Slowly, but surely, in contradiction of the polls, our purely local effort on behalf of year-round Daylight Saving Time is gaining strength.

Two allies have stepped forward this week, each confessing that he favored DST on a 12-month basis, but had felt the odds were simply too great to make it worthwhile to put up a fight.

"I like it," declared John Thomas.

This unexpected support gave us encouragement, and in less than 24 hours Sterling Parker advised that he also is a year-round DST fan.

So, with a minimum of three now lined up, we have enough to form an organization. You've got to have an organization to get anywhere these days, especially in any endeavor so fraught with politics as the DST issue.

This organization, however, may differ slightly from others that pursue similar goals. For example, we do not even suspect that DST opponents all wear horns and we do not question their ancestry. In fact, we do not care which college or professional athletic teams they support, or which church they attend. We only differ with them on the time of day. And we don't expect to lose much sleep over it, one way or the other. But we like that extra daylight toward the end of the day.

We have been advised that plans for the Omar Burleson Appreciation Day, scheduled for April 20 in the 17th District Congressman's home town—Anson—are moving along. The event will include a barbecue and the climax will come when a bronze bust of Congressman Burleson will be unveiled. Tickets to the barbecue are out now, and they dropped a few of them off here at the newspaper office and at KSNY for the convenience of any local citizens who plan to attend. They are available at $2.50 each. The steering committee arranging the event is headed by B.J. Gist of Abilene.

Congressman Burleson, whose 17th District includes Scurry County, is unopposed this year in his re-election bid.

The Republican Congressional Committee had a fast answer for a California woman who wanted to know why there aren't any Nixon postage stamps and demanded that some be printed in the immediate future.

The committee quickly informed her that the President is not eligible for such honors, "because the Postal Service does not issue commemorative stamps of prominent persons, and especially U.S. Presidents, until they are dead."—WACIL McNAIR.

Sunday Closing Of Stations May Be Halted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy chief William E. Simon announced today he is ordering gasoline distribution to insure that all states receive at least 85 per cent as much gasoline this month as they had two years ago.

Simon said, however, that states with better than normal supplies would not have their supplies reduced toward the 85 per cent average this month.

Any additional supplies required for some states will be drawn from gasoline inventories, Simon said.

Simon added, however, that beginning in April he would start equalizing the distribution, aiming for a spread of no more than 5 per cent above or below the national average in any individual state supply.

Simon also announced that he is considering eliminating the practice of closing gasoline stations on Sundays, which is still a voluntary measure requested by the Federal Energy Office.

He said the Sunday sales might be encouraged once more in recognition of the needs of the recreation and vacation industry as spring and summer approach.

And Simon offered the nation's governors a choice between assuming authority to allocate gasoline supplies within their states or leaving it up to the federal government.

Simon said Alaska, Kansas, Louisiana, Minnesota, North Carolina, Texas and Wyoming all will receive 100 per cent or more of their March 1972, gasoline supply levels this month.

"We will be carefully assessing the supply situation in such states," Simon warned. "In April no state will have an allocation fraction above a maximum of 95 per cent."

Simon said that before the adjustments which he is ordering for March, initial estimates showed wide differences in state supplies expected for this month.

More Gasoline Is Sought Here

Steps are being taken here to seek additional allocations of gasoline for Scurry County service stations who ran far short of demands during February.

At a meeting Wednesday attended by officials of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, the Scurry County Board of Development, dealers, distributors and priority users, action was initiated to seek emergency increases at Austin and then possibly to follow up with efforts for permanent increases at Washington.

Mickey Nunley, manager of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and consultant to the BCD, said that it had been determined that severe shortages were encountered by some retailers here during Feburary because of increased demands for oil production activities and for farming. Those engaged in such activities are at the top of the priority list and under current regulations are entitled to all of the fuel they need. However, in some cases, they had to drive extra mileage to get fuel toward the end of the month, Nunley said.

The group meeting here agreed to contact the West Central Texas Council of Governments to seek a survey here to pinpoint the problems, after which applications for additional fuel can be submitted.

Glenn Toombs, Borden County Judge, who was involved in a similar effort by the Permian Basin Planning Association on behalf of Midland and Odessa, met with the group and presented information on the procedure which resulted in a 4,000-gallon per station emergency allotment of gasoline for stations there. The state has authority to make such emergency allotments from a reserve supply earmarked for that purpose, it was explained. The Permian Basin group now has a delegation in Washington seeking permanent increases to their allotments.

Nunley said the group here wants to assure an adequate supply of fuel for oil production crews and farmers, and at the same time provide motorists with the amounts they are entitled to receive.

Depletion Allowance Faces Hatchet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation taxing away some of the petroleum industry's windfall profits during the energy crisis may also be killing the industry's oil depletion allowance.

As the House Ways and Means Committee headed toward its initial decision today on chief features of an energy tax reform package, it appeared the oil industry's 22 per cent depletion allowance was being prepared for the grave.

A drive to eventually wipe out the oil depletion allowance gained speed in the committee Wednesday. Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., the committee's senior GOP member, said the major remaining issue to be settled concerning a phase out of this provision involves the actual time schedule for doing it.

This allowance provides that 22 per cent of gross income from petroleum property can be deducted from taxable income up to half the taxable income net income. Industry spokesmen term it "a valid and valuable investment incentive." Critics in Congress call it a tax subsidy that "has failed in its purpose—to increase domestic resources."

The percentage depletion concept was adopted in 1926 when prior allowances proved tough to administer. It was kept through the years as an incentive for exploration for new reserves. In 1969, the percentage depletion rate for both foreign and domestic oil and gas wells was cut from 27½ per cent to the present 22 per cent.

Wednesday Schneebeli, and Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., advanced a concept that would bring a gradual wipe out by slicing away at the rate of 2 or 3 per cent each year so that the percentage depletion provision eventually would vanish after seven or eight years.

Rep. James C. Coman, D-Calif., said he favors a five-year phase out. The Schneebeli-Gibbons approach represents a simplifiaction of a major proposal presented by staff tax experts on the joint congressional taxation committee.

The experts recommended hiking petroleum industry taxes by calling for phased elimination of the depletion allowance as prices of oil rise above a specific base figure.

The Nixon administration has urged repeal of this allowance on production abroad—a step the committee is expected to approve. But the administration's top tax officials have argued against getting rid of the allowance for operations in the United States.

Schneebeli argued that major oil companies need a better idea of what to expect in the coming five to seven years, and he said that what the country wants is an end to the depletion feature.

Wholesale Rate Eases Slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices took another big leap forward in February but the increase fell short of soaring rates of previous months, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that wholesale prices jumped by a seasonally adjusted 1.2 per cent last month, the smallest advance in four months but a highly inflationary rate nevertheless.

The increase pushed wholesale prices 20.3 per cent higher than a year earlier, an extraordinarily sharp rise for any 12-month period but still below record levels.

The February increase lifted the Wholesale Price Index to 152.7 of the 1967 average, meaning that it cost $152.70 to buy the same volume of wholesale goods that $100 purchased in 1967. The increase means that consumers will be seeing many of the rises at the retail level in the weeks ahead.

About 70 per cent of the February increase was traced to price increases for fuel, primarily gasoline and residual fuels; metals, farm products and processed foods and feeds.

In January, wholesale prices rose by 3.1 per cent, the second highest monthly increase on record.

If wholesale prices went up at February's rate for an entire year, it would mean a sharp 14.4 per cent inflation rate at this key level.

The bureau said that price increases of industrial commodities, regarded as one of the most sensitive gauges of inflation in the economy, rose by a seasonally adjusted 1.3 per cent, with prices of metals and fuel leading the way.

Wholesale prices of farm products, processed foods and feeds rose seventh-tenths of one per cent compared with a steep 5.1 per cent in January. Actually, the bureau said that farm products alone showed a small decline on a seasonally adjusted basis, as prices of livestock, eggs, and plant and animal fibers fell.

The report said consumer finished goods advanced by 1.2 per cent, with higher prices for fresh vegetables, processed poultry, sugar, cereal and bread responsible for most of the rise.

Arab Session On Oil Policy Set Sunday

CAIRO (AP) — Arab oil ministers are scheduled to meet in Cairo on Sunday to review their policies, an Egyptian Oil Ministry spokesman said. The lifting of their oil embargo against the United States is expected to be the main topic.

"The meeting was scheduled to convene in Tripoli but "due to accommodation difficulties it has been switched to Cairo," the spokesman said. An industrial fair in Tripoli made the hotel situation difficult, he explained.

Egypt invited ministers to meet "to review oil policies. Our policy is based on adapting ourselves to changing circumstances," the spokesman said. He would not elaborate.

Egypt was expected to propose the embargo be lifted as a way of thanking the United States for helping to disenagge Egyptian and Israeli troops along the Suez Canal front.

Saudi Arabia and several Persian Gulf states were reported to have endorsed the Egyptian view. But it was not clear if the radical states such as Libya and Iraq would follow Cairo's recommendation.

President Nixon said Wednesday night United States diplomacy in the Middle East would inevitably influence the Arabs to end the embargo.

White House Aides Face Additional Indictments

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury today indicted former White House aides John D. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson on a charge of violating the civil rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Also indicted on the same charge were Watergate conspirators G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker, Eugenio R. Martinez and Felipe De Diego.

The indictment charged that the defendants broke into the Beverly Hills office of Dr. Lewis J. Fielding "with intent to search for confidential information concerning Daniel Ellsberg."

The burglary took place on Sept. 3, 1971, when Ellsberg was under indictment in connection with the leak of the Pentaon Papers.

The grand jury also indicted Liddy on two counts of refusing to testify before a House committee.

Liddy already is serving a sentence for contempt of court for his refusal to testify before a grand jury.

Liddy was sentenced to serve a maximum of 20 years for his role in the June 17, 1972 break-in at Democratic National Committee Headquarters.

Ehrlichman also was charged with one count of lying to FBI agents and three counts of lying to a grand jury about the activities of the White House special investigative unit known as the "plumbers."

The indictment alleged that on July 27, 1971 Egil Krogh Jr. and David R. Young Jr. sent a memorandum to Ehrlichman which discussed a request to prepare a psychiatric study on Ellsberg.

Krogh has pleaded guilty to a single charge of violating Fielding's civil rights and is serving a six-month sentence at a federal prison at Allenwood, Pa. Krogh agreed to cooperate with the prosecutors.

Kirchhoff Visits Here

Mary Kirchhoff of Plainview, who is seeking the Republican nomination for State Senator for the 30th District, was a visitor Wednesday in Snyder.

Mrs. Kirchhoff, a teacher in Plainview Public Schools, said that she had been granted a year's leave of absence and that she intended to campaign actively for the senate seat which is being vacated by Jack Hightower, a Democrat, from Vernon.

She noted that she had been in Snyder on numerous occasions, especially during her service on the Executive Board of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. She was the first woman ever elected to that board and she also was appointed the first chairman and organizer of the Women's Activities Committee of the WTCC.

Pregnant teen has nowhere to turn

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I hope to God you can help me. I am 16 years old and pregnant. I really can't understand how this happened. My boy friend promised he would be real careful.

I have got to find a place to go real quick, because there are four girls in our family, and my mom said if any of us ever got that way we may as well pack up and leave home.

My boy friend is joining the Navy and says he will come back and marry me if I wait until May, but I can't wait that long.

What I want you to tell me is where I can go to have my child? I'd like to keep it if possible and come back and finish school. I don't have five cents to my name, but I am willing to work like a horse as long as I can. Please help me.

ALL MESSED UP

DEAR ALL: There is a Booth Memorial Home near you. It's run by the Salvation Army, and a more kind and generous group of people would be hard to find. Tell them Abby sent you. May God bless you.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter was a young bride when her husband went overseas in the service. She wrote to him every day. She was lucky if she got a letter from him once every three weeks, and when he did write he said things like, "I am leaving my wedding ring in the drawer and am having myself a good time." She used to cry herself to sleep every night.

I said to her, "Don't be a fool. Don't write to him for three weeks. Then write that you decided to leave your wedding ring in the drawer, too, and you are also now having a good time. In the next letter, write and tell him you met a lovely man who is making you forget your loneliness."

Abby, it worked like a charm. Her husband started to write every day, asking her questions, and telling her how much he loved her.

Everything worked out just like I thought it would. By the time he got home, they were madly in love. I believe in fighting fire with fire.

MAMMA KNOWS BEST

DEAR MAMMA: Not all sick marriages respond to the same treatment. In your daughter's case, it worked. But usually when people fight fire with fire, they end up with ashes.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell the reading public that millions of otherwise perfectly normal people have a hearing loss and all they expect from their friends and relatives is a little consideration. Example: I have had people [on discovering that I wear a hearing aid] speak to me as tho I am mentally deficient and unable to comprehend normal language. Some even shout at me, amplifying the sound to such an excruciating pitch, I nearly faint from the thundering noise!

A few tips: Speak distinctly . . . don't mumble, but don't shout either. Don't everybody talk at once. If someone else is talking, wait until he has finished. When talking to one who has a hearing loss, talk TO him—not AT him, or around him.

And please remember—we are not stupid—only hard of hearing.

SAID MY SAY

DEAR SAID: Your "say" was well worth repeating. I'll pass it along.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Yearbook At WTC Due In Early May

The 1974 Trailblazer, Western Texas College yearbook, should be available to students, faculty, and staff in early May, according to Mike McBride, advisor., "All students with activity cards may purchase their books for only $2, while others with only ID cards may do the same for $4," McBride said.

"Based upon the wishes of student last years, this hardback annual was planned and produced, yet we have managed to keep the additional charge at a nominal figure. The book will feature 144 pages, covering the full spectrum of college life and activities," he said.

The staff plans to set up a table for evening students and part-time students one or two nights in the Student Center when the books arrive. "We want all people to have acess to it," he added.

For day and full-time students, books will be available through the registrar's office in the administration building.

Further details regarding distribution procedure will be made available in the near future, he concluded.

'Streakers' Reported In Snyder Area

There were reports of "Streakers" at Western Texas College last night but local law enforcement agencies didn't receive any calls about it.

Police Cheif Bill Stone said officers received an anonymous telephone call yesterday reporting there would be streakers at the Sonic Drive at 12:30 p.m. and at the Towle Park tennis courts at 9:30 p.m. Officers checked both places but the streakers failed to show.

A woman who prefers to remain unidentified told a local reporter that there were about 15 streakers at Western Texas College last night She said they were all male students and that they ran across the campus in three groups. The first group appeared about midnight, the second group at 12:30 a.m. and the last one about 1 a.m. About 175 students were on hand to see the streakers, it was reported.

Sheriff Keith Collier said he heard a report that there were a couple of Streakers at Rip Griffin's truck stop about 8 o'clock last night. They ran through the driveway and were picked up by a slow-moving blue Volkswagen, witnesses said.

No arrests were made.

GOP Solons Skeptical Of Nixon's New Offer

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has offered to give sworn testimony, in writing or in a White House interview, to speed the House impeachment inquiry. But some congressional Republicans questioned whether he would be open enough.

Nixon told a television-radio news conference Wednesday night he will surrender to the House Judiciary Committee all tapes and documents made available earlier to Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, besides making himself available for questions.

Although Nixon labeled his offer as "very forthcoming," he hedged at promising to provide other evidence the panel might seek. And he said it would be improper for him to submit to cross-examination.

Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, the House Republican leader, said it appears Nixon "has opted for disclosure and cooperation." But he said "every relevant fact and piece of evidence simply must be furnished to the Judiciary Committee if we are to have any hope of resolving this matter."

Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., wouldn't comment. But Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., said of a formal letter from Nixon lawyer James D. St. Clair, responding shortly before the news conference to a committee request for data:

"I don't think it's satisfactory. It doesn't appear to be responsive."

When Nixon outlined at the news conference his offer of at least limited cooperation, he declared, "I believe that that will serve the purpose." He expressed strong opposition to letting the committee go to the White House and "paw through it on a fishing expedition."

Continuing Watergate inquiries dominated the 39-minute session with newsmen, Nixon's second in nine days. But the seemingly relaxed President dealt with these other major topics:

—It would "not serve a useful purpose at this time" to discuss prospects for a lifting of the Arab oil embargo.

—In upholding his veto of emergency energy legislation Wednesday, the Senate "vetoed longer gas lines and vetoed nationwide rationing."

—Speaking perhaps a bit less positively than in the recent past, he said, "The best advice I can get is that there will not be a recession in 1974."

—Nixon opposes public financing of federal election campaigns, an idea with strong congressional support, because he regards individual giving as a healthy thing and because use of tax dollars to finance one party or the other would mean "taxation without representation" for citizens of opposing views.

The President appeared to break some new ground in discussing his taped March 21, 1972, meeting with ousted counsel John W. Dean III and former staff chief H.R. Haldeman.

Dean has testified that Nixon was informed then that it might take $1 million to ensure silence by those originally convicted of participation in the Watergate break-in, and that Nixon said raising the money would be no problem.

One More Wintry Blast Due

By The Associated Press

Texans had better enjoy the current spell of premature spring weather while they can, because forecasters warn that winter is preparing to loose at least one more blast into the state.

Temperatures went as high Wednesday afternoon as 91 degrees at Cotulla is the southwest part of the state—the warmest spot in the nation. Top marks elsewhere ranged down to 73 at Galveston.

Early today the spread was from 41 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle up to 73 at Corpus Christi and Victoria on the coast.

Official observers warned that's going to change by this weekend, however. Extended forecasts, covering the next five days, promised West Texas readings as low as the 30s by Saturday morning and the 20s to 30s the next two days, and temperatures as low as the 30s in parts of other sections by Monday.

A weak trough of low pressure from the Texas Panhandle into the southwest part of the state again separated two kinds of weather—cloudy over the east and southeast sections with warm and damp air flowing inland and drizzle or fog at a point or two near the coast, and clear and cooler weather on the west side.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

More and more readers of Weeders Guide have been requesting columns about organic gardening. This piece includes the reflections of an old acquaintance, Allan A. Swenson, author of a recent "Practical Book of Organic Gardening."

"Organic gardening," he says, "is the logical application of common sense toward improved soil productivity through the incorporation of organic matter into the soil.

"When the country was young," he reminds, "most people were farmers or they grew their food in homestead gardens. They had to contend with bugs and blights. Poor farmers depleted the soil; their yields declined.

"Good farmers and gardeners realized that high yields and continued productivity lay in maintaing soil fertility, building tilth and improving the soil's capacity to grow abundant crops. They rotated their crops, used natural manure effectively and replaced the nutrients needed to provide for the following year's crops."

Swenson holds that these basic principles are still sound, that millions of Americans are realizing that conservation, recycling and organic farming go together naturally.

Organic gardening means utilizing natural fertilizers and recycling what nature grows, through composting many things that will enrich your soil.

There is even hope, friend Swenson reminds, on suburban development land scraped of topsoil, leaving sand or clay soil. All you need is time, muscle, faith and patience and you can reclaim seemingly hopeless land.

Fresh Produce

Some time ago we read in Organic Gardening about a farm family that had fresh produce year round with the help of cellars built to hold fruits and vegetables, maple syrup, preserves and other items.

The cellar had a spring that flowed across a gravel floor. This helped maintain an equable temperature and moist air. The produce was stored in layers in piles of maple leaves. The leaves were gathered shortly after they fell, while still moist.

The organic farmer said his family ate crisp carrots, beets, onions, potatoes and apples up to the July following the past autumn harvest.

Other householders pack vegetables and fruit in sand.

The sand, one explained, keeps the apples from the air and checks evaporation or perspiration of the fruit, preserving them. Any moisture given off by the apples is absorbed by the sand, keeping the apples dry and preventing mustiness. The sand also acts as a preservative from frost and rots, he said.

Azalia Growth

Good growth is needed for good bloom of azaleas. These plants should be fertilized with special preparations designed for acid-liking plants. Fertilize early in spring if the plants are not blooming well. For those in bloom, fertilize promptly after blooms have faded.

Three new recommended varieties of strawberries for your garden are Marlate, Apollo and Redchief.

Governors See Nixon As Liability

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governors of both parties say the country would be better off if President Nixon is impeached or resigns because his personal problems are creating a crisis for the rest of the country.

Several of those attending the winter meeting of the National Governors Conference called outright Wednesday for Nixon's removal by one means or another, including for the first time a major figure in Nixon's own party.

Others said their problems of long gasoline lines, unemployment and angry voters are not going to be solved until the question of Nixon's future is settled.

Even Nixon's friends among the governors talked in the corridors of the convention hotel of a Watergate cloud over Washington that is making it difficult to face mushrooming emergencies.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts, a prominent Republican, led off the surprising barrage against Nixon by saying things would be better if Nixon leaves and Vice President Gerald R. Ford takes over.

"The necessity of going forward with impeachment is paramount and it should go forward," Sargent said. "The only way to solve the malaise and skepticism in this country is for this to be resolved.

"I don't think impeachment would upset the country," Sargent told newsmen at the conference. "And I don't agree with the suggestions that Vice President Ford wouldn't be up to the job.

Asked if this meant he thought the country would be better off with Ford as president, Sargent said, "Reluctantly, I would say yes."

Massachusetts was the only state in the nation in which Nixon failed to carry in the 1972 election.

Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, although a Democrat, recognized that Nixon carried 70 per cent of the vote in his state in 1972 but said he still was for Nixon's ouster by any means possible.

"I'm for impeachment if there is not a quicker way," Carter said in an interview. "However, impeachment would bring out the facts while resignation would not.

"I have great respect for the office of the presidency," Carter said. "That's why I'm so disgusted with the way Nixon has disgraced it."

Republicans Daniel J. Evans of Washington and William G. Milliken of Michigan both said impeachment procedures should move forward so the country can learn the whole story of Nixon's possible involvement in the Watergate scandals and clear it up once and for all.

Evans, national chairman of the governors, and Milliken said it would be a mistake for Nixon to resign.

"Some feel it would be more comfortable and a little easier if he were to resign," Evans told a news conference. But he said this would "solve very little" and leave many doubts.

"I think it's important that we have the facts," Milliken said.

FRED MACMURRAY won't accept the invite to guest on JOHNNY CARSON's show. No way! But there's nothing personal in the turn-down. Fred, after 40 years in the business, admits he is still scared stiff about doing live performances. That's why he's never starred on the legitimate stage, why he sends regrets to benefit invitations, and why, if he finds there are visitors on a studio set where he's filming, he's likely to freeze and blow his lines. It's also the reason he won't do any of the TV talk programs. Even the prestigious "Tonight" show.

LIZ TAYLOR, RICHARD BURTON and BURT REYNOLDS will host the Academy Awards...

JACK BENNY dined at Ruby's and mentioned his insurance company: "I won't tell you how much I'm insured for—but when I go, they go!"

REDD FOXX, the star of "Sanford and Son", is ill; and the show's producers do not know whether he will be able to appear again. Doctors have diagnosed his illness as a nervous condition resulting from overwork. They have advised the actor to leave the country for an indefinite period for rest.

CAROL CHANNING and producer DAVID MERRICK had dinner at Reidy's to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the opening of "Hello Dolly". Carol recountered that Merrick offered her the show and she said, "Only if GOWER CHAMPION directs it." Merrick eventually signed Champion to direct and the first thing he told Merrick was that Carol wasn't right for the part. That's show biz!

Rumors in Washington are the next president of the U.S., if he isn't careful, will be "Scoop" JACKSON, who will wish he was still delivering papers instead of being in the papers.

Hefty comedienne TOTIE FIELDS notes she and LIZ TAYLOR have the same measurements: "I discovered we're both a perfect size 9—but hers is in dresses and mine is in shoes."

JOE LEVINE, producer of "Day of the Dolphin," just got a silver desk clock from DUSTIN HOFFMAN, who starred in his hit "The Graduate": the clock's engraved with a friendly—but unprintable—greeting.

Speaking of the picture "Day of the Dolphin", there is a big campaign with lots of ads planned by the film company to win an oscar for GEORGE C. SCOTT. You can bet he doesn't have anything to do with it.

BURT REYNOLD's gift to DINAH SHORE was a Maserati; now she's having a garage built for it.

DICK CAVETT told me over lunch, "I had a succession of jobs before I landed my current show on ABC: I started out as a talk show host and then tapered off."

PHYLLIS DILLER says a panhandler told her, "You're beautiful—can I have a dime for coffee?" "So," says Phyllis, "I gave him $5.10—a dime for coffee, and $5 for a pair of glasses."

Motown Records is completing a BOBBY DARIN memorial album...

PAUL NEWMAN, leaving a recent concert of BLOSSOM DEARIE's, explained to fans he doesn't sign autographs. He added, "Be assured, I love you all".

DEBBIE REYNOLDS is talking about buying her own theater on Broadway...one in the Minskoff complex that never opened-as her own "showcase"

Television, says ED SULLIVAN, is the device that brings people into your living room you wouldn't invite into your living room.

XAVIER CUGAT once advised an aspiring bandleader, "To have a successful orchestra, take some very talented musicians-and hide behind the sexiest girl singer you can find."

JERRY LEWIS, now the head of a mini-cinema company, works as hard as he ever did: "If you sit around your swimming pool long enough, doing nothing, you'll wake up one morning and it won't be there."

French prez GEORGES POMPIDOU may proclaim my old friend MAURICE CHEVALIER's home a national museum.

The new magazine Women Sports, being started by BILLIE JEAN KING, won't completely ignore the male sex. It will run a male guest-column entitled, "In a Pig's Eye." I wonder if she will have BOBBY RIGGS as a centerfold?

Anyone want to buy JIMMY STEWART's old house? He has placed his 1,175-acre layout in California's Santa Ynez Valley on the market for $1.5 million.

JACK CARTER notes that things have been pretty slow in Hollywood: "On Tuesdays my agent calls to wish me a happy weekend."

ALAN KING suggest NIXON call on exorcist to drive demons out of White House tape-recording system.

DYAN CANNON's gossiping—tells the tale of her thrifty transient married life—that CARY GRANT washed his own shorts and hung 'em out to dry—during the honeymoon.

With the price of postage going up again, now the stamps are giving us a licking.

Candidates Encounter Red Tape

AUSTIN (AP) — The deadline for statewide and local officials and candidates to file their 1973 financial statements fell with some of them still struggling with the 15-page form.

A spokesman said anyone sending in a financial statement postmarked before 5 p.m. Wednesday met the deadline. There also were provisions for extension of the filing time for adequate reasons.

Atty. Gen. John Hill was one of those asking a brief extension time. He said he had to go to a funeral in Houston Wednesday and was unable to get the last few details worked out in time.

Frances Farenthold, a Democratic candidate for governor, filed the financial report form but said she had not yet received her 1973 statement of liabilities and assets from her accountants. She filed a 1972 statement showing the estimated net worth of her and her husband, George E. Farenthold of Houston, as $314,684. She said her income came from law practice, lecturing and writing and said she held less than 100 shares of stocks.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong filed a statement showing his estimated net worth as $453,721. He said his present real estate holdings include an 86-acre farm in Williamson County and a 322-acre ranch in northwest Travis County. He recently bought another 300 acres adjoining the ranch which will show on the 1974 report, he said.

Average Motorist Has Twice As Much In Tank

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Writer

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The average motorist now keeps twice as much gasoline in his tank as he did before the fuel shortage, an industry researcher says.

Since January, motorists have been carrying an average of 9.5 gallons of gasoline in their tanks, up from 4.6 gallons before the shortage, the researcher says.

"When you figure there are 91 million passenger vehicles in use, that means an additional half billion gallons of gasoline has been taken out of service station tanks," said Dan Lundberg of Lundberg Survey, Inc.

The Federal Energy Office has blamed part of the gasoline shortage on panic buying by motorists who constantly top off their tanks out of concern they won't be able to get more. This, in effect, puts more gasoline than normal into storage, the FEO says.

Lundberg runs a statistical service and publishes a $400-a-year newsletter which is sold primarily to the oil industry. Oil firms say his figures are usually accurate.

In an interview, Lundberg said the average car holds about 17.1 gallons of gasoline and that his firm has noted 96 out of every 100 sales are fill-ups. Two years ago it was 71 of every 100. At the same time, the average sale in 1974 has been only 4.1 gallons, against seven gallons two years ago.

"That means there's hardly any room in the gas tank when people ask for a fill-up," he said.

Lundberg said his figures on fill-ups come from researchers who watch a random sampling of pumps at service stations in major cities during a prescribed period each week to determine the buying habits of motorists.

James Naismith, a young Canadian-born teacher, looking for something more exciting than calisthenics to help football players stay in shape through the winter, invented basketball in 1892.

Investors Speculate On Wall Street Objectives

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Biding their time while public and private securities officials try to put the Humpty-Dumpty stock markets together again, America's individual investors are inclined to muse:

Is the New York Stock Exchange really fighting for the survival of the small investor? Or, in its congressional testimony and speeches and other activities, is it fighting for its own survival?

The choices aren't necessarily alternatives; they are not mutually exclusive. The exchange, in fact, would like you to believe they are part of the same goal, and has skillfully joined its interest with those of the public.

Basic to its strategy for a central securities market, for example, is the premise that a stock market, no matter how well run, cannot function properly without the random buying and selling of individuals.

And so, those individual investors who have been driven from the markets by fear of institutional whipsawing of prices, inefficiencies, scandals, lack of confidence and the like, might listen as they wait.

The answer might never be discerned but the exercise need not be in vain.

To begin with, James Needham, New York Stock Exchange chairman, beleves the small investor isn't returning to the market for a while. He feels, in fact, that the investor population is likely to decline for an unspecified period.

He concedes that the securities markets and the people who operate them have lost credibility, and he maintains that the exchanges' recommendations for rebuilding the markets are an effort also at rebuilding believability. But there are other factors too.

"What will get him back?" he was asked.

"A better economic climate," he replied. "Lower interest rates and more certainty in international and Washington affairs.

A better taxing situation would contribute, Needham believes. He advocates a maximum capital gains tax of 25 per cent as an incentive to investors. The maximum was raised to 35 per cent in 1969.

Ever since, Needham insists, the individual investor has been at a disadvantage. "We say 25 per cent with a sliding scale." The tax bite would decline with the length of time the stock was held.

"Would lower commissions help?"

A year from now brokers will be charging negotiated, or competitive rather than fixed rates, as they do now. Some government and private analysts believe this will mean lower charges to individuals. Needham disagrees.

"Competition will increase the cost to the individual investor," he said flatly.

"Even when investors will be able to pick and choose the specific service they want from the broker rather than taking the entire bundle of services, including research and advice?"

"Unbundling is a myth," he stated. "There isn't that much to unbundle. Research is only 3 to 5 per cent of the total commission dollar." Nevertheless, he feels, competitive rates are inevitable — fixed rates are out.

"I have mixed emotions about it," He said, but "in order to continue with fixed rates we would have to become like a utility. And securities people are traders, swingers. They like to move quickly. A utility-type regulation wouldn't fit the personality."

"What is your opinion about commercial banks selling stocks?"

"I like the fact that they are taking small investors into the market. I applaud Chase Manhattan and other banks for this. But on the other hand I deplore the breaking down of Glass-Steagall." That act, it was once believed, prevented banks from aggressively selling stocks.

"I think there will be a suit. I don't see how the Investment Company Institute (mutual fund spokesman) can avoid it. The issue is not one of reliability, of whether banks are better or worse than brokers.

"It is a public policy issue. Is it desirable? We think Glass-Steaall ought to be reviewed. I'm a populist. Bigness doesn't frighten me but financial concentration does."

Causes Of Streaking Examined

By The Associated Press

What is there about today's students that leads them to undress and romp in the nude across campuses, stages, basketball courts and other public places?

Those practitioners of "streaking" who've slowed down enough to be quoted say it's the fun and excitement. Cheap thrills.

"Those I've talked to say it's a thrill all right, but I wouldn't call it cheap," says Dr. Shelly Duval, a member of the University of Southern California psychology department.

"It would seem that streakers are violating a fairly strong set of norms for sure, and that can always be exciting if you get away with it. As far as I can see it's harmless," he said.

Dr. Zev Wanderer, a 41-year-old psychologist who directs the Center for Behavior Therapy in Beverly Hills, Calif., says part of the reason for the success of streaking is that it is self-assertive activity.

"In a generation where the way to be impactful is to be either a music star or very talented or a thief, an alternative for the student is to run around naked," he said. "It's a relatively easy way to gain fame and notoriety."

But Wanderer says educators should not just laugh it off.

"I think it's significant that this is taking place in colleges because by the time our kids reach that level they've had it with very regimented, conformist school systems," Wanderer said.

"It's a message to the schools that these kids ought to be in alternative open schools where kids can be themselves without having to run around naked."

Robert Ardrey, an evolutionary behaviorist from Rome, explains the fad as a fulfillment of one of man's basic needs.

"In today's affluent society and welfare state, the need for security has largely been satisfied, so boredom sets in," he told an audience at a junior college in Fort Worth, Tex. "Its opposite is stimulation."

William Boldeson, a philosophy professor at the University of Missouri, said streaking is just a form of the rites of spring and is as old as the Greeks.

"It's just innocent exuberance," Boldeson said. "One good blizzard and the whole thing will come to an end."

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE LINDEN TREE

QUESTION: Can you tell me about the linden tree?

• • •

ANSWER: Linden is the name of a group of trees of the tiliaceae family found in many parts of the world. It is also called Lime tree or Basswood. The fibre or bast of the wood has long been used to make ropes.

The linden is a handsome, stately shade tree valued for ornament and fragrance. The flowers produce a rich nectar which is attractive to bees and yields a superior honey. The hum of bees and the pleasant honey odor of the blossoms add to its charm.

The linden has been used extensively as a street tree. They produce uniformity along avenues and driveways. Many towns and cities have a Linden Street. One of the most famous streets in the world is Berlin's Unter den Linden (under the Lindens).

The wood of the linden is clean, white, fine grained, odorless and unsplintery. It glues well and steams and bends easily. It is used in cabinet work, toys, baskets and venetian blinds. The inner bark is used for caning and wicker work.

Jayhawks Nip Kansas State For Big 8 Title

By ROBERT MOORE
AP Sports Writer

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — A sign in the overflow crowd of 17,200 read: "KU No. 1 in: Streaking, basketball fans."

The University of Kansas may or may not be No. 1 in streaking — the new college fad of running here, there and anywhere naked — but there was no doubt today that the Jayhawks were No. 1 in Big Eight Conference basketball.

No. 15 Kansas penetrated Kansas State's awesome zone defense and streaked past the Wildcats 60-55 Wednesday to clinch the Big Eight championship.

The ringleader was Rick Suttle, a super sub who picked the Jayhawks up by the bootstraps and, along with Dale Greenlee, shot them to the title and into the National Collegiate Athletic Association championships later this month at Tulsa, Okla.

Kansas, 12-1 in the conference and 20-5 over-all, actually won the game by coming out of a 2-1-2 zone defense and by inserting the intimidating Suttle for Danny Knight at the pivot post.

K-State, 11-3 and 19-7, pulled to within four points three times during the second half, the last with 12:20 to go, but Suttle and Greenlee were too much. Together, they made 20 of the Jayhawks' 28 second half points.

Another factor in the victory was Tom Kivisto, who held Lon Kruger, K-State's brilliant guard, to a mere 10 points. Suttle finished with 17 points and Greenlee 16. Larry Williams made 21 for K-State.

In other major college games, Massachusetts defeated New Hampshire 83-58, Oklahoma defeated Iowa State 88-70, and St. Francis of Pennsylvania defeated Georgetown 78-62.

Massachusetts, bound for the National Invitation Tournament, got 22 points from Peter Trow to wind up its Yankee Conference season in first place with an 11-1 record, 21-4 overall.

Alvan Adams scored 28 points, and the Sooners shot a sizzling 64 per cent from the field in their Big Eight Conference victory over Iowa State.

In NAIA playoffs, District 3, Azuza Pacific beat Whittier 75-70; District 6, Erskine defeated Newberry 64-61; District 10, Washburn beat Marymount 61-56 in overtime; District 12, Huron, S.D., edged Western Montana 76-71; District 13, St. Thomas, Minn., beat Winona, Minn., 63-53; District 14, Wis.-Eau Clair beat Wis.-Whitewater 70-63; District 15, Wartburg drubbed William Penn 79-61; District 16, Missouri Western defeated S.W. Baptist 94-82; District 18, Indiana, Pa., downed Edinboro 78-65.

District 19, Millersville beat Delaware State 84-78; District 20, Augustana defeated McKendree 94-66; District 21, Hanover beat Tri-State 86-59; District 22, Defiance downed Malone 69-57; District 25, West Georgia defeated North Georgia 77-67; District 26, Gardner Webb beat J.C. Johnson 95-84; District 29, Virginia State got by Pembroke State 76-73, and District 30, Northwestern Louisiana beat Xavier of New Orleans 78-69.

Mustangs Lure Green Away From Oklahoma

By The Associated Press

Oklahoma was the big loser Wednesday on the national signing date for schoolboy football prospects with North Texas State, Southern Methodist, Baylor, Arkansas and Texas Tech raking in some blue chips.

SMU signed 260-pound noseguard Jimmy Green of Waco Richfield, taking him away from Oklahoma, Texas Southern and Tyler Junior College.

Mustang Coach Dave Smith said "We're excited to get Green ... he's an excellent prospect."

Tyler JC Coach Billy Wayne Andrews told the AP in February that Green had scholastic problems.

"I was told that even if he made straight A's his last term, he wouldn't be eligible for a senior college," Andrews said.

Andrews thought Green was going to Oklahoma at the time.

Andrews said he didn't think Green could play for Oklahoma because "if everything is done legally, he'll have to go to a junior college."

David Smith, a highly sought lineman from Beaumont Charlton Pollard who had signed with SMU and Oklahoma, decided to go to North Texas State. Coach Hayden Fry also signed Ken Washington of Port Arthur Lincoln, the brother of Oklahoma running back Joe Washington.

Ron Burns, a 6-foot-3, 192-pound blue chip defensive back from Arlington Sam Houston High School, went to Coach Grant Teaff's Baylor Bears, spurning the hard-courting Sooners.

"Burns is an excellent prospect—the kind you can really build a program with," Teaff said.

Baylor also signed outstanding lineman Robert Ingram of Clear Lake who had caught Alabama's eye.

Running back Jerry Eckwood, The AP's High School Player of the Year in Arkansas in 1973, signed with the University of Arkansas. He had earlier signed a non-binding letter of intent with Memphis State University. Oklahoma also had a chance with Eckwood.

About speculation Arkansas plans to run from the Wishbone next fall, Eckwood said he liked the idea.

Asked if he thought he could start as a freshman, he said "If I get out there and do my thing, I think I can play."

Arkansas also signed quarterback Jim Fryrear of Nevada, Mo., an all-state selection.

Kim Taliferro, a schoolboy All-America center from Clovis, N.M., signed with Texas Tech. He was chosen the outstanding lineman in New Mexico last year.

Judge Gives Spurs Gervin

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Federal Judge Adrian Spears has issued a permanent injunction that keeps former Virginia Squires' star George Gervin in the camp of the San Antonio Spurs of the American Basketball Association.

The injunction, made permanent by Spears Wednesday, prevents ABA commissioner Mike Storen, the ABA and Virginia from "committing any act that causes or allows George Gervin to play basketball on behalf of any American Basketball Association franchise other than" the Spurs.

San Antonio paid $225,000 for Gervin's services early in January. The contract stipulated that Gervin be sent to the Spurs on Jan. 31. Storen blocked the sale and went to court with the Squires when the Spurs filed a suit on Feb. 4.

Eloy Benitez Fights Tonight

FORT WORTH (AP) — Two time welterweight champion Eloy Benitez of Amarillo heads a field of 120 amateur boxers who will begin the state Golden Gloves tournament tonight.

Benitez is one of three defending champions in the field of the 38th annual tournament. The others are light middleweight Ray Phillips and light-heavyweight Ronnie Walters, both of Fort Worth.

Two other 1973 champions who were to weigh in this morning are light middleweight Johnny Johnson of Wichita Falls and featherweight James Cleveland of Odessa. Both have lost weight since last year. Johnson stepping down from the middleweight division and Cleveland dropping two notches to the featherweight class.

As many as a dozen heavyweights may seek the crown vacated by Houston's Barry Yeats, who went on to finish second in the national tournament.

Top prospects include Odessa's Paul Dubbs and Temple's Gene Vivero. Dubbs lost to Yeats in the finals last year and Vivero was runnerup in 1971 while representing Dallas.

Fort Worth won the team championship last year. The tournament will end Monday night.

Champions will advance to the nationals beginning March 25 in Denver, Colo.

Eagles Hand Tigers First Loss, 8-3

ABILENE—The Abilene Eagles erupted for seven runs in the 4th inning to overcome a 3-0 deficit and went on to hand the Snyder High School baseball team its first loss of the season here Wednesday afternoon.

The Tigers took a 2-0 lead in the top of the 1st inning. Ralph Lewis doubled and scored on another two-bagger by Doak Witherspoon. Witherspoon came in on a line single to centerfield by Robert Braziel.

Snyder added one run in the 4th. Richard Tovar singled and moved to third on a passed ball and a wild pitch, then scored on a squeeze bunt by Nicky Neves.

Abilene began its rally with a walk to shortstop Monte Harris and triple to centerfield by Rusty McLeskey. McLeskey scored on an error at short that let Ronnie Maynard on first. Bill Willis reached first on another error as Maynard came in with the tying run. Up stepped Bill Stover, and he put down a perfect bunt. The throw to first was wild and Willis scored on the play. Allen Mayhall then doubled in Stover and scored himself on a single by Brad Mann. The outfielder let Mann's drive get through him and Mann scored.

The Eagles tacked on a final run in the 5th when Willis singled, advanced on a walk, and scored on another single by Mayhall.

The Eagles' Paul Ogden won his second game of the season, limiting the Tigers to six hits. Robert Braziel was the losing pitcher.

The Tigers meet Seminole at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Seminole, then return to Towle Park for a 4 p.m. engagement Friday against Monahans. Snyder also hosts Monahans in a doubleheader beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Westerners, Hill County Vie Today

Two evenly matched teams will collide at 4 o'clock this afternoon when The Western Texas College Westerners take on Hill County Junior College in the Brownwood Coliseum in the first round of the Region V Junior College Basketball Tournament.

Both teams have similar records. The Westerns are 21-9 for the season while Hill County is 22-10. Both teams seemed to reach their peak near the end of the campaign. The Westerners had a nine-game winning streak going for them before they lost the final regular season contest to Odessa Junior College. Hill County, beefed up by the return of a couple of outstanding players at midterm, won 13 of their last 14 contests.

Coach Mike Mitchell of the Westerns said he doesn't know who will start for the Hillsboro crew, but said they will provide formidable opposition. The Westerners have had six good workouts since the season ended.

The Westerners have good height and can score inside with center Norman Barnes, 6-8 freshman from Richmond, Va. and forwards Harold Ward, 6-6 sophomore form Passaic, N. J., and Eugene Harris, 6-7 freshman from Hattiesburg, Miss. Ward has been bothered by a sore shoulder, but Coach Mitchell feels he will be ready to start today. WTC also has outside potential in guards Danny McDaniel, 6-2 sophomore from Little Rock, Ark., and Ken Fowler, 6-2 freshman from Austin.

The Westerners have had good success with a pressing defense this season, forcing the opposition into numerous turnevers. McDaniel consistently hits in double figures. He set a new school scoring record this season, tallying 673 points. Ward also is a good scorer. He tied a school record by scoring 38 against Amarillo. Harris is good both offensively and defensively. He blocked 48 shots this season.

There are several other top-notch pairning on tap in the first round. Amarillo was to meet Odessa in the tourney opener at 3 p.m. Howard goes against Weatherford Junior College at 7 p.m., and Clarendon meets defending champion McLennan County at 9 p.m.

The Westerns have several other capable lads ready for reserve action. They include Jerry Brooks, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Snyder; Brain Minor, 6-5 freshman forward from Richmond, Va.; Kent Horsley, 6-8 sophomore center from Snyder; Greg Hill, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Midland, Pa.; Gary Brooks, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Snyder; Luis Blanco, 5-11 sophomore guard from Ft. Stockton; Kevin Jones, 6-5 freshman forward from Snyder; and, Eric Grant, 5-10 sophomore guard from Hondo.

Has Derby Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — Trainer Johnny Campo says he will use "the New York route" in hopes of getting Elmendorf Farm's Protagonist ready for the 1974 Kentucky Derby in May. Protagonist was voted the 2-year-old champion thoroughbred for 1973.

"Right now," says Campo, "we don't want to rush him in Florida. He needs time to mature. So I'm looking ahead to New York races before the Derby." The first major New York test for 3-year-olds is the six-furlong Swift Stakes at Aqueduct.

Professors Say Recession Here

By PAUL CARPENTER
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The United States is already in a recession that will continue through the first six months of this year, says the prestigious Wharton School.

A team of professors at Wharton — the University of Pennsylvania's college of finance — released a quarterly forecast Wednesday saying that fuel shortages have helped turn "an economic slowdown" into "an outright recession."

Despite President Nixon's assurances to the contrary Wednesday night, the Wharton report said several indicators clearly show the nation is in a recession. The President referred to the Wharton report in his televised news conference, but said he did not agree the nation was in a recession, nor was it headed for one.

"We feel strongly that we are in a recession, and I think most economists would agree with that," said Dr. George R. Green, head of the Wharton team, following the President's comments.

The report included four gloomy forecasts:

—A decline of about three per cent in the real gross national product (the GNP in noninflated dollars) in the first half of 1974.

—Increasing unemployment to nearly six per cent by mid-1974.

—Reduced corporate profit levels.

—A decline in the rate of the use of industrial capacity.

"The definition of a recession involves several facets," Green said. "A decline of three per cent in the real GNP for two or more quarters would certainly qualify, as would any decline that is sustained for six months."

He said an economic situation could also be considered a recession when there is "an increase in the unemployment rate to over six per cent, or if there is a decline in corporate profits.

"Any fall in corporate profits is a pretty good indication that things are not going too well — and we expect a five per cent drop for 1974," Green said.

The Wharton report says "inflationary forces have mounted to levels far higher than anything we have seen in the past 25 years."

An inflation rate of nearly nine per cent for total production is expected for the first two quarters of 1974, while overall consumer prices will rise at an annual rate of 12 per cent, says the report.

Reward Is Offered On Balloonist

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $10,000 reward has been offered for information leading to the safe recovery of missing balloonist Thomas Gatch Jr.

The adventurer's two sisters put up the reward Tuesday to spur further efforts in the search for Gatch, a 46-year-old bachelor from Alexandria, Va.

Gatch was trying to become the first man to cross the Atlantic Ocean in a balloon. He was last seen Feb. 21 by a Liberian ship about 1,200 miles west-southwest of the Canary Islands.

Offering the reward are Gatch's sisters, Eleanor Armstrong Hoaglan and Nancy Gatch Svien, both of Rochester, Minn.

Persons with information on Gatch who wish to qualify for the reward must submit their claims in writing to the Washington law firm of Sachs, Greenbaum and Tayler, according to a spokesman for the balloonist.

Meanwhile, the flight control centgr in Las Palsas, Canary Islands, said Tuesday it was constantly tuned in to Gatch's emergency radio freqency but had heard nothing in 11 days.

Farah Contract Is Up For Vote

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Farah Manufacturing Co. employes here and in San Antonio vote tonight on a contract agreement announced Wednesday by negotiators for the company and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (ACWA).

The ACWA led a national boycott of Farah products during the past two years in a bitter battle over the union's right to represent Farah workers.

Employes at San Antonio lost their jobs several months ago when Farah closed its plant there because of a reduction in sales caused by the boycott.

Several religious and private groups supported the boycott.

However, Farah announced two weeks ago that the company would reopen the San Antonio plants following the lifting of the boycott against the men's and boys' apparel made by Farah.

Farah agreed to recognize the ACWA as the bargaining agent for its employes when the boycott settlement was made. Then negotiations on the contract began.

A union spokesman said contract negotiations proceeded continuously during the past week.

El Paso workers are to meet at 4:30 p.m. today at one of the West Texas plants while San Antonio workers planned to gather at the Sacred Heart Center in San Antonio.

Nearly 2,000 workers precipitated the labor struggle in May 1972 when they walked off their jobs in protest of the dismissal of a group of workers allegedly for engaging in pro-union activities.

ACWA officials have been trying to organize Farah employes since 1970 when it won an election in the cutting room of a Farah plant here.

Farah appealed those election results, calling for a plant-wide election in its place.

Willie Farah, company president, argued his workers were satisfied and his company offered fringe benefits not offered by similar businesses.

Farah acknowledged two weeks ago, when the agreement to begin contract negotiations was announced, that the ACWA had enough pledge cards to be the official workers' representative.

Douglas Deplores Secrecy

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas says people would not sleep well if they knew what is developing under what he called the government's cloak of secrecy.

He urged involvement in government to break down the secrecy and solve the nation's problems.

Associate Justice Douglas made the remarks Wednesday night at Texas Tech University in Lubbock. After earlier not delivering his speech in Austin where television and radio crews were present.

Douglas cited behind the scenes observations of operations of the CIA and the development of nuclear power as examples of secrecy working against the country.

The Pentagon Papers should have been released long before they were, he said, "There wasn't a bloody thing in those documents I didn't know.

"And I'm not a spy," he added.

The Supreme Court justice cited lost notes during an appearance at the University of Texas Tuesday for not delivering his intended talk and opened his session to television cameras and microphones.

His speaking contract had called for no press, radio or television interviews and no recording, taping, broadcasting or publication of the lecture.

But an Austin television station (KVEU) challenged the contract and obtained a temporary restraining order claiming the contract violated constitutional rights of freedom of the press guaranteed by the federal and state constitutions.

At the University of Texas speech, Douglas said if he had not lost his speech notes, he would have talked in Austin on the "downward spiral of our society and some of the things the younger generation might do to rectify the situation."

Gasoline Cut By 2 Firms Is Questioned

DALLAS (AP) — Texas Service Station Association (TSSA) officials are asking for an explanation of why March gasoline allocations to Texaco and Shell dealers will be cut although company supplies show no reduction is necessary.

TSSA managing director Bill Ligon said Texaco dealers received 77 per cent of their allocations in February and were cut to 71 per cent this month.

Shell reduced its dealers from 85 per cent allocations in February to 70 per cent this month, he said.

He said Shell's announcement of gasoline availability means a "cut of 2 per cent in availability, but a reduction of 15 per cent in what the dealer will receive."

Shell said it had 560 million gallons available for Texas in February and 550 million gallons for March. Ligon said Texaco announced it will have an extra 25 million gallons in March.

Ligon said he asked James Rose, special assistant to Gov. Dolph Briscoe, for an explanation.

Ligon and Delbert M. Fowler, regional director of the Federal Energy Office, met with Dallas area dealers Tuesday to discuss gasoline supplies.

PLAN PANCAKE SUPPER—The Snyder Noon Kiwanis Club will hold a pancake supper from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday in the West Elementary school cafeteria. Discbssing plans for the event are, from left to right, E. T. (Pat) Patterson president of the Noon Kiwanis Club; Harry Dietz, ticket salvs chairman; and, Bobby Beard, general chairman. Tickets can be be purchased from any member of the Club or at the door Friday night.

Kiwanis Plans For Pancake Supper

The Snyder Noon Kiwanis Club discussed plans for its annual pancake supper during its regular luncheon meeting held Wednesday at the American Restaurant.

Bobby Beard, general chairman, Harry Dietz, ticket sales chariman, and Charles Ketchum, food chariman, all discussed plans for the pancake supper. It will be held from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday at the West Elementary school cafeteria. In previous years, it was held at the high school cafeteria, but the site was changed to west Elementary this year due to construction work being done at the high school. Tickets cost $1.25 each and can be obtained from any Club member or at the door Friday night.

Arel Faver discussed the Interstate 27 Highway project which has been designated from Amarillo to Lubbock. There are plans to extend the highway south to Snyder and thence to Austin. Another proposal is to extend the highway south to Lamesa and San Angelo and thence to San Antonio.

Faver said people in Houston and Austin favor routing the highway through Snyder and to Austin. The Noon Kiwanis Club passed a resolution stating they are in favor of the extention through Snyder and to Austin. The motion for the resolution was made by Sam Kitching and seconded by Doug Flynn.

Jim Tully inducted two new members, Troy D. Williamson, and Bill Lyon, into the Noon Kiwanis Club. E.T. (Pat) Patterson, club president, presided over the meeting.

Guests included Glenn Toombs, county judge of Borden County; Rev. John Gaston of Snyder, and Rev. Jack Riley, former member from Russelville, Ark.

GM Announces Two-Week Layoff

GM said full employment would be restored March 25.

Two Senators Uphold Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both U.S. senators from Texas—John Tower, the Republicans, and Lloyd Bentsen Jr., the Democrat—voted Wednesday to uphold Prssident Nixon's veto of the Energy Bill.

The Senate vote to override was 58-40. A two-third majority is necessary to overrride a veto.

Tower and Bentsen also voted together—with the majority—as the Senate adopted an amendment killing a pay raise for members of Congress, federal judges and government executives. The Senate vote was 69-28.

The two senators from Texas split their vote as the Senate invoked cloture and shut off debate on the pay raise bill.

Bentsen voted for cloture. Tower voted against shutting off debate.

Basin Delegation Asks For Additional Gasoline

WASHINGTON (AP) — John T. Sawhill, deputy chief of the Federal Energy Office, promised a Texas delegation from the Permian Basin area that he would look into their gasoline shortage after the Texans presented him with facts and figures.

The delegation which met with Sawhill Wednesday told him that oil field workers, most of whom live miles from their jobs, don't have enough gasoline to drive to the wells.

Among those attending the meeting were Mayor Ernest Angelo of Midland, Mayor Jim Reese of Odessa, members of the two cities' councils and the two city managers.

The Permian Basin, stretching across a wide swath of Texas and New Mexico, produces much of the nation's petroleum.

Win Skiles, an aide to Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said the gasoline allocation for 1974 was about 70 per cent of that during the base year of 1972. But, said Skiles, "With the increase of the price of crude oil, drilling activity in the Permian Basin has increased by 75 per cent of 1972."

"As a result," the aide continued, "you've got people who work on the rigs needing gasoline to get out there (into the oil fields) and there wasn't enough."

The two mayors complained in February to Tower's office that "60 per cent of the gas stations in Odessa were closed and it was forcing a cutback in production because the roughnecks couldn't get to the wells to work." Roughnecks are oil field workers.

Both cities received an emergency allocation at February's end, but they were unable to win a guarantee from the state that extra fuel would be available at the end of this month.

It was Skiles who said Sawhill made the promise to "look into" the shortage.

"Hopefully," he added, "we can get some indication on whether the allocation can be increased for the area. The mood was a very cordial one.

"I think Sawhill enjoyed talking to people from the oil country who recognized the problems and weren't just critical of the oil industry. It was a good session and hopefully something will come of it."

Besides the delegation from Midland and Odessa, attending the meeting were Sen. Tower, Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., from Lubbock and Rep. Richard C. White, D-Tex., from El Paso.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen Jr., D-Tex., sent a representative.
