MURDER CHARGE FILED ON ABBOTT

HARDING NAME DRAGGED INTO TEAPOT PROBE

INVESTIGATION NOT TO STOP WITH BONDS; PAPER SALE UP

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—Inquiry into the financial affairs of the late President Harding by the senate Teapot Dome committee will go further than to determine whether any of the Liberty bond profits of the Continental Trading company of Canada came into his possession.

"We shall have to determine whether there were any oil stocks or other securities that might have emanated from the oil deals into which we are inquiring," Chairman Nye said today. "We will have to go into that as well as also re-open the matter of the sale of the Marion Star. The Star was owned by the late president.

Confer With Executors
The examination of the records of the Harding estate will be made by an investigator who will be sent to Marion to confer with executors of the state.

The North Dakota senator said the inquiry also would go back to the time Harding became president and continue through the records to the time of his death.

Turning to the political campaign contribution phase of the inquiry, Chairman Nye said he thought the revelations to date would "make it extremely difficult to raise funds for either party as they have been raised in the past."

More Stringency Seen
If the inquiry accomplishes nothing more than that, it will have done much good," the North Dakota senator added. "I hope out of the whole thing can come a more clearly defined corrupt practices act so that political campaigns can be conducted within some measure of reason both as to contributions and expenditures."

Bonds Trail Leads To Home of Hays

SULLIVAN, Ind., Mar. 20.—The trail of the missing Continental Trading company Liberty bonds today had led to Sullivan, Ind., the home town of Will H. Hays, former national republican chairman, and special investigator A. M. Fisher, a representative of Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, of the senate Teapot Dome investigating committee, was here to investigate.

Fisher questioned Sullivan citizens and checked at different Sullivan banks in an attempt to prove or disprove that a block of the missing Liberty bonds of the Continental company had passed through the hands of Sullivan citizens.

REBELS SHOW BOLDER FRONT

ATTACK PLANES WITH RIFLE FIRE HURTING ONE OBSERVER

MANAQUA, N.C., Mar. 20.—Stiff resistance put up by rebels against marine planes today indicated that followers of General Sandino are losing their fear of aerial attack and becoming bolder. Previously the Sandinistas scurried to cover when they heard an airplane motor. Now they are attempting to bring them down with rifle and machine gun fire.

Captain Francis E. Pierce, an observer in one of the planes, was hit in the foot during a sharp fight with rebels at an abandoned mine in the vicinity of Murra, twenty miles southeast of Jalapa. It was estimated that from 50 to 200 insurgents attacked the planes. The flyers dropped bombs on them and returned their machine guns upon the men on the ground. Marine headquarters would not hazard a guess as to how effective this was.

After Captain Pierce was struck the plane returned to Octolal, about 10 miles from the scene. A bullet hole in his parachute pack, but was not injured. Several other planes were sent to the scene and with the assistance of a number of patrols tried to cut off the rebels from escaping to the northward. It was not known whether they made contact with the rebels.

Fire Discovered In Ossining Pen

OSHING, N. Y., Mar. 20.—Fire was discovered in the mattress factory at Sing Sing prison today and when the inmate fire department was unable to check the flames the prison gates were opened to admit the entire Ossining fire department. An hour after the fire started it was said to be under control but was still burning and great clouds of smoke rose above the prison walls.

As far as could be learned none of the prisoners had taken advantage of the confusion to attempt an escape. The entire force of 135 guards patrolled the walls and yards to prevent any outbreak among the prisoners.

FEE PROVISION IN FARM BILL IS GIVEN OKEH

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—By a vote of 13 to 8, the equalization fee principle of the McNary-Haugen relief bill was approved today by the house agriculture committee.

Seven republicans and six democrats voted in support of the fee while six republicans and two democrats joined in the opposition.

After the vote Chairman Haugen predicted that the bill would be favorably reported tomorrow with probably nineteen members voting in its support.

Mr. Haugen said that the equalization fee provisions in the house bill were practically the same as those in the farm relief bill, recently approved by the agricultural committee.

Under the section applying to the fee, he added, the proposed federal farm board would be directed to seek stabilization of the agricultural industry by first applying the loan features of the bill. In the event that co-operative and other farm organizations should be unable to bring about stabilization in this way, he said, the board then would be empowered to resort to the equalization fee.

The bill would authorize an appropriation of $400,000,000 of which $75,000,000 would be available for loans to co-operatives and $25,000,000 for the purchase of equipment and other facilities needed by the co-operatives.

SPINNERS PAID HEAVILY AS RESULT, MARSH ASSERTS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—Charges that a "world wide propaganda" was fostered in 1926-27 by the Houston, Texas, Cotton firm of Anderson, Clayton and company to induce cotton spinners to transfer their dealings from the New York to the New Orleans cotton exchange were added before the senate marketing inquiry today by Arthur R. Marsh of the New York exchange to the numerous accusations of market manipulation he already has made against the Texas firm.

SPINNERS PAY HEAVILY

Due to these manipulations he added, the net result of this propaganda activity was that spinners paid "about $6 more a bale" for their cotton than would otherwise have been the case.

Marsh said the New Orleans exchange had sent out circulars to spinners in 1926 urging transfer of operations from New York to New Orleans, a "Mr. Legrande" of the New Orleans organization being "very active in Europe" in that connection. While it was a "natural effort" on the part of the New Orleans exchange to increase its business, the witness said he implied that the Texas cotton firm had used this to increase its manipulation operations.

Spinners generally followed the suggestions as to transfer of operations from New York to New Orleans, Marsh said. New Orleans flour, he added, was "a very good flour" and "I am a lone one and want a husband," she said. "I suppose I will be adjudged mercenary for asking for the $15,000 to marry, but I do not wish any of the money for myself."

"I am making my home with my widowed mother and I want to get her out of debt and pay the mortgage on the home.

"I have a young son, and it is my ambition to see that he receives a good education."

"Ever since the death of my husband three years ago I have been struggling to make ends meet, and I have found it very difficult."

The man with the $15,000 must be somewhere between 30 and 50, she would prefer a husband who is interested in good books and music. I like the theater, but cabarets have little appeal to me."

The details of settling the mortgage and investing the money for the education of her boy will be handled by her attorney, she says.

Newsreel Man Here To "Shoot" Plains

Paramount News reel man for the southwest district, who is to take "shots" of various activities on South Plains which will be shown on the screen over the nation.

Today he was accompanied to Lockney by Garnett O. Reeves, publicity manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, where a film of the construction of the new Denver railroad from Fort Worth will be made. Coming back to Lubbock he will make a number of feet of action and scene pictures on the campus of Texas Technological college.

My dear Marrye:

Parents are blamed for everything. Maybe they have made mistakes but how in the world you can hold your friend Marrye's mother responsible because Marrye does her I can't see.

And certainly I haven't ever done anything to justify your being like some of the girls I see around here—girls with nice mothers, too. They probably were brought up about the same way you were. So how can you blame their mothers because they are nice and sweet and act like mothers?

Your own mother-in-law is a good example of one of these, much about parents. Goodness knows poor Mrs. Meredith did everything she could to bring her children up God fearing and respectable. Of course she was well along in years when Florence was born and you might say that the girl didn't have much of her personal attention because her mother's been along ever since Florence was little.

Would you say, then, that a mother who hasn't really been able to show her daughter's childhood is to blame if the girl turns out to be one of the boys' leading flappers? It can't work both ways, Marrye. If you blame Mrs. Meredith, you can't blame mothers like me, will like me, and Mrs. Wells. I imagine we are typical of the average mother.

And if the average mother is to blame for the wildness of our modern girls, then who is responsible for Florence? I think it is the other boys and girls she associates with. There isn't a person in town who doesn't worry about the crowd Florence and her boy friend, Kenneth, are running around with.

The other night they congregated in an abandoned house near the river and "threw a party," as Frank says. When it was over they burned down the house and some of the sparks flew over to the Phillips farm and set the barn on fire. There wasn't much damage done for they all rushed over and put the fire out. But Phillips is threatening to sue the parents of everyone of them. I guess they will have to pay him more than the barn is worth to keep him from making a bigger scandal of it. It was early in the morning when the house burned so you can judge how long the party lasted. Phillips says some of the boys were tipsy.

It'd like to hear you blame the parents for that!

Love,
MOM

What is Quality?

Quality cannot be defined as being merely the fineness of the raw material used in the production of a commodity. The equipment and the facilities for producing largely determine the quality. And all these things are included in the products made in this plant—raw materials of finest quality—ample facilities for manufacturing—and sanitation carried out to the highest degree.

TEXAS CLUBS GET "BAPTISM OF FIRE" IN EXHIBITION GAMES

TIGERS AND WHITE SOX CAUSE MOST OF BIG LEAGUE TROUBLE; FULL CARDS SCHEDULED TODAY

TEAMS HOLD OWN WITH MINORS; CATS LEAD IN COMPETITION

(By Associated Press)
Texas league teams training for the 1928 season are getting a baptism of fire in exhibition games a number of which appear on their schedule this week.

Today's schedule called for the following contests: At Wichita Falls: Spudlers vs. Chicago White Sox; at Weatherford: Fort Worth Cats vs. Oklahoma City Indians; at Lake Charles, La.: Beaumont Ex-actors vs. Kansas City Blues; at Waco: Cubs vs. the House of David; at Houston: Buffs vs. Rice Institute Owls.

Face Well Against Minors
While the Texas leaguers have had their troubles mostly at the expense of the Detroit Tigers and the White Sox, they have fared well against minor league clubs, having broken about even in the latter contests.

Fort Worth gets major credit in results for the Detroit and Chicago invasions. The Detroit Tigers beat the White Sox in two out of three games, each of which were featured by straight hurling.

Wichita Falls had a light workout in preparation for their clash with Chicago. The spudlers were cheered by announcement that Sweden, third baseman, would be in the lineup but regretful that Benton, veteran shortstop, would watch the game from the bench.

Sports Beat Centenary
At Shreveport the Sports won a 3 to 0 and planned to continue routine training today. Wednesday they will take on the House of David.

Waco clubbed the House of David team into submission with a 10 to 3 score, gathering 12 safeties in turning the trick. Pett, Governet and Stein, all new men, pitched for the Cubs.

At Dallas the Steers battled among themselves, the regulars captained by Manager Ellison, defeating the Yammigans, 3 to 1.

The Houston Buffs had a thorough workout hitting and fielding, and planned to sample collegiate baseball today in a contest with the Rice Owls.

Beaumont Plays Blues
Battling and fielding practice was also the order of the day at Beaumont as Manager Robertson, who has the Exporters for the Kansas City Blues. Robertson announced that Derman, third baseman, had been traded to Mobile for Hank Shreiber, a shortstop.

San Antonio fans are planning a big homecoming for the Bears, who have been training at Fredricksburg and will return to the home lot Friday for a three game series with Detroit.

Hooks and Slides

Too Heavy a Burden
After two seasons of great indoor running during which he defeated Edwin Wide, the Swedish star, and Dr. Otto Peltzer, the fine German runner, it is only the proper thing to congratulate Lloyd Hahn, America's hope in the Olympic middle-distance races, and tell him he is a great runner.

But it is excessive enthusiasm and optimism to pronounce Hahn now as a sure winner in the 1500-meter race in Amsterdam. It is unfair to Hahn also as it places upon him a burden of duty he shouldn't be forced to go to the starting line this summer thinking "If I don't win this race the whole United States will think I'm a bust."

With appropriate modesty, Hahn has refused to accept the nomination as the winner of the Olympic 1500-meter championship. In fact he has been careful enough to point out frankly his doubt that he will be able to win in Amsterdam.

Too much should not be expected of Hahn in the Olympic races for a number of reasons. He knows the handicaps he will have to carry better than the majority of his runners.

Weather Plays Part
Indoor running is a strange sport to practically all of the foreign runners. Wide and Peltzer showed convincingly on the board tracks in this country that they were five and ten yards off their outdoor races, and even the great Nurmi had trouble in adjusting his pace to the sharply banked turns on small tracks.

Some of the best of the American athletes can not perform with the same consistency indoors and outdoors. Loren Murchison for years was almost unbeatable on indoor tracks, but there were a number of sprinters who could beat him on the cinders. The same is true of track Miller, the Harvard sprinter and football star.

The foreign runners know their dirt. If you want to put it that way. They also are accustomed to tricky continental weather. It is in these seasons like this when weather is mentioned as a factor. Californians used to ridicule the complaint of eastern football teams that weather handicapped them in games played on the far western coast, but tricky weather such as they have around Amsterdam might wreck a team of athletes not

ONLY ONE BOUT HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS IS SEEN

RICKARD SAYS HEENEY LOGICAL MAN FOR TUNNEY SCRAP

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Mar. 20.—Apparitions are to be seen in heavy weight championship fight this year. So much has come out of conferences at Miami between Gen Tunney and Tex Rickard. The situation is complicated by the New York boxing authorities, asking Gene to name his opponent forth with.

Tunney and Rickard have agreed upon a title affair to be held July at a place not yet decided upon.

Rickard offers Heeney in the event Rickard abides by the wishes of the champion, Tex Heeney, the New Zealander, will be the challenger.

The New York State Athletic Commission yesterday wired Tunney at Miami Beach notifying him that his six-months period of grace to settle upon an opponent would expire on Thursday and ask for a reply. The commission informed him that challenger, Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney and Johnny Risko, were on file in the order.

Meanwhile, at Miami Beach, Rickard had persuaded Gene to drop plans for a June bout and decide upon a July match instead. Rickard announced that the July struggle would be the only heavy weight championship of the year.

Requirements covered by the challenger shortly but that he would not be Jack Dempsey who is now listed as "retired" despite feeling that the Manassa Mauler will eventually get into the struggle.

Rickard, a statement from him made a good many statements lately and have nothing more to say just now.

Rickard declared the decision reached with Tunney automatically covered the requirements sought by the New York commission.

Rickard said he would announce the challenger shortly but that he would not be Jack Dempsey who is now listed as "retired" despite feeling that the Manassa Mauler will eventually get into the struggle.

First Jazz Studio Is Opened In City

The thump of the piano, the moaning of the saxophone and the plink-plink of the ukulele is reverberating in a studio in the Palace theater building as Lubbock's first teacher of "jazz" music plies his trade. The teacher is J. C. Norwood, formerly of Dallas, who opened his studio here today.

According to the teacher, he has been connected with Mackredon studios at Dallas and Fort Worth, having acted in the capacity of chief instructor in the Dallas school and later, manager of the Fort Worth studio. He will teach only the modern music, he said.

Flints are still cut, or "knapped," at Brandon in Norfolk; near the town is Grimes Graves, where there are flint mines and the dwelling used by the miners who worked in them 3000 years ago.

accustomed to cold, damp weather. The American trainers learned that in the 1920 games in Antwerp and any trainer can tell you what a chill will do to athletes' muscles. It must be remembered also that Dr. Peltzer is best over the 800-meter distance and also that he had a sore foot in his last race against Hahn in this country.

Hahn, of course, will do his best and his best may be enough to win but it should be borne in mind that his best on a European track might not be up to his American time.

Loaded With Brains
When Connie Mack gets down for his daily "Now I lay me down to sleep" this summer he ought to feel secure in the confidence that his Athletics should be able to carry on where he left them if he had to leave them.

If he should get a severe cold or become the victim of some other infirmity, the team ought to be able to get along well with Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins, Kie Gleason or Ira Thomas as acting manager.

Such a sort of managerial talent on a club surely ought to handle the strategy end of the business but it might not be so good for the playing end. Especially when there is so much important representation with the brains.

Mack is a rather shrewd individual and it may be surmised now that he had good reasons and logical reasons for promoting several of several coaches. That Eddie Collins is his chief executive officer and the highest-ranking lieutenant on the club.

The A's ought to have some outfield with Sogaker, Cobb and Simmons, but Simmons is a very tricky player around Amsterdam might wreck a team of athletes not

WANER, HILL AND BARNHART NURSING SLIGHT INJURIES IN PIRATES' CAMP; THREE INDIAN REGULARS ALSO HURT

SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 20.—(AP)—Slight injuries have again appeared among the Pittsburgh Pirates but Manager Donie Bush believes that none will be seriously incapacitated.

Lloyd Waner was kept out of yesterday's game when a Charley-horse developed. Carmen Hill, bespectacled hurler, complained of soreness in his pitching arm and Clyde Barnhart was nursing a severe cold.

Three Regulars Indians Injured
CLEVELAND, Mar. 20.—(AP)—The "kick that has followed the Cleveland Indians in their training season at New Orleans had departed them today and three regulars were on the injured list.

Shortstop Joe Sewell was hit on the face by a batted ball and suffered a split lip. Pitchers Joe Shaver and Garland Buckeye limped about as a result of having stepped on their feet. In addition, Coach Howard Shanks is confined to his bed with an injured leg.

Houston Youngster Aids Cardinal Win
AVON PARK, Fla., Mar. 20.—(AP)—Fred Frankhouse, a youngster from Houston, took most of yesterday's success in the St. Louis Cardinal victory over Indianapolis. After Flint Rhem's wild debut, in which Indianapolis got three runs, Frankhouse stepped in for three innings and allowed only two hits.

Chick Hafey and Ray Blades, who stepped out of the casualty list to appear for the first time yesterday, looked good. Hafey's sinus trouble and Blades' injured knee failed to stop them yesterday and it was Hafey's two bagger which sealed the 1 to 3 score in favor of the Cardinals.

Manush Appears On Field For Browns
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Mar. 20.—(AP)—The splint on the arm of outfielder Heinie Manush has been removed and the St. Louis Browns were glad to have him on the field. He is a new addition and an injury to his arm kept him in Detroit for some time after the training season started.

White Sox To Play Wichita Spudlers
WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Mar. 20.—(AP)—The touring Chicago White Sox were in Wichita Falls today, looking for base hits and a victory to toss off the jinx that has clung to them for the past two ball games.

Although the Sox sparked in defense yesterday, they were able to gather only four scattered hits and Fort Worth won 1 to 0.

Phillie Recruits Are Proving Worth

Braves Look Good To Rival Townsman
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 20.—(AP)—The Braves look good to their fellow townsman, Manager Bill Carrigan of the Red Sox. Carrigan declared the Braves had plenty of pinch and what was equally important, seemed to have some formidable pitching talent. He forecast one of the best seasons in a long while for the warriors.

TEAM'S FUTURE CARED FOR BY NEW MANAGERS

47 PLAYERS IN CAMP RANGE IN AGE FROM 18 TO 39 YEARS

BY BRIAN BELL
NEW ORLEANS, La., Mar. 20.—Cleveland has the current edition of the Indians of the American League in training and with it the classes of 1931 and 1932. There are 47 players in camp, ranging from the 39-year-old Grover Hartley, to the 18-year-old Grover Hartley.

With a new manager and new owners, Cleveland is looking far ahead. Some of the two score players now in uniforms, will not wear this livery during the season, but they are sure to don the colors again in years to come.

One Recruit Makes Good
One of the minor league graduates has already made good, Eddie Morgan, former Tulane star, who was a Southern Association sensation with the New Orleans Pelicans last season has been given Tris Suenker's old place, center field. Charlie Jamison will again play left field and lead off, and Homer Summa, who knows his right field wall in Cleveland, will try to outguess that barrier through another season. Gerfen and Langford, who have been left behind, promise to remain as utility outfielders. Gill, a rangy young chap, and Spear, just as young and almost as rangy, will be heard from later.

The veteran George Burns will play first base and his doubles, Leo Pincus will start at second base and consistent Joe Sewell at short. Johnny Hodapp will play third. Manager Peckinpaugh will act as an infield substitute as will his former teammate, Aaron Ward. Carl Lind, another Tulane alumnus, has a chance to join Moray in rooting for the green. The place is all cluttered up with young fellows who probably will make their mark on future baseball pages.

Jonah Goldstein, Syracuse University shortstop, and Ed Montague, third baseman from New Haven, have shown flashes which will win them places on the farm and a return ticket to Cleveland in the autumn. Fred Spurgeon, injured second baseman, will not be able to help the Indians until mid-season.

Sewell Main Receiver
Luke Sewell will carry the bulk of the catching burden with Mvatt and Hartley to help him. If a fourth catcher is retained, Martin Autry, who has been with the In-

Phone Convention Opens in Ft. Worth
FORT WORTH, Mar. 20.—(AP)—Approximately 200 visitors had arrived here for the Texas Independent Telephone company's 23rd annual convention which will open this afternoon. L. S. Gardner of Waco, secretary, estimated that the attendance for the four day convention will reach 450.

Speakers from several cities will be here to discuss problems that face the telephone companies. Better service to the public will be discussed, Gardner said.

Balloonist Killed When Chute Fails
PARIS, Mar. 20.—(AP)—The balloon jumper Bouché in testing a new parachute jumped 380 feet to his death today from the second platform of the Eiffel Tower.

Tests had been made successfully previously with sandbags, but when Bouché jumped the parachute failed to open. He was the second person to die in attempting a parachute jump from the tower.

Countryman Accepts Texas League Offer
BRYAN, Mar. 20.—(AP)—Bob Countryman, baseball coach at Texas A. and M. College, said today that he had declined the management of the Mexico Goshers of the Lone Star baseball league and would act as an umpire in the Texas League again this year.

LEGION PLANS MINSTREL FOR LUBBOCK SOON

COMMITTEE NAMED AT MONDAY MEETING TO WORK OUT DETAILS

A minstrel show, long talked by members and officials of Allen Post, Post of the American Legion here for the dual purpose of augmenting the treasury of the organization and offering the public some real entertainment appears now to be near reality as a result of the regular meeting of the Post Monday night when a central committee headed by W. P. Knox, South Plains scout executive, comedian and rope artist, was named by Post Commander H. L. Allen to begin arranging details for the show.

Wholly Local Talent
The minstrel is to be wholly of local talent, but the date and other details have not yet been arranged. The central committee, in general charge, will name other committees immediately. It is said, and it is anticipated that some time during the month of April the show will be given.
The meeting Monday night was one of the best on record of the Post, with Commander Allen in charge, and various and sundry matters interspersed with plenty of humor were disposed of.
The program, under the direction of Durwood H. Bradley, district attorney, was of unusual interest, and exhibited an entirely new phase of entertainment, and instruction in the form of classification talks by members of the Post pertaining to their particular line of work in the city. Other of similar nature are to follow.

Classification Talks
J. A. Raley, of the Lubbock Building and Loan association, opened the program with a brief but entertaining discussion of various phases of the association. He was followed by W. P. Knox, scout executive, who in addition to stressing the importance of boys' work in scouting, exhibited a few stunts with ropes, similar to one of Will Rogers' attractions. F. D. Hugg, local manager of Woolworth's store, then told a few of the high spots of the organization that is one of the lowest chain store groups in the world, telling of the early history and closing with a few statistics regarding volume of business done in a year's time.

Appeals were entertained from ex-service men at Post and Littlefield for assistance in organizing Legion posts at these two places, and this matter was left in the care of H. D. Woods, executive committee member from this, the 18th district, who assured that the appeals would be given attention.
District Convention
It is expected that a large delegation will go from here to the district convention at Plainview later.

in April, and preliminary plans were launched for a good representation of the Post at the national convention at San Antonio October 14 to 17. It is probable that the Post delegation will be accompanied by the Junior Cowboy Band from Post, one of the liveliest and most unique musical organizations in the state.

They'll never need to re-roof again! A few of the houses that we have "re-roofed for the best time."

J. B. Edwards, Res. J. G. Bacon, Res. F. W. Stauffer, Res. H. H. Shell, Res. J. A. McCreary, Res.

We've covered their homes with everlasting Johns-Manville Rigid Asbestos Shingles

SO often the best part of the house to be built is the first to need repairs—the roof. Covered with Johns-Manville Rigid Asbestos Shingles, it will never cost a cent for repairs or replacements.

The hexagonal shape of these shingles not only reduces the amount of material needed to protect your roof, and consequently the cost, but its broken lines lend a distinctive type of beauty to your home. One side of these shingles is gray, the other a warm, leather-like mixture of permanent colors; either side may be laid to the weather with charming effect.

A roof that never needs repairs, a roof that is completely proof, a roof that has a beauty and permanence such as this, is surely worth your consideration.

At that time, with no government money in its hands, he added, the market manipulating operations began in earnest. Marsh continued, declared that the firm, at the close of the world war had a capital of $5,000,000 compared to $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 it has accumulated since in market operations.

Marsh, New York cotton broker, on his many charges of market manipulation by the Houston cotton trading firm of Anderson Clayton and company, was again deferred before the senate cotton slump inquiry committee today as Marsh had further accusations to present in a supplementary direct statement.

...Denies Fuss Influence Marsh flatly denied that a personal controversy between himself

...and William L. Clayton, head of the Houston firm, had caused him to make charges of manipulation and anti-trust law violation against Clayton's firm. He had been moved solely by realization that topsy-turvy conditions in the cotton trade were due to the fact that the Houston operators had secured control of the cotton futures market, he declared.

...Against charging that Clayton in a speech had said no man could buy a bale of cotton "without being able to read my mind," Marsh asserting this was "pitifully true" and that various cotton trading firms had been "plucked to the bone" because they had guessed wrong as to what Clayton intended to do over a period of years.

...Alleged Corner Cited

...It was generally believed in the cotton trade, Marsh declared, that profitable deals in cotton sold to Germany after the war and government loans through the war financing corporation up to $100,000,000 in the postwar period had been cornered in Anderson Clayton operations up to 1922.

...At that time, with no government money in its hands, he added, the market manipulating operations began in earnest. Marsh continued, declared that the firm, at the close of the world war had a capital of $5,000,000 compared to $25,000,000 to $40,000,000 it has accumulated since in market operations.

THE JAZZ SINGER

Novelized by Arline De Haas
Taken from the scenario 'The Jazz Singer', Starring Al Jolson.
Copyright, 1927, By Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Jackie, son of Cantor Rabinowitz, preferring jazz to synagogue music,
leaves home. Ten years elapse.
Through Mary Dale, a dancer, Jackie, now Jack Robin, becomes a musical comedy jazz singer. The Cantor, discovering his son's profession, discovers him. Jack's show opens the eve of Yom Kippur.
Dillings, the backer of the show,
jealous of Mary's love for Jack,
withdraws his money, leaving Lee,
the producer, dependent on Jack for success. The Cantor is ill and Mrs. Rabinowitz comes to dress rehearsal to beg her son to sing in the synagogue that night. Unable to withstand her pleading, Jack returns home. Lee and Mary follow him.

CHAPTER XIX—Continued
"Nothing of the sort," Mary flared up. "You're being just as silly as he is. Why, that boy's crazy to make good for you. You ought to know that. Honestly, Harry, sometimes I wonder how on earth you ever got where you are when you know so little about people. Give Jack three days, and he'll be back, ready to sing his heart out for you."

"You take one look at him and you'll change your mind," Lee responded. "I know—I've been talking to him."

"Well, where is he? I want to see him. I've got to talk to him—bring him back to his senses. He can't stay down here. Why, his whole career will be ruined."

"I wish you could do something with him, Mary," Lee nodded thoughtfully. "But I don't think you can. I'm going to talk to his mother. You'd better, too. If we can convince her that he belongs to us uptown—and not down here—"

"Have you met his mother?" Lee nodded. "Well, then—you ought to know," Mary continued. "Harry she's a real person. I couldn't decide for a long while what to do.
Then I thought if I could show her the truth—she broke off as Mrs.
Rabinowitz entered. "How do you do, Mrs. Rabinowitz," Mary greeted the older woman.

"Hello, lady," Mrs. Rabinowitz smiled. "Your name I don't know,
so excited I was in the theater.
You came maybe you should hear Jackie sing tonight?"

"Where is Jack?" Mary questioned. "I'd like to see him."

"Right now you couldn't see him," she shook her head emphatically.
"His in the synagogue practicing with the choir. Open the window and you could hear him just like you was setting there." She went out and threw open the window.

"No, no, Miss Dale wants to talk to Jack," Lee interrupted impu-tently. "Miss Dale is from your friend?"
Mrs. Rabinowitz looked at Lee suspiciously.

ing of the clock broke the stillness
of the air.
CHAPTER XX
"I'm glad you came," Jack made no move to approach Mary. He only stared at her. He did not see his mother's frightened glance or notice her apparent emotional strain.

"Jackie," Mrs. Rabinowitz spoke faintly. "Jackie, I should ask you something. I want you should tell me the truth." Jack nodded. "Ja-kie answer me. Are you singing tonight because you love me and your papa and your God—because you want to be in the synagogue on the Day of Atonement—or is it in your heart you should sing jazz music in the theater?"

"Mama!" There was a hopeless terror in Jack's cry. He turned on Mary and Lee savagely. "What are you two doing here? What are you trying to do to me?" he demanded. "Did you put this into my mother's head?"

"I did, Jack," Lee admitted.
"And so did I," Mary insisted.
"Oh, Jack, won't you try to understand? I love you, Jack. I love you. I love you so much that I can be cruel to you for your own sake. I only want to know that you are really being true to yourself by staying here—and then I'll go. But I'll come back to you Jack—I'll woe back." Mary held out her hands, pleading. "Just tell me that you lied when you said that nothing was as dear to you as your work. Tell me those were lies—and then I'll go."

Jack clenched his teeth; the nails of his tense, shut fists dug deep into the palms of his hands. He turned to his mother. "Get ready, Mama.
We'll be late."

"Jack, tell us the truth before we go," Lee faced the boy about. "Do you or do you not want to come back to the theater. When I was talking to you just a few minutes ago didn't you want to come back with me. Tell me, Jack, didn't you?"

"Jack, when you were talking to me this afternoon," Mary broke in.
"I asked you whether you cared about your career on the stage. I can remember your answer, and the way you said it. You said: 'It's the only thing in the world I do care about.' Was that true?"

"Jackie, do you want to sing in the synagogue tonight?" Mrs. Rabinowitz questioned eagerly.
Jack looked about him in desperation. He was like a trapped animal now. There was no way to escape. He sank down in a chair, emotionally exhausted. "No, I don't want to," he muttered.

THE PLAINSMAN
 Says:
 That Girl on Broadway says where wealth and position safeguard gossip and inhumanity then poverty becomes and unmistakable badge of nobility.
 A tragedy was narrowly averted on a downtown street yesterday and in some respects it seems a shame that it was averted. Briefly, one Lubbock citizen was forced to resort to threats of bodily harm to make another man realize to his wife after making an impudent remark to her as she walked down the street.
 The Plainsman doesn't know who the principal actors in the little drama were, and furthermore he doesn't care who they were. He is only glad that the wife was able to reach her husband with the news in time for him to reach the man in the case and glad that the husband was of the type to force an apology.
 The streets of Lubbock must be kept safe for any woman, regardless of who she is, to walk along them without having to risk bearing insulting remarks from the sidewalks. A few well directed whiffs would not be amiss in such cases where unnecessary insulting or uncomplimentary remarks are dropped. At the least they might teach some badly needed lessons.
 The Plainsman doesn't know whether to be offended or pleased Jack Perrow, the agreeable manager of the J. C. Perrow store brought the writer a package of shaving accessories. For that The Plainsman is pleased. But after considering the matter as a matter of receipt of this most acceptable gift that maybe Jack was dropping a gentle hint that he should have more often and more efficiently shaved. It was not his case, but that's what you can tell.

But after considering the matter as a matter of receipt of this most acceptable gift that maybe Jack was dropping a gentle hint that he should have more often and more efficiently shaved.  It is doubtful if there is any part of the average man's routine duties more distasteful than shaving. Some men shave as a matter of course. But there are many of us who shave as a matter of necessity and only when shaving becomes a necessity. The Plainsman is one of the latter group.
 Now we get down to the point of the most connected disclaimer. If the men were as smart as the women it wouldn't be necessary to shave at all. It wouldn't be necessary to get a hair cut, or to wash one's face, or to comb one's hair. We'd build up such a detestable for the cleanly clipped neck and the smooth shaven face that the average man would be glad to get a hair cut, or to wash one's face, or to comb one's hair.  As a result, Holland today is "getting pretty fixated" in New York and London have tentacles reaching all over the world, but so also do the bankers of Amsterdam.
Saving Petroleum
 Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, has asked the governors of the oil producing states to co-operate with the federal government in getting uniform state and national laws to help conserve our petroleum resources.
 We can only hope that his efforts lead to success. Ordinarily we fail to realize just how much of our civilization is built on oil just stop and think for a minute what would happen if we should have no oil. Our entire social fabric would be disintegrated.
 Oil conservation is one of the most important problems facing us today. It is to be hoped that Secretary Work and the governors can find an effective program.
Fur-bearing Fish
 Every now and then amid the weighty news of presidential campaigns, Nicaraguan interventions and non-talking oil magnates comes a bit of news that has the freshness of a burst of cool air in July. Such an item appeared in the papers the other day when a Minnesota fisherman dropping a line through the ice in a cold northern lake, brought to the surface a fish—now, don't laugh—that had fur!
 All right, don't believe it. Probably it's impossible. But it was a refreshing story, anyway. Wanted Conn, never produced a better one. The horned frog of Texas pales in insignificance beside it. Such a story gives us hope for the future of journalism.
Employment
 Optimistic business forecasts for this year are being heard on every side. With them comes a less welcome revelation that the employment situation is far from good. Figures vary widely, but it is apparent that unemployment today is practically where it was in the summer of 1924.
 However, most students admit that this is not so much due to business recession as to the continued increase in the use of labor-saving machinery. Factory stages are high and production is picking up; only in many cases, factories are producing more goods with fewer men than formerly.
 This may work hardship for the moment, but it is not cause for alarm. It is a situation that will adjust itself. Our business leaders will have to give the matter earnest attention, of course; but they have the brains to find a satisfactory solution.
 Women voters are to meet in Chicago April 15 to study city rule. It's usually pretty hard to get in interviews with gang leaders, they say. But an easy matter in Chicago.

Machado's Iron Rule In Cuba Makes Newspaper Men Fear Revolt, Rodney Dutcher Discovers In Nation's Capital

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING AND DOWN BROADWAY
 NEW YORK, Mar. 20.—Manhattan magicians—those monopolized men seemingly fastened to the windows of Fifth Avenue clubs. Wonder if I'll ever get used to them? Except George Arliss, the actor for whom the monopoly seems to have been invented—And he generally wears one.
 What a contrast to those growing birds of men who form the Bowery broad line! Perfect groomed, orange-haunted men of the Bowery—yet each class stands gaping into space, duly expressing less—Can the man in the Fifth Avenue window be as hungry as his brother of the slums? Why not? Man hungers for things other than food.
 Those poor dimmers on Monday nights. They call it the Club Street Club. I believe. And they gather in an art-deco hotel eating place on the fringe of Greenwich Village and read their verses, hour upon hour. Most of it pretty bad!—An idea here and there and a hint of poetry.—Moon-suck maid from Brooklyn tuning in.—With a little "meekness" going on in the corner.—In poets corners, as well as on Fifth Avenue corners, or Squidunk High School steps.—And Lew Ney, self-imposed mayor of Greenwich Village, acting as interloper.—An odd duck who tries to keep the old traditions of the Village alive.—Don't ask me why.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer
 WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—One of the most interesting indirect results of the Pan-American conference in Havana was the confirmation of reports that the United States had a miniature Mussolini in its front yard who had established an iron-handed dictatorship over a republic which is little more than our protectorate.
 Occasional Cubans who managed to get up here without being shot or jailed had been telling us extraordinary tales about the rule of President Gerardo Machado, and American newspaper men returned from the conference with the report that they were all true.
 They seem to agree, for instance, that any Cuban who values his life does not set up shop as a political enemy of Mister Machado.
 Cuba became an independent republic in 1902 subject to certain limitations, which provided that the United States may exercise the power to intervene in order to preserve the independence of Cuba and to maintain a government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty.
 Various Cubans have implored the United States to intervene to maintain such a government, but there seems no chance of such intervention. They charged that in spite of civil service laws established by an act of Congress, the United States has supplanted civil employees by the military and supported lottery banks from which he obtains money to effect enactment of laws necessary to maintain his dictatorship.
 This is the picture of Machado's dictatorship as gained from Cubans who oppose it, and from several competent American journalists.
 Machado has suppressed all opposition to his regime, largely by force. He has forbidden and prevented operation of any opposition party. Comparison of his power may be made by imagining President Coolidge suppressing the Democratic party. Police have brutally routed attempted political meetings and a petition of 30,000 voters for a meeting was refused.
 The Cuban Congress has withdrawn from the people the right to elect their political choice, wrecking the election laws established by Americans. Dr. Cosme de la Ferriere, once president of the League of Nations, and Enrique Jose Varona were among those who banded together to protest various abuses, but Machado sent his army after them.
 Machado and his Congress are having their terms extended two more years.
 Freedom of the press, as in Italy, has been abolished. Many opposition newspapers have been suppressed.
 Editors have been assassinated—Armando Andrie and Antonio Lopez were two. Others have been jailed, deported or forced to flee the country.
 Thanks to the American Federation of Labor, atrocities against Cuban labor leaders have gained considerable publicity. Many of these leaders have been mysteriously murdered, others have disappeared under suspicious circumstances and many others have been imprisoned.
 The A. F. of L. can supply the names of the victims—and has. It has been estimated that at least a hundred of them have disappeared or been killed. It cannot be proved legally that the Machado government encompassed these outrages, but the victims were its critics. With the aid of the army, Machado suppressed labor unions, with special attention to the Brotherhood of Railway Employees and the Longshoremen's Union, which were the strongest.
 Conditions are said to have improved a little for Cuban labor since President Green of the A. F. of L. protested publicly. Ferrera, Cuban ambassador here, answered the charges.
 The Havana University has been closed twice in the last year because of student protests against Machado's suppression of liberty.
 Members of the Cuban Congress are kept in line by the granting of profitable concessions in the great lotteries, by which nearly $25,000,000 a year is said to be raised.
 Some Cubans opposed to Machado who have been in Washington declare that Cuba faces a revolution if that is true. American business firms will be interested, as business firms amounting to a sum of $1,500,000,000 give its economic control of the island.

Thought For Today

Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it.—Prov. 22:6.
 It is better to keep children from the snare of a sense of honor and by kindness, than by fear and punishment.—Tertullian.

Holland's Gold

We talk so much about the struggle between New York and London for the world's financial supremacy that we often forget the large part that Holland plays in the markets where gold is king.
 The thrifty Dutchman let the world wage its wars while he tended strictly to his knitting. His vast colonial empire in the Orient exported huge quantities of opium, most of it to London, and made him a neutral island in a sea of warring nations. As a result, many financial transactions that ordinarily would have taken place elsewhere were carried on in Amsterdam.
 As a result, Holland today is "getting pretty fixated" in New York and London have tentacles reaching all over the world, but so also do the bankers of Amsterdam.

ENJOINING HYMNS
 The granting of a preliminary injunction by a county court in the local fields of Pennsylvania, enjoining certain hymns regarded as hostile and inflammatory, brings "Onward, Christian Soldiers" up for discussion again. Members of the United States senate, who were assigned to make an investigation of conditions in the coal fields, sang the hymn after the injunction was issued; but so far they have not been cited for contempt. More attention is paid to the words of "Onward, Christian Soldiers" than to the music.
 Sir Arthur Sullivan, of Gilbert and Sullivan fame, who wrote the music for more than fifty hymns, on Whit-Monday, in 1865, a great school festival was to be held in Yorkshire, England, and the boys of Herby Ridge school, over the age of seven, were invited to attend. He would recall no appropriate hymn with the swinging professional effect desired, so he set about writing the song.
 "It was written," he said later, "in a very simple fashion, without thought of publication. I wanted the children to sing when marching from one village to another, but could not think of anything quite suitable so I sat up at night resolved to write something myself. "Onward, Christian Soldiers" was the result. It was written in great haste, and I am afraid that some of the lines are faulty. Certainly nothing has surprised me more than its great popularity."
 The hymn has been sung round the world, particularly where there was a desire to arouse religious fervor. That is must not be sung by the striking miners gives to it something of a new distinction.—Indianapolis News.
 This grand old hymn has been one of the most popular ever written. Its music is inspiring, and there is nothing more often sung with the words when used in a proper way. The music to this hymn, when not spoiled by some jazzy crazy modern time, has thrilled thousands of old soldiers of the cross, and has brought joy and happiness and enthusiasm to the hearts of many as they have sung their voices in singing the old familiar tune.
 Many a group of Christians have used this old hymn marching to the grove prayer services, and got a real thrill out of it. They had nothing in mind while singing it but a conflict with the devil. They were fighting sin and the results of sin, and a good fight song was needed to inspire them on, just as Dixie and the Star Spangled Banner brings a good citizen of the United States to their toes so does "Onward, Christian Soldiers" inspire Christians to press forward and battle against the advances of the evil one.
 Making of an Alaskan flag is a project undertaken by a number of schools in Alaska since the adoption recently of a distinctive emblem for the territory. Flags made by the children follow the official design, and are intended for school or other appropriate use.

HARDING DEAL BROUGHT INTO TEAPOT PROBE

RECORDS SEARCHED IN ESTATE OF FORMER PRESIDENT

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 20.—With the estate of the late President Harding now within its focus, the senate Teapot Dome committee's long and ramifying investigation of the now canceled oil leases and their subsequent connection is nearing its end to the accompaniment of violent political eruptions on the floor of congress.

Today was another off-day for the inquiry, but it will get under way again tomorrow after three days of subcommittee investigation in Chicago.

To Look Into Records
Meanwhile further reaction was looked for following the announcement yesterday by Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, chairman of the Teapot Dome committee, that before winding up its searching inquiry into the disposition of the Liberty bond profits of the Continental Trading company the committee would look into the records of President Harding's estate.

While it did not believe any of the bonds would be found there, Nye said there would be a "lack of satisfaction" if this committee submits a report to the senate with out going into the matter.

"If they are there we are going to tell the world," he added. "If they are not there we are going to tell the world. I don't think they are there."

Purchasers In Argument
Agreeing that Nye was "absolutely right," Louis H. Brush, who with Roy Moore, purchased the Marion (Ohio) Star from President Harding issued a statement last night saying that he and his associates, who are in Washington on another matter, were willing to give the oil committee "any and all details" of the transaction.

"Let us, for the sake of square shooting and in fairness to the memory of President Harding," the statement said, "bring this thing right out in the open and go straight through it."

The Marion Star figured in the early part of the oil investigation when inquiry was made into sensational reports that some of the profits of the naval reserve deals were included in the sale price of the paper. The newspaper's purchases vigorously denied this at the Dials? Out! Just Push the Button!

You'll be buttoning in, not dialing in on your favorite broadcaster if the radio invention of Harry N. Marvin, of Rye, N. Y., wins general adoption. By each of the ten buttons on the receiving set you can tune in on particular stations; others are reached through an auxiliary dial. Here's Marvin and the set he is to exhibit for the first time at New York's forthcoming Radio World's Fair.

There and no evidence was uncovered to support the charges. A committee investigator will be sent to Marion to inspect the Harding estate files.

Harding Signed Order
It was President Harding who signed the executive order under which Albert B. Fall, as secretary of the interior, assumed direction over the Elk Hills and Teapot Dome reserves and later leased them to Edward L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair. This was in 1922 and when the government received these properties by court action President Coolidge rescinded the order of his predecessor.

As the Harding phase was developing yesterday, the senate floor was treated to one of the most hectic partisan debates of its career with more than a dozen senators flinging verbal darts across the aisles at each other—all as a result of the recent disclosures that $150,000 of Sinclair's bond profits from the Continental oil deal were used in 1923 to help wipe out the republican party deficit from the 1920 Harding campaign.

Demands were made for the resignation of high administration officials including Secretary Mellon and one senator, Robinson, an Indiana republican, suggested that Governor Smith of New York, might be able to "throw considerable light on what's been going on in the last four years."

Says Aided Smith Campaign
Robinson sought to show that Sinclair contributed heavily to Smith's gubernatorial campaign in 1920 and afterward became a member of the New York State Racing Commission, holding that post until after the first oil revelations. Chairman Nye said the oil committee had been informed that such was the case, but added he saw no reason for calling the New York governor. Gov. Smith declined to comment when informed in New York of this development.

Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, candidate for the presidential nomination, defended Smith against what he termed an unwarranted insinuation. Previously, he had scored Sinclair's $150,000 contribution and declared complete recantation should be had only by the resignation of responsible party leaders, especially Secretary Mellon. He also condemned the silence of President Coolidge.

During the entire three hours of debate, which revolved largely around the attempt of Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, to collect from individual republicans a "repudiation" fund to return to Sinclair, not a voice was raised in defense of the administration or the party's acceptance of the Sinclair donation.

Explanation Demanded
When Nye demanded an explanation from the democrats of the recent contribution of $50,000 to their campaign chests by Thomas Fortune Ryan of New York and Virginia, with the statement that had the democrats been successful in the 1920 election the oil reserve leases would have lared just as well as they did with elections going the way it did, democratic Senators Glass, Virginia; Harrison, Mississippi and Swanson, Virginia, came to the defense of the minority side.

They declared the same oil operators had attempted for eight years during the Wilson administration to lease the reserves, but had been turned back. Glass said Ryan's aid to the democrats always had been beyond question.

Teachers in public day schools of Nevada, if engaged for night school work, are not allowed, under a ruling of the State board of education, to give more than two hours of service at night, nor more than six evening hours during any one week.

MORROW LAUDED AS GREATEST U. S. PATRIOT OF DAY

MEXICO CITY, Mar. 20.—El Universal today quoted Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the American Bar association as saying that Dwight W. Morrow, United States ambassador, was the greatest American patriot of the present time because of his splendid co-operation in settling difficulties between Mexico and the United States. The remark was made in thanking the Mexican Bar association for its courtesy in holding a special session in Mr. Strawn's honor.

Mr. Morrow and Luis N. Morones, minister of industry, commerce and labor, conferred at length yesterday and while neither would comment it was thought that the conversation dealt with Mexican oil laws. Senator Morones has charge of their enforcement and he and the ambassador have been discussing them for several weeks. Ambassador Morrow hopes that an agreement, which will dispose of differences over the legislation, will be reached.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY

BROADWAY at AVENUE J

Marking the ending of our first year in our new store and with our new, personally bought and selected merchandise—a year that will always be remembered as one of the happiest of our lives. It brought to us striking evidence of good-will and friendship; of the fine, hospitable, broad-mindedness of the people of this great section.

We count the establishment of our store in Lubbock as the one big thing in our lives. We count it one of the greatest of privileges to live among the good people of this community, to assist in every possible way the development of our section.

And we would be very ungrateful to the many thousands of people of all sections of the South Plains were we not appreciative of their generous patronage in our first year.

And we do appreciate it so much! We MUST celebrate our First Birthday! The occasion must be different than ordinary events. We must do something bigger and better for our friends on this occasion.

We will! Our Anniversary Sale—not "just another Sale"—but one that has been under preparation for weeks and weeks, one in which we have drawn upon the resources of many concerns to help make bigger and more important than our friends have ever known before.

Begins 9 o'Clock Thursday
March 22nd.
