Hotel Fire Claims Lives

A fireman mans an aerial ladder and hose as he and others battle a fire at the Carlton Hotel in downtown St. Paul, Minn., early today. The early morning blaze hit the four-story building claiming at least seven lives and injuring some 16 persons. Fire started in a first floor lavatory. (Story on Page 2-B.) (AP WIREPHOTO)

U. S., Russia Dispatch Envoys To Far East

Terrorists Hit Twice In Saigon

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Viet Cong terrorists struck twice in Saigon tonight, exploding a powerful Claymore mine at the military airport's main gate and a plastic bomb at a police substation across town. Among casualties were four U.S. servicemen, slightly wounded.

One Vietnamese was killed and three were injured in this first such outbreak of the new year.

It came shortly after U.S. briefing officers reported Allied troops and planes had knocked out hidden Viet Cong installations in three widely separated areas of South Viet Nam over the preceding 48 hours.

The Claymore mine, which can be aimed to fire hundreds of steel pellets like a shotgun, cut loose at 6:18 p.m. from the seat of a motorized passenger cycle as American servicemen were streaming out of the gate of the airport. But the cycle had been parked between a cargo truck and a large tree and the tree took most of the charge.

A Vietnamese passerby was killed. Of the Americans injured, two were Air Force men. The others were a soldier and a sailor.

The police substation in eastern Saigon was hit an hour later. A plastic charge estimated to weigh 60 pounds, flung in the street by a bicyclist, blew in a wall and collapsed the main building, also surrounded by wire. One policeman, a woman and a child were injured.

A Vietnamese policeman raced shooting after the terrorist and said he may have winged him.

The last previous attacks in Saigon were dozens of grenade assaults on American servicemen, trucks and billets marking the fifth anniversary Dec. 20 of the Viet Cong's political agency, the national liberation front.

Soviets Off On Mission

Soviets Silent On Aim Of Their Junket

TOKYO (AP) — The Soviet Union and the United States carried diplomatic maneuvering on Viet Nam to the Far East today as Soviet troubleshooter Alexander Shelepin left for Hanoi and American envoy W. Averell Harriman arrived in Tokyo.

Shelepin took off from Moscow with top experts on military production and rocketry. The Kremlin apparently hopes to outbid Red Chinese influence in the North Vietnamese capital with more economic and military assistance.

NO. 2 MAN

Some Western governments were hopeful also that Shelepin would encourage Ho Chi Minh's regime to negotiate for peace in Viet Nam. He is the No. 2 man in the Soviet Communist party under Chairman Leonid F. Brezhnev.

This theory got a boost Tuesday when Albania, Peking's mouthpiece in the Soviet-Chinese dispute, charged Shelepin's real aim was to help the United States make a deal on Viet Nam. Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi also accused the Soviets of giving the United States a free hand in Viet Nam by keeping the peace elsewhere.

HAS IMPORTANCE

The Russians have kept silent on the purpose of the trip, although Tass announced Shelepin's departure with a "flash" on its news service. This designation is used for events of great importance to the Kremlin.

Harriman, who has been playing a key part in President Johnson's so-called Viet Nam peace offensive, flew from Cairo to Bangkok, the eighth leg of a globe-circling tour. The U.S. ambassador-at-large conferred for 90 minutes with anti-Communist Thailand's Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman.

VALUABLE ADVICE

Leaving the Thai capital for Tokyo, Harriman said he got "extremely valuable" advice from Khoman but brushed aside further questions. Thailand, one of the staunchest supporters of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia, has permitted stationing of U.S. troops and equipment and allowed American planes to take off from Thailand to bomb North Viet Nam.

Harriman's visit to Tokyo comes eight days after one by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. While Humphrey tried to explain and defend U.S. policy in Viet Nam to skeptical Japanese officials, it was understood Harriman would go a step further in his talks with Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and Foreign Minister Tetsuhiro Shima.

He will try to enlist Japan as a go-between with Moscow and Hanoi.

Shima will leave for Moscow Jan. 16. Shortly before Harriman's arrival, a government spokesman said Japanese diplomats abroad had been asked to report back on the attitude of their host countries toward a peace conference. This indicated Sato's government intended to play a major role as a peacemaker. Many Japanese have been clamoring for a halt to the fighting.

Work To Get Started On Downtown Parking Center

A decision for an immediate start on clearing up the old First National Bank location at Second and Main for free off-street parking came from a meeting Wednesday.

Attending a luncheon session at the Settles Hotel were members of the city commission and city administrative officers, as well as officers of Downtown Big Spring, Inc.

The latter group, representing the non-profit corporation which acquired 125 feet along Main southward from Second, made preparations to deed the property to the city, and agreed to help finance, if necessary, some of the work of removal of final debris.

The city then will take over, do grading, surfacing and marking, as well as preparing an entrance from Second Street. It was the consensus that this project could be completed by the peak of the spring shopping season, and that this additional parking in the central area will be available to the public.

It was agreed also that the city will go ahead immediately on plans for rebuilding sidewalk and street grades in the 200 block of Main, this work being designed largely to cut down curb heights and make the entire block more attractive. This work will be done on a property-assessment basis, and it was estimated that this particular work will be undertaken in early summer. It will call for closing of the block during the construction period.

There was general discussion on the continuation of "no parking meters" in the city, and while no definite decision was made, the report to the meeting was that the abolition of the meters had met with approval from merchants and customers alike.

The meters originally were removed for a 60-day trial period, but an extension of this time was generally discussed Wednesday.

Parking Meter Poll Planned

LAMESA (SC) — The Lamesa City Council is conducting a poll among businessmen and Lamesa and Dawson County residents to determine their preference for replacing parking meters in downtown Lamesa.

The parking meters were removed Dec. 1 and were to be replaced Jan. 1. At a recent council meeting, the group voted to distribute ballots to enable the people of Lamesa to have a say in whether or not the meters will be replaced or will be discontinued permanently.

A-Smasher Site Prospects Culled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sources say that the committee named to choose a location for the proposed $348-million atom smasher has pared the list of prospective sites.

Eighty-five communities in 43 states officially remain in the bidding, and those areas were narrowed from a list that at one time was more than 100.

The sources said Illinois, Wisconsin, California, Colorado and Michigan—among others—appear to be still in the running.

Nations Said Urging Hanoi Toward Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is pleased with the results so far of his Viet Nam peace offensive. He is confident the travels of his special peace envoys are having a global impact still largely hidden behind a curtain of diplomatic secrecy.

Although there has been no outward evidence of a favorable response from Hanoi, Johnson remains hopeful of a breakthrough.

On the hopeful side, word has come through diplomatic channels that many countries visited by such traveling American diplomats as W. Averell Harriman and Arthur J. Goldberg are getting in direct touch with Hanoi — to urge steps toward peace.

DIPLOMATIC CONTACTS
Diplomatic traffic with the Communist government of North Viet Nam has reached a new peak since the concerted American peace effort began. Some of this hidden diplomatic intervention has come from countries skeptical in the past about American policy.

If Hanoi remains deaf to such appeals, Johnson believes his efforts, at the very least, will reinforce his claim that if there are obstacles to peace, the blame lies elsewhere.

In a sense, the Johnson peace offensive has been a developing thing, with the President personally ordering each new move, often on short notice.

MAJOR DECISIONS
It was shaped with the passage of time as Johnson made a succession of major decisions in which his politician's sense of timing played a great role.

The peace campaign had its beginning — in secrecy — at a Nov. 11 conference at the LBJ Ranch in Texas. Gathered at the comfortable ranch house on the banks of the Pedernales were the President, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and presidential assistants McGeorge Bundy and Jack Valenti.

For many weeks, the administration had given periodic thought to a possible pause in American bombings of North Viet Nam as a potential means of dramatizing U.S. hopes for peace and, hopefully, encouraging a conciliatory response from Hanoi.

FIRST DISCUSSION
The ranch conference marked the first intensive discussion of this possibility, favored by many foreign leaders and by some people in this country who felt a five-day pause in May hadn't lasted long enough.

In these opening stages, the peace offensive was "not tied directly to the White House — lest something go wrong and Johnson feel compelled to pull back."

On Dec. 23, Johnson made the first move to expand his peace efforts manifold and, ultimately, to bring them into the open.

CALLS GOLDBERG
At noon, Johnson put through a telephone call to U.N. Ambassador Goldberg, sunning himself on a beach in the Bahamas.

President ordered him to fly to the Vatican for a meeting with Pope Paul. A presidential jet flew Goldberg back to New York that night and, after a stopover that included a session with U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant, the envoy was bound for Rome.

Roving Ambassador Harriman, a durable 74 with 20 years of cold war diplomacy behind him, got a Johnson call at about the same time: fly to Warsaw, Poland, for talks with the leaders of that Communist country which, along with Canada and India, is represented on the International Control Commission for hours on Dec. 22.

Payne said he was taken to an apartment where Boyd terrorized him. He said Boyd struck him again with a pistol and leaped on top of him on a bed.

"Boyd said I am going to kill you Payne, but I'm going to make you hurt first," Payne said.

Payne testified he was driven to a doctor where his cuts were stitched and later taken to the East Dallas Bank and Trust Co. where he was forced to set up a $15,000 account on which funds were never drawn.

Payne said Boyd was with him during the visit to the doctor and the bank and had not only threatened to kill him but his children also if the lawyer divulged what happened.

The lawyer said he managed to escape from Boyd by refusing to leave the bank with him.

Payne said Boyd drove up to his home and forced him at gunpoint to leave with him.

During the drive to a farm near Plano, Payne testified, Boyd demanded $15,000 and said he intended to open a bookmaking operation in Collin County.

Later, Payne said, Boyd struck him again repeatedly threatening his life.

HOWARD COUNTY DEFINITELY GOING INTO 17TH DISTRICT

Howard County definitely will leave the 19th Congressional District, served by George Mahon, and go into the 17th District, represented by Omar Burleson.

This is the import of the federal court decision on litigation challenging the legislature's redistricting during the session last year. Glascock County will be taken from the 16th District, served by Richard White, and will go also into the 17th District.

Howard County has been in the 19th District with Rep. Mahon since the district was created in 1934. The change, unless overturned by an appellate court, will be effective in January, 1967. As in the case with the 19th, Howard County will be the second most populous county in the 17th District. For details, see Page 2-A.

School Administrators Group Hears Governor

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Connally told a group of the state's top public school administrators today that financing education is like buying blue chip stocks.

"You will receive a return on your money with interest—provided that the organization in which you invest is dynamic and imaginative enough to find and correct its mistakes and build constantly for the future," the governor said.

ADVISORY CONFAB
Connally spoke to a general session of the School Administrators Advisory Conference meeting here through Friday.

Connally disclosed names of the 15 members of the public school study committee, a research group given the three-year job of investigating all phases of Texas' public school education and making recommendations to the legislature. The committee, created and financed with a $250,000 appropriation by the 1965 Legislature, was a part of the school teacher pay compromise that settled the hottest controversy of the 59th Legislature.

PANEL MEMBERS
The chairman is Leon Jaworski, prominent Houston lawyer.

Other members include Joe Chapa, of Hidalgo County, Harold Hitt of Midland, Frank Hubert of College Station, Morgan Jones Jr. of Abilene and Mrs. Helen Alexander Wright of Nacogdoches.

Connally asked the committee to find the answers to a number of questions.

"More than half the children who began first grade 12 years ago have dropped out of school somewhere down the line. How many of them will join the 731,000 adult Texans already listed as functionally illiterate? How many will swell the ranks of the 150,000 unemployed, lacking the skills to find and keep good jobs? How many will be the welfare cases of the future—steeped in poverty in an era of national abundance and affluence? On the other side of the coin, where will we find the educated and trained talent to fill the thousands of skilled jobs now going begging in industry and government?"

Lawfords Are Parted

NEW YORK (AP)—Patricia Lawford, sister of the late President John F. Kennedy, has separated from her husband, actor Peter Lawford.

Their lawyer, William P. Marin, said the couple had agreed to a legal separation. He said the split, long rumored and the first in the tightly knit Kennedy clan, was amicable.

The Lawfords, married 11 years ago, have four children, who reside with their mother.

Mrs. Lawford, 39, a Roman Catholic, is prevented by her religion from obtaining a divorce, although a separation is permitted. Lawford, 41, is a Protestant.

Two Charged In Abduction, $15,000 Extortion Attempt

DALLAS (AP)—Two Dallas men were held today under bonds totaling $150,000 on accusations of beating, kidnapping and trying to extort $15,000 from a wealthy businessman and lawyer.

Justice of Peace W. E. Richburg placed Charles Boyd, 37, under two $50,000 bonds and Virgil McVain, 30, under two $25,000 bonds on charges of kidnapping and robbery by assault.

Robert Payne, 39, a lawyer and owner of a luxury apartment house, hotel and other properties, testified he was taken from his home and terrorized for hours on Dec. 22.

Payne said Boyd drove up to his home and forced him at gunpoint to leave with him.

Payne testified he was driven to a doctor where his cuts were stitched and later taken to the East Dallas Bank and Trust Co. where he was forced to set up a $15,000 account on which funds were never drawn.

Payne said Boyd was with him during the visit to the doctor and the bank and had not only threatened to kill him but his children also if the lawyer divulged what happened.

The lawyer said he managed to escape from Boyd by refusing to leave the bank with him.

Judges Uphold Redistricting But Statute Needs Tightened

HOUSTON (AP)—Three federal judges upheld the legality of the new Texas congressional redistricting statute Wednesday, but with a warning that "our approval is limited in duration."

The 85-page opinion and decree signed by the special court said the act contains numerous weaknesses which should be corrected without delay. The judges made no specific recommendations but indicated the legislature should make a second effort by July of 1967, stating delay of a "second look" until after the 1970 census "would be unreasonable."

They agreed the legislature, despite the statute's defects, had made a good faith effort and it would be presumptuous for the court to pinpoint areas of concern "until such time as the state legislature indicates its complete unwillingness or inability to face up to the job."

"Apportionment, state and congressional, is for the legislature, not the courts," said the opinion written by Circuit Judge John Brown.

CLEAR WAY
Texas officials applauded the decision, noting it apparently clears the way for the election of 23 congressmen this year. An adverse decision would have upset the 1966 political schedule.

The filing deadline for candidates is Feb. 7. A similar case over redistricting of both houses of the state legislature is pending before the same court. The judges gave no hint when they might rule.

Gov. John Connally said of the ruling: "I am delighted it was received in time for candidates to file and for the people to have no interruption in this year's election process."

Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr and Secretary of State Crawford Martin agreed. "I am pleased the court has sustained the position of the state of Texas and has decided the issues so properly," Carr said.

"GREAT VICTORY"
"I feel this is a great victory for the people of Texas," Martin said.

Brown and Dist. Judges Joe Ingraham and James Noel ruled Oct. 19, 1963, that Texas congressional districts were unconstitutional and should be reapportioned on a basis of "population and nothing else."

Their new ruling said the law, despite statistical disparities, satisfies for the present the requirement for substantial numerical equality. The judges said the legislators knew they could not possibly come up with 23 districts with the numerical ideal of 416,508 residents each. "We hold that this new act represents a substantial good faith effort by Texas toward the constitutional goal of population equality," the opinion said.

Deviations from the ideal, the judges said, range from 9.7 per cent above to 9.7 per cent below. They said the legislators fixed 10 per cent as the maximum deviation.

"We agree and expressly declare that 10 per cent (plus or minus) is the maximum deviation permitted for Texas," they said. "But the fact remains... there is little, if any, justification shown for any prolonged continuation of many of these marked disparities."

GIVE REASON
They added, however, that courts should supplant legislative action only after a demonstrated default. Then they gave this reason for not pinpointing changes the legislature should make: "Courts must be careful in specifying standards lest what is legislative in name turns out to be in fact merely a court-concocted plan under a more palatable mantle of legislation."

Key Changes Made By Redistricting

AUSTIN (AP)—These are the major changes made by the congressional redistricting bill which a three-judge federal court at Houston held Wednesday is constitutional:

It revised the state's congressional districts, some of which were as much as four times more populous than others, into substantial equality of population. The deviation from equal population is no greater than 10 per cent.

Dallas and Houston each received an additional congressman, boosting Dallas' representation to two House members and Houston's to three.

A Texas congressman-at-large post was abolished and a new district, with no incumbent, was created in South Texas.

Parts of Dallas, Tarrant and Bexar counties were attached to predominantly rural districts to achieve population balance.

Four congressmen, if each seeks re-election, will face incumbent rivals because their four districts were trimmed to two.

MISPLACED OR LOST?

Government Securities
In State Vault Disappear

AUSTIN (AP) — U.S. Government securities valued at $30,000 have disappeared from the state treasury vault in the Capitol, State Auditor C. H. Cavness reported Wednesday.

Cavness made the disclosure in an annual audit report for the fiscal year that ended Aug. 31, 1965.

State Treasurer Jesse James and Cavness said the full amount of the securities—U. S. Treasury bills maturing June 30, 1965—was covered by insurance.

BELIEVED LOST

"We don't know yet they are lost—they may have been misplaced—but we think they are lost," James said.

Cavness said the securities were not in the designated file when the auditor's staff made a physical count in the vault.

"Members of the staffs of both the state treasurer and the state auditor made a thorough double check of all the files in the vault for these securities but they were not found," the audit report said.

PROCEDURE REVISED

Cavness said the bills had not been received for redemption at the U.S. Treasury Department.

Since the audit, James said, his department has revised its procedures for processing and handling securities and has hired an internal auditor, as recommended by Cavness.

James said the disappearance was the first such instance he could recall.

The vault holds securities for a number of state agencies, which invest their funds. Securities are put up as collateral by banks holding state funds. The State Insurance Department also receives securities as guarantees by insurance companies.

Past Halt In
'Iron Bomb'
Output Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production of 750-pound bombs was at a halt during the first six or seven months of the U.S. air war in Viet Nam, it was disclosed today.

Manufacture of these "iron bombs" stopped after the Korean War, wasn't resumed until late last summer, the Defense Department said. This was about a half year after the first U.S. air strike into North Viet Nam.

Apparently the bomb stockpile was fast being eaten up by almost daily B52 raids over South Viet Nam and air attacks by U.S. Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers against Communist targets in both North and South Viet Nam. A mission of 30 B52s, fully loaded, carries more than a million pounds of bombs.

NO SHORTAGE

U.S. officials have insisted there is no shortage of bombs or other ammunition.

Knowledgeable sources say there were times during the past month of strike operations when the 750-pound bomb supply was tight. "We sweated a little," said one source.

No missions were scrubbed because of a lack of bombs and the supply situation has been improving, sources said.

Asked about the bomb production situation, the Pentagon also said that manufacture of 500-pound bombs was stopped in the fall of 1963 "when inventory requirements for the general purpose forces were reached."

OUTPUT RESUMED

Output of 500-pounders was started again in March 1965, about a month after American warplanes began hitting North Viet Nam.

This means there was a production break of more than a year in this class of bomb.

The 750-pounders and the 500-pounders have been the major types of bombs dumped on the Communists by Air Force and Navy planes, although 1,000-pound and 2,000-pound bombs also have been dropped.

Allies Scorch
Houses, Crops

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—To break the back of the Viet Cong, U.S. and Allied forces are adopting a program of destroying houses and crops in areas which feed and shield the Communist forces.

For years, Americans refused to participate in "scorched earth" efforts, leaving them to the Vietnamese. Now Americans are directly involved. They are trying to protect innocent people.

The broad-based program includes the establishment of free-bombing zones in Viet Cong regions, killing rice crops in enemy areas, and burning other crops and homes.

PRIME TARGETS

The rich, intensely cultivated flat lands south of the Saigon Oriental River west of Saigon are prime "scorched earth" targets. U. S. paratroopers from the 173rd Airborne Brigade began operating there last week-end.

They laid their base camp among the blackened frames of burned houses. Within two miles of the paratroopers' camp not a house was left standing. Constant pounding by artillery and planes had reduced every building to rubble.

The paratroopers' mission was to move out farther, round up all the people they could find, evacuate them north of the river to resettlement camps, and burn and destroy everything eatable and livable.

Patrols waded in neck-deep canals slicing through the canefields, crept stealthily down high dikes, and pushed through thick brush.

BURN HOUSES

Every house they encountered they burned to the ground. Most were of thatch, but some were large with heavy wooden frames and neat gardens.

Every cooking utensil was smashed, every banana tree severed, every mattress slashed.

The American paratroopers are remaining in the area, enlarging the "scorched earth" zone. They know that the Viet Cong will rebuild the razed homes when they leave, make new earthenware pots and breed new chickens.

Capt. Henry Tucker, from Columbus, Miss., said: "Maybe if we can keep them busy rebuilding their houses and replanting the crops, then they'll have no time for shooting."

'Weather Forecaster'
Launching Set Soon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

A new era in long-range weather forecasting opens this month with the launching of the first of several satellites combining to form a full-time operational forecasting network.

Within two to three years, weathermen "will be able to advise people not to go to the beach two weeks from Sunday because it's going to rain that day," predicted an official working on the project with the National Aeronautics and Space

Administration.

A picture-taking satellite named TOS 1, which stands for Tiro's operational satellite, is scheduled for launching late this month, probably Jan. 25 or 26, as the first fully operational weather satellite.

TOS 2 is due to ride aloft about one month later.

Although more than a half-million useful pictures were received from the first 10 Tiro's weather satellites, their primary function was to test teletronic systems to be used in weather monitoring by satellites.

LAUNCHING SOON

Heart of the long-range forecasting system will be packed inside another satellite, called Nimbus B, which will be launched in late 1967 or early 1968.

Sensors aboard Nimbus will record data such as the atmospheric pressure and moisture content of the air at various locations around the world. Re-

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., Jan. 6, 1966 3-A note unmanned stations on earth will record wind velocity on the earth's surface and relay this data to the satellite.

This information, coupled with photographs of cloud formations from two TOS satellites, "could enable weather predictions to be made two to four weeks in advance," said a spokesman for NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center.

TWO IN ORBIT

Plans call for two TOS satellites to be in orbit at all times, with another on standby ready for launch in case an orbiting satellite breaks down or wears out.

Bobby Baker Arraignment Set In 9-Count Indictment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Baker — the man Lyndon B. Johnson once called "my strong right arm" — has been charged with a tangled, three-year skein of financial wrongdoing carrying grave criminal penalties.

A federal grand jury ended a 15-month investigation by charging the former secretary to Senate Democrats with fraud, tax evasion, grand larceny, conspiracy and illegal transportation of stolen money.

The crimes set forth in the nine-count indictment returned Wednesday in U. S. District Court, could mean a maximum prison sentence of 48 years and $47,000 in fines for the soft-spoken, 37-year-old lawyer-tycoon.

MARLON BRANDO

Odd Talent Combine In Coming Film

By BOB THOMAS

AP Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It should be an interesting experience," said Marlon Brando, an expression of doubt appearing on his classic features.

The actor was speaking of his next film venture, "The Countess from Hong Kong." It promises to be one of the most noteworthy of recent movies, inasmuch as he will costar with Sophia Loren and both will be directed by Charlie Chaplin.

The odd combination of talents has caused wonderment in the film world and the feeling is shared by Brando.

REWRITES SCRIPT

Has the script been written? "Well, yes," said Brando hesitantly. "That is, he sent me one. But then he sent a message later telling me to disregard the previous script as he was writing an entirely new one."

Why is Brando doing the film? "Because Chaplin asked me," he explained. "When a man of his stature in the industry writes a script for you, you can hardly refuse. Why he should think of me for a comedy, I haven't the faintest idea. But he said I was the only one who could play it."

Brando added with a grin, "and Sean Connery. I guess I understand Chaplin now. He had Connery in the book, in case I didn't come through."

The deal for "The Countess from Hong Kong" resulted from the labors of Jay Kanter, longtime Brando agent and friend. Now a top executive of MCA, Kanter recently assumed control of the company's European film unit. He sounded out Chaplin, who disclosed he had been writing a new comedy for two years.

SUMMIT MEETING

Kanter arranged a summit meeting between Brando and Chaplin in London.

FBI Chief Declares Reds Active In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI money in propaganda efforts designed to hinder United States today the Communist party has played an ever-increasing role in generating opposition to the U. S. position in Viet Nam.

Hoover said the Communist party and other subversive groups supported and participated in various protests against U. S. policy. This was particularly true, he said, in the April 17 student march on Washington, the August Washington summer action project, the October international days of protest, the Nov. 27 march on Washington for peace in Viet Nam and the Nov. 25-28 national antiwar convention in Washington.

ANNUAL REPORT

In his annual report to the attorney general on FBI activities during 1965, Hoover said, "Always eager to engage in any activity which will bring embarrassment to the United States, the party has played an ever-increasing role in generating opposition to the United States position in Viet Nam."

"In September 1965, party headquarters sent a directive to all districts giving instructions on slogans to be used in protests against United States action in Viet Nam. In addition, the party has expended large sums of fingerprints."

Baker was reached by telephone Wednesday night at "Bobby Baker's Carousel," the plush motel he owns at the seaside resort of Ocean City, Md. He calmly referred all questions to his lawyers — who said "no comment."

ARRAIGNMENT SET

Baker's arraignment is set for Jan. 20.

According to the grand jury, Baker's alleged criminal activity began in mid-1962 and continued through last Oct. 15 — two years after he had quit his Senate post under fire, become a headline personality, and been the subject of a stormy name-calling investigation by a Senate committee.

The grand jury did not — as the Senate Rules Committee had recommended — indict Baker for conflict-of-interest violations. But it did charge that he:

—Understated his income by $54,559 for 1961-62 and evaded $23,091 in income taxes for those years.

—Conspired with a Washington coal lobbyist, Wayne L. Bromley, to camouflage large portions of his 1963-64 income as legal fees to Bromley, secretly and surreptitiously taking the money himself.

—Fraudulently obtained $33,000 from a Los Angeles savings and loan officer, illegally carried it across state lines and failed to report it as taxable income.

TAX RETURN

—Helped prepare a false tax return for Bromley to conceal income that went to Baker; and —Took by "felonious conversion" or theft, $67,000 from two Los Angeles savings and loan executives, in each case failing to report much of it as taxable income.

The grand jury also indicted a former lieutenant governor of Nevada, Clifford Jones, on three counts of perjury for allegedly false statements Jones made to the jury last March. Jones' indictment carries a maximum penalty of 15 years and $6,000. Jones and Bromley are named as coconspirators in the conspiracy count against Baker. They are not defendants, however.

Baker was Democratic secretary when Johnson, then a Texas senator, was Democratic leader. The two worked closely together and Johnson once de-

Borman Will Return Flag

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona expects to get back Monday the state flag which astronaut Frank Borman carried on his Gemini 7 flight.

Gov. Sam Goddard gave the flag to Borman, an Air Force lieutenant colonel and a spokesman for the Tucson Chamber of Commerce, says the astronaut plans to return it at a public reception honoring him.

A spectacular display of lights — in the shape of a Titan rocket 18 stories high — will greet Borman when he returns to the city where he spent his boyhood. The green and amber fluorescent lights across an entire side of a new downtown skyscraper will say, "Welcome Borman."

Pistol Shot Kills Boy In Beaumont

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Walter Porteous, 14, was fatally shot at his home Wednesday night while trying to take a .22 caliber pistol from his brother Howard, 11, police said. Officers said the pistol accidentally discharged.

Must Reject Governor Race —Yarborough

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., headed back to Washington today for a congressional session he says is so demanding he must spurn pleas to run for governor.

The senior Texas senator, starting the second year of his second full six-year term, told newsmen Wednesday he has been deluged with mail urging him to challenge Gov. John Connally's third term bid.

Yarborough said he would return to Washington, however, to continue efforts toward passage of a Cold War GI bill and creation of a Guadalupe Mountain National Park.

EDUCATION AID

He also wants to see that money for educational programs isn't curtailed, he said.

Yarborough took opportunity to criticize the Connally administration. He urged voters to pay poll taxes and participate in precinct conventions in an effort to help Texas "break out of the shell it's been in for 30 years and enter the main stream of American life."

"After the (1964) elections, the people realized that the mass of Democratic support had swept some candidates into office who in fact opposed the principles of the Democratic party and intended to thwart, rather than promote, progress in our state," Yarborough said.

"CONTRARY" TICKET

The senator also criticized Connally for what he said is the governor's creation of a ticket "contrary to the tradition of Texas politics." Connally has praised Secretary of State Crawford Martin, a candidate for attorney general.

In another slap at the governor, Yarborough said the pro-Connally State Democratic Executive Committee has only "a minority—a rather small minority—of good Democrats."

Asked whether he thought Connally would have an opponent, Yarborough said it would be surprising if he didn't.

Kosygin, Asian Leaders In Talks

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin held more separate talks with President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan and Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India today in another attempt to get their summit conference off the ground.

Kosygin met with Ayub before seeing Shastri. The two Asian leaders were tentatively scheduled to meet later. But their meeting apparently hinged on their individual talks with their Soviet host.

The Indian and Pakistani leaders were still deadlocked over Kashmir, the Himalayan state that both claim. The issue has brought war between them twice since 1947.

Shastri was reported holding firmly to India's view — that Kashmir is an integral part of India and not a subject for negotiations.

Ayub was said to be unmoved from Pakistan's claim that the Kashmir dispute is the root of the conflict with India and must be solved first. Ayub wants to hold a plebiscite in Kashmir.

New Storm Slams Into Stricken California Area

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The disaster-hardened people of Crescent City, Calif., took precautions. Another storm slammed into northwestern California today in a region where 1,000 persons already have left their homes, many roads have been closed and snow-laden roofs have collapsed.

Three hikers are missing on 14,161-foot Mt. Shasta which, residents say, has had the heaviest snow in more than 20 years. The Smith River in the far northwest rose at a rate of a foot an hour. Although the situation remained less than critical, the disaster-hardened people of Crescent City, Calif., took precautions.

Torrential rains from Hawaiian storms and melted mountain snow killed 23 and did $1 billion in damage in Christmas week of 1964.

The U.S. Weather Bureau in San Francisco said "the flooding pressure on the rivers of central California should ease while those of the extreme north should increase."

Forecaster W. E. Brenkman said an added hazard was snow-melt. DISASTER AREA Rain and snow fell on

Transit Strike Talks Show Hopeful Ray

NEW YORK (AP)—More people than ever set their alarm clocks for milkman's hours today and hurried to work along darkened, rain-swept streets. Bargaining to end the transit strike meanwhile reached the hard stage. Many who had been walking in tried driving. Others looked at the brooding skies, and went back to bed to catch up on some of the sleep lost since bus and subway workers struck New Year's Day.

The only ray of sunshine was that the negotiations had produced the first hopeful sign at a marathon session that ended only hours before the morning migration.

Emerging from the talks between the Transit Authority and the striking unions, Mayor John V. Lindsay reported:

"There has been some movement, nevertheless the gap remains wide between them. New offers have been made."

Lindsay declined to predict if this could lead to settlement of the 6-day-old strike, but he described the new offers as "a very important move."

Rain slowed the incoming traffic today and cars were bumper-to-bumper on many major arteries.

Job Essentiality Argument Rages

CHICAGO (AP)—A panel of two management men and a union leader say the removal of firemen from railroad freight and yard diesel locomotives has caused virtually no adverse effects.

The report was branded at once by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers as a "complete hoax."

The National Joint Board issued a report at a news conference which said: "The number of firemen in each 66,667 crew trips."

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 40th annual Los Angeles Open, with a purse of $70,000, was slated to get under way today and the more foolhardy were busy predicting the winner when the last putt drops in Sunday.

There are others to consider, of course, fellows such as Arnold Palmer, Tony Lema, Doug Sanders, Chi Chi Rodriguez, George Knudson, Al Geiberger, Dave Marr, Bruce Crampton, Art Wall, Jr.

Or it could be Paul Harney, the long-hitting club pro from Worcester, Mass., who has merely won the last two opens here.

Harney retired from the PGA tournament wars three years ago but still manages to keep a sharp game.

Two of the more consistent best bets in a golf match, Masters Champion Jack Nicklaus and U.S. Open king Gary Player, are not here. Player remains home in South Africa and Nicklaus won't join the touring pros until the Bing Crosby shindig later this month.

Play is at the 7,131-yard, par 36-35-71 Rancho golf course, a municipal layout which for 51 weeks of the year takes a beating from the usual hackers and often at L.A. Open time shows it.

Recent rains, however, have enriched the rough, so possibly the pros may find the place a little more interesting than in some years.

Observers well recall that Rancho held no terrors in 1962 for young Phil Rodgers, one of the many ex-winners in the present field of 144 players.

Rodgers' last round was a record 32-30—62 which included nine birdies and nine pars and a tournament record total of 268.

Palmer hopes to swing out of a long slump. He won this event in 1963 after several disappointing attempts and now has captured but one first place—at Las Vegas' Tournament of Champions last spring—in 18 months.

In pro-amateur competition Wednesday, Palmer's 4-under-par 67 was lowest individual score to bring him $500. He collected another $325 when he and his amateur partners had a best ball score of 58.

George Bayer and his partners won the pro-amateur with a 57. Bayer, who had an individual 73, won $400.

sterling, meet Sterling, Colo., in the first round of the Lawton tournament at 7:15 p.m. Friday.

If the Hawks win the meet opener, they play again at 9 p.m. Saturday. Should they lose to Sterling, they play for third place at 7:15 p.m. Saturday.

Sterling and HCJC met in the Garden City, Kansas, tournament back in November and HCJC managed to eke out a 69-65 victory.

Cameron is the host team in the tournament and is favored to cop the title.

The Chapparals will probably start a team consisting of Robert Evans, Jim Harp, Mervin Levels, Ernest Chessire and Gene Hight.

Evans is LCC's leading scorer with a 26-point average while Harp is coasting along with an 18.2 average. Levels and Chessire are each averaging ten or more points a game.

Chessire and Hight stand 6-4 and should give the Chapparals good rebounding strength.

The Jayhawks beat Clarendon easily Monday night for their first conference victory, after having lost earlier to NMML.

A special half-time show tonight will feature tracksters of the two schools. A special 60-yard dash and a mile relay will be held.

Jimmy Jasper, Roger Hill and Oliver Hunter of HCJC are

Dallas Adept At Blocking Enemy Kicks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"Block that kick!" is more than a corny yell to the Dallas Cowboys, who meet the Baltimore Colts here Sunday in the National Football League's Playoff Bowl.

It's an exhortation that the Cowboys take seriously. As a result, they are the kick-blockers in professional football.

"It's not the result of any special preparation or plan," says Tom Landry, the Dallas coach. "We just had some success early in the year and it became a game—a sort of challenge—to the boys."

"They like to see how many they can block."

They have blocked nine. That's almost a third of the total blocked by all the teams of the NFL—29—and three times as many as any other team.

Blocked field goals set up Dallas scores in four games and resulted directly in victory in three—the 39-31 win over San Francisco at Dallas, the 21-19 victory over the Eagles at Philadelphia and the 38-20 final game decision over the New York Giants that sent the Cowboys into the Playoff Bowl.

Key men in these defensive maneuvers have been Overt Logan, a 180-pound defensive back from Trinity, Tex.; Mike Gaechter, a 190-pounder from Oregon; defensive end Jethroe Pugh, 250-pound end and tackle, and Cornell Green, 215-pound defensive back from Utah State.

They are the Big Four. Logan and Gaechter each blocked two field goals during the recent campaign, Green and Pugh one each.

The group also figured in the blocking of five extra-point attempts and one punt, making 15 blocked kicks in all.

The Dallas coach said he expected an open offensive battle with Baltimore.

"The Colts are an offensive-minded team," he said. "Unfortunately, they lost Johnny Unitas, but Tom Matte is now making them go again and we expect to see a lot of passes to Raymond Berry and Jimmy Orr."

The Colts, beaten out in overtime in a playoff with Green Bay for the Western Conference title, are slight favorites over a Dallas team that won its first two games, lost five in a row and then rallied to win five of its last seven.

But a Newark station has reversed the trend and made its main studio into a once-a-week amateur fight arena that is receiving interest in the sport.

"It's proved something I've always suspected—boxing is not dead," says Fred Sayles, program director of WJTV-TV, an ultrahigh-frequency outlet which reaches the entire New York metropolitan area.

"Professional boxing got itself into such a bind that nobody fought any more. We see more action in one good six-minute three-rounder than the last four heavyweight championship bouts combined. There's just no talent around any more."

"Our telecasts have changed the whole tenor and tone of amateur boxing. Neighborhoods are developing local heroes with local followings."

WNJU-TV airs a 1½-hour card every Tuesday night with a minimum of seven three-round bouts. The series is sanctioned by the State AAU and the State Athletic Commission and has been on for almost two months.

"I think it's safe to say we reach more than 100,000 homes every week," Sayles says. "And the number is growing rapidly. We know that from the way the ticket requests have increased. If I could accommodate all the people who write and phone I'd have to mail out more than 1,000 tickets."

"Our problem is keeping them out. Many people show up without tickets. We hate to turn them away but we simply don't have room for all of them."

At the free throw line Fred Steele of Stephen F. Austin is the leader, missing only three of 28 attempts. Teammate David Nutt is second, connecting on 48 of 54 tries.

Sam Houston will carry the best non-conference won-lost record into this weekend's first league games, being 7-4. But it does not lead in any of the individual departments.

Howard Payne, which meets Sam Houston at Huntsville Saturday night, leads in team field goal and free throw shooting. Payne, with a 6-5 non-conference mark, shot from the field at a 56 per cent pace and from the free throw line at 75 per cent.

Sam Houston is last in field goal shooting with 40 per cent and fifth in free throw shooting with 67 per cent.

In 12 non-conference games Sul Ross produced the best team offense and worst defense. It has averaged 87 points per game on offense and gave up 91 points a contest. East Texas, on the bottom in offense, leads in defense, yielding 65 points a game.

Other conference games Saturday include Sul Ross at Stephen F. Austin, Southwest Texas at McMurry and East Texas at Texas A&I. joined the list Wednesday night. The 19-year-old 6-foot-3 Owl scored only eight points, but he calmly sank two free throws in the last 21 seconds for a 57-56 victory over Villanova.

Just six seconds before Joe Crews had put the Wildcats ahead 56-55 with two free throws in the battle of the Philadelphia city rivals at the Palestra. Unfortunately Crews fouled Brookins and the Temple soph won the game.

It was Temple's 11th victory in 12 games after the Owls' 10-game winning streak had been shattered by St. Joseph's Hawks in the final of the Quaker City Holiday Classic.

All of the Top Ten teams in The Associated Press poll had an open date on a slim national program that saw many close finishes similar to the Temple-Villanova cliff-hanger.

South Carolina, the only team to defeat top-ranked Duke this season, lost the ball on an out-of-bounds play with 17 seconds left at Columbia, S.C., then lost the game to North Carolina State 55-54 on Tommy Matlocks' jump shot from close in with eight seconds on the clock.

Connecticut also was beaten on its home court when Keith Hochstein's free throw with four seconds on the clock gave Holy Cross a 73-72 victory. Virginia overcame Maryland's home court advantage at College Park, Md., edging the Terps 65-62. Jerry Sanders' layup with one minute to go gave the Cavaliers a four-point lead and sewed up the triumph.

The Chicago Loyola Ramblers also paid no attention to the generally recognized home court advantage. They rolled over Marquette 87-65 at Milwaukee for their 11th victory in 12 starts. Billy Smith and Corky Bell combined for 39 points and 25 rebounds to lead the Ramblers.

Creighton also fell on its home court at Omaha, absorbing an 81-78 defeat from Bellarmine on seven free throws by Jim Schurz and Bill Popp in the last minute. North Carolina also won on the road, 99-83, over Wake Forest.

Skirts Shorter, Shifts Shiftier In Audacious Spring Styles

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
NEW YORK (AP) — The new spring styles are like teenagers — stubborn, audacious, restless, romantic, colorful, expensive, and still very young.

More than 200 fashion reporters will judge this for themselves at a 10-day preview of new designs beginning Wednesday, Jan. 5. The American Designer Series, arranged by Eleanor Lambert, starts off the showings followed on Sunday, Jan. 9, by the New York Couture Group's semiannual press week.

Consider how stubborn the styles are. Didn't the experts predict — even plead for — a hasty death for short skirts, shapeless shifts, bared bosoms, plastered-on pants, boots, bonnets, and party pajamas?

Yet defiantly, perversely, this spring skirts will be even shorter, shifts shiftier, boots kickier, bonnets more babyish, pants tighter, and party pajamas funnier than they ever were.

Audacious is the word for those short, jagged, and severely straight-haired cuts imported from England via Vidal Sassoon. The word also applies to designer Jacques Tiffau's skintight manikins in paneled spectacles and suits with thigh-high hemlines, or in hip-slung bikini evening gowns with barely there bodices. It goes, too, for Rudi Gernreich's chiffon see-through T-shirts and Bill Blass' nude-hued petticoats under black lace dresses, and Anne Klein's slithery leather bell bottom pants, and Anne Fogarty's wide-legged gingham party pants.

Like the younger generation, spring fashions prefer to explore tomorrow or yesterday rather than be content with the present. Following the forward thinking of Frenchman Andre Courreges, American ready-to-wear designers are creating architecturally constructed daytime clothes, giving more thought to the purity of line of the dress coat or jump suit than the line of the women under there.

Date time and evening clothes are the restless ones. Designer John Moore looked back to the '30s for inspiration for his costumes which are spirals of ruffles or swirls of flounces. Almost every designer has borrowed from the flapper '20s,

It's A Fashionable Town

The model at left displays the side buttons of a nut green alpaca dress worn under a mauve green reversible wool coat designed by Oscar La Renta for Jane Derby. At right, John Moore, who designed Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's inaugural gown, has added this flippant black dinner gown with a flounce hem rising above the knee in front. Fashion writers saw the creations at the American Designer preview program arranged by Eleanor Lambert in New York Wednesday. (AP WIREPHOTO) creating long-waisted, short evening dresses with flirty skirts. Any kind of party clothes this spring simply has to swish, bounce, float, flit, jiggle or move in some noticeable way in order to be really in.

Anthony Blotta's swish chiffons are in shades of a more distant past in the long-skirted, granny dress. Gathered at the midriff, ruffles at the sleeve and possibly the hem it is as romantic as a Louisa May Alcott. Also in the romantic mood are Ceil Chapman's draped crepes, George Stavropoulos' floppy chiffons, and Count Sarm's flutters, bridled floral pastels.

Sweet as 16 are those little navy dresses with meringue white collars and cuffs; Samuel Winston dresses with rock candy-like twinkling bodices; and nearly everybody's bon-bon coats and dresses all wrapped up in satin ribbons and bows.

Hannah Troy is clever with the demure little girl dress. Spring clothes are colorful in a variety of ways. Adele Simpson's collection is in vivid red and greens art nouveau, Op and Abstract art are the fabric of designer Geoffrey Beene's collection.

Numerous other designers influenced by English mod madness have stitched together pairs leys, plaids, polka dots, broad stripes — anything bold and brash.

Most of the styles to be previewed soon are expensive.

Some costumes cost the price of a luxury automobile. But then these are by the trend-setters. The designers will be copied later on at cheaper prices.

The trend they are setting for spring is to dress like your grandmother did once, or as babies do now, rather than for this age, or your own age.

Carelessness Can Harm The Eyes

Air pollution plays havoc with eyes. If you get something in your eye, do not rub it. This could scratch the cornea and do permanent damage.

Try to remove the object by lifting the upper lid over the lower lid. Let tears wash your eyes clean. Then apply a soothing eye lotion to further bathe the eye clean.

Following Mrs. Rogers' farewell address, in which she expressed appreciation to the members, Mrs. Luther Bonner and Mrs. H. F. Jarrett presented the retiring officers to Mrs. Rogers. They passed through an archway of crossed swords held by Miss Ruby Molpus and Miss Louise Butler. Robbi Rogers, the lodge mascot, gave the officers a red rose, and Mrs. Rogers presented a gift to each one.

Also, she presented gifts of appreciation to Mrs. Jones Lamar, the lodge mother; Morgan Martin, the lodge sweetheart; Mrs. Ted Brown, Mrs. Zula Reeves and Jones Lamar.

Bank Deposits Set New Highs

By The Associated Press

Banks all across Texas closed out 1965 with record deposits. Banking officials attributed the gains to a general rise in the state's economy and to normal year-end increases.

The call to federal and state banks was issued Wednesday for conditions as of Dec. 31, 1965.

Deposits, considered a mirror of the economy in general, went over $4 billion in Dallas County banks for the first time. Dallas County led the state in deposits with $4,121,923,953.92.

Harris County was second with $3,710,709,586.40. The county's 85 state and national banks showed an increase of more than $210 million over the previous high at the end of 1964.

RICE HARVEST

In Southeast Texas, where seven Beaumont banks showed record deposits, John Gray, president of First Security National Bank, attributed the gains in large part to a record rice harvest and to capital outlays for industrial expansion.

Elsewhere in East Texas, B. F. Barnett credited a good business year for the Tyler record. "Our local labor force is fully employed and manufacturing plans would increase their employment substantially if qualified people were available," said Barnett, president of the Citizens First National Bank

The bidding:

Opening lead: Five of ♣

A soundly conceived and well executed campaign went for naught when South, the declarer at six no trump, suddenly stumbled while on the very threshold of success.

West opened the five of hearts and South won the first trick in his hand with the queen. Declarer could count 11 winners off the top—two spades, three hearts, three diamonds, and three clubs. A 12th trick would develop automatically if either diamonds or clubs divided three-three. Failing this, South could fall back on a finesse in spades.

Declarer tested the clubs first, cashing the top three honors. On the third round, East showed out, discarding a spade. The diamonds came next; however, it was West's turn to fail, and on the queen of diamonds he shed a heart.

In order to obtain a better count on the hand, declarer played the king and queen of hearts, on which East discarded another spade. At this point South could place West originally with five hearts, two diamonds, and four clubs, which meant that he had only two spades and that East had started with five of that suit.

By rough calculation, declarer figured that the odds were five to two that East had the queen of spades. He accordingly led over to the ace of spades and returned the ten. The jack was played from the closed hand—however, West turned up with the queen and he proceeded to cash the ten of clubs to register a two trick set.

South had reasoned well, up to a point, for, while the odds unquestionably favored the location of the queen of spades in the East hand, declarer did not have to rely on probabilities at all. As soon as East showed out on the third round of hearts, declarer was in position to assure his contract beyond all doubt. He has only to lead a fourth round of diamonds—the suit East is known to be protecting—and now East must play a spade himself.

In other words, East's last four cards are clearly identified as the jack of diamonds and three spades. If he is thrown in with a diamond, the forced spade return will locate the queen for the declarer no matter which defender actually holds that card.

and the Tyler Clearing House Association.

OIL COMPROMISE

Across the state at Midland, the city's four banks showed a record which bankers attributed to increased oil company activity in the Permian Basin area.

Banks at Austin also tabulated a record, breaking the previous high set in the second quarter of 1965.

This is unusual because bank records are usually set at the end of a year. Records at most points were compared to previous highs in December 1964.

San Antonio, with deposits over a billion dollars for the second time in a row, broke its previous high set in the third quarter of 1965.

Here are some deposit totals with the 1965 year-end figure followed by the figure for the same period in 1964:

Dallas County $4,121,923,953.92 and $3,895,674,671

Harris County $3,710,709,586.40 and $3,500,641,626

Tarrant County $1,164,823,982 and $1,063,278,387

San Antonio $1,030,490,539 and $972,524,107

Houston $45,151,007 and $40,697,738

Skies Clear Across State

By The Associated Press

Skies cleared nearly everywhere in Texas today after three days of scattered showers or drizzle.

The only exception was in the extreme south near the Rio Grande Valley, where a few high clouds lingered.

Early morning ground fog cloaked areas around Austin, Houston, Corpus Christi and Cotulla.

Temperatures slipped below freezing before daylight in the Panhandle-Plains and most other sections of West Texas. Readings at other points were in the 30s and 40s.

Forecasts called for fair weather through Friday with a renewed cooling trend in northern portions of the state starting tonight.

Train, Pickup Truck Crash Kills Texan

LILLIAN, Tex. (AP) — Ray Toomer, 63, of Lillian was killed Wednesday when a Missouri Pacific freight train and his pickup truck collided at a crossing in this Johnson County town.

Former Texas Lawyer Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—James P. Donovan, 56, a former Dallas lawyer who recently moved to Canandaigua, N.Y., was found dead of natural causes in a hotel here Tuesday.

Donovan represented homeowners who lived near Love Field in their fight against expansion of the Dallas airport.

In May of 1963 he was sentenced to 20 days in jail and $6 of his clients drew $200 fines for contempt of court.

The City of Dallas obtained the contempt citation, alleging homeowners pursued litigation in federal courts in defiance of a state appellate court's writ of prohibition.

The new runways his clients protested are now in operation.

Donovan, a New York state native and Cornell graduate, leaves his widow; a daughter, Patricia, a student at the University of New Mexico, and a son, Lt. A. P. Donovan, at Minot Air Force Base, N.D.

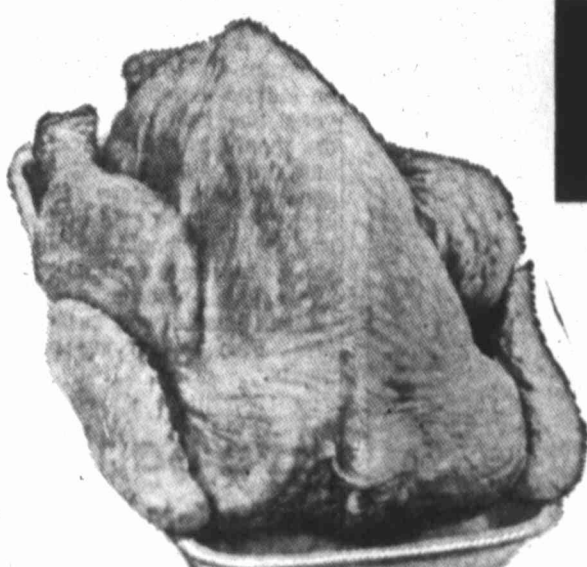

Refugee Airlift Plan May Widen

WASHINGTON (AP)—American officials have begun indirect discussions with Cuba aimed at reuniting Cuban refugees with relatives in other Western Hemisphere countries besides the United States.

Several Cuban families in Latin-American countries have asked U.S. embassies about the possibility of the refugee airlift, officials said.

MRS. CALVIN DANIELS AND DAUGHTER, ROBIN

Trial, Error Cooking Leads To Experience

By JO ANN PHINIZY

Mrs. Calvin Daniels doesn't consider herself a virtuoso of the cooking world.

Good cooks, she maintains, are those who plan their menus in great detail and follow prize recipes, ingredient by ingredient.

"I'll never be in their bracket," she said. "I am a trial and error cook; and, even then, it's all strictly by mood."

Mrs. Daniels described her cooking habits as something like an earthquake chart—some days she is too busy in the kitchen for words; other days, she is lost in her hobby as an amateur portrait painter.

It is during these latter instances that she gets into a meal-time rush. The sessions usually turn into a can-opener spree and a pepper and garlic salt epic.

"Somehow, the meals seem to work themselves out, and no one seems to mind."

Mrs. Daniels first met the problems of cooking when she and her husband (he is a chemist at Corden Oil and Chemical Company) were students at the University of Texas.

FOOD CAMPAIGN

"We decided that beyond meat and potatoes, there really must be something else," she said. "We went on a different food campaign and discovered such things as squash, asparagus and liver."

"I had to learn to eat liver one bite at a time. Now, I've gotten to where, when it's fried with onion rings, it is one of my favorite meals."

Mrs. Daniels recalls that it was during their university days that she and her husband became acquainted with the exotics of Lebanese cooking.

Their landlady was of that nationality. She introduced them to such things as grape leaves stuffed with meat, and gossamer-thin pastries.

Although, Mrs. Daniels explained, her husband is the only holdover in the unusual cooking department.

SPICE TEA

"He is a weekend cook and often makes a batch of herb bread or some spice tea. Right now, his spice tea is brewed with cardamom as a substitute for nutmeg or cinnamon."

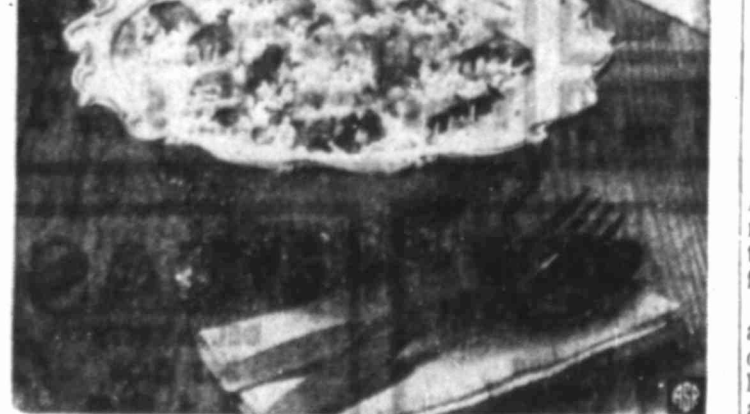

The Daniels are natives of Big Spring. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Gardner, 1600 Owens, and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Daniels, Gail Route.

Their home at 421 Edwards is dominated by a vivacious three-year-old blonde known as Robin; and her close friend, a toy terrier named Corky.

Mrs. Daniels said that roast is their "most often" family meal.

Besides having the merit of putting in the oven and waiting, roast offers endless "afterwards" possibilities.

"There's all sorts of casseroles; hash, with or without vegetables; or you can chop it up, heat it with a barbecue sauce, and serve on hamburger buns," she said.

LIME FLAVOR Means real twang in taste

Lobster, Rice Pleases Guests

Tangy Lobster - Lime Rice, looks right at home on a party buffet or luncheon table, yet can be prepared in just about the time it takes to put out the linen and silverware and arrange the centerpiece. Lobster gives distinction to the dish; lime adds the delicate flavor accent. Packaged pre-cooked rice is used, so the recipe can be prepared in a single utensil.

TANGY LOBSTER-LIME RICE

1/2 clove garlic, minced (optional)
1/4 cup butter
1 can (5 ozs.) lobster, drained

and cut in bite-size pieces
1 1/3 cups water
2 tbsps. chopped parsley
2 tbsps. lime juice
1 tsp. grated lime rind
1 tsp. salt
1 1/3 cups packaged pre-cooked rice
Sauté garlic in butter until light brown. Add lobster and sauté lightly. Add water, parsley, lime juice and rind, and salt. Bring to a boil. Stir in rice. Then cover and simmer 5 minutes, or until rice is tender. Makes 3 1/3 cups or 3 or 4 servings.

Post-Holiday Snacks Advised For Dieters

As an aftermath to the holidays, many people will begin to look with surprise at the figures they see on their bathroom scales. Family Circle Magazine contains this encouragement for dieters:

FRESH VEGETABLE NIBBLES: Keep raw cauliflowerets, celery, cucumber, carrot, green pepper, radishes, or lettuce fixed and handy in your refrigerator. All you want at one time won't add up to more than 25 calories.

MUSHROOMS: Slice unpeeled fresh ones, or open a can of mushroom caps and drain, then dip into seasoned salt, lightly salted lemon juice, or chopped parsley or water cress. The calorie count — about 14 for six fresh ones and 20 in a small can — is a weight-watcher's true friend.

SKIM MILK OR BUTTER-MILK: Perfect for an afternoon or before-bedtime pickup — and so good for you, too. Count 90 calories for a cupful. Munch on five thin pretzel sticks as a go-with for only 20 calories.

FRESH FRUITS: Want to splurge just a bit? Treat yourself to 1/2 cup strawberries to eat plain for 28 calories, or dip into 1/4 cup creamy yogurt for just 35 more. Grapes taste equally satisfying served this way and 1/2 cupful equals 48 calories. Remember that half a medium-size apple can be yours for just 35 calories. Or slice it and spread with 2 tablespoons cottage cheese (the dry kind) and figure 25 more. And either a small grapefruit half or large orange saved from breakfast to enjoy at midmorning counts just 65 calories.

TOMATO JUICE, BEEF BROTH: Enjoy a cupful of tomato juice for 45 calories or stir in one envelope unflavored gelatin for extra protein and a plus of 25 calories. (To fix, sprinkle gelatin into juice to soften, then stir in and sip cold.

Or heat just until the gelatin dissolves.) Condensed beef broth poured right from the can over ice, or diluted with an equal amount of water, counts a low 17 calories for 2-3 cup. Two sultimes to eat with it add 35 calories.

TEA AND COFFEE: Serve either hot or iced—but no sugar, milk, or cream, please! To tea add fresh lemon for a flavor spark but no calories.

Company Brunch For Houseguests To Remember

A tangy fruit cup to stir appetites!

CITRUS GINGER CUP
1 large grapefruit
3 medium or large oranges
2 tbsps. clover honey
1 to 2 tbsps. finely diced candied ginger (soften in hot water before cutting)

Using a sharp knife on the fruit, cut away the rind in strips from top to bottom so no white membrane remains. Cut sections away from dividing membrane. Do all this over a bowl and save all juice.

Arrange sections in 4 sherbet glasses. Strain juice and mix with honey and ginger; pour over sections. Chill until serving time. Makes 4 servings.

Made Best For Slumber Parties

Your youngster can make these simple drop cookies herself.

SPICE COOKIES
3/4 cup sifted flour
1/4 tsp. baking soda
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. cloves
1/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
2 tbsps. hot water
1/2 cup each chopped pitted dates and walnuts

Sift together the flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and cloves. Cream shortening and sugar; beat in egg, then water. Add sifted dry ingredients; stir until smooth.

Drop rounded teaspoonfuls of the dough, a few inches apart, onto greased cookie sheets. (Don't make cookies very large because they spread.)

Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven until browned, about 10 minutes. Remove to wire rack to cool. Store in tightly covered container. Makes 3 to 4 dozen.

Green Peas Add Spice To Lamb

Green peas served with lamb may be old hat, but they taste good. They're different, too, if you use this simple way to vary them.

SAVORY GREEN PEAS
2 cans (each 1 lb. and 1 oz.) green peas with onions
1 cup thin celery crescents
1 or 2 tbsps. butter if desired

Turn peas and onions plus the liquid from just one can into a medium saucepan; add celery. Heat, drain; stir in butter, if used. Makes 10 to 12 servings. (Reserve all liquid from peas and onions for another use.)

Early Bird Cookies Lessen Party Rush

Beat the party rush! Bake your festive party cookies early, store them in the freezer and decorate them shortly before you need them.

With the baking accomplished, the cookies will be easy to decorate. To add the topping, brush the cookies with corn syrup and sprinkle with or dip in colored sugar. A youngster in the family will undoubtedly enjoy adding this festive touch. With the light corn syrup turned into a custard cup and a clean paint brush on hand, a small boy or girl can go to work. When it comes to adding the colored sugar, it might be best for small fry to sprinkle rather than to dip!

PARTY COOKIES
2 1/3 cups sifted flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup butter or margarine
2-3 cup sugar
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla
Sift together the flour and salt.

PANTRY PICK-UPS

You can make a quick and delicious spread for crackers by mashing canned shrimp with butter and seasoning with lemon juice and freshly ground pepper. Add lots of the pepper!

Next time you need fresh lemon juice for a recipe, squeeze some extra juice and store it (in a very small container) in the freezer. Convenient to have on hand — and when you use it, there will be no squeezer to wash, dry and put away!

Going on a picnic? Put some cupcakes in the freezer and take them along in their frozen state. They will be thawed by the time you are ready to enjoy them for that picnic meal.

A fish pie makes a good main course for Sunday night supper.

Prepare a pie from a package of chocolate pudding mix. Over-cooking scrambled eggs usually makes them dry and rubbery, so modern recipes recommend low heat. If higher heat is used, watch your timing; if you remove them from the range the split second they are coagulated, the result will be worthwhile.

For Menu Change Use Potatoes

Cool winter evenings call for something extra — special from the kitchen.

So it's the perfect time to treat the family to piping-hot sweet potatoes.

Their bright color and delicious flavor can make the whole meal a festive affair — and a nutritious one, too. For sweet potatoes are a prize food package brimming with vitamins A and C, and loaded with food energy, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The most popular methods of preparing sweets are boiling for mashing, or baking for serving "as is," with plenty of butter.

Now, while market news offices of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service are reporting an abundance of sweet potatoes at most markets — and when winter weather calls for a delicious hot meal — serve Baked Sweet Potatoes.

To bake them, select potatoes of uniform size, wash and dry. Place on baking sheet and bake until tender in a 450 degree oven. Cut large potatoes in half crosswise before baking, to shorten cooking time.

Depending on the size of the potatoes, the baking time required will vary from 30 minutes to an hour. For soft skinned potatoes, rub with vegetable oil or bacon drippings before baking. To serve, cut crosswise gashes in the skin. Then, using hot pads, press side to side until the "inside" pops up.

Add a generous pat of butter or margarine and serve immediately. In some areas of the country, meat drippings, bits of crisped salt pork or bacon are used to garnish the sweet potatoes in accordance with regional taste habits.

Can Opener Needs Care

Most of us take a can opener for granted, but once you find a type that works best for you — electric, wall-type, or hand model, one that cuts a neat trim edge, give it the best of care.

Wipe off the wheels and blades after each use so splashed food will not dry on the gears, causing them to clog.

Clogged gears affect the working efficiency of any type can-opener. Before oiling, check the manufacturer's directions for doing so, for he knows the best way to keep this important kitchen tool in good operating order.

BUFFET SURPRISE Holly sprig adds seasonal tune

Gala Party Improves With Tempting Dish

Individual crab pies, decorated with a sprig of greenery, are a delightful, easy-to-make addition to your party buffet. Prepare them ahead, if you like, and freeze unbaked until ready to use. (Make extras as a freezer-gift for the folks next door.)

INDIVIDUAL KING CRAB PIES

2 pkgs. pie crust mix
2 pkgs. (6 oz.) frozen crab meat
1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen mixed vegetables, cooked and drained
1 can (10 oz.) condensed cream of chicken soup

Defrost crab meat and drain thoroughly. Prepare pie crust according to package directions. Roll out half the crust and cut into circles large enough to line tart pans. Combine crab meat with mushrooms, mixed vegetables and cream of chicken soup. Spoon 1/2 cup of this mixture into each pan.

Roll out remaining pie crust and cut circles to cover tops of pies. Press edges of each pie together with a fork. Prick tops with fork. Bake at 400 degrees F. 15-20 minutes, or until golden brown. (If frozen unbaked, lengthen baking time 5 or 10 minutes. Baked pies can be reheated 5-10 minutes at 400 degrees F.) Serve in tart pans with tossed green salad and lemon sherbet. (Makes eight 4 1/2 inch pies.)

For gala CRAB LEGS SALAD PLATTER, combine 1/2 cup of your favorite Italian dressing with 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard or 1/4 tsp. curry powder. Makes enough sauce for one 12-ounce package crab legs. Serve sauce hot or cold.

Use Shrimp For Company Snacks

Small shrimp can be cooked in their shells in olive oil, served heavily salted as an hors d'oeuvre or a first course, the shells to be removed for eating. Use a generous amount of Spanish olive oil for cooking shrimp this way, put a large bowl in the center of the table to hold the discarded shells. A simple sauce of olive oil, vinegar, salt and minced parsley may be passed for those who wish to dribble a little sauce over the shelled shrimp.

Actor Conducts College Seminars

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Karl Malden was explaining why he goes to universities around the country to conduct drama seminars without pay:

"My father used to ask me, 'What did you do today?' If I said 'Nothing,' he'd always tell me, 'That day will never come back; you've wasted it.'"

His father's words returned to Malden during the inevitable lapses between movies. The Oscar winner ("A Streetcar Named Desire," 1951) is one of Hollywood's busiest actors; this year he performed in three important films, "The Cincinnati Kid," "Bullwhip Griffin," "Nevada Smith."

IDLE PERIODS
But every film actor experiences idle periods between pictures. At such times, Malden admitted, "I'm bored stiff."

He is a graduate of the Actor's Studio and hence believes in continuous study of his craft. But such is not possible in Hollywood, he declared, even though acting workshops have been attempted from time to time.

Firms Mull Price Control Possibilities

NEW YORK (AP) — Are price controls just a fanciful bogeyman dreamed up by nervous business leaders or are they a possibility? And what different kinds of controls could the government turn to in its fight to ward off a feared inflation?

Businessmen are more and more mulling over these questions as the aftermath of the administration's drive to force some steel companies to rescind a price boost on structural steel — or as an alternative, to adopt a smaller one more acceptable to the White House.

Industry dislikes price controls as much as union labor detest wage controls. Both management and labor tend to think the fields of prices and wages should be theirs and not the government's.

TALKING POINT
But the administration has the Viet Nam War as a talking point in its drive to hold down prices — first against aluminum, then copper and in recent days steel. The war's cost is mounting fast, and higher metal prices would be an unwelcome guest at any gathering of officials drawing up the new federal budget.

The administration also apparently worries about the chance of the economy overheating next year. This could set off a price-wage spiral again like that of 10 years ago which cut the purchasing power of the dollar sharply. And metal prices are considered basic in today's highly industrialized economy.

For three years the government has been relying on voluntary guidelines for management and labor. These held that wages shouldn't go up more than productivity — and thus reflect only the greater unit output of goods in terms of man hours of labor. If wages didn't go up more than that, the guidelines held that business shouldn't raise prices, even if now and then profit margins were pinched.

TOUGHER GOING
Guidelines have had tougher going of late. They worked better when there was a large pool of unemployed labor to tap, and when industry had a lot of idle capacity to keep a competitive clamp on price hikes. Now there are some labor shortages in skilled jobs, and surplus production facilities are disappearing fast.

The government has several kinds of controls, direct or indirect, it can turn to. At one extreme is congressional clamping of direct controls on prices and wages, such as were used in the past. Most business leaders believe, or at least hope, that Congress isn't in a mood to do that now.

An indirect form of control would be to reimpose an excess profits tax as previously used in war time to drain off any rise in profits resulting from price increases.

The administration also has weapons of indirect control it can use to get much the same results as direct ones would. In the case of structural steel it already has moved to halt government purchases from firms raising prices. The government buys about one-fourth of such steel produced here — for such things as highways and military installations. The administration also could seek to encourage larger imports of steel to try to force prices down through competition.

some scenes with Malden, he will recommend me for his next picture."

SEEK LEARNING
"In college communities it's different. Students are in classes for what they can learn."

So he went back to college. As Malden Sekulovich, of Gary, Ind., he didn't get very far at Arkansas State Teachers College. He chucked an athletic scholarship for a career in the theater. His return to the campus life was occasioned by an invitation from an old friend who teaches dramatics at Eastern New Mexico University.

Word got around the academic community that Malden was available. He also accepted invitations from Kansas State Teachers and Indiana University. Now he has eight future dates, including Denver, San Jose State, Northwestern and Midland, Neb.

"I accept the dates with the proviso that I can leave if a movie job should come up," the actor explained. "For that reason I don't want to be paid."

"After I was at Kansas, the university sent me a check for a thousand dollars. I sent it back with the suggestion that they might convert it into a Karl Malden scholarship fund, if they wanted to. That was done, and now worthy dramatic students are given a hundred dollars a semester."

Malden's plan is to visit each campus for a three-week period. He lives and eats among the students and reports that after the first few days he is accepted as part of the local scene.

DO SCENES
"I specify that I want to work with advanced acting classes, no more than 20 to 25 in each session," he said. "Most of the time we do scenes and improvise. The instructor can remain in the class if he wants. But he has to get up and make a fool of himself, just as we do."

Malden, who has a daughter at the University of Oregon, said his collegiate experiences send him back to Hollywood refreshed. How does his wife feel about these absences?

"She approves," he grinned. "She knows what a miserable person I can be when I'm not working."

Gem Thefts Investigated

DALLAS (AP) — Reports that Brazilian officials are investigating a gem smuggling ring sent Dallas officers into action today in a renewed search for the so-called King of Diamonds.

The thug is blamed for jewelry thefts amounting to well over a million dollars, largely in the silk stocking areas of North Dallas.

SENDING DRAWINGS
Detective Capt. Walter Fannin said he is sending a letter and drawings of gems stolen in Dallas to Brazilian authorities in hopes that country has been the destination of the jewelry stolen here.

None of the valuables taken in Dallas over the last several years has been found, although police distributed descriptions widely.

ONE MAN
Authorities work on the theory that one man committed the many thefts. This is based on the similarity

Traffic Safety Bill Proposed

DECATUR, Ga. (AP) — Rep. James A. MacKay, D-Ga., says he plans to introduce a bill in Congress by Feb. 1 seeking creation of a national traffic safety administration.

He said Wednesday it is time to halt the "indiscriminate killing on the nation's highways."

"There were twice as many people killed in automobile accidents in December than there were killed in Viet Nam since 1961," he said.

Hotel Blaze In St. Paul Fatal To 7

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Fire swept a downtown St. Paul hotel-apartment house early today leaving at least seven dead and 16 injured and taken to hospitals. Four were in critical condition.

Firemen searched ruins of the four-story Carleton Hotel and apartments for more bodies.

Survivors fled into five above zero weather.

Hotel officials estimated that about 50 of 54 persons registered were in the old brick building when the fire broke out about 4:30 a.m.

A number of persons were led to safety down fire escapes and through smoke-filled hallways by building employees. One employee said the blaze started in a first-floor lavatory and swept upward.

Children Today Are Stock Buyers

NEW YORK (AP) — Some youngsters have other visions in their heads today than sugarplums and toy jetfighters or space capsules. They want stocks — and the lowdown on how to make money from them.

About 8,000 letters from around the country seeking information tailored to young minds attest to the trend.

WANTS STOCKS
"I want to make money, but everybody says I have to learn more first," writes a Philadelphia schoolboy.

"I have saved $18 from my allowance, but when I asked my father if I could buy stocks he told me I had plenty of time for that," complains a youngster in Vienna, Ohio, seeking information on his own.

"I would like very much to have your report so as to learn about stock market terms," a Tacoma, Wash., youth writes. "I will go into business when I grow up."

The report that he and the others are seeking is "A Little Dictionary of Business Terms" included in "a message to children of shareholders" which accompanied the third quarter report of Avnet, Inc. of New York. Children took it to school and mention of it also found its way into newspapers around the country.

REQUEST COPIES
Then the avalanche of requests for copies poured in.

Not all the letters are from kids. Others come from the dean of a university school of business administration wanting copies for his faculty, from an Ohio high schoolteacher, from an accounting student in Springfield, Mass., from a student in a San Diego civics class, from a Long Island schoolteacher whose 30 pupils bought two shares of stock on the strength of the report.

The definitions are basic and aimed at the school child's level. Examples:

Young Chaplin Forsakes Beatnik Life

Michael Chaplin, 19, son of Charlie Chaplin, is shown in recent portrait at left after having forsaken his beatnik life and his beard, right, for a job with his father's new movie project. He has been working under an alias with the production unit of the movie, tentatively called "A Countess from Hong Kong." He is using the name Michael James. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Elder Kennedy Suffers Lapse

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy's heart stopped beating for a second or two Wednesday, but his doctor says there is nothing serious about it.

"There was a brief loss of consciousness, but there are no after effects," said Dr. Saul Rotter. "He'll resume his normal activities."

The 77-year-old father of the late President John F. Kennedy collapsed in a chair just before noon after stepping out of the pool at his oceanfront winter home.

FINAL RITES

A male nurse carried him inside. Ann Gargan, longtime Kennedy companion, called the doctor and a priest.

Mgr. Jeremiah P. O'Mahoney administered final rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Kennedy recovered from the heart block under oxygen and the doctor decided there was no need to hospitalize him.

Members of the family telephoned from around the country. His wife, Rose, said it was not serious enough for them to gather at Palm Beach.

"Heart blocks are not uncommon among older people with a history of heart trouble," said Dr. Rotter. They are only dangerous if prolonged, he said.

Kennedy watched television, ate a normal supper and went to bed at 8 p.m.

RECOVERING SLOWLY

He has been recovering slowly but surely from the stroke here Dec. 19, 1961, that left his speech and mobility impaired.

He is able to carry on a limited conversation but he is unable to move without help. He told some of the few old friends who visit him at his summer home in Hyannis Port, Mass., that he wished the recovery were more rapid.

Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain from January 1937 to late in 1940, came here several weeks ago for the winter. He swims regularly as part of a rehabilitative program.

KKK Threats

Ralph Blumberg, owner of a Bogalusa, La., radio station, testified before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Blumberg said he was threatened with violence and death by the Ku Klux Klan after former Rep. Brooks Hays of Arkansas was invited to speak on community relations. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Klan Control Laws Advised By Rep. Willis

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time, Rep. Edwin F. Willis, D-La., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has suggested possible new laws to curb the power of the Ku Klux Klan.

Willis said at Wednesday's Klan inquiry that possible approaches include a requirement that Klansmen register with the government as Communists are supposed to do; a federal law forbidding masked gatherings; or a federal law against organized acts or threats of violence.

NO SUGGESTIONS

Willis invited Ralph Blumberg, a former radio station owner in Bogalusa, La., to suggest possible legislation. Blumberg said he had no suggestions, however.

The witness told of being hounded and boycotted by the Bogalusa Klan, his and his family's lives threatened, car windows smashed and the radio station fired at by high-powered rifles.

His crime in the Klan's eyes, Blumberg said, was being on a local community relations committee which invited a former congressman and Baptist lay leader, Brooks Hays of Arkansas, to speak in Bogalusa on "better community relations."

KLAN PRESSURE

Because of Klan pressure, Blumberg said, the meeting had to be canceled. He lost all but one of his sponsors, and eventually had to sell the station and move away.

"Unfortunately the Klan has won its battle in Bogalusa," Blumberg said. "They control, or influence deeply, all the communications media. There is no freedom of speech or freedom of assembly in Bogalusa today."

Directors To Fix Rates

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will meet in Big Spring Tuesday to fix rates for the year and to review progress on the new lake project near Robert Lee.

The water rate committee of J. L. Rhoades, Odessa, chairman, R. D. Fields, Snyder, and John L. Taylor, Big Spring, will meet at 9 a.m. in the district headquarters at 1318 E. 4th.

After the meeting, the board plans to go to Robert Lee and make an on-site inspection of the project area in order to be familiar with construction and other matters which may arise.

Charles Perry, Odessa, president, will head the group. At the board meeting, O. H. Ivie, Big Spring, will review progress to date in surveys, and appraisals, purchase agreements, studies on the district's model dam at Colorado State University, and on the possibility of setting up some sort of time table for preparing a bond prospectus in order to advertise for sale of revenue bonds.

A Devotional For The Day

Teach me thy way, O Lord, and lead me in a plain path.
(Psalm 27:11)
PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we beseech Thee so to guide us this day that at its close we shall find we have become more like Jesus in all our thoughts, words, and acts. Bless us with Thine indwelling presence. Use us for Thy divine purpose, through Christ our Savior. Amen.
(From the 'Upper Room')

New Faces For Legislature

If Gov. John Connally is re-elected this year as generally expected, he will face a rather unpredictable Legislature.

Speculation in Austin now is that, largely because of the ramifications of reapportionment, the turnover in the Texas Legislature in 1966 may be the largest in history. More than one-half, rather than the usual one-third, of the 150 House members may be new faces. It is also possible that a bare majority of the Senate members may be freshmen.

Gov. Connally exerted exceptionally strong influence on the Legislature in its regular session this year, even more than in his first term in 1963. The bare majority he got in the 1962 election did not give him nearly as strong a popular mandate as did his more than 2-to-1 victory in 1964.

If Connally wins by a big majority in 1966, as is highly probable, his 1967 legislative leadership should equal his performance this year. Also, he will have a more experienced staff, and, despite the heavy legislative turnover foreseen, should retain supporters in key positions in both houses of the Legislature.

Even so, if there are as many new members in the House and Senate as now appears likely, the 60th Legislature will have to be considered unpredictable on a wide variety of issues that it will face, including the prospect of a sizable increase in taxation. The next Legislature will be well into its 1967 regular session before the degree of its support for the governor's program can be judged with any reliability.

Good Report

Reports from three banks in Big Spring and one in Coahoma reflect a rather vigorous economic picture at the end of 1965.

Deposits were up by nearly 10 per cent, which is a mighty hefty boost. Looking at this realistically, it must be acknowledged that some of it is reflected in school and junior college bond funds for buildings. But it should also be noted that the cotton harvest has not come anywhere near peaking, something that will not happen for another 30 to 60 days. The crop is so late that even a major portion of the cotton ginned prior to the end of the year did not show on deposits because farmers have been too busy with gathering and the holidays to bring their tags to the bank. Possibly two and a half to three million dollars will be coming in from this source.

Loans and discounts showed a lesser gain of slightly over four per cent. Thus, well over 20 million dollars is at work in the local economy.

Every year poses something of uncertainty, but this much can be said of 1966—it is starting off from a growing financial base. If we can hold on and make modest gains, one of these days our banks will cross the 50-million-dollar mark in resources. This is important, for a community's progress is tied in inexorably with its bank-

Victims Of Transit Strike

WASHINGTON—The civil rights of many millions of persons who live or work in New York City have just been flagrantly violated, but not a word of reprimand has come from the President of the United States. A city government has been defied, and a governmental agency rendered helpless.

Coincidentally, the "guidelines" on wage increases set by the President himself have been disregarded by labor unions not only in New York City but elsewhere.

WASHINGTON—The civil rights of many millions of persons who live or work in New York City have just been flagrantly violated, but not a word of reprimand has come from the President of the United States. A city government has been defied, and a governmental agency rendered helpless.

Coincidentally, the "guidelines" on wage increases set by the President himself have been disregarded by labor unions not only in New York City but elsewhere.

THE TRANSIT strike in New York City is in violation of law, according to the mayor and state officials, since the workers employed by a government agency have no right to disrupt a transportation system and cause inconvenience, hardship and financial losses to innocent citizens.

President Johnson and his aides have been articulate in denouncing businesses that have raised prices. Punishment has been imposed or threatened either by withdrawal of government contracts or by announcing plans to dump stockpiled products on the market.

CERTAINLY PERSONS from neighboring towns and cities in New York state, Connecticut and New Jersey, who daily go to New York City to work, are discriminated against and are being deprived of "equal protection of the law." Yet the White House apparently doesn't do anything about it for fear of antagonizing the votes of union labor.

IF THERE HAD been a rebellion against governmental authority in any Southern state and a disregard there of "civil rights" under a governor or a city's mayor, the whole machinery of the federal government, including troops, would probably have been mo-

Billy Graham

My husband swears and drinks, saying that God isn't concerned with the "non-consequential" things we do. How can I answer him? H. R.

We make a mistake when we try to adapt non-Christians to Christian standards. First, we do this, we do two things. First, we leave the impression that a right relationship to God depends upon what we do. Swearing, lying, immorality, and intemperance are products of a life separated from God. This does not mean that everyone out of Christ is given to these sins, but it is true that these things come natural to the natural man. The Bible says: "The works of the flesh are these: Adultery, uncleanness, . . . hatred, wrath, drunkenness, and revellings and such like." Although your husband certainly would be a much better man if he didn't do the things you mention, he wouldn't be a Christian if all he did was to leave off these things. Christianity is Christ, and the acceptance of Him makes a person a Christian.

Second, an attitude of harrassment will do little but create tension in your home. Non-Christian husbands are not made Christian by lectures from Christian wives. Let Christ be seen in your life and attitudes. Jesus said, "Ye are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hid." Men can resist lectures, but a life changed by the power of Christ is hard to ignore. One man said: "When I saw the love of Christ in my wife, I had no alternative but to become a Christian myself."

Guidelines Leave Room For Flexibility

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's wage-price guidelines, it is now clear, can be rigid as a steel girder or flexible as a sheet of aluminum.

Conversely, it was Big Steel that found flexibility in the White House blessing of a compromise price increase and the aluminum industry that earlier had to knuckle under to stiff administration pressure.

But the lesson appears to remain the same: Johnson isn't kidding about enforcing the guidelines in an effort to keep inflation from slipping away the solid gains of the booming economy.

WHY DID Johnson let the steel industry raise some prices $2.75 per ton, while forcing a rollback in aluminum and copper price hikes just two months ago?

The key factor is productivity, the heart of the wage-price guidelines first formulated by White House economic advisers four years ago.

Productivity is the amount of steel or aluminum or any other commodity produced per man-hour, and the government figures the rate is rising 3.2 per cent a year in the economy as a whole.

Thus, the White House says, industry can raise wages 3.2 per cent a year without boosting prices.

BUT the guidelines leave room for flexibility in various industries.

The difference in the steel and aluminum cases, the way the government figures it, is this: Steel recently raised wages 3.2 per cent, while productivity has been rising only 3 per cent. Thus the industry was entitled to the increase which presidential economic adviser Gardner Ackley described as "inconsequential"—about one-tenth of 1 per cent.

But in the aluminum industry, despite recent wage increases of 4 per cent, productivity has been climbing at something like 6 per cent a year.

Thus, under the guidelines, aluminum could even afford to cut prices, provided nonlabor costs didn't eat away the other 2 per cent of productivity increase.

Tiny Spider Veins Are Not Varicose

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes blue blood vessels near the surface of the skin, and is there any way to shrink or remove them?

I know older people get varicose veins, but I am only 15 and already have broken veins on my legs. — R.F.U.

All that glitters isn't gold, but fortunately all that's blue isn't varicose. I'm rather sure that the blood vessels distressing you are not varicose, but are what we call venous stars or spiders, little networks of blue veins.

The small veins are near the surface and are fragile. A bump may cause leakage of blood and a bruise to appear.

From the standpoint of health and comfort, they do no harm. They are not varicose veins. I'll concede, however, that you'd like to get rid of them for the sake of appearance.

Frankly, we don't know all about what causes them, but it is thought that they are related to estrogen (the female hormone) level. They are much more frequent in girls and women than in men, and involve the thigh more often than the lower leg.

It is probable that pressure may have some effect, as from a tight girdle or garter.

Around The Rim

The Solution: The Driver

Few who ventured out on the bloody roadways during the holidays could come home surprised with the record total of deaths counted out there. The surprise might be that the number was so small.

FORTUNATELY, we saw no tragedy in more than 1,000 miles of risk life and limb. Near-tragedies however were quite common.

Speed is still a common sight on our roadways. Driving almost at the legal speed limit, we were far and away the snails of the roads. The whisk of other cars, we saw, easily put them in the 80s or higher.

A list of the violations we witnessed would probably run the whole gamut of possible ones, with the leading infraction passing on hills and when the yellow stripe is in your lane. We saw so many folks passing on the "wrong side" that it might as well be the rule.

PACKAGES were packed so high in some cars, I'm sure the drivers had only a small peep hole in front to watch their progress. Folks don't use arm signals any more, and many of them don't bother with the flashing signals on their cars.

One car pulled out on a very busy roadway immediately in front of us, and the fellow who had been riding our rear bumper within a few inches, nearly joined us at 65 miles per hour.

THAT WON my vote for all cars to have one of those James Bond gadgets to either spray oil or spread tacks or something to get that guy back there to slow down, get off your tailgate, and allow a reasonable margin between bumpers.

ALTHOUGH more patrolmen and electronic spies may help some, I doubt that enforcement will ever be the whole answer to safe driving. Unless we make every other car a police car, it will not be enough. Somehow, we must convince drivers that safety is worthwhile.

For, although we saw a lot of violations, we also saw a lot of polite, courteous drivers — some who waited until it was safe to pull out on the road, a lot of them who were driving near the speed limit but no faster, many who kept a good distance back, and so on.

THE PROBLEM is not hopeless; we just must convince drivers of its importance.

The Indians Wouldn't Have It

NEW YORK — It was an ingenious idea and everyone was amazed that no one had thought of it before. The problem was to find the descendants of the Indians who had sold Manhattan to Peter Minuit in 1624.

The search was on and finally the present chief of the tribe, who was working as a riveter on a new skyscraper in midtown Manhattan, was located. Three city officials climbed up the girders and began to speak while the Indian ate his lunch.

"CHIEF, WE'RE here on behalf of the City of New York and we understand that your ancestors sold the island of Manhattan for $24."

The chief said, "That's true. The Dutch drove a hard bargain in those days. We were robbed."

"Well," said the second official, "we New Yorkers have always felt very bad about it and we want to make it up to you. How would you people like to buy the place back?"

"For how much," the chief asked suspiciously.

"Twenty - four dollars," the chief said.

"That's a lot of money," the chief said.

"IF IT'S A question of financing," the third official said, "you could give us four dollars down and four dollars a month."

Smoke and smog kept drifting up and the chief wiped his eyes with a red bandanna. "It isn't a question of the money. We just don't want it."

The first official said, "Chief, this is a golden opportunity for your people. Not only would you get all the land, but you'd have Lincoln Center, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Verrazano Bridge, and Shea Stadium."

THE CHIEF said, "White man speaks with forked tongue. Who gets the subway?"

"Why you do, of course," the chief said.

"But you wouldn't have to deal with Mike Quill the way we do," the second official said.

"How would I deal with him?"

"HOW WOULD your ancestors deal with a man who gave them so much trouble?"

"I don't know. They never had a subway."

"What about water?" the chief said.

"What about water?" the chief said.

"My tribe needs water. You have no water."

"You could steal it from Pennsylvania," the official said. "Don't you see, Chief, if you took over the city, you could do all the things we're not permitted to do?"

"Who has to pay for the World's Fair?" the chief demanded.

THE FIRST official said, "It's obvious you don't know a good thing when you see it. We're sorry we even brought it up."

The three officials started their long climb down. Waiting nervously at the bottom was Mayor John Lindsay.

"What did he say?" the Mayor wanted to know.

"No dice."

"I was afraid of that," Lindsay said. "Well, I'll have to think of something else."

The Old Pro Still At Work

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
(Substituting for Marquis Childs)

WASHINGTON — No matter where the pendulum of fate may at last come to rest in Vietnam — whether fixedly pointed to an honorable peace or to the flames of a larger war — the new year finds one of the old boys showing the young how duty is done at the center of the crisis.

Averell Harriman, at 74 an elderly party by any chronological test, is putting one of this country's darrest cliché-myths, the cult of youth worship, to a severe test.

THE MOST roving of all our roving ambassadors, he was more or less endlessly airborne at the approach of the new year. In his somewhat dull but absolutely tireless and determined way, he was carrying climatic messages from President Johnson to national leaders half around the world in America's final spasm of effort to reach a decent and nonappealing peace to end the Vietnamese war.

His journeys then would have exhausted most men of half his years. And beyond doubt there will be many other journeys before this curiously ageless man lays down at last a public career that began before many of his diplomatic colleagues had put on their first long pants.

HIS HIGHEST professional qualification is his record as President Truman's Ambassador to the Soviet Union, now a long time ago. In Moscow he became the first Western envoy totally to sense — and to report back home with no trimming — that a thing we now call the cold war was about to be opened by the Communist world.

But his highest human qualification is something else. His very age is the strength of his career. For alone among current high officials he cannot possibly be suspected, by the most suspicious associate or by Congress, of allowing personal ambition to color or to frighten in the smallest way his work or his recommendations.

SO IT IS that all Washington knows one thing at least — that if he says something he believes it, purely and simply. He is not running for anything. He is a man, this Harriman, who was twice cruelly disappointed in politics. The first time was when he was denied the presidential nomination that Harry Truman had earnestly sought for him. The second time was when Nelson Rockefeller unseated him as governor of New York.

MANY WOULD have curled up and quit when the last and unsuspected blow had fallen. Harriman, instead, stolidly came here to work in the State Department, in his grumpy quiet way, for President John F. Kennedy. For titles he clearly didn't give a damn. He stayed on with President Johnson. And as the titles came and went he still clearly didn't give a damn what rank-plate they put upon his door.

He was, in fact, a poor politician. His speeches, however written, were unconquerably pedestrian in his mouth, and in affectionate impatience he evoked the nickname of "Honest Ave, the Hair Splitter." For elective office, the knack was simply not in him. He became instead a most superior public official of the appointive sort. He had, in spite of himself, found his place. This is perhaps why he is able to show the younger men how duty is at last done.

THE LATE Admiral Ernest King, a glacially tough old type of the Second World War, said that when "they" in Washington got into trouble, they sent for the so-and-so. Like King, Harriman could never have even got started in a popularity race. But, like Ernie King, Averell Harriman is a good type to have around when the heat is on and they need a man for a man's errand.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

It has not been long since the federal government loosed on the market some of its stockpiles of aluminum and copper to prevent price rises. Just the other day a similar maneuver took place involving wheat.

It is understandable a feeling should be growing that the government intends to use its vast stockpiles when necessary to maintain price stability. One estimate, disregarding agricultural commodities, counts approximately 75 materials in the federal stockpiles.

The release into the market of any of them in quantity could depress prices or prevent rises. By the same token the government presumably could maintain prices against sagging by purchasing for stockpiling. It would be possible to use the federal powers of acquisition and disposal as an engine of stability.

Moderately used, it has presently been effective, but the government should not place too much reliance in it.

Billions Still Tied Up In Farm Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government still had nearly $6.5 billion tied up in reserve and surplus supplies of farm products Dec. 31—only about 19 per cent less than three years earlier.

The size of the government stocks was given in an Agriculture Department report issued at a time when there is much public discussion as to whether American food stocks should be replenished by easing federal production limitations on some crops.

Dear Abby

To Eat Or Not To Eat

DEAR ABBY: In your column recently you said that the hostess who asks if her guests want a cold drink, coffee, or a sandwich, and then sits on her bottom without making a move toward the kitchen, is just "lazy"—and she shouldn't ask, she should get up and serve it.

Well, I'm sorry, Abby, but I don't agree with you. I am on a limited budget and I can't afford to prepare refreshments to throw out. I always ask if anybody wants anything first. And I am only too glad to serve whatever I have if it is wanted, but it bugs me to watch guests toy with their food and pretend to enjoy it when they really don't.

BUGGED IN BEAUMONT

DEAR ABBY: Just because a hostess doesn't FORCE eat on her guests doesn't mean she is lazy. Anyone who is so stupid as to refuse a cup of coffee when they really want one deserves to go without. This business of having to BEG folks to have a cookie or a sandwich is for the birds. Whatever happened to the simple "YES" or "NO" when something is offered? I ask once and I mean it. And whatever answer I get is okay by me. I don't beg anybody to eat or drink anything in my house.

JUST PLAIN FOLKS

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I wish to differ with your advice to "OFTEN A GUEST." In which you state: "The hostess who sincerely wants to serve her guests doesn't inquire; she acts."

We know some of these so-called sincere ones who act! They figure our digestions are as indestructible as theirs. They take offense if their goodies aren't consumed, be it immediately after a banquet, or just before we hope to get some sleep.

The good hostesses we know inquire, and then act accordingly.

OVERFED IN IOWA

DEAR ABBY: Aha! I caught you. You aren't always right. I think the hostess who puts the food and drink before her guests without first asking if they wish for anything is presumptuous and inconsiderate.

It should be the privilege of the guest either to partake of refreshments or refuse. But if something is set before him, he feels compelled to "enjoy" it or offend the host. I have avoided calling on a certain relative who is a notoriously bad cook because she is the type who insists that her guests eat, no matter what time of day or night it is. Her heart may be in the right place, but my stomach can't take it.

"BICARB BERTHA"

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you. If you have something in the house for company, put it out and let them take it or leave it.

I used to ask people who dropped in if they wanted a piece of my warm, just-out-of-the-oven green apple pie. And they would say, "Not right now, but it sounds so good, would you mind wrapping up a little piece so I can take it home and have it for my dessert tonight?"

Now, Abby, you know I'm not going to wrap up ONE piece of bread or pie for a whole family. So there used to go a whole loaf of bread and a whole pie.

OLD-FASHIONED BAKER
DEAR BAKER: Your mistake was in describing the goodies. You should have just made the offer and skipped the commercials.

Polish Defector Feared Reprisal

SAIGON (AP)—A young Polish interpreter for the International Control Commission told newsmen today he defected because he felt his life was in danger after he had voiced a desire to go to the United States.

Anatol Slavinski, 25, said he overheard Polish military officers discussing ways to get rid of him. He said this precipitated his defection Dec. 31.

Slavinski told a news conference his assignment to Saigon was his introduction to life in the free world. In his two months here, he said, he read many magazines and newspapers and he began thinking about defecting to the west.

When he ran into a Saigon police station New Year's Eve, several members of the Polish delegation to the control commission rushed in behind him and demanded that the Vietnamese police turn him back to them. The police refused.

More Lake Site Acquired

Two more tracts of land have been secured for the new lake project above Robert Lee, O. H. Ivie, general manager, has announced.

This brings to 2,200 acres the amount of land under purchase agreements, he added. About 80 per cent of it is in the sector for the dam site.

Ivie estimated that approximately 40 per cent of the land needed for the dam site had been secured so far. In every instance that the district has made a contact, purchase of the property has been negotiated within the appraised price, he said.

Other contacts will be made as rapidly as the appraisals are put in the district's hands. Both surveying and land appraisals for the lake basin are progressing satisfactorily, Ivie said.

The CRMWD board will meet Tuesday to fix rates for the year and also to consider some time table for revenue bond sales to finance the new lake project and necessary additional pipelines. Some decisions from potential customers will need to be made before the district can come up with a cost estimate and know the amount of bonds needed.

Purse Stolen

Her purse was stolen from a rack in the rear storage room of Lewis Five & Ten, 1712 Gregg, Wednesday, Mrs. Mabel Roberts, 404 Circle Drive, told officers. She said the theft occurred between 3:45 and 6:50 p.m. The purse contained about $9.80 in cash, a pay check, two credit cards, a billfold, driver's license, keys and a picture case.

PHARMACIST FOR 25 YEARS

Mrs. Agnes Evans, new pharmacist at State Hospital

Mrs. Evans Joins Staff As Chief Pharmacist

New chief pharmacist at the Big Spring State Hospital is Mrs. Agnes Evans, who is no stranger to Big Spring.

Mrs. Evans was born and reared in Big Spring and after graduating from high school, attended a business school in Fort Worth. She then attended the Capital College of Pharmacy in Denver, Colo.

A pharmacist for over 25 years, Mrs. Evans has worked for many druggists in Big Spring, in addition to several other pharmacies in Texas.

She came to the state hospital Dec. 7 and is in the process of moving from Midland, where she was vacationing with her son, Arnold Parmley.

The pharmacy at the state hospital fills thousands of prescriptions a week, Mrs. Evans said, for in-hospital patients alone. There are several hundred prescriptions filled by the pharmacy for out-patients. There are two other women who work with her part time, to help fill prescription orders.

Buy Ford Agency

Seven Seeking Re-Election

LAMESA (SC)—Seven candidates have filed for re-election to their respective offices subject to the Democratic Primary election in May. Seeking re-election is Leslie C. Pratt, county judge; Arthur L. Standefer, justice of the peace; Clyde Bostick, county treasurer; E. L. Smith, district clerk; Louie C. White, county clerk; A. B. Furlow, commissioner of Precinct 2; and Dalton Myers, commissioner of Precinct 4.

Seeking election to the office of county superintendent is Ernest Deering, and E. R. (Shorty) Marshall will oppose A. B. Furlow in the race for commissioner of Precinct 2.

Wallace's Wife May Enter Governor Race

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—"If Lurleen runs," said husband George C. Wallace, "she'll win."

And, the governor of Alabama added, "I'll campaign for her. We'll probably campaign together."

He hastily emphasized that no decision has been made on whether his attractive wife, 39, will be a candidate next year to succeed him. But he made no attempt to discourage the speculation.

OWN FUTURE

Wallace also left unanswered in an interview the equally pertinent question of his own political future — whether he plans to run for the U.S. Senate in the Democratic primary next May or return to private life.

"I'm looking forward to the culmination of our educational program and the development of new industry," he said.

"We anticipate a surplus of $75 million in the treasury at the end of my administration. We are closing the gap in our program of providing the best educational facilities possible for both races."

The latter was his only reference to Alabama's racial problems, which in the months gone by had made him an international figure.

NOTES PROGRESS

He talked mostly about the financial condition of the state, weeks ahead. "It's nothing of a major nature," the governor emphasized. "Her health is all right. She wouldn't think about making a race for governor unless her health was 100 per cent."

And he talked eagerly about Mrs. Wallace. "Almost all of the radio polls we have heard about show her leading. Everywhere we go, the people say, 'Governor, we're with you. We'll support your wife if she runs.'"

"She has saved the state thousands of dollars by doing away with catering services and doing her own catering when she entertains at the mansion," Wallace continued. "She believes the mansion belongs to the people, and she has entertained more visitors than anyone ever did before — women's clubs, PTA groups, things like that."

STAYS CLOSE

Since the governor first let the word out, many weeks ago, that Mrs. Wallace might run, she has been his constant companion in his frequent public appearances.

But an operation for an undisclosed ailment put her in a hospital last November and left her facing still more surgery in the right. She wouldn't think about making a race for governor unless her health was 100 per cent."
