masquerade parties and Hallowe'en games were played while favors were in keeping with the season. Cookies, popcorn balls and other confections were served.

The afternoon guest list included O. W. Sumner, Jack Coursey, Hunter Dupre, Jack Williams, Jane Warlick, Burnette Beard, Jack Peters, Edgar Shelton, Sara Symes, Winifred Woods, Dalton Woods, Mary and Helen Jarrott, Charles, jr., Billy Powers, Billy Wright.

Among those who attended in the evening were Robert Allan Hill, Robert Reed, Bonnie Fay Tolliver, Marguerite Spencer, Eloise Smith, Edward Williams, Clarence Symes, Addie Lee Carroll, Juanita Johnson, Sharlene Drake, Louise Goodwin, Christine Lane, Geraldine Fox, Richard Snyder and O. L. Tidwell.

Camp Fire Group Hosts To Prospective Members

The Cholena Camp Fire group, which has been recently organized with Elizabeth Montfort as president, entertained on Thursday evening at the home of Doris Shields, 2205 17th street, with a Hallowe'en party particularly honoring prospective members.

Guests came in costume and were met at the door by witches, there was a "chamber of horrors" and other features and piano and victrola music were enjoyed. Refreshments of rolled pimento cheese sandwiches, potato chips, wafers and cocoa were served. Louise McNeill was dressed as a witch and told fortunes.

Those attending were Rowena Scott, Myrtle Marian Shaw, Josephine Weimaker, Jamie McNeill, Mary Elizabeth Alexander, Ruby Parker and Elizabeth Montfort, David Powell, Jack Everhart, Floyd Gunn, M. K. Foster and Davis Vaughn. Mrs. H. R. Taylor, the guardian, attended.

The Woman's Day

Shadowing of the eyelids and curling of the eyelashes now are the finishing touches to a facial as given by the smartest beauty shops. There seems no limit to the little tricks done in the 40,000 beauty parlors of the nation in which Madame and Miss America spend some $5,000,000 every day. There now are contrivances which "spray the face with sunshine," till outer layers of skin fall off, leaving fresh, tender skin beneath.

MAN, OR JOB?

Alice S. Ryan, secretary of the American Master Hair Dressers' Association, explains beauty shop progress thus:

"The thousands of unmarried working women approaching middle life are cognisant of the fact that they will be supplanted by their positions by younger persons if they fail to retain a sprightly youthful look. Women who are employed, for instance, are the women who are dyeing their hair."

I wonder. Do beauty shops run to the tune of millions of dollars because women want jobs or because women want husbands and romance?

SMART JULIANNA

Princess Julianna of Holland, that country's future sovereign, recently entered her own composition in a class song competition at Leyden University which she is attending. The song, submitted without a name in a sealed envelope, won over 120 others.

Commoners have always doted in believing that "those to the manner born" were dumber than they and their offspring. This little tale may make us grant that even blue and noble blood can mean talent and brains, too.

NO EAR RINGS

Chinese women no longer may wear ear rings, according to the Nationalist authorities in North China who stop women and girls in the street and take off their ear rings and unbind their feet if they are not conforming with the new law.

Ear rings mean about as much to a Chinese woman as skirts do to we Occidentals. The lowliest slave maiden always has worn her hoops of brass just as the Mandarin's lady has worn her jeweled ear pieces. They are outraged by an edict which violates a custom of long centuries.

ALL-DAY MEETING

Mrs. John Long Hostess To Friday Society

An all-day meeting of the Friday Needle club was enjoyed Friday in the home of Mrs. J. A. Long, 2203 10th street. Guests gathered for a day of socialities and were served a chicken dinner at noon. Hallowe'en decorations and fall flowers were used throughout the house.

Mrs. W. C. Bryan, a charter member of the organization, was presented with a gold thimble, and Mrs. M. L. Shepherd received a prize for telling the best ghost story.

Club members attending were Mesdames W. A. Childers, W. C. Bryan, Louis Murfee, W. E. Twitty, F. E. Mitchell, J. R. Roach, H. R. Roberson, E. M. Worthy, J. W. Huff, J. M. Denman, A. H. Travis, Harry Hall and R. W. Heim. Guests attending were Mesdames E. Renfro and M. L. Shepherd.

BRIDGE PARTY

Mesdames Murdough, Waghorne Are Hostesses

A bridge party was given Friday afternoon by Mrs. J. H. Murdough and Mrs. W. R. Waghorne in the Murdough residence, 2317 18th street, the following participating in the games:

Mesdames A. T. Stewart, R. S. Williams, Homer Pharr, H. L. Allen, M. E. Farris, W. A. Jackson, G. H. Higginbotham, W. M. Craig, W. H. Abbitt, Edgar Shelton, W. B. Gates, S. B. Haynes, D. D. Cross, F. Y. Robnett and W. G. McMillan. A delicious refreshment course followed the games and tea guests were Miss Ruth Horn, Mrs. Charles Mahoney and Mrs. Jimmie Allen. The Hallowe'en motif was featured.

Mrs. Cross scored high in the games, Mrs. Farris was second high in count and Mrs. Gates cut high.

MISS RIX RETURNS

Local Representative To Conference Returns

Miss Ruth Rix is to retur ntoday from Washington where she has been attending a triennial meeting of the general convention of the Episcopal church.

Education Is Theme of Talks Made In Afternoon By Local Teachers; Lunch Served by City Clubs.

Mrs. Hub Jones, of this city, was elected president of the County Federation of Women's clubs to succeed Mrs. R. A. Baldwin of Slaton yesterday afternoon in a semi-annual gathering of County Club women at the First Baptist church, here.

The election of officers came at the end of the afternoon, the day having been spent listening to speakers on education and club subjects with musical numbers interspersed. Lunch was served at noon at the First Presbyterian church through the courtesy of the City Federation and a program was given at this time with the president, Mrs. J. F. Hankins, presiding.

Mrs. Phebe K. Warner, of Claude, writer and club woman, was the principal speaker yesterday, bringing a plea for cooperation and understanding among rural and city people. Three speakers were on the afternoon program, representing three steps in education.

Miss Florence Parker, of Technological college, spoke on the need of kindergarten training; M. H. Duncan, superintendent of city schools, spoke on the meaning of education and Dr. Allan L. Carter, of Technological college, talked on higher education.

Other Officers

In addition to Mrs. Jones the new officers include the following: First vice-president, Mrs. A. L. Robertson, of Slaton; second vice-president, Mrs. Frank Revier, of Carlisle; third vice-president, Mrs. Jo D. Sargent, of Idalou; secretary, Mrs. W. B. Price; corresponding secretary, Mrs. O. L. Peterman; treasurer, Mrs. J. P. McDonald, of Southwest Ward; auditor, Mrs. C. Z. Fine, of Posey, and parliamentarian, Mrs. Baldwin.

The assembly opened yesterday morning with the singing of America after which Rev. E. E. White of the First Methodist church, led in the invocation, Mrs. W. H. Meador extended a welcome to the visitors and Mrs. J. L. Brabham, Idalou, responded.

Preceding a club institute conducted by Mrs. W. B. Price, Ethel Vera Murfee read "Leetie Yawcob Strauss." Mrs. Warner's address came just before the group was adjourned for lunch.

Merchants and people in the city are dependant upon the rural folk for much of their trade and unless there is a proper understanding between these two classes there cannot be a proper cooperation with their mutual problems, Mrs. Warner said in urging that people of the county work together as a unit.

Supper Dance Is Given On Friday

Dancing Club Members Are Guests At Elaborate Affair at Dance Palace Friday Evening.

Colored lights and elaborate decorations in the Up-Town Dance Palace created a beautiful scene for dancing Friday evening when the Dancing club members were entertained by eight couples.

About forty couples attended the affair and were served a plate lunch at 11:30 o'clock. Eli Hoover's orchestra furnished music, giving two skits with a special dance.

The Hallowe'en theme was carried in the decorations in the spacious hall. Hosts and hostesses were Messrs. and Mmes. George Field, Frank Jones, Guy L. McAfee, John B. Crisler, R. D. Erwin, Velton Spikes, B. C. Dickinson and Charles Read.

Schedule Special Breakfasts During Meeting In Denton

Miss Ruth Horn Represents Technological College On Program to be Given During Club Meeting.

District presidents' breakfasts have been arranged for three mornings during the thirty-first annual convention of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs in Denton November 12 to 16, according to word sent out from the state publicity chairman's office in Plainview.

The program in each instance has been arranged by the president of a district to include a 10 minute talk by some speaker from the college faculty of C. I. A. or the North Texas State Teachers college, both of which are in Denton and are entertaining this convention along with the City Federation of Denton. The club sessions will be at the College of Industrial Arts and delegates will be housed in dormitories on this campus.

Program in Magazine

In arranging the program, the spirit of conviviality has not been lost sight of for each president has taken into consideration that naturally good fellowship is a party of every feast and arranged her program accordingly, in a humorous way. While all district breakfasts will be honoring state chairmen of each district, the speeches in most instances will be confined to the district chairman. In the November issue of the Texas Federation News will be carried the program in full of district breakfasts.

These meals are scheduled to take place in Lowry Hall from 7 to 8:30 o'clock in the morning and will be as follows:

Tuesday morning, First District with Mrs. McAfee Burch presiding and a theme of "Leadership" with Dr. H. H. McConnell of the N. T. S. T. C., as speaker; second district with Miss Hattie ...eathery presiding and Hugh J. P. Vitz speaking on the theme of "A Potpurl of Club Experiences."

Wednesday morning, third district with Mrs. C. A. Fagg presiding and Fred H. Minor as speaker; fourth district with Mrs. Fred B. Robinson presiding and Miss Pauline Humphries of C. I. A. speaking on "Extension Among Club Women."

Miss Horn Speaker

Thursday morning, fifth district, with Mrs. Sam J. Smith presiding and Grover C. Shaw as speaker; sixth district with Mrs. John Perry presiding and E. V. White, C. I. A., speaking; seventh district with T. F. Collins presiding and J. E. Blair, N. T. S. T. C., as speaker.

Miss Ruth Horn of Texas Technological college, is to be a speaker on the program featuring state educational institutions which will be presided over by Mrs. Lee Joseph, general chairman of co-operation with state educational institutions. Speakers for the various educational institutions are to be on this program.

Federation

to bring all forces for good in the county, she said, citing the crime and school problems as examples, Mrs. Warner suggested the efficacy of a County council, composed of the heads of all civic and church organizations.

Federation Is Medium

The County Federation of Woman's clubs is an excellent medium for promoting urban and rural understanding, according to this speaker, who said that, although the promotion of understanding must come through the women who work more disinterestedly than men, the club women are not able to do this alone.

Although Mrs. Warner has long been interested in club work and in the cooperation of rural and city people, she is now at the head of the rural cooperation deperatment in the General Federation of Women's clubs.

The welfare of children may be taken as a goal toward which city and county people may work in their cooperation and, with the best interests of the boy and girl in view, their work cannot go wrong, she said.

A history of the growth of kindergarten training was given by Miss Parker, who said that systematic training is of such value to the small child, that without it he is cheated of some creative education. The child is learning while he is playing and this should be directed, she said.

Education is a process that continues from the cradle to the grave and that cannot be bestowed on one, Mr. Duncan said in his talk. He said that one must win his education and that men are created equal only in the right to grow. He defined liberal education and talked on the various phases of education in a general talk.

The recent tendencies which have made a highter education possible for the marjority of people rather than for a few men of letters, was commented upon by Dr. Carter in his talk. He said that within the last few years educational institutions are offering a diversity of subjects to students, catering to the needs and desires of many young men and women rather than offering literary subjects only.

Musical Selections

During the afternoon there were musical selections. C. E. Allbritton, accompanied by Miss Mary Gresham at the piano, sang "Requiem" and "Little Mother of Mine", a vocal duet was sung by Mrs. R. T. ... and Mrs. J. T. Shaver, accompanied by Mrs. M. Larmer, and Lillian Butler of Slaton, sang ... of Delight" (Harris), accompanied by Miss Jeanette Ramsey ... Slaton.

Kenneth Knickerbocker, played a violin selection at the luncheon, accompanied by Miss Gresham, and Ernestine Lockhart gave a reading. Special guests were introduced at this time and included in this group were Mrs. J. M. Barnhart of Levelland, Mrs. Warner, Mrs. R. L. Bowman, of Lorenzo, chairman of county cooperation in the seventh district, Mrs. Ezzell, president of the Crosby County Federation of Women's clubs, and local speakers.

A collection, amounting to $12.13 was taken in the morning to be sent to a fund that will be used in erecting an American Legion house at Kerrville.

Retiring officers in the Federation include Mrs. Baldwin as president, Mrs. R. T. Campbell, vice-president; Mrs. J. L. Coleman, Woodrow, recording secretary; Mrs. M. A. Pember, Slaton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James Benton, Tonn, Slaton, parliamentarian.

Ballroom Calls for Fluffy, Undulating Costume

By JEAN PATOU
For NEA Service

PARIS, Oct. 27.—It has never entered my mind to undertake to create theatrical costumes. I feel no inclination whatever to do so. There is, however, a type of dress destined to be worn and exhibited to the public which, while not coming under the heading of costume, is discernible by being a shade more extravagant and conveying a hint of eccentricity non-existant in an ordinary gown.

I am now speaking of the type of dress usually worn by the professional "ballroom dancer." An essential condition of such a dress is that it must not by any means look theatrical. Yet it should have a distinctive dressiness about it that would be out of place for a non-professional. For the ball-room dancer's gown is an entirely different one from the ordinary evening gown. In color, cut, decorative ornamentation and even in such things as decolletage and length, it makes its own rules. It is considered an asset for such a gown to attract attention, which of course is never the rule followed in choosing evening gowns for non-professional wear.

Must Be Supple.

But the correct gown for the ball-room dancer should entirely avoid a stagey look. What I dislike in any stage costume, however beautiful its coloring may be, is its lack of suppleness. This, of course, does not apply to character dancers.

The qualities I seek most to achieve when creating such a dress and which are absent in all other stage costumes are those of grace, movement and undulation. Anything likely to hinder movement and the rhythm of the dance—essential factors of such danseuses—is not only to be avoided but accentuated. Every movement the dancer is liable to make should be emphasized by a fluttering of material.

Dancing dresses I have so far created have been conceived on these general lines and therefore are always made of chiffon or tulle. Satins or any such other material, through their very opaque qualities, cannot be expected to give that impression of airy grace which dancers always endeavor to convey. They are compelled to resort to a movement of the hands in order to make their dresses undulate around the body—a movement that may well be called effective, but never should be a necessity.

Feathers or Tulle.

Always with this idea of conveying a sense of fluffiness, I am very much in favor of ostrich feathers as a trimming medium for these dancing dresses, on one condition though, and that is the very careful thought-out way in which it is used. This idea of fluffness is also the reason why tulle dancing dresses are shaded from light to dark and why more thicknesses of tulle are used at the waistline than at the hem. All these technicalities in the actual creation of the dress, aided also by stage lighting, contribute to the general attractive appearance of the danseuse.

All effects or trimmings of a dancing dress, called upon to move with the wearer, must necessarily be used in moderation as it is of the utmost importance they should convey the impression of the performer's lithe body. Another feature I like to accentuate in this type of dress is a distinct waistline, enhanced by a glittering waistbelt. It has no other object but that of outlining the slim grace of the artiste. But this, after all, is one of her absolutely essential requisites.

First Anniversary Dinner and Bridge For Local Society

Hrsbands of Members Are Guests Friday Evening At Affair In M. Wilson Residence.

The first anniversary dinner for members of the Kongenial Klub a social club of the city, was served Friday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maple Wilson at 2407 Broadway.

BREAKFAST — Stewed prunes, cereal, cream, baked French toast, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Liver and bacon sandwiches, head lettuce with French dressing, lemon sponge, milk, tea.

DINNER—Stuffed pork tenderloin, cinnamon apples, sweet potatoes delicious, buttered broccol, frozen ginger-pears, milk, coffee.

Clever planning often makes it possible to serve practically the same meals to both juniors and grown-ups. Children under school age should not be served the dinner meat since they had specially prepared liver and bacon for their luncheon.

Sweet Potatoes Delicious.

Three or four sweet potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup hot milk, 1 tablespoon brown sugar.

It will take from 1 to 1 1-2 pound sweet potatoes to serve four persons. Scrub and boil until tender, remove skins and put through vegetable ricer. Add salt, butter, sugar and hot milk and mix thoroughly. Put again through ricer into a buttered baking dish. Put into a hot oven just long enough to make very hot and serve from baking dish.

Group From Presbyterian Church Enjoys Outing

Meeting at the church and going from there to several homes where they received food which was later prepared and eaten around a huge bonfire in the south part of town, the First Presbyterian Christian Endeavor members enjoyed a Hobo Hike Friday evening.

From the church the group went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Woods where they received buns and went to the R. D. Moxley home to listen to radio and victrola music before going to the A. W. McKee residence to receive weiners. Marshmallows were toasted with the weiners and buns over the fire and a general sing song was enjoyed with Miss Ruth Lefforge accompanying the singing on a ukulele.

Those attending were L. G. Bell, Donald Boggs, Eloise Cook, L. H. Brown, Cecil Dean, Gerald Gordon, J. O. Gordon, Nina Gordon, Inez Hensley, Hubert Hopper, Stewart Galloway, Ruby Kennedy, Elbert Hester, Elmer Hester, Ruth Lefforge Virginia McLean, Rozzie Mae McClaslan, Mary Louise McNeill, Floyd Norman, Corine Overstreet, J. PTA Committee On Child Needs Will Meet In November

State President Tells Of the Aims of Children's Code Commission Which Meets In Austin.

Mrs. Noyes Darling Smith, Austin, president of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, has called a meeting of the children's code committee of Texas for 9:30, the morning of November 1, in the office of the Texas Parent-Teacher associations in the Capitol at Austin. This is the second meeting of the committee which permanently organized at its first meeting, September 14th, and elected Mrs. Smith its chairman. The purpose of this committee, according to Mrs. Smith, is to study the existing legislation in regard to children now on the statute books of Texas in connection with the needs of the children, and from this study to propose the repeal or amending of existing laws and the passage of new laws thought to be for the best interest of the children.

Mrs. Smith explained that the children's code committe was the outgrowth of the child welfare aim of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations which holds as the first step toward child welfare, the training of parents, and, as the second step, protective legislation. In pursuance of this second idea the board of managers of the organization, in 1925, authorized the state legislative chairman, which post Mrs. Smith held at that time, to call together a group of interested people to study and consider the best means of providing protective legislation for the children of Texas.

Since then Mrs. Smith has interviewed many prominent men and women and as a result of the pronounced interest and the desire to cooperate on the part of those seen, the following committee was formed: D. K. Woodward, legislative chairman of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations; Hon. Pat M. Neff, Claud Pollard, Mrs. Cone Johnson, S. M. N. Marrs, Miss Mary Stripp Sanders, Dr. H. N. Barnett, Mrs. I. E. Ledbetter, James McKamy, Judge Ira P. Hildebrand, Judge R. L. Batts, Mrs. Joe Gilbert, Lyman J. Bailey, Mr. Scott, Paris; Dr. W. E. Getsy, Judge T. W. Davidson, Dr. B. F. Pittenger.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

EARLY FALL CARE OF THE HANDS

Your hands require special care after the vacation, and your nails, particularly, are likely to show signs of neglect. I am going to devote this entire article to the care of your nails, for remember no matter how white and soft your hands are, they will not be truly beautiful until the nails are little lovely opalescent gems of loveliness.

MME. RUBINSTEIN

The shape of the perfect nail varies—but before you go to extremes with your nail file stop for a moment and realize that the nail is a purely utility appendage. It is placed at the end of your finger to protect the sensitive nerves situated there, from all kinds of injury. Very short, pointed nails are quite as foolish as the very long ones which the Chinese noblesse protect with jeweled nail guards. Unfortunately, there are women quite as foolishly fond of them as the manicurists are of theirs. The most sensible and correct shape for your nail should be almond, only moderately long, rounded at the ends and corners and a half moon whitely visible at every base.

For the home manicure you need only a few implements—a nail file, an orange stick, a nail brush and a good chamois covered buffer—are most essential.

For the home manicure, scrub the finger tips briskly in a bowl of soapy, warm water. A little perfume or aromatic vinegar will make the operation a little more pleasant, and it also helps to slightly soften the nails so that they can be filed without breaking. Trim the nails with your file, filing from side to tip of the nail, keeping the natural oval curve, and while they are still soft, push back the cuticles. A little cuticle cream will make this even easier. Be careful not to break the skin, as this results in the painful condition commonly called hangnails. To avoid injuring the nail itself, it is a wise precaution to wrap the end of your orange stick in a film of cotton well moistened with cuticle cream or oil. You may use either powder or liquid polish to tint the nails, but do not use it indiscreetly. The vivid raspberry which so many people mistakenly effect is never used in the really fine professional manicure shops. After the powder is on, polish with the buffer, and your manicure is finished. Or, if you prefer, use a good liquid polish.

A little nail white makes the nail ends more attractive, and removes all discolorations.

Fragile nails may be treated with a little vaseline, cleansing cream or hand cream, which will remedy hard brittle, easily broken nails. A cut lemon rubbed over them will strengthen them and correct a tendency to hang nails.

AND KITCHEN UTENSILH FROM MOORE BROTHERS

We are happy to announce that Mrs. Dougan will use all of the pans, roasters and kitchen utensils that she will use during the cooking school from our complete stock. She states that she can readily see why South Plains and Lubbock women make this store so popular because of its completeness of stock and reasonableness of price. Inspect the utensils she uses at the school and come to Moore's next time you need this hardware.

Mrs. J. J. Smelser Heads Society Now

With the resignation of Mrs. Emmett Burford as president of the Business and Professional Women's club, Mrs. J. J. Smelser became president and Mrs. C. L. Hale was elected vice president.

The club met Friday evening with Mrs. Hale and Mrs. E. B. Holland at 1904 16th street for a short business session and games of forty-two. The club is to have a food sale next Saturday.

Miss Beulah Cole and Miss Lela Kendall made high scores in the games. Others playing were Mesdames Burford, Northcutt, V. M. Frazier, C. E. Moreman, J. J. Smelser, Lillian Gibson, Misses Ruth McCormick, Mattie Randolph, Marguerite Whipp, Mable Lee Winegar. Refreshments were passed.

Social Happenings Of Plains Recorded

Bridge and Forty-Two Are Diversions In Towns Of South Plains; Few Weddings Recorded.

Children's parties have been among the social happenings in South Plains towns during the week that ended yesterday. Miss Edna Pearl Cox of Littlefield celebrated her thirteenth birthday with a party on Wednesday evening, having 24 guests and a theater purty was given in Muleshoe on Saturday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. A. V. McCarty for their daughter, Dora Nell, who is ten years of age. Guests included Marguerite Hicks, Anna Margaret Hart, Sybil Mae Coker, Eva Harper, Lillian Roach, Marie Bucy, Crystal Kennedy, Carrie Agnes Lee, Bettie Nelson, Hazel Nelson, Evelyn Bowman, Dora Nell McCarty, Mack Lee and Leon McCarty.

One of the delightful affairs given in Plainview last week was a bridge party on Thursday afternoon complimenting Mrs. W. A. Martin of Amarillo and given by Mrs. Carl Miller. Among the guests were Mesdames Martin, C. W. Cory, Ellis Carter, O. B. Jackson, Fred Jarnagin, Hugh Tull, Earl Jefferies, John Mathes, J. W. Walker, Lester James, T. C. Shepherd, J. Harvey Hanson, Ben Smith, Sam Harvey, E. H. Bawden, W. O. Daniels, O. M. Unger, Claude Power, Wylie Boyle, L. B. Platt, John Newton, Guy Jacob and Misses Lucile Putman, Josephine Wayland, Mollie Goode, Mrs. Dave Collier and Mrs. A. C. Hinn.

In Snyder Society

Among the outstanding social events in Snyder last week was a bridge and forty-two luncheon given on Wednesday by Mrs. Dixie Smith, who arranged ten tables for games and a prettily appointed luncheon. The hostess was assisted by Miss Ruth Smith. Another Snyder affair was a Hallowe'en party given by Mrs. Charles Noble for members of a Baptist Sunday school class, the occasion closing a contest that had been conducted among members.

A wedding of interest in Amherst and the surrounding section is that of Miss Lila Pearl Terrell and Johnnie Graham which was consummated last Sunday in Sudan with Rev. Claude Ledger, Methodist pastor, officiating. The bride is a teacher in the Amherst schools and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Terrell of near Sudan. The groom, who is the son of Mrs. J. C. Davis of Snyder, and is a business man of Amherst where the couple will live.

A new social club, the T. E. society, was organized in Amherst last week among a group of men and women and will meet on Thursday evenings to play forty-two. Charter members are Messrs. and Mesdames Lloyd Crosby, Gerald Hendrick, George Harmon, Ernest Walden, Stanley Sanders and Ray Blessing. Mrs. Ben McGee of Amherst entertained the 400 Bridge club on Wednesday afternoon with a three-table party.

Marriage of Interest

Ralls people were interested last week in the marriage of Roy Harrel of that city, and Miss Jessie May Shaw of the Cone community. The couple was married in Slaton last Saturday evening by Rev. M. S. Leveridge.

Among the social happenings Floydada last week were a birthday dinner served by Mrs. P. T. Rucker honoring her mother, Mrs. W. D. Smith, and a party on Wednesday given by Miss Ruth Collins for the Wednesday Bridge club.

PARTY FOR SON

Mrs. J. R. McKinley Has Party Yesterday

Mrs. J. R. McKinley entertained with a birthday party for her son, J. R. McKinley, jr., yesterday afternoon at 1611 19th Street. Colors of pink and white were used in the refreshments of ice cream and cake.

Guests were Verna Lee and Pat McKinley, Clara Lee Norman, Miss Frances Norman, Barbara Fae, Grace, Lewis and Nell McKinley, Mary Moore, Jack Terrell, Katherine McCaslin, Lorena McCaslin, Ann and Charlotte McKinley, Clarence Westefer, Billy and Ruth Hardeman.

Miss Laverne Garrison and Thelma Jackson attended the ball game in Fort Worth yesterday.

FRIGIDAIRE

Of Course In Mrs. Dougan's Model Kitchen

Mrs. Myra Oliver Dougan, the nationally famous domestic science expert who is conducting the Avalanche-Journal's Free Cooking School, especially requested that a new Frigidaire be placed at her disposal during her lectures and demonstrations.

silent - - economical - - dependable - -

—those are the reasons for the over-whelming preference for this type of electrical refrigeration by hundreds of Lubbock and South Plains homes. Add to those features the fact that it is an ornament to even the finest home, and you know why this preference is easily understood.

See the NEW Frigidaire in operation at the Avalanche-Journal's Free Cooking School beginning tomorrow.

Tech Faculty Faces a New Problem; Activities vs. Books a Question

Whether the age-old adage "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" can be reversed to mean "all play and no work also makes Jack a dull boy" is a problem confronting the faculty at Texas Tech. But whether or not the "all play" theory has anything to do with dullness, the teachers all agree that it doesn't lend itself toward good grades.

Of the two classes of students of these college, those who place too much emphasis on studies and those who place too much emphasis on student activities, very few can be found of the "happy medium"—those who blend the two together properly, according to the opinion of college authorities.

Change is Seen

"The entire attitude toward education and the emphasis in gaining an education has experienced a considerable change during the past 75 years," said Dean James M. Gordon of the college. "The new psychological theory is based on the belief that we learn by doing and that school is not mere preparation for life but is life itself.

"There is a decided trend from the old idea of book learning," he continued. "At the Tech it may be seen in the popularity of the business administration courses, in the organization of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and in the annual and school paper work.

"In many older institutions a tradition of not studying has been built up. This is not the case at the Tech and I believe that the grades will show that the student body here studies more than in the average college of this size."

Defends "Activity Hounds"

In a recent article in the North American Review, Dean Max McConn of Lehigh university defends that class of students which he describes as giving "only a compulsory minimum of attention to studies. They give a mixmum of attention to student activities. And they are right."

Dean McConn declared that the average modern youth is not fitted to pursue the bookish knowledge which was the sincere aim of education in former days; that they are not intellectual; and that they are not capable of higher education in the old sense; that they are devoted primarily to the democratic object of training practical business men.

Professors of Tech college agree only partially with this surprising defense of McConn's. The majority of them feel that although "book learning" is by no means the only purpose of colleges that it is far too important to be considered minor in importance.

The club will meet Thursday, November 1, with Mrs. Findley.

HATTIE STALLINGS CIRCLE

The Hattel Stallings Circle of the W. M. U. met with Mrs. Campbell at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. There were 10 present. After the regular business session, the remainder of the time was devoted to our lesson study. The next circle will meet with Mrs. Dunn, Monday, November 12.

SMITH WARD BUILDING UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Prof. R. L. Gibson, principal of the Smith Ward School, reports that work on the new school building at the Smith Ward, was progressing very satisfactory and that they expected to be ready for occupancy by December 1.

This is a $10,000 school building and a splendid house which will give adequate rooming facilities for this ward school, and one that the district will be proud.

HONORS MOTHER

Mesdames J. A. Parks and Jake M. Mabe entertained Wednesday afternoon with a surprise birthday party for their mother, Mrs. G. M. Johnson, on her seventieth birthday anniversary, at the home of Mrs. Parks, in Fifth street.

The afternoon was spent in pleasant conversation and a delicious luncheon plate was passed by the hostess.

Little George Mabe, grandson of the honoree, acted as gift bearer and presented the honoree a shower of lovely gifts from friends. The guest list included Mesdames J. W. Aynes, W. T. McCurdy, L. B. Culwell, J. P. Lott, A. K. Lackey, G. W. Huddleston, C. E. Roy, W. D. Lamar, Gip Perkins, John Lemond and little son, John, Jr., of Lubbock, and the honoree.

CHIEFS ARE GUESTS OF ROTARY CLUB

E. H. Hendricks had charge of the program Tuesday at the luncheon. Edgar Hutchins, newly-elected judge, addressed the club. His subject was "Courtesy of the Business Men Toward Athletics." "It's a great privilege," said the speaker, "that the business men have to let the visiting team know that they are welcome. Courtesies, like giving the visitors the best side of the field, is an opportunity," said the judge. He also said that the citizens could do much to show the officials courtesy.

W. P. Walker said that at this time he thought this the best move the Rotary club had made, in getting behind the football boys. This body, as a whole, he said, would give all the encouragement possible.

Lloyd A. Wicks, a visiting Rotarion from Ralls, was present and said that he was mighty glad to meet the football boys face to face. This kind of meeting teaches coordination and love of town, he said.

The high chiefs present were: Roy Karr, Boyd Hare, Collin Hilliard, J. C. Hefley, Joe Smith, Odie Karr, Marvin Gamble, Albert Gamble, Robert Curry, Perls Perser, Robert Work, Leonard Surginer and Gergia McDermitt and Finis Vaughn and J. I. Weathersby.

MASSED BANDS TO MEET IN CROSBYTON NEXT

The Crosbyton High School band went to Abernathy Saturday, where they participated in massed band playing. Abernathy was hostess to the band boys on this occasion.

It was voted that the next performance be held at Crosbyton on November 17. The purpose of these rehearsals is to form a gigantic massed band from the South Plains to attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, which will meet in El Paso, in June.

LEAGUERS MEET IN DISTRICT ASSEMBLY HERE

With over 50 guests registered for the quarterly district meeting of the Methodist Epworth league, the assembly, which met here Saturday and Sunday of last week, was declared a success by the officials of the organization.

Saturday morning was taken up most with registering and meeting of old friends and the making of new ones. The 11 o'clock sermon was preached by Rev. G. P. McCullum of Lubbock on the subject, "Do We Need Christ?" The lunch Saturday was served by the Woman's Missionary society, assisted by members of the local Epworth league.

The program Saturday afternoon began by a period of recreation, led by Miss Eva Fay Huffaker, of Tahoka. J. E. Shewbert, field secretary of the conference, then took a period in which he discussed the league and held an open discussion. The evening recession was given over to a picnic and vesper service held at the Blanco state park. The vesper service was held by Rev. J. F. Michael.

Sunday program was begun by a morning watch held by J. E. Shewbert, which was well attended. Rev. T. M. Johnson, local pastor, filled the pulpit at the morning hou. The afternoon was taken up with a business session.

MURET DORSEY RECEIVES BURNS ABOUT THE FACE

Last Monday morning when Muret Dorsey opened the furnace door of the school building to turn on the gas for the first time this season, he struck a match to light up the gas and at the same time he did that, the whole room seemed to catch afire, causing an explosion, throwing Muret backward onto the floor. He was burned about the face and hands painfully, but not seriously.

Muret was janitor at the school last term, and Mr. Morrison had asked him to come and show him how to turn the gas on. He turned the putside cutoff on, but the automatic cutoff on the inside was also on. Dorsey says that he has no idea how the inside cutoff was open.

The furnace and building was slightly damaged by the explosion.

PERSONALS

Mrs. L. B. Culwell has returned from a trip to Henryetta and Shawnee, Okla.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson was called to Thalia Monday to conduct a funeral of an old friend. Mrs. Johnson and son, Wilson, accompanied him.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Snodgrass and baby, Patsy Nell, of Snyder, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Rutherford.

Fred and Janet Sherwood and Curtis Smith, of Childress spent the week-end with Crosbyton friends.

E. J. Norman went to Childress Saturday, where he filled his regular appointment on Sunday.

Bud Tyler, of Jacksonville, great uncle of Mrs. Grady Hill, was here Friday visiting the family.

Mrs. M. A. Stanley is here on a visit with her daughter, Mrs. John Alexander, after an extended visit in the north.

Prof. M. W. McConnell, superintendent of the Robertson school, was in Crosbyton Saturday. Mr. McConnell visited the Rev. T. M. Johnson and family, who are old friends.

W. H. Cato, father of Mrs. Happy Dyer, passed away at the home of the family near Slaton Friday. The body was shipped for burial at Westminister, Collin county, and interment was made Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hill attended the eighty-fourth anniversary of Mr. Hills' grandfather, J. B. Morring, of Idalou, Sunday. Mr. Morring lives in Erath county, but was at Idalou on a visit. Mr. Hill reported that a large crowd was present and an enjoyable time was had.

GLOVE SECRET

The French know how to launder washable gloves perfectly. Their secret lies in the fact that they use tepid soap suds for washing, tepid soap suds for rinsing and for the last tepid suds they rinse in, they add a tablespoon of glycerine.

Well Balanced Program Features Week In Theaters

John Gilbert Is Starred In Gang Theme At Palace

Dorothy Mackail And Jack Mulhall Will Be Leading Actors In Comedy Monday At Lindsey

AMUSEMENT PROGRAM

Palace

Sunday: Feature Picture, "Heart to Heart." Special musical concert including Gibson and His Missouri Tigers, under direction of Sam B. Read.

Lindsey

Monday: Dorothy Mckail and Jack Mulhall in "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath."

Lyric

Monday: Dorothy Mackail and Jack Mulhall in "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath."

Lyric

Monday: Ivan Moskine in "Michael Strongoff."

Rex

Monday: Cliff (Texx Lyons in "Red Gold.'

Uptown Dance Palace

Gibson and his "Missouri Tigers" every night except Sunday from 8:30 until 12.

A well-balanced entertainment menu is offered this week to the Lubbock amusement seekers. Romance, crime, comedy, history and wild west are blended together to form a pleasing variety on the week's theater program.

Gilbert in Yiddish Role.

Gilbert plays the role of a young Jewish boy who grows up to become a gangster. In a Greenwich village brawl he shoots a man and is sent to Sing Sing for four years. He is released on a Friday in time to arrive home to his mother in time for the Shabbas ceremony—the first time the ancient ritual has been filmed.

The pathos of a home coming of a former convict is pictured with touching reality under the direction of William Night. The film was adapted for the screen from a stage play by George Abbott and Dana Burnett.

The unexpected visit of town men to a Turkish bath on ladies' night furnishes the amusing climax in the picture, "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath," co-starring Dorothy Mackail and Jack Mulhall, which begins at the Lindsey theater tomorrow.

This hilarious situation is handled with such masterly skill by Edward Cline, director, produces much laughter. It is a question of which is more embarrassed, the two men or the bevy of girls in the Turkish bath.

Western at Rex.

"Red Gold," a five-reel western thriller, is the offering of the Rex Theater tomorrow. The production stars Cliff (Tex) Lyons and promises thrills and excitement aplenty.

The pages of history will be thrown open to theatergoers tomorrow at the Lyric theater with the showing of "Michael Strogoff," a picture of the French Revolution, based on historic fact. This is a Jules Verne melodrama, under the direction of Carl Laemlle. Ivan Moskine carries the leading part.

In addition to the feature picture, "Heart to Heart," at the Palace theater for today only, an added attraction has been arranged for the Sunday amusement seekers of the city. A special musical concert, under the direction of Sam B. Read, Palace musical director, will feature the afternoon's performance.

Missouri Orchestra Here

Gibson and his "Missouri Tigers," from the University of Missouri, are headliners on the concert. The ten-piece orchestra will present a stage performance including singing and playing.

The remainder of the program includes the Musical Laynes, featuring the Texas Wonder Girl; Leslie Wells, wizard of the Ivories; and Sam B. Read as the Mighty Robert Morton. The last show will begin at 5:15 o'clock.

Coming here from a summer's run in one of the leading dance pavilions of Kansas City, Gibson and his "Missouri Tigers", from the University of Missouri, the ten-piece orchestra is proving a sensation at the Uptown Dance Palace. The orchestra plays from 8:30 to 12 o'clock every night except Sunday.

Orchestra To Be Presented Today On Palace Stage

Gibson And His Jazz Band, Direct From Kansas City, Will Be Attraction With Singing And Playing

An added attraction for the Palace Theater for Sunday matinee will be an orchestra concert by Gibson and his ten-piece Missouri Tigers, from the University of Missouri.

The orchestra only recently finished an all-summer contract at Fairyland Park in Kansas City, which is considered one of the finest dance pavilions in the Central Middle West. Gibson and his boys now furnish music at the Uptown Dance Palace every night except Sunday.

During the 1927 season this orchestra was the center of attraction at Rainbow Inn, of Columbia, Mo., home of the University, and was one of the most popular rendevous of college students.

The concert here this afternoon will be in the form of a stage presentation, including singing, playing and other added feature entertainments.

Jewish Ritual Is Filmed To Add To Realism Of Movie

'Four Walls', Of Gangland Theme, Stars Gilbert And Joan Crawford; Ritual Is Shown For First Time

The Shabbas ritual given every Friday evening in every orthodox Jewish home furnishes one of the most dramatically impressive reverences in John Gilbert's new starring picture, "Four Walls," which opens Monday to the Palace Theater.

Gilbert plays the role of a young Jewish boy who grows up to become a gangster. In a brawl in a Greenwich Village night club he shoots a man and is sent to Sing Sing for four years.

Is First Filming

He is released on a Friday and goes immediately to his home. There his mother (Vera Gordon) welcomes him just at the dinner hour and they go through the simple but ancient Shabbas ceremony. It has never before been filmed for a motion picture.

The ceremony takes place at the dinner table where the mother places a mantle over her head (to keep the spirit in) and lights the four Shabbas candles. After the candles are lighted she makes a short prayer.

Gilbert keeps his hat on during the ceremony for the same purpose as his mother wears the mantle. Carmel Myers, the only other woman in the scene, wears no veil because as a young unmarried woman it is not considered necessary.

William Nigh directs the scene in such a dignified and simple manner that it becomes unusually effective from a dramatic standpoint and helps the audience to appreciate the pathos of the homecoming of the ex-convict.

Joan Crawford has the leading feminine role in the picture which was adapted by Alice D. G. Miller from the stage play by George Abbott and Dana Burnett.

TRAPPER CUT OFF TOES

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C.—J. Omera, trapper in the Upper Finlay river district, was forced to amputate his toes when they became infected following frost bite. Recently he came to a local surgeon for further treatment, but was told the original operation was so skillfully done that no further attention was necessary.

WHERE WORKA, FROSH

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa.—This borough saved some money and freshmen in the local high school learned the meaning of "labor" recently. The seniors got the happy thought, corralled the lower classmen and put them to work repairing holes in the streets. But it diddn't last long because the freshies had hands too tender for that sort of work.

When eight boys were arrested for stealing at Caribou, Me., the court placed their parents on probation.

Hilarious Situations in Turkish Bath Comedy Are Lindsey Features

Wouldn't it alarm you, girls, if you were enjoying yourself in a Turkish bath on ladies' night and two men suddenly entered?

That is just what happens in the First National picture, "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath," co-featuring Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Mulhall, which is being presented Monday at the Lindsey theater.

This hilarious situation is handled with such masterly skill by Edward Cline, director, under the personal supervision of Edward Small, that convulsive laughter results. It is a question whether the two men seeking to escape the police, are more embarrassed than the women when they drop into a bevy of bathing beauties.

Naturally, an unprecedented situation like this requires a cast of consummately skillful artists, so Mr. Small gathered in support of Miss Mackaill and Mulhall Jimmy Finlayson, Ethel Wales, Sylvia Finlayson, Ethel Wales, Sylvia (Mother) Ashton(Gwinn Williams, Reed Howes, Fred Kelsey and Harry Clark.

"Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath" is another Asher, Small and Rogers comedy drama, a worthy successor to such screen successes as "McFadden's Flats" and "The Gorilla."

Helps Atheist

Mrs. Julius Makes March At Jail

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 27 (AP)—Mrs. Marcet Haldeman-Julius wife of the Girard, Kansas, publisher has begun picketing in front of the city jail where Charles Smith, president of the American association for the advancement of Atheism is serving a sentence imposed for his activies against a proposed anti-evolution act in the state. After Mrs. Haldeman-Julius had circled the jail several times with placards in defense of Smith she was interrupted by police but after a conference with her attorneys, Chief of Police Rottenberry decided she had violated no city ordinance. She resumed her picketing.

A SOUNDLESS WHISTLE

PARIS—Police of this city now have whistles with which they may summon help without making an audible sound. The notes are pitched so high that the ear can not detect them. But concealed microphones get the signals, in Morse code, and flash the message to police headquarters, where flying squads are always ready to dash to the scene.

A RAZOR STORY

NAZARETH, Pa. — Conscience combined with a serious illness caused a man to return a razor to a local hardware store recently, which he had stolen from there 15 years ago. As a reward for his changed attitude the owner of the store gave the penitent a new razor to take the place of the one returned.

TAUNT COSTS LIFE

ORANGE, N. J.—Stanley Cysick, 12, taunted another boy—smaller than himself. He told him he was afraid to fight "fair fists." But the little fellow got tired of being the goat and one day he punched Stanley behind the ear, causing a cerebral hemorrhage and death.

Radio May Next Prove T. B. Cure

By NEA Service.

BREMEN, Germany, Oct. 27.—Radio may be of untold benefit to medical science, if the experiments of Prof. Esau of Jena on mice prove adaptable to humans.

Prof. Esau inoculated 30 mice with tuberculosis germs and exposed 15 of them to ultra-short radio waves. After a month, the 15 mice treated were well and normal. The other 15 died of consumption.

An apparatus constructed by Prof. Esau is not larger than a cigar box. It uses energy of only a fraction of one watt.

Use of these short waves is dangerous, however, if not applie properly. They increase the temperature of the body one degree centigrade a second, affect the nerves and destroying cells containing albumen.

THEY'RE OFF

COLUMBUS, Ohio—The next time F. H. Millikan goes hunting he will wear a bright red cap instead of a brown one. He was one of the first victims of the season at West Mansfield, when another hunter mistook his cap for a squirrel.

COURT PREVENTS SON'S TESTIMONY

ATLANTIC CITY—A 12-year-old boy was saved from giving testimony against his own mother by Judge William H. Smathers in Domestic Relations Court here recently.

Counsel for Herman Myers tried to substantiate a charge of infidelity against Mrs. Myers by placing the boy on the stand. But the court ruled otherwise.

"I will not allow this boy to give testimony that may harm his mother. The moral and human elements are stronger than legal right," said Judge Smathers.

Postmaster Took First Auto Ride In New Chevrolet

Oregon Letter Handler Had Been Isolated From Rest Of World Since Advent Of Motor Cars

AGNESS, Ore., Oct. 27.—Shades of the pony express, the air mail, and all these other conveyances, fast and faster, and from time to time have upheld the efficiency of the United States mails—the village postmaster here has just experienced his first ride in an automobile.

His name is George Rilea, he is 63 years old, and it has been 25 years since he has set foot in an urban community. There is nothing backward about Mr. Rilea, and no mere superstition was responsible for his failure heretofore to ride in a motor vehicle. It's like this: There are no automobiles in Agness, and on the few occasions back 25 years ago when he saw "horseless carriages" in Chicago and Portland, no one asked him to take a ride.

When there is such penomenon as Mr. Rilea in existence, chances are that his identity and location will be discovered by somebody's "nose for news." So, sure enough, it was Edward M. Miller, automobile editor of the Portland Oregonian, who found out all about Rilea, and determined that if an automobile could be gotten to Agness Mr. Rilea would be induced to take a ride.

Now, this matter of getting to Agness in itself had never before been accomplished in company with a modern automobile. So, Mr. Miller went into conference with a friend, Frank Perkins, who knew something of the difficulties of traversing Northern Oregon, and who knew a lot of Portland automobile men, who would be interested in the venture.

Perkins jumped at a chance to traverse the rushing Rogue river, and immediately got in touch with the officials of the Chevrolet Motor company. He was explicit in outlining the dangers of getting up the Rogue to Agness. There were grades, he said, and not really adequate ferry.

Hazards or no hazards, the officials decided, there never had been a road to precarcious for a Chevrolet. So it came about that on a morning in Late September, Miller and Perkins set forth in a brand new Chevrolet roadster for the Rogue and Agness.

The next morning after a ferry ride across the northern slip of the Rogue, followed by a one mile drive to Gold Beach, the travellers found themselves at the gateway to their adventure. They were introduced to Frank Lowery, the champion boatman of the Rogue, and with him studied the chances of loading the Chevrolet roadster on a motor boat 26 feet long and six feet wide. To the city chaps were appreciative; but not so the bland Mr. Lowery.

Then followed a task by no means easy. With the aid of six men, planks were laid out leading from the bank to the boat. When the car was driven on, the front wheels stopped until the hub caps rested on the boat sides. Next the hind wheels were taken off and brake blocks permitted to rest on the prow. Would the boat run, now? And, if it did, would the car keep its balance? Nothing worried Mr. Lowery. Soon the party was "put-putting" up one of the most dangerous and beautiful streams in the northwest.

Monday morning at 9 a. m., the Chevrolet, its rear wheels and bumpers restored, had found the end of its quest. It stood resplendant before the postoffice at Rattlesnake avenue and Cougar street in Agness, and the genial gray haired Mr. Rilea was walking down his front steps to greet his visitors.

As we have said, there is nothing backward about Mr. Rilea. First, he listened to Mr. Perkins tell of the riding virtues of the Chevrolet, and then he asked to look under the hood. Five minutes had not passed before Mr. Rilea with Mr. Perkins at the wheel was riding up the length of Rattlesnake avenue at the rate of 15 miles an hour. The avenue is really only a long lane. The speedometer measured it at .3 of a mile. But it was long enough to get all of Agness out to see the sight of their postmaster riding over the road, his hands holding tight to the sides of the roadster, while children ran back into their houses, screaming.

So it was that one of America's postmasters, who had not ridden in an automobile, got his first ride. And now the modernization of Mr. Rilea is going a step further. "I'm going down to Portland with mother one of these days," he said addressing his friends before their departure, "and see my first movie."

Five Powerful Reversible Motors Using Liquid Gas for Fuel Bring Graf Zeppelin Across Atlantic

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Five 12-cylinder 550 horsepower reversible engines, using either liquid or gaseous fuel, brought the giant German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, across the Atlantic to America.

These motors are enlargements and perfections of the type of engines on the U. S. navy's dirigible Los Angeles, which was brought over from Germany where it was built in 1924. A description of the new motors and the way they are used in the Graf Zeppelin has been given out here by F. W. Von Meister, general agent of the Maybach Motor company, which has built them.

The VL-T, which is the technical designation for the new motor, develops 550 horsepower at Friedrichshafen and 600 horsepower at sea level, due to increased compression, aluminum pistons and carburetor alterations, says Von Meister.

"While weight is the primary consideration in an airplane engine, fuel economy and reliability are the prime requisites of an airship engine," he goes on. "This is because on long cruises an airship motor runs as long as 100 hours without stopping. If it can save fuel while producing a given horsepower, the reduction in the total amount of fuel that has to be carried will more than offset its greater weight.

Good for 2000 Hours

"Most airplane engines require overhauling every 200 hours or so. Were that true of the airship motor, it would mean tearing it down after twice crossing the Atlantic, necessitating either a long lay-off for the ship at the end of each round trip or two sets of engines. Tests to which the VL-2 has been subjected at Friedrichshafen indicate that it will need minor adjustments only once every 1000 hours and that major overhauling will be necessary only once every 2000 hours.

"This advantage is largely attributed to the use of the new Maybach roller bearings throughout virtually the entire engine.

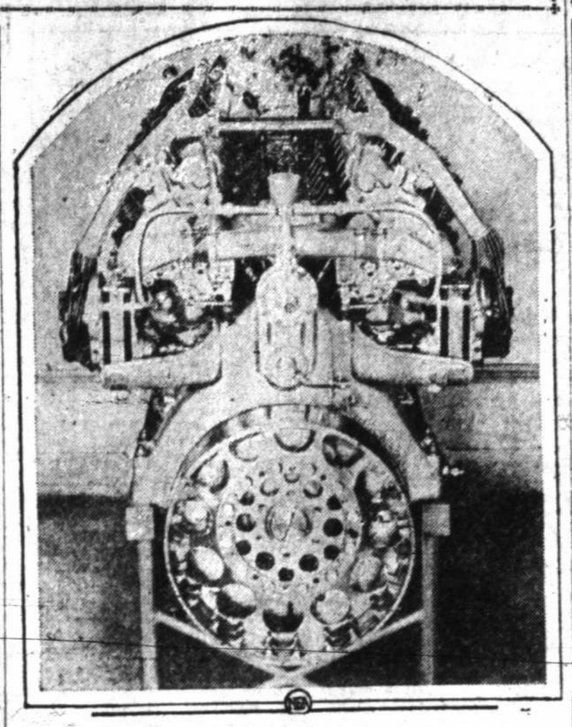
Another quality of importance to airship operation is the VL-2's direct reversibility. An airship is handled much like a steamship. Its engines must at times go astern so that the ship may moor or land, as a steamer docks. In previous designs this was accomplished by reversing gears between engine and propeller. These gears added to the engine's weight, required longer and heavier power cars and were the cause of frequent trouble.

"Reversing gears have been eliminated by the VL-2's ability to run in either direction. Shifting of the camshaft changes the timing of the 36 overhead valves, is the only readjustment entailed.

Two Fuels Help Flight

"Perhaps more significant to the advance of lighter than air craft is the adaptation of the VL-2 to the use of either gasoline or the now famous 'blue gas.' The advantages are tremendous. Carrying gaseous fuel is solely a question of space; weight is a negligible factor.

"Furthermore, the structure of the ship must be considerably stronger and heavier if large quantities of liquid fuel are to be carried. Gaseous fuel imposes no strain up the frame work. Nevertheless, the improved duralumin skeleton of the Graf Zeppelin has been built stronger than the structure of any previous ship so that the use of gaseous fuel provides an additional margin of safety.



Front view of one of the five 12-cylinder engines of the Graf Zeppelin.

"Instead of a great deal of water ballast, to be dropped if buoyancy is lost during during flight, a quantity of gasoline (eight tons) is carried on the Graf Zeppelin. As soon as it becomes necessary to lighten the ship, the fuel is switched and gasoline used until enough has been consumed to afford the desired buoyancy.

"The VL-2 was adapted to gaseous fuel by hollowing the throttle valves of the fireproof Maybach carburetors, of which there are four, one to each three cylinders. From the bags containing the 'blue gas' pipes lead into three valve shafts.

Change Made While Running

"An adjustment valve controls the flow of gas according to the throttles' position. Another valve, inserted into the gas feed lines, permits a change from gaseous to liquid fuel or vice versa in a few seconds without interrupting the engine's operation or impairing its power.

"After long experimentation, a number of gases were compounded into "blue gas.' Its weight was fixed a little heavier than air so that it will drain by gravity from the storage bags into the carburetors. Also its consumption will slightly lighten the ship and counteract an equally slight loss of buoyancy through the inevitable seepage of the lifting gas.

"The VL-2's liquid fuel consumption at full load averages about 38 1-2 gallons per hour.

"The crankshaft turns on seven main roller bearings and a combined main and thrust bearing. Lubrication is by spray, one oil pressure pump and two scavenging pumps, one at each end of the crankcase, so that the drainage may be caught at whatever angle the ship may tilt.

"The VL-2's is V-shaped and water cooled. One intake and two exhaust valves serve each cylinder and are operated from a common camshaft between the banks of cylinders. Two Robert Bosch magnetis provide the ignition."

Limousine Draws Admiring Throng

Studebaker Presents A Fine Machine At International Show; Erskine Model Is Also Displayed

Two outstanding exhibits which evoked many favorable comments by the Parisian press at the 1928 International Automobile Salon were the Louis Fourteenth Limousine mounted on the Studebaker President Eight chassis, and a "modern art" Erskine Six Royal Sedan. The two cars were specially prepared for exhibit at the Salon.

The spirit of the golden age of France was chosen as the decorative motif for the magnificent limousine. The exterior color scheme is blue, black and gold, with radiator, wheels, lamps and exterior hardware finished in gold lacquer.

The symbolic double "L" of Louis de Grand appears on two medallions of delicate needlepoint lace on the back of the wide lounge seat in the luxurious rear compartment. A bearskin rug covers the parquet floor.

Separating the rear compartment from the chauffeur' seat is a drop glass, below which is a cabinet of hand carved walnut containing three compartments. On the doors of the main compartment is the characteristic double "L."

"Welcome!" That's what America has said to the Twin-Ignition Motor

FROM the very day of the introduction of the new Nash "400", keen public interest has surrounded the new Twin-Ignition motor—

People everywhere are telling other people that they've never driven a car with so much sparkle and enthusiasm in its action—

—Or one that is as smooth and quiet at every speed, clear up to the top—

—Or one that needs so little gasoline.

Twin ignition, with high compression in the valve-in-head motor means more power, more snap, more speed, using ordinary gasoline, and less of it.

Before you buy your new car, come in. We'll give you the key to a Twin-Ignition-Motored "400". You take it out, and take a ride. That's all we ask!

* In the first three months following the "400" introduction "400" sales were nearly 75,000 cars, 14,000 more than the total of the best previous July, the best previous August and the best previous September in all Nash history.

9 Sedans from $885 to $1990, 8 Coupes, Cabriolets, Victorias from $885 to $1775, f. o. b. factory

POLITICAL PARSONS

There has been a great deal of talk, and much severe criticism about preachers, who have something to say about the political situation from their pulpits. Most of the preaching that we have heard in regard to the present Presidential campaign has been along the moral side of the matter, and we believe is entirely justified, and is no less the part of the clergyman's work than preaching against other sins of the people. Prohibition is one of the most important moral questions of the day. The liquor traffic is one of the most serious questions in the world. The use of liquor is damning in its entirety. Only a few days ago, a man at Big Spring, crazed by drink, picked a quarrel with another and shot him to death, and claimed he remembered nothing that happened in connection with the affair, and still soberminded men will defend the use of liquor, and will even object to the minister of the gospel, who is expected to take the stand against sin and the things that causes sin, to mention it in their sermons. It is almost entirely that class of people who have some axe to grind, that object to the "political parsons". It is not a new thing for preachers to rise up and condemn the political situations. Elijah who pointed an accusing finger at King Ahab was a political parson. After him came Daniel, Amos and the rest—they were all political parsons. John the Baptist who was beheaded for telling the unpleasant truth to a king was what might be called a political Parson. He could have kept quiet and remained with his prayer meetings and not been molested, but he went straight to the "city hall" and "Capital Hills" and you know the consequences. Paul, who challenged governors, who wore shackles for wrist watches, spent his vacations in dungeons and took his ocean voyages on convict ships, stood before a monarch and cried, "Whereupon King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the Heavenly Vision."—He was a political parson. And it was Jesus himself who gave the command: "Render unto Ceasar the things that belong to Caesar." Dr. Livingstone, who in 1776 fled the City of New York with a price on his head and who never wavered in support of American Freedom, was a political preacher. Henry Ward Beecher, so often quoted from the platform and pulpit, who defended the Union and Abraham Lincoln both at home and abroad was a political parson. Rev. George Haddock, who was shot to death in Souix City, Iowa, by bootleggers of his day was also a political parson. Dr. Charles Parkhurst, who denounced Tammany and exposed its corruption, was a political parson. There are dozens of others that might be mentioned who have defended the things that are right and fought the things that are wrong from the pulpit in years gone by, and have no doubt had their influence in making the nation as safe as it is for the generations of today. They did not preach to set brother against brother, but to set the right against the wrong. Too often we fear that the ministry refrains from telling the true conditions to their hearers, along lines that are just as important as the discussion of the texts found in the bible, and everyone who knows us will know that we believe in preaching the gospel from the pulpit in preference to other things unless there is a need, as there is at this time for the uplifted hand of the ministry as a warning against things that may bring about a great immoral wave over our nation.

We do not suppose that there ever was a worthy sermon that did not raise the cry of "Bigotry" or "Intolerance" or "Keep religion out of politics" in the circles where such a sermon is liable to cause a disturbance of the plans. If we read our bible correctly, one of the most vital charges against Jesus was that he "stirred the people". The pulpit must not only preach righteousness but it must also be militantly religious. Militant righteousness inevitably comes into grips with the institutions and forces of the institutions and forces of the opposition. Dry opposition to the Democratic candidates for the presidency of the United States at this time is both honest and inevitable. Misrepresentation will not silence it. Intolerance will not intimidate it. Threats will only intensify its activity. We have come to believe that dry Catholics as well as Dry Protestants will unite at the polls on November the 6th and there in a battle of ballots will silence the anti-prohibition guns for some years to come, or if defeated at the polls this year the outcome of the prohibition cause will be a matter of doubt, with the odds in favor of the Volstead Act being torn to shreds, and the teeth, what few it has, be extracted, and the demon liquor will again be unshackled and defeat written across the brows of the mothers of the land, and the fathers who have labored faithful to subdue this dangerous foe to the rising generation, will have to begin over and again crush the breath out of one of the greatest enemies to humanity."

J. C. Penney, who is the father of the chain of stores bearing his name, and who is a regular contributor to the Christian Herald recently in one of his articles to that magazine had this to say: "I have been a life-long consistent Democrat. I have practically always voted the Democratic ticket, but I feel so strongly upon the preservation of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act that I am frank to say that if the Democratic Party nominates a wet candidate, I shall neither uphold him nor vote for him for President. I shall vote for the candidate who stands for Prohibition and for Prohibition enforcement. I am persuaded that there are tens of thousands of Republicans who in a similar situation would follow the same principle. It is time that we realized that the highest welfare of the nation is at stake; that we each recognize our personal responsibility; that we demand in unmistakable terms that the man who shall be elected to the foremost office of our nation shall be a dry candidate, a man with sincere and earnest purpose to uphold and enforce, as well as to observe personally, each and every law of the Republic to which before God he has pledged his fealty."

Since the Conventions I have given my reasons for supporting the presidential candidacy of Herbert Hoover. As a life-long Democrat I am voting against the candidate of my party on moral, constitutional, and economic grounds. I am deeply concerned for a prompt and constructive solution of the acute farm problem. I believe that Mr. Hoover is to be trusted with this. He more than any other man offers us hope and a way out.

As to Prohibition and law enforcement, a great crisis is upon us. Let us use our full influence, and above all let us vote to maintain the Eighteenth Amendment and to strengthen the hands of the government in its enforcement. We are called to the polls by the same spirit of patriotism that sent our sons and friends into the Great War. This is the battle of ballots in the greater struggle of peace.

We stand now on the threshold of an election which will determine in both personnel and policies the administration of this country for the next four years, and lay the plans of our nation possibly for many years to come. Public programs trace back to private purposes. Public sentiment is built by personal opinions. The Christian people of this land are not faithful to their responsibility, unless they carry their spiritual ideals into the full expression of their citizenship. It is a time when people should try to think clearly and decide right, throwing aside petty differences and unite on a great program of higher idealism. Our convictions should be registered in a positive way at the polls. Its a great moral question before the nation today. We do not want politics in religion, but the God of Heaven knows that we need a great deal more religion in politics. This does not mean that every man shall vote according to the way his pastor might tell him to from the pulpit. No preacher with proper judgment will tell his hearers how to vote, but merely inform them of the conditions that exist, and insist on his hearers doing the thing that will result for the better interests of the nation, not from a financial standpoint so much but from a standpoint of morals, which after all is the all important thing: "For what shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses his own soul."

This is the personal views of the Editor of this paper and not to be taken as an indication of how the owners of this paper will vote.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

*** *** ***

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington Correspondent for NEA Service and The Avalanche-Journal.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—This government might not be so peeved over the Anglo-French naval agreement if it could discover just what was the idea.

At this writing President Coolidge, the State Department and the Navy Department are all quite but out by the course Britain and France adopted in making such an accord, reacting against American interests, without tipping us off beforehand.

They are also equally puzzled as to just what those two nations had in mind. The Anglo-French explanation, if accepted, would leave no room for doubt that the British and French foreign ministers were guilty of a dumb piece of business. Our government can hardly believe that they are as stupid as they appear to be by their own admission.

YET no other explanation presents itself. Here's what has happened:

Previous naval limitation conferences had been severely hampered, prevented or broken up by a conflict of interests. The United States wanted plenty of big cruisers. Britain wanted lots of little cruisers and France wanted a swarm of submarines. Britain was especially panick about French submarines after her World War experience. France was even more frightened of Britain's navy.

So the two nations got together and apparently revived the entente cordiale which they had before the war. Naval supremacy and military supremacy in Europe would ally themselves for mutual interest. France could have all the submarines and troops she wanted and France would support Britain's cruiser demands at the next naval arms conference. The United States would be left holding the bag. Large cruisers would be the only things limited.

IF they hoped to keep any of this deal a secret it was a vain hope. The thing was bungled from the start. Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign minister, let part of the cat out on the last day of Parliament and a great furore arose as everyone demanded to know just what kind of an agreement England had made.

Perhaps no more sensationall major international incident has occurred since the Versailles treaty. The United States is sore. Italy is sore. Germany is sore. Japan is sore. And so, apparently, is most of the British press. The British government has also let itself in for the possibility of an election defeat and the likelihood that our Congress will put through a big navy bill at its next session.

IT IS almost impossible to believe that Chamberlain and Foreign Minister Briand of France thought we would be willing to come to a new conference after it had already been arranged to deprive us of our trousers. If they did they must have had a rude shock.

Everyone, in fact, must have been shocked, especially Secretary of State Kellogg, to whom the news—or a large part of it—was broken just as he had triumphantly signed the anti-war treaty in Paris. Kellogg deliberately refused to visit London on account of the agreement.

Meanwhile the State Department and Navy Department at home were equally excited. Admiral Hughes raced out to Wisconsin to tell President Coolidge all about it and then even Coolidge became excited. The president has been mad ever since. Just how mad he has been was indicated by the forceful tone of the note in which the United States rejected the Franco-British deal as a basis for discussion of further naval limitation.

NOW it appears that the British government, rather than the United States, is going to be the goat. We won't have anything to do with the agreement. France is tickled to death, believing that the entente and her submarines and military plans will be left undisturbed.

But whereas the Coolidge-Kellogg attitude has proved as popular as any move in our foreign policy for many years and whereas the French press and public are enthusiastic, Chamberlain and Premier Stanley Baldwin are being denounced, even by the Tory press, all over England.

Then Came the Dawn

SO THINK WE

We think that if the people of Lubbock county do not cast their votes for the paved road bonds that the mud slinging will continue long after the president is elected. Let's get out of the bog hole and ride on all-weather roads—it will be more pleasant, more convenient and more profitable for all of us. We think the question of roads is more important to this county and to its progressiveness than as to which of the candidates shall occupy the highest office of the nation.

—o—

We think the people who did not have the opportunity to see the Lubbock county display at Dallas should not miss seeing it this week while it is on display at Rix's. It is symbolical of the development of Lubbock and the South Plains and is of much more interest than the conventional county exhibits. The fact that it was the source of more favorable comment, probably, than any other county exhibit shown merits the work of the local Chamber of Commerce and its co-workers, as something unusual.

—o—

We think that probably one of the most ambitious earthly beings is the London doctor who paid 36 cents per word to crack out a message into the ether in the hopes that a "pretty maiden with long ears" 35,000,000 miles away on our neighboring planet Mars would receive it and answer—the wife objected.

We think when the "Golden Sandstorms" of Amarillo sweep down from the North Plains with all the pomp and gusto of an overconfident eleven that they will have a neat little surprise for them in the form of a fighting, smart and well-coached machine representing the Lubbock high school. After a hard earned victor over the Electra Tigers the lads ar pointing for this week's conference tilt, and although decidedly the under-dogs, the dope bucket may be given another boot and the raging storm calmed to a mere gentle zephyr.

We think the summer session of 1929 will find a decidedly increase in enrollment in the Tech college. The splendid climatic conditions and the fact that the officials of the college are now working toward this end, should show more results than ever before.

MEDITATION

Sunday. Scripture Lesson, read Acts 9:10-18. Meditation for the day: "Lord, I have heard from many of this man, how much evil he did." Once an English coal miner sat gloomily in his cabin, recovering slowly from a big debauch. As he sat there, two fellows miners came to him with a strange proposal; nothing less than that he should help them found a Sunday school for the children of the place. They knew something of his ability and overlooked his condition; but he sadly realized his besetting sin and refused vehemently. However, they persisted, and he finally yielded. Then began a long struggle to keep away from strong drink for the sake of the boys of his school. He succeeded, became an earnest Christian, then a minister of the gospel, and was a successful Christian leader for nearly 50 years before he died. All of that came about because he was persuaded to try to help others.

Ananias despaired of Saul, knowing what awful wickedness he had been committing; but the Lord did not despair of him. "Go, bid him become a teacher and helper of others," the Lord bade Ananias. Saul took up the commission, and became the most influential Christian that ever lived.

The best way any one can learn is by teaching others. The best way any one can grow strong is by strengthening others. The best way any one can draw close to Jesus Christ is by leading others to their Saviour.

Dear Lord, as Thou dost not give us up, may we never give ourselves up. Though unfit, may we enter Thy service. Though weak, may we continue in Thy Work. Fitness and power will come, we know, in Thy good time.

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

FORGETFULNESS

One of the most difficult things for us to do is to forget the things we ought to forget. Many think they have poor memories and complain that they forget. But it is easier to remember than to forget. If you have suffered because of someone's thoughtless action—or even a thoughless remark—you may forgive the offense. We can all forgive offenses, either serious or trifling. But it is so hard to forget, to smooth out the page as though nothing had ever been there. It takes such an apparently little thing to make such a lasting mark. There would be so much more happiness in life if only people could forget more easily. Forgiveness is easy. Forgetfulness is hard.

VOTE

The particular weakness of a republic is not to be expressed in the character of the men elected to office. The fault goes deeper. It lies in the widespread indifference of citizens. When we learn that only 50 per cent of the voters voted at the presidential election four years ago it does not prove that there is anything wrong with our form of government but it does prove that there is a lamentable lack of responsiveness on the part of an astonishing number of the individuals who compose the republic. We will get just as good a government as our interest warrants.

GROWTH

There is cause for some disappointment when we observe religious intolerance, especially on the part of those who by training and experience should know better. But there is no deep cause for discouragement. The world grows more tolerant, and rapidly so. In ages past men and women were tortured and burned at the stake by thousands because of their religious beliefs. Quakers and Catholics alike were punished by the early American colonists because they would not conform to the established church. There has been intolerance and indefensible punishment on both sides. Religionists have burned each other. No church has had a monopoly on severity. Today we talk a lot of intolerance, but we undoubtedly have a growing regard for the religious opinions of those who are not members of our creed." We do not put them in jail or take them out on the village commons and set a fire under them. Our injustice at least does not run into beastly cruelty. The world does move a little.

One gets a thrill out of spring—the first warm sunshine, blue sky, a sudden April rain, snappy air. New flowers are lovely, and trees fresh and green. It's pleasant to shake off the shell of winter, to come out and sparkle a bit. Spring is like youth—all things rather vivid and intense and often beautiful. But October—it is like middle age. Not so snappy as youth, but mellower, more serene, even happier. Youth does not know. Middle age, having tried both spring and fall, chooses October.

PUBLIC OPINION

Some of our ambitious leaders and professional politicians, who are anxious to call the private voter who does not support Al a Benedict Arnold, a bat or a what-not, should stop and think. There is not the slightest reason why the private citizen should not vote in any election local or national, exactly as he pleases.

In the opinion of many this is the only remedy to discipline parties and make them responsive to public needs and sentiments. For me, a life long Democrat, free born and twenty-one it is absurd to continue to be a slave of a party name if I vote for Hoover. It will not make me a Republican unless I wish to join the Republican party.

Governor Smith took the lead in securing the repeal of the Mullen-Gage law under which New York state was co-operating in the prohibition enforcement. The second clause of the 18th amendment reads: The congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by proper legislation. Every state in the union but two have acted inthe meaning of this clause. The state of New York has flaunted the eighteenth amendment. Why? Will a wet president enforce a dry law? Does Al consider and think that all the Democrats are boobs? I honestly feel that Mr. Hoover is the better qualified candidate both by training and by experience.

You can have your choice, mine is Herbert Hoover, our next president.

Yours for peaceful politics,
C. L. LINCOLN.

Editor, Morning Avalache:

Back in 1865 to 1870 a large number of Republicans known as carpet-baggers invaded the South, with evil intentions of inflicting injustice upon a well-nigh helpless people. The same type are now invading the South spending the biggest campaign fund used by a party in the history of this country trying to prey upon ignorance and prejudice. This is the same representation of the Republican party that during all these years has regarded the South as a field for exploitation and pillage, and has limited its participation in the national government to the right to pay taxes.

The great question in this campaign is whether the Southern voters are going to forget the past attitude of the Republican party toward the Southern States and be led into supporting this enemy of Southern interests. The defeat of the Democratic party will throw the supreme control of the government of the nation into the hands of the Republican party for years to come, and the inauguration of a one-party system of government such as was maintained in Germany just prior to the World war. It will also be a vote of confidence for the last eight years of corruption which the Republican party is asking the American people to approve by their vote.

This is the real "Life and Death" fight of the Democratic party. Will Democrats in this critical hour be loyal to the only party that represents their interests in this nation? Or will Democrats become bush-whackers who shoot in the back those who are due their confidence? Will Democrats be deceived by the paid speakers who do not deny they are receiving pay from the Republican campaign fun, or those who expect to be rawarded by Republican favors? Are Southern Democrats willing to see their lands and the products thereof continue to depreciate with only Republican promises of relief, which does not come? Or will Democrats vote for the only party that has ever been their friend in the national capital?

These are questions which every true Democrat will decide by standing by the party that has been his friend all these years. A few will be misled by the Republican hirelings and bushwhackers, but every true Democrat will support his party in this hour of its need, when its possibilities of real achievement of Democratic principles of government are in sight.

Strolling 'Round New York

WITH GILBERT SWAN
New York Correspondent for NEA Service and The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 — The Dutch street gem market remains, year on year, Manhattan's most exciting outdoor sport.

There are few more fantastic and unusual sights in the strange collection framed upon this island. And, thank heaven, the tourist busses have not discovered it yet. It's one of the scenes the stranger or resident has to seek out for himself.

Dutch street is a long way from the ritzy gem marts of Fifth avenue. And if you come upon it in those hours when diamond trading has ceased to be a sidewalk diversion, you'd probably fail to notice it. For Dutch street is what most towns would call an alley. Only history dignifies it with a working title. It's a lane left over from the early days and lost in the welter of downtown streets.

Yet on the curb stones of this alley millions in sparkling jewels change hands annually. If, at the moment, the market in brilliants is a bit bearish, this is due to the gradual movement of the gem trade into the more fashionable shopping belts.

Here, on at least five days of the week, gathers a curious group of traders. Their wares, as I have said, are diamonds. Those who form this crowd are well known to one another. They have have dealt thus for years on end. Its operation is based, oddly enough, on a mutual confidence among its members. There is no fear here of sharpers or crooks or fakes. They might appear once—but never again. For, in spite of Manhattan's reputation for sharp dealing, the men of the diamond mart give little heed to the possibility of being "jipped."

Their trading takes place on the open sidewalk. Crowds brush by, a few sometimes stop for a moment to watch the proceedings, but thousands hurry past though it did not exist.

A sudden thunder storm sends traders to the shelter of awnings and doorways. All barter ceases for a time, to resume when the rain grows lighter.

Should a stranger enter the sacred sing, he would be eyed with suspicion and finally excluded. For not so much as a slip of paper changes hands in this proceeding. A nod of the head of the raising of a hand, a single spoken word is all that is necessary to close a deal. No money changes hands.

The office address of most of these traders is the sidewalk corner. Old postmen know this. Some receive mail addressed to them without a street number. The inside of a coat pocket is often the only business place known to the individual dealers.

Most of them are cutters, polishers and setters. They attend the auctions of the lower Bowery. Having secured the gems, they make them up into rings, pendants, and such. Then they appear in the market place.

Noon is the time of greatest activity. One by one the traders join the little group. The gems pass from hand to hand for inspection. There is an utter lack of suspicion as this hand passing goes on. Out come the tiny magnifying glasses of the expert. Each gem is given careful scrutiny.

The strange honesty of this proceeding continues ad infinitum. A trader frankly states what he paid for his gems and demands only a certain commission to reward him for his shrewdness. If questioned, he will flash out his purchase list and reveal the figures.

Obviously, what a trader is seeking is a quick turnover. "Take a profit" is his motto. He cares little that the same stone may be sold and resold half a dozen times, with a profit to each trader.

GILBERT SWAN.

Who's Who and Timely Views

CO-OPERATION OF BRITISH CAPITAL AND LABOR DESCRIBED By LORD MELCHETT
Britain's Industrial Leader.

(Lord Melchett was born at Farnsworth, England, in 1868. He studied at Cheltenham college, St. John's college, Cambridge, and Edinburgh universities and was admitted to the bar in 1894. He devoted his energies to industrial enterprises, however, and soon became one of the most noted of British industrial leaders, sometimes being called "the Nickel King" of Europe. Lord Melchett kept in close touch with American captains of industry and finance thereby furthering tremendously industrial interests in Britain. In recognition of his excellent work he was honored by receiving the title of Lord Melchett on the King's birthday this year. His former name was Sir Alfred Mond.)

The general strike and the disasterous nine months coal strike in Great Britain inflicted unlimited damage on all concerned. It led thinking men to the conclusion that we must substitute co-operation if the industry of our country was to survive in the world's markets.

The conferences were frank, fearless and friendly. We all made suggestions with a common purpose. We have never had one vote or division on any resolution we have drafted. I am not sure that some of my fellow employers were not more difficult for me to deal with than the labor representatives.

It was decided that the representatives of the employers and unions should examine all questions affecting industry, including banking, industrial relations and the tariff. A conciliation board has been created for the adjustment of disputes.

Neither side will listen to outside compulsion. We have rejected compulsory arbitration by judges or lawyers as a method of settling controversies in industry.

The by-products of co-operation are many and striking. British labor is not looking to Moscow for leadership and it has no use for class hatred or revolution. It realized that its prospect of betterment is through the prosperity of industry.

SUCH IS THE DEATH THE SOLDIER DIES

Such is the death the soldier dies:
He falls—the column speeds away;
Upon the dabbled grass he lies,
His brave heart following, still, the fray.

The smoke-wraiths drift among the trees,
The battle storms along the hill;
The glint of distant arms he sees;
He hears his comrades shouting still.

A glimpse of far-borne flags, that fade
And vanish in the rolling din:
He knows the sweeping charge is made,
The cheering lines are closing in.

Unmindful of his mortal wound
He faintly calls and seeks to rise;
But weakness drags him to the ground:
Such is the death the soldier dies.

Radio Network Being Planned As Aid To Aviators

Beacons Would Be Help In Battling Fog And Hazards

Radio Stations Along The Nation's Air Lanes And Big Lights Scattered Over Country Are Planned

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Construction of a radio network from New York to Salt Lake City, which will help fliers combat fog and other hazards on the national transcontinental airway, will be completed about the first of the year.

The Airways Division of the Department of Commerce, which is establishing the system to promote the safety and comfort of flying and to provide for reliability of schedules, is placing radio communication station and directive beacons on the air routes of the country. The communication or control, stations will give information on weather and landing conditions to the pilot and the radio and marker beacons will serve as navigation directors.

The first station on the route is at Hadley Field, New Brunswick, N. J. The second is the Bureau of Standards experimental station at Bellefonte, Pa., which is being used to guide airplanes on the airway in that vicinity. The third communication station, located at the Cleveland airport, is rapidly nearing completion. The Cleveland station will guide pilots flying to Toledo and a station at Goshen, Ind., will direct them from Toledo to Lansing, Ill., where they can pick up the Chicago beacon.

A beacon at Sterling, Ill., will take the planes over the Mississippi river. Tentative sites of other stations on the route are Des Moines for the Des Moines-Lincoln lap of the journey, York for the Lincoln to Lexington flight, and Gothenburg for the trip to North Platte.

The transmitting equipment at the communication stations will be of a special type designed for either radio telephone or radio telegraph transmissions. It is capable of reliable communication with air craft up to 100 miles by radio telephony and to many time that distance by radio telegraphy, engineers of the airways division say.

Hand That Rocks Cradle Now Turns Dial To Politics

Record Turnout Of Women Voters In This Compaign Believed Traced to Wide Use of Radio

(Associated Press Feature Writer)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP).—The hand that rocks the cradle and guides the vacuum sweeper now turns the radio dial to a political speech.

Radio, which has brought politics to the hearthside and into the kitchen as never before, is believed largely responsible for what promises to be a tremendously increased feminine vote November 6. Women, who never attended a political meeting, now have politics brought to them as they do their housework in the day or spend leisure hours in the evening.

From all parts of the country come reports of huge increases in the registration of women voters. Some of the credit for stimulating feminine interest in political affairs is given by broadcasters and political observers to the League of Women Voters' weekly broadcasts of debates on national issues. A hook-up of 24 stations carried these debates to millions of listeners in all sections of the country.

The League received thousands of letters from women in every state, evidencing the widespread interest in the project. The greatest appreciation of the service is voiced. League leaders say, by women who reside on isolated farms and other remote places. In addition to these nation-wide broadcasts, the League has utilized the radio in state and community broadcasts in its non-partisan campaign to "get out the vote."

Special efforts to capture the women's vote via the microphone are being made by both major parties. Women speakers and men orators go on the air with talks designed especially to appeal to the feminine mind.

Football Games and Other Outdoor Events May One Day Be Seen in Home by Use of the Radio

Novel Apparatus Is Invented by Noted U. S. Engineer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Clustering thickly over a two foot square space, 2,304 tiny light-sensitive cells from the novel radio vision apparatus designed by C. Francis Jenkins, noted Washington inventor.

These myriad photoelectric cells, introduced to practical usage probably a year hence, will constitute an ambitious attempt in the television of outdoor objects and events.

The idea of mounting so many tiny cells on a board for analyzing a scene is not new. Jenkins described the scheme 34 years ago, but it was then visionary because of the limitless number of wires necessary in making the connections between the transmitter—which today would mean the broadcasting set—and the distant receiver.

In the new arrangement Jenkins has not only adapted this cell studded board to the possible broadcasting of visual images, but he has overcome the handicap of a multiplicity of wires.

Wires Bunched by Switch

There remain, however, the 2,304 wires or radio channels leading from as many tiny protoelectric cells, but a switching gear at the transmitter bunches them, so to speak, and at the same time picks off the current from each of the 2,304 points.

This bunched or concentrated current is then delivered to a single wire or radio channel to be received by another switching gear to the corresponding elementary area of the distant receiver.

"This is the new step that makes the old scheme practical," says Jenkins. This elaborate system, however, is designed primarily for use for radio vision broadcasting and does not necessarily suggest the service of a similar picture plate in the homes. The present scanning disk equipment will continue in use for a long time, Jenkins believes.

In fact Jenkins suggests that this two foot square board is sufficiently elaborate for service in theaters.

More Light Available

"Actual tests of the fundamental mechanisms involved," he says, "have convinced us that we will have more light available than is now employed for illuminating present movie screens.

"The light is white light, not neon pink. And the light source is readily available in open market."

Jenkins believes he is conservative in claiming that the new radio vision transmitter will transmit 100,000 times more current for whole picture area than the scanning methods now in vogue.

"Because the scanning disk limits the illumination to the light which can pass through a single one of the tiny holes," says Jenkins, "a powerful source of light is required for adequate lighting. Therefore, in the case of the single plate neon lamp scanned by a disk, the current required is at least twenty-five hundred times more than it need be if it were possible to apply all the light to each elementary area in succession."

The tranmitter resembles a large camera, the lens of which puts an image of a scene on the picture plate. The latter, with its 2,304 half inch square photoelectric cells, occupies a position like that of the film in an ordinary camera.

Each of these small cells delivers to the radio broadcasting apparatus an amount of current corresponding to the strength of light falling on that particular cell.

This, according to Jenkins, is at least 100,000 time more current for the whole picture area than the present single light-sensitive cell transmitter.

While the disc method of television, with which F. Francis Jenkins, the Washington inventor, is shown here, is good for small views, his new television camera studded with 2,304 "electric eyes" may be the means for broadcasting big outdoor events.

BEFORE THE MICROPHONE

So many and so widely dispersed are the new series of entertainments planned for this fall and winter that it is hard to keep up with the changes. For example, station WBZ at Springfield, with its twin station WBZA at Boston, records 23 new programs during the month of October alone!

Every day for the past six years Rex Battle has led his Mount Royal hotel orchestra before the microphone of station CFCF, there. Yet he is still one of the most popular entertainers on the air in Canada. Battle is a pianist of renown. He played before King George of England and won fame in concert tour of the United States in 1913.

Among the broadcasters who are alert to the new season's opportunities is WMAQ at Chicago. This station has scheduled no less than nine new daytime features for women within a week's time!

Since Tex Rickard has decided broadcasting championship fights is disastrous to the pocket book, the next best thing for radio fight fans is to listen to the occasional fight features out of WTAM, Cleveland. This station has already re-enacted two of the older classics through the virile and spectacular announcements of the red headed Tom Manning. WTAM's sports announcer. These were the Sullivan-Corbett and Corbett-Fitzsimmons battles of 30 odd years ago.

The RCA demonstration hour that has been running on Saturday afternoons, recedes in favor of football and takes the air on Wednesdays at 2:30 instead.

Half hour with Max Dolin, Charles H. Gabriel, jr., violin and pianist, NBC Pacific division, KGO and WFI, Fridays at 10 Pacific time.

Symphony concerts, WIP, Philadelphia, Sundays at 10 eastern time.

Rondolla Hawaiian Syncopators, WIP, Philadelphia, Tuesdays at 8 eastern time.

Special Artists' recitals, WBAL, Baltimore, Tuesdays at 6:30 eastern time.

National Youth Radio Conference, NBC system, Sunday 3 eastern time.

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, NBC system, Sundays at 4 eastern time.

National Religious Series, NBC system, Sundays at 5 eastern time.

In the same announcement that Moran and Mack, the two Black Crows, may be heard a half hour instead of their present hour on the Columbia system, Sunday nights, we learn that this network has added eight stations on the Pacific coast.

KPO, San Francisco, has ordered a new 5,000-watt transmitter. It is expected to be ready in December.

Special programs have been arranged for Thursday evening, Nov. 1, by WBAL, Baltimore, when it celebrates its 6th anniversary.

A household program, conducted daily except Saturday and Sunday afternoons, is being given over WGY, Schenectady, daily West.

Six of the seven announcers at KOA, Denver, are college graduates, one having a master of arts degree and the others bachelor of music degrees.

Transcontinental chain hookups of sponsored programs are beginning to function with regularity. An hour has been announced for Thursday evenings, to go out from WEAF over 27 stations. The first of these broadcasts is to be made November 8.

The fourth annual series of board of education broadcasts of operas and concerts by WPG, Atlantic City, is to open Tuesday evening, October 30, when "Il Pagliacci" will be presented.

Helen Norris, shut-in mountain girl, who has written several radio plays at her home near Medford, Ore., reports the receipt of hundreds of letters from listeners. Her latest play, "Baker's Dozen," is to be given from KGO, Oakland, Calif., Thursday evening, Nov. 1.

The new 50,000-watt transmitter of WLW, Cincinnati, is to go on the air for its first regular broadcast Monday evening, Oct 29. The occasion will bring to listeners a special six-hour program, starting at 9 o'clock. During tests the new outfit was heard in Canada, Mexico and by ships at sea.

ENGLAND DOES IT

Great Britain has succeeded in so synchronizing eight of its government sending stations that all can broadcast at the same wave length, with the same power of 250 watts, and not interfere with one another.

POLICE USE TELEPHOTO

Police of Denmark are using the telephoto as a means of sending pictures and photostatic reproductions of finger prints of criminals from one town to another.

rid Broadcast for November 3

Football again will have the right of way on the radio November 3. Among scheduled games are, time being Eastern Standard:

Northwestern vs. Minnesota—WCCO, KSTP at 3:00; KYW at 2:45; WABC, WOR and other Columbia system stations at 2:45.

Dartmouth vs. Yale—1:45—WEAF, WEEI, WTIC, WLIT, WRC, WGR, WCAE, KPRC, WGY.

Ohio vs. Princeton—1:45—WJZ, WHAM, KWK, WCX.

Chicago vs. Penn—2:45—WMAQ.

Pitt. vs. Syracuse—2:00—KDKA.

Harvard vs. Lehigh—2:00—WBZ.

So. Calif. vs. Stanford—5:15—KFI.

Wisconsin vs. Ala.—2:45—WTMJ.

Included in other broadcasts to be announced will be those by WSAI, WRVO, WWJ, WGN, WLS.

RUTH DEWEY GROVES

AUTHOR of "WHEN A GIRL LOVES" "LOVE FOR TWO" etc

CHAPTER I

The bag was empty!

But Jerry couldn't believe it. Again and again she thrust her hand into the felt folds, poking and digging in a space that could not long have concealed a pinhead.

Her roommate, powdering her nose before the golden oak dresser, heard her gasp and wheeled in alarm.

"What's the matter?"

"My money is gone!"

"No!" Myrtle stared at the open bag in Jerry's nerveless fingers as though it were poisonous. "Maybe it fell out. Let's look in the closet."

The search was a frantic one. Every inch of the dark cubicle was covered.

"I warned you not to leave it here," Myrtle said when at last they gave up. She was exasperated because she knew what the loss of the money would mean to Jerry Ray. "When a girl refused to treat herself to a soda for weeks and weeks. . . . "Why didn't you give it to Mrs. Addison?"

She knew the answer to that too. If the landlady knew that one of them could save money they certainly would get that threatened raise in their room rent.

"I thought it would be all right for one night," Jerry sobbed.

The theft was fast becoming a reality to her. For nearly a year she had saved that money, dime by dime, quarter by quarter and dollar by dollar. It had been almost impossible to believe, when she opened the bag and found it gone, that it had been stolen, that it really was gone. Why, she had starved for it—for the chance it was to bring her.

It seemed sort of funny that only a few minutes ago she had run up the stairs ahead of Myrtle, who was not going to Atlantic City, tripping over the hole in the carpet before their door, as usual, but with an unusual song in her heart. As quick as that everything could change. The song was a dirge now.

Myrtle tried in vain to comfort her until George came. Then she had to go. George couldn't be kept waiting.

Jerry lay on the bed, white and tense, her disappointment eating deeper into her consciousness as her thoughts traveled backward. Another year at the lace counter before she could have a vacation again. Another year of automats and self-service restaurants, of movieless Saturday nights and not even a late magazine to read.

Myrtle had argued heatedly over what she called Jerry's crazy idea. But Myrtle didn't know. Myrtle didn't want things the way Jerry wanted them. Myrtle Crane was content to look forward to a future with George in a three-room flat. Myrtle believed in love. Jerry didn't.

"I've seen enough of it," she said when Myrtle wanted to know "how she got that way." "I know what it did to my mother. It's just a snare."

Her mother in the hot kitchen at Marblehead. . . . There was no gas in their neighborhood and the grocer on the next street was glad to give them boxes and crates—her father wouldn't buy oil when he could get summer fuel for nothing. And her mother's room under the sloping roof—hot in summer, cold in winter.

And her father and her brother Harry. Both of them hated work. Harry had married a cute little kid he met at a dance. Jerry had listened in silent anger to Dorris' ravings about Harry. Harry had promised Doris love and romance.

Jerry twisted her lips in contempt as she dwelt on that year Harry and Doris had spent at home after their marriage. She could not forget Doris' disillusionment when she discovered that Harry was more interested in what he had to eat than in how she looked or what she thought of him.

But such a thing could never happen to her. Her mother's experience was enough. She had never heard her say one word against marrying for love, but Jerry had guessed at her bitter awakening.

Once her mother had confided to Jerry that she was the only beautiful thing in her life and in Jerry's heart had been born then and there a fierce resolve to compel beauty for her mother, to bring some luxury into her life.

She wanted, with a longing that had grown with her through the years, to rest her mother's hands, to see the callouses disappear and the broken nails mend. She wanted skillful fingers to rub out the furrows on her mother's brow, but above all she wanted to see those drooping shoulders lift and a light shine in the dull blue eyes.

And for this she had come to New York. She had told them frankly at home that she was coming to marry money. They laughed at her, all but her mother. She warned Jerry gravely against making a mistake.

But New York had disappointed Jerry. Rich men did not come seeking brides at Fane's department store. She met a few boys, friends of George, but they were like the boys she had known at Marblehead, satisfied to have just a "job"—nothing else.

That would not do for Jerry. If you believed in love it was different—you must marry blindly. But if you were not a sentimental boob you could make your marriage a career. Jerry had read somewhere that marriage was a matter of propinquity. Being what she called intelligently interested in marriage she looked up propinquity in a dictionary and learned that it meant nearness in place or time.

If that was all there was to it why not benefit by it? Going around with boys who had nothing but love to offer, you would marry for love. For love! Jerry believed that most people knew more about it than a hen knows why she lays an egg. It was a nice word, but you might as well marry for stardust, or roses, or nectar, or anything else that sounds well.

But if you met only the "right" people you could pick out a man whose promises—if he didn't talk about love—were something besides wind. Jerry decided to give herself that chance. This was shortly after she came to New York.

The bag was empty!

The best way, she concluded, since the mountain didn't come to Mahomet, was to go to the mountain. A real mountain. That was the advantage of knowing that marriage was a matter of propinquity—you could choose your field. Jerry knew she appeared soulless to Myrtle, but then Myrtle was a fool, she thought. She wondered why people were so blind when all about them were the wrecks of love marriages.

She was not ashamed of her decision to marry money. She wasn't going to "sell" herself or anything like that. The man must be someone she could respect and like. She saw no reason why marriage should be approached in a coy, oh-it-just-happened manner.

Myrtle had scoffed when she explained this. "Well, I'd rather marry George than a man I didn't love even if he had a million," she said.

Jerry flared back at her. "It's George because propinquity didn't make it somebody else. . . ."

"A Vanderbilt or an Astor, huh?" Myrtle broke in. "Don't be so funny, Jerry. I got enough laughs out of you already. You don't owe me any more. Every time I think of you and your shadow strolling down the Boardwalk trying to pick up a billionaire I choke."

"You've got the wrong idea," Jerry had answered serenely. "I'm not going to Atlantic City to parade the Boardwalk."

"You don't expect to meet a So-Register guy in a second-class hotel do you?"

"I'm not going to a second-class hotel. Listen, Myrtle. What do you think I've been saving my money for? I'll tell you. I'm going to have a week in the best hotel in Atlantic City. The right clothes, the right place, and I know I'll find the right man."

Now, thinking over all the sacrifices she had made the money she had wanted to send her mother and hadn't because it was to free them both from the ugly confines of poverty, Jerry felt weak and defeated.

The room was stifling hot, filled with the heat of the city's masonry that even night could not entirely release. Jerry had let her mind train itself to picture the things she wanted for her mother and herself. Smooth beaches, roof gardens, the deck of white mahogany yacht—she had read of them, seen photographs of them, seen fleeting glimpses of them in the news reels.

If such places and things existed why should she not aspire to them? Certainly the people who had them had not been content to want less, she reasoned.

Her room, by contrast with the things she had dreamed of, seemed doubly hot. And how she hated it—the jaundiced wall paper and thread-bare rug, the curtains that hung with a listlessness like her mother's movements.

Tired. That was it—the room was tired, perhaps tired of the stream of colorless tenants who came and went, their drab-patterned lives making no imprint. Tired, as her mother was tired of the years that came without event, unheralded, unsung. Flat, tedious years. Years like a gray soil that had put forth one blossom to justify its existence and then had gone on molding, dying.

Saving to lift her mother, by the only way she knew, into a more gracious world than this, had not been an unadulterated hardship. It had been thrilling to watch her savings account grow. Yesterday, when she had withdrawn it from the bank because she would have no time on Saturday to attend to it, she had felt like dancing out with it. What were sodas and shows then?

The risk of leaving it in her room overnight had seemed unavoidable. She was leaving on Sunday morning. She had worried a little over it . . . there had been a sneak thief in the house two years before, she had heard, but she was too elated over the prospect of what lay before her to think much of trouble.

Her new suit case was packed with lovely things. Not a faded or mended garment in it, such as filled her share of the limited drawer space in the mutually-used dresser.

She could see it now, from where she lay on the bed. Well, she had that much to show for her thrift. Some pretty clothes. Too bad she hadn't bought the evening dress here that she had planned to get in Atlantic City. She had thought it would be exciting to shop there. She wondered what good the clothes would do her now.

She was still lying on the bed, fully dressed, when Myrtle returned. Myrtle was excited over something. Jerry supposed, without giving it much thought, that George had been making love to her.

"How about a little ice cream?" Myrtle asked, intending to treat. Jerry didn't want ice cream.

"Well, say, listen, Jerry, I've been thinking—you'll go camping with me now, won't you?"

Jerry didn't answer.

"Gee, you'll like it," Myrtle went on. "I was out there last summer, you know. I've got the tent and everything. Bella sold me her half of it when she got married. We used to camp together. George stored it in a garage for me this winter, but I didn't expect to use it. No fun camping alone. What do you say, let's run out to Glen Cove tomorrow and see about getting a site? Of course I should have to let Mr. Barnes know before this, but he may be able to squeeze us in somewhere."

A flicker of interest passed over Jerry's face. Myrtle did not see it but she was sufficiently engrossed with her plans to go on without encouragement.

"There's always a swell crowd," she enthused; "and it isn't far from the beach. Come on, say yes. You'll be glad your roll was lifted when you meet some of the boys that camp there. Honestly, Jerry, you'd have had a dumb time all alone in Atlantic City."

Jerry did not feel like taking issue with her about that. It was all right to argue when she had a choice. But now if she refused to camp with Myrtle she would have to spend her vacation in town with nothing to do. She hadn't enough money left to pay her fare to her home and return.

Before they fell asleep she had promised to go with Myrtle. The decision eased her mind a little. She could go to Atlantic City next year. It was a long time to wait but . . . she was asleep.

They drove out to Glen Cove in George's battered little car, built mostly from junked automobiles. Jerry remarked the number of the fine motors that purred swiftly past them on the highway. "Yeah, the North Shore of Long Island is lousy with millionaires," George informed her.

Myrtle gave Jerry a sly glance. "Not a bad hunting ground, kid," she said. "If you can get in."

"How did you happen to find a camp out there?" Jerry inquired, ignoring her suggestion.

"Why, this man Barnes has some land in the not-so-high-hat neighborhood that he's holding for speculation," Myrtle explained. "He rents the camp sites to pay his taxes. On a hot summer like this his place is always crowded. I hope we aren't too late."

But they were. The camp sites were all taken.

"Now what'll we do?" Myrtle wailed when Mr. Barnes gave her the bad news. He didn't know, but she asked him so many times, in such genuine distress, that he was driven to think it out for her.

"I'll tell you what I can do for you," he said at last, speaking a bit reluctantly. "I've got a house down near the shore that's empty, been empty for years. Being's I know you I can let you camp there. You'll have to boil the water and you'll have to keep quiet. I don't want any trouble with Mr. Carstairs."

"Who's he, Mr. Barnes?"

"Carstairs? Humph. He owns the place next door, and don't you go trespassing or get a gang hanging around, because Carstairs and me are going to do business about that shore property some day. I'm doing this as a favor to you, young lady, and don't you forget it. The Carstairs neighborhood is no place for campers."

Myrtle turned up her nose. "Is that so? Well, how much will it delay our first hundred to hang up our hats in that sacred spot?"

"Twenty-five, the same as here. The water's free."

"What is it, salt?"

"It's a brook. Be sure and boil it."

"How far is it from anywhere?"

"Wait until I get my car,"—Mr. Barnes threw a glance at George's—"and I'll take you over to look at it."

"I hope we can walk back to camp; won't be any fun of by ourselves," Myrtle grumbled while they waited.

Fifteen minutes later she declared she couldn't think of camping at the old house.

"Why, we'll be buried here without a car," she exclaimed, aghast at the idea of solitude.

But now it was Jerry who urged. She was entranced with the place. A ramshackle old shingled house with a wide porch on one end, a grove of maples and a few towering oaks, cooled like a cool green paradise to her.

She begged with good effect. Myrtle agreed to stay. George promised to deliver the tent and equipment. Mr. Barnes told them just where to put it so it wouldn't be conspicuous, but when George returned with it, much later in the day, the three pitched it where they willed, which was on the edge of the maple grove where the morning sun would wake them.

Jerry had almost forgotten her disappointment of the previous day. While George was away for the tent she and Myrtle had hitch-hiked to the nearest village and bought a picnic lunch. When he got back they had spread it out in the shade, all except what hunger had compelled them to gobble up.

Myrtle thought they ought to apologize for having eaten, but she stopped when Jerry gave her a look. It was nearly two o'clock. They had breakfasted at seven. Why should they get a headache? she asked when Myrtle had said they ought to wait for George. "Well, it would be more hospitable," Myrtle argued. "George will be starved when he gets here."

"Will he?" Jerry replied with the twisted smile she used when speaking of men.

"Starved?" she asked when George arrived. Myrtle started then to explain that they'd been so famished they'd just had to eat. Jerry's glance silenced her.

"No, I had some hot dogs down the road," George told them and Jerry laughed. Myrtle flushed. "Here, I brought some along for you kids," George went on, and brought out a paper plate covered with a paper napkin. Myrtle laughed then.

They ate the hot dogs with relish and put the spread-out lunch away. Then they busied themselves with the tent.

"Put it right out here," Myrtle ordered: "it's swanky enough for anyone."

It was a forest green umbrella tent with a canvas floor, and George made short work of getting it pegged. When that was done Jerry offered to put away the camp things while Myrtle and George drove to the village for some iodine to put on a cut Myrtle got on her hand.

Cots, a table and chairs, a small gasoline-burning stove and a few dishes and cooking utensils had been stored with the tent. The girls had brought blankets from their room and a suit case with the things they would need overnight. The next evening George would take them to town to get the rest of their outfits, which they had not wanted to bring until they were sure of a camp sit.

Jerry had scarcely got the camp in order when she heard George's car rattling in at the tumbledown gate. For a fleeting moment she envied Myrtle—it must be fun to have a boy friend with a car, even a junky, old rattletrap. No, worse than others, not better. They should be chosen for what they had—there was a difference in the way they fooled girls about love.

She couldn't see any reason for Myrtle's beaming after George had kissed her goodby. What was a kiss? No boy had ever kissed her though several had tried.

"Stop looking down the road like a mooney and show me how this stove works," she said irritably. Myrtle was such a confirmed nut about love. It made her sick. "Wait a few years," she thought, "and if I ask her what she thinks of marriage she'll tell me it's all right but a girl oughtn't to rush into it."

"Let the stove alone," Myrtle said good-naturedly; "and let's go for a swim. Too bad George couldn't stay but he says the traffic's terrible and he wants to get home early."

"How romantic," Jerry murmured.

"Oh shut up and get into your bathing suit. Of course there won't be anyone to admire you but the ocean swells but maybe you'll get a kick out of that."

Jerry certainly did. Out of the whole thing, the bathing and the prospect of a night cool enough for comfort. She was almost happy when they sat down, hungry and tired, to finish what was left of their mid-day lunch. The stove hadn't worked very well and Myrtle said they would have George fix it.

Jerry looked up at the sound of a motor in the air. A silver plane was winging overhead in what looked like the attempt of a huge butterfly to find a flower to land on. "Too bad George doesn't fly," she said lazily; "you need him so much."

"You'd get to depend on your boy friend, too, if you had one," Myrtle retorted instantly.

"Well, I'd like to know what that guy up there is depending upon," Jerry answered, her voice more serious than her words. "Look at him; he's pointing right at us! Run!"

She jumped to her feet and sprang backward, still yelling at Myrtle to get out of the way. She heard a shrill screech, in answer, or rather one not of it, for the rest was drowned out by the uproar of the plane made on its dive into their camp.

Jerry lost her balance and fell. She got a nasty crack on the side of her head and what followed immediately after the crash was lost to her. The first thing she became conscious of was the sensation of being cradled in a very satisfactory resting place. Her head was held just right in a place it fitted perfectly.

But that sense of security and ease was soon lost. A pain shot like fire across her brain and she cried out. Her eyes flashed open as the agony cleared her mind and she saw with a sensation she was never to forget, an unfamiliar masculine face bent over her own.

Commercial Auto Must Fit Demand

Graham Brothers Division Of Dodge Motor Company Takes Particular Heed Of Problem

Making the motor truck fit the transportation requirements of modern business is insured by unique surveys and research constantly carried on by the Graham Brothers Truck division of the Dodge Brothers. So completely has the field been covered that the recent addition of a three ton truck to the line brings the total coverage to more than 96 per cent of all commercial hauling. Six capacities are now available in hundreds of combination types made possible by interchanging the bodies and chassis.

An engineering survey which involved first hand investigations of vocational transportation problems, in major cities throughout the country was recently completed by the company. Composite information obtained was used as a basis for the design of units that efficiently solved the owner's individual delivery problems. In addition, the special equipment division annually builds hundreds of special bodies on sketches furnished by the truck operator, to fill specifications falling outside standard equipment.

The motor coach division has carried surveys so far as to find out the average shoulder and hip width of school children of various ages in order to announce correct carrying capacities based on actual measurements, and insuring adequate room for children at any designated bus capacity.

"Coupled with this adaptability every transportation field, the motor truck's dependability and flexibility are constantly enlarging its scope of operation," said Howard E. Sneather, director of commercial car and truck sales for Dodge Brothers. "The future development rests on the public's realization of the speed and economy that shipments can be made by truck. Four wheel brakes, improved six cylinder engines, and four-speed transmissions have brought the performance of commercial vehicles to high standards reached by passenger cars."

Pontiac Leads Registrations

Sets Pace In Its Price Field, Say Officials Of Oakland Motor Company, Builders Of Product

PONTIAC, Oct. 27. — Continuing the record-shattering pace it has maintained since its introduction, the Pontiac Six for the three-month period ended July 31st, led all six cylinder cars in new car registrations in the United States, according to an announcement made here today by W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car company.

This relative standing, based on the most recent compilations received by Mr. Tracy from R. L. Polk and Company, credits the Pontiac Six with a total of 61,880 registrations during the same three month period—more than 1,000 cars in excess of its closest competitor, and nearly 2000 units ahead for the single month of July.

This record is regarded as particularly outstanding because the Pontiac Six was first offered to the public less than thirty months before it attained first position in registration of all makes of six cylinder cars.

Almost as remarkable as its gain over competive cars is the increase in Pontiac sales this year over previous years. In May registrations were 21,995 units as against 13,238 in May of 1927 and 5,908 in 1926. A similar increase was registered durine June and July.

Registrations for the three month period ended in July, in comparsion with previous quarters, also reveal in graphic fashion how the Pontiac Six forged to leadership in its field. While registrations for May, June and July of this year totaled 61,000 units, in the same quarter last year, the total was 38,000 cars and in 1926, 17,000 Pontiac Sixes.

Lyon Will Seek To Make Hop to Bermuda

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP).—Lieut Commander Harry Lyon, who has proved his ability to find his way through the air to comparative specks of land in vast expanses of ocean, is going to try it again.

This time the earthy speck is Bermuda and the flight there from here is one which aviators say never has been attempted because of the hazards, not the least of which is the very good chance of missing the goal and continuing on over the Atlantic.

Oil Industry Is Deserving Better Things, Opinion

Marmon Motor Company Head Tells Of Advantages Enjoyed By Large Oil Supply In U. S.

The oil industry, if only for what it has done for the automobile, in the belief of H. H. Brooks, general sales director of the Marmon Motor Car company, deserves better treatment from the public than it has received.

If the United States leads all other nations in automobile production and registration, the Marmon sales chief pointed out, it is largely because of our control of the world's largest natural oil supply. However, even this supply would be inadequate for the needs of America's motorists, were it not for the efficiency methods introduced by the big oil companies, he added.

"Gasoline is still our cheapest motor fuel," Mr. Brooks states, "and it is cheaper in America than in Europe. While the retail price here is around 18 cents, it is 27 cents in Antwerp and Copenhagen; 28 cents in Berlin; 32 cents in Paris and Brussels, and 47 cents in Madrid and Belgrade. Gasoline comes to 70 cents a gallon in Bogota, Columbia; in Guatemala City and Teheran, Persian, and in Europe it is cheapest in Kovno, Lithuania and in Stockholm, where the motorist pays 25 cents.

"In no other country are filling stations so convenient and so well equipped. Our motor tourists, accustomed to finding such a station never more than a few miles from the most isolated spot, perhaps do not appreciate the service as they fill their tanks with gas, their tires with air and their radiators with water, and drive out of the station without further trouble.

"America's 90,000-mile system of buried railroads,' or subterranean rivers of oil, are largely responsible for holding down retail gasoline prices and making possible a new leisure for the enjoyment of sports and the pursuit of culture."

Mistakes in Road Building Being Turned Into Profitable Experience

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—(NEA)—In a dusty, noisy laboratory here, the mistakes in building yesterday's roads are being converted into profitable examples for the future.

It is the Warren Brothers' laboratory where research is going on in the construction and improvement of macadam roads. Macadam is a combination of asphalt, crushed rock and sand.

The proper combination of these three units in their proper form makes the kind of roadbed the scientists in this laboratory are trying to maintain. They get samples of such roads, already built or under construction, from all parts of the country and subject these to various tests.

Each sample is put into an oven and cooked to loosen it up. It is then mixed with a solvent and the whole is placed in a receptacle revolving at very high speed so that the asphalt is completely separated from the sand and stone.

Parts Are Separated.

The dissolved asphalt is thrown out through a porous filter ring or washer. Thus is had an exact specimen of the kind of asphalt that was used to bind together the stone and sand on a certain piece of road a few days previously. This is then placed in a small metal container and immersed in water of 77 degrees temperature where it remains for an hour until the temperature of the asphalt equals that of the water.

The sample is now placed under a small needle which bears down on it with a weight of 100 grams for five seconds, electrically timed. The distance which the needle penetrates into the asphalt is recorded on a dial. This is the penetration test for consistency.

The asphalt has now been so shaped that it can be attached to a stretching mechanism in a small upright glass vessel. The vessel is filled with water maintained at a asphalt is stretched so slowly that one cannot perceive the movement. It is drawn into long thin hairs, a meter or so in length. It must stretch at least a meter, nearly 40 inches, to pass this test.

A sample of asphalt from macadam pavement stretched to a hair's width a meter long to determine its ductility, as shown at left, is one test to which road pavement samples are put at the Boston laboratory of Warren Brothers. Another, at right, is the needle test for consistency.

These two tests determine the asphalt's consistency, for the needle must not vary in the depth it sinks into the asphalt sample more than half a millimeter, and its ductility, which means it must stretch without breaking. A surface which asphalt possesses these qualities will best withstand the terrific effects of millions of hurrying automobiles and of heat and cold.

Rock Pounded Into Dust.

The remaining combination of rock and sand goes through an exhausting abrasion test. It is first bored into cylinder form and subjected to blows by a machine.

The rear wheel of the average 4-ton truck often gives a 61,000-pound jolt to the road after a jump of a few inches and it is the rock in the sub-grade which must take the brunt of this punishment. The torque of a truck rounding a curve at high speed is terrific and here again the rock must withstand an abrasion test.

It is put into a revolving cylinder where it comes into contact with hard iron surfaces. The cylinder is revolved 10,000 times. The piece of rock is then removed and weighed and the dust arising from the abrasion is also weighed. The weight of the dust shows the percentage of abrasion.

This is a meticulous experiment for if great care is not taken, the dust caused by the rock being thrown about in the cylinder may form a cushion to minimize a part of the abrasion during the balance of the test.

Tests for Wet Weather.

Since, also, roads get different kind of wear in wet weather, a special machine has been devised to test its materials under conditions of moisture. In this the rock is hurled about in a cube containing water. Thus available information is gathered on the abrasive qualities of the rock when both wet and dry.

Not satisfied with conditions of a road after it has been laid, the engineers at this laboratory test the materials before they are combined for a construction job. Each material is carefully analyzed and tested. Then they are combined in certain predetermined proportions and laid on a test road under pressure of a heavy steam roller.

By watching the action of this road, the engineers check up on their findings in the laboratory.

DeSoto Features Speedy Getaway

Spirited And Instant Response To Both Gas And Brakes Is A Big Point In Automobile

The spirited and instant response of the new Chrysler-built DeSoto Six to both throttle and brake has brought an entirely new driving sensation into the field of moderate priced sixes, it is asserted by officials of Caprock Motor Co.

"This new ease of driving in the DeSoto Six has found immediate favor with motorists," Mr. Price, manager, continues. "With traffic congestion and high speed the rule rather than the exception, drivers are demanding cars which leap smoothly into action and which can shock or vibration.

"The secret of DeSoto Six performance lies in the design and engineering of the car. Chrysler-build cars have always been noted for their spirited performance and Chrysler engineers have provided the DeSoto Six with a responsiveness fully in keeping with this tradition. "For example the DeSoto Six with a responsiveness fully in keeping with this tradition.

"For example the DeSoto Six is equipped with the Chrysler-designed 'Silver Dome' high compression cylinder head, which utilizes any grade of gasoline and extracts efficiently the maximum in speed and power from each type of fuel. The famous 'Red Head' obtains even greater speed and power from high compression fuels.

"The motor has the new type Iso-Therm, Invar-strut aluminum alloy pistons. They are extremely light in weight and are fitted with rings of the new tongue and groove construction. Inlet valves are of chrome nickel steel, while exhaust valves are of silchrome steel.

"The DeSoto Six crankshaft is very short, heavy and rigid for the size of the engine.

It is provided with counterweights which neutralize centrifugal forces, thus reducing bearing pressures. The strength of this crankshaft is but one explanation for the smooth flow of power at all speeds which the driver of the DeSoto Six experiences.

"Camshaft, crankshaft and connecting rod bearings are lubricated by positive full pressure oil feed. Crankcase ventilation, oil filter, air-cleaner and extraordinarily large valves are additional reasons why the DeSoto Six driver finds his car responsive to his slightest touch. All these features contribute their share to the unusually smooth operation and remarkably rapid acceleration which the latest Chrysler-built car displays.

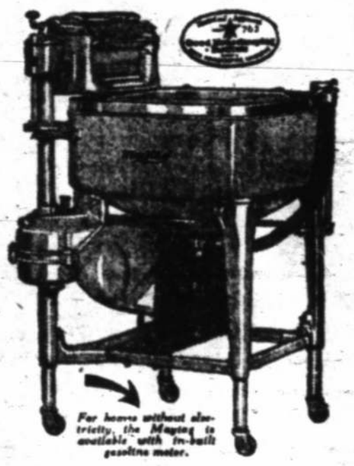
"The MAYTAG Changed My Idea of Washday Servants"

"I never thought of having a washing done in my own home until I found out how easy and satisfying it is to let the Maytag do it."

Thousands of women have thus expressed their admiration for the Maytag. Over a million homes now enjoy the Maytag wash-hour, enjoy the satisfaction of clothes washed at home in a clean, careful and sanitary manner.

The Maytag's unquestioned supremacy among washers is due to many outstanding features, originated by The Maytag Company — the world's largest manufacturers of washers. The one-piece, cast-aluminum tub keeps the water hot for an entire washing. The Gyrafoam action makes water do the washing—the fast, thorough, gentle way.

The Maytag Roller Water Remover has a flexible top roll and a hard bottom roll. It removes both soap and water evenly and gently from all parts of the garment. Buttons, snaps, ornaments, or fine laces go through unharmed.



For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor.

Oakland Models To Be Displayed In Lubbock Soon

Bradley Promises Many Improvements In 1929 All-America Six Models In Lubbock

An entire new line of Oakland All-American Sixes, embodying exclusive style and performance features consistent with the pioneering achievements of the Oakland Motor Car company, will go on display in the very near future, J. M. Bradley, of the Bradley Motor Co., 1101 Main St., Lubbock, announced today.

While no details will be disclosed until the public showing, the new Oakland is distinctively original and different from any car now on the market, Mr. Bradley stated.

"Popular features of the first All-American Six will be combined, in this latest offering, with a host of refinements in performance and body design that will make the car an outstanding attraction on the highways and boulevards of America during the coming months," he said.

"The new car represents the cumulative experience of more than twenty years of successful automobile building on the part of the Oakland Motor Car company, plus the vast facilities of General Motors.

"Into its development have gone the pooled resources, creative ingenuity and experimental facilities of Oakland and General Motors engineers, General Motors Research Laboratories, General Motors Proving Grounds, and craftsmen of the Fisher Body organization.

"Particular interest attaches to the new All-American because of the record of the Oakland company for having introduced into the automotive field more new features than any other manufacturer. Among the Oakland-pioneered advances are four-wheel brakes, Duco finish, the marmonic balancer, the G-M-R cylinder head, foot-controlled head lights, oil filter, air cleaner and fuel pump.

"Production of the new car is now under way at the Oakland plants at Pontiac, Mich., as fast as precision manufacturing methods will permit, according to information received here from the home office. Re-tooling and re-arrangement of the assembly lines were completed several weeks ago, and finished cars are going out to dealers with utmost dispatch so that they may have ample models on hand to assure prompt delivery when the car is publicly announced.

"Nearly 5,000 leading newspapers will herald the announcements in their display columns, carrying the message of the Oakland company to practically every city, town and hamlet in the country."

HOW'S SHE HITTIN'

By ISRAEL KLEIN

Since winter is so hard a taskmaster toward the automobile, everything possible should be done to make the machine's life easier. Nothing should be overlooked while the car is being inspected and improved, for every little part is, of itself, as important as the rest of the car.

Take the battery, for instance.

Because of the heavier load it will get in winter, the battery must be up to its highest efficiency. The motorist can help it much by seeing that all contacts to the battery are tight and clean. Corrosion should be brushed off with a stiff wire brush, or washed off with a solution of baking soda.

It may also be necessary to have the generator adjusted so that a heavier charge will go into the battery. For the nights are getting longer and the battery is called upon to do more work than is required of it in summer. The charge however, should not go above 20 in the ammeter dial, and would best be maintained at about 15.

At intervals also, the battery should be checked up, to see that it does not fall below a specific gravity of about 1200. Although it will still be useful at this point, it will approach the danger point when hand cranking may have to be resorted to.

That's unnecessary when proper attention is paid to the car.

The motor may be working properly and there may be no trouble with the ignition, but if the other moving parts of the automobile aren't lubricated properly they will cause a heavier burden on the engine.

The transmission and differential, therefore, need care for the winter as much as does the engine itself. They should be inspected for the amount of oil in each part, and its consistency. The differential needs a lighter oil for the winter than it has been running in during summer.

The transmission case might also need a change of oil, for if this oil has been thinned down by too much wear, there is greater liability of its freezing.

Although they should be kept in their most resilient condition at all times of the year, the springs require special care during winter. It is on them that most of the stress of winter driving goes.

The shackle is the part of the spring that needs thorough lubrication. If it hasn't been touched for some time, the bolt may have been "frozen" so as almost to eliminate the spring action. Lack of grease and accumulation of rust causes this freezing.

In greasing the shackles of springs it should be remembered that the job isn't done until the old grease has been forced out at the other side of the spring.

Hupp Announces New Town Sedan

Increased Roominess And Enhanced Beauty Feature Addition To The Century Eight Line

In response to a widely expressed desire for a custom built closed car in the Century Eight series, the Hupp Motor Car corporation is now putting on the market a new five passenger Town Sedan in this model, which is on display at the local Hupmobile branch.

The new Century Eight car was planned to come into production at the time the 1929 Century cars were introduced, it is explained by R. S. Cole, vice-president in charge of Hupmobile sales, but pressure on plant facilities caused by the record breaking sale of all Hupmobile products this year has thus far prevented its being built in quantities. Samples are now being distributed throughout the United States, however, and as reports to the manufacturers show that it is proving highly popular wherever it has been exhibited a large demand is anticipated by the company and preparations are being made for its output on an adequate scale.

The Town Sedan's Raulang body is both wider and longer than that of the Standard Eight model and full advantage has been taken by Hupmobile engineers in utilizing the additional space to increase seating capacity and leg room for passengers.

The new car is exceptionally attractive in appearance, making unusually effective use of the Century design's beautiful lines, which are accentuated in this car by the landau effect achieved by using fabric instead of metal in the back, the cleim cut gracefulness of outline resulting from Hupmobile's unique "tailoring" of sheet metal, wider reveals around the windows and a new molding treatment, modern in shape and position. Wider doors not only add to the appearance of the car but also increase convenience of entrance.

All the interior characteristics of the Century Eight closed bodies are retained in the new Town Sedan, which presents to the fullest degree, the much admired charm of tailored form-fitting cushions and fine upholstery of this popular line. The distinctive bronze hardware of the standard sedan in the Century Eight series, including the new instrument panel, is kept throughout to an effective uniform motif in the Italian Renaissance style.

Driving ease in the new Town Sedan is enhanced by the use of Hupmobile's newly designed brake and accelerator controls, increased steering gear ratio and a re-arrangement of the tilt of front wheels.

The new Town Sedans are finished in two colorings, and offer to the purchaser a choice in Alcazar Maroon or in Wabash Green, with Pinto green window reveals, the upper body in each style being finished in black.

European Train Smash Kills 38

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 27 (AP)—Two Americans and 36 others were killed when the Simplon Orient express, one of the world's most famous trains, bound from Bucharest to Paris, racing through the darkness at 60 miles an hour, crashed into the Hermannstadt-Bucharest express near the town of Recea early this morning.

Nearly 50 persons were seriously injured.

The Americans killed were believed to be Arnold Ehrligh, Chicago, merchant, who was proceeding to Bucharest, and Alexander Herschler, general manager of the Wahl Eversharp company of New York.

SLAYING CLEARED

Mysterious Death Is Believed Solved

TYLER, Oct. 27 (AP)—The heretofore mysterious slaying of R. R. Shiflett, farmer, shot to death near his home about 13 miles from here Monday, was believed to have been solved today, at least as far as the slayers were concerned, with the arrest of three men, whose names were not divulged.

The motive for the slaying, however, remained a mystery, officers refusing to give details of the capture of the suspects, or ground for their arrest until further evidence has been gathered.

Dazzling Headlights Form Menace To Motoring Public, Experts Say In Urging More Care For Lights

Should Be Periodically Tested For The Proper Focus Says The American Auto Association

Dazzling automobile headlights, evident in altogether too great numbers on streets and highways throughout the country, are a distance and growing menace to motoring safety, declares a statement from National Headquarters of the American Automobile Association calling upon all motorists to do their utmost in curbing this evil which has taken a high toll of human life and property.

Figures compiled by ten large American cities, according to the nation-wide motoring organization, show that from three to five per cent of all nighttime accidents are traceable to faulty headlights, and usually the defect was found to be more caused by improper focus.

Motorists To Blame.

The neglect on the part of the motorists themselves is responsible for the glaring headlight situation as evidenced by the records of the national motoring body. Although the great majority of A. A. A. clubs provide headlight adjustment service for their membership or for the general public, there is still a large number of motorists who do not avail themselves of this service, it is declared.

It is pointed out by the A. A. A. that motorists have it in their power to ameliorate this definitely dangerous situation if every car owner will give the necessary attention to his own lighting equipment.

"To drive an automobile in town, city or on the open highway with headlights which are improperly focused and, as a result, are dazzling for the drivers of approaching cars, is to court trouble for oneself and jeopardize the safety of all other motorists," declares the A. A. A. statement.

Must Be In Condition

"Traffic authorities are well agreed that headlights are an aid to safe driving only when they are in proper condition. Otherwise they defeat their purpose and are a hindrance rather than an assistance. To say that headlights are in proper condition means that they must be bright enough to light up the roadway and at the same time be so focused that the beams will be bent downward and kept out of the eyes of approaching drivers.

"Every car owner should subject his headlights to periodic examination. Proper adjustment calls for a certain degree of expert knowledge and if the owner does not know how to make the adjustment himself, he should see to it that it is done at a place maintained or designated by the local traffic authorities or motor clubs.

Few Give Attention.

"There are too few motorists who give this attention to their lights, and this is evidenced by the relatively small number who report regularly to either state or A. A. A. headlight adjustment stations for an inspection. Clubs affiliated with the American Automobile Association throughout the country provide facilities for adjustment of headlights. Many which maintain this service offer it to the general motoring public so that every possible assistance is given by the motor club in riding streets and highways of glaring lights.

"The urgent need for proper adjustment of automobile headlights is apparent in the relatively large number of accidents directly traceable to failure in this respect.

"According to figures supplied by ten large American cities, from 3 to 5 per cent of the night time accidents have their ultimate cause in improper lighting equipment. Usually it is glare, and occasionally driving with one light or no lights, poor reflectors or dim bulbs. And if this many accidents are known to result from that cause, how many more are barely averted?

"Certainly the lighting equipment of an automobile is nothing to be taken for granted. Lack of attention to it is potentially too costly in human life and property to be dallied with for a moment."

NEW FARGO LINE

Is Commercial Car Of The Chrysler Corporation

Originality and attractiveness of body design, outstanding economy of first cost and operating expense, together with remarkable dependability, are features which Chrysler expects will achieve for the new Fargo line of cars. The same success among commercial cars that its other products have won in the passenger car field. The new line includes body style for delivery, station wagon, bus and commercial sedan purposes, of both half-ton and three-quarter ton capacity.

One, one and one-half and two-ton trucks will be announced later.

The half-ton model, with a four-cylinder 45 h. p. engine is called the Fargo Packet. The larger model, with six-cylinder 45 h. p. engine, will be known as the Fargo Clipper. Prices are from $795 to $1075, f. o. b. Detroit, including bodies. Packet chassis are priced at $545 and Clipper chasis at $725.

Chromium Plating In Universal Use

Was First Adopted To Add Special Touch To New Models Of Oldsmobile; Now Widely Emulated

Introduced less than two years ago to automobile industry, chromium plating has won almost universal use through it qualities of enduring wear and lasting brilliancy. This new plating, together with pyrovylin finishes, has made possible automobiles whose exterior finish vie with their mechanical perfection in long wearing qualities.

Chromium plating was first used on automobiles when it was introduced on Oldsmobile in March, 1927. Since that time it has been adopted by most of the new automobiles and its use has enabled designers to add new touches of brightness to cars with the assurance that their work would not later be spoiled by rust or corrosion.

Chromium is a white metal of extreme hardness. For years its only use was as an alloy of steel, giving added strength to that metal. During the last century its possibilities as a plating metal were discovered and a method was developed for its use. This method, however, was most impracticable for manufacturing operations and for years the idea of using chromium for plating purposes lay dormant.

With the development of the automobile came a need for a plating more lasting than nickel. Chemists and engineers of General Motors Corporation and Oldsmobile, after various experiments, turned to chromium and worked for months before a commercially successful method was discovered to apply this hard, non-tarnishing metal as a plating.

Radiator shells, head lamps, bumpers and the other ornamental parts which now are plated are given the same preparatory treatment for chromium as for nickel plating under the Oldsmobile-General Motors method. The part first is smoothed on emery wheels and thoroughly cleaned after which it is given a copper plating. This is followed by buffing and cleaning operations. The part is then given a nickel plating bath which it is again buffed and cleaned. Up to this point the procedure is the same as in nickel plating.

The next step is the chromium bath in which chromium salts are deposited by electric current in a smooth film over the part being plated. A final rinsing and the operation is completed. No buffing or polishing is required as the plated surface is so hard that a polishing wheel would have no effect.

The chromium plating has about the same hardness as a sapphire, therefore is wear resisting to an extreme degree. It is not subject to rust or corrosion and its original brilliancy is restored by wiping with an ordinary piece of cloth.

DAZZLING RECORD

Time-worn Chrysler Still In Running Shape

Enthusiastic drivers, with a heavy foot for the accelerator pedal, are given a new speed mark to shoot at as the result of Lloyd Groover's phenomenal drive in a Chrysler phaeton over the good, bad and indifferent roads from Phoenix, Ariz., to Los Angeles in 7 hours, 31 minutes for the 490 mile route. This is an average of 63.84 miles an hour.

The car, Groover's own, had previously been driven 110,000 miles.

Dairying Program For Nolan County Will Be Expended

Organization of Bull Circles Is Given Impetus By The Support Accorded From Sweetwater Men

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

SWEETWATER, Oct. 27.—The dairying program in Sweetwater trade territory is to be greatly expanded due to an active campaign that is now being launched by the Sweetwater Board of City Development in connection with the business men of this city and already agreements have been made by local firms for the purchasing of bulls to be placed in nine communities of this section. This will include three bulls bought this last month for a small circle in the communities of Brownlee, Mesquite and Champion.

The Board of City Development is sponsoring a movement to bring about the immediate introduction of several pure-bred bulls in this territory and county agent, Chas. H. Clark, is busy placing these in interested territories. Several business firms in Sweetwater have already agreed to buy bulls to be placed in these communities and included in this number are the following: Texas Bank and Trust company, the Wright Dairy Farms, the Sweetwater Cotton Oil Mill, Jesse Robertson, the Board of City Development and the Sweetwater Club who have authorized the dairy committee of the Board of City Development to purchase bulls not to exceed $250. In addition, the Texas and Pacific Railway company has made an agreement to buy a $250 bull as soon as nine others had been placed in this territory.

This is only a start of movement in this section to dethrone King Cotton and put King Jersey in his place as the latter's regime in other places have been found to be much more satisfactory to the wealth and prosperity of the community. Several additional firms have signified their interest in this movement and have made tentative agreements to buy additional bulls to be placed in the Nolan and Fisher county territories.

The bulls will be distributed over the territory, according to Monte E. Owen, secretary, by community exhibits at the annual Midwest Exposition, where the community winning first place will have first choice of the bulls the second place winner the second choice and so on. This will give this territory one of the finest collection of bulls of any county in West Texas.

The Board of City Development committee has already placed two bulls in addition to the first three that were bought and are now making negotiations and inspection of the other five bulls that will be purchased within the next week or so, so that they can be placed as soon as possible.

Additional plans for the expansion of dairying in this section will be made and it is hoped that at least 25 or 30 pure bred heifers will be placed with the boy's and girl's clubs of this section by the first of the year. This movement is being considered as important to this section as gaining new industries and more interest is being manifested at the present time than ever before.

Smith-Hoover

farm relief and religion remain conspicious among the issues about which spellbinders and voters are arguing, although they are by no means having the field to themselves. The Republicans are bearing down heavily on the tariff and prosperity. The Democrats are talking of oil, and attacking Dr. Work's renewal of the Salt Creek contract with the Sinclair interests. Recently the question of waterpower also had shouldered its way to a new place of prominence.

At New York Mr. Hoover declared the Democratic proposals as to farm relief, prohibition and waterpower savored of "state socialism." Governor Smith replied at Boston, that, as to waterpower, Hoover merely was echoing a charge of socialism first raised by the "power trust," and that as to all three the position of the Republicans was that of a reactionary party standing in the way of progress.

Religion Holds Spotlight.

The religious discussion continues to branch out into novel variations. Senator Glass, speaking of his fellow-Virginian, Bishop Cannon, declared a "Pope of Virginia" was trying to turn the Southern Methodist church into a Republican political sect. Henry J. Allen, publicity director for the Republican national committee, charged that thousands of dollars are being spent to belittle the Quaker religion of Herbert Hoover.

The open season for final predictions has arrived, and the country now has information on the highest authority who will win the election. The Republicans say unhesitatingly that beyond question Mr. Hoover has won. The Democrats declare quite openly that Governor Smith undoubtedly is elected. It would seem that it only remains to let the voters cast their ballots,—and to count them.

San Angelo Has Museum Of Relics

West Texas Animals, Birds Are Featured In Displays At San Angelo; Room For Indian Relics

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 27.—The purpose of a museum at San Angelo, under the direction of Mrs. W. W. Carson, is to collect and keep relics, curios, mounted birds and animals of West Texas. For this reason the museum will probably be named the West Texas Museum. Mrs. Carson has asked the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to help accumulate these articles and has been assured of their co-operation.

In the museum there will be a separate room given over entirely to Indian relics, histories of Indians, pictures of them in all stages of their evolution to the civilized state they now live in.

Much of the material that would make the exhibit at the museum more complete, Mrs. Carson says, is stored away in homes in the state, waiting to be placed where it will be taken care of and used for the benefit of humanity.

Dr. and Mrs. Granbery are visiting in Amarillo this week-end.

in every city—in every town there is one store that undersells—in LUBBOCK it's

Grollman's

BROADWAY at AVENUE J

Announcement

One of the merchandising events of 1927 on the South Plains—the one that proved the most popular and most widely attended—was the FIRST and ORIGINAL HARVEST SALE instituted by our store for the purpose of really serving the public at a time when they would appreciate it most.

No doubt You Remember the Event

We're really proud of originating the HARVEST SALE EVENT on the South Plains. We proved our RIGHT to your patronage by GIVING VALUES in TUNE with such an event. You proved to us your appreciation by your overwhelming response.

While the name—HARVEST SALE—can be copied and imitated we have most serious doubts as to the ability of any store in this section to EQUAL the values offered by the originators of this event.

It Will Not Be Our Privilege To Again Demonstrate

Mr. Grollman's recent return from New York marked the end of our months of preparation to make our ANNUAL HARVEST SALE the most worthy event of the year . . . one that you will appreciate more because of the values offered rather than the NAME.

You Are Asked To Look Forward to Grollman's Annual Harvest Sale which will be shortly announced

In the meantime we know that purchases made here now represent a better value than ordinarily found . . . because of our constant adherence to CASH SELLING and SMALL profits. A comparison at ANY time will please us.
But remember—

The Time To Save Is Harvest Time
