"Frame-Up" Is Cry of Amarillo City Police

AMARILLO, April 15. (AP)—Charging a "frame-up" on the part of Potter county deputy sheriffs, Bob Harmon, city policeman and brother-in-law of Jeff Bartlett, city manager, went to trial today on a charge of drunkenness. Harmon claims he was under the impression he was helping the sheriff's department in a raid on a rooming-house, but was locked up himself. A charge of drunkenness was filed against him.

The sheriff's deputies charged they found Harmon at the rooming house when they went to raid it, and were forced to arrest the patrolman along with inmates of the house.

Textile Strikers Halted At Whitehouse

EFFORTS TO HAVE PRESIDENT TAKE HAND IS FUTILE

CHILDREN OF STRIKERS, BEARING PLACARDS, ARE SENT HOME

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, April 15.—Children of the textile strikers at Passaic, N. J., appeared at the White House today to picket the grounds as a protest against conditions they said existed at Passaic.

The delegation, numbering six children from 4 to 12 years of age, and five adults, in charge of Carl Trocola, a delegate from the United Fund committee, marched into the White House grounds with placards upraised but were told these could not be displayed under the regulation. Leaders of the pickets were received by Secretary Sanders who said he could see no warrant for action by the President. He referred them to the Labor Department. They first decided to depart, but changed their minds and decided to picket the grounds for a while and then parade down Pennsylvania avenue with their banners.

Guard Governor's Mansion. JERSEY CITY, April 15. (AP)—Police Chief Battersby today walled Governor Moore's home with uniformed men to prevent picketing of the house where the governor, Res. H. Pitty children were reported snatched from textile strike headquarters in Passaic, N. J., on forming picket lines.

Picketing Is Stopped. WASHINGTON, April 15. (AP)—Police today stopped the picketing of the White House by a group of children from the Passaic, N. J., textile strike district.

First they declined to allow the showing of placards in the White House enclosure which set off the messages the strikers wanted to convey. This was held to be an illegal demonstration which always are strictly enforced. Later, after the children and their leaders had indicated they would stay around while anyway, the demonstration was stopped by the officers who said the use of children for such purposes was a violation of the District of Columbia law.

(By Associated Press.) PASSAIC, N. J., April 15.—Picketing of the White House by children was a form of protest adopted for today by striking textile workers.

DANCE WILL OPEN NEW COURTHOUSE

The new Cochran county Court house at Morton is to be formally opened to the public Friday by a dance and an invitation is being broadcast to the entire citizenship of West Texas. Mrs. Morton J. Smith, wife of the time mover behind the construction program now under way at Morton, told the Daily Journal Thursday.

The beautiful court house there has just recently been completed at a cost of approximately $260,000, and is considered as one of the most stately buildings in West Texas, especially in view of the fact that the county of which Morton is the capital, is one of the most sparsely settled in the state. Much difficulty surrounded the erection of the building also due to the light of two towns in the county seeking designation as the county seat.

An Amarillo orchestra has been secured to furnish music for the formal opening, and a good time is assured for all who attend. Mrs. Smith said, following the formal opening the building will be given over to the county.

Lubbock Gets Next Medical Society Meet

The next meeting of the Panhandle District Medical Society will be held in Lubbock in September this year. Dr. J. T. Krueger, chief surgeon of the Lubbock Sanitarium, who with other local doctors, attended a session of the Society Wednesday in Amarillo.

He told the Daily Journal Thursday the meetings are held semi-annually when exchange of the ideas and general profession are engaged in. The discussion of problems of the medical profession will bring between 75 and 100 physicians and surgeons to Lubbock, Dr. Krueger said. Doctors J. T. Hutchinson, J. P. Lattimore and W. N. Lemmon, attended the Amarillo session from Lubbock with Dr. Krueger.

DEATH SUMMONS LORENE WALDROP

Little Girl Whose Sickness Attracted Wide Attention Died Wednesday Night

Miss Lorene Waldrop, 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Waldrop, 1611 8th street, died at her home at 10 o'clock Wednesday evening following a recurrence of an unusual blood disease, purpura hemorrhagica. She will be buried in Lubbock this afternoon following funeral services at the First Baptist Church at three o'clock with Rev. W. A. Doven in charge.

Miss Waldrop's recent illness with this disease attracted national wide attention and when it was thought that a blood transfusion would be made, offers of blood came from all parts of the United States. She had revived during the last few weeks and was able to sit up, seeming well on the way to recovery. The disease had a tendency to recur, according to physicians, and when a relapse came two days ago she was so weak she collapsed and did not recover.

After going to his quarters today Mr. Coolidge went to bed in order to secure complete rest.

His heart action and temperature were said by Dr. Coupal to be normal, but there was some intestinal pain. The physician expects him to be back at work tomorrow.

Oregon Indians Are On Warpath, Feared

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., April 15. (AP)—Klamath Indians at Beatty and Bly, two reservation towns in Oregon, are on a rampage of drinking, gambling and carousing and fear is felt for the safety of white residents in the district.

Local, state and county peace officers are powerless to cope with the situation, which is the outgrowth of a recent decision by Circuit Judge A. L. Leavitt, in a habeas corpus action, holding that Indians on the reservation are not under the jurisdiction of state and county laws.

Case Against Henan Girl Dropped Today

NEW YORK, April 15. (AP)—The improper guardianship case involving Mrs. Katherine Henan and her daughter, Frances, 15 year old bride of Edward W. Browning, 51, wealthy real estate operator, was dismissed in children's court today.

The complaint was entered by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children prior to the marriage. Justice Jost said that he felt that an investigation now could serve no useful purpose.

'Liberal' Wins

J. C. Maupin has been elected mayor of the town of Clarence, Mo., after a contest in which the religious views of himself and his opponent, L. P. Peterman, were the chief issue. Maupin was opposed by the fundamentalists of the town because of his liberal interpretation of certain Biblical passages; but he won by 110 votes.

LUBBOCK WOMAN STRUCK BY CAR

Mrs. Bertha Norman Parry, wife of Owen Parry, owner and manager of the Parry Auto Paint Company, of this city, was very seriously injured about 8:30 Thursday morning when run down by an automobile being driven by Clifford Wilmer, local man at the intersection of 16th and Ave. Q.

Mrs. Parry was rushed to the Lubbock Sanitarium in a Hogan-Burgess ambulance, where an examination revealed many bruises about the head and body, and possible internal injuries. Bones were broken, however, according to Dr. J. T. Krueger, Chief Surgeon at the Sanitarium, who made the examination. Mrs. Parry was struck by the car as she stepped off the sidewalk at the street intersection and two wheels of the machine passed over her body, eye witnesses to the accident said.

Picked Up Unconscious. She was picked up in an unconscious condition, and had not fully regained consciousness at noon, sanitarium attendants said. Her injuries are believed to be fatal, but pending further developments, the full extent of the injuries are yet unknown. Doctors said that internal injuries are entirely possible, but none have developed to the present.

Mrs. Parry is a trained nurse, having been in the employ of the Lubbock Sanitarium before her marriage which position she still holds.

Mr. Wilmer, a painter, about 22 years of age reported immediately to the police department after seeing that the victim was properly cared for. The accident he said was entirely unavoidable. No charges in connection with the case had been filed early this afternoon.

RAIL QUESTIONS TO BE THRESHED OUT IN LUBBOCK

MAY THIRD SET AS DATE FOR IMPORTANT RAIL INVESTIGATION

A hearing of the Interstate Commerce Commission docket No. 1372 an application of the Pecos and Northern Texas Railway subsidiary of the Santa Fe system for authority to construct a line from Floydada to McBain a distance of approximately fifteen miles will be held in the municipal building here May 3.

Information received here Wednesday by Col. O. L. Slusher, chairman of the Lubbock chamber of commerce railroad committee from C. V. Terrell of the Texas Railroad Commission which organization is co-operating in the hearing.

It was not made known in the telegram who is to be in charge of the hearing for the Interstate Commerce Commission and local leaders in railroad circles would advance no guess as to who would preside at the hearing.

Would Connect Q. A. & P. The proposed extension would run from Floydada to McBain the terminus of the Q. A. & P. and Pacific, a Priceo tributary, and although nothing is known as to the plans of the Santa Fe regarding the Q. A. & P. rumors, both present and past, have it that the Santa Fe is making an effort to acquire one line.

The hearing here will be similar to the one held last summer at Plainview before Examiner C. E. Holes when the application of the Fort Worth and Denver for South Plains connections was aired.

In the meantime, Associated Press dispatches to the Daily Journal say that the Santa Fe has asked the I. C. C. for permission to intervene and consolidate proceedings involving proposed construction and extension in West Texas and New Mexico, in which four railroads are involved.

Santa Fe Asks Intervention

(By The Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, April 15.—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and Pecos and Northern Texas Railroads today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to intervene and consolidate proceedings involving proposed construction and extension in West Texas and New Mexico, in which four railroads are involved.

YOAKUM OIL TEST IS PROGRESSING

Drilling on the oil test well, in the northeast corner of Yoakum county, is progressing nicely and a string of casing is on the way from Hanger, it was stated in Lubbock today. The well, which is located on the Hinkle land, 12 miles northwest of Plains and 27 miles northwest of Brownfield, is now down to a depth of 175 feet and drilling is held up awaiting the arrival of the casing.

R. W. Russell, of St. Marys, West Virginia, is promoting the test and T. E. Trunk of Pittsburg, West Virginia, is the driller. The well has been designated as Hinkle number 1.

Menus for the Family

Fish Omelet.
By SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Baked apples with cereal, fish omelet, corn bread, maple syrup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Tomatoes in rice border, radishes, whole wheat bread, jelly, milk, tea.

Dinner—Pot roast of beef, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered parsnips, stuffed celery, chocolate bread pudding, graham bread, milk, coffee.

A piece of beef cut from the round makes a delicious pot roast. If you have an iron kettle with a tight fitting cover no water need be used in the cooking. Seal the meat on all sides, then cover and cook over a low fire for several hours, depending of course, on the size of the roast. The meat actually boils in its own juice and is as tender as tender can be.

The fish omelet uses any fish left over from the preceding dinner.

Five eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, 5 tablespoons hot water, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 cups white sauce, 1 cup flaked cooked fish, parsley.

Separate yolks from white of eggs. Add salt, pepper and hot water to yolks and beat with a Dover beater until thick and lemon colored. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into first mixture. Melt butter in a hot iron frying pan or omelet pan. Turn pan to thoroughly butter entire surface. Turn in prepared eggs, spread evenly and cook over a low fire. When well puffed put on middle grate of hot oven to cook and brown the top. When firm to the touch fold and turn onto a hot platter. Pour around fish rebated in white sauce. Garnish with parsley and serve.

RAIL HEAD PLEADS IGNORANCE OF STOCK SUIT

ST. LOUIS, April 15. (AP)—In a statement issued today, James M. Kurn, president of the Frisco Railroad system, declared that not until reading a local newspaper containing the story yesterday afternoon, did he become aware of the suit brought against the Frisco system by Carl W. Brown in behalf of the company's preferred stockholders.

The suit alleges that the railroad, while failing to pay accumulated preferred stock dividends, has resumed the payment of common stock dividends in violation of an agreement made with the preferred stockholders at the time of the re-organization in 1916.

Mr. Kurn said that "we can see no grounds whatsoever for the filing of such a suit. In the first place, the re-organization plan and agreement left it to the discretion of the board of directors as to when dividends should be declared on both the preferred and common stock."

The statement further declares that the dividends on the preferred stock of the Frisco system are not cumulative and that since the declaration of dividends on the preferred stock, as of October 1, 1924, the preferred stockholder has been paid his dividends quarterly as required by the re-organization plan and the preferred stockholders certificates.

TEXAS CAPITOL TO FEEL INSTINCTS OF HOUSEWIFE

AUSTIN, April 15. (AP)—A woman governor's domestic instincts are not necessarily destroyed by affairs of state. Gov. Miriam Amanda Ferguson is considering a little spring house cleaning. Her board of control plans to ask the next legislature for $1,500,000 for repairs on the capitol and the governor's mansion.

A housewife with a keen eye for repairs that almost a century of male rule has done no credit to man's vaunted penchant for keeping his castle in order.

The Texas capitol stands like a Roman battlement, magnificent without but crumbling within, while the mansion is plainly a relic of a by-gone age. Sam Houston, the George Washington of Texas liberty, built the mansion, and the bed he slept in still stands in the guest room. To say that one has slept in Sam Houston's bed, is a coveted boast of overnight guests.

Mrs. Ferguson, however, would rather have a cozy cottage and let someone else have the honorable antiquities, even though the state does allow her $5,000 for fuel, water, ice, lights, telephone, furniture repairs, upkeep of grounds, and two men servants. This doubtful advantage, she believes, is offset by the harmfulness of the house, whose huge rooms are almost untenable in winter, because it would take a blast furnace to heat them and a hot fire endangers the structure.

It is in the capitol, however, that Mrs. Ferguson finds conditions most objectionable to orderly housekeeping. This great structure, one of the largest public buildings in the world, has an exterior which is the delight of tourists but an interior that is the despair of the official family. Its plaster crumbles and its tile floors buckle, while the roof leaks in places and the bare walls are stained by match scratches and the dust of time.

Two Members Named For Railroad Board

WASHINGTON, April 15. (AP)—Chairman Ben W. Hooper, of Tennessee, and Samuel Higgins, of New York, were nominated for the railroad labor board today by President Coolidge.

Mr. Hooper is a member of the public group, and Higgins of the management group. No name was sent to the Senate for the vacancy to be caused by expiration tomorrow of the term of W. L. McManis, of Massachusetts.

Injunction Granted Favors Magazine Men

BOSTON, April 15. (AP)—A temporary injunction to restrain the Watch and Ward Society from interfering with the distribution of the American Mercury was granted by Judge Morton in Federal court today.

In announcing his decision on the case which was argued before him several days ago, the judge said that in his opinion it was "plainly illegal" for J. Frank Chase, secretary of the society, to order news companies to refrain from handling the publications of which he disapproved.

Completed thirty-eight years ago, the building has an imposing exterior of pink granite, as bright and clean as the day it was carved from the nearby mountains. Chicago contractors constructed the building for 2,000,000 acres. The healthful outside appearance, however, has misled legislators for almost forty years virtually to ignore its inside needs.

Now the woman governor believes she can show the men a trick or two about housekeeping. The tubs and buckets placed in the senate chamber to catch rain and the wooden supports in the attorney general's office to keep the plaster in place are anything but pleasing, and the expense of hiring a man to devote all his time to repairing the floors is anything but economy.

GOVERNMENT SALE OF BEER URGED BY ANDREWS

WASHINGTON, April 15. (AP)—Restricted government sale of non-intoxicating beer probably would aid in prohibition enforcement, Assistant Secretary Andrews of the Treasury declared today before the Senate prohibition committee.

The prohibition chief expressed this opinion in a reply to a series of questions, narrowing down the field of consumption of such beer and stipulating that sale should be by the government itself.

"Do you not believe that the legal sale of liquor non-intoxicating in fact would be a most improved condition?" was the first question of the series asked by Julian Codman, counsel for the wet.

"Well, with government sale and distribution and no saloons," suggested Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri. "Not to be drunk anywhere except in the home," queried Andrews. "Or first class hotels," added Reed. "My opinion is that it probably would aid in law enforcement," Andrews said. He added, however, that it would be "disastrous" to have the sale of beer and wine in open saloons; that these saloons would become blind for hard liquor sales.

On the question of twelve percent wine, General Andrews would not commit himself. He declined to express an opinion whether such wine was intoxicating in fact.

REGULATIONS ON FOREIGN SHIPS ARE STRICT

AUSTIN, April 15.—Strict regulations have been placed on ships from foreign ports by the state livestock sanitary commission and Governor Ferguson, effective April 10, and on cattle importations from Mexico to prevent spread of the hoof and mouth disease and eradicate cattle scabbies. Proclamations were made public today, one demanding that all cattle imported from Mexico be dipped immediately upon arrival in Texas, being effective April 12.

The proclamations require that all ships touching various foreign ports must be fumigated before entering Texas ports and that no Brahman cattle can be imported into Texas unless after several days spent in quarantine and disinfection and inspection by an inspector of the livestock sanitary commission.

Ships without livestock, but having hay, straw, hides and animal by-products, must be disinfected before making port in Texas and no garbage can be disposed of within three miles of the coast, the proclamation rules.

The proclamation states that the hoof and mouth disease of cattle came from foreign countries via ship into Texas and prevention of recurrence of the ravages of the disease is sought through the promulgation of the regulations.

It is stated that because Mexico is making no effort to eradicate the cattle scabbies, that Texas is in constant danger and rules that all cattle shipped into Texas from Mexico must be free from scabbies. The first dipping in lime and sulphate must take place as the cattle are imported from Mexico and the second within ten to 14 days, the proclamation states.

Keep Growth of Texas in Forefront Plan of Meeting

DALLAS, April 15. (AP)—Keeping the phenomenal growth of Texas and her neighboring states well-rounded and in the forefront of human and cultural, as well as material, development, is the basic purpose for which the Southwest recreation conference will be held here this week, April 15th, 16th and 17th.

The men and women who are actually administering the playground and recreation programs of the cities of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Oklahoma will at this conference discuss their individual, personal and community problems and exchange ideas and experiences for the broadening and improvement of their programs.

Five representatives of the playground and recreation association of America will meet with them to bring national experience in the administration of recreation program.

Eugene T. Liss, of Chicago, nationally known speaker on recreation subjects; Oswald Petter, Southwest district representative of the Carrigan association; John A. Martin, recreation specialist; J. B. Carrigan, publicity representative of the association, and Roy Smith Wallace, of New York, director of the field department of the association are the five.

The first conference of this body was held in Houston last year with 8 cities represented. Cities from which representatives are expected to be in attendance this year are, for Texas: Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Dallas, Teasdale, Galveston, Wichita Falls, Waco, Austin, Texarkana, Lampasas and Brownsville.

Louisiana cities are: New Orleans, Shreveport, Abbeville, New Iberia, Alexander, Morgan City, Lafayette and Baton Rouge.

Arkansas cities are: Blytheville, Little Rock, Fort Smith and El Dorado, Guthrie, Oklahoma and Coffeyville, Kansas, representatives are also expected.

American League Battles Feature Second Day Of Season But Dean's Hurling Bright Spot In National

(By The Associated Press) American League baseball battles provided the features of the second day of the season, although Wayland Dean, youthful right-hander sent to the Phillies by the Giants, allowed the Braves only four hits.

The Red Sox and Yankees continued their tremendous slugfest at Boston, but at the end of the tables of the previous day's three-hour tussle had been reversed. The veteran Stanley Coveleski, pitching for Washington, held to check the powerful Philadelphia Athletics at Walter Johnson has gone on Tuesday.

From the Southern training camps had drifted report that the Red Sox carried only two or three dependable hitters and the Yankees' journey up the Atlantic coast, which 17 successive victories over the Brooklyn Dodgers and indicated that the once champion had returned to a hitting strength that would sweep all before it.

But in the Red Sox the Yankees encountered worthy foes who fought them tooth and nail on the cold opening day only to fall at last by one run, 12 to 11. With the weather improved for base ball yesterday, the Bostonians continued their vicious hitting and the Tanks could not match it. In the two days the Red Sox had made 19 runs on 29 hits while the Yanks have made 19 runs on 25 hits. Yesterday's count was 3 to 7 in Boston's favor.

Far different is the situation in Washington, where for 24 innings the Athletics have managed to score a single run and 12 safeties. Walter Johnson shut them out Tuesday, 1 to 0. In 15 innings, and yesterday Coveleski, whose strained back made him a failure in the last World's Series, permitted only six hits in nine innings.

Three Braves' pitchers were pounded while Dean was giving his excellent demonstration at Philadelphia. The youngster gathered three safeties himself in a hitting spree that saw Wertz, Ryan and Graham, of Boston, in trouble. The score was 10 to 1.

The Cubs made nine hits count for as many runs while Cincinnati could count only twice on 13 safe blows. Carl Mays, veteran submarine ball artist, was knocked out of the box.

At St. Louis, the World Champion Pirates turned on the Cardinals and gained a two to three verdict with Krenn pitching excellently. Hornsby of the Cardinals, who had a perfect day at bat on Tuesday, was able to solve Krenn.

With a right-hander opposing them the Giants used their sticks to good effect against Brooklyn and won, 9 to 5. King, with the Phillies, last year pitched steadily after a shaky start for McGraw's team. Shortstop Jackson of the Giants made a homer.

Youthful Golf Star

Virginia Van Wie

Miss Virginia Van Wie recently stepped into the golfing spotlight by defeating Glenna Collett, national champion in the finals of the Florida east coast tournament. Though only 17 years old, the little Chicago lass matched stroke with her more experienced opponent, finally winning on the nineteenth hole. No less a personage than Miss Collett predicts her conqueror will be national queen of the fair sex domain within the not too distant future.

Sunday morning, and the finals will begin at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Tickets issued at the morning session will entitle the holder to entrance into the park in the afternoon also, Mr. Woffard said.

National "Stop" Law Urged By Engineer

EL PASO, Texas, April 15. — The ghastly toll of life taken daily at grade crossings throughout the United States would be greatly reduced were a national "stop" law enacted by congress in the opinion of R. Kuntz, an official of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and an engineer on the Southern Pacific railroad.

Mr. Kuntz has written congressman Claude B. Huddspeth of El Paso district asking his support of a measure designed to force automobiles to come to a full stop before passing over railroad or street car tracks at grade crossings. Mr. Kuntz, in his letter to the congressman, says that notwithstanding the large sums spent by the railroads on warning signals, gates, etc., the motoring public pays little if any attention to these.

Texas Freight Rates Frowned On By I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, April 15. (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission has found to be unreasonable intrastate rates on brick and other clay products from points in Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma and Kansas to destinations in those states and in Louisiana and to Memphis, Tenn. Rates from Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma to points in Southern Missouri also were found unjustified.

It also found to be unjustly discriminatory intrastate rates on the same commodities, except common brick, in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Southern Missouri. The commission ordered establishment of a new scale of intrastate rates for single hauls ranging from 4.5 cents a hundred pounds for distances up to ten miles to 25.5 cents for 1,000 miles. It left to the state commissions the fixing of reasonable intrastate rates based on the interstate scale which the commission.

Inscriptions May Tell Ideas Of Old Egyptians, Thought

BERKELEY, Calif., Apr. 15. (AP) — Religious beliefs regarding life beyond the grave held by Egyptians more than 3,000 years before the birth of Christ, may be revealed in inscriptions on stones just discovered in the University of California Museum.

Two stones on which inscriptions were carved served as the jamb and lintel of the tomb of Sennetum, which was explored by archeologists about the time the civil war ended. Sennetum probably was an officer of the ancient king of Egypt and served as a guardian of the Valley of the Kings, where the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen was invaded by scientists. He may have been the founder of an hereditary line of keepers whose duty it was to guard the ombs from the depredations of grave robbers, a form of outlawry that was old as mankind itself, say Dr. H. F. Lutz, professor of Egyptology. He expects to make known a translation of the inscription soon.

Only A Few Swallows Of Rebuttal Remain In Bottle Of Evidence As 'Cocktail Trial' Draws To Close

(By The Associated Press) SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 15.—With but a few swallows of rebuttal testimony remaining in the bottle of evidence, the cocktail courtmartial of Colonel Alexander S. Williams today was expected to turn down its empty glass over brief concluding arguments and possibly develop a verdict before night.

Defense counsel for the suspended Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of Marines rested their case late yesterday, after introducing evidence pointing to Brigadier General Smedley D. Butler's tooth troubles and Colonel Williams' hexyl resorcinol as underlying causes of the General's belief that the Colonel was staggering drunk at the Hotel Del Coronado, a few hours after the General had refused to drink cocktails at the Colonel's home. Hexyl resorcinol, a half dozen doctors explained from the witness stand is a chemical compound useful in the treatment of certain diseases but unfortunately apt to induce gastric trouble, nausea or dizziness.

One of the doctors, a navy surgeon, said he had been treating the defendant since last January for a serious net Williams from doing military duty, but required him to continue taking hexyl resorcinol.

But a few days after the night in question, the witness continued, Colonel Williams returned to him with the news that the hexyl resorcinol had been giving him gastric irritation and plenty of it.

Previous witnesses already had testified that when they saw Colonel Williams at the hotel he appeared sick rather than intoxicated.

General Butler's condition, on the other hand, said the surgeon who examined him a few days after the episode, was that of a man suffering from a blood pressure and nervous exhaustion, "easily excited," with poor vision in his left eye.

FEEDING CHILDREN

Judge Henry Neil, father of the mothers' pension law in Illinois, which was subsequently adopted in 42 other states, says that 50 per cent of America's 25,000,000 American school children are underfed.

He is touring the country, speaking to men's organizations, urging laws to compel the board of directors of any school to furnish, free, adequate food to fully nourish ill-fed children.

But why not go to the mothers? Judge Neil answers that men's organizations will do more for children generally than women; women will do more for their own children than men. A woman regards every other child as a competitor with her own child and wants her child to excel, he says, while men are more apt to act for the greater good of all children.

KINDNESS WINS MEN

There is a quality of gentlemanly kindness that inspires leaders and wins men. That may be one reason why the soldiers of the Confederacy were ready to follow Gen. Robert E. Lee to the cannon's mouth. This little incident, related by an ex-soldier to one of Lee's biographers Maj. Gen. Sir Frederick Maurice of the British army, is an example.

In May 1864, the private and a friend were foraging and entered a little farm house near Fredericksburg. A kind old lady invited them to eat, saying she was just about to feed some other soldiers. The two privates washed up in preparation for the meal.

Upon entering the dining room, they were amazed and confused to find, sitting at the table, Gen. Lee and Gen. Wade Hampton. Here was a situation for you, the commanding officer of an army, and one of his cavalry chiefs, paired for dinner with two plain privates of the rearmost ranks.

The private backed away, stammering excuses, making for the door. But did not reach it. They were stopped by Lee himself.

"Men, you need this food more than we do," he said. "Sit down and help yourselves. Come, general, we will be moving on."

DRY LAW

Thirsty gentlemen who see modification of the prohibition amendment in the immediate offing are referred to the following amendment to the Constitution of the United States:

Section 1. The manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territories subject to the jurisdiction thereof, for beverage purposes, is hereby prohibited.

Section 2 of the amendment sets forth the manner of its adoption by the states, and section 3 empowers congress to enforce the article by "appropriate legislation."

The only way that article can be removed from the body of the law is by repeal by the state — thirty-six states out of the forty-eight composing the Union, must act before the amendment can be repealed.

Whatever is intoxicating is illegal in the meaning of the eighteenth amendment and its enforcing act, the Volstead Law. Conceivably the Volstead law might be modified or repealed, but any modification that would permit of the manufacture, sale an attractive, middle-aged man, unmarried and rich. One is AUDREY, his young adopted daughter. The other is NONA, a Chicago girl.

Faith Hath Her Rewards

THESE WOMEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY Two women are contesting for the love of HARRY MORTON—

For 15 years he has maintained an expensive home in PEORIA, and an apartment in CHICAGO, between which he divides his time. PEORIA gains never have learned what his real business is, nor anything about his past.

To divert Audrey's love for him, he hires JOHN PARRISH as his secretary. Parrish is young, and good. Audrey detects Morton's plan. He then sends for Nona to come to PEORIA. Audrey learns of Nona's coming, meets her, but Morton and Nona evade her. Morton leaves Nona at the elevator of her hotel that night, but does not return home. Audrey waits for him all night, brokenhearted. She learns from Nona the actual story of the night before. The three go together to CHICAGO, where Audrey overhears Morton make an appointment to be at the Bon cabaret the following midnight.

(Now Go On With The Story) (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XVI Young John Parrish arrived at Morton's Chicago office next morning, his face filled with gloom.

Morton looked up quizzically as the young man marched into his presence, his overcoat still on, his briefcase in one hand and his hat in the other. He dropped the case on the table, and stood surveying his employer.

quitting my service? Do I understand that you think highly of Miss Morton?"

"Of course I do," said Parrish, clearing his throat.

"Then hasn't it occurred to you that so virtuous a young man as yourself should remain near her, to protect her from any contamination that she might receive from me?" Morton's words were icy, but his eyes were twinkling a little.

Parrish moved restlessly. Morton went on: "In your story books, did the saintly young knights run away from the dragon, or did they stay and rescue the maiden?"

Parrish was one of those men who blushed easily, and now his face was brick red. He stammered once or twice, but produced no reply.

"As a matter of fact, Parrish," Morton went on, with a quiver of a smile at the corners of his mouth, "you really did not want to quit your position at all. You simply wanted to do what little boys do—throw a rock and then run away. Isn't that so?"

Parrish found his voice. "Why—well—maybe that's so. I guess it is so. I didn't want to quit, but I wanted to tell you what I thought, and I didn't think you'd keep me."

"So you decided to run away," concluded Morton, dryly. "Now suppose we have no more of this little. You go ahead and attend to your work. If you think Miss Morton needs rescuing, go ahead and rescue her."

He swung around in his chair again, and once more elevated his feet to the table. "And you say the people in Peoria were much interested in my young body friend?"

Parrish was very earnest in his answer. "Indeed they were, Mr. Morton. They all said it was terrible that you should bring a woman like that to Peoria, when Miss Morton lives there, and all."

"How do they know she was a woman like that?" asked Morton. "People do like to be plaintiff, judge, jury and executioner, all at the same time, don't they? You tried it yourself, Parrish. It must be nice, isn't it?"

The young man confusedly arose, took his hat and briefcase and stood uncertainly at the door. "Was there anything you wanted me to do?"

"Go ahead and attend to your regular affairs," said Morton. "Get started on those guitar and dancing lessons. Now clear out!"

After Parrish had gone, Morton sat, a look of sincere satisfaction on his face, drumming with his fingers on the arms of his chair. He attempted a little work that morning, but would stop now and again for long pauses, looking out the window with a contemplative smile.

Toward noon, Parrish came in again. "I feel it's only right to tell you that Miss Morton called up and asked me to come to your apartment this evening."

"Do you want to go?" asked Morton. "Of course I do," the young man said, "but I haven't got my new clothes yet."

"Hang you and your clothes!" snorted Morton. "Go in the clothes you've got on. Do you suppose she cares anything about your clothes?"

Parrish again retired, and Morton, donning his hat and overcoat, went out to the elevator, and down into the street.

The Bon cabaret was crowded with after-theater patrons that night. It was a curiously mixed crowd. Sober, plain citizens, with their alert, plump wives, jogged solemnly around the dance floor, bumping elbows with little flappers whose low cut gowns were far too décolleté for their thin forms. Some of the flappers were with elderly, purple-faced men, who whispered heavily in the girls' ears.

Reserved, sophisticated-looking women, in evening clothes, sat with sleek boys, half attentive to their escorts' rapid chatter.

The ceiling was hung with strips of shimmering silks, that waved lazily to the music, created by the auctioneer's band. A little group of men, in evening clothes, sat at a corner table, by the door. From time to time, at a signal from one of the waiter-boys, one of these men would slip out the door, returning presently to pass an object to the captain who had summoned him.

This object invariably turned out to be a small flat bottle of liquor. As in many of the night resorts, alcoholic supplies were kept outside the building as a guard against disastrous effects from a possible prohibition raid.

Just inside the entrance, the manager and an assistant stood always expectant when called away on some brief errand about the room. They scanned carefully each arriving guest. This precaution is considered necessary, in nearly all cabarets, since dry agents first began wandering abroad.

It was into this scene, with its attendant din of saxophone music, and high voices, and tipsy laughter, that Audrey and John Parrish entered a little before midnight.

Audrey was in an evening gown. Parrish wore his accustomed brown sack suit. He attracted no attention; though half the men were dressed much as he was.

Both of them looked around, a little uncertain in manner. To the boy-trotter captain who greeted them, they looked for a corner table. He led them around the room, to a nook where there was room for only two, closely squeezed together. The table was scarcely larger than one of those stands that are used to hold a single set of flowers.

It was almost in whispers that they selected their supper. After they had

"I don't think you're the right man to be guardian of a beautiful girl, and a good girl, and a girl like Miss Morton. I'm through now, sir. You'll have to get another secretary."

"You've had hardly any time at all for guitar lessons, or dancing," said Morton.

"No sir," said Parrish shortly. "I've just been riding up and down on a railroad train. I didn't see you yesterday at all sir."

Morton tilted back in his chair and crossed his feet on the table.

"I see there's something on your mind," he said. "Better relieve yourself of it early so you won't spoil your day. Why all the gloom?"

Parrish stood on the other side of the polished walnut drumming nervously on the wood with his knuckles.

"I do want to say something, sir, but it's hard to say."

"Go ahead—don't mind me," Morton urged.

Parrish sat down. "Mr. Morton, you told me to talk, and I'm going to. He shifted the inkwell nervously, moved the briefcase further away, and went on. "Mr. Morton, I don't believe you are the right man to be Miss Morton's guardian."

He braced himself, as if to resist an expected shock. Morton, however, did not blink. He kept his clear eyes fixed steadily on Parrish.

"Proceed," he ordered.

The young man hesitated, and then continued: "Everybody in Peoria is talking about your going to the theater, and to a hotel, with that black-haired young woman. She's the one I took all that money for."

"Well, I thought I'd say this, and then resign my job. I don't think that you're the right man to be guardian of a beautiful girl, and a good girl, and a girl like Miss Morton. I'm through now, sir. You'll have to get another secretary."

"That's" said Mr. Morton.

Parrish had risen, but his employer motioned him to sit down.

"You have been quite frank with me," Morton said. "May I be quite as frank with you?" He removed his feet from the table, and leaned toward Parrish, on his elbows.

"May I remark in passing that you're an egotistical young ass?"

There was no heat in Morton's voice. Parrish squirmed in his chair, but did not reply.

"I think you're even a bit of a blockhead," Morton continued, comfortably. "Just how do you expect to improve Miss Morton's position by

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writer.

WASHINGTON—Determined as it was, the effort made, earlier in this session of Congress, to head off any more senatorial investigations during the coming summer failed to accomplish much.

The "busher" didn't work as "bushers" should.

Perhaps there won't be quite as many investigations this time as there were during the epidemic of them in the last Congress, but such as there are promise to be first-class.

To begin with, prohibition! This pending investigation was scheduled to be limited to two weeks but it won't be surprising if it stretches.

The investigation into the tariff commission probably will string along all summer.

The contention is that this was a highly meritorious commission but somebody hamstrung it, so now it's no good. That—if it happened—was wrong. Well, who did it? If he happens less crippled a useful commission.

His adverse critics say the president did it. Really it's an investigation of him. Investigating the president is "going home."

Finally, there's the impeachment case against Federal Judge George W. English of the eastern district of Illinois.

Strictly speaking, this isn't an investigation, but a trial. In effect, it's an investigation of Judge English, however, with the judge's removal as its sequel, if the Senate finds him guilty.

The senators, generally speaking, aren't any too well pleased at being tied up in Washington with investigations and impeachment proceedings just as the congressional elections are coming on.

CLEAN-UP DRIVE AT SLATON IS WELL UNDER WAY

(To The Lubbock Journal)
 SLATON, Apr. 15.—A clean up campaign has been launched in Slaton and will continue during the current week, at the end of the period, Mayor S. F. Kline will put a free garbage disposal wagon on the streets and bins of Slaton, gathering up all of the trash that has been placed in containers. Sunday, the pastors of the various churches made announcements concerning the cleanup program and officially launched the campaign. Monday, the Parent-Teachers Association of the schools will inspect the buildings and request the children to ascertain as to whether or not their birth is registered. Tuesday, the Boy Scouts will conduct a general cleanup campaign and will pick up all milk, broken bottles and other trash that they find in the streets.

The Rotary Club is to send a committee to inspect the water and milk supplies of the city, on Wednesday. Thursday, the Health Association of Slaton will hold a free baby clinic and will give free medical examinations to all children under school age. Friday, the Civic and Culture Club will make an inspection of the food handlers of the city, and the Wednesday Club will request store owners to place displays in their windows that will suggest sanitation. Saturday, the Slaton Chamber of Commerce will conduct a rural sanitation campaign thru the mail and by personal visitation.

WORTHAM SHOWS OPEN FOR WEEK APRIL 19

Traveling on their own social train of thirty double length circus cars the Wortham Shows are scheduled to arrive in Lubbock for a weeks engagement starting Monday April 19th. "The big carnival will offer all amusements expected from a show of its type," said their representative Roy E. Lindington who is at present in Lubbock purchasing supplies and arranging for parking of the show train here. There are over four hundred people connected with the Wortham Shows and they carry twenty shows and eight riding devices. Many folks remember this company from a former visit at Lubbock during the fair but the show has grown to twice the size since then.

Lubbock folks will see them in all their newness, as they are making only one stop between here and their winter quarters at San Angelo, where everything from wagons to tent poles was either rebuilt, painted, or bought new during last winter.

Many new novelties are being offered to the outdoor amusement devotees this year by Mr. Wortham. Several huge riding devices never before seen traveling with a show will be seen here. The Hey Day an importation from England is one of these large rides, like initial cost was $11,000 dollars and the inventor a years time to construct for portable purposes. The Lovers Retreat, Jolly Frolic, Charleston Swings are the other new rides with the staples such as the Caterpillar, Merry-go-round, Ferris Wheel placed in their old familiar locations about the midway.

There will be a number of worth while shows to be seen with their huge massive fronts highly decorated in gold and silver leaf, studded with countless hundreds of electric lights that will turn night into day. John T. Wortham the owner of the shows claims one good show as a public satisfier, and recent producer is worth a flock of penny antes, and has never permitted any show that could be questioned in the least to operate on his midway.

Some of the stellar shows to be seen are, Trained Wild Animal Circus, Circus Side Show, Motordrome, Mechanical Battlefield, Museum, Arcade, Mammoth Water Circus and Bathing Girl Revue, Jungland Zoo, Congress Of Philippine Dwarf Cattle, Monkey Speedway, and a dozen or more others of smaller size. Performances will be held afternoon and evenings in all attractions.

Keeping Germs Alive Proves Delicate Task

BERKLEY, Calif., April 14. (AP)—keeping alive diphtheria and tuberculosis germs is one of the tasks of Anthony Sallee, graduate student, who is seeking a doctor's degree at the University of California.

Bacteria must be had for experimental purposes and under Sallee's care are approximately one hundred varieties.

No epidemics are more exacting in their diet requirements than those of his—the invisible enemies of the human race. The hardy germs will thrive in a medium of beef infusion and other ingredients with Japanese agar or gelatine added to make the solution solid. Among these are the staphylococcus, which causes boils, and the typhoid bacillus.

The pneumonia germ and the streptococcus, which causes sore throat, are fed agar and blood. Most delicate germs must have an egg of beef serum.

Temperature is a vital consideration in the "culturing" of germs, for virtually all are killed at 60 degrees or less.

New Inventions Aid To Pilots In Fog

LONDON, April 14. (AP)—By means of new inventions air pilots are able to steer safely to a given point in the thickest fog. Flight Lieutenant H. Cooch has informed the Royal Aeronautical Society.

By means of delicate instruments in the cockpit a pilot is kept automatically informed when he is within 1,500 feet of the ground, and the loss of every foot of height as he descends is also indicated.

Other instruments show the aviator just what part of the aerobome he is over, after he has arrived in the vic-

WAR RELICS TO FALL UNDER HAMMER AT AMIENS AUCTION

AMIENS, April 15. (AP)—War relics are now at a discount in France. Aena soon will dispose of one of the "Big Berthas", the cannon which hurled shells more than seventy-five miles into the city after the great German drive of March, 1918. The gun, which was captured by the Australians and given to the city along with a number of others of different caliber, has become cumbersome in opinion of the city fathers. Enthusiasm of the victory of 1918 having faded there was no opposition in the city council to the proposal that the whole lot be auctioned off.

PROBERS VISIT MORGUE WHERE LIE SIX BODIES OF MEN WHO LAID DOWN LIVES TO KLAN AND ANTI-KLAN WAR; HEARING TO BE OPEN

(By Associated Press.) HERRIN, Ill., April 15.—A jury of Williamson county citizens will sit tomorrow in inquiry over the fatal shooting Tuesday in front of a Herrin polling place in which three klansmen and three anti-klansmen were killed. The jury is impaneled and has visited the morgue where lie the six bodies. Newspermen will not be barred from the inquest, the state's attorney stated today.

While the community awaits the verdict of the coroner's inquest, it is analyzing each side in the light of its own sympathies, the causes behind the strife which burst forth anew Tuesday just as residents were beginning to hope that an eleven-month truce meant permanent peace.

Members of the Loyal Sisters Needle Club were entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. H. Mansell, 2207 19th street, with Mrs. J. M. Bishop as hostess.

Graves Funeral To Be Held Tomorrow. Funeral services for W. T. Graves, who died about noon Thursday, will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the family residence, 788 Avenue K.

159 Loads of Trash Hauled from Lubbock

One hundred and fifty-nine loads of trash have been removed from the residential section of Lubbock since Monday morning, when thirteen wagons were sent out by the city to gather up and dispose of the rubbish gathered during the clean-up campaign last week.

B. C. D. TO ASSIST TECH BOOSTER TRIPS

A varied program of more or less routine matters faced the regular meeting of the Board of City Development here Thursday morning in a meeting that was postponed from Tuesday.

It was explained that the Retail Merchants association has agreed to supply transportation for the booster delegation, and the Board of City Development was asked to help defray hotel and meal expenses of the trip, which there will be two under present plans.

It was also decided that the Board of City Development will pay the expenses of the Lubbock high school vocational, agricultural, and business trip to the College Station where they will participate in the state contests.

Other business transacted included: approval of a trip by Manager A. E. Davis of the organization, to Houston next week, when Lubbock will make a strong bid for the next convention; a short discussion of plans for a big delegation to the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Amarillo in June; and round table discussion of a letter from the McCook, Nebraska Chamber of Commerce regarding a proposed highway from Regina, Canada to San Antonio.

Letters will go out from the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce in the next few days to all points in this section of the state that might be interested in the proposed highway in an effort to ascertain their opinions in the matter, and to what extent they will be willing to go to secure the highway. The letter from McCook asked that Lubbock have representation at a meeting to be held there May 16, for the organization of an association to promote the highway but definite action on this was withheld pending hearing from towns near here in connection with the matter.

WASHINGTON, April 15. (AP)—Assistant secretary Andrews, in charge of prohibition enforcement in a formal statement today said he was advocating no change in the prohibition law.

RAIL QUESTIONS TO BE THRESHED OUT IN LUBBOCK

The commission examiner, in a tentative report, recommended granting the Texas, Panhandle and Gulf authority, under certain conditions, to construct a line from Fort Worth, Texas to Tucuman, N. Mex. and to extend its lines to Lubbock and Plainview, Texas, provided the latter were financed by some carrier other than the Santa Fe or Burlington. The Santa Fe, in the petition, declared that Lubbock and Plainview and Tributary territory now is and will be adequately served by its subsidiary, the Pease and Northern Texas, and that the proposed line of the Panhandle road is unnecessary.

Wants Intervention Denied. In another petition, the Panhandle asked the commission to deny the Santa Fe the right to intervene as that road and its subsidiary are unaffected by the construction.

The Dallas Chamber of Commerce declared in a petition that it was not opposed to the Santa Fe intervening, but "selfish" interests of that road should not be permitted to delay construction of sorely needed rail facilities into the South Plains to provide shippers and communities a direct outlet to the markets of Dallas, Fort Worth and other Texas cities.

The Fort Worth and Denver, South Plains Railway and South Plains rail-road committee in separate petitions, likewise declared they were not opposed to Santa Fe intervention provided the proceedings were not reopened for taking of additional testimony.

NEW YORK—Irving Berlin thinks the jazz age is passing and the people now want ballads with a bit of feeling and sentiment. He has written his view from London where he is honeymooning.

More Gasoline is wasted by lack of proper carburetor adjustments than any other fault known. In the winter it is very easy to leave the 'choke' on longer than necessary to warm up the motor. This 'choking' is nothing but feeding more gasoline and less air to your motor. It is a glutton in its consumption of fuel. Go to a competent mechanic and have your carburetor adjusted at each major change of weather, such as fall to winter and winter to spring. It is a fact that fully 20% of our motor fuel could be saved if we were more economical with its use; if we did this our country would annually save about $250,000,000 and we would be conserving a very valuable and rapidly depleting fuel.
