Fina employees hit United Way goal

By JANET AUSBURY
Staff Writer

Employees of the local Fina refinery were honored at a luncheon Tuesday for meeting their $30,000 United Way contribution goal.

Manager Jeff Morris said a goal is set every year for contributions, and if the goal is met, a luncheon is organized to recognize and reward employees' generosity.

Daril Pineda, a pump house employee, and Deborah Baron, an accounting employee, received special medals from United Way Executive Director Sherrie Bordofsky for their efforts as in-house coordinators for the fund drive.

"They even came out to meet people working nights," said Morris about Pineda and Baron's work as United Way coordinators. "It takes one month to run the campaign here, and they worked on it almost full-time for a month."

Morris is proud of his employees and their increased donations to United Way during the last five years. In 1988, Fina employees gave approximately $20,000; this year, the $30,000 goal was met with fewer employees than five years ago.

"The average employee here gave at least $100," said Morris. "The average employee in Howard County in general gave a little over $1 a month. Fina employees are giving 10 times as much, but they do not make 10 times as much money."

He is not sure whether Fina will raise the goal for the

Atkins is 'Man of Year'

By TIM JONES
Staff Writer

Richard Atkins has been named Man of the Year for 1994 by the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Atkins has been a chamber member since 1967, when he returned to Big Spring to manage Big Spring Hardware at 117 Main.

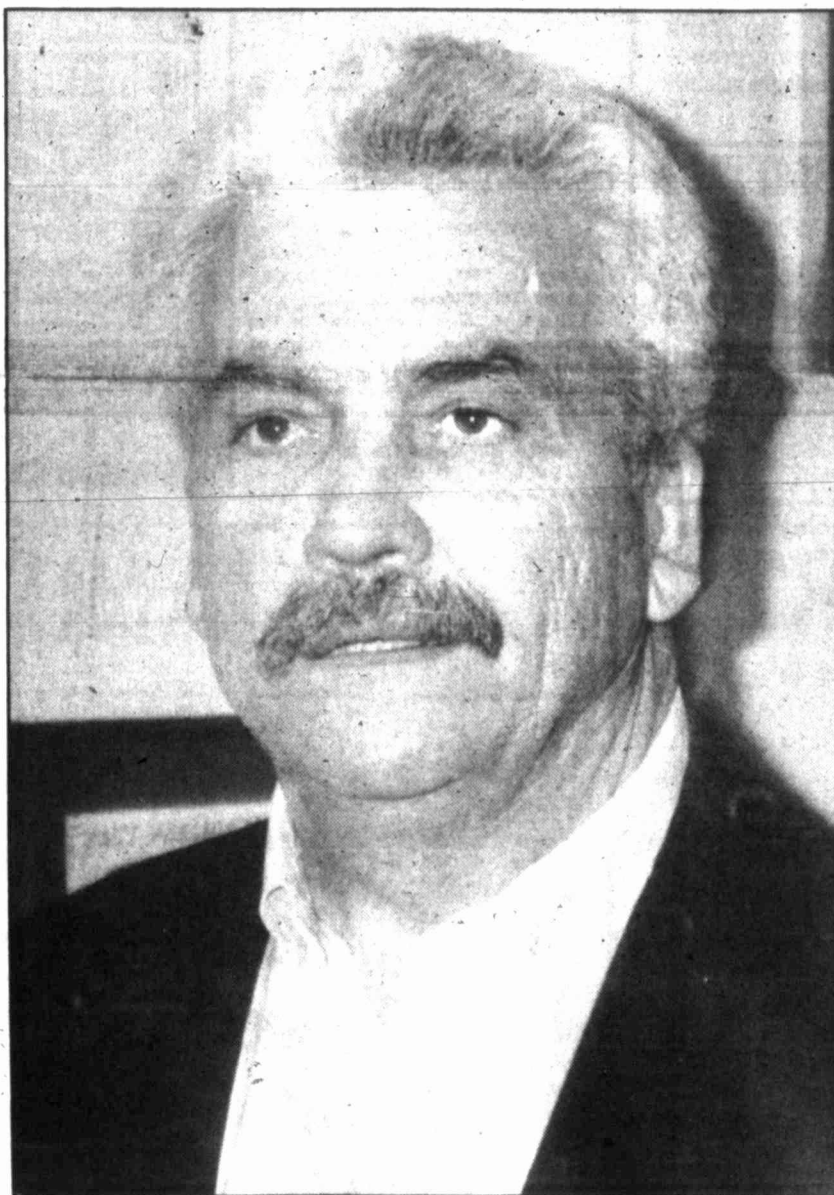

"It's humbling to receive this award and be in a line of succession of leaders that helped shape Big Spring," Atkins said, receiving the prestigious award from outgoing chamber President G. Ben Bancroft and executive director Terry Burris.

"I've not done anything out of the ordinary," Atkins insisted. "I've been a volunteer in a community filled with volunteers. I'd hate to think where Big Spring would be without volunteers."

Atkins has been involved in many aspects of service to the community over the years. He currently is on the board of Big Spring Main Street Inc. which is revitalizing the downtown area.

"I think that in two to three years we'll see no vacancies in the downtown business district," Atkins predicted.

He is a layreader and has been a junior and senior warden of the vestry at St. Mary's Episcopal Church. He has been on the board of directors of the YMCA, and is current president of the board of directors of the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. He is a past member of Moore Development for Big Spring's business retention committee.

Big Spring Hardware's Richard Atkins has been named as Big Spring Chamber of Commerce's Man of the Year.

College reviews mission

By JANET AUSBURY
Staff Writer

Howard College officials, as part of a continuing project to improve service, will spend Friday with student and community groups to review and possibly revise its mission.

A roundtable of community residents, representing small businesses, large institutions, education and other components, will meet from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the student union building's Tumbleweed Room.

The meeting will be open to the public. Those who wish to attend at 11:30 must contact the college to make lunch reservations, or skip the luncheon and attend at noon.

From 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., a student roundtable will take place in the same location. It will have a similar format, open to all students but with several students chosen to represent traditional, non-traditional, vocational and other student groups.

The two roundtables will discuss the Howard County Junior College District's current mission and purpose, which is stated in the course catalog. Input from the roundtables and other sources will be reviewed.

The current mission statement focuses on emphasis of service to local communities while providing requested services to some outlying areas. Promotion and support of economic development is considered one of the major services provided by the college district.

Linda Conway, assistant to HC President Cheri Sparks, said a proposal to either retain or change the mission statement will be given to Sparks by spring break.

Local woman's fears finally calmed by call

Monday morning's earthquake in southern California was definitely on Big Spring resident Bekka Flores' mind as she prepared for work. Thoughts of the welfare of her mother, brothers and nieces who all live there flashed through her mind as she watched television reports about the early morning disaster.

Flores went to the hair styling salon that she operates next door to the Oasis carwash and started a busy morning cutting customers' hair. In the background, Flores had the shop's television tuned to earthquake reports, but was busy with her customers and couldn't play close attention to what was being said.

Bekka Flores was unsuccessful for nearly two days in her attempts to contact her mother and other relatives, who live in the area that was hardest hit during southern California's earthquake on Jan. 17. She finally got the news they were all okay late Tuesday, Jan. 18.

Methodist buys into local clinic

Malone and Hogan Clinic and Lubbock Methodist Hospital System announced their affiliation in Big Spring Tuesday in an official signing ceremony at the clinic.

Methodist has purchased Malone and Hogan's day surgery, laboratory, X-ray, physical therapy and anesthesia services. Also, Methodist will clinically manage the multi-specialty practices of the 13 physicians practicing there.

"This will bring the 'Methodist difference' to Malone and Hogan and to Big Spring," said Penny Phillips, Malone and Hogan's clinic administrator. "The new affiliation brings Methodist's expertise and resources that will help us grow."

Methodist is a "large, successful network," Phillips added, pointing out that one of the main reasons the clinic is tying in to such a well-developed system is in preparation for health care reform.

"By networking with the clinic in Big Spring, we are better able to offer our management expertise and resources so that health care in Big Spring remains on the leading edge," said Ray Reynolds, regional controller for Methodist's Regional Services/Rural Health Network.

Dr. Robert Hayes, president of the Malone and Hogan Clinic, said he feels confident that "the combination of the two systems will allow us to grow into the future and will be a benefit not only Big Spring, but for West Texas as well."

Flores then remembered that her mother's house in Northridge is within walking distance from that mall and near Reseda Boulevard.

Then she discovered that placing a phone call into the devastated area would be next to impossible, as officials prioritized telephone access for emergency rescue operations.

She went home that night not being able to contact her loved ones. At home, she found out that one of her dogs had run away. That topped it all off. She began crying, and had difficulty sleeping that night as she struggled with the frustration and her powerlessness over the day's events.

Tuesday afternoon, Deborah Gutierrez, her sister in San Antonio finally persisted and got through to their mother, Elin Pfiffer in Northridge. Their house was intact but the swimming pool was half-gone. Glass from lots of broken small objects were all around inside the newly remodeled adobe home.

Her mom related the experience, saying she'd been thrown around ... that it had been dark and terrifying.

"I groped for a flashlight and batteries, and there was broken glass all around," Pfiffer said. "I waited for what seemed like an eternity. Then I walked around and surveyed the damage as best I could. We don't know how much clean up work we can do yet, because there are aftershocks. We are still without water and power."

Much of the load had been lifted from Flores' shoulders.

"We've been blessed and we share what we have," he said. "I challenge other equally blessed employers in Howard County to share what they have."

Bordofsky credited employee volunteers for increasing Fina donations during the last few years. "They can talk one-on-one. Employees relate to fellow employees," she said.

The increased amount contributed by employees will boost the amount given by the Fina Foundation. Morris said the foundation should announce its contribution shortly, as soon as all the Fina locations have turned in their employee contribution amounts.

the same this year.

This would mean a total contribution of approximately $45,000 from Fina, which would amount to nearly 20 percent of the projected $200,000 the local United Way expects to collect from the 1993 fund drive.

Morris said the level of giving by Fina employees reflects their caring about the community and its less fortunate residents.

"These are very, very good people," he said. "I'm proud to work with people of this quality."

Bordofsky said total contributions to United Way still stand at approximately $175,000 and the Fina contributions have helped significantly.

"It would be very difficult to do this without the Fina employees' caring," she said. "They are an excellent example for the community."

Mattox thinks he'll win labor backing

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — Former state attorney general Jim Mattox says he expects to win organized labor's support in his bid for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate in the March 8 primary.

"The momentum is with us," Mattox said Tuesday after speaking to delegates of the Texas AFL-CIO. "The polling has clearly shown that we've been the choice of the Democratic Party."

Joe Gunn, president of the 200,000-member Texas AFL-CIO, said Mattox probably would win the group's support.

"If I was a betting man I believe I would put the odds on (Mattox winning the endorsement)," he said.

But the other major Democratic primary candidates — Mike Andrews, a congressman from Houston, and Richard Fisher, a Dallas businessman — urged the group to keep its options open should Mattox fail to advance to the general election in November.

All three candidates accused Republican U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison of voting against the interests of working people. And they also verbally jabbed each other.

Fisher said if Mattox is the Democratic nominee, he will lose by a wider margin than Bob Krueger did in last year's special election. Mrs. Hutchison defeated Krueger in a runoff with 67 percent of the vote.

But Mattox said, "Just remember that was coming from a fellow who came in fifth and was beat worse than Bob Krueger was." Fisher received 8 percent of the vote in the 24-candidate special election prior to the runoff.

Both Andrews and Fisher conceded that Mattox, a former state attorney general and longtime labor supporter, would probably win the group's endorsement.

Gunn said if Mattox does not win the Democratic nomination, then the organization will re-evaluate Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate Jim Mattox receives a big welcome at the Texas AFL-CIO convention Tuesday in Austin. Mattox and fellow Democrats Richard Fisher and Mike Andrews addressed the convention which is making its political endorsements.

Andrews and Fisher.

Andrews criticized Mrs. Hutchison for voting against President Clinton's budget plan. Andrews, who voted for the proposal, said it would extend tax credits for working families, reduce the deficit and create jobs.

Fisher depicted himself as representing a new generation of Democrats who can help the party, which he described as being in a tailspin.

Mattox emphasized his roots in the Democratic Party and his fights on behalf of working families.

In other political developments: — Gov. Ann Richards, a Democrat, reported receiving nearly $3.8 million in political contributions from July through December, while her likely Republican opponent, George W. Bush, reported contributions totaling more than $2 million from Sept. 15 through December.

The campaign finance reports were filed with the Texas Ethics Commission.

Richards reported spending $1.5 million on her re-election campaign, while Bush reported spending $613,930.

About 82 percent Richards' contributions came from in-state, her campaign reported. "Ann Richards enjoys unprecedented support from all segments of the Texas population," said campaign spokesman Chuck McDonald.

The Bush campaign reported that 94 percent of his contributions came from in-state. "The extent of our support in money and in numbers of contributors is beyond our expectations and shows the growing response to Bush's message of change," said Bush's state finance chairman Bobby Holt of Midland.

Supreme Court strikes blow to minorities with judicial elections ruling

The Associated Press

AUSTIN — The Legislature may again be a battleground over the way trial judges are selected after the U.S. Supreme Court left intact a lower court ruling upholding county-wide elections in nine populous counties.

"The only way to have single-member districts now is to go through the legislative process," Gov. Ann Richards said after Tuesday's ruling, which involved Harris, Dallas, Bexar, Tarrant, Travis, Lubbock, Midland, Ector and Jefferson counties.

State Sen. Rodney Ellis — who had also urged smaller districts for trial judges as a way to boost minority representation — said he was "devastated" by the Supreme Court's ruling.

"It essentially guts the Voting Rights Act," said Ellis, D-Houston.

"The same courts we minorities once turned to as our last bastion of hope in our civil rights struggle is now the branch of government that is turning against us the fastest and with the broadest brush," he said.

The Supreme Court left intact the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision without commenting on the case, in which blacks and Hispanics said at-large voting dilutes their political power.

Texas has a 12 percent black population, but as of two years ago, there were only nine blacks among the 386 state trial judges.

The minorities say they'd have a better chance at the bench with smaller districts, including some in which minority voters make up the majority.

The Supreme Court said in 1991 that the federal Voting Rights Act applies to the election of state and local judges. It sent the case back for more study by the federal appeals court, which had thrown out the lawsuit.

The New Orleans-based 5th Circuit last August ruled that there was no Voting Rights Act violation.

In the meantime, in an effort to end the lawsuit, state Attorney General Dan Morales had drafted a settlement to change judicial elections. The settlement agreement was endorsed by Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and the Democratic majority in the Texas House and Senate.

But several judges opposed it, including Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Tom Phillips and two trial judges who had intervened in the case, Sharolyn Wood of Houston and Harold Entz of Dallas.

So the 5th Circuit court refused to return the case to the federal trial court where the lawsuit was filed so a settlement could be approved.

Morales, along with lawyers for black and Hispanic voters, had argued that was wrong, and that the 5th Circuit had misinterpreted the Voting Rights Act.

Now, Morales said he is reviewing options and will soon be prepared to discuss specific reform proposals.

"Texans must move with dispatch to ensure a balanced judiciary, free of undue political influence. Almost all Texans agree that the status quo is unacceptable," he said.

Texas Chief Justice Phillips, who opposes single-member districts for judges, nevertheless said the state should adopt a new method of judicial selection.

Reno taking on juvenile crime

The Associated Press

DALLAS — Before Janet Reno became U.S. Attorney General, she was a Dade County, Fla., prosecutor faced with the "terrible phenomenon (of) youth violence."

Visiting Texas on Tuesday, Reno said she sees the same problem here.

"We have all got to join together to let the youth of America know that there is no excuse whatsoever for hurting other people, for putting a gun up beside somebody's head," she said.

Reno and Gov. Ann Richards spoke at the Greater Dallas Crime Commission's awards luncheon. Reno gave the keynote address and Richards was named 1993 Crime Fighter of the Year for her role in increasing the number of prison beds in Texas and rewriting the state penal code.

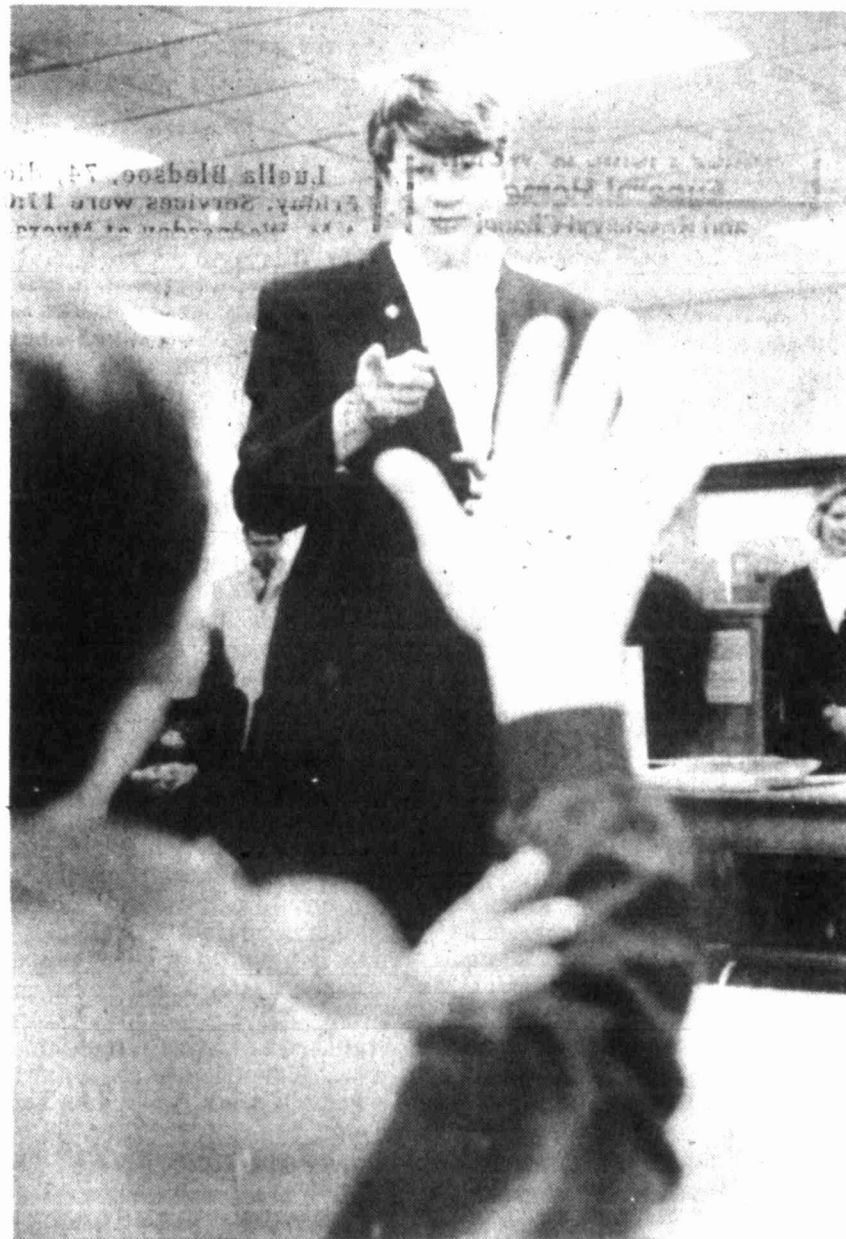

Reno stressed the need to address such social ills as teen pregnancy and youth gangs.

One way to control the problem, she suggested, is through rehabilitative programs and job training.

"Unless we make an investment in our children, you will never, ever be able to build enough prisons 10 years and 15 years down the line to cope with all the problems that we face today," she said.

Targeting the same problem, Richards announced that Charles Terrell, the chairman of the crime commission, would head a statewide Youth Summit on Violent Crime and Juvenile Justice.

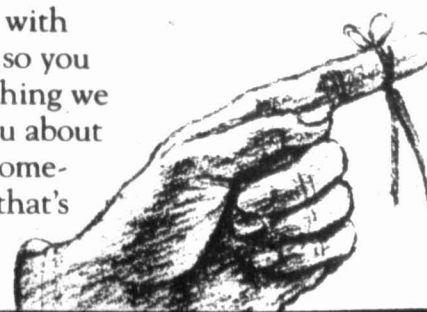

Before the luncheon, Reno toured a Dallas Police Department mobile storefront outside an elementary school. She praised the business community for donating the crime-fighting vehicle and said such a commitment by the private sector makes a difference.

Living together

It's been a long time in coming but finally the citizens of Vidor may learn how to live with people of other races.

And, steps have been taken to ensure certain groups don't make life miserable for the four black families that have braved the white world of Vidor.

Texas Attorney General Dan Morales has obtained temporary restraining orders to prevent the Ku Klux Klan from getting within 500 feet of a integrated public housing project in Vidor.

The order was signed by State District Judge John Dietz of Travis County and named the White Camelia Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and the Texas Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and their grand dragons.

Vidor has been an all-white enclave for many, many years. Recently, it was decided the public housing there needed to be integrated. And the trouble began.

The first four families who moved in left, claiming racial harassment. The last man to leave was later shot to death in what has been termed by Beaumont police as a random street shooting.

But, Morales along with the Texas Commission on Human Rights, has been trying to determine the Klan's role, if any, in the incident.

It's a shame people can't live where they would like without the threat of racial harassment, discrimination or encountering other forms of prejudice.

It is long past the time when groups like the Klan should be in existence. It is long past the time when people should believe one race is better than the other.

It is time to put that aside and get ready to move into the 20th Century as a country in which we can work and live together as one.

It's a Super Bowl never meant to be

So much for the thought of an all Texas Super Bowl.

Sunday was not a good day for Oilers fans. You could hear them choking across the state.

I haven't made a point of watching much pro football this season. In fact, the first game I watched was the Thanksgiving Dallas blunder.

I used to be glued to the set each Sunday for football - Cowboy style. But, after a while, I learned there were other things to do.

But, now I just like watching the playoffs. And, I like seeing Texas teams do well.

So, I was going to pull of Houston for a change. I am not much of an Oilers fan, having always been wowed by those football players in the blue, white and gray with a star on their helmets.

Although, I have to admit this, I did feel a partial pull for Green Bay when they were playing Dallas Sunday.

See, the first pro team I remember pulling for was the Packers. That was back when they had this quarterback named Bart Starr on the team.

Now, my parents were big, and I do mean big, Dallas Cowboy fans. So, it bug them, especially my Dad, when I would be rooting for the Packers instead of the Cowboys when the two teams met.

Hey, I was young and the Cowboys were just starting out.

It wasn't until about 1969 or 1970 that I discovered the joys of being a

DD Turner

Dallas Cowboy fan. From then on, I couldn't think of any other team that would be worth pulling for.

But, still there was this tiny place in my heart for the Packers, as long as they weren't playing the Cowboys.

So, Sunday I sit down for a long, long afternoon of football. And, watched a game the Cowboys should have lost and one the Oilers should have won.

But, maybe that the true difference in the two teams.

The Cowboys always seem to pull out the difficult ones. Yes, they have lost their share of those they should have won. Remember the games against the Cardiac Cards? It seemed those were always determined in the last minutes of the game.

The Oilers just can't seem to put it together to win the big one. They have come so close several times, but have never made it over the hump. What do they lack that Dallas seems to have.

So, it was a great disappointment to watch the Oilers let the Chiefs take a game it seemed they had had in hand.

Goodbye dream of an all Texas Super Bowl.

Maybe next year, maybe never.

The Woody Hayes Chair

He was as thoughtful, well-read and considerate a man as I've ever known, and I can think of few people I've admired more.

He is about to be accorded an honor that he would have cherished, yet — almost inevitably — the news of the tribute will be the object of jokes and sarcasm among some people. The loss is theirs.

The Ohio State University is about to establish an endowed professorship: the Wayne Woodrow Hayes Chair in National Security Studies.

James E. Harf, professor of political science, said: "It is time for the university to recognize the great contributions of Woody Hayes. We all believe that establishing a Woody Hayes Professor of National Security in perpetuity is a much more appropriate way to honor him than coming up with some idea that has a football theme. Woody Hayes was much, much more than a football coach, and anyone who knew him is well aware of it."

Hayes, of course, was head football coach at Ohio State for 28 years — from 1951 until he was dismissed after the 1978 season for slugging a Clemson player during the Gator Bowl. People who didn't know him remember him for the fiery outbursts, captured on videotape, or for the 205 football games his teams won, the 13 Big 10 championships, the eight trips to the Rose Bowl. In the national stereotype, he was a one-dimensional man, and a rather thuggish one at that.

The stereotype was wrong. Woody had his faults — who among us does not? — but his countless acts of kindness toward young people in need, his almost ferocious devotion to reading serious works of history and biography (he would read himself to sleep every night of his life), his absolute loyalty toward his friends, and his eager, somehow boyish curiosity even in his last years far outweighed the public mistakes he made, and made him a valued member of the university community. "Big, dumb football coach," he would say about himself, mimicking the sentiment he knew that many others were voicing about him. He pretended that it didn't matter.

"I've been traveling around the country for a year, helping to raise funds for the Woody Hayes Chair," his widow, Anne, said the other night. "I go before alumni groups and explain just how much this would have meant to Woody. A professorship in his name — it's an honor beyond his dreams."

Some football fans feel that Ohio Stadium should be renamed for Hayes, who died in 1987. Anne Hayes said Woody wouldn't have liked that idea at all: "He would never want that. The Ohio Stadium is the Ohio Stadium, and that's its proper name. No, this is the tribute that is right for Woody. He was an erudite man who knew what he was talking about and what he was thinking about, and this would thrill him."

According to Professor Harf, the Hayes Chair will be held by an internationally recognized scholar of national security who will be a leader of the university's commitment to education and research in U.S. security matters, foreign policy, arms control and military issues. "We have raised more than $900,000 in gifts and pledges, and our goal is $1.5 million," he said.

On Feb. 11, at the Aladdin Shrine Temple in Columbus, an 80th birthday party for Anne Hayes will be held, with the purpose of helping to raise the rest of the money. Two-time Ohio State Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin will be master of ceremonies, and Woody's old friend and rival, former University of Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler, will be the main speaker.

"Everyone knows that Woody was interested in the military, and he was interested in peace," Anne Hayes said. "He was aware that you can't just knock the military out of the picture and talk only about peace. Because if you knock the military out, that's when someone is going to pop up and punch you in the nose."

"Which is something else that Woody knew about."

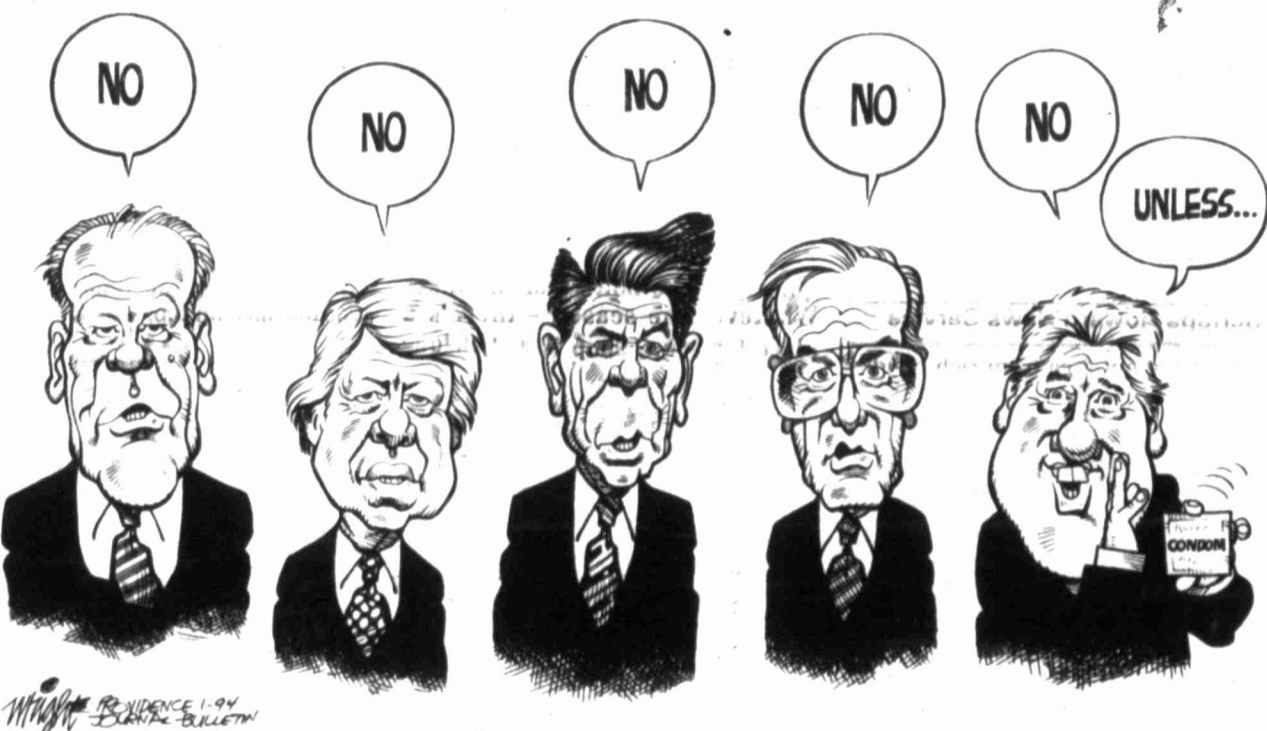

Hayes never had much use for the vaunted Eastern colleges — the Harvards and Yales. "He was very Midwestern, and he didn't trust those places much," Professor Harf said. "One of the things we hope the Woody Hayes Chair will do is develop a new generation of national security leaders with Midwestern sets of values, who will help set national policy from Washington and the White House far into the future."

It is the ideal legacy for Hayes, he said.

"A thousand years from now, the football stadium will not be here. But as long as there is an Ohio State University, a thousand years from now the Woody Hayes Professor will walk with pride across this campus."

Letters to the Editor

Help on papers truly appreciated

I am a 29 year old freshman at Howard College. I've had to do several papers where research was required. I would like to take the time to thank the young ladies at the Salvation Army for their help on my research on the homeless. I would also like to thank farmers Dan Shortes and Henry Sanchez on their help on Computers in Agriculture.

However, the young man and woman who work for the Big Spring City Police who were sitting behind the glass window when I went in and asked for help on information on drinking and driving do not receive a thank you.

I was preparing for a persuasive speech and had chosen to try and persuade students to not drink and drive. I asked the police department to see if I needed an appointment to receive some information on the subject, and was told to come by and someone would help me.

I went to the police department and was treated rudely and was not given any help at all. When I arrived I told them why I was there and what I needed. The young man said, "Someone will be with you in a minute." I waited and I waited. After a while I heard the young lady say, "what did she want?"

She had this attitude that cannot be described in words other than she was just rude. Did she think that I could not hear her. After 20 minutes I left. I decided to go to the Lamesa Police Department to see if maybe they could help.

I was not only greeted kindly, but was given material to help in my speech. As I was leaving, a police officer said, "Let's hope that you can persuade some of those young students not to drink and drive. If you can at least reach one, you may be able to save their life and the lives of others as well."

So my thank you goes to the Lamesa Police Department. This letter is not intended to offend the police officers of Big Spring just the two behind the glass window. My intentions are not to make anybody mad, but I do believe that I should have been treated better. A question keeps going through my mind, "Was I treated the way I was because I am Hispanic and not white? I'm sorry but that is the way the two behind the glass window made me feel."

Isn't it sad though, that not only do people shop outside of Big Spring, but that they also have to go out of town to receive help in matters such as mine.

Waiting period for gun a 'pig in a poke'

The American people are the most naive people on the face of this earth. They will buy any pig in a poke Washington wants to sell them. The five day waiting period on handguns is one of them. Criminals don't buy guns from dealers. They buy them black market.

Bans of any kind do not work. Remember in 1919 the U.S. tried to ban alcohol. Look what happened one of the most lawless ages in U.S. history. The banning of handguns will result in the opening of black markets for hand guns, and we will have as many if not more handguns in the hands of the people we want to get them out of.

Remember our forefathers gave us the rights to bear arms to protect ourselves for enemies both from within and without our shores. And also remember GUNS DON'T KILL, PEOPLE DO.

Gun safety is the responsibility of parents just as sex education is.

Just be sweet

Whenever I left my late mother's home, and we are talking a period of more than 40 years, she would always end her goodbyes with these two words:

"Be sweet."

When I was a child on my way to a friend's birthday party, I suppose that meant not to stick my finger in the cake or do a lot of whining and crying.

In my teen years it meant not to steal any hubcaps.

As an adult, I guess she was beseeching me not to rob a liquor store or engage in any insider trading, and to go out each day with a smile and an agreeable disposition.

I can't recall sticking my finger into too many birthday cakes, but I very likely ignored the part about no whining nor crying when things didn't go my way, such as when I pinned the tail on the donkey's esophagus.

I never stole a hubcap. Not one.

As an adult I've never robbed anything nor have I engaged in much of any kind of trading that was profitable.

But that other stuff — the daily smile, the agreeable disposition — well, I've had my failures.

I notoriously have not been sweet to such individuals as waiters and waitresses I've deemed slow or unable to service correctly what I considered to be the simplest of orders.

Many a rental car clerk has known my verbal wrath, not to mention motel housekeepers who hang on my door too quickly after the first crow of morning, people I don't know who address me as "buddy" and liberals.

Yet, my mother's words, so simple, were so implicit: Be sweet.

We have recognized the terror that is the violence amongst us today. Television has moved it out front of eating disorders, Satan worship and women who run with wolves.

The drive-by shootings. Another kid shot dead at school. The yellow police-line tape and pools of drying blood on a mean street on the 11 o'clock news.

The money we will spend, the hours we will study and discuss in an effort to find a solution.

But isn't it right there in Miss Christine's words, "Be sweet?"

We aren't sweet. The truth is we don't honor sweet. We don't even like sweet. Sweet is weak. Women go to classes to learn not to be sweet.

Men. We've got an entire generation of young toughs out there who are drunk and dying on their own testosterone.

Being sweet can get you killed in that group.

It's a manhood thing. Pro football player Andre Rison decides somebody has challenged his manhood outside a nightclub. So he goes to his car and gets his gun.

There's this "dis" thing. It's street talk for "disrespect." I've got dis big gun here. Respect me or I'll shoot you.

No. No. Be sweet.

Be kind and be gentle. Be tolerant. Be forgiving and slow to anger. Be tender and be able to cry. Be kind to old people and dogs, and don't cut off part of anybody else's anatomy.

Be loving. Be tender. Share. Don't pout. Don't be so loud. Hold a puppy. Kiss a hand. Put your arms around a frightened child.

Make an outstanding athletic play and then don't do The King Tut Butt Strut to bring attention to yourself and point to the inadequacies of the vanquished.

Be sweet. The wonders that might do. The wonders that just might do. I can still hear you, Mama.

Where's my grandson?

Carpenter worried for boy missing since Thanksgiving

By DEBBIE LINCEUM
Features Editor

Dolores Carpenter just wants to see her grandson, hear his voice and know he is all right.

"The hardest part is not knowing," said Carpenter, whose son, Rocky Sharpnack, relinquished his 4-year-old son to the boy's maternal grandmother on the day before Thanksgiving. He was to be returned the following day, but never appeared.

Now the Big Spring resident and her husband, Lyn, along with their son and his wife, who live in San Antonio, are trying everything they can think of to get the boy back.

The problem is that custody of P.J., as the boy is affectionately called, is a gray area. Carpenter said she believes neither parent has true legal custody.

After his parents' divorce in July 1992, custody of the then 2-year-old was awarded to his mother.

Sharpnack visited his boy as often as the agreement would permit, including the Christmas holidays that year. Sharpnack's ex-wife took the boy back for five days after Christmas, then called Carpenter and asked her to keep P.J. for a while.

After a month, P.J.'s maternal grandmother picked him up, and kept him through February. At the beginning of March, the boy went to live with his father and stayed 10 months.

During that time, Carpenter said, the boy's mother did not contact her son.

"It was our understanding that by abandoning him like that," she said, "(the boy's mother) had given up her right to custody."

They have heard through the maternal grandmother that P.J. is fine, Carpenter said, but don't know where he is. They believe he is living with his mother, but aren't even sure of that.

"We are at a loss over what to do now," said Carpenter, whose personal phone list includes Child Find, The Lost, police in San Antonio, various attorneys and legal aid associations. Phone calls, visits and letters have drawn little help.

The only advice Carpenter has received is, "take her to court."

"All the lawyers want $1,500 before they'll even talk about helping us. If you don't have money, you're just up a creek," Carpenter said.

Just a few months ago, Rocky and his wife, Tanya, believed they had P.J. with them for good, Carpenter said. P.J. lived in their home with Tanya's two sons and had even started at Head Start in the fall.

His maternal grandmother continued to see the boy for weekend visits and such. Gradually she gave his clothes, toys and video tapes, and even his bed to the Sharpnacks, Carpenter said.

"Everything the child owned, she brought to my son," Carpenter said. "That's why I don't understand why they would take him."

On the day before Thanksgiving, P.J.'s maternal grandmother came to pick him up as arranged. All day the Friday after Thanksgiving, they waited, "on pins and needles," for the little boy's return, Carpenter said.

"We are at a loss over what to do now."

Dolores Carpenter grandmother

Sharpnack called his mother Saturday, telling her he was worried. As soon as she heard what had happened, Carpenter said, she had a feeling.

"Right away, I thought (his mother) had decided she wanted him and was going to keep him."

Through friends and relatives, Carpenter found out where P.J.'s maternal grandmother was staying, and got a message: "He's just fine. He's with his mother."

That was all they heard. "Here we are with a child floating around out there that no one has custody of," Carpenter said.

With money tight in both households, they can't afford an attorney. San Antonio police told Sharpnack they couldn't do anything because, technically, he didn't have custody.

Dolores Carpenter is shown with a photograph of her grandson, P.J. Carpenter is very worried about the 4-year-old, who disappeared after what was supposed to be a short holiday visit with his maternal grandmother.

Finally, in her frustration, Carpenter sent letters to several newspapers hoping someone would have survived a similar situation and know what to do. She hoped someone would have some good advice for a family that does not know what to do next.

"You hear about it and you hear about it and you hear about it," said Carpenter, who enjoys watching, "Unsolved Mysteries," where similar dramas are played out each week. "But not until it happens to you do you believe it."

Do an about-face from rich holiday foods in the new year. Look to the East for relief from that stuffed feeling.

Fusion cuisine is what's hot in '94. Chef-owner Dan Kobin of the World Cafe in New York City is a rising star in fusion cuisine, offering multi-cultural flavors such as a Moroccan eggplant burrito with an avocado-and-cucumber salsa.

Franco-Indian fare is getting raves at the Raji restaurant in Memphis, Tenn. Chef-owner Raji Jallepalli was recently saluted in Restaurant Business magazine as a "comet, generating a culinary light show."

For home cooking, this trend has shown up in hybrid dishes such as chicken stir-fry with Tex-Mex chilies and cilantro seasoning; Thai pasta salad with spaghetti, lemongrass and snow peas; pastas and pizzas with Greek feta cheese; even Indian curries spooned over Middle Eastern couscous or Italian orzo (rice-shaped pasta).

From biblical times to colonial America, honey has been highly valued: Ancient Egyptians used honey not only as a household sweetener but as a tribute or payment. Honey was also used to feed sacred animals. Mythological Greek gods of ancient times were said to drink mead, an alcoholic brew made from honey.

In the 16th century, conquering Spaniards found Mexican and Central American natives with bee-keeping skills.

By the 17th century, American colonists had introduced the European strain of honeybees into New England (about 1638).

Soup's on: Warm, welcome

Soup, "Soup of the evening, beautiful soup," mourned Lewis Carroll's Mock Turtle. But soup is more than that. It is thrice welcome any day - for lunch, dinner or that in-between-time snack. Appetites young or old will down bowl after bowl of steaming fragrance and still come back for more.

What else can carry warmth so quickly to the bottom of the toes? Whatever the season - there's a place for soup. Soup is a delicious way to replace sapped vitality.

You are sure to receive rave reviews on these nourishing soups.

SOUTHWESTERN CHICKEN SOUP

Chicken Stock:
1 whole chicken
3 celery stalks
1 clove garlic, diced
1 onion, quartered
1 carrot
Salt and pepper
Other Ingredients:
1 can Ro-Tel tomatoes with chilies
1 diced onion
2 tsp. lemon pepper marinade
1/4 cup lemon juice
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. cilantro
Salt and pepper to taste
Pico de Gallo:
1 tomato, cut up very fine
1 jalapeno, cut up very fine
1 onion, cut up very fine
1 tsp. cilantro, chopped fine
Chicken Stock: Place all ingredients into large Dutch oven; cover with water and simmer until chicken is tender (about 1-1/2 hours). Drain liquid and reserve. Bone chicken and cut meat into bite-size pieces. Discard vegetables.

Place chicken and liquid into clean Dutch oven; add Ro-Tel tomatoes with chilies, diced onion, lemon pepper marinade, lemon juice, garlic, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper to taste. Simmer for 1 hour, then add cilantro.

with a little Pico de Gallo and float avocado slice on top.

BEEF CHOWDER

1 pound ground beef
1 onion, chopped
1/3 cup green pepper, chopped
1/3 cup celery, chopped
1 can whole kernel corn, plus liquid
2 cans diced tomatoes, plus liquid
2 cans cream of celery soup, undiluted

Brown beef, drain. Saute onion, green pepper and celery until tender. Combine all ingredients and simmer 1 hour. If mixture gets too thick, add a little water while cooking. The flavor is even better on the second day.

SAUSAGE SOUP

2 lbs. Jimmy Dean hot sausage
1 chopped onion
1 chopped bell pepper
2 cans kidney beans
1 tsp. Lawry's seasoned salt
1 bay leaf
2 cans stewed tomatoes
1 quart water
2 large potatoes, diced
Brown and drain sausage. Add all ingredients, except potatoes. Simmer for 1 hour. Add diced potatoes and cook for about 30 minutes. Serve with crackers or corn bread.

CREAM OF CARROT SOUP

6 cups shredded carrots
4 cans chicken broth
Dash nutmeg, (optional)
2 Tbsp. flour dissolved in 1/4 cup water
1-1/4 cups non-fat dry milk
8 oz. grated cheddar cheese
Salt to taste
Parsley for garnish
Place carrots, chicken bouillon and nutmeg in saucepan. Cook until carrots are tender. Stir in flour mixture and cook until thickened. Lower heat and add dry milk. Stir briskly. Add cheese and heat thoroughly. Do not boil. Add salt and garnish with parsley.

HELPFUL HINTS

Thicken soups, gravies and sauces by gradually adding instant potato flakes. Flakes do not lump like flour and cornstarch when added.

Freeze meat or chicken stock in ice cube trays. Put in plastic bags and keep in freezer. Use to season soups, stews and sauces or place a few cubes in bowl or cup, heat to boiling and sip as a quick pick-me-up.

Spruce up canned soups by combining several varieties and adding a dash of sherry, vermouth or lemon juice. Season well with dill, curry, garlic salt, paprika or another favorite spice.

For a quick creamy vegetable soup: combine leftover vegetables in a blender with milk and seasonings; puree. Serve hot or cold.

But he is a little devil

Deutsche Presse Agentur

TOKYO — Children may sometimes behave like devils and their exasperated parents might tell them so, but now a row has broken out in Japan over whether a father should be allowed officially to call his son "Devil" ("Akuma").

The father is threatening legal action after local authorities in Tokyo refused to register his newborn baby under what they view as a somewhat mischievous name, the Yomiuri newspaper reported Thursday.

Officials said calling the baby "Devil" could give the child a bad reputation later in life.

But the father is putting up the spirited argument that the name would make such an impression that his son would never be forgotten and would get the chance to meet all kinds of interesting people.

Big Spring takes pair from Lake View

Big Spring earned a sweep in a basketball doubleheader in San Angelo Tuesday, and the Lady Steers took a large step toward another District 3-4A title.

The Lady Steers (15-5, 6-0 in district) beat the Lake View Maidens 55-49 to take a commanding two-game lead in the district standings. Lake View fell to 13-9, 4-2.

Big Spring played without star post player Amy Earnst for the first half. Earnst, who injured her knee Friday in a Lady Steer win at Andrews, played the second half and scored seven points, but three of those points sealed the win for Big Spring.

The Maidens used an 11-2 fourth-quarter spurt to cut Big Spring's lead to three late in the game. Big Spring had led 50-38 with 3 minutes remaining.

With 15 seconds remaining, however,

Earnst grabbed a rebound off a Big Spring missed free throw and scored. She was fouled on the play and cashed in on the free throw, giving the Lady Steers an insurmountable six-point edge.

Once again, the Lady Steers proved they can win under adversity. In addition to having Earnst at less than full strength, Big Spring overcame tremendous foul trouble. Sarah Bristow, Robbi Hall and Robin Wise all picked up three fouls in the first quarter, but all three were key players in the win.

"Everybody stepped up and played a heck of a game," said Big Spring assistant coach Traci Pierce. "Everyone contributed."

Lake View had its chance to win. The Maidens made just 21 of 37 free throws.

Kerry Gregg, a 6-foot-1 junior, led Big Spring with 16 points as the Lady Steers earned their 28th consecutive district win. Lake View's Michelle Lee led all scorers with 17.

The JV Lady Steers fell to Lake View 42-31. Molly Smith scored 14 for Big Spring, which is now 3-3 in JV district play.

Steers put the hurt on Lake View Chiefs

The Big Spring Steers (6-5, 3-1 in district) cruised to a 72-50 win over Lake View

Tuesday for their second consecutive road win.

Lake View, loser of eight straight, fell to 2-19, 0-4.

Torbin Lancaster led the Steers with 15 points, while Wes Hughes added 13. Big Spring also received strong play from their new and probably permanent point guard, Tyron Banks. Dustin Waters added 10 points, and Mike Smith scored nine. All Big Spring players scored.

Lake View cut Big Spring's lead to 48-40 with 2:26 left in the third quarter, but two layups from the Steers' Chris Wollenzien started a 14-2 run that iced the game for Big Spring.

Alfred Hogeda led Lake View with 10 points.

"We had nine folks play awfully well, we really did, and I thought we played good defense again," said Big Spring coach Gary Tipton. "Tyron did a very good job of running the floor for us."

When Lake View rallied in the third quarter, Tipton said the Steers were just hurrying a bit too much.

"We were kind of trying to rush things a little too much on offense. We kept playing good defense though, and finally got the train back on track."

Big Spring won the boys' junior varsity game by the same score, 72-50. Keith Monger led Big Spring with 16 points.

COAHOMA - It was one of those game that left both coaches scratching their heads.

"I wouldn't want to be up in the stands watching it," said Coahoma coach Kim Nichols.

"It was the ugliest game I've ever seen," said Stanton coach Doug Gordon.

Coahoma's 49-39 win over Stanton Tuesday in boys' basketball action might have been like a trip to the dentist for both Nichols and Gordon.

The low score wasn't by design. The teams combined for 52 turnovers - Stanton 27, Coahoma 25 - and missed shot after shot. Stanton shot just 35 percent from the field (14 for 40), and Coahoma was equally inaccurate at 32 percent (18 for 57).

"They won't make a highlight film out of it," Nichols said. "Both teams just came out cold. We played well in spurts. We had our moments - they just weren't very long moments."

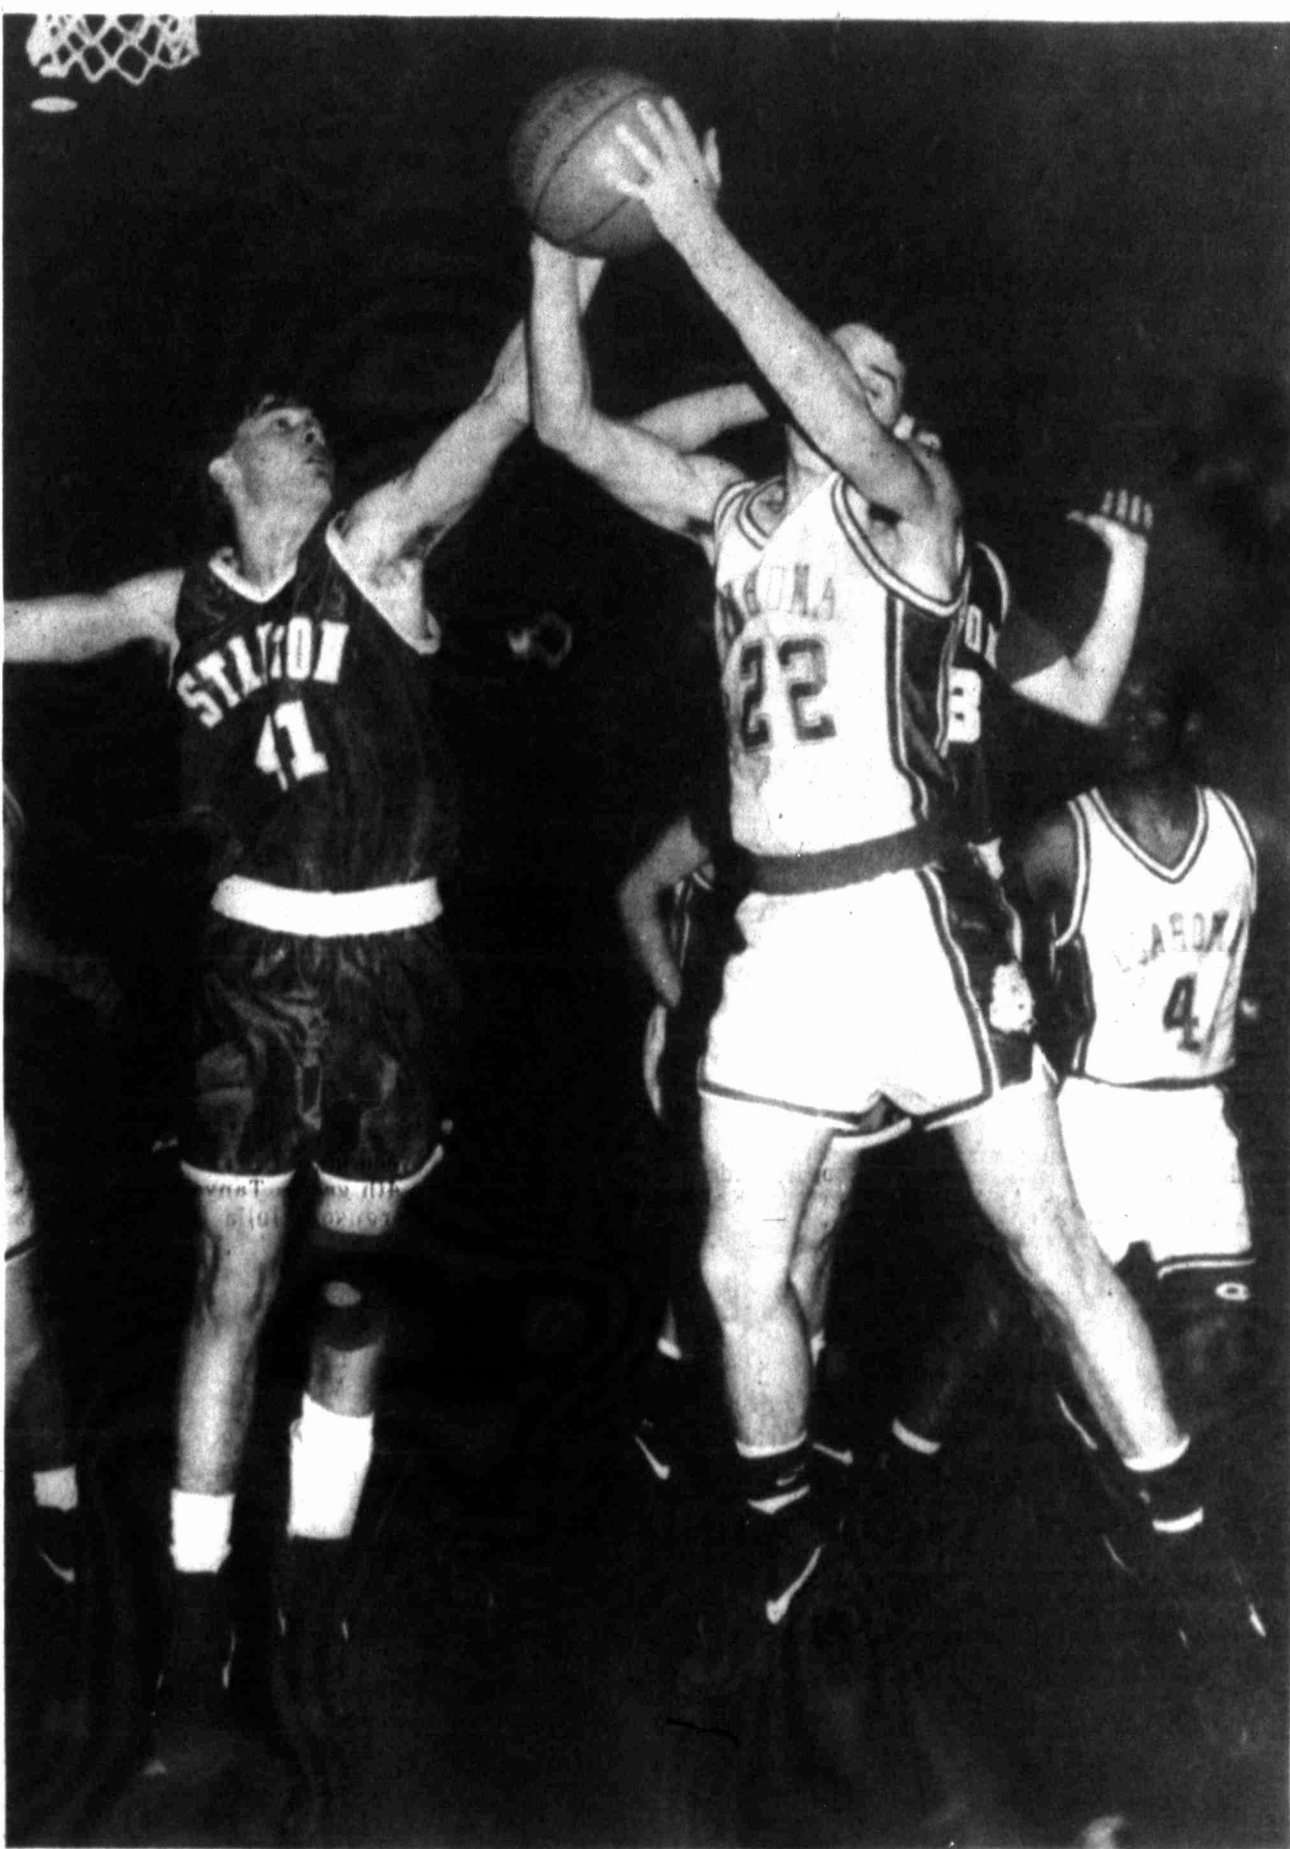

Henry DeLaRosa sparked most of Coahoma's moments, notching game highs in points (20) and rebounds (nine). DeLaRosa, a 6-foot-1 junior post, had nine points and six rebounds in the first quarter as the Bulldogs bolted to a 14-4 lead. Coahoma led 24-15 at halftime.

"DeLaRosa is just getting better and better every game," Nichols said. "He's been averaging 11 rebounds a game in district, and he's the fourth or fifth leading scorer in district I believe."

Coahoma (17-5, 4-0 in District 6-2A) put itself in the driver's seat for the district's first-half title, while Stanton (9-13, 1-3) is left planning for the second half.

"They had to win this game, and we didn't, because we're already looking toward the second half," Gordon said. "Coahoma just showed more composure, they've got a very good basketball team. They did what they had to do to win the game."

The game was far from decided until the Bulldogs went on a 14-point run that started with 1:10 left in the third quarter. Coahoma led 32-25 when Juan Ruiz started the run with an excellent touch pass on the break to DeLaRosa, who laid the ball in for two points. A driving layup by Jason Coahoma's Edward Dunn (22) snares a rebound away from Stanton's Jason Hopper (41) Tuesday in Coahoma. Both teams suffered from cold shooting, but the Bulldogs made enough shots to win 49-39 and improve to 4-0 in District 6-2A, 16-5 overall. In the background at right is Coahoma guard Juan Ruiz (4). Stanton won the girls' game 53-38. Coahoma travels to McCamey Friday, while Stanton hosts Iran.

Milliken and a Chad Wright 3-point-er gave Coahoma a 39-25 lead after three quarters.

DeLaRosa scored twice more as the Bulldogs pushed their lead to 46-25. Stanton's offense, slowed all evening by turnovers, finally started rolling with 5 minutes to go as the Buffs cut its deficit to the final margin. Stanton could have made the game even closer, but the Buffs missed four front ends of the 1-and-

1 in the fourth quarter.

DeLaRosa was the only player to score in double figures. Stanton sophomore Jason Hopper led the Buffs with eight points and nine rebounds.

Coahoma travels to McCamey Friday with a chance to clinch a tie for the first-half district title.

"But we're not talking about that," Nichols said. "We're just talking about playing our best, taking care of business every night. It wasn't pretty in this one, but we did it."

6-2A's first-half champs start second half with 19th win

By DAVE HARGRAVE

COAHOMA - Coahoma's girls' basketball team has been fighting a collective shooting slump in recent weeks. That isn't exactly the best situation to be in when you're going against the Stanton Lady Buffs.

Stanton (19-2, 1-0 in District 6-2A's second half) put most teams in shooting slumps with their swarming full-court pressure, and Tuesday was the norm as the Lady Buffs fought their way to a 53-38 victory.

Stanton has already clinched the district first-half title with a 5-0 mark, and one of those victories included a December home win over Coahoma, so Tuesday's game counts in the second-half standings even though the first half isn't finished.

Stanton averages more than 28 steals per game - a figure that is hard to believe until you see them play. Tuesday the Lady Buffs notched 19 steals - seven by 5-foot-3 junior guard Lupe Chapa - and forced Coahoma to commit a whopping 36 turnovers. Still, Stanton led at halftime by only six - 21-15.

"With the defense we play, sometimes what we do in the first half pays dividends in the second half," said Stanton coach Frank Riney. "We can get a team tired and wear them down."

That was pretty evident at the start of the third quarter when the Lady Buffs scored the first 11 points to take a 32-15 lead. The Bulldogettes (12-11, 2-3 in the first half and 0-1 in the second half) never cut their deficit to single digits after that.

"I was really pleased with our effort tonight, we played our guts out, but against a team that good you're going to make mistakes," said Coahoma coach Phillip Ritchey. "Stanton is a lot faster and quicker than we are, and it shows. It's not just one or two of them, either. It's all of them. They're all fast."

Stanton received 12 points each from Kindra Woodfin and Sande Bundas, who make up the Lady Buffs' post tandem. Bundas, 5-10, was even more valuable on defense, where she held Coahoma star Angela Crippen to seven points.

"When Crippen's under double figures, that's tremendous," Riney said. "Sande has done a good job all year when we've asked her to guard the other team's star."

Vanessa King led Coahoma with 12 points.

"Defensively, they just took Angela away," Ritchey said. "It wasn't that we weren't trying to go to her, because we were. We did have some other people step up for us, though. We really played well, I thought. We gave them our best shot. Stanton just has a very good team."

Lady Kats hold off Queens' rally; Forsan Buffs win

By STEVE REAGAN

GARDEN CITY - The Garden City Lady Bearkats proved the worth of big leads, while the Forsan Queens almost gave a clinic on perseverance.

The Lady Kats maintained a double-digit lead for most of their game with Forsan, only to watch in the final three minutes as the Queens almost took it away before falling, 44-42, at Bearkat Gym Tuesday night.

The game, which matched undefeated in District 23-A, looked like a battle of front-runners. Garden City, which features a front line of three players 6-foot or taller, raced out to a 25-14 halftime lead and appeared ready to ice the game before the Queens managed their late rally.

"It got tougher than it was supposed to," Garden City coach Phil Swenson said. "We tried to shoot the lights out on them, but they did a good job of coming back and making some shots."

Forsan coach Johnny Schafer said there were three reasons why his team fell behind early.

"First, we were nervous, and because of that we played a little tentatively," Schafer said. "Secondly, our shots would not fall in the first half. Finally, they were getting their points off of second shots, and that was killing us, because we were not blocking out."

All that changed in the second half, Schafer said.

"In the second half, it started coming together for us," he said. "We weren't timid, we started rebounding, and the shots started falling."

The two teams fought on even terms in the third quarter, which ended with Garden City holding a 37-27 lead, and with 3 minutes left, the Lady Kats had expanded that lead to 41-30.

But the Queens began nipping at the lead and with 1:22 left had cut the deficit to 43-36. Garden City hurt its own cause with two turnovers in its last three possessions of the game.

Jamie Glass put the Lady Kats back up by eight with a free throw with 53 seconds left, but two quick Forsan baskets, the last by Tisha Hilliger with 27 ticks left, cut the lead back to four.

The Queens forced a turnover a few seconds later, but the only points they could manage off it was a Jenny Conaway jumper with 2 seconds left, and the Lady Kats ran out the clock after that.

Despite the late fireworks, Swenson said he'd take the win any day.

"We got good effort from our girls," he said. "Of course, we got good effort from everybody... Forsan always scraps to the end."

Glass led all scorers with 18 points, while Melanie Machicek added 10 points for Garden City (17-2 overall, 2-0 in District 23-A). Conaway and Deborah Light scored 13 points each to lead Forsan (12-8, 2-1).

Boys' game

Unlike the girls' game, the only dramatics in the Forsan-Garden City boys' matchup came early, as the Bearkats hung close through the first half, before the Buffaloes' defense began taking its toll en route to a 48-36 victory Tuesday night.

Numerous Garden City turnovers in the second half, caused in large part by Forsan's zone press, allowed the Buffs to expand their five-point halftime lead into something more manageable.

"I think the kids did a super job on defense," Forsan coach Terry McDonald said. "(Garden City) had a little bit of a height advantage, but I thought we did a good job of sagging in on their big guys. They hustled and scrapped the whole game."

The Bearkats' problem, coach Robert Robinson said, was that they were not selfish enough.

"I've got guys out on the floor that are too unselfish with the ball," he said. "When it comes down to the nitty-gritty, I need someone who'll put the ball in the hole. Instead, I've got kids looking to pass."

Chris Evans led Forsan (10-10 overall, 2-1 in district) with 16 points, while Matt Seidenberger, Bradley Batla and Cody Braden led the Bearkats (6-11, 0-2) with eight points apiece.

"In district games, you've got to take care of business," McDonald said. "We came in here, and came out with a win. We did what we had to do. Anyone you can come away from this place with a win, you've got to feel good."

Harding denies wrongdoing but leaves ex-husband

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore. — Tonya Harding's voice trembled. "Please believe me."

There was the strain of Tuesday's 10 1/2 hours of interrogation by the FBI and local prosecutors about the attack on Olympic figure skating rival Nancy Kerrigan. There was the agonizing decision to break from ex-husband Jeff Gillooly — again — in the middle of that grueling day and night session at the FBI office.

HARDING

There was the memory of coach "Diane Rawlinson's" cautionary words: "Tonya totally believes that Jeff is innocent. If she discovers that there is anything different than that, she will distance herself from Jeff."

Harding still believed in Gillooly. "Definitely," she said as she drove away. And yet she left him behind, offering two terse written paragraphs of explanation and perhaps signaling a move by authorities to arrest him in the alleged conspiracy to assault Kerrigan.

Harding, seeking to clear her name and preserve a berth on the U.S. Olympic team, answered only a few questions as she emerged at 11:25 p.m. from her first questioning in the case.

Her attorney, Robert C. Weaver, said they cooperated fully with the FBI and district attorney, adding it would not be appropriate to discuss details of the investigation. Assistant District Attorney Norm Frink also declined comment.

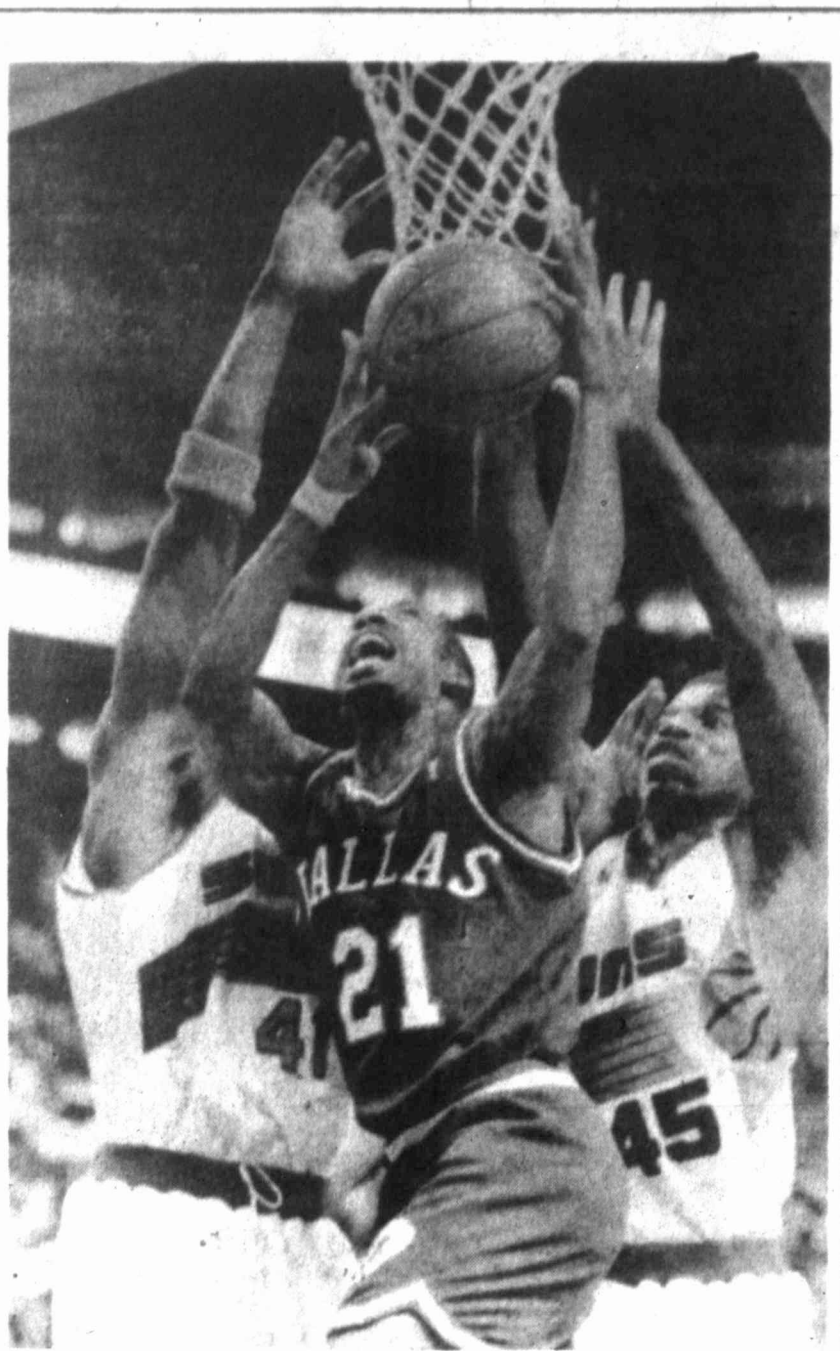

Eight hours through the questioning, Harding announced she is separating once more from Gillooly, whom she married in 1990, divorced last August and reconciled with in September. They had been living together until Tuesday and still called each other husband and wife.

Harding remained huddled with authorities in the FBI office while her statement was released. The Associated Press by one of her attorneys.

"After a lot of agonizing thought and evaluation, I have decided that it would be best for Jeff and me to separate," said Harding. "The events of the last few days have been difficult for both of us."

"I am innocent, and I continue to believe that Jeff is innocent of any wrongdoing. I wish him nothing but the best, but I believe during this crucial time of preparation for the Olympics that I must concentrate my attention on my training."

Gillooly, a longtime friend of the bodyguard arrested in the assault, didn't take part in the meeting. The bodyguard, Shawn Eckardt, allegedly confessed his role in the attack and said Gillooly paid him to carry it out.

Bad shoulder won't stop Emmitt

By The Associated Press

IRVING, Texas — Emmitt Smith has no choice. His coach expects the running back to play all day with one arm if he has to in the Dallas Cowboys' NFC championship game Sunday against the San Francisco 49ers.

"Emmitt will play and he won't have shoulder problems," coach Jimmy Johnson said Tuesday. "I have pronounced him healthy."

The NFL's leading rusher re-injured his right shoulder in Sunday's 27-17 divisional victory over the Green Bay Packers. Smith is receiving around-the-clock care to reduce the soreness in the shoulder he originally separated in the last game of the season against the New York Giants.

"I don't think Emmitt will be hesitant at all," Johnson said. "He'll be raring to go."

The Cowboys aren't the same team without Smith. They lost their first two games without him during a contract holdout.

"We rely heavily on Emmitt," Johnson said.

Smith hurt his shoulder against the Packers trying to block and Johnson held him out most of the second half.

"If I thought we needed him, he would have been back in there," Johnson said. "His big problem is pass protection."

Smith said he won't hold back against the 49ers.

"I did feel a little out of synch against the Packers," Smith said. "I had some problems holding the ball."

"I won't take any painkillers. I have the fear of hurting my shoulder and not realizing it's hurt," he said. "It's getting better every day. I'll be ready on Sunday."

The Cowboys are 5-7 point favorites, and Johnson is acting as though Sunday's game will decide the eventual Super Bowl champion.

"The most significant game we had last year was the win at Candlestick," Johnson said. "Nothing against Buffalo, but we felt if we won that game we would have success in the Super Bowl.

"San Francisco is on par with last year. The 49ers showed against the Giants they can play with anybody."

Johnson held a team meeting to tell his players he wanted to see some selfishness.

"There are a lot of rewards to be gained from this game, and I told the team there will be a lot of people pulling at them," Johnson said. "I told them it would be to their benefit to be as selfish as they can be. It's the best way to get focused."

Johnson said this year's Super Bowl run has been harder than last year's, which ended with a 52-17 Cowboys victory over Buffalo.

"This year has been more difficult and less fun," Johnson said. "We still have the same attitude. We can accomplish something nobody thought we could."

"When we were 0-2 without Emmitt and Troy Aikman had an injury, we kept hearing we had a Super Bowl hangover, that we were going to fall on our face. But we were stubborn."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You're on a roll today, with your magnetism and charisma at their peak. It will take a powerful force to stop you from getting what you want. A financial problem melts under your creative touch. Tonight: Just smile and you've got it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Today's focus is on new solutions to old problems. Let your spirits and imagination soar, and you will come up with unusual but workable approaches. Just realize that this might not be the right time to discuss them with others. Tonight: Catch that new movie.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A special friendship is ready to turn into a more meaningful partnership that could lead to financial security and happiness. Your savvy and willingness to cooperate make all the difference. Tonight: Be where the action is.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Act quickly to solve a problem, and you will be complimented. Your creativity empowers you today, guiding you as you make changes. Be more image-conscious. Tonight: Out and about.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Use your imagination rather than your intellect. Your work will benefit if you find ways to eliminate red tape, but don't go overboard. Do only what is necessary to give you more free time. Tonight: Do something for you alone.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Flirtation and money matters mix, and the result will be a higher level of happiness. Your understanding of a situation helps. Tonight: Go for romance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your popularity is so high right now you can spread it out among a number of friends without suffering. Make time for the key people in your life. You need to handle a domestic issue or a matter involving real estate. Tonight: Your home is your castle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You feel creative on this busy day, and that makes you happy. A risky financial matter probably will turn out in your favor if you use common sense. Be aware of your potential and also of your limits. Tonight: Enjoy a new sport or hobby.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The sun moves into your sign today, inaugurating a month in the spotlight. Review your expectations of those at home, and discuss your feelings. Tonight: Stay home and rest.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You're feeling especially talkative today as you tune in to a change of heart. Work at visualizing a situation in a new light, and be open to the creative forces that result. Listen to your instincts. Follow through on a great idea. Tonight: Have an intimate chat with a friend.

IF JAN. 20 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You will feel pushed and pulled in many directions this year; it is up to you to plot your course. Understanding your limits would help. Your creative side will help you comprehend more about your co-workers, family members and partners. Fight the tendency to become frustrated when you don't get what you want. Look to taking a greater role in community affairs, a move that would strengthen your image. TAURUS sometimes feels like an albatross.

Dear Abby - Letters...

Her diet 'secret' is simply moderation

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, an item appeared in your column about an elderly lady who lost weight on a diet she composed. She lost weight on it and went, I think, from a size 14 to a size 6. I forgot what eating pattern she followed.

Could you let me have a copy of that program? Thank you! — HELEN MASON, COSTA MESA, CALIF.

DEAR HELEN: The letter was written by an 85-year-old widow, who was enjoying a new lease on life. Here is it ...

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "Enjoying Life in Florida," who felt comfortable about her body even though she was heavy. I could have written that letter. When I was a bride, I was 5 feet tall and weighed 105 pounds. After 32 years of marriage, I was widowed, and within a year, my weight had doubled.

Now, here is where we part company. I would like to tell "Enjoying Life" how I took off weight. On my 80th birthday, I was a basket case. Arthritis was racking my knees and other joints, and I ached all over. In addition, I had high blood pressure, indigestion, and all of the other problems that go with obesity. Then I decided to do something about it.

Today, I'm 85; I wear a size 10 dress, and even more important, I am free of pain. I walk a mile in 20 minutes. (I can outwalk most people half my age!) People who know me are astonished that I did this without help from any organized group or special diet foods.

Here's my advice to people who want to do what I did. Remember, you didn't get fat overnight. Ease into your new habits. Never talk about what you are doing, just do it! Let others "discover" that you are losing weight.

First, cut down the size of your portions, then limit your meals to healthy foods such as fruits, vegetables, cereals, lean meat and nonfat milk. Drink at least 10 glasses of liquids a day (most of it should be water). When you cut out the fats and sweets, you will be surprised at how good the other foods taste. Even a baked potato can be a treat.

Start exercising. Begin slowly, then gradually increase the time, but do it so regularly that it becomes a habit.

Moderation is the key to success. Substitute common sense for bad habits. Life for me didn't begin at 40. It began at 80. — HAPPY AT LAST IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR ABBY: What an inspirational letter! Too bad we'll never know how many men and women over 50 followed your lead. Thanks for the wake-up call.

DEAR ABBY: A young lady in our town is getting married next month. Her shower invitations arrived and on them was this message:

"Please remember to attach the receipt to your gift that you bring."

Abby, we are speechless and wonder if this is a new and acceptable practice. I am enclosing my name, but since this is a fairly small town, please sign me "Stunned in Salem County," and maybe the bridal party will recognize this. Mailed from ... PENNSVILLE, N.J.

DEAR 'STUNNED': It may be a new practice, but I find it unacceptable. Don't blame the bridal party. Those who organized the bridal shower are responsible for the wording on the invitation.

For Abby's favorite family recipes, send a long, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet No. 1, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Harding denies wrongdoing but leaves ex-husband

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore. — Tonya Harding's voice trembled. "Please believe in me."

There was the strain of Tuesday's 10 1/2 hours of interrogation by the FBI and local prosecutors about the attack on Olympic figure skater Nancy Kerrigan.

There was the agonizing decision to break from ex-husband Jeff Gillooly — again — in the middle of that grueling day and night session at the FBI office.

HARDING

There was the memory of coach Diane Rawlinson's cautionary words: "Tonya totally believes that Jeff is innocent. If she discovers that there is anything different than that, she will distance herself from Jeff."

Harding still believed in Gillooly. "Definitely," she said as she drove away. And yet she left him behind, offering two terse written paragraphs of explanation and perhaps signaling a move by authorities to arrest him in the alleged conspiracy to assault Kerrigan.

Harding, seeking to clear her name and preserve a berth on the U.S. Olympic team, answered only a few questions as she emerged at 11:25 p.m. from her first questioning in the case.

Her attorney, Robert C. Weaver, said they cooperated fully with the FBI and district attorney, adding it would not be appropriate to discuss details of the investigation. Assistant District Attorney Norm Frink also declined comment.

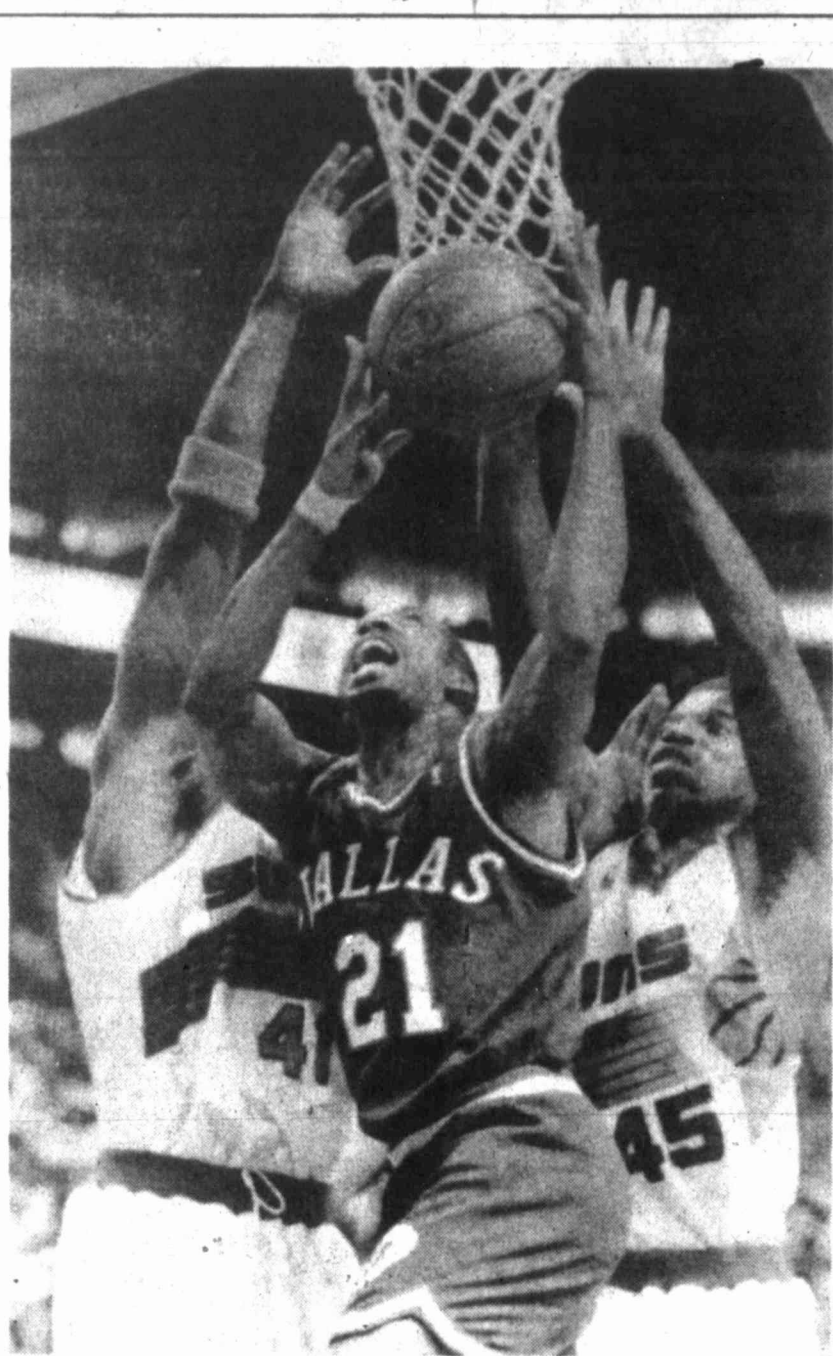

Eight hours through the questioning, Harding announced she is separating once more from Gillooly, whom she married in 1990, divorced last August and reconciled with in September. They had been living together until Tuesday and still called each other husband and wife.

Harding remained huddled with authorities in the FBI office while her statement was released to The Associated Press by one of her attorneys.

"After a lot of agonizing thought and evaluation, I have decided that it would be best for Jeff and me to separate," said Harding. "The events of the last few days have been difficult for both of us."

"I am innocent, and I continue to believe that Jeff is innocent of any wrongdoing. I wish him nothing but the best, but I believe during this crucial time of preparation for the Olympics that I must concentrate my attention on my training."

Gillooly, a longtime friend of the bodyguard arrested in the assault, didn't take part in the meeting. The bodyguard, Shawn Eckardt, allegedly confessed his role in the attack and said Gillooly paid him to carry it out.

Will the Mavs win again?

Dallas Mavericks guard Fat Lever (21) goes up against the Phoenix Suns' Mark West (41) and A.C. Green (45) during the first quarter in Phoenix Tuesday. Phoenix won 113-103.

Bad shoulder won't stop Emmitt

By The Associated Press

IRVING, Texas — Emmitt Smith has no choice. His coach expects the running back to play all day with one arm if he has to in the Dallas Cowboys' NFC championship game Sunday against the San Francisco 49ers.

"Emmitt will play and he won't have shoulder problems," coach Jimmy Johnson said Tuesday. "I have pronounced him healthy."

The NFL's leading rusher re-injured his right shoulder in Sunday's 27-17 divisional victory over the Green Bay Packers. Smith is receiving around-the-clock care to reduce the soreness in the shoulder he originally separated in the last game of the season against the New York Giants.

"I don't think Emmitt will be hesitant at all," Johnson said. "He'll be raring to go."

The Cowboys aren't the same team without Smith. They lost their first two games without him during a contract holdout.

"We rely heavily on Emmitt," Johnson said.

Smith hurt his shoulder against the Packers trying to block and Johnson held him out most of the second half.

"If I thought we needed him, he would have been back in there," Johnson said. "His big problem is pass protection."

Smith said he won't hold back against the 49ers.

"I did feel a little out of synch against the Packers," Smith said. "I had some problems holding the ball."

"I won't take any painkillers. I have the fear of hurting my shoulder and not realizing it's hurt," he said. "It's getting better every day. I'll be ready on Sunday."

The Cowboys are 5-point favorites, and Johnson is acting as though Sunday's game will decide the eventual Super Bowl champion.

"The most significant game we had last year was the win at Candlestick," Johnson said. "Nothing against Buffalo, but we felt if we won that game we would have success in the Super Bowl.

"San Francisco is on par with last year. The 49ers showed against the Giants they can play with anybody."

Johnson held a team meeting to tell his players he wanted to see some selfishness.

"There are a lot of rewards to be gained from this game, and I told the team there will be a lot of people pulling at them," Johnson said. "I told them it would be to their benefit to be as selfish as they can be. It's the best way to get focused."

Johnson said this year's Super Bowl run has been harder than last year's, which ended with a 52-17 Cowboys victory over Buffalo.

"This year has been more difficult and less fun," Johnson said. "We still have the same attitude. We can accomplish something nobody thought we could."

"When we were 0-2 without Emmitt and Troy Aikman had an injury, we kept hearing we had a Super Bowl hangover, that we were going to fall on our face. But we were stubborn."

Smith added 16 as the Greenwood Rangers rolled to a 69-43 win over Colorado City in District 6-3A basketball action Tuesday.

The win improved the Rangers' record to 10-9 overall and 2-1 in district play. C-City is 3-13, 0-3.

Aside from Settles and Smith's point production, defense also told the tale of the game. Using a pressing defense, the Rangers raced to a 40-13 halftime lead and were never seriously threatened after that.

Daniel Silva scored 14 points to lead the Wolves.

In the junior varsity game, C-City defeated Greenwood 58-56.

In girls' action, Greenwood beat C-City 73-27.

Jacqueline Bigar - Horoscope

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JANUARY 20, 1994

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Financial matters take the spotlight. What you do today will pay off next month. Schedule a chat with a friend who has some real savvy when it comes to money. Tonight: Balance the checkbook... carefully.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You're on a roll today, with your magnetism and charisma at their peak. It will take a powerful force to stop you from getting what you want. A financial problem melts under your creative touch. Tonight: Just smile and you've got it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Today's focus is on new solutions to old problems. Let your spirits and imagination soar, and you will come up with unusual but workable approaches. Just realize that this might not be the right time to discuss them with others. Tonight: Catch that new movie.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A special friendship is ready to turn into a more meaningful partnership that could lead to financial security and happiness. Your savvy and willingness to cooperate make all the difference. Tonight: Be where the action is.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Act quickly to solve a problem, and you will be complimented. Your creativity empowers you today, guiding you as you make changes. Be more image-conscious. Tonight: Out and about.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Use your imagination rather than your intellect. Your work will benefit if you find ways to eliminate red tape, but don't go overboard. Do only what is necessary to give you more free time. Tonight: Do something for you alone.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Filtration and money matters mix, and the result will be a higher level of happiness. Your understanding of a situation helps. Tonight: Go for romance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your popularity is so high right now you can spread it out among a number of friends without suffering. Make time for the key people in your life. You need to handle a domestic issue or a matter involving real estate. Tonight: Your home is your castle.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You have much work to do today but distractions keep causing delays. Concentrate. In the end, you will get most of the day's chores done. Conversations in the next month will take you in a new direction. Tonight: Accept a co-worker's invitation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You feel creative on this busy day, and that makes you happy. A risky financial matter probably will turn out in your favor if you use common sense. Be aware of your potential - and also of your limits. Tonight: Enjoy a new sport or hobby.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The sun moves into your sign today, inaugurating a month in the spotlight. Review your expectations of those at home, and discuss your feelings. Tonight: Stay home and rest.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You're feeling especially talkative today as you tune in to a change of heart. Work at visualizing a situation in a new light, and be open to the creative forces that result. Listen to your instincts. Follow through on a great idea. Tonight: Have an intimate chat with a friend.

IF JAN. 20 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: You will feel pushed and pulled in many directions this year; it is up to you to plot your course. Understanding your limits would help. Your creative side will help you comprehend more about your co-workers, family members and partners. Fight the tendency to become frustrated when you don't get what you want. Look to taking a greater role in community affairs, a move that would strengthen your image. TAURUS sometimes feels like an albatross.

Dear Abby - Letters...

Her diet 'secret' is simply moderation

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, an item appeared in your column about an elderly lady who lost weight on a diet she composed. She lost weight on it and went, I think, from a size 14 to a size 6. I forgot what eating pattern she followed.

Could you let me have a copy of that program? Thank you! — HELEN MASON, COSTA MESA, CALIF.

DEAR HELEN: The letter was written by an 85-year-old widow, who was enjoying a new lease on life. Here it is...

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "Enjoying Life in Florida," who felt comfortable about her body even though she was heavy. I could have written that letter. When I was a bride, I was 5 feet tall and weighed 105 pounds. After 32 years of marriage, I was widowed, and within a year, my weight had doubled.

Now, here is where we part company. I would like to tell "Enjoying Life" how I took off weight. On my 80th birthday, I was a basket case. Arthritis was racking my knees and other joints, and I ached all over. In addition, I had high blood pressure, indigestion, and all of the other problems that go with obesity. Then I decided to do something about it.

Today, I'm 85; I wear a size 10 dress, and even more important, I am free of pain. I walk a mile in 20 minutes. (I can outwalk most people half my age!) People who know me are astonished that I did this without help from any organized group or special diet foods.

Here's my advice to people who want to do what I did. Remember, you didn't get fat overnight. Ease into your new habits. Never talk about what you are doing, just do it! Let others "discover" that you are losing weight.

First, cut down the size of your portions, then limit your meals to healthy foods such as fruits, vegetables, cereals, lean meat and nonfat milk. Drink at least 10 glasses of liquids a day (most of it should be water). When you cut out the fats and sweets, you will be surprised at how good the other foods taste.

Even a baked potato can be a treat.

Start exercising. Begin slowly, then gradually increase the time, but do it so regularly that it becomes a habit.

Moderation is the key to success. Substitute common sense for bad habits. Life for me didn't begin at 40. It began at 80. — HAPPY AT LAST IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR HAPPY: What an inspirational letter! Too bad we'll never know how many men and women over 50 followed your lead. Thanks for the wake-up call.

DEAR ABBY: A young lady in our town is getting married next month. Her shower invitations arrived and on them was this message:

"Please remember to attach the receipt to your gift that you bring."

Abby, we are speechless and wonder if this is a new and acceptable practice. I am enclosing my name, but since this is a fairly small town, please sign me "Stunned in Salem County," and maybe the bridal party will recognize this. Mailed from ... PENNSVILLE, N.J.

DEAR "STUNNED": It may be a new practice, but I find it unacceptable. Don't blame the bridal party. Those who organized the bridal shower are responsible for the wording on the invitation.

For Abby's favorite family recipes, send a long, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet No. 1, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.
