FLAMES FORCE MOTHER TO LEAP FOR HER LIFE

Lives of Children Also Endangered By Fast Spreading Blaze

BIG LOSS SUFFERED

$1[illegible],000 Damage Estimate Placed By City Firemen

Starting in a wall behind the hot water heater and spreading rapidly throughout the two-story structure, fire yesterday afternoon swept the home of John T. Burris, 1418 Eleventh street, endangering the lives of Mrs. Burris and her two children and caused a property loss estimated at over $12,000.

Leaps for Life.

It was necessary to place Mrs. Burris under the care of a physician after she had leaped to the ground from the roof of a porch. With the stairway cut off by flames, she and the children were forced to jump for their lives from the second floor.

The flames broke out about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and gained considerable headway before they were discovered. Mrs. Burris and the children were asleep on the second floor and were awakened by smoke and crackling flames as the blaze ate into the bedroom. She rushed to the door, but found herself trapped from any exit that way.

The only way out was through a window opening onto the roof of the porch, and from this Mrs. Burris and the babies leaped as the flames followed them through the window.

Fire Gets Big Start.

By the time the fire department could be summoned the interior of the house was seething. Four pump lines were put on the blaze, but the structure was already practically a total loss. The interior was burned away, and while the outer walls were left standing it is probable that they will have to be torn down. Firemen estimated that there was perhaps $1,500 worth of salvage in the building.

Big Loss Suffered.

A value of about $6,000 was placed on the furnishings of the place, of which $3,500 was covered by insurance. The building was owned by John T. Waggoner who could not be reached for an estimate of the loss last night. Firemen placed it at about $8,000, however, with the salvage value cutting the damage down to $7,500 or less. It is not known what insurance was carried.

Coming in mid-afternoon, the fire attracted an exceptionally large crowd to the vicinity of Eleventh and Holliday where the building was located.

Mrs. Harris is well known in Wichita Falls as she has conducted the Burris private school at her home on Eleventh street for the last several years. Mr. Burris has been connected both with the Hines and Mericle-Lunn Undertaking establishments as an embalmer. Following her injury she was carried to the home of her neighbor, Mrs. C. Bell, but later in the afternoon was able to go to the home of other friends in the city to spend the night.

Aid To Crying Mexican Boy Wins Dollar

"The quality of mercy is not strained. It droppeth as the gentle rain from Heaven—".

HE was just a chubby little Mexican boy of three years but he was clean and was lost from his mother. The crowd at Kress's store Saturday night was large and many people passed the little fellow as he softly cried and looked with startled eyes for his mother. Hundreds passed him without giving him a moment's notice. Everyone was intent on purchasing a few articles before the store closed. Moreover he was just a brown-skinned little fellow and a native of an alien race.

The little fellow passed down one aisle and up another looking for his mother. Dimly in his mind he knew that she ought to be in that great mass of people but he was unable to find her and moreover he was being jostled about by the intent shopping crowd.

* * *

AT that time Bill Lawson, hard hitting local high school backfield football player entered the store. He came into the store to make a purchase but that was soon forgotten when he noticed the little fellow crying.

"Say kid, who are you hunting for?" asked Lawson.

The little Mexican began jabbering a lingo that Lawson knew nothing about. He scratched his head for a moment and then grasped the little fellow by the arm and began steering him up one aisle and down another. Knowing that he had found a friend in this big bulky fellow that towered far above his head, the boy walked confidently by Bill's side. After a few minutes' search Lawson and the baby saw an anxious young mother hurrying through the crowd looking for her chiquito. The baby saw his mother and with a delighted scream broke loose from the football player and ran to his mother. The mother tried to thank Lawson but again he did not understand and this time he was anxious to get away.

The Record News Courtesy reporter saw the performance and before Lawson got out of the store handed him an order on the Record News for one dollar and admitted him as a member to the Record News Courtesy club.

Auto Only Clue To Missing Texan

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 9.—An abandoned automobile belonging to L. F. McMillan, missing Austin contractor, who disappeared Thursday after drawing $3,900 from a local bank, was found by deputy sheriffs standing at a curbing on a downtown street today.

It is known that Mr. McMillan drew the money from the bank with the intention of going to Garfield to pay employes working on a road job. Apparently he did not return to his automobile after obtaining the money and officers fear he has been robbed.

DALLAS WOMAN IS BILLED FOR MURDER

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Aug. 9.—An indictment charging murder was returned by the county grand jury today against Mrs. Edna Curlee, arrested Wednesday after the fatal shooting of Mrs. Myrtle Rine in a downtown store. Mrs. Curlee was released on $10,000 bond signed by 15 Dallas business men.

FORD DRAFTED AS CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATE

Republicans Put Henry In Race Despite His Protest

Three Others Qualify To Enter Lists For G. O. P. Honor

By The Associated Press.

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 9.—Henry Ford became an involuntary candidate for the republican nomination for United States senator, when petitions containing sufficient signatures to place his name on the primary ballot, September 9, were filed with the secretary of state today.

May Ignore Filing.

The petitions were filed shortly before the time limit for filing expired at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The Ford-for-Senator boom was started a few days ago, without his consent or knowledge and his name will go on the ballot unless he requests its withdrawal. Although his close associates have termed the move "absurd" it is said likely he will follow his course in previous elections and ignore the filing entirely.

The production of Henry Ford's name into the senatorial lists further complicate an alarming situation. It will bring him in opposition to his former business associate, Senator James Cousens, who also qualified for the place on the republican senatorial ballot.

Three Others Qualify.

Besides Cousens and Ford, there are three other candidates qualified—Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle of Detroit; Hal H. Smith, Detroit attorney, and Daniel W. Tussing of Lansing, said to have the support of the ku klux klan.

The democratic candidates for the senatorial nomination, Dean Mortimer Cooley of the University of Michigan, will go into the primary unopposed.

TWO MEXICANS ADMIT SLAYING

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Charge Schoenfeld at Mexico City cabled today that the Mexican foreign office informed him that the two Mexicans "supposed to have been responsible for the death of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, spontaneously confessed guilt." The two men are Francisco Ruiz and Alejo Garcia.

Mr. Schoenfeld received a note from the foreign minister containing this information which was said to have come "from competent authorities," presumably at Puebla. The dispatch did not say what reason was ascribed for the crime.

HARVESTER FACTORY IN RUSSIA TO OPEN

By The Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Aug. 9.—The factory at Liouberetzky, near Moscow, belonging to the International Harvester company, will resume work in the near future. The decision to begin operations again was taken by the supreme economic council which assigned 1,000,000 gold rubles for re-establishment and a credit of an equal sum for materials.

POLICE HUNT FOR MISSING WORKMAN

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 9.—Police authorities were searching today for Luther F. McMillen, aged 50, an Austin contractor, who has been missing since Thursday. It is believed he drew several thousand dollars from a local bank to pay his employes working on a road job near Garfield. No word has been received from him since he left town Thursday.

WOMAN HURLS BOY'S BODY INTO RIVER

By The Associated Press.

WATERLOO, Iowa, Aug. 9.—The body of six-year-old Nicholas Maharies, who was thrown into Cedar river Thursday by his stepmother, Mrs. Marie Maharies, was taken from the river today. The woman has confessed and faces a charge of murder.

The police were at the point of discarding the womans' story that she "hated the boy and wanted to hang" for his death when a river crew discovered the body.

BURGLAR LOCKS UP WOMEN AT BURK AS HE ROBS HOME

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 9.—Burglars who entered the home of a Mrs. Childress in this city last week left several frightened women behind when he locked them in a room as he made a search of the place. It is believed that he was frightened away, however, since nothing of any value has been missed.

Several pairs of trousers were taken from the home of Roy Compton a few days ago when a burglar ransacked the place. Nothing else of value here was missed.

WE WON'T STOP SMITH ASSERTS

Commander of American Round World Flight Wants to Finish

By The Associated Press.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 9.—Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commander of the American army round the world fliers, will not listen to any plan for abandoning the remainder of the flight because of unusually bad ice conditions along the coast of Greenland. It was this coast that was reported ice-locked, thus affording no safe haven for the planes.

Serious discussion is going on as to the possibility of fueling the planes at sea from the Raleigh as the final measure in the event that a safe harbor is not found. This would make the fliers take an almost continuous hop from Reykjavik to Ivigtut, on the west coast of Greenland. The fliers are reluctant to consider this possibility except in the event that others fail.

Delegates Leave For London To Continue In Reparations Parley

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—Unanimous approval has been given to the action of Premier Herriot and his colleagues at the London reparations conference.

This was announced at the conclusion of the special cabinet counsil at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

A communique issued shortly after the cabinet council adjourned says:

"The industrial council was acquainted with what was done at the London conference and agreed unanimously to give its full approval. Consequently M. Herriott, Clementele and General Nollett will leave Paris for London today (Sunday)."

DANCER LOSES IN WHITNEY BATTLE

By The Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—Federal Judge John H. Partridge overruled a demurrer entered by Evans Burrowes Fontaine, dancer, to the answer of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney of New York and San Francisco in her $1,000,000 breach of promise suit action against him.

By his ruling Judge Partridge makes it necessary for the dancer to meet the allegation that she has entered into a conspiracy to extort money upon a threat of suit for breach of promise as well as the charge that she secured a fraudulent annulment of a previous marriage in order to bring the action. Hearing was set for August 20.

Carolina Senator Tries To Battle With His Accuser

By The Associated Press.

GREENWOOD, S. C. Aug. 9.—Charges made by Insurance Commissioner John J. McMahan during the campaign meeting here today that Senator Dial had employed members of his family in his Washington office, caused the senator to lunge at the speaker and a physical encounter was narrowly averted.

Mr. McMahan asserted in his address Senator Dial had employed one of his daughters as a messenger and that it was "in violation of southern chivalry to use a lady of her culture as a messenger." At this the senator leaped to his feet and threw himself at the speaker, but was intercepted by former Governor Cole L. Blease who, with the aid of citizens, kept the pair separated and persuaded the senator to return to his seat.

DEFENSE ENDS ITS TESTIMONY DURING MONDAY

State Theft To Take Four More Days For Rebuttal

X-RAYS SHOWN

Expert Dissects Mental Conditions of Both Accused Boys

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The defense today neared the end of its plea before Judge John R. Caverly for mitigation in the punishment of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and that of Richard Loeb, scions of millionaire families for the kidnaping and murdering of young Robert Franks. Dr. H. H. Hulbert of Chicago, the last of four eminent specialists through whom the defense has attempted to prove the youths are "mentally sick" spent the entire two hours' session of court on the witness stand today.

He Blames Glands.

He directed Leopold's personality, as he had that of Loeb yesterday. Leopold, he said, was fit mentally to call in Loeb's plan to "commit a perfect crime" because of the mental state to which he had been reduced through physical deficiencies, failure of certain glands to function normally and a strange "king slave" phantasy, which had persisted from childhood.

"The psychiatric cause for the Franks crime is not to be found in either boy alone, but in an interplay of their friendship," he said. Leopold was described as by nature kind, an almost unwilling partner in the mur-

Frederick Man Killed In Fall

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 9.—While Harry Kinnibrugh, 35, lineman for the city, was attempting to fix a guy wire on a rotten telephone post here Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the pole fell and crushed Kinnibrugh's brain. The pole fell squarely across Kinnibrugh's head and caused his brains to be scattered on the pavement. Death was instanteous.

He has been a resident of Frederick for six years, being a member of both the K. P. and Odd Fellows. He is survived by his wife and his brother-in-law, Robert Weather of this city. No funeral arrangements had been made Saturday night.

BANDITS GET CASH IN WYOMING BANK

By The Associated Press.

CASPER, Wyo., Aug. 9. — Two masked bandits entered the Bank of Salt Creek at Lavoye in the center of the Salt Creek oil fields, 45 miles north of here, today, held up four clerks and escaped with two sacks of money, amounting to several thousand dollars.

A posse a few minutes after surrounded a tent on the edge of the town and captured a man who answered the description of one of the robbers.

HERRICK LEAVING FOR U. S. VACATION

TRAGEDY STALKS BURK CITIZENS

Oil Man And Two Children Injured In Accidents

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 9. — Tragedy stalked local citizens today. D. C. Williams, employ of the Tidal Western oil company, suffered an injured knee and minor burns on the leg while working on machinery of No. 2 casing head plant.

The 3-year-old twin boy of Mr. and Mrs. George Dutton was badly cut about the head and face when thrown through the windshield of his father's car as it ran into an abandoned pit at the Odd Fellows barbecue grounds near here. Several stitches were required.

Word was received here that an enraged cow at Amarillo attacked and trampled little George Davis, son of the late Ben Davis, formerly of here. The little fellow was near death when rescued. The family has relatives in Wichita Falls, and Fort Worth.

HEATED DEBATE DENOUNCES AND DEFENDS VICTOR

BLOODSHED FEARED

Deposed Governor Charged With Calling Most Ministers Skunks

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 9.—After a morning of oratory, during which several members denounced J. C. Walton, democratic senatorial nominee, declaring they wouldn't support him this fall the democratic state central committee this afternoon was in a calmer mood and adjourned without bringing the Walton issue to a vote.

The democratic national platform was approved and preliminary plans for the state organization perfected.

Walton Issue Ignored.

Kirby Fitzpatrick of Ardmore, twice sought to have the committee voice its opposition by injection of the ku klux klan issue into state races.

Both times he was voted down, the committee finally approving the national democratic platform. An attempt was made to bring Walton before the committee today but the former governor declined to appear stating he would do so only after he was officially notified of his nomination.

Fitzpatrick introduced a resolution demanding that Walton appear before the committee and answer charges that he was purported to have said that "95 per cent of Oklahoma's ministers are directly skunks."

Fears Bloodshed.

Adjournment was taken before the resolution was taken up. It was not reintroduced at the afternoon session. Fitzpatrick during the course of a speech this afternoon speaking against the injection of the klan issue declared it would ruin the part and "will bring bloodshed to this state."

"We are not here to run again the race Walton just won. No man is as big as the democratic party, which nominate Walton," C. W. Herod of Woodward declared during the morning debate.

R. W. Higgins of McAlester told the committee that it had no authority to ratify or repudiate Walton for the reason that he had taken his candidacy to the people where it has been ratified.

Only a mild report of disapproval came up during the afternoon session. Fitzpatrick attempting to have the committee vote upon an amendment to the platform resolution that "any issue settled by the New York convention shall not be injected into the state race." It was voted down and the resolution pledging the state organization to the New York platform approved.

Although it was declared a number of the committee members would bolt the meeting if Walton was endorsed or approved there were no defections.

CONSUL MOVED

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Robert P. Skinner, American consul general at London for more than 10 years, today was ordered transferred to Paris to succeed Alexander M. Thackara, who retired as consul general there on July 1 because of age.

Lake Wichita Will Also Get Improvements In Fall Under Present Plans.

The purchase of several new street cars for service on the local traction company lines will probably be made in a short time, it was learned yesterday with the departure for Dallas Fort Worth and Oklahoma City of L. L. Allbritton, general manager of the traction company. Mr. Allbritton, it is understood, will inspect several types of cars with a view to purchase. No orders have been placed as yet, it was stated yesterday at the company offices.

While the exact number to be brought has not been settled, it is said, intimations have been made that not more than three or four would figure in the deal.

Before leaving, Mr. Allbritton announced that tracks of the company over the city would be improved, and that approximately $25,000 would be spent in improving park features at Lake Wichita, concessions for which are operated by the company. These improvements will not be made until fall, when the present season ends, it was said.

NOTED JUDGE OF BEEF COMING

John Natta Secured By T-O Fair Officials This Year

John Natta of Layfayette, Indiana, will judge all beef cattle at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, according to R. E. Shepherd, secretary of the Texas-Oklahoma fair association. Mr. Natta is probably the best known judge of standard pure bred cattle in the United States. He is known in every part of the United States and in past years has judged at all the large standard pure bred beef cattle exhibits. Several years ago Mr. Natta decided that he would not judge any more and since that decision was made has not judged at a single exhibit.

George D. Keith of Wichita Falls, and superintendent of the livestock exhibit at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, is a personal friend of Mr. Natta and persuaded him to judge at the local fair.

It is thought that several of the largest breeders in the central and eastern states will send stock to the fair direct from their farms when they hear that Mr. Natta will serve in the capacity of judge. As this will probably be the last time that he will judge as he is doing it purely through friendship the large cattle breeders of the United States will take the opportunity of having the best known judge in the United States pass censure and judgment on their stock.

Father Hunts Daughters Here

Local police have been enlisted in a search for two girls, Thelma and Helen Carston of Mountain View, Okla., who, in company with two boys, left their home just a week ago last Saturday. The girls' father was in the city Saturday after a fruitless march through points in Oklahoma and is making every effort to find some trace of his daughters.

One of the girls is only 13 years of age, he stated, while the other is but 16. The youths with whom they left home are about 20 years old, it is said.

The four disappeared traveling in a dilapidated Ford coupe, a description of which, together with a description of the boys and girls, is in the hands of officers here.

TINIEST PLANE ENDS IN GRIEF

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 9.—An airplane, claimed to be the smallest in the United States, came to grief here today when it landed in the lagoon at Swope park. The little plane was being flown by Major C. L. Tinker at the time of the accident.

The plane, no higher than a man's shoulder, was brought here yesterday by Lieutenant Donald Phillips who was on his way from San Antonio, Texas, to Dayton, Ohio.

Major Tinker took off for a flight this morning and landed in the lagoon. The plane was considerably damaged. Major Tinker was not injured.

SPECIALIST

der of the 14-year-old Franks boy. Only Leopold's obeisance necessary to "his dream king" kept him a partner even after his intellect told him commission of a "perfect crime" was impossible, testified Dr. Hurlbert. Leopold wanted to postpone the kidnaping and murder and go to Europe, he added.

Shows X-Ray Pictures.

Illustrating to Judge Caverly by large X-ray photographs of Leopold's anatomy, Dr. Hurlbert pointed out what he said were glandular irregularities. He mentioned the pineal, pituitary, adrenal and thyroid glands. He described the functional irregularities as responsible for Leopold's admittedly far advanced intellect and the stilling of his emotional growth after the age of seven or eight years.

Dr. Hurlbert said that the X-ray disclosed that the cartilage between the plates of Leopold's skull had become bone, unusual in one of 19 years, as the process generally develops after the age of 30.

The witness veered from his usual solemnity as he smilingly described certain black lines on Leopold's skull as having been caused by "preparations used to keep his hair in order."

Dr. Hulbert still was on the stand when the hearing was adjourned at noon until 10:30 a. m. Monday.

Few More Witnesses.

Clarence S. Darrow, chief of defense counsel, stated after adjournment that possibly four additional witnesses would be called and the defense rest its plea for mitigation of punishment Monday afternoon.

Allen and Jacob Loeb, brother and uncle, respectively, of Richard Loeb, and Foreman Leopold, brother of Nathan, and the Loeb family chauffeur would be the last defense witnesses, Mr. Darrow indicated.

Immediately upon the defense resting Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, will launch a strenuous rebuttal in furthering his demand for the death penalty for Loeb and Leopold.

Rebuttal will require possibly four days, the prosecutor indicated. Time needed for the state was reduced today when Mr. Crowe agreed with Mr. Darrow not to call more than four alienists if the defense would cut off expert testimony with that of Dr. Hulbert.

State Witnesses.

On the state's rebuttal witness list appears the name of Miss Susan Lurie, University of Chicago student with Leopold and said to have been the only girl for whom he ever expressed any feeling. It was to Miss Lurie that Leopold is alleged to have remarked before he was arrested for the Franks murder that it would be a good joke were she to surrender him as the murderer and claim the $11,000 rewards.

The mail of those interested in the case was as usual heavily burdened with "crank" letters today. Judge Caverly got letters from throughout the country, the "vote" today being largely "against the youths."

CRANE SPEAKS HERE ON FRIDAY

Prosecutor of Ferguson Will Support Wife In Present Fight

Judge M. M. Crane of Dallas, a conspicuous figure in Texas politics for the past 30 years, will speak in Wichita Falls next Friday night, on behalf of Mrs. Ferguson's candidacy for governor.

In spite of the fact that he prosecuted the impeachment charges against her husband, Judge Crane was one of the first to declare himself for Mrs. Ferguson after the first primary. He has already spoken in a number of communities, and his appearance here is expected to furnish the high light of the local campaign, as he is recognized as a forceful, eloquent speaker.

Judge Crane comes here under the joint auspices of the Wichita County Ferguson club and the Wichita County Democratic club. His address will be delivered on the Moore & Richolt lot, and it is announced that seats will be provided for all. Plans for having him speak at the American legion arena were dropped when it was found that the arena was much too small for the expected crowd.

Large numbers of out of town visitors are expected here to hear Judge Crane. Numerous inquiries have been received from neighboring points since it was first rumored that he was coming here.

MAY HAVE CRIMINAL CASES IN COURTS

At least one and possibly other criminal trials will be heard this week in the local district courts, although only one definite setting has thus far been made.

The trial of Catfish Martin, under indictment for receiving and concealing of stolen property, is scheduled to go to trial before Judge H. B. Wilson of the 30th district court Tuesday. The cases originally set last week but was continued through agreement of both parties.

Several other criminal matters are pending on the docket and may be called up for attention.

BUYERS FOR SAUL'S GO TO MARKETS

John A. Benninger, assistant manager, and Emil Sauer, manager of the men's clothing and furnishing department of Saul's store, leave today for St. Louis enroute to New York, where they will join J. L. Rosenwasser, resident buyer, and M. Saul Lebenson, who has been spending several past weeks in New York and vicinity, in selecting and buying fall and winter merchandise. They expect to spend considerable time in New York.

Mr. Benninger also expects to visit Boston while in the east.

Burnett Open, 7th To River

After having been blocked for several weeks because of paving operations, Burnett street from Seventh to the river bridge is again open for traffic. Paving operations there were completed Saturday and Wichitans desiring to visit Scotland park today may get in without making the long detour around through North Wichita and into Scotland addition via the Electra road.

One Block Tied Up.

Burnett between Seventh and Eighth is still blocked while a fill-in is being made but this will be finished within the next day or so. When completed, Burnett will be one of the longest stretches of pavement in the city. It extends from the river, which is really First street, to the Wichita Mill at the southern end, some 18 blocks distant.

TERRELL JOINS RAIL BOARD

Named To Succeed Walter Splawn On Important Body

By The Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 9.—The new democratic state executive committee, which comes into being September 2, will have two names to place on the November ballot in the event C. V. Terrell, state treasurer, appointed to the railroad commission today, is given Dr. Walter Splawn's place on the ballot.

Appointment of Mr. Terrell, a life-long friend of Governor Neff, to the position vacated by Dr. Splawn on August 1, and selection of Secretary of State Staples to be state treasurer, came as a surprise to state officials. The announcement was made shortly before noon by Governor Neff. The plan evidently was the governor's as the officials concerned said he asked them Thursday to make the change. The new appointments are effective August 15.

If the new committee places Mr. Terrell's name on the ballot in place of Dr. Splawn's, then they will have a vacancy to fill in the state treasurer's position. Mr. Staples likely will be a candidate before the committee for this position.

Finis E. Johnson, chief of the blue sky division of the secretary of state's office, became secretary of state under today's arrangement. All the appointments made today are for terms expiring January 18. Mr. Johnson is the only one of the three who suffers financially by the change. His salary in his present position is $3,500. The secretary of states' salary is only $2,000. Mr. Terrell goes from a salary of $2,500 to one of $4,000. Mr. Terrell's home is in Wise county near Decatur. Mr. Staples formerly lived in Bastrop county near Smithville. Mr. Johnson is from Johnson county.

BOYS JAILED FOR STEALING GRAIN

Alleging to have been sweeping grain from box cars and selling it to local dealers, six boys were arrested Saturday morning and are now held by juvenile officers pending an investigation of their case. They were taken in custody on complaint of a railroad special officer, who found them working in grain cars on sidings near the Wichita Elevator.

The youngsters are said to have made away with a considerable quantity of wheat and corn by taking the gleanings from the cars.

NEGRO KEEPS HIS SILENCE

Solution of Ashmore Murder Lacking After Month

With five days having elapsed since the attack on Mike Pierce in the Morgan grocery on Avenue F, M. T. Williams, negro, charged with the attack, still maintains silence regarding knowledge of the murder last month of Wesley Ashmore.

City police who are handling the case have been working steadily but quietly on the thing since Williams was arrested. They have made no announcements concerning the progress of the investigation, but it is known that the black youth in jail in another city has been grilled constantly. Officers are said to have strong suspicions that he was involved in the Ashmore slaying, July 8, and that a confession is merely a question of breaking him down by constant questioning.

Admitting that the negro is a clever actor, they are still inclined to the opinion that his professed ignorance is merely a sham.

SHENANDOAH LEAVES HER MOBILE MAST

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 9.—Naval air station officials tonight confirmed reports that the dirigible Shenandoah will return here about 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. They said a message had been received from the Shenandoah which left her mooring mast on the Patoka at Narrangansett bay at 3 p. m. saying that she would return to the station early tomorrow.

Jim Will Trim You For Milk And Ice Fund

LEGION ARENA ON FIRE FRIDAY P. M.

For the second time in a week, firemen were called at midnight Friday to the American Legion arena, where the mat on the ring floor was burning. They were called out at the same time last Tuesday night.

Both fires followed political meetings, in which some one sitting on the stage evidently dropped a lighted cigarette or cigar stump.

Neither blaze caused any great amount of damage, only because they were discovered and nipped before an opportunity was given for a spread to the ring and arena seats.

CUPID HALTS ROAD WORK IN COUNTY

Highway work in Wichita county came to a brief but abrupt halt Saturday when Dan Cupid horned in and stopped operations.

L. B. Bishop, one of the assistants in the county engineers office, confided to J. M. Isbell, his chief, that a one day's furlough was imperative Saturday. That started things and an investigation of the marriage licenses revealed the names of Bishop and Miss Jewel Lamb of Iowa Park.

They were married Saturday and will make their home in this city.

Beat the Hood With the Bonnet

Klandidate Felix has found it to be a tough week, with just one thing after another going wrong. When the week opened, the drift of sentiment against him, and for Mrs. Ferguson, had become so pronounced, that Felix and Bill Hanger and John Mathis and Marshall Hicks and Zeke Marvin saw that if the campaign were fought out on its real issue — visible government or masked domination—they were already licked.

So they got 'em a new issue, hoping to divert the public's mind from the real one. They conjured up a whiskey ring which, they said, was trying to beat Felix. Everybody with any political gumption at all knows that no anti-prohibition group in Texas would be complete without Bill Hanger and John Mathis, who are supporting Felix, but Felix and his bunch had to do something to get the public's mind off the real issue. So they chose prohibition.

"The whiskey ring put Mrs. Ferguson in the run-off" shouts Felix. If you take away from Mrs. Ferguson the pluralities she received in one after another of the old, original, dyed-in-the-wool, bred-in-the-bone, prohibition counties of Texas, she wouldn't have run much better than Dixon did. And if you take away from Felix the heavy pluralities that he got in the big cities, where "wet" sentiment is, and has always been, the strongest, he wouldn't have been in the run-off. As a matter of good common sense, folks weren't thinking about prohibition in the first primary. And they won't treat it as an issue in the second, because they know that there's no possibility of any change being made in Texas liquor laws, unless it is a change to make them more strict and more effective.

There were prohibitionists in Texas back in the days when Felix Robertson was sitting in the anti-prohibition councils of McLennan county, and doing all he could to keep it out of the dry column. Among them was M. M. Crane of Dallas. Among them was Cone Johnson of Tyler. Among them was Tom S. Henderson of Cameron. Among them was Mrs. Wendel Spence of Dallas. Just to mention a few. Within a few hours after Felix had started talking about the wicked whiskey ring, that was trying to defeat him, prohibition workers and leaders like these were declaring for Mrs. Ferguson.

It's not the whiskey ring that's going to defeat you on August 30, Felix. It's the embattled manhood and womanhood of a state that has waked up to the menace of the hooded gang that is backing your candidacy, the manhood and womanhood of a state that wants its government visible, above-board, uncontrolled by secret councils wherein white slavers and law violators and negro-lovers have dominant voices.

When Felix discovered this frightful conspiracy, he chose Wichita Falls as the place from which to spring it on the public. Just why our city was thus honored hasn't been made clear. Perhaps it was figured that the klan in Wichita county needed a stimulant of some kind, after what had happened to it on the two preceding Saturdays.

Anyhow, Felix duly appeared in Wichita Falls, being met by a reception committee consisting of one taxi driver. He put in the afternoon trying to find an introducer. His idea was to find a non-klansman who was going to support him, and it took him several hours to ascertain that there wasn't no such animal in Wichita Falls. It began to get downright embarrassing, after a while. A Baptist minister from Burkburnett introduced Mr. Robertson at the speaking that night. As a political meeting, it was a frosty affair; but no more than might be expected when the speaker is a man without personality, without ability, without anything at all save the secret indorsement of the hooded gang.

Felix got peeved when someone tried to ask him a question or two about himself, told the heckler to please be a gentleman and let him alone. Questions might get embarrassing, if you don't nip 'em early, Felix.

Another thing, Felix. Better not say too much about your war record. Give you full credit for enlisting when you didn't have to, but there are too many 30th division boys scattered around for you to pin any medals on yourself. You got your commission from Jim Ferguson, Felix, you're indebted to him for the title of major. We don't know who's responsible for the unofficial title of "Tanlac" that you received. Jim should have known what that efficiency board found out when it took away your commission—that any rank that carried duty and responsibility with it was too much for you.

The failure of the local klan to turn out and meet Felix, to provide the sort of introducer he wanted, and to furnish a suitable array of dignitaries to occupy the platform with him, means one of two things. Either the klansmen have become downright indifferent to Felix's candidacy, or they are trying to make the public feel that the klan isn't mixing in the fight. It's one or the other. We don't blame them whichever it is. But it was sort of tough on Felix.

Judge M. M. Crane of Dallas, who had considerable to do with putting Ferguson out of office, and who is going to speak in Wichita Falls next Friday night, isn't going to discuss prohibition. He's going to talk some about Felix Robertson and the ku klux klan and give you a few good reasons why that individual and that gang must not be allowed to run things in Texas. As for prohibition, Judge Crane was fighting for it in Texas 25 years ago. If anybody knows about the "whiskey ring" and its methods, he does. And he's for Mrs. Ferguson in this contest.

It wasn't known positively until Saturday noon that Judge Crane was coming here, but it had been rumored earlier in the week. Ferguson supporters from Baylor, Knox, Archer, Young, Wilbarger, Clay, Childress, Hardeman and Haskell counties had been making inquiries, wanting to arrange for big delegations to hear him. There will be hundreds of out-of-town folks here for the occasion.

The silly, feeble attempt to divert voters' minds from the real issue in the campaign didn't get very far with Cone Johnson of Tyler and Tom Henderson of Cameron—no farther than it did with Judge Crane. Both of them have declared that the case of prohibition has nothing to fear at Mrs. Ferguson's hands. She hasn't always agreed with her husband about prohibition, not even in the days when he was leader of the anti-prohibition forces in Texas. As mistress of the governor's mansion, she saw to it that only unspiked punch was served at the entertainments. Jim Ferguson has lived up to the letter and spirit of the 18th amendment, personally and politically, far better than has his opponent. And if the later will accept Jim's challenge to compare their records, he will prove it.

Mrs. Wendel Spence of Dallas is one of the ladies who has been fighting the case of prohibition in that city for a long time, and when Felix started tellling what an enemy of liquor he had always been, Mrs. Spence began to recall a few things.

"Mr. Robertson says he's a prohibitionist," she writes, "but his prohibition is a child born out of due season."

She tells of the occasion when she sought to enlist his aid in getting the saloon voted out of the fair grounds.

"He received me very graciously, in his winning way," she writes, "but refused to sign the petition because he said, one of the directors, a Jew, gave him business amounting to $4,000 to $5,000 a year, and he would not wound the feelings of said director. He afterwards joined an organization which boycotted this same director's business.

"Mr. Robertson also regretted that my husband let me go around with the petition and gave me a kindly but manly talk on my place being at home.

"I have no doubt that there was deep down in Judge Robertson's heart, a mustard-seed of prohibition, but it never germinated until the political sun shone on it."

Probably the seed hadn't been planted when Felix was working against prohibition in McLennan county, 12 or 15 years ago.

Here is what Cone Johnson says: "My course is decided. I will not permit myself to be counted amongst those who are responsible for Judge Robertson's election, should he be elected. And I know of no way to register my conviction, except to vote for Mrs. Ferguson, and this I shall do cheerfully. We cannot escape responsibility by refusing to vote, or by scratching the names of both the candidates. That merely attempts to dodge or evade the issue."

We respectfully call that paragraph to the thoughtful attention of a few citizens who seem to think they can keep their political consciences clear by giving each candidate, in effect, half a vote.

How many of those who, in the days of prohibition fights in Wichita county, spoke and worked and voted against the saloon — how many of those are for Felix Robertson in this campaign? Call the roll, in your memory, and see if you can find a single one. And still they talk about a whiskey ring.

T. S. Henderson of Cameron, an old-time pro who has come out for Mrs. Ferguson, is also an ex-chairman of the State University board of regents. H. A. Wroe, Austin banker, is a regent now. These two are for Mrs. Ferguson, knowing the university has nothing to fear at her hands. The great majority of ex-students will be with Mrs. Ferguson in the run-off campaign.

There is only one issue in this fight. No amount of dodging, of whining, of hypocritical flag-waving, can avert it. Prohibition is not in danger.

There is one vital issue. It is whether free, visible government shall survive, or our state government be delivered into the hands of secret, oath-bound, organization. And because by voting for her you vote for open government, we ask you to vote for Miriam Ferguson for governor of Texas.

BUILDING HITS $15,339 MARK

Many Repair Jobs Going On In City; Fifteen Permits Issued in Week

Fifteen building permits with a total value of $16,339.20 were issued last week by City Building Inspector Fred A. Smith, according to his records. This is somewhat below the totals for the week preceding.

By far the outstanding feature of the week's operations was the number of improvements started on existing structures. New buildings were decidedly in the minority, but the "repair residence" classification showed nine out of the 16 permits issued. A $4,000 home being built for M. Cleveland was the most expensive started.

Full List

The full list for the week is as follows:

G. C. Coleman, repair residence, 2002 Buchanan, $1,150.

M. Cleveland, residence, 2206 Eighth, $4,000.

B. W. Moore, residence, 1508 Fifth, $450.

F. M. Copeland, repair residence, 2502 Filmore, $500.

L. E. Davis, residence, 2214 Taylor, $800.

C. C. Willard, repair residence, 1007 Travis, $889.20.

W. H. Allen, repair residence, 1620 Twelfth, $700.

Naylor Collins company, repair business house, 908-10 Indiana, $700.

W. Y. Hammond, residence, 1408 Sibley, $2,800.

E. L. Poff, residence, 812 Fort Worth, $1,800.

G. W. Pond, repair residence, 1600 Monroe, $500.

L. R. Reily, residence, 1607 Austin, $1,500.

T. P. Hickman, repair residence, Seventh and Scott, $200.

Good Progress Made By German Women Doctors

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, August.—German women doctors have made great strides since the empire became a republic and this summer attended European international medical congresses in larger numbers than in any other period. The leader of the German delegation which attended the Medical Women's International association meeting in London recently is Dr. Heusler-Edenhuizen, a specialist in women's diseases, and who has a reputation in Berlin as high as any of her male colleagues.

Dr. Heusler-Edenhuizen is one of the pioneers of medicine for women in Germany and studied some years ago in the time when matriculation was impossible for female students and they had instead to beg each individual professor for permission to attend his lectures.

Dr. Lydia Rabinowitsch-Kempner, of Berlin, a specialist in tuberculosis, Dr. Toni von Langsdorff, of Essen, and Dr. Laura Turnau, of Berlin, are other German women physicians who attended the London association meeting.

Fugitive Banker Earned Living With Gipsy Band

By The Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, August. — The Hungarian bankers in prison for losing their clients' money by speculating in French francs were joined recently by Bela Kelemen, who was extradited from Italy.

Kelemen fled to Sicily before his crash became known, disguised himself by darkening his face with powder and earned his living as a gipsy band conductor, being an excellent violinist.

His whereabouts were learned when his correspondence with friends in Hungary was opened for censorship, which still exists in Hungary.

Street Sweeper Cleans up 590 Miles Of Road, 3,461,040 Square Yards Of Surface During Operation In July

To those Wichitans who have watched the street sweeper of the city health department plodding slowly over dusty pavements it may not have occurred that the big machine was going about a business which in the course of a month resulted in the cleaning of nearly three and one-half million square yards of surface.

The ambling gait of the ungainly wagon certainly is not impressive, yet records of the city health department show that during July of this year it traveled a distance of 590 miles and swept dirt from 3,461,040 square yards of street paving—and swept them clean. This is considerable yardage for one machine to cover in one month's time. It has done it, too, without running Sundays.

In a report compiled by Dr. A. H. Douglas, head of the city health department, it is shown that the sweeper used up 307 gallons of gasoline during the month and consumed during the same time six and one-half gallons of oil. Its expense, included in which were broom replacements, gas and oil, salaries of two operators and other incidentals, was $1,075.89 for the month.

The big sweeper is doing an excellent job of keeping Wichita Falls streets in A1 shape. Used in the residential districts during the day time and in the business section at night, it is on the go practically 24 hours a day. Every foot of pavement in the city is gone over at least once a week while the down town streets where traffic is heaviest are swept each night.

$800,000 SUIT IN SHREVEPORT

Shallcross Syndicate Named Defendants in Action Started in Court

By The Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 9.—A suit involving $800,000 was filed in district court against C. B. Shallcross, et al., of the Shallcross 500 Per Cent Syndicate by C. E. Plunkett, acting as trustee for several thousand stockholders. Shallcross figured in a suit in Fort Worth, Texas, several months ago.

The petition alleges that a total of $800,000 was obtained illegally through this syndicate. Shallcross and others associated with him are not residents of Louisiana and an application for writs of attachments against the various banks of the city and for the seizure of real estate was granted by Judge E. B. Wright. Writs of attachment were run on 22 valuable oil and gas leases in Arkansas alleged to have been the roperty of the 500 per cent syndicate.

It is alleged C. E. Plunkett was appointed trustee for the company and Shallcross was apprehended in Eldorado through an action in chancery court held there.

TAX BIDS FOR CITY COUNCIL

New System Proposals May Come Up for Attention Of Commissioners

Presentation of bids for the installation of a new tax assessing and equalizing system in the city may feature Monday night's meeting of the city council meeting. One bid for such work has already been received by the city clerk and it is believed that others may be presented in person to the commissioners Monday night.

Want It Started.

Mayor Collier, Tax Assessor and Collector Hyer and others dealing with the city's taxes are anxious that a new and more equitable system be provided before tax work for next year starts. It is admitted that the present methods are obsolete and in many cases, unjust. In view of the availability of the later and more improved systems, therefore, they say determined to offer the taxpayers an assessing and equalizing system more fair than the ones employed in the past.

One bid has been received from an eastern firm and one or two local companies are understood to be ready to put in bids.

Other business to come before the council will be largely of a routine nature, it is said.

Germany's Oldest Woman Enjoys Witty Exchanges

By The Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug.—Frau Johnna Prigge, who was born here 103 years ago, is believed to be the oldest woman living in Germany. She enjoys excellent health, has an unimpaired and active mind, reads without glasses, occupies herself with complicated fancy work, and delights everybody with her humorous sallies.

After the death of her husband, who was a farmer near here, she took up residence with her oldest son, a teacher in Fallersleben. In a course of years all her children and children-in-law died, and the old lady moved on to Embsen in the county of Luneburg, where she is living with her eldest grandson, a teacher named Stein.

BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

AUGUST 10, 1924.

THE LORD IS GOOD:—Serve the Lord with gladness; come before His presence with singing. For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations.—Psalm 100:2, 5.

PRAYER:—Our Father, we know that Thou art good, and that Thou art more willing to give us Thy Spirit than an earthly parentis to give good gifts unto his children.

LA FOLLETTE AND LABOR.

Samuel Gompers has spoken. He is the voice of the American federation of labor. Samuel Gompers claims a membership of 3,000,000 in the federation and allied crafts. His voice as crystallized into a public proclamation, places organized labor squarely in behind Robert M. LaFollette and Burton K. Wheeler for president and vice-president of the United States. This is the plank in the LaFollette platform that caught Gompers and his legions:

"Abolition of the tyranny and usurpation of the courts, including the practice of nullifynig legislation in conflict with the political, social, or economic theories of the judges. Abolition of injunctions in labor disputes and of the power to punish for contempt without trial by jury. Election of all federal judges without party designation for limited terms."

This plank if carried out would revolutionize America and the form of government which has stood the test of time for 150 years. It would make impossible the power of the supreme court of the United States to declare unconstitutional any meritorious or mad law enacted by the congress. It would take from the president the power to appoint, and from the senate the right to confirm, the federal judiciary. It would make it illegal for a judge, federal or state, to issue a writ of injunction in labor disputes. This is the LaFollette plank that captured the imagination of Samuel Gompers and those who are to follow him in the politcal campaigning of today and the future. There are two other planks of the LaFollette platform which appealed to Gompers and his lieutenants. The tenth plank of the progressive platform reads as follows:

"Repeal of the Esch-Cummins law, public ownership of railroads, with democratic operation, with definite safeguards against bureaucratic control."

Senators LaFollette and Wheeler, the standard bearers of the progressive party are for the government ownership of railroads. This is a demand of the Cleveland platform. This is the demand of thousands of rail employes in America. Many of their chieftains may not admit it publicly but they declare it privately and it is one of the issues of the campaign. There is another plank of the Cleveland platform that is luring to Gompers and his lieutenants. It is the twelfth plank and worded as follows:

"Prompt ratification of the child labor amendment and subsequent enactment of a federal law to protect children in industry."

It will be recalled that the republicans, in convention assembled in the city of Cleveland, made the child labor amendment a platform demand and that the democrats in their convention in the city of New York neatly sidestepped it. In other words they endorsed the principle of the amendment but failed to call upon the legislature of the forty-eight states to ratify the amendment.

This does not carry with it the inference that the democratic leaders are opposed to the child labor amendment. Arkansas is a democratic state. Its law makers of both houses ratified the amendment with very few dissentng votes. Georgia is a democratic state. Its lawmakers, with very few dissenting votes, rejected the amendment in both houses of the Georgia legislature.

Matthew Woll is vice-president of the American federation of labor and perhaps the ablest of the labor leaders of America. Matthew Foll says labor is for LaFollette and Wheeler officially and to the finish. He says Senator LaFollette stands for certain great principles. He says organized labor wants those principles to be implanted in the heart of the American government "and we shall back Senator LaFollette to the limit."

JOSEPH CONRAD.

Joseph Conrad is dead. He was the world's greatest novelist. His stories of sea are incomparable. He was a master navigator and had sailed ships to every port in the world. He was born a Pole and became a master of all languages. He was a master of English and acquired its use after he had grown to manhood. He was 67 when he died and was 37 before he gave to the world of literature the first of his literary gems.

Poland has given the world many extraordinary geniuses, many mighty warriors, many sages and statesmen, and yet if a Pole landed on these shores tomorrow, with all the genius that Joseph Conrad carried under his hat in his youth, he would be denied admission, branded as a bohunk and sent back to Europe by the next steamer.

Joseph Conrad is among the immortals. He had a mother tongue but he mastered all the other tongues of men. He was more than a master sailor and a master novelist. He was a gentleman with all the word implied, a citizen of the world, a lover of his kind, a creedless Christian who believed in the Golden Rule and the Sermon on the Mount.

DID YOU KNOW?

That senator Robert E. Howell of Nebraska has declared for Coolidge and Dawes and predicts that his colleague, Senator George W. Norris, will not take the La Follette side of it in the campaign?

That New York backers of President Coolidge continue to of fer odds of three to one that he will be the next president?

That a wager of five thousand dollars at even money was placed in Wall street that Davis will carry more states than Coolidge?

AND SHE HAD THE KEY IN HER PURSE ALL THE TIME.

Their Name Was Legion

"Ninth, huh? Vaux—that right? Jauny? Huh? Thiacourt Blanc Mont? Say, don't I know 'em? Slip 'er, Buddy! What's your name?"

"Rogers. Bart Rogers."

"Weren't a second louie?" Bud Tarko asked it with something of suspicion.

"No. Why?"

"Just afraid that's all. You sorta look like one."

"Sergeant's the best I could do."

"Then everything's high, wide and handsome. Slip me your mitt. And now"—he rubbed mournfully at a lengthy stomach—"where's that Legion outpost? Where does the Legion keep its employment office? I just came in on that special." He nodded down the street.

"Queer looking outfit," asserted Bart, noticing the vanguard of a motley mob.

"Queer?" Bud Tarko jabbed him in the ribs. "Worsen's that, Buddy. Guess I was the only honest man on the train. Say, who's Frannison here?"

"Frannison?" Rogers asked the question with a sudden interest. "He's a sort of land agent and politician. Ran for mayor at the election a few days ago and got beat. Why?"

"Just heard his name on the train. Everybody on it seemed to think that if he could hook up with Frannison, everything'd be gravy. Guess I'll start looking for him myself, if you won't jar loose with any info about that Legion post."

"I forgot that." Then Bart shook his head. "But I can't help you. There isn't any Legion post in town."

"No Legion post?" The human fence rail doubled again and a long finger poked Bart Rogers in the chest. "Do you mean to stand there and tell me that there ain't a legion post in this town? If there ain't, why ain't there?"

CHAPTER XI.

The Mystery, Again.

"Because there aren't enough veterans to support one," answered Bart.

"Well, where can I eat?" asked the lengthy Tarko.

Bart pointed up the street; then, as the lengthy Bud Tarko strung himself out along the sidewalk toward the restaurant, Rogers watched after him with interest. There was something likeable about the elongated, freckled man, something wholesome, something worthwhile and companionable.

Bart then moved slowly down the sidewalk, brushing past men with heavy satchels; others with canvas bags on their shoulders; women in loud raiment. A hazy idea was in his mind—he had sought to the last moment to doubt the word of "Bull" Frannison and of Lawyer Leon Barrows. He had failed, and through some sense of justice, he felt that it was necessary to tell them so.

With this thought he made his way up the broad, wooden staircase to the office of Leon Barrows, there to knock upon the door and await an answer in vain. Evidently the attorney already had departed for Mannington to probate the will and somewhat unwillingly, Bart turned down the street toward the ramshackle two-story building which housed the office of "Bull" Frannison.

He mounted the stairway, only to halt as he circled the banister and started toward the grimy door of the little office. Voices were coming from within—the voices of two men, "Bull" and Old Jim. The voice of the latter was pleading.

"Bull," he was saying, "you're going too far. I've stood to see you beat her, I've stood to see you mistreat her, I've stood for pretty near everything in the world, figuring that the worst you could do would be better than what would happen if I'd ever force you to come out in the open and lay your cards on thetable. But—"

"Wait just a minute, Jim!" The rumbling voice of the other man had cut in sneeringly. "You're always talking about what I've got up my sleeve. Have I ever told you that I knew anything about you? Or that—"

"No, but you know that I know it—you don't have to tell me. Just like you don't have to tell me that the name of Leon Barrows is a fake name: Or that what you're always so careful to keep locked up in that safe isn't what—what I think it is!"

"You'd better be quiet, Jim," answered Frannison. There was a queer, implied threat in the voice—and one which met with instant response.

"I—I didn't mean it, 'Bull.'" The old pleading had returned. "But, God, 'Bull'—just think how it would be if you were in my shoes! Think how you'd suffer if you saw some one throwing her directly in the path of gamblers and the sort of women that are flooding in here now!"

"They're my friends. I'm looking to them for my living."

"That's no reason you should make Anita associate with them."

"Isn't it? If they're my friends, they've got to be her friends."

"I hate to think it, 'Bull,'" answered Jim. "I—I don't know which would be worse, for her to have to live in this atmosphere or—or the other one that she'd be up against if—if I'd have to come out in the open."

"Suit yourself." The announcement had a sneer in it. "Do what you please about that. In the meanwhile, get out! I've got work to look after."

The last announcement meant discovery for Bart Rogers if he lingered. Hurriedly he turned for the staircase, and was far down the street when, looking over his shoulder, he saw the bent form of Old Jim leave the building. Bart's heart was thumping strangely. Again had he come face to face with the mystery in the lives of "Bull" Frannison, his daughter and Old Jim.

Suddenly Bart Rogers stopped short. If it was certain that Frannison was to be the king of the gambling element and the dance halls, it was certain also that "Bull" Frannison did not care what became of his own daughter.

"Not if I can stop it!" he thought grimly. "I may be one man against a multitude—but I'll make the fight."

He wheeler suddenly and hurried up the street toward the wide, rambling home of Tom Jordan, mayor-elect.

"Mr. Jordan," he said, when the genial old ex-cattleman had answered his ring at the bell, "you offered me a job a couple of days ago."

"That's what I did, boy."

"Things have changed a good deal since then. I just wanted to ask one question: "Have you any objections to a clean town?"

"Objections?" The big man chuckled. "Lord, no! I want it clean, although—" and he rubbed his chin as he looked down toward the main street, with its tents, its crowds, its covered wagons and dust-caked automobiles, its flamboyant signs advertising this, that and the other mushroom stock—"it looks like an awful lot of polishin' 'll have t' be done to ever makes this place shine again."

"Maybe so." Bart Rogers patted a fist into an open palm. "You never can tell about those things until you try. When do you take office?"

"A week from today."

"Then, if you're still willing to stick to your offer, I'll be glad to take the job—of cleaning up this town!"

CHAPTER XII.

The New Marshal.

It was seven days later that Bart Rogers stopped short as he left the tiny building which had served for years as Bellaire's combination city hall, jail and "police department." He had just received the administration of his oath of office, and Bart Rogers could not evade the realization of the toughness of his job.

From a village of hundreds, Bellaire had metamorphosed to a mushroom of thousands. Canvas dance halls and "soft drink" emporiums, where the saltest things served was three-day old "mountaindew," were on nearly every street corner. Kalsomined women leered and smirked in the crowds of the street—the world had turned new and raw and unwholesome with the influx of a nation's offal, swooping down upon a place that oil had turned into a new frontier, where law was at a disadvantage and where the mob, by its strength, might rule.

Pitted against this was the feverish activity of another set of boomers—the legitimate followers of the gusher; men in corduroy clothing and high-topped boots, who went about their business in a quiet, orderly, determined manner; men who seemed never to see the smiles of the women, or the beckoning banners of the soft drink parlors.

Young men, old men, they hurried about, their clothing and shoes splashed with oil from their visits to the discovery well; all intent upon their work, all seeking to cram a lifetime into 24 hours that they too might be the persons to aid in a new flow of the black liquid, the first to carry the news of another gusher.

Already just outside the village limits,the first of a forest of derricks had appeared, while, under hard working, shouting foremen, the work of installing machinery and the preparations for drilling was hurriedly under way. Whistles tooted from steaming boilers. Sledges clanged against steel. The prophecy of a bedlam had come true.

And this was the thing which Bart Rogers had taken upon his shoulders—to recreate into an orderly, hard-working, law-abiding town. Now as he looked at it, he realized in a small measure his rashness, and the hopelessness of his task. The city ordinances—and he had studied them with fervent hope—gave to him one paid deputy, no more

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

LEO.

The planetary aspects of today are very benign and distinctly favorable. They portend felicity in the home and family; an entire absence of discord and annoyance; a spirit of contentment and happiness. It is a day eminently suitable for rest, religious exercises, or light recreation. It is an occasion, if properly utilised, which will serve to prepare you, both physically and mentally, for the struggles of the week.

A child born today will not, in early infancy, be as healthy and robust as you would desire, these conditions, with care and devotion, can all be overcome and health and strength ensured. Its character will be lovable and loyal: its disposition cheerful and sympathetic: its mentality keen and perceptive. This child, if allowed to materialise naturally, and brought up by kindness and love, as distinguished from sternness and lack of understanding, will develop into a delightful personality—beloved by all and disliked by none.

If today is your birthday, and you are regretting not having made more of your opportunities, have you ever stopped to consider the fact that your judgment has been so often in error? You do not apparently possess the power to judge affairs correctly, to analyse economic trends, to sense coming developments, to "size up" conditions of today and to judge what the morrow promises to bring forth.

Good results can only come from good judgment. Intuition is a wonderful gift, but is not so reliable as judgement, which includes a well rounded measure of horse sense, gumption, level-headedness, fairness, tolerance and discernment.

You can only reap the victory of tomorrow if you have fitted yourself to weigh conditions, prospects and problems—and reach wise judgements.

Life is an endless chain of judgments. No one can escape the daily treadmill of decisions.

Because your judgment, has so often, been so imperfect, your success has not been as perfect as it should have been.

Successful people born on this date are:

Jay Cooke, financier "The Robert Morris of the Civil War"; Horace White, journalist and author, editor in chief of the New York Tribune and Post; Charles E. Clark, naval officer, he commanded the Oregon in the Spanish war; Hattley Manners, dramatist; Horace Fletcher, lecturer on dietietics; Joseph McKenna, justice of the U. S. supreme court.

War Ended in 1815 Costs

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. — Thirty-three widows of soldiers who fought in the war of 1812 are still on the pension rolls of the government, although 109 years have elapsed since the close of that conflict in 1815. Eight of the women pensioners died during the year ended June 30. There have been no names of soldiers of the war of 1812 on the pension books since 1905, when Horam Brook died in Ava, New ork, at the age of 108.

The oldest of the 33 widows receiving pensions, which average $30 a month, or about $12,000 a year, is Mahala Huff, rural route No. 2, Louisa, Kentucky, who is 105 years old. Her husband was a private in a Virginia company of militiamen. All told approximately 35,000 widows of veterans of the war of 1812 were granted pensions, the high water mark being reached in 1879 when there were 15,177 on the rolls.

Teh records of the pension bureau also show that Daniel F. Bakeman, who died at Freedom, New York, in 1899 at the age of 109, was the last soldier pensioner of the revolutionary war, and Esther S. Damon, widow of Noah Damon, who died at Plymouth Union, Vermont, in 1906 at the age of 96, the last name to be scratched from the revolutionary pension lists.

Young Donoghue Rides In England Against Dad

By The Associated Press.

SALISBURY, Eng., Aug.—Instead of the old familiar slogan of "Come on Steve" being heard on the race course here recently, a new cry of "Come on Pat" was heard in its place. The spectators were calling for Patrick Donoghue, son of Steve Donoghue, one of England's foremost jockeys, who was making his first appearance in public as a jockey.

Young Donoghue is only 18 years old and weighs seventy pounds and it is the intention of his father that Pat shall follow in his footsteps if he takes well to racing. In his first race the youngster rode against his father and finished fifth. Steve being beaten by a short head for the first place.

Berlin Zoo Augmented By Abyssinian Animals

By the Associated Press.

HAMBERG, Aug.—The strangest cargo unloaded here in years was taken off the Norwegian freighter Randsfjord recently. It was a consignment of animals from Abyssinia for the Berlin zoo.

The cargo included dromedaries, jackals, panthers, leopards, 30 large apes, 24 porcupines, giant turtles with a combined weight of 2,500 pounds, and 80 smaller animals of prey of various descriptions.

The unloading proved no easy matter. The camels, for instance, simply lay down on the upper deck and refused to walk down the gangway. They finally had to be lifted off bodily with the aid of pulleys and cranes. A leopard managed to aim a vicious blow with his paw at one of the expert tamers of the zoo who had been hired to assist. A long scar on his forehead bears evidence that he aimed straight. Every animal had to be inspected by an official veterinary before it was allowed to land.

Shape of Rain Drops Engages Scientists

By The Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAVEN, Aug.—What is the shape of a rain drop? is a question which lately has been discussed at length by German scientists. It isn't exactly round, and to this they all agree.

Paul Javoy, chief engineer of the Zeppelin works here where the ZR-3 is nearing completion for its delivery flight to Lakehurst, N. J., has taken moving pictures of rain drops which he says shows that the are flat on pressure of the air, while the sides are convex. In other words, according to Engineer Javoy, falling rain drops as to form might be compared with an apple placed in a press and flattened on its top and bottom to about half its ordinary height.

The Married Life of Helen and Warren

"Dress? Nothing doing," grumped Warren. "Clean collar's all the dressing I'll do"

"Dear, she's never been here! and my people so rarely come," Helen continued to lay out his clothes. "The least you can do is to dress."

"How d'you know she'll be dressed?"

"Even if she's not, I want her to think you dress for dinner every night. You ought to, anyway," defiantly.

"Huh, what're you trying to pull off?" ripping in half a frayed collar. "One of your 'dazzle-the-folks-back-home' stunts?"

"Now, dear, don't take that attitude! Why shouldn't I want to be nice when my family come? Your family are here all the time. Think of all we do for them and the few times my—"

"Oh, tune off on that! Let's have the boiled shirt. Anything but that 'my family' harangue."

"And, dear, I want you to be particularly nice to me. If you're alone with her—try to bring in something—something nice about me."

"What for instance? That I have to beat you up only occasionally?" he grinned.

"Say something about our home—how attractive I've made it. You know I have—and she'll go back and tell everyone. Oh, I forgot Susie's cap! she hates to wear it—but she must tonight," dropping his dinner coat, she ran kitchenward.

"Whatch want done with them nuts you shelled?" Susie was cutting up the pineapple for the fruit cocktail.

"They're for the cheese. Mix that cream cheese with butter and paprika, make it into balls, and roll them in those crached nutz. And, susie," most casually, "I'd like you to wear your cap tonight.

Disgruntled Susie slashed into the pineapple. A cap she resented as a badge of servitude, and Helen insisted upon it only for special company.

"Button off these shoes," graubled Warren, when she fluttered back.

As she sewed it on, Helen continued to coach him as to what not to say before her cousin Jean.

"Now, dear, I DO want you to be particularly nice She'll only be here for dinner—she's going to the theatre with a friend. Now don't call my antiques junk! If she admires anything—don't say I got it for nothing."

"Then you'd better not start blowin' about your blooming antiques. 'Collector's pieces!'" he scoffed. "That gets my goat every time."

"Why should you depreciate them? Everybody's interested in old things now. It makes me wild the way you always give the impression I get them so cheap. You don't know what I pay."

"But I know they are dirt cheap when you cough up."

"Well, you needn't say that. Oh, I was furious when I showed Bernice those old amber beads and you asked if I got them at the London rag market for a couple of shillings. If I did get them reasonable over there, they're an awful price here. I saw a string on Madison Avenue last week marked eighty dollars."

"Wanted her to think they set you back eighty bones, eh? You wouldn't plunk down that much for a string of five-carat diamonds!"

A knock on the bedroom door and Susie's blatant,

"The young lady's in the library, m'am."

"Jean!" gasped Helen. "We didn't hear the bell! Oh, could she've heard what we said?"

"Got an earful, if she did," he shrugged. "Coaching me what not to say!"

"You're ready—you go in", flustered. "I'll come in a minute."

As Warren strode in to greet her cousin, whom he had never met, Helen powdered over her flushed confusion.

Had Jean heard? How much had she heard?

But when a moment later she joined them in the library Jean's composed greeting was unenlightening.

"How's everyone at home?" inquired Helen after the introductory effusions.

"They're all well, except Aunt Minnie. You know she hurt her back?

"Mother wrote me. Lifting the cellar door, wasn't it?",

"Yes, you know how fussy Aunt Minnie is. She won't have a maid."

"Has Uncle John sold the store yet?"

"Yes, to the Trade Palace. They've cut through and put in groceries—made it a general store. We're glad Uncle John's out—his lumbago's much worse.

Warren, bored at these family reminiscences, glanced covetously at his evening paper.

Dinner announced, as they walked through into the dining-room, Helen hoped vainly for some comment upon the apartment.

Their guests always enthused over the antique furniture. But even the Sheraton sideboard, agleam with old crystal and silver, elicited only a casual glance from Jean.

"This's the first time you've seen our apartment," murmured Helen, suggestively. "You haven't been to New York since we were married."

"No, we rarely come East," ignoring the cue. "Chicago's much nearer and we can shop there just as well."

Jean spooned into her fruit cocktail. "You know Edna was teaching in the University? She's engaged to one of the professors—a Scotchman. They're going to Edinburg on their wedding trip."

"Oh, I love Edinburg," glowed Helen, always eager to drag in their European trips. "I think Princes Street is the most beautiful street in the world. It has only one side—just bleak cliffs on the other. Dear, don't you thing it's the most interesting of all foreign streets?"

"Um-um," grunted Warren, his first contribution.

"And the most alluring antique shops all along there! That's where I got these old silver salt-cellars."

"Did you?" Jean perfunctorily examined the quaint minature barrels.

"Aren't you interested in antiques?"

"Yes, mildly. But I think there's a lot of pose about them, don't you?"

"You bet there is! chuckled Warren, regarding her with surprised approval.

"Mother thinks I'm a barbarian, but it's hard for me to enthuse over things I don't really care about. She's always shocked when I admit I'm bored by a symphony concert."

"You not unique in that," grinned Warren. "Helen dragged me to one last winter. A lot of bunny noise without a tune! gave me the willies. Never again.

"Yet people from home, whom I know loathe it, buy season tickets and go to Chicago just to say they've been to the Symphony. Really, Riverville is getting more artificial every year. We've a Current Events Club—Mrs. Blossom's president. You remember her? I went to one of the meetings—too funny for words. Mrs. Simpson read a paper on 'Art and Artistry in the Balkans.'"

"Ha, ha, that's great!" roared Warren. "Guess she knew as much about it as Pussy Purr-Mew."

"I went to an interesting literary tea at Mrs. Steven's last week." Helen fairly lugged it in. "Irma Hampton was there—you know she wrote 'Milestones.' And Anna Moore Talbert, author of the 'Sally' stories, and Don Bradley, who composed the music for 'Dandelions.' You ought to see that—it's running now."

"I really don't care for musical shows," announced Jean, plainly unimpressed by Helen's acquaintance with literary and musical celebrities. "I've just ten days in New York and I want to see the good plays. I go every night with Clara Brett—she's here studying interior decorating. We sit up in the peanut gallery."

"That's sensible!" Warren always admired any frank statement of necessary economy.

"You see I'm trying to do this whole trip on seven dollars a day. That includes hotel, meals, theatres, everything. It may run over a little but I'm trying to keep it down to that."

"You can, if you know the ropes," approved Warren. "Where d'you breakfast?"

"At a cafeteria near the hotel. Fruit coffee and toast only thirty cents. And we found the cunningest tea-room that serves a sixty-five cent dinner."

"Yes, we went to one the other night. Pretty good meal—not over-substantial, but enough for you girls. Only seventy-five. Helen'll give you the address—she was keen about it.

To bee keen about a seventy-five cent dinner was not at all the impression Helen had wanted to make upon her home-town cousin. She had planned a very different line of conversation.

But during the rest of the dinner Warren divulged all of her pet economies that he thought might help Jean in her seven-dollar-a-day scedule.

"Half-past!" dismayed Jean, as the hall clock struck. We're to see 'The Moron' tongiht. I'm to meet Clara at Times Square at eight sharp."

"You can make it, if you hustle" Warren jumped up. "Now, look here, we'll help you out on that seven-dollar schedule. We'll blow you to dinner and a show Saturday. Seen 'Making it Trumps?' Ripping good comedy. I'll get tickets for that—and we'll take your friend, too."

"That's awfully kind—but I'm afraid it's an impoultion."

"We'll come by for you at the hotel—about six-thirty, and take you to a corking place for dinner. Best sea food intown."

A moment later they hurried her out to the elevator, Warren briskling instructions as to the quickest way to reach Times Square.

"Well, she's all to the good!" with emphasis, as he closed the door. "No pose about her. Not a bit affected. Only one of your family who doesn't try to put on a lot of side."

"Warren, that's not true! My family are just as genuine as yours!"

"Well, all I've met try to put up some sort of bluff" clipping a cigar. "She's here doing it on the cheap and not ashamed to say so."

"Oh, I hope she didn't hear us talking when she came in," Helen voiced the worry that hung over her all evening. "If she waited in the hall—do you think she could have heard?"

"You were coachin' me what not to say, eh?" fumbling for a match. "That just my point—it's always some darned pose!"

"You always say that!" flamingly. "But it's not a pose to want to give people the right impression."

"The right impression? Well they'll get that without all your stage-setting. Now take a tip from this tall-grass cousin of yours. Don't be forever puttin' up a front—everybody sees through it, anyway. Best way to impress people is not to try to! How 'bout that for a Peppy Proverb? Not bad, eh?"

Holland's Outdoor Prison System Proves Successful

By the Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, Aug.—The "outdoor prison" system here has been officially announced a success, and the Dutch government has made arrangements to extend the idea to various parts of the country. This decision came after an experiment which has continued more than a year, and it is reported, of all the placed on their honor not to escape and during which time they were allowed much freedom, not a single individual abused the trust.

The experiment began when 60 prisoners were drafted to the town of cultivatd fields, and they showed themselves very much interested and industrious as well. The men were not supervised or guarded in any way. The foreman of each gang Veenhuizen to convert moorland into was, however, not a prisoner, but a workman who joined voluntarily.

William Oldham Plans To Pedal Acrpss Atlantic

MANCHESTER, England, Aug.—Built in a 12-foot square office, a craft 12 feet long will shortly start on a journey across the Atlantic with its builder and skipper, William Oldham, at the helm, according to an announcement given out by Oldham.

The boat is made of steel, with eight water-tight chambers which the builders claims makes it unsinkable. Oldham proposes to propel the boat by his feet, and is fixing pedals for that purpose, but the pedals can also be used with the hands which will give Williams an occasional rest.

Developments in south Archer county in the Ragle pool of Knight and Hines and the Panhandle Refining company, the semi-completion of an oil well in Throckmorton county, an absolute wildcat, the east extension of the Beaver Creek-McCarty 1,600-foot producing area in Wichita county, and the showing made in two tests on the Miller land, block 19, ATNCL, Archer county, were the features of the past weeks' field activities in the Wichita district.

Pipeline runs, on which production estimates are based, showed an approximate 2,000-barrel daily gain over the average of the week before. Drilling permit issuance slumped 50 per cent, but eleven being issued by the railroad commission during the week. The Humble made the only price cut for the district yesterday at 11:30 when they reduced the price of Wichita and Archer crude to $1.35, fifteen cents below their own former price and major purchasers except the Magnolia which still stands at $1.25 for 33 degree gravity and above crude.

Throckmorton county was given its first oil well during the week when the Panhandle Refining company and Larkin and White placed in a state of semi-completion their No. 1, H. E. Conger, between the towns of Throckmorton and Woodson, southeast of Throckmorton and about four miles northwest of Woodson. Sand was encountered at 1,448 feet, and oil rose to a height of 700 feet in the hole. When swabbed for a little while Friday afternoon 35 barrels of oil was run to storage and the hole swabbed again. Yesterday morning oil had risen to a height of 280 feet in the hole after being allowed to set over night.

No estimates can be made of probable production until the well is actually placed on the pump and a guage taken, it being located in absolute wildcat territory about which little is known. There is no water, and it is certain that the well will make a producer of some sort. Oil from the well measures 39 degrees gravity, from which there is a possible 35 per cent gasoline recovery. It is indicated that the well will be placed on the pump as soon as possible.

Archer County.

Shipley and Everts with their two tests on the Miller land, block 19, ATNCL, promise a nice extension in that direction of a mile to a mile and a half from existing production. Casing has been cemented in the Everts well and is being run to set and test and in the Shipley test to the north, depth in both being given as around 1,33 feet. A test should be possible by the middle of the week. The Atlantic Oil Producing company has acquired a large tract, 320 acres, a mile to the northwest of these tests and is forging up for a test in the center of the tract, north line of lot 2, section 17, W. H. Taylor land.

The Magnolia Petroleum company has set casing to test on a sand encountered at 1,595 feet in their No. 1 Parrish, northeast corner of the northwest 40 acres of section 26, ATNCL Parrish land. This is just to the south of the lately completed Carter-Gould White land well reported to be making 75-100 barrels a day from sand at 1,600-06 feet. First bailing of the Magnolia well showed but little oil and it was understood yesterday that it would be drilled deeper into the sand.

In the Comac district the Magnolia and Stanley McGregor both added estimated 100-barrel producers from a slightly higher level than other wells in the district. Several other wells were started in the district and it is probable that the week will see other completions.

Waite Phillips pumped 162 barrels during 24 hours as a day's guage on his Wilson well during the week. The test on the Henry Ford land was definitely abandoned, total depth 2,002 feet. The Oil Investment company started up on their test northwest of the Waite Phillips well, and in event of completion for a producer will extend the pool a mile in that direction.

The Texas company completed their pipeline to their Pease estate producer and ran the first oil from the lease. They have started up on their well on the Andrews land to the southwest; Norton is drilling past 1,200 feet on his No. 3, two locations west of his No. 2, abandoned. There are other locations made near the well, actual drilling of which is in prospect now that pipeline connections have been made.

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company and the Humble Oil and Refining company both completed Orton district wells, the Humble's completion being reported a consistent 200-barrel pumper.

Alford and others have a sand at about 900 feet in their test on the Anderson land east of Archer City and southeast of the old Ladd and Hanon well and are running casing to test. Holmes and Haskell are reported to be testing another sand on their east of Archer City test.

Wichita County.

Maer and Staniforth completed their No. 4 Burnett during the week for a good producer from an 1,800-foot sand, their well being immediately offset by the Texhoma and Perkins.

In the McCarty district, Beaver Creek, Hammon-Lee-Bullington gave the proven area for the 1,600-foot sand a thousand-foot east extension with the completion of their No. 2 McCarty, for an estimated 350-400 barrel well. The United Central Oil company's 30-acre lease was proven thus for its entire undrilled portion. They have offset the well and are drilling.

Their No. 10 McCarty is on the sand and should be drilled in today with a Star machine.

In the Murray district, Bass, Dillard and Bower completed their No. 4 Peeler in the 1,770-foot sand after deepening and have an estimated 250-barrel well. Harvey-Cullen-Gardner completed their No. 2 Peeler from the 1,600-foot sand for an estimated 250-barrel well. The Petroleum Producers company completed the second and better 300-foot well in the district getting about a 40-barrel well with little water from a shallow test on their Maer-Staniforth lease.

Cochran is attempting to make a well from a sand in his Weeth test, south of the Ruyle farm holdings, northwest extension. D. O. Johnston has made a location and expects to start up soon on a test in the southwest corner of the county, Mrs. J. H. James land, section 16.

The Mid-Kansas and the Magnolia are each starting up tests on their leases, W. T. Waggoner, south of Electra.

BENSON POOL GETS NEW WELL

First Oil Run Through New Pipeline From Peter-Kemp Field

Special to the Record News.

OLNEY, Aug. 9.—Russel and Hardy have completed their No. 2 in the Benson pool northeast of here along the Archer-Young county line, survey 1397, abstract 475, S. M. Benson land, for a better well than their No. 1, Benson, reported to be pumping fifty barrels a day from sand encountered at 893 feet after three months of steady production. Sand in the No. 2 well was encountered at 883 feet and was reached in ten drilling days. Oil from the well tests better than 42 degrees gravity. A number of locations are reported to have been made in the vicinity of the well, among which are those of the Nine Hundred Oil Company, south offset location, and Russel and Hardy No. 3, west offset location. Polk Anderson has made a location and is moving in a rig for a test on the forty acres to the north.

The Benson pool is located about four miles east of the Ragle pool, straight down the Archer-Young county line. It is reported that arrangements for a pipe line are being made.

Swastika No. 1.

The Swastika Oil Syndicate's Goldsmith No. 6 has been drilled ten feet into the sand and shown to be good for 75 to 100 barrels. Sand was found at 1,318 feet.

Four other tests in this field are on the sand which include the Bridwell-Mayfield-Richardson No. 7, the Shamrock-Richardson No. 3, Murchison and Fain Goldsmith No. 3, and Magee on the Scrugs land, this tract finding the sand at 1,339 feet.

In the area near Jean, Litchfield is drilling at 575 feet on a rotary test in survey 294, Baldwin land. his is 900 feet west of the E. E. Peter et al test on the Sims farm which picked up a shallow oil sand at 705 feet.

Peter-Kemp No. 1.

On the G. P. Robertson land five miles west of Olney, O'Neal et al are coring ahead around 1,250 feet. This is between the Swastika and Peter-Kemp field.

The first run of oil was made early in the week through the recently completed pipe line from the Peter-Kemp field to the loading rack on the Wichita Falls and Southern railroad three miles south of Olney.

Marland Will Drill, Panhandle

The Marland Oil Company is moving a rig in for another Carson county test, location to be made on their lease in section 107, directly north of The Texas Company No. 2 Burnett. This lease contains the whole of the southwest quarter of section 107, Burnett.

The contract for the well is still pending and spudding will be delayed until all arrangements are completed but it is indicated that this should not take up much more time. This well will be located between The Texas Company No. 2 and the American Refining Company's newly completed producer.

Drill Permits

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 9.—The oil and gas bureau, state railroad commission, Friday granted permits to Seay, Cranfill and Reynolds to drill wells Nos. 6 and 7 on their Howard lease in Navarro county, depth not shown. United Central Oil company was also granted a permit to drill its No. 10 well on the S. H. McCarty lease in Wichita county, depth not shown.

Notices of intention to drill were filed on the following wells:

Mary J. Barnes, No. 3 Wilson, Archer county, 1,600 feet.

Cuthrell Oil Co., No. 1 E. D. Parker, Grimes county, depth not shown.

GREENWOOD ET AL WILL START UP AGAIN, ALBRIGHT

T. B. Greenwood et al are expected to start up again today on his test east of Dundee in Holliday creek bed, section 4, Hooper and Wade. A. Albright land, abstract 983, after being shut down for several weeks at a depth past 1,300 feet.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. Cuts Wichita-Archer Crude to $1.35 Bbl.

High-Lights Of the Week

SUNDAY—Completion of Hammon-Lee-Bullington, McCarty No. 2, Beaver creek district, Wichita county, extends 1,600-foot proven area about 1,000 feet to the east. Well estimated at 300-400 barrels.

MONDAY—The Texas company runs the first oil over its new line from the Pease estate, Graham No. 1, to its main line in the Sunshine pool.

TUESDAY—Pennsylvania crude oil prices cut from 10 to 25 cents by leading crude oil purchasers.

Throckmorton county wildcat, Larkin and White and the Panhandle Refining company shows for well from sand at about 1,450 feet. Some oil in hole. Gravity test shows 39 degrees.

WEDNESDAY—Knight and Hines and Hil and Hayes complete their No. 1, Ragle, about a thousand feet southwest of the discovery well on the Ragle land, south Archer county, for an estimated 100-barrel well.

Knight and Hines and the Panhandle Refining company complete their No. 3, Ragle, west offset to discovery well for estimated 50-barrel well from practically the same sand.

THURSDAY—Derricks go up for three new tests in vicinity of Knight Hines-Panhandle Ragle pool, and one other location announced.

American Petroleum Institute weekly summary figures show 1,500-barrel decrease in national crude oil production during week ending August 2.

Twenty-four hour gauge on Waite Phillips well, Wilson land, Horrits survey, abstract 646, shows 162 barrels oil.

FRIDAY—Drill permit issuance during first week of August by the oil and gas section office of the railroad commission shows lowest figure in months for this district.

MERGER RUMORS PERSIST IN GOTHAM

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—To the crop of oil merger reports persisting in the financial district have been added the rumor that the Maryland and Mutual companies may form the nucleus of a consolidation in the mid-continent field. While the report lacked official confirmation, interests closely identified the oil industry asserted today that considerable discussion had been devoted to all merger possibilities in view of the need of measures to cut down operating costs.

Berlin Hotel Trade Declines

BERLIN, August.—The steady decrease in hotel guests during May, June and July this year has alarmed the hotel keepers, who say that the situation is due to the 15 per cent special tax on hotel rooms. Berlin is the only large German city that still exacts this tax.

In previous years there was a steady increase of hotel guests during May, June and July.

COASTAL GRADES CUT 15 CENTS

Only Cut Made for Wichita District During Past Week

The Humble Oil and Refining company made the lone cut in the price of crude oil for this district yesterday when it reduced Wichita and Archer counties crude oil fifteen cents to $1.35 a barrel, fifteen cents below the price of the Texas company and the Prairie Oil and Gas company and ten cents above the rate of the Magnolia Petroleum company for 33 degrees gravity and above.

The cut of the Humble Oil and Refining company for this district was a part of a revision of their schedule to read as follows:

Wichita and Archer counties $1.35.
Ranger crude oil—no changes.
All grades Moran crude $1.35.
Mexia, Currie, Richland and Powell $1.35.

1,700 bbls. Affected.

Such a cut of the Humble affects about 1,700 barrels of crude oil, part of which is usually purchased with Prairie prices as a basis. The cut below the Prairie level indicates a dissatisfaction with that companies schedule that is forecasted will show itself in cuts by that company and the Texas company soon. News of the cut of the Humble was received here at 11:30 yesterday morning and it is understood that it was posted at the general offices at Houston too late for other companies there to follow before the close of business at one o'clock yesterday.

An associated press dispatch received yesterday afternoon states that "leading crude purchasing companies here today cut coastal crude oil 15 cents a barrel. Grade "A" was posted at $1.35 and grade "B" at $1.15 a barrel at the well. This is the third cut in heavy crude since early in July. The previous two cuts were for twenty-five cents each." Just what "leading purchasing companies" made the coastal cut could not be learned last night.

Others During Week.

Other cuts made during the past week in the price of crude oil in various districts of the United States follows.

August 5—Joseph Seep Purchasing Agency reduced all grades Pennsylvania crude 25 cents: Cabell, Somerset light and Somerset medium were reduced 15 cents; Ragland was reduced ten cents.

August 5—The Ohio Oil company reduced the price of all Rocky mountain crudes which it buys, ten cents per barrel. At the same time a reduction of three cents per barrel was posted in Sunburnst, Montana crude.

Wilbarger Test Down To 2,140 Ft.

The Teapot Dome Oil Company, Vernon, has shut down on their test in the southwest quarter of section 100, H&TCRR, block 14, south of Vernon, depth being given as 2,140 feet. It is not known what the intentions of the company are in regard to the well; no information is being given out. A sand encountered at 2,007 and lasting to 2,014 feet was passed in this well, it appearing only in a broken formation.

Bridwell and Heydrick have a derrick up for their No. 1, Dill, east offset to the Wells-Guiberson well, and should be able to spud today or tomorrow.

100,000 BARRELS POTENTIAL MAY BE ADDED U. S. OUTPUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—With current production of crude oil in the United States approximating 2,000,000 barrels daily experts today were inclined to hark back to a few months ago when the daily output averaged about 1,850,000 barrels. Talk of a possible shortage in supplies was heard at that time. Today potential production about to be released may add some 100,000 barrels to the daily yield with still further increases in the offing.

British Rulers Meet Dominion Legislators

LONDON, Aug.—Among the many events which King George and Queen Mary have participated during this busy season, that at Westminister Hall adjoining the house of commons recently was probably the most interesting to them. Here they met, informally, virtually all the leading members of of the Dominion Parliaments who are visiting the mother country.

The gathering was the first meeting between the king and his empire legislators. There were no formal speeches, just a homely chat between king and empire rulers.

The king and queen were received at the entrance by the Lord Chancellor, the speaker of the house of commons, labor cabinet members and other high officials, after which they were presented individually to the various overseas representatives.

Old Editions Valuable

LONDON, Aug.—A first edition of Swifts "Gulliver's Travels," dated 1726, was sold at Sotheby's auction room recently to an American for $3,625, a new high record for the edition. A first edition of Thackery's "Vanity Fair" brought $1,925.

Soviet Executes Its Enemies

KHARKOV, Russia, Aug.—Twelve Russians, including one woman, have been ordered shot by the district court, sitting in extraordinary session for plotting against the soviet state on behalf of Poland. Six others were condemned to long terms in jail while 47 persons charged with complicity in the plot were acquitted.

Clean-Up Of Field Storage Shows Output Up

The approximate gain of 3,000 barrels a day in the average daily crude oil production of the Wichita district during the past week is not due as might at first be supposed to an increase of operations and to an unusually large number of completions for a large initial production. Rather it represents a partial clean-up of field storage which always comes toward the end of the month and takes several days to get into the pipe lines and be accounted for.

There were few completions for wells in Archer county last week, yet here there is an increase of 1,220 barrels shown. Completions in the McCarty, Murray, and Burnett sections of the Electra district only partially accounted for that sections gain of 810 barrels daily.

Clay county showed a small increase of fifteen barrels as more oil was taken by The Texas Company from the Cumley-Calendar-Stump well on the Stine land.

Proration has been partially discontinued with the current lower prices, the results of this showing some in production estimates, also.

NO MORE MELON, STANDARD OIL

Panic-Stricken Independents Ruin Market-Standard Of Kansas

By The Associated Press.

NEODOSHA, Kan., Aug. 9.—No further dividend will be paid on the common stock of the Standard Oil Company of Kansas during the remainder of this year officials of the company announce here today. Reasons given for the action were that there had been an over-production of crude oil and gasoline, reaching a large amount of storage, as a result the company declared panic-stricken Mid-Continent refiners were throwing their gasoline on the market at prices below the cost of manufacture.

Directors of the company assert the middle-man and ultimate consumer have profited by these conditions at the expense of the refiners.

Laws Against Liquor Passed 69 Years Ago

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug.—The far-sightedness of Florida's legislators of the nineteenth century is disclosed in an old law unearthed in the archives of the state capitol here. It is an act which became effective in January, 1855, and provided heavy penalties for employes of railroads found guilty of being intoxicated while in the performance of their duty.

At the time of its enactment there were no railroads in Florida. The act, however, imposed upon the general assembly the duty of ascertaining the proper objects of improvements in relation to railroads, canals and navigable streams; and indicates the presentiment the lawmakers must have had that liquor and locomotive combined would not make for public safety.

Ceremony Planned for Knights Templar Convention

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug.—Preliminary arrangements already have been made by Bethlehem Commandry of Seattle for an impressive ceremony to take place during the triennial conclave of the Knights Templar of the United States here in July, 1925.

The Intternational Traveling Beausesant of the order will be formally presented to the commandery in the University of Washington stadium by the Western Gate Preceptory of Victoria, B. C. At the cross arms of a living passion cross formed by more than 2,500 Knights Templar, the beausesant, , a reproduction of the battle guidon carried by the ancient Templars, will be presented as 100 chanters sing age-old songs of the order.

The beausesant was started on a world journey by the Grand Priory of Canada in March 1921, to carry a message of universal peace.

German Railway System Still Far Below Pre-War Efficiency

LEIPSIC, Germany, Aug.—Summer vacation travel has increased German railway traffic from 55 per cent of prewar conditions to 65 per cent so far as the number of trains is concerned.

It is claimed that passenger business is run at a loss and only freight traffic pays.

Before the war the average speed of fast trains was 53.56 miles an hour while ta present the average speed is 47.50. Owing to the transportation taxes passenger farec are about 50 per cent above prewar rates.

U. S. Pastor Goes to Berlin

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug.—The Rev. Irvin S Yeaworth of Baltimore has been called by the American Church of Berlin to be co-pastor with Dr. Dickie, the senior pastor, and will take up his duties in August. The American and Foreign Christian Union, in which the title of the church vests, has approved the appointment.

Dr. Dickie will return to his former home in Detroit in August and hereafter will live there with the exception of the three summer months, when he will take charge of the Berlin church during the vacation of his assistant.

Two Ragle Wells Completed During Week And Locations Made For Four More Wells To Further Test Area

Special to the Record News.

OLNEY, Aug. 9.—Development of the Ragle pool north of here has become a reality during the past week with the completion of two wells in that district and the commencement of operations on four others. With the completion of the two wells, the Knight-Hines-Panhandle No. 3 Ragle, west, offset to the discovery well, No. 2, and the Knight-Hines-Hayes No. 1 Ragle, a thousand feet to the southwest, production from this pool has at least been trebled, and in all probability will reach 200 barrels a day from the three wells completed so far.

The Knight-Hines-Hayes No. 1 Ragle, was completed first. Sand depths are not known, but the well is stated to look better than the discovery well offset. This well should be on the pumps by tonight. The offset well was placed on the pump at six o'clock Friday night and would flow through the tubing during intervals in the pumping. Depth in this well is the same as in the discovery well, sand encountered at about 1,079 feet having been entered to a depth of 1,084 feet, according to information given out today. This well is to all appearance better than the discovery well to the east. It is believed that the combined production of the two completions will approximate 150 barrels a day, which, with the 50 barrels coming from the No. 2, will raise the daily output of the lease to 200 barrels.

The derrick has been skidded from the No. 3 well to the southwest corner of the 19 1-2 acre lot on which it is located for the No. 4 Ragle, Knight and Hines, Panhandle Refining Company. This is an east offset to the No. 1 Ragle, Knight-Hines-Hayes. Approximately 1,000 feet southeast of this test and in the southwest corner of the north half north 120 acres of the R. Newman survey, abstract 330, the location has been made for the No. 5, Knight-Hines-Panhandle. A derrick has been built and the rig from the old Eagle Creek test will be moved.

The derrick has been skidded off the No. 1 Ragle, Knight-Hines-Hayes, a location to the west for the No. 2 by the same parties. Drilling on these three tests is expected to be started by Tuesday of this week.

On the E. A. Hausler land, 450 feet each way from the southeast corner of the tract, abstract 167, Jeffers and Newby have a derrick up and expect to start drilling as soon as water arrangements can be made. This test will be a little more than a mile west of the southwest extension of the pool and will be invaluable in showing the trend of the production in that direction.

Lack of water which has been something of a handicap in the development of this pool so far will be overcome with the completion of a four-inch water line from the city of Olney water supply, a lake about three miles northeast of the pool, to the drilling tests, both on the Ragle land and on the Hauser land.

Knight-Hines-Panhandle Refining Company are erecting a central power station between the two recently completed wells large enough it is stated, to care for twenty-five pumpers. Five hundred barrels storage is being erected on the site of the southwest well. The oil at present is being handled by the Olney Refining Company plant about two miles west of the group.

Oklahoma Daily Production Forced Past Half-Million Mark By Initial Output 132 Completions for 94 Wells

Total of 905 Drilling Wells In Oklahoma Now

With a total of 132 successful completions in the state of Oklahoma during the past week, the initial production brought about by these producers forced daily average production of Oklahoma to the half million mark, according to the current issue of the Oil Weekly.

The added production of the Cromwell field, the Strond district and the large well completed by McCaskey & Wentz in the deep sand at Tonkawa is responsible for this increase and for the fact that the state is about to hang up a new record in daily average production, the previous high record being 530,000 barrels.

Although the larger companies have curtailed drilling to a minimum, statistics show that somebody is drilling wells and the figures show that there are now 905 drilling rigs running with 81 new locations made during the past week. Complete statistics from the Oil Weekly follow:

CORRECTION

Sand depth of the Roy I. Carter-Gould well in the southwest corner of the north half of lot 15, J. H. White land, block 34, ATNCL, Archer county, was given in a story printed last week as 1,610-1,612 feet. This was a mistake, the depth given being 1,600-1,606 feet.

WATER TROUBLES CLAY CO. TESTS

Three Tests Close To Sand But Shut Down For Water

Three Clay county tests on the Stine Brothers land have reached critical depths and with another day's drilling will know whether or not they will get the sand from which Cumley-Callendar-Stump are getting in excess of 200 barrels of oil a day in their No. 1 Stine.

The Cumley-Callendar test, No. 1 Stine, south offset to the discovery well, is down within forty feet of the sand, and shut down last night for water. The Globe Drilling Company is past 1,600 feet and shut down for water. Their's is a diagonal southeast offset. Bowen and Ross are below 1,600 feet in their test south and east of the remaining tests of the group and shut down for water.

It was believed last night that the water condition would be relieved sufficiently today to permit further drilling and it was predicted that should such occur all three tests would be on the sand before night tonight.

These tests are being watched with a great deal of interest in Wichita Falls, since their outcome will largely determine whether or not Clay county is due a revival of activity. Several locations are known to have been made for the district, starting of operations pending only on the outcome of these wells.

NORTON NO. 3, GRAHAM, 1,200 FT.

W. E. Norton is drilling past 1,200 feet on his No. 3 Graham, two locations west of his No. 2, abandoned, northeast quarter of J. W. Schnell survey, abstract 380, Archer county. This test is a location north and a two locations west of The Texas Company's No. 1 Graham, lately connected with a pipe line.

Give me
Feathers 8240

Hello! Just wanted to remind you I need a lot of feather-making materials in my feed now. I have to make about 8,000 new feathers before I start my winter laying—and I want to get through my molt quickly, so I can lay lots of eggs when prices are high.

You say Purina Chicken Chowder is full of that protein stuff that makes feathers and eggs? That's what I need. Send some right out.

Spudders Scamper Over Gassers, 15 to 3

HOMELINGS MASSACRE TWO CHUNKERS FOR 22 SAFETIES

Osborn Relieves Hodges and Hurls Good Game — Chief Wano Joins Domestics

By BLONDY CROSS.

Spudders proved decisively Saturday that it doesn't necessarily take a forfeit for the homelings to conquer Shreveport by massacreing two Gasser hurlers for 22 safeties and a 15 to 3 victory.

Big Chief Wano came in from Dallas on optional agreement, joined the Spudders, let out a war hoop, swung a mighty battle club at the plate, and played a bang-up game at the initial station. Out of six voyages to the platter, Wano walked once, doubled twice, and singled on another occasion.

Callaghan connected for a quartet of bingles, and Weis poled five safe blows.

Lefty Craig's southpaw slants failed to baffle the Spuds, so Manager Orr sent Clark, a starboarder to the hillock, but right hand pitching was no more baffling than the wrong side stuff.

Double Header Today.

Hippo Hodges journeyed to the mound two innings for the homelings but became erratic in the third. After walking a pair and getting three balls on another batter, Robert Osborn assumed the chunking role for the domestics. Robert hurled sterling ball the remainder of the way.

The victory plus the game forfeited to Wichita Falls Saturday makes it two straight over the Gassers. The same clubs will hook up this afternoon in a double header. Initial conflicts starts at 2:30 pronto, so saith J. Will Gray, Spudder secretary and lord of the domain in the absence of Prexy Harvey who is basking in Denver sunshine at present by way of a vacation.

Spuds Score in First.

Spudders tabulated in the first. With one away Callaghan popped a Texas leaguer back of second. Locker aviated to short. Callie absconded with the keystone cushion, and Artful Arthur Weis followed through with a sweet swat over the center fielder's head for three sacks. Callaghan checked at the platter, and Weis cooled his dogs at the look-in corner while Turgeon bounded out to third.

Gassers jumped into the run column in the second for a marker. Riley led off with a single between first and second. Sperber beat out a bunt between the box and third. Rowland grounded out to second, and Riley drew up at third. Craig thrice swung lustily. French singled between first and second, scoring Riley. Sperber was trapped between third and the plate on the play for the final out of the round.

Three in Second.

Spudders accumulated three in the second. With one gone White singled to port, and advanced a peg when French in right muffed fly by Jonnard. Hodges grounded out to short. Fitzgerald bobbled one down the first base line and beat the play. White scored. Callaghan singled through short scoring Jonnard, and Fitzgerald went home when King in left miscued on the same play. Locker flied out to center.

Shreveport counted another in the third. Hodges doled free tickets to Connolly and King. With three balls and no strikes on Brown, Hodges betook himself to the club house at the behest of Skipper Bud, and Robert Osborn clabored aboard the dome. Brown hit into a double killing, Turgeon to White to Wano. Orr singled to the mid precinct, sending Connolly to the paying counter. Riley popped to short.

Spuds Pair in Fourth.

Another tally was garnered in the domestic portion of the third. Weis biffed a one-baser to center. Turge expired at the platter, and Weis went to second when Craig heaved at the grandstand. Wano knocked the counter across by singling through second.

Homelings continued at a regular stride in the fourth, spearing two more. After Fitzgerald had hoisted out to center, Callaghan singled through second, his third safety of the contest. Locker flied to Sperber. Weis singled through short, also his third safe clout, and Callaghan made third. Turgeon walked. Wano doubled to starboard, scoring Callaghan and Weis. White popped out to short.

Homelings Bat Around.

Clark succeeded Craig in the fifth inning, and the Spudders batted around, scoring a quartet. Jonnard, first up, drew a pass. Osborn popped to second. Fitzgerald walked. Callaghan busted his fourth single through short, and Jonnard scored. Locker grounded out to second, scoring Fitzgerald. Weis singled to left of second, his fourth safety of the tilt, sending Callaghan to the pan. Turgeon singled to left, and Wano walked. White smashed one at the box too hot to field, and was safe at first. Weis scored on the blow. Jonnard retired the side with aviation to right.

Osborn struck out Rowland, Clark, and French in a row in the Shreveport seventh.

Spuds amassed a couple in the seventh. After one was gone Turgeon beat out a blow to short and went to second when Brown jungle heaved at first. Wano poled the pill to port for two cushions, scoring Turge. White bounded out to third. Jonnard singled to left, scoring Wano. Osborn grounded out to the box.

With two gone in the eighth Shreveport scored when Callaghan dropped Sperber's fly, and Rowland followed with double to right center.

Spudders weren't through yet; they came around in the latter half of the eighth and whacked over two more, bringing the number of runs up to the grand total of 15. Fitz led off with a monetary smack to right of second and was forced by Callaghan. Locker grounded out to short, Callie going to second. Weis singled viciously down the first base line, and Callaghan chalked. Turgeon singled at third, an infield blow which he had beaten. Orr fielded the ball and desperately heaved it far, far away in effort to head off Turge. Weis galloped home, and Turgeon rambled to third. Wano grounded out to pitcher.

TRAMMEL AND TUCKER THURSDAY

Smiling Duke Trammel probably will find in the veteran Frankie Tucker Thursday in the Legion 12-round main event the shiftiest and wisest opponent he has tangled with yet.

The boxing records rate Tucker highly and show that he has met and whipped many leading boxers of the nation.

This bout will be another case of age versus youth, science and skill pitted against strength and ruggedness. This is Tucker's twelfth year in pugilism.

Ring Discloses His Own Beauty Secrets

Puts Knee in Plaster Cast and Memorizes the Official Football Guide—Nothing Like It.

By RING LARDNER.

To the Editor:

In a recent issue of the Liberty weekly, which somebody from Youngstown, Ohio, win a prize of $20,000 for picking out such a remarkable name for a magazine, well any way in this issue, why Miss Gertrude Lawrence, one of the two lady stars in the Charlot English revue which the other lady is Miss Beatrice Lillie and they come here last December expecting to stay a couple months but are still hanging around, well any way this Miss Lawrence who is undoubtedly one of the prettiest ladies that ever just happened give a interview to a gal named Miss Josephine Day which the title of it was a woman's duty to be beautiful plus.

SOOTH YOUR SPINE.

What Miss Lawrence seems to of meant by plus was that you should ought to be smart as well as beautiful, in other words if a gal is just beautiful without no brains why after a wile you ket tired of setting there and just looking at her because you think to yourself I could get a copy of the sistine Medonna and set there and look at that and between looks I could read the paper and find out where Firpo was going to train. But if it is a live gal setting there why it seems kind of rude to read the papers and the gal should ought to be able to say something besides I, yes or no when you talk to her.

Well Miss Lawrence in this article tells not only how she keeps beautiful but how she also keeps snappy and I will quote her following words:

"A woman should give over a few minutes every day to reading something. Memorize two lines of poetry a day, a paragraph or two of good prose. Add a few words daily to your vocabulary. Do this for no other reason than to keep mentally active, enthusiastic and consequently young."

So much for keeping the brains alert. Now in regards to how to keep beautiful. Miss Lawrence says:

"Take a warm bath, then lie flat on the back, draw the knees up so that the base of the spine may feel the soothing caress of the mattress. Lie thus for fifteen minutes with every nerve and fiber relaxed."

Now then gals, Miss Lawrence has certainly showed you how to be beautiful and bright, and also she adds a little hint in regards to how to keep the pores of the skin closed—"First you cleanse the face thoroughly, then with a tiny brush or a piece of clean cloth, apply the unbeaten white of an egg to the skin. Let the albumen dry on the skin. And etc."

NOTE THE DIFFERENCE.

But that don't tell the male sex how to be pretty and clever at one and the same time and at least one person has wrote in and requested me to tell them how I do it.

Well gents when I go to bed nights if ever I always do one knee up in a plaster cast to be sure it won't go nowheres. Then I always lay down on my left side and memorize a couple of paragraphs of the official football guide. Like for inst.

"The service is a fault as provided for by Rule 9, or if the ball served touched the Server's partner or anything which he wears or carries."

"In case a player is hindered in making a stroke by anything not within his control, except a permanent fixture of the court, the point shall be replayed."

By this time I am generally always so exhausted that I have to call in a chiropractor, but only for a few hours. After that I uncast my knee and set up in bed and read the first few pages of the Syracuse telephone directory. Then I lay back again and scream a few moments to keep my throat clear. The next step is to call up a general practitioner and try and find out what is the matter. His name is usually Dr. Patterson, but you can't depend on that. Before finally retiring for the night I see that all the pores is closed and all the doors locked. Then I dust my face off with a whisk broom.

When dawn comes, I always get up and, like Miss Lawrence, try and add a few words to my vocabulary. Like for inst. yesterday morning I put on the following nouns:

Wham.
Kurtell.

DOAK SUSPENDS HEINIE SHEER

Heinie Sheer, Shreveport third baseman who Friday engaged Umpire Louis Weir in a fist battle during the first inning of the Spudder-Gasser game, was Saturday indefinitely suspended by League President J. Doak Roberts.

Weir officiated yesterday afternoon in the second Gasser conflict of the series.

Formal protest was made by Gasser Manager Thomas in regard to the forfeit which came after the fight, but no decision was rendered by President Roberts. Further verdict will be given later.

More Than $1200 In Prizes Offered At Canine Show

Prizes valued at more than $1200 are to be offered by the Wichita Falls Kennel Club at the third annual American Kennel Club licensed show here during the Texas-Oklahoma fair this year.

The internationally known dog judge, Enno Meyer of Cincinnati, has been secured to officiate at the show. The verdict laid down by this veteran will add prestige to the honors won by each entry.

For the purpose of encouraging local breeders a number of first-class prizes will be offered for dogs owned in Wichita county.

GOLF

Why are players that are poor on the fairway often good putters?

Answered By BILL STRACHAN
Wichita Falls Golf and Country Club Golf Professional

The position and movement of the left wrist during the backswing is exactly opposite in driving and putting. In driving the left wrist must be kept bent in; in putting it bends out. This fact explains why players that are poor on the fairway are so often good putters. They get so more practice because they putt all around the course. They use the putting motion of the left wrist on all strokes. On the backstroke in putting the left wrist bends out. If it bends in as in driving, the head of the putter is rotated too much and is thrown out of line.

BLONDY

Spudders and Gassers in double header this afternoon. First game at 2:30.

Fussell and possibly Hodges will be the Spudder mound choice. Dick Morgan may start one of the tilts.

Most of the kinks were ironed out yesterday by Prexy J. Doak, and it was found that after all, Weir is not so much at fault contrary to all the booing and the shouts of "kill him" by some of the most rabid of local fandom.

Nope, not one time in a thousand does an umpire swing on a ballplayer without more justification than the average man would call for to begin battling to a bloody finish.

The Friday fiasco in which Umpire Weir and Third Baseman Sheer hooked up fistically speaking, causing the ultimate forfeiting of the game by Umpire Daly to the Spudders was a regrettable incident, and League President Roberts expressed the opinion of many when he expressed surprise that local police took Weir to the station, but left Sheer to play in the exhibition game which followed.

But after all, the affair Friday afforded bored local sportdom a change in the routine, and so far it costs nobody anything extra except Sheer, which in itself, of course, is regrettable.

BILLY BRITTON COMING CHAMP

Mead Declares Kansan Is Another Stanley Ketchel

By EDDIE MEAD

Stanley Ketchel, lamented middleweight champion of the world, killed by a rifle shot in the hands of Walter Dipley, at Conway, Mo., October 15, 1910, was regarded as the greatest middleweight boxing has ever known.

Since Ketchel's death the boxers who have masqueraded as his successor in the 160-pound class have been a disgrace to the name of Ketchel.

Middle Class Poor.

In the 14 years that have passed since the rifle shot closed the career of the greatest middleweight knuckle whirler the Levinson game has known the closest approach to Ketchel's ability is the latest star from Kansas.

Billy Britton, Kansas cyclone, has come out of the small town of Columbus, Kan., to raise the middleweight division back upon the pedestal it occupied when Ketchel was the man-mauler of the 158 pounders.

Britton uses the Ketchel shift; Billy has the Ketchel personality. The assasin attack that Ketchel mowed down even light heavyweights with, is one of the many characteristics of this 21-year-old Kansas leather pusher.

Two-Fisted Walloper.

A two-fisted walloper like Stanley. A legitimate middleweight with the ferocious instinct that causes game men to shudder at the mere mention of Stanley Ketchel's name are some of the attributes that have brought Billy Britton from an unknown lad in a western mining camp to international fame in the middleweight ranks in three months.

Middleweights like Jeff Smith and Tiger Flowers have been extended to earn a draw with Billy. He has stopped the tough Andy Kid Palmer in one round. Charles Nashert, Harry Fay and Billy Conley have lost decisions to the 1924 sensation.

Britton achieved international fame by holding the European middleweight champion, Ted Moore, to a 12-round referee's draw decision.

Incidentally it must be mentioned that no one outside of Harry Greb has been able to hold Moore even. Moore won referee decisions over Panama Joe Gans, Larry Estridge, Frank Moody, Jock Malone and he anhiliated Morris Schlaifer, Omaha's murdering Jew.

Tommy Gibbons Topples Jack Bloomfield in Third

BRITISHER KISSES CANVAS THREE TIMES DURING SECOND SESSION

Briton Puts Up Game Battle, But Followers Greatly Disappointed By Sad Finish Of Bout

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Tom Gibbons, the American light heavyweight, gave the British heavyweight hope, Jack Bloomfield, a terrible thrashing in the second round of their fight at the Wembley stadium this afternoon and then knocked him out easily in the third round.

The fight, in which the St. Paul "phantom" who lasted 15 rounds with Jack Dempsey, made his European fistic debut, was to have gone 20 rounds. Before a crowd of 70,000 persons the only hope British sportsmen had of regaining their nation's long lost prestige in the heavyweight ring, and vanquished somewhat ignominously.

The fact that Bloomfield, one time light heavyweight of Great Britain, had been boomed as a potential threat to Jack Dempsey turned out to be a rather weak jest, for the best the Britisher was able to do this afternoon was to land four harmless blows on his opponent during the two rounds and 55 seconds that the fight lasted.

The attitude which has become so popular a ringside manner among British heavyweights since the war was exemplified to almost an extreme extent by Bloomfield today. Three times during the second round he was flat on his back and only the bell saved him from a knockout. At the start of the third round he was floored again, but arose only to be put soundly to sleep with a hurricane of blows to his head.

Early in the second round Gibbons planted a smashing right uppercut clean to Bloomfield's jaw and from that blow onward there was no doubt what the outcome of the battle would be. It was a fierce, well-timed smash that weakened the Briton and temporarily wrecked his powers of body and brain. Thereafter he was unable to defend himself adequately.

Rocking on his feet with his arms drooping he was an open target for the fierce attack which came instantly. The American rushed at the groggy Britisher, battering his head with rights and lefts, one of which toppled him to the canvas.

Bloomfield Game.

Bloomfield was down for the count of six. When he arose his relentless opponent once more went at him with both fists and down he went again, this time for the count of nine.

He staggered to his feet only to be smashed by a blow too hard to take standing up and he fell through the ropes, his head hanging over the pads and pencils of the ringside newspapermen. There he lay when the bell rang, his seconds dragging him back to his corner.

During the interval before the opening of the third round there were cries of "stop it" from the crowd, but the referee allowed Bloomfield to go out and take what everybody knew was coming to him when the gong rang for the start of the third round.

The Briton was a beaten man as he staggered from his corner. Gibbons met him in the middle of the ring, shot a left to his unprotected head and then followed with a right to the chin and then another left to the head. Bloomfield toppled over again, but at the count of four arose painfully to his feet. Then, groggy and obviously beaten, he made his first and only attempt to take the offensive or at least to fight back a little. Amid an orgy of slugging he landed twice on Gibbons' head, but the American was so busy attacking with both hands that he hardly noticed he was being hit. Finally a hurricane of hard hitting hooks to Bloomfield's head put him down and out.

Bleeding and battered into unconsciousness, he was still far from sure on his feet when he walked dizzily to his dressing room a few minutes later.

Open Air Fight Novelty.

The open-air fight was something of a novelty to England, where the weather is usually too unreliable. Today, however, was perfect with bright sunshine and a temperature that was neither too hot nor too cool. The promoters were disappointed over the attendance. They had fully expected to top the 100,000 mark, but there was no last hour rush. Ringside seats all were taken, but although the terraces were half empty, it was by far the greatest crowd ever gathered in this country for a boxing match.

It was a good humored, orderly crowd. The inevitable result of the fight was seen so early that when the knockout came it was accepted calmly. There were many expensively gowned women and men in white tropical suits. A large number of them came provided with tea and eatables.

Among the spectators were many prominent boxers, who together with the English exponents of boxing sadly lamented that Bloomfield not only was beaten, but out-classed. It was the general opinion that the American was so immeasurably beyond Britain's best that his brief display told the naked truth—that the title is far beyond any British effort.

When the limp, senseless Bloomfield was carried to his corner it was not long before his returning consciousness told him that his great ambition had collapsed. As he left the ring he encountered his brother, Joe, who had to appear in the next contest. He staggered and to inquiries only replied:

"Don't ask me; let me get 'on."

Gibbons will receive 10,000 pounds sterling as his share of the purse, while Bloomfield will receive 6000 pounds sterling.

Cummings And Burns In Finals Of Western Golf

CHICAGO Aug. 9.—The western champion, Miriam Burns of Kansas City, and the national title holders, Edith Cummings of Chicago, will contest the final rounds of the women's western golf championship at Onwentsia, by shooting spectacular golf, eliminated Dorothy Klotz of Chicago, while Miss Cummings, playing par golf, defeated Mrs. Lee Mida.

Both matches were played under difficult conditions over sodden turf, but all four players made fine scores, Miss Burns especially, as she shot the first nine in 37, six under par, and made a record for the half and came home in 45 with a cold north wind to face for the low score of the meet, 82.

A comparison of today's cards returned by the two finalists shows that had they played the same scores against each other, Miss Burns would have won 6 and 4. The finals of Monday will be the first time the contest has been set at 36 holes.

Vicentini Has Everything Real Champion Needs . . . . . By Edgren

By ROBERT EDGREN.

Luis Vicentini has as good a chance as any fighter in the world to become next world's lightweight champion. The only thing that stands between Luis and the title is Benny Leonard. And clever as Benny is, none can deny that he is over twenty-eight years of age and that he has held the title in the lightweight class for over seven years. Twenty-eight is practically old age in the ring, among lightweights. According to all precedent, Benny must be nearly through as champion.

Boxing, especially in the smaller weight classes where men develop their full powers early, is a game for youth and not for decrepit ancients of 28.

Just to illustrate let me mention a few champions in Benny Leonard's class and note what happened to them.

Benny At 16 12 Years

Jack McAuliffe "retired undefeated" at the age of 30, after boxing six no-decision rounds with Kid Lavigne. McAuliffe hadn't fought for four years at that time, and had actually retired after outboxing Young Griffo in ten rounds in 1892.

Last time I heard from George Kid Lavigne a year or so ago eh had just been married and was feeling fit and fine at 54. Lavigne was a wonder in his time. He was born in 1869, grew up in the lumber camps of Michigan, began fighting at 20 when he was fully developed, won the world's championship when he knocked out Dick Burge in London in 1896, and lost the championship three years after to Frank Erne.

Frank Erne won the championship in 1899 and was knocked out three years later by Joe Gan. Joe made a record of holding the title six years. Like Leonard, Gans didn't make weight for all his bouts, and for a long time fought as a welterweight. When he came back and fought in the lightweight class again, making weight killed him. Erne was through at 27.

Battling Nelson, the toughest eater of punishment ever known in his class, held the big title only a year and seven months. His finish came at 28. Ad Wolgast won the title at 22, and lost it two years and nine months later. An early finish for a great fighting champion. Willie Ritchie was 21 when he beat Wolgast, and lost the title two years later to Freddy Welsh. Freddy held the championship three years by sticking to the no-decision route and then was knocked out by Benny Leonard. Freddy was 31 at his finish—an old bird among lightweight title holders. Benny Leonard began fighting at 16 and has been at it 12 years.

Beides being a youngster this Vicentini boy from Chili, South America, has many advantages that promise him a fine future in the ring. Of course, all fighters are young sometime. But few have as many fighting points as this Chilean.

Has Intelligence

I know nothing about Luis Vicentini's ancestry, but from what I've seen of his in the ring he must come from fighting stock. He carries every sign of good breeding. He is far above the average in intelligence. He is thoroughly sportsmanlike in instinct and training. He has as keen a fighting brain and as cool a head under fire as Benny Leonard himself. He is quick, mentally, is determined, aggressive, yet cautious. He boxes as if his ancestors had been swordsmen.

Physically Vincentini is of a very unusual type.

He has the long, pointed chin, that indicates aggressiveness, and that is usually said to be a mark for a knockout punch. But he can take hard punches without being dazed in the least. Tommy Murphy and Terry McGovern had jaws like that. They were both great fighters.

His features are rather fine—well shaped head, thin nose, oval face, small mouth, alert and wide open eyes. But he has a strong neck extraordinarily wide shoulders, deep chest, long sinewy arms and legs that are built for speed without being too light.

Can Take a Punch

A rare combination of intelligence and physical strength.

One of the most remarkable things about Vicentini's build is the great development of his deltoid muscles. This may account in part for his hitting power. He is one of the hardest hitters among the lightweights.

After Vicentini boxed Dundee a couple of months ago Dundee said to me: "Vicentini hit me harder than anyone else has hit me in years." Dundee was given the decision in that bout, but Vicentini surely won by a margin of at least two to one. He not only outboxed Dundee, but outfought him all the way. He beat Pal Moran as easily, Moran seemed unable to start his usual fighting flurries. Vicentini's punch broke up his attack every time he tried to go. When Moran did manage to land a heavy punch the Chilean came back with a harder one. To the crowd that expected to see Moran beat the Chilean easily it was an astonishing exhibition.

That Vincentini can take a punch was shown when Rocky Kansas dropped him with a wild swing, and the Chilean hopped up and finished Kansas in a hurry.

Anything can happen in the ring, but if Vicentini goes on for a few months more as well as he has started, and improves with experience as rapidly as he has improved since coming to the United States, Benny will have to give him a chance to win the lightweight crown. In fact, it might be good judgment for Benny not to wait too long.

Work On Frog Stadium Going At Top Speed

FORT WORTH, Aug. 9—With the announcement of Texas Christian University's new $37,000 athletic stadium having been made only last Monday, the concrete foundations were poured Wednesday.

Work has been in progress for six weeks on a new athletic field which was made necessary when the Mary Couts Burnett library building was placed on the corner of the old field. Pete Wright, athletic director, announced Monday that the contract had been let. Field plans were laid Monday.

Underground piping and the turtle back shape of the gridiron will keep the grid inside the stands. It will be cindered over the entire circuit. There will be a 110-yard straightaway in front of the stands.

Athletic Director Wright expects the field and stands to be complete in time for the opening game of the season which will be on September 27 with East Texas State Normal College.

BAMBINO STILL TOPS AMERICAN

Hornsby Slumps, But Stays Out Front In National

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Having acquired all the batting leaderships in the American League, Babe Ruth is now out after his own personal records. The Babe has crossed the .400 mark in batting for his first time, due to 26 hits, including six home runs in the past week. His best previous record was .393 for the 1923 season. The six homers raised his total to 36 so far this year.

Ruth has a scoring average of little better than one run a game. He has the field to himself in total bases with a total of 318, a result of 155 hits, which beside his four-baggers, include 25 doubles and six triples.

Falk Second.

Bib Falk of Chicago continues in second place with .382 and Archdeacon, another Chicagoan, is third with .357. Eddie Collins, captain of the White Sox, has the base stealing field all to himself. He is blazing the trail with 31 thefts.

Other leading batters for 60 or more games: Jamieson, Cleveland, .346; Sheely, Chicago, .344; E. Collins, Chicago, .343; Cobb, Detroit, .338; Goslin, Washington, .337; Boone, Boston, .335, and Hellmann, Detroit, .334.

Rogers Hornsby, champion batter of the National League, has been looking at some high-class twirling in the past week and as a result, the Cardinal slugging star, has suffered a slump in his hitting, but he managed to connect enough times to remain above the .400 mark. Hornsby is out in front with .403 and has increased his lead in total bases to 246, his 153 hits including 26 doubles, 11 triples and 15 homers. Zack Wheat, the veteran Dodger outfielder, also fell off with his stick work and is trailing Hornsby with .373, while Cuyler of Pittsburgh is in third place with .369, a few points in front of Ed Roush of the Reds, who is making rapid strides toward the top of the percentage ladder. Roush is hitting .357.

Fournier 22 Homers.

Jack Fournier, slugging first baseman of the Dodgers, was unable to add to his string of 22 homers, but his margin is great enough to assure him the leadership for some time.

The base stealers have not been as active as usual. Max Carey, the fleet-footed Pirate, swiped one base however, and widened the gap between himself and Cliff Heathcote, of the Cubs, who is trailing the Pittsburger with 29. Carey has swiped 25.

Frank Frisch, star of the Giants infield, is getting a hot pace among the run getters, having registered 80 times, a gain of three over the previous week.

Other leading batters: Bressler, Cincinnati, .347; Young, New York, .342; Fournier, Brooklyn, .341; Hartnett, Chicago, .328; Blades, St. Louis, .327; Kelly, New York, .326.

JAPS BEAT CANADA

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—Japan won the Canada-Japanese tennis tie of the Davis cup series here today when Zenzo Shimizu won the first of the day's two singles matches from Jack Wright, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

Many Wichita Falls Grid Athletes To Try For College Elevens This Fall

Baldwin, Coffee, and Haney Will Attempt To Earn Berths On Texas Frosh Machine

By BASCOM NELSON

With the majority of colleges opening early football training within the next three weeks one wonders where the local high school footballs stars will play this fall. Every college in the south watched the record that Wichita Falls made last fall in football and when the team went into the semi-finals in the state race the local players began to receive letters from coaches all over the country urging them to attend this school and that school. Some of the players will continue to play football this fall while some have played their last game.

Bennett Moore, hard-hitting Coyote back for the past four years and one of the players on the local team that had every promise of a college player in him and with a knowledge of football gathered in four years of playing, hit his last line two months ago when he married. With the responsibilities of a husband resting on his shoulders Moore has no time to think of football. Cliff Waggoner, another four-letter man, has also played his last game. Waggoner said recently that he was through and said it in a final tone. Steve W— is another player who in all probability will not play next fall, although he said recently that he was not through with the game. Should West play this fall he intends to play with Coach Jim Jones at Sam Houston State Normal.

Big Gerald Smith, who played tackle for the local high school last fall and was selected by several for a berth on the all state team, will also play with Sam Houston State Normal this fall.

Hubert Stringer, captain and backfield man of last fall has not said where he will attend school this fall. Ralph Bracken, speedy little end on the team for the past three years will again strut his stuff in Wichita Falls this year when he plays with the Wichita Falls Junior college. Parks Mackeckney will either play with the Junior college or try to make the A. & M. freshman team.

Baldwin To Texas.

What of the peerless Baldwin? Baldwin probably received more college invitations this year than any other athlete in the United States. Without a peer in Texas in football, track, baseball and a dangerous man in basketball, not to mention tennis, marbles and horseshoes Baldwin was the most sought after high school player in the nation. He went to Austin during the basketball tournament in company with his coach who is a former University of Texas athlete. While in Austin Baldwin met Doleful Doc Stewart and after a conversation with Doc Leo decided that there was only one school for him, and that was his state university. He will try to make the freshman team at the state university this fall and speculator from the writer, who has attended that school is that Mr. Leo Baldwin of Wichita Falls will be captain of the freshman team while he is working to make the team, he will have in his company two former school mates.

They'll Fight.

Gerald Coffee, tll state tackle last fall will attend the same school and try to make the freshman team. Although the pick of high school stars of the state will compete against Coffee he should make his place. At the center position will be big Leo Haney star of two years ago. When in high school, Haney was regarded as one of the best roving centers in the state. He has not played any football for two years and is naturally out of training but when the lineup is announced for the first game it would be safe to bet that three Wichita Falls boys names will be on the lucky list.

Shorty Chewning will attend a college in Tennessee and with four years of high school football should be able to make the riffle.

For the first time in the history of Wichita Falls high school a raft of stars will enter college in an attempt to further carve their names in the nich of fame. Some will make the team, some will naturally fail, but when the final report is made there will be no clause that says the Wichita Falls players did not fight to the last if they fight like they fought last fall.

Week ago	102.20	90.77
High 1924	102.20	91.24
Low 1924	90.27	81.00

Total stock sales 392,800.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Stock prices displayed a better tone in today's brief session of the market. Some irregularity was noted at the opening when realizing sales again appeared in large volume, but the steady accumulation of rails mentioned in connection with proposed consolidations steadied the list and eventually led to considerable short covering in industrial shares.

Delaware and Hudson, which has been mentioned as part of a proposed fifth great trunk line system east of Chicago, was pushed up nearly five points to 1.29, a new 1924 high, while Lackawanna, which Wall street rumors state is to be taken into the proposed "Nickel Plate" system also establish a new maximum price at 140.

United States Steel common again touched 108 but slipped back later to 107 1-2, up 5-8 on the day. American Can closed 3-4 cents higher, but the other so-called pivotal shares were practically unchanged.

Oils displayed a firm tone, Pan-American B closing a point higher and several others improving fractionally. Omission of the common dividend on Atlantic Refining was not announced until after the session ended, that stock closing at 85 after having sold as high as 86.

Coppers were benefitted by higher silver prices, Cerro de Pasco being one of the most active.

United States Steel corporation was somewhat smaller than expected as most conservative estimates had looked for a decline of 100,000 tons.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—The cotton market was fairly active for a short session today, and although the opening was lower, prices soon rallied and the general trend of values was upward on the claim that the market was oversold and on the continued absence of rains in the western belt, coupled with increasing numbers of deterioration reports from Texas. After declining 31 points at the start to 26.10, October rallied sharply and soon traded as high as 26.78, or 68 points up from the initial low and 37 points above the previous close. Active months eased off 29 to 32 points at the end of the first hour owing to the official forecast promising thundershowers in the west over Sunday but all months rallied briskly again in the final trading. The close showed net gains for the day of 14 to 28 points, January developing the most strength with the last sale at 26.68.

Cattle Receipts At Fort Worth Prove Meagre

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 9.—Meagre receipts of livestock were disposed of today without peddling and values up with the Friday close. Approximately 200 head of cattle, 50 calves and 100 hogs were on sale.

Cattle receipts ran exclusively to mixed shipments of common quality. No choice hogs were here, the best selling at 10.15. Most sales ranged from 9.75 to 10.00.

Nothing was on offer in the sheep house.

WHEAT SUFFERS SLIGHT SETBACK

Closing Quotations Prove Unsettled On New Figures

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Influenced by prospects of a liberal increase of the United States visible supply total on Monday, wheat today underwent a moderate setback in price. Closing quotations for wheat were unsettled, 1-2 to 7-8 cents lower. September 1.28 1-4 to 1.28 3-8 and December 1.32 1-8 to 1.32 1-4, with corn unchanged to 1-4 cent higher, and oats varying from 1-2 cent off to 1-4 cent advance. In provisions the outcome ranged from 10 cents decline to rise of 2 cents.

Widespread storms that flattened out much corn and damaged the quality of oats gave firmness to prices of corn and oats. Selling enlarged, however, when values bulged.

Provisions were inclined to sag in line with the hog market.

COTTON OPINIONS

W. N. Graham Company Saturday received the following opinions: Hirsch Lilenthal Co.—We continue to favor purchases on declines. Munds Winslow—We think it will require further and undoubted evidence of crop deterioration to revive bull speculation. Weld—We reiterate our expectation of higher prices in the near future and advise purchases around present levels. Orvis Bros.—Because of the power of easy money we expect demand to keep cotton prices from breaking badly and as the market again indicates a sold out condition we believe prices will rebound easily. Therefore we favor purchases.

LEGAL NOTICES

CITATION IN ERROR BY PUBLICATION.

THE STATE OF TEXAS,

To the Sheriff or Constable of Wichita County, Greetings:

You are hereby commanded to summon F. Pappathan and G. D. Costan, by making publication of the citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof in some newspaper published in your county to be and appear before our Court of Civil Appeals of the 2nd Supreme Judicial District of the State of Texas, at the October term, 1924, of said court, to be holden in the city of Ft. Worth, county of Tarrant and state of Texas, within sixty days from the date of service of this citation, then and there to defendant a Writ of Error sued out on the petition in writing of Blair-Hughes company, plaintiff in error, against C. E. Basham, E. S. Goodner, H. A. Gray, Jr., F. Pappathan and G. D. Costan as defendants in error.

Filed with the Clerk of the Dist. Court of Wichita County, Texas, on this the 28th day of July, 1924, for the revision and correction of a certain judgment rendered in the 78th Dist. Court of Wichita County, Texas, on the 18 day of April, 1924, at its March Term, 1924, in a certain cause pending in said court, numbered 12156-B on the docket thereof, wherein Blair-Hughes company was plaintiff and C. E. Basham, E. S. Goodner, H. A. Gray, Jr., F. Pappathan and G. D. Costan were defendants, and which said judgment is described in said petition, as follows, to-wit:

That on the 18th day of April, 1924, a judgment was entered in which it was ordered, adjudged and decreed that the plaintiff in said suit, the Blair-Hughes company, a corporation, should take nothing against defendants, H. A. Gray, Jr., C. E. Basham and E. S. Goodner, but that said defendants and each of them should go hence and recover of and from the plaintiff, Blair-Hughes company, all costs of said suit, and wherein it was further ordered, adjudged and decreed by the court that said plaintiff, Blair-Hughes company, should recover against defendants, F. Pappathan and G. D. Costan, jointly and severally, $500.00, being the amount of a check executed by said defendants to plaintiff on the 14th of September, 1920, with interest at 6 per cent from said date, and also $3,030.25 the principal amount of a promissory note executed by said defendants to plaintiff on the 14th day of September, 1920, due October 1st, 1920, providing for interest from said date at the rate of 10 per cent per annum and providing for 10 per cent upon principal and accrued interest as attorney's fees, making the aggregate amount of said judgment the sum of $5,135.10, on which sum $607.50 shall bear interest thereafter at the rate of 6 per cent per annum and $4,527.60 shall bear interest at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, and wherein it was further ordered, adjudged and decreed that plaintiff, Blair-Hughes company pay all costs incurred by reason of making defendants, C. E. Basham, E. S. Goodner, and H. A. Gray, Jr., parties to the suit, except as to the said plaintiff will recover all of its costs against defendants, G. D. Costan and F. Pappathan.

Your petition further shows that it desires to remove the said judgment to the Court of Civil Appeals in and for the 2nd Supreme Judicial District of Texas, at Ft. Worth for revision and correction and your petitioner tender herewith a writ of error bond for the amount and conditioned as required by law, and prays for the issuance of a citation in error and prays that its petition for writ of error be granted, a transcript prepared and filed in the Court of Civil Appeals, and that such further proceedings may be had as are in law proper and required.

Herein fail not, but of this writ make due return within 60 days from the date of issuance, hereof, with your indorsement thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 29th day of July, A. D., 1924.

(Seal) A. F. KERR, Clerk District Court, Wichita County, Texas.

By EUNICE JACKSON, Deputy.

REAL ESTATE

COMMON SENSE

In selecting your building site you should consider the probable trend of development and the prospect for enhancement in value. It is all important that the site be of sufficient size to afford plenty of playground for the growing children. It is unfair to your next door neighbors and especially to the children these hot days to restrict them to a fifty foot lote.

We have taken all of this into consideration. We have provided modern conveniences; large building sites; wide boulevards, and have restricted the addition so that when you spend your money for a home for your family no one can erect a building that will detract from the appearance of your home or reduce its value. All of this is the foundation for a happy and contented home.

Consider the trend of development. Is it not toward the west? What is taking place in the older sections of the city by reason of the city's growth? Are you protected from the encroachment of the business house? How many filling stations and stores have been erected in the best residential sections of the city? Is there a vacant lot next to you, or across the street or on the next corner? If there is, a store or a filing station may occupy that vacant lot at any time, and you cannot prevent it. Then you will offer your property for sale and will find that the value of your home will be reduced 50 per cent and it becomes a tenant house.

Have you thought about this matter? In this addition this is impossible. The restrictions and reservations are made a part of the consideration in every deed to every lot, and can be enforced.

If you are going to build a home be sure you have the proper restriction and protection, regardless of where you build. A home is not built for a day. IN INDIAN HEIGHTS you are assured protection for all time to come, and this addition will continue to grow in value and beauty without fear of encroachment by business houses.

6,000 ATTEND MOODY RALLY

Taylor Turns Out Great Crowd to Hear Native Son's Address

Special to The Record News.

TAYLOR, Aug. 8.—Dan Moody opened his run-off campaign for attorney general of Texas in the "old home town" here tonight before perhaps the greatest political gathering in the history of Williamson county.

Delegations of Moody supporters from all over central Texas poured in here all today and tonight to hear his opening speech, parties coming from Georgetown, Bartlett, Granger, Thorndale, Rockdale, Austin, Leander, Liberty Hill Bastrop, Cameon and many other central Texas towns.

In opening his speech Moody declared that he had not appeared in Taylor tonight so much for the purpose of making a political speech, but for the purpose of expressing his appreciation to the people of Taylor and Williamson county for their support in his election.

In the first campaign, h edeclared, the two issues against him were that he was "too young, and was a criminal lawyer."

And nearly 300,000 voters of Texas settled these issues in my favor in the first primary," he declared.

He pointed out that he now came to the people of the state asking that he be made attorney general upon his qualifications, which had been endorsed by 2,000 lawyers, and many bar associations.

"My opponent comes to you saying that he will bring dignity to the office, but he also comes without the endorsement of a single bar association in the state," he stated. Moody promised a strict enforcement of the laws of the state—regardless of "dignity."

The ku klux klan issue had been forced into the campaign by his opponent, he declared, in an effort to win the klan vote. In spite of this, he charged, his opponent had made speeches in west Texas "deploring the klan issue."

"Crank" Letters Pour in on Loeb-Leopold Judge

Hundreds of [illegible] pouring in on John H. Caverly (left) who is sitting as judge and jury in the trial in Chicago of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., the Franks slayers. A sidelight on the nation-wide [illegible] is given by the daily presence in the court of Little Calf (center), full-blooded Ponca Indian, who came from Oklahoma to attend. The father of the slain boy, Jacob Franks (right), is in constant attendance at the hearing, showing signs of great strain. But no evidence of strain is betrayed by Loeb and Leopold. They are shown below. Leopold is talking with an attorney while Loeb looks on unconcerned.

Laundry Run by Peer Draws Large Patronage

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug.—Although the occupations of members of the peerage are many and varied nowadays, Lord Cecil Douglas has shocked the others of his class by opening a laundry under his own name. Lord Cecil is a brother of the Marquis of Queensberry, and the interest which his business venture has aroused has already been gratifying to the cashier of the establishment.

The members of the Queensberry family have always been noted for their versatility, Lord Cecil's father emigrated to America where he worked on various newspapers; his uncle Lord Alfred Douglas was editor of "Plain English"; a great uncle entered the priesthood, another uncle was a [illegible] owner, and his grandfather was [illegible] of boxing and author of the "Queensberry Rules."

French Coal Increases

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug.—The coal output of France, cut in two by German devastation, continues to increase and in January went beyond the prewar point. The French mines now turn out about 45,000,000 tons a year, a tenth of which comes from the Lorraine mines.

Stud Sheep Bring High Prices

By The Associated Press.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Aug.—The high prices for wool produced increased prices for stud sheep at the recent sales in Sydney. Two Boonoke rams brought $8,400 and $5,250, respectively, while a well known buyer paid $16,010 for a ram from the famous Manganella stud.

Firm, Plump Flesh!

MANY are the eyes that are turned to gaze with keen admiration on the well developed, healthy girl no matter where she may be—on the rapidly moving thoroughfare or gliding gracefully over the dance floor.

All eyes turn because we all appreciate the girl with the figure so firm and plump—the girl with radiantly red cheeks, cheeks that carry a touch of roses from nature's own garden—the girl with the sparkling eyes, keen and sharp—the girl with buoyancy and the swing of youth.

Not necessarily an out-of-doors girl. Just a girl with ever increasing blood cells. Just a girl filled with the vim and vigor of youth!

S. S. S., since 1826, has stood for increased blood cells. S. S. S. means restored strength—added vitality—added energy. Take S. S. S. and watch the bloom of health return to your cheeks. Watch that feeble, ill nourished flesh fade away before flesh that is firm and plump. Red blood cells will do it and S. S. S. will build them. It contains only pure vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size bottle is more economical.

Tags Attached to Salmon To Determine Their Travels

By The Associated Press.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug.—Movements of salmon of various species from the North Pacific ocean to their spawning grounds in the southeastern Alaska district will be charted this summer for the first time in history, according to Assistant Fisheries Agent E. M. Ball.

Five thousand salmon will be tagged, released and a reward of fifty cents each offered for their return with the information of how, when and where captured.

The reward is a big one for fishermen who are accustomed to obtain only 25 cents for a large salmon at fishing ports. Even a lower scale is offered by canneries.

This season fish will be taken and tagged at Indian Island in Cross Sound; Kingsmill Port, Chatham Strait; Ruins Point, Summer Strait; Cape Chacon, Clarence Strait and Tree Point, Revillagigedeo Island.

Estate to Pay Half in Texas.

By The Associated Press.

BELFAST, August. — The late Lord Pirrie, head of the shipbuilding firm of Harland & Wolff, left an estate of nearly $20,000,000. The death duties on the estate, it is said, will amount to nearly $10,000,000.

New Clothing Store To Open Monday Week

W. H. Street, Albert Phelps, and Jean P. Montgomery, Montgomery managing the concern, will open the Montgomery company, 806 Scott, Monday, Aug. 18.

A complete line of men's wearing apparel from shoes to suits and back again to the most minute details in masculine clothing will be carried, according to Montgomery. Montgomery was with the P. B. M. company for eight or nine years and was head of the men's clothing department.

The new concern will feature Kuppenheimer line of clothing and Nettleton shoes. The shoe department is to be run by O. A. Murphy.

The company, strictly a local proposition, had its show windows and all fixtures installed by and purchased from Wichita Falls concerns.

The company force is to consist of Jean Montgomery, Albert Lowe, O. A. Murphy, and M. B. Murphy.

Lightning Hits Shed of XR 3 In Germany

By The Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAVEN, Aug.—The ZR 3, nearing completion here for its trans-Atlantic flight to Lakehurst, N. J., had its first shock from the elements recently, and came through undaunted. During a thunder storm the huge Zeppelin shed in which the giant dirigible is awaiting installation of her five motors was struck by a bolt of lightning which shook the entire building from end to end and all its contents. There was but little damage done to the building itself, and none whatever to the framework or the gas bag of the ZR 3.

Thunder storms have been particularly frequent and severe this summer in Southern Baden and Switzerland. American army and naval officers, assigned here to watch the progress of the dirigible, say the lightning often has been so spectacular as to remind them somewhat of home.

Wichita Falls, Texas, August 6, 1924.

Advertising Department
The Record News,
Wichita Falls, Texas.
Gentlemen:

I believe in placing credit where credit is due—and my hat is off to the pulling power of the advertising columns of The Record News.

Last Sunday we announced the new recreated Mineral Wells Mineral Water from that famous health resort. We had not planned to care for any distribution until Monday—but the number of phone calls we received Sunday forced us to start distributing one day early. I know you will be glad to know that this one advertisement brought us over one hundred and fifty new customers for that water and also new customers for our Electrified Water.

More power to you!

Cordially yours,

The body will arrive in Wichita Falls Sunday afternoon on the southbound Fort Worth and Denver.

Mr. Smith was injured about the head and never regained consciousness. John O'Neil, son-in-law of the dead man, and well known oil operator of Wichita Falls was with Mr. Smith at the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. H. I. Smith, two daughters, Mrs. John O'Neil and Mrs. Enoree Wilfe, of this city; two brothers, Horbert W. Smith, of Waco, and John J. Smith, of Alabama; two sisters, Mrs. W. T. Davis, Topeka, Kansas and Mrs. Sophie Phillips, of Mangum, Oklahoma.

Passion Players' U. S. Trip Divides Oberammergau

By the Associated Press.

OBERAMMERGAU, Bavaria, Aug.—Oberammergau is not the peaceful village that it was before Anton Lang and his wood carving companions went to America early this year. Local opponents of the trip to the United States have gained reinforcements since the return of the Lang party some weeks ago and the town has divided into bitter Lang and anti-Lang groups.

The anti-Lang forces assert that the American visit of the Oberammergau players was an attempt to commercialize the Passion Play. that the trip was a financial failure and they have threatened to sabotage the next production of the performance scheduled for 1932.

Anton Lang himself has held aloof from his critics thus far and refuses to answer them, contending that the charges are unfounded. and avers that the Passion Play will not suffer from criticism or jealousies of individuals.

Electra Girl Is Honored At Sixth Birthday Party

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Aug. 9.—In honor of her younger daughter, Little Miss Rule, Mrs. Hardy Totten entertained a number of children Thursday afternoon, celebrating her sixth birthday.

Upon arriving, the children were each given a paper cap, to be worn during the party. One of the most entertaining features of the party was the gypsy fortune telling, and which was highly enjoyed by the children. After several interesting games, the guests were served soda water, and then taken in autos for a ride around the city. Upon returning, they were served ice cream cones, and each given a whistle and balloon. A fish pond was another feature, where each child received a prize.

Mrs. Totten was assisted by Mesdames Vernon Moore, J. B. Totten and Miss Dorothy Moseley of Oklahoma City.

Those present were: Frances, Mildred and Bettie Joe McDonald, Dorothy Moore, Betty Joe Miller, Dorothy Wise, Armilda Magee, Patsy Chaffee, Mina Cobb, Lillie Mae Williamson, Jean McDavid, James Totten, Frances Courtney, Geraldine McDavid, Norma McMullin, Robert Coffey, C. W. Coffey, Jr., Jackie Cox, Jr., Richard and Ivan Taney.

Little Miss Rule was the recipient of many handsome gifts from her friends.

For Miss Collins

Miss Archie LeBue entertained at her home on West Harrison Wednesday morning at 9:30, honoring Miss Margaret Collins of Fort Worth and Miss Maurine Attle of Iowa Park.

Miss Dixie Tuttle received high score rize and the cut prizes were received by Misses Irene Veines, Juanita Douglas, Lois McNeely Louise Gorton and Katherine Barr.

The hostess served a delightful luncheon to Misses Lorena Douglas, Earline McDonald, Dixie Tuttle, Louise Gaston, Juanita Douglas, Louise and Tot Gosset of Taylor, Texas, Mildred and Irene Veines, Katherine Sheldon, Celeste Lauve, Llerna Friend, Katherine Barr, Wilma Kilpatrick, Ruth Algood, Lois McNeely, Carlotta Miller, Minnie Nell YellDell and the honorees.

Free State Seeks to Build Foreign Trade

DUBLIN, Aug.—The debate on the estimates recently in the Dial showed that the total cost of the Free State Ministry of External Affairs is $231,245. Of this amount $143,945 is spent on foreign representatives. The main purpose of the latter is the improvement of Free State foreign trade, which, it is claimed, has increased to $806,345.

The representative at Washington is approved as a special case and Minister Desmond Fitzgerald said it was expected that the Washington office would pay for itself. The cost of passports from the United States is to be $10.

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, SUNDAY, AUGUST 10, 1924

Mrs. Staley Compliments Visitors With Bridge Luncheon at Country Club

Guest of Mrs. Wynne Given Swim

Dainty blue bells lent their beauty and fragrance furnishing decorations for one of the most delightful affairs of the mid-summer season at the Country club Friday, when Mrs. J. I. Staley complimented the house guests of Mrs. Chester Wynne, Mrs. G. M. Wynne and Mrs. Lloyd B. Jones of Dallas, with a bridge luncheon.

In the games, Mrs. Jones won the high score favor, a madiera towel; Mrs. Mack Taylor was consoled for low with a pair of hand-painted shoe trees. The honorees were remembered with pretty iridescent vases.

A four course menu was served to Mesdames G. M. Wynne, Chester Wynne, Lloyd Jones, D. L. Fritz, Pat Jerrett, M. Mitchum, Mack Taylor, Hugh Weaver, S. A. Cochran, B. M. Hester, Frank Cauble, John Fowler, M. M. Walker, W. L. Hawins and Misses Emma Carter and Rosa Thornhill of Dallas.

Mrs. Hawkins Hostess

Complimenting Mrs. G. M. Wynne, Mrs. Lloyd B. Jones and her house guest, Miss Rosa Barnhill of Dallas, Mrs. W. L. Hawkins entertained informally with a swimming party and breakfast at the Country club Thursday morning.

Besides the honorees, covers were laid for Mesdames Chester Wynne, J. I. Staley, B. M. Hester and Misses Eileen Willis and Emma Carter.

BRIDGE CLUB ENJOYS DELIGHTFUL LUNCHEON.

Members of the Jolly Matrons Bridge club and four guests were delightfully entertained at 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. C. S. Burnett, 1723 Collins street, Thursday.

In the afternoon the usual games were played in which Mrs. H. W. Jagers won the high score favor, a dainty set of ice tea glasses. Mrs. L. McLimpus made low and was consoled with a hand embroidered powder puff. Mrs. Goldie Williams was awarded the guest prize, an embroidered bath towel and wash cloth.

Covers were laid for Mesdames H. W. Jagers, N. A. Hagin, Tom B. Stephens, J. W. Pantsky, H. O. Cummings, L. M. Limpus, Leila Herndon and George Loughridge members, and Gildie Williams, J. R. Aldridge and M. H. Durand of Phoenix, Arizona, and Miss Lillian Hobbe of Indianapolis, Indiana.

The Agoga class of the First Baptist church entertained the members of the young people's department at a watermelon feast at the home of their teacher Mr. E. E. Fuller, 1801 Pearl street, on Friday evening.

A feature of the entertainment was the class orchestra, newly organized, making its first appearance. The instruments were kazoos, cleverly made into various forms. The performers were Misses Cleo Bowers, flute; Juel Ray, cornet; Messrs. Cecil Brooks, bass viol; Lester McNeill, slide trombone; W. S. Starnes, clarinet; Pat Patterson, guitar; Winslow Beckham, kazoo; Elizabeth Cole, pianist; Tom Barnes, director.

Several numbers were given, including a slide trombone solo by the director, Tom Barnes, and a bass viol solo by Cecil Brooks. Mr. Barnes' direction shows him to be a master of his art, and was highly appreciated by everyone present.

A contest for the best name for the orchestra was held, resulting in the adoption of "Fuller's Fighting Flutters," suggested by Miss Burch Murphy.

Misses Juel and Adelle Ray sang "The Rosary" and "Perfect Day," accompanied by Miss Cole.

Twenty-five delicious watermelons were served. There were 90 present.

Today's Poem

A SORRY TALE.

He was a knight in armor.
She was a beggar chit;
He loved her to distraction—
She didn't care a bit.

He passed her little hovel,
She didn't raise her head,
Though he shone in shining armor
And she had to beg her bread.

Now maids who live in hovels
Seldom refuse their charms
To glorious knights in armor—
They usually leap to their arms

Then why was she so distant,
If such maids seldom are?
Well—he was a movie extra,
And she was a movie star.

Counsellors Week End.

The counsellors and their assistants and the members of the Guardian's association left Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on their annual week end trip free from responsibility and able to devote themselves unreservedly to having a real camping good time. They will return Monday morning after an early breakfast.

The camping spot is between Wichita and Burkburnett, on land owned by Fisher and Gilliland, on Little Wichita River. A model camp is set up there, by these old timers, with improvised pantry, ice box, garbage incinerator, and all. There is real camp cooking with biscuits from a reflector oven and beans from a bean hole and real flap-jacks.

The menu for the five meals—camp eats de luxe—is as follows:

Saturday supper: Cheese Omelette, jacket boiled potatoes, head lettuce and 1000-Islands dressing, canteloupe.

Sunday Breakfast: Bacon and eggs, cocoa, toast and preserves.

Dinner: Veal steak, gravy, mashed potatoes, tomatoes and lettuce, watermelon.

Supper: Sweet beans, hot biscuit, green corn, fudge, lemonade.

Monday Breakfast: Flab jacks, bacon and cocoa.

The following counsellors, assistants and guardians are attending the camp: Misses Hallie Moody and Mary McGinnis of Burkburnett, Mrs. Gordon Clark of Iowa Park and Misses Adeline Pinney, Clarice and Eleanor Pitman, Theressa Kauffman, Lona Brown Mable Gwinn, Nell Warman, Edna Skaggs, Zona and Juanita Bachman, Dorothy Rollins, Margaret Akin, Tresia Montgomery, Glenor Fisk, executive, Mesdames Anna Barnhill, M. P. Ratican, C. L. Ferguson, and Messrs. and Mesdames J. S. Pitman, J. R. Buchman and E. C. Huckabee.

Chorus Party.

The Camp Fire Community chorus held a delightful lawn party at their regular meeting Thursday to welcome Mrs. Pitman back from her California trip.

Sing song of camp songs and games led by Miss Marguerite Kaye furnished entertainment and Mrs. Pitman spoke briefly of the young peoples choral work she had observed in the various coast cities, particularly at the tabernacle at Los Angeles.

Mrs. Barnhill's punch and wafers were served by the refreshment committee.

Miss Edna Skaggs was elected treasurer of the chorus, in the short business season at the close of the meeting.

Anowa Swimming Party.

Miss Adeline Pinney's group swam at Muny club pool and breakfasted in the woods at Haven park Wednesday morning. The menu was canteloupe, bacon and buns, cinnamon rolls and chocolate.

The members who attended were Fannie Blank, Ruth Aldrich, Edna Castledine, Dollores Graves, and Adeline Pinney, guardian.

Dr. Wratten's Party Due.

Dr. V. E. Wratten, member of the council and executive board, is expected today or Monday, returning with his family and guest, Miss Josephine Fisk. Since his daughter, Daisy Marye, is also a member of Idaka, and Miss Josephine is president of the Guardian's association and a guardian, the arrival will be one of importance to Camp Fire.

They have been on an extended tour of the northwest and Canada for the past six weeks.

Last call for camp pictures. There will be no opportunity to order after Monday. Every girl who went to camp should own the Vespers picture, and the views of the swimming pool and the camp are very good. Make your reservations by telephone, if you wish.

Miss Rosa Thornhill of Dallas is the guest of Mrs. W. L. Hawkins.

So many Wichitans are in Colorado this summer that it is like walking down Indiana avenue, friends there write stay-at-homes. And those who are not there have either gone to the coast or to Canada and Yellowstone Park.

Long automobile rides, swimming parties at the various parks entertain those who are spending the heated term here, while some are taking swimming lessons thereby passing the warm months profitably as well as enjoyably.

August is well under way, bringing in its train the midsummer amusements, out of doors with nature.

August was the sixth month of the Roman year, which began with March. It was originally styled Sextilis and received its present name from the Emperor Augustus on account of several of the most fortunate events of his life having occurred during this month. On this month he was first admitted to the consulate and thrice entered the city in triumph. On the same month the legions from the Janiculum placed themselves under his auspices.

Egypt was brought under authority of the Roman people, and and end put to the civil wars. As the fifth month or Quintilis, has previously been styled Julius in honor of Julius Caesar, a day was taken from February to make August equal with July.

The adjective "augustan" means pertaining to Augustus or his age; literary or refined.

The sardonyx is the gem for August and its flower is the poppy.

Frederick Boy Scouts Leave For Encampment

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 9.—Whooping like the wild Indians they hope to emulate on their three days' camping trip to the Wichita mountains Boy Scout troop Nos. 1 and 2 left Frederick this morning for headquarters of the forest reserve in the large hills.

The boys were taken to the campsite in automobiles and their parents intend to visit them and bring them back Sunday. J. T. Martin and P. V. Ruch, scoutmasters, accompanied them.

Scouts making the trip are: Franklin Manna, Monroe Ruch, Powell Robinson, Bob Cole, Jr., Sims Wilson, Francis Garten, Theron Norris, Robert Holloman, John Wilson, Harry Ellis, O. G. Bacon, Jr., Buck Weathers, Paul Addison, J. B. Wilson, Jr., Frederick Krause, Monte Worthington, Cecil Black, Clark Simpson, J. D. Jones, Jr., William Flood, J. M. Smith, Jr., Wilson Spangler, E. O. Billingsley, Jr., John Mathis, John Dobson, Harrison Roe, Polk Fry, Jr., and Powell Fry.

Color Will Predominate In Fall Dresses

The ball has again revolved, and the season is fast approaching when Miss Wichita Falls will begin to think once more about what to wear. In fact she has already begun to wonder just what Dame Fashion has decreed for her early fall frock.

Rich colors which have played such an important part in "in sheer gowns of the summer will be popular in early fall, according to local buyers of women's ready-to-wear toggery, who are returning from the eastern markets

Venetian fuchsia, shutter green and burnt russet are three new fall colors which have pledged their troth to fashion, the buyers say.

Venetian fuchsia is a rich violet-red simulating the beauty and spirit of art expression during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries and made famous by the great masters of the Italian renaissance. It is especially adapted to evening gowns and wraps in satins, chiffons, velvets and metallic weaves, and will be used in combinations with luxurious fur trimming. As a military shade it promises to be in vogue not only in soft tones, but blended artfully with deeper shades of the color which shade to purple.

Burnt russet is the glistening brown of autumnal foliage—when rich with the golden luster of sun-dipped orange fused with burnt tawny tan. This is an especially smart afternoon color and will be employed not only in silken fabrics but in woolen Shutter green is sometimes called the colonial shade—a green with soft-grayed tonalities, restful and inviting it is the season's innovation for suitings and coats and will find unusual expression in the ensemble costume which is the last word in fashion. It is a green that all women can wear as it has none of the harsh tendencies which many shades of the green possess. It will be used in smart contrast with black and with the soft brown and gray furs.

Falls Guardians' association was held at Headquarters Tuesday evening, the principal business being the planning of the counsellors' hike for Saturday.

Miss Mary McGinnis and Hallie Moody of Burkburnett invited the Wichita Falls girls to a picnic at the Magnolia pumping station out of Burkburnett Thursday evening.

The committee of award, a group of people who will standardise the winning of honors and rank by tests at regular sessions, will be organized in the fall to start the winter's work according to the new plans laid down at national convention in April. The personnel of this group was discussed, and its duties and methods defined.

A few lost articles, certain grips and bed rolls, still continue missing from camp. There are various bathing suits, hats, middles, etc., at headquarters, waiting for owners.

Attendance: Misses Nell Warman, Zona and Juanita Backman, Mary McGinnis and Hallie Moody, Eleanor and Clarice Pitman, Therresa Kauffman, Edna Skaggs, Mable Gwinn, Margaret Akin, Mesdames Anna Barnhill, J. R. Backman, C. L. Ferguson, E. C. Huckabee and Mr. Huckabee.

Burk Picnic.

The Burk bunch entertained the five cars of Wichita Falls Camp Fire girls right royally Thursday evening. After a picnic lunch, varied and plentiful, a sing song was held, then everybody ate ice cold watermelon and went home happy. More than 60 people were there.

It is being planned to send a large number of boys and girls to the short course next year.

Wine in Museum 1,700 Years Old

By the Associated Press.

SPEYER, Bavarian Palatinate, Aug.—This little town on the Rhine is the proud possessor of what experts maintain is the oldest wine in the world. The wine, according to Hans Runge, a specialist in antiques, was unearthed near here among Roman ruins some 1,700 years ago and has been kept in a museum here ever since.

The department of the Speyer museum devoted to old wines also has tools for trimming grape vines, wine glasses, wine presses and other articles used for wine making by the Romans early in the third century, all being in a splendid stateo f preservation.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

Austria Lacks Cities

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Aug.—Austria is singularly destitute of large cities. Outside of Vienna, which has a poulation of nearly 2,000,000, there are only two cities in the 100,000 class—Garz with 150,000 and Linz with 101,000. There are only three others above the 20,000 mark, Innsbruck with 56,000, Salzburg 39,000 and Klagenfurt 27,000.

Grave Digger Idle; Quits

ALKEN, Germany, Aug.—The official grave digger of this town has resigned because the people will not die. Thirteen months elapsed without a death and he wrote to the city council declining to accept salary where there was no work to be done.

Wrinkles Disappear In Fifteen Minutes!

If you want to see wrinkles, age lines and sagginess completely disappear from your face in less than 15 minutes just mix a spoonful of powdered tarkroot with a spoonful of lemon juice. Apply this toothing mixture to your face. Before your very eyes, while you watch in the mirror, the ugly marks of age will disappear like magic. It is most startling. Behold, now, what you looked like when young! Watch the "sagginess" correct itself! Enjoy the strange, delicious sensation of stimulation, support and plump, smooth firmness!

When you wash off the application, your face looks years younger. The effect is far better than that of a face massage. Tarkroot is so harmless you could eat it. From your druggist you can obtain a package containing enough to bring the cost of each treatment down below three cents.—Adv.

Graham Paving Project Resumed After Long Delay

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 9.—After a delay of several months the work of paving North Elm street, is again resumed. The delay has been caused on account of not being able to get brick. Excavation began this week across the Rock Island tracks and the street will be paved to the square. The gravel and crushed rock from this street is being placed on the parking spaces on the square. The work of completing the square has been delayed in order to use the rock and gravel from Elm street. The Plains Paving Company of Wichita Falls is doing the paving. This company also paved the square last spring.

HIGH TEMPERATURE PUTS FREDERICK VISITOR TO SLEEP

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 4—Sleeping sickness developed in Frederick Friday.

It's not the African kind and the victim will recover.

Mrs. Berta Reed of Ely, Nevada, arrived here Friday to visit Mrs. W. M. Johnson. Ely is 8,000 feet above the sea level and they sleep under blankets all summer, and all that kind of thing.

She says that as soon as she hit the plains she began to get sleepy and that it goa worse the further along the route she came. On arriving here she greeted her hostess with a prodigious yawn and was soon trundled off to bed.

She's lucky at that for no one here is getting much sleep in day time with the temperature around 104.

DAVIS DEMANDS VOTE RECOUNT

Frederick Candidate For County Attorney Loses By Only 23

Special to the Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 9.—Herman S. Davis, following official canvass of votes in the Democratic primary held Tuesday, Friday asked for a recount of the votes in the county attorney's race, alleging that mistakes were made on the tabulated reports returned to the county board.

23 Votes Behind.

Davis, according to the official count, is only 23 votes behind J. R. Huggins, who ran for second term. Davis says in his petition that the only way to obtain an accurate count is to count the ballots in each box, forgetting the tally sheets for the while.

This was by far the closest race in the recent primary in this county and was almost a complete surprise, as Davis made one of these close to the people campaigns and wasted little time in oratory and spell-binding. He apparently slipped up on Huggins' blind side for the county attorney made little of a canvass of the voters.

Action on Davis' petition was deferred by the election board. It is not though likely that they will recount.

McClintic Wins.

Congressman J. V. McClintic, Snyder, ran far ahead of the ticket in Tillman county. He polled 3,389 votes to his opponents 618. Ashby was second with 400 and Tosh trailed with 218.

As an opponent in the general election McClintic will have Mrs. Kate Roe of Frederick. Mrs. Roe received the republican nomination at the primary of that party Tuesday. W. H. Roe, her husband is a candidate on the republican ticket for justice of the supreme court from the 9th district. Mrs. Roe obtained 235 of the county's 296 republican votes in the primary.

SHOE DEALER SUES CITY OF FREDERICK

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug 9.—Damages in the amount of $51,275 are asked in local courts from the city of Frederick by L. H. Hamby, formerly a shoe salesman of this town, who alleged false imprisonment. Hamby was wont to display samples of shoes on the streets and take orders for the goods. Merchants of the town objected to the thriving business he was doing and sought to have the anti-peddling ordinance enforced against him. Apparently helpless, he was jailed for alleged violation of this ordinance. He protested at the time and laid quite a few days in jail before paying a police court fine. He is now at Nara Visa, New Mexico.

$100 Offered For First Cotton Bale Reaching Graham

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 9.—The Graham chamber of commerce has offered a premium of $100 for the first bale of cotton sold in Graham this season. The business men and merchants will see that Graham has the very best market for cotton this fall. The dry weather has matured cotton rapidly and indications are that it will be coming in soon. The farmers are growing a better grade than ever before.

The court clerk and county clerk won overwhelming victories, one for a third term and the treasurer of the county is likewise a woman as is the recently elected county superintendent.

IF SICK TODAY! TAKE NO CALOMEL

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, sickening calomel and I want every reader of this paper to buy a bottle for a few cents and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel. Just go back to the store and get your money back.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, biliousness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It sickens—while my Dodson's Liver Tone is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it can not salivate. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work.—Adv.

IN THE GLOW

Falls Guardians' association was held at Headquarters Tuesday evening, the principal business being the planning of the counsellors' hike for Saturday.

Miss Mary McGinnis and Hallie Moody of Burkburnett invited the Wichita Falls girls to a picnic at the Magnolia pumping station out of Burkburnett Thursday evening.

The committee of award, a group of people who will standardize the winning of honors and rank by tests at regular sessions, will be organized in the fall to start the winter's work according to the new plans laid down at national convention in April. The personnel of this group was discussed, and its duties and methods defined.

A few lost articles, curtain grips and bed rolls, still continue missing from camp. There are various bathing suits, hats, middies, etc., at headquarters, waiting for owners.

Attendance: Misses Nell Warman, Zona and Juanita Buchman, Mary McGinnis and Hallie Moody, Eleanor and Clarice Pitman, Therressa Kauffman, Edna Skaggs, Mable Gwinn, Margaret Akin, Mesdames Anna Barnhill, J. R. Buchman, C. L. Ferguson, E. C. Huckabee and Mr. Huckabee.

Burk Picnic.

The Burk bunch entertained the five cars of Wichita Falls Camp Fire girls right royally Thursday evening. After a picnic lunch, varied and plentiful, a sing song was held, then everybody ate ice cold watermelon and went home happy. More than 60 people were there.

Wine in Museum 1,700 Years Old

By the Associated Press.

SPEYER Bavarian Palatinate, Aug.—This little town on the Rhine is the proud possessor of what experts maintain is the oldest wine in the world. The wine, according to Hans Runge, a specialist in antiques, was unearthed near here among Roman ruins some 1,700 years ago and has been kept in a museum here ever since.

The department of the Speyer museum devoted to old wines also has tools for trimming grape vines, wine glasses, wine presses and other articles used for wine making by the Romans early in the third century, all being in a splendid stateo f preservation.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

Austria Lacks Cities

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Aug.—Austria is singularly destitute of large cities. Outside of Vienna, which has a population of nearly 2,000,000, there are only two cities in the 100,000 class—Gatz with 150,000 and Linz with 101,000. There are only three others above the 20,000 mark, Innsbruck with 56,000, Salzburg 39,000 and Klagenfurt 27,000.

Wrinkles Disappear In Fifteen Minutes!

If you want to see wrinkles, age lines and sagginess completely disappear from your face in less than 15 minutes just mix a spoonful of powdered tarkroot with a spoonful of lemon juice. Apply this soothing mixture to your face. Before your very eyes, while you watch in the mirror, the ugly marks of age will disappear like magic. It is most startling. Behold, now, what you looked like when young! Watch the "sagginess" correct itself! Enjoy the strange, delicious sensation of stimulation support and plump, smooth firmness!

When you wash off the application, your face looks years younger. The effect is far better than that of a face massage. Tarkroot is so harmless you could eat it. From your druggist you can obtain a package containing enough to bring the cost of each treatment down below three cents.—Adv.

HIGH TEMPERATURE PUTS FREDERICK VISITOR TO SLEEP

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 4—Sleeping sickness developed in Frederick Friday.

It's not the African kind and the victim will recover.

Mrs. Berta Reed of Ely, Nevada, arrived here Friday to visit Mrs. W. M. Johnson. Ely is 8,000 feet above the sea level and they sleep under blankets all summer, and all that kind of thing.

She says that as soon as she hit the plains she began to get sleepy and that it goa worse the further along the route she came. On arriving here she greeted her hostess with a prodigious yawn and was soon trundled off to bed.

She's lucky at that for no one here is getting much sleep in day time with the temperature around 104.

DAVIS DEMANDS VOTE RECOUNT

Frederick Candidate For County Attorney Loses By Only 23

Special to the Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 9.—Herman S. Davis, following official canvass of votes in the Democratic primary held Tuesday, Friday asked for a recount of the votes in the county attorney's race, alleging that mistakes were made on the tabulated reports returned to the county board.

23 Votes Behind.

Davis, according to the official count, is only 23 votes behind J. R. Huggins, who ran for second term. Davis says in his petition that the only way to obtain an accurate count is to count the ballots in each box, forgetting the tally sheets for the while.

This was by far the closest race in the recent primary in this county and was almost a complete surprise, as Davis made one of these close to the people campaigns and wasted little time in oratory and spell-binding. He apparently slipped up on Huggins' blind side for the county attorney made little of a canvass of the voters.

Action on Davis' petition was deferred by the election board. It is not though likely that they will recount.

McClintic Wins.

Congressman J. V. McClintic, Snyder, ran far ahead of the ticket in Tillman county. He polled 3,389 votes to his opponents 618. Ashby was second with 400 and Tosh trailed with 218.

As an opponent in the general election McClintic will have Mrs. Kate Roe of Frederick. Mrs. Roe received the republican nomination at the primary of that party Tuesday. W. H. Roe, her husband is a candidate on the republican ticket for justice of the supreme court from the 9th district. Mrs. Roe obtained 235 of the county's 296 republican votes in the primary.

SHOE DEALER SUES CITY OF FREDERICK

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug 9.—Damages in the amount of $51,275 are asked in local courts from the city of Frederick by L. H. Hamby, formerly a shoe salesman of this town, who alleged false imprisonment. Hamby was wont to display samples of shoes on the streets and take orders for the goods. Merchants of the town objected to the thriving business he was doing and sought to have the anti-peddling ordinance enforced against him. Apparently helpless, he was jailed for alleged violation of this ordinance. He protested at the time and laid quite a few days in jail before paying a police court fine. He is now at Nara Visa, New Mexico.

$100 Offered For First Cotton Bale Reaching Graham

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Straightens You Up Better Than Salivating, Dangerous Calomel and Doesn't Upset You—Don't Lose a Day's Work—Read Guarantee

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, sickening calomel and I want every reader of this paper to buy a bottle for a few cents and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel. Just go back to the store and get your money back.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, biliousness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It sickens—while my Dodson's Liver Tone is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it can not salivate. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work.—Adv.

PROFIT SEEN FOR FARMERS

Cotton Price to Be Around 50 Cents, Is Estimate Of Commissioner

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, Au. 9.—The price of cotton this fall will stand at or near 30 cents, and cotton farmers should make a profit on their crop, it was predicted by State Commissioner of Agriculture George B. Terrell in a crop report issued Thursday, summarizing a survey 211 counties representing all cotton-producing areas.

The condition of the Texas cotton crop now stands at 65 per cent, Commissioner Terrell reported, a loss of 7 per cent below the July 1 report. This survey is based on county reports of August 1.

Crop Is Short.

A short crop this year in Texas, slightly smaller than in 1923, is predicted by the state agricultural commissioner. He estimates it at 3,875,000 bales with an upper limit of 4,000,000 bales if conditions of the next two weeks are favorable.

The corn crop has fallen from an estimated 67 per cent on July 1 to 60 per cent on August 1, indicating a sharply reduced crop, it was announced.

The drouth has virtually ruined all late corn, Commissioner Terrell announced. The best corn was produced in Southwest Texas, where it matured before the drouth set in.

The state estimate on cotton, of 9 per cent increase in acreage, harmonizes with that of the federal crop bureau. It is nearly four per cent below the federal bureau condition report, with 65 per cent as compared to the federal estimate of nearly 69 per cent.

The corn crop is but 88 per cent of last year's acreage, and stands to produce only 60 per cent of a normal crop, according to Commissioner Terrell. Condition of other crops, estimated by him is: kaffir, 74 per cent; milo-maize, 78 per cent; peanuts, 71 per cent; sweet potatoes, 58 per cent; watermelons, 65 per cent.

The damage to the 1924 cotton crop of 35 per cent of normal yields is due to drouth, boll weevil, grasshoppers, cotton flies and other pests. Twenty per cent of the damage resulted from drouth, 7 per cent to weevils and 8 per cent to other causes, Mr. Terrell estimated.

Time Saving Conveniences

What can be said of natural gas in this respect? Did you ever figure on the time it saves—three or four hours a day?

In the old days the fire was started, and time elapsed before it was ready for use. Then the fire to boil a pot of coffee was sufficient to cook an entire meal—and to heat up the whole house. Now a match to your natural gas and the fire is ready for cooking. A simple turn of the valve regulates the heat. No dirt, no ashes, no smoke, no watching.

Does it not save you hours as well as money? Hasn't natural gas contributed to your happiness as well as saved you money?

Necessity Makes Thief Of Hungarian Nobleman

BUDAPEST, Aug.—Baron Ernst Banffy, member of one of the oldest noble families of Hungary, has turned thief. Driven by economic worries, he embarked upon a career or stealing little odds and ends of things from members of his social set, who at first never suspected the brilliant society lion of being the culprit. As he had entree to the homes of the richest and most exclusive families of the Hungarian aristocracy, it was an easy thing for him to pick up objects of value and have them disappear in his coat pocket. He was especially fond of thieving objects made of gold or silver.

On one occasion he stole a valuable watch. The owner caught him in the act and reported him to the police. Banffy fled from Siebenburgen, where the theft had occurred, but was caught in Budapest. He confessed to having committed ten thefts.

Lemon Juice Whitens Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

Contrast Life Fifty Years Ago and Now

Fifty years ago the tallow dip furnished most of the illumination, with kerosene lamps representing the latest and best illuminating methods. Some of the cities had a manufactured gas, but it was not popular. Just about that time electric lights made their appearance.

Telephones were hardly known. We sent messages by mail or called in person. Railroads were poorly equipped and slow, and the old stage coach was still depended upon.

Life Is Easier

Now a turn of a button floods our home with electric light; streets are well lighted at night; nearly every home has a phone; trolley lines carry us quickly over our cities, and we burn natural gas, a fuel that requires only the turning of a valve and lighting a match.

Surely life is easier; our time is more fruitful of accomplishments; our homes are more comfortable.

Public utilities have done most of these things for our comfort. Without them, the few only could possess conveniences. Their development has been because of the service they have rendered, not the least of which has been the provision of natural gas, the best, most convenient and cheapest of all domestic fuels.

Farmers Buying Power Increases $960,000,000 By Rise in Prices

ROGER BABSON ANALYZES GAIN

Real Prosperity Due As Result of Corn, Wheat and Cotton Boost.

(Written Especially for The Record News.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., Aug. 9.—Recent rises in the prices of farm products have been discussed much as to their economic and political effect. Many have wondered just how much of this increase would actually get to the farmers who produce these crops. Roger W. Babson's first estimate of increase in the farmers' purchasing powers made public today is, therefore, of unusual interest.

Estimates Difficult.

"It is difficult to get exact figures on what the farmer receives for his crop," says the statistician, "because of differences in locality, freight rates, and time of actual marketing. A reliable estimate can, however, be made by applying the recent increases to the actual prices being paid to farmers this last spring. Corn for instance was netting the farmer around 74c a bushel in January of this year. Cotton brought the grower about 28c per pound in March. While wheat was selling from 95c to 96c in the middle of April. These dates represent approximate lows since the beginning of 1924.

"Corn has since seen a rise of 48 per cent, cotton an increase of 27 per cent and wheat has advanced approximately 30 per cent. The latest crop estimates by the government forecast a corn crop of 2,515,000,000 bushels; a cotton crop of 11,934,000 bales and a wheat production of 730,000,000 bushels. Corn growers are now receiving over $1.00 instead of the 74c a bushel prevailing earlier in the year and on this expected production their purchasing power is thereby increased over $650,000,000. Much corn is of course fed to hogs and not marketed directly. Hog prices have also risen about 40 per cent so that the advantage holds either way. Cotton planters are getting around 30c instead of 27.7c per pound and thereby profit to the extent of more than $135,000,000. The wheat farmer who has certainly had his troubles these last few years is receiving $1.20 istead of 96c and on the basis of governmentestimte his political purchasing bower is increased by $175,000,000. On these three crops alone the recent strengthening in prices has added $960,000,000 to the purchasing power of the farmers.

Production Discussed.

"If we compare these crop estimates with the actual crop harvested last year we find a decrease of 17 per cent in the probable production of corn despite larger acreage. The price rise offsets this shrinkage, however, and leaves the corn farmer with an income at least equal to a year ago. Present forecasts on the cotton crop meantime indicate a yield of 18 per cent ahead of last year. The south will not only receive a high price per pound, if present prices continue, but will have almost one-fifth again as much cotton to sell. Wheat estimates at present indicate a shrinkage of 5 per cent in production as compared with 1923 but the present rate of price increase should rapidly offset this discrepancy. The total income of the wheat farmer should be between 25 and 50 per cent greater than last year. Continued drought and the possibilities of early frost may cut into these expected yields but such iosses in volume should be compensated for by increased prices.

Political Effects.

"The political significance of this increase in prosperity has already been commented upon. If the trend holds until election then the third party should fare poorly. Unrest and radicalism have a way of evaporating in the sunshine of increased prosperity.

"The agricultural sections themselves are already benefiting materially. Frozen credits carried by country banks are being liquidated and farm buying is increasing both with local merchants and with mail order houses. Great permanent benefit will result if the farmer continues to follow his present policy which serves to tend toward paying his debts, buying much needed equipment, and improving his working equipment instead of the reckless spending and land speculation that characterized his last season of prosperity.

"This welcome readjustment in farm prices has been long overdue," concluded Mr. Babson, "and it is hoped that the general level of agricultural prices and industrial commodity prices may come into even closer relationship. It is only on the basis of equitable purchasing power for all sections and classes that any real or lasting prosperity can be built.

"General business as reflected on the Babson chart has not yet felt the advantage of this more even adjustment. Activity is now 12 per cent below normal, the same as a week ago."

Racing Talent Lifts Tony From Milk Route to Track

REGINA, Sask., Aug.—A year ago plugging to supply locomotion to a Regina Beach milk wagon; today one of Saskatchewan's unbeaten race horses. That, in brief, is the astounding record of Tony Silvester, the seven-year-old speeder from the Vassar and Taylor stables here, who has already hung up a brilliant record on western tracks.

Last summer the homely Tony spent dragging the morning milk to families that had moved to the beach to escape the oppressive heat. Though he came of a racing sire, Sylvester J., neithr his appearance nor his gait had given any indication that he might be a money winner on the track.

This spring, however, the horse was given his chance and trained for six weeks. The first hopeful sign was when he waxed temperamental, a sure indication of a star, either on the track, stage or baseball diamond. His debut did not star very auspiciously, for he trailed badly behind in the first two heats of the event in which he was entered. His racing blood, however, began to tell and Tony romped home in the lead for the three final heats. He duplicated his success in his next performance and since then has continued his winning ways.

It is said that Tony is taking on all the airs of a real champion, and actually tilts his equine nose whenever a milk wagon presumes to cross his path.

How to Write A Movie Play

By JAME J. MONTAGUE

It is inadvisable for the beginner in scenario writing to attempt to dramatize an historical novel. Such an undertaking means a lot of work. Besides the love interest has to be subordinated to history, and sometimes it takes a week or two to become familiar with history. If you are not familiar with history you make mistakes and that lays you open to the critics. I know a man who was given a frightful razzing by the critics because he put a fight beween Christopher Columbus and Captain John Smith into a movie play. It was a good fight but the critics were fussy about facts and called my friend an ignoramus just because he hadn't taken the trouble to find out that Christopher Columbus and Captain John Smith never had been formally introduced to each other and so on account of the code duello they couldn't have had an encounter such as he inserted in his movie.

The best thing for a beginner to do is first to go to the movies and observe the essentials, and then take a course in subtitle writing. The subtitles are very important. In most movies they have to tell the whole story for the audience can not possibly tell by the action who is the hero and who is the villain or what they are trying to do.

The love interest is of course vital. But you don't need to find a story that is what is called "instinct with love interest." Better to put it in yourself and then you know it will be the right kind.

Take for instance the poem about Jack and Jill. There you start with two characters who are already well known which gives you plenty of advance publicity.

Moreover there is action in the poem—plenty of it—and you can deduce the love interest from the fact that Jack is a boy and Jill is a girl. Any psychiatrist will tell you that when a boy and a girl are involved in the same story there is bound to be a love interest.

It will be just as well to take your anudience into your confidence at the start, and flash as your first subtitle the entire poem which is as follows:

Jack and Jill went up a hill
To get a pail of water.

Jack fell down and broke his crown.
And Jill came tumbling after.

Overlook the fact that "after" is a terrible rhyme for "water." Writers of the classics never had to bother about accurate rhymes as modern poets do. Look what Burns and Byron and some of the greatest bards in history got away with.

Now to modernize this story. you must have Jack and Jill perishing of thirst on one of the great open spaces, which they have tried to cross on a motor cycle.

To convey this idea, picture Jack and Jill haggard and weary, peeking under sage brush for [illegible] springs, speedily as possible. And the subtitle is:

Oil!

In an instant Jack and Jill are on their feet and dancing happily around the spring. Untold wealth is theirs, and people who have suddenly come into wealth cease automatically to thirst for water.

But as they dance they approach too near the brink of the precipice and Jack suddenly plunges over. Jill attempting to rescue him seizes his disappearing feet and is pulled along in his wake.

The next scene is in a luxurious hospital, where Jack is found with his head swathed in bandages, drinking iced champaigne, while Jill is tenderly nursing him back to health and strength. Outside the window is a handsome motor car, and a yacht rides at anchor in the distance.

The subtitle is:

"Who was the party that was in to see you, Jack?"

"Mr. Dohenj, darling. At last I can ask you to be mine."

View of Jack and Jill in fond embrace, and another subtitle:

Love Conquers Oil!

Accidental Death May End Fencing in German Schools

HALLE, Germany, Aug.—Fencing matches, which have been popular in many German universities but with which there has been a growieg dissatisfaction on the part of the public, will probably be discontinued as a result of a fatal accident recently at the University of Halle.

Herbert Hovelor, son of a wealthy manufacturer, bled to death after receiving a stab below the belt.

Russia Unable to Supply Demand for Small Coins

LENINGRAD, Aug.—With the introduction of new metal currency in Russia, the Soviet government is experiencing great difficulty in coining sufficient money in small denomination to meet the public demand, and is turning to the United States for additional minting machinery. It has also placed an order with the British Royal Mint in London for the manufacture of 40,000,000 half-ruble silver pieces. These have a value of 25 cents and consist of nine part of silver and one of copper.

While silver coins of 10 kopeks, 15 kopeks and 20 kopeks have been in circulation for some time, no copper money has yet been minted, as the state-controlled factory, to which the government awarded a large contract for minting copper pieces, has failed to produce sufficient coins to meet the demands of the Soviet republic.

Society to Provide Trip For German Workers

BERLIN, Aug.—In order that travel during vacation time may be made possible for workers' families, there has been organized the "Volksreisebund," or People's Traveling Society. The members are expected to pay a membership fee of 50 pfennings a month and in addition a monthly payment of one and one-half, three and one-half or five and one-half marks, according to the group they join.

Tours will be arranged for the different groups and the money saved annually will pay all expenses.

Miners' Journal Approves Monthly Coal Deliveries

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug.—Elimination of the seasonal demand for coal would be "a blessing to the industry and to the public in general," says the United Mine Workers' Journal, official publication of the United Mine Workers of America. The statement was made in discussing the recommendation of the American Engineering Council that seasonal storage of coal would cut the public's coal bill, eliminate danger of coal famine and stabilize the industry.

The plan of having the public purchase its coal on annual contracts for yearly requirements with a provision that the coal be delivered monthly in equal allotments long has been advocated, the article points out, adding that under the present conditions 47 per cent of the idle time of the industry is caused by the seasonal demand for fuel. It was suggested that the council's recommendation also might help solve the problems of too many mines and too many miners.

Germany Has First Socialist As President of University

HAMBURG, Aug.—Rudolf F. A. Laun, professor of jurisprudence at the University of Hamburg, has been elected president of the institution and thus becomes the first socialist in Germany to be head of a university.

Professor Laun was born in Prague in 1882, the son of an Austro-Hungarian nobleman and soldier, Anton von Laun. He is a member of the German section of the International Law association and of the League of Nations association.

Home Brew Privilege Sought

LONDON, Aug.—Great Britain is a beer-drinking nation, according to a petition prepared by the Chamber of Commerce of Glamorgan, Wales, which has asked the government to restore conditions pertaining prior to the war when farmers were permitted to brew beer for their families and workmen without payment of taxes.

"Guarantee Contracts" Especially Hit By Organization.

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Following its recent declaration of war upon "gyp" automobile clubs, the American Automobile Association will now seek to enlist the services of its several hundred affiliated motor clubs in behalf of individual motorists who are confused over fraudulent organizations or who desire co-operation in bringing questionable outfits to justice. This statement was made officially today from A.A.A. headquarters in Washington where the facts concerning "gyp" motor club operations throughout the country are said to warrant such immediate action.

Services for Motorists

President Thos. P. Henry of the A.A.A. is particularly anxious that motorists avail themselves of the services offered by many of the affiliated clubs inasmuch as such action, he said, will be of material assistance to the A.A.A. in clearing the country of these outfits that prey upon the unsuspecting motorist.

"Motorists who have been victimized would do a great service to motordom by immediately reporting the facts to the nearest A.A.A. club," Mr. Henry urges. "Very frequently the local club is on the trail of a questionable outfit, and additional information from a local motorist may be all that is needed to get action against the leaders and run them out of town.

"If a motorist is approached by a salesman and is in doubt as to the reliability of the organization he pretends to represent the secretary of the local A.A.A. club is the best party to consult."

Members Good Index

In his comment upon the situation President Henry emphasized the importance of examining the human assets of a motor club before joining it. "The prominent men of your city who are members of the local A.A.A. club form a better index to its worth and stability than circulars and solicitors," he says.

Particular attention is directed to the fact that majority of questionable organizations seek to sell what they term "contracts" which guarantee the member everything from free towing service in Alaska to insurance at less than the cost of being careful.

Mr. Henry warns against confusing such propositions with legitimate automobile memberships, and reminds motorists that legitimate automobile clubs elect their new members with some sort of discrimination that is shown by all other organizations that are pledged to the public's interests.

The American Automobile Association, which is 22 years old, since its consolidation with the National Motorists Association is said to be the largest body of organized car owners in the world and is the only national motor organization with coast-to-coast service to members.

AJAX MOTORS HAS NEW CHIEF

David Averill Vice-President And General Manager Of Nash Branch

Announcement is made by C. W. Nash of the election of David Averill as vice-president and general manager of the Ajax Motor company of Racine, subsidiary of The Nash Motors company. Mr. Averill was chosen at a meeting of the board of directors of the Ajax company held in Kenosha on Monday. His acceptance of this important position in the Nash Motors organization again brings Mr. Averill into association with Mr. Nash with whom he was identified for a period of over twelve years during Mr. Nash's association with the Durant-Dort Carriage company.

Is Well Fitted.

"In the selection of Mr. Averill as vice-president and his appointment as general manager of the Ajax Motor company," said Mr. Nash, "we have procured for this important place one of the best fitted men in the automobile industry. Dave Averill I have known ever since he left school in Flint, Michigan, when he came to work for me at the factory of the Durant-Dort Carriage company and where he was associated with me for twelve years.

"Since that time I have had an opportunity to closely observe Mr. Averill's progress and sound development in the automobile industry. He possesses all of the qualification necessary to the performance of the important duties that will devolve upon him in his position with the Ajax Motor company because of his character and integrity we are proud to have him in so important a position with a Nash Motors interest."

Averill Gratified.

"I find it very gratifying to again become associated with Mr. Nash and with other members of the Nash Motors organization who were once identified with the old Durant-Dort Carriage company," said Mr. Averill. "Incidentally, it so happens that Mr. Nash is one of the two men for whom I have worked since leaving school, the other being Mr. J. D. Dort. In the twelve years spent under Mr. Nash I received a training in manufacturing and general business principles that shaped my entire life. The manufacturing ability and strict integrity of Mr. Nash as exemplified by him in his daily conduct of business has been highly instructive to me."

Germany Taxes Horses.

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, August.—A horse tax is the latest in Germany and is imposed upon all except animals belonging to peasants. The tax varies according to the character and weight of the horses, the highest being about $30 a year imposed against fancy riding horses and racing animals.

Dave Fassett, Veteran Driver, In Transcontinental Run

Old timers in the automobile industry are doing a good deal of reminiscing these days, the occasion being the first trans-continental motor bus trip which is now being made by a new Reo sedan type cross-country bus which is being piloted from coast to coast by Dave Fassett, veteran Reo driver, who bears the distinction of having driven in the first double trans-continental auto tour away back in 1905-06.

"It is interesting to compare the present day conditions with those which were encountered by the drivers in those early days and the accounts of the journey made by the famous Reo "Mountaineer" seem more like those of the journeys of the old 'forty-niners,'" says R. C. Rueschaw, sales manager of the Reo Motor Car company.

"The fact that Fassett is now driving the new Reo Bus from New York to the western coast carries particular significance and that long period which has elapsed since Fassett's first and most famous trip down to the present time has been a period of astounding development and equally astonishing experiences by this indomitable motorist," says Rueschaw.

"It will be of particular interest to compare the trip of the Reo Bus with its luxurious equipment and complete appointments with that early voyage made by Fassett which started from Herold Square on August 19, 1905.

"Surely, the present trip will lack many of the hazardous experiences and daring feats which were manfully borne in those early days but it is of no less interest for all that.

"The trip of the Reo 'Mountaineer' was a double transcontinental tour begun under the auspices of the American Motor league for the purpose of ascertaining the mileage between towns, recording the altitude, nature of the ground, depth of fords, grade, percentage of hills and mountains and sending in daily reports on the conditions of the roads, bridges, mountain passes and sandy stretches of the Bitter Creek and Great American desert.

"Incidentally, it was also designed to awaken an intelligent public sentiment in favor of at least one good road across the continent built and maintained under the supervision of the federal government. The route which was laid out for this little 16 horsepower Reo touring car was from New York to San Francisco and on to Los Angeles, returning to the east by the way of Albuquerque, St. Louis and Indianapolis.

"Fassett's experience between Flagstaff and Winslow, Arizona, may be regarded as typical. The distance is almost nothing on the map and yet only 13 miles out of Flagstaff, he was caught in one of the most furious snow storms of the year, completely snowed in and, after having been unable to make further progress over the steep roads because of the sudden failure of his gasoline supply, he was forced to stop upon the road without food and shelter and there he was found hours later, almost frozen to death, by a searching party. He had used what little gasoline he had left to build a fire and the smoke from this was what led the searchers from Flagstaff to the Reo.

"Unprecedented interest was created all along the route and the newspapers' accounts of this early expedition read like the biography of Robinson Crusoe."

The new Reo Bus is now on the first lap of its transcontinental voyage which will terminate at San Francisco. Cities along the route between New York and Chicago which will be visited by the new Reo are Albany, Schenectady, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Toledo, South Bend and Chicago. The northern route will be taken from Chicago.

FINDS EUROPE HAS IMPROVED

President of Moon Motors Says Everybody Is Busy In France

Stewart McDonald, president of the Moon Motor company of St. Louis, who has just returned from a six weeks' business trip to Europe, says business in Europena countries shows definite improvement.

Everybody Busy.

"In France every one is busy," he stated, "England is in the throes of labor difficulties, though the reaction to the tram and bus strike indicates the country is fed up on labor's continued demands. The atmosphere is clearing there.

"American cars are selling freely in Spain, Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries, in which nations the Moon car has enjoyed a good trade for some years."

Makes New Connection.

On this trip abroad Mr. McDonald closed new connections in the occupied German territory. The German distributor has purchased 200 cars, 42 of which are boxed for shipment. The Moon Motor Car's export business has been expanding steadily, about 10 per cent of its production being sold in foreign countries.

ECHOLS OPENS PAINT SHOP

Establishment Offers Wichita Auto Owners Speedy Service

J. R. Echols is now occupying a new and up-to-date automobile pain shop at 312 Ohio Ave. Mr. Echols is using a new improved system of painting.

An auto paint job, that formerly took from three to six weeks, can now be turned out in a week with a more durable finish and high lustre. The car is not tied up as many days in the paint shop as it would under the old system. Every paint job is guaranteed to give satisfaction.

Conscientious Objectors Disciplined By Japanese

By The Associated Press.

TOKIO, Aug.—The Japanese army has a special disciplinary corps for dealing with conscripts who fight their compulsory service too bitterly or who show leanings toward socialistic or radical ideas, according to Lieutenant General Isaei Ugaki, minister of war, speaking to the house of representatives recently. General Ugaki did not indicate the methods used, but said the results had been satisfactory.

"The spirit of the army is not likely to suffer from such elements although it is true that conscripts of such refractory turn of mind are increasing in number," said General Ugaki. "The army at first attempted to avoid the conscription of such men, but we have found it better to enlist them and then try to make them see the error of their ways. It is also true the the number of men who try to evade military service is increasing, but the army authorities are doing their best to remedy this tendency."

STUDEBAKERS IN NEW RECORD

Big-Sixes Driven an Average of 122,589 Miles Each Day

What is believed to be a world's record in motor car endurance has been achieved by 218 owner-driven Studebaker automobiles in piling up a total of 26,724,420 miles in every-day service, according to an announcement today by Frank Keim local Studebaker dealer.

After an extensive investigation among motorists," said Mr. Keim, "we find that American motor cars today cannot be equaled for service through a long period of years.

Cars Average 122,589 Miles.

"For instance, records show that 218 Studebaker Big-Six passenger cars, all in regular every-day service, have traveled a total of 26,724,420 miles, and are still going strong. These records have never been equaled, so far as I can learn.

"Popular belief fixes the life of the average motor car at six years. At 6,000 miles a year—the average yearly mileage—this would be only 36,000 miles. And yet these 218 Studebakers to date show an average mileage of 122,589 miles each. On the basis of the usual estimate, these cars have averaged around twenty-two years of customary service in five years. And are still on active duty daily.

"One 1919 Bib Six has traveled 500,000 miles, according to sworn statements. It went 400,000 miles in daily service on a newspaper route, winter and summer, after its original owner had driven it nearly 100,000 miles, and recently was driven across the continent. We have placed it in the Studebaker National Museum at South Bend, where exhibits of America's development in transportation are on display.

Others Make High Record

"In Birmingham, Ala., another Studebaker Big-Six has been driven 401,518 miles. At Phoenix, Ariz., another has gone 316,000 miles, frequently on gruelling mountain trips.

"Many other Studebakers have been driven 300,000 miles, 200,000, and 100,000 miles, and there is an impressive number that has sped past the 75,000 and 50,000 milepost. Such mileage records mean more than mere mileage or unusual performance. They are living evidence of the care in material and workmanship that goes into motor car manufacturing today."

WILLIAMS IN TOUR OF WEST

Marmon President Will Visit Dealers in Wichita Falls

G. M. Williams, president and general manager of the Nordyke & Marmon company, manufacturers of the Marmon automobile, left Indianapolis Thursday night, July 24 for a three weeks trip to the Pacific coast and back, during which he will visit and interview Marmon dealers at all the principal cities. Mr. Williams recently became president and general manager of the company, succeeding Walter Marmon. Mr. Marmon is now chairman of the board of directors.

Seeks First Hand Views.

The object of the trip is to obtain first-hand views and impressions of business conditions in the automobile trade and generally at many of the larger western cities. The trip also will give Mr. Williams an opportunity to meet personally many of the Marmon delares whom he has not already met at the factory and elsewhere. Mr. Williams predicts that by interviewing briefly each of the Marmon dealers and other big business men in the key cities of the west he will have, upon his return to Indianapolis, a comprehensive picture of exact conditions as they are today in the automobile trade.

Is Coming Here.

Mr. Williams was formerly the president of the Wire Wheel corporation of America and for six years was general manager of the Dayton-Wright plant of the General Motors corporation. He has to his credit many striking achievements in the industry. He brought with him to the Nordyke & Marmon company strong financial backing and a wide experience in manufacturing.

Among the cities Mr. Williams will visit are Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Spokane, Seattle, Portland, Ore., San Francisco, Los Angeles, Denver, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Kansas City and St. Louis.

Waiter's Horse Wins Race.

By The Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Germany, August.—During the mark inflation period in 1922, A. Stierheim, a waiter in a Cologne cafe, purchased a colt named Anmarsch for a small sum. This year the horse, still owned by Stierheim, won the German Derby and a stake amounting to 100,000 gold marks.

Including wagers which the owner won at the odds against his horse, 51 to 10, it is said that Stierheim cleaned up approximately $60,000.

MARMON HAS PRICE INCREASE

$200 Advance on Open Type Models Is Announced

A price increase of $200 on Marmon open type models and chassis, effective July 24, has been announced by H. H. Brooks, sales manager of the Nordyke & Marmon company. The increase makes the following prices effective; four and seven passenger standard phaetons $3,095; two and four passenger sport speedsters $3,295; chassis, $2,650. Prices on closed models will remain the same, Mr. Brooks said.

Men Hold Proportion

By The Associated Press.

VIENNA, Aug.—Notwithstanding the loss of men during the World war post-war Austria is not much different in the proportion of its male and female population. Recent figures show that for every 1,000 men in Austria there are 1,078 women, while in 1910 there were 1,023 women to each 1,000 men.

What Oil Company Are You Working For?

Figures compiled by experts show an alarming number of automobiles that are being run on the streets today which are defective. The same source goes on to state, that most engines need constant attention—not repairs, but attention at the hands of a good mechanic.

You who have wondered why it is the car you drive uses so much oil or gasoline will be surprised to find out how many trivial things can happen in your engine to increase the gasoline or oil consumption.

If you are not on an "acquaintance" basis with the foreman of the dealer's shop, from whom you bought your car—the wisest thing you can do is to start that acquaintanceship now. You'll find the entire staff of your automobile dealer ready and anxious to serve you—to see that you get the utmost in satisfactory mileage and performance out of your automobile investment. Don't put it off.

Wichita County Has More Automobiles Than The Whole Norway

TEXAS HAS MORE THAN A NATION

United Kingdom Is Only Foreign Place With More Than State

By Bascom N. Timmons
Record News Staff.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.—Texas alone has more motor vehicles than any foreign country except the United Kingdom, figures obtained at the department of commerce today showed.

Texas has 688,233 motor vehicles. The United Kingdom has 834,067. Six Texas counties, Dallas, Harras, Tarrant, Bexar, Jefferson and Galveston, have 188,342 motor vehicles or more than all of South and Central America, Mexico and Cuba combined, these countries having 186,290.

More Than Japan.

Four Texas counties combined—McLennan, Travis, Wichita and Jefferson, had 655,491 motor vehicles, or more than Sweden and Japan combined.

Seven Texas Panhandle counties—Potter, Randall, Armstrong, Donley, Carson, Dallam and Deaf Smith combined, have 8,161 motor vehicles, or more than all China's 7,115.

Dallas, Tarrant, Bexar, Harris and Wise counties combined have 186,532 motor vehicles or more than all Germany.

The number of motor vehicles in Texas is more than double the 341,871 in France.

Dallas and Harris counties together have more motor vehicles than Italy.

Wichita Beats Norway.

Dallas county has more motor vehicles than Spain, or the Netherlands, or Sweden. Wichita county has more than Norway, Jefferson county has more than Russia. Harris has more than Denmark and China combined.

Bexar has more than Denmark or Cuba. Tarrant has more than Mexico and Greece combined.

Galveston county has more motor vehicles than Chile. El Paso has more than Uruguay. Clay county has more than Colombia. Hill county has more than Peru and Venezuela combined and so have Hunt, Limestone, Collin, Navarro and Stephens.

Hill, Hunt, Limestone, Collin, Navarro and Stephens, each, also have more motor vehicles than Poland.

Bowie, Brown, Cameron, Denton, DeWitt, Falls, Fayette, Harrison, Jones, Lavara, Lubbock, Milam, Palo Pinto and Runnels counties each have more motor vehicles than Venezuela. Taylor county has more motor vehicles than Greece.

Bell county has 1,100 more motor motor vehicles than Roumania. Falls county has more than Hungary. Hale county has more than all Turkey.

The Smallest Number.

The county in Texas with the smallest number of motor vehicles is Winkler, with 29. Liberia is the country with the smallest number of motor vehicles, 17.

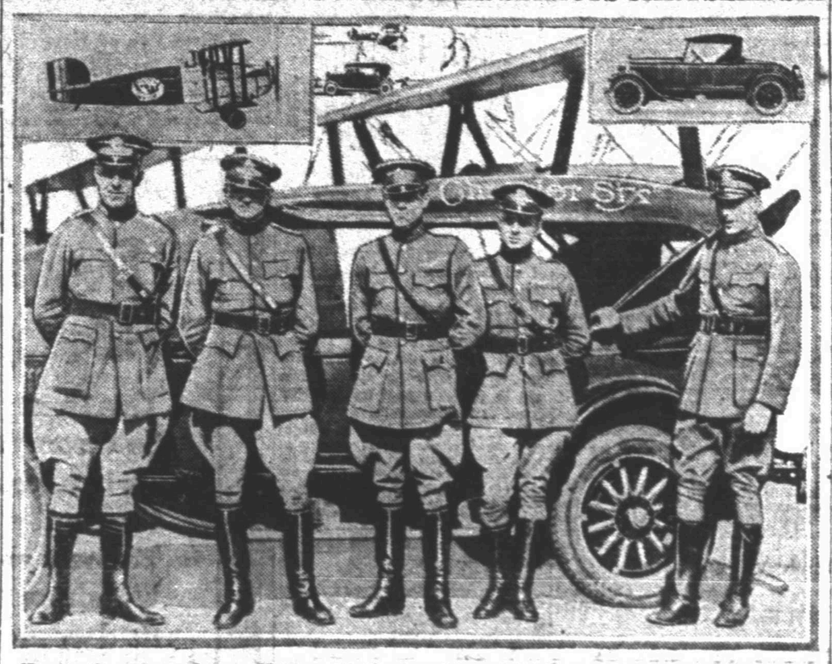

Here are how the number of motor vehicles in other countries compare with the 688,233 in Texas.

France, 341,871; Germany, 166,033; Austria, 15,203; Mexico, 20,050; Poland, 5,600; Spain, 45,000; Netherlands, 47,740; Gold Coast, 294; Russia, 13,000; Canada, 519,393; Italy, 86,200; Australia, 719,908; Argentina, 80,000; Belgium, 56,300; China, 7,113; Greece 5,480; Japan, 10,279; Sweden, 45,743; United Kingdom, 833,640; Denmark, 36,681; Cuba, 34,050; Brazil, 26,064; Uruguay, 13,710; Chile, 8,050.

Australians Increase.

MELBOURNE, Aug.—The population of Australia as of March 31 was estimated at 5,777,262. This is an increase of 341,528 over the last official census, taken in April, 1921.

ROUND-THE-WORLD COMMANDER SELECTS CHRYSLER-SIX

The last thing Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith acting commander of the American army round-the-world fliers did before hopping off from Seattle on that memorable flight to Alaska, was to wire to the Edwards Merritt Automobile company, of San Deigo, Calif., for a Chrysler roadster to be delivered upon his return to San Deigo. In his telegram Lieut. Smith said:

"Before continuing on the round the world flight I wish to thank you for the use of your Chrysler while in San Deigo. I want you to know that I have driven nearly every car manufactured and can sincerely state that it excells them all in performance. Please accept my order for a roadster to be delivered upon completion of my present flight."

Arrangements have been made to deliver the car to Lieut. Smith upon his arrival in San Deigo after the round-the-world flight which has made history.

ELECTRA PAVING SYSTEM GROWS

Special to the Record News.

ELECTRA, Aug. 9.—Electra will have 106 blocks of paving when the present contract of 46 blocks is completed, which, according to contractors, will be before January. This paving system, which includes 12 blocks of concrete highway and 48 blocks of old pavement through the business section and portions of the residential section.

The contractors are at present working on Roosevelt and Electra streets, near the new high school.

Governor General Wood Urges Filipinos To Be Good Citizens

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Aug.—In a message of greeting to be read in all the schools of the Philippines at the opening of the new school year, Governor General Leonard Wood says:

"Most of you have arrived upon the scene in an epoch when human knowledge is advancing more rapidly than ever before in the history of the world. The developments of science in the present generation are many and varied. They have added much to our knowledge, given us new instrumentalities and means for development and research, and opened new fields of activity.

"You must all remember, however, that faith in God, honesty, morality, thrift, industry and steadfastness of purpose are just as essential to success today as in the past. You can best repay the sacrifices which your people have made by improving to the best of your ability the opportunity given you to prepare yourselves to be good and useful citizens."

France Produces Less Iron

PARIS, Aug.—The claim of some economists that France is the "iron-master of the world" is disputed by recently published figures. These show the production of iron to be 590,000 tons a month and of steel 554,000 tons. These figures are 15 per cent less than the 1913 output.

South Dakota Odd Fellows' Lodge Has a Negro Member

By The Associated Press.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Aug.—One of the few negro members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows lives in Sioux Falls. He is Arnold M. Moore, and he has been a member of the Canton, S. D. camp No. 101 of the I. O. O. F. since 1888, when it was organized as the first camp in the state.

Mr. Moore joined the lodge for the insurance benefits and has never taken an active part in its socisy or fraternal life. At the time he was initiated the constitution of the order made eligible "any male citizen of good character," but the word "white" has been inserted since.

Maxwell Club Sedan Proves Popular Model

Seldom, if ever, has a motor car in its first year of production achieved the popularity of the Maxwell club sedan. Since its introduction into the Maxwell line of models last October the percentage of club sedan production to total production has steadily risen and now represents an extremely high figure, the car having become on of the largest selling closed models in the industry.

The club sedan is of unusual construction, because of which it makes an ideal type utility vehicle. The bridge type construction of body framing produces unusual strength without adding undue weight. It will actually withstand more hard knocks than most touring cars.

HELSINFORS, Finland, Aug.—Surprise has been expressed in the smaller states about the Balton Sea at the number of ships participating in the cruise of the Russian Soviet fleet in the Gulf of Finland, which began a few days ago. Two dreadnaughts, six submarines, five light cruisers, ten destroyers, ten torpedo boats of French type and a number of repair ships have been sighted, a greater number of vessels than it was thought possible could be commissioned. All the ships appeared to be in a good state of repair.

The fleet was recently sighted close to the Esthonian coast but so far none of the vessels have appeared in Finnish waters. As the Soviet authorities are said to be anxious to make a demonstration of the efficiency of their recognized navy, it is expected that the cruise will be extended to Danish and German waters.

Bulgarian Police Baffled By Prisoner Who Won't Talk

SOFIA, Aug.—The department of public safety of Bulgaria is doing its best to pierce the anonymity and effect the capture of the leaders of a new organization that has been partially successful in its efforts to collect illegal revenue from banks, firms and individuals.

The name of this organization, which is collecting money in large sums, is "The Unknown Soldiers." A bank, firm or individual receives notice from this blackmailing band that it is expected to contribute, for charitable purposes, so much a month, in sums varying from 200 to 2,000 leva. Such notification is sent by mail, on paper bearing the caption "The Unknown Soldiers," and the details of delivering the money are clearly given.

Following certain visible clews, the police recently arrested a young man about 25 years old. But the progress of their endeavors are barred, for the prisoner will not utter a single word, talking a translation.

Few Irish Judges Able To Understand Gaelic

By The Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Aug.—A recent attempt to compel railway companies in the Free State to print their announcements and tickets in the Irish language only, or in both Irish and English, was vigorously opposed by Senator W. B. Yeats, the poet, who in the course of his address revealed that he had tried to learn Irish and failed, as he had always failed to learn other language than English.

A strong feeling has manifested itself in favor of making this country bilingual. Irish is compulsory in the schools and in the law courts it ranks equally with English. It is but rarely employed, however, and when it is, causes some embarrassment to judges and counsel, most of whom are ignorant of it. Occasionally an attorney puts in an affidavit in Irish only, and the court permits an adjournment until counsel have succeeded in obtaining a translation.

Signal Improvements That Accomplish Amazing Results—Found in No Other Car

The Rollin European type, high compression, small displacement motor, with its great flow of smooth power, has an efficiency of fuel utilization that permits the remarkable economy of from 25 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline.

4-bearing crankshaft, aluminum alloy pistons and connecting rods, balanced statically and dynamically, and precise manufacture make the Rollin practically free from vibration.

A perfected system of force-feed lubrication through drilled crankshaft to all important rotating bearings, permits power to be used to full advantage.

Balloon tires "boulevard the bumps." The Rollin was designed specifically for Balloons, and the very highest degree of riding comfort may be expected.

And four-wheel, mechanical, internal expanding brakes just double the factor of safety.

Try this car yourself. You will get a new thrill from a ride in the remarkable Rollin—the most advanced car of the season.

Water Project Important But Still Not As Large As Lake Kemp

TO BUILD DAM

Men Who Built Wichita System at Work On Big Dam for Dallas

By A. M. McPHERSON.

Tomorrow, Monday, August 11, the city of Dallas will let a contract for the construction of her big waterworks dam. Dallas is now following the example set by Wichita Falls in providing herself with an ample and adequate supply of good, clear water.

Dallas is not only following our example but she is employing our engineers to do the work for her. R. A. Thompson, who was chief engineer in the construction of Lake Kemp, the diversion dam and the irrigation system and who is still consulting engineer for the irrigation district, is chief engineer for Dallas.

Lochridge and Floyd.

Not content with taking Mr. Thompson, she has also called others of our men. J. L. Lochridge, who was the designing engineer for this project, is the designing engineer for Dallas. Mr. Lochridge is an Iowa Park boy and his father is president of the Iowa Park State bank.

Engineer O. N. Floyd, who was the hydraulic dam expert in the construction of Lake Kemp, is Mr. Thompson's chief assistant and will be in direct charge of the construction of the dam for Dallas. Under Mr. Floyd will be Engineers T. C. Schuler and R. B. Wolverton, who were employed here in the construction of the diversion dam. Mr. Schuler was resident engineer and Mr. Wolverton was the assistant.

Copy Construction Methods.

Not only is Dallas employing our head in securing an adequate water supply and in employing our engineers to do the work for her, but she is also going to copy our methods of construction. The dam is to be a hydraulic fill formed by pumping, the same method which was used in the building of the dam at Lake Kemp.

Despite that all Dallas has done, despite the fact that she is a far larger city and is spending a great deal more money than we did, she will not be able to even approach Lake Kemp in size and capacity.

The Dallas Dam will be about 10,000 feet long, or about 2,000 feet longer than at Lake Kemp, but it will be 80 feet high against our 100 feet. The water in it, when filled, will be 65 feet deep. Lake Kemp carries 85 feet. When their reservoir is full it will cover about 11,000 acres of land; Lake Kemp covers over twice as much territory. Their lake will hold about sixty-three billion gallons; Lake Kemp's capacity is three times that. The Dallas lake will have a length of about ten miles, while the length of Lake Kemp is nearly 25 miles.

Water Supply Only.

The reservoir that Dallas is building is to be used for a city water supply alone. There will be no irrigation system in connection with it such as we have here.

The dam is to be built on the Elm Fork of the Trinity river in Denton county, not far from the city of Denton. The water will be released as needed and will flow down the channel of the river for about 50 miles to the filtration plant at Turtle creek and will there be purified for use in Dallas.

In gaining possession of the land to be flooded it was necessary to buy out 175 different land owners. About 50 farmers who were actually living on their land were dispossessed. An average price of about $80 per acre was paid for the land. No churches, school houses or graveyards will be submerged.

About one-third of the area in the reservoir site is now covered with timber which is to be cleared off and removed. The timber in Lake Kemp was not removed and is still standing although much of it is now completely under water.

It is estimated by the engineers that with the construction of this reservoir Dallas will have enough water for a population of 700,000. Based on the same figures, the combined capacities of Lake Kemp, the diversion dam and Lake Wichita will supply a population of several million in Wichita Falls.

By following our lead, employing our engineers and building a dam of the same type, Dallas should in the next two years have a splendid and adequate supply of water which will meet her every need for years to come.

Further Inroads Made In Western Gasoline Stocks

Figures of the Western Refiners Association, to which 141 mid-continent refiners report weekly, show a further inroad of 7,000,000 gallons into the gasoline stocks of these plants during the past week, reducing those stocks to approximately 136,000,000 gallons. This latter figure is nearly a hundred million gallons less than the stocks figure for the same refiners at this time last year it is stated, and it is pointed out that a great deal of the amount is represented by tank bottoms, unfit for sale and not available for marketable purposes.

The report also states that there was a reduction of 14,000 barrels in the daily amount of crude oil run to the stills during the week.

Same Thieves Get $300 More In Second Robbery of Nu Grape Bottling Co. On Lamar; No Clues; Safe Is Cracked

Evidently learning that they had overlooked a sizable haul in their first attempt, thieves Friday night returned to the Nu-Grape Bottling Company plant, 1505 Lamar, cracked the office safe and escaped with about $300 in cash. It was stated last night that the exact amount of money missing was not known. Reports to the police, however, indicated that the amount would reach the $300 mark and possibly exceed it.

Same Thieves.

That the robbery was the work of the same ones who just a week ago Friday night made away with $85 in silver after overlooking $300 in currency is the positive belief of detectives working on the case. The operations of the yeggs were exactly the same in each instance, the robbery was apparently committed about the same time, and what clues were left tallied exactly in each instance.

Out of Town Men.

Detectives John Boone and Lake Hart, after declaring emphatically that the same gang had been responsible for both thefts, gave the opinion that the robbers came in here from some outside point, probably Fort Worth, cracked the safe and got out of town before the loss was discovered. In the absence of clues, trailing them is a difficult and almost hopeless task.

Dial Knocked Off.

The combination dial of the safe door was knocked off with a sledge hammer and the tumblers driven back with a punch Friday evening, just as they were a week ago. The interior of the vault was thoroughly ransacked and all the currency and silver taken in from Friday's collections removed.

A fire in the Arapahoe National Forest in Colorado started from a camp fire left smoldering by careless motorists and burned 2,500 acres of excellent pine timber in a little more than three hours. This rapid destruction took place despite the fact that officers of the forest service, with a force of 250 men, began fighting the fire almost as soon as it started.

Saturday Night Traffic Recalls Days of Boom

In Wichita Falls in the throes of a business depression? If one was on the downtown business streets Saturday night he would instantly say that Wichita Falls was enjoying a period of prosperity. Thousands of shoppers milled up and down the sidewalks and all the stores in town were crowded. On the busy corners one jam of automobiles was hardly cleared away before another jam took place. Cars were forced to go at a snail's pace because of the crowded streets. People were forced to stand on the curb several minutes at a time in order to allow a long string of cars to pass.

Wichita Falls resembled the Wichita Falls of the summer of 1918, Saturday night. During those hectic boom days it was hard for a person to pass down the sidewalks on Saturday night and conditions were not much better last night.

ALLEGED PIPE THIEVES CAUGHT

Two men alleged to have made away with a considerable quantity of oil field casing and other supplies were arrested Saturday by Deputy Sheriff George Hawkins and are now held in the county jail. No charges have been filed against them as yet, it is said, and they are still being examined as to the part they are believed to have played in the removal of the pipes.

Officers stated that the pair have been watched for some time following complaint of a local oil company that it was being victimized by thieves.

MRS. FERGUSON MAY COME HERE

Local Club Seeks to Bring Her to Wichita Falls With Gen. Crane

Efforts to bring Mrs. Miriam E. Ferguson to this city next Friday night are being made by the "Mrs. Miriam Ferguson for Governor Club" and the Wichita County Democratic club, it has been announced by the heads of the organizations. Gen M. M. Crane of Dallas has been secured to address the voters of north Texas on the evening in behalf of Mrs. Ferguson, and it is hoped that the first woman candidate for governor in the history of the nation can appear at the same time.

Still in Doubt.

Whether these efforts will be successful remain problematical, since Mrs. Ferguson as a speaker is in great demand from all parts of the state. It is hoped however, that a meeting here with visitors from a dozen or more adjoining counties will be considered of sufficient importance by her campaign managers to warrant a visit to Wichita Falls.

Crane Tsoured.

Regardless of whether or not Mrs. Ferguson is able to appear, Gen. Crane will speak here next Friday on the Moore and Richolt lot. That space will be entirely cleared away and seats arranged over its entire surface. Mrs. Ferguson's supporters here believe that if she makes an appearance, a crowd of 5,000 or 6,000 will be out to hear her. The American legion arena, where political gatherings have been held, is far too small to accommodate such a throng but it is believed the Moore and Richolt lot at Ninth and Indiana provides sufficient space to seat them. Gen. Crane, it is expected, will draw several thousand.

Under the auspices of the local Ferguson club, speakers will be furnished the coming week for a number of nearby communities. B. Y. Cummings appeared at Petrolia Saturday night, the club will hold a Ferguson rally at Electra Monday night and Graham has requested a speaker for Wednesday evening. Judge P. A. Martin, it is believed, will speak there on that date.

"PEOPLE'S PRESS" MAKES APPEARANCE ON STREETS HERE

Volume 1, number 1 of the People's Press, a new weekly newspaper established here, made its appearance on the streets Saturday evening. It will be published each Saturday evening hereafter, according to an announcement of the publishers.

The paper is "published for the benefit of the public in general, and the farmer and organized labor in particular." While devoting its columns to news matter of general interest, it will specialize in topics of especial appeal to farmers and members of organized labor in the city. It is labeled as the official organ of organized labor in Wichita county.

P. B. Roberts is the editor and publisher and the office of publication is at 705 Travis street.

DEMO CLUB HAS BUSY WEEK

Anti-Klan Speakers Will Appear At Towns Over County

Meetings in which the candidacies of all those aspirants for office unfavorable to the ku klux klan will be urged will be held during the coming week in Electra, Burkburnett and Iowa Park under the auspices of the Wichita County Democratic club. Speakers for the meetings will be furnished from the oratorical talent of Wichita Falls.

Monday night a meeting will be held at Electra, Tuesday night at Iowa Park, while the exact date for the Burkburnett meeting has not been settled. The Wichita Falls meeting will be Friday night when the democratic club joins with the Mrs. Ferguson for governor club in bringing Gen. M. M. Crane of Dallas to this city.

Water Project Important But Still Not As Large As Lake Kemp

Men Who Built Wichita System at Work On Big Dam for Dallas

By A. M. McPHERSON.

Tomorrow, Monday, August 11, the city of Dallas will let a contract for the construction of her big waterworks dam. Dallas is now following the example set by Wichita Falls in providing herself with an ample and adequate supply of good, clear water.

Dallas is not only following our example but she is employing our engineers to do the work for her. R. A. Thompson, who was chief engineer in the construction of Lake Kemp, the diversion dam and the Iowa Park system and who is still consulting engineer for the irrigation district, is chief engineer for Dallas.

Lochridge and Floyd.

Not content with taking Mr. Thompson, she has also called others of our men. J. L. Lochridge, who was the designing engineer for this project, is the designing engineer for Dallas. Mr. Lochridge is an Iowa Park boy and his father is president of the Iowa Park State bank.

Engineer O. N. Floyd, who was the hydraulic dam expert in the construction of Lake Kemp, is Mr. Thompson's chief assistant and will be in direct charge of the construction of the dam for Dallas. Under Mr. Floyd will be Engineers T. C. Schuler and E. B. Wolverton, who were employed here in the construction of the diversion dam. Mr. Schuler was resident engineer and Mr. Wolverton was the assistant.

"WOMAN TO WOMAN"

–By Fannie Hurst–

Something was WRONG with Emily Blair.

Dudley, her husband, adored her. It was nerves, probably, he thought perplexedly—and suggested a trip to the Canadian Rockies as a cure. With the junior pair of twins let off from school to go with them.

The senior twins noticed it too. "You're LOOKING SEEDY, Mums, old dear," they said. And suggested that she come chaperon a prom to cheer her up.

And all the time she felt like crying when anybody so much as asked her to pass the sugar. Because—BECAUSE—she had discovered too late that she was A BORN PUBLIC WOMAN.

Then came the chance to ask advice from Clara Bendigger, lecturer, author, traveler, candidate for Congress.

"A HOUSEHOLD WORD WITHOUT A HOUSEHOLD OF MY OWN," said Clara.

And that settled it.

SOMETHING was ASKEW with Emily Blair. Her husband noticed it. Her children noticed it. Nora, the cook, noticed it.

Oh, it wasn't anything very tangible. Dudley Blair rubbed his shag of graying hair perplexedly once in a while when he thought of it and smiled in the way he always smiled when he thought of Emily. ADORINGLY. Emily did too much. It was nerves, probably. You cannot keep two pairs of twins going and happy, one pair in college and another pair preparing, run a lovely eleven-room house on the nicest boulevard in town, meet your husband every evening in something clinging and soft and mauve, preside in one capacity or another over every woman-movement in town and not eventually begin to feel as if you wanted to cry every time somebody slammed a door or asked you to pass the sugar.

But as a matter of fact, it WAS something tangible that ailed Emily Blair. Emily Blair was a BORN PUBLIC WOMAN. A born politician, lecturer; and suddenly and belatedly she knew it.

The something tangible started when Luella Barker, famous novelist and feminist, struck up a friendship with Emily at an enormous woman's-club convention in Cleveland. Emily was there as delegate from the federated women's club of Springfield. Her speech on Social Centers for Girls was one of the outstanding successes of the entire week. Luella Barker congratulated her upon it and presented her with a copy of her latest book, "The Woman Conqueror," and inscribed it "To a BORN PUBLIC WOMAN, if there ever was one, admiringly, Luella Barker."

That was when Emily returned to Springfield with "that look" on her face and felt so desperately that she wanted to cry every time any one said or did anything.

"What you need, Em, is a little trip. I'll knock off next month, if you say the word, and take that never-never trip to the Canadian Rockies we've been talking about for the last eighty-six years.

The senior twins indulged in an observation, too.

"Come on down to college, and help chaperon the prom, Mums, old dear. You're LOOKING SEEDY."

"Mums, old dear!" "LOOKING SEEDY." Emily Blair, a BORN PUBIC WOMAN, if there ever was one! Emily Blair caught in the toils of a hum-drum town with her children already grown and patronizing her.

Then the Clotho Club, the most important organization in the state, elected Emily president, and the very next week Ethan Williams, president of the Williams Lecture Bureau, and Luella Barker's brother-in-law, wrote offering to book her for a coast-to-coast lecture tour.

Dudley, who so seldom came down pat against anything, came down pat against this.

"You're a frazzle of nerves as it is. Too much is enough. I like, as well as you do, to see your name plastered up on the big doings around town. Me and the kids are mighty proud of you. But you're not cut out for the real public-life stuff. Stay satisfied with being an amateur.

Poor Emily, biting back her tears and writing the Williams Bureau, asking more time for her decision.

That winter Clara Novella Bendigger, lecturer, author, traveller and candidate for Congress, was "brought" by the Clotho Club to Springfield, through the Williams Bureau.

WHAT A WOMAN! Clipped. Concise. Steel nerved, but just as pretty and chic and feminine as she could be.

Emily admired Clara Bendigger over and above any woman she had ever met, and after the lecture, because more than anything in the world, she wanted and needed a certain advice from the club's distinguished guest, Emily captured her in the precious hour before her train time and drove her home to tea in her snug little sedan.

Clara Bendigger was booked to tour Australia next season. Clara Bendigger was to spend the next three weeks in Washington lobbying through an important bill. Clara Bendigger was to be a deleagte at the Woman's International Conference at Genoa in 1925. Clara Bendigger was going to stump her state in the forthcoming gubernatorial election. . . .

Emily Blair, with all her suppressed capacities smouldering in her, gripped the wheel of her sedan as she drove.

There was a fire in the living room when they arrived home and the junior twins had been in and banked one corner of the big old room in perfectly flaming sumach from behind the campus and Nora had been her most thoughtful and drawn the curtains and laid her very special tea of hot muffins and marmalade and Dud must have sent up a basket of fruit from Charlot's because there it stood where Nora had banked it among the sumach. All in all, it was a drawing room that literally REACHED OUT ITS ARMS TO YOU.

"Oh, Lord," was what Clara Bendigger said when she entered and literally plumped herself down on a divan and began pulling off her gloves and laying her hat aside and easing her hairpins. "Oh, Lord—why, this is the first honest-to-goodness, quiet HOME OF A PLACE I've had my nose in for—for—why, I declare, Mrs. Blair, I hadn't exactly thought of it before, but I haven't been in a regular, quiet, lived-in living-room like this for years!"

"Your home is in New York?"

"Home, did you say? Child, I don't live anywhere, except on Pullmans and in banquet halls and on public platforms. Bendigger usually gets me a room in a hotel near his club, where he puts up, whenever I'm in New York and sometimes my daughter Allyn squeezes me in at the Bryn Mawr Club, but you have solved the problem, my dear."

"Me?

"Just enough of this public life kind of thing TO KEEP YOU ALERT and alive and interested and not quite enough of it to rob you of this."

"But you—Clara Bendigger—"

"Yes, a household word without a household of my own. There is really nothing about my work that a well-paid efficiency worker couldn't do. I know it. You know it. It's the welcoming committees at the stations. The presentation bouquets. The 'we have the honor to have with us today' fol-de-rol that's the bait. Every palpitating message I have to convey to a palpitating world we could just as easily have been conveyed from a home like this—but look here, you didn't bring me out here to hear about the bungle I've made of things. Now, what is the advice you want to ask of me. I am short on following good advice, but awfully long on giving it."

"Why, dear Mrs. Bendigger—you've given me the advice I need already. Here—won't you draw your chair up close to my—my fire?"

"As if I didn't know, you poor little foolish thing, that I've given it to you already," said Mrs. Bendigger, behind her pretty teeth and with her bright eyes on the fire.

"What did you say, dear?

"Nothing," said Clara Bendigger continuing to look into the fire with her clever face its most quizzical, "nothing, except that I'm glad I came. Mighty DARN GLAD I CAME."

Why You Come Home from Your Vacation "All Tired Out"

New Tests Revealing How Unusual Holiday Exercises Rob You, Temporarily, of Red Blood

Actual Photographs of the Red Corpuscles That Science Says Are Destroyed by Unaccustomed Exercise

THE exact scientific reason why town and city people usually come home from vacation "all tired out" has just been discovered by a series of interesting experiments at the Rockefeller Institute.

The fact that most men and women—particularly office workers—do have to "recuperate" from their vacations is a matter of such common knowledge that it has become a proverbial joke.

It has even given the stern, old-fashioned employer a plausible excuse for growling that "vacations are no good, anyway," and that "people would be better off without them."

But selfish old grouches will get no comfort from this story. It had best be said at the outset that what science has recently discovered is not an argument against vacations. The "tired out" feeling when you come back to your desk after two weeks or more of swimming, rowing, fishing, mountain climbing, tennis or golf is a temporary depression that will quickly pass, while the benefits you derive, both physical and mental, will last the whole year round.

What science has done has been simply to discover the interesting and hitherto unsuspected true cause of the temporary "let-down."

Exactly what happens is that some of your red blood cells are broken to pieces mechanically by the contraction and expansion of your muscles in exercise, and when you come back you are "tired" because you haven't got quite as much "red blood" as you had when you started.

On the other hand, your muscles are stronger, your lungs are more expanded, your general constitutional strength has been increased. And the temporary reduction of the red corpuscles in the blood is very quickly restored to normal again by their natural recuperative powers, plus nourishing food and sleep.

So the new discovery is nothing to get excited or worried about. It carries a practical lesson which will be explained presently, but it doesn't mean that you shouldn't enjoy your vacation and do all the swimming and running and climbing and playing you want, within reason.

Using dogs as his subjects—and afterward verifying the results with human beings—Dr. G. O. Broun, of the Rockefeller Institute, conducted the experiments which proved that "several days of hard muscular effort, following upon months of sedentary life, results in a pronounced destruction of the red cells of the blood, while similar effort indulged in by animals which had been leading an open-air life with plenty of exercise, on the other hand, had no such effect."

"Dr. Broun Exercised a Dog for Four Hours Daily on a Treadmill, Made Microscopic Examinations of the Blood, and Discovered a Marked Decrease of the Red Corpuscles."

Great scientists sometimes conduct their most useful experiments with an amusing directness and simplicity that is almost childlike, and that is what Dr. Broun did in this case.

He got some healthy dogs and put them in cages for a few months under circumstances which he made as nearly as possible parallel to the life of the average human city worker in an office. They were allowed to move about comfortably in the cages, and were even taken out occasionally for a little mild exercise—just like people working in an office.

Preparing the Mid-Day Meal—One of the Aspects of the Camper's Vacation in Yellowstone Park.

They were fed upon "a generous mixed diet containing considerable meat," in which again the parallel with the conditions of the average human city worker was evident.

At the end of a certain period this sedentary life was changed for a week to one of active physical exercise. The dogs were exercised upon a treadmill—not because treadmills are any more violent or difficult than ordinary running, but because they afforded a precise scientific method of measuring the exact amount of muscular energy expended.

The exercise was conducted for four hours daily, in spells of two hours with an interval of one hour. The dogs were not hurried or abused or forced to any violent, unnatural effort. During one day's exercise they averaged a journey of about four miles at an inclination of twenty degrees, or the equivalent of an ascent of something over a mile. Many a hound, inured to exercise, chasing rabbits for his own amusement goes four times that far in a day. It is recorded that in the early days of the experiment the dogs appeared very tired, but that by the end they showed all the signs of thorough enjoyment and began to regard the treadmill as a game in which they were the players.

Microscopic and analytical examinations of the blood to determine the proportion of red corpuscles was made at frequent intervals before, during and after the period of exercise.

"The findings showed a remarkable conformity," read the report. "In every instance there was a marked decrease in the total red corpuscular volume.

"After a week's exercise, Dr. Broun found that it took from one to three weeks for the corpuscular volume to return to the previous level. The only explanation was that there must have been a considerable destruction of red cells. How this destruction was brought about is not absolutely certain, but it is believed to be mechanical. It is believed that the red cells were destroyed by the contraction of the muscles."

As the result of the experiment The Lancet, British medical publication, said:

"There has been a tendency to look upon post-holiday lassitude as a purely psychic affair. It is worthy of note (from these experiments) that the lassitude has an actual physiological basis."

With a normally healthy person, even an office worker of more or less sedentary life, the reconstruction of these blood corpuscles takes place automatically, and a week or two after the return from vacation he or she recovers entirely from the temporary lassitude and feels only the benefits of the vacation

Stretching a Point by the Seashore—The Kind of Activity Which According to Laboratory Test, Is Likely to Produce That Post-Vacation Tired Feeling. The Girl Is Aline Husse, Brooklyn Beauty.

If an individual is by nature anaemic—that is, pale and already lacking in red corpuscles—vacation exercise should be kept within very moderate bounds.

The chief practical lesson for the healthy office worker is a common sense one. It is that the violent exercise or vacation time should "taper on" and "taper off" at both ends.

Instead of plunging on the first day into a round of swimming, canoeing, climbing, tennis, golf and other exercises, he should begin slowly, so as not to be completely worn out with the unaccustomed physical effort when night time comes. If he goes at it this way, and does a little more each day until the vacation is nearly ended, and then, a few days before starting home, begins to "taper down" a little and "take it easy" again, the after-vacation tired feeling will be much less noticeable.

The ideal thing for every man, woman, girl and boy to do, whether engaging in indoor work or not, is to arrange to take a certain amount of active physical exercise regularly the whole year round. People who do this live longer, keep in better health, and are much less likely to suffer the temporary "all tired out" feeling which follows the vacations of those who try to crowd the whole year's exercise and play into a brief period of a couple of weeks.

Around the World With Togo

By WALLACE IRWIN.

The Search for the Perfect Geisha.

To editor Record News who have seen some rights in his Hometown without expense of carfare to Orient. Dearest Sir:—

Me & Nogi was scarcely gone away from the Tokyo Hotel where we was so kindly welcome to pay in advance, when we observe a Japanese gentleman of very swollen wealth standing on corner looking at a place where Hon. Earthquack had been shaking itself pretty bad. I give one (1) look at his face, by golly, and I knew him distinctually! He were nothing else than Hon. Frank Jingo what use to keep a small bannanna & fruit store when I had his acquaintance in America. But now he look sort of Rockefeller Institute, stepping into a Plutocar with enlarged wheels.

"Hon. Frank Jingo," I dictate, loud, "you no know me?"

"I use to," he divulge. "But now too umportant for cheap travellers."

"In America you sold lemons very humbly," I narrate. "How come so richly swollen all of a suddenly?"

"By coming back to Japan," he amputate with fashionable derby. "When Hon. Earthquack threw my country down then I arrive in boat pretty quick. Since then I have done my duty & got rich from misfortunes of my countrymen. The Japanese Govt have now made me a general."

"General which?" I ask to know.

"General Contractor," he say so.

"Hon Frank Jingo," I corrode, "me & Nogi have came to Japan filled with a crave for pictoriskiness. Yet here we find nothing but bursted houses burns & cracks. Tell us with your intelligence where we can go?"

Ladies Served With Dinner.

"Kyoto, Nikko, Nara," he report like a time-table. "But why should Japanese be so ignoral of those famus names?"

"For Japanese what has never before been in Japan," I dib, "we are doing slightly well."

"Well," he renounce while snuggling into his swelled car. "If I can do anything for you that will not cause me any trouble, do not hasitate to call on me."

Honk-honk! Farebye to Frank Jingo.

From there, Mr. Editor, me & Nogi go to Kyoto, old-time capital of Japan before he move to Tokyo a few thousand years of yore. Kyoto, Mr. Editor, are the place where Hon. Burton Holmes go to get his photos; and when you see it you commence to believe that Japan are very pretty in the face. This sweetish town go up & down hills amidst temples, stairways, snake-shaped pine trees, plum blossoms & lovely girls with how-do-you-do eyes.

After 2 1-2 days in this dear Nippon Mr. Editor, I have learned something about Japanese ladies. All of them are pretty with exception of the professional beauties. And while I speak of ladies, I tell you something different. I can now unstand how Japanese can endure eating with estranged food what they cook without salt, flavoring or anything else. Ladies is served with dinner!

When me & Nogi got first dinner in Kyoto we was set down on floor, just like furniture. And what nextly happen? While scrouching there on our sore ankles who should encroach in but two (2) lovely lady cooks with curio frying-pans, stoves & etc sclutched between their fare hands.

They scrouch down on matt right befront of us & commence frying unnatural looking chicken, rice & undignified dumplings. While cook-girl belonging to Nogi make pat-cake of rice while sweetly smiling, that cook-girl of my proprietorship stir chicken just like Mary Pickford. When that portion were 1-2 done she see me around the corner of her peach face & explode like candy:

"So-so kissme!"

"O-goo-goo-san!" I narrate giggly.

"Yum-yum no kiki!" she cheap until I enjoy slight tickles on my neck.

O goshes! I enjoy eating dinner with my happy eyes, and when she bow down her delicious head while giving me leather-chicken-stew I swalla it without a grone. Such are the force of character, Mr. Editor, especially when pretty ladies is there to help.

Why Not a Gin Ceremony?

Also while walking along street & observing so much flapping-girls in kimonos with come-now eyes under enlarged paper umbrellas I commence to think ways how I can come back to America with 44 picture brides in my satchel.

"But you will not see beauty until you have saw a Geisha," dictate Hon. Hotel Propr where he was at.

Therefore, Mr. Editor, we go to Tea House, expecting that our eyes would be rubbed out by that Geisha view. Cousin Nogi think maybe we must wear blue ottomobile glasses so keep from blindness, but we was careless & went plain.

In Tea House we went with considerable American Towerists what wish see famus Tea Ceremony before they enjoy calebratted Cherry Blossom Dance in next theater.

That Tea Ceremony, Mr. Editor, are so full of gesticulations & behavior that I are siprised how Japanese can await so long for sipp of beveridge. If America had a Gin Ceremony simuliar to that nobody would get time to shake cocktails & Hon. Volstead would be cheated again.

In this Tea Ceremony all those American Towerists set around in rows with shoes off, attempting to look natural while scrouching on floor-pillows. & there in a pretty little grand-stand set Hon. High Tea Lady with a lot of ceremony in her clothes while surrounded by Worshipful Tea & Sacred Hot Water which are fetched in by 22 smallish Tea Girls, age 12, who knuckle down on their knees & knock head 9 times to show they are there. Hon. Tea Lady merely stand up & bow 6 times. Hon. American Towerists (when not too fat) shuffle up & bow 8 times more. Then Hon. High Tea Lady apologise to the tea, the tea-pot, the hot-water jug. After that there are more head-knocking from 22 smallish girls. Then everybody bow. When all are sufficiently tired of this Hon. High Tea Lady make tea. Those 22 maidens pass it round by bumping heads some more. Everybody drink by holding Hon. Cup in two (2) hands while making noise peculiar to soup.

Sounds Artistic Though—Ish.

Tea, when served thusly, are supposed to taste differently. I ask to know.

When this Tea Ceremony were drunk and the Fatty Lady from Georgia were begroaning because she spilled some on the uprising of her shirtwaist, that Hon. Japanese Guide (very intelligent) beacon with finger for us to follo him.

Nexty we know we was in a bosnate in gallery & the stage were full of scenery representing Japan. Beside this were great flock of ladies getting rady to make a noise with a lot of estranged musical tools.

Then what?

Yow!!

These musical ladies commence all together hammering strings, hitting drums, pulling sounds out of fiddles. It were a very artistick sound and quite hellish. Then one lady open her features & give a shreech just like painless dentistry when the gas ain't working good.

"What struck her?" I ask to know.

"Inspiration," narrate Hon. Guide. "She are singing."

The No-Dance.

I had no time to enjoy this phenomenal, for nextly I knew two (2) lines of kimonos commence walking across stage with ladies inside of them. Those was Geishas. They had their eyes fixed to look like slices of charcoal. Their hair was arranged like 9 yards of oilcloth. When they walk they stuck up their big toe to make them more enjoyable. Firstly they tuck up their fans & tuck down their faces. Then they tuck up their faces & tuck down their fans. Then they walk to other side of stage and do simular backwards. In meanwhiles Lady Singer were struck by another inspiration which seem to hurt her more horrible than ever.

"What you call that contraction they are doing?" I suggest from Hon. Japanese Guide.

"That are No-Dance," he assume.

"I know it are no dance," I renig, "but what are it?"

"No-Dance," he chop. "And if you do not like it, kindly to see it outside."

Therefore me & Nogi go to street of Kyoto and feel sorrow for ourselves that we just spend 2 yen or 80c. looking at homely ladies when such delerious ones can be observed for nothing while looking up hill amidst sweet doll-houses with curior lanterns & paper windows for economy.

Japanese is crazed about dancing, yet they could learn plenty from Broadway, which I are glad they don't. In any temple persons can have a sacred dance by paying slight cash-change. For instancely, when we go to Nara, holy hill with 1000000000 stone lanterns stuck all over it, we find priests there what wish show us dance, price 1 yen each. For that payment they put on golden pants, white lace kimonos & curior plug hats. After that they paste white mud on faces. Then they tinkle bells from their elbows while walking around on their heels.

Buddha Vanquishes the Earth-Quake.

"What this dance mean. If anything, I require of Hon. Guide.

"Nobody knows," he remove. "That are what make it so sacred to all who observe it."

Maybe China have got some taller Buddhas than Japan, but Japan measure them by weight & thickness, thusly beating the world, as usual. At Nara they got a Buddha who stand 53 1-2 ft high while setting down. He contain 500 tons of iron, which make him deliciously strong & hideous to look at. At Kamakura are a smaller Buddah, who are merely 50 feet high while setting. Yet he are so powerful that when Hon. Earthquack came along last Sept it just broke to pieces on that intense iron statue.

Although I have told you almost everything about Japan (except for the pajamas & silk shirts which are very cheap & look so when washed) I must not leave you without mantion of the calebratted Kyogen, or Laughing Play what we saw in that quant town of Nara.

Those Laughing Plays is so comickle that it require lifetime of study among philosophers, aquatics & astronomers not to smile in the wrong place.

I will tell you the Plot or Idea of one Kyogen I observe in Nara.

2000-Year-Old Joke.

Gentleman with difficult hat come in & dictate, "This are my watermelon field (laughter by boy hired to do so) I will now put up a scarecrow to keep off Plunderers or Stealers." (Laughter by all at signal of Okestra Leader).

Raggedy gentleman with Hooligan expression come in & corrode, "I are a Watermelon absconder and (mirth noises from everybody) I will steal those vegetables." Then he see Hon. Scarecrow. "Oh goshes! Some proprietor are here to guabb me!" Then he see that Scarecrow are merely that. "So-ho. What a comickle situation! (loud laughing). I shall now knock down Scarecrow & make him look slightly silly."

Now it are next night in the Play. Hon. Gentleman with Difficult Hat come back. He look see (please laugh here). 'So ha! What have became of my melon patch? I know! I shall stand here till that Hon. Stealer arrives again & give him some fisticuffs."

Pretty soonly Hon. Stealer come back & renig. "I are the same man who were here last night. For purposes of the Plot I have come back to draw some more Melons (now are time for good chukkle) & see what here? Somebody have put back Hon. Scarecrow to stottle me! So ha! I shall again make some comedy fun with that rag-imij & everybody shall be delighted by my behavior." With those remark he clutch his illegal hands to Hon. Proprietor who he have mistook to be Hon. Scarecrow. Both jump together then with considerable fried rage. "Oh I so sorrow now for my sinful behavior!" holla Hon. Stealer. So that are the last joke what make Hon. Curtain go down.

"This play was dishcovered 2000 yrs ago by Emperor Jimmi Tenno," dictate Hon. Guide. "This famus Emperor find that this were very funny act, so he got out royal manifesto telling his people where to laugh, where to bust into oudy McGuffaw & where to merely chuckel. It require 4 yrs of study in the Imperial School of Humorous Antidotes before a persor can behave while seeing a Kyogen."

"The antiquatty of that Play," I holla with reverence, "show the fierce quality that keep Japan alive more than 90 yrs."

Here are a few spattered statisticks what I learn about Japan before changing my ticket for So. Sea Islds, where I are now going:

Japanese calls their Emperor a Tenno. If you call him a Mikado they will say "European" with one of those stick-up looks they know how to do.

When talking to this Emperor or Tenno folks is required to whisper at him. This sound very polite & dishonest like a business conference on Tea Pot Dome.

When riding in Pullman cars Japanese gentlemen waits till American ladies gets on before undressing. Then they do so where they stand, not forgetting anything except curtains.

You can get from Yokohama to Tokyo in 40 minutes on a electric RR filled with commutors what look just like New Jersey would if it were a kimono.

Japanese AA Restrants are so sanitary that all flavor are washed out of the food before it are served. Japanese cooks learns their art in Los Angeles cafeterias & they always tastes like it.

Japanese ivory beads are all made of beef-bone. This are caused by the high price of elephants since the War.

Because of Govt Monopoly cigarettes in Japan costs 14c apiece. Cigarette cases can be purchased for same price. Both are pretty to look at and nothing else.

A Japanese jinricksha man are called a Human Horse & can make more money in a short distance than Papyrus before seeing America first.

These statisticks is all I know today, Mr. Editor. They make me ... of Japan & glad I wasn't born there.

Hoping you are the same

Yours truly,

HASHIMURA TOGO.

Crop and market reports sent out by radio from Washington have in many instances been the means of farmers literally picking dollars out of the air. Also use of the air mail in disuatching crop reports to the department of agriculture at Washington will be a tremendous advantage to agriculture and industry and means not only a great saving of time, but a shortening of the period between the receipt of the reports and the date of their release at

Potash & Perlmutter

By MONTAGUE GLASS

"Yes, Mawruss, people which moved to San Francisco from New York so as their relations couldnt' drop in on them unawares, is going to get badly fooled in thbe near future," Abe Potash remarked the other day, "which now that this here Lieutenant Maughan has proved that a man can eat an early brekafast in New York and a late dinner in San Francisco, Mawruss, it ain't safe no longer for a married woman in San Francisco to figure her dinner on the basis of two chops apiece for herself and her husband and one for the kitchen on the grounds that her husband ain't got a relation in the world nearer than the Borough of the Bronx."

"It's remarkable the way the aeroplane has annihilated time, distance and eighty per cent of the aviators," Morris Perlmutter observed, "so that while all them circumstances in combination make it possible for a business ma to leave New York on Monday morning at 7 o'clock and arrive in San Francisco by aeroplene that night at half past twelve, it makes it also practically certain that he would leave New York by train on Monday morning at 10 o'clock and arrive in San Francisco by the Oakland ferry on Friday afternoon at half past five. Anyhow, Abe, that's the way I expect to arrive in San Francisco until a trip in a cross-continent aeroplane becomes at least as safe as an operation for gall stones complicated by appendicitis."

"Of course I don't say that even a year from now the trans-continental railroads is going to be obliged to reduce their passenger fares in order to compete with the aeroplane companies, Mawruss," Abe said, "but the time is soon coming when anyhow moving picture manufacturers in Hollywood will be aeroplaning from Hollywood in the morning and arriving in New York that same night in time for an important business conference followed by a game of auction pinochle, or even just a game of auction pinochle without the important business conference."

When to Make a Forced Landing

"Well, as things stand at present in the aeroplane transportation business, Abe, a business man is more justified in taking a chance on reaching New York in time for an auction pinochle game rather than in time for an important business conference, because if the auction pinochle game don't take place on account of the aeropine developing tire trouble in Cheyenne, Wyoming, the disappointment might be greater but the damage would be less," Morris said "which I ain't trying to take away any credit from Lieutenant Maughan or from them American, French and English aviators which is flying around the world, y'understand, but in the present condition of the aeroplane business, Abe, the time it takes to fly from New York to San Francisco depends not so much on the speed of the aviator who operates the aeroplane in the sky as the quickness of the mechanic who repairs it on the ground when it lands en route.

"Because, Abe," Morris continued, "practically all these round-the-world aeroplanes has risen like a bird in Tokio or Calcutta and landed like a fireproof safe in Hong Kong or Ceylon, and while the aeroplane made the journey from Tokio to Hong Kong in a few hours, it seems to be the rule that the spare parts can't travel as fast as the aeroplane itself. In fact, Abe, during these here trans-continental air mail trips, not only has the aviator made a forced landing in places where there wasn't no spare parts, but in some cases here the landing was too forced. He didn't find in the town where he landed anyone who was willing to lend him the loan of an aeroplane for a few hours so that he could continue the journey."

"My impression is, Abe, that in most cases of forced landings, the landing happens first and two hours afterwards, they tell the aviator about it in the hospital."

"What I don't understand is, Mawruss, when does an aviator find out that he has to make a forced landing?" Abe inquired.

"I couldn't explain it in so many words," Morris replied, "but my impression is, Abe, that is most cases of forced landings, the landing happens first and two hours afterwards, they tell the aviator about it in the hospital. Which judging from the pictures in the illustrated Sunday supplements, Abe, only an expert junk dealer could tell an aeroplane which has just made a forced landing from a Ford which has just been struck by an eighteen-hour Chicago limited."

"Then how can the government afford to send a letter from New York to San Fraiscoco for sixteen cents," Abe exclaimed, "particularly when you consider the overhead of flying by aeroplane."

Scalping Preferable to Flying

"The overhead ain't in the flying, it's in the landing," Morris said. "All an aviator needs when he is in the air, is gas, oil, water and a little accident insurance, but as the aeroplane comes down the expenses goes up, and the faster it falls the higher they rise. A government mail-carrying aeroplaine which falls, couldn't possibly carry enough mail at sixteen cents per letter to pay for so much as the aviators' arnica. Furthermore, Abe, I doubt very much, even if the aviator escaped with just a couple of bruises, whether the government could make an aeroplane accident pay for itself at the ordinary sixteen cents letter rate."

"For that matter," Abe declared, "I bet yer that the government could send all of its aeroplane mail by telegraph as straight wires, even though every letter began: "My dear Friend: I hope you are quite well, as this letter leaves me at present, and would save money by charging only sixteen cents for every such letter no matter if it ended with two or three P. S.-s, about the weather and writing so on again.

"Which it's my idea, Mawruss," Abe continued, "that all these here aeroplane trips around the world and trans-continental mail plane trips are just to prove to the country that aeroplanes are good for something besides dropping bombs, y'understand, although I would flip a coin and take my chances either way."

"Well, probably when them people which crossed the continent in covered wagons and took two years to do it, read how the first trans-continental train covered the same distance in ten days, Abe, they went round saying that maybe the railroad trains was all right for the government to take a chance on with the United State mail, but they'd a whole lot liefer make the trip in a covered wagon and get conservatively bitten by buffaloes and scalped by Indians," Morris said.

"After all, Abe, quite a few people has come to grief on account of fast railroad trains being obliged to make a forced stop from being on the same track as another fast railroad train coming in the opposite direction, and therefore, if you're going to get hurt in a forced landing, it may just as well be in an aeroplane as a railroad train."

"Maybe!" Abe said. "But before I would be forced to land in an aeroplane, I would first got to be forced to fly in an aeroplane, because I ain't going to do it of my own free will."

"Well, no matter how you feel about flying, Abe," Morris observed, "you've got to hand it to Lieutenant Maughan that he flew to San Francisco from dawn to dusk in 21 and a half hours. It's certainly a record for the distance."

"It' anyhow a record for daylight," Abe commented.

The Fable of the Calumptious Girl

By GEORGE ADE.

Once there was a kittenish Senoritta condemned to dwell in a Piccolo Town out on a Spur Division of the Pinknsville Short Line.

It was one of those not-dead-but-sleeping Settlements with a Sheet-Iron Cornice on every Store Building and the Hack in which Gen. Sherman once rode still meeting the Trains.

It was one of the backwood Places in which the Barber Shops were still patronized by the Men and the Drug Stores sold Medicines.

All the older Citizens were sitting back on their Surplus trying to hatch out 9 per cent. Any one suggesting a Public Improvement was led into Court House Square and publicly beheaded.

A Girl with a real Jamaica Ginger coursing through her Arteries did not have a Look-In so long as she was hung up at this Whistling Post, where every Meeting of the Research Club was a Poultry Exhibit and the local Astor played a Brown Derby in conjunction with the extreme Soup and Fish.

So the Senoritta, by name Madeleine, used to burst into Tears every time she saw a Train pulling away from the Depot, for she certainly had laid the Soubrette's Curse on Home, Sweet Home.

She had read those large explosive articles in the Family Department of the Sunday Paper telling how the Smart Set hang by their Toes from Chandeliers and jumped into Public Fountains, and she panted for the wild Life of the Idle Rich.

Elected a Full Sister.

Now it happened that Madeleine had a married Female Cousin living on the corner of Easy Street and Epicurean Avenue up in the Big Town where People hated the sight of a Brass Bedstead.

Cousin invited Madeleine to come and see her, out of mere Politeness for she had the Country Lass sized up as a Myrtle Killjoy, whose Limit probably would be a Burton Holmes Lecture or a rollicking Afternoon at at the Tea Shop.

Madeleine saw that she was down in Class B and would have to make un immediate Demonstration of Form to avoid being permanently Benched or sent back to the Bush League.

Consequently, as soon as she found herself in the Main Drawing Room among the Ruperts and Rosalinds, she began to break Furniture and do Head Spns on the Bokharas. Thereupon she was elected a full Sister of the gladsome Bunch She sent Home for all of her Things and more Coin and applied for an advanced Degree in the Grand Lodge of the Knights and Ladies of Insomnia.

Is it not the Truth that all of the impressive Speed Records have been established by Lads and Lassies who moved in from the Sticks and were not permitted to play Cards when they were young? All those who migrate from Sleepy Hollow find that they have been overlooking a lot of Excitement so they start in to make up for Lost Time.

Madeleine burned up the Track every day. In one month she had entirely remodeled her Figure and landscaped her Hair into a new design and carefully picked each broad Western "R" out of her Vocabulary, and she would walk right up to a French Bill of Fare without the quiver of an Eye-Lash. Also she could hand out that Dear Boy line of Apple Sauce to all of those rugged and self-made Bucks who get back to Earth every Day at 5 p. m. and begin calling feebly for Barbers and Masseurs and Manicures and Nerve Specialists and Synthetic Products.

Madeleine Spreads Her Wings.

She learned that Rough House lost all Social Stigma if pulled off at 2 a. m. in a Private Resort with a Striped Awning in front and a Carpet leading down to the Landing Stage.

Her Folks kept writing her to come back Home because the Ladies of the Guild were about to have a Bazaar, but she stalled as long as she could, and when she finally packed up the Wardrobe Trunks and the eight kinds of Massage Cream, she extracted a promise from Cousin and several other Desperate Characters that they would come out into the Wilderness and give the Rummies a Touch of Life.

It was the first time that Madeleine had spread her Wings and hit the rarefield Strata. For a Beginner she was there with the Spread. She made the American Eagle look like a Wren.

As soon as she arrived back home she began to turn the Old Family Residence upside down and get it stocked up, just like a Club, for the Hot Babies from the Metropolis.

She wanted to prove to the Fossils that she was no Nine o'clock Sal and she wanted the Saps to find out that the Swells were not shaving the Neck or wearing Cameo Stick-pins.

It was a portentous Day for the Yap Town when the Lumpty Tums came out from the City to spill a little Sunshine into the Dark Places.

The Real Things arrived on a special Car with their Hats down over their Ears and were more or less obscured by Dogs and English Help and Cigarette Smoke. As they rode up Main Street there was a Pale Face in every window. Just as the Parade passed the High School, the tall Smoke-Stack over at the Hominy Mills fell with a Loud Crash.

That Afternoon there was a smell of Moth Balls in many a Refined Home, for all who had learned to take Soup from the Side of the Spoon were under Royal Command to come up and get a private Peek at the Imported Gentry.

Father Gives a Faint Moan.

It was to be a Dinner followed by a Small Dance. If it had been a full-sized Affair, no doubt Father would now be working by the Day.

Madeleine was out to do things right. She hoped to pull off something not unlike a Court Function at Buckingham Palace. It was her Wish that the Party would be talked about for Years to come, and she got her Wish.

Instead of the customary 3 Carnations and 1 Maiden-Hair Fern gracing the center of the Board, the terrified Guests saw a Wagon-Load of tropical Bloom which pleased them very much as soon as each had secreted a new kind of Cocktail, served in a Goblet, with a Stick of Dynamite substituted for the Olive.

When the Father of Madeleine discovered that the Real Stuff was being served right under his own Roof he put up a feeble Holler and allowed it was agin the Law, but Daughter told him not to be Provincial and he lay quiet for a Spell after that.

The usual Fiddlers who worked in the Furniture Factory during the Daytime were not to be seen. An imported Bunch of Jazz Devils played several of those "Oh! Oh!" Pieces while waiters kept on serving new kinds of Foods, together with moist Trimmings.

The Conversation sounded like a Roman Mob and many Local Characters who had remained in Obscurity for Years came out of their Pods and began to hop about and sing in the Sunlight.

Members of the Married Women's Safety League were hanging out Signs of Distress and trying to give Warning Signals, but Madeleine would not permit them to crab her Little Party. She wanted to show the Boobs just how these Recherche Functions are stage-managed in Upper Circles.

Accordingly they all felt their Way to the Front Room, where they Found awaiting them a Bowl of Artillery Punch about the size of Lake Erie, and no more Harm in a full Bumper than there is in a Rattle-Snake.

Madeleine headed off a Two-Step and told Friends and Neighbors to sit back close to the Wall with a Piece of Ice in each Hand and get Wise to the latest Stuff.

Now a Free and Unrestricted Wife.

Then she and her Friends pinned up their Garments and put Resin on their Hands and cut Loose. They did the Grizzly Bear and the Mountain Goat and the Kangaroo Flop and the Duck Waddle and the Giraffe Jump and the Rhinoceros Roll and the Walrus Wiggle and the Crocodile Splash and the Apache and the Comanche and the Bowery Twist and the Hula Hula Glide, etc., etc., etc.

The Fire Department began carrying out Bodies at 12:30 a. m. Some of the Survivors were hurrying Home through the Alleys wondering if they could fix up Alibis. At Daybreak many Prominent Citizens were found Miles from their usual Haunts, wandering aimlessly in the Woods and shouting, "Take it away!"

Next afternoon the Male Parent of Madeleine crawled out from under the Wreckage and said to his Only Daughter: "You are too Progressive for us Farmers. Take your Trained Troupe of Society Acrobats and get out of Town. The Masked Brotherhood are now gathering in the Outskirts."

Madeleine simply retorted that the Dances were being done in the most Exclusive Homes.

Note—An Exclusive Home is one from which the Police are Excluded.

Of course she never dared to return to her Birthplace after this Scandalous Performance. She had to remain in the Cruel City as the free and unrestricted Wife of a gilded Gink with an income of $22 a Minute.

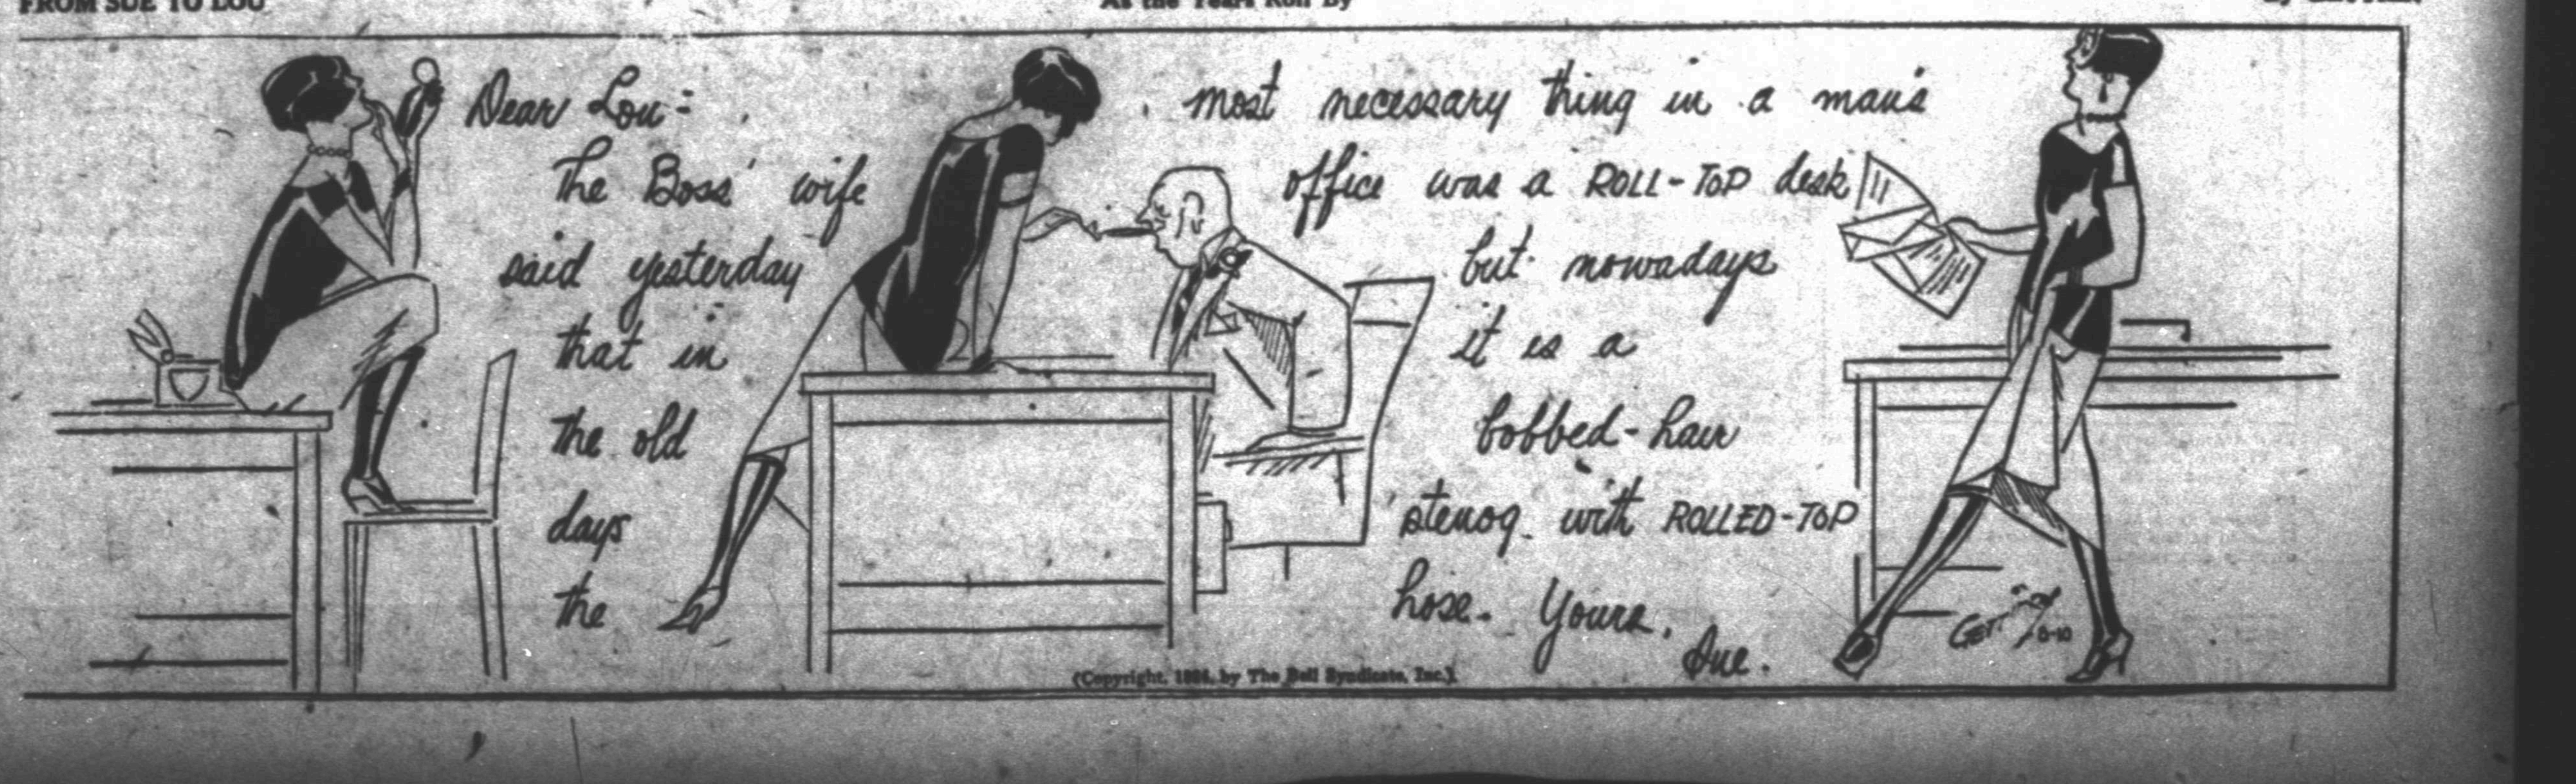

Moral: The Pioneer must ever brave hardships.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

Is a House of One Room the Most Healthful?

This New Type of One-Room House Has One Large Room, and a Parallel Room of Nearly the Same Size at the Rear, Containing Kitchen and Laundry.

Floor Plan of the One-Room House, Designed to Be Opened to the Light and Air by Seven French Doors and Four Full-Length Windows.

CAN a family live a more artistic, more healthful and more comfortable life in a house which contains one room than is now lived in houses of from five to twenty-five rooms? Bernard Maybeck, designer of the Palace of Fine Arts at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, who has designed and supervised the construction of scores of public buildings and private homes, and who is internationally known as an architect, believes that it can be done. Out of his many years of experience as an architect he has designed a one-room house, intended to accommodate families of any number from two up, and offers rather strong physiological and psychological reasons for the superiority of this type of dwelling. For a number of years people living in tropical America have developed and built the one-room house; in fact, the Aztecs and the Mayas had such buildings, and the Spaniards adapted them to their own uses.

This design by Mr. Maybeck, however, seems to be the first attempt to utilize deliberately the one-room house as a factor in American housing, its only prior use in the United States having been by the pioneers to save labor and to economize on materials. Mr. Maybeck designed this unusual house and told of his reasons for working out such a plan to H. H. Dunn, a contributor to the Illustrated World. As the mature attempt of a man famous in his field of work to simplify to some degree the complexity of modern life, the idea is well worthy of serious consideration by architects and builders as well as home-owners. Since the Maybeck idea is to incorporate house and garden into one compact entity called "home," it comprehends the enclosing of the ground in a hedge, or ornamental forestry, to obtain greater privacy, and to equip each home with all the most modern labor-saving devices in the way of electric equipment, so that less space will be required for the actual processes of sustaining life, such as cooking, bathing and washing the family clothes.

"The one-room house," says Mr. Maybeck, "is calculated to make living more natural and healthful by introducing more of the outdoors into daily, or even hourly, existence. It makes for simplicityb yy putting the money and effort usually scattered over a number of rooms and much furniture into a compact yet adequate space. It makes for beauty, in a similar way; with less furniture, fewer rooms can be made more attractive and finer on a given outlay of time, money, effort and space. Imagine the main room, large, and either square or rectangular, or any shape the builder or owner may desire. Take one side or one end; extend this end into an alcove, that might be called a kitchen, or, as they did in the old days, the 'scullery.'

"This extension is the 'stomach' of the house. Equip it electrically with the finest labor-saving devices on the market—an electric stove, electric dish-washer, electric washing machine and ironer, and ventilate properly. Have your receptacle for refuse on a slide which moves in and out through a wall panel, and you have eliminated the main objection to the kitchen in the house—the disagreeable odors of cooking. With French doors from this alcove leading out to a wide porch, the housewife can move her machine in and out of the house according to the weather and do a great deal of her work outdoors.

"The dining table should be of such dimensions and so shod with rubber-tired casters that it can be rolled into the alcove for preparation and, when the food is all laid upon it, rolled out again for any meal of the day. On fine days it can be pushed outside on the veranda, which should entirely surround the one-room house. We cannot live too much outdoors for our own physical and mental well-being, and one of the greatest advantages of the one-room house is that it permits so much of life to be spent outdoors."

French doors, or "ventanas," as the Spaniards call them, are important factors in the one-room house, according to Mr. Maybeck's design, and the plan approximates that of the Japanese house, with its screen walls, which can be thrown open to the extent of leaving little of the house save the roof and floor.

"Take the sleeping problem next," says Mr. Maybeck. "Wall beds can be so constructed that they will open for either indoor or outdoor sleeping, according to weather conditions and the sleeper's desires. Where more than two such beds are needed, they can be constructed in tiers, not unlike Pullman berths, and curtains used for privacy or for shelter when the beds are turned outside through pivotal openings in the wall of the house. Old Dutch beds, handsomely carved, could be taken as models, and these wall beds make beautiful ornaments to the house when not in use. Additional wardrobe space could be contrived easily at either end of each bed. Two dressing rooms also occupy one corner of this huge room, and a bath and lavatory is provided, as shown in the diagram. A cabinet space on the opposite long wall will furnish a place for clothing."

The Maybeck plan calls for a fireplace, since he holds that family life centers about the fireplace or should be led to center there. On either side of this fireplace are more full-length French doors, the main entrances to the one-room house, though there are six such window-doors in the plan of the house built for two persons, which is shown herewith, so that one may enter or leave this house from any side. These bring the outdoors indoors, according to the Maybeck plan, and his idea is that we need to take life into the outdoors, or bring the outdoors into our lives more than we do. This is one of the main reasons for the one-room house.

"The exterior, like the interior, is a matter of individual taste," Mr. Maybeck explains, "but a one-room house, like a six-room, can be developed successfully in wood, brick, plaster, cement or any other building material. Wide eaves are most becoming to the one-room house that I have in mind, though they may be skeletonized to permit more light—as wide eaves frequently are in houses in the balmy climate of San Francisco Bay—or built solidly and heavily, the drooping eaves lending a picturesque and individual charm to any dwelling."

An integral part of the one-room house should be the garden, in the designer's opinion. The many doors bring the perfume of the wildwood directly into the house and invite the dwellers out into the garden. Sunshine and fresh air come wandering in freely, and the children of the household scarcely know the inside from the outside; house and garden are equally home to them. Each house, in Mr. Maybeck's opinion, should be snuggled in behind a hedge or miniature grove of trees of some sort. He would have shrubbery so planted that each house seems to be half hidden in a tiny forest of its own. This would do away with harshness or bareness of outline in many houses and "would make the architect also a landscape gardener. When that time comes," he continued, "there will no longer be any need for the architect. The city of dreams will rise, clearly and beautifully, the harmonious dwelling place for a better race, living a better life, more close to nature."

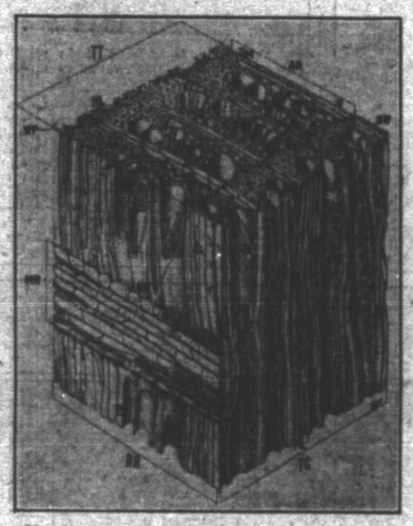

Does PAINT Prevent WOOD from DECAYING?

DOES painting actually preserve wood? And if so, how? The question is not so simple as it seems. Ask the timber pathologist, and the answer is that there is nothing in ordinary paint which is poisonous to fungi and therefor it does not prevent decay by any antiseptic action. So far as known, decay occurs and can only occur through the action of fungi. He will say, furthermore, that paint may even induce rapid decay by keeping the wood damp on the inside, retarding its rapid drying when placed in a situation where it frequently is subject to wetting—in other words, introducing a factor of lag in the wet-dry cycle.

The word technologist, moreover, will tell you that paint does not prevent the absorption of moisture from the air. With undoubtedly a retardant, it does not act as a moisture-proof seal; and nothing but hermetically sealing up the wood will prevent its ultimately absorbing moisture if exposed to a damp condition long enough. Some forms of varnish are better in this respect, shellac is good and paraffin is better still. Three coats of spar varnish may postpone the final action for a month or two, but linseed oil paint, even in heavy coatings, will only delay the evil a few weeks. Consequently the "working" of wood—its shrinkage and swelling with exposure to dry and to damp air for considerable lengths of time—cannot be prevented by painting or varnishing. This phenomenon is only too familiar to every householder as well as woodworker through the shrinkage and swelling of floors, doors, picture frames and furniture. In heated rooms in Winter the moisture content will drop four or five per cent of the dry weight, and in Summer, with outdoor conditions in the house, it will rise to 12 or 14 per cent or may even reach 18 or 20, with attendant sticking of drawers and rubbing of doors.

Now suppose you go to the builder or the practical man in general and ask him about this matter of paint. His verdict, based on years of experience, will of course be that painting is highly beneficial in protecting the wood.

Are the technical men wrong? Or can these apparently conflicting ideas be reconciled somehow?

TT: section across the grain. RR: radial surface ("quarter-sawed" or "edge-grain"). TG: surface tangential or parallel to the annual rings ("flat-grain"). MR: medullary rays. V: vessels. F: wood fibers. S, SM: "springwood" and "summerwood" portions of the ring. P: pits. RG: gratings at longitudinal junctions of vessels.

The answer, as H. D. Tiemann, of the United States Forest Products Laboratory, explains in the Scientific American, lies in the behavior of wood to the influence of moisture, a manner of behavior which is not generally understood. All the statements made are true, and it is interesting to follow out the way in which paint actually does prevent or retard the destruction of wood. We need not appreciate paint less for knowing wood better.

Some of the phenomena which takes place when wood dries will need explanation. Perhaps the most important of these is the peculiar propensity of wood to become "set" or fixed in the position and dimensions in which it is held while it dries. While wet, and particularly when warm, it is somewhat plastic and may be distorted to a certain extent by applied forces. If the forces are applied continuously during the drying, the wood will harden and retain the distortion even after the forces are removed.

This statement applies not only to the piece as a whole, but also and more especially to the internal structure. Suppose a piece of wood which has been thoroughly moistened is prevented by framing or bracing from shrinking until it is dry; it will become "set" in its expanded condition, and will remain enlarged after the bracing has been removed. The internal stresses set up at the start seem to have disappeared entirely. But they have only become latent, as it were; and if the wood is remoistened they will again reappear in full force and effect. For example, if a piece of bentwood be remoistened it will tend to straighten out, particularly if heated. The hardening process is thus quite a different thing from the hardening of cement, where the stresses do not thus become latent, and it should not be thought of in the same way.

The actual internal mechanism of wood behavior under moisture changes is unknown; but in order to picture what will occur in wood under given circumstances the following analogy may help. Imagine a honeycomb in which the cell walls are composed of a substance which is plastic and somewhat elastic, like rubber, when wet, but loses these properties when dry, hardening in whatever shape it is held while drying. Furthermore, suppose that the substance itself swells and shrinks with moisture changes. Suppose we take a wet block of this honeycomb and compress it by an external applied force. The result will be that the cells will become distorted; instead of being hexagonal they will become more elliptical in outline. Now let the substance be dried while being held in this distorted condition. The walls will at first stiffen up and lose their elasticity so that there is no longer any tendency for the cells to resume their hexagonal form, the stresses thus disappearing or becoming latent. This is an explanation, or a fairly good picture at least, of the "setting" of wood in a distorted shape or size when it dries.

At this stage a further important effect of drying will occur; the same process will be noted when we come to the actual phenomena of wood. The wall-substance itself, according to our hypothesis, will begin to shrink, and the result will be that the block as a whole will finally reach a smaller size than it would have done had no compression been applied

Why EYEGLASSES Are NECESSARY

THE eye is not a perfect optical instrument, for it is much like a camera, and if the eyeball is not shaped perfectly the image falls either before or behind the sensitive film (the retina) instead of on it. Such eyes are spoken of as "too long" or "too short." They can see sometimes well and sometimes poorly, but never without strain.

"Constant use of such optically defective eyes exhausts the nervous energy," says a writer in Hygeia. "Imagine the photographer attempting to make the lightning changes of focus that the defective eye is called on to make! It would be impossible for him to perform these rapid and constant changes, and he would be a nervous wreck long before the day was over if he tried. Yet this is what many eyes are called on to do.

"In the eye is a ring-shaped muscle that changes its focus, as the photographer's hand changes the focus of his camera. The nerve impulse to make the change, in each case, comes from the brain.

"The perfect eye, in our urban life of to-day, has a task sufficient in making adjustments. The normal eye need not adjust its focus for seeing at a distance of twenty feet or more, but an eyeball that is too short or too long in all or any of its meridians must make an adjustment (accommodation, it is called) at all distances; therefore, the labor of such eyes is enormously increased.

"Glasses, it is generally known, do nothing whatever to the eye, but they bend the rays of light entering the eye so that they fall on the retina as if the eye were of normal shape. That is the reason why we wear glasses.

"Centuries ago the Chinese instituted the use of glasses for old people doing close work. They were found to magnify objects and thus assist failing eyesight, but the constant use of glasses is a modern discovery.

"Prescribing glasses is often considered a simple task. It is not. A person is fitted to do this task properly only after years of such training as can be given only in medical schools.

"In fitting glasses, the doctor often makes use of a drug that greatly aids him in determining the glasses needed. Without the use of this drug—which is one of the greatest discoveries in medicine—accuracy in fitting glasses, especially for the young, is almost impossible. The drug dilates the pupil and puts the muscles of accommodation at rest. It also enables the physician to see deep inside the eye, and if disease is present there he can readily detect it."

"Stone Rainbow" Is a Natural Bridge

NOT far from where the Colorado River, augmented by the waters of the Escalante, unites with the San Juan River in Utah there is a massive natural stone bridge which the Indians call "na-gee-lid non-ne-zo-shi," or "rainbow-turned-to-stone." It stands within the shadow of the Navajo Mountain, almost on the Arizona border. Devout Indians will not pass beneath the great arch without saying prayers to their Supreme Being. According to Navajo mythology, a rainbow was there turned to stone to permit a hero-god to escape the flood waters of the canyon. An ancient shrine still stands near one wall.

According to the National Geographic Magazine, only 300 white men, including the late ex-President Roosevelt, have seen this marvel of nature. It was discovered fourteen years ago by Prof. Dean Byron Cummings, John Wetherill and Neil M. Judd. The aproach was then very dangerous.

"Not all of those who have seen Rainbow Bridge came with reverence in their hearts," remarks Mr. Judd. "One stranger, for instance, seems to have had as his chief object in visiting the stone bridge the opportunity to be able to tell his grandchildren that he was the first man to drive a golf ball over the stately arch." The bridge is in a wild and desolate section of the country; in fact, the region to the northeast was explored for the first time only recently.

The HIGHEST PICTURE Ever TAKEN

THE most recent achievement of the Army Air Service is the taking of a photograph from a plane 31,640 feet up, the loftiest altitude from which a picture was ever made with a camera.

The photograph presents to the view nineteen square miles of the city of Dayton, Ohio. A special type of camera was used, fastened to the side of the plane in such a way as to point directly downward.

The Aerial Camera with Which a Photograph of an Area of Nineteen Square Miles Was Taken at an Altitude of 31,540 Feet.

The altitude mentioned is nearly six miles. That is pretty high. What would it seem like to be flying so high as that? No more danger than at 1,000 feet; but the wind blows a fierce gale all the time, and the air is so thin that the aviator can hardly get enough of it into his lungs to supply the oxygen he needs to keep him alive.

Roughly speaking, the density of the atmosphere is halved for every three miles of ascent. Thus at six miles it is only about one-fourth as dense as at sea-level.

Water at that altitude would boil at a much lower temperature than at the surface of the earth; and inasmuch as water in an open vessel cannot rise above boiling point, it would be correspondingly less hot.

Hence, if an aviator flying at a height of six miles, were to attempt to boil an egg in a saucepan, about twelve minutes would be required to cook it to the ordinary three-minute stage of breakfast perfection.

Watermelon Seeds a Table Delicacy

IN ITS studies of the control of watermelon diseases the United States Department of Agriculture has found that there are numerous uses for watermelons outside of their consumption as a popular fruit. Housewives have long been familiar with pickles and preserves made from watermelon rind.

In China and other Oriental countries watermelon seed is used as a table delicacy. Seedmen in this country not only ship seed for this purpose but also find a market for their product in the Chinese districts of New York and San Francisco. This liking for the seed is evidently not restricted to the Orient, for some years ago a well-known explorer reported an African tribe that sharpened the teeth in order to better strip the hulls from watermelon seeds. Within recent years a firm in Alabama has undertaken to manufacture vinegar from the juice, and from Russia came reports that during the past few years of hardship concentrated watermelon juice has been used in place of sugar to sweeten coffee.

COTTON More USEFUL Than STEEL

EVERY human being that walks the earth uses cotton—by day, by night, in war and peace.

The cotton you use in your clothing, your household, in thousands of ways, is by and large the most important single thing in the world. It is the most important of all known fibre plants. It affects more directly the comfort and convenience of modern peoples than steel or rubber.

It is the foundation of a two billion dollar industry, affecting directly the bread of millions of workers in this and other industries in the United States, the most important of cotton producing countries. Here is produced more than half of the world's crop, the American output annually varying from ten to sixteen million bales of 500 pounds each.

American raw cotton went overseas in 1923 in the value of $500,000,000, according to the National Foreign Trade Council, and in manufactures to the value of $138,000,000, without reference to cotton machinery or hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of automobile tires, raincoats, shoes, carpets, linoleums and other exports in which cotton is used.

Imports of cotton piece goods in 1923 totalled 219,010,307 square yards, valued at $47,138,033, likewise without reference to imported articles containing cotton.

Cotton cloth was the first article of exchange in the New World. The first foreign traders to cross the Atlantic and leave records were the crews of Columbus, some four and a quarter centuries ago. They wanted cotton.

Said Columbus of the natives of the islands of the West Indies, where cotton grew and where it was woven, "They also traded cotton and gold for pieces of bows, bottles, jugs and jars like persons without reason, which I forbade because it was very wrong."

Columbus explained: "Both sexes go naked except some of the women, who use a covering of a leaf or some foliage, or a cotton cloth which they make themselves for that purpose."

While the United States is to-day the big home of cotton, its original home is unknown. Cotton was known in India 800 years B. C. Cotton cloth was a luxury among the Romans, linen being their staple article for cloth.

It was nearly three centuries after this visit of Columbus and only a brief century and a quarter ago that the people of the United States became traders in cotton.

New England traders sold the cotton and cloth of the West Indies to Europe in small quantities. It was with the invention of the Arkwright spinning gin in England, the Eli Whitney cotton gin here, that cotton cloth began to assume its commercial importance.

Lovely, Luckless Julia Hoyt

How Each Pretty Bubble She Blows---Whether of Romance or Fame or Riches--- Seems Doomed to Be Shattered by a Mysterious Jinx.

Mrs. Hoyt's Former Home in Washington Square Where She Lived When She Moved Exclusively in the "400." (Mr. Hoyt, Inset in Circle).

THE gods that presided over the birth of lovely Julia Robbins Hoyt apparently laid it on thick when they started in to fit her out with a suitable equipment of characteristics and qualities. First they gave her social position. Then, in an unwonted streak of generosity, they threw in a really lustrous beauty. And then—as if that weren't enough already—they gave her wealth; not great wealth, to be sure, but enough to sustain the first two gifts in adequate style.

But there must have been a trick in it somewhere—at least, that's what the lovely Mrs. Hoyt and all her intimates believe. For the girl with a beauty that a million women have envied and a social eminence that almost any aspiring outsider would have suffered agony and bloody sweat to attain is now known as "Unlucky Julia."

This description is not applied in irony; they all mean it seriously and literally—most of all Mrs. Hoyt. Beauty and position to her were matters of course. The fair rewards she sought were in other fields. She wanted perfect love and artistic eminence. Both have evaded her.

When Mrs. Hoyt recently instituted divorce proceedings in Paris against a more than willing husband, a prominent New York matron who had known her since childhood threw out her hands expressively.

"Pauvre Julia," she exclaimed. "Another failure!"

Probably Mrs. Hoyt would think differently. It was her married life with Mr. Lydig Hoyt that was a failure for both of them, and the divorce, she believes, will give her complete freedom to prosecute the dramatic and artistic career that has been so close to her heart in the last four or five years. Perhaps she also hopes that the companion goal of high romantic love may be reached at the same time.

Mrs. Hoyt, in short, is not faint-hearted, even though her dreams of achievement and romance have been iridescent bubbles that one by one were shattered as she looked at them.

Julia Hoyt was born Julia Robbins, the daughter of Julian Robbins, of New York, and before she was out of short dresses her unusual beauty made her an object of marked attention. Lovely Julia also had a doting mother; in fact, Mrs. Robbins doted so strongly on her daughter's charms, and talked so continuously about them, that many of her friends began to avoid her.

It is also recorded that Julia, as a growing girl—not unconscious of her appearance—was high-strung, petulant and hard to manage. She had a perverse fondness for things she wasn't allowed to have—a quality that has now reached a stage where it may be called, in the terminology of the psychoanalyst, a "complex."

No amount of short temper, however, could discourage that ardent battalion of wooers that surrounded her and fell across her path immediately after she was officially exposed to society's gaze. And when, in 1914, she married Lydig Hoyt, the son of an old New York family, and a former police commissioner, it was generally concluded that she couldn't escape a career of complex and brilliant social activity.

Scene from the Film Play "The Wonderful Thing" Showing Mrs. Hoyt with Norma Talmadge.

Mrs. Lydig Hoyt, the Former Julia Robbins, Photographed While an Active Member of the Exclusive Summer Colony at Newport.

"Mrs. Hoyt's dreams of achievement and romance have been iridescent bubbles that one by one were shattered as she looked at them."

But Mrs. Hoyt was never interested in Smart Society as such. In fact, she was inclined to doubt that any mysterious distinction or esoteric dignity lay in merely having a house on the right side of town, and being confined, in one's acquaintances, to a particular set.

Her marriage to Mr. Hoyt she regarded more in the light of an excursion into romance than as a consolidation of two old families. Incidentally, friends of Mr. Hoyt declare that their marriage might have continued to be a romance if her enthusiasm had not been diverted from domestic to artistic and dramatic channels.

Just how important a part her artistic ambitions played in bringing about the differences that arose between Mrs. Hoyt and her husband, is known only to those two. Mr. Hoyt is quoted as saying that he refused to share his wife with Broadway. But however that be, it was certainly in the cards that lovely Julia would one day feel drawn to the professional stage.

Before marriage she was trained under one of the most capable dramatic instructors on the Continent. She took a prominent part in society theatricals, and from time to time various Broadway managers would offer her small parts. It was not unnatural, then, that when she found increased emptiness in the social life that she should begin to weigh seriously the possibility of a stage career.

Her first appearance as a professional actress was not on the stage, however, but in moving pictures. She was engaged to support Norma Talmadge in "The Wonderful Thing." That was her last picture. She wasn't a frost. Her director spoke only polite words of praise for her work. But it was generally understood that her success—if it could be called such—was only lukewarm, and that she could never hope to achieve stardom.

Mrs. Hoyt, therefore, abandoned pictures. She was next seen on the stage with William Faversham in "The Squaw Man," and followed that up by supporting Billie Burke in "Rose Brier." Subsequently she filled engagements with the Stuart Walker repertoire company in Indianapolis and Baltimore.

The general verdict was that she was "competent." That—and no more. Many a professional actress would have been satisfied with this, but not the flaming Julia. She hadn't turned her back on Park avenue and encouraged disputes with her husband merely to gain a comfortable mediocrity.

Meanwhile lovely Julia had been absorbed by bohemian and artistic circles. Her name began to appear in F. P. A.'s column. She was courted by the intelligentsia. And—most significant of all—she struck up a friendship with Jascha Heifetz, the world's famous violinist.

When it became reported that Mrs. Hoyt was journeying to Paris with divorce intentions, the same rumor said that the violinist might be Mr. Hoyt's successor. But, almost immediately thereafter that remarkable story of how Mr. Heifetz had "sworn off women for a month" came out.

Mrs. Hoyt was sure that any such oath excepted her, and she went around to Heifetz's apartment to find out. A suave Japanese butler is said to have confirmed the rumor very emphatically and refused her admittance. Mrs. Hoyt declined to discuss the matter—and was next heard of in Paris.

Although Mrs. Hoyt says she will continue her stage career, her friends shake their heads and say she will never be seen behind the footlights again.

"She'll try something else," they declared.

But what? At this writing, lovely, luckless Julia's career has been a series of misfires and anti-climaxes—which to her is worse than failure. She is neither fish, flesh, fowl nor good red herring; neither society woman, actress nor intellectual.

"Pauvre Julia!"

Will High Shoes and Oxfords Supersede Slippers and Pumps?

The Revolt Against Thick Ankles Diverts Attention to the High Shoe

VERY high shoes appear as distinct novelties in the show cases of some of the smartest shoe dealers. One is of suede laced very high, with a narrow patent-leather tip. Another, entirely of black patent leather, shows straps of the patent leather from the turn of the instep to the top and these fasten with buttons and button holes. A storm shoe of medium height shows a broad, flat heel. The shoe laces together with an over piece of leater from the back of the heel that buckles together at the ankle.

But the shoemaker who presents these shoes frankly says that he does not expect to sell them except to actresses. The rest of womankind, he feels convinced, will remain faithful to low shoes—slipper, oxford, pump.

Another well-known maker of smart footgear says emphatically that the only real change he expects to make is to get away from the fancy and elaborate shoes and to make them as simple as possible. This is in response to a demand from his discriminating customers for a simpler, more distinctive type of foot covering.

On the other hand there seems to be a widespread feeling among shoe dealers and women who wear the shoes that high shoes are going to be worn more the coming autumn and winter than they were.

High Shoes Indoors.

"When we get together after the store is closed," says a young shoe saleswoman much interested in her work of fitting shoes to well-dressed women, "and report on what calls have been made that we have not been able to fill, there are always requests for more high shoes. And the demand seems to be increasing. A variety of high shoes is going to be part of our new stock for autumn, and I think we'll be able to sell them, too. It isn't so much that there's going to be an actual style demand for them;" continued this young woman, "it's a litle too soon to expect that, but there are a whole lot of women who have decided to wear high shoes at least part of the time so that the rest of the time they will be able to show slender ankles. Yes, the demad now is for high shoes for house wear and low cut shoes for the street."

The physical-culture expert might be able to convince you that the fuller ankles of the present generation of young women were more to be admired than the slenderer ankles that women possessed before low shoes became so generally worn. The girl who used to wear tightly laced shoes when she walked or played golf or indulged in other sorts of exercise sometimes thought that she was giving her ankles necessary support, keeping them from spreading. But the physical culture expert might dispute this point. What she was probably doing was preventing the normal development of her ankle muscles. The really strong ankles are the ankles that have been given room enough to develop. You really do hear of fewer cases of strained and sprained ankles now-a-days because low shoes are the rule rather than the exception among women. Even little children nowadays often take their first steps in low shoes—some doctors insist on it—and in so doing start in developing the muscles of their ankles. But their ankles will not be so slender as were the ankles of a former generation. Of course there is difference of opinion as to just what constiutes a beautiful ankle. Undoubtedly the very slender ankle makes the foot it carries appear larger than the same foot would appear attached to a normally developed ankle. Then too it sometimes happens that the size of the ankle is due not to muscular development but to swelling, which is kept down by the strapping or lacing of the ankle. "This of course is a condition that ought to be treated at its source, as a physical disorder of some sort.

Women Covet Slender Ankles

Enough women there still are who covet an unaturally slender akle to be responsible for this present-time demand for high shoes for house wear. Some women who do their own housework, in whole or in part, or who take care of their own children or potter in the garden have adopted the plan of wearing high laced white canvas shoes for working hours. These give the necessary lightness without much addtional weight or warmth.

One young girl of eighteen grumbles to herself because her forty-year-old mother has slenderer ankles than she. "Mother stays at home most all day," she says, "and when she's home she wears high shoes. Then when she does go out she has slender ankles to show. But with anyone always on the go the way I am that sort of thing can't be done. Why, you often see housemaids nowadays with trimmer ankles than their mistresses. They wear high shoes for their busy hours in the morning, then when they put on black slippers with their afternoon uniform they have ankles that a chorus girl might covet."

It may after all be that a returning admiration for the unnaturally slender ankle will have more influence in bringing high shoes back into fashion—for certain hours of the day at least—than weariness of low shoes. For truly women everywhere seem to be concerned because their ankles are less slender since low shoes have permitted them to become more muscular. In more than one smart shop can now be bought devices for reducing the size of the ankles without wearing high shoes. And women take pains to reduce their ankles just as they do their double chin, thick upper arms and too prominent bust or diaphram.

These ankle reducers may be worn at night if preferred though they are quite light and thin and are often worn beneath the stockings with low shoes or slippers.

At one of the smart shoe shops the prediction was made that autumn would bring forth a new sort of high shoe with an inset of rubber at the side—a sort of revived Congress galter. These shoes it is said have already been worn by a few smart Parisians. They are simply pulled on—no bother with laces or buttons. Of course the objection to these is that they have no advantage to the woman who is inclined to wear high shoes for the sake of her ankles, for they give very little more support to the ankle than do low shoes.

How About Oxfords?

To most Americans the high-heeled laced Oxford smacks strongly of Paris. It is, in fact, a type of shoe, especially when combined with a somewhat short vamp, that always appeals more strongly to the European woman than to the American, who usually find the chubby, stocky outline that such a shoe is inclined to give rather unattractive.

Six months ago the prediction was strong that Oxfords were going to be revived. In fact certain women of very discriminating taste did wear them last spring. They were usually made to order for this discriminating minority. The shoemaker who, feeling that this flash in the pan was significant of coming taste, laid in a goodly supply of high-class high-heeled Oxfords only to find himself forced to sell them later on at a trifle in order to get them off his shelves, was in bad luck.

At present at most shoe shops where smart women go for their shoes the fact is that there is an increasing demand for Oxfords, and the usual answer is, after showing only two or three models of Oxfords, "we expect a larger variety of Oxfords in for autumn."

Black patent leather Oxfords will be among these and one variety will show three buttons and buttonholes at the side instead of the front lacing. Russet leather seems to be coming into its own again, though there is no decrease of interest in black patent leather for street as well as formal afternoon wear. Russet of course is smart only for sport or morning street wear.

Metallic Cloth for Evening.

That metallic tones will still be the smartest choice for evening seems apparent. Silver kid trimmed with rhinestone heels and buckles is really smarter than anything in the way of gold brocade or gilt leather. Plain silk stockings in silver gray or a subdued gold are chosen for these evening slippers.

There is no real departure from flesh-colored stockings, but there are possibly more exceptions to the rule that all stockings must be of flesh tones. More and more women are suiting their own taste in this matter though anything like vividness or loudness in stockings is regarded as quite as much an offense to fashion as it is to taste. Very sheer black stockings are sometimes worn with black satin pumps, when the gown is also black. Several smart women have chosen mauve or orchid chiffon stockings to wear with black patent-leather slippers. Gun metal chiffon stockings are likewise smart—either with all black or with black and gunmetal leather.

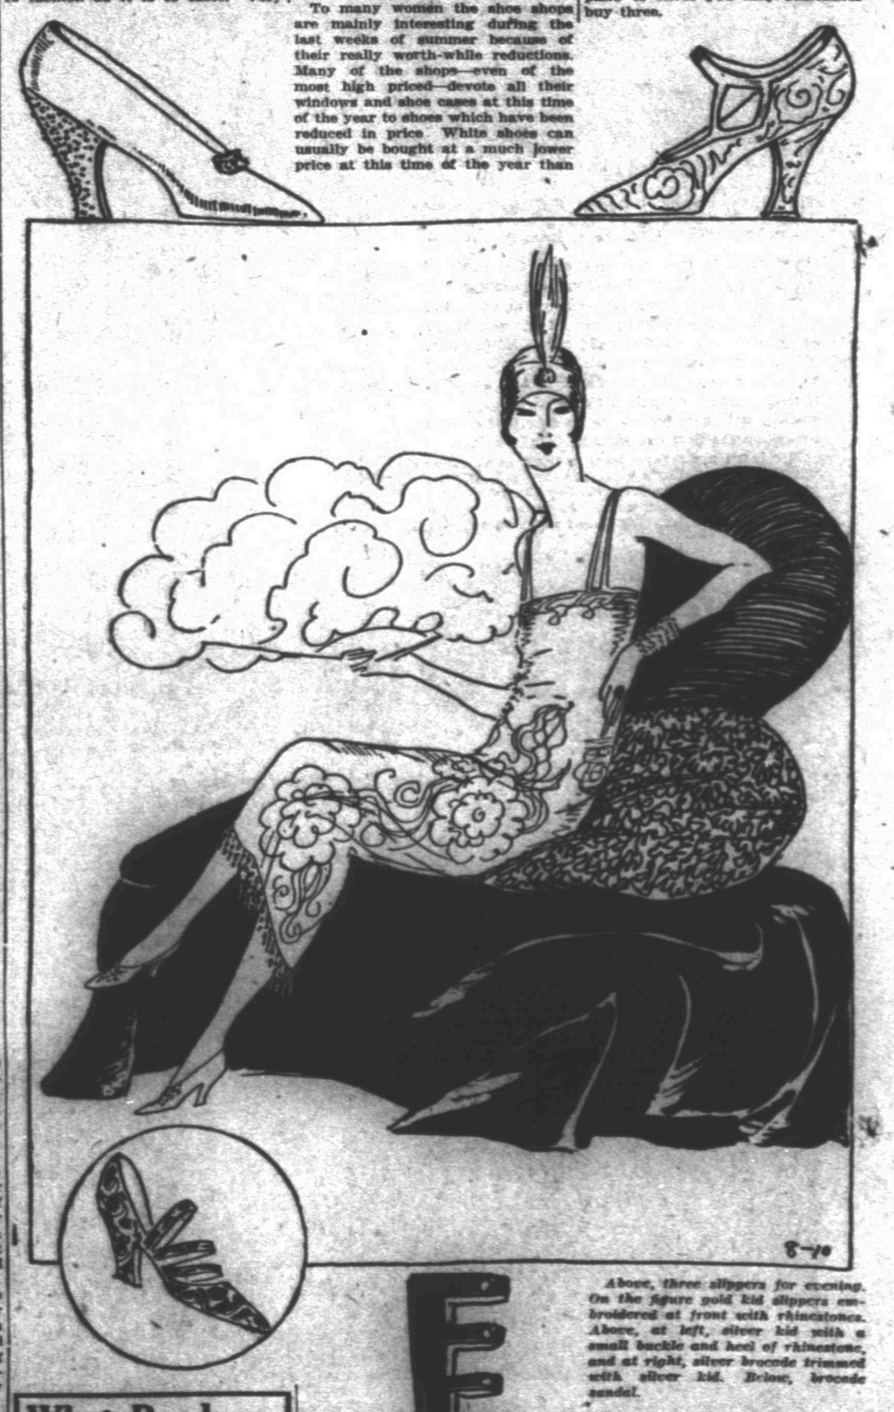

Where well-dressed women appear on the street, if you took the trouble to check up on the color of the stockings worn, you would probably observe that it went something like this: white, flesh, black, white, flesh, gray, brown, white, etc. That is, two flesh-colored and two white to every black, or brown, or gray. By brown we mean that dark beige shade that is sometimes known as "ecaille." Then every once in awhile you see a pair of orchid or mauve stockings—for of all the colors other than dull grays, beige, white, black, etc., none seems to have appealed to smartly dressed women as appropriate for stockings so much as one of these violet tints.

To many women the shoe shops are mainly interesting during the last weeks of summer because of their really worth-while reductions. Many of the shops—even of the most high priced—devote all their windows and shoe cases at this time of the year to shoes which have been reduced in price. White shoes can usually be bought at a much lower price at this time of the year than in the spring or early summer, and there are all sorts of fancy light pumps and slippers to be had at a distinct reduction. In almost every woman's wardrobe there is room for a few pairs of these occasional shoes, which can be worn at home all winter.

To appear smartly shod is, after all, not so much a matter of having a few shoes that are in line with the very latest cut and fashion, but to have enough shoes of good quality that fit as well as shoes can fit, and that are appropriate for the occasion. The shoe that is shabby is never smart. It may be comfortable, and you may be displaying certain virtues of economy and a lack of self-indulgence in wearing your shoes so long as there is any wear left in them, but, unfortunately, you are doing so at the cost of smartness. For this reason there is often distinct benefit to be gained in taking advantage of reductions in price so that for the price of two pairs of shoes you may sometimes buy three.

IN SUMMER SHOPS

SHEER voile handkerchiefs for men are seen in the shops this summer—and occasionally in the pocket of some member of the genus homo—species dandy. They say that last winter the English Prince of Wales set the fashion for carrying in the coat pocket a handkerchief of pale rose tint. Possibly he originated these voile mouchoirs also. A number of faddy young girls have taken to carrying these large voile handkerchiefs as an accessory to smart sports dress.

Have you seen the new beach cards? They appear to be about four times the size of ordinary playing cards and are thick and heavy accordingly. They are used to play bridge and other games of cards on the beach, the players sitting down on the sand, using the sand between them as a card table. Some people, far from any beach, have been using them for playing cards sitting on the ground under the shade of some spreading elm or chestnut—or other leafy tree—in the country.

White mother-of-pearl buttons are used as decoration for evening frocks, being sometimes sewed on in a close row at the edge of a panel.

A smart hat shop shows a wide-brimmed summer hat trimmed with three large artificial flowers of exactly the same shade, but different species. Thus there was a zinia, rose and water lily—all in white.

A dainty little summer frock—light enough to be drawn through a bracelet—was made entirely of three-inch strips of georgette in green, violet and orchid, sewn together—first green, then the violet, then the orchid and the green again—between strips of valenciennes lace. Lace edges the neck and armholes, and it was worn with a narrow ribbon girdle.

One of the smart men's shops is showing interesting bath robes made of striped flannel in the most vivid colors. Some of the younger women, you know, are affecting these mannish bath robes, and like them best when bought from a real man's shop.

What Readers Ask

"Should we let our hair grow out, or should we have it bobbed?"

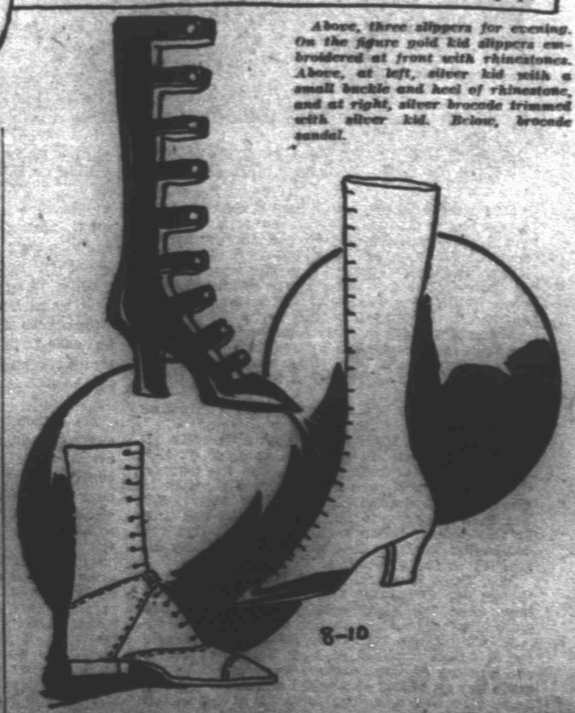

The fashion for bobbed hair will still persist for some time to come.

But most of the really smart women who were inclined to have it bobbed at all, had it bobbed some time ago. Many of the erstwhile devotees of the bob are having their hair grow out again. In Paris the so-called growing-bob is perhaps as smart as anything at the present time, and difficult as it may be to arrange hair that is neither bobbed nor really long, the smart hairdressers have devised several interesting arrangements for this sort of hair that are really smart at the present time.

There are still hairdressers who predict that within a few years the woman who is not bobbed will be the rare exception; and there are just as many hairdressers who will tell you that the days of the bob are numbered.

If you made actual count of the really well-dressed women at any smart resort you would find that those whose hair was bobbed about equalled those whose hair was either growing again or uncut.

Possibly the best thing to do is to arrange your hair the way you find it most becoming
