Top Tree Take to Runway

The top three entrants in the Miss Mitchell County Pageant Friday night are shown on the runway during the final judging of the top five girls. Left to right, they are Miss Sue Costin, Miss Debbie Hunter and Miss Shelia Oliver. Judges for the contest were Mrs. Gus Bates, Jr of Forth Worth, Miss Modesta Simpson of Midland and Bill Marquard of Ft. Worth.

PROGRESS –

sides of the same coin.

"Our generation has been marked by a period of astounding change. Within a short span of years we have seen more progress in the fields of science and technology than has mankind since its beginning. And these advances are rapidly changing the traditional economic forces of Texas.

"Within our lifetime Texas meant cotton, cattle and oil. The early pioneers were drawn to Texas because of the abundance of natural resources. And for many years, the manufacturing plants of Texas limited themselves to the processing of locally produced raw materials. Cotton gins, meat-packers, canning plants and others were all based upon a supply of goods from our land.

"Our manfacturing plants now produce everything from top cap pistols to rockets. The emphasis in Texas today is upon fabrication for consumer use. For example, the General Motors assembly plant at Arlington assembled over 753 000 cars last year, and a new truck assembly plant in Denton will soon reach an annual output of 12,000 units a year.

"Owens — Corning Fiberglass Corporation last October dedicated a new plant to make high quality insulation ducts and other fiberglass material. Similar plants are scheduled for other parts of Texas to meet the expected sales of such products which should reach one billion dollars a year by 1970.

"The majority of new industries are coming to Texas because of our work forde, and to find new outlets for their products, for Texas is now a giant among states in population. In July of 1963, Texas had a population estimated to be 10½ million, making our state the fourth ranking state in the union in population.

"Today 75% of our people live in urbanized areas. Texas now has 21 standard metropolitan areas with more people living in them than reside in 43 other states. More of our cities rank in the top 100 than other state.

"Out metropolitan areas today are literally sweeping across the countryside. Since the end of World War II, Texas urban areas have been expanding at the rate of 503 acres each day of the year, and over six million acres of Texas soil are presently being used for urban purposes.

"The overall economy of Texas continues to rise along with the growth of our population and cities. The Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas has reported a 10% rise for this year over the same period last year.

"Last year our index of business activity was 5.4% higher than it was in 1962, topping the year-by-year rise which began in 1947. There was not one major Texas city which showed a decline in business in 1963.

"A Federal Power Commission study indicates that between 1960 ad 1980, Texas and the Southwest will lead the nation in demand for electric power.

"Texas ranks number one in the entire nation for primary road systems. Our state government has constructed more than 55,000 miles of primary roads while no other state in the union can boast more than 20,000 miles. Think of that! . . . we'll soon have more than three times the number of miles of our nearest competitor. If you add our primary and secondary systems together, we've already reached that milestone!

"So much activity is going on now in Texas that it staggers the imagination!

"All of Texas will benefit directly and indirectly from the 60 million dollar space industry and the by-products which will develop from the space research and the industries that will grow o produce these by-products.

"Certainly, the building of beet sugar refineries in Hereford and Pecos has proved beneficial and has stimulated new interest. The farmers and ranchers of the Plains region are showing interest in moving to new production rather than completely relying on cotton for their economy.

"Across the state, a major rubber product manufacturing plant is now located in Wichita Falls, a new tire plant is in operation in Tyler; along the Texas-Mexican border new apparel plants will be in operation this year which are expected to hire some 2200 persons. A new plywood mill in East Texas will have the capacity to turn out 100 million square feet of sheathing-grade plywood.

"Incidents like these can be cited from many parts of the state, but in each case the people of the communities involved provided the leadership, wisdom, energy and sometimes even financial assistance to take advantage of the opportunities once they became known.

"Upon a further examination of the economy of Texas, it is staggering to reflect that the Houston area alone achieved on effective buying income almost twice that of our neighboring state of New Mexico.

"Dallas and Houston together gained a third more buying power than did the states of either Arkansas or Louisiana, while San Antonio trailing behind other Texas cities, boasted twice the buying power of either Wyoming or Nevada. Dallas alone can claim more buying income than the entire state of Arizona.

"These are staggering figures. As a matter of fact one must stop and ponder them but for a while before their full import can be grasped. But, even with all these advantages, we cannot afford to relax.

"The economic growth of the future will require more effort than it has in the past. There are 49 other states exerting every effort to attract industry, and each year this competition will increase.

"Unless we are able to bring new industrial plants into our state there may not be enough jobs to go around. And, unless new jobs are created our economy cannot continue its astounding pace.

"Each time a new industrial job is created a chain reaction is started which adds to the prosperity of the entire state. For example, a plant which hires 100 new workers will bring into the area 359 new inhabitants, 100 new households, 3 additional retail stores, and 97 more automobiles.

"The challenge of creating a sufficient number of jobs is one of the most serious problems facing us today. most 900,000 workers will be During the decade ahead added to the Texas labor force, an increase of 25% over today. Between 1960 and 1975 estimates indicate that job seekers will grow by an additional 500,000.

"Now, how do you and I go about meeting this challenge of the future?

"While there are many factors which help to create an atmosphere conducive to the prosperity and economic growth of a area, we first need honest, aggressive, and above all, stable local and state governments. An area which is plagued by interal warfare within its citizenry is viewed with skepticism by future incestors.

"To achieve this aim we must recruit our finest citizens into the service of their local and state governments.

"Never before in our history have we needed the outstanding leadership which we need today. We here in Texas have been blssed with an abundance of dedicated men and women . . . citizens who have, for years, adhered to certain principles that have allowed us to reach the pinnacle of prosperity which we now enjoy.

"During my eleven years in the service of Texas, nothing has impressed me more than the caliber of the men and women who are serving you in Austin. The majority of these citizens are serving at tremendous sacrifices to themselves, and while I didn't come here today to sell you on my fellow workers in Austin, I do think that there are facts of which the citizens of Texas should become more aware.

"In the field of taxation, for example, we find that our state government taxes the individual approximately 270 dollars per year while the national average is 313 dollars per year. Proper management has made this possible.

"Let's take a look at the makeup of this management. The average state employs 320 people per 10,000 population. In Texas we accomplish even more by using 18 fewer state employees per 10,000 population. To sell it out even more completely . . . our state government would have ta add more than 1,000 employees to its payrolls if we were to match the manpower of the average state in the union.

"In the construction of our fine highway system, Texas leads not only in the number of miles of roads, but also in number of dollars seved in building them.

"The financial records of all 50 states in the union show that the avesage cost of constructing one mile of primary highway is one million dollars. By employing much better management procedures, we in Texas lay the same miles of road for only $600,000 . . . a savings of more than $400 000 per mile.

"We in Texas have been extremely fortunate in securing the services of outstanding citizens in our governments, but we must never cease in our efforts to place our finest people in government.

"Unfortnately, it has become fashhionable in some quarters to equate the word "politician" with graft or corruption.

"We must never forget that the greatness which America enjoys today could not have been attained without such men as Washington, Jefferson, Franklin, and Jackson. These men were statesmen . . . but they were also politicians. And yet when our citizens show any interest in politics, they are often encouraged not to enter that "dirty game". The otherwise responsible citizen, when told he ought to run for public office, offers these excuses: "It might hurt my business" or "I wouldn't take that kind of abuse for anyone." Carr Closed by saying.

"Texans have always viewed the future with confidence. For Texans . . . let there always be one more hill to climb."

TUMBLEWEED Festival's luncheon for Dignitaries was more blooming fun!

Do mean blooming. Those B&PW decorated tables had a spring flower garden theme, accented with tumbleweed flower containers on speakers' table. The colors were bright as any collection of nosegays. Arrangements were gorgeous CHORALETTES of Colorado High School covered themselves with glory. Heard the most enthusiastic remarks of appreciation from out-of-town guests who managed to sound amazed that the Curtis Baker-coached girls" choir was "local talent."

DOROTHY COOKE, glamorous wife of Abilene Reporter's Bob Cooke, was completely enchanted with the Choralette voices.

So was a delegation from Big Spring sitting near-by. Dwight Tomb Combo — Mr. and Mrs. Tomb plus Porter Richardson — made perfect professional melody, too, during the dinner hour.

AT SPEAKERS' Table were Rev. Fred Brewton, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Brewton . . . Beeman Fisher and his wife Mary (nee Cantrill) of Ft. Worth . . . Waggoner Carr and his lovely-looking wife Ernestine . . . Charlie Thompson and his stunning wife Emmabeth.

And there was Paul Boyd Hunter, master of ceremonies, who did a magnificent job in his relaxed way with both humor and solemn introductions. Hunter's talent shows best in keeping a program moving along. He's tops as M.C.

FAMILIAR FACES spied enroute to luncheon places belonged to Naomi Rhode (Mrs. Bill), wearing a glorious shade of blue . . . Mrs. W. W. Rhode . . . Alan Conley, All Saints Vicar . . . Don Butler and his most attractive wife Joyce.

Pat Bullock was here from Austin . . . Judge A. S. Mauzey, of Sweetwater, a perennial favorite gentleman of all C-City.

Temple Dickson and Johnnie Moore showed up. Mrs. Jim Greene and her lovely-daughter Mrs. Joe Pond, of Big Spring . . . The C. T. McLaughlins of Snyder. Stormy Thompsons were here from Big Spring.

SAW Don Benson and his wife Jackie, one of the prettiest young mamas in town . . . Ditto Bob Barman and his wife Donna . . . Margaret Sparks (Mrs. Ben) . . . Fred Marberry and his Mrs. who was that beautiful lady in blue.

Talked to J. Ralph Lee and his wife's two sisters, Ethel and Kate Biggerstaff, here from Childress . . . G. D. Foster . . . Frank W. Wilson . . . A. L. McSpadden.

Here from our friendly neighboring town, Loraine, were Mrs. Kirk Taylor and John B. Mahon. And J. B. Cushing, superintendent of Loraine schools and daddy of the 1962 Tumbleweed Queen.

BRIEF ENCOUNTERS were enjoyed with Mabel Kelley (Mrs. Frank H. Kelley) of the always gracious department . . . Dark haired and intellectual Judge Austin McCloud . . . Dr. Dave Bridgford . . . Roy Davis Coles.

Spied Kack McClellan and her pretty mama Mrs. R. P. Price . . . Favorite old friends Myrtle and Otto Jones, in from Renderbrook Ranch . . . YOU CAN, if you're a chronic or even an occasional complainer, say lots of derogatory things about C-City.

You can call it sandy, sometimes stormy. You can say it's windy. You can call it hot. Dry. (More ways than one.) You can scorn its little hills, its sluggish little river bed. You can dislike, if you're in the mood, its gnarled and twisting mesquite trees — things of rare beauty to West Texas eyes when mesquites put out that special shade of fern-like green.

But you've got to say — if you've ever lived anywhere else, or visited "far away places with strange sounding names," that Colorado City, Texas, is just about the friendliest town in all this "great big, beautiful, wonderful world." Specially at Tumbleweed Festival time.

Say we're country, say we're slow,
Say gardenias do not grow.
But say our people are the best
Anywhere in the gosh-blamed West.
