Law Requiring Truck Permits Upheld By Higher Court

DECISION WACO COURT UPHOLDS BRYAN JUDGE IN RESTRAINING VIOLATIONS LAWS PROVISIONS

WACO, Texas, Nov. 7. (AP)—Enforcement of house bill No. 335, requiring truck operators to hold permits from the state railroad commission, was upheld in the 10th court of civil appeals at Waco today in an opinion handed down by unanimous vote.

The decision dissolved injunctions issued by Judge H. F. Kirby in district court at Groesbeck, which restrained peace officers from arresting violators of the law. At the same time, it upheld an injunction issued by Judge W. C. Davis in district court at Bryan restraining truck owners from violating provisions of the law.

Justice George Barcus wrote a digest of opinions on the decision, saying in part, "The court of civil appeals held that since the legislature has specifically required truck owners to obtain permits from the state railroad commission before using the highways for said purpose, and making it a crime to operate their trucks without said permit, that no judge or court could by injunction or otherwise restrain peace officers of the state from enforcing the penal provisions of said statute.

"The court held that to do so would be a suspension of the statute law by the courts, contrary to the plain provisions of the state constitution."

Judge Davis Upheld

As to the injunction issued by Judge Davis, which was upheld, the digest stated, "the appellate court, in affirming the judgment of

JAPAN REFUSES LEAGUE DEMAND TO EVACUATE

U. S. May Join Powers in Adopting Punitive Measures Against Japan

DIPLOMATIC ISOLATION PROPOSED AS REPRIMAND

Enforcement of Kellogg Pact Depends Upon 'Moral Suasion'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (US)—The Hoover administration must decide soon whether this country will join the League of Nations in adopting punitive measures against Japan for violating the Kellogg peace pact.

Japan's blunt refusal, in a note to the league today, to withdraw her troops from the occupied areas of Manchuria by Nov. 16 was construed here as a refusal to abide by the pact.

The text of this note was made public by the Japanese embassy. Pointed out that Japan would be unable to withdraw her troops until China agreed to the terms demanded by Tokyo, including the protection of Japanese nationals and the fulfillment of existing treaties on Manchuria.

Reports from Geneva said the league may consider the adoption of a policy of "diplomatic isolation" to bring pressure upon the Japanese government. This would involve the withdrawal of diplomatic representatives from Tokyo by other world powers.

Adoption of this policy would be

Baering Down on News With 'Baer'

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

BARON MUNCHAUSEN THINKS UP GOOD NEWS

Another government commission has come back from the graveyard with a clean bill of health.

It begins to look as if all our commissioners are uncles of Alice in Wonderland.

How about some real officials once in a while?

If a commission is to report nothing but progress let's give 'em a reason. We hereby duly appoint a barn burner for the farm board, a well poisoner for the water supply and a pyromaniac for forest preservation.

When those three boys came in and reported progress you could depend that something was happening, anyway.

The last two years have been the most optimistic we have ever suffered from.

The written theories show we are on velvet but the facts indicate there are big holes in the carpet.

Lineman Captures Alligator Corner 12th and Indiana

R. E. Gibson, 271-pound lineman for the Texas Electric Service company, captured a one-pound alligator in the middle of the intersection of Twelfth and Indiana after a brief but heated struggle early Saturday night.

Mr. Gibson said the reptile, which measures 24 inches in length, was headed toward a beauty parlor when he first saw it crossing the street.

The alligator, named Will after W. E. Pepper, foreman of the power department, was on exhibition for several hours after its capture, at the transmission division of the power department, which was in charge of M. W. Cummings.

The little reptile has a nasty disposition and showed fight whenever anyone approached. Gibson caught it by assisting "Will" into a tow sack by means of his boot.

PEEPING TOMS USING PLANES

CARMEL, Calif., Nov. 7. (US)—Peeping toms are now using airplanes in order to glimpse the lady nudists at their daily intake of ultra-violet rays.

This was the burden of a complaint lodged with City Attorney Argyll Campbell here today by Mme. Mathilde Baumgartner, of the Society of the Sun, who is seeking a permit for a nudist farm.

Ever since the news leaked out that lovely ladies were taking sun baths she told Campbell there has been a suspicious increase in air traffic above the Carmel woods.

And she wanted to know if an injunction might not be obtained to stop low-flying.

THREE BURN TO DEATH WHEN PLANE FALLS AT WASHINGTON AIRPORT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (US)—Three men were burned to death this afternoon in an airplane crash at Washington—Hoover airport here.

The dead:

F. K. KORTE, pilot, Salisbury, Md.

LESTER DENNIS, Salisbury, Md.

PRESTON PAYNTER, 16, Washington.

The plane, a Challenger, privately owned, crashed as the pilot attempted to make a landing at the airport. As it circled the field it slipped down and plunged to a roadway just outside the airport reservation.

As the plane struck the ground the gasoline tanks ignited and before rescuers could reach the scene the three trapped victims had been burned to death.

Firemen were called and turned hose streams on the flaming wreckage. It required a half hour to subdue the blaze and cool the debris sufficiently to open the cockpit and remove the bodies.

Huge gas and oil tanks of the American Oil company nearby were threatened for a time, but the firemen succeeded in preventing the blaze spreading in that direction.

The plane, privately owned and used by a unit of the Maryland national guard for practice flights, had been flown to Washington today by Pilot Korte to take 10 of his friends up for pleasure rides over the national capitol. The passengers were being taken up two at a time.

Among those waiting to go up were the parents of the Paynter youth who were at the airport and witnessed the crash and fire.

COLLECTIONS 1931 SCHOOL TAX FUNDS REACHES $100,276

Collection of 1931 school taxes since Oct. 1 went over the top Saturday when the day's payments of $2,251.15 brought the total to $100,276.66, according to Tax Collector W. Ralph Hyer.

The campaign for collection of 1931 school taxes was started when the school board set $100,000 as the minimum which must be collected in order to tide the school system over the present financial crisis.

Members of the board expect the next month's payments of school taxes to increase the total by at least $50,000. The $100,000 goal was merely the minimum set to prevent the closing of the schools in the near future.

Citizens and firms which paid their taxes Saturday follow: Mrs. H. A. Covington, J. A. Rundell, Guaranty State Building and Loan association, E. M. Friend Jr., Fred Mahler, E. M. FULL SUPPORT BY COMMITTEE AFTER REVIEW

Charge Inaccuracies False Assertions and Erroneous Conclusions

SIX STATEMENTS ARE STRESSED AS INCORRECT

League Had Charged President With 'Abysmal Ignorance'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—A verdict in favor of President Hoover was returned today by the jury he appointed to weigh the truth of statements contained in William H. Gardiner's attack upon the administration's naval policy.

Fully supporting the chief executive, the committee found that the pamphlet issued by Gardiner as president of the navy league, charging Mr. Hoover with "abysmal ignorance" of naval affairs contained "many inaccuracies, false assertions and erroneous conclusions."

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—William Howard Gardiner, president of the navy league of the United States, informed tonight of the findings of President Hoover's committee, said it would not be proper for him to comment "in the present circumstances."

Aroused by the Gardiner attack, Mr. Hoover had charged the navy league head with uttering falsifications and said he would expect a public retraction and an apology after the committee had completed its inquiry.

The group made its report today, laying on the president's desk a 10,000 word document accompanied by a letter of transmittal.

Report Six Statements Incorrect

DEATH OF RAY STILL MYSTERY

The funeral was held today and the decomposed body was buried in Greenwood cemetery. It was believed Ray had been dead since Sunday, when he disappeared from his home. His father, Rev. Jeff D. Ray, member of the faculty of the Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary here, may be questioned by police officials again Sunday in the hope of obtaining more definite information about the son's life.

ENTHUSIASTIC BUYING SWEEPS OVER FINANCIAL MARKETS WITH STOCKS SOARING TO NEW HIGHS

By the Associated Press

Enthusiastic buying again swept over the leading financial markets Saturday, readily absorbing heavy week-end profit-taking sales.

Markets generally closed on the crest of a week's sweeping advances in such lines as wheat, silver, and stocks.

The stock market took the lead away from wheat, and pushed up $1 to $5 a share to new highs for the autumn recovery, in the most aggressive bull drive in months. Trading was at a feverish pace.

Wheat dipped temporarily under pressure of profit-taking in the Chicago pit, but quickly felt the impact of fresh buying, and closed virtually unchanged from midday's final levels.

The bond market continued its steady advance of more than a week, as high grade issues were taken in large volume. The turnover was the largest for a Saturday session in four weeks.

Bar silver at New York advanced three-eighths of a cent to 34¾ cents an ounce, another new high for 1931.

Bullishness spread to the Paris bourse, which experienced a moderate boom, as Saturday trading was resumed for the winter season. The London market was quiet but firm.

Clings to Advances

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (AP)—The grain market clung to its advances today, withstanding one profit-taking wave after another and rounding out one of the busiest weeks of recent years with more gains than losses.

Attracting more public interest daily, the market see-sawed wildly, first to new high prices for the season, then down as much as 2 cents, back up around the opening figures, back down on a new flood of profit-taking orders.

The battle left wheat at the close just about where it was at yesterday's close. The gain for the week, meaning millions to farmers who have held on to their crops.

Corn, relatively stronger throughout the session, closed unchanged to ¾c higher. Oats were fractionally lower, but rye responding to its own market news and continuing the sensational advances of recent days closed from 2¾ to 3¾c higher.

The bull market in grain has continued without serious interruption for more than a month.

Tentatively it has been decided to hold the funeral services Monday afternoon.

Trial of Second Negro in Slaying of A. N. Nodurft to Open Graham Monday First Defendant Given Death Penalty

Trial of Richard Brown, negro charged with murder, criminal assault and robbery with firearms, is scheduled to open before Judge Allan D. Montgomery Monday in the 30th district court at Graham, where the case was transferred on a change of venue from Wichita Falls.

Richard Johnson, negro indicted on similar charges, was given the death penalty at his trial for murder before Judge Montgomery here several weeks ago.

The charges against the two grew out of the slaying of A. N. (Ted) Nodurft, of Fort Worth, and the assaulting and robbing of his fiancee here on the night of Sept. 9.

Cedric Taylor, local attorney, was appointed to defend the negro and obtained the change of venue on the grounds that Brown could not receive a fair trial in Wichita county.

The state has indicated that it would probably go to trial on the robbery indictment. Johnson was tried here on the murder charge.

A special venire of 200 men has been summoned in the case.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 7. (AP)—The will of W. A. Moorhouse, former El Paso theater man, probated in court today, showed he left California and Texas real estate valued at approximately $220,000. Moorhouse died at Los Angeles Oct. 30.

Thousands of Armed Citizens Guard Church Property in Spain Against Recurrence of Religious Disorders

MADRID, Nov. 7. (US)—Republicans and Catholics rioted in the theater Beatriz today, wrecking the interior of the building. Fearing a recurrence of anti-religious disorders, 5,000 Catholic men and boys, armed with rifles and pistols have augmented policemen guarding religious institutions and churches.

Police quelled the theater Beatriz riot only after considerable damage to the furnishings had been done. Thirty rioters were arrested. Jose Sanchez Guerra, Socialist leader, was among the demonstrators.

The volunteer church "army," members of which may be seen mounting guard in churches, convents and monasteries every night, is not hostile to the republic, but fears that anti-religious demonstrations may wreak further damage on church property.

Authorities frown on the guards, claiming that the policemen and the special police patrols on American motorcycles are sufficient.

Meanwhile, Spain wonders whether it will be possible to carry out the clause in the new constitution expelling Jesuits and confiscating their property. The 2,300 Jesuits are nervous.

It is reported that a Jesuit headquarters may be established in Liege, Belgium, where the order, which was founded in Spain, may build a university of industrial art to replace that burned to the ground here in the May riots.

Forty-two deputies have left the cortes and are campaigning for revision of the "anti-religious" parts of the constitution. Resentment against the anti-Jesuit provisions of the document is strongest in the Basque and Navarre regions.

Former Republican Congressman Predicts If Garner Named Speaker Will Be Nominee for President

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 7. (AP)—A Republican member of the last congress, who has contested his defeat for the coming term by a Democrat predicted today that if Congressman John N. Garner, of Texas, becomes speaker of the next house he will be the Democratic nominee for president in 1932.

He, former Congressman Charles O'Conner, said Garner would be "unbeatable" for the Democratic nomination if elected speaker and he can "demonstrate his leadership under the very trying, if not almost impossible situation that will exist" in the coming term.

As reasons for his opinion, O'Conner declared there is no one else among the candidates mentioned "who begins to have the understanding, knowledge and experience of national affairs possessed by the Texan."

"The people have come to realize one of the chief tasks of the successful president is to work with congress and the departments as they are, and his ability to do this and secure a major portion of his program is the test of the success of his administration," O'Conner said in a statement prepared for the Associated Press.

"Mr. Garner's native ability, developed and ripened through his long years of actual experience fits him preeminently for the presidency from that standpoint."

FULL SUPPORT TO PRESIDENT HOOVER

especially stressed as incorrect. These were:

1—That the president and Prime Minister MacDonald of England had "admittedly" reached agreements never divulged in their entirety.

2—That the administration refused to allow even an executive session of the senate foreign relations committee to see the full record of negotiations preparatory to the London naval conference.

3—That Mr. Hoover in 1929 delayed the building of the first five of 15 cruisers just ordered by congress as a gesture preparatory to the naval conference not commensurately followed by other powers.

4—What Gardiner termed an obvious inference from a speech by Hugh R. Wilson, minister to Switzerland that Mr. Hoover under the one-year naval holiday just begun intends to forego treaty rights to the construction of 87,600 tons of naval vessels.

5—What the committee saw as an implication in Gardiner's statement that the Washingotn treaty established a ratio of 10 to 6 in all classes of naval vessels between America and Japan.

6—And what was regarded as an implication by Gardiner that the ratios established by the London treaty are effective prior to Dec. 1, 1936.

Secret Agreements

Concerning secret agreements, the committee used as refutation quotations from President Hoover's message to congress in July, 1930, denying similar charges and a joint statement issued by President Hoover and Premier MacDonald at the close of their Rapidan conversations.

On the second point it took as evidence the message to congress of the president, refusing the senate's demand for withheld papers but agreeing to let any senator see the papers if he would keep them confidential.

Men making the report were John Hays Hammond, chairman, retired mining engineer who has served many administrations in special capacities; Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired, world war commander of a squadron with the British grand fleet in the North sea; Eliot Wadsworth, former assistant secretary of the treasury, now holding a post on the Gifford unemployment commission; William R. Castle Jr., under-secretary of state, and Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the navy.

The committee asserted the naval budget for next year will not affect continuance of the construction program nor "will it result in the decommissioning of a single combatant unit." It accused the navy league head of using tables in his pamphlet "known by him to be obsolete at the time the statement was issued."

Pleased at Prospect of American Conferences

NAPLES, Nov. 7. (US)—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, going to America as a European to help solve European problems by talks with President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson and Senator William E. Borah, sailed for New York today with his wife and staff aboard the liner Conte Grande.

The Italian foreign affairs chief, after last-minute instructions from Premier Mussolini, left Rome on a special train at 10 o'clock this morning. The Conte Grande cleared from Naples four hours later.

Alexander Kirk, charge d'affaires of the American embassy, and a corps of correspondents, accompanied Signor Grandi from Rome to the seaport.

Before sailing, Foreign Minister Grandi told American newspaper men:

"I am happy to express especial pleasure in going for the second time to your great country, of which I retain unforgettable memories. It is with the greatest satisfaction that I am preparing to meet President Hoover again to bring him the greeting of the chief of the Italian government. President Hoover's courageous initiative has met with the approval and admiration of the world."

JAPAN REFUSES TO LEAVE MANCHURIA

a unique weapon in the history of international diplomacy, and undoubtedly would be regarded by Japan as an unfriendly move.

These developments placed the administration in an extremely embarrassing position.

White House Alarmed

With the situation growing more serious, Secretary of State Stimson called at the White House and held a conference of over an hour with President Hoover. The secretary upon leaving said the Manchurian situation had been discussed but declined further comment.

It was recalled today that when the Kellogg peace pact was ratified by the senate it was distinctly understood that its enforcement depended upon "moral suasion" rather than practical "sanctions." Congress frowned upon any plan of "enforcing" the treaty.

On the other hand the United States has already joined with the League of Nations in its efforts to pacify Manchuria, Prentiss Gilbert being commissioned to represent this country in the council meetings. To refuse to go along with the league now might be construed as "running out" on the other world powers.

Another important and disturbing factor was the shadow of Russia falling over Manchuria, with possibility that the Soviet republic might go to the aid of China. Already Japan has been claiming that Russian officers were aiding the Chinese army in the Nonni river fighting.

Secretary of State Stimson declined to discuss the Soviet situation today at his conference with the press. He announced, however, this government would continue to bring diplomatic pressure upon Japan and China to live up to their treaty obligations.

In the negotiations thus far, the United States has been at great pains to avoid offending either nation by "taking sides" in the controversy. Settlement by peaceful means was the only request made.

Meanwhile there was an atmosphere of tense apprehension in the capital. Representative Britten, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, said the germs of another world war were already at work. He warned against efforts to reduce the American navy at such a critical time.

Although there has been talk of the League of Nations initiating an economic boycott against Japan in an effort to alter her policy, this country would hardly go to such lengths, it was made known.

GENEVA, Nov. 7 (US)—The Japanese government, replying to an urgent note from Foreign Minister Briand of France, president of the council of the League of Nations, tonight again declined to immediately withdraw troops from Manchuria.

The Japanese note, communicated to the league following its delivery to M. Briand by Kenkichi Yoshisawa, Japanese ambassador to France, stated:

"The Japanese government reaffirms its earnest desire to proceed with withdrawal of troops to the railroad zone with minimum delay but the league council's resolution consecrates the principle that effective security must be assured for lives and property of Japanese nationals.

"Under the state of tension which unfortunately exists, it is impossible to hope that withdrawal would be followed by a regime of settled peace and order under Chinese auspices."

Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the league, announced the council would reconvene in Paris on Nov. 16 to resume discussions of the Manchurian dispute.

Japan Plans Advance

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 7. (US)—Japanese troops at Tahsing were ordered tonight to prepare to advance northward against the entrenched Chinese Heilungkiang army at Anganki, while headquarters here attempted to ascertain the truth of reports that the Japanese consul at Tsitsihar had been killed by Chinese soldiers.

Japanese military circles do not expect that fighting on a large scale will be resumed for several days, due to determination to repair the Nonni river railway bridges and the apparent intention of the Chinese general, Ma Chan-Shan, to construct a strong position south of Anganki. Nevertheless, General Ma's gathering of reinforcements may result in the quickening of hostilities.

Tokyo was informed by General Honjo, Mukden commandant, that Russians wearing Chinese army uniforms had been killed in the two-day battle with General Ma's army in the Nonni river basin. Mukden also heard that many trains have been placed at Ma's disposal by the Chinese Eastern railway, partly controlled by Soviet Russia.

While Japanese troops are engaged in repairing the Nonni river rail bridges, airplane scouts flying over the Chinese positions south of Anganki report that 2,000 Heilungkiang troops are digging trenches and that reinforcements are being rushed by train from Harbin. Fifty carloads of troops and two armored cars have already arrived at Anganki, headquarters declares.

Russian Demonstration

MOSCOW, Nov. 7. (US)—A gigantic caricature of a Japanese whose bony hand grasped a map of Manchuria leered down on Red square today as 50,000 crack communist troops passed in review before Dictator Josef Stalin, other heads of the Soviet state and an impressed corps of foreign diplomats.

The caricature gave point to Commisar for War Voroshilov's general order of the morning in which he adjured the army:

"Your iron discipline must be even better now than heretofore. Comrades, strive to surpass our plans for military preparedness, increase the might of the Red army —the unconquerable defense of the proletariat."

Moscow workers, who, a million strong, followed the troops across the square in the gigantic observance of the 14th anniversary of the "Red October" revolution that carried the Bolsheviks to power, received their share of Voroshilov's praise. The workers, Boroshilov's order had pointed out, have brought the army to its present fighting power by supplying it with equipment and armaments.

TRUCK LAW UPHELD BY HIGHER COURT

the trial court, held that since the law in question specifically granted to the trial courts the right to enjoin any parties from violating the said law within the district presided over by the judge granting same, that Judge Davis had the right to enjoin appellants from in any way violating said law.

"The court stated that similar laws to this had many times been upheld. In disposing of the issues involved, the appellate court held that the state, through its legislature, has the absolute right to control the use of its highways by citizens for their private business or for commercial purposes. This holding is in direct line with, and following the opinion in the federal court written by Judge Hutcheson, in upholding the validity of said act in the case of Stephenson vs. Binford, et al."

Judge Kirby Reversed

Regarding Judge Kirby's 21 injunctions the digest said, "Upon application of about 50 different truck owners, Judge Kirby granted an injunction restraining V. C. Box, sheriff of Robertson county, and all other peace officers of the state, from arresting or prosecuting any of said parties for any violation of the new truck law.

The law specifically provides that no owner of a motor propelled vehicle can operate as a contract carrier for hire on the "public highways without having first obtained a permit from the railroad commission. Each of the parties was admittedly operating their respective trucks without said permits. They alleged that they had filed applications for permits to operate, but that the railroad commission had failed to set the applications for hearing or to either grant or refuse same.

Their contention was that since they had filed their applications, they could not, by failure of the railroad commission to act on their respective applications, be denied their right under the constitution to operate their trucks for hire.

"The court reversed each of Judge Kirby's orders and dissolved the injunctions granted by him."

Observance of National Education Week to Reach Climax Here With Schools' Open House Thursday Eve

National Education week will be observed Nov. 9-15 and school children, parents and teachers all over the United States have prepared to observe the week with varied and frequently unusual activities and programs to illustrate the purpose of the public school functions.

One slogan being used all over the country in connection with the educational week sponsored by the National Education association was published in the N. E. A. journal at Washington, D. C. The slogan is as follows:

"We celebrate Christmas because it gave us a great religion. We observe the Fourth of July because it gave us a free nation. We magnify the schools during one week each year because through them we develop the finer values of our civilization. American Education week is a permanent institution. The effort to make the observance of such a week world-wide should be encouraged. Religion, commerce and politics may divide, but love of childhood expressed in education is a mighty force for unity. What greater contribution could America make to the world than the ideal—a fair start for every boy and girl? In the name of this ideal, let every teacher make careful plans for American Education week and aid in its full and fitting observance."

In response to the appeal, principals of the city, headed by H. D. Fillers, superintendent of city schools, have prepared for all local schools various programs, to be brought to a climax Thursday night, when all schools will have an open house class period with programs following in some of the schools.

Schools will be dismissed at 2:15 p. m. so that teachers and pupils will have time to "become readjusted" for the night session to start at 7 p. m., according to Joe B. McNeill, appointed publicity chairman by the principals. Real, live and interesting classes will be arranged, but the true purpose of the open house, to show the public how the children learn, will be carried out fully.

SIX CASES CONTAGIOUS DISEASE REPORTED HERE

Six cases of contagious or infectious diseases were reported to Dr. R. B. Wolford, city physician, during the first week of November, as follows: Scarlet fever, one; typhoid fever, two, and diphtheria, three.

Mankins Students To Pay Visit to Bank Here Monday

Thirty-five members of the economics and general science classes of the Mankins High school, in charge of Miss Edra Robinson, teacher of those courses, will be on a tour of inspection of the First National bank here Monday, it was learned Saturday.

Opportunity for the Mankins students to study the equipment and operation of a modern banking institution was sought by Miss Robinson in a letter to the local bank, and arrangements were made to show the visiting group through its various departments Monday.

Exposition and demonstrations of latest machinery in the accounting departments will be provided for the high school classes, officers of the bank said. They will also be made familiar with the work of the transit department, which handles the clearing of all out-of-town checks. Methods used in conducting the safety-deposit box department, with the checking in of customers who visit their boxes, also will be explained and shown to the visitors.

The Mankins party is expected to visit the bank Monday morning, it was said.

VARSITY NEWS

By BETTY LOVE RUGELEY

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—When the student directory was issued last week, it gave an accurate account of the number of students from Wichita Falls, and the vicinity who are in the university. Wichita Falls has 65 students this year as compared with the 55 of last year. Graham is next in large representation, there being 11 from Graham. Stamford boasts of six Texas U. students; Henrietta has only three, and Bowie, Decatur, Quanah, Seymour have two students each. Iowa Park, Vernon and Chillicothe are represented by one student only.

Charles Warmon and George Bays went with the Longhorn band to Dallas. They broadcast from Dallas Saturday morning and led the Texas U. fans in a parade preceding the game.

For the past week there have been many quizzes, and students have been cramming the libraries and going across the campus loaded down with books.

Contrast with that dull picture the bright one of many students leaving for Dallas where they attended the S. M. U. game.

Ralph Harvey and Jack Brothers of Wichita Falls drove down on Friday and spent the week-end.

Mr. Warmon also attended the week-end party at the home of Dorothy Bennett in Dallas. Miss Bennett is formerly of Wichita Falls. She is a junior student in the university. Her guest list included Misses Marjorie Vincent, Elizabeth Beumler and Jane Cameron, Texas university students from Wichita Falls, and Miss Mary Katherine Hankerson, who came up from Wichita Falls; Mr. Olaf Hollingshead and Rupert Jackson of Baird, and Henry Anderson of Wichita Falls. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. J. S. Vincent and Mrs. A. C. Bennett.

Miss Mizelle Hodge of Wichita Falls, junior in the university, also went to Dallas. She visited Miss Elizabeth McDowell in Dallas.

Other Wichita Falls girls who went to the game were Miss Mary Virginia Barron, Miss Don Ruth Coffee, Tri Delt, and Miss Mary Elizabeth Donnell, Kappa Alpha Theta.

There were many delightful affairs held in Austin over the week-end.

The Scottish Rite dormitory gave a Halloween dinner at which times the girls entertained their guests. Immediately after the dinner an informal dance was held in the ball room and refreshments of a Halloween nature were served. Misses Helen Cline and Betsy Lee of Wichita Falls were among the Wichita Falls girls who enjoyed the occasion.

Miss Helen Lyle of Stamford and Bill Strong of Amarillo, nephew of Mrs. J. E. Friley of Wichita Falls, were members of the social committee who were hosts to the Students Sunday club at a dance on Saturday night. Miss Lyle is an active student in many campus organizations and she lives at Grace hall.

Harold C. Wray of Wichita Falls is a senior student in mechanical engineering. Mr. Wray was one of the many engineering students who were taken on a tour last week to visit manufacturing plants and large power houses in Dallas, Fort Worth and other nearby places.

The students on the tour were in Dallas for the S. M. U. game. Mr. Wray met Miss Charlotte Evans of Wichita Falls and former student of Texas, who came to Dallas for the game.

Miss Nora Fie of Graham is a student in the academ school. Miss Fie is majoring in mathematics and will receive her B. A. degree in June.

John Flynn, who is a very active member of the Men's Glee club, was one of the 30 members who attended the monthly dinner at the university commons on Tuesday night.

Miss Nell Giles of Bowie, who entered the university last spring, is enrolled as a sophomore in the college of arts and sciences. She lives at Littlefield dormitory.

Joe Bialkowski of Wichita Falls is a sophomore student in the architectural school. He attended St. Edwards college last year.

J. C. Waggoner of Wichita Falls is a junior in the university. He will enter B. B. A. school in the spring, and is a member of Athenaeum Literary society.

Macon Boddy of Henrietta has returned to the university this year to do graduate work in the school of business administration. Mr. Boddy received his B. B. A. degree last August and this year he has been given an assistantship in his school; he is a member of Beta Theta Pi, social, and Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary business fraternities.

Ed Chunn of Electra is a freshman in the college of arts and science. He is a member of the German club.

Edwin McKinney is the only student from Iowa Park enrolled in school, while Kenton Page is Vernon's lone representative.

RICH REWARDS PROMISED WINNERS IN GOODYEAR PRIZE LETTER CONTEST

Twenty-five cents a word!

That's the rate which winners will be paid for 200-word letters in the biweekly prize contest, sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, starting November 10, according to Vic Wisely of the Rio Tire company.

Twice each week, Tuesdays and Saturdays, until further notice, Goodyear is to award $100 in cash for the best letters telling why more people ride on Goodyear tires than on any other kind, or why the writers like to deal with a Goodyear dealer. The awards are $50 for the best prize, $25 for the next best letter, and $5 each for the five next best letters.

The contest is open to everybody except Goodyear employes, Goodyear dealers and their employes. Contestants need not be users of Goodyear tires, states Mr. Wisely. "You don't have to be a 'fine writer' to win," he explains—"just write naturally, because a simple, sincere statement is best."

Entry blanks for the contest may be obtained without obligation from any Goodyear dealer. Full details about the contest will be announced during the Goodyear radio program which is broadcast at 8:30 p. m., eastern standard time, Tuesdays, and 9 p. m., eastern standard time, Saturdays, over WEAF and NBC coast-to-coast red network. This program features the Sousa and Pryor bands, the Goodyear quartet and concert dance orchestra.

TEXAS BAPTISTS TO OPEN CONVENTION AT WACO NOV 11.

Waco is ready to entertain 5,000 messengers of the Baptist General Convention of Texas in that city Nov. 11-14. Every Baptist church in the state, and there are 2,888 of them, is expected to be represented at this annual gathering.

The work of Texas Baptists for the past 12 months will be reviewed. A program for the next 12 months will be planned. The statistical report will show a gain of 20,328 members for the past year.

The convention proper will begin Wednesday morning, Nov. 11 at 10 o'clock and continue through Nov. 13. All sessions will be held in Waco hall, the new auditorium of Baylor university. Dr. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor of the First Baptist church, Abilene, will preach the convention sermon. Prof. E. L. Garnett will lead the singing.

The officers of the convention are as follows: President, Dr. L. R. Scarborough; vice presidents, J. E. Nunn, Amarillo, W. W. Chancellor, Mineral Wells, and Harlan J. Matthews, Marshall; recording secretaries, J. L. Truett, Whitewright, and D. B. South, San Antonio; secretary of the corporation, Robert H. Coleman.

Affiliated Bodies to Meet

In addition to the Baptist General convention proper two other large Baptist bodies will meet in Waco immediately preceding the convention. The W. M. U., representing the organized Baptist women of Texas will open its session at the First Baptist church, Waco, Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The pastors and laymen's conference will hold a one-day session Tuesday, Nov. 10. Dr. F. E. Brown, Knoxville, Tenn., executive secretary of the Southern Baptist promotion committee, will deliver an address to the pastors and laymen's group Tuesday night. All sessions of the pastors and laymen's conference will be held in Waco hall. The general theme of the conference will be "The Church in Action."

Interesting Program

Outstanding in the matters to claim the attention of the Baptist General convention of Texas will be the completion of the Texas part in the South-wide every member canvass, when an effort will be made to subscribe a budget of $6,350,000. Southern Baptists will undertake to raise a budget of $40,000,000. Of this amount $9,000,000 is to be used for mission work. The 17 district organizers and the 109 associational organizers for the every member canvass movement in Texas will have one or more special meetings in Waco while the convention is in session.

U. S. ARMY OFFICER TO ADDRESS MEN'S CLUB MEET MONDAY

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's club of the First Presbyterian church will be held in the church at 6:30 p. m. Monday, Nov. 9.

The program for this meeting will be in the nature of an Armistice day celebration. Lieut. Col. G. M. Peek, first field artillery, Fort Sill, will be the principal speaker of the evening. His subject will be "The Armistice, Our Problems and What We Have Done to Solve Them."

A suitable tribute will also be paid to the two boys of the church who did not return from France after the world conflict.

The Presbyterian Men's club, although organized only a few months ago, has taken its place in the church activities of the city. Working with the pastor, George P. Horst, it is handling the many problems which confront the church under ever changing conditions, and especially during these trying times, which affect the church life, as well as the business world. For the season 1931-1932 the club has mapped out a complete program, with seven regular scheduled meetings.

At the present time the club's membership includes more than 100 men of the church, its various committees functioning in every respect, looking toward the betterment of the church and its membership.

The club has undertaken, as one of its activities during the winter, to assume full responsibility for the Sunday night church service Nov. 8. A full program has been arranged with the laymen of the church in entire charge, the pastor for that night being a member of the congregation.

Rev. C. M. Beyer Honored at Service By St. Paul's Lutheran Membership On 25th Anniversary of Ordination

Rev. C. M. Beyer, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church here for more than 20 years, will begin the twenty-sixth year of his ministry with the conduct of services Sunday after having been honored by members of his congregation and scores of friends, many from out of town, on his twenty-fifth anniversary at a special service last Sunday night.

Visitors here to pay tribute to Mr. Beyer at the special service included groups from Vernon, Clara, Olney, Bowie, Henrietta and points in Oklahoma.

The service was the fourth to honor Mr. Beyer during the twenty-fifth year of his ministry. Other anniversary services have been held recently by the North Texas district conference in Dallas, the synodical district conference at Houston, and by the congregation at Big Spring, Texas, where Mr. Beyer was ordained.

George W. Anderson, chairman of St. Paul's congregation, was in charge of the anniversary service here Mr. and Mrs. Beyer were seated in the positions of honor before the altar.

Mr. Beyer entered the active ministry in the fall of 1906 in the capacity of traveling missionary on the western plains of Texas. The mission fields which came under his immediate supervision lay in the vicinity of Sagerton, Abilene, Big Spring, San Angelo and Stamford.

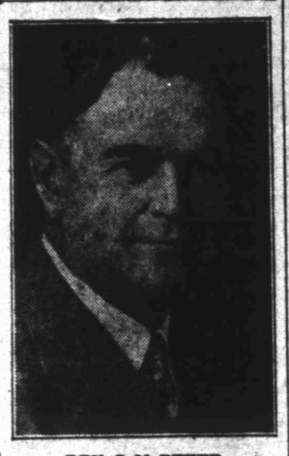

Here Since 1911

In September, 1911, he accepted the call to St. Paul's Lutheran church in Wichita Falls, which is still being served by him. St. Paul's congregation is one of the most active in the district.

"Next to God, who has bestowed His blessings in an abundant measure, the local pastor is entitled to a large share of the credit for the growth and advancement of the congregation," Mr. Anderson said in his talk.

"Under his able leadership it has grown from one of a very small number to one of the largest Lutheran congregations in the entire Texas district."

An interesting service was conducted by Rev. P. J. Klenk of Olney.

REV. C. M. BEYER

Outside of his own congregation, Mr. Beyer has given much of his time and talent in the interest of the Texas district and the Missouri synod.

For 10 years he served his district as moderator of North Texas, from 1918 to 1928. From 1922 to 1929 he served his district as its first financial secretary. In 1925 he was elected a member on the board of electors for Lutheran Concordia college of Austin, which position he held until last year.

Last year he was chosen permanent chairman of the state triennial conference. In 1928 he was elected first vice president of the Texas district. In 1929 he automatically became president of the district when the former president, Rev. J. W. Behnken of Houston, was elected second vice president of the general body. In 1930 he was elected to the presidency of the district for three years. In addition to the important positions that he has held and is now holding by virtue of his office, Mr. Beyer has also served on many important committees.

Presbyterian Leaders of State To Attend Educational and Worship Forum at Floral Heights Church

Representatives of the national board of Christian education, the Texas synod, and the presbytery of Wichita Falls will be at the educational and worship forum of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church on Nov. 15, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

MEDICAL EXPERT OF AFRICAN MISSION SPEAKS HERE TODAY

One of the famous medical missionaries of Elat, Cameroun, West Africa, will be the guest speaker at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Dr. H. L. Weber and his wife are spending the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Culbertson, who for many years have been deeply interested in this mission station.

Dr. and Mrs. Weber have been at Elat for 29 years. He is that virile type of a medical man that makes its appeal to the heroic youth of today. During his college days he played halfback on the famous Hamilton college team. He has watched and assisted the growth of that famous church at Elat until it has become the largest Presbyterian church in the world, and the mission station having 100,000 constituents. The medical center has grown apace. The main task of the hospital at the present time is the eradication of leprosy.

"The leper," says Dr. Weber, "resorts to every kind of camouflage to cover up the unwelcome fact. The reddish skin spots are painted black to harmonize with the rest of the skin." An interesting fact in the cure of leprosy is that the cures are five times as frequent in moderate cases and eight times as frequent in early cures, as in the advanced stages."

Dr. Weber will also address the combined missionary societies of the First Presbyterian, East Side Presbyterian and Floral Heights Presbyterian churches at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church in the church parlor.

Mrs. Bertha Singletary of Lumberton, N. C., has made enough money from a 19-acre farm to send four children to college.

TAX INTEREST AND PENALTIES TO BE HELD LOCAL BANKS

Arthur C. Howard, county tax collector, has been authorized by the state comptroller to make regular reports on the collection of delinquent 1930 taxes, but to hold on deposit in Wichita Falls all monies collected for interest and penalties, pending the final ruling on the statute remitting the same to the taxpayers.

Mr. Howard said that this assured taxpayers that the penalty and interest payments would be refunded if the law is declared constitutional. The attorney general's office has already advised the comptroller that there was a serious question as to the legality of the law which remits penalties and interest on delinquent taxes.

Mr. Howard also called attention of the taxpayers to the new tax law which provides that if half of the state and county taxes are paid by midnight Nov. 30 the other half need not be paid until midnight, June 30, and will draw no penalty or interest during that period.

If half of the tax is not paid by Nov. 30, however, the entire amount becomes delinquent after midnight, Jan. 31.

FIVE LARGE CITIES SHOW DECIDED PREFERENCE FOR NEW STYLE PLYMOUTHS

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—Although complete registration figures for September for the entire United States are not yet available, official registrations place Plymouth in first place in five of the largest cities in the country, according to an announcement made here by H. G. Moock, general sales manager of the Plymouth Motor corporation.

The cities in which Plymouth sales topped the sale of all other makes of automobiles in September are San Francisco, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Cleveland, the announcer states.

"In addition to the five large cities mentioned," said Mr. Moock's statement, "Plymouth ranked first in scores of points throughout the country. Complete registration figures for August are now available and show Plymouth first in 217 counties. In the majority of counties in every state, Plymouth has been in first, second or third practically since the new floating power Plymouth was announced.

"The elimination of vibration from a four-cylinder car for the first time in the history of the industry gave us confidence that in the new Plymouth we would be offering the public the greatest automotive achievement since the advent of the self-starter. That our hopes were justified and that the public was quick to recognize and enthuse over the superiorities of the new Plymouth, is very evident from the registration figures of every state," the sales executive said.

Watch Texas Go Forward

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
In The Austin American

GOLDEN SIGNS of prosperity are gladdening the eye of the six million people in Texas, in all fields of endeavor, in all fields of production, in all avenues of employment, and in the country as well as in the city and town. The people speak of higher price levels for three great world commodities; petroleum, cotton, and wheat.

As November was ushered in, the change in business conditions since early August brought a marvelous revival in the mental condition of the people as well as a feeling of hopefulness that the coming three months will work marvels in the volume of circulating money in Texas, in the purchasing power per capita of its people, and in a large restoration of confidence. The future holds much in store for those who are blessed with courage and confidence.

There is a prosperity coming, based not on fictitious values created by nation-wide gambling, but on the solid rock of safety and surety.

THE THREE MONTHS from August to November was a period of low price levels for petroleum, cotton and wheat. The period brought a feeling of uncertainty. This is a world of change, and a marvelous change has taken place since August. The state of Texas, with its six million people, finds a glorious comparison in the outlook for November with the outlook of last August. Indeed the prospective cash income of Texas and Texans today as against the August period is all the difference between grinding poverty and reasonable prosperity.

Higher price levels for petroleum, cotton and wheat have succeeded very low price levels. Many reasons could be given for the change. Oil in August at 15 cents a barrel and today at 85 cents with $1 prospect is one of the changes.

According to statisticians and prophets there are a million barrels of oil produced daily in Texas. The state is one of the greatest oil and gas producing states under American skies, and the figures give the daily gain in cash revenue (November prices against August prices) at $850,000, about 20 million dollars a month or $240,000,000 a year. Again these conservative calculators of increased wealth and purchasing power advise the reader to divide the $240,000,000 by six million. He will have in this one change an average addition of $40 a person per year, or $200 per family income.

Those who read know when prices were low drastic measures were adopted to save the mineral wealth of the state. The advance in price has placed millions in the pockets of those indirectly or directly connected with the industry, and has added hundreds of millions to the taxable values of the commonwealth.

There was a tiny rivulet of prosperity crawling across the state in dull August.

Now it is a sturdy stream, growing as days go by.

The mineral product of the earth is being shipped to domestic and foreign markets and will bring the state a large volume of golden coin before the coming of the Christmas holiday season and the new year.

COTTON IS ANOTHER staple product of Texas. It has played its part in world history from ancient ages to the modern days. Texas produces a greater number of bales of cotton than any other American state, than any nation under the rising sun today, or any country or people that has existed since the beginning of time. It has been known to produce in a single year more than a third of the American crop. Its estimated yield for 1931 has been placed at 5,600,000 bales by the agricultural department of the federal government.

There were very low levels, speaking of price, during the August period. All this is a reminder that November came in smiling in this great staple of the South, the price advance now is more than $10 per bale for spot cotton. The advancing price comes before the crop has left Texas.

Now what did this advance do for the purchasing power of the people? It added another $50,000,000 to the Texas cotton crop value as against the August price.

The wires of domestic dealers and the cables of foreign buyers told a story of increased demand for the raw material, increased activity of textile manufacturers, and heavier demands for goods in domestic fields as well as in foreign nations. There is a tremendous crop of unsold cotton under the skies of Texas. Should the activity of the buyers of the world, as well as home folks, increase, the demand should grow greater and the price show a substantially higher level before the end of the year.

This price gain of $10 per bale tells its own story in the homes of the landholders who are growers of cotton, and to the tenants and the croppers in the cottages and shacks, who are thus enabled to pay all or part of their debts; to the bankers and the merchants who have advanced supplies during the year, and to the commonwealth in tax payment, for it takes money and lots of it to run the huge machinery of government.

TEXAS LONG AGO abandoned the one crop poverty plan. Texas is becoming a commonwealth of diversified crops. There are great wheat ranches and wheat farms in West Texas. Think of the revolution in price levels, from low to high. In the famous Panhandle and Plains divisions of the state wheat of a superior quality is grown. The people could if pushed, produce 150,000,000 bushels, perhaps more, as readily as the 56,000,000 bushels of 1931. Wheat prices jumped, in response to world demands for the grain, from 30 to 50 cents a bushel cash or a gain of 66 per cent over the August period.

Texas is one among the great livestock or meat producing states and livestock and alfalfa and all minor crops in Texas are stiffening in price in sympathy with the higher price level movements for the world staples of cotton and petroleum. A close student of economic conditions since 1929 recently declared that the great significant fact in the advancing price levels is the products mentioned above leave the borders of Texas and sent back in as cash. This is an indisputable reason why the jump from low to high levels has caused a mighty change for the betterment of economic conditions and has added substantial sums to the per capita wealth and purchasing power of the six million people.

This stream of cash is not in Texas today in any large amount but it is coming in December and January and February, not only to hearten the souls and inspire the courage, but to better the financial fortunes of our people as a result of the demand, at home and abroad, for their chief staples of civilization.

Again, as August found the wealth makers of Texas producing every single Texas product at a selling price below cost of production, November finds Texans have learned to produce cheaply, have eliminated the careless waste of a more prosperous era, have put their personal financial houses in order, and are now ready to reap the prosperity which is the natural heritage of a rich empire pioneer state such as the Lone Star Commonwealth.

This is a news story for all the people concerned in advancing price levels of the staples of Texas, a hint of what these price levels have done in per capita wealth and per capita purchasing power for the the people of Texas. It is a direct story of people and buying power. The intent is to warm the cold, so the people may know they are on their way to reasonable prosperity and are leaving behind them, in many instances, grinding poverty which threatened those who till the soil, or delve into the bosom of the earth for its black gold treasures.

American bankers have said time and again that Texas is the brightest spot on the American map. It is. May it continue to be the brightest spot on the American map with the world map covered with bright and not a single dark spot—in the year or years to come.

Your Car Will Be Better Lubricated and Serviced by the Dealer Who Sells That Car

Grease Is CHEAP But Lack of It Is NOT!

If you think lubricating a car properly is a simple job, just try it sometime.

Before you get through, you'll find you've missed more places than a blind man in a runaway airplane.

That ought to show you how essential it is that your car be lubricated only by the man who knows that one car thoroughly.

In other words, entrust this important job only to the dealer who sells that car, and who is vitally interested in its satisfactory performance.

The dealer's men are specialists—trained to every cup and bearing in that particular automobile.

Such knowledge, plus a real vital interest in your car's condition, are the best and only guarantee you can have of thorough lubrication.

Don't take a chance on just anyone doing it—that may cost you a lot of money in the long run.

Grease is cheap, but lack of it is not—and you'll find this out when some bearing burns out and messes up everything.

Garments manufactured here include pants, shirts, overalls and children's play suits.

FABULOUS PRICES AT AUCTION REVEAL HOLD EARLY AMERICAN PRODUCTS HAVE ON COLLECTORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—When Duncan Phyfe, early American designer of furniture, was creating some of his graceful pieces, he little dreamed that some day examples of his work would bring thousands of dollars.

Someone paid $2,300 for one of Phyfe's carved mahogany sofas at public auction here a few days a go, representing the hold early American products from furniture to books have on the imagination of American collectors.

Four Queen Anne lowboys, made in America, fetched prices ranging from $220 to $650 each, Chippendale mahogany side chairs $225 to $375, while a silver tea service made by Hugh Wishart in New York in 1800 sold for $350.

The auction season is on in earnest and furniture and decorations, American antiques, books and autographs, etchings and color prints are going under the hammer.

A Benjamin Franklin letter, written from Passy, brought $300, while a rare letter by Herman Melville, whose fame as a writer is overtopping many of the one-time moguls of the American "classic" era, found a buyer at $160.

Here are some miscellaneous prices from recent auction:

Roosevelt's "Big Game Hunting," $32.50.

Grover Cleveland's letter of resignation as governor, $40.

Buhot's etching "The Cab Stand," $360.

Pennell's etching "The Bridges From Brooklyn," $37.50.

SHORT-SIGHTED AND PICAYUNISH

Public service corporations have learned a great deal since the "public be damned" era of a few decades ago, but every now and then one encounters some activity of theirs which makes him realize that the grasping spirit of that era has not yet disappeared.

Consider, for example, a practice which the local telephone office has recently adopted. It scans the classified columns of the local papers. Those columns, just now, reflect economic conditions. That is to say, there are many unemployed, and some of them are trying, by such means as their abilities give them, to make money. A young man who is out of a job but who understands radios, uses a few lines of advertising space to offer his services as a radio repairer. The owner of a team and wagon, or of a truck, advertises his readiness to haul dirt or fertilizer for lawns. The suburban chicken-raiser seeks a market, through a little advertisement, for his fryers and eggs. Many women and girls, living in the residential districts, are trying to augment the family income by conducting small beauty parlors; in some instances, the income from such work is the only income there is.

The telephone company seeks out these advertisements and reasons thusly: these people advertise their telephone numbers for the purpose of making money; therefore, these radio repair, dirt-hauling, poultry-selling and marcel-waving telephones are business telephones and must pay the business rate of $7.50 per month.

We don't know what the company's franchise has to say on the subject; nothing, probably. Nor do we know what its legal rights are, in such cases. We do know that it is a picayunish and short-sighted attitude to take.

This paper can afford to lose the few dollars for the advertisements that are taken out, or withheld, because of the company's way of swooping down upon such advertisers. But the individuals themselves cannot afford either to forego the negligible amounts their "businesses" bring them or to pay $7.50 for telephone service. And the Southwestern Bell Telephone company cannot afford, for the sake of the nominal sum it may wring from such advertisers, to lose the good will of the public. It may think it can, but it is mistaken.

We would like to see some one of these advertisers employ counsel and go to the mat with the company, in the courts. It might be well to have a business telephone judicially defined. And probably it wouldn't cost very much to test the matter, the practice of law being what it is just now.

WURZBACH

Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach occupied a unique position in Texas politics. At outs with the state organization of his party, and denied the backing he might have expected from it, he nevertheless was able to retain his place as the only Republican congressman from Texas. There were two main factors in his ability to win. One was the personality and exceptional ability of the man himself. The other was the fact that San Antonio, with its important military establishments, thought a Republican congressman would be of more value to it than a Democrat.

It is very doubtful if a Republican will be chosen in his stead. The probability is that Texas will resume the sending of solid Democratic delegations to Washington.

SMITH AND ROOSEVELT

The signs are multiplying that Governor Roosevelt will not only lack the active support, but will face the active opposition, of Al Smith in his march toward the Democratic presidential nomination. The voters' approval of the reforestation amendment to the New York constitution, sponsored by Roosevelt and opposed by Smith, probably widened the breach between the two men. If Smith were prepared to aid the Roosevelt candidacy, he probably would have so declared himself by now. It is reasonable to suppose that he has a candidate of his own whom he prefers to the New York governor. It is possible that he has hopes of gaining the nomination for himself and that he sees Roosevelt as his most formidable rival.

His objection to Roosevelt, according to the New York Herald-Tribune, is that the governor, while wet, is not as wet as Smith wants him to be. Smith is also resentful, says the New York paper, of the governor's seeming desire to stress issues other than prohibition.

If Smith's plan is to bring about the nomination of some one more blatantly wet than Roosevelt, whether or not that some one is himself, we believe he will find that a very large number of those who helped to give him the nomination in 1928 will not follow him now. It is not, as yet, a question of nominating Roosevelt. It has not reached that stage, although it may before next July when the convention is held. The question is rather whether the party can accept a leadership which contains all the elements of defeat. The leadership to which Smith seems to be aspiring is a defeatist leadership. The party can win next November with a wet candidate. But it cannot win with just any wet candidate. It cannot go before the country on that issue alone. And to nominate Smith would mean just that. To nominate some one who, by his wetness alone, appealed to Smith, would also mean that.

There is another reason why the party cannot accept Smith's leadership. The Smith we supported in 1928 was a Tammany man, but he was, for the nonce, a bigger man than the organization. Because of him, Tammany had adventured into respectability. After Smith's defeat, Tammany rushed back to its flesh-pots. It became the Tammany of old. And now Smith has re-joined it, even sharing in its whining protests against the Seabury disclosures. The tiger's brand is on him. His rapproachement with Tammany is not, necessarily, due to any sympathy with it. More likely it is due to a realization that he needs Tammany's support to defeat Roosevelt. Whatever his motive, he is in the Tammany camp. To say that he can emerge therefrom undefiled when there is so much pitch is to expect the impossible.

The Al Smith of today is not the Al Smith whom the Democratic party nominated in 1928. And we believe that if he seeks now to exercise the leadership which was accorded him in 1928, he is riding to a fall.

It is entirely possible that he can prevent Roosevelt's getting the New York delegation. It is entirely possible that by that means he can engender doubt, among delegates from other states, as to Roosevelt's ability to carry New York in the general election. But unless we are sadly mistaken as to the attitude and the temper of Democrats in the country at large, the more actively Smith opposes Roosevelt, the brighter the latter's prospects for the nomination.

Leaving prohibition out of consideration, a fight on Roosevelt by Al Smith would be viewed as the fight of a sorehead and a Tammany henchman. That is too much of a handicap. It would prevent the nomination of Smith himself and would endanger the candidacy of any one he was known to favor.

This paper believes it is speaking for the great majority of those who supported Smith in 1928 when it says that he himself is undesirable as a candidate and that any one whom he might actively support is apt to be viewed in the same light.

THE KING AND GANDHI

The memorable thing about last Thursday's meeting between the king of England and Gandhi was not that a half-naked man shook hands with a monarch clad in all the impressive regalia of his office.

The memorable feature of it was that the man who, in breech clout and shawl, stood face to face with a king, is a more powerful figure, a more significant force in world affairs, than that king.

Some Unfinished Business

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Yesterday I suggested that the depression through which we have been passing is different from the preceding depressions in that it is the first general depression that has come upon us since our machine economy has really struck its stride of phenomenal productivity.

I have so often insisted upon the central and crucial importance of the single issue of building up the buying power of the working millions that it may have seemed to some readers that my outlook upon the economic scene has been dangerously single-track.

I want today to list under the heading of unfinished business some of the other issues that we must meet, and be willing to declare a holiday for our partisan dogmatisms in meeting them.

Continuously mounting armaments.

Speculative mania.

Unsuccessful attempts upon the part of the governments to stabilize commodity prices.

The fall in the price of silver.

Provincialism of policy in such fields as:

(1) Foreign trade.

(2) Tariffs.

(3) The exploitation and management of the world's supply of natural resources.

(4) International political relations.

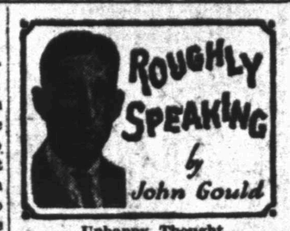

The direct impact of war-debt payments upon Europe and the indirect impact upon the United States.

The gravitation of an undue amount of the world's supply of gold into French and American hands.

These and allied problems indicate the complexity of the political economic situation confronting our leadership.

But, in any situation, however complex, there may be one factor more fundamental than the rest, so fundamental, indeed that the presence of all other factors cannot compensate for its absence.

And I think the factor of mass buying power is this central and crucial factor.

Unhappy Thought

We Democrats mopped up in the election,
Winning with congressmen, governors and such,
But in this thought there is, for me, dejection,
We can only win when it doesn't matter much.

Another gloomy thought is that, having gained a victory, it may develop that we don't know what to do with it. When the Republicans win, it means something. But Democratic victories have been known to turn around and bite somebody.

A Democratic victory may be like getting the best of an argument with the wife. You lose even if you win.

The Abstainers

We are anxious to see what happens to those folks who recently pledged themselves to abstain from griping for 10 days. Most of them are men of probity and earnestness and we are sure they will live up to any pledge to which they subscribe. What we are concerned about is what is going to happen to them when the 10-day period is over. Ten days is a long time, just now, to go without griping. So many occasions for griping can accumulate during that length of time. We are wondering if, when the 10 days are up, the makers of the pledge won't have to gripe overtime for several days in order to catch up.

It reminds us of a resolution we made once. We decided that getting peeved was bad for us, that it interrupted our work and affected our digestion, and that we would cut it out. However, knowing our limitations, and not wanting to put our self-control to too severe a test, we made a sort of compromise with ourself. We agreed that we would take note of all the annoyances and tribulations that we encountered, but not let ourself get mad at the time. Instead, we would let them accumulate from hour to hour until the load got too heavy, and then go out and have just one good, healthy, soul-satisfying mad and get it out of our system.

We decided to wait until next morning to start, so that a brand-new day might dawn upon our resolution.

Trials

Early the next day we arose and started feeling around with our feet, groping around on the floor, encountered a gob of thoroughly damp swieback. Young children have a way of discarding swieback after they have started to eat it and then changed their minds. They don't change their minds soon enough. Sometimes it is dry and sometimes it is wet; in either event it is not soothing to a bare foot on a chilly morning.

Ordinarily, such an experience would have put us in a rotten bad humor. But, remembering our resolution, we kept our temper. We were careful to make a mental note of the incident, setting it down as one of the things to recall when our mad-time arrived. We remember thinking it would give us a good start.

Then we went to the bath-room to brush our teeth. There we were the victim of the thoughtlessness of shaving-cream manufacturers; they have a careless way of putting up their soap in tubes of the same size and general appearance as tooth paste tubes. There are few things more disconcerting, early in the morning, than to discover shaving cream on a tooth-brush, especially as the discovery is usually made just a second too late. You would be surprised to learn how much dismay, consternation, even melancholy, such a mishap can cause. But our will power triumphed gloriously, just the same.

We put on a clean shirt without finding out, until we had it on, that the collar button was gone. By that time we were so well disciplined by our earlier experiences that we dislodged only two more buttons in removing the garment.

The Accumulation

Nothing else happened for several minutes. By then we were fully dressed and stepped out on the porch to get the morning paper. It was still rather dark and the first thing we knew a tricycle had seized us by the ankle and was trying to bite us. You never really know how vicious a tricycle can be until you encounter one unexpectedly in the dark. It is worse than a wire coat-hanger, because it does not, like the hanger, rattle before it strikes.

We survived that experience with our resolution unscathed, though it was something of a struggle. By the time we had found some iodine to put on our wounds and had changed socks, our peace of mind was fairly well re-established, and we were beginning to feel proud of ourself.

Not many minutes later we decided to make a change in our resolution. We decided that instead of waiting until late in the day to have our one big mad, we would have it early, and get it behind us. In fact, we decided to have it right away, before the accumulation became any greater.

Two happenings prompted this decision. One was when we went to start the car and found it had a flat. The other was the discovery, after we had changed tires and started to back out, that an ice-truck was blocking the drive-way.

Some moments after that, anxious relatives found us underneath the house gnawing away at a water pipe.

That's why we are anxious to see what happens to those who have resolved not to gripe for 10 days. When the 10 days are over and all the occasions for griping have accumulated, some of them are going to explode.

The trouble with Governor Murray's newest bridge game was, he found out that the federal court held the high trumps.

The Fly in the Ointment!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON — Members of congress are dribbling in here in preparation for the big doings which begin in December. Fifteen or 20 senators are reported in town at this writing and probably there are 25 or 30 representatives. Most of them are here for work, but few forget that this is the best season to trumpet their views for the country. Later with everyone here, competition will be keener.

The supreme court, located in the capitol's center, has been having its fall session. Tom Heflin of Alabama also has been on view in connection with the contest for his old seat against Senator Bankhead.

Miscellaneous busts, statues and famous old paintings are being scrubbed or dusted off.

Jim Preston is roosting again at his perch in the senate press gallery. He moved there back in 1897 and this will be the 17th congress he has seen assemble.

Telegraph operators have returned to the gallery, for already they are assured of enough news files from the capitol to make their presence worth while.

The house press gallery, which doesn't compare with the senate's in prestige, must be content with a good scrubbing and a repainting.

But down on the house floor you find that an almost gaudy flooring has been laid over the slightly raised portion over which the 435 seats are spread. This replaces the old carpet. Spit is a horrid word, but one learns that some members were often horrid.

The senate chamber looks the same, but during the summer the whole pine floor was taken up and every electric wire beneath carefully tubed to end the fire hazard. And there's now a fire pump in the capitol which will produce 1,000 gallons of water a minute.

The pre-session season really opened when Senator Borah of Idaho returned and resumed his daily 3 o'clock press conferences. Twenty or 30 correspondents gather in Borah's office daily and, with utmost frankness, he hashes over with them developments current. Usually Borah doesn't talk for publication, but he always has interesting ideas and opinions—and, as often as not, interesting information. The correspondents, sitting in chairs or on the floor, also have ideas and information. They argue things out informally and the keynote of discussion is often "What the hell?" Borah is perhaps the biggest man here who can be depended upon to hand out no selfish propaganda and no baloney.

The conferences provide a boon for the reporters, who can usually get an idea for a story if they are hard up, and one for Borah, who gets a wider circulation for his views than any American outside the White House. Sometimes, of course, the views are not published as his.

After the Borah conference some correspondent always says, "Well, let's go see——." And off goes a group. Such a group, large or small is always barging about the senate office building at this season. Lately its meat has been LaFollette of Wisconsin, Reed of Pennsylvania, Couzens of Michigan, Nye of North Dakota, Walsh of Montana and McNary of Oregon. If you ask the correspondents what they gather about the possibilities of the next congress, they will tell you that things won't begin to shape up until Norris of Nebraska gets back and goes into conference with his fellow progressives.

Improvements in Diagnosis

While the science of administering medicine to the sick body has not improved very much within the last thousand years, still, the science of diagnosis has reached a very high stage of development in the last century. Some physicians are still willing to diagnose or attempt to do so by simply looking at the patient's tongue or by taking his pulse, but the doctor who makes such snap diagnosis is rapidly losing his practice to the ones who are more conscientious and scientific, and who keep abreast of the times.

During the last 20 years the X-ray method of diagnosis has improved to such an extent as to make the diagnosis of such diseases as tuberculosis, stomach ulcer, gall stones, kidney stones and many other diseases quite accurate, and the physician can be reasonably sure of his diagnosis of these diseases. Of course, the X-ray by itself is not an infallible method of diagnosis, but should be supplemented by all of the other laboratory methods known to medical science.

The blood count test is also one of the modern developments of diagnostic science, which is of great value to physicians in determining the quality and quantity of the blood. This test will determine the color of the hemoglobin of the blood, and an accurate count can also be made of the number of red blood cells which carry nourishment to the tissues, and also of the white corpuscles which act as policemen in the body. A scientific physician can read the reports of the blood test and arrive at a definite understanding of their significance.

A urinalysis is of great value to the diagnostician, who can by this means discover many diseases in their incipient stage and by this be able to teach the patient how to avoid further trouble.

The sphygmomanometer, a blood pressure instrument, will show the tension of the arterial walls. This point is of inestimable value in many diseases.

The electro-cardiograph is an instrument which will draw a diagram of the heart action and show the relative strength of the different heart valves.

Metabolism can now be measured by a delicate instrument which will show how far metabolism has become perverted. Readings of this instrument will indicate when a patient has returned to normal health.

These are only a few of the methods of diagnosis which the modern physician uses. As the laymen learn to understand how well equipped the physician is today for diagnosing any kind of trouble, that much quicker will he seek his doctor's assistance in discovering the early stages of constitutional or functional weakness.

The time will soon come when everyone will feel the value of going to their doctor every six months to have a complete physical examination made the same as they now go to their dentist to have their teeth looked over.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Roasted Peanuts More Digestible

Question: Mr. Herb O. writes—"I have been told that raw peanut butter is more easily digested than when roasted, and, when roasted, the oil develops irritating qualities just as frying food does. Is it possible to strike the oil from nuts by an easy simple method?"

Answer—Peanuts contain a large amount of starch, which in the raw state is very hard to digest. When roasted, this starch undergoes dextrinization, making it more readily soluble by the digestive juices. Peanuts, when properly roasted, are more easily digested than when raw. Of course, care should be taken not to roast them too quickly or at too great a temperature or the oil may be made more indigestible. Oil from nuts may be extracted by means of a press.

Food for Nerves

Question: Mrs. W. L. asks—"Is it true that there are certain foods reputedly beneficial in the treatment of nervous diseases? What are they?"

Answer—Possibly you are thinking of Vitamin B1, the absence of which causes polyneuritis; other than this there is no special food which has any specific effect upon the nerves outside of all those foods which contain organic minerals, such as the non-starchy vegetables. Nervous people are in such a condition because of a toxic irritation of their nerves, or from destructive thinking.

Eczema a Blood Disease

Question: C. I. C. inquires—"Is eczema a skin or blood disease? Is it contagious and is there a cure?"

Answer—Eczema is not contagious and not caused from outside infection and is essentially a blood disease, being caused by a form of acidosis which means lowered blood alkalinity. It is always curable though dietary measures. Please send a self-addressed stamped envelope for my special article on skin disorders.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

WICHITA FALLS PIANO MECHANICS ENTER PROTEST

Editor The Times: The people of this community have been appealed to many times and from many angles to stand by our home merchants, our home workmen, and our home institutions of every kind. Not the least of these have been appeals made for the support of our schools in this time of distress. Every right-thinking person approves the sentiment of providing for our own, particularly where it involves the education of our children.

However, the undersigned believe that the school authorities have violated this principle in having the 26 pianos of our school system tuned by an outsider when competent workmen at reasonable prices can be had at home. If something should go wrong with the mechanism or work on one of these pianos the guarantee of an absent workman is valueless, therefore the itinerant tuner may be very expensive.

Due to the fact that our local papers, influential citizens, mothers and fathers are now campaigning local taxpayers (not Fort Worth), to pay their taxes, now, so our schools may not close for want of funds.

We as taxpayers protest the action on the ground that the school authorities should patronize home industries and because in this case the patronage of home people would prove to be better business.

SUGGESTS SCHOOLS BE OPEN ON DIFFERENT NIGHTS

Editor The Times: I noticed in the paper that the public schools of the city were going to hold a night session on No. 12 for the benefit of the parents who have children attending school. I think this is a very good idea. I think most parents will be glad to go to see how schools are now run, and also, that they may observe how their children do in comparison with other children.

The only objection that I find to the plan is the fact that all the schools will be open the same night and for only an hour of actual classroom work. I happen to be so fortunate, or unfortunate, as to have several children of different ages and they attend different schools. In fact I have one child in a ward school, another in junior high school and another in the senior high school. I would like to visit each school, become acquainted with the teachers and observe the work of each child in his classes. It will be utterly impossible for me to attend more than one school in one night.

I know of many other people who are in the same fix that I am. In fact, I am sure that from 50 to 75 per cent of the people having children in school have them both in ward and high schools. As this session is to be given for the benefit of the parents I am taking this method of asking Mr. Fillers to please arrange to hold the ward schools open one night, Reagan and Sundy another night, and the high school a third night, so that hundreds of other patrons of the schools as well as I may attend. I hope that you will publish this in the interest of all.

SOLON'S DAUGHTER IS RADIO CHAIN VIOLINIST

Mary Eaton, whose violin solos are heard every Sunday from 8:30 to 8:45 a. m., central standard time, over NBC-WEAF network, is the daughter of U. S. Representative Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey. Music critics have lauded her as a skilled musician.

Miss Eaton, whose violin was first heard over the air seven years ago, studied with Leopold Auer for four years, and has just returned to this country after two years of further study in Europe. She is now head of the violin department of the Pine Arts Institute in Plainfield, N. J., where she lives.

NEW YORK.—It started when the wife went rummaging through old boxes and suitcases stuffed with treasured junk.

And, of course, that would be the one evening in weeks when I had called a temporary halt on theaters and nightspots and come home for a little quiet reading and writing.

"Why don't you throw all that stuff away?" I inquired, mustering my most masterful voice and sliding it into the key of annoyance. At the moment, the frau was standing before a mirror, holding up one of those gold-silver spangled vintage gowns that came almost to the knees.

"Either give it away or throw it away! Why clutter up the house?" I went on.

"You don't seem to recognize it . . ." There was a hurt note in the voice that indicated I had somehow faux passed, as usual.

"Yes, yes—I'd know it anywhere! . . ." I bluffed.

"Well—I've kept it because it was the first evening dress we were able to afford . . . remember I got it for an anniversary party . . . !"

"You mean to tell me that you've lugged that from San Francisco to New York? That it's been taking up good space in a box. . . . That ends it! I'll never take you to another movie. . . . The next thing I know you'll be dragging out a lock of hair . . . "

"How did you know?" . . . She seemed a bit puzzled.

"How did I know what?"

"That I had found it!" . . . Whereupon out of nowhere appeared the blondest of golden curls.

"You don't even know what it is . . . ?"

"Sure it's a baby curl, what about it?" . . . For we he-men columnists must never show the slightest sign of weakening.

"I suppose you'll tell me in a minute that it's mine!"

"Well, it is! Your mother tied a little blue ribbon around it and gave it to me . . . and I've found your graduation diploma. . . . And I've found a picture of you in short pants taken with your high school class. . . . And quit trying to be so darn hard-boiled. You may kid the public, but I know you! So you might as well give up—and come right over here and have a nice blubber with me! We're overdue for a good blubber around this place . . . "

And that mesdames and mesdames is just a little chapter in the home life of a Manhattan sophisticate and man-about-town!

Nor does it end there! It seems the missus is digging about the debris had hauled out a little chunk of elegant velvet.

"We're going to economize," she announced. "I found this swell piece of velvet. So I went down to the store today and bought a lot of material and I'm going to make myself a pair of hostess pajamas. I haven't sewed in years—that's what New York has done to me! I've rented a sewing machine and now that we've had a nice cry we're going to cut out the dress. You're going to help me pin the pattern on the cloth!"

Well, patient friends, have you ever tried to unscramble one of those tissue paper patterns? A jig saw puzzle is simple.

For hours this has been going on, until I'm saying "left-right" like a chorus trainer. And I've pricked every finger on both hands—and "ha-ha" the $7.89 worth of cloth isn't enough—and there'll be rent to pay on the machine—and my time is worth something.

Installation of Officers Marks Beautiful Luncheon of Floral Heights Methodist B. O. P. Class

A beautiful Thanksgiving spirit marked the annual luncheon of the Floral Heights Methodist B. O. P. class held Thursday at the Wichita club where the motif of decoration was autumn colors and Thanksgiving suggestions. Orange pumpkins were placed at prettily spaced intervals on the large table built in the shape of a U and long sprays of ivy connected these. Clusters of golden cosmos stressed the brilliant color scheme and at the speakers' table, on the piano and on console tables about the drawing room, jars of plume chrysanthemums in gold, maroon and bronze were the finishing touches to the beautiful setting. The Thanksgiving motif was also observed in the colorful place cards marking the places of officers and special guests.

Mrs. Horace Mosteller was toastmistress and her clever introductions were one of the program features. Mrs. Milton Johnson, class teacher, gave the invocation and a lovely duet "Where My Caravan Has Rested," was sung by Mesdames Jasper Ferguson and George Thorburn with Mrs. O. E. Nicholls accompanying.

Mrs. Dan Hardy, a former teacher of the class, was presented and in a short and interesting talk told of class history and congratulated the members on their development.

Mrs. W. E. Bristol, one of the most talented speakers in the city, read "The Play's the Thing," by George Madden Martin and "Biographies," by Dorothy Parker. The toast given to Mrs. Milton Johnson, teacher, by Mrs. J. H. Campbell was an appreciation voiced for the class in the most exquisite words and given in a charming manner. Mrs. Johnson gave a feeling response in her usual gracious style.

Officers Installed

An impressive ceremony marked the installation of the following officers: Mrs. P. S. Richardson, president; Mrs. Horace Mosteller, vice president; Mrs. Faye Hardeman, recording secretary and treasurer; Mrs. A. H. Freeman, flower chairman; Mrs. C. C. Linn, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Carl Yeager, assistant secretary and treasurer; Mrs. Horace Lankford, reporter.

Circle leaders installed included Mesdames R. K. Pond, the retiring president; Shady Hale, J. B. Stokes Jr., D. A. Baker, Floyd Pace, H. B. White, C. F. Helmcamp, Glenn Berry and Clyde Murph.

Librarian Is Presented at Alamo Meeting

Observing book week, the Alamo P.-T. A. presented Miss Avalon Rines of the Kemp library, who gave an interesting and instructive talk on books at the meeting held Friday. Miss Rines outlined the methods to be used in encouraging the child's habit of reading the right books and developing their judgment in order to give them something lasting and permanent. She discussed the child who loves to read and how to teach him to distinguish the good books from the bad, that he may grow up to be a useful, intelligent, happy individual from his book associations.

She said that the child who does not like to read presents the most serious problem. And possibly there are many reasons why he has missed this—the greatest pleasure in life. Miss Rines stressed the importance of story-telling for the very young child, to give him a feeling for the language and a desire for good books. She urged the greatest diplomacy when presenting books, that the child will not lose confidence in our judgment.

A demonstration of posters was arranged by Miss Edna Prechel, art teacher, with third grade pupils, as young artists drawing and papercutting. Mary Francis Harris gave a reading, each verse being illustrated by one of the posters previously made. The pupils taking part were C. A. Canipe, Barney Brown, Bob Hilburn, David Green, Warren Green, Shirley Jean Martin, Mildred Clodes, Anita Levin, Peggy Gray, Flora Moore, Peggy Jo Pond, Betty Dale Trotter, Jean Harris and Mary Ann Renfro.

Display of Books

A display of good books was interestingly arranged by Mrs. D. G. Whitney. The books used in the display were furnished through the courtesy of the Lovelace Book store.

The devotional of Scripture reading and prayer was given by Mrs. C. L. Baum. Her selection was the 23rd Psalm in keeping with Thanksgiving.

Mrs. J. C. Martin, representative to the city council, outlined briefly the program that was given at the

BARWISE P.-T. A. WILL SPONSOR VISITING DAY

Observing parents' visiting day in the Barwise school, about 200 invitations are being sent out by the principal, Miss Bettie Dilworth, and the school faculty, to patrons, who are asked to visit the school from 6 to 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Much preparation is being made to make this the outstanding visitors' day in the school, when parents will be given the opportunity to learn of the modern methods used in the instructions to their children.

Dinner will be served to the patrons in the cafeteria at 6 o'clock and regular classes will begin at 7 o'clock, lasting one hour.

Cooperating with the school, the president of the P.-T. A., Mrs. R. A. Bailey, Mrs. B. C. Blackburn is chairman of decorations of the booth and Mrs. V. C. Plunkett and W. F. Collums will preside over the register. President Hoover's "Children's Charter" will be displayed, as will the congress library and leaflets.

The scrapbooks made by the P.-T. A. and posters made by the children.

Sponsors of the various rooms will act as hostesses and conduct the visitors to the classes they wish to attend.

It is hoped the patrons will take note of the work being done by the P.-T. A. in viewing the beautiful paintings that are appropriately framed and hung in the new auditorium, the lovely stage curtains and the recent beautification of the school grounds.

Every patron and friend is urged to visit the school during these hours.

Ruth Bryan Owen To Give Lecture On 'Open Doors'

Regarded throughout the country as one woman speaking for all women as an official on the national scene, Ruth Bryan Owen, congress woman from Florida, now serving her second term in congress, will speak in Wichita Falls, Nov. 12, at 8 p. m., under the auspices of the Woman's Forum. Her address will be on "Open Doors" and will be held at the Woman's Forum clubhouse.

That Mrs. Owen has true eloquence, all who have heard her admit. But no sorceress gave her this gift of the spoken word. Instead, and quite contrary to the popular theory that heredity accounts for this orator-daughter of an orator-father, she worked out her own technique, slowly and painstakingly. All the agonies of the amateur were hers, she insists. But she persisted and worked out some original ideas. One was how to make an audience in the open air hear at a distance of three blocks; how to win and hold her hearers.

Varied Experience

Added to her ability to hold an audience, her world-wide experiences have given her ample material that is compelling in its interest in itself. Years spent as the wife of Maj. Reginald Owen of the British army in the West Indies, in India, in Egypt, in the Allenby campaign that wrested the Holy land from the Turks in the world war in Great Britain, as well as her later experiences in all parts of the United States, combine to round out a personality that was striking from the beginning.

No cut-and-dried phrases, no platitudes fall from her tongue. It is not necessary. Her own experience is so rich and varied her own message of peace and idealism so importunate, her problem is to find the time to tell the new things.

She was born in Jacksonville, Ill., to be the first woman ever politically to represent that far southern section below Jacksonville, Fla. The longest congressional district is here, 500 miles from Jacksonville to Key West, and with more than half a million population.

Daughter of William Jennings Bryan and Mary Baird Bryan, her childhood environment was public questions. She knew the Democratic platform at 11. As a child she attended public schools, marshalled all the other little girls into a Spanish-American regiment. Her first public speeches were made, when as a young girl she campaigned for the election of her famous father to the presidency of the United States.

Forum members will attend Mrs. Owen's lecture on their new membership cards. Husbands of forum members and out of town nonforum members will be admitted for $1.

P.-T. A. BOARD PLANS INTERESTING WORK

Mrs. Harry ten Brink, president of Junior college and high school P.-T. A. opened the meeting of the executive board at the home of Mrs. Carlisle Norwood Friday morning, by reading the parliamentary rules of the organization to the officers. It was voted that the book of rules should be ordered for each members of the executive board.

Mrs. C. E. Basham, council delegate, told of the play to be given by the Civic Thater players at the Memorial auditorium under the direction of Clyde Strauss which P.-T. A. units of the city will sponsor and the funds from which will be given for the school lunch fund.

Mrs. Harry Strief, chairman of the "Mother and Son" banquet to be given at the Woman's Forum Nov. 24, reported interesting progress in plans for an unusual evening.

Mrs. Wm. Huff reported the uniforms for the pep squad had been paid for from the proceeds of the athletic show and that the Athletic club will have another show.

A fund for welfare work was turned over to Mrs. W. L. Hawkins, chairman of welfare.

Members present were Mesdames S. H. Rider, Harry ten Brink, Fred Sehmann, Albert Owen, Ed Peterson, Paul Barnett, R. M. Tittle, C. E. Bristol, George Thorburn, Dan Warman, Ed Napier, Wm. Huff, W. L. Hawkins and Mrs. Norwood.

are shown officers of the B. O. P. Sunday school class of the Floral Heights Methodist church. The group is composed of young matrons of the church and Mrs. R. K. Pond is the past president. Mrs. P. S. Richardson is the new president; Mrs. Horace Mosteller the vice president, and Mrs. Ray Hardeman, secretary and treasurer.

PEGGY PIEDMONT Says

A full week of activity for Wichita Falls club women begins Monday with the annual trek to the state meeting Texas Federation of Women's clubs which will be held in Lubbock this year. The annual flower show at the Woman's Forum clubhouse on Wednesday and Thursday is another event of the week in which numerous women are interested and a week-end event is the appearance of Ruth Bryan Owen, Democratic congresswoman and daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, who will lecture at the Forum clubhouse Friday evening.

The fact that a new president will be elected at the state federation convention at Lubbock and that other important constitutional changes have been suggested for a vote, the meeting promises to be of more than the usual interest.

THE constitutional changes suggested are that the state federation meet every two years and the districts in alternate years; that a president be allowed to succeed herself after the hitherto maximum term of two years has expired. Due to these suggested changes and to the presidential election, there will be a thread of excitement pervading the convention session.

First district will be well represented. From Wichita Falls proper, there will be a large delegation.

Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, first district president, will be on the program several times. Mrs. St. Andrew Myers, first district secretary, and Miss Robbie Castleberry, Vernon, first district vice president, will attend the conference. Mrs. Myers will represent the inter-county federation.

the Forum clubhouse, a low white gateway will lead into a garden path outlined with potted plants and garden furniture. The pathway will lead up to a rock garden and a pool, arranged by Edwin Bebb, where goldfish and blooming water lilies will add their lure. The background will show a pretty trellis with growing vines and cactuses, ferns and a large yuccas will feature the rock garden. Bird baths and bird houses will add to the effective garden scene. Bird baths and garden furniture will be furnished by Mrs. J. H. Litteken.

A very unusual way to exhibit the cut flowers will be against tables covered in black with containers wrapped in leaf green. To make the showing especially effective, there will be double deck tables, a long shelf running above the center of each display table.

The stage, which will be the scene of two magnificent evening entertainments, will be decorated by the Palace of Blooms. Bebb Floral company in addition to aiding with preparation of the auditorium setting, will have a booth of their own.

Department Booths

The literature department will be in charge of pies and cakes; the civics and health and home department will have a tea room where charming members of the Junior forum will serve lunches. A special turkey dinner will be served each day at a minimum price. Reservations must be made for this, but the tea room will remain open all afternoon for delightful lunches.

The white elephant exchange to be featured by members of the winter department has caused much comment. Mrs. B. L. Fain has presented this department with three bushels of iris bulbs which will be sold at five cents each. Many of these are very expensive bulbs, a number imported.

Two features that are unique in interest are the exhibit of ferns and shadow boxes of which Mrs. J. J. Perkins is in charge. The shadow box exhibit is an artistic exploit much in demand in up-to-date flower shows. Needless to say that under Mrs. Perkins' supervision, it will be a drawing card for the visitors.

Mrs. Rhea Howard will be in charge of the bird and fish exhibit and specimens of lion heads, fan tails, comet tails and calico fish will be shown in the pool. Among the lovely aquariums, one will feature the tiny live bearing fish. Music of singers in their pretty cages will draw attention to this exhibit Mrs. Howard is expecting a splendid assortment of song birds and at least one pair of love birds will be shown. German rollers have also been promised. This exhibit, placed in the very center of the garden spot arranged by Mr. Bebb, is anticipated with much pleasure. Mrs. Howard has named as a committee to assist her, Mesdames Walter Campbell, Ed Howard, Oral Jones and R. L. Hargrave.

Mrs. Walter Campbell with her committee, already named, will be in charge of the art department exhibit. Flower pictures will be the central theme of the showing—local artists having been encouraged to show their colorful paintings of Texas flowers. The doll booth is also in charge of the art department and charming members of the young forum crowd will be in charge of the doll sale. Pictures and dolls will be sold on commission.

Mrs. Luther Hoffman is chairman of the cactus exhibit. Many beautiful specimens will be shown. The hundreds of varieties of weird shaped desert plants will be featured as belonging to the West Texas gardens. Mrs. Hoffman has requested that those interested in displaying their cactus plants or in selling them should bring them to the clubhouse Monday morning.

The Wichita Falls Poetry Study club is cooperating with the forum in the sale of miniature cactus rock gardens, having already sold a number and having them ready for sale.

Evening Program

The program arranged by Mrs. C. A. Rogers, president of the Musicians club for Wednesday evening, Nov. 11, will be given on the stage in the auditorium at 8:15 and there will be seats for the audience. This arrangement will be particularly pleasing to those who attend the flower show and who hitherto have been unable to see or hear the programs.

Members of the Musicians club who will serve as hostesses with Mrs. Rogers are Mesdames C. E. Beavers, Fred B. Sharpe, Howard Renfro and W. C. Hamilton. The program will be given as follows:

Forum Follies

An attractive program has been arranged by Mrs. E. L. Fulton, chairman of the drama department with the assistance of the active program chairman, Mrs. James G. Oakley, for Thursday evening, Nov. 12, at 8:30 o'clock.

Betty Ann Wallace will be the charming little page who will fill the numbers out in real vaudeville style and Irvene Roberts will act as announcer.

A violin ensemble under the direction of Eithel Allen Nelson as A on the program will be as perfect as the beautiful numbers Mr. Nelson directs always prove. Hal Hoffer will present B, with "Melody Momenta." Mr. Hoffer is a pianist and composer and is proving quite an addition to the musical circles of Wichita Falls.

C, an oriental dance by Ruth Ferguson, will be a colorful and graceful number.

D, Miss Lorene Tucker, well known entertainer at KGKO, presenting Glen and Marshall Wharton in "Stringed Etchings," assisted by Dolores Mylor with her guitar.

E, Harriet Bradley, magnificent contralto, will give a surprise program in "Musical Comedy Hits."

F, The program concludes with the Follies chorus by Junior forum members. The chorus ensemble in lovely Spanish costumes, will be directed by Rose Marion Art, who is soloist. An exotic Spanish atmosphere will be created by the melodious songs on the beautifully arranged stage. The chorus personnel will include Miss Rose Marion Art and Misses Pauline Art, Betty Margett, Elsie Faye Barron, Josephine Sullivan, Charlotte Maar, Peggy Joe Tittle, Mary Ann Walker and Judy Jane Norwood.

A solo Spanish dance by Miss Maurine Adams and an unusual tango will enhance the beauty of the exotic atmosphere. An original dance with castanets will be given by Miss Adams and following the solo number, there will be an interesting and intriguing Spanish duet by Miss Adams and Scott Griffis. The beautiful dances given by this couple on other occasions produces much pleasurable anticipation of this feature.

Present Librarian At Alamo Meeting

city council meeting Wednesday morning.

The chief aim of this program was the organization of study groups among the different P.-T. A. units. Mrs. Martin announced that the P.-T. A. organizations of the city system are sponsoring the sale of tickets for the play, "The Sudden Calamity," put on by the Civic Theater players, which will be given Nov. 20 at the Memorial auditorium. The proceeds from this play are to be used for the council P.-T. A. lunch and shoe fund.

Mrs. Land Talks

Mrs. Val Land, sponsor chairman, explained that the teacher, her room sponsor and mothers of her room are to be seated together, to promote a closer friendship and spirit of cooperation among each group. For until each mother feels her own responsibility in the school organizations, the P.-T. A. cannot function to its fullest extent.

Mrs. E. C. Stirman, welfare chairman, reported that the Alamo unit is feeding six children daily, which is being done mainly by the children donating pennies, which they receive back from their milk tickets. Mrs. Stirman issued a call for clothing to be used for Alamo needy children.

The unit voted to donate a fund to the Alamo school to be used for pictures.

Each officer and chairman gave splendid reports.

Grading System

J. E. Park, principal, explained the new grading system established in our city schools. This is not a new system, however, but one which is used universally throughout the United States. Mr. Park stated that American education week will be observed in our city schools the night of Nov. 12. The parents are invited to have dinner with their children in the schools cafeteria if they so desire, after which they are to visit the classrooms for two periods of class work. The object of this night session is that the parents, fathers as well as mothers, may have an opportunity to better understand the system of school instruction.

The Alamo unit is preparing to organize a study group under the direction of Mrs. C. C. Jones. "Dr. Myers Letters" are to be studied and Mrs. Jones explained that definite cases are to be considered, thus helping every mother who studies them to better understand the idiosyncracies of her child.

The nursery for children whose mothers attended the meeting was in charge of Mrs. Val Land, with sixth grade girls assisting.

The attendance prize was awarded Miss Prechel's room for having the greatest per cent of mothers present, with Miss Raborn's room second.

Miss Ruth Mounts, Miss Louise Sims, Miss Rosalie Cochran, Mrs. Geo. Winburne, Mrs. Ross Coriett and Mrs. A. J. Newby composed the hospitality committee for the meeting.

The auditorium was filled to capacity.

MISS MANN HONOREE AT PRE-NUPTIAL SHOWER

Announcement was made of the approaching marriage of Miss Buena Vista Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Mann of this city, and Lowell Hogan of Lawton, Okla., at a surprise bridge shower given the bride-elect Thursday night by Miss Virginia Boyd.

High score at bridge was won by Mrs. W. H. Lee, and Mrs. J. P. Boyd was consoled with low. Ammie Ruth Highsmith won high score in bunco.

Following a delightful salad plate the shower gifts were presented to the honoree by little Jimmie Boyd and Dorothy Jo Riner, dressed as bride and groom.

The couple are to be married Sunday at Lawton before a few friends and relatives, and will make their home there where Mr. Hogan is employed with the Standard Brands, Inc.

Historical Facts About Wool

Cloth weaving was an important art in the Roman civilization. When the Romans invaded Britain, a half century before Christ, they reared a factory at Winchester for the manufacture of woolen cloth. Britain's moist climate chilled the legions from the warmer Italy and warm cloaks and tunics were welcomed by troops. The barbaric Saxons, who next pre-empted England were ignorant of spinning and weaving and it was not until after the Norman William overthrew the Saxon Harold, at the end of Eleventh century, that cloth making was resumed in Britain.

❖ ❖ ❖ ❖ ❖ ❖

The great English woolen guilds were established in 1300. For centuries they were a power in British affairs. In 1350, a guild member, Thomas Blanket, invented the utilitarian commodity that bears his surname.

Cooler weather — The increase in price of wheat, cotton, and oil should make everybody feel lots better.

Floral Heights Circle Will Entertain With Chinese Tea

Sponsored by circle six of the Floral Heights Methodist W. M. S. a Chinese seated tea will be given in the parlors of the church Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock when a feature of the affair will be the interpretation of one of the most discussed books of the year, "The Good Earth," by Pearl Buck, to be given by Mrs. C. A. Spragins. The review will be given in two parts and during the interlude Miss Harriet Bradley will sing.

The author was born in China and received her higher education in this country at Randolph Macon and eastern universities. This is her second book. She is also the author of "East Wind, West Wind."

"The Good Earth" was published last spring and was one of the spring books of the month's selections. It has its setting in China and although its hero and heroine are Chinese people, the problems that they face and difficulties they encounter, are the same as those of any country.

A small sum will be charged and the public is invited.

HELEN HUNTER

The Story of Sue

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Sue knew now of whom the sketch that she had seen in Arnold's portfolio of pictures reminded her. Nancy Becker! It was Nancy . . . and it wasn't. The same strange mystery of brooding eyes, that managed to be so open at the same time that they were so secretive. The old exotic charm. But it was a younger face. And Nancy certainly didn't wear her hair that way. Maybe she had once.

Sue knew that her mental comments were ridiculous. But just the same she had a sense that she was about to step into the second act of a very good play.

She was so interested in her own thoughts that she didn't think about Jack's losses. She had made up her mind, before her marriage, that she would be a good sport about everything. If Jack lost everything he had . . . and it wasn't much . . . in the stock market, she would laugh. If he carelessly let smaller sums get away . . . well, men didn't like women who criticized and lectured even for their own good. Besides, she didn't want money. Just Jack.

"I'm no end sorry that I made such a fool of myself tonight," he was saying tonight. "One hundred bucks. Gee, Sue, that's a good piece of money."

She laughed. "Just be glad that you didn't leave the losing up to me. Think how much worse it would have been!"

"Why don't you lecture me on my morals?" His arm slipped across her shoulders and pulled her closer.

"Because I adore your morals just as they are."

Suddenly Jack changed the conversational trend.

"I wish I could figure out why Harry and Corrinne weren't invited tonight. Joe knows Harry as well as she knows me. It isn't like her to leave them out, especially when we're staying there, and they know we are."

Nancy's face came floating between Sue and the dark road ahead. Could that have anything to do with it? Probably not.

"Corrinne is having a party of her own," Sue heard herself saying. "It's to be before we leave. And she's asking Joe and her husband, I think."

"Sue, are you sure you aren't thinking I'm 17 kinds of a fool to let myself get inveigled into a game with sharks?" he asked again. "Joe is one, all right. So is her husband."

She was smiling to herself as she answered. Anything Jack did would be right with her. Forever. She knew it. People didn't have to have quarrels about things. All you had to do was approve of each other. It seemed so simple, riding along in the autumn night. So easy.

The house was quiet when they reached home. Corrinne slipped out of her room, her face, flushed with sleep, as pink as the silk negligee she wore.

"There's been a man looking in our windows tonight. We sent for the police, and I guess he was frightened away. But if you hear any strange sounds, give a yell or something. I'm scared."

"Maybe a tramp," Jack answered. "Everything's locked, isn't it?"

"Night locks and extra bolts and everything. But I don't like the idea."

For just a second, before Sue went to sleep, she remembered that there was a balcony outside of the windows in the room. The entrance to the house, below, had tall columns. Could any one try to climb up. She decided that no one could.

Next—Danger.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

American Legion Parade

Camp Fire Girls will march in the American Legion parade on Armistic day. The 1931 birthday theme of international friendship will be carried out. Girls bearing the American flag and the Camp Fire banner will lead, followed by girls in costume, carrying the flags of a number of different nations. Girls in service uniform of white middy, dark skirt, tie and tam will bring up the rear.

Camp Fire Girls will fall in line for parade at Eleventh and Ohio, at 10:45, as the parade begins at 11:05. Schools will be dismissed all day Wednesday.

Committee of Awards

Committe of awards will meet on Saturday of this week at 2 o'clock at the local headquarters. All girls planning to take rank at that time must notify local headquarters and be sure all requirements are ready. Mrs. Frank W. Creighton, chairman of committee on awards, will be in charge.

Fire Maker Class

Interest continues to grow in the fire maker nutrition and meal-planning class with Miss Pearl Rorabaugh as instructor. On Monday evening of this week the members will prepare and serve a meal together at the local headquarters. They will meet at headquarters for a short discussion, go on a shopping tour for groceries, and then prepare and serve the meal which they planned at the last meeting. Menus and prices will be kept to turn in to the committee of awards.

A discussion of the "light meal" of the day was held at the meeting last Monday. Charts were made and each member is to plan menus for a week for this meal to bring to the class on Monday. Evaluation and weight charts were discussed. Each member is to check her own chart and strive for improvements where necessary.

Charts showing the various cuts of lamb, beef, fresh pork and veal, with descriptions and time table for cooking various cuts were given out. These will be studied and those learning material given will have the opportunity of earning another homecraft honor bead. An interesting project is planned for this honor.

Guardians Meeting

The business meeting of the guardians association was held Tuesday morning previous to the training class which has been in session for three weeks.

Mrs. W. E. Polk, new chairman of the association, presided. Plans were made to hold the fall council fire on Dec. 6 at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The international friendship idea will be carried out by using the theme of Christmas in other countries, showing how the idea of Christmas is celebrated in various countries. The program will be planned by the executive committee of the guardians.

After the business session the guardians practiced bandaging, using both the triangular and roller bandage.

Those attending were Mesdames W. E. Polk, O. M. Pierce, Frank Schram, Maude Bartholomew, W. J. Willis, Frank W. Micheax and Mary McIlheran, executive.

Executive Trip

Miss McIlheran made a trip to Olney on Wednesday to talk Camp Fire. Mrs. E. G. Thornton, chairman of program committee for the north ward P.-T. A., came over for the executive, taking her to lunch at her home, and to different schools. The first talk was made to girls at north ward school, next at high school, then to south ward, and lastly to P.-T. A. members of north ward, which is sponsoring the organization of Camp Fire in Olney. Enthusiasm was shown by girls and parents. B. C. Schulky, superintendent of schools, made a response to Miss McIlheran's talk with the subject, "My Reaction to the Camp Fire Idea." He expressed his enthusiasm for the program, and the north ward P.-T. A. for sponsoring the movement. Plans are under way to organize three groups, one for high school age and two for ward school age, taking in three age groups.

Acancan Group

The Acancan group met at the Reagan High on Wednesday at the regular club period. In the absence from school of the guardian, Miss Leska Howard who was ill, Mrs. Frank W. Michaux met with the group. The following members were elected to office: President, Bernadine Arnold; vice president, Leora Burgess; secretary, Mary Love Appleby; treasurer, Mary Cantrell; scribe, Johnnie Taylor.

Mrs. Michaux gave the initiation test to members who have paid dues this fall. Plans were made to assist the night school session on Thursday, having all Camp Fire Girls wearing service uniforms, helping in any way possible, the many visitors to the school on that evening. Members also planned to attend the big hop on Saturday.

Those attending the meeting were Elma Cattin, Lurline Grantham, Lois Holder, Katherine Campbell, Ruth Kenneth, Helen Krebs, Dorothy Michael, Nathalie Moore, Esther Rose Ogutsch, Oleta Osborne, Gertrude Ranbaugh, La Verne Pyle, Mary Lou Shields, Doris Simms, Adelia Taylor, Ruth Terry and Mildred Simms.

Ahsonzong Group

The Ahsonzong group met at Junior college on Wednesday afternoon, when they learned 10 Indian symbols. Plans were made to meet at the home of Gladys Young and go to the big hop on Saturday. A group council fire for Friday of this week will be planned in detail on Wednesday of this week.

Members attending were Lois and Jewell Gibbins, Gladys Young, Dorothy Gothard, Lucile Murchison, Ruth Roy, Loucille and Mrs. W. J. Willis, guardian.

Mankilo Group

The Mankilo group of Crockett school met Wednesday afternoon in their club room. Mrs. F. C. Lynch, P.-T. A. sponsor for the group, was introduced to the girls.

Mrs. Bartholomew, guardian discussed earning of honor beads with the girls, and selected two from each craft which the girls could begin working on. Membership requirements were discussed, and parts assigned girls for each of the seven points of Camp Fire law.

Those attending were Norene Eason, Elaine Steinkoenig, Bettie Rowland, Lula Sue Davis, Helen Benninger, Johnnie Evans, Ann and Mary Katherine Tarry, Jane Marie Elliott, Helen Bartholomew, Cless Hoffman, Mrs. Lynch and Mrs. Bartholomew.

On Friday afternoon a number of the members met at the home of Mrs. Lynch, 3106 Tenth, and earned an honor bead for making samples of different kinds of stitches.

Oawakiya Group

The Oawakiya group met at the home of Mary Belle Rollins, 1913 Taylor. A report of the Halloween party was given by different chairmen of committees. Plans for committee of awards, big hop and fire maker class were discussed. A committee was appointed to plan the programs for the group to include work toward rank.

Next week the group will meet at the home of Lorita Tanners, 1113 Taylor. Refreshments were served to Ina Jo Ogle, Mildred Fisher, Lorita Tanner, Patsy Ruth Dale, Willie May Brally, Margaret Hutchinson, Ruth Van Wormer, Leonida James, Evelyn Howard, Ethel Ranbarger, Annette Adair, Lois and Mrs. Schram, Mary Arwood, the hostess, and three visitors, Bonnie Jean Rollins, Janice Franklin and Wanda Roberts.

Tanokiwin Group

Members of the Tanokiwin group met at the home of Ruth Thomas on Tenth street on Tuesday afternoon and made lovely spatter prints of flowers and leaves. Group will meet again on Tuesday at Ruth home at 4 o'clock. Mrs. S. L. Conn, new guardian, has some splendid plans for the group and is intensely interested.

Nowetompatimmin

This group had a pretty council fire on Tuesday at the home of the guardian, Mrs. W. E. Polk, 1643 Elizabeth. The Wohelo call was answered by the girls, followed by entrance and singing of "Wohelo for Aye." Earleen Polk lighted the light of work; Bess Pouling Huddleston, health, and Margaret Pierce, love. Dorothy Lee Reeder gave the Comp Fire law and the wood gatherers desire. Each girl explained her name and symbol. New members, Evelyn Jane Hawkins and Janet Tate, were initiated into the group. Honor beads were awarded to most of the girls. A roll call of girls earning the birthday honor was given, followed by the singing of "Mamy Moon," "Burn, Fire Burn." "America the Beautiful" was used as a recessional.

The usual games and refreshments were enjoyed after the council fire.

Through Three Wars

"EUDORA'S MEN," by Mabel Osgood Wright. The McMillan company ($2.00).

A pale lavender book without any splashes of purple or red in its background is written into "Eudora's Men," the very name of which is without meaning. No lover of sensationalism need pick up the book thinking to find in its pages discussions of sex. Eudora, the "young and unconsciously lovely" daughter of Judge Landes, a lawyer in Salt Meadows, a little New England town, has her one moment of originality when she refuses to marry Adam, whom she had never loved, because she wishes to love a husband quite as much as Adam's sister, Abby, who follows her southern lover, Clay Maddox to his Virginia home in the face of the coming civil war.

The tale begins with news of the South's rebellion. Perhaps the only fiery partisan is Adam's mother, Mrs. Fenwood, the wife of the minister. At the double wedding where Clay Maddox and Abby and Barney Montross and Eudora are married, another pair comes to the minister—Adam Fenwood and Rosamond Ten Broeck, recent widow, whose love woke Adam to manhood that was only vigorous until his wife died in childbirth. They are mere shadows in the story which is vaguely shadowy at its best.

Time passes in a slow walk in Salt Meadows; then it breaks into a jog trot and then into a gallop.

With the war, Abby became a southerner, seeing the bitterness of the people whose country was razed by war. She bears one daughter who in turn bears another who graduates from the medical college at the University of Baltimore.

Eudora's son dies of fever at Santiago; her grandson, another Barney, goes to France, is wounded there, and following a series of impossibly weak situations, he and Leslie, the granddaughter of Abby, love and are married.

Eudora is in to the finish a white-haired, brown-eyed woman with a collie of the same name "Colin" of the collie of her youth—which by the way—the reader has forgotten.

The book is one of those simple, uninteresting, lacking in flesh and blood pieces of literature (with a question mark) there is no excuse for being—and less for reading. A reviewer should never give it as much space as it has been given.—L. N. C.

Riders With Death

Several days ago a delivery truck carrying 500 books to a New York publisher, Alfred A. Knopf, swerved to avoid another truck on a road near Scranton, Pa., skidded to the curb, and overturned. The gas tank exploded, the books flared up, and the two men, pinned by the wreckage, died in the flames. The books were copies of Sydney Horler's "The Man Who Walked With Death."

THE BOOK SURVEY

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

There is a delicate tenderness to "The Lady Who Came to Stay," by R. E. Spencer, which makes it one of the most unusual ghost stories ever printed. It is a ghost story, sure enough—there are no fewer than four ghosts afoot; and yet it is not a horror story.

A widow and her small daughter come to a cavernous old house to live with four eccentric sisters, relatives of the widow's late husband. The widow, presently, dies, and the daughter is left to the ter-ments devised by the twisted brains of the aging sisters. And then the ghost of her mother appears, to protect her throughout her childhood.

The girl grows up and marries; and, after a time, her small son has to come and live with the sisters. The ghostly guardian comes to protect him, too. She brings him ghostly playmates to comfort his loneliness

The oldest of the four sisters has died, and her malevolent spirit lurks in the dark passageways of the old house to do him harm; but the little boy's guardian stands in her path—and when, in the course of time, the other sisters also die, each one, in turn, joins with the widow to keep the youngster safe.

Probably I am doing Mr. Spencer an injustice in boiling his plot down so drastically. The charm of this book is lost, that way. The theme of his story is such that the book would simply become grotesque if it were handled with anything but the greatest skill. That skill Mr. Spencer has, in abundance. He persuades you, very deftly, to accept his strange tale; and unless you are more than ordinary hard-boiled there are passages that will make your eyes more than a little moist.

"The Lady Who Came to Stay" is printed by Alfred A. Knopf, Inc., and sells for $2.50. It is the October choice of the Book League of America.

A U-Boat Skipper Tells About the Undersea War

You will have to look a long way to find a more truly stirring book than "U-Boats Westward," by Ernest Hashagen, which is being offered by Putnams at $3.50.

The author commanded a German submarine during the war, and this is his record of his experiences. It gives, more clearly than any other book I have seen, the other side of the U-boat war; and since the passage of time has enabled us to outgrow the wartime conception of German submarine men as creatures with horns and cloven hooves, the book should have a sympathetic audience.

Say what you please about the morality of the submarine campaign—and the U-boat skippers weren't responsible for it—you must admit that for sheer bravery the record they made is hard to equal in any tale of naval warfare. They faced tremendous odds, and the death that awaited them was a singularly horrifying one; each voyage contained enough shudders to last the average man a lifetime, and this book details some of them in a way to make your hair curl.

Altogether, it is a remarkable yarn. If there is any market for thrills it ought to get a wide reading.

"City Child" Contains Some Excellent Light Verse

There is some very excellent poetry in "City Child," by Selma Robinson. Some of it, in fact, is so very good that I hesitate to call the collection a book of light verse; for there is, somehow, an implication that light verse is verse which is tossed off with the left hand, so to speak, and the poems in this book have been fashioned with a fine craftsmanship.

It goes without saying that Miss Robinson is a dreamer. She wouldn't write poetry if she were not. But between dreaming a dream and turning it into a poem there is a wide gap, and the success with which the gap is bridged determines the value of the poetry. Miss Robinson covers the gap with a wistful tenderness that is saved from gooey sentimentality by a saltry sense of humor which never fails to come to her rescue.

To put it more succinctly, I liked the poems very much, and I think you will, too. "City Child," published by Farrar & Rinehart, Inc., will cost you $2.

Studying the Tendencies Of Modern Civilization

In "Modern Civilization on Trial," C. Delisle Burns takes a look at society in the machine age and tries to figure out just where it is heading.

He points out, quite properly, that modern civilization is not a product, but a process. It is still in the making, and where it may eventually land is a matter for the wisest of prophets. Meanwhile, he says, we can save ourselves a lot of needless worry if we realize that some of its most dismaying features are really nothing but holdovers from a medieval society that has become modernized a little too rapidly for its own good.

On the whole, Mr. Burns is optimistic; and for his optimism he makes out a good case. Yet he renders few hard-and-fast verdicts. In the main, he tries to get an understanding of things rather than to pass judgment on them.

"Modern Civilization on Trial" will provide several stimulating hours for any reader who occasionally dips into a whither-are-we-drifting mood. It is published by the Macmillan company, and retails for $2.50.

War, Wine, Women

"Sons of Cain," the Wilfred Saint-Mande book which Coward-McCann will publish Nov. 11, Armistice day, is complimented by Sherwood Anderson who says "The man has built up powerful feeling in the book that makes you respect him through and through."

The truth of the matter is that not more than a dozen people know who Wilfred Saint-Mande is; reasons apparent in the book make the author desire to keep his identity secret.

The appearance in reviewers' offices of the book several months ago in London caused a furor which resulted in the temporary recall of the book and a revision of one passage. At one spot in the original version the author related the granting of a V. C. to Saint-Mande. The London Daily Mail carefully conned the records of those who had received V. C.'s during the war and found no Saint-Mande among them.

A hasty consultation by the English publishers, Cassell & Co., with their solicitors resulted in the recall of the reviewers' copies, a postponement of publication date and a revision of the plates. Under English law an author in a semi-factual book who credits a V. C. to a person who has not actually received one, lays himself open to prosecution by the crown.

A check-up of other points in the narrative, however, brought an overwhelming chorus of approval. Officers and privates who had been in the engagements which Saint-Mande describes vouched enthusiastically for the vivid accuracy of his narrative. In England it appears under the title, "War, Wine and Women."

Kill Commissions and Bureaus To Promote Real Economy in National Government Smith Says

By ALFRED E. SMITH

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—As the time for congress to convene approaches we are hearing daily about the various economy proposals made by the president and the several departments of the federal government. Millions of dollars are to be cut from the navy appropriation. The postal department proposes cuts. The president urges economy in every department. At the same time, it would seem to be idle to discuss economy in the operation of the government when every effort to bring it about by proper reorganization and coordination of federal activities has been defeated for the past 20 years.

President Hoover, himself, in his message to congress, Dec. 3, 1929, said:

"This subject has been under consideration for over 20 years. It was promised by both political parties in the recent campaign. It has been repeatedly examined by committees and commissions—congressional, executive and voluntary. . . . The conclusions of these investigations have been unanimous that reorganization is a necessity of sound administration, of economy, of more effective governmental policies, and of relief to the citizen from unnecessary harassment in his relations with a multitude of scattered governmental agencies. . . . There is no proper development and adherence to broad national policies and no central point where the searchlight of public opinion may concentrate itself. . . ."

It has been variously estimated that the present costly establishment of the government requires approximately five hundred million dollars a year more than it would if it were efficiently organized. This is estimated to be the amount of direct appropriation from the general funds. In addition it probably costs citizens another half billion dollars to do business with the government because of the complicated, wasteful, duplicating organization with which they must transact their affairs.

In order to produce economy of management by cutting out useless and senseless duplication of effort, investigations of the subject and reports from committees have found their appropriate places in the library at Washington. They were printed at great expense to the people in the government printing office. They were sent broadcast through the country. The subject was investigated, discussed, re-investigated, reported upon and reported upon again and we are worse off today than we were on Dec. 17, 1920, when the first joint committee on reorganization came into existence by a joint resolution of congress.

The condition found in the various states because of haphazard legislation to take care of growth and new functions of government is greatly aggravated in the federal government. Every time the federal government has taken on a new activity, it has never attempted to relate it to any similar activity already in existence. This of necessity brings about waste from duplication of effort. Practically all the existing executive agencies of the federal government were at some time or other established by legislative enactment.

The department of commerce and labor was built up out of a series of bureaus and commissions established to conduct this or that little piece of the government's work; and 10 years after its creation its functions were divided between the department of commerce and a new department of labor. Until the departments were transferred, widely scattered functions were taken out of the treasury department and the interior department. Even since this department was created, additional bureaus and commissions have merrily continued to come into existence. Their very names indicate that they belong to one or another of the great basic departments of the federal government, or indicate the duplication of effort in two departments. The forestry service and the department of agriculture spend thousands of dollars in conservation propaganda but the department of commerce has a wood utilization committee which is seeking new uses for lumber. It would seem a fairly simple matter to combine the two. Between 1921 and 1929, 32 new boards and 62 additional commissions were brought into being.

In a well organized and properly directed line of business, all work of a similar nature would be found under one department head. Instead of that we have four or more departments that are dealing with the construction and maintenance of roads. Construction projects are initiated and supervised by 25 separate agencies of the government which represent four departments and a number of less important bureaus. One would naturally suppose that the lighthouse service of the United States would be under the same jurisdiction as the life saving stations. Many of them are located within a few steps of each other. The lighthouse service, however, is in the department of commerce and the coast guard is in the treasury department except in times of war, when it moves to the navy.

The United States prepares a great many charts as an aid to navigation. There is no earthly reason why three or four different agencies of the government should be preparing these charts. It must be obvious to the man on the street that this great duplication of overhead and plant equipment and personnel scattered around a dozen or more different departments is costly and inefficient.

The ten great departments function independently of each other and there are more than 40 odd establishments not under any cabinet officer and they conduct their business practically without any co-ordinating influence whatever.

There appears to be a mania at Washington for the creation of new boards and commissions. Counting them up we find 492 independent administrative and legislative agencies created between the 4th of March, 1901, and March 4, 1929, the end of President Coolidge's administration. During the present administration approximataly 30 commissions have been created. Of course, among these 30 are some which might hardly be considered as special commissions as some of them are interdepartmental; but in the main most of them covered some function which nobody ever seems to suggest could be related to something of a similar nature that the government is already doing by an existing agency.

Aside from representing the president at celebrations of a public nature, the compliment to individuals appointed to membership, it is difficult to find any reason for the creation of so many commissions in recent years. Ninety per cent of the functions performed by them could be taken care of by existing agencies of the government without adding another person to the payroll or incurring an additional dollar of expense unless it be for printing and that the government does itself any way.

The re-organization of state governments has been a slow process. It has been resisted because it curtailed patronage. Where it has been brought about in the states it required strong, vigorous and forceful action in order to secure complete cooperation of the rank and file of the people themselves. Similar measures will have to be adopted at Washington and if they are not, not only will the existing departments and agencies fail to be correlated, reorganized and reduced but, on the other hand they will continue to grow and absorb appropriations.

If politics and log-rolling could be laid aside and government attempt to establish itself on a business basis, the periodic cry for large scale economy might be eliminated and the president and the budgetmakers, to say nothing of the taxpayers, would find relief.

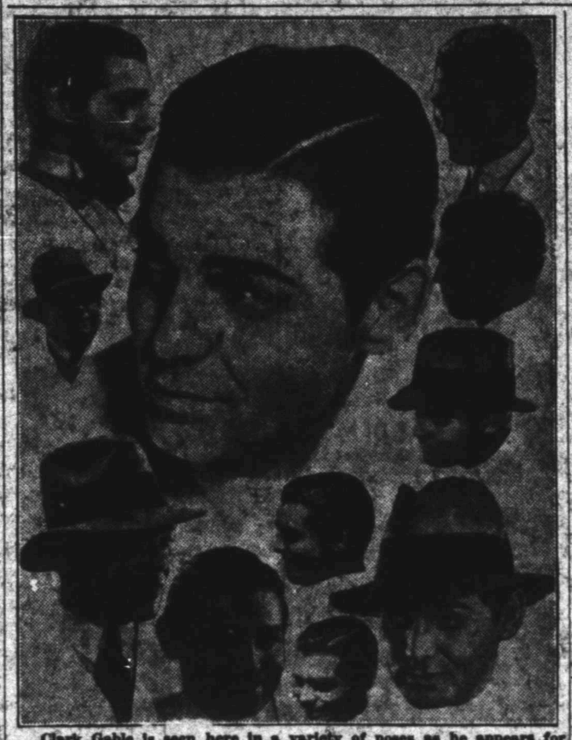

COLLINGSWORTH GINS HANDLE 24,728 BALES

WELLINGTON, Texas, Nov. 7.—Gins in Collingsworth county had handled 24,728 bales of the 1931 cotton crop Nov. 6, as shown by figures compiled at that time by the Wellington Leader with the assistance of the 23 gins in this county. With Collingsworth's estimated production for this season between 40,000 and 45,000 bales, more than one-half of the total crop has been gathered and ginned.

There have been 11,096 bales ginned in the county during the past three weeks, the figures show. Cotton ginnings at this time in Collingsworth are slightly higher than at a similar date last year, 21,186 bales having been ginned on Nov. 6, 1930.

Government figures show 35,068 bales were ginned in Collingsworth county from the 1930 crop, while this county produced 42,951 bales in 1929.

AMUSEMENTS

Scene from "The Last Flight," with Richard Barthelmess, Helen Chandler, John Mack Brown and David Manners, featured at the State for three days starting Wednesday.

'Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise' And Lionel Barrymore at Majestic 'East of Borneo' Showing at State

Greta Garbo is starred in "Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise," now playing at the Majestic.

This is Garbo's fourth talking picture and is regarded as the most colorful and dramatic of her sound efforts. It is of unusual interest because it marks the first appearance opposite her of Clark Gable, sensational romantic find of the season, who is said to be next in line for stardom in his own name.

Gable, in playing the lead opposite Garbo, essays his first straight romantic role. In his short time on the screen he has built up an enormous following, resulting in persistent demands for his appearances from fans and exhibitors alike. His last parts were in "Secret Six," "A Free Soul," "Laughing Sinners" and "Sporting Blood." In the Garbo picture he plays the part of a young engineer who falls in love with a Swedish farm girl who happens upon his mountain cabin while fleeing from an unwelcome marriage bargain.

In addition you will see "Our Wife," a Laurel and Hardy comedy; "Blue Rhythm," a Micky Mouse cartoon; "Forward Pass," football for the fans by Howard Jones, University of Southern California football coach and Fox news in sound.

"The Yellow Ticket"

Lionel Barrymore, who plays the leading male role opposite Elissa Landi, in "The Yellow Ticket," opening at the Majestic Tuesday, is senior member of the Barrymore family, brother of John and Ethel, and the son of the late Maurice Barrymore, long famous on the stage and Georgia Drew Barrymore, equally as prominent as her popular husband.

On the New York stage he scored tremendous hits in "The Copperhead," "The Jest" and "Peter Ibbetson," and at the height of his stage career D. W. Griffith lured him to the silent screen to play in his picture called "Friends."

In "The Yellow Ticket" he plays the role of the head of the Russian secret police, under the reign of the late czar, a heartless and merciless rake, drunk with power and overcome with greed.

In addition to Miss Landi and Barrymore, Laurene Olivier and Walton Byron are to be seen in important roles.

To add to your enjoyment you will see "Sax Appeal," a Joe Penner act; "Trees Knees," a Booke cartoon and Paramount news in sound.

"Once a Lady"

One of those events looked forward to, and cherished by movie millions, is a new Ruth Chatterton picture starting at the Majestic next Friday. The newest opus for the "first lady" of films is titled "Once a Lady," and is a melange of the surefire dramatic clay which this emotional actress so effectively handled in "Madame X," "Sarah and Son" and "Anybody's Woman."

"EAST OF BORNEO" COMES TO STATE THEATER SUNDAY

For those lovers of adventure, who like their entertainment with romance and a thrill in every foot of film, "East of Borneo," which opens a three-day engagement at the State Sunday should prove a very satisfactory program. Rose Hobart and Charles Bickford head the cast that brings this strange but amazing picture to the screen. Bickford in the role of Dr. Allan Clark, after serious domestic difficulties in his own home, has buried himself in the jungles east of Borneo, there to spend his broken life as physician to an island prince. And in this strange land comes a woman seeking to mend a romance that years before had been broken. Here, even in this savage jungle infested land she finds that a woman's best weapon is her feminine charm. Unlike previous pictures of this type, Rose Hobart, feminine lead in "East of Borneo," is seen in some of the most lavish settings and gorgeous gowns ever seen on the screen.

"The Last Flight"

"The Last Flight," featuring Richard Barthelmess and Helen Chandler, comes to the State Wednesday. It is not an air picture, although the star, Richard Barthelmess, makes his entrance into the play in a burning airplane crash near Paris. Here the story picks up four other American fliers, out to find a thrill greater than they had experienced in days before the armistice was signed.

Walter Byron, John Mack Brown, David Manners and Elliott Nugent are other well known names featured in the cast.

"The Last Flight" plays only three days, changing Saturday to "Rango," for one day only.

Nine Imperial Airways' pilots together have traveled nearly 6,000,000 miles, each averaging 6,650 hours flying time.

Civic Theater Players to Present 'A Successful Calamity' Nov. 20 As P.-T. A. Benefit Performance

By MRS. EWING WATKINS

Much interest is being shown in the Civic Theater Players' second production, "A Successful Calamity." Not only because it is being presented by that well known group of players and promises an interesting entertainment but because it is being sponsored by the Wichita Council of P.-T. A. for the benefit of the school children's lunch and clothing fund. Different school organizations will take part in the advertising and selling of tickets for the one night performance at the Memorial auditorium, Nov. 20.

J. C. Straus Jr., director of the Civic Theater Players, has chosen Clare Kummer's successful and highly amusing comedy for the benefit performance and has carefully selected a cast eminently fitted to make "A Successful Calamity" a most interesting entertainment.

For the leading role Mr. Straus has chosen a well known and popular Civic Theater player, H. H. Ferrel. Mr. Farrel has proven his ability in a long list of successful and sympathetic impersonations in amateur productions. As Henry Wilton, a millionaire, who has long wished for a quiet evening at home with his family, Mr. Ferrel will be given one of his best opportunities to star.

Returning to his home after a fatiguing day of making millions, Henry Wilton is confronted with the terrifying truth that though the world may respect him, in his own domain, he occupies merely the position of a generous banker. Since no self-respecting millionaire can calmly accept such treatment he impulsively reverts to the strategy which has made for him an important place in Bradstreet's annals.

When, in answer to an untruthful but none the less impressive announcement, his family appears from all corners of his apparently deserted home he is hardly blamed for prevaricating. They are really a charming group. Miss Mary Virginia Barron will portray Wilton's lovely young wife, Emmy, distraught over her husband's misfortune and ludicrously helpless in her attempt to be practical. Paul Barnett Jr., will contribute a convincing impersonation of Eddie, the blase young scion of the Wilton family. The sophisticated young daughter, Marguerite, will appear in the person of Miss Goldie Davis.

Though happy he may be at having his family with him, Wilton cannot forget that once a lie is told it instantly demands company and he is constantly made to manufacture more lies for his avid listeners. Nerves made invulnerable by hours of watching ticker tape show signs of breaking before Wilton learns his hard but happy lesson.

Clare Kummer's comedy presents an interesting picture of the troubles of a millionaire and his spoiled family. Since it is generally believed that they have none, the series of scrapes in which they are involved seem more hilariously funny and makes "A Successful Calamity" a successful comedy, at least. The P.-T. A. and the school children will have entire charge of the ticket selling for the one night performance at the Memorial auditorium, Nov. 20.

ERNEST HUTCHESON TO GIVE MOZART NUMBER

Ernest Hutcheson, concert pianist of international repute, will be heard, accompanied by the Columbia concert orchestra, in the Larghetto movement from Mozart's Concerto in D Major during the recital to be broadcast over the WABC-Columbia network on Sunday, Nov. 8, from 9 to 9:30 p. m., central standard time. This work, perfect in style, melody and balance, is one of the finest of the 25 piano concerti from Mozart's musical pen and clearly reveals the basis for the opinion that Mozart's works hold their place among the greatest contributions to the development of the musical form during the 18th century.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA WILL GIVE INITIAL CONCERT OF WINTER SEASON DECEMBER 1

By W. L. UNDERWOOD

Resuming its activities after a lapse of one year, and promising a program of unusual and excellent quality, the Wichita Falls Symphony orchestra will present a concert in the Memorial auditorium Dec. 1 under the direction of Ethel Allen Nelson.

Entertainment provided in this and nearby cities during the past several years by the symphony orchestra will guarantee an enthusiastic welcome from the public in the coming concert. With a commendable instrumentation, programs of surprising variety and merit have gained an increasing hold upon the people of Wichita Falls. Its personnel of about 45 includes about eight professional artists, as well as several of the most proficient amateur performers in the city.

Of outstanding interest in the December concert will be another work of Mr. Nelson. Concerts by the symphony orchestra and other musical organizations during the past six years have featured a number of Nelson compositions. Local composition has been the least of their claim upon public approbation, for they have been replete with merit both in construction and presentation. Particularly well remembered is the allegory, "Two Spirits," presented in solo dances several years ago. The distinctly modern music conceived by Mr. Nelson for that study created an atmosphere of gripping reality, and told the unending conflict between youth and age with great emotional eloquence.

Two years ago, when the symphonic ensemble presented a concert in the Memorial auditorium, one of the most brilliant features was Mlle. Delphyne Balusewa's solo dance of a Nelson composition Another of his popular creations, "Lovely Marianne," was used in a beautiful chorus dance.

Compositions Popular

Violin and piano compositions of the local instructor have been used frequently on various recital and concert programs in recent years. A Nelson group was used by the Musicians club in the annual spring concert, this year, with Mrs. Harwood Stacy of Austin and Mr. Nelson as the performing artists.

But in the December concert, the feature will reflect Mr. Nelson's extension of his composition faculties to even a wider field. Only recently his "Dance of the Flowers" will be accorded its premier performance, utilizing the talents of Miss Constance Ferguson, danseuse, of Amarillo, Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis, soprano, of this city, and an ensemble of mixed voices for an harmonic background to the middle movement of the number.

Aside from the inclusion of Mrs. Davis' solos, the alluring naturedance conceived by Mr. Nelson will use four youthful dancers from Amarillo, pupils of Miss Ferguson, in a miniature ballet. The brief and simple narrative upon which the composition is based will be matched by the simple and appealing melody which forms the musical theme.

The number will open with the appearance of four bright flowers, cheerful and gay on upright stems. With the first orchestral strains, the flowers will be converted suddenly into dancing figures, depicting their joy in the blithe sunshine of spring. The soprano voices, which salute the glad beauty of the flowers, soon are joined by the ensemble of alto voices in a paean of praise. Later the male voices add their support to the exultant chorale.

But a minor note soon is heard. Ingenious instrumentation suggests the ominous whining of bleak winds. With the receding light of summer the shadows of winter appear; and winter itself, to be impersonated by Mrs. Davis in a cold white costume now being created for that role, will take the stage. Limply the flowers droop, and surrender, beneath the chilling influence of the white figure. Orchestral and choral background reflect the somber lament eloquently pantomimed by the ballet.

Hope and Gladness

Then a modulation to tones of hope and gladness; the voices imply the returning joy of spring; and as the spirit of icy winter slowly recedes, the longed-for flowers spring again into ecstatic expression of new life. Again the full chorus enters gradually into the tonal finale, which includes an excellent major crescendo in the orchestra.

Melodic elements and atmospheric effects accomplished by Mr. Nelson for the new piece are decidedly appealing, and with the impressive talent procured for its interpretation, the number should constitute one of the most pleasing features ever presented here.

Miss Ferguson, who will provide the ballet for the "Dance of the Flowers," was for seven years a pupil of Theodore Kosloff, now a resident of Dallas. Mr. Kosloff is widely known not only because of his coaching of ballet dancing, but as a solo performer and an actor. Costumes to be used by the "flower ballet" are being provided from New York according to original designs furnished by Miss Ferguson. She also is composing the dances to be used.

Other features on the concert announced for Dec. 1 will comprise an unusual evening's entertainment. The program will include a group of solos by Mrs. Davis. Arthur Davis, youthful violinist who has featured Mr. Nelson's violin recitals with brilliant performances during the past three years, will be presented in several solos. Miss Ferguson also is to give one or more solo dances in elaborate costume.

Instrumental music announced for the evening will include the orchestra's playing of Franz Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony." Mr. Nelson stated that the orchestra will play two groups of numbers.

The concert again will open with two selections by the "Court Fiddlers," attired in their striking scarlet jackets and knee breeches, white hose and snowy wings, characteristic of the time of Louis XIV. Miss Peggy Williams will play incidental solos with this group.

As in the concert two years ago, when the Memorial auditorium was filled almost to capacity, there will be a small admission price charged for the December entertainment.

Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter in 'Daddy Long Legs'

Laughter and tears, the chief requirements of any drama, are said to be perfectly blended in "Daddy Long Legs," which opens Sunday at the Gem theater, with Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter in the principal roles.

Critics who have seen the photoplay report that it gives these two popular favorites unlimited opportunities for the display of their charm and talents, and that it offers the season's treat to Gaynor and Baxter fans.

Janet Gaynor is seen as a little slaving orphan, who mothers the small tots in the John Grier home. Through an unexpected stroke of fate wins the admiration and friendship of Baxter who plays the title role, and he without revealing his identity to her adopts her and sends her to college. From that point on the romance develops rapidly until it reaches its climax, a most unexpected one for Miss Gaynor.

WILL ROGERS IT'S NOT HOW MANY YOU KILL BUT HOW

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. Well the last few weeks there's been a good deal of blathering in the papers. Ever since away back when the Frenchman Laval come over and went back there just dont seem to be any way finding out what he came after, what he got, what was done or anything. About all we do know about him is that his daughter danced with Mayor Walker. Now if that was worth the trip why then everything must have been OK. He and Mr. Hoover issued a kind of a joint statement, but the same fellow wrote it that wrote the Wickersham report. We couldn't tell if they had even met or not.

I think that is the hardest thing in the world to do is tell the press what you and somebody have been doing, when you have been doing anything at all. Laval run into Borah while here and we had no trouble telling what they talked about. He dont seem to have got far with Borah, but thats no novelty. Neither did anybody else that wanted anything. Borah is the best "Refuser" we got.

They talked about a corridor in Poland. That's an alley in Poland that they wanted to get to the Sea. Mr. Wilson give it to em for he really thought they wanted to see the sea, but a Pole knows no more about the sea than a Cherokee. So Borah says it ought to go back to Germany. Well when you talk to France about giving anything back to Germany, why you havent got a very sympathetic listener. So you can see how far Borah got with his hospitality.

France aint going to give Germany back even an alley. Well thats their business. They live by em, they know what to give em and what not to give em. France dident send Laval over here to suggest giving back California to Mexico. We are always handing somebody elses stuff around. Poland is in a mess and always will be, for they just carved the country out of about three other ones. About a fourth of the population is Germans that want to get back under their own country. About a fourth is Checks. Well a fourth are them. Then a fourth are Russians. Now lets see thats three fourths. That only leaves one fourth real Polish. But then the Jews have to be subtracted from that fourth, so there just aint a few dozen real poles.

But they are an old time country and they want to get along. But you cant get along with somebody elses land. But that aint our business. We got all we can do in capture Sandino. Maybe he is in that "Corridor." We cant find him in Nicaragua, but he finds us.

Well anyhow they say that J. P. Morgan was pleased with this Laval's trip, and after all he is about the only man in America that everybody seems anxious to please. So the trip bore some fruit. Germany has got some fellow coming over now. We get all excited and each one of these Pilgrimages or conferences we think and read of it at the time as though it was the last word, and that it would settle everything. Then two weeks after its over, we cant for the life of us remember what happened. If we could get half as excited over what to put in the plate to make it look like soup and taste like soup and act like soup in our bread line, as we do over some international event that aint going to ever come off anyhow, why we could be better off.

Six months from now we cant remember whether Laval came from France or Siam. Our minds just flit from hither to thither, and all we want is something to occupy em till we get to the Asylum. And other Nations are just as bad off as we are. Look at England, they was all excited over Ghandi coming there to get freedom for India. Poor old fellow has just hung around and wore pretty near all his clothes out. Been there three months and India hasent got any more freedom than Pat Hurley give the Philippines. These big babies aint going to give anybody anything. Thats why they are big. Every thing in the World that is done nowadays receives about ten times as much publicity as it deserves. Publicity should be written after a thing and not before. Then that would save us of having to read. Right now we know more about Mrs. Ruth Judd's life than we do about Lincoln's, Washington's, Napoleon's, or Greta Garbo's.

You can kill all the people you want in this country and not attract any attention, but if you kill em and put em in a trunk why you become famous. Its how you dispose of a dead body that makes you sensational in this country and how many dead bodies did you create. Dont figure out who you are going to kill, figure out how youre going to kill em. But we are all pleading along just as though we were in our right minds. So whats the answer? If we knew any better country we would go to it. Long as we can go to our radio every hour of the twenty four, and be advised what tooth paste to use, and what cigarets will be fairly kind to our Maduila Oblong Gotta, why we are happy.

SIX U. S. SENATORS NAMED TO ATTEND WURZBACH FUNERAL

Body to Lie in State At Municipal Auditorium Sunday Morning

SPANISH WAR VETERANS FURNISH HONOR GUARD

Scores of Telegrams Including One From Hoover Received

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 7. (AP)—Six United States senators have been appointed as a committee to attend funeral services tomorrow for the late congressman Harry M. Wurzbach, who died here yesterday, according to a message from Washington.

Those named by Vice President Curtis to represent the senate at the funeral are Senators Morris Sheppard and Tom Connally of Texas, Howell of Nebraska, Bratton and Cutting of New Mexico and Gore of Oklahoma.

Wurzbach's body was removed today from funeral parlors to the home of the late congressman's sister, Mrs. Lillilan Dinwiddie.

The body will be taken from the Dinwiddie home to the municipal auditorium tomorrow morning, and the casket draped in the stars and stripes under which the late congressman saw aetive service in the Spanish-American war, will remain there from 10 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., to give the general public an opportunity to pay their final respects. A guard of honor will be furnished by Eugene Hernandez post, United Spanish War Veterans. It is expected that thousands will file past the bier.

Military Honors

At 2 p. m. funeral services will be held in St. Mark's Episcopal church. Bishop William T. Capers of San Antonio and Rev. M. A. McKeogh of Seguin will officiate.

Following the service at the church the body will be taken to the national cemetery, where it will be laid tot rest in a burial plot which Wurzbach selected several years ago. The plot is within sight of the graves of the late congressman's father and mother, who were buried in the city cemetery across the street.

Thousands of citizens of San Antonio and surrounding towns are expected for the funeral.

Services at the grave will include the firing of a volley over the casket by a squad of soldiers and the blowing of "Taps" as the casket is being lowered into its final resting place.

Telegrams by the score were being received all day Saturday by the widow and other members of the family. Among the telegrams was one from President Herbert Hoover, sent from the White House.

Brother May Run

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 7. (AP)—A move is on foot among friends of County Judge William A. Wurzbach to urge him to seek the congressional seat made vacant by the death Friday of his brother, Harry M. Wurzbach.

Judge Wurzbach is a Democrat. His brother was a Republican.

Present indications are that there will be several candidates. However, nobody had announced officially for the position nor has any organization or faction agreed on a candidate.

Others who have been mentioned for the post include Carl Wright Johnson, attorney; Wayne Davis, former commander of the state department of the American Legion and of Alamo post No. 2, former district attorney at Goliad and a member of the Typographical union; Maury Maverick, county tax collector; John K. Weber, county Democratic chairman; State Senator W. A. Williamson; Representative F. C. Weinert of Seguin; A. J. Wirtz, former law partner of the late congressman, of Seguin; Claude V. Birkhead and Mrs. Alex Adams, prominent San Antonio club woman.

Mrs. J. C. Griswold has been mentioned as a possible Republican candidate. She is a national committeewoman for the party from Texas. As a result, there is a possibility of a race between two women candidates.

Practicability of calling a special Democratic primary to pick one candidate to make the race on the Democratic ticket may be discussed at a proposed meeting of the 11 county committeemen in the district.

EFFICIENCY OF NAVY VIGOROUSLY DEFENDED BY BATTLESHIP CREW

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Nov. 7. (UP)—The human efficiency of the United States navy was vigorously defended by officers and men of the battleship Colorado today as findings of a board of inquiry into the deadly explosion of an anti-aircraft gun which brought death to five men, were prepared for forwarding to Washington, D. C.

"An accident of material," rather than the failure of the crew in its operation of the five-inch gun, was unofficially blamed, although the board's findings will not be made public until passed upon by the navy department.

"I can offer no criticism of the manner in which the gun was handled," commented Capt. A. W. Johnson, commanding officer of the Colorado. "I am convinced that the tragedy was caused by defective material in the weapon, or, more probably, in a shell. It was not an accident of personnel."

Two officers Ensign John D. Huntley, Long Beach, Calif., and Lieut. Winston I. Quattlebaum, Beaumont, Texas, among nine men were critically injured in the accident are not expected to live.

CATTLE RUSTLING RESUMED DOUGLAS COUNTY, KANSAS

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 7. (INS)—Cattle rustling, an art of pioneer days in the Southwest, has been revived, Douglas county authorities learned today.

Forty-one head of white-face steers were stolen from the farm of William Morgan and John F. Morgan Jr., six miles north of here, a few days ago. Authorities were not notified of the theft until today.

Houston Capitalist Restrained From Selling Stock in Company Publishing Houston Post-Dispatch

HOUSTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—Judge Allen B. Hannay, presiding civil district magistrate, has granted a temporary restraining order to prevent J. M. West, Houston capitalist, and others associated with him, from selling stock in the Houston Printing company, publishers of the Houston Post-Dispatch, held as security on certain notes held by them. A hearing on the motion was set for Monday.

The suit was brought in behalf of a trust estate created by the conveyance of Gov. R. S. Sterling, the Post-Dispatch publisher, of various properties including his interest in the stock of the publishing company, to the National Bank of Commerce, trustee to secure a note issue of $800,000.

The petition alleged that Oct. 27, various firms of Houston paid to the Houston National bank $800,000, for the account of Governor Sterling. The petition further stated that the governor gave notes to each of the parties making advances and to secure these notes he executed a conveyance of various properties to the National Bank of Commerce as trustee for the note holders.

The present controversy in no way affects the recent transaction whereby other local interests, headed by Joseph F. Meyer, bought Sterling's stock in the Houston National bank, and the bank itself is not concerned in the legal dispute.

The petition states that among the properties conveyed to the trust company was the interest of Governor Sterling in the stock of the Houston Printing company; that Sterling at the time was indebted to the defendants to the extent of $250,000, for which they held his note and to this note was pledged as security, 2,088 shares of the stock of the printing company.

Child Mystified by First Day Of Kindness in Years Unable to Tell Story of Four-Year Imprisonment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (US)—Edith Riley, 12-year-old stepchild, was so mystified tonight by the first day of kind treatment she has received in four years she was still unable to tell a coherent story of her long imprisonment in a clothes closet.

She was rescued from the closet late yesterday by police who accused her parents of keeping her a prisoner since she was 8 years old and arrested them on a charge of cruelty to children.

The child was so dazed by the new life that has opened up to her and so dazzled by the bright sun light that she seemed unimpressed today when she heard a magistrate bind over her father, Lester N. Riley, and her stepmother, Mrs. Elsie Riley, to the grand jury under $2,500 bond.

Her brother, Francis, was a witness at the hearing, although he said he had been threatened by his parents if he testified. It was Francis who brought about Edith's rescue by telling school mates of his imprisoned sister.

Shocks Spectators

Edith gave no oral testimony, but the mute story of her emaciated body and pallid face shocked spectators.

Francis, when asked what food the child was given, said:

"I believe she got whatever we had for dinner if there was any left over. But if there wasn't enough she didn't get anything."

He said he had seen his stepmother beat the little girl "more than 25 times" and added:

"She kicked her in the face and made it bleed and I saw her hit her in the mouth with her shoe."

After today's hearing, Edith was returned to the hospital, where she slept in a bed last night for the first time in four years. She had three hearty meals today and ate ravenously.

Physicians say her back is bent and her legs bowed from her long cramped position in the closet. The confinement is also said to have dwarfed her to the size and mentality of a child of five.

The parents contend the child was abnormal and they had to lock her up to keep her from killing them. The father said:

"We often talked of putting her in an institution, but we never got around to it."

UNITED STATES TO HAVE OBSERVER AT CONFERENCE FOR SUPPRESSION OPIUM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (US)—The state department announced tonight that its representative John K. Caldwell is at Bangkok, Siam, ready to participate in the conference for suppression of opium smoking which opens Monday.

Caldwell will be assisted by Col. Lucian R. Sweet, chief of staff of the Philippine constabulary, who is familiar with the problem as it affects the islands.

The American representatives are there only as observers because the United States is not a party to the treaty under which the conference was called. The state department added:

"No relaxation in the drastic prohibitory measures now in effect in the Philippine islands and other American jurisdictions is contemplated."

STRANGE CHANTS AND WEIRD CRIES IGNORED BY ACCUSED SLAYER

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 7. (INS)—Although scores of his Indian friends encircled the Pima county jail today, with strange chants and weird cries, Golney Seymour, 21, Apache Indian charged with killing Miss Henrietta Schmerler, 24, Columbia university co-ed, did not bother to appear at the window of his jail cell.

Emotions of the Indians were mixed, deputy sheriffs said. Many of the Apaches want to "stone Seymour to death" for violating the entire tribe by killing Miss Schmerler, while other members of the tribe are more sympathetic.

Seymour will have a preliminary on the murder charge before a United States commissioner Nov. 23.

APPROVE APPLICATION TO REDUCE RATES ON CITRUS CARLOAD LOTS

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (AP)—Voluntary application of Texas rail carriers to reduce rates on citrus in carload lots from the Rio Grande valley, amounting to approximately 35 per cent, was approved today by the Texas Railroad commission. The new rate schedule will be lowered to 72 Texas cities as well as to intermediate points where shipment is made in carload lots.

The rates will apply to all lines leaving the valley and will affect grapefruit, lemons, mandarines, tangerines, oranges and limes.

The commission also approved an order waiving the differential charges on cottonseed and its products on the South Plains division of the Fort Worth and Denver City railway. The lines affected extend west of Estelline to Dimmit and north of Lubbock to Silverton.

HOUSTON MAN SOUGHT IN DALLAS LIQUOR CASE

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 7. (INS)—C. H. Smith, notorious Houston bootlegger, was being sought by federal agents today on charges of conspiracy to violate the customs and prohibition laws.

The charges, filed here late yesterday, grew out of the seizure in Dallas last week of $10,000 worth of liquor.

Smith is under appeal bonds of $9,000 on two liquor conspiracy convictions in federal court here. He was sentenced to serve four years in prison and fined $2,000.

CONSERVATIVES IN BRITAIN TO URGE IMMEDIATE TARIFF

LONDON, Nov. 7. (US)—Conservatives in the house of commons are expected to urge immediate imposition of tariffs when the new parliament is convened Tuesday by King George.

Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald, anxious to pacify both tariff proponents and open-minded Liberals in his cabinet, is understood to have placed in the king's opening speech the suggestion that the tariff question be investigated by a commission.

The commission would be empowered to inquire into the country's trade balance and suggest means of remedying a deficit if such is found.

Tories, however, predict that if the commission is suggested, immediate amendment of the king's speech will result, with the naming of a pre-tariff commission having greater powers.

Lord Hailsham, tory secretary of war, in a speech at Eastxourne said:

"The first duty of the national government must be to find a solution to enable our exports to increase and imports to decrease, restoring the balance of trade."

J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, said at Cambridge:

"Our trade balance is against us. We must make up or minds either to develop our export trade or restrict imports."

HEARING GRANTED ON VALIDITY OF NEW GAS RULING

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 7. (AP)—F. C. Henderson, Inc., oil operator, Saturday was granted a three-judge hearing of a petition to test the constitutionality of the state railroad commission's control of gas production in the Panhandle oil area of Texas.

The commission limits production of gas in the state to uses for light and fuel, according to attorneys for Henderson, and he wants to produce casinghead gas to be sold to a gasoline firm. Denial of this privilege is a violation of his constitutional rights, he alleges.

It was stated in the hearing Friday that Henderson has an investment of $500,000 at stake, also a net revenue of $100,000 a year. The hearing on the petition will be held in Houston Nov. 23.

Accident Victim Discovers Broken Neck Months Later

SNYDER, Texas, Nov. 7. (AP)—G. W. Garner, Scurry county pioneer, has just discovered that his neck was broken five months ago. Physicians who have learned of this man who went about his business with a broken neck declare it is one of the most unusual cases on record.

Mr. Garner was in a car wreck last May and for several weeks was laid up with broken ribs and other injuries. Since June he has been driving his car, walking considerably, and otherwise living the life of an average man. A few days ago, while driving alone on the plains he decided to stop at a Lubbock hospital to learn the cause of a persistent burning pain in his neck and shoulders.

An X-ray picture showed clearly that his neck was broken.

Undismayed, Garner told physicians that he would drive on back to Snyder and return in a few days to have a cast put on his neck and shoulders.

"Why, man, you'll kill yourself," he was told. So the Snyder man patiently let himself be bound from waist up in a plaster cast. Now he is back on the streets, "looking like a mummy," he says, "but feeling fine."

Physicians are of the opinion that the neck injury will completely heal, and that no permanent effects except stiffness will be felt.

KANSAS SUPREME COURT RULES SUNDAY NEWSPAPER IS NECESSITY OF LIFE

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 7. (UP)—The Kansas state supreme court today ruled that the Sunday newspaper is a necessity of life.

The opinion was given in reversing the conviction of a news dealer who was fined in Dickinson county under the Sunday blue laws for sale of the Kansas City Star on the Sabbath.

The reading public has come to expect "far more expeditious service" on the part of the newspapers of the state than was received in the days when the statute in question was passed, the opinion declared.

"If Colonel Lindbergh and his wife are flying toward Japan one evening, we, on the other side of the world, have grown to expect to read about their successful landing the next morning in the papers," the opinion continued.

"The school boys know who are the stars for Harvard and Yale and wants to know how they performed in the big game on Saturday.

"In order to bring us this information the news gathering agencies are flung to the uttermost ends of the earth. This court will take judicial notice of the fact that these demands are met by Sunday newspapers of our large cities."

RYE ONLY GRAIN SELLING HIGHER THAN PAST YEAR MAY BE SCARCE ARTICLE

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (AP)—Rye bread, the other half of a corped beef sandwich, may be a scarce article this winter.

Rye closed today at 54 to 60¼c a bushel for various options as compared with 48 to 50 cents a year ago.

Long regarded a "poor relation" of wheat as a bread grain because of disparity in the size of the crops, rye has gone quietly along the way until now it is the only grain selling at a price higher than that of a year ago. The close today on the board of trade was 19 to 20½ cents more than the low point of a month ago.

The huge rye crop shortage this year was blamed on the weather. In the United States it was too hot and dry. Europe had floods and rainy weather.

SANDIES EQUAL HOUSTON RECORD

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 7. (AP)—If John Reagan high of Houston set a record of one punt in a game yesterday, it was equaled here today.

Justin Enochs, Sandie half, punted 40 yards in the first few minutes of the game. Following that kick the Sandies scored on the Woodward, Okla., team every time they got the ball with the exception of only half a dozen times. One fumble, twice held for downs and passes over the goal accounted for their losing the ball.

The Sandies won 103 to 6, scoring 16 touchdowns.

NEGRO INDICTED FOR ASSAULTING WIFE OF FARMER

DAINGERFIELD, Texas, Nov. 7. (AP)—The Morris county grand jury, secretly recalled, today indicted Jimmie Ross, 23, negro, for criminally attacking a 37-year-old farmer's wife at her home in the Cason community near Daingerfield yesterday.

A corps of heavily armed rangers and county officers returned Ross to Daingerfield from Greenville today but departed with him immediately after he made a confession and was indicted.

So quickly did officers act today that incensed citizens of the Cason community who talked of summary justice were not aware of their actions until they were speeding away, supposedly for Greenville to again lodge the prisoner in the Hunt county jail.

When Ross was placed in the Daingerfield jail yesterday somber faced farm folk and townsmen gathered quickly in the courthouse yard, threatening concerted mob action. They dispersed quickly and quietly when word was sent from the jail the prisoner had been spirited away.

EXTRA PRECAUTION TAKEN TO PREVENT FLOOD IN PANAMA

COLON, Canal Zone, Nov. 7. (US)—All 12 spillway gates in Gatun dam, Panama canal, were open for the first time in the canal's history tonight to relieve the water pressure resulting from an unabated 24-hour storm.

The hydrographic office announced that Gatun lake has risen 44 inches since the onset of the storm last night, adding:

"The conditions are unprecedented. They might result seriously should the wind shift northerly. Tidal swells might then do great damage."

Canal engineers have been ordered to open culverts at Pedro, Miguel and Gatun locks to relieve the terrific strain.

Colon is in the grip of a 50-mile gale from the west. Several houses have been unroofed and banana crops leveled. The Chagres river had overflowed at noon when the hydrographic office announced that 6.2 inches of rain had already fallen, making the storm the heaviest in the history of the isthmus.

Natives along the banks of the Chagres have been driven to higher ground.

REVOLVER FOUND NEAR SCENE OF SHOOTING OF S. M. U. STUDENT

DALLAS, Nov. 7. (AP)—A revolver and a bullet torn handkerchief tonight were held by detectives as clues by which they hoped to establish the identity of attackers who critically wounded Ralph Goodwin, 23, Southern Methodist university student, after a running pistol fight early today.

The revolver with a handkerchief hung to its hammer was found in a clump of weeds. Detectives said the handkerchief was powder stained, indicating it was placed around the pistol when the gun was fired.

After a long automobile race in which he exchanged numerous shots with his attackers Goodwin was shot, he said, by robbers who after overtaking him forced him to alight and turn his pockets inside out.

THEODORE DREISER ADMITS HE MAKES NO DONATIONS TO POOR WHEN EDITOR TURNS TABLES

HARLAN, Ky., Nov. 7. (UP)—Theodore Dreiser, who told a $50-a-week country editor here that he gave nothing to charity from his own large income, continued his investigation of coal field suffering and terrorism today at Pineville church.

The novelist will attend a mass meeting called by the International Labor defense with other members of his committee for the defense of political prisoners.

Dreiser's friendly clash with the country editor came when Herndon Evans, editor of the Pineville Sun, said he believed he did more for charity and along civic lines of his income of between $50 and $75 a week than Dreiser did on about $35,000 a year.

Dreiser had said that the country editor's salary seemed unduly high for a district where miners work for from $50 to $60 a month.

Evans was called as a witness by the committee. He answered Dreiser's questions, then accepted the author's invitation to question him.

"Are you a communist?" Evans asked.

"No," Dreiser said, "but I subscribe to some of their principles. I believe in a more equitable condition than that which now exists."

Evans asked the author how much were his royalties from "An American Tragedy."

"About $200,000," Dreiser told him.

"How much of that have you divided with the unfortunate?" the editor asked.

"None," Dreiser told him, "but I support several dependent relatives."

Evans has organized a society for the protection of defenseless children, which is pledged to "investigation of New York's reign of terror and charges that children are being shot down in New York streets."

Mrs. A. L. Hutchinson, executive secretary of the society, today announced she had sent telegrams to railroad presidents asking free transportation for a committee which it was planned to send to New York—a committee to operate along lines pursued by the Dreiser group.

Among those invited to participate were Alvin C. York, world war hero of Tennessee; Gov. W. H. Murray, Oklahoma, and Will Rogers, humorist.

NATIONAL CREDIT CORPORATION NOW READY TO ASSIST

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (INS)—Efforts of American banking leaders to improve the credit situation in the United States crystalized today with the formal opening of the doors of the National Credit corporation at the Federal Reserve Bank building here today.

At the office of the corporation it was said that prompt action would follow the filing of the first application for advances by banking institutions with "frozen assets." A call will then be issued for 10 per cent of the $400,000,000 subscriptions to the gold notes of the new corporation.

No indication has yet been given as to when the first loan of the National Credit corporation will be given, or what conditions must be met in order to make the collateral offered acceptable to the officials in charge. Since the corporation was first proposed by President Hoover, the whole banking situation has improved, and the necessity for thawing out frozen assets is not as urgent as month ago. For that reason it is believed that application for relief will not be as large as had at first been estimated.

ACCURACY is Fundamental

¶ Modern systems of communication put a new meaning on the word "speed". Never before have news dispatches moved so rapidly. Newspaper readers profit from faster, more comprehensive reports. ¶ The Associated Press utilizes these products of inventive genius not only to speed its dispatches. Far more significant are the modern facilities to provide readers of member newspapers with a better report of world happenings. ¶ News from once remote points now is handled directly and quickly by capable reporters. Staff writers are transported rapidly to the scenes of important news events for first-hand observation. Each vital angle of important stories is gathered without delay from reliable sources. There is no dependence on round-about, inaccurate reports and rumors. ¶ The Associated Press dispatches have derived from modern speed a new perfection in accuracy, completeness and reliability.

BANKERS FORESEE GENERAL BUSINESS RECOVERY IN 1932

SAME GROUP SOUNDED WARNING NOTE IN 1929

Confidence Pledged in Future of Business and Government

(Copyr't, 1931, Universal Service, Inc)

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Nov. 7.—When stock prices were at their peak in October, 1929, the Investment Bankers association of America at its convention at Quebec sounded a note of warning concerning impending trouble. Now these bankers, meeting again, lean to the view that another turn is at hand—this time a turn in the direction of a prolonged, gradual major recovery in business and the security markets.

Acting as official spokesman for the fashioners and distributors of securities, Henry T. Ferriss, president of the Investment Bankers association, who will start their 20th annual convention here on Monday, this afternoon expressed the opinion that deflation had been completed and that the assembled bankers had confidence in the future of the country, in business and banking management, and in the government.

Mr. Ferriss, who is an executive in the First National company, St. Louis, said that out his way morale had been built up by the recovery in wheat and other grain prices.

Sound Foundation

"We have a feeling,' he said, "that this depression was the price which we had to pay for what was unsound in the business structure. We can now reasonably hope to advance from the present status. There has already been widespread thorough deflation. I believe that in every line things are down to their bare essentials. We have a foundation on which we can now build more soundly than in many years."

The head man of the organized private banking firms said that the main objective of this convention was to accelerate reconstruction in various fields of investment, especially in the municipal, real estate and foreign bond fields, which have been especially sick.

The solidarity of the investment bankers at this critical time was emphasized by the return of the National City company of New York to this association, from which it resigned in 1925.

Roosevelt & Sons, also of New York, were likewise admitted.

At the meeting of the board of governors, it was announced that Lewis B. Williams of Hayden, Miller & Co., Cleveland, was elected a governor to replace the late Philip T. White of the Cleveland Trust company; T. Williams, Baltimore investment banker, was chosen vice president and governor to succeed Bernard W. Ford of San Francisco; and William Cavalier of San Francisco was elected governor in place of Joseph A. W. Iglehart of Baltimore.

Further committee meetings will be held behind closed doors tomorrow to whip up reports for representation on the formal convention which will hold sessions at the Hotel Greenbriar here on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

POSTMASTER GENERAL REJECTS ALL BIDS FOR SUPPLY COTTON TWINE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—Postmaster General Brown today rejected all bids for cotton twine recently opened at the department.

He believed the department can obtain the 1,300,000 pounds of twine necessary for a six months' supply at a materially lower figure than any submitted.

The lowbidder was the Highland Cordage company of Hickory, N. C., with an offer of ten and forty one-hundredths cents per pound.

Manufacturers of jute twine have protested the department's intention to switch from their twine to use of cotton string.

Members of congress from New England have entered formal protests with the postmaster general.

The department will ask for new bids on both cotton and jute in the near future.

Friends Launch Quiet Campaign For Bill Murray

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (INS)—For three weeks a quiet but vigorous campaign to make Gov. William Murray of Oklahoma, sometimes called "Alfalfa Bill," a presidential candidate has been under way it was revealed today.

Campaign headquarters have been established at Chicago, Oklahoma City and Los Angeles, letter heads have been printed and all the organized details of a presidential boom are proceeding satisfactorily. It was said at La Salle hotel headquarters here. C. A. Cunningham, a former banker in "Alfalfa Bill's" home town of Tishomingo, Okla., is in charge of the Chicago headquarters.

"Alfalfa Bill for President" clubs are being organized all over the country, it was said. "Bread and butter, bacon and beans" will apparently be the campaign slogan for that phrase appears at the bottom of the letterheads. At the top is a picture of Governor Murray flanked by two golden horns of plenty. From one horn there issues smoking factories and from the other tumbles wheat, cabbage, potatoes, carrots, squashes and other farm products.

Campaign buttons stating "He Wins Our Battles" are also being distributed.

Miss Livingston asked $25,000 damages for injuries received when Wade's car, driven by Hershell Caldwell, former University of Alabama football star, and now assistant to Wade at Duke, struck a machine driven by A. D. Rich, of Montgomery. Miss Livingston was riding in the Rich machine.

Rich also sued for $15,000 but was not awarded any damages.

NAN BRITTON FILES MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

TOLEDO, Nov. 7. (AP)—Counsel for Miss Nan Britton, author of "The President's Daughter," today filed a motion for a new trial of her $50,000 libel suit against C. A. Klunk, Marion, Ohio, hotel operator.

The jury which heard the first trial gave a verdict Thursday of "no cause for action." Miss Britton had sued Klunk on the grounds that he circulated a book, "The Answer to the President's Daughter," which she claimed defamed her reputation.

Federal Judge John M. Killits before whom the case was heard said he would decide on the motion later.

SALARY ASSESSMENT TO PROVIDE RELIEF FUNDS MEETING WITH APPROVAL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 7. (UP)—A one per cent salary assessment to provide relief funds has met with approval of many business firms in Oklahoma's two largest cities.

Over subscription of community chest quotas in Tulsa and Oklahoma City appeared probable as result of widespread endorsement of the plan.

Executives of all business firms employing more than 15 persons were asked to obtain pledges of employes to pledge one per cent of their salaries for six months or a year.

Reports today from Oklahoma City fund executives said that 10 larger business firms had subscribed 100 per cent to the plan.

Tulsa community chest headquarters reported 25 major firms, employing 3,000 persons, had agreed to the pledge.

The actual campaign does not open until Monday. Oklahoma City's quota is $450,000. Tulsa's goal is $288,000.

Another Convict at Leavenworth Penitentiary

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 7. (US)—Ralph Capone may be a big shot in Chicago and environs, but he is just another convict at the federal penitentiary here.

This was the substance of a statement made today by Warden Thomas Y. White after the arrival of the Chicago gangster to serve a three-year sentence for income tax evasions.

"Capone will have the same privileges that the other prisoners have if he behaves himself—but no more," said White. "He also will be subject to the same restrictions. He is just another federal prisoner."

The Pullman in which Capone and 15 other federal prisoners rode from Chicago here was shunted into the prison yards at 9 a. m.

Guards were briskly about their business of initiating the arriving guests of Uncle Sam into their new routine, that is, new to most of them.

Capone's flashy suit was taken from him and he was garbed in the dull prison gray. He will be placed 14 days in quarantine, as are all other prisoners admitted. He will receive the same medical and other examinations as the others.

He will be assigned to work to which he is adapted and which will be of benefit to the prison.

"I sincerely hope that each of you 4-H boys and girls will succeed in making your best better in the coming year."

FORMER STATE TREASURER NEW MEXICO "NO-BILLED"

ROSWELL, N. M., Nov. 7. (AP)—Emerson Watts, former New Mexico state treasurer, was freed last night by a district court grand jury "no bill" of charges that he embezzled customers' accounts of the Watts-Harrison brokerage house.

Watts, answering an action brought against him in federal court at Santa Fe offered a composition in bankruptcy which has been accepted by all creditors and recognized by Federal Judge Colinn Neblett. Fulfillment of the composition plan offered will bring dismissal of the bankruptcy action.

Watts disappeared from Roswell last June, was located in Vancouver, B. C., and brought to Seattle where he surrendered to a New Mexico sheriff.

LAST MESSAGE OF PILOT WISECRACK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—The last message from Floyd Cox, pilot of the destroyed Newark, to Washington air express plane, was a wise-cracking sequel to a hint that he might crackup.

Early this week Cox had borrowed $20 at the air terminus here. In the cash drawer he left a message reading: "I. O. U. $20. If I crackup, present this to my wife for collection."

Just before stepping into his plane at Newark for the fatal ride which ended in the death Thursday night of five persons, Cox sent a message to Washington over the company's wire, saying: "I have the $20. Have a bodyguard meet the plane."

Governor Davis recently received reports from Governor Judd of Hawaii urging that steps be taken in the Philippines to prevent unscrupulous brokers from sending independent groups of Filipino laborers to Hawaii on false promises of employment. The Philippines department of commerce bureau is investigating activities of the brokers.

The governor was silent concerning reports he was not returning to the islands but friends said he wants to remain in the United States. Davis smiled at a rumor published in Manila papers that he was a likely choice of the Republicans for vice president.

GASOLINE PRICE HERE ADVANCED CENT A GALLON

Echoes of the recent boost in the price of crude oil announced last week by the major purchasers are heard in the gasoline market to some extent and as a result the retail price of the commodity in this district was raised one cent per gallon at all stations Saturday, making the prevailing price 13 cents for white commercial, and 16 cents for the well known high pressure brands.

The companies announcing the hike here are Cities Service, Magnolia Petroleum, Gulf Refining, Texas, Continental and Humble company. Local refiners will probably fall in line Sunday.

No change in price has been made in the blue gas, the old 10 cents per gallon quotation remains in effect.

Up in Dallas Territory

DALLAS, Nov. 7. (AP)—Five major oil companies took the lead today in advancing tank wagon and retail station prices of gasoline one cent a gallon on standard and ethyl grades for the Dallas territory.

Price levels under the advance stood at 13 cents for ethyl and 15 cents for standard. Companies announcing the hike were Humble, Magnolia Petroleum, Texas, Continental and the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil. Gulf Petroleum planned to announce a similar advance this afternoon and most of the other major dealers were reported to be considering price hikes tonight or tomorrow.

Their action followed rising price levels on crude oil throughout the Southwest.

None of the companies announced price advances on the third grade gasoline, sale of which has not been impeded here.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Nov. 7.—Southern Methodist university linemen—the fellows who stay down there in the mire of the battle and get little credit for their accomplishments, entered glory hall by the front door Saturday when the Mustangs beat Texas A. & M., 8 to 0. It was the Mustangs' seventh consecutive win and their fourth straight conference triumph and left them one of the few unbeaten and untied teams in the United States.

And Saturday it was not the brilliance of some running back like Weldon Mason or "Baldy" Oliver. It was not a long aerial attack from Mason to his wings that gained victory.

Blocked Punts Help

Instead, it was blocked punts, one in the second period and one in the fourth, blocked by linemen and recovered by linemen that scored a safety and a touchdown to annex a bitterly fought game on Kyle field, where many teams visit but few leave victorious. It was a superb battle of front walls. The Aggies finally wilted after a great first period stand—wilted enough to leave their two punters, McFadden and Graves, unprotected, and that proved fatal.

Following a scoreless first period in which A. & M. completely stopped Southern Methodists' aerial and running game, the Mustangs scored two points early in the second period. The Mustangs swept to the Aggies 34-yard stripe on two long passes from Mason to Koontz and Mason to Mills. They reached the Aggies' 23-yard line on another pass.

McFadden batted down Mason's pass to Jordan on fourth down for a short lived life of a hero, for when McFadden dropped back to his 10-yard line to punt Alfred Delcambre smashed through, blocked the punt and it rolled beyond the end zone for an automatic safety. Last week, Delcambre blocked a punt to give Southern Methodist a safety and a 9 to 7 victory over the University of Texas.

Stubborn Defenses

Following this safety, both teams tried about all the football formations in the book but neither could score, terminating the first half, 2 to 0, for Southern Methodist.

Mid-way in the third period, Mason passed to Koontz for first down on the Aggies' 22-yard stripe, but his next pass was intercepted by Barfield, spoiling Southern Methodist's only only scoring possibility in this period, although the A. & M. eleven was on the defense most of the time.

Late in the fourth period, after the Mustangs had been held for four downs trying to gain four yards, Graves dropped back of his goal line to punt. Again the Aggies' front wall was crushed in and through it whirled Willis Tate to block the punt. It rolled along the goal line with many players trying to fall on it, but it was the luck of John Burleson, S. M. U. guard, to fall on the ball for a touchdown. Thus three linemen, Delcambre, Tate and Burleson, had starred. But Captain Alfred Neely failed to kick goal, thus being the only lineman who did not make the best of opportunity.

Perhaps the greatest one-man stand in Southwest football this season was made by George Lord of A. & M. This A. & M. guard made four consecutive tackles in the fourth period to stop a possible Southern Methodist touchdown when the Mustangs had only four yards to go. He nailed Oliver and Mason on four tries, allowing them only three and a half yards.

Aggies Eliminated

On first downs the Mustangs had the edge, scoring 12 against two for A. & M. Mason's accurate passing, Koontz' ability to snag aerial heaves and the powerful defensive and offensive work of the Southern Methodist line featured for the conference leaders.

Charlie Malone's fine tackling and pass intercepting was outstanding for the Aggies. Captain Moulden played a splendid game until injured in the fourth period.

The defeat eliminated the A. & M. team from the 1931 conference race, it having already lost to Texas Christian.

SOONERS FINISH STRONG TO BEAT KANSAS, 10-0

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 7 (AP)—The Oklahoma Sooners did a bit of effective work in the final period of their game with the Kansas Jayhawks here Saturday afternoon that netted them a 10 to 0 victory before a homecoming crowd of 14,000.

Bob Dunlap, Sooner back, turned the trick that completed the major scoring bracket, with a brilliant 47-yard run for touchdown, and Massad, fullback, kicked goal. As the game neared the final gun, Captain Guy Warren booted a perfect placement between the bars from the 33-yard line.

Both teams punted frequently and resorted to aerials when regular work proved ineffective, but Warren's placement was the only kick that "got bacon," except Massad's counter.

At least in one department the Coyotes showed improvement Friday in their 26 to 19 victory over the Gainesville Leopards. Possibly it was because of the weakness of the opposition that their blocking was much better than in previous games, but we are willing to believe it more the result of the extensive drilling the team received during the week on that particular phase of the game. Another particular in which the team showed to better advantage was in its offensive handling by Quarterback J. Z. Powell. The errors of tact that had been so costly in previous games were not present, and the quarterback mixed his plays better than in any game since the start. All in all, however, it was a none too satisfying performance on the part of the Pack, and the Vernon scouts on the sidelines saw nothing unless it was Burns McKinney's great runs to throw fear into the camp of the Lions.

McKinney's great runs presented a true picture of just how powerful the Coyotes might be if he was available for regular duty. The lean, lank, high-stepping kid- however, can be used only for brief intervals because of a heart that might not carry too great a load. His refusal to quit the game in the face of such a physical handicap speaks for the quality of stuff that old ticker is made of, and he shows it as well in the way he plays football in his brief chances. McKinney is not used in practice five minutes a week and when he steps into a game, it is with practically not physical preparation. That is a handicap that would prevent one of less stern making even a thought of playing the game. In view of these things, we'd rate McKinney's performance of Friday among the outstanding feats of Coyote history.

We like to ponder over the possibilities that would be contained in the regular usage of a halfback duo composed of McKinney and "Scrapiron" Withrow. Those two boys, we believe, would lead the Coyotes out of the tall timber. Both are equipped not only with far more than average latent ability, but they have that old football determination that fights on for that extra yard. Withrow's spirit was shown at its best on the Coyotes' first touchdown against Gainesville. The ball was on the 5-yard line, incidentally the result of a 23-yard gain by the Coyote captain and a 28-yard pass he had tossed to Greenwood, with time for only a play or two left in the first half. It was necessary to score a touchdown on one, not more than two plays. Withrow took out around Gainesville's right end and a swarm of tacklers appeared almost in his path, at least three or four of 'em. Now it is a pretty good bet that at least half that Gainesville flock could have outrun the Coyote leader in a straightaway race, but Benbett had that ball tucked under his arm and a thought in his brain that he had to score a touchdown on that particular play. He had the determination to outrun that flock of tacklers and he did it. The play was a clear demonstration of why Withrow is an outstanding player. That's the stuff that all great football players and teams are made of.

The outstanding weakness of the Coyotes, as we see it, still is tackling. They played tag with the Gainesville boys through the early part of the game and missed tackles that should have been duck soup at every turn. Coach Barry Holton's theory is that tacklers are born and not made, and we quite agree with him. The only requisite of an efficient tackler is the determination to make the tackle. You or I, with just a little practice, could tackle with the best of 'em. Provided, of course, we had the determination to do the job. The Coyotes should have received in spring training alone, sufficient practice to be good tacklers. They should be efficient tacklers if their only practice now was in their weekly games. Consequently, the Coyotes in their routine drilling do not receive a great deal of tackling work. It is one of the read drudgeries of football training. While it may not be necessary from the physical standpoint, we wonder if the Coyotes would not be helped to attain that needed determination if they were given a hefty dose of tackling drudgery, for instance, each afternoon this week.

Wednesday's foe is to be quite a different proposition than the Pack encountered in its Electra and Gainesville games. The Coyotes survived tackling deficiencies in these games because they had enough power to do a lot of scoring and to halt the enemy often enough to win. Against Fort Worth's Northside crew, however, mistakes are sure to prove more costly, for Northside has the strength to take full advantage of its opportunities. The Steers held the Fort Worth Polytechnic to a scoreless tie and the latter was good enough to whip the Coyotes, 25 to 6. This Fort Worth Northside team is going to be good enough to turn missed tackles into touchdowns, and so will the Vernon Lions on Thanksgiving day. The Coyotes will have to step out of it to hold their own in these last two games, but we believe the team has the ability to do it, and that its fate depends entirely on whether it has the will.

Basket ball is to be given an early start out at the high school this week. The football playing cagers will not start so early, but the rest of the squad is to put in three days weekly until the Thanksgiving holiday under the direction of Bill Habern. Bill has volunteered his services to give the Pack's cagers the advantage of an early start, and the idea met with immediate response from players and school officials. Habern plans to start early this week with a squad of a dozen or so players with more or less experience. Unusual interest in the cage sport is foreseen in view of talent that appears the strongest in many years.

PENNANT BOUND COWHANDS

Simmons Coaches and Quintet Stars

The Cowboys of Simmons university are blazing a clean trail through the Texas conference thus far and apparently are headed for pennantville on a non-stop schedule. The Cowboys' outstanding display of talent was given a few days back when they defeated one of their strongest rivals, Southwestern university, 53 to 0.

Arkansas Breaks Loose With Late Rallies for Draw

Porkers Match Maroons' Early Lead With Fourth Period Touchdowns

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (AP)—Arkansas turned loose a greased Razorback, Fullback Ledbetter, who slithered through Chicago's line for two touchdowns in the final period Saturday to earn a 13 to 13 tie with the Maroons in their intersectional football game.

The fourth period was a breathtaker and it had a crowd of about 12,000 spectators in a state of excitement. Vinson Sahlin, Chicago sophomore halfback ace, had given the Maroons a 13 to 0 lead with touchdowns in the first half, and Chicago seemed to have its first major victory of the season safely won. But the Razorbacks, who had tossed passes for three periods with varying success, suddenly came back to earth.

Passes from Murphy to Nations, and one by Holmes with which a Maroon interferred put the ball on the Chicago 19-yard line. Ledbetter slipped five times through the Maroon line to score. Secrest added the point and another march started. The Maroons interfered on two other passes which interspersed Ledbetter's line battering and starting on the seven-yard line, the Razorbacks fullback rammed it over in four tries.

Arkansas made 14 first downs to seven for Chicago, and fired off 24 forward passes. Ten were completed, 12 fell incomplete, and two were intercepted. Chicago tried the air 14 times and completed five passes.

IOWA STATE SPILLS KANSAS AGGIES, 7-6

AMES, Iowa, Nov. 7 (AP)—An Iowa State football team came back Saturday from the depths of a three-year despondency to make a bid for the Big Six championship by defeating the previously undefeated Kansas Aggies, 7 to 6.

A place kick from the toe of Dick Grefe, lanky halfback, after Kenneth Wells had gathered in a pass for a touchdown, was the margin that sent the Aggies into the ranks of the vanquished conference elevens. Nebraska, the Cyclones' only remaining Big Six foe is the only other undefeated eleven in the conference.

OKLAHOMA AGGIES WIN FROM CREIGHTON JAYS

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 7. (AP) The Oklahoma Aggies, cheered by a homecoming throng, trounced the Bluejays of Creighton, 20 to 0 Saturday.

TULSA SWAMPS MEXICO UNIVERSITY GRIDDERS

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 7. (AP)—The "Golden Hurricane" of the University of Tulsa swept irresistibly across the game but woefully outclassed University of Mexico football team Saturday in an international contest that left the visitors at the zero end of an 80 to 0 score.

Ramblers Ride Over Penn Eleven 49 to 0

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 7. (AP)—Notre Dame's football hurricane swept the Quakers from Pennsylvania into a storm cellar Saturday and buried them there under the debris of an astounding 49 to 0 defeat.

The one-sided triumph for the "Fighting Irish," which boosted their long victory string to 25 in 26 combats, came after probably the best display of offensive power ever witnessed on the home battlefield, before 35,000 spectators.

Holding the Quakers without much effort except for a mild threat carried into their 33-yard line at the start of the third period, the men of Notre Dame scored almost at will. The first team piled up 21 points in the first two periods and just to prove their contention of superiority, the seconds took up the baton in the last half and completed the rout by rolling up four more touchdowns, before their dazed and battered foes, who had ridden into the West with an undefeated record.

Better Than 1930

The rout of the Quakers was nine points worse than the one staged by the Rockne raiders on Penn's home lot a year ago, when they dazzled their foes with a 60 to 20 victory. Even Saturday's score might have been higher, for twice the Irish backs ploughed to within easy scoring distance only to lose their chance by penalties.

If ever the critics agreed that Notre Dame of 1931 was on a par, or better than the undefeated elevens of 1929 and 1930, and the immortal four horsemen of 1924, it was Saturday. Pennsylvania threw up a stronger battle line than a year ago, they all agreed, despite the loss of two star ends, but the difference between the two teams was 49 points or more. After the first period, the great Quaker line sagged and wavered, unable to stop the fury of the South Bend hurricane.

Schwartz Sets Pace

Official statistics show the yawning chasm of class between the two. From the line of scrimmage alone, the Irish backs gained 390 yards to but 30 for the Quakers, while the variance in first downs was 16 to 3 in Notre Dame's favor.

It was the one and only Mr. Marchmont Schwartz, who started the ball on a delayed buck and smashed the Quaker ramparts through his own right tackle for 16 yards and a touchdown.

While Schwartz again was the starting sparkplug of the Irish machine Saturday, it was Sheeketski who reeled off the most yardage from the line of scrimmage. He lugged the ball seven times for 77 yards, or an average of 11 yards a thrust.

ARMY DOWNS LOUISIANA STATE IN 20-0 TUSSLE

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 7. (US)—When the football historians look back years hence on the colorful football game that delighted 15,000 persons here Saturday, they will wag their heads and murmur, "My, my, oh my; that was the game in which the Louisiana State football team actually worked the old Statue of Liberty play on Army for 25 yards."

Yea, the Purple Tigers of Louisiana put that one, which Pop Warner thought up one day away back yonder when he was in knee pants, but they could not work much of anything else consistently, and Army won, 20 to 0.

SANDIES RING UP 103 POINTS IN DEFEATING OKLAHOMA GRID TEAM

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 7. (AP)—An injured, outweighed and hopelessly outclassed Woodward, Okla., High school grid squad fought to the last minute here Saturday to score on the Golden Sandies but dropped the game, 103 to 6.

Trailing by 16 touchdowns with only three minutes remaining the Sooners carried the ball 90 yards on two plays for the counter. Noble Sills, 138-pound quarter, took a kickoff on his 10 yard line and returned it 40 yards. Williams then passed 30 yards to Gaston who trotted 20 across the double line.

The Sandies scored 32 points in the first quarter, 13 in the second, 38 in the third and 20 in the fourth. Coach Blair Cherry made many substitutions.

NORTHWESTERN TAKES TIGHT HOLD ON TITLE BY DROPPING GOPHERS

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 7. (AP)—It's all over now except the shouting for Northwestern.

The undefeated Wildcats of Northwestern, the same team that held Notre Dame to a scoreless tie, mowed down Minnesota, 32 to 14, in a fourth period scoring riot before a homecoming crowd of 48,000 Saturday, and as good as won the 1931 championship of the Western conference. Only Iowa and Indiana remain in the path of the Wildcats for undisputed championship honors. It appears overwhelmingly certain the Hawkeyes and Hoosiers will be conquered by just as many touchdowns as Northwestern wishes to score.

In the most dramatic game played in the Big Ten this season, Northwestern, trailing 14 to 0 at one time, came back like a real championship team, to score five touchdowns, and eliminate the Gophers, the only other undefeated crew in the championship race.

CARNERA AND LEVINSKY MATCHED FOR CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (INS)—Primo Carnera, the Viennese vulture for punishment—and King Levinsky have been signed to fight here on Nov. 19, the Chicago stadium announced Saturday. The only obstacle reported blocking the match is the fine imposed against the man mountain by the Italian Boxing federation which is recognized by the Illinois State Athletic commission, but Carnera has wired that he will post a bond to cover the fine.

ROCHESTER TEAM WINS OVER HAMLIN BY 13-0

ROCHESTER, Texas, Nov. 7.—Rochester High school defeated Hamlin high, 13 to 0, in the flashiest game that has been played on the Rochester gridiron this season.

Longhorns Return To Winning Form To Subdue Baylor

Steers' 'Powerhouse' Game At Best in Running Up 25-0 Score

By CHARLES E. SIMONS
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

AUSTIN, Nov. 7. (AP)—Returning to championship form, the Texas Longhorns gored the Baylor Bears for a 25 to 0 victory Saturday. Texas scored a touchdown in each period.

Texas' powerhouse attack worked to good effect as the Steers passed and ran the Bruins ragged. The Texas air offensive also was above par.

But the main thing that marked the play of Texas was its return of morale and spirit, the Steers showing more pep and ginger than at any time this year.

The Baylor team fought hard and doggedly but could not cope with the Texas offensive. Baylor had tough luck with a couple of its passes that resulted directly in Texas touchdowns.

Interception Helps

The first Texas score came late in the first period when Koy intercepted a Baylor aerial on the 50-yard line and galloped over for a touchdown. He was aided by beautiful interference, the Texas blockers mowing down would-be tacklers. Blanton was rushed in and kicked goal.

Although Texas entered the game a slight favorite, the lopsided victory was a distinct surprise.

Baylor's only real scoring threat was in the first period when they passed and rushed the ball to Texas' 26-yard line. It was stopped when Elkins intercepted a Baylor pass on the five-yard line.

Texas scored again near the end of the second period when Baylor punted out of bounds on Texas' 35-yard line. With Texas forwards and backs bowling down the Bears with machine-like precision, Stafford, elongated Texas back, scampered around Baylor's right end for 65 yards.

Powerhouse football, interspersed with beautiful aerial attacks, was used to gain the third score. Elkins counted from the seven-yard line.

Longhorn Superiority

The fourth Texas score came from an intercepted pass. Rundell took a Baylor heave on his 15-yard line and returned it to the Texas 46. Koy blasted tackle for 19 and a pass, Koy to Stafford put the ball on Baylor's 13. Koy crashed right tackle to the four-yard line and on the next play ran Baylor's right end wide for a score. He was tackled and slid across the goal line.

Texas superiority is shown by the summary.

The Longhorns made 14 first downs to five for Baylor and gained 286 yards from scrimmage to 62 for the Bruins. Texas tried 25 passes and completed eight for a gain of 92 yards. Baylor took the air 33 times, completed 10 and gained 80 yards.

Although three of the Texas touchdowns were made by regulars, Texas substitutes stole the show from the veterans with Clewis, Fagan, Craig and Burr taking the honors.

Byerly, Bear end, dealt out a lot of misery to Texas backs and played a scintillating game.

WESTERNERS OUTCLASS CHILDRESS ELEVEN TO ROLL UP SCORE 46-0

LUBBOCK, Texas, Nov. 7.—The Lubbock High school Westerners, district No. 1 championship bound, added a few more feathers to their hats here Saturday by defeating the Childress Bobcats, 46 to 0, scoring one touchdown in the first quarter, three in the second, one in the third and two in the last.

The visitors were at the mercy of the Westerners throughout the game, Lubbock gaining 267 yards to 54 for the visitors and making 18 first downs to four for Childress.

Scoggins made four touchdowns, while Britton, Brown and Barnett made a marker each. Davidson kicked four of the goals.

Wednesday the Westerners play Plainview in a game that should end about the same way unless a cyclone or something worse hits the Westerners. The game is to be played here.

The lineups: Childress, Newberry and Hargrave, ends; Tucker and Wright, tackles; Overby and Kennedy, guards; Marchbanks, center; Carter, quarter; Davis and Smith, halves; Howard, full.

Lubbock: Watson and Brown, ends; Calhoun and Williams, tackles; Spears and Welch, guards; McCarty, center; Britton, quarter; Scoggin and Davidson, halves; Barnett, full.

BURKBURNETT ALL-STARS TO PLAY AT HENRIETTA

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Nov. 7.—The Burkburnett All-Star football team will journey to Henrietta Sunday to take on the Henrietta All-Stars. The battle is expected to be a close, hard fought contest all the way. The All-Stars of Burkburnett have been improving rapidly in their recent games and are confident of giving the Henrietta stars a close battle. Very little is known of the strength of the Henrietta team, but a good club should be found there from the wealth of former high school stars in that city. The game will be called at 3 o'clock on the Henrietta football field.

Horned Frogs Score Extra Point to Nose Out Owls by 7 to 6

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7. (AP)—Texas Christian university's championship-seeking grid team turned back the Rice institute invasion with a 7 to 6 victory Saturday, but the Houston Owls lived up to their newly-found reputation for strength matching offensive for offensive throughout the game.

The Horned Frogs began the game like a whirlwind, Spearman, T. C. U. left halfback, running 60 yards for a touchdown on a punt from J. Wallace, Rice right half, assisted by admirable blocking. Green kicked goal to make the score 7 to 0 at the end of the first period.

Owls Rally Late

Thrasher, Rice halfback, scored for the Owls with only four minutes left to play, but Jamerson missed the kick for an extra point. Twice in the last few minutes of play Rice drove toward the Horned Frog goal line, once to the 12-yard line and again to the 10-yard stripe but each time T. C. U. punted away from danger.

The Christians opened their offensive with the passing attack for which they are most feared.

Both teams were practically deadlocked in the next two periods, attempting passes with little effect.

Thrasher Scores

Toward the end of the final period, a lateral pass from Frye to Jamerson gave the Owls a first down on the nine-yard line. Thrasher circled around left end for a touchdown. Jamerson missed goal.

The final gun found the two teams battling on the same even terms which kept the two middle periods scoreless.

Cubs Hope to Get Needed Strength In Player Deals

Hack Wilson, Pat Malone Likely to Be Used In Winter Trades

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (UP)—With Pat Malone and Hack Wilson as trading material and plenty of cash to throw into the bargain, the Chicago Cubs are expected to make several important trades during the coming winter.

The Cubs want a pennant winning ball club next season and Messers. Wrigley, Veeck and Hornsby are going to make every effort to land at least two National league stars within the next month to bolster a third place club.

One of the players the Cubs want is Ed Brandt, Boston Braves' southpaw who won 18 games and lost 11 the past season. The Cubs are prepared to offer several players and a bundle of cash for Brandt.

If Brandt is unavailable the Cubs would be willing to talk trade on Fred Frankhouse, right-hander who is said also to be coveted by the New York Giants.

Hack Wilson is likely to land up with Brooklyn or Cincinnati. The Cubs would like to use him in a deal with the Robins for Outfielder Babe Herman or in a swap with the Reds for Pitcher Red Lucas.

It has been reported that Brooklyn is willing to trade Dazzy Vance for Wilson, but the Cubs do not want Vance, who is nearing the end of his career.

Another player that the Cubs will dicker for is Outfielder Paul Waner of Pittsburgh. If the Cubs can make a deal for a catcher they might be willing to exchange Gabby Hartnett for the Pirates' speedster.

To build the Cubs into a pennant winner Hornsby figures that he needs at least one new outfielder, and possibly two, a star left-handed pitcher, a third baseman, and another capable catcher.

Hornsby is expected to confer with Veeck within the next month and outline his plans.

ARMISTICE DAY SCHEDULE OFFERS IMPORTANT LEAGUE WARS

Quanah's Invasion of Vernon and Tigers Vs. Bobcats Head Program

The Nov. 11 holiday is in observance of cessation of hostilities in the world war, but Wednesday high school football forces of Northwest Texas marshal their troops for the most intense battling of the 1931 campaign thus far. In all districts of the interscholastic league important warfare is scheduled.

While Wichita Falls fans must be satisfied with a non-league skirmish between the Coyotes and Fort Worth Northside, a game that is promising of plenty of excitement, if not bearing championship importance, district No. 2 features two titular contests.

The undefeated Quanah Indians, with the championship in their grasp if they can defeat the Lions, invade Vernon for one of the state's most important skirmishes. Electra plays host to the Childress Bobcats, with both teams going after their first victory and attempting to evade a final cellar lodging.

Lions vs. Indians

VERNON, Texas, Nov. 7.—With 1931 football championship of the Texas Interscholastic league, district No. 2, at stake, Vernon and Quanah High school teams will take the field here Wednesday afternoon. The Quanah Indians will be conceded the title if they defeat the Lions, while the latter team must play the Wichita Falls Coyotes, and the Indians will meet the Childress Bobcats later.

The past week of practice failed to improve the physical condition of the Lions with Reed, guard; Parker, end, and Jimmie Lutz, quarterback, sent to the bench with injuries that may keep them out of the game. The loss of Lutz would go far toward hampering the Lion attack and while the injuries are expected to heal by Wednesday, fans are finding much cause for worry. Lutz and Parker are nursing sprained ankles, while Reed has an arm injury.

Hopes of the Vernon school officials for a capacity crowd are likely to be realized with little difficulty. Quanah fans, at first requesting a third of the grandstand, have been granted one-half of the stands for the game. Bands and uniformed pep squads of both schools will swell the attendance, while lending color to the contest.

Dope Favors Indians

The game is assuming the proportions of a high school classic with both elevens almost sure to unfold the routine of formations for the season. While the running attack of both teams is expected to furnish ample thrills the aerial phase will not be neglected. The Lions have not flashed a dependable passing game in previous contests this season, but have revealed enough to assure the fans of a latent power that may prove a serious threat.

The Quanah Indians are favored from almost every angle of the sport critics' calculations, with a long string of victories by large scores, while the Lions have offered little above the average in practice or district games. In addition, the Indians have proved to be more consistent in scoring the try for the seventh point after a touchdown than have the Lions.

The Lions have the underdog's fighting chance and Quanah's own reputation and possible over-confidence may prove the Redskins' greatest enemy. A man-for-man comparison of the two teams reveals little advantage, and their work in the game Wednesday will have much effect on individual player's consideration for all-district honors. The Redskins have a slight weight advantage of 10 pounds per man for the starting lineup if the heaviest Lion team is sent on the field.

Stop Early Scoring?

Indians All Set

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 7.—With only one more day of actual practice remaining before the all-important game scheduled for Armistice day with the fighting Vernon Lions at Vernon, Coach Dan Stallworth is driving his Quanah High school Indians through hard practice sessions. The past week has been spent drilling them on every phase of defense and brushing up on their offensive plays.

No squad member has been hurt in practice, and the cripples from past games are improving steadily. It is thought that all the men will be fit for service by game time.

The game at Vernon probably will decide the championship for district 2. Vernon and Quanah are undefeated in conference games. While the Lions have sustained one loss in practice play, the Indians boast a perfect record for the season.

Quanah will "shut up shop" Armistice day and it is expected practically the entire population will attend the game. Five hundred tickets allotted went "like hot cakes," and if boosting and cheering will win the game the Indians will come back with another scalp of victory dangling from their belts.

The pep squad under the leadership of Juanita Wyman and Dolores Houseman will "make whoopee" at the game.

Tigers vs. Bobcats

ELECTRA, Texas, Nov. 7.—After having lost three conference games in as many starts, the Electra High school Tigers will endeavor to shake off their losing jinx by defeating the Childress Bobcats on the Electra athletic field Armistice day. This will mark the end of the Bengals' interscholastic league schedule, but it is being rumored that school officials are seeking postseason engagements for Nov. 20 and Thanksgiving day. The short schedule of the local squad this year brings the football season to an abrupt end and the mentors are hoping to put their charges through three more games before the ending of the season.

Plans are being launched here to muster a record crowd for this game, with the American Legion sponsoring the drive as the principal feature of the big Armistice day jubilee. Post Commander J. V. Ballard has been working diligently with the athletic association in promoting a large gathering. Not only are the officials making every effort to accommodate the local fans, but to take care of the expected large delegation of Bobcat boosters.

Cloninger Injured

According to statistics, the Tigers and Bobcats are on about equal rating and both teams are expected to stage a real battle in order to keep out of the cellar.

The Tigers are apparently in the very best of condition for the coming tilt, barring casualties during the last few days of practice preceding the game. Cloninger is the only regular on the injured list and it is almost certain that he will be unable to start the game next week, although he is apt to see some service should the locals wish to stage an aerial drive. George Ellis, stellar wingman, who was knocked out of the game with the Coyotes, has regained his poise and will be in A-1 shape for the invasion of the Childress eleven.

Coaches Harvey Stanford and E. M. Lampke have sent the squad through their usual routine of weekly training schedule with issuing of new plays and formations with warming-up exercises every day. A light scrimmage was held Wednesday and a more strenuous one is expected to take place Monday when the outcome of the new attack will be determined.

Sandefer Directs Play

The mentors made a change in the managing post of the Tigers at the beginning of the week, which should greatly benefit their offensive style, as this has proven to be one of the weakest phases of the squad. Sandefer has been shifted to quarterback position, with the full responsibility of conducting maneuvers while the team is in action. McDannald has been calling the signals from center, but this adept lineman is handicapped, or any other pivot man, when it comes to directing plays. A center, with his head down, does not have much of a chance to effectively direct plays against his opponents.

The starting guards for the coming affrfay, are still a puzzle and it is not certain whether Magee or Hogle will pair with O. Stroud.

MEMPHIS GRIDDERS TO BE GUESTS OF CHURCH

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 7.—Members of the Memphis High school football team and Coach Nolan Walter will be the guests of honor at a special service starting at 7:15 o'clock Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian church. Dr. J. A. McMillan has held a simular service for several years at the various pastorates he has served and the services Sunday is expected to be attended by all members of the squad.

Dr. McMillan will speak on the subject of "First Down and Goal to Go." Supporters of the Cyclone and lovers of football are invited to attend.

WALKER REFUSES SMALL FRY—WANTS SCHMELING

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (INS)—Mickey Walker and his manager, Jack Kearns, sat back Saturday awaiting a chance for the "Toy Bulldog" to box Max Schmeling in Florida or California this winter. Kearns refused to sign for Walker to meet young Stribling here next month, saying he was certain that Walker could get a shot at Schmeling.

A bout between Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., welterweight, and Billy Townsend, Vancouver, may replace the proposed Stribling-Walker fight.

DUNCAN DEMONS DRILL FOR LAWTON CONTEST

DUNCAN, Okla., Nov. 7.—The Duncan High school Demons took advantage of an open date this week-end to rest for the stiff game scheduled Armistice day afternoon with the powerful Lawton team.

Off form and failing to display a strong defensive which proved effective against Walters, Duncan was defeated 20 to 0 here a week ago Friday by Anadarko.

Coach Dale Arbuckle has been putting the Demon squad through strenuous workouts the last week to build up the defensive weaknesses which cost Duncan heavily in the Anadarko match.

MRS. MOODY SAILS ON JOURNEY TO ORIENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7. (INS)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, tennis champion, Saturday was en route to the Orient for a cruise of two months. She will play a number of exhibition games while away.

The trip will include stops at Honolulu, Tokio, Shanghai and possibly Manila.

Two Big Clashes Are Scheduled in District 3 Chase

Olney Entertains Seymour, With Archer City Host To Burkburnett

Two games of more than passing importance are scheduled Armistice day in the district No. 3, class B, championship race, the Olney Cubs swinging into action on home soil after only a brief breathing spell from their 7 to 0 victory over Crowell last Friday. The Cubs, however, draw one of the district's weaker members, Seymour, for the holiday date, and their perfect record is not expected to be in danger.

The battle of the day is likely to result from Burkburnett's visit to the Archer City gridiron. The Bulldogs and the Wildcats, both with a couple of defeats in the titular race, appear evenly matched, and a real thriller is anticipated by fans of both cities.

Cubs vs. Panthers

OLNEY, Texas, Nov. 7.—With four notches already on their championship gun, Albert Acker's Olney Cubs are preparing to meet the Seymour Panthers on their local field Armistice day.

The Cubs are not kidding themselves that Seymour's Panthers will not give them trouble, as they always have. As a result of the game at Crowell Friday it is likely Acker will have several of his regulars on the bench due to injuries. It will be Monday before it is definitely known the seriousness of several bad bruises and it may be at that time some of the reserves will get word that they are to be called on in the Armistice day classic.

The local champions performed just about as expected against Crowell and it is the belief that they will improve now with each game. The experienced Crowell line taught Acker's green forward wall some valuable lessons Friday. It is the first time any of the Cub linemen, except Captain O'Brien, have met a fast charging line such as Coach Graves put on the field Friday. If Acker can correct the mistakes made against the Cats, his team is headed for a fourth straight district crown.

Seymour, Archer City and Chillicothe are likely to upset the Cubs unless they locate the ball more quickly than they did Friday. The fact that Crowell fumbled five times and recovered each time indicates that the Cubs were not following the ball very closely.

All business houses in Olney will be closed for Wednesday's program, which will include an Armistice day program in the morning and a football game at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The Cub park has an excellent sod and bleacher accommodation for 500 or more. It is expected that a large number of Panther supporters will make the short trip to Olney for the game. Coach Acker was unable to give any idea as to what his starting lineup will be.

Panthers Improve

SEYMOUR, Texas, Nov. 7.—The Seymour High school Panthers will see a week of hard practice beginning Monday, in preparation for the game with the powerful Olney Cubs Wednesday at Olney. This probably will be the Panthers' hardest match of the season, but the boys are showing more confidence and are rapidly gaining strength in all positions. Experience, which the team did not have at the start of the season is showing its effect in the last few games. The Panthers' tackling is showing a wonderful improvement, as evidenced in the game Friday with Nocona.

All the men are in fair shape with the exception of a few minor injuries, which can be overcome in time for the game Wednesday.

Hughes, Woods, Campbell, St. Clair, Foster, Holman and Coleman are likely to see service.

Wildcats vs. Bulldogs

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Nov. 7.—The football game between Archer City and Burkburnett high schools to be played on the gridiron at Archer City Wednesday is receiving more attention and creating more enthusiasm among fans than any game that has been played on the home field this season.

The reason is the Archer Wildcats realize that the Bulldogs are a tough taem to beat and while the defeats given the home team by Crowell and Chillicothe have eliminated them as pennant winners, they intend to finish as high as possible in the final standings and are hoping for an unblemished record in the remainder of their games.

The Armistice day crowd in Archer City is usually a good one and home pride is an urge to victory with the Wildcats.

Coach Bill Cooper considers the game with Burkburnett will be the most exciting tilt of the season and is working this team into good shape for the occasion. He does not underestimate his opponents, but says the Wildcat team in their present shape can cope with any team in district No. 3.

The Scotland band has been procured and the pep squad has new uniforms for the occasion.

A special invitation has been extened to every school in the county and many fans from outside the county are expected.

The program for the opening of the game is a march by the schools and ex-service men from the public square to the grounds headed by the band, players and pep squads of Archer City and Burkburnett.

Burkburnett Ready

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Nov. 7.—A close battle is expected by the Bulldogs of Burkburnett High school on Armistice day when they journey to Archer City to take on the Archer City Wildcats. The contest will be the Bulldogs' fifth conference game.

At present the Bulldog record shows two conference games won and two lost. With anything like good luck they should hang up a third victory on Armistice day. All the regulars except Leake, right tackle, are in good condition and eligible for the Archer City game, and if the local squad enters the tilt with the confidence and strength which it possessed in the Crowell game, victory is practically assured.

A large rooting section from Burkburnett High school will accompany the Bulldog team to Archer City for the holiday game, to witness the team in action against a strong foe.

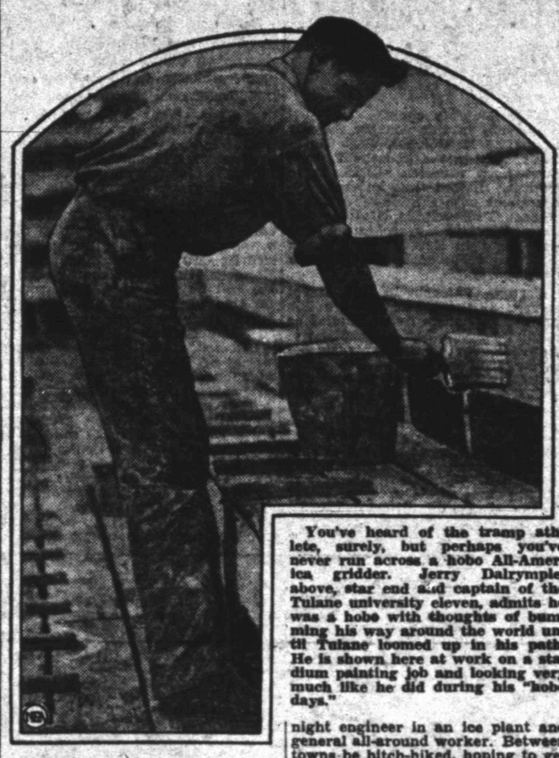

Chillicothe Idle

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Nov. 7.—Throughout this week the Chillicothe Eagles have been engaged in light workouts and scrimmage in preparation for future games. Armistice day the Eagles were to play Henrietta, but due to Henrietta's withdrawing from the conference race, that game was cancelled, leaving the Eagles another week of idleness in the conference race.

Burkburnett comes to Chillicothe the Friday, Nov. 20, for a league game, and the local football men feel confident of scoring another victory. The main obstacle appears to be the Olney Cubs. Due to the Cubs win over Crowell Friday the Chillicothe Eagles have a chance at the pennant. If they should win from Olney they will be tied with the leaders. The local lads expect to put up a great fight in this game with Olney, and Coach Hill is putting into his proteges minds the fact they must win this tilt for the right to fight for the championship.

Next week the local team will go through a series of new plays, practice on aerial attacks and hardening themselves for the Burkburnett fray on Nov. 20.

ALL-AMERICA HOBO LEADS TULANE

You've heard of the tramp athlete, surely, but perhaps you've never run across a hobo All-America gridder. Jerry Dalrymple, above, star end and captain of the Tulane university eleven, admits he was a hobo with thoughts of bumming his way around the world until Tulane loomed up in his path. He is shown here at work on a stadium painting job and looking very much like he did during his "hobo days."

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 7.—A "hobo" is leading the undefeated Tulane university Green Wave this fall.

For that's what Jerry Dalrymple, all-America end, admits he is. And he laughs as he tells how he "grew up" from a grimy-handed and black-faced oiler on an excavating machine to the position of positions at Tulane.

Three years ago he hadn't a thought in his mind of entering college. He was bothered only by the thought of getting a job on a ship and working his way around the world when Dr. Ed McGehee discovered him working in a Hammond, La., strawberry field. He had worked his way from Little Rock, Ark., his home, to Hammond through various jobs—oiler of a machine, laborer in a box factory, night engineer in an ice plant and general all-around worker. Between towns he hitch-hiked, hoping to get to New Orleans where he wanted to catch on with some steamship.

Dalrymple's physique and sparkling youth impressed Dr. McGehee. He approached the boy with the question: "Every play football?"

"Some—all-state one year," was the indifferent reply.

It doesn't really matter what the doctor said to that, but late in September, 1927, Jerry Dalrymple, slicked up and with a new job to help along was registered as a Tulane student.

The rest is not only Tulane history, but Southern conference football history. Dalrymple developed into one of the greatest players in Tulane's three decades of football competition. He's a great end, a smashing type of player who manages to get into every play. And he's also an inspirational captain for the undefeated Green Wave.

Graham and Nocona In District Four Battle

NOCONA, Texas, Nov. 7. — A struggle for football supremacy will be re-enacted on the Graham battlefield on Armistic day between the Nocona Indians and Graham High school Steers. Last season the Indians reached the climax of their successful season in capturing the district No. 4, class B, championship when they defeated the Steers.

This Armistice day game will be an important event, meaning much to the victor, as the winner has a fine chance of participating in the playoff game Thanksgiving day.

The Steers will face one-half of the 1930 Nocona team, provided no serious injuries were received in Friday's game with Seymour. Captain Williams, center, is likely out of the game the balance of the season on account of injuries received early this year.

Indians Improve

The defeat of the Bellevue eleven last week at Bellevue by the Indians, 40 to 7, at least furnishes encouragement to Nocona, when it was estimated that about one-half of the Indians' second string was used throughout the game. These results about balance up with the Graham victory over Graford, 58 to 6.

Coach Thompson of the Indians sees substantial improvement in his men, especially in offensive, which has heretofore been rather weak. The line is stronger and the Indians are better prepared for blocking.

Steers Work Hard

GRAHAM, Texas, Nov. 7.—The Graham High school Steers have been put through their paces at a fast gait this week in preparation for their Armistice day game with the Nocona Indians.

Coaches Knieff and Deacon are taking no chances on this game and have been driving the team hard to get in shape for the game. Nocona and Graham are tied with Weatherford and Bowie for second place in the standings. The winner of this game has a good chance to get into the playoff for the district No. 4 championship. The Graham officials are preparing for a big crowd.

RECORD CLAIMED FOR HOUSTON TEAM AFTER PUNTING ONLY ONCE

HOUSTON, Nov. 7. (AP)—A record for Texas high school football teams for the least number of punts in a game was believed established by John Reagan high of Houston here Friday when the Bulldogs kicked only one time—that in the last 30 seconds of play.

As far as could be learned here, that is an all-time record in punting for state schoolboy teams. The kick was made by Marion Asbell, Reagan star, just one play before the game ended. Had the Bulldogs not punted, they would have established a national record, local football authorities stated.

So effective was the Bulldogs' offensive that they ripped the San Jacinto high eleven for a 57 to 0 victory.

Cyclones Slated Against Broncs For Group Title

Sectional Honors at Stake When Ancient Grid Rivals Battle

MEMPHIS, Texas, Nov. 7.—The grid classic of class B schools of this territory will be played Wednesday at Clarendon, when the Memphis High school Cyclones will meet their ancient pigskin rivals, the Clarendon Bronchos, for the championship of section A of district No. 1. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock and it is expected that the Hall county and Memphis supporters will be on the sidelines 100 per cent strong to encourage the Black and Gold warriors who will fight to the last ditch to keep the tradition of defeating Clarendon.

Those who witnessed the game at Clarendon last year saw a good battle, but the fight both teams showed will be nothing compared to that anticipated this year. Clarendon feels that overconfidence beat its team last year and the Donley boys are determined to have revenge in large measure. On the other hand Memphis is saying little and thinking hard. Every member of the Cyclone squad dislikes to think of giving in to the unquestionable prowess of the Broncho. With this thought in mind they are determined that the hard-riding Bronchs will taste the bitter dregs of disappointment again.

Bronchos Powerful

It is safe to say that Clarendon, led by the powerful Nichols has by far the best team in the history of the school. It is composed of nine veterans of last year's squad and the team will average 165 pounds in weight. Memphis' team is light and only four last year's men will be in the lineup.

Clarendon will go into the game Wednesday heavy favorites to down Memphis. The Cyclones realize this fact. They are going into the game with their backs to the wall, knowing that their chances to win are slim, but determined to put up the battle of their lives.

Clarendon's probable line-up follows: Watson and Benson, ends; Easterling and Behrens, tackles; Morris and Green, guards; Watters, centers; Nichols (captain), fullback; Reid and Warson, halfbacks, and Andis, quarterback.

Game Cancelled

WELLINGTON, Texas, Nov. 7.—Arrangements have been made by Coach Jim Smith for the Wellington High school Skyrockets to play the Eldorado, Okla., Tigers at Powell field here on Armistice day. The Memphis Cyclone was originally scheduled to play the Skyrockets on that date, but the game was cancelled by Memphis due to the fact that the Cyclone will meet Clarendon Broncbos in the game which will decide the championship of section A of district No. 1.

WASHINGTON LEOPARDS LOSE TO FORT WORTH

The Leopards of Booker T. Washington school found themselves outmatched Saturday afternoon when they met a much heavier team from the negro school at Fort Worth. The visitors won, 31 to 0.

Up to the fourth quarter the Leopards gave a fairly good account of themselves, holding the Fort Worth team to one touchdown, which was made in the second quarter on a 20-yard end run. In the final quarter the Leopards' defense wavered and Fort Worth scored four touchdowns in rapid succession; one on a 30-yard pass over the goal line, one on a 45-yard run off tackle, and the final two on intercepted passes.

The Leopards were kept too busy defending their own goal to make any serious scoring threat. They were unable to complete a single pass or to gain through the visitors' line, but made a few nice gains on end runs.

DEMPSEY SHOWS HOME TOWN HOW HE DOES IT

PROVO, Utah, Nov. 7. (UP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, came back home Friday night to show the "folks" he is not a has-been.

The ex-champion pummeled three opponents into various degrees of semi-consciousness in an exhibition bout before a crowd of over 2,000.

The victims were Jack Carroll, Salt Lake City heavyweight, (one round); Jack Riley, 210, Provo, (one round) and Del Baxter, Cornish, (two rounds).

Coyotes Have Little Time to Prepare for Northside Skirmish

The Vernon Thanksgiving day game looming in the offing, the Coyotes of Coach Barry Holton Monday afternoon start to work for their final non-league skirmish of the 1931 campaign. The immediate objective of the limited practice period of Monday and Tuesday afternoons will be the Armistice day skirmish here with Northside high of Fort Worth, but more important is the Turkey day classic with the Lions.

While the Coyotes are engaged in nothing more important than their final practice game, Vernon will be locked in battle at Vernon with the Quanah Indians in a game that possibly will decide the Lions' fate in the district race. With victories over Childress and Electra, Vernon must defeat Quanah to stay in the race, and then they will face the Coyotes here two weeks from Thursday in the final contest to decide the titular issue.

Pack Plays Raggedly

Coyote boosters could find little in which to enthuse in the team's victory over Gainesville here Friday, and Coach Barry Holton undoubtedly has plenty of subject material stored away for his lectures to the squad Monday afternoon. The ragged spots in the Pack's play might easily have cost the team a victory and as it happened the boys needed quite a few substantial breaks to win by a score of 26 to 19. It was a conquest that might easily have been charged to Gainesville's weakness, rather than Wichita Falls' strength, and a similar performance on the Athletic park grid Wednesday is likely to end in a far different final score.

Fort Worth's Northside crew is one of the stronger teams of the neighbor city and capable of giving the Coyotes just the kind of game they need before sailing into the Vernon gridders Thanksgiving day. At least a part of the Pack's poor work against Gainesville might be attributed to over-confidence, and the opposition of this week is not the kind to create a similar condition in the Coyote ranks. The knowledge that this Fort Worth team was good enough to hold Fort Worth Polytechnic to a scoreless tie, and the latter team beat the Coyotes in an early season game, 33 to 0, should give the Holton charges a tip on what ot expect in this week's scuffle.

Two on Ailing List

Two important cogs in the Coyote scheme sustained injuries in the Gainesville game that may weaken the battle front for the Northside encounter. Raymond Allen, left end who had turned in a neat game against Electra and had just about won a job at the wing position, went out in the first few plays Friday with a badly cut tongue. Several stitches were required and it is extremely doubtful if he will be available Wednesday.

Fullback Bob Daugherty, another who had just found his true stride in the last couple of games, was forced out Friday with a leg injury, but his status will remain uncertain until given a chance Monday to put the injured member to work.

Allen's place at end can be capably handled by any of the three other wings on the squad, but his punting is much to be desired, particularly for the more important Vernon game. Daugherty's two understudies, Shain and Hawthorne, will be available, but both lack the experience to be rated as steady hands. Hawthorne's performance in the late stages of the Gainesville game was his most impressive of the season. He carried the ball twice, once on a lateral pass, and gained substantial yardage both times.

Passing Weakness

Major attention in the Coyote camp this week probably will be given the handling of opposition punts, if forward pass defense and tackling. These were the items in which the Pack was weakest last Friday and these shortcomings made it a close football game. The Pack exhibited far greater power than the Leopards, and but for its errors would have won by a far more comfortable margin.

Four points, represented in two safeties, were the direct result of bad passes to the backfield from Jack Gentry, center. However, this little item should cause little worry in the Coyote camp as Gentry has proved an accurate passer in every game prior to that of last week, and the flaws in his work might be traced to the general letdown of the team.

Forward pass defense, though, presents the coaching staff with a problem that cannot be easily solved. The Maroon and Black has been woefully weak in this department from the start of the season, and the Leopard game indicates the boys have made little improvement. An exception Friday was Jasper McBryde, reserve halfback. In the late stages McBryde batted down every Gainesville aerial in his territory, and this Coyote may receive strong consideration as a starter this week.

Line Outplays Foe

The Coyotes' "man-for-man" pass defense prevents the possibility of a sidelines spectator establishing the responsibility of the backs when passes start sailing through the air, but judging from Gainesville's success on forwards, most of the backs were guilty of failure at one time or another.

As for the handling of opposition punts, it is possible that the Coyote mentors will experiment this week with some of the backs other than J. Z. Powell at the safety position. The little quarterback has improved immeasurably since the start of the season in every phase of his work except handling punts. It is doubtful if the Wichita Falls attack has been directed as efficiently in any game this season as last Friday and Powell has become probably the best blocker of the entire backfield. It is a certainty that he will remain at quarterback, even if another of the backs is used at the safety position. If no change is made, it is certain that J. Z. will get plenty of individual practice from now until Thanksgiving day on catching and returning punts.

The Coyote forward wall was immeasurably stronger than that of the Leopards, and it is likely to remain intact for the Northside scuffle.

FORMER CHAPLAINS TO OCCUPY PULPIT FOR AIR PROGRAM

Notre Dame President Will Deliver Sermon Sunday Afternoon

HEAD LUTHERAN SYNOD TO PREACH IN MORNING

Both Ministers Served With American Army During Great War

The broadcast religious periods of the "Church of the Air" on Sunday, Nov. 8, will include talks by Dr. Samuel G. Trexler, president of the United Lutheran synod of New York, and Dr. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the University of Notre Dame, and singing by the Notre Dame university choir of 40 voices.

Dr. Trexler will preach in the service conducted in the studio of station WABC, in New York, at 9 a. m., central standard time. His sermon topic will be "The More Excellent Way." Music will be furnished by a mixed quartet.

Dr. O'Donnell, talking from station WBBM in Chicago, will speak on "Religion in College Life." The university choir will also journey from Notre Dame to the Chicago studio especially for the broadcast. The period will begin at 1:30 p. m., central standard time.

Both the broadcasts will be transmitted over a nation-wide hookup of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

The Notre Dame choir will include in its program Palestrina's "Jerusalem Converserae"; the Gregorian chant, "Protector Noster"; and "Velum Templi," by Giovanni Croce.

Dr. Trexler, in addition to being one of the most widely known Lutheran preachers in the country, is particularly noted for his religious work at colleges. He is a trustee of Muhlenberg college, in Pennsylvania, and university preacher at Columbia university and Cornell university. In the earlier days of his religious career he organized religious work among the Lutheran students of Columbia, Cornell, Harvard and Yale. From 1920 to 1929 he was president of the synod of New York and Northeast, and for six years prior he was pastor of the Church of the Redeemer in Buffalo, N. Y. He was a chaplain with the A. E. F. in France and Germany.

Father O'Donnell, who was also a chaplain with the A. E. F., is well known as a poet. He is assistant superior general of the Congregation of Holy Cross in the United States. Prior to his election as president of Notre Dame university in 1928, he had been professor of English literature there. In 1928 the most recent of his several poetical works was published—"A Rime of the Road and Other Poems."

Jose Iturbi, Internationally Known Pianist, to Give First Broadcast With New York Philharmonic Group

Jose Iturbi, greatest pianist of this generation, who has attained outstanding success in the United States more rapidly than any other visiting artist in the present century, will make his first network broadcast with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra, under the baton of Erich Kleiber, during the concert scheduled for 2 to 4 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Nov. 8, through the nationwide WABC-Columbia chain.

Arriving in this country for the first time in October, 1929, Iturbi made his name a household word throughout America within three months. In that time he made appearances with the New York, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago symphony orchestras, and was heard in New York 10 times, including three sold-out recitals in Carnegie hall.

Born in Valencia in 1895, Iturbi studied at the conservatory in his native city, where he was hailed as a child prodigy, before removing to Barcelona to continue his studies under Joaquin Malats. He graduated from the Paris conservatoire at 17 with full honors, and when he was 24 was appointed head of the piano faculty at the Geneva conservatory—a position once held by Franz Liszt. At the end of four years his concert work allowed him no further time for teaching, and he began a series of tours which have taken him all over Europe, South America, Cuba and finally the United States.

ROXY ORCHESTRA WILL GIVE PROGRAM SUNDAY

Beginning his program with the Overture from "Tannhauser," Maurice Baron will lead the Roxy symphony orchestra in a broadcast over the WABC-Columbia network Sunday, Nov. 8, at 8 p. m., central standard time. As soloists this week, Phillip Steele, baritone, known to eastern audiences particularly through his recitals at Carnegie, Chickering and Town Halls, and David Gordon, tenor, who came to the Roxy theater in 1927 after a career of concert work both in this country and abroad, will sing Maurice Baron's special arrangement of Handel's "Largo." A choral ensemble will be used as a background for this number.

Cathedral Hour

Selected arias from the choral works of Handel, Mozart, Stainer, Mendelssohn and others, will be performed by such outstanding Columbia artists as Barbara Maurel, contralto; Adele Vasa, soprano; Theo Karle, tenor, and Crane Calder, bass, accompanied by the Columbia Symphony orchestra and the Cathedral choir, during the Cathedral hour to be broadcast on Sunday, Nov. 8, from 12 to 1 p. m., central standard time, over the WABC-Columbia network.

VISCOUNT LEE TO BROADCAST FROM LONDON

Viscount Lee of Fareham, who presented to the British government "Chequers," official country residence of the prime ministers of Great Britain, will broadcast to the United States from London at 11:30 a. m., central standard time, Sunday, Nov. 8, through the WABC-Columbia network, on "Ancient Buildings in Britain."

Entering the army after training at Woolwich, Lord Lee became professor of strategy and tactics at the Royal Military college at an early age. He organized the military survey of the Canadian frontier while still in his twenties, and served as British military attache with the United States army during the Spanish-American war, resulting in his being made an honorary member of Roosevelt's Rough Riders—the first volunteer cavalry.

For 18 years he sat in the house of commons, being responsible for much constructive legislation, and during the war he served in innumerable governmental capacities, for which he was elevated to the peerage in 1918. Among Lord Lee's many interests is the study of Britain as it was centuries ago, as revealed in the buildings and art treasures that have come down to the present day.

Bakery Changes Hands

MANGUM, Okla., Nov. 7.—Charles L. Short, who has been engaged in the real estate, insurance and loan business with Ralph Helper, mayor of Mangum, for the past several years, has purchased the Merritt Baking company here and taken charge.

Mr. Short, who is exalted ruler of the Elks, was in the bakery business at Norman before coming to Mangum.

SCENES FROM 'TEMPEST' WILL BE DRAMATIZED IN COLUMBIA CHAIN PROGRAM

Scenes from Shakespeare's "The Tempest" will be enacted during the "Romances of the Sea" program to be presented over the WABC-Columbia network from 8:30 to 9 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Nov. 8. It is believed this will be the first time "The Tempest" ever has been presented over the air.

The scenes that will be enacted have been adapted for radio by Edward Longstreth. The incidental music to be played by Charles Previn and his symphony orchestra during the program was composed for the play more than 200 years ago by H. Purcell and Doctor Arne.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT . . . . . By Robert L. Ripley

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON — The Most Stupendous Death Warrant in History: Phillipp II, who upon succeeding to the throne of Spain became ruler of the Netherlands, soon roused his Dutch subjects to determined rebellion by a policy of severe religious persecution. At the instance of the king, the holy office of inquisition, by a decree dated Madrid, Feb. 10, 1568, adjudged the entire population of the Netherlands as guilty of heresy, apostasy and defection. As a consequence the king on Feb. 26, 1568, sentenced the entire population of the Netherlands (about 3,000,000 people) to death without regard for age, sex or position. The sentence consists of three lines, and has no equal in history for ferocity and summariness. It was forwarded for execution to Jacques Hessel, procurator-general of Flanders. The original signed by the king is in the escorial in Spain, but the low countries have a rescript in Latin in the archives of Gand. The full text of the death warrant can be found in Jean Francois Le Petit's "Chronique," page 174, Vol. 2, quoted by Prescott in Vol. 2, "Rise of the Dutch Republic," and other historians. Pope Leo X: Giovanni de' Medici (1475-1521), son of Lorenzo the Magnificent of the all-powerful Medici family of Florence, received the tonsure in 1482 when he was 7 years of age. In 1483 he became the abbot of Front Douce in the French diocese of Saintes, and in 1460 Pope Innocent VIII made him a cardinal, when he was only 13 years old. On March 11, 1513, he was elected pope by the conclave, but before he was crowned he was made a presbyter, consecrated bishop and finally assumed the holy see on March 19, 1513, at the age of 38 years. Bananas at 25 Cents a Bunch: During the latter months of the summer of 1931 approximately 100,000 bunches of bananas entered the port of Baltimore every week—glutting the market. Rather than have the fruit rot in the holds of the steamers, the importing companies disposed of the cargoes to street peddlers and middlemen for little or nothing, the price usually being 25 cents per bunch. One vessel docked with a cargo, and then went back out to sea and dumped the load.

Fourteen New Locations Staked Out Completions Include Several Good Wells and Usual Number Dry Holes

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Activities throughout the various pools of the district as a result of recent hikes in crude prices, show material increases in all branches of the industry. As a direct reaction to the advance and with hope rampant among the operators that a further boost is due in a short time, 14 new locations were staked out in the different pools of the district.

In addition to a number of wells drilling, others, including many wildcats in virgin territory, are rigging up ready to commence drilling at an early date. Completions for the week included several nice wells and the usual number of dry holes.

The outstanding feature in the week's development was the bringing in of an 800-barrel well in the Chalk Hill pool, Archer county. The well is the fourth producer to be completed in this prolific area from the 2200-foot pay. Its location is about 630 feet south of the Deep Oil-Lindsay No. 1 L. F. Wilson, the original 2200-foot discovery well. Top of sand was encountered at 2196 feet, 18 feet of rich sand was penetrated, when the test blew in flowing a steady volume of oil to the top of the rig. Saturday tubing was being run and the well will be finished and allowed to flow into the tanks.

Another important development during the past week was the drilling of 18 feet of rich true oil sand in the Consolidated Oil and Primrose Refining companies' joint deep test, No. 1 S. H. Munger, in the northwest corner of block 31, W. V. F. L. subdivision in south Wichita county. The test is a wildcat located two and one-half miles southeast of the Deep Oil Development No. 1 Munger in block 30, W. V. F. L. The top of the saturated lime was picked up at 3871 feet and after drilling three feet of this formation the true sand was found. A string of 6⅝-inch pipe is being run through 100 feet of open hole to the top of the lime and cemented. Progress of this test has been watched with more than passing interest by the fraternity in this section, and a commercial producer here will be the means of extending the 3800-foot pay over a wide scope of territory undrilled to this deeper and prolific horizon.

Sunshine Hill Again

Old Sunshine Hill, a few years ago Wichita county's most active shallow pool, is again coming to the front and attracting attention of operators to the possibilities of staging a comeback, this being due to the picking up of a rich shallow sand at 880 feet in Dinges and others' No. 2 George L. Dobie (formerly H. A. Overall land) in D. L. & C. survey, abstract 711. The well, which is about one-half mile southwest of the Hill production, and south of the R. R. Clark deep production, drilled six feet in and was unable to lower the oil after a long period of bailing. Two locations have been staked out to offset the promised producer and others are expected to be made in the coming week to test out this new pay.

Operations in the Young county pools were featured by the picking up of what is known as the Tasck shallow sand in the King Royalty company's No. 29 Larimore lease in section 2246, T. E. & L. survey. This sand, which was discovered on the Tasck farm southwest of Troy townsite in section 268, T. E. & L. survey, has been one of the most productive of the shallow pays in the county, and it is the first time it has been found in the Newcastle pool proper, and its discovery on the King Royalty lease is an extension one and one-half miles to the southwest. Production in the Newcastle pool is found from 690 to 710 feet. The Tasck pay was topped at 659 and drilled to 662 feet when the well began a steady flow rated at 275 barrels.

In the same areas many new wells spudded in which had been shut down for an upward trend in prices, and the pool is expected at an early date to become once more one of the busiest spots in the district.

Pipe line runs from the district registered a total of 56,881 barrels per day, a loss of 1,977 barrels compared with the previous week's run which was 58,858 barrels daily.

Refuse Contest

The United States supreme court refused the contest by W. H. Colquitt, receiver of the estate of Mrs. M. A. Monroe Smith and others, of the decision prohibiting interference with the operation by Roxana Petroleum corporation (now Shell) of oil wells on lands of the Smith heirs in the Yates pool. Roxana filed suit in 1928 to clear its title, which it claimed was clouded by suits filed by Colquitt, seeking to set aside leases given by Mrs. Smith on the grounds that she was mentally incompetent at the time. Filed in Pecos county district court at Fort Stockton, the case was transferred to federal court at El Paso. Judgement was rendered in Roxana's favor and Colquitt appealed unsuccessfully first to the circuit court of appeals at New Orleans, then to the supreme court.

The Landreth strip in Crane and Upton counties, title to which Attorney General Allred held was established by a former judgment, is four miles long and 400 feet wide. Within less than five months in 1927 Landreth Production company drilled in 16 wells that developed daily production exceeding 450,000 barrels and caused Gulf to offset each with a well on the south on its McElroy block and a half dozen other companies to drill offsets to the strip on the north. The 16 wells up to July 31, 1931, had yielded 8,571,044 barrels. The public school fund derives one-half the royalty and Jax Cowden of San Angelo and others own the remainder of the royalty.

Gulf Production company's No. 95 McElroy in Upton county, after topping the pay at 2900 feet and flowing 12 barrels of oil in 12 hours following an increase from 2925-35 feet, drilled to 3061 feet and was shot with 320 quarts from 2901 to 3029 feet. It was completed for initial production of 87 barrels in 24 hours flowing. Location is 330 feet from the west line and 990 feet from the south line of section 195, block F, C. C. S. D. & R. G. N. G. Ry. Co. survey. George Farley and others' No. 2 Lane, between producers in the Wentz area in Upton county and in section 36, block 1, M-K-T Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 2000 feet in anhydrite. T-P No. 2-B Sherk, in section 1, block 3, M-K-T Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 790 feet in redrock.

Increases Flow

Culberson Bros. No. 1 W. D. Swann in Jones county, after topping the pay at 2539 feet, obtained an increase at 2543 feet and was completed at 2553 feet, pumping 93 barrels of oil in 16 hours. It is in I. Miley survey No. 281, north of Pope & Anderson and Julian's No. 1 Swann, which last fall extended the Noodle creek pool a mile and a half northwest.

Accumulation of gas beneath a bridge that was formed when an increase was encountered at 2265 feet blew two strings of tools out of Stanolind Oil & Gas Co.'s No. 1 Brown in Ward county and damaged the machine. The well had gauged 4,500,000 cubic feet of gas after an increase from 2,233-35 feet. It is in section 26, block B-29, public school land, one-half mile from oil production. Prairie No. 1 Archenhold in section 23, block 3, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, struck 500,000 cubic feet of gas from 2038 to 2106 feet and had drilled to 2240 in anhydrite. Eppenauer Drilling company's No. 1 Purcell, 330 feet from the southwest line and 1680 feet from the southeast line of section 17, block 34, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, was spudded during the week.

Due mainly to the restoration to production of Big Lake Oil company's No. 4-C University, which in five days and 14 hours flowed 20,424 barrels of oil from 3833 feet, the recovery of high gravity, sweet crude from the world's deepest wells, in Reagan county, increased 9,824 barrels to 131,305 barrels last week. This was the fifth consecutive week an increase was registered, the gain for the five weeks totaling 12,426 barrels. Big Lake No. 6-C University had drilled to 3386 feet in lime. After drilling out cement to 3138 feet, Texon No. 1-B University, the discovery deep well, cemented whipstock from 3090 to 3180 feet and was waiting for cement to set.

Texon No. 3-B University began rigging up to deepen from 3633 feet, where it was shut in on June 23, 1931, after producing a daily average of around 1,400 barrels of oil and 16,500,000 cubic feet of gas. Big Lake No. 5-C University was being tubed, during which operation its production dropped.

Plymouth Oil company and M. L. Benedum's No. 1 Bugg, Irion county wildcat in section 3,081, block 23, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 2000 feet in anhydrite. T-P No. 2-B Sherk, in section 1, block 3, M-K-T Ry. Co. survey, had drilled to 790 feet in redrock.

TWO NEW WELLS REPORTED WEST TEXAS SECTION

Upton and Jones Counties Credited With One New Producer Each

TOOLS BLOWN OUT WARD WELL BY GAS PRESSURE

Advanced Crude Price to Mean Many Thousands Daily to Area

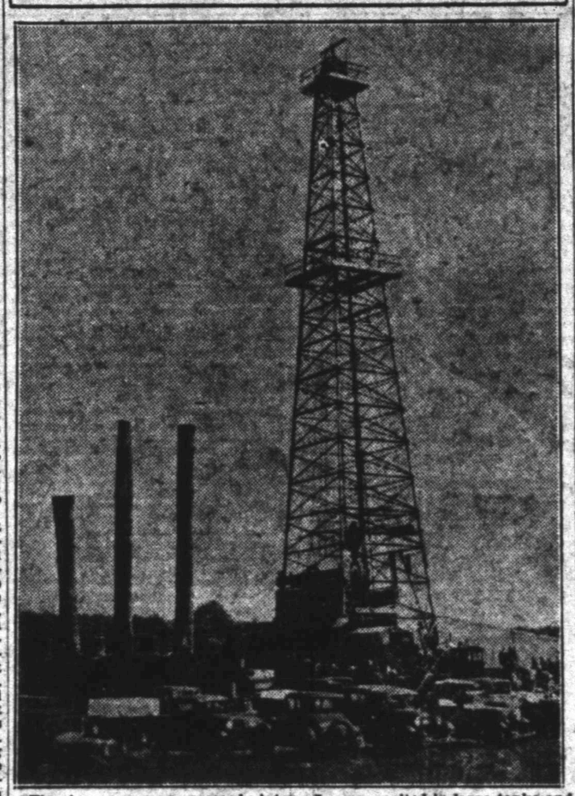

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Nov. 7.—The completion of one producer each in Upton and Jones counties and the blowing of tools out of a Ward county well by a heavy increase in gas were among this week's West Texas oil developments. Another of the world's deepest producers, in Reagan county, began preparations to deepen and an Irion county wildcat scheduled to drill in search of that same horizon changed management.

Of greater importance and more interest was the 15-cent increase Monday in the posted price of West Texas oil, most of it to a flat 50 cents a barrel; the final settlement in the United States supreme court of the first of a large number of suits involving leases and royalties in the Yates field in Pecos county, and announcement by James V. Allred, attorney general, of a definite decision not to file suit to recover for the University of Texas the famous Landreth strip in Crane and Upton counties on each side of which there was staged four years ago the greatest drilling race the Permian basin has known.

On the basis of daily average production of 300,000 barrels in West Texas, the 15-cent increase will mean 36,250 daily more to the producers and an additional $3,750 daily to royalty owners, among the larger of which are the University of Texas and the public school lands. Exceptions to the new flat price of a half dollar per barrel are the Big Lake field, which receives an average of the posted price of five of the leading purchasers in the mid-continent field, which now will be around 83 cents, and the Toborg-Tippett pool in Pecos county, where the price was advanced by Shell from 25 to 40 cents a barrel. Fifty-five wells in the Toborg-Tippett area ranging from 400 to 800 feet in depth produce a daily average of about 1,300 barrels of 19½ to 24½ gravity oil.

Fifty-cent crude will not stimulate wildcatting or revive lease and royalty selling materially—oil men say it will take 75 cents to $1 oil to do that—but it will incentive to the retention of unproven leases, will increase the profit in proven areas, which has been small, and will cause some wells to be worked over and some to be deepened.

ICEMAN HELPS DRILL WORLD'S DEEPEST

The ice man was pressed into service on a big scale when preparations were made to cement a string of casing more than a mile and a half below the surface of the ground in the Mid-Kansas and Ramsey No. 6 Preston-Culp, located in northeast quarter of section 6 township 5N-R8-west, deep oil test in the Cement field of Caddo county, Oklahoma, deepest well ever drilled in the United States.

A string of 6⅝-inch casing 9,870 feet long has been run in the hole, but operators have been unable to get circulation of mud and the cementing job is held up.

Ice was melted in large tanks and ice water pumped through a long string of casing to cool the estimated 200-degree Fahrenheit temperature at the bottom of the hole. This was necessary to prevent setting of the cement inside the hot casing before it can be pumped to the bottom of the hole.

Engineers believed the 9870-foot casing was the longest ever run in the world. The No. 6 Preston-Culp is bottomed at 10,079½ feet in a hard lime formation.

When circulation is established again, the iced mud will be pumped through the casing until the pipe is cooled enough to take the cement.

MID-CONTINENT OIL MEN SOUND NOTE OPTIMISM

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 7. (UP)—Oil leaders prepared today to go to Chicago for the annual American Petroleum Institute sessions opening there next week.

The worry caused by uncertainty and strife in the industry was forgotten for the most part. Conditions had improved during the week to such an extent that the conference was expected to result in optimistic expressions from oil men.

Revision of crude price schedules in the mid-continent to the 15 cent higher level—85 cents a barrel top for crude—was complete. Gasoline retail prices were up one cent and wholesale gasoline markets continued strong at from 4½ to 5½ cents a gallon.

Production was in line with curtailment programs. Effective today, East Texas fields went under the new order allowing 125 barrels a well a day production, a slash of 25 barrels a well a day. Gov. Ross Sterling indicated a new proration schedule would be posted soon "that would be more satisfactory" in keeping the field's production under the 400,000-barrel a day figure.

Proration methods in Oklahoma will be reviewed by the corporation commission Dec. 8. At that time the regulatory body will hear recommendations of Col. Cicero L. Murray for installing chokes on wells, permitting steady, restricted production instead of full flow production for short periods and then complete shutdown to effect the production limit. Oklahoma City operators were busy this week taking potentials of wells in the large field. As a result, yesterday's output totaled 324,750 barrels from 117 wells. The proration committee estimated potentials were dropping from 2 to 20 per cent and that gas pressure was dropping as much as 50 per cent.

Field work remained in hand. Fifteen new stakings in nine counties were reported from Oklahoma. Ten wells were completed. First reports by counties: Oklahoma, 4; Muskogee, 3; Creek, 2, and Pontotoc, Pottawatomie, Stephens, Love, Latimer and Jefferson, one each.

LEASE ACTIVITY STIMULATED IN STEPHENS AREA

DUNCAN, Okla., Nov. 7.—Renewed leasing activity in this territory indicates new drilling may be expected for Stephens county in the near future, but work in the county at the close of the week was limited to three active operations.

George Pace was drilling at 1950 feet in his No. 4 Mrs. P. S. McMasters, in the NE NW NW NE of 13-2s-8w, in the field northwest of Comanche, after logging a slight showing of gas from 800 to 814 feet and a trace of oil in sand from 1930 to 1932 feet. The test will be drilled about 100 feet deeper unless production is found above that level.

Pace's No. 11 Ode McMasters, in the NW NW NE of 13-2s-8w, is an inactive location that may be drilled later.

The Murray Petroleum corporation is shut down in blue shale at 1253 feet in its No. 1 J. N. Wilkerson, in the SE NE SE of 8-1s-5w, a wildcat 14 miles east of Duncan and near production in the Santa Fe shallow area. The well may be deepened.

H. J. Brown and the K. D. Oil company were drilling at 700 feet in their No. 2 Hightower, in the SW SW SE SE of 15-3s-5w, in the field southwest of the town of Loco.

Will H. Smith was drilling at around 300 feet in his No. 1 Ridgeway, in the NW NE SE of 17-3s-4w, a wildcat two miles south and two east of Loco, after cementing 35 feet of 12½-inch surface casing.

Snodgrass and associates were drilling in granite wash at 295 feet in their No. 1 Willetts, in the NE NE NW of 34-4n-12w, a wildcat three miles north and one east of Medicine park, in Comanche county, after logging a show of oil from 60 to 64 feet.

Ashcraft & Palmer were shut down at 450 feet in their No. 2 Pope, in the SE NW SW of 29-2n-10w, in the shallow field east of Lawton, after failing to get production in sand at 420 feet. The test will be deepened.

in southeastern Irion county drilled four feet past the bottom of tools lost over two weeks earlier at 6740 feet and was reaming in an effort to dislodge the tools. Ellis-Flanery corporation No. 1 Nutt was fishing for tools at 2670 feet in blue shale and sandy lime. Straughn and Adkins Bros. No. 1 Nutt was erecting a new mast to replace the one pulled down while trying to raise 10-inch pipe for lowering to 975 feet, the bottom.

John F. Shipley's No. 1 Monroe, Ward county wildcat, which D. M. Byrd of Dallas recently began deepening at 4549 feet, topped the Delaware lime at 4630 feet, 1975 feet below sea level, about 93 feet higher than the top of the same formation in Denver No. 1Cherokee, four miles to the southeast, but considered about normal. The Denver test was abandoned dry at 4705 feet.

Penn and Southwest's No. 1 Tubbs in west central Crane county had drilled to 2676 feet in lime, unchanged since it had another small oil show from 2445-55 feet. It is one mile northwest of the discovery well in the area. Weekly and McCurdy & Casteel's No. 1 Cowden, Ector county wildcat, had drilled to 1400 feet in redrock and planned to run 10-inch pipe soon.

NEW LOCATION TATUMS FIELD IS STAKED OUT

Only Active Operation in Area Formerly Leading South Oklahoma

EXPECT TO DRILL PLUGS NATION'S DEEPEST TEST

Love County Well Drilling In Sandy Lime at 540 Foot Depth

ARDMORE, Okla., Nov. 7.—Location has been staked for an interesting test on the north side of the Tatums field, Carter county, by Paul Turner, Duncan. The test is designated as No. 1 Carter and is located in the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of 13-1s-3w, about one-half mile north of production. Operators have completed the derrick and were moving in rotary tools preparatory to start drilling within the next week.

This is the only active operation in or near the Tatums field which formerly was one of Southern Oklahoma's most active areas.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company and Ramsey Petroleum corporation were due to start drilling out cement plugs the latter part of the past week in No. 6 Preston-Culp, in the northwest of the northeast of the northeast of 6-5n-9w, deep test in the Cement field, Caddo county. This is the deepest test for oil that has yet been sunk in the United States and is the second deepest in the world. Total depth is 10,079½ feet. Operators cemented to 6⅝-inch casing somewhere around 9000 feet. It will be tested at present record depth and may be deepened if it does not make a producer. There also have been logged several other shallower showings which will probably be tested in the event the deep production is not in evidence.

Charles Van Vleck, Oklahoma City operator, was drilling ahead below 540 feet in sandy lime after a brief shutdown in No. 1 Sheldon in the center of the northeast of the southeast of the northwest of 14-8s-2w, one and a half miles northeast of Jimtown in southwestern Love county. This is a scheduled 2500-foot test and is being drilled with a large coring machine.

R. O. Houbelt and others No. 1 John Ayers in the southeast corner of the northeast of 14-7-s-6e, five miles southeast of Kingston in Southern Marshall county, was drilling below 750 feet. Contract depth calls for 800 feet, however, in the event production is not found when that depth is reached, it will probably be carried deeper.

This test is about two and a half miles south of the J. L. Dixon and others No. 1 McDuffee in the center of the southwest of the northeast of the southwest of 3-7s-6e, which was abandoned as dry with total depth at 1115 feet in blue shale. Two showings of oil were logged in this test but neither showed sufficient production to make a commercial well.

OPTIMIST CLUB ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS IN REGARD TO SIMPSON'S LEAVING

The following resolution was adopted by the Optimist club of Wichita Falls in regular meeting Wednesday, upon learning that one of its members, Dr. Claude M. Simpson, had been transferred from the pastorate of the Floral Heights Methodist church here to a pastorate in McKinney:

"Whereas, it has come to the Optimist club of Wichita Falls, Texas, that one of its faithful members, Rev. Claude Simpson, is to leave Wichita Falls and to assume active charge of a pastorate at McKinney, Texas; and

"Whereas, Dr. Simpson has served as a faithful and loyal member of the Optimist club of this city, serving as chaplain of the club, and in many ways being of inspiring service and cheer to the members of our Optimist club, we, the members of the Wichita Falls Optimist club, in open session, hereby publicly express our deep regret at the loss of this great preacher, friend and optimist, as well as city builder. We know that the entire city will miss him as well as our club, but realizing that our loss is McKinney's gain, we wish him much success in his new pastorate, and send our congratulations to the good people of McKinney who have been so fortunate in securing his services.

"B. D. Sartin, (Rev.) S. F. Martin, Jess McLarry, committee."

SOARING PRICES BOLSTER BUSINESS SPIRITS PAST WEEK

Economists Recall Long March Back To Prosperity in 1921 Was Led by Rise in Cotton and Silver Prices

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY
United Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Soaring commodity and security prices that added theoretical millions of dollars to the purchasing power of the American public bolstered business spirits this week.

Some sections of the country benefiting from the rise in agricultural prices were sure that prosperity was on its way and celebrated accordingly. This feeling was most pronounced in the Southwest which has had its additional wheat income augmented by a sweeping advance in crude oil prices.

Economists recalled that the long march back to prosperity in 1921 was led by the advance in silver and cotton prices; some were sure this week that the recovery from the present depression would be led by silver and wheat. At any rate, a feeling of greater hopefulness spread throughout the country and many leaders were of the opinion that conditions were better than at any time since late spring.

The consuming public will shortly begin to draw upon its accumulated "Christmas club" bank deposits estimated at more than $500,000,000. Mutual savings banks in New York City alone will begin paying out next month a total of $36,579,189, slightly in excess of a year ago. Total payments by all banks last year was $632,000,000. This figure may not be exceeded this year.

Silver Recovers

These large sums, however, shrink into insignificance when compared with the sweeping advance in prices of various stocks, bonds and commodities. Appreciation in stocks and bonds from the Oct. 5 low now amounts to more than $10,000,000,000 silver in the world more than $1,000,000,000 from its February low and grains $750,000,000 from their bear market lows of October.

Most impressive is the recovery of silver which directly affects the purchasing power of half the world's population. Higher silver will allow China and other silver standard countries to purchase American cotton and wheat, which in turn will bolster prices of these articles. Already the higher grain prices have provided for the thawing out of hopelessly frozen assets of many banks in the farm belt.

In addition to removing a large part of the farmers' debts, this procedure has measurably strengthened the position of many banks throughout the area.

The federal reserve reported an increase of $63,000,000 in money circulation, accounted for by the higher prices and heavy month-end business requirements rather than by any increased hoarding on the part of the public.

Reflecting the increased confidence in banking conditions, buoyancy in commodity prices and seasonal increase in retail trade, most business indexes this week continued their seasonal upturn. These included car loadings, steel production, bank clearings and electrical power output.

Southwest Review

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 7. (UP)—Under the impetus of a sharp advance in wheat this week, business conditions assumed a firmer tone throughout the Southwest.

Rising wheat prices added nearly $45,000,000 of potential purchasing power to farmers of five southwestern states according to a survey by The United Press.

Other classes of crops, including corn, oats and barley, made nominal gains. Corn harvesting was in full swing, where several price increases were made on the local grain exchange. Picking and ginning of cotton proceeded rapidly.

A strong wheat market strengthened flour prices. Kansas City mills reported an improved demand for flour, with all classes of buyers in the market. Sales were slightly under those of last week.

Stocker and feeder shipments during October showed a 20 per cent decrease from the corresponding period of a year ago. Part of this drop was attributed to smaller available supplies. Cattle on feed in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas pastures were reported increasing.

A 15-cent increase in crude oil by most major operators in the mid-continent area and a one cent a gallon advance in gasoline this week, added many thousands of dollars to the daily revenue of oil men.

Cotton Seed Oil

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil closed unchanged to 3 points lower today on a turnover of only four contracts, equivalent to 600 barrels, scattered hedge selling offset steadiness of commodities.

Prime crude was quoted at 3¾@4c in the Southeast and the Valley and 3¾c nominal in Texas. Bleachable spot close at 4.85; Dec. 4.96; March 5.12; May 5.18. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract with closing prices as follows: Spot 4.50; Dec. 4.80; March 5.00; May 5.00.

DALLAS, Nov. 7. (AP)—Prime cottonseed unquoted. Prime cottonseed oil 3⅝@3¾c. Prime cottonseed meal, 43 per cent, $18.50. Prime cottonseed hulls $5. Linters, average mill run, ⅛@3c.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7. (AP)—The market for cottonseed oil futures was somewhat firmer today in sympathy with higher grain. Prime summer yellow oil closed unchanged at 4.60@4.70 and prime crude closed at 3.62½ to 3.75. Futures closed steady. Nov. 4.70; Dec. 4.70; Jan. 4.78; March 4.82; May 4.85.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 7. (AP)—(USDA)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit this week was featured by another 25@50c price advance on fed steers and yearlings of strictly good and choice quality. Demand, however, continued narrow for short fed steers and grassers at steady to 25c lower rates. Killing steers are selling within a wide range with Chicago securing up to $12.00 for highly finished natives while low grade westerns dropped down to $3.50. There was an improved tone to the market on she stock, several centers reporting a substantial upturn. Country outlet for stocker and feeder classes was fairly broad at values generally firm to slightly higher. The movement of yearling stockers and stock calves off western ranges continued liberal. Acreage receipts were estimated at 224,600 as compared with 263,577 last week and 210,451 a year ago.

Hog prices after sagging to new low levels for the season the fore part of the week rallied and closing values were firm to unevenly higher with maximum gains of 30@50c at some centers. Chicago had a late top of $5.20. Total offerings were around 482,400 against 531,344 last week and 479,960 the corresponding week a year ago.

Demand for fat lambs was narrow at prices steady to unevenly lower with a week ago, several of the river markets off 25@75. Mature killing classes of sheep were little changed but feeding lambs generally shared part of the decline on fat lambs. The supply, numbering around 489,900, was 72,000 short of last week but 134,500 heavier than the same week last year.

FEW POINTS DROP IN COTTON RESULT SOUTHERN SELLING

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—Cotton held fairly steady during the greater part of today's session, but eased off in the late trading under continued southern selling.

January, after advancing at 6.80, broke to 6.70 and closed at that figure with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 4 to 6 points.

The opening was steady 1 to 2 points higher, with the initial offerings quite readily absorbed by trade buying, while there was also a considerable demand through brokers with western and Wall street connections. It became more active after the call and active months worked about 5 to 6 points above yesterday's closing quotations, with December advancing to 6.73 and March to 6.95.

The advance met further realizing or liquidation which may have been promoted by the uncertainty of the showing of next Monday's government report, while brokers supposed to be acting for the cooperative interests were reported sellers here again this morning. Prices sagged off from the best during the last hour under continued southern selling and further liquidation.

The late decline was attributed largely to hedging and readjustments of the technical position, with week-end realizing accelerated by the approach of the government crop report, which is scheduled for publication at 11 o'clock Monday morning. No further private reports were issued, and there was nothing in this morning's comment to indicate any particular change of opinion as to its probable showing. The southern selling here, however, attracted some comment, following recent reports of a slight easing in the basis.

Liverpool cables said that hedge selling and liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling in that market, and reported that the recent advance in silver was stimulating business in cotton cloths with the far east. The amount of cotton remaining on shipboard at U. S. ports at the end of the week awaiting clearance was estimated at 178,000 bales against 171,000 last year.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7. (AP)—Trading in cotton was active in today's short session. While prices advanced 6 to 7 points in the first hour in sympathy with former stocks and wheat, an active spot demand and the advance in silver, they eased off 9 to 12 points in the second and final hour on hedge selling and liquidation by longs in advance of the bureau report due Monday morning at 10 o'clock New Orleans time. The average guess of members of the New York exchange was said to be 16,640,000 bales. The market closed steady with prices net unchanged to 7 points down.

Liverpool cables came in 5 to 6 penny points worse than due and bar silver was quoted at 30d. Private cables stated that there was hedge selling and selling on the improvement in sterling. Manchester cabled that the advance in silver was stimulating cloth business with the far East. First trades here showed no change to one point gain.

The market turned easier in the second hour and made new lows right at the end with December at 6.63, January at 6.71 and March at 6.85. The close was at the bottom with December and January showing net losses for the day of 3 points and March a net loss of 5 points.

Port receipts 46,420, for season 3,915,143, last season 4,004,245. Exports 56,781; for season 2,009,048; last season 2,434,045. Port stock 4,431,961, last year 3,827,168. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 143,894, last year 143,523. Spot sales at Southern markets 79,927; last year 44,189.

Liverpool Cotton

AGGRESSIVE DRIVE OF BULLS BOOSTS ALL STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. (AP)—Bull forces launched the most aggressive drive in several months in today's stock market, boosting shares 1 to more than 5 points to new highs for the autumn recovery.

Estimate of a sharp increase in steel mill output in the Youngstown area next week and indications of early acceleration of production by some of the leading automobile makers, together with firming gasoline prices, added fuel to speculative fires. The movement began in the oil shares but soon spread along a broad front.

The wheat market's stubborn resistence to the pressure of profit-taking sales and continued demand for high grade bonds gave Wall street renewed courage.

Prices generally closed near the top. American Telephone and U. S. Steel finished with net gains of around 2 points. Issues gaining 1 to more than 2 included General Motors, General Electric, American Smelting, North American, American Can, Pennsylvania, Standard Oil of N. J., Atlantic Refining, Seaboard Oil, Bethlehem Steel, American Tobacco B, Southern Pacific and New York Central.

Silver continued to advance at a slackened pace, spot bar silver at New York selling at 34⅝ cents, up ⅝ of a cent and another peak for 1931.

ENORMOUS SALES HALT SENSATIONAL UPTURNS IN WHEAT

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (AP)—Sensational aspects of European shortage of grain crops took on new scare proportions today, especially as to rye. Prices for that cereal ran up almost four cents a bushel, excited by reports that Germany had purchased all rye available in European continental grain centers, and also bought big amounts of rye from Canada. Adding to tension regarding rye was announcement that Russian rye quotations had soared in the last week 10 cents a bushel.

Enormous profit-taking sales halted runaway upturns in wheat and other grains except rye, but not until corn as well as wheat had today again outdone the season's top price record.

Rye closed stalwart, 2⅝@3⅛ cents higher than yesterday's finish, wheat unchanged to ¼ cent off, corn unchanged to ⅝c up and provisions showing 5 to 15 cents bulge.

Wheat specialties were inclined to regard developments as suggesting demand overseas for wheat, rather than forcing the rye market to abnormally high prices. Meanwhile wheat fluctuated wildly and the volume of dealings was augmented, not diminished.

Fresh incentives to wheat buyers included Liverpool reports of increased speculative purchasing abroad, and Canadian marine advices indicating a radical change in Europe's hand to mouth policy. Unwelcome rains threatened to spoil Argentine's wheat crop prospects were also a bullish factor, together with persistent drouth complaints from important wheat districts both of the United States and Canada. Nevertheless, temptation to realize week-end profits wholesale for holders kept the market finally to almost the identical level as 24 hours before.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Dec. 62⅝c, 68⅝c; March 66¼c, 72¼c; May 67⅞@67¾c, 73⅝@73⅝c; July 68@68⅛c, 74⅛@74⅝c. Corn—Dec. 44⅞@44⅝c, 48⅝c; May 49⅝@49⅝c, 54@54⅛c; July 56⅛c, offers.

PAY DAY IN COTTON PICKING TIME

Pay Day Scenes at J. D. Overbey Farm Near Iowa Park

The harvesting of one of the heaviest cotton crops in history is at its height throughout the Wichita Falls territory, and the above photos were snapped last week at the J. D. Overbey farm, five miles south of Iowa Park, just before a crew of about 75 pickers received pay envelopes totaling more than $200. Kneeling in the foreground of the lower picture are J. Y. Phillips, manager of the farm, members of his family and several visitors. Mr. Phillips estimates the yield from 421 acres of cotton will be about 250 bales, the major part of which has been harvested. Paying 50 cents per hundred pounds for picking and 35 cents for pulling, Mr. Phillips says he has had little difficulty in obtaining sufficient labor to handle the big crop.

Every Day Life of the Farmer's Wife

Well folks, we farm wives are bubbling over with enthusiasm these days because it's only about two weeks now until time to sell our turkeys, and like all women we have planned all year on what we would do with our turkey money. I don't know why but I believe all women get more pleasure out of spending money they earn themselves, and I have also noticed we will buy things with money we earn that we would not think of buying with our husband's money.

Of course we are all glad the time has arrived to dispose of our turkeys because turkeys at this time of the year are quite a responsibility. We are afraid of the coyote as well as the two-legged wolf and certainly feel relieved when they are sold. However, I know by experience that farm folks often get in too much of a hurry to sell their turkeys. It does not pay to sell poor underweight turkeys. I know some folks who get in such a hurry that they will sell the underweights at half price when they could keep them until Christmas and they would bring the highest price. In nine years out of 10 the market is better at Christmas than at Thanksgiving. Turkeys will gain rapidly in weight during the cool days of November and December. So if your turkeys are not in the best condition I think it pays to hold for the December market. And please don't be foolish enough to sell your old toms at half price, for that is one of the most foolish pieces of bunk that has ever been handed to the turkey raisers. A yearling tom when properly cooked is much superior to a young turkey. The most delicious turkey I have ever tasted was the meat from a yearling tom. So make your own Christmas dinner off of your old tom. Of course, it takes longer to cook but it is worth the extra trouble.

Another thing I hate to see farm folks do is to sell the crooked breasted turkeys at half price. Don't do it folks, can them. They won't look pretty dressed like the straight breast turkeys and they are worth more at home than you can get on the market. They will make nice dinners in February and March. A thing we farm folks can all do is can our food products when they will not bring on the market what we know they are worth, then eat them at our pleasure. We may not have many clothes or any cash but it's our fault when we don't have plenty to eat.

I always feel sorry for a farm woman who says: "Oh! I live on a farm so you know I never have a dime for anything." I live on a farm too and have all my life, but if what I earn during the year was compared with what the average city stenographer earns it would not look too bad, and I am with my family all the time and am my own boss and I don't have to wear glasses and look sour, because if I don't my employer's wife will see that I lose my job. Of course, it takes business methods and work.

You farm wives who are planning to raise turkeys next year should select your breeding stock now and don't let anyone tell you to buy the little late turkeys or the crooked breasted ones. Some people will tell you that they are just as good to raise, from but it isn't true. The little late turkey will lay in the spring but there certainly will not be so many of her eggs fertile as would have been if she had gotten her growth before cold weather, and her little ones will be weak. Neither will the eggs hatch if the tom has had sore head or roup. Always select the earliest largest young hens you can find, mate these to a vigorous young tom, 10 hens to a tom, and use ordinary common sense in handling them and you will succeed with turkeys. I know folks who wait until next spring before they start to buy their breeding turkeys, then they will buy a bunch of culls, and, of course, won't raise any, then next fall they will say: "Well I tried, but turkeys are such funny things, it takes a wizard to raise them."

I often see in this paper where some one is telling about the agricultural assets of the country. I often wonder why they don't mention turkey raising, because I think the dry land of this country is ideal for turkey raising. In fact I don't think it could be better.

Much Wheat Still Held by Farmers to Get Benefit of Price Advance—Method Of Combating Weevils Is Explained

Some farmers who stored their wheat last summer and who now want to sell it on the steadily advancing market are finding that the presence of weevils in the grain is sharply reducing the value of the grain, according to reports Saturday.

Weather conditions have been such as to cause the weevils to propagate and do considerable damage to the stored grain.

Carbon disulphide, better known as "high life" should be used to combat the weevils, County Agent G. C. McGown said Saturday.

"Simply place an open container of this poison in the bin," said Mr. McGown. "The bin must be practically air-tight for the poison fumes to be effective. The gas that the poison throws off is heavier than air and seeps down into the grain, killing the weevils."

Mr. McGown called attention to the fact that the fire hazard is greatly increased by the use of carbon disulphide.

"The gas is highly inflammable," he said, "and those who use it should take exceptional precautions. A spark from a lantern or a cigaret means a disastrous explosion and fire if it reaches the gas."

An unusually large amount of wheat is still in the hands of growers, it is reported. Many farmers, unwilling to sell at the prices which prevailed at harvest time, stored their grain, planning to use it for feed and for home consumption in the form of mush or custom-ground flour. As a result the recent advances in price will be of much more benefit to growers than would ordinarily be the case.

THOUSAND ACRES IN CANTALOUPES, PLAN FOR VALLEY

Total Pledged Already Nearly Up to Past Season's Mark

NEW VARIETY CHOSEN FOR LOCAL PLANTING

Farmers and Land Owners Urged to Sign Up as Early as Possible

One thousand acres of cantaloupes will be grown in the irrigated valley next year, if the campaign now being conducted by the Wichita Valley Growers association attains its objective.

Although the campaign has been under way only a few days, 125 acres have already been pledged. This is nearly as much as was pledged this year.

The type of cantaloupe known as the Perfecto has been chosen for next season's planting. It is somewhat similar to this season's variety, which was Hale's Best, being the yellow meated kind, but is believed to be easier to grow here and to be more marketable.

Acreage for 1932 so far signed is as follows: J. N. Sherrill, 50; C. Ernest Birk, 20; T. J. Pace, 15; Fenton Dale, 10; Gail V. Mitchell, 10; Joe W. Tyson, 10; J. M. McFall, 5; W. C. Martin, 5.

"We are trying to get an early start," G. A. Remington, manager of the water district, said Saturday. "Those who are going to plant cantaloupes ought to set aside the necessary acreage now, so that it can be given a treatment of fertilizer in advance of planting. It is also necessary in order that a sufficient supply of seed can be ordered."

Letters urging farmers to pledge acreage for cantaloupes have been sent to all persons on the district's mailing list by Mr. Remington. These letters will be followed up by personal interviews by Joe W. Tyson, so that the total acreage may be ascertained as promptly as possible.

In spite of the disappointing results of last season's cantaloupe marketing effort, there is no disposition to abandon the cantaloupe as a money crop in the valley, it is declared.

Mr. Remington's letter follows:

"Dear Sir: The Wichita Valley Growers association is now engaged in a 'sign-up' for its 1932 crop of cantaloupes, and the secretary, J. W. Tyson, informs us that he is having wonderful success in their efforts to get the growers to guarantee to raise 1,000 acres next year.

"While there are other crops that can possibly be grown here and marketed as successfully as cantaloupes, it is the thought of the growers board that this particular truck crop promises more in the way of quick returns to take the place of our forced reduction in cotton acreage than any other, and the farmer who is equipped with labor and tools to grow cotton is equally well prepared to grow cantaloupes.

"It is my understanding that it is the purpose of the association to provide a packing shed at Wichita Falls, one at Iowa Park and one at Kemp City for next year, providing sufficient cantaloupe acreage is obtained near these three points, and that seed and poison will be furnished growers at wholesale prices as needed.

"The growers association must of necessity do some experimenting in the matter of varieties and so forth as they go along, but they deserve all the support and cooperation that they can get in their efforts to find additional cash crops to be grown here in unlimited quantities and to sell at a profit for the grower.

"The development of our irrigated valley into a great producer of some high quality crop must depend almost entirely upon shipments to the large consuming centers of the North and East. The dollars that can be made to come here from a distance and circulate in and around Wichita Falls are the ones that will add materially to our prosperity. A successful irrigation district must depend upon a well established agriculture, agriculture depends on markets, and markets in turn on well organized production.

"This letter is being mailed to you as one who has the progress and development of the Wichita valley at heart to interest you in the welfare of this local cooperative organization that has for its objective the growing, grading and marketing of Wichita valley fruits and vegetables."

Boy Scout News

Doings of Scouts in Wichita Falls Area

The national office of Boy Scouts has announced an award of a trip to Alaska for three scouts to be selected from all scouts in the United States. The trip is being made so that these three boys can do carving on some Indian totem poles in Alaska. The trip is being sponsored by the department of interior and the Alaska railroad, all expenses being borne by the railroad company. The trip will occupy 19 days from Seattle, Wash., and will include several days in McKinley National park. The trip will be on a ship from Seattle to Seward, Alaska.

To enter the contest the scout must have been active in scouting for the past year and cannot be past his 18th birthday on the 15th of February, 1932. He must present a totem pole that he has made and painted, the totem pole to be uniform in size—four inches square and 36 inches long. It must be original in design and must record history of the Indians, etc. Further information can be secured from the scout office. Wichita Falls will enter three or four contestants.

Troop 16

Troop 16 had its regular parents night Tuesday with over 100 present. The meeting was conducted by Thom Cox, the junior assistant scoutmaster. Merit badges were awarded to Herbert Moller, Albert Moller, Orville Pierce, Roy Crocker, Clark Moody, Jack Gant, Billy Suddith, Russell Harr and James Beck. A second class badge was awarded to Jarrell Davis. Roy Crocker was awarded his Eagle badge. Rev. O. L. Powers made the presentation of all badges. Don Ross and several scouts of troop 12 gave a demonstration of aeroplane flying, with model planes. The moving picture, "The Scout Trail," was presented. Refreshments were served to over 120. Kenneth Erwin is scoutmaster of this troop and during the past year three boys have become Eagles.

Boys Club Talk

Sunday morning at the Boys club, on Ohio street, Karl ten Brink, a member of troop 16, and one of the boys to make the Yellowstone trip this summer, will give a talk telling of his experiences on the trip. Some time ago a scout troop was suggested for the Boys club and several signified their desire to join. G. T. Avery, a man with five years' experience as scoutmaster, has agreed to take the troop. The first meeting will be held during the coming week.

Troop One

Troop one, with Floyd Billingsly as scoutmaster, met at the Floral Heights Methodist church. Eighteen boys were present and the registration of the troop that has been hanging fire for several months was completed. George Truitt and Dr. A. F. Leach were visitors, and Dr. Leach made a talk to the boys. The troop committee will be Mr. Truitt, Marvin Smith and Dr. Leach.

Jamboree Site

The matter of the jamboree that was to have been held Nov. 20 is still unsettled as no place has been secured to hold the jamboree in. Last week R. E. Shepherd and Jas. H. Allison were appointed a committee to secure a suitable place, but nothing definite has been done yet.

Troop 14

Troop 14, with J. B. Clasell, as scoutmaster, did not have the regular troop meeting Friday night, but instead, the troop and the P.-T. A. of Carrigan school put on the moving picture, "The Scout Trail," at the Carrigan school and nearly 200 people were present. Three boys asked that they might join troop 14 after the showing of the picture. J. B. Clasell Jr. and Melvin Keply put on a demonstration of life saving. Joe Butler played several selections on the accordion. Marshall and Glenn Wharton played musical instruments during the moving picture. Bryant Creighton, one of the older Eagle scouts, gave a short history of scouting.

Postpone Banquet

At the August meeting of the scoutmasters it was decided to have a father and son banquet during national boys week which would have been the middle of November, but owing to conflicting plans of the mother and son banquet to be held at Junior college the latter part of November, the scout banquet is being postponed until anniversary week in February.

Troop 12

Troop 12 met at Grace Street Methodist church Thursday night with Don Ross as scoutmaster. Ten new boys were present, desiring to join the troop. These are some of the boys that signed slips at the Reagan Junior High school several weeks ago. The troop planned to take an overnight hike Saturday night, camping on the Wichita river. The boys will all be back in time for Sunday school and church Sunday morning.

Mothers Auxiliary

Announcements will be mailed out the latter part of the coming week for the preliminary meeting of the Mothers auxiliary. Great interest is being shown in this organization.

Troop 15

Troop 15 met in regular session at Highland Heights Christian church with Jack Rudy as scoutmaster. Owing to the revival upstairs only a short session was held and the boys went to church in a body. An afternoon hike to be held Sunday afternoon to the river was decided upon. Wednesday night following the prayer meeting service the scout picture, "The Scout Trail," will be presented for the entire church membership. Bernard Baxter was out Friday night and will in the future assist Jack Rudy with the troop. Herbert Bulkley, an old time member of the troop, was back and assured the fellows he will be regular in attendance from now on. Herbert only has a few merit badges to get to complete his Eagle scout work.

Scouts in Parade

All the scouts in the city have been notified to report to scout office, 30 minutes before the time set for the Armistice day parade, and to watch the papers for the time for the parade to start. Each troop should see that their American flag is brought to scout headquarters to be in the parade.

Troop Eight

Troop eight spent last Friday night at Weeks park and camp was not broken up until late Saturday afternoon. C. E. Rhoads, the scoutmaster, has announced that this troop will take another overnight hike in the near future. Bill Morton, the assistant scoutmaster, was in charge of the troop meeting Friday night, as Mr. Rhoads was called out of the city. Several new boys are studying to pass tests and join troop eight.

Winter Camp

Winter camp will be held this year from Dec. 28 until Jan. 1, and the cost will be $3.75 per boy. One night will be devoted to the Order of the Tong, and each boy will have an opportunity to join. Hikes will be made each day. Camp fires around the open fire place will be part of the evening's program. As only 40 boys can be accommodated, the first 40 boys to sign up will be the lucky ones.

Troop 20

Troop 20 meeting at First Presbyterian church, South, has a new scoutmaster, A. B. Lupher, an employe of the city engineering department. The new scoutmaster met with the troop for the first time Friday night and had six boys present. Patrol leaders will be appointed within the next few weeks and tests will be passed and several will be up before the next board of review.

Christmas Toys

As is the custom of the Wichita Falls scouts, toys will be gathered and repaired for the community Christmas tree. Appeal for broken toys will be made within the next 10 days and boys will start to work on them at once.

REALTORS POST $50 REWARD TO CHECK THIEVES

The Wichita Falls Real Estate board is offering a reward of $50 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one robbing or damaging vacant houses in this city, or committing any sort of vandalism around such properties, it was announced Saturday by President Roscoe Staton. The reward was authorized by the board of directors at a meeting Friday.

Members of the board estimate that at least $10,000 damage has been caused by junk thieves in the last year. One real estate man had five houses looted in one part of town, the vandals carrying off bath tubs, sinks and all other plumbing fixtures.

The board will have large reward posters printed and these will be distributed among its members to be put up around vacant houses. Cooperation of city and county officers is asked by the board.

EQUIPMENT PLANT HERE MAKES MANY UNUSUAL ARTICLES

Of the many interesting establishments about Wichita Falls, a representative of The Times is privileged to tell what he saw on a brief visit to one of the active manufacturing plants in the city.

How many of our people are aware that there is a plant in our midst making metal filing boxes, R. F. D. mail boxes, auto creepers, battery box holders, battery water bottle holders, tanks, metal racks for supply houses and that they are equipped to make steel office furniture? The Equipment Manufacturing company out on the Henrietta road is putting all of these items on the market and finding it difficult to supply the demand on some of the newer ones. F. J. Omo, president and general manager, says business is good and has been on the upward swing for several weeks.

The Equipment Manufacturing company enjoys another advantage. Freight rates on less than car load lots are 75 per cent less than prevailing rates from eastern manufacturing points. Predecessors of the Equipment Manufacturing company have always manufactured tanks and other oil and filling station equipment and have only recently begun making some of the specialties as enumerated. They have found a better market than anticipated and are pushed to supply the demand for some of the articles.

LARGE CROWDS ATTEND SLIPPERLAND'S STYLE SHOW HERE PAST WEEK

Large crowds attended the style show staged by Slipperland Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Living models displayed shoes, hose, millinery, frocks and coats and for the first time in Wichita Falls the Gaytee silhouette was exhibited. This Gaytee is an overshoe that has no snaps or fasteners and is said to be as light as a feather.

The style show was arranged by Joe Max, owner of Slipperland, and he was assisted by M. L. Puckett, a representative of the United States Rubber company.

REMOVAL SALE OPENING AT MONTGOMERY WARD IS BIG SUCCESS SATURDAY

Montgomery Ward & Co. were forced to allow only a part of the waiting crowd into their store each 30 minutes when a record rush attended the opening of the firm's big removal sale here on Ninth street between Scott and Indiana avenues.

There were many times during the day when long queues of shoppers stood in line outside the entrance waiting for enough people to come out to make room for another group of buyers.

New Simplified Version of Bible Presents Easily-Read Narrative Of Both Old and New Testaments

CHICAGO, Nov. 7. (UP)—A simplified version of the Bible, written in simple, vigorous English, has been completed by Prof. Edgar J. Goodspeed and J. M. Powis Smith at the University of Chicago.

The first translation of its kind, the book presents an easily read narrative of both the old and New Testaments.

In recording the birth of Christ, the professor wrote as follows:

"There were some shepherds in that neighborhood keeping watch through the night over their flocks in the open fields. And an angel of the Lord stood by them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were terribly frightened. The angel said to them:

"Do not be frightened, for I bring you good news of a great joy that is to be felt by all the people, for today, in the town of David, a savior for you has been born, who is your Messiah and Lord. And this will prove it to you: You will find a baby wrapped and lying in a manger."

Modern Proverbs

Proverbs in the new book are presented as modern epigrams. For instance:

"All the ways of a man are pure in his own eyes; but the Lord weighs the motives."

"He who shuts his eyes is hatching some crooked scheme; he who tightens his lips concocts some mischief."

The authors found that a more complete knowledge of Hebrew than was possible in earlier centuries brought about a thorough change in meaning in some passages. An example is Isiah 1:18. The King James version has it thus:

"Come now and let us reason together, said the Lord, though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they shall be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

The modern version of the same passage says:

"'Come now and let us reason together,' said the Lord. "If your sins be like scarlet, can they become white as snow? If they be red like crimson, can they become like wool?"

Physically, too, the new Bible will be unlike the old. It will be printed like a modern book, with open pages and full use of quotation marks.

VICTIMS OF WRECK AT CHILLICOTHE IMPROVING

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 7.—William Crawford, who suffered a fractured skull, and Curtis Gentry who was badly cut and bruised, when the car in which they were returning from Vernon, struck a lamp post in the street intersection at Chillicothe, about 2 o'clock Thursday morning, are improving slowly. Crawford's injuries were at first reported fatal, but an operation performed at the Quanah hospital after the accident was successful and unless complications set up he will recover, attendants state. Gentry was believed to be internally injured but later developments show otherwise.

CHILLICOTHE F. F. A. CHOSEN TO ENTER NATIONAL CONTEST

QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 7.—The Chillicothe chapter of the Future Farmers of America has been selected by J. B. Rutland, state supervisor and state supervisor of the Texas association, to enter the national contest held by the American Farming Publication, Inc., Chicago, Illinois.

Each state is allowed to enter only three chapters in the national contest, and the Hardeman county team is one of the three, indicating it is one of the outstanding chapters of the state.

This chapter has been organized only one year, and is under the direction of W. M. Courley, vocational teacher Chillicothe schools. While it is quite unlikely that such a young organization could win in the national contest, the local members are hoping they will be among the four to receive cash prizes. The first prize is $400, second $300, third $200 and fourth $100. The chapters are scored on the following points.

Home project work; community work, such as culling poultry flocks; leadership activities, such as assisting in poultry shows, fairs and exhibits; earning and saving; holding meetings and ability to preside at meetings; scholarship, agriculture but in all other subjects, and recreation.

OKLAHOMA CITY MAN HELD ON ARCHER CITY CHARGE

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Nov. 7.—J. O. Johnson, alias J. O. Bell, was arrested here on a complaint filed with County Attorney Edwin Weldon, charging him with swindling by check, of less than $50. AIR SERVICE TO BRING HOUSTON CLOSE TUESDAY

The Amarillo-Fort Worth line of American airways will be extended Tuesday to Houston, according to J. Glen Groves, local representative here for the airways company. Nov. 1 American airways placed Fokker super universal planes on the Houston line, duplicating the equipment in service on this line.

Only minor revisions will be made in the arrivals and departures of the planes north of Fort Worth, the planes to and from Amarillo going through Fort Worth and Dallas. Leaving Wichita Falls at 1:39 p. m. the plane will arrive in Houston at 5:54 p. m. that evening and its companion plane will leave Houston at 8:15 a. m., arriving in Wichita Falls at 12:13 p. m. and in Amarillo at 2:24 p. m.

"The extension of the Wichita Falls-Amarillo line to South Texas will make the gulf accessible to week-end vacationists from Wichita Falls," Mr. Groves said. "The plane will connect southbound with the afternoon plane from Dallas and Fort Worth to San Antonio and the morning plane from the Alamo city will reach Fort Worth at the same time as the northbound plane from Houston."
