Shiite Moslems attack Moroccan embassy

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Moslem zealots swarmed over the walls into the Moroccan Embassy on Friday, ransacked the building and burned portraits of King Hassan II to protest his meeting with Israel.

The commander of the Lebanese police guard said there were no casualties. He said the embassy's six-man staff lowered the big Moroccan flag and quietly slipped away in two cars half an hour before the attack, adding: "They must have anticipated what was coming."

Police said the assault climaxed an hourlong demonstration by about 2,000 men and women shouting "Death to America, the great Satan!" "Down with traitor Hassan!" and "Peres will roast in hell!" They were from the Hezbollah, or party of God, the most militant Lebanese Shiite group allied with Iran.

Dozens of the women wore chadors, the black head-to-toe gowns that obscure all but the hands and eyes.

It was the most violent protest so far in the Arab world against the two-day meeting this week of the moderate, pro-Western monarch and Prime Minister Shimon Peres of Israel at Hassan's summer palace in Ifrane, Morocco.

Protesters waved portraits of the fierce-visaged Iranian patriarch, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeni, and punched their fists into the air as they shouted. Then they surged forward, some clambering over the walls and others smashing down the embassy gate.

Enraged Hezbollah members ripped portraits of the king from their frames and burned them, ransacked Ambassador Abdul-Karim Bennani's second-floor office and set his files ablaze. Others hurled furniture through windows into the street.

The embassy emblem was torn from the center of the main balcony and thrown onto a bonfire of Moroccan flags.

Gaps in the smoke billowing from several fires revealed portraits of Khomeni bobbing on the balconies of the four-story embassy building, which faces the Mediterranean in Beirut's southern coastal district.

Firefighters sprayed streams of water on the structure to keep the fires from spreading and little damage was evident beyond broken windows and shutters.

The police guard commander, who would not give his name, said his small detachment of about a dozen men could not stop the assault.

"In front of this huge number of demonstrators we were incapable of doing anything," he said.

Sheik Ibrahim al-Amin, leader of the Hezbollah, marched at the head of the parade to the embassy after 3 p.m. prayers at al-Rawda Mosque in the Shiite district of Bir Hassan, about two miles away.

Economists lower their projection for growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, in a preliminary review of the economy at mid-year, has trimmed its growth estimate for 1986 but substantially boosted projections for economic activity next year, officials said Friday.

The administration's forecast, which will be revised before being issued, has reduced its projection for growth this year, as measured by the gross national product, to 2.6 percent, down almost a full percentage point from its February estimate of 3.4 percent growth.

This revision was expected because the economy from January through June has performed far below the administration's original forecasts.

But for 1987, the administration is projecting that the economy will come surging back at a robust annual rate of 4.5 percent.

While private analysts generally agreed with the administration's scaled-down prospects for this year, many dismissed the 1987 outlook as totally unrealistic.

"It is not only inaccurate, it is bizarre," said Michael Evans, head of a Washington forecasting firm. "The economy doesn't have a ghost of a chance of getting to the growth number they are forecasting for 1987. The obvious reason they are doing this is to make the budget numbers look better."

Evans said he was forecasting the economy in 1987 would grow at a rate of just 1.7 percent. Evans said his projection, which is close to those of many other private analysts, would add around $45 billion to the 1987 budget deficit above the administration's figures.

The administration's estimates, first reported in The New York Times, are only preliminary and were made before the government released its new GNP estimate on Tuesday, officials at the Office of Management and Budget said.

One official, who spoke on condition that she not be named, said the new GNP data, which showed the economy growing at a 1.1 percent rate from April through June, likely will force changes in the estimates before they are formally released in early August.

But private economists said the administration probably will use the weaker April-June GNP figure to bolster its case that growth, in percentage terms, will be stronger in the months ahead because the economy is starting from a lower base.

OMB Director James Miller has used that line of reasoning in recent comments in which he has said the administration's August review of the budget would show a record deficit for this year, perhaps as high as $220 billion, but faster economic growth in the future.

Miller has said the administration intends to hit the deficit targets established in the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law, which calls for a deficit of $144 billion in the 1987 fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1.

Hobby, Lewis agree that interstate banking needs to be on agenda

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Although they're still arguing about the state budget, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis Friday agreed that lawmakers should consider interstate banking in next month's special legislative session.

"We're in a banking crisis in this state," Hobby said. "Twelve banks in this state have failed so far this year. We need more flexible banking legislation."

Lewis, who has been trying to convince Hobby that tax increases should not accompany spending cuts during the special session called to solve the $3.5 billion state deficit, said he and the lieutenant governor discussed the banking problem during a breakfast meeting with Gov. Mark White.

"We all ought to be worrying about banks," Lewis said, adding that the governor "did not indicate one way or another" whether he would open the agenda of the Aug. 6 special session to include interstate banking.

White issued the formal agenda for the session Friday afternoon, listing only budget cuts as possible issues. White said he may add other items later.

House Banking and Commerce Committee Chairman Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, said he has no doubt that allowing out-of-state banks to merge with Texas banks would shore up the state's ailing financial community. Gibson has called a meeting of his committee for next week to decide whether to support the concept as a special session issue.

"If you look at our six largest bank holding companies, they're all in weakened positions," mainly because of failed energy and agriculture loans, Gibson said.

"They're having to devote more of their money to cover these losses than they can in making new loans, new loans in small and medium businesses that are going to hire the people, that are going to put people back to work," he explained. "Through interstate mergers we get a stronger banking system because we won't have such a high percentage of the loans made in just a few sectors of the economy, that being agriculture, oil and gas and real estate."

Gibson met with congressman and national financial regulators in Washington, D.C., last week and said he doesn't expect the federal government to take any action on regional banking until next spring. "That means our economy is going to languish until we get some relief," he said.

Since the turn of the century, Texans have opposed interstate banking for fear that large, out-of-state banks would move into a community and monopolize the financial market. Today, Gibson said, the concern is that the large, controlling banks for Texas, known as money centers, will shift from Houston and Dallas to New York City or Chicago.

"As money centers move out of state," he said, "we simply lose control and we lose that commitment to our local economy."

Rose garden behind fire station beautifies downtown Midland

By HOLLY LONGABERGER
Staff Writer

When the City of Midland wanted to build a fire station at Crier Park on Wall Street, one of the promises it had to make to the neighborhood was to beautify the park.

The fire department moved to Wall Street in February 1980 and to beautify the park, the city authorized a rose garden to be located behind the fire department on Texas Avenue.

With the aid of the Midland Rose Society, Midland Rose Foundation and the Park and Recreation Division, the garden began to flourish.

Truman E. Spires, member of the Rose Society and coordinator of the rose garden maintenance, said the Midland City Council authorized the funding, while the Parks and Recreation Department helped construct the rose beds and poured concrete.

The 1,500 rose brushes were donated from Jackson and Perkins Rose Growers of Medford, Ore.

The Rose Society volunteers take care of the roses. According to Spires, they work approximately 500 hours in the garden from February to October.

"That park use to be an eyesore and no one used it. Now it is on the Chamber of Commerce's 'things to see while in Midland' list," Spires said.

He added that many out-of-staters stop and comment on the garden, stating that they did not think roses could grow in the West Texas climate.

"We (the Rose Society) must keep constant observation and evaluation of both the bush and the soil. We are constantly fighting the conditions of the area — high heat and low moisture."

The roses are at their peak in May or October, he said. "However, there are always some blooming between those months."

Spires said he did not know what the cost of keeping the garden was and claimed he was afraid to know.

"If you know the cost of something then you might begin to feel that it's not worth it," he explained.

Spires did say the city furnishes the water, Jackson and Perkins furnishes the roses, the Park and Recreation Department furnishes the spray and fertilizer and the Rose Society volunteers the hours.

Gene Miles of Midland is the only hired person to look after the roses. He is paid by the Rose Society.

Spires said there are 1,500 bushes, both miniature and large roses to take care of with three or four bushes replaced each year.

Lawmakers not optimistic about solving budget crisis

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Despite orders from the top to "have an upbeat attitude," legislative leaders left a Friday morning budget meeting less than optimistic about a rapid solution to the state's budget crisis.

Meanwhile, the director of the 20,000-member Texas Public Employees Association said he hopes to use common-sense economic arguments to counter the proposed layoff of 19,000 state employees and 3-percent pay cuts for those that remain.

And Gov. Mark White announced that lawmakers may consider budget cuts, and nothing else for the time being, during the special legislative session that begins Aug. 6. He included no mention of taxes or other issues but said he might permit them to "consider and pass such other items as submitted from time to time by the governor after the session convenes."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis joined White Friday for what Hobby called "a very cordial, constructive breakfast" discussion of how to deal with the looming $3.53 billion state deficit. In addition to the menu of scrambled eggs, bacon and grits, Hobby said, "A lot of fat was chewed."

Lewis said the governor offered no specific suggestions about possible budget cuts or tax increases. "He wanted us to try to work together and devise a new direction for Texas," Lewis said.

Asked how state leaders could look on the bright side in the face of a $3.5 billion shortfall and the absence of a consensus plan on how to deal with it in a special session just 10 days away, Lewis said, "You could be $4.5 billion in the hole. It's kind of whether the glass is half empty or half full."

Official: Programs only 'band-aid'

Associated Press

A government hot line for drought-plagued farmers was flooded with calls on its first day Friday as more hay headed South to feed starving livestock, but one state official said federal programs are only a "band-aid."

Parts of South Carolina, Virginia and Florida have been declared disaster areas because of the weeks-long drought, and a dozen Tennessee counties have asked for federal aid. More than a million chickens have died in the Southern heat. Some market officials linked the drought to a rise in poultry prices.

Damage estimates from the sizzling weather exceed $1.6 billion and heat has been blamed for 44 deaths since July 1: 19 in Georgia; four each in North Carolina, Missouri, Indiana and Illinois; two each in Alabama, Kentucky and South Carolina and one each in Virginia, Louisiana and Michigan.

South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley on Friday asked churches and synagogues in his state to pray for rain.

Voluntary hay donations continued throughout the South, with shipments arriving in Georgia and the Florida Panhandle. One bale had a special meaning for Henry Sewell.

"In one of the bales of hay was a card off of a feed sack that said 'Fellow farmers. Hope this helps. From the McPhersons of Lavalle, Wisc.,'" said Sewell, a farmer from Newnan, Ga.

"I say, 'God bless you and thank you.' I just don't know what words to use," Sewell said. "It's just like something dropping out of the sky."

Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Thomas Irvin, who waited with Sewell and about 100 other farmers for the hay delivery at Atlanta, praised the "baleouts," but said existing U.S. Department of Agriculture programs will not reverse effects of the drought.

"What (the federal government) has done now, really, is probably a little bit less than a band aid," Irvin said. "It really doesn't anywhere close to cover the sore. Our wounds are very deep here in the South."

Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng promised that his department will consider making cash grants and surplus feed available to Southern farmers.

A Florida highway patrolman waits for the final trucks of a convoy to catch up Friday as the eight drivers, with some 75 tons of hay on their eight rigs, take a lunch break on their way to bring the hay to drought-stricken farmers.

But he warned: "For me to suggest that the government could solve the problem of all farmers would be misleading you. In some of these situations that are very grim, it's very difficult to solve the problem. We're trying to be responsive. We're doing all we can."

ROSES

Although there are quite a few roses in the garden, Spires said, it does not contain a lot of variety.

"It is not a varietal showplace, but we must accept what they (Jackson and Perkins) give us."

Some of the more popular, hearty varieties that can adapt to the West Texas environment, according to Spires, include: Color Magic which is a pink blend; Pristine which is light pink and Promise which is also light pink.

Not only does the rose garden attract out-of-towners, but weddings are held there as well as Rose Society seminars.

If a person would like to be wed in the rose garden they must contact the Parks and Recreation Department to set a date. There is also a fee charged.

The Rose Society holds demonstrations on pruning and rose care in February, and fertilizing instructions and rose care in March.

BUDGET

The Legislative Budget Board staff outlined to the 10-man board — which includes Hobby, Lewis, four senators and four representatives — several budget cutting options the House Appropriations Committee studied through the week. Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said he hoped the magnitude of the possible cuts would swing House leaders toward the Senate plan of combining modest reductions with a tax increase.

"It'll take coming face to face with these kinds of facts and what it will mean to their districts, their school districts, their colleges, their highway systems," Farabee said. "That's what the process is and how it's supposed to work."

But House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Stan Schlueter, D-Salado, said a tax bill will come, but not until the regular legislative session in January. No amount of public outcry over budget cuts, Schlueter said, would change his mind.

"You don't have to be a basic economist to know that you don't raise taxes during a recession," he said.

Neither Schlueter nor Farabee appeared optimistic about rapid progress during the special session. "I don't think it can be done in a week, we may not be able to do it in 30 days," Farabee said, setting the stage for more than one special session.

Asked twice whether he sees "a high likelihood" for a total stalemate between the budget-cutting House and the tax-raising Senate, Schlueter said, "Yes."

Gary Hughes, executive director of the TPEA, and Wakie Martin, Texas State Employees Union legislative coordinator, met with White for 45 minutes Friday afternoon in what Hughes called "a cordial meeting."

ECONOMY

Gough said it would be dangerous from an economic standpoint to try to reduce government spending in just one year from a $220 billion deficit down to $144 billion. He said a more realistic projection would be for a budget with a deficit next year of $175 billion.

Among the other projections in the administration's draft document:

— Inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, will rise just 1.3 percent this year, the best showing since 1964, with the improvement coming from the plunge in oil prices. The administration forecast the CPI would rise a modest 2.8 percent next year. In February, the administration forecast a 1986 inflation rate of 3.5 percent and 4.1 percent for 1987.

— Reflecting the sluggish growth, the unemployment rate will average 6.9 percent this year, no improvement over last year, but will drop dramatically to 6.5 percent next year. The earlier forecast had shown a decline to 6.7 percent this year before falling to 6.5 percent in 1987.

— Interest rates, which have fallen to the lowest levels in nine years. will remain low in 1987. Yields on three-month Treasury securities were projected to average 6.5 percent this year and 6.4 percent next year. The February forecast put these figures at 7.3 percent in 1986 and 6.5 percent next year.

Robert A. Gough Jr., a senior economist at Data Resources Inc., said the administration's economic forecasts were hindering efforts to make realistic decisions on the budget cuts needed to reduce the deficit.

"When you try to make policy decisions on the basis of these wildly optimistic economic projections, you are operating in a framework of fantasy," he said.

Longview woodworker expanding into making customized pet coffins

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — Jerry Dodson says he has done a lot of things in his lifetime. But recently he branched his woodworking skills into a new area.

He makes pet caskets.

Several months ago he read about detailed plans for a plywood pet casket an Oregon man had made for a pet-loving friend.

After Dodson contemplated the idea and worked out details for himself, he made his first pet casket this spring, because, "people really become attached to their pets," Dodson said.

And while it may seem a little far-fetched or even eccentric to some folks, Dodson points out that cemeteries just for pets are becoming more and more popular, especially in metropolitan areas as pet owners want to do more than simply dispose of the bodies of pets that may have provided them companionship for years.

"I really don't know how this is going to work out," he said. But Dodson already has sold several of the small, unique coffins with minimal advertising and from word-of-mouth.

While the man in Oregon made a plain pet casket out of plywood, Dodson has been busy enhancing the design to something that more closely resembles miniature coffins used for humans, complete with lining inside and handles outside.

Dodson already has several variations he can offer customers. He has several pet coffins on hand, but for pet owners with uniquely sized pets he can come up with a casket customized to just the the right size.

He said the woodworking portion of casket construction, which is almost second nature to him, does not take as long as doing the work of installing the lining. Dodson is already planning on offering velvet and satin linings and is working on providing ruffles and fancier work.

"There is a demand for it," Dodson said.

Depending on that demand, Dodson said he may sell his caskets on a consignment basis through pet cemeteries and in pet magazines.

Dodson admits that emotional feelings people have for their pet come into play in what they decide to do when their pets die.

As an example, he said one of his recent customers was a youngster from White Oak who wanted his pet to be buried with dignity rather than wrapped up and covered with dirt.

Dodson said the boy wanted the casket badly but did not have enough money to buy it. To help the youngster out, Dodson accepted a down payment and is taking regular payments from the boy until the casket is paid off.

Jerry Dodson of Longview, Texas, displays some of his customized pet coffins.

While handcrafting pet caskets is one of Dodson's latest ventures, he said the mainstay of his business still consists of custom work on such things as gun cabinets and repair to antiques or other damaged pieces of wood furniture.

Peace Corps celebrates 25th anniversary

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Carol Sahm made some serious sacrifices to serve in Honduras on the Peace Corps, but she says she would do it all again.

"I wouldn't give it up for anything," she said Friday as she helped prepare for a national conference of former volunteers for the Peace Corps, now in its 25th year.

More than 200 former volunteers were expected to attend the annual meeting of the National Council of Returned Peace Corps Volunteers.

The Peace Corps began its work in 1961 at the suggestion of President John Kennedy, who first proposed it while on the campaign trail a year earlier.

Since then, more than 120,000 Americans have served in undeveloped nations in a quest for technical and cultural exchange.

For Ms. Sahm, 33, who spent two years teaching hearing-impaired children in Honduras from 1984 to 1986, her service has meant putting on hold her dreams of a career in nutrition and of having a family.

Now, she works as a sales clerk for a clothing store in San Antonio, where she grew up. And she hopes to find a job soon in her chosen field.

Living in Tegucigalpa, the capital city of Honduras, stretched her to the limits, she said.

"You were always learning something. Every day was something new. It was really a challenge to live. Here, it's so easy," she said.

The experience, she said, taught her more patience with life's difficulties.

"If my car breaks down, I take a bus. It's not so important for me to have the most beautiful clothes. And my patience with people who get upset about those things is more limited," she said.

Former Peace Corps volunteer Carol Sahm sits in her San Antonio apartment with a few of the items she collected while working in Honduras in 1982. Ms. Sahm and other volunteers will be celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Peace Corps with a reunion this weekend in San Antonio.

STATE

country she had to look up on a map.

The political and military turmoil in that Central American nation had not yet erupted, but did so while Ms. Sahm was there. The effects on her and her work was minimal.

In the first three months in Honduras, she lived with a native family that spoke no English. She was forced to learn the language quickly.

"You leave all your friends and family, your whole emotional support system in the United States," she said.

"You're forced to make friends fast. It's really lonely if you don't make those friends," she said.

Because she was light-skinned and a blonde, Ms. Sahm said she felt like she was in a fish bowl.

"I had longer blonde hair and I cut if off because people just passing you on the street would stop and try to run their hands through my hair," she said.

The Hondurans, she said, view Americans as rich. American women, she said, are perceived as beautiful, well-dressed and somewhat promiscuous.

"You get to see the United States through different eyes," she said. "I didn't know the United States had a culture since I had grown up here."

Ms. Sahm was able to see firsthand a cultural exchange that is a key goal of the Peace Corps.

The Honduran people she met, she said, "learned that not all women in the United States are like they are in the movies."

Also among the Peace Corps objectives is a technical exchange. Ms. Sahm helped write a book that for the first time documented the Honduran sign language for the deaf.

The project was not finished when she left. Another volunteer took over.

"You're not going to change things overnight. It's a real slow process," she said.

"And you don't even go in to change them but to show them an alternative way. If they want to use it, fine," she said.

CONGRATULATIONS TO KAYLA HEFNER, OUR NEW "TEXAS CERTIFIED NURSERYMAN"

Inmate wins pardon with new evidence

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — After serving more than two years in a Texas prison for a rape he said he didn't commit, a Minnesota man who won a pardon was released Friday and tearfully reunited with his family.

Steven Fossum, 25, of Mabel, Minn., was pardoned Thursday by Gov. Mark White after receiving a favorable recommendation from the state Board of Pardons and Paroles because of new evidence casting doubt on his conviction.

"The long days — being in there for something you didn't do — I knew the truth would come out sometime. It took a long time," Fossum said, after embracing his teary-eyed mother.

"I'm happy, scared, nervous," he said.

Fossum had been imprisoned since May 1984, serving a 12-year sentence at the Texas Department of Corrections' Coffield Unit in Palestine for his second rape conviction.

Friday, he boarded a prison bus for the 100-mile trip to the main prison in Huntsville and a reunion with his mother, brother and friends.

Steven Fossum

"It's a real big day, real exciting," said his mother, Delone Fossum. "It's been real tough. It's been an ordeal I hope no one else has to go through."

Ms. Fossum, another son, Roger, and some friends rented a limousine to drive Fossum the 90 miles to Houston, where he will remain until being allowed to return to Minnesota. Under the terms of the probation he received for his first rape conviction, he is not allowed to leave the state.

Fossum came to Texas in 1981 and got a job at a water-well drilling company. A year later, he was arrested on a rape charge, convicted and sentenced to probation. While in jail on that charge, he was charged with the second rape and sentenced to prison.

Harris County District Attorney John B. Holmes last week wrote the parole board and recommended that Fossum be freed because of new evidence uncovered by WCCO-TV of Minneapolis.

Part of that evidence included a detailed analysis of semen samples that concluded Fossum could not have raped the victim, Holmes said.

Semen tests conducted at the time of the trial were inconclusive, according to attorney Xavier Grenas, who defended Fossum.

John Ackerman, Fossum's lawyer for the appeal, said the new tests "provided sufficient information that there were two different people involved, contrary to (the victim's) testimony. And secondly, neither could have been Fossum."

Ackerman blamed the state for not questioning the story of the 23-year-old complainant.

Authorities said Fossum still will be on probation for the 1982 rape, but Ackerman said he believes tests may prove Fossum innocent of that crime as well, adding that he would file a petition to get that conviction set aside.

He also plans to ask a judge next week to transfer Fossum's probation to Minnesota, allowing him to return home, and said he expects the request to be granted.

"It's a travesty of justice," Minneapolis attorney Ron Meshabesher, who also is handling the case, said Friday of

Denison vet finally receives WWII medal

DENISON (AP) — R.L. Franks says he isn't upset that it took the government more than 40 years to send him the Bronze Star he earned as a World War II combat infantryman.

"Well, the government is sometimes slow about a lot of things," Franks said. "You know how the government works. About the only thing I know they're fast at is when you try to beat them out of income taxes."

"I'm just proud it did come," said Franks, who earned the medal as a scout of enemy territory.

The Bronze Star arrived in June.

In the meantime, the 65-year-old Franks survived a train derailment in 1961, made the first contribution to the Texoma Medical Center and ran an unsuccessful campaign against Bob Bush for state representative in 1974.

During the war years, Franks volunteered for the military in September 1942. A year later he was in England, assigned to Company I of the 18th Infantry Division. He spent more than two years in Europe serving in England, France, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Holland before the war ended.

Franks was assigned scout duty to check the safety of combat zones in advance of the main unit, a job he recalled as frightening.

"You know, war — it's hard to talk to anybody about war unless they were really involved in it, because people don't understand," he said.

The train derailment happened in 1961 when Franks, a railroad worker since before the war, was riding with another man in the caboose of a train bound for Fort Worth. The train derailed, killing the other man.

Franks became the first contributor to the Texoma Medical center when he made an unsolicited $25 donation shortly after the train wreck.

Franks was forced to give up railroad work because of his injuries and turned his part-time real estate work into a full-time job.

"The good Lord wanted me to stay here so I could pay the debts I owed," he said.

He said he has no immediate retirement plans.

"You've got to do something," he says. "You can't die on a vine. You've got to keep active."

STATE in brief

Statue replica on display

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A replica of a statue of the Virgin Mary, which last year drew 150,000 worshippers, was scheduled for a return visit through Aug. 3, church officials said.

The replica of the Virgen de San Juan de los Lagos was to go on display at a Catholic church on the city's West Side late Friday.

The original statue is credited with bringing a girl back to life in 1623. Worshippers believe the statue has power to bring about miracles.

Father Hugo van den Bussche, pastor of the San Juan de los Lagos Church, said the faithful come to see the statue because they believe in "the great importance of that woman as the mother of Jesus, the savior of the world."

An estimated 150,000 people visited the statue last year and twice that many did so the year before.

Court kills holster ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — An appeals court struck down an order prohibiting the Houston Police Department from using a controversial new holster that some officers say is dangerous.

The 14th Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that a state district court had no jurisdiction to grant a temporary injunction against use of the holster, which holds a gun in place with a snap strap instead of the traditional flap.

The appeals court also ruled the lower court judge improperly issued orders instructing the police department on how to find a replacement for the Bianchi 350 holsters, which the city bought for about $100,000 more than a year ago.

The Houston Police Officers Association will appeal the ruling to the Texas Supreme Court, president Mark Clark said.

Judge sets execution date

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A judge Friday set a Sept. 16 execution date for Donald Gene Franklin, convicted and sentenced three times for the murder of a nurse.

Judge Tom Rickhoff set the date for Franklin to die by lethal injection.

Franklin, 34, has undergone three trials on charges he abducted and killed Mary Margaret "Peggy" Moran, a nurse at Audie Murphy Veterans Hospital.

The woman was stabbed seven times and left for dead in a brushy area in northwest Bexar County in 1975. She lived four days before she was found, barely alive. She died a few hours later at a hospital.

Weddington to teach at UT

AUSTIN (AP) — Sarah Weddington, former Texas House member and former White House staffer, will join the University of Texas faculty Sept. 1, officials said Friday.

Ms. Weddington also is known as the attorney who won the U.S. Supreme Court decision declaring state laws against abortion as illegal.

She will teach a course in "Women and the Law," "designed for students who are interested in the legal status of women in the U.S.," Ms. Weddington said.

Student discipline bill filed

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would make local school board decisions final in student discipline cases has been filed by Rep. David Hudson, T-Tyler.

Hudson said the bill would restore to teachers the power to remove problem students from the classroom and would give teachers the authority to recommend suspensions and expulsions.

The proposal would eliminate appeals to the state education commissioner in disciplinary actions, Hudson said in a statement.

More than 200 former volunteers were expected to attend the annual meeting of the National Council of Returned Peace Corps Volunteers.

The Peace Corps began its work in 1961 at the suggestion of President John Kennedy, who first proposed it while on the campaign trail a year earlier.

Since then, more than 120,000 Americans have served in undeveloped nations in a quest for technical and cultural exchange.

For Ms. Sahm, 33, who spent two years teaching hearing-impaired children in Honduras from 1984 to 1986, her service has meant putting on hold her dreams of a career in nutrition and of having a family.

Now, she works as a sales clerk for a clothing store in San Antonio, where she grew up. And she hopes to find a job soon in her chosen field.

Living in Tegucigalpa, the capital city of Honduras, stretched her to the limits, she said.

"You were always learning something. Every day was something new. It was really a challenge to live. Here, it's so easy," she said.

The experience, she said, taught her more patience with life's difficulties.

"If my car breaks down, I take a bus. It's not so important for me to have the most beautiful clothes. And my patience with people who get upset about those things is more limited," she said.

Former Peace Corps volunteer Carol Sahm sits in her San Antonio apartment with a few of the items she collected while working in Honduras in 1982. Ms. Sahm and other volunteers will be celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Peace Corps with a reunion this weekend in San Antonio.

Ms. Sahm first applied for a Peace Corps position in 1975, but she said it was for all the wrong reasons.

"I wanted to travel. I wanted to know what countries were available," she said, adding she was turned down.

A few years later she applied again and was assigned to Honduras, a country she had to look up on a map.

The political and military turmoil in that Central American nation had not yet erupted, but did so while Ms. Sahm was there. The effects on her and her work was minimal.

In the first three months in Honduras, she lived with a native family that spoke no English. She was forced to learn the language quickly.

"You leave all your friends and family, your whole emotional support system in the United States," she said.

"You're forced to make friends fast. It's really lonely if you don't make those friends," she said.

Because she was light-skinned and a blonde, Ms. Sahm said she felt like she was in a fish bowl.

"I had longer blonde hair and I cut if off because people just passing you on the street would stop and try to run their hands through my hair," she said.

The Hondurans, she said, view Americans as rich. American women, she said, are perceived as beautiful, well-dressed and somewhat promiscuous.

"You get to see the United States through different eyes," she said. "I didn't know the United States had a culture since I had grown up here."

Ms. Sahm was able to see firsthand a cultural exchange that is a key goal of the Peace Corps.

The Honduran people she met, she said, "learned that not all women in the United States are like they are in the movies."

Also among the Peace Corps objectives is a technical exchange. Ms. Sahm helped write a book that for the first time documented the Honduran sign language for the deaf.

The project was not finished when she left. Another volunteer took over.

"You're not going to change things overnight. It's a real slow process," she said.

"And you don't even go in to change them but to show them an alternative way. If they want to use it, fine," she said.

CONGRATULATIONS TO KAYLA HEFNER, OUR NEW "TEXAS CERTIFIED NURSERYMAN"

Inmate wins pardon with new evidence

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — After serving more than two years in a Texas prison for a rape he said he didn't commit, a Minnesota man who won a pardon was released Friday and tearfully reunited with his family.

Steven Fossum, 25, of Mabel, Minn., was pardoned Thursday by Gov. Mark White after receiving a favorable recommendation from the state Board of Pardons and Paroles because of new evidence casting doubt on his conviction.

"The long days — being in there for something you didn't do — I knew the truth would come out sometime. It took a long time," Fossum said, after embracing his teary-eyed mother.

"I'm happy, scared, nervous," he said.

Fossum had been imprisoned since May 1984, serving a 12-year sentence at the Texas Department of Corrections' Coffield Unit in Palestine for his second rape conviction.

Friday, he boarded a prison bus for the 100-mile trip to the main prison in Huntsville and a reunion with his mother, brother and friends.

Steven Fossum

"It's a real big day, real exciting," said his mother, Delone Fossum. "It's been real tough. It's been an ordeal I hope no one else has to go through."

Ms. Fossum, another son, Roger, and some friends rented a limousine to drive Fossum the 90 miles to Houston, where he will remain until being allowed to return to Minnesota. Under the terms of the probation he received for his first rape conviction, he is not allowed to leave the state.

Fossum came to Texas in 1981 and got a job at a water-well drilling company. A year later, he was arrested on a rape charge, convicted and sentenced to probation. While in jail on that charge, he was charged with the second rape and sentenced to prison.

Harris County District Attorney John B. Holmes last week wrote the parole board and recommended that Fossum be freed because of new evidence uncovered by WCCO-TV of Minneapolis.

Part of that evidence included a detailed analysis of semen samples that concluded Fossum could not have raped the victim, Holmes said.

Semen tests conducted at the time of the trial were inconclusive, according to attorney Xavier Grenas, who defended Fossum.

John Ackerman, Fossum's lawyer for the appeal, said the new tests "provided sufficient information that there were two different people involved, contrary to (the victim's) testimony. And secondly, neither could have been Fossum."

Ackerman blamed the state for not questioning the story of the 23-year-old complainant.

Authorities said Fossum still will be on probation for the 1982 rape, but Ackerman said he believes tests may prove Fossum innocent of that crime as well, adding that he would file a petition to get that conviction set aside.

He also plans to ask a judge next week to transfer Fossum's probation to Minnesota, allowing him to return home, and said he expects the request to be granted.

"It's a travesty of justice," Minneapolis attorney Ron Meshabesher, who also is handling the case, said Friday of

Denison vet finally receives WWII medal

DENISON (AP) — R.L. Franks says he isn't upset that it took the government more than 40 years to send him the Bronze Star he earned as a World War II combat infantryman.

"Well, the government is sometimes slow about a lot of things," Franks said. "You know how the government works. About the only thing I know they're fast at is when you try to beat them out of income taxes.

"I'm just proud it did come," said Franks, who earned the medal as a scout of enemy territory.

The Bronze Star arrived in June.

In the meantime, the 65-year-old Franks survived a train derailment in 1961, made the first contribution to the Texoma Medical Center and ran an unsuccessful campaign against Bob Bush for state representative in 1974.

During the war years, Franks volunteered for the military in September 1942. A year later he was in England, assigned to Company I of the 18th Infantry Division. He spent more than two years in Europe, serving in England, France, Germany, Czechoslovakia and Holland before the war ended.

Franks was assigned scout duty to check the safety of combat zones in advance of the main unit, a job he recalled as frightening.

"You know, war — it's hard to talk to anybody about war unless they were really involved in it, because people don't understand," he said.

The train derailment happened in 1961 when Franks, a railroad worker since before the war, was riding with another man in the caboose of a train bound for Fort Worth. The train derailed, killing the other man.

Franks became the first contributor to the Texoma Medical center when he made an unsolicited $25 donation shortly after the train wreck.

Franks was forced to give up railroad work because of his injuries and turned his part-time real estate work into a full-time job.

"The good Lord wanted me to stay here so I could pay the debts I owed," he said.

He said he has no immediate retirement plans.

"You've got to do something," he says. "You can't die on a vine. You've got to keep active."

STATE in brief

Statue replica on display

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A replica of a statue of the Virgin Mary, which last year drew 150,000 worshippers, was scheduled for a return visit through Aug. 3, church officials said.

The replica of the Virgen de San Juan de los Lagos was to go on display at a Catholic church on the city's West Side late Friday.

The original statue is credited with bringing a girl back to life in 1623. Worshippers believe the statue has power to bring about miracles.

Father Hugo van den Bussche, pastor of the San Juan de los Lagos Church, said the faithful come to see the statue because they believe in "the great importance of that woman as the mother of Jesus, the savior of the world."

An estimated 150,000 people visited the statue last year and twice that many did so the year before.

The original statue remains on display in the shrine in San Juan de los Lagos, Mexico.

Court kills holster ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — An appeals court struck down an order prohibiting the Houston Police Department from using a controversial new holster that some officers say is dangerous.

The 14th Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that a state district court had no jurisdiction to grant a temporary injunction against use of the holster, which holds a gun in place with a snap strap instead of the traditional flap.

The appeals court also ruled the lower court judge improperly issued orders instructing the police department on how to find a replacement for the Bianchi 350 holsters, which the city bought for about $100,000 more than a year ago.

The Houston Police Officers Association will appeal the ruling to the Texas Supreme Court, president Mark Clark said.

Judge sets execution date

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A judge Friday set a Sept. 16 execution date for Donald Gene Franklin, convicted and sentenced three times for the murder of a nurse.

Judge Tom Rickhoff set the date for Franklin to die by lethal injection.

Franklin, 34, has undergone three trials on charges he abducted and killed Mary Margaret "Peggy" Moran, a nurse at Audie Murphy Veterans Hospital.

The woman was stabbed seven times and left for dead in a brushy area in northwest Bexar County in 1975. She lived four days before she was found, barely alive. She died a few hours later at a hospital.

Weddington to teach at UT

AUSTIN (AP) — Sarah Weddington, former Texas House member and former White House staffer, will join the University of Texas faculty Sept. 1, officials said Friday.

Ms. Weddington also is known as the attorney who won the U.S. Supreme Court decision declaring state laws against abortion as illegal.

She will teach a course in "Women and the Law," "designed for students who are thinking of law as a career choice and for students who are interested in the legal status of women in the U.S.," Ms. Weddington said.

Student discipline bill filed

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would make local school board decisions final in student discipline cases has been filed by Rep. David Hudson, T-Tyler.

Hudson said the bill would restore to teachers the power to remove problem students from the classroom and would give teachers the authority to recommend suspensions and expulsions.

The proposal would eliminate appeals to the state education commissioner in disciplinary actions, Hudson said in a statement.

Hospital wins right to keep woman alive

Piazzi

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A hospital, caught in a dispute between the husband of a brain-dead woman and the father of her 21-week-old fetus, won a court order Friday to keep the woman alive so the fetus has a chance of survival.

Superior Court Judge William M. Fleming Jr. granted University Hospital's request for an order to continue life support for Donna Piazzi, a 25-year-old Augusta woman hospitalized since an apparent drug overdose June 27.

Her husband, Robert Piazzi, asked hospital officials July 16 to turn off her life support systems. But David Hadden, who claims to be the father of the fetus, asked them to keep the woman alive.

Doctors have determined that Mrs. Piazzi's brain has stopped functioning, leaving her clinically dead. She is being kept alive by respirator and intravenous feeding, according to court papers in the case.

Ted Clarkson, an attorney for the hospital, argued during Friday's court hearing that "the only fundamental right" recognized by the U.S. Supreme Court's landmark Roe vs. Wade abortion decision is a mother's right to privacy.

"Tragically, Mrs. Piazzi is dead," he said. "She has no more right of privacy, so it stands that the state may intervene...The state has an interest in the protection of human life."

The state, represented by Assistant Georgia Attorney General David Will, asked Fleming to dismiss the case, saying that the courts have no jurisdiction until the fetus is viable — sufficiently developed to survive outside the womb. Doctors testified that Mrs. Piazzi's fetus has not reached that point. She is 17 weeks short of full-term pregnancy and four weeks short of the earliest point at which doctors consider a fetus viable.

Ibrahim Mashini, a University Hospital gynecologist, testified that Mrs. Piazzi's fetus has a heartbeat, has developed eyes, arms and legs, and is moving, but its lungs are not developed and it is not viable.

Donna Hughes, senior neurology resident at the hospital, told the judge there is no way to determine the state of neurologic functions in the fetus.

In Georgia, paternity is not determined until the fetus is viable, Will said. Custody is not determined until after birth.

Fleming rejected the state's motion to dismiss the case and immediately granted the hospital's request for an order to maintain life support.

Will said later that the attorney general's office and the state Division of Family and Children Services will decide later whether to appeal.

Piazzi, who concedes that he is not the father, left the Richmond County Courthouse after the 45-minute hearing without commenting. His telephone number is not listed, and he could not be located on Friday.

Hadden, who also attended the hearing, declined comment except to say, "Just right to life — that's what I say."

Hospital officials issued a statement saying they were pleased with the ruling, but said further comment, including details of how or when Mrs. Piazzi's might give birth, would violate a patient's right to privacy.

There was no discussion about Mrs. Piazzi's medical bills in court, and the hospital has refused to discuss her case.

Neither Piazzi nor Hadden spoke during the hearing, but Hadden's attorney, Daniel Craig, argued that the fetus' right to life is the paramount issue in the case.

Legally, neither the husband nor the father has standing in the case, and Mrs. Piazzi cannot be a party because she is clinically dead, Craig said.

"There is no authority that says this child has no right to be protected," he said.

Sam Nicholson, an attorney appointed to represent the fetus, argued that Georgia's feticide law makes it a crime to kill a fetus that is deemed to be "quick," or moving on its own.

Bush to discuss Arab-Israeli peace prospects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush begins a whirlwind tour of the Mideast on Sunday with Arab-Israeli peace prospects at the top of the agenda, but the thorny issue of alleged Israeli spying on the United States was expected to come up.

Bush and his wife, Barbara, left Washington Friday night for Frankfurt, West Germany, where they planned to rest before going on to Jerusalem for three days of meetings, socializing and sightseeing.

Bush will also visit Jordan and Egypt before returning to Washington on Aug. 5.

Aides to Bush and other Reagan administration sources said the main aim of the trip was to emphasize U.S. interest in moving toward peace in the region, with the talks last week between Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Morocco's King Hassan II expected to be a prime topic of discussion.

Regarding alleged Israeli espionage in the United States, a top Bush aide said, "I am sure the vice president will be asked about it, but it is nothing that he has on his agenda to raise."

A senior administration official, asked if alleged Israeli spying and theft of cluster bomb technology would be discussed, said, "Beyond question."

The officials spoke on condition that they not be identified.

They said that although the vice president's schedule was subject to possible change it was unlikely he would go to Rabat to meet with Hassan or to Damascus to confer with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

King Hussein of Jordan, with whom Bush will meet, has urged the United States to take a more active diplomatic role in Middle East peace efforts and specifically to meet with the Syrian president.

"Syria is a key country," one official said. "It was just felt that circumstances weren't propitious for a visit at this point in time."

The official said terrorism, in which the West regards Syria as implicated, would be on the agenda of the vice president's talks in Israel, Jordan and Egypt.

Guards shoot prisoner as he tries to escape from San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Guards shot and wounded one San Quentin prisoner Friday as he and three other inmates unsuccessfully tried to escape by jumping over a wall, officials said.

The men were on their way to the industrial part of the prison, where they work making office furniture, said John Reid, an administrative assistant to the warden.

They tried to scale a 20-foot wall with a grappling hook and rope, Reid said. Two men made it over, but were apprehended immediately. Another was shot twice in the left thigh.

Reid said the wounded man was in serious condition at an outside hospital, and the other two were being held in the maximum-security unit.

The men, aged 20, 28 and 39, were serving life sentences, Reid said. The case will be referred to the district attorney's office to determine whether the inmates will be prosecuted.

Men charged with drug trafficking

RINGGOLD, Ga. (AP) — Two men who were stopped for a routine traffic violation were arrested on cocaine trafficking charges after a trooper discovered $4 million worth of cocaine in their car.

Dale H. Lockwood, 33, and Curtis A. Phillips Jr., 31, both of Buffalo, N.Y., were being held in the Catoosa County jail without bond Friday, said Catoosa sheriff's Deputy William Sisk.

Sisk said the trooper stopped their car on Interstate 75 on Thursday night for speeding and making an improper lane change.

The trooper, who would not give his name, said he searched the car because the occupants acted suspiciously. Sisk said they consented to the search.

The trooper said he found 8.8 pounds of cocaine, with a street value of $4 million, beneath the back seat.

Plunging elevator kills worker

DENVER (AP) — An office building elevator plunged six stories, killing a worker crushed underneath it and injuring another worker.

Douglas Kanuha, 30, of Lakewood, was in fair condition Friday at Denver General Hospital with multiple injuries, a spokeswoman said. Terry Brownell, 45, of Golden, died in the accident Thursday afternoon, officials said.

Just before it fell, the elevator was on the sixth floor of the seven-story building, with Brownell in the elevator pit and Kanuha on top of the elevator car, said fire Capt. Rod Juniel. The men were employees of Continental Elevator Service Co.

The cause of the accident was unknown, Juniel said.

Reagan talks to youths about drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Friday there is no way to turn off the flow of illicit drugs into the United States, "so the real answer is going to have to be: Let's turn the customers off."

"We are right now planning a nationwide effort to go at this from the standpoint of persuading you that it is in your best interests to just say 'no' to drugs," Reagan told a group of youngsters of the American Legion Boys Nation, in the Rose Garden.

"We can do everything with law enforcement that's possible, to try and intercept the drugs," Reagan said. "But in a country like ours... there's no way we can totally shut off the supply of drugs to those who want them.

"So the real answer is going to have to be: Let's turn the customers off. Let's persuade the customers to abandon the drugs. And, as a matter of fact, we right now are in the midst of talking a plan. There's a great deal going on."

Two American nuns walk 27 miles after Sudanese rebels free them

NEW YORK (AP) — Two American nuns walked 27 miles through the Sudanese countryside after being freed by rebels, a spokeswoman for the Maryknoll religious order said Friday.

Sister Mary Ellen Mertens said in a telephone interview from Maryknoll, N.Y., that Sister Sean Underwood and Sister Nancy Lyons had walked to the Sudanese city of Juba after being set free.

Sister Mertens said the Maryknolls were notified Friday by the U.S. Embassy in Nairobi, Kenya, that the nuns were safe. She said details were sketchy.

The Sudan People's Liberation Army claimed in a clandestine broadcast monitored in Nairobi on Tuesday that they rescued the nuns after they became caught in crossfire during a battle near Juba between government troops and the rebels.

Sister Lyons, a registered nurse, is a Maryknoll nun who has worked in Sudan since 1983, Sister Mertens said. Sister Underwood, whose order is the Medical Missionaries of Mary, works with the Maryknoll nuns in Juba.

Joan Underwood Brooks said she was notified of her sister's release by the State Department. Mrs. Brooks said she was told her 43-year-old sister was rescued by government troops on Thursday.

Sister Underwood, a health care worker, was in a car that was caught in crossfire between rebels and government troops on Monday, said Mrs. Brooks.

"She was able to get out of the situation and get home OK, but when her friend went to check on her later on, he found the house ransacked and she and her friends were missing," said Mrs. Brooks from Voorheesville, N.Y.

Mrs. Brooks said the regional director of Sister Underwood's order contacted her parents in Portsmouth, N.H., on Tuesday. Her father had just undergone a cancer operation, she said.

"I was in shock," Mrs. Brooks said. "My father had just made it through surgery, he was OK, and we got a call that my sister was being held hostage." She said her father wasn't told of the situation.

Sister Underwood went to the Sudan in June after spending four years in the United States. She had worked previously as a pilot and missionary in Kenya, flying doctors out of Nairobi to desert clinics.

Sister Lyons was born in Scotland and is now an American citizen. She has a brother in Walnut Creek, Calif., which she considers her home in the United States, Sister Mertens said.

The rebels have been fighting the government since 1983.

Superpowers begin talks on nuclear test issues

WORLD

GENEVA (AP) — The United States and Soviet Union began talks Friday on nuclear test issues that each claims to have initiated. Washington seeks verifiable compliance with the rules and the Kremlin wants testing banned.

Both sides agreed to confidentiality, and U.S. spokesman Christopher Henze would say only that the teams of nuclear experts gathered at the U.S. mission for an informal morning session followed by a formal meeting in the afternoon.

In a terse joint statement Friday evening, the delegations said talks covering "the entire scope of issues relating to nuclear testing" had begun, but gave no details.

A White House statement July 16 said "the United States has long sought a meeting with the Soviets" to present concerns about verifying compliance with treaties signed in 1974 and 1976 that limit the strength of nuclear tests for both military and civilian purposes to 150 kilotons.

One kiloton is the equivalent of the explosion of 1,000 tons of TNT.

Neither treaty was ratified by the U.S. Senate, but buth sides say they have honored the terms.

The Reagan administration could not consider recommending ratification unless "verification improvements were made and U.S. compliance concerns were answered," according to the White House statement.

It said the Geneva meeting "will allow the United States to present its ideas and concerns to the Soviets and to hear Soviet concerns." Washington has said the talks are not considered negotiations.

The Soviet Union wants to discuss a ban on testing. In a brief report Friday, the official news agency Tass said the talks are "to cover a whole range of questions: the control and the mapping out of ways of the complete rejection of nuclear tests."

Tass said Thursday the meeting was convened on Moscow's initiative and would "show who is for and who is against the termination of nuclear explosions."

One day before the delegations convened in Geneva, the United States exploded its 15th nuclear device since Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev announced a unilateral test moratorium on Aug. 8, 1985. The United States says it continues underground testing to maintain a reliable nuclear deterrent.

Gorbachev has said the Soviet moratorium will end Aug. 8, one year after it began.

Andranik M. Petrosyants leads the Soviet delegation. He has ministerial rank as chairman of the State Atomic Energy Committee and participated in three-way test ban talks including Britain that ended in 1980.

Robert Barker, the chief American delegate, is a nuclear physicist serving as deputy assistant director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. He is participating in to U.S.-Soviet talks for the first time.

No time period has been announced, but the discussions are expected to last two or three weeks.

Sister of hostage Anderson tops at Lebanon border

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The sister of kidnapped American hostage Terry Anderson visited the Syrian-Lebanese border but did not enter Lebanon itself in her quest to free her brother.

At the border, Peggy Say, 45, of Batavia, N.Y., said she thought about her brother and prayed for him.

"I talked to Terry in my mind and told him to have strength and courageand hope. I told him how proud I was of him," Mrs. Say said Thursday.

She also said she was impressed by the natural beauty of the dry expanses, the mountains and the lush green valleys in the border area. She did not visit a border crossing, confining her trip to the frontier line.

Mrs. Say drove 25 miles west of Damascus on the main highway between the Syrian capital and Beirut to the border area just north of Mount Hermon, spending two hours there. She said she did not cross the border because she promised her husband, David, she would remain outside Lebanon due to the fighting there.

"It was very peaceful and I felt very peaceful because I was keeping my promises to my dad and my brother to go find Terry," she said.

Both her father, Glenn Anderson, and her brother, Glenn Richard Anderson, died of cancer this year. She said she pledged to them both on their deathbeds that she would search for her missing brother.

Anderson, 38, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, was kidnapped in Beirut on March 16, 1985, and is believed held by an extremist group called Islamic Jihad.

The group has demanded that Kuwait free 17 comrades imprisoned for 1983 bombings in exchange for five kidnapped Americans, but Kuwait has refused.

Mrs. Say arrived in Damascus Sunday to meet Syrian officials and Lebanese leaders to discuss efforts to free Anderson. She said she expects to return to the United States early next week.

Syrian officials have told Mrs. Say the new Syrian-sponsored security plan to restore order in Lebanon includes efforts to find Anderson and other missing foreigners.

Earlier, Mrs. Say met Suheil Hamadah, an official of the Arabic Democratic Party of Lebanon.

U.N. chief has heart surgery

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar is recovering rapidly from a quadruple bypass heart operation, his spokesman reported Friday.

"The secretary-general is in extremely good condition," spokesman Francois Giuliani told reporters. "He is making rapid progress and improving steadily."

The 66-year-old U.N. chief remained in the cardiac intensive care unit at New York's Mount Sinai Medical Center after the four-hour operation Thursday.

Giuliani said that on Friday morning Perez de Cuellar telephoned his wife, Marcela, and sounded in "extremely good humor." Mrs. Perez de Cuellar was at her husband's side after he emerged from the operating room.

Perez de Cuellar is expected to spend 10 to 14 days in the hospital and return to his desk at U.N. headquarters within a few weeks, according to Giuliani.

PAN plans further protestsafter bridge blockade

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — Stronger protests will follow the 24-hour blockade of an international bridge, said opposition party leaders who demand annulment of elections because of alleged fraud.

The blockade of the Bridge of the Americas, the only commercial span linking this border city and El Paso, Texas, was scheduled to end at 8:30 p.m. MDT Friday.

About 5,000 supporters of the National Action Party, or PAN, slept on the Mexican half of the bridge Thursday night, one of four over the Rio Grande connecting the two cities.

No Mexican authorities were seen on the Mexican side. The U.S. Border Patrol doubled the number of agents around the bridge to 60, said El Paso acting chief Gustavo de la Vina.

PAN leaders ordered the takeover after a rally at nearby Chamizal Park marking the end of a 48-hour fast by 150 PAN women to protest alleged fraud by the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, during July 6 Chihuahua state elections.

"The element of surprise is on our side," said Gustavo Elizondo, who ran for mayor of Juarez on the PAN ticket. He said the protest measures were to be announced at 6 p.m. MDT Friday.

The PRI was declared winner in the governor's race, all 14 state legislative seats and 65 of 67 mayoralties in Chihuahua, the largest of Mexico's 31 states. Juarez, with a population of 1.2 million, is the largest city in Chihuahua.

Francisco Barrio, who resigned as Juarez mayor earlier this year to run for governor, told the crowd at the rally that he had met with government officials in Mexico City Thursday morning. The officials said proof presented by the PAN to document election fraud was not enough, according to Barrio.

"Everything we told them seemed insufficient," Barrio said. "Now we are taking our fight to another level."

The Bridge of the Americas is the only route between the two cities available to industrial vehicles as it is the only one where U.S. Customs Service officials and their Mexican counterparts have import-export lots.

About 700 tractor trailers hauling goods and another 400 empty trucks pass through the bridge each day, said Nicholas Goldstein, Customs supervisory inspector for cargo in El Paso.

Two other bridges had been designated as alternate routes for the trucks but the new arrangement was bound to produce problems, he said.

"It'll cause a horrendous traffic problem in the city," said Goldstein. "I think this is the worst situation we've ever had."

One of the routes would take cargo trucks through the downtown areas of both cities. The other would clog access roads to interstate highways on each side, he said.

Although Customs authorities in El Paso told their Mexican counterparts they were ready to process the commercial vehicles, Mexican officials by noon Friday were still refusing to issue permits for the new routes, said Ruben Saenz, Customs chief inspector in El Paso.

"I think they're holding up until 8:30 p.m," when the bridge blockade was to end, said Saenz.

Delays could hurt businesses on both sides of the border, said Michael Miles, co-owner of Rudolph Miles & Sons, one of the largest and oldest customs brokerage houses in El Paso.

Miles, whose family established the business in 1921, said Fridays are the heaviest day of the week for cargo trucks because shippers use the weekend for transport time to have goods at their destinations on Monday.

Halting traffic from assembly plants in Juarez could hurt factories in the United States, said Miles.

"Juarez plants are feeder plants. They assemble automotive wiring harnesses, interiors," said Miles. "Any type of shutdown could be critical to U.S. automobile plants because practically everybody is working on a just-on-time basis."

WORLD in brief

Male elephant dies from she-elephants' treatment

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Frederik the elephant, who had been pestered for years by seven aggressive she-elephants, has died of a heart attack brought on by stress, his keeper said Friday.

"It was as if he'd given up hope for a decent life after the rough treatment he suffered at the hands of his wives recently," said Leif Nielsen, director of the Givskud Lion Park zoo in Jutland, west Denmark.

Nielsen said that on Monday three of the female elephants with whom Frederik had shared a yard for years ganged up on him and shoved him into a pond.

"Frederik had always been a bit frail," said Nielsen. "He couldn't fend for himself and never recovered from his bout in the pond."

Every time Frederik tried to turn his amorous attentions to one female, the others would mob him out of jealousy, said Nielsen.

The zoo is considering acquiring a new, more robust male elephant who can cope with the females and sire offspring.

Underclad tourists fined

VENICE, Italy (AP) — Strolling beer drinkers and the underclad received $14 fines Friday as police began enforcing a new municipal dress and eating code, city officials said.

Tourists walking around this historic lagoon city shirtless or in bathing suits were fined, said municipal spokesman Bruno Padoan. He said others were fined for eating beer and sandwiches while wandering around St. Mark's Square, which is lined with outdoor cafes.

The fines are part of a municipal campaign entitled "Decorum and Cleanliness." But police generally warned tourists rather than fining them, Padoan said.

Under the new law visitors are also forbidden to sleep outside, to swim in city canals, or play loud music from portable radios.

"We cannot permit the historic areas of Venice to be transformed into a camping ground," Mayor Nereo Laroni said this week.

NATO maneuvers planned

CASTEAU, Belgium (AP) — Thousands of troops from six NATO countries will take part in maneuvers in northern Italy Sept. 9-23, Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Powers in Europe said Friday.

Troops from the United States, Britain, West Germany, Belgium and Luxembourg will join soldiers from the 5th Italian Corps in maneuvers to practice reinforcing northern Italy in times of international tension, NATO headquarters said in a statement.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization troops are from the Allied Mobile Force, which would to be deployed in vulnerable areas of Europe in advance of an outbreak of war to show the Soviet Union that NATO was determined to defend Western Europe.

The force is mainly a lightly armed deterrent.

Parolee accused of murder

MONTREAL (AP) — A 26-year-old man who was released on parole a week ago was charged Friday in the fatal shooting of a policeman in nearby St-Hubert.

Carol Pinel strode into court with no shirt, sporting several tattoos on his muscular, tanned body. He looked confidently about the small courtroom as the charges were read out before Judge Jules Vincent of Sessions Court.

Pinel entered no plea on the charges of first-degree murder of Constable Marcel Simard, 33, attempted murder of Simard's partner, Constable Louis Lavigne, and illegally discharging a firearm.

Pinel, who appeared only briefly in the courtroom in nearby Longueil, was remanded until Tuesday when he is to return to make a bail application.

Police are seeking a second man.

Temperatures above normal

From Staff and Wire Reports

Temperatures are expected to remain above normal with highs hovering near the century mark throughout the weekend and into the first part of next week, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

The forecast for today through Sunday is sunny and hot, with highs near 100 both days. The low tonight is expected to be in the mid 70s, and winds will be southwesterly 10-20 miles per hour.

Friday's high of 100 was just three degrees cooler than the record of 103 set in 1974. The overnight low of 69 was eight degrees cooler than the record low of 61 degrees, which was set in 1933.

STATE

Hot temperatures blanketed Texas Friday as scattered thundershowers developed over southwest Texas into the Big Bend, west of Wichita Falls and along the Texas coast.

Skies were fair to partly cloudy across most of the state as a high pressure system dominated the weather picture.

Winds were from the east and southeast over the Panhandle, with south to southwest winds over the rest of the state. Speeds were in the 10 to 20 mph range.

The forecast calls for widely scattered showers over portions of west and southeast Texas, with continued hot temperatures, the National Weather Service said.

NATION

A cold front brought strong thunderstorms to parts of the Great Lakes on Friday, while scattered showers and thunderstorms rained on sections of the Southeast.

Heavy thunderstorms occurred over southwest lower Michigan, northern Indiana and southern Lake Michigan.

Traverse City, Mich., received nearly 2 inches of rain in a six-hour period.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms, some heavy, were found across portions of the Carolinas, the Dakotas, Georgia, Florida and the lower Gulf Coast region. A few showers and thundershowers also occurred from the Great Basin into the northern Rockies, and across sections of western Kansas, the Northeast and the Middle Atlantic states.

Bryan, Gee still battling for honors

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland Lee golfer Larry Bryan fired a one-over par 73 Friday to win the Midland Country Club stop on the West Texas Junior PGA Tour, two strokes better than Lee teammate Bobby Gee in the 16-18 age group.

Bryan has been coming on strong this summer during the junior tour, marking his fifth West Texas tour title. Both Bryan and Gee will return to the Lee Rebels next fall as seniors as will Randy Milby, who had a 10th place 83, and Mike Abbott, who didn't play in this tournament.

"We should be a lot stronger at Lee next year with four of us returning," said Bryan, who will leave next week to play in the Texas state junior tournament with Gee.

Bryan has won titles at Green Tree CC, Denver City, McCamey and Odessa Country Club this summer on the junior tour. His best round on the tour came at Green Tree, his home course, with a 69.

The junior tour will come to a close Aug. 13-14 at Tascosa Country Club in Amarillo with the tournament of champions. You have to win or place second in a tour event to qualify for that honor, something both Bryan and Gee have had no problem with.

Still, Bryan wasn't totally satisfied with his victory Friday, saying, "I was really lucky out there. I had three birdies on the front nine, one from 30 feet. I also chipped in for a par on the final hole. I missed a lot of putts on the back nine and putting has been the problem this summer."

BRAD ROBERSON, who will be a sophomore at Odessa Permian finished third with a 76 while Midland High golfer Mike Johnson tied for fourth with Permian golfer Sammy Silvas at 78.

However, the eye catcher of the MCC segement of the tour came in the 12-13 age division where 13-year-old San Angelo golfer John Cantu fired a one under par 71 from the ladies' tees to win for the ninth time in 11 tour tries. His is a name that will be seen in years to come.

Cantu also has sub-par rounds of 68 at Green Tree and 70 at Odessa CC this summer, but the MCC stop gave him a little better taste of Midland. His only two tour losses have come in Midland when he lost to Midland's Randy Scharfenberg at Ranchland Hills CC and to Monahans' Stephen Ward in a playoff at Hogan Park.

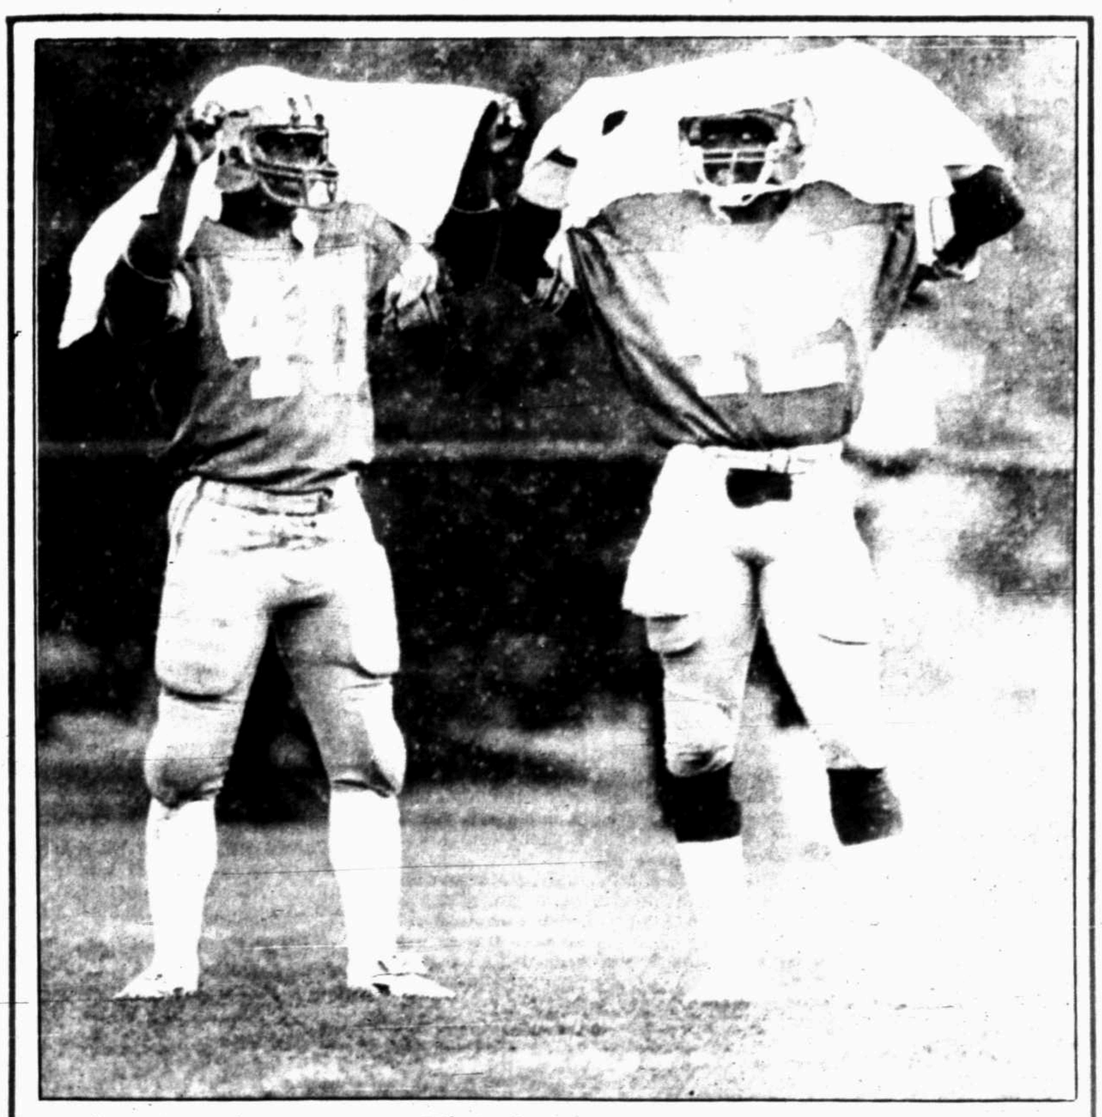

"I couldn't do anything for the first five holes, but I birdied 18 to finish under par," said Cantu. "This is the first year for me to play this tour, but I've been playing golf since I was three. I started playing as soon as I could grip a club."

ANDREWS' CHAD Campbell, who has won three times on the tour, took second place behind Cantu with a round of 74 and Midland's Ty Kretzinger, who has qualified for the Amarillo event, placed third with an 87.

Andrews' Jeff Reynolds had a 78 to win the 14-15 age group and it was a big victory for him.

"This is my first win on the tour," said Reynolds. "This is only my second year in competitive golf and this is the first tournament I've ever won."

Midland's J.J. King had an 80 to place second while a couple of Odessans had a battle for third when William Sturgeon defeated Lazar Kervin in a one hole playoff for the third spot.

Sherrard arrives; Clinkscale on hold

Associated Press

While No. 1 draft pick Mike Sherrard arrived in training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif., to reopen contract talks, strong safety Dextor Clinkscale was in Dallas saying that he would rather play for free than for the salary the Cowboys are offering.

Clinkscale says the Dallas Cowboys have a choice in a contract dispute with team management that led to his no-show at training camp.

"I want to play football," Clinkscale told the Dallas Times Herald in an interview published Friday. "But I'm going to play for what I'm worth or I'm going to play for free. If the NFLPA says I have to accept a salary, I'll give it to my Mom, or the Cowboys can give it to their favorite charity," he said.

Referring to himself as "Rodney Dangerfield" — the comedian who jokes he never gets any respect — he said he is trying to win some contract respect with the holdout.

Meanwhile, Sherrard, appeared at the Cowboys' training camp to talk with team officials for the first time in three weeks.

Leigh Steinberg, the agent representing the UCLA standout receiver, contacted Cowboys vice president Joe Bailey Wednesday to set up the meeting.

Steinberg said at the time that he wanted Sherrard to hear first-hand that the NFL team would pay $1.2 million for four years, or $1.5 million for five. Included in the offer was a $500,000 signing bonus, according to reports in Dallas.

The former UCLA standout receiver and agent Leigh Steinberg met with Cowboys vice president Joe Bailey for two hours but did not sign a contract.

"He (Bailey) told me there was nothing personal in this," said Sherrard, who was the 18th player taken in the NFL draft. "Joe told me the Cowboys' philosophy on how they like to pay rookies, or how they don't like to pay rookies, as the case may be. I didn't really even get close to signing today but I didn't figure I would."

Steinberg said, "I've negotiated contracts for 12 years and have had 20 No. 1 picks and never experienced this. It's like, 'Here, sign it.' There has not been one iota of difference since we started.

"I thought maybe that there could be a dramatic breakthrough today. After all, the Cowboys are a dramatic team," said the agent, who is asking $1.6 million on a four-year contract.

CLINKSCALE, three-year starter at strong safety, said his attorney told Cowboys management before last season that he was interested in renegotiating his contract.

About three weeks before veterans were to report to camp, he said, his attorney reminded new negotiator Joe Bailey of the request but still got no response.

Clinkscale has stayed away from training camp at Thousand Oaks, Calif. as he enters his option year.

Angels end 3-game skid

From Staff Reports

SHREVEPORT — The Midland Angels ended a three-game losing streak to the Shreveport Captians here Friday night by exploding for five runs in the first inning on the way to a 12-4 Texas League romp before a huge Shreveport crowd of 3,628.

Kevin King highlighted the big opening inning with his 19th homer of the season off Brian Ohnoutka, who lasted only ⅔-inning to fall 6-9 on the year.

Dante Bichette hit his sixth homer of the year and David Heath connected for his fifth homer of the season in the game. Heath led the Angels with four hits on the night. James Randall and Brian Brady both had three hits for the Angels, who in all had 18 hits on the night.

Phil Venturino started for the Angels and gave up all four of Shreveport's runs, three of which were earned, including Alan Cockrell's 12th homer of the year.

Terry Clark got the win in relief, raising his record to 7-2. Clark was brilliant in his five innings of work after relieving Venturino after two batters in the fifth. Clark gave up only one hit over five innings, didn't walk a batter and struckout four.

It was the last game of the year between the two clubs and the Angels are glad. They won only two of the five games here and will be moving to Jackson, Miss., tonight to take on the Mets for the last five games of the season with Jackson.

The Angels had lost three games in a row to the surging Caps, who have a commanding lead in the Texas League East. The big five runs in the first inning proved to be all the Angels needed, but they broke open a 5-3 game in the fourth through eighth innings with single runs in the fourth, fifth and eighth and had two-run innings in the sixth and seventh frames.

No verdict returned in USFL-NFL trial

By DAVE GOLDBERG

NEW YORK (AP) — The jury considering the USFL's $1.69 billion antitrust suit against the NFL deliberated for 7½ hours Friday without reaching a verdict. It asked to see 13 exhibits that reach directly at the heart of case.

Those who had been the main characters in the 12 week trial — the chief lawyers and top officials from both leagues — spent the day at their offices while associates stood watch, waiting for word that never came.

The only development of the day was the jury's request at 1:30 p.m. for exhibits and testimony.

They included a copy of the USFL's principal "smoking gun," a presentation to 65 NFL owners by Harvard business school professor Michael Porter that the USFL maintains was its master plan for destroying it.

BUT THE jury also wanted to see a number of letters and documents introduced by the NFL to support its contention that USFL brought on its own demise. The five women and a man further asked for a portion of a report by McKinsey and Co., a consulting firm whose recommendation that the USFL remain in the spring was ignored by the league when it voted to move to the fall.

Also requested was the testimony given by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and Donald Trump, owner of the USFL New Jersey Generals, on their March 12, 1984 meeting.

Rozelle's version of that session is that Trump offered to drop the plans for a suit against the NFL if he could get an NFL expansion franchise in New York. Trump claimed that it was Rozelle who offered him a franchise if he would keep the USFL in the spring.

Getting the documents to the jury took a while as court officials had to make copies of the files. The jury was dismissed for day shortly after 5 p.m.

Deliberations will resume Saturday morning. There will be no deliberations Sunday.

Sports Festival opens in comfort

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

HOUSTON (AP) — In the controlled 76-degree comfort of the Astrodome, the seventh annual U.S. Olympic Festival got a Texas-sized "Howdy" in opening ceremonies on Friday night.

"It's 40 degrees cooler inside here than it was in Baton Rouge, La., last year," beamed Mike Moran, director of public information and media relations for the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The gala tribute before some 30,000 fans in the world's first indoor stadium included a Sesquicentennial salute to the Lone Star State and Houston, which gambled $5.5 million to bring the Festival here.

The 150th birthday celebration featured the unveiling of a Texas flag that was 50 yards across.

The Festival marked yet another national event in a big year for Texas sports. Also held in the state in 1986 were included the NCAA Final Four basketball tournament and NBA All-Star games in Dallas and the major league baseball All-Star Game and NBA playoff finals in Houston.

From the moment 12-year-old Marla Locke sang the national anthem, there was a whirl of activity that included a Texas hoedown, a Mexican Fiesta, singer Jose Feliciano, Otis Day and The Knights, and The Beach Boys.

Gymnastics star Kristie Phillips and Kirk Baptiste, a 1984 Olympic silver medalist — both Houston residents — brought the Festival torch into the Dome, ending a 4,600-mile journey that began on Pikes Peak, Colo., June 21.

Carl Lewis, a four-time gold medal winner in the 1984 Olympics, was the flag bearer for a procession of 3,000 athletes who will compete for 10 days.

For Houston, it's economy depressed by low oil prices, the shindig was a big morale boost.

Schmidt's power ends Astros' streak

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Mike Schmidt hit his 22nd home run of the year and Charles Hudson allowed only one unearned run over six innings as the Philadelphia Phillies ended the Astros' seven-game winning streak with a 4-2 victory over Houston Friday night.

Schmidt leads the National League with 74 RBI, and is now tied with Cincinnati's Dave Parker for the home run lead.

Hudson, 6-9, allowed five hits, struck out three and walked two. Jim Deshaies, 5-3 took the loss. Steve Bedrosian pitched the final two innings to gain his 13th save.

The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the first when Gary Redus led off with a double and two outs later scored on a Von Hayes single.

Deshaies' wildness gave the Phillies their second run in the second inning. After loading the bases on walks he issued another with two outs to Ron Roenicke to force in a run.

In the third the Astros loaded the bases with no outs, but Hudson got Glenn Davis on a popup before Kevin Bass grounded into a force as Bill Doran scored. Hudson then retired Jose Cruz on a roller to second.

Schmidt opened the third inning with his homer, a drive to deep center field on an 0-1 pitch from reliever Larry Andersen. The Phillies added their final run in the fifth on Glenn Wilson's sacrifice fly.

Houston got their first two batters on in the eighth off reliever Dan Schatzeder who was then replaced by Bedrosian.

Bedrosian retired Davis and Bass, but an error by second baseman Juan Samuel allowed Dickie Thon to score Houston's second run of the game.

PITTSBURGH — Pittsburgh first baseman Sid Bream committed two run-scoring errors during San Francisco's four-run third inning and Dan Gladden hit a two-run double in the fifth as the Giants defeated the Pirates.

The victory snapped a three-game Giants' losing streak and was Pittsburgh's fourth straight loss.

Roger Mason, 3-4, worked 5 2-3 innings, giving up six hits, for the victory. The three runs off him came on Barry Bonds' bases-empty homer and R.J. Reynolds' two-run shot. Jeff Robinson finished, allowing two hits, for his sixth save.

The Giants took a 4-0 lead in the third. Gladden singled and scored on Robby Thompson's double before Chris Brown lined an RBI single to center.

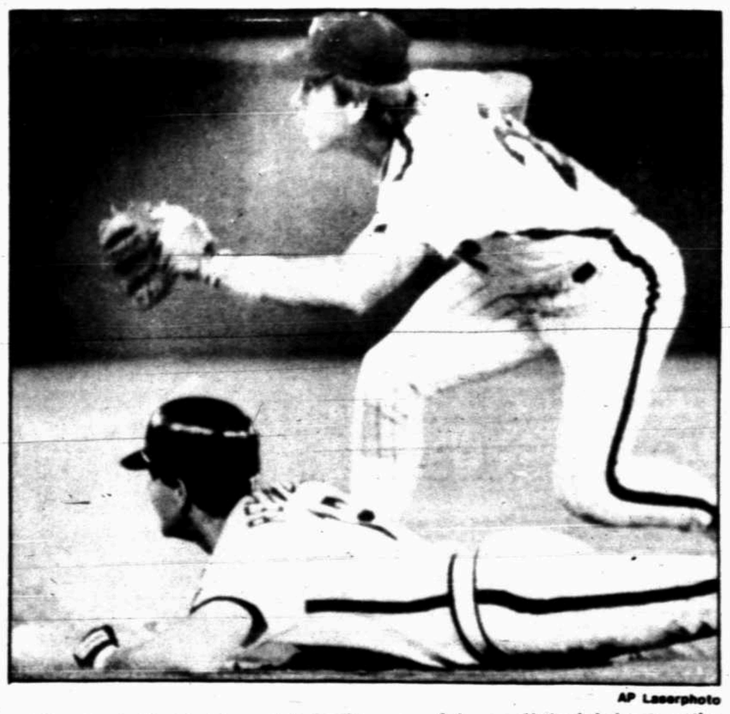

Cardinals 3, Padres 2

ST. LOUIS — Bob Forsch scattered six hits while pitching into the eighth inning and Vince Coleman and Ozzie Smith singled home runs in the second as the St. Louis defeated San Diego night for its fourth straight victory.

Forsch won his third straight start and equaled his 1985 record of 9-6.

Oilers and Everett $1.5 million apart

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

SAN ANGELO (AP) — The Houston Oilers and No. 1 draft pick Jim Everett of Purdue are $1.5 million apart in their contract negotiations, Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzeg said Friday.

Agent Marv Demoff and Everett, the third player selected in the 1986 NFL draft, are seeking a four-year contract totaling $3.6 million and the Oilers are offering about $2 million, Herzeg said.

"I think they have to come back to us with another proposal," Herzeg said. "They are asking for more than (Tony) Casillas and the top three picks have usually gone in a domino effect."

Casillas, a defensive lineman from Oklahoma, signed a four-year contract with the Atlanta Falcons for a reported $2 million. He was the second player chosen in the draft.

Buffalo made Auburn's Bo Jackson the draft's No. 1 selection, but the 1986 Heisman Trophy winner instead signed a baseball contract and currently is playing in the minor leagues.

Herzeg, trying to help first-year coach Jerry Glanville end five years of losing records, also has two unhappy starters and unsigned second- and third-round picks.

DREW HILL, who added a needed deep threat to the Oiler offense last season, wants to renegotiate his contract and starting left tackle Harvey Salem is demanding to be traded to a West Coast team.

Both are being fined $1,000 per day as camp holdouts and will continue to be fined until they show up and begin honoring their contracts, Herzeg said.

"Our point is not to be a stumbling block to Harvey," Herzeg said. "We've tried to make a fair market trade but obviously that hasn't happened.

"When a player tells a team there's no way he'll play for you in 1986, there's no way you can get fair market value because the other teams believe you can be exploited.

"The point is, we are not going to be exploited and if Harvey Salem must sit out the season, so be it."

Salem is an integral part of the Oilers' promising offensive line that is filled with first- and second-round draft choices.

Hill caught 64 passes for the Oilers last season and wants to renegotiate the remaining two years of his contract.

HOUSTON OBTAINED Hill from Los Angeles, where he was unhappy in the Rams' run-oriented offense.

"I told Drew I was disappointed in his holdout," Herzeg said. "We are the team that traded for Drew and gave him a chance to play.

"I explained our policy of not renegotiating contracts and that it will cost him $1,000 per day as long as he holds out."

The Oilers also have failed to sign No. 2 pick, wide receiver Ernest Givins of Louisville, and No. 3 selection, running back Allen Pinkett of Notre Dame.

Herzeg said Givins was seeking a contract for more than most of the 1986 first-round picks. Herzeg said Demoff, also representing Pinkett, had a contract offer en route to his office.

The unsigned and unhappy players have not cast a gloom over the Oilers' early camp, Herzeg said.

"I think we're in much better shape than a lot of teams because we have all of our veteran starters under contract," Herzeg said. "That was a goal, to make sure we started camp with the starters all signed."

Rangers cleaning up on Indians

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Pete Incaviglia's run-scoring single broke a seventh-inning tie and Larry Parrish drove in three runs Friday night as the Texas Rangers beat the Cleveland Indians 7-5.

The Indians, trailing 5-0 after five innings, tied it with one run in the sixth and four more in the seventh. But Texas scored twice in the seventh against Scott Bailes, 7-6.

Oddibe McDowell led off with a single and took third on a double by Scott Fletcher, his fourth hit of the game. After Pete O'Brien lined out, Ernie Camacho relieved Bailes and gave up Incaviglia's single. Parrish followed with his second sacrifice fly of the game.

Greg Harris, 4-8, the third Texas pitcher, got the victory with three innings of scoreless relief.

AL Roundup

Orioles 6, White Sox 2

BALTIMORE — Fred Lynn and Rick Dempsey hit solo home runs as Baltimore beat Chicago and sent the White Sox to their fifth straight loss.

Mike Boddicker, 13-5, allowed one run on six hits in seven innings. Don Aase finished up for his major league-leading 26th save.

Neil Allen, 7-2, who had pitched two consecutive shutouts, took the loss. The Orioles ended Allen's scoreless string at 21⅔ innings when Lee Lacy led off the fourth with a single, took third on a single by Lynn and scored as Cal Ripken grounded into a double play.

Lynn broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth with his 17th home run of the season. Lynn connected on a 2-2 delivery from Allen. On the previous pitch, Lynn checked his swing and after an appeal by the White Sox, third base umpire Durwood Merrill ruled that Lynn had stopped in time.

Allen left the game after apparently pulling a muscle while warming up for the seventh inning.

Baltimore broke the game open with four runs in the eighth against Bob James. Dempsey led off the inning with his 11th homer, Ripken hit an RBI double, pinch-hitter Juan Beniquez singled home a run and Larry Sheets hit a sacrifice fly.

Tigers 9, Royals 2

DETROIT — John Grubb homered and drove in four runs and Kirk Gibson and Lance Parrish hit consecutive homers leading Detroit past Kansas City.

Rookie Eric King, 7-2, gave up one run on five hits in 6⅔ innings as Detroit won for the 11th time in 15 games.

Grubb broke open a 4-1 game with a three-run homer in the fifth inning, a line drive that barely cleared the fence in right field. Grubb has hit seven home runs this season, five in his last nine games.

Parrish had four of the Tigers' 15 hits. Detroit rapped 11 hits in five innings off Dennis Leonard, 6-9. Leonard has not won in his last nine outings.

Gibson, with his 15th homer, and Parrish, with his 22nd, gave the Tigers a 4-1 lead in third.

Twins 9, Yankees 5

NEW YORK — Gary Gaetti drove in five runs with two homers, backing Neal Heaton to his first victory with Minnesota as the Twins beat New York, ending the Yankees' three-game winning streak.

Minnesota sent 11 men to the plate in the second inning, scoring six runs. Gaetti had a three-run home run and Kirby Puckett a two-run homer in the inning. Gaetti added a two-run home run in the seventh, giving him 21 this season.

Heaton, 4-9, held the Yankees scoreless until the sixth inning when they got two runs and chased the Twins lefty. Don Mattingly hit a solo homer in the inning, his 19th.

Red Sox 8, Angels 1

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Roger Clemens, the top winner in the major leagues, pitched the first two-hitter of his career and Rich Gedman hit a grand slam as Boston broke a four-game losing streak by beating California.

Clemens, 17-2, allowed doubles to Reggie Jackson in the fifth inning and Jerry Narron in the seventh. Clemens, 10-0 on the road this season, struck out seven and walked two in his seventh complete game.

Gedman's second career grand slam capped a five-run fifth inning that chased John Candelaria, 3-1. The Red Sox have hit three grand slams this season, all in support of Clemens.

Brewers 4, Mariners 2

SEATTLE — Ted Higuera checked Seattle on five hits over seven innings and Charlie Moore drove in two runs with a bases-loaded double, leading Milwaukee over the Mariners.

Higuera, 12-7, struck out 10 and walked two. Mark Clear pitched the final two innings for his sixth save.

The Brewers collected 10 hits and drew four walks but had five runners thrown out trying to take an extra base.

'Skins, Theismann finally part ways

Associated Press

Training camps are where careers are supposed to begin. Quarterback Joe Theismann's tenure with the Washington Redskins, and very likely in pro football, ended Friday.

Theismann, the 1983 NFL Most Valuable Player and who quarterbacked the Washington Redskins to a 1983 Super Bowl victory over the Miami Dolphins, was waived after being declared unfit to play and rejecting the team's recommendation that he retire.

Theismann, who has never fully recovered from a broken right leg suffered in mid-season last year, stands to benefit from being waived rather than retired.

He has a $1.4 million insurance policy with Lloyd's of London to cover a career ending injury, and reportedly would have to fail two more physical exams to collect. Also,by being put on the waived-flunked physical list, Theismann will receive $65,000 from the NFL for injury protection and his medical bills will be paid by the league for one year.

He was bid farewell in a three-page letter from Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke, which documented several of Theismann's accomplishments with the Redskins, and also mentioned Cooke's desire that he retire.

"But since you've cast your die for this waiver...I give in to your wish," Cooke wrote. "I have urged you to retire. In your usual few thousand words, you say no...You refuse to be dissuaded from the only alternative to retirement, namely, you insist on being put on waivers."

In 12 years in the NFL, Theismann completed 2,044 of 3,602 pass attempts for 31,299 yards, 200 touchdowns and 185 interceptions.

A Lions official said the former Penn State fullback failed the exam because of recurring knee problems.

Broncos

Denver waived five players, bringing the team's training-camp roster to 91. The Broncos also placed free agent tight end John Chesley on the "reserved — did not report" list.

Denver waived defensive backs Mike Bowser, Ken Priestley and James Yarbrough, guard Neil Maune and punter Scott Sonner.

Bears

Free-agent running back Calvin Murray has begun to regain feeling in his left leg, but doctors continued to keep him under observation at Lake Forest, Ill., Hospital.

Murray, 23, lost feeling in the leg after a collision in a contract drill Wednesday morning.

Browns

Seven veterans, including five who were holding out because of contract disputes, failed to report for Cleveland's training camp.

Outside linebacker Chip Banks, nose tackle Bob Golic, both Pro Bowl selections last season, missed the veterans' mandatory noon reporting deadline. Starting inside linebacker Eddie Johnson, backup tight end Harry Holt and wide receiver-kick returner Glen Young also were absent.

Saints

New Orleans' signed tight end Larry Hardy, who was without contract at the end of the 1985 season. The Saints said four more veterans without contracts reported to camp and were expected to sign: linebacker Scott Palluer, cornerback Dave Waymer and tackle Jim Rourke.

Quarterback Richard Todd, who reported to camp Wednesday, pulled a back muscle in his first workout Thursday morning.

Dolphins

Miami is continuing negotiations with linebacker John Offerdahl, the team's top draft pick out of Western Michigan, and veteran defensive end Doug Betters.

An associate of Leigh Steinberg, Betters' agent, said Steinberg made a counter-offer to the Dolphins but he hadn't received a reply several hours later.

Packers

Green Bay Coach Forrest Gregg said unsigned veteran wide receiver Phillip Epps will have to win his starting job back from second-year man Walter Stanley if he can.

After his team ran through another practice session at preseason training camp, Greggh described Stanley, a second-year man out of Mesa College, as "the starting receiver on that side."

Epps, a six-year veteran, has not reached contract terms with the club.

Chargers

Veteran linebacker Linden King was waived and numerically replaced by a young linebacker acquired from the Atlanta Falcons.

The Chargers received inside linebacker Thomas Benson from the Falcons in exchange for an undisclosed future draft choice. Benson was a second round draft pick by Atlanta in the 1984 NFL draft. He played in all 16 of the Falcons' games last year, starting one.

Steelers

Pittsburgh neared a contract agreement with one of their three remaining unsigned draft choices, but first-round choice John Rienstra remained out of camp.

Second-round draft choice Gerald Williams, a defensive lineman from Auburn, signed and defensive back Harvey Clayton, one of two previously unsigned veterans, agreed to a two-year contract in time to take part in an afternoon practice.

Patriots

New England ran through a one-hour morning session and a 90-minute afternoon session without their top three top draft choices and four veterans in preparation for a Saturday scrimmage with the Washington Redskins in Carlisle, Pa.

Running back Reggie Dupard, the Patriots' first-round choice, and nose tackle Mike Ruth and defensive back Vencie Glenn, both second-round choices, remained out of camp for the eighth consecutive day.

Bengals

Running back James Brooks, who led Cincinnati in rushing last season, has signed a new, one-year contract with the team.

Brooks, 27, a five-year pro from Auburn, nor the club had revealed contract details, but Brooks' old contract was to pay him a reported salary of $220,000 this season.

Giants

New York made no progress in efforts to sign their top four draft-picks as they readied for their first controlled scrimmage this weekend. General Manager George Young said Friday that the Giants made no new offers to either No. 1 pick Eric Dorsey of Notre Dame, a defensive end, or their three unsigned second-round selections, cornerback Mark Collins of Cal-State Fullerton, nose tackle Erik Howard of Washington State and linebacker Pepper Johnson of Ohio State.

Vikings

Steve Jordan, last year's leading receiver, signed Friday. But first draft choice Gerald Robinson, a 6-3, 253-pound defensive end from Auburn, three other rookies and two veterans remained without contracts as the Vikings prepared to open training camp Monday.

Cardinals

Center Gene Chilton, St. Louis' third pick in this year's draft, reported to training camp Friday and participated in his first professional workout. Chilton, a 6-foot-3, 271-pounder from Texas, had been a holdout for the first two weeks of training camp because of a contract dispute. He signed an agreement Thursday night and passed his physical exam Friday morning, then participated in the Friday afternoon workout.

Chiefs

Kansas City, after reducing their training camp roster to 98 by waiving six rookies, sent veterans through a light workout without pads Friday. A few selected veterans had been working with rookies and free agents since camp opened last week, but others did not have to report until Thursday night.

The first two-a-day drills in pads for veterans begin Saturday.

Fightin' Mets to grand jury

HOUSTON (AP) — A grand jury will determine whether New York Mets pitcher Ron Darling and second baseman Tim Teufel should be indicted on charges of assaulting two police officers working off-duty at a nightclub, a judge ruled Friday.

Darling and Teufel attended Friday's examining trial conducted by State District Judge Joe Kegan in a packed courtroom, but did not testify or comment on the case.

Both Mets players were arrested early July 19 outside Cooter's nightclub in Houston and accused of assaulting an off-duty police officer during a scuffle.

Pitchers Bob Ojeda and Rick Aguilera were arrested and charged with hindering arrest, and all four were released later that afternoon. A hearing on the misdemeanor charges against Ojeda and Aguilera is pending.

Officer R.G. Gresham testified Friday that the scuffle began when Teufel tried to take a beer bottle out of the club and then swore at Gresham.

Teammates, friend to be indicted

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — A longtime friend and two teammates of Len Bias have been indicted by a grand jury investigating the cocaine-induced death of the University of Maryland basketball star, two Washington television stations reported Friday.

WRC-TV and WUSA-TV reported that Brian Lee Tribble, a longtime Bias friend, and David Gregg and Terry Long, teammates who shared a dormitory suite with Bias, had been indicted.

WRC-TV, quoting unidentified sources, said that Tribble was indicted on charges of distribution of cocaine and PCP and obstruction of justice, and Long and Gregg were indicted on charges of possession of cocaine.

Arthur A. Marshall Jr., the county prosecutor conducting the investigation, would not confirm or deny the media reports of who was indicted.

"You've seen the order and the records are sealed," Marshall, reached at a party for a judge at a Prince George's County country club, told The Associated Press.

Tribble's attorney, William Cahill, when reached at his Baltimore office, said he could not talk.

Reds 9, Expos 2

CINCINNATI — Eric Davis homered and scored three runs and Buddy Bell hit a three-run home run to back John Denny's five-hitter and lead Cincinnati over Montreal, ending the Reds' five-game losing streak.

Davis had three hits in the game. His 15th home run of the year, in the second, brought the Reds to within 2-1. He doubled in Cincinnati's three-run fourth as the Reds took a 4-2 lead. Eddie Milner led off the fourth with a home run.

Davis also grounded out in the eighth inning and drove in Cincinnati's run off Vance Law, who was making his third pitching appearance of the season.

Davis has now hit in 17 consecutive games, the longest current streak in the National League. It tied the previous season mark set by the Expos' Tim Raines.

Denny, 7-9, walked one batter and struck out four.

Wayne Krenchicki singled and Tim Wallach hit a home run in the second inning, his 15th, giving the Expos a 2-0 lead.

Cubs 8, Dodgers 3

CHICAGO — Steve Trout limited Los Angeles to five hits over six innings and Jody Davis hit a two-run homer leading Chicago over the Dodgers.

Keith Moreland had four hits, scored two runs and knocked in another to help the Cubs snap the Dodgers' four-game winning streak.

Trout, 4-3, won his first game since June 8 by not allowing a run while striking out four and walking two.

Trout, who has not had a complete game since last September, was relieved in the seventh by Dave Gumpert. Lee Smith pitched the final 1⅔ innings for his 17th save.

Davis' homer, his 13th of the season, came in the eighth after the Dodgers had rallied from a four-run deficit and climbed to within 5-3.

Davis Love III leading field at Buick Open

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Rookie Davis Love III shook off some early morning rain and minor putting difficulties Friday, and shot a 5-under-par 67 to take a three-stroke lead at 12-under 132, in the $500,000 Buick Open golf championship.

"I let the rain get to me for a while, but then I got used to it," said Love, 22, a three-time All-American from the University of North Carolina. "By the turn, it all started to come together."

Chasing Love were Ed Fiori and Bobby Wadkins, both at 9-under 135. Fiori shot a 69 in the second round and Wadkins 66.

Love's father is a teaching pro at Sea Island Golf Club on St. Simons Island, Ga. and a member of the instructional staff of Golf Digest magazine.

"I talked with Dad last night and he said what he always says: 'Take dead aim,' " said Love, who is trying to win his first tournament on the Tour. "I talk with him almost every night because he's so interested."

Love, one of the longest hitters on the Tour, has been in the money in 14 of his 21 tournaments this year. His $78,662 in earnings places him 67th on the PGA money list. Love's best finishes so far have been a third in the Bahamas Classic and a tie for third at the Canadian Open.

ANDREW MAGEE'S 65 was the lowest score in the second round. It catapulted him into a 13-way tie for third at 136.

"It was close to a picture-perfect round," Magee said. "I hit all 18 greens."

Billy Pierot, who was tied for the lead with Love at 7-under 65 after the first round, carded a par 72 Friday. The 30-year-old Pierot, also a first-year Tour pro, was tied with Jody Mudd, Steve Pate, J.C. Snead and Bob Lohr at 137.

Half the field played in the morning and the other half played in the afternoon over the rolling 7,014-yard Warwick Hills Golf & Country Club course.

The rain stopped about mid-morning and the course quickly dried. Another shower passed through late in the afternoon but play was never halted.

Love, whose father was a touring pro in the 1960s and 1970s, started Friday's play on the back nine and three-putted for a bogey on the 335-yard 12th hole, a par 4.

It would be his only bogey of the day, however. On the 13th hole, a 490-yard, par-5, Love followed a good 5-iron second shot with a chip to within five feet of the cup and sank the putt for a birdie. He then birdied five holes on the front side — his final nine.

"I got off to a bad start," Love said. "It wasn't too solid and I three-putted the third hole (No. 12 on the golf course) after I was only 30 yards from the green (after a booming tee shot).

"THEN I started to drive it a little better."

Fiori who, like Love, also played in the morning, started the second round only a stroke behind Love but bogeyed two of his first nine holes.

"The rain caused some problems," Fiori said. "It's tough holding a club with sweaty hands and the rain.

"I've put myself in position to make a charge this weekend."

Wadkins' round included an eagle on No. 15, a 580-yard, par-5. After hitting a 3-wood into the right bunker on his second shot, Wadkins holed the sand shot from 35 feet.

Pierot had two 6s on the front side Friday, bogeying both par-5 holes. That kind of golf is almost always fatal at Warwick Hills where 75 players broke par the first day.

The field for the final two rounds was cut at 141, 3-under, the lowest cut on the Tour this year. Seventy players survived the cut.

Winner of the Buick Open will earn $90,000 and use of an automobile for a year.

Sports in Brief

TENNIS

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — Martina Navratilova and Pam Shriver saved the top-ranked United States from elimination after Italy's Sandra Cecchini upset Chris Evert Lloyd in the quarterfinals of the Federation Cup.

Navratilova beat Italy's top player, Rafaella Reggi, 6-2, 6-2, then combined with Shriver to defeat Reggi and Laura Garrone 6-3, 6-1 after Cecchini, ranked 64th in the world, defeated the mistake-prone Lloyd 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Lloyd, the world's second-ranked player, had never lost in 29 previous Federation Cup singles matches.

In Saturday's semifinals, the Americans will meet third-seeded West Germany, whose patch-work lineup of Claudia Kohde-Kilsch and Bettina Bunge eliminated fifth-seeded Bulgaria 2-1, in a series also decided by the doubles match.

CYCLING

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France — Switzerland's Erich Maechler won the 21st leg of the Tour de France, and American Greg Lemond retained the overall leadership.

Maechler crossed the finish line alone at the top of the Puy-de-Dome hill. He was among a knot of six riders when he began the three-mile climb to the summit.

The final climb was critical too for Lemond, who consolidated his position as overall leader, taking a nearly 60-second lead over French star Bernard Hinault, five time winner of the cycling classic.

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France — Maria Canins of Italy extended her already impressive overall lead to nearly 16 minutes ahead of France's Jeannie Longo in the 13th leg of the Women's Tour de France.

Canins also was the easy winner for the day, coming in one minute, 31 seconds ahead of American Inga Thompson. Longo, who has been the only rider resembling a threat to Canins in the tour this year, came in third, finishing the course a minute after Thompson.

FOOTBALL

WEST CHESTER, Pa. — Keith Byars, the former Ohio State running back drafted in the first round by the Philadelphia Eagles and described by new Coach Buddy Ryan as a "franchise player," signed a four-year contract Friday night, ending a weeklong holdout.

While no terms were disclosed, it is believed that Byars will earn, with incentives, a reported minimum $1.6 million over the life of the contract.

Byars, his parents and sister attended a 10:15 p.m. news conference at the Eagles pre-season training camp to announce the signing.

"It is no secret that during our draft we said Keith Byars represented a great part of our future," said Braman.

Eastern takes long road to state tournament

From Staff Reports

Midland Eastern earned a berth in the Texas State Sophomore League tournament the hard way, coming through the losers' bracket to win the Area title at San Angelo this week.

Eastern, sponsored by Berg Motors, had to win three games the final day in the four-team tournament.

However the travail was worth it. The Midlanders advance to the eight-team state meet beginning Tuesday in Cedar Hill, located just outside of Dallas.

Eastern defeated Western (Alta) in the all Midland title game, 11-5, with a five home run barrage. It was Western which handed the champs their lone defeat, 6-2, earlier as James Madrid fired a three hitter and Joe Herrera's two-run single was the big blow of the win.

Sophomores

Eastern began the long road back by beating Brownwood, 4-3, on the pitching of Jimmy Martin and a home run by Kevin Irish and Ty Chambers' run-scoring single.

Eastern then came back to force an "if necessary" game by beating Western, 3-1, in the rematch. Steve Guerra, who fanned 15 and pitched five-hit ball in winning the tournament opener, 7-0, over Brownwood, came on in relief to whiff eight and earn the win over James Madrid. Jimmy Martin knocked in three runs while Chambers, Patrick Mowles and Shane Greeley were among those collecting hits. For Western, Robert McNeil knocked in the only run.

Chambers, Guerra and Bob Belcher all hit two-run homers in the championship final for Eastern and Gary Young and Mowles had solo homers.

Kevin Irish, who came on in relief in the first inning, got the win while Guerra contributed three innings of runless, hitless relief in which he fanned seven of the nine batters he faced for the save. John Dickenson was the loser.

Adubato named Mav's assistant

DALLAS (AP) — Richie Adubato, a veteran of seven years of coaching in the NBA, was named Friday as assistant to Dallas Mavericks Head Coach Dick Motta.

Adubato, after spending four years as assistant to Hubie Brown of the New York Knicks, replaces Bob Weiss, who after the end of last season was named head coach of the San Antonio Spurs.

"We had a number of qualified applicants. I'm excited about working with Richie," Motta said. "Like me, he's coached at every level from junior high to the pros.

"He's been a head coach and assistant and his varied background intrigues me. He's a good basketball man. Basically he'll come in and assume Bob Weiss's responsiblities, mainly scouting and preparation," Motta said.

Adubato also was a scout for the Atlanta Hawks under Brown and was an assistant with the Detroit Pistons under Dick Vitale, taking over as interim coach when Vitale was fired 13 games into the 1979-80 season and guiding the Pistons to a 12-58 record, said Kevin Sullivan, a Mavericks spokesman.

11th hour qualifier's 67 leads seniors

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Erickson, an 11th-hour qualifier who has failed to post a top 10 finish this year, strung together three birdies on his final four holes Friday to shoot a 5-under-par 67 and take the early lead in the MONY Syracuse Senior Classic.

Erickson, who was granted the last of four sponsors' exemptions Tuesday after failing to qualify outright, outdistanced Orville Moody and Chi Chi Rodriguez by one stroke apiece.

Moody finished with a flourish and moved into the second round with a 4-under-par 68.

Rodriguez shot back-to-back eagles only to find himself thwarted later by a double-bogey on the par-3 fourth hole. He birdied the next hole then held par and finished with another birdie to pull into a second-place tie.

Bruce Crampton, Billy Casper, Bill Collins and Pete Brown were three strokes back at 70, while defending champion Peter Thomson shot an even-par 72.

Erickson, who started play on the back nine, made the turn with a 2-under-par 34.

Scranton's 64 first off, first in

WOODBRIDGE, Ontario (AP) — Nancy Scranton was first off the tee and first in the clubhouse Friday en route to an 8-under-par 64 and the second-round lead in the LPGA du Maurier Classic tournament.

Scranton, who is bidding for her first LPGA Tour victory, waited for most of the afternoon to make sure her score stood.

Scranton, 25, set one tournament record and tied two others as she tamed the 6,107-yard Board of Trade layout. Her 36-hole total of 10-under, 134, was a low halfway score for the only Canadian stop on the women's pro circuit and the last of the Tour's four Grand Slam events.

LPGA

First-round leader Chris Johnson was one shot behind the leader after carding a 68. Another four shots back at 139 and tied for third were 1984 tournament winner Juli Inkster, who birdied her first four holes before settling for a 4-under 68, and Betsy King, with a 67.

The women are playing for a purse of about $353,000, with the winner's check worth $53,000.

Scranton's round of 64 tied Hall of Famer JoAnne Carner's 18-hole score set at St. George's in Toronto in 1978 and tied [illegible] year at [illegible] field, Quebec, [illegible]

Sports in Brief

TENNIS

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — Martina Navratilova and Pam Shriver saved the top-ranked United States from elimination after Italy's Sandra Cecchini upset Chris Evert Lloyd in the quarterfinals of the Federation Cup.

Navratilova beat Italy's top player, Rafaella Reggi, 6-2, 6-2, then combined with Shriver to defeat Reggi and Laura Garrone 6-3, 6-1 after Cecchini, ranked 64th in the world, defeated the mistake-prone Lloyd 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Lloyd, the world's second-ranked player, had never lost in 29 previous Federation Cup singles matches.

In Saturday's semifinals, the Americans will meet third-seeded West Germany, whose patch-work lineup of Claudia Kohde-Kilsch and Bettina Bunge eliminated fifth-seeded Bulgaria 2-1, in a series also decided by the doubles match.

CYCLING

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France — Switzerland's Erich Maechler won the 21st leg of the Tour de France, and American Greg Lemond retained the overall leadership.

Maechler crossed the finish line alone at the top of the Puy-de-Dome hill. He was among a knot of six riders when he began the three-mile climb to the summit.

The final climb was critical too for Lemond, who consolidated his position as overall leader, taking a nearly 60-second lead over French star Bernard Hinault, five time winner of the cycling classic.

CLERMONT-FERRAND, France — Maria Canins of Italy extended her already impressive overall lead to nearly 16 minutes ahead of France's Jeannie Longo in the 13th leg of the Women's Tour de France.

Canins also was the easy winner for the day, coming in one minute, 31 seconds ahead of American Inga Thompson. Longo, who has been the only rider resembling a threat to Canins in the tour this year, came in third, finishing the course a minute after Thompson.

FOOTBALL

WEST CHESTER, Pa. — Keith Byars, the former Ohio State running back drafted in the first round by the Philadelphia Eagles and described by new Coach Buddy Ryan as a "franchise player," signed a four-year contract Friday night, ending a weeklong holdout.

While no terms were disclosed, it is believed that Byars will earn, with incentives, a reported minimum $1.6 million over the life of the contract.

Byars, his parents and sister attended a 10:15 p.m. news conference at the Eagles pre-season training camp to announce the signing.

"It is no secret that during our draft we said Keith Byars represented a great part of our future," said Braman.

Eastern takes long road to state tournament

From Staff Reports

Midland Eastern earned a berth in the Texas State Sophomore League tournament the hard way, coming through the losers' bracket to win the Area title at San Angelo this week.

Eastern, sponsored by Berg Motors, had to win three games the final day in the four-team tournament.

However the travail was worth it. The Midlanders advance to the eight-team state meet beginning Tuesday in Cedar Hill, located just outside of Dallas.

Eastern defeated Western (Alta) in the all Midland title game, 11-5, with a five home run barrage. It was Western which handed the champs their lone defeat, 6-2, earlier as James Madrid fired a three hitter and Joe Herrera's two-run single was the big blow of the win.

Eastern began the long road back by beating Brownwood, 4-3, on the pitching of Jimmy Martin and a home run by Kevin Irish and Ty Chambers' run-scoring single.

Eastern then came back to force an "if necessary" game by beating Western, 3-1, in the rematch. Steve Guerra, who fanned 15 and pitched five-hit ball in winning the tournament opener, 7-0, over Brownwood, came on in relief to whiff eight and earn the win over James Madrid. Jimmy Martin knocked in three runs while Chambers, Patrick Mowles and Shane Greeley were among those collecting hits. For Western, Robert McNeil knocked in the only run.

Chambers, Guerra and Bob Belcher all hit two-run homers in the championship final for Eastern and Gary Young and Mowles had solo homers.

Kevin Irish, who came on in relief in the first inning, got the win while Guerra contributed three innings of runless, hitless relief in which he fanned seven of the nine batters he faced for the save. John Dickenson was the loser.

Adubato named Mav's assistant

DALLAS (AP) — Richie Adubato, a veteran of seven years of coaching in the NBA, was named Friday as assistant to Dallas Mavericks Head Coach Dick Motta.

Adubato, after spending four years as assistant to Hubie Brown of the New York Knicks, replaces Bob Weiss, who after the end of last season was named head coach of the San Antonio Spurs.

"We had a number of qualified applicants. I'm excited about working with Richie," Motta said. "Like me, he's coached at every level from junior high to the pros.

"He's been a head coach and assistant and his varied background intrigues me. He's a good basketball man. Basically he'll come in and assume Bob Weiss's responsiblities, mainly scouting and preparation," Motta said.

Adubato also was a scout for the Atlanta Hawks under Brown and was an assistant with the Detroit Pistons under Dick Vitale, taking over as interim coach when Vitale was fired 13 games into the 1979-80 season and guiding the Pistons to a 12-58 record, said Kevin Sullivan, a Mavericks spokesman.

11th hour qualifier's 67 leads seniors

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Bob Erickson, an 11th-hour qualifier who has failed to post a top 10 finish this year, strung together three birdies on his final four holes Friday to shoot a 5-under-par 67 and take the early lead in the MONY Syracuse Senior Classic.

Erickson, who was granted the last of four sponsors' exemptions Tuesday after failing to qualify outright, outdistanced Orville Moody and Chi Chi Rodriguez by one stroke apiece.

Moody finished with a flourish and moved into the second round with a 4-under-par 68.

Rodriguez shot back-to-back eagles only to find himself thwarted later by a double-bogey on the par-3 fourth hole. He birdied the next hole then held par and finished with another birdie to pull into a second-place tie.

Bruce Crampton, Billy Casper, Bill Collins and Pete Brown were three strokes back at 70, while defending champion Peter Thomson shot an even-par 72.

Erickson, who started play on the back nine, made the turn with a 2-under-par 34.

Scranton's 64 first off, first in

LPGA

WOODBRIDGE, Ontario (AP) — Nancy Scranton was first off the tee and first in the clubhouse Friday en route to an 8-under-par 64 and the second-round lead in the LPGA du Maurier Classic tournament.

Scranton, who is bidding for her first LPGA Tour victory, waited for most of the afternoon to make sure her score stood.

Scranton, 25, set one tournament record and tied two others as she tamed the 6,107-yard Board of Trade layout. Her 36-hole total of 10-under, 134, was a low halfway score for the only Canadian stop on the women's pro circuit and the last of the Tour's four Grand Slam events.

First-round leader Chris Johnson was one shot behind the leader after carding a 68. Another four shots back at 139 and tied for third were 1984 tournament winner Juli Inkster, who birdied her first four holes before settling for a 4-under 68, and Betsy King, with a 67.

The women are playing for a purse of about $353,000, with the winner's check worth $53,000.

Scranton's round of 64 tied Hall of Famer JoAnne Carner's 18-hole score set at St. George's in Toronto in 1978 and tied last year at Beaconsfield, Quebec, by Jane Geddes.

Scranton's 31 over the tough back nine at the Board of Trade course — she started the day on No. 10 — equaled the low nine Carner posted in her record-setting round at St. George's.

Inkster and King both carded 5-under 31s on the front nine Friday.

At 140, four under and six shots back of the leade, were Carner, 71, Debbie Massey and Alice Ritzman with 68s, and Missie Berteotti, 69.

For Scranton, who was disqualified for an improperly signed card in one tournament this year and missed the cut in 10 others, it was the continuation of the type of game she has been playing since the Lady Keystone tournament in Hershey, Pa., in June.

She carded a 66 there and tied for seventh to pick up $6,250, her biggest check of a two-year career. She earned only $13,500 in 1985, and was struggling through much of the 1986 campaign until Hershey.

Home prices fall slightly, Realtors say

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sales pace of existing homes dropped slightly last month while the median price of a single-family home declined $900, the National Association of Realtors said Friday.

The trade group blamed a slight increase in mortgage interest rates for the 1.2 percent decline in the seasonally adjusted annual rate of home sales to 3.41 million units. That compared to 3.45 million units in May.

The actual number of single-family homes sold last month — 339,000 — was slightly higher than the 330,000 sold in May. But the increase was not enough to produce a higher rate after being adjusted for traditional seasonal variations, the Realtors said.

The slower sales pace was accompanied by a $900 decrease — to $82,300 — in the median price of an existing home between May and June.

Association economists said the drop was a market correction following the $3,000 jump between April and May to $83,200. The economists noted that the June median price was 7.6 percent higher than the $76,500 median recorded in June, 1985.

The annualized sales rate for June was 11.1 percent higher than the pace recorded in June, 1985. The figure projects how many homes would be sold in a year if the monthly pace, adjusted for seasonal up and downs, continued for 12 months.

Average interest rates for completed home sales increased from 10.15 percent in May to 10.21 percent in June, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Despite the June drop, home sales were up 12.5 percent during the first six months of the year from the first half of 1985.

"With mortgage-interest rates down nearly 2 percentage points from last year, 1.71 million existing homes changed hands during the first six months of 1986, compared with 1.52 million in the same period last year," said Clark E. Wallace, the Realtors' president.

The South recorded the nation's only regional increase in home sales — a 0.8 percent gain from the May rate.

The pace of home sales slowed 4.2 percent in the Northeast, 2 percent in the Midwest and 1.8 percent in the West last month.

The median price in the Northeast increased from $104,900 to $109,300 while it went up in the Midwest from $64,600 to $65,400. The median single-family home price declined from $82,900 to $80,000 in the South and fell from $104,700 to $101,500 in the West.

Taxes to be moved electronically

AUSTIN (AP) — The state has figured out how to save at least $250,000 a year in interest through electronic transfer of motor sales taxes to the treasury.

The pilot program is 15 counties was announced Friday by Comptroller Bob Bullock and Treasurer Ann Richards.

Under the new program, county tax assessor-collectors will deposit motor vehicle sales tax receipts in a local state Treasury bank account and the funds will be electronically transferred to an account in Austin.

The pilot program includes Bexar, Collin, Dallas, El Paso, Grayson, Harris, Jefferson, Lubbock, McLennan, Nueces, Tarrant, Taylor, Travis, Victoria and Williamson counties.

Blind diabetic reads over radio for sightless audience

MARSHFIELD, Mass. (AP) — When Karen Prendergast sits behind the radio equipment deftly adjusting knobs, she becomes an editor making sure the day's newspapers, including ads and obituaries, are available to an audience that cannot read.

Ms. Prendergast, who lost her own sight to diabetes 10 years ago, is assistant director of the Talking Information Center, one of 115 radio reading services nationwide that translate printed pages into sound.

She is in charge of programming at the Massachusetts service, which celebrates its eighth anniversary this month, and said she depends on it herself.

"I know I would be totally lost without it," she said in a recent interview. "I think because I feel it's so important to read and to constantly take in knowledge that it can really be a closed avenue for a blind person who can't just go to a newsstand and pick up a magazine and leaf through it."

Scriptures Selected by The American Bible Society

I work with people and raise roses. Both fascinate me. And both are so similar.

Roses require tremendous attention. They must be cared for, talked to, fed and watered regularly, and protected from foreign matter that would harm. All of which must be done with extreme care.

You never hold a rose too tightly or its thorns will give painful notice of your indiscretion. You move about rose bushes with careful caution lest they snag you. They demand room to grow and fulfill their purpose in life.

And each rose bush has its own nature. You can perform all the proper acts of care and love, but the rose will be what its inward nature (its God-purpose) determines: a red rose will be a red rose; a yellow rose a yellow rose. You have absolutely no control over its nature (color).

In working with people that's the hardest lesson to learn. We can apply influence, give guidance, exert persuasion, but each person's individuality must be respected. His or her nature (God-purpose) must be allowed fulfillment. Refusing such freedom stunts people and kills roses.

Archeologists seem to settle location debate of Jesus' tomb

RELIGION

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Location of the site where Jesus was crucified and buried has been a matter of controversy for a century, but recent archaeological explorations seem to have settled the case.

The dispute over it had earmarks of old-time denominational rivalry, with Protestants favoring the Garden Tomb. Roman Catholics and Eastern Orthodox members backed the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

Countless Christian pilgrims flock to both places, preferences still tending along the denominational lines, but without the past sharp competitiveness about it.

In the present layout of Jerusalem, the Garden Tomb outside the walls of the Old City seemed best to match the Scriptural evidence. But excavations now give the nod to the ancient church inside the walled Old City.

The conclusions were presented in a series of reports in the Biblical Archaeology Review published in Washington.

Its editor, Hershel Shanks, says explorations show the Garden Tomb had been used 600 years before Jesus — thus ruling it out as his grave since the gospel records say he was "buried in a new tomb."

As for the aged, domed church, Shanks says, excavations show that the site "in Jesus' time was a garden cemetery" — as described in Scripture.

The gospel of John says the place, called Golgotha, was "near the city" outside its walls, adding:

"Now in the place where he was crucified there was a garden, and in the garden a new tomb where no one had ever been laid. There, because the tomb was near at hand...they laid him."

From the surface view nowadays, that seems to match the Garden Tomb, a burial cave on a peaceful hillside just north of the Damascus gate in a serene garden of flowers beyond the city's bustle.

On the other hand, the crumbling stone church, jammed among other buildings in the Christian quarter of the walled Old City, seems on appearance an unlikely spot from the Scriptural descriptions.

However, the explorations reveal that what appears the spot now didn't fit the picture in Jesus' time, and that what doesn't look like the place now met the specifications then.

Jerusalem district archaeologist Dan Bahat, analyzing recent excavations, says they show the site of the church was once a limestone quarry but it was filled with dirt in the first century B.C. and turned into a garden.

"The quarry became a garden or orchard, where cereals, fig trees, carob trees and olive trees grew," Bahat writes, adding that it also at that time "became a cemetery."

At least four tombs dating from that period have been found, one said to be that of Jesus consisting of an antechamber and a rock-hewn burial recess cut lengthwise in the side of the cave.

Bahat, describing a three-volume report of excavations there by archaeologist Virgilio C. Corbo, says:

"The evidence seems clear that at the turn of the era, this area was a large burial ground." He says it was alongside a rock hill regarded as Golgotha where Jesus was crucified.

When Jesus was buried in about 30 A.D., this area was outside the city in conformity with the Scriptural record. The extended wall now enclosing the area was built later, between 41 and 44 A.D., by Judea's then ruler, Herod Agrippa.

Still later, after the Romans destroyed Jerusalem, crushing Jewish revolts in 70 A.D. and 132 A.D., the Roman emperor Hadrian built a new city, covered up the garden cemetery and on top of it erected a pagan temple.

Although remains of that later construction obscured the site when Queen Helena, mother of the first Christian emperor Constantine, visited Jerusalem in 326 A.D., the Christian community there identified the site to her.

Constantine built a rotunda around the tomb and a nearby basilica church.

Although the cemetery had been obliterated for three centuries, "the fact that it had indeed been a cemetery, and that this memory of Jesus' tomb survived despite Hadrian's burial of it, speaks to the authenticity of the site," writes Bahat.

He says even at the time of Queen Helena's visit, the site appeared "unlikely," situated in a dense section within the walled city, and "must have seemed as strange to a fourth-century pilgrim as it does to a modern one."

But we now know that its location perfectly fits first-century conditions."

As for the Garden Tomb, archaeologist Gabriel Barkay notes it first was identified as the site of Jesus' burial by a British military hero, General Charles Gordon, in 1883, setting off a long, bitter dispute about it.

Latin American evangelists still effect social change

Hearst News Service

AMSTERDAM — Evangelical Christians in Central America are sharply divided over political solutions to injustices in their countries, but evangelists there can still affect social change without resorting to politics, says a prominent Argentinian-born preacher.

Evangelist Luis Palau said religious revivals will do more to improve living conditions in Central America than the United States sending financial and military aid to political movements, such as the Contras in Nicaragua.

"We feel that in Latin America some of the changes that are being called for on social, economic and political levels are a result of the proclamation of the Gospel of Jesus Christ," Palau said at a news conference at the International Conference of Itinerant Evangelists here. The Billy Graham Evangelistic Association has sponsored the event to train about 8,000 evangelists who travel from place to place to preach.

Evangelists preach to encourage people to have personal spiritual conversions, Palau said, which in turn "creates in people a hunger for justice, a hunger for better education, a hunger for better living conditions. Part of the demands for change have come because evangelical Christians have proclaimed the Gospel powerfully, with authority in each country" of Central America.

Palau, who has preached at hundreds of evangelistic meetings in Latin America, Europe and Asia, refused to comment on whether conservative American evangelicals' support of the Contras has hurt the Christian witness in Central America.

Conservative religious broadcaster Pat Robertson publicly supports the Contras' efforts to overthrow the left-wing Sandinista government in Nicaragua that has ties to the Soviet Union. Protestants and Catholics with left-wing political sentiments, however, have said that the Contras and other right-wing forces have committed atrocities against Central Americans.

Roman Catholicism has been the dominant religion in Central America for centuries, and until recently has supported numerous right-wing governments there. Now many Catholics and mainline Protestants work in political reform movements on the left.

Many converts to evangelical Christianity come from Catholicism through the efforts of evangelists, which has caused tension in the region. Palau, an American citizen who operates an evangelistic association in Portland, Ore., said that even though people may have grown up in countries that claim a Protestant, Catholic or Eastern Orthodox background, they need a personal conversion experience. The few really free nations in the world derived their laws and concepts of freedom of expression from revivals and evangelism which changed people, he said. Evangelists can preach about justice at a very deep level without engaging in partisan politics, he said.

"What evangelical Christians hope for is to see so many millions converted that there will be a passion for liberty and justice from within, rather than by a machine gun," Palau said.

Ravi Zacharias, another evangelist, agreed that conversion will lead to social justice. The India-born Zacharias, who has an evangelistic association in Atlanta, cited the now banned caste system in India and the anti-discrimination laws in America as examples of governments legislating social changes that have not changed people's hearts.

"If we try to change the system, you will only create a more refined system" of social corruption, he said, adding, "a converted man will be a just man."

He and Palau made strong appeals for evangelists to maintain personal integrity. Earlier, Palau chided the evangelists attending from more than 175 nations and territories to absolutely avoid "fooling around" with women because succumbing even once to sexual temptation will ruin a ministry.

Former astronaut continues quest for Noah's ark in Turkey

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Jim Irwin's feet have traveled many terrains: the mountains of the ancient past, the sod of the far flung future, and very nearly — the path into eternity.

He has walked on the moon and he has searched Mount Ararat in Turkey for Noah's Ark. Last month, on the side of a road where he fell while jogging, he lingered on the brink of death.

Irwin, a member of the Apollo 15 crew in 1971, suffered a heart arrest. "When they found me I had no heart rhythm nor any respiration," he said in an interview in his office recently.

He has no memory of events for three days before and a week after the heart arrest, but after two weeks in Penrose hospital he walked out on his own, surprising television cameramen who had set up their cameras for a man leaving in a wheelchair.

Irwin founded an evangelistic organization, High Flight, in 1972 after his retirement from the space program. He said he was called into the service of God while he walked on the moon. The artifacts in Irwin's office, which sits in the shadow of Cheyenne Mountain, are a mix of the past and future. Moon rocks sit on a table in the waiting area, and a small replica of Noah's Ark rests on a window ledge.

The fear of another heart arrest has not diverted his attention from the mission that has occupied much of his time since 1982 — the search for Noah's Ark. His belief that the ark is on Mount Ararat has been bolstered by accounts of climbers who claim to have seen an object that resembles an ark.

"We must find what it is on Mount Ararat that looks like a boat," Irwin said. "As long as the Lord opens the door and keeps directing us over there, we feel like we ought to pursue it."

Love: Proven ingredient in attracting church members

NEW YORK (AP) — That many-splendored ingredient, love, has assorted connotations. In romance, it's the old magic. In psychiatry, it's ambivalent. In theology, it's utterly giving "agape". In attracting church members, it works.

That's the finding of a scholarly study by a widely active research and consultation agency, the Institute for American Church Growth of Pasadena, Calif.

On the basis of a survey of 8,600 people from congregations in 39 different Protestant denominations to measure their "love-care quotient," the institute reports:

"Growing churches are more loving — to each other and to visitors — than declining churches."

That was found to apply to congregrations across-the-board, whatever their denomination, with growing congregations rating 35 percent higher in the "degree of love" they show than static or shrinking congregations.

"Loving churches attract more people, regardless of their theology, denomination or location," the report says.

In the survey, church members completed a 17-question survey on such matters as how loving members are to each other and newcomers and on how easily they can say, "I love you" to fellow worshippers.

Differences in the "love-care quotients," scored with a possible high of 100, were found among the various denominations, with a clear correlation evident between high scores and growth and low scores and decline.

Of 12 denominations scoring below 65, relatively cool in expressing love and care, all except two showed declines in membership between 1975 and 1985.

Of 13 denominations scoring more than 65, with ease and spontaneity in showing love and concern, all of them showed growth over that 10-year period.

The two denominations with relatively low quotients, the Mennonites, scoring 59, and Christian and Missionary Alliance, scoring 63, both showed growth over the last decade.

The study was directed by Win Arn, president of the institute which has worked with about 40,000 pastors across the country on means to spur church growth.

"Most churches that are growing today have learned how to love," he says. "A church that loves people is a church that grows. Unfortunately not all churches are practicing the command to love..."

However, he adds that "we are finding that love can be taught — and learned — in churches that seem to have forgotten how. Learning to love, or to love again, is the most important first step for a church that wants to grow."

Typically, in analyzing reasons for growth or decline, the institute says the focus has been on such factors as pastoral leadership, attractiveness of facilities, location, liberal or conservative theology and evangelistic fervor.

"But there is increasing evidence that none of these influence a church's growth or decline as significantly as how much love and acceptance people experience when they attend," the report says.

Persons in growing churches report experiencing significantly more love in their classes and small groups than members of non-growing churches."

Detailed findings of the study and its implications have been issued in a book, "Who Cares About Love?" co-authored by Arn, Carroll Nyquist and the institute's vice president, Charles Arn.

Among the fastest growing denominations over the past 10 years and their "love-care" quotients these were cited:

Assemblies of God, scoring 71 with a 50 percent growth in that period.

The Southern Baptist Convention, the largest Protestant denomination, scoring 74, the highest "love quotient," with a growth of about 16 percent.

Church of the Nazarene, scoring 69, with a growth of about 22 percent.

Among denominations that have declined, including most mainline Protestant denominations, and their lower scores were:

American Baptist Churches, 64; Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), 64; Episcopal Church, 63; Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), 63; United Methodist Church, 61; Lutheran Church Missouri Synod, 54.

The report said 80 percent of congregations with a quotient below 65 were found to have declined, while 95 percent of those with a score of more than 65 experienced growth.

Antioch schedules revival

Antioch Baptist Church, 1400 E. Golf Course Road, is hosting another Chance Revival at 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Evangelist for the revival will be Frank Kirk Williams. Theme song is "Lord Send a Revival." Text of the revival will be based upon Habakkuk 3:2, "Lord Revive Thy Work" and Roman's 10th Chapter.

The church's pastor, the Rev. D.F. Johnson, invites the public to attend.

Wilshire pastor resigns

Osborne

The Rev. Chris Osborne, pastor of Wilshire Park Baptist Church since November 1981, has announced his resignation in order to accept a call to be pastor of Central Baptist Church in Bryan.

His resignation will become effective August 10. During his pastorate, 737 people have joined the church and a 750-seat auditorium was constructed.

Osborne just returned from a three-week mission trip to Korea where he helped establish a church at Inchon.

Mrs. Osborne was active in the development of a children's graded choir program.

Dobson's fourth film shown

"The Family Under Fire," the fourth in Dr. James Dobson's new film series will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at Midland Bible Church, 2800 N. A St.

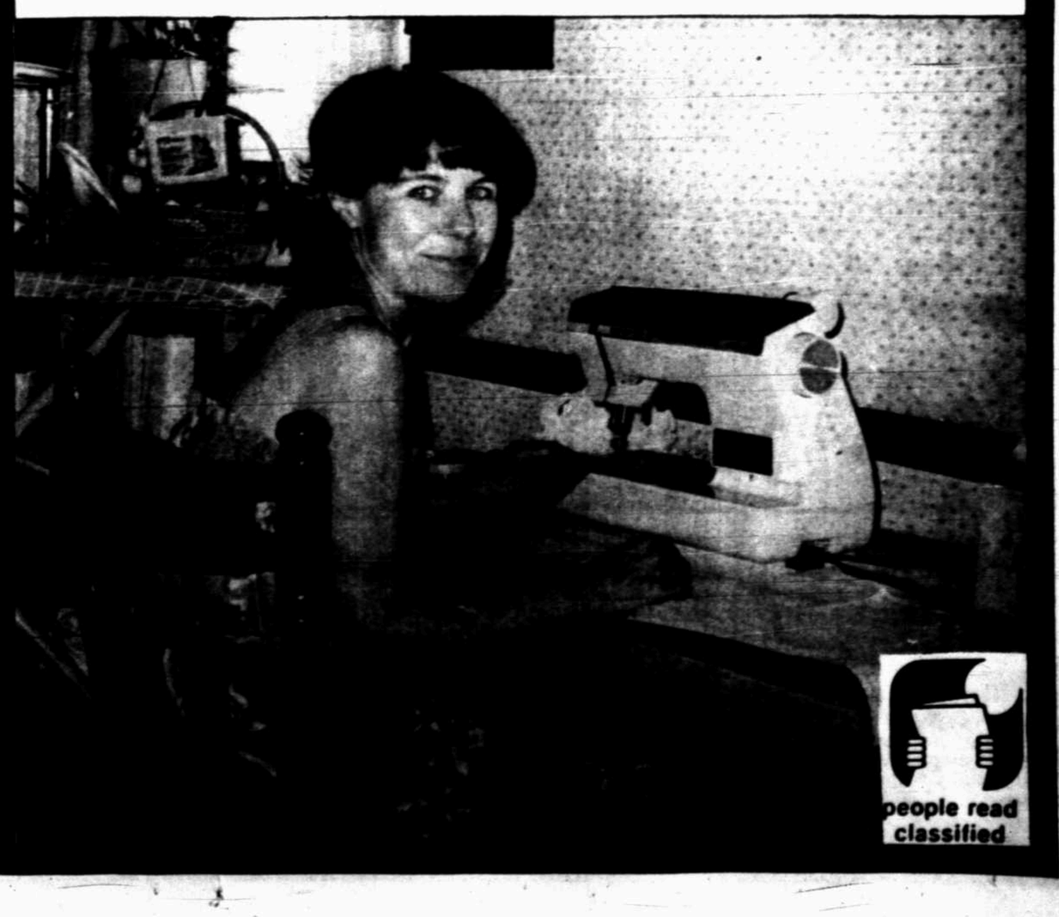

This film views the family in the context of today's society, where a "civil war" of values is being waged. Dobson takes a look at the effects of governmental interference, abortion and pornography on families' attempts to remain intact and effective in society.

Younger members of the audience will have their own activity during this hour. For more information call 684-9722 Monday through Thursday.

The public is invited to attend.

JEANE DIXON'S your horoscope

By Jeane Dixon
Sunday, July 27, 1986

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Try to keep tension low. There will be golden opportunities for you, especially in February, if you keep everything under control and apply your special creativity to making your business or work more productive. People and romantic situations may not be exactly what they seem this year. Apply common sense.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Listen to a loved one. A country or seaside holiday would rekindle your spirits. You could find yourself attracted to someone much younger.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Impulsive spending will put you in hot water. Quiet contemplation could lead to some important decisions. Include all family members in your recreational plans today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It is time to get off the fence and make a decision no matter how disagreeable it may be. Others will understand when they have all the facts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Face up to financial realities. Sports activities are fun but could put too much pressure on your knees. A good personal relationship becomes even stronger when you make some choices.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your beliefs and principles will guide you to the right decision today. The whole family is taught a lesson about cooperation by a youngster. A new social opportunity arrives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your focus should be on home life and family responsibilities. A religious service has an inspirational effect. Children need support and time from you. Plunge into a new novel.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Dreams and aspirations may be affecting your ability to see the truth. Handle today's responsibilities before racing off in new directions. Review romantic ties!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A money crunch will begin to ease soon. Someone you have loved for a long time has become more attracted to you. Find the privacy you need to strengthen relationships.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It is time to sort things out. You may see the future through rose-colored glasses. It is okay to dream and plan for the future provided you also face the present.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Make more spare time for yourself. You will always have to work hard for what you receive, but rest will increase your efficiency. Find a better balance between work and play.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Channel your energies into things that are mutually pleasing for you and your loved ones. Car travel is rewarding so long as you fasten your seat belt and watch speed limits.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Put responsibilities aside and do some things you have been putting off that will give you pleasure. Romance could be enhanced by visiting a different place.

Hearst announces it will stop publishing Science Digest

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Hearst Corp. announced Thursday it will suspend the publication of Science Digest with the September issue of this year.

Time Inc. has agreed to purchase the magazine's subsciber list and trademark. Time spokesman Michael Luftman said, however, his company does not plan to incorporate editorial content from the defunct magazine into its own science magazine, Discover.

The folding of Science Digest will follow the death of Science 86 magazine, which was sold to Time last month by the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The folding of Science Digest and Science 86 leaves Discover, Omni and Scientific American as the remaining members of the highly competive pack of science magazines.

Luftman said Science Digest's 575,000 subscribers will be offered a choice of Time Inc. publications to fill the remainder of their subscriptions.

A Science Digest spokeswoman cited "the same difficulties as other publications have faced" in attracting advertising as the reason for the magazine's demise.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Hana Mandlikova, the world's third-ranked woman tennis player, took a break from training Friday to marry a longtime admirer in a brief ceremony at Prague's old town hall.

The marriage of Mandlikova, 24, and Jan Sedlak surprised everybody. "They suddenly decided to do it," said the bride's father, Vilem Mandlik, who said he learned of their plans Thursday.

Sedlak left Czechoslovakia at age 15 in 1968 to live with his mother in Australia and resides in the Netherlands, where Ms. Mandlikova trains with Betty Stove, the former Dutch star.

Sedlak had been an admirer of Ms. Mandlikova for eight years and frequently followed her on the women's tennis circuit.

The official CTK news agency said Ms. Mandlikova opted to practice for today's Federation Cump semifinals match against Argentina instead of attending the wedding banquet.

Kennedy

BOSTON (AP) — John F. Kennedy Jr. announced the start of a nationwide search Friday for an artist to make a memorial to his late father to stand on the grounds of the Statehouse.

"My family is deeply honored by this interest," said Kennedy, 26, told a news conference on the building's western staircase, near where the JFK memorial will stand.

Artists may submit slides of recent works by Sept. 9, and 10 to 15 semifinalists will be asked to submit proposals. Three finalists will be chosen by February to make scale models of their proposals.

The project could cost up to $500,000, to be raised by private donations, and the commission hopes to unveil the winning piece May 29, 1987, which would have been the slain president's 70th birthday.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The American who seated Queen Elizabeth at the royal wedding reception of Prince Andrew and Sarah Ferguson in London wasn't a guest; he was waiting on tables.

Steve Nolan, a 20-year-old DePauw University junior in London on a student program, was working as a caterer at Claridge's Hotel on Wednesday for the reception honoring the newlywed Duke and Duchess of York.

"It was just like a wedding reception back home, except I guess there were a lot of famous names you could drop," he said Thursday.

Nolan said he served the Queen Mother's table, held Queen Elizabeth's chair as she was seated, and served several rounds of drinks. First lady Nancy Reagan said hello when she learned he was an American, he said.

Asked if he had been impressed with the array of royalty, Nolan said, "No, not really."

Thursday's black-tie affair celebrating Penn State's 100 years of football competition, was to repeat Friday night in Pittsburgh and Saturday in Philadelphia, with all three shows were videotaped for a television special.

LONDON (AP) — World chess champion Garri Kasparov and his bitter rival Anatoly Karpov on Friday warily approached their title match and refused to predict a winner.

Kasparov, who dethroned Karpov as champion in November, reminded reporters that the challenger is a very strong player and added, "I can't be too sure about victory, but I will do my best to win again."

The two Soviet grandmasters met reporters at separate news conferences three days before the start of the match. It will be the first time two Soviet players have competed in a world championship final outside their country.

The first 12 games will be played at the Park Lane Hotel in London starting Monday night and the remaining half of the match will be in Leningrad.

The prize money for the London half is 300,000 pounds, the equivalent of $450,000, and is to be donated by the players to the Chernobyl disaster fund, set up by the Soviet authorities for victims of the April 26 accident at the Soviet nuclear plant.

The Soviets have said they will equal that prize money for the Leningrad half of the match.

Although both players speak English, they answered most questions through interpreters.

Kasparov, 23, agreed to play the match after initially protesting that it was too soon to be forced to defend the title he won from Karpov in November 1985 in a two-month contest that ended Karpov's 10-year reign as world champion.

The two players battled for five months in their first championship match, which was called off in February 1985 by the International Chess Federation. Kasparov angrily accused the federation of acting to save Karpov's title by ending the match when he was winning and the 35-year-old Karpov was exhausted.

Children in Houston high-rise develop unique perspective

By BRENDA BEUST SMITH

HOUSTON (AP) — For Buffy and Jody, the adorable TV twins who kept life exciting for Brian "Uncle Bill" Keith on "Family Affair" years ago, high-rise living was a necessity. They had nowhere else to go. We Southerners, unused to such situations for children, sympathized.

At least two families of youngsters who live high above the Southwest Freeway, however, consider themselves lucky to have a life of elevators, doormen and spectacular views from their bedroom windows.

Sondra Seidman, 15, and her brother, Jayson, 7, and sister, Jeanann, 4, live on the fifth floor of a Greenway Plaza area condominium building. John Strohmeyer, 6, and sister, Sara, 4, live on the 28th floor of a nearby high rise.

For their mothers, Sandy Seidman and Linda Strohmeyer, high-rise living was a choice, not a necessity. Mrs. Seidman and her husband, Jeffrey, are from a small town outside Mobile, Ala. When he accepted a job here a year ago, they moved into the high rise as a temporary home while they looked for a house.

It took a while, Seidman recalled, to get used to "the elevators and the parking garage and the feeling of going into a hotel every time we came home."

Once they did, however, they decided they liked it. And they stayed.

Linda Strohmeyer is a native Houstonian, raised in a traditional home in the Memorial area. Before she and her husband, James, started a family, they lived in one high rise and bought their current residence as an investment. When Mrs. Strohmeyer found out she was pregnant, they were asked to leave their all-adult setup.

AP Laserphoto

Sondra, Jeanann and Jayson relax in their high-rise condominium with a view overlooking the Greenway Plaza area in Southwest Houston. The family went high-rise because they like it, not because of necessity.

Mrs. Strohmeyer assumed families lived in houses. It seemed radical at the time to move into their condominium instead. She even quizzed a friend from New York, who laughed at her fears.

"She said, 'Linda? Millions of children have been raised in high rises in New York. Don't be ridiculous!' "

Now Mrs. Strohmeyer wouldn't trade places with suburbanites for anything.

"It's such a supportive lifestyle," Mrs. Strohmeyer said. "Let's face it. The wife is mainly responsible for the house. Your life gets absorbed by this monster which demands most of your time."

Life can be relatively simple for those who can afford such quarters. When Mrs. Seidman drives into the garage from the grocery store, a valet unloads her purchases. Dry cleaning is hung on a rack. If she likes, she can have everything delivered to her apartment. It's convenient for women with professional lifestyles such as Mrs. Seidman — she's a model/photographer who manages her children's modeling careers as well — and Mrs. Strohmeyer, a marketing consultant. They enjoy their unusual mix of neighbors and their close proximity to work.

But what about the children?

Both women are enthusiastic about their children's environment. The biggest bonus, they say, is the extended family they've acquired. Doormen and valets become like uncles; housekeepers are like aunts. While you do have to be cautious, they said, they have confidence in the management's selection of personnel.

Mrs. Seidman says she has noticed a definite expansion of her children's vocabularies since they moved into the high rise. The sights they see from on high, she said, stimulate conversations and questions she doubts they would have had had they lived in a conventional house.

The biggest drawback, the two women agree, is not knowing how their children will be accepted by other residents. In Houston in particular, high-rise tenants tend to be single adults, childless couples or older individuals. They generally are quiet and expect their neighbors to be quiet, too.

Also, getting to play areas can constitute a major outing. Even so, the women agree, there are numerous parks within close range. And they point out that their children are probably more likely than suburban children to attend special classes at the museums, theaters, parks, etc. because they are so close by.

On the plus side, Mrs. Seidman said, the children themselves are aware that they must watch their conduct. If they misuse the freedom they have within the confines of the building and its grounds, they might lose it.

"Once you get on a schedule, and the children understand it, it works out," Mrs. Seidman said.

Added Mrs. Strohmeyer, "You have less space so you tend to choose more carefully the thing you want in your life, toys, pets or whatever."

The women say many couples with children are afraid of high rises because they fear their little ones will go tumbling off the balconies.

That's one reason the Seidmans live on the fifth floor.

"The view up higher is gorgeous, but the thought of going 30 floors with three children, well..." Mrs. Seidman broke off, shaking her head. She was so nervous about the height, she wrapped netting over the openings in her balcony wall so Jeanann couldn't even stick her arm through.

Mrs. Strohmeyer loves living on the 28th floor. "You feel so free. You look out and all you see is space."

The weather, on the other hand, can be far more intimidating. Mrs. Seidman recalls a time she came home during a fierce thunderstorm and found the three children huddled in the kitchen. The spectacular lightning show outside was more than they could handle.

All the children have good friends, and they visit back and forth often. In fact, Mrs. Strohmeyer said, one of her children's friends was quoted as saying: "Going to visit the Strohmeyers is like taking a trip to New York!"

Grain mill operates as those of by-gone days

By STEVE KNICKMEYER

McKINNEY, Texas (AP) — A few blocks east of the historic courthouse square, just on the other side of the Southern Pacific railroad tracks, are five functioning acres of 19th-century Texas.

Here, around the grain elevator that has been functioning daily since it was built in 1884, is a grain mill and livestock feed store operation that is run in essentially the same way and in the same rural atmosphere of nearly a century ago.

Collin County may be growing and developing, but Poe Feed and Milling hasn't changed much. The way manager Gene Wells sees it: "The animals we're feeding don't change much."

"Our primary service now is horse feed," says Wells, who has worked here 17 years. "The metroplex is covered up with horses."

Ben Hill and J.W. Webb would probably be impressed. Every day, feed is prepared and sold to area feed stores and individuals, some of it in bulk, some in bags. Hill and Webb were the fellows who put in the grain elevator 92 years ago.

For the first half century, it was primarily a grain storage and processing operation. Then, in 1943, Bil Dungan bought the place, installed the mill and began bagging the feed in burlap bags.

Compared with the first 50 years, the last 42 have been utter turmoil. First, Bob Wallace bought the mill in 1956 and began partial bulk sales again. Carroll Shelton took over in 1969; Don Poe bought it in 1982.

Somewhere along the way, paper replaced the burlap and the size of the bags was reduced from 100 to 50 pounds.

Poe's plan for the business is clear. "We don't intend to change much," says the 47-year-old Winnsboro farmer who commutes 170 miles round-trip each day. "We like it the way it is."

This is the way it is:

Just south of the small brick building which houses the business offices is the 90-foot grain elevator. It's built of two-by-six-inch oak slabs which have been covered with corrugated tim. Even the bins are wooden, and the elevator can hold more than a million pounds of grain.

"You won't see any more elevators like that," Wells says.

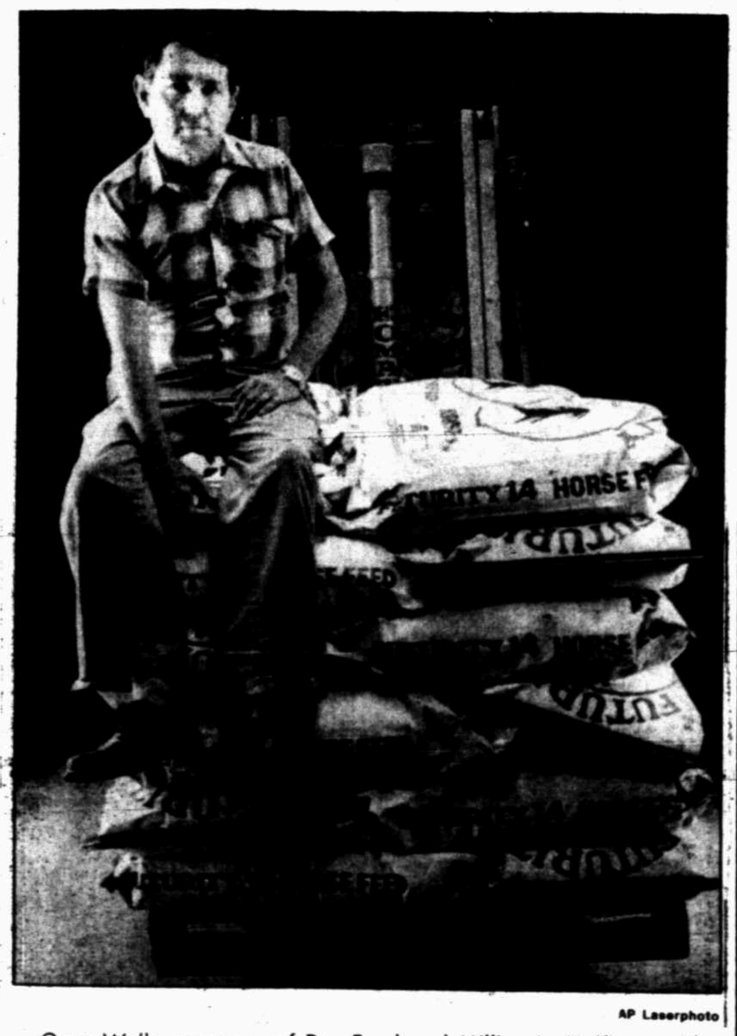

During the day, 18-wheelers bearing corn from Nebraska and oats from Minnesota arrive and dump their loads into the elevator's underground holding pits. Nearly all of the grain comes from out of state.

The grain is cleaned as it passes through a series of screens in the elevator, then is sent through the screwlike auger system into the next structure where it is mixed with other grains to make feed.

John Warden is general foreman of the mixing process. He's 49 now, was 18 when he came to work here. "It gets to be home when you've been here this long," he says.

Warden stands before a panel that controls the flow of grains to the scale bin. He reads the massive dial on the springless scale, then punches buttons that ship the appropriate grains to mix No. 10 horse feed.

It's noisy and dusty in here, but it's not bad enough for the workers to wear masks or earplugs. The floor is concrete; the walls, tin. Temperature is the primary problem. "It's an icebox in here in the winter," says Wells.

Gene Wells, manager of Poe Feed and Milling in McKinney rides atop a truckload of horse feed. The feed store, located a few blocks east of the historic courthouse square, is an operation that is run in essentially the same way and in the same rural atmosphere of nearly a century ago.

Millions of dollars at stake in Southwest pollution debate

Associated Press

More is at stake in the debate over pollution problems in the Southwest than quality of life and regional reputation. Millions of dollars in federal funds are also on the line.

The federal government has tied compliance with environmental standards to funding for highway projects and for pollution control programs, just as it has tied enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit to highway money.

Arizona stands to lose $500 million in highway funds if the state doesn't implement an anti-pollution plan that satisfies regulators.

New Mexico has already lost $320,000 in federal anti-pollution funds because the Environmental Protection Agency found that Albuquerque, which is still debating an auto emissions inspection program, exceeded carbon monoxide standards.

As a result, the state Environmental Improvement Division hasn't been able to fill seven vacancies. Denise Fort, director of the agency, said the cutoff "had a very deleterious effect on our ability to work (toward a solution)."

Man requests permission to dock kayak on Soviet shore

CAMDEN, Maine (AP) — A man who wants to kayak from Alaska to Siberia as a gesture of friendship says the biggest feat will be getting permission to land.

William S. Linnell II has written to Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and visited Moscow to plead his case, but U.S. officials say the Russians will veto the idea.

The Soviets "are highly unlikely to agree to such an adventure," B. Lynn Pascoe, State Department deputy director of Soviet Union Affairs, told Linnell in a letter.

He added that "Soviet sensitivities about this maritime boundary are well-known" and urged Linnell not to make the trip without Soviet approval.

Linnell, 30, a carpenter who thinks nothing of rowing his boat 25 miles for a day's exercise, said he is ready to make the 55-mile trip anytime in a 19-foot, aluminum kayak he has designed and built for it.

"I'm not really carrying anyone's banner," he said. "This is just Bill Linnell, an ordinary American citizen, trying to make a gesture to the Soviet Union."

"I feel that one person can make a difference," said Linnell, who has named his boat Ayuh — the colloquialism for "yes" in a Down East twang.

Linnell said completing the voyage should be no problem, as long as the weather cooperates. He doesn't care how cold it gets, and said only a brisk headwind could turn him back.

But Linnell's attempts to win Soviet approval haven't worked so far. Gorbachev hasn't answered his letter and official agencies gave him a run-around when he was in Moscow earlier this year.

Officials of Intourist, the Soviet tourism agency, suggested he take up his case with the Soviet foreign ministry. The ministry directed him to Intourist.

Yet Linnell remains optimistic.

"I check my mailbox every day," he said. "I haven't gotten a 'no' yet from the Russians. But I haven't gotten a 'yes' either."

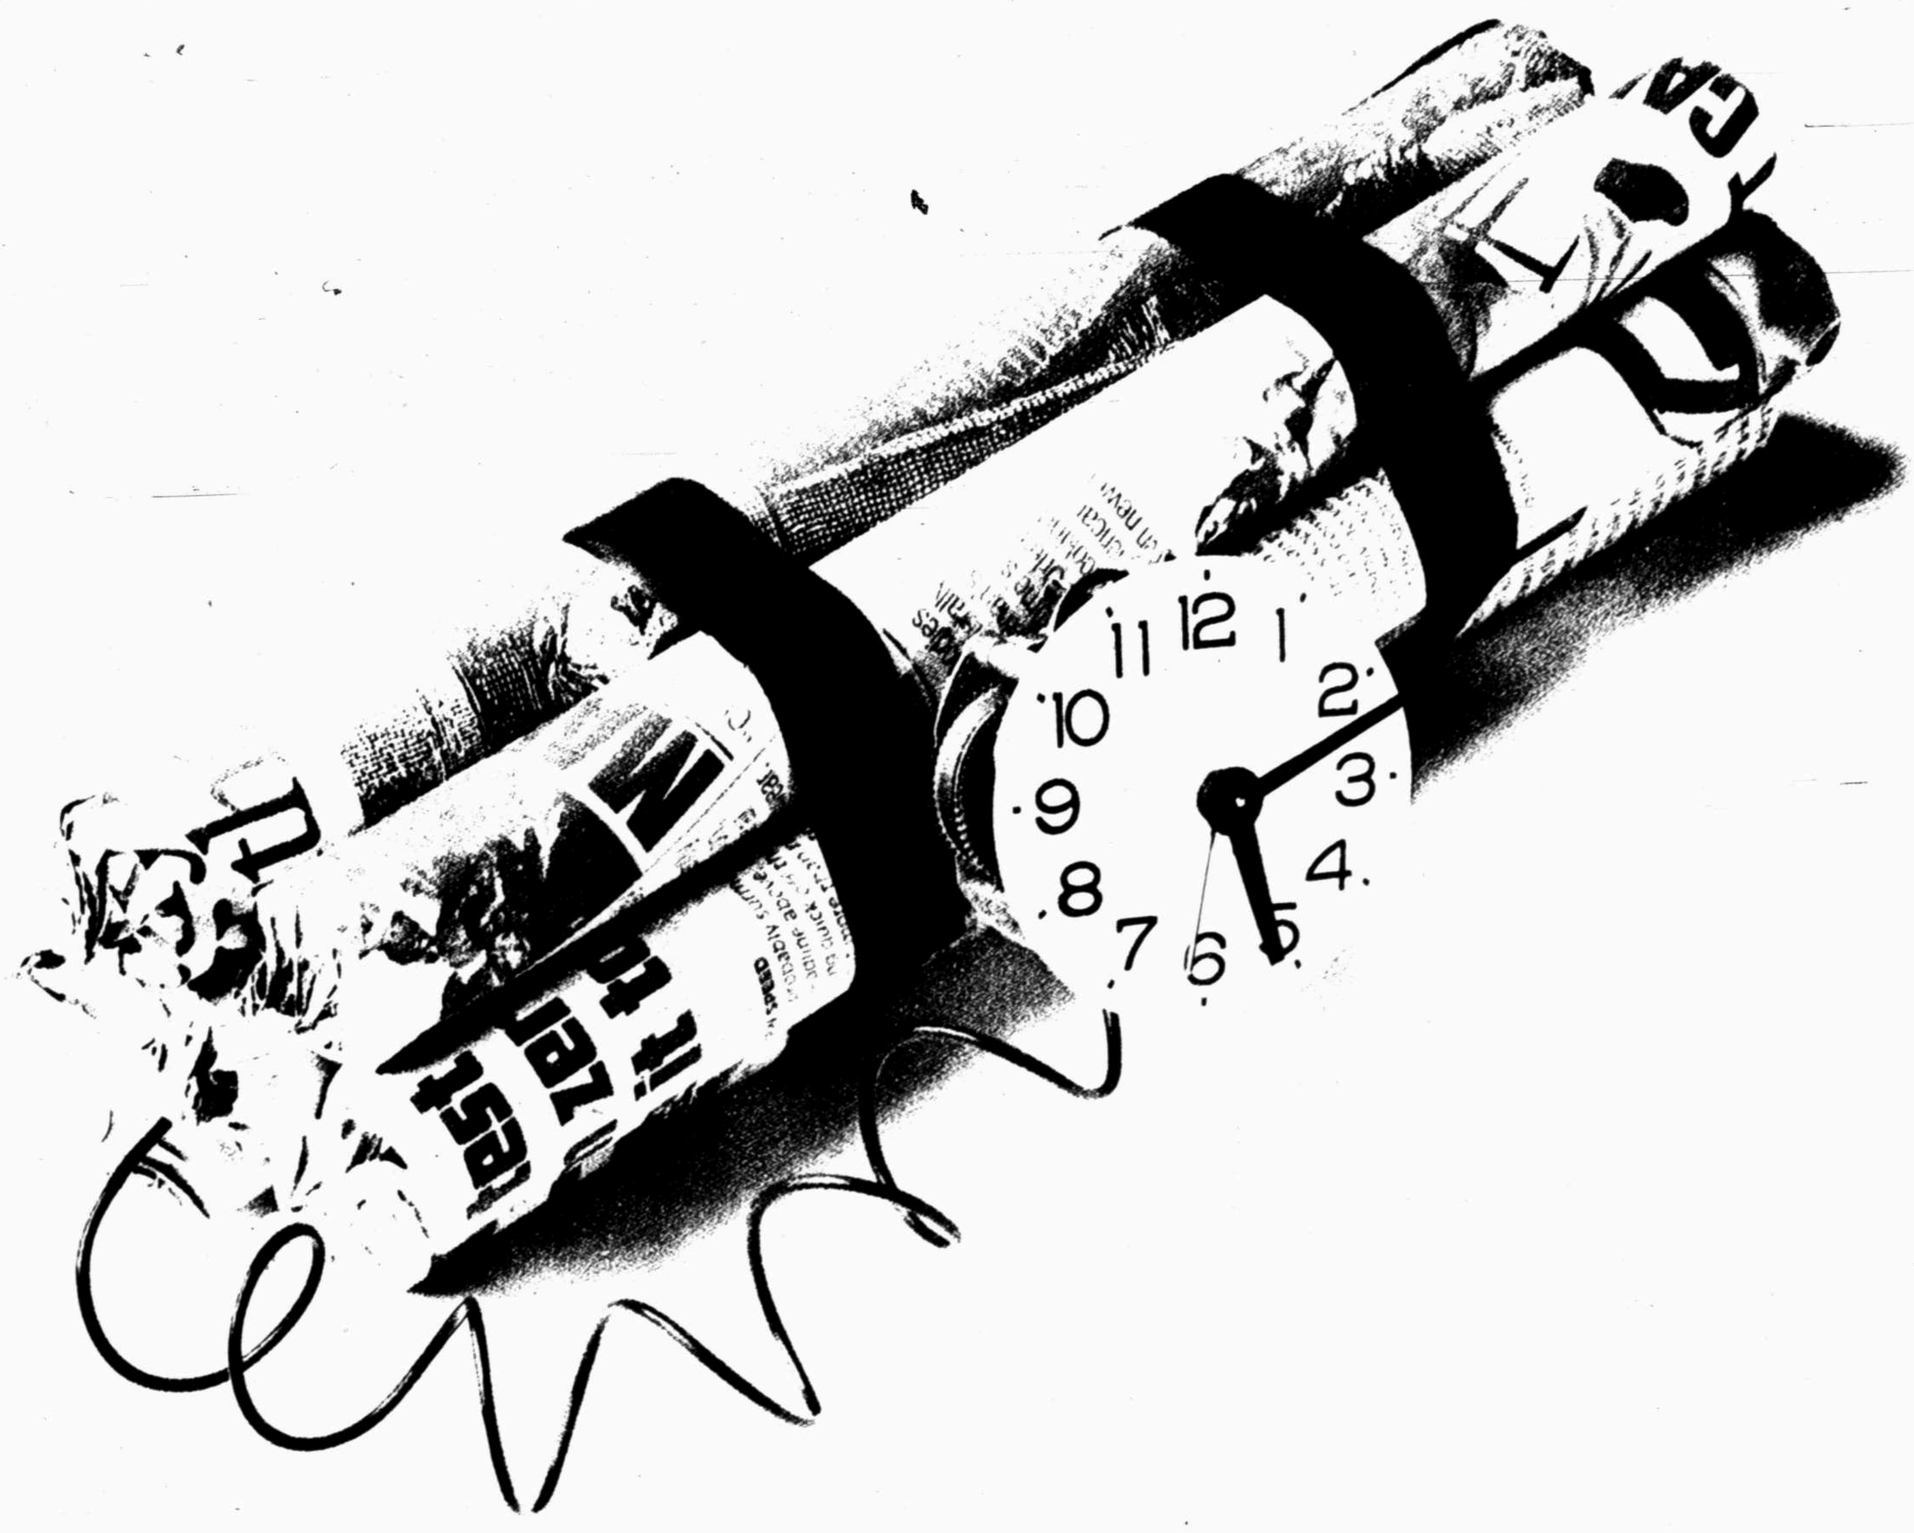

Meanwhile, U.S. Sen. William S. Cohen, R-Maine, has asked the Soviets to give permission to help Linnell achieve what spokesman Robert Tyrer calls "a very worthwhile goal."

Texas cities vying to hold illegal aliens

ODESSA (AP) — West Texas cities, seeking to bring in income by holding immigration prisoners for the government, would have plenty of business unless Congress cuts funds, a federal official said Friday.

Competition to house illegal aliens prompted one court fight between the city of Marfa and Presidio County. Marfa won, with a district judge ruling Friday that Presidio County officials' July meetings with Detention Systems Inc. of Houston violated the Texas Open Meetings Act.

Other governments vying for the federal prisoner business include Brewster County and Alpine. In Reagan County, construction is expected to begin next month on a $3.5 million, 219-bed detention facility.

There are enough prisoners to fill the West Texas facilities but the detention center builders could run into problems because of possible federal budget cuts cutting funds available for the service, said U.S. Marshal Bill Jonas.

"The only vacant jail beds I know of anywhere are at Alcatraz and that (prison) is being used as a tourist attraction."

— U.S. Marshal Bill Jonas

"The only vacant jail beds I know of anywhere are at Alcatraz and that (prison) is being used as a tourist attraction," Jonas said.

The court fight stemmed from a suit brought by Marfa Mayor Jane Shurley, charging that Presidio County official's actions obstructed the city of Marfa's efforts to build a similar facility.

Ms. Shurley said her city now can participate in the bidding project. The contract with Detention Systems Inc. called for construction of a 200-bed facility to house low-risk prisoners, employing as many as 35 people.

Ms. Shurley maintains the Marfa proposed center would net $26 per day per prisoner, while the Presidio County proposal would bring in only $1 per day per prisoner.

However, Presidio County officials say their county's proposal, which calls for Detention Systems to build and run the facility, would provide the lowest risk to taxpayers.

County officials said the new jail would cost between $1 million and $1.5 million and could generate up to $6,000 a month when fully operating.

Jonas said Brewster County officials in Alpine also have discussed obtaining a detention facility.

If Presidio County or Marfa builds a facility, it would would mark the third new detention center in West Texas, joining Reagan and Reeves counties.

The Reeves County Law Enforcement Center opened last spring. Delays in opening and filling the 300-bed facility in Pecos recently forced a paycut for detention center employees, officials said.

But Jonas said the facility now has about 160 prisioners.

Reagan County Chief Sheriff's Deputy James Jepson said today the new facility will replace the current Reagan County Jail about 90 miles southeast of Odessa but that its primary purpose will be to house immigration offenders placed there by federal law enforcement officials.

Woman charged in husband's death

HOUSTON (AP) — A school cafeteria manager accused of hiring two men to kill her husband on Father's Day has been charged with capital murder in the case and denied bond, police said Friday.

Frank Edward Bihl, 57, was sitting in a chair watching television June 15 when a man standing outside his screen door shot him in the face with a 12-gauge shotgun, homicide detective Jerry Novak said.

The gunman then entered the home, fired another shot into Bihl's face at close range and fled the victim's northwest Houston home, police said.

Lydia Pernecy Bihl, 46, arrested at her home Wednesday night, had initially told police she hid in her bedroom after hearing shots, Novak said.

"It apears she hired a man she met at a (grocery) store to kill (the husband) for $10,000, and then he paid somebody else ($500) to fire the shots," police Sgt. Carl Kent said.

Mrs. Bihl, who works for Spring Branch Junior High School, told police she had been beaten by her husband during their marriage, Novak said.

Lawrence Allen Brown, 26, and his cousin Bobby Ray Mitchell, 36, were arrested this week and charged with one count each of capital murder in the case, and they were also denied bond, police said.
