Judge Orders Sanity Hearing for Jack Ruby

Trial Date Set for March 29

DALLAS (UPI)—Judge Joe B. Brown today ordered a sanity trial for condemned slayer Jack Ruby on March 29.

In less than 30 minutes, Brown, the judge who presided at Ruby's murder trial one year ago, listened to arguments and assigned two attorneys to represent Ruby at the sanity trial.

Ruby was led into court for the hearing from his maximum security cell on an upper floor of the courthouse. The slayer of presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald was pale, but looked healthy. It was his first public appearance in 10 months.

Asked how he felt, he replied: "Fine, thank you."

Brown ordered attorneys Joe Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., and Phil Burleson of Dallas to represent Ruby at the sanity trial.

They had aided Melvin Belli of San Francisco in the murder trial defense.

"The reason I am appointing you and Mr. Burleson," Brown told Tonahill, "is because you tried the case."

This was a blow to the Ruby family. Ruby's sisters and brothers wanted Tonahill removed.

The prosecution made no attempt to oppose a sanity trial for the 54-year-old Ruby. The main issue was the argument over who would represent him. The judge overruled defense motions for a pre-trial hearing and for a change of venue that would put the sanity trial in another Texas city.

Sanity trial by jury is standard in Texas in cases where a prisoner's sanity is questioned. The state court of criminal appeals ordered Brown to determine whether there should be a sanity trial because Ruby had tried to write off Tonahill and Tonahill refused to leave the case. The appeals court said it could not decide Ruby's appeal until it knew whether he was sane enough to pick his own lawyers.

If adjudged insane by a jury Ruby would be committed to a state mental institution. All question of his death sentence would be put off until such time as he was found sane again.

His sanity at the time he shot Oswald was not in question.

Federal Agent Attacked, Three Arrested in Selma

SELMA, Ala. (UPI)—State troopers and deputies on horseback, under orders from Gov. George Wallace to stop a "freedom" march to the state capital, Sunday tear-gassed 600 Negroes and sent them reeling and bleeding under the lashes of clubs, bull whips and ropes.

At least 67 Negroes were injured in the melee, including integration leader John Lewis who suffered a possible skull fracture.

Two hospitals—Good Samaritan and Burwell Infirmary—reported early today 17 Negroes were hospitalized with broken arms and legs, head injuries, hysteria and other injuries. None was in critical condition.

A policeman was struck when Negroes, in the only reported retaliation, hurled bricks and bottles.

Agent's Camera Smashed—An FBI agent, taking pictures as horsemen chased Negroes, was attacked by three white men and his camera smashed. Federal charges were filed early today against Jimmy George Robinson, 26; Noel Cooper, 21; and Randall Kendrick, 21, all of Selma, for attacking FBI agent Daniel D. Doyle. Doyle was not injured.

All three men were jailed in lieu of $3,000 bond after a hearing before a U. S. commissioner.

All of the town's doctors—white and Negro—were called to Good Samaritan Hospital. One white physician said the place looked as though there had been a "moderate disaster."

The place where officers intercepted the Negroes near Edward Pettus Bridge over the Alabama River resembled a battle scene with abandoned bedrolls, and clothing lying mingled with spent tear gas shells.

Promises Another March

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who said he remained in Atlanta during the short-lived march Sunday on the advice of his aides, announced he would personally lead a renewed march Tuesday "in spite of the dangers."

In Washington, the Justice

Department said it has asked the FBI for a "full and prompt investigation" of reports that law enforcement officers and others used unnecessary force to disperse the civil rights marchers.

LBJ Asks Help For Law Officers

By HALE MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson called today for a beefed-up federal and local law enforcement to attack what he called the "malignant enemy" of growing crime in the United States.

In a special message to Congress, Johnson asked for a comprehensive program including a federal ban on all firearms shipments in interstate commerce. Only exceptions would be among importers, manufacturers and dealers licensed by the Treasury.

In a lengthy message to the House and Senate, the Chief Executive said there was no suggestion of federal interference through a national police force in the primary police responsibilities of state and local governments.

But Johnson said "crime is no longer merely a local problem."

"The time has come, he said, for a multiple, cooperative federal-state-local effort to 'arrest and reverse the trend toward lawlessness' which is costing the country tens of billions of dollars annually, plus countless lives and many injuries."

The President called this the essence of his program:

"Increased federal law enforcement efforts; assistance to local law enforcement efforts; a comprehensive, penetrating analysis of the origins and nature of crime in modern America (this analysis to be compiled in a study by a new presidential commission on law enforcement and administration of justice)."

He added:

"This message recognizes that crime is a national problem."

"That recognition does not carry with it any threat to the basic prerogatives of state and local governments."

"It means, rather, that the federal government will henceforth take a more meaningful role in meeting the whole spectrum of problems posed by crime. It means that the federal government will seek to exercise leadership and to assist local authorities in meeting their responsibilities."

The President had announced previously his intention of naming a commission to study the whole field of law enforcement and make recommendations to combat crime.

Sweden Begins Six-Week Period Of Mourning for Queen Louise

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Sweden today began a six-week period of mourning for Queen Louise. The beloved monarch became "our queen" to the Swedish people, because she shopped in Stockholm's stores and markets just like any housewife.

"It was just as natural for her to put on a working apron as it was for her to dress in ermine," a close friend once said about her.

The queen died Sunday at the age of 75. A great-granddaughter of Britain's Queen Victoria, she suffered a blood clot in her right leg last Thursday.

The thrombosis placed an unbearable strain on her heart and circulatory system and a six-hour operation failed to relieve the pressure.

Queen Elizabeth of Britain was one of the first to send messages of sympathy. Queen Louise was the sister of Earl Mountbatten, chief of the British defense staff.

During World War II Louise went to France as a nurse and maintained an interest in nursing throughout her lifetime. She also played a role in the work of the Swedish Red Cross and the Swedish Women's Army Auxiliary Corps.

Before World War I, she did social work in the slums of London. Once, in World War II, she was approached by a new doctor in a battlefield hospital.

"They say you have a princess working here: what is she like?" he asked her.

"She is exactly as ordinary people — just as I am, sir," Louise is said to have replied.

Queen Louise was the daughter of Prince Louis-Alexander of Battenberg and Princess Victoria of Britain, who was the granddaughter of Queen Victoria.

The royal physician said in a communique that she displayed "unusual bravery" during her illness and her death was "quiet and peaceful."

At the queen's bedside when she died were her husband King Gustaf Adolf, 82; three of his children, by his first marriage — Queen Ingrid of Denmark, Prince Bertil, and Count Sigvard Bernadotte — his daughter-in-law, Princess Sibylla; and Queen Louise's sister, Princess Alice of Greece.

India, Poland Rap U.S. Policy in Viet

LONDON (UPI)—Two members of the International Control Commission—India and Poland—today supported Communist charges that American bombing raids on North Viet Nam were "violations of the utmost gravity."

The third member of the commission, Canada, filed a dissenting report which said the raids were "the direct result of intensification of the aggressive policy of North Viet Nam."

The Canadian dissent said the Hanoi regime was trying to overthrow the government in South Viet Nam.

The report was officially released by Britain over Soviet opposition. Britain and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the Geneva agreements on the two Viet Nams, Laos and Cambodia.

The International Control Commission was established by the 1954 Geneva Conference to supervise a hoped-for peace in the former states of French Indochina.

The Indian and Polish commissioners referred to official North Vietnamese documents on air raids carried by American and South Vietnamese planes on Feb. 7 and Feb. 8.

These documents, according to the report, asked the commission "to consider and condemn without delay these violations of utmost gravity."

The India-Poland report released today said "these documents point to the seriousness of the situation and indicate violations of the Geneva agreement."

Observers said that Poland, as a member of the Communist bloc, was expected to back the North Vietnamese charges. India is nonaligned in East-West relations. Canada is a member of the Western alliance.

by Larry Richardson of Pampa, was named Grand Champion today of the Swine division of the Top O' Texas Stock Show.

Reserve Grand Champion was another 215-pounder, this one a Yorkshire swine, shown by Dena Boggett of Canadian.

The judging climaxed the morning-long show which saw approximately 200 barrows checked for placings.

The 20th annual show was paced by Poland China entries as judges named breed champions before selecting a grand champion and reserve champion.

Judge for this morning's show was L. M. Hargrave of the animal husbandry department of Texas Tech in Lubbock.

All ribbons winners in both the swine and cattle divisions will be sold Wednesday during the annual stock sale.

Judging of the cattle division began at 1:30 p.m. Robert Tusek, head of the animal husbandry department at Oklahoma State College, will judge the 85 steers entered in the show. Officials said they hope to name a grand champion by 5 p.m. today.

Today's activities will be highlighted by an exhibitors barbecue scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m.

Silver Lance Battle Started

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (UPI)—Savage fighting raged today between guerrillas and Marines who swarmed ashore here over the weekend to save the embattled mythical nation of Lancelot in Exercise Silver Lance.

As the bitter battle went on here, other U.S. Marines were reported landing in South Viet Nam to protect a vital airfield. Curiously, Silver Lance — the largest peacetime Navy-Marine maneuvers ever held — paralleled the Vietnamese war in many respects.

Battle plans for Silver Lance called for Marines to bolster the forces of Lancelot from attacking guerrillas from Merin. The guerrillas were being supported by Modred.

South Viet Nam, North Viet Nam and Red China bear a striking resemblance to Lancelot, Merin and Modred.

The purpose of the 18-day exercise, involving about 60 ships and 50,000 men, was to train Navy and Marine personnel — from admirals and generals to seamen and privates — in the type of warfare prevalent today throughout the world.

Silver Lance began Feb. 23 when the first units of ships and men sailed from San Diego, Long Beach and San Francisco. They rendezvoused at sea, repelled enemy air-sea attacks and launched two assaults at this base about mid-way between Los Angeles and San Diego.

Two other banquets are set for the four-day affair. At 5 p.m. tomorrow at Pampa High School with the FFA livestock judging awards and presentation of the Frank M. Carter scholarship award.

The third banquet will be the Hereford Breeders' Association banquet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Officials of today's show said the field of entries had set records in the number and quality of stock.

West Gulf Dockers Go Back to Work

HOUSTON (UPI)—The sounds of men and machines working — echoed through the wharves of the port of Houston today ending almost two months of strike-enforced silence.

Today was the first day of regular work for thousands of West Gulf coast members of the International Longshoremen's Association.

A few worked Saturday after their new contract was approved and more worked, at time-and-one-half pay, Sunday, but the full membership was not due on the docks from Lake Charles, La., to Brownsville, Tex., until today.

A number of grain vessels were taking on emergency food for India. General cargo stacks of it, awaited the more than 50 ships waiting here.

Up and down the coast other vessels crammed the port basins waiting to get moving again.

The dock workers are working under a new contract that gives them 30 cents in wage benefits over the next four years.

It also guarantees a minimum work gang size for various cargoes, maintains union control of hiring and protects seniority. The pension plan also got sweetened but management got the right to move work gangs from one vessel to another when the first does not arrive on schedule.

When the full strike, from Maine to Texas, was on it cost the economy around $67 million a day. The biggest ports, New York and New Orleans settled early and went back to work but the West Gulf and South Atlantic ports held out until Saturday.

For longshoremen the agreement came as credit began drying up.

"I made it somehow," Galveston longshoreman Ossie Lee Merjda said. "The Lord provided for me."

Sweden Begins Six-Week Period Of Mourning for Queen Louise

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Sweden today began a six-week period of mourning for Queen Louise of the Swedish Red Cross and Auxiliary Corps.

Pretty Girls Shed Triskedecaphobias

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—I was invited one day this week to watch 13 pretty girls strip off their triskedecaphobias.

Breathing heavily and with eyes rather more beady than usual, I shot over to the Cinderella finishing school where the divestiture was scheduled to take place. Frankly, it was a drag.

It turned out that triskedecaphobia does not mean what I thought it meant. I was under the impression that triskedecaphobia was an old burlesque term.

I was expecting the girls to come out on the runway with nothing but a thin phobia covering their triskedecaphobias in effect they did.

That was when I learned that triskedecaphobia means fear of the number 13. What these girls were shedding were superstitions, rather than inhibitions.

Girls Were Pretty

But I will say this: The girls were pretty, as advertised. So the day was not a total loss.

The superstition-dropping ceremony was conducted by Nick Matsoukas of New York, founder of something called the "National Committee of 13 Against Superstition, Prejudice and Fear."

The girls broke mirrors, walked under ladders, lit three cigarettes with one match, and otherwise defied ancient bad luck-producing symbols.

Income Tax Questions, Answers

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Pampa office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — My income was under $600 last year. Do I have to file a return?

A — Although this question was answered recently, it still comes up frequently.

For those with incomes under $600 the situation is this: if you had income tax withheld, a return must be filed in order to obtain a refund. If you had $400 or more of net income from self-employment, a self-employment tax return must be filed. Use Schedule C-3 and attach to Form 1040 to do this.

If you have no refund coming and no self-employment income to report, then no return is required. The instruction booklet accompanying the 1040 forms explains filing requirements in detail.

Q — I use my car for business trips. Is there an easy way to compute my deduction for this business travel? It's complicated trying to allocate depreciation and other costs between business and pleasure use.

A — You may deduct 10 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use and 7 cents a mile thereafter in lieu of actual expenses and depreciation. There are limitations on who is qualified to use this method. Be sure to check your instruction booklet.

If you do qualify, a speedometer reading at the beginning and the end of each business trip will establish the amount you can deduct. Tolls and parking fees are deductible in addition to the amount for mileage.

Q — My daughter did some baby sitting last year and also had a parttime job in the office at school. She is only 15. Does she have to file a return?

A — Age is not the determining factor. If a minor earned $600 or more then a tax return must be filed.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Another step toward fuller automation of the securities trading industry became effective today when the New York Stock Exchange put into effect a talking computer that gives subscriber members instant information on stock prices by telephone.

A similar system went into effect at the American Stock Exchange last May, and in January the Amex expanded information available through its system.

The NYSE said all member subscribers will be linked to the system by early April. Geographically, it covers about a 50-mile radius around New York City. Distant branch offices of member firms can obtain information from it, if desired, by using their own wire systems or calls to query their head offices here.

More Rapid Information

Aim of the system, like other steps toward automation taken by the exchange, is to provide the most rapid possible information to investors' transactions. The exchange last year put into effect a high-speed ticker system; it soon will introduce an electronically-operated optical card system on the exchange floor which will render obsolete the present manual ticker and quotation operations for each trading post. This car system will feed both the quotation service and the stock tickers, and electronic facilities that will record and store information on a transaction.

The computer system used by the exchange was developed by International Business Machines Corp., and subscribers to the oral quotation service are linked to it by means of a special high speed system developed by the New York Telephone Co.

Answer In Seconds

A member seeking information dials a four-digit number, in about seven seconds, he gets an answer. The system can handle inquiries from 300 subscribers at once without a busy signal. The talking-computer has a special recorded vocabulary of 126 words; the voice is that of Robert Rew, 31, an IBM electrical engineer. Available information includes the bid and asked, or, if desired, the price of the last transaction, the opening, high, low prices, and the volume.

The exchange noted that the telephone system can handle about 400,000 calls in a single day, and that this was about 60 per cent more than the 243,000 inquiries answered May 29, 1962 when stock exchange volume reached 14.7 million shares.

MAY GET DRINK

LONDON (UPI)—Jurors and witnesses at the Old Bailey Court may soon be able to have a drink while they are waiting for their cases to be called. Bars will be set up in the public cafeteria and the jurors' dining room if an application for a beer and wine license is granted.

LUNCHEON PARTY

LONDON (UPI)—The Shah of Iran, visiting here with his wife, gave a luncheon party for Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his wife at the Iranian Embassy.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Market comment:

Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis says "selected companies in the electronics industry appear attractive for prospective growth. And at more reasonable price levels. The fastest growing segment of the industry — and the one about which we are most enthusiastic — is industrial electronics. The most exciting areas: Computers and electronic data processing equipment."

Bache & Co. says the market had taken the latest bombing incident in Viet Nam in stride, and "it would appear to us the market is more attuned to the domestic economy and those industries which are prospering are likely to be favored in the market place. Groups such as the airlines, textiles, vending, electronics and other seasoned sectors are expected to perform well in the months ahead. We would be inclined to limit new purchases to these areas."

NEW YORK (UPI)—Market comment:

The stock market shows no evidence at all of "running scared" because of the situation in Viet Nam or the steel strike threat, several market letters observe. W. E. Hutton & Co. says that, on the contrary, investors and speculators "are getting more brave." The Hutton letter speculates on how large market volume must get before it looks suspiciously like a "selling area." The Hutton analyst's own estimate is an average of better than six million shares a day maintained for the better part of a month.

The January service continues to be quite bullish, saying (1) money conditions won't tighten, (2) the business boom will gather momentum on a broad front, and (3) there will be no general European slump growing out of the sterling crisis.

International Statistical Bureau says the situation in electronic stocks is favorable now. It says many of them are still selling at what must be considered desirable prices considering the performance and outlook of the industry.

RE-UNITED — Mrs. Esperanza Rodriguez gives her five-month-old son, Dimitrio, a tearful hug as they are reunited in Houston, Tex. The FBI arrested Mable Alice Copeland in New Orleans on charges she took the child from his home in Houston on the pretext of buying him candy.

Kelly, an attorney, was the first person to be appointed to Bliss' staff. He will be in charge of office operations at GOP national headquarters, effective April 1, the date Bliss replaces Dean Burch as chairman.

HOME ROBBED

Pretty Girls Shed Triskedecaphobias

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—I was invited one day this week to watch 13 pretty girls strip off their triskedecaphobias.

Breathing heavily and with eyes rather more beady than usual, I shot over to the Cinderella finishing school where the divestiture was scheduled to take place. Frankly, it was a drag.

It turned out that triskedecaphobia does not mean what I thought it meant. I was under the impression that triskedecaphobia was an old burlesque term.

I was expecting the girls to come out on the runway with nothing but a thin phobia covering their triskedecaphobias in effect they did.

That was when I learned that triskedecaphobia means fear of the number 13. What these girls were shedding were superstitions, rather than inhibitions.

Girls Were Pretty
But I will say this: The girls were pretty, as advertised. So the day was not a total loss.

The superstition-dropping ceremony was conducted by Nick Matsoukas of New York, founder of something called the "National Committee of 13 Against Superstition, Prejudice and Fear."

The girls broke mirrors, walked under ladders, lit three cigarettes with one match, and otherwise defied ancient bad luck-producing symbols.

Then they discarded their four-leaf clovers, rabbits' feet, horse shoes and other lucky charms.

According to Matsoukas, this is supposed to enhance their chances for success in life and love. Which sounds like just another superstition to me.

What has superstition got to do with love? I asked.

"Have you ever been in love?" he asked.

Occasional Love
"Off and on," I said.

"Well, then, you must know what it is like to be afraid of love," he said. "Superstition is a form of fear. It can keep people from falling in love."

"For example, there is an old superstition that girls with red hair and blue eyes are daughters of the devil. If people believed that, blue-eyed redheads could never get married."

The world over, love has many faces. Each face of love has its own meaning, its individual expression, dictated by human emotions, cultural patterns and idiosyncratic localized interpretation.

Matsoukas may be right, but I don't think that triskedecaphobia is the trouble.

The trouble is, you never can be sure which face you're getting. Love wears too much makeup.

WHERE THE WELFARE MONEY GOES

RIISING WELFARE COSTS—Newspaper shows state-by-state payments for the biggest of the welfare programs—aid to families dependent with children. Statistics are the latest available, figured on September 1964 totals. During that month, the program covered 4.2 million people, 3.1 million of whom were children. Wearing of the Green Underway at Shamrock

SHAMROCK—This Irish City is rolling out the green carpet for the 19th annual St. Patrick's Day Celebration, and J. C. McCleskey, general chairman of this year's festival has extended a warm welcome to the residents of the Pampa area.

The male Irishmen of Shamrock are wearing high-top green hats, and jeweled green ties, and many of them are sporting attractive (?) chin-whiskers in an all-out effort to call attention to the March 17 party. Members of the community's fairer sex are taking care of their share of the publicity chores by wearing green and white costumes decorated with eye-catching "Erin-Go-Bragh" buttons.

A delegation of boosters from Shamrock was due to arrive in Pampa around 5 p.m. today to promote the town's 19th annual St. Patrick's Day celebration, March 17.

Police Chief Jim Conner said the 100-block of N. Cuyler would be roped off to permit the Shamrock group to present a brief program.

Meanwhile, the scores of committeemen are working long hours arranging a daylong program jam-packed with Irish-type entertainment.

The Pre-St. Patrick's Day Banquet is scheduled Tuesday, March 16, at the Armory. Waggoner Carr, attorney general of Texas will be the guest speaker.

crime campaign will be spelled out by the Justice Department. The Justice and Treasury departments sent Congress today a proposal to make it a federal crime, punishable by death, to assassinate the president or vice president.

Referring to his recommendations on law enforcement, the President said: "This legislation would authorize the attorney general to assist state, local and private groups to improve and strengthen crime control programs and make generally available information as to their effectiveness."

Through this program, the federal personnel and federal funds would be used to improve the training of local law enforcement personnel in the latest techniques of crime detection and control.

The President wants his new crime commission to give him a comprehensive report by the summer of 1966.

He asked for extensive study of how general law enforcement can be better organized, steps to ensure protection of human rights, more effective federal assistance for state and local enforcement and methods of increasing public respect for law and law enforcement officials.

The White House message also included a special reference to the District of Columbia where he said there was need for improved law enforcement and administration of criminal justice.

"Both in its own right and as a model for other cities, Washington can and should be a focus for intensive efforts in crime prevention and detection and prosecution of crimes, rehabilitation and related activities," he said.

DRAFT CALL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department plans to draft 15,100 men into the Army during May.

The draft call compared with quotas of 13,700 men for April, 7,900 for this month and 3,000 last month.

Step-ups in the number of men drafted were ordered last month because of a drop in enlistments and re-enlistments. The Pentagon said that 21,000 recruits would be needed by the Army in May, with only about 6,000 expected to be provided by enlistments.

comment in Montgomery: "Those folks in Selma have made this a seven-day-a-week job. But we can't give an inch. We're going to have to enforce state laws."

Many of those injured in Sunday's 30-minute melee turned up in bandages Sunday night at a meeting that drew 600 Negroes under the watchful eyes of two carloads of state troopers.

The Rev. Andrew Young told the crowd that Negroes would go before Federal Judge Frank M. Johnson in Montgomery to ask for an injunction preventing state and local officials from interfering with civil rights demonstrations.

Young also said that King would call on clergymen and rabbis all over the nation for support of Tuesday's march.

"Can't Go Back"

Another King aide told the crowd that "if we stop now we go back to yesterday. But yesterday is too miserable to live. We can't go back now."

Sunday's rout came after the Negroes, praying to God to lead them "through a wilderness of state troopers" on the announced 40 mile trek for freedom to Montgomery, left Brown's Chapel Church, two abreast.

When the head of the column reached the far side of the Edward Pettus Bridge at the edge of Selma's business district, it was met by 50 helmeted troopers. Behind them were about two dozen horsemen, members of Sheriff James Clark's deputized-civilian posse.

Highway Patrol Maj. John Cloud, using a bullhorn, ordered the Negroes to disperse and gave them two minutes to do so. The Negroes knelt to pray and about two dozen troopers charged.

At first they pushed and shoved, then started swinging their billy clubs.

The Negroes retreated about 50 yards along the river when the troopers suddenly started firing tear gas shells.

A dense cloud of yellow gas enveloped the Negroes, by now crying and screaming, and the troopers, wearing masks, charged again. The possemen galloped up from the rear and into the fleeing Negroes.

Witnesses told of seeing possemen use bullwhips and lengths of rope to flail the Negroes. Crowds of whites stood along the streets, cheering.

DRAFT CALL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department plans to draft 15,100 men into the Army during May.

The draft call compared with quotas of 13,700 men for April, 7,900 for this month and 3,000 last month.

Step-ups in the number of men drafted were ordered last month because of a drop in enlistments and re-enlistments. The Pentagon said that 21,000 recruits would be needed by the Army in May, with only about 6,000 expected to be provided by enlistments.

Wearing of the Green Underway at Shamrock

SHAMROCK—This Irish City is rolling out the green carpet for the 19th annual St. Patrick's Day Celebration, and J. C. McCleskey, general chairman of this year's festival has extended a warm welcome to the residents of the Pampa area.

The male Irishmen of Shamrock are wearing high-top green hats, and jeweled green ties, and many of them are sporting attractive (?) chin-whiskers. In an all-out effort to call attention to the March 17 party. Members of the community's fairer sex are taking care of their share of the publicity chores by wearing green and white costumes decorated with eye-catching "Erin-Go-Bragh" buttons.

A delegation of boosters from Shamrock was due to arrive in Pampa around 5 p.m. today to promote the town's 19th annual St. Patrick's Day celebration, March 17.

Police Chief Jim Conner said the 100-block of N. Cuyler would be roped off to permit the Shamrock group to present a brief program.

Meanwhile, the scores of committeemen are working long hours arranging a daylong program jam-packed with Irish-type entertainment.

The Pre-St. Patrick's Day Banquet is scheduled Tuesday, March 16, at the Armory. Waggoner Carr, attorney general of Texas will be the guest speaker.

crime campaign will be spelled out by the Justice Department.

The Justice and Treasury departments sent Congress today, a proposal to make it a federal crime, punishable by death, to assassinate the president or vice president.

Referring to his recommendations on law enforcement, the President said: "This legislation would authorize the attorney general to assist state, local and private groups to improve and strengthen crime control programs and make generally available information as to their effectiveness."

Through this program, the federal personnel and federal funds would be used to improve the training of local law enforcement personnel in the latest techniques of crime detection and control.

The President wants his new crime commission to give him a comprehensive report by the summer of 1966.

He asked for extensive study of how general law enforcement can be better organized, steps to ensure protection of human rights, more effective federal assistance for state and local enforcement and methods of increasing public respect for law and law enforcement officials.

The White House message also included a special reference to the District of Columbia where he said there was need for improved law enforcement and administration of criminal justice.

"Both in its own right and as a model for other cities, Washington can and should be a focus for intensive efforts in crime prevention and detection and prosecution of crimes, rehabilitation and related activities," he said.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

An official announcement that France and the Soviet Union would cooperate in seeking a peaceful settlement of the war in South Viet Nam coincided with another item from Moscow deserving of note.

It was that Moscow has proposed Valerian A. Zorin as its next ambassador to Paris.

The appointment takes on significance in view of Zorin's own record and his official position as a deputy foreign minister and a full member of the party-central committee.

Zorin, a survivor of the harsh Stalin era, first gained fame when, as Soviet ambassador to Prague in 1948, he was the man entrusted with carrying out the Moscow blueprint for the Communist takeover of Czechoslovakia.

Lasts Six Months

In December 1955 he became the first Soviet ambassador to the West German federal republic at Bonn. He lasted in that job only six months, incurring West German displeasure for roughshod tactics in attempting to force the West Germans into negotiations on reunification with the Communist Eastern zone.

As Soviet ambassador to the United Nations in October, 1962, he found himself caught in a now-famous exchange with U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson.

He refused to answer a Stevenson charge that the Soviet Union had placed offensive missiles in Cuba. The answer, he said, would come in due time.

Stevenson replied that he could "wait until hell freezes over" for the reply but that meantime he was prepared to produce the evidence. Zorin declared the U.S. evidence "forged."

Later Embarrassed

For Zorin it was an embarrassment when Nikita Khrushchev later admitted the charge and agreed to withdraw the missiles.

At any rate, Zorin achieved a reputation as a man who could follow the tough Soviet line and as one whose appearance meant that trouble for someone was not far behind.

His appointment to Paris indicates the importance Moscow attaches to improving Soviet-French relations and also fits in nicely with President Charles de Gaulle's own ideas of himself as a third force between the United States and the forces of communism.

State Farm

Still on Top

Outstanding life and fire insurance achievements in 1964 by two of its wholly-owned affiliates took some of the sting out of the largest dollar loss in the cover history of State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company.

Harry Gordon, 100% Alcock St. representing State Farm in Pampa said today while State Farm Life was writing more than a billion dollars worth of life insurance, and State Farm Fire and Casualty moved into No. 1 position as writer of the popular "homesteaders" package policy on residences, the parent firm of the six-company group—State Farm Mutual—wound up with a $24,555,041 underwriting loss on auto insurance during the year.

State Farm Life's $1,066,873,733 of new written business in 1964 marked the first time multiple-line agents had written that much non-group life insurance in a single year. The same agents produced $61,840,167 of homeowners premiums to become the largest writer of that coverage.

After investment income of $13,013,972, State Farm Mutual's $24.5 million loss on insurance operations, plus dividends of $2,462,664 to policyholders, left the world's largest auto insurer with a net operation loss of $433,648 for the year. However, capital gains on investments and other items enabled the company to increase surplus to $1,430,652.

The early Spaniards called platinum "unripe" gold and valued it less than the pure yellow gold, using it to adulterate the latter.

By LYLE WILSON

United Press International Railroad union leaders are running scared—terrified might not be too strong a word—from a showdown on the union shop. Conservative senators and representatives should be aware of this foot race before President Johnson begins twisting arms to obtain repeal of section 14 (B) of the Taft Hartley Act. That section permits states to outlaw the union shop.

Big labor has been trying for nearly 20 years to scuttle section 14 (B). During this period, 20 states legislated against the union shop. Indiana repealed its so-called right-to-work law during the current legislative session.

The opening for a union shop showdown was created by non-operating employees of the Southern Railway and affiliated lines. The Southern is union shop.

The story began about 10 years ago when some Southern employees sued in Georgia courts to prevent their union shop leaders from spending union money to help elect political candidates whom the protesting employees opposed. The Georgia courts found the argument reasonable inasmuch as the protesting union shop employees were captive workers who had to belong to the union to keep their jobs.

Union Appealed

The union leaders carried their case to the U.S. Supreme Court, with understandable confidence which was not wholly disappointed. The Supreme Court held that it was okay for the union to use dues money to support political candidates opposed by captive members. The court also held, however, that the unhappy captives could demand return of that portion of their dues money that had been diverted from union business to politics.

That did not sound very promising but it has turned out very well for the protesting employees. The case was sent back to the Georgia court and former Superior Court Judge Malory C. Atkinson of Macon, Ga., was appointed auditor to work out the formula by which the diversion and amount of refund could be determined for each protesting employee. There originally were 267 protestors, of whom 145 were eliminated for one reason or another. The union leaders surrendered to the remaining 122 by means of a stipulation. The union leaders agreed to this stipulation after being ordered to produce their money records.

May Elect Refund

UPI was informed that this stipulation provides that each of the remaining 122 plaintiffs may elect to receive a refund of ALL his dues and be dropped from union membership without prejudice to the right to hold his job or he may elect to forego the refund and to remain a member of the union shop agreement.

The refund will range from nothing for some persons to something over $100.

One of the protesting captive employees was Miss Nancy M. Looper of Washington D.C. She is understandably delighted with the terms of the stipulated agreement. To UPI, Miss Looper said:

"The unions never will dare to produce their records for an actual accounting (and) risk having to reduce dues for several hundred thousand workers."

Perhaps it would be in the national interest to require a public record of how the union shop and closed shop leaders whack up their dues money between union-business and politics.

Pampa Business News...

GOP Ready to Punch At Demos on All Issues

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Republican party is almost awash with new committees and task forces eager to punch away at the Democrats on issues ranging from Viet Nam to civil rights.

The Democratic split over policy in Viet Nam, exposed almost daily in Congress, seems to be providing the GOP with its first excuse to view with alarm. Other issues are getting attention, too, as the Republicans try to regain a fighting chance after the shock of their 1964 election catastrophe.

"The opportunities are opened up by a whole variety of issues and conditions that can hardly fail to break up the unnatural consensus that President Johnson managed to stitch together for campaign purposes," said retiring party chairman Dean Burch in his report on the state of the GOP last week.

Lists Opposition Problems—Viet Nam is one; our tottering alliances are another; mounting deficits, inflationary pressures and invasions of personal liberty are others. Still others will follow from the limitless promises of the Great Society—when the price, in tax dollars and in freedom, is added up."

The most ambitious project to harness the various Republican comeback drives is the Republican coordinating committee, which holds its first meeting here Wednesday.

This 26-member group, proposed by GOP leaders in Congress, includes the 11-man congressional leadership group, five former presidential candidates, five governors and five members of the GOP National Committee. It is expected to set up a group of task forces which will include additional members of Congress, governors, national committee members and academic experts.

Suggests Task Forces—Burch proposed that the committee create task forces, parallel to the government departments, to form a "shadow cabinet" of party spokesmen in all areas of policy.

Shadow cabinets exist in countries with a parliamentary system of government such as Great Britain. They include opposition party leaders already in line for cabinet posts when their party can win a national election.

Other Republican sources doubted that any real shadow cabinet would emerge from the coordinating committee. They saw no reason to try to choose Republican counterparts or critics of such cabinet members as the postmaster general and secretary of interior.

The coordinating committee is potentially the most important of the many projects proposed by Republicans who are trying to look ahead instead of back to the 1964 election.

Seek New Look

Moving independently, however, House Republicans jumped off to a head start in the effort to give the party a new look. After displacing Rep. Charles A. Halleck with Rep. Gerald R. Ford as GOP floor leader, House Republicans are now recruiting a research staff to work under Dr. William B. Prendergast, former research director for the GOP National Committee.

A planning and research committee also was set up under the chairmanship of Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y. This group is creating its own task forces to study and recommend programs to deal with national issues. Senate Republicans also are talking about setting up their task forces.

An effort will be made to guard against any conflict between these task forces and those of the coordinating committee through interlocking staffs.

An official announcement that France and the Soviet Union would cooperate in seeking a peaceful settlement of the war in South Viet Nam coincided with another item from Moscow deserving of note.

It was that Moscow has proposed Valerian A. Zorin as its next ambassador to Paris. The appointment takes on significance in view of Zorin's own record and his official position as a deputy foreign minister and a full member of the party central committee.

Zorin, a survivor of the harsh Stalin era, first gained fame when, as Soviet ambassador to Prague in 1948, he was the man entrusted with carrying out the Moscow blueprint for the Communist takeover of Czechoslovakia.

Lasts Six Months
In December 1955 he became the first Soviet ambassador to the West German federal republic at Bonn. He lasted in that job only six months, incurring West German displeasure for roughshod tactics in attempting to force the West Germans into negotiations on reunification with the Communist Eastern zone.

As Soviet ambassador to the United Nations in October, 1962, he found himself caught in a now-famous exchange with U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson.

He refused to answer a Stevenson charge that the Soviet Union had placed offensive missiles in Cuba. The answer, he said, would come in due time. Stevenson replied that he could "wait until hell freezes over" for the reply but that meantime he was prepared to produce the evidence. Zorin declared the U.S. evidence "forged."

Later Embarrassed
For Zorin it was an embarrassment when Nikita Khrushchev later admitted the charge and agreed to withdraw the missiles.

At any rate, Zorin achieved a reputation as a man who could follow the tough Soviet line and as one whose appearance meant that trouble for someone was not far behind.

His appointment to Paris indicates the importance Moscow attaches to improving Soviet-French relations and also fits in nicely with President Charles de Gaulle's own ideas of himself as a third force between the United States and the forces of communism.

State Farm Still on Top

Outstanding life and fire insurance achievements in 1964 by two of its wholly-owned affiliates took some of the sting out of the largest dollar loss in the cover history of State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company.

Harry Gordon, 100% Alcock St. representing State Farm in Pampa said today while State Farm Life was writing more than a billion dollars worth of life insurance, and State Farm Fire and Casualty moved into No. 1 position as writer of the popular "homesteaders" package policy on residences, the parent firm of the six-company group—State Farm Mutual—wound up with a $24,555,041 underwriting loss on auto insurance during the year.

State Farm Life's $1,066,873,733 of new written business in 1964 marked the first time multiple-line agents had written that much non-group life insurance in a single year. The same agents produced $61,840,167 of homeowners premiums to become the largest writer of that coverage.

After investment income of $13,013,972, State Farm Mutual's $24.5 million loss on insurance operations, plus dividends of $1,462,664 to policyholders, left the world's largest auto insurer with a net operation loss of $433,648 for the year. However, capital gains on investments and other items enabled the company to increase surplus $1,430,652.

The early Spaniards called platinum "unripe" gold and valued it less than the pure yellow gold, using it to adulterate the latter.

Railroad union leaders are running scared—terrified might not be too strong a word—from a showdown on the union shop. Conservative senators and representatives should be aware of this foot race before President Johnson begins twisting arms to obtain repeal of section 14 (B) of the Taft Hartley Act. That section permits states to outlaw the union shop.

Big labor has been trying for nearly 20 years to scuttle section 14 (B). During this period, 20 states legislated against the union shop. Indiana repealed its so-called right-to-work law during the current legislative session.

The opening for a union shop showdown was created by non-operating employees of the Southern Railway and affiliated lines. The Southern is union shop.

The story began about 10 years ago when some Southern employees sued in Georgia courts to prevent their union shop leaders from spending union money to help elect political candidates whom the protesting employees opposed. The Georgia courts found the argument reasonable inasmuch as the protesting union shop employees were captive workers who had to belong to the union to keep their jobs.

Union Appealed
The union leaders carried their case to the U.S. Supreme Court, with understandable confidence which was not wholly disappointed. The Supreme Court held that it was okay for the union to use dues money to support political candidates opposed by captive members. The court also held, however, that the unhappy captives could demand return of that portion of their dues money that had been diverted from union business to politics.

That did not sound very promising but it has turned out very well for the protesting employees. The case was sent back to the Georgia court and former Superior Court Judge Malory C. Atkinson of Macon, Ga., was appointed auditor to work out the formula by which the diversion and amount of refund could be determined for each protesting employee. There originally were 267 protestors, of whom 145 were eliminated for one reason or another. The union leaders surrendered to the remaining 122 by means of a stipulation. The union leaders agreed to this stipulation after being ordered to produce their money records.

May Elect Refund
UPI was informed that this stipulation provides that each of the remaining 122 plaintiffs may elect to receive a refund of ALL his dues and be dropped from union membership without prejudice to the right to hold his job or he may elect to forego the refund and to remain a member of the union shop agreement.

The refund will range from nothing for some persons to something over $100. One of the protesting captive employees was Miss Nancy M. Looper of Washington D.C. She is understandably delighted with the terms of the stipulation agreement. To UPI, Miss Looper said:

"The unions never will dare to produce their records for an actual accounting (and) risk having to reduce dues for several hundred thousand workers."

Perhaps it would be in the national interest to require a public record of how the union shop and closed shop leaders whack up their dues money between union-business and politics.

The center is the first of a series to be operated by the service as part of the President's "war on poverty." About 60 centers are scheduled to be in operation by the end of the summer in national forests throughout the nation.

Informed sources said the talks will cover a wide range of subjects with emphasis on the Viet Nam crisis.

GOP Ready to Punch At Demos on All Issues

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Republican party is almost awash with new committees and task forces eager to punch away at the Democrats on issues ranging from Viet Nam to civil rights.

The Democratic split over policy in Viet Nam, exposed almost daily in Congress, seems to be providing the GOP with its first excuse to view with alarm. Other issues are getting attention, too, as the Republicans try to regain a fighting chance after the shock of their 1964 election catastrophe.

"The opportunities are opened up by a whole variety of issues and conditions that can hardly fail to break up the unnatural consensus that President Johnson managed to stitch together for campaign purposes," said retiring party chairman Dean Burch in his report on the state of the GOP last week.

Limits Opposition Problems
"Viet Nam is one; our tottering alliances are another; mounting deficits, inflationary pressures and invasions of personal liberty are others. Still others will follow from the limitless promises of the Great Society—when the price, in tax dollars and in freedom, is added."

The most ambitious project to harness the various Republican comeback drives is the Republican coordinating committee, which holds its first meeting here Wednesday.

This 26-member group, proposed by GOP leaders in Congress, includes the 11-man congressional leadership group, five former presidential candidates, five governors and five members of the GOP National Committee. It is expected to set up a group of task forces which will include additional members of Congress, governors, national committee members and academic experts.

Suggests Task Forces
Burch proposed that the committee create task forces, parallel to the government departments, to form a "shadow cabinet" of party spokesmen in all areas of policy.

Shadow cabinets exist in countries with a parliamentary system of government such as Great Britain. They include opposition party leaders already in line for cabinet posts when their party can win a national election.

Other Republican sources doubted that any real shadow cabinet would emerge from the coordinating committee. They saw no reason to try to choose Republican counterparts or critics of such cabinet members as the postmaster general and secretary of interior.

The coordinating committee is potentially the most important of the many projects proposed by Republicans who are trying to look ahead instead of back to the 1964 election.

Seek New Look
Moving independently, however, House Republicans jumped off to a head start in the effort to give the party a new look. After displacing Rep. Charles A. Halleck with Rep. Gerald R. Ford as GOP floor leader, House Republicans are now recruiting a research staff to work under Dr. William B. Prendergast, former research director for the GOP National Committee.

A planning and research committee also was set up under the chairmanship of Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y. This group is creating its own task forces to study and recommend programs to deal with national issues. Senate Republicans also are talking about setting up their task forces.

An effort will be made to guard against any conflict between these task forces and those of the coordinating committee through interlocking staffs.

Dear Abby....

If You Wish To Be Loved, Give Love

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the four-year-old who embarrassed his mother when she asked him to kiss the woman who had sat with him and he said, "I don't kiss old ladies." I think the mother was lacking in wisdom. She never should have asked the boy to kiss the woman. I don't believe in ordering a child to kiss anyone, especially outsiders. Most children have better sense than adults because they are usually reluctant to kiss outsiders (and even relatives) when commanded to do so. Also, many "outsiders" find it unpleasant to be kissed by other people's children. A kiss loses its value when it is not voluntary and spontaneous. And mothers who make a habit of instructing their children to kiss people are guilty of showing off.

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR ABBY: This is for the elderly "sitter" whose feelings were hurt when a little four-year-old was told to kiss her, and replied, "I don't kiss old ladies." Where is your sense of humor? When my 5-year-old godson saw me after not having seen me for a long time, and his mother told him to kiss me, he said, "I have to get used to her face first." It's been a good many years since that happened, but I still laugh out loud every time I think of it.

DEAR ABBY: The mother who tried to get her little four-year-old to kiss "dear old Mrs. Hansen for looking after you today," is probably the same mother who will one day throw up her hands in despair when her daughter rewards her date with kisses (or more) for "the lovely evening," even though she does not particularly like the person.

Kisses are supposed to express affection, not gratitude. To express gratitude, one says, "Thank you."

ANOTHER COUNTRY HEARD FROM

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the little boy who, when his mother instructed him to kiss elderly Mrs. Hansen, said, "I don't kiss old ladies," pointed up something far more symptomatic of our times than children's rudeness. The child's mother typifies the 20th century mother, whose behavior is, I am convinced, the reason why we have so much sexual promiscuity in our present-day society. Our young people are utterly confused about kisses and what they should mean. To see toddlers, too young to know better, going around a room, bestowing their precious kisses on one stranger after another because Mamma said, "Go give everyone a big kiss goodnight," is sickening indeed. It teaches children early that kisses are cheap and meaningless. I do wish someone would put an end to that foolish custom.

"PHILOSOPHER"
DEAR PHILOSOPHER: Aw, come on. Don't tell me that every Jezebel learned to be free with her favors by kissing her grandfather when she was three! May I quote another philosopher? "I will show you a love potion without drug or herb or any witch's spell: If you wish to be loved, love." (Hecato)

And Suddenly the Yanks Don't Look Invincible

MIAMI, Fla. (NEA) — For years Alphonso Lopez of first Cleveland and then the Chicago White Sox was a voice in the wilderness crying, "The Yankees can be beaten."

This spring all American League managers have joined the hallelujah.

Why? The consensus is that the New York outfit has come back to the field.

"For one thing," said Al Lopez at Chicago's Sarasota training base, "the aura of invincibility has been removed. It is no secret that for 15 years most managers conceded the pennant to the Yankees before the season started. They said so themselves."

"I'm picking Baltimore because I believe we are now the best club," said Hank Bauer after the Orioles' workout at Miami Stadium. "Neither the White Sox nor the Orioles could have come much closer without winning last season. Both clubs should have won, as a matter of fact."

"The Yankees always have had the big guy, two or three of them. Lou Gehrig joined Babe Ruth in 1925; Joe DiMaggio came in '36, Yogi Berra in '47 and Mickey Mantle to pick up the load in '51. Now Berra, like Ruth, Gehrig and DiMaggio before him, is gone and Mantle, at 33 and so susceptible to injury, has to be going."

"Whitey Ford has to be a question mark after the operation. Ford is 36 and has done a lot of bear-down pitching. He has been the Yankees' stopper. Take him out of rotation and have Mantle banged up and the Yankees are just another club. "Speaking of the Yankees' indispensable men. I have to put Elston Howard in that category now. When Berra was doing the bulk of the catching and getting those big hits, Howard was behind him. The Yankees have nobody like Howard behind Howard and Elston is 35.

"I could list a dozen reasons why I'm high on the Orioles, but you can start with Brooks Robinson and Luis Aparicio and the fact that Boog Powell has arrived as a big thumper. I know that Steve Barber, who beat the Yankees four times and the White Sox twice, should win more than the nine games he posted in 19.

"John Orsino, the big catcher, is back 100 per cent after an operation for a broken bone in his hand," concluded Bauer.

"It used to be that the club running at New York got little help," said Senor Lopez. "But there won't be many soft spots in the Yankees this season."

Baltimore was greatly improved last year, beat the Yankees, 10 games to 8. Boston played the Yankees even. The Yanks hardly figure to win 10 straight from Chicago again. Detroit and Los Angeles will be tougher. Minnesota has power and Cleveland and Washington have more of it.

"Johnny Romano's catching will make the Chicago pitching even more effective than it was in 1964, when it was the tightest in the league. Romano's right hand batting punch also will tend to keep the left-hand pitchers who picked on us last season away. Having Moose Skowron from the start gives us another strong card in that regard."

There is considerable evidence that the other clubs no longer will be on their way to being chased out of the park by the Yankees before a shot is fired.

Jury Still Out on Ford, Podres Arms

By JOE GERGEN
UPI Sports Writer

The jury still is out on two of the biggest lefthanded question marks in Florida but the odds for the acquittal of Johnny Podres and Whitey Ford are increasing every day.

Podres, the dean of the Los Angeles Dodgers' pitching staff, and Ford, the mainstay of the New York Yankees' moundmen both are on trial for their baseball lives this spring, and both men are responding with optimistic performances.

The 32-year-old Podres, rated as one of the finest clutch pitchers in the game, underwent an elbow operation after the 1964 season, the most disappointing in his major league career. Plunked on the elbow by a Warren Spahn pitch last year, Podres pitched only three innings last season, a major factor in the Dodgers' drop to sixth place from the top position in the National League.

But Podres, hero of the Dodgers' first World Series victory back in 1955 and a winner against the Yankees in the 1963 fall classic, looked more like his old self Sunday with a satisfying two-inning stint in the second Los Angeles intrasquad game of the spring training season.

Arm Doesn't Hurt
"I threw a couple of pretty good fast balls," Podres said after the game. "The best part is that my arm doesn't hurt me for the first time in the last three or four years."

Podres wasn't overpowering, allowing three hits and one run and absorbing the loss in the 3-2 game, but the fact that he "felt comfortable out there" was welcome news at the Dodger camp.

Ford, who had an outstanding season in 1964 but was bedeviled by a circulatory ailment in his pitching arm during the World Series, also submitted to surgery after the season. Although Whitey now sweats on only his right side, his pitching appears to be unaffected.

The 36-year-old southpaw threw hard in batting practice Sunday and said he was very encouraged with the progress he has been making. In fact, Ford announced he would like to pitch a few innings in a Grapefruit League game against the Baltimore Orioles next weekend.

Worried About Bunker
The Orioles, however, are worried about another pitching arm at the present, that of righthander Wally Bunker, the Birds' sensational rookie of a year ago. Bunker has been unable to pitch batting practice because of a sore shoulder.

Elsewhere, Charlie Dressen of the Detroit Tigers is thinking of converting longtime relief ace Larry Sherry into a starting pitcher. . . . Julian Javier, regular second baseman for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, arrived at camp and signed his contract for a reported $23,000. . . . Don Zimmer, bidding for a regular job at a host of positions, rapped two doubles and Frank Howard drove in two runs in a Washington Senator intrasquad contest.

Pokes, Michigan State Gain NCAA Tourney

By BILL VERIGAN
UPI Sports Writer

The tedious wait for a post-season tournament berth is over for most nationally ranked basketball teams, but for others next season's wait is just beginning.

Michigan and Oklahoma State became the latest highly regarded teams to tuck away NCAA tournament berths on Saturday night.

The first-ranked Wolverines wrapped up the Big Ten championship with an 88-85 victory over eighth-rated Minnesota, and the Cowboys defeated Kansas 64-58 to take the Big Eight crown.

Michigan had all five starters—Cazzie Russell, Bill Buntin, Larry Tregoning, Oliver Darden and George Pomey—in double figures before pulling off its 13th conference triumph of the season without a defeat.

Russell Heads Michigan—Russell, an All-America, paced the Wolverines with 24 points, but Lou Hudson of Minnesota had the game-high with 31.

The Cowboys overcame a 34-29 halftime deficit with some scorching shooting to win their first title since they joined the conference in 1958.

Oklahoma State hit 12 of 14 field goal attempts in the second period to overcome the performance of Kansas' 6-11 center Walt Wesley, who had 32 points for a conference record of 377 during the season. The old mark of 364 points was set by former Kansas State star Bob Boozer.

However, those post-season conference clashes, which are proving to be the undoing of nationally ranked quintets, claimed Duke as their latest victim.

The sixth-rated Blue Devils fell to unheralded North Carolina State 91-85 in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, which decides the league representative to the NCAA shindig.

End Duke Monopoly
The Wolfpack ended two years of Duke domination in the ACC after losing twice to the Blue Devils during the regular season. Larry Worsley led the victors with 31 points.

By halftime, Duke led 43-40, and the NCAA berth was almost in sight before the Blue Devils gave up the lead for good with seven minutes left in the game.

The Southwest and Mid-American Conference races both ended in deadlocks which will be played off on Monday.

Miami of Ohio led the Mid-American Conference; throughout the season until Ohio University defeated Toledo 87-81 in the last game to jump into a first-place tie.

Now Miami may discover itself in a position similar to that faced by Duke when it takes its favored status against Ohio U. on Monday. The schools each won one of their regular season meetings.

Texas and Southern Methodist will battle for the Southwest Conference berth in the NCAA tourney. These schools also split during the regular season.

Sanders Edges Nicklaus for Pensacola Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)—Doug Sanders pocketed first place prize money today for the first time in a major tournament since 1963 on the strength of a 35-foot putt in a sudden death playoff in the Pensacola Open.

It was a $10,000 prize for Sanders who last won a major victory in the 1963 Greensboro Open and matched his 1962 performance here.

Sanders and Jack Nicklaus battled each other for four days in the 72-hole regulation play to finish up tied at 277, 11 under par. The end came when Sanders sank the crucial putt on the third hole of the playoff after Nicklaus had missed one by an inch from 40 feet away.

Nicklaus had won a tie at the end of the final round over the 6,380-yard Pensacola Country Club layout with a 71 to make up two strokes on Sanders, who turned in a 73. Nicklaus' second place money was $6,000.

Billy Martindale, who had led the second round, finished in a tie for third place with Billy Casper with 8 under par 280s. Each shot 71st Sunday also and won $3,850 each.

Kermit Zarley, who shot a 65 Saturday to share honors for the lowest rounds in the tourney with Sanders, finished fourth and won $3,100.

Doug Ford and Gary Player were bunched at fifth and won $2,320 along with Jack Rule, Gay Brewer and Joe Campbell.

Arnold Palmer finished in the money in his 44th straight tournament in a tie for sixth with Bruce Crampton, Dave Marr, who had led the first round, Kel Nagle and Don January.

While it was the first tournament for Sanders to finish first in nearly two years, the $10,000 prize money put him at the top of official money winners for the year with total earnings of $16,332.78.

LAKERS MAGIC NUMBER TWO

Boston Routs Wilt, Philly

By United Press International

The Los Angeles Lakers today continued their march toward the National Basketball Association's Western Division title with the magic word No. 2 following a hair-raising, 106-104 victory over the Cincinnati Royals.

Jerry West sparked the Sunday night victory with the winning basket on a 25-foot jump with 25 seconds left in the game to keep the Lakers 54 games in front of the second place St. Louis Hawks.

Any combination of Lakers wins or Hawk defeats totaling two will give Los Angeles a tie for the Western Division title, and "three will clinch the championship for them for the third time in four years."

The Royals held the lead for most of the first half in Sunday's encounter before the Lakers exploded for 10 straight points to pull ahead 57-53 at intermission. Cincinnati tied the game 82-82 early in the fourth period and the two teams fought down to the wire before West scored the winning basket.

In other NBA action Sunday, Boston soared to an easy 120-111 victory over Philadelphia.

St. Louis blasted New York, 120-106, and Baltimore picked up a 111-105 victory over Detroit.

West poured in the winning basket but Laker teammate Elgin Baylor pumped in 34 points in the third quarter and 12 in the fourth for scoring honors with 38. West tallied for 33. The great Oscar Robertson was held to 20 points for the Royals. Adrian Smith was high scoring man for Cincinnati.
