Self-Defense Is Held Motive For Death Of Miller

Alleged Slayer Reported Improved In West Texas Hospital Here; Suffers Of Knife Wounds

Mistaking Identity Offered By Investigating Cops As Possibility In Fatal Shooting Last Friday

(By Associated Press)
OLD HOBBES, N. M., Feb. 24.—Officers investigating the slaying here Friday night of Bennett Miller, have concluded that Irvin Killion acted in self-defense.

Killion had convinced officers that Miller, evidently mistaking him for an enemy, stabbed him as they passed on a street corner late at night. Killion said he drew his gun and fired three times. Killion staggered into the arms of Sheriff Cain of Lea county badly wounded.

Condition of I. J. Killion was reported as showing marked improvement last night, by attendants at the West Texas hospital. The injured man received a serious wound in the abdomen from a knife and was still very weak yesterday from effects of it. He refused to comment on the affray yesterday.

Mrs. Killion, who is here with her husband, stated that she has learned no details of the affair. "My husband scarcely knew Miller. I am told, and so grudge entered into the situation. It all happened on the spur of the moment. If there was any argument I don't know anything about it."

Killion is operator of hotels at Hobbs and is moving to the latter town about a year ago. Killion's only statement to Sheriff Sam Cain, of Lea county, was that he was being "cut to pieces and I shot him."

Oil Men To Fight Proposed Gas Tax

Organization Is Formed At Amarillo Of Independent Producers Of Panhandle; Committee To Austin

(By Associated Press)
AMARILLO, Feb. 24.—A branding proposed legislation to place a tax on natural gas as confiscatory, 200 land owners and independent gas producers of the Panhandle formed an organization here today to fight the pending bill before the state legislature.

A committee of 18 was named to go to Austin and testify at the committee hearing on the gas tax bill Wednesday. The meeting also voted that a "solid train" of protesting citizens would be sent later if necessary.

Resolutions charged that in the event of enactment of the bill, the tax would be confiscatory and would "seriously hinder production and development of gas and development of natural resources." That it would materially affect contracts already made between land owners and purchasers of gas, and that "it would not represent a fair and equal taxation as guaranteed by the constitution."

Representatives attended from various cities in the Texas Panhandle. George Briggs of Pampa presided, and the resolutions were prepared by Ray C. Johnson of Amarillo, Mel Davis of Pampa and J. B. Clark of Shiner.

Friends Suggest Affair For Mabel Normand

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—(AP)—A public funeral for Mabel Normand, whose fight for life ended yesterday in Monrovia, Calif., sanitarium, was suggested today by friends.

Arrangements were held in abeyance, pending the arrival from New York of the actress' mother, Mrs. Mabel Normand, a brother, Claude, Jr., and a sister, Gladys. Services at the church of the Good Shepherd tentatively were set for Friday when Mrs. Normand's relatives have arrived.

No Traces Found To Four Men Who Beat Tech Pupil

I. J. Thornton Robbed Of $40 Saturday After He Is Offered "Lift" About Midnight

Officers last night reported that they have failed to find any trace whatsoever of the four men who late Saturday night robbed I. J. Thornton, 30-year-old Texas Tech student, of $40 after they had picked him up in a car, presumably for a "lift."

Thornton was taken to the Lubbock sanitarium after he had regained consciousness in a field a short distance from the city and called police. Attendants stated that he showed signs of having been choked.

"I was walking east within the 2000 block on 21st street about midnight," Thornton explained, "when an automobile came to a stop. The driver asked me if I wanted a ride. I thought perhaps it was someone I knew and readily responded. As I started open the door to the rear seat, the driver told me to get in the front because the rear was crowded. Shortly after I was seated someone grabbed my head. I struck at him, and then a black cloth was placed over my face."

"That was all I remembered. When I regained consciousness about one and one-half hours later I was in a pasture a short distance southwest of the college campus and near a country lane. My vest was tied around my neck, pockets full of my suit were shaken and I had been robbed of $40. I went to the nearest house and notified officers."

"Driver of the car, a big man, appeared to be about 30 years old. He wore a light felt hat. One of the men in the rear seat had a very effeminate voice."

Highway Bids Will Be Received Today

Ride will be received today by the State Highway department at Austin on paving of Highway 7, between this city and Slaton. Distance of the paving is 15 miles.

Bonds were voted on December 17 in the county for $300,000 for paving work and this section will cost about $300,000.

According to a telegram received yesterday by County Judge Robt. H. Bean, transcript on the Lubbock county bonds have been approved by the attorney general's department.

In view of the proposed letting of contract at Austin, the Lubbock county commissioners passed a resolution last week to execute an agreement to provide the county's portion of the project, which is $123,460.47, just as soon as funds from the issue of $300,000 are available.

The commissioners have ordered that bids be received March 18 on sale of the $300,000 bond issue.

Four bids were submitted and contract calls for completion within 100 working days.

The show, scheduled two afternoons and nights, will be held at the Uptown Dance Palace.

Further plans and arrangements will be announced at a later date, it was said.

Responsibility For Eleven Deaths Is Placed On Driver

KENOSHA, Wis., Feb. 24.—(By Associated Press)

Responsibility for the wreck late last night of two North Shore electric trains with a toll of 11 dead and 84 injured, appeared to center, officials said, on Norman E. Shinnars, 21, Milwaukee, who took a chance at a grade crossing and lost his life and that of a friend in the automobile with him.

The other nine dead, four women and five men, were among 130 passengers aboard a southbound five-car train from Milwaukee to Chicago, which struck Shinnars' automobile. The crash occurred just after Shinnars' car had escaped being hit by a northbound 16-car freight train.

The dead are:

Norman E. Shinnars, Milwaukee, driver of the automobile.

Frank Tomczak, Kenosha, companion of Shinnars.

James Porteous, Lake Geneva, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Reibe, Milwaukee.

George Brufka, Chicago.

James Fitzgerald, Manistique, Mich.

J. B. Scoggin, Chicago.

Miss Betty S. Ema, Chicago.

Miss Evelyn Meyer, Chicago.

Miss Alexa Steinhorst, Kenosha.

After the impact, which derailed 12 of the freight cars, the passenger train hurtled to the other side, coming to rest in a 16-foot ditch 125 yards from the crossing. Four of the crushed cars, piled up alongside each other in the ditch while the fifth brought up the rear.

Panic reigned in the darkness.

Those fortunate enough to escape injury, joined with passing motorists in rescue work. This force was augmented a little later by Kenosha police.

Charges Echo To Receivership Of Bankrupt Railway

Claim Demo Committeeman For Missouri Profit By $6,000,000 Through Post As Receiver

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Charges that William T. Kemper of Kansas City, democratic national committeeman for Missouri, used his post as receiver of the Bankrupt Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad company, to profit by more than $6,000,000 at the expense of security holders, were brought to light today in federal court.

The charges were revealed by the filing of a motion on behalf of Congressman George Tinkham of Boston, and his two sisters for the right to intervene as plaintiffs in a suit against Kemper brought in the court a year ago by Dr. James C. Ayer, a New York physician and others.

The original complaint, which was filed in the state supreme court but later transferred to the federal court because of its interstate character, charged that Kemper withheld knowledge of the pending sale of the railroad and of its generally improved financial condition had brought up the two year six per cent gold notes—the road's only security issue, which were defaulted in April, 1918—from 10 to 25 cents on the dollar.

Then it was charged Kemper sold these securities and with them control of "the Orient system," to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system.

Receiving newspapermen, he said he would outline his policy to the deputies and they could then take the responsibility of accepting or rejecting it.

EVANS TAKES OATH

New Chief Justice Of U. S. Sworn In Monday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Charles Evans Hughes acceded to the Chief Justice of the United States today in an atmosphere in which there was mingled gladness for his coming and sadness for the serious illness of his predecessor, William Howard Taft.

A simple oath of office administered in the dignified chamber of the court made him the eleventh in the historic succession of Chief Justices since John Jay in 1789. As was the first Chief Justice, Mr. Hughes is from New York.

Unperturbed by the realization that he was about to reach the pinnacle post of his distinguished career, he entered that cozy room where the justices don their robes to sit on the bench a few minutes before the usual noon meeting hour. There his associates greeted him warmly.

Dollar Wheat Is Back on Market

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Dollar wheat, the bugaboo of the farmer, returned to the Kansas City market today as grain prices collapsed further, carrying May wheat futures to $1.09 a bushel despite heavy purchases of cash offerings by co-operative agencies backed by the Federal Farm Board.

In the country the farmer was getting far less than a dollar for his wheat. At Wichita, Kan., elevators sold 10 cents from the price of their dollar wheat deliveries by wagon. The top price was 96 cents a bushel.

With representatives of the Farmers National Grain Corporation purchasing cash wheat at 13 cents a bushel higher than private dealers sell justified in saying, the golden rule for wheat deliveries by wagon, a flood, recalling summary harvest days. Total purchases for the corporation today were about 300,000 bushels.

COOLIDGE RAISES EYEBROWS SLIGHTLY ON RECEIPT OF LETTER THREATENING DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 24.—(AP)—A threatening letter was received by Calvin Coolidge, but apparently the master proved of far more concern to a body guard than to the former president and first lady of the land, who are visiting here.

With characteristic calmness, Mr. Coolidge read the letter, arched his eyebrows slightly, and turning to a guard remarked tersely:

"Guess this belongs to you."

That apparently closed the matter as far as the distinguished visitor was concerned. But not for police, who opened an immediate investigation.

James Baker Held Sane By Doctors

Confessed Slayer Of Ten Persons To Face Indictment For Murder Of Gaw In New York Laboratory

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Adjudge James Baker, confessed slayer of ten persons, was held sane by two physicians who examined him after he was locked in the toms today. James Baker, 23, faces indictment for the murder of Henry Gaw, laboratory watchman, here in December, 1925.

Thomas C. T. Crain, district attorney, announced he would proceed against Baker in the Gaw case after Dr. Perry M. Livingston, toms prison physician, and Dr. Otto H. Schultz, Crain's medical assistant, reported that, in their opinion, Baker was of sound mind.

The two physicians examined the confessed perpetrator of ten murders when he had been placed in the observation cell of the prison after the routine police lineup inspection which followed his return here last night from Detroit.

Baker was brought here to answer an indictment for theft of $30 from the Guggenheim laboratory, where Gaw was poisoned and where Baker formerly was employed. He was listed as a suspect in the Gaw killing at the time, but he disappeared and was not seen again until arrested recently in Detroit.

Baker's willingness to confess in Detroit to seven crimes to which he could not be linked, made authorities doubt his sanity.

"Not only did he confess to killing Gaw, who died from a drought of poisoned coffee, but he also told of poisoning seven other persons. Today he added two more murders to this list, two gun slayings in Detroit which police say actually did occur."

Love Takes Plea To Supreme Court

Dallas Senator Seeks To Compel State Democratic Committee To Certify His Name On Ballots

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 24.—Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas today applied to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to compel the state democratic executive committee to certify his name as a candidate for the nomination of governor in the July 26 primaries to the county executive chairmen.

The writ also would direct county chairmen to place Love's name on the county ballots, and order election officials to count ballots cast for Love.

The suit was filed under terms of a law written by Love and passed by the fourth called session of the legislature giving courts of civil appeals or the Supreme Court original jurisdiction in the matter of issuing mandamus against political party executive committees. Heretofore, it had been necessary to sue in the district court.

The suit is directed against D. W. Wilcox of Georgetown, chairman of the state committee, the 31 executive committeemen, and every county chairman in Texas.

Sensor Love cited action of the state committee at its Austin meeting February 1, when it adopted resolutions instructing itself not to place the name of anyone as a candidate on the July primary ballots who had failed to vote for the democratic presidential nominees in 1928.

At that time the committee held that under the law it could not act on the matter of certifying candidates to the county chairmen before June 9, the date fixed by law for making up the official ballot.

Love stated in his petition that the committee had in effect altered its name from the state committee to the county chairmen, and quoted statistics to support his contention that it was in violation of the law to bar his name at all.

TO HEAR WITNESSES

Mitchell, Law Enforcement Group To Testify

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—(AP)—The views which the Hoover law enforcement commission and Attorney General William D. Mitchell hold on prohibition enforcement are to be heard by the senate judiciary committee—but probably it will be closed doors.

The committee agreed today, after a sharp debate over the Norris resolution for an inquiry into the enforcement situation, to call in these officials two weeks from now to obtain their views.

Members of both sides looked forward to the opportunity to examine Mitchell and the law enforcement commissioners on their knowledge of conditions surrounding enforcement of the dry laws. There have been persistent reports at the capitol that the Hoover commission is divided over the prohibition issue and the manner of enforcement.

Fifteen Per Cent Cut In Cotton Acreage Favored For Entire South Plains Section At Session

BY AL HILL, Avalanche Staff Writer

BANKERS of the South Plains declared they would grant no credit to farmers, the ultimate payment for which is dependent upon the production of a cotton crop alone, and ginners of the South Plains declared they will abandon the "hog-round" method and would buy cotton on grade and staple only, at a meeting held here Monday afternoon.

One hundred and twenty-five bankers, ginners, cotton buyers and business men were present at the gathering, which was called for the purpose of discussing and deciding what could be done relative to the planting of a longer staple cotton and to the reduction of acreage.

Resolutions passed unanimously recommending the cutting of acreage by at least 15 per cent, throughout the South Plains, assistance of all Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and other service clubs, chambers of commerce, county and home demonstration agents and farm organizations was asked in the resolution to help put over the program.

Mrs. J. Perkins,
Says Remarkable

I Suffered About 20 Years, And One Half Bottle Of Orgatone Has Completely Relieved Me," Says Wichita Falls Lady

"I sincerely think Orgatone (Orgatone) is a wonderful medicine and wouldn't be without it for anything," said Mrs. J. Perkins, of 201 Patterson, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"For several years I have suffered with a terrible chronic case of stomach trouble. I had such miserable sick headaches I would get numb and simply wasn't able to stay out of bed. Every time I would get one of these spells I would last for hours. I had dizzy and bilious spells almost every day and was hardly able to eat anything without it bothering me. I had pains in my back and sides which bothered me most of the time and was severely constipated. My liver was also out of order and I think this was the cause of my pains.

"I heard about how Orgatone was benefitting so many of our people right here in Wichita so I decided to try a bottle. It began to help me right from the start. Haven't had a dizzy or bilious spell since taking the first one half bottle. I am completely relieved of those miserable sick dizzy headaches and the pains in the sides and back are gone. I do not have those blind numb feelings anymore and my constipation has been relieved. I have recommended Orgatone to my friends for I know what it will do for you. I think it is a wonderful medicine and wouldn't be without it for anything and I am going to take it as long as I can secure it."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store. Adv.

Better Cotton Is Seen in Dickens

(Special To The Avalanche)
SPUR, Feb. 24.—A better cotton crop is expected in Dickens county with a decreased acreage for the year of almost 10 per cent. The crop was short last season because of the drought in February, March, July and August, but with a good season in the ground to start with this year, the forecast is for a much better crop.

Terracing schools are being conducted by the county agent at this time over the area.

Feed crops are coming in for a great amount of attention. At a county-wide mass meeting here a few days ago, the farmers in conference with the county agent, bankers and business men worked out a plan whereby the feed shortage could be handled with the immediate planting of small grain crops, oats, barley and others.

Soviet Continues To Close Churches

MOSCOW, Feb. 24. (AP)—Despite the campaign abroad against the soviet government for its attitude toward religion, soviet authorities in different parts of the union have closed a number of additional churches, synagogues and mosques. These, it was declared, were shut "upon petition of the workers and peasants."

These dispatches today reported that soviet officials closed three churches, three mosques, one synagogue and one Polish church, in Alma Ata, capital of the province of Kazakhstan.

In Karabudakhkent, near Makhachkala, capital of the Dagestan republic whose population is predominantly Mohammedan, the authorities closed no less than 13 mosques. Ecclesiastical objects removed from the latter including rich rugs and mosaics were sold and the

Putting a Hop On It

The pitchers are in the south. From this day forward will come stories of rejuvenation, of that bad shoulder that is coming around all right this year, of that leg that used to bother but is perfect now, and mingled with the assortment will come tales of strange new curves and hop-balls that will be seen when the big show moves northward.

Even Maddy Tried One

No pitcher is above experimenting. At one time or another they all catch the fever of discovery. Even Christy Matheson had it. He worked for weeks once with a new spit ball that would wiggle. It was a slow one, and did strange things on its way to the plate, but in the end Maddy had to give it up. He couldn't control it. That is the way with most of the trick deliveries; you never know where they're going.

Spring training camp used to be a fertile field of fancy. In the old days there were all kinds of stories from the south about the strange deliveries that would be revealed when the teams started play. There still the classical yarn about the discovery of the spitball.

Catcher First to Throw 'Em

For several years a catcher for the New York Giants named Bowerman threw spitballs without knowing what they were. He would wet his fingers, heave the ball to second and it would take on a crazy motion. Whether or not that is where Elmer Strickland, of the Dodgers, got his idea for the spitball isn't known, but it was Strickland, fooling around with the ball in spring training, who gave the baseball world one of the most deceptive deliveries of all time.

The story of Strickland's discovery was flashed over the wires, and it was no time at all until scores of pitchers were trying it. The sports editor of one Chicago paper refused the story, saying it was "vulgar stuff." The spitball was continued until the baseball magnates decided it wouldn't be a bad idea to have the men at the plate sock one over the wall for the edification of the fans once in a while. It was abolished with the understanding that those pitchers who at the time depended upon it could retain its use.

There Are Four Left

Gradually the number of spitball throwers are still four men allowed to moisten the ball before they throw it. They are Jack Quinn, of the Athletics; Burleigh Grimes, of the Pirates; Urban Faber, of the White Sox, and Clarence Mitchell, of the Cardinals. Grimes is still going like a house afire. Faber also is pitching good ball. Quinn was pounded from the box in his world series appearance last year, but there are still ball games left in the Pottsville mine. Mitchell, of the Cardinals, is 39 and still tingling foolers.

It all started because a pitcher wanted to find an easy way to get the side out.

Wasn't Wine Men Die After A Drink From Jug

LYONS, Neb., Feb. 24. (AP)—Two men died today and three others were seriously ill after drinking from a jug which they thought contained wine. A coroner's jury found that the deaths were due to drinking an automobile radiator solution.

Lawrence Kohlmeier, 33, and Nelson Jarvis, 27, were the two who died. Jarvis' 18 year old son, Robert, and two other youths, Hollis Cleveland, 19, and Reuben Robert, 23, are all in a critical condition.

Interscholastic Cage Meet Open To All Schools

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Making the annual University of Chicago interscholastic basketball tournament more of a national affair than ever, the event this year has been thrown open to all high schools, public and private, which meet the required standards of eligibility. Dates of the classic are April 1-5, inclusive.

Broadening of the competition means that the tournament will be open to denominational and private schools as well as public schools. While the winners of past tournaments generally had been acclaimed national prep champions, the 1930 winner will have even clearer claim to the title because of inclusion of all secondary schools.

Second Game Of School Grid Series Brings Engineers To Front As Favorites In Intramural Struggle

Engineers' intramural football stock took a sudden jump Monday afternoon on the college gridiron when the hard-running crew of gridsters of Coach Rhodes Ingerton swept over the liberal arts eleven to capture the second of the annual school series, 25-0.

Staging a running attack much on the order of the 40-mile gale that swept across the playing field, the Engineers turned back the husky Arts crew decisively and as a result are favored to regain the title lost last year to the Liberal Arts forces. The Engineers are scheduled to meet the Aggies Friday in the concluding skirmish of the series and are strong favorites to win, hands down. Last week the Liberal Arts entry downed the Farmers, 26-7.

Elements Get Tough

Monday's tussle was played in spite of the sand-filled air that hardly enabled the players to make their directions. Spectators were able to open their eyes long enough to see about one out of three plays.

From the first quarter until the last, the Engineers held the upper hand, except for occasional spurts when Wesner and Bobo broke through the leaders' defense. The Engineers took the ball early in the opening stanza and drove to within inches of the Liberal Arts goal on three successive first downs, only to miss scoring through a fumble.

The second period found the winners hammering continually at the Arts' line. Once the leaders held the Engineers for downs, but their attempt to kick out of danger went 15 yards. Maddox and Witherspoon came right back again. Maddox going over for the first counter. The half ended with the Engineers leading, 6-0.

Score Piles Up. In the third period the Engineers put across another, with Witherspoon and Maddox doing the lion's share of the leather totin'. The third quarter came in the fourth quarter after a sustained drive and the final tally came about when Smith intercepted a Liberal Arts pass and ran half the distance of the field for a touchdown.

The starting lineup:

Liberal Arts	Pos.	Engineers
McAlister	left tackle	Osborne
Flowers	center	Leaverton
Dickinson	right guard	James
Newman	right tackle	Johnson
Comper	right end	Swann
Young	quarterback	Maddox
Howell	right half	Couleneau
Hobbs	fullback	Witherspoon
Officials	McMillan (Texas A. and M.) referee; Morgan (Austin college) head linesman; Davis (Texas A. and M.) field judge.

Brix After New Shotput Mark

Having thrown the 16-pound shotput 51 feet, 11 5-8 inches to establish a national outdoor record, Herman Brix of Los Angeles will go after a new American indoor mark in the national championships in New York in March.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24. (AP)—

Herman Brix, representing the Los Angeles Athletic club, plans to put the national indoor shotput record to rest when he competes in the chosen star of the country at Madison Garden for the annual track and field event.

A former University of Washington athlete and member of the 1928 Olympic team, Brix has been working out during the winter months, not only conditioning himself for a fresh campaign with the shot, but also with the javelin and discus.

Brix holds the American record in the strongman event, with a mark of 51 feet 11 5-8 inches for the 16-pound weight. His National A. A. U. record stands at 50 feet 11 3-4 inches.

Club Stronger in All Positions, Writer Says

By KERN TIPS

(Written for the Associated Press) HOUSTON, Feb. 24. (AP)—The marked manner in which the Houston Buffs have applied themselves to the business of buying, trading and otherwise accumulating baseball players for 1930 sustains the notion that Houston will be among those present at the pay off of the Texas League next September.

The Buffs will be stronger at every position this year; this statement is predicted upon anticipation of what the St. Louis Cardinals will do for Houston and realization of what they have already done.

Few Holdovers

Precious few holdovers will check in for roll call when spring training starts at Buffalo Stadium March 3, for the program for reorganization calls not alone for addition of new motive power, but for the subtraction of parts of the 1929 machine that failed to approximate champion calibre.

Nineteen new players have been signed on for the 1930 cruise of the Cardinals. The Cardinals already have dealt with the Buffs most bountifully and given Houston the semblance of the team it knew in 1929, when the Blues captured the Texas League pennant and the Dixie championship.

Five players have been sent to the Buffs by the Cardinals on option, and Houston has bought three more outright from the Rochester International League club. The options include Carey Seip, second baseman of the '28 team; Art Reinhardt, veteran southpaw pitcher, who pastimed the last half of the 1929 season here; Bubber Jonnard, the 1928 team catcher; Wattle Holm, fresh from the St. Louis outfield, and Tony Kauff, a man, first a pitcher, then an outfielder, who was claimed on waivers by the Cards from the New York Giants.

Sailor Now Prefers To Say Say It With Fists; Says Heavyweight Title Will Stay In U. S. A.

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor) MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 24. (AP)—Any lingering doubt about Jack Sharkey's condition for his 15-round match Thursday night with Phil Scott, or any question that he may be a trifle stale, seemed effectively dispelled today by the Boston sailor's final workout with the gloves.

Sharkey hardly could have looked more impressive than he did in battering three sparring partners around the ring in as many rounds. He was on his toes, aggressive and punching with the well known Sharkey savagery in successive set-ups with Pierre Charles, Johnny Grosso and Moise Bouillon, the international sparring staff.

Sharkey prefers to say it with his fists. There is not the slightest question in his own mind that he will knock out Scott quickly, but the big Lithuanian no longer is the loquacious one. Gone is the braggadocio that marked his early rise as a heavyweight against such men as Harry Wills and Jimmy Maloney. He looked the part of a grim, perfectly conditioned fighting machine this afternoon and his only remark to newspapermen for publication was:

"I can promise you and the American people that the heavyweight championship is going to stay in the United States. Anything else from me would be superfluous."

Scott's condition appears satisfactory, but the Englishman has been to give any of the experts the impression that he can hit hard enough to damage Sharkey or offer a defense to the American's hard hitting attack. Phil's snaky left jab may worry Sharkey, but it takes more than that to win this affair.

DALLAS, Feb. 24. (AP)—Tie hearts set upon finishing in a tie for second place in the Southwest Conference basketball chase, the Southern Methodist university eagles drilled hard here today in preparation for tomorrow night's tilt with the Texas Longhorns at Austin.

The Ponies can tie Texas for second place by winning their last two bouts, providing the Steers lose the two remaining on their schedule. As they already hold one decision over the Orange, scored in an overtime battle here, the Mustangs have hopes of making it a pair tomorrow night.

Coach St. Clair announced his starting line-up probably would consist of Andrews and Johnson, forwards; Brooks, center, and Streeters and Hammon, guards.

Fort Bliss Team Is Polo Finalist

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 24. (AP)—Fort Bliss defeated Wichita Falls, defending champion, 11 to 7, in the Southwest Circuit Cup series of the seventh annual mid-winter polo tournament here this afternoon to enter the finals to meet Fort Sam Houston for the title honors Thursday afternoon.

Fort Bliss was favored with a handicap of three goals, but this was not needed, for eight goals scored with the smallest decided the game.

Lieut. Larry Smith of Fort Bliss and Captain Wilkinson and Jack Lapham of Wichita each scored three goals. Lieut. Paul Harkins and Captain Beaumont of Fort Bliss each scored two goals and Lieut. Johnson of Fort Bliss and C. H. Featherstone of Wichita Falls each scored one goal.

Wearing Smaller Sized Shoe On Sunday Is All Right If Ownership Can Be Established, Judge Rules

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. —(P)—It remained for John Coin to reveal that a man who would be well dressed should wear a smaller shoe Sunday than he wears week days.

"Ordinarily," he told Judge Immenhausen, "I wear a size eleven. On Sunday I wear a ten. The smaller size is more suitable for dress."

"What size have you now?" inquired the court.

"Ten," said Coin.

"But this," interposed Judge Immenhausen, "is Sunday."

"That is on account of George Washington," replied Coin. "I'm dressing up in memory of George Washington."

"And where did you get those size ten shoes?" asked the court.

"I would rather not discuss such matters here," replied Coin, with hauteur.

"I believe those shoes are George Washington's, and that you took them from his feet without his knowledge," said the court. "Ten days in jail, including Washington's birthday. Leave the number ten here for Niculita."

LAMESA, Feb. 24.—Construction work in Lamesa is on an upward trend and labor is enjoying a busy season.

Five projects are under way in the city at this time, totalling $393,500. The powdered milk factory, at a cost of $200,000, is rapidly nearing completion and will probably be in operation by May 1, according to Harvey C. Allen, contractor.

The Texas Electric Service company is at present erecting a high voltage line between Lamesa and Big Spring. Although no statement has been made by the company, it is believed that the line will cost near $100,000.

Paving in Lamesa was being continued this week. Eighty thousand dollars will be expended in hard surfacing streets.

The Baptist parsonage, part of a $75,000 building program this year, at a cost of $7,000, was being constructed this week.

W. B. Collins, prominent merchant and vice president of the local chamber of commerce, will move into his new home on south First street soon. The structure, costing $6,000, is brick veneer.

Tentative projects here include enlarging the high school gymnasium, plans for a new city park as well as a recreation and athletic grounds, a new Baptist church and probably a new federal building.

County Dads Take No Action Monday On Jail Building

County Commissioners In Session With Architects To Get Estimates On Proposed New Structure

Though Lubbock county commissioners conferred at length yesterday afternoon with architects on estimates for a new criminal court and jail structure, no definite action was taken by the body towards ordering an election for construction of the building.

A petition was presented the court two weeks ago, signed by 188 citizens, asking for an election to vote on proposed issuance of $250,000 in bonds for the new building.

Plans, as discussed by the commissioners, are to remove the present jail structure to make way for a $335,000 new federal building.

Architect firms in conference yesterday with the court were: Peters, Strange and Bradshaw of Lubbock and Carter and Rittenberry, of Amarillo.

CITY NINTH IN BUILDING YEAR'S TOTAL STANDS AT $215,510 NOW; AMARILLO ACTIVE (By Associated Press) DALLAS, Feb. 24.—A southern city shared honors with a northwestern city for the week's score in permits to build. San Antonio, with permits totalling $394,266, led the field, while Amarillo was second with $317,740. The week was generally light with only four cities—the two named, Houston and Dallas—with permits of more than $100,000. Houston, although failing to third place in the weekly total, still maintained its lead for the year and was the only city in the state with a year's total of more than $3,000,000. ONE MINUTE PULPIT
I said unto the Lord, Thou art my God: hear the voice of my supplications, O Lord.

O God the Lord, the strength of my salvation, thou hast covered my head in the day of battle.
—Psalm, cxi, 6, 7.

A WORD TO HOUSEWIVES

LUBBOCK housewives usually regard the peddler who comes to their doors as a nuisance. But half of the time they encourage him to stay.

The average housewife finds it easier, in the individual instance, to buy a package of bad needles, or a rubber apron which turns out to be a second, than it is to listen to a stream of talk and force herself into an argument as to why she should not buy.

Yet if all the housewives of Lubbock were to unite in refusal to buy of the itinerant salesman for a year, they would find themselves left, long before the year was out, in peace and quiet to attend to their home duties without interruption and to do their marketing according to their own good judgment.

In one prosperous small city often victimized by this type of person, the merchants got together and issued a statement which may well be heeded here:

"Numerous complaints are being received from housewives who report that they have lost money through purchases of merchandise from unknown house-to-house peddlers. Professional swindlers who go from city to city have victimized thousands of housewives. Merchandise is misrepresented and, if delivered, is often inferior to samples shown. Advance payments are sometimes collected, the peddler vanishes and the merchandise is never received. Investigate before you buy or invest.

"Your responsible local merchants support all civic and public enterprises, pay taxes for the city's development and support, and give employment to thousands of home-town people. You can always rely on them personally for the adjustment of any matters.

"You are safe in buying from responsible local stores. The house-to-house, itinerant merchant, whether he be working his way through college by selling a poor line of hosiery, or whether he be 'tempting the ladies and society' in the sale of cheap handkerchiefs at above-market prices, does nothing to benefit Lubbock, while by duping the housewife he is keeping business from the legitimate merchants.

The Morning Avalanche can't see any reason for encouraging him by patronizing him.

VALUE OF MINUTES

Possibly the gentleman who took time to amass statistics to prove that the average income of the American worker is one and one-half cents a minute was not so profane as he might seem. He was right. The statistics received wide publicity, perhaps because the income of various prominent persons was also figured on the minute basis.

President Hoover, for instance, receives about 50 cents a minute, whereas Clara Bow receives $4.00 every sixty seconds for an eight-hour day. Judge Landis gets about 43 cents a minute. Will Hays, $1, and Charlie Chaplin, $6.67. The aggregate income of all workers is $500,000 a minute, or $30,000,000 an hour.

It is a curious phenomenon that almost every citizen is more interested in his neighbor's income than perhaps any other matter. Particularly is he impressed by fabulous figures, a fact which great agents have had knowledge of, and have played up since the profession of ballroom was founded.

It is to be hoped that the general public, while absorbing the details of the tremendous returns of front page personages, will subconsciously grasp the fact that its own income is 13 cents per minute per capita. Some one must foot this bill. In return the wage payer expects to derive 13 cents' worth of service.

Each and every minute has monetary value. Copybooks from time immemorial have chronicled this fact, but their teachings have had but little effect. Perhaps the knowledge of the financial loss from every wasted minute will dissuade some persons from wasting time. If it does the statistician will not have wasted his minutes.

SUBSIDIZED EDUCATION

Some persons received with distrust and grave doubts the proposal of Henry Ford to spend a few hundred millions in building and conducting schools along lines conceived by himself.

No one will dispute his statement that the best existing educational systems could be improved upon, and that the Ford surplus millions might be spent to good effect in this field. The automobile manufacturer has placed his finger on a real national and world need.

"Education" missions of uplifters and philanthropists often come under public suspicion because they turn out to the schools for propaganda rather than schools for true education. What these earnest and well-meaning men and women conceive to be the real purpose and need of education may not be acceptable to the raw material or to better authorities on the subject.

Mr. Ford admits that he proposes to have the student of his schools taught to believe what he believes. While he is not a fastidist in the strict sense of the word, he has expressed certain causes and given utterance to certain theories and theories that place him in the same category with thousands of others who will believe the world is uneducated until it believes as they do.

Education is too often confused with propaganda. Propaganda seeks to win converts to a cause or an opinion. True education has no other purpose than to help the individual to arrive at his own opinions and choose his own "cause."

Republican Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania says prohibition is going to ruin his party (the Republicans) if something isn't done about it right away. Maybe President Hoover ought to appoint a commission on ruination.

After the professional humorist developed brain fever trying to be funny, he picked up a dispatch saying that Chicago officials are averse to any aid from a citizens' committee because "it is improper that public distrust of the city government be built up."

CONTRAST IN IOWA'S SENATORS EVIDENT AS STECK TOSSES HAT

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

ASHTON, Feb. 24.—Senator Daniel F. Steck, whose term expires in March, 1931, has announced his candidacy to succeed himself.

Which focuses one's attention upon Senator Steck long enough to reflect for a fleeting moment what an extraordinary contrast he presents to Senator Smith W. Brookhart, his Iowa colleague in the upper house of congress.

If two utterly dissimilar individuals ever did represent the same state at the same time in the United States senate, two such individuals represent Iowa now in the persons of Dan Steck and Smith Wildman Brookhart.

In fact, the contrast is so violent that ordinarily one fails to see it.

Brookhart stands out so vehemently that he throws Steck into complete obscurity. A Sioux brave in full war-paint, screaming his battlecry, would not attract much notice in competition with Colonel Brookhart, in action in the senate.

And Steck is not even as noticeable as a Sioux brave in full war-paint. Inasmuch as he never says anything, either, one forgets most of the time that there is any Senator Daniel F. Steck, from Iowa.

The mere circumstance that Steck calls himself a Democrat and that Brookhart calls himself a Republican (the regular Republicans froth at the mouth and then purple every time he does so, but he certainly is anything but a Democrat) is a minor detail.

Several states have mixed Republican and Democratic representation in the senate.

A Democratic senator is more of a curiosity from Iowa, however, than he would be from many other states. Normally Iowa is so perfectly Republican by such heavy majorities that Steck is the first Democrat it has conferred a toga on since ante-civil war days.

The truth is, it looked doubtful for a while if the Hawkeye folk had meant to send Steck himself to Washington.

The count of votes in 1924 showed a majority for Brookhart, who was Dan's opponent that year, but a mixup concerning the marking of a lot of the ballots led to a contest and Steck won it. It may have been only a coincidence that the senate election committee consisted mainly of conservative Republicans, who preferred Steck's kind of a Democrat to Brookhart's brand of Republicanism.

There evidently was considerable ill feeling over it. Because when Brookhart really was elected two years later, it was duly noted that Steck failed to champion him as he took the oath of office, according to custom. Senator Hubert D. Stephens of Mississippi did it. I never could learn whether Brookhart refused to stand for Steck or Steck refused to stand for Brookhart, but it looked awful.

Democrats who profess progressive principles, elsewhere in the country, express small sympathy for the Iowa Democrats' almost uninterrupted hard luck at the polls during so many decades.

The progressive Democrats say that every time the Iowa Democrats do stand for Brookhart, they put up some Bourbon whose political ideas antedate Noah, and (declare the progressives) it serves them right to be wallowed as long as they keep that up.

Maybe Steck's presence in the senate should be interpreted as indicating that the Hawkeye Democrats varied their usual program in his instance. Or maybe a highly conservative Democrat's decision in his favor, in his contest with Brookhart, should be interpreted as indicating just the contrary.

The senate's thought unquestionably is that Iowa surely went the limit both times when it sent Steck and Brookhart to Washington.

That is not so surprising; any state may do the limit.

What stumps most of Steck's and Brookhart's fellow senators is:

How the dickens did the Iowa voters happen to go first the conservative and then the radical limit in such rapid succession?

PORK MUST BE WELL COOKED IF IT IS TO BE EATEN IN SAFETY

By DR. MORRIS FISHER

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The disease trichinosis affects chiefly hogs and rats. In a recent survey of diseases transmitted from animals to man, Thomas G. Hull asserts that the Jewish prohibition against pork made by Moses about 1500 B. C., was probably due to his recognition of the danger of such infestation from eating the meat of the hog.

It was not, however, until 1822 that anyone recognized the presence of something strange in the muscle tissue and the organism itself was not demonstrated until 1835. The organism that causes trichinosis is a round worm scarcely visible to the naked eye, quite slender and tapering. It multiplies freely in the intestines and after development passes by way of the blood to the muscles, where it lives and causes pain and other serious symptoms.

About 1880 American pork was so commonly infected that it was excluded from German markets. Since that time government control and meat inspection have led to a considerable decrease in outbreaks. Occasionally considerable numbers of persons are still infected through eating pork improperly inspected, insufficiently cooked and improperly handled. A recent outbreak on the Pacific coast resulted from the eating of hams that had been canned without proper control.

When meat is kept at five degrees Fahrenheit or below that temperature for five days, practically all of the trichinosis worms are destroyed. Storage of pork at a temperature of 10 degrees Fahrenheit or below for 20 days will destroy all of the worms.

The United States Department of Agriculture requires such storage for all pork killed in slaughter houses under federal inspection. Occasionally meat of animals killed for home consumption is not properly controlled and epidemics occur. The safe route is not to eat pork or sausage containing pork whether it has been officially inspected or not until it has been properly cooked.

A temperature of 137 degrees Fahrenheit for a sufficient period of time will destroy the organism. Since all of our slaughter houses are not under federal supervision, proper cooking in the home is the method of safety.

"Unpaid Police Raid Gunmen; Arrest 917," says a headline in a Chicago newspaper. The gunmen must have been pretty seriously in arrears.

A fiend is a man who sends you a postcard picture of himself lolling in the sands on the beach while it's 40 below where you are.

Stanley Baldwin says his best speeches are made when there are no reporters present. That holds for a couple of other fellows, too, Stanley.

NILES, Mich., Feb. 24.—The body of Mrs. Rose Baker Plovie was exhumed today from an old heap in the rear of the Plovie home here which is believed to have been her resting place since the woman's disappearance last November.

Philip Plovie, the woman's husband, a wealthy contractor, shot and killed himself yesterday after being questioned regarding his wife's disappearance. Henry Baker, brother of the woman, is said to have told officers that Plovie confessed to him he had slain his wife.

Fourteen Jewish Leaders Arrested

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Senator Borah has received word from Moscow that 14 Jewish leaders reported arrested and sentenced to death at Minsk, Russia, for counter-revolutionary activities all but three rabbis have been released.

This information came to the Idaho senator in a cablegram from Maxim Litvinoff, the soviet's acting commissar of foreign affairs.

Of the three still held, Borah said there was "no danger of execution."

The senator, at the request of Representative Dickstein of New York, had asked the soviet government for information on the reported arrests.

Naval Conference Will Be Resumed

Committees Begin Activity After Lull of Several Days Awaiting Return of French Delegation

LONDON, Feb. 24.—The naval conference, awaiting the return of a French delegation representing the new Chateauvieux government, began getting underway again today after a lull of several days.

The sub-committee on special ships was busy at St. James Palace this morning putting finishing touches on its report. Secretary Stimson, chief of the American delegation, returned from Stannmore to the American headquarters, and there was considerable activity in connection with resumption of the full conference proceedings later in the week.

The chief delegates were going ahead with their conference plans without any apparent slackening of speed and the British official spokesman announced that Prime Minister MacDonald visited Secretary Stimson yesterday afternoon and remained as an overnight guest at Stannmore.

Rash Romance

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH CAMERON, New York typist, marries ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the publishing house in which she is employed. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 18 and son, JUNIOR, 16. Tony de-demourne Judith as a gold digger. Her father makes her apologize. When Junior comes home for Christmas holidays he is equally unfriendly.

ANDY CRAIG, a young man Knight has added to the position with the publishing house. He is in love with Tony and calls on her frequently. Tony tries to convince her father that Judith and Andy are carrying on an affair and, when she fails, tries the pair into a compromising situation.

Tony is carrying on a flirtation with MICKEY MORTIMER, wealthy and married. This is revealed when they are arrested at 3 a. m. for reckless driving. Tony and her father quarrel over this, but the girl is finally forgiven. Knight becomes ill with pneumonia. Junior comes home and before he leaves admits to Judith he has misjudged her.

Tony intercepts a letter which comes for Judith. Later she follows her stepmother on a trip into the city and sees her meet a young man. She threatens to tell her father unless Judith goes away for two weeks. Judith goes, leaving a note for Arthur. Knight's secretary reports that Andy Craig is missing, too. Judith goes to an inexpensive hotel on upper Broadway. Next day she roams aimlessly about the city, pursued by a sense of guilt. She finally reaches the water front.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIV None of the men and women about her noticed the girl dressed in a bathrobe sitting alone on a bench facing the water.

Judith studied her neighbors. There were two old men, white-haired and red-checked, who sat nearest. Their collars were hunched up about their chins to ward off the wind. The two men were arguing, though she could not hear what they said. One old fellow was tall and thin. The other's shoulders were bent, and one side of his mouth moved, chewing rhythmically.

Far at the left a girl was scattering crumbs for the pigeons that swirled and fluttered about her head. Standing, gazing off down the harbor, were several sailors. Others in short jackets and jaunty caps loomed on benches and blinked at the sun.

A party of feminine sight-seers passed Judith, chatting animatedly. A group of boys, strong enough to push baby carriages, were all part of the throng. Each group was preoccupied, oblivious to the rest.

Judith Knight's mind was busy. She stared at the water, down by its restless lure. Far in the distance great ships were heading ocean-ward. Others, returning from foreign seas, were steaming into port.

Starting out at the hazy horizon, Judith lost herself in reverie. Minutes passed. Then she remembered what had happened, and her melancholy had returned.

But the stir, the noise of the river traffic, was tonic. It challenged the listlessness. Judith looked at the water's edge. Then she left her bench and walked to the subway station. Time was no object with Judith. She watched the long express train rumble out of sight, then boarded a local.

Thirty minutes later she emerged into daylight. She went back to the hotel and up the elevator to her room.

Judith turned the key in the latch and swung the door open. It was only a little after four o'clock, bright daylight out of doors, but here in the little room with its one window facing the court, everything was black.

She snapped the electric light switch, threw off her hat and coat and dropped them on the bed. She went to the window and gazed out covertly. After those hours in the fever air and sunlight, this hideous place was intolerable.

No—it was not the room. Judith faced the truth honestly, at last.

She was afraid. For 24 hours she had been terrified by forbidding horrors she had refused to name. She was afraid of what should happen when Arthur Knight knew the truth. She was afraid even of admitting she was afraid.

The whole sickening panorama passed before her mind. Why not admit it? She was beaten! Judith did not know how long she stood staring out of the window. An idea, vague but persistent, was beginning to shape itself in her mind. She considered this idea discarded it, then went groping in search of it again.

Suppose she could go to Arthur—"What would you say? What would you tell him?"

"Tell him the truth!" came the answering argument. "Tell him all you should have told before your marriage."

"But I'm afraid—" There it was! Fear of what disclosure would bring on one hand; fear of concealment on the other. The conflicting elements of Judith's nature battled back and forth. Such fights are not settled quickly. In this case too much was at stake. Judith knew she had given Tony a promise to stay away for two weeks. But what was that promise except payment of blackmail? She had agreed to leave the house for two weeks. She was doing this in order that Tony would not tell her father what she knew.

Was it decent to bargain thus? Was such a promise binding? Other elements entered into the struggle. Why Judith asked herself was Tony so anxious to have her leave? What could two weeks' eternity though they seemed to Judith—do to change the situation? How would she feel when at the end of that period she returned home?

The tangle seemed hopeless. Oh, there were points that were clear enough! Judith Knight knew what she wanted—to regain Arthur's love and their former happiness. She wanted this so desperately that she was afraid to gamble.

To see Arthur again—to tell him the whole story—to see the light of forgiveness in his eyes! But no. Arthur Knight would not forgive.

Judith slipped to her knees and buried her head on the bed. "Oh, God," she prayed, "help me! Help me to know what is right!"

Suddenly she knew that was the important thing. Note her own selfish happiness should guide her, but the thing that was right! In pleading for guidance her prayers had been answered.

Judith was strangely pale, strangely stirred as she arose. She caught a glimpse of her reflection in the mirror and stared at it. She scarcely recognized herself.

Her wrist watch told her it was nearly six o'clock. Judith disrobed, bathed and dressed afresh. Then she made ready to leave the room. Habit made her pause on the threshold and glance back over her shoulder. Assured that she had not forgotten anything, she stepped into the hall and locked the door.

A subtle change had taken place in Judith Knight's appearance. The boy in the elevator eyed her curiously, but Judith did not notice this.

Through the hotel lobby and on to the street she moved. Involuntarily she sought the restaurant where she had lunch.

When she had finished her dinner she said the cashier and stepped out.

ped into the street. Glowing electric lights beamed but Judith ignored them. For several blocks she walked without noticing her surroundings. Then she realized that she had passed the corner where she should have turned to reach the hotel. Still she continued.

She was not thinking—at least Judith told herself she did not want to think. Subconsciously her mind was in ferment. Should she go back to Arthur? Should she remain here?

The long afternoon out of doors had made her weary. At last Judith turned and made her way back to the hotel. When she was in her room once more she slipped into the one chair and drew a long sigh. Yes, she was tired physically and mentally. She told herself she had come no nearer to a decision.

But that was not true. When any problem is stated and faced frankly half the battle is over. She was painstaking that evening about her preparations for the night, cleaned her face carefully with cream, cleaned it with hot water and brushed her hair, 50 strokes on either side. It was as though, by busying herself at these tasks, she sought to forget more important things.

At last, though it was still early in the evening, she turned out the light and climbed into bed. If Judith Knight had only known her decision already was made, she had reached the turning point in the searing agony of that moment when she had slipped to her knees and cried, "Help me know what is right!"

Judith slept late the next morning. She took a long walk before luncheon and again in the afternoon visited Battery Park. It was as she sat watching a glorious white liner glide out into the harbor that involuntarily her two hands clasped together.

"I'll do it!" Judith said to herself. "I'm going—now!" In a tumult of energy she rushed toward the subway. Down the steps Judith ran. Oh, she must hurry now! She must hurry before she lost courage!

A train was pulling in. Judith leaped aboard as the doors opened. A good omen—she saw that it was an express, and the right one.

The electric demon could not go fast enough to satisfy her. Local stations flashed into sight and out again. Yellow lights, green lights, red lights twinkled in the subterranean caverns. It all seemed slow and annoying to Judith's impatience.

She was the first one out of the car when the doors slid back. Up the steps she sped. She was breathless and running when she reached the hotel.

"If I hurry," she told herself, "I can make the 4:10." She must make the 4:10! She must make it! Otherwise, there would be an impossible half-hour's delay, and she could not reach the house until after five o'clock.

Luckily there was little to pack. Pajamas, lingerie, comb and brush and cosmetics were tossed into the traveling bag helter-skelter. When they were all in and the bag locked Judith grabbed it up and ran.

She charged at the cashier's desk as he hunted for her bill. "Taxi!" asked the driver, stationed before the door. No, the subway would be quicker.

Without bothering to answer, Judith ran down the street. The traveling bag was not heavy. She swung onto a train, barely squeezing in before the automatic doors clicked shut. Judith dropped into the first seat and eyed each passing station defiantly. As they neared the railway station, ready to dash out the minute the train stopped.

Off to the ticket window and down a flight of stairs to the suburban train. Judith's heart bounded. There, waiting, stood the 4:10. She entered the nearest car and found a seat. A cold little shiver ran down her spine.

"If he'll only listen!" Judith prayed. "If Arthur will only understand—" Now that the excitement of catching the train was ended, there was a lump in Judith's throat. She was afraid that Arthur would not understand.

But even her worst fears had not prepared Judith Knight for the moment 30 minutes later when she faced Arthur Knight in the living room of his home.

"I'm back!" she faltered. Knight eyed his young wife coolly and deliberately. "What have you come for?" he asked.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Cotton Price Drop; Stocks Decline

March Contracts Delivery Notice Cause Of Decline

Price Drops Nearly Forty Cents Below Saturday's Close After Lower Liverpool Cables Reported

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24. (AP)—The issue of notices for delivery of 36,000 bales on March contracts, and rather lower Liverpool cables than due were responsible for a sharp drop in cotton here today. Prices eased all morning and afternoon on the circulation of notices and weakness in wheat and in the stock market until the price level dropped 36 to 40 points under the previous close.

The market declined in early trading owing to fears of March notices on New York market tomorrow making new low, 45 to 47 cents below the previous close, but rallied 6 to 7 points at the end of covering. May declined from 15.31 at the close on Friday last, to 14.85, a drop of 46 points, and closed at 14.81 at 40 points below the previous close. The general market closed steady at net declines of 33 to 40 points.

Liverpool came in 6 to 7 points worse than due and first trades here showed losses of 21 to 27 points. By the end of the first hour March dropped to 14.72, may to 15.07 and July to 15.31, or 25 to 30 points below the previous close. Prices in the early afternoon dropped to 14.83, close for March, 14.85 for May and 15.18 for July, or 35 to 39 points below the previous close.

Mixed Loads Make Up Cattle Market

FORT WORTH, Feb. 24. (AP)—Mixed loads of rather common cattle made up the bulk of the supply here today.

Steers 10.85, cattle of common quality $9.00.

Bulls $7.00. Common light bulls $5.75.

For cows $2.00, others 7.00. Butcher's 6.00 to 6.50; cutters 5.00 to 5.50; bulk canners 4.00 to 4.50.

Slaughter yearlings, desirable, light, 12.00, other loads $10.00 to 11.00.

Better heavy calves 11.00 to 11.50; calves 8.00 to 10.00; culls 5.00 to 5.50.

Stocker calves and yearlings 10.00 to 11.00; some steers 9.50.

No morning sales of rail hogs; truck hogs top 9.75; bulk truck butchers 9.50 to 9.75.

Hardly enough sheep to test the values.

Sensational Drop In Wheat Values

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. (AP)—In a sensational collapse of all grain prices today, wheat dropped 7 3-8 cents a bushel, outstanding records going back 15 years. Whirlwind selling rushes and extreme dearth of buyers pushed wheat 56 cents a bushel below the season's top figures, barely escaping the old time land mark of $1 a bushel but hitting it squarely at Kansas City.

Reports of threatened exhaustion of storage facilities, with no additional export outlet in sight, appeared to have nearly demoralized the wheat trade, forcing corn, oats and rye into new low record for this season.

Flourishing wheat, Chicago wheat trading closed excited, 5 1-8 to 5 1-4, a bushel under last Friday's finish. Corn closed 2 3-8 to 3 1-4, oats 1-3/4 to 1-1/2, and provisions showing 20 to 25 cents drop.

Kauffman every chance to regain the form as a pitcher that he knew with the Chicago Cubs. Felling in that, Toony will be moved into the outfield, a place in which he battled over 400 for Rochester in 1928. The trio bought from Rochester were Pitcher Carl Littlejohn, outfielder Gus Felix and Pitcher Ray Linger.

A Strong Nucleus

The Buffs also have bought Catcher Bill Smith, great looking rookie prospect, from Fort Wayne, and reinstated Shortstop Lou Benson, who last year took leave of absence from the Buffs in mid-season. This group, augmented by ten holdovers, gives the Buffs a tangible nucleus. The holdovers are Third Basemen Eddie Hock, Catcher Hal Funk, Outfielders Howard Williamson, George Cottle and Vernon Deck; Infielder Jimmy Jordan and Pitchers Floyd Rose, Howard Holland and Joe Brown.

Three holdovers already have been disposed of with the selling of First Baseman Roy Moore to Greenville, in the South Atlantic League, the optioning of Lee Cunningham to Danville, in the Three I League, and the release of Pitcher Paul Wachtel. Other holdovers expected to figure in deals include Jordan and possibly Cottle.

Newcomers on List

Newcomers picked up during the off season include Frank Crompton, heavy-hitting rookie outfielder from Scottsdale; William Ford, right handed pitcher, obtained in a deal with Rochester; Pitcher Allen Stout, bought from Laurel; Infielder George Binder, drafted from Scottsdale, and Bill Kunds, bought from Fort Wayne; three semi-pro pitchers, Albert Warnke, W. B. Gray, Jr., and Joe Morgenstern, and a Houston amateur, Outfielder Clyde Gray.

Manager Joe Schultz, last year boss of the Danville club, will muster the Buff batterymen March 3, and call out the rest of the squad March 4.

Roy Furr, General Manager, Host To Thirty-Five In Annual Banquet Monday Night; Policy Talked

Guests of their general manager, Roy Furr, approximately 35 members of Lubbock "M" System met last night in annual banquet session at Hotel Lubbock.

Purpose of the meeting, as explained by Mr. Furr, who acted as the toastmaster, was to discuss and plan the further policies of the local institution, namely, courtesy, cleanliness, quality, prices and service.

Several after-dinner speeches were made by guests present. H. V. Weir, superintendent of the local stores, was the first speaker and he told of the value of individuality in each unit. James Kilpatrick, local attorney, spoke briefly on the "Possibilities of the Individual in the New Commercial Field." His address was followed by a short talk from F. R. Friend, local banker, on "Progress of South Plains Industries."

Music for the occasion was furnished through courtesy of Grady Gilder and his Lubbock Hotel Orchestra.

Values Drift To Low Mark During Dullest Session

Drastic Declines In Wheat And Cotton Turns Damp Of Speculative Enthusiasm In Monday's Mart

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer
NEW YORK, Feb. 24. (AP)—Stock prices drifted lower in the dullest session of the stock exchange in more than a month today. Drastic declines in wheat and cotton, and indecisive week-end business reports effectively turned the damper on speculative enthusiasm.

Total sales were 2,320,430 shares, 240,000 less than Friday's.

Losses were largely moderate, the price index of 90 leading shares showing a decline of less than 2 points, and the market suffered primarily from lack of demand rather than extensive offerings.

The opinion prevails in Wall Street that the depression in commodity prices is rapidly passing its most acute stages.

Business news over the holiday week-end gave little clue to what may be expected in the way of a spring revival.

The first newspaper published south of the Potomac river, the Virginia Gazette, has been revived in Williamsburg, Va.

Bankers, Ginners

The resolutions committee was composed of Lon M. Davis, Florida, chairman; J. S. Edwards, Slaton; H. E. Blocker, W. S. Posey, C. E. Maedgen, W. O. Stevens, C. P. Carlock, Al Hill.

The planting of cotton of seven-eighths of an inch staple would cost an $1,500,000 more to the South Plains than the present short staple cotton, Harry Blocker told the gathering. H. M. Mason, of Lockney, stated that the difference between the shorter and untenderable cotton and the medium length staple, to the average small town, is between $100,000 and $200,000 annually.

Practice obtaining among ginners in buying short staple cotton on the "hog-round" basis, in order to keep the ginning trade coming to his gin, even though he took big losses on the purchased cotton, was discouraged and denounced by several speakers. On cotton buyer told of classing a number of bales of cotton for some ginner, which had been bought at hog-round basis, selling from nine to 17 cents per pound on the purchased cotton.

"AND WHEREAS, it is clearly evident that one of the two major and imperative needs is for an improved quality of staple in the coming crop, if the south is to win back her cotton supremacy of the world, which she has long held but is now rapidly losing;

"AND WHEREAS, it is likewise evident that a drastic and material reduction in cotton acreage is the second imperative need vital to the best interests of the cotton south, as is conclusively proved in the following statement issued by the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas on Feb. 17, 1929:

"It is a well known fact, known as well to the cotton growers themselves as to the business man and the banker, that a small crop of cotton brings more in actual dollars than a large one, and that the surplus of any commodity determines the price of the entire production. For example, in 1926 the record cotton crop of 18,000,000 bales sold for $982,000,000, while the ten million bale crop of 1923 brought the producers $1,500,000. This means that the cotton farmers in 1926 picked staple length that mature as early as 8,000,000 bales of cotton, and not only gave them to the world free of charge, but, in effect, paid $600,000,000 for the gracious privilege of doing so."

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, by joint meeting of the South Plains Ginners Association, bankers, and cotton buyers of the South Plains, meeting in called session on this 24th day of February, 1930, at Lubbock, Texas, that we strongly recommend and urge upon the farmers of the entire South Plains the planting of better staple seed, capable of producing at least seven-eighths to one-inch staple—such cotton as may be recommended by the state agricultural experiment station at Lubbock, and which is adaptable to this particular area and climate and short growing season; and that we strongly urge the complete abandonment of all seed varieties that produce untenderable staple lengths, or anything shorter than seven-eighths of an inch staple; and that we likewise warn against the planting of any extra long staple which is not adapted to our short season;

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that whereas the practice of buying cotton on a hog-round basis is doing more to encourage and prolong the planting of short staple cotton, we recommend that every ginner on the South Plains who buys cotton, beginning this coming season, will buy on grade and staple entirely;

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that it is the sense of this meeting that a reduction in cotton acreage for this year's crop of not less than 15 per cent is absolutely essential to the economic interests of the South Plains territory, and we hereby urge it unqualifiedly;

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, by the bankers present at this meeting that they collectively determine not to grant a credit to farmers the ultimate payment for which is dependent upon the production of a cotton crop alone; that it is apparent to the bankers present that the 1930 cotton crop will sell below the cost of production unless acreage is materially reduced by at least 15 per cent over the entire cotton belt;

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that all service clubs, such as Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, etc., as well as county agents, home demonstration agents, chambers of commerce and farm organizations, be urged to assist in carrying out the above program."

The resolutions committee was composed of Lon M. Davis, Florida, chairman; J. S. Edwards, Slaton; H. E. Blocker, W. S. Posey, C. E. Maedgen, W. O. Stevens, C. P. Carlock, Al Hill.

The chief factors they use are embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. In late years, excess fat has been fast disappearing, as everybody knows.

Gets Complete Relief From Terrible Gas Pains That Cut Like a Knife

Are Your Symptoms Like Hers?
HERE is the story of a woman that every sufferer of stomach troubles ought to make it a point to read. A victim of terrible agony for 10 years she tells about the simple treatment that ended all her troubles in just a short time.

Like many local women, Mrs. Mary Ogle is so grateful for her release from a life of pain she wants everyone to be helped and so tells her story: "I have always said and always will say that Tanlac saved my life. Few people have suffered as I have with stomach troubles in the last ten years. The gas nearly kills me. I would be deathly sick and in bed sometimes for weeks at a time. My stomach was sore all the time, the gas would form and collect right in the side and cut like a knife. I had to call in doctors. They said gall stones and gall bladder. Sour stomach and gases almost choked me to death and bothered my heart. Meat and potatoes were forbidden. I spent lots of money but my suffering increased instead of getting better. Certainly a harder task could not have been found for Tanlac, yet this medicine has succeeded and as I said, saved my life. My stomach troubles have yielded, I have a good digestion and best of all is relief from gases. I eat everything and gained so much in strength that I look like a different person. In best health in 10 years, that expresses it and tells the story of what Tanlac has done for me." Just the first dose or two of Tanlac will bring relief that will amaze you. Tanlac is a real medicine based on modern medical science. Like everything good it has its weak and ineffective imitations. So do not accept a substitute. Tanlac must help you or money back. At all druggists.
