CONVERSATION . . .
Stilled the Loving Heart
—page 8

Our Town . . .

By JOE BELL

ASSASSINATION of our President is a cruel and terrible toll of hate—the kind of hate that blinds a man from reason.

But there can be a worse toll.

If every citizen of our nation does not accept a part of the blame, then the incubation of this blinding hate can grow and grow and, finally, cut the heart out of America.

And, then, our country will be worse than dead.

OUR PUBLIC mourning, services and ceremonies are chiefly passed.

Sad words have been spoken—remorseful words, pretty words, brave words, challenging words, wise words, and pious words, too.

But these can be but hollow, clanging sounds unless we look into our hearts.

TRUE. A rifle bullet was the physical cause of death of this youthful president—young in age, especially so, for our Commanders in Chief.

But the pulling of the trigger was by the force of hate—this raging hate that knows no reason, respects not the love that should envelope the brotherhood of man.

Therein is our guilt. Each and everyone's.

For we as Texans—yes, Americans—created the society, the very cancerous atmosphere for the fomenting of hate, unreasoning action and defiance of lawful government, for man to judge as God.

SURE, we can blame the Communists.

We can blame the police, the FBI and any agency that might have left unturned one little stone that might have stopped the killer before his keen eye saw the President in his rifle's telescopic sight.

We can say only a maniac or crackpot could do this dastardly thing.

Pointing the finger for "ifs" and "buts" and "maybe sos" might be balm for our conscience.

But never will it erase away our guilt.

SOMEHOW, someway . . . in the recent years, recent months we have allowed hate to become fashionable.

We have, by acceptance or by inaction and silent lips, condoned those who would defy the law of our government.

We have cheered, or turned our heads the other direction, when the unreasonable have trompled on God-given and Constitution-guaranteed rights of minorities.

We have laughed at the jokes, the slogans, the warped words that defiled our president, the aims of our country and those who tried to really care.

WARNINGS have been distinct. But we did not allow ourselves to see.

Not even when hate burned churches, dynamited homes, killed individuals.

Not even when society's well-fed spit and hit our country's statesman when they visited our great Texas city, Dallas.

Not even when little boys and girls were blown to bits as they worshipped God.

AND, SO, a brave, great president fell.

Dying with him was a part of all of us—for God made us like that, one unto the other.

With him into his grave went a part of the foundation on which this nation is built.

Colorado City Flying service in now duly licinsed as an Air Taxi Operation, with Federal Aviation Administration license number SW- LBB-18.

Certification to conduct the air taxi service, day and night, was issued recently by the Southwest region FAA, Lubbock District, for "passengers and cargo."

Limits of certification place a 12,500 lb. maximum take-off weight on the local flying taxi service, only one of its kind in Mitchell and surrounding counties—except for an air taxi service in Big Spring.

Frank Deregibus and J. O. Dockey Jr. own and operate Colorado City Flying Service which last month celebrated its first birthday as a flying charter service using the municipal airport under contract with the city of Colorado City.

Installation of lights delineating the landing field, a recent city project with the flying service furnishing the labor, made the FAA legal authority for the "day & naght" air taxi possible, Deregibus.

To date, only single-engine planes are in use by the local flier s—apiper Colt, several Cessans, and "in case people are in a big hurry for emergency reasons sometimes a Piper Comanche, leased at Big Spring," Deregibus added.

Private flying lessons are another first interest at the city airport with the flying service as insructors. Seven new private pilot licenses have been won by Colorado City pledging fliers instructed at the local airport by the local flying ser-

FARM-CITY WEEK

Agri-business Attitude Cited for Civic Clubs

By Ruth Coffey
Record News Editor

"Gentlemen, if Colorado City and Mitchell County had the proper Farm-city understanding, the proper farm-city relationship, the proper respect for how business can work with the farmer-rancher, we would have an agri-business attitude," Joe Bell told a Farm-city Week all-civic club meet here Tuseday.

Bell, publisher of the Colorado City Record, addressed members of the Kiwanis Club, the Lions Club, Jaycees and a number of farmer, rancher and businsee men guest at the fri-club meet at noon in civic House.

"Where is our leadership for a farm-city environment that will make the best of an 11-million-dollar industry?" the speaker challenged.

"Where is our leadership to impress upon one and all that a farmer-rancher is more than a land owner, more than an operator, that he is, in fact, steward for God's very own with an obligation to care for protect and re-build?"

Where is our leadership that might work to bring to Mitchell County part of the new livestock feeding industry that, this year, will market 850,000 head of cattle from Texas feed lots?"

"Where is our leadership that will attempt to educate us to buy what we sell: cotton? To promote and encourage us to use cotton products and thus, help bulid the market for our principal crop?"

Bell asked those pointed questions as part of the chief address presented to civic clubs with Kiwinis club as host and Allen V. Sheppard as program chairman.

Bell, member of the Kiwanis club here, reminded his listeners that the best-known sponsors of the Farm-city observance are Kiwanis International, American Cattlemen's Association, American Bankers Association, National Grange and numerous civic groups.

"Our own Governor John Connally—before struck down in Dallas during this last black weekend of tragedy—has proclaimed the week for Texans, urging us to take a good look at this economic partnership of Texas towns and Texas farm," Bell said.

"Lack of factual knowledge about each other's business—agriculture and retail—a lack of facts, a lack of understanding pinches home-grown friendship," Bell said following his introductory remarks.

"We miss an opportunity in molding farm, ranch and town business into more financial opportunity, into better business, better agriculture, because we are short-sighted," he said, "because we can't see beyond our own crop row, our own cattle pen. Because we can't see beyond today's cash register receipts."

"Fact of the matter is, we are woefully lackin in leadership on both sides—from respected businessmen, respected ranchers, respected farmers,. Woefully lacking not because of a shortage of leadership material, but those who should and could won't take over the reins and lead." Bell said.

"And with this blank in the ranks of leadership we miss a big hunk of the true value of agriculture as a local industry," he concluded bluntly.

The speaker then listed Mitchell County agriculture

ONE MAN SHOW

Womack's Pictures Attract Art Lovers

By RUTH COFFEY
Record News Editor

Colorado City art-lovers and a number of guests from other cities in this area were an appreciative audience Sunday for the first one-man art show staged by Brush & Palette Club here.

George Womack, Colorado City artist and City National bank executive, exhibited in the public showing a total of of 52 paintings and drawings.

Subjects were varied enough for diverse tastes and included a number of Womack portraits on loan to Brush & Palette for the exhibit hours.

Womack chooses the conventional approach to his subjects. "I have never departed from subject mater en toto," he said of his exhibit. "I feel a lack of coherent communication in totally abstract painting . . . I should say (I feel) more direct communication when using subject matter."

Subject matter for Womack proved to encompass everything from a piece of driftwood on a lonely beach in "Driftwood," a land and seascape, to the appeal of "The Faceless Child."

Womack's is the eyes for detail in his paintings done of Fort Davis, for instance, or in the painting of "Le Chat Noir" in Paris, done in 1962. There is a clean-cut, realistic feel about "Champion Creek" and "Desert" and "Hardee House" and "Windmill."

Imagination and mood of the painter came through eloquently in his "Gloomy Sunday," painted last year. "Mercy Call," painted in 1959, and "Snow Fencerow," another

AT LAMESA

C-City Ends Year With Win 26-20

Colorado City Wolves took the wind out of Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes to beat them 26-20 in the final game of the '63 season, Friday night in Lamesa's own territory.

The victory saw C-City finishing their season with a 3-6 season record and 1-3-1 in the conference ratings for District 3-AAA.

Fumbles and interceptions played the key role in the scoring of six of the game's total of seven touchdowns. The Wolf-Tornado battle was a fairly matched duel of defenses.

Wolves scored 19 points in the first period, then managed to hold off a last-quarter push by the Tornadoes. Both teams scored one TD in the third quarter.

Bill McGuire set up the first Colorado City score by recovering a Lamesa fumble on the Tornado 21. Donnie Lindsey carried the ball over from the five. Try for extra point kick was blocked.

Larry Damborsky turned in the second TD performance after another Wolf recovery of a Tornado fumble on the Lamesa 20. Kick try failed and the score was 12-0.

Third touchdown was a repeat performance—a Tornado fumble grabbed by a Wolf, again on the Lamesa 20. Ray Kincaid went over the goal from the five and Pete Garrett connected for the extra point to make the score read 19-0.

Third quarter saw Lindsey making the fourth—and last Wolf counter. Lindsey hopped over from the one after Wolves recovered a fumble on the 39 and marched it down the field. Kick by Damborsky was good to bring the Wolf score to 26-0.

Minutes later, Lamesa returned the compliment by grabbing a Wolf pass. Jerry Berry intercepted a C-City pass on the Wolves' 24 and Phil Russell scored from the two. Jim Anderson kicked the extra point.

Fourth quarter saw Lamesa whittling away at the C-City lead. Tornadoes picked up a Wolf fumble on the C-City eight. Berry passed to Gerald Graham for four yards and Lamesa's second touchdown. Anderson's kick was good and revised the score 26-14.

Golden Tornadoes then staged a 70-yard drive winding up with a Berry to Graham pass for the last six yards needed. Attempted kick for extra point was blocked. Final score, 26-20.

The Friday night victory was not only the final game of the '63 season. It was the final try—for the next two years, anyhow—of the Wolves in District 3-AAA competition. In 1964 and 1965 Wolves will fight it out with teams in District 2-AA.

In 1966, it will beback to the salt mines and District 3-AAA. It's that tricky average attendance in high school here. Attendance slumped just long enough to shift Wolves into 2-AA again, then bounced back to head them again to 3-AAA play after the two-

Westbrook, Loraine, Tops!

Colorado City's two neighbor towns — Westbrook and Loraine—have both surged over the top in the current $20,130 United Fund drive for Mitchell County.

Westbrook, with Rex T. McKenney as chairman, has reported by noon Wednesday gifts of $332.52. With a $300 quota set as a challenge by this county's general chairman Bill F. Carter, that gives Westbrook citizens the more-than-victorious figure of 110.8 percent.

Loraine citizens, led by Ray Preston, have marched along together to gain the heads-up percentage of 106, second high on the percentage scales for Mitchell County. Loraine workers have raised a total of $850.50 to pass their $800 quota and challenge from the county chairman, issued kick-off day.

Rest of the divisions are still plugging away, short of the goal and needing to try for extra points, figures show.

Countywide percentage stood at 73.3 percent at noon Wednesday — just 26.7 percent away from the cherished victory. New total, for the whole county, is $14,772.39.

In Colorado City, Special Division ranks first with a total of $1,401.50 to reach 82.4 percent. Advance Division is second with $7,935.50 and 79.5 percent. Close on their heels are the Branch Division with $1,155 and 72.1 percent, and Public Employees Division with $1,203.50 and 70.8 percent.

Women's Division had reported $557.25 to earn a 62 percent place on the "Red Feather thermometer." Farm & Ranch has come in with $545 and 54.5 percent. Employees Division now has 25 percent of its proposed quota, $791.64.

United Fund workers hope, with public cooperation, to complete the quota by the end of this Thanksgiving week. With both Loraine and Westbrook "up and over," next push is due from workers in Colorado City, Carter said Wednesday.

esset's: 195,000 acres of crop land, 390,000 acers of range land. "The business industry directly allied to agriculture produces 50 percent or half of our county's entire potential purchasing power," he said.

"A check reveals that Mitchell County 'take home' money from our county's oil production industry is less than half of our agriculture buying power," Bell stressed.

"Don't get me wrong. I'm not belittling our oil industry. I am emphasizing that (it) doesn't sit nearly as tall in the saddl for potential buying income for Colorado City as does farming and ranching in a decent crop years," Bell said.

"The business man who does not recognize the greatness of this agriculture industry, who does not respect the brains, the endeavor that make this huge industry cleck, in cutting off his own business nose," Bell told the Farm-city luncheon.

"And the farmer rancher who doesn't want to step out to make this agriculture industry more dependable, more certain, more potentially valuable — he, too, is sticking his head in the sand, leaving himself exposed to rougher times, dwindling income potential, uncertainty for the future of his sons and daughters," he added.

"In the hand-to-hand business realtion of our own economy, our own well-being, we in town are linked inseparably to the farmer and the rancher is linked to the other and is in the position to walk arm in arm with his town friends for more economic advancement," he said.

Bell cited as one example of the industry of mutual knowledge and assistance the cotton oil mill here.

"Where is the atmosphere that will bring farmers, ranchers, to their local business friends to seek, to try to build cooperative storage and similar new business within our own community?" Bell asked in his series of public questions.

"Where is the farm-city leadership that will talk a visionary look at the new-broadening enterprise in outdoor recreational facilities are possible?" he asked.

Real drawback, Bell said, is an attitude of "agriculture and business by chance."

"In its place we must dovelop the attitude that will not tolerate irresponsibility but that will bring forth the liberated the leaders who will develop what we have for the best possible use," he said.

"With vision, we can seek to expand this agri-business into new horizons of mutual and lasting benefit," the speaker concluded.

DEREGIBUS—

Deregibus is a pilot whose enthusiasm was born the day a man named Charles Lindbergh crossed the Atlantic via air. Deregibus was in 1927, nine-years-old. Not until his senior year at New York University, however, did he start realizing his lifelong determination to fly.

He was one of the second group of college flight trainees trained by the CAA (now FAA) 1939-40. In 1940 he received his B. S. degree and his private pilot license, in June that same year he bought a plane, co-owned with his brother Cleo. His brother is a Pan-American pilot (captain) still piloting, who flies 707 jets from New York to Africa.

Frank Deregibus first hired himself out as a flying instructor at an early flying school at Roosevelt Field, where he trained college trainess shortly after his own graduation. Next, he helped train RAF pilots at Clewiston, Fla. before the United States entered World War II.

In March 1942 he transferred to Brady Aviation school at Brady (Texas) and was [illegible] there as basic flight [illegible]tor for the USAAF until [illegible] 1944 to become a Pan-American co-pilot trainee. It was in Brady, 29 years ago that he was married to his wife, Frances. The couple have a daughter, Dana, almost 16 born in Columbia South America, and a 15-year-old son contract made Taxco." Glass artist's niece, "Sharon." Also Edward, born in Colorado City.

As a Pan-American pilot Deregibus flies "flying hotels" for RAF navigators now training from Dyer Key, Fla. For six months he flew as line copilot on a DC-3 from West Indies to South America for 18 months a flight engineer Boeing to Mexico from New Orleans.

Later, as Captain Deregibus he flew for Aviance, a South American airline in Bogota, Colombia. The family spent in Miami then he was assigned to New York flying a Lockheed Constellation across the Atlantic. He resigned as a commercial pilot in 1950 rather than be transferred to London as his base. He become a West Texas business man shortly afterward.

Deregibus owns and operates an automobile agency in Colorado City. That's on the ground. In the air he has logged an official 7400 hours.

Originality, the plus quality which distinguished a number of Womack's later works also made one of his 1959 paintings a stand-out. "Hot Brass." The same quality appeared in "Black and White Nude" and "Piazza Novon" and "Buddha".

OPEN HOUSE AT DUNN

Ellises Celebrates 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Ellis of the Dunn community will observe their 50th wedding anniversary, Sunday, with open house at their home from 2 to 5 in the afternoon.

Hosting the affair will be their sons and daughter.

The couple were married November 30, 1913 at Dunn by J. H. Ellis (no relation), who married them while they sat in their buggy. The Ellises met at a community program at the Egypt school house, a community between Dunn and Ira which no longer exists.

Ellis was born at Baird, May, 1892. He moved with his parents Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Ellis to Scurry County when he was a farm in the Ira community. a farm n the Ira community. He lived in Colorado City during three different intervals, moving from Scurry County each time. The first move was made when he was 12 years old. He attended Colorado Public School for two years. The first money he made on his own was installing the light on the old Colorado water tower. He drove the stage hack from Colorado to Snyder for awhile and was late employed at the salt works, and was working there when they burned down.

Mrs. Ellis, the former Miss Bertha Chandler, was born near Little Rock, Ark., December 7, 1864. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Chandler, moved the family to Texas when she was six years old settling in Haskell County. In 1905 thy came to Scurry County at Dunn where her father was a pharmacist at the Dunn Drug Store.

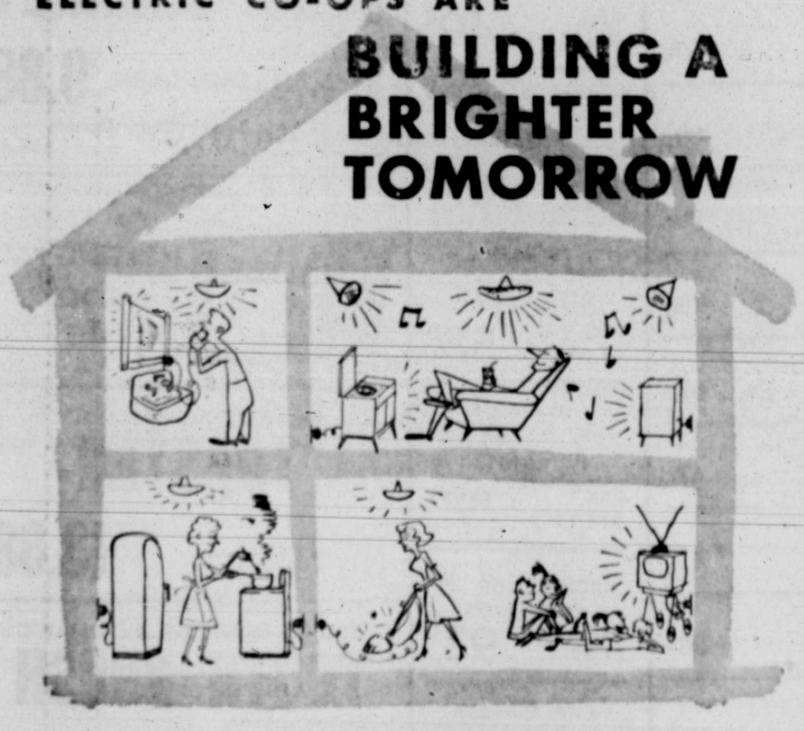

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis moved to Colorado City in 1950 and made their home at 1536 Austin St. until 1955. They are retired now and have ten grandchildren. Their sons are Ather of Oakdale, Lone Island, New York, Wayne of Houston, Jackson P. of Snyder, Othal of Dunn, Jeff and Leo D. (Buck) of Colorado City. Mrs. Lynn Fox, the former Miss Julia Ellis, is a resident of Dunn.

ELECTRIC CO-OPS ARE

BUILDING A BRIGHTER TOMORROW

Ask the family what The Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative means to them.

Mom will vote for running water and an all electric kitchen.

Dad might say air conditioning and refrigeration.

Brother probably lists Television and his Radio.

Sister likely will choose her hair dryer and, as much as she hates to use it, the vacuum cleaner.

These, plus many other appliances and work saving devices were made possible by their own member-owned Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative. The members of this cooperative will spend $770,000 this year for such appliances. They borrowed money to build their own electric systems and they are proud that their efficient, low cost electric service is Building A Brighter Tomorrow.

Commerce president can lament on TV again and again that a deadly sniper's bullet stopped what would have been a great celebration that would have proved Dallas had a heart.

The Dallas News can decry the Communists for making political hay out of our tragedy and try to forget that it has fostered hate, defiance and unreasonable action with its own editorial page.

We can cry.

We can say it shouldn't have happened . . . we didn't want it to happen . . . we condemn any and all of it. We can say it over and over again.

* * *

BUT MOST of all, best we should pray.

Pray that we will act for love and concern and caring.

Pray that we might catch for ourselves, individuals, and as a nation, something of the fineness of this gent who, although born with plenty and a silver spoon, gave his life for his country even as he lived for true peace and equality for all.

Then, and only then, our President may not have died in vain.

STILLED THE LOVING HEART

(Prayer for Thanksgiving, 1963)

FATHER of love, Maker of men,
A son of Thine is slain again . . .
Stilled the loving heart.
A man with laughter on his face,
Unruly hair, meticulous grace,
Felled by his brother Cain in a land
Thou hast so blessed on every hand.

IT'S HARD, Dear Father, to understand
Hatred steadying the hand . . .
To kill a loving heart.
Forgive us, that Thanksgiving Day
A nation bows its head this way,
Knowing the spirit of every hate
Holds seed of the killer, soon or late.

BUT DEATH is for men depleted and old.
He was a young man! Straight, stalwart, bold . .
Wearing a loving heart.
He was a husband, a father, a son,
A would-be brother to all—every one.
He was a hero. Oh, where do they hide,
The haters, since his loving heart died?

WITH muffled drums and solemn tread
Multitudes came to mourn him, dead . . .
Stilled the loving heart.
Heart of this man who lived to abhor
"Tyranny, poverty, disease and war."
Where were they, then, who stooped to despise
This tall immortal, dreams in his eyes?

FORGIVE us that we grieve this day.
Teach us humility. Teach us to pray . . .
Stilled the loving heart.
Grant us his hope, exalted and strong
That all men be brothers, all men belong.
Though cut down in his splendid years,
Let his hope flower, nutured with tears.

TAPS have been sounded. The flag left to wave
Over the plot that bears a new grave . . .
Stilled the loving heart.
All that was mortal of him lies
Sheltered now by "spacious skies."
Dear God! Let men mark well the part
Bequeathed to us . . . though stilled the heart!

DEATHLESS as the moon and sun.
Though his shortened day be done . . .
Stilled the loving heart.
These he left to all who live:
"Ask not what . . . Ask what to give."
He gave himself. His vigor. Youth.
Stilled the heart. Still stirring, truth.

MAKER, of men, Father of love,
Help us to learn the thing he spoke of . . .
Stilled the loving heart.
