GOVERNMENT CHILE OVERTHROWN

Senate Delays Enactment of Billion Dollar Revenue Bill

REPUBLICAN LEADER OBJECTS TO ACTION ON MEASURE UNTIL OPPORTUNITY HAD FOR DEBATE

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—The billion dollar revenue bill to balance the budget sped to the threshold of congressional completion today as the house adopted the compromise measure with a shout of "ayes."

A few minutes later the senate gave unanimous consent for consideration beginning Monday noon and leaders of both parties confidently predicted the gigantic tax raising legislation would be in the hands of President Hoover by Monday night.

The bi-partisan drive to put the government on a paying basis by next year continued with accelerated momentum. The senate voted approval of a 10 per cent salary cut on federal civilian salaries of over $1,000 after repeatedly voting down efforts to make the exemption larger.

Watson Halts Action

There were demands for immediate action on the Democratic side as the conference report on the tax bill reached the senate early in the afternoon. Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, however, said he had been informed of objections against the bill calling for debate. He was given unanimous consent for consideration on Monday.

A fight is in prospect against the modification made by the senate and house conferees in the power company tax of 3 per cent. This levy was changed in conference to apply to consumers of electrical energy instead of upon the gross receipts of the power companies.

"Every practical man in this chamber knows the senate is going to approve this bill and let us do it now," asserted Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona.

Predict Approval Monday

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, also urged immediate action and when consideration was put over both Senators Watson and Harrison of Mississippi, the Democratic tax leader, predicted senate approval on Monday.

The treasury's official estimate of the yield as submitted to the house by Acting Chairman Crisp of the ways and means committee was placed at $1,118,500,000 which with the expected savings through the economy measure and cuts in supply bills totaling $350,000,000 is expected to meet the expected deficit of nearly $1,500,000,000.

Representative Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic leader, who was a conferee, explained to the house he withheld his name from the report because of the lumber and copper tariffs inserted by the senate.

He charged the lumber tariff was an "embargo" and declared "this bill, designed to raise revenue and balance the budget, has resolved itself into a second Hawley-Smoot tariff bill."

STERLING OUTLINES PLATFORM ON WHICH HE SEEKS ELECTION

Points to Balanced Budget Of State as Campaign Argument

REFERS TO LOSS OF BIG PERSONAL FORTUNE

Asks Cooperation in Continuance of Responsible Government

AUSTIN, June 4. (INS)—Asking cooperation of Texans for "continuation of responsible and honest government," Gov. Ross Sterling today outlined the platform on which he will stand for re-election, emphasizing the statement that while the national government has labored for months to balance the budget, Texas has accomplished that aim.

"This administration," he said, "met a deficit of $4,448,220. It was estimated this deficit would be $11,390,000 by Aug. 31, 1933. I vetoed $4,621,397 of appropriations and approved enough new sales tax measures to lower the deficit to a negligible sum."

The governor made reference to the fact his personal fortune, once reputedly in the millions, had dwindled during his governorship.

"The people of the state generally know that I have suffered large financial losses since I have been in public office but that is a personal matter, and does not affect them. I make no appeal for sympathy. In truth, I have plenty of company—so much company that if all those who have lost money in the past two years were to vote for me, I would be elected by the largest majority ever a candidate received."

Cites Record

The governor said his platform consisted solely of his record. Aside from budget balancing, cited in that record were:

Enforcement of oil and gas conservation laws which "have increased revenues from gross production tax by several million dollars and saved an industry from chaos and disaster;" enactment of the Sabine river bed bill which is hoped to bring millions to the state; the constitution amendment to exempt homesteads from taxation; establishment of the child welfare bureau; discovery of abuses in the fee system "saving the state hundreds of thousands of dollars every year"; discovery of oil thievery in East Texas; cooperation in the survey to make government more efficient; improvement in the state prison system; humane use of the pardoning power; regulation of trucks; and attempts to aid the farmer.

The governor reiterated his opposition to counties paying for road construction, and said he was definitely opposed to voting of bonds for any purpose at this time.

The governor did not name the day or place he would open his campaign. However he said it probably would be somewhere in East Texas, naming Marshall and Longview, and possibly next week.

PROPOSE DISTRIBUTION OF WHEAT FOR RELIEF

WASHINGTON, June 4. (UP)—Distribution of an additional 50,000,000 bushels of stabilization wheat by the Red Cross for the relief of distress throughout the country would be authorized by a joint resolution introduced today by Senator McNary, Republican, Oregon.

Farm board wheat totaling 40,000,000 bushels already has been made available for that purpose.

Daughter Late Capitalist Seeks To Break Will

ST. LOUIS, June 4. (INS)—Mrs. Rose G. Winslow, New York writer and novelist whose pen name is Jane Burr today had filed suit in the circuit court here to set aside the will of her father, Leopold M. Guggenheim, capitalist, who died here Sept. 3, last. His estate is said to be worth $1,000,000.

In her petition, Mrs. Winslow alleges that Guggenheim at the time the will was made was not of sound and disposing mind and memory, was incapable of handling his own affairs, and was influenced unduly by Dr. Louis K. Guggenheim, a son, and Mrs. Selma Mayer, a daughter, to have the will drawn in their favor.

Under the will Mrs. Winslow was to receive a $200 monthly income. Except for a bequest of $50 a month to a sister of the testator, Mrs. Hattie Gault of Chicago, the remainder of the income for 15 years was to be divided equally between Mrs. Mayer and Dr. Guggenheim.

More Than 400 Reported Dead Or Injured in Severe Mexican Quakes Causing Heavy Property Damage

MEXICO CITY, June 4. (AP)—More than 400 persons were reported dead or injured today as a result of severe earthquakes that shook Mexico yesterday.

Reports trickling into Mexico City over damaged communications systems said at least 300 were killed or hurt in the area about Guadalajara, with the death toll still mounting.

Thousands were found to be homeless in remote sections of the back country. Organizations of local relief commissions to speed aid to the victims was ordered by authorities. Fearing recurrence of the shocks, officials forbade indoor meetings, closing schools, saloons, churches and theaters.

A dispatch from Colima said the bodies of 17 victims had been recovered. Delayed official dispatches from Guadalajara raised the death toll in that vicinity to at least 30. Twenty or so towns were destroyed or seriously damaged.

At Zamora, Michoacan, four soldiers were killed in the collapse of a barracks. Municipal buildings at Juchitlan were wrecked and several persons were killed and injured. At Mascota about a hundred homes were destroyed and there were some deaths.

Churches built by the Spaniards, some of them 400 years old, suffered heavy damage. In some cases it was necessary to dynamite ruins in order to prevent further loss of life from tottering walls.

Franz von Papen, German military attache at Washington just before the United States entered the world war, heads the new German cabinet. Herr von Papen was recalled in 1915 on the complaint that he was concerned in the dynamiting of ammunition factories.

BERLIN, June 4.—President Paul von Hindenburg today dissolved the reichstag and charged a ministry with dictatorial powers to rejuvenate Germany politically and financially by fighting Socialism, Communism and the deadening effects of the Versailles treaty.

In a government manifesto issued by Chancellor Franz von Papen, the sensational trend of Germany new cabinet was for the first time laid bare. The cabinet declaration stated:

"At the reparations and disarmament conferences, Germany though peacefully cooperating with other nations, will demand full political equality and freedom as essential to the economic recovery of Germany and the world.'

"Former Chancellor Bruening was the first man possessed of courage to expose the situation into which Germany was plunged by the Versailles treaty, the world economic crisis and the mismanagement of parliamentary democracy.

"The German people must know that the reich's state and city finances are shattered because no fundamental reforms have been un-

Performers for Both Parties Darn Tights For Chicago Circus

By FLOYD GIBBONS
(Copy't., 1932, by Universal Service, Inc).

NEW YORK, June 4.—Hello everybody.

Just wanted to remind you boys and girls of something important.

It's that big, two-ring circus that's opening in Chicago next week.

Down in Washington—that's the circus headquarters—the old elephant—gosh, I've forgotten his age—is getting double rations of peanuts.

And that donkey—no, I'm not calling him a jackass, grandpa—is practicing the stunt of throwing a dozen riders in a row. He'll have to do it at the big show.

Those circus people, too. High and lofty tumblers like Simeon Fess, John Raskob and the rest—and don't forget the wet and dry trapeze artists—are polishing up their spangles. Getting their tights darned in important places.

Lot of political clowns getting their suits patched where hob-nailed shoes of their constituents have ripped 'em.

Bands tuning out sour notes.

And say! I'm wondering what the theme songs of those conventions are going to be this year.

Theme Songs

Looks like "Sidewalks of New York" is on the soft pedal, or so they tell me. And I just wonder whether any of you boys and girls recall what Herbert Hoover's grand entrance march was—"Onward, Christian Soldiers" or, "How Dry I Am," or was it something about a noble experiment!

No sir, I can't remember, either, which tune led him to victory.

I'm wondering about this solid mile of gold and glitter that's going to scare taxicabs and limousines in Chicago this year.

I'm thinking about the time that Teddy Roosevelt's big teeth scared everybody along Michigan avenue, back in 1912. The big Bull Moose year.

I'm thinking about the time William Jennings Bryan scared the Tammany tiger out of that sweltering circus arena in Baltimore and put over Woodrow Wilson.

I'm thinking about the time Charlie Hughes and Hi Johnson, out in California, locked horns, in 1916. Wilson coming in late with the Golden state vote. Just a college professor destined to be a war-time president.

And, about the time that Leonard Wood scared everybody in 1920. Got sidetracked by some of his own big men friends. He was a good general, that Leonard Wood. I knew him and liked him.

Then, when Cal Coolidge stole the national handclapping. And Herb Hoover settled down from his wide-world activities and copped that four-year White House act in the big circus.

Well, I just can't remember whether the music they had helped them or not.

To Be Worth Seeing

All I know is that these two circuses in Chicago are going to be worth seeing from a front seat.

There are all those Washington boys who've been getting their silk

Baering Down on News With 'Baer'

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Morning glories withered and gone.

Last month furnished a good example of how presidential candidates bloom and wither on the vine.

The month of May started with 16 prominent men mentioned favorably for the White House dining room. They were all headed for Washington like bees for Clover.

Where are they now? Back in the fire house waiting for another alarm.

We've spent years warning the front runners not to win the race before the bugle sounded. Why don't they learn something from the old-timers?

You never see one of those grizzled carpetbaggers wasting his strength smacking the kitchen linoleum.

The answer to everything is in the twin conventions out in Chicago. That's the place where the dark hoss will get the laurel wreath, the Olympian citation and the nomination.

MOVE STARTED DRAFT MORROW

Houston Man's Name to Be Filed for Governor

DALLAS, June 4. (AP)—A group of his friends announced here tonight they would "draft" Wright Morrow of Houston, former assistant attorney general, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

After a conference of about 40 men from 25 counties, Charles I. Frances of Wichita Falls said Mr. Morrow's name would be filed with the chairman of the Democratic state executive committee by "the legal number" of friends asking him to run.

While declining to commit himself definitely, Morrow, who attended the conference, indicated he probably would accept the invitation to run under certain conditions.

Francis announced another conference would be held in Dallas Monday.

Attending today's conference in addition to Francis were Roger Gillis and County Judge Roger Thurmond, both of Del Rio, Charles Duncan of Mount Pleasant, Ernest May, of Fort Worth, former assistant attorney general; D. A. Simmons of Houston; Gus Wortham of Houston, State Senator George Purl of Dallas; Judge C. M. Smithdeal of Dallas; Judge A. M. Frazier of Hillsboro, and others.

Morrow is a son of Chief Justice W. C. Morrow of the court of criminal appeals in Austin.

GODDESS ANGRY AT EFFORTS TO REMOVE LOVE TRAGEDY VICTIMS FROM VOLCANO HAWAIIANS SAY

HILO, T. H., June 4. (US)—The Hawaiian goddess of fire is angry, superstitious natives say.

A series of nine tidal waves that have struck Hilo harbor within the past 24 hours proves this they assert.

And all because forest rangers are trying to remove two victims of a love tragedy from the fiery pit of Kilauea volcano.

The bodies of Sylvester Nunes and his sweetheart, Margaret Enos, lie on a lava ledge 800 feet below the brink of the pit. She spurned him. He murdered her, threw her body into the volcano, and then leaped to his death.

Madame Pelee, the fire goddess, was pleased by Nunes' act, which followed Hawaiian traditions of love, natives say, and she would have the bodies remain where they are. She sees the work of the rangers and is displeased.

This resentment, according to Kahuna, native priest, will continue as long as an attempt is made to rescue the bodies. And if the work goes on, disaster is bound to follow.

"These tidal waves," Kahuna is quoted as saying, "were but angry manifestations of Madame Pelee, who wants to keep the bodies where they fell side by side in the pit."

This native priest is a man of great influence among the superstitious.

He says that those who venture into the crater will meet tragedy. It so happens that during the past two days there has been an increase of lava in the pit. This, the priest darkly hints, is due to the displeasure of the goddess. The tidal wave, caused by a submarine earthquake, did little damage.

But the followers of Kahuna are fearful for the future.

BONUS SEEKERS PLAN TO STAGE GIANT PARADE

Demonstration to Be Held In Washington on Date House Votes

VETERANS NOTIFIED TO LEAVE BY THURSDAY

Reports Indicate 10,000 More Now En Route To Capital

WASHINGTON, June 4. (US)—Leaders of the "bonus expeditionary force" tonight precipitated an important development in the affairs of the nearly 2,000 veterans encamped here, when they advised Chief of Police Glassford that they would not leave town Thursday.

A written statement distributed by a committee of 15, and signed by Harold Foulkrod, and W. S. Cox, Napoleons of the bonus legion, read:

"The bonus expeditionary force was organized for the sole purpose of obtaining passage of the bonus bill by congress. We have declared intention of remaining until the bonus is paid. This is still the intention of the bonus expeditionary force."

This followed an ultimatum from district authorities that the veterans must evacuate Washington by Thursday. Police warned that supplies and food for the vets are exhausted.

Meanwhile the forlorn force made plans for a demonstration at the capitol June 13 on which day the house will vote on the Patman bill which provides for immediate full payment of the soldier's bonus.

"We'll all be there," leaders of the tattered army declared. "What's more, we're going to stick here."

But the police took a different attitude and notified the veterans they will have to leave the city by next Thursday. The city will provide them with transportation for 50 miles and the men will have to WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—The bonus march on Washington was denounced today by Senator Borah as new hordes of world war veterans—riding and walking—invaded the capital hourly.

"Not a dollar for the veterans as long as they remain in Washington," the Idaho senator said emphatically.

Meanwhile, a roll call in the house June 13 was assured—unless adjournment intervenes—when the Patman petition to force a vote received the necessary 145th signature.

ENGRAVERS WORK ON NEW STAMPS

WASHINGTON, June 4. (US)—Anticipating passage of the tax bill with its provision for three-cent postage, the bureau of engraving today started turning out three-cent stamps with a vengeance.

The bureau plans to turn out 100,000,000 of the stamps every working day from now until the end of June.

There are from 3,000,000,000 to 4,000,000,000 two-cent stamps on hand, most of which will be placed in storage when three-cent postage becomes a law.

PRESIDENT OF CHILE RESIGNS MILITARY JUNTA TAKES REINS SEIZE PRESIDENTIAL PALACE

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 4. (US)—The government of President Luis Montero tonight resigned office, yielding to an ultimatum of rebel forces that invaded the capital.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 4. (AP)—A revolutionary government, headed by a military junta, was set up in Chile tonight after army supporters of Carlos Davila, former ambassador to Washington, had seized the presidential palace.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 4. (AP)—Chile's presidential palace was seized tonight by revolutionary supporters of Carlos Davila, former ambassador at Washington, in an effort to overthrow the government of President Juan Esteban Montero.

The entire Chilean air force, backed up by at least the normal support of the army and navy, took part in the revolt, which had as its aim establishment of a Socialist republic.

Although no military engagements resulted, there was bloody rioting in Boulevard Alameda, near the presidential palace, where three persons were killed and 60 wounded.

The revolutionaries, including army, air and infantry forces, planned to eject President Montero without harming him and to install Senor Davila as head of the government tonight.

Rebels Storm Palace

They stormed the palace afoot and in buses under the leadership of Col. Marmaduke Grove, commander of the air corps, at 6:30 p. m. They came from the airport at El Bosque, which had become rebel headquarters.

The capitol was undefended, a "neutral" army and Carabineers offering no resistance. The entrance of the rebels into the palace, consequently, was peaceful.

Although the leaders announced they would proclaim a Socialist republic under Senor Davila, in accordance with an ideal long held by him, some civilian leaders said it was a mere disguise for a military dictatorship, planned to fulfill threats of a complete general strike immediately, embracing every civilian activity.

The rebels twice refused to receive former President Arturo Alessandri, political opponent of President Montero, to discuss a reorganization of the cabinet which was offered them as a compromise.

Demand President Retire

They demanded President Montero retire in favor of Senor Davila. Otherwise, they said, they would fight to a finish.

The foreign diplomatic corps, considering the situation grave, met and discussed the protection of their nationals.

The nation's 18,000 military police had been mobilized to deal with the movement. The rioting in Boulevard Alameda broke out when an excited civilian fired into a group of Communists who were arguing with a policeman. Thereupon the police opened fire.

Naval aviation bases along the seacoast, including that of Quintero, near Valparaiso, joined in the revolt, while the government tried vainly to prevent further defections of neutral garrisons in Santiago, numbering 5,000 men.

Compromise Refused

Former President Alessandri was prepared to promise that Senor Davila would be minister of interior in a new cabinet, if the rebels would cooperate in the government's reorganization.

Envoys of the rebels met him at the outskirts of Santiago, however, and warned that his mission to El Bosque would be futile.

The revolutionaries, led by Carlos Davila, who retired last year as Chilean ambassador at Washington, said their purpose was to establish a government somewhat along the lines of Soviet Russia but not necessarily connected with Moscow. Their administration, they declared in a manifesto, would be anti-foreign.

Government authorities, on the other hand, announced they had definitely established that the so-called "Socialist republic" was a subterfuge to mollify the masses, thus making possible the restoration of military dictatorship.

VOTE JUNE 13 ON BONUS PAY FOR VETERANS

Petition Assures Action by House If Congress In Session

PATMAN BILL GIVEN AN ADVERSE REPORT

Majority Leader Rainey Predicts That Vote Will Be Close

WASHINGTON, June 4. (US)—Vote in the house June 13 on the soldiers' bonus bill, provided congress does not adjourn before that date was assured today when the 145th representative signed the bonus petition.

Representative Garrett, Democrat of Texas, was the 145th signer, just one second before the house recessed until Monday.

Had the pro-bonus forces failed to obtained the final 145th signature today, vote on the Patman bill would have been put off until June 27, when congress is expected to be in adjournment.

Probonus congressmen, spurred by the army of ex-service men encamped in Washington "until they give us the bonus," scurried among the house members for signatures, beseiging every member to sign.

Cheers in House

Cheers went up in the house as the bonus forces clinched their victory.

Under house rules when 145 members sign a petition demanding a vote on a pending measure, that vote is automatically obtained.

Techincally, the house votes on the question of whether to discharge a committee from further consideration of bill. Should that motion carry the bill then comes before the house for consideration and vote.

In the bonus issue—to pay immediately the $2,400,000,000 balance on the adjusted compensation certificates—the ways and means committee reported the Patman bill adversely.

A resolution then was filed calling upon the rules committee to report a special rule for consideration of the measure. The rules committee refused to act, so the 145 signatures were directed toward bringing the resolution from that committee.

That the Patman bill may be passed by the house, if adjournment does not prevent a vote, was generaly conceded. Majority Leader Rainey of Illinois, said the vote would be close.

Democratic signers outnumbered the Republicans 110 to 34. Representative Kvale of Minnesota, Farmer Laborite, signed.

ENGLAND AND ITALY TO PAY U. S. WAR DEBT

Finland, Greece, Austria, and Hungary already have signed.

Fleeting Hours Fail to Bring News Of Daring Flier En Route to Poland Carried Gas for 52-Hour Flight

(By The Associated Press)

The fleeting hours that brought a cloak of darkness over the north Atlantic last night inscribed—tentatively, at least—on the long list of missing fliers the name of Stanislaus Felix Hausner, the non-committal Newark, N. J., aviator.

Thirty-four hours after he lifted his four-year-old red monoplane from the 3,500-foot concrete runway of Floyd Bennett field, New York, the 31-year-old Polish-American was unreported either on land or sea. He had hoped to reach London in 31 hours.

In the British Isles and in France, beacons cut welcoming ribbons of light in the darkness, but at 6 p. m. (central standard time) no word had come of his whereabouts.

At Croyden airdrome, near London, a group of aviation enthusiasts waited silently beneath an overcast sky which sent down a patter of rain. The watch was duplicated at Le Bourget field in Paris and at Le Touquet, where 125 air fans inquired anxiously for word.

Meanwhile, at Newark, Mrs. Martha Hausner, the flier's attractive young bride of a year, continued the prayers for his safety she had said intermittently since she waved him a cheery farewell shortly after the take-off at 7:46 a. m. (central standard time) Friday.

He had then 525 gallons of gasoline, enough, Hausner estimated, to keep him aloft 52 hours on the lonely journey he hoped eventually would land him in Warsaw, Poland, 4,375 miles away.

FIRST EMPLOYE TO GET PENSION ATTENDS FETE

Group of 74 Old Time Rail Men Stage Dinner Here Saturday Night

Veterans of the Burlington railroad system and their wives gathered at the Wichita club Saturday night for the 11th annual reunion of the veterans association and auxiliary.

There were 74 present. The principal address was made by J. H. Allison of the Times Publishing company who stressed the importance and value of the "true brotherhood feeling" which exists between railroad men and who pledged the cooperation of the press to the rail workers in aiding them to obtain fair competition from competing industries.

John A. Bell, 81, who entered the service in 1884 and retired 10 years ago, was at the banquet and told of coming to Texas in 1873 in a prairie schooner. He was the first employe of the Denver road to secure a pension and learned of obtaining that through reading the Wichita Falls Daily Times, he said.

Program Rendered

President J. A. Byron was in charge of the banquet. Paul Hathorn arranged for the meeting and entertainment. There are now 284 members of the veterans' association with 61 women in the auxiliary. Art Davis Jr., gave a violin solo. R. E. Shepherd presented a number of old favorite songs with Mrs. Shepherd at the piano. There were several dance numbers by students of the Knickerbocker Fine Arts studio.

President Byron spoke on the need of closer cooperation. Other brief talks were made by S. A. Covington, John Pfeiffer, O. E. Maer, Chris Peterson, and G. G. Willingham.

The veterans and the length of their service for the system follows: O. E. Maer, 25 years; R. B. Stout, 27; W. F. Carter, 32; C. H. Pirtle, 24; T. F. Courtney, 30; G. N. Walker, 24; W. R. CHICAGO READY FOR PARTY CONVENTIONS shirts and high hats from Fifth avenue tailors, in New York, while they stayed in Washington.

Sam Simmermaker's stock of clothes back home in the corner store used to be good enough for them. Now they're asking Sam to send on some black string neckties and broad-brimmed hats and Prince Albert coats and boiled shirts.

They're going to put those silk hats and New York clothes in storage.

They're going to order a lot of stogies and fine-cut chewing tobacco instead of those straw-tipped cigarets or 50-cent Havana cigars they've been smoking.

And that poor little bootlegger who's been delivering everything from French wines to New Jersey applejack to their Washington homes, is going to feel another depression in business.

The Al Capone company, not incorporated, in Chicago, will have to take care of those big-time politicians.

Those circus parades we used to have, scared brewery horses.

They will make pets of brewery limousines this year. That's as much of a change as it is from broad-brimmed hats and Prince Albert coats. But what a circus!

Lots to Explain

Now listen, Aunt Maggie. Don't be angry because I'm calling these Republican and Democratic national conventions circuses.

My nephew, Jimmie, thinks a circus is serious. Serious to him and to us older people.

So this one will be serious, too.

Everybody in both rings will have a lot of things to explain.

Remember, those Democrats will have to tell us exactly what kind of a show they expect to put on in the next four years. It's got to be better than the one we have had.

And the Republicans may be asked to show a lot of things.

Somebody might ask them about the new budget. Why it goes higher and higher when home budgets are lower and lower. How the dickens Johnnie Jones is going to furnish Washington beaurocracy with four times as many dollars to spend. Especially when his income is 10 times less. Maybe gone down near zero.

That's just speculation. Your guess is as good as mine.

Expenses Mount

But there's one thing. Everybody's income has dropped, maybe the cost of running the Washington circus has gone up. Lot of people will wonder why they have to pinch and save, while the government is upping its costs.

That raise alone is more than the government used to spend.

There's something we ought to hear about when delegates from all our states get together under the big top at Chicago.

I'm going to look it over. National Broadcasting company has asked me to tell what I see. Universal Service and International News Service want me to write a piece for the papers about it every day.

So I'm going to sit in.

Won't give you boys and girls any advice about voting for the candidates. Just a yarn every day.

And—Aunt Maggie—I hope those conventions won't be a real circus.

I hope the delegates will think about the millions of hungry people who won't have grandstand seats.

I hope they thing about the veterans who might have to send their sons to war pretty soon because the army and navy are being skinned down to inadequate defense status.

Well, I just hope that one of those old-time, stogie-chewing, lean-faced and long-coated delegates gets up and spouts some of that vanishing horsesense we used to love. We will see.

WHAT ENJOYMENT

The teacher was trying to boost the sale of photographs to her class.

"Now children," she said, "just imagine how you'll enjoy looking at this photograph when you grow up. As you look at it you'll say to yourself, 'There's Jeannie, she's a nurse; there's Tom, he's a judge; and——'"

GERMAN POLICY TO UNDERGO CHANGES

dertaken, and that social insurance organizations are facing bankruptcy.

"Post-war governments in Germany weakened the morale of the people by a system of state socialism, whereby the state became a sort of charity institution increasing, instead of reducing, unemployment.

"This moral degeneration was enhanced by the class struggle against Bolshevism, which like a corroding poison threatens to destroy our moral code. There must be a showdown, which forces the building of a new Germany on the basis of the unchanging principles of Christianity.

"The government will be forced to issue in part the emergency decrees planned by former Chancellor Bruening in order to meet financial obligations in the coming weeks.

"The cabinet, it is to be understood, is independent of political parties, and is charged to fight for the spiritual and economic recovery of the nation and the regeneration of a new Germany."

The cabinet communique threatens to suppress newspapers for poisoning the public with stories of Chancellor von Papen's activities in the United States, based largely on truth-distorting allied wartime propaganda." Colonel Von Papen was expelled from the United States in 1916 for alleged participation in sabotage and espionage plots. The communique declared:

"From a patriotic standpoint, it is inconceivable that such material should be misused to diminish respect for the chancellor at home or abroad."

Moscow Worried

The decree foreshadows what Von Papen himself characterized to me as "a fundamental change in Germany's domestic policy." Behind the declaration, political clairvoyants profess to see a right-about-face by Germany—away from Soviet Russia today a triple-alliance with France and Poland.

Moscow is worried, and is urging German Communists and Socialists to unite. Where the Hitlerites will come out cannot be foretold, but Adolf Hitler and his Nazis realize full well that their best maneuver now is complete cooperation with the nonpartisan cabinet.

Meanwhile, intensive underground "sounding out" is taking place from Berlin to London, Paris and Rome. Foreign Minister Von Neurath left for London today to present his recall to King George, and to conduct important conversations there.

The new cabinet resents the unfounded report that it will install former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm as regent in the autumn, and that Von Hindenburg will resign on his 85th birthday, this Universal Service was able to deny yesterday.

Should such an improbable move take place, it would be likely to split Germany. The Bavarian press today threatened that Bavaria would reinstate Crown Prince Ruprecht should Friedrich Wilhelm take any office.

BONUS SEEKERS TO STAGE BIG PARADE

make their way home from there as best they can.

In order to back up their decision, police authorities tonight announced that all leaves of policemen for next Thursday have been cancelled.

"We do not expect any rough stuff," one of the city commissioners said. "We believe the veterans will listen to reason."

Funds Vanish

Menatime the problem of feeding and sheltering the jobless soldier army became more acute. Funds and food on hand tonight were said to be sufficient to feed the bonus brigade only a few more days with little prospect of further contributions.

Leaders of the veterans predicted that between 8,000 and 10,000 former soldiers will be on hand for the June 13 demonstration. It had been originally planned for June 8, but the date was switched today when it became a certainty the house will vote on the Patman bill June 13.

Reports from the country indicate fully 10,000 men are now en route to Washington. Hundreds of recruits poured into the city today, bringing the army on hand up to 3,000. Other groups are expected to arrive over the week-end.

Reports that 900 of their comrades had been ordered out of Cleveland today caused no great concern to those already here. They said it merely shows the men are in earnest about getting to Washington.

Veterans here today disclaimed all association with Communists. Some even offered to "run all the Communists out of town."

"If we find any Communists mingling in our ranks we will deal with them in our own way and not ask the police for any help," one of the leaders said.

Since it is certain that the house will vote on the bonus bill, a change of heart on the part of the police department is predicted. It is now possible that some means of provinding for them until after June 13 will be found.

Woman Leads Group

CHICAGO, June 4. (US)—A woman led the 625 Pacific coast "bonus army" veterans as they passed through Chicago today. The western veterans started their journey at Klamath Falls, Ore. They were greeted by the American Legion, which also supplied them with food, when they arrived at the Melrose Park yards of the Chicago & Northwestern in box cars. The Pennsylvania railroad provided the veterans with transportation across Chicago.

Clash Averted

CLEVELAND, June 4. (US)—With their ranks dwindling, 700 members of the bonus marchers army which had quartered itself in the Pennsylvania railroad yards here for the last two days left for a secret destination tonight. They are thought to be going to Pittsburgh.

Internal friction and police pressure "to move out of town" was blamed for the splitting of the ranks.

All attempts at securing freight train transportation for the men had failed and the downcast unit began marching in orderely fashion toward the outskirts of the city.

Shortly after sundown tonight leaders of the group at a mass meeting of the Ohio-Michigan marchers told them to be "ready to move at once." It was an hour later that the command to go forward was given.

Feeding the men. A problem which occupied the minds of the leaders of the marchers for the greater part of the day was finally accomplished when the Cuyahoga county veterans association donated two large cans of milk and a thousand loaves of bread to the men.

It was only after intervention of the state militia was threatened that leaders of the war veterans admitted defeat of their efforts to compel the city or the railroad officials to provide them with free transportation to Pittsburgh, the next stop on the trek to Washington. The marchers had been in virtual control of the railroad yards throughout the night. Traffic was badly disorganized, with many trains late and rerouted.

Five hundred Cleveland policemen were mobilized by Chief George Matowitz under orders to forcibly eject the veterans from the freight yards. But a situation that was fast becoming alarming was dispelled when leaders of the marchers, after a final conference with Matowitz and Safety Director Franc J. Merrickwn agreed to withdraw.

Crash Ferry Boat

NEW YORK, June 4. (US)—From all sections of the city, war veterans today converged onto Union Square where they "fell in" into march formation and started on their way to Washington. About 600 were in the city's first contingent of the "bonus army." They marched to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad ferry. A few paid the three cents fare, but the vast majority swept past the ticket takers and boarded the ferryboat in the slip.

Rally at Dallas

DALLAS, June 4. (AP)—Fiery speeches echoed through Fair park here tonight as a giant "pep" rally was held for about 1,000 world war veterans determined on "marching" to Washington to obtain cash payment of the bonus. Several thousand other persons looked on.

The claims of the veterans on the country were expounded in biting terms and communism was denounced by a series of speakers, including former State Senator E. G. Senter of Dallas, P. T. Benson of Dallas, commander of unknown soldier's post, and Matt Jure of Fort Worth.

When someone itnerrupted him with a remark interpreted as socialistic, Jure gave a merciless denunciation of communism.

"Socialists and communist and bolsheviks!" he shouted. "They're all the same to me. We don't want them in this country. This is a movement of Americans and for Americans. Red-blooded Americans. You know what I mean."

Leaders said about 1,000 veterans had concentrated in Dallas, although not that many paraded. The largest single contingent was from San Antonio, 187 men, a goat and a donkey, the last intended as a gift to Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana, champion of the bonus cause.

Practically Complete Returns From Capital Political Baseball Game 'Indicate' Republicans Have Won

WASHINGTON, June 4. (US)—On the face of practically complete returns, the Republicans won the baseball championship of the house of representatives today.

Although the score was 19 to 5, the Democrats refused to concede defeat, insisting that returns from outlying innings, if any, would change the result.

With Gene Tunney umpiring, the game was played for sweet charity before a notable gathering in American league park. The retired heavyweight champion showed all of his old time skill in ducking and sidestepping wild throws and tottering base runners.

An outstanding feature of the game was a two-handed catch of a pop fly by Rrepresentative Vinson of Georgia, for the Democrats.

Before the game, Jim Londos, who as far as Washington is concerned is the world's champion rassler, took on Nick Altrock in a burleque match. Nick was disqualified for biting Jim in the leg.

The marine band was on hand to play for the Republicans and the army band tooted and rooted for the losing Democrats.

Representives Douglas of Arizona occupied the mound for the Democrats and did very well in the opening innings. After that, however, he had no difficulty in hitting the Republicans' hats whenever he heaved one anywhere near the plate.

Representitive Carter of Wyoming did the hurling for the Republicans and got off to a bad start, for the Democrats nicked him for five runs in the opening session. But after that he tightened up like a Pullman window and held the Democrats scoreless for the rest of the game.

Vice President Curtis was on hand to head the Republican section, while the Democratic hosts were lead by Speaker John N. Garner.

The score by innings:

		R.	H.	E.
Republic's	000 002 97x—	18	17	Many
Democrats	500 000 000—	5	8	Plenty

GARNER TO HEAR MAYORS' APPEAL FOR UNEMPLOYED

Delegation of Seven to Call On Speaker at Capitol Tuesday

PETITION PROPOSES FIVE BILLION LOAN

Appeals to Speed Relief Continue to Deluge Congressmen

WASHINGTON, June 4. (US)—As appeals to speed unemployment relief continued to deluge congressmen today, Speaker Garner announced he would meet a delegation of seven mayors Tuesday.

Led by Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit, they will hand to the speaker, Democratic Leader Rainey of Illinois, and Republican House Leader Snell of New York, the petition adopted at the recent Detroit mayors' conference urging a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan.

The house will vote Tuesday on Speaker Garner's $2,321,000,000 unemployment relief program, including $1,221,000,000 for federal public works to employ thousands of men.

Requesting a conference with the speaker and other members of the house, Mayor Murphy telegraphed that accompanying him would be Mayor Hoan of Milwaukee, Mayor Miller of Cleveland, Mayor Curley of Boston, Mayor Walmsley of New Orleans, City Manager Welsh of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Mayor Anderson of Minneapolis.

The speaker by telegraph replied: "Telegram received. The majority and minority leaders will meet your committee in my office at 10 o'clock Tuesday. Hope we can be of service."

From Mayor Cermak and civic leaders of Chicago, members of the Illinois delegation in congress received telegrams appealing for speedy unemployment relief legislation.

A proposal was made by the Chicagoans that relief legislation be divided, with the Reconstruction Finance corporation being given authority immediately to advance loans who in turn could lend to cities for direct relief to the needy.

Colonel Knox said Chicago was about "two jumps" ahead of food riots.

DENTON MAN GIVEN 30-YEAR TERM FOR CELINA ROBBERIES

M'KINNEY, Texas, June 4. (AP)—A 30-year prison sentence was given Jack Hammett today by the jury which convicted him of robbery with firearms in connection with the looting of several stores at Celina the night of April 20.

The 22-year-old Denton man was alleged to have been one of the robbers who imprisoned Night Watchman Floyd Perkins, Mayor S. M. Francis and other citizens in a boxcar while raiding the stores.

Earlier this week Ralph Howard Alsup, another defendant in the case, was convicted on the same charge and was sentenced to 25 years imprisonment.

ANNOUNCE BIG SAVING HIDALGO INDEBTEDNESS RESULT OF AGREEMENT

EDINBURG, Texas, June 4. (INS)—A saving of $6,071,000 out of a total bonded indebtedness of more than 11 million dollars in Hidalgo county was provided for in an agreement reached today between the county commissioners court and the Hidalgo county advisory board.

The plan is in the form of a refinancing program over a 20-year period and was perfected by an advisory group composed of 46 business leaders of the county after two months work. This has been termed the most comprehensive program ever devised for a county and has been widely praised because of the fact that the advisory board is composed of members of the county's two rival political factions.

HOUSTON, June 4. (AP)—Federal prohibition agents today seized three automobiles bearing alcohol and smuggled liquors here.

Company Not to Prosecute Charge Fort Worth Man

FORT WORTH, June 4. (AP)—Elmer C. Goetz, 23, confessed safe burglar of the Stanolind Oil company for which he was a draftsman, was released on his own recognizance today.

Local officials of the company, after taking up the matter with the Tulsa office, announced they would not prosecute.

The burglary took place Tuesday night. Goetz first told police a yeggman had held him prisoner and had forced him to help open one safe. Later he confessed he was the safe-cracker and had acted impulsively in an effort to raise money for his invalid mother.

NOT DISCOURAGED OVER CONFERENCE PETROLEUM GROUP

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—Although the recent international petroleum conference here ended with out definite agreement for control and distribution of the world's oil supply, J. B. A. Kessler, associate managing director of the important Royal Dutch Shell group, today said the results, although not tangible, were constructive.

"I think you will find," eventually, "that we did not waste our time and money," he said.

While refusing to discuss details of the conference, Kessler indicated failure to reach and accord was due principally to the placing of too high a value on their production by representatives of Soviet Russia.

The Royal Dutch Shell official said the plan for world oil stabilization, which he presented to the conference at its final meeting, could not be put into effect at this time.

Democrats 'Boo' Attack on Garner On Floor House

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—A Republican assertion that Speaker Garner "is helping partisanship along by trying to run for the Democratic presidential nomination and run this house at the same time" today set off a chorus of boos from Democrats in the house.

The remark, by Representative Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, was made after he had told the house President Hoover had started the move to balance the budget. This statement was hooted by the Democrats.

When the tumult subsided, Representative Huddleston, Democrat, Oklahoma, asked Treadway if he "could not get further with things if he discussed this bill (the revenue measure) instead of partisan politics."

"Partisan politics!" Treadway shouted. "That's what's the matter with you Democrats now." He then made the Garner reference and Representative McCormack, Democrat, Massachusetts, replied:

"I am sorry the gentleman from Massachusetts saw fit to inject politics into this discussion and to use the words he did."

WOMAN PRISONER AT ABILENE RELEASED TO GO TO SICK MOTHER

FORT WORTH, June 4. (AP)—An order was issued by Federal Judge Wilson today temporarily releasing Mrs. H. S. Coleman from jail at Abilene so she may go to the bedside of her mother in Sweetwater, who is critically ill.

The court's order followed the recommendation of John Alderman, federal probation officer. She had been committed to jail after alleged violation of the terms of her probation in a liquor law case, Alderman said.

SCHOOL TEACHERS NOT TO PARADE AT CHICAGO POLITICAL CONVENTIONS

CHICAGO, June 4. (INS)—Chicago's unpaid school teachers will not parade before delegates to the forthcoming Republican and Democratic conventions. Mayor Anton J. Cermak today announced he will not issue a permit for such a procession, explaining that it could accomplish no mitigation of the teachers' troubles.

SEABURY PLEDGES LEGAL TALENTS TO CLEANUP OF CITY

Speaks at Alumni Luncheon Washington and Jefferson College

WALKER ADMINISTRATION DENOUNCED BY SPEAKER

Denies Charge He Is Motivated by Political Ambition

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 4. (US)—Before alumni and officials of Washington and Jefferson college here today, former Judge Samuel Seabury, New York investigator, dedicated his legal talents tó cleaning up crooked government in New York City. He was speaking at the alumni luncheon following commencement exercises at which he had been given a honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

New York as a whole is not rotten, Judge Seabury told the alumni.

"Because you hear the city's rotten politics," he said, "you must not conceive a wrong impression of the millions of people who live there. A real work is being undertaken in New York. We will not stop this investigation and our present job until New York City has ousted those who are degrading its government."

Verbally flaying the Walker administration, Seabuy said that on a number of occasions police had been informed of the presence of gunmen, thugs and other underworld characters at a Tammany club. When raids were conducted, he said, a police lieutenant found more than 20 men with criminal records there.

Arrested, they were all released in bail furnished by former Sheriff Tom Farley, removed from office by Governor Roosevelt, Seabury said. Later a Tammany judge freed them of criminal charges, he asserted.

Judge Seabury also took occasion, during his talk, to again deny Mayor Walker's charge that he was motivated by political ambition.

For Improving Relations

NEW YORK, June 4. (US)—Gerhead M. Dahl, chairman of the board of the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit company, received bonuses of $275,000 in the four years inclusive from 1928 to 1931 for "improving relations with the city government," it was declared today by Paul Blanshard, executive director of the city affairs committee.

These bonuses, according to Mr. Blanshard, were in addition to an annual salary of $100,000 received by Dahl in this period. This would make Dahl's total income in the four years from the company $675,000.

Blanshard, holder of one share of B. M. T. stock, appealed to other stockholders to communicate with him at city affairs committee headquarters to form a protective committee for the purpose of recovering "part of the outrageous and unjustifiable grants to Dahl on the ground that such bonuses were a waste of the stockholders' money."

Samuel Seabury was blocked by Chairman Hofstadter of the legislative investigating committee from presenting at a recent open hearing evidence concerning these bonuses and the manner in which the B. M. T. won the friendship of the city administration. Hofstadter ruled he did not consider the evidence of importance to the investigation unless Seabury could show that the money was voted to Dahl or expended by him for "an improper purpose."

WICHITA AREA BOY SCOUTS AS THEY STARTED ON SOUTH TEXAS TOUR

Nearly half a hundred Boy Scouts from this district were in San Antonio this week-end starting a 10-day tour of points of interest in Texas under the direction of Scout Executive Frank Creighton.

Each year "the chief," as he is known to all scouts and scoutmasters, conducts a tour by truck or bus, during which the boys receive a maximum return for their money. This year's 10-day trip cost each boy only $12.50 for transportation, housing and "eats."

Mr. Creighton is being assisted on the trip by Scoutmaster Charles Ross and Driver H. M. Carson of Holliday. The above picture shows the group on the lawn of the Memorial auditorium just before they took off at 8 a. m. Thursday. On the extreme left stand Mr. Creighton and J. W. Lyle. At the right is J. H. Allison. Mr. Lyle and Mr. Allison are officials of the Wichita area council.

Thursday the boys lunched in Fort Worth and camped for the night at the Cotton Palace grounds in Waco. Friday they spent in Austin, visiting the capitol, governor's mansion and old soldiers museum. They camped for the night at New Braunfels.

Bomb Sends Out Blinding Clouds of Dust From Handbag in Bank Only to Frighten Throng Saturday Patrons

LOS ANGELES, June 4. (US)—Sending out blinding clouds of smoke, a bomb, concealed in a small handbag, exploded just before noon today in the main office downtown of the Security-First National bank.

The bomb, which had been left under a desk near the bank entrance, did no damage and no one was injured. A hundred customers were in the bank at the time.

Tellers and other officials, immediately slammed shut the windows of their cages and stood guard over the money. There was no disorder among the crowd, although the smoke was so thick it was difficult to see across the room.

Police chemist and bomb experts began a study of the torn fragments of the bag in which the bomb had been hidden. They said it was an ingeniously constructed affair, with a clock, elaborate wiring and other apparatus to set it off at the exact moment.

Search was also started for a man carrying a small bag who was seen on the second floor of the building shortly before the bomb went off.

Special Officer Leahey, who recently captured Chester Palmer when the latter entered the same bank armed with sticks of dynamite, heard a hissing noise. He observed the bag with smoke beginning to pour out and attempted to extinguish it by pouring on sand from two large urns standing nearby.

Night Air Ride Over Wichita Falls Given News Hounds by Pilot Here To Entertain Folks at Circus Sunday

By GREGORY EWING

And what a night and what a ride!

Airplane rides, any one whatsoever, aren't even in the running with a single ride at night over Wichita Falls.

Lights to the right and to the left and then in front and in the rear! In fact, lights everywhere—starlights and lights from motor exhausts and lights from the city. Lights that bewilder and fascinate. And then certain lights that completely draw attention; Great, big brilliant lights! Little lights that are similar to the customary fireflies. And red lights of once gigantic signs.

And for the person who isn't so certain—a ride in the tri-motored Ford from the Dallas Aviation school and piloted by R. L. Lowry brings out everything big and mystic and subtle in Wichita Falls.

Never was there quite anything like it—never will anything quite compare with it.

Only one word can describe it—stupendous.

You see, Fulcher Armstrong, manager of Municipal airport, threw a party Saturday night. He didn't stick around to really superintend the affair, but he had a perfect party, he was entirely for newspaper people.

And among those who attended Manager Armstrong's premier were Miss Margaret Fleming, Gregory Ewing and Louis T. Hamlett of the Daily Times, Tom Truly of the Record News, Pilot Lowry, Chief Mechanic B. S. Ladd, Charlie Johnson and Fred Harmon. After the party was over Sheriff Perry Browning and Deputy Pat Allen came in to do a "check-up."

Incidentally, Messers. Ladd, Johnson and Harmon are also of the Dallas Aviation school. And the four of them are here to take part in the air circus promoted by Manager Armstrong and the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce as a proper conclusion to "Aviation Week" in Wichita Falls.

Now about the flight—everyone knows Wichita Falls in the daytime. There's the proper Texas hospitality and the Country Club estates and Frank Kell and Walter D. Cline and Westmoreland pool and famous buildings and the ex-Spudder park and many things. But to see Wichita Falls from the air makes one thrill with pride (and wonder what this and that may be).

The take-off is a wee sma' bit uncertain for the riders, but for the pilot its merely the beginning of another ride. It seems miles across the field, but once in the air all things are as nothing. Now the plane is "sky high." And then every local rural starts looking for the places that are known. Eighth street is really a show—and the Hamilton building and Mr. Stewart's Majestic theater and the Staley building and a "red cross" effect about four blocks from the town center.

The pilot banks—and someone takes a deep breath. Mechanic Ladd murmurs, "Winds 'em up, doesn't he?" And then some one else tries to answer.

As it banks, a local newshound takes advantage of an accommodating airman and peers through the opposite window (or whatever it is).

And then someone mentions that the cars below can "only be seen by the glow of the lights."

But before any one can clear up the comment concerning automobile lights, the mammoth ship has been headed back to Mr. Armstrong's landing field.

Pilot Lowry—who's a darned good pilot with 5,000 hours flying to his credit—started whipping the plane around for the landing. The young lady gasped. A strangled voice burst out with "a motor has cut."

And then the ship was down, landed perfectly on the 'port carpet.

Now everyone trusted that pilot and knew he was good, but 5,000 hours of night the dark night made all of Mr. Armstrong's guests quite happy that ground was underfoot.

And if you don't happen to know it—Pilot Lowry is to take passengers over Wichita Falls at once cent a pound all during the day Sunday and then again Sunday night.

See you at the airport!

LOOTING OF HOMES ADDS TO PROBLEM IN OKLAHOMA CITY

Special Police Guard Camp In Abandoned City Of Jobless

EIGHT KNOWN DROWNED TWO OTHERS MISSING

Property Damage Estimated At $1,500,000 In Three Cities

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 4. (AP)—The looting of deserted homes was added to the Oklahoma City's grave flood relief problem tonight as the state counted eight known dead from treacherous waters.

Special police were on guard at water-logged community camp abandoned city of the jobless here. Regular patrols watched over devasted districts following reports of thievery.

In Oklahoma City, where six died, two persons remained unaccounted for tonight, more than 40 hours after the flood first struck. Twenty-three were in hospitals and hundreds still milled about downtown dormitories, awaiting completion of plans for a tent city at a former airport or the possibility of a return to their homes.

Adj. Gen. Charles F. Barrett, who still had a dozen national guardsmen on duty, anticipated arrival of 150 army tents by early next week. A plea for hundreds of cots, tents and blankets for use at a relief camp was made to 8th corps army headquarters today by Governor Murray.

Few Return Home

Twenty-five families were sent back to their homes when it was learned conditions in certain sections, including community camp, were not as acute as at first was believed. Others planned to return tomorrow, when a careful survey of damage and human need is to be made by the Red Cross and American Legion. Altogether about 700 homes were abandoned by an estimated 3,000 persons.

Appeals for financial aid brought over $8,000 in voluntary contributions. The goal is $30,000.

Property damage here and in the vicinity of Seminole and Shawnee totaled an estimated $1,500,000.

Two names were added to the list of dead. They were Robert Webster, 5, who perished at a tourist camp here, and Clyde Lewis, 11, who drowned while wading in flood water near Tecumseh today.

The Webster boy's body was found in a culvert. His mother, Mrs. James B. Webster, and his sister, Ellen, 11, also drowned. The father and another son, Jimmie, were saved. They were tourists en route to relatives in Manchester, Mass.

Waters were receding in the north Canadian river and its central Oklahoma tributaries, cause of devastation and danger appeared over.

Possibility of contagious disease spurred relief workers in their attempt to move the refugees from crowded concentration buildings in the city itself.

Air Circus at Municipal Airport Sunday Afternoon Wll Be Last of 'Aviation Week' Activities Here

"Aviation Week" in Wichita Falls will close Sunday afternoon with a "miniature air circus" at the Municipal airport.

Planes from nearby cities, a tri-motored ship from Dallas, presentation of notable guests, stunt flying, a glider demonstration, parachute jumps and other pleasing attractions will be features of the air show, according to W. S. Abbott, Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce committeeman in charge.

The show will officially open when Clarence L. Hammond, 1506 Tenth, makes a "mile-high" flight over the city as the guest of Fulcher Armstrong, airport manager. Mr. Hammond was awarded the flight when he won third place in the slogan contest conducted by the chamber of commerce in connection with "Aviation Week." The slogan was "Let's use that air service."

Robert McMinn, 2107 Princeton, who won a round trip to Oklahoma City as the guest of the Reed Air Lines for winning first place in the contest, returned to Wichita Falls from Oklahoma City Saturday afternoon and will be a guest at the show as will Mrs. Bentley Nelson, 3002 Tenth, who won the second award, a round trip to Dallas as the guest of the American Airways.

Glider Displayed

A featured exhibit of "Aviation Week," held in an endeavor to further the use of the air mail and of airplanes as a method of transportation, was a new glider on display at the North Texas Furniture company store.

Among the honored guests at the show will be Miss Jean LaRene, Dallas, the only woman transport pilot in Texas, and Capt. B. F. Griffin of Randolph field at San Antonio.

A tri-motored ship, sent here through the courtesy of the Dallas Aviation school, will be a feature of the show, while other cities of Texas are to send ships. The big plane was used Saturday night for night flying over the city and will take passengers all day Sunday and Sunday night.

Five army planes from Randolph field, led by Captain Griffin, will take part in the circus. Captain Griffin's plane arrived in Wichita Falls Saturday afternoon, while the other four ships are due Sunday afternoon.

The parachute jumps, to be cancelled if weather conditions so demand, will be made by Ray Bridgers of Fort Worth. The first jump is scheduled for 5 p. m.

Miss LaRene and Mrs. Jimmie Kolp of Electra are scheduled to fly a short distance race during the show.

All Wichitans and residents of the Wichita Falls area are invited to attend the show. There will be no admission charge, and there will be free parking for all automobiles. The road from Wichita Falls to the airport will be patroled by members of the city police department in an effort to prevent all accidents.

Proof that the local observance was successful was advanced Saturday afternoon by C. E. McCutchen, general chairman in charge of "Aviation Week," who told of great air mail increases from May 29 to June 4. The gain was 38 per cent over the poundage during the same week last month, according to figures announced by O. P. Maricle, postmaster.

Throughout the last week, a corps of Junior chamber of commerce workers, led by Gus Hecht, chamber air mail crusaders chairman, have sold air mail stamps throughout the city.

President Hoover and Members of Finance Corporation Working Out Plan Relief for States and Cities

RAPIDAN, Va., June 4. (US)—President Hoover and members of the Reconstruction Finance corporation were working out here today a program to extend material relief to destitute states and municipalities.

The conference is one of the most momentous and picturesque since Ramsay MacDonald, premier of Great Britain and the president sat on a log and worked out an arrangement for the London armaments conference and the moratorium.

Today Gen. Charles E. Dawes, ambassador to Great Britain at that time, and President Hoover, sat on a log in front of the president's cottage and discussed the important questions of caring for the hundreds of thousands of unemployed through loans to the states. Other members of the Reconstruction Finance corporation were present and took part in the conferences.

They were Eugene Meyer, chairman of the corporation and governor of the federal reserve board; Jesse Jones, Harvey Couch and Wilson McCarthy, all members of the board, and Secretary of War Patrick Hurley, in charge of all river and harbor improvements, as well as Arthur Ballantyne, undersecretary of the treasury, acting for Secretary Mills who is out of Washington on leave.

One of the first things which the corporation will recommend, it was learned, is loans to the state which are sorely pressed, principally Illinois and Pennsylvania so that the loan may be utilized for unemployment relief. Illinois in particular is in need of funds. The state has been unable to market state bonds and there are, according to their senators, some 400,000 persons in Chicago alone who are on the verge of starvation.

OLNEY MERCHANTS PLAN THREE-DAY HARVEST FESTIVAL

OLNEY, Texas, June 4.—A huge three-day celebration beginning June 16 and running through the following Saturday, June 18, is being planned by the Olney Chamber of Commerce, according to W. C. Harrell, chairman of the retail trade activities.

The event is to be known as the Golden Harvest Festival, and fitting decorations and entertainment will be provided. The feature event will be a cotton style show on the night of June 16. Hundreds of women, girls and children are expected to enter. Four-H club members from practically every rural community in Young and Archer counties are expected to enter. Cash prizes will be ofefred, winners in the various age groups. A standard score card used by the Texas extension service will be used in determining the winners.

Other highlights of the program will be a baseball game each day. Loving, Westover, and Jean will play Olney in the order named. No admission charge will be made. Games of various kinds will be provided. Burro races, fat men races, pillow fights, greased pole climbing, water polo, and many other entertainment features are already assured.

Besides the regular baseball game on the final day, political candidates from all parts of Texas are expected to appear in defense of their claims to office. Governor Ross Sterling, Tom Hunter, James E. Ferguson, W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, governor of Oklahoma, and R. L. Hood of Weatherford have been invited to stump for their respective places on that day. A definite lineup has not been announced, however, as replies have not come from the candidates.

Baseball fans are assured a feast of the great American pastime during the Golden Harvest Festival here, June 16, 17, and 18 as a result of complete arrangements announced today.

The strong Loving team will play Olney here on the afternoon of June 18. All the games will be played on the Olney Oil and Refinery company diamond on the Wichita Falls highway. All the games will be free.

On June 17, Westover will be Olney's opponent. Westover is leading the Red River Valley league and is undefeated by any other than the Olney team to date. On Saturday, June 18, the Jean team will play the home boys.

Fans from miles around are expected to attend the games.

A DRY LEADER QUITS

When Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the Allied Forces for Prohibition, spoke here several weeks ago, we commented upon the divergence between his views and those of other and more widely known dry leaders. That divergence is emphasized by his resignation, despite the fact that he retires in accordance with plans announced over a year ago.

Dr. Poling recognizes, as most other dry leaders do not, the great weakness of the wet movement. That weakness is that the wets are lacking in unity of both organization and purpose, and that they have no agreed plan as a substitute for prohibition. In view of that weakness, it would be far easier for the drys to defeat them at the polls now than it may be later on when they have become more cohesive. Dr. Poling is also aware that the more energetically the drys oppose the referendum plan, the more they are injuring their cause. There are countless arguments against repeal. There is not one sound argument against permitting the American people to express themselves on the subject. The more strenuously wet leaders oppose a referendum, the more do they expose themselves to the charge of being afraid to let the people speak.

In the long run, the dry cause is the worse off for the loss of such a leader as Dr. Poling.

ROOSEVELT AND WALKER

When the formal request for removal of Mayor Walker is laid before Governor Roosevelt, three courses are open to him. He can deny the request, and vindicate the mayor. He can grant it. Or he can appoint a committee to study the charges and report to him, and thus avoid some of the responsibility.

The report is rather persistent in New York that the governor is ready to remove Walker when the matter is presented to him in due form. Such a course would be fully justified, in the light of the admitted facts. It would make some bitter enemies, but it would also win many friends. Politically, it would be to the governor's advantage. He owes Walker nothing, he owes Tammany nothing. It would do more to rid his candidacy of the taint of partiality to Tammany than anything else he could do.

One might regret that any individual's official head should thus be made a political plaything. It is easy to stifle such regrets, however, when the individual is a man like Walker, who deserves the worst that may be in store for him.

PREMIER SAITO'S ASSURANCES

The protestations of Premier Saito of Japan that his country has no quarrel with Soviet Russia would carry more weight with the world if it were believed that the voice of Saito is the voice of Japan. There is a painfully large amount of evidence that he does not speak with as much authority as a premier usually does. He is in office by sufferance of Japan's military oligarchy, which has already shown that it does not respect the processes of diplomacy and that it does not intend to be bound by them.

There is far less comfort in the premier's words than the world would like to have. In a country that has surrendered to an army officers' clique, such assurances have little meaning. It will take much more than a conciliatory premier's speeches to make the world have any confidence in Japan.

THE CHURCH AND THE DEPRESSION

A great deal has been said and written about the duty and responsibility of the churches in the present depression. Some have accused the church of being partly responsible for existing conditions by failing to combat the materialistic spirit which is blamed, and by failing to provide the moral leadership which is needed. Such things are easy to say, much less easy to justify. Whatever their truth or falsity, however, there is no doubt that these times offer to the churches a special opportunity for a new leadership.

At the general assembly of the Presbyterian church at Denver last week, the committee on social relations undertook to present the opportunity for such leadership. It offered a broad program, with some features which will be criticised as Socialistic, but which as a whole points to the deeper needs of the day. These paragraphs sum up most of the program:

"Nothing is more obvious than that the present economic order is now on probation and its continued existence and justification must be found not in the wealth produced or the power gained, but in its contribution to social service and social justice. Guidance, not control, is the imperative need of the hour. Revolutions can make no headway against institutions that satisfy human needs, deal justly with all people, and derive their authority from the duly accredited government.

"It is becoming more and more apparent that unless democracy mends the distribution of wealth, maladministration of wealth will end democracy. If the present economic system is to endure, society must develop adequate measures to assure steady and full employment for capital, management and labor; it must find some way to guarantee the fruits of industry alike to the employer and the employe."

There will be many to disagree with this as a program, and to disagree with the idea that a church organization should deal with such matters. There will be many others who, while approving the program and the action of the church in promulgating it, will have their doubts as to the ability of any religious body to accomplish anything. It must be recognized, however, as a challenging move and as a rightly aimed one. It recognizes the fact that some remodeling of the economic structure is needed and that some present parts of it must be scrapped, and it asserts that the church must have a share in the tasks thus presented.

The committee's report that the question of compulsory unemployment insurance be given consideration. It discussed the advisability of Presbyterian churches giving encouragement to large-scale social and economic planning, and of accepting responsibility for some of the readjustments that are needed.

Is the saving of souls the whole duty of the church? Or is there a broader duty, that times like these emphasize? The Presbyterians are asking themselves these questions. It will be interesting to see how they are answered.

THE BONUS MARCH

The action of the local American Legion post in withholding its approval of the "bonus march" of veterans to Washington is probably in line with the view of the great majority of ex-service men. It is in line also with the view of the general public, including those who are in sympathy with the effort to obtain payment in full on the adjusted service certificates. Legion posts elsewhere, it is noted, look with disfavor upon this trek to Washington, feeling that their interests at Washington are not prompted by such a demonstration.

Most of those who joined in the first expedition to Washington, and most of those now making their way there, are probably jobless, footloose veterans to whom the undertaking appeals as an adventure and as a possible means of obtaining sustenance for a few weeks. Whatever the movement might have accomplished as a demonstration for passage of the Patman bill has been nullified by the participation of Communists who view it as a safe and convenient means of furthering their own cause. The legion would lose more than it could possibly gain, by such support, and its more thoughtful members are wise in disapproving. It is a question if the "bonus march" has not destroyed the faint remaining chance of the bill's passage.

An Ohio man reports that a carrier pigeon turned loose in Canada took 10 years to find its way home. That's either a boost for Canada or a slam on Ohio.

Young Men and New Ideas

President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)
By GLENN FRANK

There is much head-shaking over the outlook for the trooping thousands of young men and young women who are being graduated from the colleges and universities of the United States this year.

They are being pitied because they must make their plunge into their careers at a time when jobs are hard to find and profitable ventures are not stacked at street corners.

I think I appreciate the immediate difficulties they will encounter as keenly as any one.

I see daily near-graduates who are seemingly before a blank wall of non-existent opportunity.

But looking ahead for the next two decades I cannot find myself pitying them so much as envying them.

For one thing, if the future at all follows the past, and we emerge from this depression, they will not be likely to face another during their active careers. For as I pointed out the other day history shows that there have been roughly one war and one depression in an active lifetime.

For a second thing, profound changes in the structure and processes of American business and industry are bound to come as we adjust ourselves to the many new factors that have come upon us in this age of science and the machine.

It seems probable that much capital structure of the old order will have to be written off the books and something of a fresh start made.

Business canot carry the dead past on its back forever as if this dead past were living assets.

And in the fresh start that will be made two things will stand boldly out:

(1) Young men.

(2) New ideas.

Our laboratories are now jammed with new ideas, new devices, new products that, for the moment, cannot be introduced into business and industry because of the extensive dislocation they would cause to the existing capital structure clogged as it is with the dead past.

Let the young men and young women being graduated this year pin their faith to new ideas and, with heads up, face the future with courage.

Harvest

I'd love to watch the binders mow,
At harvest-time, the golden grain,
But the price of wheat is so derned
low,
That it gives me an endomorphic pain.

The situation in New York seems to be that the mayor has a lot of friends, and that he's likely to need all of 'em before he's through.

When Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam flew across the Atlantic the other day, she said the main reason she did it was to show that women aren't inferior, that they can do anything that men can do.

Well, all right. Flying the Atlantic is no mean feat. But if she thinks that women can do whatever men can, let her point out a number of her sex who is able, when encountering a parking space that has room for three cars, to park in it in such a way as not to take up all the room.

Or one who, calling a friend on the phone, can bring the conversation to a close in less than eight and a half minutes.

Or one who can smoke a cigaret as if she really enjoyed it.

It's going to take more than a transatlantic flight to convince us. There are too many other tests.

As we understand the revenue bill, congress taxed everything it could think of, including the country's patience.

Opportunities

At a time of the year when many young men are graduating from colleges and deciding upon their careers, it may be helpful to discuss some of the more appealing opportunities that the world offers to young men, and particularly to graduates, just now. Advice of that nature is of more value to them, we are sure, than the salve that commencement orators put out. The choice of a career is a momentous one, and the youth just embarking on life's adventure is entitled to all the assistance and counsel that he can get.

One of the most attractive fields of endeavor for the college graduate today, and one which is comparatively ignored by them, is the oil business. This is one of the nicest businesses there is, because it is so simple. All that you have to do is lease some ground, drill a well on it, and then sell the oil to a refinery. That's all there is to it. A simple, easy business—one that any child could learn.

True, it has its disadvantages. We would not go so far as to say that the oil man's life is one continual round of pleasure. Perhaps it would be stretching things somewhat to say that. But it has always appealed to us as an attractive, care-free means of livelihood.

One beauty of it is that it imposes no strain upon the intellect like newspaper work does. If you will take note of the oil men, you know, you will find that, intellectually, they are as well off as they were the day they were born. And many of them are that well off, financially, too.

One fact that proves how attractive the oil business is may be called to the graduates' attention. That is, that nobody that goes into it ever gets out. We once asked an oil man friend of ours why this was, and he asked us in return if we had ever seen a fly pick up and leave the flypaper after once visiting it.

Selling Automobiles

Another business that has no small amount of charm is the automobile business. Its attractions are so numerous and so pronounced as to be well nigh irresistible. You just write to the manufacturer and tell him to send you some automobiles, and when they arrive you sell them. And a year or so later you go around to the folks that bought them, and sell them new ones and take the old ones in and sell them to somebody else.

It is not like the grocery business or the dry goods business, where you just sell something once. The automobile dealer gets to sell the same car three or four times, maybe. It is a childishly simple business. We don't mean by that the people engaged in it are childishly simple. That isn't exactly what we intended to say.

The young man just starting down life's road will find it easy to get into the automobile business. If he will just let it be known that he wants to acquire such a business, he will find no trouble at all in discovering some available ones, whose owners might be persuaded to part with them. He will be surprised how easy it is.

The Soft Snap

The young man who is looking for a really soft snap, however, may decide that neither the oil business nor the automobile business appeals to him, because both have their drawbacks. If he is looking for something really soft and easy, with the absolute minimum of care and toil, he should by all means enter the public utility business.

The only disadvantage it has is its tendency to make a man slothful and indifferent, because there is so little to worry about. Everything is decided for him. He doesn't need to concern himself about the rates he shall charge, for example. All around him there are city councils and legislatures and commissions to decide that matter for him.

The public utility man is a favored individual. He gets to hobnob with councilmen, legislators, even congressmen, is enabled to make all sorts of contacts that are denied to the common herd.

And it is a calling that offers variety. If a man gets weary of the electric power end of it, he can go into the gas business. When that becomes monotonous, he can buy a street car line. He is not tied down to one line of endeavor, but can visit around wherever he finds things most congenial and pleasant. He does not usually have any competition, whatever he does.

There are many other lines of activity that should appeal to the graduate. We have not space to discuss the pleasures of the hotel business, for example, or the restaurant business, or the refining business. Each of these has its own peculiar charms to the forward-looking young man. There are lots of delightful fields open to him who will look wisely and choose carefully.

Andy Mellon couldn't avoid wearing knee breeches a la the royalty. But we hope he showed his Republican principles, and reflected the [illegible] hose that had runs in them.

WILL ROGERS

GO TO THE HORSE, THOU AMERICAN!

(Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the Congressional Record. They have had some awful funny articles in there lately. As our Government Deteriotes, our humor increases. They been arguing over the taxes, and that give 'em a chance to get some original views on where they was going to get this two billion bucks that they were overdrawn. They have just appropriated and appropriated till they was so far in the red, that it dont look they will hardly get out by Xmas.

They got to get the whole thing all straightened out pretty quick, for the conventions are here right now. They have to be there and tell the Deligates what they have done for the country. Well I will be seeing a lot of you all at the shows (both of 'em). I don't want to miss anything.

Well I had a fine time here about 10 days ago. I went out with our Governor, Jimmy Rolph, and we, "We" accepted in behalf of the State of California, one of the most magnificent ranches you ever saw. It comprises about seven hundred acres. Course that don't sound so big, but that's land that is all piped and watered, and irrigated, and improved. It is the largest Arabian horse ranch in America. It has 87 head of pure breed Arabian horses, the most wonderful up to date stables and equipment you ever saw. Its a marvelous place, about 40 miles out of Los Angeles, near Pomona. It was given to the State University Department of Animal Husbandry, and will be maintained by them. It was the gift of Mr. W. K. Kellogg of Battle Creek. He has been coming out here for the winters for several years and built up this beautiful place. We had a big ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg turned over the deeds to the Governor. They are a mighty fine plain, wholesome folks, the Kelloggs. Now here is the catch in it that makes the gift so marvelous. He also give $600,000 as a fund, that the income from it would be used to keep this place up. That's where I got fooled, I went out there to the ceremony just thinking that it was an event where a man was giving away a ranch. Well I have one in California, and one in Oklahoma, both mighty little ones, but still big enough to be noticed by the tax men. Well neither one of 'em have ever made their taxes, so if either state wants another Animal Husbandry joint, why I will be more than glad to turn each state over some of the best tax infested land in both states, and I will give 'em some horses with 'em, too. They may not be Arabians, and again they may be, for you can't look at 'em and tell what kind they are.

They told us out there at this ceremony that the Arabian horse has one less vertabra in his back, and one less in his tail, and the bone from his knee down is shorter. Well if this Arabian is short of vertabra, and that is giving it a nice name. I don't know about our shin bone being shorter. If it is its because we have worn it out kicking at everything so much. We have wore out about an inch of it just kicking poor Hoover alone. Maby he did need a few, but perhaps not as many as we aimed at him. Now I think we ought to commence wearing out, not the shin bone but the keel bone, by kicking ourselves a few times each day. Our kicks have always been aimed at the somebody else for our own troubles. And a few good ones directed at the proper source would find us getting 'em right where they are deserved.

So these horses are really American and not Arabian. They also have another American characteristic, they are long winded. There is a Senator among every colt born.

An Arabian's nostrils are always distended. He seems to smell everything pretty good. Well we don't. There is things about our affairs that you sometimes think we have no sense of smell at all, or we would certainly smell some of the things that are being put over on us every day. If we had had even an ordinary "Nostril" we should have detected an odor when our International Bankers were giving everything in the world to Europe. We couldent even detect the limburger on the bonds they sold us. So we have all the characteristics of the Arab horse but the distended nostrils and its beauty. The mare of the human race has retained its beauty, but the male has been a throw back. He has retained none of the springy movement and the grace and beauty of form and skin. Our only salvation is to raise just females.

Almonds—Concentrated Food

Almonds are among the most wholesome of all nuts, as they contain a large amount of fat and protein, but no starch. They are one of the few alkaline-forming nuts, and for these reasons may be used by those suffering from diabetes or acidosis. They are especially rich in phosphorus, calcium and magnesium. That the value of the almond is being appreciated is shown by the fact that more almond trees are grown than any other nut trees.

The almond is closely related to the peach tree. In fact, Luther Burbank performed an interesting experiment of crossing almonds with peaches, producing a peach with an almond center.

Mastication Important

If almonds are finely chewed, they are readily digested, but they are even more valuable in the form of finely ground almond butter since the digestive juices can penetrate the finely divided particles more readily. Finely ground almonds may be used as a butter substitute for bread or sandwiches. The almond butter may be diluted with water to make an excellent dressing for vegetables and for salad. It may also be mixed with a large amount of water and a little honey so that it will resemble milk in composition, flavoring, and appearances, and even in the fact that it will curdle after a short time.

Almonds contain a large amount of oil and are for this reason fattening with most people. The oil is easily extracted by pressing and is of approximately the same nutritive value as the olive oil but more agreeable in flavor.

The oils usually used in soap and perfumery are taken from the bitter almonds and is not quite as wholesome for eating as the oil of the sweet almond. This oil is quite readily absorbed by the skin and for this reason may be used to advantage in massage.

Almonds are as rich in protein as lean meat. About nine ounces of almonds will provide the body with sufficient protein for one day.

Fried Almonds

In roasting almonds in large quantities, they are not baked in ovens as is commonly supposed, but are literally French fried by being immersed for a short time in boiling hot cocoanut oil. A longer roasting produces the burnt almond frequently used for flavoring ice cream.

The blanched almond is the sweet almond with the brown outer skin removed after which the almond is dried in the warm oven. Almonds may be blanched at home by first pouring boiling water over them and letting them soak for about a half minute after which they are rinsed in cold water and the skin removed by pressure of the fingers. The brown almond skin, being acid forming, should not be eaten.

Almonds combine readily with all of the fruits and non-starchy vegetables, but because of their richness, should not be used with other proteins or fats or with starches. They make an excellent substitute for meats by those who are inclined toward vegetarianism and who have a good digestion.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Stomach Trouble

Question—Miss Valerie D. writes: "In one of your articles you state that gastritis is caused from too much acid in the stomach. I seem to have all the symptoms you mention and am starting a milk diet. Is this right?"

Answer—Of course, it is impossible for me to diagnose your case through the columns of this paper, but whether or not you have gastritis, or even stomach ulcers, the milk diet seems to be beneficial if continued for some time. You should then follow the milk diet with a proper diet of good food combinations so that the stomach irritation does not return.

Popcorn

Question—Mrs. Janet G. asks: "What do you think of popcorn as a food, and with what other foods should it be eaten? Which is preferable, plain with butter and salt or the candied kind?"

Answer—Popcorn is a form of starch which is easily digested when it is cooked in the usual way, that is, by heating the popcorn till it pops open, splitting the kernel and exploding the starch cells. It should be used as the principal starch part of a meal, and may be seasoned with butter and salt, but should not have the candy coating. Use it with the non-starches, but not protein.

Broken Capillaries

Question—Bruce N. asks: "Please advise what treatment to use for broken capillaries in the face and neck—skin very fine, without pimples or blackheads."

Answer—Twice daily treat the face by rubbing it with ice. Hold the ice for 15 or 20 seconds, over the place where the capillaries are broken, then move it to the next location, and so on, using about a five minute treatment in all. The cold of the ice will strengthen the capillaries and make them grow smaller.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

House for Roosevelt

Editor The Times: Inspired articles in the Dallas News and in the Hearst press during the last few days have been trying to create the impression in Texas that Col. E. M. House had promised to deliver the Texas delegation to Franklin D. Roosevelt. It is impossible for any one to know exactly who is inspiring those articles, but it is apparent to all Texans that it is a part of cheap propaganda for the purpose of discrediting one of the greatest citizens that Texas has ever produced, a man of world renown, who has shed more glory upon Texas than any other citizen during the last 50 years.

On May 28, the editor of a certain Texas newspaper, wired Governor Roosevelt that a story had originated from somewhere, without giving the time or place, that the colonel had promised to swing the Texas delegation to Roosevelt, and the editor of this paper added that "House was completely out of line with politics in this state at this time, and that his influence was greatly over estimated." I do not know the editor of this particular paper, nor do I particularly care to; I do not know how the editor of this paper has gotten in such an important attitude that he commands the attention of the Hearst publications or the country at large. I presume, however, that because the paper is in sympathy with the Hearst interests it is merely echoing the master's voice.

I want to say, however, to the real Democrats of Texas and on their behalf that we resent the implication of this article; we do not want to see one of our greatest Texans maligned by the Hearst interests; there is no truth in these statements, and the editor of this paper in Texas has wired Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt about certain supposed press dispatches that Colonel House was going to swing the Texas delegation to Roosevelt, and the governor replied that the certain dispatches mentioned "were invented out of the whole cloth, and was on a par with other false dope originating in New York and elsewhere."

Just why anybody from Texas, whether they be for Roosevelt or not, should undertake to attack this grand man from Texas, is mystifying. It is my opinion that this attack will fall flat. Colonel House is not the kind of a man who "swings delegations" and I am confident that all Texans realize that this is true, and that this propaganda is put out by the enemies of popular government who seek to control this government without having the interests of the masses at heart.

Speaking on behalf of Governor Roosevelt, it gives me pleasure to send the message all over Texas that Col. E. M. House is strictly in line with Texas politics and his influence is just as great as ever in this state and he is for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for president first, last and all the time, and this ought to be a rallying call to Texas democracy.

The Political Follies of '32

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON. — Some time along toward the middle of the summer the politicians will start worrying about the negro vote.

They usually do in any contest that looks as if it might be close, and the friends and leaders of the negro hace have been prophesying that there will be more than the usual reason for concern in 1932 because the negro is becoming increasingly independent and articulate in those states where he is permitted to use the ballot.

Any time they begin voting as a group the negroes will theoretically hold a balance of power between the majority parties in several states — 13 states, according to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which lists them as Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Massachusetts, New York, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and New Jersey—with a total of 187 electoral votes.

The Raskob Gesture

The Republican party has generally considered the negro vote as its own. Democratic Chairman John J. Raskob made some attempt to organize it for his party in 1928, but the results were inconclusive. Now the N. A. A. C. P. is trying to get it out of the Republican camp and use it, not for the Democrats, but as an independent force which can be wielded for the benefit of the race.

It is contended that the negroes, since they are normally employed in greater proportion than whites and nearly all dependent on wages, have been suffering disproportionately during the depression. They are being urged to vote with especial reference to social or economic measures, such as unemployment relief, old age insurance, enfranchisement and abolition of lynching.

The Parker Case

The most convincing demonstration of any stirring of negro political consequences thus far observed came with the rejection of President Hoover's nomination of Judge John J. Parker to the supreme court. Walter White, secretary of the association, startled a lot of people here in the demonstration of pressure politics which he exerted on northern senators from states with large colored populations during the preliminary lobbying against Parker. White apparently caused several senatorial votes to switch.

The N. A. A. C. P. cites the defeat of ex-Senator Baird of New Jersey when he ran for governor, claiming evidence of an overwhelming negro vote against him because of his vote for Parker in the senate.

Capper's Advice

Meanwhile congress continues to have a negro member and there are negroes in the Illinois and New York legislatures. There are congressional districts in three or four other northern states where the colored vote comes close to a majority or better.

The negro press, it is said, shows an increasing disposition to support colored candidates when other candidates of the regular parties do not suit it.

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, although a Republican, has urged negroes of the country to adopt a policy of political independence and to "function as a group" when the occasion demands.

No Enthusiasm for Hoover

White says negroes are no longer succumbing to "blandishments and lies of professional politicians, whites or black," and predicts that they will "come into their own in this year of depression." He says neither party appears to be going to present a candidate who stirs negro enthusiasm.

Hoover, according to negro leaders at the recent N. A. A. C. P. convention here who might or might not be able to swerve the race from its traditional Republican path, has caused resentment by dealing with lily-white southern Republicans, by refusing to consider appointing negroes to office, by the Parker nomination, through the war department's "jim crowing" of gold star mothers and the suffering of negroes from unemployment and depression.

The Roosevelt Angle

Also, they say, negroes remember that Gov. Franklin Roosevelt wrote the constitution of Haiti after directing the invasion of that black republic by marines, who are still there.

In the South, where the situation differs from that in the North in various ways, there is a considerable belief that such states as Indiana, Illinois and Ohio will eventually become Democratic if negroes undertake to exercise independent political power.

Presbyterian Bible Classes Are Entertained Friday Evening at Culbertson Home With Lawn Party

Probably one of the most delightful events of the week-end was the lawn party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Culbertson Friday evening, when members of the Fowler Bible class of the First Presbyterian church were joint hostesses with Mrs. Culbertson entertaining the Fowler Bible Class Junior and their families, and the Carrigan Bible class and their families.

The beautiful Culbertson lawn on the corner of Eleventh and Harrison streets was lighted for the occasion with strings of colored electric lights, and the entertaining program was given on the spacious front porch, which served for a stage.

Mrs. Culbertson in a few well chosen words, welcomed the guests, after which numbers were played by an orchestra composed of L. V. Lawler, Barton Dunning, Harry Strief, Robert Strief, Claude Stewart, Halbert Jarrott, Bob Honea, Mesdames S. P. Cunningham, A. M. Miller and Miss Rachel Davis.

Miss Margaret Bone sang two solos, "Norwegian Echo Song" and "Have You Ever Been to Texas in the Spring," both of which were enthusiastically received by the audience, and Irvine Roberts and Peggy Mathis gave a clever one-act play.

Refreshments were served to approximately 80 members and guests.

Peggy Piedmont Says

IN AN article headlined, "Keep Pace With the Mode," we read that side-saddles are again in style for milady who rides horseback. The same article says that any one who has any doubt about it being smart nowadays to be ladylike should frequent the bridal paths. It says, "They're riding side-saddles again, believe it or not!"

They are not wearing the flowing Gainsborough skirts of old paintings and other days. But neat, chic, modernly trim habits are correct for town and country this spring, according to this latest fashion edict.

THE color schemes are perfectly stunning. It can depend on your mount, if you want to match up in a nice way, or on your own ideas of what you look best in.

The coats worn with the new side-saddle habits are much the same in cut and line. But stocks go fancy. There's a softness about the hats that top the whole, and altogether the picture is one more or less of frail feminity rather than strident masculinity, the article reads.

AND with all of these fashions of by-gone days making their appearance again upon the horizon of the woman's world, (for not only is the side-saddle coming into vogue again, but hats, dresses and furniture are all in keeping with styles of long ago) reminiscences of days of the hoop skirts, the carpet loom, the spinning wheel, long baby dresses, and basques with fringe, are brought to many of us.

THOSE good old days of a past generation were most pleasantly impressed upon a group of women from the First Southern Presbyterian church a few weeks ago, when a program on the mountain schools sponsored by the church was given at the monthly inspirational meeting held at the home of Mrs. Gus C. Haesner on Monroe street, and the setting was so realistically arranged with antiques from the home of Mrs. Nellie B. Stewart, a neighbor of Mrs. Haesner.

HOSTESSES on this occasion wore dresses in the period style of 1856, one of which was the wedding dress of Mrs. Stewart's mother, made of lead colored taffeta with basque and full skirt, measuring four yards around, and trimmed in short fringe of the same color. Another wore a black brocaded skirt that had belonged to Mrs. Stewart's mother, and it too, was four yards around, lined, and made entirely by hand. These skirts were as large at the top as at the bottom, and the wedding dress skirt was shirred onto the waist with stitches so tiny as to be almost undiscernable.

ANOTHER dress belonged to Mrs. Stewart, was a stylish model made in three pieces of a soft twilled woolen material also in the lead color. It was trimmed in bands of satin in the same color, and the skirt, made in two pieces, was finished with a deep flounce put on with a head, and overskirt of the handkerchief design. The basque, which buttoned down the front, was made tight-fitting and thoroughly lined.

IN THIS collection of antique clothing, Mrs. Stewart also has some infant dresses, (first and second best), with their underskirts to match. These were also made by her mother, for herself and her three brothers, one of whom is L. B. Jenne, a pioneer resident of Wichita Falls. The dresses are more than a yard long and are marvels of neat handiwork, with rows and rows of tucks, lace and insertion. The work is done with thread so fine, and stitches so small, that women of today, in their eternal rush and bustle, can hardly believe that there has existed even in that remote long, long ago, one who has ever had time and patience to make by hand anything so dainty and lovely as these best, and second best baby dresses and skirts. The infant wardrobes also included a tiny linen shirt, made in the same style and neatness as the other garments, and two embroidered white flannel underskirts, just as long as those made of the linen and other cotton material.

IN THIS priceless collection of antiques is a melodeon, bought in the year of 1860 by Mrs. Stewart's father for his youngest sister, who was 12 years old. The melodeon was the instrument that preceded the organ, and sounds very much like one. It is made of rosewood, with 12 octaves, and has much the appearance of writing desk. This particular instrument was patented in the year of 1855.

AN ANCIENT leather back Bible which belonged to Mrs. Stewart's grandfather, who was a native of Scotland is a treasured possession, published in the year 1785. Her grandfather was a cabinet maker, and the dining table she uses today, was made by him 125 years ago, out of solid mahogany.

IN HER living room with the melodeon, is a marble top centable, and another proud posession, is a doll bed made in the four poster style, by her grandfather for Mrs. Stewart's mother when she was a small girl. The bed is an exact model of beds that are used today, and has a bottom made of stout twine woven to resemble the springs in a cot.

MRS. STEWART explained that her family lived in Vermont, and that they moved to Texas in the fall of 1877 settling near Fort Worth. She has taken care of these things for many years, and has used in her daily life these rare furnishings of mahogany and rosewood, seeming in her modesty, not to realize that she is the owner of a collection of articles such as are seldom found in a Texas home.

AND one who enjoyed looking at all of these things; hearing their history recited by the owner in her charming cultured manner, and who hopes some day to visit her again, is your friend

DRAMATIC STUDENTS APPEAR ON PROGRAM

Mrs. Harry Fuller and a group of her dramatic pupils have returned from Vernon where they gave a program under the auspices of study clubs of that city Friday night. The program which consisted of one-act plays, characterizations and readings, was given at the high school building. Those taking part were Mesdames W. L. Hawkins, Oma Barker, A. C. Turner and Misses Eloise Wofford and Anna Lee Cherry.

They were assisted by Mrs. Ray Wilhite, a pupil of Mrs. J. Wayne Holmes, who gave two vocal numbers, "Ave Maria" and "Paris Angelicus" by France. Mrs. Wilhite was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Holmes, with violin obligato by Miss Katherine Pierce of Vernon.

Following the performance, an informal reception honoring the Wichita Falls group, was given at Miss Pierce's studio, "Ye Olde Barne."

The receiving line included Judge and Mrs. Barry, Mr. and Mrs. Farrell, Mrs. Pettit, and Misses Katherine and Ada Pierce and Robbie Castleberry.

Light refreshments, and punch from an improvised "old oaken" bucket, was served

Adams Pupils Are Presented Joint Recital

Mrs. Maurice Adams, and Miss Maurine Adams presented their pupils in a closing musicale, featuring both piano and dancing when the students wore elaborate costumes in keeping with the scenes they enacted. The program was given in three parts: American, Indian, and Spanish episodes.

Four of the musicians appearing were winners in the district contest held this spring by the Texas Federation of Music Clubs. Margaret Griffis won first; Marjorie Holcomb, second in district, in juvenile piano and Virginia Johnston first in junior piano. Miss Margaret Bone won first in district and state in voice. All were members of the Walter Damrosch Music club, sponsored by Mrs. Maurice Adams.

The program was given as follows:

Eithel Allen Nelson Will Present Pupils in Tenth Annual Concert Recital

Music lovers of Wichita Falls and Northwest Texas will be afforded an unusual treat Friday night when the pupils of Eithel Allen Nelson will give an annual concert recital at the Junior College auditorium that will be open to the public. Mr. Nelson, whose ability as a violinist and teacher of violin has been recognized in this section for years, is using every effort to make this year's concert the most complete and entertaining of the similar concerts.

The concert proper will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock and will feature first a variation of the Louis XIV court fiddlers, a number which has created state-wide comment in the past. The group of pupils will be dressed in exact replicas of the beautiful and elaborate costumes worn during the era of the old French monarch. Special symphonies have been arranged for this grouping and the whole display is one which arouses enthusiasm for its color and the beauty of the pieces rendered.

Of special interest will be individual performances by those pupils who won high honors both in the district and state meet of the Texas State Federation of Music.

This year's concert marks the 10th annual recital of this kind held by Mr. Nelson for the benefit of the public. Former concerts have been so highly entertaining that lovers of music and violin from many sections of the state have been in attendance. Last year the facilities of the Junior College auditorium were taxed to accommodate the large throng which attended the concert and an equally large gathering will probably be in attendance Friday night when this year's concert begins. The program will be given as follows:

MONDAY FINAL DAY TO START SUMMER TERM

Enrollment in the summer schools of Wichita Falls will close Monday, when a number of new students are expected, according to Director A. K. Presson of the college and high schools, and Principal J. T. Rundell of the elementary grades. Although enrollment in some branches has dropped somewhat through the effects of the busines stringency, in some courses, notably in the elementary grades, it is satisfactory.

College courses have been further broadened in scope through the addition of a full course in zoology and a course in beginners' Spanish, two courses that have not heretofore been offered here in summer. Thus a student will be enabled to get a full credit in a second science, chemistry already being offered, and also may begin the study of Spanish as an intensive course.

A rearrangement of schedule in English courses has also been made to make it more convenient for those interested in the course on fundamentals, including the study of principles of structure and of the chief literary forms. English 113 and 123 will now be given together in the first and second hours of the morning, between 7:45 and 9:45. A student may take either one or both of these subjects. Summer school authorities call attention to the opportunity for intensive study of vital principles of writing open to citizens interested in literary activity. The courses in English literature will now be given in the third and fourth hours.

Courses in Education

College courses are also given in education—including courses in the psychology of learning, management and methods of the elementary school, management and methods of the high school, and principles of secondary education—and in pure psychology for students in academic and professional degrees. The course in psychology is so designed that students may get in the eight weeks a survey of chief fields, methods and principles of psychology, together with applications to the many practical problems to which psychological thinking is being applied in modern business and industry. Economics, American and Texas government, European government, and college algebra are other college courses offered.

Senior high school students may earn two or three semester credits in English, history, algebra, geometry, civics, economics, biology, chemistry, Latin, Spanish and bookkeeping.

Junior high school subjects offered include junior high school history, English and mathematics.

All courses are fully standard and accredited and are taught by experienced faculty members in each field.

Classes will be held each Friday morning with Mrs. Cifford Deaton in charge of instruction. Girls will be classified as to ability on Friday. Instruction will be given each group according to standard Camp Fire tests.

Committee of Awards

Committee of awards meets at 2 o'clock on Saturday of this week. Girls who are planning to take rank will please report to local headquarters not later than Thursday of this week. Mrs. Jack Ralton, new chairman, will meet with the group.

Seed Gathering

The time of the closing date of the Camp Fire seed gathering contest sponsored by the Garden club of Woman's Forum, will be extended if all of the larkspur and poppy seed are not matured by that time.

Members may ask any one they know or care to ask to save the seed for them. The girls do not have to actually gather the seed if their friends will save them for them as the seed mature. Credit is given for the seed turned in and not who collected them, necessarily. Girls in groups not working for the prizes are asked to turn in as many seed as possible, anyway, or to give them to some group which is working for the prizes.

Tanokiwin Group

Members of the Tanokiwin group met at the home of the guardian, Mrs. S. L. Conn, at 1707 Tenth street on Tuesday afternoon and the meeting was opened with the singing of Camp Fire songs, followed by the repetition of the wood gatherers desire.

Miss McIlheran explained the seed gathering contest and told of the Camp Fire swimming classes. Plans were made for a swim and breakfast at Havener park for Thursday morning. Ruth Thomas, candidate for fire maker rank, took charge of the breakfast in fulfillment of the requirements.

Plans were made to meet at the home of Anita Underwood, 1620 Twelfth, on Tuesday afternoon for a business meeting and election of officers.

Mrs. C. F. Gregory met with the group on Tuesday and went with them for the breakfast. Mrs. Gregory will be the assistant guardian to Mrs. Conn.

Refreshments were served to Ruth Thomas, Anita Underwood, Evelyn Jane Hawkins, Glorissa Blacklock, Mrs. Gregory, Mrs. Celestia Maxwell, guest aunt of Mrs. Conn from Chicago, and Misses Biggerstaff and Mary McIlheran.

Mrs. Maxwell told such interesting things about the Indians in the North, where she had visited in the settlements and learned of their customs and ideas.

Mankilo Group

Members of the Mankilo group met at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Maude Batholomew, 2129 Avenue I, on Wednesday afternoon to complete the Camp Fire names of each member, as a number of the girls will report on Saturday to pass their first rank.

Plans were made to collect seed for the contest, and a swim at Havener park on Wednesday.

A number of the members of this group will be away for the summer. Members regret that Hazen Kent is moving to East Texas. Johnie Evans and Cless Hoffman will be gone most of the summer. Members remaining in town are planning to make the most of the summer months and "go places and see things."

Those attending the meeting were Ann and Mary Katherine Tarry, Johnie Evans, Hazel Kent, Norean Eason, Cless Hoffman, Elaine Steinkoenig, Helen and Mrs. Bartholomew.

Oawakiya Group

Members of the Oawakiya group met at the home of Maurine and Willie Mae Bralley, 2005 Ninth, on Thursday afternoon. Plans were made for the seed gathering contest and for a swim and picnic at Havener park on Friday afternoon.

The members discussed the requirements for the summer honor and decided which group of requirements each one wished to take.

Those attending the meeting were Mildred Fisher, Lois Schram, Jane Reppy, Evelyn Howard, Florence Carpenter, Leonida James, Maurine and Willie Mae Bralley and Miss McIlheran.

Ahsonsong Group

Members of the Ahsonsong group met at the home of the guardian, Mrs. George Frazer, 2017 Elizabeth, on Friday afternoon. The group will hold a rummage sale on Wednesday morning of this week. Requirements for rank were checked with each member. Members telephoned a number of members of the Garden club in regard to saving seed for the contest.

The next meeting will be at the home of Lucile Murchison, on McGregor street.

Sam Houston Group

Miss McIlheran met with the group of girls in the Sam Houston district who are organizing a Camp Fire group, on Monday morning. Mrs. J. A. McDonald, who will be the group leader, met with the girls in the tabernacle of the Grant Street Methodist church, which will be the headquarters for the group.

The meeting opened with the singing of "America, the Beautiful," followed by the pledge of allegiance to the American flag. A discussion of the meaning of Memorial day and other holidays was held. A discussion on the proper display and use of the flag of the United States of America was held.

Temporary officers were elected to serve until the group is officially organized with Marye Kuykendall as president.

After the business session a short nature hike was held, when each girl took notes on "What I Saw." The members later read their lists, to see which was most observant. The lists contained information which may be used in the earning of honor beads later on.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday morning at 9:30 at the tabernacle.

AMUSEMENTS

'Night Court' With Walter Huston And 'Huddle' Featured at Majestic 'Freaks' at State Starting Sunday

Filmed under the direction of W. S. Van Dyke, this picture offers one of the most sensational stories of political corruption ever presented on the screen. It focusses attention upon a night court magistrate who uses his office to further his activities in the underworld.

Huston plays the unscrupulous jurist who presents a respectable side to the public but shows quite another to his nefarious associates. Holmes is seen as a taxi driver whose home is undermined by the machinations of the crooked magistrate but who ultimately brings the dishonest judge before his own bar of justice. Miss Page enacts the chauffeur's wife who is "framed" on a morals charge and sent to prison to seal her lips from judicial investigators.

In addition you will see "Old Songs for New," a band act; "Hate to Get Up," a singsong; "Land of Gandhi," a novelty and Majestic news events.

"Huddle"

Ramon Novarro attempts a radically different type of role in his new starring picture, "Huddle," which will start next Tuesday at the Majestic.

His portrayal as Tony Amatto, tough Indian mill hand who enters Yale university, gives him an opportunity for some of the most aggressive and virile action of his career. He spent weeks with a coach to learn football technique. In scenes of varsity games, Novarro plays in a lineup with many famous all-American and noted stars, including Ernie Pinckert, Jess Hibbs, Dale Van Sickel, Don Hill and others.

Many actual campus scenes at Yale university were used as an authentic background for the production which contains many of the old traditions of this famous institution. The celebrated Derby day and various class activities are used as atmospheric details of the story.

To add to your enjoyment you will see, "Strange As It Seems," a novelty; "Polar Pals," a cartoon, and Paramount news in sound.

"As You Desire Me"

"As You Desire Me," coming to the Majestic next Friday, is Miss Garbo's 17th production in this country, marking the close of her sixth year on the screen since 1926, when she was brought from Sweden to the United States to make her debut in "The Torrent."

Melvin Douglas, who played opposite Gloria Swanson in "Tonight or Never," has the leading male role in "As You Desire Me."

In addition you will see a comedy, cartoon and Majestic news events.

"FREAKS" COMES TO STATE SUNDAY AND MONDAY ONLY

Grim specters of the night, fantastic forms of terror and mystery, and a love romance amid the phantom-like settings of the weird "pranks of nature" colony bring out the background of the remarkable drama, "Freaks," opening a two-day engagement at the State theater Sunday. This mystery story probably goes further into its convictions than any other screen mystery thriller ever shown before a theater audience. Based on Tod Robbin's story, "Spurs," it deals with the life in a traveling sideshow. One of the most popular of the sideshow "freaks," a midget, becoming infatuated with the trapeze beauty. Because the midget is heir to a fortune, the trapeze beauty, with her illicit lover, plan a marriage, to be broken and obtain the fortune. But they "reckon" without the strange bond that unites the freaks and the monstrosities of nature, a people entirely apart from ordinary mortals, but entensely loyal to themselves. Thus is launched one of the strangest plots of greed, revenge and retribution ever seen.

Heading the cast of this weird assembly of players is Leila Hyams, Wallace Ford, Olga Baclanova and Roscoe Ates.

"Flaming Passion"

"Flaming Passion" comes to the State Tuesday for four days. Due to the unusual nature of this attraction mixed audiences will not be permitted to witness the show, Tuesday and Wednesday, both matinee and night, women only will be admitted, and on Thursday and Friday men only. Children under 16 years of age will not be admitted.

"The Broken Wing" comes for Saturday only. The cast includes Lupe Velez and Leo Carillo.

Marlene Dietrich Coming to Gem in 'Shanghai Express'

"Shanghai Express," Marlene Dietrich's first starring picture since she returned from Europe, is scheduled as the feature at the Gem theater Sunday and Monday. This thrilling story of adventure and romance was originally written by the well-known novelist and traveler, Harry Hervey, and dramatized for the screen by Jules Furthman, who also wrote the screen play of "Morocco." Miss Dietrich's first starring picture made in America.

Josef von Sternberg, maker of "Morocco" and "Dishonored," also directed "Shanghai Express." The supporting cast is headed by Clive Brook, who recently played the leading role in "24 Hours," and Anna May Wong, oriental heroine of the picture, "Daughter of the Dragon."

Miss Dietrich plays the part of a notorious and glamorous woman of the world, while Brook portrays a British officer who meets her, after years of separation, aboard the Shanghai Express, which is held up by a Chinese bandit general, played by Warner Oland.

"Shanghai Express" is a stirringly melodramatic picture with a large cast of celebrities. More than a thousand Orientals of various racces were used as extras for atmosphere effect.

MURRAY ASKS PERMIT TO EXAMINE FEDERAL INCOME TAX RECORDS

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 4. (UP)—Gov. W. H. Murray today requested permission of David Burnett, commissioner of internal revenue at Washington, for W. C. Wright of the Oklahoma tax commission to examine federal income tax returns of taxpayers under investigation by the commission.

Wright is chief of the tax division of the Oklahoma commission.

Murray asked that the internal revenue agent in charge of the Oklahoma City office be authorized to grant future similar requests.

Burnett granted a request of the governor made April 26 for federal income tax returns of certain specific returns be made available, but permission for the general examination of returns was not given at that time.

Murray said he expected it to be necessary to examine federal tax returns of a great number of Oklahoma taxpayers.

THOMPSON TAKES OATH AS MEMBER RAIL COMMISSION

AUSTIN, June 4. (AP)—Ernest O. Thompson, former mayor of Amarilo, was officially inducted to membership of the Texas Railroad commission today. He was sworn in to fill the vacancy left by resignation of Pat M. Neff, former governor, who retired to become president of Baylor university at Waco.

The oath of office was given by Thomas B. Greenwood, associate justice of the supreme court. The ceremonies were held in the governor's reception room and witnessed by Gov. R. S. Sterling who appointed Thompson to the vacancy; the two other members of the commission, C. V. Terrell, and Lon A. Smith, other state officials and a group of friends of Thompson's and Neff's.

Thompson will serve until next January, when Neff's successor, elected to the unexpired four years of Neff's term, will qualify. Thompson is a candidate for the unexpired term. Neff was elected in 1930 to a six-year term.

"Gentlemen of the commission, I present to you your new commissioner," said Neff after the oath had been accepted. Terrell and Smith were the first to congratulate Thompson.

Mrs. Thompson, Neff and Governor Sterling stood with Thompson while he assumed the long oath in which he averred he never had fought a duel.

FLASHES of LIFE

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY.—The policemen were pretty certain there was liquor in the house, but the house was outside the city limits and they couldn't do anything about it. Just then a storm came up, the waters began rising and the house began floating towmward. The officers waited until the house had floated inside the city limits and then found 700 bottles of beer in it.

LOS ANGELES.—These hole-in-one stories are getting monotonous. Like, for instance, William Pulisevich, who took his 12-year-old son, Bill, out to show him how to play golf. At the eighth tee the father said: "This is a tough one, my boy. Use your spoon."

"Father," replied Bill, "sometimes you irk me." Whereupon he whammed the ball down the fairway with a drives and it dropped into the cup. The father shook his head sadly and said: "I still think you should have used a spoon."

OSHKOSH.—Tragedy may come leisurely through the years; or it may come, as it did to Leonard Tritt yesterday, between breakfast and lunch. At 8:30 he killed his wife. At 12 noon, under a sentence of life imprisonment, he ate lunch 22 miles away, in the state prison.

SLIPPERLAND TO GIVE OLD SHOES TO AID POOR

As a means of aiding the needy families of Wichita Falls and at the same time providing a further incentive for the public to buy the new shoe styles early in the season, Shipperland Shoe store is offering $1 a pair for old shoes in exchange for every new pair. All shoes taken in trade will be turned over to recognized charities immediately for distribution among the poor and there will be no increase in price over the regular prices of the new models.

Speaking of this new idea of trading new shoes for old ones, Joseph Max, owner of Slipperland, said "Our store, like all others in the city, is constantly receiving calls for merchandise to be given to the poor. Therefore when we decided to launch the sale of our new summer styles, we conceived the idea of allowing $1 a pair for all old shoes in exchange for the latest models. Thus we are able to give our lady customers the discounts that we ordinarily make for our regular summer sale and at the same time render a service to the needy of the community."

WAR CLOUD LOOMS IN BRIDGE WORLD AS HORSEMEN PLAN TO CHALLENGE ELY CULBERTSON

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—A great war cloud is looming in the world of contract bridge.

The reorganized "four horsemen," who have parted with Oswald Jacoby, intend to challenge Ely Culbertson to a knockdown and drag out fight over the card table in a test of systems and ability. War on Culbertson is the basic reason for the changed team.

The horsemen were riding high over competitors in tournaments before last winter's great contract match in which Culbertson triumphed over Sidney S. Lenz in a test of the Culbertson system against the "official" method. They have kept it up since.

The contract for the Lenz-Culbertson match barred certain unnamed players as partners of either Lenz or Culbertson. Those barred included P. Hal Sims, big captain of the horsemen, and Willard S. Karn, who has won the only individual championship ever in competition. Jacoby, first partner of Lenz, resigned from the match after a quarrel with Lenz.

The horsemen wanted Lenz to win that match, though they felt his methods were far inferior to theirs. They have resented criticism by Jacoby of Lenz, especially on lecture tours under Culbertson's auspices.

Bitter Criticism

A large group of Metropolitan bridge stars not only has never followed Culbertson's methods of bidding but has been bitter in criticism of it. The view of the group was epitomized by Lenz before the match with Culbertson when he termed his rival "a supershowman, whose methods had been swallowed by the public, hook, line and sinker."

Probably nothing will come of the "war" except barrages of words.

The horsemen especially resent Jacoby's recent statement that they were jealous of his fame. In their behalf it was pointed out that Sims, Karn and David Burnstine all have won various titles when paired with other players than members of the horsemen, and that Jacoby has not done so; that Karn and Sims both have been selected by various experts as the best players in the world. Jacoby himself a few months ago picked Sims.

On the other side of the picture are the facts that Culbertson, at the time Jacoby quit Lenz, estimated his lead would be 10,000 points greater had Jacoby not been playing and that Jacoby continued as a member of the horsemen after his association with Culbertson began.

About That "Sky Car"

WASHINGTON. — Specifications of the U. S. S. Akron's "sky car" in which an observer will be lowered below the clouds while the dirigible rides above them, have been sketchily reported. It is said that the car's equipment will include a parachute and a rubber boat for the observer's use in case he has to leave his post. The car resembles a small airplane fuselage without wings.

RUSSIA TO FLOAT THIRD LARGE LOAN FOR $1,600,000,000

(Copy't, 1932, International News Service)

MOSCOW, June 4. (INS)—A third successive giant internal loan, for which Soviet citizens will "voluntarily" subscribe a total of $1,600,000,000, will be announced by the government June 10.

The loan will be launched with the slogan that this is the "fourth and concluding year of the five year plan," and although subscription theoretically will be voluntary, great Communist party pressure will be exerted to make it virtually compulsory.

Only a disgruntled and poor peasantry will dare to ignore the call for funds.

Altogether, along with various minor loans and other "voluntary" contributions, workers at the end of 1932 will find a total of at least three months' wages have been deducted from their earnings.

During the second year of the five year plan a $600,000,000 loan was established, floated with the appeal "five in four," meaning the plan would be driven to completion one year ahead of time.

The following year, with the slogan "the third is the decisive year," a $1,300,000,000 loan was issued. Both of the great loans were undersubscribed, until new quotas were assigned to city workers and much of the peasantry, after which they were completed.

HERE and THERE WITH DOROTHY

If everybody in the three states represented in the Optimist convention here this last week knew what I learned while doing my shopping they'd all turn OPTIMISTS and come to Wichita Falls.

LIFE MUST BE INTERESTING for the kiddies in the summer, too, and those "WADING POOLS" of treated, waterproof canvas in red, green, and yellow at THE WICHITA FALLS TENT AND AWNING CO. are just the things to keep them happy. You must see their selection of awnings too for your porch and windows.

OF COURSE YOU CAN'T be optimistic about your health unless you are drinking pure water. That's why NU-HEALTH, manufactured by the NEW ICE CO., is such a favorite. All impurities are removed from this water and then just enough minerals are added to make it perfect. NU-HEALTH builds and protects health. Call the NEW ICE CO. for a bottle.

WHY NOT BE OPTIMISTIC when you know you won't have to suffer from heat this summer? TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE CO. is selling General Electric and Emerson fans at very reasonable prices. They're dependable and you can depend on a cool summer with one of the TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE fans.

NO WONDER PEOPLE SAY "the place to go" when TRULY'S is mentioned, for they know about the delicious sandwiches and sundaes made at TRULY'S fountain—about the line of SEVENTEEN toilet goods he carries—about his expert prescription service—and his 1932 prices! What more could be asked of any drug store? TRULY'S THE PLACE AT 11TH AND GRACE.

HOW ABOUT A LITTLE facial rejuvenation to raise the corners of your mouth into a broad smile for the summer months? BETTY LOU BEAUTY SALON makes a specialty of scientific facials and permanents to bring out your own individuality. Call 2-0633 at the Hamilton building, for an appointment.

EXERCISE ECONOMY BY letting SHEPHERD'S WATCH YOUR FROCKS. They can put your last summer's wardrobe back in condition for another season's wear and provide for your smart appearance on any occasion. They bring back color and shape to your frocks. And don't take chances on good furs. Store them now in SHEPHERD'S dry cold vaults.

COOKING IN A HOT KITCHEN isn't a very pleasant outlook for the champion optimist when hot weather is just around the corner. Get the KEMP COFFEE SHOP habit early in the season and enjoy deliciously cooked, and well balanced meals at surprisingly low cost throughout the summer.

YOU CAN GIVE YOUR WHOLE house the appearance of summer cheerfulness with FREEAR'S gay porch furniture including steamer chairs in brightly colored ducks—so comfortable that they make you want to purr. And the peep of bright summer drapes from FREEAR'S drapery department add life and color to your windows. See FREEAR'S window display of summer drapes and porch furniture and ask their advice on how to add color artistically to your home.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE NEW SHOES at SLIPPERLAND? THEY'RE CELLOPHANE. If you haven't, you've missed the thrill of the season. They're showing the latest creations in summer footwear that are correct for every costume.

I TOLD YOU SO, MRS. SKEPTIC, and have furnished the proof. Visit these stores and see for yourself. And now may I say that during June and July I am going to make an optimistic survey of Wichita Falls, and will be back in August to tell you about it. Until then here's to a pleasant summer.

WICHITA DISTRICT'S OIL ACTIVITY CONTINUES AT MERRY PACE

Seventy-two Wells Drilling and 25 New Locations Made During Week in Wichita Falls Petroleum Territory

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Activities throughout the pools of the district for the week ended June 4 continued at a merry pace. Twenty-five new sites were staked out, many new wells commenced drilling, and no evidence was visible of an impending curtailment of this widespread and extensive campaign of development.

A check up of oil field work reveals that a total of 72 wells are in actual drilling operations in Wichita, Wilbarger, Young, Jack, Cooke and Archer counties, while at least 30 other tests are shut down for various reasons. These figures show more development under way than the district has experienced in a period of one week covering operations during the past four years.

Several nice wells were completed, as was the usual crop of failures. One of these disappointments was the failure of the Bridwell Oil company's No. 1 fee well in the Eldredge survey, three miles north of Chalk hill in Archer county, to pick up the Chalk hill formation. It is now drilling below 2300 feet. To the south of Chalk hill one-half mile the Falls Refining company has set pipe on the oil sand at 2196 feet and will probably drill out the plug Monday. A well here will be the factor in giving the pool's production a good extension to the south and the final result of the test will be watched with keen interest.

On the tracts surrounding the Fain & McGaha production at Holliday several new wells are drilling at various depths, and a number of substantial extensions to the 1780-foot sand may be reported by the end of the coming week.

Location for an interesting deep test was staked out by Dan H. Rubsam on the L. F. Wilson ranch about one and one-quarter miles east of the three-way station on the Archer county pavement. The test is to be drilled 330 feet from each line forming the southwest corner of the north half of the east half of block 55, A. T. N. C. L. survey. The well will be contracted to a depth of 2500 feet and will go to the Chalk Hill or Canyon formation.

Young Activities

Interest in oil activities of Young county continued during the week to center on the work accomplished on the King Royalty and Windfohr No. 1 Lowe deep test in block 15, section 3412, T. E. & L. survey, northeast of Graham. The well, which is drilling out the cement plug at a depth of 3800 feet, is in a semi-completed condition, spraying 50 barrels of oil and a gas flow estimated at 2,000,000 cubic feet daily.

Wilbarger development received a stimulation during the week and a total of five wells was drilling. Jack, Cooke and other sections of the district reported a revival of drilling and other oil field activities in excess of the work done in the preceding week.

Pipe line runs from the pools of the district averaged 48,884 barrels per day, a decrease of 800 barrels daily as compared with the previous week's run. These figures are from the nine pools under the supervision of Jack Elliott, deputy supervisor for the railroad commission.

Runs from the four pools, Throckmorton, South Young, Haskell and Jack counties, representing the North Texas division, totaled 5,634 barrels daily, a gain of 14 barrels over those for the week of May 28.

CONROE, Texas, June 4. (AP)—A habeas corpus proceeding seeking the release under bond of Durrell Kendall of Mississippi, charged with the ax murder of Martha Smith, was postponed here today until Monday afternoon.

Kendall was acquitted Thursday of the murder of L. H. Brownlee, but still faces charges in the companion slaying of the woman.

Brownlee and Martha Smith, members of a wandering minstrel show troupe which included Kendall as motion picture projectionist, were slain in the show tent at New Caney, Texas, last December.

This Will Happen

HOUSTON.—City Secretary Fred Turner had for a long time been using a silver cigaret lighter he received from his wife. The fuel ran out recently and Fred reverted to matches until he got the lighter filled. A few days ago he got in his car, thrust a cigaret in his mouth, pulled out the lighter—lit the cigaret—and threw the lighter away. He was in the habit of discarding used matches and forgot he had his lighter. He couldn't find it after he had stopped his car and looked for it.

EXTENSION OIL FIELD S. W. OF DUNCAN LIKELY

Chamberlain Test on Parker Land on Sand Around 1500-Foot Level

THREE TESTS COMPLETED IN COUNTY DURING WEEK

Three New Locations Staked Out, Several Drills Near Interesting Depths

DUNCAN, Okla., June 4.—Prospects for a long extension of the oil play in the new active territory seven miles southwest of Duncan were brightened by developments at the close of the week in the Ed Chamberlain and associates No. 1 C. P. Parker, in the NE SE SE SE of 11-2s-8w. Broken sands and shales were logged from 1474 to 1488 feet and solid sand from 1488 to 1492 feet a week ago but several efforts to get a drill stem test failed. Operators then drilled deeper and still were in the sand at 1501 feet. They were preparing to cement casing for a test Saturday.

Three tests were completed and three new locations staked out in the county during the week.

George L. Pace completed his No. 11 Watkins, in the SE SE NE SE of 21-2s-7w, a mile east of the town of Comanche, for 175 barrels in sand topped at 1725 feet. Derrick was skidded 300 feet north to location for the No. 12 Watkins, which was drilling below 1200 feet.

The same operator temporarily abandoned the No. 10-A Watkins, in the NE NE SE SE of 21-2s-7w, after getting considerable water with oil found in sand from 1721 to 1733 feet. Pace's No. 3 Dilley, in the NS SW NW SW of 22-2s-7w, is a derrick and will be drilled when the No. 12 Watkins is completed. Pace made tentative locations for his No. 13 and 14 Watkins, in the NE NE SE of 21-2s-7w, and also tentative locations for offsets across the section line in 22-2s-7w.

Pace made location for his No. 2 Bristow-Pace, in the NE SE SE of 18-2s-7w, near a shallow gas well just north of the town of Comanche, and was rigging up rotary.

Cleaning Out

P. L. Gilbert and associates were cleaning out to complete their No. 2 Green, in the SE SW SE NE of 2-2s-8w, seven miles southwest of Duncan, estimated good for a small pumper in sand from 1433 to 1442 feet.

The No. 4 Dare is rigged up and ready to spud.

T. W. Medlin and associates were drilling at 1900 feet in the No. 1 C. Moore, in the NE NE NW of 11-2s-8w.

E. D. Gillette and associates were moving in material for their No. 1 George Cooley, in the NW NW SE NW of 17-2s-8w, a scheduled 4000-foot wildcat to be drilled three miles south of the Empire field.

Drilling at 2140

Pierce & Egger were drilling at 2140 feet, after testing a slight show of oil in sand from 2045 to 2051 feet, in their No. 1 J. P. Bartley, in the NE NE SE NE of 20-1s-8w, near old production five miles west and three miles south of Duncan.

Chambers & Haines still were shut down for water at 960 feet in the No. 1 Dolen in the SW NW NW of 15-1s-8w, near old production four miles west and 1½ south of Duncan.

A new location was made in the Tatums field of Carter county, where E. M. Boring and associates have completed derrick and are moving in tools for their No. 1 Wolf, in the SE SE NE of 13-1s-3w.

Ratliff & Colvin were drilling with machine at 550 feet in the No. 1 Ratliff, in the NW NE NW SW of 19-1s-2w, near production in the Tatums field.

Paul Robb and associates were drilling at 1491 feet in the No. 1 Burton, in the NE SW NE of 31-1s-2w, offset to production in the southeast extension of the Tatums field.

ORDER PROHIBITS 'FARMING' OUT OF ROAD CONTRACTS

AUSTIN, June 4. (AP)—The Texas Highway commission today issued an order against "farming" of highway contract to subcontractors by general contractors. The order will be effective on contracts scheduled for award at the June 10 meeting of the commission.

Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer, said the commission has had some trouble recently with subcontractors who received jobs from general contractors and that the order was aimed at discouraging this practice.

"If a contractor comes here and bids on a job he should be prepared to do the work," Gilchrist said.

Under the order all contractors bidding on work in Texas shall be equipped for and shall actually perform, with their own forces, the major item in the contract. In case a contract involves two major items, the contractor may sublet one of the items.

The order also requires contractors to maintain a superintendent on each project for which they have been awarded a contract.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 4. (UP)—Virtually all oil operations in central Oklahoma were halted today, the fields partially inundated by recent heavy rains.

Heavy loss was counted in the Oklahome City field. A total of 250 wells were damaged. Several derricks were toppled over by the gushing flood waters. The Shawnee-Seminole-Maud district was shut down almost entirely, due to washouts on pits.

Slush pits in the St. Louis extension and Sacred Heart areas were washed out, retarding work.

TULSA, Okla., June 4. (UP)—Gasoline storage in the mid-continent area declined slightly this week, despite an increase in refinery runs. Gasoline storage totaled 133,069,000, compared to 133,784,000 a week ago.

Refinery runs for this week were greatly decreased, due to prevailing bad weather and flood damage to several refineries.

KINGSTON, Okla., June 4. (UP)—A gasser, with an estimated daily flow of 3,000,000 feet of gas, has been completed in southern Marshall county by the Collins Petroleum company. There are 16 operations in the Kingston and Woodville districts now.

GLADEWATER, Texas, June 4. (UP)—A reduced East Texas allowable today had made its effect felt in the first report of daily production since it went into force. A drop of 20,000 barrels from the previous day was noted for the 24-hour period ending June 1 at 7 a. m. Production on that date was 313,894 barrels. There are now approximately 5,923 completed wells in the field. Only 5,728 of the wells, however, are reported active.

LONGVIEW, Texas, June 4. (UP)—Developments in the East Texas field last week declined slightly, reports show. New operations totaled 135, and producers completed numbered 145. There were 163 new operations during the preceding week and 157 new producers.

LIFE INSURANCE PROVES GREATEST RELIEF AGENCY OF ALL

American Companies in 1931 Paid Stupendous Total of $3,050,000,000 Wrote 16 and Half Billion Policies

By DARWIN P. KINGSLEY
Chairman, New York Life Insurance Company
As Told to Earl Reeves

Life insurance has been described as "the greatest cooperative enterprise of history."

Calvin Coolidge has declared it to be "as safe as any financial institution can be"; and he has further characterized it as "the most effective instrumentality for promotion of industry, saving and character ever devised."

The institution of life insurance—which is typically American, because it is founded on individual initiative and self-reliance—has stood the test on all counts in the present emergency. That was fully expected by those of us who have spent a quarter to a half century or more helping life insurance serve the public.

One potentiality even we could not measure accurately because in previous periods such as this one the volume of insurance was relatively small, as were also the financial resources of the chief life insurance companies.

In the present emergency life insurance has proved to be a "relief agency" many times more important—in actual dollars available—than all other public and private relief efforts combined.

This "relief"—I would stress the point—has been in dollars. Income, salaries, wages and other values have shrunk, but the policy holder's dollar is still one dollar. For standard life companies it is a dollar available on demand. Moreover, those millions who as beneficiaries, or through maturity of endowment policies, through annuities, surrender of policies, or loans, have received "insurance dollars" during recent months have found that they would buy more, that in this sense they were above par.

A most notable, and vital, service which the life insurance companies have rendered has been through policy loans. We do not believe that policy holders should borrow against their insurance except as a last resort; but if need comes then that right is there, in the policy, ready to be exercised.

Generally speaking, I would say that the policy holder has no contemplation of exercising that right when he takes out a policy. I think it likely that an overwhelming majority had forgotten the loan provision entirely when the depression began.

As the depression continued hundreds of thousands discovered that they had an important, and forgotten, financial resource, assets on which they could draw as a last resort when all else failed.

No actuary or statistician can measure the social and economic value of this to the people of the United States. We can only speculate regarding the crisis met, through occasionally we do get glimpses of the truth.

Even men whose names stand as synonymous with wealth have turned to their life insurance in recent months, and have confessed later that it meant for them the difference between survival and failure.

Fifty-two standard companies, reporting to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, reveal that last year more than $8,000,000 per week was loaned to policy holders. The 1931 total of new loans was $427,000,000, a sum more than five times as great as was expended by the president's committee for unemployment relief.

Even this was a small part of the unparalleled financial service of life insurance companies during an emergency year. Let me summarize payments during 1931:

To beneficiaries	$980,000,000
Endowments, dividends and disability benefits	800,000,000
Payments on surrendered policies	850,000,000
New policy loans (all companies estimated)	450,000,000
Total	$3,050,000,000

Biggest Relief Fund

Of the four classes of disbursements listed above, the last two (or their increases over normal years) are due to emergency conditions existing. They constituted a "relief fund" of almost a billion and a third. The entire three and a half billions became available as a factor tending to "cushion" the effects of the depression and sustain purchasing power.

This was an advantage available to the people of no other nation in like degree.

Of the life insurance in force throughout the world, 70.2 per cent is held in the United States. The United Kingdom is second, with 8.1 per cent, and Canada third, with 4.6 per cent.

Directly and indirectly, through policies in their own names and through group insurance, 68,000,000 persons, or over 54 per cent of the population, are insured in the United States, for a total of $109,000,000,000, exclusive of annuities.

An increasing number of inquiries regarding investments of the life insurance companies indicates a natural public curiosity as to how, in the face of general deflation, life insurance companies generally stand in regard to conservation of their assets. The answers to such questions are very reassuring for all companies observing standard practice regarding both policy forms and investment principles.

The total assets of our life insurance companies now exceed twenty billions. They have increased from $17,482,000,000 to $20,200,000,000, or 12½ per cent, since 1929. The net gain as between 1930 and 1931 was $1,321,000,000.

Although life insurance policies are not so written in a strict legal sense, management of life insurance companies has come to be a trusteeship. Factors which determine investments are, first, safety; second, yield; third, liquidity. Although the law of New York now permits investment in certain preferred stocks, a survey of 52 leading companies shows only six-tenths of 1 per cent of assets invested in common stocks.

That survey also shows, over a period of years, that investment officials have been quick to recognize the fact that in such a progressive civilization as ours conditions are not static. Investments have shifted as new inventions or new conditions have brought about changes.

Holdings of foreign bonds, except Canadian, have decreased by more than two-thirds in a decade, and now are but two-tenths of 1 per cent of total investment.

In six years the proportion of total assets invested in railway bonds and stocks decreased from 20.8 per cent to 16.2 per cent, as against 35 per cent in 1906. During the same six-year period holdings of public utility bonds and stocks increased, in round numbers, from $600,000,000 to $1,800,000,000.

Dollar investment in farm mortgages, while remaining stationary, are now but 10 per cent of total assets, as against 17.7 in 1925. City mortgage investments, on the other hand, have doubled and now stand at five and a quarter billions.

Wide diversity of investment, such as no individual can obtain, adds to safety. Care in purchasing bonds maturing in different years helps us maintain liquidity of our capital. Stock market quotations which more or less reflect public psychology do not affect us. We have purchased only basic securities. We invest for income.

Policy loans, as of the first of the year, total almost three billion dollars, or nearly 16 per cent of the total assets of 52 legal reserve life insurance companies, which group holds 91.6 per cent of the assets of all such companies.

Policy Loans Increase

As an investment, policy loans have been described as "quadruple A." If we looked upon our business wholly from a commercial viewpoint, then the increase in loans would be "good business." Except in the case of some earlier policies, loans on policies pay 6 per cent, while it has been estimated that the average return on investment of 100 companies was 4.67 per cent in 1930.

But as "trustees" of the reserve funds of millions of individuals we are concerned over the increase in loans. They impair the policies by just so much. Unfortunately, it seems to be a rule of human nature not to pay off life insurance policy loans once they have been made.

When times change and policyholders again have funds, they seem to consider that that money can be more usefully applied for what are considered more immediate and important purposes.

If I could reach all the life insurance policy-holders of America I would like to urge the repayment of policy loans.

During this depression the American public has had a great life insurance lesson. They thought of life insurance, as the saying goes, as being "something somebody else gets when you die." They bought life insurance largely on that theory. They actually have made a new discovery: The standard life insurance dollar has proved to be something you can get while you are alive, if faced by severe financial emergency. In addition to being a protection for your family in event of your death, it is a protection for you and yours in emergencies.

Since this heretofore little recognized phase of life insurance has been of such tremendous importance to individuals during the past two years, the supreme importance of restoring policy assets by repayment of loans should be recognized.

To fail to do so reduces available individual reserve if another emergency arises, and it reduces protection to your beneficiaries.

Life insurance has justified itself during the past two years as never before. I think there has been greatly increased public recognition of its value. In fact, the figures prove it. Almost sixteen and a half billion dollars worth of new policies were written in 1931. While this was approximately 15 per cent below the 1929 total, it was nearly 10 per cent above the 10-year average, including the years of our greatest prosperity.

In spite of all of their difficulties, the American people added to their security by taking out approximately thirty-five billion dollars worth of new insurance in the last two years, 1930-1931. Economically, no sounder thing has happened.

Southern women are more successful as wives than New York women, says Dr. Grace Adams, psychologist, in an article in the June Cosmopolitan.

Dr. Adams speaks of the economic evaluation of education by the "New Yorkese," (that's my word), as a factor that limits their horizons, murders the ideals of proponents of progressive education for children, etc. "These benighted small town southerners," she writes, "are very pleasant to be with. Their conversation may not be stimulating, but there is a soothing charm in their easy laughter. Their husbands are well fed. . . ."

We know of course that southern women are more successful as wives, (though often it takes dentist's forceps to draw the statement from husbands), but my dear madam, southern women also have college degrees and keep somewhat abreast of the times. And there are occasions when their conversation is stimulating, incomprehensible as it may seem to one who has mixed with the intelligentsia of New York.

George J. Bianco's "Portrait of a Sovereign State," in the May Mercury is a well written sketch. "Somewhere on Isthmian soil," he says, "lie the bones of an obscure Chinaman, who died that Panama might be free." This lone casualty is Panama's only martyr to the cause of liberty. A shell from the Colombian gunboat found him at his rice Nov. 3, 1903, and snuffed out his obscure life in the name of the Panamanian independence.

The freedom for which this lone exile gave up the ghost, has now been in effect for nearly 29 years, guarded and guaranteed by the United States, under the terms of a treaty that was executed and signed under circumstances so amazing as to be without parallel, perhaps, in the diplomatic history of the world."

Read the article; it is worth it.

"Rum Row Western" is a story of the rum row that lies four and one-half miles off the west coast of Mexico. Robert Dean Frisbie has made of his visit a very "rummy" travelog for the May Mercury.

We would tell you as we have before, that the name of Alexander Woolcott is sufficient reason for buying McCalls magazine. Anne Parrish's new book, "All Kneeling," is the subject treated in Mr. Woolcott's "Reading and Writing," in the June issue of the magazine. Mere man may no longer scorn this woman's periodical with Woolcott, Heywood Broun and Sigmund Spaeth enlightening its pages.

Speaking of "All Kneeling," Mr. Woolcott writes: "Ethel Barrymore, bound for a week's engagement in Atlantic City, saw the title on the shelf of the news stand in the Pennsylvania, plucked it out to read on the train, found it a book after her own heart, and when she came reluctantly to its final page, felt herself in the grip of that familiar necessity—the deep need to hand the book on at once to some one who would share her enthusiasm for it. As it seemed that either the chamber maid or the elevator boy would like 'All Kneeling' enough, the book was still in her hand when she set forth for a stroll on the boardwalk.

"It was my good fortune to be the first person she spied there. Halting my wheel chair, she looked at me critically, decided that I would have to do, and passed 'All Kneeling' on to me with the dismaying dictum that if I did not enjoy every page of it, I was not fit for the company of civilized people. I did enjoy every page of it and have been grateful to Miss Barrymore ever since. Grateful to Miss Barrymore and grateful to Anne Parrish."

Mr. Broun, who talks on any subject on earth, is "all het up" over the stage, and hands a palm to Flo Ziegfeld. "Mr. Ziegfeld Sees It Through," is the subject under which he says, "We live in a world of change and flux. Thrones totter and almost overnight two new republics stand where there was none before. Banks fail and great nations go off the gold standard. Science opens new vistas to the eyes of man. Automobiles go faster than ever before. Aviators span reluctant oceans. But there remains one fixed point. Neither expeditionary forces nor chemical research seems to alter one hair of its head. A Ziegfeld show is still a Ziegfeld show, and almost precisely like any one which the master produced 20 years ago. If psychology must play its part in economic recovery, then Florenz Ziegfeld should be subsidized by President Hoover. One cannot watch the riot of color and the wealth of costumes without having faith in the fact that prosperity is just around the corner. In fact, one feels quite certain that Mr. Ziegfeld knows which corner."

Freeling Foster, by the way, in that column of his "Keep Up With the World," is still telling us things. "About 2,000 years ago," he says, "the Celts of Europe believed so strongly in immortality that they would often lend money without the understanding that it was to be repaid in the next world.

We would ask you is that "keeping up with the world?"

MARTHA BERRY

"MARTHA BERRY," THE SUNDAY LADY OF POSSUM TROT, by Tracy Byers. (G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. $3.50.)

I have not the sort of mind that makes me like a book just because Theodore Roosevelt, Andrew Carnegie and Calvin Coolidge thought the woman who inspired it worthy of a place in the sun.

But after reading the Martha Berry, the "Sunday lady of that vale where 'possums had to cover an uncovered space to go from one woodsy hill to another," my spirit was filled with unbounded admiration for the daughter of a slaveholding Virginia family established in Georgia, who gave her youth, her fortune and dedicated her life to the yeomanry of the South, the mountaineers of Georgia, who like those hidden in other mountains, are the purest Anglo-Saxon stock America can boast.

Fortune, it seems, was indicated by the number of dogs a family owned. "One indicated a mountaineer was poor; two, that he was right poor, and three that he was damn poor." It was ragged children from such families whom Martha Berry found peering into the cabin window where a governess had taught her, and their hunger for "book larnin'" that led to her own cabin school and to the establishment of many others in the Georgia hills. Then came the time when she deeded the land her father had left her to the big school and when a boy with a fat pig, one with a pair of steers, a few with $25 cash for the term and donations from her friends tided her over until outsiders came to her aid and a beautiful university was a central building with little log cabins "nestling like brown thrushes in the woods."

Cleanliness and godliness always led as mottoes in the stately halls that make the Berry school now one remembered in its beauty.

The story, as told by Tracy Byers, is full of poignant moments, spiritual beauty and ripples of laughter. Martha Berry said goodbye to a home of her own, the thought of a husband and children, but the proud Georgia hillsmen rise up by the thousand and call her blessed.

There is a weaving department in the completed school where mountain arts are revived. Industrial science and applied arts are not forgotten. The boys do the farming for the university and furniture is made.

Theodore Roosevelt called her school the most wonderful in the world. In the world war, an officer wrote Martha Berry that students from her school were able to accomplish anything. Martha Berry says she is getting to the age when a lady is supposed to sit in a corner with a shawl on her shoulders; she explains that doctors have said she must not strain her heart, but she has scattered digitalis bottles over 15 states and 10 foreign countries. Her peace and quiet lies in her work. Her school is her life.

Never have I read so beautiful a story of a woman devoted to an ideal and never have I known of so many sacrifices achieving the desired end.

A Book A Day

If you have ever envied the untaught South sea savage his carefree life in which the restrictions of civilization are blithely ignored, you might just as well stop right now.

R. F. Fortune, enthnologist, has written "Sorcerers of Dobu," after living for some eight months among the savages on an archipelago east of New Guinea, and his book ought to kill the old myth of savage freedom forever.

The Dobu islanders among whom Mr. Fortune lived seem to have surrounded themselves with so many taboos and other social restrictions that life in a modern American city, even under the worst conditions, looks like the very quintessence of liberty in comparison.

In Dobu, for instance, you cannot pick a wife in your own home town.

You cannot leave your property to your children, or inherit property from your father.

If your wife dies, you must live in the basement for a year, and then you must never visit her village again.

There are no "natural" deaths, all deaths being caused by sorcery. Sorcery, too, causes all worldly prosperity, and if your neighbor has a good garden it means that he has stolen your crops by witchcraft.

If a man displays friendship toward you, the chances are that he is getting ready to put a malignant spell on you.

And so it goes. The social framework is incredibly restrictive and exceedingly rigid. Long for freedom if you like, but don't long for the lot of the South Sea islander.

The London Season's Masterpiece

"WILD METAL," by Charles Gilson (Bobbs Merrill company, $2.50). Reviewed by Ann Pence Davis.

A cable from London quotes the London Morning Post as saying "Wild Metal" is the season's masterpiece. That is putting it a little strong but it is a fine first novel.

Here, to put it crudely, is the record of David Penton Haynes from the cradle to the grave. The spotlight is turned on the development of sex instinct in this supersensitive, idealistic youth.

David's child life in Ansted, the epitome of rustic England of the nineties, is analyzed in great detail. Mr. Gilson handles this part of his novel well, as he is at home in the field of boy psychology. (He has written 30 best sellers for boys). Easily he introduces the minor characters who impress little David. ". . . his great uncle, Sir Benjamin Voules, with so many chins he looked like a pink salad bottle," and "Rev. Octavius Hitchcock who had conducted the funeral service in E flat," and Janet who was more wonderful than Grimm's fairy princesses because her face was dirtier. Yet for David she remains through life as unattainable as a fairy. Janet shines on a pedestal above the procession of parlor maids, harlots, and Edwardian sirens who infest David's life.

Somehow David's over-refined sensibilities, so much a part of the small boy who goes "bolster flying," do not fit the big husky body he develops in McClelland's as cricket star. From the time he leaves childhood until he is caught in the maelstrom of the war David is not real. He is a composite of Mr. Gilson's sex problem created for analysis.

The first half of his life is reminiscent of Somerset Maugham's "Of Human Bondage" but not so convincing. The ending is akin to the immortal "All Quiet on the Western Front" but not so dramatic. However, in his own way, Mr. Gilson draws an amazing amount of life into these pages without crowding.

Although David's love for Janet and his passions, grande et petite, which flit across it, is the main theme of this novel, David's friendship for his cousin Charles is the most vital thing in it. Dealing man to man David is not hampered by slightly abnormal limitations. In his relation with Charles he is real; he is a character well worth reading a long novel to know.

PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES

Presidential Possibilities, "The Speaker of the House," the Romantic Story of John N. Garner by George Rothwell Brown, (Brewer, Warren and Putnam) and "Alfalfa Bill," an Intimate Biography, by Gordon Hines. The Oklahoma Press.

Here are two volumes about presidential possibilities. When a man reaches the stage of being seriously considered for his party's nomination for president, the public is presumed to want to know about him. And his biography, when it appears, becomes a campaign document.

Viewed as campaign documents, these two books serve their purpose. Each of the figures portrayed is shown at his best. Each, in fact, is shown rather too much at his best. Each author seemed so determined to show that his subject did not have feet of clay that he tried to make it appear that he did not even have mud on his shoes. That may be good campaign material. It is not good biography.

Mr. Brown's book is subtitled as a "romantic story." It is about as romantic as a bill of lading, being a matter-of-fact, uninspired account of John Garner's life. It would serve admirably as a reference work, but we doubt if it would cause any one to become thrilly about its subject. A presidential possibility should be dramatized, and it seems to me that John Garner's life has quite a bit of dramatic material in it, but the biographer missed it.

He brings out one fact not generally included in sketches of Mr. Garner, namely, that he attended Vanderbilt university. Most Texans were unaware that Garner had any collegiate training whatever. The biographer skips lightly over the speaker's fondness for poker, and says that he enjoys bridge as much as he does the grand old indoor game. I have my doubts.

The Murray book is a much more readable one, its author making the most of the opportunities that the governor's varied career presented. A man who has been a farmer, book agent, journalist, school teacher, traveling salesman, lawyer, instalment collector, constitution-maker, congressman, colonial impresario and governor should give a biographer plenty to write about.

The governor, it seems, indorses the biography as "a vivid and honest story of my life." He could do no less for a book that depicts him in such glowing colors. Mr. Hines makes the reader doubt if Oklahoma would ever have become a state if Murray had not been chairman of the constitutional convention. He makes it appear that Murray, as much as any other one man, brought about the nomination of Wilson at Baltimore in 1912. That's piling it on a little too thick.

A good deal of Texas' political history is interwoven with the biography. When Murray lived in Texas he ran twice for the state senate, being defeated once by George T. Jester, later lieutenant governor, and once by O. B. Colquitt, later governor. Had he won either of those races, he might have remained in Texas.

Mr. Hines devotes some space to Murray's ancestry. The blood of soldiers, evangelists and adventurers flows in his veins; perhaps such a commingling helps to explain the man himself. William H. Murray is undoubtedly one of the most interesting figures in public life today. He is much wiser and much braver than his enemies are willing to admit, but probably somewhat less wise and brave than the biographer makes him.

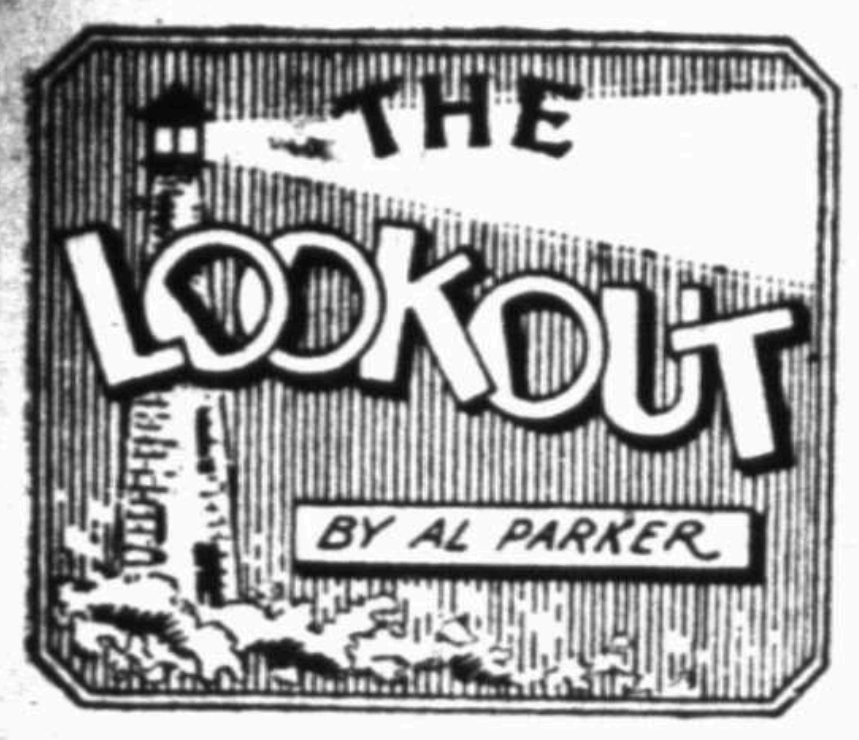
NELSON'S SUPERB GOLF DOWNS BURNS IN TOURNEY FINAL



Of the many ideas and suggestions that have resulted from the attention given fishing the past few weeks, one of the best comes from O. E. Maer, veteran devotee of the piscatorial sport who says he'll never get too old to pursue the wily bass. Mr. Maer believes there is an opportunity to conduct an educational campaign on the food value of the carp with the result that this fish will be more sought in the Wichita valley lakes. He says he once lived in a settlement heavily populated with Germans of the old school, who had learned in their native land how to prepare and cook the carp to a king's taste. Mr. Maer believes that somewhere abouts are many Germans equipped with this knowledge, and he volunteers to be among the first to put the recipe to the acid test if he only can learn how to prepare the fish according to the old German specifications.

At the anglers' meeting the other night, one man told of scattering a few pounds of cornmeal on the top of the water and then having a picnic catching something like 200 pounds of carp. If it's that easy, we have a hunch many of us would like to do some of that fishing, whether or not we attempted to eat any part of the catch. Somehow or another we can't help but become interested when we hear about catching fish on hooks by the hundreds of pounds. If, as Mr. Maer believes, the carp are a real delicacy when they are properly prepared, and they are as easily obtained as we have been led to believe, then we are willing to conduct some experiments and let in the public at large on the result. If some kind person will dig up the old German recipe and turn it into this department, we'll do our best to see that the carp are caught and turned over to a number of our leading epicures and pass their final decrees on to you in the interests of a worth while scientific experiment. We'll even go further than that; we'll lend our own overly-developed epicurean talent to so noble an undertaking.

One thing concerning the carp that is undoubtedly a fallacy is the belief at least in some quarters that his flesh is unclean. True, he is a bottom rooter and probably is not so particular about the kind of food he sucks in. But certainly his diet can be no filthier than that of many of our domestic animals that provide choice items of food. Any logical objection to the carp as food must come from some other source. The most efficient of all filtration and purification plants are those with which animal life is equipped.

Harry B. Hawes, senator from Missouri, is one of the nation's leading conservationists and best known sportsmen. He recently was quoted as follows on the carp subject:

"If we could only get rid of the miserable carp!" Hawes recently lamented. "Somebody brought them here from Germany and they have been destroying all our game fish. They ruin duck shooting, too. They eat up the food of the ducks, and like hogs clean up a place so ducks can't live. We've got to fight down the carp."

It happens that next year marks the 250th anniversary of the death of Izaak Walton, patron saint of the angling sport, and some sort of a celebration on a nation-wide basis is planned. J. K. Kinnear of Geneva, Ohio, president of the Fishing Tackle Manufacturers institute, in a letter to Dr. Preston Bradley, president of the Izaak Walton league, said:

"There is no more admirable character that could be held up to the American people, and particularly to the youth of the country, than that of Izaak Walton, who realized as did few that ideal, simple, kindly life of which America today is in such great need.

"Walton was the ideal sportsman; he loved to fish for the pure joy of fishing. He loved the fields and woods, and was never happier than when by a smoothly running stream contemplating nature. Fishing was to him a philosophy of life, and he lived to be 90 years of age, always a fisherman.

"His great work on the art of angling, 'The Compleat Angler,' is the only classic on the subject in English literature. But few books had been written on the subject previously, and Walton was familiar with them all. The popularity of his work was immediate, running through five editions in his lifetime, and inspiring many others to write on the subject, as well as converting hundreds of thousands to a pursuit of the pastime.

"While we may not agree with all his fishing suggestions, we must admit that he has done more to popularize the art of fishing than any other one man. He had hosts of friends, and since his death in 1683, millions of admirers."

PORT ARTHUR CLUB MAY MOVE TO ALEXANDRIA

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, June 4. (AP)—Financial difficulties threatened Saturday to make it necessary to disband or transfer the Port Arthur baseball club of the Cotton States league.

J. F. Jakowicz, clubowner, announced the team would disband after Sunday's double-header with Monroe unless financial aid could be obtained or the club could be moved to some other city where its operations could be placed on a paying basis.

Jakowicz left Saturday for Alexandria, La., where he had hopes of transferring the franchise. Before his departure he said the only chance of the team remaining at Port Arthur would be through financial support, possibly from some club of another league.

Velma Pressburg, society editor of a semi-weekly newspaper at Opelousas, La., has been appointed a deputy sheriff.

New construction work, involving $2,750,000 will get under way in New Orleans this summer.

Wichitan Beaten Eleven and Nine In Title Combat

Fort Worth Youngster Smashes Par All Way To Win Easily

FORT WORTH, June 4. (AP)—Shooting five under par for 27 holes, Byron Nelson, Glen Garden star, overwhelmed L. T. "Bobby" Burns, Wichita Falls, in the finals of the 14th annual River Crest invitation Saturday and won the title by a 11-9 score. Nelson listed a 69, four under par, during the morning round to go eight up and then shot the front side in the afternoon in 35, one under, to win by the best score ever made in the finals of the event.

Although there are few, if any, golfers in the state who could have withstood Nelson's withering game Saturday, Burns played his poorest round of the tourney to lose by such a top-heavy score. The Wichita Falls veteran putted miserably almost all day. Nelson's putter, on the other hand, was deadly.

Their cards for the day, morning round:

Par out .... 444 353 445—36
Nelson out .... 444 342 434—32
Burns out ..... 445 343 546—39
Par in .... 444 453 445—37—73
Nelson in ...... 435 453 544—37—69
Burns in ...... 445 454 534—39—78

Afternoon round:

Nelson out .... 544 443 335—35
Burns out .... 444 444 446—38

Nelson played great golf to win the tournament, his first major triumph in two years. He was under par for every round and went over perfect figures on only seven holes during the entire play. During the finals Burns won only two holes, 17 in the morning and the first in the afternoon.

A gallery of several hundred followed the players during the afternoon.

Results of other flight championship matches:

Bob Davis of Fort Worth won the championship consolations by defeating Morris Norton of Wichita Falls, 6 and 5; Jack Fouts of Dallas won the second flight by defeating John Ferguson Jr., of Springfield, Mo., 6 and 5; W. A. Moncrief of Fort Worth won the second flight consolations by defeating H. Wilson of Fort Worth, 5 and 4.

BETTER HEALTH OF RURAL POPULATION GOVERNMENT PLAN

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—With better health for all rural people the goal, the United States public health service is conducting a study in which 1,000 southern country families are serving as "laboratory subjects."

The experiment, designed to reveal the health needs of country people and how existing rural health organizations are meeting them, was described today by Dr. Joseph W. Mountin before the conference of state and territorial health officers with the United States public health service.

"The information being secured includes general social and economic data, sanitary condition of the premises, present state of health of the members of the family, illnesses during the last 12 months, medical service received, and contact with the health department," said Dr. Mountin.

The 1,000 families live in an area with 34,876 population, where all persons either live on farms or in small towns. Twelve physicians and six dentists practice in the region, but there are no hospital beds.

MRS. BEN FITZHUGH FINISHES STRONG TO WIN SOUTHERN TITLE

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 4. (AP)—A dazzling spurt over the home stretch, which included an eagle and a birdie, gave Mrs. Ben Fitzhugh of Vicksburg, Miss., the southern women's golf championship here Saturday, after one of the most exciting battles in the history of the event with Mrs. Walter Beyer of Tulsa, the trans-Mississippi and Oklahoma champion.

Mrs. Fitzhugh's one up victory in the 36 hole match kept the title east of the Mississippi river, where it was lodged in the 20 previous tournaments.

Both women were near par for the entire distance, Mrs. Fitzhugh shooting the par 80 course in 162 and Mrs. Beyer in 164.

Program Complete For Women's Golf Tournament Here

Public Links and Country Club Players Assemble Here Week June 20

The complete program for the second annual championship tournament of the Texas Women's Municipal Golf association, to be held on the Weeks park course here June 20-25, was announced Saturday by Mrs. J. A. Rhodes, president of the state association. A full week's program of competitive golf with many rounds of entertainment mixed in make the tournament an affair that should attract a representative field of public links and country club players from all parts of the state.

While this tournament is considered the public links titular competition, it is not confined to those who play only on municipal courses. Players who are members of all clubs not affiliated with the Texas Woman's Golf association, as well as all public links players, are eligible to participate. Since nearly all of the smaller clubs throughout the state are eligible, it is expected that Northwest Texas will be well represented when play starts here.

Dance Opens Program

The first official event on the program is a dance scheduled under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce on the evening of June 18. Many out of town entries are expected to arrive no later than Saturday preceding the tournament to get in practice licks over the sporty Weeks park links, and a special practice event in the form of a Scotch foursome is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock.

The championship proper opens Monday morning, with the entire field registering an 18-hole qualifying round, in which the low 32 scores will qualify for the chamship flight. The driving contest will be held at 2 o'clock and the annual business meeting of the association at 8 o'clock Monday night at the Weeks park clubhouse.

Finals Saturday

Match play starts Tuesday at 8 a. m., with one round each day leading up to the final Saturday. All matches will be 18 holes until the final, when the two survivors will battle it out over the 36-hole distance.

The approaching and putting contest will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon during the week of the tournament, and other social events include a banquet at 7 o'clock Tuesday night at the Wichita club and a tea given by the Woman's Golf Association of the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club Wednesday afternoon at the country club.

An entry fee of $3 will be charged and all entries must be in the hands of William Strachan, Weeks park professional, or Miss Winnie Maye Giddings, secretary of the state association, not later than 9 a. m. June 20. Payment of entry fee will entitle players free use of the course for the week preceding the tournament.

Here's $10,000 Job Going Begging

LONG BEACH, Calif.—This city has a $10,000-a-year job open and no one seems to want it despite the unemployment.

The job is that of superintendent of schools, until recently held by W. L. Stephens. A short time ago Stephens accepted another position. His school job was to have been taken over by Vierling Kersey, but Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction, changed his mind.

"It puts in an embarrassing position," Dr. Henry K. Booth of the Long Beach school board says, "because we have no other candidates for the job."

Oklahoma's State Quail Hatchery at Darlington Turns Out First Brood

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 4.—Hatching of the first brood of baby quail and the production of more than 1,500 bobwhite eggs which now are being incubated in an electric incubator marked the first month the state quail hatchery at Darlington was in full operation, M. S. McMurtrey, acting warden, disclosed Friday.

The first brood of bobwhites was hatched off by a bantam hen which had been set the night of May 5, on the first score of eggs gathered from the laying pens. Eighteen drilled their way out of their tiny shells early last Sunday morning, all strong, sturdy little fellows.

Egg production has been gaining steadily since the first complete round of laying pens was made May 12, the warden said. At that time 175 eggs were collected. Twenty-four had been picked up during the latter part of April.

One week later the 110 hens laying at the time had 335 eggs to show for their week's effort. During the third week of May, six other hens joined the producing squad and assisted in running the week's record to 492. The fourth week of the month showed 119 producers with an egg collection of 539.

In addition to these 1,565 bobwhite eggs, the hatchery produced 71 scaled quail eggs from the four mated pairs of Cimarron county blues, making a total collection up to June 1 of 1,636 quail eggs.

Nine of the 119 laying bobwhite hens already have delivered more than a score of eggs each. No. 94, which got the jump on the others with eight the first round, still is leading the procession by a nose with 26 to May 31.

No. 52 is next with 25, while No. 13 ranks third with 24. The last named is the leader among those pens sponsored by members of the Oklahoma Quail Propagation association which financed construction of the hatchery. This pen is sponsored by Ray O. Meems, former state game warden, now state treasurer.

The first incubator hatching is due June 10, consisting of 507 eggs. All other incubations, which are expected to run between 500 and 600 each, are timed to hatch each Friday during the laying season.

Eastern quail farms obtain an 80 per cent hatch when electric incubation is employed.

The first battery of electric brood in which the chickens will be carried the first six weeks of their existence, is being completed at Darlington this week.

Conlan's Change Of Pace Defeats Steers by 4 to 2

Bejma Leads Hitting as Cannibals Score Over Dallas Club Again

LONGVIEW, Texas, June 4. (AP)—Tom Conlan's change of pace held the Dallas Steers helpless with men on bases here Saturday afternoon and the Longview Cannibals won their second straight game, 4 to 2.

Errors mixed with base hits in the seventh gave the Cannibals their victory. Both Garland and Powers were guilty. Powers' overthrow of first letting in Owens with the winning run.

Bejma contributed a triple and double.

Vincent will pitch for Longview Sunday with Erickson probably hurling for the Steers. Score:

Century Record

Jimmy Owen an up-and-coming sprinter from Maplewood, Mo., streaked over 100 yards of cinders in 9.7 seconds, to better by one-tenth of a second, the accepted national mark set in 1913 by Charles Hoyt, Michigan's track coach, as a member of the Greenfield, Iowa, high team. Pollard won the high hurdles in 15 seconds even, to better by a tenth of a second the approved record set by Jeddy Welch of Pasadena, Calif., in 1927, and Orville Madsen, high jumper from Ames, Iowa, leaped 6 feet 4½ inches, more than two inches better than the meet record set by Brame of Roosevelt high, Dayton, Ohio, in 1927.

Arkansas City, coached by H. L. Connor, a former Pittsburgh, Kansas State Teachers college athlete, got points in both hurdles, Harold Wilhelm taking second to Pollard in the 220 lows, and fourth in the 120 yard highs; o fourth in the one mile relay, and a fifth in the javelin by Herman Blackwell.

One Champ Repeats

Owen was the only defending champion to retain his title, and made a show of his field to win the century. He stayed with the pack for 70 yards, then stepped away to win by five yards.

Pollard was aided to victory in the high hurdles by the bitter misfortune of Sam Allen, Bristow, Okla., who had his semifinal heat in the record bettering time of 14.9 seconds. Allen was leading as they came to the seventh hurdle, which he cleared only to stumble and fall.

The Abilene, Texas, team of Drayden, Wyatt, Moser and Dalfant won the one mile relay in 3:28.3.

Graham of Brownfield, Texas, won second in the discus throw, distance 186 feet, 6 inches.

GIANTS UNDER NEW LEADER CLIP OFF SNAPPY DOUBLE WIN

Terry Yanks His Pitchers to Save Pair of Clashes

New York Club Shows 25,000 Fans Something New Under Memphis Bill

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—Crammed with hustle and fight, the New York Giants made Bill Terry's debut as a big league manager a happy one Saturday by winning two games from the Phillies and climbing out of last place where the ailing John McGraw left them on his retirement Friday.

The Giants Saturday were anything but the haphazard ball club that has been wandering through the lower regions of the National league since the start of the season as they climbed on the Phillies, 10-4, in the first game, and came back in the second half of the double-header to stave off a late attack and pull through, 6-4.

Hitting timely, with five home runs to show for the day, fielding spectacularly at times, the team seemed to rally both mentally and physically under Terry's personal drive. Each time the successor to McGraw came to the plate, an excited crowd of 25,000 cheered him lustily. He got but one hit during the day, a single in the first game, but he made three spectacular plays at first in the second contest.

Lost to Phils

By strange coincidence it was the Phillies McGraw faced back in July of 1902, when he came to New York to make his debut as manager of the Giants, but that time his team, also in last place, dropped a single game, 5-3.

McGraw was here again Saturday, but only for a few minutes before the double-header started, and he did not stay and see Freddy Fitzsimmons, though wild most of the way, hold the Phillies in the first game while Mel Ott, Travis Jackson, Freddy Lindstrom, and the fat pitcher himself, belted home runs that snowed the Phillie hurlers, Ray Benge and Snipe Hansen, under in a 17-hit barrage.

Pitchers Yanked

Fitzsimmons was removed, even though he had a six-run lead with one out in the ninth, as an indication of a new idea of strategy on the part of Terry. Neither did the young leader waste any time on Jim Mooney, his youthful southpaw, when the latter started to cave after pitching marvelous ball for 7 1-3 innings of the second game.

Bill Walker came in to stop the Phillies the first time and ancient Adolfo Luque, the Cuban, relieved Mooney when the Phillies rose in the eighth inning of the second game and scored three runs. But neither time did Terry give the opposition time to capitalize on his fading hurling, something the experts have been criticizing the Giants for all spring.

Saturday's double conquest dropped the Phillies into last place and doubled the previous total of victories the Giants have been able to score all season on their home grounds. Scores, first game:

COACH DAVE BANCROFT FOLLOWS M'GRAW INTO PARTIAL RETIREMENT

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—Dave Bancroft, former Giant shortstop under John J. McGraw and for the last three years McGraw's first assistant, Saturday followed his manager into partial retirement.

He announced his resignation as a coach but said he would remain with the Giants ball club as business assistant to McGraw, who quit Friday as manager but retained his place as vice president and counsellor.

Bancroft had been figured as McGraw's successor when the "Little Napoleon" finally decided to give up his managership and the selection of Terry instead was almost as surprising as McGraw's resignation.

Terry said he would not replace Bancroft but would retain Ivy Olson as third base coach and would either coach first base himself or assign some other veteran to those duties.

Braves 9-4, Dodgers 2-6

BROOKLYN, June 4. (AP)—The Dodgers knocked the Boston Braves out of a chance to tie for first place in the National league Saturday when they edged out a 6-4 decision in the second game of a double-header after Boston had won the opener, 9-2. The split gave the Braves the series, 3-2.

Huck Betts won his sixth straight victory in the first game although tagged for 11 hits. Jack Quinn relieved Hollis Thurston in the eighth inning of the second game with the tying run on base and held the lead through Kelly's good play at first.

Burleigh Grimes was wild and ineffective. The Pirates batted all around in two separate innings, the second time against Tinning. Pie Traynor got a double and single in one frame.

Wins, but Loses

LOS ANGELES.—Lucky at cards and unlucky in love—that old saw held true in the case of Almeda Obringer, who was awarded a divorce from her husband, Roy Obringer. She said her life was unbearable because she always beat her husband when they played bridge, and, as a result, he abused her. On two occasions he kicked her on the shins, she said, although it was not mentioned whether or not it was under a bridge table.

Half-Title Swings in Balance Sunday Game

Standing

Teams—	G.	W.	L.	Pct.
Red and White	8	6	2	.750
Star Transfer	8	6	2	.750
Thomason's Service	8	3	5	.375
Meyers Grocery	8	1	7	.125

Rattling down the home stretch in the first half race, big things are at stake Sunday afternoon at Katy park as the four City league teams sail into their weekly double-header starting at 2 o'clock.

The first half championship probably will be swinging in the balance when Red and White stores' nine goes into battle with Star Transfer company, the two having set an even pace since the start of the race that sends them into Sunday's game with six victories and two defeats each. These two are scheduled in the closing game of the double-header.

Thomason's Super Service, successor to Sullivan Grocery company and Meyers grocery mix it in the opener.

The Star-Red and White game ranks probably as the most important of the season thus far, and while Star the following week plays Thomason's and Red and White meets Meyers, Sunday's game undoubtedly will have a heavy bearing on the final outcome of the first half race. The club returned a victor Sunday will be assured of at least a tie for the half championship.

That both Star and Red and White will put their best feet forward in this all-important game goes without saying ,and the burden of stopping the rival hitters seems sure to fall upon Lefty Robertson, the league's premier southpaw, for Star Transfer and O'Dell McDuffy, right handed curver of the Red and Whites.

Chuck Klein and Foxx Battle for Big League Lead

Gomez of Yankees Is Real Leader Among Tossers With Nine Wins

NEW YORK, June 4, (AP)—Some new challengers for the leaders of the major league batting races turned up this week but they couldn't do any serious damage to the leaders.

Although both dropped a few points, Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics and Paul Waner of the Pirates continued to set the hitting pace and Foxx and Chuck Klein of the Phillies fought it out for the all-around slugging honors.

Foxx lost 31 points through the week which ended Friday but wound up with a .415 mark while Waner barely stuck to the .400 class as he dropped five points and wound up at .401.

Ernie Lombardi, clouting Cincinnati catcher, picked up enough times at bat to win a regular rating and took second place in the National league at .387 while Chick Hafey, his teammate, slipped off 31 points to .359 and barely held third safe from new assaults of Don Hurst of Philadelphia and Mel Ott of New York, who captured the next two notches at .358 and .356.

Levey Among Ten

In the American league Bill Dickey of the Yankees and his mate, Tony Lazzeri, exchanged places, finishing with marks of .369 and .357 while a Yankee newcomer of the first five, Earl Combs, followed at .356 and Gerald Walker of Detroit had a .345 mark.

Other National league leaders were Stephenson, Chicago, .348; Klein, Philadelphia, .346; Critz, New York, .341; Moore, Chicago, .333 and Whitney, Philadelphia, .328. The second American league quintet consisted of Fothergill, Chicago, .327; Gehrig, New York, .326; Averill, Cleveland, .324; Levey, St. Louis, .318; and Gehringer, Detroit, .317.

Leading Pitchers

Foxx and Klein held similar positions in the slugging circles of their leagues with honors about even. The Athletic slugger had four firsts with 50 runs, 56 runs batted in; 68 hits and 19 home runs. Klein led in three departments with 54 runs, 46 runs batted in and 13 homers and shared the base stealing lead for both leagues with Frisch of the Cardinals, Blue of the White Sox and Johnson of the Tigers. They had copped eight apiece.

The National league boasted two undefeated pitching leaders, Bob Brown and Huck Betts, both from Boston. They had won five games apiece. But the junior circuit countered with Lefty Vernon Gomez of the Yankees with nine victories and one defeat and Lloyd Brown of Washington, who had won six out of seven games.

Armour Defends Title British Open Tourney

SANDWICH, England, June 4. (US)—Tommy Armour, the black Scot now operating out of Detroit, ended practice Saturday, before facing a field of 251 of the world's best professional and amateur golfers, including 13 other Americans, as the British open golf championship gets under way here Monday.

Tommy is defending the crown he won last year by one stroke from Jose Jurado, Argentine pro, who climbed up to the front with a fine rally which almost displaced Armour. Tommy took 296 strokes last year for the 72-hole grind at Carnoustie, Scotland.

U. S. Chances Fair

America's entrants, which include Gene Sarazen and MacDonald Smith, are conceded a fair chance of carrying back the title again, which since 1923 has not been held by a Briton. But against the American is arrayed a formidable phalanx of Britain's best, determined this shall be the year for spell-binding.

Besides Armour, Sarazen and Mac Smith, the American entrants are T. Ross Thompson of Uniontown, Pa., W. Pursey of Seattle, Wash., Ellsworth H. Augustus of Cleveland Ohio; Douglas Grant, former California titleholder; Paul Azbill, who lives in England; Joshua Crane of Brookline, Mass.; Gordon Smith of Palm Beach; Stuart Scheftel, living in England; and Frank, Robert and Charles Sweeney, students now in English universities.

Hagen Too Late

The foremost home-growns who will contest every shot all along the route number among them Archie Compston, Abe Mitchell, T. A. Bourn, Arthur Havers, Harry Vardon, Tony Torrance, Ernest Whitcombe, Rex Hartley, and George Duncan, all veterans of many international tourneys.

There are also some highly rated French players and the Japanese champion, Tomekichi Miyamoto. Walter Hagen tried to get in, but his entry arrived too late. And the masterful Bobby Jones, alas, is missing.

The qualifying rounds will be played over the two courses, Prince's and the Royal St. George's, Monday and Tuesday.

PLAY POSTPONED IN FRENCH NET TOURNEY

AUTEUIL, France, June 4. (AP)—The semifinals of men's singles of the French tennis championships Saturday were postponed until Sunday when rain halted play.

A. & M. NOT TO NAME SUCCESSOR TO CARLTON

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, June 4. (AP)—Announcement that the Texas A. & M. college athletic council had accepted the resignation of D. W. Carlton, business manager for athletics, was amplified Saturday by a statement that for the present no individual successor would be named.

Dean Charles E. Friley, chairman of the council, said duties performed by Carlton would be handled by members of the athletic department for the time being. This procedure, he added, was in keeping with economices deemed advisable and has the approval of the president and board of directors of the college.

Both Dean Friley and Coach Madison Bell expressed much regret over the resignation of Carlton.

"Without exception, every one in the athletic department wishes him every success possible in the future," Bell said.

In announcing his resignation, Carlton, who came to the college as successor to James Sullivan July 1, 1931, said, "I have tendered my resignation for personal reasons to the athletic council effective Sept. 1, and it has been accepted."

"I wish Coach Bell and his associates every success in the future and the same holds true for my successor, whoever he may be. . . ."

Carlton did not announce his new connection.

DATES FOR TRI-COUNTY GOLF LEAGUE CHANGED

MUNDAY, Texas, June 4.—Dates for the Tri-County Golf association tournament, which was scheduled to begin here on June 11, have been changed, and the tournament will be held June 18-24. The change in date has been made in order that members in the association might participate in another tournament, and it was stated that additional time would enable the local committee to get the course in better candition.

HAWAIIAN GOVERNMENT CONTROL BILL HAS LITTLE CHANCE STATES WILBUR

WASHINGTON, June 4. —Secretary Wilbur said today that the Williams bill to give control of the Hawaiian government to the war department had not been referred to him and that he saw little chance of it being given a preferred status at this session of congress.

The secretary of the interior, under whom the Hawaiian government functions, has been informed that Governor Judd and a legislative commission would hold itself in readiness to come to confer with congressional leaders in case the bill does come up.

The interior department received a number of communications from officials and citizens of Hawaii who apparently were very much disturbed at the news of the introduction of the Williams bill.

Officials there were not informed officially of the introduction of the bill, nor had Representative Williams, Democrat, Texas, notified them in advance that it would be introduced.

ANNOUNCE REWARD FOR ARREST AND CONVICTION OF LINDBERGH KIDNAPERS

TRENTON, N. J., June 4. (UP)—A reward of $25,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., was announced today by Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, head of the state police, speaking for Gov. A. Harry Moore.

The circular announcing the reward offer carried a description of the man known as "John" to whom Dr. John F. Condon reportedly paid $50,000 in ransom money.

A new medical center costing $2,150,000 has been dedicated at Louisiana state university.

GAIN IN EXPORTS AMERICAN WHEAT MONTH OF APRIL

WASHINGTON, June 4. (INS)—Increased exports of American wheat and flour in April lifted the index of exports of 44 farm products to the highest figure in eight months, the bureau of agricultural economic said today.

Reduced wheat supplies in the principal importing countries resulted in more active buying by European countries. Total exports so far this season—July 1, 1931 to April 30, 1932—amounted to 118,882,000 bushels of wheat, compared with 109,415,000 buhels in the corresponding 10 months a year ago. Of this year's total 22,520,000 bushels went to China, and 16,965,000 bushels to the United Kingdom.

Exports of cotton in April registered a sharp decline from the unusually heavy exports of the preceding seven months, but they were larger than in any April since 1922, with the exception of 1927. Sales to European markets were much larger than in April a year ago. Total exports of cotton in the 10-month period ended April 30 amounted to 8,079,000 bales, compared with 6,429,000 bales in the corresponding period a year ago.

Dempsey Likes Lina and Actress Cares for Jack

LOS ANGELES, June 4. (UP)—Lina Basquette, flashing, brunette dancer, and Jack Dempsey, erstwhile heavyweight boxing champion, told the whole story of their friendship today, and joined in snubbing Teddy Hayes, who is still singing "Somebody Stole My Girl."

Lina, still posing as "Rosita Gonzales," said Jack were back in Los Angeles from Reno, Nev., inseparable companions and admitting they care a lot for each other.

Hayes, Dempsey's former trainer, gained little consideration from either in spite of his charge that Dempsey "stole my girl, Lina."

"I do not consider Hayes of enough importance to bother with," said Dempsey.

"And neither do I," called in Miss Basquette. He obtained bookings for my tour and had no other interest, in my eyes. Jack had nothing to do with breaking anything up—there never was anything. I have known Jack for years and years, and to be frank, have always admired him.

"And since I have come to know him better I care for him a lot—he is 100 per cent with a most surprising and agreeable outlook on life."

"Let the future devolop what it will concerning Lina and myself," Dempsey said. "I care for her, but if I marry another actress she will have to give up her acting—her career will be Jack Dempsey."

STOCKS STAGE MOST SUSTAINED RALLY SINCE EARLY 1932

Securities Stocks Rush Forward In Response to Announcement of New Banking Stabilization Pool

NEW YORK, June 4. (INS)—Wall street rounded out its most sustained rallying movement since early in the year in today's abbreviated week-end session, and under the impetus of a buying demand which would not be checked, bonds and stocks rushed forward in enthusiastic response to the announcement of the formation of the $100,000,000 banking stabilization pool.

The action of the stock market was in almost every instance a throw-back to those hectic bull market days in 1929 when advances of from 2 to 5 points a day were regarded as a regularly scheduled affair. In bonds, the upturn was even more impressive with new gains of from 5 to 8 points being added on to advances of like proportions the previous day. The improvement in senior obligations, notably in the rails, was by far the most vigorous of the year.

Stocks followed a pattern during the session which followers of the 1928-1929 advance well remember. The opening was strong with large initial blocks of stock changing hands at gains of from 1 to 2 points. Thereafter, the list sailed along on a fairly even keel until midway in the first hour when scattered profit-taking was attracted and stocks slipped off from their early highs. Entering the second hour, renewed demand was encountered and the market worked up steadily until the close when most of the leaders reached their best levels of the move.

There was no mistaking the powerful sponsorship behind the advance, with such time honored favorites as American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas and Woolworth particularly prominent on the forward move.

Total sales for the two-hour session approximated 1,000,000 shares, or greater than innumerable full five-hour days in recent weeks. The fact that in the past four sessions, turnover has shown a progressive increase as prices were turning up, is regarded in market circles as significant, since it is taken as an indication that the stock list has safely launched a prolonged recovery movement subject to normal interruptions.

BONDS GO HIGHER DUPLICATING GAIN FRIDAY QUOTATION

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—The bond market today duplicated its spurt of yesterday with all classes of listed securities zooming upward for gains of from 1 to 9 or more points.

Chemical, American & Foreign Power, Bethlehem Steel, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, Goodyear, Humble Oil, Shell Union, Shell Pipe Line, Standard Oil of New York, National Steel, North American, North American Edison, Phillips Petroleum, Postal Telegraph, International Telephone, Pure Oil, Utah Power & Light, Utility Power & Light, Western Union and numerous others.

BROAD ADVANCE IN CURB MARKET WITH CLOSING AT HIGHS

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—The curb market moved forward more sedately today, but accomplished a broad and substantial advance with a turnover of 130,000 shares.

The final prices were at the day's best, although week-end profit taking appeared here and there. An extreme rise of 3⅛ points in Commonwealth Edison was cut to 2½, and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore closed up 1, net, after getting 2⅜ higher.

Utilities were again in the van, although oils and miscellaneous industrials made god headway. American Gas and Electric and Electric Bond and Share gained a point. St. Regis Paper, which has utility interests, rose ⅜. Atlas Utilities, an investment Trust issue, was up ½ point to 5 in a fair turnover. Cities Service, belonging to both utility and oil categories, rose ¼ point to 2½, or double its recent low.

Standard of Indiana led the oil group with a rise of about a point in a fair turnover. Humble and Gulf were up fractionally.

United Shoe machinery rose 2½, and Singer Manufacturing 3, in a few transactions. Gains of a point or so appeared in Aluminum Co. and Swift & Co., the latter getting up to 10, from its recent low of 7.

Livestock

Midwestern Livestock Review

KANSAS CITY, June 4. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trading during the week under review had more stability than any time for several weeks past. Chief Bullish influence was the curtailed supply, while a lesser factor was the somewhat improved demand for dressed beef. Fed steers and yearlings, after opening the week slightly lower, closed strong to 25c higher than last week. Medium weight and heavy steers were relatively scarce and continued to command a premium of 25c or more over light weight steers and yearlings.

Strictly grain-fed cows held steady, but grassy kinds along with low cutters and cutters were under pressure. A spread of $5.00@7.00 secured the general run of fed steers with a few loads of choice to prime quality realizing $7.25@7.75. Stockers and feeders were in seasonally light supply and demand was narrow. Aggregate receipts at eleven markets totaled 114,000 against 149,445 last week and 142,120 a year ago.

Hogs prices the fore part of the week were 15@20c higher, but trade after midweek slowed down with most of the early advance on lighter weights erased and heavy butchers at some points slightly lower than a week ago.

Decreased supplies resulted in a more active trade on fat lambs at rates firm to as much as 50c higher than last week, while yearlings ruled steady to 25c higher. Values were unchanged.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., June 4. (AP) (USDA)—Hogs—Receipts 4,500; mostly 10@15c lower; top $3.30; bulk 160 to 250 pounds $3.10@3.25; sows $2.35@2.60; compared week ago, steady to 10c higher.

Cattle—Receipts 300; calves 100. Compared last week: Steers, mixed yearlings and heifers steady to 25c up; cowstuff steady to strong; bulls, vealers and stocker and feeder cattle steady. VALLEY'S FIRST 'COLONIST' HAS ATTRACTIVE PLACE

The development campaign was started too late to obtain many settlers for this season, but with about a dozen 40-acre tracts available in various parts of the valley, on terms that enable the settler to pay out comfortably, it is expected to add several more this fall.

This phase of the development association's work is in charge of J. F. Meurer, well known Archer county farmer, who was instrumental in locating Mr. and Mrs. Grimminger on the place above pictured.

Under the association's plan, 40-acre units will be sold. Mr. Grimminger has planted feed and cotton, a garden and a cantaloupe patch. A small orchard and a berry patch will be added this fall. A comfortable four-room house, garage, chicken house and barn are included in the improvements.

ALL GRAINS VIE WITH EACH OTHER IN BREAKING LOWS

CHICAGO, June 4. (AP)—All grains vied with each other today in smashing the season's low price record.

Winnipeg wheat quotations outdid the collapse here, and suffered a break of 4⅝ cents as a result of stop loss selling associated with efforts to anticipate expiration of 5 cents a bushel Canadian government bonus which expires June 15. Pronounced dearth of buying support for wheat values in Chicago appeared to be largely due to fears expressed regarding likelihood of what was referred to as uneconomic legislative developments at Washington, especially the possible imposition of a 400 per cent increase of taxes on grain exchange dealings.

The Chicago wheat market closed nervous, ⅝@1¼ under yesterday's finish, corn ⅛@¼c down, oats ⅛@½c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2c.

Sharpest setbacks in Chicago wheat prices came just at the end of trading when the Winnipeg market was reported whirling down like a spent skyrocket. Winnipeg messages at this stage said Canadian rural holders of wheat were letting go on a big scale, and that there heavy selling also by brokers who often have represented the Canadian grower's pool. Simultaneously, houses with connections northwest were conspicuous sellers here. In some cases, the Chicago market dropped almost 2c from earlier top levels.

Contributing to the weakness of wheat were timely rains throughout most of the United States winter wheat belt. Export demand for North American wheat was fairly good, and included United States hard winters as well as Canadian wheat. Price rallies of this account, however, and also because of the new in the general downward plunge of prices, corn, oats and rye imitated wheat, and reached new bottoms unequaled heretofore this season. Rye went to about the lowest point ever known on the Chicago exchange. Perfect weather for corn suggested a big new crop, and had a bearish effect on other cereals.

COTTON REFLECTS OPTIMISTIC TONE IN SHORT SESSION

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—Cotton prices were steadier today and apparently reflected a more optimistic feeling relative to business conditions and a more constructive interpretation of developments in the financial markets and in Washington.

A show of firmness in Liverpool also contributed to the better feeling here and the market made gains for the day of approximately $1 per bale and were about $1.50 per bale above the low prices of the season established earlier in the week. The July position closed at 5.30, or 20 points above the previous final, while the general market closed steady at 18 to 25 points higher.

Some traders were inclined to be cautious about taking the buying side in the face of the very satisfactory weather and crop news and continued unfavorable trade conditions, but offers during the day proved small and the strength in the stock and bond markets caused quite an active buying movement toward the close and prices advanced with comparatively little resistance.

A private crop report made the condition of the crop 74.6 and estimated the reduction in acreage at 7.2 per cent.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was 107,000 bales compared with 65,000 last year, and 66,000 two years ago.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, June 4. (AP)—Cotton developed a firmer undertone with moderately active trading in today's short week-end session. Firmness in securities particularly stocks, a constructive view of the financial syndicate to support securities formed in New York and prospects for more rain in the belt were the stimulating influences. The close showed net gains for the day of 8 to 9 points.

Prices made highs for the day in the late trading with July at 5.33, October at 5.53 and December at 5.67, up 14 to 16 points from the early lows. Prices reacted one to three points near the end on realizing, July closing at 5.30 up eight points net for the day, October closed at 5.53 and December at 5.65, up nine points net each.

Port receipts 2,456, for season 9,724,363, last season 8,641,949. Exports 26,075, for season 7,904,408, last season 6,247,327. Port stock 3,797,389, last year 2,197,902. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 73,323, last year 56,300. Spot sales at southern markets 1,941, last year 2,534.

Chicago Cotton

CHICAGO, June 4. (AP)—Chicago cotton market advanced $1 per bale and closing prices were steady, 18@23 points net higher. The opening was 5@7 points up when Liverpool failed to follow yesterday's decline in American markets. Improved sentiment in securities was reflected in cotton circles accompanied by fair buying orders and a sharp upturn in prices. The prospect of rain over the week-end, which is not needed, also helps buying. Rain fell over the Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma and Arkansas. The belt was partly cloudy and rain is forecast for over the week-end.

LIVERPOOL, June 4. (INS)—Spot cotton was quiet at the opening today with prices steady. Receipts totaled 2,000 bales, including 1,000 American bales.

SECURITY MARKETS MOVE CHEERFULLY AHEAD AT WEEKEND

NEW YORK, June 4. (AP)—Far from relaxing at the week-end, security markets chugged cheerfully ahead today.

With bonds moving upward at so rapid a rate, stocks could hardly have been left behind; their average gain of 2.6 points was, in fact, fractionally larger than yesterday's and volume reached the comfortable Saturday total of 1,000,632 shares. Both markets closed at the top.

Thus there was no mistaking the cordiality with which overnight announcement of the American Securities Investing corporation's arrival on the financial scene had been received. Passage of the tax bill seemed assured during the market hours, and the senate went ahead vigorously with its economy measure. Trade news was negative, but Wall street had other things to think about.

Bonds virtually duplicated Friday's demonstration, which meant many gains of 2 to 5 points. Shares were better at the opening, with a leaning toward dullness, but finally swung into action on all fronts and brushed profit-taking aside. Preferred stocks left the week's lows far behind.

Rails stocks were particularly strong in sympathy with their bonds, making substantial percentage gains. Tobacco, food, utility and chemical issues responded to the mood of the day and motors showed considerable life.

Brokers hailed the Bankers Investment company as a most constructive turn. Much was made of the point that the sponsors specifically said their effort did not represent a temporary pool operation, nor an attempt to stabilize prices. They are placing it, instead, upon a purely business basis—the making of profits. Nevertheless, Wall street quickly realized that whether the announced purpose, the practical effect would be to support securities, notably bonds, which have long been almost without a market. Once stability is restored there—presumably at prices more consistent with true values—it will be undoubtedly easier to expand both credit and confidence. There is admittedly much missionary work to be done in those directions.

The consensus is that business will be helped by what has recently happened at Washington.

List of Texas Candidates Includes 34 Names for Congressman-at-Large Number of Eliminations Expected

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 4. (AP)—Prospective candidates for state offices who have been trying to make up their minds about getting in the Texas political derby are right up against the time limit for entrants to file.

The Texas election law fixes next Monday midnight the deadline for entrants in the Texas Democratic primary election of July 23, insofar as state and district offices (except districts comprising a single county) are concerned.

There is a pretty full field already in the running, but still there are some state offices uncontested. Chances were there would be other entrants for some of the places sought by numerous aspirants even.

Candidates for Governor

Friends in Bexar county and elsewhere of State Senator W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales were petitioning him to announce for governor. Petitions were being circulated with a view to filing his name as a candidate should he not do so voluntarily. In Houston a movement had been started by some of the friends of Wright Morrow, attorney, to persuade him to get into the gubernatorial race. Those endeavoring to draw into that contest still other candidates had expressed rissatisfaction with the lineup as now constituted. Gov. R. S. Sterling, seeking the traditional second term; Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas' first woman governor who was defeated for re-election at the end of her first term in 1926, and Tom F. Hunter, Wichita Falls oil man, were considered the major contenders already campaigning. Others who had said publicly they would make the race included Harry Miller of Brady, Frank Putnam of Houston, George W. Armstrong of Fort Worth, M. H. Wolfe of Dallas, Roger Q. Evans of San Antonio, and C. A. Frakes of Port Arthur.

Congressman at Large

It was possible some of the candidates would eliminate themselves by failure to make formal application for places on the official ballots by Monday night. It was a matter of considerable interest to know how many of the almost 40 after the three state congressmen at large seats in the national house ultimately would drop out.

Candidates for the at large seats in congress, according to announcements made through the newspapers from time to time, included Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude, R. B. Hood of Weatherford, Sterling P. Strong of Dallas, Joe Burkett of San Antonio, E. G. Brown of Corpus Christi, George B. Terrell, of Alto, W. E. Myers of Fort Worth, W. Erskine Williams of Fort Worth, D. B. Chapin of Gladewater, Charles P. Smith of Henderson, Lamar Gill of Raymondville, Oscar F. Holcombe of Houston, E. G. Senter of Arlington, Cyclone Davis of Sulphur Springs, Mrs. Ida M. Darden of Fort Worth, Don H. Biggers of Lampasas, Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock, F. O. Fuller of Houston, W. E. Lea of Orange, L. J. MOORE ANNOUNCES AS CANDIDATE FOR DISTRICT CLERK

R. E. (BOB) MOORE

R. E. (Bob) Moore, banker and business man, closely identified with the growth and activity of Wichita county for the past 40 years, today formally announced that he was a candidate for the office of district clerk of Wichita county, Texas.

"I have no idle promises to make," Mr. Moore said in discussing his candidacy, "but if elected to the office of district clerk I will institute and follow the same rules and practices which I invoked in the banking business and other businesses with which I have been directly connected in this county during my residence here. In other words, my only promise is that I will give the people and taxpayers of Wichita county an efficient and economic administration.

"I pride myself in being a native Texan, born in Wise county, but selecting Wichita county as my home more than 40 years ago. In 1912, with the assistance of friends, I organized the Farmers State bank at Burkburnett and was actively connected with that business institution as president for three years, after which I engaged in the furniture and undertaking business in that city. In 1918 I moved to Wichita Falls and was connected with the oil industry in various phases, and in 1926 I returned to the furniture business here in Wichita Falls.

"During my entire residence in this county I have been a home owner and a taxpayer; and although I have never heretofore asked for or held a public office I feel that my experience in the business world, as well as my close personal interest in all public matters, qualifies me to fulfill the duties of the office to which I seek election.

"I have served many times during my residence here as a member of the grand jury and this work gave me ample opportunity to learn and understand the methods by which public offices are conducted. I feel that my experience and training is such that I can give to every one whose business may bring them to the district clerk's office that kind of efficient and courteous service to which all are entitled. This I am sure is particularly true insofar as it concerns the attorneys, members of jury panels, and the public generally.

"I am a man of family and at this time have three children who are attending school in Wichita Falls; and candidly and frankly state that one of the controlling reasons why I desire this office is for the fair compensation which it pays, but wish to add that my greatest aim if elected will be to be of real service to my county and its taxpayers.

"I shall make every effort to meet as many voters as is humanly possible and take this means of asking every one to give me at least fair consideration."

THREE FROM MONTAGUE COUNTY COMPLETE WORK ON COURSE IN NURSING

NOCONA, Texas, June 4.—The following Montague county young women were among the nurses who received degrees last week at Dallas: Miss Grace Priddy and Miss Alma Jackson of Nocona, and Miss Ora Haggard of Bonita. Miss Priddy received the R. N. degree from the Methodist hospital and Misses Haggard and Jackson were awarded degrees from Baylor hospital nursing school.

Miss Jackson was also awarded her B. A. degree from Baylor university at Waco along with the other degree, being the only nurse in the class to receive both diplomas.

BARRYMORES HAVE SON JOHN HANDS OUT CIGARS

LOS ANGELES, June 4. (US)—John Barrymore wasn't acting this afternoon when he swaggered proudly through the corridors of the Good Samaritan hospital.

"It's a big boy—weighing six pounds and 10 ounces—and perfect!" said Dr. John Vruwink at 3:45 p. m. and Barrymore immediately began passing out the cigars.

Mrs. Barrymore, the former Dolores Costello, and the tiny infant, were reported doing nicely.

When Princetown, England, home of Dartmoor prison, was chosen recently as an assize town in which court could be held in connection with the recent prison rioting, schools were closed for half a day so that children could celebrate.

VICKERY GIRL BURNED IN GASOLINE BLAZE

DALLAS, June 4. (INS)—Clara Dell Holmes, 18, of Vickery, near Dallas, was in a critical condition in a local hospital today, suffering from third degree burns.

Her clothing caught fire from a flaming pan of gasoline, in which she had been cleaning garments. J. W. Anderson, a neighbor, saved her from almost instant death by wrapping a quilt around her and smothering the flames.

Physicians doubt if she will recover.

NO FUN ON THIS JOB

QUINCY, Mass.—Firemen get all sorts of calls here in addition to those entailing firefighting. They were recently called to rout a nest of hornets that had formed under the eaves of a private home. Armed with hooks, they started to rout the hornets—but after a short time it was a matter of opinion as to who was doing the routing—the firemen or the hornets.

APPELLATE COURT SUSTAINS VERDICT IN LIPSCOMB CASE

The city's motion for a rehearing in the Lipscomb damage suit was denied by the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth Saturday.

Miss Louise Lipscomb, teacher in the Wichita Falls school system, sued the city for damages, alleging that she had been seriously and permanently injured when she stepped on the top of a water meter in the street near the corner of Tenth and Travis streets about two years ago.

The petition filed by her attorneys, Luther Hoffman and Otis E. Nelson, set out that the city had failed to fasten down the meter cover and that it gave way when Miss Lipscomb stepped on it that she severely strained, bruised and wrenched one leg.

The trial court granted the plaintiff a verdict for $1,000. The city appealed this and the verdict was affirmed by the court of appeals. It was the city's motion for a rehearing by the appellate court which was refused Saturday.

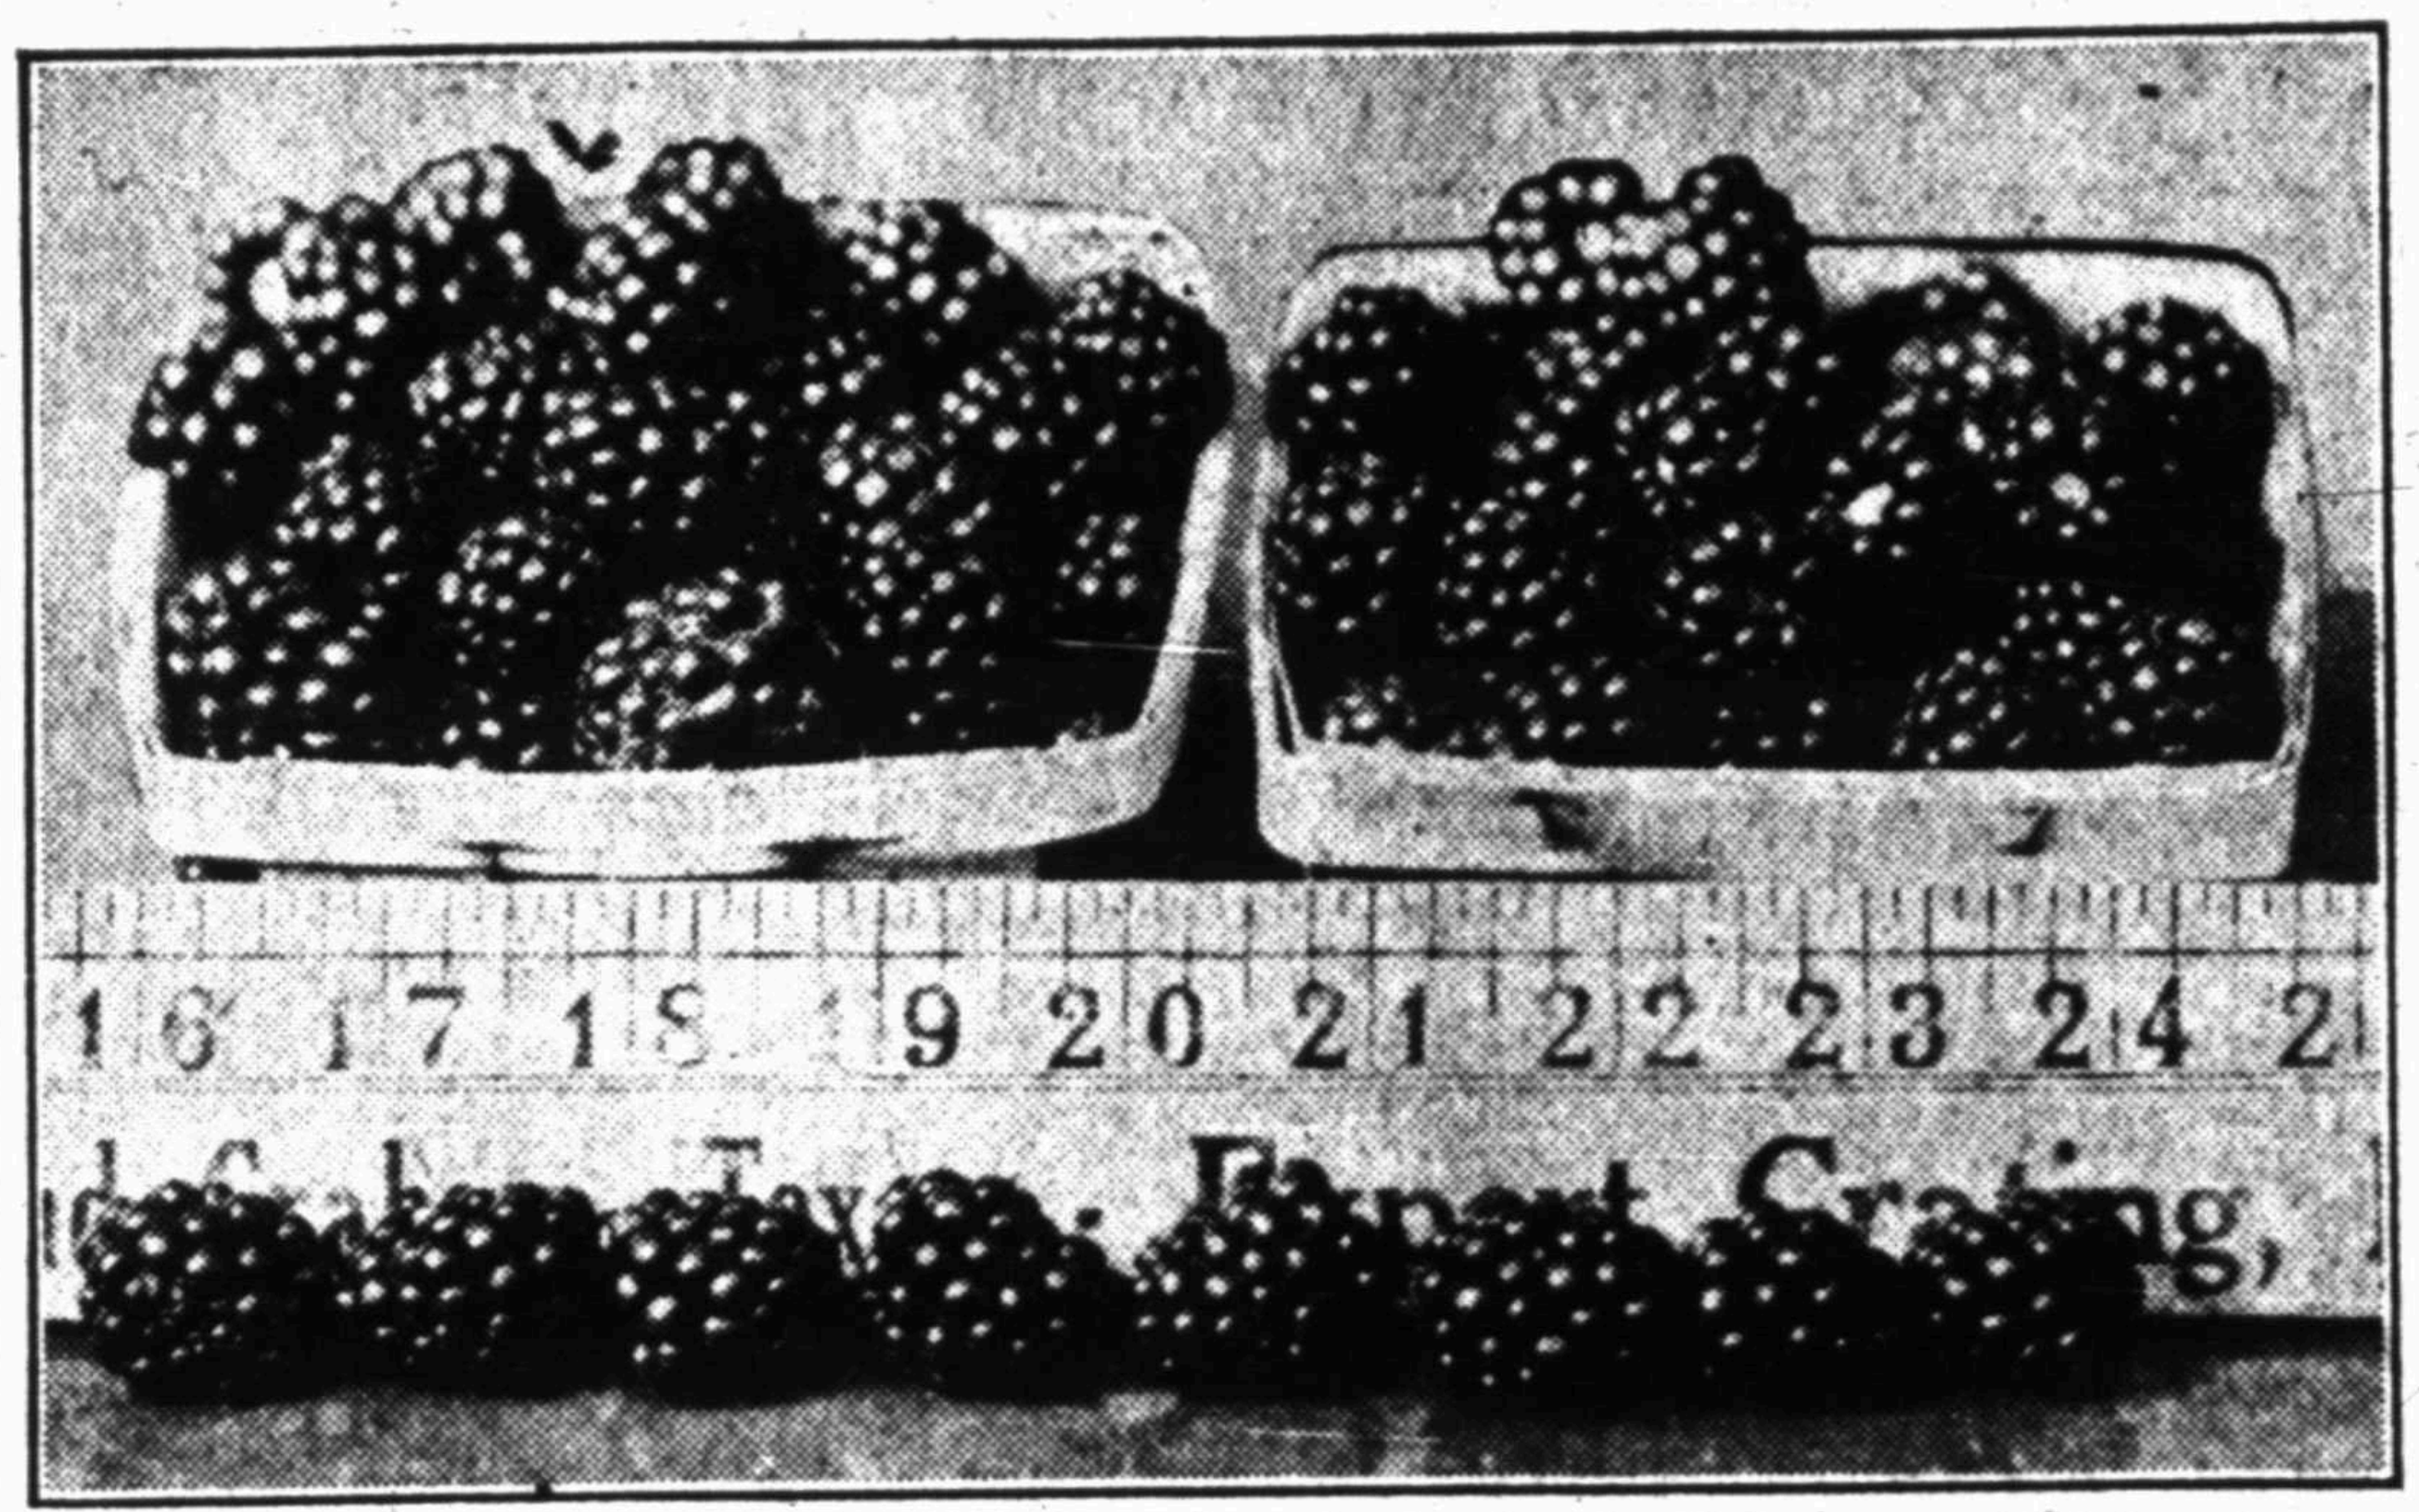
SOME OVERSIZE DEWBERRIES FROM THE VALLEY



Any doubt of the irrigated valley's ability to produce dewberries should be removed by the above picture. These berries were grown on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Smock near the City View school, and their exceptional size is indicated by the rule, which shows that eight berries occupy very nearly eight inches of space. Mr. and Mrs. Smock have used all of their berry crop at home, making no effort to market any, but the exceptional quality of their yield hints at the possibilities of the dewberry as a money crop.

COMMUNITY CANNERY TO BE ESTABLISHED BY C. OF C. AT MUNDAY

MUNDAY, Texas, June 4.—A community cannery will be established here within the next few days, and will be at the disposal of all citizens of the community. The Munday Chamber of Commerce has named a committee to work out details for the operation of the plant and vested them with authority to purchase the necessary equipment, and it will be purchased immediately and installed in a room in the city hall. The chamber of commerce also will cooperate with citizens of the community in procuring cans in which to put up the vast amount of vegetables available locally. The canning plant will be operated under the supervision of Miss Grace Nelson, county home demonstration agent for Knox county, and a committee composed of D. T. Mauldin, W. A. Baker and R. D. Atkeison has been named to work out a plan whereby citizens may use the equipment and leave a toll of foods canned to be placed in the community chest for the needy applying for food throughout the year.

"You see, Dale Courtney and I have always known each other," Jane Martin's light, tinkling voice ran on. "He's nice, don't you think? When I used to live here I saw a lot of him when he came to town visiting. But he's nicer than I had remembered him."

Ruth answered. She didn't know what she said. She was wondering if some stray hope that Dale Courtney would like her enough to be devoted—at least for a little while—had made it so much easier to let Joe Raynor go. She hadn't really thought that she was interested in Dale Courtney. And yet—She snapped her thoughts in two. This wouldn't do. She must get a job! She would make an excuse and leave. But Jane didn't give her an opportunity.

"You mean that you really want to cook? Oh, I'm so glad. Then you can help me manage the tea room. I can make fudge sauces for ice cream, and muffins that melt in people's mouths, but that's all. Will you come? Please!"

She leaned forward and her red curls tumbled around her face and her blue eyes grew deeper. She looked very young, very small, very appealing—just the type of a girl who would appeal to a man's chivalry. He would want to protect her, to do things for her. Ruth wished suddenly that she hadn't always been so capable, so self-assured. Efficient, Joe Raynor had called her.

"Dale will do things for us," Jane talked on. "He drops in often. Please come!"

Dale would drop in often! She would see him. Maybe this girl didn't mean anything to him at all. Maybe the gods were being kind. "I'll come," Ruth answered.

"Grand!" Jane jumped up. "Then let's go down and pick out dishes for the dining room right away. I want green ones and yellow ones. Cheap ones, but they are attractive. And I've got the tables ordered and we'll start to serve in a few days. Everybody will come. It will be the fashionable thing to do. We'll make it that way!"

Ruth smiled wanly. She knew that Jane would go dancing through the rooms, laughing at herself and her method of making money. But she would be in the kitching, serving plates, making pies. Cinderella stuff. One way or another it seemed to be her lot. Jane spoke suddenly.

"Oh, did I make you think you were going to drudge?" she asked. "I didn't mean to! I'll help with the cooking. Honestly, I will. And I have Norah to help, too. She has been in the family for years and she's used to letting me tell her what to do. You and I will he hostesses in the evening after the food is ready."

"It sounds exciting," Ruth answered. "I have to work somewhere. So—"

"Then it's all arranged except the salary. I don't know how much I can pay." She puckered her eye brows. "But I'll promise all I can afford."

The other girl's enthusiasm was contagious. Ruth walked through the rooms, planning, humming to herself, as Jane washed her face and powdered her nose. The knocker clanged against the door.

"Will you go, please, Miss Bradley? I'm not ready," Jane called.

Ruth knew who it would be before she opened the door.

Next—A proposal.

BONNER SWORN IN AS NEW JUDGE OF WILBARGER COUNTY

VERNON, Texas, June 4.—Wilbarger county has a new judge today after almost eight years under the administration of County Judge J. V. Townsend. L. P. Bonner, pioneer lawyer of Vernon, was appointed to serve out the unexpired term following Judge Townsend's resignation offered and accepted here Saturday.

Judge Bonner was inducted into office immediately and joined in the sessions of the county commissioners, who have been working several weeks on tax renditions.

Judge Townsend announced that he was also withdrawing from the race for county judge. He stated that his plans for the future were not matured, further than that he has under consideration three business propositions. He expects to be away from Vernon a few days and will return during the early part of the week.

Judge Bonner announced on taking office that he will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination, but expects to devote his entire energies during the remainder of the year in working with the county commissioners and other officials in handling the county's business.

The retiring county judge was nearing the close of his fourth consecutive term of office and had announced as a candidate for re-election to a fifth term. During Judge Townsend's administration the new courthouse was erected and most of the highway improvement accomplished.

PROPERTY IS NEVER WITHOUT AN OWNER

Who will receive yours?

You probably settled this point when you made your will. But what has happened since you made it?

Have there been marriages, births or deaths in your family? If so, your will should be revised to assure distribution of your property as you now wish under these changed conditions.

Have recent financial and business changes diminished the amounts available to meet specific bequests?

Most important of all, does your will as drawn include plans for long-time protection of these bequests?

If not, let us call your attention to Trust Funds under wills. There is no surer method of protecting the money you leave.

We urge upon you the importance of having your will brought up to date, and shall be glad to talk with you about the present-day problems involved.
