Baby Skunks Change Into Cute House Pets

Undergoing delicate operations first experience operating on last week were five baby skunks, which are now odorless and will be used for housepets for persons who have the will power to forget their former smell, that is, the "stinkers" for himself, one veterinarian plans to keep one of the "stinkers" for himself, one said.

Only six weeks old the little beauties were found between Baker and Dougherty communities last week by Floyd County Assistant Agent John Schlittler. The mother was destroyed and the babies brought in to Dr. T. T. Theford for the operation.

Dr. Theford said skunks make wonderful pets and beat cats for mousers. However, precautions should be used with other pets in the way of rabies shots.

Dr. Theford said this was his first experience operating on skunks. At the time the picture was snapped all five animals looked as fit as a fiddle. The veterinarian plans to keep one of the "stinkers" for himself, one said.

Most members of Congress were disappointed that final adjournment was not achieved prior to the conventions, over many key bills slowed action and prevented the wind-up of legislative business.

Mahon will attend the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles, beginning July 11th, and, as a delegate, will join all other Texas delegates in working for the nomination of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson for President.

Indications are that the granting of obligatory authority other than appropriations by Congress will be decided over the President's Budget.

Final decisions as to what will be done on such major issues as federal aid to education, minimum wages, and social security will be made when Congress resumes. On these programs, as well as a number of others, either the House or Senate or both have taken preliminary action.

Four to Six Weeks More. Mahon predicts that the Congress will be in session "from four to six weeks" when it reconvenes after the political conventions. The House is due to return to action August 15th, while the Senate has voted to convene

Reports Give Two To Seven Inch Totals

Sloshing early July rains, following late June showers, have brought Floyd County farm and ranch lands a mid-summer season that just exactly fills the bill for practically all of the farm operators in the county.

Exceptions are onion growers who have harvesting operations under way, and irrigated farms where rainfall spoils their watering and cultivation schedules.

Monday night rainfall that measured from three inches and more in the vicinity of Sand Hill to an inch at South Plains and beyond, was followed by a Wednesday morning deluge that also was general and practically equalled the Monday night rain.

At Floydada the rain measured two inches down-town on Tuesday morning after six hours of rain Monday night.

Wednesday morning at 10:30 after five hours of rain, two inches more had fallen.

Rain was still falling at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

With the grain harvest behind and most of the stubble plowed, much of the cotton just at the right stage to benefit, and thousands of acres of maize ready to go into the boot, the deep soaking rains were well timed. The weatherman could not have done a better job.

Calls over the county indicate the heaviest Monday rain was in the general vicinity of Sand Hill. Apparently the Wednesday rain was more uniform, with possibly the heaviest fall in the southeast part of the county. Monday's reports put the rainfall at Sand Hill at 3.4 inches. Wednesday the Williams' at T-Bar Ranch on Blanco Canyon reported a total of six inches.

Grady Walker, on the other side of Blanco, had had 5.4 inches at noon Wednesday, and Halls had had seven inches of rainfall.

The big rain has compounded the troubles of residents in the city whose streets were torn up weeks ago by earth moving crews and left in that raw state. Already icked by periods of heavy travel in two rains, and barely able to negotiate the streets where they formerly traveled on ribbon paving or gravel, these residents (including the whole south end of town south of Highway 70) began devising ways and means of reaching their premises.

One fellow bought mud grips, another has a friend with a tractor, others park blocks away from home. Garages with tow trucks are having calls early and late.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Congress Adjourns Until After the Political Conventions

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A busy Congress, heading for a recess until after the national conventions of the two major political parties, early this week cleared several important measures and sent them to the White House for the signature of President Eisenhower.

One of the most important and far-reaching of these bills was the $40 billion Defense measure, handled in the House by George Mahon of the 19th Congressional District of Texas. Speaking of the Defense bill, Mahon said:

"I think we produced a good bill. We kept politics out of the bill, as attested by the fact that all Republicans and Democrats on the Appropriations Committee except one supported it."

"We exceeded the budget in order to make up for certain deficiencies in the defense program. Many significant changes were made in the President's program in order to add needed strength to the defense effort. Congress took the position that this was no time to let down our guard."

Just prior to the recess, after heated debate, a wheat and feed grain farm bill was voted down in the House by a vote of 171 to 236. According to Mahon, the defeat of this measure means that no major farm legislation will be enacted at this session. Mahon said that the atmosphere was unfavorable and the conflicts were so great between Congress and Secretary Benson and among the farm organizations that it would be much better to consider the farm problem under the changed atmosphere of the new Administration, Democratic or Republican, which will take over next January following the November elections.

Bracero Farm Labor Bill — The House passed a bill extending the Bracero farm labor bill for two years. Favorable Senate action is expected in August.

Final action on most of the appropriation bills for the session was taken prior to the recess. Indications are that appropriations in the over-all will approximate the amount of money requested by the President in his January Budget, but major readjustments, both up and down, were made, the Defense addition accounting for the major increase. Indications are that the granting of obligatory authority other than appropriations by Congress will be decided over the President's Budget.

Final decisions as to what will be done on such major issues as federal aid to education, minimum wages, and social security will be made when Congress resumes. On these programs, as well as a number of others, either the House or Senate or both have taken preliminary action.

Four to Six Weeks More. Mahon predicts that the Congress will be in session "from four to six weeks" when it reconvenes after the political conventions. The House is due to return to action August 15th, while the Senate has voted to convene a week earlier, or August 11th. "I am hopeful," Mahon said, "that members of both political parties will refrain from turning the remainder of the session into a partisan show. The times demand serious, responsible attention to the legislation that will come before us."

Most members of Congress were disappointed that final adjournment was not achieved prior to the conventions, over many key bills slowed action and prevented the wind-up of legislative business.

Mahon will attend the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles, beginning July 11th, and, as a delegate, will join all other Texas delegates in working for the nomination of Senator Lyndon B. Johnson for President.

Indications are that the granting of obligatory authority other than appropriations by Congress will be decided over the President's Budget.

Willson - Son AND Builders Mart

A lively argument about marriage was going on at the beauty shop the other day. The shop owner, an efficient and forthright young wife, was telling a teenager what makes a marriage succeed. The girl was all for "keeping one's own personality" and "an independent attitude."

"It's gotta be give-and-take," the woman declared. "You can have some independence, yes, but if you insist on spending your evenings with the girls, you can just bet your man is going to do the same and probably with the girls, too! You have to make partnership decisions on your marriage won't go."

Her advice was good, but it wasn't getting through. A young girl can't quickly apply general terms to her own idealized picture of married life.

Women from seven European countries recently gave their ideas of the "prime requirement" for a happy married life. These ranged from cleanliness, through economy, good food, a large family, no nagging, and keeping one's good looks, to a more spiritual attitude in the home.

In truth there is no exact formula. Although a reasonable amount of each of the ingredients mentioned by the European housewives is necessary, any woman who carries one or more of them to excess is likely to sacrifice marital happiness by overlooking other values just as essential to her own case.

The prospective bridegroom attended schools in Floydada, served two years with the Armed Forces in Germany and is presently employed by the Mountain States Telephone Co., in El Paso.

FEEDING A FAMILY — CAN A FREEZER HELP ???

If there's a good buy to be found anywhere for the home-maker today it's in a food freezer. It can cut food costs, save time, trouble and transportation, provide delicious meals on short order, and add variety to your menus. However, in return for all this service you will have to take time to know your freezer, and adapt its uses to the likes and dislikes of the various members of your family. You will need to plan your shopping and your cooking to have the things you need in advance.

Make a close study of price tags if you are looking for real savings.

Decide how to use the space in your freezer so the advantages will outweigh the obligations.

THE ECONOMY STORY IS NOT A MYTH for it is possible to save money with a freezer. To make a year-round profit takes canny buying, a watchful eye for specials that are really worth while, quantity discounts and a plan for freezing foods when they are in season. A garden is a perfect partner for a freezer. It can yield a winter's supply of fruits and vegetables for only a few cents a pound.

If you buy meat in quantity for your freezer remember that each side of meat has its quota of stew meat as well as steaks — will your family eat one as well as the other? Remember, too, that each side of meat has a percentage of waste fat and bone to expect. For example, a 2½ pound side of beef will give approximately 170 pounds of trimmed meat.

So, figure your cost per pound on the net weight and add what ever you pay for aging, cutting, grinding, wrapping or any other charges you are out getting it ready to put into the freezer.

Compare this with the retail cost of meat of the same grade, then you can tell just what your saving will be.

Your freezer can be your grocery store right in your own home, and anyway you take it being the manager is a lot of fun — if you will just give it a little time and some study it will pay you a nice dividend.

REMEMBER — when you freeze food there is a limit to the amount you can freeze at one time. Check your instruction booklet. Overloading may not cause your motor to heat but it will increase the running time and therefore will be less ap petizing when served. Be sure you read carefully everything the manufacturer has told you about your freezer in your instruction booklet.

DON'T FORGET — your freezer in your very own kitchen holds the best things you ever had — if you are careful in your planning, preparing and packaging.

Water District To Make Test Of Depletion Claim In Court

LUBBOCK — In 1954, the High Plains Water District filed with the U. S. Internal Revenue Service a request for a ruling that would establish ground water in the southern High Plains of Texas as a depletable natural resource and allow a deduction on federal income-tax returns for its depletion.

The request for such an administrative ruling has been denied. A lawsuit is now being planned to establish through litigation the district's contention that underground water in this area is a natural deposit and that it is being depleted; and that individuals and institutions using water to produce income should be allowed a federal income-tax deduction for the depletion of this resource.

Such depletion shall be calculated under cost rather than percentage depletion methods.

The district is gathering information that will be used during the trial to establish facts pertaining to the underground water and to the reservoir. The fact that the underground water is gradually and surely being depleted and that the use of underground water in the production of crop income has a definite economic value.

An individual irrigation farmer will be selected by the Water District and the Revenue Service to test the case for test case purposes.

The general understanding of the Water District and the Revenue Service is that the decision of the court will become the rule not only in this case, but that it will apply to all southern High Plains water users who have a like set of circumstances.

To prepare the case, the district has endeavored to obtain the best legal and engineering counsel available. The verdict of the court will be very important to taxpayers in the High Plains of Texas; consequently, no stone will be left unturned in preparing for the case.

Individually, the income-tax deduction may not be sufficient to warrant each person filing such a lawsuit in his own behalf, however, as a collective effort through the Water District, a favorable decision by the court would save millions of dollars in and their son, Elton Karr, tax savings for area landowners.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kinniburgh, during the economic life of the district.

Stock Barns At Fair Seen As Big Need

A meeting of the Floyd County Fair Association board, held in Golden's Cafe in Lockney Saturday night had a fair attendance. Attend Church This Week - Your Church Needs You

The Master's Touch

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Genesis	1	1-31
Monday	Psalms	104	1-35
Tuesday	Psalms	37	22-29
Wednesday	II Corinthians	4	3-6
Thursday	Luke	12	31-34
Friday	Luke	14	18-30
Saturday	Psalms	95	1-11

God must love beauty, to use it so lavishly. The Master Artist dapples the soft green leaves with golden sunshine, turns the brook to flowing crystal, and puts a song into Spring itself.

There is beauty in us, too . . . because He put it there. In His sight, none of us are ugly, none of us are forsaken, none of us are "lost."

But sometimes, in the busy process of day-to-day living, we turn blind eyes upon the world's loveliness, and take for granted the gifts which should brighten the hours and years. We need a faith that gives us vision to find again the inner beauty He gave us in the beginning . . . a gift which He never takes away. Let us go, then, to His Church. Let us "enter into His gates with thanksgiving . . . for the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting; and His Truth endureth forever."

Newest idea on four wheels—The Plymouth XNR, latest of America's "idea cars," features an entirely new departure in automobile styling, when viewed from any angle. A single fin, in the form of a graduated plane, runs the length of the car. It is off-center to concentrate styling around the driver of this low, lean roadster. Frame for the front grille and the artistically modern "X" in the rear are actually the bumpers. Car was hand built in Italy to Plymouth specifications.

Boyce House Says I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

There is, or was, quite a few years ago, a railroad station bearing the sign, "Greenway, Ark." — in sight of the highway as you drive by. What is mentioned about that? Well, the town is a mile and a half away and the building is in a farmer's field.

No, it was not carried there by a flood or a tornado. How then did it get there? That is the tragic story of a town.

I was born in Piggott, which is the county seat of Clay County, Back in 1919, when I returned to my birth place to edit the Banner, if an out-of-towner referred to Piggott as Hoggott, a riled native would likely knock his hat off.

And yet a hog played a decisive part in the history of Piggott, according to tradition, which goes like this:

Greenway and Piggott were about the same size. They were three miles apart. Both were on the Cotton Belt railroad. They were rivals for the honor of being selected as county seat. Paved streets were unknown and the sidewalks were made of boards what sidewalks there were, in either town.

One election day, reports indicated that the contest was proving close. In the afternoon, a man arrived in a third town, which held the balance of power. He had come through Greenway, he said, horseback. There had been a heavy rain there the night before, he continued. "In fact," he added, as a seeming afterthought, "a hog drowned on Main Street."

This news — implying that hogs roved freely through the town's business section — dealt a blow to the Greenway cause and the voting turned heavily in Piggott's favor. Consequently, that city was selected as the county seat.

With the county offices (which represented a substantial payroll) and with citizens having to record their deeds and pay their taxes there and court attracting big crowds several weeks a year — with all this, Piggott marched forward. Greenway, losing business to its neighbor, gradually declined until dwindling trade caused the railroad to sell the depot. The building was brought by a farmer who moved it to his place for use as a barn.

The day after the election, the citizens of Greenway learned of the report. They acknowledged there had been a heavy rain but they indignantly denied the implication that hogs were accustomed to roam through the business district, much less that one had drowned. They clamored also for the identity of the bearer of this information. But no one seemed to know who he was and he must have been a modest man for he did not come forward and make himself known.

So the decline and fall of Greenway, climaxed by the hauling away of the once-busy depot to house the corn of a hill-farmer and the rise of Piggott — all of this was brought about by a hog and probably a non-existent hog, at that.

In Fort Smith, Ark., in 1925, gathering material for an article I visited the police station and an old-time officer, learning I was from Texas, asked if I'd ever been in Comanche. He remarked, "The last time I was there, five bodies were lying on the courthouse square."

Rep. Howard Green of Fort Worth used to be sports editor in Abilene. While attending high school, he wrote a sports article which won second place in a Texas contest — and first in a national contest.

Big Spring used to be the location of a big spring, (I am told) but it disappeared. Tired of having so many visitors ask where the spring was, citizens, back in the 1930's built one.

Neon signs are all right but they can't compare with that now-vanished sign in San Antonio, showing a cowboy roping a steer.

Post was named for C. W. Post, the cereal king ("granaputs") was one of his products.

Tris Speaker, one of the all-time greats of baseball — was born (the old record book said) in Hubbard City — only don't call it that to an inhabitant; he'll tell you the name is Hubbard.

And people who lived in the general Brown — Eastland counties' area referred to a place as Maytown, which always seemed to displease the residents, who called it May. The late Mark McGee, Fort Worth attorney, who had one of the keenest senses of humor I ever known, was from there and so was W. R. Chambers, one of the most esteemed members of the legislature in his day.

Strawn is said to have had at one time the largest number of line homes of any city between Fort Worth and El Paso. This was early in the century when coal mining was in full swing and also several rich ranch families lived there.

Outdoors In Texas

By Vern Sanford

As an outdoorsman you should learn all you can regarding mother nature — especially how she provides for you, as well as for the game you love.

Enjoy modern frozen foods and mechanical gadgets just as much as the next fellow. But I think it is good to know how the Indians and the early pioneers survived without these conveniences.

Having nothing but what mother nature provided, our predecessors survived because of their knowledge and ingenuity in using what they had.

Each animal, plant, shrub or tree had its own place in nature. But most of them can be put to some extra use, to serve man.

If he knows or can discover how to use it.

Generally this discovery comes about as a matter of necessity. However, the factor of necessity seldom arises in our modern day world. Nevertheless, it's still good to retain part of this knowledge, even today.

Many camping families, boy scout groups, the Armed Forces, etc., attempt to learn what they can about survival, dependent upon mother nature. I have yet to hear anyone who studied it say that he had been wasting his time.

Let's just look at one, often abused and criticized product of mother nature, that abounds throughout Texas. Let's see what she has performed in the way of survival for man.

The small, misshapen, scrawny little mesquite tree has been scoffed at by tourists in Texas for many years. Yet Texas owes a great deal to this determined and useful projection of love from mother nature.

In the early days of Texas when its population was composed of Indians, Mexicans and early white settlers, the mesquite tree was like a present suburban shopping center.

This little sprig of life provided so much for the existence of these people that I am surprised that Texas has not erected a mesquite tree statue in undying admiration for this so often abused creation of nature.

The mesquite tree was perhaps the prime heat supply of our early day people, as it provided kindling for both heating and cooking.

The oft-eaten barbecue of today started with meat prepared over the wood from mesquite trees. This wood imparts a flavor to the meat that is relished by many barbecue experts of today.

The delicate leaves of the mesquite were, and sometimes still are, placed in men's hats — to help keep the head cooler in hot weather.

Mesquite tree leaves, after being used as poultices, as were the leaves of many other plants and trees.

Household bleaches of today may be better, but the earlier Texas inhabitants were quick to use the leaves of mesquite trees to make the ap.

The mesquite bean, that hangs in long slender pods from the tree, also found many uses.

They were ground between stones and fed to tiny beans were ground between stones. The result — Ole — was flour.

This was a potent and variously used flour. It made a tasty and energy-providing bread, even now enjoyed by some. The uncooked dough was the beginning of the now famous tortillas and tamales.

If you mixed this mesquite bean flour with water you could have a choice of two useful products — a stomach medicine or a potent liquor. Could be that the ole-timers needed both at the same time.

Lastly, we come down to the root of the tree itself. Roots were boiled into a stomach and bowel medicine (undoubtedly never patented) and an excellent dressing for wounds.

You could forecast your plant by this tree, too. It never freezes after the buds appear and I hear tell that a very cold winter is always forecast by an extra large crop of mesquite beans.

Now, don't you agree that we've abused this tree? That we've treated it unfairly?

True, it's not a thing of beauty. But after all — beauty is only skin deep.

Plans and Movements of General Houston.

Gen. Houston's letter to the press stated that he has received more than 80 applications from parties who desire to raise volunteer companies to defend and protect the frontiers of Texas from further invasion.

Gov. Houston has advised such companies to be raised and placed under the command of officers in every county along the frontier of Texas.

He advises these companies to be always ready to defend the country and in case of an alarm to pursue and exterminate all war like forces who may dare to cross into Texas for the purpose of ravaging the country.

In 1775, General Washington manned 5 schooners and a sloop with officers and men from his army for the purpose of preying on English supply vessels.

On May 7, 1934 the USS Constitution (Old Ironsides) returned to the Boston Navy Yard after a three-year 22,000 mile tour of large U. S. seaports.

New Law Aimed to Controlling Live Stock On State Highways

The Texas Department of Public Safety reminded Texas cattlemen today that a new law went into effect July 1 aimed at controlling livestock on designated US and state highways.

The new law makes it illegal for a person knowingly to permit his domestic livestock to roam at large and unattended on state and federal highways. It applies regardless of whether or not the highway right-of-way is fenced. Maximum fine for such violation is $200, and each day the violation occurs may be considered a separate offense.

Farm to market roads are excepted from the law. The new law also gives law enforcement officers the authority to have such livestock picked up, when unable to locate the owner, and turn over to the sheriff or constable in the county.

The law does not prohibit the driving or herding of livestock across or along highways. It gives peace officers the authority to enforce provisions of the act without a warrant.

Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said state patrolmen will enforce provisions of the law in an effort to reduce the traffic hazard caused by animals on designated state and US highways.

Breaks Heat Wave

The rain period broke a heat wave that was sending the thermometer soaring every day during late June and the first days of July.

From June 16 to June 30 the temperature reached 100 degrees or more seven of the 15 days with all the other days in the high nineties.

Highest temperature recorded was on June 15 with a 104 degree reading.

In the first three days of July the gauge registered from 96 to 100 degrees on the first day of the month to 90 on July 3.

The cool wave blew in on the fourth when the high was 85 and on Tuesday the high reading was quite cool, 69 degrees.

Blanco Canyon was on a rise at the Ralls Crossing but was not running full at 10 o'clock.

Cotton Blooms Seen

The rains caught much of the early cotton at the squaring stage when irrigation specialists indicate cotton is most in need of ample moisture.

Several fields in various parts of the county had blooms on July 4th. At McCoy where some of the fields were up to a good stand on April 30, there was a considerable sprinkling of blooms.

John Fowler said he had blooms in his field.

Late planted cotton also was shining down the rows. The rainfall was heavy at times but gentle. This cotton also will profit from the moisture.

The past two weeks early cotton had begun to make good growth, said farmers who had an early, season battle with the elements and insects.

On range lands the moisture is expected to mature a good grass crop for late summer, fall and winter grazing, cattlemen report.

At the T-Bar the range was beginning to brown too fast before the rains fell.

July maturing maize, of which there is considerable acreage, will boot out and make a good crop, maize growers say, with no further moisture required. Late feed will be grown fast through the remaining heat of the mid-summer.

Bindweed Seeds By The Millions Being Produced

The past few weeks of hot dry weather have been conducive to prolific bindweed seed production. Research has found that one-half million bindweed seeds were produced per acre on wheat land and up to 4 1/2 million seeds per acre were formed in bindweed infested road ditches.

These astounding figures should make everyone more conscious of preventing this noxious weed from producing seed. Many farmers which are under contract with the Federal Government in Bindweed in heavy seed production.

This land will be back in production some day and if efforts are not made to control bindweed now it will be difficult and expensive to produce any type of agronomic crop on this land.

A few farmers in the county are making an effort to eradicate the bindweed while their land is in government contract in anticipation of having clean farm land when it is put back into production. Control can be exercised at nominal cost to the land owner. The Weed District is willing to assist land owners in setting up a control program on such land.

EDITORIAL VIEWS AND COMMENTARY

The export program of this country the past year or so has made American cotton marketing successful in most of the European countries, reports Plains Cotton Growers, which had a representative in Europe for six weeks recently. Textile mills and spinners in western Europe indicated the belief that Americans can carry drying and cleaning cotton to excess. Despite some dissatisfaction, however, the marketing outlook for 1960 seems to be good, the report says.

Marry, Young man! or marry young, man. This seems to be good advice right now, so far as a young fellow is concerned with credit or casualty insurance costs. The insurance companies and the commercial credit houses seem to be in combination against a young fellow who would like to buy a car on credit and get insurance on operating it on the highways. As soon as he marries or becomes 25, if his record is good, his credit quickly improves and his insurance costs go down.

The Loyalty policy laid down by the National Democratic Committee fails to require a pledge to support the party nominees. In Texas historically there has been a fight for more than 40 years over the issue of loyalty as a party requirement, trying to force rather than to persuade the minds of the voters.

Interstate Highway Costs. Connivance, waste and graft are the ugly words used in a good many reports we get as reasons why the interstate highway system, expected to cost a certain number of billions of dollars and be finished within a certain number of years, is now estimated to cost billions more than expected and be years longer finishing. That is the answer to the many protests going up especially from country papers, against the president's one cent a gallon extra tax on gasoline and continued harping on the need to keep the program in high gear for the sake of the economy of the nation. What the program needs is a stop sign, not a go ahead signal, until some of the waste and graft can be wrung out of it. Texas people, who have a stubborn-minded highway department which brooks no femadiddles, are astounded at the tales they hear from some states.

New Live Stock Law. Times have changed and the rule that governs liability when live stock are on public highways has been strengthened now to make it an offense in Texas knowingly to permit domestic livestock to roam at large and unattended on state and federal highways. The new law became effective July 1. Fines are provided for and each day is considered a separate offense. Whereas a wise motorist who ran down an animal on the public roads once began negotiations to mollify and satisfy the irate owner of a domestic beast, nowadays the rule is exactly the opposite. Peace officers may enforce the provisions of the new act without a warrant.

About Rent Houses. People who have to rent homes, or want to do so for reasons good and sufficient to themselves, are reminded of the landlord's side of the problem. There is a problem for him. If there were not there would be plenty of good houses available. There is ample investment money around but experience has indicated that rent houses in Floydada are quite often not profitable. The fact is the landlord often finds a shambles when the family moves out, a dirty place that has to be re-done. Too many tenants do not realize the responsibility they have, the unwritten understanding that they will turn the house back in as good condition as they found it. The landlord, stuck with an inexcusable bill for repairs he shouldn't have to make is leery the next time. That is the bald statement of fact.

What Is The Answer? So long as matters rock along as they are, what property owners now have they'll continue to hazard to rent, hoping each time they've found a family that will care for their property. Otherwise the answer might be a deposit for the good care and return of the property when the tenant is through using it. In some cities such a procedure is followed and people find good homes to live in temporarily. But a hit or miss condition as is usually found in Floydada, results in a bad situation for all concerned. A good renter can hardly imagine some of the things that irresponsible tenants do to houses.

But those things said, lack of good houses for rent still plagues the community. Local business organizations last week were hunting homes for families here for one reason or another, due to spend the summer, mayhap the rest of their lives, if conditions warrant, but the houses simply were not available. This may be a problem in all other towns, too, but if so is scant consolation to the retail district where the need for more traffic is the ever-present dilemma.

New Telephone Introduced In Floydada

A new telephone — small, light and oval-shaped — was introduced here last weekend. Called the Princess, this oval-shaped telephone is about one-third smaller and two pounds lighter than present desk model telephones, according to Manager J. C. Oakley of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company.

The manager said Bell Telephone Laboratory scientists worked five years developing the compact size and style of the Princess.

It is two inches lower and five inches smaller from front to back than current desk model phones. "Because of its small base," Bell Laboratories engineers had to reduce the size of the complex dial and switch equipment and the wiring in the Princess," Oakley said.

"The Princess was tested with thousands of customers before it went into production," Oakley said. "Many of their suggestions were incorporated into its final design."

He said the new phone is made in five colors — white, pink, blue, beige and turquoise. The Princess also has an illuminated dial so calls can be made in the dark. This light can be switched on to glow softly as a night light when the phone is not in use. Oakley said the new Princess telephone business office here July 1.

July 24 to 30 Farm Safety Week in Texas

COLLEGE STATION. — Governor Price Daniel by proclamation has designated the week of July 24-30 as Farm Safety Week in Texas. This same period has also been designated as National Farm Safety Week by the President of the United States. In his proclamation, Governor Daniel said: "The Nation's economy is dependent upon the continued well-being and progress of our State's agricultural population. Accidents from farm work cause needless suffering, distress and loss of life each year among our rural families."

"By directing the attention of our rural residents to safety education, such worthwhile programs now being conducted can greatly reduce accidents. I urge all Texas farm families to increase their vigilance against needless accidents and further encourage interested organizations and individuals to participate in this program."

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council points out that the purpose of the special week is to focus attention on the year-round need for reducing the number of farm accidents, and to cause those who can do something about the problem, to act. The farmer and his family, says the Council, must carry safety into their everyday lives. Nationally, they add, farm accidents cost one and a quarter billion dollars annually, a sizable sum any way you take it.

The ever-tightening cost-price squeeze faced by agriculturists makes accident prevention even more important, says the Council, because a single costly accident can just about squeeze out the profits from most farm enterprises.

The Council joins Governor Dan iel in urging rural residents and organizations to make safety their number one project for the months ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Grundy and family are due home this week end from Corpus Christi where they visited their married son Doyle and family. Prior to the visit at Corpus the family was at Silsby visiting Mr. Grundy's sister, Mrs. R. L. Reed and family.

SOCIETY

Farewell Party Compliments Mr. and Mrs. Dever

The home of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Burns was decorated in a beach corners atmosphere Saturday night for the surprise "going away" party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Connie Dever. The honored couple and their young son are moving to Petersburg.

On arrival for the party guests were presented leis. Fishing nets held aloft by bamboo poles and entwined with various artificial insect species, made the scene in the family den where entertainment took place. Chinese paper lanterns swung to and fro, with hurricane lanterns hung for lighting.

Over a serving table was draped a smaller fisherman's net decorated with sea shells and a totem pole lamp placed in a dividing area of the dining room, bore beach corners strawhats.

Centering the table was a woven basket containing an assortment of fruit surrounded by sea shells on greenery, and a lazy susan holding an assortment of dips, fritos, crackers and chips. Bite size pickles, olives and other orders were served along with green punch from crystal appointments. Guests were entertained with piano selections played throughout the evening by Keith Patzer and Mrs. Louise Turner. Table games were also enjoyed, as well as recorded music.

Attending the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Connie Dever, Mr. and Mrs. Dub Breunington, Petersburg, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Hammonds, Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. The couple's attendants were Miss Lavetta Hopkins and Ozark Blankenship of Arlington. Miss Hopkins wore a blue and white silk accented at the neckline by white lace. She wore a white gladioli shoulder corsage.

A reception followed the wedding in the home of the bridegroom's mother.

Couple Married Friday Leave On Honeymoon Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Kay Crabtree are on a wedding trip to the lower part of Texas, having left shortly after their wedding performed in Lubbock Friday evening in the study of the Rev. Dr. W. E. Thorne. Mrs. Crabtree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Griffith of Idalou. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. L. E. Crabtree of Lubbock.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was gown in a street-length white silk organza fashioned with a round neckline and brief sleeves. White velvet bows were caught at intervals on the skirt. She carried a bridal bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid atop a white Bible.

The couple's attendants were Miss Lavetta Hopkins and Ozark Blankenship of Arlington. Miss Hopkins wore a blue and white silk accented at the neckline by white lace. She wore a white gladioli shoulder corsage.

A reception followed the wedding in the home of the bridegroom's mother.

After the newly-weds return they will reside in Lubbock. Mrs. Crabtree, a graduate of Idalou High School, is employed by Lubbock National Bank. Her husband, a former resident of Floydada, attended Wayland Baptist College and Texas Tech.

Study Club Has Called Meeting

Members of the 1959 Study Club convened Thursday afternoon for a called meeting held in the Community Room of the First National Bank. Mrs. Tate Jones, president, was in charge.

The purpose of the session was to complete material for the club's year book and to elect a parliamentarian to replace Mrs. A. P. Kreis, who has resigned. Mrs. R. W. Overstreet has been named as the new officer.

Regular meeting dates will be resumed by the club in September.

Couple Planning September Vows

Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Roberts announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Janis K., to Kendis Dee Julian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray M. Julian of South Plains.

The First Baptist Church Chapel will be the scene of the couple's wedding at 3 p. m. on Sunday, September 4.

Miss Roberts is a 1958 graduate of Floydada High School and will be a junior at West Texas State College at Canyon in September. She is employed this summer at the ASC Office.

Mr. Julian is a 1957 graduate of Floydada High School and will be a senior at West Texas State College in September. He is presently attending R. O. T. C. Summer Camp at Fort Hood, Texas.

Mrs. G. M. Bullard enjoyed a visit last week with her niece and husband of New York and a granddaughter and her family. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Scarbrough and two sons of Arizona.

Alma Holmes and daughters are on vacation planning to spend most of their time at Lake Brownwood.

Women, and especially grandmothers, like the darndest things. We heard a grandmother talking to her son and his wife the other day, about the birthday she had while they were out of town.

"Do you know what Mike gave me?" she said, the smile wrinkles crinkling around the corners of her eyes. "Half a watermelon!"

Mike is four years old, one of about ten grandchildren. She has three daughters and two sons and baby-sits for a living. Her "young" friends number in the dozens.

"He had eaten the other half," she said, "but he made his mother bring this one to me. Then he stayed and helped me eat it. I don't care much for melon, but that was the nicest gift I received. The real present was watching his bright brown eyes shine down on that spoon!"

Summer is open season for grandparents. Either they are conscripted into taking care of a young brood while their children vacation, or else they beg for the opportunity. Either way, they have their day with the kids. It's something to remember, for all three generations.

The young parents, of course, appreciate the convenience. But often they say, "It'll take me weeks to get him back to normal," or "She has her bottle at seven-or did, before we left." The youngsters, on the other hand will remember the special privileges that offset homesickness long after they have grown up and understand why parents must be firm in establishing routine.

As for grandparents, whatever trials and tribulations the summer may bring, they'll end the experience with a lovely picture tattooed on their hearts. This they never lose.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Grimes and daughter of Crosbyton visited here Friday with his mother, then left to spend the holidays in Borger with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Queen and children of Andrews are here this week visiting relatives.

Car Hits Parked Truck To Injure Two Youngsters

Two Floyd County youngsters are receiving medical treatment this week as a result of a car wreck Saturday night about 10:30. They are Cecil Jackson, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jackson, and Mary Starkey, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Starkey, all of the Sandhill community.

The couple were traveling west on highway 70. The 1939 Oldsmobile belonging to the Jackson family, hit the rear end of a semi-truck trailer belonging to C. M. Leatherman. The vehicle was parked at the curb directly in front of the Pete Kendrick Warehouse and equipment parking area.

Young Jackson said at the time of the impact his vehicle was being passed by another car and he pulled over to the right in order to give more room. Cars coming from the opposite direction were believed to have blinded the driver and he failed to see the parked truck until too late.

The collision threw the Starkey girl against the windshield of the car, knocking out two teeth and cutting her chin. She also sustained dislocation of both hips, a chipped jaw bone and a punctured ear drum, besides numerous lacerations and bruises. The Jackson youth received two broken ribs, lacerations and bruises. He is in Peoples Hospital and Miss Starkey was transferred to Methodist Hospital after emergency treatment here.

Extensive damage resulted to the Jackson car with minor damages reported to the truck.

Savings Bond Sales Nearing Half Of Goal

During the first five months of this year the citizens of Floyd County purchased $116,213.00 in Series E and H United States Savings Bonds. This announcement was made today by Dan Pemberton, Chairman of the Floyd County Savings Bonds Committee.

"We have now achieved 48.4 per cent of our 1960 goal of $240,000," Chairman Pemberton reported.

Texas sales for the first five months of this year were $69,824,409, which represents 42.2 per cent of the 1960 goal of $165,900,000. May sales in Texas totaled $12,341,632, which is $1,049,469 greater than sales in the same month during 1959.

"The United States Savings Bonds program is one of the finest ways of encouraging regular savings. Through the pay-roll savings plan or other regular purchases, millions of Americans have become savers for the first time. They have found these 'save-as-you-earn' plans an ideal way to build up financial reserves for emergencies and for special goals, such as sending children through college, buying a home, or supplementing retirement income," concluded Mr. Pemberton, Chairman of the Floyd County Savings Bonds Committee.
