33 Survivors From Crashed Plane Found

(By The Associated Press)

HONOLULU, Dec. 6.—The aircraft carrier Rendova radioed tonight it has picked up 33 survivors of a ditched C-54 transport plane which went down in the Pacific yesterday with 37 men aboard.

(Word received at Johnston island, 715 miles southwest of Honolulu and search headquarters, gave the position of the survivor rafts as 520 miles southwest of Johnston.

(This is approximately the same position in which an empty air-dropped rescue boat was reported sighted earlier today.

Position Given

The rafts first were sighted by a navy Privateer. First word of the success in the intensive air-sea hunt was relayed to Johnston island by a B-17. Why the Privateer didn't radio the information itself was not clear.

The Privateer gave the position as 465 miles southwest of Johnston time 3 p. m., CST), the radio message advised.

The position is just about where survivors were sighted when a B-17 dropped a rescue boat last night. Air searchers also told of seeing flares and blinking lights in the darkness. But when dawn came, there was no sign of the survivors.

Carrier Enroute

The C-54 went down early Sunday. It was enroute from Okinawa to Spokane, Wash., with four other Skymasters ferrying 98th Bomb group ground personnel. The others reached Johnston, 715 miles southwest of Honolulu, and joined in the search.

The Hawaiian sea frontier said the aircraft carrier Rendova should reach the survivor rafts about 7 p. m. Honolulu time (11 p. m. CST).

Navy patrol craft 1141 and the cargo ship Zelima also were speeding to the spot 502 miles southwest of Johnston island. Tiny Johnston, from where the search has been directed, is 715 miles southwest of Honolulu.

Flares Are Sighted

The radio report by the Navy plane confirmed an earlier contention by Lt. Cmdr. Harry A. Hazzard, directing the search, that he had "no doubts the survivors were sighted last night because two completely experienced crews saw them at separate intervals, at low altitudes, and also sighted definite flares and lights.

Hazzard said discovery of an air-dropped rescue boat far west of the supposed position showed unusualy strong currents and

Reds Slashing Chinese Units

NANKING, Dec. 6—The Chinese Communists announced tonight they had trapped and were rapidly destroying three government army groups which abandoned Suchow to try to aid another encircled group 60 miles southwest.

This was the force which had been the government's main reliance to stave the Communists off from Nanking, less than 200 miles to the southeast.

Comprising the second, 13th and 16th army groups, it was estimated to total 250,000 men, of whom 110,000 were combat troops.

20,000 "Annihilated"

The Communist broadcast, heard in Nanking, said 20,000 already had been "annihilated" in fighting from Dec. 2 through Dec. 4.

It said all the others, including many civilian officials from Suchow, were locked in a "manifold" encirclement and soon would be wiped out if they refused to surrender. It said the whole force totaled 22 divisions.

There was no confirmation from government circles of such a staggering blow, but generalized reports from the front lent strong color to the Communist claims.

Supplies Short

The Red broadcast said the trap was in an area bounded by Hsiaohsien, Tangshan and Yungcheng. These towns, 15 to 50 miles southwest and west of Suchow, define an equilateral triangle 35 miles on each side. They are 190 to 225 miles northwest of Nanking.

Previous government dispatches have depicted the army groups fighting due south from Suchow. Just before the Communist announcement, however, authoritative government sources said the groups actually had veered westward when a Red holding force blocked them on the south.

It also was conceded that, having destroyed the huge Suchow supply depots, the groups had only very limited food and munitions.

Foreign military observers said these groups were the principal government strength remaining in all east China. They agreed that a desperate break-through was the only alternative to defeat.

Hiss Accused As 'Key' Man

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 — Sworn testimony that Alger Hiss, as a State department official, obtained government documents for a Russian agent was spread today on the records of the House Un-American Activities committee.

The testimony was by Whittaker Chambers, admitted one-time Red courier whom Hiss is suing for libel; it came from preliminary proceedings in the libel suit and named a "Colonel Bykov" as the Russian agent.

In New York Hiss said in a statement:

"I deny without qualification the accusations made in that testimony."

Testimony Is Read

Rep. Nixon (R-Calif.), chairman of an Un-American Activities subcommittee, read excerpts from Chambers' testimony to reporters. Nixon explained: "It is time now that the public be apprised of Mr. Chambers' allegations" as to where he got government documents when he was a pre-war worker for the Communists."

This new chapter in the already long Hiss-Chambers case was supplied as the two principals testified in secret before a federal grand jury in New York.

They appeared before the jury by court order in a follow-up to committee reports of finding new and startling evidence of a pre-war Communist underground in the State department.

Rankin Makes Charge

The new evidence—microfilm copies of secret State department documents—prompted Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.) to declare: "Information in some of these documents undoubtedly contributed to the Hitler-Stalin pact, and it is entirely probable that they contributed to the Pearl Harbor attack."

Rankin said his authority was the word of "one former high official, who is in a position to know." He did not name him.

"There can be no question but that these documents," Rankin added in a statement, "were stolen from the State department by somebody on the inside and given an agent of Russia, and probably

Justices Divide 5 to 4 On Question

High Court Enters Jap War Trial Case

By DON SANDERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — The Supreme court decided today to go into a question of international import: Whether it has power to interfere with an Allied tribunal which sentenced seven Japanese leaders to hang as war criminals.

The vote to entertain arguments in the case was 5 to 4. Justice Jackson, who was the chief prosecutor at the first war crimes trial in Germany, cast the deciding vote.

He did so although he said the decision is "bound to embarrass the United States." This is because President Truman, as commander-in-chief, invited this country's Pacific Allies to take part in the Japanese war crimes tribunal.

MacArthur Stays Sentences

Hearings were set for Dec. 16. Directly involved in the case are Gen. Kenji Doihara, 64, and former Premier Koku Hirota, 70, who were sentenced to die, and five others given prison sentences. Their American attorneys attacked legality of the Tokyo trials.

Wartime Premier Hideki Tojo and four others doomed to death filed no appeals. But they have, of course, a vital indirect interest in the case. For example, if the Supreme court should declare the Allied tribunal invalid, it is considered highly questionable whether the sentences the tribunal imposed would be carried out by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

MacArthur has stayed the sentences awaiting the court's decision.

The court, by tie vote, had previously declined to pass upon the sentences given a number of German war criminals. A tie vote rejects an appeal for action. The Nazis were convicted, however, by United States military courts rather than by international tribunals.

In other cases today, the Su-

Promptness Is Urged

Promptness in sending donations is needed more this year than ever before because less time—only two weeks—has been allowed to complete the fund. The Goodfellows need about $3,000—less than $1 per child for the 3,000 to 4,000 children to be rememberd. This will provide a large package containing new toys, candy, fruits and nuts, delivered personally to each child on Christmas morning.

Jester, Wife Unhurt After Crash Landing

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (AP)—A twin-engine plane carrying Gov. and Mrs. Beauford H. Jester made a successful crash landing at municipal airport here today.

No one was injured.

Jester, who came to his office at the capitol a short time after the landing, joked about the incident, at the same time complimenting the pilot, Glenn Darnell of Houston, for doing a "magnificent job."

The governor and his wife were returning from a weekend visit at the home of Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Allan Shivers in Mission. The plane belonged to Herman Brown, Houston contractor.

The crash landing was necessary because the plane's landing gear would not lock in down position, Jester said. The pilot had notified the Alice air field to notify Austin, and fire trucks and an ambulance were standing by when the plane reached here.

Hale Farmer Is Hit-Run Victim

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 6 (Special) — The Texas Highway patrol and other law enforcement officers of the Panhandle and South Plains tonight were searching for the hit-and-run driver of a car which struck and killed Benjamin F. Harris, 66, of near Plainview, early Sunday night about a mile west of here.

The driver of the car, which was described as a black 1935 Ford, will face a charge of negligent homicide when caught, the State highway patrol indicated.

Struck On Highway

Harris, a farmer of nine miles northwest of Plainview and a resident of this area for more than 20 years, was driving toward Dimmitt about 7:50 p.m. with a companion, H. C. Barrow, when

Bailey County To Vote Today On Legalized Sale Of Liquor

MULESHOE, Dec. 6. (Special) —Whether Bailey county will allow the legal sale of liquor is the issue in a special election to be conducted Tuesday, and a heavy vote is expected, observers said today.

Strong opposition to a "wet" victory has been recorded by many citizens. Organization of the "United Drys of Bailey County" here last week was arranged to oppose legalized liquor.

Rev. A. W. Blaine, pastor of First Baptist church, was named county chairman of the organization in a meeting at the church. Other officers named were Rev. Milton L. Pattan, Nazarene church pastor, secretary-treasurer; W. M. Pool, jr., chairman for men; Mrs. Doc Wilhite, chairman for women; Elvin R. Ingram, chairman for youth; and Byron Griffiths, chairman for transportation.

There had been no indication today of any "wet" organization. The United Drys of Bailey county carried a full-page advertisement in the Muleshoe Journal urging defeat of legal liquor sales. The election was called by the county commissioners court after they had been advised that the county had never taken a legal stand on the issue.

Election Win Splits Berlin

By DONALD DOANE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Dec. 6 — The Smashing municipal election triumph of the bitterly anti-Russian Social Democratic party intensified today the East-West struggle over Berlin.

Completed now was the political division of this German metropolis 100 miles behind the iron curtain.

In defiance of Communist threats the Germans of western Berlin turned out a near-record vote of 86.2 per cent of the electorate. The act of voting itself was a protest against Soviet occupation policies.

Communist Strength Cut

From the Russian point of view, the voters added insult to injury by giving a majority to the Social Democrats, a militant anti-Communist organization. The other two parties which participated, the Christian Democrats and the Liberal Democrats, also are anti-Communist.

The final results:

Social Democrats (Socialist)—858,100 (64.5 per cent).

Christian Democrats (Conservatives) — 258,496 (19.4 per cent).

Liberal Democrats (Conservative)—214,224 (16.1 per cent).

Although the Communists boycotted the election, persons who analyzed the returns said the size of the turnout gave direct evidence that Communist strength in western Berlin had been cut in half in two years.

Ernst Reuter, Social Democratic leader, will become mayor of the new municipal government. He was barred from office by the Russians last year.

Economic Split Seen

Now the Russians can not keep him from his post, but he will govern only the two-thirds of Berlin occupied by the Americans, British and French. In the Soviet sector, where the election was banned, a Communist puppet government rules. It was handpicked last week. Each government calls the other illegal.

The Social Democratic victory may increase pressure for an economic as well as a political split between eastern and western Berlin. Party leaders long have urged the outlawing of the Russian mark in the western sectors. Such an action would leave the two parts of the city as divided as two nations.

Allied officials said the events of the last week have dimmed the prospects for settling the whole East-West argument over Berlin.

Broadway Church Of Christ To Expand

Contract Is Let For New Church In City

PRELIMINARY work got unway Monday at the building site of the new Broadway Church of Christ, which will finally cost approximately $800,000 upon completion.

City Building Inspector Lloyd Ross Monday issued a $650,000 permit to the church for the new structure, which is to be built in the 1900 block on Broadway on property which the church acquired some years ago. The church facilities will extend to Main street adjoining Avenue T.

General contractor for the building is B.M.F.P. Construction Co., with F. O. Bennett to be in charge of the work. The firm of Haynes and Kirby, architects, drew up the plans for the structure. Completion is expected in approximately two years, church officials said last night.

Ceremonies Set Sunday

Formal ground-breaking ceremonies are to be held at the building site at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Details are to be announced later in the week.

An auditorium with a seating capacity of 2,100 persons has been incorporated into the structure. A chapel also is planned, which will have a seating capacity of approximately 300 persons.

Classrooms will be sufficient in number to accommodate approximately 1,200 persons, and a Fellowship hall will be built large enough for any church social function.

Church officials said last night that no major changes have been made in the plans as they were announced more than a year ago.

The structure will have a total of 55,000 square feet of floor

Fate Of Huge Tree On Broadway Now Hangs In Balance

At a time when Christmas trees by the thousands are moving into Lubbock, the largest and most beautiful Arizona Cypress in West Texas is about to meet an early death unless some individual or organization comes forward to move it within the next day or two.

This perfect specimen, planted by Mrs. Fern Cole in 1921, stands proudly alone in 1900-block Broadway, on the site of the new $650,000 Broadway Church of Christ. Building permit for the church was issued Monday afternoon and groundbreaking ceremonies will be conducted Sunday afternoon.

Thirty feet high, the tree's shape is nearly perfect. Its value was estimated at $1,500 last May by J. C. Davis, Lubbock florist. And yet, according to Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of the Broadway church, no one has yet offered to tackle the ticklish job of moving it to a new location.

"The tree can be had for the asking," Dr. Young said. "Naturally, we would prefer to see it moved intact to another location. But the church plans call for excavation on the site of the tree, and it will have to be removed this week."

Last Christmas the tree was beautifully decorated as a community service project by the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce. It attracted widespread attention.

Mrs. Cone, original owner of the property on which the tree is located, recalled that its picture was reproduced about ten years ago in a United States Department of Agricultural bulletin which called it the most perfect specimen of Arizona Cypress in the country.

She said pruning of the tree

Wind Lashed Storm Moves Into Canada

CHICAGO, Dec. 6. (AP) — The wind-whipped snowstorm which piled drifts from Kansas to northern Minnesota moved northeastward into Canada tonight.

A mass of cold air stirred up in the storm's wake, spread over the upper Mississippi valley and the Great Lakes region to the Appalachians.

Meanwhile, heavy snows in the northern California mountains lessened and most of the nation had clear weather. Temperatures were rising today in the chill northern Rockies.

The piled snow left by the weekend storm which began early Sunday in the Kansas-Nebraska area did not have the severe traffic paralyzing effects of that which swept the same area three weeks ago.

But the whole gale winds, which whined up to a peak of 73 miles an hour at Springfield, Ill., early Monday, left a considerable toll of damage and injury. One woman, 77 years old, was fatally injured when she was blown off a front porch in Aurora, Ill., and smashed to the sidewalk.

Mild Cold Front To Blanket Area

A new cold front, one of relatively mild proportions, was expected to move across the South Plains early this morning but, according to the forecast of the Weather Bureau station north of the city, it is not likely to bring other than a slight drop in temperature.

A minimum reading of 25 degrees was forecast for this morning, with a climb to a maximum 50 by midafternoon. Winds of 15 to 20 miles an hour are predicted for the area. "Such velocities shouldn't stir much dust," the weatherman said.

The front is expected to weaken rapidly, and temperatures Wednesday are predicted to reach 60 degrees. Partly cloudy skies are forecast today, but tonight and Wednesday are expected to be generally fair.

Good Weather Forecast

The weather station maps indicate several days of "good" weather, the forecaster said, as no new "fronts" were showing on the weather maps last night.

The front that battered the Panhandle and South Plains with winds of gale strength and blinding dust Saturday night moved off to the northeast, with only the edge sweeping across the South Plains and therefore not dropping temperatures as much as had been expected. The front passed about 12:30 p. m. Sunday. The minimum temperature Monday morning was 20 degrees, 14 de-

Whiskered Bandit Gets $28,579 In Holdup, Escapes On Bicycle

(By The Associated Press)

MUNCIE, Ind., Dec. 6.—A Whiskered robber escaped on a bicycle with $28,579 today after he and a companion held up two officials of Muncie's largest department store.

The two men were accosted during the midst of the afternoon shopping rush as they were taking the money to a bank. The money, cash and checks from the Saturday receipts of Ball stores, was being carried in a small black satchel.

Fred Staver, credit manager of the store, said a man walking ahead of him turned around and drew a gun. Facing Staver and William Jones, assistant to the store manager, the man was quoted as saying:

"Drop that bag. I'll shoot you. I'll kill you."

The credit manager said he dropped the bag and then was ordered to turn and face the other way. Behind them, he told police, stood a younger man who held his hand in a topcoat pocket as though he had a gun.

Jones said he saw the armed man take the bag and run down the alley. His younger companion then turned and ran the other

NORTH of the break-through three Allied armies and part of another occupied a great salient, extending in a rough semicircle over 250 miles of front. In the extreme north was the Twenty-first Army Group, facing northward and eastward along the lower Rhine and the Maas River. Next to the south was the U. S. Ninth Army, facing east. Next in line was that part of the U. S. First Army, now facing southward, which remained north of the penetration.

All the troops that could be spared from the First and Ninth Army fronts were being assembled to build up an east-west defensive line against the German assault. These two armies could, at that moment, provide no mobile reserve whatsoever.

Enemy Makes Heavy Gains

There was, however, an available reserve in Montgomery's Twenty-first Army Group. It was the British 30 Corps, then out of the line and available for duty anywhere on our great semicircular line in the north, any part of which might be attacked by the enemy.

The depth of the German advances on the eighteenth and nineteenth had broken all normal communications between Bradley's headquarters at Luxembourg and the headquarters of the Ninth and First Armies. For this reason it was completely impossible for Bradley to give to the attack on the southern shoulder the attention that I desired and at the same time keep prop-

Several Thefts Reported Here

A long list of theft reports received over the weekend and Monday were under investigation by law enforcement authorities yesterday.

Checks of the Kuykendall foundation and some signed by Mrs. Kuykendall were stolen from Mrs. Kuykendal's car, parked near the First Christian church, the police were informed Sunday. Mr. Kuykendall said $225 worth of checks had been signed by the foundation for mailing to persons in foreign countries. Checks totaling $135, signed by Mrs. Kuykendall, also were taken.

Some Reported Found

Some of the checks later were found in an alley near the church, Capt. of Detectives Pat Davidson said.

Mrs. Columbia Waldrop, operator of La Mode Beauty shop, said $400 in cash and $100 in checks were taken from her car at 1916 Ave. K, as well as important papers removed from her purse.

Neil Davis of Los Alamos, N. M., said his car stalled en route from Post to Lubbock in a driving sandstorm and that when he went for assistance a beaverette, raincoat, topcoat and a jacket were removed from the car.

Tire, Wheel Taken

A tire and wheel, valued at $35, were stolen from Curtis Warren ot 1909 Sixteenth.

Hub caps valued at $10 were taken from the car of Jack O. Horsby of 2118 Seventh.

Bikes were reported stolen from Jerry Shipp of 2513 Ave. L, Doyle Graves of the Plainview highway and Billy Mack Whorton of 2018 Twenty-eighth.

A .22 pump rifle was stolen from the car of Merrell Timmons of 801 Ave. E.

A brief case valued at $5 was taken from the car of W. H. Greenstreet of 2822 Thirty-third.

A 25-year-old negro was held for investigation into informal charges that he had stolen a bus ticket sent by registered mail to another negro in Tucson, Ariz. Milam Steen of 1720 Ave. A made the complaint. The suspect allegedly used the ticket to come here. He was being held for investigation of postal authorities.

A 24-year-old negro was held for investigation into theft of a car. He figured in a wreck at Twenty-fifth and East Ave. B a few minutes after a woman said he had showed up at her place. After he had left she heard the car there started and driven away, she told police.

Ben Flentge of 1516 Ave. F said a .38 revolver had been stolen from him.

A starter was reported stolen from the car of M. Lee, a negro of 2818 East Ave. K.

A tire and wheel valued at $35 were reported stolen from Curtis Warren of 1909 Sixteenth.

Two hubcaps valued at $2 were reported taken from the car of Leah Jackson of Hilton hotel.

Little Theater Play Presented At School

The season's second Lubbock Little Theater production, "Laura," based on Vera Caspary's novel of the same name, was presented to an audience of approximately 500 persons at Senior High school auditorium Monday night.

It was the consensus of those attending that it was an excellent production of a difficult play, since the play is known for its wordiness and slight lack of action.

Excellent characterizations were presented by Waldo Lydecker, the caustic detective story writer, played by Gene Looper, and Laura, the presumed murder victim, played by Mrs. Roberta Newell McGinnis.

Other well-acted roles were turned in by Guy Lively, who played Mark McPherson, the detective; George Young, as Danny Dorgan, a teen age boy; James Pinson, as Shelby Carpenter, Laura's erstwhile fiancee; Mrs. Walter Wilson as Bessie Clary, Laura's maid; Mrs. Gene Looper as Mrs. Dorgan, Danny's mother; and Winston Clark as Olson, of the police.

There were a number of curtain calls after the final curtain.

Miss Sammie Lanham, Texas Tech art student, was announced as winner of the Little Theater's contest among members of an oil painting class at the college for the best portrait of Laura. She was given a $15 prize. Her portrait of Laura was used in the stage setting. Other winners were Bill Thurman, second, whose prize was $10; and Marie Gikas, third, whose prize was $5.

Leon Harris directed the production.

Beck had been a contractor in Dallas for more than 25 years, and had been associated with some of the city's major building projects.

Pension Office Drops Man Who Claims To Be Jesse James

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (U.P.)—The man who says he is Jesse James has been taken off the Texas Confederate pension rolls because he has been out of the state for more than six months.

Frank Dalton, 100-year-old veteran of service with Quantrill's raiders in the Civil war who caused quite a stir when he claimed to be Jesse James, is no longer receiving his $100-a-month Texas pension.

The Confederate pension division of the state comptroller's department announced today it had dropped him from the rolls because he hadn't lived in Texas for more than six months.

Dalton laid claim to the title of Jesse James several months ago in Oklahoma, and has also been reported in California, and in Chicago, where the pension division last heard from him.

WHAT TO DO FOR A COLD

At the first sign of a cold, obey these simple rules:

1. Keep warm and get as much rest as possible.
2. Drink lots of water and fruit juices.
3. Take a CALOTAB.

Calotabs are a thorough dependable laxative, intestinal antiseptic and diuretic. They clean out the entire digestive tract and flush your kidneys; ridding the system of poisonous toxins. They help nature throw off a cold.

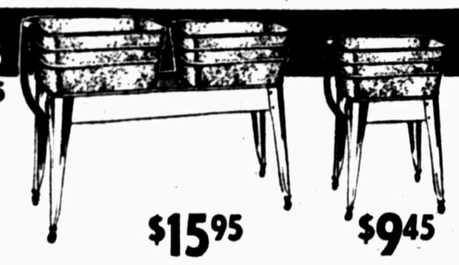

REMEMBER! At the first sign of a cold—REST—LIQUIDS—CALOTABS. Follow label directions.

AMERICANS BACKED BY BRITISH AND FRENCH

Grim Incident In Vienna Epitomizes Terroristic Methods Used By Reds To Impose Will On Austria

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager INS

VIENNA, Dec. 6. (INS) — A four-power military police patrol jeep sped along the streets of the international zone in Vienna.

In the driver's seat was an American GI, hands gripping the wheel and a look of grim determination on his youthful face. Against the back of his head was a muzzle of a pistol held by a fur-capped Soviet soldier.

Pressed into the back of the Russian's tight-fitting tunic was a revolver in the hand of a British tommy. Huddled in the rear of the open jeep was a French military policeman clinging to a tipsy member of the Red army.

International Police Take Over

The GI was heading for the international military police control headquarters. The Russian member of the patrol wanted the drunken Red army man — who had been picked up—taken to the Soviet Kommandatura. The British Tommy wanted the Russian to know that if he pulled the trigger of the pistol held against the American's head, the Russian would get a bullet in his back.

The intoxicated Russian soldier finally was deposited at the international police headquarters and a new patrol resumed the job of policing the heart of Vienna, where the Austrian police are not allowed to arrest disorderly occupation troops.

This incident epitomizes the present trend of the power politics struggle in Austria between Russia and the west.

By terroristic methods, the Soviets are trying to impose their will in this country on the borderline of the iron curtain.

By refusing to be bullied, the the Americans, supported by the British and the French, are striving to safeguard Austria from complete Soviet domination.

Like the Russian army patrolman in the jeep, the Kremlin hesitates to pull the trigger of a war for control of this historic gateway in central Europe.

However, the Russian soldier's attempt to scare his American colleague is smybolic of the increasing Soviet tendency to apply terror as an instrument of policy in Austria.

This is reflected in the kidnapping of high officials of the Austrian government. The latest victim, Margaret Ottillinger, was an assistant to the minister for economic planning. This woman, who disappeared a month ago, was actively engaged in handling Marshall plan aid to Austria. The Soviets claim she has confessed she acted as a spy for the United States. No one on the western side of Vienna ever expects to see her again.

American Murdered

The kidnapping of Miss Ottillinger was followed within a short time by the brutal murder in the Soviet sector of Vienna of Irving Ross, one of the American members of the Marshall plan mission in Austria.

Other kidnappings of Austrian officials recently include a police inspector, a railroad director and a mining expert. These have brought to nearly 300 the total number of Austrians who have "disappeared" since the country was liberated from the Germans.

Inability of the American military occupational authorities to put a stop to these kidnappings is causing a serious set-back to U. S. prestige in Austria.

The view prevails in some American military and official civilian circles that Lt. Gen. Keyes, U. S. high commissioner, and American minister John Erhardt are not taking a strong enough stand against the Russians; that they are afraid to arouse the Soviets lest Moscow apply the same type of pressure being used in Berlin.

There are definite indications that the policy directive from Washington under which the top level American military diplomatic officials in Austria are operating is having a restraining influence on any inclinations to get tough with the Russians.

Some western observers in Vienna thing that Gen. Keyes and Erhardt interpret this directive to mean that they should not antagonize the Russians to the point where they might be provoked into partitioning the country.

Those who advocate a "talk tough and act tough" policy contend that appeasement will not save Austria.

Former Texas Tech Student Wed To German Via Phone

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—A Corsicana Ex-G. I. and a German girl were married today by Trans-Atlantic telephone.

The groom was Henry Nieper and the bride was Ericka Keinath of Munich. The groom telephoned from the office of Dallas County Judge Al Templeton, who performed the ceremony.

The romance began when Nieper was stationed in Germany. He started arranging for the ceremony last September when he returned to the states and was discharged from the Army. Miss Keinath was a secretary in the U. S. Quartermaster group in Munich.

Because of his marriage, Nieper will be allowed to reenter Germany. He and his bride plan to go to Zurich, Switzerland, where Nieper plans to study chemistry. He hopes to arrive in Munich by Feb. 1.

Nieper attended Texas Tech at Lubbock before entering the Army.

The State of Mysore, India, is nationalizing bus transportation.

Weather Forecaster Swamped By Mail After News Story

LONG BEACH, Cal., Dec. 6 (INS) —They were bringing mail to the door of August Dummer, intrepid weather forecaster, by the sackful today.

Dummer, who accurately predicted the first killing frost of 1948 for the corn belt area, has been "snowed under" by the avalanche of mail that has deluged in his Long Beach home ever since the International News Service story was printed and broadcast in the midwest last Sunday.

Said Dummer:

"Although I said that my forecasts are 'free to my friends,' I meant only a select few—in fact I could count them on the fingers of one hand who have been receiving my forecasts."

Lubbock Man 'Resting Well' After Automobile Accident

Ted Lawson, about 30, of Clayton Carter addition, Monday night was reported to be resting well and in fair condition at Lubbock Memorial hospital, where he is receiving treatment for bruises received in an automobile accident Sunday afternoon.

The mishap occurred a mile and a half east of Idalou at about 4:30 p. m., investigating highway patrolmen said. Lawson said the car he was driving was crowded off the road by a passing vehicle. Lawson's car struck a culvert, then rammed into a tree. The auto was almost completely demolished.

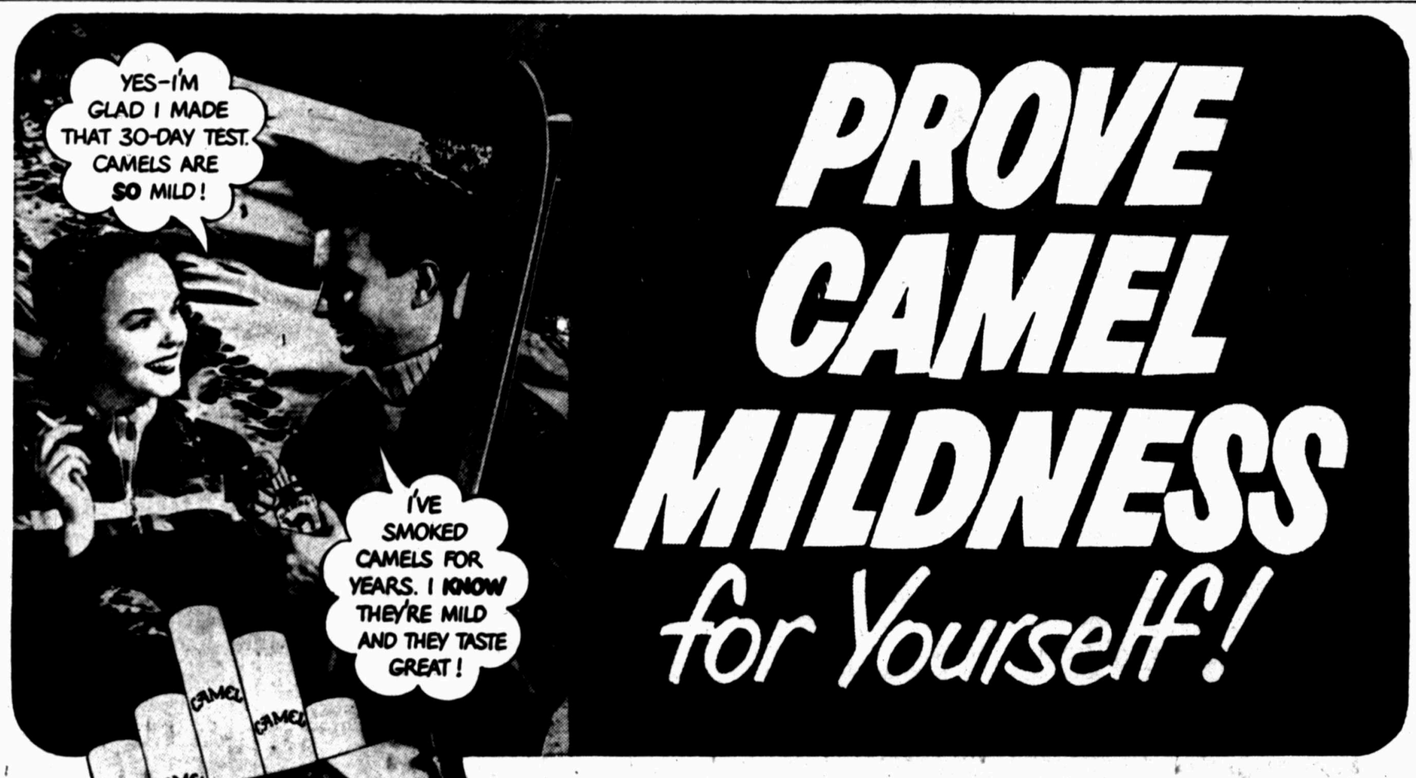

Lawson is foreman at Brand Auto service.

102-Year-Old Plainview Woman Falls At Home, Breaks Hip

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 6 (AP) — Ill luck befell Mrs. Emly Johnson the day after she celebrated her 102nd birthday.

She fell at her home here yesterday and fractured her hip.

She had her usual breakfast of oatmeal, toast and coffee this morning. Unable to sit up, she took her coffee through a sipper.

Prove for yourself what throat specialists reported when 30-day smoking test revealed

NO THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

You'll be glad you made the 30-day Camel mildness test, too!

Hundreds of men and women, from coast to coast, recently made a similar 30-day test—smoking Camels exclusively for thirty days—an average of one to two packs a day. Their throats were examined each week by noted throat specialists. And after a total of 2470 examinations, these throat specialists reported not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels!

So—smoke Camels and test them yourself in your own "T-Zone" (T for Taste and T for Throat). Let YOUR OWN TASTE tell you about the rich, full flavor of Camel's choice tobaccos. Let YOUR OWN THROAT tell you the story of Camel's cool, cool mildness. You'll discover something entirely new in milder, more flavorful smoking enjoyment.

Money-Back Guarantee!

Try Camels and test them as you smoke them. If, at any time, you are not convinced that Camels are the mildest cigarette you ever smoked, return the package with the unused Camels and we will refund its full purchase price, plus postage. (Signed) R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

According to a Nationwide survey:

MORE DOCTORS SMOKE CAMELS THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE

Doctors smoke for pleasure, too! And when three leading independent research organizations asked 113,597 doctors what cigarette they smoked, the brand named most was Camel!

MORE WOMEN COOK ON MAGIC CHEF THAN ON ANY OTHER RANGE

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

THE average American male, says one anthrologist, is five feet ten, weighs 150 pounds, is 29 inches around the waist, has sixteen teeth and scanty hair. He tends to get thicker through the middle as he gets older.

However, with all of his shortcomings, he is the biggest and healthiest man in the world. One reason is that he gets the best food.

ON LONGEVITY

SPEAKING of average people, the average length of life in Texas is 61.07 years for white males and 65.96 years for white females, according to a state-by-state study of longevity just computed by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The state's record is somewhat lower than that for the country as a whole.

Nebraska has the best record with 66.25 years for white males and 70.05 for females.

The differences in longevity observed from state to state are attributed by the statisticians to such factors as the prevailing standards of living, the proficiency of public health administration and the availability and quality of medical and hospital facilities.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Margaret Turner: I am sending a recipe for the hogshead mince meat someone asked about. I have used this for a long time and it is delicious.

Mrs. Lee Saffell
2520 Twenty-third

THE recipe:

One cup chopped meat, one cup seeded raisins, one cup sugar, one cup meat liquor, one cup vinegar, three cups canned apples, one-fourth cup citron, one-fourth cup molasses, one-fourth cup stewed dried fruit, one tablespoon salt, one tablespoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one-half teaspoon mace, one-half teaspoon allspice, one-eighth of an orange and one-eighth of a lemon, small bit of black pepper, grated rind of one-half an orange and one-half a lemon.

Run meat, raisins and fruit through food chopper. Cook and can as fruit. Use standard measuring cup.

Can preferably in pint jars. Contents of one pint will make two mince meat pies.

Cranberry Cookery
by Carol Reed

Christmas dinner wouldn't be right without cranberry sauce.

Here are some new ways with cranberries . . . .

Cranberry Punch Bowl for Christmas Eve

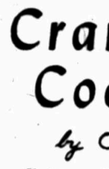

1 pound can Ocean Spray Jellied Cranberry Sauce
2 cups water
½ cup lemon juice
1 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon almond extract
1 cup gingerale

Beat cranberry sauce with rotary beater. Add water and beat until well blended. Add lemon and orange juices, almond extract, and gingerale. Serve well-iced.

For Christmas dinner, snip cranberry stars from plump slices of Jellied Cranberry Sauce. One can makes 6 stars. Crush the left-over bits of sauce, mix with cream cheese, and serve on raisin bread.

Christmas night buffet will look really glamorous with this ruby cranberry salad molded in star shape . . .

Cranberry Apple Salad

Put through food chopper:
1 large (or 2 small) apples
½ of a lemon (rind and pulp)
Soak: 1 envelope unflavored gelatin in ¼ cup cold water.
Dissolve over a pan of hot water. Add to: 1 can Ocean Spray Whole Cranberry Sauce. When partially set, fold in apple-lemon mixture. Mold in star-shaped pan. (To make a larger star salad, double the recipe.)

A word to the wise . . . be sure of quality Cranberry Sauce for Christmas. Choose Ocean Spray, the brand that is recommended by Good Housekeeping and Parent's Magazine!

Double Ring Service Read

Miss Kathryn Jane Albright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Albright of Rt. 6, and Bill Stephenson of 2507 Ave. K, son of Mrs. Alma Stephenson of Lubbock, were married recently at the Overton Methodist church with Rev. W. F. Gaede officiating. The double ring service was performed before an altar decorated with pink carnations, greenery and white tapers.

Miss Hallie Walls, pianist, accompanied Dovie Pharr as she sang "Because" and Vernon Higginbotham as he sang "Always."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a turquoise dress with British tan accessories and a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Elizabeth Albright, sister of the bride and maid of honor, wore a white dress with black accessories and a pink gladioli corsage. Bridesmaids, Billie Marie Bridwell and June Booher, were dressed in brown with pink corsages.

The flower girls, Lou Anne and Melba Ruth Herron and Nita Ann Gaede, had blue taffeta dresses. Jimmie Lee Albright was ring bearer.

Billie Baldree served as best man and Joe Privitt and Bill Stephens were ushers. Candles were lighted by Zirthola St. Claire and Betty Lou Shipman.

A reception was given in the home of Rev. and Mrs. Gaede following the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson will be at home at 2507 Ave. K.

Party Compliments Suzanne Spratt, 5

A birthday party honoring Suzanne Spratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spratt of 1915 Twenty-first, was given Monday afternoon on her fifth birthday in the Party House in Mackenzie State park.

Those attending were Daphne and Trudy Maeker, Dean and Mary Frances Mountz, Johnny and Linda Hicks, Johnny Knowles, Johnny Julian, Buddy and Rom Harper, Shirley and Sue Waggoner, Mary Louise Harrison, Jane Moore and Elizabeth Ann Florence.

Wednesday Needlers Make Party Plans

Wednesday Needle club members will attend an annual Christmas party at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Sim O'Neal on the Levelland road. Mrs. Rosella Rushing will be assistant hostess.

Theater Party Held On Child's Birthday

Guests of Barbara Ann Stegall Saturday, attended a movie in celebration of her twelfth birthday. Mother of the honoree, Mrs. Jack Stegall, served refreshments at her home, 2630 Twenty-sixth, later.

Twenty-eight attended.

Today's Town Talk

AFTER having dinner at the Country club today, members of the Doublette club will go to the home of the president, Mrs. W. H. Garrett, 2413 Twenty-ninth, to have their Christmas tree gift exchange and to play bridge.

Dining at the club will be Mesdames Cliff Widener, J. D. Hinson, Jay Gordon, Murrell R. Tripp, Dick Cozby, Carl Bailey, Gladys Hitt and Miss Aline McCarty.

Mrs. Garrett has decorated her mantel with bells and Christmas tapers. At her front door, callers are greeted by a large colorful wreath with bells and a "school-type bell" is provided for guests to ring instead of using a door knocker.

Zita and Pat Martin, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ruel C. Martin, 1718 Thirty-third, and Shelley Furr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Furr, 2120 Twentieth, will entertain with a Christmas dance at the Country club Wednesday, Dec. 22.

The holiday event will be honoring students home from out of town and state colleges and universities, and decorations will be on a Christmas theme. Bailey Ireland's orchestra will play.

Christmas shoppers who are looking for gifts with that personalized "I made this just for you" look, and women who are so rushed by holiday events that they don't quite have time to bake Dad's favorite cake or pie for supper (yet need to have him in a good humor when they break the news that they have already spent the money allotted them for gift shopping) may find what they need at the bazaar sponsored by J. T. Huchinson Junior High school P-TA.

Mrs. Joe Bryant is chairman of the bazaar, which will be open from 4 until 5 p. m. and from 6:30 until 7:30 p. m. Thursday. Mrs. M. L. Shepherd, president of the sponsoring group will lead the P-TA meeting to be held in the school auditorium immediately after the bazaar closes.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Winfrey, 715 Thirtieth, have returned by plane from an interesting visit to Brownsville and San Antonio. In the former city they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pepe Miguel of Mexico City and in San Antonio they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Cazdiel.

Mr. Winfrey is a resident partner of the Banana Supply Company of Texas with Mr. Cardiel. Mr. Miguel is a prominent importer of bananas. He and his wife have invited the Winfreys to be their guests in Mexico City and Acapulco for an extended visit after the first of the year.

While in Brownsville, Mr. and Mrs. Winfrey were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Cardiel aboard the ship, Bill Phil of Panama City, for luncheon.

Movies of the Westerner-Amarillo game and singing of carols featured the program at the banquet for Warrior and Redskin football teams at O. L. Slaton Junior High school given Friday night in the school cafeteria.

Members of the teams and their dates, Coaches Russell Wimberley and Bennie McWilliams and their wives and Prin. G. E. Dawson were guests. The players presented gifts to the coaches.

The meal was served by the homemaking classes from a table centered with an arrangement of Christmas candles and holly.

Service Read In Colorado

Anouncement is being made of the marriage of Edmund K. Austin, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Austin of 2012 Fifteenth, and Jane Keeler of Luis, Colo., which took place Friday at the Episcopal church in Montrose, Colo.

Both the bride and bridegroom are senior students at Western State colloge at Gunnison, Colo. They are to spend the Christmas holidays in Lubbock.

Tea Held In Friend Home

Three hostesses, Mrs. F. R. Friend, Miss Margaret W. Weeks and Miss Mabel D. Erwin, entertained with a tea Sunday afternoon in Mrs. Friend's home at 3313 Twenty-fourth.

A Yule motif was featured in appointments.

Mrs. Friend has as her house guest her sister, Mrs. Charles Evans of Mangum, Okla.

Gift Exchange To Be Held At Club Party

When Loyalty club members met with Mrs. J. E. Gordon Friday afternoon, plans were made for an annual Christmas party, "bluebird" and gift exchange in the home of Mrs. I. E. Banks, 406 Fourth, Dec. 17 at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Ed Greer presided for a business hour. Quilting was the diversion.

Attending were Mesdames Banks, A. P. Hardin, C. H. Hudson, Helen Slover, V. B. McBride and A. W. Wright.

Products which now can be made from wood include gunpowder, sugars, alcohol, paper, food for livestock, rayon, cellophane, imitation leather, molasses, lacquers, vanillin flavoring for ice cream, and rubber tires.

School And Church Choirs Make Plans To Attend Concert

Several church and school choirs from over the South Plains have signified their intention of attending the Amarillo A Cappella choir, Lubbock Symphony orchestra concert Wednesday night at 8:15 o'clock at Lubbock High school auditorium.

Lamesa Presbyterian choir has reserved 35 seats; Muleshoe High school music students, 30 and Lockney High school chorus, 55.

Tickets for the program are on sale at South Plains and Adair's Music stores and the Varsity Book store.

Levelland Child Is Honored On Birthday

Sandra Kay Edgar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Edgar of Levelland, was honored recently on her fourth birthday. Balloons were used to decorate.

Guests were presented miniature Santa Clauses and served birthday cake.

Attending from Lubbock were Mrs. Delmas Davis and Carolyn, Mrs. Royce Williams and Alicia, and Mrs. H. W. Crews, maternal grandmother of the honoree.

Installation, Lessons Are Held By Societies

Meetings held by women's church organizations Monday included an officer installation, a Harvest Day program, lessons and mission study.

ST. JOHN'S WSCS HOLDS INSTALLATION

Preceding an installation service held by St. John's Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service Monday, Mrs. C. Y. Partain gave a devotion and Mrs. Aubrey Woodfin, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. S. W. Brunson, sang "Spirit of God."

The table, at which Rev. Hubert Bratcher presided for the ceremony, was decorated with a bouquet of red roses and white tapers. Taking office were Mrs. Marvin McLarty, president; Mrs. Jack West, vice president; Mrs. Troy Price, secretary; Mrs. Lloyd Price, secretary of promotion; Mrs. D. B. Pope, treasurer; Mrs. Hubert Bratcher, secretary of missionary education; Mrs. Lucile Smith and Mrs. Brunson, secretaries of Christian social relations and local church activities; Mrs. Charles Musson, secretary of spiritual life; Mrs. W. E. Moren, secretary of student work; Mrs. H. R. Kerbow, secretary of youth work; Mrs. Everett Fulgham, secretary of children's work; Mrs. J. E. Harvey, secretary of literature and publications; Mrs. D. W. McCaig, secretary of supply; and reporter, Mrs. A. Holmes.

Following the service, Mrs. C. C. Coffee gave a talk on officer training and duties of officers and committees which was taken from the book, "By His Light Shall The Nations Walk." The book is to be studied by the WSCS next year.

Circle meetings are to be held by the society next Monday at 3 p. m.

LUNCHEON HONORS NEW WSCS MEMBERS

Two hundred thirty-five persons attended the luncheon given Monday at Fellowship hall by First Methodist WSCS to honor new members of the year.

The program included a Christmas meditation, "Barabbas Pleads for Peace," by Mrs. O. L. Byrd; a duet, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," by Mrs. S. W. Brunson and Mrs. Aubrey L. Woodfin; and a sextet, "Joy to the World," by Mesdames Marlin Hayhurst, Woodfin, Jack Boren, Duncan Ellison, Charles Cathey and R. B. Parkinson. Mrs. Arthur Gamble furnished piano accompaniment for the numbers.

CHRISTMAS PARTY PLANNED BY WMS

A Christmas party for Dec. 17 was planned by Parkdale Baptist Women's Missionary society at a meeting held at the church Monday morning. A monthly business session was conducted.

Mrs. J. M. Harding closed the meeting with a brief devotion.

LESSON IS TAUGHT AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Mrs. J. A. Birdwell taught a lesson, "Pulling Back the Curtains," for First Central Baptist WMS at the church Monday. Mrs. Jeff D. Welch led a prayer.

Thirteen persons were present.

Hen Teams Tie In Egg Laying Contest; Prizes Are Divided

YAKIMA, Wash., Dec. 6. (AP)—The Washington State Poultry association's annual egg laying contest ended in a photo finish.

The score: Rhode Island Reds 11, White Leghorns 11.

While the eight contesting hens and their handlers looked anxiously on, the judges decided there was but one way to break the four-day tie. They weighed each team's production.

The answer: Each team, 22⅝ ounces.

So the ribbons and prize money were divided.

BORDERLINE ANEMIA*
CAN ADD YEARS TO YOUR LOOKS!

Is your face too pale and worn-looking? Are you losing the sparkle and ambition of youth? Often such signs are caused not by age, but by faded, weak red blood cells. You may have a Borderline Anemia, due to a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency.

Medical studies show that up to 68% of women—many men and children—have this Borderline Anemia.

If you are a victim of this Borderline Anemia, you need Ironized Yeast Tablets! They are specially formulated to help build up faded, puny red blood cells to healthy redness and size, and thus permit your color and energy to come surging back. Of course, continuing tiredness and pallor may come from other causes—see your doctor regularly. But in this Borderline Anemia, take Ironized Yeast Tablets. Take them to reclaim your vitality, your healthy color, your enjoyment of life!

*Due to a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency, a condition for which Ironized Yeast is specially formulated.

Lubbock Gets Phillips-Monahans Quarter-Final Grid Game

Tilt Scheduled For Saturday At Tech's Jones Stadium

Phillips, champions of District 1-A, will collide with Monahans, champions of District 5-A, in the quarter-final game of the Class A championship of Texas here in Jones Stadium Saturday afternoon at 2.

The stadium was agreed on yesterday when officials of Monahans and Phillips met in Amarillo to decide the site and date for the game. Clinching the argument to bring the teams to Lubbock was a personal telephone call to the officials by Horace Gearhart, president of the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Jaycees To Go All Out

Gearhart told officials of the two schools that the Lubbock Jaycees were prepared to go all out in an effort to make the game a financial success for each team. Neither Phillips nor Post officials were entirely satisfied with treatment received in Amarillo, where only 5,215 fans turned out for the game Saturday.

Tickets for the Monahans-Phillips clash will go on sale locally today at 1 p.m. at Wylie's Drug store and at the athletic office of the High school. A later advanced sale will take place beginning Wednesday at Tech and in Hop Halsey's Drug store on College avenue.

The ticket prices have been scaled at $1.50 for adult reserved seats and 50 cents for students. The 50-cent charge applies to Tech as well as to public school students.

The Jaycees have taken over sale of the tickets on a non-profit basis and a vigorous sale will be launched immediately. Harold Chapman and R. S. Wilkinson will head the ticket sales.

Lubbock Host 10 Years Ago

The winner of the Phillips-Monahans game will advance to the semi-final round of the state Class A championship and will play the winner of the Bowie-New London game.

This will be the first time in 10 years, exactly, that Lubbock has been host to a state championship high school football game. Ten years ago Lubbock High school played Masonic Home of Fort Worth here. Since then, there have been no Class AA games of quarter-final rank or more.

Phillips and Monahans will be meeting in one of the most closely watched Class A games in the state. Both are rated as outstanding powers and it already has been indicated that most observers think the winner of this game will be the State Class A champion.

Sitting on opposite sides of the stadium Saturday will be two former Hardin-Simmons university stars, now successful coaches. F. O. Scroggins will be guiding his Monahans Lobos in an effort to take their 13th straight game. Chesty Walker will be holding the reins on his Blackhawks, who will be after their 13th straight triumph.

And both coaches have players with a lot of ability, boys who are certain to make all all-star eleven.

Young Sparks Lobos

Waldo Young, a 145-pounder, is the spark of the Lobos and a dangerous runner. He gets able support from 190-pound Ray Cathey, the line-smashing fullback. These two players are always a threat and personally took charge of the 33-28 victory Monahans scored over Ballinger in their regional meeting Friday.

But Phillips has a quartet of backs to equal the Lobos. The Blackhawks can shake loose at almost any given minute such shifty runners as Melvin Eldridge, a 128-pounder; 127-pounder John Ussery; 120-pound Billy Braden at quarterback, a ball-handling genius under the T; and Tommy Moore, the giant of the backfield at 140 pounds. These four players ripped Post to shreds Saturday at Amarillo and Braden was the only one held in check. His total gain was only 98 yards rushing in scoring two touchdowns.

It shapes up like one of the best games of the year in Lubbock, a natural in every sense of the word. It's one game the most rabid fan shouldn't miss and at least 10,000 persons should be on hand to see the potential Class A champion in action.

Westerners Drill For Borger Meet

Lubbock High's undefeated Westerner cagers opened preparations for a stiff slate of competition this weekend, when they tangle with some of the top quints of the Panhandle in the Borger Invitational tournament, with a lengthy practice session Monday afternoon at the Senior High gymnasium.

The squad was handicapped in the drill by the absence of stellar Guard Charles Galey, who is out of action with a foot injury, but Coach Roy Morris and assistant Bill Floyd sent the cagers through a thorough workout on play patterns and passing. Big Jim Wilson, the tall Westerner center and one of two returning regulars of 1947-48, continued to show improvement, as did stocky Morris (Moe) Turner.

Squad Lacks Practice

Coach Morris reported last night that the Westerners "will really get down to work" today in an effort to smooth out the rough spots in the offense and defense before tangling with the quints at Borger. The Westerners are hampered by the fact that several of the top prospects have only had about a week of practice since they reported from the grid squad, and have not had enough time to get back their timing and marksmanship.

Some of the top cage teams in the Panhandle are slated to battle for first-place honors in the Borger tourney. Amarillo's Golden Sandies, defending champions in District 1-AA, will be on hand, as well as Borger's speedy five. Childress is slated to bid for the top spot, with accurate-shooting T. Jones sparking the attack, and Class A powers such as Spearman and Stratford are included on the tourney roster.

Meet Spearman Thursday

The Westerners are scheduled to play their first meet game at 7 o'clock Thursday night, when they battle the Spearman quint. The remainder of the bracket could not be determined Monday night, but it is probable that either Amarillo or Borger will compete in the same bracket with Lubbock.

The Westerner squad will leave for the tourney site Thursday, but the exact time has not been set, Coach Morris has announced.

Brownfield Will Field Two Independent Fives This Season

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 6. (Special)—With material plentiful and practice sessions well under way, it appears that Brownfield will have two strong independent basketball teams this season.

The Primm Drug five, which represented District 2 in the TAAF tournament two seasons ago, will compete again this season. The squad is being managed by Darrell P. (Stuffy) Moorhead.

A new team will be the United Geophysical Co., quintet. Clyde Bond, Jr., is business manager, and Lester Warlick is playing manager.

STEERS GO TO OKLAHOMA

AUSTIN, Dec. 6 (AP) — The University of Texas basketball squad will leave tomorrow for Norman, Okla., where the Longhorns and university of Oklahoma Sooners meet Wednesday in the first of a home-and-home series.

Eight Boys, Girls Teams Entered

Farwell Invitational Cage Tourney Slated

FARWELL, Dec. 6. (Special)—Eight boys teams and the same number of girls teams have entered the Farwell Invitational basketball tournament, which will be held here Dec. 16, 17 and 18.

Coach Louis Purvis had no trouble filling the roster of teams for the tourney, which will have both a championship and a consolation bracket. Teams in the upper half of the boys bracket are Bovina, Farwell, Littlefield and Lazbuddie. In the lower half are Vega, Dumas, Seagraves and Adrian.

Littlefield Girls Entered

The girls bracket also has an upper and lower half with both championship and consolation play. In the upper half are Littlefield, Lazbuddie, Dumas and Springlake, while P. Hill, Texico, Farwell and Bovina teams are in the lower half.

Play in the boys brackets will get underway at 8 p. m. Thursday, when Littlefield meets Lazbuddie, and this game will be followed at 9 p. m. by Bovina-Farwell. Vega will play Dumas at 11 a. m. Friday and Seagraves will meet Adrian at 2 p. m. Friday.

In the girls bracket, play will begin Thursday night at 7, when Littlefield meets Lazbuddie. Friday's girls games will be at 9 a. m., when Farwell meets Bovina, at 10 a. m., when P. Hill plays Texico, and at 1 p. m., when Dumas opposes Springlake.

Finals Set Saturday

There will be three consolation round and one championship round games on Friday, with semi-final and final round games being played on Saturday.

Everything is being done to make the teams welcome for the tournament. They will be fed in the school lunchroom and Coach Purvis will be available to supply information needed.

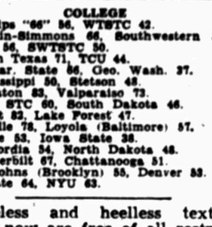

Officials for the tourney will be Vaughn McDowell and Charlie Fisher.

District 3-AA Slate Approved

Lamesa, Brownfield Join Loop; Lubbock Invades Odessa In 1949

By EARL SCUDDAY
Avalanche Sports Writer

LAMESA, Dec. 6.—Football schedule for the 1949 season was approved at an organizational meeting of the new District 3-AA executive committee here today, under the redistricting plan of the Texas Interscholastic league, after Lamesa and Brownfield had been voted into the loop.

The "charter" schools in the revised 3-AA circuit, Lubbock, Odessa and Midland, first voted Lamesa into the district after school officials pointed out that only a mistake made the procedure necessary. Lamesa has more than 500 students in high school required for Class AA competition, officials reported, but an error forced the "red tape" of voting the school into the loop. Brownfield does not have the necessary enrollment, but the school was voted in without delay.

Big Spring Refused

Big Spring, another former 3-AA member before the realignment petitioned for admission to the new circuit, but the request was refused in a vote by the member schools. Big Spring could not be admitted without unanimous approval of the group, and one unfavorable vote barred the entrance of the school.

The football schedule for 1949 was the chief item of business, however. After preliminaries were cleared from the program, it was apparent that one of the five schools in the district would have to do without a Thanksgiving day game. Numbers were drawn from a hat and Odessa, usually lucky in draws and flips of the coin, drew the "No. 1" that dropped the Broncos from the Thanksgiving slate.

Odessa and Lubbock quickly agreed to stage their important clash on Armistice day, however, and Odessa was named as the game site on the flip of a coin by Lubbock Supt. R. W. Matthews. Supt. Murray Fly of Odessa called "tails" when the coin was in the air—and tails it was. Lubbock and Odessa have met for the last eight years in non-conference tussles, but the 1949 tilt will be the first title meeting of the two schools.

Other holiday games will be a Brownfield-Lubbock clash at Lubbock on Thanksgiving day, and a Brownfield-Lamesa battle at Lamesa on Armistice day.

The Westerners will open the district race Oct. 28, when Lamesa invades Lubbock, then the Hub city schoolboys tangle with Odessa on Nov. 11 following an open date. Lubbock goes to Midland Nov. 18, then closes the regular season with the Brownfield Cubs at Lubbock.

Rules for the new district were drawn up at the meeting, and various procedures were adopted by the group. The executive committee voted a price scale on tickets of $1.50 for reserved seats, $1.20 for general admission, 75 cents for college students and 30 cents for public school students. All prices include tax.

Officials authorized local school authorities to set their own prices to radio stations in their home towns, but recommended that one visiting station be allowed to broadcast without charge.

A sliding scale was set to compensate home teams for game expenses, with the visiting elevens to receive 50 per cent of the complete game receipts after expenses and payment to game officials have been deducted.

Numerous other regulations included designation of seats for scouts from district schools, who will have to buy special tickets, and a rule which will ban all game passes except to members of the working press and radio.

Special Meeting Slated

Coaches of the new district will hold a special meeting at Lamesa Jan. 10, then a regular meeting of the executive committee is scheduled late in January. Annual fall meeting was tentatively set for the second week in October.

Frank Monroe, superintendent of the Midland schools, was elected as chairman of the executive committee, and Lubbock Principal Floyd Honey was named as secretary for the group. The chairmanship will rotate each year, officials said, with Brownfield, Lamesa, Lubbock and Odessa taking over the post in alphabetical order.

Texas Tech Quintet To Meet Rice Squad In Houston Tonight

Coach Polk Robison and his Texas Tech cagers, with an even break in two games over the week end against Southern Methodist University, will play Rice Institute in Houston tonight.

Robison and the Red Raiders did not return from their visit to Dallas, spending the week end there and continuing to Houston yesterday. Tech showed vast promise in both games, losing an early lead in the first game on a whirlwind finish by the Ponies, but returning the next night to eke out a 60-58 victory.

The Raiders have no further games scheduled until next Tuesday, when they entertain Arizona State at Flagstaff here in the first Border Conference game.

Wayland Quint Opens Season

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 6. (Special) —The Wayland Pioneers have opened the 1948-49 basketball season and soon will start defense of the Texas Junior College Conference crown won last year.

The Pioneers, with 13 men out for the cage squad, including four lettermen, four squadmen and five freshmen, last year won 26 games while losing seven. They have averaged 58 points a game so far in beating Sayre 67-43 and 48-43, Hardin 59-41 and in losing to McMurry 71-39.

Coach H. J. Redin this year has the following lettermen back: T. K. Criswell of Anton and Bill Knighton of Canyon, guards; D. W. Harkins, of Levelland, forward, and Runt Burch of Plainview, center. Squadmen include Gordon Gross of Gruver and Buddy Duncan of Portales, N. M., guards; L. T. White of Canyon, forward; and Paul Young of Farwell, center. Freshmen include Jones Goode of Plainview and Donnie Fletcher of Gruver, guards; and Ed Billings of Anton, Jesse Woodward of Enid, Okla., and Calvin Garrett of Plainview, forwards.

The Philadelphia Eagles have won five of the last six games played against the Washington Redskins.

Britisher Wins From Lee Savold

LONDON, Dec. 6. (AP)—Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight champion, beat Lee Savold of New Jersey tonight when the referee disqualified the American in the fourth round. Woodcock had been down for a count of eight in the third round. Savold was warned by the referee for hitting after the bell.

The end came suddenly and unexpectedly in the fourth when Woodcock fell and rolled on the canvas after being hit with a right. Savold stepped back with a frown on his face.

Referee Sam Russell ruled that Savold had hit Woodcock low. Woodcock appeared unable to continue. The capacity crowd booed the decision.

Savold, who was unmarked and breathing easily when the end came, declared the blow which cost him the fight was no more than a "light tap."

"It was not a low punch," he insisted. "It landed on the solar plexus. In any case, there wasn't enough behind it to put Woodcock groveling on the floor. I was turning as I hit him and it was just a light tap.

"I hurt him with a right hand punch earlier in the round, and I really think I would have had him in the next round."

The disappointed crowd cheered the American all the way to his dressing room.

Street lighting has been cut 36 per cent in Sweden and flood-lighting banned.

By Earl Sowdday

Organizational meeting of the new District 3-AA executive committee Monday at Lamesa stretched through four full hours, but there was a good reason for the lengthy session. The school officials had to set up a complete "book" of rules and regulations, decide on a dozen small but important points, settled questions pertaining to district membership and last—but not least—draw up the 1949 football schedule. The men attending the meeting stopped for a few minutes for a light lunch, then waded back into the over-weighted program.

Surprisingly enough, the meeting came off with relatively few "fireworks." Tempers flared a couple of times, but the incidents were lost in the general outline of work. The process of admitting Lamesa and Brownfield went off without a hitch, but it is revealing no secrets to say that the Big Spring issue was highly controversial. There were several representatives who favored admittance of Big Spring, but there was another group opposed to the proposal. A discussion with Texas Interscholastic league officials revealed that the transfer of Big Spring must be made with the full approval of every school concerned, so it seems improbable that the Steers will compete in 3-AA next fall.

There were some minor skirmishes in setting up the schedule, but far less conflicts than had been predicted. A draw of numbers settled the question of which school would be idle Thanksgiving day, thereby eliminating one of the top problems. Odessa was the unlucky school on the draw, but the Broncs received some aid when they reached an agreement with Lubbock for an Armistice day clash. The flip of the coin sent the game to Odessa, and Coach Joe Coleman didn't look a bit unhappy. Every member of the Lubbock delegation had his fingers crossed and double-crossed, since the flip of that coin was one of the most important factors concerning Lubbock High football that will be transacted this year, but Supt. Murray Fly yelled "tails!" And when the coin finally stopped, tails it was.

In fairness to Lubbock fans, we feel it necessary to report that all was not as smooth as silk. In the morning session a member of one of the smaller schools voiced what could have been taken as an "implied threat," when he said, in so many words, that he would hate to see the little schools "gang up" on their larger neighbors to get what they wanted accomplished. Then, when the schedules were being drawn up, another representative of a smaller school was loud in his proposal that the names of all the schools be "put in a hat" and drawn for game dates. That procedure could have left Odessa and Lubbock without a real drawing card on a holiday date, but that single individual was looking after his own interests, regardless of the over-all picture.

Just to keep the records straight, the two larger schools are not trying—and will not try—to "boss" anyone. But they do want a fair setup that will let them take full advantage of their situations. For instance, Odessa officials accepted the results of the draw that left them idle on Thanksgiving, for the first time in a number of years, without complaint. They didn't use any "pressure" or make any threats. Coach Joe Coleman just took the attitude of, "I lost, so what?" But, in view of the situation, Coleman and Lubbock Mentor Pat Pattison were determined to play their clash on Armistice day. There was no use in costing Odessa the crowds of 15,000 to 19,000 that they can get out for a good game in their new stadium. And, on the other hand, there would have been little sense in trying to get Lubbock tied up with any two of the smaller schools for both the holiday dates.

Odessa Shrine Club Calls Off Permian Bowl Football Game

ODESSA, Dec. 6 (AP) — The Odessa Shrine club today announced it would not try to hold a Permian Bowl football game here this year as planned. It said that it plans to stage the game in 1950.

Miami university of Ohio refused an offer to meet Hardin-Simmons university in the Permian Bowl this year.

Brownfield Five To Meet Lamesa

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 6. (Special) —The Brownfield Cubs meet the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes here Tuesday night in the first home game of the season. The locals opened last Thursday night against the Tahoka Bulldogs, taking a 37-29 victory on the Bulldogs' court.

In his first year at Brownfield High school, Farris Nowell, basketball coach, has three lettermen, Glen Gorby, center, and Jim Billings and Jodie Line, guards, around which to build this year's team. Gorby, the Cubs' high socrer last season, was also selected on the all-district 1-AA second team, although the locals failed to win a single conference game.

Other candidates showing up well in practice include Dale Cary, John Franks, John Thompson, Jimmy Ritchie, Sam Ritchie, Calvin Farris and Tommy Crosslin. Three others, Doyle Drake, J. C. Shaddock and Clyde Chambliss, being counted on to bolster this season's team, will not be eligible until after mid-term.

Black Demons Win Game At Boys Club

Wendell Hester's six points led the Pee Wee loop Black Demons to a 7 to 2 victory over the Wildcats yesterday afternoon as Boys Club basketball leagues resumed play. Don Daniels scored two free shots for the losers.

In the Midget loop, the Five Little Devils swamped the Eagles, 42 to 11. Glen Aiken was high point man for the Devils with 24 points. Douglas Tucker made seven points for the Eagles.

A hard-fighting Dirty Demon five beat the Basketeers, 32 to 26, in the Junior circuit tilt. Sammy Adams led the winners with 14 points. J. R. Bradford scored 21 tallies for the losers.

She Sharpshooters edged by the Hardwood Five, 37 to 36, in a nip-and-tuck Senior league battle. Gene Tollison racked up 13 points for the Sharpshooters. Jack McLarty made 17 of the losers tallies.

In games this afternoon, the Pee Wee Black Panthers will meet the Hellcats. The Mustangs and Five Little Devils get together in the Midget game. In the Junior tilt, the Roughies meet the Dirty Five. The Bombers will tangle with the Roughnecks in the Senior tussle.

Ropesville Takes Three Tilts From Levelland Basketballers

ROPESVILLE, Dec. 6 (Special) —Ropesville's cagers swept three games from Levelland here tonight, with the boys' A five beating the visitors, 31-24, in the top tussle. Glenn Hewlett tallied 10 points for Ropesville and Morris notched seven for Levelland.

The Ropesville "B" boys edged by Levelland, 28-26, as Arant swished the net for 15 points. Clarkson scored 14 for Levelland.

In the girls' game, Ropesville bested Levelland by a 21-19 margin. Bevers led Ropesville with 10 points and Tipton scored seven for Levelland.

Texas Schedules Eight Bowl Tussles With Others Pending

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—Pardon the pun, but Texas just bowls you over in this post-season football business.

Already the state has scheduled eight bowl games and others are in the making. Thirteen Texas colleges will play over the country between now and Jan. 1.

The Texas Bowl games start this week with Denison having the honor of putting on the first one. It's the Texoma Bowl Friday night with Ouachita of Arkansas meeting Southeastern of Durant, Okla.

Saturday Tyler has its Texas Rose Bowl matching Kilgore and Hutchinson, Kans., junior colleges, and Corpus Christi puts on the Fish Bowl with University of Corpus Christi playing Southwestern university.

Lamar, Hinds To Meet

Dec. 17 they have the Spindletop Bowl (named for a pioneer oil field) at Beaumont with Lamar Junior college of Beaumont playing Hinds Junior college of Raymond, Miss.

Dec. 29 Wharton and Paris Junior colleges meet in the Oleander Bowl at Galveston.

Jan. 1 the Cotton Bowl at Dallas will send Southern Methodist against Oregon and the Sun Bowl at El Paso will promote Texas Mines against West Virginia. The Prairie View Negro Bowl at Houston will match Wilberforce State of Xenia, O., with Prairie View of Texas.

But don't go away; this is just half the story.

Cowboys In Three Bowls

Starting Saturday the "bowl-ingest team in the nation"—Hardin-Simmons university—plays in the first of three post-season games. The Cowboys meet College of the Pacific in the Grape Bowl at Lodi, Calif. Dec. 18 Hardin-Simmons plays Ouachita in the Shrine Bowl at Little Rock. Dec. 30, the Cowhands will be at Lafayette, La., tackling Wichita in the Camellia Bowl.

Jan. 1 will find three Texas college teams playing in bowls outside of the state. Texas will meet Georgia in the Orange Bowl at Miami. Baylor clashes with Wake Forest in the Dixie Bowl at Birmingham and Sul Ross State plays Murray State of Kentucky in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.

H-SU, Tech Grid Movies Shown At Final Meeting Of QB Club

Pictures of the Hardin Simmons-Texas Tech football game played in Abilene Nov. 27 and a short talk by Coach C. R. "Pat" Pattison of Lubbock High school featured the final meeting of the Quarterback club meeting this year.

The meeting, held in the Tech gym, brought out only a small crowd and Tom Duggan, Jr., who has served as president this year, announced that there would be no further meetings.

Coach Pattison spoke briefly on the District 3-AA meeting held yesterday, announcing that Lubbock had attempted to get a Thanksgiving Day game with Odessa, but failed. On a flip of the coin, Odessa won and Lubbock's Westerners will go there for an Armistice Day game.

W. VA. HEAD FOR TEXAS

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 6. (AP) — West Virginia university's football team will leave here December 20 for El Paso, Tex., where it meets Texas School of Mines in the Sun Bowl New Year's Day.

PROS WILL ATTEMPT TO QUALIFY

Professionals, Amateurs Will Try For Rich Miami Open Today

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6. (INS)—Professional golfdom's golden boys and the amateurs who follow them around will start the annual winter tour tomorrow by trying to qualify for the $10,000 Miami Open tournament.

More than 200 club-wielders, including all the foremost professionals except Ben Hogan, are listed for qualifying round play over the renovated Miami Springs country club links.

On Thursday, when the field of hopefuls has been trimmed to 150, the survivors will strike out on the winter's first four-day grind of tournament play.

The interim period—Wednesday —will be devoted to a golfing "clinic."

Jimmy Demaret won the Miami Open last year with a 267 total for the four days of medal play.

He is rated a good chance of repeating in the 1948 tourney.

Sam Snead, three-time winner of the Miami event, and Lloyd Mangrum, runner-up to Ben Hogan on the PGA list of money-winners this year, are also installed in favored roles.

Mangrum admittedly is out to dethrone Hogan as the ranking cash collector of the traveling pros.

Texas Longhorns Begin Drills For Orange Bowl Grid Classic

AUSTIN, Dec. 6 (AP) — The University of Texas Longhorns returned to football practice today after a 10-day rest and began conditioning drills for the Orange Bowl contest.

Hard practice will begin next Monday.

George Petrovich, All-Southwest Conference tackle, is the only cripple. He suffered a bruised knee in the Thanksgiving Day game against Texas A. and M.

Pro Redskins Sign Ags' Robert Goode

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (U.P.) — The Washington Redskins today announced the signing of Robert Goode, Texas A. & M. halfback, as their number one draft choice in the National Football league.

Goode, a 210 pounder, was picked by the Skins' at a recent league meeting in Pittsburgh. He has played four years of varsity ball at Texas A. & M. where he starred both on defense and offense. He also played in the 1946 East-West game in San Francisco and will participate in the same classic next New Year's Day.

The 21-year-old Texan won honors in track and field events as well as football. Despite his size, he runs the 100-yard dash in 9.8.

Frenship Cagers Win Two Games From Wellman Quint

Frenship's speedy cagers won two games from Wellman Monday night at the Frenship gym, although one tilt was deadlocked.

In the feature tussle the Frenship boys nosed out Wellman, 23-21, as Roy Gillit hit the loop for 12 points. Welch and Hamm each tallied eight for Wellman.

The Frenship boys B quint drubbed the Wellman five, 20-6. Jim Johnson led Frenship with seven points, while Smith, Lindsey and Roberts each collected two for Wellman.

The Frenship girls tied with Wellman, 27-27, and the teams did not play off the deadlock. Mary Catherine Hitt scored 19 points for Frenship.

head football coach, revealed following the session that he was "fairly satisfied" with the results of the meeting. He pointed out that Lubbock will have to make two long trips on successive weekends in November, to Odessa and Midland, but reported that Lubbock would probably be able to schedule at least five home games. The non-conference slate has not been completed, but negotiations with several schools are now in progress.

Coach Pattison is making every effort to schedule Amarillo, and has offered the Sandie officials their choice of the first six weekends of the schedule. No definite agreement between the two schools has been reached at the present time, however.

The complete district schedule:

Oct. 28— Lamesa at Lubbock; Midland at Odessa.

Nov. 4— Midland at Brownfield; Odessa at Lamesa.

Nov. 11— Lubbock at Odessa; Brownfield at Lamesa.

Nov. 18— Lubbock at Midland; Odessa at Brownfield.

Nov. 24— Brownfield at Lubbock; Lamesa at Midland.

Thomas Cagers Beat Littrell Five, 49-40

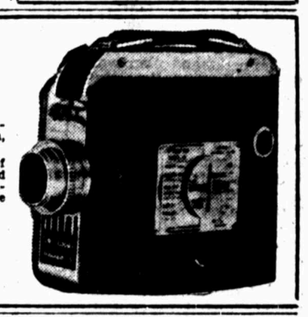

Bob Galey tallied 25 points to pace the Thomas Tinkers to a 49-40 victory over the Littrell Service five in a City Basketball league tussle Monday night at Senior High gymnasium. Virgil Johnson hit the loop for 16 points for the losers.

In another City loop game Levelland, sparked by Morris McClendon's 15 points, drubbed Spade by a 62-26 count. Vance Osborne scored 15 points for Spade.

Two industrial league tilts were unreeled at the O. L. Slaton Junior High gym, with Sanders beating Furr Foods, 36-33, and Rigney Auto topping the Lubbock Cowhands, 47-34. Bob Clodfelter swished the net for 12 points for Sanders and Dan Harris chalked up 12 for Furr.

Losses On Both Sides Heavy In Battle Of Bulge; De Gaulle's Demands For Troops Bluntly Denied

erly in touch with the troops in the north who were called upon to meet the heaviest German blows.

TO THIS whole situation only one solution seemed applicable. This was to place all troops in our northern salient under one commander. The only way of achieving the necessary unity was to place Montgomery temporarily in command of all the northern forces and direct Bradley to give his full attention to affairs on the south.

Late that evening Mr. Churchill telephoned to ask how the battle was going. I gave him the outline of the countermeasures already directed and informed him of the temporary command setup. He remarked that my plan would make the British reserve instantly available for use wherever needed, regardless of previously defined zones, and said, "I assure you that British troops will always deem it an honor to enter the same battle as their American friends."

Monty's Remarks Assailed

The command plan worked and there was generally universal acceptance of its necessity at the time.

Unfortunately, after the battle was over a press conference held by Montgomery, supplemented by a number of press stories written by reporters attached to the Twenty-first Army Group, created the unfortunate impression among Americans that Montgomery was claiming he had moved in as the savior of the Americans. I do not believe that Montgomery meant his words as they sounded, but the mischief was not lessened thereby.

This incident caused me more distress and worry than did any similar one of the war. I doubt that Montgomery ever came to realize how deeply resentful some American commanders were. They believed that he had deliberately belittled them—and they were not slow to voice reciprocal scorn and contempt. It was a pity that such an incident had to mar the universal satisfaction in final success.

THE defense of Bastogne was not only a spectacular feat of arms but had a great effect upon the outcome of the battle. Bastogne lay in the general path of the sector of advance of the German Fifth Panzer Army. The orders of that army, we later found, directed that Bastogne be bypassed if defended and that the leading troops rush on to the west and then swing north to join in the major attack.

On the south Bradley had gotten off his attack on the morning of December 22. Progress was extremely slow and because of the snow-choked roads and fields maneuvers were difficult. It was the kind of fighting that General Patton distinctly disliked. It was slow, laborious going, with a sudden breakthrough an impossibility. Several times during the course of this attack General Patton called me to express his disappointment because he could go no faster; at the Verdun conference on the morning of the nineteenth he had implied, or even predicted, that he would get into Bastogne in his first rush. I replied that as long as he was advancing I was quite satisfied.

Allies Got Break

One of the breaks in our favor occurred December 23. This was a sudden, temporary clearing of the weather in the forward areas which released our air forces to plunge into the battle. From that moment onward, with some interruptions owing to bad weather, our battle-tested ground-air tactical team began again to function with its accustomed efficiency.

On the twenty-sixth Patton at last succeeded in getting a small column into Bastogne but he did so by a narrow neck along his left flank that gave us only precarious connection with the beleaguered garrison. It was after that date that the really hard fighting developed around Bastogne, both for the garrison itself and for the relieving troops.

I had planned to go to see Montgomery on the twenty-third but air travel in the rear areas was still not advisable and travel by road was slow and uncertain. Nevertheless, I decided to make a night run by railway to Brussels to see Montgomery and to return immediately upon completion of the conference.

THE TRIP was further complicated by the extraordinary fears entertained by the Security Corps that enemy murderers were circulating in the area with the hope of killing Montgomery, Bradley, and me, and possibly others.

The report was astonishing. For several months I had been driving everywhere around France with no more protection than that that provided by an orderly and an aide who habitually rode in the car with me. The story was brought to me on December 20 by a very agitated American colonel who was certain that he had complete and positive proof of the existence of such a plot. He outlined it in great detail and his conclusions were supported by other members of the Security Staff.

I discounted the murder theory but agreed to move my quarters closer to headquarters. I was convinced that the Germans had too much need of their men to use them in roaming over a wide area in search of their intended victims, each of whom could presumably be replaced. I was irritated at the insistence of the Security Corps that I definitely circumscribe my freedom of movement, but I found that unless I conformed reasonably to their desires they merely used more men for protective measures.

Consequently I promised to move out of headquarters only when necessary, provided they would cut down protective detachments to the utmost, so that soldiers could be used on the battle line and not in trailing me around.

They promised that this period of watchfulness would terminate December 23, but when I started to Brussels on December 27, I found the railway station swarming with Military Police and armed sentries. I sharply queried the security officers about this use of men but they assured me that they had merely assembled in the station individuals who were normally on duty in that vicinity. However, after we were well started on our journey I found that a squad of soldiers was accompanying me.

I remarked to the junior officer in charge of the detail that I would consider it miraculous if any ambitious German murderer could determine in advance that he would find his prospective victim on a particular railway train, at a given moment, at a given spot in Europe. I told him to keep his men inside and to avoid exposing them to the bitter cold. He agreed in principle, but so greatly impressed was he by the strictness of the orders he had received that I doubt that I saved any of the men from useless and futile activity.

It was almost noon on the twenty-eighth before I made contact with Montgomery.

WE AGREED that the best thing to do in this situation was to strengthen the front, reorganize units, and get thoroughly ready for a strong counterblow, in the meantime constantly preparing to beat off any German attack that might be launched. We agreed also that if no such German attack was launched Montgomery would begin his own offensive on the morning of January 3.

In the outcome there was no further German attack because of a change in enemy plans which concentrated his troops in the Bastogne area. The Allied troops on the northern flank used the intervening time to good advantage and on the morning of January 3 passed over to the offensive, in accordance with the plan adopted December 28.

Patton Made Gains

On December 26, Patton had established tenuous contact with the garrison of Bastogne, while on the north the Germans had just been repulsed from a very determined, and what proved to be their final, major attack on that flank. By this time the garrison at Bastogne was proving to be a serious thorn in the side of the German high command. As long as it was in our hands, the German corridor to the westward was cut down to the narrow neck lying between Bastogne on the south and Stavelot on the north.

The French continued to worry about the safety of Strasbourg. On January 3, De Gaulle came to see me. I explained the situation to him and he agreed that my plan to save troops in that region was militarily correct. However, he pointed out that ever since the war of 1870 Strasbourg had been a symbol to the French people; he believed that even its temporary loss might result in complete national discouragement and possibly in open revolt. He brought a letter saying that he would have to act independently unless I made disposition for last-ditch defense of Strasbourg. I reminded him that the French Army would get no ammunition, supplies, or food unless it obeyed my orders, and pointedly told him that if the French Army had eliminated the Colmar pocket this situation would not have arisen.

AT FIRST glance De Gaulle's argument seemed to be based upon political considerations, founded more on emotion than on logic and common sense. However, to me it became a military matter because of the possible effect on our lines of communication and supply, which stretched completely across France, from two directions.

I decided to modify my orders to Devers. I told General de Gaulle that I would immediately instruct Devers to withdraw only from the salients in the northern end of his line and to make disposition in the center to hold Strasbourg firmly. No more troops would be taken away from the Sixth Army Group. This modification pleased De Gaulle very much, and he left in a good humor, alleging unlimited faith in my military judgment.

Churchill Backs Plan

Mr. Churchill was, by chance, in my headquarters when De Gaulle came to see me. He sat in with us as we talked but offered no word of comment. After De Gaulle left he quietly remarked to me, "I think you've done the wise and proper thing."

The losses on both sides in the Battle of the Ardennes were considerable. Field commanders estimated that in the month ending January 16 the enemy suffered 120,000 serious casualties. In view of the fact that after the war German commanders admitted a loss of about 90,000, this estimate of our own would seem to be fairly accurate. In addition to personnel losses the enemy suffered serious casualties in tanks, assault guns, planes, and motor transport. These we estimated at the time as 600 tanks and assault guns, 1,600 planes and 6,000 other vehicles.

OUR own losses were high, with the 106th Infantry Division suffering the worst. Because of its exposed position it was not only in the fight from the start, but many men were isolated and captured. The 28th Division was likewise roughly handled and the 7th Armored took serious losses during its gallant defense of St. Vith. Altogether, we calculated our losses at a total of 77,000 men, of whom about 8,000 were killed, 48,000 wounded, and 21,000 captured or missing. Our tank and tank destroyer losses were 733.

I wanted to pass to the general offensive as quickly as possible because I was convinced that in the Battle of the Bulge the enemy had committed all of his remaining reserves. I counted on a greatly weakened resistance from that moment onward, both because of losses suffered by the Germans and because of the widespread discouragement that I felt sure would overtake his armies.

Moreover—and this was very important — the Russians had opened their long-awaited and powerful winter offensive on January 12. Already we had reports that it was making great progress and it was obvious that the quicker we could attack the more certain we would be that the German could not again reinforce his west front in an effort to avoid defeat.

(One of the great breaks of World War II came when General Hodges' III corps reached the Rhine River at Remagen to find the Ludendorff Bridge still standing. American engineers, using technical information which proved to be faulty, had earlier advised General Eisenhower that he could not make successful assaults over the Rhine until the first of May. So a succesful crossing, on a permanent bridge, on March 1, made the end of the war seem suddenly just around the corner.

General Eisenhower tells in tomorrow's installment of "Crusade in Europe," which will be published here, how he learned the great news, and what was done at once to cash in on the advantage it gave to the attackers of Hitler's fortress.)

to the agents of other foreign powers."

Military Information Included

The testimony Nixon added to the committee files, however, does not relate to the microfilms of these documents, the congressman said. He said the committee would meet in closed session tomorrow to go into this and other angles.

Chambers' testimony about Hiss' alleged cooperation in getting government documents to a Russian agent was taken under oath at Baltimore, with cross examination by Hiss' attorney in the libel proceedings.

Nixon told reporters that military information was contained in some of the documents mentioned in the Baltimore testimony.

Data Was "Restricted"

Nixon spoke of the documents figuring in Chambers' Baltimore testimony as falling into the "restricted" class. In government parlance, such a designation means that a document must be restricted to official eyes only. More rigid designations are "confidential," meaning that release could harm the country's prestige and interest; "secret," involving the security of the country, and "top secret," the most secret of all.

Nixon quoted Chambers' testimony in Baltimore this way:

"Sometime in 1937, about the middle of the year, J. Peters introduced me to a Russian who identified himself under the pseudonym Peter. . . . The Russian, Peter, was one Colonel Bykov. . . . (Rep. Rankin (D-Miss.), said Bykov has been identified as head of the Russian secret police in the United States at that time.)

Meets With Hiss

"Colonel Bykov was extremely interested in the Washington apparatus. . . In August or the early fall of 1937, I arranged a meeting between Alger Hiss and Colonel Bykov. For that purpose Mr. Hiss came to New York, where I met him. . . .

"Colonel Bykov . . . raised the question of procuring documents from the State department and Mr. Hiss agreed." At that point Nixon said Hiss' lawyer named Marbury inquired: "What?" Nixon said Chambers went on:

"Mr. Hiss agreed. . . . Following that meeting Alger Hiss began a fairly consistent flow of such material as we have before us here. The method was for him to bring home documents in his brief case which Mrs. Hiss usually typed. . . .

"There occasionally came to Mr. Hiss' knowledge certain things, or he saw certain papers which he was not able to bring out of the department for one reason or another, either because they merely passed through his hands quickly or because he thought it inadvisable. But notations in his handwriting are notes of such documents, such information which he made and brought out in that form."

The documents turned up last week in microfilm form hidden in a pumpkin on the Maryland farm of a self-described former Communist agent. Copies of these and other seized documents were handed today by the committee to a grand jury investigating subversive activities.

The committee calls it definite and shocking proof of a pre-war Communist underground in the State department. The microfilmed documents are of the 1937-38 period, it stated.

SOLONS PUSHING STUDY INTO COMMUNIST SPY SETUP

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—A congressional subcommittee came here tonight to find out how restricted State department information was passed to Whittaker Chambers, admitted former Red courier.

Rep. Richard M. Nixon (R-Calif) and John R. McDowell (R-Pa) went into immediate executive session at a hotel, where they said they would talk with two unidentified persons.

Later, however, they sent out word that they were then hearing one witness, and that the other "would not be present tonight."

They did not identify the witness they were questioning.

For a time, U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey met with the congressmen. Then he left the room.

McGohey has been representing the government before a special grand jury probing subversive activities.

Man Is Fined After Auto Smashes House

An automobile driven by William Earl Bales, 21, of 2404 Thirty-first, inflicted much damage when it struck the Gilmore residence at 1827 Texas about 12:15 a. m. Sunday, police said yesterday.

Their report said they were "afraid to move the car, afraid the house would fall down."

Bales, charged with drunk driving, pleaded innocent and bond of $500 was set. He later changed his plea to guilty and was fined $50 and county court costs, records of County Attorney John Steele showed.

Another motorist, who subsequently was charged with drunkenness, got his car atop a parking lot barrier on the south side of Sears Roebuck & Co., in 1600-block Fourteenth, police said.

Bond of $2,000 was set by C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, for Jimmy B. Cousins, 27, of Lubbock, who pleaded innocent of a charge of theft from the person, C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, said Monday morning.

It had not been posted, the sheriff's department said.

The charge, sworn to by Grady Backus of Blue Ridge, Texas, before A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney, accused Cousins of having taken money from Backus when the victim was sleeping.

Officials said Backus claimed $27.50 had been taken.

Investigators said Cousins is under conditional pardon from the Texas penitentiary.

Lionel R. Julsen was fined $100 and county court costs for carrying a slungshot, court records showed. He had entered a plea of innocent Sunday and bond of $600 was set. His plea was changed to guilty yesterday.

H. G. Westerman, 41, of Abernathy, was fined $50 and costs for drunk driving. His drivers license was revoked for six months as is mandatory in such cases.

Bond of $500 was posted by Charles W. Graves on a charge of illegally carrying a pistol.

News Briefs

Friends in Lubbock last night were advised from Houston that Mrs. John Lee Smith, wife of former Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith of Lubbock, was "very low" at a Houston clinic. Members of the family were at her bedside, it was reported.

Herbert Mitchell, 20-year-old negro of 2403 East Avenue E, was treated at Lubbock Memorial hospital late last night for an eight-inch cut on the arm, suffered in a fight in the Queen City negro section. Neither Herbert nor his twin brother, Hubert, were able to give the name of the former's assailant, the sheriff's office said. Investigation was continuing in the case.

A revival is currently being conducted at the First Foursquare church, Eighth and Ave. Q by the Mourer-Johnson party, Rev. Floyd Dawson, pastor, said Monday night. Rev. Mourer's subject for tonight will be "The Baptism of Fire." Rev. Dawson also announced that Dr. Charles R. Gaines, Gulf States District supervisor of the Foursquare church, will be a visitor in the church.

required a man a full day. Later, after the church had acquired the property for a building site, Mr. and Mrs. B. Sherrod watered it to assure its health.

Original plans of the church to building the new edifice around the tree were found unfeasible.

It was reported that the church earlier this year received an offer of $500 for the tree.

Davis and Dr. A. W. Young, head of the agronomy department at Texas Technological college, each admitted that removal of the tree would be a difficult job.

The roots of the tree, Davis explained, are probably eight to ten feet deep. Great care would be required to remove the roots properly, and soil with them, to assure the continued health of the tree. It would have to be "root-pruned" before it was reset.

Dr. Young pointed out that evergreens are considerably harder to move than deciduous trees.

grees lower than Sunday morning's minimum.

Some of the Christmas decorations in the city were damaged by the strong wind. Most of the decorations on the Avalanche-Journal building were damaged. Some were blown from the building. About 50 per cent of the lights decorating the Lubbock National building were broken or disconnected.

Some of the large Christmas boxes decorating Hemphill-Wells Co. were dislodged.

In many stores in the city, merchandise in show windows was damaged by dust.

Dust still hung high in the air Monday night at Brownsville, Corpus Christi, Victoria, Alice, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Waco, and Lufkin, the Associated Press reported.

The weather bureau said it was settling, but that along the coast southerly winds had tended to bring the dust back into the state.

No rain fell in the state Monday. The highest temperature reported to the Dallas weather bureau was 76 degrees at Brownsville. The early morning low for the state was 18 at Salt Flats. The lowest maximum was a 58 at Clarendon.

Court Decision

preme court:

1. Refused to order Alabama's presidential electors to cast their 11 electoral votes for President Truman, rather than for Governor J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina. Governor James E. Folsom had taken a personal hand in an effort to swing the votes to Mr. Truman who has said he does not want them. Folsom had no comment on the decision.

2. Upheld constitutionality of the portal-to-portal pay act, which restricts workers' claims for wages for such activities as walking to their actual place of work, changing clothes, and so on. The decision had been foreshadowed by recent findings upholding validity of portions of the act.

The action in the war crimes case which came one day short of the seventh anniversary of Pearl Harbor, directly involves only seven of the 25 Japanese convicted by an 11-nation court at Tokyo on November 12.

To Decide Jurisdiction

General Doihara, who appealed his death sentence, was an undercover agent in China and Manchuria known to the Chinese as "the bird of evil omen." Former Premier Hirota, who also filed an appeal from the death sentence, sat in at a pre-Pearl Harbor conference which mapped war plans.

Technically, the high court agreed only to rule on whether it has jurisdiction and will permit the filing of motions.

Wage-Hour Ruling Given

If the court split 4-4, he said, military authorities would have no alternative but to carry out executions "which half of this court tells the world are on so doubtful a legal foundation that they favor some kind of provisional relief and fuller review."

"The fact that such a number of men so placed in the United States are of that opinion would for all time be capitalized in the Orient, if not elsewhere, to impeach the good faith and to discredit the justice of this country, and to comfort its critics and enemies," Jackson said.

The Supreme court split sharply in interpreting another 5-4 decision which held that a defense base in Bermuda leased to this government is a "possession" for purposes of the wage-hour law.

The majority opinion, written by Reed, said in effect that the decision applies only to that law and that it does not extend to overall sovereignty.

wind drift. Men in a life raft, he added, would drift considerably faster.

Dawn, however, had shown no trace of anything on the surface of the sea.

Searchers, who had joyfully exclaimed, "The biggest job is over," grimly renewed the hunt.

A Catalina search plane located the rescue boat dropped by a B-17 last night. It was empty and had drifted 70 miles. The Catalina continued to search the area.

More than a score of Air Force and Navy planes criss-crossed the skies.

Charter Given Toastmasters

The Hub Toastmasters club of Lubbock, one of 660 chapters of Toastmasters International in the United States, Hawaii and Canada, held its charter night banquet last night at the Cactus Inn.

Dr. Louis Tompkins, district governor of the Wichita Falls area of the clubs, and Quentin Williams of Pampa, district governor of this area, were among the dozen out-of-town guests present. Five guests were present from Big Spring.

Williams made the presentation speech and presented the charter of the local club to Dr. H. M. Benson, newly elected president of the group. Benson, in turn, made the acceptance speech.

Other Officers Named

Other club officers elected to posts in the local organization are: Lonnie Langston, vice president; Lou E. Walker, secretary-treasurer; Kenneth Moore, sergeant-at-arms; and Dr. O. W. English, deputy governor.

James Edwards gave the invocation at the opening of the ceremonies, followed by Dr. Benson with the welcome address. Dr. English was toastmaster, Waggoner Carr acted as table topic master, and the position as critic master was held by Hugh Anderson.

Three of the clubs charter members gave five-minute talks to the group: Ed Merriman spoke on "The New Look," A. B. Watkins talked on "Praise 'Em First," and Warlick Carr, one of the two bachelors present, made an address on the subject of "Bachelorhood."

Wives of the married members of the club were present as additional guests at the charter night affair.

The full component of 30 members in the local club are part of the about 19,000 members in the parent organization. Composed mainly of business and professional men, Toastmasters International has as its chief aim the furthering of individual abilities toward accomplished public speaking. Courses in public speaking are made available to all members.

continue the assembly session at least until Dec. 30.

Hector McNeil, British minister of state, wants the assembly to start discussions on the future of the Italian colonies. The assembly's 14-nation steering committee will meet tomorrow to complete action on a U. S. suggestion that the question of the Italian colonies be taken up at once by the No. 2 political committee.

With the adjournment question finally settled, the delegates prepared for a grind of day and night meetings for the remainder of the week.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet deputy foreign minister, hinted broadly that the assembly would not reach a decision on Korea before Saturday night.

Elsewhere in the UN:

1. In the Security Council's seven-nation Palestine committee, Egypt announced she would accept an armistice in Palestine if Israel would withdraw her troops from the Negev desert, as ordered by the council Nov. 4.

2. American delegation sources charged Russia was trying to stall in the assembly's social committee to prevent final approval of the newly drafted declaration of human rights at this assembly session.

3. A Soviet representative told the UN legal committee Russia prevented Russian wives of foreigners from going abroad to save them from humilitation, indignities and hostility in the western countries.

way.

Staver chased the younger man for a block and a half. A passerby, M. Ray Applegate, owner of an advertising agency, ran after the whiskered gunman but lost him when the robber jumped on a bicycle left in an alley and pedled away.

Police at first had the report that a young boy about 14 years old accompanied the stickup man. They said the gunman was apparently mistaken for a youth because of his comparative shortness.

Staver described the man who fled with the bag as being about five feet, six inches in height, and wearing a gray and blue mackinaw.

car trouble developed. He pulled the car off the highway onto the north shoulder, investigating patrolmen said.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ellison, of Dimmitt, stopped on the south side of the road to see if they could assist the occupants of the stalled car, it was reported.

Harris was struck by the hit-and-run car as he crossed the highway toward the Ellison vehicle. Death was almost instantaneous, the highway patrolmen believed, the body having been found approximately 50 feet from the point of impact.

Services Not Set

At the Roy Woods Funeral home here where the body was taken it was reported that Harris had suffered a fractured skull and both legs had been broken.

The Texas Highway patrol, the Hale county sheriff's office and Plainview police are continuing the investigation. Other officials outside the Plainview area have been notified to be on the lookout for the death car and its driver.

Funeral services for Harris late tonight were pending arrival of relatives the funeral home said.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Opal Coleman and Mrs. Marie Petty, both of Kennewick, Washington; three sons, Herschel Harris of Kennewick, and M. A. and Sam Harris, both of Plainview; two brothers, John Harris of Snyder and Will Harris of Nevada, Texas; a sister, Mrs. Oscar Spears of Snyder; and seven grandchildren.

Workers Choose West

Two thousand electric power office workers followed the voters today in choosing the West over the East. They refused to work any longer in the main office of Bewag, the company supplying Berlin with current, because the office is in the Soviet sector. They charged that Communist police spied on them and molested them. The workers said they would report for work tomorrow in the company's branch offices in the western sectors. There was no indication whether their move would affect the power supply in the Soviet sector.

Reuter moved fast to put into action his promise of a firm policy to make Berlin a "free city." The mayor-elect met with other party leaders tonight to discuss the first moves.

There were suggestions that he take office immediately instead of waiting for the normal workings of party machinery which would delay his inauguration until January.

HIGH RULING ASKED

AUSTIN, Dec. 6 (AP) — The state today appealed direct to the Supreme court to rule on the validity of a Railroad commission order which would shut down the Heyser field in Victoria and Calhoun counties until alleged wasteful flaring of gas is stopped. The appeal, filed late today, seeks prompt action on the part of the state's highest appelate court. The attorney general, representing the commission, entered a motion to advance the case ahead of all other cases or proceedings now pending in the supreme court.

Lubbock Man Is Killed In Crash

(Special To The Avalanche)

LOVINGTON, N. M., Dec. 6.—Harry W. Hazlett, 49, Lubbock pharmacist, and Kenneth Leon Cornelius, 22, of Phoenix, Ariz., were fatally injured about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon when the heavy automobile in which they were believed enroute from Phoenix to Lubbock overturned several times after failing to make a curve on the highway three miles west of Tatum.

Cornelius died enroute to a hospital at Lovington, and Hazlett lived only about one hour after reaching the hospital, according to Sheriff Horace Owens, of Lea county, who investigated the accident.

The bodies were taken to Yarbrough Funeral home here. Cornelius' body was taken overland this morning to Davenport, Okla., where his mother, Mrs. Gladys Mann, resides, for funeral services and burial.

Funeral home officials said tonight that funeral and burial arrangements for Hazlett were awaiting the arrival of his sister, Mrs. H. J. Wuffen, of Grand Junction, Colo. They said burial services probably would be conducted at Lubbock.

Failed To Make Curve

Sheriff Owens said his investigation showed that the car, a nearly new Chrysler New Yorker, failed to make the curve, rolled over several times, and was almost demolished. The sheriff said both men were thrown clear of the wreckage, adding that Hazlett was found about 16 feet beyond where the car finally came to rest, and Cornelius was several feet farther on.

No other vehicle was involved, Sheriff Owens said. Identities of the two were established from papers found on them. The sheriff said Hazlett's papers indicated he had written his sister, Mrs. H. J. Wuffen, of Grand Junction, Colo., designating disposition of his property in event something should happen to him.

Property To Needy

The note, which the sheriff said was not dated, directed that his property be given to the needy, or some other worthy cause.

Sheriff Owens said he did not know which of the men was driving at the time. He said he was advised by Phoenix relatives of Cornelius that the young man, who was in naval service from 1945 to 1947, had advertised in Phoenix newspapers for a ride to the vicinity of his home in Oklahoma, and they presumed he was with Hazlett as result of that.

(Hazlett, who had resided on the Plainview highway, had worked as a pharmacist at several Lubbock drug stores, including John Halsey Drug, and until recently had worked at Walgreen's. Friends here said Monday he gave up his job recently and had gone to Phoenix.)

Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of the church who formerly resided at 1919 Main street on property which was owned by the church and which is to become part of the new church grounds, has moved to 3311 Thirty-first. The house on Main in which he formerly lived has been sold and will be moved.

Preliminary work to be done before actual construction can begin includes clearing, levelling, and grading of the building site.

The church's $650,000 building permit pushes building totals for 1948 beyond the $14,250,000 mark, adding to the possibility that the final total for the year may reach $15,000,000.

The previous record for any entire year was $11,130,866, in 1947.

CIO GROUP OPENS CONVENTION

Transport Workers Union Torn By Right, Left Wing Dispute

By ROBERT SCHWARTZ
INS Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 — Right and left wing elements battled today for control of the Transport Workers Union (CIO) which opened its sixth biennial convention in Chicago.

Both sides flung charges of intimidation and hinted darkly that outside forces were at work attempting to sway the 226 delegates from all sections of the nation.

Executive Board Scored

Union president Michael J. Quill lashed out at the left wing-controlled executive board in his opening speech.

Quill had charged earlier that leaders of the left wing faction met last midnight with Illinois Communist party director Gil Green.

Quill told the delegates:

"You will return home from this convention proud that we have shaken off the shackles of the Communist party once and for all."

The fiery TWU leader accused the union's present leaders of failing to work within the scope of the CIO. He charged that they subordinated union policy to the "party line." Quill warned:

Charge Is Denied

"There will be no putsch at this convention. No amount of mud slinging or threats of violence will stop any delegate from speaking his mind."

Quill charged the Reds with sowing confusion in the union and said that Communist leadership in the union's airline division "jabbered about Wallace" instead of organizing the workers.

Earlier, Quill told newsmen that Douglas L. MacMahon, secretary-treasurer of the union, and leader of the left-wing faction, met last night with Communist leader Green.

MacMahon immediately denied the charge, terming it "ridiculous and absurd."

William Grogan of San Francisco, an international vice-president and west coast director of the union, opened the convention with a plea for unity and solidarity.

He admitted bluntly:

"Our union is torn by strife and factionalism among the top officers. There is no use denying it. It's a shame it happened, but we can't avoid it."

Jaycees Win Spelling Bee From ABC At Luncheon Meet

A ten-man team from the Junior Chamber of Commerce edged out a group from the American Business club in a spelling bee which featured Monday's weekly Jaycee luncheon at the Hilton hotel.

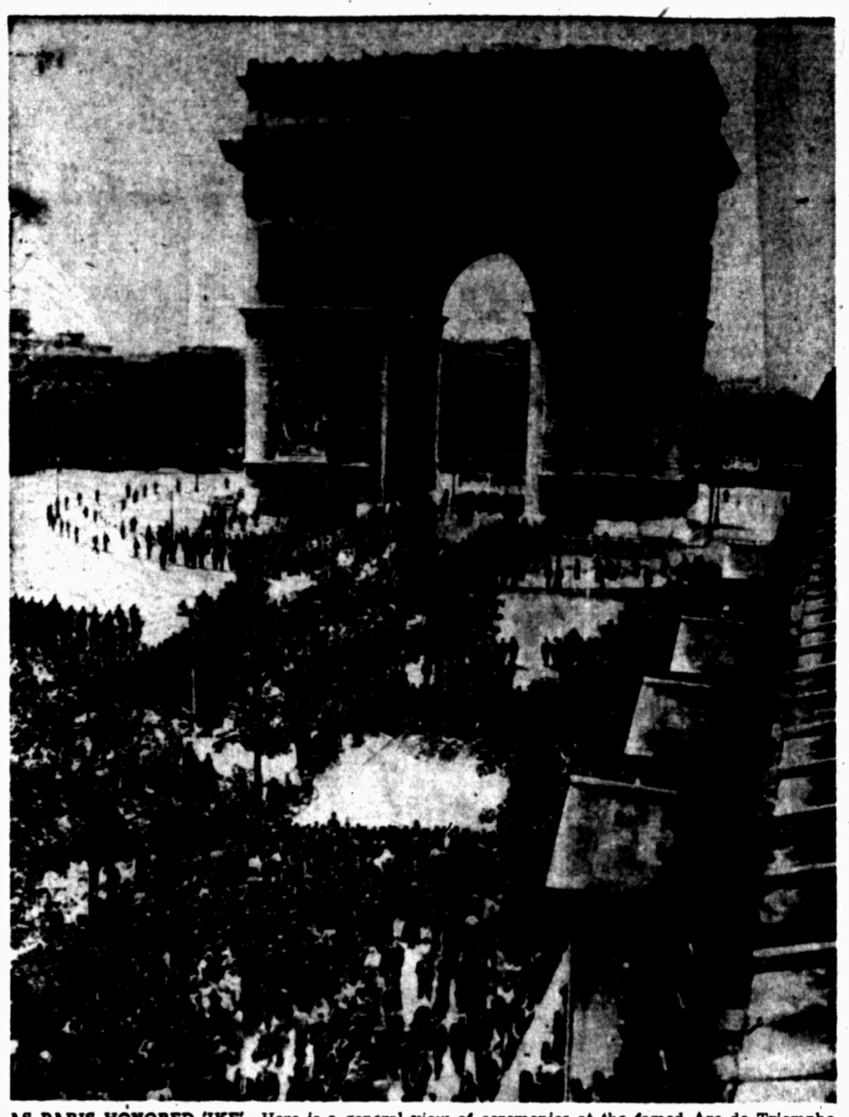

"Silhouette" was the word which finally decided the contest, with two Jaycees and the last ABC representative going down before the final Jaycee contestant spelled it correctly.

R. S. (Curly) Wilkinson captained the Jaycee team, which included Rufus Rush, Homer Wright, Bill Linn, Barney Stagner, Pat Wiman, Wayne Kelly, Choc Hutcheson and Bill Tinney.

Arthur B. Watkins led the ABC team, which included Roy L. Krebbs, Bert Pinson, Douglas S. Adams, Earl Burnett, W. L. Hester, Carl M. Bailey, Royal Furgeson, G. H. Nelson and Asher Thompson.

Jim Paxon served as spelling master.

Jaycee President Horace Gearhart presided at the luncheon, at which invocation was by Arthur B. Watkins. Two guests, C. W Dennison and Thelbert Miller, were introduced, along with the visiting ABC spelling team members.

Funeral Services Are Held Monday For Tahoka Infant

TAHOKA, Dec. 6 (Special) — A graveside service for H. R. Jackson, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Jackson of Tahoka route 2, was held at 3 p. m. today at Draw community cemetery Stanley Funeral home reported.

The infant died at birth at 1:15 a. m. today.

Survivors include the parents, the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Beattie of Tahoka; the paternal grandmother, Mrs. C. C. Jackson of Tahoka; six aunts, and five uncles.

Martin L. Owens, 65, Claimed; Services Are Set In Winters

Martin Luther Owens, 65, died at 9 a. m. Sunday in his home at 2014 Eighteenth, after an illness of four years.

A retired druggist, Mr. Owens had lived in Winters for about 35 years before moving to Lubbock.

Burial will be in Winters, Rix Funeral home reported.

Survivors include the widow; two daughters, Jean Kincaid of Lubbock and Mrs. T. D. Vaughn of Wichita Falls; three sisters, Mrs. Lula White of Winters, Mrs. Ida D. Jarrad of Abilene, and Mrs. Karleen Melson of Tulsa; a brother, Buford, of Winters; a grandchild, Sondra Kincaid of Lubbock, and a cousin, Edith Hart Perry of Lubbock.

Smog Again Settles On Pennsylvania City

DONORA, Pa., Dec. 6. (AP)—This western Pennsylvania milltown—where 20 persons died during a smothering fog a month ago—was covered by smog again over the weekend but authorities said apparently no one suffered any serious effects.

Charles Stacey, president of the board of health, said yesterday that the board had received a few complaints from persons affected by the three-day fog.

"They were all asthma victims and were not affected seriously," Stacey said. "Otherwise everything is all right."

Meanwhile, investigators were still attempting to determine the cause of the October disaster. At that time a heavy black fog blanketed the Donora area for five straight days, during which 19 persons died and a number were made ill. A 20th victim died later.

The fog this weekend was described as much lighter, clearing at times.

Bollworm Quarantine Clamped On Area

64 Counties Hit By State Order

Declaring "it is essential that further increase of infestation be stopped and that all possible efforts be made to suppress pink bollworm infestation" which has developed in a large number of counties in western and northwestern Texas, the State Department of Agriculture has declared a pink bollworm quarantine prohibiting movement of untreated cottonseed in 64 counties in the state, including the whole of the South Plains.

The proclamation, signed by J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture and W. T. McKay, chief of the division of plant quarantine, was made effective on Nov. 29, and prohibits the moving of cottonseed except under certain conditions.

Counties Are Listed

South Plains counties involved are listed as Bailey, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Dickens, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Terry and Yoakum.

Other counties in the state where it is asserted pink bollworms have appeared in threatening numbers, are in the western part of the state. These are Andrews, Baylor, Borden, Brown, Callahan, Childress, Coke, Coleman, Collingsworth, Concho, Cottle, Crane, Donley, Ector, Fisher, Foard, Glasscock, Gray, Hall, Hardeman, Haskell, Howard, Irion, Jones, Kent, King, Knox, Martin, Mason, McCulloch, Menard, Midland, Mitchell, Nolan, Reagan, Runnels, San Saba, Schleicher, Scurry, Shackelford, Sterling, Stonewall, Taylor, Throckmorton, Tom Green, Upton, Wheeler, Wichita, and Wilbarger.

The proclamation, called amendment No. 23 of proclamation No. 67 (revised), sets out that "additional requirements . . . may become necessary and if investigations now under way indicate advisability of such action, the necessary rules and regulations will be promulgated within the near future."

Control Said Imperative

Mentioning that cottonseed produced in the counties listed during the 1948 crop season were permitted to be returned to the farm without treatment, and that "immediate control of the pink boll worm infestation in all the counties is imperative to prevent further increase of infestation within the aforesaid counties," the proclamation requires:

That "all cottonseed sold, offered for sale, moved or allowed to be moved within the area as defined above, or from said area to non-infested areas, be treated

Program Upped Cotton Output 3,000,000 Bales In 1948

Insect Control Plan Pays Off

By ROBERT H. DENLEY
INS Staff Correspondent

ATLANTA, Dec. 6. (INS)—More than 400 cotton specialists heard a report today that a coordinated southwide insect control program resulted in an increase of 3,000,000 bales during 1948.

M. P. Jones, entomologist of the Federal Agricultural Extension service, Washington, said that 245,000 cotton growers took part in the first large-scale, joint assault on the boll weevil and his allies.

The cotton men are meeting in Atlanta to map plans for an even larger insect control program in the cotton states in 1949.

Jones called the 1948 program, which was launched at Columbia, S. C., last year, the "most extensive cotton insect control program ever undertaken."

But another speaker called for redoubled efforts in insect control research.

Dr. F. C. Bishopp, assistant chief of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, Washington, called for insect research in the laboratories, in small plots, large fields and on a community basis.

He said that laboratories at Stoneville, Miss., and College Station, Texas, have brought good results. But now, he added, large scale field experiments are needed.

Face Many Factors

Bishopp also pointed out that the fight against insects must include many factors other than the insects themselves. He declared:

"Cropping systems, cultural practices, cotton varities, plant nutrition and natural enemies of cotton pests have a profound effect on the damage caused by cotton insects. We must know more about the inter-relations of each of these factors."

Before the conference adjourns tomorrow, it will map the plans for 1949. The plans include waging the war on insects at all levels in the cotton world, promoting a greater interest in research, seeking congressional aid and encouraging manufacturers to develop insecticides in line with the conference's recommendations.

PRORATION ORDER IS ATTACKED

Injunction Against Rail Board Is Dissolved By Federal Court

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Dec. 6.—A temporary restraining order against a Texas Railroad commission proration order for the world's largest gas field was dissolved by a three-judge federal court today.

Canadian River Gas company had asked the court for a permanent injunction on the grounds the commission's action would reduce the company's gas production in the big Panhandle field well below present needs.

The company also had asked that the three members of the commission be held in contempt for violation of a permanent injunction issued against a similar order in 1937.

To Seek Mandamus

Former governor Dan Moody, attorney for Canadian River, gave notice a mandamus suit would be filed, probably with the supreme court in Washington, seeking to force the three-member court to hear the case on its merits.

Hearing the case today were federal circuit Judge J. C. Hutcheson, jr., and district judges T. M. Kennerly and Ben Rice.

It was Rice who granted Canadian River a temporary restraining order September 30 in Austin. The commission order was signed September 24.

In announcing the court's decision, Hutcheson said:

1. The plaintiff, if further pursuit of a permanent injunction is desired, must seek relief in state courts.

2. If the contempt of court action against the railroad commissioners is to be pressed, it will be held on the court docket for trial before a one-judge federal court.

"None of us would be in favor of granting the injunction until the matter is settled," Hutcheson commented. "It would be inconsistent to say we are not going to proceed and then grant such an injunction."

"If there was no gas for you to get to supply current market needs then we ought to do something," he told Canadian River attorneys, "But since it is undisputed that you can get the gas there is no fear of damage being caused to your commitments."

Moody had told the court continuance of the restraining order would prevent possible serious damage to the company's supplying gas to such cities as Denver, Chicago, and Amarillo.

"Current production conditions have existed 10 or 12 years," Moody said. "If the restraining order is continued, no damage could be done."

Commissioners In Court

Railroad commission attorney Elton M. Hyder told the court Rice's restraining order was to have remained in effect until the courts made disposition of Canadian River's case. He said all operators in the field with the exception of the plaintiff have been attempting to comply with the commission's September 24 order.

The three railroad commissioners, Ernest O. Thompson, chairman, Olin Culberson and William Murray, sat in the courtroom's jury box and conferred frequently with Hyder, assistant attorney general Joe Greenhill and other state attorneys.

Paul McDermott, attorney for Canadian River, told the court the commission is attempting to limit gas production to market conditions as determined by the commission.

The September order, he said,

Tahoka Man Is Killed In Fall From Derrick

TAHOKA, Dec. 6 (Special)—Leonard L. Tow, 28, who moved to Tahoka from Colorado City three weeks ago, was killed early Sunday morning when he fell 85 feet from an oil derrick about 11 miles west of Tahoka.

The accident occurred at 5:30 a. m. Sunday. Tow lived only a few minutes after the fall.

The body was taken overland by Stanley Funeral home of Tahoka to Kiker & Son Funeral home in Colorado City, where funeral arrangements were to be completed.

Survivors include the widow and two daughters, Clara Lee, 2 and Linda Sue, 1; the father, J. T. Tow of Snyder; a brother, John Henry, of Colorado City; and six sisters, Mrs. C. B. McMillan of Midland, Mrs. Odis Davis and Mrs. Anamae Heartfield, both of Colorado City, Mrs. C. W. Payne of Mineral Wells, and Misses Pauline and Annie Tow, both of Snyder.

Two Athletes Killed, 25 Are Injured In Oregon Bus Mishap

GRANTS PASS, Ore., Dec. 6. (AP)—Two high school athletes were killed and 25 other members and coaches of the Grants Pass football team were injured when a bus overturned and burned near here last night.

The squad was within five miles of home and a rousing welcome planned for their winning of the state football championship the day previous at Portland.

Survivors said the chartered bus was enveloped in flames immediately and that they escaped by smashing the windows.

Both of the victims were believed stunned when the bus overturned. Their charred bodies were found two hours later in separate sections of the bus.

Group Will Seek 'Clean-Up' Of Community Chest Fund Today

Fifty prominent civic workers of Lubbock will gather at the Hilton hotel this morning at 9 o'clock to make a "clean-up" canvass of the Lubbock Community Chest financial campaign which is lagging $21,677 behind its 1948 goal.

Members of the board of directors of the Chest will head the various teams of workers who will go out to contact approximately 200 business firms not reported in the solicitation canvassing of several weeks ago.

Want To Finish Job

"We want to finish the job Tuesday and in order to do it we are asking the co-operation of workers and business people alike," Charles E. Maedgen, jr., president of the Chest, said last night.

Maedgen said failure of the drive could be attributed to two factors. One was the apparent apethetic attitude of workers in the original campaign and the other was the notable lagging in contributions among the city's professional men particularly in line with their income brackets.

Workers will be supplied with kits for each firm of a list of approximately 200 as if they had not been contacted originally in the drive. Some call-backs will be

Traitors Claimed Now Working In Many Governmental Posts

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6. (INS)—The mayor of the third largest city in the United States charged today that there are "many persons in public employment, federal state and local, who are willing to be traitors to their country."

His blast, in which the terms "traitor" and "treason," were vigorously used, came when a union official attempted to prevent administration of the city's new loyalty oath for city employes.

Order Is Served

The row began when Mayor Fletecher Bowron of Los Angeles entered the council chambers today to participate in the oath-administering ceremony. Some 200 city department officials and employes were on hand to take the oath decreed by ordinance.

Just before the ceremonies got underway the mayor was served with a superior court order restraining him from administering the oaths. The action was filed by Samuel J. Berland, international representative of the United Public Workers of America (CIO), Local 246. Berland was accompanied at the meeting by Sidney Moore and Harry Young, his aides.

Turns Blast On Official

When informed of the suit the mayor's face flushed with anger and he cried:

"Are you bringing this suit in the interests of the Soviet Union?"

He continued:

"I want you to know that we are Americans and if there is anyone, whether he be a city employe or in private activity who does not willingly want to pledge himself to these United States, he should get out of here. I am going to see to it that everyone in the city's employ is going to stand up and be counted."

The union official retorted that the matter was now in the hands of the court and that the judges would decide the matter.

Angry voices were then raised as city councilmen milled around, and charges were thrown and returned. When things grew a bit quieter, city Clerk Walter Peterson read the oath of allegiance and the mayor, councilmen and other employes raised their hands and repeated the oath.

Mayor Bowron then took over the microphone on the speaker's platform and said:

"I have recently attended national security meetings in Washington. I cannot tell you all that I learned there, but I am privileged to tell you that there are many persons in public employment, federal, state and local, who are willing to be traitors to their country.

"There are people now in public employ who are being taught the arts of sabotage and are training for the overthrow of our government.

"Many of them will take the allegiance. This oath is only the beginning. It is for us to find those traitors and to eliminate them."

The new oath requires that city employes declare that they are not now and have not been for five years members of any group advocating overthrow of our form of government.

Robert Walker Smashes Station Doors

Police Nab Film Star After Wild Party In Topeka Hotel

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 6. (INS)—Film star Robert Walker, self-styled "bad boy" of Hollywood, was back in the news spotlight today as the result of another alcohol-inspired escapade.

Walker staged a one-man festival of fisticuffs after police broke up a "wild party" in a Topeka hotel room yesterday.

The film actor became unruly at police headquarters, smashing his fist through three glass-paneled doors as he was being booked on a charge of public intoxication.

New Charge Added

The boisterous display added another charge against Walker on the police record—destruction of city property.

He was released shortly after hospital treatment for severe cuts of the arms and hands to the Menninger clinic, internationally-famous psychiatric center.

Police sergeant Don Laird said Walker was the only one arrested when hotel representatives objected to the celebration. Laird said two men and two women were in the room with Walker.

Laird said he believed Walker "cut an artery" when he plunged his first through the glass, adding that blood spattered the actor's expensive tweed slacks and leather jacket.

Hospital attendants said nearly 100 stitches were taken to close the cuts.

Officials at the Menninger clinic declined comment in the case, referring newsmen to Metro-Goldwin-Mayer, Inc., Walker's studio in Culver City, Calif.

(In Hollywood, an official spokesman for the studio said Walker was seriously ill and had been undergoing treatment at the Topeka clinic for several weeks.)

It was the second such police altercation in which Walker had been involved. He was booked for intoxication in Los Angeles recently.

Walker has been married twice. His first marriage, to actress Jennifer Jones, ended in divorce. His second was annulled when his bride, Barbara Ford, daughter of director John Ford, complained that their's was a "kissless marriage."

DALLAS MAN CLAIMED

DALLAS, Dec. 6 (U.P.) — Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Samuel B. Perkins, 78-year-old founder of the Perkins Dry Goods Co., and co-founder of the Perkins Retail department store chain of Texas and Oklahoma. Perkins died in a Dallas hospital yesterday. For the past three years he had been in semi-retirement from his business.

Damage Reported In California Quake

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6. (U.P.)—A sharp earthquake that rocked southern California late Saturday caused several thousand dollars damage but no deaths, officials reported today.

The temblor, centered in the Coachella desert near Indio, was felt from the Mexican border to Santa Maria, 250 miles to the north.

California Institute of Technology seismologists said the quake was stronger than the one that wrecked Long Beach in 1933. They said it was "lucky" it wasn't too near a populated area.

Palm Springs, Hollywood's winter playground, was the most seriously damaged. Thousands of dollars worth of bottles and glasses were smashed in bars and liquor stores. Two persons were injured when a matinee crowd rushed out of a theatre.

Few of the 100,000 persons filing out of huge Memorial coliseum in Los Angeles after the Notre Dame-USC football game felt the tremor.

Landslides in the hills above Palm Springs and Indio sent up dust clouds visible for many miles.

Berlin Vote Shows German Faith In Allied Plan To Stay In City

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Western Allies, by their sponsorship of the Berlin election and its results, are more definitely committed than ever to fight to the last ditch against Russian designs on the city.

The 86.2 per cent vote against Communism is being hailed throughout the western world as a great victory, which it is. But it seems to me that the other angle is of more lasting importance.

Faith In Allies Shown

The fact that 86.2 per cent voted at all, in the face of Russian threats and Russian propaganda that the Allies would eventually pull out of Berlin, is the big thing. Faith that people who stand with us for Democracy will not be abandoned to Communist reprisals. Faith that those who struggle for human rights will win eventually. And faith in the material strength demonstrated to the Berliners through the air lift.

The election result also lays, at least so far as Berlin is concerned, a ghost which was being raised in Germany when I was there recently. There were reports, tenuous at best but widespread, that many cynical Germans were joining the Communist party in an effort to burn their candles at both ends. The idea, supposedly, was that they could protect themselves in case of a Communist victory, while there was no danger of Allied retaliation, anyway.

Communists Lose Ground

If there had been anything to this it should have made its appearance right under the Russian guns more plainly than anywhere else. But dispatches from Berlin say that even people who had been expected to follow Communist exhortations not to vote strode to the polls along with the others. If that is true of Berlin it should be doubly true in the western zones, where Communist influence seems to have been dropping steadily.

The success of the Social Democrats, who obtained more than 60 per cent of the vote, is of great long-range significance. This is the nearest German counterpart of the British Labor party and advocates a similar program. It was opposed by two conservative groups, the Christian Democrats who are heavily Catholic and the Liberal Democrats. Allied observers quickly interpreted the vote as an important lift for the Socialists throughout the Western zone.

German Communists refused places on the ballot and threatened revenge against all who voted. They urged abstention and mutilation of ballots. The number in both classes was not abnormal, indicating very little Communist influence at all.

The Berlin vote also was cast in the face of the virtual certainty that it would mean even greater division between Allied and Russian-controlled areas than heretofore. All Germans fear this as tending to formalize the final split-up of their country. But they voted against Communism anyway.

By doing so they gambled not only their fortunes but, in many cases, their very lives on the ability and determination of the Allies not to abandon Berlin.

Lubbock Man Completes 14 Months Overseas Service

FIFTH AIR FORCE, ITAMI, Japan, (Special) — S/Sgt. Gene Mathis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Mathis of Lubbock, has completed 14 months overseas service with the Fifth Air Force, the occupational Air Force for Japan, it was announced here recently by Col. Robert W. Witty, commanding officer of the 38th Bombardment wing, where Sgt. Mathis is currently assigned for duty with the 405th Bombardment squadron as an airplane armorer-gunner.

Sgt. Mathis first entered the military service Oct. 2, 1943, at Brownwood, and served in the China-Burma-India theater from April 8, 1945, until February, 1946. He was discharged in San Antonio Feb. 8, 1946.

The Lubbock youth reenlisted at Lubbock on May 15, 1947, and shortly afterward was alerted for movement to the Pacific theater.

Arriving in Japan at the second major port, Yokohama, on Aug. 27, 1947, Sgt. Mathis was assigned to the Fifth Air Force and subsequently reassigned to the 405th Bombardment squadron at Itami Air Force base on the main Japanese island of Honshu.

U. S. Farmers Warned Of Surplus Problem

ST LOUIS, Dec. 6 (INS) — A governmental agricultural agency head warned today that the proble mof farm surpluses is again facing the nation's farmers.

Ralph S. Trigg, department of agriculture production and marketing administrator, told a national conference at St. Louis:

"The steady decline in the relationship between what the farmer pays and the prices he gets should make us stop and think. Where will agriculture be if this trend goes too far?"

Trigg said new uses and market outlets were needed to take the place of those "which will be lost when the post-war emergency period is over."

The administrator said national and international agencies are working on the problem, but that even after everything possible has been done to increase distribution, "there will still be need for major adjustments in our production pattern."

Trigg said price supports must not be too high, lest they encourage over-production. He said, however, they must be high enough to prevent economic collapse for farmers.

San Antonio Woman Kills Two Bucks With Only One Shot

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 6. (AP) —Mrs. Joe L. Stanton of San Antonio is one hunter who can boast of going after her first buck and returning with two.

And she did it with one shot.

Mrs. Stanton was a member of a hunting party on the Allen ranch near Junction Saturday.

The one shot got both through the necks. One was a six-pointer and the other a four.

Atlanta Theater Uses Film To Illustrate Civil Rights Fight

ATLANTA, Dec. 6. (U.P.)—An Atlanta theater announcing a revival of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" which features a marathon filibuster by actor James Stewart, advertises it this way:

Huge Christmas Tree Is Put Up On Texas Tech Campus

Yuletide decorations at Texas Technological college this year will include a 30-foot Christmas tree in the center of Memorial circle for the first time in the history of the college.

Workmen were putting up the tree Monday afternoon and the accompanying lights and other ornaments will be put on as soon as possible, according to Frank Junell, assistant to the president. Definite plans for decoration of the dormitory lobbies, as is the custom each year, have not yet been made.

"It's Ours-- clear through to China"

I suppose most every inquisitive boy or girl has asked the same question I asked of my father—"How deep is our land—How far down do we own?" You probably got the same answer I did—"It's ours, clear through to China." To a kid just trying to absorb the astounding fact that the world is a sphere, that answer was impressive. It established in my mind a strong sense of proprietary security.

That's the way I now feel about a cemetery. Seems to me that actual ownership is too big a responsibility for any individual or corporation; that title for the ground should in fact remain with the people of the community . . . all of the people who have lived there for years and their parents and grandparents before them; administered through each generation by an association of citizens representative of families whose names may be historic of that region.

Of course, it is a matter of opinion, but it seems to me there is a better chance of having a community cemetery well kept and economically well managed under a perpetual care fund, if that responsibility is assumed as a sacred obligation by many responsible citizens working in association. In anticipating my long earthly rest, I think that's my best chance for tranquility through the ages—in ground which the people own clear through to China!

What your eyes may tell your doctor about events ahead . . .

"To any medical man your eyes are a remarkably sensitive barometer by which he can often predict conditions which may affect you months or even years from now. It isn't at all unusual for him to recognize disorders of the blood, the circulation, the kidneys, the glands, or the nerves just by examining your eyes.

Did you ever know, for example, that the very first signs of high blood pressure may appear in the eyes? Advance information given by the eyes can often avoid a serious or a prolonged illness. That's why a really thorough physical check-up should include examination of your eyes. It's almost uncanny what can turn up—even such facts as whether or not you are getting enough vitamins. When you think about your eyes in this new way—as a means of staying well—you'll have them looked at regularly instead of waiting until they bother you."

Latest Study Indicates Texas Is Growing At Unprecedented Rate

AUSTIN, Dec. 6. (U.P.)—People are coming into Texas at a rate far exceeding the number going out, the Texas Employment commission reported today.

In a survey of population conditions since 1940, the TEC reported that Texas' population gain exceeds that of the national average.

The last official census was taken in 1940.

However, census bureau estimates on July 1, 1948, showed a national growth of 10.7 per cent, while population in Texas climbed 12.4 per cent.

TEC Estimate Higher

The census bureau estimate, the TEC said, fell below their own figures.

The state agency, basing its figures on estimates compiled by the Texas Employment commission, estimated that the state's population has grown from 6,415,000 to 7,487,000 in the last eight years.

That would be an increase of 22.3 per cent.

The national census bureau, also estimating, pegged the state's population on last July 1 at 7,226,000.

"Regardless," the TEC said, "of which estimate is considered good, the fact remains that Texas' population is growing faster than the nation's."

The report also noted shifts in the state's population.

Following a national trend, there has been "a definite and sizeable movement from rural to urban centers. The most populous counties have increased far more than the state as a whole; intermediate counties, on the whole, have gained slightly more than the state average; while most of the smaller counties show less than the state average growth."

Some, the TEC said, show a loss instead of a gain.

The largest movement, the report said, has been toward the Gulf coast. The next largest has been toward the oil producing counties of the Permian basin. The lower Rio Grande valley, the TEC said, has also shown "a disproportionately large growth."

The population of veterans also has increased to an estimated 886,000, the commission reported, with a greater number coming in than going out of Texas.

The TEC said that this condition was probably due to the training in Texas many armed force personnel received. "They found it a good place to live," the commission explained.

Andrews Pipe Line Contract Is Given New Mexico Firm

Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line company has awarded a contract to Wright Construction company, Lovington, N. M., to construct approximately 26 miles of 8 5/8-inch pipe line in Andrews county, R. B. McLaughlin, president of the company, announced Monday.

The new line will extend from Shafter Lake station to a point approximately 36 miles southwest of the station. The line will be laid parallel to and about 10 feet from the company's present six-inch line. Work is to be begun immediately.

New Producing Zone Found In Andrews

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 6. (AP)— A new producing zone in the Shafter lake-Devonian oil pool of Andrews county, Texas, has been found by Sinclair Prairie Oil Co.

The company's No. 2 university 154, CSE NE, section 24, block 13, university lands, started flowing after being drilled to 11,896 feet in the Ellenberger. It made 138 barrels of 42.9 gravity oil in the first three hours and 150 barrels in the second three hours.

It flowed 1,010 barrels in 21 hours and is taking potential.

Heretofore the pool's production has been from the Wolf Camp sand and Devonian lime. The No. 2 university had oil and gas showings in both these formations. The Wolf Camp is found between 8,400-8,500 feet and the Devonian between 9,400-9,900 feet.

Acreage holders in the area of the discovery are Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Co., Cities Service Oil Co., Gulf Oil Corp., and Stanolind Oil and Gas Co.

Plans To Expand Training Of Journalism Students Mapped

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—Texas newspaper and journalism school representatives plan to expand their "intern" training plan.

Ward C. Mayborn, publisher of the Sherman Democrat, said yesterday that 11 daily newspapers used many junior journalism students on their writing staffs last summer to give them practical experience.

Mayborn is chairman of a committee representing the Texas Newspaper publishers, which cooperated with schools in the plan. He is credited with originating the idea in Texas.

Paul J. Thompson of the University of Texas Journalism department said that journalism schools could furnish as many as 50 "interns" next year. They would work on weeklies as well as dailies.

Walter R. Humphrey, editor of the Fort Worth Press, agreed to work out a plan for newspapers to send non-writing specialists to talk to journalism classes.

Schools participating in the training plan are Baylor, Hardin-Simmons, North Texas State Teachers college, Sam Houston State Teachers college, Southern Methodist university, Texas A&M, Texas State College for Women, Texas Tech, University of Houston and Texas.

Noted Physician Forecasts Rebellion Against AMA Plan

BOSTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—A noted physician today predicted a revolt in the medical profession against the American Medical Association's plan to raise $3,500,000 to fight President Truman's proposal national health insurance program.

Dr. Channing Frothingham, twice president of the Massachusetts Medical society and chairman of the Committee for the Nation's Health, contended the AMA's house of delegates, which announced a $25 levy on doctors is not representative of the association's 140,000 members.

Its action, he said, "is likely to precipitate a grass roots rebellion among the ranks of American doctors."

Dr. Frothingham said the committee for the nation's health, which he described as a national nonpartisan organization of doctors and laymen, will "wholeheartedly support the administration's proposals for a sound, workable, national health insurance program."

Fire Causes $325,000 Damages To Four San Antonio Stores

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 6. (U.P.)—A two-alarm fire gutted four business firms today and did damage estimated at $325,000.

A drug store, an amusement company, a hotel and a brake service firm suffered the losses. The drug store, the amusement company and the hotel were in the same building.

Firemen were investigating the possibilities of arson.

They fixed the loss to the amusement company at $200,000 and said the drug store's property and stock losses would be about $119,000. Damage to the small hotel and to the brake service firm totaled about $6,000.

The morning fire damages raised San Antonio's two-day total to around $350,000. A Sunday fire raced through an airport hangar, destroying three planes and a school bus. Another weekend fire partially destroyed a residence and three shops.

Oil Circles Watch Developments In Five South Plains Counties

Holding interest in West Texas oil circles are developments in Hale, Floyd, Yoakum, Gaines, and Lubbock counties, news of which were announced Monday.

General American Oil Co., staked a flanker to its recent discovery from the lower Permian to open a new pay in the Arick field of southeast Hale county and Southwest Floyd county.

It is to be that company's No. 1 Bob Mayo, located 330 feet from north and west lines of the southwest quarter of section 18, Block K, TTRR survey. That puts it one location south and a little west of the Permian discovery.

6,000-Foot Test Slated

With Rotary tools, the new exploration is projected to 6,000 feet, which is scheduled to take it into the Pennsylvanian lime, regular pay section of the Arick field, unless sufficient production is encountered from the lower Permian.

The drillsite is about two miles northeast of Petersburg. Operations are to start immediately.

The new pay opener, General American No. 2-B Carmickle, is across the line in Floyd county and 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 18, Block K, TTRR survey.

Total depth is 5,910 feet in the Pennsylvanian. The venture has perforated at 4,798-4,810 feet in the lower Permian and was flowing to test.

New Test Is Flowing

Last gauge showed 260 barrels of oil in eight hours, flowing through open two-inch tubing. The initial show from that formation was 33 2-3 barrels of 34.5 gravity oil per hour.

Denver Producing and Refining Co., has taken over the No. 17-C Elliott, outpost to the Wasson-San Andres pool of Southwest Yoakum county, previously operated by Fikes and Murchison.

This venture drillstem tested at 8,497-8,638 feet. The tool was open three hours. Recovery was 300 feet of drilling mud and 1,530 feet of gas cut water with a sulphur odor. More hole was being made.

Location is 1,070 feet from east and 1,312 feet from south lines of section 832, Block D, J. H. Gibson survey.

A drillstem test was run at Magnolia Petroleum Co., No. 1 Hicks, slated Ellenburger wildcat in Southeast Gaines county, 14 miles southwest of the town of Lamesa, and 660 feet from north and west lines of tract 16, league 273, Loving CSL survey.

Drilling Continues

The one-hour examination was on an unidentified formation at 10,011-10,171 feet. A 1,000 foot water blanket was used. The test recovered the water blanket, 60 feet of drilling mud and 60 feet of very slightly gas cut mud. there were no signs of oil or water.

The prospector was drilling ahead toward 12,500 feet, contract depth.

No shows resulted from a drillstem test in northeast Lubbock county, four and one-half miles northeast of the town of Idalou.

The examination at Amerada Petroleum Co., No. 1 W. J. Stribling, slated Ellenburger wildcat, 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 9, block D-7, EL & RR survey.

Two examinations were attempted at 10,316-435 feet before a satisfactory test was secured. The packer slipped on both initial tries.

The successful drillstem test was at 10,318-10,435 feet. The tool was open and hour and seven minutes. Sole recovery was 30 feet of mud.

The strata investigated was unofficially called as the Mississippian. Originally, the Ellenburger was expected to come in around 10,500 feet. The venture was waiting on orders.

Injunction Dissolved

threatens to deprive Canadian of 75,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily and of its proper share of drainage from the field.

Views Conflict

Canadian River based its contempt case against the commissioners on a February 11, 1937, injunction granted by a three-judge federal court which rendered final judgment against a commission proration order dated September 19, 1935.

The commission attorneys today contended the supreme court since 1937 has reversed previous conceptions of the law and that the fiftieth legislature last year took action giving the commission a legislative mandate to issue orders designed for conservation of gas.

Canadian River also contended the commission order is in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the U. S. constitution in that it deprives the company of its property without due process of law.

Moody indicated much of the company's mandamus suit would be based on this contention.

made to other firms where collection reports have not been completed.

Directors of the chest will head the various teams of workers in Tuesday's drive. Besides Maedgen, they include: Raymond Burford and Hugh Anderson, vice presidents; Roy Riddel, treasurer and H. L. Allen, R. F. Bayless, Hudson Bird, L. D. Casey, K. N. Clapp, L. E. Davis, Dave Dawkins, J. Ray Dickey, P. T. Glazner, J. D. Hassell, jr., Irving L. Jones, Geo. P. Kuykendall, E. T. Pope, Garnet Reeves, J. C. Sanders and Neil Wright, jr.

by the heat method to a temperature of 150 degrees F. for a minimum period of thirty (30) seconds. or fumigated with methyl bromide in approved treating machines or fumigation chambers, under the supervision of an inspector, and subsequently kept free of contamination."

It is set out, however, that untreated cottonseed may be retained on the farm of origin for planting on the farm during the spring of 1949, or for feeding to livestock up to June 1, 1949.

The amendment is made effective "until further notice."

British Paper Raps Princess Margaret's 'Many Late Nights'

LONDON, Dec. 6 (U.P.) — Britishers wondered today whether Buckingham palace would clamp a curfew on Princess Margaret Rose following the Sunday Pictorial's criticising of her late hours.

The tabloid newspaper pointed out that the 18-year-old princess remained up "until very late" four nights last week. Her entertainment schedule included a command film performance, a concert, theater and dancing, and a ball and night clubbing.

"Is she a teen-ager having too many late nights?" the Pictorial asked.

The newspaper reported "palace circles noted a new phase in the friendship between Margaret and the Marquess of Blandford," who has devoted some of his time in the past to Sharman Douglas, daughter of United States ambassador to London Lewis Douglas. Miss Douglas now is in the U. S.

The Pictorial said that the princess and the marquess attended a ball Friday in Bloomsbury and then went to the 400 club, where they "stayed very late."

The newspaper said court circles regarded the princess as a "little difficult."

The newspaper said the princess "plans her own dates" and that only the police and servants are around when she gets home to Buckingham palace.

General Says U. S. Must Pay For Cost Of Preparedness

FORT WORTH, Dec. 6 (U.P.) — America, if it is to be ready for another war, must be willing to pay the cost of preparedness, a general who had first-hand dealings with the Russians, said here today.

Maj. Gen. Andrew D. Bruce, who commanded American troops in the Asiatic "hot spot" of Korea before returning to the U. S. as deputy commander of the Fourth army, said he believed this nation better prepared for war now than in 1916, because of our tremendous backlog of men with combat experience.

The general added, however, that money is necessary for the continuation of the training of those men as reservists.

General Bruce arrived at Carswell Air Force base here today for a tour of reserve facilities and an address tonight at the Fort Worth quartermaster depot.

News Briefs

Roy B. Davis of 1901 Twenty-ninth returned Monday from New Orleans where he attended sessions of the National Cotton Council, of which he is a member. Davis, manager of Plains Co-Op Cotton Oil mill here, was accompanied by Mrs. Davis and their sons, Bennett and Dan. Dan, a student at Texas A. & M. college accompanied them as far as College Station.

Mike Womack, 18-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Womack, of 2811 North Second, was taken to Plainview Monday morning to undergo treatment for poliomyelitis, it was reported yesterday evening. The polio diagnosis was made Saturday, and paralysis of the right arm and shoulder had developed. The child had been "feeling badly" for the past two months.

Miss Buna Lofland, owner of Smartstyle ladies wear shop at 1209 Ave. J, was reported "resting well" and in satisfactory condition by an attendant at Lubbock Memorial hospital Monday night. Miss Lofland is receiving treatment there for injuries received when she was struck by an automobile at Fourteenth and Ave. L Nov. 24.

Damage Suit Testimony To Continue In U. S. Court Here

Testimony will continue in the damage action trial of Clydene Locke et al versus the Parker Drilling company in U. S. district court this morning. Trial of the suit was started Monday before Judge Joe B. Dooley and a jury.

The action is the outgrowth of an oil field accident in Hockley county, Feb. 6, 1947, in which the husband of the plantiff, Willard Locke, and another worker, Robert Petty, were killed.

The widow is suing for $75,000 on behalf of her three minor children, Willa Dean, Leldon and Eugene Locke.

Bob Huff and Kilmer Corbin, Lamesa attorneys, are representing the plantiff and Geo. W. Dupree and James Milam of the firm of Crenshaw, Dupree, Milam and Crenshaw are defense attorneys.

REMEMBER '41?

Pearl Harbor Day

FEW PEOPLE in the United States require reminder of the solemn significance of this seventh anniversary of the Pearl Harbor attack. It recalls perhaps the most tragic—and shameful—date in American history.

The solemnity of the observance is all the deeper because of the serious doubt as to whether mankind as a whole learned anything lastingly beneficial from the terrible lesson taught at Pearl Harbor. One of the most prevalent and terrifying fears in the world today is a war signaled by sneak attacks infinitely more devastating than the one on December 7, 1941. The fear seems well grounded that the Pearl Harbor lesson is more likely to be used for catastrophic destruction rather than for the benefit of humanity.

This day, however, does produce one optimistic note of highest importance. This is the apparently well justified supposition that no nation cherishes the misapprehension—as Japan did in 1941—that Uncle Sam is so soft that one blow might finish him, or that he lacks in anything that is needed to fight an uphill, bitter war to a finish.

Pearl Harbor Day can be observed, therefore, as one of hope for the future. But it is not, and never can be, a day to celebrate—not while memories remain of the unnumbered graves for which it was responsible.

Two-Party Texas?

TEXAS Republicans apparently meant it when they declared during the recent election campaign they were determined to try to make this a two-party state. They have just announced the opening of an Austin office, where their efforts will be coordinated and directed.

Texas Republicans have some reason to hope their efforts eventually will bear fruit. The 302,088 votes for Dewey and 113,141 for Thurmond on last November 2 proved the nucleus exists for formidable opposition to the regular Democratic party. Mr. Truman, with 813,062 votes carried Texas by less than 2 to 1, far below the usual Democratic ratio. The trend in Texas steadily has been toward greater independence in voting, and seems likely to continue, particularly if an aggressive opposition encourages it.

One stimulnat to such opposition should be the great number of non-voting, but eligible, Texans. If Texsna had voted November 2 in the same ratio to population as Californians, the total poll would have been nearly 3,000,000 instead of about 1,250,000. Any party—Republican or otherwise—which can persuade large numbers of these non-voters to go to the polls, will become a powerful political factor in this state.

Even Democrats who have the interests of Texas at heart should like to see this become a two-party state. It is unfortunate, but true, that the doubtful states usually fare best at the hands of the federal government, which is operated by politicians who obviously have selfish reasons for exerting every effort to keep their party in power.

Texans never can expect to get their full due from Washington until Texas becomes a two-party state. Texas Republicans have started something which offers hope of hastening that day.

The Lubbock Bar association was completing plans for an elaborate banquet honoring officials of U S federal court, who were to be here the following week to open the court's first term in the Lubbock district. Federal District Judge James C. Wilson was to be honor guest, and others in the party included George W. Parker, clerk of the court, and Alex Mood, assistant U. S. district attorney. An arrangements and program committee, named by Roscoe Wilson, bar president, consisted of C. C. Crenshaw as chairman, E. L. Klett, George Dupree and J. E. Vickers.

Waltz Into Darkness

THE STORY

Time, 1880 Place, New Orleans (Well-to-do Louis Durand carries on a correspondence courtship with a Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen. When she finally comes from St. Louis to marry him, he is amazed to find her young and ravishingly beautiful — entirely different from what he had been led to expect. Certain behavior of hers puzzles him from the first but not until a letter arrives, from her supposed sister — Miss Russell's sister—does he realize the woman he married is an impostor. Before he can face her with it, she disappears with $50,000, withdrawn from his bank account. The police advise him to go to St. Louis to see what he can find out. He does so, calls on Julia Russell's sister. Comparing notes, they realize that something must have happened to Julia Russell on the trip to New Orleans. They call in Walter Downs, private investigator. Downs suggests that he and Durand take the same boat back to New Orleans that Miss Russell traveled on.)

THE captain of the CITY OF NEW ORLEANS was named Fletcher. He was deliberate of speech; the type of man who thinks well before speaking.

"Yes," he said at long last, after hearing Down's exhaustive description. "Yes, I do recall a little lady such as you describe. The breeze caught up her skirt just as we were both coming along the deck from opposite directions. And she quickly held it down with her hands. But for a moment—" He didn't finish it; his eyes, however, were reminiscently kind. "Then as I passed, I tipped my cap. She dropped her eyes and would not see me—" He gave a little chuckle.

"And now this one," Downs said.

He offered in assistance a small photograph of Julia, supplied them by Bertha, much similar to the one once owned by Durand.

The captain studied it at length, but with no great relish.

"No," he said at last, handing it back. "No, I've never seen this old mai— this woman."

DURAND thumbed the pushbutton in the little cabin cubbyhole he shared with Downs, and a shambling steward appeared.

"Not you," Durand told him. "Who takes care of the ladies' cabins?"

A stewardess appeared in dilatory turn. He gave her a coin.

"I want to ask you something. See if you can remember. Did you ever come to one of your ladies' cabins, of a morning, and find the bunk undisturbed, no one had been in it?"

Se nodded readily. "Sho', lots times. We ain't full up every trip."

"No, I'll have to ask it another way, then. Did you ever come to one of your ladies' cabins which had had someone in it first, and then find the bunk untouched?"

She wasn't sure; she scratched and strove, but she wasn't sure.

He tried to help her. "With somebody's clothes in it, perhaps. With a birdcage in it?"

She ignited into recollection, like tinder when the spark strikes it square. "Tha's right, tha's how it was! How you know that? Cab'n with a birdcage in it, and I didn't have to tech the bunk nohow—"

He nodded darkly. "No one had lain in it the night before."

She drew up short. "I di'n say that. The lady fix up her berth herself befo' I get there."

"How do you know that?"

"She in there when I come in. The pressies' little lady I ever done see; blon' like an angel and li'l like a chile."

IN THE dining saloon, Durand saw, Downs had held back one of his plates even after he had finished with it. At the end of the meal, when all others but the two of them had left the single, long table, Downs called the waiter over and said to him simply: "Watch this. Watch me do this a minute."

Then he took out a pocket handkerchief, spread it flat on the table top. Into it he put a small scrap of lettuce that had decorated his plate as a garnish, folded the corners of the handkerchief over toward the center, like a magician making something disappear.

"Did you ever see anyone do that, at the end of a meal?"

The waiter nodded. "I seen a lady do that, one trip. I wondered what she—It wasn't meat or nothin', just a little old—"

Downs held up his finger in admonition. "Now listen carefully. Think well. How many times can you remember seeing her do that? After how many meals?"

"Just once. On'y once. After on'y one meal. That was the on'y time I ever seen her, just at that one meal."

"I can't get the two of them together," Downs said to Durand under his breath afterward. One ends before the other begins. But it happened sometime during the first night. At suppertime the waiter saw the real one filch a scrap of lettuce for her [illegible] 8 in the morning the stewardess found a blonde 'like an angel' had already made up her own bunk, in that cabin where the birdcage was."

THE first stop, at 8 the following morning, Durand found Downs already making his preparations for departure.

"You're getting off here?" he queried in surprise. "So soon? Already?"

Downs nodded. "If she is anywhere," he said, "she is back there somewhere, along the stretch we have covered this past night. If she ever floated ashore—or has already, unrecognized or maybe even unseen—it will be back there somewhere."

"Good luck to you," Durand said, as they walked to the landing plank together.

"And to you," Downs answered. "You will see me again some day, sooner or later. I can't say when, but you will surely see me again some day."

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

HISTORY does not record it nor has archeology dug out any spare parts.

But I am sure that in the ancient days of Athens and Rome they must have had taxicabs driven by philosophers such as the cabbies of New York City.

BRANDIES

Nowhere else than in taxicabs could Socrates and Plato, Aristotle and Cicero have picked up such classic bits of wisdom as you can pick up any day in a Manhattan taxicab.

I had two choice philosophers driving me in New York yesterday.

One was standing in front of my doctor's office waiting for a fare.

I hailed him and this is the conversation that ensued.

"Sick, eh?" he asked.

"Well, I was sick. Just went in for a check-up today," was my reply.

"Being sick ain't so good," he commented, "but there's one thing good about being flat on your back. It kind of forces you to look up. The way we are goin' nowadays you're so busy looking right and left and in front and behind you that you don't get much of a chance to look up."

Since cab drivers usually look back at you when they do their philosophizing, and since we were on one of New York's busiest streets, we almost crashed into the car ahead of us as my cabby let go of this piece of philosophy.

However, I didn't get mad as I ordinarily would have.

Even if we did have a collision and I would be taken to the hospital and lie flat on my back again—wouldn't it give me a swell chance to look up, instead of to the left or right and ahead or behind?

Furthermore, I wanted to hear more of his philosophy. The fellow was wound up and I was getting my money's worth with every click of the meter.

"The way folks is going nowadays," he continued as the light changed and we went rolling again, "they orders four-minute boiled eggs and starts to raise h--- with the waiter because he don't bring 'em in three minutes."

THEN he started to dwell on the general subject of doctors.

"Too many of 'em treat you for one thing and you die from another. My doctor, when he treats me for pneumonia, I dies from pneumonia."

I didn't tell him that I had heard the same story from Herb Shriner, the comedian, last week.

But why should I? Maybe Herb got the story from this same cabbie or from one of his colleagues.

The other driver whom I had yesterday wasn't talkative. He never opened his mouth until he almost ran over a woman who was crossing the street.

Then he turned around—without stopping, of course—and said with a sneer:

"Dames are dumb. What good are they except for being mothers?"

TO HALT INFLATION

New Controls Seen

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Edwin G. Nourse's warning against the inflationary dangers of excessive national defense spending was a carefully prepared and timed advance notice that the Truman Administration fears it may be necessary to reimpose almost wartime controls over prices and wages and rationing of raw materials and retail goods.

It was the head of the President's Council of Economic Advisers who framed the extensive anti-inflation program which Mr. Truman submitted unsuccessfully to the regular and special sessions of the Eightieth Congress. At that time the threat of a price-wage explosion and shortage of commodities was not as serious as it is now, in view of foreign and domestic demands on government finances and production.

TUCKER

But the Nourse lecture to Army-Navy-Air experts was deliberately naive. No economist believes that catastrophic inflation will stem from a mere increase of three billion dollars a year in military expenditures, the minimum sum the fighting forces want above the $14,400,000,000 so far allowed them by President Truman and Budget Director Webb.

BUDGET: A future skyrocketing of living costs even above present levels will not be built on such a thin foundation.

It will be based on an almost fifty-billion budget, the fulfillment of Truman campaign promises to farmer, labor and social welfare groups, and, finally, on another round of pay boosts to approximately 22,000,000 organized and unorganized workers.

Mr. Nourse and the White House, however, would appear to be reneging on these pledges if they were advanced as the real factors for another inflationary bulge. Therefore, his off-the-record advice to the Pentagon audience was publicized in order to prepare the public mind for possible return to a 1941-1945 economy.

LULL: The Nourse advisory group still look upon the October-November decline in the cost of living index as only a temporary lull in the inflation spiral. A drop in foodstuff prices was responsible for the downturn, and the fall was less than one per cent.

It did not prevent the AFL and the CIO, as well as many small, independent unions, from demanding another increase when their contracts expire during the winter and spring months. Parity payments to the farmers alone will prevent the table budget from an appreciable tumble.

Farm income is only a few per cent below the peak of a year ago, due to increased production of major crops and livestock. Installment buying exceeds the tops of 1941 by 20 per cent and people are still incurring new debts at the rate of more than a billion dollars a month. A brisk Christmas trade in durables promises to peg these figures even higher.

DEFENSE: Private and public pressures will accelerate and aggravate these factors, as Mr. Nourse plainly fears when he expresses his concern over a proposed three billion boost in rearmament outlay.

Uncle Sam will pour out at least twenty billions for heavy goods and light commodities in the next year for national defense, the Marshall Plan, aid to other countries. Private industry will spend additional billions, with eighteen going into construction alone.

PLEDGES: More than sixty million people are working for higher wages and longer, overtime hours than ever before. With expected increases for fifteen million unionized employees, and a boost from forty to seventy-five cents an hour for about seven million unorganized, their extra purchasing power alone will mean higher prices and scarcities unless ceilings are applied by the government.

To fulfill campaign pledges for low-cost housing, schools, health insurance, hospitals, public works, new power systems and expansion of Social Security will add another two or three billion dollars to the total bill for future years, with the principal impact scheduled for 1949 and 1950.

Serious study of these figures explains why Mr. Nourse is so deeply concerned over immediate prospects, although for politico-economic reasons he preferred to make the military his inflationary whipping boy.

REPAIRS: The Truman family may have to forego a return to the White House for more than the year that was originally estimated as necessary for repairs of the "President's palace." It will be the greatest renovation job since 1902, when Theodore Roosevelt rebuilt the East Terrace and the first floor in accord with George Washington's ideas.

Further examination shows that the ceiling of the famous East Room sags about six inches because of rotting timbers supporting the second floor. At a recent reception Mr. Truman noticed that the beautiful chandelier in the Blue Room was vibrating over his head, and a shaky ceiling has been discovered there.

There will be no change in outer appearance of the White House, according to Architect Lorenzo Winslow. It will simply be made safer and more livable.

CHANGES IN CONGRESS STUDIED

People Alert To Needed Reforms

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The forthcoming 81st Congress will be under closer scrutiny by the public than any other in a long time, if ever, it is becoming manifest already a month ahead of its meeting.

This is due primarily, of course, to President Truman, who, for purposes of the job he did during the campaign on Congress, might be referred to as "Professor Truman." For he went beyond his political role as a candidate in which he denounced the last Congress — the Republican 80th—for purpose of getting elected, and supplemented this with a clear exposition of the processes of Congress to show how the will of the people is flouted by maneuvers and procedures which the public previously had not properly appreciated.

STOKES

It was one of the most effective educational jobs ever done in this country in the brief space of a few weeks.

Plot Is Feared

This was apparent in the election result, itself, in the first instance. But how really successful it was, how he stirred up the people to try to find out how things happen in Congress, has been proved to this reporter by mail from citizens all over the country since the election. They reveal a very healthy curiosity and interest and urge insistently that something be done to make Congress more responsive to the public at large.

An underlying and gnawing fear expressed is that in some way the election may be "stolen" or nullified by devious tricks and devices employed in Congress after it gets before it the social welfare and civil rights program pledged by the President.

The public has become aware of dodges, subterfuges and bottlenecks that previously were of concern largely to students of the technical procedures of Congress. The Senate filibuster which occasionally provided amusing or disgusting reading in the newspapers depicting a bunch of politicians talking endlessly about anything under the sun—and often nothing—is no longer funny or trivial to many people. It has taken on serious significance now with the renewed drive for a civil rights program and the realization expressed in letters that unless something is done to curb talkathons nothing will be done about that program.

People are learning, too, about that privileged oligarchy, the House Rules committee and how by arrogating legislative powers to itself, it has killed off legislation by tucking it away in a pigeonhole, including the housing bill of the last Congress. They are finding out how a very few men have become very powerful, and with no by-your-leave from the voters.

Lobbies Also Under Study

They are waking up to the significance of the seniority system and how it brings to the head of committees elderly members who look often to the past, "mossbacks." President Truman called them and who block needed legislation by their influence. They are discovering, too, the real meaning of the coalition between conservative Republicans and Southern Democrats, the latter the joint produce of the one-party system in the South and the seniority system, that has raised a successful blockade, entirely apart from the party and platform pledges, against all social welfare legislation since 1938 — ten long years.

Above all, they are getting very curious about the lobbies that President Truman singled out in his campaign, and hope they'll be investigated, as he has recommended. Emphasis on big business lobbies has provoked counter - agitation for investigation also of farm and labor lobbies.

President Truman added to his own job and that of his party by his stress on Congress. For the public will be watching very carefully and will hold him and his party responsible if his program is sidetracked or bottled up, and this enhances the need for him and his party leaders to get through necessary reforms to make Congress a more Democratic body reflecting more accurately the desires of the people.

It would be very healthy, too, if this present curiosity would capitalize itself by study in schools and colleges and by groups of all sorts, men and women, so that public pressure would be brought to bear on Congress.

This is, after all, a job for the people themselves.

It is necessary to walk 36 miles to rid the body of one pound of fat. Therefore, eating a low caloric diet is more important than exercise as a weight-reducing measure.

GREEK ARMY IS BLAMED

HST Says Drive To Crush Greek Communists Is Slowed Down

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Truman said today the drive to crush Greece's Communist-backed guerrillas has bogged down.

He told Congress the American-advised Greek army itself was partly to blame for failing to make a "determined effort" against the remaining rebels after a series of victories last summer.

As a result Mr. Truman said Greek morale has sagged and an earlier "encouraging prospect" for eliminating the guerrillas failed to materialize despite the delivery of more than $170,000,000 worth of American arms and supplies.

"A military stalemate has ensued which has prolonged the struggle," the chief executive said in a letter transmitting a new report to congress on the two-year $625,000,000 Greek - Turkish aid program.

In Turkey, by contrast, the report declared that American aid is showing definite results. It said "significant progress" has been made toward increasing the fire power and efficiency of the Turkish army to enable it to continue to resist Communist pressures, and added:

"The Turkish people have taken advantage of their opportunity. Turkey is today working hard to derive maximum benefit from United States supplies and training."

The report covered operations of the aid programs through the three months ended September 30. Its sober references to the situation in Greece contrasted with Mr. Truman's statement in the preceding quarterly report that the Greek aid enterprise was a "conspicuous success."

The latest report estimated some 22,000 guerrillas were still trying to "spread ruin and demoralization in an attempt to prepare the way for ultimate Communist domination of Greece."

The number was put at around 15,000 when Congress voted the first aid funds 18 months ago.

Today's report forecast rejection of an Athens plea for American support of a plan to expand the Greek army. There was no direct reference to the proposal—reported to call for hiking the present authorized strength of 168,500 to possibly 250,000 — but the report said:

"So far as number of troops, supplies and equipment are concerned, U. S. authorities are confident that the Greek army, navy and air forces possess the capability of restoring internal security in Greece in the face of a guerrilla movement of the present proportions."

Of last summer's offensive against the rebels, the report said the army was deprived of final victory "when the bulk of the guerrilla forces which had been defeated in the Grammos mountain operation escaped into Albania."

Rites Set Thursday For Wilson Veteran

WILSON, Dec. 6. (Special)—Reburial services for M/Sgt. Clyde E. Crowder, who was killed in September of 1943 in a plane crash in Colombia while serving with the Army, are to be held at 2 p.m., Thursday in the Baptist church here.

Rev. Emmett Brooks will officiate. A VFW-American Legion graveside service in Wilson cemetery will be held, with Slaton posts of these organizations in charge. Interment is to be directed by Rix Funeral home of Lubbock.

Pallbearers will be Derrell Ward, Harold Key, Presley White, George Williamson, Jiggs Swann and Garland Swann.

M/Sgt. Crowder was killed with eigth other crew members when a U. S. Army transport plane crashed in the Andes mountains. He was a graduate of Wilson High school before entering the service on Aug. 9, 1939.

Survivors include the parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crowder of Wilson, and five sisters, Mrs. Howard Billings of Lubbock, Mrs. R. N. Raymond of Wilson, Mrs. Frank Benak of St. Joseph, Mich., and Misses Lila Laye and Jimmie Ann Crowder, both of Wilson.

Supreme Court Refuses To Rule On Texas Seizure Of Liquor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. (AP)—The supreme court today refused to rule whether Texas state police validly seized an automobile load of liquor being transported from Shreveport, La., to Oklahoma City.

The liquor was purchased from a Shreveport wholesaler for Roy R. Rainey, Oklahoma City holder of a federal retail liquor dealer's stamp. Rainey won from a U. S. District court in Texas an order requiring Texas police to return the car and liquor to him. The district court order was set aside, however, by the U. S. circuit court in New Orleans.

The circuit court said the Texas liquor control act limited the transportation of liquor through the state to licensed common carriers—such as truck lines and railroads. Rainey appealed to the supreme court from this decision.

Texas Is Ranked Fourth In Automotive Registrations

AUSTIN, Dec. 6 (AP) — Automotive registrations in Texas have climbed 250,000 over the same period last year, placing the state fourth in the nation in total number of vehicles registered, E. J. Amey, director of the motor vehicle division of the Texas Department of Public Safety, reported today.

Amey said that at the end of November, Texas had 2,243,424 vehicles registered. This was an increase, he said, of 250,000 over the same period last year.

He predicted that the record-breaking increase will continue and that by the end of the year registrations will total 2,400,000.

Program For Oil Meet Announced

AUSTIN, Dec. 6 (AP) — Two governors and a congressman are on the list of seven speakers who will be on the program for the Interstate Oil Compact commission's annual meeting Dec. 9-11 at Wichita Kansas.

The program was announced today by Gov. Beauford H. Jester, chairman of the commission.

Tidelands Review Set

Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas will open the general session the morning of Dec. 10 with a discussion of "what conservation and ratable taking of natural gas mean to my state."

Hiram M. Dow of Roswell, N. M., immediate past chairman of the commission, will explain New Mexico's proposed gas conservation law.

Jester will include a review of the tidelands situation in his annual report.

N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, province of Alberta, Canada, will discuss oil and gas development in Alberta and will outline production activities and conservation work.

Dr. George H. Fancher, professor of petroleum engineering at the University of Texas, will speak on "gas conservation and secondary recovery." H. J. Wagner, chief of the gas section, public service commission of West Virginia, will discuss "storage of gas as a conservation measure."

The historical development of gas conservation legislation from a state and national standpoint will be traced by Rep. Ross Rizley of Guymon, Okla., author of the Rizley bill to define authority of the Federal Power commission.

Standing committees of the compact will meet at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 9, to devote the day to various studies.

Ernest O. Thompson of the Texas Railroad commission, chairman of the oil policy subcommittee, has called a meeting for Wednesday, Dec. 8, to draft a proposal for submission.

The compact commission will hold its business session Saturday Dec. 11, when officers and executive committeemen for 1949 will be elected.

San Antonio Girl Is Named March Of Dimes Poster Child

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—Pretty Linda Iris Brown of San Antonio, who will be four years old Jan. 13, has been named poster child for the 1949 March of Dimes campaign.

Her birthday will be the day before the campaign starts. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced the selection yesterday. It said Linda was a victim of infantile paralysis in 1946.

She is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Brown, jr., of San Antonio.

Joe W. Cornett, Of Afton, Dies After Long Illness

Joe W. Cornett, 62, of Afton, died at 1:30 p. m. Monday in his home, following a long illness. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. today in the Afton Baptist church, with Reverend Stokes, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in the Matador cemetery under the direction of McDonald Funeral home, of Afton.

Cornett was a retired farmer who had resided in the Afton area approximately 47 years. Survivors include his wife; four sons, C. J., of Wingate; and James, Joseph and John, all of Afton; one daughter, Mrs. Gaynell Wilcher, of Afton; one brother, W. H., of Electra; one sister, Mrs. J. E. Russell, of Afton, and one grandchild.

Should a Bride keep her job?

AMERICAN FAMILY CLOSE-UP
As they go, so goes the nation!

Like so many other newly-weds today, this was the first problem Dana and Evelyn Mox of Dayton, Ohio, had to face . . .

From honeymoon to money matters, their new life is exciting, challenging, to Dana and Evelyn Mox! Married just last June, they started with no house, no furniture, and only "rainy-day money" in the bank.

Even on Dana's pay as a tool maker in a chemical plant, it wouldn't be easy, they saw, both to provide for the children they hope for and to plan for the kind of life they want. Not with rising prices and a world far from calm! How best to reach their goals . . . and have their share of fun besides? What if Evelyn kept on with her job? Would the advantages outweigh the drawbacks?

The Moxes knew it would take careful management to have a happy home life if she kept her job too. But they decided it was well worth a try . . .

Dana and Evelyn know any family has more happiness, fewer worries by planning together, managing money together!

They work in the plant where they met, have same hours, drive to work together. As secretary to purchasing agent, she adds $165 a month to Dana's $279 "take-home" pay. But her job means higher taxes; extra clothes, lunches.

Shopping's harder for a working wife. Evelyn must market after work or Saturdays. But deciding menus together and finding what bargains they can is fun! Including lunches at the plant, food costs them $22.50 a week.

Time for fun is doubly appreciated by a working couple. "By planning fixed expenses in advance," they explain, "we know just what we can afford for bowling and other things. So we don't worry about spending too much!"

Dana shares the chores because of Evelyn's all-day job. Shampooing rug was his initiation into housekeeping! Even the washing machine holds no mysteries for Mr. Mox!

Now they have definite goals for the $90 a month they hope to save by both working! As to furniture, for example, the newly-weds are learning to know what they both like by visiting the stores together. By starting out in a $65-a-month furnished apartment, they gave themselves time to decide just what kind of house they want, too.

Even before they married, they worked out their life insurance plans! Already they have two retirement income life insurance policies that will total $13,725 at age 65. They're planning with their agent for more. As a fixed monthly item, they put $31.86 towards their present life insurance protection. "We know the kind of future we want," the Moxes will tell you, "and we're finding it fun to work as a team and stick to our budget to get a good start!"

A second honeymoon like their first in Florida is in the Moxes' "Someday Book." They're digging in now to make all their dreams come true sooner!

THE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES AND THEIR AGENTS

BRING YOU THIS STORY BECAUSE... families like the Moxes show us one way that happiness is earned! You, yourself, probably know a family, right in your own town, that is getting ahead in the same typically American way. Such families prove to all of us that we can solve our own problems by our own efforts. . . . Their example shows too why it is so important for us to hold to our rights to think for ourselves, to work at what we like, to live as we choose. For what this country amounts to depends upon what happens to its homes!

MARKET CONTINUES GAINS

NEW YORK, Dec. 6. (AP)—Stocks managed to stay slightly higher today after the market weathered some mild selling pressure.

Trading was against a background of the rising market of last week, the best since the election, and domestic and international developments over the week end, all considered favorable.

Oils held their gains most of the day with Skelly up 2 at 11¢ and Barnsdall up 2 at 45, a new high this year. Atlas Corp. entered a bid of 40 for some 200,000 shares of Barnsdall to add to the 500,000 already held. Floyd B. Odlum, Atlas president, said the bid would be retained until the first of the year or until the shares were acquired.

Among issues going higher were U. S. Steel up ⅝ at 72⅝, Union Pacific up ⅞ at 85½, U. S. Gypsum up 2 at 102¾, Trans-Continental and Western up 1⅛ at 69¾, and Douglas up 1 at 51.

On the downside were Bethlehem off ⅝ at 34, Chrysler off ½ at 53¾, U. S. Rubber off ⅝ at 39¾, Glenn Martin off ¾ at 10¾, Electric Power and Light off ⅝ at 20, American Smelting off ½ at 53½, International Paper off 1 at 51½, Nickel Plate off 1 at 72, Santa Fe off ½ at 102, and Standard Oil (NJ) off ¼ at 73⅜.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .1 of a point to 64.5.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP) — Trade and commission house buying advanced cotton futures today. Initial impetus came from aggressive covering against export sales to France and Japan.

A declaration by Senator Thomas that he will seek a fixed high loan support price for farm crops in place of the flexible provisions of the existing farm legislation, influenced some buying.

Washington also said that a new liberal aid program for China next year was being considered.

The heavy loan movement in cotton and the failure of offerings to increase, although nearby futures were nearly two cents a pound above the loan level at Memphis were firming factors.

Cotton futures weakened sharply in late dealings as increased profit-taking and hedging outweighed trade demand.

Futures closed 40 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher than the previous close.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (AP) — Corn showed the most strength on the board of trade today. Advances in the yellow cereal ran to more than a cent at times with cash houses active buyers of the December contract.

Wheat sold off toward the close after showing some strength in early trading. The gains in the forepart of the session were sufficient to send December wheat to a new high since Feb. 4.

The market also was helped by a statement by Senator Thomas (D-Okla.) favoring continued high government support levels for agriculture products.

Wheat closed ⅛ lower to ⅝ higher, December $2.42-2.42⅛, corn was ¾-1¾ higher, December $1.45⅝, oats were ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, December 83⅜.
