THEIR LAST ISSUE

Last Monday, the staff of the Eagles Scratches published their last issue of the school paper for 1936-37. The issue last Monday made sixty-five issues which Eldorado High School has successfully published during the past two school years.

The entire faculty and student body is appreciative of the splendid support given the paper by Eldorado merchants. The paper went into practically every home—especially to parents of high school students—and this was made possible by the support of local merchants. In this way news of school activities reached the parents that possibly would not have reached them otherwise.

As printers of the school paper, the personnel of the Success is very appreciative of the cooperation given us by the staff. Lots of work was done in preparing the material and getting it to us, neatly written, on time. This was a great factor in enabling us to get each issue printed and delivered to them for distribution each Monday.

We've never been privileged to work with a more cooperative more congenial, or more thoughtful group of students than those on the staff of the Eagles Scratches. This group did this work from week to week without receiving any credit on their school work, and we're glad that Eldorado High School is composed of students who so willingly give their time for the betterment of their school.

Our work with them and for them has been pleasant. We looked forward to their visits to the Success Office each week, and as they so splendidly complete their task with the school paper we want them to know we appreciate the way they have "carried on" during the school year just closing.

CLEAN-UP TIME

Eldorado has begun to show the effects of neglect, especially since the arrival of spring weather and our fine rains. Vacant lots have grown up in grass and weeds until they are already presenting a rather unsightly appearance.

Right now would be a mighty good time to inaugurate a concerted clean-up drive, before this growth gets too much the advantage of us. We think it would be fine for some club or group of persons to take the lead and solicit the cooperation of everyone in a city-wide clean-up campaign.

Let's stamp out the evidences of neglect in our community and keep our town looking neat and clean during the summer months.

THEY TRADED

R. A. Evans and Chas. Chesney have been doing a little trading lately. Mr. Evans says he bought a house and lot in Eldorado from Mr. Chesney, and in turn sold him a half-section of land in Brewster county.

Sounds kinda like a swap-out proposition, but we haven't heard either of them complaining of getting cheated.

Road Machinery Working On Road To Russell Well

A portion of the county's road machinery was directed to begin work of repairing the road leading to the Russell Ranch this week. A grader and tractor, the county truck and several workmen were sent out there during the first of this week.

Our commissioners realize that it will be impossible to make this a good road with the money available for this purpose, but they expect to place it in much better condition than it's now in. They expect to "patch it up" so that the road can be traveled with much less difficulty.

With drilling activity beginning on the Russell No. 2, this work will be greatly appreciated by those who work at the well, as well as citizens of the county who must necessarily travel this road in getting to and from Eldorado.

Dorothy Jarrett and Edward Meador, high school juniors, won prizes in the $2.00 division in a state essay contest sponsored by the Texas Centennial Exposition, according to a write-up in the Saturday's San Angelo Morning Times.

Members of the high school English classes, under the direction of Miss Ruth Howell, wrote essays on the subject, "Why I Want to See the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition." The seven best essays were entered from Eldorado in the contest. The essays sent to Dallas to be entered in the contest were written by Dorothy Jarrett, Edward Meador, Elton McGinnis, Raymond Rodgers, Johnnie F. Isaacs, Maxine Wilton and Alice Mund.

The two winners from Eldorado won in competition with students from seventeen other counties in this district. Every student should be proud of the showing which Eldorado High School made in the contest, and praise is due Miss Howell for her efforts in directing the contest in her classes.

A change in mail service is now in effect for Eldorado, beginning with last Sunday. The mail from San Angelo, which has been arriving at about noon, is now due to arrive in Eldorado each morning at about ten o'clock or shortly thereafter.

Askew, has to stay in Sonora until three o'clock to make connections with the bus from Ozona which arrives there at 2:55, carrying first class mail only. So far as is known now, there will be no change in this schedule. Evening mail is due to continue arriving here at about 3:30, on the carrier's return to San Angelo.

Should any changes in this schedule be made, the public will be notified. E. W. Brooks, postmaster, stated.

SUMMER FIRE HAZARDS

The advent of each season brings special fire hazards. Now that summer is nearly here, due precaution should be taken by property owners against the dangers that follow cessation of rain, and the arrival of dry, warm days.

Some of the worst fires have started in vacant, grassy lots. Uncut, dry grass can almost explode into flame at the touch of a match or a spark. It is essential to community safety that adequate laws control the care of grass—and that these laws be enforced. Farmers and others living outside towns should be no less zealous in reducing this hazard.

During good weather, homes are cleaned and renovated. Great amounts of trash must be disposed of, often by burning. Here is still another source of destructive fire. The burning operation should take place only in a metal container of adequate size—and under constant supervision.

In addition, summer is an excellent time for using forethought to the end that our homes may be safer from fire next winter. Before fall comes, every furnace should be inspected and repairs and replacements made where necessary. A few dollars spent in this fashion now may save thousands—and, more important, save lives.

Finally, no matter what you do or where you go, be ever awake to the peril of fire. Do you like to drive in parks and forests? Then remember that carelessness with fire has destroyed more trees than man ever cut for a useful purpose. Have you a favorite summer picnic spot? Then bear in mind that the most beautiful place nature ever devised can become an eyesore in a few short minutes or hours if fire strikes.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Kay McKinney of Sabinal spent last Sunday and Sunday night here, in the home of Judge and Mrs. C. S. McKinney. Mr. McKinney, who is publisher of the Sabinal Sentinel, was a caller at the Success Office Monday morning.

Don't put up with useless PAIN Get rid of it

When functional pains of menstruation are severe, take CARDUI. If it doesn't benefit you, consult a physician. Don't neglect such pains. They depress the tone of the nerves, cause sleeplessness, loss of appetite, wear out your resistance. Get a bottle of Cardui and see whether it will help you, as thousands of women have said it helped them.

Besides easing certain pains, Cardui aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

Rev. R. C. Brinkley Delivers Baccalaureate Message To Eighteen Eldorado Graduates

SERVICE IS HELD SUNDAY NIGHT AT THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Exhorting members of the graduating class to begin now to make investment in the "after man" and the "after woman," Rev. R. C. Brinkley, pastor of the First Baptist church of Sonora, delivered the baccalaureate sermon to members of the 1937 graduating class last Sunday night. The service was held at the Baptist church in Eldorado.

"The type of man or woman you will be ten, twenty, thirty years from now depends largely upon the kind of life you live today," the speaker said. "A clean mind and a clean body today will insure a strong mind and body of tomorrow."

Speaking on the subject: "Life Means Opportunity," Rev. Brinkley painted a splendid word-picture of the opportunities which are available for those upon whom the doors of their high school are closing. He took his text from a portion of the 19th verse of the 18th Psalm: "He brought me forth also into a large place."

Building his message around this text, Rev. Brinkley pointed out many ways in which the graduate of today can be brought "into a large place" in whatever professions they enter in this life. Among them, the speaker mentioned an imaginative mind, pointing out the fact that no man ever accomplished a goal without first picturing this goal in his mind; another being good books, and Brinkley pictured how one can encircle the globe, visit foreign countries and actually experience interesting events of history by reading good literature in the quiet of his own room.

As another attribute to success, the speaker urged the graduates to live a Christian life, stating that the Christian life was the only "happy life" and those whose success is greatest are those who recognize God in their daily lives.

Following is a program of the exercise:

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

AUSTIN—With a strangely mixed record of good and bad legislation, the 45th legislature's regular session was brought to a final end in the wee hours of Sunday morning, with its clocks turned back, as members prepared to pay a flying visit home and return to resume their efforts at the first called session scheduled by Gov. Allred for Thursday of this week.

The governor specified nothing but repeal of pari-mutuel betting on horse races in his call, but pointed out omission of the usual reservation of his right to submit other matters did not preclude his doing that thing, provided progress on the race repeal measure justified submission of other matters. Bryan Bradbury of Abilene, author of the repeal bill in the house, planned to hold oneday hearings Friday and report the bill to the house floor immediately. Prompt passage by the house by a large vote was foreseen. What the senate will do remained doubtful. Frank Rawlings, shrewd senator from Tarrant county, who single-handed blocked action thruout the special session of the senate, was expected to resume the battle to prevent a senate vote.

APPROPRIATIONS UP

Appropriation bills, rushed thru conference committees in the dying hours of the session, further complicated the state's woeful financial condition. Budget appropriations for the biennium were hiked approximately $10,000,000 total, as forecast in this column last week. John Redditt, chairman of the senate finance committee, constant supporter of the special interest's lobby, which fears taxation, however, promptly came to bat with an optimistic statement that he believed only $5,000,000 to $7,500,000 additional revenue would be necessary despite the current 10 million-dollar deficit and the upped appropriations.

DEBERRY IS CONFIRMED

Nomination by Gov. Allred of Tom DeBerry, former senator from Red River, to succeed John Wallace as member of the board of control on Jan. 1, 1938, was confirmed by the senate, but brought out much political discussion. Allred's unprecedented action in submitting this and other nominations far in advance of vacancies in the offices brought the question on the senate floor as to whether the governor planned to resign to accept a federal judgeship. This Allred denied, but his denial was carefully worded, and served merely to strengthen the growing belief here that he will quit and take the federal post if it is offered him. Wild rumors that the deal had fallen thru because the national administration had determined to "punish" Tom Connally, junior senator, for his opposition to the Roosevelt court plan were discounted here by those who know of Connally's close personal relationship with Roosevelt and John Garner. They pointed out Connally has opposed the president vigorously on the NRA, the St. Lawrence waterway treaty and other measures—and remained one of the most influential administration senators in Washington.

ADVERTISING BILL DEAD

If Texas voters are to be given an opportunity to vote on whether the state shall advertise to attract industrial capital and tourist trade, it will not be for another two years. Despite valiant efforts of Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul, who piloted the resolution thru the senate, the house failed to vote on it. Friends of the bill declared they received little co-operation from Bob Calvert, speaker of the house, in getting it up, altho Calvert saved the measure from defeat once by supporting it on a tie vote.

VETO ON DENTAL BILL?

Final passage of the silly measure which would prohibit dentists from advertising in newspapers, with signs or otherwise, drew predictions that Gov. Allred would veto it on constitutional grounds. Newspaper publishers and others who have opposed it on the ground that it involves a principle questioned its validity and urged the governor to strike it down. They declared the legislature might decide next to forbid grocery stores, filling stations or restaurants to advertise their wares.

were turned toward Washington, where members of the Texas highway commission and good roads advocates thruout the state were wiring Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Bonham urging support of the Cartwright amendment to the emergency relief appropriation for 1937-38. The amendment would designate a substantial sum out of the president's $1,500,000 relief fund for highway construction, sending it thru regular channels, including the U. S. bureau of roads and state highway commissions. It would be applicable for federal aid and farm-to-market roads, and would bring to Texas about $9,000,000 additional highway money without additional federal matching. The legislature adopted a joint resolution memorializing congress to approve the plan, pointing to the permanent benefit derived from other relief money spent in this manner and citing the useful employment resulting. Congressional action was anticipated this week.

Political kites were flying in Austin as the legislature adjourned. . . courses may be arranged and the schedule made in preparation for the beginning of regular class work on Wednesday morning, June 2.

Students will attend six days a week and spend one hour each day in the study hall, except that grammar school students will spend only one-half hour each day. Class periods for both high school and grammar school pupils will be one hour in length with a portion of the period, in the case of grammar school pupils, being devoted to supervised study. The time requirement mentioned here applies to a student taking one-half credit of work. Each additional one-half credit taken will be accompanied by a proportionate increase in time requirement. Little or no outside preparation will be necessary for summer school students.

The maximum course load will be three half units, although it is recommended that students not attempt to take more than two half-units. The time requirement for two half units will be four hours a day.

The tuition charge for Summer session work is $1.50 a week or $12.00 for the term for each one-half unit of credit taken. Tuition is payable in advance at the beginning of each week or arrangements may be made for the entire sum at the beginning of the term.

All summer session work will be strictly standard and all work covered for a given semester during the main term will be covered during the Summer session. This will be made possible by longer class periods, attendance more days a week, and because of the fact that the student has already covered the work during the main term.

A CORRECTION

In a story last week regarding samples of wool which were secured in this county to be scoured and tested for shrinkage at A. & M. College, we stated that fleeces were secured from 25 ranchmen of the county.

This statement was an error. What really happened was that 25 samples were secured from 3 ranchmen of the county. The samples are to be scoured and their shrinkage compared with the shrinkage of the entire fleece so that the percentage of shrinkage can be determined. This service is estimated to be of exceeding value to ranchmen of this county in marketing their wool.

Those who aided in securing the samples were Mr. Christy of the wool division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, J. Forrest Runge, Ed Hill, Mr. Nesbit of the animal husbandry department of A. & M. College, and County Agent Godwin.

Farmers Get Financial Information From FDA

The local Farm Debt adjustment committee met with Hugh S. Weaver, San Angelo, district farm debt adjustment supervisor Wednesday, to work out plans to give Farmers and Ranchmen relief from urgent financial problems. Mr. Weaver says he expects the committee to be able to help all farmers and ranchmen find a way out of their problems without asking the creditors for unjust concessions.

Many of these farmers need nothing more than sound financial advice and the farm debt adjustment committeemen serve as financial advisors only, as they have no money to lend. The farmers coming to them for help desire to pay full amount they owe creditors, and merely want help in working out a plan whereby they can pay these debts without losing their farms or other chattels. "This can usually be done where both the creditor and the farmer are anxious to work together, unless the debts are excessive, in which case a scale-down can be arranged," says Mr. Weaver, "and many times these agreements could have been worked out without our help if both sides would have been as frank with each other as they are with us."

Farmers or Ranchmen making any financial move, including new or renewal of loans, are at liberty to ask the committeemen for their advice. The committeemen in this county are: Judge F. M. Bradley and Hugh McAngus of Eldorado.

HUMBLE TO RE-OPEN HALL OF TEXAS HISTORY

Houston—Humble's Hall of Texas History, widely acclaimed as one of the most interesting and educational exhibits at the Central Centennial Exposition in Dallas last year, by popular request will be re-opened and enlarged for the 1937 showing of the Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition.

Announcement was made recently after much favorable public comment and numerous requests for another showing had been received. At the same time it was agreed to expand the Hall and include more information material about oil—the major industry of Texas.

The entire exhibit of last year, historical dioramas and geologic maps and miniature models, will be retained intact, and a wing of some 1,500 square feet will be added to accommodate a series of new materials explaining the work of the geologist, paleontologist and physicist in their combined search for petroleum deposits. This is being done in answer to a multitude of requests during the 1936 showing for facts about the instruments and methods employed in the relentless probing for oil.

A seismograph sound truck, torsion balance instrument and magnetometer—all delicate recording instruments used in exploration work—will be shown. Accompanying these will be translucent photographs and explanatory graphs and charts to make clear to the laymen the somewhat puzzling story of how oil is found underground.

For several weeks the geologic and geophysics departments of the Company have been engaged in special research, and at this time work is going ahead in Dallas with the construction and installation of materials for the addition to the exhibit.
