FAILURE STALKS FARM RELIEF BILL

LITTLE HOPE HELD OUT AS SOLONS FUSS

GARNER, TEXAS, WON'T ACCEDE TO PLANS OF COMMITTEE

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The latest move of the Farm Relief Conference committee to settle the export debenture controversy between the House and Senate appeared today to be on the verge of failure.

This was indicated when Representative Garner of Texas, democratic leader, announced he had decided against moving to recommit the tariff bill to the ways and means committee with instructions to include the debenture plan.

Senate Sought Action

Senate conferees had sought this action by Garner in the hope it would satisfy the Senate's demand that the house vote on the debenture proposition before it be asked to recede from its position favoring it.

A number of senators have insisted the house be permitted to express itself on the debenture plan as a part of farm legislation.

The democratic house leader said he would have no objections to offering the debenture section as an amendment to the tariff bill, but since the republican majority was expected to limit amendments, one opposing debentures was considered unlikely to be authorized.

Demos Air Views

Democratic leaders in the house have taken the view that inasmuch as they probably will have only one opportunity to recommit the tariff measure, the motion for recommittal should be based upon a proposal on which they could muster a maximum of support.

The scehduled meeting of the farm relief conference committee was postponed today until tomorrow to give house conferees the opportunity of attending a republican tariff caucus.

STUDENTS IN BIBLE DRILL ARE WORKING

ENROLLMENTS KEEP ON INCREASING IN TRIO OF SCHOOLS HERE

While there is an expected interest in crafts, children in the Daily Vacation Bible schools, which are in progress in four churches of the city, are manifesting an unusual interest in the Bible drills and studies this year, directors of the school reported this morning.

Schools are being planned for next year in the churches and the Cumberland Presbyterians, who are having their initial school this year, are particularly enthusiastic concerning the work.

Attendance Growing

Attendance is growing in every school. Two hundred and sixty-seven were enrolled today in the First Baptist school, the First Methodist school enrollment climbed to 305, the First Presbyterian enrollment today was 123 and the Cumberland enrollment was 105.

Additional workers are being drafted and many of the classes are being divided because they have grown during the week.

A faculty of about 40 is teaching in the Methodist church, the Presbyterian school has 20 helpers, 27 are working in the Baptist school and there are six helpers at the Cumberland school.

Regular programs are carried out daily. Following drills, classes in Bible, song training and other features, the last hour of the school is devoted to crafts. Children in the Presbyterian group are fashioning cabinets and other articles which will be used in the educational annex to the church, which is now under construction.

A picnic has been planned for Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock for the Methodist children. The group is to meet at the church and go from there to the County Park.

A better response is shown in the schools this year than during the previous summers, directors say.

CHILD FACES MURDER JURY IN KENTUCKY

SIX-YEAR-OLD SLEW PLAYMATE; LAUGHS IN COURT

(By Associated Press)

PAINTSVILLE, Ky., May 23.—With several of his playmates around his chair, Carl Newton Mahan, 6½ years old, went on trial today for the murder of his eight-year-old playmate, Cecil Van Hoose. Laughing with his little friends, he apparently did not realize he was being tried on a serious charge.

According to Carl's story of the shooting, it was a case of the big boy who took something away from the little boy. The two were seeking scrap iron to sell, and Carl had found the prize piece of the hunt. Cecil, Carl said, tried to take it away from him, and succeeded, being stronger.

Got Dad's Shotgun

The younger boy is then said to have gone into the house, got his father's shotgun and killed his playmate. How the boy, who is the size of an average six year old boy, ever held the heavy gun is unknown. The charge struck Cecil in the head.

Carl is the son of John Mahan, taxicab driver. The slain boy's father is a railroad fireman.

The slain boy's father has employed counsel to aid the state and Mahan also has employed counsel to defend his son.

SPUR, May 23 (Special)—The Spur country has long been noted for its production of grain sorghums, and other crops well adapted to the South Plains, but in recent years much of this section is being planted to alfalfa.

This year will mark a new era in the general farming in Dickens county, as many farmers are doubling their acreage in alfalfa. One farm near Spur that has a well balanced program being worked out on it has proved that alfalfa is one of the most important crops. The yield on an eight acre plot was 1250 bales of high quality hay. The money received for the hay from this plot of eight acres was in excess of $1,000. The largest acreage to be found on any one farm is the 150 acre field on the W. T. Wilson farm east of Spur.

PASS 96TH HOUR

FORT WORTH, May 23 (AP)—Reginald L. Robbins and James Kelly in the monoplane "Fort Worth" passed the 96-hour mark in their attempt to set a new world's endurance record at 11:33 a. m., today.

"The motor and ship are in good shape. We are a little tired but don't let is bother us." Robbins wrote in a note which was dropped.

(By Associated Press)

FORT TWORTH, Tex., May 23.—Two civilian fliers who had kept their rebuilt Ryan monoplane in the air more than half a week gave no indication of a breakdown in nerve or the mechanism of their single motored ship as they soared dauntlessly toward their goal today.

The goal if attained will find them still flying at nightfall Saturday evening with a new record written on the cockpit of the Fort Worth, the craft in which they took off at 11:33 a. m. last Sunda yin an attempt to surpass the sustained flight time made by the army monoplane Question Mark.

Would Go Hour Longer

If the Fort Worth is still aloft at 6:13:15 p. m. Saturday the Question Mark's record of 150 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds will have been equaled. An additional hour would set a new record.

The Fort Worth piloted by R. L. Robbins with James Kelley as assistant, made its eight refueling contact at dusk last evening at which time parachutes were lowered to the fliers from the auxiliary ship manned by K. K. Hoffman and H. S. Jones.

The plane had consumed close to one thousand gallons of gasoline today. Ground observers estimated the speed of the ship at between 60 and 70 miles an hour.

Money Being Raised

The Fort Worth Association of Commerce is raising $15,000 to be presented the fliers if they break the record. Tentative plans are to give Robbins and Kelly $5,500 each and $2,500 each to Hoffman and Jones.

The endurance ship had been aloft 82 hours at 3:33 a. m.

"Once I was worried—mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy, I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

Rich, red blood builds sturdy health

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

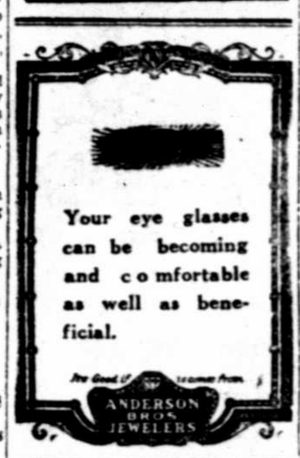

S.S.S. is daily helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It helps Nature build red-blood-cells. It gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

THE RESERVES SAVE THE DAY

It was that reserve force of men that saved the day so wany times during the world war. When the hour would come that all seemed lost, when the last ounce of energy of those in action had been consumed, then came the call for the reserves.

The idea of a reserve of energy for emergencies is what makes possible the service given by the Texas Utilities. Connected with every part of the city, and so arranged that the whole city can draw power at the same time, it is necessary to develop an enormous reserve power.

SEEK CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—The legislative machinery of both Senate and House was tuned today to push the bills before them toward a vote, but the committees which represent them in their disagreement over farm relief were still deadlocked on the export debenture question.

The House was called to meet an hour later than usual—at 1 p. m.—to give the republican majority three hours to confer on a special rule to govern the offering of amendments to the tariff bill. Republican leaders were confident objections raised in their ranks to various schedules in the bill had been satisfied sufficiently to enable the majority to get together on a rule shut off general debate.

Would Set Time

The special rule favored by some of the republican leaders would fix a time for a vote on the bill and limit the ofering of amendments to members of the ways and means committee. The republican members of that committee met last night to give further consideration to amendments desired by dissatisfied groups.

One group comprising fifty members from seventeen states agreed yesterday to support the proposed increase in the duty on Cuban sugar to 2.40 cents a pound. Suggestions for substitution of a sliding scale of rates, which have been described as having the support of President Hoover, were opposed by this group, and its spokesman, Representative Cramton, republican, Michigan, indicated it would oppose opening of the sugar schedule to amendment on the floor.

Attack Is Heard

Considerable interest also attached to the move to have the administration section of the bill kept open for general consideration of amendments, in view of the attack made on it yesterday by Representative Beck, republican, Pennsylvania. He charged the proposed extension of Presidential authority under the flexible provisions of the bill would transfer excessive taxing power of the executive and consititute an "utterly indefensible change in the character of our government."

The Senate was under agreement to limit debate on the census-reapportionment bill after 3 p. m., today, making a vote before adjournment possible. The measure provides for the 1930 census and compliance with the constitutional requirement for reapportionment of the House membership in accordance with each decennial enumeration.

Farm Bill Stands

The farm bill conferees, meanwhile, continued optimistic though still at odds. The House group has insisted the export debenture proposal be eliminated from the Senate bill before other differences between that measure and the one passed by the House are discussed. The Senate spokesmen, on the other hand, have urged that the House vote on the debenture plan, either directly as a farm bill conferences issue or indirectly as a tariff proposal, so that, if defeated, they could ask the Senate to eliminate it from the bill without the danger of another prolonged debate on the question.

The Senate elections sub-committee which has had under consideration the contest of William B. Wilson, former democratic Secretary of Labor, for the seat of William S. Vare, republican, Pennsylvania, was called today to hear the final arguments. The Senate has not yet accepted Vare into its membership.

Representative Beck, republican, Pennsylvania, attacked proposal to extend powers of executive in flexible tariff administration.

REPORTERS ARE TOPIC

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP).—The senate today stood divided not only on the long standing issue over consideration of presidential nominations in executive session but on the question of newspaper correspondents' privileges in the reporting of its proceedings.

The question was raised late yesterday during argument over the unanimous decision of the rules committee to bar United Press correspondents from access to the senate floor. That action was taken by the committe because of the publication Tuesday by the United Press of what purported to be the senate roll call on the nomination of former Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, to the court of customs and paent appeals, which was taken in executive session and has been described by senators as inaccurate.

Two Issue Protest

Senators LaFollette of Wisconsin and Johnson of California, republicans, protested against the action. The former, contending the action was discrimination, held the committee had no right either to give or withdraw the privilege of access to the floor to any correspondent and announced he would object to the appearance of any newspaper man on the floor.

He put his purpose into effect soon afterward, objecting as soon as he saw a correspondent on the floor and being sustained by Vice President Curtis, a former chairman of the committee. The vice president announced that, since the rules did not permit newspaper men on the floor during sessions of the senate, their presence would not be allowed.

Press associations have been allowed for more than 20 years to have one representative each on the floor during open sessions of the as a matter of courtesy.

LARGER AND ATTRACTIVE HATS ARE FEATURED

BY JEAN PATOU
For NEA Service

PARIS, May 23—It was inevitable that the vogue of the fluffy, feminine type of dress would lead to the return of the larger hat.

In the same way, the infinite variety to be seen now of both color and fabric combinations in dresses meant that the same contrast would be seen in millinery, the relation of a hat to a dress being such a close one in modern fashions.

It is only natural, therefore that all these new elements should be found in my present millinery styles. If, as far as color combinations in a hat store are concerned, one is obliged to observe certain set rulings, I believe that so far as fabric combinations go, the greatest contrasts can be risked with success. Besides, thais is a totally new idea and anything new is attractive to a creator, often yielding quite unexpected results.

Uses Organdie With Felt

I think that among the newest ideas in hats is the alliance of organdie with felt. The few models I have offered my clientele have been received with favor. Among them is a pink organdie floppy shape with a brim of brown felt that is very becoming to many faces, as the alliance of the slightly heavier felt lends an altogether new look to this type of hat.

Intricate work is the hall-mark of the creative modiste as well as the couturier. Incrustations are therefore to be found in every conceivable design and the latest idea is the incrustation of two or three different colored felts in a straw shape.

This combining of the modern supple straws with a heavier medium seems to make the new hats look softer and imparts to them a particular air of softness and certain very new "movements."

The new sports hats are subject to these same influences, but contrasts in color as well as in fabric are less striking and unusual. I believe that in this department the only successful combination possible is the use of paillasson with felt. Paillasson braiding has the advantage of possessing the same decorative element as ribbon, with this difference, that its place is not determined as with ribbon trimming.

I am all in favor of the large, wide-brimmed hat, hiding quite a lot of the wearer's face, but for sports wear I sponsor the contrary style the brim right off the face. This gives the wearer just that air of jauntiness that goes with a sports ensemble, whereas the soft, floppy-brimmed-hat accords with the long, supple, flowing lines of dress.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

The doctor had a nasty job the other night, he said. He had to go and tell a man he had a cancer and couldn't live very long.

It was a tough assignment for the doctor, but tougher for the patient. How would one feel, I wonder, if one was told, out of a clear sky, that one had but a few months more to live? And yet it is surprising how courageous folks are under such circumstances. One gets to thinking human nature pretty scummy at times, but just let any great crisis come and, generally speaking, the most hopeless specimens rise to the occasion with astonishing grit. We moan a lot about our little woes but when tragedy comes we are quite apt to take the blow standing and our heads "bloody and unbowed." It's distinctly encouraging and thrilling, isn't it?

* * *

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a girl of 25 and go with a boy of 23. I met him four years ago and have been going with him three years until a year ago when he quit coming to see me regularly. He just comes on Sundays. I love him more than life and can't stand the idea of giving him up. I would die for him. I have tried to forget him, but it is impossible. I have a high temper and we argue a great deal. He said that is the only thing that keeps us from marrying. Do you think he will come back like he used to? Do you think me being older makes any difference?

"LONESOME MARIE."

I have no doubt you would gladly die for your sweetheart, Marie, but how about controlling that high temper? The young man shows unusually good sense in realizing that a woman who loses her temper and argues about everything in the courting days is not likely to make a very sweet tempered wife. I have no doubt that if you tried to control your temper and stopped arguing you would win him. Why not try it? Even if you did not marry this boy you would always be made unhappy by a temper like yours. The difference in age is of no account.

* * *

LUMAOR: I can't tell you how to win the boy except by being friendly when you see him. For your overweight, get a reliable, scientific diet that tells you all the things you should eat for growth and proper body functioning, and also the things you can cut from your menu, i. e., too much cake and candy. If you want to send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ten cents I will see that you get one. Or go to your library for a book on the subject.

* * *

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a boy 23 and am going with a girl 17 years old. Her folks don't want her to go with me. What am I to do? They say she is too young to go with me to dances or write to me.

"MISERY."

Wait until she gets a little older, Misery, and in the meantime try to show them by your actions, that you are to be trusted.

* * *

NEOMI: Don't tell the boy that you love him. He probably enjoys your society better in a crowd, at present. Be a jolly friend and he may like you so well in time that he will ask you for a date all by yourselves.

* * *

PMHA: You are old enough to leave home and live your own life, and if your mother is as unreasonable as you say I would do it. You can be just as good away from home as there, and would lead a more normal life.

* * *

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I have been married since December. I am 16 and my husband 23. I dearly love him and he loves me. He is very jealous. He really has cause as I am always giving him cause. He gives me no reason to be jealous of him, although I am very jealous of him. When he even mentions any other girl's name I get jealous. The girl he went with before me is constantly worrying me. He never mentions her and says she never enters his mind. Dear Virginia Lee, please tell me why I am so jealous of him?

"JEALOUS BRIDE."

Part of it is because you are so newly married, dear, so don't let it worry you too much. You'll get over it as you are married longer. And just remembering that real love is self-sacrificing and thinking of making the loved one happy instead of miserable, will help you to overcome it. And, as you value your husband's love and your own happiness don't give him cause for jealousy.

KING VIDOR

ELEANOR BOARDMAN

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—The naces of Eleanor Boardman, motion picture actress, and King Vidor, her husband and a director, were added today to the growing list of Hollywood personages accused by the government of evading their income tax obligations.

A federal grand jury yesterday returned an indictment against the actress charging her with evading income tax payments during 1925, 1926 and 1927. At the same time an information was filed in federal court accusing Vidor of similar evasions in 1925 and 1926.

Miss J. Marjorie Berger, Hollywood income tax counsellor, previously had been indicted on a charge of having prepared false income tax return for Miss Boardman and Vidor for the year 1926.

Less than two weeks ago Tom Mis was indicted, while a short time before names of eleven others, most of them prominent on the screen, were listed in charges of fraud filed against Miss Berger and another income tax expert.

FEDERAL OIL SAVING PLAN IS DISCUSSED

LEADERS IN INDUSTRY PLAN ADDITIONAL CONFERENCES

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The Federal Oil Conservation board and officials of the American Petroleum institute held an informal meeting today to discuss the possibility of solving the problem of waste and over-production in the oil industry by means of an interstate compact limiting drilling but it was announced later no conclusions had been drawn.

Secretary Wilbur said the meeting had been called to discuss phases of the proposed interstate compact which he hopes will grow out of a meeting of the Governors of western oil producing states to be held at Colorado Springs on June 10.

Solution Is Sought

Mr. Wilbur declared the meeting at Colorado Springs would be an effort to bring together the legislative groups of the affected states to receive and discuss suggestions and plans of practical oil operators to see if there was a solution of over production in an interstate compact.

Among those attending the meeting were secretaries Adams, Good, and Lamont, E. B. Reeser, Tulia, president of the Petroleum institute, and R. C. Holmes, chairman of the General committee of the Petroleum institute for the conservation of oil, and other leaders of the oil industry.

Hull and two companions were returning to Detroit from Wyandotte when they drew near an automobile parked beside the road. A shot was fired from the parked automobile, entering Hull's head. The parked automobile then dashed off.

With Hull in the automobile were William Garhart, 24, of Detroit, and Harold Woods, 27, of Ferndale.

DOG LICENSES, MARRIAGE LICENSES AND SUNDAY BLUE LAWS IN THIS TANGLE

(By Associated Press)

FRANKFORT, Ky., May 23.—A rural romance that didn't end happily has given the Kentucky Court of Appeals something to work on. The case is up before the learned justices on several angles, which have to do with breach of promise, dog licenses and Sabbath observance.

The best an ordinary layman can get out of the mess of briefs, petitions, etc., is this:

Miss Kenova Damron and Wayne Hall, of Flemingsburg, were engaged to be married Sunday Feb. 17, 1929. Hall didn't show up for the wedding. Miss Damron felt injured to the extent of $11,750 and sued for it.

Hall says he doesn't owe her anything. He says a relative of Miss Damron was delegated to buy the license and bought a dog license instead of a marriage license, showing it around to other relatives and friends of the girl, thereby exposing him to great ridicule.

Moreover, he said, Sunday is a legal holiday on which no business can be transacted legally and he can't see that he ought to be penalized for breaking the law in that respect.

(By Associated Press)

TEXARKANA, Ark., May 23.—Four men who robbed the Miller County Bank and Trust company of $8,000 in cash and $21,700 in nonnegotiable securities yesterday still were at large today.

Despite reports that the robbers had fled toward Fouke, Ark., posses failed to find any trace of them. They and their green automobile apparently had vanished.

In the bank only five minutes, three robbers herded three customers and five bank officials into the vault, filled a sack with money and securities and fled in a waiting car, where a fourth man had been stationed.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23 (AP).—Thirty-four persons including a police judge, a police captain and five sergeants and patrolmen, were indicted by a federal grand jury here last night on charges of complicity in an alleged liquor and graft ring.

Among those indicated last night were Police Judge Edward J. Silver, Police Captain Thorvald Brown, five other policemen and John Filipelli, bail bond broker and asserted "brains" of a widespread payoff ring, and his partner, G. B. Ratto. Also implicated was John H. Claasen, Jr., proprietor of a San Francisco brewery.

WORKERS HOPE FOR SUNSHINE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 23 (AP).—Another 36 hours of dry weather was hoped for today by workers fighting to keep the Mississippi river and its tributaries within their banks.

At Hickman, Ky., and Hounds Landing Miss., where the river has threatened to break through levees and at Kennett, Mo., where the St. Francis did break through and flooded approximately 25,000 acres, bulwarks had been strengthened today sufficiently to withstand another onslaught of the high waters.

Rivers in Arkansas, including teh Red, White, Arkansas and the lower St. Francis, today also offered a more hopeful outlook.

Bank Is Closed

PINE BLUFF, Ark., May 23 (AP)—The Peoples Bank and Trust company of this city, robbed of approximately $20,000 on April 22, was closed today and taken over by the state banking department. Eleven persons, including Ralph R. Reed, city attorney, are under charges in connection with the robbery.

WACO PLAYS WELL IN PINCHES; SPUDDERS LOSE TO SHIPPERS

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Derrill Pratt of the scrapping Waco Cubs was privileged to report to his employers today that the enemy had been encountered and knocked kicking.

Reeling from a succession of thumpings received on their first northern invasion, the league leaders dug their cleats into the turf of Katy Park yesterday and repulsed the bold, bad Dallas Steers, 3 to 2 in the first game of their so-called crucial series.

Play Well in Pinch

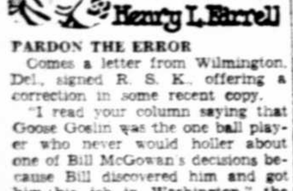

Somehow or other, the Cublets seem to do their best work under pressure. They have played plenty of indifferent ball since the season opened, sufficient to cause the wolves to announce their official collapse several times, but they invariably have produced a punch when it was needed. In race track parlance, they have "bottom."

Lefty Stein, a juvenile moundsman, and Boss Pratt, hims-if, combined their forces to give the ambitious Mavericks a setback yesterday, their second in their last 10 starts. Stein held the Steer marksmen to five raps and his foreman inserted himself as a pinch batter in the ninth to single across the winning run. Between them, they enabled the Cubs to retain their two-game margin over the sky-rocketing Shreveport Sports, who trimmed the San Antonio Indians 9 to 2, in the opener at Shreveport.

Buffs Lose Again

The Houston Buffs extended their losing streak to eight straight when Rufus Meadows set them down with three hits and beat them, 6 to 1, in the inaugural at Fort Worth. The Dixie champions apparently are sunk unless succor is forthcoming shortly from the Cardinals.

Manager Robertson's Exporters finally found a club they could whip and broke their losing streak at the expense of four Wichita Falls flingers, 11 to 8. After Smith had been battered all over the lot in the early innings, Grimm, cut loose by Dallas two days ago, went in and held the Oilers while the Shippers clubbed their way to victory in the late afternoon.

PARDON THE ERROR

Comes a letter from Wilmington, Del., signed R. S. K., offering a correction in some recent copy.

"I read your column saying that Goose Goslin was the one ball player who never would holler about one of Bill McGowan's decisions because Bill discovered him and got him 'his job in Washington,'" the letter reads.

"It's true that Bill did discover him and got him his job in the big leagues, but it is not true that the Goose never squawked at him. Bill is the kind of a guy who wouldn't rap anybody, even for what Goslin did to him in Philadelphia.

"A lot of Bill's friends here in Wilmington arranged a day for him in Philadelphia last year. We picked a day when Washington was playing the A's because all the fans around here knew Goslin. We gave Bill some presents and, as is usually the case, he proceeded to have a tough day. He had a lot of close decisions and they were all yelling.

BOOSE GOT HARD

"He called a third strike on the Goose the first time he was up and Goslin roared all over the place. He called him out the second time he was up when the Goose looked at one that split the plate and Goslin created a demonstration. He made a lot of motions at Bill with his hands on his nose and we all thought he was trying purposely to make a sap out of McGowan. Bill had to threaten to throw him out of the game before he stopped him. Everyone of us from Wilmington who saw the game thought Goslin could have picked a better spot to do his hard stuff and we haven't forgotten it down here."

* * *

HE AIN'T NO CLOWN

One of the Boston newspaper boys was talking recently to Rogers Hornsby and he put a question to him.

It has been said that you are not a colorful ball player. How about it?" he asked the player.

"Well, maybe I'm not a colorful player," he answered. "If you count gymnastics and a flaring temper as being colorful. I'm in baseball as a business and burning yourself out with a lot of foolish antics isn't good business or good baseball. I'm satisfied to make base hits and field my position and leave the clowning to those who like that sort of thing."

* * *

A WISE CRACK FROM BABE

There was a small riot during a recent ball game between the Cleveland Indians and the Philadelphia Athletics, during which Umpire Ormsby was crowned with a bottle.

GREAT FIGHT MARKS CLASH OF BANTAMS

CROWD CHEERS LOSING SLUGGER; DRAW IS CRITIC'S VIEW

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLISEUM, NEW YORK May 23 (AP)—Smiling "Keed" Chocolate, the battling bon-bon of the bantamweights, waged a furious struggle last night to stamp himself as the outstanding gladiator of a championless division, but failed to convince entirely a crowd of 18,000 jammed in Jess McMahon's big boxing barn that he is master of Fidel La Barba.

La Barba, Los Angeles, former flyweight champion and student at Stanford university, lost the decision to the dazzling Kid after a belting fest that swirled and eddied to rising volleys of cheers through the coliseum ring for ten hectic rounds. When the battle was over, and the colorful Chocolate's record of 147 battles without defeat still was unbroken, the cheers still were for the courageous, rushing slugger from the Pacific Coast.

Draw Would Have Pleased

The voice of the crowd and the opinion of a majority of ringside critics awarded Fidel at least a draw and possibly the decision because of aggressiveness that never faltered, courage, and a busy punching attack that was never entirely stilled by the negro's heavier weapons. The Associated Press score sheet gave Chocolate four rounds, La Barba four and two even. One judge voted the match a draw, the other and the referee awarded the decision to Chocolate.

It was a battle that lived up to advance notices, a bitter struggle destined up to yesterday to produce a champion capable of recognition by the New York State Athletic commission. When Chocolate scaled 121 pounds, three over the bantam limit, and La Barba 120 1-2, the commission decided that the winner would not replace Charley Phil Rosenberg, who retired from the throne in 1927.

Men Well Matched

The struggle matched the skillful, dazzling Chocolate against the rushing, slugging attack of the huskier, more experienced Californian, in every round, with the exception of a lull at the half way mark. The negro sensation snapped at La Barba's head with sharp left jabs. His weaving, bobbing rushes with straight right hand slams and uppercuts and he clamped down tight to hold Fidel in the clinches. La Barba ripped and tore at the negro's body, making it a fight all the way, but failed to land as cleanly and accurately as the smiling "Keed" did.

Although there were no knockdowns, both were in difficulties several times, which pleased the customers. Both were in trouble in the second, seventh and ninth rounds but in at least three others Fidel was forced to hold after taking solid clouts on the chin.

HARDWARE NINE DROPS ANOTHER TILT TO PAINTER BOYS

Hardware Dealers met their second defeat of the season Wednesday afternoon when they were handed a sound trouncing by the Carpneter-Painters, 9 to 3.

Although outhit by the losers, the C & P boys delivered timely blows in the pinches and took advantage of the opposition's miscues to score a decisive victory in the seven-inning fracas.

Getting off to a big start in the first inning, the Tradesmen scored four runs off the delivery of Delaney before the side was tired. Hopper, who relieved Delaney in the third, held the winners to two hits, but errors accounted for five more runs.

Waller Weakens

Waller, on the mound for the Carpenter-Painters, turned back the Hardware threat in the first and second innings but in the third the pupils of Red Terry got their long range guns into action and counted three times. Curtis, Jackson, Anderson and Hill hit in succession. Jackson's double against the right field fence scoring two runners.

Waller's deceptive change of pace held the Hardware outfit scoreless through the remainder of the abbreviated contest. Manager Terry made a desperate effort to rally in the seventh when he sent in two pinch batsmen including himself. He was left stranded on second base after he had poked a single past third for the seventh hit off Waller.

The winners counted four in the first, two in the third and three in the fifth, the nine runs being scored with but five hits.

Carpenter-Painters meet the Santa Fe nine in today's city league encounter at Merrill Park.

MOORE BOOBLES BADLY AND GIANTS WIN; NO OTHER FEATURES

BY WILLIAM J. CHAPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Fans at Ebbets field yesterday saw the Giants narrowly avoid going into eighth place. Master Edward Moore, miniature second baseman, came all the way from Toledo to drop-kick a double-play ball about the lot in the tenth inning of the nightcap with one out and the bases full of Giants.

The performance of Master Moore enabled Fred Fitzsimmons to take a 7 to 4 decision over Lou Koupal and Doug McWeeny after Clise Dudley had pitched the Flatbush forces to a 3 to 2 triumph in the opener. The even break served the purposes of the Giants in their efforts to avoid the cellar.

Nothing Else Much

The rest of the fighting in the National league was mainly for exercise. The Phillies ceased to be the Phillies at Boston, but the Braves once more became the Braves. The result was a twin triumph for the Baker boys, 6 to 3, and 13 to 4.

The Cubs and the Cardinals took an afternoon off, but the Pirates cornered the hapless Reds at Forbes field and administered an 11 to 2 humiliation before Generl Hendricks could withdraw his troops.

Yanks Drop Two

The American league situation is daily becoming more and more alarming for Miller Huggins, but it is not yet of record that any of the little Miller's seven fellow managers has lost so much as a minute's sleep over the situation.

Rip Collins pitched the St. Louis forces to a 7 to 3 triumph over Red Faber and the White Sox while the Senators weer snapping their losing streak in two places at the Yankee stadium. The Senators won by 10 to 2 and 3 to 2 in a bargain on the banks of the Harlem, and to complicate the case further, the Athletic polished off the Red Sox in Philadelphia with little or no effort, 16 to 2.

The day's campaigning left the Athletics with a lead of two and one-half games over the Browns, who in turn led the champions of the world by one full contest.

Walter Miller again pitched smart ball in defeating the Tigers by 7 to 4 at Navin field in the remaining American league fixture.

LOCAL CASES IN SUPREME COURT

Nine cases from Lubbock county were involved in the proceedings of the supreme court at Austin yesterday, according to advices received here.

In the case of the city of Lubbock versus George L. Simpson, an application for writ of error was dismissed for want of jurisdiction. An application for a write of error was granted the United Fidelity company against Mrs. Cassie Adair.

Applications Refused

Applications for writs of error were refused in the cases of J. J. Dillard vs. E. McGinty; First National Bank of Bronte vs. Citizens National Bank of Lubbock.

A motion for rehearing was submitted in the case of Walter Davies vs. Texas Employers' Insurance association, a suit in which the plaintiff seeks $6,000 damages.

Applications for writ of error were dismissed for want of jurisdiction in the following: Lula Morris vs. R. J. Murray, suit for damages in business transaction; Girard Fire and Marine Insurance company vs. Anne Mallard; Minnie S. Veal et vir, vs. W. M. Jaggers et al, and J. Cline Moore vs. J. D. Tucker.

HUBBERS TO PLAY PAMPA ON SUNDAY

The Lubbock Hubbers will meet the Pampa Harvesters at Merrill Park Sunday afternon in what promises to be the best baseball exhibition local fans have had an opportunity to witness this season.

Manager "Emmer" Gober boasts one of the strongest semi-pro ball clubs in West Texas and from all indications will give the locals the hardest battle they have faced this year. The Harvesters have won the majority of their games this season, having lost their first to the Tactless Texans of Amarillo last Sunday at Amarillo.

The Hubbers will likely bring in reenforcements from nearby towns to put in the lineup for the tilt with the Pampa nine Sundsy. Dick Ratliff and Al Mueller of Littlefield and Froggie Lovvorn of Ralls will probably appear with the locals.

BARRIER STOCK AUCTIONED OFF

With a bid of $83,880, the Perkins Dry Goods company of Dallas yesterday purchased the stock of the nine South Plains department stores of Barrier Brothers, Inc., which went into bankruptcy recently.

This was the highest bid offered at a public auction conducted from 1 to 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by L. L. Pearson, United States commissioner and trustees of the bankrupt stock.

No Plans Yet

S. B. Perkins, president of the Perkins company, said last night that he did not know what disposition would be made of the stock. It is contemplated combining the units into one organization here.

Bids were first received on the units separately, the total amounting to $76,205.

The highest bid for notes and accounts was $7,000 and W. D. Girand, referee in bankruptcy, disallowed the sale and ordered commissioner to sell the notes in private sale.

GAVUZZI SETS OUT TO RETAKE FIRST PLACE AS BUNIONERS LEAVE ON LONG GALLUP FROM PECOS ACROSS TO KENT

(By Associated Press)

PECOS, Texas, May 23—Kent, with an acknowledged population of 20 persons, was the objective of C. C. Pyle's transcontinental foot racers today. Kent is 58 miles from Pecos. The lap is the longest in 10 days.

Pete Gavuzzi, England, hoped to regain the lead wrested from him last week by John Salo, Passaic, N. J., and saw in the long run today a chance to wipe out the 21 minute and 30 seconds lead Salo held. They had tied each other the past four days.

Richman Drives On

Sam Richman, fourth in total elapsed time, continued his drive for third place, although Giusto Umek held that position by more than 13 hours.

Salo and Umek have been strong on the longer laps, but because of the bitter battle for the first four places, Gavuzzi and Richman were not expected to let much distance get between them and their rivals.

Helen Wills Loses In Doubles Tourney

PARIS, May 23 (AP)—Helen Wills received the first setback of her 1929 tennis campaign today when she and her fellow-Californian, Edith Cross, were beaten in the women's doubles quarter-finals of the French championships by Lili D'Alvarez of Spain and Kea Bouman of Holland. The scores were 8—6, 6—4.

Miss Wills and Francis T. Hunter had little trouble eliminating Mlle. Adeline Neufeld and Roger Danet, of France, 6-1, 6-4, in the mixed doubles. The victory landed the American favorites in the third round.

Assault Charges Filed On Stengel

TOLEDO, May 23.—Casey Stengel, manager of the Toledo club of the American Association last night surrendered to police when he learned a fan with whom he had an altercation in the grandstand before yesterday's game with Indianapolis had preferred a charge of assault and battery.

The spectator, Samuel J. Rowe, charged that Stengel struck him on the jaw during an argument over a ball fouled into the stand during batting practice. Rowe was excluded from the park and his money refunded.

Stengel was released on his own recognizance.

It gave poor Clowny quite a scare as he went soaring through the air upon the back of old king bee. "Hey, take me down," he cried. "This isn't nice. Oh, not at all. Supposin' I would slip and fall." "Don't worry," snapped the monstrous bee. "You're going to have a ride."

So, up they went, far from the ground, till naught but tree tops were around. The bee would dip, and then whiz up. Poor Clowny hung on tight. He wished that he had never jumped upon the bee. His poor heart thumped. And then he loked far down and saw the others still in the...

The Goofygoo, down with the rest, loked up and said, "Well, I'll be blest; I'll bet poor Clown's mighty scared, but he won't come to harm. The bee's all right, and friendly, too. There's not a thing that he will do to hurt our good friend Clowny, so there's no cause for alarm."

"Oh, are you sure?" wee Scouty cried. "It's fine for him to have that ride, as long as he is safe and sound. I guess we'd best not fret. We all have had real scares galore, and we will all have many more. But, near as I remember, we have met no harm as yet."

And then the Goofygoo said, "Well, I think I'll stop this little spell of worrying." Just watch me now. I'll fool that big king bee. He's frightened every one of you, which isn't nice to do. I'll fly right up and get him, 'cause I know he can't scare me."

The Tinies climbed the Goofygoo, and said, "We'll go along with you." So up the little party went, and soon they found the bee. Before a single one could speak the bird just grabbed him in his beak. And then they all soared down to earth, while Clowny shouted, Gee!"

(The Goofygoo has a wonderful idea in the next story.)

The most nearly permanent tire!

The pistons are good for millions of strokes; the gears and the bearings for millions of revolutions. You know it or you wouldn't have bought the car. But the tires . . . the tires on even the best cars have been the one uncertain "temperamental" factor.

And now at last that's out . . . The point of a tack, if it didn't curl up would stop somewhere short of half way through the all-season tread of a LEE SUPER DE LUXE tire. Glass and sharp rocks might grow dull against this invincible tread.

Literally, the average owner doesn't keep a car as long as a set of these perfectly balanced tires will last. We mean it—the most nearly permanent tires ever known. They beat other "supers" even more than LEE of Conshohocken has always beaten other tires. The price is necessarily somewhat higher, but your safety and peace of mind are priceless. Your Tires are Worth Cash on a Trade-in for LEE Supers. Come in today and see how fair our allowance is on your used tires—new or old.

Thought For Today

That which is crooked can not be made straight: and that which is wanting can not be numbered.—Eccl. 1:15.

Believe, if thou wilt, that mountains change their places, but believe not that man changes his nature.—Mohammed.

Isn't Perfect

The United States is rapidly developing into a city civilization—so rapidly that we sometimes wonder how we could be satisfied with anything else. The things that the city brings—noise, crowding, constant hurrying and turmoil—are almost part of us now, and we are apt to forget that there is another way to live.

Once in a while, though, something happens to remind us that the things the city brings may not be as essential as we usually think.

The other day an unusual couple stopped off in the city of New York for a brief visit.

They were Corporal Claude B. Tidd, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and his pretty wife, a former nurse in the remote city of Dawson, Yukon Territory.

For the first time since 1915 they had come down to the land of cities, en route for a visit to England. And while you might imagine that two people who had spent their last fourteen years in a tiny village under the Arctic Circle would be glad to get to a place like New York, Corporal Tidd and his wife didn't see it that way at all.

The corporal's post has kept him in a village that is almost unbelievably remote. Only one other white person lives in it. Mail arrives and departs once a year. Often the corporal is away from home for days at a time, and his wife stays alone in their cabin on such occasions, varying the monotony now and then by taking a gun and going out to shoot game. They have no radio, and the town has no movie: there is nothing but an unending silence and a great majesty of open, unsettled wilderness about them.

But they prefer that to New York. In the city, they say, there is too much noise and too much activity. The gay frils of the metropolis, ordinarily its greatest attraction for visitors, leave them cold. They speak another kind of language. Both of them are impatiently waiting for the day when they can start back to their distant Canadian outpost and plunge into solitude and silence once more.

Most of us would be unable to endure a year of life in the Tidds' village. We are bred to the city civilization, and we couldn't get along without it. But it is good for us to be reminded that it isn't necessarily the best kind of life possible.

Solitude and isolation can sometimes do more for the human spirit than we imagine. They aren't in our line; we shall never be able to get them, for the cities have us in their grip. But it doesn't hurt us to realize that we're missing something valuable.

Brilliant Record

National Air Transport, which flies air mailplanes between New York, Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City and Dallas, has just completed the third year of its operations, and is celebrating by revealing the figures that its three years' work have rolled up. They reflect an enormous amount of credit on the company and on aviation as a whole.

In three years, N. A. T. planes have flown 4,674,343 miles, of which 1,614,445 were at night. They have carried a total of 2,113,303 pounds of mail and 105,959 pounds of express. At present they are averaging 6500 miles of flight every day.

National Air Transport has a right to be very proud of this record. It demonstrates clearly the way in which aviation has established itself in this country.

In accordance with our spring custom of mentioning some sinister fact, the announcement is made here to inform you that two doctors in Chillicothe, Mo., are named Dye and Berry.

THE PLAINSMAN Says

That Girl on Broadway says many a woman can be broad without being too broad-minded.

* * *

Well, folks, it looks like The Plainsman has finally hit the nail on the head in this matter of keeping the high school and Tech gyms open. Public opinion appears to overwhelmingly favor the idea and if we can't get the county officials to fall in line to help safe-guard the under-privileged boys it looks like we can do it ourselves.

* * *

Over at the Rotary club yesterday George Dupree, head of that organization's Child Welfare committee, urged Rotarians to get behind the gymnasium idea and his arguments got over with a bang. If the joint committee of the Rotary, Kiwanis and B. C. D. organizations seeking to benefit juvenile conditions here will just get behind it the proposition is going over and going over big.

* * *

George Dupree, Homer Grant, Dr. M. C. Overton, Mayor Harley Woods, Sam Arnett and a bunch of fellows are already hot and heavy to help put over the the idea—namely to sign up fifty local men to kick in $3 per month each—and say for organized and supervised play at the gyms during the summer. The Avalanche-Journal has authorized The Plainsman to say that it will start the ball rolling with $10 in cash, three months dues in advance, if some group will just take the proposition in mind. Some of the folks around town have suggested that The Plainsman do the collecting of the funds but he can't take the time right at this period. Anyway, who ever heard of a newspaperman handling money—his own or anybody else's? Why he wouldn't know what to do with it if he had it!

* * *

Seriously, though, something should be done for the boys and if there is a better idea than the one advanced let's have it. If no one else can beat The Plainsman's plan we ought to go right ahead with it now! What do we hear from the joint child welfare committee of the Kiwanians, Rotarians and B. C. D.? Get busy boys!

* * *

That Man on Avenue Q says many a smart-elick mistakes his brass for polish!

* * *

With Scarface Al Capone and Harry Sinclair both in jail at the same time, taking their medicine just like you or I would have to take it, can Utopia be far behind?

* * *

The Plains Journal building at Texas avenue and Tenth street, falls before the onslaughts of progress. Scarcely five years old and one of the best built and prettiest structures of its kind in this section, the birthplace of The Journal must give way for the construction of a large building in which automobiles will be stored. Busy Lubbock can not pause. The way is onward and upward.

* * *

The Plainsman remembers well the day when the Plains Journal building was completed. Tons of cut stone were used in its front to make it the most attractive publishing house in all this great country. It is still unsurpassed in West Texas as far as beauty and arrangement is concerned.

* * *

But men with vision saw the possibilities of an automobile hotel at the location of the Plains Journal building so they purchased it and began forthwith to tear it down. The incident is typical of Lubbock. Go ahead—go ahead regardless of initial cost! Lubbock must progress.

* * *

The Plainsman's got a good one on Guy McAfee that he doesn't have any idea anybody in Lubbock knows. Guy's done such a good job of keeping it quiet that this writer just can't help but spill the beans. It seems that Guy recently visited in El Paso and while there elected to show the local folks how their traffic ordinances should read. He drove his car very much to his own taste—which didn't set so well with one of the minions of law and order.

* * *

A great, big old bad policeman whistled Guy to a stop just after he had cut some kind of a traffic dido and for a minute it looked like the jig was up and that Guy might have to call Dorrance Roderick to go on his bond. The policeman, however, was reasonable and listened to Guy's pleas that he was a stranger and a good boy, trying to get along.

* * *

After he had heard the reasons for the traffic mis-step the cop pulled the oldest gag in history and Guy McAfee let him get away with it! The cop sold him a ticket to the El Paso Policemen's ball! Tie that, if you can!

Secretary Mellon, his office announces officially, will not resign as secretary of the treasury. Well, why should he? Mellon has been criticized for once owning brewery or distillery stock. He has been rapped for being a political boss in Pennsylvania and for being the head of an aluminum trust. But what of it? He's doing a good job as secretary of the treasury, which, after all, is what he's supposed to be doing. And if you know anything about past secretaries and then look over Mellon's record you'll agree that the Pennsylvanian is right where he belongs and that you and I are profiting, indirectly, thereby.

Brookhart, Whose Middle Name Is 'Wildman' And A Man Who Smlies Vengefully Is Senate's Busiest Attacker

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, May 22——The Hon. Smith Wildman Brookhart, senator from Iowa, is never mentioned nowadays without use of his middle name.

Brookhart is not the brainiest man in the Senate, but he has a way of going after firmly entrenched personages, institutions and selfish interests which is no more remarkable for the reckless spirit which Brookhart displays than for his high percentage of effectiveness. Quite a few persons have learned that it isn't safe to monkey with Brookhart, who never takes anything lying down.

Senator Daniel F. Steck, Brookhart's Democratic colleague, who was elected by an anti- Brookhart political combination, found that out a couple of years ago when he charged that Brookhart was a paid lobbyist in connection with a presidential appointment. By the time Brookhart finished with him, Steck had lost most of his tail feathers and had withdrawn the charge.

Attacked Fess, Too

Of course Brookhart made Senator Simeon Fess of Ohio look rathe silly the other day after the ill-considered Fess letter in which Brookhart was called a "pseudo-Republican" and amarplot. But that happens to Fess almost automatically whenever anyone in the Senate undertakes to chastise him for cause.

Brookhart shines when on the ofensive and that almost all the time. With equal fervor he assails the bankers, the Republican party, the president and the movie industry. The conservatives say he's uncouth, bu ttbat doesn't lessen the force of his wallops. It's true that he was born in a log cabin some 60 years ago and never went to college, but he is ordinarily a quite pleasant and amiable person, with a war record covering the Spanish-American struggle, Mexican border service and the World War. He is rugged and strong, short and chunky and his smile resembles that of a man who is about to commit a long-anticipated murder of vengeance.

Brookhart was on the administration side during the last campaign, but it didn't last long. Before the conventions he was advocating the nomination of Senator George W. Norris. Now, in farm relief debate, he has become one of President Hoover's biterest critics, charging that he was misled into making those many speeches to Hoover for the farmers last year. His bolt from the Hoover farm program was even more spectacular and vehement than his campaign for the party candidate.

All along he has kept on digging up dirt in the Republican party's major standing scandal, the southern patronage system, showing how G. O. P. politicians in that area have profited handsomely by distribution of federal ofices awarded for nothing more than their services at national conventions. President Hoover is understood to endorse heartily the work of Brookhart's patronage committee, but its popularity among other Republican politicians is not so much.

Another example of Brookhart's propensities for hell-raising is his determination for reforming the movie trust. He is pushing a bill to prohibit blind booking and block boking of movie films, arbitrary distribution of films to theaters in which producers are interested and other methods now in use. His announced purpose is to preserve "the remaining vestige of competition" in the industry and create possible new competition.

Brookhart charges that Will Hays former chairman of the Republican National Committee, was employed as "a 'fixer' to protect the industry against any sort of reform or regulation through public action" Hays never did anything to improve the moral tone of the movies, Brooknart says, but has surrounded himself with politicians to engage in continuous warfare against reform measures in Congress and state legislatures. He charges, in effect, that Hays has been helpful in keeping the government from enforcing the law against the "Motion Picture Trust."

Charges Attempted Monopoly

"The other real purpose for which Hays was employed," he says, "was to end the competition - existing among the producers and distributors and to pave the way for the monopolization of the entire industry, including the exhibition field. So successful has been the plan that the producers and distributors of 98 per cent of the films used in this country are now joined in an offensive alliance through the Hays organization.

"No combination ever before represented such absolute control of an industry in the economic history of tthe United States."

Inasmuch as the principal movie magnates are generally staunch Republicans, that's another thing that Mr. Fess and his friends have against Mr. Brookhart.

Gilbert Swan

In New York

By Swan

NEW YORK, May 23—Cranks and moon-touched nit-wits appear at regular intervals in a metropolis such as Manhattan—and generally in the wake of some famous beauty, some stage celebrity or some personality who has been suddenly projected into the spotlight.

Each new beauty announced by the Ziegfelds or the Shuberts or the Carrolls finds herself deluged with letters from foggy old dodgers offering her marriage and a fortune. Most of these writers are park bench millionaires, who have difficulty raising the price of a bowl of stew. The theatrical offices are bombarded with demands for phone numbers and addresses and switchboard girls grow weary of hanging up on them.

Just the other day Jeanne Eagels, the actress, had to hire private detectives because of a moon-eyed youth who called her by phone several times a day and finally laid in wait for her in the lobby of her hotel. The youth was arrested.

And a week before that a lovely Spanish dancer from a musical show was kept awake by the strains of a fiddle playing beneath her window. The serenader finally appeared in her hallway and her father roused him out with cold water. When he fell on his knees and begged for but one glance at her, there seemed nothing to do but call the police. He turned out to be a sentimental lad who had watched her from a gallery seat for many days.

When Irving Berlin and Ellin Mackay were trying to hide from the press after their marriage, they received nearly 100 letters offering suggestions of how to avoid detection. Lindy and Miss Morrow have had almost a similar number advising them on their wedding plans.

* * *

I know of no major crime in the last several years, where a mystery has been involved, that didn't bring from a hundred to five hundred ananymous letters pointing to solutions or clews. The police rarely get the slightest help from them. The few that have been looked into did little more than throw them off the track. All were the work of cranks.

The Rothstein murder mystery is said to have drawn nearly a thousand anonymous phone calls, sent generally from cigar store booths where they couldn't be traced.

* * *

Nor are all the "nuts" relegated to anonymity. Within the week I have observed several phenomenons which belong to the "believe it or not" department.

So, believe it or not—at the most recent dance derby held in Madison Square Garden three "Russian rockers" appeared as a sort of side-show. They were a trio of Moscowites who held a record for swaying back and forth for five days, stopping only for a couple of hours per day. Then there's the "flag-pole squatter" who stands 60 feet above the ground on a disk which looks to be little larger than a phonograph record. His record to date, I remember, had been a 10-day siege, with a few minutes off for rest each few hours. And they had a bimbo who called himself, "The man chained to an automobile," who agreed to drive night and day round and round the same block.

And this, my friends, is what we are pleased to call the enlightened 20th century!

* * *

A bulletin from the phone company informs me that there are now 10,000 private telephones in New York. Most of these are owned by actors, writers and such who are constantly bothered by the sort of nuts mentioned in this article. They allow only their intimate friends to know their numbers, being extremely busy people who can not be bothered by calls asking them to endorse some brand of cigarets.

Diet and Health

BENEFIT OF HOT WATER DRINKING LIES IN HEALING AGENCY OF HEAT

Mr. J. doesn't understand why physicians do not stress the beneficial effects of drinking hot water. He is a great enthusiast of drinking liberal amounts of hot water for a great many conditions, for he was greatly benefited by this practice. He would like to know what is the curative principle involved?

I think it was about 20 years ago—wasn't it?—that the fad of drinking hot water was at its height. I remember I went through it for my ailment (overweight). The only result I got was a chronic intestinal irritation for several months, which I thought I would never get rid of.

The benefits to those who are helped by drinking hot water come from the heat, for heat is one of nature's healing agencies. The body produces heat, as evidenced by a rise in temperature, to help overcome infections. The healing and soothing effects of hot applications, either through hot fomentations or the electric light, or other forms, are well known. Then, of course, for those who do not drink enough water, there would be the added effect of getting sufficient. I don't find anything in the modern medical literature on the subject, so I can't give you any late ideas.

As I told you, judging from my experience, hot water drinking certainly can be overdone, and if so, it may produce atony (loss of tone) of the intestinal musculature. If it is not overdone it may prove beneficial in disorders of the intestinal tract.

I fear that Mr. J. labors under the delusion that most laymen possess, that what helps them in one condition will be helpful to others in all conditions.

College Boys and Girls—You could keep some canned milk in your rooms or dried or malted milk powder, fresh fruits, chocolates and nuts, besides the things you mentioned. If you will go to the public library you will undoubtedly find a list of foods giving the caloric value of these foods.

The number of calories in the five cent bars of candy would depend upon their weight and whether they contain other things besides the sugar, such as nuts, raisins or chocolate. The following are 100 calorie portions: One ounce of simple sugar candy; one-half ounce of nut meats; one-half ounce of chocolate, sweetened or unsweetened; one scant ounce of cookies (a fig newton weighs about three-quarters of an ounce); one full ounce of dried fruits, such as prunes, raisins, dates one medium sized banana, weighing five and one-half ounces.

Mrs. P.—It is all right to continue taking cod liver oil during the summer months if you want to. However, cod liver oil is usually taken for its vitamin D, and this vitamin is manufactured in the skin by the sunlight rays, so in the summer when you get a lot of sunshine, you really wouldn't need it. Babies, however, had better have their cod liver oil all year around, for vitamin D has so much to do with the lime chemistry of the body and the formation of the bones and teeth. Besides, it is very high in the growth and disease resisting vitamin A.

We have an article on balanced diet which you may have by observing the column rules.

Mrs. U.—The article on headaches may be helpful to you. Have a physician check up. Trouble with the eyes is by no means the only cause of headaches.

Editor Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each article, to cover cost of printing and handling. STANDARDIZATION IN UNITED STATES AND CANADA DISCUSSED

BY WILLIAM R. CASTLE, JR., Assistant Secretary of State

(William Richards Castle, Jr., was born at Honolulu, June 19, 1878. He is a graduate of Harvard university. From 1906 to 1913 he was assistant dean of Harvard college. He was editor of Harvard Graduates' magazine from 1915 to 1917 and was director of the bureau of communication, American National Red Cross, the two following years. In 1919 he was made assistant secretary of state. He has written several non-fiction books, especially pertaining to Hawaii.)

W. R. CASTLE, JR.

There is a great deal of talk, much of its untrue, about standardization in the United States and the suggestio ns made that we want to extend it to Canada. Industrially, it is true, of course. Largely because of it we are able to pay high wages and in spite of that to sell abroad. But we could not standardize our people, even if we wanted to, and still less do we want to standardize any other people.

In spite of anything that may be said there is not in the United States the slightest desire either to standardize or to Americanize Canada. On the contrary one reason for Canadian-American friendship is the very fact of difference. It always seemed to me that Ian Hay's statement that Anglo-American understanding existed in spite of a common language rather than because of it had a real basis of truth. When there is very nearly a common language the slight variations in meaning lead to misunderstandings which could not possibly occur if the languages were totally different. The Finnish minister in Washington told me that Finland had a formal visit from the prime minister of Estonia. The languages, it seems, are much alike. The Estonian minister therefore made his speech to the Finnish parliament in Finnish but because he used Finnish words in the Estonian sense he was unintentionally insulting.

It is like the use of the word "quite" in the English language. To most Americans "quite honest" means "almost honest" whereas the actual meaning—and you see the word correctly—is "entirely honest" If a Canadian orator, therefore, spoke of the American secretary of state as a "quite honest man" his statement would not be received by the man in the street in New York as at all complimentary.

There is no doubt that domestic legislation is, as it should be, enacted for the benefit of the home country. It may be mistaken. It may actually be harmful to another country but certainly that is not its purpose. I can say with absolute conviction that in considering legislation the congress of the United States never has and never will purposely injure a friendly nation.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Since her graduation with honors three years previously, NAN CARROLL has been private secretary to ATTORNEY JOHN CURTIS MORGAN.

While they are at work, IRIS MORGAN, haughty, beautiful wife of Morgan, arrives, accompanied by her handsome child, little CURTIS. She peevishly demands a large check to finance a shopping expedition and leaves little Curtis on Nan's hands while she goes out to shop. Nan bitterly resents being thus treated as a nursemaid and her dislike of Iris trebles.

That evening Nan dies with WILLIS TODD, who for the fifth time proposes marriage to her. When Nan insists she cannot give up her prospects for passing the bar examinations, Willis accuses her of being in love with Morgan. After Willis leaves, Nan tries to dismiss his outbursts as a gesture of jealousy, but her heart tells her differently and at last she admits that she, Nan Carroll, who has always prided herself on being honorable, square as a man, is in love with another woman's husband.

The thought is so intolerable she goes to the office next morning determined to resign. There in the morning mail she finds a blackmail note directed to Morgan. Nan is torn with conflict: Shall she give him the note and let him learn the truth about his cold wife, or shall she withhold it?

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

Nan took his brief case from John Curtis Morgan, rifled through a sheaf of memoranda and found—as she had known she would—the McTeague disposition. How helpless he was, how dependent upon her! And how happy she was to serve him. Would his next secretary be as alert and intelligent as herself, as eager to wait upon him?

He loathed detail, wanted to have his mind free for concentration upon the bigger aspects of the legal problems which he was called upon to handle. And yet incompetence in those who were responsible for detail made him nervous and impatient, even ill. It took a lot of understanding and patience and intelligence to work for John Curtis Morgan.

"If his next secretary serves him as faithfully as I have done, it will be because she loves him." Nan decided, and hot jealousy of her prospective successor flooded her already tortured heart.

Nan followed him into his private office, th eanonymous letter slipped into the pocket of her blouse, with other mail, or such of it as required his personal attention, in her hands.

He lifted a warding hand, his tired eyes pleading with her humorously for indulgence. "Haven't time to read a single letter, Nan. You handle all of it if you can, and let the rest ride. Nothing of life-and-death importance, I suppose?"

Nan decided irrevocably then. The anonymous letter should stay in her pocket. She had her orders now, Mr. Morgan, nothing of life-and-death importance. Anything special you want me to do today?"

"Nothing special." Morgan answered absent mindedly, his eyes on the memoranda in his hand. "Oh, yes! When the complete transcript of this Grace Cox case comes from the court stenographer this morning, I'd like to have you read through it carefully. I can depend upon you to see light where apparently all is dark. I'm pretty sure of making Brainerd look like a fool before the day is over, but I'm not taking any chances. That's a slippery crowd. I'll phone during the morning if I have an opportunity, and will come back here when court recesses for lunch."

"I'll order a nice lunch sent up from the Bellaire Grill, and you can eat it while you go over your notes," Nan planned cheerfully.

* * *

Of course she had had no opportunity to resign, she scolded her conscience, when Morgan had departed for court. "Besides," she reminded herself, "I've decided to write him a note of resignation, but I'm certainly not going to bother him with it until this case is settled. It ought to go to the jury by Friday night, and Saturday morning will be time enough. Maybe if he finds out I held out this anonymous letter he'll fire me and save me the trouble of resigning."

She tried to forget the blackmailing letter, with its unspeakable insinuation against Iris Morgan, but her mind tugged and worried at the thing, while her heart followed John Curtis Morgan to the court house.

Evans, the middle aged, sour-mouthed clerk, arrived just as Morgan was leaving, and Blake, the young lawyer on salary, raced in and out again in time to catch his chief at the elevator.

If only she could go with him, could be there to ward off evil—if she, not that silly Blake, sat at his elbow, she could sense a trap before it was sprung, warn him, save him the ghastly humiliation which, if the anonymous letter writer was to be believed, awaited him at the court house today. He had told her often enough that he counted on her intuition—

* * *

A messenger boy with the court stenographer's transcript of the case interrupted Nan's milling thoughts. She seized up on the bulky manuscript, determined to winnow the prosecution's evidence so thoroughly that no clue to the real truth, however infinitesimal, might escape her.

The clue, when she did find it, almost escaped her, it was so tiny: just a name, an odd name, and for some obscure reason, familiar to Nan. The name occurred in the testimony of a chamber maid of the Riverside Country club:

Q. (District Attorney): How long have you been employed as a chamber maid in the Riverside Country club?

A. Since September 5. Annie Crayfish recommended me for the job when she was leaving, sir—"

Q. (District Attorney): Please confine yourself to answering questions. Now, Bertha, what were your hours on duty?

Nan knitted her brows. Crayfish! Why was the name so familiar? She herself had written that name, had laughed at it—Oh! Of course! The head cleaning woman of that very office building was named Crayfish! Nan had learned her name as Christmas time last year, had written it on the envelope containing Morgan's Christmas gift of money for the woman. Undoubtedly Annie Crayfish, former chamber maid of the Country club, was related to old Mrs. Crayfish of the Sanderson building.

Impulsively, her brown eyes shining, Nan called the superintendent of the building upon the telephone. "This is Miss Carroll, of John Curtis Morgan's office, Mr. Bennett. I very much want to see Mrs. Crayfish, head of the cleaning staff. Is she on duty now?"

"Not until 4 o'clock. The old dames work until 10, you know," Bennett answered.

"Could you give me her address, please, Mr. Bennett? It's terribly important, really, or I shouldn't bother you," Nan pleaded in her sweetest voice.

* * *

Five minutes later, Nan, having left a resentful and bewildered clerk in charge of the front office, was on her way to the address which Bennett had supplied. Mrs. Crayfish had no telephone; there was no time to be wasted on telegrams or messenger boys. She was playing a long hunch, at the risk of incurring Morgan's displeasure for having deserted the office, but her eyes were still shining with excitement when she knocked upon the door of a small frame house on the outskirts of the city.

"I want to see Mrs. Crayfish, please," Nan told the plump, homely woman who answered her knock.

"Mama ain't home. Could I do anything for you, Miss? I'm Annie Crayfish—"

"Annie Crayfish?" Nan almost sang the unmusical syllables. "Then you're the very person I want to see. You used to work at the Riverside Country club as a chamber maid, didn't you, Annie? Will you tell me why you left your job?"

"Yes, Miss. I been out to Arizona, staying with my sister who was sick with T. B. She—she died last week, and I buried her out there and came home. I just got home today. M eand Mama are feeling awful bad about Madge, Miss, so I hope there ain't going to be no trouble—"

"I'm awfully sorry about Madge," Nan said softly. "But it was awfully nice you had saved up enough money to go 'way out there and stay with her until the end."

"I didn't have enough saved up," Annie Crayfish confessed. "I never coulda gone if Mrs. Fleming hadn't sent me. It was funny, too," she added in a burst of confidence. "I didn't know she was so kind hearted. And I didn't think she liked me very much. One time she scolded me something fierce—"

"What for, Annie?" Nan scarcely dared to breathe.

"Why, nothing a-tall," Annie bridled. "I went in to clean her room—you know, lotsa the members keep rooms out there and stay weekends—and I seen her a-writing at her desk, and I said, 'I never noticed, before you was left handed, Mrs. Fleming,' and I thought she'd take my head off. And—funny thing!—she wasn't left handed, Miss! I took pains to notice after that."

"Of course," Nan said casually, to keep from frightening her witness, "you never happened to notice what it was that Mrs. Fleming was writing with her left hand that day, did you? Just as a matter of curiosity, such as anyone would have felt?" she suggested subtly.

"Well, yes, Miss, I did," Annie Crayfish flushed. "It hurt my feelings the way she carried on just because I made an innocent remark like that and so when she was called to the door to sign for a telegram I stooped real quick and slipped the book off the letter she'd been writing with her left hand—she'd covered it up soon as I came in—and it was the funniest writing—almost lying on its back, and square, like a kid's just learning to write—"

* * *

Nan gasped involuntarily. Hand writing experts, learnedly analyzing the queer script in which the now famous blackmailing letters were indited, had not been half so vivid as Annie Crayfish!

"Did Mrs. Fleming see you looking at the letter?" Nan asked, dizzy with joy.

"Yes, Miss," Annie confessed. "And she slapped my face. But the next minute she was apologizing and trying to make up to me for her hot temper, as she called it. She seemed so awful sorry that I couldn't stay mad, and when she offered to send me out to Arizona to stay with Madge—I'd told her all about Madge, long before that—why, I was just tickled to death, of course. I couldn't let false pride stand in the way of going to my sister, could I, Miss?"

"Of course not," Nan agreed heartily. "Listen, Annie, do you think Grace Cox is guilty?"

A puzzled look spread over the chamber maid's pleasant face. "Guilty—of what, Miss? Miss Cox, that's the switchboard operator of the club? An awful nice girl, not a bit stuck up—"

WALL STREET OPEN STRONG

LUCKY UNDERTONE IS SEEN AS MARKETS ARE OPENED

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 23. — Strong buying support came into the stock market overnight and opening prices today disclosed a strong undertone. New York Central opened points higher, Allied Chemical 3, Westinghouse Electric 2 3-8 and U. S. Steel Common, Aanaconda and International Nickel advanced a point or so. Transcontinental Oil opened with a block of 20,000 shares at 13 3-8, up 1-8, and Radio with a block of 8,000 shares at 93, up 2.

Some scattered liquidation came on the market, presumably in response to margin calls sent out last night.

Ingersoll Rand and Burroughs Adding machine each dropped 4 points, Bohn Aluminum, Atlantic Coast line and Pere Marquette 2 points or more, and a dozen or so others yielded a point or so, including Baltimore & Ohio which sank to within a small fraction of the year's low.

Recovery Explained

The recovery in the general list was stimulated by unconfirmed reports that no change would be made by the New York Federal reserve in discount rate today, and by expectations of a substantial drop in brokers' loans.

Packard Motors, which announced a 3 for 1 split-up last night, quickly ran up 4 points, as did Curtiss Aeronautical. General Electric rallied 3 points, American and Foreign powers 3 and more than a score others, including General Motors, Nash, Goodyear, Wright, Sears-Roebuck and Woolworth advanced a point or more.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with the general accepted "gold import" point.

REBELS ARE SLAIN

MEXICO CITY, May 23 (AP)—The war department announced last night that 21 insurgents, including a captain known as "El Raton", were killed in a three hour fight at Culiacan, Sinaloa. The rebels routed by the federals, fled to the mountains.

RIVAL WIVES

...rs, Annie?" Nan marvelled. "Grace Cox is accused of having blackmailed several wealthy members of the Country club, including Mrs. Fleming herself. And the letters were in the funny handwriting you've just described to me, Annie! They're trying to send Grace Cox to the penitentiary for writing those letters, Annie!" she emphatisized slowly.

"But—I don't understand," Annie Crayfish protested dazedly. "I ain't seen any papers from here or hardly anywhere else since I left home. I'm not much hand for reading and stuff— But I seen Mrs. Fleming writing one of them letters, Miss!"

The full truth dawned on the woman's slow intellect.

"Don't you understand, Annie?" Nan exulted. "Mrs. Fleming bribed you to leave the state, so you could never testify against her! She's a wicked woman, Annie, and they may send Grace Cox to prison for a time Mrs. Fleming committed, if you don't come with me right now and tell the court exactly what you've told me! Will you, Annie? I know you didn't mean to commit a crime oyurself in accepting a bribe, and I know you don't want poor little Grace Cox to suffer for a crime she didn't do. Come, Annie! Hurry!"

NEW ORLEANS SYMPATHIZES

LOWER CABLES BRING PRICE OF COTTON DOWN TODAY

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, May 23.—The cotton market opened easy in sympathy with lower cables than due. First trades showed losses of 7 to 11 points and selling continued rather aggressive due to favorable weather reports.

Prices continued to work off in early trading until July sold at 18.47, October 18.29 and December 18.37, or 15 to 16 points below yesterday's close. At the end of the first hour the market was a shade steadier but near the lows.

Shorts covered later and prices gradually recovered the eary loss. Recent free liquidation of the long interest has improved the technical position of the market and this coupled with improvement in stocks aided the recovery. July advanced to 18.62; October 18.43 and December 18.52, 93 14 to 15 points above the lows and to within 1 to 2 points of yesterday's close. At mid-session the market was steady at near the highs.

COTTON OPEN LOWER TODAY

DECLINE OF OVER TEN POINTS IS NOTED IN NEW YORK

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, May 23.—Cotton opened easy at a decline of 10 to 17 points. Active months were soon showing net losses of 14 to 15 points under liquidation and local of commission house selling promoted by relatively easy cables and favorable weather reports. July sold off to 18.47 and December to 18.48, but there was a fair demand around the 18 1-2 cent level which absorbed early offerings and gave the market a steadier tone. Prices showed rallies of 4 or 5 points from the lowest at the end of the first half hour.

The early decline to approximately the 18 1-2 cent level for July and new crop deliveries brought trade buying and covering sufficient to absorb imediate offerings, and the market was steadier during the middle o fthe morning. July rallied from 18.47 to 18.63 while December sold up from 18.48 to 18.62, or back to about yesterday's close. At midday trading was quiet with active months showing net declines of 4 to 7 points.

"Her Friends Marvel At Change," Says Husband

"My Wife Certainly Looks And Feels Like A New Person, She Has Taken Two Bottles Of Orgatone"

It is not what the manufacturers claim for it, but the statements from the multiplied thousands, who have been benefitted by it, that has made Orgatone the world-over famous medicine, today. T. K. Campbell, of 606 Alabama St., Amarillo, Tex., made the following remarkable statement in regard to his wife's case recently, said:

"My wife suffered from a severe case of indigestion, nervousness, and a general run-down condition," he continued, "she did not have any appetite and always looked puny. Every time she ate any thing, it would hurt her, and she kept getting worse all the time. She was weak and fagged out all the time, and was hardly able to do her work. She was going fast down hill, and one day, we read about Orgatone, and she began taking it.

"We are both, indeed, thankful, for what Orgatone has done for my wife. She eats anything she wants now, and has a large appetite. Her complexion was always sallow, but you can talk about the 'school girl complexion now' for she has it. Her looks are much better, and has some color in her face. She rests and sleeps well at night, and all of her friends marvel at the wonderful change in her in so short a time. We both, are glad to recommend Orgatone, it will do what they say it will. It is a wonderful medicine."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or ohter false stimulating drugs and may be obtained in Lubbock, Texas, at the Bowens Drug Store under the personal direction of the special Orgatone representative. — Adv.

'TUBERCULOSIS CURE' SWINDLERS TO FACE FEDERAL COURT CHARGES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 23.—What federal authorities called one of the largest "tuberculosis cure" swindles ever perpetrated in the West has been brought to light here with the indictment of five persons on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Charles F. Aycock and Glen S. Jordan, named in indictments, were arrested yesterday and bond fixed at $10 000 and $5,000, respectively. Telegraphic warrants for the arrest of Adolph Beyer, George Lester, and Martin H. Lester, were sent to the United States Marshal at Denver.

Postoffice inspectors said the "guaranteed cure" preparations exploited by the defendants had victimized more than 10,000 persons to the extent of about $1,000,000 over a period of several years.

OIL NEWS NOTES

PRICES EQUALIZED

FORT WORTH, May 23 (AP).Price of Mitchell county crude oil was equalized with that of Winkler and Pecos counties in a posting announced today by L. H. Prichard, president of the Col-Tex Refining company.

The Col-Tex Refinery company, which operates a plant at Colorado, is half owned by the California company (Standard of California) and Anderson-Prichard of Oklahoma City. The Col-Tex posting carries a flat price of 90 cents per bbrrel for Mitchell crude, regardless of gravity. Under the gravity schedule of the major purchasers the average crude in the county takes a price of 70 cents per barrel, while the average of Pecos and Winkler crude commands 90 cents. Land owners through their royalty checks will be the chief beneficiaries of the change.

Howard Crude Posted

Col-Tex also posted a schedule for Howard-Glassock crude. It conforms to that of the major crude oil purchasers for those areas. All changes were retroactive to the time of the initial posting of new West Texas permain basin prices by Humble.

GAUGING WELL AGAIN

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 23 (AP)—After gauging forty million feet of gas with rock pressure of two thousand pounds late yesterday, the Itlo-Foster and Cromwell-Franklin number 1 Trosper Park, in CSE NW 13-11-3 W, south of Oklahoma City, was to be gauged again today. The gas was dry and from a depth of 5,401 feet, proving another pay horizon for the field. After the second gauge the well will be mudded off and drilled deeper to the 6,400 foot pay which was discovered in the field's first well.

Helme, president, announces.

A budget of $10,000 will be raised, the largest the chamber has yet had.

While not in the list of five major projects, a hospital erection committee was named. A city or county hospital will be asked.

'BIG PUSH' OF ARMY GAMES ON OVER TWO HUNDRED MILE FRONT; GREATER NUMBERS OF BLUE FORCES ARE FELT

(By Associated Press)

WRIGHT FIELD, Dayton, O., May 23.—The Blue army, superior in numbers and equipment advanced on a 200-mile front in spite of stubborn opposition from the Red forces defending Columbus, Ohio, capital of their state, as the big offensive in the U. S. Army mimic warfare got under way today.

The "Big Push" started under the cover of darkness and the imaginary bursting of shells lighted up the countryside. Although no estimate of the losses was available, heavy casualties were reported on both sides.

The Blue army went over the top to route the Reds from defensive positions on the Big Darby creek. The Blue first Army made its attack on the Southern front, approximately 100 miles north of the Ohio river. The second army was on its left flank and the third army attacked on a northern front of approximately fifty miles.

Said a colored man to a white man, "Fo' no reason 'tall, a big Irishman walloped me last night."

"That's impossible. What were you doing?"

"Ah was singin'."

"What were you singing?"

"Ah wuz singin' 'Ireland must be heaven, for my mother came from there'."—Hulla Balloo.

Does your MOTOR SING or POUND?

STOP in the middle of a good substantial hill and listen to the various sounds coming from motors which are climbing it. Some glide along like song birds—others bellow forth like jazz-crazed saxophones. Why the difference? Simply this—the fuel.

With Conoco Ethyl Gasoline in the tank, your motor literally sings along because Conoco Ethyl delivers a steady, even flow of power—up hill or on the level. It won't knock. Hence, it eliminates that pounding noise—so hard on the ears as well as on the motor.

Being a proper admixture of Conoco, the extra miles motor fuel and Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound, Conoco Ethyl is the acknowledged pace setter for summer driving. It keeps the engine cool at all speeds—delivers maximum power and assures smooth, quiet running.

And best of all, it more than saves its slight extra cost by reducing wear and tear and by giving you the greatest motoring satisfaction you have ever enjoyed.

Try Conoco Ethyl today.

Conoco Ethyl is a proper admixture of Conoco, the extra-miles motor fuel, and Ethyl Fluid, developed by General Motors. All Ethyl Gasoline is not Conoco Ethyl. To be sure you are getting Conoco Ethyl, fill only at those pumps which display the Conoco Ethyl sign.

CHINESE OFF TO NEW WARS

KWANGSI ARMIES ARE IN ROUT; CANTON IS SAVED

(By Associated Press)

HONGKONG, May 23—Reenforcements from the north intended to bolster defense of Canton, Kwangtung, were diverted today toward Wuchow, capital of Kwangsi in a movement to attack that city before retreating Kwangsi armies can arrive for its defense.

Reports from Canton military headquarters said that in a battle lasting two days nearly half the Kwangsi army had been captured with the remainder everywhere retreating.

Enlist Mohammedan Aid

SHANGHAI, May 23 (AP)—Enlisting of considerable Mohammedan aid appeared today as a major stragetic move by General Chiang Kai-Shek, so-called president of Nationalist China, to preserve the Nanking regime against the attack of the central China war lord, General Feng Yu-Hsiang.

Western China has a large and powerful Mohammedan population whose armies in the past have inflicted severe defeats upon troops of Feng. They should prove a most powerful ally to Chiang.

Leaders Confer

Hankow dispatches today said two Mohammedan leaders had arrived from Chinese Turkestan by way of Szechwan province enroute to Nanking to confer with Chiang.

Meanwhile Nationalist forces were taking up positions along the Han Kiang and the Peking-Hankow railway.

Maxey Appointed

DALLAS, May 23 (AP).—Judge Rice Maxey, Sherman, has been appointed permanent chairman of a memorial committee seeking to raise a $100,000 fund to commemorate former Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, who died recently. Plans are for the construction of a life-size bronze statute of Senator Bailey on the capitol grounds at Austin.

Jury Frees Man

McKINNEY, Tex., May 23. (AP)—Fred McIntyre was acquitted on a murder charge by a jury here yesterday in connection with the death of W. B. Staley, jr., near Frisco. The verdict was returned after the jury had been out nearly 24 hours.

Tom Mix, indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of withholding $100,000 income taxes, says he "don't know much about this income tax affair." Probably he just got Mixed up.

WOULD CHANGE OFFICERS

CLEVELAND May 23 (AP)—A proposed new slate of officers of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad was named last night by the Taplin interests after the annual meeting of the railroad was adjourned without action today on the scheduled election of five directors. The Taplin set of officers and directors announced they would demand that the records of the Wheeling be turned over to them and, failing, would tak etheir battle into court.

In December President and Mrs. Hoover will entertain the members of the cabinet and their wives. In the light of present social amenities in the capital, we can only recommend that President Hoover bring on Al Capone to get this thing straightened out.

SHE PREACHES TO FRIENDS THE GOOD SARGON HAS DONE

"Since takng Sargon I have felt in better health than in the last five years.

"My stomach was in such an upset condition that most everything I ate soured instead of digesting properly. I would have such bloating pains after each meal that hated to eat. About twelve years ago I had a fall, injuring my hip and knee, and I have been troubled with rheumatism in my joints ever since.

MRS. LULU E. PETERSON

"An inactive liver caused me to be constipated and I was continualy taking laxatives. I had many a restless night from all this suffering and would be as tired in the mornings as though I had never gone to bed. Nothing I took helped me.

"Sargon made me feel like a different woman. My appetite has come back and I enjoy my meals. My stomach is soothed and my digestion improved so I don't suffer bad effects after eating. The rheumatism disappeared and I rest much better at night. I get up in the morning feeling refreshed and full of life and energy.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills toned up my liver and r id me of constipation in a natural manner. My whole system is reconditioned and filled with new health.

"Sargon has helped me so remarkably that I am preaching to all my friends about its benefits and will continue to praise this wonderful medicine every chance I get."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Lula E. Peterson, highly respected resident of 7814 Sherman St., Houston. Mrs. Peterson is a member of the Royal Neighbors society and also belongs to the Baptist church.

Sargon may be obtained in Lubbock at the City Drug Stores and in Slaton at the City Drug. Adv.

Spring housecleaning hint for Husbands

RADFORD paused in the upstairs hall.

"What!" he exclaimed, "not through yet ——."

From amid the chaos of housecleaning, Mrs. Radford looked up in exasperation.

"Get that coat off and help me put up this bed," she ordered, wearily shoving a stray lock of hair back beneath the towel about her head.

"How do you expect me to be through? I can't clean the upstairs, and spend the best part of the afternoon downstairs talking over the telephone, can I? I've been up and down those stairs forty times."

Radford had weathered many spring housecleanings. Wisely, he pulled off his coat and began to roll up his sleeves.

"I think," he observed sympathetically, "that an extension telephone up here in the hall might save steps and ——."

"Then suppose," interrupted his wife grimly, "that you order one for me tomorrow."

Telephones where you need them save time, patience, housewifely strength.

Few know that one or two additional instruments cost considerably less than the single telephone they now have!

By a wisely-placed "extension" or two, and perhaps a rearrangement of the equipment you already have, an expert telephone man can often double the convenience of your telephone service. Just mail the coupon.

TELEPHONING FROM A TRAIN

An invention that eventually will enable railroad passengers on a train to pick up a telephone and talk with any person on the continent was perfected in Canada the other day when a conversation was carried on between officials of the Canadian National Railway in Toronto and other officers on a speeding train. J. C. Burkholder, formerly of the Bell Laboratories in New York, is shown above with an operator, getting the connections as the instrument Burkholder designed transmits the voice to the telegraph wires alongside the track. Below is shown the train from which the transmission was made. Note the aerial along the top of the cars.
