KING WINTER'S MINIONS WARN IN COLD BLAST

Norther Sends Mercury Into Forties; Folks Shiver Here

Old King Winter swept into north Texas with an icy roar Saturday and late last night gave indications of making himself at home for some days to come. An overcast sky throughout the day failed to clear in the early hours of the evening; a north wind that carried an arctic sting failed to abate and thermometers which hovered below the 50 degree mark dropped lower as the night wore on.

Rain, wind and cold combined to make Saturday a true winter day, all the more noticable because of the sharp contrast with weather conditions that have been prevailing. Conditions locally were paralleled all over the Wichita Falls trade territory and little relief was in prospect for this section, at least before Sunday night.

Rain To Childress

A driving rain covered the territory between Wichita Falls and Childress on the north, with a lighter drizzle as far north as Amarillo, the Fort Worth and Denver dispatchers office reported. To the south, the cold wave spread down to Fort Worth and Dallas and continued its march to interior points of the state.

North into Oklahoma, the Northwestern reported freezing weather at Forgan, with a light rain in the southern sections of the state.

A minimum temperature of 45 Saturday morning, this representing a drop from 101 degrees in mid-afternoon Friday. A maximum of 48 was reached Saturday afternoon and the thermometer began its recession again in the early evening.

LOWEST TEMPERATURES ON SEPTEMBER RECORD

DALLAS, Sept. 25.(AP)—Low September temperature records of 40 years went by the board tonight in west Texas and the Panhandle as a cold blast from the Canadian Rockies whipped the state from side to middle.

Near freezing gave Amarillo the lowest September mark in the 40 years history of its weather bureau, while a 12-year record at Abilene threatens to be broken during the night. Forty-three degrees, three higher than the record made September 12, 1912 was registered at Abilene at 8 o'clock tonight.

Cotton Damaged.

The south plains thermometers had dropped to 38 tonight, following a one inch rain and hail flurries damaging cotton from one to two grades. Around San Angelo the temperature dropped to 54 degrees in 24 hours to 45 where it was at tonight's reading.

Brownsville, speaking for the south Texas section, said tonight only slight indications of a norther had been felt there yet. The weather bureau says, however, that increased cold may be felt in southeast Texas.

North Texas' cold snap had begun to moderate some tonight as the wind died down and "not so cold" is the forecast for Sunday.

AMARILLO AS USUAL SETS LOW RECORD

AMARILLO, Sept. 25.(AP)—Amarillo tonight is in the grip of the coldest September in 40 yaers according to the local weather station. With temperature hovering about freezing point, during the noon hours and early afternoon, following an inch of rain, the oil capital is clothed in overcoats and fur caps.

The rains and cold will be beneficial to wheat, but it is feared that heavy damage has been done to the cotton crop over the panhandle.

LUBBOCK MERCURY DOES NOSE-DIVE

LUBBOCK, Tex., Sept. 25.(AP)—The south plains tonight shivered in the first cold snap of the season, the mercury diving from 94 Friday to 39 Saturday at 6 p. m.

One inch of rain fell Friday night and Saturday, with quality of cotton crop damaged from one to two grades, in the opinion of agricultural leaders. Flurries of hail did some damage to scattering portions of territory.

SAN ANGELO REPORTS ICE PLANTS IDLE

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 25.(AP)—Artificial ice business marked time here saturday as the mercury did a tumble of 54 degrees in 24 hours from 99 to 45, where it stood at 8 o'clock Saturday night. San date last year it was 54 degrees here and on September 23, 1924, it was 44. It was misting rain tonight after continuing intermittently during the day.

ABILENE GETS SET FOR COLD WEATHER

ABILENE, Tex., Sept. 25.()AP)—The lowest temperatures on record for September was in prospect for tonight as the mercury, standing at 43 degrees at 8 o'clock, continued its downward trend. The

WICHITA TOPS BUILDING LIST

Fort Worth Ranks Second In Texas For Week Just Closed

(By The Associated Press)

Wichita Falls and Fort Worth were ahead of other Texas cities in value of building permits issued during the past week.

Of the six cities reporting, Wichita Falls was first with permits representing $290,880 worth of construction authorized. Fort Worth was second with $217,278.

Others were as follows: Dallas $168,700; San Antonio $86,175; Waco $2,397 and Houston $22,200.

ALIENS REFUSE JOBS

Porto Ricans Declare They've Been Tricked.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 25.(AP)—Eighty porto Ricans, men, women and children imported a few days ago to work in the Salt river valley cotton fields are living at the state fair grounds without shelter and in some cases without food, following their refusal to work under the conditions imposed by the Arizona Cotton Growers' association.

The Porto Ricans claim that living conditions are not what they were represented to be when they signed contracts to come to Arizona and that their pay is less than the contracts called for.

500 REALTORS EXPECTED FOR MEETING HERE

Wichita Falls Prepares For Big Convention This Week

All real estate roads of Texas lead to Wichita Falls this week when approximately 500 realtors, affiliated with the Texas Association of Real Estate Boards, meet here for the annual convention of 1926. The vanguard of the incoming members is expected to reach here Monday for the executive board and advisory council meetings Monday night. Convention activities proper do not begin until Tuesday at which time practically all the visitors will have arrived. A special train will bring in a big delegation of south Texas realtors from Houston, Beaumont, Port Arthur and other points; while other large delegations will come up from Dallas, Fort Worth and various other sections of the state.

Wichita Falls Ready

Wichita Falls is in readiness for its guests, members of the Wichita Falls association announced last night. Walter Curlee, general chairman of the convention committee; A. W. King, secretary of the registration committee; A. L. Huey, president of the local board and others active in the convention preliminaries said all arrangements had been made. A heavy advance run of hotel accomodations has been sent in, they reported.

The Kemp hotel will be convention headquarters and general sectional meetings will be held there. The convention banquet scheduled for Tuesday, will be held in the main ball room of the hotel.

Hot Fight Seen

A hot fight for the 1928 convention promises to develop between Amarillo and Beaumont, on opposite sides of the state and both of which are coming with a big crowd and a determination to take the next session home in their traveling bags. Along with this fight will come some more fireworks in the "home town speaking contest," set for Wednesday night, when the birtues, if any, of various Texas municipalities will be discussed with oratorical fervor. A capable orator from each board represented at the convention will be allowed five minutes in which to impress on the other delegates the particular advantages of his particular locality. A suitable prize will be awarded the winner. Wichita Falls, as host city, is barred from competition.

Parks For Women

Other entertainment features of the convention include a golf tournament at the country club, extensive automobile tours over the city, the big banquet, several dances and other features. Wives who come with their husbands for the convention will be entertained by local women.

Frank Kell will deliver the principal address to the realtors Tuesday morning when he speaks on general business conditions of the state and future industrial and agricultural possibilities. Mayor R. E. Shepherd on behalf of the city and A. L. Huey on behalf of the local board will welcome the delegates. Reports of officials of the association will be heard also.

Dance on Tuesday.

Tuesday afternoon will be devoted to numerous addresses, while a dance will climax the day in the evening. Group breakfasts will be held Wednesday morning with A. M. McPherson of Wichita Falls delivering the principal address at one of these and R. E. Jordan of Houston speaking at the other. Wednesday morning and afternoon will be devoted to technical discussions. The "home town speaking contest" will serve as Wednesday evening's feature, with building and land matters taking up most of the day Thursday.

Practically every member of the local board has been active in pre-

BY ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1926 by The Consolidated Press Association.)

Gene Tunney, new heavyweight champion of the world, proved true to the traditions of the Marine corps, of which he was a member during the war. One motto of the fighting marines is: "First to land; last to leave."

Gene Tunney was first to land on Jack Dempsey's jaw. He was last to leave the championship ring at the Sesqui-Centennial—and he left with a smile that wouldn't come off.

The Marnie corps is proud of Tunney and has a right to be. Tunney served with the 11th regiment of "devil-dogs." He fought all through the war as a private.

He Gets Bars.

"That's where they thought I could do the most good," said the new wearer of the fistic crown, "and I guess they were right."

It is eminently fitting now that Tunney should be commissioned a first lieutenant in the reserve corps and news that he passed his examination for the rank will cause gratification through all branches of the armed service. The army and the navy, too have claimed him as a veteran of the war. The American Legion always has held him in highest esteem. During his training days for the "battle of a century and a half," he received by mail and telegraph felicitations from virtually every post in the legion.

FLOODLIGHTS IN RING

Some of the scenes in the Sesqui-Centennial stadium on the night of the Dempsey-Tunney imbroglio will live forever in the memory of those fortunate to view them and imaginative enough to look beyond the narrow square of light called the "ring." The lighting effects were quite marvelous. During the actual fighting periods the vast stadium was in complete darkness save for the flood lights beating down on the fighters with the artificial intensity of a noon day sun. As each round ended, the whole scene flashed one more into color with great batteries of searchlights playing over the waves of billowing humanity which rose and rose in succeeding tiers until they seemed

PREDICT OKEH GAS TAX BILL BEFORE HOUSE

School Aid Measures Is Expected to Pass Framers Predict Saturday

AUSTIN, Sept. 25.(AP)—Bills providing for increasing the gasoline gallonage tax from 1 to 3 cents and for reducing by 60 per cent the registration fee on passenger automobiles are expected to be considered Monday by the house of the 39th legislature, here in special session.

Representatives F. A. Dale of Bonham, author of the bills and other signers expressed in their passage.

One-fourth of the revenue from the increased gasoline would go to the public schools and three-fourths to the highway department. Motor registration fees, with exception of transfers, would stay in the respective counties.

Registration fees would be based on weight, with the present horsepower tax elimnated.

The house is not expected to split into two factions on the bills, which have the support of the Ferguson side and of many strong Moody followers. There has been unsubstantiated talk of the Moody supporters opposing the gasoline tax. Claude Teer of Williamson, close personal friends of Dan Moody and Wallace Freestone are among Moody supporters who favor the bill.

Supporters of Governor Ferguson declare that should the house defeat her gasoline tax proposal, she will call another special session, and submit other ways and means of increasing the per capita scholastic apportionment of $11.50.

Representative Teer said that Moody himself does not oppose the gasoline tax. Teer predicted passage of the bill.

A proposed bill likely to pass is that permitting county tax collectors to retain 5 per cent of the motor registration fees. At present they retain 3 per cent. Their receipts will be lowered by 60 per cent though the amount work indicent to collection of the fees will not be materially lessened.

HOT WEEK FOR BOSSES LOOMS

Al Smith To Carry Demo Colors In Race For Governor

BY ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1926, by The Consolidated Press Assn.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Great Empire state of the union will hold the political interest of the coming week. Both republicans and democrats are to hold their state conventions beginning Monday afternoon. The republicans meet here in the metropolis. Their convention will be the first big political gathering in the new Madison Square Garden. The old garden where the democrats "fit" bled and died" two years ago is nothing now but a hole in the ground, awaiting the foundations of an immense office structure.

Al Smith To Run

The democrats of the state will gather at Syracuse to nominate Al Smith for governor for the fifth time in succession. This is a remarkable tribute to hold this man has upon the democracy of the state. Governor Smith has gone to defeat once, caught in the immense landslide for Harding in 1920. He ran more than a million votes ahead of his ticket at that time, but it was not quite enough. Now he is to be nominated again in the belief that he easily can win his fourth term at the polls in November.

There is nation wide interest in the new Smith candidacy, for he is certain to be a factor in the next national convention, with many of his friends believing he can be nominated for the presidency. There are other leaders of the democracy who are equally confident that Governor Smith because he is a wet and a Catholic can never attain to the highest honors of his party. Party strife is bound

WICHITA BANK INTERESTS TO AID GROWERS

Action Is Taken Saturday In Accordance With Statewide Plan

DALLAS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Texas bankers, backing a plan to retard cotton marketing temporarily to help the price, expect to enlist Oklahoma and Arkansas and other producing areas in a movement to keep 3,000,000 bales off the market, Dallas financiers heading the project said today.

Formation of a $2,000,000 loan fund by the banks of Wichita county to be offered farmers of the territory to enable them to hold their cotton for six or eight months and await more favorable markets is to be undertaken here next Tuesday under the auspices of the Wichita Falls Clearing House association. A meeting has been called for that date to which all banks in the country have been invited.

At a meeting of the clearing house association Saturday a unanimous resolution was adopted placing the Wichita Falls banking institutions on record as favoring the fund and offering it to the farmers.

Aid For Farmers

The resolution set forth that the banks should pledge financial cooperation to the extent of $2,000,000 with loans to be made on a six or eight months basis to farmers to the extent of $50 per bale. The cotton, the resolution states, will be stored in warehouses or compresses, insured, with the receipts to be used as collateral for the loans.

This acton of the local bankers is a sequel to a meeting held last wek ein Dallas and attended by 75 or more bankers of the state who discussed ways and means of putting into effect a practical plan for extending relief to the farmer.

The underlying idea of the plan, of course, is to permit farmers to hold their cotton and distribute its sale over a period of months, rather than flooding the market with an entire season's production in a period of60 or 90 days. By withholding the crop a "short" market naturally follows and price tendencies are higher, bringing a better return to the producer.

Co-Operation Urged.

Wichita Falls bankers voce a belief that through the plans, if adopted generally by bankers in the principal cotton producing states, much relief will be afforded the farmer whose well-being at present depends to a large extent on the whimsey of the cotton market.

Details of the plan remain to be worked out, but it is expected these will begin to take shape at the Tuesday meeting.

WOMAN BADLY HURT ON ROAD

Mrs. Walter Moore, 20, was critically injured late Saturday when she was struck by an automobile on the Iowa Park road, according to announcement att he Wichita Falls general hospital last night. Driver of the car which struck Mrs. Moore was reported to have been arrested by the sheriff's department but at the county jail, Fred K. Smith, stated that he "knew nothing about it." At the hospital it was stated that Mrs. Moore was brought in by an ambulance called to the scene of the wreck about two miles outside of the city.

Old King Cotton's Hard Task Maker for Those Who'd Join His Fleecy Court

By E. L. PIERCE

NERO fiddled while Rome burned. The Borgias were implacable enemies of all who stood in their way. The pharoahs bore down cruelly upon the Israelites. the French kings were nothing if not despotic. King Cole was a "merry." Not so King Cotton

In this portion of King Cotton's realm his dukes and barons, overseers and tax gatherers, are garnering tribute from the serfs and henchmen of the land. Not one business in the whole of the southwest, not one church, school, court or filling station but is affected by the caprices of this doughty monarch who holds the prosperity of his serfs and servants in the hollow of his hand.

Merchants scan the skies anxiously when a few fleeting clouds gather threatening rain. For rain affects the king. Blind pencil vendors listen attentatively while merchants discuss the New York market—this affects the king—likewise the beggar. School teachers pump their pencils as to the condition of the crop, for it affects the duration of their school terms, hence their pocket books. Preachers are interested—good cotton crop—collections in full and a pat on the back from the bishop and perhaps a better appointment. Poor ones and same old charge at same old salary—perhaps less.

For six months now the southwest has danced to the whims of King Cotton. From the planting of the first row to the gathering of the last boll, he has and will hold sway and exert such influence as no mortal king has ever done.

From planting time, through the spring flood season into mid-summer drouth, with drill, hoe and tractor the king's subjects have rendered their bit of flesh and blood in the service of His Majesty.

Enemies have sprung up in King Cotton's empire seeking to loosen his grasp on the millions in his clutch. Heaven-sent pestilence has been abroad in the empire and armies have arisen to battle the king's foes. Scientists and specialists have prescribed the correct solutions for the "lucretiazation" of some of these enemies and other followers of King Cotton have walked wearyly miles spreading the poison. Rains and wind have walked wearily miles spreadempire an dnis fighting line, while in localities, has simply swerved to other positions—unbroken.

Worthy of his title is King Cotton. A better man than that boasted driver of men—steel. Steel needs men for its maw. King Cotton feeds on men, women and children. His appetite is insatiable. A five-year old child is none too young to contribute his mite to the king's exchequer, nor is the sixty-year old grandmother.

The king's royal ukase is out. His subjects are now bending their knees at his command and in his service. Fingers are bleeding from the daily tasks allotted them by the king. Knees are becoming calloused in the worship of this prince and backs are aching and creaking from the loads put on them by the liege lord of the southwest.

Education of the children in many portions of the realm has ceased. Cotton must be picked. Pickers are asking $1.25 a hundred. Farmers are receiving 15 cents a pound after the cotton is ginned . So, close the schools; loose the prisoners from the jails; let the roads go hang; crucify the man who would say nay!

This is King Cotton's land. He must be served. No matter the cost. No matter the hurt to posterity. The king is mighty and his henchmen loyal.

Why shouldn't the subjects of the king be loyal? Their fathers and their father's fathers served the king. Served him as they and their children today serve him. Serve from the time little fingers can grasp a hoe handle until brittle old backs at last break under the constant bend in obedience to their Lord.

But there is a murmer of discontent in King Cotton's realm—especially noticeable in the south-

AUSTIN ABUZZ OVER ATTITUDE OF MA'S RIVAL

His Friends Puzzled As To Best Course To Be Pursued

AUSTIN, Sept. 25 (AP)—Whether Attorney General Dan Moody personally will aid in the prosecution the investigation of state departments, ordered September 16 by the house of representatives in session, inspired Saturday lively speculation.

The house investigating committee of nine is composed of supporters of the gubernatorial nominee and it is expected the committee will require Moody's personal attention.

Speaker Lee Satterwhite is chairman of the committee, having accepted this post at the unanimous request of his colleagues.

Chairman Satterwhite said at the initial organization of the committee next week he did not anticipate the employing of attorneys would be discussed as there was no cause for immediate action on that phase.

Lee Expects Help

"I am sure the attorney general will be glad to render assistance of his department," Satterwhite said.

M. M. Crane of Dallas and John Boyle of San Antonio are attorneys most persistently mentioned in connection with the inquiry. Crane was attorney general and successfully prosecuted impeachment proceedings brought against James E. Ferguson in 1917.

Fly, a member of the committee, was house manager of the proceedings that resulted in the removal of Ferguson from the governor's chair by the senate.

His resignation however was filed with the secretary of the state before the senate brought in its verdict.

Moody's successful prosecution of highway contract suits was a big factor in his winning of the nomination over Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and it is said his experience in those lines gave him thorough knowledge in those lines. Because of his knowledge, many of his friends contended he is the one best qualified to prosecute the highway department probe.

May Keep Back

Other Moody supporters feel it would be impolitic for the attorney general to take a prominent part in the inquiry, because of the probability that he as governor will have to pass on legislative bills growing out of the findings of the committee.

No intimation of his procedure has come from Moody. Some of his closest supporters declare, however, that the attorney general would feel derelict in his duty as the chief law of the state, did he not aid the committee to the limit of his ability.

Regardless of whether Moody personally prosecutes the inquiry it is expected that Ernest May, assistant attorney general, who aided Moody in prosecution of the American Road company and Hoffman Construction company, will take part.

$25,000 Expense Fund.

The committee is authorized to expend as much as $25,000 from the contingent expense fund. Representative Alfred Hetsch, floor leader of the investigation resolution proponents, said he did not believe that much would be expended.

Organization of the investigating committee will be effected next week.

Capitol Doors May Be Shut On Sunday

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—Suggestion that the state capitol be closed on Sunday, except when the legislature is in session has been made to the state board of control by E. J. Crocker, state labor commissioner. He pointed out in his letter the present policy works a hardship on capitol watchmen and declared, "assuming that they are all Christian gentlemen, it seems abhorrent to me that they do not have time to attend Sunday school nor church on the day set apart for the worship of the Creator."

COURT GRANTS LEAHY'S PLEAS

Accused Texas Ranchman Allowed Continuance In Murder Case

GEORGE WEST, Texas, Sept. 25. (AP)—Harry J. Leahy, charged with the slaying of Dr. J. A. Ramsey of Mathis, won his fight for continuance Saturday afternoon, Judge T. M. Cox, granted continuance of the case to November 8, after the state announced it would not contest the defense motion, filed early in the day.

District Attorney Sid Malone announced that the prosecution had agreed that the witnesses alleged to be absent were material for the defense and no lack of diligence on the part of the defendant was shown and that the application would not be contested.

Application Secreted.

The application for continuance was given in charge of County District Clerk Morgan Johnson with instructions that it was to be "guarded from the public."

"I suppose the newspaper men object," the court smilingly remarked to reporters. "The court will overrule the objection and they may file a bill of exception."

District Attorney Malone said the application was kept secret because it contained matter which, if published, might operate to disqualify persons from jury service and make it difficult to obtain a jury.

Mexican Co-Defendant.

The case against Roberto Martinez, who is alleged to have led officers to the body of Dr. Ramsey, has not been set. His attorney, M. J. Raymond, of Laredo, was here Saturday and said he had made no attempt to have the case set, but was simply here in the interest of his client and to watch the proceedings of the Leahy case.

"I realized the Leahy case must be disposed of first and will take no action until that is over," Raymond said.

Battle Behind Scenes.

Saturday was a day of seeming inactivity with the courtroom filled all day with spectators who patiently waited in vain for something to happen. Things happened but it was behind the scenes and what the spectators heard was Judge Cox granting attorneys more time.

Leahy was as busy as his attorneys and was granted all rights of an attorney by Judge Cox with the privilege of cross-examining witnesses and taking any other action an attorney might take.

Just what part Leahy will take in the defense was not divulged, but he wrote the application for continuance, doing a great part of the work at a table in the courtroom.

Late in the afternoon the indicted ranchman-lawyer filed motion for continuance, basing his plea on the alleged absence of several witnesses. He prepared the motion himself, writing it in long hand in his cell in the county jail here.

In filing the motion, Leahy asked and received permission from Judge T. M. Cox of 36th district court to conduct his own defense and to cross-examine witnesses. The defendant recently completed a home study course in law from the University of Chicago.

The request for continuance was Leahy's second attempt to delay his trial. His plea for change of venue was denied Friday night by Judge Cox after two days had been spent hearing citizens of this district testify as to whether or not the defendant could get a fair trial in the 36th judicial district.

Solon Breaks Leg In Austin Accident

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—Representative J. M. Dunn of Sulphur Springs sustained a broken leg and possible other injuries when he was struck at 7:30 p. m. Saturday night by an automobile driven by a Mrs. Harris of Austin, as he walked across Congress avenue. He was taken to a hospital.

CROP REPORT SCORED.

Houston Protests Against Sudden Price Drop.

HOUSTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—John K. Dorrance, president of the Houston cotton exchange, Friday wired W. M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, protesting against the government's estimate of the cotton crop, issued Thursday, placing total production at 15,810,000 bales on the heels of the estimate the cotton sagged about $6 a bale to the lowest levels in several years.

SHELL HAULER SHOT IN HEAD

Houston Printers' Resort Is Scene of Affair, One Dead, Three Shot

HOUSTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Patty Burns, 45, of Kemah, was killed instantly and three Houston persons were injured, none seriously, in a shooting near Seabrook, a bay resort, late Saturday.

C. E. Banks, 70, caretaker of a club house for a group of Houston printers, was arrested shortly after the shooting by Deputy Sheriff R. R. Bush of La Porte and brought to Houston.

Burns, who is said to have made his livelihood hauling shell near Kemah for a number of years, was found dead on the steps of the club house, his face and the top of his head were riddled with buckshot.

According to a version of the story given by residents of Seabrook, a party in which George Voss, Jr., and a Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gann, all of Houston, were going fishing and stopped near the club house apparently to ask directions. Some one began to shoot and the three were wounded. Patty Burns then started toward the house and was killed, according to information received from residents of Seabrook.

The injured persons were brought to Houston in a private car.

GUAYMAS SEEK PEACE.

NOGALES, Ariz., Sept. 25.(AP) The Herald's Guaymas correspondent today wired that eight governors of the Yaqui Indian tribe in the state of Sonera, Mexico, had sued the federal government for peace. The tribe has been on the war path for the past two weeks.

ECHO OF THE PAST.

ELMIRA, N. Y. Sept. 25.(AP)—"We accept the report of Commander Peary as accepted by the geographical societies of the world," was the statement of members of Ross G. Marvin's family in commenting today on the report that Professor Marvin had been murdered by Eskimos while a member of the Peary expedition to the North Pole. Commander Pearys book on the pole trip said Marvin had drowned.

Snake Bite Serum Ban May Be Lifted

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 25. (AP) Importation for commercial purposes of serum from Brazil, successfully being used for the treatment of rattle snake bites, having been stopped by the bureau of public health in August, 1925, and the present supply having been exhausted Col. M. L. Crimmins of San Antonio, who introduced the serum to this section, is urging the bureau to permit more to come in.

Leahy Studied Law.

Holder of Belton, Texas, Bonds Wins Order.

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 25.(AP)—An injunction restraining the city of Belton from collecting 1926 taxes on $2,000,000 worth of property was granted in federal court Saturday by Judge Charles A. Boyton. The restraining order was issued on a petition of the Harris Trust and Savings bank of Chicago, which charges that the city has now on hand in its treasury $107,000 which is sufficient to pay the interest on the civic improvement bonds totaling $345,000 which the Harris bank holds.

Additional Cases To Be Dropped In 78th Dist. Court

An additional list of cases scheduled for dismissal from the docket unless sufficient cause is presented for their being retained was announced Saturday by Judge W. W. Cooke of the 78th district court. The cases are old civil actions that have been filed for a year or more and in which neither plaintiff or defendant has moved to try them.

Unless attorneys interested in the cases appear in court on or before October 4, and show cause for the actions being held over the following will be dropped:

BONDS ELUDES ACROSS RIVER

Former Bell Sheriff Is On Mexican Ranch Below Border

DEL RIO, Sept. 25.(AP)—Federal officers here stated today that Albert W. Bonds, accused in Bell county in connection with the killing of Wiley Fisher, chief of police of Temple, crossed the border between Del Rio and Eagle Pass Thursday night and is on a Mexican ranch a few miles south of the border. Border officials were cooperating today with Mexican officers in an effort to locate Bonds.

Recent efforts to return men from Mexico have not been successful, the officers said, but effort was being made to return Bonds in case he is apprehended.

Fisher was killed on the streets of Belton August 20. The chooting was attributed to political differences between Fisher and Bonds. The latter was a former sheriff of Bell county, and was an unsuccessful candidate for sheriff in the late primarica. Fisher had strongly supported Bonds' opponent.

NATIONAL

to fade into the darkned clouds which scudded overhead. An immense observation or "sausage" ballon swung far in the sky, its great bulk appearing when all the stadium light were burning.

Gene 'Devil-Dog'

In the days of the war in France these observation balloons looked after the interests of the soldiers afoot. It seemed a good omen that the big balloon was there as Gene Tunney, "devil-dog," stepped into the ring, wearing the beautifully embroidered and silk dressing gown presented to him by his old "buddies" in the corps.

One of the most amazing effects could be witnessed during the periods of darkness. Matches lighted by smokers among the 130,000 odd spectators in the vast stands, glowed here and there as if numberless fireflies filled the air.

WOW! IT POURED

And then the rain. Oh, what a rain, my countrymen. It was a downpour which easily might have caused a panic in so large a throng on an ordinary occasion. But it came when the 130,000 odd souls were engrossed with but a single purpose, with thought and eyes riveted on two tall gladiators stripped for battle.

Women and there were thousands of them in the ringside sections forgot all about their fall bonnets; their gowns and wraps. They refused to be bothered with expedients of protection. They did not want to miss a moment of the fight. Always there with the tense expectancy that a flashing blow from the Manassa mauler may suddenly change the entire complexion of the fight. Dempsey adherents in the crowd, who could scarcely believe their eyes, kept saying to "wait—wait until he hits him." But they waited in vain, and the eager spectators who would not seek cover and who would not be bothered with wraps or with newspapers spread around their shoulders, waited also and got soaked to the skin.

Clothes Damaged.

How many cases of cold and pneumonia may result from that wetting will never be known. How much damage was done to human raiment will never be correctly estimated. It was however, one of the costs of the most costly and stupendous athletic shows ever given in the history of the world.

In size the crowd must have dimmed the greatest throngs the forums of ancient Rome could ever have known. In ferocity, too, it was flarback to the gladiatorial days. Thumbs were down for Jack Dempsey from the very start of the battle.

"Kill him, Gene," they shouted in the first round.

Knock Him Out.

"Put him to sleep; knock him out; whang his boozer off," they shrieked in the ninth and tenth rounds when it was realized the old champion was on his way. Crowd knew that Tunney was the winner when the fight was half over but it would have loved to have seen the fallen champion grovelling in the wet rosin which smeared the floor.

Mob psychology hasn't changed much with the passing of a couple of thousand years.

FOUR-GALLON HAT

Gifford Pinchot was a dashing figure as he appeared in the vast fight throng. He was given a great ovation, not only as governor of his state, but as an ardent supporter of the big fight. Disciple of Theodore Roosevelt, much of Governor Pinchot's public life has been guided by reflection as to what "T. R." would have done in the circumstances. When there were protests against the fight, the governor knew T. R. would have stood to his guns—and so did he. Wearing a big black felt hat of the Roosevelt type, the governor waved it to the crowd in acknowledgement of his greetings. It was a gala night for him.

HOT WEEK

to be stirred over the governor however so long as he remains in politics. If it is true he cannot be nominated at a national convention, it is equally true that he cannot be completely effated.

G. O. P. In Turmoil

The republicans of the state have been in turmoil for many months. It has been impossible for them in convention to agree upon a candidate. This is something new for well-ordered republicans. Ordinarily the state is prepared well in advance and the delegates to the convention are left with but little to argue themselves. It is all different this year. The senatorial candidacy is well taken care of. Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., is to be nominated to succeed himself. Even the extreme drys, who are up in arms over the extreme wet attitude of the senator admit th , can put no tacks in his path so far as the party nomination is concerned. They are sullenly contemplating, however, the desirability of putting an independent dry in the field for the November balloting.

Where the republicans have struck their real snag is in obtaining a suitable candidate for governor. Most of those prominently mentioned for the honor of opposing Al Smith in his fifth try for executive office, have gently but firmly declined to be "drafted." A dozen or more deserving and prominent republicans have been "set up" for the nomination but have themselves kicked down the pretty situation.

Odd Situation

It is rather an odd situation. Of course the shadow of Al Smith hangs over the entire situation. Few republicans believe there is a chance of defeating the governor. But aside from all that, there has been the difficulty of agreeing on a man sufficiently wet or sufficiently dry to meet the opposing views in the republican party. That section of the G. O. P. which resides in New York City and other big cities upstate is pretty thoroughly wet. The great republican vote from the rural counties is almost solidly dry. It is no easy task to try to consolidate the two views.

Apart from the gubernatorial candidate there is the platform to be framed and built with all the opposing views involved. The platform must be made wet enough to square with the views of the senatorial candidate and yet must be dry enough not to alienate the rural G. O. P.'s. Republicans as a rule are adroit politicians.

Cal Consulted

Some of the leaders put the situation squarely before President Coolidge and asked him if he wouldn't cut the Gordian knot or give a Solomon-like decision. But the president said the mere fact he was spending the summer in New York state did not make it necessary for him to become a factor in a party quarrel. He regarded the situation as entirely too hot for an outsider to handle. He wished the party well and was sure a way out would be found.

The coming wet and dry referendum so thoroughly denounced in some quarters may prove a God-send to the harassed platform builders. The idea now is to pledge every candidate on the ticket to the result of the referendum. If there wasn't a referendum in the offing some definite position would have to be taken. Now it can be side stepped with some degree of plausibility.

Florida Storm Sweeps Boats Quarter Mile Inland

The tremendous force of the storm which devasted much of Florida and parts of the Gulf Coast is vividly illustrated by this glimpse of the storm's aftermath in one of the principal streets of Miami. Boats from the shores of Biscayne Bay, a quarter of a mile away, swept into the heart of the business section, are shown stranded there in the receding waters.

EX-I. G. N. HEAD FIGHTS LOREE

Hamilton Will Represent Cotton Belt Minority Against Merger

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Announcement that T. A. Hamilton, former president of the International Great Northern had been retained as advisory counsel by the minority stockholders committee of the St. Louis-Southwestern which is opposing the Loree plan of consolidation was made by W. E. Meyer, chairman of the committee. Mr. Meyer, who will attend the hearings in Dallas, said Mr. Hamilton characterizes the Loree plan as "unsound from a practical railroad operating standpoint."

S. P. COUNSEL SEES NO HARM IN MERGER.

HOUSTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Texas interests, which at first seemed jeopardized by the proposed Loree merger of the Kansas City Southern, the Missouri-Kansas-Texas and Cotton Belt railroads, now have been adequately protected by a contract entered into between Loree and the Southern Pacific lines, J. H. Tallichet, general attorney for the Southern Pacific lines told the Houston Chamber of Commerce board of directors at a meeting Friday afternoon.

MOODYS IN HOUSTON

Dan And His Wife Dine With Former Governor

HOUSTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Dan Moody are Houston visitors today.

The attorney general and soon-to be governor met newspaper men at a breakfast at the home of Former Governor and rMs. W. P. Hobby.

Mr. Moody said his visit has to do with the office of attorney general and is not concerned with the governorship. He appears to be quite vigorous and in glowing health, but he admits that two campaigns in mid-summer made a test of endurance.

TOURIST DROPS DEAD.

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Sept. 25. (AP)—Henry Sale, 52, of Dallas, dropped dead at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon just as the motor car containing the Sale family stopped here. The family had been touring West Texas and Mr. Sale suffered a nervous breakdown and stopped here for medical attention.

YANCY FUNERAL.

Funeral services for Mrs. C. C. Yancy, who died at 103 Front street Friday night at 10 o'clock, were held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Merkel chapel. Rev. W. H. Townsend, pastor of Lamar Avenue Baptist church, had charge of the service. Burial was in Riverside.

Surviving her are her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Effie Allison; her father, W. T. Stout, two brothers, Monroe and Kirby Stout, and two sisters, Mrs. Willie Marcum and Mrs. Noble Kelly of this city.

DALLAS SCENE OF BOLD RAID

One Of Those Held Is Brother Of Victims In Hold-Up Say Police

DALLAS, Sept. 25. (AP)—With only a dented automobile hub cap for a clue, detectives here Saturday solved a bold robbery and found that one of the alleged robbers was a brother of two of the victims.

H. C. Hall, Mrs. M. W. Bean and her sister, Miss Helen Cox were robbed of $150 last night as they left a cafeteria which Hall and Mrs. Bean operate. Hall was carrying the money in a sack when an automobile drove up to the curbing near them. A man alighted, pointed a pistol at Hall and demanded the money.

In escaping, the automobile driven by the man collided with another machine. A hub cap fell to the pavement. On the cap was a mark used by an automobile rent company. Through this cap, detectives learned who had rented the car, and soon arrested Joe Turner and J. D. Cox, Dallas youths. Cox is a brother of Mrs. Bean and Miss Cox.

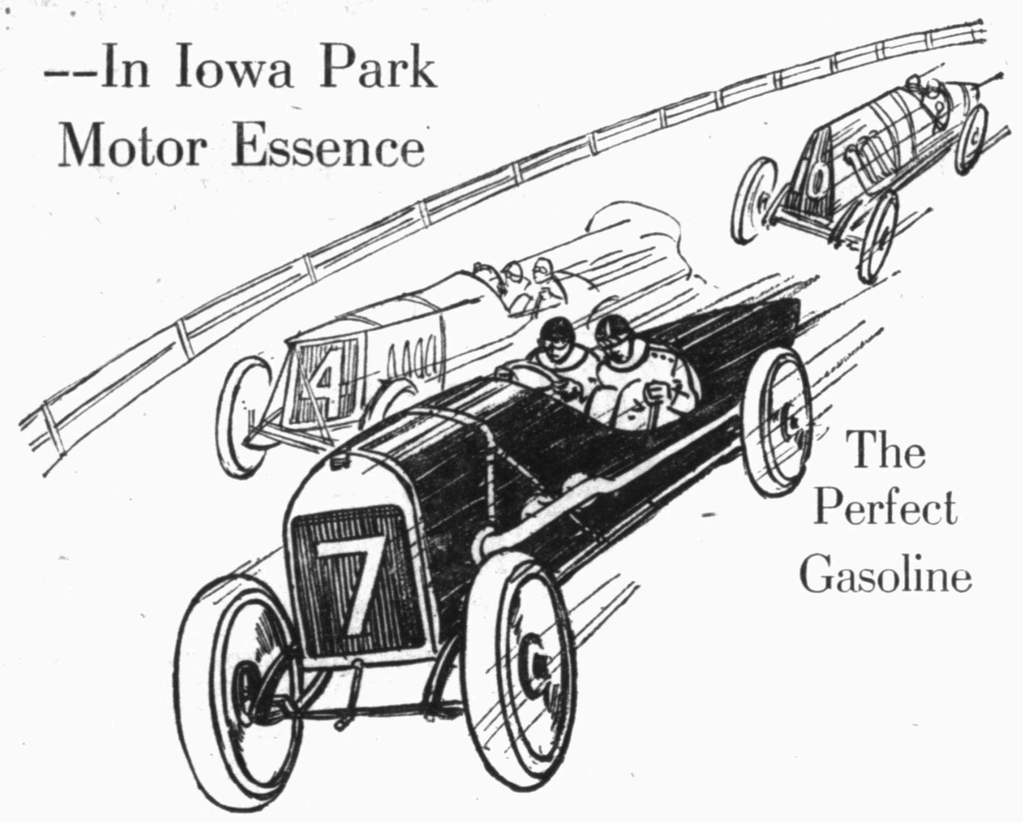

They admitted the robbery, police said, but explained that it was only a joke on the sisters. The lads were held in jail charged with robbery with firearms. Hll and the woman said they did not want to press charges against the boys.

HAMILTON TO SPEAK.

The chief speaker for the Kiwanis program at the noon luncheon Monday at the Kemp will be W. B. Hamilton, president of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association. A. Y. McCallum, high school athletic coach, will be present at the club, it was announced yesterday.

ASK DATA ON GAS USE HERE

Shepherd Answers Letter From Austin To Be Used In Tax Debate

Mayor R. E. Shepherd received a letter yesterday from E. C. Street at Austin requesting some information in regard to the city's consumption of gasoline. The letter stated that a bill would be presented to the present state legislature providing for a two-cent gasoline tax, and the data asked for was for the purpose of incorporating facts in arguing on the bill.

Mayor Shepherd replied to the letter, stating that the city consumed approximately 100,000 gallons of gasoline a year in their fire and police apparatus, but that city employes were not permitted to purchase gas at the wholesale rate for their private cars.

In commenting on the increase in gasoline tax, Mayor Shepherd stated that an increase of one cent a gallon would mean an additional cost of $1,000 per year to the city, and that he did not favor such a tax. The one-cent tax already being charged is enough on this one commodity, and an additional tax would work a hardship on concerns, such as municipalities, who use large quantities of gasoline.

WALKER TO PREACH

Rev. W. E. Walker will preach at both services at the Walnut Street Baptist church at the corner of Walnut and Mississippi Sunday. Sunday school services will be held at 10 o'clock, and the B. Y. P. U's at 6:30 p. m. Rev. J. L. Walters is pastor of the church.

Bankers Here Are Asked To Attend A. B. A. Convention

Local bankers have received a communication from Oscar Wells, president of the American Bankers association, calling attention to the importance of the convention of the organization which will be held this fall at Los Angeles, Calif. He says:

"Effective methods have been developed for quelling bank banditry through co-operative efforts by banks along lines suited to their circumstances and these will be fully discussed at the convention. The rapid extension of special banking functions, such as those having to do with savings, fiduciary services and investments, by classes of banks formerly not engaged in these activities has created a need for more complete interchange of experience related to these subjects and this will be fully provided through the various technical discussions at the convention.

Interest Amonog Bankers.

"The present is fraught with much interest among bankers in the subject of legislation and particularly federal legislation dealing of the 12 federal reserve banks, the with the extension of the charters control of branch banking, the equalizing of rights between national banks and state-chartered institutions, and the widening of provisions for lending money on real estate under the laws governing the conduct of national banks. Bankers attending the annual conventions of the association are afforded splendid opportunities for knowing how other bankers regard these things. Also another question of prime importance to every bankeris the growing movement for more equitable state taxation for banks and the discussions at the convention will suggest means for this end in your state.

"In the broader view of general business, there is the problem of installment selling, the underlying conditions of business which have been subject to so much uncertainty and questioning during the year and other equally important subjects which will add t othe profits attending this meeting."

The convention will be held October 4 to 7.

SENATORS FACE WARM SESSION

Move Made To Renig On Plan To Delay Confirmations

AUSTIN, Sept. 25.(AP)—Attacks on the action of the senate of the 39th legislature in postponing action on the confirmation of Hal Moseley and John Cage, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson's appointees to the highway commission, and S. C. Granberry, prison commissioner, were made again Saturday by Roy J. Hardin of Kaufman county and Senator Eugene Miller, Weatherford.

Apparently the sentiment is being shifted some, and the movement instigated by seven members of the senate is gaining in sympathy with the senators, especially when Senator Hardin pointed out that it can be expected that the offices of highway commission become vacant and the governor will have to appoint the same men or others to fill the vacancy. Senator Miller declared that if the senate in special session defers action it is possible for the commissioners to force deferred action at the next legislature and he charged that the action trifled with and deferred the purpose of the constitution.

Hardin Cites Law.

Senator Hardin said the constitution intends that these places shall become vacant at the end of this session unless these appointees are confirmed. "It gives to the governor authority to 'fill the vacancy should there be no confirmation during the session.' A vacancy cannot be filled unles a vacancy exists, and a vacancy in these offices will certainly result if this senate postpones consideration."

Section 12, of article four, of the constitution reads "all vacancies in state or district offices, members of the legislature shall be filled, unless otherwise provided by law, by appointment of the governor, which appointment if made during its session, shall be with the advice and consent of two thirds of the senate present. If made during the recess of the senate, the said appointee, or some other person to fill such a vacancy shall be nominated to the senate during the first ten days of its session. If rejected said office shall become vacant, and the governor shall, without delay, make further nominations until a confirmation takes place. But should there be no confirmation during the session of the senate the governor shall not thereafter appoint any person to fill such vacancy until the next session of the senate, or until the regular election. Appointments to vacancies in offices elective by the first general election thereafter."

Opponents Confer.

Senators Lloyd Price of Texarkana, J. C. Strong of Panola county, Tom Pollard of Tyler, and Charles Floyd of Paris were brought into conference on the matter. Strong voted against the postponement but the others voted for it.

Senator Miller charged that in setting the precedent of postponing action on confirmation or rejection of these appointees, the senate has made it possible to trifle with and defeat the very purpose of the constitution, although the action may not be proved unconstitutional.

"When the matter of deferring action on the governor's appointees came up before the senate I was one of seven who voted against such action," Senator Miller said. "Some of the newspapers have played upon the action in a colorful manner as being a strictly Moody-Ferguson fight. While it is only natural for the newspapers, in order to keep public interest prodded to the highest possible point, to try to make the very vote of the senate upon such matter, appear to be a contest between the Ferguson and Moody forces, yet much of their agitation is without foundation.

Constitution Imperiled.

"When I voted against deferring action I did so because I was firmly convinced that the very aims of the constitution by deferring action on confirmations until next January when the 40th legislature meets. I believed then and do now that it was the solemn duty of the senate to go to the bat and either reject or confirm these appointees at this time. I believe section 12 of article four, makes that very plain. If these men are not entitled to confirmation they should not be left in charge of state affairs for another five months.

"But whether the action of the senate is unconstitutional or not, it has at least made it possible to trifle with and defeat the very purpose of the constitution when it says that the governor's appointees must have a two-thirds majority vote of the senate to retain their offices. Turning the proposition around, it is possible for the governor's appointees if they so desire to retain their places by mustering up a bare majority in the senate to defer action from one session until the next and by so doing retain their respective jobs until their statutory terms expire.

Suppose Mr. Cage and Mr. Moseley feeling that they can not muster up two-thirds majority in the regular session of the 40th legislature, necessary for their confirmation by the expressed provision of the constitution, decided to have their friends merely defer action upon such specification by a mere majority. What is to keep them from deferring action until the regular session of the 41st legislature in 1929? By that time both their terms will have expired and they would have held their offices not by the confirmation of two-thirds majority as laid down by the constitution, but by a bare majority of the senate, following out the plan of deferring action on their confirmation as the present senate has just done."

Senator Miller declared that it did not take a Philadelphia lawyer to see that the constitution has been defeated. "We have plenty of good citizens in Texas and a boutiful supply of public office-holders who care little about the fundamental law of the state so long as political demands are met and political obligations fulfilled. Let us get our feet back on the ground and try to respect the mandates of our state constitution as laid down by our forefathers even at the sacrifice of some political expediency."

Hail the King

Appropos of King Cotton's despotic sway in these parts at present, the following libretto is timely and interesting. This one-act comedy-drama is reminiscent of nothing in particular, but farmers hereabouts will appreciate it.

Scene: Tillman county cotton field. Farmer trudging behind mule. Across the mule's back is a pole. From both ends of this pole dangle sacks filled with powder. The sacks hang directly over alternate cotton rows. The farmer strikes pole across mule's back at the ends causing the powder to descend on the cotton plant. Mother and child stand watching poisoning process.

Conversation:

"See the funny man mother and the mule. Is he losing all the meal he is staking to the still?"

"No, dear. That's not meal. That's poison. It's killing boll worms and weevils."

"But, mother, there are no oil wells here, and you 'member that tool dresser Uncle Jack fired. He called him a boll weevil. But he didn't kill him, just almost."

"Not that kind of boll weevil, dear. The other kind."

"Is this other kind a pest, too?"

"Certainly, my son, a very grave problem—pest."

"But mother, you can't be right. That booklet we got from the chamber of commerce said there were no boll worms and weevils in Tillman county. It said it was God's own country."

"Sh-h, little one. That was before we had a free bridge across Red river between Frederick and Vernon. Before the construction of the bridge there were none."

"Oh, so these boll weevils are tight too, like Uncle Jack's, eh? They didn't cross on account of the dollar toll?"

"You are right, Euripides."

"Then the voters of Oklahoma are smart, after all?"

"You think so, why?"

"I saw in the papers where Mayor Cargill was going to make all bridges between Oklahoma and Texas free bridges. They beat him handsomely."

"Very observant, my son, very observant. But here comes papa with the can of gas, so we can get back into the car and go on."

OFFER CANCEL TAX ON GIFTS

Million Dollar Bequest To University May Not Be Taxed

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—Plans were being laid Saturday by Senator Charles Floyd of Paris, to introduce a bill into the legislature either during the special session of the 40th legislature in January to exclude the $1,250,000 McDonald bequest to the University of Texas from the State inheritance tax, which would greatly reduce the sum left for an astronomical observatory for the institution.

Senator Floyd was in conference with university officials and Dr. W. M. W. Splawn, president, Saturday, and it was decided to let the 39th legislature act first on the John Sealy estate of Galveston, half of which, is directly left to the medical branch of the university and the remainder to eventually be left to the institution. If compelled to pay the inheritance tax the Sealy estate left to the state will be reduced by $700,000.

The attorney general's department, recently won for the state a contest to break the McDonald will at Paris, and Senator Floyd was to take up the matter of inheritance tax with Judge C. A. Wheeler, assistant attorney general, and the drawing up of a bill.

Senator Floyd said that when men leave their estate to the state for a certain purpose, it appeared to him that it was nothing but just that the money should stay intact for that purpose, as the state gets the money any way.

SPINDLETOP GAINS

BEAUMONT, Sept. 25.(AP)—Spindletop field was producing a daily run of approximately 97,000 barrels Saturday, following the completion of Yount-Lee Oil company's Davis No. 3 and the McFadding No. 12 wells late in the week for a combined initial yield of more than 15,000 barrels.

W. M. DUNN DEAD.

Announcement of the death early Saturday morning of W. M. Dunn of Dallas was received by friends here yesterday. Mr. Dunn is the father of Mrs. Bert Bean of this city, who is now in New York. No word had been received from her yesterday.

HOLD COTTON, AGENTS URGE

Farmers Adversed Not To Snap Bolls Until After Frost

Cotton buyers, ginners and everybody interested in the crop are cooperating with County Agent Guy R. Jones and J. M. McFall in urging farmers to leave their bolly cotton in the field until after frost or a freeze, as the pulling of bolly cotton now will lower the quality and price on the good staple cotton.

Mr. McFall points out that it has heretofore been the custom of many farmers to begin pulling their cotton too early. Pulling the cotton, he says, lowers the grade of that particular bale and perhaps lowers the grade of a neighbor who might otherwise have a first-class bale of cotton.

"When a bale of bolly or pulled cotton is ginned," Mr. McFall says, "there is naturally left in the gin stand some of that cotton. The next farmer comes along with a first-class bale of staple. The grade of his bale is cut down because he perhaps gets part of the former bale and gives this bale a bad sample.

Won't Be Ginned.

"In some places over the state ginners have agreed not to gin this bolly or snapped cotton at least until after the first frost or freeze. This ought to keep up the grade of the cotton and enable the farmers to get a better price for their staple."

Commenting on the subject, Mr. Jones said:

"What the farmers of the valley ought to do is to get as good a grade of cotton as possible. This can only be done by delaying the time for snapping the cotton or pulling the bolly cotton. To snap the cotton now would be nothing short of a calamity because it would lower the grade of the cotton and consequently affect the future market for staple from the valley.

"It is estimated that 10,000 bales of the staple are now open in the fields of the county. The shortage of pickers and the desire to gather the product as soon as possible is a great inducement to snap the cotton, but it should not be done."

FARMERS TO MEET TUESDAY

Organization Work Is Delayed Again At Meeting Saturday

Organization work of a number of Wichita county farmers was delayed again Saturday afternoon when less than a dozen appeared at a scheduled meeting at the Labor temple. It was announced, however, that plans were under way for a big rally to be held at the Labor temple at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when permanent organization would be effected. A big mass meeting and rally of farmers will then be held at the fair grounds some time during the Texas-Oklahoma fair, October 2 to 7.

The association is to be formed in the interests of a campaign against cotton worms, boll weevils and other pests which are causing some damage to a bumper county cotton crop.

Mrs. A. Kahn leaves today for Oklahoma City to attend the wedding Tuesday of her niece, Miss Grace Sanders.

MISSING MAN IS DISCOVERED

Absent San Antonian Is Thought Found In Border City

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 25. (AP)—George E. Mengel, San Antonio laboratory worker, who has been missing since May 8, is believed to have been located at Mirando City.

Deputy C. C. Gass, working under Sheriff A. J. Condren, at Laredo, reported to Chief of Detectives Sam Street that the missing man was in Mirando City and that although his address is not known he could be easily located.

Mengel, world war shell shock victim, has not communicated with his wife since his disappearance and has been working only intermittently since he reached Laredo.

He stayed at the Pena home from May to August, Gass said, and then checked out saying he was going to Mirando City to "dig an oil well."

Mrs. Mengel, who had intended to go to Laredo Sunday to join in the search for her husband following the discovery of his automobile in Nuevo Laredo left immediately upon receipt of the message from Gass.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—Sleeping three in a bed with her mother and a woman neighbor, seven week old Gloria Trent was smothered to death last night, it became known here today. The mother awoke to find the baby had slipped down under the covers and was dead of suffocation.

SPEAKING OF PHIPPS

SENATOR LAWRENCE C. PHIPPS of Colorado is a dethroned czar of the political variety. He is one of the richest men in Colorado. He is not a native of Colorado. He was born in Pennsylvania and represents the house of Steel. He migrated to Colorado where he attached himself to the house of Cooper. He became a political boss of the republican party. He was ambitious to be the czar of the republican party of Colorado.

He backed Rice Means for the senate. He backed John Vivian for governor. He backed the klan program although now he has announced to the voters of America that he is anti-klan through and through. Clarence Hamlin of Colorado Springs took the other end of the political poker. He backed Charles Waterman for senator and O. E. Shoup for governor.

Speaking from the vocabulary of the late Theodore Roosevelt, the newspaper publisher of Colorado Springs licked Phipps and his following to a frazzle. Waterman was made senator and Shoup governor. That is, they were nominated by a handsome majority as the republican standard bearers. Now Phipps of the house of Steel and the house of Cooper is in bad. He is the director of the senatorial committee which is conducting the campaigns in many states in behalf of republican nominees for the senate who are being closely pressed and brutally harried by their democratic rivals for the offices.

In Colorado Phipps is compelled to back Waterman, the man who defeated him, and his henchmen. In other western states, there are similar conditions, bitter contests, in which religious insanity and economic ferocity on the part of many voters are playing havoc with the plans of old guard politicians. There is an interesting contest in Oklahoma where Albert Thomas is the democratic nominee for senator and J. W. Harreld, republican, is seeking re-election as the nominee of his party.

In state convention assembled, the republicans denounced the democrats of Oklahoma as the klan ridden political party of the state and when the democrats held their state convention they declared against the domination of the ku klux klan or any other secret political organization or sect attempting to dominate the politics of the state or the affairs of government.

Two years ago, W. B. Pine, republican, was elected to the senate with the backing of the klan. Now Pine and Harreld are running on a platform which brands the democratic party of Oklahoma as a klan ridden organization. Well, on the other hand, the democrats of the state declare that it would be a loathsome procedure for any secret political organization or sect to control the party of Jefferson or to dictate the policies of the party.

There are a vast number of hypocrits to be found in political synagogues just as they are to be found in the temples dedicated to the worship of the Lord. Oklahoma may give the people of other states some surprises in November. Just the other day a candidate was compelled to withdraw from the state democratic ticket because it was discovered he had done time in federal prison for violation of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act. He won the nomination all right and would have gone through smilingly to the finish, but a republican who knew his secret gave it wide publicity and the unfortunate follower of Jefferson felt impelled to send in his resignation in order to save his fellow nominees and the democratic party from the broadsides to be delivered by republican campaign orators.

Albert B. Fall got away with it; Harry M. Daugherty got away with it. Jesse Smith got away with it by committing suicide. John T. King got away with it by being shocked into his grave when he read the news in the public prints that he had been indicted in the German metals conspiracy case.

It appears this Oklahoma democrat could not get away with it. His political enemies had his prison record. They had his court conviction record. They were ready to turn the Atticus Webbs of Oklahoma on the unfortunate offender, and the unfortunate offender would have been into fragments, figuratively speaking, before the campaign had grown very old.

A REAL NEWS ITEM

A DALLAS dispatch reads as follows: "George Washington, a negro with both legs off at the knees, hobbled into court with the aid of two peg legs and two walking canes to answer to a charge of stealing cattle. He was found guilty by the jury and his punishment was fixed at two years in the state penitentiary." Named for the father of his country and legless, how was it possible for the ebony hued one to be a successful cattle rustler?

SPEAKING OF WARS

VICTOR BERGER, a socialist congressman from Wisconsin, asserts that the United States spends over four billion of dollars per annum. Most of this immense sum goes in various ways for past and future wars. He admits it is difficult to divide the appropriations accurately and to discover precisely what proportion goes for these purposes. Some have said 85 per cent. Berger says it would be less than that and still be about $30 per capita or far above $100 a family each year. After quoting these figures the socialist leader of the American congress asks, "Do you want another war?"

Well, the United States spent $25,000,000 in its last war and if it agrees to a cancellation of war loans then the American people will have to pay an additional war, why not wait until the cost of the last war has been met.

Victor Berger is not a logical reasoner. For instance, "Great Britain's largest expenditures are largely naval. She has a small home land and lives by commerce so she thinks she must rule the waves. For instance, again, "and Uncle Sam has not the same excuse but she does rule the waves."

Great Britain not only thinks it, but she does rule the waves. For instance, again, "and Uncle Sam has not the same excuse for huge armaments that some other countries have. He has a vast area and is almost self-sufficient. If all the rest of the world were to sink into the sea he could not get along."

Could he get along in case of invasion by the ocean or the air. There are under the sea naval monsters. There are aerial monsters capable of death and destruction of life and property. There are informal bombs of dynamite and other death dealing and provoking missiles which chemists say, if dropped from the heights above, would destroy the greatest of cities in less time than it takes to tell the story.

There should be world-wide disarmament. Why should this country be unprepared, and all other nations ready for war almost in the twinkling of an eye.

STEEL TRUST FORMED

NOW the coal and steel barons of the continent of Europe are making as desperate and perhaps a winning effort to form an European steel trust. Their avowed purpose is to divide trade according to the present production in the interested country, which are Germany, Belgium, France and Luxenbourg and to fix prices on the world market.

According to a foreign correspondent, it is the desire of all concerned to make the Rhine valley one commercial whole, which has been the dream of the most important steel men of all four nations for years. Germany is in the league of nations and the Locarno treaties are in force. Germany is no longer without the league gates. This makes a difference.

Germany and France are pledged to keep the peace in future. They are pledged to avoid wars in future. That pledge was made by the president of France and the president of the German republic.

USERS OF CRUDE OIL

REFINERIES consume vast quantities of crude oil. They consume vast quantities of coal. According to Washington correspondents, Texas' refineries use no coal, but the refining industry in Texas for 1925 used more than 15,000,000 barrels of fuel oil and more than 25,000,000,000 feet of gas.

Indeed it is stated the position of the oil refining industry taking rank with the railroads and shipping as a major consumer of fuel oil, is pointed out in a statement from the United States bureau of mines. In 1925 for their own operation, they consumed more than 50,000,000 barrels of fuel oil, 6,000,000 tons of coal and more than 120,000,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas.

This is a motor vehicle age but why should the supply of natural gas be depleted at the rate of 120,000,000,000 cubic feet every year?

MEXICO

MEXICO has a national chamber of commerce. This chamber of commerce has adopted a resolution urging a reduction in Mexican imports, especially of luxuries and of everything that it is possible to produce in Mexico. Mexican business men are urged to reduce their purchases of foreign commodities and which are produced in Mexico. It is recommended that employes of the Mexican government be compelled to purchase goods produced in Mexico and that the government should regulate the issuance of foreign drafts in order to curb the sending of Mexican money abroad. Business is business.

ED WYNN'S QUESTION BOX

By ED WYNN

"THE PERFECT FOOL"

He Knows All — He Sees All

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I run a small theatre in a small town. I heard about a jazz band and thought I would engage them as a special attraction to draw people into my theatre. Last night was the first night they played and they drove the audience out into the street. I have the band under contract for 4 weeks, what do you advise me to do?

Yours truly
WATKIN I. DEW.

ANSWER:—That is not a hard problem to solve. The next time they play in your theatre if they drive the audience out into the street just take the band outside and let them drive the audience back into the theatre.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have just entered college and am taking a course in science. The first thing the Professor showed us was a demonstration in gravity. He took a large bowl and made a fire in it, above the bowl he placed a thin board on which he laid a ten cent piece and a quarter. Within 3 or 4 minutes the ten cent piece rolled into the bowl of fire but the quarter never dropped into the fire. How do you account for a dime rolling in to the fire and quater staying out of the fire?

Sincerely,
X. PERRY MENT.

Answer: The reason the quarter stayed out of the fire and the dime went in the fire is: the quarter has more "cents."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
A friend of mine was arrested for being what his neighbors called a nuisance. That was the only complaint against him yet the judge committeed him to two years in jail. Do you think that is fair?

Yours truly,
JUDGE FORYUSELF.

Answer:—It is not fair. A judge or any one else hasn't any right to "Commit a Nuisance."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Can you describe to me, what is meant by a man of fetching manners?

Truly yours,
S. PARAGUS.

Answer: "A man of fetching manners" can only mean one thing He is a waiter.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Last night as I was undressing for bed, I unfortunately tore my trousers, I asked my wife to mend them immediately but she said it was too late at night to do any sewing. I said she should sew them right away but she kept refusing because of the time. Was I wrong to ask her to mend my pants at ten o'clock at night.

Yours truly,
CAL E. KOE.

Answer: You were not wrong. Your wife should be made to know it is never too late to mend.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
My father gave me a new gun for my birthday. I want to use it right away as my vacation starts next week. I am thinking of going to the woods in Pennsylvania. Is the hunting good there?

Sincerely,
IKE N. SHOOT.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am assigned to the traffic department. I know what to do with men, but what I want to know is in case I catch any girls speeding shall I pinch them?

Yours truly
A. KOPP.

Answer: You can pinch them if you so desire, but do it where it won't show.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a girl 7 years old. My teacher in Sunday school asked me how many commandments there are. I said "ten," then she said, "suppose I broke one?" and I couldn't answer her. Now she says I can't come back to Sunday school until I bring her an answer. Can you help me?

Yours truly,
MAY B. U. KOE.

Answer: That is very simple, my child. If there are ten commandments and you broke one there would be nine left.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I hear that in Pueblo, Colo., the air is always filled with smoke and it is so dirty that sometimes you can hardly see where you are walking. It is really as bad as that?

Truly yours
DAISY PATCH.

Answer: It sure is. In fact it is better than the finding—but not as good as the voting.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Some time ago, I asked you to spell the word "wrong," for me. You told me to spell it "rong" but I have since found out that is wrong. What about it?

Turly yours,
AL FABET.

Answer: Well, that is the way you asked me to spell it, isn't it?

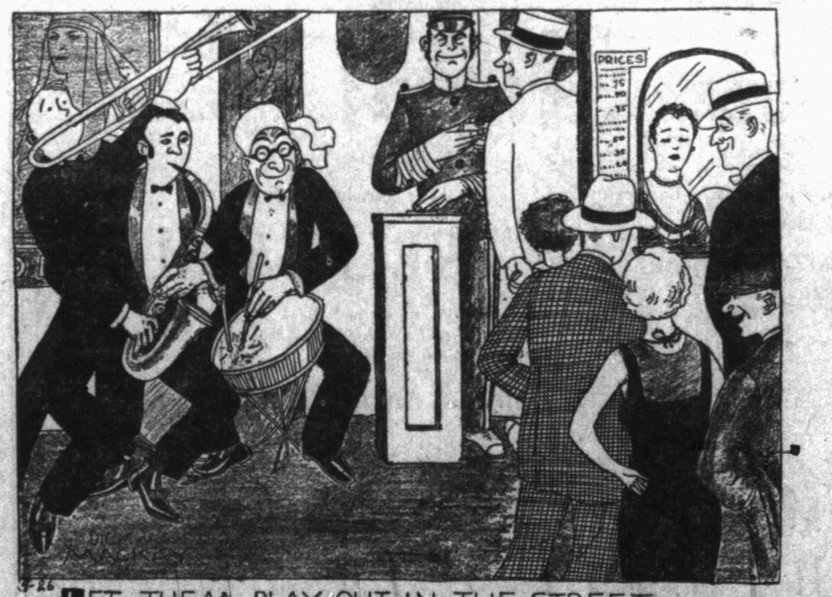

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I have just been appointed a member of the police force and

Answer: It is so dirty there, that a mother will often go out in the street and wash the faces of six or seven children before she can find her own child.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
My father said if he saw a woman being washed out at sea he would throw her a cake of coap to wash her back. Ain't that silly?

Thurly yours
MINNIE APPLUS.

Answer: Next week.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

Where was Mrs. Coleman? Her room adjoined—but the door was closed.

Not dressed yet? No, more than that. Something wrong.

On tiptoes before the high mirror, she fluffed her hair. No powder on the chiffonier. Austere military brushes and a leather collar box.

"My special mixture. No, very mild, Mrs. Curtis—you'll like it."

"Hello, Frisk!" Warren greeted the friendly Airedale. "'Member the time we took you fishing?"

The excited tail shouted gleeful reminiscence.

Obviously under a strain.

Should she ask for Mrs. Coleman? No, something checked her.

Warren had not asked. Was he, too, conscious of something wrong?

The maid, a capable Swedish girl, soon announced dinner.

The absence of their hostess now too conspicuous to be ignored. As they entered the dining room, Mr. Coleman offered a constrained,

"You'll have to excuse Mrs. Coleman. She's not at all well."

"Oh, I'm sorry," murmured Helen, suppressing all solicitous inquiries.

But her thoughts less complaint. What had happened? If she were really ill—why hadn't he postponed the dinner?

Whatever it was, he did not wish to dwell upon it. Even Warren, sensing that, made no comment beyond a brief regret.

At the table, Helen tried to bridge the awkwardness by admiring the Sheraton sideboard—a recent acquisition.

The hors d'oeuvres and soup were perfectly served. Hilda's face impassive. Whatever the dissension in the household—she remained stolidly unperturbed.

The talk drifting to foreign exchange now. The franc. Warren denouncing inflation. Mr. Coleman contributing only preoccupied assents.

The telephone!

"For Mrs. Coleman, sir." Hilda's disconcerting announcement.

"This trout's great," brusqued Warren. "Can't beat a good lake trout."

No response. Mr. Coleman still intent on his glass.

Then pushing it back with decisive abruptness.

"I might as well tell you. We've had a quarrel. Serious one."

"Huh, they all seem serious at the time," shrugged Warren.

"Oh, I hope not," faltered Helen when the pause grew unbearable.

"Rotten for a man to talk—but you'll hear it anyway. Grace is insanely jealous—of my stenographer!"

"Nothin' so serious 'bout that," Warren stabbed at a muchroom.

"You'd think not. But I've discharged three girls for no reason at all—just to satisfy her. Now it's Miss Wells. She's not even attractive—not to me, anyway. But Grace has that same insane idea. It's an obsession!"

Another pause. Again circling the glass.

"I told her when I let Miss Gorman go—'never again.' Now I've had Miss Wells six months—and it's the same story. Either I discharge her or Grace leaves me. It's not a question of Miss Wells. I could give her a couple of weeks' salary and get her another job. But it would be the same thing with the next."

"Surely not," defended Helen. "Mrs. Coleman wouldn't be so unreasonable."

"It's an obsession. But I won't discharge Miss Wells! I'm through!" the dishes shook with his emphasizing fist. "Now it's up to her."

"See here, that's not so serious," protested Warren. "You're not going to split over a girl in your office?"

"That's not the point, Curtis. Its easy enough to let Miss Wells go—but in a few months I'll be up against the same thing. Have to choose between my wife and my stenographer. I can't be shackled by such insane jealousy."

"Maybe it isn't so much jealousy as—Oh, I don't know how to express it," flushed Helen. "But some women always want to—to prove your love. A sort of—"

"Test? Yes, that's part of it. But I won't stand for that either—not any longer. When I let Miss Gorman go—I told her 'never again.'"

"Queer gink," muttered Warren "You've fallen for it every time—now you won't. Maybe that'll bring her around."

"You wouldn't think so from the scene just before you came. Too late to phone—or I'd have called off the dinner."

"Perhaps if she let me see her," ventured Helen. "If I could talk to her—"

"It's gone too far. Grace had better go away—Europe for a few months. Give us both time to think this out."

"Not a bad idea," agreed Warren. "When you get away from a thing—you always get a better slant."

"Well, forget what I've said. We'll have to work it out some way," Mr. Coleman dismissed the subject.

The rest of the dinner constrained. The conversation forced. Desultory.

At the closed door now. Twice she knocked. Then turned the knob. Locked!

The door opened reluctantly.

"I couldn't go away without seeing you," Helen now in the room.

Mrs. Coleman still in her dinner gown. An expensive embroidered crepe, now sadly rumpled. Reddened eyes. Hair disheveled.

"So he told you?" defiantly, dropping back on the bed.

"He couldn't help it," championed Helen. "He's all broken up."

"If he cares more for that stenographer than for me—Don't look like that—you've only heard his side. I won't stay here and be humiliated. If she's more to him than I am—"

"You know she isn't. Aren't you just obsessed with that idea?"

"That's what he says! But why should he be so anxious to keep her?" passionately. "His face when I asked him to discharge her! He got fiery red—then white. Doesn't that prove—"

"It proves what you've done by your unjust suspicions. Please don't be offended! Perhaps I shouldn't say all this—but you're making yourself wretched over nothing."

"Then if it's nothing— why doesn't he prove it? Why won't he let her go?"

"Don't you see—it's not just letting her go? It's his pride. No man can let his wife dictate his business—discharge his stenographers one after another. You think Warren would do that for me?"

"Wouldn't he?" avidly. "Not even if you were so unhappy—"

"Why nothing I could do would make him discharge Miss Lewis."

"You mean he'd let you leave him before he'd give up his stenographer?"

"Yes, knowing he was in the right. He'd be like a rock. I could no more move him than—" straining for a comparison sufficiently strong. "Think what you're doing—these humiliating tests! How can you want to break him like that?"

"I don't know—I don't know why I do it," sobbingly. "Something drives me on—I can't help it! I worship him and I always feel he doesn't care enough."

"So you're always testing his love? The surest way to kill it."

Frisk up on the bed now. Whimpering. Licking the hands that hid her face.

"What shall I do?" desperately. "I've gone so far—I can't give in now. If he'll only let Miss Wells go—Oh, I'll never, NEVER ask him again! You talk to him. Tell him just this once—just to save my pride."

"What about HIS pride? No, I don't think he will—not this time. You've asked it too often. Perhaps if you'd go away for a while—"

"No, no, I can't! Think of the long days and nights without him—just brooding. I'd go mad! Oh, I'm so wretched—I wish I were dead," her face in Frisk's shaggy coat." He can't love me or he'd never let me suffer like this. He DOES care for her!"

Helen stood by helpless. The futility of reasoning with her now. She would have to fight it out alone.

"I'd better go back now. They'll think it strange I'm staying so long."

When she entered the library, Warren rose with an abrupt.

"Think we'd better trot along. Now, don't take it too seriously, Coleman. Things usually straighten out. Don't want to butt in, but anything we can do let us know."

No lingering tonight. Warren fairly swept her out.

When they reached the street, he swaggered ahead, his angry strides and prodding cane an outlet for his suppressed volcanics.

"That pin-headed neurotic! Discharging his stenographers!" with a snort. "Well, she's the one who'd get the bounce from me."

"Yet she's making herself sick over it—she's crazy about him!"

"Tuh, queer way of showin' it."

"It's an obsession—to test his love. Dear, some women do that," runnig to keep up with his strides. "They can't help it. A sort of emotional indulgence."

"Well, he'd better ship her off for a few months. Maybe that'll bring her to her senses—if she's got any. Coleman's to blame, too. If he'd put his foot down the first time—she wouldn't pull these repeats. How many girls has she made him fire?"

"Didn't he say this was the fourth? But she says if he'll let this one go—she'll never—"

"Huh, if he falls for that again—I'm off him. Any man who lets a jealous jane put him through hoops like that—well, he's a prize sap!

"Dear, that's what I told her. That I could no more make you discharge Miss Lewis—"

"What's that? Discharge Miss Lewis?" explosively. "Not till I'm ready for the padded cell. If you ever staged that stunt—Well, you'd be laid off so quick it'd make your head spin. Here, sprint up—let's nail that taxi!"

DALLAS COPS WITH SIX-RUN RALLY IN 9TH

Steers Combine Four Hits And Three Walks For 7-6 Victory

DALLAS, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Dallas Steers champions of the Texas League today defeated the New Orleans Pelicans 7 to 6, in the third game of the Dixie series by scoring six runs in the last half of the ninth inning on four hits and three walks. The game was played in football weather before a crowd estimated at 14,000. The series count now is New Orleans two, Dallas one.

With the score 6 to 1 against the Steers, Morse opened the ninth with a single and moved to second when Woeber, batting for Gross was walked. Williams went out on a fly to Ostergood, left fielder, but Miller came through with a single that scored Morse. Riley duplicated Miller's blow, scoring Woeber, making the count six to three.

Brainard popped out to Hendrick but Tate, Dallas third baseman was walked, filling the bases. Bauman batted for Catcher Hungling and was walked, forcing in Miller. Marina took up the pitching burden for New Orleans and Billings batted for Riviere. Billings delivered a screaming triple that scored Riley, Tate and Bauman and won the game.

The Pelicans drew first blood in the second inning by hitting a long home run over the center field fence, and counted two more runs in the same frame on Deal's single, Ewoldt's Texas leaguer that went for a double and Scott's single. Dallas was scoreless until the fifth inning when Riley hit a homer on the first ball pitched.

New Orleans got another run in the seventh when Deal singled, moved to second on Ewoldt's sacrifice, and Scott singled, sending Deal across the plate.

In their half of the ninth, however, the Pelicans got two more runs and ran their score to six when Ostergard singled, was sacrificed to second by Deal and went home on Ewoldt's screaming double down the third base line. Dowie followed with a double that scored Ewoldt.

And Now Jabez Is Happy

The well-known and much-liked Mr. Jabez A. Gardner is more or less a very happy man these days over acquisition of a certain shortstopping person who joins our noble Spudders next spring.

For, says Gardner, Johnny Mann, the athletic gentleman pictured above, is destined to become one of the greatest infielders in the game.

Mann is another Rabbit Tavener in grace of movement and unerring ability to make bad ones look like easy ones and chunk 'em out at first base with margin to spare, if you would believe fans of the South Atlantic league where Johnny has pastimed the past three seasons improving greatly with each week's performance.

Mann was purchased recently by Spudder powers from the Macon, Ga., team. He batted around a .330 clip and fielded like a demon during the race just run. He stands five feet, 11 inches and weighs in the vicinity of 160 pounds, has big hands and a great arm. He's smart both afield and on the paths. He's a good bunter and hit-and-run man.

Why shouldn't Jabez be happy?

Cauliflower Row Soon To Be Jammed With Biffers Seeking The Intellectual And Aesthetic

It's Trait of Fighters-In-the-Making To Endeavor To Emulate Style Of Reigning Champion

BY SPARROW M'GANN
Special Correspondent, The Record News
Copyright, 1926, By The Consolidated Press Assn.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Back in 1892 a studious young man came out of the golden west and had the effrontery to challenge the mighty John L. The critics of fighting form of that day literally laughed the youngster to scorn and ridiculed his ideas of how he meant to dethrone the mighty title-holder.

The fight came to pass and it is a matter of ring history that the young Jim Corbett circled the imposing statuesque Sullivan, evades his lunges and snorting rushes, and tantalized him with light jabs. As the fight progressed the slight blows felt like jolting stabs and when the enraged Sullivan was weakened, Corbett walked in and put over the finishing blow.

Thus was crowned a new champion and a new school of boxing came into being. There have been new blows—some weird, fantastic and yet fittingly proper for the type of fighter or boxer who used them.

Now a new champion rules the heavyweight roost. Gene Tunney's methods are not new nor unique. But he has combined a higher intelligence with a pair of workmanlike fists and with this combination he has started a new school of boxing.

Hunt For Brains

A peculiar trait of fighters-in-the-making is the tendency to copy the style of the reigning champion. This has been the case in years past and there is no reason to think that precedent will be ignored, now that Tunney has scaled the heights to the championship.

Just what Gene's style is, and how effective it was in nullifying the attack of one of the truly great natural fighters of the era, is interesting.

Tunney patterns his method after the idea that the best attack is combined with an instinctive forethought of his opponent's next move. This, with a fleet pair of legs and the ability to sense the psychological moment when to stop retreating and commence an attack on his own account.

Not an easy style to master, true enough. But had you seen the easy way Tunney broke up Jack Dempsey's rushes, got inside of his murderous short hooks and peppered him with short left hooks and a straight right, you would willingly believe that the effort spent in mastering this style pays well.

Tunney went through ten hard rounds and save for a small cut on the left eye he came out unmarked. This in contrast to Dempsey's battered face, bleeding nose and completely closed eye.

Dempsey is conceded to be a harder puncher than Tunney. It was taken for granted that his short hooks to the body would be accurate. Yet the ex-Marine so flustered that the latter was lashing out wildly with no sense of direction.

Running Fighter

Running away from an opponent does not look nice, yet Tunney has the happy faculty of knowing just how far to run back and yet not try the spectators' patience. Then when he would come back fighting the pique is forgotten.

It is out of the question to expect Tunney to fight again before the next outdoor season. For this reason it cannot be expected that his style will be taken up seriously just yet. But let Gene win a few more fights, and you can wager there will be many a youngster hiding out behind the wood shed practicing the new style.

Dempsey appeared slow and sluggish. The fire in his attack seemed to have died out until only the whitened ashes remained. It is true Jack was tried beyond the point of endurance, and it is a wonder he was able to step into the ring at all with a big strapping fellow like Tunney.

He was outfought, outsmarted and beaten. But Dempsey lost like a true champion; fighting to the last second. And when the fight was awarded to Gene Tunney, the old champion was the first to congratulate him.

SCOTT BEATS NEW CHAMPS

Veteran Rings Up 12-2 Win, His Thirteenth Of 1926 Season

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Jack Scott, veteran right hander of the Giants, humbled the new National League champions Saturday, 12 to 2, in the year's final meeting between the clubs.

It was Scott's 13th victory of the season and he distinguished himself with a perfect day at bat in making four of the Giants' 17 hits off Keen and Clough. Scott hit a homer, a double, two singles and drove in four runs.

Otis Carter, Giants' recruit, made a homer in the fourth inning.

Tunney Takes Heavy Crown From Dempsey

Photo from Central Press Association and Copyright by Wide World; transmitted over A. T. & T. wire direct from Philadelphia.

Gene Tunney, the fighting marine, proved to the world that Jack Dempsey is no longer the fighter that for years vanquished all aspirants for the heavyweight title, by beating him decisively in their ten-round bout at the Sesqui-Centennial stadium at Philadelphia. In practically every one of the ten rounds he won the decision of the judges by landing three or four blows to one. The above picture, taken at the ringside, shows Tunney boring into the former champion which helped to win for him the title of heavyweight champion of the world.

Hagen Retains Pro Golf Title

New Record Established In Third Consecutive Victory

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 25. (AP)—Invincible Walter Hagen finished a new chapter in American golf history today with the winning of his third successive championship among the professionals.

Brushing aside the opposition of Leo Diegel with the same irresistible stroking by which he conquered Johnny Farrell yesterday the former caddie from Rochester, N. Y., completed the greatest match playing record of all time in a fittingly decisive final, four up and three to play.

The mighty "Hage" thus ran to a glorious end the course along which lurked the ghosts of many failures, breaking down a barrier that for more than three decades had defied the thrusts of the country's foremost linksmen, including great amateurs like Bobby Jones, Walter J. Travis and Jerry Travers, and such outstanding professionals as Long Jim Barnes and Stocky Gene Sarazen. Putting aside his links implements for the tournament season tonight, the master of match play was able to survey as the handiwork of his efforts a four-year stretch of competition without an individual defeat, four tournament triumphs during the campaign of 1926, victories over Bobby Jones and Abe Mitchell, the British star, and a medal play record of 132 for the qualifying rounds of the eastern open championship.

Vernon Lions Swamp Henrietta Eleven, 60-0

VERNON, Sept. 25.—Coach E. A. Baggett's Vernon Lions swamped the Henrietta high school football eleven with a 60-0 score in a slow game played on a wet field here Saturday afternoon. The one-sided score was due more to the Henrietta club's weakness than any unusual prowess on the part of the Lions. Baggett used every member of his squad of 35 men, and every combination sent on the field gained with consistency against the Henrietta lineup.

Henrietta gained only twice, and failed to make a first down. The Vernon club scored 14 first downs.

Captain Gelhausen at full, and Jake Castleberry, left half, starred in the Lions backfield while Koontz, one of last season's regulars stood out in Baggett's forward wall. Buck Trammell made a good showing at half when he was substituted for Castleberry.

Fans had little opportunity to measure the strength of the Lions in Saturday's contest, as Baggett's men used nothing but line bucks, off tackle drives, and end runs. Castleberry and Gelhausen stood out in skirting the wings, while Cloft Key gained consistently with bucks. Gelhausen made the most sensational play of the afternoon when he skirted left end for 64 yards and a touchdown.

Castleberry recorded a 46-yards run for a touchdown. Gelhausen took scoring honors for the afternoon with four touchdowns. To his credit Castleberry kicked for his club, missing only three times.

The Lions tossed only one pass, which was intercepted. Henrietta attempted the aerial route twice, failing to complete one attempt, and losing the ball when it was intercepted on the other attempt.

Anderson at full stood out for the visitors, and was the only man who was able to bring the Lions to the ground consistently. The line-up:

MALONE STOPS SPRINGFIELD

YANKEES SEW UP GONFALON

Great Bambinus Comes To Fore With Trio Of Homers

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Yanks sewed up the American league pennant mathematically here this afternoon, drubbing the Browns in both ends of a double bill, 10 to 2 and 10 to 4.

Babe Ruth increased his home run string to 47 by hitting for the circuit three times today. His first homer was in the fifth inning of the first game with the bases loaded. His second was in the sixth inning of the second game and also scored Combs. His third was in the ninth when he was the first batter up. Ruth's double in the fifth accounted for another Yankee run.

Wildness on the part of Zachary and Vangilder and Giard, Brown pitchers, made the first game a walk away. They allowed a total of 14 bases on balls.

Ruth's heavy hitting and Brown pitching wildness were chief factors in the second victory.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

Burks and Patterson in Line, Coffey And McAninch in Backfield Wage Great Battle

Junior college pulled the gridiron laurels of Wichita Falls out of the fire Saturday with a 6-0 victory over Fort Sill, the army post being represented by the eleven of the First Battalion, First Field Artillery. For a while it seemed that the collegians would go the way of the other two Wichita Falls entries in the gridiron sport, the Coyotes and the Junior Coyotes both having dropped their week-end games, and pack home a defeat. But Captain Stephenson's outfit put a sudden smashing rally early in the third quarter that brought the score, Steve himself carrying the oval over on a skilful broken field run for 25-yards through the soldier's left side.

A field made heavy and slippery by rain prevented the display of any thrilling football tactics, but the two elevens put up a game that was remarkably free from the usual muddy field fumbling, despite a few miscues that were made by both sides. Both teams, too fought out a cleanly played battle notwithstanding the difficult field and the evenness with which they were matched, and the small crowd that ventured out was well repaid for its attendance.

Captains Flash

Fort Sill brought a line that was much heftier than that of the Indians but which did not function so well as that of the Maroons. The Maroon and Gold forward wall put up a good defense for a first season game, repeatedly bowling over their heavier opponents and throwing the ball loters for losses. Honors for the backfields were about even, with Captain Stansell of the Army and Captain Stephenson of the college standing out above their mates.

Coach Ludgate ordered his Indian charges to play a safe game and to wait for breaks and fumbles that could be expected on such a field as the one played on; consequently the Tribe attempted to carry the ball but twice in the first quarter and the battle was fought on Wichita territory, with the army boys threatening a number of times. Few fumbles happened, however, and Ludgate evidently gave the order to open up the offense in the second half, turning the tide of the game.

Fort Sill boasted a powerful backfield punch in the passing and running of Stansell and the ball carrying of Brown and Krueger, a combination that should go far in army competition if the line picks up a little more zip and shove than it displayed Saturday. Big Stansell's accurate heaving for long distances into the arms of his mates kept the side-lines on edge and the battle in Witchita territory for much of the time.

Burks and Coffey

For the Maroon and Gold Captain Stephenson at half was the big show, doing the passing, the punting, and the most of the running for his outfit, as well as being the backbone of the second line defense. Edmund Coffey, working his first game at quarter, ran his team well and played a splendid defensive battle, managing to get into tackles that meant much for the safety of the Tribe's scalp when the Artillery squad was going strongest. In the line Burks made good use of his last year's experience and repeatedly nailed the soldiers for no gains or for losses, while Patterson and Gilchrist also put up very reliable performances. Ricks, the big boy of the Indian squad, put enough speed and grit into his 270 pounds to make him look an almost sure possibility for a line berth. McAninch, although new at the job, carried himself very well in the role of a plunging fullback. Although there was plentiful ragged football born of inexperience and lack of practice, the college outfit packs considerable promise and should give the Faithful City some interesting football this fall.

Opening the game, Stephenson kicked off for Wichita Falls. A fifteen yard return on this punt was followed by a series of ineffective plays and kicks by both sides with the army holding the edge on kicks. Stansell then opened the fireworks by heaving a 15-yard pass to Lindsey for first down. Several penalties due to a poorly working line forced Fort Sill to kick, the ball crossing the Maroon goal. Steve kicked back to his 40-yard mark. Plunges by Stansell and a pass Stansell to Lindsey for 8-yards netted another down. Wichita's defensive then smashed four plays in succession for no gains or less, Sill, however, recovering her own blocked punt.

Tribe Defense Tight

Soon after the start of the second quarter Steve hurled a pass to Coffey that was good for 20 yards and McAninch followed with a 5-yard smash through center. Another pass Steve to Mc ended the college threat. Play surged just within the Indian side of the 50-yard mark for most of the period with the Indian defense constantly tightening. Burks and Coffey especially dealing misery to the soldier offense.

The Third quarter opened with a lot of funny football, the Tribe mixing good gains and easy bones. Burks and Ricks piled a powerful Fort Sill plunge and the Indians soon had their chance. A long pass from Steve's hands was illegally interferred with by the soldiers and was allowed together with a penalty, putting the pigskin on the Fort Sill 25-yard line. On the next play Captain Stephenson broke through Fort Sill's left side with a thrilling run, dodging and shaking tacklers right and left, for 25-yards and a touchdown. Steve also heaved a pretty pass for the extra point but a watchful soldier tipped it from the arms of the waiting receiver.

Another attack was launched by the Tribe, featured by a 15-yard pass from Steve to Coffey. Here the army held but was also stopped by the airtight Maroon defense led by Burks. Stephenson's excellent returning of punts, good for ten or fifteen yards practically every kick, looked good here as throughout the game. Steve's kicking, however, was usually very short and kept his gang hustling to stay out of danger.

Soldier Threat Fails

In the fourth quarter Fort Sill launched a potent threat, which aided by a 15-yard penalty against Wichita for talking brought the Soldiers in reach of a score and a chance to tie. A pass Stansell to Krueger was good for more than 25-yards. On the second play after the same pair executed another pass for ten yards and first down. A series of terrific line plunges by Brown, each god for several yards stopped five yards from the Indian goal when on fourth down the Wichita offense held the plunging Brown for no gain and saved the game. Steve kicked from behind his own goal to the forty yard mark. A 15-yard run by Stansell ended the festivities with the happy but shivering group of spectators charging for cover.

Military "Big 3" Looms In Offing

Quantico Marines Step Out With Quite Ambitious Program

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—"Telling it to the Marines" with line plunges and forward passes will be the diverting little task of 13 teams during the present football season. All but one of the marines' foes are college squads. The Quantico marines are in the up-and-coming stage in football. The leathernecks are making the gridiron turf fly in an effort to win the same collegiate rating in the football realm that West Point and Annapolis enjoy. Some day, so the legend runs, the marines may even play the army and navy elevens each year—may join with them to form a sort of military "big three." High officials in the marine corps, however are not talking very loudly about their ambitions.

Few college elevens would embark on as heavy a schedule as the marines launched today with their New Hampshire at Durham, climaxing their pre-season practice in the New England school's stadium.

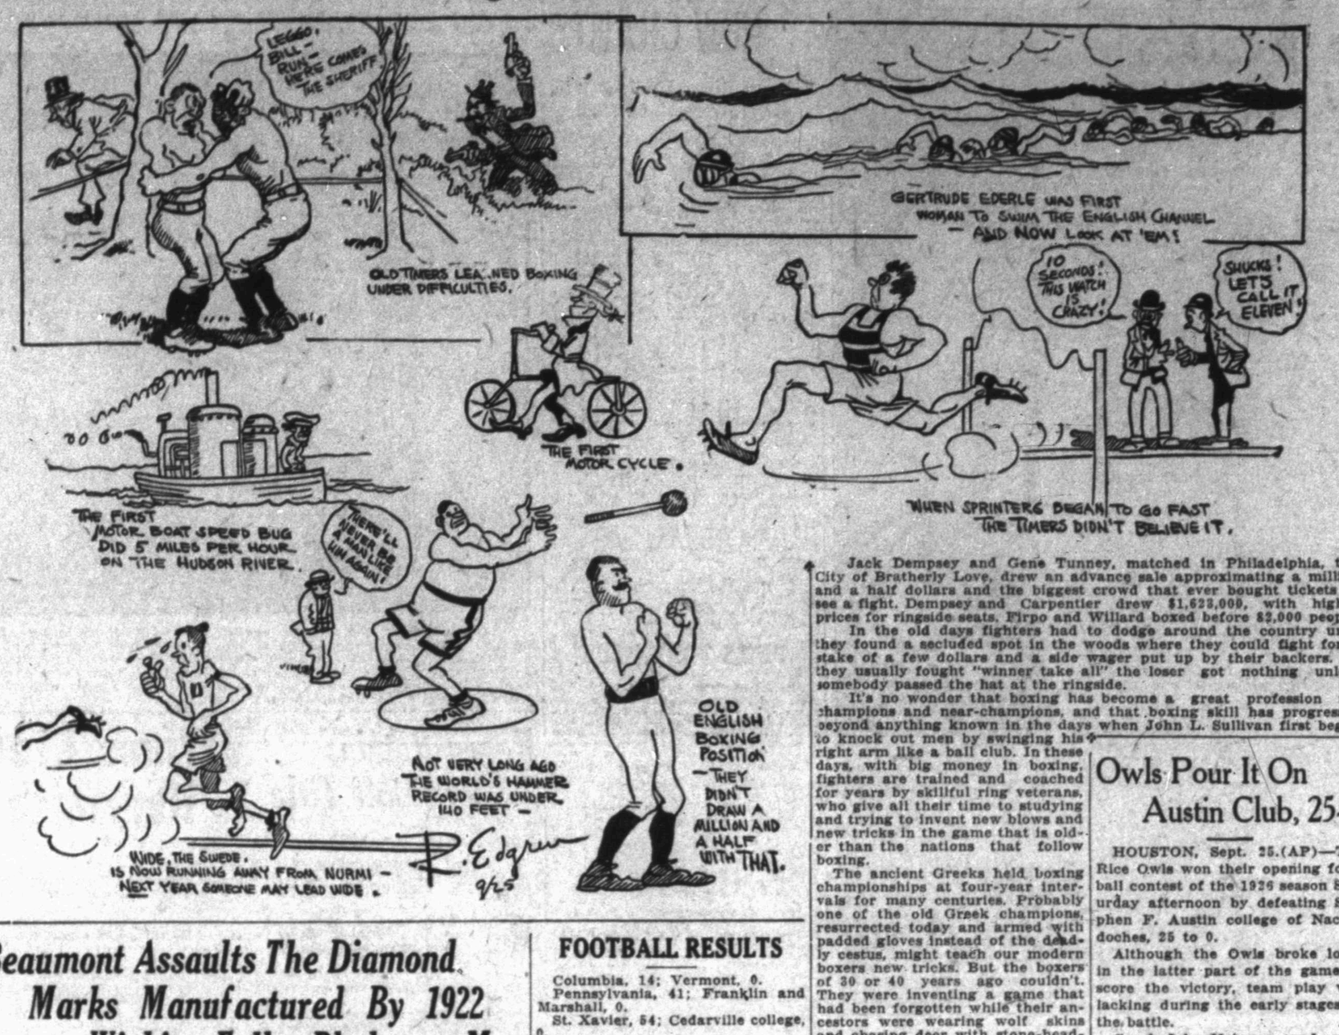

The 1926 gridiron itingrary of the marines will require some 9,000 miles of rail travel. Most college teams play a maximum of 10 games and prefer 8 or 9, although the Haskell Indians and the University of Southern California last season each played 13 games. College elevens also generally want to play at least half of their games at home.

But the Quantico marines, largely an assemblage of former college football stars, are an ambitious lot of players. They have no academic pursuits to keep them from entraining from the Quantico "campus" so they easily can play all but two of their games away from home. Those two games, incidentally, are not to be played at Quantico but at Washington, not many miles away in order to give the men from the post a chance to see their team in action.

NEBRASKA LOOKS RAGGED

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 25.(AP)—The University of Nebraska football team scored two touchdowns against the freshman squad in the first game of the season here this afternoon. The first team however, looked ragged, mentors said and was substituted in the second half by the second team candidates, who played a commendable game against the first year men.

Moderns Have Distinct Edge On Old Timers In Athletics——By Edgren

Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, matched in Philadelphia, the City of Bratherly Love, drew an advance sale approximating a million and a half dollars and the biggest crowd that ever bought tickets to see a fight. Dempsey and Carpentier drew $1,623,000, with higher prices for ringside seats. Firpo and Willard boxed before $2,000 people.

In the old days fighters had to dodge around the country until they found a secluded spot in the woods where they could fight for a stake of a few dollars and a side wager put up by their backers. As they usually fought "winner take all" the loser got nothing unless somebody passed the hat at the ringside.

It's no wonder that boxing has become a great profession for champions and near-champions, and that boxing skill has progressed beyond anything known in the days when John L. Sullivan first began to knock out men by swinging his right arm like a ball club. In these days, with big money in boxing, fighters are trained and coached for years by skillful ring veterans, who give all their time to studying and trying to invent new blows and new tricks in the game that is older than the nations that follow boxing.

The ancient Greeks held boxing championships at four-year intervals for many centuries. Probably one of the old Greek champions, resurrected today and armed with padded gloves instead of the deadly cestus, might teach our modern boxers new tricks. But the boxers of 20 or 40 years ago couldn't. They were inventing a game that had been forgotten while their ancestors were wearing wolf skins and chasing deer with stone-headed spears.

I've never believed that the "old time" athletes of a half century back were better men than our athletes today. In every branch of sport the modern athletes outclass the performances of the athletes of even a few years ago. This can be proved by the split-second watch and the steel tape. There's no such method of comparison in boxing, but what is true of all other sports must apply to the glove swingers too.

Records Continue to Fall

Take the swimmers. Norman Ross broke a flock of world's records and was supposed to be unbeatable. Norman was forgotten and Johnny Weismuller took his place and broke his records one after another. Now Arnie Borg, a young Swede, with the build of a classic Greek athlete, has displaced Weismuller's marks by the dozen. At any time some newcomer will put Borg back among the has-beens. Or Gertrude Ederle swims the English channel— another woman crosses next week.

Nurmi, the great Finn, displaced the marks made by a score of former champions, Finnish and American and English. Now Wide of Sweden runs Nurmi off his feet in personal competition, and breaks some of Nurmi's pet records.

Gothamites Cheer "Devil Dog" Hero

Mayor Walker Tells Gene He's Model American Man

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Gene Tunney returned to his home town Saturday to receive an enthusiastic welcome, capped by a wild demonstration at city hall, where Mayor James J. Walker officially greeted the new heavyweight champion of the world.

Nearly mobbed at first on his arrival at Pennsylvania station, Tunney made a triumphal trip down town, partly through his native Greenwich Village district and was cheered by more than 10,000 persons as he entered the city hall. There, in a room that was packed to the walls, the new king of the boxing world was told by Mayor Walker that the "crown is safe in your hands for many years to come."

Gene Makes Speech.

The fact that Tunney's return was made on short notice and in rapid fire fashion, Mayor Walker pointed out, prevented the welcome from being as spectacular as it has been to such other sports notables as Gertrude Ederle or Bobby Jones.

Responding to the mayor's greetings, Tunney said:

"After such a splendid demonstration it is only befitting that I say a few words of appreciation. First, I want to say that I got a blow or two in the throat in Philadelphia the other night which has made my voice husky, but that is not going to prevent me from expressing my gratitude for this reception.

"The first time I ever heard Mayor Walker speak was when I was a boy going to school, at a time when I was but knee high to a grasshopper. He was a boy orator then and since has become a full-grown orator. That was in Greenwich Village and I particularly want to thank my old neighbors there who have stuck to me and had faith that I would win."

Won Two Titles.

Mayor Walker told Tunney that those who know your character and the citizenship you represent and the high principles you learned at your mother's knee, not only look upon you as the champion boxer of the world, but as a champion model American young man.

"As a matter of fact," the chief executive continued, "you won two championships. You won the boxing championship of the world and accomplished the greatest of aquatic feats." Here the mayor referred to the downpour of rain in which Tunney and Dempsey fought.

Owls Pour It On Austin Club, 25-0

HOUSTON, Sept. 25.(AP)—The Rice Owls won their opening football contest of the 1926 season Saturday afternoon by defeating Stephen F. Austin college of Nacogdoches, 25 to 0.

Although the Owls broke loose in the latter part of the game to score the victory, team play was lacking during the early stages of the battle.

Coach John Heisman used every man on his squad for the first game. Work of the forwards was exceptionally good. Davis in the backfielder was the leading ground gainer for the victors.

Country Club Golf Tourney Postponed

Qualifying rounds scheduled to start yesterday at the Country club in the annual three-flight tournament were postponed to next Saturday and Sunday because of bad weather, said Club Professional William Strachan.

Plans had been laid for the beginning of a bang-up tournament Saturday. But with a fortunate break in the weather due this week just as good a start is expected to be obtained over the next weekend.

Beaumont Assaults The Diamond Marks Manufactured By 1922 Wichita Falls Bludgeon Men

Shippers Best Spudders' Batting and Total Hits Records, Owens Betters Osborn's Performance

Only five new Texas League records were produced by the close and exciting campaign just closed, three being club marks and two individual. For the first time in several years, no individual records on offensive play were smashed. While the pace in record-breaking fell far short of 1925 when eleven new marks were set in general, the leading performances of 1926 were better than last year.

The five records are scattered among four clubs. Beaumont added three points to the club batting record, leading the league with a figure of .311. The best previous figure was the .302 of Wichita Falls in 1922. The Exporters also hammered out 1,731 hits, nearly 100 more than any Texas League club has made in a single season. This also smashed a 1922 Wichita Falls record. Fort Worth had 1,317 men left on base, breaking the club's own 1925 record.

No other club records were broken. Among notable performances however was Beaumont's 208 double plays, the best league record since 1920 when six clubs made over 200, and Wichita Falls' home run mark of 137 good enough to beat the record which existed a year before Waco brought its band-box park back into the loop. The Spudders' extra mark this year also was better than the 1923 record, while Houston dropped but a few short of the record in triples.

The notable individual record of the year goes to Bonowitz of Shreveport, who set the record for center fielding average at .997, seven points better than the 1924 percentage of Calvo, Fort Worth. This feat gives Bonowitz both center field records. He led in chances accepted last year with a new mark. By participating in 57 games as a pitcher, Owens of San Antonio bested the previous mark held by Osborn, Wichita Falls, 1923, but did not even approach the innings pitched mark.

Texas Leaguers are still shooting at two records set in 1907, the first year of the present league—Butch Kerns' total chances for catchers record which has litle chance of ever being equalled, and the fielding average for catchers set by Alexander of San Antonio, since tied. Other records ancedate 1920—Toney Thebo's 90 stolen bases in 1908, and the sacrifice hit record by Dodd of Beaumont those on offense. Records held by Kerns, Thebo, and Harry Ables seem unassailable under modern conditions. Had Deviveros of Beaumont finished the season on the field, he would probably have broken the record for chances accepted at shortstop held by Stow since 1917. Deviveros had only to average six chance in his last five games to breaks it.

The following tables show Texas League records up to the 1926 season and the leaders in each department for 1926 with new records indicated by *

King and Saxon Lead Longhorns To 31-7 Victory

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—Capt. Mack Saxon and Rufus King were offensive in the Texas University's 31-7 victory here Saturday over the Southwest Oklahoma Teachers.

Saxon showed to advantage in off-tackle dashes and in snatching short passes from King, while King showed flashes of his 1925 form in plunging the line.

The most thrilling play was Simmon's grabbing of a pass from Craddock that was good for a 52-yard gain and the only touchdown of the visitors. Simmons played a great game for the losers, as did Jackson, tackle.

Yanks Favorites In Series Wagers

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.(AP)—The national league pennant triumph of the St. Louis Cardinals stimulated betting on the world's series in Wall Street today.

The largest wager, placed on the assumption that the Yankees would win the American league flag, established the New York team as a 13 to 10 favorite, $13,000 being placed against $10,000. The short end was taken by a group of St. Louis enthusiasts.

Among a number of freak bets reported was one of $6,500 to $500 or 13 to 1 that the Yankees do not win the first four games, and another of $7,000 to $500, or 14 to 1, that the Cardinals don't capture four in a row.

Oklahoma City To Seek Release From Western For Texas Loop Berth

Indians' Prez Is Peeved at Treatment Given In Recent Altercation With Des Moines

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Oklahoma City club of the Western League will seek release to join the Texas League it was announced here today.

John Holland, president said that attorneys representing the stockholders would accompany him to the winter meeting of the national association to petition for the release. The Oklahoma club he said, was not satisfied with its treatment.

H. B. Carson, vice president of the club recently requested K. M. Landis, national baseball dictator to investigate the last Western League pennant race with a view to uncovering irregularity in the conduct of Des Moines games if it existed. The investigation was turned over to Mike Sexton, president of the national association whose ensuing report reproached Oklahoma City for the protest, but compelled Des Moines and Omaha to play a game which Des Moines had forfeited.

The Oklahoma City management was displeased by the refusal of Des Moines to play a post season series, which Holland recently requested.

Just what steps will be taken in the effort to place Oklahoma City in the Texas league were not revealed, but Holland indicated that a friendly adjustment would be sought.

TEXAS WOULD WELCOME TRIBE.

Were such a situation ever to develop whereby Oklahoma City or Tulsa, or both Sooner cities, withdrew from the Western league and could, with good grace and without breaking the law of the National association of baseball leagues seek entrance to the Texas league, the Lone Star loop would extend a hearty welcome, J. Doak Roberts, Texas league president, told the Record News sports editor not long ago.

"But," said Doak, "I cannot afford to even intimate such a thing, nor to discuss it in any way. That's bad business. It might look like the Texas league was tampering with clubs in the Western. To do such is in direct violation of the National association laws and would result in a heavy fine being placed against the offenders."

One would infer then, that if Oklahoma City can make the leap ethically and without smashing the association laws the Texas league will be quick to take the Indians in. The Roberts circuit owns the Waco franchise, which, no doubt, would be sold to Oklahoma City should Holland seek entrance, providing, of course, withdrawal from the Western went through in correct form and the association sanctioned the move to Texas.

TWO REDS IN NAT'L LEAGUE BATTING LEAD

Manush Shows His Heels To Sluggers In American Drive

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (AP)—The closing games of the majors season find two Cincinnati Reds in a neck and neck race for the 1926 individual batting championship of the National League.

Sunday's final efforts may juggle the official figures somewhat but well out in front are Bubbles Hargrave, veteran catcher, and Walter Christensen, St. Paul's Association outfielder who found a regular place in the Reds lineup when Bressler had to retire.

Christensen has had an excellent first year as a major regular and is a fair way to finish with an average around .350, where he wound up the 1925 association season with a .325 percentage. Hargrave is well ahead of his last year's performance, crowding .360 where he finished the previous season at an even .300.

Two pirates are ahead at the run getting, averages released today and including Wednesday's games showing that Cuyler and Waner to be the only two league players over the century mark in tallies. The veteran Cuyler has also unofficially captured the base stealing crown worn off last year by Max Carey.

Hack Wilson of the Cubs leads in home run slugging, with Bottomley, of the Cardinals, his nearest rival. Waner is ahead in triples and Bottomley leads the list of two-bagger specialists.

Kremer of Pittsburgh shown by today's averages with 20 victories and five games lost, and Rhem, credited with 21 games won for St. Louis and seven lost, leads the moundsmen. Root of Chicago and Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn are fighting for the year's strikeout record.

Cincy Leads in Hitting

Cincinnati tops the teams in batting with a .291 average, the Cards are hitting four points behind and Pittsburgh is third with a .286 average.

Leading hitters in more than half the year's games: Christensen, Cincinnati .358; Bressler, Cincinnati, .357; Hargrave, Cincinnati, .356; E. Smith, Pittsburgh, .346; Stephenson, Chicago, .338; Waner, Pittsburgh, .334; Brown, Boston, .334; Williams, Philadelphia, .333; L. Bell, St. Louis, .329; Leach, Philadelphia, .329.

The spurt under the wire in the American leaves Manush awaiting only the approval of final official figures to move the American league leading batting crown from Harry Heilmann's locker in the Detroit club house to his own.

Despite a current faltering in his stride, the Tiger outfielder bids to wind up the year with a slugging average around .375, and is well in the lead. Heilmann, who carried off the honors in 1925, ranks fourth among the regulars.

Ruth Out of It

Babe Ruth, striving with virtually no chance of success to equal his world's record of 59 home runs places just below Manush in hitting and is well out in front in run getting. Leading American league hitters including Wednesday's gains and released today, credit him with 134 scores, but also show Goslin of the Senators and Mostil of Chicago, Gehrig of the Yankees, Coombs of New York and McManus of St. Louis as having reached or passed the century mark.

Johnny Mostil of the White Sox has certainly better than a chance of retaining the league base stealing title. Ruth, of course, leads in home runs. Burns of Cleveland is safe with a new all-time doubles total, and Gehrig leads in three-base hits.

Among the pitchers, today's averages show George Uhle with 26 games won and 10 lost for Cleveland. His nearest rival is Herb Pennock of the Yankees with a 21-12 record for the year. Lefty Grove of the Athletics is crowding a 300 strikeout total.

Washington leads in club batting with an average of .293.

Detroit, Cleveland and the Yankees all are hitting .289.

Leading hitters playing in more than half the season's games: Manush, Detroit, .375; Ruth, New York, .368; Goslin, Washington, .360; Heilmann, Detroit, .360; Burns of Cleveland, .357; Fothergill, Detroit, .357; Collins of Chicago, .344; Falk, Chicago, .341; E. Rice Washington, .340; Simmons, Philadelphia, .340; Cobb, Detroit, .340.

Gleason Victor In Baltimore Classic

BALTIMORE - WASHINGTON SPEEDWAY, LAUREL, Mr. Sept. 25. AP)—Jimmy Gleason, driving a Miller special won the 100 mile feature race in the National Motor Racing association card today. Last Major Golf Meet of Year at Philly This Week

BY RAY McCARTHY.
Special Correspondent, The Record News.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The last major golf tournament of the year and one of the most colorful of all, will be played at the Marion club in Philadelphia next week with America's premier woman golfer, Miss Glenna Collett, defending her title as national champion. The Providence wonder girl will face an all star field, including a number of very promising youngsters who are likely to upset the dope completely.

One of the most prominent members of this younger group is Miss Virginia Van Wie, 17 years old. This Chicago lass, who has a splendid physique and a very sound game gave evidence of her possibilities last winter when she won two out of three tournaments on the Florida east coast. She won the Florida championship at Palm Beach against a very strong field and was beaten in the semi-final round at Ormand by Miss Dorothy Klotz, only to come back the following week and win another title at St. Augustine, where she defeated Miss Collett in the final round in 19 holes of play. This was one of the best matches ever played between two women golfers in this country. In the contest Miss Van Die was frequently ahead of her noted opponent in drives and displayed a remarkable short game. Her irons as well as her putting are as good as any woman's in the country.

Miss Maureen Orcutt is another who will bear watching. Like Miss Van Wie the New Jersey girl, who now is a student at New York university, has a good physique for the game, is a long hitter and an exceptionally fine iron player. The methopolitan champion has been improving steadily during the past five years, and is about ready to step out in national competition and take her place alongside of the leaders.

TULANE BEATS L. I.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25. (AP) Tulane's green wave battered the Louisiana Institute eleven for a 40 to 0 victory here today. Though "Peggy" Flournoy, the greatest backfield man in the history of the university has been graduated, Clark Shaughnessy's charges piled up a larger score on the Polytech aggregation today than in 1925.

TEACHERS BEAT CLARENDON

AMARILLO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Playing on a field of deep mud and in driving sleet and rain with freezing weather prevailing, the West Texas State Teachers College defeated the Clarendon College football team here this afternoon 2 to 0. A bad pass from the Clarendon center on the ten yard line resulted in the safety which gave Canyon victory.

Now Bring On Your World Series The Yanks Are "In!"

Their latest victory gives the New York Yankees the AmericanLeague championship, held for two years by the Washington Senators. It is now mathematically impossible for the New York team to lose the league lead and pennant. The panorama above is of the Yankee Stadium in New York where one-half of the world's series will be played this fall. Inset in their regular positions, are the regulars of the Yankee team, Urban Shocker, pitching ace of Huggins crew, and Manager Huggins.

HEYDLER PAYS RAJAH TRIBUTE

National League Prexy Says Race Greatest In History

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—The pennant victory of the St. Louis Cardinals is a "fitting climax" to "the most wonderful race in the history of our league," John A. Heydler National League president today told the Associated Press.

The league executive paid high tribute to Rogers Hornsby, young playing manager of the new champions and especially praised the manner in which the four eastern teams, though in the second division have fought their western rivals right down to the finish.

"Not a breath of suspicion or a charge of partiality clouded the last stage of this clean cut race," Mr. Heydler declared. The text of his statement follows:

"In many ways it has been the most wonderful race in the history of our league and it does seem a most fitting climax that St. Louis could win its first pennant in a year that excelled all others for thrills, upsets, closeness and stubbornness. That the St. Louis victory is most popular the country over goes without saying.

Pulled For Hornsby

"Of course much of the sentiment in their favor was because St. Louis was the one pennantless town in both major leagues. But even aside from this, the fans were pulling for the team because of the popularity of that great batsman Rogers Hornsby. They wanted to see him in the world series. They wanted to see this young player-manager win after his great fight in his first full year as a manager.

"The Cardinals' triumph is a high tribute to the calm, cool, common sense method of Hornsby in his leadership. The team he leads is one of the gamest that ever won our flag. It lost the lead four times before it finally clinched the pennant.

'I am particularly gratified over the way the struggle was fought out to the very end. Our four eastern teams were out of the race. Not one of them had a chance for any first division money. Yet they engaged the four leaders in the last inter-sectional series and played against every one of them as though they were fighting for the flag. Not a breath of suspicion or a charge of partiality clouded the last stage of this clean-cut race. All the western leaders had a ruf road all the way through the east.

Sounds Like Doak

"And in this regard I wish to pay a well deserved tribute to our staff of umpires and the part they played in this close struggle. While even the star players and the veterans on all the teams engaged made errors that, through strain and over eagerness, changed the result of many games yet our umpires went through one close and bitter series after the other in fine shape, so far as I am informed they did not make one vital or deciding mistake in all those important games as the season waned.

"All in all, this has been the greatest year in attendance and interest our league has ever known."

Gorman to Meet Mantell In Return Go Thursday

Jack Gorman, the Wichita Falls mat favorite, agreed yesterday to meet Dutch Mantell here Thursday at 140 pounds weight, according to Promoter A. B. Ross.

Gorman lost a very much disputed decision to Mantell here more than a month ago and a number of his backers have been calling for a return battle.

After beating Yaqui Joe last Thursday Mantell declared willingness to take Gorman at 140 pounds with $100 weight forfeit to go as a side bet if both made the weight. Gorman has acquiesced, said Ross.

They are to battle to a finish.

The popular Joe Kopecky, Chicago middleweight, meets the very unpopular Eddie Pope in a finish match on the same card, according to the matchmaker.

All-City Golf Tourney Plans To Be Made This Week With Play Probably Beginning Oct. 9-10

Plans are underway for the second annual all-city golf tournament to be staged this year at the Municipal club probably starting two weeks hence. The tourney was held over the Country club course last year.

Jack Hale and J. T. Yeargin of the Munty club, Carter McGregor and William Strachan of the Country club compose the tournament committee.

The committee expects to meet early this week to discuss plans. It was said that qualifying rounds probably will be held October 9-10.

Baylor Wins 7-0 On Forward Pass

WACO, Sept. 25. (AP)—A perfectly executed forward pass of 18 yards, which came in the closing second of the first half, made victory possible for the Baylor Bears in their debut football engagement of the year 1926. The pass, which Kelly shot in the waiting arms of Louis Slade accounted for the only score of a game as stubbornly contested as any opening day engagement ever seen in this city. The score was Baylor 7, Southwestern 0, and the score just about tells the story of the game.

All Set For Little World Series Play

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (AP)—The "little world's series" between the Toronto International league champions and the Louisville American association champions is scheduled to open in Toronto on Tuesday, September 28. The plan is to play Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday with Friday, October 1, open in case of a postponement of any of the previous games. The next game will be played on Saturday, October 2, after which both clubs will move to Louisville, where the first game in the western end of the series will be played. Play will continue until one club has won five games.

HERB POPULAR MAN

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 25. (AP)—Herb Hall, Denver pitcher, has been voted teh most valuable player of 1926 in the Western League, Dale Gear, president of the league announced here tonight. The selection, made by official scorers will give Hall a $500 cash prize offered by the eight clubs.

George Blaeholder, Tulsa pitcher, was named the second best player, and Fred Henry, Omaha, first baseman the third most valuable. Blaeholder will receive $300, Henry $200.

Victory Over Trinity Leads To Optimism in Aggie Camp

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 25.—Victorious over Trinity, 26 to 0, at Waxahachie Friday the Aggie squad returned in good shape to Kyle field Saturday to put in a week of practice for Southwestern. Expecting the game with the Pirates to be the easiest of the two preliminary tilts, the victory over Holton's Tigers has encouraged the new Aggie squad tremendously. Their work from here on will really be aimed at the Sewanee game at Dallas on October 9, as there is every reason to believe that Bible's men will come up to this contest undefeated.

There may be revisions in the starting line-up by the time the Aggies hit Sewanee at Dallas, but at this moment, it looks as if Bible has found his regular combination, although only Captain Dieterich, Hunt and Sykes of Friday's starting line-up can be figured as regulars from last year. Much has been expected of Simmons and he gave a good account of himself at fullback, especially as a line plunger, and it looks now as if the Aggies will have a versatile backfield with Hunt, Colgin, Woodman and Simmons to rely upon.

The punting has not come up to optimistic hopes as yet and unless a dependable kicker is produced in the next two weeks, Sewanee will take the field at Fair park stadium on October 9 with a kicking advantage.

Coyotes Due for Another Pummeling This Week In Cameron Embroglio

Wichita Falls Eleven Well-Balanced But Green Team, Played Good Football At Lawton

Bud McCallum's Coyotes are in for more thorough pommeling as part of their conditioning program this week when they meet the usually powerful eleven from Cameron Agricultural college, a junior college with a good reputation in Oklahoma football circles. This team will probably present an even more substantialy attack than that presented by Lawton high school in the latter's 20-0 lacing of the Coyotes Friday. With the Decatur Baptist college next on the program in the pre-league games, Bud evidently figures on giving his green eleven all the experience in condensed doses possible.

Mac declared Saturday that the Pack played as good fotball Friday as they did against Walters but had much more powerful opposition. There is no alibi, he stated, but he is willing to admit that his charges got a thorough lacing from a team superior in condition and in experience. The greenness of the Coyotes came out in full view up against the tough problems furnished by Lawton and the young Coyotes often, although trying their best, didn't seem to know quite which way to head.

Line Big Problem

According to Mac, the line is still the big problem. He plans to rebuild entirely the forward wall in an effort to bring it into some sort of strength required by league competition. In an effort to accomplish this purpose Captain Dobson will be pulled from end to his old position at tackle and Wymore Downing, a guard from last year, wil lbe assigned the other tackle. Sisk, though much needed in the backfield, will be pulled back into the line at end. It has been a problem all the season to find tackles and ends with sufficient power and experience to fit up into championship hopes, in spite of the fact that several new men are showing up well.

The arrangement by which Sisk is called from the backfield breaks up the winning combination of Ray Lynch, Sisk and Francis that worked so well in the Walters game and of which much was expected. Lynch has suffered an injury that bids fair to keep him out of much play all season and Francis also has had to nurse a weak ankle all season. These facts make the outlook for a first-class backfield that was so bright a week ago practically fade away. Allred, Mills, and McKinney are all showing up well among the new men for backfield positions, but their relative inexperience makes them stil lin the class of uncertainties for big league competition.

A glance over the material at practice seems to show that the Coyotes have the best balanced squad in years, but greenness is hard to overbalance by mere weight and god intentions. Bud expects to make the coming week's workouts real classics and the game here with Cameron Aggies should be a rather reliable examination for the week's lessons.

Clout On Alsophagus Nearly Ruined Gene's Title Chances

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.(AP)—When Gene Tunney told cheering thousands at City Hall yesterday that his voice was husky from a blow or several blows on the throat in Philadelphia the other night few if any, realized that he was referring to a near-tragedy in his pugilistic life.

The blow mentioned so casually was not taken lightly for a minute in Tunney's corner Thursday night. A terrific hook from Dempsey's left caught Tunney on the adams apple near the close of the sixth round. Tunney finished the remaining few seconds of the round in distress and had difficulty in breathing when he reached his corner.

The minute's rest and attention from the skillful fingers of Jimmy Bronson restored a measure of the boxer's equilibrium and none in the great crowd knew that he had been hurt more than he cared to admit even to himself at the time.

"A hard blow on the aeosophagus is not pleasant" said Tunney in discussing what might have been a narrow escape. "I was in real pain for a moment but happily for me I was able to snap out of it."

Frogs Beat Daniel Baker By 5 to 3

FORT WORTH, Sept. 25. (AP) Taking the ball on the 48-yard line with the score 3 to 2 against them, Texas Christian university's Horned Frogs came out of a slump here this afternoon against Daniel Baker in the last quarter and marched down to within striking distance, where Wolf kicked the field goal to win the opening game of the year, 5 to 3. Texas Christian university's safety came in the second period.

Three thousand fans saw the game.

TURB'S NO. 1 SWABS 1,000

Texas Company Brings In No. 9 Well At 800 Barrels

The activity of the Turbeville pool in Archer county and the Sunshine Hill district in Wichita county featured the oil news in Northwest Texas the past week. New locations in unproven territory were not numerous and wildcat completions of special interest are yet to be made.

The No. 1 Turbeville of the Plains Production company made nearly a thousand barrels in twenty four hours on the swab from sand at 1,589-96 feet. The Texas company brought in its No. 9 Turbeville on the lease north of the Plains block in section 171 of the Carson survey an this well is making about 800 barrels daily from thirty feet of the sand topped at 1,491 feet. The American Refining company No. 5 Turbeville, after various reports of its productivity, was completed as a 300 barrel pumper. The American has made locations for two more tests on its lease in section 150. L. T. Turns well in block 171, Turbeville land, is making a good showing at 1,517 feet where casing has been set and cemented.

Bridwell and Heydrick and the United Producers company No. 8 Ward and Todd in block 6, east of the Clark deep sand discovery in Sunshine Hill, was drilled into the sand at 1,881 feet and has an estimated production of between 300 and 400 barrels. New tests are started so frequently that nobody seems to know of them all and the trading of acreage is active. The good grade of oil, accessibility, and comparative small expense of obtaining the pay in this district is drawing the attention of many operators.

The play around the Lynch et al well north of Muenster in Cooke county continues lively. No less than a half dozen rigs are under construction in that area where the discovery is producing from 800 feet. That well, incidentally, made 18 barrels of oil in the first three hours it was pubped. In the Bulcher field south of Saint Jo many rigs are running and several are feeling for the pay. Hooser Oil company and C. C. Lanier should report the completion of several wells early next week.

The Empire Gas and Fuel company placed its No. 4 Parkey on the pump as a commercial producer and the Empire-Moran No. 2 Parkey is also completed as a producer. Both of these wells found the pay a little below 1,570 feet.

Wichita Falls was selected by one of the large producing companies of the Mid-Continent for headquarters base last week when the Reiter-Foster corporation established offices in the Bob Waggoner building with ten employes transferred from the Tulsa offices to conduct the Lone Star activities.

PIPELINE RUNS NEAR 100,000

Wichita County Furnishes Most of the Gain; Wilbarger Up

Daily average pipeline runs in the Wichita district lacked less than 200 barrels topping the 100,000 barrel mark during the past week. The daily runs totaled 99,849 barrels as compared with 96,420 barrels for the preceding week, a gain of 3,429 barrels. This increase in production comes mainly from Wichita county, the new wells in Sunshine Hill boosting the Electra average up to 19,280 barrels. Wilbarger county showed new life with a nice gain while the steady climb of Montague county was maintained, that district going over 8,000 barrels. Archer and Baylor counties registered increases. The changes in the averages of the other district were insignificent.

The averages by fields follow:

Field	B. Last Week	B. Prev. Week
Electra	19,280	16,830
Burkburnett	11,700	11,710
Iowa Park	4,205	4,220
Archer	30,855	30,675
Clay	665	600
Wilbarger	14,475	14,195
Montague	8,155	7,480
Young	8,356	8,520
Jack	230	230
Throckmorton	1,415	1,455
Baylor	148	130
Cooke	365	375
Totals	99,849	96,420

Daily average gain of 3,429 barrels.

Giant Snake Flees From Cage At Fair

NEW BRAUNFELS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Hope of finding "Big Boy," a 16-foot boa constrictor, that escaped fro mits cage at the Comal County fair early Friday slowly diminished as a posse headed by John Barnes, snake expert, of Floresville, searching the underbrush and woods about the city, failed to pick up any new traces of the runaway boa constrctor.

LYNCHING RECALLED

Death of Gilmer Woman Revives Old Incident.

GILMER, Tex., Sept. 25.(AP)—The death of Mrs. Virgie Hammrock, from gunshot wounds at Tyler yesterday recalls the lynching in Gilmer seven years ago of a negro who was accused by Mrs. Hammrock of having attacked her. She is said later to have repudiated the statement. The negro was hanged and while the mob was rushing to the court house with him, Dave Reynolds, a prominent citizen was killed when struck by a horse.

DESERTION CHARGED

Governor Gets Requistion for Man From Oklahoma.

AUSTIN, Sept. 25.(AP)—Requisition requests from the governor of Oklahoma for R. D. Wellman, held in jail at Dallas on a complaint charging desertion of his family in Kiowa county, Oklahoma, was delivered to Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson Saturday, by Deputy Sheriff S. Sanderfer of Kiowa county. The governor has not acted upon the requisition.

First Reports In Okla. Totalled 68

TULSA, Okla., Sept. 25. (AP)—"First reports," meaning new wells started in Oklahoma oil fields the past fiscal week, totaled 68.

Eighteen counties were listed in the report. Okmulgee led with 11; Creek was second with 9; Seminole and Tulsa were tied for third place with 7 each; Carter, Kay and Pawnee, each reported 5; Grady and Muskogee had 4 each; Osage had 3; Hughes, Jefferson, Lincoln, McIntosh, Marshall, Payne, Stephens and Wagoner, one each.

The Kansas oil fields developed 25 "first reports" the past week.

Greenwood county led with 13; Butler and Cowley each had 3; Lyon, Marion and Russell,3 each, and Sumner 1.

MARKET FEELS COOL WEATHER

Jobbers Buying Unsteadily On U. S. Motor; Others Slipping

Mid-Continent refiners report that the cooler weather now setting in in the northern states is beginning to effect spot tank car quotations. Jobbers are buying in a hand-to-mouth fashion and prices are not as steady as they have been. U. S. motor gasoline is held at 10 1-2 to 10 3-4 cents, that is 58-60,437 grade. Other grades are equally slipping.

At Chicago the U. S. motor prices are reported at 10 1-2 to 10 2-4 cents. Kerosene and fuel oils are unchanged.

California made gasoline is beginning to arrive at Atlantic coastal refinery centers and prices there are softening as a result of this new competition.

Pennsylvania refiners have reduced kerosene prices one-fourth of a cent a gallon in tank-car lots, says a wire from Oil City.

BOND PRICES CONTINUE TO SAG IN WEEK

Close Of Trading Period Finds Conditions Improving

BY BYRON SELLERS
Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Bond prices have continued to sag. Just at the close there was some improvement, not so much in quotations as in inquiry.

Probably the day to day fluctuations are of little importance as indicative of a trend. Early in September the average price of domestic issues made a new high since the world war, and while this average is a shade lower now the change is so small as to be negligible so far as the individual investor is concerned. It is the traders who are troubled by the pause in the advance, which has been going on with only minor interruptions for so long a period. They see little opportunity for profits and so the volume of business falls off and the market drifts along.

Money Controls

The future of investment securities is bound up with that of the money market. In this respect the developments of the week were encouraging. Call money renewed on Friday at 5 per cent after holding at 5 1-2 per cent most of the week. The federal reserve ratios showed higher reserve values for both the system as a whole and for the New York bank. More important in the eyes of speculators was the action of the New York bank in making no change in its rediscount rate, which continues to stand at four per cent. Time money ruled steady around 5 per cent for the bulk of the business.

It is douutful, however, whether the feeling of relief prevalent on Friday and Saturday will continue. There is going to be talk about higher rediscount rates for a long time to come and while it is true that the federal reserve statement was more favorable this week than last, the change represents rather the competition of operations incident to the mid month financing than to any fundamental alteration in the demand for money. Few experienced bankers believe there is going to be any return to the low money rates of last summer for quite a while.

If, then, investment securities are to maintain practically a dead level of prices—and no one predicts any substantial recession—market interest will center around the higher yielding domestic bonds, principally railroad, foreign issues and new issues.

Rails Supported

Taking up these three groups in order, the speculative railroad bonds, with one or two exceptions, have been well supported. Earnings statements for August now being published, are almost uniformly good. There is less concern about automobile competition. Passenger traffic in day coaches still falls off, but Pullman riders increase and freight is being moved in record totals. While the primary effect has been seen in railroad stocks, railroad bonds have been influenced favorably also. Nor is it now so sure that future railroad financing will be done with stock to as great an extent as anticipated The Illinois Central sold a bond issue recently when it could just as well, as far as the market is concerned sold stock.

In the foreign list there has been a good deal of profit taking after the rise of last week. In some cases prices have yielded somewhat, but for the most part the earlier gains have been held. There is still room for great improvement in foreign bonds, not only of the high-yielding type such as French Belgion or Italian, but in the more conservative obligations of the Scandinavian countries. The limiting factor is the prices at which these various issues are redeemable. On that account it is advisable capital appreciation more than to able for the buyer who looks to current income to take the lower coupon bonds in preference to those of higher rates.

New financing is not in especially large volume. There is no pressure upon the market of undistributed new offerings. This is all the more remarkable because of the low yield basis on which some of the new domestic bonds have been sold. It certainly speaks well for the underlying strength of the investment demand.

German Bonds

The most interesting individual offering this week was that for the Siemens Electric group in Germany. Incidentally it was one of the largest pieces of new foreign financing in a long time. The unique feature was the provision for paying bond holders additional interest contingent upon the amount by which the cash divided on the stocks of the companies concerned shall have exceeded a fixed percentage.

Other German loans marketed in America have carried profit participating provisions in the shape of warrants for the purpase of stock which have proved very attractive. It looks now as though the American investor was in the way of becoming not only a creditor but a partner in German industry to a greater extent than appeared possible a year or two ago.

MAGNOLIA, TUTTLE

The Magnolia Petroleum company has set casing on its Nos. 2 and 3 Fasset and Tuttle in the Bradford survey southwest of Iowa Park. These wells have not hit the sand yet, having depths of 1,346 feet and 1,349 feet respectively.

Kimmel and Dillard No. 3 on the same fee is drilling at 300 feet.

NIGGER CREEK SLUMPS

The Nigger Creek field of Limestone county, Texas, produced 10,429 barrels from 5 wells the last 24 hours.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.(AP)—Early advances on unfavorable weather reports and talk of a selling movement in the south, were followed by reactions in the cotton market today. After selling up to 14.99, or 21 points net higher and 45 points above the low level of yesterday, December eased off to 14.84 and closed at that figure compared with 14.78 at the close Friday.

The general market closed easy at net advances of two to nine points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 15 to 27 cints, and sold about 32 to 51 points net higher during the forenoon on covering and buying for a rally, promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables, less favorable weather news and reports that Texas bankers propose to raise a fund of $100,000,000 to lend farmers on cotton withheld from market.

Official predictions for frost tonight in northwestern sections of Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas being the first of the season, no doubt stimulated demand to some extent but after selling up to 14.79 for October and 15.09 for January the market turned easier.

Evidently there was no general apprehension of killing temperatures in the southwest so early in the season and as soon as demand from shorts slackened the market seemed to lose particular support. Covering yesterday were among the sellers late. There also was renewed hedging, selling in the late trading. Closing prices were the lowest of the day with October at 14.63 and January at 14.91.

Reports that Texas bankers were intending to raise a large fund to assist in retiring a million bales of he crop from market, drew a great deal of attention which local brokers said was one of the main factors on the early rally.

The amount of cotton on ship board awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 124,000 bales against 121,000 last year.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25.(AP)—Trading in the cotton market was quite active toda yand the price range was fairly wide. Owing to the strong cold wave shown in the northwest with tempertures but a little above freezing in the northwestern corner of the cotton belt, coupled with better Liverpool cables than due the market opened higher and scored advances of 17 to 37 points in the early trading. The close was near the lows, showing a net gain of 2 points on October and net losses of 1 to 2 points on later months.

At the start first trades showed gains of 37 points on October and 17 to 23 points on later months. These first trades proved the highs of the day with October at 14.91; December at 15.18 and January at 15.05.

The later reaction on dealising and hedge selling carried October down to 14.60, December to 14.80 and January to 14.86, or 19 to 25 points down from the highs. This decline about cancelled the early gains and the market closed near the lows.

CHICAGO COTTON.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.(AP)—Cotton futures closed January 14.87; October 14.66; December 14.85.

Operators Recall Breck Discovery

ABILENE, Texas, Sept. 25.—Veteran oil operators, in predicting that the Phillips discovery well, Joe Winter No. 1, in southwest Jones county, will open up a great oil field ,recall the Parks discovery well at Breckenridge which opened up one of the best fields in the history of the Mid-Continent field.

Contrasting the Winter well, the Parks discovery came in flowing 100 barrels, whereas the Winter well came in with 600 barrels initial and has since increased to approximately 1,000 barrels daily.

A copy of the Breckenridge Democrat, printed October 26, 1916, and owned then by R. A. Thomas o this city, contains a remarkable prophecy concerning oil development in Stephens county. After detailing the circumstances surrounding the discovery of oil in the Parks well six miles south of Breckenridge, the editor declares that "this strike proves to a certainty that over half of Stephens county is underlaid with a deep sand that can be depended on to be a good producer."

Gulf Joins In On Panhandle Prices

AMARILLO, Texas, Sept. 25.—The Gulf Production company yesterday joined the Magnolia Petroleum company and the Humble Pipeline company in the tumbling of prices on Panhandle crude. The Gulf announced a flat rate of $1.29 per barrel.

Reports from the Kay company were to the effect that this company had not yet met the reduction.

One Dead, 2 Dying In Crossing Crash

LA GRANGE, Tex., Sept. 25. (AP) One son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kallus is dead, and two others are believed fatally injured as the result of a collision between a Southern Pacific train and their automobile near here last night. They were returning from services at a Catholic church at Ellinger. Peter Kallus, 11, died in a LaGrange hospital this morning. Anton, 19, and Ludwig, 16, are not expected live.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.(AP)—Stock prices gained ground today although extreme advances in many instances were sharply reduced by a last minute wave of profit taking. Closing quotations were irregular but with net gains ranging from one to as much as five points predominating.

Favorable trade reports, particularly from the retail merchandise field, coupled with signs of greater stability in the money markets gave impetus to the early buying movement which broadened steadily until the final fifteen minutes of trading. Steel, equipment, chemical and amusement shares were favored.

Resuming its upward movement after several days of hesitation, General Motors climbed to 140¾, the highest price since the distribution of its stock dividend. It was accompanied into higher ground by DuPont which rose more than five points to a new top at 320¼. Fears of price cutting in the motor industry were subsequently aroused by the announcement that Studebaker had made substantial reductions and the automobile shares encountered renewed selling pressure. General Motors fell back to 138⅝, which represented a gain of one point for the day.

U. S. Steel closed fractionally lower at 149¾ after selling as high as 150¾. Gulf States Steel and Sloss-Sheffield were more successful in maintaining their gains, which amounted to 2¼ and 4 points, respectively, as buying developed on indication of large orders from the railroads.

The recent slump in the price of silver to the lowest point in five years was blamed for the heavy selling of American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco, which broke 2⅝ and 2¼ points. Allied Chemical, Mack Trucks, General Asphalt and Woolworth also felt the force of the late selling movement and closed one to three points lower.

Railroad shares made little progress with the exception of Norfolk and Western and Colorado and Southern, both of which were boosted about four points to new high prices.

The foreign exchange market was extremely quiet today and most of the principal rates were little changed from the day before. Sterling held firm and slightly to around $4.84 12-16 and French and Belgian francs showed slight recessions at 2.76¾ and 2.66¼ cents respectively.

ON CIRCUS DAY

Should you visit Ringling Brothers Circus on Sept. 29, you will necessarily see the very best portion of Scotland Addition. This part of the Addition will soon all be paved and the lots will be restricted and sold to people who wish to speculate and build nice medium priced cottages.

Kindly observe the class of houses that have recently been built in Scotland Addition. Look at the lay of the ground, the close proximity to school and Scotland Park. You will also observe that every modern convenience is at your command, including street car service. These lots will be the cheapest and closest in to the business district of any lots in the city containing all modern conveniences.

If interested in lots or homes already built, keep in touch with us.

How Florida Storm Crushed Miami Residences Like Egg Shells

Foundations and first stories of houses were all that remained in those districts in Miami where the West Indian storm hit with all its might. Roofs and upper stories were almost all demolished. This view of a row of storm-wracked houses in a residential section of Miami gives a vivid impression of the relentless force of the storm.

Survivors Search for Relatives in Tumbled Miami

Survivors of the Miami storm are seen searching along the waterfront for friends and relatives, lost in the melee of the hurricane. The shattered skeleton of a yacht lies on the breakwater, tossed there by the storm. Scenes of utmost desolation are found throughout Miami and its suburbs as the community seeks to re-establish something like its former order.

ALTUS HIKES DAM PROJECT

Work On Water Supply Reservoir Shows Good Speed

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Sept. 25.—Webster L. Benham, city's engineer on the Lugert water project of $690,000 is elated with the progress made at the dam site after visiting the site recently, and reported everything in ideal shape at the location, and expressed his belief in a rapid completion of the work.

When the sand is excavated to the granite rock on the north side of the river, on which work began several days ago, a section of the dam will be constructed on that side and a cleanout gate installed in the section. A similar section will be constructed on the south side of the river which will also include a cleanout gate. The river will then be diverted through these cleanout gates and the middle of the dam will be built.

There will be four cleanout gates in the dam, each with a water carrying capacity of 2,000 cubic feet per second which is equivalent to 648,000 gallons of water daily. These four gates will carry 2,592,000 gallons of water per day and the average flow of the river on an annual basis is only 291 cubic feet per second compared to the 8,000 cubic feet per second capacity of the four cleanout gates. There will be one cleanout gate for each 100 feet of dam.

G. O. P. CHIEFS MEET

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.(AP)—The hosts of up-state republicans poured into New York city today for the opening of the party's state convention on Monday.

MERCURY SKIDS

record for 42 years is 40 degrees on September 26, 1912.

CORPUS CHRISTI WARM

Brownsville Cooler.

BROWNSVILLE, Sept. 25.(AP)—Temperatures dropped from 92 at 4 o'clock, to 84 at 7 o'clock here. Wind shifted from south into the northeast. A temperature of 65 predicted for 7 a. m. Sunday.

MIDDLE WEST GETS TASTE OF WINTER

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25.(AP)—The south and middle west were introduced to winter today when the mercury dropped down near the freezing point in several widely separated cities.

The "cold wave" extended as far south as Texas. Amarillo reported a temperature of 33 degrees and Dallas, 60.

A chilling wind swept across Oklahoma from the north and the mercury at Oklahoma City went to 41.

Temperatures in the thirties were reported generally over Kansas and Missouri today and all records for September 25, were broken here when the government thermometer registered 38 at 7 o'clock this morning.

P. Connor, forecaster predicted frost would descend as far south as Kansas City tonight and that the river lawlands should see killing layers of frozen moisture.

The lowest temperature in western Kansas reported was at Dresden where the mercury went to 19. The Goodland station registered 20 degrees temperature.

CHARLIE

SCHOOL OPENS

The Consolidated schools of Charlie, Fleming and Lineville, opened Monday, with an enrollment of 114. Owing to the pretty weather and the scarcity of cotton pickers, many children were unable to start. The term at Charlie opened with an exercise, consisting of songs and music, with Mr. Milam Gower, leading the singing. Miss Van De Venter, playin the violin, and Miss Ellen Hooper at the piano. Mr. W. C. Roddy, superintendent, introduced the teachers, Miss Lois McCurley of Lewisville, Tex., a former teacher here, Misses Van Ve Venter, Emma Zillman, and Ellen Hooper, all of Wichita Falls and Charlie Nonnan, principale of Byers. A short talk by Mr. Roddy concluded the program. Both teachers and patrons are looking forward to a very successful school term.

CHURCH SERVICES

The Rev. Dale Thorne filled his regular appointment at the Baptist church, here Sunday and conducted the baptizing, held at Gower's tank, south of Charlie, when twelve were baptized.

At the evening services the church decided to organize a B. Y. P. U. and invited the Thornberry union to render a program and assist in organization here, the first Sunday in October.

KING COTTON

western portion of it. Some of his subjects are beginning to ask if those Bolsheviks of county agents are right after all. If such service is necessary that they may pay the interest on the old mortgage and thus qualify for a new mortgage and new interest. Perhaps, say they, there may be a grain of truth in the oft-repeated assertions that there are other lords who remunerate their subjects better. Faint as it is this murmur is growing.

Alfalfa, showing a greater cash profit per acre, is adding its mite to the crumbling of King Cotton's citadel. Feed stuffs and hogs have caused a few of King Cotton's followers to forsake his standards.

But the king laughs. Or does he notice the defection of these few followers? It is doubtful. A few lost here—more gained in Brazil and India, where labor can be driven with the whip—means nothing, for the king of the southwest is entrenched behind barriers which are impregnable.

Cotton is cash; therefore king and emperor in a country where land is plentiful, but cash scarce.

JEFF PARKER KILLED

FREEZE IN ROCKIES

Denver Reports Chilly Winds From Mountains

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 25. (AP)—Another night of freezing weather was in prospect for folks in the Rocky Mountain region tonight.

However, while householders scurried desperately about to get in an adequate supply of fuel and delve into chests for warmer clothing, the district weather forecaster promised generally higher temperatures for Sunday. Scattered unofficial reports indicate only small crop losses from the unusually early cold snap.

WEEKS HOME BOOSTS MARK

One Of Best Weeks Of Whole Year Record In Construction

Another big building program was launched in Wichita Falls the past week, with a total of forty-nine individual permits issued which totaled $279,880. This is one of the best weeks of the entire year and a large majority of the permits asked for were for residence property. The big palatial mansion of Fred Weeks, which totals $150,000 in cost, is counted in the past week's total, but aside from that one big item the permits are well over a hundred thousand, which sum is more than double the permits issued the previous week. Another fine home in the past week's permits is that of W. P. Ferguson, on Hamilton boulevard, which will cost nearly sixty thousand dollars.

The new permits issued runs the total for the year up to $7,894,576, and another good week will make a total of more than eight million for the city during the year.

Regulation For Busses Favored

Motor bus operation in Texas should be subject to a certain degree of regulation by the state railroad commission but should not be placed under federal control and should be free to work out their own rate schedules.

Such was the sentiment of a gathering of transportation experts and bus operators at a hearing held the past three days in Dallas and which was attended by J. W. Chatham, industrial commission of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce. The hearings were held before Examiner Flynn of the interstate commerce commissiono.

A meeting of the shippers advisory board was also held in Dallas following the bus hearing.

TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE.

Patrons of the Barwise school district are invited to an open house at the school Friday afternoon during the hours from 2:30 to 4 o'clock. The affair is planned by the teachers and a program will be given with numbers by the children. Refreshments will be served at the close of the afternoon. All parents in this district are requested to be present.

New Floating Hotel On Lake Kemp

The floating hotel on Moonshine Bay in Lake Kemp is being taken over by the business men of Wichita Falls for a private hunting, fishing and boating lodge, according to Mrs. N. H. Marshall, proprietess. The club will be closed to the public as soon as one hundred members have been secured, and fifty have already signed up for membership, among which are the well known business men of Dallas, Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Electra and Vernon.

Weeks Turns Over Deeds To City For Valuable New South Side Park

The last step in a transaction started two years ago whereby the city has acquired property now valued at more than $250,000 was completed Saturday when W. F. Weeks, local attorney, turned over to City Attorney W. E. George a deed to the new municipal park and golf grounds south of town.

In October, 1924, the Collier administration of the city opened negotiations with Mr. Weeks which ended in a contract being drawn whereby the latter agreed to give to Wichita Falls a tract of land comprising 257 acres, provided the city would build or cause to be built an 18-foot concrete highway through the property. The county was induced by the city to do the construction and this was created one section of what is now known as the new Holliday-Park-Lake road which connects Holliday street with the old lake road via the new park and on to a junction at Lake Wichita.

With the land acquired, the Municipal Golf club was organized, a $25,000 club house was built and an 18-hole golf course constructed on the property. Picnic grounds have also been laid out and Holliday creek, which winds through the park, has been bridged at several points.

The land is now conservatively estimated to be worth $250,000, this being figured on the basis of adjacent property which has recently changed hands at a $1,000 an acre figure. The land is well wooded, has over 10,000 pecan trees and is one of the beauty spots of the city.

Although the new road has been in use for several months and the contract technically fulfilled, the deed was not delivered to the city until yesterday. Under its provisions the city has full rights and title to the property which, however, cannot be used for anything but a municipal park, picnic ground and golf course.

BIG ELECTION DUE THURSDAY

$750,000 Bonds Issue to Be Voted On By Property Owners

Property owning voters of Wichita Falls will go to the polls next Thursday to determine if bonds in the amount of $750,000 shall be issued for permanent improvements in this city.

Of this issue $500,000 will be for the erection of a municipal auditorium, which will afford an assembling place for conventions and for civic affairs. In this structure it is proposed to locate the offices of the city government.

Other Improvements.

Sewer extensions and improvements are proposed with $100,000 of the issue and street improvements are proposed with the $150,000.

The proposed auditorium will be located in the Huff-McGregor park on Seventh street, which has been pronounced by architects and engineers as an ideal location for such a structure. Should the bonds carry architects will immediately be employed and plans for an auditorium to seat fully 5,000 people will be drawn. Efforts will be made in that event to have the structure ready for occupancy for the next meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, scheduled for this city, May 16 and 17.

This auditorium in the opinion of many leaders of the city is one of the city's greatest needs.

"It will fill a long needed want and will be one of the greatest forward steps we could take," in the belief of J. T. Harrell of the City National bank.

"Heretofore one of the arguments against bringing the larger conventions to this city has been that we had no meeting place. This auditorium will answer that argument and now that Wichita Falls has grown to one of the leading cities of the state, it is time we were going after some of these larger conventions.

Huey Backs It.

Commenting on the election, A. L. Huey, president of the Wichita Falls real estate board, who has made a close study of the needs for such an auditorium, said: "Such a structure will place Wichita Falls in the class with many of the larger cities of the nation. It will also, under the plans which have been agreed upon afford a market place for the farmers of the irrigated valley and this is something that we have already felt the need for.

CHARGES CHANGED

Will Jones, colored, on trial in the 89th district court on a charge of assault with intent to murder, was sentenced to 60 days in jail and and $25 fine after which the charge was changed to aggravated assault Saturday.

Jones was found guilty of aggravated assault in connection with a shooting scrape at the home of his brother-in-law, Colonel Bell, in which Bell and a negro prize fighter were attacked by Jones following trouble Jones had with his wife.

PICKERS FEW IN E. TEXAS

Hill Returns From Long Quest In Behalf Of Valley

F. E. Hill of Iowa Park has returned from a tour through many counties of East Texas in quest of cotton pickers for the farmers of the Wichita irrigated valley. He went as an official representative of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce which has been doing what ever possible to get a sufficient number of pickers in the valley to gather the crop.

Mr. Hill traveled more than 800 miles and visited cities and towns in more than a dozen counties. He reported cotton pickers very scarce but that there would likely be many idle workers within the next week or 10 days. The only way to get the pickers, he says, is for the farmers to go after them.

"I found that plantation owners from Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana were in East Texas after the pickers," Mr. Hill said. "In most of the counties in the eastern part of the state the cotton is light and the bulk will soon be gathered. There will then be a great many workers to be had, but it is going to be necessary for the farmers to go after them. This seems to be the only remedy to the situation. I have the promise of several hundred people that they are coming this way. They have been accustomed to going further west, but many of them agreed to stop here.

COURT TO CLOSE

The 30th district court, which is now in session at Graham, will complete its work there this week and will be in Wichita Falls next week for a term. There is a full docket for the court when it convenes here next week.

District Attorney Ben Allred left this week for Graham where he will try some criminal cases in the court there.

50 ENROLL IN JEWISH CLASS

Feast of Succoth Being Observed by Congregation Of the City

More than fifty children of the Jewish congregation of the city enrolled in the Sabbath schol which opened Saturday morning at Temple Israel. The staff which is carrying on the teaching is composed of Rabbi Samuel Phillips, superintendent; Mrs. Dwight . Loeb, Mrs. Phil Kleinman, Mrs. J. Emold, Mrs. Glassman, Mrs. H. Jaffe, Mrs. H. Goldstucker, who will direct the music for the sessions.

The children who were confirmed last June are formed in to the post confirmation class and are being taught history and Bible by Rabbi Phillips. Children who were in the kindergarten classes have been promted to the first grade and nine children have enrolled in the kindergarten class for 1926-27.

Feast To Continue

The Feast of Succoth which has been observed by the congregation this week will continue until Friday evening, October 1, at 6 o'clock. The Feast of the Rejoicing of the Law of Simchath Torah will be held Thursday night at the temple at 8 o'clock. This is the celebration held at the conclusion of reading the last chapter of the Pentateuch which has been read through out the year.

Services will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at Temple Israel with the Feast of Conclusion, the finishing up of Succoth or the Harvest Festival.

At the Friday evening sermon held at Temple Israel, Rabbi Phillips spoke on the subject, "Sucoth, Festival of Joy."

"Today, we could not render Judaism a better service, than by, if possible, combining to lead once more the young men and young women into the channels of agricultural pursuits," he told the audience in speaking of the festival of the harvest time. "The National Farm Schol funded by the late Dr. Krauskopf is doing more for humanity than any other institution of an educational character.

Primary Occupation

"Agriculture must be our primary occupation. There has never been a time in the history of the United States when the need was greater for the kind of agricultural education which the National Farm Schol gives.

The Succoth festival should call to American Israel; make effort that your slums be cleansed and your ghettoes be thrown down. Let there rise as was visioned by prophet and psalmist once more all over the country Jewish farm houses; let us rear Jewish tillers of the soil, blessing by the sweat of their brow all humanity."

FORFEITS BONDS

Hunter Russell, under charges for burglary in four separate counts, forfeited his bond in each case in district court yesterday when he failed to appear for trial. Russell had been released on $500 bond in each of the four charges.

Jesus Sufficient, Evangelist Says

"If you've got Jesus you don't need anything else," Evangelist A. E. Davis told the congregation at the revival meeting at the corner of Eighteenth and Holliday streets Saturday evening.

"If you've got Jesus, you've got power; if you've got Him you've got peace; if you've got Him you've got plenty.

"How do I know that I'm just leaning on the arms of Jesus?" the evangelist asked, and persons in the audience answered, "The Spirit beareth witness," and "By the way we act."

"The trouble with the last one of us that we have a spirit of compromise," he continued, as he told of persons who felt that they had been called to the ministry and who failed to respond to the call. He also told the story of a famous evangelist who had heeded the call to preach, and who had met all his difficulties with faith, and had been provided for when it seemed that he would not be.

Mr. Davis said that, just as the boys who went over the top in the war could expect to encounter a rain of bullets from the enemy, so a Christian might expect to meet a rain of bullets from the devil.

"'Tis to sweet to trust in Jesus," he said. "It's not so sweet to trust in things, or to trust in people because you're going to be mighty disappointed. But it is so sweet to trust in Jesus."

Because of the cold weather, the service lasted only a short while, Mr. Davis read Psalm 1, after a short service of prayer and singing, and then dismissed the congregation. He announced that services would be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon and again at 7:30 in the evening.

DECORATIONS GOING UP

Perfect co-operation is being given by business men of the city in putting up decorations for the real estate convention which opens here Tuesday for the Texas-Oklahoma fair which will open Saturday morning for six big days and six nights.

The chamber of commerce is decorating the streets of the down town section, while business firms individually are decorating their store fronts. Task of placing the decorations across the streets was started several days ago and is being done under the well known Vendope system.

The convention of realtors will be in session until Thursday night and the decorations will remain in place until the Texas-Oklahoma fair is ended Thursday, October 7.

Social Circles of Wichita Falls Busy In Past Week

—Plenty of Fun Coming
—The Realtors Next
—Garden of Dreams
—These Styles Again
—Reading Clubs Open
—Approaching Weddings

KITTY, MY DEAR—

Something is always happening in Wichita Falls! Don't you love it—the delightful procession of events continually unwinding like an embroidered ribbon? I know you do, and that's why every week I try to give you "inner eye" a little glimpse of some of the most interesting things that are happening here. Some day, do you know, I am going to write a "Wichita Falls revue," with its beginning way back in the half-traditionary days, and a grand finale something like a glorified game of "London Bridge," except that every pillar in the bridge will be a fair Wichitan; and then somebody will come out, like Maude Adams in Peter Pan, and ask everybody in the audience who believes in Wichita Falls to wave a handkerchief or something. Oh, Kitty can't you see the enthusiastic response? I haven't started it yet (you know I always have an attic full of ideas), but I will let you know in plenty of time to be on hand the opening night.

FIRST let me tell you about the Realtors' convention which will be held here next week beginning Tuesday or rather let me tell you about the many delightful social functions for the women visitors. First on the program of entertainment for them will be the dance at the Kemp hotel Tuesday night when both the women guests and their husbands and friends will attend. This will be followed by a 1 o'clock luncheon Wednesday for the women at the Wichita Club, while on Wednesday evening, the guests will be entertained with a "Home-Town Speaking" with a special musical program arranged by Ethel Allen Nelson. This affair will be at the Kemp hotel.

On Thursday afternoon the visitors will be taken for a drive over the city which will include a visit to the Record-News Garden of Dreams, and conclude with an open house at the Country club. Thursday morning, the women of the party will enjoy a musical at the home of Mrs. C. B. Bailey in Indian Heights when a program to be presented by local talent, is being arranged by Mrs. C. Y. Tully.

Another interesting event of the week is the opening Tuesday evening of the palacious Record-News Home Beautiful, the lovely El Jardin de los Suenos, Garden of Dreams, the Spanish home that has been under construction for several months and has proven of interest to all lovers of artistic and beautiful residences. The house will be completely furnished and equipped with every convenience every detail having been worked out by experts in their respective line. All draperies are of rich material and selected to harmonize to perfection with the walls, rugs and furnishings, the Spanish idea being completely carried out in every instance.

MAYOR R. E. SHEPHERD will make the address of welcome on the opening evening and among the hostesses announced for the week are Mrs. J. C. Thompson and Mrs. Charles E. Watson, Wednesday; Mrs. R. B. Parker assisted by Mrs. Chester Pugh, will be in charge Thursday; Mrs. T. M. McDaniel and Misses Georgia B. and Marguerite Smith, Friday, Mrs. Nelson Decker, Miss Josephine Cummings, and Miss Ice V. Larkin, Saturday, Mrs. R. E. Shepherd, and Mrs. C. J. Pate on Monday.

The guests will be received at the door by a Spanish grande in full costume, and he will be assisted by six pretty Spanish maidens who will act as ushers.

Lest you think I am talking too much what we are doing and going to do in our "rush city," I will turn to your favorite subject, "style." Really, it can't be an altogether frivolous topic, though, when the queen and the premier of Italy lay aside the cares of state to suggest changes in the prevailing fashions. Mussolini has decided that the women of Italy should wear garments designed and made in their native land, and he has found a league of nationalization of women's clothes, with the queen at its head. They hope that the beautiful ladies of Italy will return to the classic costume of past centuries, and the designers are offering long robes, reaching to the ankles, heavily embroidered and set off with a bright girdle. It sounds very picturesque, desn't it, Kitty? But somehow I can't imagine an American girl so garbed, can you?

It seems that the women members of parliament can also spare a few moments from watching over the destinies of Britain to murmur because the government has provided them with but one mirror, which draws this comment from the Westminster Gazette, "What would Gladstone, or Disreali, say if he could be told that members of the mother of parliaments were grumbling because they had no room in which to powder their noses?"

Now, I believe that the two immortals mentioned have received a stage in their development where they would be not at all concerned about powder or parliaments. But we, Kitty, being still frail flesh, may succumb to the lure of the shop windows. I know you get a thrill from the big establishments in New York and so do I, but sometimes one is reminded of Masefield's caustic line.

"And miles of shopping women served by men," and I venture to suspect that even you often long for a cozy tour through the stores of Wichita Falls, where the clerks know your name, your tastes and the depth of your pocketbook. That's the way some of our people felt this summer in London, when they really needed something, and wandered all day through the emporiums in Regent street with a metamorphorical mouth wide open, but with their needs still unfilled. But, oh, Kitty, did I ever tell you about a West End establishment over there some of my returned friends told me about? A place where gowns were displayed under conditions reproducing every possible lighting effect from Mediterranean mid-day to London winter? There is in this sanctum of fashion a daily mannequin parade on a revolving platform which permits the same gown to be inspected under changing conditions of light, so that milady may see how it will appear in a London fog or under Riviere sunshine. Then there is the British Model house, with its theatre existing for no other purpose but to display clothes. This place, going on the theory that fashion is merely evolution, shows the period costumes on which modern styles are founded. For instance, a skiing suit is modeled from the dress of an Anglo-Saxon serving boy, and an up-to-date cloak is but another form, a reincarnation, if you will, of a sixteenth century mantle. Enough! I simply must tear byself away from this fascinating train of thought to tell you some of the other things that are on my mind.

THE early part of October will mark the opening of practically all the reading clubs and several important weddings are also scheduled to take place about this time. The first announced so far is that of Lois Fitzgerald, whose wedding to R. B. Grigsby is set for October the 5. The bride-elect has been reared in Wichita Falls and much interest centers around the announcement. Rumors of several more just as interesting are heard on all corners, but so far no formal announcement has been made and far be it from friend Peggy to "spill the beans," but as per usual as soon as I can tell my very best friends, will pass the news on to you.

It is getting late, but I am having such a good time chatting with you that I can scarcely call "time" on myself. I did want to give you my views on Ellen Glasgow's new book, "The Romantic Comedians," but that must wait for another time. I have only given specific mention of one wedding in this whole letter, and you know I always regard weddings as particularly delightful details in the procession of events. But you know, Kitty, if there was ever a hopeless romanticist, it is Very Little Fuss Kicked Up When Coolidges Return To Washington From Summer In Hill Country

BY JEAN JARVIS
Special Correspondent

Copyright 1926, By The Consolidated Press Assn.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Seeing that they're the chief citizens of the world's greatest democracy and everything like that, it is amazing how little fuss and feathers filled the foreground when the president and the first lady returned to the presidential mansion after an absence of eleven weeks or so.

Off hand, you'd say there wasn't a military man in sight when the party arrived and those who were in the president party simply faded into a colorless background as the observer noted the martial swiftness, the snappy action and the business-like bearing, of the corps of secret service men who, as though by magic, formed their barricades about the presidents car, fore and aft, and started the simple procession to the White House by nothing more impressive than the busy chug-chugging of their motorcycles.

President Home.

The homecoming of the chief executive and his elect lady—? Well, my dears, they just naturally arrived late one night and just as nothing had happened in the interim—next morning they appeared at the family breakfast table and every day since their arrival there have been the usual three meals a day—very simple meals at that—served in the little dining-room to the west of the great state dining salon and to-date nothing more exciting has transpired than a stroll about the gardens, where the Astors and the Dahlias are going strong.

Its just like that these days, at the White House in the happy little time before the season gets under way.

But, behind the scenes, there is a lot going on. What with the Rumanian royal party "dating a new date every few minutes and the great world swooping in upon the nation's capital and the debutantes fluttering "in the wings," any one with half an eye can see that the stage is being set for some grand and lofty doings. Furthermore, its a very youngish crowd and a very well-dowered company who, these days, hold places of importance in officialdom.

Nobody in all sense would regard the White House residents as "elderly," and by that some token, most everybody in official ranks seem to range gayly about late thirties and early forties, if you except the grave and fairly reverend Seignora, who constitute the cabinet contingent. And whereas, for a long, long time the big houses stood untenanted nowadays they are literally being snapped up. You don't even have to put a shingle up—somebody's been on the job and the trick is turned.

House Hunting.

Now the Trubee Davisons—(the new head of army aviation and Mrs. F. Trubee Davison)—are on the lookout for a commodious house. It must have "atmosphere" and they want a garden, too. Mr. Davison's father, the late Henry Pomeroy Davison, was a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan and company, chairman of the war council of the National Red Cross, and later chairman of the advisory council of the Red Cross subsequent to the signing of the armistice.

Mrs. Trubee Davison, who is a quaintly charming person, was Dorothy Peabody and her distinguished father, the Rev. Endicott Peabody, has for almost 40 years been head master of Greton, wherefore she has a tremendous acquaintance, by and large.

To Washington, where she first arrived in the swathings of her six weeks' infancy, Genevieve Champ Clark-Thomson (Mrs. James H. Thomson, of New Orleans) came this week, and to the accompaniment of a chorus of complimentary comment she made the rounds of her old-time familiar friends. Never since the world began was there such a buzz-buzz The fact is "Champ Clark's daughter" gathered ovations as a prima donna gathers bouquets. All sorts and conditions of persons rallied around her and for age limit—there seemingly was none.

Genevieve has a smile that would beguile a bird off a bush and such a way with her. "my dears, wouldn't it be wonderful if Genevieve came to congress," is what every body was saying.

Pursuit Of Beauty May Be Made a Joy If Only It Is Properly Sought

A walk of three miles when one's automobile is broken down is a hardship; the pursuit of a golf ball for nine holes is joy and relaxation; the pursuit of beauty may be a real joy or unpleasant routine, depending upon the state of mind in which the toilette is performed.

Let me tell you how the minutes in the bath and the ones at the dressing table may be one's of sheer delight, a rest for the body, a tonic for vitality and a balm for the nerves.

Let us begin with the bath; men prefer to take it in the morning but most women prefer it as preparation for the social hours of afternoon or evening. Business women find the time before dinner the most grateful. A morning plunge should be taken for its tonic effect and to be invigorating should be quite cold, followed by a brisk rubdown; but for relaxation, it should be taken in warm water so that the tenseness of the muscles is allowed to relax. The heat will draw out the tired feeling caused by fatigue. Bath salts add tonic qualities to tired nerves, the same as tincture of benzoin or a few drops of bath amonia.

Spend some little time in the tub until the pleasant languer soothes the zangled nerves and overtired muscles. Think pleasant thoughts; look forward to the joy of the evening rather than relieving the unpleasantries of the day. Then, unless time is too precious, lie down in perfect quiet for a few minutes, not necessarily to sleep but to allow the spring of bodily vitality to fill the brim; then a little stretching exercise upon arising, a dusting all over with a flagrant talcum and you are ready for the welcoming out-of-doors—a nice walk.

It is a mistake to scramble hastily through the toilette. Take full advantage of the opportunity for privacy to put yourself in an amiable frame of mind, to slow down for a restful period from the rapid pace of modern civilization. The woman who gets dressed hurriedly who jumps into her car, steps on the gas and lets her go, must learn that beauty is not to be won impetuously; she must be wooed patiently with smiling persistency.

Haste and nerves are good companions, but the enemies of beauty. A woman who has scurried through her toilette cannot have poise when she reaches an important engagement; she loses all the joys of it and cannot expecte her mind to clear when she arrives. Co-ordinated persons allow themselves enough time for performing the duties of the toilette properly, and derive enjoyment ttherefrom at the same time. In counting over the advantages of these moments of invigorating the body, we find we get returns from a delightful investment, in the nature of health and a sense of personal well-being.

ELECTRA

REBEKAH ANNIVERSARY

The 75th anniversary of the Rebekah lodge was celebrated Friday evening in splendid style with an entertainment at the I. O. O. F. hall. Mayor George E. Ragland acted as master of ceremonies and made an interesting address. The first number was the "Opening Ode" by all with Miss Jewell Ratcliffe at the piano. At the conclusion of the ode, Master Clifford Wilkerson and Ruth Oneta Taylor, dressed as in the regalia of the Rebekahs, came forward and placed the figures "75" under a tall affair with the word, "Rebekah" in pink and green, which color scheme was farther carried out. While in the center of the floor, the young lady, Ruth Oneta Taylor, read, "Willie's Prayer." The next number was a selection by the five-piece orchestra. Principal of the high school, E. E. Rogers made an interesting talk on the "Birthday of the Rebekahs," following a reading, "The Minister's Mistake," by Miss Amy Crutchfield. Miss Irene Keller, sand, "Just a Cottage Small," with sang, "Just a Cottage Small," with accompanied by Mrs. S. E. Cramer at the piano. Beatrice Wilkerson gave a piano solo, Reading, "I Have to Go to School," by little Miss Lassye Mae Burchfield, baby Jean Matthews, gave a vocal solo and later an interpretation of the "Charleston," with an older sister, Miss Zelma Matthews on the piano. Several musical selections by the orchestra. Miss Mary Cooper read, "Buying a Railroad Ticket," with a piano number, "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," with variations by Miss Jewell Ratcliffe. John Rufus Ragland read, "Pillow Fights," with a selection by the orchestra, and an address by C. H. Hayes of Wichita Falls, inviting the members of the Wichita Falls celebration Saturday evening. After several additional numbers by the orchestra refreshments of chocolate cake and ice cream were served to 125 present. Those from Wichita Falls were, C. H. Hayes, and Mesdames W. B. WAGGONER P. T. A.

The executive board of the Waggoner ward school Parent Teachers association met Thursday afternoon at the school building immediately after 4 o'clock with Mrs. Hal Hughes, the president presiding. The discussion was was brought up as to ways of entertaining the faculty of the Waggoner school and plans were made for a theatre party; followed by a reception at the home of Mrs. Hughes soon. A committee composed of Mrs. T. M. Hoxie, Mrs. T. H. Parmley and Professor J. V. Harrison was appointed to arrange for the entertainment, with Mrs. W. D. Robinson, Mrs. M. O. Turner and Mrs. Hal Hughes to arrange for the refreshments for the party. After the plans for the party were completed other questions of importance pertaining to the P. T. A. were brought up and the meeting adjourned. Those present were Mesdames Hal Hughes, M. O. Turner, P. E. Griffin, T. H. Parmley, W. D. Robinson, A. Fisher, T. M. Hoxie, J. V. Harrison and Professor J. V. Harrison.

CONCORDIA NIGHT CLUB

Mrs. Frank LeBus, assisted by Mrs. Homer Grizzle, entertained with six tables of bridge at the home of Mrs. LeBus on North Wichita street, Friday evening. A color scheme of orchid and white was carried with the refreshments being an iced course in orchid and white and decorations of gladioli, rosebuds and chrysanthemums being used in profusion about the rooms. In the games, Mrs. E. G. Latimer won a lovely boudoir lamp, as prize for the ladies, while W. R. Skinner received a handsome tie, as prize for the men. Guests of the evening included Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Mitt Williams, Mr. and Mrs. George Ezell, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Latimer, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cross, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Skinner and Mrs. Paul Green, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Gillis and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gookin.

BOY SCOUTS

The Boy Scouts of the Presbyterian group under the leadership of Scoutmaster William Latham, met in the Presbyterian church Friday evening in an interesting meeting with officers being elected at this meeting. Patrol leaders, Ira Lick and Raphel Wilson were elected and Thurman Hastings was elected scribe. Three new members were accepted into the patrol, these being Hubert Splawn, Edward Terrill and Ashley Little. Plans were made for the boys to join the junior fire department. After the scout oath, and the laws the boys were dismissed.

BLUE BROWN GREEN GREY GOLD

"I AND GEORGE"—By NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

America's Only Woman Humorist

NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

As Andrew Jackson once said in a speech when raising funds for crippled chorous girls, "Public servants may get criticised, but oh boy It's nothing to what private servants get, when a bunch of women are on that subject!

And how true that is come over me last week at Our Ladies Thursday Club, when the Madame President was to read a paper on "What Shayy We Do To Make Our Servants Happier?" After this reading, there was to be a discussion, see, but the ladies didn't wait for the proper time, they commenced the minute they arrived, by which it was easy to see that the subject of the day was gonner be a popular one.

Well, says Mrs. Goofnah, opening up the barrage in a whisper to I and Mabel Bush, you know, the one that is married to that Joe Bush of the Hawthorne Club. I tell you, girls, says Mrs. Goofnah, I never have any trouble with my servants I have had the same cook for ten years now. She is a perfect jewel, she never wants a night out, she never goes any place, never asks for a raise of wages, or anything. Why, she don't even have beaux my kitchen is as free from policemen as the street in front on the night of a burglary; what is more, she never wastes a thing, and the kitchen is as clean and tidy as anybody could wish, yes, indeed, there are not many other women in this town I dare say, who have kept a cook for ten years like I have done!

Keeping The Cook

Well naturally this got I and Mabel all excited and we immediately sang a duet to her commencing: "How do you do it, dearie?" I don't do it, says Mrs. Goofnah, she does it herself. In fact, you see the first week she was with me she became bedridden and she has been that way ever since. Still, you got to admit that keeping a cook ten annums is quite a triumph no matter how it is done, and nobody can't say her kitchen isn't clean. I take care of that, myself.

Well, says Mabel, you are lucky at that, now the one we've got, honest, I can't get rid of her, I'm afraid to tell her to go, and does she make me feel cheap? and how! I will be planning on corned beef and cabbage for dinner, when she will say suppose we have a nice pair of roast ducklings, caviar, peach melba and fresh asparagus?

And, my dear, the tone she says it in has me licked before I start. I want to say yes, suppose we do, who do you suppose is gonner pay for it? But I never have the nerve she makes me feel like I was betraying my social position by refusing, and I know that I am merely betraying the trades people by consenting. I only hope that when I go to jail for debt she will bail me out with some of the enormous wages I am paying her.

That Ungrateful Minnie

Hot Bozo! I says, swell chance there is of her doing anything like that, these high-hat servants make a person's home pretty near as uncomfortable as visiting at a real swel's, and as for gratitude, I never seen a servant yet with any gratitude. I remember one my mother used to have, her name was Minnie, and mother did just everything for Minnie, she paid her five dollars a week, pretty regular, too, she was hardly ever more than six weeks behind.

She let Minnie take a bath in the kitchen tubs when not needed, I don't mean the bath wasn't needed, I mean the tubs, well anyway, mother gave her a second hand bed to sleep in and anything that was left over from the meals if there was anything left over, and one Christmas she gave her a gilded coat-hanger hand painted with forget-me-nots.

Yes, mother certainly was good to Minnie. But did Minnie appreciate it? Certainly not. The iceman asked her to marry him, and Minnie actually jumped at it, as she herself put it, out of the frying pan, into the ice chest, or something like that. Anyway she didn't hesitate to leave mother flat, after all mother had done for her, no, servants don't have the least gratitude.

A Slow Motion Picture

Then all the ladies in the vicinity began at once to say something about well now my girl, but, realizing where undoubtedly my own experiences was far superior to any of their in interest, why I managed to shout them down except for a few angry mutterings. I tell you, ladies, I says earnestly, that hired girl of ours will dive me crazy, of course she does everything I tell her to, but that's just the trouble, I haf to say now wash the dishes, now empty the dish pan, no, don't dry them on the parlour curtains, use the stair-carpet. Now make the beds, one sheet at a time now pick up your duster, now put it down.

Believe you me, she don't even remember from one day to another, honest, I ought to have a set of phonograph records made, then all I'd have to do is put them on in the morning. Honest, giving orders may be executive work, but there is times when I am more wore out directing that woman! It is a good deal like when George, that's my husband, drives the car, the back of my legs fairly ache from putting on the brakes in my imagination, if you get what I mean.

Wil, my back aches the same way when I stand over that hired girl of ours and tell her how to scrub the kitchen floor, and once a dress of mine actually ripped under the arms when I was overseeing her left some dishes up onto a high shelf. When she peels onions, it brings tears to my eyes, and when she polishes the silver I have to go and clean my nails. I don't mind telling you, I am more wore out telling her what to do then if I did it my own personal self.

Th Anvil Chorus

So when I paused for breath that bottle blond, Miss Demeanor, the one that's engaged to Dr. Salary, took advantage and says why don't you fire her then? But she didn't give me any chance to reply. I suppose you feel she's better then nobody, she says, but she's better then some. I wish my dear you could of seen that Swede we had last week, she was kind of a Finn, I guess, anyways she wouldn't eat a thing the family ate, we hadder get her special food, she wouldn't touch chicken or vegetables or bread, we hadder get her caviar and roquefort cheese for breakfast, and we found she was using the best butter to slick her hair.

She was a general girl, but entirely too general, not specific enough, she did everything, see, except wash dishes or sweep, and she wouldn't make beds or cook, outside of that she was a big help, but she claimed the work was too hard and she left after a week, claiming she would never give up a reference.

And just about then Mrs. Freddie Freenash leaned over and commenced in a violent whisper to tell us the most interesting thing about Old General Bluster's new housekeeper. Why my dears, she says, they say she is a ex-follies girl, I wish you could see her hair, and the heels she works in . . But right at this point who should get up only Madame President, and she had her paper all ready to read, so we hadder shut up and settle ourselves down to suffer.

Bigger and Better Servants

"Madame Chairman, Ladies," she says, "the subject of my paper is entitled.

"How to Tell the Wild Flowers From the Wild Cooks."

"It is on the subject of how to get bigger and better servants, how to feed, cherish and encourage them. And lady in the audience carrying concealed weapons will kindly hand the same over to the chairman before I commence."

She gave a little pause then, but nobody came forward, and she gargled her throat, put on a pair of sun glasses, and commenced.

"The reason why so many ladies now have bad cases of civil war going on, is that they don't treat their help right. They had ought to be treated to the theatre at least once a week, have a car of their own, a personal maid, use of the bathtub and radio, and joint power with the family to draw against the family bank account.

"No kind mistress should ever make a social engagement without first finding out if it will be perfectly convenient to her servants, servants' wages, which it would be and won't interfere with their lady of the house should offer to more delicate to call salary, and the family income should be devoted to plans. At least five-eighths of the loan her cook her jewels whenever desired.

Some Scientific Advice

"It is the opinion of the author that if these few simple rules was to be observed in every household, the unrest . ..ong servants, hired girls and domestic help would gradually disappear. However, Professor Axle Grease, in his treatise on The Origin and Habits of the Cookski Domesticus Chapter ninety two, page six seventy eight, footnote 22 1-2 b. c. claims that the best way to keep a servant is to knock her on the head with a meat axe until she becomes unconscious. In another place he favors the use of laughing gas administered in small doses, so that the patient does not become totally unconscious but remains able to obey orders without feeling pain, either from harsh words or spattered hot grease. Which brings us to the point.

"What, indeed, is the cause of all this unrest? It may be purely post war, and then again it may be parcels post that is responsible. Why does there exist this terrific yearning for change among the servant class?

"It is clear as mud that they are no longer content to stop in any one spot much longer than a business man's week-end. Many of them like to Charleston. Some have been known to bob their hair. These signs of degeneracy are alarming and should be stopped. Noble institutions such as this club,

Floral Heights Methodists Build a Great Institution

Lusty Young Infant In Church Circles Growing With Speed And Power

In Five Years' Time It Takes Rank as One Of Most Substantial and Progressive In Wichita Falls; Future is Great

Tall oaks from little acorns grow.

Just after the close of the war Wichita Falls entered upon a new era of prosperity, but in that epoch of rapid development the thought of material things was not paramount, for things of the spiritual showed up. The churches of Wichita Falls were increasing in membership and places to worship were filled. The First Methodist church was growing to proportions undreamed of by early members, and a branch of that church was planted to grow into a magnificent, permanent institution.

S. A. BARNES.

In 1919, the Floral Heights Methodist church was organized, drawing its membership largely from the First Church, and in that new addition of the city, the site was laid for a beautiful building.

While plans for the new building were being made, the small congregation met in the high school building at Eleventh and Broad, and then a tabernacle was built at Denver and Tenth, where the members worshipped for more than a year.

Rev. W. L. Tittle was sent as pastor, and the church flourished from the first. During his two years' pastorate, the handsome church, whose massive pillars mark it distinctly as a place of worship, was erected at 2214 Tenth street. In appreciation of the new church its members and pastor worked faithfully and to them have been accorded credit for the rapid growth of the institution.

In the laying of the corner stone of the church the invocation was said by Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, now in Dallas, and who was pastor of the First Methodist church at that time. Rev. Tittle, pastor, and Rev C. B. Garrett, assistant pastor, also took part in the ceremony. There was placed in the cornerstone a Bible, a complete membership list, picture of the pastor and the architect's plans for the church. As a matter of history and interest to future generations an account of the wedding of two popular young people of the church was included as well as a story of the local baseball club.

The day following the opening service on May 1, 1925, was the time set for the first meeting of the Missionary Society in the new church. Mrs. W. A. McGee was in charge of the program and took the devotional from the twelfth chapter of Romans, verses 9-21. She composed words about the tabernacle which was the temporary home of the congregation prior to the building of the church, and Mrs. Perry Maricle sang this little song at the meeting.

Barnes Is Pastor.

The second minister sent to the church was Rev. J. H. Groseclose, who served one year and was succeeded by Rev. S. A. Barnes, who is the present pastor.

Beginning with a membership of more than 200 in the Sunday school the enrollment has increased to 1,350 at the present time. Church members in the beginning numbered less than three hundred, and now, before the seventh birthday of the church has been celebrated, the membership has grown to 1,410.

The Epworth leagues have grown from one to four; the circles in the Woman's Missionary society have grown from one to five; numerous organizations have been perfected within the church, and among the recent ones is the Methodist Men's club, organized last year, with H. M. Long, president.

The Sunday school is headed by W. B. Chauncey as superintendent, and through his influence and guidance, the school has kept up a steady growth. He is assisted by a corps of efficient officers, including the following: Milton Johnson and J. M. Alexander, assistant superintendents:

Mrs. Mary B. Adams, superintendent of the adult department has the following teachers: H. M. Long, men's classes; Judge Walter Nelson, young business men's class; Mrs. S. A. Barnes, Wesley girl's class; Mrs. Milton Johnson, B. O. P.; Judge P. A. Martin, ladies' Bible class; Mrs. John Kay, Susannah Wesley class; Mrs. Fred Schman, Alpha class.

Mrs. J. A. Gardner is superintendent of the Young People's department and is assisted by W. S. Curlee and Mrs. Schman.

The Junior Department.

In the Junior department, Milton Johnson is superintendent, and has the following corps of teachers: Misses Nora True, Mildred Mays, Mrs. T. R. Boone, Clyde A. Tittle, George Winburne, J. W. Doneheo, Mrs. Pat Jarrett, Miss Olive Kay, Miss Don Ruth Coffey, Miss Virginia Creath, Miss Louise Kay, Miss Marjorie Ketner, W. S. Ellis H. A. McCarty, J. E. Park, Gilderoy Porter, L. H. Howard, Lloyd Bland, Mrs. R. M. Henry, Miss Wilma Thomas, Miss Catherine Kay, Ford Chauncey, Harry Gibb. Officers in the department besides the superintendent are Mrs. L. H. Howard and Mrs. E. B. Alexander, assistants; Miss Elizabeth Wright, secretary, and Mrs. Percy Newell, pianist.

Cecil Porter is superintendent of the young people and intermediate department and has the following teachers: S. M. Gose, Jr., W. E. Wilson, Mrs. Kimberlin, Mrs. Marion Stephens, Mrs. W. E. Chauncey, Miss Edna Kay, Miss Beatrice Morgan, Miss Marie Beaty, Floyd Billingsly, secretary; W. O. C. White.

Miss Ethel Morgan and Mrs. Floyd Billingsly are in charge of the primary department with the list of teachers as follows: Mrs. W. W. Riley, Mrs. E. A. McCarty, Mrs. Charles Kilpatrick, Mrs. R. E. Schoolfield, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Gough, Mrs. Leon Deaton, Mrs. W. E. Wilson, Mrs. Milo Connelly, Mrs. J. B. Patrick, Mrs. Lester Jones, Mrs. H. J. Bruce, Mrs. C. H. Bingham, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Florence Craig.

The beginners' department is ably cared for by Mrs. Harold Murph, superintendent, and her corps of teachers as follows: Mrs. T. C. Thornberry, secretary; Mrs. Merle Waggoner, librarian; Mrs. Gussie Chapman, Mrs. George Henderson, Mrs. M. C. Batey, Mrs. Sim Curtis, Mrs. Jewell Childers, Mrs. Herbert Gray, Mrs. Stella McDuffy, Mrs. P. A. Newell, Mrs. P. B. Cox, Mrs. E. R. Loufbourrow, Miss Llerina Friend, Mrs. O. F. Coleman and Mrs. D. M. Puckett.

Mrs. B. W. Miner is superintendent of the home department. R. E. Schoolfield is general secretary of the Floral Heights Methodist Sunday school and his work has been praised by the teachers and officers of the organization. Lester Jones is treasurer.

Young People Remembered.

Work among the young people of the church is progressing, and four Epworth leagues, two seniors and an intermediate and junior. Louie Barrett is president of Epworth League No. 1, and Miss Harriett Peterson is president of No. 2. Miss Johnnie Morgan is in charge of the intermediate group and Mrs. O. F. Coleman of the juniors.

The staff of workers includes Rev. Barnes, pastor; R. G. Percival, assistant pastor and religious educational director; Mrs. Luella B. Thompson, choir director; Mrs. O. E. Nicholls, organist; Mrs. George W. Thorburn, soprano soloist.

The official board is composed of about 50 leading business and professional men of the city with W. P. Ferguson, president. The Junior board has been organized under the present pastorate and is composed also of almost fifty young business and professional men with Milo Connelley president.

Commendation has been given the women of the church for their active work during last year when the Woman's Missionary society was given second place among 212 societies in the conference. Last year they celebrated the sixth birthday with a party when 184 members were present. Officers of this wide-awake organization are: Mrs. T. R. Boone, president; Mrs. W. B. Chauncey, vice president; Mrs. Milo Connelley, secretary; Mrs. M. E. Faulk, treasurer, who has remained in this position since organization of the society; Mrs. M. E. Crowell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. B. Guthrie, Missionary Study superintendent; Mrs. C. B. Montgomery, Bible study superintendent; Mrs. W. A. McGee, publicity chairman; Mrs. Charles Kilpatrick, Missionary Voice agent.

Circle Leaders Active.

Circle leaders for 1926 are: Mrs. John Tancred, Mrs. J. A. Garner, Mrs. R. E. Fleming, Mrs. Merle Waggoner and Mrs. Lester Jones.

Marking history also, early in 1926, a marble baptismal fount, one of the prettiest ones in this section, was presented the church by Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Ferguson in memory of their infant daughter, Virginia.

A loyal membership has been using its influence for the church since its organization and it bids fair to be one of the leading churches in the southwest.

Better Than In Years

ABOVE is a recent picture of Mrs. Henry Rick, who lives on Gravois Avenue, in St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. Rick says:

"I was very much run-down and my health was giving way. This alarmed me, because, after trying several things, I was no better.

"I suffered with bad headaches, and often had backache until I would have to lie down, as I was so weak. I could not stand for long on my feet.

"One day Cardui was recommended to me as a reliable tonic, so I thought I would get a bottle and try it. This I did, and I was very much surprised to find myself improving in just a short time. I began to pick up almost at once. I gained some in weight but more in strength. My health began to mend steadily. I was delighted with the results, so I continued taking Cardui for some months and my general health continued to improve until I was feeling like my former self. In fact, I was better than I had been in years."

Take Cardui. Sold by all druggists.

MISSION FILM TAKEN IN SNOW

"The Flame of the Yukon" Vivid Epic of Cold Climes

George Melford, director, Seena Owen and Arnold Gray, featured players, and the entire cast and producing staff of Metropolitan's new version of the gold rush classic "The Flame of the Yukon," which will be shown at the Mission theatre today spent several bad days at Mammoth Lakes in the California Sierras, filming scenes of the picture.

According to Melford, true Alaskan conditions ideal for the gold stampede atmosphere of the Monte Katterjohn story were encountered and although filming was made more or less difficult by deep snow and intense cold, some exceptionally fine outdoor scenes were secured.

Seena Owen displayed frosted fingers as evidence that the director's realism was unsparing. With dog teams ad Yukon sleds for picture atmosphere, and horses, truck sleds and snowshoes as means of transportation for the players over the six feet layers of snow and deeper drifts, thrilling scenes of the rush into Ophir Valley, made famous in the original version of "The Flame of the Yukon," were filmed.

With Miss Owen in the supporting cast, taken on location were besides the new leading man, Arnold Gray, Matthew Betz, the villian of the story, Jack McDonald, Winifred Greenwood and Vadim Uraneff.

"Good and Naughty" To Be Shown At Strand Theatre Sunday

It seems there are no limits to the versatility of that ravishing enchantress of the screen, Pola Negri, as all will testify who attend the opening performance of "Good and Naughty," at the Strand theatre tomorrow.

For in this rollicking film version of Avery Hopwood's stage farce known as the queen of tragedy—gives one of the most delightful and adroit serious-comedy portrayals that anyone could wish for.

Of course, great credit for the zest and spirit of the vehicle must necessarily go to Malcolm St. Clair, Paramount's young genius who has directed five superlative comedy-dramas in a row, and praise must also go to Tom Moore, leading man, and Ford Sterling, ace of character comedians.

In short, the entire cast, deserves honorable mention for the splendid caliber of the picture, and this includes Herbert Holmes, Miss DuPont, Marie Mosquini and Warner Richmond.

"Good and Naughty," briefly explained, concerns the love tangles of a group of persons whose social ratings range from the smart set of New York to the pugilistic blue book wherein is engraved the name of "Bad News" Smith. Miss Negri has the role of a girl who neglected her personal appearance, while maintaining a secret love for her employer, Tom Moore. It is only when he gets into a dilemma which naturally follows his clandestine affair with a married woman, that Miss Negri throws off the guise of an ugly duckling and artfully reveals herself as the dazzling creature she really is. Her motive, one may guess, is to extricate Moore from his uncomfortable situation, and win him for herself.

Go and see it. The secret of the story is too rich to divulge in cold print.

Dolly Helps Out When Alf Has A Tough One To Train For the Circus

"When I am teaching I like to have a youngster or two around," says Alf. Loyal, master dog pedagogue with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus. "It always make training easier."

He makes the assertion that all animals are fond of children.

"Take Dolly Jahn for example," says Loyal. "While her father was perfecting his thrilling perch act in quarters last winter. Dolly usually spent the mornings with me in the dog barn. I was for the first time teaching police dogs to scale absolutely perpendicular walls. Once they got the hang of what I was after, all of them wanted to climb at one time. But that wouldn't do. As you probably know, this species are essentially 'one man dogs.' Also they are powerful animals. My assistant could hardly keep them in leash. Yet Dolly had simply to smooth their heads and they would remain in a corner of the barn with her until I called them forth one at a time.

"Again, when it came time to fasten on the papier-mache horse heads that are fitted over the pates of the eight Spanish poodles that mimic the performing horse actors, it was Dolly who helped me. 'Be still, Pedro' she would say, and the most frolicsome of the poodles would hold steady until she had fastened the mask in place. I tell you all animals like children and will mind them. We carry 115 dogs with the circus and I'll wager Dolly knows four-fifth of them by name."

Dolly's playfellows are not limited to the dogs. Last winter both tiger and lion cubs were born in winter quarters. The little girl handles them as other children would kittens. Now that the Ringling Brothers have in response to public sentiment, done away with trained tiger, lion and other so-called "cat" acts, these animals have more time in which to rear families. There litters of menagerie babies will be among the hundreds of splendid features to be seen when the combined circus comes here next Wednesday.

SURPRISES ARE THICK IN "BAT"

Thrills Packed Tightly In Fast Moving Mystery At Olympic

The more surprises and thrills there exist in a fast-moving mystery melo-drama, such as "The Bat," the fewer details its impresarios can venture to give the public that has not yet seen the picture. However, the startling Roland West film that is showing at the Olympic theatre has new stuff in it that not even those who have witnessed the stage play will be able to solve until the director chooses; while those who have never even seen the dramatic production are destined to get the treat of their lives when they attend the film presentation. For the benefit of all, an inkling of the atmosphere prevailing in the Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood story will not be amiss.

"The Bat" is frankly a mystery melodrama, and frankly, it mystifies. You may watch it at any point and you cannot possibly tell who is the guilty person in the great crime problem until the producer crashes to your aid. Circumstantial evidence points first to one person and then to another. You mistrust and doubt everyone in turn, as a clever dramatic switch points the finger of guilt in some other quarter.

Briefly stated, the plot fluctuates, from a skyscraper where a big robbery is committed, to a bank which is also looted, and to a country estate tenanted by a matter-of-fact spinster, where all the mysterious proceedings culminate in a nerve-racking series of startling adventures. The mischief all comes directly out of the evil activities of a master criminal, "The Bat", of whose identity no one has any certain idea. There are vivid "doings" around the house, and at every turn, in a mounting series of bewilderments. The grim spinster, with her house guests and servants and detectives and a half dozen intruders, bravely sticks it out. Whenever tension comes to the snapping point there are a couple of comedy characters who afford a welcome relief, so that the film fluctuates between deadly earnest and roaring mirth until the end. In fact the comedy element always spices the particularly excellent entertainment.

Of course it is not fair to tell the specific situations and plots of "The Bat" and least of all the solution. During its many years of stage success "The Bat" had its secret well kept by audiences, so that the enjoyment of new audiences might not be marred by too much fore-knowledge.

Tom Mix Takes Role Of Cop In a New Fox Picture

Even though Tom Mix has deserted his ranch to become a mounted policeman in Fox Films "My Own Pal," his latest starring vehicle coming to the Garden theatre Sunday and Monday it does not mean that he has left his riding and roping and thrilling adventures at his ranch.

Quite the oposite!

"My Own Pal," is one of the most thrilling of the Mix pictures ever screened—more than that, it represents one of the best pieces of work the genial western star has ever done. It is the story of an Irish cowhand who decides to look for adventure in the city.

He hardly gets on his way before he meets the first of a thrilling series of events scheduled to happen to him and by the time he has the chance to join the mounted police he has adopted a little girl, kidnaped her and saves the niece of the chief of police from injury in a runaway.

After he "makes" the force, his adventures are many—some comic and others filled with hazards. In the end, however, he captures a band of thieves who have been terrorizing the city—and is properly rewarded for his bravery and skill.

Flynn In Rapid North Woods Film At Gem Theatre

Love, duty, greed, jealousy, sacrifice, are all powerful emotions and with the thrilling features of a roaring forest fire and a relentless man-hunt as a background, "Glenister of the Mounted," F. B. O.'s latest starring vehicle for "Lefty" Flynn, which is coming here today for a one-day run at the Gem theatre, presents a vivid and memorable picture of the north woods. Few film dramas of recent years have such a wealth of scenic effects, of tense situations and of intrigue and complications, of suspense and of electric climax and when with all this there is added the compelling interest of a romantic love affair, the result is bound to be a hundred percent feature.

By sending this company to the north woods for the exterior scenes, Director Harry Carson obtained accurate and realistic settin— for the locale of the picture which was adapted from Arthur Guy Empey's original magazine story by William E. Wing. The forest fire sequence was taken with immense difficulty and danger, but the screen results are well worth the effort and add remarkably to the pictorial and interest value of the film.

TAX FUND BOOSTED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP) The treasury announces that its estimate of a surplus of $185,000,000 for the current fiscal year will be exceeded. Presumably there is no connection, but Chief Engineer Andrew lets it be known that the prohibition enforcement machine is oiled and ready to go ahead at full steam.

New Head Of Reserve Work In Wichita Falls

Miss Dorris Smith who is the new secretary of Girl Reserve work in Wichita Falls has been in the city for a week, and has attended all the Girl Reserve meetings of the week. Miss Smith was secured to fill the vacancy created by the departure of Miss Ivo Wilson, who left for Lubbock last week. Miss Smith is a graduate of Kansas Wesleyn University and majored there in English, Education and Spanish. Her home is in Salina, Kan., and she taught last year in the schools of Alton, Kan. She was also camp director in the Y. W. C. A. camp at Tokepa and one of the camp councillors in the Y. W. C. A. camp at Salina, during the past summer.

Scout Board To Meet Tuesday

World Famous Promoter Arrives in Wichita Falls Prepared to Stage Best Show Ever Seen; Leading Arena Stars to Compete

Foghorn Clancey, world-famous promoter and director of rodeo classics throughout the entire nation arrived in the city last week with two special cars of equipment for the big rodeo event to be staged at the Texas-Oklahoma fair this year. Mr. Clancy has quite large portion of the personnel for the rodeo with him, including 87 head of broncs, calves, steers and saddle horses and is already preparing for his part of the fair program.

The two cars were switched out to the unloading pens and part of the livestock has been transferred to its quarters at the fair ground. Foghorn made a trip out to the fair ground and inspected the arena which has been built there for the rodeo. He expressed himself as being well pleased with it, declaring it to be one of the best arrangements he has ever seen.

Some Tough Ones.

Some of the hardest bucking broncs in the world were brought in the shipment. There were also a number of Mexican steers for bulldogging and wild Brahma calves for roping. Many others will be added to the bunch, Mr. Clancey stated, and there will be the largest collection of bad cattle and fast cowboys and cow girls ever assembled in northwest Texas when the fair opens up October 2.

Among the star performers which accompanied Mr. Clancey are the following well-known riders.

Louis Tindall, the "wonder horseman," said to be the greatest trick rider of the age. Tindall has performed before the greatest crowds of rodeo fans in the world and has never been beaten.

Velda Tindall, cow girl trick rider and steer roper.

Ruby Roberts, cow girl trick rider and wild steer rider. Miss Roberts will probably not be able to ride at the T.-O. fair this year because of injuries she received in the big rodeo at Peoria, Ill.

The one and only Slim Caskey, who is a native of Wichita Falls, and holder of the world's fastest bulldogging record. Slim has many friends here who will be glad to see him perform.

Shorty Back, Too.

Shorty Ricker, bronc buster and bull dogger, who won the riding contest at the Central States exposition at Aurora, Ill., two weeks ago, and the bulldogging contest at the Greater Peoria Exposition at Peoria, Ill., a week ago.

Mrs. Clancey and the children, Pat, Frank and Helen are driving through in an automobile and will be here next week. The three children are star rodeo performers.

Pat Clancey, aged five, is the world's youngest cowboy. With him will be his horse, Toney, a 32-inch Shetland, which is known in horse circles throughout the world. Pat and Toney will give some really wonderful performances in which his age will be very little handicap so far as drawing applause is concerned.

Frank and Helen, aged 14 and 12, respectively, are star fancy ropers of remarkable ability, and are a drawing card wherever they go. These children have performed on vaudeville circuits and have held some good contracts for their stage work.

There will be many other star performing cowboys and cowgirls at the rodeo, and the wild cattle necessary for such a big event will number more than 200 head. Mr. Clancey is considered the best promoter and most successful manager of rodeos in the entire nation, and has just closed a remarkable success at the Peoria exposition, where they drew an attendance of more than 60,000.

INJUN NEVER WALK A MILE

"Chief Screaming Eagle" To Stick to His Good Old Pipe

Let us present to you Chief Screaming Eagle, who will never walk a mile for anybody's cigaret for old Screaming Eagle sticks to the pipe of his fathers, and he smokes it every minute he is not in the parade or in the 15-acre canvas big top of Miller brothers 101 Ranch Real Wild West and great far east coming to Wichita Falls October 8.

The pipe the chief loves was puffed in council once by General George Cook, and in those days Screaming Eagle had but to whisper to make the celebrated "scrap of paper" of 1914 look like the congressional library. He started and stopped wars with a grunt, did this mellow old lad in his lurid youth. Now he is one of the 1,200 picturesque arena performers with the biggest of all wild west shows, past or present, and one of the leaders of 200 Indians of all tribes with the troupe. You'll see him in the world's largest street parade wild west show day.

BRYANT HEADS U. CLUB HERE

County Superintendent Is Elected President Saturday

Burl Bryant, Wichita Falls county school superintendent, will be at the helm of the University club this season, according to the vote of the members in the fall election of officers Saturday noon at the Kemp. Other officers are: C. J. Coffey, vice-president; John Marrs re-elected secretary; directors, Capt. E. H. Eddleman, L. E. Dickinson, Mrs. Hermoine Stewart Vaughn and Mrs. J. S. Pitman.

Two complete tickets were presented by S. H. Featherston, chairman of the nominating committee, and with an additional nomination from the floor the club enjoyed an interesting election.

Aims for the Club

E. E. Fisher reported for the committee to draw up suggestions and aims for the club for this year; To keep in mind social, civic and educational interests and to see them carried out; to bring to the club speakers of state and national reputation; to debate on vital economic questions; to bridge the gap of acquaintance between teachers and townspeople; to have the club acquainted with the members; to have a committee on current events and frequent book reviews, and a committee to look after attendance were the eight recommendations given by Mr. Fisher.

Plans for the teachers' entertainment to be sponsored by the University club and the chamber of commerce which has offered to underwrite $150 for the get-together, were also announced. The following committees to make the plans for the party which is to be given Friday night, October 15, were announced at Saturday's luncheon.

E. E. Fisher is retained as general chairman; committee on general arrangements is, Hubert Harrison, secretary of the chamber of commerce; J. C. Mytinger, president of the chamber of commerce, and the board of directors of the chamber.

Committee on refreshments: C. J. Coffey, Mrs. Mary F. Lyons, Miss Mary Brown; fellowship, Alva Willgus, Wilkie Talbert, A. K. Presson, H. A. Glass and Mrs. J. S. Pitmith.

Invitations, Col. Ben Dancer, S. R. Featherston, Miss Eva Weber.

Program, Judge B. D. Sartin, J. S. Dickey, Mrs. Vaughn, J. S. Pitman, S. H. Rider.

The reception committee will be composed of members of the school board and C. I. Francis.

A short talk was made to the club by Wilkie Talbert, local business man. J. H. Allison, retiring president, expressed briefly his appreciation to the members for their co-operation with him during his term in office. A committee composed of Captain Eddleman, J. S. Pitman and W. R. Hyer was appointed to prepare a resolution of appreciation to Mr. Allison for his efficient services as president.

Mr. Bryant pledged his support to the club in carrying out the aims of the organization.

Discussion of retaining the present meeting dates of the club was led by S. R. Featherston with the opposing forces led by Judge Sartin. The club voted to continue the weekly meetings Saturday at luncheon at the Kemp, as has been the custom.

ELECTRA TAX RATE RAISED

Rate for 1926 Is Set At $2.24 By Act Of City Council

ELECTRA, Sept. 25.—Electra's tax rate for 1926 was hiked from $1.66 to $2.24 per hundred at a meeting of the city commission on Wednesday night to offset a decrease in property valuations ordered by the board of equalization.

In 1925 the board of equalization placed the assessed valuation of city property at $4,092,000, and the tax rate was $1.60. The assessed valuation of city property this year has been lowered $202,000, and an increase in the rate was made necessary. The present valuation is $3,890,000, J. T. Gibson, tax collector says if the valuation of city property were put at three-fourths of its value, the total assessment would amount to $4,500,000, or $5,000,000.

The tax of $2.24 is to be divided as follows: $1.40 interest and sinking fund; 40 cents general fund; 20 cents street fund; 10 cents public library; 10 cents city band; 4 cents sanitary department. The volunteer fire department is provided for the water department, which is self supporting, it is explained.

PIERCE BRINGS OUT NEW CAR

Utmost in Auto Luxury Is Included In Latest Models

President Myron E. Forbes of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car company announced today the production of a car declared to represent the utmost in automobile luxury.

"It is, I believe, the finest of all motor cars," said President Forbes. "I make this unreserved statement with profound respect for our contemporaries and with full cognizance of Pierce Arrow's past achievements. All the pleasure, comfort, economy, safety and pride of ownership that money can buy are embodied in this new car."

The new car will be known as Series 36 Dual Valve Six and succeeds Series 33, the company's former high-priced model. Production of the moderately priced Series 80, whose sales are maintaining record-breaking levels, will be continued without change.

Sets New Standard.

Pierce Arrow's latest car unquestionably establishes new standards in fine car building.

"We made up our minds that we were going to outstrip all former efforts, and we are fully content to let the result speak for itself," said Mr. Forbes.

Crouching closer to the ground and with lowered lines throughout the Series 36 presents an impressive, distinguished appearance. This lowered effect has been accomplished without sacrificing headroom or comfort.

With the new car, the company introduces an improved method of finishing the exterior, a nitrocellulose lacquer process which has all the depth and gloss of paint and varnish but which is more resistant to scratching or marring. The cars may be had in any special color combination desired.

The bodies are built in the Pierce Arrow factory of northern white ash and aluminum with triple-strength laminated joints to prevent warping, rattling or squeaking.

Inside, the bodies present an appearance which is approached only by fabulously priced custom work. Gold-plated appointments, delicately etched in an exquisite Flemish-Gothic design, and inlaid vanity and smoking cases which one might well expect to find in only the most exclusive jewelry establishments, combine with the rich, hand-tailored fabrics to create an effect which can be described only as regal.

Mechanically, the car represents the most modern engineering practice. Pierce Arrow's noteworthy power plant, a six-cylinder engine capable of generating approximately 100 horsepower, yet remarkably economical in gasoline consumption, is found in improved form in the Series 36. Pierce Arrow's four wheel safety brakes, said to be the simplest and most trouble free in America, and six-ply balloon tires have been engineered into the car, so that operation is safer and riding qualities more luxurious than ever before. A booster brake device now enables the driver to stop the car with surprisingly little pressure on the foot pedal. Steering is almost effortless.

Prices of the twelve body types range from $5,875 to $3,000, at Buffalo, plus government tax.

New Oldsmobile Two-way Cooling System

Arrows in and above the upper, or shaded, portions of the cylinder block show the course of the water under pressure from the pump around the upper part of the cylinder block, through the head and back to the radiator. Arrows below the shaded part show the upward course of the warm water and the downward movement of cooler water as effected by the slower thermo-siphon type of circulation around the cylinder walls.

Rickenbacker Now Sells 4 Wheel Brake Idea Widely Used

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—In reading the announcements of new models just brought out by the various automobile companies, we are reminded of other days and other times," says B. F. Everitt, president and general manager of Rickenbacker Motor company.

By which I mean the days of the introduction of 4-wheel brakes and their first incorporation as standard on Rickenbacker automobiles.

"If you will recall, it was not an easy matter to pioneer with 4-wheel brakes, not an easy thing to make the public believe in their tremendous advantages.

"But we knew that would be the case, for after having been first with tandem fly wheels, frist with double frame and first with various other improvements in automobile construction, we were aware that the public would have to be sold and sold well on even features that are plainly and obviously better.

"But knowing ourselves the tremendous advantages of this new improvement in automobile construction, we made the prediction that all automobiles would sooner or later be equipped with 4-wheel brakes, and that 75 per cent of them would be so equipped within a period of two or three years.

"Even some of our closest friends could not credit or believe in our enthusiasm.

"But I say that regarding the new announcements reminds us of that prediction.

"For almost all of the new models are now equipped with 4-wheel brakes, and the matter of fact way in which this is stated in their announcements, without any embellishments or elaboration on their advantages, shows to what extent the public has come to realize these advantages.

Dodge Offering New Colors For Open Make Cars

All Dodge Brothers touring cars and roadsters, like the closed cars and sport roadster, are now available in color. The hoods and bodies of the touring cars and roadsters, the new sport type excepted, will be in coolie blue lacquer, with cartouche stripe below the belt line. This blue, in contrast with the lustrous black of the fenders and shields, accentuates the graceful lines of the smart, low-hung bodies.

The standard touring car and roadster have blue wood wheels and the special types natural wood wheels with black dagger striping on the spokes. Enameled steel disc wheels are available on either at slight extra cost. Tires are 31x5.25 inches.

A distinctive touch is added to the appearance of special touring car and special roadster by the extra equipment consisting of nickeled front and rear bumpers, nickeled radiator shell, special radiator emblem with lock, rear view mirror, automatic windshield cleaner and scuff plates.

EMPLOYE CONTROL.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25. (AP)—Employe control of industry as a solution of America's economic and industrial problems was advocated today by Thomas E. Mitten, operator of street railway, motor bus, taxicab and air lines valued at a half billion dollars.

DODGE DRY ISSUE

BOSTON, Sept. 25.(AP)—The republican state convention today unanimously adopted a platform in which no direct mention of prohibition was made. It pledged the party to "strict enforcement of all laws."

WILLYS TELLS HOW TO BUY

Advises What Inspections To Make Before New Car Is Purchased

A few simple rules to follow will make it easy for the buyer of a new car today to get a modernly engineered product.

Within the past few months there have been many developments made heretofore. The features show up so plainly in the modernly engineered car that the buyer has little chance to go wrong if he uses his head and his eyes.

Modernly engineered cars are low, the roof line is closer to the ground than has been the case at anytime before. This low body effect is not for style alone but is also for road balance. The modern car hugs the road because the weight is carried low to the ground.

Buy the Low One

First glance at a car will show whether it looks low or not. Buy the low car if you want road stability.

Compactness without the sacrifice of usable room is another feature of the modernly engineered car. Choose a car on which the body looks compact. Try it out for leg room and head room, and if these dimensions suit you, center your choice on the compact body. Compactness means conservation in weight and bulk and this means easier control and greater economy in operation.

Check up on the developed horsepower as compared with the rated horsepower. The modernly engineered power plant develops a brake horsepower far in excess of its rated power. In the four-cylindered field, the buyer today can get a developed power fully 100 per cent in excess of the rated power. Choice of a car in which the developed power in only 20 to 30 per cent in excess of the rated power means that the owner is paying twice as much for operating expense as is the owner who buys the moderized motor with its surpurisingly high developed power.

Claims Performed.

In the six cylindered field, be sure to check the developed horsepower against the rated power. Here again, your choice should be centered on the car with the greatest excess of developed power over rated power.

The drive system also comes in for attention. Modern engineering demands a straight line drive, the propeller shaft running almost without drop from the transmission to the rear axle. Straight line drive means delivery of the full power of the motor to the rear axle.

These are the essential features by which to judge a motor car. They are the features which will determine the value of the used car a year or two from now. They are the features to which the larger manufacturers are turnig at the present time. In Willy-Knight and Overland products they have been standard since the present models have been developed.

HUPP USED TO SEE AMERICA

Kansas City Mau Takes a Strenuous Trip in New Machine

E. O. Moffat, retired business man, and wife of Kansas City believe in seeing America first. And they believe that the best way to see it is by automobile. If you should think that the only ones who have the nomad spirit are youths who travel hither and yon in a delapidated vehicle revived from a junk pile for the occasion, your opinion may be changed when you read the account of the Moffat couple as related by them on a recent trip to Detroit where they visited the Hupmobile factory. Their 'Pullman' is a Hupmobile eight sedan and is one of the reasons given by them for the pleasure they have in touring.

"We have been to three corners of the United States and we will see the fourth before long," says Mr. Moffat. "Our enthusiasm for travel has not been abated even with the large number of miles we have covered. A night's rest and we are eager to start on another days journey no matter how far we traveled the preceeding day.

"We have covered the best and the worst of the roads in nearly every state, but we have never been detained because our car would not pull through. Nor were we the least uncomfortable when traveling in our Hupmobile. All roads are the same to us.

"On some of our far western travels we have climbed hills that were marked as high as 27 per cent, we have been through what seemed endless miles of sand roads and have never been forced to stop because of heat of the motor. Our western route carried us through the deserts of Arizona, Utah and California. In Utah the temperature ranged between 90 and 120 degrees and here also we experienced the same fine performance of our straight eight.

SCTUDENTS PROTEST

Chinese Complaint Against British By Them.

GENEVA, Sept. 25.(AP)—The protest against the British bombardment of Wanhsien, voiced before the league of nations assembly yesterday by Chu Chao Hsin followed the arrival in Geneva of 50 Chinese students from various European capitals. These students, according to the newspapers today, exercised pressure upon Chu to appeal to the assembly.

Clarendon Goes After Biting Pests With Refuse Oil

CLARENDON, Sept. 25—Clarendon is planning to get rid of all its mosquito pests within the next few days as a committee from the Lions club consisting of Lions Moreman, Wilder and Dean is planning to get all the refuse oil from the garages and see that it is placed on the surface water of all the small lakes and ponds of the city. Mosquitoes are worse in this town this fall than has ever been known before.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Asserting that it is worth $35 a week to make Chicago women and girls better looking, operators in 2000 beauty shops in the city declared they will strike October 10.

What "dependable" really means

The public not only believe in the goodness of Dodge Brothers Motor Car, they believe in the men who build it and the men who sell it.

That is why the word DEPENDABLE is associated the world over with Dodge Brothers name. It goes beyond the product and embraces every department in Dodge Brothers great organization.

CHRYSLER HAS HEAVY SALES

No Seasonable Decline Hits Output of Quality Cars

"Despite the fact that at this time of the year automobile factories usually face certain seasonable decline in sales which in turn affects production, the Chrysler corporation at the present time is producing 600 cars a day," reports Walter P. Chrysler, president, Chrysler corporation. "This is partly because of the very satisfactory public acceptance of the new four-cylinder model, the Chrysler "50", which was offered to the public for the first time last month.

"During the first eight months of 1926 the Chrysler corporation produced 100,772 cars as compared with 89,722 during the same period last year, an increase of 12.3 per cent.

"Export business is excellent, and this despite economic difficulties which are troubling many of the countries of the old world. In 1925, during the first eight months, we exported 6,981 cars. This year, during the same period, we shipped abroad 9,000 cars.

"We look for business during the remainder of 1926 to show a marked improvement over business during the last months of 1925. We have four complete lines of cars meeting all price requirements. Dealers' stocks and cars in transit are below normal. We have reason to face the winter months and 1927 with optimistic confidence.

BOOTH FOR SCHOOL

Canyon Normal To Have Exhibit at Amarillo Fair

CANYON, Texas, Sept. 25.—A permanent booth 14x36 feet for the West Texas State Teachers College at the Amarillo Tri-State Fair has been arranged for. Although the booth has been made a very attractive one this year under the direction of R. A. Terrill, head of the department, of Manual Arts, many improvements are planned for next year's exhibit.

The exhibit this year includes material from the departments of Agriculture, Home Economics, and Manual Training.

The Panhandle-Plains Historical Society has an exhibit in the Teachers college in the field of of J. Evetts Haley, field representative of the society. This exhibit contains many interesting things for old timers as well as younger people.

League Asks Nations To Join Peace Table.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 25. (AP)—The league of nations assembly in a resolution today declared every civilized nation should adopt the fundamental ideas of the Locarno treaties of conciliation and arbitration. The league council was requested to tender its good offices to all states desiring to conclude conventions of that character.

Auto Comforts An Every Day Feature In Cold Weather

Until modern heating methods were devised people were rarely comfortable in zero weather. As they huddled about the fire, their faces were too hot and their backs far too cold, or vice versa. Even temperatures were impossible. Automotive engineers, in trying to obtain maximum motor efficiency, have long been faced with a similar problem due to the fact that heretofore some parts of the engine either ran too hot or others parts too cool to give the best operating results.

Two methods of engine cooling have been in general use. One is the thermo-siphon type, in which the water does not move until it reaches a sufficiently high temperature to circulate through thermal force. The other is the pressure type by which the water is forced through the cylinder block by a pump. Both methods have certain advantages but fall short of accomplishing the ideal that engineers have set as their objective.

The greatest heat in an automobile engine is gencrated around the combustion chambers, valves, valve seats and spark plugs. The walls of the cylinders below the combustion chambers do not reach the same relative high temperatures. Therefore, the combustion chambers and valves, which form the upper portion of the cylinder block and head require much more cooling than does the lower portion of the block.

In solving this problem of cooling control to maintain even temperatures throughout the various parts of the engine, engineers of Olds Motor Works developed a system containing the better features of both the pressure and thermo-siphon methods. This new system has been incorporated in the latest Oldsmobile recently introduced.

CHINESE INCENSED.

Grasping Attitude of Foreigners Starts Trouble.

GENEVA, Sept. 25. (AP)—Unless the powers immediately make new treaties with China based on reciprocity and equality, anti-foreign feeling there will increase and it will be dangerous for foreigners to trade there peacefully, Chu Chao-Hein, Chinese delegate to the league of nations, asserted tonight.

In an interview to the Associated Press Chu said that he had no apologies to offer anybody for his action in bringing the recent British bombardment of Manhsien before the assembly.

FORD FILES APPEAL.

Judgment In Patent Suit Involved In Case.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Ford Motor company of Detroit today was granted permission by Federal Judge Davis to appeal from his decision Monday that the Ford company had infringed upon transmission band patents owned by Parks and Bohne, Inc., of St. Louis. The Ford company was ordered to post $250,000 bond pending final decision and determination of the amount of the damages.

AUTO COLORS MATCH GOWNS

Cadillac Offers Wide Range Of Designs in New Models

A motor car in milady's favorite color, or, one to match her new gown from Paris or Fifth avenue, once considered a Utopian dream, quite beyond the pale of practical accomplishment, has today come to be a reality. And it is practical, and free from excessive cost, according to most recent statements from officials of the Cadillac Motor Car company.

Colors determined by Parisian dictators of fashion for the four seasons of the coming year, colors exactly copied from precious stones such as the sapphire, the topaz, the garnet, the aquamarine and the amethyst; harmonies and contrasts of colors created by leading manufacturers of the finest silks have all figured in the preparation of Cadillac's five hundred color combinations and are just as economically practical, it is stated, as the exercise of good taste in selecting a pleasing ensemble of gown, hat, grape, gloves and shoes.

The present vogue expressed by a free use of color in both women's and men's apparel, and by artists in their paintings and in decorative schemes has been the immediate incentive which initiated the new Cadillac color program one year ago. There were trips to Paris and to the mills and laboratories of leading silk manufacturers. Consultations held with leading artists, chemists and color specialists were followed by months of creative effort on the part of Fisher, Fleetwood and Cadillac body designers.

How Quality Standardization Builds Long Life in CHRYSLER "70"

Many owners are driving Chrysler "70s" it their second hundred thousand miles. They are marveling at the quality which continues to deliver its miles with undimmed vigor and at upkeep costs low beyond all precedent.

LONG life is the fruit of Chrysler's standardization of quality—the planned result of an engineering and manufacturing precision which, in its all-embracing scope, is new to the motor car industry.

Where ordinary engineering is satisfied with the customary margins of safety, Chrysler engineering has provided lighter alloy steels tested under stresses thousands of pounds greater than they will ever be called upon to meet.

Therefore, it has only been logical that not only Chrysler "70's" speed and power should eclipse all previous performance; its striking and smart appearance should outmode all existing body design, but—

Most important of all—that its remarkable endurance should be obsoleting pre-conceived ideas of durability and long life, even though its hundreds of thousands of owners exact from their cars the seemingly impossible in performance.

We are eager to demonstrate these Chrysler "70" superiorities.

The Chrysler plan of Quality Standardization differs from, and is superior to, ordinary manufacturing practice and methods, because it demands fixed and inflexible quality standards which enforce the same scrupulously close limits—the same rigid rule of engineering exactness—the same absolute accuracy and precision of alignment and assemblage—in the measurement, the machining and the manufacturing of every part, practice and process in four lines of Chrysler cars—"50", "60", "70" and Imperial "80".

CHRYSLER "70" PRICES

CHEVROLET TO GUARD BORDER

Smugglers Facing Difficult Task in Crossing Mexican Line

Smugglers and undesirable immigrants attempting to cross the border between the United States and Mexico will face a still more efficient barrier with the announcement that the government has purchased four Chevrolet touring cars for this immigration patrol squadron.

"Modern law evaders use automobiles and not horses," said D. P. Gay, Jr., border patrol chief, at Brownsville, Texas, where the United States immigration service purchased the four Chevrolets.

"With smugglers using cars to transport their contraband and aliens endeavoring to speed by our inspectors in fast automobiles, we decided to speed up our own organization with more cars. We must be equally as well mounted as our adversaries."

Illegal entrance to this country has naturally been sought by the smugglers at the most inaccessible points to the border, remote from well-traveled roads at spots where automobiles are subjected to the most severe tests in deep sand and gullies. Government inspectors found their transportation needs demanded a car of rugged construction, free from necessity of frequent repairs, and with ample cooling facilities to withstand the torrid heat.

The Chevrolets were purchased in open competitive bidding. In the official specifications it was detailed "the cars are for scouting work, will be required to run on an average of from 1,200 to 1,500 miles per month on both smooth and rough as well as rocky roads and through mud and sand country of mesquite vegetation."

Jennie Has The Answer

"Our servants are cross, lazy, discontended and often michevious Something is wrong. It must be righted, and I feel sure that the intelligent ladies in this audience will have some good suggestions about what ought to be done. What is it ladies, that our servants need? I ask you, and how"

She made her bow, and we made a effort and applauded, and then Madame Chairman got up and says "The meeting is now open to questions."

Well, I personally myself had thought right along that it was open to question, but I had been silent long enough—for pretty near fifteen minutes, in fact. Besides all of which, while Mrs. Goofnah had been talking I had been thinking, and the net result was that I had the whole servant problem solved before the last words had left Mrs. Goofnah's lips and less. So I sprang to my feet with a spring.

Madame chairman, I says, I have a suggestion to make, which if put into practice will cure all servants ailments except housemaid's knee. What servants need more than anything else, to make them happier, less nervous and given to moods is the same thing that any other idle, luxuary loving class of people need—they need to go to work.

Ring In The Medical Profession —By Ring Lardner

By RING LARDNER.

Chapter 12 of Ring Lardner's Autobiography.

Most young doctors make the mistake of hanging out their shingles in large or small cities where there are already more medicos than can earn a comfortable living. At the time I received my degree, automobiles were just coming into vogue and after giving the subject considerable thought, I evolved the following scheme—to establish a gasoline station on a popular motor highway, far from any town; to run a restaurant in connection with it, and to keep secret the fact that I was an M. D. I selected a site halfway between Kansas City and Pittsburgh, put up two gasoline pumps and an attractive roadhouse and painted a sign, "Filling Station for Man and Motor." The sign it amused everybody.

(Editor's note: Not me.)

In the Middle of The Gunfire District.

For a wage of four dollars a week I hired a fifteen-year-old boy, who, in infancy, had fallen through an open stopper in a wash basin and spent a week in the waste pipe, and ever since had had a horror of water in any form. But now he was so soiled and blurred that people began to languish the instant they say him.

It was Maggot's (this boy's) task to stand out in front by the gasoline pumps and as soon as customers stopped for gas, got a good look at him and started to droop, he would say, "Madam, or Sir (as the case might be), you ain't well. Fortunately there is a doctor stopping with us," whereupon I would be summoned and would minister to my patient or patients, charging huge fees and getting away with it because Kansas City and Pittsburgh, the nearest points where another doctor might be reached, were so far distant. The only trouble with my plan was that my patients treated me as they would their own doctor and did not pay cash, but asked me to send them my bill, and invariably they gave me fictitious names and addresses. Occasionally, however, one of them paid for a meal and at the end of the first two months, my books showed a profit of $4.50, not counting the $20 which I owed Maggot.

With this stake I moved to Chicago and rented a suite of offices at the corner of Madison and Paulina streets, then the heart of the shooting belt. The suite comprised a reception room and a silo. There was no need of a consultation or operating room because by the time my patients reached the outer door, they were so full of stray bullets that it was too late to do anything but identify them. I made my money by keeping them in the silo until a reward was offered for information as to their whereabouts. Sometimes it was years or never, owing to a way Chicago husbands and wives had in those days of leaving home on interminable bats, and as a rule, the party left behind either took the prolonged absence as a matter of course or was not aware of some.

Sad Medico Makes Tardy Reflection.

A boy named "Hi" Fever was trying to acquire enough money to attend college by selling subscriptions to "Risky Stories." His father had suggested that he call on one L. H. Tweek. The boy rang the doorbell at the Tweeks' and Mrs. Tweek answered it. "Hi" asked if her husband was at home. "I don't know," replied Mrs Tweek. "I have a vague recollection that he said something about going to the 'Follies' opening at the Colonial."

"But," said the Fever boy, "that was in in December and it is now August."

"Is it?" exclaimed Mrs. Tweek. "Well, in another month we can have oyster again!"

My Silo was finally filled to overflowing by unclaimed cases and it seemed advisable to move to another part of town. I put up a tent in Grant Park and hung out a shingle inscribed, "Surgeon. Cold Cuts a Specialty." The park was always popular with employes of Loop officials and department stores during their lunch hour and thousands of them took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy their midday meal and undergo some necessary operation at the same time. The potato salad which I served with the cold cuts was covered with a sort of ether dressing and from each patron I managed to remove at least his tonsils without his being the wiser. A certified public accountant once estimated that if all the tonsils I cut out during lunch hours were laid end to end, would be a nuisance.

I was now nineteen years of age and thinking of getting married. I consulted a friend of mine, Dr. Flip.

"Dr. Flip," I said, "I was thinking about getting married."

"I wish I had," was the reply.

"What? Got married?"

"No," he said. "Only thought of it."

DICKEY SEAT FOR THE BUICK

Four New Models Equipped With Auxiliary Carriers

The dickey seat has become a definite addition to automobile convenience, even though it often has many drawbacks.

In the Buicks for 1927, four models are equipped with seats in the rear decks which are designed to overcome all objections to this type. In the series 115, a roadster and two-passenger coupe have them, while corresponding models in the larger series 128 are similarly equipped.

The Buick type of dickey seat swings low into the deck when opened, as its hinges are very nearly centered instead of being placed near the back end. This gives a very low and comfortable seat, and allows the passengers riding in it to look directly through the windshield of the car.

Each seat is upholstered in genuine Spanish or grain leather, plain type trim. The rear compartments are finished throughout in the same manner as the front compartments. Arm rests are provided for comfort, which adds to the looks of the car by carrying the moulding line straight back to the extreme rear of the body.

To raise the dickey seat, it is not necessary to lift it by the key in the deck lock. A push or the back of the deck door serves to open it.

Although these seats are, by their very nature, auxiliary accommodations for passengers, they offer no drawbacks in comforts, and are distinct additions to the looks of the cars when opened, due to their low construction and blending lines. They are easy to enter by means of aluminum steps with rubber mats, placed conveniently at the rear of the frame and on top of the right rear fender.

FAST SERVICE INTO MEXICO

53-Hour Freight Run From Mexico City To Laredo On Texas Border

DALLAS, Sept. 25.(AP)—Establishment of 53 hour freight service from Laredo to Mexico City was announced here Friday by Mexican Consul R. Cantu Lara. The new service, the "red ball" freight comes on the heels of recent inauguration of through freight rates from the United States to all points in Mexico served by the national lines. It means that American exporters to Mexico now have the best rates and schedules on freight movements on record. Senor Lara said. The announcement follows the visit to Dallas of C. Salazar, Mexican railroad official.

New tariffs recently published provide for through freight rates, and merchandise destined for Mexico now moves on a through bill of lading from origin point in this country to destination in Mexico.

Hupmobile Six Built to same High Standards as Costliest Cars

Hupmobile Six a Leader, Also, in Complete, Modern Equipment

What goes into a motor car is vastly more important than what goes on it. You will not buy, of course, on mere externals and non-essentials, but on proven performance, dependability, long life, and low cost of maintenance. To superiority in these fundamentals, however, the Hupmobile Six also joins the latest and most complete equipment to be found on any car in its price class.

1. Oil filter
2. Gasoline filter—low gasoline consumption
3. Thermostatic heat control
4. Snubbers
5. Vision-ventilating windshield
6. Dash gasoline gauge
7. Clear vision bodies
8. Color options—Mohair upholstery in latest mode
9. Walnut grained panels on instrument board and window ledges
10. 4-wheel brakes
11. Special vibration damper
12. Headlights with tilting beam lenses and double filament bulbs

Sedan, five-passenger, four-door, $1385. Coupe, two-passenger, with rumble seat, $1385. Touring, five-passenger, $1325. Equipment includes 30 x 5.25 balloon tires, four-wheel brakes. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, plus revenue tax.

Certainly no car at its price—or within five hundred dollars of its price—compares with the Hupmobile Six in brilliant, delightful performance.

Its ability to perform and to out-perform, however, is not the most remarkable feature of this great car.

Underlying the public's admiration for this big, beautiful, full-size Hupmobile Six, is the deep seated respect of the average American for Hupmobile's traditional dependability.

Hupmobile pays millions of dollars more each year to make its Six one of the most dependable of all six-cylinder cars.

Owners, however, reap the benefit. The Hupmobile Six owner will tell you that his cost of maintenance is so low as to be almost negligible.

He will tell you that he can set out on a tour of a hundred, or a thousand or ten thousand miles, with the complete assurance that his journey will be unmarred by mechanical trouble or annoyance.

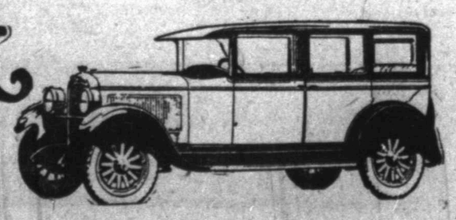

For you can drive this Hupmobile Six at express train speed, from sunrise to sunset, in the comforting knowledge that it is engineered and constructed to give such service easily, smoothly, and without straining.

RADIO AN AID TO HOME LIFE

Women's Clubs Plan To Stimulate Interest Via The Air

The Woman's club of Schenectady, the first organization of its kind to provide radio programs on a regular schedule, began the series of 1926-27, Tuesday afternoon, September 21, through WGY, with a Scotch program.

Officials of the Schenectady club three years ago saw the opportunity of expanding the activities and influence of the organization by including in its membership the great many women within hearing distance of WGY. Letters from listeners have proved the popularity and helpfulness of the club series. Programs are prepared expressly for the air and the subjects of talks are all such as will be of interest to women in the home.

Mrs. W. D. Bearce, chairman of the radio committee, has this season prepared an elaborate series and in nearly every case, the program consists of a talk on home economics, child welfare, or home hygiene and several musical numbers which makes an attractive program.

—Radio— Programs

The importance of radio during the past storm in the southern states was dwarfed by the staggering blow with which the tragedy hit the nation. However, radio enthusiasts everywhere became a little more proud of the "game" when they learned that it was an improvised radio station that first carried news of the disaster out of Miami to a world that had been out of communication with the city for 24 hours.

When all other means of communication failed, radio was the first to fill the beach, and the ingenuity of radio "bugs" made it possible to construct a makeshift sending set out of the damaged apparatus left in the wake of the hurricane.

Radio played another important part in the disaster too. Appeals for aid broadcast almost continuously along with "hot" news of late storm reports made a deep impression on listeners. While nearly all stations did their share probably the greatest credit is due station WSBM which was on the air almost unceasingly for many hours after first news of the storm had been received. This station also aided many persons in Alabama and Mississippi to dodge the hurricane which soared up through that section.

Amateurs of more than 50 countries are now actively engaged in two-way international private communication. The present list includes stations in the following countries: Australia, Austria, Argentina, Alaska, Algeria, Belgium, Burmuda, Brazil, British Guiana, Bolivia, Canada, Chile Canal Zone, Czcho-Slovakia, Denmark, Dominican Republic, England, Egypt, France, Finland, French Indo-China, Germany, Greenland, Holland, Hawaii, Italy, India, Ireland, Japan, Luxembourg, Mexico, Morocco, Mesopotamia, Madeira Islands, New Zealand, Norway, Newfoundland, Portugal, Porto Rico, Philippine Islands, Russia, Spain, Scotland, Sweden, Switzerland, Samoa, Tasmania, Urguay, Union of South Africa and the United States.

The transmitting apparatus of KDKA, the pioneer station, now is gracefully draped in wreaths of mosquito netting hung over white cheese cloth. Like the breakfast food "There's a reason." During a recent broadcast the voice of a contralto was superimposed or interlaced with a series of jarring roars. Investigation showed bugs in the microphone! Hence the new style dress. And perhaps the static that drowned out WPG the other night was caused by the well known brand of Jersey mosquitoes. Perhaps.

Station KDKA celebrated its 6th anniversary September 20 with the dedication of a new studio claimed to be the best in the country. The new rooms are located in the office of the Pittsburgh Post which five years ago inaugurated the first newspaper broadcasting studio to give listeners now "hot off the air."

A musical organization that numbers 218 members, of which there are always more than 100 assembled when radio programs are broadcast, returned recently to WBZ programs for the third year as a weekly feature for the winter season. The Aleppo Drum Corps, internationally famous Shriners musical organization, will be heard on Monday nights starting at 9 o'clock.

Some extent of the commercial use of radio not ordinarily realized by broadcast listeners is learned through statistics on licensed operators. Files of the government reveal that there are now 6,950 commercial operators, in addition to 3,000 in the naval radio communication service and 350 in the army and signal corps.

Harry and Hal, famous football announcers of WMAQ, will be on the air again this fall, the station directors announce. Play-by-play descriptions of University of Chicago games will be broadcast by the station as well as the annual Army-Navy game which will be played in Chicago on November 27.

By radio the marine corps keeps an accurate check on the movements of its airplanes. The station at Quantico, Va., handles most of the traffic with a transmitter consisting of two 250-watt tubes and supplementary apparatus.

WOK, in Chicago reports listeners' letters from Washington state, Alaska, Maine, New Orleans and Florida showing good reception of the station's broadcast, and the directors are wondering where letters will come from when the new 20,000-watt transmitter gets in operation.

The department of commerce, which has radio at heart mre than any other department even if the radio laws don't seem to mean much, reports that latest estimates compiled by its workers show 5,500,000 receiving sets in operation in the United States at the present time.

Chicago school children are going to be taught by radio. Through the co-operation of WMAQ instruction will be provided for half hour periods three times each week.

Three Cincinnati newspapers broadcast programs through one station. The time of WLW is shared with the Times-Star Smyphony orchestra program, the Post novelty program and the commercial Tribune dance music.

Advancing his theory that radio waves less than 10-meters long penetrate and do not bounce off the atmospheric, Dr. E. O. Huribut of the naval research laboratory, infers that interplanetary radio communication is possible. He has no answer to the question "Where do these waves go?"

Governors of various states will go on the air for the benefit of the radio audience of WMAQ that fall and winter. Gov. Al Smith of New York will start the series on October 2. He will be followed each Saturday evening until June by other governors. Some already "booked" are the executives of Pennsylvania, Maryland, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Florida, Arkansas and Minnesota.

The Teaberry boys are back on the air. They may be heard every Friday night in the future from KDKA. The programs will be given by a 12-piece symphonic orchestra, the Teaberry quartet and the comedian, Jim Hughes. This group is well known to KDKA listeners through past years' programs.

Silver Trophy For Radio Prize Will Be Offered

Johannesburg, South Africa.

A silver replica of an African springbok, a variety of small antelope, and the national symbol of South Africa, has been offered by "The Rand Daily Mail," of this city, to the United States, Canadian, or Hawaiian amateur who effects the greatest number of two-way contacts on short waves with South African amateurs during September and October.

The tests are being held under the auspices of the American Radio Relay league, of Hartford, Conn., and the South American Radio Relay league, with headquarters in this city. Any amateur in either country with a transmitting station is eligible, and the only requirement of the contest is that each American, Canadian or Hawaiian station work just as many South African amateurs as possible during the two months. If an American station works the same South African amateur more than once in a given week, only one contact will be counted toward the total. The making of schedules between stations is prohibited.

VETERAN IN 'DUTCH.'

Shell-Shock Victim Charged With Felony.

HOUSTON, Sept. 25.(AP)—Walter A. Phillips, 26, a World war veteran, was brought back to Houston Saturday from Washington, D. C., by J. N. Clarkson, a deputy United States marshal.

Phillips, whose home is in Tanglewood, Texas, is charged with "forging and alterating an obligation of the United States"—a compensation check.

Phillips, who was wounded several times during the St. Mihiel and Argonne drives, is accused of raising a $50 compensation check to $300 recently in Houston while passing through here on his way to Washington where he has been attending the war veterans' school and from which he was just graduated.

RESEARCH ON TEETH

Canyon Instructor Studies Cause of Brown Stain

CANYON, Texas, Sept. 25.—Due to a shortage of funds the National Research Council, reduced by one-half the appropriation for research work done by Dr. C. A. Pierle, head of the department of chemistry at the West Texas State Teachers Colege, in the field of brown tooth stain. However, the assumed the sponsorship of bringing the appropriation back to the original amount through local means. Dr. Pierle has already done a great deal of work in this field.

Famed Artists To Go On The Air Via Atwater-Kent Chain

Announcement was made by A. Atwater Kent, of Philadelphia, that starting Sunday evening, October 3, he will begin the broadcasting of a new series of weekly programs by nationally famous grand opera and concert artists. The series for the coming winter may eclipse even the high standard set by the Atwater Kent program of last winter.

Among those already scheduled for early appearance in the new series are Frances Alda, Lucrezia Bori, Madame Schumann-Heink, Frieda Hempel, Josef Hofmann, Edward Johnson, Albert Spalding, Maria Kurenko, Louise Homer, Reinald Werrenrath, Margaret Matzenauer, Mary Lewis, Rosa Ponsell and Charles Hackett.

Through an arrangement with the Metropolitan Grand Opera company of a sort never before effected by any outside agency, Mr. Kent has obtained the call on the services of the artists of that great organization for radio appearances. This connection will enable him to put on the air, in the course of his new series, a number of artists not heretofore available for broadcasting because of their engagements with the Metropolitan.

The new series of Atwater Kent programs will be on the air each Sunday evening from 9:15 to 10:15 eastern standard time. It will be broadcast through a hook-up of 15 stations, as follows: WEAF, New York; WJAR, Providence; WWEI, Boston; WSAI, Cincinnati; WRC, Washington; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WEAR, Cleveland; WLIB, Chicago; WFI, and WOO, alternating, at Philadelphia; WCAE, Pittsburgh. WGR, Buffalo; WOC, Davenport; WTAG, Worcester; KSD St, Louis; WWJ, Detroit. These stations practically cover the country.

COMMERCE IMPROVES.

HOUSTON, Sept. 25.(AP)—Economic and commercial conditions showed some improvement during the week in Mexico, Peru, Columbia, Argentina and Brazil, Ernest L. Tutt, manager of the Houston district office of the United States bureau of foreign and domes tic commerce, announced Saturday. Canada has had its first frost, and Mr. Tutt says the present outlook is quite favorable in India and Australia.

LOTS OF SYRUP.

1,300 Gallons of Molasses From 5 Acres of Cane.

ELECTRA, Sept. 25.—H. H. Haynes, prominent ranch owner, farmer and merchant, closed down his syrup mill this week, after making 1,300 gallons of syrup from five acres of cane on the Woodard-Haynes ranch, nine miles north of Electra on the Red river. This averaged 260 gallons of syrup per acre, while he says that he has 10 additional acres of just such cane, which will not be made into syrup, due to the rush of cotton picking season. This syrup will be retailed at his General Mercantile store, north of the city, and local grocery men, at $1.25 per gallon, making his cane crop net him the sum of $1,625.

SUN SPOTS HURT RADIO

Scientists Worried About Appearance of These Etherial Pests

Scientists are worried about sun spots. These radio pests appear on the countenance of Old Sol and, it seems, last 11 years, injuring radio reception. The theory has the support of learned men and it may well be sound, nevertheless this summer was much better than the previous two summers, and distance in hot weather actually was enjoyed by many. So, although the sun spots are there all right, it may be just our good luck that they do us radioists no particular injury, but only annoy some of our scientific friends.

Persons afflicted with rheumatism have said that lately the aches have been more frequent and more enduring than previously. As an example, one man, now nearing 97, said he suffered more this summer than he did in 1876, and he attributes this to sun spots. And one must never omit the fact that it was a sun-spotty day when Spain sent her two-year advance notice of quitting the league council. Still those same sun spots that read Spain out read Germany in.

ELECTRA

FAMILY REUNION

Frank H. Avens, an old resident of this section of the country, but who now resides in Celeste, celebrated his 79th birthday, with a family reunion at the present home in that city. C. L. Avens of Electra, a son, and prominent business man of this city, was among the other guests in attendance. Other children from the variosus parts of the state were, Mrs. R. A. Holland of Commerce; F. L. Aven and wife of Cumby; G. E. Aven and wife of Daingerfield; M. G. Aven and wife of Olney, Omer Lyday and wife, and Dreyfus Aven and wife of Celeste. Besides the children there were 28 grand-children-grand children attending the birthday of the venerable old citizen. The reunion was a pleasant success with a big dinner and watermelon feast being features of the affair.

C. L. Aven returned to his home this week, after the celebration which was held last Tuesday at the residence three miles east of Celeste.

W. D. Pouncey of Vernon is the guest of his daughters, Mesdames, A. J. Gafford and C. V. Hevrin.

CHEVROLET TO GUARD BORDER

Smugglers Facing Difficult Task in Crossing Mexican Line

Smugglers and undesirable immigrants attempting to cross the border between the United States and Mexico will face a still more efficient barrier with the announcement that the government has purchased four Chevrolet touring cars for this immigration patrol squadron.

"Modern law evaders use automobiles and not horses," said D. P. Gay, Jr., border patrol chief, at Brownsville, Texas, where the United States immigration service purchased the four Chevrolets.

"With smugglers using cars to transport their contraband and aliens endeavoring to speed by our inspectors in fast automobiles, we decided to speed up our own organization with more cars. We must be equally as well mounted as our adversaries."

Illegal entrance to this country has naturally been sought by the smugglers at the most inaccessible points to the border, remote from well-traveled roads at spots where automobiles are subjected to the most severe tests in deep sand and gullies. Government inspectors found their transportation needs demanded a car of rugged construction, free from necessity of frequent repairs, and with ample cooling facilities to withstand the torrid heat.

The Chevrolets were purchased in open competitive bidding. In the official specifications it was detailed "the cars are for scouting work, will be required to run on an average of from 1,200 to 1,500 miles per month on both smooth and rough as well as rocky roads and through mud and sand country of mesquite vegetation."

can and must put a stop to such conditions.

Jennie Has The Answer

"Our servants are cross, lazy, discontended and often michevious Something is wrong. It must be righted, and I feel sure that the intelligent ladies in this audience will have some good suggestions about what ougt to be done. What is it ladies, that our servants need? I ask you, and how"

She made her bow, and we made a effort and applauded, and then Madame Chairman got up and says "The meeting is now open to questions."

Well, I personally myself had thought right along that it was open to question, but I had been silent long enough—for pretty near fifteen minutes, in fact. Besides all of which, while Mrs. Goofnah had been talking I had been thinking, and the net result was that I had the whole servant problem solved before the last words had left Mrs. Goofnah's lips and less. So I sprang to my feet with a spring.

Madame chairman, I says, I have a suggestion to make, which if put into practice will cure all servants ailments except housemaid's knee. What servants need more than anything else, to make them happier, less nervous and given to moods is the same thing that any other idle, luxuary loving class of people need—they need to go to work.

COUNTY CROP REPORT

Clarendon Farmers Call For Pickers With Crop Open

CLARENDON, Sept. 25.—Calls for pickers for the Donley farmers have been issued two weeks sooner than ever before in this county due to the warm dry weather during the last part of August and the failure of the equinoctual rains that have always come on regular scheduled time. Many farmers are reporting as many as twenty five bales open in the patches.

Slight leaf worm damage is being found where there is a rank growth of cotton in saggy places of the fields. No poisoning is being done now as the probability of an early freeze will get all the unmatured bolls anyway.

The police allege that he was attempting to gather arms and ammunition for a supposed revolutionary campaign in Mexico. He will be taken to Los Angeles for trial.

Ring In The Medical Profession —By Ring Lardner

By RING LARDNER.

Chapter 13 of Ring Lardner's Autobiography.

Most young doctors make the mistake of hanging out their shingles in large or small cities where there are already more medicos than can earn a comfortable living. At the time I received my degree, automobiles were just coming into vogue and after giving the subject considerable thought, I evolved the following scheme—to establish a gasoline station on a popular motor highway, far from any town; to run a restaurant in connection with it, and to keep secret the fact that I was an M. D. I selected a site halfway between Kansas City and Pittsburgh, put up two gasoline pumps and an attractive roadhouse and painted a sign, "Filling Station for Man and Motor." The sign itself amused everybody.

(Editor's note: Not me.)

In the Middle of The Gunfire District.

For a wage of four dollars a week I hired a fifteen-year-old boy, who, in infancy, had fallen through an open stopper in a wash basin and spent a week in the waste pipe, and ever since had had a horror of water in any form. But now he was so soiled and blurred that people began to languish the instant they saw him.

It was Maggot's (this boy's) task to stand out in front by the gasoline pumps and as soon as customers stopped for gas, got a good look at him and started to droop, he would say, "Madam, or Sir (as the case might be), you ain't well. Fortunately there is a doctor stopping with us," whereupon I would be summoned and would minister to my patient or patients, charging huge fees and getting away with it because Kansas City and Pittsburgh, the nearest points where another doctor might be reached, were so far distant. The only trouble with my plan was that my patients treated me as they would their own doctor and did not pay cash, but asked me to send them my bill, and invariably they gave me fictitious names and addresses. Occasionally, however, one of them paid for a meal and at the end of the first two months, my books showed a profit of $4.50, not counting the $20 which I owed Maggot.

With this stake I moved to Chicago and rented a suite of offices at the corner of Madison and Paulia streets, then the heart of the shooting belt. The suite comprised a reception room and a silo. There was no need of a consultation or operating room because by the time my patients reached the outer door, they were so full of stray bullets that it was too late to do anything but idenify them. I made my money by keeping them in the silo until a reward was offered for information as to their whereabouts. Sometimes it was years or never, owing to a way Chicago husbands ahd wives had in those days of leaving home on interminable bats, and as a rule, the party left behind either took the prolonged absence as a matter of course or was not aware of some.

I Moved to Chicago and Rented a Suite of Offices at the Corner of Madison and Paulina streets, Then the Heart of the Shooting Belt.

Sad Medico Makes Tardy Reflection.

A boy named "Hi" Fever was trying to acquire enough money to attend college by selling subscriptions to "Risky Stories." His father had suggested that he call on one L. H. Tweek. The boy rang the doorbell at the Tweeks' and Mrs. Tweek answered it. "Hi" asked if her husband was at home. "I don't know," replied Mrs Tweek. "I have a vague recollection that he said something about going to the 'Follies' opening at the Colonial."

"But," said the Fever boy, "that was in in December and it is now August."

"Is it?" exclained Mrs. Tweek. "Well, in another month we can have oyster again!"

My Silo was finally filled to overflowing by unclaimed cases and it seemed advisable to move to another part of town. I put up a tent in Grant Park and hung out a shingle inscribed, "Surgeon. Cold Cuts a Specialty." The park was always popular with employes of Loop officials and department stores during their lunch hour and thousands of them took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy their midday meal and undergo some necessary operation at the same time. The potato salad which I served with the cold cuts was covered with a sort of ether dressing and from each patron I managed to remove at least his tonsils without his being the wiser. A certified public accountant once estimated that if all the tonsils I cut out during lunch hours were laid end to end, would be a nuisance.

I was now nineteen years of age and thinking of getting married. I consulted a friend of mine, Dr. Flip.

"Dr. Flip," I said, "I was thinking about getting married."

"I wish I had," was the reply.

"What? Got married?"

"No," he said. "Only thought of it."

DICKEY SEAT FOR THE BUICK

Four New Models Equipped With Auxiliary Carriers

The dickey seat has become a definite addition to automobile convenience, even though it often has many drawbacks.

In the Buicks for 1927, four models are equipped with seats in the rear decks which are designed to overcome all objections to this type. In the series 115, a roadster and two-passenger coupe have them, while corresponding models in the larger series 128 are similarly equipped.

The Buick type of dickey seat swings low into the deck when opened, as its hinges are very nearly centered instead og being placed near the back end. This gives a very low and comfortable seat, and allows the passengers riding in it to look directly through the windshield of the car.

Each seat is upholstered in genuine Spanish or grain leather, plain type trim. The rear compartments are finished throughout in the same manner as the front compartments. Arm rests are provided for comfort, which adds to the looks of the car by carrying the moulding line straight back to the extreme rear of the body.

To raise the dickey seat, it is not necessary to lift it by the key in the deck lock. A push or the back of the deck door serves to open it.

Althought these seats are, by their very nature, auxiliary accommodations for passengers, they offer no drawbacks in comforts, and are distinct additions to the looks of the cars when opened, due to their low construction and blending lines. They are easy to enter by means of aluminum steps with rubber mats, placed conveniently at the rear of the frame and on top of the right rear fender.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.(AP)—The Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial stood today adjourned until Monday with evidence before the jury that Harry Daugherty had burned bank records which the prosecution contends would have shown his guilt. The government has been presenting evidence for 13 days and its case is nearly complete.

GARMENT CZAR SHOT.

Two Men Flee In Auto After Firing Shots.

PASSAIC, N. J., Sept. 25. (AP) Louis Cooper, known as the "czar of the garment industry" in this district, was shot today and seriously wounded in front of his home by two men who fled in an automobile.

Physicians said five bullets entered his body, one of them near the heart. He refused to give the names of his assailants.

Cooper and Daniel Schwartz of Clifton, operate a trucking business, distributing garment works from New York among the non-union shops.

KING IS PREMIER.

Canadian Liberals Win Control in Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 25. (AP)—The liberals returned to power in Canada today with the appointment of W. L. Mackenzie King as premier to succeed Arthur Meighen, conservative.

Mr. Meighen's resignation and the elevation of Mr. King to his old post are the direct results of the recent parliamentary elections, in which the liberals made large gains and the conservatives suffered corresponding losses.

BREAD AND WATER

Judge Will Continue to Mete Out Terms

HARTINGTON, Neb., Sept. 25. (AP)—Liquor law violators who come before County Judge Wilbur F. Bryant will continue to receive bread and water sentences. The 75-year-old judge who has just completed a five-day test of the diet he has imposed for years said today he would dole out the sentences on a graduated scale in the future to fit the offense.

FAST SERVICE INTO MEXICO

53-Hour Freight Run From Mexico City To Laredo On Texas Border

DALLAS, Sept. 25.(AP)—Establishment of 53 hour freight service from Laredo to Mexico City was announced here Friday by Mexican Consul R. Cantu Lara. The new service, the "red ball" freight comes on the heels of recent inauguration of through freight rates from the United States to all points in Mexico served by the national lines. It means that American exporters to Mexico now have the best rates and schedules on freight movements on record. Senor Lara said. The announcement follows the visit to Dallas of C. Salazar, Mexican railroad official.

New tariffs recently published provide for through freight rates, and merchandise destined for Mexico now moves on a through bill of lading from origin point in this country to destination in Mexico.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

The way it is built—materials, quality, design and workmanship—is duplicated only in costliest cars.

The steel is the same used in cars costing up to $4000. Genuine plate glass has always been used throughout in Essex.

These details are typical of the way Essex is built. And the patented Super-Six principle gives exclusive advantages in performance, smoothness, freedom from vibration and long motor life.

With its new, beautiful, more colorful steel body, it is today the greatest value in Essex history.

Express Train Dependability

Hupmobile Six Built to same High Standards as Costliest Cars

Hupmobile Six a Leader, Also, in Complete, Modern Equipment

What goes into a motor car is vastly more important than what goes on it. You will not buy, of course, on mere externals and non-essentials, but on proven performance, dependability, long life, and low cost of maintenance. To superiority in these fundamentals, however, the Hupmobile Six also joins the latest and most complete equipment to be found on any car in its price class.

1. Oil filter
2. Gasoline filter—low gasoline consumption
3. Thermostatic heat control
4. Snubbers
5. Vision-ventilating windshield
6. Dash gasoline gauge
7. Clear vision bodies
8. Color options—Mohair upholstery in latest mode
9. Walnut grained panels on instrument board and window ledges
10. 4-wheel brakes
11. Special vibration damper
12. Headlights with tilting beam lenses and double filament bulbs

Sedan, five-passenger, four-door, $1385. Coupe, two-passenger, with rumble seat, $1385. Touring, five-passenger, $1325. Equipment includes 30 x 5.25 balloon tires, four-wheel brakes. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, plus revenue tax.

Certainly no car at its price — or within five hundred dollars of its price — compares with the Hupmobile Six in brilliant, delightful performance.

Its ability to perform and to out-perform, however, is not the most remarkable feature of this great car.

Underlying the public's admiration for this big, beautiful, full-size Hupmobile Six, is the deep seated respect of the average American for Hupmobile's traditional dependability.

Hupmobile pays millions of dollars more each year to make its Six one of the most dependable of all six-cylinder cars.

Owners, however, reap the benefit. The Hupmobile Six owner will tell you that his cost of maintenance is so low as to be almost negligible.

He will tell you that he can set out on a tour of a hundred, or a thousand or ten thousand miles, with the complete assurance that his journey will be unmarred by mechanical trouble or annoyance.

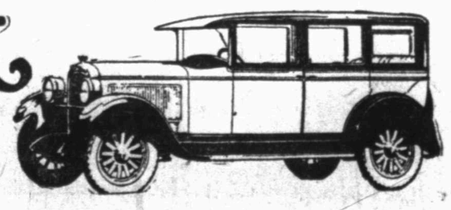

For you can drive this Hupmobile Six at express train speed, from sunrise to sunset, in the comforting knowledge that it is engineered and constructed to give such service easily, smoothly, and without straining.

RADIO AN AID TO HOME LIFE

Women's Clubs Plan To Stimulate Interest Via The Air

The Woman's club of Schenectady, the first organization of its kind to provide radio programs on a regular schedule, began the series of 1926-27, Tuesday afternoon, September 21, through WGY, with a Scotch program.

Officials of the Schenectady club three years ago saw the opportunity of expanding the activities and influence of the organization by including in its membership the great many women within hearing distance of WGY. Letters from listeners have proved the popularity and helpfulness of the club series. Programs are prepared expressly for the air and the subjects of talks are all such as will be of interest to women in the home.

W. D. Bearce, chairman of the radio committee, has this season prepared an elaborate series and in nearly every case, the program consists of a talk on home economics, child welfare, or home hygiene and several musical numbers which makes an attractive program.

—Radio— Programs

The importance of radio during the past storm in the southern states was dwarfed by the staggering blow with which the tragedy hit the nation. However, radio enthusiasts everywhere became a little more proud of the "game" when they learned that it was an improvised radio station that first carried news of the disaster out of Miami to a world that had been out of communication with the city for 24 hours.

When all other means of communication failed, radio was the first to fill the beach, and the ingenuity of radio "bugs" made it possible to construct a makeshift sending set out of the damaged apparatus left in the wake of the hurricane.

Radio played another important part in the disaster too. Appeals for aid broadcast almost continuously along with "hot" news of late storm reports made a deep impression on listeners. While nearly all stations did their share probably the greatest credit is due station WSBM which was on the air almost unceasingly for many hours after first news of the storm had been received. This station also aided many persons in Alabama and Mississippi to dodge the hurricane which soared up through that section.

Amateurs of more than 50 countries are now actively engaged in two-way international private communication. The present list includes stations in the following countries: Australia, Austria, Argentina, Alaska, Algeria, Belgium, Burmuda, Brazil, British Guiana, Bolivia, Canada, Chile Canal Zone, Czcho-Slovakia, Denmark, Dominican Republic, England, Egypt, France, Finland, French Indo-China, Germany, Greenland, Holland, Hawaii, Italy, India, Ireland, Japan, Luxembourg, Mexico, Morocco, Mesopotamia, Madeira Islands, New Zealand, Norway, Newfoundland, Portugal, Porto Rico, Philippine Islands, Russia, Spain, Scotland, Sweden, Switzerland, Samoa, Tasmania, Urguay, Union of South Africa and the United States.

The transmitting apparatus of KDKA, the pioneer station, now is gracefully draped in wreaths of mosquito netting hung over white cheese cloth. Like the breakfast food "There's a reason." During a recent broadcast the voice of a contralto was superimposed or interlaced with a series of jarring roars. Investigation showed bugs in the microphone! Hence the new style dress. And perhaps the static that drowned out WPG the other night was caused by the well known brand of Jersey mosquitoes. Perhaps.

Station KDKA celebrated its 6th anniversary September 20 with the dedication of a new studio claimed to be the best in the country. The new rooms are located in the office of the Pittsburgh Post which five years ago inaugurated the first newspaper broadcasting studio to give listeners now "hot off the air."

A musical organization that numbers 218 members, of which there are always more than 100 assembled when radio programs are broadcast, returned recently to WBZ programs for the third year as a weekly feature for the winter season. The Aleppo Drum Corps, internationally famous Shriners musical organization, will be heard on Monday nights starting at 9 o'clock.

Some extent of the commercial use of radio not ordinarily realized by broadcast listeners is learned through statistics on licensed operators. Files of the government reveal that there are now 6,950 commercial operators, in addition to 3,000 in the naval radio communication service and 350 in the army and signal corps.

Harry and Hal, famous football announcers of WMAQ, will be on the air again this fall, the station directors announce. Play-by-play descriptions of University of Chicago games will be broadcast by the station as well as the annual Army-Navy game which will be played in Chicago on November 27.

By radio the marine corps keeps an accurate check on the movements of its airplanes. The station at Quantico, Va., handles most of the traffic with a transmitter consisting of two 250-watt tubes and supplementary apparatus.

WOK, in Chicago reports listeners' letters from Washington state, Alaska, Maine, New Orleans and Florida showing good reception of the station's broadcast, and the directors are wondering where letters will come from when the new 20,000-watt transmitter gets in operation.

The department of commerce, which has radio at heart more than any other department even if the radio laws don't seem to mean much, reports that latest estimates compiled by its workers show 5,500,000 receiving sets in operation in the United States at the present time.

Chicago school children are going to be taught by radio. Through the co-operation of WMAQ instruction will be provided for half hour periods three times each week.

Three Cincinnati newspapers broadcast programs through one station. The time of WLW is shared with the Times-Star Smyphony orchestra program, the Post novelty program and the commercial Tribune dance music.

Advancing his theory that radio waves less than 10-meters long penetrate and do not bounce off the atmospheric, Dr. E. O. Hurlbut of the naval research laboratory, infers that interplanetary radio communication is possible. He has no answer to the question "Where do these waves go?"

Governors of various states will go on the air for the benefit of the radio audience of WMAQ that fall and winter. Gov. Al Smith of New York will start the series on October 2. He will be followed each Saturday evening until June by other governors. Some already "booked" are the executives of Pennsylvania, Maryland, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Florida, Arkansas and Minnesota.

The Teaberry boys are back on the air. They may be heard every Friday night in the future from KDKA. The programs will be given by a 12-piece symphonic orchestra, the Teaberry quartet and the comedian, Jim Hughes. This group is well known to KDKA listeners through past years' programs.

Silver Trophy For Radio Prize Will Be Offered

Johannesburg, South Africa.

A silver replica of an African springbok, a variety of small antelope, and the national symbol of South Africa, has been offered by "The Rand Daily Mail," of this city, to the United States, Canadian, or Hawaiian amateur who effects the greatest number of two-way contacts on short waves with South African amateurs during September and October.

The tests are being held under the auspices of the American Radio Relay league, of Hartford, Conn., and the South American Radio Relay league, with headquarters in this city. Any amateur in either country with a transmitting station is eligible, and the only requirement of the contest is that each American, Canadian or Hawaiian station work just as many South African amateurs as possible during the two months. If an American station works the same South African amateur more than once in a given week, only one contact will be counted toward the total. The making of schedules between stations is prohibited.

VETERAN IN 'DUTCH.'

Shell-Shock Victim Charged With Felony.

HOUSTON, Sept. 25.(AP)—Walter A. Phillips, 26, a World war veteran, was brought back to Houston Saturday from Washington, D. C., by J. N. Clarkson, a deputy United States marshal.

Phillips, whose home is in Tanglewood, Texas, is charged with "forging and uttering an obligation of the United States"—a compensation check.

Phillips, who was wounded several times during the St. Mihiel and Argonne drives, is accused of raising a $50 compensation check to $300 recently in Houston while passing through here on his way to Washington where he has been attending the war veterans' school and from which he was just graduated.

RESEARCH ON TEETH

Canyon Instructor Studies Cause of Brown Stain

CANYON, Texas, Sept. 25.—Due to a shortage of funds the National Research Council, reduced by one-half the appropriation for research work done by Dr. C. A. Pierle, head of the department of chemistry at the West Texas State Teachers Colege, in the field of brown tooth stain. However, the assumed the sponsorship of bringing the appropriation back to the original amount through local means. Dr. Pierle has already done a great deal of work in this field.

Famed Artists To Go On The Air Via Atwater-Kent Chain

Announcement was made by A Atwater Kent, of Philadelphia, that starting Sunday evening, October 3, he will begin the broadcasting of a new series of weekly programs by nationally famous grand opera and concert artists. The series for the coming winter may eclipse even the high standard set by the Atwater Kent program of last winter.

Among those already scheduled for early appearance in the new series are Frances Alda, Lucrezia Bori, Madame Schumann-Heink, Frieda Hempel, Josef Hofmann, Edward Johnson, Albert Spalding, Maria Kurenko, Louise Homer, Reinald Werrenrath, Margaret Matzenauer, Mary Lewis, Rosa Ponsell and Charles Hackett.

Through an arrangement with the Metropolitan Grand Opera company of a sort never before effected by any outside agency, Mr. Kent has obtained the call on the services of the artists of that great organization for radio appearances. This connection will enable him to put on the air, in the course of his new series, a number of artists not heretofore available for broadcasting because of their engagements with the Metropolitan.

The new series of Atwater Kent programs will be on the air each Sunday evening from 9:15 to 10:15 eastern standard time. It will be broadcast through a hook-up of 15 stations, as follows: WEAF, New York; WJAR, Providence; WWEI, Boston; WSAI, Cincinnati; WRC, Washington; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WEAR, Cleveland; WLIB, Chicago; WEI, and WOO, alternating, at Philadelphia; WCAE, Pittsburgh; WGR, Buffalo; WOC, Davenport; WTAG, Worcester; KSD St. Louis; WWJ, Detroit. These stations practically cover the country.

COMMERCE IMPROVES.

HOUSTON, Sept. 25.(AP)—Economic and commercial conditions showed some improvement during the week in Mexico, Peru, Columbia, Argentina and Brazil, Ernest L. Tutt, manager of the Houston district office of the United States bureau of foreign and domes tic commerce, announced Saturday. Canada has had its first frost, and Mr. Tutt says the present outlook is quite favorable in India and Australia.

SUN SPOTS HURT RADIO

Scientists Worried About Appearance of These Etherial Pests

Scientists are worried about sun spots. These radio pests appear on the countenance of Old Sol and, it seems, last 11 years, injuring radio reception. The theory has the support of learned men and it may well be sound, nevertheless this summer was much better than the previous two summers, and distance in hot weather actually was enjoyed by many. So, although the sun spots are there all right, it may be just our good luck that they do us radioists no particular injury, but only annoy some of our scientific friends.

Persons afflicted with rheumatism have said that lately the aches have been more frequent and more enduring than previously. As an example, one man, now nearing 97, said he suffered more this summer than he did in 1876, and he attributes this to sun spots. And one must never omit the fact that it was a sun-spotty day when Spain sent her two-year advance notice of quitting the league council. Still those same sun spots that read Spain out read Germany in.

LOTS OF SYRUP.

ELECTRA, Sept. 25.—H. H. Haynes, prominent ranch owner, farmer and merchant, closed down his syrup mill this week, after making 1,300 gallons of syrup from five acres of cane on the Woodard-Haynes ranch, nine miles north of Electra on the Red river. This averaged 260 gallons of syrup per acre, while he says that he has 10 additional acres of just such cane, which will not be made into syrup, due to the rush of cotton picking season. This syrup will be retailed at his General Mercantile store, north of the city, and local grocery men, at $1.25 per gallon, making his cane crop net him the sum of $1,625.

FAMILY REUNION

Frank H. Avens, an old resident of this section of the country, but who now resides in Celeste, celebrated his 79th birthday, with a family reunion at the present home in that city. C. L. Avens of Electra, a son, and prominent business man of this city, was among the other guests in attendance. Other children from the variosus parts of the state were, Mrs. R. A. Holland of Commerce; F. L. Aven and wife of Cumby; G. E. Aven and wife of Daingerfield; M. G. Aven and wife of Olney, Omer Lyday and wife, and Dreyfus Aven and wife of Celeste. Besides the children there were 28 grand-children-grand children attending the birthday of the venerable old citizen. The reunion was a pleasant success with a big dinner and watermelon feast being features of the affair.

C. L. Aven returned to his home this week, after the celebration which was held last Tuesday at the residence three miles east of Celeste.

W. D. Pouncey of Vernon is the guest of his daughters, Mesdames, A. J. Gafford and C. V. Hevrin.

F... CANYON GAINS 114 STUDENTS

First Day's Registrations Largest in History Of College

The first day's enrollment totaled 520 students, a real start of 114 more than any first day that indicates the largest enrollment in the 16 years of the history of the institution.

During the vacation period just over, much repairing has been done at Randall Hall, one of the state owned and controlled girls' dormitories, and in the administration building. The paint brush has been busy in both buildings and quite a bit of remodeling accomplished at Randall Hall.

Both halls and boarding houses all over town, are practically filled with the incoming students. All faculty members are back from vacation. There are many new faces among the faculty as well as the student body due to resignations and leaves of absence granted to regular members for further study.

Registration will continue through Friday, September 24, and classes met for assignments Saturday. By Monday morning it is expected that everything will be running smoothly.

HOME BREW TAX.

Proceeds to Be Used to Aid Texas Schools.

AUSTIN, Sept. 25.(AP)—The "Home Brewer" may be forced to pay more for his malt.

Lee Satterwhite, speaker of the house of the 39th legislature, here in call session, said Saturday there has been some mention of imposing a malt tax for common school purposes. He interpreted a recent opinion of the attorney general's department to the effect that the governor opened the way to submission of any sort of occupational tax for school purposes, when she recommended passage of the three-cent gasoline tax to raise the per capita scholastic apportionment.

The speaker said it had been estimated the schools would receive more than a million dollars a year from the malt tax. He said no definite move for submission of such a proposal had been called to his attention.

CONFEDERATE MEET.

Port Arthur Makes Ready for Convention.

HOUSTON, Sept. 25.(AP)—United Confederate veterans and allied organizations were reminded here Saturday by Gen. J. C. Foster, of the approaching reunion at Port Arthur October 6-8. Port Arthur is planning, General Foster said in an announcement, to entertain 300 veterans, probably 100 sons of veterans and the same number of visiting United Daughters of the Confederacy, all of whom with members of the Southern Memorial association and children of the Confederacy, have been granted railroad rates.

LITTLE GIRL HURT.

ELECTRA, Sept. 25.—Louise Wilson, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brokaw of North Waggoner street, was painfully injured Friday at the Waggoner ward school when she fell from an iron fence. Her condition was not thought to be serious Saturday.

$5,000 ASKED FOR ALIMONY

Walter J. Hill Named In Suit By Wife Asking For Divorce

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 25. (AP)—Walter J. Hill, 41, St. Paul millionaire and son of the late James J. Hill, pioneer railroad builder of the northwest and his wife, Pauline S. Hill, 45, are plaintiffs in divorce actions, filed almost simultaneously in widely separated cities.

Each charges cruelty and in addition Mrs. Hill in her complaint filed here yesterday alleges her husband has been unfaithful. Mr. Hill's action was filed at Butte, Mont.

Mrs. Hill requests a hearing October 16 and asks $5,000 monthly as temporary and permanent alimony. She declared her husband has an annual income of $250,000 and owns property worth between $4,500,000 and $5,000,000. She asks that he be enjoined from disposing of any of his property.

A chorus girl and a woman known as "Blanche R." both of New York, are named in Mrs. Hill's petition which also alleges indiscretions with an unnamed woman at Hill's hunting lodge at Lakota.

HILL ONCE NAMED BY IRATE HUSBAND

BILLINGS, Mont. Sept. 25. (AP)—Walter J. Hill, named as defendant in a suit for divorce at St. Paul by his wife, Mrs. Pauline Hill, was defendant in a $200,000 alienation suit here two years ago, brought by Frank Gottlob, jr.

Gottlob's complaint charged that while he was absent from home Hill met Mrs. Gottolob at Livingstone, Mont., and won her affections.

The suit later was transferred to Park county, Montana, and was settled out of court. No details of the settlement ever were made public.

MEDICS STORE CANCER 'LORE'

Basic Data On Disease Is Compiled Into Single Statement

LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., Sept. 25. (AP)—An important weapon combatting cancer was made ready for use today when the world's recognized authorities on the disease put into a single statement all the basic knowledge they have of the subject.

The statement, regarded as the most important pronouncement on cancer ever made, was adopted at the closing session of the four-day symposium on cancer control which was attended by more than 100 cancer specialists of the United States and several European countries.

Points concerning the disease of which the experts agree were incorporated in the statement, which is designed for the public and the medical profession alike. While the basic knowledge of cancer is admittedly incomplete the summary is considered as a foundation upon which to proceed in waging warfare against the disease.

NOTED ACTOR DIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.(AP)—Joseph Jefferson Holland, noted actor of a generation ago, died in a local sanitarium today. He was 66 years old, having been a semi-invalid since his retirement from the stage 23 years ago.

BANDITS GET $10,000

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.(AP)—Five unmasked robbers today held up the Citizens bank of Festus, Mo., 40 miles south of here, and escaped with approximately $10,000 cash. They drove away in the direction of St. Louis in an automobile bearing an Illinois license.

A Girl's Critical Age

READING between the lines, it takes a mother or sister to divine the needs of a girl just budding into womanhood: "My sister was not very strong and had been taking all sorts of pills and stuff for constipation. She was fourteen and of course embarrassed with pimples. So I bought her a large bottle of Syrup Pepsin. She has had no constipation since, her complexion is good and she is much stronger, healthier and happier. Now I always recommend Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin." El JARDIN de los SUENOS

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, Sunday, September 26, 1926.

The GARDEN of DREAMS IS BUILT

EL JARDIN DE LOS SUENOS, the Record News' Garden of Dreams, is built. It is such a home as a man and woman would build in their dreams, an air castle brought to life. It is all that a home should be—beautiful, comfortable, fine in every detail, permanent.

FORMAL OPENING TUESDAY SEPT. 28 7:30 P. M.

The building of it has been a work of love for all connected with it. Each has given his best, and the result is more than we dared expect. It's beauty has been taken from the Spanish tradition, but its fineness has been wrought by every man who helped build it.

J S

You Are Invited to See It

EL JARDIN DE LOS SUENOS opens for the first time Tuesday evening, September 28, at 7:30 p. m., and will be opened daily through the week. Accept this as our cordial invitation to see this home of homes. It will be open during the Texas-Oklahoma Fair. You will be interested in the pages of this section that tell of its building. Read it thoroughly so that you will enjoy your visit more.

We ask your co-operation in visiting El Jardin. Spanish guides will escort you through. No one will be admitted before Tuesday evening.

Spanish Color Runs Rampant Through El Jardin

Romance of Old Spain Is Found In Garden Home

Replicas of Spanish Beauty to Land Touch of Enchantment to El Jardin de Los Senuos; Best Furniture Selected.

Romance of Spain combined with the ingenuity of Americans in making furniture which cannot be surpassed in this country is found in El Jardin de los Suenos, the Garden of Dreams, Record News Home Beautiful.

Replicas of Spanish furniture, the gay colors so liked by the Spaniards, pottery, pictures, plaques, each piece contributing its part in making The Garden of Dreams what its name signifies—the furniture has been chosen with the most careful attention paid to its selection by the Freear Furniture company here.

The walk leads to the door into the living-room, and the atmosphere becomes typically Spanish. There greets the eye on entering the spacious room a beautiful living-room suite of walnut wood. The frame is trimmed in wrought iron with upholstering in red mohair. The reverse cushions are in gold, red and green Spanish tapestry trimmed with black moss edge. The frames of the three pieces are studded in antique brass nails.

Nearby is a combination secretary and desk in true Spanish design. It is walnut, handcarved in two-tone amber lacquer finish with handpainted Spanish coat of arms. The front door to the desk shows a Spanish dancing couple handpainted on the wood.

Behind the davenport is a walnut table on which rests a pair of tigers in verdi-green finish. The living room provides a place for a walnut hand-carved occasional table. On it is a Spanish pottery lamp with linen shade, colored in blue, green and red. There is also another lamp of wrought iron, with a genuine parchment shade.

A hand carved humidor, the top of which is hand-tooled leather, studded with antique brass nails and hand-painted, is given a place in this Spanish living room also. A wrought iron magazine rack hand-carved walnut end tables with wrought iron stretchers.

No more beautiful could be the armour bronzed Spanish book ends hand-decorated in Spanish colors that are placed on a living room table.

At the rear of the room near the entrance to the loggia is a pair of ferneries. They stand up high and in the colored metal pots are living flowers which add another touch of beauty to the delightful room. Over each is placed a Spanish armour bronzed plaque.

One of the beauty spots of the living room is the mantel and on each side of it is a wrought iron torschier.

Over the mantel is an imported Spanish ship imported from Bavaria. It is the kind of ship about which sea tales are told and children stand opened mouthed with interest. Its bollowy sails hold a story in every ripple. This galleon is modeled from the Santa Maria, famous in Spanish history.

No home is complete without its floor covering, and there is a work of art in the rug which is in the dining and living room of El Jardin de los Suenos. Ivan Murchison of the Freer Furniture company who selected the furniture for this exquisite Garden of Dreams had the rugs made especially for these floors. While in New York City looking over furniture he was in the Hartford Carpet company. Nothing suitable had been found to harmonize with the other furnishings, when a man from Miami, Fla., came in bringing with him an antique Spanish rug of very small size. He wanted the rug maker to take this small one for a pattern and develop it into a big rug. Mr. Murchison received permission to have the two rugs made for El Jardin de los Suenos which have arrived and are now on the floor.

In a niche in the wall there fits nicely the love seat for which Mr. Murchison combed the big eastern cities to find just what he wanted. It has a wrought iron frame and is upholstered in real Spanish tapestry.

Music will be heard, too, in the home, and a Brunswick Panatrope, combination instrument, is placed. Five pairs of cathedral top double doors in the living room will be draped with silk gauze glass curtains underneath cathedral top lambriquens made of red and gold damask. These lambriquens are made so they will divide the center when the doors are opened. The side drapes are of the same material and are hung with traverse attachments so they will travel back and fourth. Specially designed fringes, rosettes and large cord tiebacks were made by the Early Brothers company of Philadelphia to be used as trimmings for these treatments.

As you enter the hall going into the dining room you will find a beautiful wrought iron marble top table and console mirror. The dining room itself is fitted with a solid hand-carved, nine-piece suite. The chairs are upholstered in red leather and studded with antique brass nails.

The breakfast room is a dream. It has a marvelous maple wood suite consisting of a table, two benches and two chairs, in place of the ordinary four chairs. It is finished in a two-tone green with wrought iron trimmings in red and orange. The rectangular table and its appointments are really truly Spanish. The window shades to the breakfast rooms are dragon red glazed chintz. The side drapes are syn sour cretonne showing Spanish colors in red, green, black and orange and are hung on wrought iron poles.

For the guest's bedroom, everything to make it attractive and pleasant has been done. Draperies of exquisite materials, design and workmanship are featured and harmonize with the room in general. The furniture consists of a bed, chiffonier, vanity, desk, chair, rocker and bench in French green finish with hand-painted decorations.

The head of this bed has a tapestry panel set in and shows colors of dark orchid, green and gold. The bed spread is of orchid and gold taffeta trimmed with green taffeta ruffles. The draperies are of the same materials and are hung from orchid poles and green rings.

The center bedroom has twin beds, hand decorated walnut, a highboy with toilet mirror and night table, and one overstuffed chair. The bedspread in this room is made of ecru colored imported English casement cloth with a lattice work around the sides, done in red and green. The draperies carry out the idea of decoration in the bedspread and are hung from green poles with red rings.

An antique walnut hand decorated suite consisting of a dresser with hanging mirror, bed, highboy, standing desk with red lacquered front and an overstuffed chair is the furniture for the back bedroom. The bedspread for this room is of cretonne showing a plain center with colored ruffles and draperies of the same material to be hung from black poles with burnt orange rings.

All rugs in the bedrooms and halls are plain black and grey without any borders.

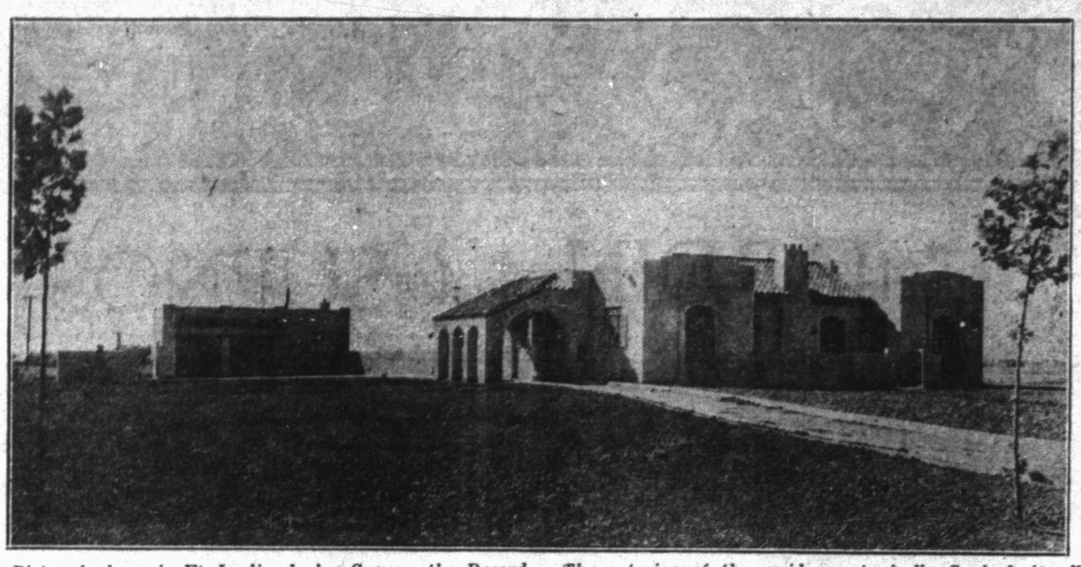

Throughout the house, little pieces of pottery added now and then to give an individual touch. Pieces of pottery, jugs, pots, many of which are imported directly from Spain, and numerous pictures suitable to the home will be looked over and several selected for the home beautiful.

The loggia will furnish a place for a pair of Spanish urns, one on each corner. Two high back chairs of hickory painted in burnt orange and black are placed against the loggia wall.

Another burst of brightness is in the patio where an iron umbrella table with a set of four chairs around it and other chairs are placed. The furniture is covered with black, green and burnt orange canvas to harmonize with the large umbrella over the table.

Visitors are invited to see the Record News home beautiful which has been built with every care and consideration by all the interested firms.

Willys-Knight To Be Displayed At Garden of Dreams

Along with the other quality products entering into its make-up El Jardin de los Suenous will have one of the aristocrats of the automotive world to grace the garage.

The Overland Motors company will supply a new Willys-Knight sleeve valve motor car for the house during the duration of the opening, thereby retaining the exactitude of refinement and quality that marks every detail of the Garden of Dreams.

The Knight, with its silent and powerful motor that improves with use is one of the acknowledged leaders in the motor car field and has been selected for the Garden of Dreams because of the exterior beauty it possesses as well as the inner qualities that have made it famous.

BUSY SEASON AHEAD.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—Michael Bohnen, one of the principal German stars of the Metropolitan opera house in New York will have a busy season before he reaches there. Bohnen is booked to appear thirty times with the German state opera in Berlin and in addition has signed for guest engagements in Paris and London.

SPAIN EVEN SEEN IN BOOK SHELF OF HOME

Captivating Romance of Famed Literature In Garden of Dreams

The captivating romance of Spanish literature, in fact, that of the literature the world over, will appear on the shelves of the library in "El Jardin de los Suenos," The Record News Home Beautiful which is now extending its hospitality to home-lovers of Wichita Falls.

Books are the making of a home in the true sense of the word and no little effort has been made to secure a library of the best quality that bookbinders and publishers can offer.

Mrs. Nancy Taylor, who buys unsurpassable volumes from the largest publishers in the country, is putting into the Home Beautiful her choicest and most beautiful books—works of the world's best loved and outstanding writers, Dickens, Shelley, Irving, Shakespeare, Stevenson, Keats and number of autobiographies—all will appear on the book shelves of this Spanish home.

Bound in genuine Spanish colors of red, green, orange and blue, such a library will enhance the beauty of the color scheme carried out in the interior decoration of the house as well as complete the homelike atmosphere.

Hand Tooled.

Mrs. Taylor's hand made books are hand-tooled in gold designs of the most intricate and delicate beauty, inlaid with tiny pieces of leather in harmonizing colors. Many are double-backed with the same leather facings and tracings in gold as on the outside.

Irving's "Alhambra" is of striking beauty among the volumes in Mrs. Taylor's merchandise on hand. Each leaf which is of fine smooth paper has a decorative border of Moorish designs, these in turn differing in their scrolls and tracery. The fly-leaves are hand colored in a Spanish mottled effect.

Japanese Vellum.

A number of children's books are included in Mrs. Taylor's supply, each having striking illustrations in colors or silhouette design.

As a whole, Mrs. Taylor's books are among the most beautiful and rare that Wichita Falls has ever seen. A number of libraries have been installed by her in the leading homes in the city. Through the auspices of the Woman's Forum, Mrs. Taylor will conduct an exhibition of her volumes sometime during the winter.

The library shelves of "El Jardin de los Suenos," though not built to accommodate a large number of books are spacious enough to hold these volumes that every home enjoys. They occupy a convenient space in the hall, two steps higher than the living-room, and are faced by a comfortable built-in seat. They are arranged with an eye to convenience for both occupants of the living-room and the guest room.

When the Mayor Started Things at the Garden

NOVEL MANTEL GRACES ROOM IN NEW HOME

Wichita Builders Supply Has Installed Handsome Price of Art

A unique feature of the Home Beautiful livingroom dear to the feminine heart is the mantel which is the replica of an old stone mantel of the XV century procured in Spain and finished by the Wichita Builders Supply company.

Made of massive Cretan stone in a medium antique color with black and gold facing and a mosaic colored tile hearth to harmonize, the fireplace is of outstanding beauty and the color scheme of the tiles and stone blend perfectly into the room furnishings and interior decoration.

The mantle is six feet in height and six feet and three-fourth inches in length, with a frieze across the top in scroll design in carvings. Doric columns at each side complete the architecture of the structure.

The Wichita Builders' Supply company have also completed placing an artistic fountain of Batchelder tile in the garden wall which surrounds the patio in the rear of the home beautiful. The whole color scheme of which is cream colored plaster with the fountain of harmonizing color.

The two baths in the home have white tile ceramic floors with dainty borders together with a 6x3 white glazed wall tile border five feet in height and a neat base and cap to match.

In the breakfast room the floor is of mosaic tile laid in blending colors and all doors in the home have Athey cloth lined metal weatherstrips furnished by this company.

BOBBED HAIR A BLESSING.

NOTHING FOR NOTHING.

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Sacha Guitry and Yvonne Printempts, who, with their mosart company are to be Al Woods "Christmas present to Broadway," at $25,000 per week, do nothing unless they are paid for it.

The feature writer for a theatrical magazine in the United States received a cable dispatch commissioning him to interview Yvonne. When he asked Sacha's permission to do so, he was asked, "What do I get." When told he would receive nothing Guitry ended the interview with, "I never do anything for nothing."

THE GOVERNMENT CORPS.

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—One out of every seven men in France between the ages of twenty-five and fifty is a government functionary. The total number of Frenchmen drawing salaries from the state treasury has recently been given out officially as 696,768.

Public instruction leads with 146,783, then come the posts, telegraph and telephone services with 145,397. Finances is next with 92,419, just ahead of railroads with 89,661.

The war department has 56,687 functionaries, while the navy is content with 30,654.

Age Old Fortress Placed On Sale

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Any person who desires to buy a perfectly good circular fortress, more than a century old and beautifully situated on the English channel, can purchase it of the British war office for a suitable consideration. It is one of the string of Martello towers which dot the coast in the southeastern corner of England, erected when the islanders grew panicky over the reputed purpose of Napoleon Bonaparte to cross from France and pay them a visit. It has walls six feet thick, a gun emplacement on top and a magazine underneath. Inner and outer moats surround the property.

Representatives of the genus "Hobo" have found this particular tower a good place of residence. These nomads are now occupying it in considerable numbers from night to night. The war office apparently thinks it is time Napoleon's unconscious contribution toward relieving the present housing congestion should be more profitably realized upon. At any rate, it wants to get rid of the property and it is to be sold at auction shortly.

WOMAN LIVING TORCH.

LILI A COMER.

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Senorita Lili De Alverez, the Spanish tennis player who did well this year at Wimbledon and later played in the Cromer courts tournament, is regarded as a star who eventually may become as famous as Suzanne Lenglen was in the non-professional field. Senorita De Alvarez was not in the best of health at Wimbledon, but she has passed most of her summer resting at Le Touquet, France. She has been training with good results and is now in excellent form. The Spanish girl probably is the greatest beauty among famous women tennis players. She is less than 20, slender and graceful and has much vivacity and good nature. She received her education in various parts of Europe and is extremely cultivated and versatile.

BIG ORGAN TO PLAY.

LONDON, Sept. 25 (AP)—American radio fans probably will have an opportunity of hearing Liverpool cathedral's organ, which has just been completed at a cost of about $175,000. The builders have received many requests from the United States that recitals be broadcast and these may be sent out from Daventry.

The instrument has five rows of keys, 222 draw knobs, 168 stops and 10,934 pipes. It is pumped by electro-pneumatic action, the mechanism being driven by motors with a total of 35 horse power. The size of the organ is such that there are seventeen telephones from various parts of the instrument for the workmen to communicate with the assistant at the keys during tuning.

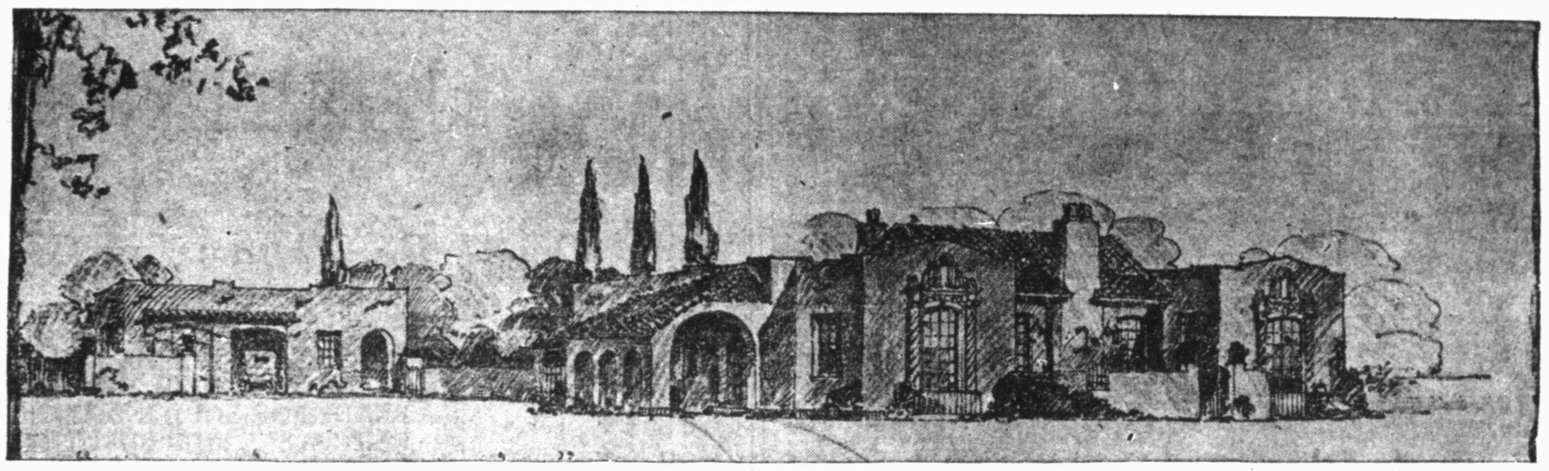

SIGN HIM UP, DOC.

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Cardiff-Wales Rugby football team has a useful reserve fullback in Trevor Lee, who created what is claimed to be two world's rugby records in a game against Cardiff and District. He kicked 13 goals out of 14 attempts and scored twenty-seven points. Several of the goals were made from different angles.

"El JARDIN de los SUENOS"

Built By Taylor Brothers

Several months age we were awarded the contract for "El Jardin de los Suenos." We knew that it was to be a wonderful home but we also realized that it must, as all home should, stand intact for years to come. With this thought in mind we have given it every attention, have employed the best workmen, the most responsible engineers, and now we stand by and will let you judge for yourself how well we have accomplished our task.

You will find that every home that is built by this firm will be just as lasting, just as perfectly put together and just as earnestly and conscientiously executed as "The Garden of Dreams."

OLD SPANISH IN MILL WORK FOR BUILDING

Taylor Brothers and Rhine Make Novel Designs For New Home

The charm of Old Spanish architecture which is admired by beauty-loving Americans has been heightened in the "Garden of Dreams," El Jardin de los Seunos, the Record News home beautiful by the mill work done by Taylor Brothers and Rhine. Deep arches here and there, an alcove cabinet, a bench cabinet and a lovely book case fashioned after the old fashioned "whatnot" and the massive doors are features of the mill work done by the company, which did the interior wood decorations.

Depth Enhanced.

The giant arches in the hall give depth and special mouldings to reproduce the effect of old Spanish craftsmanship, and individual pieces carry out the motif. The gates are typically Spanish and the mill work done by Taylor Brothers and Rhine.

One of the charming built-in features of the home is the book case with its open shelves. It is fashioned after the style of the whatnot known and loved in the early days.

Dear to the heart of any woman is the kitchen and it is especially designed for her desires. Cabinets to meet every need have ben conveniently arranged, and they are no less beautiful for their utility. The mill work is exquisitely done, add the work reflects credit to its makers.

Specially Designed Doors.

Then, there are the doors specially designed for the El Jardin de los Suenos by Taylor Brothers and Rhine. "They were made in Wichita Falls and hand trimmed," C. T. Ashmore, member of the firm said yesterday. "They are built of white pine with ply wood panels," he said. To see them is to appreciate their beauty.

"We have 34 men to do any kind of mill work for stores, banks, residences, elaborate stair cases, any thing in the way of work of this kind, and we feel able to interpret architectural drawings. When you see better mill work in Wichita Falls remember we built it," he said.

PEER HAILED AS WORLD'S MOST CAPABLE LANDLORD

Holkham, Eng.—Eminent sociologists, after an inspection of this town and the entire 45,000-acre estate of Lord Leicester, united in declaring this British peer the most capable landlord in the world. The estate and town supply all the requirements of the inhabitants with the exception of clothing. Lord Leicester maintains vast farms, timber and brick yards, sawmills. All the farm implements are made in his own factory. A large section of the estate has been reclaimed from the sea and turned into highly productive land.

Moguls of Europe Receive Hughes

As Europe sees former Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes. The distinguished statesman and lawyer is seen here on the steps of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Paris, where he conferred informally with Aristide Briand.

HOME TO BE SAVED.

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—The old home in Brampton, Huntingdonshire, of Samuel Pepys, the famous diarist, is to be taken over by the Samuel Pepys club and saved from ruin.

Lord Sandwich, the owner, has offered to lease the place for five pounds a year, on condition that it will be maintained in good repair. There is nothing of the grand English country house about Brampton establishment, but Pepys looked forward to peaceful retirement there.

It was in the garden of this house that Pepys buried his money when England feared the coming of the Dutch. When the danger was passed Pepys retrieved it all but 20 or 30 gold pieces and rejoiced greatly.

PLASTER AND STUCCO USED IN PROFUSION

Shoop and Williams Put On Excellent Coats For New Home

One of the important factors in the Record News Garden of Dreams is the plaster and stucco work of the building. Both of these materials have entered to a great extent into the construction work and because the building itself has been constructed on a lasting and permanent basis,, they too, must last through the years.

Shoop and Williams were awarded the contract for the plastering and stucco finish, and their efforts have resulted materially in the enhancement of the looks and quality of the building, walls, garage and long, rambling outer garden ramparts.

The house has been covered with gray stucco of unusual thickness which the builders declare will not crack or peel. A distinct touch of Spanish "color" has been added through this treatment of the outer walls.

On the inside plaster has been used throughout and excellent effects obtained on the arched ceilings and alcoved walls. All rooms, of course, are plastered with a special high grade plaster of enduring quality.

Shoop and Williams have been doing quality plastering in Wichita Falls for some time and have built up an extensive business through serviceable work.

No small part of the stucco work on the Garden of Dreams is included in the garden walls which stretch out for a long way on all sides and behind the building. These have been finished in conformity with the design and color of the walls.

CONVICT BLESSES JUDGE, BUT GETS LONG SENTENCE

CHICAGO.—A unique scene was witnessed in court when Frederick Thorald, ex-convict, came up for sentence on a third conviction for burglary. Addressing the judge, he said:

May the blessing of God await thee.

May the Sun of Glory shine around they bed, and may the Gate of Plenty Honor and Happiness be ever open to thee.

May the Pillow of Peace kiss thy cheeks, and the pleasures of Imagination attend thy dreams.

And when the length of years makes thee tired of earthly joys, and the Curtain of Death gently closes around thy last sleep of human existence.

May the Angel of God attend thy bed and take care that the expiring Lamp of Life shall not receive one rude blow to hasten on its extinction.

Then Thorald was sentenced to 20 years in prison as an habitual offender.

CALCUTTA.—Three aeroplanes crashed in a fog near here, and two of the aviators were killed.

ALL FURNITURE AND FURNISHINGS FOR EL JARDIN DE LOS SUENOS WERE FURNISHED BY FREEARS, SELECTED B OUR MR. IVAN MURCHISON. THIS HOME ADDS FURTHER TO FREEAR'S REPUTATION FOR SUPPLYING BEAUTIFUL FURNITURE APPROPRIATE FOR EVERY TYPE OF HOME.

OUR FIRM WAS commissioned with the selection of authentic Spanish furniture for El Jardin de Los Suenos, with the furnishing of correct rugs and with making appropriate draperies to harmonize. How well we have succeeded, you will be able to see for yourself when you visit this home of homes. We are satisfied that no home in the Southwest has a finer collection of beautiful furniture and furnishings in the Spanish manner.

THREE bedroom suites were furnished for the El Jardin de los Suenos. The suite that will perhaps attract most attention is that for the guest room. "Exquisite" is the best description for it. Finished in soft green, it has a fragrant delicacy heightened by the oval head, covered with lavender and green silk damask. The chairs are upholstered in this material also, and the lavender and pale green silk draperies and spread carry these shades further. The other two suites are of rich, grained walnut, both with decorations hand painted.

DOMINANTLY Spanish is the main hall. Interesting pieces you will see in it are: The main suite, covered with rich red velour, brass spudded; a lover's bench of wrought iron, classical in its design; a wonderfully carved and painted humidor of walnut and leather; wrought iron candelabra; a Spanish galleon; vases.

RED LEATHER, studded to walnut gives the dining hall furniture a rich, heavy beauty that reflects the dignity of the decorated beams of the ceiling. The breakfast room is bright wtih a cheerful suite and draperies in Spanish colors.

THE PATIO is made delightful with a garden set of wrought iron and painted wood. A large sunshade protects the table. Furneries of wrought iron are in the Spanish manner. Other pieces of interest are the rugs, some copies of old Spanish hooked rugs, others originals imported from India. A huge vase is a copy of an antique imported Spanish vase.

Heating Plant of New Garden of Dreams Has Latest Modern Devices

Replicas of Spanish Beauty to Lend Touch of Enchantment to El Jardin de los Suenos; Best Furniture Selected.

In the Garden of Dreams, El Jardin de los Suenos, on Kessler boulevard in Westmoreland park plans for the heating plant in the lovely Spanish home have been adquately planned by the Wichita Hardware company. Carrying out the idea of beauty of design both in architecture and furnishings, the heating plant harmonizes with the well chosen surroundings .

The ideal Youda heat machine has been installed in the home, and automatically controlled affair that will carry to any part of the house the desired temperature. A Minneapolis heat regulator which at all times has absolute control of the machine without any adjustment by the owner is responsible for this comfort.

The metal jacket which encloses this machine is lined with 16 plies of aircell asbestos. The lining is scientifically gauged to prevent radiation heat loss. Baked enamel and permanently handsome is the exterior of the jacket which will serve efficiently during the life of the heater.

The "Ideal Youda" has not been built to a price, it is the best that modern science and American ingenuity can produce.

Special Design.

This machine is especially designed for owners of residences who want the best that is made. The Ideal Youda, a powerful, dependable heat generator, operates with a saving of one-third the fuel bill to the owner, using coal, gas, oil or wood for fuel. The additional cost of installing the machine will be paid off in a short time, it was said by the company.

The Radiation.

The radiation in the home beautiful is the "Carto" design which is the radiator classis and is the creation of Louis Courtot, a French artist engineer, long affiliated with the American Radiator company. After years of labor, this ambition was realized, and the product of that toil is to be found in El Jardin de los Suenos.

No other radiator has the refined and artistic elegance which so repeat the chaste lines of classic architecture, that in its finished state it may be justly be regarded as an object of art.

He Admits George Much Of A King

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—King Nararkad, head of the oldest known black race in the world, which lives in the northeast corner of Australia, admits that King George of Great Britain is a great king. He points out, however, that he also is some monarch.

The black king has sent a message to Buckingham palace by Jack McLaren, an Australian author, whom he received in front of his bark hut, surrounded by his strongest warriors.

"They tell me you go to the great land of white men," said King Nararkad. "I hear that the king of the white men is a great king, wise and kind. I, too, am a great king. Say to the king of the great land of white men—my greetings. Say I hope he will keep the love of his people as I hope to keep the love of mine."

King Nararkad is said to be descended from a line of kings longer than that of any western monarch, and, in accordance with a tradition of many thousand years, he holds office not only by virtue of being of royal blood, but by excellence in feats of arms. If he should ever show himself a wealkling, the tribe woul dname the next person in rightful succession as monarch.

TWIXT SATAN AND SEA

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Getting a warrant for her husband's arrest, Mrs. J. C. Conway accused him of beating her if she spoke to him and slapping her if she kept silent.

Hat Is Named After Gertrude

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—A hat has been named after Gertrude Ederle. The appearance of the head dress duly labeled in milliners windows has given the American swimmer's feat in crossing the channel the ultimate consecration which women can bestow.

Miss Ederle, although she swam the channel in the usual bathing attire with cap and goggles, has left traces in French fashion more elegant than her red rubber head protectors. It is a close-fitting brimless hat—of the toque variety—executed in luminous sea green velvet across which the light glimmers like the sunshine over the channel on a bright day. The hat is finished smartly in front with a pin some four inches long representing Neptune's trident.

The little hat looks particularly well against furs and comes as a cheerful novelty at a moment when the milliners are busy thinking of the dark days of winter ahead.

BUST DISPLAYED.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The first bust of President Von Hindenburg to be publicly displayed in the Cologne zone since it was evacuated by allied occupational forces has been affixed to a pillar of Cologne cathedral 200 feet above the ground. Officials explained that the reason for placing the sculpture so high up was to express artistically the fact that Von Hindenburg as president watches over all his people.

Maharajah Plans American Visit

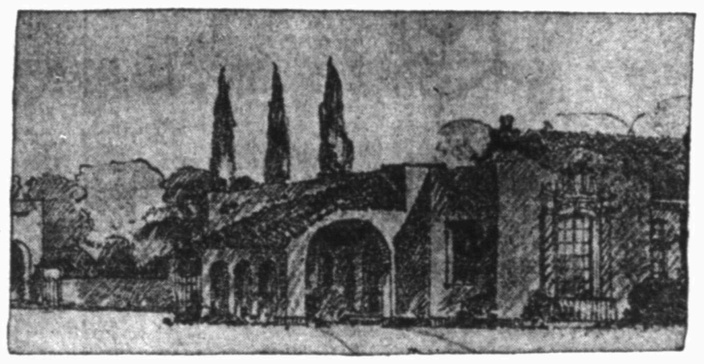

Salutes and formalities will soon be in order for the formal reception of the Maharajah of Rajpipla, who is to repeat his 1922 call on America. The Maharajah's domain is one of the smallest of the 600 native states of India, where an army of 111 men maintains peace, and the people worship a sacred monkey.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—There is a little beauty spot up in Aberdeenshire in Scotland, much visited by tourists where seats are provided for comfortable contemplation of the scenery and picnicking is freely indulged in.

As in many American parks ordinary warnings apparently were not effective enough to induce tourists to clean up after their impromptu meals. So some literary light in the local official world bethought himself to try out what an appeal in the form of a limerick would do, and the following notices now have been posted:

"Oh, you who come here as a sitter
"We pray you to clear up your litter
"Your paper and scraps
"And chocolate wraps—

Westmoreland Park

FREE FROM THE ANNOYANCES AND DANGERS OF THE CITY—BUT ENJOYING ALL THE CONVENIENCES

Speaking generally, a home section should be this:

It should give its homes every convenience and luxury that the whole city can offer, besides special accommodations of its own.

It should remove and guard against the dangers, annoyances and disagreeable conditions of crowded districts.

That describes Westmoreland Park!

Every home built in Westmoreland Park will be supplied immediately from the gas mains that will furnish an always adequate supply.

The whole park is abundantly supplied with city water through new mains. Every tract is connected with the city sewerage system.

Electricity is available to every home, ready to be connected.

Every tract is supplied with abundant water for irrigation from the central system, and the charge is but a few dollars for the year. That means beautiful grounds, well watered.

The fine, well-planned streets and boulevards of Westmoreland are paved with Warrenite Bithulithic pavement, the best that could be had, streets that will be in perfect condiion for many years.

The restrictions are exactly what every home-builder would specify himself.

But—

Westmoreland Park has none of the heavy traffic that passes through uptown streets and residence sections—none of the dangers, the noise, dust and general annoyances that through traffic brings.

Westmoreland will have no business nuisances, no undesirable neighbors, none of the rush and bustle—

Westmoreland will have smooth, beautiful streets—not bumpsy, buckling pavement with cracks or holes. The material insures that.

ALL THE CONVENIENCES—NONE OF THE INCONVENIENCES—THAT IS WESTMORELAND PARK, A PLACE TO LIVE!

Garden of Dreams Alive With Quaint Beauty From Spain

Design, Architecture, Fixtures and All Furnishings Merge Into Colorful and Restful Residential Symphony

All the quaint charm and romance of Old Spain is embodied in the Record News "Garden of Dreams," an ideal home of palatial beauty just completed in Westmoreland park and planned by J. C. Thompson and C. J. Pate, Wichita Falls architects. The house is outstanding in North Texas for its perfect architecture which has included all the atmosphere of the old country, with the additional modern conveniences.

Located on a site 200x200 feet on lovely Kessler boulevard the house occupies one of the most attractive tracts in the addition. The approach to the home is along a curved driveway to the main entrance under the low arched porte Cochere to a massive Spanish door with iron strap-hinges. The opening is lighted with a Spanish lantern and the living room which is three steps lower than the entrance is reached through a small hall. Turning to the left upon reaching the steps, an arched grilled gateway in the rear hall leads to the bedrooms and extends to the rear of the house. At the end of the hall is a domed niche and over the steps into the living room is a wide arch on either side of which are railings of wrought iron. Here is a seat opposite open book shelves.

The ceiling of the living room is of exceptional height and the floor presents an appearance of old stone with a soft shaded effect. The beautiful Spanish mantel is duplicated from a XV century original, and occupies a location in the front of the room. On either side are full length, small-paned windows, which open onto a terrace enclosed by a low semi-circled wall. On either side are two wings with elaborate full length windows in the front of each. Pillars and decorative frieze work of stone across the top make an especially beautiful exterior.

Three French Doors.

On the rear of the living room three French doors open to the loggia with three arches intervened with clusters of columns in cloister effect overlooking the patio. Three steps on the opposite side of the living room lead to another hallway to either the dining room, breakfast room or kitchen. The dining room has the raftered ceiling and polished oak floors. The breakfast room is colorful and airy with tiled floor of blended colors and casement windows opening upon the patio and pergola. Between the kitchen and breakfast room is an isolated service entry.

The bedrooms are on one side of the house with the guest room and private baths at the front. The other bath room is between the other two bedrooms at the rear. Both baths have built-in tubs set in a low arched alcove with showers. The floors are of tile with black and gold border. Heat is supplied by small electric heaters set in the walls which will supply heat at any time of year in addition to that furnished by the steam heating plant for the entire house. All bedrooms have full length mirrors in the doors and closet space is generously supplied.

Courts and Patios.

El Jardin de los Suenos like all Spanish houses of distinction has its courts and patios which add greatly to the beauty of architecture. Large stones set not too close to prevent grass from growing between them, cover the ground of the court. At the rear is a picturesque fountain built in the garden wall. Spanish urns are placed on top of the eight-foot enclosure. On the west of the patio is the pergola with large stuccoed columns and overhead trellis. Through the pergola going over the garden wall to rose garden and bathing pool, is a stile. In the east wall are two grilled iron gates covered with tiled hoods.

The garage is double with room for two cars and also has servants quarters, laundry and store room. The entire exterior is finished of oriental stucco in Spanish texture and color.

WINE BELOW NORMAL.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—This year's crop of wine grapes in the Rhine and Moselle valleys is reported to be far below normal, both in respect to the yield, size and flavor. Therefore prices of previous vintages are rising. Even now, however, some of the finest 1925 Rhine and Moselles are selling for 14 cents a quart in 1,000-quart lots. Heavy rains, the lack of prolonged hot weather and vine diseases are blamed for the poor crop this season.

MORE THAN MONEY.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—Building your own home in Berlin takes more than money. Contractors, complaining about amount of red tape to be unraveled say building plans must be shown to thirty-eight officials and about 35 different permits obtained before ground can be broken. Despite the housing shortage, the claim is made that it is impossible to begin building operations in less than three months after plans have been completed. The average time is said to be five months.

Shades Of The Great! What Next?

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The dramatic critics are wondering what Schiller would have done had he attended the production of his "The Robbers" at the State theater this week and seen the robbers march out upon the stage tooting saxophones and wearing dilapidated cutaway coats and stove-in top hats.

State Manager Erkin Piscator has gone Hamlet in evening dress and plus fours one better by converting the robbers and their followers into a modern revolutionary army, made up chiefly of students and intellectuals and having the historic character of Stiegelberg impersonate Leon Trotsky, at whose death a flutist plays the "Internationale."

The modernization of Schiller's work has stirred up a bitter press controversy.

Bean Fair Opens In French Town

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—The "bean fair" opened today at Arpajon, a town in the department of Seine-Et-Oise, which is recognized in France as the "bean's hometown." The opening was solemnly celebrated and Boston's right to be known as "Mean Town" officially challenged.

The origin of the bean dates back to an early age. Eight hundred years ago French warriors, returning from the crusades, failed to bring back the laurels of victory, but they bore the little vegetable which has been of much more use to the world ever since, in war as in peace. It was planted and raised here.

The fair is being held in the center of the town. The exhibits consist of uncooked beans in bags of 100 and 200 pounds while countless "stores" prepare the finished article to satiate the palates of the visitors.

The stores are deep holes dug in the ground in which there are hot coals off wood fires. The pots are placed in the holes and the beans cook slowly until done.

Nothing like this ever came out of Boston, said an elderly woman who once had worked in New England mills. "Taste it. Five francs, please."

ELECTRIFIED SERVICE FOR THE NEW HOME

Electrical Appliances In All Rooms to Lend a Touch Of Comfort

Wonderful electrical appliances in the Home Beautiful have been installed by the Wichita Falls Electric company which include a Hotpoint Super-Automatic range, Sepco automatic heatres for the bathrooms and the new Sepco circulation water heater.

The range does not require watching when cooking and gives exact results every time. The heat is clean and the gleaming which enamel of which it is inlaid, is easily kept. The white porcelain top does not stain and there are no troublesome smokey smudges left on utensils. Fear of burning when cooking on this range is also done away with, the heat set for being always the same. The cook is always sure of the same temperature. The range has a fireless cooker type oven which uses only a small amount of electricity. On the same dial with the ovenheat control, is a thermometer, which indicates that the desired heat is being maintained in the oven.

There is no waste of heat involved in the Hotpoint range neither are there fumes or gases, according to the Wichita Electric company claims.

The Sepco heater which will furnish heat for the two bathrooms of the home beautiful are especially adapted to all climatic conditions, according to the local dealer. Healthful results are said to be among the advantages of these heaters which are installed in the wall and have white porcelain grilled protection fronts.

A new Sepco heater insures instant hot water at all times. This heater has a "safety cut-out" should the switch be forgotten. When the water reaches 150 F. the thermostat turns the heater to "medium." The tank is in pure grey iron casting with a temperature adjustment screw.

HUMOR EFFECTED.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The success of various channel swimmers is affecting the resibility of German humorous writers. Recalling that Kemmerich, a German, was knocked out by a dog fish in mid-channel, one writer suggests that the big fish should be muzzled. Since Mrs. Clemington Corson is the mother of two children, another wit would have a "grandmother's race next year, open to all grandmothers between 17 and 70 who have bobbed hair." Still another columnist notes that the excess of grease smeared on Gertrude Ederle before she swam caused a "bull movement in lard in Chicago."

WATSON DOES LAVISH PAINT JOB ON HOME

All Rooms Finished In Harmonizing Colors Of Distinction

In keeping with the exterior and Spanish design of El Jardin de los Suenos, Record News Home Beautiful, the interior decorations are gorgeous and colorful. The walls, done by the Watson Paint company, are of Kraftex, a rough texture which is applied over the canvas sheeting and plaster used as a foundation.

The spacious living-room, halls and dining-room in a raw amber glaze, while the guest room is finished in apple green glaze on lead stipple. One of the family bedrooms is finished in light cream, with striped narrow border in red and green, while the other bedroom is in a tannish grey with a border also of red and green.

A feature of outstanding distinctiveness is the beautiful raised ornament of plaster of cement composition on the wall space of the chimney over the mantel. The design of this is purely Spanish with harmonizing color scheme in keeping with the other room decoration. The room has a raftered ceiling in dark oak finish.

The woodwork of all the rooms is of the glazed antique striped lead harmonizing with the colors of the walls.

CHARLESTON FORBIDDEN.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Charleston "forbidden" is a sign greeting devotees of the dance entering a majority of public dance halls in Berlin, especially those on the outskirts. While the dancing master's association recently announced that the Charleston had at last come into its own, dance hall proprietors rebelled because only a few Berliners could dance it correctly. The remainder, they said, kicked up their heels so awkwardly that other dancers clothes were ruined, shins were scrapped and ankles sprained. Fist fights were frequent. So the proprietors hung out the well-known sign "verboten," and chased the Charleston to the confines of hatel ball rooms and cabarets.

You Will Find Them Adding Beauty To The Beautiful In

'El JARDIN de los SUENOS'

THE full beauty of every home is not fully realized until vases in the hall, bowls in the bedrooms, baskets in the dining room are filled with colorful, fragrant flowers.

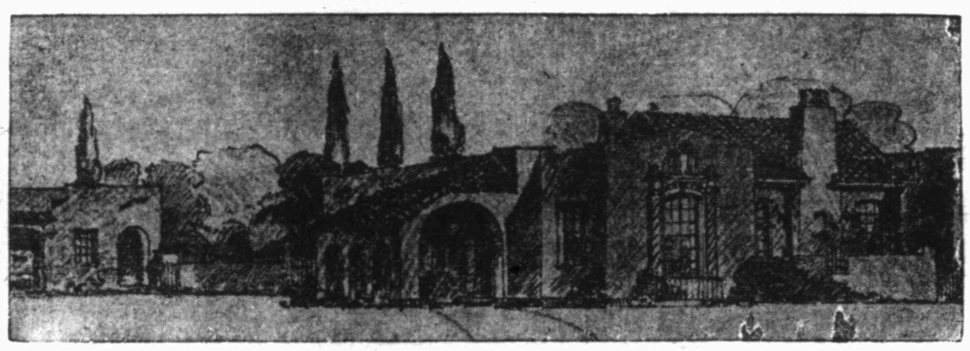

NEITHER porcelain nor silks, marble nor precious woods give rooms that fragile, living beauty that flowers do.

IN EL JARDIN DE LOS SUENOS you'll see Bebb's Flowers adding their loveliness to the charm of a wonderful home.

YOUR home should be made charming every day with flowers. From Bebb's flowers you can choose your favorites, and in comparison with the pleasure they give, the cost is trifling. Have flowers in your home the year 'round.

LUMBER

Was Furnished by Us

All the lumber used in building El Jardin de los Suenos was furnished by this company. The standard for materials set by the builders was high, but every foot of lumber supplied from our yard measured up. You can see the quality of our lumber in the appearance of the wood in this beautiful home, and long years of life, without repairs, will prove its quality of wear.

NOBLE-LITTLE TO FURNISH BEST OF CHINA

Royal Doulton Line Of Bone Dishes Ready For New Home

Of especial importance to the discriminating housewife is the hardware of the home. A feature in detail which perhaps adds more to it's appearance than most any other feature. This part of the Record News Home Beautiful has not been overlooked and has received the utmost consideration from the Noble-Little Hardware store, one of the largest firms in the city.

Sanded finished hardware in the monica mission design of statuary bronze, including door knobs, drawer pulls, hinges and locks, carrying out the Spanish idea, is used with huge strap hinges of Spanish design in hammered iron of rusty finish with door knob and knocker on the front door.

Noble-Little also have the furnishing of all china, glassware and kitchen utensils for the home beautiful, and in this line the most exclusive designs in keeping with the Spanish plan of the house will be carried out. Wear-ever illuminum utensils will be used exclusively in the kitchen, and few housewives but know the merits of his high class ware.

Royal Boulton Ware.

The dining and breakfast room tables will each present an artistic appearance set with the Royal Boulton ware, the most exclusive handled by the Noble-Little firm. In this ware and "Old Leeds Sprays" design of porcelain will be used on the breakfast room table, the pottery being distinguished by its pale cream color of great uniformity and constancy, decorated with enamel colors, green, tan, yellow and lilac of quiet quality. The glassware for the breakfast room table is the flamingo ware in moon-gleam green, water tumblers and saucer champaigns, while in the dining room, for dinner, a "Strathmore" pattern will be used. This luxurious table service is of bone china, charmingly quaint and is of superlative quality and durability. It is described as being tough without being brittle and has the enduring quality that heirlooms are made of.

The glassware for the dining table like that of the breakfast room will be the flamingo ware in the color of duan's rose.

CHAPEL A SHRINE.

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—One of the little advertised American pilgrimages in London is to John Wesley's chapel in City road.

The tourist automobiles miss the little chapel of the famous Methodist divine, but hundreds of foreigners, particularly Americans, seek it out in the labyrinth of twisting streets of old London. Recently the chapel was renovated and now is open daily for prayer and meditation.

A Wesleyan museum has been found in a neighboring house where Wesley lived and where he died on March 2, 1791, in his eighty-eighth year.

WIRING PLAYS BIG PART IN PRETTY HOMES

Hudgins Puts In Extensive Job For Electrical Comforts

One of the hidden but vital parts of any modern home or building of any kind, for that matter, is the electric wiring.

Tucked away behind the walls, over the ceilings and under the floors, the little insulated copper strands lay day after day, month after month, and year after year with their charge of fiery impulses to light the lamps, drive the motors of the fan, the cleaner or the washing machine and heat the coils of the toaster, the iron and the range.

In El Jardine de los Suenos, the Hudgins Electric company has installed an elaborate system of wiring for the many electrical outlets required by this modern structure. Elaborate lighting fixtures have been sprinkled with lavish profusion throughout the home and numerous wall plugs installed for the convenience of the residents who from time to time may want to make use of fans, cleaners and all the other modern electrical appliances of the day.

The completed job, difficult though it has been, will enable the home to blaze with light; will permit the use of as many cooling fans as wanted and will offer handy plugs for the insertion of wires for the cleaner, movable floor lamps and other necessities.

LONDON GROWS POPULAR.

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—The popularity of tennis in London and its environs is a boon for the children of London's thickly populated east end. Unbelievable numbers of them get many hours of enjoyment from the thousands of balls discarded every years from the hundreds of tennis courts of the city parks, suburban homes and those of the surrounding countryside.

An east end settlement house collects the discarded balls. These still have enough resiliency to make them good playthings for the children of the poorer quarters whose parents have no pennies to spare for the purchase of toys.

MORE GUM CHEWING.

PARIS, Sept. 25 (AP)—The gum chewing American doughboy so inculcated the habit in the growing generation from St. Nazaire to the Rhine that an American company is building a new factory to meet the European demand for the flavored chicle. It took sometime for the tobacco shops to sell out the chewing gum stocks left by the American army in France, but the taste was so successfully fostered by the populace that now every cigar store of consequence in Paris has a supply of American made gum in airtight containers on their counters.

"Abducted" Feminine Evangelist Faces Legal Action

Mrs. McPherson explains and responds to cheers.

Aimee Semple McPherson, the Los Angeles feminine evangelist whose disappearance early this summer created a national sensation, now faces prosecution for a "conspiracy to defeat justice," as a result of the conflicting and complex "explanations" of her disappearance. Her arrest, together with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, K. G. Ormiston former radio operator for Mrs. McPherson, J. D. Martin and Mrs. Wiseman-Sielaff, was ordered after sensational revelations had been made in connection with money paid for "evidence." Upper photo shows Mrs. McPherson relating her experiences to Los Angeles police authorities; below she is seen receiving the welcome of her great congregation after her "abduction."

DUKE READS UP

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Duke of York, who is going to obtain some first-hand knowledge of Australia through his visit there with the Duchess this winter, quite evidently does not intend to set out on his trip without priming himself thoroughly on the subject through a course of reading. When he went up north to Glamis castle early this month on a holiday trip a big parcel of books dealing with Australian life from all angles accompanied him. These were chosen at his request by Sir Joseph Cook, the Australian high commissioner.

FILMS FLY'S DEATH.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—What is said to be the most unique animal film drama ever photographed has been completed by Dr. Walter Schultz in filming a spider pinning its web and then killing flies which have become enmeshed in its silken handiwork. Dr. Schultz, chief of the biological division of the Universal Film company, says that spiders are camera shy and it was only after nearly 100 attempts in several months that he found one of the insects which would work with a camera trained on it.

JAZZ COSTS LICENSE.

BEDFORD, Eng—The city council refused to renew the license of a local inn because neighbors objected to the jazz music played there.

Artificial Coats Of Tan Applied

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—A uniform coating of dull, dark red paint, attempting to imitate sun burn is now being applied to chorus girls at Nice and velvety white has disappeared temporarily from the stages of the Rivera theaters.

No reform wave was intended by the directors when they issued the order that all chorus girls must paint their bodies with a layer of the reddish paint. They were concerned over the fact that a chorus sunburned to various tints of brown, mingled with the milk white of the non-bathers spoiled the color scheme. A white grease paint was at first attempted but even then the difference between the complexions of the beach faforites and the water shirkers was quite noticeable and the charms of the delicately colored costumes—what there is of them—was ruined.

The director of one Nice theater recently decreed that he would discharge any girl who spent her days on the beach. For two nights his chorus was decreased by seventy-five per cent. Now he has accepted the red paint idea.

A BABEL OF TONGUES.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—Some German diplomats rival the polyglot builders of the tower of Babel. The foreign office recently announced that all men in the diplomatic service would receive a bonus of 50 marks monthly for every foreign language they had mastered. No sooner was the ruling put into effect than departmental heads were swamped with evidence that there were men in the service who could read and speak many languages, including Chinese, Kaffir, Arabic, Hindustan and Mongolese. Many of them knew a half dozen or more languages so that the foreign office is compelled to fix the maximum bonus at 250 marks.

THEY CERTAINLY DID.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The favorite joke of the late King Edward of Great Britain is revealed in the memoirs of Baron Hermann Von Eckardstein. For many years the Baron was counsellor of the German embassy in London. King Edward, he says, never failed to accost Lord Albert Rothschild with whom he was particularly friendly with the words, "These people certainly know how to live." Whereupon both would burst into fits of laughter.

The famous line is taken from the following story, said to have a basis in fact:

Two pilgrims from Galicia came to Frankfort to visit the Pompous mausoleum of the Rothschild family. Both were overawed. Finally one pilgrim said to the other, pointing to the burial place with a sign of envy, "These people certainly know how to live."

SILVERWARE FOR HOME IS PAUL'S FINEST

Local Jeweler Supplies Best Of Material to New Home Beautiful

A Spanish nobleman's palace could not be more fittingly supplied with handsome silver than the Record News Garden of Dreams. The more beautiful. Every detail has been carefully worked out so that the patterns of silver, pottery and china used in the picturesque dining room blend perfectly with the architectual scheme and interior decoration of the room.

A feature of the table service is a handsome chest of silver from the Dave Paul jewelry store which includes every piece that could possibly be used, it setting the most formal dinner table. The silver is the Trianon design, sterling, and the pattern is named for a famous garden at Versailles where once stood the gloomy palace of King Louis XIV. In this garden grew flowers of the rarest and most fragrant kinds where the king would walk and find peace for his soul, so the legend goes. A palace of "Flora" was situated in the midst of the garden. This old structure was torn down in 1683, and a dream palace of marble and porphyry was created in its stead. The material was rose marble—as light and brilliant as the surrounding flowers.

This design of silver is akin to its architectural namesake in more than form. It breathes the same exquisiteness, eternal fitness and being made of solid silver, will endure to become a heritage of the ages.

OLNEY

CHORAL CLUB MEETS.

The Olney Croral club in its regular meeting on Monday night at the A. A. Cooper home accomplished some worthy work. The sight singing period saw some decided improvement for its efforts and the famaliar old ballads studio were sung with a new zest. Next week the club will begin on its heavier line of study including dialect choruses, and modern compositions.

Several new members were added to the list of regular members and the club is growing.

IN MISSION STUDY.

At the meeting of the Methodist Women's Missionary society on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the church, a very interesting program based on the missionary lesson from the "Missionary Voice" the magazine adopted for Mission study in the society was given by Miss Eliza Anderson and Mrs. O. T. McCarver. A Bible drill and contest was a novel number on the program.

At the conclusion of the program, a short business session was held for the purpose of discussing plans for the market, or cooked food sale to be held Saturday morning at W. C. Harrell's when pastries and other delicacies will be for sale for the Sunday dinner.

Those present at the Monday meeting were: Mesdames O. T. McCarver, R. A. Drum, M. D. Council, A. D. McMillan, Abe Dyer, J. H. Gooch, W. C. Harrell, J. R. Wilson, Hallman, John Dees, Mont Waggoner, M. P. McCracken and Harry Ware and Miss Eliza Anderson.

CLUB NIGHT ENTERTAINMENT.

This past Monday night at the Country club the dancers were given an especial treat when the artists from the Palace theatre, Little Miss Lois Nixon accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Nixon, sang and danced several numbers in true cabaret manner.

The Panatrope furnished music for the ten couples present.

DR. HAMILTON ENTERTAINED.

Dr. Geo. B. Hamilton was the honor guest on Friday evening at a beautifully appointed seven-course dinner. The dining room was decorated with festoons of orchid and yellow and the table cover and appointments were in the same color tones. A large birthday cake bearing 21 candles centered the table, the lighted candles being the only light in the room as the guests entered. A delicious menu with turkey as the main course was served to Dr. and Mrs. Fred Harrell, Mr. and Mrs. Callahan Jr., Messrs. Morgan Hamilton and Joe Benson and Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton.

KILL KARE KLUB.

Mesdames Abe Dyer and John Wilson were hostesses at the latter's home on Tuesday afternoon, when members of the Kill Kare Klub and several special guests enjoyed their hospitality.

Cut flowers were used profusely throughout the reception suite, where games of "84' were played during the afternoon.

Bedroom Linens
Of Exquisite Loveliness

In the same manner, we are prepared to choose individual and distinctive linens for any size and any type of home.

Pequot sheets and pillow cases of perfect weave are hemstitched over hand drawn threads—their fineness will only increase through many years of wear.

Satin comforts filled with the lightest of lambs wool and quilted in elaborate richness are matched in color with blankets of very fine wool. One Holland import has a quaint floral pattern, and a silky wool nap so long that by grasping it one may hold up the entire blanket.

Golf Improves, But It's Still Wobbly

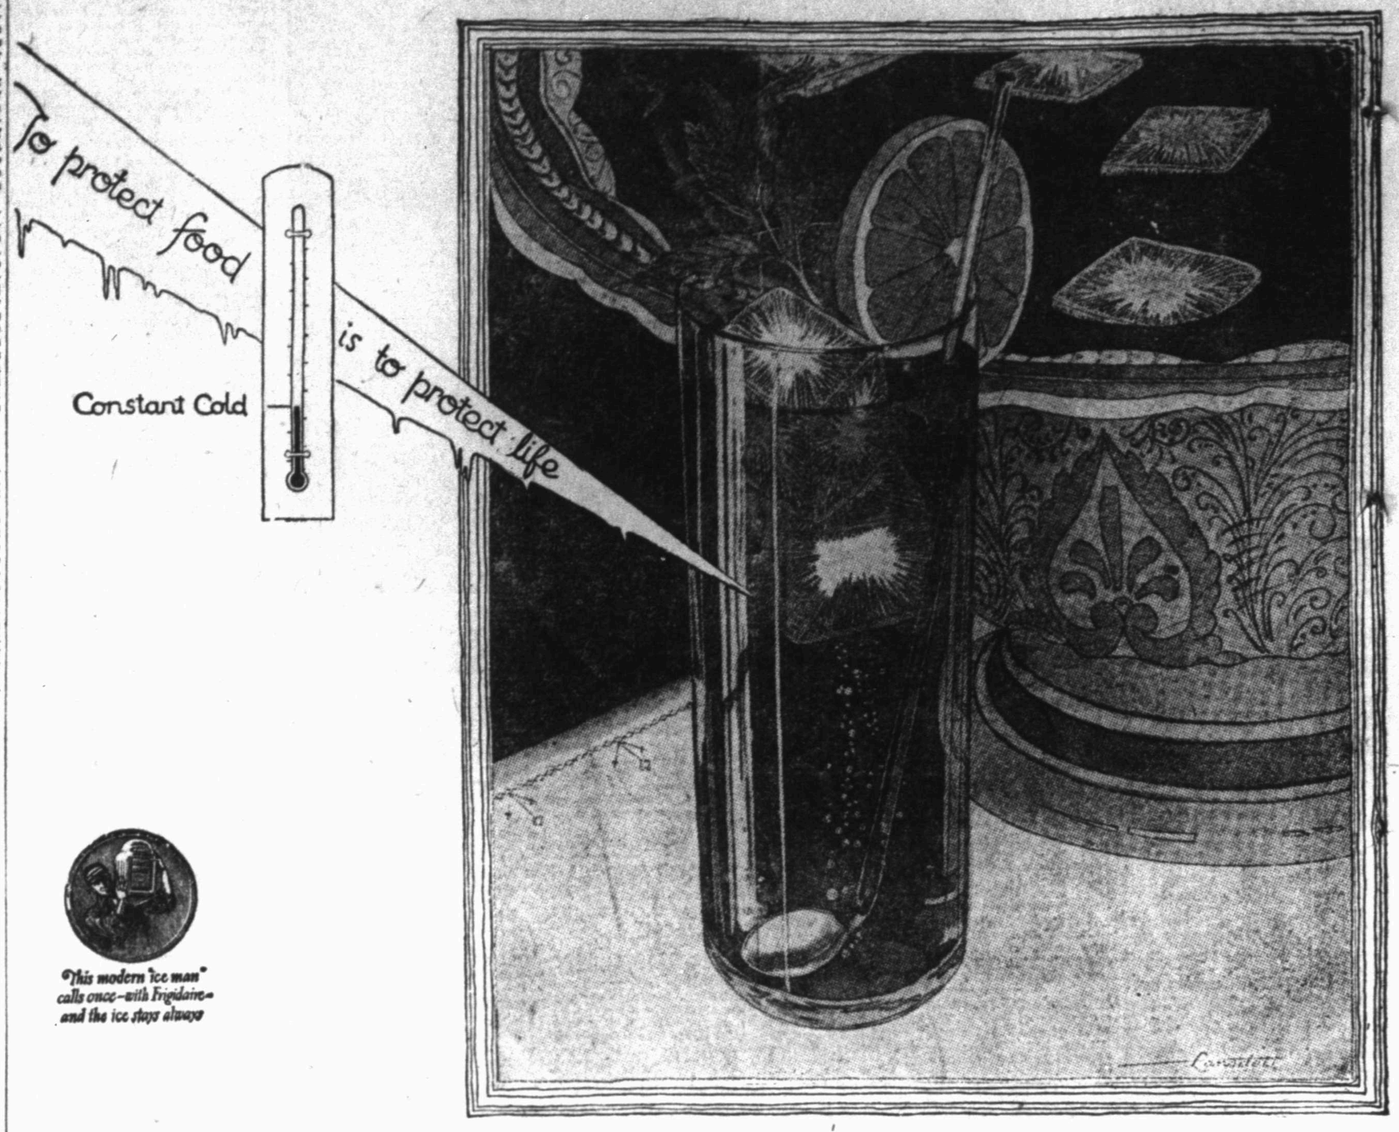

LONDON, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Prince of Wales' golf is improving but it could still be much better. Daniels, who caddies for the heir-apparent to the throne, when he plays over the famous St. Georges links at Sandwich, is authority for the statement.

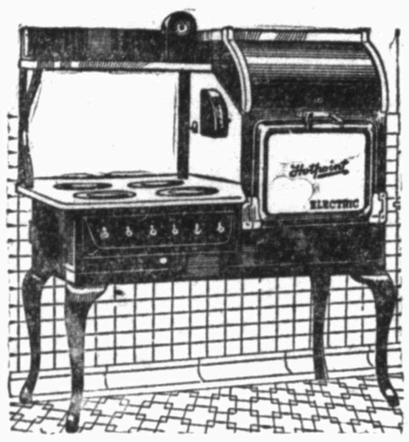

Daniels says Wales gets along nicely with the wood, frequently making magnificent shots with them. But his short game is somewhat "scratchy." The Duke of York is considered by the caddy a steadier player and more likely to turn a better medal round at the honorable and ancient game than his elder brother.

Wales is qualified for membership in the great fraternity of average golfers. He is satisfied when he breaks 100 over a full course. He has been known, however, to finish 18 holes in the early nineties and to have been very proud of his work. The chief difficulty of the prince is in making his mashie behave when about 100 yards of the cup. Daniels says only practice will remedy this weakness, but that the prince is a very human young man and would rather play a round with a friend than devote the little time he has for golf to dull practice.

BOBBED HAIR LOSES.

BERLIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—A "Bubikopf," or bobbed hair beauty, has had to be content with third place in a beauty contest at Essen, the chief industrial center of the Ruhr, long-haired damsels shunted the closely cropped entrant to the rear. Forty aspirants for the beauty crown passed in review before 2,000 men and women. Then the committee of award sat to decide upon a winner. Their deliberations lasted from 7 o'clock in the evening to 11 o'clock at night and finally the girls with the long tresses were declared victors over the bobbed beauty.

When You Visit The Garden of Dreams, You'll See

Amid Old World Beauty, New World Convenience!

EVERY USE HAS BEEN MADE OF ELECTRICITY IN THE EFFORT TO MAKE IT A PERFECT HOME AS POSSIBLE

ALL THROUGH El Jardin de los Suenos you'll be struck by the contrast of Old Spanish beauty and the conveniences that are of 1926. In this home of homes electric power is a servant used to make life more pleasant and the business of running a home with far less work. You will want to examine every electrical appliance in this model home, for ideas for your own home will come from it.

Throughout the house you will see the splendid effects gained from the use of plenty of electric lights, not too many and not too few.

One of the finest things in this home of treasures is the Hotpoint Electric Range in the kitchen. It is one of the finest stoves built, without peer for efficiency, economy and beauty. The electric oven, with controlled heat, insures perfect cookery with more savory foods. There will be no kitchen heat or greasy smoke from this range, and the beautiful white enamel can be kept spotless by running a dry rag over it. A time and heat regulator will permit cooking with the whole family gone. Be sure to see this wonderful range in the Garden of Dreams.

In the basement is a really modern water heater—the Sepco heater. It is a better way to heat water, more efficient, more economical, more satisfactory and safer. Powerful heating units insure plenty of hot water; and by using half units, the water is kept hot at a saving in power. A thermostatic switch makes it completely safe. Inspect it in the basement.

'El JARDIN de los SUENOS'

BUILT INTO the wall of El Jardin de los Suenos is a gleaming white machine that will enable this modern home to enjoy modern refrigeration—a Frigidaire. It would of course be dropped below the standard of excellence set for this home of homes to be satisfied with anything less than this new efficient way of insuring safe, constant refrigeration.

And not only will food in El Jardin de los Suenos be kept fresh and wholesome for days and weeks, but Frigidaire will bring new delights in the form of sparkling cubes of pure ice for table, luscious frozen desserts made with a minimum of trouble.

Electric refrigeration is a step forward for American homes, and over a quarter of a million of them have found complete satisfaction in Frigidaire Electric Refrigeration, a product of General Motors Corporation.

See the Frigidaire in El Jardin de los Suenos. Note the blending effect of the spotless, easily cleaned finish of white Duco. See the ice cubes frozen in their trays, ready to be used. You will see this, but not until you have Frigidaire in your own home will you appreciate the convenience, the better preservation of food and the economy of it. There is a model for your home.

TAYLOR BROS. DO WORK ON "EL JARDIN"

One of City's Oldest Firms Builds Home in Westmoreland

El Jardin de los Suenos, the Garden of Dreams, was constructed by Taylor brothers, one of the oldest general contracting firms in the city. C. R. Taylor and John Taylor compose the firm which started in a small plant some 18 or 19 years ago. In a few years it was incorporated when the plant became a separate institution from the contracting proposition.

In the past year Taylor Brothers and company has been formed and not have offices in the new Brown building, corner Ninth and Lamar streets.

The firm which is recognized as one of the most reliable in the city, specializes in the larger buildings and homes of fine architecture.

The home beautiful is of the newest type of Spanish architecture which it is believed will be the prevailing style for fine homes in this part of the country during the next 10 years. The exterior is of light cream color put over brick, assuring years of lasting beauty and service with no danger of cracking, it is claimed.

Taylor Brothers had the contract for the entire house with the exception of the plumbing, wiring, painting and tile work.

Running a Lobster Farm —By James J. Montague

For a landsman, and a city landsman at that, to attempt to run a lobster farm was injudicious. I know that now. One lives and learns. Also it is unwise for an urbanite to imagine that all those who reside away from the roar of the subway are necessarily free from guile. That also has been taught me by that most pitiless of school masters, Experience. Today I could not be tempted to rear lobsters for the market. But tomorrow, like as not, somebody will come along and persuade me to raise great auks, or gila monsters. I was born incautious, and incautious I shall remain to the end of my days.

The lobster far idea, I must admit, was original with me. Rowing up the cove one day I saw a little bight, with a narrow entrance and it occurred to me that, if it were separated from the cove by a lath fence like those on the floating lobster ponds, young lobsters could be incarcerated there and fattened till they grew to the legal length and beyond. I had bought lobsters by the pound, and was aware that they brought a prodigious price when sold to the ultimate consumer.

I thought about the ideal all that night, and the more I pondered over it the better it looked. With me thought is to action what kerosene is to a fire. The next morning I went down to the bight, found out who owned it, and broached my plan to him.

He heard me without twitching a muscle of his face, cogitated for some time and then allowed:

"That looks to me like a smaht scheme, mister. Funny I been livin' man an' boy in these pahts for sixty years an' never thought of it myself. Was you callatin' to buy my bight?"

I told him that if the price was made reasonable I might think of it. I also told him that I would pay him for the young lobsters for stock, as he had a number of pots in the cove and a wide acquaintance among other lobstermen. He said that he wished he could enter into partnership with me in an enterprise that seemed so promising, but that his wife was peculiar and made a terrible fuss if he undertook anything new. However he would be glad to sell me the bight at a price to be agreed on by the local real estate dealer and the postmaster, and he would guarantee to get me small lobsters—providing they were of the legal length of three inches from his friends, at the market rate.

So the deal was concluded, and with blithe spirits I started the foundation of my fortune.

I thought the figure for that bight and the land surrounding it was a little high, but the real estate agent and postmaster assured me I was getting it almost as a gift, and that they couldn't understand how I got around the owner the way I had. "He must think a heap of you personally, and figure you're a terrible bright man," they said, "or he would never have let you have that property so low." I smiled contentedly and said we understood one another.

In a week I had the bight fenced in, with a gate through which to drive in fish for the lobsters to eat, and in another week the place was tenanted with three thousand young but active lobsters. Then the serious business began.

It was my job to keep my charges contented, and to do that they had to be well fed. All the used fish, the markets had left over I bought and threw into the bight, but they were so inadequate to the needs of the inmates that there was a fight over every fish—a bitter fight which always resulted in the loss of a number of claws, and the consequence deterioration in the market value of their owners.

I saw that I would have to find some new and better means of providing provender, and at last hit on the plan of hiring another boat with a man to operate it, and a long seine, and bringing in herring from the deep sea.

The seiner advised me to haul the herring out and take them to the bight in the boat, but it struck me that it would be easier to bring them in, as it were, on the hoof. So every morning we would go out to sea, stretch the seine between our boats and move slowly toward the corral, dragging tons of reluctant herring along with us. Arriving at the bight we would open the gate, prod the herring from behind and send them wiggling and squirming into the maws of the lobsters.

Soon there were so many herring in the bight that the water fairly boiled with them. There were no more evidences of any lobster fights, and all seemed to be serene. The man I had bought the property from congratulated me on the success of my feeding scheme and predicted a brilliant future for the business.

But the work of seining was increasingly difficult as the weather began to get stormy. If I did not bring in a haul of herring every day the supply gathered there would disappear. many a chilly morning I went down to the bight only to find no herring there, and confronted with the stern necessity of going out to sea after more. When I became fagged and lay late in bade some of the natives would be sure to come up and tell me that my lobsters were hungry and must be fed or they would die.

At the end of the season, I figured it was time to take a little profit, and after making arrangements with a dealer in the nearest large city to take part of my stock off my hands, I went down to make an inventory.

There was no herring in the pond, but I expected that. I was content to feel that the lobsters to be sold had had a big meal the night before, and would be in prime condition for the market.

But when I began to look about for lobsters, and discovered none I grew uneasy. Round and round the bight I rowed in a boat, gazing intently into the clear salt water, and not a lobster was visible. I took a boat hook and prodded the bottom, thinking perhaps that they might be so fat they did not feel like walking about. There was no result. Then I began to explore the outside edge of the bight. Under a low hanging bunch of juniper, I discovered a tiny stream, flooded only at high tide. I got out of the boat and followed it. The course led straight for fifty feet, and then turned and ran under the homestead of the man who sold me the property. As I stepped on his front porch he was just casing up a crate of fat lobsters.

"Had a good bit o luck with my pots," he said cheerily. "Sending a few to mahket on my own account this morning."

Of course I couldn't prove anything. But I am as certain as I am that I am an ignoramus in business that every one of my lobsters filed out of that overflow directly into a net which my friend had set for them. And if the lobsters preferred that route to the night clubs to mine, what could I do?

I have retired from the business now, but it still has possibilities for a man of more caution, and if any one wants to buy a bight, a herring seine, two boats and the good will of a business that might in time turn into a gold mine, I should be very glad to hear from him.

Well Equipped For Arctic Exploration

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Avionettes on skis and sleighs with wide runners are the means of locomotion with which naval Lieutenant Darcis, who left Havre for Point Barrow, Alaska, September 16, expects to conquer the North Pole.

The sleighs, driven by motor, are built along caterpillar lines, but with teeth to bite in the ice. They will be used to advance when the weather is too stormy for flying and carry on them the two light planes to ice fields, the smoothness of which may permit them to take off when the storm has abated.

The avionettes are regulation forty horsepower monoplanes of the same type as the plane used by Lieutenant Thoret in his flights from Warsaw to Paris over mount Blanc.

The expedition is a semi-official one, the funds having been furnished by the government. Lieutenant Darcy, the leader and his second in command, Lieutenant Jouolin, are both in active service in the French navy. The remainder of the party of twelve is composed of civilians.

They expect to be gone two years.

HASKELL

TEACHERS MAKE DEBUT

That Haskell is proud of her school teacners and glad to welcome them into her social life is attested to by the fact that many social affairs have already been given in their honor although they are now in only the second week of school. The first was given in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith with Superintendent and Mrs. H. D. Neff. The decorations were roses and fall flowers and the hosts and hostesses were assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. A. A. Latum of Dallas and Mrs. Tom French of Paulding, Ohio.

Refreshments were served to the following. Superintendent and Mrs H. D. Neff, Principal and Mrs. M. B. Lebo, Mesdames. Ed Sprowles, Mrytle Crow, Ward Boyce, Scott Green jr., Misses Clarine Brannon, Mabel Moore, Elaine Mills, Lois Earnest, Lela Welsh, Aura Lee Tucker, Lewis Manley, Winnie Biggerstaff, Wallace, Bernice Mask, Mabelle Taylor, Duglas Surratt, Edith Jones, Ruth Clough, Messrs. L. K. England, David Ramsey.

The next courtesy shown the teachers was a reception tendered them by the Payne Drug Co., on Wednesday afternoon. The serving tables were centered with baskets of roses. On entering the teachers were served green punch from a bowl embanked in a circle bed of white periwinkles. They were then seated and served sherbet, angel food cake and mints. The management and employes were assisted in entertaining the teachers by Mesdames. Clayborn and John P. Payne. On leaving the lady teachers were given beautiful silver compacts and the men were given hand engraved key cases.

Closely following the above compliment to the Haskell teachers, The Courtney Hunt Dry Goods Co. entertained them in the basement of the store, Thursday evening. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hunt were present. A short reception was held, an ice course served, and then all repaired to the Hoskell theatre. The management and employes of Hunt's store are: Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Hunt, Mrs. Olive Mays, Mrs. Mammie Barron, Miss Bybee, Miss Evelyn Pope, Miss Louise Kaigler, and Raleigh Lemmon, Joy Bagwell and J. G. Mulkey.

The finale of the affairs for the teachers to date was at the High school when the Parent-Teachers association presented the teachers to the patrons of the schools. A formal reciving line composed of the teachers and officers of the P. T. A. was maintained and when all had arrived they were asked to register and welcomed in a short address by the president, Mrs. Date Anderson. The response was given by Superintendent H. D. Neff. The association with the assistance of the D. E. girls and their teacher Mrs. Ed Sprowles served.

BERLIN ,Sept. 25. (AP)—The historic city of Nuremburg, long noted for its leniency in dealing with criminals, has run true to the old saying, "The Nuremburgers hang nobody." Paul Gemeinbauer, an assistant city treasurer, sought by the police of the whole country on a charge of embezzling $35,000, returned from Holland and gave himself up at the detective bureau at 11 p. m. A police lieutenant in an adjacent room sent Gemeinbauer away, saying the detective bureau was closed for the night. Returning at 7 a. m., he was told he had come too early. He says he had to announce himself three times before he was arrested.

STOCKED HIS MIND.

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—Forty-five years as chief ticket controller at the Comedie Francaise failed to enrich Honore Courcier, who has retired on a government pension. But it permitted him to amass knowledge of French classics which he is willing to pit against any member of the French academy.

M. Courcier boasts that he is able to recite from start to finish nine plays written by the greatest French poets of the Louis Fourteen period, and to act as prompter without the text.

M. Courcier is 72 years old, but looks remarkably young for his age, despite the fact that for 34 years he was also a bookkeeper in a banking house as well as tricket controller, and, in order to hold the two jobs, he rose at 7 o'clock and retired about one in the morning.

PARIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—"Spanish flu," shouted in unison four or five school children when the teacher, on the twelfth anniversary of the battle of the Marne, asked the class: "What happened on September 5, 1914?"

"It is the day Jaures was assassinated," replied another, probably a future socialist voter.

It was not until the eleventh youth was reached, a pale little lad wearing spectacles, that the correct reply came: "It was the battle of the Marne." My father was killed there, he said.

Flowers from the old Spanish gardens will not outrival in brilliant colors and simplicity, those which are placed in the Record News home beautiful on Kessler boulevard in Westmoreland addition by the Wichita Floral company.

Harmonizing with the daintily tinted walls, the gorgeous reds and blues, the burnt orange color and green, giadioli in all colors, marigolds and other flowers will be used. One of the beautiful floral decorations will be a bowl of mixed flowers to go with the interior decorations and the Spanish architecture of the building.

FRANCHISE ELECTION

Davidson, Okla., Calls Election On Concessions.

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 25.—Routing of Lee highway through Davidson, prosperous little Tillman county town in the southwestern part of the county, and the opening of the free Red river bridge between Frederick and Vernon, is causing Davidson to develop franchise problems just like other cities. The voters of that town will soon vote on an electric franchise and on a natural gas franchise. It is understood that both grants are practically "sewed up," one by G. B. Burke, who operates the Davidson Light and Power company, and the other by the Community Natural Gas company, a subsidiary of the Lone Star Gas company.

2 MURDER CHARGES

Negro Held When Two Die In Shooting.

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 25.—Charges of murder were filed against Tommy Wright, negro, Friday afternoon, upon receipt of information by the county attorney that Aulalee Wright, Tommy Wright's wife, and a negro man, thought to have been Isom Mitchell, shot by Wright Thursday afternoon, had died.

Wright surrendered after the shooting, coming to Frederick from near Manitou where the killing was done.

RIGHT NAME FOR SKUNK

1,150 BALES GINNED

Frederick Cotton Gins Do Rushing Business.

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 25.—One thousand, one hundred and fifty bales of the 1926 cotton crop of Tillman county had been handled by Frederick gins at the conclusion of the day's run Friday. This is below the number of bales for the same date last year. Farmers are having difficulty in securing pickers, which is said to be caused by their unwillingness to pay what other counties of the state are paying for labor.

FORSEE DEATH IN DREAM

Melbourne.—A month before he was killed in the fall of his aeroplane George C. Carnham dreamed he saw himself perish in that manner.

Battle Planes A Bad Place To Be

DAYTON, O., Sept. 25. (AP)—A good battle plane is necessarily an unsafe plane, and it is the element of danger that offers the pilot of such a ship his greatest protection in aerial battle.

Officers of the army air corps and officials of McCook field here believe that. The primary requisites in fighting planes are speed and maneuvering ability. These little ships must be able to twist and turn sharply and suddenly to follow the enemy's zigzagging, or to avoid his sudden rush from behind a cloudbank. They must be highly maneuverable.

This means that the controls must be sensitive to an extreme degree. When a pursuit pilot in battle elevates his allerons or other control he wants immediate response. It is this sensitiveness and extreme flexibility, McCook field officers say, that makes the pursuit plane unsafe and treacherous in the hands of an inexperienced pilot. More than one death may be attributed to he fact that the pilot's experience had been almost wholly on "slow ships and ha! not developed the delicacy of touch necessary to piloting one of the "finger pressure" planes.

From the very start, as each of them left the motherless nest of an old house in faculty row at Southwest University, where Bragwyn had held the chair of Greek literature for over twenty years, the Bragwyn boys made their dent in big business.

First Edwin, whose spectacular crash into Wall Street before he was twenty-six became legend. Then Mayo, who made a quick fortune in the Florida boom, and the twins who, by this and that genius for finance, had put the Bragwyn motor car on the automobile map in a big business way.

As far back as the professor could trace, the Bragwyns, good old Scotch and English stock, had been scholars, college professors and professional men, with a few petty tradesfolk thrown in. On their mother's side, there was almost a conspicuous absence of wealth, but a super-abundance of breeding, which had made Lida Bragwyn, up to the very day she died, bearing the twins, a leader among the little faculty set at Southwest.

The boys were reared in that same gentle atmosphere of scholastic and cloistered quiet. Tutored through the early years by the fine and meticulous-minded father, well grounded in the classics, carefully prepared for higher mathematics and equipped with enough intellectual curiosity to enable them to delve intelligently for themselves.

They were good boys. Not brilliant, but coming off, all four of them, with fair University honors and displaying no little athletic prowess, and one of the twins displaying enough histrionic ability to make the picked college organization known as Thyrsus.

But in vain the old professor had tried to instill in all four of them, then three, and finally two, or even one, some of his own passion for what he considered the noble art of teaching.

The professor regarded the passing along of the torch of knowledge as one of the finest of human benevolences. But his dream of his four sons all college professors reluctantly dwindled, as one by one he saw them leave the cloistered quiet of the little red brick house in faculty row, for the louder and more raucous call of the world of finance.

There came a time when the world paused before the professor's little brick house to congratulate him upon the extraordinary achievements of all of his four boys.

It was estimated at faculty gatherings, when Bragwyn himself was not present, and by newspaper articles which celebrated the achievements of these four brothers, that their combined fortunes, ten years after the last two of them, the twins, had left the campus, must have amounted to somewhere near twenty million dollars.

No one ever discussed these subjects in the presence of Professor Bragwyn. It was, in fact, a delicate point with him. Not that he ever referred to them in such terms, but more and more as he grew older and a little feebler, he remained in his small book-lined study that overlooked a small garden of flowers that bloomed for each month, puttering among his books; reading by the light of his green-shaded lamp far into the nights, and emerging each morning in his short alpaca coat that hiked, center back, for his jerky little walk along the cinder paths to his class room.

Year in and year out, except vacations, which he spent with an old colleague who had a little summer place near Ann Arbor, and upon those occasions when one or another member of his family of sons swooped down upon him in magnificence.

Usually they took turns, one son and his family spending this Christmas with the professor, and another the next

Invariably they arrived in great motor loads, putting up at hotels in the city, forty miles away, and speeding to the college-town each day, grandchildren, nurses, effete daughters-in-law, and all, for the dutiful business of spending as much time as possible with the professor.

It must be said of all four families, from the sons to the daughters-in-law, from the eldest to the youngest grandchild, that never was an old man treated with greater deference.

He enjoyed it, too. The sense of gay young people about. Of pretty, well-bred grandchildren, whose shallow and unclassical educational he deplored, but whose sweetness and vitality delighted him.

And strangely enough, among all eleven of his grandchildren, not one of them exhibited any of the scholarly qualities the old man had so yearned for in his sons. A sharp, practical strain had suddenly broken out in the Bragwyn stock. These gay, busy, practical people lived intense, of-the-world lives. His daughters-in-law had slick, superficial, finishing-school educations, were innocent of erudition, and his grandchildren were going the same way.

In vain they tried to lure him to this or that one of their summer homes; to indulge in a sabbatical year and accompany them to foreign spas or capitals. The professor had never visited one of his sons in their pretentious city-or-country homes. He had never attended one of the banquets of bankers or financiers or railroad men where his sons were sometimes toast masters or among the toasted.

It was almost uncanny, the consistency with which he had kept his life sheltered, scholastic and unworldly.

It worried the sons. In all their great and glittering careers there was apparently nothing they could do to express the love, the admiration and the reverence they felt for this fine old scholar of a parent.

Even when bent with rheumatism, he spurned motor cars, as noisy nuisances. Any home but the little old faculty-house he had occupied through all the years was unthinkable to him. Servants, other than the faithful old Marta, who had reared all four boys and tended the Bragwyns for more years than she had kept track of, were obnoxious to both the old man and this tried and true old servant.

And so the years marched on, and the families of the Bragwyns grew in their power and magnifence and the musty little man became more and more the mole in his hole.

It was not to be endured. People were talking. It cast a reflection upon the boys. How could the world be expected to know that an old man's eccentricities were to blame for the situation. Offhand it looked as if the Bragwyns were niggardly with their father.

One Christmas, instead of the cavalcade of family in motor cars, all four of the boys met in Chicago by appointment and made the trip over to Southwestern in a group.

They put it frankly to their parent.

"Father, look here, now, this has gone far enough, don't you think? We fellows—we boys—hang it, Father, even if you don't want it, for the looks of the thing, you've got to permit us to do something handsome for you. It's not fair, Father, to us, to say nothing of yourself. Isn't there something, Father, that—well, Great Scott, a man just can't be without some sort of desire for something that is important to him. Father, we won't leave this house until you tell us that we can do something for you that is big. Something that is important to you!"

The old man in his swivel chair, with the rusty cushion worn to the shape of the back of his head, tilted back thoughtfully, making a chapel out of his fingers.

"There is one thing, sons, since you put it so insistently as being for your good as well as for mine, there is one thing—one desire—"

"Yes, Father?"

"Yes, Father?"

"Yes?"

"Yes!"

"There's an edition of an old Greek play called 'Lysistrata', sons. It's a rare old volume and they tell me they're asking—well, they're asking seven hundred and fifty dollars for it, if that isn't demanding more than you bargained for when you put your proposition. Of course I may be able to get it for seven hundred . . . but I'd like that volume, sons, more than I can say."

But a groan went up. The combined groan of his four sons who were wanting to honor this old man, so rich in wisdom, with the only coin of the realm they knew anything about.

FANNIE HURST

The years marched on and the families of the Bragwyns grew in their power and magnificence, and their musty little father became more and more the mole in the hole.

Then came the day when the four rich and practical sons demanded that their father let them do something for him. Something big! Something Important!
