ATS FOR NOTHING; GETS JOB

He Just Wanted One Good Meal

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 (AP)—A hungry man was under sentence today to eat regularly in a first-class restaurant.

Walking into the place the other night, he sat down and dispatched oysters, salad, steak, piece of pie with ice cream, cup of coffee and then called for a package of cigarettes. Lighting one, he said:

"Now you can put me in jail. I haven't a dime."

Yesterday the man, who gave his name as Frank Reilly, 26, of New York told Judge Frank M. Padden he was so hungry he decided he was going to have one good meal, even if he had to go to jail, whereupon the eating house proprietor interrupted to say he needed a waiter.

Reilly got the job.

Great Salt Lake Succumbs To Cold

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 7 (AP)—Great Salt Lake, one of the saltiest bodies of water in the world, has succumbed to the cold. Ice was found on the lake yesterday for the first time in the history of the weather bureau.

A. B. Purton, geological survey engineer, reported he found ice a quarter of an inch thick, beginning at the shore and extending out 1,000 feet.

The lake water is approximately 23 per cent solid.

George Feels Better Now After Examination

FORT WORTH, Jan. 7 (AP)—Whatever happened to George Morris Hurley's false teeth, he did not swallow them.

An x-ray examination of Hurley's stomach last night at the city-county hospital relieved his fears that he had swallowed his upper plate six nights ago.

Hurley, 43, a cook, was brought to the police station Monday night after he had been found on a down town street apparently in extreme pain.

He told the desk sergeant he thought he had swallowed his false teeth, while asleep.

After the examination, Hurley was given a good meal and felt much better.

TWO PLANES FORCED TO LAND AT SEA; GREAT AIR ACHIEVEMENT

(By The Associated Press)

NATAL, Brazil, Jan. 7.—Thousands of natives of this far northeastern tip of the South American continent gathered here today to gaze in amazed admiration at ten great Italian seaplanes which yesterday flew across the Atlantic to complete one of the greatest achievements of aviation history.

The planes, three of them black, three green, two red, and two white, floated at anchor in the Potengy river, none the worse for the grueling journey of nearly 1,700 miles from Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, West Africa.

TWO MILLION IN LINE OF CORTEGE

BODY OF HERO OF WAR PLACED IN LES INVALIDES

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Jan. 7.—The body of Marshal Joffre, hero of the Marne, rested today in Les Invalides, hall of French immortals, whose massive dome shelters the bodies of Napoleon and Foch.

Two million Parisians braved freezing weather to stand outside Notre Dame and along the route to Les Invalides for hours while the funeral cortege, in sombre ceremony, proceeded from the cathedral to the temporary resting place of the man who saved France from the invaders in 1914.

War Veterans There

In front of the Invalides war veterans who had suffered wounds while serving under "Papa" Joffre were given seats of honor while Senator Louis Barthou, minister of war and personal friend of the marshal, extolled his services to his country.

M. Barthou traced the marshal's military career and explained his strategy at the Marne, which was that the retreat before the battle was his preparation for the conflict. He compared the marshal with Washington and Franklin, and in his peroration commented that although misjudged he had felt no bitterness, and had said nothing which would risk harming the fair name of France.

MUSCLE SHOALS DEADLOCK BROKEN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—The long standing deadlock between the house and senate on Muscle Shoals legislation was broken today when the house conferees agreed to government building of power transmission lines.

This was the major point in controversy between the two houses.

Conferees said they believed it may open the way for final disposition at this session of the 10-year-old problem of what to do with the government's $150,000,000 power nitrate plant on the Tennessee river at Muscle Shoals, Alabama.

The bill now goes to the house, where the big test will come on whether that branch will accept the terms. If the compromise passes the house, the question will be up to President Hoover.

INDUSTRIES IN U. S. ACTIVE ONCE MORE

MORE THAN 60,000 MEN ARE PUT BACK TO WORK TODAY

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—Work and pay for upwards of 60,000 persons beneath the spreading smoke of new-built or rebuilt factory fires is industrial America's new year contribution to employment.

Orders for rails, for rail cars, for locomotives, for automobiles, for steamships, for corn products, for hardware, explosives, plumbing and window glass as well as dwindling stocks of once over-produced textiles are demanding the laying-on of erstwhile idle hands.

To Alleviate Conditions

Advices from industrial sections, taking no account of construction, revealed in some cases enough factory reemployment to alleviate materially local conditions. Added was the indication of numerous plants about to start or restart in which no estimate was made of the number of men expected to be employed.

DOGS OR COYOTES BELIEVED TO HAVE ATTACKED COW HERE; ORDER ANIMAL KILLED AFTER RECOVERY DESPAIRED

Attacked and mortally wounded by what is believed to have been a pack of hungry dogs, the $65 Jersey cow of R. S. Booker, 2601 College avenue, was ordered killed by a veterinarian early this morning.

The cow was housed in a shed on the Booker property and although she had a ten-foot chain upon which to move, was so badly bitten and slashed by her attackers that when found this morning she was barely breathing. One ear had been torn off, a gaping hole had been bitten from her shoulder and both hindquarters were badly chewed. Mr. Booker is engaged in the realty business here and kept the cow to supply his family with milk.

Recovery Impossible

Dr. Y. J. Aiken, called on the case this morning, ordered the cow put out of her misery. He said recovery was impossible. Tracks surrounding the shed showed that dogs or coyotes were responsible for the attack and Mr. Booker this morning appealed to the Journal to spread warning to other cow owners near the city.

G. F. Booker, brother of the cow's owner, who resides a block south of his brother on College avenue, said he believed police dogs were responsible. He said police dogs had killed his chickens from time to time and that neighbors of R. S.

JOBLESS SAID TO BE TASK OF NATION

HOOVER'S COMMISSION CHAIRMAN SEES BETTER ERA

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — Chairman Woods of the Hoover committee on employment estimated today before the senate appropriations committee that there are between four and five million unemployed.

Unemployment has been increasing, he testified, saying he did not believe the situation would improve until spring.

Are Not Inevitable

"There is altogether too much of it," he said, "and the way in which this unemployment comes about does not speak well for industry. There has been a general feeling in this country that periods of depression are inevitable. They are not and should not be regarded as inevitable."

"The important thing is not to count the unemployed", Woods continued, "but to do something for them. It is an intolerable situation and one entirely foreign to our ideals."

To an extraordinary extent wage scales had been maintained, he said, adding:

"The main thing is to get the

HOOVER REFUSES TO BELIEVE NATION IS RIDING TO POORHOUSE; 3,500,000 NEW CARS BOUGHT DURING PAST YEAR

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—President Hoover refuses to believe that America is riding to the poorhouse in the 3,500,000 automobiles she purchased last year.

Speaking by telephone from Washington last night, he addressed the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce as follows:

"The despondency of some people over the future is not borne out by the statistical evidence or prospects in respect to the automobile industry. I am informed by the department of commerce that despite the depression you have manufactured and sold during the year 1930 over 3,500,000 new automobiles.

"This certainly means that we have been cheerful in the use of our automobiles; I do not assume they are being used for transportation to the poorhouse. While I am aware that many people are using the old automobile a little longer, it is obvious that they are still using it and that it is being worn out. Altogether, the future for the industry does not warrant any despondency."

The president said the automotive industry was a vital factor in the life of the nation, particularly in its effect on employment in other fields, and bespoke a prosperous new year for those engaged in it.

Lower California Is Not For Sale, Mexico Says; Liquor Trade Is Asset

(By The Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 7.—Lower California is not for sale and "anybody who tries to buy that which is not for sale has lost his sense of judgment," Victor Varquez Schiffino, under secretary in charge of the foreign office here told the Associated Press today.

He was referring to publication here of proposals in the United States senate yesterday by Senator Ashurst of Arizona, who recommended purchase of Lower California and part of Sonora from Mexico.

Fell Like Bombshell

Senator Ashurst's proposals fell like a bombshell here. There was not much official comment, however, as President Ortiz Rubio and most of the cabinet ministers were out of town.

The newspapers gave the story big headlines and characterised it variously "curious" and "absurd."

CALIFORNIANS AMUSED OVER PROPOSAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP)—Californians who visit Lower California are not surprised that portion of Mexico is not for sale. Suggestions in the past that Lower California be annexed to the United States have found Mexicans unable to speak English.

When a citizen of Mexico along the border does not wish to answer questions asked by visitors from "across," he forgets his English. Hence "no speak English" is the reaction in Mexico to the proposal by Senator Ashurst that Lower California be annexed by the United States.

DROUTH RELIEF MEASURE IN DOUBT NOW

CHAIRMAN OF HOUSE RULES COMMITTEE IS INDIGNANT

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Democrats were charged today by Chairman Snell of the house rules committee with "playing politics with drouth relief legislation.

Snell declared that "as far as I am concerned as long as the Democrats play politics with drouth relief it can remain in its present status."

Due to Democrats

The New Yorker contended off the floor that failure of the house to send the measure appropriating $45,000,000 for drouth relief to conference with the senate yesterday was "due to the activities of the Democrats."

He blamed Representative Patterson of Alabama and Sabath of Illinois, Democrats, for blocking the sending of the measure to conference to iron out differences over the $15,000,000 senate amendment providing food for humans.

While there was some rumor that efforts were being made to compromise over the $15,000,000 food provision whereby the sum might be appropriated for use by the American Red Cross, Snell said he "had not heard any such proposal."

ARMOUR PLANS REAP RESULTS

WIDOW GETS $8,216,058 FOR SHARE OF OIL PRODUCTS FIRM

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 7—A romance of big business in which one of the fondest dreams of the late J. Ogden Armour came true was revealed today with announcement that the controlling interest of the Universal Oil Products company had been sold for $25,000,000 of which $8,216,058 went to Ogden's widow, Mrs. Lolita Sheldon Armour.

The Shell Union Oil company and the Standard Oil company of California were the purchasers. The deal involved 1,000 shares of the Universal company, wich sponsored the Dubbs oil cracking process, in which Mr. Armour invested $3,000,000 to $4,000,000. He always had faith that it would yield a profit, but he died in London, without the dream being realized. Today his widow knew his faith had not been placed in vain.

Had Been Turned Down

Mrs. Armour received her share of the purchase price for 400 shares of stock in the Universal company, which was a part of her husband's estate and which his creditors at one time had refused to accept as a valuable asset. The stock was given to her by Armour as security for a loan of $1,000,000 she made him in 1928. Armour was the found-

HERE'S WAY TO CONQUER INFERIORITY

"Dear Sir: I am a girl eighteen years old. I thought perhaps you could help me with my problem. During early adolescence I was shy and uncommunicative and made scarcely any friends. My parents both work and were apparently too busy to encourage me to make friends, and as they never entertain friends in our home, I was without any social contacts.

"For several years I was content to be without friends my own age, and spent my time outside of school at helping at home or reading. Lately, however, I have come to realize the difference between other young people and myself. When I go out among them I cannot talk and feel at ease with them. Naturally I avoid as much embarrassment as I can and stay at home from class parties, etc.

"My mother seems to think there is nothing I can do to overcome this feeling of embarrassment for she, too, is inadept at meeting people. One day I remarked that I would like so much to have a Sunday school class of small children, because I always felt more at ease with them than with the boys and girls my own age. She replied, 'You always will.'

"Is this true? Must I always feel this way and forfeit the good time that rightfully belong to me? What would you suggest to help me get a better social relationship with young folks?"

Answer:

My Dear Young Friend: Surely I am keenly interested in your problem and would like to help you.

You can help yourself overcome the difficulty if you think through your problem, plan a program and carry it out; but no need of telling you it will call for no end of effort on your part. Nevertheless I believe you have the stuff in you to win.

Lose no reasonable opportunity to mingle socially with others of your age. Before the next "event", go over in your mind a few interesting experiences or observations which you are going to relate when the opportunity arises, just a few; know exactly what you are going to say. If you can think of nothing to make ready, practice telling a few jokes. Commit them to memory, if necessary, so you can go through with them. Then be satisfied to keep quiet the rest of the time without accusing yourself of being ill at ease. Most self-conscious individuals expect too much of themselves. Also take a chance on dropping a remark or asking a question and if someone ridicules you, just steel yourself against it.

When you go home call to mind at least one thing you did well. Don't allow yourself to dwell on a single failure nor to compare yourself with someone who seemed to behave more gracefully.

Have a little secret notebook in which you write down the smallest victories and successes you have made, and read them over from time to time. Please believe me when I say you have my very best wishes. Won't you write me of your successes?

CHARM CHATS

» Noted Authority and Writer on Health, Charm and Beauty. «

(Miss Earle will be in Lubbock January 26 to 29)

"Yoo-hoo, Skin-nay!"

This is for you-hoo! All about how not to be so skin-nay!

All about those hollows in the neck, and the arms that are thin and twiggy, and legs that are modeled after the canary's.

Now thin arms and scraggly necks and pipestem legs are corrected in two ways. From the inside—by diet. And from the outside—by exercise.

If you are undernourished, then your diet must be carefully remodeled. If your entire body is thinly padded, and you can count your ribs, and you're always tired, and nothing seems quite worth the effort, then you must look to your diet.

Usually thinnish arms and legs and a gangly neck are phases of undernourishment. But sometimes they are not. Sometimes they are the result of inactivity. It's like this:

The roundness of the arm, the smooth symmetry of the leg, are contingent entirely upon the muscular development. An arm which is full and well moulded is so because the muscle has been properly developed. The muscle is large, well-formed, the graceful underpadding for the outer flesh.

On the contrary, a small straight arm, undersized and devoid of those curves which make for beauty, is so because the muscle, unused, is small, flat and undeveloped.

The proper exercise, of course, develops the muscle. It increases in size and strength, and the arm takes on those moulded curves that made Venus famous.

The same is true of the shapeliness of the leg, and of the graceful curve of the neck.

But sometimes these things do not fit into the everyday program and it is not enough that they be used occasionally for recreation.

Systematic little movements done every day, not just when we happen to feel that it would be fun. That's what counts.

Here are a few that you will find helpful.

For the arms: Extend the arms horizontally, so that the elbow makes a line at right angles to the body. Rest the finger tips on the shoulders. Then, fling the arms out at the side vigorously, stretching the fingers. Return to former position of finger tips on the shoulder and repeat in rhythm.

Also for the arms: Place open hands on chest, palms downward, thumbs against chest, elbows at right angles to the body. Fling arms vigorously outward, stretching the fingers and return to the former position, in rhythm. Guard against letting the arms sag as they are flung outward. The entire motion should be at right angles to the body. Also, guard against letting the head jut forward.

For the legs: Stand with hands on hips (or at first, resting on arms of chair placed at the side); feet wide apart. Keep backbone straight. Assume scatting position, with knees spread, and body poised on balls of the feet. Resume standing posture, with feet full upon the ground. This exercise should be done rhythmically to a waltz tempo.

For a hollow neck: Rest the finger tips on the shoulders, with elbows raised to horizontal position. Then, keeping the fingers on the shoulders, describe a circle with the point of the elbow. It will be a wobbly sort of circle, perhaps, but the hollows will not wait to see if you are a good geometrician. They'll scamper!

Postal Receipts In Tahoka Show Loss

By Staff Correspondent

TAHOKA, Jan. 7—Postal receipts for 1930 at the Tahoka postoffice were considerably below those of 1929, the banner year so far. The third quarter receipts, amounting to $2,978.39, were about $900 lower than the same period last year.

Total receipts announced by D. A. Parkhurst, postmaster, were $10,208.02 for 1930. For 1929 the receipts were $12,115.

"This is the first time in my nine years' experience as postmaster that our receipts were lower than those of the year before," Mr. Parkhurst said.

EXTRADITION IS OPPOSED HERE

JUDGE MULLICAN SAYS FITZGERALD MUST BE TRIED HERE

Extradition of Dick Fitzgerald to Logan, N. M., where he is wanted for bank robbery, is expected to be restrained by a writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Clark M. Mullican, of the 99th district court in this city. Fitzgerald will be tried here for burglary.

The man was arrested on December 22 at Big Spring by Sheriff Wade Hardy and Chief Deputy O. B. Conley, of Lubbock county, and brought here to face an old indictment by a 29th court grand jury, charging him with burglary in connection with a robbery of a wholesale grocery house.

Honored By Moody

According to a press dispatch, requisition for Fitzgerald's return to New Mexico was honored Monday by Gov. Dan Moody. Requisition of Jack Walker, held at Amarillo and wanted in connection with the same bank robbery, also was honored by the Texas governor. The two were charged with holding up the McFarland Brothers bank at Logan and taking more than $800.

Fitzgerald's trial on a charge of burglary has been set for the week of January 26, according to District Attorney Durwood H. Bradley. Fitzgerald was indicted here in connection with the robbery of the Davis and Humphrey wholesale grocery house at 901 Avenue F in the early fall of 1929. Two man executed the robbery and fired at a night-watchman in escaping.

Thought For Today

Put your trust in the Lord.—Psalm 4:5.

* * *

You may trust him in the dark.—Cicero.

A Child And Truth

One of the most illuminating stories of recent weeks, it seems to us, is the one telling how a rich Parisian has sued the tutor of his son for telling the boy that there is no Santa Claus.

This story told how Marcel Dauprey hired a professor to coach his seven-year-old son in order that the boy might not acquire worldly knowledge at too early an age. The professor did his best, but he did break the news about Santa; and now M. Dauprey has sued him, charging that this bit of information caused the son "moral harm."

This misadventure is somehow characteristic. What parent, undertaking to bring up a child in the way he should go, has not bumped into just such a disappointment? All of us resolve that our own children shall be disillusioned about the world just a little more gently than we ourselves were disillusioned. We take especial pains to let their trailing clouds of glory hang about their shoulders as long as may be; and then, one day, we wake up to discover that they know a great deal more than we had either supposed or desired.

All of this is perfectly natural; and unless one raises his son on a desert island, it is inevitable. For while children are given, by their parents, rose-colored spectacles to look at the world, they have a way of taking them off whenever they can and finding things out for themselves. We older ones, knowing how cruel the world can be, are sentimentalists; the children, knowing nothing whatever about it and expecting the best, are little realists.

Indeed, they do not always expect the best. Who has not surprised his son or daughter suspecting that all is not quite for the best in an imperfect world? We want to shield them, and we try to, staving off unpleasant knowledge as long as we can; but they get around us, collecting unpleasant data about the cosmos as eagerly as so many writers for the American Mercury.

And it is probable that this is a good thing. For the longer we postpone disillusionment, the more painful and crippling it is apt to be when it arrives. The youngster who is used to it from an early age stands a much better chance than the one who has been too carefully protected.

Perhaps that is why such an enormous proportion of great men began their lives amid poverty. The children of the poor soon learn to see the world just as it is. Their illusions, of necessity, die early. Is that one reason why the log cabin has sent so many more men to the White House than has the mansion of the rich man?

Christmas Lights

One of the nicest things about the past Christmas season, it seems to us, was the way in which people decorated their front doors, or the shrubs in the front yard, with strings of gaily-colored electric light bulbs.

This is a custom which has been growing rapidly during the last few years, and it seems to us to be one of the best customs that modern life has developed. For it is a custom which permits us to take advantage of the facilities which science offers for making our lives more bright and gay—a thing which we do not often do.

Our grandfathers would have imagined that a people surrounded by such marvels as automobiles, electricity, the radio, airplanes and skyscrapers would naturally have colorful and fascinatingly picturesque existences. But we, who have all of these things, all too frequently live grayishly and without one gleam of brightness. These Christmas lights in the front yard, which would not have been possible in any other age, are a step in the right direction.

THE PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says if they keep on whittling down the dimensions of paper money, pretty soon they'll make both ends meet.

* * *

It'll be wonderful if there really is such a thing as reincarnation. All the egotists can come back and read the scriptions on their tombstones.

* * *

THE ladies, God bless 'em, are just what Mayor Jerry Clements said at the early morning meeting yesterday prior to the first canvass for odd jobs. They're angels of mercy and already they've tramped over a good portion of Lubbock hunting and finding jobs for Lubbock's unemployed.

* * *

There's a drive going on this week, in case you don't already know it, and efforts are being made to find work—any kind of work for unemployed. When a lady raps on your door answer it and give her the courtesy of a hearing. Even if you haven't got a job to offer, listen to her story because you'll probably dig one up after hearing it.

* * *

The Plainsman has been getting some inside information on this canvass as it's being made and some of the stories the workers tell would almost make you froth at the mouth. Some people are refusing to answer their doors for fear it'll cost them a few cents and while they're doing that, and women who would rather be sitting around home are using energy and shoe leather hunting jobs, there are heads of families right here in Lubbock needing work to make both ends meet.

* * *

MRS. PLAINSMAN was out working yesterday and that's all right. She hasn't got anything else to do and she's glad to help. She didn't get but two jobs but that's good for her because she's not much of a talker. She never gets a chance to get a word in edgewise at home, so you can't expect her to get as many jobs as some women who do the broadcasting for their husbands. But anyway, she was out working and she tells The Plainsman that there were a lot of the houses she called on where people plain refused to answer the door and she could see them sitting around the house doing nothing.

* * *

Folks, that's not right. It doesn't make so much difference about the women who are doing the canvassing, although they are due the courtesy of a respectable greeting when they thump on somebody's door. But when there are men with families needing work and the story is being told in simple words, it's the least anybody can do to answer the door and listen a few minutes.

* * *

A LOT of folks say this jobs campaign won't do any good because all the jobs are small ones. Well, maybe it won't solve the whole problem but it'll help and there's no sense to always belittling.

* * *

Now you folks who haven't been called on, you just expect to be called on and make up your minds to answer the door like it ought to be done. And while you're thinking about it, figure out a couple of jobs so when some lady comes you can say:

"Why how do you do? I know your mission and I have three jobs here for you to list. Thanks for coming by. Good morning."

* * *

That Man on Avenue Q says his small son can't understand where the information came from that Lindbergh ate his oatmeal every morning.

* * *

The motorist doesn't always kill the pedestrian—but then you know practice makes perfect!

* * *

THE PLAINSMAN would like to take this opportunity to say something nice about somebody and that somebody is Cliff Lindsey. Sometime back this column differed sharply with Mr. Lindsey regarding the placing of advertising cards on motor car number plates, but that is all over and this time the stage is set differently. The Plainsman, as a rabid movie fan, wants to compliment Cliff on the early releases he is now getting.

* * *

Where it used to be that Lubbock was behind on the new shows, they are now being shown here much earlier. The time has come when the features are showing right here as early as they are showing in the big cities which is a mighty fine thing. Cliff ought to get credit for it.

* * *

SOUTH PLAINS movie fans are being treated right swell as far as early releases are concerned. The Palace theatre at Slaton and the English at Tahoka, as well as the local shows are more than filling the bill on up-to-date features and as far as The Plainsman knows there are probably others, too. This is an amusement age. Folks are about their movies now like they used to be about their snuff. It's fine to live in a country where the good shows come early.

Normal Schools Demand Higher Requirements As Problem Of Over-Supply Of Teachers Grows Serious, Report Says

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. — Public school enrollment in the United States in 1930 was nearly 25,000,000, according to estimates of the Federal Office of Education. The number of pupils in elementary schools is placed at about 21,370,000 and the number enrolled in public high schools at 4,030,000.

It is also estimated that there were 848,500 teachers and 254,200 school houses. School expenditures totaled $2,289,000,000. The pupils in private and parochial schools, elementary and secondary, numbered 2,704,000.

In reviewing high spots of the educational situation for last year, the Office of Education reports an oversupply of teachers which "has become a matter of concern to school authorities."

Oversupply of teachers of liberal arts subjects and of elementary school work has in some places led to stiffer requirements for entrance to institutions where teachers are trained and to higher requirements for teachers' certificates.

Normal schools are demanding such requirements as superior high school scholarship, good intelligence test ratings and other special tests. States and cities in increasing numbers now require a minimum of three years training in addition to high school before granting certificates.

Teachers Study, Too

Teachers themselves apparently are busy enhancing their qualifications, for 421,000 from the staffs of public elementary and secondary schools took special courses last summer, according to a cited survey by the National Education Association.

Public schools have been seeking the aid of industries for organization of industrial courses, the Office of Education finds, and an example of the increasing trend toward providing courses of specific character to meet needs for vocational training is seen in the introduction of courses in aviation in the public schools of Buffalo.

More than a million persons are counted as in vocational schools last year, the Federal Board of Vocational Education has reported, including 170,000 learning farming, 2,0,000 taking courses in homemaking and 625,000 learning jobs in trade and industry. Most of these folks were in schools operating under the joint federal-state vocational educational system.

Public school enrollment is being affected by the declining birth rate. The Office of Education does not give figures to demonstrate that, beyond pointing to the fact that in an average group of Americans in 1915 five children were being born each year, whereas in the same average group in 1928 less than four were being born.

Provide More Playground

Thirty-six states in 1930 made provisions for adequate school playgrounds and more than 60 cities adopted five acres as a minimum standard for elementary school play grounds.

Many colleges and universities developed summer camps in connection with courses in engineering, geology, biology, botany, zoology, physical education, recreation and forestry.

Education of subnormal and abnormal children has been receiving especial attention, and a federal survey disclosed 736 cities with a population of more than 10,000 which now have special classes and schools to handle children "deviating from average capacity."

Educational research has been stressed, especially co-operative research, and it is pointed out that Congress has granted more than $500,000 for three separate federal surveys. The first a national survey of land grant colleges, was completed last year, resulting in 1800 pages in two volumes. Another survey looking into secondary education and also made by the Office of Education began in 1929 and will be finished in 1932. The third, a national study of the professional education of teachers, was begun last July and includes the sending of brief questionnaires to a million American teachers.

Out of nine appointments made so far three of them have gone to Houstonians and while Houston boosters will tell you that their population is as third as large as that of the whole state they're just a few points [illegible]

Dr. Clendening

The atonic type is not a stomach, but a human being. And anyone who starts out to treat the stomach and bowels and forgets the whole man or the whole woman is doomed to failure.

Atonic means without tone—no resiliency. No comeback to the events of living. Relaxed—the stomach hangs down, either actually or figuratively, the bowels hang down. They have gas. They are bloated. They are afraid to eat. They have no appetite. They need sympathy. A medical friend of mine recently wrote a paper called, "A Country Doctor Looks at the Stomach." One class of dyspeptics he classified as "Alimony Hunters," i. e., people who want to be supported without work and who cannot endure the friction of human contacts.

Obviously diet alone is not capable of curing them. Sleep and rest are certainly more important than diet. If the diet, however, is rendered as little irritating as possible it will help. Many of these people are on roughage and bulky foods which their limited digestion cannot assimilate and which blows them up with gas.

Such a diet is that proposed by Dr. Walter C. Alvarez and from whom I quote:

"This diet is based not only on practical experience but on a number of scientific principles. We have no ferment in the digestive tract which will dissolve cellulose; that is, the fibrous parts of vegetables and fruits. Most of this material is quite indigestible, and if we eat much of it we throw a heavy burden on the bowel. This fiber interferes with the digestion of starches and predisposes to flatulence.

"If there happen to be narrow or spasmodically contracted places in the bowel the fiber may cause clogging and back pressure. The ideal diet in such conditions is one which can trickle past the obstructions and in this way bring relief. This diet is indicated also when the bowel is irritable, overly active and overly responsive to every stimulus.

"If you are to give this diet a fair trial, eat no coarse foods with fiber, skins, seeds or gristle. Avoid salads with celery, cucumbers and pineapple, also many of the green vegetables, raisins, berries, jams full of seeds, nuts and many of the raw fruits. Beans, cabbage, onions, peppers, melons, cucumbers and peanuts are notoriously gassy.

"Avoid sugar in concentrated form and take no candy or other foods between meals. Hot cakes and waffles might not be bad if they were chewed and not eaten with so much syrup. Fried foods are not bad if they are properly fried, that is, totally immersed in fat at the right temperature.

"Avoid eating when in a rush, when very tired, or when mentally upset. Family rows should be held away from the table. Chewing gum may cause distress because air is swallowed with the saliva. Digestion is greatly helped by a good chewing surface. If there are gaps in your teeth have your dentist fill them with bridges. The taking of purgatives should be avoided, as they may cause flatulence and abdominal distress."

Youngstown Goes On Economy Schedule

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Jan. 7 (AP)—The Youngstown police department today went on an economy schedule under which not more than seven patrolmen will be available at any time to patrol this city of 170,000 inhabitants. At the same time six fire stations were closed.

With the city facing a million dollar deficit, Mayor Joseph L. Heffernan ordered police and fire departments on half time. Firemen work six hours a day instead of 12, and policemen are on duty one week, idle the next.

The recent chess tournament between Harvard and Dartmouth is said to have been entirely above board.

Jack Dempsey is reported to get $2500 for every bout he referees. He probably finds it easier to make hay this way than swing haymakers.

In New York

With Swan

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—It had never occurred to me that I might turn out to be one of those "learn - a - new - thing-every-day" boys.

To be sure, I've been picking up a dozen or more new bits of information daily for a number of years. But while trying to remember those additional statistical treasures, such as the year of the War of 1812, I'd generally forget my own home phone number, or the name of Mary Pickford before she went into the movies.

And then, on a recent Christmas morning, I found in the left sock (my wife was darning the right one) two volumes of one of those double-deck century dictionaries, or whatever they are. My first suspicion was directed at those editors who are asked to read copy on my daily pieces, particularly for mis-spellings. Then I recalled reading somewhere that at least two quite successful New York columnists boasted that they had been hired because they spelled badly. However, they immediately retained secretaries.

Upon picking up the second volume, however, I was forced to change views. For it read "From Postman to Zymurgy." Now even if that sounds somewhat like the story of my life, I doubt if an editor would allow me to admit it. Yet I shall always remember it and use it sometime as the title of a biography.

Imagine a success story titled: "From Postman to Zymurgy." Does it stir your imagination, dear reader?

* * *

And then, hastily turning the pages to get a little erudition, I came upon "Sealyham." Imagine my embarrassment! I had never known where a Sealyham came from. And this in face of the fact that I once owned a hound that a wisecracker described as being somewhere between a seal and a ham.

I'll let you in on the secret. Sealyham is the name of an estate, near Fishguard, Wales, where this particular variety of purp was originated by one John Tucker-Edwards. And only about a century ago, at that. The best ones, it would seem, are still in Wales, though a flock of ritzy New Yorkers would deny the fact.

* * *

You'd really be surprised what you can find in a dictionary nowadays. (Now a salesman will not call at the house tomorrow.)

Take, for instance, spaghetti. Well, go ahead and take it, for I've had it three days in succession. Up to this moment, I've always had the notion it was a flock of heavy paste tossed in with a six-bit Italian dinner, unless very specially cooked. Or it was what a few hundred quick-lunchers grab with meat sauce each noon just around the corner from my office.

Quite, true, but it also can mean: "an electrical term, referring to insulating tubes of small diameter into which bare wire can be slipped, etc."

"Garcon, three platters of well insulated spaghetti . . . and make it quick!"

* * *

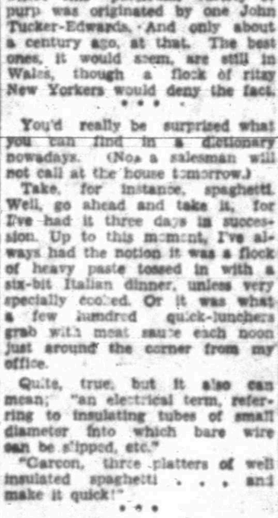

And imagine, after all these years, finding "sheik" defined as a "masterful man of irresistible appeal for the other sex." Rudy Valentino did not die in vain. And a "vampire" (shades of pre-talkie films.) And a "hound" is a person continually pursuing a particular object, as a "movie hound." Territory is no longer mere land and water, but also a region assigned to a salesman. And a "dame" is "any woman" and "bump" is to "take for a ride, kill or murder," as in Chicago.

By the way, what's happened to Chicago lately?

As rowdy as a boxing audience may sometimes be, observes the office sage, the bout itself is always handled with gloves.

As far as a woman is concerned, "taking it on the chin" means merely another application of the powder puff.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The bridge, deep in the forest, was a very pretty sight because 'twas all built by the natives out of logs from great big trees. It stretched across an open space. Said Clowny, "What holds it in place?" And Scouty answered. "Those big logs can hold it up with ease."

The Travel Men said, "Natives work real hard and never stop to shirk. That's why they do all things up right. They know that plan is wise. You'll find it's never any fun to only have a task half done. Results are bound to always come to anyone who tries."

Wee Coppy laughed and swung about. "A lecture's being handed out," said he. "But I don't mind it 'cause I think that's what we need. Whene'er there's work that must be done, we always loaf through it, in fun. I know that we'd do better work if we would show some speed."

They all piled in their truck again to ride a mile or so. And then they heard a funny snorting. "What is that?" one Tiny cried. The Travel Man said, "I don't know, but we can find out if we go toward where the snorting came from. Surely something will be spied."

They rode a hundred yards or more and then found out what was in store. A great big elephant stood near. The snorting came from him. "Oh look!" cried Carpy. "If you please, he's helping pull down great big trees. His winding trunk must be real strong, the way he grabs a limb."

And he was absolutely right. The Tinies saw a wondrous sight. The husky looking elephant was strong as he could be. He'd pull and snort and snort some more. The Tinies thought that he was sore, but 'twas his way of doing things. Then, down would come the tree.

NEW HIGHWAY IS TALKED

ROAD RALLY IS HELD IN ANDREWS FOR BONDS ISSUE

(Special To The Journal)

ANDREWS, Jan. 7. — Approximately 60 good roads boosters from Lubbock, Terry, Gaines, Andrews and Ector counties met in this city yesterday at a called meeting of State Highway No. 137 association. J. H. Hankins, chairman of the highway committee of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, presided at the gathering and was one of the principal speakers of the day.

Principal topic of discussion was the proposed $200,000 road bond issue which will be voted on by Andrews county citizens Thursday.

Brownfield Gets Meet

Next meeting of the organization will be held in Brownfield, this decision being made after a unanimous vote of those assembled.

"The first purpose of the association is to obtain state designation on the undesignated part of the road," Hankins stated in opening the meeting. "The second purpose is to stir up enthusiasm for paving."

A. H. Dennison of Odessa, representing the Odessa Chamber of Commerce reported that Odessa and Ector county citizens were greatly interested in the outcome of the Andrews county election Thursday, as it will be hard surfacing of an important link in the north-south highway. Dennison reported that 80 miles of the south end of Highway Number 137 from the north Ector county line to McCamey is now hard surfaced.

Speakers went into detail regarding the benefits to the derived from paved roads, in comparison with the costs.

Waste Pointed Out

Speakers pointed out the waste in trying to maintain dirt roads, and pointed out the big savings to counties that vote bonds and thereby forever turn over to the state the obligation of maintaining the highways.

R. W. Pittman, of Seminole, former Gaines county judge, spoke at length, telling of the development of that section of the Plains country and expressing his belief that a greater development is in store, dependent in a large measure upon the building of permanent roads.

R. M. Means, president of Andrews Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker from the home city. He admitted that they had planned to have no welcome address, because people at a road meeting in "West Texas don't need any welcome address."

Urges Bond Passage

He urged his fellow citizens to go to the polls Thursday and pass the bond issue in order that Andrews county might have a hard surfaced road north and south through the county. He explained that the county was getting an unusual bargain with the state of Texas, in view of the fact that the state has agreed to building the road provided the county votes the $200,000 bond issue. Estimated cost of the road is from $500,000 to $600,000. The special concession was made to Andrews county by the State Highway Department on account of the unusually large amount of university lands in the county that have heretofore been unfaxed. Since the agreement from the department, a law has been passed which will enable the county to likewise tax the university lands.

Means called attention to the ever increasing wealth in the county which will lower the burden of the bond issue to the present tax payers. He called attention to the new provision for taxing university lands for taxing a pipeline company that has made a $2,000,000 investment in the county, the quarter of a million dollar improvement in the city of Andrews, of three new producing oil wells, of royalties and other properties that are rapidly being added to the assessed valuations.

Others who spoke included, J. E. Shelton, secretary of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce; Jay Barret, county judge and W. A. Hinson, G. M. Thomason and L. L. Brock, county commissioners of Terry county; J. J. Kendrick, county judge; and J. W. Childers, county commissioner of Gaines county at Seminole; L. E. Johnson, county commissioner of Ector county at Odessa, F. S. Wilson, secretary of the chamber of commerce, J. D. Mathes, county judge and W. L. White, county commissioner, Andrews county.

There Had Better Be Money Next Time

DALLAS, Jan. 7 (AP)—Robbers who spent considerable time chopping a hole through the vault of the North Dallas High school building last night were disgusted to find no money in it.

They left this note attached to the vault door: "Advice: Next time there had better be some money in this safe."

BOULDER DAM WILL COST OVER HUNDRED MILLIONS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The largest single contract ever granted by the government soon is to be awarded.

Bids on the Boulder canyon dam project will be opened by the bureau of reclamation March 4 at Denver—and the successful bidder will have a $109,000,000 job ahead of him. It is to be completed in seven years.

Of all phases of the project, just one aspect of it — cooling the millions of pounds of concrete—is to be a big job in itself.

One hundred fifty miles of two-inch pipe will be needed to safeguard the placing of 3,600,000 cubic yards of concrete in the dam, which will rise 727 feet above the Colorado river's bed.

It will be necessary to keep the concrete mass at the proper temperature in laying the base for the huge dam, which will be 650 feet thick at the bottom and 45 at the top.

Measuring 1,180 feet between the Nevada and Arizona sides of the river, the dam will back up water 115 miles along the river's channel to form a lake 227 square miles in area.

Specifications for the project, which provide for starting work near next April, require that the concrete be kept at not less than 40 degrees nor more than 72 degrees—in a country where the average temperature ranges from 20 degrees to 120.

Great copper strips through the dam will permit expansion and contraction to meet temperature changes.

The dam proper, to be the largest in the country, will cost $71,000,000. There also will be the $32,000,000 power house and generating system, which include six power units on each side, great tunnels, and two intake towers upstream each about 80 feet in diameter.

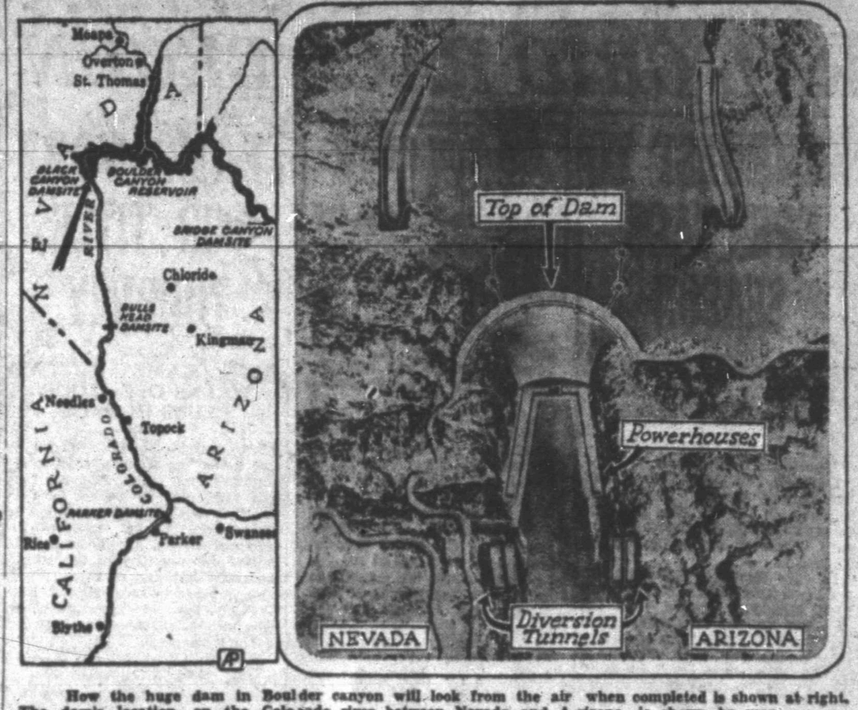

The concrete intake towers will be connected with the dam by big steel bridges, about 115 feet long. The power house, which will be a U-shaped concrete structure, will have a wing on each side of the river and extend for 500 feet along the banks.

Approximately 4,500,000 cubic yards of concrete will be used in constructing the whole project. This is a million larger in terms of barrels, or more than the 4,392,000 cubic yards used by the bureau of reclamation in its 28 years of history.

Inspection of the dam will be possible through galleries within it, to be reached by an elevator shaft extending to within 50 feet of the bottom.

The galleries, to be six feet in diameter, will begin at about 100 feet from the base, placed at each 100-foot level to within 150 feet of the crest.

Workers on the project will live in the model town to be built by the government seven miles away.

How the huge dam in Boulder canyon will look from the air when completed is shown at right. The dam's location, on the Colorado river between Nevada and Arizona, is shown by map.

STERLING TO BE ASKED TO SUPPORT CENTENNIAL WORK

DALLAS, Jan. 7 (AP)—Governor for a suitable celebration in 1936 of Elect Ross S. Sterling will be asked to revive the statewide movement the Texas Independence Centennial, Dr. David Lefkowitz, Rabbi of Temple Emmanuel here, has announced.

"I am preparing a letter to the new governor suggesting that with only five years remaining, it is time to get at the task of preparing a truly representative celebration," said Dr. Lefkowitz.

He said he had no specific program or plan for the centennial but believed a statewide committee could best evolve a program, although he confessed he thought the idea of a series of festivities scattered over the state, rather than a single exhibition or fair, would be most suitable.

PRORATION SAID TO BE VIOLATED

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 7—Affidavits that more than 100 wells "of major oil companies supporting proration" have been operated "in continuous violation" of proration orders in the Oklahoma City field were on file today with the state corporation commission.

H. G. McKeever, attorney for the Champlin Refining company, said the affidavits were based on information obtained by private observers who spent six weeks checking flow of wells in the field.

The affidavits asserted wells were producing in excess of the maximum allowable flow from one to 74 per cent.

C. C. Childers, commission chairman, said if information in the affidavits is substantiated, citations will be filed against the offending companies.

Just Plain Horse Sense

Many of the accidents reported each winter, in connection with the use of gas heating appliances, are due to cheap, unfit tubing.

Because of its lack of durability and the ease with which it may become leaky or disconnected, rubber hose, or other flexible material, should never be used for connecting gas appliances.

To save a few pennies, the carless purchaser deliberately forfeits the protection of all those safeguards in the use of gas which have taken years of study and experience to perfect.

A three-eights inch iron pipe connection is the safest and most efficient connection for the ordinary room heater. Have your plumber replace rubber hose in your home, and other flexible gas connections, with iron pipe. DO IT NOW.

STRIBLING TO MEET SCHMELING IN JUNE

TECH INTRAMURAL GRID RACE BEGUN

IN THE REALM OF SPORT

With Collier Parris
Journal Sports Editor

Mina Watkins, co-captain and fullback of the 1930 Lubbock High grid team, and Greer Frizzell, all-district tackle for the Westerners in 1929, have enrolled at Texas Tech this term. Texas Tech is extremely fortunate in the acquisition of these men, and welcomes them with gusto. It is a fine thing when high school athletes turn to their home college upon graduation, and it is especially fine when such athletes are of the high calibre of Frizzell and Watkins.

That is not all. Dub Lawson, the other Westerner co-captain and all-district quarterback, expects to enroll at Tech in the near future, and Malcolm Martin, regular end and one of the best in the state, may be united with the Matadors shortly. Tech should be and is proud of their coming and this department welcomes them heartily. When Mina Watkins enrolled last week the institution gained a great student as well as a great athlete. He was elected last fall as the most popular and best all-around student on the high school campus.

Something new in the way of entertainment is to be inaugurated at Texas Tech, thanks to Tech's new coaching staff which is at all times working toward the best interests of the institution and for a greater student and town spirit. Once each month from now on the athletic department will declare "open house" and will sponsor a program of entertainment that is due to make for a greater cementation of relationships between students and townspeople.

"For Men Only" will characterize the invitations to the open house entertainment. The ladies are for once left completely out of the plans. All men students of the college and all male residents of Lubbock are invited to come to the Tech gymnasium on open house nights for two hours of fun. The first program will be held next Tuesday evening, starting at 7:30. An interesting series of events, including boxing, wrestling, comical acrobatic acts, and tugs of war is being prepared. A feature of the program will be a "rough house royal", in which a picked team of freshman boys will be pitted against a similar lineup of sophomores on the gymnasium floor. The idea is for one class to throw the other off the court. More fun!

The Southwest Conference basketball season gets under way tomorrow night in a big way when the perennial champions, the University of Arkansas Razorbacks tangle with the University of Texas Longhorns at Austin. The game will formally open Texas' new half-million dollar gymnasium, one of the finest structures of its kind in the country, and better than anything in the state. The gym was to have been opened last season but complications set in with a period of extremely cold weather and it was impossible to finish the plant.

It is hard to dope the Big Seven this season. Arkansas will have a good team, but 1931 may see the end of the long Razorback reign on Southwest painted courts. It has been a habit with the lanky acorn-fed Porkers from the Ozarks to win the cage title, as it is an old custom with the Longhorns to take baseball honors. The year may see both kings unseated, for the competition will be hot. Rice, the University of Texas, and Baylor are strong this year, and it has been strongly hinted that one of this trio will ascend the throne.

For some real entertainment we suggest that plans be made to attend the basketball series at the Tech gymnasium Friday and Saturday nights. Tech will send its Matadors against the Texas School of Mines quintet from El Paso in what should be a most interesting pair of games. The Matadors looked good in their last game, defeating a strong Southwestern Teachers team from Oklahoma in a fast battle. Tech had a good team last season, and the one this year, according to authorities who have witnessed them this season and last, the Matadors will be equally powerful this year.

"PA" STRIBLING SAYS SON TO FIGHT MAX DESPITE RULING

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7. — W. L. (Young) Stribling will fight Max Schmeling in Chicago next June despite Schmeling's disqualification by the New York Athletic commission, his father-manager announced today.

The elder Stribling said he accepted terms to put his son in the ring with Schmeling at a Chicago milk fund benefit. The affair will be held at Soldier's Field, although the date is not definite.

Under the agreement Stribling will receive 12 1-2 per cent of the gate. Schmeling, "Pa" said he assumed, would fight on the basis of the $500,000 offer made previously to him.

CHICAGO OWES NEW YORK BOARD THANKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Chicago, it appears, owes the New York State athletic commission a rising vote of thanks. The commission, by stripping the heavyweight title from Max Schmeling, virtually has assured a title match between Schmeling and W. L. (Young) Stribling in Chicago next June.

Nor is that all the commission's action accomplished. It left or so it would appear, Jack Sharkey in the role of "outstanding contender" in New York state but with no one in sight for him to fight.

Nate Lewis, Chicago promoter, several days ago offered Schmeling $500,000 to meet Stribling with the title at stake and, at the moment at least, there seems no reason why the Teuton slugger should not accept. As for Stribling, he already has come to terms with Lewis.

As the situation stood today, it would take a complete about-face on the part of the state commission to save the bout for New York and there appears no prospect of that.

The boxing solons declared the heavyweight throne vacant when Jacobs, on Schmeling's behalf, declined to sign immediately for a return bout with Sharkey. Jacobs offered to sign Schmeling to a contract calling upon him to meet the winner of a Sharkey-Stribling match or against Sharkey if Stribling declined to meet the Boston sailor.

The commission has insisted that Sharkey, having beaten Stribling once, should not be called upon to meet him again, yet, after declaring the title vacant, the solons announced they would accept as champion the winner of a match between Stribling and Sharkey.

Thus the commission stuck to its guns in support of Sharkey's eligibility as outstanding contender but the net result seems to leave Sharkey holding the bag. Stribling, with a Schmeling bout virtually assured him, in all probability will decline to meet Sharkey and there's no one else for the Boston sailor to meet.

MICKEY WALKER'S PLACE IS VACANT

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Taking time out from its heavyweight war against Max Schmeling, the New York State athletic commission declared Mickey Walker's middleweight title vacant, depriving the Rumson, N. J., terrier of his last championship claim of the many he has held and lost in the past eight years.

The action was taken on grounds Walker had refused to respond to the commission's ultimatum that he take steps toward a title defense.

Walker won the middleweight championship from Tiger Flowers in 1926.

Tyler Team Gets Trophy From League

TYLER, Jan. 7 (AP)—Victors over the Amarillo high school football team in the finals of the Interscholastic League contest in 1930, the Tyler High School Lions received a token of their championship last night when Roy B. Henderson, director of the Interscholastic league, presented them with a silver football, full size, mounted on a gold base, in the presence of guests at a banquet here. Each member of the team was presented with a wrist watch and a small gold football.

THEY EMULATE THE COW

SHANGHAI, Jan. 7 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Loh Van-Hi probably never heard of Mrs. O'Leary's cow and the Chicago fire, but their emulation of the cow was fairly successful.

Mr. and Mrs. Loh quarreled in their store and one or both of them kicked over a kerosene lamp. The store and eighteen dwellings were destroyed, and some 200 persons made homeless. Mr. and Mrs. Loh are in jail.

COMMISSION PLANS TO ENFORCE SIX-MONTH TITLE RULE

BY MAJOR GENERAL JOHN V. CLINNIN
Pres. National Boxing Association.

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 (AP)—The National Boxing association proposes to strictly enforce the six months rule on all champions which will have a salutory effect upon those who prefer to work the vaudeville circuit or earn an honest living in the moving pictures. It is unfair to the public to permit champions to live a life of ease in the championship chair.

At the present time the national association has a questionnaire ballot out to the membership on the question of vacating the heavyweight, junior welterweight, junior lightweight and flyweight championships, and has requested the International Boxing Union to concur in vacating of these titles. Returns from this questionnaire so far have indicated a majority of state commission favor withdrawal of recognition of Max Schmeling as heavyweight champion.

Wrestling Sport No Longer

Professional wrestling has ceased to be a sport, and is now classified with the circus and other like attractions. In some of the states the commissions have designated all wrestling contests as exhibitions. This, no doubt, is the proper application to apply to wrestling as a sport, inasmuch as the outstanding contestants, in the different classes, are more interested in barnstorming and acquiring the coin of the realm than to bother with real competition for the so-called honor of a championship.

The managers of professional boxers should take heed from the situation now existing among the heavyweight wrestlers. If they lose the confidence of the paying public, they will be "killing the goose that lays the golden eggs," and when, through avarice, they seek to increase the cost of admission to the paying public, in the face of hard times and depressed conditions, they will strangle the boxing game.

It is apparent that there will be a heavyweight boxing championship contest during the coming year. Schmeling, through his manager, has been jockeying for position and the New York State commission attempted but failed to force Sharkey into the contest. The National Boxing association is determined to make Max Schmeling live up to the rules of the National Boxing association or vacate his title. Should this association vacate the title, it, no doubt, will call upon the outstanding boxer in this class to compete with a suitable opponent for the championship thus vacated.

SOUTHWEST TO OPEN CAGE SEASON

THURSDAY NIGHT WILL BE FIRST GAME; ONE RICE MAN MISSING

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 7 (AP)—Only half of last season's "scoring twins" remain to carry on for the Rice Institute Owls in the 1931 Southwest conference basketball campaign starting Thursday.

In Jake Hess and Ray Hart the Owls last year had the circuit's two high individual scorers, with 113 and 107 points, respectively, but only Hart survives of the crack forward combination. Hess, who also is one of the conference's outstanding tennis stars, became scholastically ineligible for competition this season.

Alford Still In

Raymond Alford, forward and captain-elect of the Baylor Bears, placed fourth in the 1930 scoring race with 98 points. He and Hart, two sure shots, may be expected to wage a battle for individual honors this year. The offense of both teams has been built around the two stars.

The correct line-up this weekend calls for the University of Arkansas and University of Texas to clash Thursday and Friday nights at Austin; Rice to play Texas Christian Friday night at Fort Worth and then hop to Dallas for a bout with Southern Methodist on Saturday.

ADA TEACHERS WIN

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Oklahoma Teachers of Ada won their second game from the Sam Houston State Teachers' college, 42 to 23, at basketball, last night.

TEAMS WORK FOR TITLE TOURNEY

FIRST GAME IS TWO WEEKS OFF; FOUR CLUBS IN RACE

With members of the 1930 varsity club acting as coaches, four intramural football teams take the field this afternoon at Texas Tech in the first official practice round in preparation for an extensive intramural season. At the same time boxers and wrestlers of the school, some one hundred of them, representing every class of fighter from flyweight up to the 200-pound heavyweight, will begin working out in the gymnasium.

The football games will start on Friday, January 23, with each of the four teams playing the other once in a round robin schedule. When the schedule has been completed, or nine games have been played, the best two teams will battle for the championship. Out of that number, the best eleven men, regardless of which team they represented, will be awarded silver footballs.

Del Morgan, assistant varsity coach, is chief supervisor of the intramural teams, while each team is coached and managed by varsity gridsters. Coaches and assistants for the various clubs are as follows: Engineers: Bill McWilliams, assisted by Lawrence France; Military: Red Waller, Buddy Brothers, and Ross Ayers; Liberal Arts: Floyd Wooldridge, Bill Teal and Jack Durham; Aggies: Rip Vinzant and Speed Moffett.

KEEPING IT HOT
Stove League Gossip

SHANO COLLINS, the latest Moses elected to lead the Boston Red Sox out of the desert of defeat, has already set a record. He is the first rookie manager who has assumed the job of bossing a team that has succeeded in winning the cellar berth eight times in nine tries.

* * *

Except for one season—1924—the Red Sox have been last for nine years. This beats the A's great (or awful) mark of being last seven straight years.

* * *

Thus have the once mighty Bostons failen. For the first 18 years of their American league career, they won an average of a pennant every three years. During the last 12 the red-hosed minions have been nowhere near the top.

* * *

The Red Sox have been last under Managers Hugh Duffy, Frank Chance, Lee Fohl, Bill Carrigan and Charley Wagner. Two of these men, Chance and Carrigan, were possessors of great reputations as managers.

* * *

What Collins can do to bring the Sox up into the select company of first division teams is not visible to the naked eye. It takes money and lots of it to build pennant winners these days. And these are parlous times.

* * *

Collins has one advantage. Because of the lowly position of the Red Sox he shares with Burt Shotten of the Phillies first crack at minor leaguers eligible for draft and big league players under waivers.

* * *

However, not minor leaguers and waived big leaguers but top-notch stars are the ones who will win the 1931 pennant as they have done in all seasons past.

"HARD LUCK" HANK BRUDER NOW HAS WIFE TO SUPPORT; IS HUNTING JOB

(By The Associated Press)

EVANSTON, Ill., Jan. 7.—"Hard Luck" Hank Bruder, captain of the 1930 Northwestern University football team, is hunting for a job—he has a wife to support.

His secret marriage Sunday at Waukegan, Ill., with Miss Omege Gilbert, 21, leaked out yesterday. Bruder said he would withdraw from the university.

Dean James Armstrong said Bruder would not be expelled from the university as his wife is not a student there.

"That's fine," said Halfback Hank, "but whether I want to stay in school or not, I must get out and earn a living for the Bruders now."

Bruder has received offers to play professional football next season. Despite injuries and illness which kept him from playing in more than eight games during his three-year career at Northwestern, he feels he still has a lot of good games left.

More Than 300 Out To Make Low Scores

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP)—More than three hundred golfers, less than one-third of whom will be fortunate enough to earn the right to appear in Los Angeles' $10,000 open tournament Friday, Saturday and Sunday, tee off today in qualification play over half a dozen courses.

Forty others, low scorers in the 1930 Los Angeles open or in the National open, exempt from the 18-hole test, continued practice rounds over the Wilshire par 69 course.

Despite the stringent financial situation in Prussia, the number of civil servants is increasing.

TEXAS REGENTS CONDEMN SPREAD OF COMMERCIALISM IN COLLEGE SPORTS

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 7—The board of regents of the University of Texas has condemned the spread of commercialism in intercollegiate sports and declared themselves as opposed to the development of football at the expense of baseball and non-revenue sports, such as tennis, track and swimming.

The wording of the resolution will be worked out by Robert L. Holliday on his return to El Paso.

The regents declared for the all round development of athletics for the greatest number of students, rather than the super-development of a football team and the promotion of large gate receipts.

Say Boy Killed To Thrill Girls

Just to make good his boast that he was a killer, Everett Haldiman, 17, committed two murders during holdups at Independence, Kan., and Kansas City according to his girl companions, Aletha Rush, 14, and Fern McNab, 15. They were jailed at Independence as police began a roundup of a gang of juvenile criminals. The girls (Aletha left, and Fern, right) are shown above and Haldiman is pictured at the right.

DAILY MARKETS

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—The stock market took heart from optimistic reports by the weekly steel reviews today and prices advanced 1 to 4 points in the earlier hours. The rally encouraged some profit-taking, but the setback in the leaders was fractional. Trading was active.

Rails were strong. Southern railway rose 4 and Rock Island and New York Central 3. Issues up 2 to 2 1-2, at their maximum prices, included Atchison, Mack Trucks, National Lead, Columbian Carbon, Safeway Stores and Lehigh Valley, while American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Eastman Kodak and Woolworth improved 1 to 1 3-4. American Woolen Preferred rallied 4 3-4.

Chemicals showed some softness. Allied turned a one point gain into a net loss of more than 2 and Mathieson Alkali lost 1 1-2. Westinghouse, St. Louis Southwestern and Johns Manville were also heavy.

Call money renewed at 1 1-2 per cent.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 5 to 8 points under some southern and local selling which appeared to be inspired by the relatively easy showing of Liverpool and the labor situation in Lancashire.

March sold off to 10.08 and July to 10.57 under the initial pressure, but the offerings were not particularly heavy and were readily enough absorbed by covering and trade buying to cause rallies of a few points and hold the market fairly steady at the end of the first half hour.

The market became very quiet after the initial offerings were absorbed and prices held steady later in the morning. March contracts worked up to 10.15 and July to 10.63, or about yesterday's closing quotations with the market steady around midday.

NEW YORK OPEN

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady: Jan. (O) 10.15 asked; Jan. (N) 9.95 bid; March 10.06; May 10.33; July 10.37; Oct. 10.71; Dec. 10.89.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 7 (AP)—Cotton opened somewhat easier owing to lower Liverpool cables than due. Liverpool was affected by disturbed labor conditions in Manchester and the decline in silver. First trades here showed losses of two to three points and the market continued to ease off slowly during the first hour, mainly on liquidation in advance of the holiday here tomorrow. March eased off to 10.11 and May to 10.36 or six to seven points below yesterday's close. At the end of the first hour the market was quiet and steady, two to three points up from the lows.

The market ruled quiet and steady all morning. Prices gradually improved owing to ring shorts covering in advance of the holiday here tomorrow. March traded up to 10.42 up six to eight points from the early lows to about level with yesterday's close. At noon the market was steady and at the highs, trading was light. Cotton futures opened steady: Jan. 9.91; March 10.15; May 10.40; July 10.62; Oct. 10.75 asked; Dec. 10.93 plete an odyssey of 7,000 miles which began with departure from Orbetello, Italy, on December 17.

RECORD HOP

Twelve planes left Bolama. One was forced to alight on the sea not far from the starting point and the other was forced down by motor trouble off St. Paul's Rocks, 475 miles from Natal, both were picked up by Italian cruisers stationed along the route. The first was towed back to Bolama and the other is being brought to Fernando Do Noronha, Brazilian penal colony island, 125 miles from here.

Balbo Lands First

General Italo Balbo, Italian air minister and leader of the caravan, brought the first of the planes to arrive here down on the waters of the Potengy river at 4:15 p. m. yesterday (2:15 p. m. E. S. T.), 17 hours and fifteen minutes after departure from Bolama. Five others settled to the river a moment after and at 4:30 p. m. the four remaining planes to complete the flight came down.

Natal, which has seen both dirigible and airplanes arrive from long overocean flights, gave the Italian air caravan a welcome such as none of the others ever had. Multitudes stood out in equatorial rains for hours to cheer the arrival. Each of the planes carried four men.

Taken To Governor's Home

General Balbo and his companions, exultant over the so nearly perfect completion of their hazardous undertaking, were taken in a triumphal automobile procession to the center of the city and given quarters at Villa Cincinato, home of the governor of the state of Rio Grande Do Norte.

The flight is by far the most remarkable mass transoceanic flight, but is not the first. In 1919 three American naval flying boats attempted to span the Atlantic and one of the planes, the NC-4 succeeded in reaching Lisbon after stops on the way. Two army planes equipped with pontoons in 1924 flew around the world in easy stages.

In 1926 five American army amphibian planes started a Pan-American tour from San Antonio, Tex. Two collided in mid-air in Buenos Airese but the three others completed their return to the United States.

MARSHAL JOFFRE

Joffre to America in 1917, and extolled the marshal's conduct there as one who, possessing glory, did not lack modesty. "Joffre has made no mistake," M. Barthou said, "the brotherly accolade of the two peoples came as a realization of all his hopes."

"No one has better recognized than Joffre the great achievements of these millions of men who, willingly dropping their peaceful occupations, crossed seas which were alive with death, and thousands of miles from their fatherland gave their lives for a grand and noble idea."

After the funeral oration the marshal's body was borne solemnly inside the Invalides to the sacristy, not far from the tomb of Napoleon, where it will remain temporarily until a mausoleum to be constructed at his home at Louveciennes is completed.

WOODS REPORT

man a job. Relief is secondary. If the man has a job he can take care of himself."

Praises Spirit

Woods praised the spirit of cooperation throughout the nation, declaring every organization, governor and community was joining to help.

Asked what could be done, he cited some measures confronting the senate. He asked for legislation to cut "red tape" involved in getting public works into operation. Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, joined him.

"The thing that impresses me," continued Woods, "is the different trend of industrial thought. In the old days the first thing the managers of business did when these periods arrived was to trim their sails and discharge their employes.

"Now we find coming into industry a wholly different attitude. We find business men trying to help employes and if some must be discharged we find them using judgment, laying off the single men and those who can stand it best and trying to help those who are laid off. It is not yet characteristic of industry but there are signs of a new view.

Woods estimated that $2,500,000,000 in public works is planned. Of this amount, he said, about $1,000,000,000 is just at the point where work is about to begin. To get this work to the "pick and shovel stage" is receiving the attention of Woods' committee.

COW ATTACKED

Booker reported this morning that barks had been heard in the vicinity of the cow shed throughout last night.

No one could be found this morning, however, who had ever heard of domesticated dogs attacking a cow and some were prone to believe that coyotes, either escaped pets or wild ones, were responsible for the act. While the Booker residence is at the edge of town there are numerous homes near it.

The slain cow was four years old and had been giving three gallons of milk per day, Mr. Booker said.

A year ago the Armour estate was closed in probate court, showing an insolvency of $1,805,000, which was a sad contrast to the $150,000,000 Armour was reputed to have been worth in moneyed war times. But last night the woman who had been stripped of much of her wealth was very happy.

"I guess this shows," she said, "that Mr. Armour was justified in backing that inventor's process. And those bankers who called my stock a liability, well, I can laugh now at them the same as they laughed at the stock."

Total Of 1,148 Are Aided By Army Here

A total of 1,148 individuals received aid through various channels offered by the Salvation Army during the month of December, according to a report issued today by Captain W. T. Wilson of that organization. This number represented 172 different families.

Food, valued at $99.67, was given away by the Army. This amount does not include $300 worth of groceries purchased and distributed as Christmas baskets. Fifty-eight baskets were delivered to unfortunate families over the city on Christmas morning.

The report further shows that 537 articles of clothing, valued at about $145, were distributed during the month while employment was found for six persons. Other aids revealed night lodging given to 184 persons, meals to 114, one orphan cared for and nursing calls made to 36 homes.

ORDER SLAVES TRAFFIC HALT

U. S. SENDS NOTE TO LIBERIA DEMANDING CHANGE IN AFFAIRS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—The negro republic of Liberia has been told by the United States to clean house if it wants to keep the world's respect.

Slave traffic in which high officials of the government were involved had been charged by an investigating commission. The accusation was made the basis for a note dispatched by the state department through the Liberian consul general at Baltimore, urging that the trade in human beings be suppressed promptly and that those responsible be punished.

Taken On November 17

The American action only now has come to light, but it was taken on November 17, two weeks before the resignations of President King and Vice President Yancy were announced at the Liberian capital, Monrovia. The two had been directly involved in the traffic by the report of the commission. The latter was composed of one investigator representing the League of Nations, another from the United States and a third representing Liberia itself.

The slave charges involved a traffic in natives to a point outside Liberia, and cited government officials said to have used enforced labor for private enterprises under the guise of public works.

Southern Pacific officials announced that about 1,200 men were being reemployed at El Paso, Houston and Algiers, La.

The Prisco shops at Sherman, closed since November, were open again today, with 135 employes on the job. The Rock Island announced that its shops at Chickasha and Shawnee, Okla., would be opened within the next few days.

New Aid Brought Much Joy To Both

Argotane Has Been A Great Benefit To My Wife and I and We Both Feel Fine, Says Abilene Man.

Mr. W. M. Wheeler, a well known local man, a farmer, living on rural route 3 is enthusiastic in his praise of Argotane, the new medicine, because he and his wife have received benefits and relief from troubles of years standing.

"It's true," he continued, "both my wife and I have been bothered with stomach trouble for quite awhile. It seemed that none of the food we ate digested properly, invariable after meals gas would form and we would experience severe pains and cramps in the pit of our stomach. We took a lot of medicine but just couldn't get to the point where we could eat what we wanted without suffering afterwards. My wife suffered terribly from gas, forming on her stomach and would have a full bloated-up feeling. I had a bad case of constipation.

"Argotane was advertised so highly we decided to try it. Well, we certainly are greatly improved in every respect since taking Argotane. We both, have a fine appetite now, and our food digests properly and we aren't bothered with cramping or pains afterwards. My wife isn't bothered with gas forming any more, in fact, it has done both of us more good than anything we have ever taken and we feel better than we have in several months. Argotane is a wonderful medicine and has been a great benefit to both of us.

GIGANTIC X-RAY TUBE WINS $1,000 PRIZE OFFERED BY SCIENTISTS FOR YEAR; USED FOR CANCER TREATMENT

BY RAYMOND A. BRUNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 7 — Measurement and artificial creation of radium rays in a 2,000,000-volt x-ray tube which are more penetrating than any heretofore produced and measured received the $1,000 award of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The $1,000 went to M. A. Tuve, L. R. Hafstad and C. Dahl of the department of terrestial magnetism, Carnegie Institution, Washington, for their paper read Wednesday before the American physical society here.

Can Produce More

The three scientists announced they were able to produce still more penetrating rays from a 5,000,000-volt tube, but no measurements of these had been taken. The rays from a tube having this voltage are equivalent to those given off by $182,000,000 worth of radium.

The new rays, which the three scientists measured, correspond to radium radiation having a short wave length. The radium rays, or gamma rays, are not confined to a single wave length but cover a wide band of differing lengths.

Used For Cancer

Rays previously obtained in laboratories may be compared with the red, yellow and green light in the visible spectrum. Using the same analogy, the new rays might be called the "ultra-violet" of radium. These gamma rays are the ones used for medical purposes in the treatment of cancer.

Radium also produces two other types of rays. One of these, the beta rays, consist of electrons traveling at almost the speed of light, which is 186,000 miles a second.

Beta rays are produced by the three scientists at Washington at a power nearer that of the real radium emanation than heretofore obtained.

Alpha Rays Objective

The other radium emanation consists of alpha rays, which are heavy nuclei of atoms shooting out into space at a velocity of 12,000 miles a second. These alpha rays have not yet been obtained, but they are the chief objective of this type of work.

The tube, when stood on end, is as long as a very tall man. It looks like a string of oversized baseballs made of hollow glass. Snuggling close to the tube in the tank is the tesla coil which is like the baton of a giant bandmaster, with a knob on each end. Around the tesla coil is a heavy coil of wire.

Hops Over To Tube

As the high voltage tesla coil produces the current it hops over to the x-ray tube.

Ordinary transformer oil surrounds the coil and the tube to prevent stray streaks of lightning from jumping where it shouldn't. To produce the very high voltage the oil is put under pressure by the same means that the fizz is put into soda pop bottles.

The tank has peep holes so the operators can look in. Powerful automobile headlights are submerged in the oil to throw light on the operations.

Penetrates Three Inches

The rays are measured by an apparatus which is surrounded by a shield of lead 6 inches thick. The rays from a 2,000,000 volt tube are strong enough to penetrate 3 inches of lead.

Extra precautions have been made in the laboratory to prevent the leakage of stray radiations which may be dangerous to the operators.

Do MOTOR BUSSES promote SAFETY?

In numerous ways.

1. By reducing the number of private carriers who are poorly equipped and irresponsible in many cases, thereby freezing the highways of surplus traffic and placing the hauling of passengers in the hands of men trained for the work and provided with first-class, safe equipment.

2. By exercising great caution in driving, both in town and out. Certain regulations of the Railroad Commission, which regulates motor busses, pertaining to safety must be obeyed if the companies are to retain their permit; and many companies have additional and more stringent rules for their drivers to promote safety in every way possible.
