Unknown Fate Awaiting 100 Surviving Victims Of Cleveland Blast Disaster

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, O., May 17.—More than 100 surviving victims of the Cleveland disaster were waiting tonight for an unknown fate. For many of them, doctors feared, death was at hand.

The disaster death toll stood at 125, but what physicians called "delayed reactions" menaced the victims still living.

Believe Stage Passed
A few medical men said they believed the critical stage of the poisoning had passed, but the majority held that the lives of remaining victims will hang in delicate balance for three or four days.

A typical example of "delayed reaction" was given when Ben Jones, former professional football player, died in Grove City, Pa. Jones told friends after he was removed from the clinic subsequent to the explosion that he felt no ill effects.

He drove 150 miles from Cleveland to Grove City and again said he felt "fine." A few hours later he died.

Fatal Action Delayed

Meanwhile several investigations of the disaster, were in progress.

A. J. Pearce, county coroner, Corwin J. Coder, chief of detectives, and two assistant county prosecutors conducted one of the inquiries.

Within a month to six weeks the clinic will be restored to its former position among the finest equipped institutions of its kind in the world.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson, May 18, 1929.

General Topic: Jeremiah calls to Obedience. Scripture Lesson: Jeremiah 7:1-11, 21-2.

1. The word that came to Jeremiah from Jehovah saying, "Stand in the gate of Jehovah's house, and proclaim there this word, and say, Hear the word of Jehovah, all ye of Judah, that enter in at these gates to worship Jehovah."

2. Thus saith Jehovah of hosts, the God of Israel, Amend your ways and your doings, and I will cause you to dwell in this place.

3. Trust ye not in lying words, saying, The temple of Jehovah, the temple of Jehovah, the temple of Jehovah, are these.

4. For if ye thoroughly amend your ways, and your doings: if ye thoroughly execute justice between a man and his neighbor:

5. If ye oppress not the sojourner, the fatherless, and the widow, and shed not innocent blood in this place, neither walk after other gods to your own hurt:

6. Then will I cause you to dwell in this place, in the land that I gave to your fathers, from of old even for evermore.

7. Behold, ye trust in lying words, that cannot profit.

8. Will ye steal, murder, and commit adultery, and swear falsely, and burn incense unto Baal, and walk after other gods that ye have not known,

9. And come and stand before me in this house, which is called by my name, and say, we are delivered; that ye may do all these abominations?

10. Is this house, which is called by my name, become a den of robbers in your eyes? Behold, I even I, have seen it, saith Jehovah.

11. Thus saith Jehovah of hosts, the God of Israel: Add your burnt-offerings unto your sacrifices, and eat ye flesh.

12. For I spake not unto your fathers, nor commanded them in the day that I brought them out of the land of Egypt, concerning burnt-offerings or sacrifices:

13. But this thing I commanded them, saying, Hearken unto my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people; and walk ye in all the way that I command you, that it may be well with you.

Time: Probably near the close of the reign of King Josiah, who died B. C. 608.

Place: At a gate of the temple in Jerusalem.

Golden Text: Hearken unto my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people.—Jer. 7:23.

Introduction: These people of Israel cherished the dangerous, materialistic belief that they could be saved and kept right with God by outward forms in the trappings of religion. Evidently certain of their prophets had encouraged this confidence. Jerusalem was God's holy city, and its inviolate temple, which he would never allow to be overthrown—she sanctity and protection over its inhabitants. This temple had become a sort of fetish or charm.

Jeremiah takes up the word, sarcastically: "Temple! temple! temple! But it will never save you. That it would, are lying words! There are plenty of cases of this same impiety in the church of today: people who hold to Christ, but have taken so many other gods into their lives, worship so many other things, good, bad and indifferent, that they render him a very divided, sorry devotion."

Jeremiah inspired by Jehovah, v. 1. "The word that came to Jeremiah from Jehovah." In just what way God's commands came to the prophets we are not often told explicitly, sometimes through other persons who were moved by God's spirit, sometimes by a voice heard by themselves, sometimes in visions, usually by a strong impression made upon their minds which were attuned to God's will by their ready obedience. If we were more obedient to God, we should receive more messages from him.

"Jehovah of Hosts," v. 3. "Thus saith Jehovah of hosts, the God of Israel: 'Jehovah of hosts' is the Lord of the armies of heaven; perhaps the most majestic and awe-inspiring of all the titles of deity. 'Amend your ways and your doings.' This is one of Jeremiah's most frequently used expressions. 'Ways' means the general course of life; 'doings' are the separate deeds that constitute the general course. 'And I will cause you to dwell in this place.' That is, in Jerusalem and in their own towns of Judah. This is a promise, if they will repent and change their evil habits to good; it is also an implicit threat, that if they do not do this, they will be driven from their homes and from the land. All God's promises can thus be read in reverse.

"The Temple of Jehovah," v. 4. "The temple of Jehovah, the temple of Jehovah, the temple of Jehovah, are these." These marble floors, these stately pillars, these golden ornaments, all the splendor that makes the temple of Solomon one of the wonders of the world. Jeremiah doubtless pointed to the glories of the temple as he beat time to the thrice-repeated words which his false prophets had used as a sort of incantation. They had the temple, they were the people of the temple, what was greater than the temple? So they rested in the exterior of religion; but Jeremiah insisted over and over that religion is a matter of the heart and of the life.

Shiloh In Ruins—A Solemn Warning, v. 12. In the following verses Jeremiah continues his prophecies of the first. Let them go to Shiloh, the first home of the ark and the tabernacle, and note how it has been overthrown. That desolate fate came upon it because of the wickedness of the people; and now the splendid temple, in which the people glory, will meet the same fate and for the same reason. And let them go to Ephraim, the Northern Kingdom, and see the ruin of the country, most of the inhabitants being in exile; the same fate will overtake the land of Judah.

The people of Judah and Jerusalem, Jeremiah continues with terrible sadness, are past praying for. Therefore thus saith the Lord Jehovah: Behold, mine anger and my wrath shall be poured out. It shall be a drink-offering of fire, poured out upon this temple and city and nation, poured out on the man and beast, poured out on the trees of the field and the fruit of the ground; and it shall burn, and shall not be quenched. This is, indeed, a flaming utterance, hot with the prophet's indignation at the deeds of shame that were done all around him, and flashing with anger for his God. Such preaching has seldom been heard in the world.

Jeremiah A "Prophet of the Human Heart." "Jeremiah was of all the prophets of the Old Testament the supreme prophet of the human heart. 'The heart is my haunt,' says Wordsworth. And again, 'My theme is no other than the heart of man.' But in an infinitely deeper sense than that, Jeremiah was the prophet of God to the human heart. Jeremiah would have nothing from his hearers and readers but their heart. Let other prophets negotiate and send embassies as they pleased; Jeremiah, in season and out of season, for a long lifetime, laid siege to the hearts of his hearers. The cure of all your plagues, he cried, and all your captivities—the cause and the cure of them all is in your own heart; in the heart of each inhabitant of Jerusalem and each captive in Babylon."

The Prophets Were God's Men. "The prophets were great; but the prophets were men of God. Put God into a man's life, and he becomes a Samuel, a Micah, a Jeremiah. Put God into a man's life and he becomes a Paul, a Stephen, a Luther, a Calvin, a Knox. What men in history can compare with these, men of God, or with their kindred in the different ages? God is knocking at the doors of your nation by his gospel and by his Spirit. Have you opened the doors of your nation to God? How much of your thinking does he control? What place has he in your plans? What proportion of your time does he control? What enthronement has his law in your heart? What portion of your substance do you give him? If we are not as the prophets, it is not God's fault. It is our fault, because we are keeping God out of our lives."

The Unity of the Family, v. 18. "In Jeremiah's lively picture (verse 18) you have the illustration of a great and momentous truth, the organic unity of the family. The worship is family worship; the god of one is the god of all; the spirit of one, the spirit of all. And so it is with all family transactions and feelings. They implicate ordinarily the whole circle of the house, young and old, male and female, fathers and mothers, sons and daughters. Acting thus together, they take a common character, accept the same delusions, practice the same sins, and ought, I believe, to be sanctified by a common grace."

Sin Does Not Pay. "Here is Jeremiah's message condensed into a sentence: 'Your sins have withheld good from you.' All history is but a commentary on this verse. A nation is not permanently prosperous because of the vast extent of her fertile acres, because of her genial climate or inexhaustible resources. There is another element that enters in to make a nation strong or weak, powerful or puny. We may say it is the only element, because it is God. There is a God of nations, and upon every page of history since time began is stamped this legend: 'Your sins have withheld good from you.' Jeremiah's prophecy is one of the greatest of treatises on good citizenship because in every line it recognizes this tremendous truth: Read it through with this for the key-thought and its treasures are unlocked. O youthful citizen, it is no less true today than in the days of the prophet of Anathoth. There is but one ultimate source of national disaster, and that is national sin. When combating the evils engendered by national greed, and pride and obsequy an oppressor, you are fighting for your national life.—Francis E. Clark.

Slip Covers Found To Be Summer Necessities

After a few warnings and a long wait, summer invariably steals upon us with its unexpected attacks of heat. It's something we must prepare for ahead of time in our wardrobes and in our home furnishings. The heavier winter draperies have probably already been taken down and replaced with those more suitable to summer. The green window shades are doubtless in place, and the home has begun to take on the appearance of summer.

But there is one thing the homemaker is apt to forget especially in the dining room. It is the backs of the highly polished chairs. On a warm day this polish is apt to become sticky and to ruin the light colored frock of a guest, which, to say the least, is most embarrassing to the hostess. This can easily be avoided by having slips of the chintz or whatever wash fabric it may be made to fit over the backs of the chairs. With side drops to match at the windows and a couple of cushions, as shown in the sketch, slip covers of the same on the backs of the chairs will not be too much of a good thing, and will add to the cool appearance of the room.

The dining room sketched has several interesting features well worth noting. The window seat placed in the alcove between the triple windows affords a charming place to sit or lounge on a summer day. With the windows open, and a refreshing view of landscape, it is the next best thing to being out of doors. The cabinet cupboards, or china closets set out from the wall make an interesting feature. Cabinets of this character can be purchased and have the advantage of taking up less room than the china closet set out from the wall where it is difficult to make it balance with the low side board, like the Chippendale model shown in the sketch. Two of these cabinets may be advantageously placed in an ordinary sized dining room without being obtrusive, where two china closets of the other class would overcrowd the room and look awkward.

In using figured fabrics for draperies, one must be careful that the design and colorings do not conflict with the wallpaper, if the room is papered. Where a figured paper is used it is better to choose a plain ground drapery with a figured border. Too much design in a room is always confusing. The rug used in this room is in solid color, with a deeper toned border.

A DUBIOUS RESULT

The only slightly non-authentic phase of the story concerns the effect of the marcel and new clothes upon Alfred. This is a story-book ending. In real life, it is very doubtful whether all these transformations would make any real difference.

No, in real life, Mrs. Mary would toss away all that she had in life for the sake of the gleaming bauble of love, only to learn that she had neither that nor the things she had tossed away for it.

If Alfred could not love her in her ugliness, it is just as sure that he would not love her in her new state, and especially sure if he ever dreamed that she had deliberately "given up all" for him. He would then become paralyzed with fright, and she would have absolutely no hope at all.

But you will mourn, I have no doubt. You will find yourself now just a plain homely woman, helped, after all, very little by the beauty parlor's best, and you will mourn for the loss of anything that lifted you from the common herd—even if that anything was nothing more than an insult like "The World's Homeliest Woman."

HOUSE GUEST LEAVES

Mrs. Reeder Returns Today To Amarillo

Mrs. Sybil Reeder, of Amarillo, who has been the house guest of her aunt, Mrs. Harry Meyers, 1919 21st Street, for the past two weeks, will return to her home Saturday morning.

Mrs. Reeder's visit here was shortened by the illness of her daughter in Amarillo. She plans, however, to return later in the summer for a further visit with Mr. and Mrs. Meyers.

How to Achieve Beauty

Our grandmothers talked about "limbs" when they meant "arms" and "legs," especially "LEGS." But today we are less finicky—we call a "leg a LEG. And, if possible, we like to call it, or at least to consider it a prettiest leg.

But how many legs are pretty? With the fashion of short skirts revealing them constantly to the public eye, we are reminded much too often that many women's legs are not attractive.

They are often too fat, or too thin, too straight up and down, or "bowed" or "knock kneed." When they are well-shaped they may look very attractive if properly clothed in sheer shimmering silk of becoming shades. But even so, legs that look attractive when covered with beautiful hose are unattractive bare. Not many, even young women, can bare their legs to the bright light of day with the assurance that they are really good to look at.

Unfortunately, many do reveal them with complete though unjustified assurance upon the bathing beaches and at resorts where sports-wear spurs the bare-legged vogue.

The custom for going without stockings is a comfortable and at present a fashionable custom. But it reveals too many legs that are not pretty. They may be pale and sickly in color, like plants kept too long in a dark place, or blemished with goose pimples and coarse pores or unsightly hair, and often red and blue veins cover their surface like the rivers that run criss-cross over maps and scratches and scars from youthful tumblers or other old blemishes appear to mar the smoothness. These things are all ugly to talk about, but uglier still to look at. And very often they may be prevented or corrected.

Legs and feet may not be naturally the prettiest part of a mature person's anatomy when glimpsed quite naked in the bright light of day; they have been compelled to bear so much burden, to stand so much wear and tear and to have their good looks neglected, because they were for so many years concealed. But they can be groomed into a wholesome, healthy, attractive appearance, and they should be.

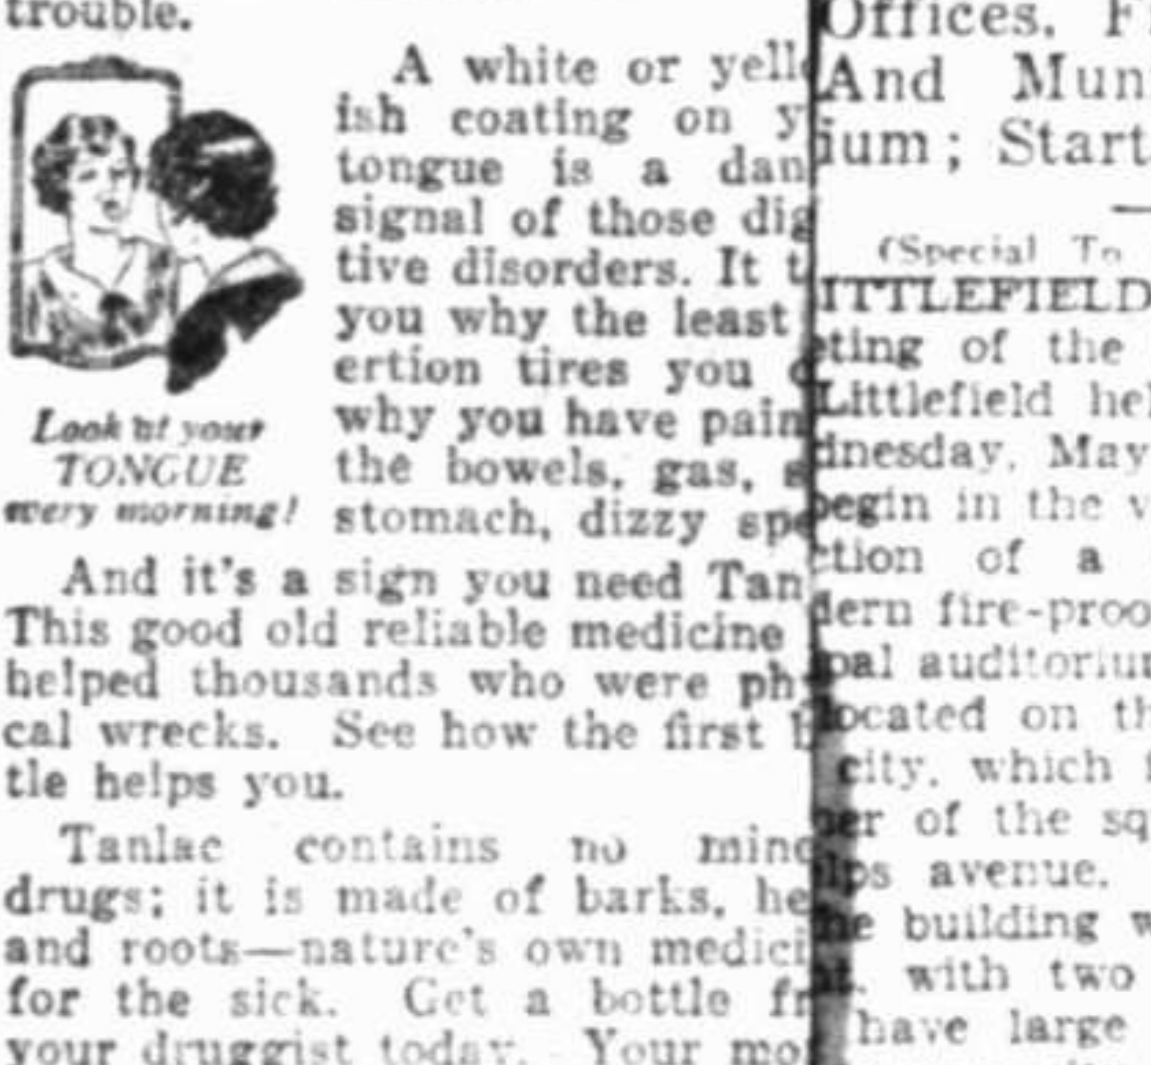

I shall outline briefly some simple ways for improving the appearance of feminine legs and feet. Clothed or unclothed, they should be attractive, and they can be, if you take proper care.

Slang To Get The Breaks When New Dictionary Gives The Lowdown; Noted Lexicographer Compiling Volume

By JOE LOVE NEA Service Writer

CHICAGO, May 17.—Some of the slang phrases of today will be accepted in the new dictionary tomorrow—and they won't have to sneak into the dictionary. They'll be put there, if their utility warrants, by the man regarded as the greatest dictionary-maker in the world, Professor Sir William Craigie, M. A., LL. D., Litt. D., of the University of Chicago.

Just how much slang will be recorded for posterity in the dictionary is difficult to say. "That's up to you," and the professor tells the average man, the man "in touch with life," whose ability to invent new and vivid phrases to fit the changing conditions of modern life has enriched American speech.

"Slang" Gets a Break The professor is tracing the "family tree" of thousands of words originated in the United States, to be incorporated in the first "Historical Dictionary of American English." The work will contain many words of American origin which lexicographers of the past have omitted. And the professor is giving slang a "break."

A thoroughly approved of American slang, says Sir William. It is often carried to excess, but many current phrases are extremely apt. The real test of slang is its utility. If a slang phrase fills a long-felt want, it will cease to be slang and go into the language. There are American expressions of recent vintage that have been adopted wherever English is spoken, and one now wonders how the idea was expressed before they were invented.

"One instance of this is the phrase 'It's up to you.' This is no other group of English words to convey so precisely the exact shade of meaning. Slang phrases of this kind must obviously be included in any dictionary of American English."

After working on it for two years, Professor Craigie believes the American Historical Dictionary should have been undertaken long ago. Hundreds of volunteers throughout the country are submitting material for the lexicon which will take about 15 years to complete.

How Expressions Began Here are a few phrases the professor has traced back and will use

"Slang" is crashing the gate into a field hitherto reserved for thoroughly respectable verbs, nouns, adjectives and the like, for Professor Sir William Craigie, M. A., LL. D., Litt. D., is compiling a new "American Dictionary" that will include these highly expressive, though perhaps inelegant phrases. Here is Professor Craigie at his desk at the University of Chicago.

"Banter" originated when a group of ladies of New Orleans presented a banner to the state governor in 1882. To make banter, the professor has traced it back only to 1891, when it was a pecked word. Other expressions he intends to include in his dictionary are "catch on," "to trade off," "boss," "catch on," "to cave in," "to face the music," "to have a good time," "to run for office," "square meal," and "tight place."

Record Field Of Twenty-Six Three-Year-Olds Line Up Today On Turf For Fifty-Fifth Kentucky Derby

Churchill Downs Thronged By 75,000 Race-Mad Spectators; Blue Larkspur Is Horse To Beat

BY ALLAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
LOUISVILLE, May 17. (AP)—A record field of 26 three-year-olds, pick of the east and west, north and south, was named today to start in the Kentucky Derby, to be run tomorrow for the fifty-fifth time since Aristides, the "Little Red Horse" first romped home a winner in 1875.

The field out numbers by four the previous record, made last year when Reigh County, flying the colors of Mrs. John D. Hertz, proved the best of an array of 22 thoroughbreds in the race through one mile and a quarter of mud.

Experts doubt that those named actually will answer the bugle call to the post, somewhere around 5 p. m. Central Standard time, tomorrow.

Fully 75,000 spectators, representing the chivalry and beauty, the wealth and fashion of the turf world, as well as official life and the racing citizenry-at-large, will throng Churchill Downs to get at least a fleeting glimpse of the big race for three-year-old equine glory, prestige and gold. On the basis of 50 starters, the financial harvest for the winner will amount to approximately $45,000 of the total stakes of $95,000.

Out of all the chatter emerges the conviction that Blue Larkspur, Star of the famous E. R. Bradley stable, is the horse to beat; furthermore, that if any horse has the big field to upset Kentucky's own favorite, it will be Clyde Van Dusen, gallant little man to war gelding, owned by H. P. Gardner of Amsterdam, N. Y.

Bradley, the favorite in the race today.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

Some day Dazzy Vance will give an earned run and an Englishman will win the British open.

The referee was knocked out of a bout in Trenton, N. J., the other night. It's interesting to note that boxers have begun to hit somebody anyhow.

Who remembers the good old days when the golfers didn't take their clubs to the links in trucks?

Along comes Carl Hubbell with a no-hit game. Every now and then the big leagues pick up an old-fashioned pitcher.

Mike McTigue is making another comeback effort. Boy, bring over the book and count Mike's comebacks. When better comebacks are made Mike McTigue will make them.

Friend of ours finally broke 100 on the links the other day. They were all good stout clubs too.

Charlie Grimm cracked a couple of homers the other day, but the radio announcer still thinks his name is "Grime." Well, it was a dirty trick.

NEW YORK, May 17.—(Special To The Avalanche)—A home making center has been established at the Grand Central Palace by the state federation of women's clubs and classes in cooking, decoration, budgeting and other sciences of domesticity will be conducted.

Two experts on domestic problems will be in charge of the center, which is under the direct supervision of Mrs. Charles J. Reeder, president of the state federation. Mrs. Reeder plans to make the center a national institution and to that end has opened the classes and exhibits to all women visiting New York.

"Women are growing away from the home," Mrs. Reeder said. "Our purpose is to restore their interest in their domestic surroundings." The home making center is keeping step with present day methods. All exhibits are arranged from the latest types of labor saving devices and decorations are thoroughly modern.

Zeppelin Passenger Tells Of Giant Dirigible's Struggle After Motors Develop Trouble; Eekener Courageous

By Alexander R. von Kryha
Great Zeppelin Passenger
Written for The Associated Press
TOULON, France, May 17. (AP)—The Great Zeppelin brought us all safely back to land tonight. Four of its motors were out of order, but none of the passengers was unduly frightened.

Most of those aboard intend to start out again for New York with Dr. Hugo Eckener, (the dirigible commander) in 10 or 15 days. One after another of the motors gave out because they were fatigued. They had worked too many hours already in the flights and in long flights in the early spring over the Mediterranean.

First All Went Well.
All went well at first, but after we left the coast of France the motors began to splutter and give out. Dr. Eckener first thought that they could be repaired and that we could continue on toward America.

It was 3:30 p. m. on Thursday, after we had passed Valencia and were rounding the coast of Spain, that Dr. Eckener called the passengers together and told them the situation. He asked them whether they preferred to turn back. Most of them did, and so the commander turned the nose of the Zeppelin toward home.

Mechanics already had endeavored for several hours to get the stalled motors working again, but without success.

Eckener Courageous.
Dr. Eckener all along was brave and courageous and the morale of all aboard remained as high on the return journey as it was at the beginning. In fact a good proportion of those aboard got some sleep on Thursday night.

Everyone was confident of the ability of the commander and of the ship itself.

Warm food was served on the first day, but after engines went bad it was impossible to keep up cooking and today the lunch was a cold one.

Most of us thought this morning that we would be able to get back to Germany, but we met strong winds against which the ship had to struggle again and the fact that only one motor was working during the afternoon made this impossible.

Never Any Doubt.
There never was any doubt among the crew and passengers, however, but that Dr. Eckener would bring the ship safely to rest. Even before we landed, Dr. Eckener had said it would be a question of only 10 or 15 days before the would have new motors installed and would start again for Lakehurst.

He expects to make temporary repairs at Ouessant and then fly back to Friedrichshafen to start again. At this hour Dr. Eckener had not been informed that new motors were being sent to Ouessant from Germany, which may cause him to change his plans.

Maneuvered Skillfully.
During the afternoon our commander maneuvered the ship skillfully to take advantage of the wind that helped to push us down to Ouessant.

As soon as we landed most of us came on to Toulon (a distance of 15 miles) in automobiles which the French provided for all aboard. By mid-night more than half of those who were aboard the Zeppelin were in bed here in Toulon.

But Dr. Eckener and the officers under him, as well as some members of the crew, are remaining overnight at the airbase.

Storms

hurriedly extinguished all fires in the building.

Several tanks and box cars were overturned. Other oil companies suffered slight property damage.

More than 60 oil well derricks in the Burkburnett area were overturned.

Other damage:
Dundee—Eight business buildings and about 12 residences destroyed.

Petrolia—Home of W. A. Elisea destroyed; others damaged.

Byers—School building, several best houses and baseball park grandstand wrecked.

Here in Wichita Falls, the heavy rains flooded an exclusive residential section and a man in a rowboat "piloted" automobiles down flooded streets.

McCAMEY, May 17. (AP)—The roof of a department store was twisted away and several garages were blown down by a severe rain and windstorm which struck here late today.

No one was injured.
The wind blew out windows in some buildings and drove the rain through loosely-fitting doors. About two inches of rain was said to have fallen in slightly more than an hour.

A portion of the roof on the Bender department store was torn off and water damaged the stock, entailing a loss of several thousand dollars.

The rain apparently did no other damage.
Highways remained open although many of them were covered by water during the rain.

One corner of a two story hotel was blown off, later reports said, but the occupants escaped injury.

WACO, May 17. (AP)—High wind here tonight caused heavy damage to the Atlas Portland Cement company's new plant, nearing completion. Three hundred workmen were in and about the plant at the time, but no injuries were reported.

DUNCAN, Okla., May 17. (AP)—Two persons were injured and another escaped unhurt, when a tornado demolished the home of Mrs. J. F. Hinkle, near Duncan, late today.

Mrs. Hinkle and George Hinkle, 12, her nephew, were hurt.

COUPLE SERIOUSLY HURT
RUSK, May 17. (AP)—Earl Tomlin, automobile salesman, and Miss Ivy Benz were injured seriously here today when their automobile was struck by a passenger train.

Rainfall

torrents, following heavy down-pours.

Arriving late from Big Spring, a bus driver reported the road inundated in several places and advised motorists to postpone trips over the route until weather becomes more favorable.

Service Likely At Standstill
Unless there is marked improvement in road conditions, service will be temporarily discontinued over practically every route Saturday, the union station announced late last night.

One hundred yards of the Santa Fe branch rail line between Lorenzo and Ralls was under water late Friday, and the highway between Lorenzo and Idalou was covered with water four or five feet deep for a distance of about 200 yards.

Twenty automobiles were stranded between Lubbock and Idalou when the road became too soggy for traffic.

Automobiles arriving in the city late Friday brought signs of muddy roads, all the cars were spotted with mud. Motorists, relating experiences, were unanimous in warning against attempts to drive in any direction from the city last night.

(Special To The Advance)
SLATON, May 17. (AP)—Crop prospects in this section were given another big boost by rain today measuring two and five-eighths inches. Indications were that the fall was general over a large area. Four inches of rain have fallen here within the past week.

(Special To The Advance)
LITTLEFIELD, May 17.—This section of the South Plains country had another good rain Thursday night and Friday morning. This rain will add to the already good season in the ground and will be of much value to the wheat. About two inches totaled the precipitation.

(Special To The Advance)
BROWNFIELD, May 17.—Rains of from one-half to three inches fell over this territory last night and today. Hovering clouds gave evidence of additional moisture.

(Special To The Advance)
SNYDER, May 17.—Prospects for a bumper crop grew brighter today with the continuance of rainfall. Precipitation in the last two days having totaled 1.5 inches in this territory.

(Special To The Advance)
ALPINE, May 17. (AP)—Half an inch of rain here late last night, breaking a short drought.

(Special To The Advance)
LAMESA, May 17.—One and one-fourth inches of rain drenched the lower South Plains last night and today with precipitation still falling and prospects doubly sure for additional downpours before the weather clears.

The rain was very general with little or no wind or hail damages reported. Prospects were never brighter in this section for an abundant crop yield.

(Special To The Advance)
ABILENE, May 17. (AP)—Rain fell here throughout Friday and heavy clouds gave indications of more during the next 48 hours.

Prices Recover On Stock Market Due To Call Rate

Call Money Drops To 8 Per Cent; Uncertainty Discourages Large Scale Operations

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer
NEW YORK, May 17. (AP)—Prices recovered in a quiet session on the stock exchange today, while professional traders took advantage of comparatively cheap call money to drive shorts to cover. Continued uncertainty in the credit outlook discouraged large-scale operations, and the day's transactions totaled but 3,333 shares.

Call money renewed at 8 per cent and soon was shaded to 6, but this was not convincing, in view of the fact that money dropped to 6 last Friday, only to reach 15 a few days later.

News Largely Favorable.
The day's news was largely favorable. Weekly trade and business reviews pointed out that continued unreasonable weather still retarded retail trade, but that the high rate of activity in most basic industries was well maintained.

Standard Oil of Indiana raised gasoline prices a full cent a gallon. Some high price issues soared from 10 to 18 points, and a wide assortment of shares mounted from 2 to 5 points. Considerable profit taking had to be absorbed and rather heavy selling just before the close, representing week-end realizing and uneasiness over the Chicago bank rate, reduced gains materially.

General Electric again was buoyant, reflecting continued rumors of a split up and possible distribution of its holdings of radio. Closed at 289 1/2.

Burroughs Sees.
Burroughs Adding Machine continued to soar as result of the proposed split-up, mounting about 17 points to a new top at 319.

Utilities made marked headway. Coppers improved. Anaconda selling up about 4 points at one time. Oils were firm, with Standard of Indiana, Atlantic Refining, Houston and Beacon selling up a point or two.

Commodities were featured by another break in wheat of 2 1/2 to 3 cents a bushel. Cotton moved up in sympathy with an upturn at Liverpool, but ran into profit taking and closed slightly lower.

Declines Are Felt On Gotham Cotton Friday On Weather

NEW YORK, May 17. (AP)—More favorable weather reports and prospects for warmer temperatures in the south seemed responsible for declines from a slight opening advance in cotton today. July sold off from 18.77@18.55, or 14 points below yesterday's closing, under liquidation or reselling, but trade interests were buyers on the declines and part of the lowest, with the general market closing steady at a net decline of 4 to 4 points.

Crop advices from Texas, mentioned as a factor at the opening, reported beneficial rains in Northeast Texas but said North and East Texas and much of Central Texas had received torrential rain during the week which had caused considerable injury. Cotton futures indicated a comparatively heavy emergency of boll weevil. Reports concerning the unfavorable effects of recent weather conditions, however, seemed to be offset by the prospects for warmer weather and less rainfall in the belt.

COTTON MARKET IS TWO-SIDED FRIDAY IN NEW ORLEANS
NEW ORLEANS, May 17. (AP)—The cotton market was rather two-sided today and prices developed no definite trend. After an early advance the market eased off only to rally again on demand stimulated by a bullishly continued weekly report and acreage estimate. July reported after easing off from 18.80@18.60, rallied and closed at 18.71, or one point net lower. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 1 to 4 points.

Liverpool cables were relatively steady and the market here opened 4 to 6 points up in response.

The report criticized Mr. Robinson's administration of funds collected from purchasers of state land to pay expenses of reappraising the acreage under the 1925 act. It found that he had kept no accurate account of the receipts and expenditures. It held the fund public money and suggested that the attorney general enter suit for recovery of the portion unaccounted for.

Commissioner Robinson refused to comment on the report. "I have not read it," he said.

Moody Veto Bill
Governor Moody today expressed indecision about the penitentiary centralization bill and left the impression that he might veto it. He said, however, that if it is all "workable," he will approve it. He expressed disapproval of one board succeeding another to do something the first had failed to agree on and said he feared such an arrangement would have a tendency to intensify disagreements.

He said he practically had made up his mind to give the legislature an interim of one week between sessions.

Friday Has Scene Of Unparalleled Storm In Senate

Upper House Solons Take Advantage of Lieut. Governor Miller's Absence; Rows Ensur

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, May 17. — With Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller out of town the senate was thrown into almost unprecedented confusion today. The hectic session was recessed under a storm of protest an hour after lunch time.

Sen. W. D. McFarlane of Graham, bore the brunt of storm from Eugene Miller of Weatherford, president pro tem, had turned the chair over to the Graham senator that he might speak against the house bill enlarging powers of the railroad commission in regulating bus lines.

Speaks for Hour. Miller spoke about an hour before Sen. John W. Hornsby of Austin, raised the point of order that he was filibustering.

Senator Hornsby raised the point of order three times. McFarlane warned Miller that he must confine his remarks to the subject at hand, but he overruled the third point of order.

The real fun started when Hornsby appealed from McFarlane's ruling. Two moves to appeal from either rulings of the Graham senator had been started but subsequently withdrawn.

McFarlane turned the chair back to Miller who in turn handed it over to Sen. W. A. Williamson of San Antonio.

Act Unbecoming. Miller said that "It was unbecoming for a man representing the bus companies to jump up like a rubber ball and object to a man speaking in opposition to a bill the companies want."

"I don't represent the bus companies like he represents the railroads," Hornsby came back. The Austin senator, however, withdrew his appeal from the ruling of the chair after Sen. Tom Pollard of Tyler had scored such a procedure.

Before Williamson handed the chair back to McFarlane he recognized Sen. Tom Deberry of Bogata for a motion to recess. A long argument ensued as to whether or not such a motion could be put without consent of Miller.

Finally Yields to Motion. Miller finally yielded for the recess motion. The "noes" seemed to be the louder but McFarlane said the "ayes" had it.

"Ayes and noes, Mr. President," a large group of senators roared, but McFarlane kept a straight march to the door, and his colleagues could do nothing else but follow him.

Fifty-two points of order were raised during the melee.

Chicago Couple Have Martial Utopia; They Receive Prizes For Best Eulogies

TED LEITZELL

"My wife would never let me smoke. Or swear or tell a naughty joke; I couldn't touch a drop of rum, or chew, or roll the bones or bum. You wouldn't think I'd have much fun."

"I don't." —Lament of an Unknown Benedict.

By ROY J. GIBBONS CHICAGO, May 17.—Mrs. Ted Leitzell is the cream in her husband's coffee, and he's the apple of her eye.

And here, girls, according to Ted Leitzell, who won first prize in a domestic exposition for his description of the ideal wife, is why.

"She is gentle, but will fight like a wildcat to protect me," Leitzell says.

"She is considerate and a good sport—willing to forget my peevish and grouches.

"She is unselfish, and eager to cooperate in the sacrifices necessary to build our home on a solid foundation, yet is delighted with the presents, large and small, that I give her.

"She respects my judgment and privacy, but retains her distinct personality and independent mind.

"She is my lover and playmate and, above all, my closest and intimate friend."

Leitzell received a $50.00 cash prize for his little eulogy of Mrs. Leitzell.

"Am I the ideal wife?" Mrs. Leitzell countered under cross examination.

"Well, I would never say so, although I certainly want to be more than that. I want my husband to think I am. And for him to say so is worth more than to have the rest of the world shout it from the housetops.

"I think Ted has told the qualifications of an ideal wife in the most effective way possible. To be a good sport, a pal of one's husband, not to weigh under any circumstances and to carry one's share of the load is my code for a wife.

"Companionship is the keynote in the perfect wife is gentle, considerate, respectful of her husband's judgment and privacy. She is at once the lover, playmate and intimate friend."

Seeking Release Youth Missed From Navy Is Held

NORFOLK, Va., May 17 (AP)—Release of former Ensign Beverly E. Wilson, who mysteriously disappeared from the Torpedo school of the United States training station at Newport, R. I., in 1927, and was found last February in Panama, is sought in habeas corpus proceedings instituted here.

The youth, son of Judge and Mrs. B. F. Wilson of Kingsville, Texas, was serving as a private in the army at the time he was found. He declared his mind was blank about activities from the time he left Newport until he was turned over to naval authorities and met a former Annapolis classmate. He is held in custody by the navy here.

He graduated at the Naval Academy in 1926 and his service record was clear until he disappeared.

Seven Years Found To Be Average Of School Life Throughout U. S.; States Showing Many School Improvements

By JOHN K. NORTON (Director of Research, National Education Association) WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The average number of years of school life in the United States is 6.92.

A decade ago we were a nation of sixth graders. We have made progress since that time. Now we are a nation of seventh graders. If all children were promoted a grade for every year they attended we would be just short of being a nation of eighth graders. Since all children do not make a grade for each year of attendance, we are probably just barely in the seventh grade.

Some states definitely have come out of the grammar school. Massachusetts, Utah, New Jersey, Maine, and a few other states seem to have reached high school. Some states are still fourth graders. The southern states since 1910 have had to build a school system from the ground up for a large percentage of their population. As a result, most of these states on the average give their children only four or five years of schooling.

The nation as a whole is making real progress toward providing its children a sufficient number of years of schooling to prepare them for successful living in a great democracy. There has been a tremendous increase in high school enrollment. The high school is not only becoming a people's college as to number enrolled, but as to type of opportunity offered. It serves all classes, not the few who go to college. Unless schools are kept open, and unless children are regular in attendance, they are denied a fair school opportunity. Some communities still keep their schools open only a few months each year. But progress is being made. The average length of the school term increased in the United States from 130 days in 1880 to 135 days in 1890, 144 days in 1900, 158 days in 1910, and 170 days in 1925.

New Wholesale Oil Firm Locates Here The addition of another concern to Lubbock's wholesale businesses was materialized yesterday with the announcement that the Wholesale Oil company, located at the corner of 8th street and Texas Avenue had received its first car of supplies and will distribute them over five counties of the South Plains with Lubbock as the center. Sinclair oils, greases and lubricating products will be handled by the company, of which L. E. Grosehouse, formerly of Indianapolis, Indiana, is manager.

Lubbock, Crosby, Hockley, Cochran and Yoakum counties are included in the company's territory. Trucks will be run out of Lubbock to the various towns in the territory.

Nobody Hurt In the Rush

This seems to be a case of "hold everything" and who wouldn't under the same circumstances? This picture shows a tense moment in a recent motorcycle race in England when S. Lewis, left, and G. Topp took a corner at luff speed on their machines. No, they didn't spill, but friend Topp, perched on the cut-back, as well as Lewis, had to do some remarkable balancing to keep from losing control of things.
