TEXAS DROUTH RELIEF SHARE UNFAIR, CHARGE

FORT WORTH, July 12.—Texas has been "roundly gypped" by federal relief agencies in allocation of drouth relief funds, Cong. Fritz Lanham and Dr. Lewis C. Crabb, chief of the state livestock sanitary commission, said today.

"Political pressure evidently must have been brought to bear in some quarters, Crabb said.

"I can see no other reason," he said. "why should Colorado with a June rainfall 81 per cent normal receive an even $1,000,000 while Texas with rainfall at 23 per cent receives $750,000?

"It is absolutely unfair. The allocations should have been made, after considering rainfall, on the basis of the cattle census which shows that the 6,000,000 recorded in Texas are about twice as many as in any other state."

Lanham joined Dr. Crabb in the protest:

"It seems plainly apparent that Texas did not get a fair deal. I am taking the matter up with relief headquarters in Washington."

The CHANGLESS CYCLE

SPRING is gone. Summer is fading. But their return is as inevitable as tomorrow's dawn. Next year they will be back again.

Then it will be the same changeless cycle. . . . Same April showers and burst of May flowers. Same old lawn mowing. Same donning of warm-weather togs. Same craving of new summer furniture. Same exciting vacation planning. Same hundred and one needs and longings.

Why not provide for such future certainties when the advantages are so much in your favor? Buying in August and September what you are going to need or want in June carries the wisdom of Solomon. Read the advertisements in this newspaper and see. Watch for the end-of-season sales. Compare the values with those of the season's opening. Prices are lower because merchants would rather clear out surplus stocks at bargain prices than carry them over until next season.

So---what'll it be? . . . For next summer's lawn, a premium-quality mower at an ordinary-quality price. That long-desired rattan suite for the sun-porch. Some rustic furniture. Awnings. A new refrigerator at an irresistible price. Day by day, you'll find them all in the advertisements in this newspaper. The raincoat which last Spring seemed a bit high. Two or three linen suits at a genuine bargain --- to be hung away for next summer's torrid waves. A money-saving buy of summer underwear, pajamas, shirts, ties, knickers, sports shoes and stockings.

C. WILLIAMS SKS SUPPORT FOR CO. SUP'T

C. Williams, candidate for ty superintendent of public in- ction, today issued the follow- statement with respect to the form upon which he seeks elec- to that office:

the People of Eastland County: y name has been in the an- ncement columns of the East- county papers for six or eight ths and I desire to make a brief ement to the voters of Cisco Eastland county. The office of ty school superintendent is a important county office. It $2,800 per year including trav- expenses. The term is four s. To ask for a second term for office, therefore, is to ask for t years. I would like to be your county school superintendent astland county schools.

have been associated with the entary schools during the past r 12 years as elementary prin- l and have possibly taught more dren than any other principal has ever worked with the Cisco ols. I have tried to take an indi- al interest in the welfare of y boy and girl with whom it has my pleasure to work. I believe I have the universal good will support of those with whom I worked and have had the op- unity to know.

believe that our greatest school blems are not the one teacher ols, the poorly equipped school ding—bad as they are—but our test school problems are a lack rmony, a lack of cooperation, a of common understanding. The department of education has a n of educational advancement. trying to put on a progressive ational program that will raise standards and provide better ational opportunities and ad- tages for the boys and girls of entire county. Possibly mistakes been and will continue to be but I believe the greatest ble is a lack of correctly inter- ing the plan and program at end of the line.

Policy

y policy is that the office of ty school superintendent is an e that belongs to the people and ld serve all alike. I believe that vernment is safer the closer it is he people. I believe in the prin- ls of democracy, that the people ld rule.I do not believe that I ld be worthy of the support of people if I should publicly or tely attempt to array one sec- of the country against the other interest against the other, or individual against the other. A lic servant should serve all alike. othing is more gratifying to any didate than to be able to carry r her home voting box with a tantial majority. I am therefore ing this earnest appeal to the rs of my home for their loyal port. I would like very, very h to be your next county school erintendent. I promise if elected work diligently and to do my d level best to do the right, g for all alike and to strive to in any way to provide equal ational advantages and oppor- ties for the boys and girls re- dless of where they live.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

THERE exists a mathematical relation between the weight of the human body and the amount of venom which it can normally neutralize. The smaller the body, the less venom it can withstand. For this reason, a child must have a larger dose of serum to combat snake bite poisoning.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

TRAINING trotters and pacers requires vastly more skill and patience than preparing running horses for the races.

You have this from Walter Randall Cox, who has worried along with both, and who hopped from his father's butcher cart at Manchester, N. H., 50 years ago, and has been harnessed to harness horses ever since. At 65, the sun-baked New Englander is the dean of active owners and conditioners of the standard bred.

"Thoroughbreds are born to run. Some simply are faster than others. In the end, all that really matters is condition.

"On the other hand, some of the greatest trotters and pacers are helpless at the outset. They have to acquire their gaits, and in order to do so be perfectly balanced.

Horse Makes Driver

"I NEVER cared a great deal about pacers, although I would like to have had one like Dan Patch or Directum I.

"The fact that many of them have to be hobbled—encircled by a strap above their knees and hock—illustrates how unnatural their gait is. Hobbled pacers usually remain hobbled until they go postward for the last time. Otherwise, they'd break. Hobbled, there is nothing left for them to do but pace."

Cox, who retired as a driver a couple of years ago, long was one of the foremost reinsmen.

Hence the question, "How important is the driver?"

"Well, horses have to be rated, and there's lots in going short miles," replied Cox. "When you drive a horse outside the race track, you aren't going anywhere, but the best answer to that query is the crack of Cooky Martin, a wag at Columbus.

"Someone remarked that Peter the Great had sired a lot of 2:10 trotters.

"'Yes,' cut in Cooky, 'and he also sired a lot of 2:10 drivers.'"

Can't Earn Expenses

LIKE all other grizzled hands at the sulky sport, Cox bemoans the runners having taken the play away from the trotters. Although the principal reason is that running races are speedier and more colorful, the old-timers offer various others, including exploitation.

"One of the drawbacks in our game is the lack of substantial purses for aged horses," asserted Cox. "Why, Calumet Crusader and Vansandt, the two fine five-year-old stallions who met in the match race at North Randall, Cleveland, on July 4, cannot possibly earn enough in purses to pay expenses in the entire trip around the Grand Circuit.

"Our futurities remain rich enough, although generally they, too, are being reduced in value.

"But it was the free-for-all trots that brought out the people in the good old days. Show them the horses and they'll come, as they did in 1922, when Great Volo, Lee Worthy, Czar Worthy, Peter the Brewer, Great Britain, and some more wrote fast times into the books as they trotted it out all the way along the route."

CROP INSURANCE

Old Man Drouth, pitiless ally of nature's efforts to keep production balanced with consumption, has joined forces this season with man's ambitious campaign to reduce surpluses in basic agricultural commodition and restore a profitable market to the farmer. But where man's program is based upon a theory of universal equity, Old Man Drouth wields a scythe with respect neither to order nor person. His wasting breath has laid bare innumerable acres of wheat lands, corn lands and cotton lands, while adjoining areas have become enriched with crops that command a higher price as a result of this curtailment by natural causes.

There are only about 28,000,000 acres planted to cotton in the United States this season, a figure that compares with the 27,110,000 acres planted in 1905, the lowest figure furnished by the present century.

The government's program of acreage control, taking form first as a voluntary sign-up campaign and latterly as a Bankhead act equipped with a legal stinger for the recalcitrant, had much to do with this reduction; although it is probable that most of the acreage was already seeded before the application of the Bankhead act's provisions was effectively known. The voluntary campaign, in which farmers entered into contract with the secretary of agriculture to reduce their acreage in return for certain bonus or rental payments coupled with the effects of the drouth and the progressive influence of years of poor prices and over production, served the most, therefore, to reduce the amount of soil devoted to the staple. On the basis of the average production, the 28,000,000 acres should yield somewhat less than the 10,000,000-bale figure at which the banking bill aims.

While the Bankhead bill specifically may not be given so much of actual credit for the reduction, it insures benefits to the growers that the ruthless effects of the drouth would not have provided otherwise. Combined with the bonus payments provided for those who entered into the voluntary contracts prior to its adoption, the bill gives the grower a form of crop insurance, so that even those who fail to produce any cotton at all may derive an income from the sale of the tax exemption certificates that they are to be awarded on the basis of 60 per cent of their average cotton production over the five-year period, 1928-1932. Those who signed reduction contracts will also receive rentals on the land they removed from production. With these benefits, the cotton grower may face the prospect of an utter failure this season with some protection against the experience of the past, when high commodity markets caught the grower without anything to sell.

LIVESTOCK BOOSTED OVER BILLION DOLLARS

Texas has or had $1,000,000,000 invested in the livestock industry. Indeed, livestock was the first basic industry of the commonwealth. Then cotton relegated it to a second place. Petroleum development came in. Now petroleum is the king industry of Texas. Figures compiled by the Institute of American Meat Packers demonstrate approximately $1,640,000,000 was added to the market value of cattle, hogs and sheep on American farms during the first six months of 1934. Value of cattle was enhanced by $1,394,000,000; hogs, $174,000,000 and sheep $72,000,00. These figures do not include hog processing taxes of approximately $107,000,000 which were incurred by the packing industry during the period. A reminder that the Institute of American Meat Packers has a habitat in the city of Chicago, "the greatest packing town of the world." This note goes with the report of the institute: "An improvement in consumer purchasing power and heavier demands for meat and meat products coincident with the reduction in livestock marketing was responsible for the upturn in values." Real facts tell a lot of the story of national recovery, and accurate figures make the climax to the tale.

FIVE GUIDES FOR THE NRA MACHINERY

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson has decided to turn over a large part of running the Blue Eagle machine the balance of the summer to a group of five of his principal subordinates. He will swing around the country, making dozens of speeches. He will try to resell the Blue Eagle and put in a word for the New Deal as a whole at the same time.

Sen. James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois is the chairman of the democratic senate campaign committee. Sen. Lewis is a veteran campaigner. He is a hard hitter. He has let it be known that the department of justice would act at once to punish business interests which he said had conspired to lift the prices of everything." Speaking for the New Deal he said: "This administration has just been able to discover the responsible parties to this conspiracy. It has not had time to take steps to punish it. It will proceed at once to both punish and obstruct this further injustice." It appears to be up to Att'y Gen. Homer S. Cummings. The Connecticut lawyer, head of the department of justice, will not take a vacation this summer. He has his own office load to carry.

F. F. A. ENCAMPMENT

Prospects for the annual Future Farmers of America encampment at Lake Cisco this summer indicate that a record will be established for attendance. The encampment is the oldest and best established of the sort in the state. Last year it drew about 350 boys and their instructors here for three days. The success of the Cisco camp was responsible several years ago for a large number of similar camps over the state, but all but a few of these succumbed in short order. The result was to draw a much greater number to Cisco and to more firmly establish the Lake site here as a center of attraction. These camps, bringing several hundred youngsters here annually, are valuable as advertising features for the lake, and the influence of them is seen in the frequency with which the names of the communities represented appear in lists of subsequent visitors to the site.

Major Achievements of State Rail Commission

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Petroleum is the great treasure wealth of the people of Texas. Petroleum is the greatest of industries in a money sense of the people of Texas. Petroleum is the basic of all industries today and it pays $1,000,000 a day into the pockets of the people, the treasury of the commonwealth and the university and school funds that flow from the empire treasure storehouse of the southwest.

Commr. E. O. Thompson was elected by the people. He is a servant of the people. He is widely known and universally respected. He was a gallant soldier on the battle plains of France. He has ever been a champion of the rights of a state to control its own natural resources. An interview by him should be read by all the people. First, he denounced hot oil runners as "common thieves." More important, he declared that regulations are so effective today that the tactics of the outlaws in the big oil producing fields have been changed. There is a reason for it. He stated it: Illegal oil is so hard to get that the hot oil runners "are resorting to common thievery instead of running hot oil."

He placed before the people of Texas—the people who think and who are patriots and law abiding, the people who are committed to the immortal doctrines of the fathers and ever for the preservation and the perpetuity of the rights of the state — three major achievements in the year 1934 of his colleagues and the railway commission given to the Texas world by John H. Reagan and James Stephen Hogg and others equally as patriotic and vigilant in battling for the rights of the people and the supremacy of the constitutional rights of a state of the sisterhood. Now what are the achievements. First, stopping hot oil, its evasion of taxes and injury to the oil industry." Second, "added revenue of $108,000,000 a year to Texas by reason of securing more just allowable as part of the national total, the direct result of the fight made by the railroad commission." Third, the most efficient operating ratio and system for east Texas of any field in the nation. Saving the producers $9,000,000 in cost of pumping machinery and getting a higher percentage in ultimate recovery of oil."

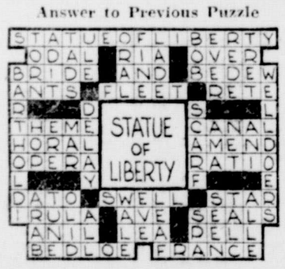

Why shouldn't Texas stand guard over its own? Why shouldn't it applaud the achievements of servants elected by all the people — servants how are doing their level best to protect the rights of all; to protect the farmer who has mineral wealth under the surface of his soil; the householder, the royalty holder; the vast army of wage workers employed in the oil fields; the revenues which accrue to the state, to the university fund, to the public school fund and lastly, for the honest and efficient control of a heritage of the people passed on to them by the far seeing patriots and statesmen who laid the mudsills for the Texas of today with a constitution that was to be a guide and a gospel of liberty and equality, speaking of the rights of man, that should be cherished forever by those who came after him?

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Folks along Silk Stocking lane, that portion of the city venerated with ancient elms, pecans and traditions of respectable living, have marvelled of late to see the Mayor of the City of Cisco industriously wielding a paint brush upon sundry new boards in Connie Davis' rearward fence, while Mrs. Berry generously shields Hizzoner from the burning sun's rays with an umbrella.

Therein lies a tale which connects with the fact that the Mayor has recently been acting rather strangely particularly in repeatedly driving his small run-about into his garage, backing it out and turning around in the driveway that he shares with Mr. Davis.

Now there is a difference in temperament between Mr. Davis who deals in real estate and insurance and the Mayor, who deals in lumber and politics. Mr. Davis pursues a course of even tenor, which chance and incident do not excite. Therefore, when he starts to town of a morning he simply points the rear end of his cart toward the street and it travels methodically and accurately into the thoroughfare. On the other hand, the Mayor must turn and travel nose first, or he is sure to get into difficulties with the shrubbery, or find himself cutting abruptly across the lawn. He just isn't the backing up kind.

The other morning Mrs. Davis was startled by a terrific crash from the direction of the garage. She ran out of the doorway, and there sat the Mayor holding onto the steering wheel with the back of his runabout thrust through the splintered boards of the Davis fence. The Mayor had his eyebrows lifted above his forehead and he gazed upon Mrs. Davis with an expression of astonishment and doubt. In his forthright manner of coming out of the garage and turning around he had exceeded the limits of the driveway in the direction in which he is always most at loss.

"Tut, tut," said the Mayor or words to that effect. "This is extremely embarrassing. I really didn't mean to do this, Mrs. Davis."

But Mrs. Davis is kind, and she spoke her thoughts in a manner so diplomatic that the mayor took the hint without offense that he should practice turning around enough to keep his car within its limitations. So the Mayor frequently may be seen driving his coupe into the garage, backing it out, turning it around and driving it in again, repeating this performance with a persistence that has caused some eyebrowish wonder in his neighborhood. I think, out of justice to the Mayor and because even the most foolish-appearing things become quite rational and simple when the reasons for them are known, that I should make this explanation for him.

The painting episode may now be understood. The Mayor brought home the boards, planked up the broken fence and smeared the mended places with paint he judged to be of the same color of the rest of the fence. But since sun and atmosphere produce chemical changes in pigment that in turn produce a subtle change in shade, neighbors of the Mayor today were critically comparing the new with the old and expressing opinions he should paint the whole fence, otherwise it would look like a harlequin's house.

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, July 12 — Two people have read into a recent discussion in this column conclusions that were not in fact expressed, and which would have been improper in a comment column. One understood it to voice criticism and disapproval of the training of expert professional social service and relief workers. The other construed it to advocate exclusion of trained people from relief work. Neither view is justified. What was said was that relief administration in its present form is temporary, and is clearly in the hands of those treating it as a financial problem, to be worked out along business lines the best way possible. That in present form, it is not adequate to effect the social readjustments and benefits inherent in long-range professional social service administration.

BROOKS

What was said about training social service workers was that statements credited to one of the imported instructors in an institute at the university —to the general effect that the training institute might as well be abandoned, since non-professional people were directing the relief administration — should not be tolerated, because subversive.

Looking ahead: It is known that out of the temporary emergency wrestling with destitution must come some more permanent form of social service planning and administration. Such service must be in the hands of professionally-trained people.

When the present state relief set up ends in 13 months, some simpler but more permanent supervisory machinery must be set up. It should be a system dealing with causes and sources, rather than with the results only of unemployment and destitution.

It must be in the hands of the most highly-trained technicians.

Planning and execution do not have to be in the same hands. The novelty of the Brain Trust is not that theorists, specialists, planners experts have not always formulated policies and planned courses of action, but rather that the planners have been put in the trenches as administrators and executors as well.

Necessary numbers of professional people must be trained to carry on technical phases of social planning and supervision.

They can be trained and used without conflict, discord and lost motion of clashing and warring with the temporary agencies set up to fed hungry people in an emergency period.

Jane is clever and soon is making an excellent salary. She has an affair with ROGER THORPE, who is married. Later she tires of him and when he offers to bear the expense of their child she dismisses him contemptuously.

In her desperate plight Jane turns to Amy for help. Howard is touring Germany and Amy comes to New York. She stays until the baby is born and then, horrified because Jane insists on giving her daughter away, agrees to take the child with the understanding that Jane never shall reclaim her.

When Amy returns to Marburg with the baby she worries over what Howard, still in Europe, will think of what she has done.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

PROFESSOR LOWE looked down at the tiny baby. "Amy, you must name her," he said. "This continual use of the feminine pronoun annoys me."

"Then you suggest something," Amy prompted. "All fancy and historical names barred."

"Too bad—I was just going to suggest Boadicea or Xenobia or Cleopatra! But there's still Margaret of Navarre and Elizabeth and Mary or good Queen Anne, Helen of Troy, Calphurnia—"

"For heaven's sake, who was she?"

"Amy, I'm ashamed of you. Calphurnia was Julius Caesar's wife."

"Name her Catherine and call her Kitty for short," said Mrs. Lowe. "She's more like a kitten with its eyes not open than anything I ever saw."

They had reached the door. It seemed to Amy, entering, that there had never been any place so beautiful, so welcoming as that old house. The windows were open. The green garden beyond looked in at them. A lazy south breeze stirred the white curtains and brought the honeysuckle. "Oh!" she exclaimed, "I didn't know how sweet it was, or how much I missed it. And you've put flowers around—it makes me want to cry. I'm so glad to be home again."

They left her taking off her hat, opening her bags. As they drove away Professor Lowe said to his wife haltingly: "It has to come to all parents, I suppose, but I didn't know how much it was going to hurt, the moment when their child is definitely done with youth. I always think of Amy as such a lovely, happy young thing, and yet today—I realized—the first real touch of age. It wasn't the fatigue of the trip, nor the worry about Howard. She's been through something more, some difficult experience that's changed her and matured her. And I can tell you, my dear, it hurt me in a queer helpless way. That was why I talked so much nonsense about the infant's name."

"I know. I felt exactly what you mean. But it can't be done. We fathers and mothers can't shelter our children forever. If we did they'd only become cases of arrested development. Whatever Amy's been through is concerned with that baby, I'm sure of that."

"Yes, it must have been a struggle to decide to adopt a child without consulting Howard or any of her friends except that flyaway Jane."

MRS. LOWE looked sharply at her husband, wondering if he was as unsuspicious as he sounded. If he was she had better keep her own suspicions under cover, for he was quite absent-minded enough to blurt them out at the time and place they would be most awkward. She herself was absolutely sure about the baby, and her old dislike and resentment of Jane's influence over Amy quickened into life.

She recalled that in her letter telling of the adoption Amy had said that it was a child whose mother did not want it, would not keep it. "Amy will never tell me anything more," she thought. For her own self-respect she added: "And I shall never ask her."

Behind them Amy was hurrying about her house, her fatigue, her strain vanishing under the delight of being with her own again. The baby cried with hunger. She must leave her and go into her homely neat kitchen to prepare fresh food. Everything seemed to welcome her. Everything was in place, responded to her hand. She did not need to fumble or hunt for anything. The wails of the baby went on steadily while Amy poured and measured and tested, and when she ran back upstairs with the bottle and tucked the nipple into the mouth of the wriggling yelling mite, her gurgle of surprise and her greedy sucking made Amy laugh aloud.

"I'll call you Piggen instead of Kitten," she told her, but the baby was too intent on eating to notice the threat. When she was satisfied she dropped off into instant, easy sleep. Amy held the empty bottle and watched her for a few minutes. "She's certainly getting less red and more pink. She looks almost like a real baby now. I do hope she'll be pretty. And I do hope she won't look like Jane—or be like Jane. I must stop thinking about Jane, I must forget her entirely. It's heavenly to be home. If only Howard were here it would be perfect."

HER thoughts marched on, mingling Howard and the baby. One thing she meant to do, tell Howard the whole story of the child, holding back nothing. Then they would put the secret away, never to allude to it, bury it. She had no real misgivings as to Howard's willingness to have the child in their home. Howard would say that she had done the only possible thing.

Downstairs Mrs. Lowe was rapping at the door. "I've got the cradle. Come and look, Amy. Where do you want it?"

It seemed the best plan to Amy to have the baby in her own bedroom until she was a little older. There was an unfurnished room beside her own that would do for a nursery later.

"It's a very old-fashi cradle," said Mrs. Lowe, "but in good condition and the are high enough for safety. could take the rockers off, I pose. I believe it's not co ered the thing nowadays to babies to sleep."

"This baby is going to rocked to sleep," said A firmly. "And maybe if she in an old-fashioned cradle s grow up to be a nice old-fashi girl."

"It doesn't exactly fol But don't let's start the argum of heredity versus environm Personally I've always bet heredity."

"Oh Mother, have you you can't be sure!"

There was such dismay Amy's voice that Mrs. L suspicions became a certai This was it, it must be, Jane ry's child! "No, silly, of co I'm not sure. Nobody's s Don't the best families alw have a black sh p, and some of the meanest, most down people imaginable have dren that are perfect mode The only thing to do with c dren is to keep them healthy teach them manners. The bound to make their morals themselves."

AMY did not carry the arg ment farther. But in days between her own home co ing and that of Howard, thought of her mother's fra statement of uncertainty — wh she had any time to think at She had a great deal to do she was glad of it, for again th was a lapse in messages fr Howard and Professor Ellert, the suspense was hard. All her Marburg friends came to her, excited and amused by baby, some of them exceedin curious as well.

She had to parry and ev their questions as well as could, but she was glad none them even remotely suggest that it might be Jane's child, even Miss Rosa, who comment that anyone who took a child raise was surely a glutton trouble. The baby was growi becoming active, noticing li and movement and taking on pink and white curves of healthy, proper infant.

Amy had come home late August and it was late in Septe ber and the first semester of college year had commenced with much uncertainty and co fusion as to the geologi courses—when, one morni very early, the telephone ra Half asleep Amy reached from bed and put the receiver to ear. The connection was bad someone was talking very fa stammering the words, and first she couldn't make it Then she heard!

"Darling, darling, darli came the faraway rushing vo "hurry, speak to me, I've b nearly crazy—"

"Howard—Howard—oh wh are you, where are you?"

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — There's more than a desire for rest and recreation behind this ocean trip of Roosevelt's.

The president's love for the sea can't possibly be minimized. But those closest to him know that several practical considerations entered into his plans.

He will glad-hand Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Hawaii, and in each case tell the islanders about their share in the New Deal. He will meet the presidents of Panama, Colombia, and Haiti and radiate the Roosevelt charm through them to the rest of Latin America.

Some of his advisers privately compare this trip to Herbert Hoover's pre-inauguration "good will tour" to Central and South America in 1928.

Administration commercial policy now looks toward Latin America and Asia rather than Europe. You can bear in mind that Puerto Rico, a Spanish country under our flag, may be considered our outpost in Latin America.

The Spanish-speaking republics, feeling a close bond, have always kept an eye on the island and watched our course of action there—a fact always remembered in this capital.

IF you want to settle a strike—take it to church.

Even before an archbishop had been named as chief mediator for the Pacific longshoremen's strike and a priest assigned to the Milwaukee street car walkout, Mediator Frank Bowen of the National Labor Board had come back from a packinghouse strike in Oklahoma with that recipe.

The striking butcher boys were a hard-boiled lot and several folk had been sent to hospitals. Bowen had a settlement to offer, but anticipated plenty of trouble keeping them quiet long enough to permit it to be explained.

Other places being refused by owners who feared for the furniture, the strikers were finally gathered into a church.

Instead of rioting, the butchers seemed awed. Some seemed to be exploding with either wrath or tobacco juice, but all listened attentively.

They accepted the settlement without a single cuss word and stayed to clean up after the meeting.

UNDERSECRETARY TUGWELL wrote a letter in longhand and sent photostat copies to all employes of the Food and Drug Administration. He condoled over failure of the food and drugs act, and promised the fight for it would be renewed when Congress reconvened.

Tugwell didn't say so, but the administration's battle for the bill will be far stronger than its effort last session. The measure will be even stiffer than the original Tugwell bill, if only on the theory that margin is needed for purposes of "trading" with the opposition.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, whose efforts to get a bill passed didn't excite any widespread admiration, won't be entrusted with the job next January. The Food and Drug people found other friends in the Senate who they believe will be more effective.

Meanwhile, work has begun on a new "chamber of horrors" through which the administration will demonstrate deadly effects of certain poisonous cosmetics and fake patent medicines.

Things you may not know—about your telephone

The little group of men who aided Alexander Graham Bell in the invention of the telephone is perpetuated today in many of the policies, and even in the form of organization of the telephone service. Bell himself, the research worker, has for example been succeeded by Bell Telephone Laboratories, whose scientists have contributed innumerable inventions and improvements to the telephone art.

Thomas A. Watson, who made the first telephones, was the forerunner of the Western Electric Co., supply unit of the Bell System. From its shops the equipment and supplies needed by the 24 associated Bell companies are furnished at a cost which, as a proven fact, is lower than would be charged on the open market. As a telephone user, you profit indirectly, but definitely, by these savings.

Gardiner G. Hubbard, first business adviser of the infant telephone industry, has been replaced by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., parent organization of the Bell System. A.T.&T. staff experts develop more economical operating methods for the associated companies of the system. Its financing facilities make available, at a saving, funds for necessary additions to telephone lines and equipment.

FOR YOU...Good Service at Fair Cost

Not only were the beginnings of the present form of organization of the telephone service, with units for research, for manufacture, for business and financial guidance, to be found in this handful of pioneers . . . the source of many of the policies of the Bell System lies there as well.

Thus, for more than 50 years the savings from a specialized telephone organization have gone, not to swell profits, but to give good telephone service at a fair cost to the user.

This policy has been adopted because we feel that, from your standpoint as much as from our own, it is sound and workable. In an undertaking planned like the telephone service for the long pull, we believe that what is best for the telephone subscriber becomes in the end the course that will bring us the surer, more enduring success.

DISTRIBUTION OF PROFIT BIG TVA PROBLEM

By DR. ARTHUR E. MORGAN
Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority
(Written for the United Press)

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 12 — Fundamentally, in the Tennessee valley, as in other parts of the country, the heart of the business problem is the distribution of profits. Over and over again in the world's history we have had a large economic surplus without the development of general well-being. Egypt had great over-production, but the people lived in mud huts and the tremendous surplus was used to build the biggest pile of stones the world ever has seen. Alexander the Great found a surplus and Napoleon found a surplus, but each of them made the surplus produce tragedy.

Excessive concentration of production ina few places, with excessive lack of resources in many places, is not a good basis for social planning. We must have the determination that as we increase production and as we eliminate waste, the increase shall be the heritage of the whole people.

Salvation of Small Investors

The little industries have been trying desperately to work out their salvation alone. They can't afford the kind of technical service that large industries can. They cannot afford good marketing or accounting service. Our small industries, and our farmers, should have the advantage of professional counsel and advice.

They might plan to get together in co-operative organization to provide such services. They may be able, by pooling their resources, to bring in people who are exceptionally able in their fields, and thus develop their small industries along more scientific lines. It may thus be possible to get the same degree of effectiveness in a small industry as in a large one. Then the small proprietor can survive as well as the branch of a great corporation, because he has the added advantage of direct interest. We have seen that work out in California, where over half of the agricultural products of the state are sold co-operatively.

Drawn by Cheap Labor

When industries have come into the Tennessee valley they have come in primarily with the thought of cheap labor. Since we have begun work there, their representatives have come to us and said, in effect, "We know just what we want to do there, we see that as a reason of cheap power and cheap labor, and we can make a lot of money there." Great industries have been built up where people are gatherd togther in factory towns. Sometimes living conditions have been carefully considered. Sometimes they have been neglected. The old culture is dstroyed and no new culture is established. The greatest resource of any country is the culture of its people.

Another source of great waste is incompetent business management. In the Southland are small towns, small industries, small businesses; but the small industrial man cannot keep up and compete with great industries. I believe economic planning should make skilled men available to small industries, so that good business methods, good accounting methods, good distribution methods may become widespread, and so that the self-respecting individualism of the people of that region can survive in the face of mass production methods.

ROMNEY

Tuesday, June 26, the Romney Home Demonstration club met with 15 members and three visitors present. Some small details of business were attended to; a new council member was elected to take the place of Mrs. C. L. Carmichael, who was recently elected president.

Some interesting discussions on canning were heard.

The meeting adjourned, and was followed by a double shower for Mrs. Don Maynard and Mrs. Harold Brawner. Each lady received some very pretty and useful things, and each gift that one received was almost exactly duplicated by what the other got.

On Tuesday afternoon July 3, there was a called meeting of the club at the home of Mrs. J. B. Webb for a cake-baking demonstration. Among the points emphasized by Miss Ramey were: Level measurements, sifting of flour before measuring, the use of good materials and careful unhurried mixing. The cake was a delicious success.

On Saturday evening June 30, a community social sponsored by the Home Demonstration club, was held at the schoolhouse, and games were enjoyed by a small crowd.

Afterward, Miss Ramey inspected a foundation pattern, and gave details of the colthing contest to be held at Eastland July 14. Final touches were put on plans for the ice cream social to be given the following Thursday night. The meeting then adjourned.

On Thursday night, July 5, the club gave an ice cream social on the school ground, with candidates speaking by county and district candidates as a special feature. Much interest was shown by the large crowd, and we are glad to say that everyone seemed to thoroughly enjoy the occasion.

Aside from the social success of the affair, the club realized a nice profit from the sale of ice cream and we take this means of saying we are very grateful to the many who helped in different ways.

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

Of all the deliciously simple and simply delicious concoctions in the category of summer foods, fruit granites come first. Chilled to the nth degree without the actual forming of ice crystals, granites are refreshing and decidedly cooling.

To make a granite a heavy syrup is combined with fruit juice and water and the mixture is half frozen. It always is liquid enough to drink, but so thoroughly chilled that it just misses being an ice. Chill it until it looks white with frost and ice crystals gather against the sides of the mold.

The combinations are almost countless for these granites. All the canned fruits and most of the fresh ones can be used singly or in combination. With canned fruit always available, one is not dependent on the local markets and any flavor can be chosen for the drink. The combination of fresh and canned fruit produces many novel flavors that are delightful.

Berry Granites

Berry granites are seasonal and easy to prepare. Wash and drain one quart of berries. Put into a deep bowl and cover with 2 cups granulated sugar. Mash and cover with a clean towel. Let stand two or three hours. Extract all the juice and strain through a fine wire sieve or cheese cloth. Add two cups of water, pouring it through the fruit pulp. Pour into a mold and freeze. Serve with a garnish of mint.

All fresh fruits are used this way, the highly sweetened juice, diluted with water, is half frozen.

Canned fruits must be cooked with additional sugar to make a heavy syrup, crushing the fruit as it cooks. Then the syrup is strained and combined with water as for fresh fruit.

You can use jelly, too. Combine it with a citrus friut juice. Orange, lemon, lime and grapefruit juices all are good and each produces a distinctive davor. Currant jelly and orange juice, blackberry jelly and lemon juice, red raspberry and lime—these are a few combinations that will suggest others to you. Use one large glass or standard measuring cup of jelly to one cup of fruit juice, 1-2 cup sugar and 3 cups water. A tart juice such as lemon may require up to one cup of sugar. Make a syrup of the sugar and water by boiling them for 10 minutes. Add jelly and when cool add fruit juice. Strain and freeze.

Plums Good Choice

This may seem like a large amount of sugar, but as extreme cold has a tendency to deaden the taste, these drinks must be made extra sweet before chilling.

Plums make a zestful granite. Add a few whole cloves and a two-inch stick of cinnamon broken in small pieces when making the syrup. Red, yellow or blue, they make a rich fragrant beverage. Cook them just enough for the juice to flow freely, pour over the prepared syrup and let stand until cool before straining and freezing.

If the granite is to be chilled in a crankless freezer, use three parts crushed ice to one part ice cream salt and let stand one hour. To hasten the chilling process, scrape down the edges of the mixture as it freezes.

MYERS SOUGHT IN HOUSTON AS CAR IS FOUND

HOUSTON, July 12 —Police here today sought Neal Myers, University of Oklahoma student wanted for questioning in the death of Marian Mills, 20-year-old student and beauty queen in Norman, Okla.

Miss Mills was believed a victim of an attempt to prevent maternity.

An automobile found in the west end section of the city contained a suitcase. Papers and clothing in the suitcase bore the name of Myers and gave a Norman address, police said.

Police found the machine after J. H. Stephenson reported he saw a young man abandon it.

Stephenson told police he was driving home last night when he saw an automobile parked near another car with a youth standing near by.

He said he stopped to investigate and the youth jumped into one of the cars and fled. Stephenson said he followed and when about to overtake the automobile, the youth abandoned the machine and fled into the woods.

Police searched the vicinity but failed to locate the youth.

A package which contained a prescription from a Norman pharmacy for N. H. Myers also was found.

There was an envelope addressed to Dr. D. P. Myers of El Reno, Okla. In it police said they found a number of yellow five-grain pills and several purple and pink pills.

Mr. Campbell took occasion to review briefly the history of the club's organization and to tell some anecdotes of its early days.

Mr. Pettit responded with a brief statement in which he declared that the experience of the presidency of a Rotary club is one that will make a better Rotarian and a better citizen of a man, and thanked the club for the gift.

TEXAS DROUTH RELIEF SHARE UNFAIR, CHARGE

FORT WORTH, July 12.—Texas has been "roundly gypped" by federal relief agencies in allocation of drouth relief funds, Cong. Fritz Lanham and Dr. Lewis C. Crabb, chief of the state livestock sanitary commission, said today.

Political pressure evidently must have been brought to bear in some quarters, Crabb said.

"I can see no other reason," he said. "why should Colorado with a June rainfall 81 per cent normal receive an even $1,000,000 while Texas with rainfall at 23 per cent receives $750,000?

"It is absolutely unfair. The allocations should have been made, after considering rainfall, on the basis of the cattle census which shows that the 6,000,000 recorded in Texas are about twice as many as in any other state."

Lanham joined Dr. Crabb in the protest:

"It seems plainly apparent that Texas did not get a fair deal. I am taking the matter up with relief headquarters in Washington."

2 QUESTIONED IN A. G. MOTOR CO. BURGLARY

Two youths, one of whom faces possible charges of burglary, were questioned by Cisco police today in connection with a burglary of the A. G. Motor company, Chevrolet dealers, here last night.

WHEAT FUTURE SERIOUS GRAIN EXPERTS FIND

CHICAGO, July 11. — Grain experts, after studying the new government crop estimates, were frankly pessimistic Wednesday regarding the wheat situation in the United States.

Statisticians predicted that wheat in America's surplus bins would be at a dangerously low level and that by July 1, 1935, this country would be forced onto an import basis.

There was spontaneous trading on yesterday's market, but as the buyers' enthusiasm grew the sellers became fewer and fewer until near the close there was almost no trading. Holders of wheat decided to keep on holding it for higher prices.

BIDS CLIMB, BUT TRADING NIL

FORT WORTH, July 12.—Wheat bids rose several cents on the Fort Worth market yesterday, reaching $1.04 a bushel for No. 1 hard wheat There was no trading, however, as holders preferred to keep their wheat in hope of a further rise.

AAA SOLE HOPE OF MANY FARMERS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.—Drouth has robbed western soil of 216,000,000 bushels of wheat and wheat farmers of $162,000,000, analysis of agriculture department crop reports showed yesterday.

The only income of many farms this year will be AAA benefit money, paid for acreage limitations which the drouth made insignificant. They will get nothing from the sale of their crops because they have nothing to sell.

A small number of producers will benefit from the drouth and consequent crop shortage which have caused a price boom.

RESIGNATIONS ANNOUNCED BY COUNTY AGENT

Resignation of several members of County Crop Production Control association committees were announced this week by County Agent J. C. Patterson.

They included those of L. Y. Morris, Eastland, from the corn-hog committee; John Simth, Okra, from the cotton committee, and Dick Brown, Rising Star, from the corn-hog committee. Patterson also said that Mr. Morris' resignation from the county emergency crop loan committee had been accepted by Murrah Nolte, field supervisor for the emergency crop loan office.

"It is the estalbished policy of the Agricultural Adjustment administration and the Farm Credit administration," Patterson explained, "that men who have entered the political field should not be held on committees on which they were serving at little or no compensation when there is possibility that this service rendered unselfishly might handicap them in their respective political aspirations, or when they might be called back to committee service when engaged in seeking support at the polls.

"I wish to publicly express appreciation of the efficient and unselfish service rendered by each of these men while serving on their respective committees."

No announcement was made of sucessors.

National Park Near Fort Worth Planned

FORT WORTH, July 12 — The federal government is contemplating construction of a 2,000 acre national park near here.

The park may be developed in the Eagle Mountain area, about 12 miles northwest of Fort Worth. It would serve the Dallas-Fort Worth-Wichita Falls sector as a recreation ground.

Federal government agents will come here shortly to discuss the project and look over the prospects, according to Harry J. Adams, superintendent of parks here.

The project would be carried out by the Emergency Conservation Works administration which is constructing national parks over the nation, Adams said. Adams said he would recommend the Eagle Mountain Lake territory.

Besides providing a recreation ground after its construction the project would provide work for several hundred needy men, Adams said.

Book by Austin Is Displayed at Houston

HOUSTON, July 12 — What is believed to be the most beautiful book book ever printed in the Southwest is on display at the Houston public library. The book is entitled "Three Manuscript Maps of Texas," by Stephen F. Austin.

The book, 18 inches long and 12 inches wide, with 55 pages bound in brown, contains reading matter principally biographical and biographical notes by Carlos E. Castanedo, Latin-American librarian.

The book was privately printed in Austin by Earl Martin, Jr. The typographical design is by Charles C. Rains and the first five copies printed have plates hand colored on Japanese vellum and special bindings. The edition is limited to 55 numbered and signed copies.

The piece de resistance of the volume is a group of three maps prepared by the "Father of Texas" in a fascimile. One of the maps is said to have been unknown until this publication. The volume also presents a critical study of the early cartography, listing 34 manuscript maps.

CAMPAIGN FOR GOVERNOR IN CRUCIAL WEEK

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, July 12.—Another week should settle the outcome of the governor's race in Texas.

The result may not be apparent that soon, but the campaign will have taken definite trends which will determine the result.

By the end of the week these questions will be answered:

1—How much of the "Ferguson vote" can Jim Ferguson hold for C. C. McDonald, and has he the physical strength to go through with his speaking schedule?

2—Is the reported "Small wave" a tidal sweep or scattered ripples?

3—Will those who want the liquor question settled get behind Maury Hughes to produce an out-and-out battle over prohibition repeal in the run-off primary?

4—Has Tom Hunter held the 220,000 votes he received in the 1932 campaign or added enough to put him in the run-off?

5—Will Allred or Hunter get the biggest labor support?

6—Will Small or Edgar Witt be the final choice of the conservatives?

7—Has Hunter won the Bohemian vote that once was largely pro-Ferguson?

8—Does Allred retain his political sex-appeal?

9—Has Russell taken any considerable dry vote from Allred?

Answers Point Winners

If anyone can answer those questions correctly, he can determine, pretty surely, who will be contenders in the August run-off.

Ferguson has been getting good crowds and speaking well. He opened at Itasca, which is the very spot where he closed the successful campaign of 1914 that made him governor. He is speaking at night to avoid day talks in the heat. Cuero is the exception and an afternoon date there has been pushed back to late evening.

Ferguson's support in past campaigns failed to elect L. J. Wardlaw, Earle Mayfield and Alvin Owsley, but he did not take the stump for them in a three-weeks tour as he is for McDonald.

Hunter says the "Small wave" is always in some other part of the state than that in which the claimant happens to be. In east Texas, Hunter says, you are told Small is strong in west Texas; in south Texas you learn he is strong in north Texas, and so on.

Shifts to Small

Hunter, at least, admits the existence of the reports and his turning from attacks on Allred to Small indicates the Amarillo senator has moved within his political vision.

"The state's wet, as shown by the beer vote, and Hughes can beat Allred in a run-off on the repeal issue," is the Hughes rallying cry. It would be a campaign, his supporters say, not affected by the Ferguson-Anti-Ferguson division implied in a race between McDonald and Allred on the liquor question.

The answer to Question No. 4 depends on whether votes two years ago were cast "for certain candidates" or just "against" Governor Ross S. Sterling.

Hunter is reported choice of the oil field workers, and there are about 50,000 of them to vote. Allred seems to be favored by other large labor groups. No candidate can claim a solid labor support.

Ends Test Period

The week's end will also end a three-week test period said to have been set by a considrable group to determine if they would center on Witt or Small. Hearsay puts the meeting of the group at an Austin hotel and makes it politically strong.

Hughes, apparently, fears that Hunter is getting the Bohemian vote. At Austin he said that Hunter was the first candidate to be dry in English and wet in Bohemian.

Allred's personal vote appeal is to a political campaign what the sex appeal of some movie stars is to the boxoffice. It's undefinable, but it's there and it gets results.

"Even his best friend" would tell Russell that he has no chance to get into the August run-off. He may get 25,000 votes. If Russell were not running and those 25,000 should go in a lump to some other candidate, they probably would decide who will go into the run-off.

31.4 Per Cent Cut In Cotton Acreage

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.—The year's cotton acreage was estimated at 28,024,000 on July 1, or 31.4 per cent under that on the corresponding date in 1933, the agricultural department reported Monday.

The voluntary production control program and a restricting influence of the Bankhead act on planters who did not sign contracts chiefly were responsible for the lower acreage, the department said.

Texas on July 1, 1934, had in cultivation 10,914,000 acres as compared with 16,050,000 last July.

MOVEMENT FOR CLEAN PICTURES IS UNDERTAKEN

HOUSTON, July 12.—A movement to boycott indecent motion pictures shown in Houston has been started here by the Legion of Decency.

The legion called for 20,000 Houstonians to assist in the drive against salacious movies by pledging themselves not to attend.

The Legion of Decency was organized locally last week when sentiment throughout the state began to be voiced publicly.

Favorable reaction to the campaign and to the legion, sponsored by the Catholic clergy, is growing.

The Rev. George A. Wilhelm, pastor of the Holy Name Catholic church and leader of the movement here for cleaner movies, said he was promised cooperation from the Ministerial Alliance and the Baptist Pastor's conference.

Plans of the legion are to boycott the theater that insists on billing movies considered "indecent" until the management agrees to "clean up" the Rev. Mr. Wilhelm said.

"Real Need"

"Cleaner movies are a real need and I am sure favorable reaction will be forthcoming from the Alliance," Secretary F. C. Fields said. "We have discussed the matter and find that the project has our sympathy. We hope the force of public opinion will aid us to get cleaner movies and to uphold all morals."

The movies, Father Wilhelm said, are getting steadily worse, coming to "a climax this past spring with a number of indecent films.

"It was only through such a legion that the drive against these indecent pictures could be made successful."

"For years we have been urging the motion picture industry to cut out the rough stuff," he said. "But they laughed at us. We know that decent shows draw better crowds than salacious ones, and we will prove that to the movie people with our Legion of Decency."

The Legion is getting millions of signatures from right thinking people all over the nation, he said, and 20,000 pledge cards are being distributed in Houston.

Father Wilhelm said he was certain similar legions would be organized soon in other Texas cities which he understood were making similar clean-up drives.

"The movies have a wonderful opportunity for presenting worthwhile shows, but they have been debauched and put in the honky-tonk class," he asserted.

"Something terrible has happened to America since the World war, some sort of moral breakdown. It is time for America to wake up and get over the jazz age.

"We should end this deluge of rotten movies, indecent dances that have been introduced here from South America, and other phases of immoral attitudes."

The Legion of Decency leader added that in order to do this there should be an effort made toward temperance.

"I don't mean prohibition, because while that is a fine ideal, we know it is not practical."

PROTESTANTS JOIN DRIVE

NEW YORK, July 12—The largest Protestant church organization in the United States has entered the fight to purify the movies by boycott.

The Federal Council of Churches of Christ planned a campaign to pledge Protestants not to patronize movie houses displaying pictures offending against accepted morality.

Council executives predicted as many Protestants would pledge themselves for pure movies as had been pledged by the Legion of Decency, a nation-wide movement started by Catholics but not confined to members of that faith.

NEARLY SEVEN BILLIONS FOR WAR ON SLUMP

WASHINGTON, D. ., July 12. — The United States government has $6,670,675,405, or $53 for every man, woman and child in the country, available to fight the depression and provide relief over the next 12 months, the treasury reported Tuesday.

To speed up trials, Justice McClendon advocated deleting of trivial and remote issues from district court trials.

Love Story of Two Centuries Ago Is Living In Portraits in Home of Houston Woman

By THOMAS O. HURST
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOUSTON, July 12.—A love story of more than two centuries ago lives again in portraits hanging in the home of Miss Anna M. Platte of Houston.

The characters are Johann, aristocratic soldier high in the favor of his king, and Isolde, dark-eyed Belgian lady, whose beauty won Johann's heart. Their happiness was brief and beset with many complications.

Johann was the brother of one of Miss Platte's ancestors.

The love of Johann and Isolde was a flame too bright and beautiful to be extinguished by years of separation and homelessness. Rather than extinguish it by resuming her everyday life without the man she loved, Isolde became a nun.

Johann continued true to his love for Isolde and never married.

The soldier, whose full name was Johann Christoph Petzold, was a favorite of Ernest Augustus, elector of Hanover, who went to England in 1714 to descend the throne as George I, Miss Platte said.

Marriage between Johann and Isolde was forbidden by her parents, for Isolde was a Roman Catholic and Johann was a staunch Protestant. Isolde's parents learned of secret meetings of the two lovers and placed the girl in a convent. Before she left she gave Johann an ivorry minature of herself.

Months passed without word from Johann, then one day Isolde was told that he was married, and that she might return home. Instead she took the vows of the nun who had been her only companions during her loneliness.

It was not until several years later that, in a chance meeting with a servant of Isolde's family, that Johann learned where his sweetheart was. It was too late.

Johann, so the story goes, returned to England and had the ivory minature of Isolde copied by a portrait painter. But the painting gave the brown eyes a light so lifelike that it revived the old pain. Finally Johann took the painting back to the artist and asked that the eyes be covered with a veil that would partially conceal them.

So today the two pictures hang on opposite walls, the serious face of the handsome soldier turned toward the strange sight of a beautiful woman whose gently smiling lips and patrician nose are the only visable parts of her face under the veil, a symbol of the sacrifice the beautiful Belgian girl made for her love.

The paintings were brought to America in 1871 by Miss Platte's father. The name of the artist appears on the bottom of the canvasses but is too blurred to be intelligible. And Miss Platte does not know who painted them.

RECOVERY OF GOLD IN LAKE IS EXPECTED

HOUSTON, July 12.—Recovery of $4,000,000 worth of Mexican gold bars said to have been resting in the quick sand at the bottom of Fish Hook lake for nearly 100 years is expected within the next few weeks, according to Henry C. Barnes of Houston, who is directing the search.

Barnes said he and members of the searching party actually have felt the gold or some metallic substance with prod poles. He said it was resting in the quick sand 22 feet below the surface. He said it would be necessary to sink a plank enclosed shaft to it.

Quicksand seeping in at the bottom of the shaft will be disposed of by pumping water and the quicksand out one side of the shaft, he explained.

Salvaging of the gold will mark the end of a search started 30 years ago when an injured Mexican gave a map, drawn on a goat skin, supposed to show the exact location of the gold bars. The bars were said to have been thrown into the lake by the Mexican army about 10 days before the battle of San Jacinto.

The Mexican was dying, Barnes said, and was grateful favors shown him by the American.

Failed to Give Lake Site

Barnes said the map showed the location of the gold but failed to give the site of the lake, the chief clue to which was an anchor cut into a tree by the lakeside.

The treasure hunter searched in vain for the lake and only a few months ago while talking to an old settler learned that such a tree had been found on the banks of Fish Hook lake years ago. The tree since had been cut down by a sawmill company.

The lake and landmarks near it tallied with descriptions on the map, Barnes said.

About a month ago work of draining the lake was started. Barnes and his assistants cut a deep ditch nearly a quarter of a mile long to Spring Creek and the lake was emptied.

Quicksand covering the bottom presented an unforseen obstacle for the hunters.

Hundreds of persons have visited the scene of the fortune hunters operations.

Fish Hook lake may be reached by way of Cyvress, and following signs to the lake, about three miles from Rose Hill.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 12.—J. S. Wieman, state entomologist, recently came into possession of a strange paristic mossy growth on the stem of a wild rose where the flower ordinarily should be. Plaything Lending Library Developed To Discourage Children Theft of Toy

NEW YORK, July 12.—"No more need for children to steal toys."

That's the slogan for the model lending library for playthings which has been opened at the Heckscher Foundation here. With the aim to make playthings which are necessary for normal development available to slum children.

"We want to turn Santa Claus into an every day friend of poor youngsters, a friend who brings toys they can really use, instead of a once a year visitor with a Christmas grab bag," said Mrs. Rose Schwartz, director of the toy library. "Each child will be permitted to take a toy at a time and will be carefully instructed in its uses. When he brings back the plaything, he will be permitted to draw out another suitable to his age and capabilities.

"We aim to make the Heckscher Foundation Toy Lending library a model for similar centers throughout the country which will make constructive play opportunity available to slum children. "We have obtained CWA workers to disinfect toys that are returned.

"For outdoor play roller skates, scooters, sidewalk bicycles, express wagons, doll carriages, velocipedes, kiddie cars, balls, baseball bats, rubber horse shoes and all sorts of games are being collected. Construction sets, blackboards, sewing materials, dolls, trains, carpentry sets, chemistry sets, toys that reproduce industrial and housekeeping tasks, picture books, handicraft sets and building blocks are among the play essentials that are being collected to educate the under-privileged children.

"Playgrounds have already provided the slum child with an outlet for his energy that is better than the streets. But social servcie has neglected the child's home life. We could not possibly keep all of them. So we have compromised by the lending library idea."

GIRL'S DEATH IS MYSTERY AT OKLAHOMA U.

NORMAN, Okla., July 12. — The woman in whose little duplex apartment Marian Mills, 20, University of Oklahoma student, was found mysteriously dead was ordered held yesterday as a material witness in the strange campus tragedy.

Search continued for Neal Myers, 21, student from El Reno, believed to have been the last person to see the girl alive.

County Att'y Paul Updegraff said Mrs. Hazel Brown, cook for the Delta Upsilon fraternity, had told him verbally she had counselled the boy in efforts to prevent maternity for the girl.

The body of Miss Mills, once chosen University beauty queen, was found fully clothed and without marks of violence on a bed in Mrs. Brown's apartment late Tuesday.

Myers had disappeared after summoning a doctor. An autopsy was performed but no finding had been revealed.

Investigators found quantities of quinine and castor oil, as well as other medicines, in the Brown home. Mrs. Brown told the county attorney that she knew the campus beau had been taking the first two preparations but not the others.

She said Myers had come to see her during the spring, asking if she knew any doctors. She said she gave him the name of one in Oklahoma City. The boy and girl were her guests Monday night, according to her story.

Miss Mills was a graduate student seeking a master of arts degree.

Her father, M. Elbert Mills, is a veteran professor of engineering at the university. Neither he nor the girl's mother could throw any light on the puzzling death.

MEET GUY BUSH...star pitcher for the Chicago Cubs! Guy won 20 games last year...pitched in all 264 innings...and he's pitching at an .800 clip this year. Like many athletes, Guy has found that at the end of a gruelling match, nothing brings back his energy and vitality like a Camel.

YOU TOO can increase Vim and Energy...quickly!

When you feel "used up"—smoke a Camel! Fatigue and irritability fade away. Your flow of natural energy snaps back to a higher level in a few minutes.

This experience is well known to millions of Camel smokers. It has been confirmed by a famous New York research laboratory.

Take for example Guy Bush. There's a lesson in what Guy has to say about the "energizing effect" in Camels:

"Bases full, one out, and a strike. I'm watching the bases and the batter, too. Now I've got to pitch. The pitch—and it's two strikes! Will he strike out? You think so...and yet you can't tell. Baseball is full of tough spots that take it out of a pitcher who works his regular turn and stands up to the grind for seven long months. Like most of the big-league pitchers, I smoke Camels. And when I come out of a game after nine hard innings there's nothing that lifts up my energy the way a Camel does. I feel freshened up in no time at all. I smoke a lot. Camels never interfere with my nerves!"

Learn to "get a lift with a Camel" whenever your energy runs low. Smoke as constantly as you like. The finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS in Camels never upset the nerves.

CAMEL'S Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

● Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS — Turkish and Domestic — than any other popular brand.

T. C. WILLIAMS ASKS SUPPORT FOR CO. SUP'T

T. C. Williams, candidate for county superintendent of public instruction, today issued the following statement with respect to the platform upon which he seeks election to that office:

To the People of Eastland County:

My name has been in the announcement columns of the Eastland county papers for six or eight months and I desire to make a brief statement to the voters of Cisco and Eastland county. The office of county school superintendent is a very important county office. It pays $2,800 per year including traveling expenses. The term is four years. To ask for a second term for this office, therefore, is to ask for eight years. I would like to be your next county school superintendent of Eastland county schools.

I have been associated with the elementary schools during the past 10 or 12 years as elementary principal and have possibly taught more children than any other principal who has ever worked with the Cisco schools. I have tried to take an individual interest in the welfare of every boy and girl with whom it has been my pleasure to work. I believe that I have the universal good will and support of those with whom I have worked and have had the opportunity to know.

I believe that our greatest school problems are not the one teacher schools, the poorly equipped school building—bad as they are—but our greatest school problems are a lack of harmony, a lack of cooperation, a lack of common understanding. The state department of education has a vision of educational advancement. It is trying to put on a progressive educational program that will raise the standards and provide better educational opportunities and advantages for the boys and girls of the entire county. Possibly mistakes have been and will continue to be made but I believe the greatest trouble is a lack of correctly interpreting the plan and program at this end of the line.

Policy

My policy is that the office of county school superintendent is an office that belongs to the people and should serve all alike. I believe that a government is safer the closer it is to the people. I believe in the principals of democracy, that the people should rule. I do not believe that I would be worthy of the support of the people if I should publicly or privately attempt to array one section of the country against the other one interest against the other, or one indivdual against the other. A public servant should serve all alike.

Nothing is more gratifying to any candidate than to be able to carry his or her home voting box with a substantial majority. I am therefore making this earnest appeal to the voters of my home for their loyal support. I would like very, very much to be your next county school superintendent. I promise if elected to work diligently and to do my dead level best to do the right thing for all alike and to strive to help in any way to provide equal educational advantages and opportunities for the boys and girls regardless of where they live.

Today's Live News For Fat Folks

3 Great Letters Read Them All

From all over the country—north—south—east—west come letters of praise for the world's safe and healthful enemy of fat—don't miss these 3 letters.

"I am using Kruschen Salts on advice of my Doctor. Have used three bottles and lost 15 lbs., and gladly recommend it to all my friends." Mrs. G. W. Bryant, Foxboro, Mass., 1934.

"I am using your Kruschen Salts for constipation and reducing Have taken 3 jars and have lost about 20 lbs. I can recommend it to be great." Miss A. J. Harber, Pineville, Ky., 1934.

"I have taken 3 bottles of Kruschen. I weighed 256, I reduced 56 lbs., and felt better each day, have got my 4th bottle." Ed Jordon, Leveen, Ariz., 1934.

If you are proud of your double chin and bulging abdomen don't take Kruschen Salts. Ed Jordon made up his mind to take off 50 or more pounds of fat—and he did—Ed was sick and tired of lugging it around with him—persistency won for Ed as it will for any fat man.

A half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—get Kruschen at Moore Drug Co. or any drugstore.—Adv.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

THERE exists a mathematical relation between the weight of the human body and the amount of venom which it can normally neutralize. The smaller the body, the less venom it can withstand. For this reason, a child must have a larger dose of serum to combat snake bite poisoning.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

TRAINING trotters and pacers requires vastly more skill and patience than preparing running horses for the races.

You have this from Walter Randall Cox, who has worried along with both, and who hopped from his father's butcher cart at Manchester, N. H., 50 years ago, and has been harnessed to harness horses ever since. At 65, the sun-baked New Englander is the dean of active owners and conditioners of the standard bred.

"Thoroughbreds are born to run. Some simply are faster than others. In the end, all that really matters is condition.

"On the other hand, some of the greatest trotters and pacers are helpless at the outset. They have to acquire their gaits, and in order to do so be perfectly balanced.

Horse Makes Driver

"I NEVER cared a great deal about pacers, although I would like to have had one like Dan Patch or Directum I.

"The fact that many of them have to be hobbled—encircled by a strap above their knees and hock—illustrates how unnatural their gait is. Hobbled pacers usually remain hobbled until they go postward for the last time. Otherwise, they'd break. Hobbled, there is nothing left for them to do but pace."

Cox, who retired as a driver a couple of years ago, long was one of the foremost reinsmen.

Hence the question, "How important is the driver?"

"Well, horses have to be rated, and there's lots in going short miles," replied Cox. "When you drive a horse outside the race track, you aren't going anywhere, but the best answer to that query is the crack of Cooky Martin, a wag at Columbus.

"Someone remarked that Peter the Great had sired a lot of 2:10 trotters.

"'Yes,' cut in Cooky, 'and he also sired a lot of 2:10 drivers.'"

Can't Earn Expenses

LIKE all other grizzled hands at the sulky sport, Cox bemoans the runners having taken the play away from the trotters. Although the principal reason is that running races are speedier and more colorful, the old-timers offer various others, including exploitation.

"One of the drawbacks in our game is the lack of substantial purses for aged horses," asserted Cox. "Why, Calumet Crusader and Vansandt, the two fine five-year-old stallions who met in the match race at North Randall, Cleveland, on July 4, cannot possibly earn enough in purses to pay expenses in the entire trip around the Grand Circuit.

"Our futurities remain rich enough, although generally they, too, are being reduced in value.

"But it was the free-for-all trots that brought out the people in the good old days. Show them the horses and they'll come, as they did in 1922, when Great Volo, Lee Worthy, Czar Worthy, Peter the Brewer, Great Britain, and some more wrote fast times into the books as they trotted it out all the way along the route."

CROP INSURANCE

Old Man Drouth, pitiless ally of nature's efforts to keep production balanced with consumption, has joined forces this season with man's ambitious campaign to reduce surpluses in basic agricultural commodition and restore a profitable market to the farmer. But where man's program is based upon a theory of universal equity, Old Man Drouth wields a scythe with respect neither to order nor person. His wasting breath has laid bare innumerable acres of wheat lands, corn lands and cotton lands, while adjoining areas have become enriched with crops that command a higher price as a result of this curtailment by natural causes.

There are only about 28,000,000 acres planted to cotton in the United States this season, a figure that compares with the 27,110,000 acres planted in 1905, the lowest figure furnished by the present century.

The government's program of acreage control, taking form first as a voluntary sign-up campaign and latterly as a Bankhead act equipped with a legal stinger for the recalcitrant, had much to do with this reduction; although it is probable that most of the acreage was already seeded before the application of the Bankhead act's provisions was effectively known. The voluntary campaign, in which farmers entered into contract with the secretary of agriculture to reduce their acreage in return for certain bonus or rental payments coupled with the effects of the drouth and the progressive influence of years of poor prices and over production, served the most, therefore, to reduce the amount of soil devoted to the staple. On the basis of the average production, the 28,000,000 acres should yield somewhat less than the 10,000,000-bale figure at which the banking bill aims.

While the Bankhead bill specifically may not be given so much of actual credit for the reduction, it insures benefits to the growers that the ruthless effects of the drouth would not have provided otherwise. Combined with the bonus payments provided for those who entered into the voluntary contracts prior to its adoption, the bill gives the grower a form of crop insurance, so that even those who fail to produce any cotton at all may derive an income from the sale of the tax exemption certificates that they are to be awarded on the basis of 60 per cent of their average cotton production over the five-year period, 1928-1932. Those who signed reduction contracts will also receive rentals on the land they removed from production. With these benefits, the cotton grower may face the prospect of an utter failure this season with some protection against the experience of the past, when high commodity markets caught the grower without anything to sell.

LIVESTOCK BOOSTED OVER BILLION DOLLARS

Texas has or had $1,000,000,000 invested in the livestock industry. Indeed, livestock was the first basic industry of the commonwealth. Then cotton relegated it to a second place. Petroleum development came in. Now petroleum is the king industry of Texas. Figures compiled by the Institute of American Meat Packers demonstrate approximately $1,640,000,000 was added to the market value of cattle, hogs and sheep on American farms during the first six months of 1934. Value of cattle was enhanced by $1,394,000,000; hogs, $174,000,000 and sheep $72,000,00. These figures do not include hog processing taxes of approximately $107,000,000 which were incurred by the packing industry during the period. A reminder that the Institute of American Meat Packers has a habitat in the city of Chicago, "the greatest packing town of the world." This note goes with the report of the institute: "An improvement in consumer purchasing power and heavier demands for meat and meat products coincident with the reduction in livestock marketing was responsible for the upturn in values." Real facts tell a lot of the story of national recovery, and accurate figures make the climax to the tale.

FIVE GUIDES FOR THE NRA MACHINERY

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson has decided to turn over a large part of running the Blue Eagle machine the balance of the summer to a group of five of his principal subordinates. He will swing around the country, making dozens of speeches. He will try to resell the Blue Eagle and put in a word for the New Deal as a whole at the same time.

Sen. James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois is the chairman of the democratic senate campaign committee. Sen. Lewis is a veteran campaigner. He is a hard hitter. He has let it be known that the department of justice would act at once to punish business interests which he said had conspired to lift the prices of everything." Speaking for the New Deal he said: "This administration has just been able to discover the responsible parties to this conspiracy. It has not had time to take steps to punish it. It will proceed at once to both punish and obstruct this further injustice." It appears to be up to Att'y Gen. Homer S. Cummings. The Connecticut lawyer, head of the department of justice, will not take a vacation this summer. He has his own office load to carry.

F. F. A. ENCAMPMENT

Prospects for the annual Future Farmers of America encampment at Lake Cisco this summer indicate that a record will be established for attendance. The encampment is the oldest and best established of the sort in the state. Last year it drew about 350 boys and their instructors here for three days. The success of the Cisco camp was responsible several years ago for a large number of similar camps over the state, but all but a few of these succumbed in short order. The result was to draw a much greater number to Cisco and to more firmly establish the Lake site here as a center of attraction. These camps, bringing several hundred youngsters here annually, are valuable as advertising features for the lake, and the influence of them is seen in the frequency with which the names of the communities represented appear in lists of subsequent visitors to the site.

Major Achievements of State Rail Commission

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Petroleum is the great treasure wealth of the people of Texas. Petroleum is the greatest of industries in a money sense of the people of Texas. Petroleum is the basic of all industries today and it pays $1,000,000 a day into the pockets of the people, the treasury of the commonwealth and the university and school funds that flow from the empire treasure storehouse of the southwest.

Commr. E. O. Thompson was elected by the people. He is a servant of the people. He is widely known and universally respected. He was a gallant soldier on the battle plains of France. He has ever been a champion of the rights of a state to control its own natural resources. An interview by him should be read by all the people. First, he denounced hot oil runners as "common thieves." More important, he declared that regulations are so effective today that the tactics of the outlaws in the big oil producing fields have been changed. There is a reason for it. He stated it: Illegal oil is so hard to get that the hot oil runners "are resorting to common thievery instead of running hot oil."

He placed before the people of Texas—the people who think and who are patriotc and law abiding, the people who are committed to the immortal doctrines of the fathers and ever for the preservation and the perpetuity of the rights of the state — three major achievements in the year 1934 of his colleagues and the railway commission given to the Texas world by John H. Reagan and James Stephen Hogg and others equally as patriotic and vigilant in battling for the rights of the people and the supremacy of the constitutional rights of a state of the sisterhood. Now what are the achievements. First, stopping hot oil, its evasion of taxes and injury to the oil industry." Second, "added revenue of $108,000,000 a year to Texas by reason of securing more just allowable as part of the national total, the direct result of the fight made by the railroad commission." Third, the most efficient operating ratio and system for east Texas of any field in the nation. Saving the producers $9,000,000 in cost of pumping machinery and getting a higher percentage in ultimate recovery of oil."

Why shouldn't Texas stand guard over its own? Why shouldn't it applaud the achievements of servants elected by all the people — servants how are doing their level best to protect the rights of all; to protect the farmer who has mineral wealth under the surface of his soil; the householder, the royalty holder; the vast army of wage workers employed in the oil fields; the revenues which accrue to the state, to the university fund, to the public school fund and lastly, for the honest and efficient control of a heritage of the people passed on to them by the far seeing patriots and statesmen who laid the mudsills for the Texas of today with a constitution that was to be a guide and a gospel of liberty and equality, speaking of the rights of man, that should be cherished forever by those who came after him?

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

AUSTIN, July 12 — Two people have read into a recent discussion in this column conclusions that were not in fact expressed, and which would have been improper in a comment column. One understood it to voice criticism and disapproval of the training of expert professional social service and relief workers. The other construed it to advocate exclusion of trained people from relief work. Neither view is justified. What was said was that relief administration in its present form is temporary, and is clearly in the hands of those treating it as a financial problem, to be worked out along business lines the best way possible. That in present form, it is not adequate to effect the social readjustments and benefits inherent in long-range professional social service administration.

BROOKS

What was said about training social service workers was that statements credited to one of the imported instructors in an institute at the university —to the general effect that the training institute might as well be abandoned, since non-professional people were directing the relief administration — should not be tolerated, because subversive.

Looking ahead: It is known that out of the temporary emergency wrestling with destitution must come some more permanent form of social service planning and administration. Such service must be in the hands of professionally-trained people.

When the present state relief set up ends in 13 months, some simpler but more permanent supervisory machinery must be set up. It should be a system dealing with causes and sources, rather than with the results only of unemployment and destitution.

It must be in the hands of the most highly-trained technicans.

Planning and execution do not have to be in the same hands. The novelty of the Brain Trust is not that theorists, specialists, planners experts have not always formulated policies and planned courses of action, but rather that the planners have been put in the trenches as administrators and executors as well.

Necessary numbers of professional people must be trained to carry on technical phases of social planning and supervision.

They can be trained and used without conflict, discord and lost motion of clashing and warring with the temporary agencies set up to fed hungry people in an emergency period.

Your plans may be good if you can abandon an exaggerated imagination this morning. Thought is clear, but filled with dreams. The evening is much more practical and suitable to the every day affairs of life. The dinner hour will be the most profitable of the day.

BIRTHDAYS

Be careful of expenses August 18 through August 30. Curb that desire to spend unwisely. You should see an improvement in finance during the last of January, 1935. This should also be a period of pleasure and expansion in social life. Danger August 15. Socially favorable Aug. 9.

LARGEST F. F. A. CAMP IS DUE THIS SUMMER

Between 400 and 500 boys and their teachers are expected in Cisco this summer for the annual FFA encampment at Lake Cisco, J. M. Bird, Cisco vocational instructor, said yesterday. The encampment will begni August 6 for three days.

The pioneer encampment of its kind in the state, the Cisco camp is one of the principal summer gathering places of Future Farmers of America chapter members in Texas. Because of its early start and the admirable features of its location at Lake Cisco, the encampment survived the rigors of the depression period and last year drew about 350 youngsters to Cisco for what was both a record attendance and the most successful gathering of the series that have been held. That attendance represented 26 schools.

Good Response

Mr. Bird mailed out the camp program and instructions to all FFA schools within the Cisco area this week. The mailing was the third batch of literature sent on the encampment, and responses to this advertisement have been encouraging he said. Based on this response, he estimates the number to be here this year at a greater figure than was present last.

As in the past, the boys will sleep in quarters prepared between the buttresses of the Cisco dam. Sections of the dam will be fitted up as a kitchen and dining room. In charge of preparation and serving of meals will be Doyle Williams of Colorado City and Bill Heiser of Breckenridge Other teachers assisting Mr. Bird will be in charge of various contests in FFA proficiency and athletics.

Produce Accepted

Part of the encampment fee this year, said Mr. Bird, will be accepted in the form of produce as listed on the instruction sheet sent out.

The first meal will be served Monday, August 6, at noon. The encampment will break up Wednesday afternoon, August 8.

Principal among the contests will be swimming and diving events in the Lake Cisco Amusement company's big concrete pool, a prime encampment attraction and to which the visitors have access under a liberal arrangement with Albert Hunt, company manager.

There will also be boxing, with contests distributed over a variety of weight classes. Playground baseball, horseshoe pitching and washer pitcher are other contests listed.

Of another character will be contests for the best Future Farmer and the best agricultural student.

Slayer and Victims Are Buried Together

VERA, Texas, July 12—Hollis McGuire and the three members of his family he killed before taking his own life were buried side by side here Saturday.

McGuire, manager of a movie show house, shot his wife and two children, nine and three, to death as they slept Friday. Then he drove to Seymour, and killed himself.

Relatives said McGuire was mentally unbalanced.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., July 12 —An English setter greeted Dr. W. A. Jones, a veterinarian, at his office here recently. The "vet" brushed past it, and went about his business of the day. The dog hung around all day, and when Dr. Jones left, followed. The next morning it was back at the office door again. Intrigued, Dr. Jones examined it and found the dog badly in need of an operation which was promptly performed.

BEAVERTON, Ore., July 12—Tiny jumping bugs, smaller than a pinhead, have been reported in Northern Oregon for the first time. The tertus Caltatorius, or jumping oak bugs, scientifically known as "neurogalls, resemble a hen's egg when examined under a microscope.

NEW PASSENGER PLANE MAY GO 250 MILES HOUR

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 12. — Top speeds of 250 miles an hour for passenger planes were predicted following first tests here of a new creation designed by Ben O. Howard, United Air Lines and famed racing pilot.

The new plane has been under construction here since December at the American Eagle Aircraft factory. The current design provides seating space for four persons including the pilot.

It is powered with a 420 horsepower Wasp motor. The builders believe that with attachment of a supercharger, a top speed of 300 miles could be attained.

Wings are covered with plywood and the fuselage is covered with metal, plywood and fabric. It has a 31 foot wing span and measures 24½ feet in length.

Many Features

Howard incorporated many features in the new ship discovered through his experience as a racing pilot.

In 1930 Howard built "Pete," a small white monoplane, which he won honors with at the Cleveland National Air Races that year. The cockpit was so small that he had to remove his shoes to get his feet on the rudder bar. "Pete's" top speed of 170 miles an hour was sufficient to win all of the light powered races and was good enough for a fourth in the Thompson Trophy event, the American speed classic.

Later, he built two other high-speed racing ships, "Ike" and "Mike." Both are low wing monoplanes and have given good account of themselves in various national race meets.

Howard plans to place his model in production if later tests prove its success.

DANIELS WILL FINISH WATER PACT SURVEY

McALLEN, July 12. — Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico, will return to the Lower Grand Valley of Texas in September to continue a survey upon which a water diversion treaty between the United States and Mexico will be based.

Accompanying the ambassador will be Senor J. M. Puig Casaurranc, Mexican minister of foreign relations.

During a recent tour of the region Daniels told valley residents the survey would be "more than a ... tification project."

He referred to early efforts of ... two nations to divide Rio Grande waters through the International Water commission.

"The Rio Grande means life to ... Rio Grande valley of Texas and ... Rio Grande valley of Mexico," Daniels said. "It probably means ... to Mexico than to Texas, particularly that portion of Mexico north ... its capital.

"It so happens that water in ... Colorado river in the western United States originates in our country and flows into Mexico where it is used to enrich the farms of the country.

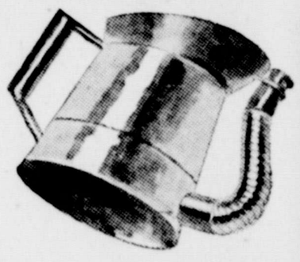

"Water in the Rio Grande originates in Mexico and is used to irrigate the Lower Rio Grande valley of Texas. This makes it possible to consider both countries.

"Thoughtful men of both nations now see eye to eye in this matter and recognize the benefits which will accrue to each other in settlement of the water situation."

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 12. — After 63 years of continuous labor as a cobbler-de-luxe, Charles L. Webber, 83, still carries on a business unique in the country. He specializes in made to order hand finished shoes ranging in price from $20 to $25 and estimates that during his ... he has spent $200,000 preparing ... plays of his handiwork for exhibition purposes. Webert works an average of 14 hours a day, despite the NRA.

HOW BIG A LUBRICATING JOB CAN A QUART OF OIL DO?

Five Quarts of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil lubricated a motor nearly five thousand miles in a test against five nationally known, widely advertised motor oils . . . .

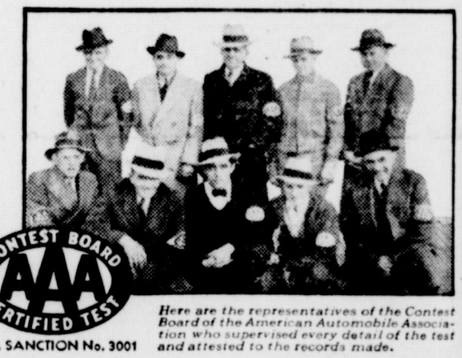

IF YOU are one of the many motorists who believe that a quart of any brand of quality oil is like any other quart, read this story of the "destruction" test made at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway under the strict supervision of the Contest Board, American Automobile Association.

Six strictly stock cars of the medium priced class, and six different brands of oil of the same S. A. E. grade were used in this test to prove the motor protection and consumption of each oil. Simultaneously the cars were driven for an average of 500 miles a day at 50 miles an hour until the motors refused to operate. On the 4th day, three cars were out of the test, Oil No. 4 had gone 1,713.2 miles; Oil No. 6 had completed 1,764.4 miles and Oil No. 5 had finished 1,815.9 miles. On the 5th day, Oil No. 1 failed, after going 2,266.8 miles.

This left two oils competing. In defiance they ran the 6th, 7th, and 8th days, when Oil No. 3, after totaling 3,318.8 miles, wrecked its motor and crept to a stop. Oil No. 2—New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil piled up a total of 4,729 miles! More than 3,000 miles farther than the first oil to go out, and more than 1,400 miles farther than the last oil to fail.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has much greater vitality, or film strength, to withstand great pressures and increased heat of modern automobile motors. It has great resistance to effects of dilution and the minimum of carbon and sludge. It has greater oily penetration called the "Hidden Quart," protecting your cold motor in starting, when most of the wear occurs. This oil is covered by recent United States patents and only Conoco can make it.

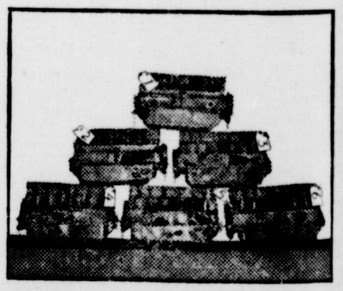

It was these superior qualities that carried New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil to a record of 4,729 miles on five quarts.

AAA SANCTION No. 3001

Here are the representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association who supervised every detail of the test and attested to the records made.

Here is a record of motor protection and low consumption that conclusively proves how big a lubricating job a quart of oil can do. Drive to a Red Triangle Station, fill and know that you have the highest lubricating value in either miles or dollars that your money can buy.

These were new motors before the test. They were wrecked to prove to you how to protect yours.

Five quarts of each brand of oil were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials.

The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in.

Warning TO NEW CAR OWNERS . . .

Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. The results indicate that it gives them greater protection against damage than straight mineral oils.

Protect your new car by using the motor oil you can be sure of.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — There's more than a desire for rest and recreation behind this ocean trip of Roosevelt's.

The president's love for the sea can't possibly be minimized. But those closest to him know that several practical considerations entered into his plans.

He will glad-hand Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Hawaii, and in each case tell the islanders about their share in the New Deal. He will meet the presidents of Panama, Colombia, and Haiti and radiate the Roosevelt charm through them to the rest of Latin America.

Some of his advisers privately compare this trip to Herbert Hoover's pre-inauguration "good will tour" to Central and South America in 1928.

Administration commercial policy now looks toward Latin America and Asia rather than Europe. You can bear in mind that Puerto Rico, a Spanish country under our flag, may be considered our outpost in Latin America.

The Spanish-speaking republics, feeling a close bond, have always kept an eye on the island and watched our course of action there—a fact always remembered in this capital.

IF you want to settle a strike—take it to church.

Even before an archbishop had been named as chief mediator for the Pacific longshoremen's strike and a priest assigned to the Milwaukee street car walkout, Mediator Frank Bowen of the National Labor Board had come back from a packinghouse strike in Oklahoma with that recipe.

The striking butcher boys were a hard-boiled lot and several folk had been sent to hospitals. Bowen had a settlement to offer, but anticipated plenty of trouble keeping them quiet long enough to permit it to be explained.

Other places being refused by owners who feared for the furniture, the strikers were finally gathered into a church.

Instead of rioting, the butchers seemed awed. Some seemed to be exploding with either wrath or tobacco juice, but all listened attentively.

They accepted the settlement without a single cuss word and stayed to clean up after the meeting.

UNDERSECRETARY TUGWELL wrote a letter in longhand and sent photostat copies to all employes of the Food and Drug Administration. He condoled over failure of the food and drugs act, and promised the fight for it would be renewed when Congress reconvened.

Tugwell didn't say so, but the administration's battle for the bill will be far stronger than its effort last session. The measure will be even stiffer than the original Tugwell bill, if only on the theory that margin is needed for purposes of "trading" with the opposition.

Senator Royal S. Copeland, whose efforts to get a bill passed didn't excite any widespread admiration, won't be entrusted with the job next January. The Food and Drug people found other friends in the Senate who they believe will be more effective.

Meanwhile, work has begun on a new "chamber of horrors" through which the administration will demonstrate deadly effects of certain poisonous cosmetics and fake patent medicines.

Things you may not know—about your telephone

The little group of men who aided Alexander Graham Bell in the invention of the telephone is perpetuated today in many of the policies, and even in the form of organization of the telephone service. Bell himself, the research worker, has for example been succeeded by Bell Telephone Laboratories, whose scientists have contributed innumerable inventions and improvements to the telephone art.

Thomas A. Watson, who made the first telephones, was the forerunner of the Western Electric Co., supply unit of the Bell System. From its shops the equipment and supplies needed by the 24 associated Bell companies are furnished at a cost which, as a proven fact, is lower than would be charged on the open market. As a telephone user, you profit indirectly, but definitely, by these savings.

Gardiner G. Hubbard, first business adviser of the infant telephone industry, has been replaced by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., parent organization of the Bell System. A.T.&T. staff experts develop more economical operating methods for the associated companies of the system. Its financing facilities make available, at a saving, funds for necessary additions to telephone lines and equipment.

FOR YOU...Good Service at Fair Cost

Not only were the beginnings of the present form of organization of the telephone service, with units for research, for manufacture, for business and financial guidance, to be found in this handful of pioneers . . . the source of many of the policies of the Bell System lies there as well.

Thus, for more than 50 years the savings from a specialized telephone organization have gone, not to swell profits, but to give good telephone service at a fair cost to the user.

This policy has been adopted because we feel that, from your standpoint as much as from our own, it is sound and workable. In an undertaking planned like the telephone service for the long pull, we believe that what is best for the telephone subscriber becomes in the end the course that will bring us the surer, more enduring success.

County Bankhead Act Administrator Named

Tax exemption certificates to be issued to cotton growers in the amount of the cotton that they will be allowed to produce tax-free under the terms of the Bankhead act, will serve as a crop insurance, said a statement issued today by R. F. Lawrence, administrative assistant to County Agent J. C. Patterson in charge of administration of the act in Eastland county. The certificates will be issued to the growers on the basis of approximately 60 per cent of their average annual production over the period 1928-1932, inclusive.

If the farmer produces less cotton this fall than the amount of the tax exemption certificates he holds, he may sell these certificates through the county office at a price set by the government, said Mr. Lawrence. In the event he produces more cotton than the amount designated, he must either purchase additional exemption certificates or pay tax to the government when sold. Thus, in the event of a crop failure, he is assured of an income on unproductive acres in the amount of the value of the certificates as fixed by the government. If, and the other hand, he produces more cotton than called for, the theory of the government tax is that he will make no money on the portion above what he is entitled to produce.

Will Handle All Contracts

Announcement of Mr. Lawrence's appointment as county Bankhead act administrator was made today by County Agent Patterson. Lawrence's salary will be paid by the federal government, said Patterson, and he will also represent the government in the handling of all Agricultural Adjustment administration contracts in the county. When not engaged in administrative duties, Lawrence will assist in other county agent activity, Patterson said.

Lawrence's statement on general features of the operation of the Bankhead act, was:

"Under provisions of the Bankhead act each farmer who produced cotton before 1934 and has cotton growing on farm at present is entitled to exemption certificates on number of pounds of cotton allotted to his farm. This allotment is based on approximately 60 per cent of the five-year average from 1928 to 1932. If no cotton was grown on this farm during this period the 1933 acreage and production on this farm and commodity average is used in figuring his allotment. If no cotton was grown on farm during base period 1928 to 1932 and none in 1933 there will be no allotment made for farm by the county committee. Such applications will be sent direct to state board for action. If any allotment is made it will not be taken from county allotment.

Under Oath

"Every cotton farmer that does not have a contract with government must, with aid of community committeemen, give his yearly production on each farm. He should have this information ready to list in application for allotment and tax exemption certificates, which statements will be under oath. Producers who have signed contracts will be under oath as to correctness of statements presented in the former contract; however, they have the privilege correcting figures before taking oath. These applications will be in the hands of local committeemen in near future and will be filled out in community centers designated by committeemen. This application must be filled out in order to sell any cotton tax free.

"If there is less cotton produced on farm than amount of tax exemption certificates issued to this farm, the holder of such certificates will be allowed to sell them through the county office at a price set by the government. The privilege of selling these certificates is equal to crop insurance. If there is more cotton produced on this farm than allotment given, the owner of said cotton must either buy exemption certificate or pay tax to government when cotton is sold. Regardless of how long cotton is held either as seed cotton or lint cotton, the U. S. government will still hold a lien on it to the amount of the tax at the time it was harvested or ginned. Any person attempting to evade this tax is liable to heavy penalty.

"All allotments, contracts and exemption certificates are handled by U. S. agricultural department. Tax collections are handled by U. S. internal revenue department.

"All farmers will be notified of meetings that will be held at different communities in the county. At these meetings the provisions of the Bankhead act and program arranged by county cotton production control association will be more thoroughly explained. Every cotton producer, whether contract signer or not, should be present at one of these meetings.

New Charters Show Gain Daring June

AUSTIN, July 12.—New charters granted corporations during June to carry on business in Texas showed a substantial rise over May, according to Dr. F. A. Buechel, statistician in the bureau of business research of the University of Texas. A total of 130 charters was granted with aggregate capitalization of $1,890,000, increases of 8 per cent and 50 per cent respectively over the number and capitalization in May. There was, however, a decline of 30 per cent in number and practically the same percentage drop in capitalization in comparison with June, 1933; and for the year to date there was a drop of 12 per cent in number and 39 per cent in capitalization compared with the corresponding period last year.

Charters granted out-of-state firms were 29 per cent fewer than in May but 4 per cent above June last year; and for the first six months the increase over last year was 27 per cent.

A total of six firms with capitalization of $100,000 or more each was chartered against two in May and six in June last year. During the first half of the current year seventeen firms were chartered against 34 during the corresponding period last year.

Non-acid vegetables should be canned under pressure. Old jars are not the ones to use because they have been heated and the glass becomes more brittle. Use the newer jars when the products are cooked under pressure and the older ones for fruits and pickles. This information is given by Mrs. Gil Walker, farm food supply cooperator of the Romney home demonstration club. Mrs. Walker has had several jars break and when she checked she found she had used some very old jars in the cooker. When you use jars in which you buy peanut butter, coffee or pickles, use them for pickles and fruits for some of such jars are made by a different process and will not hold up under the heat they have to go through when under pressure.

FOUNDATION PATTERN HELP IN VACATION RUSH

"My foundation pattern (individually fitted pattern) made it possible for me to be ready for an early vacation trip this summer. The time coming earlier than I expected, made it look impossible for me to go, but with the pattern, the neighbors came in and made the dresses while I did the canning and preserving and other odd jobs always on hand. The pattern, a perfect fit, made it possible for the women to cut and make the garments without fitting." This is what Mrs. R. L. Eckleberry, clothing cooperator of the Ranger Co-Workers club states. She also says she could not do without her foundation pattern.

DRESS AND CAKE CONTEST

The house demonstration club women of Eastland county will meet in Eastland, district court room, Saturday, July 14, for the dress contest. Each club will be represented by one clothing demonstrator and as many cooperators as can finish the dresses. These dresses are to be made by the foundation pattern, which is a pattern fitted on each individual. No two persons are the same size and no figures are perfect and that is why the women are making the patterns. With the foundation pattern, one can take a commercial pattern and fit it to the pattern made for her. These dresses are to be scored as to style suited to the individual, color combination and workmanship. The women will wear the dresses and have the style show following the judging. The public is invited.

Cake making his been part of the food program in the home demonstration clubs this year. Each club has held a cake contest and the winner in each club will bring a cake for the contest to be held in connection with the style show. These cakes will be for sale when they are scored, and the money given to the county council of home demonstration clubs to be used for a trip to the annual farmers short course at College Station, July 30 to August 3.

ANNUAL 4-H BOYS AND GIRLS ENCAMPMENT

The annual 4-H club camp will be held in Eastland July 78 and 19. The club members from all over the county come in for two days of fun with only a little work connected with the camp. The club folks will have a program the night of the 18th, and the public is invited to come and take part in it with them. This program is in the form of recreation.

Ginners Agreement Efforts Abandoned

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.—Attempts to bring the cotton ginning industry under a marketing agreement were abandoned by the AAA Tuesday. Officials said ginners refused to accept any agreement without a provision authorizing rate fixing.

"The agreement was proposed by the ginners in an earnest effort to correct some of the ills of the industry," Cully Cobb, chief of the cotton section, said. "The administration finds itself unable to sanction and enforce fixed rates for ginning services."

BUSINESS NOW THIRD OF WAY UPON RETURN

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 12.—American business, aided by billions of dollars from federal and state government, appeared this week to have pulled itself more than a third of the way out of the depression which began five years ago this month.

More than two years have passed since the absolute bottom of the depression was reached in July, 1932. Today both official and private business figures showed an irregular upward course since that time, interrupted temporarily 15 months ago by the banking paralysis.

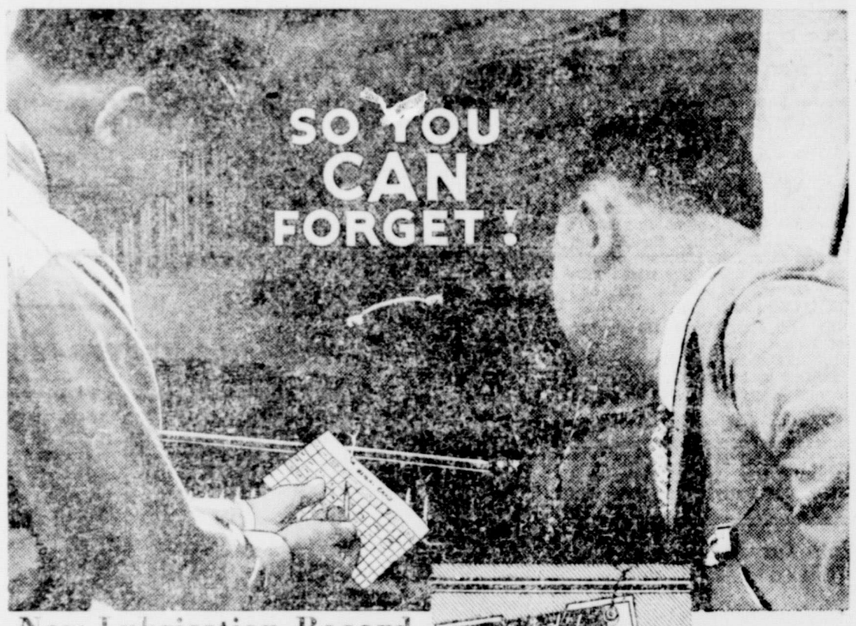

Responsible figures compiled by the federal reserve board showed today that industrial activity in the United States after reaching its peak of 125 per cent of the 1923-25 average in June, 1929, declined rather steadily to 58 per cent in July, 1932. The index rose slightly thereafter and fell to a second bottom of 59 per cent in March, 1933.

After another setback following last July, activity began to rise slowly early this year to the rent 85 per cent level.

Reductions amounting to as much as $50—the most substantial price cuts announced in the low-price field this year—dropped Chevrolet's base price to a new low figure of $465. Just compare this price—compare any Chevrolet price—with those of other cars. Then compare what you get for what you pay! There'll be no question in your mind which car to buy, once you do.

Chevrolet offers patented Knee-Action—and others do not! Chevrolet alone has a Fisher body! PARALYSIS WAR AIDED BY NEW IMMUNIZATION

By ALFRED BERTHINET
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 12.— Infantile paralysis was dealt another blow by Dr. Maurice Brodie, of New York university of Bellevue hospital medical school, who reported in a current issue of Science that he had produced an active immunization in Macacus rhesus monkeys, against the dreaded illness, through the injection of germicidally inactivated virus.

Contradictory Results

While it has been reported that the use of germicidally inactivated virus for the production of active immunity has been successful in the virus conditions such as cattle plague, dog distemper, psitacosis (more commonly referred to as parrot fever), rabies and yellow fever, the experimental results in the case of infantile paralysis, according to Dr. Brodie, have been both contradictory and indefinite.

Aided by grants from the New York foundation and the Rockefeller foundation, he, therefore, attempted to bring about this active immunity in the Macacus rhesus.

Definite Immunity

This research illustrates, declares Dr. Brodie, that definite immunity can be developed against the virus of infantile paralysis through the injection of virus rendered non-infective by formalin. In the concentration used by Dr. Brodie in his experiments he discovered that it gave rise to a considerable irritation of the skin. Virus suspensions in the present work being conducted are inactivated with lower concentration of formalin.

Dr. Brodie's latest experiment is one of a series which have been made by Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute, Dr. Arthur R. Elvidge, and himself.

HOTEL AT FORT WORTH ROBBED BY THREE MEN

FORT WORTH, July 12. — Three men Monday robbed the Westbrook hotel, in the heart of the downtown district, of $2,000, including cash and two diamonds owned by a guest.

Two young men, wearing dark goggles and carrying old-fashioned six-shooters, entered the hotel about 5 a. m. leaving a confederate in a black sedan at the entrance.

One leaped over the clerk's desk and confronted Night Manager J. A. Wakefield. He ordered Wakefield to open the hotel safe.

The second bandit held an elevator operator and two negro bell boys at bay, forcing them into a washroom.

After opening the safe, Wakefield was forced to lie on the floor while the bandits dumped contents of the safe into a canvas sack. With a parting threat, they fled, joining the third man in the automobile.

Harriman Jaunty As Prison Yawns

NEW YORK, July 12.—Joseph W. Harriman, the one-time banking power whose attorneys argued he would never live through the ordeal of trial, stepped jauntily from a hospital Monday and into the automobile en route to Lewisburg, penitentiary.

A broad smile wreathed the face of the 67-year-old millionaire who twice had attempted suicide rather than face prosecution on charges involving approximately $2,000,000 of the funds of the Harriman National bank which he headed. He is scheduled to serve a four and one-half years sentence.

Stephens to Be Sent Back to Lubbock Jail

HOUSTON, July 12.—J. B. Stephens, 28, Texas convict who faces a long prison term on robbery and burglary charges, was in the Harris county jail yesterday awaiting transfer to the Lubbock jail from which he escaped June 24.

He was arrested by police here after his two companions, Ed (Perchmouth) Stanton and Andrew H. Nelson, fled in an automobile when police approached to question the trio Sunday night. Stephens was left standing on the curb.

A 36-hour search of underworld haunts of the city failed to reveal whereabouts of the desperadoes.

TWO COMM'RS RESIGN FROM RELIEF BODY

AUSTIN, July 12.—Relief Commissioners Jack Reed and Ed Hussion Monday volunteered their resignations from the state relief commission, challenging other members to do likewise.

"We should hang our heads in shame and make apologies to the people of Texas for allowing politics to influence every action we take," Reed declared. He referred to all members of the relief commission.

Their voluntary resignations were presented after Texas Relief Dir. Adam Johnson had walked out of the meeting in a huff. None of the actions taken Monday were official, however. A roll call showed no quorum present.

Reed and Hussion declared they would formally resign before the next meeting.

"I regret having been a member of a commission," Reed declared "that has allowed itself to get into such dawn shambles as we've gotten into.

"Terrible Job"

"The relief commission as a whole has done a terrible job. My intention is to resign before the next meeting. I challenge other members of this commission to do likewise. It will be the first material good we have done."

Comm'r Hussion at once secured recognition from Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, presiding.

"For the welfare of the unfortunates in Texas, I too offer my resignation and ask other members to do likewise."

Their voluntary withdrawal from relief activities followed a blunt discussion of the failure of other members of the commission to attend the meeting Monday.

Lack of a quorum prevented the commission hearing a significant report by the state board of control on relief purchases and a long delayed report of medical relief.

The only members present today were Reed, Hussion, and B. E. Giesecke.

DALLAS, July 12.—Relief Comm'r W. A. Brook, of Dallas Monday agreed with Commr's Jack Reed and Ed Hussion that the entire commission should resign.

Germans Enthused Over Hess Appeal

BERLIN, July 12. — Nationalism swept Germany Monday in popular reaction to a speech by Randolph Hess, Chancellor Adolf Hitler's deputy leader, for war to the death if invaded.

The speech tended to divert attention from the bloodshed and excitement of last week and direct the public mind toward national reconstruction, politically and economically, which Hitler plans.

TWO BOYS ARE CHARGED WITH BURGLARY HERE

Charges of burglary were filed here Monday against two Eastland boys, both minors, who Sunday afternoon were apprehended by W. J. Armstrong as they came out of the residence of F. J. Borman, 906 West 14th street. Mr. Armstrong brought the boys, 16 and 14 years old, to the police station.

A large quantity of loot, part of which the boys claimed they stole in Eastland where they said they lived, was recovered. It included a Remington .22 calibre rifle, a blanket, a Bulova wrist watch, a white gold Gruen watch, four Elgin watches, an Ingersoll watch, a Colt .32 automatic pistol, five pocket knives, a pair of field glasses, two flashlights, two bill folds, a small purse, a baby's neck chain, a lady's neck chain, a good locket, a pair of brass "knucks", $1.80 in silver, 46 cents in pennies and five other coins.

Parrish Home Entered

Some of the articles were found to belong to Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Parrish, whose home was also found to have been entered. Two boys were seen leaving the Parrish residence earlier in the day by Mr. Parrish who called R. W. Mancill from Mr. Mancill's home nearby and gave chase. The pair eluded their pursuers, however.

The two boys now in custody, who are to be turned over to county juvenile authorities, were apprehended by Mr. Armstrong about 5:30 p. m.

J. B. Cate reported to officers that his home at 208 West Fourth street, was entered before noon while he and Mrs. Cate were at church. Every drawer in the house was ransacked and contents disturbed, he said and a small watch was missed. He believed the intruders were frightened away. On the kitchen cabinet was found a lunch that the burglars had prepared, he said. A bottle of milk had been placed in a paper bag and another bag contained ingredients for sandwiches.

SOUTHWESTERN TEXAS FACING DROUTH RUIN

HOUSTON, July 12.—Farmers in 18 southeast Texas counties are facing one of the most serious situations in recent years as a result of a drouth that has lasted more than six weeks.

Many of the farmers who have not found it necessary even during depression years to ask crop loans, already have begun to make inquiries at the Production Credit corporation about loans to carry them through the period which summer crops ordinarily would finance.

Unless the drouth, which has extended over the entire Middle West practically all summer, but which began to show its effect here only six weeks ago, is definitely broken within the next days, many ranchers in the vicinity of Lafayette county, west of here, will have to sell their cattle, as the ranges are beginning to suffer as well as the crops.

The feed crop, including corn and grain solvents, will be an 80 per cent loss, Manager J. I. McGregor of the Production Credit corporation estimated.

Dan Clinton, Harris county agricultural agent, estimated the corn crop in this vicinity was 65 per cent loss already and other cattle feed crops were about the same figure.

This figure amounts to a tremendous loss to farmers because the acreage planted in that crop was increased this year by at least 15 per cent, he said.

Cotton has withstood the drouth successfully in all cases except where it was planted very late, according to reports from this section.

Truck gardens, an important business in many of these and surrounding counties, are ruined except where the growers had private irrigation arrangements, Clinton said.

The only thing that actually saved the truck gardener was that the truck gardener was that the bulk of his crops already had been marketed before the drouth set in," Clinton said. "The real damage comes in on the second crops, which have only recently been planted. These are practically a total loss.

The fig crop has been severely damaged.

No estimate of the amount of the crop losses in dollars and cents could be obtained at this time, Clinton said.

The stricken section in southeast Texas is the territory west from Orange county to Lafayette, and southward to Calhoun county.

The most fortunate section of the vicinity is in the northeast section where a few showers have alleviated conditions to a certain extent.

Rev. Tyndall Will Conduct Revival

Rev. Francis E. Barnes pastor of the First Christian church of Woodson, spent Tuesday in this city conferring with Dr. David F. Tyndall, president of Randolph college, concerning a revival to be conducted by the Rev. Tyndall beginning July 27 in Woodson.

Rev. Barnes announced that the Young People's Christian Endeavor society of his church will form the choir for the revival. Special musical numbers are being planned by the organization.

Dr. Tyndall will begin the revival Friday night, July 27, and will do the preaching during the entire 10 days of the meeting. Dr. Tyndall is well known in the Woodson communities as an outstanding and inspiring preacher.

Beef Report False Johnson Declares

AUSTIN, July 12. — Texas Relief Adm'r Adam Johnson Wednesday moved to quell a minor "beef" rebellion among the ranks of destitute and needy persons in Texas.

Reports that beef now being slaughtered, processed and canned in the plants of the emergency relief administration is "not fit for human consumption," are false, the relief administration declared in a blanket repudiation yesterday.

The false reports have been printed at "certain points in Texas," the administration's denial noted.

DISTRIBUTION OF PROFIT BIG TVA PROBLEM

By DR. ARTHUR E. MORGAN
Chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority
(Written for the United Press)

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 12 — Fundamentally, in the Tennessee valley, as in other parts of the country, the heart of the business problem is the distribution of profits. Over and over again in the world's history we have had a large economic surplus without the development of general well-being. Egypt had great over-production, but the people lived in mud huts and the tremendous surplus was used to build the biggest pile of stones the world ever has seen. Alexander the Great found a surplus and Napoleon found a surplus, but each of them made the surplus produce tragedy.

Excessive concentration of production ina few places, with excessive lack of resources in many places, is not a good basis for social planning. We must have the determination that as we increase production and as we eliminate waste the increase shall be the heritage of the whole people.

Salvation of Small Investors

The little industries have been trying desperately to work out their salvation alone. They can't afford the kind of technical service that large industries can. They cannot afford good marketing or accounting service. Our small industries, and our farmers, should have the advantage of professional counsel and advice.

They might plan to get together in co-operative organization to provide such services. They may be able, by pooling their resources, to bring in people who are exceptionally able in their fields and thus develop their small industries along more scientific lines. It may thus be possible to get the same degree of effectiveness in a small industry as in a large one. Then the small proprietor can survive as well as the branch of a great corporation, because he has the added advantage of direct interest. We have seen that work out in California, where over half of the agricultural products of the state are sold co-operatively.

Drawn by Cheap Labor

When industries have come into the Tennessee valley they have come in primarily with the thought of cheap labor. Since we have begun work there, their representatives have come to us and said, in effect, "We know just what we want to do there, we see that as a reason of cheap power and cheap labor, and we can make a lot of money there." Great industries have been built up where people are gatherd togther in factory towns. Sometimes living conditions have been carefully considered. Sometimes they have been neglected. The old culture is dstroyed and no new culture is established. The greatest resource of any country is the culture of its people.

Another source of great waste is incompetent business management. In the Southland are small towns, small industries, small businesses; but the small industrial man cannot keep up and compete with great industries. I believe economic planning should make skilled men available to small industries, so that good business methods, good accounting methods, good distribution methods may become widespread, and so that the self-respecting individualism of the people of that region can survive in the face of mass production methods.

ROMNEY

Tuesday, June 26, the Romney Home Demonstration club met with 15 members and three visitors present. Some small details of business were attended to; a new council member was elected to take the place of Mrs. C. L. Carmichael, who was recently elected president.

Some interesting discussions on canning were heard.

The meeting adjourned, and was followed by a double shower for Mrs. Don Maynard and Mrs. Harold Brawner. Each lady received some very pretty and useful things, and each gift that one received was almost exactly duplicated by what the other got.

On Tuesday afternoon July 3, there was a called meeting of the club at the home of Mrs. J. B. Webb for a cake-baking demonstration. Among the points emphasized by Miss Ramey were: Level measurements, sifting of flour before measuring, the use of good materials and careful unhurried mixing. The cake was a delicious success.

On Saturday evening June 30, a community social sponsored by the Home Demonstration club, was held at the schoolhouse, and games were enjoyed by a small crowd.

Afterward, Miss Ramey inspected a foundation pattern, and gave details of the colthing contest to be held at Eastland July 14. Final touches were put on plans for the ice cream social to be given the following Thursday night. The meeting then adjourned.

On Thursday night, July 5, the club gave an ice cream social on the school ground, with candidates speaking by county and district candidates as a special feature. Much interest was shown by the large crowd, and we are glad to say that everyone seemed to thoroughly enjoy the occasion.

Aside from the social success of the affair, the club realized a nice profit from the sale of ice cream and we take this means of saying we are very grateful to the many who helped in different ways.

DEMORATIC TICKETS

ST. LOUIS, July 12 — For the first time in many years, there will be a democratic ticket in every county in the state of Missouri survey by the democratic state committee showed. In some counties which traditionally returned republican majorities, hot contests are in prospect.

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

Of all the deliciously simple and simply delicious concoctions in the category of summer foods, fruit granites come first. Chilled to the nth degree without the actual forming of ice crystals, granites are refreshing and decidedly cooling.

To make a granite a heavy syrup is combined with fruit juice and water and the mixture is half frozen. It always is liquid enough to drink, but so thoroughly chilled that it just misses being an ice. Chill it until it looks white with frost and ice crystals gather against the sides of the mold.

The combinations are almost countless for these granites. All the canned fruits and most of the fresh ones can be used singly or in combination. With canned fruit always available, one is not dependent on the local markets and any flavor can be chosen for the drink. The combination of fresh and canned fruit produces many novel flavors that are delightful.

Berry Granites

Berry granites are seasonal and easy to prepare. Wash and drain one quart of berries. Put into a deep bowl and cover with 2 cups granulated sugar. Mash and cover with a clean towel. Let stand two or three hours. Extract all the juice and strain through a fine wire sieve or cheese cloth. Add two cups of water, pouring it through the fruit pulp. Pour into a mold and freeze. Serve with a garnish of mint.

All fresh fruits are used this way, the highly sweetened juice, diluted with water, is half frozen.

Canned fruits must be cooked with additional sugar to make a heavy syrup, crushing the fruit as it cooks. Then the syrup is strained and combined with water as for fresh fruit.

You can use jelly, too. Combine it with a citrus friut juice. Orange, lemon, lime and grapefruit juices all are good and each produces a distinctive flavor. Currant jelly and orange juice, blackberry jelly and lerion juice, red raspberry and lime—these are a few combinations that will suggest others to you. Use one large glass or standard measuring cup of jelly to one cup of fruit juice, 1-2 cup sugar and 3 cups water. A tart juice such as lemon may require up to one cup of sugar. Make a syrup of the sugar and water by boiling them for 10 minutes. Add jelly and when cool add fruit juice. Strain and freeze.

Plums Good Choice

This may seem like a large amount of sugar, but as extreme cold has a tendency to deaden the taste, these drinks must be made extra sweet before chilling.

Plums make a zestful granite. Add a few whole cloves and a two-inch stick of cinnamon broken in small pieces when making the syrup. Red, yellow or blue, they make a rich fragrant beverage. Cook them just enough for the juice to flow freely, pour over the prepared syrup and let stand until cool before straining and freezing.

If the granite is to be chilled in a crankless freezer, use three parts crushed ice to one part ice cream salt and let stand one hour. To hasten the chilling process, scrape down the edges of the mixture as it freezes.
