Nav. District Damage to Be Surveyed

The Board of Navigation and Canal Commissioners met Oct. 4 with Chairman Matt W. Scott presiding. Also present were Commissioners Ted R. Little and Richard J. Fox, Attorney Ellis Clark and Harbormaster B. C. DeForest.

Minutes of the Sept. 6 regular meeting and Sept. 7 and 29 special meetings were read and approved. Bills payable from rent account were approved and checks signed. Vouchers were signed to cover bills from the Maintenance Fund.

Messrs. Goetsch and Berry, from the State Commission for the Blind, came in interest of placing a visually handicapped person in one of the bait stands at Rockport Harbor, when and if an opening becomes available.

Oakman requested a temporary baitstand location at Fulton Harbor since his permanent location was demolished by Hurricane Beulah. The harbormaster was authorized to make necessary reassignments among other dock renters in order to accommodate Oakman.

Messrs. Scott and Little reported on their conference in Corpus Christi Oct. 3 with Sam E. Green, Communications Officer, Office of Defense and Disaster Relief, Texas Department of Public Safety. They were advised that the Office of Emergency Planning would be sending teams of inspectors to survey hurricane damage and that the District should let contracts locally for repair work to be done. An emergency resolution was passed, waiving advertising for bids.

COCHRAN ASKS TO CLOSE FULTON BEACH ROAD

Realtor M. W. Cochran presented to Aransas County Commissioners Court this week a petition requesting that Fulton Beach Road from the Sandollar Motel north be closed to motor traffic. On the petition were the names of some property owners along this two-mile stretch.

Accompanying the petition was a one-page statement, the conclusion of which stated:

"Hurricane Beulah has done heavy damage to the beach road from Prairie Road in Fulton, north for two miles. For the second time in six years the taxpayer's money must be spent to rebuild the road—or must it? Should it?

"Or would closing the road and maintaining tax values of the property along the shore not be the wiser course to follow?

"As traffic increases on Fulton Beach Road, property values decrease, and lowered property values never help any community. Careful and objective examination of the facts should be made before Fulton Beach Road is rebuilt. The taxpayer's money will again be wasted unless a costly concrete breakwater is provided.

"A far simpler, more economical and reasonable solution to the problem would be to close Fulton Beach Road to motor traffic and use the maintenance money and the additional tax revenues on better recreational facilities for the entire community."

The Chamber of Commerce has informed the Commissioners Court that it opposes the request to close the two-mile stretch of Fulton Road Beach, one reason being that such closing would eliminate one of the most scenic drives in the Rockport area.

The Commissioners Court stated that it would take Cochran's information under consideration.

HIGHWAY DEPT. LOSSES IN COUNTY $15,000

The estimated cost of the hurricane and floods to the State Highway Department in Aransas County totaled $15,000 —$7,000 for traffic services and $8,000 for miscellaneous damage.

A CAVALRY CHARGE is highly unlikely among the thinning ranks of Army horses, but taking jumps is still part of their training at Ft. Myer, Arlington, Va., where 28 horses are kept for pulling caissons at military funerals.

United Fund Holds Kickoff Breakfast

The United Fund launched its 1967 campaign for $12,000 with a kickoff breakfast Tuesday morning at the VFW Hall. Approximately 75 drive workers enjoyed a pancake and sausage breakfast cooked and served by Boy Scouts and paid for by a half dozen leading citizens.

Thanking the United Fund "majors" and officers in attendance for the planning work they already have done and for the job they will be doing from now until the drive ends Oct. 31, Campaign Chairman Joe Bush said:

"This is Americanism in action. We will go forth together to do an important job, raising our goal to assist our fellowmen. This is God's way.

"Transport our message from your heart to the hearts of those you call on."

Bush thanked the majors for agreeing to take an active part in the campaign and pointed out that they were chosen because of their leadership in the community.

He also called attention to the Fund's fact finding committee—chairman R. L. Eckman, Col. Walter Falk and Bush—and pointed out that this group's post hurricane investigation of local needs resulted in the Fund goal being raised from $11,250 to $12,000.

Bush also thanked The Rockport Pilot for its articles on the United Fund and extensive pictorial and written coverage of the damage caused by the tornado and the flooding.

J. D. Gray, United Fund president who presided at the breakfast, reminded the audience that no United Fund money was used for the breakfast and that all directors' planning luncheons have been paid for by the directors themselves.

Rev. Ben Bohmfalk, pastor at First Methodist Church, gave the opening prayer. Eckman, chairman of the special gifts committee, gave a short talk during which he said:

"There are two kinds of people: The takers and the givers. The takers get more, but the givers sleep better."

Participating agencies which will receive financial assistance from the United Fund are Aransas County Emergency Corps, American Red Cross, Salvation Army, Aransas County Youth Council, Aransas County Recreation, Boy Scout Council, Girl Scouts, Gonzales Warm Springs and the USO.

Man Finds Coral Snake As Bedmate

Ray Graham woke up Thursday morning on his boat which he docks at Fulton Harbor. After easing out of his bunk he thought he was "seeing things" when he spied a snake resting comfortably in the same bunk which Graham had just vacated.

Then he carefully examined the reptile and got even more shook up when he realized it was a deadly coral snake, about 20 inches long.

Graham theorized that the snake got aboard his boat in the Victoria channel where he had the craft berthed during the storm.

EDITOR'S VIEWPOINTS

CHEAPER TO OVERLOOK CRIME

Retailers everywhere at some time face and cope with the problem of light-fingered customers and dishonest employees. But note contrasting approaches to the issue.

In the U. S., where supermarkets lose an estimated $300 million a year from shoplifters, cartnappers, employees and other socalled shrinkage sources, the giant Kroger Co. chain recently hired Cincinnati's former police chief as its $25,000 a year director of security. He will introduce new methods of protecting cash, controlling bad checks and, in short, stemming the depradations of both customers and employees.

In Britain, Marks & Spencer, some years ago decided to scrap operational checks on employees, complex controls and a variety of security precautions. Result: Simplification eliminated 26 million forms a year, and reduced personnel by about 20 per cent despite a rise in its volume of business. Profits soared.

Kroger and Marks & Spencer officials have both acknowledged that most people are honest. But while Kroger decided to do more about the dishonesty minority, the British chain decided to act as if everyone were honest—and found it's cheaper to believe they were. The store reinforces its assumption with elaborate fringe benefits including even low-cost beauty treatments for sales girls on their lunch hour.

Canada hoes more of a middle ground in confronting the problem. One Toronto food chain official says customer pilferage seems to be on the rise. Companies are also more aware of "slippage" factors because of better computer controls. Security is plainly an increasingly integral part of company planning, but the emphasis still is on prevention, education of employees and spot check controls.

Honesty, assumed or otherwise, may still, judging from the British example, be the best policy.—Financial Post.

COMPUTER TO OUST DRIVER?

The transportation economist of the Ford Motor Car Company foresees a day not more than 25 years away when 30,000 miles of United States highways will have "automated" lanes. Computer-controlled electronics will take over the driving of the travelers cars at speeds of more than 100 miles per hour.

Cars will be checked for mechanical efficiency before being permitted on the highway. Once on the road, when the driver is ordered to speed up to 75 miles per hour and he doesn't comply, he will be informed by a voice and a flashing light that electronics is taking over. The computer guides the car to the automated lane and the driver is free to watch television, play a card game with the family, or possibly pour himself a drink.

For those who enjoy driving a motor car—and there are a few left despite traffic congestions—the prospect can appear very dismal indeed. He will become a non-essential by-product of the computed.—Fort Williams (Ont.) Times Journal.

Editorial

COUNT-DOWN TO RED

If you drive an automobile around town you're probably one of those fellows, who upon approaching a green traffic light hesitated because you weren't sure whether the green would switch to red before you could get through.

Perhaps you hesitated, then decided there was time and then stepped on the gas and just about the time the car reacted with speed, presto the light changed to red.

Your troubles may be over.

Cities may be installing a device that will count from nine down to one, and flash the news to you. If the light shows an illuminated nine you've got time to make the light. If it is on two, then you'll know you'll take a chance with a traffic cop if you try to get through.

A Texan, James R. Hines of Abilene, working nine years, invented the accessory. Such signals have already been under test in Houston, Wichita Falls and Amarillo. Mr. Hines said he got the idea one day when he was caught in the middle of three successive intersections just as the lights changed.

So here goes another excuse commonly used before traffic judges: "I didn't know the light was going to change."

OR ASK DIRECTIONS?

In Russia a motorist desiring gasoline for his vehicle must first go to a government office to obtain a coupon booklet. Then he goes to a government-owned service station, where the customer estimates the number of gallons his tank will hold. The attendant sets a dial, collects the coupon. The motorist has to put the fuel into the tank.

No explanation is made as to when the customer has time to go to the rest room, drink a bottle of pop, talk about the weather, etc., or who checks the tires, oil, wipes the windshield, or passes out trading stamps.

Anyone else for Communism?

Applications for Free Hunt Now Available

Austin—Hunters who wish to request an application for a free public hunt on one of seven wildlife management areas of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department should submit their requests now, said Robert G. Mauermann, deputy director.

Requests for applications should include the name, complete address and zip code.

When requests are received, the Department will send an application card to the person making the request.

Completed application forms must be received by the Department no later than 5 p.m. Oct. 23. Applications will be placed in a "squirrel cage" and a drawing of lucky applicants will be taken on Oct. 26.

Areas where deer may be taken this year are:

Cherokee Unit, Angelina Management area, 16,000 acres of piney woods near Alto in Cherokee County.

Alabama Creek Unit, Angelina Management area, 12,500 acres of piney woods 15 miles southwest of Lufkin in the southeast corner of Davy Crockett National Forest.

Engling Wildlife Management Management area, 11,000 acres of oak, 20 miles northwest of Palestine in Anderson County.

Black Gap Wildlife Management area, 100,000 acres 55 miles south of Marathon in Brewster County.

Sierra Diablo Wildlife Management area, 7,800 acres 32 miles northwest of Van Horn in Culberson County.

Gene Howe Wildlife Management area, 5,800 acres five miles east of Canadian in Hemphill County.

Kerr Wildlife Management area, 6,500 acres of Hill Country 28 miles west of Kerrville in Kerr County.

Quail may be hunted on three areas: Gene Howe, Marathon, and Black Gap. Special permits are required on Gene Howe Marathon. Quail hunters on Black Gap need only to show up.

Deer permit holders for the Black Gap area also take one javelina each. One turkey, of either sex, may be taken by deer permit holders on the Gene Howe area.

Department officials say the purpose of the hunts is part of the wildlife research programs to collect scientific information as well as to remove surplus game species from the areas.

Last year a total of 17,345 requests were processed by the Department, and 2,834 names were drawn and issued permits. Only 2,303 of those drawing permits showed up for the hunt and killed a total of 931 deer.

Requests should be submitted to: Public Hunts, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

CHANGEABLE FIGURE in international politics is Yugoslavia's President Tito, back in the news recently in a slightly different role than he had a decade ago. At that time he was highly touted by NATO as the West's only Communist ally, and received U.S. arms due to his opposition and rebellion against the Soviet bloc. Recently Tito's hard line against Russia has softened, and he has sided with the Arabs in the Mideast dispute, although he has tried to effect an Arab-Israeli peace.

Why Do Fish Bite After Hurricane?

Fish in the Coastal Bend area have been biting ever since Hurricane Beulah went booming through the Gulf.

Fishermen are happy, but just can't seem to accept it. They keep asking "why?"

E. G. Simmons, regional coastal fisheries supervisor for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, was asked this question.

"Fish always bite good after a storm," Simmons said, "and there are probably many causes. They also bite good after sudden temperature change or a sudden drop in water salinity.

"It is quite possible that the action of the waves has scoured out whole sections of the bottom, revealing new feeding grounds. Floods wash nutrients into the bays from upriver areas, thus increasing the plankton in the bays near Gulf. This increases the number of tiny food fish which are in turn preyed on by game fish.

"We know that these things happen," Simmons continued, "so we speculate that this has caused the wide ranging of game fish and the resultant fisherman success."

SBA Adds Office At Falfurrias

The Small Business Administration has opened a Disaster Loan Office in the County Courthouse at Falfurrias. It is the fifth office in the area struck by Hurricane Beulah to be established under the SBA Disaster Branch located in the W. W. Jones building in downtown Corpus Christi.

The Falfurrias office, like the sub-offices put into operation last week at Alice, Sinton, Robstown and North Beach, will expedite the handling of inquiries about federal disaster loans available to victims of the hurricane.

The office, like the others, will be manned by SBA Disaster Loan Specialists temporarily on duty here. Most of them are veterans of the disaster loan program operations that were instituted in the wake of major disasters in other parts of the nation.

Rodney W. Martin, Branch manager in charge of SBA operations at Corpus Christi since the hurricane struck, said the 30-man staff so far had conducted 650 interviews with storm victims seeking low cost loans. He said more than half a million dollars worth of the disaster loans are currently under consideration.

Martin pointed out that an SBA Disaster Loan is made with a 3% interest rate, and there is no maximum amount that may be borrowed, under the provisions of the disaster loan which can be used here. Martin also pointed out that under those provisions an SBA loan of less than $2,500 is available as an "unsecured" loan.

Martin said that the SBA Loan Specialists at each of the offices had free booklets available which explain the SBA program of loans for a disaster area and how to apply for it. He said the loans were available for individuals who have lost personal property as well as home-owners, businesses and non-profit organizations.

Now Is The Time to Enroll For Medicare

It is estimated that about 625 persons over age 65 in the eleven county Coastal Bend area of South Texas are now eligible to enroll for social security medical insurance. According to District Manager H. M. Cleveland of the Social Security Administration, these are residents who failed to sign up for the health insurance at the time they could first enroll. This represents only about two and one half percent of the over 65 population.

"The law provides a second chance for those who did not enroll the first time because they were not fully informed," he said. "The time is now—during October, November, or December. The fourth calendar quarter of each odd numbered year is a time for general enrollment. It is also a time for withdrawal if any beneficiary should want to drop out.

"Anyone of age 65 who does not have a medicare card should inquire now at the social security office about his right to the health insurance. In the future, everyone should sign up during the three months before reaching age 65, Cleveland said. "The government pays half the cost, and this insurance provides excellent protection against the major costs of health care.

"Medical insurance is voluntary, but we hope that no one will lose his right to the protection due to a lack of knowledge," he added. "We urge every eligible person to get in touch with his social security office for an explanation now."

Cleveland says that interested persons in this area, should visit, write, or telephone the Social Security Administration, 1802 South Staples St., Corpus Christi, for full information about their health insurance.

The Big Tree Of Goose Island Weathers Storm

The Big Tree, national champion live oak at Goose Island State Park, has weathered another hurricane without damage, according to Donald Oliver, regional Parks supervisor of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Although many trees in the park were uprooted and destroyed during Hurricane Beulah and extensive damage was done to the park facilities, this mighty oak which has stood there for the past 2,000 years took the storm in stride.

"We are extremely pleased that this living landmark was not injured," Oliver said. "It has just recently been named National Champion Live Oak and it would have been a severe blow if we had lost it."

Storm Aftermath Effects On Coastal Fisheries

The aftermath of Hurricane Beulah will probably produce mixed blessings to the coastal fisheries of South Texas, according to E. G. Simmons, regional coastal fisheries supervisor for the Parks and Wildlife Department.

The Port of Brownsville-Port Isabel area which constitutes the largest shrimp landing port complex in the nation suffered severe losses with approximately 82 shrimp boats sunk, grounded, or damaged. Loss of port facilities, docks, and boats has been estimated above $25 million in that area alone. Loss of fishing time was also costly in this record year of shrimp production.

Vessels that have fished off the lower coast since Beulah have reported excellent catches.

Salinities will be lowered in all areas and in most instances this will be beneficial. Some bays, however, will become so fresh that marine life will die or move until salinities increase.

Baffin Bay, Nueces Bay, Copano Bay, parts of San Antonio Bay, and the lower Laguna Madre near Arroyo Colorado will probably be affected in this way. In the deeper bays and those having direct openings into the Gulf, the salt and fresh waters have mixed and extremely desirable conditions prevail.

Redfish and black drum often move into fresh waters to feed for limited periods. Fine catches of these fish are already being reported and conditions should be even better in the near future. Trout fishing will improve as the bay waters clear.

White shrimp prefer fresher water than do the brown shrimp. Flounder should be moving toward the passes in preparation for the fall spawning run to the Gulf.

Juvenile blue crabs, relatively abundant in recent months on the lower coast, should flourish under the present conditions although very few large ones are likely to appear this year. Next summer large crabs should be abundant in San Antonio, Aransas, and Corpus Christi Bays, and even in the Laguna Madre.

Oysters were destroyed in South Bay near Brownsville and in those parts of Aransas and San Antonio Bays where flooding was severe. Since they were not abundant before the flood, this loss is not severe, except locally. The same flood waters which killed these oysters may reduce the incidence of disease organisms which had decimated populations in Aransas Bay.

Cedar Bayou Pass remains open and is connected to Vincent's Slough, also open to the Gulf. Corpus Christi Pass, and Packery Channel all broke open to the Gulf and are letting excess tide out of Corpus Christi Bay. Five passes, two of which are fairly large, broke through Padre Island about 50 miles south of Bob Hall Pier.

"While the affects of the storm will be costly to the marine fisheries, some benefits will also be obtained," Simmons said.

Uncle Sam's Selective Service

Editors Note: Below are questions now being asked at draft boards. The answers are by Col. Morris S. Schwartz, State Selective Service Director, 702 Colorado Street, Austin, Texas 78701. He will welcome your questions.

Q—In order to qualify for a II-S student deferment, must I enter college in the first class commencing after graduation from high school?

A—No. If you are not reached for induction on account of your age before you enter college, you may receive the deferment even though a period has passed when you were not in school, provided you are not yet 24 years old. Once enrolled, you must request deferment from you draft board in writing, then remain a full-time, satisfactory student.

Q—How can I become a member of the local draft board?

A—If you are a citizen, at least 30 years of age, reside in the area over which the board has jurisdiction, and are not a member of the armed forces or its reserves, you are eligible. Contact the present members of the board, or write the State Selective Service Director, or the Governor, indicating your interest. Members are recommended by the Governor and appointed by the United States.

Q—I am a graduate student. Will I be eligible for a I-S (C) classification?

A—Yes, if you were deferred by your board in Class II-S prior to June 30, 1967. Otherwise, you are not eligible.

New Opportunity For GI Home Loans

Almost 2.4 million World War II servicemen have a new opportunity to obtain GI home loans, according to P. J. Mims, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Houston, Texas.

One provision of Public Law 90-77, signed recently by the President, benefits veterans who had relatively long periods of World War II service, the VA manager pointed out.

The final cutoff date for GI loans for these men and women was extended from July 25, 1967, to July 25, 1970.

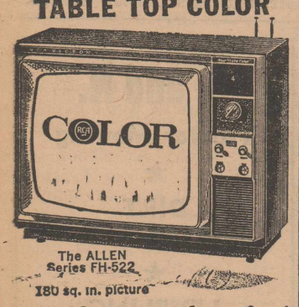

The length of time an individual veteran remains eligible for GI loan benefits depends on his date of discharge and the length of his active wartime duty.

Also, Mims added, all World War II veterans discharged for service-connected disabilities will have until July 25, 1970, to use their GI loan benefits. Eligible widows of World War II servicemen or veterans whose deaths were due to military service received the same extension.

The VA manager urged all veterans who have Certificates of Eligibility bearing a July 25, 1967 expiration date to submit a new application and their discharge papers to the VA office serving their area. VA will recompute their expiration date and endorse the new date on their certificates.

Any World War II veteran may apply for determination of eligibility, but the legislation does not extend eligibility which expired before July 25, 1967.

Beulah Victims Get Tax Break

The President's declaration that areas of Texas warrant Federal disaster assistance because of Hurricane Beulah makes special tax relief provisions available to certain fiscal year taxpayers affected, IRS District Director R. L. Phinney said today.

If a taxpayer files on a fiscal year basis and the disaster occurred after the end of his fiscal year but not later than the date his income tax return was due, he may elect to deduct the casualty loss on his return for the year ended instead of waiting till the following year.

If the fiscal year taxpayer has already filed his return, he has three months after the due date in which to file an amended return or a claim for refund (Form 843) reflecting his losses.

Non-business casualty loss deductions are limited to the amount over $100 for each casualty.

Counties included in the President's declaration are Aransas, Atascosa, Bee, Brooks, Cameron, DeWitt, Duval, Goliad, Gonzales, Hidalgo, Jackson, Jim Hogg, Jim Wells, Karnes, Kleberg, Lavaca, Live Oak, McMullen, Nueces, Refugio, San Patricio, Starr, Victoria and Willacy.

Phinney said that tax assistance clinics will be held in various cities later this month. Advance notice of dates and times will be given to the public when locations have been selected.

Phinney also stated that taxpayers may secure Internal Revenue Service Document No. 5174, "Disaster, Casualties, and Thefts—How the Federal Income Tax Applies," by calling the nearest Internal Revenue Service office, or by writing to Internal Revenue Service, 300 East 8th Street, Austin, Texas 78701.

Maintenance of Texas highways costs the tax payers 15 cents out of every highway dollar, compared to a national average of 25 cents.

The remainder of the meeting will be devoted to election of district director, member and alternate to state nominating committee, invitation to next conference, report of registration committee, unfinished business and report of resolutions committee consisting of Tommie Ballinger, Veronica Massey of Robstown and Phyllis Hull of Woodsboro.

CITY APPLIES—

of Public Works Tom Shults to investigate, draw up an plan and prepare specifications to get bids on a possible project to extend city water service to some areas in south Rockport not presently served.

—Received a letter from L. D. Collins, vice president, operations, Central Power and Light Co., Corpus Christi, thanking the Council for the use of city equipment to straighten main feeder-line power poles during the emergency.

—Approved payment of $2,308, balance for the fiscal year, to the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department on the basis of 1,154 man-drills.

SCHOOL DAMAGE—

The School Board voted to renew for 1968 and 1969 a contract with Thos. Y. Pickett for the evaluation of mineral and industrial properties.

Gray reported a slight change in the bus run to the Rincon area has been made to relieve other buses of overcrowding. Arrangement has been made with Martin Wheeler to have the children from that section brought to the Skorupa stop and the regular bus will pick them up there, making other necessary stops for Live Oak School. The new service will cost an additional $50 which school authorities consider well worth it.

The Texas Highway Department has had 50 years of experience in paring costs and putting 99 per cent of its funds into highways. Less than one cent of every highway tax dollar goes into administration.

STORM DAMAGE TO WILDLIFE MAY BE SMALL

Damages to wildlife in storm-torn South Texas may be extremely small, according to Charles Winkler, regional wildlife supervisor of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

What damage was done may be offset by range improvement in the future due to abundant rains.

Although only aerial inspection has been possible in much of South Texas, Winkler made the following report.

Deer—No serious effects. Some deer drowned on St. Joseph Island, Aransas County, because they couldn't get to high ground and some may have drowned in upper South Texas river bottoms which flooded before they could get to high ground. Generally, the rains will improve range conditions and deer will be in good physical condition by hunting season. If rains had not occurred, we could have lost more deer to starvation than we did to floods. Deer probably were displaced from river bottoms to upland ranges, particularly along the Nueces River, and may remain displaced through hunting season. This will depend on condition of river bottoms as a result of flooding (silt deposits and water action may cause browse plants to defoliate) and may cause permanent displacement to upland sites in some areas.

Javelina — Floods probably had no more serious effect on javelina since they prefer upland sites. Perhaps some young died from exposure.

Quail—If late nesting was occurring, these nests were destroyed. Adult birds probably moved to high ground except in river bottoms where flooding was so widespread that birds might not have been able to reach adjacent uplands. Since the hatch was low this year, floods had little or no effect on birds. Flooding in the Valley did not occur in quail range.

Turkey—Perhaps some loss in upper South Texas river bottoms, but even this year's hatch was old enough to fly to high ground. Loss was minimal.

Doves — Losses minimal. Flocks will probably be scattered due to abundance of water; may be concentrated in feeding areas, particularly in the Valley.

Waterfowl, arriving for their winter stay on the coast, will find plenty of nesting and feeding grounds with just about every pothole in South Texas full of water.

"In spite of the devastation and destruction wrought by Hurricane Beulah in South Texas, I believe our upland wildlife came through in pretty good shape and our hunting season should be about normal," Winkler said.

Along The Waterfront

Fishing is very good at Key Allegro Island Motel. Mr. and Mrs. H. Kalitta of Austin were pleased to be able to fish from their room and take 40 trout, red fish, flounder, golden croakers and small butterfly drum.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig McDonald and Karen and Eric, of Ralls, Texas, caught 52 trout Thursday morning, fishing near Long Reef.

Typhoid Shots Given to 4,000

Dr. Homer F. Elliot, city health officer, said this week that approximately 4,000 persons received the three typhoid shots as recommended by health authorities.

Following hurricane Beulah and the tornado and flooding, everyone in this area was advised to take the shots, particularly those whose water supply comes from private wells.

The vaccine was made available without charge by the Texas Health Department after a request was made by local and county authorities.

Dr. Elliot said about 5,000 persons took the first shot two weeks ago at Rockport Elementary School but that the number dwindled down to approximately 4,000 for the second and third shots last week and this at the VFW Hall.

He also advised those who took three shots to get a booster shot a year from now and each year thereafter "and there will be fewer sore arms."

MRS. JOHNSON HOSTS TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Members playing were Mrs. Homer Faber, Mrs. Arlo Hansen, Mrs. Harry Mills, Mrs. Tom Rogers, Mrs. Roy Woods, Mrs. L. G. Wood and one guest, Mrs. Mills.

All states now require hunting and fishing licenses.

SGT. PADIER IN VIETNAM

Sergeant Padier, a flight engineer, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces. Before his arrival in Southeast Asia, he was assigned to Stewart AFB, Tenn.

The sergeant, a graduate of Aransas County High School, is a veteran of the Korean War.

MRS. HAZEL MARTIN DIES

Funeral services were held Sept. 30 in Hugo, Okla., for Mrs. Hazel B. Martin, 82, who died in that city Sept. 28. She was the mother of Mrs. Ellis L. Clark.

Mrs. Martin in 1926 became one of the first women, if not the first, in the United States to be appointed to a U. S. Commission when the position was left vacant by her husband who resigned due to poor health. She was 42 at the time. She was also a noted authority on Indian history.

Known to many Rockport and Fulton people as the result of her visits here, Mrs. Martin was a member of the Methodist Church and was a past matron of the Order of Eastern Star.

In the 1930's she participated in a statewide compilation of pioneer Indian history by the Oklahoma Historical Society, working in Choctaw, Cleveland and Johnston counties.

JOHN KINSEY

If you want to see some beautiful planes, go out to Aransas County Airport about 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 14.

There may be as many as 40 privately owned planes landing at the airport during one of the stops on the 19th annual All Texas Air Tour. The planes are scheduled to take off at 11:15.

Members of The Texas Air Tour are men and women, not just from Texas but also from other states, whose main hobby and mode of transportation is their own plane.

There are businessmen, manufacturers, ranchers, farmers, engineers, industrialists, lawyers, doctors and others who, during this tour, have the opportunity to see for themselves what the great State of Texas has to offer, and its contribution to America's economy and growth.

The planes vary from modestly priced jobs to fancy craft worth $50,000 or more but regardless of the individual price of the planes, their owners share one thing in common—a true love for flying and being with other enthusiasts.

Each year the tour covers a different area of Texas with short stops and overnight says at various cities. This year's tour started at Temple and included stops at Hearne, Victoria, Spaceland, Galveston, Conroe, Waco, Cleburne, Mineral Wells, Breckenridge, Vernon, Quanah, Childress, Perrytown, Pampa, Dumas, Hereford, Plainview, Brownfield, Lamesa, Big Spring, Andrews, Wink, Pecos, El Paso, Marfa, Ft. Stockton and Sonora through Thursday.

On Friday and Saturdays stops will be made at San Angelo, Uvalde, Laredo, McAllen, Brownsville, Rockport, Robstown and Castroville.

Last year the Rockport Chamber of Commerce had a caravan of cars waiting to take the fliers to a motel for coffee and doughnuts. This year, another welcome is planned.

Library Report For September

There were 137 books added to the library shelves during September. Of particular interest to young people were books on cars, hot rodding, motorcycles and drag racing.

Others are The World of Yachting and Disney's Art of Animation and some 20 new mysteries by popular authors, Science of Hand Writing Analyisis, Collection Antiques in America and Hill Country Harvest.

Donations of books during the month were made by Mrs. Petra Corpus, a religious book; 7 miscellaneous titles by Mrs. Tessie Maurer; 15 novels by Mrs. Guy St. Clair and four hystery novels by Col. C. E. Gooding.

Mrs. Brymer, the librarian states that books are frequently donated and given to the library without the names of the donors known. Since these donations are so much appreciated and valued, Mrs. Brymer suggests that when a book is given it would be helpful if a slip of paper with the donor's name were placed in the book.
