OIL NEWS

Titus County — The Nolington Blossom sand field area has been given its first subClarksville sand completion in R. V. Parker No. 2. Geoffrey Gieger, J. M. Nugent survey, a mile north and west of Talco. It pumped 67.48 barrels of 19.8-gravity oil per day plus 72 per cent water from perforated interval between 2,652 and 2,688 feet.

Fuller, local chairman, who expressed her appreciation to each person who helped make the drive a success. Volent workers were J. M. Chism, Mrs. Floyd Haynes, Mrs. R. G. Hood, Rev. L. R. LeMay, Rev. C. H. Paxton and Rev. H. E. Ramey.

Austin. — Gov. John Connally has moved into the plushiest working quarters ever occupied by any of this state's governors.

Last week workmen put finishing touches to the first overall remodeling of the offices in 76 years. Until now Texas governors have been tending to state business in cramped and poorly arranged offices.

Construction has been under way since last January. Capitol visitors once again are welcome all day in the mirrored and flag-draped gubernatorial reception room.

The governor occupies a large, gold-carpeted, crystal - chandelier-hung office. He also has an adjoining conference room, small kitchen unit and shower cabinet.

Gold carpeting runs throughout the second floor suite. Modern ceilings, lighting and air conditioning have been installed, and the fine old woodwork sanded and refinished to its original state.

Redecoration of the governor's downstairs offices will not be complete for 30 days. Meanwhile, part of his staff will continue to occupy temporary quarters on the Capitol's first floor.

SCREWORM ERADICATION — The financial fate of the Southwest screwworm eradication program should be apparent by May 8. That's when the appropriation bill embracing eradication plans is supposed to come out of the agriculture subcommittee of the U. S. House appropriations committee.

Pierce Johnson of Austin, attorney for the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, says the bill was written to provide $2,750,000 in federal funds, to be matched by local funds. But SWAHRF officials have asked Congress to put up all $5,500,000, since the screwworm has been eradicated in Texas, and maintenance of a barrier to prevent migration of screwworm flies from Mexico is an international program.

MOSQUITO ERADICATION PLANNED — First allotment of federal funds — $174,198 — in a five-year, $750,000 program aimed at wiping out the mosquito in Texas was received by State Budget Director Bill Cobb.

Texas State Department of Health will administer the program. The federal government, co-signee of a Pan American Health Organization agreement to stamp out yellow-fever-carrying mosquitoes, is underwriting the plan in a nine-state area, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Mosquito abatement and education teams now are being organized for assignment in key areas of Texas. Dr. James L. Goddard of the U. S. Public Health Service said the mosquito must be eliminated from the U. S. to prevent its spreading to other western hemisphere nations.

BUILDING BOOM SLACKS — Despite a spring boom in apartment building, issuance of building permits in Texas in March dropped 8 per cent from March, 1963.

UT Bureau of Business Research thinks a slump in non-residential construction accounted for the overall drop.

TOURISM EXPANDED — Two Texas officials predicted tourism in the state is going to start booming.

Governor Connally said tourism will become the "fastest-growing Texas industry." He called the state's new advertising program "one of our soundest investments in the economic and recreational future" of the state.

J. Weldon Watson, executive director of the Parks and Wildlife Department, said the fact that a Texan is President makes Texas more popular with visitors. Many of them want to know "how close such and such a park is to Johnson City," said Watson. He sees tourism and park use as having a "mighty impact" on the Texas economy.

TOO SLOW FOR PENSION — Some long-time Harlingen firemen who recently decided they want to participate in the Firemen's pension plan waited too long, according to Attorney General Waggoner Carr.

Carr ruled that the 1957 Firemen's Relief and Pension Fund Act provides that a fireman forfeits his right to participate if he failed to enroll, and the 1963 firemen's pension law covering fully-paid firemen in part-volunteer departments embodies the same terms.

GOLIAD MEMORIAL PLANNED — Governor Connally named a Texas committee to work with a Mexican group on plans and financing for a suitable memorial at Goliad to Gen. Innacio Zaragoza. The general's victory over French forces on May

Song In My Heart Theme Of Junior Senior Banquet

Talco High School Junior-Senior Banquet was held Saturday evening at 7:30 in the Alps Cafe in Mt. Pleasant. The banquet hall was beautifully decorated in accordance with the theme, "Song In My Heart," and the colors, pink and white.

Junior, seniors, board members and faculty members entered through a white archway decorated with pink flowers and greenery into a green carpeted garden surrounded by a white fence covered with honeysuckle and pink flowers. Over the archway hung the words "Song In My Heart." A wishing well at the edge of the garden was the center of attraction. It was decorated with pink rose buds, honeysuckle, fuschia notes and hearts. Lawn furniture completed the garden scene.

From the garden the guests entered the dining area which was situated beneath a sky of blue crepe paper, white stars and pink hearts and balloons. The banquet tables were laid with white cloths accented with pink hearts and notes.

The speaker's table held a beautiful arrangement of pink roses and greenery. Pink and white spotlights brightened the decoration. Other than these spotlights, which were focused on the speaker's table, the banquet room was lighted by candles.

The invocation was voiced by H. L. Shoffner. Following a delicious meal of tossed green salad, chicken fried steak, baked potatoes, green beans, rolls, assorted pies and tea or coffee the program began.

"Music in the Air," the Juniors' Toast of Welcome, was brought by junior class president Mike Reed. The Seniors' Toast of Response, "Under the Spell," was brought by senior class president Shelby Johnson. Entertainment was rendered by the Paris Junior College Combo under direction of band director, Harold Gore. Nelda Alexander brought a selection of serious prose—"A Pattern for a Successful Life, "Sharps and Flats," followed by Mary Ann Grayson with the Class Prophecy. The long-awaited Senior Will was read by Linda Miller. The speaker, Supt. A. C. Newsome, left everyone in "Close Harmony" as he pointed out attributes of seniors, Jerry Black, Junior class vice-president, acted as master of ceremonies throughout the evening. The benediction was voiced by Coach Jack Allen.

The majority held servicemen have no "federally - protected right" to vote where they are stationed. El Paso-based Sgt. Herbert N. Carrington, who enlisted in Alabama, brought the suit, challenging a state constitutional provision which limits servicemen stationed in Texas to voting in the county where they resided when they entered the service.

In a dissenting opinion, Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert and Associate Justice Clyde E. Smith said the ruling denies some servicemen the right to vote in all elections. They further contended the state constitution violates the equal protection clause of the 14th amendment to the U. S. Constitution.

Same issue is soon to be tried in federal court at San Antonio where two other servicemen have filed suit.

Third Court of Civil Appeals upheld district court ruling against an AFL-CIO suit charging Texas Employment Commission with "pro-employer lobbying." Court's new opinion said TEC members have a duty to advocate needed changes in unemployment compensation laws. Court also held former Commissioner J. J. Pickle (now congressman) acted within his authority in recommending amendments.

Court of Criminal Appeals ordered a new trial for ex-Railroad Commission engineer L. D. Murphy. He had been sentenced to two years on a charge of conspiring to bribe a fellow worker to make a false report on a slanted oil well.

Talco Honors School Athletes

Frank Jackson of Paris, former All-Southwest Conference football player at SMU and now playing with the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League, addressed about 150 persons at the annual all-sports banquet of Talco High at Alps Cafe in Mt. Pleasant, Thursday night.

You can possess size, speed, strength and savvy but without spirit—the spirit to come back, to keep trying — the other traits are wasted, Jackson said.

He stressed knowledge and the ability to think in today's athletics. The days of the big, dumb athlete are gone, Jackson said. You must learn how to think, he declared.

Jackson was introduced by Bob Kimberlin, who served as master of ceremonies.

Members of the 1963 football team, which compiled a 6-1-2 record and finished second in district, were introduced by Coach Jack Allen. Coaches Larry Tucker and Bill Vickers introduced the boys and girls basketball teams and the boys and girls track teams.

The boys basketball team won the state Class A championship and ended the season with a 34-4 record. The girls team won its district title.

Appreciation was voiced by Dr. E. L. Miller, team physician; Jerry Jones, announcer; and M. L. Barron, cameraman.

Gifts to the coaching staff were presented by Ronnie Logan and Butch Perdue.

Decorations carried out the school's colors of red, white and blue. Included in the decor was the trophy won by the boys' basketball team as Class A state champions.

Entertainment was furnished by the Choral Club at the school.

Banquet Friday For Talco Seniors

Talco High School seniors were honored Friday night with an "Aloha Feast" at the Calvary Baptist Church. The theme was carried out with fish net decorated with glittered fish, sea shells, which were flanked by palm trees. Each table was decorated with a different color flower arrangement to match leis given to the guests as they were served. The leis were presented by Sandy Giddens, Diana Shoffner and Karen Pittman, who served the tables. The young ladies carried out the theme by wearing muumuu, thongs and a flower in hair.

The background dinner music was instrumental Hawaiian music on stereo. The Luau consisted of fried chicken, baked potatoes, tossed salad, rolls, butter, ice tea, cake with pineapple rings and tid bits of pineapple.

Games were played and the group sang songs. Entertainment for the evening was provided by R. T. Ray, an amateur ventriloquist of Mt. Pleasant.

Speaker of the evening was Walter Magouyrk, pastor of the Dellwood Baptist Church. Mt. Pleasant, who spoke on the subject, "No man is an island," Jack Allen was master of ceremonies.
