Soil Conservationists To Be In Tri-District Meet Nov. 15

Monday, Nov. 15, is the date set for the tri-district meeting of the Eldorado Divide, Concho, and North Concho conservationists, farmers, ranchers, officials, businessmen and any others interested in soil conservation work.

The meeting will be held at the San Angelo College farm, and will be an all-day affair, opening at 10:00 a. m. Among the major SC boosters and speakers at the meeting will be Forrest Runge, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Eldorado district, Zack Jones of the N. Concho and others, in cooperation with San Angelo Junior College leaders.

As would be expected, terracing and the various phases of this important soil conservation practice will take up the major part of the day's demonstrations and discussions, and in addition other practices included in a well-rounded conservation program will be stressed.

Included with the terracing equipment on display will be the Eldorado Divide planter, which was given to the local office by John Bledsoe, and perfected by the personnel of the office. Designed for Eldorado Divide District conservationists who need it in their farming and ranching, the planter is especially effective in planting of clover and small grass seed. It was completed in compliance with local needs by the office force here. Those who have used it or witnessed it in operation expect it to attract attention when it is placed on display Monday. Local Soil Conservation officials Bill Rountree Lloyd Johnson and Chas. J. Newman are urging farmers, ranchers and businessmen to attend the meeting. The purpose of the meeting, they state, is to teach the value and need of the work to the public. There will be dinner at noon, and morning and afternoon programs.

ARCHIE WRIGHT SELLS BUSINESS TO PAUL ROBBINS

Paul Robbins, experienced business man from Butte, Montana, has bought a two-thirds interest in Wright's Grocery, and is already on the job as new partner of Ray Hudgens.

Mr. Robbins was manager of J. C. Penny stores for eight years and of Burr's for about six years.

His wife, the former Avis Holland, was reared in Christoval, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Holland, and niece of Mr. Wright.

The grocery was established in 1900, and sold to Archie Wright in 1906. At various times Mr. Wright, owned and operated the Success in other locations and later in the rear of the store, sold the Success 3½ years ago, and last year sold a third interest each to Ray Hudgens and his own daughter Sug Wright. Mr. Hudgens will remain in the store.

Mr. Wright expects to retire from business.

BIG LAKE GAME IS YEAR'S LAST

The Eldorado Eagles will meet their last — and perhaps their toughest — opponents of the football field at Big Lake Friday night, when they clash with the Big Lake eleven. It will be remembered that Big Lake is the team which beat the hitherto undefeated Junction team last Friday, and the local boys are expecting a hard battle.

Two first-string men, Hicks and Biggs, are out of the game because of injuries sustained several weeks ago; nevertheless the local team beat Ozona last week by a score of 19-7 without them. In the first quarter under the lights at Ozona's new stadium, Hamm made the first touchdown on a 41-yard run, and Ozona's team also made one touchdown and the extra point, making the score 7-6 at the half. During the last half of the game, Hamm made another score, and Alexander also made a score on a quarterback sneak, then kicked the extra point. Nixon looked good throughout the game and was an able replacement for Hicks.

A number of Eldorado people attended the game.

Coach Bud Hopkins announces that basketball practice will start next week.

SQUARE DANCE NOTICE

Members of the Pioneer Square Dance Club will meet Thursday night, (tonight) at 8:30 at the regular meeting place, the Rock Station. All original members are asked to be present if they want to continue membership in the organization, or contact the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Carrol White.

Lions Entertain With Dinner,Program Honoring Faculty

With the faculty of the school and Lionesses as guests, the Lions held their meeting Tuesday night at the school, with Dr. Wilkins Elkins, president of San Angelo College, as guest speaker.

The meeting opened with group singing of America, with Mary Yvonne Griggs at the piano. The dinner, served by the home economics department, was followed by introduction of teachers by Principal Griggs, and several piano numbers by Joe Kreklow. Joe Wagley was master of ceremonies.

Following introduction by Carroll Ratliff, President Elkins spoke on Education for Freedom, this week being designated as National Education Week.

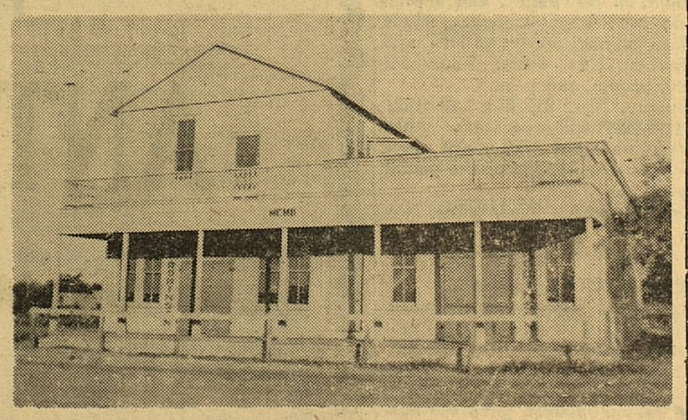

In his speech he pointed out the fact that education is the process of learning to live, and that the individual has the right to live in a society in which anyone can work to the top.

He stressed the fact that there are menaces to that freedom which threatens the country: dictatorship and socialistic idealogies, which threaten this country's high living standard; the "isms" of prejudice, greed, and intolerance, and worst of all, of complete indifference.

To the educational system of the country, he stated, has been entrusted the task of fighting weaknesses in our society and expanding its strength, with the aim of providing equal opportunity to all — a task which places upon the teaching profession the greatest opportunity for service ever offered to man.

In concluding his speech he stated, "We must build society on equality of opportunity, tolerance and recognition of the dignity of the individual."

Old Landmark Goes Up In Flames

The largest fire Eldorado has had since the Roy Andrews block burned occurred early Saturday morning, when the Robinson store building, an old landmark, burned completely down.

The fire was discovered by night watchman Early at about 4 a. m. Due to the fact that the structure was built almost entirely of wood, it burned rapidly, making a blaze which was visible many miles away.

The Wiedenman building at the north, and the garage at the rear of the lots were saved. The burning debris was blown east, and dropped on roofs in the L. M. Hoover, E. H. Topliffe and Bert Page neighborhoods, presenting a fire hazard. Firemen awakened all residents thus threatened, advising them to watch their property.

The fire caused wide-spread damage to telephone service, as it burned telephone wires serving 200 local and rural subscribers and toll lines from San Angelo to Del Rio. The fire occurred in the late hours of the night; by dawn the company had several crews on the job, by 10:00 toll lines were in working order and by 4:00 p. m. the local lines were again operating. A construction crew restored the toll lines to operating condition, and three cable crews worked on the local lines.

The building is one of Eldorado's old landmarks. Built in 1902, when the county was only a year old as an organized unit, it housed one of the most successful general stores in West Texas, operating long after others of that type had closed.

As shown in the above picture, the building had a northern addition which formerly housed the furniture department. On the second floor of the south half of the building, the family had their living quarters.

During the two years Dr. Robinson lived after arriving here, he had his drug store and office at the rear of the ground floor; the rest of the building accommodated the huge stock of feeds, grain, groceries, dry goods and smaller hardware which the store carried.

At the height of her success Mrs. Robinson employed a number of clerks. She possessed business acumen which was rare in the average woman of her day, and developed business judgment which enabled her to buy wisely and at the right time, to judge the worth of a piece of merchandise and its appeal to the public, and —most important of all—to know when and to whom to give credit, in an age when credit was the mainstay (or the ruination) of the business world.

In 1935 she retired, after outlasting even such similar stores as Vanderstucken's, Sonora.

Until about two years ago she continued to live alone in her large building, moving then to occupy a garage apartment building at the rear of her lots adjoining the Methodist Church property. The family have since donated one of these lots to that church (the lot adjoining the parsonage lot).

Two years ago the store building and corner lots were sold to Keno Ogden, and since he bought the property the building has been vacant much of the time.

A $10,000 insurance policy was carried on the building.

Remains of Sgt. R. Reynolds To Be Re-Interred Here

Within the coming few weeks, the remains of Sgt. Raymond Reynolds will arrive in Eldorado for funeral services in the First Baptist Church, the Rev. Jim Hays officiating—and more than four years after his death in Corsica, his body will be laid to rest in the Eldorado Cemetery.

This will be the first World War II casualty to be shipped to this county and it is probable that it will be the last, as others who died during the war were either killed under circumstances which made it impossible to recover the body, or died in this country.

It is understood that the remains will arrive in San Angelo in from four to six weeks from this date, that the family will be given about four days notice, and that a Ratliff funeral car will meet the train there and bring the body to this city. The American Legion will have charge of a military funeral.

Sgt. Raymond Reynolds

The telegram received late last week by Mrs. Mary M. Reynolds, his mother, reads: "We have been advised remains of the late Sgt. Raymond R. Reynolds are en route to the United States. Our records indicate you wish remains delivered to Ratliff Funeral Home Eldorado Texas. Within forty eight hours after receipt of this message please confirm your original instructions or submit new delivery instructions and furnish your correct mailing address by telegram collect to commanding officer, Ft. Worth Q depot. Reply necessary within this period since it will not be possible to comply at government expense with any desired changes in delivery instructions received after the expiration of forty eight hours. While delivery of the remains will be made as soon as practicable after receipt, factors beyond our control may delay delivery of remains for several weeks. However as soon as remains are received here and it is possible to schedule them for delivery your funeral director will be notified by telegram of rail routing and scheduled time remains will arrive at railroad station. Also he will be requested to furnish you this information so that you may complete funeral arrangements This telegram will be sent at least four days prior to actual shipment from this distribution center. Please instruct funeral director to accept remains at railroad station upon arrival. Remains will be accompanied by military escort. If you desire military honors at funeral you should ask any local patriotic or veterans organization to make arrangements. Your prompt cooperation will greatly assist this office in making final delivery. Please include full name of deceased in reply telegram."

The body of Sgt. Reynolds is one of 7129 Americans who lost their lives in World War II, and whose remains arrived in the States recently aboard the transport Laurence Victory. It is expected that his remains will be shipped first to the Distribution Center at Ft. Worth (and may already be there) and will be shipped out from there, following notification of relatives and (or) the Eldorado funeral director.

While details of the shipment of the war dead are not announced, it is understood that many of the war dead in cemeteries throughout the world will be moved, either to their home cemeteries in this country, or to permanent cemeteries abroad, or private cemeteries in countries in which they may have lived previously.

Death Four Years Ago

Arrival of the remains of this soldier in Eldorado will bring to a close a four-year period during which the body has been moved once, a Memorial service was held in this city, and two years of correspondence has been carried on between the family and the government.

Sgt. Reynolds died May 13, 1944, two days after a raid on Corsica; on June 16 he was awarded the Purple Heart posthumously. He had previously received the Good Conduct Medal, the Middle East campaign ribbon, and two stars.

Shortly after word was received here on May 28, 1944, informing the family of the death of their son and brother, memorial services were held in Eldorado on a Sunday afternoon, with the Rev. Jim Hays, Baptist pastor, the Rev. F. B. Faust, Methodist pastor, and the Rev. John A. Carriker, Presbyterian pastor, officiating, in the presence of a large congregation of friends and relatives.

In September, 1946, word was received by the deceased's mother, Mrs. M. M. Reynolds of the Rudd community, that Raymond's body had been buried in the United States Cemetery, 4½ miles from Bastia, Corsica, the telegram giving the exact location and number of the grave.

Evidently this was a temporary cemetery, as the remains were later moved to the military cemetery called Cemetery Nettuno, 32 miles south of Rome.

Sgt. Reynolds was reared in this county, was graduated from Eldorado High School, and entered service in July, 1942, as a welder. After training in the Technical Ground Force at St. Petersburg and Clearwater, Fla., Daniel Field, Ga., and camps in South Carolina, he went overseas in February, 1943. He was a welder in the Ground Crew of the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Preceding his period of service, he had attended a Diesel engineering course in San Angelo, and assisted in operating the Reynolds place in this county.

The following survive:

His mother, Mrs. M. M. Reynolds; two brothers and four sisters: Reuben and Frank Reynolds, Miss Lottie Reynolds, Mrs. Gertrude Johnson, Mrs. Auta Mae Bradshaw, all of Eldorado, and Mrs A. L. Westbrook of Miles.

LIEUT. SPROUL VISITS HERE ON WAY TO ALASKA

Lieut. and Mrs. Robert Sproul Jr. were week end guests in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sproul and family. Lieut. Sproul left Alaska by plane for South Carolina, where his wife had been visiting, and the couple were en route for Alaska by car when they stopped here.

They report it would probably take all of the time to the 19th to make their return trip, as the Al-Can Highway which they will travel is not paved, and the best time they can make is 35 miles per hour.

Lieut. Sproul, who is assigned to rescue work by plane over Alaskan water and wastelands, is well prepared to meet unfavorable weather. He is driving through in a good car, and has a rescue kit as part of his traveling luggage.

He will be in Alaska at least until June, 1949.

Mrs. W. C. Porter and George Dickens of Odessa visited here Wednesday on their way home. Mr. Dickens, who received a broken leg recently, is doing nicely.

WORK PROCEEDS ON GAS LINES TO PAGE WELLS

Residents in outlying districts in Eldorado, who find their gas pressure low during this week's cold snap, are assured that it will not be long before the enlarged line to the gas field is completed, and all the gas any resident needs will be supplied.

After completing the line, a new pilot control regulator will be installed.

City fathers state that they expect all work to be completed before winter weather sets in.

ABOUT HALF OF COTTON CROP IS GINNED

A total of 647 bales of cotton had been ginned in Schleicher County up to Tuesday noon. Of this number 240 had been ginned at Moore's and 407 at Farmers' Gin.

Employees this year at the gins are: Farmers: G. L. Ballew, mgr.; Payne Robinson, book keeper, Eldon McAngus and Clarence Davis; at Moore's, Jack and Jene Moore, who run the gin.

It is estimated that about half of this year's crop has been ginned.

PERMANENT ANTI - FREEZE IS SCARCE HERE

As cool weather gets under way, Schleicher County motorists find themselves in the same predicament as motorists all over the state in trying to buy anti-freeze for their cars, trucks, etc.

There was very little Prestone Zerex, and other permanent-type Ethylene-Glycol base solutions on the market. Some stations have received no anti-freeze of any kind and those that have the permanent-type have only enough (or not enough) for their regular customers. As one station owner said, "I have plenty of Ethylene-Glycol for all my regular customers, but those of my friends that I didn't see all summer should not expect to get my best anti-freeze this winter." Most of the stations have plenty of the Methynol type, which protects against freezing, but has the disadvantage of evaporating. There are three types of anti-freeze, according to a local station operator. The cheapest — and most plentiful — is (A) Alcohol base, it stinks and it evaporates. (B) Methynol base—it doesn't smell but it does evaporate. (C) Ethylene Glycol base, permanent anti-freeze, doesn't smell, doesn't evaporate. The best known brand of this type is Prestone, but it is also marketed under other brand names. This last type was selling at from $4 to $5 a gallon early this week, to the fortunate few that got it.

Most operators do not expect to get any further shipments in, but a few have the promise of some later on.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my thanks and appreciation for the many cards, visits, and flowers sent me during my accident. I especially appreciate the kindness of the coaches, and the football boys. c

SHORT WAVE SET IN OPERATION AT UTILITIES CO.

The short wave set at the West Texas Utilities Co., which has been in use for about two months, is in fine working order and is a great help to the company, according to Jerry Pennington, local manager The set was installed August 16 and has needed only minor adjustments since that time.

The set is designed for use in company communications and has already saved employees a grea deal of time. Pennington can call Utilities offices in other cities much faster than on the telephone. It has proved useful when lines break throughout this area, because employees can communicate quickly by the short wave, can switch lines, and thus give customers almost uninterrupted service. The set is especially useful when telephone lines are out of order, and could be used for communication by the entire town in case of emergency.

Pennington at his office can contact high-line crews who may be far out in the county working, and thus save time for both parties.

There are four licensed operators for the set: Pennington, Mrs. Pennington, Mrs. Ola Mae Harris, and Albert McGinnes.

In addition to the receiver and transmitter at the Utilities office, there is a receiver and remote control transmitter at Pennington's home, which is useful for night calls. There are also receivers and transmitters on the company pickups of high line crews working out of San Angelo.

An order has been put in for a similar receiver and transmitter for the Eldorado pickup, but it is not known when it will be delivered due to scarcity of materials.

Call letters for Eldorado are KHQT. The set, made by General Electric, is an FM (frequency modulation) set, which eliminates static.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC:

Your courtesies will remain with us, and we trust you will remain with our successor. Mr. Robbins has been with the J. C. Penny Co. for 8 years and with Burr's for 5 or 6 years as manager for their department store, and has decided to enter business for himself. We welcome him and his wife to our city and trust their stay will be pleasant and prosperous. We commend them to you and ask that you remain with them. Mr. Hudgens will continue with Mr. Robbins in the business, and will be pleased to meet you as usual.

Let's Weigh the Evidence

Your scales can be a valuable ally to your judging eye! For years livestock breeders have kept weight and performance records, as well as pedigrees. Now many commercial producers are taking a tip from them. Recording birth weights and weaning weights of calves, pigs and lambs. Using their records to help cull, to select their likeliest breeding stock.

There is lots of evidence of the value of your scales in helping your eye. Here are just a few examples:

1) At Purdue University they weighed 7,554 pigs from 784 litters. Here's what they found. Pigs that weighed THREE pounds at birth averaged 28 pounds at weaning. But pigs that weighed TWO pounds at birth weighed only 21 pounds at weaning. Of the heavy pigs, 77% lived to weaning age, against only 49% of the light pigs. And right up to market weight, the heavier pigs had a higher rate of gain.

2) The U. S. D. A. has kept a 14-year record on beef calves. Birth weights vary from 40 to 109 pounds. Their finding: heavier-than-average calves reach a 500-pound weaning weight and 900-pound marketing weight faster than lighter-than-average calves. You know what that means! Less feed. More and quicker profit.

3) Sheep Experiment Station men at Dubois, Idaho, find they can use the scales to select breeding stock for greater production in the future. Their ewe lambs, which are heavier than average at weaning time, prove to be the best producers in total lamb weight and fleece weights.

4) At the University of Wyoming they divided dairy heifers into light and heavy weight groups. The "heavies" weighed 24 pounds more at birth. But at six months they averaged 43 pounds more per animal.

You need a good "judging eye" to tell you whether an animal has good conformation, is true to type, etc. But the evidence of recorded weights does point strongly to a general rule which can help your eye:

Keep or buy animals heaviest at birth or weaning!

MAP OF "STEER ROUTE"

From grass range to gas range, in our big nation most of the livestock is raised far from where it is eaten—an average of more than 1,000 miles. Swift & Company helps bridge this gap and balance the supply in one area with the demand in another. Efficient processing and distribution keep the meat moving to markets all over the country. For these services Swift earns a profit of a fraction of a cent a pound. This has no noticeable effect on either meat or livestock prices. It's the demand for the available supply in the nation-wide markets which governs the price of meat and thus the price of livestock. For the price we pay for animals must be based on what the meat and by-products will bring.

Early Fall Roundup

Rams equipped with a web harness for holding colored chalk, help "write" their own breeding records. This device is being used in the breeding flocks of many large Wyoming ranchers. It helps owners keep their records. They know when ewes will lamb . . . which lambs are from which sire.

Many feeder cattle are prone to contract shipping fever. This disease is a type of pneumonia. It may be brought on by fatigue, irregular feeding and exposure. Vaccination, two weeks before shipping, helps reduce the danger, reports the University of Illinois. Cattle arriving in the feed lot should be protected from cold winds and rain. Light, bulky feeds like whole oats and roughage should be fed. Sick animals should be isolated promptly and a veterinary called.

Control swine parasites—make more profit, suggests the University of Minnesota. Even fall pigs may be infested with internal parasites. Strict sanitation is the key to control. Clean and scrub farrowing pens with boiling lye water. Wash the sides and udders of sows with soapy water before farrowing. After farrowing keep the pigs on clean pasture until bad fall weather sets in.

Prices of Hogs May Rise or Fall But Competition Sets Them All

I have been with Swift & Company for 46 years. Most of my work has had to do with the buying of hogs and selling of pork and pork products. I would like to make a point that I believe should be of interest to you, as producers.

Do you remember when the top price for hogs in Chicago was 5½ cents a pound? Some sold for as low as 3¢ per pound. That was in December, 1932. This year hogs hit an all-time high of more than 30 cents a pound. No meat packing company can control either livestock or meat prices. More than 3,500 competing meat packers and 22,500 other commercial slaughterers see to that. So do 35,000,000 meat-eating families. No packer's buyer can hold down the price of livestock. No packing company could boost up the price of meat.

Now, here's the point I want to get across to you. Those prices, both lowest and highest, were set by (1) the supply of hogs, and (2) the demand for pork.

J. M. Lund

Mr. Lund, guest editor this month, is Vice-President of Swift & Company in charge of hog buying, processing and distribution of pork products.

Conserving Grass Is Profitable

by B. W. Allred
Soil Conservation Service
Fort Worth, Texas

B. W. Allred

The safest way to maintain a thriving livestock industry is to keep the ranges well stocked with vigorous, productive grasses—and covered with a protective shield of left-over grass. In animal production, sound grazing management is as important as breeding.

Grassland vigor and durability depend upon correct cropping. Lenient use and alternate rests help the plants to reproduce from seed, tillers, rootstalks and surface runners. When grasses flourish, greater animal gains are made.

Observations of bluestem show that when about half the top growth is grazed (on the average), livestock gains may be 25% higher than when 75% is eaten. One bluestem meadow mowed repeatedly 4 to 6 inches high yielded nearly 30% more hay than a similar area cut 2 inches high.

When left-over grass breaks the force of beating rain, moisture penetrates six or seven times deeper than when the ground is bare. Springs are sustained in even flow on leafy grasslands. Litter shades and cools the ground, cuts down evaporation. It finally decays and unites with the soil to form porous mould in which teeming millions of beneficial organisms process soil nutrients that plants must have.

That portion of grass consumed each year provides profit. The portion left maintains plant vigor, protects soil and insures continued production.

INDIVIDUAL PORK ROASTS

4 1-inch-thick shoulder pork chops
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
2 cups bread crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped onion
⅛ teaspoon sage
1 teaspoon salt

Spread chops with mustard. Make a dressing of bread, onions and seasonings with just enough water to moisten. Brown chops in a heavy skillet. When well browned, top chops with dressing pressed firm. Bake covered in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes. Uncover and bake 15 to 20 minutes until dressing is crisp and brown. (Yield: 4 servings.)

The Red Wagon

No doubt you've seen the food trucks, so gaily painted red, that travel 'round the country, helping keep our people fed? The story of these trucks is a story you should know—it started in New England, some ninety years ago. There a boy, Gustavus Swift, who later won renown, bought a heifer, butchered it, then sold it 'round the town. Stave made a little profit—two dollars, it is said. It wasn't much to start on, but it helped him get ahead. His wagon—yes, you've guessed it—from which he sold his meat, was a vivid red in color, to be noticed on the street. Stave moved on to Boston when his trade began to grow, then headed for Chicago, where he started Swift & Co. Now the Swift trucks deliver meat and butter by the ton, and they're counted by the thousands instead of only one. To this day Swift trucks are red, that all the world may know this trademark of the business Swift started years ago . . . and on each load delivered, Swift earns a service fee —a fraction of a cent a pound, saved by efficiency.

Will SHE HAVE TO GO TO WORK?

Will your widow have to go to work "to keep things together and make ends meet?" Will she be prepared to enter a lucrative profession . . . fill an executive's chair . . . start a business of her own? Or will she have to seek employment wherever she can find it, at whatever she can get?

And you can give her that security through Southwestern Life Insurance.

If you are 35 and your wife is, say, 32, by saving as little as $13.50 a week you can assure her $100 a month for life. To Dunk or Not To Dunk?

Dunking doughnuts is Sober Hopkins' favorite morning pastime ... and for a long time Ma Hopkins has been trying to break him of the habit. Feels it sets a bad example for the children.

So one morning she puts a heavy frosting of chocolate on the doughnuts ... figuring that will stop him. Sober thinks it over for a while and then: Dunk! Taste? Smile!! And Sober compliments the missus on the lovely mocha flavor!

I guess there'll always be two schools of thought: to dunk or not to dunk. But from where I sit, it's a matter of personal choice and taste—like some folks prefer beer to cider, ale to beer. And the less we criticize those differences of taste, the better.

In fact, Ma Hopkins got so curious about the flavor of chocolate-covered doughnuts dunked in coffee, that she tried it herself. Now—you've guessed it—she's a daily dunker, too!

PECAN NUTS NOW FALLING ON LOCAL TREES

Those Schleicher County residents who have pecan trees are pleased with an average good crop this year. The nuts are starting to fall and harvesting is under way in this part of the state.

Planted in Schleicher County partly for shade, the trees usually require watering and the nuts are not grown on a large scale.

Beefsteak is good. But there are more calories per pound in pecans. According to nutrition experts, pecans have 3,336 calories per pound, while a pound of beefsteak has only 1,635. Turkey follows up a poor third with only 1,060 calories per pound.

In other words, more calories can be bought for a dollar in pecan meats than in most any other type of energy food. And the next few months of the fall season offer the best opportunity for using pecans in food mixtures at reasonable prices.

Texas will harvest one of its largest pecan crops in history this year—close to 42 million pounds. The recent dry weather has kept their size down a little below average this year, but the meats are plump, rich and oily.

Talon Staff At Work on Annual

The "Talon" staff have selected the cover for the Eldorado public school yearbook, and have almost finished the format for all of the classes, according to Frances Williams, editor-in-chief. The staff and their sponsor, Miss Jewel Shelton, have been working hard this month to complete organization and to "get the ball rolling" on all phases of their one big job—to put out a first-rate annual for the school.

Students are reminded that if they want their picture in their class section of the annual, they should approve the proofs this week This is also the closing week for the down-payment of $1 on subscriptions.

The annual will be ready for distribution sometime in the spring.

—The Success, $2.00 per year.

FIRST GRADE UNIT

The first grade at the public school, with Miss Thelma Ellington as teacher, have begun a circus unit and have decorated their room appropriately. Along one wall are colored cut-outs of circus animals, which were colored in pastels by the children, and other drawings. On display also are elephants, seals, and other animals which the children made of modeling clay. Latest addition to the room is a circus tent, constructed of heavy cardboard and colored blue, which is large enough to hold several children at once.
