DERAILMENT

Two loaded grain cars of a 12-car Burlington freight train derailed in the north section of Wellington Tuesday, March 16 at 8:30 p.m. The cars weighed 130 tons each full. Trainmaster Dean Tackitt of Childress said old ties gave way and allowed rails to separate and the two cars dropped to the ground between the rails. Above, the repair crew jacks up the cars before replacing the rail underneath them Wednesday.

One Act Play Takes District 2-AA Honors

Wellington High School's one act play "Pinocchio" was judged one of the two top productions in the UIL contest, March 23, and with this came the honor of representing District 2-AA at the area one-act play contest at West Texas State University Tuesday, March 30.

The district event was held at Clarendon College.

The one-act comedy entered by Canadian High School "Rest in Peace" was selected as the other play to advance in the area event.

No designation as to first or second place is given in this contest.

Clarendon's play, "Canterbury Tales" will be the alternate.

The top individual honors came to the Wellington play, directed by Gay McAlister, high school speech instructor.

Lynette Spillman was chosen as Best Actress and Kenneth Warren the Best Actor.

Lisa Hartman received an honorable mention and Valerie Van Pelt was named to the all-star cast.

Dr. Richard Weaver of the Texas Tech drama department was the judge and in his critique said that Lynette and Kenneth were "very believable."

For Mrs. McAlister, UIL one act play honors are a familiar spring occurrence, for many of the plays she has directed during the last decade have won district honors, several have advanced to regional, and last year she participated in the Class 2-A state contest.

Students winning individual honors were competing with approximately 60 other young actors.

This year for the first time recently, all six schools in the district had entries.

Besides the three tapped for entry in the area contest, participants were Wheeler, Shamrock and Memphis.

The title role, Pinocchio, is taken by Camille Smith, and other in the cast are Glissandra, the blue fairy, Valerie Van Pelt; her elves, Spruce, Melanie Pendleton, Maple, Danna Jameson and Walnut, Lucyanne Hayes; Matroni, the puppet mistress, Lynette Spillman, and Geppetto, the father, Kenneth Warren; the Fox, David Moore; the Cat, Lisa Hartman; Candlewick, Scott Shepard; and Carlotta, Sandi Seale.

Others are Tony, Todd Roberson; Marie, Jannon Thomason; Mario, Rodney Nash and the policeman, Hank Barnett; stage people are Anthony Porter, Cathy Whitten, Leigh Myrick and Angela Watson.

Lite-A-Bike Campaign Set Friday Afternoon

The Lite-a-Bike Campaign aimed at keeping young bicyclers safe on streets and rural roads after dark, will be held Friday, March 26 at 4 p.m. on the city parking lot east of the Wellington fire station.

This is sponsored by the auxiliary of the veterans of Foreign Wars, with Mrs. John R. Henard, president, in charge of overall arrangements. Other auxiliary members will help.

All boys and girls who want their bicycles marked with reflective tape are urged to be there.

"The tape is put at various places on the bike where it will catch the eye of drivers coming up behind the moving bicycle. Tape is even placed on the pedals, where their movement causes them to be one of the first places to be noticed.

Mrs. Henard explained that March is bicycle safety month, and this is one of the services the Auxiliary renders to the youth of Wellington.

Even the boys and girls themselves are conscious of the importance of the drive, and some of them have been asking when the Lite-a-Bike campaign will be.

There is no charge, and Mrs. Henard urges that every boy or girl who rides a bicycle at any time, especially at night, to be there.

The Educational Developmental Learning Series featuring speed plus high concentration will be used. The school reading machines will be available to the community courtesy of Wellington Independent School District.

There will be a $25 charge

Rockets Compete In Angelo Relays

Eight Skyrocket team members will compete in the Angelo Relays at San Angelo Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27, with all boys entering more than one event.

This is one of the largest, most prestigious relays of the state, with schools in all classification from 5-A to A participating.

Approximately 80 teams from all parts of Texas will be there.

Wellington will be in division IV, for small schools, along with Shamrock and Wheeler from District 2-AA. Childress will be in division 3.

Participating is by invitation only, Coach Smith said. "We will have at least one man in most of the races, in both field and running events."

The Skyrockets will compete in both the sprint and 1600 meter relays.

On the sprint relay team will be Kenneth Warren, Calvin Culpepper, Dwayne Culpepper and Willie Pennon, while the 1600 meter relay will be made up of Warren, C. Culpepper, D. Culpepper and Otis Lewis.

Warren will also compete in the 100 yard dash, while C. Culpepper and Kirby Pennon will run in the 300 meter intermediate hurdles. Dwayne Culpepper and Willie Pennon will be in the 200 meter dash.

Otis Lewis and Rodney Nash are scheduled for the 400 meter dash.

Rickey Martinez is in the 1600 meter run and Kirby Pennon in the high hurdles.

The Wellington team is strong in several field events.

Participating in the long jump will be Warren, C.

Culpepper, and Lewis.

High jump competitors will be Pennon, C. Culpepper, Nash and Pennon.

This will be a tough meet, Smith predicts. "They've got teams from all over the state who will be competing. There are 30 teams in Division IV, the one we're in. This includes the runner up for the 1981 state champions."

"Our relay teams look good, and we are pretty

15th St. Track Repair Thursday

The Ft. Worth & Denver Railway will repair and upgrade its crossing on 15th Street Thursday, March 25, which is also Highway FM 338.

Fifteenth Street will be blocked off in the area of the crossing and traffic will be rerouted, said Jake Meadows maintenance superintendent for the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation which will have men at the site.

Traffic will be routed north on Dallas Street, then west to Belton, then south to 15th.

As Thursday is sale day at Wellington Livestock Commission, Meadows suggests that drivers of livestock coming into town from the north and east, turn west on on 1st Street (the intersection of Highway 83 and SH 203) for one mile, then south one mile on Haskell Street to its intersection with 15th, only a block from Wellington Livestock Commission.

The work is due to require the entire day, Meadows reported.

Softball Association Meeting Set March 30

Wellington Softball Association will hold a meeting Tuesday, March 30 at My-T-Burger, when everyone interested in playing slow pitch softball this summer is urged to be present.

Starting time will be 8 p.m.

Candy Reyes, who was elected president of the association in a recent meeting, urged that enough men become involved for 8 or 10 teams in the association. Six are assured, four in Wellington, one in Shamrock and the sixth in Clarendon, Reyes said.

After this meeting, the season schedule will be set up.

Some of the items to be discussed are entry fees, opening date of the season and date of the annual interleague tournament.

Reyes urged any girls interested in playing on womens teams to attend the Tuesday night meeting. There is considerable interest in at least two girls teams, Reyes believes.

"We'll share the same field, and we'd like to have them out to the meeting," he pointed out.

Condition of the field at Marian Airpark is fairly good, the president said. "The work we did last year really helped, but we'll need to get out and clean up the field." A clean-up date will be set later.

On Saturday, Fire Chief Danny Gray will burn off the field, with one or more of the fire trucks on hand to prevent any spread of the blaze.

New Market for Salvage Car Parts Found Among Swedish Auto Owners

Sweden's chief export to the United States is its cars. A few years ago its chief import from the United States was cars, the Swedish Ambassador to the United States said in a briefing to a group of newspaper people in Washington 10 days ago. In the group were representatives of The Wellington Leader.

These American-made cars, some now attaining antique status, have become prized possessions, but there is a problem: Where to get repair parts? No one thought to ask the ambassador. He didn't mention this.

The answer lay at home—in Wellington.

Two brothers from Uppsala, Sweden, Sven Ullman and Bengt Ullman, representing Firma Sven Ullman, were in Wellington four days the same week working with two other brothers, David Peters and Marshall Peters of South Side Salvage to buy car parts, which they disassembled to be taken to Houston. There they will be packed for shipment, Marshall Peters said.

"This is their sixth year to come to the United States, buying antique car parts," he continued.

"Car parts from the 1950s and 60s are especially sought after. They bought several from us, and disassembled them completely so they could crate the pieces very close together."

The Ullmans business in Uppsala is 50 miles north of

Rockettes Compete At Miami This Week

Wellington Rockettes will compete in the Miami Track meet this week, along with teams who, for the most part, will come from the northern part of the Panhandle.

Miami has a relatively new all-weather track and puts on a good meet.

Coach Dale Morris will take a full team to the Miami meet, their second outing for the year.

Competing in the two mile run will be Mary Torrez. It's her first time to run in two-mile this season, although she was fourth in district last year. A sophomore, she's a tiny girl but able to run the long distances.

400 meters; relay: Vernita Shrubs, Cynthia Shrubs, Jean Outley and Jackie Lewis. Last year, this is the team that went to region, with Vernita and Jackie on it. At Panhandle last week, their 52.2 time was good enough for them to finish second.

800 meter run: Juanita Martinez, a freshman, is just beginning to run against varsity competition.

100 meter hurdles: Amy Williams, a sophomore, ran hurdles last year and is coming along real good, says Coach Morris.

400 meter run: Debbie Bergvall, a senior, Allison Neeley, sophomore and Valerie Van Pelt, senior. Valerie didn't run last year but as a sophomore she went to regional.

800 meter relay: Vernita Shrubs, Cynthia Shrubs, Ann Outley and Jackie Lewis. This is the team that went to state last year and three of the girls who ran on it are back, Vernita, Ann and Jackie. In the Panhandle prelims, the team qualified with the best time, .4 faster than anyone else. Then in the finals they dropped the stick.

100 meter dash: Cynthia Shrubs, Vernita Shrubs, DeeAnn Williams. Cynthia came in second in the Panhandle meet.

200 meter run: Ann Outley, Jean Outley and DeeAnn Williams. Jean was 6th at Panhandle as the season opened.

1600 meter run (mile): Mary Torrez is running in the two mile as well as the mile. She qualified for the finals at Panhandle but didn't place.

Field events will include: Triple jump: Sandra Culpepper and Ann Outley.

Long jump: Cynthia Shrubs, Jackie Lewis.

High jump: DeeAnn Williams.

Shot Put: Sandra Culpepper and Traci Hunnicutt.

Discus: Susan Brooks, Traci Hunnicutt and Sandra Shrubs.

good in sprints, high jump and long jump. We are weakest in the distances."

Smith said several college coaches will probably be observing the boys at the Angelo tournament, with the possibility of offering college scholarships.

Condition of the Rocket Track team has been held back somewhat by adverse weather, which has alternated from hot to cold.

Smith praised the boys for their spirit, their competitiveness and their hard work. "They're really doing a good job," he declared. Skyrockets opened their 1982 season in the Panhandle relays Friday and Saturday, March 12 and 13, placing fifth out of 15 teams.

Results were:

400 meter relay, 3rd: Kenneth Warren, Dwayne Culpepper, Calvin Culpepper and Otis Lewis. 44.5. This is considered an excellent time this early in the year.

1600 meter relay, 3rd: Warren, D. Culpepper, C. Culpepper and Lewis. 3:33.4.

Intermediate hurdles: Calvin Culpepper 1st and set a met record of 39.86.

200 meter dash, Willie Pennon, 5th. 23.6.

GIRL SCOUT News

Troop 26 held a fun day Tuesday, March 16. The troop was taught the safety and use of a pocketknife by Bill Spillman, then began whittling on a stock which they used later to cook with.

The second graders made a neat campsite and gathered wood on the Blacksher Farm where they enjoyed cooking hamburgers and roasting marshmallows. Cadette Jodi Blacksher and Junior Scout Nicole Linville taught the group games before lunch.

After the Scouts could eat no more, they loaded up and went to the Collingsworth County Sheriff's Office to be led on an interesting tour by officer N.E. Childers.

After the tour the girls decided they would try to be good because jail didn't look like much fun. Bicycle Safety, one of the badge requirements the troop is working on, was taught by officer Ray Akemon.

Linen Look Just Right for Spring 1982 Fashion Picture

Crisp, lively and refreshing -- that's the look you'll portray this spring in an extraordinary, hand-sewn linen outfit.

To achieve the look, use special sewing and care techniques on linen and linen-like fabrics, says Becky Saunders, a clothing specialist.

Linen looks may be made of flax fiber with polyester or rayon or all synthetic. Linen-look fabrics have the same tight weave and nubby qualities as 100 percent linen, she notes.

Ms. Saunders is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Consider these guidelines when preparing and sewing linen or linen-like fabrics:

Pre-cutting: Before you begin to cut, dampen or steam-iron the fabric to press out wrinkles and center fold. For washables, always launder before sewing.

Thread, needles: for linens, and linen-like fabrics use medium-size sharp needles -- sizes 11-14 -- and mercerized cotton, silk or cotton-covered polyester thread. Coarser fabrics, such as butcher or crash linens used for sportswear, sew best with heavier weight thread. Use medium-fine sharp needles -- size 11 -- and medium-weight threads for finer handkerchief linens used to make blouses or dresses.

To find the best size needle and thread, always make a test seam first.

Seams, hems: depending on the garment design, flat-felled, welt and plain seams are often used on suit-weight fabrics.

For fabrics that ravel, finish seams and hems in bound, overcast, pinked or Hong Kong bound stitches.

French, lapped and plain seams are suitable for handkerchief linens. Raveling seams can be self-bound, edge-stitched, pinked or clean-finished.

Care: When caring for linens, wash fabric following care-label instructions.

Linens do wash well, but an intricate pattern with many tucks or pleats may be

Avoid chlorine bleaches on linen treated for crease resistance.

In addition, don't hang linen to dry or leave it in strong sunlight.

Be sure to iron garments on the wrong side to reveal all texture of the weave.

Walker-Cook Wedding Set

The couple will be married May 29 in the First Baptist Church of Lubbock.

Sewing with Silk-Like Material Requires Skill

Sewing success with silks depends on "inside" information—about threads, needles, machine adjustments and seam finishing, says Becky Saunders, a clothing specialist.

Also, pressing techniques can "make or break" a silk fashion, she adds.

Saunders, on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says "tender loving care" is the rule with silk and silk-like fabrics.

For silk and sheers, use silk thread, number 60-cotton thread or synthetic thread, the specialist suggests, but always do a test seam before stitching a garment.

To hand baste, use a fine needle, size nine or 10 -- or size 11 when machine stitching.

For machine stitching fine fabrics, use a small throat plate. If fabric is lightweight, place tissue paper under fabric layers for additional support and then tear it away after sewing.

If seams pucker because of uneven stitches, loosen the machine tension for both bobbin and upper thread to give a more elastic seam, and lighten the pressure foot so fabric will feed through evenly.

After machine adjustments are set and notions are selected, a variety of seaming and finishing methods may be used, the specialist says.

For pressed-open seams, turn under one-fourth inch of seam allowance and edge stitch. Machine overcasting may be used, but avoid curling or stretching of the seam allowances.

If seams won't press open easily, Saunders suggests pressing both seam allowances in one direction and top stitching to secure them.

An ideal seam for sheer silks is a French seam which encloses any loose threads or raw edges, making the inside appearance as neat as the outside, she says.

Another suitable seam for sheers is the self-bound finish. It gives a nice appearance and is done by trimming one seam allowance to one-fourth inch and wrapping it with the remaining wider seam allowance. Hold the self-binding in place by stitching next to the seam. The resulting seam looks like a French seam from the right side.

When hemming silks, Saunders encourages keeping the hem as simple and light as possible to eliminate bulk.

For plain hems, finish raw edges neatly by binding or turning under one-fourth inch and edge stitching.

Use a very narrow hem on sheer silks.

When pressing silk fabric, use a dry iron on silk setting with a press cloth between the iron and the fabric. This will prevent water spotting, a common problem with silks, Saunders says.

Test the heat of the iron on a scrap of fabric -- to prevent too-high temperatures from weakening fibers and discoloring fabric, the specialist warns.

If fabric shows water spots and is washable, dip the garment in water, air dry it and press, she suggests. Dry cleaning is an alternative to the hand-washable method for home-sewers plagued with water-spot troubles.

A Hearing

The scene was the hearing room of the House Appropriations Committee's subcommittee on agriculture.

The title was the U.S. Department of Agriculture Agricultural Marketing Service's request for funding.

The players included Mildred E. Thymian, administrator of the agricultural marketing service and U.S. Representative Jack Hightower from Texas' 13th Congressional District.

Congressman Hightower was grilling Mrs.
Thymian over alleged discrepancies in grading of cotton at the Altus classing office of the USDA.

Mr. Hightower had the attention of the USDA officials—it was budget time.

The officials knew Hightower was unhappy on the issue and they had met with him privately in his office a few days before to try to defuse the issue.
But Hightower wanted the officials to repeat their statements for the record.

So on this day Mr. Hightower recounted his charge that farmers had received dramatically lower grades from the Altus classing office beginning in October, 1981. Did the marketing service issue a directive to grade down the cotton, Mr.
Hightower wanted to know.

Mr. Hightower said that it appeared to some farmers in his district that the government had wanted the grades to be lower so that it would have to pay out less money in its commodity loan program.

Mrs. Thymian denied the allegations and said that the government had not deliberately set out to grade the cotton lower.

There was no final resolution of the question on that day, but Hightower had let the USDA officials know that he would be watching very closely their handling of the cotton classing process in the future.

Mr. Hightower had taken a hot knife to the slippery butter of the federal bureaucracy. The problem in dealing with the bureaucracy is that it's difficult to keep the knife hot, and that even after you've cut through and melted the butter, it's likely to reform itself into an even more objectionable pattern on the bottom of the dish.

Other Congressmen and women had other problems with the marketing service and they all aired their complaints.

The Altus classing office is important to Collingsworth County farmers, but the hearing was a small event in Washington.

On that day alone eight Senate committees were holding hearings, and fifteen House committees were holding hearings, and each committee was discussing issues that were as important, in their own way, as the subject of the Altus classing office.

It illustrated the difficulty that even U.S.
Representatives have in dealing with the enormously complex system that the federal government has become.

And it demonstrated that patience and perseverance are probably better qualities than firebrand ideology in nudging the system into some desired performance.

Letters From The People

Dear Editor:

We're all in this together!

Labor is angry. The consumer is angry. Business is angry. Where is this anger taking us?

Labor wants more financially, there's nothing wrong with that. Cost of living increases are great. It makes a person feel cozy, comfortable, almost secure until the company decides to moves to a cheap locale.
Labor in America has almost priced itself out of the world market.

To best protect laborers,
labor should have been looking to the future and asked, "How do we best preserve the jobs we have now?" Robots are putting cars together in Japan and probably here soon. Why not have an agreement that an employee cannot be laid off or fired because a robot now does his job? Instead let the robots in, but the company must spend money
on the employee to retrain him.

Suppose we had thought of that instead of Japan. We would have something to be thrilled about. Instead we are angry.

The consumer wants
quality, but at THAT price!
The complaints often heard are huge profits for the already large corporations and/or high wages of labor.
Business must make a profit or go out of business. The consumer may not like the large percentage of profit or the high wages. Allow the same consumer to be the business man or laborer,
and he will allow the price of the product to go as high as possible with little or no complaint.

Business wants more profit. There's nothing wrong with that. Business has moved to cheaper
locales, hired cheaper labor,
and ordered cheaper material. Soon even this is not cheap enough. Business should know not to make the customer mad.

A business is only as good as the employees. Whether they be blue or white collar really doesn't matter. Without and idea thought by an employee and the personnel to construct or carry out the idea to completion, what good is the business? One way of backing employees is to legally promise to retrain

them if the company moves to a cheaper locale or goes to robots. Those robots are going to break down. Are they going to repair themselves?

Labor needs business.
Consumers are either in labor or business. Business needs both. What's the sense of being angry and getting an ulcer. Let us actively talk to each other.
Better to do it now than in the unemployment line.

Dear Editor:

Each Saturday evening from 7:00 to 10:00 Bingo is played at the VFW Post in Holllis, Oklahoma. Last Saturday sixty-three adults and children participated in this game. In addition to several persons "winning"
small monetary prizes, $50.00 each was given to three families; two whose homes had burned and a death had occurred in another. These gifts were from the proceeds of Bingo.

The entire subject of bingo is a matter of individual choices. Anyone who thinks bingo is the only form of gambling present in this county (legal or otherwise) is extremely naive and in fact very narrow minded. The purchase of Life Insurance is a gamble...every life insurance company is "betting" or "gambling" (with your money) that you will pay more than you will receive.

I cannot imagine not condoning bingo; regardless of the circumstances. I personally know of more than several children who play rather than "park and spark". And, I do not believe that I am a crime
statistic for my participation.

Pastor Hayes should investigate the bingo picture
by personal participation
rather than the out-of-sight criticism. Not unlike religious preferences, bingo
truly is a matter of choice.
Would Pastor Hayes also deny us that?

report that would shift the emphasis away from construction of more and more and toward increasing the quality of instruction at state senior and junior col-

College officials have seen the enrollment boom

task force members believe now is the time to concentrate on quality and cost

Included in the draft report are recommendations

drop mail fraud charges against the company, and Jagoe Public entered its plea with prosecutors agreeing not to seek further action against the firm.

Gerald G. Ricks, president of Jagoe Public, also entered a guilty plea before U.S. District Judge Jim Nowlin.

Sentencing for the two companies and Ricks will be held at a later date. The firms face maximum fines
of $1 million, while Ricks could receive up to three years in prison and a $100,000 fine.

Earlier, Stafford Construction Co. of Lubbock
had entered a no contest
plea.

Campaign "Hitch"

State Land Commissioner
Bob Armstrong has found a novel way to reach out to the common man in his gubernatorial campaign —
hitchhiking.

While campaigning in South Texas, Armstrong's
car broke down between Del Rio and Eagle Pass,
and the Democratic candidate had to hitch a ride
with a passing motorist.

Armstrong says you can meet a lot of good ol' boys standing around a gas station.

Labor Endorsements!

Meanwhile, Railroad
Commissioner Arthur "Buddy" Temple, one of Armstrong's Democratic opponents in the May 1 primary has been endorsed by three labor groups.

The groups—the Texas Federation of Teachers, the Texas Joint Railway Labor Legislative Board and the Combined Law Enforcement Associations of Texas
—made the endorsement despite the fact that the political arm of the Texas
AFL-CIO, the Committee on Political Education, decided not to make an endorsement in the Democratic primary race for governor.

The three groups reportedly represent some 40,000 members of AFL-
CIO affiliate unions.

Other candidates endorsed by the teachers
union included Lt. Gov.
Bill Hobby for re-election;
Dallas Congressman Jim
Mattox for attorney general; Comptroller Bob Bullock
for re-election; Jim Hightower for agriculture commissioner; Garry Mauro for land commissioner; Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent for re-election; Ann Richards for state treasurer

and U.S. Sen. Lloyd Ben-sen for re-election.

Even though it did not make an endorsement, Texas AFL-CIO apparently is willing to back whichever Democrat gets the nomination and the chance to take on Gov. Bill Clements.

Head Shop Bill

A group of "head shop"
owners in Dallas have decided to challenge the new state law outlawing the sale of drug paraphernalia.

The owners, whose stores were raided by police in February, contend the law
violates their civil rights, specifically by depriving them of their property rights and rights guaranteed
by the U.S. Bill of Rights.

The law already has been held constitutional by one U.S. district judge.

The February raid netted
some $100,000 in merchandise.

THOMAS ROLL CALL REPORT

Your Congressman's Votes
Reported Each Week

WASHINGTON -- Here's
how area senators were recorded on major roll call votes March 11-18. There were no House votes.

DISCLOSURE By a vote of 55 for and 39 against, the Senate adopted language making it easier for the government to prosecute journalists, authors and others who publish the names of covert intelligence agents. An individual would be subject to criminal prosecution if he or she had "reason to believe" the publication would harm U.S.

intelligence efforts and if the individual had been engaged in a "pattern" of revealing agents' names.
Prosecution could result even if the names already were in the public record."

Senators voting "yea"
wanted those publishing
agents' names to be subject to prosecution if they have "reason to believe" they are harming the country. Senators voting "nay" wanted
"criminal intent" to be the key test of illegality.

Sen. John Tower, R,
voted "yea."

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D,
voted "nay."

NAMING AGENTS The Senate rejected, 37 for and 59 against, an amendment giving more specific definition to the "pattern of activities" test to be used by prosecutors in deciding whether to charge those who publish the names of covert intelligence agents. The amendment was offered to S 391 (see preceding vote) and was supported by senators who thought the legislation
infringed on First Amendment rights.

Senators voting "nay"
wanted prosecutors to have more leeway in determining whether publishers of agents' names are engaged in a "pattern of activities"
injurious to U.S. intelligence operations.

Bentsen and Tower voted
"nay."

Public Involvement Sought In Water Resource Planning

AUSTIN--Initial efforts to obtain public involvement and recommendations on water resources issues to be considered in amending the 1968 Texas Water Plan were launched this week by the Texas Department of Water Resources working in co-operation with the Governor's Task Force on Water Resource Use and Conservation.

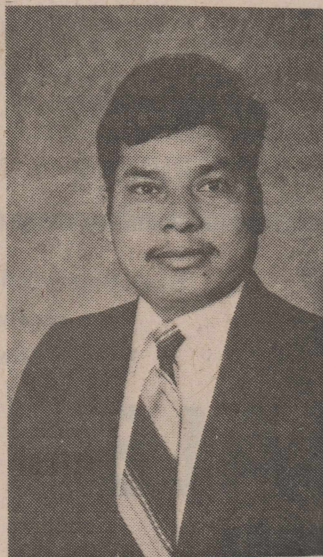

The issues as identified and described by the Department and reviewed by the Governor's Water Task Force are being mailed this week to several thousand Texans including water resource professionals, state and local public officials representing municipalities, industry, agriculture, education, special interest groups and organizations, and others for their consideration. Several public meetings will be held throughout the state in March to afford citizens and organizations an opportunity to discuss the issues.

Copies of the issues are available from the Department. Persons desiring a copy should telephone or write to Bobby Whitefield, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711, 512/475-0223.

Issues delineated include: water resources management for population and economic growth; water laws; water quality management; flood protection; water conservation; bays, estuaries, instream flows and fish and wildlife habitat; regional water and sewerage systems and reservoir operating procedures; water importation; project priorities; research and development of new technology; and the State's role in financing water development and wastewater treatment projects.

Louis A. Beecherl Jr. of Dallas, chairman of both the Water Development Board and the Governor's Water Task Force, stated in a letter accompanying the issue papers: "We must revise the Texas Water Plan to meet the long-range needs of increasing population and economic growth in our state. To fail to provide adequate water resources and wastewater treatment facilities is to invite and virtually guarantee placing the state's well-being, growth and economic vitality in serious jeopardy.

The public is invited to attend the service, said Rev. Villanueva.

"Citizen participation in the amendment process is absolutely essential before an amended Water Plan is presented to the Governor and the Texas Legislature," Beecherl concluded.

Pronghorns from Swap Doing Well

AUSTIN--A group of Colorado pronghorns are learning what it's like to be Texan.

Wildlife biologists from the Parks and Wildlife Department trapped 174 pronghorns in Colorado and released them at six sites in Texas that historically had herds of the animals.

The pronghorns were trapped at Hugo, Colorado, 100 miles southeast of Denver.

Surplus animals were traded by Colorado for surplus animals and fish from Texas, Kansas and Arizona. Texas traded 50 wild turkey from the Panhandle and 200,000 striped/white bass hybrids and catfish fingerlings. Most if not all of these turkey came from Collingsworth County.

Department wildlife biologists released the pronghorns at six sites which are within the historic range of the animals. Release sites include two ranches each in Jim Hogg, Brooks and Hidalgo Counties in South Texas, two sites on University of Texas lands in Crockett and Reagan Counties in West Texas and ranches in Shackleford and Throckmorton Counties in the Rolling Plains.

Landowners signed agreements before the stockings not to hunt the animal for a minimum of three years. After the animal become established, the landowners also agreed to permit the Department to trap out the original number for transplanting in other areas where they are needed.

Sam Adams was in a group discussing how much Texas Natural Gas costs after it goes by pipeline to the northeast, than it does here at home where it is produced. Billy Clayton Book Praised

AUSTIN-House Speaker Billy Clayton's decision not to seek political office this year apparently has increased the demand for Jimmy Banks new biography of him, according to Publisher Ed Eakin.

"The 379-page book, 'Gavels, Grit and Glory,' came out shortly before Christmas and the first copies sold so quickly that we immediately went into a second printing," said Eakin. "Now, it looks as though we will be going into a third printing shortly."

The book has drawn many favorable reviews despite the suspicions of some Clayton foes that, since it was published while the Speaker was contemplating a race for State Land Commissioner, it might be a "campaign biography."

Banks, author of an earlier highly successful book on Texas politics, "Money, Marbles and Chalk," said the completion of his book had nothing to do with Clayton's political plans.

"Clayton is a fascinating person and the first one ever elected to four consecutive terms as Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives," said Banks. "In this book, I have tried to tell his story objectively, including his dramatic, traumatic experience in being accused, and then acquitted by a jury, of bribery charges in the Brilab affair."

"I was especially pleased that so many of his friends, and even his political enemies, cooperated in giving me not only their view of Clayton but in gas goes up to the northeastern states.

R.L. Templeton, in the same group, believes that the Panhandle's best chance for water is from the Gulf of Mexico. It would be converted to steam at nuclear power plants in south Texas and sent by pipeline up to the Panhandle farmlands.

JIMMY BANKS

sharing many revealing and humorous experiences involving the Speaker," he declared.

Felton West, Houston Post capitol correspondent, noted in a review of the book that Banks "had produced more interesting reading - because Clayton, regardless of one's opinion of him, is a fascinating character and one given to doing things one would not expect..."

"In one hilarious revelation," said West, "Banks reports that Clayton was once an undercover man himself - shades of the FBI! - when he disguised himself with hair dye, a fake mustache and an affected, stuttering voice to help a young woman investigate a religious cult's assembly house in cloak-and-dagger fashion."

"There are these and more highly entertaining stories in 'Gavels, Grit & Glory.'"

"There are also interspersed excerpts from a poignant diary kept since 1923 by Clayton's mother - a good writer herself - that help to tell the story of Clayton and his family," said West.

Banks said he expects Clayton to remain active in politics, even though he is not running for office this year.

1st Baptist Sets Revival Service

First Baptist Church and Mt. Sinai Baptist Mission will be holding revival services the week of March 28 through April 4.

Evangelist for First Baptist is Sid Bond of Shamrock. Bond is a full time evangelist and has done much work this year preaching and helping begin missions work in the Northeastern states. He became a Christian at 21 while attending TCU. He played football at Shamrock and TCU, and was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles in 1974. "He received contracts in 1975 from Houston and NY Giants but God had other plans for his life. Bond has spoken in camps, retreats, conferences and banquets. He is always a favorite of young people," said the Rev. Stanley Hughes, pastor.

Leading the music will be Burl Bumpas who is the pastor of First Baptist in Carey. He has been in the ministry 7 years, all of which has been spent at Carey. He has a wife and two teenage daughters. He also is manager of Jim Foran Ford in Memphis. Bumpas has been involved in evangelistic singing since 1973.

First Baptist services begin in the evening of March 28 through morning of April 4. Mt. Sinai Missions services begin March 29 and end the evening of April 4.

There will be a joint Bible study and meal each day at 12:00 p.m. in the fellowship hall.

This week has been set aside by Southern Baptist churches in the northern half of Texas for a concerted effort of simultaneous revivals.

All evening services will begin at 7:00 p.m.

WTU Group To Sing At Dodson Nazarene

A singing group at West Texas State University will sing at the Church of the Nazarene at the 11 a.m. service Sunday, April 4. Kloette Camp will accompany the group on the piano. The public is invited to the performance.

Mrs. Winter, Former County Resident, Dies

Mrs. Arvazene Winter, a former Wellington woman, died in Amarillo, Wednesday, March 17. She was 72.

Born in Greer County, Oklahoma, she came to Collingsworth County about 1911, with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. N.C. Tension, who farmed southwest of town.

She was married here to James Alvin Winter Sept. 25, 1926. He died in 1940.

Mrs. Winter moved to Amarillo in 1946, and to Tyler in 1953. She returned to Amarillo in 1972.

In Wellington, Mrs. Winter was a member of First Baptist Church and taught a Sunday School Class. She was a deputy sheriff of Smith County while living in Tyler, and was noble grand of the Rebekah Lodge. In Amarillo she was employed by the First National Bank and was an employee of Northwest Texas Hospital at the time of her retirement.

Graveside services were conducted at the family plot in Fairview Cemetery with the Rev. Stanley Hughes, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. Vocal selections were by Charles Hollingsworth and Mrs. B.M. Sims.

Kelso Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements. Survivors are two sons: Dr. James A. Winter of Crestwood, Mo., and Keith L. Winter of Amarillo; three brothers, Clarence Tension of Cave City, Ark., Dr. R.C. Tension of Brownwood and Ralph Tension of Wellington; five sisters: Mrs. Irene Bumpas and Mrs. Lou Bawcom of Wellington; Mrs. Bertha Turner of Amarillo; Mrs. Thelma McEachern of Pasadena, Ca.; and Mrs. Velma Roach of Artesia, N.M. COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT REPORT

by Nancy Bigby

by Nancy Bigby

Life without stress—is it possible?

Despite all of your wishes, the answer is No. Without stress, life would be drab and unstimulating. Stress itself is not bad. It's how you respond to it that may create problems or motivate you toward positive action.

Stress is not created by any one event. It is the way you view an event that can cause problems. You may anticipate a task as being every important or dread its outcome. This, in turn, can depress behavior or stimulate behavior -- depending on you.

Let's face it. You create stress so you must find a way to live with it or remove the source.

First of all, listen to your body. It will let you know when you're working too hard. Some of your personal responses to stress can be headaches, stomach knots, neck cricks, nail biting or insomnia.

Next, make your plans to relieve the stress. You can do this by setting priorities. Divide your tasks into essential, important and trivial. Also, be satisfied with a less than perfect job if the alternative is not getting the job done. Enjoy the activity rather than worrying about your performance or what rewards will result.

Finally organization of your time will help remove some of the frustration if you're working against the clock. This may mean leaving office work undone to help reduce conflicts at home.

Good principles for minimizing the effects of stress are: get enough sleep, take care of yourself physically, allow for regular vacations, allow yourself to relax, talk about your problems and utilize your personal

Comptroller to Take Close Look At Legal Bingo

Austin, Tex.--State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced today that voters in 64 Texas counties, 57 cities and 35 justice precincts will decide April 3 if charitable bingo will be legal in their communities. One of these is Collingsworth, the only county in the area to hold an election.

"The time is getting real close when bingo will be the legal kind or the illegal kind," Bullock said.

The Comptroller explained that his office will be working closely with local authorities in taking a close look to see that qualified non-profit groups play the game legally.

"As for the others," Bullock said, "the Easter Bunny is liable to show up a week early. If there has strengths and faith.

Learn to enjoy life. But don't waste your time looking forward to happy endings in all your problems because stress will always be around.

been an election and an operator is running a game without a license, it's illegal. In areas where there has not been an election, bingo is also illegal there. In either event, we intend to enforce the law with cooperation of local officials."

Under the Texas Bingo Enabling Act, local voters must petition for an election and vote on legalizing bingo for qualified charitable organizations before it can be played legally.

The law provides that a court can order proceeds from illegal games be forfeited to the appropriate local governing body as a
