Attempted Nazi Withdrawal In Baltics Futile

Lively Activity Is Reported In 'Iron Gate' Area

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 28 — Russian troops have invaded Yugoslavia after crossing the Danube just west of the Iron Gate at the Romanian frontier town of Orsova, the German communique made known today.

"In the Danube bend, there was lively reconnoitering activity on both sides of the Iron Gate," said the official war bulletin, broadcast from Berlin. "Soviet forces who have advanced south from Orsova in a southern direction were repulsed and enemy formations who had crossed the Danube were smashed."

Orsova is on the river frontier and only Yugoslav territory lies to the south. Moscow has not yet confirmed an incursion into the territory where Marshal Tito's partisan army operates.

The Germans asserted that several thousand prisoners were taken in Warsaw and that another segment of Lt. Gen. Tadeusz (Bor) Komorowski's underground army surrendered.

RUSSIANS CONTINUING SWEEP ACROSS BALTICS

BY DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Sept. 28 — Soviet military analysts described as "strategically hopeless" today the position of German troops attempting to withdraw from the Latvian port of Riga along a hotly strafed coastal escape road.

The Russian drive, enveloping an additional 200 Latvian settlements yesterday, approached close to Riga on the northeast. The German command decided apparently to move the bulk of its troops out of the Riga pocket, rather than risk entrapment by a possible Russian breakthrough west of the Latvian capital.

Front dispatches told of rearguard actions outside Riga and heavy enemy movements westward on the Tukums road leading to western Lithuania and East Prussia.

Meanwhile other Red army forces, outflanking the key Uzok pass through the Carpathian mountains, reached the soil of

Dewey's Swing Is Completed

BY JOHN L. CUTTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 28—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey completed a 8,545-mile swing through politically-important west and Pacific coast states today, confident of victory in November.

The GOP candidate arived back in Albany this morning from three weeks of extensive campaigning in 22 states, the electoral votes of which will play a major role in the presidential election.

When his special train stopped at the union station, Republican Chairman Herbert Brownell, jr., was on hand to meet him and they went immediately into conference. They talked briefly aboard the train and then Brownell accompanied Dewey to the executive mansion.

Met At Station

There was a fair crowd at the station considering the early arrival. The governor, Mrs. Dewey and Brownell motored immediately to the executive mansion. Brownell may remain overnight.

Associates of the Republican presidential nominee felt that he had accomplished at least two major objectives.

He outlined several points of his own program for the future in seven major radio talks and a host of rear platform speeches. They include his response to President Roosevelt's opening bid for a fourth term.

In addition Dewey felt that he had, through his conferences with

Reds Say No Split Of Reich Planned

Division Due For Occupation Only

MOSCOW, Sept. 28 (AP)—The official Russian news agency Tass denied today that the tri-power European Advisory commission in London is considering cutting up Germany into small states upon her unconditional surrender.

In a Moscow broadcast, the agency said, "the problem is often raised in the British and American press concerning the possibility of Germany's dismemberment into several independent small states. Projects of this kind, however, have not been and are not considered by the European Advisory committee."

Soviet Russia, the United States and Britain are represented on the commission.

Main Document Approved

The Russian news agency said that the following conclusions on the results achieved by the European Advisory commission could be drawn from available reports out of London:

(1). The committee has "approved the most important document, namely, on Germany's unconditional surrender.

(2). Representatives of the big three powers agreed on the procedure for disarming Germany. Tass said the agreement "also points out that Germany must be demilitarized in the interests of the preservation and insurance of peace."

Occupation Plan Set

(3). The commission approved a document on the procedure of the occupation of Germany. Tass said, "according to the draft of occupation elaborated by the European Advisory committee, Germany shall be divided into three zones of occupation. The eastern part of Germany, including also East Prussia, shall constitute the zone of occupation by the Soviet and armed forces."

The agency said, "Berlin, although it falls into the zone of occupation of the Soviet armed forces in conformity with the

Another Louisiana Elector Resigns

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 28 (AP)—Resignations today had reduced to five the number of Louisiana Democratic presidential electors pending action of the state Democratic central committee on plans to replace five others who resigned.

Four of the ten electors resigned yesterday rather than sign a pledge, demanded by the committee, to support the Roosevelt-Truman ticket. The electors were given until Oct. 2 to sign. Another resigned Tuesday.

Meantime Secretary of State Wade O. Martin said the state at present was without Democratic elector nominees, since the committee had instructed him to disregard its previous certification of party nominees pending further word from the committee.

Martin said also that the resignations would make it difficult for him to send military ballots to service men for the November election on time.

John Fred Odom, chairman of the state committee, said last night that the committee would meet on Oct. 7 to fill the elector vacancies.

OFFICER'S CHILD KILLED

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 28 (U.P.)—Benny Dick, 2-year-old son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Richard Dick, was killed last night when struck by an Army truck near the post theater at Barksdale field. Colonel Dick is operations officer for the Third Tactical Air command.

'Peace Cabinet' To Meet Soon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—President Roosevelt is expected to call his cabinet committee on German peace policy together soon on what apparently will be an effort to compose the split developed over Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's plan for destroying Germany as an industrial nation.

Informed official quarters said the meeting probably will be the committee's final session. Mr. Roosevelt is reported to have decided against the Morgenthau plan, which was its chief problem. The split over the Morgenthau proposals also is understood to have etched such basic differences of opinion between Secretaries Hull and Stimson and Morgenthau that the group's effectiveness has been impaired.

The President, it is said, may issue a specific policy order clarifying the line American planning should take on German peace policy or he may pigeonhole the Morgenthau plan, saying nothing about it formally.

Before Morgenthau advances his de-industrialization policy for Germany, American planning called for Allied control of Germany's postwar industry.

Russian and British attitudes on political and industrial control of postwar Germany and the extent to which the Reich will be partitioned are not fully known here.

Second Suspect Is Sought In Slaying

HARLINGEN, Sept. 28. (AP) — Officers today sought a second suspect in connection with the ax slaying Tuesday night of a laborer and the wounding of another, while one suspect was held in Cameron county jail at Brownsville.

Apparently Torivio Balderas, about 25, was instantly killed. Rosendo Abrego, about 24, lost an ear and suffered a deep gash in the head.

An ax with hair adhering to the blade, was found near the scene of the crime, committed during a heavy rain. The victims were sleeping in a workers' settlement near here and the house was tracked with mud.

Secrecy Veils Balkan Thrust

Guerrillas Of Greece Under Allied Chiefs

(By The United Press)

ROME, Sept. 28. — Greek guerrilla forces were placed under orders of the Allied supreme command today in anticipation of the liberation of their country, but military secrecy veiled the movements of Allied troops invading neighboring Albania.

Supreme headquarters of the Allied Mediterranean command remained silent today on the amphibious operation across the Adriatic, which was announced yesterday in a carefully-worded communique giving no indication of where the landings occurred.

Communique Cancelled

A special Balkan Air force communique which was to have been issued late today concerning the invasion across the Adriatic was cancelled without explanation.

A few hours before it was scheduled to have been given out, the communique was cancelled by "higher authorities," it was announced at headquarters of the Balkan Air force.

Yesterday's communique, which revealed the invasion, indicated the main blow was struck at an unspecified point on the Albanian coast, while other units landed on the Adriatic islands of Yugoslavia.

Guerrillas Aiding

The invading forces were being assisted by Albanian and Yugoslavian guerrilla forces, while preparations have been made for the Greek guerrillas to fight as a unit with the Allied troops in the Balkans.

Gen. Sarafis and Gen. Zervas, rival leaders of the Greek guerrillas, declared their full acceptance of the authority of the government-in-exile at a recent con-

Neutrals Warned

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP) — Secretary of State Hull disclosed today that neutral nations had been warned they would lose American friendship "for years to come" should they give sanctuary to Hitler or other Axis leaders after the war.

Several governments of neutral or former neutral status, notably Sweden, Turkey, Switzerland and Spain, either have given assurances that they will not permit Axis nationals to flee into their borders or that they are fully aware of the problems such action might provike.

Hillman Says Class War Aimed At PAC

GOP Said Making 'Big Mistake'

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. (AP) — Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO Political Action committee, said today that "the war being waged against the PAC is not so much a political war as a class war."

"That is where the Republican leaders, under the influence of the reactionary old guard, are making their big mistake," Hillman declared in a prepared address before a convention of the CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America.

Charging that Reepublican Presidential Nominee Thomas E. Dewey had distorted President Roosevelt's words in regard to preparing the nation for war by not quoting him in full and that Republicans had resorted to the "bolshevik boggy," Hillman continued:

Reactionaries Said Frightened

"The truth is that the reactionary leadership is badly frightened.

"It concentrates its fire upon the Political Action committee because it knows that our organization is a strong liberal influence in both of the major political parties. It fears us because we represent the people — because it dreads the day when the American ideal of a government 'of the people, by the people and for the people' will be fully realized."

Hillman said the PAC opponents attempted to create confusion and distrust in the Nazi manner through carefully planned discrepancies and contradictions in their arguments.

Expenditures Reported

Hillman asserted that PAC's total expenditures from the time it was organized in July, 1943, to Aug. 15, 1944, were $371,086.56, of which more than three-fourths was for salaries, travel, rent,

Ninety German Planes Bagged

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 28—More than 1,000 American heavy bombers today attacked German war factories at Magdeburg, Kassel and Merseburg. The railroad yard at Magdeburg was also hit.

The American bombers swept over the Reich for the fourth straight day, close on the heels of RAF heavies which carried the non-stop air offensive against German transportation through the night with a heavy attack on Kaiserslautern, important industrial city in the Saar.

The night raiders also made a side jab at Kassel, one of the four places attacked in daylight by American heavies which constituted about half the estimated 2,500 Allied planes over Germany yesterday and last night.

Troops, Railways Pounded

Probably close to 2,000 more fighters and bombers pounded enemy troops, railways and fortifications in the Low Countries and along the coast making it one of the busiest air days of the month.

The German airforce, while greatly outnumbered, showed more life than usual and made several rough swipes at the attacking forces but at high cost to themselves. At least 90 German fighters were destroyed, including more than 60 in the air. Allied losses were 44 heavy bomb-

One Man Candidate For Two Offices In Texas Elections

AUSTIN, Sept. 28 (U.P.)—If you bet on the election, don't forget the daily double at Elkhart, Tex.

Julian P. Greer will be candidate there on Nov. 7 for state representative and also for state senator. Besides that, he can't lose. He is only nominee on the ballot for representative.

Ordinarily a person cannot run for two offices at the same time in Texas, but the law merely prohibits that in the same election. On Nov. 7, Greer will be a candidate for representative in the general election. He will be a candidate for the state senate in a special election to fill the place vacated by death of the late Sen. Clay Cotten of Palestine.

Greer has served before both in the Texas house and the Texas Senate.

Thirty-Two Jap Ships Sunk By British Subs

By LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

British submarines sank 32 Japanese vessels in a series of daring forays to take the heaviest toll of enemy shipping in the Indian ocean yet reported, the Admiralty announced in London today.

They slipped into Japanese controlled Port Owen in southern Burma and sank two gunboats lying at anchor, shelled oil tanks on Christmas island off Java and ranged as far as Sunda strait between Java and Sumatra.

Java thus became the first meeting place of the striking arms of Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten's southeast Asia forces and Gen. Douglas MacArthur's southwest Pacific command.

Batavia, capital of Java lying 60 miles from Sunda strait, was strafed for the first time Sunday when MacArthur's reconnaissance planes made a 3,200 mile round-trip flight from Australia. They caught the Japanese completely by surprise in a low level attack.

Dozen Islands Struck

Other southwest Pacific bombers sank three freighters in sweeps reaching up to the southern Philippines, 1,500 miles northeast of Batavia.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' Pacific forces carried the air war north and east from there. They struck a dozen Japanese islands in a triangle reach from Palau 3,100 miles north to Paramushiro and 2,400 miles east to the Marshalls, including Truk, Marcus, Wake and Iwo.

Nimitz reported 8,537 Japanese have been killed in the Palau islands. He said only two pockets of the enemy remained on Peleliu, largest island of the Palau group invaded so far. For the first time he reported "rapid progress" on Peleliu.

Tokyo broadcasts claimed 35 U. S. planes were destroyed or damaged by the Japanese Air force intercepting Tuesday's Superfortress raid on Manchuria and in a counterattack as the B-29s returned to their base at Chengtu in northwest China. Tokyo claimed only four definitely shot down.

Jap Claims Counted

American announcements said the Japanese retaliatory attack on the B-29 base was "virtually

Permian Properties Are Reported Sold

MIDLAND, Sept. 28. (Special)—Sale of the properties of the Permian Oil company in four South Plains counties, Gaines, Hockley, Terry and Cochran, to the Stanolind Oil & Gas company, was reported to the scouts association here today.

The deals, one of the largest in West Texas in several years, involves 68 producing wells, most of them in the Slaughter field and leases on several thousand acres in the area. The consideration was undisclosed, but oil men here said in was "between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

GALLAGHER HAS "NOTHING TO REPORT" ON SALE

Charles R. Gallagher, president of the Permian Oil company here, said he "had nothing to report" on the above sale reported in Midland today. The company maintains headquarters in the Lubbock National Bank building here. The sale has been rumored in oil circles for several days.

Coastline Relaxes When Storm Shifts

HOUSTON, Sept. 28. (U.P.) — Citzens along the Texas and Louisiana coasts breathed easier today as the weather bureau reported an erratic tropical storm, which had the coasts under a three and one-half-hour hurricane alert last night, moved inland at Port O'Connor, causing no damage.

The hurricane alert was withdarwn last night, but small craft were advised to remain in port for the present.

The storm, moving into the gulf from west of Corpus Christi and looping northwest to strike the coast at Port O'Connor on Matagorda bay, caused tides to run high from the 40-mile-an-hour winds. A report from Galveston said a six-foot tide was running at that point.

A United Press report from Port O'Connor said residents of that locale were scarcely aware the storm existed.

British Reach Meuse River; Wedge Spread

Trap Shaping For 200,000 Germans In Netherlands

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 28—The British Second army drove eastward to the Maas (Meuse) on a 14-mile front from its Nijmegen corridor and formed a new offensive arc 11 to 14 miles southwest of the Siegfried end position of Kleve today as Gen. Dwight D. Isenhower built up a 2,000,000 to 3,000,000-man force for the battle of Germany.

At the same time the British fanned out westward from their salient, which was within 25 miles of walling in perhaps 200,000 Germans in Holland. These were in danger of being added to the nearly 1,000,000 enemy soldiers already marked off the combat list. Front line dispatches said the Germans already were pulling back from the area to the west of the corridor.

NEW LANDINGS REPORTED

LONDON, Sept. 28 (U.P.)—The Allies made new airborne landings on the Netherlands-Belgium highway in Holland this morning, the German Transocean news agency said today.

The British drive brought under Allied control the west bank of the river from Cuyk to Vierlingsbeek, towns from two to three miles from the German border.

Calais Citadel Captured

At the same time Canadian forces captured Calais, citadel on the channel, taking 1,000 more prisoners where a 7,000-man garrison had been reduced by a previous 1,000 captives. The fall of the town appeared to be a matter of hours.

But the loss of the Allies only bridgehead across the Rhine at Arnhem in Holland by British First airborne division troops, whose 2,000 remnants trickled back through the corridor, apparently had dispelled hopes of a quick victory over Germany. Prime Minister Churchill advised the House of Commons that the war in Europe might well continue into 1945.

Fighting everywhere with skill, determination and fierceness, the Germans threw Third army Americans out of their hard-won toehold at the entrance to the moat-ringed fort of Driant which guards the west-bank approaches to Metz on the Moselle. The Nazis declared they also had smashed a bridgehead across the Antwerp-Turnhout canal west of the Nijmegen corridor.

Against these reverses, First army Americans burst through the pilbox-studded six-mile wide Hurtgen forest, 14 miles southeast of besieged Aachen, in a powerful effort to tear open the blocked way to Cologne.

Canadian soldiers attacked through the canal lines around Calais on the channel coast. They worked across the western flats into the factory area, converted into a stronghold, toward the port district.

American everywhere, the Germans said, the Allied attack was increasing in force, from western Holland to the Belfort gap.

They admitted the loss of positions in a "heavy fluctuating battle against far superior forces" east of Lure, 15 miles west of

Numerous OPA Suits Are To Be Docketed

FORT WORTH, Sept. 28 (AP)—Fourteen injunction suits and one criminal case will be filed in federal court at Waco today as the result of a recent mass check by OPA investigators of price ceiling and rationing violations in Bell county, while findings of a similar survey in Gainesville this week were being studied by district OPA attorneys here.

The Waco injunction cases alleged violations by food stores, meat slaughterers, dry goods stores, jewelers and landlords at Temple, Belton, Gatesville and Killeen. The criminal complaint involves a charge of possession of stolen gasoline coupons.

Ninety-one investigations at Gainesville in a two-day check by 12 district OPA investigators revealed several violations of such degree that court action may result, Scott Reed, chief district OPA enforcement attorney here, said.

German War May Go Into '45--Churchill

LONDON, Sept. 28 (U.P.)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill implied today that Germany may stave off defeat until well into 1945 and said "enormous additional" American forces will be thrown into the battle if Nazi resistance does not collapse soon.

Fresh from the Quebec conference with President Roosevelt, the prime minister reviewed the global military and political situation in a 103-minute speech to the House of Commons.

Churchill said it was essential that Premier Josef Stalin join in an Anglo-American-Russian conference as soon as the military situation permits. He added a doubt that satisfactory agreement on world peace organization could be reached befoer the three heads of those governments had met again.

Will Not Hasard Guess

Emphasizing that he would not hazard a guess—and "it could be no more than a guess"—as to when the European war will end, and deploring "people being carried away into premature expectations of immediate cessation of fighting," Churchill said:

"Many persons of the highest technical attainment and knowledge and responsibility have good hopes that it will be over by the end of 1944. On the other hand, no one—certainly not I—can guarantee that several months of 1945 may not be required."

Churchill made these additional points in his speech, interrupted by a 57-minute recess of the House:

1. The United States lost more than 145,000 men in killed, wounded and missing in France; Britain upwards of 90,000; Germany nearly 900,000 in killed, wounded and captured. Another 200,000 or so Germans are cut off in the coastal areas, "and their destruction or capture is highly probable."

Big Force In France

2. The Allies now have between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 men in France—the designation apparently including the low countries and the strip of conquered Germany.

3. Nazi desperados may fight on fiercely in the forests and mountains of Germany after organized resistance ceases.

4. Britain, America and Russia are most anxious for the emergence in France of "an entity which could truly be said to speak for the whole French people, and it sems possible to transform Gen. Charles de Gaulle's legislative assembly into an elected body—step which would make possible recognition of the French provisional government.

5. The Allies should not be hurried into momentous decisions governing the future of the world, and such decisions cannot be taken finally without closer and more searching discussions.

The prime minister, two days after his return from the Quebec conference, sketched the campaign in the west since he last address-

Germans Show No Signs Of Surrender

BY HUGH BAILLIE
President Of The United Press
Copyright 1944, By United Press

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY Inside Germany, Sept. 28 — Nobody coming fresh from the United States with a preconceived idea that the Germans are on the verge of quitting would get much support for this notion if he visited the front lines as I have.

Maybe they are figuring on surrendering, but you wouldn't think so if you got up here.

From a command post in the front line before Metz with German strong points on both flanks, I looked through powerful glasses directly into the city itself. The steeples and buildings loomed clearly.

Pillboxes Stud Countryside

In the middle distance however, the peaceful-appearing green countryside was studded with enemy pillboxes and artillery positions from which occasional shells slammed into the American front.

The Americans were firing even more frequently. The sinister whispering of our own stuff going overhead would be followed by great yellowish black bursts upon the German positions.

The Germans appeared to have a big gun on an elevator which from time to time rose over a hill ridge, fired, and disappeared.

Germans Stroll In Open

Near one half-shattered farmhouse in plain view half a dozen Germans strolled in the open, evidently figuring we wouldn't waste shells on small groups, as it was their forts we were after.

Our own conspicuous situation was emphasized by an officer warning us to "keep down; don't allow a silhouette against the sky. It's not only your own neck, but we don't want to tempt them to send a salvo in this direction."

Artillery whackings were interspersed with malignant machine-gun chatterings at our right and left elbows, indicating the location of strong poinis.

Patton's Armor Stalled

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's great armored column, which rolled victoriously across France after the breakthrough, now has come smack up against the traditional fortress of Metz, which probably cannot be taken without a heavy air bombardment which was retarded due to the thick, rainy, foul weather that gave Hitler a breathing spell.

Further north, on Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army front, I entered Germany with United Press Correspondent Henry T. Gorrell. It was not his first trip across the frontier as he and Ernest Hemingway had been the first correspondents in.

"That's Germany right across the railroad tracks," said Gorrell.

Mud Over Shoetops

A minute later our jeep, slithering through mud that in many places was well over the shoetops, carried us into the Nazis' homeland at Rotgen, traveling in the direction of Stolberg.

Muddering along the road, I noticed a sharp contrast with the inhabitants back in Belgium and France. Here there were no waves, except by a few children. Most of the peasants don't even look up as the army jeep passes. The townsfolk mostly stare gloomily or glower.

Once in a while you get a surreptitious smile or a friendly eye, but rarely.

Peasants Continue Working

Ten miles into Germany and approaching the front you begin to hear the rumble of artillery, although the German peasants, like those in other countries over which the war has rolled, continue obviously working in the fields, even though shells are passing directly overhead.

We reached the colonel's headquarters close up. The weather was gloomy, the mud like liquid glue. American "GI's" huddled under dripping trees and in dank, muddy holes.

However, despite the low cloud ceiling two German Messerschmitts appeared, took a leisurely look at the town, and then the ack-ack commenced chattering. Everybody took to the holes or took shelter in doorways as if escaping a sudden thundershower.

German Factory Discernible

Presently we found ourselves at an observation post from which a big German factory, smoke boiling from many chimneys, was easily discernible; likewise German railroad trains chugging along parallel without a lookout.

Remember, this is not a strictly solid front like in the last war. It is a long projection or skinny salient into Germany.

Eenemy machinegun nests were right before us, but so well concealed that only a practiced military eye could detect them. A farm woman still was dwelling in no man's land. Whenever firing began hitting close to her house she waved a white handkerchief in token of strict neutrality.

Yanks Occupy Pillboxes

Heavy concrete pillboxes were all behind us. Some had been blown up, some abandoned, and our own soldiers were occupying them as shelter from the penetrating, bone-chilling rain.

The Americans dropped a shell pop into one German slit trench. Smoke arose. A short distance away a German soldier emerged from his hideaway, stood looking around, and then crawled in again.

Yanks in the observation post stood for hours looking death straight in the teeth, since it was a cinch the Germans were staring down our throats just as vigilantly as we were staring down theirs.

Nazis Shell Area

Presently they gave evidence of their interest, banging several shells into pastures very nearby. A few minutes later, as we were wriggling through the wettest possible woods along tangles of briars, half a dozen shrapnel airbursts whacked the vicinity.

"They seem to have plenty of stuff," remarked an officer. "They ladle it back to us around here just as fast as we dish it out."

After feeling all that optimism back home following the attempt to kill Hitler, following Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley's masterly strategy in breaking through and the unprecedented sweep of the Americans and British across France and Belgium, it was strange to see the Americans hung up under circumstances looking almost like a stalemate of the last war.

However, the explanation is that bad weather permitted the Germans to bring up tough divisions unmolested by our air superiority, plus encountering such formidable defenses as Metz; also running into rear areas behind the Siegfried line which possibly are even harder to penetrate, and on top of everything the rain and deep mud in which the operations bogged down.

A few days of sunshine may change everything.

He was private secretary to Prime Minister Venizelos in 1917, and in 1918 was appointed civil governor of the islands of the North Aegean. He graduated from Oxford in 1920, and as secretary to Venizelos in 1921, he made a nine-months tour of the United States and Central and South America with the Prime Minister.

He attended the 1922-23 winter peace conference in Switzerland, and witnessed a pact of lasting friendship between Greece and Turkey. Nightly, while his country was at war, he broadcast news commentaries in English from Athens. In 1941 he left Athens to join the Greek forces in Crete, and when the fall of that island was imminent, the government decided he was much too valuable to be captured and sent him to Egypt to organize Greek resistance in the Middle East.

He arrived in London with the Greek government-in-exile in Sept. 1941 and accepted a cabinet appointment, minister of information, a post he held until 1943. He left government service because he felt he could operate more effectively for Greece if he were not limited by reticences imposed by official position.

Bates Charges U. S. Tipped Off On Raid

BOSTON, Sept. 28 (AP) — The Boston Herald Wednesday quoted Rep. George J. Bates (R-Mass) as saying in an interview that "Military leaders and others high in authority in Washington were notified several hours beforehand of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor."

The Salem representative, a member of the House Naval Affairs committee, "attributed the disaster to official blundering in Washington," according to the interview.

The paper quoted Bates as saying "Current investigations at the War and Navy departments had thus far uncovered no evidence to justify the court-martialing of General Short and Admiral Kimmel, Army and Navy commanders at Hawaii."

In the interview Bates said that "although the warning of the impending attack came through several hours before it occurred, official Washington did not decide to do anything until one hour before the Jap planes appeared.

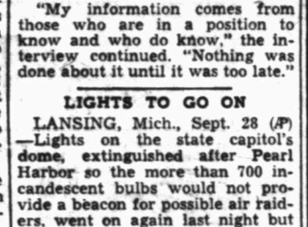

"My information comes from those who are in a position to know and who do know," the interview continued. "Nothing was done about it until it was too late."

LIGHTS TO GO ON

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 28 (AP) —Lights on the state capitol's dome, extinguished after Pearl Harbor so the more than 700 incandescent bulbs would not provide a beacon for possible air raiders, went on again last night but only for a brief test. They are to be turned on to stay in celebration of the fall of Germany.

Heroic Deeds Mark Rescue At Arnhem

BY RICHARD D. McMILLAN
United Press War Writer

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY Before Arnhem, The Netherlands, Sept. 26 (Delayed) — Before the Red Devils of the British First airborne division withdrew during the night from their bridgehead around Arnhem where for nine days and nights of hell they made the classic stand of this war, many heroic efforts were made to relieve them. This is the story of the last and perhaps the most heroic.

British relief detachments rowed across the river in the early morning darkness of yesterday in assault boats. There was little opposition at first but once the first boats touched the opposite shore, the Germans opened up with mortars and machineguns which covered the surface of the water, 230 yards from shore to shore, with fire and death. Their tracers cast an eerie red light over all.

Nazis Intensified Barrage

Strong German forces rushed into the ground between the river bank and the hill top where the Red Devils fought grimly on despite decimating casualties and hopeless odds. They intensified the murderous barrage falling in the river and splashing among the relays of assault boats struggling against the current to get across.

With the first light of dawn, the project became impossible. Germans along the north bank were picking off the rescuers as they embarked on one side and disembarked on the other. Assault boats, rafts, equipment, and stores, junk now, were drifting downstream. Soldiers who had manned them struggled in the water, swimming in a hail of bullets, frantically trying to reach safety.

Counter Fire Laid Down

The British forces on the south bank were laying down a counter fire and sent over a smoke screen. Two loaded boats fell into German hands.

During last night what remained of the First airborne division returned from their hell, some 2,000 of what had been approximately 9,000 men. They simply walked away from their perimeter in small groups, leaving their wounded behind, and were ferried across the river under a murderous barrage under cover of the night.

(It was assumed that the same force which made the ill-fated last effort to take relief to the Red Devils ferried the survivors across the river 24 hours later.)

The surviving Red Devils were not disheartened. They bitterly regretted that their bridgehead had not been held, but they knew that their stand had made the capture of the Nijmegen bridge possible and by denying the bridge to the Germans, compelled them to send their reinforcements to Nijmegen by a roundabout way causing them to arrive too late.

Cotton Crop Valued At $270,000,000

AUSTIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—A. B. Cox, professor of cotton marketing at the University of Texas, today predicted the 1944-45 Texas cotton crop would bring farmers $245,000,000 for lint and $25,000,000 for seed.

Based on an estimate of 1,605,000 bales total production, Dr. Cox anticipated that the black and Grand Prairies district would produce 640,000 bales, the Abilene-Haskell area 540,000 bales and the Lubbock-Lamesa-Tahoka-Levelland area 425,000 bales as the leading districts.

Steelworkers Vote To Return To Work

DALLAS, Sept. 28 (AP)—Receipt of a telegram from Philip Murray, United Steelworkers of America (CIO) head and CIO president, has resulted in a vote by a Mosher Steel company plant workers here who walked out Sept. 15 to return to work under protest.

Murray's telegram appealed to the workers to return to their jobs in accordance with the organization's no-strike pledge and added that he would continue efforts to persuade government agencies to enforce directive orders of the National War Labor board.

Cause of the dispute, over which more than 100 employes walked out, was listed as the firm's failure to meet a WLB order concerning vacations and the inclusion of a maintenance of membership clause in its contract with the local union.

Lawrence Bench, subregional director of United Steel Workers, said the workers voted to go back to work under protest, looking forward to the directive orders being placed in effect by the company or to the Army taking over to place the orders in effect.

H. W. Beutel, works manager for Mosher, said that employes have been returning gradually since the walk-out began and that about 70 per cent of normal had been reached before last night's election. He said the election would affect the remaining 30 per cent.

German Officers Held Pistols On Troops

Nazis Had To Be Dug Out Of Brest, Correspondent Writes

BY BARBARA WACE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH U. S. INFANTRY DIVISION INSIDE BREST, Sept. 12 (Delayed)—Today from inside the city I watched hundreds of Germans surrender while the story of how these Nazis literally were dug and burned out of their holes was told to me by Sgt. Mark Barron, former Associated Press drama critic in New York, and a native of Waco, Texas.

Barron, who wanted to see something of the street fighting himself, had reached one block from the American front lines when a sniper started shooting at his jeep from a four-story building on Avenue Jean Jaures, Brest's main street.

Finds Good "Library"

"We jumped out of that jeep faster than you would believe possible," Barron said, "and made for the houses on the other side of the street. Incidentally, the owner of the house had the most wonderful library—of wines—that I had even seen. That hour went quickly."

Barron told how mortars had been called up by Lt. Col. O. M. Barsanti, of Tonopah, Nev., while our tank destroyers poured shells to blast Nazis from the church fortifications. Shells from a small pocket of German resistance on the Crozon peninsula landed in the city streets.

"I sure wanted to get at that sniper," Barron said. "But you can't get near when they are in one of those high buildings. They hide themselves with a full vision of the street and the only way you can move them is by shellfire."

Barron described how Army engineers with bulldozers were keeping right up with the infantry to clear streets of debris so that troops could follow quickly.

Groups of battered Germans taken as prisoners passed by every few minutes. They had been rounded up from nearby houses.

"I talked to prisoners who said they would have surrendered earlier but their officers kept them covered with pistols.

Barron told me that when a German machinegun nest caught fire today GI's went in to help them escape, taking some to a prison camp and the injured to a first aid station—even though that nest was a spot from where the Jerries relentlessly had swept doughboy ranks, causing many casualties.

Security Talks Are Indecisive

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Officials of the United States, British and Russian governments wind up their world security planning at Dumbarton Oaks today without reaching the complete agreement they had hoped for when the conference opened six weeks ago.

Under Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, jr., chairman of the meeting, summed up the 90 per cent of agreement he said had actually been accomplished as extremely satisfactory progress toward reaching a basis for a world organization.

Aggressor Vote Argued

The main point left over is whether one of the great powers, if accused of aggression, should have a right to vote in the proposed world council on whether the accusation is to be sustained or rejected. Russia is understood to have favored such a right while the United States, and apparently the British also, argued against it.

The second phase of the Dumbarton Oaks talks is scheduled to begin tomorrow afternoon, after issuance of a joint news release tomorrow morning on the conclusion of the first phase. This concluding period will consist of talks by the British and American delegates with a Chinese delegation on the same points covered in the Russian conversations and any others the Chinese wish to bring up.

The Chinese conversations are expected to last about 10 days.

PIN-WORMS
Now can be Beaten!

The miseries of Pin-Worms have been known for centuries, and many doctors have sought a way to deal with this dreadful pest that lives and grows inside the human body.

Today, thanks to an important scientific discovery, a new and highly effective treatment is being hailed by medical authorities. It is based on a remarkable drug known as gentian violet. This drug is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm tablet developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines.

P-W makes it unnecessary for you or your child to suffer in silence with the embarrassing rectal itch caused by Pin-Worms, or to take chances on the real distress they often create. The small, easy-to-take P-W tablets act in a special way to destroy Pin-Worms.

So watch for possible warning signs such as: itching seat and nose, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, nervous fidgeting. If you suspect Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for a package of P-W and follow the simple directions carefully.

It is easy to remember: P-W for Pin-Worms!

Regulars Appeal To "Antis" For Votes

AUSTIN, Sept. 28. (AP)—Leaders of the newly-organized Texas Regulars, who have reportedly been trying to persuade the Republicans to withdraw their presidential electors from the Nov. 7 ballot, today renewed their appeal to anti-Roosevelt Democrats for votes.

Merritt H. Gibson of Longview, whose name has been mentioned as a possibility for director of the Regulars' statewide campaign, said here that the September convention "did not hesitate to embarrass and attempt to sabotage the most popular and statesmanlike governor Texas has had in many years, Gov. Coke R. Stevenson." He called on Democrats to vote for the Regulars' electors.

Republicans Adamant

At Brownsville, R. B. Creager, Texas' Republican national committeeman, said his party would not withdraw its electors, and predicted that many of the Regulars would ultimately come out for Dewey because of their opposition to Roosevelt.

Several leaders of the new party disavowed any efforts to bring about a coalition of forces opposed to Roosevelt. Among them were E. B. Germany of Dallas and Roy Sanderford of Belton, the latter chairman of the Regulars' convention.

Creager said, however, that the Regulars would like to see the Republican electors withdrawn.

Electors May Resign

The law provides that electors may resign up to 20 days before election day. Meanwhile, Secretary of State Sidney Latham sent to the printer copy for the sample ballot which he will distribute to county officials. If there are withdrawals, they must clear through him, and none had come to his office.

Gibson's statement here added that the September convention, controlled by the pro-Roosevelt faction, had refused to listen to President Roosevelt.

Gibson said Stevenson, prior to the September convention, "had just returned from Washington where he was invited by President Roosevelt for a conference at which the President agreed to a peace plan proposed by the governor."

He was referring to Stevenson's proposal that both pro and anti-Roosevelt electors' names be printed in the Democratic column on the general election ballot.

"They turned him down as promptly as they did Gov. Stevenson," Gibson added.

"Although this convention has always been regarded as the 'Governor's convention,' they wholly disregarded his expressed wishes to continue George Butler as chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and Charles E. Simons as secretary," Gibson said.

Germany Seen As Aviation Classroom For Pacific War

By JAMES J. STREBIG
Associated Press Aviation Editor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — Nazi surrender will open Germany as a class-room for an advanced course in how to batter Japan from the air.

The lessons will be those which the Germans are getting from American and British bombers day after day, the damage being offered as exhibits in how the job could have been done better —if it could have been.

Army experts are traveling close behind the liberation forces to study the effectiveness of United States Eighth, Ninth and Fifteenth Air forces work over Europe.

By coordinating their reports on damage with the amount and disposition of explosives and incendiaries by the bombers, lessons in destruction are being sent home for use in planning and training for future assaults.

More bad news for Japan is that the United States, having passed up the kind of flying bombs tossed at England by the Germans in favor of development on a broader scale, is driving at a controlled bomb which would have a maximum of effectiveness.

The German flying bombs traveled in a straight line at low and medium altitudes. This made them subject to ground fire in addition to attacks by fast fighter planes.

A high-flying maneuverable bomb would be extremely difficult for both anti-aircraft guns and fighter planes.

Reconversion Plans Passed By Congress Include Four Points

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—It's no wonder if the average reader is foggy about what Congress has done about the reconversion program to get this country back on a firm peacetime footing.

The congressional tug-of-war over the points of the program has taken months. Congress finally has passed four principal measures:

1. The "G. I. bill of rights" to take care of soldiers and sailors after they are mustered out of the armed services: Pay, benefits, training, eduction and so on.

2. The war contract cancellation act. This is intended to provide fair and speedy settlement of billions of dollars worth of war contracts.

Surplus Disposal Controlled

3. The surplus property act. This sets up controls on the disposal of billions of dollars worth of government property after the war.

4. And the act creating the Office of War Mobilization and reconversion. This office is supposed to coordinate—a fancy term which means to makes the pieces fit together without conflict—all the government efforts and agencies which have anything to do with getting the nation back to a peacetime basis.

The first two were passed months ago and already are law. The last two were passed this week. They await the President's signature to become law.

Several Proposals Rejected

You may have read about all the efforts to have the government:

1. Pay unemployment compensation to workers, suddenly thrown out of jobs, at a rate far higher than the various states control the compensation pay system. And the payments vary by states.

2. Pay transportation expenses—up to $200—for war workers' families stranded in unemployment in areas where there are no jobs.

3. Give federal employes, thrown out of work at war's end, unemployment pay. Federal workers now are not protected by the states' unemployment systems and can draw no jobless pay.

All of these proposals came to nothing. All were knocked out before the reconversion bill was passed except to this extent:

Government Aid Provided

The government will help out states' unemployment funds if they are too hard hit by the number of unemployed they have to pay in the years ahead.

But the various states' present rate of unemployment pay will not be increased through that federal aid to hard-hit state funds.

Congress passed a bill setting up an Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion (OWMR). Remember that name. It will be the big name in the turnover from war to peace. That office will last until June 30, 1947.

OWM Is Eliminated

It will have a director and government agencies dealing in any way with reconversion will be under his supervision.

As the bill becomes law, the present Office of War mobilization (OWM) is eliminated. This apparently eliminates also James F. Byrnes, OWM director who was appointed by the President and quit the supreme court to take the job. Byrnes has said he doesn't want the OWMR job.

Thus OWMR is to do for peacetime what OWM did for wartime. Actually, however, OWMR will be operating in wartime. For when Germany quits, there still will be the war against Japan.

U. S., Mexico Cooperating

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 28. (AP)—Relations between Mexico and the United States have not been better for many years, George S. Messersmith, United States ambassador to Mexico, in San Antonio today on his first vacation in four and a half years, said upon his arrival at a hotel. In a statement he said:

"Relations between Mexico and the United States have not, in many aspects, been better for many years. It has been a definite policy to collaborate fully in the political and economic field and during the last three or four years that collaboration has grown much closer and more fruitful in the interest of both countries. Mexico has its problems like any other country these days and repercussions of the war on its economy have been felt rather severely, particularly in increasing costs of living. In spite of war, Mexico economy has been able to sustain itself satisfactorily and her contribution to the war effort in the way of strategic minerals and metals and certain agricultural problems has been most helpful, especially in Henequin. Mexico has been our sole source of this.

Dealings Equitable

"All these economic arrangements between Mexico and the United States have been on a very equitable basis with neither side endeavoring to take side in these war contracts. I have every confidence that increased trade between the two countries, which has developed during the war, continue following the war.

"Considerable agricultural and industrial development will make post-war Mexico, without any doubt, one of the principal markets for American goods of all kinds, particularly capital goods in the immediate post-war period when such markets will be of particular importance to us.

"There is similarly every reason that the level of exports from Mexico to the United States will increase, particularly in the direction of non-competitive agricultural products produced in Mexico."

'Sky Giants' Expect Tough Battle Here

AMARILLO, Sept. 28. (AP)—Any complacency Coaches Dan Salkeld and Steve Sebo of the Amarillo Air field Sky Giants might have had about this week's game with Lubbock Army Air field was shattered Saturday night.

They saw LAAF beat Texas Tech 27-13 and here's what Sebo said:

"That Lubbock bunch is tough, they've got a guy named Buster Dixon who looked good. And they had plenty of reserves and substituted frequently. They will give us plenty of trouble; they charge hard and kick good."

And so the Sky Giants lost no time in getting down to hard work this week.

The Sky Giants play Lubbock Army Air field at Lubbock Saturday night.

Gandhi is the predominant leader of the Hindus. Jinnah is leader of India's 80,000,000 moslems.

Trucker Is Fined For Overworking Drivers

HOUSTON, Sept. 28 (AP) — A $1,000 fine was paid Wednesday by J. H. Rose, jr., owner of a truck line bearing his name, because he failed to require truck drivers employed by his organization to keep driver's logs Federal Judge Allen B. Hannay imposed that fine.

The judge said:

"If men are allowed to work 60 hours at a stretch, they are bound to be groggy from overwork and it is not safe for me, or you, or anyone else to drive on the highways. It is hard enough to drive one of those trucks when a man is alert."

Rose had pleaded guilty to 30 counts of a criminal informational filed against him. The drivers worked many hours more than the maximum allowed, the charge said.

Three drivers employed by Rose paid $100 fines each for falsifying logs.

Sports Editors In Houston Aid Vets

HOUSTON, Sept. 28 (U.P.) — Homefront bouquets for a praiseworthy service—making life a little easier and brighter for wounded American fighting men—went today to a Texas sports editor—Andy Anderson of the Houston Press.

Andy, a sports scribe with a heart as big as a football, is chairman and creator of the Houston War Sports committee, an organization that has made thousands of wounded veterans happy with sports entertainment.

Andy, whose popular daily column appears in the Press with the emphasis on fishing, and three fellow Houston sports writers were at McCloskey General hospital at Temple Wednesday to stage a sports quiz and to give away 100 silver dollars to the wounded soldiers who "stump" them.

Vic Emanuel of the Post, Dick Freeman of the Chronicle and Morris Frank, also of the Post, and Anderson went to McCloskey for the sports quiz.

Fishermen of Houston have donated rods and reels and bait to make the vets feel as much like fishermen as possible. Everything has been done to further the morale building program.

One of the most recent good deeds done by the committee is last Saturday night's football game between Rice institute and Galveston Army Air field. Rice agreed to give the committee half of its share of the proceeds to help bring scores of wounded men to Houston to see standout Rice games. The share, says Andy, will be around $3,000.

Andy recently returned from Fort Bliss where he conducted classes in fly tying, rod building, bait making and casting. El Paso sportsmen donated equipment for a casting club.

Rehearing Is Denied For Harry Bridges

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28 (AP)—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals Wednesday denied a rehearing to Harry Bridges, west coast labor leader under order of deportation to Australia, who seeks to remain i nthis country by habeas corpus proceedings.

Labor Hits Local Option, O'Daniel

AUSTIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—Resolutions for a halt in local option elections until after the war, for repeal of the Manford labor act and for "segregation" of U. S. Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel from Democrats went before closing sessions of the 47th convention of the Texas State Federation of Labor here today.

At a long afternoon meeting yesterday the legislative committee approved a program calling for repeal of the Manford act passed by the last session of the Texas legislature and for postponement of local option beverage elections until absent soldiers have returned. Three resolutions for delay of local option elections were offered to the committee. One was submitted from Waco, one from Jefferson county and one by Houston and Galveston together.

The resolution on Senator O'Daniel, before the resolutions committee called on Sen. Tom Connally to exclude O'Daniel from the Democratic side of the Senate. Another resolution endorsing the Democratic national ticket repeats the action of the preceding federation convention at Corpus Christi which declared for a fourth term.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM ADOPTED BY FEDERATION

AUSTIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—An educational program for labor to "counteract the negative, unhealthy, and anti-labor propaganda being fed by reactionary forces" was adopted here yesterday by the 47th convention of the Texas State Federation of Labor (A. F. of L.)

"Workers' education has ceased to be the stepchild among labor activities; it has ceased to be the sole province of so-called dreamers and intellectuals; it has ceased to come from the fringe of the labor movement. It now comes by dint of pressing necessity form the very heart of the trade union movement itself," said J. M. Parker of Houston, chairman of the education committee.

Definite Program Set

The program includes: A speaker's bureau to educate both union members and the public, discussing conferences, radio and visual aides, a one-week officer training school, and a campaign of letter writing to members of the armed forces in order to present labor's side of the production picture.

Dr. Homer Price Rainey, president of the University of Texas, told the workers: "When the history of this war is written, the great miracle of it will be the miracle of production."

Gov. Coke Stevenson touched briefly on post-war plans with which labor will have to deal in a state progressing from an agricultural to an industrial emphasis.

He praised workers for their "valiant giving of time and energy" during the war, and said that in his opinion Texas has the best labor record in the nation.

In preliminary nominations, Andrew S. McBride of Houston was renamed by acclaim as president and Harry Acreman of Austin, secretary-treasurer.

Condition Of Crash Victim Is Serious

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 28. (AP)—The British American Cowdray hospital reported today that the condition of Miss Cynthia Farie, of Miami, Fla., seriously injured in an airplane crash, is unchanged.

Her physician, Dr. Alfred Zollinger, said she has two hip fractures, a rib fracture and pneumonia. Yesterday he said her status was satisfactory for the present.

lection plate rustle. Never, she said, did she want to hear it clink.

"Oh Lord, she isn't gone. Amen-amen-amen."

Wail Sweeps Room

The Rev. Jackson wept. Sister Aimee, he said, had left this earth; there was nothing he could do for her now. A wail seemed to sweep the red velvet draped room.

"No-no-no-no; brother don't say it."

Workmen outside hid the 40-foot statue of Sister Aimee with new billboards announcing forthcoming services. High in the tower the radio staff broadcast the Rev. Jackson's address. A young woman slipped a note into the ornate green box, labeled: "Sister Aimee's private mail." A Bible student polished the glass of the case in which were crowded hundreds of spinal braces, crutches and other therapeutic devices abandoned by Mrs. McPherson's followers:

"Please God, have mercy on her."

Prayerful members of the flock trod the thick red carpets to the numerous chapels and study halls, in each of which the lights were turned low upon those kneeling at their chairs. Wails and moans echoed through the halls; a plump woman never noticed that her hat was askew as she waved her clenched fists above her head.

"Oh Lord, it cannot be."

Temple leaders planned to bring Sister Aimee's body from Oakland, to have it lie in state over Sunday, with burial later in Forest Lawn cemetery. Downstairs a middle-aged woman appeared to be dancing in the aisle, while the tears flowed from her eyes.

Oh Lord, please don't keep Sister Aimee away from us."

to the taking of adequate measures to insure that Axis war criminals do not find asylum in their countries."

In bringing pressure on these other governments, Hull disclosed, the United states has had "the support and approval of the British and Soviet governments."

"Hitler Not To Escape"

A few hours before the secretary spoke the Soviet embassy here sponsored publication of a statement that Russia's participation in the settlement of the war would provide the "best guarantee" that Hitler would not escape punishment after this war as Kaiser Wilhelm did after the last.

Hull himself brought up the question raised frequently at previous news conferences as to whether Hitler actually is on the list of war criminals already drawn up by a special Allied commission in London.

Any suggestion Hull said, that Hitler or any other Axis leader has been or is about to be overlooked is answered by the year-old declaration of Moscow providing that (1) war criminals guilty of specific actions against people shall be returned to the scene of those actions for trial and (2) "those accused of more general crimes against nations or civilization itself shall be punished by joint action of the Allies."

Churchill's Speech

ed Commons, then turned to the Far East and declared:

"I can assure the House that the war against the Japanese and other diseases of the jungle will be pressed forward with the utmost energy."

Full Agreement Reached

He said complete agreement was reached at Quebec, where it was decided to make no changes in the chiefs of staff, that the British fleet was offered for major operations against Japan and cordially accepted; that a large portion of the British fleet already is in the Indian ocean; and that the scale of the British effort against the Japanese would be limited only by available shipping.

"There is a possibility that after the organized resistance of the German state and army is completely broken, fierce warfare may be maintained in the forests and mountains of Germany by numbers of desperate men, conscious of their own guilt and impending doom," Churchill said.

He added, however, that he did not consider the declared date of the end of the war must necessarily be postponed until the last desperado in Germany is tracked down.

European War Changed

He said that during the five weeks Commons has been in recess the face of the war in Europe had changed completely.

Plunging immediately into the military situation on the western front, he said it well may be that 200,000 Germans are cut off in the coastal areas and their destruction or capture is highly probable.

"The vast and brilliant encircling movements of the American armies will ever be a model of military art and an example of the propriety of running risks," he said. "The lightning advance of the British armies has not been surpassed anywhere."

Paying tribute to the British First airborne division which fought the battle of Arnhem, he said:

"The casualties have been grievous, but for those who mourn there is the consolation that the sacrifice was not needlessly demanded. 'Not in vain' may be the pride of those who survive and the epitaph of those who fell."

He said the Seventh army campaign through southern France and its joining with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command was accomplished in less than half the time prescribed and expected.

Big Force In France

The Allies now have between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 men in France, Churchill said. In the first 24 hours of the invasion, 250,000 were landed and by the 20th day 1,000,000 were ashore.

"A 'very hard task' lies before the Allies in Italy, but conditions henceforth will be more favorable for the destruction or rout of Marshal Albert Kesselring's forces," he said.

Churchill said the United States has lost in France more than 145,000 men in killed, wounded and missing, including the casualties of the Seevnth army, and Britain lost upwards of 90,000.

Yanks Outnumber British

After 120 days of fighting, British troops still are in a proportion of two to three as compared with the Americans, Churchill said. After five years Britain maintains almost exactly the same number of divisions in the Italian and western European theaters in full action as the United States.

Russia, he said, is holding and beating far larger hostile forces than those facing the Allies in the West.

Asiatic Campaign Cited

Swinging to the far eastern theater, Churchill said the campaign under Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, commander in chief of the South-East Asia command, constitutes "the largest and most important ground fighting that has yet taken place against Japan, and has resulted in the slaughter of between 50,000 and 60,000 Japanese and the capture of several hundred prisoners."

"We must expect a renewel of the Japanese offensive as soon as the monsoon is over," he continued, "and every preparation is being made to meet it with utmost vigor."

Castel Del Rio Held By Yanks

ROME, Sept. 28. (AP)—American troops of the Fifth army have captured Castel del Rio, about 15 miles below Imola, an important town on the Rimini-Bologna highway, Allied headquarters announced today.

Regaining the heights lost in a fierce Nazi counterattack two days ago, the Americans also seized Mount Carnevale, southeast of Castel del Rio.

British and Dominion troops in the Adriatic sector enlarged their bridgehead over the Rubicon to a two-mile depth over a 10-mile front and closed in on the town of Savignano.

Front Moves Northward

On the Adriatic sector Canadian troops of the Eighth army captured Bellaria, a small seaside town eight miles beyond Rimini. Bellaria was found in possession of Italian patriot forces.

Other Fifth army troops in the central sector occupied Castiglione dei Peipoli and Bruscoli, five miles due east. Both are approximately 29 miles below Bologna, with Castiglione on a main highway leading directly to the Big Italian city.

Fifth army troops on the west coast sector captured Querceta, six miles below the important town of Messa, and Vallecchia, east of Querceta, despite stubborn resistance and intense artillery fire.

Balkan Invasion

ference, Allied headquarters announced. The government, in turn, placed all Greek forces operating in Greece under orders of the supreme Allied command, and this, too, was accepted by the guerrilla generals.

Conference Held

The arrangement was made at a conference presided over by Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean, Greek Premier George Papandreou, the two guerrilla generals and other officials.

The announcement indicated that most if not all of the internal strife in Greece has been eliminated. For long periods during the resistance movement the country had been virtually in a state of civil war, with the various guerrilla groups contending against each other for power rather than devoting all their efforts against the Germans.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Six Westerners To Miss Friday Game

Injuries And Low Grades Hit Team

Six Lubbock Westerners, four of them starters, were counted out of the football game Friday night at Big Spring, Coach J. Mule Davis announced today.

The hardest blows came to the team Wednesday in the loss of the two regular guards, one end and a halfback among the starters and a back and end from the reserves. Four of the losses came from low grades and two by injuries.

R. W. Moyers, who has been bothered since last season with a bad knee, came up with the ailing member bothering him more than ever Wednesday, and badly swollen.

Harris Hurts Knee

Billy Bob Harris, who caught the touchdown pass against the San Angelo Bobcats last Friday, plied a cartilage in his knee. The injury was not believed to be serious, but he was ordered to stay off the leg for a few days, and likely will not see service against the Big Spring Steers Friday night at Big Spring.

Lagging grades knocked out both starting guards of the team, and Co-Captain Johnny Pearson and Charles Crawford will "sit this one out," Coach Davis said. It is hoped that the low marks can be lifted to the eligibility level in time for them to return to the lineup against Lamesa.

Billy Petree and T. J. Price were also listed on the "flunk list" and will be out of the lineup this week. Petree is an end and Price is a fullback. Price has been slowed down with an injured knee this year, but was due to see a lot of service Friday night.

Replacements Named

Jim Lowrey will move into the lineup in place of Moyers, Davis said. Lowrey played the fullback slot against Odessa and was in and out of the game often against the state champion Bobcats, and has been classed as a regular this season.

Three Cowhanders of last year step into the lineup at the other positions with Gerald Davis taking over Harris' end post, "Stoney" Wall moving into Crawford's guard position and Billy Harless taking over for Captain Pearson.

E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athlectic director of Lubbock schools, said Wednesday night that 100 adult and 100 student tickets had been received from Big Spring, and would go on sale today in the principal's office at Lubbock high school.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Maybe the American league pennant race isn't exactly what Joe McCarthy was thinking about when he said that final Yankees-Browns series would settle the struggle, but it seems that Joe really called it right. P.S. Is Boston still in the league? Self-appointed all-America football pickers already are plugging Tex Warrington, the Auburn center who is tabbed by Coach Carl Voyles as the best pivot man he ever has seen, Barney Poole of Army and Paul Walker of Yale, both ends. The way Heavyweight Lee Oma explains that knockout by Tami Mauriello last week is "I ran out of gas. Tex Sullivan (Lee's manager) forgot to bring those coupons."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Football tip: Auburn never has won its opening game under a new coach and Alabama never has lost an opener during Frank Thomas' regime. The American Basketball league received bids for franchises from seven new cities at a recent meeting. Heavyweight Joe Baksi and his wife have a double date to have their tonsils removed today. Ray Colonel, Holy Cross footballer, and his father can't become colonels in spite of their name. Ray, jr., is a Navy trainee and Ray, sr., is a lieutenant in the New York city fire department. Announcing that the "mighty" Menichelli had begun road work at Madame Bey's camp, where several champions have drilled, Jimmy Johnston remarked: "If there's any inspiration in that, it may be inculcated into his mind by way of his feet."

SERVICE DEPT.

One reason for the Cherry Point, N. C., Marines' weak showing against the North Carolina Cloudbusters in last week's football opener was that Capt. Dave (Purdue) Rankin, Sgt. Bill (W & M) Barker, Pfc. M. R. (Ole Miss) Woodward and T/Sgt. Duke (Oregon) Iverson are stationed at outlying fields and couldn't join the main station team. Marine Frank Ramsey, former Klamath Falls, Ore., grid coach, explains that he became honor man in his platoon at boot camp because five of his former pupils turned up in his outfit and it was up to the coach to set them an example. Lt. (jg Willie Turnesa recently set a record of 63 on the Pensacola, Fla., Naval Air station golf course. He had nine pars and nine birdies and then moaned because he missed three easy putts for eagles.

Four Junior Grid Bouts Start Today

Two of Lubbock's younger grid teams will entertain the home fans for the next two days, while two more journey abroad to find foes as the weekend schedule gets underway today.

The Junior High Cowboys swing into action today, and the Cowhands from Senior High school battle Friday with four out-of-town foes.

The Barrett's Blues, scheduled to play Tahoka's Pups at Chapman field on Wednesday afternoon, moved the game up to today because of rain, and will kickoff at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Coach Bob Parker will take his Red team to Petersburg this afternoon for a scheduled battle with the junior team there.

Coach George Philbricks Black team of Cowhands will stay at home Friday, and battle the powerful O'Donnell eleven while Coach Marlin "Shorty" Hayhurst will take his Gold team to Meadow for a game with the Class B Meadow club.

Both Cowhand foes have started off the season with impressive wins, and are expected to provide the Cowhands with a full afternoon of troubles in their games this week.

SPAAF Eleven Works On Pass Defense

The Winged Commandos of South Plains Army Air field turned to pass defense Wednesday afternoon as the team put through another stiff scrimmage session to prepare for the invasion of Fort Worth Saturday to open the season against Texas Christian university.

Reserve backs and ends lined up in the spread formations and triple wingback favored by TCU Coach Dutch Meyer and first-string backs and line-backers found it no easy job to break up the aerial attack in the Horned Frog pattern.

SPAAF Coach Ray Cagni told the gridders they could expect plenty of passes from TCU, with Joe Kucera and Bobby Sharrod doing the chunking.

The SPAAF squad is in fine physical shape, barring a few charlie-horses which are not expected to slow any of the players down in the TCU game.

A couple of assignment changes were made, with 170-pound Joe Caretti moved to fullback from his right half post and with 190-pound James Steelt, guard veteran of 1943, moved from guard to tackle.

The SPAAF squad of 32 players and handlers leaves Friday morning for Fort Worth.

Schoolboy Race Taking Shape

Perfect Records Going On Line

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

When the firing ceases at the end of the third week of the season, only 34 or fewer teams will remain in the undefeated, untied class in the Texas Interscholastic league's class AA competition.

Games pitting 26 of the 47 perfect-record class against each other will cull at least 13 elevens from the list by midnight Saturday, while several others face stern opposition that could reasonably cull the list further without too much of an upset.

In addition, one of the three undefeated, but once-tied teams appears to be in serious danger—Lamesa, which meets a powerful once-beaten Odessa eleven.

Vernon Plays Amarillo

Headline attractions among the perfect teams includes such games as Vernon at Amarillo, powers of districts 2 and 1 respectively; Breckenridge at Wichita Falls, headliners from districts 9 and 2; Brownwood at Sweetwater; Paschal of Fort Worth at Denton; Sherman at North Side of Fort Worth; Marshall at Waco and Greenville at Tyler.

Other games matching undefeated, untied elevens include Electra at Plainview, Bryan at Cleburne, Livingston at Orange, San Jacinto of Houston at Galveston, Brackenridge of San Antonio versus San Antonio Tech, and Midland at Austin of El Paso.

Brownfield, Seminole Clash

Of the other two once tied teams, Jacksonville meets Carthage and Brownfield tangles with Seminole, class A opponents.

Other undefeated, untied teams, some of which have played only one game, are Lubbock, Olney, Quanah, El Paso High, Paris, Highland Park, Arlington Heights of Fort Worth, Fort Worth Poly, Fort Worth Tech, Sunset and Crozier Tech of Dallas, Goose Creek, South Park of Beaumont, Beaumont High, Port Arthur, Kerrville, Austin High, Thomas Jefferson of San Antonio, Edinburg, Kingsville, and Harlingen.

Two of the state's schoolboy machines will swing into action for the first time, Lamar of Houston running into a high-scoring Port Arthur eleven, and Ysleta meeting Cathedral of El Paso. Ysleta's opening game with Artesia, N. M., last week was cancelled.

Only two games are scheduled tonight — Corsicana at Arlington Heights of Fort Worth and Woodrow Wilson vs. Sunset in the Dallas district.

The schedule by districts: (Games Friday unless otherwise designated.)

1. Canadian at Borger, Seminole at Brownfield, Vernon at Amarillo, Electra at Plainview, Central of Oklahoma City at Pampa.
2. Breckenridge at Wichita Falls, Wellington at Childress, Hollis, Okla., at Quanah, Port Worth Poly at Graham, Bowie at Olney.
3. Denison at San Angelo, Lamesa at Odessa, Lubbock at Big Spring, Brownwood at Sweetwater.
4. Cathedral of El Paso at Ysleta, Carlsbad, N. M., at Bowie of El Paso, El Paso High at Las Cruces, N. M.; Saturday: Midland at Austin of El Paso.
5. Mineral Wells at Arlington Masonic Home of Fort Worth at Highland Park, Bonham at Sulphur Springs, Paschal of Fort Worth at Denton, Gainesville at McKinney.
7. Tonight, Corsicana at Arlington Heights of Fort Worth; Friday, Riverside of Fort Worth vs. Fort Worth Tech; Saturday, Sherman at North Side of Fort Worth.
8. Tonight, Woodrow Wilson of Dallas vs. Sunset of Dallas; Friday, Adamson of Dallas vs. Forest of Dallas; Saturday, North Dallas vs. Crozier Tech of Dallas.

If Ramblers Play Too Well They May Miss Cotton Bowl

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 28. (AP)—Randolph field's Ramblers open the season against Rice Saturday night with this football future:

1. If they're too successful they may not get to play in the Cotton bowl.

2. If they're not successful they won't get into the Cotton bowl.

It appears No. 1 is what they'll have to aim at—and maybe pull for some team other than Rice, Texas or Southern Methodist to win the Southwest conference championship.

Trouble is Texas is the favorite and Rice and Southern Methodist are rated top challengers. And the conference champion is the host team in the Cotton bowl.

Boast Fine Squad

Randolph field, boasting one of the finest squads ever to trod a gridiron in the Southwest — 'tis said Coach Frank Tritico can't make up his mind which of his three teams is the best — plays Texas, Rice and Southern Methodist.

Now if Randolph beats all three and one of them wins the conference title, would Randolph be invited to play a team in the Cotton bowl it already had defeated?

Coach Tritico says he wants to bring Randolph back to the Dallas bowl where it played Texas a 7-7 tie last Jan. 1. He adds that's also the sentiment of Col. Walter C. White, Randolph's commanding officer.

Tritico says he may pull for some other team to win the conference title. "However, if we play a close game with a team that ultimately wins the conference, what would be wrong with a return engagement?" he asks.

Bet you couldn't get Cotton bowl officials to answer any such question.

Former Tech Gridder On Blackland Team

WACO, Sept. 28. (AP) — Blackland Army Air field is working for its game with Bryan Air field at Bryan Saturday night without the services of eight of the original squad. These men left Monday on 15-day furloughs and will be lost to Blackland for the Bryan and Ellington field games.

However, the Eagles have three newcomers this week, all promising to materially bolster the team. Included is Wilmer B. Green, 200-pound guard who played with Texas Tech from 1936 to 1939.

Blackland defeated John Tarleton college 24-0 in the season opener last week.

Passing Stressed In Raiders' Workouts

Passers and receivers again bore the brunt of workouts of the Texas Tech Red Raiders as the team started tapering off for their battle Saturday night.

The Red Raiders move into San Antonio this week to battle the Texas Aggies, first of four Southwest conference schools on the schedule, and Coach Morgan hopes to have plenty of passes to throw at the Aggies.

The Red Raiders showed plenty of class in their ball carrying department last week while losing 13-27 to the veteran LAAF Fliers.

Coach Morgan was still undecided Wednesday as to who would be the Red Raider starters, or who would take the places in the lineup of two injured starters of last week.

Tigers Depending On Two-Man Staff

BY LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 28—Ten years ago, two pitchers hurled the St. Louis Cardinals into the National league pennant and the world's championship over the Detroit Tigers. History may repeat this year—with the shoe on the other foot.

It was the Dean brothers—Dizzy and Paul—back in the memorable 1934 series which became so heated that Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis was forced to step in and remove Joe Medwick, Cardinal outfielder, from the game after Detroit fans had showered him with pop bottles and other missiles. That series went seven games and Dizzy and Paul accounted for four Cardinal victories.

The Tigers have no brothers in their pitching ranks this year, but they don't need any for they have Hal Newhouser and Paul (Dizzy) Trout and they have been a pitching staff in themselves.

If the Tigers win the American league pennant, they will carry the hopes of the junior circuit in the World Series and must be rated superior, off their season's records, to any two hurlers which Billy Southworth of the Cardinals can start.

But after Newhouser and Trout the Detroit pitching superiority stops, for Rufe Gentry and Stubby Overmire, the other probable Tiger starters, have had only mediocre success this year. As a starting quartet, they must bow to Morton Cooper, Max Lanier, Harry Brecheen and Ted Wilks of the Cardinals.

While the Cardinals rate only a slight edge over the Tigers, they stand head and shoulders above the best that Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns has to call on. If the Browns win the American league pennant, Sewell probably will use Nelson Potter, Jack Kramer, Denny Galehouse and Bob Muncrief as his starting pitchers.

When it comes to relief and second line pitching, however, the Browns held a slight edge over both the Tigers and the Cardinals. Sewell has George Caster, Sig Jakucki, Tex Shirley, Al Hollingsworth and Sam Zoldak. The Cardinals have Fred Schmidt, Blix Donnelly and El Byerly while the Tigers have Johnny Gorsica, Walter Beck, Jake Mooty, and Roy Henshaw.

In catching, the Cardinals rate superior over either of their prospective opponents. They have one of the best, if not the best, catchers in the majors in Walker Cooper, and to back him up is Ken O'Dea.

Catching is one of the Browns' weakest departments with two rookies, Frank Mancuso and Myron Hayworth, sharing duty. Both are promising, but they lack the experience which often is the difference in a World Series.

Detroit Gains Game As St. Louis Loses

Sens Hold Key To Tigers' Bid

(By The Associated Press)

Washington's maligned Senators, picked to win the pennant in March but destined to be a gloomy last in October, hold the key today to Detroit's first pennant bid since 1940.

Granted the Bengals may find the last four steps the steepest after beating the Nats 15 times in their first 18 meetings, but the two opposition candidates, St. Louis, one game back, and New York, three lengths off the pace, will be clashing in a dog-eat-dog series that can easily eliminate both.

With four games to go all around, Detroit's one-game lead looks good because the schedule is breaking in their favor after a long uphill struggle. Steve O'Neill's overworked duo of Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout are not down for duty today but either or both will be on call.

As long as the Tigers get pitching and hitting like yesterday's 4-0 victory over Philadelphia, nobody can get close. When the Yanks and Browns chased one another from April to mid-September, everything seemed to hinge on their closing clash but the Brownies' loss to Boston last night took some of the edge off.

Rain in St. Louis almost turned things upside down yesterday but the Browns, after moving the Boston finale from afternoon to night and delaying the start for an hour waiting for the drizzle to stop, finally played and were sorry. It was the end of a 7-game St. Louis winning streak and a 10-game Boston losing string.

Pinky Woods, a surprise nominee, took the decision, 4-1, his fourth of the year, but gave way to Red Barrett after a wild spell in the eighth. Denny Galehouse was lifted for a pinchhitter in the fifth trailing, 1-0, and his relief pitchers failed as the Browns muffed repeated opportunities in the late innings.

It was Newhouser with win No. 28 for the Tigers in the shutout of the A's, boosting the Newhouser-Trout total to 55 victories, tying the old mark held by Cleveland's Jim Bagby, sr., and Stan Coveleskie.

New York kept its foot in the door and breathed life into its whisper of a chance by trimming Chicago, 7-2. Cleveland showed Earl Henry, a lefthander from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and the recruit beat Washington, 6-4.

Cincinnati's Bucky Walters picked up his 23rd National league success by topping New York, 8-1, thanks to Steve Mesner's grand slam homer. Freshman Clyde King hurled Brooklyn to a 3-2 shade over St. Louis, Boston held on to nose out Pittsburgh, 4-3 and Chicago came up with two in the 11th for a 5-3 edge over the Phils, in other senior circuit games.

The main reason a political party never uses a platform after it gets into office is because the opposition shoots it full of holes during the campaign.

ONE of the knottiest problems of the war at home — and one of the hardest to either justify or explain — has to do with the War department's inability thus far to work out a rotation system for soldiers serving in the vast Pacific theater.

A fairly good system of permitting men to return home after long periods of service in Italy and Africa is under operation. A very good system has been set up for fliers, badly worn or unnerved by long periods of combat in the clouds.

But thus far practically nothing has been done for men fighting the Japs and a great many people with sons, brothers and husbands in that area aren't able to understand why.

The Plainsman has before him a letter from a Morton reader, who enclosed a copy of a letter she has received from her brother who has been in the Pacific without a home furlough for three years. During his first year in the service he was unable to get home from his domestic base and none of his kin have seen him since he donned a uniform.

Our Morton reader thinks that is a bad situation, and we agree. If we had a brother in a similar situation, we might be very unreasonable about it — which the Morton lady is not.

Yet we cannot criticize the War department in the matter because we firmly believe men have not been furloughed home in great numbers thus far simply because replacements and shipping facilities are not as readily available in the Pacific as in the Atlantic.

THE letter from our Morton reader's brother paints—and we are sure quite truthfully — a doleful picture. He says most of the men in his organization have served 30 months or more in the Pacific, putting up with insects and tropical upsets to health as well as with the Japs. "I speak," he says, "not only for myself, but for thousands of other soldiers who occupy the same, almost unbelievable position that I do."

It is a rough break. It is a double-tough break. Something ought to be done to improve the situation and we are sure something will be done as soon as it is possible and practicable.

Because we had to fight two wars at once, and United Nations leaders took the position that the European war was the one which should be won first, the men in the Pacific — and their commanders — have had to "play second fiddle." We cannot honestly claim there was any mistaken judgment on the part of Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin in this decision. We are not capable of judging the matter. We doubt if more than a handful of our highest command is capable of that.

However, we do hope — and we do believe — that these veterans of almost three years in the Pacific will get long home furloughs, if not honorable discharges, as soon as other men are available to take their places and extra shipping space can be provided through use of vessels here-tofore tied to the European phase of the struggle.

* * *

We see by the papers where a soda-pop dispenser in a Washington federal building last year made $4,000 more than members of the Congress.

Apparently there's more money in soft drinks than there is in soft soap!

WE'VE heard all our lives that a kind and merciful Providence takes care of infants and drunks, but it was not until a couple of Saturday nights ago that we saw with our own eyes that it also protects the unconscious.

It was that Saturday night when Lubbock experienced its first heavy traffic of the harvest season. With some friends, we were proceding eastward on the Levelland highway and as we came to the "Y" connecting that highway and the one from Brownfield our car lights picked up a "blind" vehicle. It was coming from the direction of Brownfield — although it carried a Gaines county plate — and had nary a light on it, head nor tail.

It happened that we swung in right behind the "blind" car and we soon noticed that the driver was having a hard time keeping on his own side of the road because he had no lights and was constantly being half blinded by cars approaching him from the east.

All the way to the intersection of Nineteenth and College avenue we followed him and much of the way he was on the wrong lane — 'way over on the left side of the busy thoroughfare.

To make a long story short, we decided to follow the "blind" car just to see what would happen. We followed down College to Broadway, right down the middle of Lubbock's "main stem" to Avenue H, and then southward to Thirteenth. The man parked and got out, accompanied by a woman and child, apparently his wife and daughter. He was not drunk, but plainly sober.

All this happened between 8:50 and 9:15 p. m., and nary a cop — state, or city — noticed the blind car, even in the heavy traffic which clogged Broadway between Avenues L and H, and despite the fact that the car's motor was missing badly and, without a muffler, was making a big racket!

Not only was the guy lucky in not being pinched for running "blind;" he also was lucky that he didn't hit somebody and cause some injuries, if not death.

THIS is a strange world. A Houston man was arrested for appearing downtown without any clothes on, but he wasn't charged with impersonating a stylish woman.

Sgt. Sam West, of LAAF, the former American league outfield star, is telling this one around about the wartime shortage of baseball players.

It seems that an office boy went to his boss and began:

"Sir, I'd like to get off this afternoon. You see, my grandmother—"

"Oh yeah, I know," interrupted the boss. "You're going to tell me you want to attend your grandmother's funeral when, as a matter of fact, you want to go to the ball game."

"Yes, sir," explained the boy, "I want to go to the ball game all right, but my grandmother isn't dead. She's playing right field!"

That Man on Avenue Q says heredity is something every man believes in until his son starts acting like a darn fool!

An amnesia victim, picked up by police in East Texas, says he doesn't know where he is.

That's the best excuse we've ever heard for anybody's being in East Texas!

WE don't believe everything we hear about how all our post-war inconveniences will disappear at the punch of a button, but we do believe it won't be long until living will be both easier and better. Take in the matter of clothing, for instance.

Civilians after the war will benefit from the discoveries of the Army laboratory which has been working ever since hostilities began on improved types of clothing to meet the service man's needs in both hot and cold climates.

After peace returns, people who live in cold climates — or must have cold-resisting clothing for occasional cold spells like those we have here — won't be carting around as much weight in garments. Instead they will be employing insulation — air layers trapped between inner wool and outer cotton —to keep their body temperatures normal despite outside temperature. And those who live in hot climates won't necessarily wear less clothing than ever, but, instead, will "insulate" the heat out.

It may take most of us a long time to break life-long dressing habits but we'll live and learn — aided, no doubt, by the experiences of our by then returned fighting men.

A CHICAGO paper recently carried the advertisement of a man who wanted to share his suburban home with a couple. Requirements were that the cauple must "smoke, drink, and dance."

MILLETT

Maybe the man just had enough literary ambition to want to write a different kind of for rent advertisement. Or maybe he was fed up with the smug, self - satisfied sounding petitions of many of the people looking for rooms, houses or appartments today.

You know the type I mean. "Permanent civilian couple, employed and with best of references desires apartment or house. No children. No drinking or smoking."

HEARTENING AD

THOSE "See what nice people we are" advertisements are enough to get anybody down who ever had the audacity to give up a good job for the army, or who can't see that it's any of a landlord's business whether a tenant smokes and drinks, or who thinks renters have as much right as home owners to have children.

If that is the case, the advertisement is heartening. Now if we could just come across one worded something like this, our faith in landlords might be restored: "Apartment to rent. Will be let to family contributing most to war effort. In case of tie between two or more would-be renters, consideration will be given to family's need of apartment, with children weighing heavily in petitioner's favor."

If you ever happen to see an advertisement expressing those sentiments, please let me know.

"One hundred dollars a month is plenty to get married on," asserts an economist. Well, perhaps so. But is it enough to stay married on?

SUPPLIES ON OUR DOORSTEP

The indications are most encouraging that an era of post-war prosperity awaits residents of islands and shores of the Caribbean sea who are engaging again in the production of many crops vital to this nation's welfare in times of peace as well as in war.

If this does not happen, the fault will be that of the United States — and it will be a fault little short of criminal.

As it happens, there are many most important plants which really will flourish in only two areas upon earth. One of those areas is that touched by the Caribbean. The other comprises the Dutch and British owned East Indies and Malaya.

Perhaps the best known of such plants is the cinchona tree, from the bark of which quinine is extracted. But there are scores of other plants. Many, such as the cinchona, were discovered first in the Caribbean area which, for generations, supplied the world with all its quinine.

In the course of time, those various plants were taken to the East Indies — rubber trees and the cinchona among others. British and Dutch planters applied system and method to their production. It wasn't long before they gained world monopolies — as this nation realized to its sorrows during the first weeks of the present war.

But, as result of the necessity of war, the Caribbean is on the threshold of large-scale production of many commodities—quinine among them — which have been obtainable for decades only from the East Indies and/or Malaya. Among them are crops native to the East Indies which never have been grown in the Caribbean before, but which flourish there.

Thus, it is going to be entirely up to this nation whether it keeps those commodities available at its doorstep, or will return to the necessity of transporting them half-way around the world.

Seemingly, only one decision would be possible in a matter of this kind. Surely this nation has paid a price so terrible that it never will be caught short, avoidably, of any essential products. But whether it actually has learned from experience must remain for the future to reveal.

Pearson Hits Background Of J. F. Dulles

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—This columnist recently quoted from a 1939 speech of Dewey's presumed Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles, to the effect that he had defended and apologized for the dictators just a few days after Hitler had taken all Czechoslovakia and at a time when European newsmen were saying war was inevitable. This drew sparks from GOP Chairman Brownell and others, who claimed that the Dulles quotations were misleading and did not really represent his views.

Since then, a deluge of letters have poured in, some defending, some condemning, but nearly all wanting more information about Mr. Dulles, with the result that this columnist has spent recent weeks in an exhaustive and, he hopes, objective research into the life and background of John Foster Dulles.

PEARSON

Some editors may not be enthusiastic about printing the result. But since winning the peace after this war is the most important object of the war, it is not a bad idea to scrutinize thoroughly any man who is asked to cooperate with Secretary Hull for future peace as the representative of several million Republicans, and who well may be the next Secretary of State.

Certainly few men in America are better qualified, as far as family background is concerned, to be Secretary of State. John Dulles' uncle was the late Robert Lansing, Secretary of State under Wilson, a Democrat. His grandfather was John W. Foster, Secretary of State under Benjamin Harrison, a Republican.

Has Good Background

JOHN W. FOSTER was a truly great statesman. He handled many delicate diplomatic negotiations both before and after leaving the Harrison Cabinet — helped settle the war between Japan and China, straightened out the Alaskan boundary, arbitrated problems with Russia in the Bering Sea.

Originally, he was an Indiana politician, who served as postmaster of his community, was Republican State chairman and, somewhat like Cordell Hull, came up the political ladder the hard way.

His grandson, John Dulles, after studying at Princeton and in Paris, jumped immediately into the most prosperous law firm in Wall Street, Sullivan and Cromwell. He has been there ever since — and is now its most important and prominent partner.

DULLES' CONNECTIONS

ALMOST any lawyer, especially one connected with so large large a firm, has to take all kinds of cases, representing all views and walks of life. However, aside from the big utilities, which will be discussed later, many international cases, some connected with the dictator countries, seemed to gravitate toward John Dulles.

Thus the record shows him as arguing personally for Dictator Franco of Spain; having legal relations with Count Rena de Chambrun, son-in-law of Laval, now arrested; discussing plans whereby Swedish SKF could protect their U. S. plant from seizure as alien property; and representing such clients as the J. Henry Schroeder banking firm, E. K. Halbach, chief owner of General Dyestuff, and N. V. Phillips Gloelampenfabrieken of Eindhoven, Holland.

Some of these cases originated from Dulles' early work in Europe when he was counsel to the American Peace commission under his uncle, Secretary of State Lansing.

This was how he happened to represent the Merton family of Germany, whose property had been seized by the Alien Property custodian in the last war. This was the famous case involving Jesse Smith and Harry Daugherty which sent Thomas W. Miller, Alien Property custodian under President Harding, to jail when Richard Merton paid $441,000 to John T. King, GOP national committeeman from Connecticut.

Dulles was in no way involved in this phase of the case — in fact, knew nothing about the bribe and had stepped out before it was arranged. He had been retained by Richard Merton, who had represented Germany at the Paris peace conference, to try to get this German property returned. Dulles came to Washington, discussed the matter with the Justice department, found the job impossible, and got out of the case. Merton then hired Republican Committeeman King.

WESTRICK CASE

IT WAS also because of previous legal connections in Germany that Dulles condoned the activity of the famous Dr. Gerhard Westrick, whom Hitler had sent to New York in 1940, after the war started, to try to arrange deals with Wall Street. One of those willing to do business with him, Capt. Torkild Rieber, was forced to resign as head of the Texas Company because of the public clamor.

Dulles, however, explaining that Westrick had represented Sullivan and Cromwell in Germany some years before, contended: "I don't believe he has done anything wrong. I knew him in the old days and I had a high regard for his integrity."

It was also through his law firm that Dulles got mixed up indirectly with the America First Committee. A client asked for advice on the incorporation of the New York branch of America First, and Dulles now explains that a member of the firm drew up the incorporation papers.

However, Dulles himself stepped in to argue the only case brought against the U. S. government by one of the dictator countries. He represented the Banco de Espana, controlled by the Franco regime in Spain, in a suit against the Federal Reserve bank of New York to recover silver which the U. S. Treasury had bought from the Loyalist government in Spain.

The U. S. Treasury paid $6,500,000 for the silver, but later Franco's bank retained Dulles to get it back. Dulles lost the suit in the lower courts, then appealed to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which also turned him down.

Those are some of the lesser known experiences in the varied life of the man spoken of as the next Secretary of State.

Everybody Gets Scared When Experiencing First Fighting

First African Landing Had Its Funny Side

By ERNIE PYLE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ernie Pyle is resting following his service with frontline troops in Europe and next plans to go to the fighting zones of the Pacific. While he is on leave The Journal will publish here some of Ernie's earlier articles, not previously printed in Lubbock, upon which first was built the mutual esteem between Pyle and "GI Joe.")

IN ALGERIA, Dec., 1942. — The hardest fighting in the whole original North African occupation seems to have been here in Oran. Many of my friends whom I knew in England went through it, and they have told me all about it. Without exception, they admit they were scared stiff.

Don't get the wrong idea from that. They kept going forward. But it was their first time under fire and, being human, they were frightened.

ERNIE PYLE

I asked an officer how the men manifested fright. He said, largely by just looking pitifully at each other and edging close together to have company in misery.

Now that the first phase is over, a new jubilance has come over the troops. There is a confidence and enthusiasm among them that didn't exist in England, even though morale was high there. They were impatient to get started and get it over, and now that they've started and feel sort of like veterans, they are eager to sweep on through.

That first night of landing, when they came ashore in big steel motorized invasion barges, many funny things happened. One famous officer intended to drive right ashore in a jeep, but they let the folding end of the barge down too soon and the jeep drove off into eight feet of water. Other barges rammed ashore so hard the men jumped off without even getting their feet wet.

Moon Bathes Troops

It was moonlight and the beach was deathly quiet. One small outfit I know didn't hear a shot till long after daylight the next morning, but the moonlight and shadows and surprising peacefulness gave them the creeps, and all night as they worked their way inland over the hills nobody spoke above a whisper.

Each outfit was provided with the password beforehand. In the shadows soldiers couldn't tell who was who, and everyone was afraid of getting shot by his own men, so all night the hillsides around Oran hissed with the constantly whispered password directed at every approaching shadow. I wish I could tell you what the password was. You would think it very funny.

A FRIEND of mine, Lt. Col. Ken Campbell, captured eight French soldiers with a pack of cigarets. It was all accidental. He stumbled onto an Arab sleeping on the beach who told him there were soldiers in the building up the hill.

Campbell sneaked up, revolver in hand, and opened the door. The soldiers were all asleep. With quick decision, he stuck the gun back in its holster, then woke the soldiers. They were very startled and confused. Campbell speaks perfect French, so he passed around the cigarets, chatted with the soldiers, told them they were captured and after a bit marched them away.

Pvt. Chuck Conick from Pittsburgh, telling me how the soldiers felt during that first advance, says everybody was scared but didn't talk about that in the rest periods between advances. He says they mainly wondered what the papers at home were saying about the battle. Time after time he heard the boys say: "If my folks could only see me now!"

Boys from New Mexico and Arizona were amazed at how much the country around here resembles their own desert Southwest. In the moonlight that first night the rolling, treeless hills looked just like home country to them.

Children Follow Soldiers

All through the advance the troops were followed in almost comic-opera fashion by hordes of Arab children, who would crowd around the guns until they were actually in the way. Soldiers tell me the Arabs were very calm and quiet and there was a fine dignity about even the most ragged. Our boys couldn't resist the sad and emaciated little faces of the children, and that was when they started giving their rations away.

It got hot in the daytime, so hot that the advancing soldiers kept stripping and abandoning their clothes until some were down to undershirts, but at night it turned sharply chilly and they wished they hadn't.

FRENCH resistance seems to have run the scale all the way from eager co-operation clear up to bitter fighting to the death. In most sectors the French seemed to fire only when fired on. It has been established now that many French troops had only three bullets for their rifles, but in other places 75-mm. guns did devastating work.

Our oldsters say they didn't mind machine-gun and rifle fire so much, but it was the awful noise and uncanny accuracy of the 75's that made their hearts stand still.

The boys who went through it have memories forever. Many say that most of all they remember little things of beauty like the hills shadowed in moonlight and the eerie peacefulness of the beach when they landed.

Local Soldier Aids Overseas Bond Drive

AN EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER STATION, England — Sgt. Gilford W. Cox, of Lubbock, Tex., is one of the war bond purchasers who helped his P-51 Mustang station reach a record-breaking total of $111,000 in the Eighth Air Force "Victory Squadron" bond drive, surpassing all other groups in the Eighth Fighter command.

Aiming at an original quota of $53,000, he and his fellow soldiers —members of the fighter group commanded by Col. Harold J. Rau, of Hempstead, N. Y. — more than doubled that figure in a five-week all-out bond drive. The money will go towards the purchase of a Victory Squadron of airplanes, bought entirely by personnel of the Eighth Air Force.

Sgt. Cox, son of G. C. Cox, of Amarillo, Tex., is a wire repairman in a signal company and has been serving overseas for the past year.

Lubbock Soldier Is Given Combat Badge

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, Italy—Private First Class Cecil J. McElfresh, 618 Avenue C, Lubbock, Texas, has been cited by his regiment of the 34th "Red Bull" Division and awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge for actual participation in combat with the enemy on the Fifth Army front in Italy.

Standards for the badge are high. The decoration, which was recently authorized by the War department, is awarded to the infantry soldier who has proved his fighting ability in combat.

The handsome badge consists of a silver rifle set against a background of infantry blue, enclosed in a silver wreath.

Fabulous Claims Of Japanese Broadcast

(By The United Press)

The Japanese came up today with new claims of staggering Allied naval losses in the Pacific since Pearl Harbor, but tacitly admitted that Japanese aerial losses far exceeded those of the United Nations.

A Japanese naval spokesman, Keizo Matsushima, said in a Tokyo broadcast recorded by the United Press in New York that imperial forces sank 1,985 Allied ships, damage 356 and sank or damaged six others. Among them were 19 battleships sunk 18 damaged and one sunk or damaged.

The Japanese losses, he claimed, were 87 vessels sunk and 40 damaged, including two battleships, one of which was sunk and the other damaged.

Matshushima acknowledged, however, that 2,421 Japanese planes were destroyed in the Pacific fighting, while he claimed only 1,378 Allied planes were destroyed or damaged.

Revolutionary Plan Proposed By A. & M.

HOUSTON, Sept. 28. (U.P.)—Dr. Gibb Gilchrist, president of Texas A. and M. college, said here Wednesday that two-year schools for instruction in trades, business or vacations, will be established in key cities throughout Texas after the war and operated by A. and M.

The college president said the branch schools will not be junior colleges but will take education closer to the farms and closer to industry.

Half of the time, he said, will be devoted to a business or trade, and the other half will be for humanistic or academic courses.

The need for such schools, he said, was war-born.

equipment and publicity, with $67,320.48 contributed in primary campaigns and state elections.

Declaring the PAC hoped to raise $1,500,000, he said:

"To keep these figures in perspective, one should bear in mind that in 1940 the Republican party spent some $16,000,000 in the national election and that five families—the DuPonts, the Pews, the Rockefellers, the Queeneys and the Sloans contributed $432,680. In that same year the Democratic party spent $6,000,000."

FORMER CIO OFFICERS SAY THEY WERE DISCHARGED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—Two former CIO local union officers told a Dies subcommittee today their official connection with the union was served because they refused to engage in political activity or accept Communist leadership.

Both were members of local 1150, United Electrical, Radio and Machine workers.

Harry Morgan, who said he had been chief shop steward until he was ousted last June, told the committee, investigating CIO Political Action committee activities, he has opposed injection of politics into union activities.

Refused Political Dictation

The local's executive board, he testified, ousted him as chief steward because he refused "to take political dictation" and to cooperate with the operation of the Abraham Lincoln school, which the Dies committee has described as a "Communist educational medium."

"The Communists did take over," Morgan replied when chairman Costello (D-Calif) asked if the procedure in his case was "typical of the way the Communists take over a union after it has been organized."

Morgan's fellow worker, Elmer Henry Churchill, said he resigned as shop steward after Morgan was ousted but his resignation has not been accepted. Asked about his present union status, he replied:

"I have a pretty good idea that I'm behind the eight ball."

Finns Claim Three-Prong Drive Waged

HELSINKI, Sept. 28 (AP)—Finnish troops were reported pressing a three-pronged drive in north central Finland today in an effort to smash retreating German forces leaving a trail of burned villages behind them.

A Finnish high command spokesman, meanwhile, declined to comment on German reports that two Finnish divisions had deserted to the Nazis in northern Finland. Other sources believed the story was Nazi propaganda.

Two Women Killed In Oklahoma Wreck

MARIETTA, Okla., Sept. 28 (U.P.)—Two Ardmore, Okla., women were dead today as a result of a head-on collision near Thackerville, Okla., last night.

Mrs. Effie Humphrey, 59, driver of the car, was dead upon arrival at a Gainesville, Tex., hospital, and her companion, Mrs. Erin Fagan, 49, died two hours later. Both women were crushed by the impact of the collision with a loaded meat truck driven by George Raymond Williams, 32, of Greenville, Tex. Williams was being treated for several fractured ribs in a Gainesville hospital.

The truck driver told Trooper I. W. Manley that he had signaled the approaching car to dim its lights. He said it failed to respond so he pulled his truck over on the shoulder just as the car occupied by the women crashed into the front of the truck.

Senator Reed Wants "A" Rations Hiked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—Secretary of the Interior Ickes today termed "thoroughly mischievious" a proposal by Senator Reed (R-Kas) that gasoline rations of "A" card holders be doubled but the Kansan moved to submit the matters to a congressional inquiry.

Asserting that motorists could anticipate no such action in the near future, Ickes told a news conference that one of the "greatest troubles" in the gasoline situation "is the Santa Claus attitude of irresponsible people who don't know what they're talking about."

He added, however, that after victory in Europe there may be "hope for an easier situation."

Reed today followed up his earlier suggestion, based on what he termed a surplus of gasoline, with a wire to Chairman Clark (D-Mo) of a special Senate committee on midwestern fuel conditions urging that hearings be held in Washington next week to study the gasoline supply situation.

Roosevelt Is Said Top Radio Speaker

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. (AP)—The Democratic national committee said today that a survey made by C. E. Hooper, Inc., radio research organization, showed President Roosevelt "is still the top radio speaker."

The committee statement said that President Roosevelt won "an overwhelming decision over the Republican contender, Thomas Dewey, on rating, audience appeal and holding listeners, according to eastern and midwest figures" obtained by the research group.

"Roosevelt's Saturday speech rated 35.2 compared to Dewey's maximum rating of 25.3," the statement said. "Roosevelt attracted 82.6 of the listeners in his one talk while the best Dewey has been able to do in any talk is 56.3."

Production Of Work Clothing To Be Cut

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—Production of civilian work clothes is likely to be cut further during the next three months, the Office of War Information said today. It added that consumer cotton goods items generally will be less available and of mediocre quality for some time to come.

In a report based on data from the War Production board and the Foreign Economic administration, OWI said that a current scarcity of cotton goods for civilians, now described as greater than at any period during the war, is expected to continue for one to two years after the collapse of Germany.

Thick Concrete Wall Erected In Berlin

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 28 (AP)—A wall of reinforced concrete several yards high was reported today to be under construction around Berlin's famous Hotel Adlon.

harmless" and all Superforts returned safely. Brig. Gen. Lauris Norstad, chief of staff of the 20th Army Air force, called it "a remarkable record."

The China-based 14th U. S. Air force continued day and night attacks on Japanese threatening the Allied base at Kweilin in southeast China and extended sweeps against enemy communications to Thailand. The 14th has sunk or damaged 697,550 tons of Japanese shipping in the first eight months of this year, largely by B-29s raiding the China coast.

The Red Cross announced Japan holds 29,250 American prisoners, including nearly 10,000 civilians.

Japan, preparing for the day the British fleet will strike at Singapore and the American fleet at the China coast, speeded up its offensive in Southeast China. A new column drove northwestward from Kwangtung province to trap Chinese troops below captured Wuchow. Other forces virtually completed encirclement of Paoching. Nipponese divisions between these two points were reinforced for a drive on strategic Kweilin.

Jobs For Soldiers To Be Needed Soon

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The War department said today that "there has recently accumulated an excess of soldiers who are now below minimum standards for induction, and for whom there are no suitable positions," and that these men are to be released as rapidly as the medical department certifies them.

The number was not specified, but the ruling applies to personnel both within the United States and overseas. The department emphasized, however, that men serving satisfactorily in suitable positions will not be discharged solely for the reason that they are below the minimum induction standards.

New Offensive On In Holland

Belfort, said strong Allied attacks had started from the Nancy area in a northern direction, and declared new airborne forces had been flung against 'S-Hertogenbosch, a scant 10 miles ahead of the British push west from the Nijmegen coridor.

Gun Duel Deepening

A big gun duel around Metz, the Germans added, was deepening in a prelude to a full American attack on that great fortress.

The Germans poured in five counterattacks, one six miles west of Metz near Gravelotte and two at Coincourt and Bzange nine to eleven miles northwest of Luneville below Nancy, the supreme headquarters communique announced. They withered under intense American fire which cost the enemy heavily.

Northeast of Nancy, too, the Germans counterattacked twice and were repulsed, losing six out of 30 tanks in one attack near Dieuze, 32 miles southeast of Metz.

It was disclosed that most of 800 Polish paratroops and British Dorsetshire infantrymen who crossed the Dutch Rhine to aid the withdrawal of the exhausted remnant of the British First airborne division also had escaped to the south bank.

"Lost Division" Praised

The British press, still ringing with the praise of the lost division's epic fight for a cross-Rhine foothold, described it not as a defeat—but as a "glorious failure."

"It was a gamble to force a quick end to the war," said the Daily Express. "It nearly succeeded, and it was always worth trying."

At Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's headquarters the over-all operation which opened the way into mid-Holland was described oficially as "85 per cent successful."

Purposes of the operation were listed as three:

1. To seize the vital bridges at Grave, Nijmegen and Arnhem.
2. To loosen the German garrison in western Holland.
3. To accelerate the drive through Holland.

Lt. Gen. Sir Miles C. Dempsey meanwhile built up his southbank hold along the Dutch Rhine to at least five miles wide south and west o fArnhem.

West Flank Expanding

His whole west flank was expanding, with the capture of the villages of Heesch and Nistelrode, into a ten to fifteen mile-wide bulge within ten miles of 'S-Hertogenbosch.

The wedge he was strengthening walled off the strong German garrisons of western Holland but for a 25-mile wide gap south of the Ijssel Meer (Zuider Zee).

Silence blanketed the bulge to the east where American parachute troops had pushed into the Reichswald forest of Germany within seven miles of Kleve. The British held a five-mile hold along the Maas (Meuse) river thirteen miles southwest of Kleve, and Belgians were along the Maas beyond Maeseyck, 38 miles farther south.

That bulge covered the left flank of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' battle to open the Aachen crack in the Siegfried line into a gap for the assault on Cologne.

The communique said the American First army was meeting stiff opposition from pillboxes and gun-bristling strongpoints near Hurtgen, eight miles southeast of Stolberg. The village is in the eastern fringe of the forest itself, and the fact that the Yanks were in the vicinity meant they had battled through some of the stiffest defenses of the Siegfried line.

ers and 16 fighters.

Forty-two Amreican heavies out of a force of more than 1,100 were lost on the four-pronged mission to the Rhineland. It was the third heaviest Eighth Air force loss this month. Much of the damage was suffered by one formation of Liberators pounced upon by 100 Nazis over Kassel.

Lancasters Go In Low

The Air ministry said that in order to avoid clouds over the target the big Lancasters rained their bombs on the Kaiserslautern railway yards from only 3,000 feet, starting fires that were still spreading when the last bomber passed over.

An almost continuous air battle was going on yesterday over the Arnhem-Nijmegen area where British fighters destroyed 41 Nazis in the air and six more on the ground. The remainder of the fighter claims were by American pilots. In bright moonlight RAF Mosquitos did a regular daylight strafing job on eight trains and several road convoys in Holland and Germany.

French-based U. S. fighter bombers destroyed a large ammunition dump north of Strasbourg, attacked enemy fortresses at Metz and sealed a long freight train in a tunnel at Munstererfel. The explosion of the ammunition dump was so tremendous that one plane flying at 8,000 feet was wrecked by the blast and a second plane was damaged.

War Glumness Only Natural Reaction

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(Substituting For DeWitt Mackenzie)
Associated Press Staff Writer

Just as expected, the defeat at Arnhem and Allied failure to walk through the Siegfried line has resulted in widespread belief that the war has gone to pot. Forgetting how we glossed over defeats two and three years ago, we are now "success-conditioned" and every temporary setback becomes a major catastrophe.

It was true at Cassino, and when the Germans and bad weather delayed us a little while in Normandy, and now again when we have lost in a dramatic episode fewer men than have the Germans in many actions which failed even to make the front pages. It is a reaction from a few weeks ago when the German army was "broken" and speculation was rife as to whether it could make even a halfway decent stand on the Rhine.

Ike Knows Score

Now we are talking of a winter war of frustration on the western front. Churchill, naturally taking the oportunity to overcome any possible remaining overconfidence, reminds that it could be, but carefully abstains from saying it will.

Well, it could be. People fighting with their backs to their homes often upset te best military calculations. On Sept. 28, 1941, there Russians any chance to stop the Nazis before Moscow.

It would have been very helpful to the western front campaign if the airborne troops could have held the Rhine bridge at Arnhem. But the jabs back and forth up and down the front are only the warm-up rounds in the real battle for Germany. Delay now, as at Caen, means only that once again Eisenhower is sending no boys to do a man's job. The German campaign will start when he is ready to start it, and that probably very soon.

Woman Sniper Plenty Mad When Captured

TEMPLE, Sept. 28. (AP) — Pvt. Sam Burns, infantryman from Big Spring, today added to the stories of German use of women as snipers when he was returned to McCloskey General hospital.

"One day we captured a sniper who turned out to be a woman about 23 years old," he said. "Boy, was she mad when we got her. Maybe it's a good thing I don't understand German or French. She had plenty to say. She wore a regular German camouflaged sniper's suit."

GI's Walk Out On Bing Crosby, But There's A Reason

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN ALSACE-LORRAINE, Sept. 27 — (Delayed) (AP)—In an abandoned factory only two miles from German positions American troops of a frontier regiment gathered today for an afternoon of entertainment.

Every G.I. in the outfit was on hand because word had spread that this show would be something special, with a well known entertainer as the star attraction. The place was packed.

After the comedian and two pretty girl singers had completed their acts, a familiar figure appeared and got a rousing reception from the soldiers who had not been told who the star would be.

The owner of a voice known to millions sang one song and was halfway through another when word came that the Germans had started an attack.

The order to leave was passed quickly down the line of disappointed Joes and they marched hurriedly out to battle—leaving Bing Crosby singing to an empty house.
