Officials Inspect Demonstration Of Mechanical Cotton Pickers Being Tested Near Lubbock

Pleased With Area

Men Declare South Plains Has Prospect For Bright Future In Development; Fowler McCormick Along

The United States is to continue its supremacy as a cotton producing country, to compete with foreign countries where cheap labor is plentiful, we have got to do it mechanically," is the declaration of Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester Company, manufacturers of the McCormick-Deering line of farm machinery, who arrived in Lubbock yesterday to see the results obtained by engineers of his firm who are here experimenting with several types of mechanical cotton pickers, in the hope to perfect one.

"Without some device for picking cotton," continued Mr. Legge, "the producing end of the cotton industry is unbalanced. We have perfected machines for planting and cultivating cotton. This has eliminated surplus labor from the farmer's call. When the time comes for him to gather his crop, he has no available cheap labor to do it. He is even faced with a shortage of any kind at cotton picking time."

Fairly Successful Now

"Experiments with cotton stripping machinery gives us hope of early success with these. It is already a fairly commercial success. On the pickers we have a long row yet to go, the same as the

Sawmill Is Destroyed By Blast In Georgia; Mill Workers Killed; Child Dies In Home

(By Associated Press)

GLENVILLE, Ga., Feb. 22.—A boiler explosion killed five persons, injured five seriously, and wrecked the $150,000 W. A. Canuet sawmill.

All the injured and four of the dead were mill workers. The fifth was Annie Lou Kieckhefer, 2, killed by a piece of boiler debris which hurtled through the roof of the Kieckhefer home, 200 yards from the mill.

Dry Boiler Is Cause

Canuet said the cause of the blast probably was a dry boiler, and pointed to the water glass petcock which for an unexplained reason was closed at the bottom, making the gauge useless.

The dead, Robert Dewitt, John Hendricks, Edmund Bacon, Annie Lou Kieckhefer and Lee Polk, negro fireman. The injured, Fletcher Waters, Sam Gordon, Tinto Moody, Annie McCall, and Kenneth Brown, taken to a hospital probably in a dying condition.

Glenville thought an earthquake had struck the town about 10 a. m. as the detonation came like a clap of mighty thunder.

Blanton Invites Solon To Texas

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (P)—A Texas dry invited a Wisconsin wet to come "down to my district" and meet the bootleggers "and I will see that you get all you want to drink," today on the floor of the house.

"And there are plenty of them," the Texan ended.

The invitation was extended by Representative Blanton, democrat of the Lone Star State, to Representative Schaefer, republican, Wisconsin, at the conclusion of a fiery set-to-between the two.

Schaefer declared the invitation saying he did not drink. The debate that led to the invitation brought the charge from Schaefer that Governor Smith had "pusyfooted" on the prohibition issue during the recent campaign.

Quick Solution Of Gang Killings In Chicago Expected

Mystery Of Execution Of 7 Men Expected To Be Solved Through Car Record; Man Reported Burned

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—A quick solution of the St. Valentine's Day massacre of seven George Moran gangsters was expected, police said tonight, as a result of two developments. One of them was the receipt of the sales record of a wrecked automobile believed by police to have been used by the slayers. The other was the discovery that a man had applied at a hospital for treatment for burns soon after the automobile was found in a blazing garage last night.

The sales record was received from the Cadillac Motor company of Detroit, and afterward states attorney, Swanson, announced that county commissioner Frank Wilson had been original owner of the machine but that since then it had been sold several times. Names of the succeeding owners, Swanson said, are known and the persons are being sought. Fifteen detective squads were assigned to the check-up.

Police expressed belief that the man who appeared at the hospital was one of a number engaged in destroying the automobile and was accidentally burned when the garage caught fire. Hospital authorities said they had a good description of the man, despite the fact he left without being treated.

LUBBOCK LINE CONSIDERED

The Texas Air Transport company, of Fort Worth, which Barrett is president, is contemplating the establishment of parcel and passenger service to Lubbock. The plans have been under study for some time and on Friday recently, Tom Hardin, veteran pilot and vice-president of the company, and Silliman Evans, public relations representative, spent two days here in conference with city officials and business men regarding the service. The establishment of a municipal airport is one of the major obstacles in the inauguration of regular service here, the officials said.

Southern states except the New York air route between Atlanta and Miami, Barrett said.

The new company will be known as the Southern Air Transport Company.

Travelers Returning To Civilization From Desert

Heavy Snow Holds Caravan In Cold For Four Days

(By Associated Press)

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Feb. 22.—Saved from a food shortage by airman who dropped gunny sacks filled with supplies, 50 or 60 men, women and children tonight were returning to civilization after spending four nights at the mercy of the elements, snowbound in the desolate wastes of the Red Desert in southwestern Wyoming.

Trapped in huge snow drifts covering highways in more than five feet of snow, the train of 23 automobile trucks carrying the group as passengers from New Mexico to Wyoming found the work of bucking the blockade too great a task since last Monday. Moderating weather today favored the travelers and tractors led a slow advance of the caravan through a sea of desolation.

Next Election To Find Second Road District To Vote

Meeting Of Citizens Last Night Results In Delay Of Action; Another Independent District Seen

Indications are that a second independent road district will be created in Lubbock county. The decision reached at the courthouse last night, when 60 citizens of the county met for a two hours discussion on road districts and road bond issue elections, was to the effect that the petition now on file before the county commissioners court be accepted by them.

The petition in question was filed with the commissioners a few days following the bond issue election of January 12 which was defeated. It requests the commission to create road district Number Two, including that part of the county not taken in by district Number One with about 20 additional sections. Number One includes the city of Slaton.

No Action Is Taken

No action was taken as to an attempt to call an election, nor was anything done about designating what highways of the county would be included in the next election.

In opening the meeting, Charles P. O'Neill, chairman, explained that a county-wide committee had been working with representatives of every section of the county since the middle of January, striving to reach some agreement on another county-wide election. Several conferences with Slaton representatives resulted only in the decision from that group that no sort of a county-wide program would be agreeable to them, unless it included a number of lateral roads into and out of Slaton.

McCloskey Said To Have Approved Plan To Steal Wurzbach's Victory; Denies Any Promises

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 22.—Testimony concerning Congressman elect Augustus J. McCloskey of San Antonio with a plan to steal the November 6 election from Harry M. Wurzbach, Texas' only republican congressman was adduced late today in McCloskey's trial on an indictment, charging election fraud.

The state brought forth its star witness in Dave Dewhurst, deputy county clerk of Bexar county. For an hour and a half he hurled his allegations of duplicity at the congressman-elect, not sparing himself and also involving Charles Ramirez, formerly secretary to McCloskey while the defendant was county judge of Bexar.

Smoking Many Cigarettes

Smoking numerous cigarette and gaining a new supply from Judge J. D. Moore on the bench when his own ran out, Dewhurst started with his first suggestion to McCloskey that something be done to defeat an alleged steal for Wurzbach and raced through to the conclusion.

Judge McCloskey at first turned a deaf ear to his suggestion that a steal for Wurzbach in "a dozen boxes in San Antonio" some how be overcome. Dewhurst testified that McCloskey fell in with the idea and asked how it could be done.

Dewhurst related how he had outlined the scheme and alleged that Judge McCloskey adopted it, participating in it to the extent of irregularly obtaining from the pre-

Lawmakers Pass Eighty Measures During Yesterday

Machinery Is Speeded Up On Washington's Birthday; Hyer Bill Approved And Small Bill Passes

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 22.—Washington's Birthday to the house proved only another weary day in which more than 80 measures, most of them local in application, were passed. Although legislative machinery was speeded up, there remained more than 300 bills undisposed of when the tired lawmakers called it a day.

Included in measures finally acted on, was the Small Senate bill, providing that 40,000 acres on the Texas-Oklahoma border, now in Oklahoma, should be made a portion of several counties in the Panhandle. Final decision as to which state the property belongs lies with the supreme court of the United States.

A committee from the Oklahoma legislature recently came to Austin with the request that the state be allowed to purchase the land if it is given to Texas by a decree of the higher court. A commission appointed to fix the 100th meridian as the boundary line has tentatively located it, throwing the area into Texas.

Gas Refinery Is Burned At Gordon

Fire Feared To Have Caused Gas Shortage In Cities Is Downed; Loss Estimated At $50,000

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Feb. 22.—Fire fighters late today succeeded in controlling a fire which had destroyed the Lone Star Gas company's refinery at Gordon, Palo Pinto county, according to company officials here.

Fear that the fire might cause a gas shortage in Dallas, Fort Worth and other north Texas cities was allayed by company officials who said that although one line had been cut off three others still were in operation. A new line was being laid to supplant the severed 8-inch line. Two 16-inch and one 8-inch line continued to carry gas into Dallas.

The fire began, officials said, when a feed line to the refinery broke and the gas was ignited by friction. The flames spread through the refinery, firing the plant and adjoining structures. Workmen, however, kept the fire from spreading to storage tanks where an estimated 160,000 gallons of gasoline was kept.

Officials said the loss would be less than $50,000. No one was injured.

Two Scientists Of America Are Cited

Gold Medals Presented To Men Doing Best Work For Science During Year; Couldn't Decide On One

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (P)—Two gold medals were presented to two of America's greatest scientists here tonight, because the awarding committee could not decide between them which it had but one medal to give.

The recipients were Dr. Albert A. Michelson and Dr. Robert A. Millikan. The award was the annual gold medal of the Society of Arts and Sciences. This medal was established last year, going then to Thomas A. Edison.

The award to Michelson is because his "work on the ether drift opened the way for development of new concepts of matter, energy, space and time."

To Millikan the award is for "demonstration of the possibility of isolating and measuring the individual electron, and his more recent research in striped atoms and cosmic rays which have thrown new light on the foundation of the universe."

others are having."

Mr. Legge here stated it to be his judgment that in a comparatively short time perfection of a mechanical cotton picker would be achieved.

"It's got to be done, that's all, if this country is to continue to export cotton."

Mr. Legge arrived here from Chicago Friday, accompanied by Fowler McCormick, son of Harold F. McCormick and grandson of Cyrus McCormick, the inventor of the first reaper; J. F. Jones, vice president and general manager, and E. A. Johnson, director of engineering work of the International Harvester Company. These were joined here by W. A. Fisk, branch manager, and E. N. Black, assistant manager, from Amarillo.

Tests Made Here

Engineers and representatives of the company, who have been in Lubbock in charge of experiments with the machinery, include C. C. Bolte, R. W. Henderson, B. R. Benjamin, C. R. Hagen, Frank Senicka, Joe Gibbs and W. S. Skinner. All tests have been made on the A. E. Griffice farm, seven miles north of town on the Plainview highway, where a 10 acre cotton patch is being utilized.

The company officials were met in Lubbock by Oscar and Joe Nislar, of the Nislar Hardware company. International Harvester Company agents, who accompanied them on an inspection trip to the Griffice farm.

"Our company has been engaged on the present land development part of efforts at perfecting these machines for the past five years," Mr. Legge explained. "Prior to that we have been for more than 30 years constantly aiming at improvements in these and all other farm machinery."

Witnesses Optimistic

"Witnesses of the experiments here during the past week are very optimistic of the Harvester company's success at soon perfecting the mechanical picker. Knowing what is one piece of farm equipment will mean to the cotton producers of the world, observers see that it will be the ultimate salvation of the producer, making it possible for a few men to grow and gather, at little expense, what now amounts to the largest ratio of expense the farmer faces."

The South Plains country, with its level millions of acres, no steep hills, no trees or stumps to be cleared off, large holdings, ideal soil and climate conditions, is extraordinarily situated to cash in quickly with the use of mechanical pickers. These facts are recognized by these men.

"Texas is producing cotton cheaper than the states east of the Mississippi," states Mr. Legge. "The standardization of a plant of early maturity, so that the greater percentage of the staple might be gathered at the first picking, is the big need right now. Much of cotton quality is damaged with the crop remaining in the fields to be frozen, or rained upon and thereby discolored by dirt."

Fowler McCormick appears to be about 30 years of age. It is his first trip to the South Plains. "While I have been here only today," he said, "I am very much impressed with your country. It looks surprisingly progressive, with many modern farms to be seen. I have been in Texas before, however, and have traversed West Texas on the train, and know something of your progressiveness and rapid development during the past very few years."

E. A. Johnson, director of the I. H. C. engineering work said: "The youthful spirit and energy of the South Plains speaks volumes for what your advancement will lead to in future years."

The officials will be here most of today, departing for Houston tonight.

CHEFOO, China, Feb. 22. (P)—The Shantung peninsula has been the scene of heavy fighting for two days between loyal nationalist troops and a large force of former north-China soldiers under command of Marshal Chang Tsung-Chang, once military governor of Shantung.

ASK MAINTENANCE

Bill Provides For Upkeep Of King's Highway

AUSTIN, Feb. 22. (P)—Because of the old historic San Antonio road have fallen into decay, Senator Patton today introduced a bill asking for its maintenance as a state highway. It was reported favorably by a committee.

The road, originally known as the Camino Real, or King's Highway, runs from Pendleton on the Sabine river through Nacogdoches, Crockett, Lockhart, Bastrop, New Braunfels and San Antonio to the Rio Grande at Presidio.

Highway Plan

O'Neill explained, "They ask that they be given a district, which have outlined." He then exhibited a map on which this district was drawn. This included about twice as much area as now exists in district Number One, and comes to within a few miles east of Idolou, touching Highway Number 53, for some four miles, and extends west of Slaton to touch on Highway 9 for a mile and a half.

Don't Want Expense

"They want to come up to these two highways, but they do not wish to bear any of the expense of paving the miles of these highways which they will touch," O'Neill declared.

On a vote for the motion, made by Frank E. Wheelock, that the district be created according to the petition on file, which gives Slaton about half of their requested area, all present, excepting about a dozen men from the eastern part of the county, near Acuff, voted for it. These voted against the motion, because of their contention that should the new district be created the road program would include paving a highway east from Lubbock, through Canyon and Acuff, to the Crosby county line.

The Acuff representatives had asked for an amendment to the original motion, including designation of the highway east from here to the county line, but this amendment was deemed out of order, inasmuch as the purpose of the meeting was evidently only to decide on whether to create another road district, giving Slaton its requested territory, or abiding by the petition before the commissioners.

Talks were made during the meeting by E. T. Daniell, of Idolou; N. H. Payne, county commissioner; County Judge Robert Bean, M. G. Abernathy, J. F. Hankins, W. D. Benson, J. H. Goodrich, Douglas Pounds, P. E. Wheelock, and others. Time for holding another election was not mentioned in the meeting proper, but talk about the room seemed to favor it several months from now.

pany Inc., and will be headed by Mr. Barrett as president.

Thomas Hardin, vice-president of the Texas Air Transport, Inc., is vice-president of the new company. Member of the board of directors announced tonight are:

James P. Butler, president of the Canal Bank and Trust company, New Orleans; Sidney W. Souers, vice-president of the Canal Bank; Eli T. Watson, New Orleans; and James C. Wilson, president of National Aviation, New York.

Fifteen additional members of the board will be announced later. Air lines operated between New York City, Atlanta and Miami by the Pictair lines will not be affected by the merger, Barrett said.

To Unify Schedules

"Our purpose in creating the Southern Air Transport, Inc., Mr. Barrett said, is to unify schedules of passenger and express service throughout the entire south."

"We will operate passenger and mail service from Atlanta to Birmingham, Mobile, New Orleans, Beaumont, Houston to Brownsville and Austin, and from Miami through Birmingham, Jackson, Miss., Vicksburg, Monroe, Shreveport, Dallas, Fort Worth, and El Paso."

"The latter route will be along stretch of the Southern Transcontinental air route which has the advantage of being open for passenger and express service throughout the entire year."

"The former route, from Atlanta to Brownsville will form an important link in the Pan-American air land route by air from New York through the south to the Rio Grande and thence through Mexico, Central America and on to South America."

Headquarters for the company will be maintained at Fort Worth.

Huddled around a fire which apparently had been made from a load of lumber carried by one of the trucks, the stranded group cheered when the airman hove in sight and circled their camp.

Describing their plight over the train, the fliers reported they saw about 15 women and children in one camp wagon of the outfit.

Workers for the state highway department kept tractors at work today in an effort to reach the stranded group and open the road for them into Rock Springs.

Roads south of Rock Springs also have been blocked for several days and efforts of large automobile trucks to reach 42,000 sheep with feed were fruitless today.

Weather Is Varied In Europe Friday

LONDON, Feb. 22. (P)—Europe, a week ago completely under the domination of severe cold and heavy snows, today had weather ranging from spring-like thaws in the west to a fresh onslaught of winter in the southeast. Cold and snow added to the suffering in the Balkans and Central Europe while the melting accumulations elsewhere created a flood threat to human life and property.

An oddity of the storm near Rutchuck, Bulgaria, was a "black snow," due to volcanic dust.

Twelve gypsies were reported frozen to death at Thascani, Rumania. The intense cold in one Austrian village exploded bottles of varnish.

Airplanes flew from Cracon with provisions and medicines for Lemberg, Poland. Snow lies ten feet deep in places and all traffic was paralyzed.

Germany took extraordinary precautions against floods when its icebound rivers are freed by a thaw.

Serious apprehension has been aroused by the situation along the River Meuse frozen from the French border to Liege.

siding judges of the thirteenth, sixteenth, twentieth and thirty-seventh Bexar precincts the official tally sheets that the law requires they retain.

Tutored in Theft

With them in his possession and McCloskey in an adjoining room, Dewhurst said, he and Ramirez retired into a barred room, where he tutored Ramirez in the art of election theft.

Ramirez, it was, according to Dewhurst, who removed two sheets from tally books and substituted others with certain alterations in the marking of tallies to overcome a McCloskey deficiency of "165 to 176 votes."

"If we can't get them all, don't bother to get any," Dewhurst quoted McCloskey as having said.

As for himself, none of the actual work, and only the idea was his, Dewhurst testified.

Promised Immunity

Under cross-examination by Dave Watson, chief of defense counsel, Dewhurst admitted that he was testifying under a promise of immunity by Lamar Seelenson, Bexar county district attorney. He had not, however, obtained such a promise from the federal government, and it was with a federal election he admitted he tampered.

Never before had he participated in an election fraud, Dewhurst swore with upraised hand, a frequent action and gesture during his interrogation.

Admits Perjury

He admitted perjuring himself before the Bexar county court of inquiry. His problem then had been to protect his friends and himself as far as he could. Learning later, he said, that in the investigations of the allegations of irregularities he was to be "made the goat" he decided to save himself, although, he added, at the very moment he still was protecting his friends and himself as much as possible.

He denied that he had turned upon Judge McCloskey upon learning that he would not be named secretary to the congressmen-elect.

Throughout the hour and a half Dewhurst was on the witness stand the defendant sat calmly either smoking his own hand-rolled brown paper cigarettes or picking his teeth. His naturally ruddy color did not change as he regarded the man who was swearing against him.

Schumann-Heink To Close Career

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (P)—While New York music critics were proclaiming her still one of the greatest contraltos of all time, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink told the Associated Press today that she will bring to a close at the end of this season her career of more than half a century on the operatic and concert stages.

Her voice happy over the magnificent ovation she received yesterday, when she sang once again the role of Erda, "Mother Earth," in "Das Rheingold" at the Metropolitan opera house, Mme. Schumann-Heink announced that she will devote the rest of her years to teaching.

"I shall sing some times—yes," she said, "but only for my soldier boys. My voice belongs to them as long as there is anything left of it at all."

Double time for prisoners working more than 10 hours duty would be allowed through passage of Representative Kayton's bill.

Hansford county, previously the only one in which only a majority vote was required to move the courthouse from within five miles of the geographical center, was removed from its unique place when the house repealed a law passed by the Fortieth session. Proponents of the bill contended that the town of Spearman was attempting to obtain the seat of government at a special election March 6, when only a majority vote would be required.

Park Bill Passes

Among senate bills passed was one by Holbrook giving the governing body of any city having more than 40,000 inhabitants the right to acquire and maintain public parks within the city. Condemnation proceedings may be brought if owners refuse to sell, the bill specified.

The Beck-Moore bill giving authority to accept federal aid for purchase or construction of toll bridges when part of a federal highway system also was approved finally. The measure applies particularly to several bridges on Red River on which tolls are now being charged.

How to Achieve Beauty

Learn to "Walk in Beauty"—all ways; for grace in movement is beauty in motion, and it is a link in beauty's chain which you may cultivate easily. Radiant skin, hair and eyes will win admiration from those who observe you closely. But in a public place, especially in a large, open air gathering, the woman who stands and moves gracefully draws immediate and flattering attention to her personality.

Actresses and women of social prominence have realized this necessity for perfect poise and grace. They know that the manner of their entrance upon a stage or into a drawing room makes the important impression upon their audiences. And since "all the world's a stage," every woman should remember to play her part, wherever she is, with a natural grace and distinction.

The correct posture is an easy posture. There is no strain or effort, or self-consciousness in it. To practice it stand comfortably, your feet very slightly apart, balancing your weight evenly, and well forward upon the balls of your feet. Let your arms hang lightly at your sides, keep your head and chest up, your chin in and your back flat (sway-backed beauty is no longer admired), and your abdomen, of course, as flat as it can be.

If this posture seems unnatural, practice it diligently until it is the one you most naturally assume. Then it will be yours for always, with the self-confidence and poise that it carries. When you enter a room, gracefully, your body held in the proper way, head up, chin in, you enter as if you knew every person present, and that is as it should be.

Gaily Decked Indians Prepare For March In Inaugural Parade Through Streets Of Capital; 200 Are Expected

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—From plain, wood, and range, Indians will journey to Washington, March 4, to see one with their own blood in his veins take the second highest office within the gift of the American people.

Indians have participated in many inaugural pageants and while their presence this year is not expected to set any record for numbers, it will add to the genuine interest.

Number Not Known
Two hundred are expected to march in the parade. No one knows how many more will come to the capital as spectators, but officials of the Indian Bureau expect there will be quite a number.

Senator Curtis, vice-president-elect, is of Kaw ancestry and is keenly interested in getting a big showing of "First Americans" here for the inauguration.

A special coach load of Osage Indians from the oil districts of Oklahoma will be here. Expense is not considered an item by these Red Men as they are wealthy from oil royalties. They are preparing to have the best that Washington affords.

Visit No Novelty
Washington is no novelty to heads of many tribes who often come here for conferences on governmental affairs relating to their people. But there will be many Indians here for the inaugural who have seldom been off the reservation before. They will bring their most elaborate bead work, feather head dresses and fancy necklaces.

Already Indians are beginning to gather and are taking up quarters in private homes and hotels. While only men will be in the parade, some of the Indians are bringing their wives with them. Wearing the native costume or clad in modish hats and suits, they will sit in the reviewing stands while their husbands, decked in gaudy raiment, clatter by on their spotted ponies.

Soldier Arranges
Clement Whirlwind Soldier, a Sioux Indian from Rosebud, S. D., has been in Washington for some time helping arrange for the care and entertainment of the 200 Indians who will be here. He likes Washington and was for a time employed on the hotel grounds, so he makes a good liaison "officer."

Many of the Indians make their headquarters at the historic old National hotel on Pennsylvania avenue, not far from the capitol. All of them who come to Washington at the invitation of the inaugural committee, must pay their own expenses. This they are glad to do for the sake of taking part in the parade.

Lieut. Commanders Paris And Hurel Plan Trans-oceanic Flights During This Spring

(By Associated Press)
MARSEILLES, France, Feb. 22.—A trans-Atlantic flight to either New York or Pernambuco, Brazil, is the project of Lieut. Commanders Louis Jerome Paris and Maurice Hurel, French fliers. The former started a trans-Atlantic flight last year but it was called off when the government interdicted such attempts until the new air ministry could rehabilitate French aviation. If this year's flight is attempted toward New York, the route will be from Marseilles to Brest and then to the Azores. If the Brazilian terminus is chosen, the route will be via Casablanca and Dakar in Africa. It was said today that the chances favor the New York attempt.

Refuses To Act McGraw and Dallas Mayor Clash

DALLAS, Feb. 22. (AP)—William McGraw, Dallas district attorney, today notified Mayor R. E. Burt of Dallas that he would not prosecute officials of the Dallas Athletic club who were arrested Wednesday night on the Mayor's orders because of the Wednesday night fight card at the club.

McGraw told the Mayor in a letter that he was not enthusiastic over the arrests because he believed in treating all law violators alike.

"I advised you Monday that prize fighting was in violation of the law," the letter said. "You gave permission Monday evening to another club to hold a fight that night, and then on Wednesday you sent police to the Athletic club. I am informed that a man was knocked out at the Monday evening fight. I will be pleased to join you in treating all law violators alike."

LIBERTY. (AP)—Strains of phonograph music is used here to soothe the nerves of pupils and create greater efficiency. Violin records are used mainly and the music keeps up continually during school hours. Robert W. Evans, superintendent, says higher averages in examinations have resulted. The experiment meets favor with the pupils.

Shelby County To Try New Brand of Cotton This Year

(By Associated Press)
CENTER, Feb. 22.—Three thousand acres of land in Shelby county is to be planted this year in a new variety of cotton which is expected to revolutionize the industry in this section.

The experiment is being tried as a result of earlier experiments in this county on a smaller scale with Brazil cotton.

This cotton was developed in South America by the La Polovina railway company with the help of an agent of A. and M. college, Professor Thomas R. Day of Texas sent there for the purposes of making experiments. When he returned to the United States in 1926 after 20 years in South America he brought a small amount of seed from the newly developed cotton, which was planted on the farm of Clifton Largent. The first year, less than an acre being planted, it produced twice as much cotton as the surrounding cotton on the same plot of land, and when it was marketed, the product brought four cents per pound more than the old varieties. Last year Largent planted his entire crop in the Brazil cotton, and had the largest crop ever produced by him.

The only difficulty so far with the new cotton, is that it is a little harder to pick than the other varieties, as it clings to the burs more tenaciously.

After this year, seed from 3,000 acres in Shelby county is expected to be available for other farmers in the state.

Sharkey Assumes Unique Attitude On Eve Of Battle With Georgia Battler

Boston Sailor Won't Predict Any Round But Says He Will Take Young Stribling As Soon As He Is Able

Pug Who Has Always Been Gifted With Gab Recognizes Strength Of Opponent But Is Going To Fight To Win Fame And Money To Buy New Estate

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
NEA Service Sports Editor

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.—The Sharkey fellow, who always has been full of mad, is the most unusual and tractable fellow as he trains for his fight with Willie Stribling on February 27.

With a forced smile, Sharkey says: "I feel swell with the world. Everything is great. I have no troubles."

"I've never been treated better in my life. Even in Boston, I've never been treated as I have down here. You know, I didn't get much attention in Boston when that Maloney was the big shot around there and even after I knocked his ears off they still considered me as an outsider."

"To tell you what I mean, I bought a big place in the Chestnut Hill district. It cost me about two hundred grand and when the deed was signed the fellow who made it out signed me as Jack Sharkey. Esq. Somebody saw that 'Esq.' and started calling me Squire. I don't mind being called Squire, but some of the people in the neighborhood didn't like it. They said they didn't know of any fighter that was entitled to be called an Esquire or a Squire, but I'll show them I'll make more dough in my racket than they have and I'll show them that I can be called a Squire."

After The Sale
"That's one big reason why I'm in this fight to win. I want that dough. That's the reason I'm in this business. I wasn't hot for taking this fight down here, though, Rickard promised me plenty of money, but Joe Jacobs and Mike McGuire told me about the tough time they had in Georgia and they told me I would be a sucker to come down here even if I got all the dough in the world."

"Finally, when I looked up with Carey and Dempsey, I was so sure and I told Mr. Sharkey she had better stay at home with the family. If there were any raps to be taken down there, I wanted to take them by myself. But I found out just as soon as I got down here that I was in right with all the best people. I've got plenty of dough and if I went out with all my dough to buy a reception, I could not buy a better reception than I got here. I'm not talking for publicity. No kidding. I'd like to live down here and I think I will when I knock over this guy."

"If you are so sure about winning this fight, name the round, won't you?"
"No, I won't name any round" he replied. "I don't fight that way. Some of the writers say that I won't hurt a fellow or try to knock him out. I told the New York commission that once, when they had me on the carpet about that Eddie Hoffman fight. They said I carried him and I told them that I was following the rules of boxing and that there wasn't anything in the New York rules that made a fellow knock another fellow out. Since then all the fellows seem to think that I'm not vicious."

"I'm not going after this guy Stribling in one round or two or three rounds. I'm just going in there to fight. But, if I hurt him in the first round, he's going to get plenty and if I get him in the second or third round, he's going to get plenty. I'll take him right there."

"The guys in this racket who name the round and the punch are either crazy or they have a push-over in front of them and, as little as I think of this Stribling, he is not a push-over."

Needs Work
"You know, Stribling only boxed three times in the first two weeks that he worked down here and I boxed every afternoon. It was hot. I know, but he's from the south and he ought to be able to stand this heat. It hasn't been so tough on me. I made my schedule so that the sun wouldn't be on me strong. But he worked an hour after I did and I think the fellow must need strength or weight or something."

"I guess neither one of us needs a lot of work. He's been doing that circus of his, fighting a lot of fellows who you could not find in the telephone book, and I have had a couple of fights. I had that fellow De Kuh in Boston and they said I didn't look so good and then had that big clown Christner in New York."

"And let me tell you that Swede or whatever he is was no sucker. I know something about boxing and started feinting him with a left hand and, instead of going away, he led into me with his right hand and rattled my teeth every time I tried to. And I ask you, what are you going to do with a fellow like that?"

"Anyway, I beat him plenty and I could have knocked him out in the first round. Dempsey could have gotten away with it but, if I had tried, I would have been hung to the rafters."

"Here's the way it was. The bell rings for the first round and the big mug was standing in his corner with his back to me and his hands on the ropes. I guess he was listening to somebody in his corner or he didn't know what it was all about."

Spudders Rebuild A Flag Challenger For 1929 Title Go

Team Not Recruited To Fill Shoes Of Stars Who Were Shipped To St. Louis; Stanton May Return

By AL PARKER
Times Sports Editor

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 22. (AP)—Every department overhauled since the close of last season, the Wichita Falls Spudders will present in the 1929 pennant race a lineup radically altered for the first time since 1927. Fred J. Alvin, Gardner and Manager Jim Galloway have disposed of some men who played important roles in the successful seasons of 1927 and 1928, and the team is not yet recruited to fill the shoes of the stars who were shipped to St. Louis; Stanton May Return

WICHITA FALLS, Feb. 22. (AP)—Every department overhauled since the close of last season, the Wichita Falls Spudders will present in the 1929 pennant race a lineup radically altered for the first time since 1927. Fred J. Alvin, Gardner and Manager Jim Galloway have disposed of some men who played important roles in the successful seasons of 1927 and 1928, and the team is not yet recruited to fill the shoes of the stars who were shipped to St. Louis; Stanton May Return

Faces Missing
Familiar faces to be missed from the Spudder lineup will include Tom Jenkins and Lyman Lamb, outfielders; Buck Stanton and Ed. Roetz, infielders; Pitchers Joe Kiefer, Mike Cevengros, Herbert Cobb, Bill Shores and Tom Estell.

To make up for the loss of pitching talent, the club has gone in strong for left-handers. Foremost among the southpaw additions are Harold C. Wiltsie from the Browns, former Boston, and a star, and Ed. Taber, from New Haven of the Eastern League and a former Philadelphia National League baseman. Fred Stiley from the New York-Pennsylvania circuit, Edwin Ellis from the Southeastern and Chick Galera from Abilene are among the other promising left-handers.

The veteran right-handers, Milt Steengrafe and George Payne, will be back, and a promising newcomer is Cy Smith from the Piedmont. At least one other dependable flinger is to be added before the start of activities.

Infielders Return
Three members of the 1927 and 1928 infield return, Pete Turgoon at second, Rabbit Benton at short and Swede Swenson at third are holdovers. Benton will receive competition at short from George Speirs, drafted from the South Atlantic, and Debs Garmes, the Abilene prodigy. Milt Gordon, from the New York-Pennsylvania circuit, is a third base candidate of promise.

Evidently, the Spudder powers have hopes of the return of Stanton from the Browns, or have other plans in the fire for the only first baseman on the roster is Dallas Clements, a Dallas boy who was in the Three-I and Western association last season.

Howard Fitzgerald, dependable center fielder, and Brick Eldred, are holdover outfielders. Fred Bennett, a terrific clouter from the Western League, is expected to fill the shoes of Jenkins in left field. Lamb's place in right field probably will go to Eldred or Garland Orr, a healthy wallower from Abilene. A flock of young outfielders will be brought into camp, but Orr looms as the only one with a chance to make the grade.

Pete Lapan heads the catching staff for the fourth season, with a youngster slated as his understudy. Jack Crouch, leading batter of the Western Association, is the only experienced catcher other than Lapan. Whether the club will depend on him as one of the receivers probably must await the youngster's showing in the training camp.

WINS DOG DERBY
ASHTON, Ind., Feb. 22. (AP)—Fred Fritz, of Cascade, Ida., won the American dog derby here today in 1 hour, 58 minutes, 19 seconds, for the 25-mile course. Delbert Groom, of Rigby, Ida., was second and Tud Kent, Truckee, Cal., third.

"Anyway, I could have slugged him from behind and knocked him dead. And I wanted to do it. There was nothing in the rules against it because we were to come out fighting. Dempsey could have gotten away with it, but I knew if I did it I would have been murdered. They razed me out of the joint almost when I came in."

"But I don't pay attention to the razzing. I'm in there to get the dough and I'll get it plenty and I mean plenty."

Where Stribling and Sharkey Will Fight

Here is an air view of Flamingo Park Arena at Miami Beach, Fla., where the Jack Sharkey-Young Stribling fight will be held on Feb. 27. The deep, octagonal bowl, when completed, will seat 43,000 people. In the upper left of the photograph is Belle Isle, where President-elect Herbert Hoover spent his pre-inaugural weeks.

He Shoots Four Holes In One

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 22. (AP)—Like everything else, holes in one even lose their thrill to a golfer when they become common. Few ever experience that thrill to register when an ace trickles into the cup, but the case of Pete Grandison is different. He has scored four.

Grandison, professional at the Woodward course here, recently sunk his tee shot on number 14, the second ace within a year on that hole. Previous to coming here he had experienced the same novelty at Nashville and Louisville.

Giants' Hurling Staff Reaches 14

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 22. (AP)—Bill Walker came to town today, and now is another pitcher in the spring training camp of the New York Giants, running the number up to 14.

Walker has been down with the flu at his home in East St. Louis, but his appearance is a feat of a sick man and he entered his first day's training equally as vigorous as the rest of the party.

This, however, was confined to the tossing of the medicine ball and leg work, because of a fresh northerner that crashed down through the San Antonio valley during the night.

While Ray Schaak is putting the Giants through rigorous training he is cautious during a cold snap and no batting or throwing is had as long as it lasts.

Several of the New York sportswriters took advantage of excursion rates to Laredo, where the annual Washington birthday celebration was in progress as a bull fight across the river as one of the features on the program.

With moderate weather Saturday the Giants will again take the field for batting and throwing practice.

State Cage Meet Set For March 8-9
COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 22. (AP)—Members of the fourteen high school cage teams in the Interscholastic League state championship tournament at the A. and M. Memorial gymnasium March 8-9 will play in one of the largest and best equipped gymnasiums in the Southwest. James Sullivan, business manager of athletics at A. and M. believes.

The basketball court is of maximum size and the floor is probably the best in the state. Mr. Sullivan said. A seating arrangement which will enable the handling of large crowds at every game, well equipped dressing rooms, showers and locker facilities are among the other features which make the gymnasium an ideal place for holding the tournament.

Sharkey Blew His Big Shot With Dempsey, He Says, But Won't Fool Around About Chance With Stribling

Boston Tar Drops Boastful Attitude And Takes On Serious Air On Eve Of Miami Beach Bout

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 22. (AP)—Naked, but for scanty ring trunks, a smiling Jack Sharkey perched on the edge of a pine bench in his dressing room at the dog track today and grinned at his manager, Johnny Buckley. Johnny grinned back at the Boston sailor, gathered together bandages and tape and pattered around solicitously as Sharkey wrapped his hands.

"John" said the happy fighter. "I blew my last big shot with Dempsey. I've got another chance, and you can bet all the Irish in South Boston that there'll be no fooling next Wednesday night. I can't promise to knock out Young Stribling. I'm through with that kind of talk—but I'll win and if I feel him going I'll finish him in a round. Now you tell them the rest."

With pride, the round Buckley swelled his chest and announced that a very important business deal had just been completed. Just a few minutes before he said, he and Sharkey entered into a new contract under which Buckley will manage the Boston sailor for another year.

The new arrangement seemed to make both happy.

Sharkey has a deep contempt for the fighting ability of Stribling. In most of his past battles, Sharkey's measure of contempt for an opponent usually was the measure of his success against that rival.

With the skirmish in Flamingo Park only six days away, Stribling found the sun too hot for work. The Georgian is in fine shape, scaling about 183 pounds and is fearful of overgaining through too much work.

The most interesting portion of the day's fistfests was a two round bout between Andy Callahan, 136 pounder from Lawrence, Mass., and Charlie Pond, lanky heavyweight from Houston, Texas. Callahan, a fast heavy hitting southpaw, did such damage to Pond's features that Sharkey took the little fellow to task.

Rabbits Humbled In Feature Tilt By Bengal Quint

Post, Dickens, Wilson, Seagraves, Slaton, Petersburg And Lamesa Are Still In Running

Seven of the fourteen teams entered in the District Two basketball tournament of the Interscholastic League remained in the running at the end of Friday's play, which was featured by the defeat of Ralls by the Lubbock county champions, Slaton. The district favorites went down before the onslaught of the Tigers after a bitter fight.

Of the remaining teams who will fight it out for the district, Slaton and Lamesa loom as the outstanding favorites, although the Petersburg outfit may show surprising strength. The latter failed to get into action in the first round Friday, Maleshoe failing to appear.

Other teams who were victors in yesterday's play are: Post, Dickens, Wilson and Seagraves.

Coach Paul Wright's Slaton basketballers continued to furnish the upsets in the county meet. Drawing Ralls as their first opponent, the Bengals were the decided underdogs, but a brilliant rally in the last half gave the Lubbock county champs the decision over rallying favorites in the tournament. Slaton, which had invaded the ranks of the Rabbits during the past week, kept one of Lovorn's stars out of the lineup and slowed up the action of several who played.

Rabbits Fight Gently
Despite the handicap under which they were playing, the Crosby county cagers put up a brilliant fight and were leading up until the fourth quarter when "Flashy" Walker, their scoring ace, was taken from the game. Before the Rabbit star could be rushed back into the game, the Lubbock county entry had tied the score and pulled away with a substantial lead.

Scott, Slaton forward carried off scoring honors in the crucial tilt with 11 points and Walker of Ralls was close behind with 10. Burk, Tidwell and Walker bore the brunt of the Rabbits' attack while Brunsfield and the Canno brothers stood out for Slaton.

Slaton is scheduled to meet Petersburg, the Hale county champions in the third game Saturday morning.

Post and Levelland hooked up in a merry battle to start the fireworks of Friday morning, the Garza county champions pulling away in the final stanza to win 26 to 20.

Wall, rangy Post center, led the scoring for the winners with 12 points. Towering above the heads of his opponents, Wall counted the majority of his points on follow-up shots. Coleman and Gill were outstanding for Levelland.

Wilson, Lynn county champions, staged a scoring spree in the last frame that smothered Lockney beneath a 33 to 20 score in the second game of the meet. Monroe, substitute forward ran wild during the final half to count 13 points and sew up the contest.

The Floyd county cagers were leading 12 to 9 at the close of the first half, but were unable to cope with the attack of the Wilson sharpshooters as the game wore on. Monroe led the scorers with 15 points and his team-mate, Traweck was second with 6.

Wilson displayed a passing game, after their team-play was organized, which may prove dangerous today when they take on the Seagraves outfit.

Coach Tillman Carter's Olton aggregation was the victim of a last minute rally that eliminated Lamb county from the running. The Seagraves sharpshooters got their long range guns in action in time to knot the count and nose out Olton, 29 to 25.

The Lamb county quintet was leading 15 to 12 at the half and increased their margin to four by the end of the third period, but the long range fire of the opposition turned victory into defeat.

Sweetenham carried off Seagraves high point honors at the end of the contest with 12 points to his credit. Ellison was next with 10. Dickinson and Dennis led the scoring attack for the losers.

Lamesa Smothers Motion
Lamesa had little trouble in downing Morton in the final game of the first round. Scoring almost at will on the Cochran county youngsters, the Dawson cagers continued to rain buckets until the score stood 45 to 17 at the end of the massacre. Thurman was the thorn in the side for Morton, counting 27 points for the victors. He was followed by Ranson with 12 points.

Remaining games in the preliminaries which will be resumed at 9 o'clock this morning are:
Post vs. Dickens.
Wilson vs. Seagraves.
Slaton vs. Petersburg.

Lamesa drew a bye for the second round and will compete in the semifinals which start at 7:30 tonight.

Father O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame, "deplores the notoriety the university has been given by its football teams. Father O'Donnell isn't missing any of the games, though."

One of these years Notre Dame will go through a season undefeated and then Father O'Donnell can have a good cry.

Father O'Donnell really hasn't anything to deplore yet. He might wait to begin his deploping until Notre Dame players begin signing cigarette ads, as have some of the players on eastern elevens.

The comish seemed Max considerably. He wondered why he cannot change managers if he wants to. The fact of a contract seems to mean little to the Schmeling one.

Fisher Will Lead Matadors In 1930

Leon Fisher of Memphis, star center and one of the leading scorers of the Tech basketball squad, was selected captain for the 1930 season at a meeting of the Matador squad Wednesday night while the locals were in Canyon for the final series of the season.

Playing his third year 'on the squad, the lanky center was one of the most important cogs on Coach Payne's machine. An injury received in the Abilene series, kept Fisher out of the lineup for several games, but on his return during the Sul Ross series he regained his old stride and finished the season going strong.

Fisher's uncanny side-court shots have aided the locals greatly in the season just past. His accurate placing of the ball on the tip-off was another important factor that added to his value.

The 1930 captain is a junior.

Dawson Wins Way To Semi-Finals In Invitation Meet

Chicago Golfer Equals Course Record In Down-Clarence Hubby Of Waco; Shoots A 68

COUNTRY CLUB, HOUSTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—John Dawson of Chicago shot a 68 to equal the course record in the first round of the annual Houston Country Club invitation meet here today. Clarence Hubby of Waco, a veteran match player, was the victim of Dawson's outburst of birdies losing five and four after a game fight.

Dawson will meet Ruben Albaugh of San Antonio, who eliminated Willie Hunt of Houston 2 up on the 36th hole today, in semifinals in the other bracket. O. S. Carlton of Houston, defending champion defeated Jimmy Chapman of Houston 4 to 3 and Speed downed S. E. Sharwood of New Orleans 3 and 1.

Dawson made his round of 68 in the morning in spite of a brisk and uncomfortably chilly wind. His game was so steady that he was nine up at the lunch hour. In the afternoon Hubby tightened considerably while Dawson was letting down and the match went to the 32 green, where Dawson won with a three.

Nurmi Will Enter Four Mile Event

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. (AP)—Paavo Nurmi decided today to undertake a four-mile race, the longest he ever has run in this country, at the New York Country American Legion games here Wednesday night.

Ove Anderson, also of Finland; Frank Tieran, nation 15 mile champion; and Irving Totten, Millrose A. A. runner, are expected to make up the field against him, but most of Nurmi's efforts will be concentrated on an attempt to break the world's record of 19:27.4.5 made by Willie Ritola January 20, 1923, on the same 102nd Engineers' armory track.

One reason Nurmi choose the distance was because he is glad to try for any record held by the New York Finn, with whom he never has been friendly.

Paavo has been faltering in the sprint.

CLEVER, THESE RETRIEVERS

WORCHESTER, Mass. (P)—A. T. Reed's pup, Ginger, brought home a shoe and the boot-and-hoof-marked sand, Clinton Henry and Jimmie Moore have built a "Chuck Wagon," which has been placed in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum here.

For five months the two men worked to complete, in every detail, the tiny wagon. In the midst of the tracked sand stands the chuck wagon, on one side are the usual quarters of beef, the water barrel, the stake ropes and pins; on the other are mounted a tool box, a coffee grinder and that necessity for every roaming rider—a mirror.

On the back of the wagon is the chuck box, and in its drawers are knives, forks, breadpan, pie pans, cups and spoons. Behind the wagon is a woodpile, a tiny pan and bread pan warm over a fire.

Famous branding irons, horse shoes and hoof nippers strewn about indicate that work other than cooking is done around the wagon.

Recently George Finley Simmons, a member of the Cleveland Museum staff, said: "This is the first model of any kind I have seen that was convincing. No ship's model ever suggested a ship at sea, but this tells the whole story of a ranch camp. It is a real work of art."

Busiest Clergyman, Deaf, Ministers To Deaf And Dumb; Deplores Innovation Of Talking Pictures

By NEA Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The Rev. John H. Kent, who has been deaf since early boyhood, but he is a busy, successful and contented man. Busy because he serves the largest metropolitan territory of any clergyman in the United States. Successful and contented because thousands of persons without speech or hearing depend upon him for spiritual and physical leadership.

It is not despite his deafness, but because of it, that Vicar Kent performs this unusual service. An illness robbed him of his hearing at the age of 6; at the special schools he attended, he resolved to devote his life to aiding others similarly afflicted. Now he ministers to the deaf and dumb in the entire New York area.

In addition to his own parish, St. Ann's Protestant Episcopal Church for Deaf Mutes in New York, he conducts services in the Trinity Cathedral, in Newark, N. J., at the Church of the Messiah, Brooklyn, and at St. Paul's Church in Paterson, N. J. Frequently he visits Kingston, N. Y., nearly 100 miles away.

A Big Job for Anyone. "All this would be no easy task for a clergyman with normal hearing and speech," he wrote out, "but being myself stone-deaf and speaking with great difficulty, I minister exclusively to deaf mutes. During the course of a year, I reach about 5000 through lectures, parish calls and services."

Besides christenings, weddings and funerals, sick calls and church services, I call also on the poor of my parish, find jobs for them when they are jobless, and have even appeared in court to defend them when they got into difficulties."

His Sunday sermon is given from the pulpit with his hands and his fingers, to a deaf and dumb congregation. His vested choir has been trained to sing hymns with their hands and fingers in the sign language.

Oddly enough, Vicar Kent decries lip reading and says sign language is the only medium for the deaf.

Calls Lip Reading Inaccurate. "Although it is slower," he wrote, "it is wholly accurate, and mistakes seldom occur with its use. On the other hand, lip reading may be inaccurate because few persons pronounce their words in the same manner—thus lip reading requires the most intensive training."

"Sign language has been the chief instrument of progress in educating the deaf of America."

The vicar sees a new problem for his people in the vogue for talking pictures. In his 20 years of work, he has found movies to be a godsend as entertainment for those without hearing.

"Because," he took up his pencil again, "besides enjoying a movie as perfectly as a person of normal hearing may, the deaf lose their sense of handicap while watching the screen. They can walk into a theatre like anyone else and lose themselves in the entertainment."

"The talkies threaten to ruin this pleasure, for in most cases deaf mutes lose the continuity supplied by the spoken words."

Although he has one blind man who is deaf and dumb as well, and a few hopeless cripples and some who are very old and unable to work in his congregation, Vicar Kent finds that most of his congregation are working men and women, earning fair wages and being self-supporting.

Followers Stage Plays. "One of the chief problems of the deaf is to fit into social life," he continued with his pencil. "That is why I try to keep the church activities varied. A score of clubs meet each week in the rooms above my church, and each winter plays are written and presented by deaf mutes of the congregation."

Last year and the year before, the young people of St. Ann's church presented a "musical" comedy in which the numbers were sung with hands and fingers."

His plays and musical comedies have been so successful that the vicar plans a new and larger stage for dramatic entertainment, and seeks to build an extra story on the church building for social club rooms.

He's a College Graduate.

Another of his aims is to further technical education for the deaf so that they may be self-supporting. Printing he believes offers one of the best fields, so he already has installed a job press in the basement of his church.

For himself, Vicar Kent finds relaxation in reading and himself has written many verses. He is a graduate of Gallaudet college, Washington, D. C., the leading university for the deaf in this country. In the summer he loves to fish and enjoy outdoor life.

He met his wife who has been deaf from birth, when he was 10 years old. They were sweethearts as students in the New York Institute for the Deaf in New York City, and they were married in 1907. They live in a charming apartment on the top floor of the church building and have two daughters, Ruth, 19, and Doris, 13, both healthy, happy and pretty.

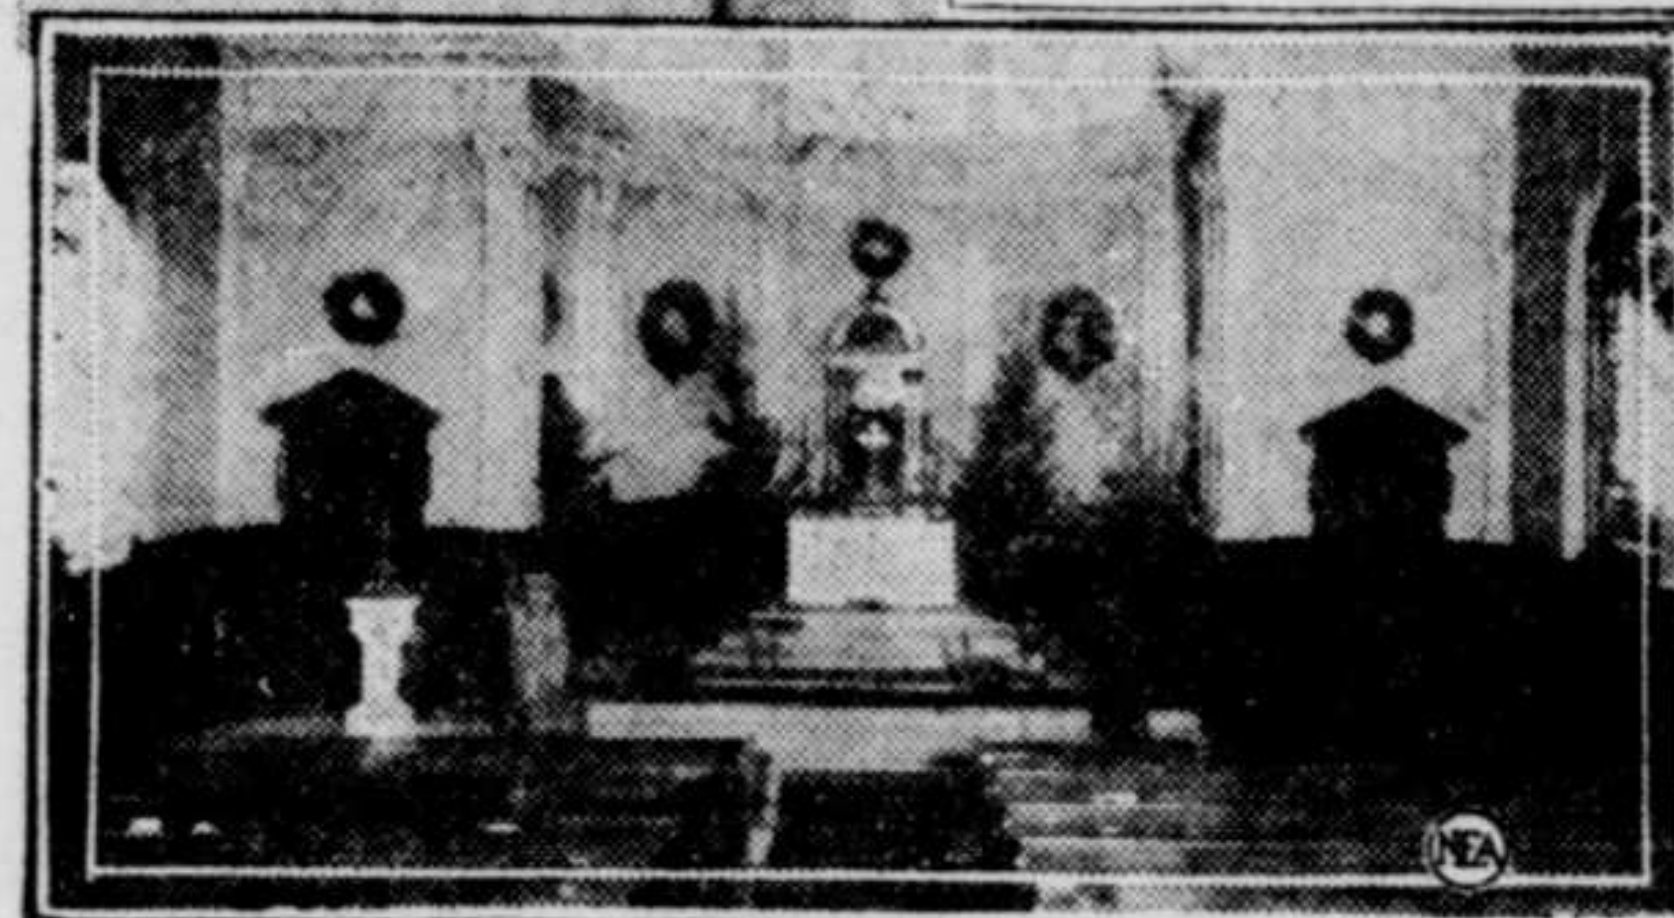

GALVESTON, Feb. 22. (P)—Gulf coast residents are looking forward to strawberry season. Farmers on the mainland have 250 or more acres in berries which should begin bearing within a few weeks. Some growers in the past have realized $500 to $1,000 an acre from the crop.

LUFKIN. (P)—Officials here say Lufkin will have the distinction of having more miles of paving than any city its size in the southwest as a result of a $300,000 bond issue. More than $200,000 has been spent for paving during the past eight years.

Twenty-six miles of power lines from Anchorage, Alaska, to Ektulna, Lake were built between October and January.

Each winter plays are presented by and for the deaf-mutes.

Ministering to the deaf and dumb of the entire New York metropolitan area is the job of the Rev. John H. Kent. Stone-deaf himself, he delivers sermons, performs marriages, christenings and funeral services in sign language. His deaf and speechless followers give plays and enjoy other social activities in the club rooms above the church. Below is pictured the interior of St. Ann's Protestant Episcopal Church for Deaf Mutes in New York City.

Fasting Is Ended Youth Fails Task Of Conversion

WAPAKONETA, O., Feb. 22.

(P)—The fast which Fred Conrad, 27, New Hampshire man, undertook to convert his father and "drive the devils from the village," was broken last Saturday, it was revealed today—the 40th day of the fast and the day it was supposed to end.

John Peeples, his father-in-law, said today that Conrad, his wife and the Rev. Ray Dotson, the man at whose revival Conrad was converted, were dinner guests at his home last Saturday and that the faster ate at that time.

People declined to elaborate on his statement that the young man had eaten, and both Conrad and Rev. Dotson refused to discuss the fast.

Conrad's father, George Conrad, New Hampshire grocer, was still unconvinced today.

Dairy Cattle Are Shipped to Howard

(Special To The Avalanche)

BIG SPRING, Feb. 22.—The dairy interest in Howard county has received new impetus by the shipping in 50 head of high grade dairy cattle during the past week. Many farmers who have followed cotton exclusively are adding to their farm a few dairy cattle, some poultry, and more feed. County Agent J. V. Bush and Home Demonstration Agent Mrs. Allgood cooperating with the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce are fast crystallizing sentiment in favor of a program of diversification. The Big Spring banks are liberal in their loans to farmers who are wanting to stock with good dairy cattle. Seeing there be many things that increase vanity, what is man the better?

A NEW DAY IS HERE

There hangs over the desk of the manager of a Lubbock industry a little frame in which is the following legend:

Another day is here. Help us to meet the rugged requirements with cheerful faces. Give us the patience to serve faithfully and well; and at night loan to us sound and undisturbed sleep, that we may serve better tomorrow.

It sounds like a prayer, and it is. But not to the good God alone; it strikes the eye of the beholder. It touches a new note in his being. It gives him a new angle on the manager and the establishment over which he has charge. It puts the man on the outside of the desk, and it makes him do business quickly, generously and fairly. It is, also, a constant reminder to the manager himself that he sits there not so much to be served, as to serve. It is a text that both customer and employee can take to heart. It is in the last analysis the platform upon which that firm does business.

And it is a good prayer and a good platform for SERVICE is the keynote of modern business.

"He profits most who serves best," wrote Paul Harris, of Chicago, some seventeen years ago and men in every country the world over are at this time aligned to the thousand under the banner which bears that legend.

To be sure every business man strives to make a profit. Profit is the badge of service. Dollars are the infirmia of success. They, in this day and generation, are garnered by those who give to the public the service, the "savage emulor," the one-time slogan of the trade world, has become so obsolete that millions do not even know what it means. Everywhere industries have come to the understanding that fair play means better business, and as a general rule they are living up to the text.

The man who sits behind the manager's desk has these things constantly before him. He knows that between men, as between classes of men, anger works madness in the brain and puts poison on the tongue. He knows that bitterness of thought and action are a weak man's argument. The weapon of the avenger has no place in his life. He strives to be a constructive force in the community. He gets his me as well as a thinker. A mere desire to serve gets him nowhere. He actually must serve. Carnegie, Schwab, Edison, Wanamaker—all their names suggest action. The demand of business is to keep ahead of competition—to do something and do it first and profitably. After all, this is the only other form of service—giving the public something better than the other fellow is offering and at a smaller price, where possible.

A REGRETTABLE DEFEAT

The rejection by the House of Governor Moody's civil service measure for State employees has given rise to some belief that the Legislature has turned its back on a platform pledge of the Democratic party. That opinion is as erroneous as the defeat of the bill is regrettable. For the House vote is only another "kay" in a long series of bouts on this particular measure between the Governor and the party. Mr. Moody urged the inclusion of the civil service act in the platform and was not heeded. He promised to carry his battle for a meritorious bill from the floor of the convention to that of the House. The new gubernatorial black eye is the result of a gallant effort to carry out that pledge.

The Governor's view of the need of civil service in State employment is wiser, however, than that of either the convention or the Legislature. Civil service is not perfect, but in the routine positions of public employment it serves two useful purposes. In general, it secures a great degree of competence natural to an assured position. In particular, it obviates a frequent temptation to administrative heads to create useless and costly places for their political supporters.

In spite of the obvious merit of the measure, it is not difficult to find a logical reason for its defeat without resorting to the humorous lengths to which some members and even the Governor seem constrained to go. There are not enough State employees, even voting as one, to turn the political tide in any one man's favor, and to ascribe to an employee's lobby the defeat of the bill is to blame it on a Frankenstein of straw. As long as civil service is not in effect, the individual legislator will have some influence in securing State employment for his own constituents. And it would be odd indeed if the individual legislator did not know it.

Civil service may be dead as far as this session is concerned. But it is to be hoped that at the next opportunity the Democratic party will actually make it a platform demand and secure its adoption as a State practice.

FIVE YEARS FOR CARNES

The Georgia court that sentenced Clinton Carnes to five years imprisonment following his plea of guilty to a charge of embezzling the funds of the Southern Baptist church probably was guided by the law which limits the sentence that may be given to cases but from this distance it seems that the embezzler got away with a very mild penalty. Carnes embezzled about a million dollars that had been entrusted to him as treasurer for the mission department of the church. Every dollar of the money he had been given for a charitable purpose, and the women who felt that it was their duty to contribute were greater than if he had held it for a bank or bank in the United States. If he had robbed a bank he might have been given for it. Our laws and our courts are plainly in contempt.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and The Avalanche

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A "tariff for revenue only" is sound Democratic doctrine. It appears to be Herbert Hoover's doctrine, too—minus the word "only."

Our Republican "infant industries" swear by a "protective tariff," but most of them mean a "prohibitive" one. Mr. Hoover evidently indorses the protective principle, but stops short of prohibition—prohibition in its tariff sense—the alcoholic kind doesn't enter into this discussion.

Maybe all this goes to show that it's hard to tell whether Mr. Hoover is a Republican or a Democrat. It was dangerous to suggest such a thing a few months ago. Now that he's almost in office, what does it matter?

Anyway, every bit of news from Belle Isle (Fla.) indicates that Mr. Hoover, while no free trader, does not want to keep imports entirely out of the United States.

This being so, an awful row is ahead, between Mr. Hoover and our "infant industries," when congress meets in April to boost the tariff.

What our infant industries require may be judged from the demands of the furniture industry, a lusty infant which sells 99 1-2 per cent of all the furniture sold in America. The furniture infant craves a high enough tariff to keep out the remaining 1-2 of 1 per cent—how often that fraction is to be seen in the current literature of our country—which a few millionaires still import from overseas.

But Mr. Hoover has made it clear to Senator Smoot and others that, favorable as he is to a protective tariff, to help American industries, the objects to a prohibitive one, to give them an air-tight monopoly.

He wants a modicum of foreign goods to continue coming in, because he wants to tax them on their arrival.

To him, a tariff is a tax, and he expects to need the money. The higher the tax, the more the money—up to a certain point. But pass that point, until imports cease, and—a tax on nothing yields nothing, no matter how high.

Mr. Hoover also shows signs of concern for our foreign trade—and seems less certain than some folk that we can keep it up, with no imports.

The commerce department—Mr. Hoover is pretty familiar with it—reports that we produce one-tenth more than we consume; and doubtless Mr. Hoover believes that this surplus would be a nuisance, left on our hands, for lack of foreign markets.

A globe trotter, Mr. Hoover probably has detected a European trend toward a tariff "compromise" against us; likewise, a European trend toward getting into our back of mass production, which, plus Europe's low wages, may mean nasty competition for us.

A close observer, on his latest trip perchance Mr. Hoover noted that cotton grows wild in South America; and thought how disagreeable it would be if European spinners were to turn thither in preference to Dixie, as we have done, for cheaper rubber.

Recent scenes in some of our congressional committee rooms in Washington have suggested a resemblance between our tariff-hungry industries and the parched wail in a desert, who, stumbling on a water hole, often drink himself to death unless somebody stops him.

Apparently Mr. Hoover does not mean to let our industries burst themselves, if he can help it.

He should remember that the desert wail fights like a tiger against interference, however well intended.

FIND DANGER IN USE OF RADIO-ACTIVE MATERIAL

By DR. MORRIS FISHBINE

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The French government commission on occupational diseases has recently considered particularly the dangers of working with radium, X-ray and similar radio-active substances.

It is already well established that such substances may be associated with severe changes in the human body.

The first signs of overexposure are changes in the blood, including reduction of the large white blood cells and increase in the small white blood cells. Later there may be a permanent increase in the large white blood cells associated with enlargement of the spleen, the lymphatic glands and the bone marrow. The red blood cells diminish in number and decrease.

It is also well established that overexposure to the rays may injure the power of the human being to reproduce. Finally, the effects on the skin may include inflammation, burns and with repeated irritations, the development of malignant growths.

Thus it becomes imperative to protect the worker against repeated exposure and overexposure to radio-active substances. The complete list of substances includes radium, radium emanation, polonium, actinium, thorium, mesothorium, radiothorium, thorium X, and emanations of thorium.

The effects are produced in the human body either by absorption of the rays, through the inhalation of the emanation, and through actually taking into the human body the substances themselves.

For protection, the French superior commission on occupational diseases recommends the use of rubber gloves and of forceps for handling the material; protection of the face by means of the rays by lead plates of adequate thickness; and regular examinations of all workers, including examinations of the blood.

It is generally known that over-exposure of the eyes to ultraviolet rays sets up inflammations. New inventions in science, while of benefit to mankind, bring associated hazards which demand scientific research for their control.

WRONG KIND

Donal M'Tavish was not feeling just like himself so he went to see the doctor.

"What do you drink?"

"Whiskey," answered the old man.

"How much?" queried the doctor.

"It might be a bottle a day."

"Do you use tobacco?"

"I smoke sometimes," said Donal.

"You'll need to give up the whiskey and tobacco," announced the doctor.

At that Donal picked up his cap and walked toward the door.

"Wait a minute," called the doctor. "You haven't paid me for my advice."

"I'm not taking it," and the old man closed the door quickly.

A BITTEN END

A beautiful young girl who was crossing the Atlantic on the same steamer as Marshal Joffre, when he later came to visit America, asked the Marshal whether he had ever killed a German.

"Yes," said the Marshal.

"With what hand?"

The young girl seized the Marshal's hand, and putting it to her lips, kissed it.

"I killed two Germans," said an officer who was accompanying the Marshal.

"With what hand?" asked the young girl.

"I bit them to death."

Waiting At The Church

SO THINK WE

There are several kinds of phobias. Phobias are extreme fears which some seem to have inherited or acquired in very early childhood. There is agoraphobia or the fear of being in wide fields and open places. There are some people who can not bear to ride in a subway train or remain long in a small room with the doors closed. They have an abnormal fear of walled-in places. Some fear knives or steel that is sharp. Others have a horror of poisons. Phobias are strange and very real.

Others who do not suffer from actual phobias are like those who are afraid of walled-in places. They are timidly confined by their horizons. They dare not break through. Don't let your inheritance of fear or your early acquisitions spoil your lives.

We think that the paving on Broadway should be finished. It was well enough to park the center of this street years ago, but with the increase in traffic on this street, it is even dangerous now, when cars are passing. They run into this rough center, and some accidents have happened on account of it.

We think civil service may be all right in some respects, but there are a few drawbacks to that even. Sometime an inefficient somebody gets into a position, and is quite a handicap to the head of the department.

We think that Morris Shepard, who is author of the national prohibition act, is right in his statement that the prohibition act is a failure to repeal or modify the Eighteenth Amendment or the Volstead Act would be "rash beyond reason, and the culmination of absurdity." Prohibition is an expression of the moral sentiment of the American people—a sentiment inseparable from the progressive civilization of America. The senator however we are afraid did not stand very pat in the recent election, and some people will hold much against him for his so called "delinquencies."

We think that "highbrows" sometimes keep aloof from the common ordinary people, but we have noticed that there are some things that they all have to do. They have to eat and drink, and finally have to die, and then they have to do about the same as all the rest of us. Anyway what pleasure is there in being a highbrow anyway?

We think people put in a great deal of time trying to figure out some reason that will justify them in their wrong doings. If they would use as much energy in trying to keep out of trouble this would be a much better world in which to live.

We think the democratic party will not get credit for anything much during the next four years. There is one thing however that may be consoling, and that is they will not be in position to be blamed for anything, either.

Cot Lindbergh has been given a job, on fee pay basis, to work with the federal department of aviation. He gets pay for only the time he is in actual service of the government, and he does not have to live in Washington, which is probably the best part of the whole consideration.

We think it would not be so hard on inventors if they only had to study out their inventions, but we read somewhere not long ago, where an inventor received on an average of $37.25 per week on their inventions. This being true they have to spend a great deal more time trying to invent a scheme whereby they can live on the revenues derived from their inventions.

PRESS COMMENT

SERVING WILD GAME

William J. Tucker, game fish and a county clerk for Texas, in his year report for 1928, makes a suggestion for remedy of a defective game law that should be given attention by the legislature.

It is the game preserve law. This measure creates sections of lands in various parts of the state in which no hunting of any sort is allowed. The report shows that at present the game preserves total approximately 2,000,000 acres, scattered over 65 counties.

In the preserves the wild game is safe from the hunters' guns. State and county officers see to that. Naturally, the commissioner says, the increase of game in these preserves has been greater than in the rest of the state.

Mr. Tucker's suggestion is that the bill be remedied to allow hunting of predatory animals in the preserves. Predatory animals follow the game and prey upon it. In these preserves they have increased almost as much as the other animals. The commissioner says:

"The game preserve law, which stops hunting of every kind within the preserve, makes it a haven for these animals which not only destroy the game but do great damage to young live-stock. The law should be so amended as to meet the ends of vermin destruction."

The report deals further with the game, fish and oyster situation in Texas. In this section of Texas we are not much interested in fish, because of the scarcity of well-stocked streams, and we certainly are not much interested in oysters.

A fair increase of deer, quail and turkey in favored portions of the state has occurred since our report of a year ago, but prairie chickens cannot be said to have materially increased in any section, while the supply in the Panhandle appears to have suffered both from drought and hail storms. White wing doves in south Texas are said to be scarce under the early open season, and observers are recommending that it be set back to August 1 instead of July 1, and in this department concurs. The department bought and distributed for propagation during the past year 87 blue quail, 4,132 bob whites, 104 pheasants, 2,000 pheasant eggs and raised 183 fawns to be distributed, the report sets out.

The report shows that the department did good work during 1928. It devised new plans and made many suggestions for preserving and increasing the wild game of Texas.

COTTON IN CURRENCY

The Corn belt has been somewhat "stuffed" in spirit of late by the manufacture of paper from what have been hitherto worthless corn stalks.

But the Cotton belt is not to be left behind in the modern march of progress. It is also providing a fabric for paper and very important paper—the new United States currency will be printed on paper with an admixture of flax and cotton. The crinkly new bills of the present issue lack suppleness. They crack on the edge of a fold. The addition of 25 per cent of cotton will not only add permanence, durability and higher fiber strength but will present a finer printing surface having less grain than the all-flax paper. This is the finding of the United States Bureau of Standards following a series of tests of various grades of paper. —St. Paul Pioneer Press.

THE PHILIPPINES AGAIN

Promotion of Governor General Stimson to be secretary of state will put upon Mr. Hoover the responsibility of finding another man suitable to be the executive head of the insular government, and consideration of possibilities for the position likely will bring the whole question of Philippine future to the fore again. This is one of the disadvantages of making a change in governor generals at this time. During the closing days of the administration of the late Governor General Leonard Wood, the Philippine problem was assuming an ugly aspect. Due to the general's personal unpopularity with the native leaders, the nationalist movement was steadily acquiring strength, and an effort was getting under way to induce the United States to make a definite decision concerning disposition of the islands. The selection of Mr. Stimson to be governor general allayed the agitation for immediate action by our government. The New York man stepped into the breach and forthwith relieved the tension. His selection proved pleasing to Manuel Quezon, native senatorial leader, and to the nationalist group generally, and no sooner had the new governor general taken up his duties in Manila than he was offered the cordial cooperation of the native groups in a common effort to conduct the government efficiently. In the brief time that Governor Stimson has been in the Philippines, he has restored native confidence in American rule, and initiated measures that will promote the prosperity of the islands. It can hardly be that Mr. Hoover believed that Governor General Stimson had completed his task in the Philippines. He is still needed there. If brought into the cabinet, he will be taken away from a very important work he is doing well. Evidently, Mr. Hoover believes the governor general can be of more service at home, and desires to have the Stimson clan for diplomacy available in the larger field of the state department. It will not be an easy matter, however, to replace him in the Philippines. —Houston Post-Dispatch.

Some of the folks lined up for jobs under the new administration may be feeling a bit uneasy now that they have learned Mr. Hoover expects every office holder under him to work and work hard.—Des Moines Register.

Colonel Lindbergh, unofficial ambassador of goodwill, is doing fine work on his job. It would be difficult to over estimate what he has done and is doing to make better feeling between the United States and other nations.—Hartford Courant.

Old Ed Howe remarks in his pious way that he never waits until January 1 to make good resolutions but makes them every morning of his life, and it does seem as if the time had come when Ed might leave the lying to us younger men.—Ohio State Journal.

Superior Sells Land To Marland

Deal Includes 480 Acres Of Producing Land In Howard County Field; To Locate At San Angelo

(By Associated Press.)
SAN ANGELO, Feb. 22.—The sale of 480 oil producing acres in Howard county, West Texas, to the Marland Production company by the Superior Oil corporation was confirmed here today by E. C. Edwards, manager of the Superior Oil Producing company, the Texas subsidiary of the Superior corporation. The purchase price was not announced, but it was said several million dollars in cash would be paid.

The tract is in the northwest half of section 136 and the northwest quarter of section 137, block 29, Waaco and Northwestern railway company survey.

The Superior company through the deal, according to Edwards, also will receive from the Marland company a one-sixteenth overriding royalty in producing acreage in the Allen field of Ponton and Seminole counties, Oklahoma, heretofore owned by the Louisiana Oil and Refining company, but acquired by the Marland company through the purchase of all the Louisiana company's properties.

The state headquarters for the Superior company will be established in San Angelo, Edwards said.

Green Ordered To Probe "Dead Line"

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 22. (AP)—President William F. Green, of the American Federation of Labor, was authorized today by the executive council of the association to begin soon an investigation in states where a "40 to 45 year dead line" on various employers was alleged to be used. The council also went on record as being opposed to any increase of quotas of immigrants from any country, and through its president announced that communism held no "serious threat" for organized labor in the United States. Council members were quoted as expressing belief that some employers are using the deadline and discriminating against married men with dependents in order that costs of liability awards insurance may be cut down.

Byrd's Claims To Call For Ruling

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. (AP)—Commander Richard Byrd's antarctic discoveries may lead to creation of an international arbitration commission to settle the question of how far ownership is established for a nation by the setting up of its flag in uninhabited country. This was indicated today after announcement that Commander Byrd Monday claimed a vast new territory in the Antarctic for the United States. State department records left the question hazy as international law cited was to the effect that discovery such as Commander Byrd's establishes a claim for his nation but not a permanent right.

Light Supply In Cattle Received

FORT WORTH, Feb. 22. (P)—An unusually light supply of livestock yarded in all divisions of the trade here today. More than 300 head of hogs were on direct billing to local packers and quality was generally lacking in the rail division of the hog market.

All classes of cattle sold about steady. Except for steers, trade was limited mostly to package lots. About half a dozen loads of slaughter steers arrived. During the morning session, four loads of common light weight steers sold at 8.85 to 9.20, with two loads of good to choice fed steers receiving a bid of 10.85. Values about steady.

No trading in bulls except a few odd head that arrived as part of mixed loads and they sold at unchanged values. Slaughter yearlings steady with one load at 10.90, while part loads sold at 10.00 and 10.50. The common kind sold around 7.50.

No trade of cows changed hands and all classes went to the scales about in line with yesterday's trading. Canners and cutters sold at 5.50 to 6.00, while a few cows sold up to 8.00.

Except for two loads of fair kind of calves that sold at 10.25 and 10.50 sales limited to packages. Cull calves sold mostly around 7.00. Values steady to strong.

No stocker cattle of any consequence included in the day's receipts. Quality considered, hogs here today considered a quarter higher with no good hogs in the rail division. Some medium grades sold at 10.00 and 10.10 in the rail section while the truck top was 10.10. The bulk of the 175-250 pound butchers sold at 9.50 to 10.00. A few packing sows sold around 8.75 and light weight butchers at 8.00 to 8.50.

Sheep steady with two decks of fall shorn feeder lambs at 13.00.

Oil Notes

FORT STOCKTON, Feb. 22. (P)—The McCarty Oil corporation's No. 1, Gray, which came in as a small producer on Feb. 15, was deepened two feet to 1,167 yesterday and made an initial flow of 20 barrels in 30 minutes, or an estimated 960 barrels daily.

The well was shut down until storage can be provided. It is near the west line of section 591, G. C. & S. F. Ry., survey.

LUBBOCK BUSINESS MAN ENDORSES ORGATONE

"I'm Grateful For The Health And Happiness It Has Brought To My Home"

"I'm one of the happiest men in Texas today and I just want to tell my friends what Orgatone has done for my wife," said Mr. J. T. South of 1613 Sixteenth St., Lubbock, Texas, who owns and operates the J. T. South Gin company.

"She has suffered for the past fifteen years," he continued, "with stomach trouble and indigestion that we had almost given up hope. She had very little appetite and what food she did eat would stay in her stomach and make gas and misery for her. Her nerves went all to pieces, and she got weak and run-down and would have to lie down and rest during the day while trying to do her housework. She was very restless and could hardly sleep, lost weight and felt despondent and down hearted all the time. Her liver was in a bad condition and she never found any kind of medicine that would give her much relief until we found Orgatone."

"She is getting wonderful results and we both think Orgatone is the best medicine in the world. Her stomach trouble and indigestion is a thing of the past now and she has such a big appetite that she can hardly get enough to eat. She sleeps good every night and is enjoying life better than she has in a long time. I'm certainly grateful for the happiness Orgatone has brought to my home by restoring my wife's health. I honestly believe it will help anybody."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other base stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowen's Drug Store under the personal direction of the special Orgatone representative.

CLEVER, THESE RETRIEVERS

GALVESTON, Feb. 22. (P)—Gulf coast residents are looking forward to strawberry season. Farmers on the mainland have 250 or more acres in berries which should begin bearing within a few weeks. Some growers in the past have realized $500 to $1,000 an acre from the crop.

LUFKIN. (P)—Officials here say Lufkin will have the distinction of having more miles of paving than any city its size in the southwest as a result of a $300,000 bond issue. More than $900,000 has been spent for paving during the past eight years.

Northampton Is Puzzled As What To Do When Coolidges Return To Old Home; Preparations For Homecoming Celebration Are Started

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Avalanche

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 22.—Just how does a small town welcome a retiring president of the United States?

With a brass band at the railway station, a speech or two and a parade down the main street? Or with a mass meeting in town hall, followed by a 50-cent supper and a reception open to everybody? Who should be invited? Who shouldn't be?

Or should nothing be done at all since the step from the highest office in the land to comparative oblivion is, indeed, a tragic one? Perhaps an ex-president likes to be let alone.

It puzzles Northampton. Northampton, home town of President Coolidge, soon to be an "ex," would like to know. And Northampton, feeling the eyes of a nation upon it, lies nervously awake at night trying to find a way out of its problem.

There is no small town precedent for Northampton to follow. Not in recent presidential history, anyway. President McKinley died in office. President Roosevelt was a New Yorker when not a big game hunter. President Taft did not return at all to his home in Cincinnati but became a professor at Yale. President Wilson remained in Washington. And President Harding died before his term had ended.

With February's brief days flitting by and March 4 looming ahead, Northampton turned to Mayor Jesse A. G. Andre to see whether he could do something about this Coolidge homecoming business.

Salvi's Concert Pleases Lubbock

World's Premier Harpist Gives Pleasing Program At Tech Gymnasium Last Night

Alberto Salvi, premier harpist of the world, enjoys playing for those who love music and last night he played from his heart for an audience of music lovers in the gymnasium of the Technological college. To these numbers there was hearty applause which called for encores after each group and brought the artist to the stage repeatedly at the close of the program.

Assisting the harpist was Edna Swanson Ver Haar, contralto, who sang two groups of selections. She was ably accompanied by Iona Burrows.

From his first number, Salvi won his audience, which was made up of students and faculty people of the Tech and people of the town. The selections played last evening were familiar classics with interpretations by Salvi and he played several of his own compositions. Encores were popular airs.

KARNES CITY.—(P)—A new club house will be ready for the South Texas Golf Association semi-annual tournament here April 21. Work has been started on the building by the Karnes City Country Club. The new golf course also is being put into shape.

FORT WORTH.—(P)—One hundred bucking broncos and 150 steers for the rodeo, a brilliant automobile exhibit, and one of the largest poultry, livestock and agricultural displays ever presented here is promised by the management of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, March 9-16.

BEAUMONT.—(P)—John A. Wilson and his sister, Mrs. Willie Sims of Newman, Ga., have been reunited here after a separation of 38 years. Wilson left his parental roof to attend the Chicago World Fair and then came west, finally settling at Beaumont. This sister recently learned of his whereabouts and came here for an extended visit.

pointed a member of the United States supreme court," he said. Mr. Coolidge's first job, however after retiring from the presidency, will be something else. He will have to act as temporary curator of the Coolidge museum, the vast amount of knick-knacks and what-note collected by the family during five and one-half years in the White House.

Already, 150 tightly packed boxes have arrived from Washington, and there are more on the way. And he may be a president again—president of Amherst college.

University Man To Make Texas Survey

Dr. C. A. Wiley To Study Rural Standards Of Living, Educational And Financial Conditions

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Rural standards of living, educational and financial conditions in Texas will be surveyed this spring by Dr. C. A. Wiley, associate professor of economics at the University of Texas, who is on leave of absence for agricultural economics research work.

Dr. Wiley will study the ownership of land, the trend toward the rental system, disappearance of white renters in parts of Texas, the percentage of Mexican tenants and their gradual migration toward the northern, eastern and western sections of the state.

Crops and their adaptability to the sections in which they are found also will come under the surveillance of Dr. Wiley. He will visit the Lower Rio Grande Valley, a region around Austin, the central black land belt, the East Texas pine woods, North Texas and the south Plains of west Texas.

When Herbert Hoover takes office as president of the United States, he will succeed a goodly company who found their greatest relaxation in the woods or, with rod in hand, along a running stream. From Washington to Coolidge more than 75 per cent of the presidents have been fishermen or hunters.

Washington was the ideal outdoor man of his time, his days, outside of his official duties, having been spent with rod and gun, even when he was engaged in managing his estate at Mount Vernon. As he rode over the property, he was always accompanied by a favorite hound, a gun in a saddle-bag and a fervent hope that a chance for a shot would come his way.

Elaborate Affairs
He gave fishing parties for his friends and neighbors along the Potomac that were elaborate affairs, even in his generation. Servants baited hooks while cavaliers tried their luck, and admiring ladies served tea or some alcoholic substitute.

Thomas Jefferson's Scotch father, Peter, died while his son was still a boy, but he had taught him "that it was the strong in body who are both the strong and free in mind" words that were the favorite text of the son during his brilliant career. When the father died, the son was only 14 years old, but he had already taught him "to sit his horse, to fire his gun, to whip a stream and to boldly stem the rapids when the stream was swollen and roaring after a recent storm, to press his way with unflinching foot through the rocky summits of the contiguous hills in pursuit of deer and wild turkey.

Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Jackson, Grover Cleveland, and other presidents who served their country in various crises were addicts of the rod and reel as well as mighty hunters. Lincoln loved to get away from the grocery store gatherings on summer evenings while his mind was in the making, and whip the Sangamon as he read his law books. His speed as a runner was so great that he could follow and run down wild turkeys, and then "dance a jig while they were being cooked."

Cleveland was the first of the presidents, however, who broke official and ponderous precedents in order to get out into the open and "find refreshment for his soul." Hoover told the reporters after his nomination that he was going to make a fishing trip for his "soul's sake." Many claim to see remarkable resemblances between the two men in their methods of approaching a fishing trip, and their personal care of their tackle, but in this characteristic they only resemble every other fisherman worth the name.

Cleveland's Advice
"If you want to catch fish, attend strictly to business" was the Cleveland advice to Joseph Jefferson, the actor, when the latter admonished him for remaining out in a boat on a particularly hot day. One of the party to relate the incident, also told how the great actor turned to him and dismissed the Cleveland answer by saying: "It's lucky for us that you and I can do something besides fish."

"So all this time I am wondering whether the blue fish will be about and biting." This was Cleveland's answer to a letter from a friend who warned him in 1891 of the formation of an anti-Cleveland campaign.

Cleveland believed in limiting his catch of fish to enough for reasonable use, and he killed his fish as soon as they were caught. He made it a point to dry his fishing lines after each day's sport and never left such details to anyone. When he was going from the White House on a fishing or hunting trip he never took the newspaper men into his confidence. He simply put on appropriate clothes, hired him to the railroad station or to the yacht of his friend, Commodore Benedict.

HERBERT HOOVER FISHING

Colbert Ranch Is Known In Mexico

(Special to the Avalanche)

HASKELL, Feb. 22.—The Colbert Ranch in Haskell is a sort of institution to more people than those living in the immediate vicinity. Its fame has reached down into the interior of Old Mexico. This became known when Rudolph Colbert, one of the owners of the ranch sold ten head of his best young white face Hereford bulls to M. Vizcaya, a merchant of Laredo to be sent to his ranch in the southern nation.

Mr. Colbert stated that the price for the bulls was very satisfactory although he did not mention definitely the price paid. His stock has won blue ribbons and other prizes at a great number of shows and exhibitions.

M. Sierra stated that he was well pleased with the animals and that the purchase of them was in accordance with his plan to improve and increase his herd. The far-famed Colbert ranch, he said, was larger and better equipped than he had expected.

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 22.—(AP)—A hospital to cost in the neighborhood of $600,000 is to be constructed here by Sisters of the Immaculate Word, a Catholic organization. It is expected work will be under way by March 1. Ground has already been acquired.

HE WAS LIFELESS AND DESPONDENT

But ALL-BRAN made him wide-awake and well—doctor prescribed it

CONSTIPATION ruins hopes, saps strength. Yet thousands of sufferers have found the way to relieve and prevent their disease. Read how this man rid his system of constipation.

"During the three years before ALL-BRAN cured me, I experienced more embarrassing moments than I care to tell of. Being lifeless, dull, lazy and despondent, I could not keep my job. My friends didn't want my company and I was tired of being asked 'What in the world is the matter with you?'"

"After spending much money for treatment, I finally found a doctor who advised me to eat ALL-BRAN three times a day. I did this for three months and I didn't need to be told that I looked better. . . . I felt better and actually . . . I could do my work now. . . . I still eat ALL-BRAN every morning and have no trouble now whatsoever." (Name and address upon request.)

Guard against constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to prevent it—to relieve it. Just eat two table-spoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Far better than habit-forming drugs and pills.

ALL-BRAN is 100% effective. Doctors recommend it because it promotes natural elimination. Serve it with milk or cream. Use it in cooking—muffins, bread, etc. Delicious recipes on the package. Grocers sell it. Restaurants, hotels, dining-rooms service it. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.
