GOTHAMITES ARE SAD

Broadway Boys Leave Big Wad of Cash in Philly, Runyon Relates

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service)

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 2—The Broadway boys are very, very sad tonight.

There is nothing sadder than a sad Broadway boy.

He ages five years in five minutes. Pouches as big as mail bags form under his eyes.

The reason for the sadness of the Broadway boys tonight, was the second defeat of the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of the world's series of 1930 by old Cornelius McGillicuddy's Philadelphia Athletics by a score of 6 to 1.

SERIES STATISTICS

Game scores:
First: Philadelphia 8, St. Louis 2.
Second: Philadelphia 6, St. Louis, 1.

Second game figures:
Attendance 25,295. Receipts $185,738. Players share $77,894.55. Each club $12,982.43.
Each league $12,982.43. Commissioner $25,910.35.
Series totals: Attendance 64,890; receipts $366,470; players $155,789.70; each club $25,964.95; each league $25,964.95; commissioner $45,230.56.

The Broadway boys came bulging over from Broadway yesterday eagerly clutching at the 7, 8 and finally 9 to 5 that was offered by the loyal Philadelphians on their beloved A's.

Strange Notion

The Broadway boys had a sneaking idea that the Philadelphians hadn't heard of the Cardinals, and their mighty spurt to the National league pennant. There hasn't been as much money for a club in the world series as there was for the Cardinals yesterday since Honus Wagner was a recruit. Naturally, there had to be even more for the A's.

Well the Broadway boys took that 7 to 5, or what-have-you until they were black in the face, and while they were somewhat morose last night, and found fault with the waiters serving their dinners, they reasoned that they had been the victims of an untoward bad break in the luck when Burleigh Grimes was licked after heaving remarkable baseball.

So the Broadway boys telephoned home "good game, send more money," and this morning they formed a line to the right with fresh currency in their hands, and begged the obliging Philadelphians to let 'em have lots of that 6½ to 5 that the inmates of the Quaker city hung out today.

Quakers Well Off

All the big high spots from around Fiftieth and Broadway, where the Bismarck Herring grows, were in the line, requesting the kind favor of the home towners. My, oh, my, but the waiters will catch it tonight if they are not on their toes, and moving fast when the boys start ordering, for never in history was there such a devastation of the "smart-money." The maimed and wounded are all over Broad street, and the Philadel-

ROTARY ASKS COLLEGE VOTE

Petition for Bond Election In Circulation

Steps for bringing about an election to establish a junior college district in this city at the earliest possible date were taken by members of the Rotary club Thursday noon following an address by J. B. Marlow, member of the Junior college committee of the chamber of commerce.

Schools Crowded

Crowded conditions of the public schools in Wichita Falls were discussed by Mr. Marlow in pointing the need for a separate building for junior college purposes.

"Children finish high school commonly now at an age at which they should not be sent away from home for the pursuit of further academic courses," he said. "In addition to that, 95 per cent of the families in this city can not afford to send their children away to college. Tuition won't take care of the problem. Several of us have given scholarships, but they are too few, and it isn't right to subject a child to the charity of a scolarship. What we should do is call an election, put

Naval Officer Killed As Plane Falls in Bay

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 2. (UP)—Lieut. William A. Watson, attached to the U. S. S. Concord scouting fleet, was killed late today when his plane collapsed and fell into Chesapeake bay. Chief Mechanic Marion A. Simpson, his companion, leaped from the plane into the water and was rescued by a naval station flying boat an hour and 30 minutes later.

Watson was flying in battle practice over Chesapeake bay when the wing of his plane collapsed and the plane fell. Witnesses said Watson apparently was unable to escape from the craft. His body was recovered.

Bridge Collision Kills Man, Injures Women

MIAMI, Okla., Oct. 2. (UP)—Two automobiles collided on a bridge over the Spring river at Devil's promenade today, resulting in the death of Martin Wilson, 23, of Promenade, east of here, and injuries to two women.

The women, Mrs. Goldie Carr and Hattie Hogan, were brought to a hospital here. Another woman was slightly injured.

$68,221 TOTAL ANNOUNCED AT FINAL RALLY

Unreported Subscriptions To Bring Fund to More Than $69,000

WORKERS CELEBRATE

O'Donohoe Thanks Forces At Final Banquet At Wichita Club

Over the top with actual subscriptions totalling $68,221 and additional cards not yet turned in which will more than reach the $69,600 set as the objective in the 1930 campaign for funds, community chest workers held one of the most jubilant rallies in the history of the city at the Wichita club Thursday evening.

Reports totalling $15,927.33 were announced as the results of Wednesday's and Thursday's work. Of the amount, $2,961.75 was secured by the divisional workers while the "big gifts" committee, headed by J. S. Bridwell turned in a report of $5,000 worth of subscriptions. A total of $7,525.58 was secured by the group solicitations committee with Roy B. Jones as leader and Walter Nelson Jr., head of the foreign corporations committee reported a total of $410.

Division Reports

The largest divisional report was made by division 40 with Carter McGregor as major which reached the $776.50 mark. Other divisional reports include $546.50, secured by division 10 with L. H. Cullum as major; $497.50 by division 20 with E. H. Eddleman as major; $497.25 by division 30, with A. E. Kelly, major, and $662 by division 50 with Horrace Robbins as major.

The meeting was presided over by J. F. O'Donohoe, president of the organization who expressed delight and satisfaction at the results of the campaign.

"We have had the finest group of workers that has ever tried to put over a campaign in this city and I extend to you my most sincere appreciation and congratulations for your untiring and diligent work during this campaign," Mr. O'Donohoe said.

"This has done more to put the city of Wichita Falls back where it once stood in the eyes of the state than any one thing that has ever been done."

Mr. O'Donohoe also expressed appreciation to D. O. Johnson for the use of his building for the community chest temporary headquarters and to Linden E. Brooks of the American city bureau who has managed the campaign.

Sales Force Thanked

M. W. Blair, colonel of the sales army, thanked all the sales force and expressed appreciation for their efforts and their time they have devoted to the campaign.

DRY AGENT NO-BILLED

EASTLAND, Texas, Oct. 2. (UP)—The county grand jury today no-billed Johnny Hamilton, federal prohibition agent, charged with the fatal shooting of Virgil Day here on Sept. 17, when he sought to arrest Day.

Two Women And Officer Wounded In Battle Over Affections Of Husband

DALLAS, Oct. 2. (AP)—A woman was wounded seriously, a policeman was shot and less seriously injured, and another woman received severe lacerations on the head here today in an altercation and shooting over the affections of a man, who escaped unscathed.

Mrs. Catherine Camp, 25, was shot once in the throat and physicians said she might die. Policeman J. C. Smith, 40, was struck in the shoulder by two bullets, and, while severely wounded, was expected to recover. Mrs. Dora Lorraine Boykin, 29, was lacerated on the head by pop bottles.

Man Arrested

R. M. (Bob) Boykin was arrested shortly after the melee and held for questioning.

Reports of the shooting varied. One witness said the fight and shooting came after Mrs. Boykin, Mrs. Camp and Boykin had agreed to go to the country where the women could "fight it out." Another said Boykin saw his wife approaching the small hotel where Mrs. Camp resided and began bombarding her with pop bottles.

Mrs. Boykin told officers she believed her home was being broken up and went to the hotel to talk to Mrs. Camp and her husband. She said she was hit by a bottle and so blinded by blood that she could not see clearly. In the confusion, she said, she thought Policeman Smith, who was attempting to disarm her, was her husband and that if she did not shoot she would herself be shot.

Resembles Husband

"His hat and clothes looked like my husband's," Mrs. Boykin said. "I thought he was my husband trying to take my pistol from me, and I was afraid I'd be shot if that happened. So I shot."

Smith's story was that he was off duty and on his way home when he saw a woman pursuing a man down the street in the vicinity of the hotel. He intervened and attempted to disarm the woman.

No charges were filed against Mrs. Boykin pending outcome of Mrs. Camp's and Smith's injuries.

Cal. Talbot Announces Speaking Itinerary

DALLAS, Oct. 2. (UP)—Col. W. E. Talbot, Republican candidate for governor, announced his speaking itinerary for next week today as follows:

Tuesday, Denison; Wednesday, Paris; Thursday, Mt. Pleasant; Friday, Tyler.

"Colonel Bill" will spend the next three days speaking at the leading cities in the state, offering his candidacy, the watchword for which is "developing Texas for Texans." He opposes the $350,000,000 road bond issue and favors the election of highway commissioners from various sections of the state, he said.

Eminent Judge Stricken At Start of Auto Trip

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 2. (AP)—Judge Frank S. Dietrich of the United States circuit court of appeals at San Francisco, died suddenly here today of heart disease as he was starting on an automobile drive to San Francisco.

He had spent several days here and last night attended a wedding of a socially prominent young couple.

Judge Dietrich, who had spent the latter half of his 67 years in Idaho, had climbed to an eminence in the ranks of American jurists that clearly pointed his way to the supreme court of the United States.

Wichita-Dallas Plane Forced To Earth at Denton

DENTON, Texas, Oct. 2. (AP)—A Western Air Express plane flying from Wichita Falls to Dallas made a forced landing in a field near here tonight. The landing gear of the plane was damaged and Earl Campbell, pilot, suffered a minor cut on the face. The one passenger, J. R. Thoenew of Dallas, was unhurt and proceeded to Dallas by interurban. Campbell refused to discuss the accident, saying he was not permitted to make a statement, but it was understood the sudden landing was due to motor trouble.

TEMPLE WOMAN SHOT AT PARTY

Argument Followed by Firing of Shots

Special to The Record News.

WALTERS, Okla., Oct. 2.—Mrs. Jim Greenway of Temple was shot and perhaps fatally wounded during a party at the home of A. W. McCarthy at Temple shortly after 10 o'clock tonight.

Bert Jones, also of Temple, was lodged in the county jail here shortly after midnight in connection with the shooting, and Jim Greenway, husband of the wounded woman, was being detained temporarily in the jail at Temple.

According to accounts of the shooting given to Sheriff Hooper, Greenway and Jones became involved in an argument during the party at the McCarthy home. About 10 or 12 couples were in attendance, Sheriff Hooper was told. Jones is said to have left the scene of the party after the argument.

Shortly afterward, members told Sheriff Hooper, a fusilade of shots came from outside the house, the bullets passing through the lowered curtains of a window. One of the bullets struck Mrs. Greenway behind the ear. She was rushed in an ambulance to a hospital at Duncan, and officers later arrested Jones.

Mr. McCarthy is foreman of the Prairie Pipe Line construction crew working near Temple and Greenway and Jones are also employed in the crew.

WOMAN'S CHANCE OF RECOVERY SLIGHT

DUNCAN, Okla., Oct. 2.—Mrs. Jim Greenway, brought here tonight after being shot at Temple, Okla., was in a critical condition at a local hospital shortly after midnight. Attendants said she had little chance of recovery. She had been shot one time, the bullet entering her head through the right temple.

State to Let $750,000 Contracts at Next Meet

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 2. (AP)—Contracts calling for the expenditure of between $750,000 and $800,000 will be awarded by the state highway commission at its next meeting Oct. 20 and 21, according to a tentative list of projects given out here today.

The projects are scheduled in Liveoak, Bee San Patricio, Brown, Madison, Ector, Hopkins, Karnes and Liberty counties. The Liveoak county project calling for a bridge across the Nueces river and for relief structures, will cost approximately $150,000, state highway engineers said.

Car Plunges From Road Foiling Highway Robbers

MADISONVILLE, Texas, Oct. 2. (AP)—Three men attempted to hold up A. E. Slaughter on the Huntsville highway last night. An automobile parked across the road blocked his passage and when he slowed down one of the men got on the running board and hit Slaughter on his head. The blow blinded him and he lost control of the automobile, which turned turtle down a steep embankment and into a pond of water. When Slaughter extricated himself from the wreckage the men had gone. Slaughter received minor injuries.

Matinee Crowd Hampers Fire Fighting in Theater

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 2. (UP)—A matinee crowd of more than 200 persons driven from the Regent theater by fire late today remained in the lobby of the building seriously handicapping the efforts of firemen and finally had to be ordered from the building by police.

The fire, which did damage estimated at $1,000, started in the basement of the theater and was not discovered until smoke filtered through the hallways into the main part of the building.

TORNADO KILLS WOMAN, 2 MEN IN COLORADO

Small Twister Traps Pair In Automobile; Five Persons Hurt

TENEMENT CRASHES

Five Tenants Lose Lives In Greenwich Village Disaster

PUEBLO, Colo., Oct. 2. (AP)—Three persons were killed, one is missing and five were injured by a freak tornado which swept a narrow path near Fowler, 30 miles east of here, late today. The tornado was about a quarter of a mile wide, reports said, but its originating point and end could not be learned.

The dead were: G. W. Lackey, Mrs. John H. Downing, both of Fowler, and Collie Noble, 53, of Manzanola, Colo.

J. W. Lawler of Fowler was not accounted for and was believed a victim of the storm. He had gone into the tornado swept area today with a herd of cattle and no word has been received from him.

Mrs. Downing and Lackey were in an automobile in the path of the storm. They sought shelter in a small building near the highway. The storm flattened the building, crushing them both.

Noble was a ranch foreman. He took refuge in a ranch house which collapsed, injuring him fatally. He died within a few hours at a Rocky Ford hospital.

Names to those hurt and the extent of their injuries could not be determined and details of the twister were lacking because of crippled communication lines.

Weather bureau observers here were at a loss to explain the tornado. They said it developed without any apparent barometric indication.

FIVE KILLED IN CRASH OF HOUSE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. (AP)—The old brick walls of a Greenwich village tenement house groaned and collapsed today, burying the 12 occupants and killing five of them in their sleep.

The foundations of the house, on Greenwich avenue opposite Jefferson Market Court, had been weakened for years by adjacent excavations, and wreckers have been demolishing four adjoining buildings, one of which once housed the saloon of Luke O'Connor, where John Masefield, poet laureate of England, scrubbed the floors when he was 17.

All officers of the wrecking company which tore down the four houses were ordered arrested by District Attorney Crain, who blamed them for failure to shore up sufficiently the sagging walls of the neighboring structure.

Two of the dead were women, Mrs. Victorine Courtade, 48, owner of the building and proprietor of a coffee shop in the first floor, and her daughter, Marguerite, 27. The others were Carlo Tornaghi, 29; Frank Bourdon, and an unidentified man. Tornaghi arrived from France yesterday.

The others were injured, two critically. A 13th tenant, Baptiste Lebastide, spent the night with friends and came home to find police and firemen digging the bodies of his fellow lodgers out of the ruins.

The tenement had been a home for men and women from France and Belgium, drawn together by their common knowledge of the French language and by the flavor of the French coffee which Mrs. Courtade dispensed.

Tenants who escaped serious injury told the district attorney they could not keep their hands from shaking during the last few days as they lifted their cups in the coffee shop. Passing trucks set up ominous vibrations in the house, they said.

BANKER INDICTED

TAHOKA, Texas, Oct. 2. (UP)—Robert H. King, former vice president of the Security State bank of Tahoka, was indicted by the county grand jury today on a charge of misappropriation of funds.

Wichitan Traps 2 Hijackers

J. C. Chenault, 1910 Tenth street, held the "joker" up his sleeve by leading two would-be hijackers into police station late Thursday night.

Mr. Chenault with Charles Chenault left Henrietta Thursday night in his automobile and was followed by two youths in another automobile who attempted to hold him up. The two young men passed Mr. Chenault's car several times, he said, each time pointing a .22 caliber rifle and commanding him to pull over and put his hands up. Mr. Chenault speeded his car up and with the hijackers following him, drove into police station. The youths in the automobile followed him and were met at the curb by several officers.

Mr. Chenault told police that he had with him at the time more than $4,000 in diamonds and a considerable amount of money.

Officers said that the youths, who claim they reside at Olney, were amateurs.

Virtual Martial Law May Prevail in Havana

HAVANA, Oct. 2. (AP)—Reports from the presidential palace today said President Machado had sent a message to congress asking suspension of constitutional guarantees for the city of Havana and suburbs until after the elections, scheduled for the first day of November.

If the request is approved at the special session of congress called for tomorrow, a condition similar to martial law will prevail in Havana. Such approval is forecast by observers.

Nebraska Labor Endorses Senator George Norris

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 2. (UP)—Senator George W. Norris, senior Nebraska senator, was endorsed as the choice of Nebraska labor today in a resolution passed by representatives of state labor organizations.

At the same time the Republican party was called upon to repudiate the apparent attempt to "confuse voters" in seeking to have grocer, George W. Norris, of Broken Bow oppose Senator Norris for the nomination.

'REDS' ATTEMPT TO MARCH ON AUDITORIUM

President Says Depression In Business World Temporary

EXPANSION FAVORED

Executive Says Government Can and Must Cure Abuses

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2. (AP)—A parade of Communists, estimated by police to number 600, was broken up here tonight when it attempted to break away from a police escort and head for Public hall, where President Hoover was addressing the annual convention of the American Bankers' association.

The parade formed at Public square at 7:30 p. m., at the call of Communist leaders, according to police. As it headed away from the square squadrons of motorcycle policemen led several sections in different directions and attempted to keep them moving.

As one group numbering several score was being led down St. Clair avenue, away from the auditorium, police met what appeared to be a break from the escort by pouring exhaust fumes from their motorcycles and obstructing the street leading back to the auditorium.

Reporter Slugged

A newspaper reporter was reported slugged over the head and sent to a hospital.

Another division of the separated parade, which halted two blocks from the auditorium and sang "Red" songs, was marshalled into line and marched away from the vicinity, police said.

The auditorium was well surrounded with police guards and the marchers did not get close to the building.

The president went directly from the hall to his private car parked beside the auditorium.

The president was unaware of the demonstration in the streets. Scores of mounted patrolmen were stationed around the public hall and news of the rioting did not reach the president's audience until after they left the building.

Mounted and motorcycle officers threw tear gas bombs into the ranks of the demonstrators and policemen used their clubs before the short-lived demonstration was broken up.

Hoover Denounced

James Kehoe, a fireman on traffic duty, was slugged and taken to a hospital, possibly in serious condition. Several other persons were reported victims of clubs or fists, but none was believed badly hurt. Three women were knocked down by the rush. One youth was arrested.

Many of the banners denounced Hoover and capitalism.

As they marched along with their banners they sang "The Internationale" "Madamoiselle From Armentieres," and "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

After the marchers were dispersed they returned to Public square, where the line of march formed and listened to impromptu orations. Police said the demonstration was organized several days ago and they were prepared for it.

PRESIDENT CHIDES TRADE PESSIMISTS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2. (AP)—President Hoover chided those who take a pessimistic view of the future of business tonight in reiterating his own opinion that the depression is but temporary.

Addressing the 56th annual convention of the American Bankers' association, he told the members duration of unfavorable economic conditions "will be shortened large-

Jury Acquits Dewey Hanners On Charge of Slaying Frank Blumhoff

Returning a verdict of not guilty in less than two hours after completion of attorneys' arguments, a jury before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Thursday acquitted Dewey Hanners on a murder charge filed against him following the death by gunshot of Frank Blumhoff on July 14.

Using the testimony of but four witnesses, each of whom was kept on the stand for comparatively short periods, the trial was completed in an unusually brief period. Selection of a jury began Wednesday morning and was completed shortly after noon. Except for a small amount of rebuttal evidence taken Thursday morning, all testimony in the case had been given before adjournment of the court on Wednesday.

Hanners entered a plea of not guilty Wednesday after the charges against him had been read by Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney. The defense attorneys, Ernest M. Robertson and Walter Priberg, sought throughout the trial to prove that just prior to the time of the shooting, Hanners knew that his wife was with Blumhoff. The defendant, on direct examination told of having learned of his wife's presence in the Blumhoff home, and stated that the slain man carried a gun when he answered Hanners' knock at the door.

Arguments to the jury, following the court's charge, began about 10 o'clock Thursday morning. Sam Spence, district attorney, and Mr. Anglin speaking for the state. The verdict was brought in about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Boys' Slayer Falls Blindfolded Through Gallows Crying 'Don't'

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Oct. 2. (AP)—Gordon Stewart Northcutt, 23, chicken rancher of Wineville, Calif., was hanged here today for the murder of three young boys after he had left a written confession of his crime and faked a suicide attempt.

Northcutt was led blindfolded to the gallows and collapsed as he stumbled up the 13 steps to the scaffold platform. Guards held him until the trap was sprung at 10:09 a. m., just as the Rev. Larry Newgent, Los Angele, evangelist, was intoning verses of consolation from the 14th chapter of St. John. Northcott exclaimed "Don't, don't!" and fell through the little door to the beyond he averred he did not fear. He died of strangulation 12 minutes later while 140 witnesses watched in silence. One man fainted.

About an hour before the execution Northcott sent a hurry call for Mr. Newgent and Warden James B. Holohan and said to the warden: "Well, I've done it. I've beat the noose."

A small bottle crashed to the floor. The warden hastily called Dr. L. L. Stanley, prison physician who applied a stomach pump but found no trace of poison.

"Northcott has been dramatizing again," was the warden's comment.

The confession, one of many, was written in longhand. It admitted in substance most of the charges against Northcott, implicating his aged father, Cyrus G. Northcott and by inference his mother, Sarah Louisa Northcott and his cousin,

VETERANS NAME NEW OFFICERS

Fort Worth Chosen 1931 Convention City

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 2. (AP)—Brig. Gen. M. J. Bonner of Fort Worth was elevated to the rank of major general and elected as commander of the Texas division United Confederate Veterans, succeeding Gen. J. H. Summers of Nacogdoches, as the thirty-eighth annual reunion of the veterans and sons of veterans came to a close here today.

Fort Worth was chosen as the 1931 convention city.

C. E. Gilbert of Houston was elected commander of the Texas division, Sons of Confederate Veterans, succeeding C. B. Wood, Wichita Falls.

Leaders of the five Texas brigades chosen for the year ahead were: First brigade, C. C. Denman, Nacogdoches, re-elected; second, J. T. Clinkscales, San Antonio, re-elected; third, W. M. Arnold, Greenville, re-elected; fourth, J. J. Robinson, Abilene; fifth, J. M. Israel, San Angelo, re-elected.

Former Lieut. Governor T. W. Davidson of Dallas addressed the veterans at today's session and A. W. Tabor, superintendent of the veterans' home at Austin, spoke before the sons of veterans.

The veterans paraded through the business section carrying their beloved "stars and bars" during the afternoon.

Sons of veterans attended their grand ball tonight at a downtown hotel, while most of the veterans departed for their homes.

Support for the movement was voiced in brief addresses by J. T. Harrell and Horrace Robbins and a petition asking for an immediate election was posted in the Kemp hotel lobby with a request for signatures of voters. The petition reads as follows:

Petition to Board

"To Board of Education of Wichita Falls, Texas:

"We, the undersigned, qualified tax paying voters of the city of Wichita Falls, respectfully petition you to order an election of the qualified voters of said city, to be held as soon as practicable under the law, for the purpose of establishing a junior college district in the city of Wichita Falls, co-extensive with the corporate limits of said city."

Senator Joe Moore of Greenville made a short talk. A. E. Kelly announced the "Over the Top" banquet of the community chest to be held Thursday evening at 6 o'clock and Herbert C. Voelcker, president reminded those present of the Wichita Falls-Lubbock high school football game here Saturday afternoon.

R. E. Shepherd led a club singsong, with Mrs. Shepherd accompanying.

President Addresses Bank Heads at Cleveland

ly to the degree that you feel you can prudently, by counsel and specific assistance, instill into your clients from industry, agriculture and commerce a feeling of assurance."

Expressions of confidence in the country's future prefaced the president's discussion of the problem of immediate recovery and that of "long-view business stability."

"Enjoy Misery"

"There are a few folks in business and several folks in the political world," he said, "who resent the notion that things will ever get better and who wish to enjoy our temporary misery. To recount to these persons the progress of cooperation between the people and the government in amelioration of this situation, or to mention that we are suffering far less than other countries, or that savings are piling up in the banks, or that our people are paying off installment purchases, that abundant capital is now pressing for new ventures and employment, only inspires the unkind retort that we should fix our gaze solely upon the unhappy features of the decline.

"And above all, to chide the pessimism of persons who have assumed the end of those mighty forces which for 150 years have driven this land further and further toward that great human goal—the abolition of intellectual and economic poverty—is perhaps not a sympathetic approach. Nevertheless, I always have been, and I remain, an unquenchable believer in the resistless, dynamic power of American enterprise. This is no time—an audience of American leaders of business is no place—to talk of any surrender."

Mr. Hoover said inquiry might develop that the present capital gains tax encourages inflation by strangling the free movement of land and securities.

Federal Operations

He also cited the bearing of the regulatory functions of the federal and state governments of the subject of business stability, mentioning their effect on the financial strength of railroads and utilities.

"During a period of depression," he said, "the soundest and most available method of relief to unemployment is expansion of public works and construction in the utilities, railways, and heavy industries. The volume of possible expansion of construction in these private industries is about four or five times that in public works.

"During the present depression these industries have done their full part, but especially the railways have been handicapped by some provisions of the transportation act of 1920. With wider public vision the railways could be strengthened into a greater balance wheel of stability.

Must Cure Abuses

"I have never believed that our form of government could satisfactorily solve economic problems by direct action—could successfully conduct business institutions. The government can and must cure abuses."

The president praised what the bankers have done toward ameliorating the business situation, and continued:

"At this juncture the responsibility of those in control of money and credit is great. Without faith on your part and without your good offices, the early return to full prosperity can not be accomplished.

"It appears from the press that some one suggested in your discussion that our American standards of living should be lowered. To that I emphatically disagree. I do not believe it represents the views of this association. Not only do I not accept such a theory but on the contrary, the whole purpose and ideal of this economic system which is distinctive of our country, is to increase the standard of living by the adoption and the constantly widening diffusion of invention and discovery amongst the whole of our people. Any retreat from our American philosophy of constantly increasing standards of living becomes a retreat into perpetual unemployment, and the acceptance of a cesspool of poverty for some large part of our people.

"Our economic system is but an instrument of the social advancement of the American people. It is an instrument by which we add to the security of richness of life of every individual. It by no means comprises the whole purpose of life, but it is the foundation upon which can be built the finer things of the spirit. Increase in enrichment must be the objective of the nation, not decrease."

Mr. X to Prepare Public Luncheon

meal, and in addition to serving the meal he will concoct his favorite drink, known as "Mr. X Special."

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Mr. X will appear in the window of Kimberlin's store, where he will turn himself into Madame X. This was postponed from Thursday.

Girl to a Man.

Turning a girl into a man is another feat that Mr. X will do today, and in full view of the public, in the show window of the Hub store. This is an unusual request to make of a man, but Mr. X says it can be done, and he will attempt it at 3 o'clock.

In the evening Mr. X will give two addresses, the first at the Baptist church, before Troop 16 of the Boy Scouts, and the second at the Grant Street Methodist church.

At 9:45 o'clock in the evening Mr. X will take the place of Carl Highsmith, one of the contestants who fell out of the marathon dance at Aztec Roller rink, 812 Scott avenue. Mr. X is to dance with Miss Mildred Phillips, the little "tractor girl," who in addition to being one of the favorites, drives a tractor on her father's farm.

A large crowd gathered Thursday afternoon at the corner show window of the Saul's store to witness Mr. X cut out and make a dress. Mr. X was accompanied in the window by the model, Miss Orthello Douglas, 408 North Lamar street. After cutting out the dress, Mr. X seated himself at the Singer sewing machine, loaned for the occasion by the Singer Sewing Machine company, and soon had the dress under construction. Mr. X had the dress completed in 45 minutes, and on the model, and it was pronounced by the spectators to be a perfect fit.

Rotan Pastor Goes to Church at Frederick

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 2.—Following his preaching at the morning and evening services at the Church of Christ last Sunday, James M. Camp, pastor of the Rotan, Texas, Church of Christ, accepted a call to the local pastorate to take the place of K. C. Moser, who went to Wewoka, Okla., about four months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Camp and son expect to move to Frederick this week and occupy the parsonage. He will preach next Sunday.

Moody Asked to Call Cotton Law Session

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Oct. 2. (AP)—Gov. Dan Moody will be formally requested to call a special session of the legislature to pass a law restricting cotton acreage in Texas at a conference in Austin tomorrow.

J. E. McDonald, Democratic nominee for commissioner of agriculture, will head a delegation of farmers, bankers and business men that will call on the governor.

He said Governor Moody would be asked to make an effort to induce governors of other cotton-growing states to call their legislatures in an effort toward unity of action in the matter of cutting the cotton acreage.

Air Lines Merge To Operate Mail Route

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. (AP)—A new company will operate the transcontinental air mail and passenger service, which begins operations Oct. 15 under the air mail contract awarded by the postoffice department yesterday to Transcontinental-Air Transport and Western Air Express jointly.

The company will be called Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and all of its stock will be owned by Western Air, T. A. T. and Pittsburgh Aviation Industries, the last named company having announced yesterday it had become affiliated with T. A. T.

The Indian tariff on cotton goods will practically bar lower grades of cotton goods from Japan which has enjoyed a large business in India.

MR. X TO JOIN MARATHONERS

'Tractor Girl' to Be His Partner Tonight

Mr. X, the man of 1,000 trades, will become a marathon dancer Friday night when he becomes the partner of Mildred Phillips, who is soloing in the contest at the Aztec roller rink.

Carl Highsmith, versatile dancing partner of team No. 1 representing Iowa Park, dropped out of the contest Thursday after putting in 321 hours of continuous shuffling on the floor of the dance hall. Miss Phillips, called the "little tractor girl" because she operates a tractor on her father's farm when not dancing, is now soloing, and has elected to take the 48 hours alloted her in the hope of securing another partner and another chance at the prize money.

"I believe I shall get another partner before the end of the 48 hours," she declared, "and even if I don't, I'm thrilled at the idea of dancing with the mysterious Mr. X."

Clara Lutherans To Hold Morning Service

Church services will be held at the Clara Lutheran church Sunday morning in place of Sunday evening as previously announced, according to information received Thursday. Paul Holtzen will fill the pulpit.

A clear skin is irresistible...

in fact, popularity depends upon it

YOU KNOW your skin is constantly undergoing a change!

Invisibly you shed the old skin and take on the new. The quality of the new depends very largely upon the quality and the vitality of your red-blood-cells—those vital "cells" that build, nourish and repair tissue.

Whatever treatment you may use for your complexion, remember the important fact that natural beauty—a clear skin and a rose-petal complexion—comes from within.

More red-blood-cells and of the right quality! That's the answer to a sallow complexion and to pimples and boils.

The way to regain the red-blood-cells is to take S.S.S.—the Tonic that will help Nature build up and enrich your blood. Your skin will clear up! Your whole body will be strengthened!

If popularity and a clear skin are slipping away from you try S.S.S. Its successful record of over 100 years is a guarantee of satisfaction.

Complexion cleared up beautifully

Miss Mary Rank, Clearwater, N. Y., writes: "My face was blemished with many pimples. No treatment I used did them any good. I also had boils. My appetite was poor. My weight was off and I felt nervous. After taking S.S.S. my complexion cleared up beautifully. My appetite improved. I now rest well at night and am greatly benefited in every way. Because S.S.S. helped me I think it is the best blood medicine!"

Pimples and blackheads disappeared

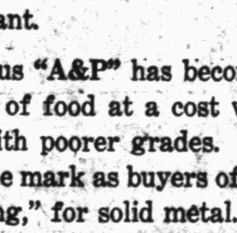

Mrs. Mary E. Parker, Bahama, N. C., writes: "Because of a rundown condition my appetite was poor. I felt tired in the mornings and was troubled with pimples and blackheads. Red bumps came on my face once or twice monthly. After taking S.S.S. the pimples and blackheads disappeared and my skin became clear. I do not feel tired upon rising in the mornings. I had tried a number of medicines but S.S.S. is the one that helped me."

Blood is Life!

You cannot count your own red-blood-cells—that is technical! But you should know that they are the "ships" that sail in the blood and carry nourishment to all parts of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues.

Pimples and boils, body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness and sallow complexion are symptoms of a low blood count. These may indicate that you need S.S.S.

Northcott Hangs For Boys' Deaths

Sanford Clark, who first told authorities of the murders. Mrs. Northcott is serving a life sentence here for her alleged participation.

Northcott was convicted of murdering Loule and Nelson Winslow, brothers, and an unidentified Mexican boy. Walter Collins, a fourth boy allegedly slain by the Northcotts, was slain by the father, after being mistreated, the confession said. Mrs. Northcott was convicted of the Collins murder but the father was exonerated.

The psychiatrist employed for his defense, Dr. S. M. Marcus of Los Angeles, told the warden today Northcott was typical of three mentally abnormal types. He is a "sex deviate, criminalistic and a pathological liar," Dr. Marcus said, although not legally insane. Psychoanalysis in his childhood might have cured him, the physician said, adding the traits were inherited through germ plasm and communicable in the same manner.

Sixty-three per cent of the imports of the Philippine Islands in 1929 came from the United States.

The Stamp of Good Food

A symbol that signifies quality and price

What's in a name? Nothing but the action and conduct that lie behind it and give it special significance. So the simple characters, "A&P," have come to have a place in the speech of most Americans as a symbol for high quality food at low prices.

There is a sound reason for this. Sticking to its policy for nearly three-quarters of a century, A&P has sold the best foods it could buy at prices made possible only by serving many customers with the kind of food they want.

Thus "A&P" has become a hall mark for sterling grades of food at a cost which used to be associated only with poorer grades. A&P customers depend on its trade mark as buyers of silver depend on the stamp, "Sterling," for solid metal.

Rural Schools Entertain County Council P.-T.A.

Valley View and Rocky Point schools were joint hostesses Wednesday when 14 schools were represented in the county council P.-T. A. meeting at Valley View school. After the Lord's prayer said in unison, Rev. C. C. Childress of Valley View gave an inspiring devotional and the welcome address was given by Superintendent W. F. Woffard of Valley View who stated that it was the largest rural school in Texas with 16 teachers and four years of accredited high school course.

H. A. Glass, principal of Zundelowitz Junior high, in a talk on "Modern Education," gave some startling statistics in regard to the number of people directly associated with the public schools in America. More than 850,000 teachers are engaged to teach 25,000,000 pupils. Mr. Glass stressed the aim of education to be teaching the child to become a good citizen, have high ideals and support himself.

Burl Bryant, chief supervisor of rural schools of Texas, who has set as his aim a P.-T. A. for every rural school in the state, gave the response.

Mrs. Harry ten Brink, the new president of the county council, was introduced by Mrs. Frank Creighton and given a hearty welcome. Dramatized music was given by the first grade pupils of Valley View school after which the minutes were read and treasurer's report given. Chairmen of publicity, child welfare, magazine, home service, health and the standard of excellence all gave interesting reports.

Mrs. Gail Mitchell anounced that lunch has been prepared by the Valley View and Rocky Point women and invited the guests to the domestic art building. The domestic art girls served a delicious menu.

Mrs. Jack Ligon of Electra led the singsong, opening the afternoon program. Intertaining readings were given by Mary Louise Hodges of Valley View and Buddy Richardson of Rocky Point.

Mrs. Frank Creighton of Wichita Falls brought an interesting message from the state P.-T. A. stating that the program for this year was parent education. She also urged each P.-T. A. to send a delegate to the state convention, which meets in San Angelo Nov. 17 to 21. Mrs. Ten Brink is to be sent from the Wichita County Council.

Registration for the attendance banner was in charge of Mrs. D. A. Hill and the banner was presented to Fowlkes station for having the largest attendance. Mrs. I. R. Sheldon, president of Wichita City Council P.-T. A., invited the county council to meet in Wichita Falls for the next session.

Mrs. G. C. Murphee of Iowa Park thanked Valley View and Rocky Point for the very good time enjoyed by all present.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Federated club women are as a usual thing women with families, and families that are among the cultured. Interest in the development of the family is a cause for the federation's interest in everything pertaining to the good of the public.

Investigation of the movie business has been one of the interesting things recently undertaken and some of the figures revealed are rather amazing, just taking them in cold blood.

For instance, though we know the American people like the movies and probably like them better since the talkies added attraction to them, it sounds like an enormous attendance when one knows that an average of 107 million people attend the picture shows per week.

The moving picture industry is the fourth largest in the United States. We wonder, in comparison, how many people they give employment to and how they are paid. Everyone knows something of the salaries paid "stars" but they are a small fraction of the workers in the industry.

Eight per cent of the 107 million attending the shows each week are children. We rather thought the percentage was larger. But we have not yet discovered just when they quit being children. "Young people" of this age are divided into so many classes.

Federated clubs in Texas have gone so far into it that a list of recommended pictures is to be given out. Not censorship, understand. There is to be no banning of any picture, but certain ones recommended by the 10,000 federated clubwomen of the state, will be named.

Here in Wichita, they were just a little late giving us the news for one of these recommended pictures was "The Silent Enemy" which appeared at the State only a short time ago.

The recommendation of the state federation may have small effect; but a move to break that mass impulse that carries the crowd to the plays that not only just pass an idle hour but often leave the wrong sort of ideals in youthful minds.

We know of children who go to all sorts of pictures regularly. They talk of them with apparent sophistication though we believe they know nothing of what they talk about. But in a few years, knowledge comes. Knowledge of splendid things is so much the better.

If men and women could be brought to flock to see actors like Arliss, their very interest would mean something to the younger people. But so many of the older people get a preview that shocks them and one will hear "Oh I must see that picture; I can't miss it!"

Engagement News Made Public At Evening Party

Announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Dora Rathke to Archie Ramming on Oct. 8 a group of friends were entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Shehan on Austin street.

The news of the engagement was cleverly concealed in the intricacy of a cross-word puzzle solved early in the evening, and there followed numerous games and contests featuring the heart motiff and the honoree's colors of orchid and green. These were also observed in the delightful refreshment course served to the Misses Linda Serrien, Alma Holtzen, Lorena Rammming, Emma Schulz, Mina Buerger, Llewellyn Weeth, Ruth Fienhold, Emma Ehlwerdt, Frieda Serrien, Betty Nuss, Eva Schulz, Leona Thom, Frances Ramming, Marie, Elizabeth, Helen Ruth and Louise Rathke, Mesdames Paula Vaughn, L. F. Ramming and John Rathke.

Mrs. Frank Terry Honoree at Party

Mrs. Harry Hale was hostess Wednesday evening at her home on Giddings, with three tables of bridge, honoring Mrs. Frank Terry with a birthday linen shower. The home was prettily decorated with flowers in pink and green and the same colors were noted in the refreshment plate.

In the games, Mrs. Frank Harty was winner of the high score and Mrs. D. C. Walker was presented with the low favor.

The honoree received a number of lovely gifts and following the party, a delicious refreshment plate was served to Mesdames Joe Alexander, Dean Walton, John Webb, Jimmy Brannan, Cecil McFaul, D. C. Walker, Frank Harty, Willis Cook, Misses Frances Kailson, Ethel May Savage and the honoree and hostess.

Personals

Mrs. Ben G. Oneal went to Stamford Thursday afternoon to the annual president's day banquet of the Pieria club of that city. Mrs. Oneal will be one of the speakers at the banquet.

SOME RECORD

LONDON.—Fifty-five years on one job is a record, and 55 years of playing an organ in the Mansfield United Methodist church is the record recently passed by Alderman D. H. Maltby, justice of peace of Mansfield. He has never been late for a service.

Artist's Program Opens Woman's Forum Season

In an inspiring message that brought members of the Woman's forum nearer one another in all their purposes, Mrs. Newton Maer, president addressed the great number who gathered Thursday to hear Claude Simpson Jr., Pianist, in the opening forum program of the season. The future of the club was prophesied as one of great harmony and efficiency, functioning splendiddly in the combination of departments.

Mrs. Maer spoke of the heads of departments, officers and chairmen of departments as a splendid lineup for the work of the coming year and of the Junior Forum members as the highest type of girlhood possible. With more features to be given to members on their membership cards than at any previous time, Mrs. Maer stressed the fact that the forum was old and well known enough for women interested at all to be interested enough to give it their support in membership. The Ben Greet Shakespeare players to which members will be admitted on cards she said, was an attraction worth the year's dues. In her closing words, Mrs. Maer claimed the interest and loyalty of the members, stating that no president, no committees, no officers alone could make success; that cooperation was the one thing necessary. In her sweet and dignified earnestness, Mrs. Maer cemented a close tie between herself and each member of the club.

Mrs. Leach Introduces Artist

Mrs. Austin Leach introduced the artist of the afternoon in a short talk, telling of his marvelous accomplishments and of the promise that lay before him. The program given by Mr. Simpson follows:

Sonata Op. 54 (The Waldstein)	Beethoven
II
Intermezzo B flat minor	Brahms
Etude in C minor	Chopin
Ballade, A flat major	Chopin
Perpetual Motion	Weber
III
Arabesque	Debussy
Minstrels	Debussy
The Sunken Cathedral	Debussy
Gardens in the Rain	Debussy
IV
Three Preludes	Gershwin
Rhapsody in Blue	Gershwin

Each number was received with hearty applause and musicians hearing the young artist prophesied a splendid future for him.

Seated Tea Follows

The executive board acted as hostess during the afternoon and each guest registered.

Foyer, auditorium and dining room were a scene of beauty showing the artistic ability of the decorating committee, Mesdames Bernard Martin, C. E. McCutchen and Bert Bean. The tall iron stand in the foyer was filled with masses of bachelor's buttons; an exquisite bowl of pink roses, ageratum and purple dahlias stood on the stage table and great baskets of autumn leaves, zinnias and dahlias marked the steps into the dining room.

The dining room table was laid with a lovely filet cloth and a silver bowl in the center held roses and ageratum; gleaming pink tapers in silver holders and silver pheasants stood between the lovely center and the cut glass punch bowls at each end of the table.

Members of the Junior Forum served the plate. The pretty group included Misses Mary Tancred, Dolores Peavey, Marietta Hunt, Kay Cason, Marjorie Bright, Mary Alice Johnson, Dorothy Lee Taylor, Madelyn McCarty, Retta Barnard, Jeanette Moore and Mesdames Irvin Vogel, Thomas Korn and Woodward Bass. In their lovely evening frocks, they added to the color of the occasion.

Art Jewelry Cup Won in Finals By Mrs. R. R. Fisk

Mrs. R. R. Fisk defeated Mrs. F. C. Rochon in the Art Jewelry cup monthly tournament finals at the Municipal Golf club Thursday, 1 up on the 19th hole. Mrs. Fisk won the 18th and hole No. 1 had to be played over again, giving Mrs. Fisk her name on the cup and possession of it until the tournament will be played again the latter part of October.

A very large gallery followed the closely matched game over the grounds. Many members of the Woman's Golf association of Wichita Falls Golf and Country club and practically all members of the Ladies' club at the Municipal links, were watching the game.

SHRINERS TO VISIT OLNEY

200 Expected to Make Trip Saturday

Approximately 200 Shriners and their ladies will leave Maskat temple Saturday morning for Olney when they will make the third of a series of good will trips which are a part of their fall program, according to J. Marshall Franklin, chairman of the good will trips committee.

Members of the local temple band will entertain with a street concert at Olney after which they will be guests at a banquet at the American Legion hall. A program at the Municipal auditorium will follow the banquet.

Among the numbers on the program will be a talk by Ed Peterson, potentate of Maskat temple, a vocal solo by Dr. O. T. Kimbrough and music by the KGKO Royal Hawaiian trio. Other numbers are being arranged, it was announced.

Quanah Water Main Nears Completion

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 2.—Work is rapidly progressing on the new 10-inch main being laid to the Allen wells recently drilled by the Southern Union Gas company to augment Quanah's water supply. It is expected the line will be completed in 60 working days, although the extension time granted the company by the city council was 90 working days.

Material for the pump houses and most of the pipe for the line has been received and distributed.

These wells will supply 1,500,000 gallons of exceptionally good water per day, according to estimates of eigineers, and with Quanah's present water system will insure an ample supply for future growth of Quanah for some time to come.

VERY NERVOUS, NO STRENGTH

Lady Says She Has Taken Cardui in the Spring as a "Building Up" Medicine

Buena Vista, Ohio.—"About 10 years ago I had a breakdown, and it seemed I could not get myself together again," says Mrs. Hester Malone, of this place. "I had no strength and was very nervous. I would have spells when I would just have to give up, for I could not keep going.

"I thought Cardui might help me. I began taking it and I soon began to improve. I grew stronger and was not so nervous. I slept well and I could eat.

"I took Cardui for several months, and all the time I was gaining in health and strength.

"I have taken Cardui during the spring, for several years, as I think it is an excellent tonic. It builds me up."

Thousands of other women recommend Cardui, after having found it of valuable assistance to them in building up their health.

This well-known medicine is an extract of valuable medicinal herbs, and contains nothing harmful or injurious.

Try Cardui for your troubles.

For Housekeepers

LYDIA ORLOSKI
425 So. Washington Ave., Scranton, Pa.

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for rundown condition before my baby was born. Now I eat better, have gained in weight and have more strength to take care of my four children. I can do my housework and not get a bit tired. My mother and my sister, also several of my women friends are taking your medicine now, because I believe that this medicine will help any woman that will take it regularly."—Mrs. Lydia Orloski.

MINNIE E. HICKS
R.R. #2, Rushville, Indiana

"When I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I could hardly do my housework. I was so nervous and weak from Change of Life that I had to lie down very often. I heard about the Vegetable Compound through a pamphlet which was left at my door. I am doing all the housework for a family of four and it keeps me on my feet. I have taken six bottles and I have gained strength and flesh."—Minnie E. Hicks.

George Washington sure knew his Sally Lunns!

Some people say that Sally Lunn was George Washington's housekeeper—who made a hot bread so good that he gave it her name. Others say that Sally lived in Bath, England, and became famous for her tea cakes.

At any rate I'm giving you the recipe as I got it from a gentle-spoken woman who comes from the first president's family. It contains a Southwestern improvement, because she specifies Crisco!

I always specify Crisco, too, because I'm fussy about flavor. I simply won't take chances with a fat that is a bit "off" in order to save a few cents. I never waste my time any more (and spoil the flavor of other good materials) trying to cook with inferior pail-fats.

Have you ever tasted Crisco? Then a pail-fat? Then you'll know why I swear by Crisco's flavor. It tastes as sweet as new-churned, unsalted butter! No rancidity or tallowy odors like I've smelled when I'd pry the lid off a cheaper fat. No streaks or queer-looking layers, either—Crisco is as smooth and fluffy as whipped cream!

Notice how easy it is to work Crisco, which comes to you already creamed. No old-fashioned creaming necessary. Simply blend the Crisco and sugar together with a few brisk stirs. Then, when your Sally Lunn comes out of the oven, fragrant and warm, notice how light and tender and moist the texture is.

I'm sorry for George Washington that he couldn't eat Sally Lunn made Texas style—with pure, always-sweet Crisco that's made right here in the Southwest!

WINIFRED S. CARTER

SALLY LUNNS

½ cup Crisco
½ cup sugar
2 eggs (beaten)
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
⅔ cup milk

Blend Crisco and sugar together. Add beaten eggs and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with milk to the first mixture. Bake in a Criscoed shallow pan in hot oven (400° F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

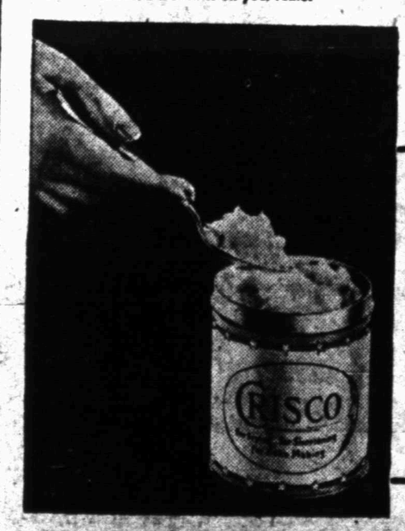

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL—Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by the Procter & Gamble Co.

Brand new recipes. Suggestions for your daily menus. New cooking short-cuts. Ideas that make good results surer. All within a dial-twist on your radio.

In its new air-tight can—as fresh and sweet as the day it was made! A product of the Southwest—made right here.

You taste milk. You test eggs. Have you ever actually tasted a pail-fat? Taste Crisco, then a pail-fat. The difference will astound you. Crisco tastes sweet and fresh to the very last spoonful in the can!

JUNIOR C.-C. HONORS ALLRED

Judge P. A. Martin to Give Chief Address

The Junior chamber of commerce luncheon will be held Friday noon in honor of James V. Allred, member and former director of the organization and Democratic nominee for attorney general, according to an announcement Thursday by Wilburn Page, secretary of the Junior chamber of commerce here.

Judge P. A. Martin will be the principal speaker on the program, and will be followed by Mr. Allred, who will give a brief reply to Judge Martin's talk.

Included in the entertainment will be Martha Withers in a song and piano sketch, "Aunt Dinah from Carolina." Music for the luncheon will be furnished by Cleo Grantham's KGKO orchestra.

"We are inviting and are very much interested in having Mr. Allred's friends attend the luncheon. We would like for all those attending to make reservations by dialing 4131 by 10 o'clock Friday morning," Mr. Page said.

ANCIENT CRAFT

LONDON. — Thomas Anthony Hutchinson practices one of the oldest crafts in the world—that of making rouge and polishes for jewels. His is a traditional trade that has been carried on for 130 years by his family. He explains that what women put on their faces isn't rouge at all; it's carmine.

What to Do With Grandmother Big Problem, Says Dix

The most insoluble problem in the world is what to do with grandmother. In three-fourths of the families you know there is a middle-aged or elderly woman who is miserable herself, and who is making everybody about her miserable. She is the living embodiment of most of the major and minor virtues and yet she works more evil than malice itself could invent. She would die to save the home of the son or daughter with whom she lives, but she cannot stay her hands from wrecking it. She loves and is beloved by her children, but if they were mortal enemies they could not wound each other more or wreak a more deadly wrong upon each other.

When a woman's husband dies it is the spontaneous and the affectionate thing for her children to say to her: "Mother, you must break up your home and come to live with us. You would be so lonely in this big house without father. Besides, you have worked long enough. Now you must let us take care of you and repay you for all that you have done for us. The balance of your life you must just take it easy and sit with folded hands and rest and enjoy yourself."

These are beautiful, filial sentiments that do honor to the children, and the plan would happily settle mother's future if only mother was a story-book mother, who was 90, and doddering and senile and content to sit in the chimney corner and emit Polyannaish platitudes.

But in real life that type of mother is met with nowadays about as often as the dodo. Very often mother is only in her 40s and looks and feels like a girl. If she is in her 60s, she is yet in the prime of life, with better health and more pep than she ever had before, and even in her 70s she is still full of vim and going strong.

Now for 20 or 30 or 40 years mother has been at the head of her own establishment. She has been the She Who Must Be Obeyed in her own bailiwick. Her word has been law to her husband and children and servants, and without knowing it she has become an autocrat. More than that, she has acquired that curious vanity that makes every woman think that her way of doing things is the only proper way, and that she possesses some inspired ability to rear children, cook and run a house.

It would seem that anyone above the grade of a moron would have intelligence enough to perceive that to take away all of her activities from a woman who is overflowing with energy is like trying to clamp a lid down on a gas well. It is bound to blow up and find some vent. And that to put such a woman to playing second fiddle in another woman's house is to dethrone a queen.

Yet you see this done every day in all blundering, loving kindness by children who sell the old home over mother's head when father passes away and take her back home with them and who can't understand why she isn't happy when they have given her the guest room and bath to live in and when she has nothing on earth to do.

And they don't understand that what's the trouble with mother is that she has lost her identity. She is no longer a somebody to be reckoned with. She is nobody but John Brown's mother, or little Mrs. Smith's mother, and when she is invited out it is not because anybody wants her, but a courtesy to her children. And that hurts her egotism, and the older we get the vainer we get.

But what ails mother most of all is idleness. The hands that have been full all her life are empty. She who has been rushed from morning till night has nothing to do but to kill time. She has nothing constructive to do, nothing to fill her thoughts, nothing on which to expend her energy and that is why she gets naggy and peevish and critical and fault-finding and interferes with the way her daughter or her daughter-in-law keeps house and rears her children and manages her husband.

It is because mother has no pie of her own to make, and pie-making is her specialty, that she puts her finger into everybody's pies. The consequence whereof is untold family squabbles and innumerable divorces. For there is no use in blinking the fact that when mother comes in at the door of her children's home the dove of peace nearly always spreads its wings and flies out of the window.

Now the remedy for this situation is as plain as the nose on your face. It is for mother kindly but firmly to refuse to go to live with her children. Let her keep her own place among her old friends in her own environment. She will be happier in one room of which she is absolute mistress and where she can have her old sticks of furniture and cook things the way she likes them than she will be in a son's or daughter's palace. She can visit her children all she likes, but let her keep some place of her own to go back to. And, oh, how much better her children will love her, if mother is an occasional guest instead of a permanent fixture!

And if mother is able-bodied she should go to work, because only in useful work is contentment to be found. It may not sound so romantic and highfaluting for a devoted son to say: "Mother, I'll get you a job," as it does for him to say: "Mother, I'll support you," but it would go a lot farther toward securing mother's happiness. For what she needs is some vital interest of her own, instead of the vicarious ones she finds in her children.

Most women knock off work 20 years too soon. Also, they think they are going to enjoy being parasites on their children, but they are wretched and bored with nothing to do, and humiliated and resentful of dependence, and that is why we have the discontented old mothers who are troublemakers in their children's homes. The children can't solve the problem of what to do with mother because every impulse of love and duty forces them to ask mother to share their homes, but the mothers themselves can secure their own and their children's well-being by keeping busy with their own work and having their own homes.—DOROTHY DIX.

Demonstration Agent Directs Meat Canning

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 2.—One of the chief drouth relief measures in which Mrs. Susan B. Gray, Tillman county home demonstration agent is assisting is the meat canning work. First demonstration of this kind was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Bill Hudson of near Davidson when 85 quarts of beef were canned into Swiss steak, steak, roast, chili and soup stock.

Mrs. Gray says she will give a demonstration to people outside of the extension organizations when there are as many as 10 who request it.

WOMAN'S SPAN OF LIFE GROWS

Life Expectancy of Female Increasing

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

CHICAGO, Oct. 2. (UP) — If you're a middle-aged woman, whether you admit it or not, you stand a much better chance to live to a ripe old age than a man of similar years, the experts on such things agreed tonight.

Wendell P. Coler of St. Louis, who spends most of his waking hours studying life charts and making graphs for 136 insurance companies so they may govern their rates accordingly, explained the situation for about 500 representatives of those companies.

Coler, of studious mein and somber clothes as befits a man who juggles the life and death prospects of the human race, said America apparently is becoming a nation of older people.

Life Expectancy Gains

"The general life expectancy of all Americans seems to have gone up in the last score or so of years from about 48 to 58," he said. "This is due mostly to the smaller number of babies who die today. When it comes to those of mature age, the life expectancy of women appears to be increasing while that of men seems to be breaking down.

Coler intimated women take more interest in their figures and hence in their diets than do men. Women furthermore have more leisure, usually get more rest and have more absorbing interests and hobbies than their husbands, he explained.

The latter spend so much time grubbing for a living and then worrying about it that Coler's statistics show they die somewhat younger than their wives.

"A woman of say 45 or 50 in good health is almost a sure bet to outlive a man of the same age and same apparent health," he continued.

Woman's Flight Improves

"Women's situation is improving steadily. Women are having fewer children and there are less deaths during childbirth. Women as a whole are having an easier life—less drudgery, better care and are improving in health.

"Men apparently are finding business competition too great a strain and they are dying consequently more often of heart disease in the fifties and sixties."

Coler's complicated schedules, compiled over a long period of years, revealed with mathematical certainty that 48 men out of every 100 alive at 45 will live to be 70. And if they survive the rigors of life until they become more or less bald at 50, then 56 out of every 100 will live until 70.

Famous Silk Manufacturers unite with the Committee of 17*

in recommending PALMOLIVE BEADS for washing fine silk garments

CORTICELLI · HOLEPROOF · KAYSER
LUXITE · PHOENIX · STEHLI
VANITY FAIR · VAN RAALTE

Kayser gives the name "solo garment" to this type of all-in-one glove silk underapparel. Its gleaming, lustrous weave is kept lovely when you wash it in Palmolive Beads. That's why Kayser recommends this new soap for use on their underthings, silk stockings and gloves.

(Above) A mannequin is wearing a cloak of Corticelli silk and the sheerest of sheer silk stockings, also made by Corticelli. Because they go in and out of the washbowl so often, Corticelli warns you to wash silk stockings in Palmolive Beads.

Every washing instruction tag the great silk manufacturers print, whether for lingerie, hosiery, gloves or wash silks, instructs women to use Palmolive Beads. Surely there can be no greater authority on the right soap for silks.

HERE is the most authoritative information any woman could have on proper washing of fine silk things. . . .

The advice of silk manufacturers themselves! Leading manufacturers—like Kayser, Vanity Fair, Corticelli.

They know the importance of careful washing! They know that the most painstaking manufacturer cannot produce silk garments that will withstand harsh soaps.

Find Palmolive Beads ideal

Every one of these manufacturers has conducted prolonged laboratory tests with soaps. And all arrive at the same result . . . there's no soap like Palmolive Beads for washing fine silks!

"Palmolive Beads dissolve instantly in water of the lowest temperature and rinse out completely," says Kayser. "The olive and palm oils cleanse gently and mildly, protecting sheen, lustre and fibre."

"Because of its olive and palm oil content, Palmolive Beads is an ideal soap for the cleansing of washable silks," says Corticelli.

Agree with Committee of 17

In their enthusiastic approval of Palmolive Beads, these famous manufacturers confirm the opinions of the Committee of 17. This committee of 17 of America's most distinguished women worked with the makers of Palmolive Beads in the development of this new soap. They unanimously approved Palmolive Beads as the superlative soap for fine fabrics.

Trust your finest lingerie, your most precious hosiery to this safe soap, made of olive and palm oils. Get a box at your dealer's today. Generous size package, 10 cents.

Gandhi Writes a Story Its Truth Startles France and Italy Heading for a Scrap

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Mahatma Gandhi's autobiography appears in London and causes a sensation. Why? Because of his unsparing candor. English reviewers own up to their amazement at seeing the truth so defiantly told.

The London Times explains the reason for Gandhi's overwhelming influence and power. "There hardly ever lived a man who trusted his own mind so absolutely. It is a mind unable to do anything except to take a straight path to what it sees as the truth. It has clung to this conviction: That only the truth should be sought or be served."

There lived another such man some two thousand years ago. Born in a stable, reared a carpenter's son, disowned by His family for a season, betrayed by a friend, humiliated and overwhelmed by His enemies, He was at last put to a painful death. If He appeared in New York today, He would probably march the jobless and the starving of the city to one of the jeweled fortresses which we call a church, and begin to ask questions and probably he would be arrested. And He would have understood Mr. Gandhi.

Does England think it can withstand a man like Gandhi and millions inspired by him? Self-determination of a people may be held in leash for a time, but it can never be squelched. Byron's "Prisoner of Chillon" might be good reading at this time in all English schools.

As predicted, the Italo-French palaver of a naval accord has come to naught. France plans five new naval bases and Italy is building faster than ever. England, morally committed to an equitable issue of the negotiations, now feels released of her pledge to maintain her present program.

Any talk of world peace or a world federation, with such things going on in Europe, must strike any American as ridiculous. Representative Britten, recently returned from overseas, warns us of an "explosion," which he declares is imminent. Let us prepare to stay out of it. No war can make the world safe for democracy.

Prof. R. A. Millikan, discoverer of the cosmic ray, has found a practical use for his discovery. Weather forecasting has depended heretofore on the barometer. Hereafter the electroscope, detecting the cosmic rays that bombard the earth from the depths of space, will serve the same end—and better.

"The barometer," Dr. Millikan explains, "is an instrument that responds both to the temperature and to the weight of the superincumbent air (that is, a mixture of static and kinetic conditions), while the cosmic ray electroscope reflects only the mass of the superincumbent air, and is independent of temperature and kinetic effects of any kind, making it thus a simpler and more fundamental instrument than the barometer."

A less practical but more universally important postulate of Millikan's cosmic ray discovery is that the radiant energy flowing in from stellar space is continuous and compensatory for every electron broken up, thus controverting the British savants, who see the cosmos headed for dissolution through the dissipation of its energies, in case you have been worrying about it.

More than half a million "spellers," prepared by Dr. William J. O'Shea, superintendent of schools of New York, were sold to the board of education and used by children in the last five years. Interesting item of educational progress with a Tammany twist.

An acoustic expert predicts city noises may be turned into music. But it will be a long time before the scoldings of a traffic cop will sound melodious to our ears.

The Effect of "The Fix"

IF YOU ever wonder why it is that such a city as Chicago continues to be overrun with gunmen who have their complete freedom despite the fact that any school child can enumerate their crimes by the dozen, it might pay you to consider a recent article in The Nation by Lawrence Howe.

Mr. Howe was a detective sergeant in Chicago for two decades, and consequently speaks with the authority of long experience. Pointing out that Chicago has 100 times as many robberies annually as London, and 12 times as many as all of Canada, he proceeds to answer the question, "How come?"

To begin with, he points out that Chicago's geographical location, her pre-eminence as a railroad center, her proximity to state boundaries and the nearness of half a dozen state prisons condemn her, inevitably, to more than her share of crooks. But that isn't all of it. He goes on to repeat what he once told a candidate for mayor, who had asked him if it would be possible to rid Chicago of criminals.

"I assured him," he writes, "that if I were permitted to pick 25 detectives, trustworthy and competent officers who knew the underworld, and had charge of their activities, I would undertake to rid Chicago of all professional crooks in 60 days, provided the mayor would carry out his part of the program. His part would be to see that when we made an arrest and presented sufficient, reliable, conclusive evidence to prove the man guilty, there would be no fixing of the case. A conviction must follow.

"The judges, state's attorneys, court clerks and politicians must not be allowed to be bought by the accused in an effort to thwart justice. They must be invulnerable to all approaches, whether of bribery, politics or friendship. The candidate for the mayoralty recognized the futility of attempting such a drastic reform."

It is that final sentence that sticks in one's memory. "The candidate for the mayoralty recognized the futility of attempting such a drastic reform." Why? Simply because the "fix"—the use of extra-legal methods to gain special favors—is such an integral part of American municipal government that trying to root it out is accepted, by men familiar with such matters, as an utterly hopeless task.

This, in turn, obviously means that the country's war on its criminal class is, just at present, decidedly a losing struggle. Favoritism is too deeply entrenched. Scoundrels have too many influential friends.

If this were Chicago's hard luck alone it would not be so bad. But it isn't. Chicago is not very unlike other American cities. It is just bigger. Other cities duplicate its faults. Mr. Howe's remarks apply for all of us.

Tut, Tut, Senator

WE DON'T imagine the newspapers of the nation will be greatly concerned with the warning issued by Senator Nye's campaign funds investigating committee that the press cease printing charges against the committee made by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick. It may not be nice to say so, but we believe Mrs. McCormick and the committee have about the same amount of influence with the press and that their dispute has about reached the stage of the traditional argument between the pot and the kettle.

Mrs. McCormick has been a member of the house and is now nominated for the senate with apparently excellent chances of annexing the post. What she says about the senate investigators is as much the nation's business as what the investigators say about Mrs. McCormick and will bear about as much weight. The past activities of government agents in their investigations does not entitle the gentlemen of the senatorial committee to a great deal of public sympathy; neither is there any general approval of Mrs. McCormick in her expenditure of more than $250,000 in her campaign.

Considering that the whole McCormick-Nye controversy revolves around Illinois politics, it seems down here in Texas that the senate investigators ought to be glad they haven't become involved in more of a political mess than they have. And Mrs. McCormick might be thankful that the activities of the committee's agents have been no more extreme than so far charged.

The Red Flag in the Fields

THERE is nothing very cheering to Texas cotton farmers in the news that officials of the Amtorg Trading corporation, commercial organization of the Soviet government, are visiting in Texas and studying Texas methods of cotton production. As if conditions in the cotton market weren't bad enough, one of the visiting officials reveals that Russia hopes to turn large areas, which have a soil and climate similar to Texas, into the production of cotton.

Whether or not Texans like it, they may have to get used to Soviet competition for the world's cotton trade, just as the wheat farmers are finding out they are going to have to face Soviet competition in the grain business. Probably Texas farmers might be better off if they were reduced to producing on their own lands 80 per cent of the things they consume; they would then have more of the necessities of life than they can buy with 10-cent cotton.

As the Soviet government turns more and more thousands of acres of its land to the production of staple crops through American methods and American machinery, it seems the assault of communism on the world is to be economic rather than political. Excitable leaders of our national government apparently had best quit looking for the red flag in pamphlets and on park benches and begin to figure out a method of meeting it in the cotton and grain fields.

Interested in Sir Thomas

THE cup races between the yachts Enterprise and Shamrock drew a great deal of attention in the newspapers; but it is interesting to reflect that fully 98 per cent of this interest came because of the presence of genial Sir Thomas Lipton. As a boxing promoter would say, Sir Thomas was "the gate."

Yachting on this scale is, after all, a sport for multimillionaires. Except for an ardent yachtsman, the spectacle is not particularly thrilling or interesting, especially in view of the maze of technicalities through which the contestants must struggle. If it had not been for Sir Thomas the American public would not have cared whether the yachts raced at all.

Example

No doubt a second love will come some day,
And I will tilt with romance once again.
But I will be an actor in a play,
An actor quite immune to grief and pain.

You stripped me clean of all sincerity,
And left a youthful cynic in my place.
When lads are forced to pay the fiddler's fee,
The price is quite apparent in their face.

So Love may come whenever she may care,
I'm more than ready for her, thanks to you;
Of course it's rather cruel to be aware
That I may break a trusting heart in two.

Still, sport like that to you seemed rather gay—
And, after all, dear, turnabout's fair play!
—Young Man of Manhattan.

Ma-Ma!

"Dear Walter," writes one of the loyal pals, Ned E. Williams, of the Paramount Publix Corp. "I visited Detroit last week and believe you have basis for action against the newspaper there, the Times, which uses your stuff. All over the town I was confronted with billboards containing 24 sheets (in colors) to exploit your column. Your countenance (my what?) fills one-third of this space, and that's where your squawk comes in. In the first place you are wearing a green hat and a red necktie, neither of which I ever saw on the original. And worse, the lobes of your ears are rouged!! Did I scream?"

Miss Cambridge, Reach in the second drawer of that desk and bring me my carbolic acid.

And "Egg" Garner, of Park Row, suggests this nickname for Broadway: "The Gape White Way."

Add Austin Car Gags

James A. Maley's: "They are painting them yellow so they can sell 'em in bunches like bananas" . . . J. C. K.'s: "Do you know that your car was not on the road? It was off all wheels at once!" Austin Driver: "Well, what of it? Can't a feller hiccup if he has to?"

Now, There!

"You say you do not dislike Rudy Vallee," writes one of his admirers, "that you never said you disliked him; that you dislike people who dislike your publishing jokes about him. Well, why print jokes about him? After all, there's only one Rudy Vallee!"

Thank God.

Are They That Low?

Richy Craig Jr., was walking along Broadway yesterday displaying a swollen finger.

"Gosh," said a sympathizer, "how did you get that?"

"I was shaking hands with a booking agent," replied the caustic Craig, "and somebody accidentally stepped on it."

The Morning Mail

"Dear Walter," writes Arnold Burnett. "These days we have miniature dollar bills, miniature automobiles, miniature movies, miniature golf courses, miniature typewriters and miniature salaries!"

Who, me?

By Way of Report

Pat J. McCaffery is interested in the fact that if you have two O's in your handle you have a sound chance of becoming a Hoover, a Coolidge, a Roosevelt or a Woodrow Wilson. He points out that the prize-ring heroes had to use the double vowel or consonant to achieve fame. They include, says Mr. Caffery, John L. Sullivan, James J. Corbett, Robert Fitzsimmons, James J. Jeffries, William Harrison (Jack) Dempsey, James J. Tunney and Jess Willard. Jack Johnson is the one great exception, says McCaffery, who adds that the letter "J" appears at least once. Of course, there are Benny Leonard, Harry Richman, Rudy Vallee, Percy Hammond and Mark Hellinger.

One wonders how Mr. McCaffery explains the success of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, who hasn't a double vowel or consonant—nor even a "J"!

Overheard

"Is she fast?"

"She's faster than the speed of a Broadway lie!"

A Form of Criticism?

The popular Clem McCarthy, a local sports scrivener, is not the sort of lad who, when you say to him: "How do you feel?" replies: "Fine, and you?" McCarthy has a different answer which wins him many friends. Perhaps it is another form of flattery, nevertheless it registers.

The other fight night someone asked him: "How do you feel, Clem?"

"As good as you look!" was his snapper.

Jean and Gene

When Jean was an infant her father went blind. When she was about 10 he spent some of his meager earnings for her piano tuition, hoping that some day she would amount to something. When she was 16, however, and Broadway failed to doff its lid to her Steinwaying, she joined a cafe floor show in which she poses in the lewd.

The other night her blind father came to Broadway—to hear her play the piano! She told her story hurriedly to the manager, who instructed the pianist, Gene Kent, in the orchestra to play his specialty, Gershwin's "Rhapsody." Before he played it, the master of ceremonies announced: "Our popular Gene will now play for you the 'Rhapsody in Blue' which all Broadway cheers. All right, Gene!"

Gene played the "Rhapsody" while Jean paraded by her blind father practically naked.

The AGE of YOUTH

A New Serial by ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE

Illustrated by Jay Hyde Barbum Copyrighted by Public Ledger

THE STORY THUS FAR

Hopeless because of her failure to make a decent living in New York City, pretty Donna Raynor writes to Randolph Granby, a wealthy bachelor: "I could get a rich husband if I had the proper setting. It would cost a thousand a month and I'd need two years to get the proper man. Will you give it to me?"

Intrigued by the girl's personality and her unconventional ideas, Granby accepts her proposal. Through his brokers Donna receives $25,000; Granby prepares to sail for France, and Donna leaves her shabby hotel for a more fashionable address in the exclusive fifties.

Shortly after she retires, a handsome young man, intoxicated, enters Donna's apartment. "Believe I'll marry you," says the youthful visitor, who, Donna learns, is none other than Frank Gardner, wealthiest and most sought-after bachelor in America.

Next morning Gardner sends orchids. Donna refuses to speak with him. She arranges to take singing lessons from Mademoiselle Galere, whose pupils include most of the Junior League.

In a few weeks she is in the midst of the social swim. At the Fairleigh home she meets Granby again, also Frank Gardner, who asks: "How would you like another proposal from me?"

Gardner displays jealousy. Granby, quietly like, is evidently more than ever in love with Donna. The situation is tense.

Then the bubble bursts. At Mademoiselle Galere's Donna picks up the paper. In the society gossip column is an unmistakable reference to her—with the insinuation that she is beyond the pale.

Donna confides her troubles to Mademoiselle Galere. Others in the "set" remain loyal to her.

Mrs. Farleigh extends an invitation to dinner. Granby is Donna's escort. After dinner and bridge Donna and Granby go to the embassy to dance. Gardner appears. He has been drinking and loudly exclaims: "Why, it's old Ran Granby and the li'l girl he's keeping."

Granby, gentleman that he is, does nothing. Mrs. Curlew, society matron, comes to Donna's aid.

Later, in front of Donna's apartment, the rivals engage in a fist fight. Granby receives a severe beating at the hands of Gardner.

Gossips are busy; ugly rumors are circulating; Gardner begs forgiveness. Donna is in danger.

Then comes a severe shock. A representative of Chit-Chat, a scandal sheet, calls on the girl, shows her galley proofs of her "story" concerning her relations with Granby and Gardner and "suggests" that she buy stock in his company.

Now Continue the Story

Her Engagement

Donna was reminded of a comment some one had made during the summer. A radio announcer had told of the stunning effect upon the crowd of the sudden defeat, by a comparative unknown, of a middleweight contender for the championship.

"And I've been telling you folks," said the announcer, "that this baby was hard to lick."

"Nobody's hard to lick," said one of the party listening. "But sometimes it's hard to find some one to lick him."

He wasn't very grammatical, but his meaning was clear. No matter how good one is, there is, somewhere, someone a trifle better. A rough-and-ready axiom, and perhaps not wholly true, but a pretty good workaday philosophy.

Frank Gardner had not reached the stage of wary bachelorhood that Ran Granby had attained, but that was merely because of his fewer years. Gossip had it that Gardner could not be captured, that scores of charming girls had set their caps for him, but that only their mirrors had been aware of the caps' angles. He had, rumor said, not only escaped unhurt from the various matrimonial assaults made upon him, but had been unaware that he was the object of any siege.

Yet to her, who had made no effort, he had succumbed practically instantly. Not hard to conquer; it had been hard, merely, to find some one to conquer him. And she was the one.

He was the great catch of America. Not a girl in the land but would have felt pride in having him as a beau. About him had been woven more romantic dreams than about any young man save Lindbergh. The feminine population of America would have deserted John Gilbert or Rudy Vallee to glimpse the figure of Frank Gardner.

For, unfortunately, there are few

Her eyes were wondering soft. Could it be possible that she cared for him? He had his own reply to her unspoken question.

achievements as glamorous as the achieving of wealth. And to have achieved wealth by the accident of birth is somehow much more glamorous than to have worked for it. Perhaps it is snobbery; but more likely it is an inner recognition of the fact that wealth is power, is power's proof.

But Donna Raynor felt no pride in her conquest. She felt a sick shame. Useless for her to tell her conscience that, thus far, she had done nothing to bring this young man to her feet. For she had telephoned him, permitted him to call upon her, and those acts in themselves were startling concessions for her to have made in view of his actions. He had every right to assume that she could not be too angry, too offended, too disgusted with him.

No woman could possibly forgive the way Frank Gardner had acted unless she felt something of the sentiment he felt for her. At least, Gardner had reason to think this much. She could say to herself that despite telephoning him, despite permitting him to call, she had been severe, condemnatory, and had given him only to understand that she expected from him some attempt to remedy the wrong he had done.

But he would know that the wrong was irremediable save in one way. He would know that she knew this. Inchoate though his thoughts necessarily must be, with regard to her attitude, he must nevertheless have so interpreted that attitude as to find encouragement for himself.

She might have thought that here was a youth making the last possible amend, offering himself and his name to repay what he had taken away. Pondering the matter, before she had telephoned him, she had conceived it as not beyond the bounds of possibility that an appeal to his chivalry would wring a proposal of marriage from him.

But this was no chivalrous young man making an heroic gesture. The hoarseness of his voice, the strained expression on his countenance, precluded possibility of that.

Passion she had conceived it possible he had for her. Whether this was love he offered, she could not know. But whichever of the emotions it was, it had inspired him to a declaration. Captive of her bow and spear, he stood before her.

Could a man do any wrong deserving of such punishment as she planned, for him? Gardner had soiled her reputation. In return, she planned to break his heart. It was all very well for her to tell herself that she planned merely her own rehabilitation, but she planned more than that. It would be an acute pleasure to injure him. . . .

"To win me?" she said. How could he know that her pretty bewilderment was feigned?

He walked disconsolately to the window and looked out upon the street. The October evening had a Decemberish aspect. There was a threat of snow in the air. Darkness had settled down surlily, and the shadowy figures on the sidewalk all seemed hurrying, as though to escape imminent storm.

"Oh, I know it's ridiculous," he said. She could barely hear his words. He talked with his face averted, as though he were thrashing things out in his own mind.

"To act as I've done, and try to make a girl believe that it's because you're out of your mind about her—it just can't be done, I suppose. Don't think I'm so completely irresponsible that I don't realize just exactly how I've acted. But sometimes I guess we want to hurt the thing we love."

He may never have read the works of the great and unhappy poet who had said almost the same

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

What is your question? Whatever it may be, unless it be a request for legal, medical, or financial advice, it will be answered without cost to you, and you will receive the reply in a personal letter. Write your question clearly and briefly, enclose two-cent stamp for return postage and address the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How long will grape vines produce?—G. H.

A. Some varieties continue fruitful for at least 300 or 400 years.

Q. What is the population of Birmingham, Ala., and how much has the city grown in the last ten years?—J. H. G.

A. Birmingham has 257,657 inhabitants. In 1920 the city's population was 178,806.

Q. Who was the "poet of the Rockies"?—H. V. C.

A. Cy G. Warman was introduced to the public in 1892 by the New York Sun as the poet of the Rockies. Among his famous compositions was the song, Sweet Marie.

Q.—Is the vitamin content of spinach or other greens reduced by the addition of vinegar?—L. A. H.

A.—Vinegar used on greens will not destroy the vitamins. Generally, the more acid the product, the less danger there is of vitamin destruction.

Q.—What kind of liquid is it in gasoline gauges on the dashes of automobiles?—J. S.

A.—The bureau of standards says that kerosene colored with red-O is generally used in gasoline gauges on the dashboards of automobiles. The latter is an aniline dye, which is soluble in kerosene.

Q. What is the most popular color in automobiles?—N. B.

A. In present poularity, the rating of the six leaders is in this order: Black, blue, brown, green, maroon, gray. At this time last year the colors in their order of popularity were: Blue, brown, green, black, gray, and maroon.

Q.—What is an ultimatum?—A. R.

A.—An ultimatum is a formal intimation by one state to another state that unless the latter complies with certain terms certain consequences will follow. These consequences may be war or may be measures short of war.

Q. When did David Warfield play in The Music Master and how long did it run? Did it have a longer run than The Auctioneer?—S. B. M.

A. The Music Master was produced in 1904 and ran for more than 1,000 performances. It was revived successfully several times. The Auctioneer, staged in 1901, had a run of 1,400 performances.

Q. What was the population of the Thirteen Colonies in 1780? How many Roman Catholics were then in this country?—L. B.

A. The poulation was estimated at 2,781,000. There are no actual data regarding the number who were Catholics, but it is believed that not more than 300,000 were of that faith.

Q.—Where was Troy?—J. F.

A.—The traditional site of Troy, at the Hellenistic Ilium, is the mound of Hissarlik, on a spur between the main Scamander valley and its last tributary from the east (anc. Simois), about 3½ miles from the Hellespont and from the Aegean shore, north of Besika bay. The famous academic dispute concerning the site, which began about A. D. 160 with Demetrius of Scepsis, may be regarded as settled by the discovery, made in 1868, of a fortress on the mound of Hissarlik, contemporary with the great period of Mycenae, and overlying the smaller and the earlier acropolis first identified by Schliemann in 1872.

Q. Please give a complete list of Lon Chaney's pictures.—B. L.

A. Lon Chaney's first work of any importance was in Western pictures such as Riddle Gawn, Hell Morgan's Girl and False Faces. He first came to prominence in The Miracle Man. Subsequently he appeared in: Treasure Island, The Penalty, The Hunchback of Notre Dame, The Phantom of the Opera, Aye of Clubs, Oliver Twist, The Shock, He Who Gets Slapped, The Unholp Three (silent version), The Blackbird, Tell It to the Maries, Laugh, Clown, Laugh, The Monster, Mr. Wu, London After Midnight, The Tower of Lies, While the City Sleeps, The Unknown, The Road to Mandalay, West of Zanzibar, and The Unholy Three (talking version).

Q.—What is the name of the television station in Chicago? Is it operating successfully?—T. E.

A.—WEXAL is the visual station in Chicago operated in conjunction with WMAQ, the Chicago Daily News station. More than 5,000 experimental listeners in the Chicago area are said to be receiving the programs with clarity. The station was designed and constructed by the Western Television corporation and transmission is accomplished in a special studio equipped with two television scanning machines. While ordinarily the transmission of images of persons has been confined to the head and shoulders, the apparatus used at WEXAL gives a full length of several artists at once.

STEPHENS JURY INDICTS NINE

Negress Charged With Murder of Another

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 2—Nine indictments were returned Tuesday by the Stephens county grand jury, after being in session for two days, District Attorney L. H. Welch, said Wednesday.

Included among the nine indictments was one charging Anne Caldwell, negress, with murder. The negro woman is alleged to have stabbed another woman to death last month in the northeastern section of the city. She has been held in the local jail since the alleged knife attack.

Other indictments were one for assault with prohibitive weapon, one for theft, burglary, transportation of liquor, forgery, swindling, auto theft, and removing mortgaged property from the county.

The jury recessed until Oct. 19.

He said the discussion would be of motor truck problems and regulation measures.

Suicide Is Verdict In Film Scenarist's Death

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 2. (UP)—An empty strychnine bottle found at the bedside of St. Elmo Boyce, 31, film scenarist, caused the coroner's office to announce late today he had committed suicide, no inquest will be held. Boyce had been arrested several times recently on drunken driving charges.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, after years of study, discovered a real internal Pile remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. He prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Allison Drug store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if it does not end all Pile misery.—Adv.

Jouett Shouse as Demo Chairman Gives G. O. P. Painful Worries

Former Kentuckian and Kansan Keeps Democratic Party Vibrant and Active Every Day in Year

By FRASER EDWARDS

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—In the underworld they would call him "the brain." But they are a bit more dignified in the political world. So they call Jouett Shouse "the master mind of Democracy."

As chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee, Jouett has an all-the-year-round job of officially pointing with pride to all things Democratic and viewing with alarm anything Republican. And how!

It is his job to oversee and underwrite everything Democratic. He must wet nurse every Democrat in public life. And more, he must read copy on any Democratic thought. It is a sizeable job that Jouett has.

Original Error Found

After the high chiefs of Democracy recovered sufficiently from the terrific shock of the 1928 defeat, they decided that the original error of Democracy was to depend upon a spontaneous uprising of the people and what was needed was an all-the-year-round organization.

Hence, they surveyed the stricken field of that battle for a person to place in charge of such an organization. In the center of the field, a gentleman with burning black eyes and a lean and hungry look was surveying the scene and rhapsodizingly rubbing his hands together and saying:

"Well, boys, let's get ready for 1932. We'll lick 'em sure, this time."

"That is our man," quoth the Democratic chieftains.

Aside from being just a continental Democrat, who regards a defeat as a triumph of virtue, Jouett is peculiarly fitted for his job. He has artistic temperament. He gets it from his ancestor, Matthew Stanley Jouett, who was a painter of portraits about a century ago.

With his ancestor's art and his own enthusiasm for the Democratic party, Jouett can paint the rosiest possible pictures of all things Democratic and the most morbid sort of portraits of anything Republican. It is a genuine compliment that the Republicans scream with pain at whatever Jouett does.

He Has the Energy

Being the "brain" of the Democratic party is a terrible load to carry, but Jouett is at least 100,000 h. p. in energy. He says the energy comes from his mother's side of the family. He gets down to the office to do his bit for Democracy about 7:30 in the morning—two hours before any of the hired help arrives.

Jouett was born a Democrat about 52 years ago in Woodford county, Kentucky. He was a preacher's son. So he started in life by becoming a newspaper reporter on the Lexington Herald. He was the big dog with the brass collar when he quit to turn Kansas Democratic. When Jouett was about 32, he got married and removed tto Kinsley, Kansas, and became a permanent disturber to Republican tranquility in those parts. The first thing he did was to get himself elected to the Kansas legislature before he had been in the state a year. Naturally, the next thing was to come to congress.

McAdoo Supporter

From the house, Jouett went into the treasury as the chief assistant to Carter Glass. He was one of the prime movers in the effort to nominate William Gibbs McAdoo for the presidency. He is one of the few survivors of the Madison Square garden nightmare of 1924, where he was drill master for McAdoo's corps of managers.

Worries G. O. P.

JOUETT SHOUSE

It was in the 1928 campaign in which he put his entire time trying to elect Al Smith that Jouett was officially recognized as the master mind of Democracy. And it is generally conceded that he has more political sagacity than 99-44-100ths of his party.

Withal, Jouett seems to get more fun out of his job than any other figure in the political world that Washington has seen in a generation. He has cleaned up all factional fights and healed most of the wounds of old feuds and the only thing left for him to do is to put the Democratic party on a paying basis and win an election.

There is just one thing more about Jouett Shouse. It is a name that sounds like a fat man falling downstairs with a cook stove and no one has had any success in giving him a nickname. Jimmy Cox started calling him Jo, but it did not stick.

Bids Asked for Two Lamesa Mail Routes

Special to The Record News.

LAMESA, Texas, Oct. 2.—According to J. D. Dyer, local postmaster, bids will be received until Oct. 7 inclusive, for mail carriers on two proposed routes, from Snyder to Lamesa and from Lamesa to O'Donnell.

Mr. Dyer states that the proposed route from Snyder to Lamesa would cut approximately four hours from the present mail schedule, enabling patrons to receive mail from eastern points earlier than they are now doing. The proposed route from Lamesa to O'Donnell would also give that city earlier mail from the East, according to Mr. Dyer.

SHERIFF LANDS THREE IN JAIL

Prisoners Taken at Hobbs, N. M., and Lamesa

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 2.—Sheriff Walker Sayle and E. B. McClure, special deputy returned from Hobbs, N. M., and Lamesa Tuesday with three prisoners. All were lodged in jail and have not made bond yet.

In Hobbs, the sheriff and his deputy made two captures. The third man was picked up at Lamesa on the return trip. C. E. Asher and Scott Wasson were the two men taken into custody for the local court. G. W. Daniel was taken at Lamesa.

Asher was recently indicted here on charges of removing mortgaged property from the county. Wasson was wanted on charges of possession and sale of intoxicating liquor.

Daniel was also recently indicted on a complaint of forgery.

Roy McCharen, deputy sheriff, left Wednesday for Eldorado, Schleicher county capital, to take into custody J. R. Williams, who has 10 felony indictments against him here, eight of which are on swindling charges growing out of alleged illegal insurance deals.

A. & M. Students Church Members

Special to The Record News.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 2.—Out of a total of 2,371 students at the A. & M. college of Texas who have answered religious questionnaires to date this year, all but 181 are members of some church, announcement of results of the poll by M. L. Cashion, general secretary of the college Y. M. C. A., discloses. All told, enrollment at the college so far is in excess of 2,400.

Seventeen religious sects are represented in the student body with the Methodist leading with 691. The Baptist church is second with 558, Presbyterian third with 248, Catholic fourth with 183, Christian fifth with 169 and Episcopal sixth with 127. Other denominations represented include Lutheran 69, Church of Christ 53, Jewish 39, Christian Science 18, Congregational 5. One member each is shown for the following: Church of England, Unitarian, Pentecostal, Seventh Day Adventist, Moslem, Orthodox Armenian. Fourteen students indicated church membership but with no preference for any particular denomination while 181 indicated they belonged to no church.

Five denominations are represented on the campus by pastors, some stationed here as student pastors, others making periodical visits to conduct services. These are Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Catholic, Episcopal and Lutheran.

PLEASANT HILL CONTRACT LET

New $4,800 School to Be Built

Special to The Record News.

ANSON, Texas, Oct. 21.—A contract was let Wednesday in Anson by the trustees of the Pleasant Hill consolidated school district, five miles south of Anson, to R. M. Smith of this place, for the construction of a four-room modern school building for the Pleasant Hill district, work to start at once in order to accommodate the school for the coming term in a few weeks.

The consideration for the job is around $4,800; plus the material in the old building, which is now being wrecked. The new structure is to be 54 feet wide and 83 feet long, with four rooms, and will accommodate three teachers. The building is a result of consolidating the Pleasant Hill and the Elliott districts, which was done recently by a vote and later a bond issue was voted for the construction of the building.

Red River Bridges Seek Higher Tolls

AUSTIN, Oct. 2. (UP)—Notice of a toll bridge conference scheduled in Dallas on Oct. 15 to seek increased rates over three Red river bridges, was served on the attorney general's office today.

A request to restore the rates to what they were before a one-half reduction recently, will be asked because the opening of proposed free bridges will shorten the time which bridge companies can expect a return on their investments.

The conference was called by the Gainesville Red River Bridge company, Terrell Bridge company and the Red River Bridge company.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

(Copyright 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Why We Crave Rich Food

As the human race evolves, we find ourselves confronting new problems with our old instincts. Our instincts are based on the experiences of hundreds of generations of those who have preceded us. These instincts were reliable guides for the conditions at that time, but they are not always the best for conditions today. We know that at one time food was not as plentiful as at present. It was often obtained under great danger. When it was obtained there was no satisfactory method of keeping the surplus for future use. Under those conditions it was essential to eat enough food to last over until more food could be obtained, and it was also wise to eat the most concentrated foods to stave off the hunger pangs for as long as possible.

If you give a child or person who has had no dietetic training a choice of food he will almost invariable exhibit this instinct by picking out only those foods which have a high caloric value and avoiding foods which have a low caloric value. He will choose meat, nuts, bread, macaroni, beans, peas, corn, eggs, potatoes, sugar, cake, ice cream or any other food which is rich in starch, sugar or protein, mixed with some fat or oil. In doing this he is simply following the race-old fear of starvation. He will avoid spinach, watercress, carrots, asparagus, lettuce and most other foods which are low in calories. An exception to this are the sweet fruits and berries which are usually enjoyed by everyone. However, the reason for the enjoyment is probably because of the sugary taste which the body recognizes as containing calories, and also because the berries and fruit were among the first foods used by man and often carried him over lean periods until other foods, such as meats and cereals were abundant. The vegetables are comparatively recent additions to the racial diet, for they did not become tender and succulent until men ceased to be nomads and became agriculturists.

It is no longer necessary for us to eat enough at one meal to last for several days. The average person eats three or four meals every day, but has a reasonable assurance that he can continue to do so for a long time in the future. If one were only going to eat one meal every two days, it would be necessary to eat five or six thousand calories at a meal, but when one eats three or four meals a day, there is a grave danger of overeating on the high-calory, concentrated, acid-forming foods. You may only need about 2,500 calories a day when actually you will be eating 4,000 or 5,000. When you are overeating you are simply overworking your digestive and eliminative organs and a comparatively early breakdown is the result, and this danger can be avoided if you will make it a point to see that at least half of the foods you eat are comparatively low in calories. These foods are just as rich, and often richer, than the more concentrated foods in mineral elements and vitamins, so they really are helpful for providing alkaline elements to counteract the acid-forming tendency of the richer foods.

In this day and age if we wish to get the most out of life we must let our reason and observation dictate to us, rather than our more primitive instincts.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

("Nervous" Stomach)

Question—Mrs. H. P. writes: "What shall I do for nervous stomach? I have had it for seven years, have been to all kinds of doctors, but have never had any real help. Have a great deal of gas during the night."

Answer—The so-called "nervous" stomach is simply a stomach which is constantly irritated by wrong foods and bad food combinations. Do not blame your stomach for the trouble, but take away the irritation and learn to live on the right kind of diet.

(Fruit Fast for Liquor Habit)

Question—M. G. writes: "Referring to your article on the liquor habit, will you kindly advise character of diet treatment so as to obtain the best results?"

Answer—A short fruit fast for a few days will positively eliminate any abnormal craving for liquor. If one wishes to stop drinking alcoholic intoxicants he will find it very easy to control himself after the cleansing effect of a fruit fast.

(Trouble With Gums)

Question—J. H. asks: "What causes so much acid in my mouth as to cause my teeth to be sore under the edge of the gums. Am very constipated. What can I do to remedy these conditions?"

Answer—Improper diet is the cause of pyorrhea, trench mouth, or any similar disorder which would make your teeth sore under the gums. Go to a good dentist and have your teeth treated and scaled. At the same time, change your diet and overcome constipation by taking plenty of exercise, using more greens, and following the menus I give you every Friday in this column.

ARTISTS TO AID BIVINS

Crippled Grid Star to Get Needed Treatment

Cecil Bivins, crippled former star football player of Sherman, will get his chance for the expert medical attention believed necessary to restore him to health, according to plans announced Thursday by Billy Van, who is sponsoring a program for Bivins.

Bivins was injured in a football game in 1919 and has been practically helpless since that time. He is well known in this section, and has earned his living for more than 10 years by the sales of magazine subscriptions. Mr. Van, formerly with Al G. Fields minstrels, will join with other Wichita Falls artists in presenting a program the proceeds of which will go to Bivins.

Receipts of the marathon dance now being conducted here will go into the fund Monday, it was stated and many local entertainers will give numbers during the day to insure an unusual program. Jimmy Rodgers, the "yodeling brakeman," will return here from Houston to plunk his guitar and sing his songs as one of the features. Other numbers of the entertainment will be announced later, it was said.

Recent medical advice given Bivins has led him to hope that he may regain the use of his muscles if he can take the special treatment of three or four months advised for him.

100 Auto Dealers and Finance Agents Hear Address of Hanch

Seller of Automobiles Must Become Independent Merchant, Says National Association Manager

More than 100 automobile dealers and finance company executives of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma were stiffly lectured on their "need for more stamina and determination to be independent," by C. C. Hanch, general manager of the National Association of Finance companies, at the Kemp hotel Thursday night.

Providing the principal address at the fifth bi-monthly convention sponsored by the Wichita Falls Automotive Dealers' association and the R-F Finance corporation for this territory, Mr. Hanch culminated a pointed, frank discussion with the declaration:

"If I were in your place, I would either be an independent merchant of the manufactured product which I sell, or would cease to be an automobile dealer."

The fundamental cause of the dealer's problem, Mr. Hanch said, has been the nature of his relationship with the manufacturer, due to the fact that there has been no check upon the maker of cars for his own improvident acts.

Handicaps of Dealers

"At the moment that the finished cars leave the factory door," the speaker said, "the manufacturer has had wholesale price and profit, cash in advance. If he overproduced, and overloaded the dealer, he was not penalized. There is no other line of business in which the manufacturer has had such unreasonable immunity to the economic diseases which he precipitated."

Pointing out the handicaps suffered by dealers as a result of such a condition, the speaker declared that they are subject to coercion in the matter of territory, allotment of cars shipped to them, assortment of models, banking connections, and selection of customers.

"It is imperative that you stand firmly for a better contract with your manufacturers," Mr. Hanch asserted. "They should discontinue the practice of splitting up your territory when sales are good; there should be no overloading of dealers because the factory made too many cars in a given model. The trouble which you have had during the past 18 months has been due in a large measure to the fact that the manufacturers of America in 1929 produced in 12 months an 18-months' supply of new cars."

The agreements customarily used between factory and dealer in the past, the speaker observed, have stipulated that "the dealer would buy cars from the manufacturer, if he could get them, and agreed to sell all such cars shipped him regardless of whether he could sell them at any profit."

Relations Improving

Relations between factories and dealers are improving rapidly, Mr. Hanch said, but urged that "stamina and determination to be independent is the only cure for many of the unfair practices which have prevailed."

"The automobile industry is decidedly a key industry in this country," the speaker continued. "There will be no general prosperity in the United States until the automobile business again is uniformly prosperous. The decks are more nearly clear now than at any other time within the last five to eight years. There will be an appreciable betterment of business conditions before the end of this year. Not a great revolution in business, but a very noticeable improvement in economic health."

Mr. Hanch reviewed briefly his connection with the automotive industry, in which he has been engaged since 1902. He was in the manufacturing branch of the business until 1926, when he took up his present work. No other business offers its products to the public so nearly free of "patent tributa," he declared, stating that purchase of a small light bulb represents the payment of more money for patent rights than the purchase of an expensive automobile.

Grady Shipp, manager of the chamber of commerce at Vernon, was the first speaker of the evening, entertaining the gathering with humorous anecdotes and whimsical observations upon members of the industry represented. Mr. Shipp was introduced by D. L. Fritz, president of the Wichita Falls Automotive Dealers' association, who presided during the evening. Mr. Hanch was introduced by Solon R. Featherston.

Mr. Fritz spoke briefly relative to improving business conditions. Answering his own question, "How far will a dog run into the woods?" he said:

Out-of-Town Visitors

"He can only run half way, for when he reaches the half-way mark, he's on his way out. It is time to look for his emergence on the other side now, for he passed the half-way point some distance back."

Those present were entertained after Mr. Shipp's speech by Miss Martha Withers of Dallas, who appeared in plantation costume and black face as "Aunt Dinah." Her monologue and improvised musical numbers consisted of impromptu gossip involving well-known members of her audience.

The cities represented in Thursday night's gathering included Frederick, Davidson, Lawton, Altus, Walters, Duncan and Temple, Okla.; Pampa, Hedley, Vernon, Nocona, Crowell, Paducah, Electra, Henrietta, Graham, Burkburnett, Seymour, Stamford and Wichita Falls.

Wichita Kennel Club Chartered

The Wichita County Kennel club, without capital stock, was granted a charter by the state Thursday, with R. W. Dilday, George H. Boyd and Mrs. D. Huff named as incorporators.

Purpose of the organization will be to promote better dog breeding and encourage owners in the exhibiting and care of high class dogs.

"The club is entirely on a non-profit basis," Mr. Dilday pointed out Wednesday night, "and is to be conducted from an educational angle only."

A dog show is planned for the early part of November, which will be open to entries from over the county, and outside as well. Exhibits from Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston and other points are expected to be entered for prizes.

BURGLARS KILL TEXAS GROCER

Bastrop Man's Body Found By His Sister

BASTROP, Texas, Oct. 2. (AP)—Believed to have been the victim of burglars, the body of John Lackey, 37, was found here today near the grocery store of his sister, Mrs. A. L. Miller. Lackey was shot through the heart with a .45 caliber bullet.

Lackey was employed at the store and was believed to have surprised the burglars.

His sister, Mrs. Miller, stated she heard shots in the night but paid no attention until this morning when she went to arouse Lackey. When he was not in his room, she believed he had arisen early and was not apprehensive to his whereabouts. A few minutes later his body was found.

Officers investigating the case reported they found holes bored in the front door of the building, probably made preparatory to cutting out the lock. Lackey was shot as he was going from the dwelling to the grocery, only a short distance apart.

Airplane Bombs Mine In Kentucky To Halt Work In Strike-Torn Sector

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Oct. 2. (UP)—Coal mining operations stopped near Madisonville tonight after an airplane bombed the shafts with incendiary missles.

It was the second mine bombing by air in Western Kentucky in two months.

Today's raider swooped over the mines, dropping flaming bombs as he went. None of the mines was damaged, but one of the bombs narrowly missed the Ross Coal company's number one shaft. Another of the missles struck a barn of James Smith, destroying it.

Residents saw the ship plainly in the semi-darkness before dawn, but could not make out its markings. All mine operations in the vicinity stopped. Only a few workmen appeared and they were heckled by strikers picketing roads leading to the shafts. The bombing was held by authorities to be an outgrowth of the strike which has been in progress for weeks.

JURY DELIBERATES AUGUST BOMBING

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 2. (UP)—Federal grand jury deliberated secretly tonight on the airplane bombing of coal mine property at Providence, Ky., last Aug. 11. The case still has not been docketed for trial and will not be, authorities said, until the grand jurors complete their inquiry.

Half a dozen men, including Aviator James Malone of Murphysboro, Ill., have been indicated in connection with the air attack.

Depositors to Get Back $500,000 Fund

AUSTIN, Oct. 2. (AP)—An agreement whereby depositors and bank members of the defunct depositors' guaranty fund will be paid back approximately $500,000 of the residue in the fund was to be approved today by three state officials.

The working plan was subject to approval of Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt; State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher and James Shaw, banking commissioner.

The amounts, ranging from a few cents to hundreds of dollars, will be paid by treasurer's drafts. Depositors will receive about half the fund and member banks the other half. All will get approximately 30 cents on the dollar.

Engineer Killed When Two Cars Sideswipe

WACO, Texas, Oct. 2. (AP)—R. Clinton Blount, 27, engineer of the Texas Power and Light compay, was killed last night in an automobile accident.

Blount's car was side-swipped by an automobile driven by Mr. and Mrs. Walder De Ford of Abbott, seven miles porth of Waco on the Dallas road.

LOAN CONCERN SUES STATE

$1,260,000 Asked for Inquiry Into Financial Firm

AUSTIN, Oct. 2. (AP)—Suit for $1,260,000 damages was filed against James Shaw, state banking commissioner, and the National Surety company, on Shaw's bond, by A. L. Moon, president of the Mutual Deposit and Loan association of San Antonio, and others, in district court here today.

Moon asked $700,000 personal damages, $500,000 for the Mutual Deposit and Loan association, $500,000 for the Texas Development company and the Bexar Investment company, jointly; $150,000 "penal charges" against Shaw, and $10,000 from Shaw's bondsmen.

Suit was based on alleged illegal investigation of the affairs of the companies, made by the attorney general's department at Shaw's instance, which, it was claimed, "caused a run on the Mutual Deposit company, loss of confidence" and other things.

STARS APPEAR IN COYOTE RANKS AS LEAGUE GAME NEARS

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Our predictions for Saturday:

S. M. U.—?: Notre Dame—!!!

Aggies—Purr-r; Nebraska—Gr-r-r.

Purdue—Wow!; Baylor—Humpf:

Saturday the S. M. U. Mustangs play the Notre Dame Ramblers at South Bend, Ind.; the Baylor Bears will play the Purdue Boilermakers at Lafayette, Ind.; and the Texas Aggies meet the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers at Lincoln, Neb.

Coach Barry Holton, in view of these scheduled intersectional games, is frankly up a tree. He doesn't know whom to support. Of course, being one of us, he hopes the Southwest conference teams make a good showing. But the thing that makes him feel astride the limb is the fact that the guiding hands of all those teams—the coaches—are in every instance more than good friends of his.

He feels like a son towards his father when Knute Rockne is considered—played on the gentleman's team for two years and grew to reverence the master. On the other hand, Holton, while coach at Trinity university, sent his teams against the Mustangs for four years—from 1925 to 1928 inclusive—and Coach Ray Morrison and his assistant, Russel McIntosh, of S. M. U. grew to be fast friends of the Coyote mentor. These friendships mean a lot to Holton; but on the other hand, the mentor played with Rockne's team two full seasons, in 1917, and then, after the war, in 1920. What team will be his choice next Saturday when the Mustangs and the Ramblers clash?

And then the Aggie-Cornhusker game. In the old days at Trinity, Holton used to referee games for Dana X. Bible, present Nebraska coach who for years was mentor at Texas A. & M. On the other hand, Holton is a very close friend of Matty Bell, present coach at Aggieland. Still on the limb.

And then the Paylor-Purdue game. Morley Jennings and Jim Crow, the Baylor coaches, are fast friends of Holton's—but on the other hand, listen to this: Purdue is coached by Noble Kizer, who learned how to put on a jersey, how to hold a football, and in fact, learned the very rudiments of the game from none other than Coach Barry Holton of the Wichita Falls High school. Kizer played right guard on the Notre Dame freshman team in 1921, and that team was coached by Holton. Also, Holton and Kizer played basket ball together up at Rockneville.

Off to See 'Em

Bill Huff and Guy Airey left here at 4 p. m. Thursday for St. Looey, where they will see the spectacle of the Cardinals winning three straight from the Mackmen—or let us hope! Or let's don't hope; whichever way you've got your coin spread.

J. D. Peerson and Lester L. Boardman also departed for St. Looey, but they took the auto route. They will attend the series.

Thought for Today

He's From Texas

The only Cardinal who could score against the Athletics Thursday was a former Texas leaguer, George Watkins. He played right field for Street's crew in the second game of the series.

Spudder fans probably remember Watkins in connection with a rukus that occurred down at Spudder park in the 1928 season, when Watkins was with Houston.

In this particular game with Houston, the Spudder catching staff was shot to pieces, and only the veteran, Pete Lapan, was left to hold down the fort. And apparently the Buffs wanted to get rid of him.

Watkins came to bat, talking out of the side of his mouth.

Nobody but Pete and the umpire knows what Watkins said, but it must have smacked of anything but brotherly love, for Pete dropped mitt and mask and climbed on the big bozo.

The result was that Pete was ousted from the game, and Shortstopper Rabbit Benton had to be called in from the infield to finish the game behind the plate.

Cab Driver's Vacation

Arthur Huff resigned as road secretary of the Spudders last Tuesday, principally because a road secretary hasn't much to do when there's no club to take the road. But all the same, he was back on the job Wednesday morning, doing odd jobs around the office and making sure that several tasks were finished.

It's the same old story of the cab driver, who, given a two weeks' vacation, spent the two weeks riding around on the cab seat next to the fellow who took his place.

The Fleming Flash

Little Billy Fleming, quarterback on the Archer City B team, is going to make Coach Bill Cooper a fine first string backfield man one of these days, unless I'm a mile off the track.

Little Billy did some good running in the game with the Reagan Junior high school team here Wednesday. The little fellow plunges through the line for good gains, and can sure shake off tacklers. He and Sam Hudson, a halfback, were largely responsible for the Archer City boys making three successive first downs in the first few minutes of last Wednesday's game. They made the Reagan line look like a film of tissue paper, for a while.

The Reagan team won that game 6 to 0, but a mere accident kept the Archer City from at least tying the count. A fumble on the two-yard line kept the visitors from scoring in the first quarter.

The main reason the Reagan team is not further along is its line—or so it appears to this observer. The flanks are weak. Powell, the center, plays a nice defensive game, but his mates on either side lack the punch. Coach Beck certainly need not worry over his ball-carriers. Cleo Creecy plays a fine game at right half. Ruby at fullback can charge through the line, and so can Howard Hill, the other half. A little stronger line and the Rea-

ONE MORE DAY, THEN LUBBOCK!

Athletes Show Up Well In Secret Drill

By FRED D. THOMPSON

With the clank of the spurs of the Lubbock Westerners becoming audible in the distance, the Wichita Falls Coyotes today will have their last chance at polishing saddle leather for their charge at the advancing foe Saturday.

And, as was the case Thursday, the oiling process will be accomplished far from the madding crowd, behind closed doors in a secret session down at Athletic park.

Scrimmage Continued

The Pack entered the final stage of training for their first conference game Thursday by doing what nobody exactly knows, although Coach Holton, before he locked and barred the gate intimated that at least the routine would consist of a bone-thumping scrimmage drill with a number of Westerner plays being the particular object of attack by the prospective first stringers in Saturday's conflict.

Again the squad was divided into two teams, the regulars being pitted against the reserves in the day's toil. Although it was not stated, it was presumed the mentor continued to fill the atmosphere with instructions concerning an array of new plays but recently formulated. These, if thrown at the Westerners, would be sure to create havoc in their ranks, but it would be hazardous to state that all or any will be used. The squad may be receiving the new outlay for use only in cases of extreme necessity during the Lubbock game; or again, it may be the new tricks are being shoved upon the boys to divert their minds to new channels, and so have them fresh and clear-sighted when they start the regular plays against the foe. In all likelihood, however, some of the novelties will be on exhibition in the conference tilt.

After the Thursday practice session, Professor Holton announced with cheer that some of his charges were romping among the stars, and Barry's smile flashed as he said it. Loopey, or however you spell it, King—whose initials in the school records read C. L.—is exhibiting commendable clear-headedness and analytical ability on the field, showing himself adept at breaking up plays, and exhibiting skill at passing. All this in additioin to his knack of plunging while on the offense, and holding himself like a stone wall when the foe charges through his territory.

White Looks Better

White—Johnny White— is back at his old habit of backing the line. Johnny is a veteran at the game, although he did not show up for the team last year, and he is regarded as an outstanding player at the lone outpost. Malcolm Mauldin, right end, who is also a veteran, has been coming through in end-blocking and works well in end-around plays, and with Parish is expected to be hard to haul down from the wing positions. Parish, who plays left end, has been showing improvement in catching passes, and in general is adapting himself to his new job. He was shifted to the wing from the fullback position.

Improvement in the line has also been noticed, Coach Holton said, with Lester Daniels and Frank Stanfield, tackles, living up to their reputations as good chargers. Daniels particularly is starring at this performance, and is dubbed by onlookers "the kid with the football heart."

And then with the well known ball-luggers, Ray, Withrow, Cox and Rugeley keeping up their line bucking performances, the training camp has been a hornet's nest of activity.

Today's Work Uncertain

What today's practice will consist of was not known. The coach has the choice of making his boys bear down in another grueling session, or giving them a light workout, in order that all may be fresh and vigorous the day of the battle. Certain it is, however, that the team will be in class A shape when they face the Westerners, a team that will enter the contest undoubted favorites to triumph over the Wichitans, who recently have loomed on the horizon as the conference "dark horse."

The school pep rally will be held in the auditorium tonight, with speechmaking and general rousing talks by faculty members, and probably one by the coach himself, it was announced.

Stamford Service Club Host to Grid Squad

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Oct. 2.—Service clubs of Stamford take an active interest in football. The Rotary club members were hosts to Coach Lee Walker and the 1930 crop of football candidates at their weekly luncheon at the Inn Tuesday. This is an annual affair.

Attending were Hubert Bounds, captain; R. W. Bounds, Hulon Lanmon, Douglas Baker, Shufford Swift, Cecil Lanmon, Arnold Glenn, Tom Alexander, Roy Rosene, Parker Gardner, Frederick Stewart, Frank Ramey, Johnny Bryant, Leonard McNutt, Goystle Alexander, Will H. Grimes, Tom Bunkley, Frank Gamblin, A. D. Walton, Randell Cannon, Garth Cole, Owen Davis, Buster Hall, Don Gould, James Capps and Searcy Orr.

The Exchange club offers a trophy for the highest scholastic average for members of the team. This was won by Roy Rosene last year.

The Bulldogs will meet Seymour in a practice game at Seymour Friday afternoon.

Red Wings Win Title In Little World Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 2. (AP)—The Rochester Red Wings won the little world series today, by defeating the Louisville Colonels, 8 to 1, in the deciding game. The victory made it five games for the International league champions to three for the American association pennant winners.

It was the first time in three attempts that the Red Wings had taken the series from American association teams.

In the deciding game of the series, which was for five out of nine games, the Wings batted in a commanding lead early and then fought off a Louisville rally in the ninth.

Second Mauling Leaves Street's Red Birds Dejected

SERIES GOES TO ST. LOUIS

A's Power Discourages Gabby's Boys

phians now have enough change to take care of the winter overhead.

You see, the Broadway boys couldn't figure that George Earnshaw, the big right-hander of the world's champions, was going to step out today and pitch as cunning a ball game as any world's series ever produced. They thought old Corneilus McGillicuddy was pitching poor when he used up "Lefty" Grove yesterday, and they liked Gabby Street's idea of starting Flint Rhem. They liked it very much at 5 to 6!

If you chance upon a Broadway boy walking his favorite street in the wee sma' hours, talking to himself, you will understand that he was with the contingent that came to ruin in Philadelphia.

Rhem Pounded Hard

Six scattered blows, one a home run by Watkins, are all that Earnshaw allowed the Cardinals this afternoon, while the lusty pounders behind him—Dykes, Cochrane, Simmons and the others—were putting extra bases in their punches against Flint Rhem.

They finally drove Flint from the box. You may recall that Flint is the young man who was said to have been kidnaped while in New York by a sinister band of Beezarks, and forced to drink a lot of hard likker. Of course, any kind of likker in New York is very hard, and perhaps Flint is still suffering from the effects of same. The New York likker has been known to stick with one for years and years.

Anyway, Flint got a good pasting from the A's this afternoon, and he was succeeded by various young gentlemen who seemed to be named Lindsey, and Johnson, and so on. The redoubtable Mickey Cochrane got himself another homer during the melee, though to tell you the truth, homers are becoming something of a drug on the market.

Frisch Makes Error

An error by the usually surefooted Frankie Frisch helped the A's to some of their tallies but they only needed their first two behind the pitching of Earnshaw.

As he struck out Mancuso, the Cardinals' catcher, in the ninth, for the final out, Earnshaw leaped high in the air and kicked his heels together. Then he shambled with all the speed of a delighted camel over to the A's bench, where old Cornelius McGillicuddy who had been twiddling another program throughout the long afternoon, shook him by the hand.

The other A's gathered about the gangling form of Earnshaw and smacked him on the back, while the cheers of 33,000 citizens bounced off his ears.

Redbirds Dejected

The Cardinals left the field as dejected as the Broadway boys, who remained seated in the stands for some time after the game wondering if it might not be a good scheme to go and jump in the Schuylkill and end it all.

It was rather a listless game for some reason.

As far as the result was concerned it was all over in the first inning, which was when Cochrane hit his home run, a blow over the short right field wall after two were out. The tremendous Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx placed a two-bagger and a single end-to-end for another marker, and that was the ball game.

All the rest was mere detail, centering mainly about the masterly pitching of Earnshaw, and the fielding—especially the infleiding—behind him. You can't offer any alibis for only one run.

Connie Plays "Chess"

With the rise and fall of his brawny right arm, big Earnshaw had the Cards hitting the ball into the air, or at the fields, and if it chanced that the fielders always seemed to be right in the track of the Cardinal drives, that was Gabby Street's tough luck, or perhaps the generalship of old Cornelius McGillicuddy in shifting his fielders around

You could see the lean leader of the A's motioning his men in, or out, and to the right, and left as each Cardinal batsman stepped forward, like a man playing chess with living pawns. Old Connie manipulated his mannikins with his program, and he was rarely wrong.

The series moves, bag and baggage, and Judge Landis, by special trains to St. Louis tonight for the third game of the series, which now stands 2 to 0 in favor of the A's.

The Broadway boys will not accompany the caravan. It costs money to make the trip to St. Louis. The Broadway boys now have nothing that they can use for money.

This sporting life, well, it is tough.

The game in detail:

First Inning

Cardinals—Douthit lifted a high fly to Dykes. Adams flied to Simmons. Frisch hit over Simmons' head for two bases. It was Frisch's 43rd world series hit for a new record. Bottomley flied to Haas, who made a running catch in center. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Athletics—Bishop lined to Douthit. Dykes rolled a fast one down to Adams, who made a fine play and threw him out. Cochrane hit a home run over the right field wall, his second in two days and in two times at bat. Simmons singled to center. Foxx hit into center field for two bases and Simmons scored. Miller drobled the ball down the first base line and was out to Bottomley, unassisted. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Second Inning

Cardinals—Hafey lifted a fly to Bishop in short center. Watkins drove the ball over the right field wall for a home run, the first circuit smash for the National leaguers. Mancuso beat out a hit to shortstop. Gelbert singled to center, Mancuso taking third; the ball bounced over Bishop's head. Douthit popped to Bishop. One run, three hits, no errors.

Athletics—Haas struck out. Boley popped to Frisch. Earnshaw lifted a fly to Hafey in left center. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning

Cardinals—Adams lifted a fly to Miller. Frisch hit a hard smash to Boley, who fumbled it and was charged with the first error of the series. Bottomley struck out, swinging at a curve ball. Frisch stole second and went to third when Cochrane's throw bounded to center field. Cochrane was charged with an error. Hafey was called out on strikes. No runs, no hits, two errors.

Athletics—Bishop rolled to Bottomley. Dykes struck out. Cochrane hit a bounder to Frisch, who fumbled it, for an error. Cochrane scored on Simmons' double against the right field wall, on which Watkins tried to make a shoestring catch. Foxx walked. Simmons scored on Miller's single to left when the throw to the plate got away from Mancuso. Foxx went to thrid and Miller to second. Haas lined to Douthit. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

Fourth Inning

Cardinals—Watkins lifted a fly to Simmons in short left. Mancuso struck out, swinging. Gelbert was called out on strikes. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Athletics—Boley bounded a fast one off Gelbert's glove for a single. Earnshaw struck out. Bishop walked. Boley and Bishop scored on Dyke's hit to center field for two bases. This finished Rhem and he was taken from the box. Lindsey went in to pitch for St. Louis. Cochrane lined to Gelbert and Dykes was doubled at second unassisted. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning

Cardinals—Lindsey hit into right center for one base. Douthit lifted a fly to Cochrane between the plate and first base. Adams flied to Haas, who made a running catch close to the infield. Frisch popped to Dykes. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Athletics—Simmons flied to Douthit. Foxx rolled to Gelbert and was thrown out at first. Miller lined to Douthit. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning

Cardinals—Bottomley lifted a fly to Bishop back of second. Hafey bounded to Dykes. Watkins rolled to Foxx and was out to Earnshaw, who covered first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Athletics—Haas fanned on a third called strike. Boley fouled out to Bottomley. Earnshaw was delayed in coming to bat while he put on his shoe, which he had removed to examine the extent of an injury suffered in covering first. He limped as he came to bat. Earnshaw struck out, swinging. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning

Cardinals — Mancuso walked. Gelbert forced Mancuso at second, Foxx to Boley. Fisher batted for Lindsey and struck out, swinging. Douthit filed to Simmons in deep left. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Athletics—Sylvester Johnson went in to pitch for the Cardinals. Bishop walked. Dykes bunted to Bottomley, unassisted. It was a sacrifice. Cochrane walked. Simmons rolled to Frisch and was out to Bottomley. Foxx fanned, swinging. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning

Cardinals—Adams singled to right. Frisch lined to Dykes and Adams was doubled with a quick throw to Foxx. Bottomley fouled to Dykes. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Athletics—Miller struck out. Haas filed to Gelbert. Boley flied to Hafey who caught the ball on the run in left center. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning

Cardinals—Hafey rolled to Boley and was thrown out to Foxx. Watkins struck out. Mancuso struck out, swinging hard. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Arlington Races To Start Next Month

FORT WORTH, Oct. 2. (AP)—The Texas Jockey club will hold its second annual race meet at Arlington Downs, Nov. 1 to 11, it was announced today by W. T. Waggoner, who with his sons, E. P. and Guy, operate the track and Three D stables.

Last year the thoroughbreds returned to Texas from the East for the meet and held an 11-day meet which was marred by bad weather. This weather injured the attendance but did not keep away the horsemen who halted here while en route from the eastern tracks to Agua Caliente or New Orleans.

Flint Cracks as George Earns Win

Here they are, winner and loser. George Earnshaw, above, big right-handed twirler of Mack's tribe of Athletics, limited the bewildered Cards to six hits Thursday in turning in the second world series victory for the American leaguers, while his starting opponent, Flint Rhem, shown at the left, cracked up after less than four innings. The slugging Mackmen bounced seven hits off Flint in three and one-third innings, and thereby paved his path to the showers. It was the same cannonading crew that did it—Cochrane, Simmons, Foxx and Dykes—the four who made life miserable for Burleigh Grimes in the opener; only today the quartet was joined by Bing Miller.

Iowa Park Volley Ball Team to Play Weeth

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Oct. 2.—The local volley ball girls will meet the Weeth swatters on the local courts Friday night. There will be two games played, one by the senior members and the other by the members of the junior delegation.

Miss Francis Detlefs was elected captain of the senior team and Miss Josephine George was elected to head the juniors through the current season. These girls show much of the vim and vigor that has been shown by the girls heretofore when they won the county championship for the last four years, and made very good showings in the district meets.

In their first game of the season the local swatters in the senior division tied the score with their opponents, the Harvesters of Valley View. The juniors met the junior delegation of the same school and carried away top honors. It is predicted that the final playoff in the county meet will be between the Harvesters and the Hawks.

MEMPHIS BEATS QUITAQUE, 47-0

Cyclone Guard Injured In Game

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 2.—The Memphis Cyclone blew over the Quitaque eleven here today in a conference B game, the first of the season for Memphis, 47 to 0.

The game originally was scheduled for Friday, but was played today in order that local people could attend other games in this section.

The Cyclone suffered a set-back in the game, despite the victory, when Ezell Champion, right guard, suffered a broken nose. He will be out of the game for at least two weeks.

Jarvis, Hammond and Pearson, the Cyclone's backfield men, starred throughout the game, while Britton turned in a nice day's work for Quitaque.

The victory put the Cyclone off on the right foot towards another championship. The team captured the laurels last year.

Cubs Even Series With White Sox

CHICAGO, Oct. 2. (UP)—Fred Blake and Kiki Cuyler cooperated today to give the Chicago Cubs a 4 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the second game of the Chicago city series. The victory enabled the Cubs to move to their home park tomorrow with the series even.

Three games will be played at Wrigley field and if additional games are necessary the clubs will return to Comiskey field. Four victories are necessary to decide the championship.

Blake pitched brilliantly today and held the Sox to five hits, but it took a home run by Cuyler, with two mates on base, to give the Cubs their victory.

The Cubs tallied in the first on a walk to Wilson and a single by Stephenson, when Cissell threw wild in an attempt to cut Wilson down at third.

A three base error by Bell paved the way for the Sox's first run. Bell picked up Kerr's easy grounder and threw the ball over First Baseman Grimm's head, Kerr reaching third, from where he scored on Reynold's single.

Caraway, after pitching brilliant ball for seven innings, weakened in the eighth and was removed after singles by Blair and English and Cuyler's home run gave the Cubs three runs.

The Sox added a run after one man was out in the ninth on two singles, a walk and a stolen base, but Blake settled down and retired two Sox pinch hitters to end the game. The score:

George Watkins it was who negotiated the only Cardinal tally in the second game of the world series Thursday between the Athletics and the Cardinals. MANGUM LEADS GOLF TOURNEY

Hessler Among First at San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 2. (AP)—Ray Mangum of Dallas led in the Texas Professional Golfers' association tournament at the San Angelo Country club, with more than half of the field of 31 players completing the first 36 holes late today. Mangum turned in 75-68—143. The second 36 holes in medal play will be shot tomorrow.

Jack Burke of Houston, defending champion, rated fifth today with 77 on the first 18 holes and 75 on the second, for a total of 152.

Close behind Mangum was Tony Butler of Corpus Christi with 77-70—147. Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, was third with 74-75—149; and Dick Grout of Fort Worth, fourth, with 74-76—150. Par on the course is 71. A stiff wind served as a handicap, the scores indicating that the professionals found the course difficult.

Among other leaders today the scores were: Harvey Penick, Austin 71-81—152; Benny Adams, Spur, 77-76—153; John Bredemus, San Antonio, 79-74—153; Dudley Bell, Houston, 81-74—155; Phil Hesler, Wichita Falls, 75-80—155; Frank Tabor, San Angelo, 77-78—155; Skeet Fincher, Fort Worth, 78-77—155.

NOCONA TRIMS B TEAM, 34-0

Visitors Boast Stellar Ball Luggers

The Nocona High school football team overpowered a team of youngsters from Coach Barry Holton's B squad on the high school field Thursday afternoon, the big visitors bounding Holton's youngsters out of the way at will to run up a final score of 34 to 0.

The Nocona team outweighed the B squadders, and had almost every advantage a team could have. The game was a practice affair, and there were many substitutions on both sides.

The Wichita Falls team succeeded in making four first downs, and would have tallied at least once had a fumble not lost the ball for them while they were in Nocona's territory well within scoring distance. Again, the Wichitans had the ball within a shot of the goal, and lost it on downs.

Two outstanding Nocona stars were Evans and Zachary, who proved themselves two of the best conference B men in this section with their terrific drives through the line. Both are backfield men with ability and are hard to distinguish from class A material.

The Wichita Falls B team, undismayed at the loss, will meet the Bowie High school eleven today in another practice game.

Officials for Thursday's game were Mosely, Dayvault and Beatty.

Johnny Goodman Leaves Ranks of Golfers

OMAHA, Oct. 2. (AP)—The high cost of competitive golf has forced another nationally known knight of the links to retire from championship play.

Following closely on the announcement of George Von Elm of Los Angeles, formerly national amateur titleholder, that he would quit amateur tournament play because he could not afford the $10,000 it cost him last year, Johnny Goodman of Omaha, who defeated Bobby Jones in the title event last year, formally withdrew from the big events for similar reasons.

now is the best time of the year to paint your house? Don't you know that we can sell you enough Acme Quality Paint to cover your house two coats including porches for $14.40 and remember this would be Acme Quality House Paint. This price is based on the average 5 or 6-room house. There are plenty idle painters now to apply the paint at a very low cost.

If the house doesn't need painting then the porch floors may need repainting.

As an inducement to get you started we are giving a large heavy Dust Pan, worth 75c, free with the purchase of one quart of our celebrated Acme Quick Drying Granite Floor Enamel. Keep the floors bright and clean, avoid rot and decay.

Whenever you need paint or varnish think of "Acme"—we have it for every purpose.

Our prices are always lowest. We are out of the high rent district.

RULING THAT MASON IS ELIGIBLE BOOSTS PONIES' CHANCES

OFFENSE BUILT AROUND STAR

Mustangs Now Expected To Wage Hot Fight

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern Methodist's chances against Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend were enhanced something like 100 per cent by the decision of a Southwest conference subcommittee that declared Weldon Mason eligible for play.

Without their backfield flash, the Mustangs might have made a dismal showing against the national champions. The team's offense has been built around Mason. With him, the Methodists are capable of giving anybody's football team a thoroughly exciting afternoon. They might lose with the speedy one in there, but it will be a different game than had Mason been forced to sit on the sideline.

Popular Ruling

The committee's ruling cannot prove other than popular with the section's football fans. While it overrode a prior decision of Dr. D. A. Penick, president of the conference, declaring Mason technically ineligible, there was good reason to believe Dr. Penick secretly pleased. He had to abide by the rules, while the committee was in position to rise above them.

It is probable an article will be inserted in the conference constitution to take care of any similar situation that might arise. Members of the faculty committee agreed it was obviously unfair to penalize an athlete for not taking his examinations when he was physically unable to do so.

For business reasons, if none other, the ruling was a good one. Next to Cy Leland, Mason promises to be the conference's greatest individual drawing card. Between them, the pair will draw many a client through the gate.

The Baylor Precedent

The Baylor Bears will have no past standards of success to maintain in Saturday's joust with the Purdue Boilermakers. In fact, almost anything they do likely will be an improvement over their intersectional record to date.

In 1923 the Bruins, with a conference championship under their belts, were given a whaling by Boston college. Again, in 1928, they went up to South Bend for an early game and were chastised thoroughly by Notre Dame, even with Coach Rockne sending in his third, fourth and, perhaps, eighth teams.

Injuries Force Hawks to Delay Scheduled Game With Zundy Team

IOWA PARK, Texas, Oct. 2.—The local delegation will not be able to play the Zundelowitz eleven Friday due to injuries received in practice Wednesday afternoon. Arrangements had been made to entertain the Zundy grid team on the local field, but by the agreement of the coaches the game was postponed until a later date.

Bedford Cunningham appeared in uniform Wednesday, but was sent to the showers when his knee was rehurt in a lively scrimmage with the second string members. Kildow was on hand for the main part of the practice session but is still out on account of a light attack of blood poisoning. Other members of the Hawks squad are nursing minor injuries, therefore Coach Neal, and Assistant Coach Boulware deemed it advisable to call a let down in practice and let the men recover before attempting to enter into further contests.

The squad was further weakened Wednesday when Coach Neal requested that Keith Watkins, promising end, and Jack Wilson, utility backfield man, return their uniforms to the equipment man. No definite reason was given out for this action, but it is thought that these men failed to abide by the training rules handed out by the mentor of the Birds.

AGGIES OFF TO MEET BIBLE'S CORNHUSKERS

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 2. (AP)—Spurred on by the cheers of more than 2,400 enthusiastic cadets, 28 members of the Texas A. & M. college team, their coaches, the Aggie band and a number of fans, left today for Lincoln, Neb., where the Farmers will meet the Nebraska Cornhuskers Saturday.

"We are going to do our best," Madison Bell, head coach, said. "I realize we are engaging a tough outfit. I never saw a Bible-coached team that was not tough. I am not going to say we will win but we never play a game to lose."

FROGS LEAVE TODAY FOR BRECKENRIDGE

FORT WORTH, Oct. 2. (AP)—Just a few hours and a light signal drill remain between the T. C. U. Horned Frogs and their toughest encounter of their pre-conference schedule.

Twenty-five athletes will leave at noon tomorrow for Breckenridge, where Saturday they will meet the Simmons university Cowboys. A light drill will be taken on the Breckenridge field tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Cranfill and his men will not arrive in Breckenridge until Saturday morning. They will be followed by a special train bearing Simmons students and Abilene fans. The T. C. U. squad will be enlarged Saturday morning by arrival of 15 reserves. The T. C. U. band and a number of students will be in Breckenridge by game time.

STEERS AND SAINTS PREPARE FOR GAMES

AUSTIN, Oct. 2. (AP)—Both the University of Texas and St. Edward's university football squads went through heavy workouts here today preliminary to games Saturday in which the Steers will meet the Gentlemen from Centenary college and the Saints will tackle Rice institute in the latter's own lot.

There was little doubt as to the outcome of the Texas-Centenary struggle, Steer mentors and dopesters figuring the Longhorns to win by a comfortable margin. There was considerable gloom in the camp of the Saints, however, due mostly to a growing list of sick players and cripples.

PORKERS PREPARE FOR TULSA TILT

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 2. (AP)—Taking no chances on crippling his makeshift combination, Fred Thomsen paced his Razorbacks through mild tapering-off workouts today in preparation for the Tulsa university clash Saturday.

Dal Holmes and probably Uptmoor, veteran backfield aces, will sit on the sidelines nursing injuries while the reserves attempt to fill their shoes before a crowd that likely will number 20,000, expected to attend dedication of Skelly stadium.

The Razorbacks were given a rousing send-off by nearly 2,000 students in a pep rally.

FIGHT TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. (AP)—Justo Saurez, from Argentina who knows not defeat, and Ray Miller, Chicago lightweight with a mighty left hand wallop open the winter boxing season at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night in a bout scheduled for 10 rounds.

TIGERS AWAIT SOONER FOES

Electrans in Good Shape to Meet Grandfield

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 2.—The Electra High school gridsters are all set for their last practice tilt of the season with the Grandfield, Okla., squad on the local athletic field Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Majority of the Electra fans will have their first chance to see the Tigers swing into action as this is the teams' initial game to be played at home. There is a certain degree of rivalry existing between the two schools as they have met on the gridiron for the last three years, the Sooners taking last year's affray by a 13-0 count.

The Tigers emerged from the game with the Olney Cubs last Saturday with a few slightly injured players and the coaches spent the first two days of the week in administering calisthenics and other light forms of training to work out the sore places. New plays and a formation has been given and the team has been sent through strenuous and long signal drills evrey afternoon.

A new $3,000 grandstand awaits the Tigers' home-coming game, which should afford the spectators much better view of the teams in action and will relieve them of the tiresome job of following the men on the sidelines. The pep squad of 40 girls has been organized and the student body is expected to be well represented, which facts should add greatly to the Tigers' spirits.

Following is the probable starting line-up: Cloyd Smith, fullback; Aubrey Smith end Coye Sandefer, halfbacks; Eual Sandefer, quarterback; Monty McDonald, center; Brooks Adams and Leonard Curfman, guards; Roy Curfman and Joe Smith, tackles; Millard Welch and Cecil Eaton, ends.

Oregon-New York Game in 1931 Planned

CHICAGO, Oct. 2. (UP)—New York university and the University of Oregon will meet at Yankee stadium, New York, in an intersectional football game Oct. 31, 1931, it was anounced here today.

The game was arranged at a meeting of A. B. Nixon, N. Y. U., graduate manager, and Hugh E. Rosson of Oregon, who is here assisting with the details for the Oregon-Drake night football game at Soldier field Friday.

The Rambler's Corner

ganites would be hard to beat.

Incidentally the two Creecy boys, J. L. and Cleo, and Powell are seniors in Reagan this year. That means they will be eligible for Coach Holton's High school team next year. Coach Beck is doing a fine job of trainhig these prospects and we may expect each of the trio to land a berth with Holton's outfit next year.

Levey to Storti to Burns

Pete Turgeon said he never has met Euller, Levey, Storti or Burns, but that he has read plenty about them. The Milwaukee papers were full of stories about those boys, he said, when they put over those seven double plays against Waco to establish a new Texas league record.

And Pete, one of the best of second basemen himself, ventured this remark: "The Spudders will look 50 years or more before they find four men as good as Euller, Levey, Storti and Burns."

Incidentally, with the possibility developing that Howard Fitzgerald won't be back next year to patrol the center garden, Pete remarked that up at Columbus, Ohio, there is a gent by the name of Crabtree, or something like that, who can sure burn up the grass shagging fly balls. Crabtree, alas, can't hit, said Pete, but he sure can field.

Now we could make a nasty remark about Fitzgerald's hitting, especially in the play-off, but we won't.

If Crabtree can come up to Fitzgerald's fielding, then we won't be a crab about Crabtree's hitting.

Maul 'Em Milt

The great curve-baller is safely esconced at home in Oakland, Calif., according to a letter Guy Airey received recently, and doubtless he is peddling java by this time. Alas, I grow lonesome for Milt and the boys, and what about you, mates?

Hospital Report

Mrs. Hal Wiltse is up and around again. The fractured leg received in an automobile accident weeks ago has healed.

Smilin' Hal is beaming all over.

Northwest Texas Material

At least two huskies of this part of the state are trying hard to make the team down at College Station this year. One is Homer Thompson, chosen because of his showing as an intramural gridster to try for a berth at tackle with the 1930 Aggie team. Before going to Farmersville he played three years with the Hereford High school team. He is 22 years old and weighs 175 pounds.

The other is Walter Emmons of Plainview. "Ox" as he is called, is regarded as a promising end. Before going to A. & M. he played on the Clarendon High school eleven, and in 1920 was a reserve tackle on the A. & M. Varsity squad. Last year he was shifted to end, and so far has made a splendid showing.

Field Goals May Return

In the old days, many a game on old Clark field at Austin was turned in favor of the Longhorns by a field goal. Recently they have been scarce throughout the conference, due, presumably to the lack of experts at kicking from the field of battle.

Indications now are that the art is to be revived. A dispatch from Austin dealing with this point follows:

"The lost art of field goal kicking, noticeable for its long absence in the Southwest conference seems due for a revival this year, as far as the Texas Longhorns are concerned, if practice kicking by "Ox" Blanton, 220-pound tackle is a true indication. Blanton has tried for extra points after touchdown five times in the first two encounters of the Longhorns, and each time has sent perfect tries through the goal posts. In practice he has been making tries good from the 20 and 25-yard lines.

"Last Saturday, against the School of Mines team, Blanton missed his first attempt for a field goal when he barely sent a poor kick over the goal line from the 2-yard line, but a few moments later he came back and made good two extra-point kicks. At another time in the game, the Longhorns backed the Miners against their own goal line, and when the Miner punter kicked out, the kick was short. Elkins, Steer safety man, signaled for a fair catch, so that Blanton might have opportunity for a free kick, but the ball came to the three-yard line and the attempt was not made.

"Blanton does all of the kicking off for the Steers at the start of games, and after touchdowns, as long is he is in the lineup. With one exception he has sent high, slow kicks to between the 10-yard line and the goal line."

ABOVE is the famous Miller guarantee that shocked the Tire industry of America into a realization that Miller had dealt a fatal blow to mileage guarantees.

Read it—you will readily see why this unsurpassable guarantee created a sensation among tire makers and tire dealers as well as among motorists.

When this startling guarantee was first announced we were besieged with such questions as "Do you mean it?" and "How can you do it?" We know why we can do it—just as you will know after you've used Miller Tires.

It has caused thousands to buy their first set of Miller Tires. The reason is obvious. It's the only kind of guarantee that insures maximum value for your dollars. Read it again, and judge whether this is true.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. (AP)—Declines from a slight opening advance were followed by renewed firmness in cotton here late today with prices advancing sharply during the last half hour on covering and commission house buying. New December contracts after selling at 10.65 at the opening declined to 10.38 but rallied to 10.72 on the late spurt of demand and closed at 10.68 compared with 10.61 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 7 to 16 points.

The opening was steady at net advances of 1 to 5 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and some overnight buying orders which were probably brought in by the action of yesterday's market.

The opinion was expressed in some quarters here that part of the late buying may have been promoted by Washington advices referring to investment possibilities in commodities, and proposed international discussions regarding the disposition of surpluses, while others were inclined to attribute it to a renewal of pre-bureau covering and a comparative scarcity of contracts in the late trading.

Liverpool cables reported continental buying and covering in that market but said demand from cloth and yarn was restricted with buyers cautious. Exports today 71,747, making 1,323,750 so far this season. Port receipts 73,074. U. S. port stocks 2,627,607.

Futures closed steady. 7 to 10 points higher; spot steady; middling 10.55.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 2. (AP)—The cotton market was rather quiet and easier most of the day but rallied sharply in the late trading and closed at a moderate net advance. Liverpool was a good deal better than due but the opening here failed to meet the improvement abroad with gains of only 1 to 2 points. The market then eased off slightly but soon rallied 4 to 5 points. Later in the morning prices eased off under pressure of hedge selling and on the disappointing stock market, losing by early afternoon 23 to 26 points from the highs.

In the late afternoon the market bulged sharply on news that a big New York operator had covered 25,000 bales which started shorts covering and Wall street buying, advancing prices 23 to 32 points from the lows. The close was a shade under the best, but steady at net gains on the day of 5 to 9 points.

Liverpool came in 3 to 4 points better than due. After easing off a couple of points prices rallied to 10.60 for December and 10.70 for January, up 3 to 5 points compared with the previous close.

Prices soon started to react and despite occasional rallies, dropped to 10.37 for December and 10.49 for January, down 21 to 23 points. This was the position at noon. In the early afternoon December eased to 10.34, and January to 10.46, or 21 points below the previous close. In the late afternoon the bulge forced December up to 10.66 and January to 10.75, up 29 to 32 points from the lows, due to heavy covering. The close was near the best with active months up 6 to 8 points.

Port receipts 72,902, for week 441,411, for season 2,500,932, last season 1,973,414. Exports 66,575, for week 290,550, for season 1,296,514, last season 1,973,414. Port stock 2,634,929, last year 1,216,448. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 80,521, last year 102,488. Spot sales at southern markets 58,867, last year 66,759.

Futures closed steady at net advance of 5 to 9 points.

Heavy Liquidation Setback To Upward Trend of Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. (US)—The recovery in the stock market was halted today by the renewal of heavy liquidation and selling by professional operators. Substantial setbacks occurred in most of the pivotal stocks as well as the specialties before the market encountered any important support. As a matter of fact, virtually all of the improvement recorded during the preceding session was wiped out by the steady flood of liquidation. Towards the close, however, a substantial covering movement set in which cancelled approximately half of the earlier losses. This recovery left the average of final prices approximately three points below Wednesday's closing levels. Leading commodities also participated in the late recovery, both cotton and wheat closing higher. Trading was smaller than that witnessed recently, total transactions amounting 2,300,000 as compared with 3,100,000 in the preceding session.

The rapidity of the covering movement Wednesday unquestionably weakened the technical position of the market with the result that stocks proved more vulnerable to selling pressure earlier in the day. It was significant, however, that important banking interests again extended support to the list slightly above the low points established earlier in the week. This was regarded as a further indication that the more important financial leaders were not inclined to permit reactionary tendencies to proceed too far at the present time. Support again was most pronounced in United States Steel and American Can both of which encountered impressive buying on a scale down. Action of these two leaders naturally had a stimulating effect upon sentiment in speculative circles.

Several weak spots, however, were uncovered by the repeated bear raids earlier in the session. Among the more important of these was United Fruit, Case Threshing, International Harvester and United Aircraft all of which were subjected to heavy professional selling. Pressure against Case and Harvester aroused comment in view of the improvement in wheat and other grains. Bears, however, continued to reiterate reports that earnings of these companies would prove disappointing. Nevertheless, Case encountered better support on the decline than it had in recent sessions.

News developments of the day were rather unimportant and had little direct bearing upon the course of prices. Traders in general were more concerned over the internal position of the market than over other developments. Business advices were a trifle more encouraging, but these were overlooked during the period when selling pressure was most pronounced. Reports from manufacturing centers indicated that buying of raw materials was increasing due to the attractive levels at which most commodities were selling. Reports also were current of movement to extend the scope of these operations.

Virtually all of the important stocks participated in the late recovery, with the result that net changes were rather insignificant. Steel closed 2¼ points lower, General Electric 1⅜ points lower. Can ⅜ of a point lower and Westinghouse Electric up ⅛ of a point. International Telephone and Telegraph was a strong spot, rallying more than two points.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 2. (AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today with fewer second hand offerings of gray cloths. Raw silk continued on very low basis and inactive. Silk goods were selling moderately. Worsted dresses and suits were selling better than a year ago. Men's wear was quiet. Holidays in Calcutta burlap markets led to quiet trading here.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 2. (AP)—Domestic demand for wheat continues good on the cash grain market today with mills bidding 90 to 91c for No. 1 hard wheat delivered Texas common points. Export demand was nil. Fair demand was reported for corn, oats and barley. Sorghums were slow sale.

Receipts were light, being estimated as follows: Wheat, 3 cars; corn, 6, and barley, 1.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 95@96c; No. 2 white 97@98; No. 2 yellow 99½ to 1.00½.

Oats, No. 2 red 50½@51c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group one points 48½@49c, to which add one cent for delivery group three.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally 1.75@1.78; No. 2 kaffir 1.45@1.47.

Barley, No. 2 nominally 67@68.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 2. (AP)—Despite lively profit-taking, wheat scored fresh price bulges today, with reports current that foreign countries were negotiating for big purchases on long time credit. Europeans were estimated to have taken more than 2,000,000 bushels of North American wheat today, including some from the United States. Chairman Legge of the federal farm board was quoted as saying that countries overseas would purchase 100,000,000 bushels more wheat this winter, and that he thought they would have no trouble financing that amount.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1-1⅜c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed at 1¼-2c advance, oats ⅛-⅜c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 35c.

Sharp attention on the part of wheat traders was given to statements ascribed to Chairman Legge that commodities were down to an investment level. Another stimulating factor was word that drouth damage to wheat in Australia was serious, and that desired general rains in Argentina were still lacking. Violent upturns in wheat quotations at Liverpool also were an incentive to friends of higher prices here, especially as the action of the Liverpool market was in the face of new reports of heavy selling of wheat abroad by Russia.

Corn and oats followed the leadership of wheat, with corn affected also by disappointing husking returns. Authoritative estimates were current that the Nov. 1 carryover of old corn would total but 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels compared with a five-year average of 102,000,000 bushels.

Provisions went higher on account of unexpected reductions shown in Chicago stocks of lard.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, December 79¾-80, 83⅜; March 83½, 87⅛; May 86⅝-90⅛. Corn, December 82⅜-½, 85⅝-¾; March 83⅜, 87½; May 85¾-⅞, 89⅛-¼.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Oct. 2. (US)—Traders felt the wheat market acted remarkably well today. It was to be expected that realizing would appear on a reaction of around 6c. There was good demand for the offerings on the dips and prices are still at a level low enough to discourage active reinstatement of short lines to add to pressure of realizing and hedging.

Broomhall says that Russian collections of grain are disappointing and that up to the 25th of the month totaled only 59 per cent of the amount planned for September. At the port of Novorossik there are 16 vessels already chartered for October shipment, but it is not certain collections will be sufficient to fill all of these boats.

Thomson & McKinnon say: "The foreign situation appears to be turning stronger and this is the one thing needed to restore confidence and inspire buying in our market."

The sale of 60,000 bushels of barley out of the Chicago market for October shipment, the largest barley transaction in many months, was reported today. Destination was not revealed.

POGUE PRAISES UNIT OIL PLAN

Petroleum Engineers Meet At Tulsa

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 2. (AP)—Unit operation of oil pools offers the most promising means available for placing production of crude petroleum on a sound economic basis, Joseph E. Pogue of New York, consulting engineer and petroleum economist, told the petroleum division, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, here today.

"To bring the production of crude oil to a sound basis," he said, "will require elimination of a vast 'potential' that has banked up, only a turn-of-the-valve removed from the market, or at least the uneconomic portion of the potential; a radical reduction in production costs, and the exclusion of methods that create waste, either of oil or gas.

These three requirements are closely related and it requires no extended discussion to indicate that unit operation of oil pools offers the most promising means for bringing about these improvements."

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 2. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Curtailed hog receipts around the 11-market circuit prompted another price advance of 10-35, light weights showing the most gain. The day's extreme top of $10.00 was paid at Chicago and St. Louis. Offerings were around 53,300.

Fat lambs trade was spotted and uneven but on the average prices were little changed. Chicago had a top of $8.25 on both mediums and rangers while at Kansas City choice range lambs sold up to $7.75. The supply approximated 96,300.

Receipts of cattle were estimated at 22,600. Medium weight and heavy beef steers found a dull outlet at values weak with the recent sharp decline. Chicago had a top of $13.10 on yearlings but at the same market strictly choice heavy steers landed at $12.00. Fed steers with weight are going at $8.50-11.00. Rough 1210-lb. grass steers in Kansas City landed at $6.25.

'Sunny Jim' as Golden State Governor To Typify Pioneer Spirit of old '49

By GEORGE D. CRISSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Next year when James Rolph Jr. is governor of California, the mansion at Sacramento will house a man who represents, as much as a modern could, the pioneer spirit of the Golden State—the days of '49.

Rolph, for 19 years mayor of San Francisco, his native city, won the Republican gubernatorial nomination in the recent primary. In California the Republican nomination is tantamount to election.

"Sunny Jim"

San Francisco's genial mayor, known as "Sunny Jim," will be the first native son to be the state's chief executive since Hiram W. Johnson resigned as governor to become United States senator back in 1917.

There is in California a fraternal organization, "The Native Sons of the Golden West," and Rolph always has taken an active part in the affairs of his home chapter in the Mission district.

A friendly man is this Rolph of San Francisco, a big white-haired gentleman of 60, who dresses exceedingly well and in excellent taste, although he will wear no footwear except a specially made boot which pulls over the foot in the manner of a riding boot.

Personal appeal is the basis of his political success, overshadowing his business efficiency. His eyes twinkle easily and even husky laboring men feel the strength of his handshake. No matter who you are or what your station, "Sunny Jim" is always sunny.

Friend to Irish

It is said of "Jim" Rolph that he is at home at a Catholic wake or a Methodist conference. The Irish vote of San Francisco, an important political factor, has been his to command for years—the Italian district has always favored him too—and some of his principal backers in the recent primary campaign were Jews.

Rolph sounded a peculiar note in the primary campaign. Rival candidates attacked him, and each other, bitterly, but Rolph flew from county to county in an airplane and told the Californians how wonderful California was and how he would like to have the world know of the charms in this state of "sky-scraping mountains and lowly plains." No word of criticism was breathed against anyone and California liked his geniality sufficiently well to nominate him by a majority of 25,000 over the nearest of his two rivals.

Balls Reinstated

Sacramento will be a different place after Rolph is governor. He made that clear early in his campaign. The splendid inaugural balls of long ago, abandoned in recent years, will be reinstated. Open house will prevail and Californians will have a good time. Gracious Rolph, spreading words of cheer in his beautiful and excellent English, will be everywhere and the millionaire from Los Angeles or San Francisco will receive the same flattering attention as will be accorded those of lowly position.

It seems that the man likes "folks" and in turn the "folks" like him.

NEWS of the FIELD

CONSOLIDATED LOCATION

The Consolidated Oil company has staked out location for its No. 1 W. S. Bailey test to be drilled 750 feet from the south, and 450 feet from the west lines of section 60, T. E. & L. survey, one mile west of Orth in Young county.

BAYLOR COUNTY TEST

Fain & McGaha No. H-1, located in section 3141, T. E. & L. survey, W. H. Portwood ranch in southeast Baylor county, has been completed as a dry hole at 1505 feet.

BACK TO THE STATES

Lester A. Luecke of the geological department of the Venezuela-Gulf Oil company, stationed at Maraciabo field in Venezuela, South America, is home for a visit with his relatives in this city.

NORTHEAST OF JEAN

Wooten & Reed No. 2 J. A. Horton, located 1050 feet south and 750 feet east of the northwest corner of section 1906, T. E. L. survey, three miles northeast of Jean in Young county, is on the pump rated at 125 barrels from the 604 foot pay. The well, which is a semi-wildcat one and one-half miles west of the Langford shallow pool, drilled six feet of rich sand and the first hour gauge of flush production showed 55 barrels. At present the well is making five barrels per hour.

Agent Advises Wheat Treating Before Planting

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 2.—Wheat should be treated with ceresan before being planted, according to Louis H. Beaty, county demonstration agent, as this will cause better germination and afford a better stand. Ceresan has been on the market several years and can be obtained at the drug stores.

Beaty says ceresan should be mixed with wheat in a tight barrel or other like container as it is dangerous to mix it in the open.

Fire Destroys Home While Family Is Away

Special to The Record News.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, Oct. 2.—Fire of undertermined origin wiped out the home of Harvey Boggs, 1000 South Miller street late Tuesday night.

Fire Chief Drake said Wednesday that the Boggs family was out of the city. Firemen were at loss to announce the cause of the fire.

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.
Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.
Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.
Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.
Ads accepted for afternoon paper up until 11 a. m. same day.
Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.
Sunday paper up to 7 o'clock Saturday night.
Same copy in both papers.
THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS from 4 to 6 p. m. and telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.
Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.
The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

THE AGE Of YOUTH

thing in an unforgettable ballad, but he was arriving, through misery, at a philosophy of his own.

"Sometimes," he went on, "we resent love. I don't know why, but I know I do. A man wants to be free. I know I do, anyway. And love—well, you don't belong to yourself any more when you're in love. And I've always wanted to own myself. That's why I ran away from you that first time."

He turned now and looked at her.

"Yet all the time I knew I wasn't getting away from you. I even quit drinking—and it wasn't so easy, either—because of you. Don't ask me why I did that, if I kept telling myself that I'd not see you, didn't want to see you. We deceive ourselves, you know, more than we ever deceive others.

"Now, I know what you are, Miss Raynor. Any fool would know just by looking at you. You're fine, that is all. Yet, because I'm fighting against something that's happened to me, because I resent its happening, I insult you. Because Libby Prentiss says something in a letter about Ran Granby, I go hot all over when I see you with him.

"I know you're not that kind, but—then you don't seem to like me. It doesn't seem to matter to you what I do. So I started drinking. Then you came into that night and—I went crazy. I wanted to hurt you. You'd been hurting me, see? I had no right to expect anything but hurt from you—I mean to say, you didn't know me. Why should you even notice that I was on earth?

"But it hurt just the same, and I struck back. You with some one else! Then I was ashamed and sorry and came down here—but you know the rest of it. Then, a little while ago, you telephoned me. I don't know why, yet. Unless it's because you're so fine that you guessed my misery and were being kind.

"But what's the use of my going on? It's crazy, I guess, to feel this way about a girl you've barely seen, and insane to tell her about it. Especially after what I've done. But my God, I have to tell you. It—it's part of my due for being—what I am—that I've got to let you know, so that I can suffer all the more at your contempt. There ought to be something amusing in it. I injured you because I love you; I'm asking you to marry the man you must despise more than any one on earth."

"But you are asking me to marry you, aren't you?" she said softly. She hated herself for the very gentleness of her voice, the softness that made insinuation more beguiling.

He stared at her.

"Of course I am. I'm telling you that I'm mad about you and want you to marry me. Now laugh at me and I'll go."

He turned away to the window, then wheeled and stared at her. The misery in his eyes gave way to a wild incredulity.

"I'm not laughing," she said.

He took a faltering step toward her.

"And—and I haven't told you to go," she said.

He was close to her now, towering above her, looking down on her from, it seemed, from some overpowering height. She was suddenly frightened, not of him, but of what she was doing. In an unconscious gesture of defense, she put her hands upon his chest.

Then her wrists were pinioned in his big hands.

"Donna, Donna, you don't mean—"

"I'll marry you," she whispered.

The hands released her wrists, gripped her shoulders, drew her to him. She saw his face close to hers, felt the faintest touch of his lips upon hers, and then, frightened she was struggling against him.

"Not—not yet," she cried.

He released her instantly.

"Not now—or ever, until you wish, my dear," he said gently. "If only—if you do care—" He paused.

"I've said I'd marry you," she whispered.

Something of radiance lighted his face. Her own features darkened. Nothing he had done to her deserved this cruelty which she was doing to him. Nevertheless, she would go on with it. She would go on with it despite a stirring within her, an as yet undefined urge toward—something.

With a grave gentleness he led her to a chair. He stood before her, and she averted her face lest he see and understand the crimson burst of shame.

"To begin with injury," he said "is maybe better than to start with something else and end in injury. My dear, what hurt there is for one who loves to give to the object of his love, I have given you. Never again, tell me some day that you have utterly forgiven me—"

There is always something pathetic in broken strength. Here was a man whose strength was reenforced by pride, yet weakened now by an emotion which, never having experienced, she could not fully comprehend. The very gentleness of his manner was foreign to him, she knew. His was the reckless, devil-may-care spirit of the age; yet, because of her, he was sensitive, spiritually alarmed by her.

She felt the impulse to tell him the meanness that actuated her, to tell him, before it was so late that his hurt would be almost mortal, that she didn't care for him, never could care for him, and had accepted him merely to gain certain ends.

But our most exalted intentions may be sidetracked by the most trivial thing. The course of our lives may be deflected by an unimportance. The telephone rang just as Donna was about to speak.

Answering it gave her time, time in which to phrase the words which would expose her duplicity. She crossed the room and took off the receiver. For a moment, so busy was she phrasing her confession to Gardner, she hardly heard the voice at the other end of the wire. Then a reiterated statement that the speaker wished to talk to Miss Raynor brought her from the immediate future back to the more immediate present.

"Why—this is Miss Raynor," she said.

"This is Fannie Curlew. My dear, are you engaged tonight?"

"No," said Donna.

"Then—I've been talking to my husband and—he's as interested as I am, my dear. And we'd planned two tables of bridge after dinner tonight. But just now the Fenelons telephoned. She's got a dreadful cold, got worse during the day, is in bed, and simply can't go out. We thought of another couple, but my husband—we'd just been talking of you—suggested that you get hold of some man—can you get a man at this late hour?"

"Just a moment," said Donna.

She put her palm against the receiver and spoke to Gardner.

"Mrs. Curlew. Wants me—and a man—for dinner and bridge."

Gardner put a hand to his face.

"I look so . . ."

"Nonsense," whispered Donna. "You had a taxi accident."

All thought of mercy, all repentance had left her now. Mrs. Curlew's telephone call had revived her fear of the future. And Gardner's reference to his appearance revived memories of last night's savagery. No, he deserved nothing from her.

"If you wish," he replied.

She spoke into the telephone again.

"Why, yes, I can bring a man. I can bring Frank Gardner."

She heard a gasp of amazement from Mrs. Curlew.

"Frank Gardner? My child, is he there—with you now?"

"Yes," said Donna.

"But, my dear, after last night—you can't afford—"

"But when a man is in love," said Donna, "he must be forgiven a lot, mustn't he?"

She hoped that Gardner would not feel the vulgarity of her attitude, more pronounced than any vulgarity of speech.

"In love—my child—"

She interrupted the incredulous gasping utterance of Mrs. Curlew.

"He's told me about telephoning you, Mrs. Curlew," she said. "And he—well, in view of everything—wait a moment."

Again she muffled the receiver and spoke to Gardner:

"May I tell her—of our engagement?"

If he felt that he would have preferred to keep the matter secret for even a few hours, he did not indicate the preference to her. Perhaps, still incredulous of his good fortune, he somehow thought that she made that fortune the more definite by announcing it to some one.

"Of course," he said.

"Frank and I are engaged," she said.

"Well, I never," Cried Mrs. Curlew. She was not of Park avenue now, but the middle-class helpmate of a middle-class man. "I swan, my child, I never in my . . .

"Won't you congratulate me?" asked Donna.

"I congratulate him," said Mrs. Curlew. "And yes, you, too, my dear. Of course, he acted terribly last night, but a man in love is apt to be unreasonable, and we women must make allowances for that."

"And may I bring him to dinner?" asked Donna.

"Why, my child, you don't want to see any one tonight. You two children want to be alone—and I couldn't keep the secret if you were both here."

"But we don't want you to keep the secret," said Donna. "You have been so kind to me that—that I'd wish you to tell—to be the first to know."

Shrewdly she guessed that Mrs. Curlew would not be averse to being first aware of the engagement of so prominent a bachelor as Frank Gardner.

"I feel flattered at your wishing that, Donna, my dear," said Mrs. Curlew. "Why—it will be like—an engagement party, won't it? I—why, I'll have Jake announce it at dinner—the Fairleighs are coming—you know them—they'll be so thrilled. Eighty-thirty, darling."

"Eighty-thirty," said Donna.

She hung up, feeling somehow cheapened. This was not the way her engagement should be announced. Mrs. Curlew was an acpuaintance of 24 hours' standing, and there was something common in letting her know of the engagement one minute after it had become a fact. Donna couldn't tell exactly what was wrong with it, but she felt something. Of course, she had no near relatives; no one, in fact, to whom she would have turned for that sponsoring which the engaged girl needs. But she had had no sponsoring thus far, and could have done without any.

The Curlews, of course, would think she was so elated over her good fortune in acquiring the great catch that she couldn't wait . . . . That didn't matter. No false pride would ever bother her. Moreover, Mrs. Curlew would know that Donna could not delay in letting her engagement become known.

After all, only today at luncheon Mrs. Curlew had told Donna that an engagement to an eligible man was the only way out. Mme. Galere had reiterated the same advice, and had suggested Gardner as the fiance. Mrs. Curlew, too, had told Donna that she was in love with Gardner.

What more natural than that Donna should tell of her newly discovered happiness—as Mrs. Curlew would think of it—to the woman who had offered to befriend her, who would believe that she had read her heart, and to whom Gardner had already professed regret for his accusation of last night?

From the Curlew angle, and from her own angle, it was all right. Only, if Gardner shouldn't think so.

But the radiant countenance she gazed upon proved that there was no criticism of her in her heart.

"Now," he said. "I believe it."

"Believe it?" she echoed.

"That you are really going to marry me," he said. "If you'll tell people about it—"

He advanced upon her. For the first time in her life she felt a man's possessiveness reach out, like some material thing, and envelop her. The newly engaged girl, or the bride, does not object to this. It is a proof of the great value that the lover sets upon her. But the long-married woman finds it irksome, boring, unreasonable.

And Donna, not loving the man, found it repugnant. But this she must not show, and did not show; she hid it under an alarm which Gardner took as evidence of maidenly shyness.

He dropped his extended arms to his sides. But she was not deceived by his complaisance. One as fiery as he had shown himself to be would not be content for long with words. It was doubtful, she knew, if he could refrain from kissing her for another 10 minutes. And if she refused his caress . . . well, maidenly shyness would serve as an excuse for only the briefest time.

The flush that mounted her cheeks was not of maidenly embarrassment, as he had every right to suppose, but of burning resentment.

But how could he guess this? He only knew that she stepped nearer to him, that she was in his arms, that her lips did not evade his own. He released her at length. She was trembling, conscious that she had returned his kiss, hating herself for having done so but not hating the caress itself.

Her eyes were wondering, soft. Could it be possible that she cared for him?

He had his own reply to her unspoken question.

"Now I know," he said. "Now I know." He repeated it again, as though iteration brought him some great inner satisfaction, as though it were some religious chant which must be repeated over and over again for the satisfaction of some inner spiritual urge.

"Know?" she said, hardly aware that she uttered the questioning monosyllable.

"That you love me," he said triumphantly.

He reached for her again, but this time she evaded him.

"Please." She thrilled at the feeling of power as he instantly obeyed her. "I—it's late—almost 8. I have to dress—go, this instant."

He grinned delightedly at her tone of command.

"Your slave obeys," he laughed. "And I'll call for you—just as soon as I'm dressed."

He had too much tact to press the victory which he felt that he had won. He blew her a kiss and dashed to the door. As she went into her bedroom she heard the outer door slam behind his hasty departure.

She rang for Jennie and the maid appeared instantly. Her homely countenance was a study in repression. Donna could almost hear the hundred questions that trembled on the maid's lips.

Enetirely aside from other more vital matters, why did her mistress, having already donned — rather early—a dress suitable for the evening, wish to change now? Donna could not have answered that question herself. Perhaps she found some surcease from self-reproach, from self-questioning, in physical activity.

CANNON WANTS TO SEE CHARGE

Bishop Resumes Work in Capital Office

By PIERCE MILLER
(Copy't, 1930, International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2—Showing few signs of stress or worry, Bishop James Cannon Jr., arch foe of liquor and temporal delinquencies usually connected therewith, today revealed himself as awaiting a chance to see the charges filed against him by four travelling elders of the Methodist Episcopal church, South.

Cannon, after a seclusion of two days with his bride, has taken up the threads of his work with the board of temperance and social service of the Southern Methodist church—or at least is again occupying the offices he maintains here for that organization in the shadow of the capitol.

Residence Kept Secret.

The residence of Cannon and the bride he took to Brazil only to have his honeymoon interrupted by the charges he now faces, remains a carefully guarded secret—known only to friends and intimate associates. They won't tell, nor will the fiery bishop.

As to the charges now locked up in the archives of Bishop W. N. Ainsworth at Birmingham, Ala., Cannon made only two disclosures. He has not yet seen them, but for the first time he admitted that the filing of them brought him back from Brazil.

"The only thing I care to say about the charges," he declared, "is that I have not yet seen them. Until I do and have a chance to digest them, there will be nothing.

"I had intended staying in Brazil until November, but as soon as I heard of the charges, I returned."

Cannon bridled a bit at mention of his interrupted honeymoon.

"Is there anything you care to say about your honeymoon plans," he was asked. "Will you resume it?"

Silent on Plans.

"I have nothing to say about that or about my marriage," he replied. "I feel that is nobody's business. I will not discuss that."

"I intend to remain at my office for a time. I may travel around the country—I do not know just what I will do.

"Here I have my newspapers and books. I do a good deal of reading, and I have my writing to do and possibly comments to make on the various matters in which I am interested."

JEWS OBSERVE YOM KIPPUR

All Day Services Held At Temple Israel

Large crowds were present at Temple Israel throughout the entire day Thursday from 10 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. in attendance at Yom Kippur services conducted by Rabbi S. J. Schwab and local musicians.

Yom Kippur, or "The Day of Atonement," followed the observance of Kolnidre Wednesday night. Rabbi Schwab spoke at four services during the day, his subject at the opening hour being "Beware of False Morality." Special services also were held at 1 p. m., 3:30 p. m. and 4:30 p. m. The 3:30 o'clock meeting was given to a memorial service, and included two solos by Mrs. Nelle Lowery, soprano. The Temple Israel choir of Mrs. G. A. Fletcher, Miss Ruth Wilcox and George Taylor sang in the 1 o'clock service.

Visitors from out-of-town points represented a considerable part of the congregation present at the various meetings held Wednesday and Thursday, including families from New York, New Orleans, Kansas City and Little Rock.

Rivalry Keen For Carnival Crowds

Competition is the life of trade. That is an old adage, but it has never lost its newness to four showmen with Beckmann and Gerety's shows at the baseball park. Several times a day the quartet meets amicably and then turns about face to renew war. There is no peace among showmen when it comes to getting business.

One is Jack Shafer, veteran magician and showman. The second is Harry Palmer, likewise an old time showman, but with no "magic" in his system. The third is Cassius Miller, (they call him "Cash" for short). The fourth is Joe Darpel, side show talker.

Shafer saws a woman in half, shoots another through the body with golden bullets, changes place with a third in a trunk that is locked and bound with rope.

Miller tells the crowds on the midway of Beckmann and Gerety's shows what a wonderful collection of "interest and entertainment he has in his 'Congress of Human Wonders.'"

Palmer is one of those thrilling talkers that lead the foid to the ticket box in front of the silo-autodrome to go in to see the daring girl rider race the big Nubian lion.

Darpel declares he has the greatest show in the world—the only one presenting to the American public the only living double-bodied man, Jean Libbera.

All during show hours they fight for patronage, each striving to outdo the others in the final count. This they never get. None of the four will tell what his day's business is. The man who checks up with them is closer than the next second when it comes to talking out of school.

Grid Team Presented At School Assembly

Members of the high school football team were introduced to the student body of the high school and Junior college at their regular assembly Thursday morning by Coach Barry Holton. Announcements were made concerning the Wichita Falls-Lubbock game Saturday, and a short pep rally was held, honoring the team. Clarence (Barney) Ashton, cheer leader for the boys' pep squad, led the yells.

The first of a series of weekly pep rallies will be Friday evening at 7 o'clock at the Junior college, according to an announcement made by Coach Holton Thursday.

Mr. X, representative of the Wichita Daily Times and Record News, was the principal speaker during the chapel hour. He was introduced by J. H. Allison.

AUTO BURNS

Forty gallons of chemicals was used in extinguishing a fire early Thursday morning which wrecked an automobile belonging to A. L. Hamilton, 206 Scott avenue, according to J. L. McClure, fire chief. The car had been parked in the yard earlier in the night.

A recommended list of movies will be announced regularly from the Texas Federation of Women's clubs hereafter. The federation shows surprising sagacity in printing those which they recommend rather than those which they propose to ban. A banned list would pack the theaters.

It would be difficult to get a very long list of recent movies that could be recommended for children, although most of them give the audience credit for about 10-year-old intelligence. "Grumpy" and "The Silent Enemy" are examples of a type that could be enthusiastically approved for children—a type that includes entirely too few productions.

The idea of grade school children spending their afternoons seeing such pictures as "The Divorcee," "Anybody's Woman" or "Monte Carlo," commendable though those pictures are for a normally sophisticated mind, is appalling. Yet it is too prevalent in Wichita Falls as well as elsewhere.

The trouble is that mothers who belong to the Texas federation will already know what their children should see. There are too many outside the fold like the one on a Texas train who recently reproached her small daughter as follows: "Well, why didn't ya say so if you wanted a Confession magazine instead of Child Life? It woulda cost a nickel less, anyhow!"

Some time ago, Paramount announced the return of Jackie Coogan, who, with Junior Durkin of stage fame, is to be presented in "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn." When such a move is started, it is certainly to be hoped that American childhood keeps on rolling the ball for some more dramatized childhood classics.

1,205 ENROLL IN BAPTIST CLASS

Students From 15 Churches Listed in School

A total enrollment of 1,205 students was reported Thursday night at the Baptist Sunday school enlargement and adjustment campaign which is being conducted at the First Baptist church this week. The enrollment includes students from the 15 local churches.

The school opened Monday evening and will close with the graduating exercises Suday afternoon at the Baptist church. Dr. O. L. Powers will give the principal address.

The feature of Thursday's conference was a talk by G. S. Hopkins, of Dallas, state Sunday school secretary, when he discussed the various problems encountered in Sunday school work.

Friday will be given over to a visitation campaign when the entire school will visit prospective members for the Sunday school. The campaign is being conducted by Walter Jackson of Abilene and Andrew Allen, assistant state Sunday school secretary, of Dallas.

Negro Awarded $800 For Crash Injuries

Joe Jeter, negro, was awarded damages approximating $800 by a jury before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Thursday afternoon in his suit against the Wichita Falls Traction company alleging injuries to have resulted from a traffic collision at the corner of Thirteenth and Holliday streets several weeks ago.

Evidence offered in trial of the suit revealed that Jeter was a passenger on a west-bound street car which collided with an ambulance which was traveling north on Holliday street. Sensing the crash, according to his own testimony, he arose from his seat only to be hurled under another by the impact as the two cars met.

Loss of time from work, medical bills already incurred, medical attention yet to be required, and further loss of employment were the items for which damages were allowed, according to the information given.

REPAIR PERMIT

A repair permit totalling $1,000 was granted Thursday by F. M. Rugeley, city engineer, to the New Ice company for the purpose of repairing its building at 601 Burnett street. The work will begin immediately and be completed within 60 days.
