Canal issue prompts 'real debate'

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) — The arguments are familiar, but the Panama Canal debate is giving Americans the opportunity to hear a rare experience: a genuine gloves-off, give-and-take debate on the Senate floor.

Time after time, senators took the floor Thursday to give their views on the history, politics, legality or economics of the canal issue. But each time, someone from the opposition interrupted to question the accuracy of the speaker's point.

It was not a normal Senate session, in which debate often seems a lost art. So why the unusual drama that playing itself out coast-to-coast via National Public Radio?

Because, as Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., noted, the treaties "still don't have the votes to pass the Senate. ... What goes on here will decide the outcome."

Baker, who supports the treaties, agrees with his opponents that this debate is a rarity in that arguments on the floor might change key votes or sway one of the handful of undecideds.

Most polls indicate opponents are about three votes shy of the 34 needed to preclude the treaties' ratification. Both must be approved by a two-thirds majority.

Thursday's debates covered a multitude of points.

Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., sparred with James Allen, D-Allen., and Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., over whether a Panamanian had signed the 1903 treaty that gave the United States the Canal Zone.

Byrd said no Panamanian actually signed the document.

Laxalt interrupted him. "The treaty was ratified by the people and the federal government of Panama," he told Byrd.

"As if it were with a pistol at its temple," Byrd parried.

Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, and Clifford Case, R-N.J., debated whether the treaties would require large appropriations of American tax dollars to keep the waterway open in the future.

Hatch, one of the opposition's leading spokesmen, clashed with Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., over legal points involved in the canal issue.

There were disagreements over Panamanian politics, over how well Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos might adhere to the treaties and over his government's human rights record.

Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, another supporter of the proposed treaties, said the 1903 agreement was "unjust."

Jake Garn, R-Utah, interjected that, as a real estate bargain, the 1903 deal was dwarfed by the U.S. purchase of Alaska from the Russians.

"We really ripped off the Russians like no other deal in the history of the earth," Garn said.

Coming Sunday ...

Perry Holley professes a "profound love of nature" and a fascination with birds — songbirds, game fowl, eagles.

Holley, a former Midland cabinetmaker, puts his flair for nature and birds into wood carvings of birds of the Southwest. The product of his whittling art usually goes to Neiman-Marcus, where his birds are worth much more than their weight in gold.

You can read about Holley in Sunday's West Texas Life section in The Reporter-Telegram.

Photographer Brian Hendershot focused on the artist and his works, and writer Ed Todd took some notes and "wrote the man up."

It starts with a shout and a cry for help, and hopefully ends with a life saved instead of lost.

It's Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation, or CPR for short.

In Sunday's Reporter-Telegram, staff writer Brooks Keller follows a recent article with a second look at CPR and its life-sustaining techniques.

Lozano autopsies will be reviewed

By BROOKS KELLER
R-T Staff Writer

ODESSA—Ector County District Attorney John Green said Thursday that he will personally deliver the evidence and reports of two separate autopsies on the Jan. 22 death of Larry Lozano in Ector County Jail to Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk in Houston.

Dr. Jachimczyk is the medical examiner for Harris County. Green said that he would make the trip to Houston on next Monday or Tuesday, and that a Tuesday coroner's hearing would have to be postponed, probably until around March 1.

Earlier Thursday, Dr. Jachimczyk told The Reporter-Telegram that he had not had contact thus far with either of the pathologists who conducted autopsies on the body of Lozano.

These are Dr. Kris Challipalli of Medical Center Hospital here, and Dr. Frederick Bornstein, El Paso County medical examiner.

Dr. Challipalli's findings have not been made public so far. She made the first autopsy on Lozano's body.

Dr. Bornstein made a second autopsy, at the request of the Lozano family. His autopsy reportedly found Lozano's death "incompatible with suicide."

Green said Thursday that the El Paso doctor had told him (Green) that he could not determine the exact cause of death.

Green said the autopsy material he will deliver in Houston next week will consist of written reports from the two pathologists and slides and tissue cultures.

Dr. Jachimczyk said Thursday that he had not been subpoenaed for the Feb. 14 hearing and that he did not think he would be present for it.

But, he admitted, "a lot can happen between now and then."

Peace Justice Virgil Lumpee said today that any evidence uncovered by a U.S. Department of Justice inquiry would go to a federal court.

Lumpee said Dr. Jachimczyk may be able to look at the autopsies at early as Tuesday night. He said he did not know when Dr. Challipalli's report would be turned into him.

Lumpee noted that whatever the findings of the coroner's hearing were he would give a transcript of the hearing to the district clerk to pass on to the grand jury.

Officials say Carter okayed surveillance

By BILL MCALLISTER and CHARLES R. BARCOCK
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — President Carter personally approved secret television surveillance of an American recently accused of stealing classified diplomatic cables for an international network of Vietnamese communist agents, officials familiar with the case said Thursday.

The television monitoring of the office of U.S. Information Agency employee Ronald Louis Humphrey was done without a court order. It was the first such surveillance authorized by the Carter administration against an American citizen in a national security case.

The trial of Humphrey and Truong Dinh Hung, the Vietnamese native also charged in the case, is likely to provide a major new test of the inherent powers a president can invoke in the name of national security.

This is so, legal experts said Thursday because the television monitoring is said to have produced much of the government evidence in the case, and because the legal basis for such surveillance is unclear.

Electronic surveillance of Americans is permitted without a court order only in national security cases. The Supreme Court has never ruled on the constitutionality of such presidential powers. And, although a few cases have upheld such executive right, the most recent circuit court ruling said the president has no such inherent power.

Attorney General Griffin B. Bell also approved a wiretap of Truong during the investigation, under a more general authority from the president, officials said Thursday.

Electronic surveillance of Americans is permitted only in national security cases without a court order.

Warrants for such surveillance can be obtained from judges during criminal investigations such as espionage cases.

One well-placed Justice Department official said Thursday that a warrant wasn't sought in the Vietnamese spy case because it wasn't clear at first that a criminal prosecution would result.

The official emphasized that Carter and Bell took great precautions not to unnecessarily intrude on the right of American citizens in such cases, and that the television surveillance of Humphrey's office wasn't considered "especially intrusive."

"We didn't listen in on his phone or bug his house," the official said. "What we wanted to know was he was taking and who he was giving it to."

Humphrey's attorney, A. Andrew Giangreco, conceded Thursday in Richmond, Va., that during a court

Monsieur had highest place in owner's home

Melvin and Evalena Simmons are heartbroken over the loss of their pet, Monsieur, a French toy poodle which was kept in a state of royalty.

Theirs is a universal grief: the death of a loved one.

"He was our little pride and joy for 13½ years," Mrs. Simmons said of the six-pound poodle. "He was a gentle, sweet thing," she said.

Monsieur, with his pedigree, was like a child to them.

"To us, he wasn't a dog," said Simmons. "He really didn't know he was a dog."

Monsieur, who had been in poor health for two years, died at 5 p.m. on Jan. 14. Mr. and Mrs. Simmons were at his side when Monsieur slipped into a coma and died two days later.

Monsieur suffered from heart trouble, kidney problems, arthritis "and he had vertebrae that were separated in his back," Simmons said.

Monsieur lived to be 13 years, two months and 20 days old, Simmons said.

Simmons credits the last two years of their pet's life to medical science and to the care of Monsieur's doctor, Odessa veterinarian John Bill Oman.

"We enjoyed him two more years due to Dr. Oman," Simmons said.

Monsieur came into the Simmons household at age five weeks in 1964. He was a gift from Simmons' mother, Leora Trice of Midland.

Monsieur's coming was, in a sense, timely. A year later, the Simmons 17-year-old pet Pekingese, Teddy, was killed just outside their home in

Midlanders take issue with proposed textbooks

By MARLEEN RAY

After listening to opinions of two persons concerning textbooks under consideration for adoption by Midland public schools, Superintendent James H. Mailey said the textbook committee plans to make a recommendation to the school board in March.

During the public hearing of the textbook committee, the first one the committee has had in many years, according to Mailey, Elaine Mitchell appeared before the members and gave her views of the literature books proposed for adoption for seventh and eighth graders.

She said, as a parent, she would not recommend the adoption of "Focus: Themes in Literature, Themes and Writers" for seventh graders nor the second text in the series, "Perception: Themes in Literature, Themes and Writers," for eighth graders because she felt the discussion questions at the end of each story were "too controversial."

For examples, she cited such discussion questions as "It's easier to be law-abiding if you're not too smart," "Puerto Ricans cheat their neighbors" and "Man cannot escape his savage nature."

Mrs. Mitchell pointed out that discussion questions stating it is better to have peace than scientific advancement are "kind of deep" for seventh-grade students.

She said these discussion questions are designed to change the attitudes of children, not improve their reading.

In her objections to the books, "Projection in Literature" for seventh-grade students and its eighth-grade counterpart, "Counterpoint in Literature," Mrs. Mitchell said she thought they contained "much death-oriented literature ... more than I think belongs in a seventh or eighth grade book." She read a paragraph from one of the stories, describing a child beating a buzzard to death.

Mrs. Mitchell also voiced strong objections to the classic story called "The Tell-Tale Heart," by Edgar Allan Poe, carried in the text for seventh graders, "Introduction to Literature." She said the story was "too gruesome" for a seventh-grade student since it described a man suffocating another, dismembering the corpse and hiding the pieces under the floor boards.

Instead of these textbooks, Mrs. Mitchell said she recommended the school district adopt the series, "Adventures for Readers," since, in her opinion, "these books will help our children to appreciate good literature, at an impressionable age."

She said, although the literature books, "Focus on Action" and "Focus on People," hadn't arrived for review by the committee or other interested person, she understood that it is a good series and recommended it as her second choice for adoption.

Mrs. Mitchell said her reviews are based on work done by Mel Gabler, educational research analyst, in Longview, who appears before the state textbook committee every year in Austin.

In the second appearance before the committee, H. G. Orson presented his reviews and recommendations of books on free enterprise being considered for adoption by the district. Orson represented Leonard H.

Caryl, who originally requested to appear before the committee but was unable to do so at the last minute.

Orson said, although neither textbook up for adoption was totally satisfactory for educating students about free enterprise, the book, "Fundamentals of the American Free Enterprise System," is the better one, and he recommended it.

However, he said if it is adopted by the district, it should be supplemented with books that "demonstrate the theory and practice of true laissez-faire capitalism" to counteract the government-oriented bias of the book. He said this book fails to define or explain inflation, which he considers "probably the most single important economic question of our day."

Passenger count grows

The Midland Regional Air Terminal set an all time record of 342,177 emplaned passengers in 1977, representing a 46 percent increase in passengers boarded in 1977 over those in 1976, Director of City Aviation Col. Wilson Banks said Thursday.

With about the same total of incoming passengers, and considering those people who came to the airport to meet or see someone depart, it can be assumed that approximately one million people utilized the terminal during 1977 for one purpose or another, he said.

Man charged in robberies

An Odessa man charged Jan. 30 with the Jan. 17 aggravated robbery of the Desert Inn Liquor Store, 3101 Bankhead Highway, is now in Midland City Jail charged with the Desert Inn robbery, the Jan. 17 robbery of the B & B Liquor Store and forgery.

Frankie James Warden, 24, was taken into custody Jan. 30 by Ector County Sheriff's deputies on felony and misdemeanor warrants out of Ector County, a felony warrant out of Harris County and a warrant for armed robbery out of Midland County.

Warden was transferred to Midland's jail Thursday afternoon, after bonds had been set in Ector and Harris counties.

According to Capt. Billy Ray, Midland Police Department, the original warrant for Warden was issued by Peace Justice Robert H. Pine Jan. 19.

At the time the warrant was issued, investigation continued on whether the robbery of the Desert Inn Liquor Store was connected to the robbery of the B & B Liquor Store, 612 N. Big Spring, Ray said.

The two armed robberies occurred within 30 minutes of each other.

Big Spring police investigating

BIG SPRING — Big Spring police this morning still were investigating leads in the shooting death early Thursday morning of 69-year-old Enrique Longoria.

Longoria had just returned home from work shortly after midnight, when two men pounded on the door, police said.

Police said Longoria's wife started to open the door, but attempted to slam it shut when she saw the men were wearing ski masks. The two men then shot their way into the house and shot Longoria about six times with an automatic pistol, police said.

Police have not determined yet exactly how many times Longoria was shot.

Mrs. Longoria's purse was taken, police said, but it is uncertain whether robbery was a motive.

No arrest had been made as of early this morning.

U. T. regents in session

ODESSA — Regents of The University of Texas System are in session here today, taking a look at both the problems and opportunities of the far-flung system.

They are to hear V. R. Cardozer, president of The University of Texas of the Permian Basin this morning, speaking on teaching innovations at UTPB.

Before the meeting Cardozer had said that UTPB began classes in 1973 using many innovations, and that the track record has been good, although not everything tried has lived up to his expectations.

"My own assessment is that we have enjoyed probably more successes with innovations than we reasonably could have anticipated, particularly with respect to the quality of teaching achieved," he said.

The meeting in Odessa is part of a plan whereby the regents meet at a different component institution in the system at each meeting.

An Odessa man charged Jan. 30 with the Jan. 17 aggravated robbery of the Desert Inn Liquor Store, 3101 Bankhead Highway, is now in Midland City Jail charged with the Desert Inn robbery, the Jan. 17 robbery of the B & B Liquor Store and forgery.

Frankie James Warden, 24, was taken into custody Jan. 30 by Ector County Sheriff's deputies on felony and misdemeanor warrants out of Ector County, a felony warrant out of Harris County and a warrant for armed robbery out of Midland County.

Warden was transferred to Midland's jail Thursday afternoon, after bonds had been set in Ector and Harris counties.

According to Capt. Billy Ray, Midland Police Department, the original warrant for Warden was issued by Peace Justice Robert H. Pine Jan. 19.

At the time the warrant was issued, investigation continued on whether the robbery of the Desert Inn Liquor Store was connected to the robbery of the B & B Liquor Store, 612 N. Big Spring, Ray said.

The two armed robberies occurred within 30 minutes of each other.

Angry mine workers jam UMW headquarters

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of angry miners opposed to a tentative contract jammed United Mine Workers headquarters today as the union's bargaining council gathered to decide whether to submit the agreement to a rank-and-file vote.

"Vote it down," they shouted as bargaining council members arrived. Some carried petitions seeking the ouster of union President Arnold Miller.

Union officials said about 500 demonstrators had arrived from Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Before the miners arrived in buses and cars, angry leaders in the Appalachian coalfields had pressured bargaining council members to reject the contract.

The union has been on strike for 67 days.

Jerry Ames, who arrived this morning from Wheeling, W. Va., said he opposed the contract because there are "too many things in it (the contract) hurting us miners."

"We want our health card completely restored," he said, referring to the benefits under the current UMW health plan. It is slated under the new contract to be replaced by the membership for ratification. If it is rejected, UMW President Arnold Miller must return to the bargaining table with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

Union sources in Washington said that if the bargaining council had voted Thursday, the tentative pact would have been defeated 24-15.

The agreement's most controversial provisions include penalties for chronically absent miners and those who participate in wildcat strikes. It would also raise the individual company plans requiring employee contributions.

William Cunningham, president of UMW Local 2284 in Fairmont, W. Va., denounced Miller as having "no guts" and said the union president "can't have any brains to put out a contract like that."

Among those passing out recall petitions were Hays Holstein, former president of Miller's home Local 1757 in Cabin Creek, W. Va.

Before today's meeting, votes urging rejection of the pact were passed by local presidents in District 6, which covers Ohio and northern

West Virginia, and by the executive board of District 29 in southern West Virginia.

The Department of Energy estimates that nationally, utilities have a 68-day reserve of coal. But some power plants have less than half that.

Should the contract be ratified, "I think it'll be the end of the union," said Cecil Roberts, vice president of Charleston, W. Va., based District 17, the largest in the union.

Pet had high place far west Midland. A car ran over her. "She liked to take a stroll late in the evenings," Simmons said of Teddy.

That year (1965), the Simmonses oldest son, Gene, graduated from high school in Midland and went off to college. Three years later, their other son, Mike, did the same thing.

But Monsieur was there, and filled the Simmonses with joy. And wherever they went on out-of-town travels, Monsieur was with them. Simmons, a claims manager for an insurance company, was and is on the road a good deal.

"He followed me everywhere I went," Simmons said, "and when I stopped, he'd sit on my foot."

Monsieur was quite select with whom he chose to keep company, however briefly.

"He couldn't stand cats. He hated cats," Simmons said.

And with rare exception, he couldn't stand other dogs.

That exception was Gigi Jones, the 9-year-old French toy poodle living with Roy and Louise Jones of Midland. But Monsieur and Gigi were "just friends." Their relationship never developed into an affair. It was about as platonic as one dog can be to another.

"He never would mate . . ." Mrs. Simmons said. As far as Monsieur was concerned, no other creature on earth "was equivalent to him," she said. "The rest of them, as far as he was concerned, were 'dogs.'"

The simple passing of time has taken Monsieur from the midst of the Simmonses.

They won't forget him. For one thing, his grave is in their backyard.

Pipeline application to be mailed

RANKIN — Upton County officials expect to mail today a pre-application form to the Farm Home Administration in Temple for a 98.7-mile water pipeline between Big Spring and the Upton County cities of Rankin and McCamey.

The cost of the pipeline, water treatment plant and 50 million gallon water storage plant is $10,375,000.

The pre-application form proposes to finance the project with a $3 million grant, $2 million loan and the sale of $5,375,000 in bonds.

"We might survive this summer, but I doubt if we can survive the next (without the pipeline)," said Upton County Attorney John A. Menefee of the water situation in Rankin and McCamey.

The proposal was approved by the board of directors of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission on Wednesday.

According to the pre-application, "The future of Rankin, McCamey and all of Upton County depends upon the development of an adequate and proper water supply system. Without such a system, it is conceivable that the residents would be forced to relocate to communities which can provide such a water system."

'It ain't fair!'

"Why do you allow me only $675 income deduction to raise my child for one year when you allow $1,200 per year for a Cuban refugee? And if a Cuban boy or girl is going to school, an extra $1,000 per year?"

Good questions, and they are asked by "A Harassed Taxpayer," in an article appearing in a recent issue of the El Paso Scottish Rite Bulletin.

Perhaps the United States Government, to whom the questions undoubtedly were directed, has the answers. If so, they are awaited with interest.

The harassed taxpayer didn't stop with the questions, however. He or she continued, as follows:

"You allow $2,390 to keep a man in the federal pen. Retired persons receive $168 per month under Social Security but you say I need less than $57 per month for my child's cost."

"The Vista Training Program costs $3.1 million to train only 202 young people. This is more than $15,000 per year per trainee. The Job Corps so far has spent approximately $18,000 per year to train each high school dropout. To feed, clothe and train a boy in the armed forces costs $1,076.14 but you expect me to do the same for my youngsters on $675.

"But this is what takes the cake; you allow me only $675 to take care of my child, but will give through A.D.C. (Aid to Dependent Children) $800 to care for an illegitimate child. This leads me to believe you feel that child is more important than mine."

"I am yelling Uncle, because I think it's time someone pointed out these inconsistencies."

Yes, it certainly is, and the harassed taxpayer has done a good job in this respect.

In yelling "Uncle," as the taxpayer has done, perhaps Uncle Sam will get the message and at least provide some explanation to these perplexing problems.

Unusual J. A. product

The young people who form and operate miniature business firms under the Junior Achievement program in Midland and elsewhere, often come up with some most unusual products to manufacture and market.

But a J. A. group in Anchorage, Alaska, chose a product which beats all, insofar as is known.

Realizing that one sure way to make a buck is to make and sell something which always is in demand, the Anchorage Achievers decided on coffins — yes, that's correct, coffins.

When the suggestion first was heard, the youths thought it was made as a jest, but it wasn't, and the choice ultimately was made, particularly after they found that they could make $30 on each one.

The coffins are produced at a rate of one per two-hour meeting. At last account, the company had sold three.

The coffins, according to a news release from Alaska, are simple hinged boxes, made of plywood and equipped with slender brass handles. They are sold for $50 to an Anchorage funeral home.

And the funeral home is glad to purchase them. It usually buys the coffins from a Seattle firm for $55 or $60. But there often is a delay in delivery of from four to six weeks, a spokesman for the home said. Delivery is much more prompt from the Junior Achievement company — usually a week.

Junior Achievement's goal is to teach high school students the workings of the free enterprise system, and this is an example of free enterprise at its best.

Midland Junior Achievement just last week staged its annual J. A. Fair, so it's a bit late for this year, just in case the J. A. companies here get any ideas.

But don't be surprised if you see a J.A.-made coffin or some product just as unusual at the 1979 Midland Junior Achievement Fair.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Was N.J. politician's trial fair?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — U.S. marshals are supposed to safeguard juries from outside influences that might interfere with a defendant's constitutional right to a fair trial.

But shocking, secret evidence has been developed that several federal marshals seriously compromised the jurors who returned a guilty verdict against a leading New Jersey political figure. The incident raises questions about the conduct of U.S. marshals in other courts.

The secret evidence has been laid before federal Judge Lawrence Whipple in his chambers. He has issued stern orders to everyone involved in the scandal not to talk to the press. We have been able, nevertheless, to dig out the details.

The story grew out of the 1974 conviction of New Jersey's former Republican Party leader, Nelson Gross, for tax fraud. He was sentenced to two years in prison and was paroled after five months.

But last February the marshal who had been assigned to oversee the sequestered Gross jury, Leon Harvey Stacey, told the FBI that he and other marshals had romanced some of the jurors during the trial.

Naming jurors who had participated in sex parties with the marshals, he alleged in an affidavit that they "did not have Nelson Gross on their minds during their deliberations and could not have cared less about his guilt or innocence or the instructions of the judge."

Stacey confessed that he had applied "subtle and indirect" persuasion on one juror "to convince her that the government represented the good guys." He indicated it was the practice, or "office motto" as he put it, of the marshals to use their subtle influence to help the government win cases.

In the Gross case, Stacey related how he and another marshal had worked on two female jurors. "Both admired our guns, badges and all the paraphernalia of our positions and authority," he attested. "It was easy for me to persuade (her) that Nelson Gross, as a politician, would receive merely a slap-on-the-wrist treatment if he were found guilty."

Stacey also took advantage of the Watergate atmosphere. "We all knew," he said, "Nelson Gross was part of the Nixon administration. It was therefore easy for me to elude to a general disenchantment with politicians. In other words, as part of the romancing of the juror, my reference to politicians was always in a negative, screw-them attitude."

Stacey confessed that he wound up having sexual relations with the juror for the reason simply of wanting to score and make out with her.

He has expanded upon his affidavit during five days of closed hearings before Judge Whipple. Corroborative evidence has also been introduced, including allegations that still another marshal developed a close relationship with another juror. This marshal allegedly took the juror with him on a later trip to transport some prisoners and, incredibly, arranged

CHARLEY REESE: Public pressure is last hope for Edw. Kuznetsov

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — It is not often any of us has the opportunity to save a life, but each of you who is reading this now has such an opportunity.

The life belongs to Edward Kuznetsov. As you read this he is, if it is not too late, a prisoner in Camp 10, Mordovia, the Soviet Union. His is a life very much worth saving.

With the last weapon left to him, his life, he is defying his oppressors with a hunger strike to the death. His wife, Sylvia, who was freed four years ago and is in the U.S. on a speaking tour in his behalf, says he will not give in.

I have just read his "Prison Diaries," which he kept and managed to smuggle out and I believe her. This is one of those great individuals in whose soul the fire of freedom burns so intensely that no amount of torture or oppression can break his spirit. He is the rare man who can be destroyed but not defeated.

Kuznetsov's father was a Jew but he died when the boy was three years old. Kuznetsov was reared a Russian and his internal passport is stamped Russian. He knew nothing of Jewish religion or culture as a child.

His first act of defiance was to publish what the Soviet authorities considered "anti-Soviet" literature. For that, he served seven years in prison. While in prison, he became aware of the anti-Semitism the Soviet government encourages and he became aware that two-thirds of the dissidents in Russia are Jewish.

As an act of both faith and defiance, he insisted, upon being released, that he be classified as a Jew. Soviet officials have refused. For just two years, he was outside prison walls. He married and with 10 other young Russians plotted a desperate attempt to escape from the Soviet Union.

The KGB, the Russian secret police, learned of the plot from the first moment, yet they allowed the young people to proceed until the last few hours. Their plan had been to capture an empty plane and fly to freedom. They never got to the airport.

In a show trial in 1970, the 11 were tried in Leningrad for treason. Kuznetsov and one other received the death sentence. The other received prison sentences ranging from eight to 15 years. A few days later, the death sentences were commuted to 15 years in prison.

Sylvia, who is now a citizen of Israel, hopes to create enough public pressure on Soviet authorities to release her husband or at the least allow him visitors who can talk him out of his hunger strike.

His health is ruined but the Soviets are force-feeding him. For some Byzantine reason, they do not wish him to die, and for the same obscure reasons, they are sometimes susceptible to public pressure, which is the last hope of Edward Kuznetsov.

It is only a coincidence but he and I have the same birthday. I am celebrating mine as I write this, comfortably at home on a sunny afternoon, surrounded by the people I love most. The very act of writing a newspaper column without fear is a demonstration of the freedom we in this country take for granted but which for Kuznetsov, in all his 39 years, has been only a dream.

God, how I hate tyranny but how easy it is to hate it from a free country. At this moment, Kuznetsov sits in a dark, cold cell shut off from the human beings who love him, ill and in pain, yet magnificently defying the tyrants who actually have their hands around his neck.

In one interview with a KGB officer, the policeman shook his head and said, "If in 20 years they told me Kuznetsov had reformed, I wouldn't believe them," and Kuznetsov replied, "And how right you'd be!"

Please help this man. Sit down and write four letters. Two to your U.S. senators, one to President Jimmy Carter. Ask them to put pressure on the Soviet Union to release Kuznetsov. The fourth, address to: Anatoly F. Dobrynin, 1125 16th St., N.W., Washington, D.C., 20036. He is the Soviet ambassador.

A few moments of your time and 52 cents worth of postage may save a brave man's life. Public pressure in these cases is like adding weights to a scale. Your letter may be the one that tips the balance.

The man is drowning. Will you just watch or will you reach out with your hand? Now that you know, your conscience can never escape the consequences of your decision.

By now you know that John Wayne has been made an honorary commodore in the Panamanian Navy.

He must be mellowing, having come out in favor of giving back the Panama Canal. This is a severe wound to Ronald Reagan, whose response was, "Et tu, Duke?"

That's quite a switch for the old cowboy. In his next movie he'll probably play an Indian.

John Wayne looked into the mirror and said, "Mirror, mirror, on the wall, who's the toughest hawk of all?" And the mirror answered, "Would you believe Robert Dole?"

INSIDE REPORT:

Deletion of six little words triggers doubt, fear

By ROWLANDE EVANS
And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The deletion of six little words from the official testimony given to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last July by William F. Schauffele Jr. has triggered doubt and fear in the government of Greek Prime Minister Constantine Karamanlis over U.S. intentions in the Aegean Sea, an explosive hotbed in the crisis between Greece and Turkey.

This unreported event must be perceived in the light of a new phase-out of World Bank aid and a cutback of grant military aid for Greece. Both of these are viewed by the strong pro-Greek congressional lobby as pressure on Greece to show flexibility in its dangerous Aegean Sea dispute with Turkey over control of the continental shelf and air space over the sea.

What deeply disturbs Greece's powerful allies here is the overall political impact on Karamanlis, severely weakened in last November's election, and on President Carter's uphill fight to restore the integrity and strength of NATO's southern flank.

It was on July 12 that Schauffele was questioned on his appointment as ambassador to Greece. Until now, the withdrawal of Schauffele's name for that post has been attributed to Greek anger over his use of the phrase "unusual," I must admit, arrangements governing Greece's sovereignty over Aegean Sea islands almost touching the coast of Turkey.

In fact, however, Schauffele (since named ambassador to Poland) was ruled unacceptable by the Karamanlis government not by those words. What triggered Karamanlis's wrath was deletion of the last six words in the following State Department "correction" of Schauffele's testimony on ownership of the Aegean islands:

"This ownership is based on longstanding international agreements which the United States fully supports."

Shortly after that correction for the official record had been submitted to the Foreign Relations Committee, the State Department ordered the very same words deleted, a fact discovered by Elias Demetrapoulos and quickly transmitted to Athens. Demetrapoulos is a Greek expatriate and former Athens newspaperman now living in Washington. He is best known for his relentless opposition to the former Greek military dictatorship. U.S. officials vehemently deny any U.S. intention or long-range consideration of any sort for reopening the 1923 Lausanne Treaty, which gave Greece ownership of the controversial offshore islands. Indeed, not even Turkey has questioned the treaty.

But the result of the deletion of that phrase — "which the United States fully supports" — caused anguish in Athens, raising the obvious question of why the phrase was struck unless there is at least some future intention of tampering with the treaty.

That a government led by as sophisticated a prime minister as Karamanlis should be traumatized by what may conceivably have been no more than middle-level bureaucratic stupidity at the State Department shows the extreme delicacy of the Greek-Turkish dispute — and the overwhelming influence on it of U.S. policy.

Thus, within days of the unannounced correction, top-level conversations were taking place within the Greek government on the "extremely dangerous" implications of any future change in the Lausanne Treaty. The chamber of horrors exposed by these conversations was what really persuaded Karamanlis to refuse to accept Schauffele as ambassador (an inalienable right of any government).

Starting with the horror of Turkish pressure on the offshore islands, these include long-standing Bulgarian demands for an outlet of its own to the Aegean Sea across a narrow strip of territory now held by Turkey. Any juridical change in the Aegean Sea would automatically open up this demand, with the Soviet Union standing to gain a Warsaw Pact outlet to the Mediterranean, bypassing the Dardanelles.

To Carter administration diplomats, Greek preoccupation with such future hobboblins may be patently ridiculous, but Karamanlis believes—the hobboblins—could materialize. On Aug. 18, 1976, then Prime Minister Demirel of Turkey referred to the disputed islands this way: "They are not Greek islands. Do not call them this way. You should say Aegean islands."

Karamanlis immediately accused Demirel of "demagogic and contradictory statements." The Greek prime minister's private reaction to the deletion of these six little words by the State Department is not very different.

Chaps sock it to OC with 94-85 loop upset

BY TED BATTLES

It has taken three years, but the Midland and Odessa college basketball rivalry came of age Thursday before a crowd that came as close to capacity as they've ever had in the MC gym and one that easily ranked as the most argumentative debaters ever to see a game in the still-young and innocent arena.

And the Chaparral fans were rewarded with a 94-85 victory over the Western Junior College Conference leaders.

Understandably, first-year coach Jerry Stone was delighted by the upset that squared the season's series league win apiece.

"I'M NOT taking anything away from Odessa. They are a good team," Stone said, "but we never felt we played a good game against Odessa College this season and tonight the team went out on the floor feeling we were going to play like we could."

The result was probably the Chaps' finest effort of the season as they raised their WJCC record to 5-9 which Stone feels still keeps MC in the running for a regional tournament-playoff berth. "I know we are down in the standings, but some of those teams ahead of us are only one or two wins up and we still have a chance. If we finish fifth, there would be a playoff with the fourth place team in the eastern conference."

That would just about mean finishing 9-9, but Stone believes the way the team played Thursday, that's not impossible.

THE LAST time the teams met, OC won 96-87, so what was the difference this time?

"We have had a lot of little problems throughout the year...new coach, friction with the coach and some of the players, and that injury to Cullen (Mayfield, the 5-9 point guard who had missed more than a month of conference play with a thigh injury.)

"In the last three or four games we've corrected that. We're a good team and we showed it tonight," Stone said.

"This was just a great team effort."

STONE CREDITED the return of Mayfield and the inside-post play of Clifford Taylor and Ricky Hudgins with much of the turnaround. Statistically, there could be no argument. In the league game at OC, the two big guys played like a couple of NFL defensive tackles, 12 points and two rebounds between them.

Thursday, they were poetry in motion. Hudgins scored 27 points, yanked down 17 rebounds and Taylor, playing less time, scored 16 points and had five rebounds.

That enabled the Chaps to monopolize the boards against the Wranglers who had four players with a high of four rebounds.

Rebs, Pack pin season on tonight's games

Coach Don Humphrey's Midland Bulldogs play their biggest game of the season tonight when they travel to Abilene to take on the talented Cooper Cougars in a District 5-4A basketball showdown.

While Midland and Cooper are going at each other, the Midland Lee Rebels and Abilene Eagles meet in a game that is just as important in determining the second half champion.

The Bulldogs and Cougars are 5-0 in the league race while the Rebels and Eagles stand one step behind with 4-1 readings.

Abilene has already won the first half of the race with a 7-0 mark, so Coach James Boynton's Warbirds are in good shape no matter what happens in the next two games as far as being in either the 5-4A playoff game or the Class AAAA playoffs.

MIDLAND KNOCKED off Abilene, 76-70, in the Tall City last week to help throw the second half race up for grabs between the two Midland and Abilene powers.

The Rebels would be in great shape if they should topple Abilene and Midland beat Cooper, thus setting up the Lee-Midland battle Tuesday in the MHS Gymnasium in another showdown battle.

And don't forget that Abilene and Cooper still have to play on Tuesday, so the race is far from being over.

Of course, should Midland beat Cooper and Lee, it would win the second half outright and face Abilene in a one-game playoff to see who faces L. D. Bell in the bi-district game, but the Bulldogs and Rebels could still wind up tied for the title and would meet in a one-game playoff for another shot at Abilene.

Should Abilene wind up in a tie with anybody, the Eagles would advance into the bi-district tilt without a 5-4A playoff game.

TIP-OFF TONIGHT for the two big shootouts is 8 'O clock in the Lee and Cooper Gymnasiums.

Abilene roars into Midland with a 29-4 record in seeking its 30th win of the year while Lee is 21-9 and has been playing well since that big 71-46 loss to Cooper in Abilene.

Boynton pulled a cute stunt on Wednesday stating that he didn't want to use the officials originally chosen for tonight's game with the Rebels in the Lee Gymnasium. This being the case, Athletic Director Sam Cox was forced to call the UIL and get some new officials.

It seems that a visiting coach can change his mind anywhere up to 24 hours before a game and the home team must get new officials.

Lee Coach Paul Stueckler, in his 23 years of coaching, has never gone to these extremes, according to Cox. If Lee should beat Abilene, it won't matter who wins the Cooper-Abilene game, because that would give the Eagles two losses in the second half.

LEE MOST likely will go with Mike Oestmann, 6-5 senior; Dave

Lee, Midland sweep Abilene

The Midland and Lee girls basketball teams both won Thursday night, Midland topping Abilene Cooper, 35-28 and Lee taking an exciting double overtime win from Abilene, 50-48, to set the stage for Monday's big faceoff between the two Tall City teams, strict-5-4A record to 6-0, while the Pack is now 5-1. Thus, the situation looks like this going into Monday's contest:

Should Lee beat Midland, the Rebels would win the league title outright. They tied for the first half title with Midland, and by winning the second half crown, they would represent the district in the playoffs.

Should Midland beat Lee, the two Tall City

Dedeuax immortalized

By JIM MURRAY The Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Ordinarily, to get a baseball stadium named after you, you have to be (1) dead (2) famous or (3) rich. You have to be Connie Mack or have to have led the American League 10 years in batting or home runs, or pitched 40 career shutouts.

But one of the newest of baseball stadium in the country was named after a guy who went to bat a total of four times in two games in the big leagues and got one hit. He drove in a run with it, but nobody names ball fields for .250 hitters unless they were 30-game winners on the side. Also, he is very much alive.

Raoul (Rod) Dedeuax Field on the campus of the University of Southern California is the home field of one of the most important baseball franchises in history. As a minor league farm club, it makes the Newark Bears of the '30s look like a sandlot group.

THE OTHER day an alumni group played the varsity nine in a preseason game at Dedeuax Field, and 26 major league players were on the field. That's probably more than there have been at Anaheim Stadium since the beginning.

To give you an idea of things to come, the major leaguers lost the contest to the college boys, 4-3. As a matter of fact, most of the time it was tough to tell which was which.

The University of Southern California is ordinarily thought of as a football factory, but any baseball man can tell you that's a fallacy. SC turns out more left fielders than left halfbacks. It is not unusual to see the entire USC starting nine signed to major league contracts, sometimes after their freshman seasons. The reason for this remarkable state of affairs is the man who gets the ballpark named after him. Rod Dedeuax is a perpetually sunny Louisianan who can tell a good ballplayer from a mediocre one standing in the dark in two feet of water.

WHEN ROD Dedeuax came to USC, baseball was a backwater sport, very low in profile in the hierarchy of athletics on campus.

The trouble was, baseball was the only major sport in this country which had flourished at the pro-

Clancy gives Spinks chance against champ

By DAVE BRADY
The Washington Post

Gil Clancy, a stand-up fellow who shills for no promoter, thinks Leon Spinks has a chance of beating Muhammad Ali in their heavyweight title fight next week.

The fight manager who dragged George Foreman back from his unsuccessful tilting at Ali's rope-a-dope defense and finishing punches said, "I really think Spinks is going to bang Ali around for seven or eight rounds ... punish him pretty good."

"Then Spinks will run out of gas and Ali will stop him along about the 11th round. The big factor is, Ali can take a tremendous punch or he would be in serious trouble.

"Spinks is no Rademacher," Clancy said, referring to Pete Rademacher, who took on Floyd Patterson with no professional experience. Spinks has had seven pro fights.

"Unlike Rademacher, Spinks is a swarmer who has no respect for Ali. He will go out and tag him. Some guys in the gyms say Spinks will get the decision."

"Patterson was not shot, like Ali is, when Floyd fought Rademacher."

"PATTERSON could still punch and move around fast (in 1957). But Ali is going through the motions now. He hasn't had a good fight since he stopped Joe Frazier in Manila.

"People forget that Spinks had 185 amateur fights. They are not like pro fights, of course, but some of the guys he went up against were better than some inexperienced pro fighters. Spinks was always going up against the best amateurs before he turned pro."

"You saw what a tough fight Earnie Shavers gave Ali (before Ali won a decision? Well, if Shavers fought Spinks, Leon would be an even bet to win. The guys in the gyms would bet Spinks."

"Spinks is an instinctive fighter; he is not going to out general Ali. He will take punches in the face; he will take and give. He will bust Ali up.

Hudgins, Taylor supply punch

he went on. "And, yes, I think the crowd had a lot to do with it. If the fans would see a game like this, they'd know what they are missing."

MC jumped in front early and led until OC tied it at 66 with 8:33 left in the game on Ed Williams' basket off an interception. The Wranglers had rallied from a 64-56 deficit, mostly on recoveries of loose balls and turnovers.

"THAT'S ONE reason I put in Ricky Murdock (6-3 freshman from Lubbock Coronado), he's very active and comes up with a lot of loose balls." Ricky also responded 11 points, all in the last half and seven of eight from the line.

Williams later snaked loose down the lane to give OC its first lead, 72-71, and Arnold McDowell's follow up shot off a misfire made it 74-73 after a Mayfield corner shot. That was the only time OC led.

Mayfield converted a pair of technicals on OC Coach Ron Mayberry to make it 75-74 with 4:55 left and 40 seconds later Hudgins spun inside and the Chaps just pulled away after that. Ron Jones and Mayfield each converted a brace of free throws. Jones added another and then Mayfield hit Hudgins under the hoop on a backdoor play and it was 84-75 with two minutes left and the large segment of OC fans began rushing for the exits.

JONES CONTRIBUTED 11 points and a couple of assists while the rusty Mayfield added 12 points, 10 of 11 from the line, and four assists.

For OC, Arnold McDowell's 19 led the way as the former San Angelo star hit nine of 18 from the field. Billy Ray Ennis, whose 31 points destroyed MC last time, was held to 17.

However, Hudgins and Taylor were the ones. Taylor made seven of eight field shots while Hudgins was 12 of 15 and contributed three assists.

The loss still leaves OC with a share of first place at 11-4 with a 21-6 mark for the season. MC is 14-13.

"ALI DOESN'T pet (punch hard) any more. He gets tired. Ali can't put three good minutes together anymore. If he does, he can't do it for two rounds in a row. He has to rest for a round."

"But Ali finds a way to win." Spinks won the light-heavyweight gold medal in the 1976 Olympic Games at Montreal. At 24, he is 205 pounds, 6-foot-1 1/2 and a 75-inch reach to 6-foot-3 Ali's 80-inch reach. Spinks figures to be outweighed by about 15 pounds in their bout Feb. 15 in Las Vegas.

He has won six of his seven professional bouts, five by knockouts. He was held to a draw by Scott LeDoux in a 10-rounder in Las Vegas in October. Ali, also a former Olympic light-heavyweight champion, has won 55 of 57 bouts, 37 by knockouts.

Spinks became an instant, if limited, celebrity by his exposure on the worldwide telecasts of the Olympic Games. His early pro bouts thus were insured of television ratings.

That may account for the lack of serious formal protests to his fighting Ali for the heavyweight title, though Bob Martin's "Sports Book" in Las Vegas thinks Ali will be so prohibitively a favorite that it will put up no odds on the bout.

That happened on the Patterson-Rademacher bout, too.

Midland, Lee face tests

Stueckler, 6-3 senior; Nate Goudeau, 6-2 senior; Mike Richard, 5-11 senior and Joe Garner, 6-0 senior, earned Abilene tonight with 6-1 junior Ernest Merritt ready to see plenty of action along with Mike McGaha, 6-4 junior, Tyler Alcorn, 5-10 junior and Bruce Crawford, 6-1 junior.

Abilene has a great one-two punch in 6-6 David Little and Cisco Smith, a 6-2 senior. Both have been averaging 20 points or better in 5-4A play. Joining Little and Smith in the Abilene lineup are Darren Edwards, 6-2 senior; Mark Pierce, 5-7 senior and Byron Roberts, a 6-2 senior.

Midland will start Milton Sanders, 6-4 junior; Walter Bryson, 5-10 junior; Charles Johnson, 6-3 1/2 junior; Tim Lucas, a 6-2 senior and Kiffy Hickey, 6-3 senior. Roy Lee Jefferson, 6-1 junior along with Bill Fredrickson, 6-4 senior, will also see some action along with 5-11 sophomore Archie Booth.

COOPER, LIKE Abilene, has two prolific scorers in 6-7 sophomore Woody Martin and 6-3 senior Dennis Bradford. Terry Orr, 6-2 sophomore, has come into his own after scoring 20 points against Big Spring Tuesday. The rest of the lineup will include Bobby Miers, 6-0 senior and 6-4 senior Sam Houston, who is an all-around athlete for the Cougars.

Cooper takes a 27-4 mark into the game while Midland stands 20-10 on the year and has come on strongly in the second half of the race. Junior varsity action starts at 6:15 p.m. at both sites with Radio Station KBAT doing the play-by-play of the varsity game in Abilene, starting at 7:55 p.m.

Eagles see the light financially

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The Philadelphia Eagles, who sell out nearly every home game but still end up in the red, are finally on their way to solid financial footing, owner Leonard Tose's financial counselor says. "Everything in the Eagles' financial picture is in good order, and the other NFL owners are delighted that the team's problems have been resolved," said Charles Sullivan, a member of the National Football League Management Council who represents Tose in loan negotiations. Tose paid the interest on a $7.8 million short-term loan Thursday to a Detroit bank under an agreement allowing him to obtain long-term refinancing before paying off the principal. According to Sullivan, the principal will not be due until the refinancing is completed. "By long term, we mean more than three years," Sullivan explained in a telephone interview from his New York office.

Razorbacks survive furious Aggie press

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — It was like watching the rerun of an old movie in Thursday night's critical Southwest Conference basketball battle between second-ranked Arkansas and the Texas Aggies.

Arkansas fumbled away a 13-point lead at halftime last year then survived a Texas A&M rally for a 63-62 victory.

Arkansas watched a 13-point margin melt away under the pressure of a full-court press Thursday night but went to radar-accurate Ron Brewer in the final 12 seconds for an 80-79 victory.

"It's always been tough for us to win here," sighed Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton, whose team is now 22-1 and 10-1 in SWC play, just a half-game behind the Texas Longhorns. "We had a 13-point halftime lead here last year, too. A&M made a great run at us."

Brewer, who scored 25 points and canned 10 of 16 field goals attempts made two free throws with 12 seconds to play to axe the Aggies, who play like the NBA All-Stars in G. Rollie White's Coliseum.

The Aggie press forced Arkansas into 15 turnovers as Willie Foreman scored 20 of his 26 points in the second half.

"Arkansas still has the same weakness as last year," said A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf. "The way to beat them is to press for 40 minutes. We just can't do that. We pressed for 20 minutes in the second half and made up 12 points...we just can't stop Brewer."

Brewer made his free throws while the program Aggie crowd of 6,997 roared and waved their jackets and arms.

NBA czar replies to court action

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association Commissioner Larry O'Brien has replied to charges that he failed to recognize the severity of the Kermit Washington-Rudy Tomjanovich case by charging the Houston Rockets with making a difficult situation even worse.

O'Brien sent a sharply worded telegram Thursday to Rockets General Manager Ray Patterson, who had said that O'Brien's "unwillingness to assume a role of leadership in this matter creates a void of immeasurable dimensions."

Patterson also said that O'Brien's "failure to recognize the severity and magnitude of the problem" left the Rockets no alternative but to seek compensation in the courts.

However, O'Brien told the Rockets that "if there is any failure here, it lies in your mischaracterization of recent events, which only serves to exacerbate an inherently difficult situation."

Foreman and Joey Robinson had hit two key buckets to pull the Aggies within one point.

"Foreman and Joey Robinson had hit two key buckets to pull the Aggies within one point."

Watson, Palmer push leaders

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Tom Watson says he's been having trouble with his swing, so he's made some changes; while Arnold Palmer has made a few adjustments in his putting.

The moves must have benefitted both players because they were among the leaders going into the third round of the 90-hole, $225,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic today.

group of seven who are 5-under at 139. The pack includes Lee Trevino, who had a 67.

However, the lead is held by unheralded Bill Rogers, now in his fourth year on the tour who shot a 67 Thursday to put him at 8-under-par 136.

Miller Barber and Watson, who shot a 68 Thursday, are 1 stroke behind Rogers. Barber had one of five 67s for the day.

Palmer, who had a 70, joined a

HOWEVER, another group of seven lies at 138, only 2 strokes behind Rogers, led by Lon Hinkle and Danny Edwards, who had 67s on Thursday.

Gusting winds of 40 mph hampered some of the 128 pros who played the four courses used in the tourney. Luckily, the players escaped the rainstorm that hit downtown Palm Springs, some 20 miles away.

"I played probably as good a round as I've played on the tour," said Rogers, who has never won a tournament on the tour but won the Japan Open last year. "I hit my irons as solid as I could hit and got the ball close to the hole."

Penn State in market for coach

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Penn State University, looking for an end to its 11-game basketball losing streak, is also looking for a new coach.

John Bach said Thursday he was resigning at the end of this season, which has already brought the Nittany Lions a school record of 17 defeats.

"I regret only that we did not win enough games for Penn State," said Bach, whose team plays Saturday at Navy.

Bach, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., came to Penn State in 1968 after 18 seasons as coach at his alma mater, Fordham, which he guided to two NCAA and five NIT tournaments.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Giants forget Oakland

By The Associated Press

BASEBALL

SAN FRANCISCO — The fuzzy San Francisco Bay area baseball picture came into sharper focus when the Giants said all of their home games in 1978 would be played in Candlestick Park.

The National League baseball club announced its decision after meeting with Mayor George Moscone, team President Bob Lurie, National League President Chub Feeney and Oakland Coliseum officials.

Moscone said all parties agreed the season was too close to reach any settlements this year that might allow the Oakland A's to move to Denver.

TENNIS

ST. LOUIS — Unranked Sandy Mayer kept Vitas Gerulaitis away from the net throughout and upset the topseded player 6-3, 7-6 in the second round of the $175,000 St. Louis Tennis Classic.

SEATTLE — Fifth-seeded Wendy Turnbull fought back to defeat fourth-seeded Rosie Casals 5-7, 6-1, 6-2 Thursday night in a quarter-final match of a $100,000 women's professional tennis tournament.

Palomino to fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — What's a 28-year-old college graduate like Carlos Palomino doing fighting professionally? Very well.

"It's a business for me," said the World Boxing Council welterweight champion. "Any day I can get paid I'll fight."

His next payday comes Saturday, when he makes his fifth defense in 13 months by meeting Ryu Sorimachi of Japan.

The scheduled 15-round at the Hilton Hotel here will be televised live on the CBS Sports Spectacular, beginning at 4:30 p.m. EST.

Pecos wildcat needs activity in West Texas

International Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland No. 1-64 P. C. Coates has been staked as a 14,000-foot wildcat operation in Pecos County, 25 miles south of Bakersfield.

Drill site is 660 feet from south and 1,800 feet from west lines of section 64, block 2, CCSD&RNG survey and one mile north of the Coates (Strawn oil and gas) field.

GOMEZ TEST

Exxon Co., USA No. 2-B John May is a new project in the Gomez (Wolfcamp) field of Pecos County, 12 miles northwest of Fort Stockton.

Scheduled for an 11,300-foot bottom, it is 1,980 feet from south and 1,320 feet from west lines of section 67, block OW, R. Maxwell survey.

WARD TESTS

Exxon announced locations for a pair of projects in the Estes Block 34

(Pennsylvanian oil) area of Ward County, nine miles south of Monahans.

No. 36 American National Life Ins. Co. will be drilled to 9,250 feet, 1,980 feet from northeast and 660 feet from northwest lines of section 25, block 34, H&TC survey. It is 2,640 feet northeast of production.

Exxon No. 76 Louis Richter will be drilled as a 9,250-foot project in the same area. It is 660 feet from northeast and 660 feet from southeast lines of section 27, block 34, H&TC survey and nine miles southwest of Monahans.

PAYTON WELL

The Three-B Oil Co. of Monahans has completed its No. 20-A Blair in the Payton field of Ward County.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 45 barrels of 27-gravity oil, through perforations from 2,196 to 2,298 feet after 2,000 gallons of acid and an unreported amount of fracture solution.

Location is 8,700 feet from north and 1,090 feet from east lines of section 5, block 32, H&TC survey and three miles south of Grandfalls.

LOVING WELL

Exxon Corp. No. 2-1 Linebery Gas Unit has been completed in the Linebery (Silurian) field of Loving County, 18 miles northwest of Mentone.

Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 14,777 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 19,920 to 20,075 feet after a 4,500-gallon acid treatment.

Total depth is 20,200 feet and plugged back depth is 20,117 feet. Five-inch casing is set at 20,195 feet.

Location is 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 12, block C-25, psal survey. It is 1/2 mile northeast of the field's Silurian discovery.

SCHLEICHER TEST

Jay-Bo, Inc., of Fort Worth spotted location for an 8,000-foot wildcat in Schleicher County, nine miles west of Eldorado.

It is No. 2 Forlano, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 199, block A, HE&WT survey and two miles northwest of Henry Speck (Canyon gas) production.

CROCKETT TEST

J. Cleo Thompson of Dallas staked No. 2-B J. W. Childress as a 9,000-foot Ellenburger gas wildcat in Crockett County, eight miles northeast of Ozona.

It is to be dug 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 37, block GH, GC&SF survey.

Site is 2 1/4 miles north of 7800-foot Canyon gas production in the Ozona, Northeast field.

TOM GREEN WELL

The Susan Peak, South (Strawn oil and gas) field of Tom Green County has gained its fourth Strawn gas well.

The producer, Foy Boyd Associates, Inc., of Midland No. 1 Keyes, was finished for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 17.5 million cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 5,036 to 5,038 feet after a 350-gallon acid treatment.

The well is 10 miles east of Christoval, one location west of other production, and 330 feet from south and 2,173 feet from west lines of section 28, block 25, H&TC survey.

Cabot adds two to staff

HOUSTON — Kenneth A. Caracci has joined Cabot Corporation as Division Systems manager, Oil and Gas Division.

Prior to joining Cabot, Caracci was senior systems analyst with Pennzoil Co.

Lloyd V. DeLano has also joined Cabot — as administrative assistant, Oil & Gas Division.

He formerly was financial analyst with Shenandoah Oil Co. in Fort Worth.

Caracci and DeLano will report to Boyd D. Taylor, vice president and general manager, Oil and Gas Division in Houston.

Midland Wildcat Committee hosts reception for Santa Fe officials

Officers and directors of Santa Fe International Corp., one of the world's largest oil and gas drilling concerns, were guests of the Midland Wildcat Committee Thursday in the Petroleum Club of Midland.

The company, headed by Ed L. Shannon Jr., chairman of the board and president, held a board of directors meeting in Midland today.

Santa Fe International, with more than 9,500 employees, was founded as a domestic drilling company in Santa Fe Springs, Calif., in 1947 when it bought 11 rigs from Union Oil Co. of California.

By 1970, the company had 45 rigs, including 10 offshore units. All were on location outside the United States.

Last year, Santa Fe International purchased the A. W. Thompson, Inc., a Midland-headquartered drilling company, and "got back into the domestic onshore drilling business."

Shannon said. A. W. Thompson, headed by president Frank L. Thompson, continues to operate under that name as Santa Fe's Mid-continent Division.

Santa Fe International, which operates in almost every foreign country where there is oil and gas exploration, both onshore and offshore, had revenues of approximately $600 million last year.

The company also is engaged in oil industry engineering and construction, a business it went into in 1968.

When Santa Fe purchased the Thompson organization in 1977 it added 11 rigs with the capability of drilling from 20,000 to 30,000 feet, to its operations. All 11 of the rigs are at work in the West Texas area. The Santa Fe organization now operates 71 rigs.

Shannon, the company's chief executive officer, became a member of the Santa Fe organization in 1953 after working several years for Union Oil of California. He became Santa Fe's chief executive in 1962.

And, Stuart T. Peller, senior vice president, Santa Fe International, Orange; Frank E. Reynolds, president of Santa Fe Engineering and Construction, Orange; David F. West, senior vice president, Santa Fe International, Orange, and William G. White, chairman, Consolidated Freightways, Palo Alto, Calif., all members of the board.

Board members who were unable to make the reception and board meeting because of the blizzard conditions in the Northeast, were Robert M. Jenney, president of Jenney Oil, Chestnut Hill, Mass.; Roderick M. Hills, chairman of Peabody Coal, St. Louis, Mo., and Robert G. Stone Jr., chairman of West India Shipping, New York City.

Other guests of honor were Thompson; Stewart M. Collester, senior vice president, Santa Fe Drilling, Orange; Larry M. Jones, senior vice president, Santa Fe Drilling, Houston; John Andrew Miller, corporate secretary, Santa Fe International, Orange; W. Frank West, president Santa Fe Minerals, Dallas; R. Gorman Webb, senior vice president, Santa Fe Minerals, Dallas; Mark Hennes, vice president, Santa Fe Minerals, Dallas, and Bob Warren, president Santa Fe Engineering Services.

Phillips will re-enter old producer in Ector

Phillips Petroleum Co. No. 2-B Paul is to be re-entered as a Yates project in Ector County, five miles west of Goldsmith.

The project, originally completed in 1958 in the Goldsmith (Clear Fork) field, will be tested about 4,130 feet. The total depth is 6,340 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 673 feet from west lines of section 46, block 45, T-1-N, T&P survey.

The closest Yates gas well is in the four-well Andeotter (Yates) field 4 1/2 miles to the north.

ANDREWS WELL

Texasco Inc. No. 262-A-1 J. E. Mabec has been completed in the Lowe (Mississippian) field of Andrews County.

The producer, formerly a producer from deeper horizons in the field, was fired for a daily flow of 17 barrels of 51.9-gravity oil, plus 12 barrels of water, through a 10 3/4-inch choke and perforations from 11,275 to 11,310 feet.

Gas-oil ratio was 529-1. The pay section was treated with 6,000 gallons of acid.

Hole is bottomed at 13,315 feet and plugged back to 11,581 feet.

Well site is 760 feet from south and 2,591 feet from west lines of section 41, block 40, T-2-N, G&MM&A survey and 22 miles southeast of Andrews.

MIDLAND WELL. Cola Petroleum, Inc., of Midland No. 1 Braden has been completed in the Calvin (Dean) field of Midland County.

The well, 28 miles southeast of Midland, finished for a 24-hour flowing potential of 120 barrel of 34-gravity oil, no water, through a 12 3/4-inch choke and perforations from 8,368 to 8,924 feet after 2,000 gallons of acid and 80,000 gallons of fracture solution.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 9, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey.

Total depth is 9,003 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is set on bottom.

CROCKETT WELL. Hytech Energy Corp. No. 2 Montgomery, project in the Ozona (Canyon gas) field of Crockett County, nine miles southwest of Ozona, has been completed for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1,700,000 cubic feet of gas per day.

Production is through perforations from 6,177 to 6,621 feet. The pay was treated with 3,000 gallons of acid and fractured with 50,000 gallons.

The project now will be completed from the Strawn zone as a well in the Thomason (Strawn) field.

The location is 990 feet from the most northerly north line and 990 feet from the most westerly east line of section 20, block NG, William Branch survey.

Adobe hits gas in Buda

Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. has announced a wildcat gas discovery in Central Walker County.

The well, No. 1 Gibbs Brothers & Col, is testing the Buda formation through perforations from 11,870 to 11,880 feet. A production test flowed gas at the rate of 2.5 million cubic feet per day on a 15 3/4-inch choke.

Adobe has a 32.75-percent working interest in the well which is on a 21,000-acre prospect.

Other working interest parties are Flag-Redfern Oil Co. of Midland, 25 percent; Suburban Propane of San Antonio, 25 percent, and individuals for the remaining 17.25 percent.

Contract announced

HOUSTON — Rowan International, Inc., has announced it has signed an agreement with a subsidiary of Texaco Inc. to conduct exploratory drilling operations for one year with a jack-up type rig in Central and South America.

The Rowan-Houston is expected to begin the offshore program late in the first quarter of 1978. Exploration will begin offshore Panama, then move offshore Nicaragua, followed by drilling offshore Colombia.

Records established

HOUSTON — Pogo Producing Co., Houston-based oil and gas exploration and production company, ended 1977 with the highest single quarter earnings in its seven-year history.

Per share earnings (unaudited) for the three months ending Dec. 31, were 36 cents or 125 percent greater than the 18 cents per share for the same quarter of 1976.

Net income for the periods was $9,392,000 and $4,185,000, respectively. Revenues for the fourth quarter were $36,762,000, up 87 percent from $19,619,000 for the same period a year ago.

Net income (unaudited) for all of 1977 was $23,915,000 or 92 cents per share on revenues of $90,065,000. In 1976, net income was $20,070,000 or 77 cents per share on revenues of $78,223,000.

Net income in 1977 includes $4,738,000 or 18 cents per share gain realized from the distribution of shares of Pennzoil Louisiana and Texas Offshore, Inc., owned by Pogo, as a dividend declared in September 1977.

Getty Oil spots test in Gomez

Getty Oil Co. No. 1 Anna Laughlin will be drilled as an 11,800-foot operation in the Gomez (Wolfcamp) field of Pecos County, 14 miles northwest of Fort Stockton.

Location is 1,650 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 1, block 115, GC&SF survey.

Tests, wells reported

E. B. Fletcher of Dallas will drill his No. 1-400 Leland McWilliam as a 4,900-foot wildcat in Runnels County, one location southwest of the Capps line discovery of the Hollekirk multiphase field.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,100 feet from west lines of section 39, H&GN survey and five miles northeast of Norton.

COKE WILDCAT

Ray W. McDonnell of Abilene No. 1 Exxon-Harris is a new 6,500-foot wildcat for tests of the Strawn in Coke County.

It is one location east of the depleted Lygag, East (Strawn) field and eight miles south of Silver.

The drillsite is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 479, block 1-A, H&TC survey.

IRION TEST

Fortune Drilling Co., Inc., of San Angelo No. 2 Winterbotham is to be drilled as a 6,800-foot test in the Dove Creek field area of Irion County, nine miles southeast of Mertzon.

Location is 1,981 feet from south and 750 feet from east lines of section 31, block 21, H&TC survey.

CRANE TEST

W. M. and A. P. Fuller announced site for a north offset to production in the four-well Armer (Clear Fork) field of Crane County.

It is No. 14 Ewell McKnight, 1,200 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 23, block 46, G&MM&A survey and 11 miles southeast of Monahans.

It will drill to 5,000 feet.
