BORGER, Texas, Feb. 26.—Swooping down on Borger unheralded and at a most unsuspected time, a group of federal prohibition officers closed in on the city Saturday noon, surrounding every booze palace on Main street, the federal men made quick work of the rail and were successful in nabbing a number of prominent Borger bootleggers with the goods. Several men were caught running through alleys with stocks of goods crated in haste from the joints and in hope of escape.

Taken to Amarillo
Just what count the federal men scored at the close of the raid is not known. The prisoners were taken with the honor conferred to Amarillo. The federal did not work with the city police or sheriff departments, who were unaware of the coming of the government officers.

The report that state rangers were included in the raiding party is said to be groundless and that only federal men proceeded in the round-up.

TWO WOMEN, 13 MEN

CAUGHT IN BORGER RAID
AMARILLO, Feb. 26.—Two women and 13 men are in the Potter county jail charged with the sale of intoxicating liquors as a result of a raid at Borger by 17 federal officers assisted by Sheriff Wiley Polard and two of his deputies today.

The prisoners will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Jewell Seabury Monday, according to W. C. Quinn, in charge of the raiders.

Officer Is Beaten by Gang at Borger

BORGER, Feb. 24.—Two men were brutally beaten up, one wounded from a gun shot and left lying on the prairie for dead Friday night when six men attacked them, one at a time and then attempted to make their escape from Electric City and Borger after cleverly planning the act.

Deputy sheriff Tom Wilson and J. W. (Shine) Poppey of Electric City were the victims of the gangsters. Deputy Wilson was badly beaten and bruised, while Poppey was shot through the forehead and seriously wounded.

Bill Parks and Bob Hanna, managers of the two dance halls at Electric City and Pantex were arrested by a posse of deputies under Sheriff Joe Owens after an all-night search that ended temporarily at daylight. The search was continued Saturday for the other four men who yesterday were still unknown.

Wyoming, Away From World
For a Week

JACKSON, Wyo., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The most severe storm since 1909 has isolated Jackson from the outside world for a week.

Telephone and telegraph lines have been crippled at times and no mail has reached here since February 20. The men who have the mail contract have been trying to break a road through the Teton Pass, where the snow has drifted to a depth of 21 feet.

There is a constant danger of snow slides, which have caused the loss of life in the past, and they are working cautiously.

Buttermilk Battle Calls Out Officers

A Lubbock woman and her mother-in-law were released on $250 bond yesterday on charges of assault and battery, after sheriff's officers said the younger woman had broken a bottle of buttermilk on the head of the older one. Witnesses said that the mother-in-law, with her son, had driven to the younger woman's house with the buttermilk, to give it to her grandchildren, and that an argument ensued, mother-in-law first attempting to hit daughter-in-law with the bottle, and daughter-in-law taking it from her and breaking it on mother-in-law.

PLAN HOMES FOR RETIRED TEACHERS

EDUCATORS OF U. S. MEETING IN DALLAS INITIATE CAMPAIGN

(By The Associated Press)
DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 6.—Homes for retired school teachers are to be established by the National Education association in accordance with a decision of the association's directors meeting here today in conjunction with the convention of the department of superintendence of the body.

To Accept Gifts
The directors at a meeting presided over by Francis G. Blair of Springfield, Ill., president of the association, voted to authorize the trustees of the organization to accept unconditional bequests and gifts to purchase sites, erect buildings, establish endowments, and create a maintenance fund, thus taking the first definite step in a movement which has been the dream of educators for many years.

Establish Trust Fund
The directors, representing school teachers of almost every state, passed a resolution providing for the establishment of a trust fund to build and maintain the homes. This fund is to be known as the Olive M. Jones fund, in honor of Miss Olive M. Jones of New York, past president of the National Education association, who started the movement for teachers' homes four years ago. The amount of the fund was not determined.

How Many Homes?
Whether there would be homes established throughout the country or only one large national home is yet to be decided. Some directors suggested that there should be a teacher's home in each state. Miss Jones said she would like to see the first one established near Washington, D. C., which is the national headquarters of the association.

It was stated that 20 acres in Florida already had been offered for one of the homes, and that many gifts of money and land would be forthcoming.

Pan American Flyers Killed in Crash

Two Good-Will Aviators, Half Way Through 2,000-Mile Trip, Die When Planes Collide at Buenos Aires

Captain Clinton F. Woolsey and Lieut. John W. Benton (marked "x" in picture above) were killed yesterday when two planes of the Pan-American squadron, which is flying around South America to show the good will of the United States, "cracked up" at Palomar Field outside of Buenos Aires, Argentina. The picture above shows them with the other flyers of the squadron prior to the hop-off from San Antonio, December 22. They are the two in the lower right hand corner.

TWO BANQUETS TO MARK THIS WEEK

TECH ENGINEERS FEAST TUES-DAY, TEXAS EXES WEDNES-
DAY, MARCH 2

What is planned to be the largest social event of the year to be put on by any division of the Technological college and is expected to be an annual affair is the engineer's banquet scheduled for Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at Hotel Lubbock. Engineering students, members of the faculty and graduate engineers of the city, with their wives, are eligible to attend and may make reservations through Jack Maddox at the engineering building. It has been announced. More than 100 tickets have already been sold and the closing date for purchase is tomorrow evening.

With James H. Murchison as toastmaster, representatives of each class and Dean W. J. Miller will speak. Edgar Shelton is to sing.

EXPECT 100 AT ANNUAL BANQUET OF TEXAS EXES

Everything is in readiness for the Texas University ex-students banquet which is to be held Wednesday night, March 2, members of the finance and attendance committee said yesterday. The reservations for the banquet have been going rapid and an attendance of more than 100 ex-students is expected.

Klett To Preside

The program will be presided over by Judge E. J. Klett, president of the local organization. Following the singing of "The Eyes of Texas" and other variety songs, Miss Elizabeth H. West will read the declaration of Texas Independence. Leaders of the party of the program will include: E. L. Donohoe, academic; Dr. Fred Standen, medical; Judge Owen McWhorter, law; and P. K. Garrett, engineering. Following the program, the election of officers for the next year will be held. Reservations for the banquet must be placed in the hands of McWhorter, chairman of the finance and attendance committee by Monday.

According to the story told officers the women became involved in an argument and a scuffle ensued in which two shots were fired, the first of which failed to take effect.

REFUSE CLOTURE ON BOULDER BILL

SENATE WILL PERMIT BIG DAM
TO BE TALKED TO DEATH

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Death blows for this session to both Boulder Canyon dam and emergency officers' retirement bills were dealt today by the senate in refusing to restrict debate on either.

Besides the two long-limiting petitions which it rejected, the senate also refused to limit debate on the public buildings bill. One and perhaps both will be voted on Monday.

By refusing to end the spectacular filibusters on the Colorado river and officers' bills, the senate left itself in the parliamentary tangle which has existed for a week and in which some senators threaten to keep it entangled until adjournment at noon next Friday.

Out of the legislative chaos today the Boulder Canyon measure emerged as the senate's unfinished business, but it would be automatically revived for the time being at least if cloture were placed on either the public buildings or the public buildings bill.

The sentence was 99 years in state penitentiary. Butler also is under indictment for the murder of Ben Long, Bolton's brother-in-law, who was killed in the same affair.

Must Have Money on Denver Pledges

Soon, Chamber of Commerce Railroad
Committee Insists; Collections Slow

A crew of eleven engineers for the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad company, in Lubbock for the past two weeks making surveys of the proposed route of the road into Lubbock, have completed their work and moved further up the line.

The engineers did not indicate what route the road would take but expect to complete their survey within the next few days, following which maps and descriptive information on the route will be furnished the railroad committee of the Lubbock chamber of commerce and the railroad company will then ask the committee to approve and deliver the right-of-way.

To Work Soon

The chief engineer of the Denver construction company that has the contract for this end of the line will be in Lubbock in the next few weeks and it is expected that at that time the railroad company will be ready for the right of way.

HEARING THURSDAY ON COLLEGE PROBE

JOHN TARLETON AGGIE SQUAB-BLE TO BE AIRED BY HOUSE

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—Public hearing on the special investigation committee report charging and denying maladministration of John Tarleton junior agricultural college at Stephenville will be held Thursday night by the house committee on education, H. T. Brown, chairman, announced Saturday night.

The majority faction of a joint investigating committee, delegated by the 39th legislature to inquire into Tarleton college affairs, reported about four weeks ago with recommendations for a "change in management," misapplication of student fees and excessive travel expenses of school officers were charged. Senators Carl Hardin and Eugene Miller and Representatives W. T. Graves and Henry Webb signed the majority report.

"Jealous" He Says

Representative Bowen Pope, remaining member of the committee, in a minority report declared that majority report was unfounded and based on testimony of "disgruntled and jealous" factions.

The house finally agreed to refer the reports to the committee on education after an unsuccessful fight to get them printed in the house journal.

"Little Local Bill" to Repeal Amnesty

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Representative Wells of Edna, today executed an elaborate witticism in the house during a reign of facetiousness of irrelevant subjects.

Several house members recently have stirred up objections by calling up for quick passage certain bills they described as "purely local-no objection." Today Wells asked for unanimous consent to consider senate bill number nine.

"Just a little local bill—no objection—like to get out of the way," Wells explained.

"What does it do?" Speaker R. L. Bobbitt demanded.

"Oh, it is the senate bill to repeal the Ferguson amnesty bill," Wells responded.

LATIN AMERICAN TRIP IS BLOCKED

BORAH RESOLUTION AMENDED, TO DELAY TRIP DURING RECESS

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Administration senators on the foreign relations committee won their fight today to keep the committee out of Mexico and Nicaragua during the recess of congress.

With his resolution proposing such a visit facing defeat in the committee itself, Chairman Borah accepted an amendment by Senator Swanson of Virginia, the ranking democrat, authorizing the committee to sit during the recess, but confining its activities within the borders of the United States.

Still Hold Out
Administration senators held out against the resolution even in this form, voted by the democrats and Senator Borah and Johnson, republican, California, the poll standing for a favorable report to the senate on the modified resolution.

Chairman Borah plans now to make the report Monday, but is not at all certain that it will be adopted as the parliamentary situation in the senate is such that a very few senators can combine to kill almost any measure they oppose.

Individual Visits
While the committee as such will not visit Mexico and Nicaragua, several of its members will make unofficial visits to those countries. Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, plans to sail from New York on March 1 for Nicaragua.

Gun-Toting Woman Corrals Mexican

Herding a Mexican before her at the point of a gun, a Lubbock woman came into the sheriff's office yesterday afternoon with a complaint that the prisoner had been "chasing" her. She was frightened, officers say, but she had her prisoner safe.

The Mexican was released, after being questioned by officers through an interpreter, and identified by his employer as a good steady laborer whom he had just left with a truck at a lumber yard about three minutes before the woman corralled him, and who is married and has two children.

Jess Billings Fate Is In Hands Of Jury For Third Time In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The fate of Jess Billings, charged with slaying his wife with an axe in 1924, was in the hands of a jury for the third time here tonight. The first trial of the case resulted in a disagreement and the second in a life sentence.

Billings was arrested after his wife and Harley Hollyfield were found with their heads crushed in the Billings home. The defendant admitted he had found them there together and had gone to get an axe, but testified that he remembered nothing further.

BODIES TO LIE IN STATE UNTIL MONDAY AT CLUB

BUEENOS AIRES, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The American embassy announced this evening that the Pan-American flight will be resumed Tuesday.

The bodies of Captain Woolsey and Lieutenant Benton will lie in state in the officers club until Monday when a memorial service will be held in the Aglican Cathedral. They will then be taken aboard the liner Vauban, which sails the same day for New York.

BUENOS AIRES

PARACHUTES FAIL

TRIP WAS HALF OVER
WHEN TRAGEDY
OCCURS

(By The Associated Press)

BUEENOS AIRES, Feb. 26.—Death came today to two members of the United States army flight squadron just at the end of the first half of their good will visit to the Americas.

Captain Clinton F. Woolsey of Michigan, pilot of the Detroit, and the squadron's maintenance officers, and Lieutenant John W. Benton, of California, the chief pilot and the youngest of the flyers, were killed when the New York and Detroit collided in the air and crashed to earth.

Major Herbert A. Dargue, flight commander and pilot of the New York, the flagship of the squadron and Lieutenant Ennis C. Whitehead, his relief pilot, jumped from their machines and were landed by their parachutes safely.

Wings Tangle
Flying in close formation over the Palomar field, a few miles from Buenos Aires, the Detroit slipped down upon the New York when the signal was given to break formation for landing purposes. The wings of the two planes became entangled and they went into a spin together. The Detroit taking fire. The other two planes, the St. Louis and the Vauban, proceeded to the landing place.

Dargue Jumps
Major Dargue and Lieutenant Whitehead succeeded in jumping from their plane, but, according to Captain Whitehead of the St. Louis, the Detroit was thrown free and was killed by the fall. An early version had it that Benton was burned to death when the Detroit came down in flames.

Commander Dargue announced later that the flight would be continued by the two undamaged machines. The fifth plane, the St. Antonio, having only reached Caguas, Chile, today.

The bodies of the two valiant aviators were taken to an emergency hospital and later brought to Buenos Aires.

Comrades Shocked

A touching scene occurred when the others of the squadron learned of the tragedy which befell their comrades. They showed great grief and carried the bodies of Captain Woolsey and Lieutenant Benton tenderly to a resting place.

Eye witnesses of the crash and Argentine experts who also saw the affair differ in their opinions as to how it happened. Some believe that the planes were flying too closely together; others say that a slight deviation in the course of one of the amphibians was the cause of the accident.

It was originally arranged for the planes to proceed to Palomar on Sunday. The flying men were invited to make the trip to the field in automobiles, but they declined for they did not wish to leave their craft until they were safely tied up.

HAD COMPLETED ABOUT HALF OF TRIP FROM TEXAS

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Pan-American good will flight had completed about half their 20,000 mile journey, which started from San Antonio December 21, when disaster overtook the New York and the Detroit at Buenos Aires today.

The flight of the five amphibian planes and their crews of ten was beset with difficulty, the outset. They were delayed a day in hopping off from Duncan field here by rain and fog. Duncan field became a quagmire, the air planes were moved to Kelly field from which they took off the next day after several hours delay because of fog. Then at Tampico, Mexico, the planes became separated.

Billy Evans Says:

Steve League Yarns
Three favorite Steve league yarns have become sure enough fact.
For almost 10 years the boys have been trading Eddy Roush of the Cincinnati Reds to New York during the winter.
Roush is an annual holiday. Every spring he has had his usual argument over salary and in most cases he has won it.
While Roush would insist he would get his figure or he wouldn't play and the Cincinnati club would say it had gone the limit on the money question, the scribbles would get busy sending Roush to another club.
Trading him to the New York Giants has been the most popular move. Roush was once with McGraw and he has been trying to get him back ever since.
A short time ago the winter myth actually happened; Roush was sent to New York for George Kelly.

That is one of the not favorites of the Steve league that has been wiped from the winter books of baseball trades.

However, Roush is still making part of the story good, by holding out for more money. Report has it that he is waiting for $100,000 more than he received at Cincinnati. His contract last year called for $18,000.

Viewing with the Roush story, as New York trading material, has been the annual rumor that Rogers Hornsby would be sent to the Giants.

McGraw has always been keen for Hornsby. He has made several big cash offers for his services, one of them being for $250,000.
Then came a chance to trade him over-up for Frankie Frisch. A little argument between Branch Rickey, then manager of the club, and Hornsby, caused Rickey to propose the all-even dicker for Frisch.

At that time Frisch was a sensation and McGraw figured he was the one player on the club he couldn't part with. He came back with several counter propositions but St. Louis turned them down.

Rogers Hornsby Case
Since then, certain differences have developed between McGraw and Frisch, which ultimately resulted in McGraw's sending him to the Cardinals with Hornsby coming to New York in exchange.

Like the Roush rumor, the Hornsby trade came at a time when a thing appeared out of the question.
Hornsby, appointed manager of the Cardinals, had come through with a pennant and a world series, giving St. Louis its first thrill along those lines. He was the town hero.

Salary differences and other reasons threatened to cause Owner Brean to accept a one-year contract, instead of one calling for three years, developed that caused Owner Brean on courted public disapproval by making good his threat.

A third winter yarn that has been almost as much of an annual affair as the trading of Roush and Hornsby to New York has been the passing of Ty Cobb as manager.

Whenever baseball news became scarce, the rumor was broadcast that Cobb would not return to Detroit. Yet he would bob up every spring despite the many trades that were made for him during the winter.

Hardly had the 1926 season closed than the usual report gained momentum. It finally came through, although his passing was really actuated by the "Dutch" Leonard affair.

However, Ty simply refused to stay resigned and declared innocent of the scandal charges, returns as a player with the Athletics.

It certainly looks as if the scribbles would have to invent some new Steve league stuff for the coming winter.

BANKERS' MAGAZINE DEVOTES SPACE TO LUBBOCK AND SOUTHWEST; EDITOR ELMER YOUNGMAN TELLS FULL STORY

"West Texas stands out as an agricultural empire, just beginning to come into its own. Not many years removed from the Indian and the half-breed and with great cattle ranches still covering a great part of this vast domain, the hundreds of thousands of acres of practically virgin soil planted to cotton, wheat, sorghum, corn, milo and alfalfa, during the last ten of fifteen years, are yielding remarkable returns. Poultry farms have sprung up here and there and one county in the eastern part of West Texas, with more than 100,000 white leghorns, is striving to make itself literally "the egg basket of Texas." More and more poultry raising and dairying as allied activities are taking their places on North Texas farms, revolutionizing the farming practices that have tended to retard the fuller development of this country."

Is Banker's Statement
This is the statement of Elmer H. Youngman, editor of the Bankers Magazine of New York, whose timely article on West Texas was printed in the February issue of the magazine following a visit by Mr. Youngman to this country. His article, which touches various phases of West Texas' development, is especially timely as the American Bankers association will hold its annual meeting in Houston this year, and for this reason, attention of bankers of the nation is centered on Texas.

"Perhaps no section of Texas is developing more rapidly and more substantially than the great Plains country of the Panhandle," Mr. Youngman says. "It has become within very recent years, a region not merely of wonderful agricultural and mineral possibilities, but of actualities. Grain and feed crops of many kinds are already grown in abundance, while there are expert statements showing that cotton can be produced more economically here than elsewhere in the United States. Improved means of gathering the crop, now extensively being employed in this section of the state, have helped in making cotton production even more economical."

Is New Country
"West Texas is a comparatively new country, the largest part of which (twenty years ago) was assigned to large ranches and open stretches. Agricultural development has its first introduction into West Texas about two decades ago. In these two decades more than 1,000,000 have moved into West Texas from the territory west of a line from the Red river through Fort Worth, southwest to Brownwood, thence southward to the Rio Grande river near Del Rio. That West Texas is a safe agricultural country is proved in the fact that its population continues to increase from year to year, and that this increase is based on successful agriculture."

"The quality of the soil, the climate, the level land, the lack of obnoxious weeds, the fact that fertilizer is not needed and that most of the land can be farmed with tractors explain the low production cost. It is possible for one man to plant and cultivate a much larger acreage than elsewhere in the cotton belt. The average acreage one man can attempt to cultivate in the southern cotton belt is about thirty. In central Texas it is about sixty acres, and in the large plains country it will run between 80 and 100 acres. It can readily be understood, be understood why West Texas is one of the largest cotton producing regions in the United States when you consider that cotton is really a dry land plant."

Pays Tribute to Tech
Mr. Youngman paid high tribute to the Tech college here with the statement that "the college of Technology has ample buildings and equipment (though local people differ somewhat with this statement), and stands in an experimental farm of some 2,000 acres. That it is doing excellent work may be safely concluded from the character of men having that work in charge. I think this college of technology at Lubbock demonstrates as strikingly as any other example could the application of education to the practical concerns of life which are characteristic of the state. This example is but one of many that might be cited."

Mr. Youngman goes on into a discussion of the oil possibilities of this section of the state, outlines briefly the work of the experiment station, quotes statistics on irrigation and rainfall taken from government records, tells briefly of the fight of railroad systems for connections with this country, and closes with a brief statement concerning the fundamental causes of such a heavy immigration to the territory, the larger part of which, he says, has come from the older settled parts of Texas, from the upper South—Arkansas, Missouri and Tennessee. In addition to this, he says, there has been a sprinkling of northern immigration, particularly from the middle western states such as Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa.

NORMA SHEARER IS TROUPER IN MOVIE

Vaudeville favorites of olden days, some of them since famous in the movies, some of them retired from the stage, and some still on the boards, formed an odd conclave at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios recently, where they are assembled on a big replica of "behind the scenes" at the New York Palace theater for "U-t-stage," Norma Shearer's latest story, which comes to the Lyric theater on Monday.

The scenes show "rehearsal morning" with acrobats, a lion tamer, dancers, and others getting their acts ready for the opening matinee, and Miss Shearer as the feminine half of a new song and dance team.

Among the celebrities lending vaudeville verisimilitude to the scene are Rolfe Sedan, famous dancer, who lately has been known as a screen character comedian, but who does his old tricks as well as ever, Charles Bernard Murphy, once famous as Carlo Bernardi, the lion tamer, with a trained bear and a cage of tigers; the three Rosses, a feminine acrobatic team; Luigi and Luigi, accordionists, and others. T. Holtz, a recent vaudeville favorite, plays the booking agent in the new picture and Oscar Shaw, vaudeville headliner and star of the "Music Box Revue," is leading man as the song and dance artist of the story.

The new picture, directed by Monta Bell, was produced on a lavish scale.

Others in the cast include Dorothy Phillips, former screen star who returned to the movies after an absence of several years.

ABILENE, Feb. 26.—Debits to checking accounts of the four Abilene banks for the week ending February 19 were $587,020.52 greater than the same totals were for the same week in 1926. Total debits for the week in 1927 were $2,434,445.74 as against $1,847,425.22 for the same week the previous year.

Hen Lays Five Eggs in 3 Days' Time

ABILENE, Feb. 26.—A two year old hen belonging to John A. Ellis of the New Hope community, seven miles northwest of this city takes the prize for quantity egg production over a three day period. This fowl recently laid the equivalent of five eggs in three days. On the first day of the period she produced a single egg almost double the size of an ordinary hen egg and containing two yolks and practically the same amount of whites as found in two regular eggs. Thishen laid an ordinary egg the second day and on the third she again delivered a replica of her performance of the first day by bringing forth another double-barrel egg.

To Give Prizes for Conservation

ABILENE, Feb. 26.—Much interest is being manifested in the "Food, Feed and Conservation" contest recently announced by the Abilene chamber of commerce in which 25 cash prizes will be awarded. The first prize will be $100 in gold and will go to the person living in Taylor county who produced the largest amount of headed fizzle on one acre of ground, from purebred seed.

Over fifty entries have already been made in the contest and officials of the chamber of commerce, under the direction of which organization the affair will be held, are expecting around five hundred contestants to be entered before planting time.

Rules governing the contest are very simple, but will guarantee fair and impartial competition and every entrant is assured of equal standing at the outset. Each competitor will be required to keep a record of his crop and this will be used in determining the winners.

The contest is being staged to stimulate increased interest in grain sorghum production and also to demonstrate the advantages occurring from planting purebred seed.

Second prize will be $75; third $50; fourth $25; fifth $15; sixth $10; and 20 prizes of $5 each will go to the runners-up in the competition.

Grand Duke Turns Waiter In Cinema

In "My Official Wife," Warner's latest production, Conway Tearle who is featured with Irene Rich, appears as Sascha, son of a Grand Duke.

After the bloody days of the Revolution, when his father has been killed and the vast estates confiscated, he is forced to take a job as a waiter in a Viennese cabaret. Here, in the startling beauty of a dancing girl (played by Irene Rich) Sascha finds the former Countess Orloff, whom he had wronged and who had sought him for years to make him pay the long past debt. It is a rushing, dark, glittering, brutal, tender story of an all-conquering love.

Others in the company are Sidney Bracey, John Miljan, Jane Winton, Emil Chaudart, Gustav Von Seyffertitz, Milla Davenport, Will Hall, Russell Ritchie, Tom Costello and Michael Puschoff. The film is an adaptation by Graham Baker from Archibald C. Griener's story, and was directed by Paul Stein, the celebrated Austrian.

"My Official Wife" comes to the Palace Theatre next Monday for a run of two days.

As a preventative of gutter, choctaw-lode tablets are furnished pupils in public schools of Plainfield, Wis.

NEW ROPESVILLE C. C. MAKES PLANS

RE-ORGANIZED BODY TO PUSH WELFARE OF CITY THIS YEAR

ROPESVILLE, Feb. 26.—The re-organization of the Ropesville chamber of commerce was effected at a mass meeting of the citizens of the town and community at the city drug store. The local organization has not been very active the past year, but with things looking up in every way in this little city it is thought that more interest and enthusiasm will be generated. One of the objectives of the new organization is the sponsoring of free delivery routes, binding securely the Ropesville trades territory. Another objective is getting behind the Boy Scouts organization in this community and making it go. Still another is the planning of a community fair next fall. Many other new objectives will come up during the year in which it is hoped the Chamber of commerce will take a leading part.

The following officers were elected: Judge J. R. Evans, president; S. R. Low, vice-president; Chas. W. Roberts secretary; Paul Sams, treasurer. Directors elected were J. E. Whittehorn, L. S. Bledsoe, H. W. Black, R. M. Dickenson.

Invite Bankers To Meet In Plainview

PLAINVIEW, Feb. 25.—The convention committee of the Plainview chamber of commerce and board of city development has extended an invitation through R. A. Underwood, vice president of the First National Bank of Plainview to the Panhandle Bankers' Association to meet in Plainview this spring. Plainview was host to this convention in 1923.

THE CHILDREN

We hear much these days about the children of the world, or possibly we might confine our scope to our own nation—the children of our own race and tongue. Many people seem to think that the children of today are being turned loose, with nothing to guide them in their habits, and nothing to check them in their downward trend. Some times we all look out upon the actions of the children of America and think that they are receiving no attention. In some respects we are convinced that we are neglecting the training of the children, and are allowing them too much latitude and giving them too much liberty, we are not devoting as much attention to them as we should, but in many ways, and in fact in nearly every way, under nearly every kind of organization, in churches the clubs, the societies of various kinds the child is receiving more attention than any other class of people. And well that it should, for as today's news sheet reflects the happenings of yesterday so does each generation emerge from the homes and the schools and tells the story, in their habits, their ambition, their emotions, social and cultural standards, of the moulds through which they have just passed. In the face of much of the criticism comes a challenge from the youth of today. In answer to some of the criticisms of today, by the older and more mature thinkers of the age, we are stung by the question: "What is the matter with us?" The indictment is sent back by the younger set that it is us. They say that we have turned them loose in the midst of this turbulence with nothing to go on.

The generation we send out into the world today reflects the uncorrelated enthusiasms of the early drive towards child conservation. Parts of the structure they represent are splendid, but as a whole it is lacking in architectural symmetry, underlying unity of plan. They are in general physically more vigorous, mentally freer and more alert than any who have gone before; their weakness lies in poverty of the spirit that gives a central motive power. With a rapidly growing momentum, intelligent parenthood, the teaching world, the world of science are taking up the challenge of youth. The child for the first time is being studied from the inside out, instead of from the outside—adult viewpoint—in. The pattern of childhood, not in segments but as a whole, is slowly and painstakingly being constructed so that in time we shall have the basis of a real understanding of and approach to the child. These hopeful things are springing forth in response to this new motive which is beginning to impel large groups of people. Parents are gathering together under expert guidance to examine into their common problems, to study the motives of conduct of children, to determine the environment most encouraging to development. Centers of research are being established at many universities, where laboratory methods are being applied to the study of childhood, in its specific and in its total aspects. Studies of children are being made by physicians, by psychologists, both individually and in clinical groups, to get an accurate measure of physical and mental development in terms of the normal.

Observation and corrective clinics are springing up all over the country where handicaps and defects are, as speedily as possible, treated, and ways and means of developing the maximum child are being determined. And the discovery and experimentation that are being brought out through these various means are being widely disseminated and absorbed into common practice in the home and in the school. Many influences are at work to bring into unison the various scattered efforts touching the welfare of the child. Four years ago the traditional celebration of May Day as a festival for children was revived in a new sense, as a day to call attention to the health of children. May Day has had very significant results in drawing together many organizations concerned with the well-being of children; in a recognition of common interests and goals. It has served as a back-drop against which is screened the progress of community activities in the interest of children. With each May Day health has expended in its significance until it now includes the whole child, rather than merely the physical child. This year, May 1 coming on Sunday, leads up logically to that weak spot in the whole program of child spiritual needs. The churches of the country have been asked to examine into the contribution they can make to knowledge and training of the child in his spiritual aspect, and to give to this task the same thoroughness which educational and scientific groups have given to the physical and mental aspects. This is evidence of the progress towards the rounding out of the study of childhood and the ways and means of protecting and developing the whole child. Following immediately after May Day, the American Child Health Association, at the instigation of the president, Herbert Hoover, will call together in Washington all the National agencies in allied fields to gather in conference for the discussion of the progress of child welfare during the past quarter of a century; to determine how to strengthen their lines of co-operation and more clearly to define their goal.

Pediatricians, educators, public health officials and spiritual leaders will meet with the great lay organizations to pool their knowledge and experience and try to determine how to bridge the gap between scientific knowledge and research and its application to the life of the child. Out of such a common council of those who are concerned with the problems affecting the child should flow back into our National life a great stimulus to fresh endeavor and a welding of forces to insure those rights which Mr. Hoover describes in the new Child's Bill of Rights:

"That there shall be no child that has not the complete birthright of a sound mind in a sound body and the encouragement to express in fullest measure the spirit within which is the final endowment of every human being."

Through such careful and unified building shall the challenge of youth of today be answered in the new generation.

REASONABLE PATRIOTISM

"This is not the time for a wild and frenzied jingoism that tries to pass itself off as a reasonable patriotism," Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Chicago, told the Union League Club at the Washington Birthday banquet February 22nd.

Bishop Hughes says the pendulum in the World-War period may in some cases have swung toward an excessive nationalism. We need to be careful now lest it swing so far the other way as to leave no room for an instinctive patriotism. The argument for the patriotic instinct is not unlike that for the domestic instinct. Must a man forsake his mother in order to be true to all woman-kind? And must a man spiritually forsake his motherland in order to be genuinely gallant toward all other lands? Must a man refuse to do for his own children in order that he may love and help all childhood? In the swing toward an ideal nationalism some men seem to feel that they must surrender all special attitudes toward their own country. Hence some men among us are now talking as if the way to prove your love for all peoples is to hate the United States. Some of them come dangerously near to taking the ground that because a thing is done by our country, it is therefore necessarily wrong! For ourselves, we shall insist upon better proof than that. We shall even go so far to claim that no man can be a good cosmopolite unless he is first a good patriot—even as he cannot be a good citizen if he is a bad father or son.

The greater circle must always include the less. There is an argument of instinct for patriotism. It is natural to say, "If I forget thee, O Jerusalem." When a man ceases to feel this, he is no longer a human integer; he is a vulgar fraction. Something has been lost out of his nature. The normal man in every land has his geographical loyalty that is subject only to his higher moral loyalty. Patriotism may sometimes be, as Johnson said, "the last refuge of the scoundrel"; but it is always, also, one of the resorts of the good man. After all, the nation has proven a good protector against a debased coinage, impure food, black plague, railroad accidents, and home-robbers. Withdraw the powerful guards of the government and few interests would be safe. No man and woman have the right to preach anarchy as the destruction of the nation, and then plead the very protection of the laws which they seek to destroy. They should not be deported by unfair and star-chamber processes, but they should be speedily and legally sent back to the lands from which they came. This is not the time for a wild and frenzied jingoism that tries to pass itself off as a reasonable patriotism; but it is the time when men should obtain the balance and should find out the secret of being internationalists without strangling either their domestic or their patriotic feelings. The cosmopolite and the patriot may readily be the same man. Lincoln and Washington are not less citizens of the world because they were Americans. Samuel Francis Smith, who wrote our best-known national hymn, "My Country, 'tis of Thee," wrote also our best-known missionary hymn, "The Morning Light Is Breaking." That should be for us all a symbol so that in gaining the love of humanity we shall not lose our love for that nearer relation that is represented by the Stars and Stripes.

Little Avalanches

In certain places, at least, the bootlegger's overhead is something fierce. Sworn testimony in a case tried in New Jersey developed that in order to land a cargo at a certain port it was necessary to bribe the mayor, chief of police, two detectives, a police sergeant, a customs inspector, a dock owner and 13 others, 20 in all, each of whom got a rake-off at much for each case of liquor landed.

A good many white folks in China are making a rush for the w. k. "open door."

The Curse He Can't Shake

SO THINK WE

We think that it takes a lot of horsepower to run a stable government.

We think that rubbing Mexico the wrong way does not necessarily help the situation any, but Mexico should know better than to raise the dander of Uncle Sam.

We think it is all right for the government to have plenty of departments but we are very strongly of the opinion that our government has more than is needed, and as a result there must be a great deal of unnecessary overlapping of work.

We think it is not necessary for one nation to knock the cliff off of another nation's shoulder just in order to get up a scrap between other countries, and when they do, they should be brought to account for it.

We think that all lines of endeavor have their pleasures and their sorrows.

We think if Texas should follow the example of Ohio, and put up a little white cross at each place in the road where an automobile accident had happened, that there would be more crosses than milestones, and it might have a tendency to make some people nervous as they drive along the road at sixty miles per hour.

We think possibly Lubbock does not have very many very bad automobile accidents but we fear there will be many more if the children continue to play in the streets as they are in the habit of doing these days.

We think that possibly the most effective method of stopping highway hi-jackers is to shoot to kill, but it is hoped that it can be stopped some other way.

We think Jim Ferguson is going to have a lot of fun, and get a lot of self satisfaction out of his proposal to expose the Dallas newspapers as the state who "fit in" in the recent campaign to criticize and oppose him.

We think that in all probability all of the men spoken of as probable nominees for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket, will be eliminated before the convention, and some unknown man will possibly receive the nomination. The others are entirely too well known, we are afraid.

We think Mr. Kellogg takes a terrible lot of authority in this war business anyway.

We think a lot of folks who say they do not personally support liquor might mean that they cannot walk under its influence.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that Mexico has said that if it was not for Texas they would whip the United States. It is luck for the balance of the union that Texas is between them and Mexico.

It is reported that a good fat bonus is waiting the Denver, if it will only build its line through that little city.

It is reported that some folks have had the audacity to say that the people of Lubbock are not sociable. We believe this is a false impression, but for fear that it is not, let's be more sociable.

It is reported that Mexico is having some more internal trouble. It seems this has become somewhat chronic. Possibly it's too much child.

It is reported that even the woman that wins the prize at the bridge party is not always happy, especially when she finds out that she did not get the prize that was intended for the winner, but she was not the one that was expected to win.

It is reported that a farmer seldom ever looks at a thermometer. What is the use, the work has to be done regardless.

It is reported that a bill will be introduced in congress asking for a pension for all farmers who vote the Republican ticket. That is possibly the only way the party will be able to influence the farmer's vote.

It is reported that the Coolidge team got a severe puncture the other day when Cal visited the pet farm left that congress passed.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

A new trial was refused in the case of F. M. Snow, and gave notice of appeal.

Mrs. H. E. Miller returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where she had been for two months visiting with her sister.

Joe J. Taylor, State Press Editor was here and paid the Tech college and other important places in Lubbock a visit. He was the guest of the Lubbock chamber of commerce while in the city.

A year ago the Canyon Eagles defeated the Loremo eagles in the district tilt. The score being 38 to 10.

A year ago today the first of the series of spring recitals was given at the Lubbock high school.

One year ago today Dr. Pfeiffer gave a lecture on the Palace of Versailles. He delivered a like address in several other of the State schools throughout Texas.

ALONG THE PROPER LINES OF PROBATION

As a reaction against the manliness which undoubtedly has carried the coddling of the criminal too far, and partly because a spread of violence has resulted, there is danger that the pendulum will swing too far in the opposite direction.

Already many persons demand the abolishment of the probation system that freed from abuses which have crept in, and wisely employed—may yet serve society well.

Discussing this question, former Attorney General Wickersham lately said that emphasis on these humanitarian reforms was never more important than now, when there is a tendency to pursue the age-old fallacy that plunking up penalties will prevent crime.

"No community can afford to build prisons large enough and numerous enough to incarcerate all people who violate the law," Mr. Wickersham admonished. He drew a distinction which should be more generally regarded. Releasing a warden's remark, "This man is a criminal he just happened to be sent to jail," Mr. Wickersham said that probation is intended to discriminate between persons who have merely violated some law and persons whose very presence is inimical to society.

Probation never was meant for the latter class. If the confirmed criminal benefits from it, that is because an executive or judicial error has been committed extending clemency where it was not due. That is not the fault of the system, but of an official who does not understand the instrument he is using, or is deceived concerning the character of the person he is about to set free. One so lacking in discernment is not fit for either the bench or the Governor's chair."

It should not be difficult to determine, in the individual case, whether the defendant at the bar or the convict released is entitled to another chance, or whether he has been so much more than he deserves.

Swearing and Profanity

By DR. J. W. HOLLAND

Swearing and profanity are the most foolish and unnecessary forms of talking in which men indulge. Aside from the sheer wickedness of it, it is mental laziness. It is the poorest use of English, if it can be called English, as well as the worst use to which human breath can be put.

Profanity pollutes the air, and cheapens the mind that tries to express human emotions with it.

George Washington said, "The foolish and wicked practice of profane cursing and swearing is a vice so mean and low that every person of character and sense detests and despises it."

Swearing begins with boyhood trying to imitate the language of men. Most boys acquire the practice. My father, never sworn, but each of the numerous hired hands that he employed had a peculiar variety of blue talk that was attractive to boys, and of course we had to try it out. The result was that ere we were aware, the habit of stringing for rather I should say "weak" language was upon us. It was a difficult habit to break. Sometimes, even after years, a sudden happening will almost provoke an oath of some kind.

Most men who swear do not think of blaspheming the name of God. I verily believe that not one swearer in a thousand thinks of what he is saying. He has built up a bad and wicked habit that he is largely unconscious of. Men do not want their wives to swear, so why should they persist in talk that always shocks a woman of the finest nature? The answer is "habit."

The name of God is the greatest name known to us, and the silly folly of saying that name with the ribald habit of swearing finally soils the soul of the man who does it. Swearing is unnecessary. It does no good. It makes no one happier. No man is considered bigger or better who does it. Horses, autos, or plows do not go better when cursed by a swearing horse. A rearing horse is not cured by swearing. A prominent dairyman recently told me that he had just dismissed a helper because he cursed and swore and swore about the barns. He did not want the cows corrupted.

The woman who has to put up with the cursing from the men-folks does so under a secret protest. The man, who, even unconsciously, makes his wife listen to profanity, causes her a daily grief.

Good sense condemns it. God does not approve of it. Clean thoughts do not need faith to express them. It is a bad habit—a calling chain.

Associated with profanity is the habit of obscenity. There is no excuse for obscenity among people who profess to be decent.

There is but one way to swear correctly, and that is to swear off.

"Parties! My dear, hardly a week goes by without somebody getting up some kind of a spree for the young married people."

"After all the rushing around in town you can just sit down and rest and be thankful you're out of it."

"No one ever bothers to dress on Sunday—that's the beauty of it."

"A house of your own is—well, there's so much more freedom about it."

"We wouldn't go back to the city for worlds."

"You are looking well."

"Yes, I have given up drinking."

"When did you start?"

"This morning."—Derfbarlier, Berlin.

"The street car service is rotten. Always overcrowded."

"Yes, but father, you got a seat didn't you?"

"Yes, but your poor mother had to stand all the way."—Sydney Bulletin.

"You say your ancestors were all killed in the Wars of the Moses, Miss Fitzhugh?"

"Oh, yes. Indeed, for several generations the family was extinct."—Pamling Show, London.

Doctor McCree: My dear Mrs. Goodman how could you bring out such a tiny child on a day like this, with such a bitter east wind blowing?"

Mrs. Goodman: Ah, doctor, you will have your little joke. How can a baby of this age know what wind it is?—Tit-Bits, London.

"Auntie, why do you put that powder on your face?"

"To make myself pretty."

"Then why doesn't it?"—Tit-Bits, London.

JUST FOLKS

MONEY

How strangely money acts on different men!

To some 'tis poison, and to others food.

Some winning it grow kindly and again Others we see grow arrogant and fade.

It changes all for better or for worse, To one a joy, to some one else a curse.

This man it makes a stranger to his friends, This one a friend to strangers passing by.

The common stuff which every pawnshop lends, Affects the heart, the mind, the flesh, the eye.

It seems to have no standard and no rule, It makes a scholar and it makes a fool. Because they have what tainted coins, It changes all for better or for worse.

MEMORIES

July 15, 1908—The Avalanche reported: Prof. W. G. House of Lockney passed through Lubbock Wednesday en route home from Gall, Borden county, where he has been teaching the past term of school. He tells us he has been elected as teacher for another year.

P. B. Acuff, the handsome bachelor from the Acuff community, was in to see us this week.

Uncle Hardin Green dropped in to see us Monday. He is one of the oldest citizens of the community, but he enjoys the Avalanche and left a dollar to keep it coming to his address.

W. W. Groom of Nolan county, and Elsie Dunn, daughter of J. L. Dunn of the south part of the county were married Tuesday. Judge George R. Bean officiating.

Zeb Agnew visited in Tahoka this week. It seems that there is something extremely attractive to Zeb in that town.

Benton Forest was hurt by his horse falling with him Tuesday as he was hurrying to town for a doctor for his mother who was very ill.

The Acuff items said: M. S. Acuff sold a string of yearlings to Team Tubbs this week.

Road Overseer, J. A. Wilson got his crew of road hands out on the streets Monday, and the appearance of the streets and the public square has been very greatly improved.

"There's a great picture here we ought to see."

"What is it?"

"One of Rembrandt's."

"Let's go. I haven't been to the cinema for ages."—Christian Science Monitor.

The new cook says she wants to be treated as one of the family.

"Fine! Then we can tell her exactly what we think of her."—Pamling Show, London.

LAUGHS

"Yes, Phil has been like a different man since we moved out here to Shadymore."

"But the children just adore it with all the sun and air they get."

"The evening are a bit long; still, we have our radio, and that's a comfort."

"Parties! My dear, hardly a week goes by without somebody getting up some kind of a spree for the young married people."

"After all the rushing around in town you can just sit down and rest and be thankful you're out of it."

"No one ever bothers to dress on Sunday—that's the beauty of it."

WISH TO EXPLAIN

For several days in this newspaper we have carried a message relative to the Yellowhouse No. 1 oil test near PEP. Doubtless you have read them. This is the last advertisement we will publish on this matter until we report the Gusher at Yellowhouse No. 1.

It costs good money to carry these ads in this newspaper. The main reason for our spending of money is the fact that we have the title to several thousand acres of LAND IN FEE SIMPLE—more than enough to protect ourselves in case of oil being found. Therefore we CAN and WILL sell you title to acreage, including ALL MINERAL RIGHTS THERETO, AT NO HIGHER COST than the title to these lands were conveyed twelve months ago!

Since we can deliver TITLE, including ALL MINERAL rights, at no higher costs than ordinary, why should we not urge you to take a small chance with us on the oil test, when you are getting your money's worth in land?

That Hard Lime Formation

—may be covering a pool of "liquid gold" or it may cover a formation foreign to an oil pool! At least where the pressure is so great on lime that it takes 24 hours to penetrate 5 feet of it with a heavy, sharp drill bit this happens to be something other than ordinary.....

This Last Public Statement

—of what we think of the test, of the unusual lease opportunities about it, is our method of expressing our own confidence in the outcome of the well, and belief that those who have nerve enough to venture will have already protected themselves with leases just as the big oil companies have.

Indeed, we feel proud to report, however, that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent by the successful oil companies by their protective acreage in this territory.

The next advertisement we carry in this newspaper relative to this opportunity will be AFTER THE YELLOWHOUSE NO. 1 OIL TEST has been brought in an OIL PRODUCER. Townsite lot opportunities in PEP will then be offered at prices a thousand per cent greater than the present.

The Critic Says There's No Oil in the Yellowhouse No. 1---He's the Same Fellow that Said the Same Thing in the Panhandle Field

The Cynic may be a coward—but we, prefer to look at him as a smart Alec. He's the guy that said Robert Fulton's steamboat wouldn't go and that the human voices could not be heard over Bell's telephone. He has consistently stood in the path of progress since time began. The men who have accomplished things are the men who have looked at the future through the glasses of SUCCESS! The Cynic has stood in the path of the development of every oil field discovered. Naturally you will find his numbers on the South Plains. If there is no oil on the South Plains, tell us why the BIG OIL COMPANIES are spending their thousands for lease acreage?

BEWARE of the CYNIC, he is a rock in the path of your success whatever your adventure might be. Use your own judgment—use your NERVE—be an INDIVIDUALIST—and bring success to YOURSELF in stead of being just an ordinary, working boy!

We DARE YOU to com over with us. Yes, we invite you, cordially, to do so.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Lubbock County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once each week for period of ten days before the return day hereof, in a newspaper of general circulation, which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year in said Lubbock county, a copy of the following notice:

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To all persons interested in the Estate of Jeryl G. Wood, Harrel Wood, L. D. Wood, and Ray G. Wood, minors, Maude L. Wood has filed in the County Court of Lubbock County, an application for guardianship which said application will be heard by said court on the 21st day of March, 1927, at the Court House of said County, in Lubbock, Texas, at which time all persons who are interested in said Estate are required to appear and answer said application, should they desire to do so.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court on the first day of the next term thereof this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, at office in Lubbock, Texas, this 22 day of February, 1927.

(SEAL)

AMOS H. HOWARD,
Clerk, County Court,
Lubbock County, Texas.
By Florence Swenson, deputy.

FULL PROVISIONS OF MEASURE WHICH ESTABLISHES 99TH DISTRICT COURT IN LUBBOCK ARE GIVEN HEREWITH

Full provisions of the measure establishing a second district court, the 99th, for Lubbock, are shown in the copy of the measure, by Senator W. H. Blodgett, printed below. Judge Clark M. Mullican has been named to the new bench, Homer Pharr succeeding Judge Mullican on the bench of the 12nd district court. The measure reads:

Section 1. There is hereby created the 99th Judicial District of the State of Texas to be composed of the county of Lubbock, and the district court therein shall have the jurisdiction of a district court under the Constitution and General Laws of this State.

Section 2. The terms of said court shall be held in said county as follows:

On the second Monday in January and may continue in session twelve weeks, on the twelfth Monday after the second Monday in January, and may continue in session twelve weeks, on the first Monday in September and may continue in session five weeks, and on the sixth Monday after the fourth Monday in August, and may continue in session twelve weeks.

Section 3. The District Clerk of Lubbock County shall act as the District Clerk for the court herein created. Immediately upon this Act taking effect the District Judge of the 12nd Judicial District shall enter an order transferring a portion of the cases on the docket in said 12nd Judicial District Court in Lubbock County to the District Court of the 99th Judicial District herein created, and said District Clerk shall thereupon transfer such cases accordingly and enter the same upon the docket of said court created by this Act, together with all records and papers relating thereto.

Section 4. In all cases transferred under this Act, all process and writs issued out of the 12nd Judicial District Court of said county and jurors selected prior to the taking effect of this Act, are hereby made returnable to the terms of the District Court of the 99th Judicial District as herein created and fixed, and all bonds executed and recognizances entered in any such transferred cases shall bind the parties for their appearance or to fulfill the obligations of such bonds and recognizances at the terms of said court as they are fixed by this Act, and all process heretofore returned to, as well as all bonds and recognizances theretofore taken in said transferred cases, shall be as valid as though no change had been made in the district court and the times of holding court therein.

Section 5. All process issued or served before this Act goes into effect and returnable to the district court of the 12nd Judicial District of Lubbock County shall be considered as returnable to the district court of the 99th Judicial District of Lubbock County as established and created hereby and in accordance with the terms as prescribed by this Act, and all such process is hereby validated, and all jurors heretofore drawn and selected in any case transferred under this Act shall be considered lawfully drawn for the next term of the district court to which it was transferred.

Section 6. The Governor shall appoint a judge for the district court of said district created by this Act possessing the qualifications prescribed by the Constitution and Laws of this State, who shall hold said office until the next general election and until his successor shall have been elected and qualified, and thereafter the judge of said court shall be selected as prescribed by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Section 7. The district attorney in and for the 12nd Judicial District shall act also as the district attorney for the district court herein established and created.

Section 8. The sheriff of Lubbock County shall perform the duties in connection with the court herein created as provided by law for sheriffs to perform in connection with district courts.

Section 9. The fact that there has been a rapid increase in the population of Lubbock County and a great increase in the business and activities of the people in said county, and conditions exist which demand an additional district court in said county in order to reasonably take care of the business that should be attended to by the district court of said county, and the fact that this Act should take effect as soon as possible, greater emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional provisions, at which hearing the amounts to be assessed against the respective parcels of abutting property, and the owners thereof for improvements in the units upon which the particular parcels of property abut, the amounts of benefits to the respective parcels of property by means of the improvements in the unit upon which the particular parcels of property abut, the amounts to be assessed against railways and street railways for work between rails and tracks and two feet on each side thereof, the regularity of the proceedings with reference to such improvements, the apportionment of the cost of such improvements, and other matters and things, will be determined, and after such hearing assessments will be ordinance be made and levied, and such hearing will be had and held by and before the City Commission of the City of Lubbock, Texas, in the regular Commission meeting room in the City Hall in the City of Lubbock, Texas, on the 1st day of March, 1927, at 1:30 o'clock, P. M. The rolls or statements showing the proposed amounts of such assessments are on file in the office of the City Secretary, and copies thereof are in the office of the City Engineer of the City of Lubbock, and open to the inspection of any interested parties at any time, and of all said matters and things all such owners of property, and of such railways and street railways, as well as any and all others in anywise affected or interested will take due notice.

Done by order of the City Commission of the City of Lubbock, this 10th day of February, 1927.

(SEAL) F. W. GROCE,
City Secretary, City of Lubbock, Texas.

DAILY MARKET

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 26 (AP)—Good spot demands both in southern market and abroad held cotton prices on the upward trend today and the New Orleans market after moving to highs 12 to 15 points above the a's lows closed steady at the high points with net gains for the day of 3 to 5 points. Liverpool came in four to nine penny points worse than due and first trades on the local market showed losses of 1 to 2 points. The downward movement continued until March sold for 14.60; May for 14.10; and July for 14.27; 5 to 6 points under the previous close.

Spot sales on the Liverpool market of 12,000 bales and heavy local and southern demands reversed the movement, with covering by shorts for over the week-end lifting in the climb. March ultimately went to 14.14, May 14.12 and July 14.27, 7 to 9 points above the previous close. The close was near the top.

The day's exports totaled 41,840 bales.

WOOL

BOSTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Wool trading continues slow and spotty. Sales are distributed over all grades of domestic wools with the bulk consisting of the fine kinds. Worsteds mills are principal buyers of combing wools. Top makers are also taking a little wool. Quotations remain very firm on choice lots of the worsted type of domestic wools.

COTTON GOODS

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Cotton goods sales in the gray goods division for the week closely approximated the "as a whole" print clothing being the most active fabrics in sales. Printed wash fabrics and fine woven fabrics in mixtures sold well. Yarns were steady. Knit goods were quiet. Hosiery were firm at the week end. Raw silk closed generally steady. Silk prints sold more freely. Wool goods were quiet.

FT. WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Feb. 26 (AP)—Steady prices were paid today for the limited number of receipts on the livestock market here. The 500 sheep receipts were on direct billing. Cattle receipts amounted to 250 grown heads and 150 calves. Around 300 hogs were recorded.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—The raw sugar market was quiet today, and in absence of business, prices were unchanged at 4.92.

Price changes in raw sugar futures were narrow, with only a small trade. Approximate sales 15,000 tons. March closed 3.13; May 3.21; July 3.23; September 3.42; December 3.31.

The refined sugar market was quiet and unchanged at 6.00 to 6.25 for fine granulated.

He is O.K.

Here's a true story from the pages of life: Paul Barrett was a likable chap, made friends wherever he went. In the business world, he had a way of greeting people and impressing them favorably.

When it came to social life, it was the same thing... he was a hail fellow, well met, and spent his money freely... all too freely for his own good and the good of those who trusted him.

It's the old, old story of trying to "keep up with the Jones." As time went on, the credit books of formerly friendly merchants were closed to him, and an otherwise likable chap, found himself in troubled circumstances. His credit was gone, and with it the confidence of those who trusted him.

How much better would it have been to emulate his more conservative friend, Jim Hayden, who always managed to live within his means, paid his bills promptly when they came due, and built up a reputation in business and among his friends that stood him in good stead.

When the time came to go into business for himself, everyone... from his banker to the merchants who sold him his complete stock of goods... received the same report on his credit rating when they inquired—

"Who, Jim Hayden? Oh, yes... he's O.K.!"

STUDENTS COMPLETE FIRST PLAN IN LANDSCAPING

Guy Orr and C. D. McGeehee, students in architectural landscaping, have just completed their first drawing to be put to commercial use. The drawing is a plan for the courthouse square at Brownfield. Several plans along the Terry county courthouse at Brownfield are to be drawn by the boys, and practical experience is gained in landscaping in this way.

AGGIES WIN FIRST PRIZE FOR BEST ACT IN FROLIC

The Aggies fought ahead again, in the All-College Frolic which is still the talk of the town. The act staged by the members of the Agriculture club was awarded first prize over the productions of the entire school. The vote was submitted by the audience, the aggies winning easily.

ENGINEERS TO EAT CARLOAD OF BIRDS

A special carload of chickens have been ordered by the Lubbock hotel chef to take care of the First Annual Engineers banquet which will be held at the hotel on the night of March 1. The chef has been working his best overtime preparing for the meal and has announced a menu of considerable length for the affair.

Local whoops greeted the above announcement about the feed at the meeting of the Engineers Wednesday night and speakers of the various classes were elected. Ted Sams, of Benjamin, is to brag for the juniors, he having won over James H. Rogers and Windy Sims, by a narrow margin. W. E. Street, of Lubbock, is to boast for the seniors while Sam Wagoner, of Colorado, is to be the meekly stilted speaker on the program. Musical numbers and other features have been prepared.

Jack Maddox, president of the engineering society, announced yesterday that more than 100 tickets had already been sold for the feed and prospects for an attendance of more than 150 blue shirts were bright.

Engineers wishing to go to the feed are requested to see Maddox before Saturday night.

CLASS PICTURES GO TO ENGRAVER

With the finishing of the senior pictures this week, all class pictures for the annual La Ventana will be complete, according to advice from the staff. Several panels of class pictures have already gone to the engraver and have been mounted.

A number of class panels will total 25, and the size of the annual will be increased. A new arrangement of the panels is being followed by the staff and it is expected to be a much better arrangement than last year.

COLLEGE TO PLANT ORCHARD

A ten acre orchard is to be established by the Department of Horticulture about three fourths of a mile west of the campus, where a number of varieties and types of fruits will be planted. Some of the plants have already arrived, and more orders are expected to arrive soon.

The orchard will be planted to some varieties that are proven to be adapted to this section of the country, and some will be planted which it is hoped can be planted.

The orchard will be used as a laboratory for the students in horticulture.

PREXY BIZZELL OF O. U. TO ADDRESS TECH GRADS

President W. B. Bizzell, of the University of Oklahoma, will make the commencement address for the first commencement exercises of the Texas Technological college, May 28, announcement was made through the office of President Paul W. Horn, the past week. President Bizzell is one of the foremost educators in the south, having been president of Texas A. & M. College for a number of years.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD TO BE ANNOUNCED SOON

The Faculty Board on Publications has devised a plan for election of heads of the various publications. This plan is suggested provides that all candidates for election must be thoroughly capable. All persons desiring election to the positions of Managing Editor or Business Manager of the various publications must submit an application to the Publications Board setting forth their qualifications for the position desired. The Publications Board will investigate all prospective candidates and such candidates as are deemed capable will be notified.

Candidates who have fulfilled the preliminary requirements set by the Publications Board must then secure fifty signatures of bona-fide students to a petition to the Students Council that their names be placed upon the ballot. The candidate receiving the greatest number of votes in a general election shall be declared elected.

Within the next few weeks the student body will be called upon to choose a Managing Editor for the Torch. This Managing Editor will serve during the third term of the present school year and will automatically become Editor-in-Chief next year.

In the May elections a Managing Editor of the Torch for 1927-28 will be selected. This man will automatically become Editor-in-Chief during the year 1928-29. At the same general election Business-Managers for both the Torch and La Ventana will be chosen. The Editor-in-Chief for La Ventana will also be chosen at this time.

The plan as suggested by the Faculty Board will be self-perpetuating and will assure qualified and capable staffs at all times.

GIFT OF HEREFORDS MADE TO TECH

The Department of Animal Husbandry received two head of Hereford cattle this week as a gift from the experiment station at Spur, Texas. The department is gradually building up a herd of beef cattle, and this gift will prove a valuable addition to its Hereford herd.

CALLS COME TO TECH BUREAU FOR TECH TEACHERS

Calls have begun to come in for teachers from the various rural and high schools of the state, according to Professor Evans, head of the Department of Education, and plans are being made to care for more teachers than were served by the college last year.

Files of the Teacher Placement bureau are being revised, Dr. Evans said, and students wishing to teach next year should come to his office and fill out new blanks. The Teacher Placement bureau will have an earnest start this year than was the case last year, and it is expected that it will be able to command the attention of many more schools.

TECH LIBRARY GETS SECOND SET OF BRIEFS

The Tech library this week received a second set of the town briefs for the location of Tech. This set was presented to the College by Mr. E. M. N. Morris, state superintendent of public instruction, who was a member of the locating committee of the College. Several sets of official bulletins of various government departments have also been received, and will form a valuable addition to the library, according to Miss Elizabeth West, librarian.

W. A. A. GIRLS TO RECEIVE AWARDS FROM ATHLETIC COUNCIL

At last the girls of the W. A. A. are to receive recognition from the athletic council. According to an announcement made by the council the past week, the girls who made the required number of points in the W. A. A. last year, will receive sweaters with the school numeral. The sweaters will be of solid scarlet, bearing the regular numeral "T", except only along more feminine lines. Four girls are to receive the awards and a fifth will receive hers during the spring term.

FIRST TECH STOCK JUDGING TEAM SELECTED

After going through a strenuous tryout yesterday afternoon, the following boys were selected to represent the Tech in the first participation in an intercollegiate stock judging contest: Glenn Plackman, of Shallowater; Orval Borroughs, of Lubbock; Sam Chatham, of Lubbock; Leslie Jenkins, of Lubbock; Jack Sides, of Lubbock; and Lennie Starr, of Palestine. They will leave Saturday night, March 3, for Fort Worth where they will take part in the livestock judging contests of the Southwestern Exposition and Fair Stock Show.

The final tryout yesterday was held with close competition among the students, the team winning by a narrow margin over the other eligible students. Coach Ray Mowery, who has charge of the team, said last night that the boys had been doing excellent work and he expected them to win honors at the meet. Mowery will be remembered for his successful coaching of winning teams for the Lubbock high school.

LUBBOCK, LUBBOCK COUNTY, TEXAS

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1927

MEANS "BY ASSOCIATED PRESS"

LEGAL FIGHT LOOMS AS POSSIBILITY IS SEEN OF RESURVEYING BOUNDARY LINES OF COUNTIES

GARZA COUNTY HAS FILED RESTRAINER

VAN SANDERS' WORK MUST STOP, COURT SAYS; LYNN COUNTY AFFECTIVE

The possibility of a re-survey and definite establishment of boundary lines of several counties in West Texas, all of which are west of Knox and Baylor counties, is seen in a probable legal drawn out legal fight, the first step in which was taken by the law firm of Deane and Klett, of this city, when this firm, counsel for Garza county, was granted a temporary injunction in civil district court here Friday halting surveyors who have been seeking to establish the boundary line between Garza and Lynn counties.

A great deal of history, that dates as far as 1858, immediately after organization of the state of Texas, is around the anticipated court action. By an act of the Texas legislature on February 1, 1858, Knox and Baylor counties were created, and definite boundary lines fixed. By an act of the Texas legislature on August 1875, these boundary lines were re-defined, and under this act, all other counties west of these two were defined as 30 miles square, but it appears that no definite survey has ever been made of the lines, regardless of the fact that county boundary lines are existent now throughout the entire territory.

Work Now Under Way
The petition filed in connection with hearings for the restraining injunction explains that work of a survey of the boundary line between Lynn and Garza counties is now under way; Lynn county was established and defined by the act of the legislature in 1875, which incidentally was the first session, by the terms of which Lynn county was to be 30 miles square, all others west of Knox and Baylor counties, and that according to calling of the survey, the northeast corner of Lynn county is in truth 150 miles from the southeast corner of Knox.

The petition recites that by reason of the facts the beginning point for location of Garza county is from the north and south lines of Baylor and Young counties, 130 miles east-northeast corner of Garza; that the true boundary between Garza and Lynn counties, which has never been legally determined nor established is located and can be established and marked legally only by beginning at the designated point in Baylor county running due west, then south, then east to the true boundary.

Confusion Has Arisen
Due to the non-establishment of the boundary, confusion has arisen in the proper places to pay taxes and other property in that area, and each of the interested parties is asserting its own government functions over the disputed territory, the petition says, alleging further that Lynn county now has negotiations under way seeking to locate the boundary; that this surveyor employed for the work did not begin at the designated point in Baylor county as provided for in the statute act.

The petition charges that Sylvan Jones, the surveyor, who is made a party to the injunction, has arbitrarily designated a certain corner or stake owned by A. B. Jones for the southwest corner of Lubbock county many years ago, and that this stake is 144 miles south and 678.8 varas east of the true northwest corner of Garza county when measured from the proposed corner.

Garza county, it is said, has never consented to recognize the Jones corner, which it is charged was surveyed in a due east and west course, but that the county is now ready to have the true corner and boundary established, paying its part of the expense properly carried on.

Taxes Basis Of Trouble
The petition alleges that the survey from the Jones corner would cut twenty sections off Garza into Lynn, depriving Garza of taxation from twenty square miles of territory. The land commissioner of the state has approved the survey from the Jones corner, it is claimed, issuing instructions to surveyors to run from this corner, which it is charged, would make an oblong rectangle instead of square, as provided under the law.

The injunction as granted restrains Lynn county and Mr. Sanders from continuing the work pending further order from the court. Considerable interest is attached to the case due to the potential far-reaching effect on all the counties in this part of the state.

Lubbock citizens who are want to know the early spring and want to know a change in the land and location on roads, routes and other matters, Mrs. Jewell Hall, secretary of the South Plains Auto club said yesterday. The club now maintains a club bulletin in the chamber of commerce office from the various clubs the state and are able at any time to give information. Small pocket sized road maps may be obtained from the club also, Mrs. Hall said.

The club has been glad to interest in a good number of new members joining recently. The club membership of 1926 is 100.

SLATON C. C. PLANS MONTHLY LUNCHEON

FIRST OF FEASTS WILL BE HELD ON MARCH EIGHTH IS PLAN

SLATON, Feb. 26.—A monthly luncheon meeting is to be held by the Slaton chamber of commerce, the first luncheon coming March 8, at which the twelve standing committees of the organization will be present.

After the first meeting, each director of the board of fifteen will bring one invited guest to each monthly luncheon. No repetitions are to be made in entertaining individual members until all the membership have been present at the several luncheons during the year. When all members have attended the meetings, those outside the chamber of commerce will be invited. New members will be welcomed on the same basis as present members.

The program at each month's luncheon will be conducted by one of the twelve committees, and the various phases of work expected of the committees will be discussed.

Upon presentation of the plan for these meetings, the board of directors of the organization unanimously approved it. The chamber of commerce secretary originated the idea, and members believe it will bring about a diffusion of ideas and an increased enthusiasm in the organization. J. W. Hood, president, said.

'William Dollar' Will Come To Lubbock
He'll Visit Many Local Business Firms

"Mr. William Dollar," a world investor will visit Lubbock next week, coming as a guest of the Avalanche-Journal, but which here expects to visit just as many of our business institutions as possible, and the total number visited will depend entirely on the reception he is given and the co-operation of the merchants of the city in introducing him around to other merchants.

Bill Dollar, as he is familiarly known all over the world, and there is hardly an individual on the civilized globe that has not met him, is going to visit just as many of our business men as possible, to help make a success of "Pay Your Bills Promptly Week" and is an accredited representative of the Retail Credit Men's National association, which is sponsoring this week all over the nation.

Is Annual Affair
February 28 to March 5, 1927, has been designated by retailers all over the United States as "Pay Your Bills Promptly Week" and is an annual affair, staged and promoted to start dollars rolling and make times better.

The local Retail Merchants association is co-operating in the movement and the 167 members of the association here all have placards, envelopes, stickers and other advertising matter to help the movement along.

Bill Dollar's part in the program will be to demonstrate how such a pay up campaign in Lubbock can start dollars rolling and make times better. His big job is to start everybody to

RETAILERS PLAN BANNER MEETING

LARGEST SESSION IN HISTORY
OF SOUTH PLAINS IS EXPECTED MARCH 7

The Lubbock Retail Merchants association is making plans for one of the biggest meetings of retailers that has ever been held on the South Plains for March 7, when the annual meeting of the organization will be held in the banquet room of Hotel Lubbock.

The organization has recently put on a membership drive which brought the total membership up to 167 members. All these members are expected to attend the meeting and assist in the election of directors for the coming year. In addition to the local members over 125 guests have been invited from the surrounding South Plains towns.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce has joined hands with the retailers organization in making the annual meeting a big success. The out of town visitors will come as guests of the chamber of commerce. Among the visitors will be officials of the chambers of commerce, and retail merchants associations, newspaper editors and merchants.

Anderson To Be Here
Fred W. Anderson, known as the "Miracle Merchant," of Cozad, Nebraska, will be the principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Anderson has been in demand for chamber of commerce, retail merchants associations and other conventions and meetings for the past few years since he built up an annual volume of business of $300,000 in a town of 1,300 population.

Tickets for the meeting will be on sale Monday at the office of the association and by committees.

Eight committees volunteered at a meeting late Friday to handle the ticket sales. Chairmen of the eight committees are: E. L. Robertson; Ed Lowery, John Auerit, J. D. Hartzell, A. G. Johnson, Paul Sherrill, Charles Garrett and R. L. Fletcher.

The committees will see the entire membership Monday.

Mr. Watson will open his first station, located at 19th street and Avenue M on Tuesday, while the other, located at Texas Avenue and 14th, will not be finished and placed into operation before next week. Beginning on Tuesday, with the opening of the first station, and continuing through until noon on next Saturday every person making a purchase at the station will be given an opportunity to submit a name for the new businesses.

According to Mr. Watson the two stations will both carry the name, and will be designated as "No. 1" and "No. 2." He will handle Simms oil and gasoline.

J. T. Taylor, of the Southwestern engraving company of Ft. Worth, was a business visitor in Lubbock yesterday.

paying their bills. In this way money will start circulating, the dead lock will be broken, and good times will result.

Is Old Idea
For years this idea of setting aside one week as "Pay-up Week" has been observed and in hundreds of cities and communities, it has started things going, raised money, increased sales, given fresh hope and impetus.

Mr. Dollar, expects to demonstrate the fact that, "If we pay each other all gain." In other words the motto that he demonstrates is, "I'll pay you." "You pay him." "He'll pay me."

While "Pay-up Week" is no experiment and has been a tremendous success in hundreds of places for years, the Avalanche-Journal in co-operation with the Retail Merchants association thought best to bring Bill Dollar to Lubbock and have him demonstrate personally just how the plan works.

Starts Monday Morning
He will start on his visits to the various business institutions Monday morning and every reader of this paper is urged to watch for further announcements of his work and visits and see for themselves first hand just what he is doing for Lubbock.

In the meantime the attention of our readers is called to the formal announcement of "National Pay Your Bills Promptly Week," in Lubbock and every reader's co-operation and assistance in making the week a success in Lubbock is asked.

Music Memory Contests Inaugurated In Lubbock City Schools This Year; Thirty Great Compositions Listed

Lubbock schools are to have a Music Memory contest this spring for the first time, although individuals have fostered such contests before in the city. It has been announced this week and plans are being made for elimination contests to be held the third week in March. The contest pieces are announced at the end of this article.

A prize is to be given to the school whose team adds up the largest score and a prize for each perfect score will be given to the school to which the pupils belong. The announcement reads: "The school teachers, in making the announcement have attached the following explanation:

The Lubbock city schools, in inaugurating a music memory contest, are in line with what the schools of most progressive cities are doing. There are probably over a thousand places which are holding music memory contests this year and in each of them, great interest is being manifested in this effort to make the love of good music more general.

The idea which is back of this contest is that of getting children to know and love the best things in music. Therefore, thirty of the great compositions of the world which everyone should know, have been selected for this contest. These are presented in formal listening periods to the pupils of the fifth, sixth and seventh grades. The pupils learn to recognize pronunciation and spell correctly the names of the compositions and the composers. Interesting facts concerning each are placed in music memory scrap books, which will be on exhibit at the schools after the contest closes.

There will be two or more review concerts by local musicians to which the children will be urged and the public invited to attend. The time and place for these concerts will be announced through the newspapers.

Elimination contests will be held in the schools during the third week of March. One team of 19 members and not more than 19 individuals who score 100 per cent in elimination contests, will be permitted to enter the final city contest on March 17. There will be a prize given to the school whose team adds up the largest score and a prize for each perfect score given to the school to which the pupils belong. The list of compositions is as follows:

Folk Songs—Song of the Vols. Boatman, Knapton, Asid, Lark, Sine, Scotch.

Art Songs—From the Land of the Sky-blue Water, Cadman, Serenade, Schubert; The Year at the Spring, Beach.

Oratorio—With Verdure Gled, the Creation, Haydn; All Your Hopes, Elphig, Mendelssohn.

Opera—Theodor, Song, Carmen, Bizet; Cere, Nona, Rigoletto, Verdi; Large Xerxes, Handel; Oh, Promise Me, Robin Hood, De Koven; Barcarole, Tales of Hoffmann, Offenbach.

Symphonic Movements—Allegretto, Eighth Symphony, Beethoven.

Overtures—Overture, Mignon, Thomas; Overture, On a Waterfall, Kreisler.

Selections from Suites—A Waltz of the Flowers, Netherland Suite, Tchaikovsky; Arabian Dance, Netherland Suite, Tchaikovsky.

Chamber Music—Andante Cantabile, String Quartet in D Major, Tchaikovsky.

Dance Rhythms—Amaryllis, G. P. French Dance, Liebesfreud, Kreisler; Triumphal March, Adm. Verp. Slav and Stripes, Fencer, Sousa.

Miscellaneous Pieces—Intermezzo, Cavalleria—Rusticana—Mascagni; Melody in F, Rubinstein; March, De Lale; The Swan, Saint-Saens; Moment Musical, Schubert; Isle of the Valkyries, Wagner; On Wings of Song, Mendelssohn; Ave Maria, Bach; Gounod.

BETSY SCHUYLER, AT PALM BEACH, WHERE STYLE DICTATORS PARADE IS NARROW BOLEROS AND FULL LENGTHS, WRITES ABOUT HER FINDINGS

Gisvieve Glendennin

Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte

Mrs. Persifer Frazel III

By BETSY SCHUYLER

NEA Service Writer

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 26.—

Down here in the land of the palms where there are more carriages to the coat and more so-called "interpretations" than there are brands of canned goods, I have much up my sleeve about this particular item of dress.

Here are coats of every description, ranging in length from the short bolero to full length, varying in materials from lace to shaggy tweed, yet with one common interest—keeping as straight and narrow as possible.

Marvel and Java

Mrs. Harling, former First Lady of the Land, is characterized as the First Lady by the recently resigned housekeeper of the White House, who is scandalizing Washington with her memoirs. The lady author tells of the massess and hairdresser who came to the White House every day of the week and spent at least an hour beautifying the president's wife.

She tells, too, of the same First Lady's ire because the White House coffee canister emptied too quickly. "You should get sixty cups to the pound," she informed Mrs. Jaffray, the housekeeper.

The stories are told merely to give Mrs. Jones a chance to say, "well, I guess any woman could look well-dressed and well-dressed if she had that attention every day. And it's those people who don't make the coffee who can tell you how it should be done."

"The demands of society become irrational when one marries. Society demands that home-making, especially for the young married woman of average means, be a full-time job. Having conceded that women have brains and should therefore be educated, it now says that, this training, together with the expense of it, be forgotten, and must be substituted in an endless round of household tasks. If the domestic reasons, or for the sake of intellectual satisfaction, the married woman attempts to keep up her professional interests, she finds herself the slave of two masters—the vocational world, in its turn demands full-time devotion."

Yoke is Back

And how the yoke has sneaked up on me, I have seen the most cleverly cut points and collars that unexpectedly develop into panels or tabs in the most original fashion.

As for necks—never have I seen so many, those pin tucks are apt to take up every available inch on a coat either in a diagonal or horizontal, arranged in the group plan, or else so wide they look like sails.

I have seen several coats that simulated a jacket suit by placing a deep fold right where the hemline of the coat would naturally occur in a two-piece garment.

Coats Youthful

I've seen over so many belted coats this season, and I must say they are youthful and charming on the slender and pretty figure of the stout. I saw one young young thing in a green jacket basket weave coat with a very low and wide belt of several shades of red leather. But she was built like a slat and looked charming.

A jacket that struck my fancy was of yellow-chin with a tiny collar pattern in green, quilted like an old-fashioned quilt, and worn with a white flannel, knee length skirt.

The sleeveless jacket is seen everywhere, not only on the golf course where you expect it, but with every type of frock. In fact the sleeveless jacket, worn under a regulation model with sleeves is quite the vogue.

I feel perfectly safe in forecasting the popularity of the tailor for spring and judging by the number of flannel and tweed suits one sees down here. I can see them dotting the avenue in New York in blue and gray a month or two from now.

Tailored Outfits

Speaking of tailored outfits, I saw Mrs. George Euston in an extremely chic tailored one-piece with a notch collar, half way up the skirt.

ed collar, surplus line and skirt that was bordered in a darker material arranged in wave-like scrolls from the waist to the hem.

As well accept it in all its varieties. It is a bit weird, however, to find sweaters sprouting shoulders, bouquets as was the one I saw on Julia Brokaw at the Everglades Club.

Liberties Allowed

All sorts of liberties are now allowed to the sweater costume. The new bracelet is never absent, the more colorful and barbarous appeared on the links in a charming white sweater outfit that had a vestige of blue, and her glove bracelets were in blue and silver.

Mrs. Persifer Frazel was very attractive in a belted wool costume, the skirt of blue and a jumper that had flecks of brilliant colors in a design reminiscent of the early settlers of this country.

Wide Boim Hat

On Mrs. Malcolm Macdonald I saw a very attractive cap and coat set, a wide belted and belted affair with a deep crown formed of lace straw, banded with two shades of blue. Her frock was the simplest possible type of white silk tennis frock with long sleeves and a low belt. Usually she wears very small, very French hats and this was a decided change for her.

The vogue for black just white is making excellent progress here. For afternoon particularly, one sees the most elegant combinations of black satin or flax crepe and white, geometric crepe.

Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte has appeared in a number of picturesque outfits, one I particularly like being of beige crepe.

Saint Patrick's Theme Used at Pan Hellenic Luncheon

Using the Saint Patrick's theme of green in table decorations, the Pan-Hellenic club met yesterday in three-course luncheon session at Hotel Lubbock with Mesdames Frank Winn, J. A. McClevey and D. D. Roderick as hostesses. Miss Evelyn Knipp was winner in an Irish contest. A short business meeting was held.

The table was centered with a fern with green streamers reaching to the place cards and nut cups at each cover. The meal carried out the general color scheme of green.

Those in attendance at the luncheon were Mesdames Jones, Byron Dickinson, G. E. McClevey, Frank Winn, J. A. McClevey, D. D. Roderick, Charles Mahoney, Gus L. Ford, Marylin Hillman, W. H. Abbott, S. E. Cone, Carl Roberts, Jr., Paul Newman and Mesdames Blanche Bacon, Tyler Lee Knight, Ruth Horn, Evelyn Knipp, Louise Jennings and Johnnie Glickerson.

Dupre School Patrons Attend Enthusiastic Night Gathering

With approximately 100 enthusiastic patrons and many more children in attendance, the Dupre School P. T. A. met in night session Friday at the school house for a program and social hour. This was the first such gathering and others for the future were favorably discussed.

Miss Elizabeth West, of the Technological college library, talked on reading for children and Dr. Allen T. Stewart talked on health conditions in the schools. The girls chorused two songs and the boys chorused one under the direction of Miss Willie Bradshaw with Mrs. Madeline C. Larmer at the piano. A group of women, headed by Mrs. B. Sherrod, served hot chocolate, sandwiches and cakes. Mrs. Larmer's room had the most patrons present and was awarded a pennant.

After telling of the importance that is attached to education now in view of the annual record given schools 50 years ago, Miss West stated that she believed that libraries probably will be considered of equal importance with schools within a few more years. She spoke of the importance of selecting valuable reading for children and of the need of good school and public libraries. In conclusion she told several stories, partly to amuse the children and partly to illustrate the types that interest different ages.

Introducing his talk with a few remarks concerning the economic outlook of Illinois, Dr. Stewart discussed the various contagious diseases, individually, telling of the methods of preventing them and of the advantages of prevention over curing them.

Amarillo Wedding Is Of Interest To Friends Here

The marriage at sunrise this morning in Amarillo of Miss Gladys Wright of this city to Alfred Fry, of Lubbock, is of interest to their many friends here. Miss Wright, until about a year ago, lived in Lubbock with her father, Samuel Gladys Cloninger and Marlan Samson and Messrs. Levin Walker and Hubert Alexander went to Amarillo to attend the wedding, which took place at Miss Wright's home. After tomorrow night, the couple is to be at home in the Ellwood addition. Mr. Fry is employed in the highway department here.

Miss Dorothy Rushing Is Given Surprise Party Saturday

As a surprise for Miss Dorothy Rushing on her birthday, Mrs. Lawrence Bacon entertained at a bridge at her home, 2401 13th street, yesterday afternoon. The high score favor was a bridge set and the honor was presented with a bracelet by Mrs. Bacon. After pleasant games a delicious refreshment course was served—Misses Virginia Bacon, Virginia Murray, Yonnie Glickerson, Haven Sawyer, Melba Mae Tatum, Sarah Michie, Faye Hunt, Marjorie Ainsworth, Mary Cosby, Frances Ford and Jacquelyn Edwards.

Mrs. John L. Ratliff Is Hostess Honoring Her Daughter

Mrs. John L. Ratliff entertained with a party yesterday afternoon honoring her daughter, Charlotte, on her tenth birthday. A number of friends were invited in and played progressive bridge during the afternoon.

Peggy Leland assisted Mrs. Ratliff in receiving the guests at the door and Katherine Klett presided over the guests' book. Mary Janice Handberger, dressed as a messenger boy, brought a message to Charlotte telling her where to find a basket of birthday gifts which were viewed by all the guests. In the games, the tables were arranged for progression according to letters in the word "birthday." Red and white brick ice cream was served with cherry candies and the birthday cake. Miss Katherine Cooper assisted her aunt, Mrs. Ratliff, in giving the party.

The invited guests included Eunice and Katherine Klett, Frances Clay, Sylvia Cahn, Irene and Kathleen James, Billy Bob Jones, Martha Dean Cosby, Peggy Leland, Mary Janice Handberger, Jimmie Hamilton, Inez and Johnnie Mullins, Joan Sears, Katherine Weaver, Annette Jones, Mary Wilson, Lorette Lindsey, Mary and Carrie Jane Thomas, Frances Campbell, Louise Wright, Audrey Overstreet, Lois Adair, Elizabeth Louise White, Ruth and Helen Wagner, Helen Neal, Peggy Pfaff, Ann Delaney and Katherine Barr.

Following Demonstrations Of Meat Cutting By Home Demonstration Agent, Women Of County Busy With Preserving

The joke about Mrs. Newberry, who didn't prepare dinner because she didn't have a can opener, is likely to be a thing of the past among the progressive farm women of Lubbock, whose predicament is no longer a serious one. They now have a can opener. For these people are living on canned goods.

The farm women who belong to the home demonstration clubs in Lubbock, who form the bulk of progressive housewives are through the winter months engaged in canning. Cans of quarts of beef, chicken, pork and other meats to be used during the year as the one of the staples of the daily three meals and, finally, they are keeping the purse more plump through saving on the grocery bill and through their extras in the form of butter for the women raise chickens to eat is likely also to be a thing of the past. According to Miss Hazel Hamer, home demonstration agent, who says that she can make no estimate of the number of quarts that have been put up by the women.

Gives Demonstrations
Miss Hamer is giving a demonstration of meat cutting in almost every rural community of the county, whether or not there is an organized club there, provided the demonstration is desired. Following her demonstration, many women in each community can enough meat to last their families throughout the next year or so. The meat canning season is to begin until the last of March. Twelve different foods are ordinarily canned from one beef and there is certainly no waste, Miss Hamer stated. Moreover, the meat, thus canned, is estimated to increase in value from two to three times to the housewife from what a live animal would cost. For this reason, some women have no cattle on their farms, acquiring live animals and slaughtering them in average beef, weighing 300 pounds when dressed, will yield approximately 60 3-pound cans of products. It is estimated, and each can is supposed to be sufficient for a dish for an average family of man, woman and three children. The women vary the amount of each product according to the tastes and needs of their individual families.

This Is What It Makes
Miss Hamer has estimated, however, that for the average family, a beef should yield 17 cans of steak, 12 cans of plain roast, 9 cans of rolled roast, 11 cans of sliced meat, 9 cans of soup, 4 cans ribs, 7 cans stew, 7 cans hash, 5 cans meat loaf, 3 cans liver and 2 cans of meat loaf, 6 cans sausage, 9 cans chili. Soup is valued as the cheapest of these products and the rolled roast is the most expensive, but for the whole they are valued at 50 cents per can for the woman. These meats are prepared in such a way that they are ready for serving with the exception of warming.

The expense of canning a beef is very little, Miss Hamer says, as time and fuel are the principal items. The tin cans are used three times ordinarily and new ones are bought for each occasion, making the average cost per can only about two or three cents.

The farm women are standardizing their own recipes through trying them out in their kitchens and a recipe book of these is to be published, the agent stated. Many other things are canned in addition to the beef. One frying-sized chicken will fill a three-pound can, Miss Hamer said, and these chickens are put up in the summer, cooked almost enough for serving. As they are needed, they are removed and fried again, ready for serving. Virtually every vegetable except radishes is canned and some of the women are experimenting with this root. The canning is done with steam pressure cookers and canners and sealers, many of which are on farms in this county.

Simple Exercises Afford Outdoor Benefits Indoors

By NINON

For NEA Service

Bending and stretching are twin aids to beauty.

That is why dancing, swimming and tennis are the ideal exercises for the development of bodily symmetry.

I urge every one of you to become proficient in one of these sports. Because they give you all the exercise you need, as well as the joy and the competition involved.

But if it is not possible to keep your flesh down in these glorified versions, keep in trim with exercises that have the same effect.

Hips Benefit

Illustrated today is the bending exercise that is so very strengthening, and reducing to the legs and so beneficial to the contour of the hips.

From a standing position with your hands on your hips, sink down gracefully and with as little creaking of bones as possible until you are sitting on your heels, your back nice and straight and your head up, no matter how foolish you feel. Repeat ten times.

Since this is a bit strenuous to a spine not trained as it should be, it is well to follow this with one where the strain is less noticeable.

Another One

So lie down on the floor, stretched out to make the distance between your head and toes as long as possible, then bend one knee then the other with flexed ankle until your knee touches your chest. This is a particularly good exercise for the woman with a hunched back which is really the result of improper posture and should be corrected by stretching the spine by just such exercise.

After every exercise, relax completely so you drop as lazily as a flower. Exercise can really be harmful if you are too tense about it.

Needle Club Members Draw Names for Party

Names were drawn among members of the Friday Needle club, in a meeting with Mrs. F. K. Mitchell, 2223 9th street, this week, preparatory to the Christmas party next winter. Those who have names will keep them secret and make a gift between now and time for the party.

Early spring flowers and an open fire created a cheerful atmosphere for the members who spent the afternoon doing fancy needlework. A delicious salad course with spiced tea was served to the following club members and guests: Mesdames C. A. Paulsen and W. C. Barnett, guests, and J. M. Drayman, Albert H. Travis, Harry Hall, J. Louis Murfee, Frank Barclay, J. Ed Alexander, John Long, W. E. Twitty, G. A. Gunn, J. R. Pryor, R. Wallace Helm and J. A. Burrus.

Rev. J. A. Lewis, Pastor

Is a foolish man who criticizes

the church because it does not live up to the ideal of perfection. The church is composed of imperfect men and women, who join themselves to the church to realize their imperfection.

The church is not what it should be and you are not what you should be.

These two facts are the reasons why the church needs you and you need the church.

If you have been neglecting the "Look! Can't you see it?" Bob demanded, clutching Faith's arm and drawing her down with him to stare at the thin crust of snow on the pavement. "Half a foot, print! And made by the left foot! God! We've stumbled on something, darling."

"We must measure it," Faith whispered tremblingly. "Don't talk so loud, dear. The man at the newsstand will think we're crazy. Have you anything to measure with?"

Bob Hathaway fumbled in a breast-pocket for an envelope, tore a strip from it with shaking hands, then kneeling down besides the precious half a foot print, he laid the unevenly torn bit of paper across it at its widest part and folded the end of the paper, then put it away carefully in his wallet.

"See any more?" This one may be an accident," he gasped, as he sat back on his haunches, his olive eyes snapping with eagerness, color staining the pale bronze of his cheeks.

The Weekly Book Review

Sweepings, by Lester Cohen, Boni Livelihood, $2.50.

A sort of rolling into one of "The Way of All Flesh" and "King Lear", with a dash of humor and plenty of historical interest, and the result is a good tragic yarn, in which everybody makes a mess of everything.

Some like their tragedy rising in a sort of miasma from the pages of a book, as in the "Main Street" school, some like it thrown to them in a red, resplendent chunks after the style of Mr. Dreiser, and some like it presented as Mr. Cohen has done, with a rising and a final crash of empire, and the dying tirade of an emperor, with melodramatic words and the sequence of generations, and ladies of ill repute tastefully clad in stockings firing fatal revolver shots at fleeing stockbrokers.

find a moral—if one must pretend to find a moral—may be one of three more or less patent things: that nobody should be born with a silver spoon in his mouth; that every other generation of a given family is weaker; or that the best laid plans of mice and men do as Bobby Burns so nobly declared. The book ends satisfactorily with a dying drunkard comforted by a woman who has risen from the ruin he made for her, and with a self-made man musing the bitter bread he has bought for himself.

The rise of the Paradays, and their subsequent fall, through four generations, is interesting, but the introduction in the fifth generation of a golden haired she-Daniel, hinted at as a redeemer of the family honor, is somewhat of a let-down. The ashes of empire should lie where they fall.

The Queen of Spain is well satisfied that her ladies-in-waiting will wear a uniform dress and a mantilla when attending religious services at the palace. The change of course, is by order of the queen and is a part of her scheme to persuade the women of Spain to retain their national costume. Queen Victoria for more than a year has been putting out to Spanish women the charms of some of the old-fashioned traditional styles, and during her appearance in London, at Buckingham palace and other social affairs, she did a great deal to popularize the Spanish shawl as well as Spanish dances.

To English and American visitors in Madrid the queen has long let it be known that she preferred her guests to appear at court functions in mantillas and shawls, worn over the traditional long skirt.

Head of W. C. T. U. Has Message for Orient
Miss Anna A. Gordon, world president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, plans to deliver in person to the Japanese and Chinese "an optimistic declaration concerning the miraculous prohibition law that blesses our republic." Miss Gordon says she will sail on the first vessel after March 20, birthday of Gen. Neal Dow, of Portland, Me., "father of prohibition." She will tell the Orient, she says, "that temperance forces and Christian citizens of the United States will maintain a well enforced prohibition law."

Will Seek Election of Woman President
When the National Education association meets in Seattle, Wash., next July, Virginia delegates will ask it to elect a woman president. Miss Cornelia S. Adair of Richmond, who seemingly has no limit to her activity, is to be put forward. In the association she has served as treasurer five years and a member of the board of directors, executive committee and board of trustees. The national League of Woman Voters has her as education chairman. She also is a former president of the National League of Teachers and was vice president of the National Federation of Business and Profession Women's clubs.

HUPP MOTOR STOCK NETS GOOD INCOME

STOCK IN BIG FIRM PAYS GOOD DIVIDEND, SAYS THE ANNUAL REPORT

Net income of the Hupp Motor Corporation and the subsidiaries for the year 1926 was $2,507,023, or at the rate of $3.48 per share on the 1,005,183 shares of common stock outstanding at the close of the year. This compares with net income of $2,554,518 or $3.02 a share on the 845,850 common shares outstanding in 1925.

The Hupp report, made public today by DuBois Yarnall, president and general manager, reveals the greatest sales yet in its history, with net sales exceeding $50,000,000.

The report reveals a continued strong financial and general condition for the company. Current assets, including $4,144,383 in cash, $2,014,292 in United States Certificates, were $12,555,166, against current liabilities of $2,436,323, a ratio of six to one. There is no funded indebtedness, nor are there any bank loans against the company.

Mr. Yarnall, in his letter to stockholders, points out that "With the wide choice of models Hupp offers, the offering, consisting of fourteen eight, and five six cylinder body models, and the appropriate improvements and refinements, we feel that this is the most attractive line of motor cars offered the public. At the present motor shows these cars have been enthusiastically received, and our dealers are anticipating a marked increase in sales."

During the year Hupp's authorized an increase in the number of shares of the company's common stock from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 shares. It received shortly afterwards declared a stock dividend of 10 per cent and increased the cash dividend from $1 to $1.48 per share per year.

In addition to its increased dividend declarations the company added $2,507,023 to its surplus account during 1926, bringing that figure to $2,507,023 after writing off depreciation of plant and equipment and reserves for taxes and other business activities. It also decreased its inventory from $6,026,716 as of the beginning of the year to $5,025,630 at its close.

Motor Market in Canada Improves

By NEA Service

MONTREAL, Feb. 26.—Improvements of roads, growth of the automobile financing plan, and perfection of the closed type model car are given as the chief reasons for the rapidly increasing motor sales in Canada.

The partial payment plan has been favored by the leading firms of the industry who claim that it is a great check which only one per cent of the Canadian population is able to complete their payments.

The closed car is especially suitable to the Canadian climate and provides protection from the bitter winter months.

The new "overhaul" has been active in increasing the construction of additional highways and in increasing the number of cars.

In this case both the federal and provincial governments have spent several millions of dollars and plans have been made for additional work to be carried out during the next few years.

LAW IS COMPLICATED

France's new anti-dumping auto light law has so many complications and requirements that even importers are finding it difficult to interpret and enforce the ruling.

Since the invention of the printing press, 600,000,000 copies of the Bible have been printed.

Invents Charger

P. J. F. BATENBURG

By NEA Service

RACINE, Wis., Feb. 26.—A simple and practical supercharger is now on the automobile market.

The apparatus is not a "super-charger" in the sense that pressure is used to convert fuel into a finely atomized and highly combustible mixture, but the results obtained are similar.

P. J. F. Batenburg, inventor of the super-charger, which he is manufacturing here, says the device is applicable to automobile, aviation, marine and stationary engines.

"The real function of any super-charger," says Batenburg, "lies in breaking up the fuel more finely and in charging all cylinders evenly with a combustible and homogeneous mixture."

The super-charger refines the output of the carburetor, checks the flow of fuel to the walls of the intake manifold, makes starting easier, gives better acceleration, produces better fuel economy, makes engines more flexible and increases all-round performance as a result of the better mixture characteristics.

"There are no moving parts to the device. The super-charger or mixer acts as a safety check in preventing passage of raw fuel unmixed with air. The liquid is taken off the walls of the manifold, mixed with air, the resultant mixture reversed and thrown back as into the center of the air stream."

A "catch basin" saves much of the fuel that is ordinarily wasted. Superfluous fuel not immediately needed by the engine is trapped in the basin where it is available at once for rapid acceleration.

The results from the use of this device most notably noticed are easier starting in cold weather, better acceleration, better fuel mileage, elimination to a great extent of crankcase oil dilution and better general engine performance.

SWEDEN KEEPS ROADS CLEAR
NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Radio, tractor and truck are used in Sweden to keep the highways open to travel 365 days in a year, according to A. S. W. Odberg of the Royal Automobile club, Sweden.

Those in charge of road work are notified by radio long in advance of the approach of a snow storm, and the equipment is prepared to work on the roads as soon as the storm arrives.

How She Huffs

By ISRAEL KLEIN

Science Editor, NEA Service
Somehow the car has lost its pep and power.

She seems to run more easily than ever. She'll start on a mere twist of the crank, if need be. But she won't climb the hills she used to take easily. In high gear she won't pull ahead of traffic as she used to.

Worst of all, she's eating up more than her usual quota of gas, and the oil has to be renewed too often.

An autopsy on an engine displaying such symptoms will most likely reveal worn down piston and cylinder walls as the major difficulty.

What happens as a result of this wear is the loss of power through only partial combustion of the fuel and through partial pressure of the expanding gas against the worn cylinder. For most of the gas escapes through the widened gap between piston and cylinder wall.

What's worse is that the unpurged gasoline flows down through this gap, mixed with the lubricating oil in the crankcase, and helps to further lubricate the cylinder walls and the bearings.

Crankcase oil dilution is a serious problem automobile engineers are trying to combat. They're studying it in the laboratories, trying to learn what causes it, how it affects the engine and what can be done to prevent it.

Gasoline, mixed with the silt left in the crankcase, cuts it and reduces its oiliness. Instead of the thin protecting film that is needed between piston and cylinder wall, it prevents friction between these moving parts and to keep the expanding gases and unburned fuel from escaping through this space, there's an uneven liquid that acts almost as an abrasive and leaves openings for the unwanted mixtures.

The oil thins out in the crankcase, fuel is wasted through the widening piston and cylinder gap, power is lost through escape of the expanding gas.

The cause of this goes back to poor design and lack of consideration for the engine.

When the car is first started, the space between piston and cylinder wall is dry. It takes quite a few turns of the engine to bring the oil up into the cylinders and leave the required film for good smooth running.

Impatient drivers fail to consider this. They race the engine before the oil has been able to get through, affording two good chances for crankcase oil dilution.

Racing the engine requires an over-dose of fuel. An overdose almost invariably leaves a large residue of unburned fuel in the combustion chamber.

Racing the engine immediately on starting makes it harder for the oil in the crankcase to come up and cover the cylinder walls with its protective film, and so leaves an inviting way for the unburned fuel to seep through.

Racing never did an engine any good. It's the easiest and quickest way toward diluting the crankcase oil with unburned fuel, toward scoring the cylinder walls and bearing surfaces, toward reducing power and eating up bits of gas and oil.

Cowmen's Meet to Be Happy Affair

AMARILLO, Feb. 26.—Members of the Panhandle Live Stock Producers' association and cattlemen from all over the Panhandle will have their annual convention here Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, March 1, 2 and 3. Grover B. Hill, secretary of the association, states that there will be no long, tiresome programs but that most of the time will be devoted to the annual election among the cow men, finding out what the other fellow is doing. He says that the average cow man would rather do this and will derive more benefit and enjoyment than he would from long-winded orations from the east. There will be only one general assembly meeting of the association at which time Arthur P. Durkin, president of the West Texas chamber of commerce and Col. C. P. Walsh, of San Angelo, will address the gathering.

There will be other attractions at Amarillo during these three days including the Panhandle Hereford Breeders' show and sale, the annual rodeo show by the Amarillo Automobile association, and a concert by Amarillo's own world famous grand opera star, Mary McCormack, the latter being on the night of Tuesday, March 3, at the municipal auditorium, the headquarters for the cattlemen will be at the new Hearing Hotel.

BIRTH RECORD
TORONTO, Feb. 26.—The town of Chicoutimi in the province of Quebec is said to hold the highest birth rate record in the world. According to vital statistics for 1925, the record was 63.09 births per 1,000 population. West-Canada's lowest birth rate, Montreal, showed the opposite tendency, the birth rate being 6.60 per 1,000.

YOUR motor is designed to deliver a certain number of revolutions per minute to give maximum power and torque under all conditions.

But as carbon forms, that "knock" occurs. The motor revolutions drop—and you lose power on hills and pick-up in traffic.

Conoco Ethyl Gasoline knocks out that "knock." What's more, the carbon (which causes the "knock") becomes a means of power because carbon increases pressure—and increased pressure means increased power. Conoco Ethyl Gasoline performs perfectly under this increased pressure.

So fill the tank with this revolutionizing fuel at the nearest sign of the Continental Soldier—and get extra knockless miles in spite of carbon.

SUCCESS FOLLOWS JONES FISHING JOB

TWO STRINGS OF TOOLS LOST
IN KING WELL BEFORE
OIL FOUND

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

ABILENE, Feb. 26.—After fishing out two strings of tools which had been lost in the hole for more than two weeks and then drilling through thirty feet of cave-in, oil began to flow rapidly in the hole of Gillette-Hickey-Cowboy Evans No. 1 King, a well in the Manual Bueno survey, 197, south central Jones county, three miles north of Abilene and a short distance west of the town of Hays. It was bled from the hole constantly last Saturday and the fluid almost as rapidly as it was bled out.

Work on the rig was shut down Sunday and when drilling was resumed Monday the bit had almost reached the 2,000 feet strata; the depth which it was when the cave-in of several weeks ago occurred, when an under-reamer was hit in the hole. This obstacle to further progress of the drill has not yet been taken from the hole, but will be worked out in a short time.

Operators from all over this section have been here this week, expecting the well to come in momentarily. Much activity has been brought on in lease trading and several blocks of large extent in the district surrounding the well have been sold at exceptionally high prices, considering the absolutely unproven field.

All members of the oil fraternity have seen the Gillette & Hickey-Cowboy Evans' test, unite in the declaration that the well will be a producer, the only thing yet to be determined, they say, is the amount of production. From the indications so far, considering the manner in which the oil has come up through the hole, full of cave-in, many experienced men are of the opinion that this well will prove a heavy producer.

Several of the large companies, including Humble, Prairie, Roxana and Danciger have acquired large holdings in the immediate vicinity of the test and it is reported that offers of $100 per acre for leases close to the well have been turned down by several lease owners.

Several tentative locations for wells in the territory adjacent to the Gillette & Hickey-Cowboy Evans well have been reported during the past week. Tomberlin and others will drill on section 37, block 16, T. & P. four miles southeast, according to the reports.

The Danciger Oil & Refining company have acquired a block north of the new well and another block is located west of the strike.

The showing made by this well already has assured a very intensive drilling campaign for the south central part of Jones county. The new strike is located approximately 2 1/2 miles east of the Noodle creek field and approximately the same distance west of the T. K. Simmons and others No. 1 Harvey in western Shackelford county, which has been producing about 45 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 1,500 feet.

The nine producing wells at Noodle creek continue to hold up to a steady production. Marland Oil company's No. 2 Mason, the latest completion in the field and the biggest producer to date made 972 barrels Monday. The same company's No. 2 Mason, in which a new play strata was found at 3,026 feet, after the well had missed the Joe Winter sand at 2,520 feet, made 75 barrels swabbing. The other wells in the pool held to the same production rate during the past week.

Phillips Petroleum company are rushing operations on five new wells in the pool. Several of them are expected to hit the pay depth within the next week or ten days. Midwest Exploration company's No. 4 Thornton is drilling around 1,700 feet and the same company's No. 3 Thornton has been supplied the past week.

While no authorization has been received at the field for the rigging up of any new test, it has been rumored that one of the companies operating extensively in this section will start rigging up on at least seven new tests within the next thirty days.

Galt & Brown have made the location for their No. 1 A. Zipp on section 24, block 14, T. & P., a half mile west of the Shackelford county line in east central Jones county.

Kirk & Brown's No. 1 Jet Milson, Justo Rodriguez survey No. 357 in west central Jones county has a standard gas and is to go 3,000 feet in search of a pay sand.

Material for this rig of the Harry H. Diamond No. 1, L. W. Dodson, section 1, Deaf and Dumb asylum land, is on the ground.

Consolidated Oil company is rigged up for a test on section 7, block 4, H. & T. C.

Marland Oil company's No. 1 S. R. Cox, section 72, block 14, T. & P., is drilling in hard grey lime at about 2,700 feet. This well passed up a fair showing at 3,050 feet, which was not considered sufficient for commercial production. The test will be sunk 4,200 or 4,500 feet in the hope of picking up the rich Breckenridge sand, according to reports given out this week.

Muse & Robertson-Cowboy Evans No. 1 J. E. Hanley, section 37, block 14, T. & P., fighting a bad cave at 1,693. A heavy showing of wet gas was struck in this hole several weeks ago and the pressure from the gas has been causing much delay in drilling the well on down.

Gillette & Hickey's No. 1 M. E. Young, R. Tavenio survey No. 190, has been shut down at 1,400 feet, drilling is to be resumed shortly.

Hart & Cole's No. 1 W. R. Cranston, section 10, block 17, T. & P., is shut down at a total depth of 2,525.

Midwest Exploration company's No. 1 Charlie Herndon, section 6, M. E. P. & S. survey, three miles south of Abilene is drilling around 1,400 feet.

Midcontinent's No. 1 H. Evans, section 44, S. P. R. survey, fighting cave at around 1,500 feet.

Midwest Exploration company's No. 1 Smith, three miles northeast of Tye, in north central Taylor county is drilling around 1,200 feet and reports are that the log of this test has run very similar to the producers at Noodle creek, which are about fifteen miles northwest of the Smith well.

LOCKNEY STAGES CLEAN-UP OF CITY

THREE DAY CAMPAIGN BY C. C. AND CLUBS BANISHES RUBBISH

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

LOCKNEY, Feb. 26.—Lockney's three day clean-up campaign, instituted by the chamber of commerce and club women of this city, has proven a success, and Lockney is today one of the cleanest cities in the state. The business section was given the same care and attention of the residential section, and most business men joined in the crusade against dirt and filth.

The campaign lasted three days, and during that time many tons of rubbish were piled and burned or moved to the city dump grounds. The few who might not have taken part were warned by the mayor and city health officer that failure to do so would make them guilty of an offense, and that not only would their places be cleaned and charged to them, but a fine collected as well. So far as is known there isn't even a vacant lot in the city that was not given a thorough cleaning.

According to reports given out this week.

New Egg Unit For Hereford Plant

HEREFORD, Feb. 26.—H. H. (Happy) Hawkins is happy this week, because the second 12,000-unit unit of his big hatchery has just arrived, and he will now be able to better supply the demand for baby chicks. The big machine should have been here two or three weeks ago but correspondence went to Hansford instead of Hereford, and Happy's order went astray.

Now the machine is here and Happy Hooligan Hawkins Hatchery has a capacity of 24,000 eggs, and Hawkins is happy again. This is expected to greatly stimulate the poultry business in this section.

People who seek to adopt children always seem to favor girl babies; boys are not nearly so popular.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Death strikes GARRETT FOLSON while swimming with a party of friends at Ocean Town, N. J. At the HOTEL MAJUSACA, where they all had been guests, an inquiry is begun, after a doctor, perfunctorily examining him on the beach, pronounces him dead.

Folson's companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, MRS. HELEN BARNABY, and CARMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folson, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARRON, known as the Copper King.

Folson's sister, ANASTASIA, sent for in New York. Then the startling announcement is made that Folson had been stabbed to death in the water, ROSS, his valet, is questioned, as are Barron and his wife, but no light is shed on the mystery.

The eccentric Anastasia Folson arrives, takes command of the situation and orders an inquest.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

A group of people sat on the deck of the hotel and watched the kaleidoscopic crowd already assembling on the boardwalk and the beach.

One of these was Ned Barron, who had stood next to Garrett Folson at the time of his sudden collapse.

"Of course I must report, Maddy," he was saying to his wife. "I stood next to Mr. Folson. I had been talking with him. As I had never seen or heard of the man before, my evidence can be of no help, but I must offer it."

"I wish you wouldn't," Madeline Barron said thoughtfully. "I see your point of view of course, and it is logical in a way. But, as you say, it can be of no help, and it would get you a most unpleasant notoriety. Why, they may even think you knew the dead man, and they will call on you for testimony at the inquest—and all sorts of horrid things!"

"Bless your heart, child, what a fearsome picture you draw! I can't feel, though, that I shall be greatly inconvenienced, except that it may cut into my time a little. But duty is duty and I certainly was next the man—and all sorts of horrid things!"

"I, too, advise you to keep out of it, Ned."

It was Croydon Sears who spoke, who, with his son, Robin, and Angelica Fair, completed the party.

"I don't think it is your duty," Sears went on. "You know nothing of the man; you have no personal interest in the affair, and since you can be of no possible help, why mix in?"

"That's all right, dad," Robin Sears said. "But these notices ask any guest of the hotel who knows anything about the matter."

"There you are," returned his father. "Barron doesn't know anything about the matter. Hello, here's Tite Riggs. Let him advise us. Come here, Tite, sit down and give us some words of wisdom. Ned, here, thinks he ought to announce to a waiting world that he stood next to Mr. Folson who was, they say, killed in bathing."

"I saw you talking to him," said Riggs, sitting down near them. "I assumed from that you knew him."

"Well, I didn't," said Barron, shortly. "And I wasn't talking to him; he was talking to me."

"A distinction with a difference," said Riggs. "Very much of a difference. I detect being addressed by strangers, especially those who have a rooted conviction that ocean bathing constitutes an introduction. It's too absurd! Because you stand next to another man at the rope, or bump into him by reason of a buffeting wave, does that mean sudden friendship?"

"No," Madeline said, decidedly. "And Ned is foolish to give the matter a thought."

"Oh, I know my duty, even though it is not in line with my inclinations. You agree, don't you, Tite, that I am bound to tell the management—after these notices we all received this morning—that I stood next to this victim of a tragic death? Even though I was annoyed at his unconventionalality, my duty as a good citizen is plain. And, too, if only to clear myself from possible suspicion."

"Clear yourself!" his wife exclaimed. "On the contrary, you will put yourself in a position to be suspected!"

"Nonsense, Maddy, you're over-excited about this thing. Tell her, Tite, that I've no choice in the matter."

"If I think so," Riggs said, slowly, looking at Madeline with an apologetic air. "It seems to me it would be better in every way for Ned to go at once to the management and make his report."

"And be subpoenaed as a material witness?"

"Good heavens, Maddy," cried her husband. "I didn't know you even knew there was such a thing as a material witness or a subpoena. Where do you learn such terms?"

Madeline Barron smiled. Always lovely, when she smiled she was beautiful. Her small, dark face lighted up with a touch of roguery; her expressive dark eyes shone as she said:

"Oh, I read detective stories, now and then. Who doesn't nowadays?"

"You do!" Croydon Sears seemed surprised. "I know most men do but I didn't think those yarns appealed to women."

"I love 'em," Madeline declared, and Tite Riggs smiled his sympathy.

"So do I," he said. "And any one, man or woman, could do a lot of harm in a way than to read detective fiction."

"Yes, I know," Barron said, carelessly. "Presidents, prime ministers—I know. But tell me Riggs, don't you think I ought to—"

"I sure do, Barron. Of course you ought to. You MUST report, and the sooner, the quicker. Come on, now. I'll go with you, if you like."

"Do. Not that I need bolstering up, but I know your own curiosity is the urge."

"Let me go too, will you?" asked Robin Sears. "I'm a born detective."

"Hush your nonsense, boy," said his father. "No, you are not to go. I don't want you dragged into this business, too. You've no duty calling you, have you?"

"No, Angel and I were far out in the surf when it all happened. But I want to go. I'd like to see how the thing works."

"Yes, I know. Your inordinate curiosity, your—"

An interruption came in the person of Miss Anastasia Folson.

Tall, majestic and quiet-mannered, she approached the group, and as the men rose, she announced herself, speaking to all, and yet, as her quick eyes darted from one to another, fastening themselves on Madeline, she seemed to regard her as the one to be addressed.

"I am Miss Folson," she said, "and I am the sister of the man who was murdered down here yesterday. I have been told that, so far as is known, Mr. Barron was the last one to talk to my brother before he collapsed, and so—"

Immediately Madeline Barron was on the defense.

"Miss Folson," she said, rising to emphasize her words, "you have been misinformed. My husband spoke to Mr. Folson shortly before Mr. Folson fell down into the water. But others spoke to him after that. I know because I stood on the other side of Mr. Barron, and I had opportunity of observing."

"I am glad to learn, Mrs. Barron, that you were observant. Your testimony may be of value. As nearly as I can find out, you and Mr. Barron were on one side of my brother, and two ladies, known to me, were at his other side. Now, will you tell me, please, who, since you were noticing, was always near him? Not necessarily on the rope, but nearby in the water?"

Madeline thought. She was most anxious to remember those who were nearby, as every other possible suspect helped to fend off thought of her husband. She knew that Ned never knew the dead man, and had no possible personal interest in him, but she knew, too, how, in the stories she had read, an innocent man was frequently put in most unpleasant situations.

"Mr. Sears was not far off," said Madeline Barron, at last. "But nearer still, I remember now, were Mr. and Mrs. Tracy. Yes, they were very close to Mr. Folson, and doubtless can tell you something of the circumstances."

"There's not much to tell," said Miss Folson, her lips set in a grim line. "Nobody, except the man who stabbed him, was paying any particular attention to him. Why would they? In the ocean, each individual is looking out for himself or for some one in his care. Few are watching their neighbors. So, as somebody certainly did kill my brother, with a knife or a dagger, that person came into the water prepared and, of course, centered his whole energy on accomplishing his fiendish plan unobserved."

"That's why I care little for the evidence or testimony of those who changed to be near the unfortunate victim of this tragedy. Yet, as there is always a chance that an observer might have seen some suspicious circumstance, some indicative move of the part of some one else, I am asking those who were nearest for any information they can give."

Miss Folson's voice was low, her manner quiet and on the whole she made a favorable impression on those who heard her.

Except two of them.

Tite Riggs, watching closely, saw a hint of the iron hand under the velvet glove, and felt sure that the lady was politely plausible in her manner because she deemed it policy and not because she was entirely sincere in her statements.

And Robin Sears noted searchingly the unconscious movements of Anastasia Folson, and ascribed her involuntary facial expressions or instinctive gestures to an unacknowledged suspicion or doubt of something or somebody unmentioned.

C. C. CONVENTION

The list of nations and towns of West Texas will each present a picturesque and colorful picture which should make the convention one of the most notable in history. High school students in the various towns will be asked to write essays on the subject of the country, and prizes will be awarded for the best essays. In this way a greater interest in the coming convention is expected to be aroused.

Representatives of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce are planning to visit all cities in West Texas which expect to attend the convention and will present all details necessary to making the arrangements to come prepared to represent the various foreign countries.

Umbrellas now are being made with lifelike parrots' heads or large colored fruits as handles.

CHEVROLET SHOWS 125 PER CENT. GAIN

COMMERCIAL VEHICLES GAIN IN POPULARITY, REPORT OF COMPANY SHOWS

Attaining a production of 112,499 commercial vehicles during 1933, an increase of more than 125 per cent over the preceding year, the Chevrolet Motor Company is now the world's largest manufacturer of gear shift trucks according to figures just announced by company officials.

The increase is a gain of $4,200 over the 1932 production of 48,299 trucks. This enormous increase is attributed in no small degree to the numerous refinements and lowered prices of the new trucks. Dealers everywhere reported an enthusiastic reception by the public of these new models.

The 1933 production in its turn has more than doubled the 1932 output of 23,134 trucks.

According to present manufacturing schedules an even greater monthly production is contemplated for the truck division during the coming months to insure dealers a sufficient supply to meet the growing demand. Production during January, totaling 15,927 trucks, also broke a truck production record for a month in the history of the company. The previous high mark was in September, 1932, when 12,845 trucks were manufactured.

This phenomenal success
born of public preference

When public opinion takes hold of a product like the Chrysler "70" and in three years' time lifts it from 27th to 4th place over the heads of long-established cars, the significance of the act is almost too plain to require analysis.

It can only mean, of course, that people have found in the "70" from its beginning, and have continued to find in the finer Chrysler "70" in ever-increasing numbers, qualities and values that they did not and do not find elsewhere.

Finer, more exquisitely graceful bodies—finer, more distinctive silhouette with military front and cadet visor—finer design with smaller wheels—greater luxury of comfort—greater riding ease—rich upholstery—greater perfection of appointment—more refinements in controls and lighting, with a lock conveniently placed on the dash—more attractive color harmonies, far in advance of current blendings.

CHRYSLER COUPE'S SALES REMARKABLE

REPORTS FROM DEALERS SHOW WIDE INTEREST IN NEW "SIXTY" COUPE

One of the striking new cars displayed for the first time at the recent national and local automobile shows was the new Chrysler "60" two-passenger coupe with rumble seat.

This coupe, which is listed at $1,245 f.o.b. Detroit, is sold by officials of the Chrysler Sales Corporation to be meeting with exceptionally generous public reception and they are predicting notable popularity for it.

The car is making a special appeal to its makers, because of its attractive color combination of Willa Green with Flamingo Carmine and Gold Bronze striping, and its upholstery in a fine grade of Mouse Gray mohair. Further favorable comment has been aroused, according to the makers, by attractive outlines resulting from the use of the new small wheels, by the gracefully rounded rear windows, the smooth sweeping curves of the rear deck, and the smart, brisk appearance of the body as a whole.

Window Control Good
Among the other features reported to be much liked in the new car is the control of the rear window by a crank regulator which lowers the glass out of sight and not only permits free conversation between occupants of the front and rumble seats but provides full ventilation for the body of the car when desired. The unusual refinement of the new "60" instrument panel is reported to assist in creating an impression of exceptional interior luxury.

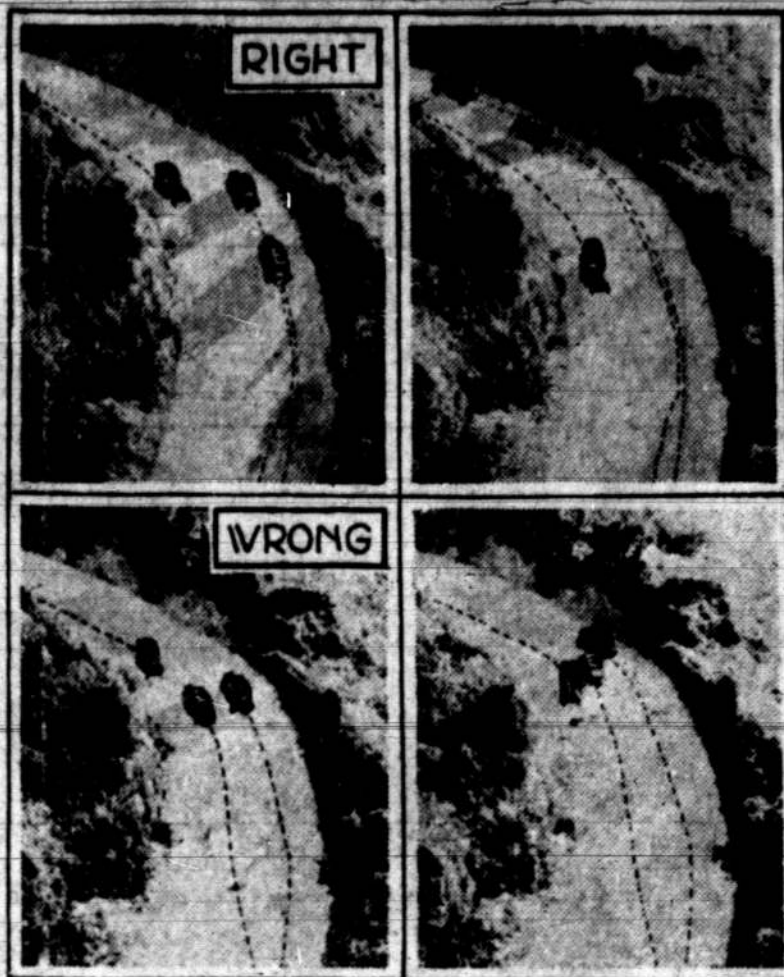

Appointments of the special coupe, which its makers declare are unusually numerous and desirable, include a spacious rumble seat, trimmed in mole-skin imitation leather; rear view mirror; automatic windshield wiper; bullet-head and cowl lamp; smartly barred, Butler finished hardware with demilight to match heavy rubber floor mats; and kick plates below each door.

Dealers' reports to the factory indicate that the new coupe is especially liked by women drivers, as evidenced by its unique construction, pleasing appearance and ease of handling, while its compactness, exceptional performance, carrying capacity and economy of upkeep are said to commend it to professional men and small families.

RUM SIGNALS
ROCKLAND, Me., Feb. 26.—Coast patrol forces with headquarters here have revealed an ingenious plan used by rum runners in this district. A brush fire, recently extinguished on Mount Schoodic, disclosed that rum runners were using the mountain as a signal center to warn boats miles out in Frenchman's Bay. Neighbors had reported seeing the fires often at night and told the patrol forces.

Right Way Is Safe Way

There's danger in passing a car at a turn because you can't see around the corner. The right thing to do in overtaking a slower car before a turn is to slow up and follow along behind, as above. The wrong way is to take the chance of an accident, as is shown in the lower sketches.

TEXAS EDITOR HAS FAITH IN "SPEED"

OLD CLIPPING TELLS OF TRIP MADE IN WEST TEXAS IN OLD TIME BUICK

Seventeen years ago a Texas editor found news in the fact that a Buick Model 10 traveled a distance of ninety miles at an average speed of eighteen miles an hour. The item read:

"Last Saturday Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moore started out towards Fort Stockton with their twenty-horsepower Buick model 10, going forty-five miles out and returning and making the distance in five hours." Then was added this editorial opinion: "That certainly is making splendid time over country roads."

This model was the first horizontal four cylinder valve-in-head Buick ever built, and was quite a sensation in its day. It was in this car that Louis Chevrolet, Bob Burman and others gained fame as automobile racing drivers. Many of the stock car records they set seventeen years ago will stand on the records books. In one year the Model 10 was started in several hundred races, finishing first in the great majority of them. Among the racing records set by a Buick car was the 250 mile Indianapolis record, which stood for many years.

Barber has about 7500 diamond backs on exhibition at his hatchery, which is visited by many people daily. Mr. Barber lets his guests watch the shell-breaking process, when the saucy, little fellows burst their way out of the shells.

FALCON-KNIGHT IS HIGHLY DEVELOPED

FEATURES INCLUDE 7 BEARING CRANKSHAFT, AND FOUR WHEEL BRAKES

Advance specifications of the new Falcon-Knight, the six-cylinder Knight sleeve-valve motor car which will be presented to the motor car buying public the latter part of March, have just been released by the manufacturers.

In general, they incorporate the features of this type of engine, which have been conspicuous in other Knight motor productions in this country and in Europe.

The construction of the sliding sleeves which take the place of the valves and valve mechanism of the poppet-valve type of motor, is conventional Knight design, and mechanical fit and material specifications are identical with those of Knight motors found in other cars of higher price ranges.

Get Away is Rapid

The power development indicates that engineers have paid especial attention to the present-day demand for great flexibility with quick get-away ability in traffic and with sustained pulling power on heavy grades.

Following the general tendency among quality built motors, the crankshaft in the motor is suspended in seven bearings, all of generous dimensions. Cooling is thermostatically controlled and other items of equipment or design follow equally advanced design.

Complete specifications will not be released until the cars are ready for general distribution, which will be the latter part of March and it is stated by engineers of the Falcon Motors Corporation that they will offer many surprises when they are finally disclosed.

It is known that markedly rapid acceleration and effective braking are features of performance and these have been widely demonstrated to motor car dealers, who have ridden in the sample models which are being shown in Detroit.

Advancements in the construction of the Knight sleeve-valve motor during the past two years have been rapid both in America and in Europe and many records have been established by these power plants for speed, power, economy and long life.

The position of this type of engine in this country has been increased in importance by the addition of an eight-cylinder motor by Stearns-Knight, by important sales records by Willis-Knight models and now by the entry of a Knight motor car in the Falcon-Knight in the lower price ranges.

In Europe, Daimler has presented a twelve-cylinder Knight motor, which has been accepted as the outstanding mechanical development in European motor car engineering.

Prominent Poultry Raisers Of Plainview Discuss The Health Of Poultry From Various Angles

By J. T. HATCH, Plainview

It is important that the poultryman should understand poultry diseases, especially those that are likely to assume epidemic proportions. He should be able to recognize the symptoms of the different troubles that fowl and chickens are subject to and thus know what to do to avoid spreading the disease. I read with interest the articles that tell about the various diseases that our poultry is subject to, but I am more interested in ways and methods of keeping the birds healthy than I am in curing them after they are sick.

Barring epidemics, which are likely to strike any flock in spite of precautions, I believe it is possible to guard against serious poultry troubles. There are three or four factors that enter into the task of keeping the flock healthy, which ought to be understood by every poultryman. These are sunlight, fresh air in abundance, proper feeding and exercise.

I would not know how to keep a flock in good health in a dark house, that is, in one that did not admit sunlight freely. I prefer to keep my house for both hens and chickens facing the southeast or south. I also like to have windows to admit the early morning sun. The sunlight of the later hours should get in through windows not hampered by glass. I have no formula to indicate exactly the needed proportion of windows which the house should have, but I do know that there is small danger of letting in too much light. Sunlight is the best agency for killing germs that have ever been found and it will do as much toward keeping parasites in check as anything I know of. The light, airy laying house is seldom infested with red mites and other parasites. While we are considering the sunlight, it may be well to add that the living room of the house ought to have windows in the back. These serve the purpose of letting in light during the winter season, thus avoiding the heating of the litter in the back of the room, and, in summer, by removing the windows and inserting screens, a circulation of air may be obtained. It is important that light be admitted from all sides of the house, if possible, and then the birds will keep the litter evenly distributed. The hen, when she is scratching for food always faces in the direction the light comes from, else she would not be able to see the grain. By removing the back windows in summer, an even circulation of air can be secured and the house kept comfortable at night. It is important that the back windows be tight so no air will be admitted to cause drafts in the cold season.

Keep Moisture Out

I have already said considerable about the importance of fresh air and air circulation as a means of keeping the quarters comfortable in the hot season. Air is another of the great purifiers. I believe the open-front house is the best for all seasons except the very coldest. The open-front house, with curtains that may be let down to keep out zero temperatures, is adapted to all breeds of poultry. One of the problems of the poultry house is to keep moisture from collecting in the litter. Air circulation and sunlight are the agencies that serve to do this. The moist house breeds disease and red mites. Keep the house dry. I have become convinced that the best floor for the average laying house is constructed by double boarding. It is important that the house be dry where the drainage is low. If water collects beneath the building you can not expect to keep the interior dry. However, moisture will sometimes collect in the house that is set in a well drained place. The moisture in that case is caused by the condensing of the air at night if ventilation is poor. Moisture from the breathing of the birds and that which arises from the droppings will sometimes cause wet litter in the house. This is a frequent cause of disease among birds. Winter troubles like colds, pneumonia and roup are often directly caused by the collection of moisture in the house. It is well to have some means of ventilation. For this reason I like the house of the semi-monitor type, with small windows that can be opened in the low ventilation. However, whatever method of ventilation is used, it is well to remember that the birds need a lot of air. I have noticed that hens and male birds seldom have frosty combs and wattles in houses where a good circulation is maintained. It is the cold dead air that causes trouble. The hen is a pretty healthy bird, and it should be remembered that she is well supplied with a covering to withstand the cold.

Proper feeding is something that it is hard to agree upon. To my mind, there is more in the manner of feeding than in what is fed, or rather, perhaps, in the feeding of a balanced ration. There are so many different methods of compounding the ration that it is pretty difficult to advise in the matter. However, it is safe to follow any of the recognized formulas for feeding. The principal trouble in feeding for eggs is that it is necessary to make the ration rich in animal protein, which has a tendency to act as a poison upon the digestive apparatus of the birds. Some means must be employed to counteract the effects of this feed, for it must be fed in considerable quantities. It is the custom of some poultrymen to give Epsom salts in the drinking water or the ration a couple of times a week. I have employed this method when I did not have green feed available. During the summer it is seldom necessary to give the salts, for there is plenty of green stuff to keep the birds healthy. Green and succulent feed contains very little of egg-making

Howard County To Receive Many More Dairy Cows In 1927

Big Springs, Tex., Feb. 25.—The Agricultural committee of the Big Spring chamber of commerce has completed a program for 1927. Some of the projects being the importation of more dairy cattle, the distribution of 5,000 baby chicks to boys and girls of Howard county allowing each boy or girl receiving a chick to make their own note for the amount. A plan has been outlined by which bread gifts will be placed with boys and girls of the county allowing them to return two pigs as payment. A census will be made with the merchants in order to determine the number that will be distributed. It was also decided according to a plan proposed by Fred Keating, superintendent of the local U. S. Experiment Station and chairman of the agricultural committee to conduct a "more feed on fewer acres contest," giving five premiums for the greatest production of wheated grain. The premiums to be $50, $25, $25, $25 and $25. An agricultural show will be held in the fall and cash premiums given for the best display of grain sorghums.

According to Mr. Keating this program will be advertised by his committee and every encouragement given to the diversification idea.

Sugar Production Is Ruled By Sugar Beet Industry—Takes Huge Lead On Old Reliable Sugar Cane Production

Denver, Colo., Jan. 24.—American sugar now means beet sugar. California and Utah, once vigorous contenders, have practically dropped out this crop year because of beet diseases.

Location of beet sugar factories is as follows: Colorado 15, Michigan 16, Utah 15, Idaho 7, Nebraska 6, California 5, Ohio 5, Wyoming 4, Wisconsin 4, Illinois 3, Iowa 2 and other states 6, making 89 in all. These new factories are being built in South Dakota, Montana and Nebraska.

The sugar story is comparatively simple. The beet plant grows in cold water, through the magic of its leaves, into sugar which is stored in the root. The factories wash and slice the beets, extract the juice by a diffusion process, then purify and recombine the juice to a point that it can be added into candy and many other things. The juice is then evaporated and granulated.

How Sugar Is Made

There are three products of a beet sugar factory: first, sugar; second, molasses, the discarded juice which is again worked over to such an extent that no further sugar can be extracted profitably; third, beet pulp, molasses and pulp are excellent stock feed. Beet pulp from the intermediate factories goes as far east as Boston and south to Atlanta.

Utilization of molasses for purposes more profitable than feeding and producing alcohol is now being accomplished by the new refinery erected at Johnston, Colo.

This factory, the only one of its kind in the world, recovers sugar profitably from molasses discarded from other plants. The opening of the Johnston mill in 1925 was considered by sugar authorities one of the most significant steps of recent years in the industry. A similar plant is under construction at Lyman, Neb.

Government chemists and college research bureaus claim that there is no difference between beet and cane sugars for any purpose.

A favorable year for livestock producers is in prospect for 1927, according to the agricultural outlook report issued by the United States department of agriculture.

Minnesota leads all the states in the number of members of such associations. California leads in the volume of business transacted by financial returns.

Japan is the largest buyer of American rice, while her imports of wheat from the country are also increasing. A continued need for consumer necessities, a disease prevalent in practically all cucumber-growing states has been formulated by the United States department of agriculture.

One fifth of the lumber production of this country is wasted, according to the wood utilization committee of the United States department of commerce.

HURLWOOD NEWS

Quite a number of people met at the new brick school house at Hurlwood Sunday and organized a church and Sunday school. The people of this community have been looking forward to this time and are much pleased with having church services and a Sunday school.

J. T. Bennett has just completed his new building and it will be used for a store and also a garage. It is now open for business.

The Hurlwood hatchery has just made its initial batch, and resulted in 70 per cent of the eggs hatching.

The new feed grinding mill has been installed and is now in operation.

A deal was closed this week wherein W. K. Dickinson, Sr. of Lubbock purchased an interest in the new brick buildings just completed at Hurlwood. Mr. Dickinson is one of Lubbock county's most substantial men and there is not a man in the county who has done more for it and we feel proud that he has seen fit to make investments among us and be sure he will help the community in many ways.

SUCCESSFUL FEED TESTS

Feeding trials during 1926 on the experiment station poultry farm at Hurlwood, Texas, have shown that N. J. hatch shown that by means of a new ration it is possible to make white leghorns average one and one-fourth pounds in weight when eight weeks old and show steady gains to maturing weight of four pounds.

Balanced Rations For The Milk Cow

Profits in dairying, provided there is a good herd to start with, are made largely by carefully selecting feed and providing the cows at all times with suitable rations for milk production. Large quantities of feed as well as time and effort on the part of the dairyman may be easily wasted by improperly feeding a given head of cows. Dairy practice not only proves this, but also that many cows are fed in a manner to over-charge this waste and yet produce milk in large and profitable quantities. It is comparatively easy to select and measure rations that meet all requirements of cows and that make dairying most profitable.

Good dairy cows should be regarded as highly efficient animal machines for converting raw plant food into one of the greatest articles of the human diet, milk. It takes a certain amount of fuel to keep a motor running idle, likewise it requires a certain amount of fuel to keep a cow, even if she is dry. In other words, it takes a certain amount of feed to supply her body with heat and keep its machinery running. Also a cow in milk requires much more feed than the dry cow, for she must have the nutrients from which to manufacture milk.

Many of us do not appreciate the amount of human food produced by a good dairy cow in one year. A cow producing 3,000 pounds of milk yearly (selling 17 1/2 per cent butter fat) produces more edible food products for mankind than is contained in the entire body of a fat steer weighing 1,300 pounds. It requires about two years to produce a 1,200 pound steer. Thus each year a cow yields more products than a two-year-old steer in a life time. But a good dairy cow needs a ration containing the proper kinds and amounts of feed to support her in the work she is expected to do.

The necessity for a well balanced ration lies in the fact that in the 3,000 pounds of milk there are approximately 272 pounds of protein, 200 pounds of butter fat, 292 pounds of milk sugar, and 56 pounds of mineral matter. This is no negligible amount in the fact that she also requires considerable protein and mineral matter to build the body of an unborn calf. These requirements along with what is necessary to maintain the life and physical condition of the cow, emphasize the importance of feeding at all times a properly balanced ration.

A good dairy ration must be balanced that it is must contain several nutrients, protein carbohydrates and fats in the proportions to supply the needs of the animal. The ration must be palatable, must contain a large amount of water, and bulky, and it must be cheap for economical production.

The success of the dairyman in feeding his herd economically is largely dependent upon his ability to grow green succulent feed the year round. Native pastures in many sections are very poor and cannot be depended upon as a source of green feed. Green feeds are palatable and nutritious, and stimulate milk production and promote good health of the cow. In a large way the future of the dairy business in the arid and semi-arid sections of the growing of more legume crops, particularly sweet clover, cowpeas, and alfalfa.

Next to supplying a green feed in the form of cultivated pastures, silage crops afford the cheapest succulent feed for the dairy herd. A silo should be filled on every farm each year where there are as many as twenty head of livestock. This is particularly true if green pastures can not be had the year round.

While the supply of green feed is extremely important, a good producing cow cannot obtain all the nutrients needed from this feed alone. Some grain feed must be supplied. The amount of grain to be fed while the cows are on pasture is dependent upon the quality of the pasture. A good sodan grass pasture will cut again consumption from one fourth to one-third, and good sweet clover pasture will cut it to one-half. In other words, if one pound of grain is being fed for each three pounds of milk produced daily where there is no pasture available, one pound of grain may be fed to each four to five pounds of milk produced, where good pasture is available, still less will not reduce the grain consumption quite as much as green pasture, but it is indispensable in economical milk production where no pasture is available.—By A. L. Barnell, Professor of Dairy Husbandry, A. & M. College of Texas.

Some Farm Hints

By James L. Dow

Have you pruned your trees yet? Do not require your trees to feed a great number of apples, peaches, etc., when a few hours trimming will direct all of this substance into producing a more healthy, vigorous tree, and help it to produce a better variety of fruit.

The chamber of commerce is working on a proposition, along with the local poultry dealers to have an International Egg show in Lubbock. The idea has the endorsement of the very best poultry people, and it will be a great thing for the poultry raisers of this country. Eggs from the flocks of farmers, who have all varieties of chickens, up to the better grading and on through to the expert poultry raisers. The big benefits to be derived from this show will be to learn the importance of grading and uniformity of eggs in color and size, which means much to the raisers of poultry.

Did you know that Texas produces a very great per cent of the total number of turkeys raised each year in the United States, and that the Texas turkey is a prize winner in many respects? Still the farmers get on an average of two cents per pound less for their turkeys than the producers in other states. The reason for this is that the Texas farmer is satisfied to sell in a haphazard, hit or miss market, while in other states they are organized, and are in position to figure definitely with the buyer, and command a better price.

The farmers should bring more of their problems to the chamber of commerce. That body of men are anxious to help you in every way they possibly can, and they are in position to help in many ways, if they are only put in touch with the things that the farmer would like to know.

It's about planting time again, and we believe that one of the important things in making good crops is the planting of seed that is sure of germination, and the varieties that will produce the best. Varieties of feed, cotton, etc., is just important as the variety or breed of hogs, cattle or horses.

Why not brighten up the farm home, premises this year? Paint the residence and clean up the yards, and straighten up the fences. There is nothing that will add to the value of the farm—any more—in proportion to the cost than these improvements.

New plants worth trying for the flower garden are the Chinese forget-me-not, cynosolomon amaranth, and the new Sunshine aster.

There are several new squashes of small size excellent for the home garden now on the market. The old sweet potato or banana squashes comes out in improved form. There are also pocket sized Hubbards worth growing.

New Iceland poppies rivaling the Shirley keep coming to us each year. Some early these may be grown as annuals for fall flowers and then they will be ready to bloom bright and early again next spring.

Stringless green pod beans are really stringless now. Get a good strain from a reliable firm.

There are several round early tomatoes among the new vegetables that look enticing.

Try some of the newer large, potted dwarf peas this year. Their quality is superior and the yield extraordinary.

Start snapdragons early in a cool room. Let them grow slowly in the seed boxes. They will make up in speedy growth outside from a stocky start indoors.

Jerusalem cherries for Christmas decoration are easily raised from seed. It is merely a pepper with round fruits. Start a packet this spring.

Order Golden Bantam corn early. The demand increases each season. Try some of its hybrids which take the yellow color and much of the quality into larger cobs.

Farmers Speaking

He Protects His Machinery at Cost of Ten Dollars

When the plows, harrows, and planters are left scattered about over the field to take the rain and sunshine, the wooden parts soon rot and the metal soon rusts. Then when wanted again it takes valuable time to hunt them up and make the necessary repairs. And in every few years they are so dilapidated that they must be replaced with expensive new ones.

Last year I built a "lean-to" shed on one side of my barn at a cost of $10. This shed is of metal and will hold for 20 years or more. It will protect one riding planter, two break plows, two cultivators, one fertilizing distributor, all the light harrows, hoes, shovels, plows, and sweeps needed on the farm at a cost of 50 cents per year. Furthermore, when a tap is not rusty a wrench will turn the tap, instead of shipping off and skinning one's hands. Consequently, I find that my tool shed saves some money, time, and lots of "cussin'".—A Sheddling Farmer (Brownwood Bulletin).

Cottonseed Meal and Hulls for Mules

A reader wants to know if it is safe to feed cottonseed meal and hulls to mules, how much per day, and how long may they be fed?

It is safe to feed cottonseed meal and hulls to mules, but these alone do not make a suitable ration for a mule. We do not think over two pounds of meal and five pounds of hulls ought to be fed daily. From this it is evident that other feeds are necessary.

Male mules will get along well with no other roughage than cottonseed hulls, although they do not make good roughage for a mule. Hard working mules may also get along with two other roughages than cottonseed hulls, but for such mules the quantity should be limited to five or six pounds per day and the balance of the feed requirements made up of rich concentrated feed like corn and cottonseed meal. If hulls are used for roughage for mules they should not constitute more than half the usual roughage, the balance being lucerne hay.

If not more than two pounds of meal and five pounds of hulls are fed daily, they may be used for any length of time desired. A mule doing fairly hard work should get along well on 10 to 12 pounds of corn, two pounds of cottonseed meal, five pounds of hulls and five pounds of lucerne or other hay.—Toll Butler in Dallas News.

BREAKING THE ICE

Sometimes at large community parties, it is hard to break the ice and get the fun started. Here are two games that will help everybody to get acquainted early in the evening.

The first is called Similar Eyes. A paper or card is given to each guest. The card is always better if available because then players do not need to hunt for a book or chair on which to write. Pencils are distributed. Each one is to write on his card the names of all those in the room who have the same color of eyes as he has.

The second game is known as Double Ring. Send all the boys to one side of the room and all the girls to the other. Ask the girls to form a circle and afterward it will be easy to let the boys to form a circle outside of theirs. The girls and boys' circles face in opposite directions, and march with music. When the music stops they are to face their partner and find out who he is where his home is, and what his favorite breakfast food is. When the music begins they continue to march and to have the same discussion with their new partner when the music stops again. Let them keep this last partners for the next game you have planned for the program.

RABBIT FUR IS POPULAR

Rabbit fur is used more extensively by the furtrade than any other kind according to a bulletin recently issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. More than 100,000,000 rabbit skins are now used annually in this country, about 95 per cent of which are imported.

Womens Work Is Shown In Floyd County Meeting

The Floydada chamber of commerce held a banquet last week, one of the most interesting features of which was the presentation of the club women of the county. In reporting the evening's entertainment, the Hesperian says:

Miss Blanche Bass, county Home Demonstration Agent, after a brief report of the aims which actuated club work in the county, called on various club women for brief reports on the various phases of effort put forth by the women during the past year.

Answering as a representative garden club, Mrs. W. E. Miller of Sand Hill, told of the experiments made in her garden, of the use of fertilizer, of the white variety of products, 112 varieties of garden products were produced in her garden last year. Mrs. Miller was state winner in 1925 in the Home Improvement contest.

Mrs. W. C. Parker, president of the Harmony Club, winner of the biscuit making contest, told of better methods being employed in the preparation of foods in the homes in the county. The improvement in diet and the goal toward a balanced diet for which club women were striving.

As the leading woman in the county in the canning or preserving of foods, Mrs. G. C. Collins of Sand Hill, told briefly the story of her efforts to preserve the foods which had been raised on their farms and of the manner in which it was being put to use great variety to the home meals and add to the family income. Mrs. Collins reported that her year was 255 containers of foods preserved, of which there were fifty-one varieties.

Under the head of clothing, Mrs. Will-Snell of the Blanco club, reported for the club women. "A woman's clothing reflects her womanhood," Mrs. Snell said, and told of the advancement and economy of home sewing.

In club girls' work Miss Opheila Barker, of Mayview, who has won the trip to A. and M. college in the girls' appropriate dress contest, gave a lively and concise report of the activities of club girls. Misses Marie Smith and Alma Curry, of McLean, were introduced as the winners of the club girls' trip to Dallas during the state fair.

Mrs. A. J. Hanna of Sand Hill, president of the County Council, talked on the better social life that was growing up over the county and of the club work in general. The broader outlook which women are gaining through their efforts in proving of new virtues to the individuals and to the homes as well, she said.

Every talk made by the club leaders was so genuine, so apropos and so enthusiastic that they drew much applause.

MILL COUNTY IS FARM PARADISE

NATURAL BEAUTY ADDED TO PRODUCTIVENESS OF SOIL

GOLDTHWAITE. Feb. 26.—Mill county is covered with green scrubby growth and river bottoms picturesque with their abundance of flowering pecan groves makes Goldthwaite, Texas and the land about it a section of great beauty and allurements. Attracted first by the artistic loveliness of the territory, the newcomer and stranger to the place soon learns that this natural beauty is substantiated by a productiveness and fertility of soil that enables to make Goldthwaite and Mill county a paradise for diversified agricultural pursuits.

The section claims the greatest goat-raising resources in Texas, being blessed with clean mountain lands covered with ideal growth for pasturage. There is also a splendid range for cattle and sheep. Due to this fact, dairy farming is carried on quite extensively. Poultry raising is also a big resource of the Goldthwaite territory and gives evidence to the title "the greatest poultry country in the south." Some of the best flocks of the state are raised in Mill county. Its production of native pecans that abound along the frontage of the Colorado river through the county makes the county one of the leading pecan producing sections of the country. Besides this multiple growth of resources, Goldthwaite has vast acreage of clean and fine land which are adapted to produce corn, oats, wheat, barley, rice, cotton, mule beans, etc., fruits, berries, and truck products.

Poultry Thrives

Chickens and turkeys are raised in Goldthwaite on a large scale. The town has two extra large hatcheries owned by Mrs. C. M. Burd and Mrs. C. A. Elliott, with a 47,000 egg capacity. Both of these run to over-flowing throughout the hatching season. More than 15 cars of turkeys alone are shipped out annually. A number of commercial chicken farmers supply the local market with baby chicks as well as shipping to all parts of the state.

Truck of all kinds furnish a big source of revenue in the territory and has enabled many farmers to pay out their lands. Watermelons, grown in all parts of the county, but especially along the river bottom lands and post oak wood lands are trucked to other parts of the state and also are shipped out in car lots. About two hundred acres of land have been placed under irrigation, for growing of fruits, berries, and vegetables, with water being available from numerous streams and shallow wells.

The pecan industry in Goldthwaite promises to be one of its greatest resources, and already occupies a big part in the wealth of the district. Scores of miles of native pecan trees, which flourish through the territory, form a natural home for native pecan trees. Many of these native trees have been budded and young orchards of grafted super-shell varieties of pecans have been planted. In 1923 over 1500 trees were set, all being nursery stock. Other tree growths give Mill county a plentiful supply of timber for fuel and posts.

On Pecan Road

Goldthwaite, county seat of Mill county, is located on the Pecan Belt highway of Texas. Local citizens spent much time and money in securing the roadway through their section, but have been amply repaid for their efforts due to passage and traffic over the thoroughfare. In addition to this highway, four others radiate from the town over which truck and passenger busses operate, giving connection to Brownwood, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, and Comanche. The Gulf, Colorado, and Santa Fe railroad supplies the shipping facilities for the county, giving a direct connection from Goldthwaite to the Gulf.

More than 700 pupils are enrolled in the public school system of Goldthwaite which is housed in two good brick buildings. The schools hold full affiliation with Texas University. There are five other high schools in the county beside the one located in Goldthwaite. The town has two banks with a combined capitalization of $175,000. Around town there is an deposit in both banks. There are four grocery stores in Goldthwaite, three drug stores, two hardware stores, ten saloons, four filling stations, three blacksmith shops, two cold storage plants, four cream stations, four feed stores, and churches representing all denominations.

Good Fishing

In addition to the natural advantages of the Goldthwaite country, there is a strong attraction in the excellent fishing along the Colorado river and along Pecos Bayou. A hunting and fishing club is maintained by a local stock company at Lake Morrell. The scenic beauty of the section here many tourists to the region during all seasons of the year. The combined merits of the territory make it an inviting spot for both pleasure and home seekers. There is an active chamber of commerce in Goldthwaite. The organization recently undertook to secure a cold storage plant for the town and obtained a $10,000 establishment since that time, another thing, another firm has secured a plant. Both of these run night and day during the turkey dressing season. Hides and furs also furnish good business and bring in hundreds of dollars each season.

O. H. Yarbrough and J. A. Hester, dry goods merchants, are two of the business men of the town who are always back of civic movements for betterment of the community and section. Other leading spirits of Goldthwaite are Joe Palmer, Earl Fairman, W. C. Dwyer, and D. H. Harrison.

IT'S STILL WET

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—England, France and Greece are just as wet as ever, according to Winston Churchill (Pittsfoot) Johnston, who returned recently from Europe. His campaign trip began last July. He says the people haven't much time to spare in the thought of prohibition because they are too taken up with other national issues, but that "they'll come around all right."

YEAR of GREAT SUCCESS

Growth of Service Indicates Merit and We Have Grown Steadily--Soundly

The advancement in the use of electricity has been made over a term of many years. Its discovery through an electric phenomenon on Benjamin Franklin's kite, has been followed by a slow process of development and utilization.

The manner in which electricity today plays its part in the life of the nation is rooted deep in the soil of service, sown by men and organizations of vision, determination and enthusiasm.

The great growth of the utilization of electricity from the plants of the Texas Utilities Company have been in accord with that experienced by the great Public Utility organizations nation-wide. Certainly this growth has been engendered and encouraged by the type of service these organizations have rendered day in and day out—the dependability of the service, the inventive uses applied to making living easier, the economy of its uses as power, illumination and heat.

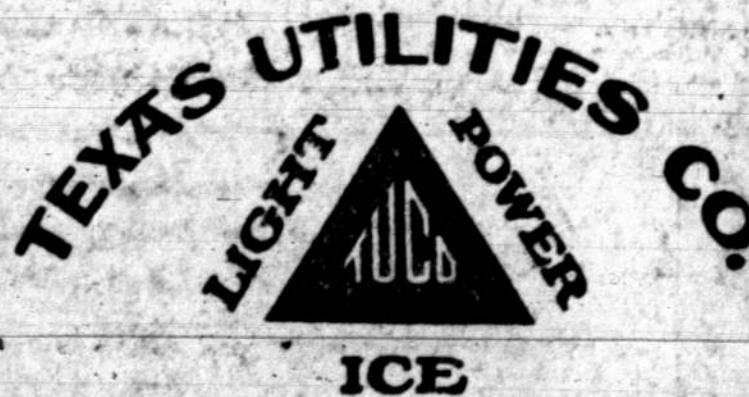

There's a world-wide quickening now to a further recognition of electricity as a force releasing industries to greater capacities, and economies. Electric current has found its sphere in the home and today is generally recognized as the highest type of cooking fuel, safest power and most efficient and satisfactory illumination.

WHILE YOU READ—

This newspaper, think about the many uses of electricity—and the important part it plays in practically everything in modern life. Did you ever stop to think that the newspaper you now have in hand could not have been produced in the fine manner that it has been without the heat and power derived from the electric current.

When you visit Lubbock you are cordially invited to visit the plant of the Texas Utilities Company. You will here see one of the most modern of the South. In addition to the electric plant we have a modern ice manufacturing plant whose product is used throughout this section of West Texas. You will always find a welcome here.

The Texas Utilities Company is now serving 37 towns of the South Plains. Its continual expansion is a result of a demand for its services. Certainly that demand is based upon the type of service rendered by the company.
