Rebel flag flap ends quietly

GRAND PRAIRIE (AP) — The flap over a high school's rebel flag symbol brewed fears of confrontation but resulted only in a peaceful NAACP sidewalk vigil at Friday night's football game.

About 40 people, most of them black, marched in quiet protest across from Grand Prairie High School's Gopher Stadium and carried U.S. flags and placards that read "No More Racial Slurs; No More Rebel Flag" and "Use the U.S. or Texas Flag."

"It's strictly non-violent," said Lee Alcorn, president of the local National Association for the Advancement of Colored People chapter. "That's why we chose this particular street. There's less traffic and it decreases the potential for violence."

The controversy's source — South Grand Prairie High School's rebel flag — flew high over the Warriors' heads when they ran out onto the field at the game's start.

But although team players voted 36-6 to keep the flag Friday night, they did make one concession: instead of the traditional blue and red, the flag bore the school colors of red and gold.

The flap began last month when sophomore Fred Coleman Jr., a black, claimed he was kicked off the team because he declined to run out onto the field under the Confederate banner.

The flag remains an innocent symbol to many white southerners, but an emblem of racism to many blacks.

The "only people that honor the flag are the Ku Klux Klan," said Coleman's father, Fred Coleman Sr. "We're asking the taxpayers to support a racist idea."

The school's head football coach said Coleman was kicked off the team for a number of infractions. But any other reasons behind the 15-year-old's departure soon were lost in the debate on the use of the flag.

District school superintendent Hobbs Williams has said the flag symbolized school spirit and nothing else. The school adopted the use of the Confederate flag as a symbol of its rivalry with Grand Prairie, its northern neighbor.

The annual game is considered a city championship and Friday's matchup also included a kickoff of Grand Prairie's sesquicentennial featuring the six flags that have flown over Texas.

Bob Cherry, a member of the South Grand Prairie Warriors' Quarterback Club, had said the club may pass out small copies of the battle flag to their boosters, but no one bothered the NAACP demonstrators.

CASPAR WEINBERGER ... claims arms violations

SALT II violated, Weinberger says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger will send President Reagan a report next week alleging the Soviet Union has continued to violate the SALT II arms control treaty even after Reagan overruled the Pentagon to extend it an extra year, according to a senior Pentagon official.

The official, who insisted on not being identified, said Weinberger will propose several options, including terminating the agreement or allowing it to be breached when the next Trident submarine is due to begin sea trials next summer.

The timing of the report is regarded as sensitive because it will come on the eve of Reagan's summit.

AIDS

White sides with plan to quarantine victims

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says he agrees with a proposal by the state health commissioner to use quarantine as a weapon of last resort in the fight against AIDS.

"To the extent that any disease causes imminent threat to the spread of that disease to other persons, I think that quarantine would be appropriate," White told his weekly news conference Thursday.

But he added, "I think each case has to stand alone on whether that (quarantine) would be an appropriate remedy or not."

Last month, Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein suggested that quarantine could be "something else in the arsenal" for fighting the spread of the often-fatal disease. The quarantine list now includes such diseases as diphtheria, cholera, plague, syphilis and yellow fever.

AIDS cripples the body's immune system, leaving victims vulnerable to diseases. Doctors say it is most likely to strike homosexuals, hemophiliacs and abusers of injectable drugs because it has been spread by sexual contact, contaminated needles and blood transfusions.

Gay rights activists have opposed the quarantine proposal, saying it is unnecessary and inappropriate.

"No one knows better than they do (AIDS victims) how terrible this disease is, and they wouldn't want to spread it," said Jeffrey Levi, a lobbyist for the National Gay Task Force.

College awaits evaluation team

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

An accreditation team from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools will visit Howard College next week to evaluate the school.

Accreditation is a process in which 13 educators from throughout the south examine and review certain areas in the college, said college president Bob Riley. The process must be done every 10 years.

The team of educators will be in Big Spring Tuesday through Thursday, he said.

Accreditation "says to other institutions that our institution meets reasonably high standards," Riley said. When a college is regionally accredited, it allows students to transfer to nearly any other school in the country, he said. Attending an accredited school also makes students eligible for financial aid.

Riley said Howard College employees conducted an in-depth self-study during the past 1½ years to prepare for the process.

Faculty, staff, administrators and others participated in the study. Every area of the college was scrutinized, and the study resulted in several suggestions for improvement, Riley said.

The college president said he anticipates no problem with the committee's review. "Our programs are strong," Riley said. The reviewing committee may make some suggestions for improvements and probably will let the college know its decision this school year, he said.

A hostage, his face blackened by the fire that swept through the Palace of Justice in Bogota, Colombia, is helped by soldiers after they regained control of the building.

92 killed in siege

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Leftist guerrillas who seized the Palace of Justice had planned to put President Belisario Betancur on trial before a hostage Supreme Court, according to a statement from their organization delivered Friday.

The takeover turned into a two-day siege and an army assault on the building. Ninety-two people were killed.

The statement from the April 19 Movement, known as M-19, was slipped under the door of the AP office in Bogota. It said Betancur was to have been tried for what the rebels called his betrayal of his own plan to get Colombia's insurgent groups to disband.

Gunmen who entered the building Wednesday morning took 23 of the 24 Supreme Court justices captive and demanded that Betancur come to the Palace of Justice. The other judge was in a hospital at the time of the raid.

The siege in downtown Bogota, which ended when soldiers swept into the burned-out marble building, resulted in the deaths of half the Supreme Court justices, all 41 of the invading rebels, at least 17 soldiers and 22 other people, army sources said.

School segregates 'aggressive' girls at recess to 'protect boys'

WARWICK, R.I. Boys at Oakland Beach Elementary School here would never understand how Tom Sawyer got away with dipping his girlfriend Becky's pigtails in the inkwell. Here, Becky might pummel Tom.

Some fifth- and six-grade girls have been regularly beating up their male counterparts, so now all grades in this 430-student school have sexually segregated recess periods to protect the boys.

"They kick them in the shins, pull their hair and kick them, well, in various painful places," Principal Richard Sousa said Friday. "When the boys retaliate, (the girls) come crying."

Sousa, 45, an ex-football coach in his first year as principal, said no boys had been seriously hurt in the fights, which he said were going on almost daily since the school year began.

Although no specific incident sparked his decision, Sousa said he reached a point last week where he — and the boys — could stand no more.

"I don't want them segregated in the yard," he said. "What comes first, health or rights? In this case, health."

On Friday, the school-imposed segregation dominated cafeteria conversation.

"They beat us up all the time," said Roger Fortin, 11, between bites of lasagna. "I've been kicked where it counts."

Overhearing Roger's complaint from the next table, Leslie Fudge, 11, said it was the boys who were the instigators. She said Sousa had taken their side "because he's a boy, too." "Well, it's both the boys and the girls," she conceded. "But they shouldn't punish the whole school. It's stupid."

After dumping crusts of bread and empty milk cartons, they fled outside to the playground, where they were separated by an invisible no-man's land about 10 feet wide.

The girls' side is closer to the red brick school and is smaller than the area allotted to the boys. The boys get trees and grass, while the girls have to settle for asphalt and sand. "Hey, you're on our side," one girl screamed to Richard O'Dowd, 12, who was checking to see if his girlfriend had come outside.

"The girls started the fights," he said. "But I miss them."

"They think they're big and bad," chimed in Anthony Cabral, 12. "They're not so tough. They just aggravate us." April Webster, 9, said she never fights with boys, but then again, she almost never plays with them.

"They bang in when we have a game," she said. "Girls are sweet."

School psychologist Alice V. Freeman suggested the girls' first steps toward puberty might account for their aggressive behavior.

U.S., Laos agree to conduct searches for missing veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, poised to begin its first excavation of a B-52 crash site inside Vietnam later this month, has reached a tentative agreement with Laos to conduct additional searches there for missing American servicemen.

Armitage led off a Pentagon news conference on Friday by confirming earlier reports by diplomatic sources in Bangkok that the first Vietnam excavation would begin Nov. 18.

Richard L. Armitage, the assistant defense secretary for international security affairs, also announced an Army laboratory had succeeded in identifying the remains of five more Americans killed in Vietnam, including the first U.S. pilot to crash in North Vietnam 21 years ago.

Armitage said details of the new agreement with Laos remain to be worked out, and no dates have been established for starting new excavations at crash sites. But he added the Latians have accepted the idea of "multiple-site excavations" during the six-month dry season that just began.

Laos permitted an American team to conduct a crash excavation for the first time last February. That project led to the recovery of 13 missing American servicemen.

Armitage said the Pentagon news conference on Friday by confirming earlier reports by diplomatic sources in Bangkok that the first Vietnam excavation would begin Nov. 18.

He said an 11-member U.S. squad would oversee the work at the B-52 addy about nine miles outside Hanoi. The American team will be assisted by 10 Vietnamese workers. Armitage said the work would take 10 to 12 days and that the U.S. government would bear the estimated $150,000 cost.

The B-52 that crashed at the site is believed to have gone down in December 1972, he said, but the Pentagon has no idea how many remains of servicemen might be recovered. A B-52 carried a normal crew of six.

"This combined operation marks the first time U.S. personnel have been allowed to participate in a recovery operation in Vietnam since 1975 (when the war ended)," Armitage said. "We hope this excavation will prove to be the first of many efforts which lead to the fullest possible accounting of missing U.S. servicemen."

Armitage announced several other developments in the continuing effort to account for missing Americans.

He said the Vietnamese government recently informed the United States it would turn over seven more suspected remains of U.S. servicemen.

AIDS

Force in Washington. Gary LaMarche, executive director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union, said it would be difficult to use quarantine power since AIDS isn't transmitted like other diseases.

"Those diseases for which quarantine was employed in the early part of this century ... were easily communicable, like from being in a room with somebody. They also were communicable for a relatively short period of time," he said.

"AIDS is a new kind of disease. Everything we know about it suggests it is communicable only through very intimate contact. You have to go out of your way to expose yourself," LaMarche added.

White said he has talked with Texas Board of Health members about the quarantine.

"I just asked them to pay close attention to it and keep me informed of their decision," he said, noting that the quarantine wouldn't be used against all AIDS sufferers.

"They've said there are specific cases that can be shown that they are transmitting the disease and they can be quarantined. I think that's appropriate and responsible," he said.

On a related question, White stopped short of backing the State Human Rights Commission's decision that Texas workers can't discriminate against workers or job applicants who have AIDS.

Under state law, employers are barred from discriminating against people who are physically handicapped, and commission executive director William Hale this week said that protection extends to AIDS victims.

"Assuming (there are) no other factors involved, then that's an illness that's not to be used as a point of discrimination for employment. But there are other factors involved, and I think you have to take all of those factors into account," White said.

He said some jobs might require physical strength for lifting, and if an AIDS sufferer is rendered unable to do such work he an employer shouldn't be penalized for not hiring him.

"All the factors of employment, health can be one of those factors." The impact it has on co-workers can be a factor," he said.

Summit

departure for the U.S.-Soviet summit and it could, in the view of some experts, adversely affect the climate for the talks. But officials said Reagan could decide not to make it public until after the summit.

Meanwhile, Paul H. Nitze, the president's chief arms control adviser, said Friday the United States and the Soviet Union are still trying to negotiate a statement of arms control guidelines for Reagan's summit meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Geneva Nov. 19-20.

He also said Washington wants the summit to be a success and he thinks Moscow does, too. He said the two leaders will discuss whether and when to meet again in a follow-up summit.

In an appearance before the Overseas Writers group, Nitze said the guidelines should embrace both offensive and Strategic Defense Initiative, also known as "Star Wars," defensive systems and provide direction for the U.S. and Soviet arms control negotiations in Geneva without trying to "define set limits."

"I personally think this would be a good idea and I think the executive branch agrees with that," said Nitze. He declined to predict whether he thought it would be done, however.

The Pentagon official said the report on SALT II violations will make it possible for Reagan to go to the summit "well-armed with information on what the Soviets have done after the president went the extra mile on SALT II."

"Anybody who expected the Soviets to take this gesture of good will and change their ways, was a bit naive," said the official.

Halley's comet visible through binoculars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Halley's comet, visible through telescopes since 1982 on its return orbit toward the sun, can now be seen with binoculars and is brighter than expected, say astronomers who liken it to a "gray cottonball in the sky."

Untrained observers will find it easiest to find the comet late next week by looking near a group of faint stars named the Pleiades, about 45 degrees above the eastern horizon.

Dozens of binocular observations have been reported worldwide since mid-October, when Halley's "appeared to undergo a sudden brightening," said John Bortle, a Scarsdale, N.Y., firefighter and Sky & Telescope magazine's comet columnist.

"There's so far no explanation for why the sudden brightness occurred," he said, adding that the comet now is three times brighter than predicted. "But Halley's comet is quite famous for its erratic brightness changes."

Rajneesh arraigned

PORTLAND, Ore. — Indian guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh pleaded innocent Friday to immigration-fraud charges after being returned to Oregon in federal custody from North Carolina, where he was arrested last week.

A federal magistrate in North Carolina denied bail to the guru because of the possibility that he might flee, but his attorneys requested U.S. District Judge Edward Leavy to overturn the ruling and set bail. The judge was expected to rule on the request later Friday.

Rajneesh and seven disciples are accused of covering up sham marriages between some American followers and foreigners who came with the guru to the United States. He also is charged with lying to immigration officials to conceal his intent to remain permanently in the United States after he arrived in this country in 1981.

Subpoena try debated

WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Senate panel that oversees immigration policy says an attempt to subpoena a ship-jumping Soviet sailor is "nuts" and sets a dangerous precedent for Americans in the Soviet Union.

Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., chairman of the Judiciary immigration subcommittee, called the move Thursday by Sen. Jesse Helms to summon sailor Miroslav Medvid "not well thought through. ... It's a serious mistake."

Helms, R-N.C., said, however, that the matter "would be on my conscience if I didn't try it."

He said the subpoena, which his aides were attempting to serve on the ship berthed to take on a load of corn near New Orleans, was an attempt "to save this young man, on the presumption, which I believe to be a fact, that his life is in jeopardy the minute that ship sails and hits the high seas."

Nuns clarify stand

WASHINGTON — Roman Catholic officials have begun accepting private "clarifications" from some of the two-dozen American nuns who were ordered last year to publicly retract a statement that questioned the church's stand against abortion.

A spokesman for the National Conference of Catholic Bishops said Friday that Vatican officials want to settle the matter without "gratuitous humiliation" to the nuns, who had been threatened with expulsion from their orders in the absence of public retractions.

But an organizer of the original statement, which was published last year in The New York Times, said the Vatican was merely trying "to get out of this quietly and saving face." She called the apparent new settlement policy selective and unjust.

Marcos to resign — after he runs for re-election

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos announced Friday he will resign, but his resignation will not take effect until after a Jan. 17 presidential election that Marcos indicated he expects to win.

His governing party agreed to hold the election in an attempt to blunt American and local criticism of his 20-year rule.

The decision to hold an early election followed visits by U.S. officials, including Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., a personal emissary of President Reagan, who expressed concern over growth of a communist insurgency.

Marcos announced he will submit his resignation Monday to the National Assembly, but it will not take effect until after the inauguration of the winner of the early election.

"What was agreed upon here is resignation effective after the proclamation of a winner of the election," Marcos told reporters after a two-hour caucus of his party.

"So I continue as president but with a compulsory vacancy created after the election because of the resignation," Marcos said.

If Marcos, 68, is re-elected, he would start a new 6½-year term the day his resignation takes effect. If the election is canceled, the resignation would never take effect.

If he loses, Marcos would leave office 10 days after the election, when the new president would be sworn in.

Marcos said the resignation would satisfy a constitutional requirement that there must be a vacancy in the presidency for an election to be held before its regularly scheduled date in 1987.

"If truth be told, I think the constitution never contemplated a voluntary resignation," Marcos said. He said without his resignation, the country would remain divided.

Members of the opposition, who have 24 days to unite behind a presidential and vice presidential candidate, criticized Marcos' move but indicated they would still participate in the election.

"He is making a fool of the Filipino people in saying he is complying with the constitution but at the same time holding onto the office," said Assemblywoman Cecilia Munoz Palma, leader of an opposition coalition, the National Unification Council.

Opponents said the post-dated resignation would enable Marcos to manipulate the campaign, the election and the ballot-counting.

"He's staying on to ensure that the whole machinery of government is used to his maximum advantage to make him win at all costs," said Rene Espina, secretary-general of the United Nationalist Democratic Organization, a coalition of eight opposition parties.

Opponents said they will lobby the National Assembly for a later election date. The National Assembly must approve the plan, and debate is due to begin Monday.

Marcos indicated the election might be postponed a few weeks but would not be as late as March. Marcos' New Society Movement holds two-thirds of the seats in the National Assembly.

Leading opposition presidential contenders are former Sen. Salvador H. Laurel and Corazon Aquino, widow of opposition leader Benigno Aquino, who was assassinated at the airport when returning to the Philippines on Aug. 21, 1983.

Story draws ire

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The government Friday charged a prominent newspaper editor with violating South Africa's Internal Security Act by publishing an interview with the head of an outlawed black guerrilla movement.

The action against Anthony Heard — editor of the Cape Times, the nation's oldest daily — was the latest in a series of moves against the media and an attempt to clamp down on contacts with the African National Congress, which commands strong black support despite being banned by the government in 1960.

The white government charged Heard with violating internal security by publishing his interview in London with ANC leader Oliver Tambo. If convicted, the editor faces up to three years in prison.

Tambo is one of 95 exiled anti-apartheid leaders whom the Ministry of Law and Order has proclaimed unquotable in South Africa. The government calls the ANC a Moscow-controlled Communist organization and has ruled out negotiations with the group until it renounces violence.

French system chosen

PARIS — The Pentagon's choice of a French system for battlefield communications was a windfall for local industry, a triumph for the new U.S. ambassador in Paris and a fat saving for American taxpayers.

Officials in Washington announced Tuesday that a $4.3 billion contract, one of the largest ever to a foreign bidder, would be let for a communications system designed to transmit message and tests securely and rapidly in combat.

The winning RITA system — Réseau Integre des Transmissions Automatiques (Integrated Automatic Communications Network) — has been in use by French and Belgian forces for two years.

The bid by France's Thomson-CSF and the American GTE Corp., which will modify the existing French system for U.S. Army needs, came in $3.1 billion below a bid for the PTram system by Britain's Plessey Co. in conjunction with Rockwell International Corp. in the United States.

Craxi gets nod

ROME — Socialist Premier Bettino Craxi won a vote of confidence in the Senate today, completing parliamentary approval of the five-party coalition reconstructed by Craxi after being toppled over the Achille Lauro hijacking. The Chamber of Deputies, the lower house, gave Craxi a vote of confidence Wednesday in his revived coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists, Republicans, Social Democrats and Liberals.

Royal couple promote themselves on tour

LONDON (AP) — On their U.S. visit, Prince Charles and Princess Diana are promoting a range of British treasures — including themselves.

The royal couple are riding high on a burst of news media exposure that has scotched notions their marriage is in trouble. The press has abruptly dropped the stories about an age gap, differing interests and cultural clashes, and it is back to cooing about prospects for another baby.

The British, bereft of empire, plagued by chronic unemployment, beset by urban riots, can still count on the nearly 1,000-year-old monarchy to give their national image some luster and put money in the Bank of England.

Even so, they appeared bemused by the sensational media buildup in the United States before the couple's five-day visit, which began Friday.

"Never has the expectation been so palpating, the social jostling for invitations so frenzied, the baying of the social newshounds so raucous," the London Times correspondent in Washington informed readers back home Friday.

"They have tried to explain to themselves what it is that has generated such excitement. And they have come up with one simple answer: Princess Di."

It is Charles' fifth visit to the United States, but the first for Diana, one of the world's most talked-about, written-about and photographed women.

As patrons of the exhibition in Washington at the National Gallery of Art, "The Treasure Houses of Britain," comprising more than 800 art objects on loan from British aristocracy, Charles and Diana will be expected to help persuade wealthy Americans to donate millions to help pay for the upkeep of Britain's castles and stately homes.

Venturing into the suburbs of Virginia, the royal couple will stop by a J.C. Penney store to advertise the chain's "Best of Britain" campaign, a nationwide promotion of British merchandise.

Throughout their tour, the 36-year-old heir to the throne and his glamorous 24-year-old wife will be perpetuating the drawing power of the monarchy.

Popular British magazines such as Woman's Own and Woman say sales jump by up to 40,000 when Diana appears on the cover.

Hard year predicted for oil

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Next year should be another "rough, tough, hard road" for the oil business, said James Linn, senior vice president of corporate drilling operations for Parker Drilling Co.

Linn spoke Thursday at the Permian Basin Economic Outlook conference.

The industry can expect to see more production declines, he said, and if winters are mild over the next couple of years, a continued surplus of natural gas could result.

Several conditions have prolonged the drilling slump, he said, including a natural gas surplus, a drop in natural gas prices, reduced demand due to conservation, bank loan problems, independent cash flow problems in the industry, and the operators' reversal of their attitude about the change in oil prices.

Uncertainty regarding the future tax situation has made business overly cautious, he said. The caution is the result of the business facing the possible loss of "many valued incentives" in President Reagan's proposed tax plan.

"We are faced with paralyzing uncertainty," Linn said.

A dramatic increase in big business taking over smaller businesses has taken place in the '80s, resulting in shrinking exploration and production funds, he said. The $85 billion debt owed by big businesses who have taken over the smaller companies amounts to exploration and production funds for the industry for five years, he said. Linn said the business also is suffering from the lack of long-term commitments. "We need stability in the marketplace," he said.

But the oil business slump won't last forever, he said, adding that those in the business are too pessimistic.

Although the United States remains vulnerable in the world marketplace, Linn said, the world oil surplus has begun to shrink, and the natural gas market "will come back."

"There will be a natural gas shortage, we just don't know when," he said.

Most of tomorrow's energy will come from resources yet undiscovered, he said. There is vast, untold potential for drilling in China that will help the industry in the long run. Also the major companies are moving very aggressively into Africa, he said.

Explanations vary toward healing flagging economy

By TOM PETERS

The many explanations for the economy's often problematic performance — soaring negative trade balance, debtor nation status, federal deficit, low productivity — are, at best, confusing.

Is our economy headed for collapse? The answer depends on whom one asks. One set of economists (the "naysayers," as I call them) anticipate continued low savings rates and low productivity, as well as a disastrous loss of manufacturing jobs. But another set defends the economy's performance; they begin by pointing out that manufacturing, as a share of Gross National Product, is stable at 45 percent. These economists maintain that the rate of loss of manufacturing jobs is not a phenomenon of either the post-OPEC years or the Japanese threat.

The naysayers, however, assert that the type (not the rate) of manufacturing job loss is critical. Americans are becoming assemblers, retaining only the lower-skilled manufacturing jobs.

Let's go on to examine productivity. Admittedly, our overall productivity has been anemic in the last 10 years. The poor performance, however, has been wholly caused by low productivity in the service sector. Over the last decade, manufacturing productivity has, in fact, increased.

The naysayers don't place much stock in service jobs. They question whether anyone wants the future of his or her grandchild to lie in watering flowers or cooking fries. The other set of economists replies that the service sector has in fact been our strong suit. While other economies (including that of Japan) have had job shrinkage, the United States has created more than 20 million new jobs in the last decade alone — a monumental feat that was necessary to absorb the surge of both baby boomers and women into the workforce.

Our economists confuse the productivity issue further by reminding us that Japan's overall productivity is only 61 percent of ours, despite our recent poor performance noted above.

The naysayers also maintain that too much capital is surging into the United States, in response to the trade deficit and overvalued dollar. But again, this explanation may not be so pat. There is another view: It's not that we are an increasingly attractive investment sink; it's simply that other places have become less attractive. Specifically, our rate of capital investment in now-shaky Third World and developing countries has plummeted in a period of only three years from an average of $120 billion per year to $20 billion per year. (The difference turns out to be precisely the same as the magnitude of change in overall capital flow, clearly suggesting the trade deficit may not be the prime cause of the change.)

The naysayers state that our economic problems are in large part due to the fact Americans don't save enough. But even that statement can be debated. Perhaps we simply invest in different things from those that others invest in. For instance, the United States' investment in housing is $1.7 trillion. In Japan, that investment is approximately $100 billion — just one seventeenth of the American total, despite the fact Japan's population is more than half that of the United States.

The reasonable response to the above is to throw one's hands up in the air in dismay. Nonetheless, I think these legitimate conflicting explanations hold a key message: Our legislators are confused, too. The likelihood of legislative consensus around any coherent set of policies is low. In other words, there is little chance of anything other than inertia — and confusion — coming from Washington. The bottom line, then, is that no panaceas are likely to emerge. It falls back on today's management to save itself in the context of ambiguity, increased worldwide competition, and a "playing field" that's not level.

The good news is that there are role models around: winners who have retooled factories in the rust bowl; winners who have used new information technology to achieve massive productivity increases in service businesses; winners who have listened to customers and reacted rapidly with high-quality, innovative, tailored products; and winners who have cleaned up excessive bureaucracy.

The bad news is that these winners are too few in number to herald a true economic revitalization. Many of the Fortune 500 companies are not changing fast enough to remain vital. Today's burning economic question, then, is will management move swiftly enough to avoid a long-term decline? The ball is squarely in the court of the leaders of our business organizations. There is no time to waste.

A towering dinosaur landmark attracts customers to the American Building Co. between Midland and Odessa.

Landmarks attract customers

MIDLAND (AP) — Advertising is a multifaceted medium and different folks in different businesses usually choose one or more ways of drawing attention to products or services they have to offer.

Through the years, before the advent of mass-media campaigns and advertising agencies to fit every need, business people often devised their own methods of advertising.

A blacksmith might hang an old anvil, a tailor might use an oversized needle and thread and — of course — a barber cleverly devised the familiar red-and-white barber pole. In very early days, the red and white purportedly symbolized the fact that barbers also specialized in "bleeding," a then-favored treatment for a variety of ills.

Businesses are still developing their own special ways of proclaiming their wares, often in addition to — sometimes even instead of — newspapers, magazines, radio and television.

Some of the symbols selected are unique, others are "home-grown" renditions, while others are more or less what you might expect to see gracing the business where you go for some particular merchandise or service. And there are some you've probably passed many times but never really saw or, if you did see them, you wondered what connection the symbol has with the business.

Such may be the case with the metal dinosaur and over-sized metal duck that sits in front of the American Building Co., between Midland and Odessa.

According to American Building employee Orville Crump, company owner H.C. McCullough bought the duck and dinosaur at an auction about 10 years ago and they've been sitting in front of the company office and yard ever since. They have no connection with the fact that American Building sells portable metal buildings.

"They've become a landmark," Crump says, noting that people passing often stop and let their kids climb on them while the parents take photographs.

Few would have to question the winged roller skate that sits atop the Skateland Roller Rink.

The T-Bar-B Steak House appropriately mounted its signs on the sides of a huge Fiberglass bull.

TESCO must grow to meet state needs

By SPENCER SANDOW
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Texas Electric Service Co. will need some 10 million additional kilowatts of capacity within the next 10 years to meet the needs of a growing state population, said E.D. Scarth, vice president of operations for the company.

Scarth was one of several speakers Thursday at the Permian Basin Economic Outlook conference.

Texas has gained 10 percent more customers in the last two years, Scarth said. In order to meet Texas' needs, the company must grow 4 percent per year, he said.

Two million of the needed kilowatts will come from a nuclear plant near completion near Fort Worth, he said. Another 3 million will come from lignite fuel and coal fire units.

Combustion turbines are "now in the picture" to provide some of the needed energy, he said. The turbines are good to handle peak loads, he said. Natural gas will fuel the turbines, with oil used as a standby. West Texas will get some of the turbines, he said, partly because the fuel is already here.

Customer conservation and efficiency will account for 1.7 million kilowatts, Scarth said. The company plans to launch a massive public relations campaign to get customers to use better insulated houses and more efficient air conditioners, he said.

Businesses will get a discount from their electric bill when they conserve during peak hours of noon to 8 p.m., he said. "Ice storage air conditioners" now popular in the Dallas/Fort Worth area will make it possible for businesses to use less energy during peak hours. The machines make and store ice when they are in use, then use the ice to cool the building during peak hours, he said.

Business briefs

Frank "Randy" Warren is the new vice president of finance at Fibertex. He replaces Ernie Swart who resigned Oct. 30. Warren expects to move to Big Spring in the near future.

ABILENE — The West Texas Central Oil and Gas Association has endorsed an import fee on refined products, citing national security and economic reasons. The business is being hurt by increased foreign competition, a lower demand for light oil products and residual fuel oil, and new unleaded gasoline and anti-pollution regulations designed to protect the environment, according to an association news release. The association said more than 100 refineries have closed during the 1980s.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just one of every four unemployed people in the United States received jobless benefits in October, the lowest figure in at least two decades, according to a private research group.

The Center on Budget and Policy Priorities reported Tuesday that the percentage of unemployed people receiving benefits nationwide was 25.8 percent in October, only about half of what it was in 1980 when unemployment averaged 7.1 percent for the year, the same as last month's jobless rate.

DALLAS (AP) — The number of Savings and Loans deemed "technically insolvent" and placed under state supervisory control has grown during the last two months, according to a state S&L official.

Savings and Loan Commissioner L. Linton Bowman III said Wednesday that associations placed under control of the Texas Savings and Loan Department have not met regulatory net-worth requirements, which another official defined as "technically insolvent."

Bowman said less than 11 of the state's 220 savings associations are under supervisory control. "These were institutions that previously had been closely monitored by the department," Bowman said.

The supervision ranges from day-to-day monitoring by an agent to an agent running the association.

State regulators received increased powers to take supervisory action against troubled associations.

Area farmers market is now reality

An outlet for local producers has now become a reality with the formal organization of the Permian Basin Farmers Market. This regional organization will serve producers throughout the area and will allow producers of all types of marketable produce to have an outlet for their products. These products will range from fresh vegetables of all types to seasonal fruits and nuts. Several weeks ago in this column, and in a newsletter to producers, an interest survey was made. This was also done by County Extension Agents in all counties throughout the Permian Basin region. Interested producers responding to this survey were then contacted and an interest meeting was set up in Midland to determine if sufficient interest was really available to warrant further development of this project. Over thirty producers attended this meeting. From it, each county that had shown an interest then held county wide meetings of interested producers to elect a representative to this regional organization. Joe Hollingshead was elected to represent Howard County. Don Leshner was elected to serve as alternate director. On Tuesday of this week the formal meeting to organize the Permian Basin Farmers Market Association was held in Midland. The Joe Hollingshead was elected from the group, which included representatives from the twelve counties in the Permian Basin region, along with representatives from the Texas Department of Agriculture and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, to head this organization. Hollingshead, a resident of the Forsan community, recently planted several acres primarily for Apple production, but other fruits and vegetables, primarily onions, are also included in his plans. We should feel very fortunate to have someone like Joe Hollingshead to represent Howard County in this organization, for we know, with his leadership, that this new source of income to our county's producers will be successful and in good hands. Our congratulations are extended to Mr. Hollingshead and our best wishes for a most successful venture such as this. If you would like more information about participation in the Permian Basin Farmers Market, which will be eventually located in the Midland/Odessa area due to the population concentrations, please contact the Howard County Extension Office located in the West end of the Howard County Courthouse basement. While discussing forthcoming big horticultural events, don't forget that the Howard County Pecan Show will be held Tuesday, December 3, 1985, in the Highland South Shopping Center in Big Spring. Entries in the county pecan show should be received in the County Extension Service office before that date. An entry must be 40 pecans of one variety.

Child self-care to be discussed

Teaching children responsible self-care is just one of the topics to be discussed at a seminar for parents from 9:30-12:00 this morning at Lakeview School. Other presentations will cover "Children's Growth: What is Normal?" and "Being an Informed Parent." "Building Strong - Healthy Families" the program's title and goal is sponsored by the Extension Home Economics Committee, Texas Agricultural Extension Service and Lakeview School. The seminar is free and child care will be provided. Child Must Be Taught Self-Care Skills. Thousands of Texas school children are home alone each day after school.

The increasing number of employed mothers and lack of supervised after-school programs means that more and more children will be involved in self-care. After school self-care beginning at age nine or ten is not necessarily a bad thing, if children are adequately prepared and ready to function on their own. Both employed parents and full-time homemakers, should teach coping skills to their children before allowing them to stay by themselves. Specialists suggest that parents preparing a child for self-care do the following:

- Teach the child basic safety skills including how to use emergency phone number, perform first aid for minor home accidents, escape the house or apartment in case of fire, and handle incoming phone calls or strangers coming to the door.
- Have your child practice emergency situations and test him or her periodically to make sure basic skills have not been forgotten.
- Set clear-cut rules that will guide the child toward responsible behavior. Children need to know what they can or cannot do when it comes to cooking, using appliances, playing outside or having friends over to play.

- Help your child fight boredom and avoid excessive television watching by encouraging hobbies and providing plenty of alternative after-school activities, such as reading, a pet, or arts and crafts projects.
- Set expectations about homework, chores and music practice to help your child learn to manage time and develop self-discipline.

Bobcats run and pass by Steers, 47-15

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

The San Angelo Central Bobcats unleashed a surprise passing attack to go along with their powerful running attack as they soundly defeated the Big Spring Steers, 47-15, in the final game for both teams.

The Bobcats, known for their potent Wing-T rushing attack, turned quarterbacks Mario Martinez and backup Doug Bond loose and blistered the Steers' secondary for 175 yards. The Bobcats had passed for only 400 yards in the first nine games of the season.

That, along with the running of slippery back Don Hall and C.L. Bowman, was simply too much for the Steers' defense to handle.

Martinez did most of the damage to the Steers. He was almost perfect for the night, completing 6 of 7 attempts for 126 yards. Bond, who entered the contest late in the game, was a perfect one-for-one. His completion was a 49-yard strike to backup receiver Derrick Jones.

Bowman and Hall were nothing short of spectacular, combining for 240 yards. Bowman slashed his way through the Steers' middle for 146 yards in 21 carries. Hall burned the Steers with his outside runs, ending the contest with 91 yards in 23 tries.

The game, played in winds with gusts up to 30-40 miles per hour, was a close contest for the first half of play, even though the Bobcats led 21-7.

Both teams moved the ball well with the wind, but the tale of the half was Big Spring's inability to cash in on scoring opportunities. Three times the Steers moved the ball inside the Central 30-yard line and came away empty-handed.

All the Steers' potential drives came in the second quarter, when the Steers had the wind at their backs. Twice the Steers turned the ball over on downs and once Steers' quarterback Carl Speck's pass was intercepted by Anthony Davis, one of four interceptions for the Bobcats in the game. Speck had thrown only six interceptions going into the the Bobcats rolled 57 yards in 8 plays. The drive was aided by three offsides penalties.

Martinez hit tight end Mike Epley for 11 yards and wingback

Charlie Goode for 28 yards. Both came on third down-and-long situations.

Bowman scored his first of five touchdowns from two yards out.

Neal McSpeden's extra point gave Central a 7-0 lead with 5:55 left in the first quarter.

Abilene High finished the year at 5-4-1 and 2-4-1 in district.

Abilene Cooper dropped to 1-9 overall and 1-6 in district.

The Eagles' first period score came on a 2-yard run by George McFarland. Melvin Davis' point after touchdown kick attempt was successful.

Abilene Cooper made a game of it in the second quarter when they notched two tallies on the scoreboard.

David Tollison scored on a 41-yard run and Bill Dehlinger ran to paydirt from 23 yards out.

A two-point run attempt by Chris Ferris of Cooper was successful after the first touchdown and Dehlinger was successful with his point after touchdown kick on the second tally.

Permian 37,

Odessa 7

ODESSA — Woody Bryant kicked field goals of 27, 36, 27 yards, scored 1 TD and added 3 extra points and the Permian panthers dominated Odessa High 37-7 in District 4-5A action.

Bryant, who scored on a 9 yard run, finished the game with 73 yards in 13 carries. Fellow running back Marcus Lott, who scored two TD's himself, led all rushers with 99 yards in 17 attempts.

After Lott scored on a three yard run to open the scoring for the night, Odessa High followed with its only score of the game. Garry Powell ran the ensuing kickoff back 86 yards for the score. After that, it was all Permian.

The Panthers head into the state playoffs with a 9-0-1 record and first in the district with a 6-0-1 slate. Odessa High finishes up at 6-4.

Lee 27, Midland 21

MIDLAND — The Midland Lee rebels overcame a 21-14 halftime deficit to come on and down the Midland High Bulldogs 27-21 in a cross-town rival battle.

The Bulldogs, who were led by Jake Madrid's 107 yards rushing in 18 carries, scored a TD in the first quarter and then added two more in the second period to take the halftime lead. Unfortunately, it would be the last points the Bulldogs would score.

Lee came back in the second half on a 56 yard scoring run by quarter Tvey Rankin and a 21 yard pass from Rankin to tight end Anthony Dickens.

The win gives Lee a 8-2 record going into the state playoffs. The Bulldogs end the season with a 3-7 slate.

Roscoe nips Garden City, 19-14

By CHARLIE ALCORN
Sports Writer

GARDEN CITY — Nobody with a reasonable knowledge of West Texas Class-A football would have given Garden City a chance of knocking off perennial power Roscoe, especially with a playoff spot on the line.

But the Bearkats came within three minutes of pulling off the upset, before Roscoe quarterback Matt Denman rallied his team on a last-minute touchdown drive to beat Garden City, 19-14, in a thrilling Friday night game.

It was a heroic effort by the entire Garden City squad, who came into the game as 21-point underdogs, but gave the Plowboys all they could handle.

The Bearkats were led by tailback Abby Madrid, who rushed for 187 yards on 24 carries. He also scored both Garden City touchdowns on runs of 47 and three yards.

Perhaps the finest showing of the game was made by the Garden City defense, which continually rose to stop the powerful Roscoe Veer attack. Standouts included defensive tackles Willie Sanchez and Charles Pesnell, linebackers Jesse Lopez, David Montgomery and Madrid and defensive backs Trey Willey and Tommy Halfmann.

In the first half Roscoe was in command on the scoreboard, taking a 13-0 lead into the locker room, but the Plowboys looked far from invincible.

The Plowboys got on the scoreboard on their first drive of the game, taking the ball 53 yards in five plays for the touchdown. The big play of the drive occurred on a fourth down-and-three play around midfield, where Denman found favorite receiver Lee McPaul on a 40-yard pass down to the Garden City three-yard line. McPaul would be a thorn in Garden City's side all night, grabbing five passes for 120 yards.

Following a motion penalty that put the ball back at the G-City 8-yard line, Denman kept the ball on an option and cut up the middle for the score. Jeff Altof's PAT left the score 7-0 with 5:15 left in the first quarter.

Garden City moved the ball well in their first drive of the second quarter behind Madrid's running. The 'Kats drove the ball from their own 38 to the Roscoe 27-yard line but the drive was killed when Roscoe defensive tackle Jeff McGlothlin recovered a missed handoff between Montgomery and Madrid.

The Plowboys started their second touchdown drive, following the fumble at the Bearkat 25-yard line. Denman ran for one first down before he unleashed a 37-yard strike to McPaul to put Roscoe in scoring position at the Garden City 17-yard line.

The Plowboys ran the ball down to the 3-yard line, when Denman found McPaul all alone in the end zone for an easy touchdown. Garden City got a break when Altof's PAT attempt sailed wide G-City page 8

Lady Steers tackle Sandies in playoffs

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Writer

LUBBOCK — "I think we can get into the playoffs and the girls think they can win."

That was the words of Big Spring Lady Steers volleyball coach Susan Sharp just before the season started in August. A lot has happened since then, but the third-year Big Spring mentor knew what she was talking about. Her Lady Steers will take on the Amarillo High Sandies Saturday afternoon in the first round of state playoff action.

Big Spring's first post-season appearance since 1977 will take place at 4 p.m. at Lubbock Coronado High School. Needless to say, Sharp and her squad are fired up for their meeting with the Sandies, runner-up in District 3-5A.

The Sandies, coached by Kim Hudson, finished the regular season with a 26-6 record and 12-2 district slate. Both of AHS' district losses came at the hands of district winner Amarillo Tacosa. Tacosa is ranked sixth in the state in the Texas Girls Coaches Association Poll. It went undefeated in district and sports a sparkling 31-1 record.

Tacosa will play District 4-5A runner-up San Angelo Central Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. in San Angelo. The Lady Steers come into the contest after winning district with a 12-2 record. They are 23-9 overall and ranked No. 8 by the TGCA poll.

It seems only fitting that the Lady Steers make the playoffs, they have been inching their way towards their long-awaited goal since Sharp has been at the helm. In three seasons Sharp has completed all winning seasons and a 53-36 overall record.

The icing on the cake was the district championship and dethroning state-runner up Central as the district champ.

Right now Sharp feels that her team is playing championship ball. "We really had two peaking points this season," she said. "The first was just before district at the Seminole Tournament and the other is right now."

"I think a lot of it has to do with maturity. We've matured as individuals as well as a team."

Sharp is expecting a hard game from the Sandies. "I really haven't got a chance to see them much, but they have a big team. They have five girls in the 5-10, 5-11 range. They are pretty quick and they play a man-down Lady Steers page 8

Eagles destroy Klondike, 52-0

KLONDIKE — The Klondike Cougars will have to wait until next year. They finished their 1985 season winless, dropping a 52-0 contest Friday to the O'Donnell Eagles in 7-1A Northern District action.

The Cougars dropped to 0-10 while O'Donnell finished the year 7-3 overall.

Klondike played most of the game in its own territory. They managed to cross the mid-field stripe once and that was O'Donnell's 49-yard line. The Cougars managed a minus 1-yard total of offensive output.

Eagles quarterback Kyle Summers was a one-man scoring machine most of the evening. He scored on runs of one and eight yards, booted a 20-yard field goal and successfully kicked seven extra points.

Other Eagle scores came on a 15-yard run by Kelly Sanders, a one-yard run by Arthur Ortiz, a one-yard run by Michael Ortiz, an

STANTON — The McCamey Badgers clobbered the Stanton Buffaloes 42-0 in the last district game of the season, leaving McCamey's record at 9-1 and Stanton's at 3-7.

McCamey will play Marfa whom it beat 42-19 earlier in the season, in the playoffs next week at an undetermined site.

Four Stanton players were injured in the game. The most serious injury was a possible concussion to Tommy Smith in the second half.

McCamey's quarterback Nandy Zarate scored first on a one-yard run with 8:55 in the first quarter. The PAT by Zarate was blocked.

Zarate scored again with 2:35 on the clock on a 14-yard pass to split end Vivian Garcia. The PAT for two points was no good.

The second quarter was scoreless.

Tailback Rodney Terry scored on a 51-yard run with 4:58 on the clock. The PAT by Zarate was no good.

The fourth quarter saw the most action, when McCamey scored four times. Zarate kicked a 26-yard field goal with 11:48 on the clock. Tailback Emmitt Brown scored on a three-yard run with 9:11 left and Zarate kicked the PAT.

Brown scored again on a 26-yard run with 6:29 on the clock and Zarate kicked the PAT. Terry scored on a seven-yard run with 2:19 on the clock and tailback Adam Arana scored the PAT.

defense like us."

The Sandies, do indeed have a big front line led by 5-7 senior spiker Jennie Howard. Howard is the best athlete on the team and is very adept at setting and serving.

Howard's other front line help comes from 5-9 junior Laura Hart and 5-8 senior Terri Lorgan. The Sandies lost 5-11 senior setter Lori Coffman to a knee injury.

Sharp is quick to point out she's not satisfied with just getting into the playoffs. "I'd love to go to Austin," she said as a smile formed on her lips. "There are a lot of these kids that have never even been there. Now would be a good time for them to see it."

Here is a player summary of the 1985 District 4-6A Champions Big Spring Lady Steers Volleyball Team.

Monique Jones — The 5-8 senior spiker is the type of player that can dominate a game with her power game. She was the Lady Steers top spiker this season. She's got the best vertical jump on the team and has the ability to go across court. Her defense has picked up tremendously.

Bona fide college performer.

Tammie Green — This 5-3 senior spiker has three years varsity experience. She's the team leader who plays well in the clutch spots. Perhaps the best server on the team. Has good spiking potential and long arms enable her to block a lot of kills.

Lisa Hale — This 5-4 junior has changed from setter to spiker. A very versatile performer whose vertical leap ranks only second to Jones. Can play either setter or spiker. A player that can always be counted on to give 100 percent.

Sheri Myrick — This 6-1 junior middle blocker has been a major factor in the Lady Steers improved defensive play. Is a very intimidating player at the net. She led the team in blocks this season. Also has the potential to dominate a game with her spiking and is a very good server.

Tali Green — This 5-7 junior went from spiker to setter early in the season. The most consistent player on the team and has a knack for hitting free balls over for points. A very smooth player who doesn't mind mixing it up at the net.

Katrina Thompson — The only sophomore on the team. A good all-around athlete who got her first start early in the season. She has been starting every since. The 5-5 spiker is a year away from being dominating on the front line. Probably the most-talented sophomore in District 4-6A.

Keel Myrick — This 5-4 senior spiker comes off the bench and can either set or spike. A real fireplug who always keeps her teammates fired up. Comes in mainly to play back row.

Michelle Husted — A 5-8 junior reserve spiker that handles game situations well. An aggressive player with good jumping ability. When she comes in, the team doesn't miss a beat.

Amarillo High Roster (26-4)

Jennie Howard, spiker	5-7, jr.
Mindy Bennett, spiker	5-7, jr.
Kristin Doores, spiker	5-5, jr.

Garden City had a good opportunity to score just before the end of the half, when they drove the ball to the Roscoe five-yard line. Big plays in the drive included a 19-yard pass play by Montgomery to wingback Frankie Ramirez and a 22 yard scamper by Madrid.

On a fourth down and two from the Roscoe five-yard line, Montgomery lofted a pass to Ramirez in the end zone, but he could not hang on, leaving the score 13-0 at halftime.

Roscoe received the second-half kickoff and looked to be on a carbon copy of their first quarter touchdown drive when the Bearcats' Willie Sanchez took matters into his own hands.

The senior defensive tackle broke through the line on an attempted pass play and crushed Denman, causing a fumble that he recovered at the Roscoe 47-yard line.

On the first Garden City play from scrimmage, Madrid broke a dive play up the middle and then outran the secondary for a beautiful 47-yard touchdown run. Bobby Medrano's PAT was true and the 'Kats were back in the game, 13-7 with 10:33 left in the third quarter.

The Bearkat defenders dominated the action in the rest of the third and most of the fourth period, stuffing the Denmann and the Roscoe running backs Danny Herrera and Tommy Williams for little or no gain. The 'Kat defense caused two more Roscoe fumbles in the third quarter but they could not turn the miscues into points.

Garden City set up its go-ahead touchdown when Roscoe went to the well one too many times on fourth down. The Plowboys went for it on fourth-and-one from their own 37 but Denmann met a brick wall on the keeper and was dropped for a one-yard loss.

On the second play of the drive Madrid broke a sweep for 20 yards down to the Roscoe 17. On a third-and-11 at the 19-yard line, fullback Threw Willey burst up the middle for 13 yards and a first down at the 6-yard line but fumbled. The 'Kats' wide receiver Kenny Bennett alertly fell on the ball to preserve the drive.

With 3:17 left in the game, Garden City tied the game on a nifty three-yard touchdown run by Madrid. Medrano's PAT was true, giving the 'Kats their first lead of the game, 14-13.

The lead would prove to be short-lived, however, as Williams returned the ensuing Garden City kickoff 40 yards to the Bearkat 44-yard line.

Garden City looked to have the Plowboys stopped when Denmann went back to pass on fourth down-and-nine and found McPaul behind the secondary for a 25-yard gain to the 18-yard line. On the next play, Denmann found wingback Patrick Ivy for another 15-yard completion down to the Bearkat 3.

Two plays later, Denmann took the scoring honors on a three-yard keeper and the Plowboys had miraculously escaped with the 19-14 victory.

Steers

Bobcat backup Bond hit Jones for a 49-yard gainer. Two plays later Mark Daniel scored from the 3. The PAT was good, leaving the score a dismal 47-7 with 5:16 left.

The Steers "saved a little face" by coming back with their final scoring drive of the night. They did it on the ground as White and Matthews ripped off long runs.

It took Big Spring seven plays to travel 80 yards. Matthews scored on a three-yard option pitch. Holder Brian Reid ran in the two-point conversion on a fake extra-point attempt, putting the game at its final outcome.

The Steers end the district with a 2-5 slate, ending up in fifth place.

Henderson drops Queens, 63-56

ODESSA — The Howard College Hawk-Queens dropped their second game of the Odessa College Classic to Henderson College by a score of 63-56.

It was the second round of play for both teams. Friday night the Queens won their first game of the season by downing Paris 74-65.

The Queens jumped out to an early lead against Henderson behind the scoring of guard Terri Powell. Howard held a slim 26-24 halftime lead. Powell, a 5-7 freshman from Channing, pumped in a season-high 24 points, to lead all scorers.

But the Queens lost their lead for good with five minutes remaining in the game. The loss gives Howard a 1-4 record.

Big Spring native Monette Wise led the Queens in rebounding with 6. Pam Franklin and Lorri French added 5 caroms each.

Howard will play Kilgore Junior College today at 5 p.m. in their final game of the tournament.

Odessa blasts Hawks, 74-65

MIDLAND — The Howard College Hawks took one the chin against a tough Odessa College squad, 74-65, in a second round match in the Midland Chapparral Classic Friday night in the Chap Center.

Though the Hawks outrebounded the Wranglers and committed only one turnover, they could not handle OC's offensive balanced scoring from both long range and inside.

The Hawks fell behind early in the game and never could make a run at the 'Wrangler' due to a poor shooting percentage throughout most of the game.

Hawk forward Bruce Kimble took high scoring honors with 16 points. Mike McCall chip-
